

C-City's Haines Puts Astronauts On Moon

He Speaks To Chamber Banquet Here Jan. 25

When Astronauts Alan Shepard Jr. and Stuart Roosevelt land on the moon later this month, it will be with Colorado City know-how.

All their lunar landing vehicle training has been under Charles R. Haines, a 35-year-old Colorado City aeronautical engineer.

Haines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Putnam, 880 East 7th, is program manager for Lunar Landing Training Vehicle, N.A.S.A., Manned Space Craft Center, Houston.

He and his training staff of 100 specialists completed their training of the Apollo 14 astronauts.

Wednesday they started preparation for the Apollo 15 mission, which has a mid-1971 timetable.

However, Haines will interrupt his Apollo space work to return to his hometown Monday, Jan. 25, to speak at the annual Colorado City Chamber of Commerce banquet in Civic House.

Haines, who graduated from Colorado High in 1953, has headed the training for modular landing craft Apollo 11, 12, 13 and 14 space missions.

His job is to perfect the final climaxing mission that cuts the astronaut team away from their spacecraft and lands them on the moon in a modular landing vehicle.

The Apollo 14 astronauts began this lunar landing craft training under Haines' program in May 1970. Their training ended Jan. 5 just before they began isolation preparatory to the moon rocket takeoff.

Shepard, Apollo spacecraft commander, made 27 actual flights in the training craft used in Haines' program.

There are other training programs and training craft that prepare astronauts for the moon mission. But Haines' program is the one that makes use of modular landing craft that actually flies to provide actual flight and landing conditions for the astronauts before they land on the moon.

In other words, it is the final precise perfection of actual flight and landing techniques to and from the moon to the Apollo spacecraft.

"It is real world training," is the way the aeronautical engineer explained it to the Record.

Haines, who slips in and out of town about twice a year to visit his parents, has been with N.A.S.A. at the Manned Space Craft Center since 1962.

He began his rise to aero prominence at Texas A&M when he was graduated in 1957 with a bachelor of science degree in aeronautical engineering.

Haines entered in the Air Force in 1957 and remained as a flight test engineer until 1961. Although reverting to civilian status then, he remained as a civilian engineer with Air Force until joining the N.A.S.A. team the next year.

The engineer and Mrs. Haines live near the Houston space center.

Tickets for the Jan. 25 banquet that honors Haines are on sale now at Chamber of Commerce office. Tickets also can be obtained from any of the Chamber's directors.

The annual banquet traditionally draws a capacity crowd so Chamber officials advise citizens to obtain their tickets early.

Morris Heads Chamber

Postmaster Arlene Morris, who has a prominent place in church, civic and club programs within the community, will lead Colorado City's Chamber of Commerce during 1971.

He was elected to the Chamber's presidency this week by directors, succeeding J. C. Britton.

Named to the officer slate with him for the ensuing year are Vernon Lewis, owner of E-Z Way Superette, first vice president.

Rick Perkin, owner of Corner Drug, second vice president.

Mrs. E. B. Carlock, City National Bank employee, secretary.

The five officers will be officially installed Monday night, Jan. 25, at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet in Civic House when Charles R. Haines, Colorado High graduate and program manager for Lunar Landing Training Vehicle, NASA, for Apollo 14 moon land, is speaker.

Directors unanimously approved the five 1971 officers recommended by a nominating committee headed by Dick Wisstrand.

slate which included Britton, president; Dr. H. Jene Steakley and John T. Merritt, vice president; Drew Ballard, treasurer, and Joe Morren, secretary.

Morris, the new president, is serving his third year of his current term as a Chamber director. He has served previous terms on the board.

He is chairman of the board of deacons at First Baptist Church, as office he has filled twice before, and has served as president of Noon Lions in 1964, worked with numerous civic projects and Mitchell County United Funds.

The new president has been postmaster since 1959.

2 New Bank Directors

Stockholders Name Strain, Rees

A cattleman and lawyer have been elected new directors for City National Bank.

They are Waddell Strain and Tom L. Rees, named at the bank's annual stockholders meeting Tuesday.

Strain, a native of Mitchell County, is a farmer, rancher and cattle feeder in the Fairview Community and has cattle interest over West Texas.

His family has been associated with banking for many years and his father, the late Edd T. Strain, served on the board of directors of City National Bank for more than 13 years until his recent death.

Rees, a partner in the law firm of Thompson & Rees is a native of Big Lake with BS and BA degrees from Rice University and an LLB degree from Baylor University School of Law.

The attorney has resided in Colorado City since 1965 and has been active in numerous civic activities. Currently he is president of Colorado Independent School District board of trustees and chairman of Mitchell County Democratic Executive Committee.

