DEATH DEALING STORM LASHES GREAT LAKES

YOUNGSTER TO GET CHANCE AT GOLFING KING

Youth Defeats Charley Seaver to Win Way Into Final Match

BOBBY WINS BATTLE

Joe Sweetser Falls Before Sterling Play of Champ At Merion

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
MERION CRICKET CLUB, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 26.—Twenty-two-year-old Eugene Vanderpool Homans, the fighting son of a father who fought many an old gridiron war for Princeton, staged one of the most sensational come-backs of golf tournament history today to win and earn the distinction of playing the great Bobby Jones tomorrow for the amateur championship of the United States.

Five down after the first 18 holes, three down at the 27th and still two down with four to go, Homans, with a display of sheer grit belied by his frail, studious appearance won three of the last four holes to beat 19-year-old Charley Seavor of Los Angeles, one up, on the 36th and last green.

Jones Beats Sweetser

Homans' dramatic victory in the semi-finals followed the triumphant onward sweep of Jones, who crushed an old rival, Jess W. Sweetser, of New York by the lopsided margin of 9 up and 8 to go in the Georgian's most convincing victory of the tournament.

As a result of two matches that sparkled with great golf and thrilled galleries of upward of 5,000 spectators Homans is the only barrier between Jones and a fourth national championship triumph for the year—a clean sweep that would leave King Bobby with no more worlds to conquer and a record that modern generations may never see equalled.

If there was anyone tonight who did not anticipate that Jones would complete his marvelous march of conquests, perhaps including Homans himself, he could not be located, for the Georgian uncorked a brand of golf today that was as nearly unbeatable as anything can be in this sport.

One Bad Streak

Jones, despite a bad streak of golf midway in his morning round had old man par at his mercy as well as the blond, good-natured but also outclassed Sweetser, nowhere near the golfer who overwhelmed Jones eight years ago by 8 and 7 at Brookline. The great Georgian was 4 up on Sweetser at the end of the morning round and he shot dazzling golf in the afternoon to end the match on the 28th green.

There, as a climax, he almost hoi-

Son Slays Father Over Infidelity To Dying Mother

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (US)—A son tonight confessed he had murdered his father, because of a romance which he suspected existed between the father and a trained nurse.

The dead man is Rockwell Sayre, 83, wealthy president of a real estate concern. The son is Sidney Sayre, 37.

The son declared he was driven to the deed from the fact that the nurse was attending his aged mother on her dying bed.

A man's voice, presumably that of the son, called the police department tonight and gave the information that a man had been shot at the address of the real estate firm.

When detectives summoned by radio arrived there a few minutes later the son was still there. He denied the murder at first, but later drew a letter of confession from his pocket and handed it to the officers.

LOWER FREIGHT RATES

AUSTIN, Sept. 26. (AP)—Beaumont was added today to the list of Texas ports obtaining the benefits of reduced rail freight rates on cotton to meet motor truck competition.

The port was added to the carriers' schedule on motion of the railroad commission, the carriers not having volunteered to put reduced rates into effect to the city.

'Baering' Down On The News

With
ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Daylight saving time is over tonight in America and Canada after having added an extra hour of twilight to a Republican administration.

Daylight saving didn't save the farmers, the brokers or the Chicago Cubs.

An extra hour of twilight isn't much after we voted for four years of it.

The idea of the whole thing was to get us up bright and early. We got up early. But not bright.

It was supposed to give us more time in the open air with the flowers, the sunshine and the bees. But who wants another 60 minutes with the bees?

It made the nights shorter and the doze longer. The hot sun can always spot a golfer a stroke a hole.

Fresh air puzzles us because it's the only public utility that isn't listed on the exchange.

We are glad to go back to railroad time because we understand anything we have to buy a ticket for.

And when we add an hour to the darkness it gives us more time for good, old-fashioned home life with the wife and children on those Tom Thumb links.

NEW YORK GOP NAMES TUTTLE

Party Officially 'Wet' After Convention

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—Dry leaders decided here tonight to put a third party into the state campaign this fall. There was no decision as to the gubernatorial nominee.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 26. (UP)—The Republican party in New York state became officially an advocate of repeal of the prohibition laws today and nominated Charles H. Tuttle, recent United States attorney from New York, as its candidate for governor.