Strain, who studied at Texas Tech before entering the ranching and farming business, and his wife, Jerry, are parents of three children. Rees and his wife, Margaret, also are parents of three children.

In addition to electing the two new directors, City National stockholders re-elected directors R. P. (Pete) Ainsworth, R. S. (Bob) Brennand Jr., Gus D. Chesney, J. C. Pritchett, Dr. W. S. (Bill) Rhode, Wayne Shawn, Charles C. Thompson and George O. Witten.

Meeting immediately after the stockholders session, directors re-elected Thompson chairman of the board and president.

Also re-elected were six other officers--Chesney, executive vice president; Shawn, senior vice president; Trevlyn H. Kelley, vice president and cashier; George Womack, vice president; Mrs. Gwan Strange and Mrs. Don LeLaney, assistant cashiers.

Three Charged

FBI Checks On Jailed Trio

Federal and Dallas officers have stepped into the investigation of two young men and a teenage girl held in Mitchell County Jail.

The trio of out-of-towners were arrested and charged with forgery and shoplifting at two stores in Colorado City.

Now, FBI as well as Dallas authorities have been checking into the case.

Police arrested the three here a week ago shortly after reports of a purchase at Landau's and theft of merchandise at Ed Thrift's.

Debbie Lynn Hyden, 18, of Bradner, Ohio, and Allan Ray Lamm, 21, of Dallas and Jimmy Kent Murray, 20, of Raytown, Mo., and Phoenix, Ariz., have been charged with felony forgery and passing of an American Express travelers check at Landau's.

Their bond was set at $2,500 each in Precinct 1 Justice of Peace Leonard Henderson's Court.

A misdemeanor charge of theft of a knit shawl and cap at Thrift's was filed in County Court against the trio.

A $20 travelers check was cashed at Landau's for purchase of a pair of boots. Value of the shawl and cap at Thrift's was reported at $7.

Police Chief Jesse Browning said the check cashed at Landau's had been traced by FBI and apparently had been taken from the apartment of a woman in Dallas.

The Dallas woman, who did not know the checks had been taken until contacted by FBI for local officers, reported she was missing more than $400 in travelers checks.

Police here believe that at least $200 worth of checks have been cashed. Federal officers are checking how to determine if violation of interstate law is involved.

Meanwhile, the three suspects remain in jail here without making bond.

Burglars Hit Feed Store

A couple of weeks ago burglars were frightened away from Keathley Grocery before they could gain entry to the building.

Saturday night they were back at the same south side window. And they were successful.

After entering the South Side store on Sterling City highway, the burglars carried away approximately $100 worth of cigarettes, about $10 in cash and $56 in checks.

The burglary was discovered by police at 2:30 a.m. and Assistant Chief Jim Latham, Patrolman Larry Tittsworth and Deputy Sheriff Bill McGuire.

As in recent burglaries here, the burglars took top brand as their loot--approximately 25 cartons.

A rash of burglaries and thefts that have oil field equipment and other materials as their target eased up during the week, but one more theft was reported Thursday.

Wendell Banks notified sheriff's officers that nine bars of angle iron were taken from his welding business at Loraine between Jan. 8 and Jan. 13. Each of the bars measured 20 feet.

First For Boys Club

Larry Ivy, left, hands a $40 check from Jaycees to Jimmy Harrison and Eli Rivera, president and director of Colorado City Boys Club. It is the first major contribution for the finance drive which will begin soon to underwrite the club's year-round program in facilities leased at American Legion Hut.

The four seventh grade girls, who recently completed the study as a class project, were Julie Dulin, Jane Ann Burt, Rhonda Free, Toni Wulfsen and Jaime Pawkett.

limits such as the now inactive refinery which still seeps oil and from burned or junk cars."

The four revealed that Lone Wolf Creek has become a real problem even in the middle of Ruidoso Park recreation area.

"There is dumpage of raw sewage into the creek," they explained. "And use of the creek for this purpose has increased algae growth because non-biodegradable phosphates are speeding up it's growth."

Gins in the area have installed many anti-pollution devices, Zeta Delta members heard, "but there is still a great deal of work to be done-some of which includes clean-up around gin yards."

"A ready eyesore" described places were junk is being deposited.

The speakers presented pictures of polluted areas and reviewed interviews they had with land and business owners as well as city officials.

Ruth COFFEY'S CONVERSATION CORNER

"THE HAND that rocks the cradle rules the world," is the way one of our oldest sayings goes.