Caleb Baumes, author of the criminal code known as the Baumes law which provides drastic penalties for habitual offenders was named the party's candidate for lieutenant governor.

The nominations and the declarations against prohibition were made in the state convention here, which in two days of its life, worked something of a metamorphosis in the party. In addition to changing the party from dry to wet the convention stirred up more enthusiasm than any Republican gathering in years. It took a leaf from the book of the Democratic party and with trumpet and drum blew and beat up a clamor that was reminiscent of the scenes in which heretofore Democrats have specialized.

Not only did the Republicans come out for repeal of the prohibition law but, realizing the Democrats quite possibly would do the same—leaving no issue—they turned militant on the recent exposures of irregularities in New York city courts and official life. They laid the blame at the door of the Democratic administration of state affairs and pronounced official misconduct the outstanding issue of the campaign.

WICHITA CROWD FURNISHES FUN AT IOWA PARK

BABY CLINIC GAINS

Livestock and Education Exhibits Classified By Judges

By ELSIE RHEA ORR
Record News Correspondent
IOWA PARK, Texas, Sept. 26.—Several hundred Wichita Falls citizens drove here Friday night to attend the program sponsored by the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce in connection with "Wichita Falls" day at the county fair in progress.

Milburn Nutt, chairman of the chamber's fair committee, was in charge of events through the day, the chamber sponsoring and advertising the baby clinic throughout the morning, also the rodeo performances.

The evening program began at 1:45 p. m. in the grandstand, with Walter Nelson Jr., mayor of Wichita Falls, bringing greetings to Iowa Park and fair visitors. George H. Hodgins presided as master of ceremonies, introducing speakers and those participating on the program.

Singing and Dancing

Miss Martha Withers, "Nightingale of the Air," popular radio entertainer in Wichita Falls, gave several song and piano features, and Miss Marion Mendenhall pleased the fair crowds with her comic tap dances. Other program numbers included piano selections by J. S. Pitman, solos by L. R. Thurman, cowboy songs by George Taylor, popular songs by Riggs Marshall, tenor, and solos by R. E. Shepherd, with Mrs. Shepherd accompanying.

The evening program closed with a band ensemble contest. The Wichita Falls visitors attended the evening rodeo, and a feature of the afternoon was a football game between the Iowa Park Hawks and the Wichita Falls Cubs.

Baby Clinic Grows

An unusually large attendance thronged the exhibit halls and booths and other fair features Friday.

Interest in the baby clinic is growing by leaps and bounds. Registrations from 9 a. m. until noon Friday numbered 110, with several who were presented too late for registration. Contestants in 1929 numbered 32 and the 1928 registration was smaller.

Dr. Wallace Masters, baby specialist of Wichita Falls, was in charge of the examinations. He was assisted by Misses Bernice Snell and Billie Faircloth, nurses of general hospital, Wichita Falls, Mrs. Claude Reaves, superintendent of the department and Mrs. Marie McCarthey, of Iowa Park.

Contestants Close

Doctor Masters remarked that the group of babies, as a whole, was remarkable for merits and that competition was so close as to warrant the naming of seconds in each class, which had not been originally planned. Winners of first place in each class received a loving cup, delivered from the bandstand at the fair grounds, as part of the afternoon programs, and seconds received a ribbon.

Loving cups for first places were awarded as follows:

Birth to six months, Bobbie Maurice Richardson, son of Mr. and

Belgian Senator Declares Fascist Regime War-Danger to Europe

BRUSSELS, Sept. 26. (US)—The charge that Italian Fascists are preparing for war with Jugoslavia and France was made today by the Belgian Senator Louis de Brouckere during the course of his testimony for the defense of Fernando de Rosa, on trial for attempting the assassination of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy.

Senator de Drouckere's statement was all the more startling in view of the close understanding between the Belgian and Italian governments brought about by the Crown Prince's marriage to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium. The senator closed his testimony with the statement:

"The Fascist regime represents a war-danger to Europe."

De Rosa, formerly allied with the Socialist party in Italy, is accused of firing the shots that so narrowly missed the Italian crown prince last October while Humbert was bearing a wreath to the tomb of Belgium's unknown soldier in Brussels. The ceremony followed the announcement of his bethrothal to Marie Jose.

Another high spot in today's session was the testimony of Francesco Nitti, former Italian premier, who also took the witness stand for the defense.

Nitti declared that he had known De Rosa in Paris, where many of the refugees from the Italian Fascist regime now reside. He said that he did not believe it was the youth's intention to kill the crown prince, but that he fired the shots merely to attract the world's attention to the "deplorable" state of affairs in Italy.

Here's Man Who Will Do Anything

This gentleman is no other than Mr. X, the man of 1,000 jobs, who comes to Wichita Falls next Tuesday with the promise to do anything. The only reservations that Mr. X makes are that the job must be lawful and must not endanger life and limb. For that reason, Record News readers need not ask him to shake up a Manhattan cocktail out of corn juice or to jump out a window of the Wichita club. Otherwise, if you have an odd job around your house or place of business, just try it on Mr. X.

Mysterious Mr. X to Start Tuesday to Make Good on Challenge Issued to Record News Readers

Anything you want done?

Mr. X, the man of 1,000 jobs, has joined the Record News staff. He starts work Tuesday and for seven days will be at the service of thousands of readers of this newspaper. All of his tasks are performed absolutely free of charge.

He is not a crank and he is not a stunt artist of the human fly variety. He is a man who believes he can do anything that has been done by human hands before.

He is a scholar, a musician, a linguist, a mechanic, a dressmaker, a dentist, an artist, an actor, a nursemaid, a telegraph operator, and aviator and several hundred other things as well.

Issues Challenge

Mr. X has been bought by the Record News for the seven-day period and he challenged this newspaper's readers to set him any task he can not accomplish.

All that you have to do is fill out the accompanying coupon and mail it to Mr. X, care of the Record News. He will tackle anything readers want done.

The only reservation is that the task be lawful and not dangerous to life and limb. Jobs which will provide good story material will naturally be given preference.

Remember also not to ask Mr. X to do things that any ordinary person can do. Don't expect him to put in coal, clean the back yard, or to mow your lawn.

Will Cure Canary

That sort of work requires no special skill and Mr. X is interested primarily in problems that require expert knowledge. If your canary has the croup let Mr. X know.

Would you like to hear him preach a sermon or would you rather have him repair your radio for you? It makes no difference to Mr. X. He will tackle either job as cheerfully.

If it is a question of having your hair bobbed or your tooth X-rayed call Mr. X. Do you have a clock that won't run, a doorbell that is off duty or a flivver that is in need of repairs? Fill out the coupon and Mr. X will take care of it.

His instructions to the newspaper are "go the limit." He will tune a piano, wait on table, pilot an airplane, entertain a party with songs, draw a cartoon, mind a roomful of babies, creates styles by draping living models, do the week's wash, or preach a sermon.

Girl Stripped By Hijackers Taking Beauty Shop Cash

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26. (US)—Accused of stripping 22-year-old Jane Grey to the buff and then robbing her of $28 today, three men were held on robbery charges by police after being identified by their pretty victim.

The girl was alone in a beauty shop when Jack Lynch, 26, Virgil Beretta, 29, and Todd E. Beyman, 31, and three other armed men are alleged to have entered and demanded her money.

When Miss Grey said she had none the men tore all of her clothing off, found the key to a cash drawer and took the $28. One of them tore a telephone book in half to demonstrate his strength.

Although nude, Miss Grey ran to a window, leaned out and read the license number on the automobile used by the ungentlemanly robbers. It resulted in the arrest of the three men.

GIRL'S SLAYER REPEATS STORY

Myers Confesses Killing Second Time

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 26. (AP)—George Sherman Myers, 40-year-old ex-convict late today made a second confession that he kidnaped and killed eight-year-old Marverine Appel here Aug. 27. Officers who obtained the statement at the Indiana state prison at Michigan City, said the details tallied with those of the first confession, made last Monday but later repudiated.

Today's confession came after Myers had been confronted by persons who had supplied many of the clues with which officers had tried to verify the first statement. They included Mrs. John Shriner, Myers' landlady, who said the suspect had asked her to wash out a bloody shirt for him Aug. 27; her daughter, Kathryn, 11, who told police that before the scene of the slaying was located, Myers said the Appel girl was killed in a barn, and Mrs. Jennie Larson, who said he saw Myers loitering about the alley where they girl's body was found.