Like many pithy adages, it just aint necessarily so. The hand that rocks the cradle, peels potatoes, shapes the pie dough, and sets the table has no say whatsoever about turning the TV dial on Sunday.

The hand that makes the coffee had better lay off that dial when it comes time for that Cowboy-Baltimore Colts super bowl game. The hand that does the dusting does not rule the roost in any house you care to name during professional football season.

The hand that makes the salad might as well get ready to clap loudly for Craig Morton and Duane Thomas. . . or just put on its glove and leave home.

THIS is true. An experienced wife knows that the hand that browns the pot roast will get it in the oven early enough to have it done before game time or it won't get eaten until the half-time show interrupts the action.

An experienced wife knows that the hand that wears nail polish and a wedding band definitely does not boss the air waves. The hand that uses a razor rules the universe come Sunday game time.

Nothing short of an earthquake can change that situation. You could tell the average man that his house is on fire and he wouldn't budge until the team called time out.

AT OUR house, there's another ol' saying which fits the occasion. It goes "If you can't lick 'em join 'em."

As a woman who did not know a punt from a first down when she up and married a football star, the whole thing has been very educational. Took a while, of course, to sound smart by using terms like "The blitz. . . tight end (which still tickles the funnybone for some odd reason) fake, draw, and pass interference."

Matter of fact the whole idea of the game seems to be that everybody tries to interfere with-if not maim-everybody else. So if Women's Liberation ever goes into full effect do not intend to apply for a job as referee.

FEMININE Liberation organization might get any number of new members if they'd come out strong for equal time in-choosing TV offerings.

Wonder what would happen if the Feminists got a law passed making it mandatory that a man listen to symphony, poetry reading, book reviews or mystery drama one hour for every hour his wife listens to Cowboy games?

Tell you what would happen first. The hand that washes dishes would have to go buy a strong rope to tie him down. Then he'd go to sleep.

This is simply one area of marital bliss where the hand that mops the kitchen hasn't got a chance. The hand that pays the gas bill scores all the points.

Average male football fan had actually rather look at Tom Landry than Richard Burton. Average woman finds that mighty peculiar!

It all brings up the conclusion that the old song "It's so nice to have a man around the house" doesn't tell the whole story. Nice? You bet. But funny, too. And funniest of all on Sunday afternoons.

OH WELL. To each his own sport. Hear tell that the Fred Nall family who live 11 miles from Anchorage, Alaska, breed and raise sled dogs for racing.

Fred and his pretty wife Jackie Sue (nee Lowe) are parents of a new boy baby, born Jan. 12, which makes it two girls and two boys for the couple who grew up here. Mrs. Delmer (Girle) Lowe is maternal grandmother.

The older Nall children Marla, Teri, and Boyd Lowe all delight in racing their dogs, Eskimo fashion. Marla took first place driving seven of their dogs in a race recently. Teri, driving three, won second prize, and so did Boyd Lowe.

Jackie Sue is younger sister of Margie (Mrs. James) Wulfjen. Fred is son of the late Dr. N. B. Nall, longtime dentist in C-City, and works in Anchorage with a corps of engineers.

Jaycee Drive Members Are Target

Colorado City Jaycees are starting a membership drive to mark national Jaycee week here and across the nation.

Kicking off the drive was a special membership meeting Saturday night at Col-Tex Club for members and guests.

Two civic leaders—City Manager J. A. Sadler Jr. and radio station owner Drew Ballard—spoke briefly to the group concerning the community potential of Jaycees.

Earlier the Jaycees had voted full support to the newly organized Colorado City Boys Club and contributed $40 to the club's upcoming finance campaign.

Chairman for the membership campaign is Jackie Corbell, Jaycee director for membership.

The local group is one of 6,400 Jaycee chapters across the nation marking the 51st birthday for Jaycee community service.

Course In Welding Set Feb. 1

A fundamental course in welding will be offered by Colorado Independent School District during the first two weeks in February.

Cost of the course will be only $10 per enrollee and the class will be limited to the first 16 persons who enroll, according to Gary Gardner, assistant to the superintendent.

Frank Brownfield, vocational agriculture instructor, will be instructor for the course.

The course will be taught Feb. 1, 2, 3, 4, 9 and 11. First meeting will be 7 p.m. Monday, Feb. 1.

Persons interested in the welding class can obtain information at Colorado High School with enrollment finalized at the Feb. 1 meeting.

The $10 fee will cover only the actual cost and Brownfield will donate his time free, according to Gardner.

Design and content of the program will be flexible and adaptable to the needs of the persons enrolled. Although the first session starts at 7 p.m., class hours may vary to fit the class.