Harry Taylor, St. Joseph county prosecutor, said tonight he had sufficient evidence to present to a grand jury, which he said will be called next Wednesday.

Marverine Appel was found, attacked and slain, in an alley near her home about 30 hours after she had disappeared. She had been strangled with wire and struck on the head with a heavy instrument. Balked at first by an apparent lack of clues, officers later arrested Myers after receiving information that the girl recently had made the acquaintance of a man named "George." Myers was removed to the state prison for safe keeping.

PANTAGES WINS NEW TRIAL IN ASSAULT CASE

Theatrical Magnate Wins Appeal From 50-Year Prison Term

DANCER DEFENDANT

Prejudice of Attorney And Errors in Court Claim

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26. (AP)—The appellate court granted the appeal of Alexander Pantages, theatrical magnate, from his conviction and prison sentence for assaulting Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, today, ordering a new trial. Pantages, who was sentenced to one to 50 years in prison, has been at liberty under $100,000 bail.

The appellate court's decision was made on Pantages' appeal from the superior court's refusal to grant a new trial. The higher court reversed the lower court's findings and ordered the elderly theater magnate be given a new trial.

The first reason assigned for ordering a new trial was the appellate court's finding of prejudicial error on the part of District Attorney Buron Fitts and his deputy James Costello. A second cause was set forth as error by the trial court in refusing to allow defense counsel to examine a prosecution witness regarding whether or not a criminal charge had been brought against the witness in Texas.

$250,000 SLANDER SUIT DISMISSED

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26. (US)—Within an hour after the appellate court had reversed the verdict in the Alexander Pantages case today Frederic Wise, scenario writer and a witness for the prosecution at the trial, dismissed his $250,000 slander suit against the theater man.

Wise testified at Pantages trial that he heard the screams of Eunice Pringle at the time of Pantages' alleged attack on her. His suit was based on the contention that his reputation was damaged when Pantages publicly declared that the case against him was "a frame-up."

Woodsman Vents Grudge With Bomb Tossing

IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 26. (UP)—A bomb tossed into the Grandview hospital, endangering the lives of 75 patients and causing $2,000 damage, was the way a lumberjack vented a grudge against a doctor police learned today when the woodsman confessed the bombing.

The lumberjack, who refused to tell his name and who was believed to be mentally deranged, said he was a patient in the hospital two years ago and took a dislike to Dr. George Johns, a former member of the staff.

Bride Is Found To Be Sister

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Sept. 26. (US)—On the eve of his marriage to a pretty girl met at Brighton, Kenneth Hay, of Portsmouth, has discovered she is his sister adopted by a London family 20 years ago.

He had bought and furnished a house in preparation for the ceremony, when a letter from an old family friend, who knew the circumstances of the sister's adoption, disclosed the relationship.

"It is a terrific shock," Hay said. "Both my parents died when I was a youngster, and I had always understood that my sister had died when I was two years old. I did not know that she had been adopted by a family named Cousins and brought up as their own."

The sister has gone to live with friends in London. Hay declares he will never marry.

WORK ON FREE BRIDGE CALLED

States Issue Order for Construction to Begin

AUSTIN, Sept. 26. (AP)—Work orders calling for an immediate start on the construction of a free bridge across the Red river connecting Gainesville, Texas and Marietta, Okla., were issued tonight by Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer. The orders were issued, Gilchrist said, at the instance of the highway commission.

The orders were telegraphed to the Missouri Valley Bridge and Iron company of St. Louis, Mo., and instructed that operations be started immediately.

Gilchrist said he knew nothing of the reasons behind the order of the commission authorizing the start of work. For several months the highway commissions of Oklahoma and Texas have been at odds over certain points and the authorization for the work was unexpected.

The bridge is a joint project between Oklahoma and Texas and work has been started by the Oklahoma commission on its side of the river.

Gilchrist said he was unable to state if the commissions had gotten together on the points in controversy. One of them was the reluctance of the Texas commission to give the Oklahoma commission the right to decide when the bridge should be declared open and another was the matter of restoring the old toll rates on the toll bridge during the construction of the new structure.

SEVEN DROWN WHEN BARGE SINKS IN GALE

Huge Waves Pounding Over Inland Seas Imperil Water Craft

RESCUE IMPOSSIBLE

Two Survivors of Boat, Lashed to Derrick, Are At Wind's Mercy

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (UP)—Tragedy, mystery and heroism combined in another drama of Lake Michigan tonight when winter's first storm sent a havoc wreaking gale and waves 12-feet high pounding across the inland seas.

One boat sank, another disappeared. Number of dead was indeterminate, ranging from at least five to more than a dozen. Damage mounted into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Seven persons were believed to have drowned when the stone laden barge, Salvor, sank off Muskegon, Mich., after a cable by which a tug was towing her snapped under strain of the waves.

Six In Hospital

Her crew of 14 persons, including two women cooks, were tossed into the water. Six of them struggled with aid of coast guardsmen to shore where they were taken to a hospital.

Two others made their way to a derrick, only rigging of the Salvor which remained above the water, and battled gamely tonight for their lives.

So rough was the lake that coast guardsmen did not dare to put out in boats. Instead they attempted to shoot lines to the derrick in an effort to save the trio clinging to it. The sinking occurred before 3 p. m. central standard time.

Schooner Sinks

Further up the shore the schooner, "Our Son," disappeared off Little Sable point. The freighter, William Nelson, reported by wireless it saved her crew of seven.

Check of coast guard stations revealed no other ships in distress, although several were reported ploughing through the lake.

GALE INCREASES IN INTENSITY

MUSKEGON, Mich., Sept. 26. (AP)—Seven persons were believed drowned and six were saved as the barge Salvor went down in a gale on Lake Michigan off Muskegon this afternoon. Those missing included six members of the crew and a 9-year-old boy, son of a woman cook.

Tonight, two bodies had been washed ashore and six members of the crew were in a hospital here in an exhausted condition. Just before darkness fell two others could be seen lashed to a derrick on the barge. The gale was increasing in intensity and had foiled all efforts to get a line to the derrick. Waves were dashing over the wreck and little hope was held for recovery alive of the two men. Among those saved were two women.

Duroes: first, second and third, fourth, G. H. Black, Call field.

In this exhibit, attention was called to two exceptionally good pigs.

Sheep Exhibit

The sheep exhibit was small, but larger than in previous years, which fact was attributed to increased interest in sheep raising in Wichita county. W. R. Davis, superintendent of this department, was assisted by Guy Powell, who judged the entries. Most of the exhibits were purebred Oxford-Downs, a mutton breed, which originated in England, and is universally recognized as being one the largest mutton breeds of today. Awards were as follows:

Aged rams: first, Carl Williamson; second and third, W. R. Davis.

Aged ewes: first J. W. VanHorn; second, Carl Williamson.

Educational

Judging in the educational department was finished Friday. Schools contesting for loving cups for the best general exhibit were ranged in three classes of schools with one to three teachers inclusive. Clara received first as well as in schools with four to seven teachers inclusive. Among schools with eight or more teachers Valley View was winner.

Health posters by primary and ward schools, home economics displays, water color and pencil sketches, and high school note books were rated exceptionally good. There was not a time from early morning throughout the day that this department was not filled with interested visitors, among which were many parents who were heard to identify the handiwork of some child. H. V. Williams, principal of Clara school, and superintendent of this department, stated that he was highly pleased with the cooperation of parents and teachers, and the appreciation the public had manifested in these entries. Awards were as follows:

Mr. X has been following his unique jack of all trades line for ten years, and he hasn't yet fallen down on any bona fide assignment.

Mr. X is now in the city but he doesn't get down to work until Tuesday. From then on to 11 p. m. of a week from Monday he will do anything The Record News readers want accomplished without expense or obligation to them.

Bobby Jones Meets Homans

Youngster Fights Way To Final Match

ed out his pitch from 90 yards, the ball stopping 10 inches from the cup for the third Jones birdie in four straight holes.

Brilliant as was the golf Homans displayed in fighting uphill to overcome Seaver—and the Jersey youth went the last 18 holes in even par 70—nevertheless he would have been six down to Jones at the 28th on the basis of their two performances today.

Jones Bogs Down

The only suspense attached to the Jones-Sweetser match was midway in the morning round. Big Jess, after losing four of the first five holes, put on a comeback that reduced the Georgian's margin to a single hole. It looked like a rout at the very first hole when Jones sank an 18-foot putt for a birdie three while Jess was in two traps and then way over the green.

The machine-like Jones golf, however, bogged down for some unaccountable reason, starting with a drive out of bounds on the seventh. Through six successive holes Bobby was six strokes over par. "Calamity Jane," the usually efficient Jones putter, took a holiday. Bobby three-putted three greens. Sweetser's par golf was good enough to win four holes.

Jones settled down and again rolled his ball up to four holes by the end of the morning round, winning three of the last four, which he shot in one under par.

The "kill" was not long delayed in the afternoon. Sweetser won only one hole, the 21st, where Jones was in a trap. Bobby applied the pressure with birdies at the 23rd, 25th, 27th and 28th. He sank putts of 25, 8 and 12 feet before pitching his last shot so close to the pin, 10 inches away, that he didn't need to touch the ball after Jess missed his long putt for an attempt to prolong the match.

CARNIVAL TO OPEN MONDAY

Kiwanis Club Brings Shows To Wichita Falls

Beckmann and Gerety's World's Best shows heralded by their agents as one of the biggest of carnivals, will exhibit in Wichita Falls all next week, starting Monday. The shows come under the auspices of the Kiwanis club, and will make themselves at home on the baseball park grounds.

Forty car loads of attractions, of the Coney Island kind, make up the offering. Thirty shows and 12 big riding devices comprise the midway. The especial feature is Jean Libbera, the only living double-bodied man.

Heading the list of rides is the "waltzer," built of 40-tons of construction steel, representing an investment of $50,000. It is said to be the most massive and thrilling ride ever built. The shows will arrive late Sunday, or early Monday morning and open Monday afternoon.

RECIPES

Baked Pears on the Half Shell

Bake halves of pears in the skins and glaze with sugar sirup flavored with lemon juice.

Omelet Souffle'-Casco Bay Style

Separate six eggs; beat the whites until stiff and the yolks until lemon colored. Add to the yolks six tablespoonfuls of water and one cupful of canned clams chopped, one teaspoonful of salt and one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Melt one and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter in an omelet pan or frying pan and tip slightly to grease sides and bottom. Pour the omelet into the hot buttered pan spreading it evenly on the surface. If a regulation omelet pan is used, butter both sides and pour half the mixture in either side. Cook over a slow fire until the omelet is golden brown on the underside. Place the omelet in a slow oven at about 350 degrees F. for five minutes to dry off top. Loosen from pan with spatula, fold and turn on a hot platter. Serve at once. Serves six.

Stuffed Carrots

Six large carrots.
Two small onions.
Brown sauce.
Two tablespoonfuls mayonnaise.
Salt and paprika.

Hollow out carrot centers and mince with onion, moisten with mayonnaise salad dressing and add seasonings. Stuff the carrots with this mixture and bake for half an hour in brown sauce. Garnish with salad dressing and serve hot.

Cranberry Conserve

One quart cranberries.
Two cupfuls raisins.
Four cupfuls sugar.
One grapefruit.
Two cupfuls cold water.
Two and one-half cupfuls boiling water.

Run cranberries and raisins through food chopper, add cold water and cook until soft. Add juice and pulp of grapefruit, sugar and boiling water and cook until thick. This may also be served with baked ham.

Bacon Corn Bread

One and one-half cupfuls corn meal.
Three-fourths cupful bread flour.
Four teaspoonfuls baking powder.
One-half teaspoonful soda.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
Two tablespoonfuls sugar.
One and one-half cupfuls buttermilk.
Two eggs.
Two tablespoonfuls bacon fat.
Two tablespoonfuls chopped bacon.

Sift flour, measure again, sift with other ingredients. Combine and add the fat. Bacon should be fried crisp and then chopped. Cook on a pre-heated waffle iron. This makes four waffles.

Bing Salad

One package lemon Jell-O.
One cup boiling water.
One cup cherry juice and cold water.
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
One can Bing cherries, drained.
One-half cup nut meats, cut.
One-half cup large stuffed olives, sliced.

Dissolve Jell-O in boiling water. Add cherry juice, water, and salt. Chill. When slightly thickened, add cherries, nuts and sliced olives. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Serve on crisp lettuce garnished with Mayonnaise.

Chocolate Ice Cream With Marshmallow Mint Sauce

One-half cup sugar.
One-fourth cup water.
Eight marshmallows.
One egg white.
One drop oil of peppermint.
Green coloring.

Boil sugar and water to a thin syrup (230 degrees F.), not thick enough to spin a thread, and add marshmallows cut in small pieces. Let stand two minutes, pressing marshmallows under syrup, using back of spoon. Add mixture gradually to the egg white, beaten until stiff but not dry. Continue the beating until mixture is cool; then add oil of peppermint and green coloring. Serve with chocolate ice cream.

Note—Marshmallows cut in small pieces may be added to a rich chocolate ice cream mixture just before it is frozen, making a delicious dessert. The additional sauce is not necessary for this ice cream.

Mock Chicken a' la King

In a skillet melt three tablespoonfuls butter and brown slightly one can mushrooms or one-half pound fresh mushrooms. Add three tablespoonfuls flour and stir until well blended. Add two cupfuls rich milk and cook until thickened. Season with salt, pepper and one-half teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce. Add three hard cooked sliced eggs, one cupful cooked celery, one-half cupful stuffed Spanish olives and one-fourth cupful grated American cheese. Heat thoroughly and serve in patty shells or on buttered toast. Garnish with stuffed Spanish olives.

Tomato Daisy Salad

Tomato daisy salad is a stuffed tomato rolled in aspic and ornamented with a flower design in egg applied with gelatin. Use the mashed and seasoned yolk for the center and cut the whites in petals. Parsley or cress may also be applied for the green leaves. Garnish the individual serving between the lettuce leaves with parsley or cress.

Pineapple Torte

One-half cup melted shortening.
One cup sugar.
One box toasted rusks, rolled.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.

Combine all of these ingredients. Then save out three-fourths of a cup of this mixture. With the rest, line a deep cake pan on the bottom and sides. And then make the filling as follows:

One cup granulated sugar.
Two and one-half cups canned pineapple, shredded.
Three eggs, separated.
One cup thin cream.
Two tablespoons flour.

Mix together all these ingredients except the egg whites. Beat these stiff and fold them in. Pour into cake pan over the other mixture. Then take the three-fourths cupful of crumb mixture that was saved and sprinkle over the top. Bake the torte one hour in a moderate or 325-degree oven. Remove and chill. Serve plain or with whipped cream.

THE ART OF GARNISHING

Many homemakers think that they do not have time to garnish the various dishes on their daily menus but were they to try they would be agreeably surprised to find that it takes very little time and effort once the habit is acquired. And the results would more than repay them for the extra trouble. Think of what a difference a touch of color makes in otherwise ordinary potato soup—for instance a dash of paprika, a sprinkle of finely chopped parsley or a few small cubes of cheese.

There are several different ways of garnishing but they may be classified as follows:

The first group is made up of those foods that add food value to the dish in preparation as well as color and flavor. These garnishes include such foods as cheese, hard-cooked egg, olives, chopped ham, toast, potatoes, Mayonnaise dressing and nuts.

The second group consists of those materials that add a little flavor and a great deal of color, like slices of lemon, tomatoes, watercress, green pepper, pimento, green olives, mint leaves, Maraschino cherries, pickles, radishes and sliced cucumbers.

The third group contains those materials that add attractiveness without food value or much flavor, such as a dash of paprika on top of cabbage salad, a sprig of parsley in a stuffed potato, or a sprinkle of nutmeg on a creamy egg custard.

The list of garnishes given is just a beginning—the refrigerator and kitchen cabinet offer many for the ingenious. Meal preparation is so much more enjoyable when the elements of art and design enter into it. Then, foods that the family never liked before often become favorites when their color has been made more attractive and their taste altered by the use of flavorful garnishes.

In garnishing a dish two things must be kept in mind—the garnish must be appropriate to the article served and it must be so placed as not to interfere with the service. Edible articles are more appropriate than are those used simply for looks.

As a rule sweets are not used with savory dishes. An exception is made of candied and maraschino cherries, preserved currants and strawberries. Pistachio nuts are used for both sweet and savory dishes. The use of bull-blown roses, buds, or petals is confined to sweet dishes, while nasturtium leaves, blossoms and tendrils are appropriate for meats and salads.

Toast in any form is out of place on the same dish with potatoes or shapes, cut from puff-paste. Bread for toast garnishes should be cut before toasting. Triangles, pyramids, diamonds, cubes and cases are the usual forms. Variety can be given these by the use of toasters with wires differently arranged, or by dipping the edges or a portion

TWO GROCERS

CONSIDER the independent retail grocer. He is a substantial citizen, a public spirited man. He has lived his whole life in Wichita Falls. Many of his customers he has known from childhood. Their friendship means much to him. He must live in Wichita Falls with them a lifetime. He is a whole-hearted contributor to the Community Chest . . . to city building projects.

AGAIN . . . consider the chain store manager. Most always, he comes from out of town. His only interest in Wichita Falls is to convince his home office that he can produce a sufficient volume of business to warrant his being transferred to a larger territory. He is interested not in Wichita Falls' people and its progress, but in its buying power.

An Easy, Quick Get-Away

It's a hectic job getting daddy off to work and the children off to school with a nourishing breakfast. Everything is calm and placid when Shredded Wheat is served. It's ready-cooked, ready-to-eat. Heat the biscuits in the oven a few moments to restore their crispness, then pour milk over them. They contain all the energy-giving elements of the whole wheat grain—and are so palatable and easy to digest. Delicious with fruit.

SHREDDED WHEAT

WITH ALL THE BRAN OF THE WHOLE WHEAT

Eggs may look alike

The freshest eggs can't be picked just by looking at them. You want to know more about them than just the appearance of their shells.

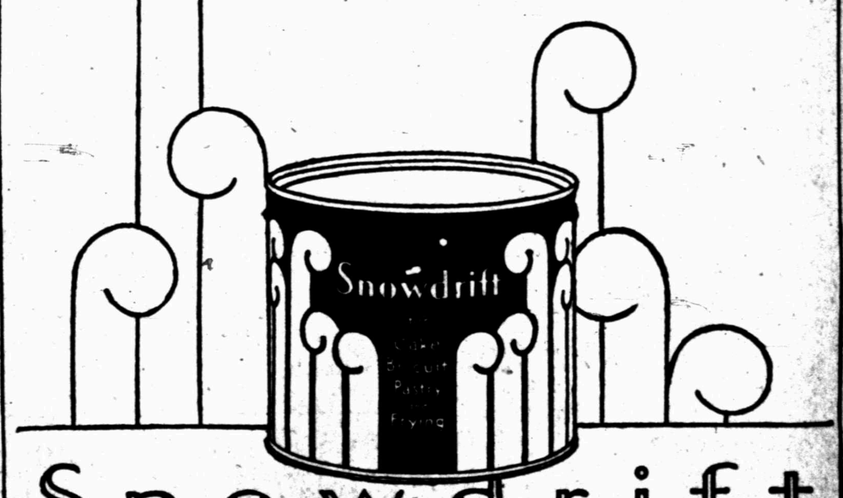

Neither can you judge shortening just by looking at it. Two things called shortening may resemble each other as much as powdered sugar and corn-starch, and be almost as different in quality and in results when you cook with them.

Shortenings are made differently. The Wesson Oil people are proud of Snowdrift. They feel that there are enough good cooks who use pure milk, fresh eggs and clean good-quality flour to warrant making an extra-fine, good-to-eat shortening.

Snowdrift is made from a selected oil as fine as a choice salad oil, free from all animal fats, and just as pure and fresh and sweet as the other ingredients you use in your nice cakes, biscuits and pastries. Snowdrift is creamed and sealed in an air-tight can to bring all its purity and goodness to your table. Nothing can touch it to mar its goodness—not even air. When you break open the sealed can, yours are the first hands to touch it.

The nice thing about Snowdrift is that it now costs very, very little more than ordinary shortenings. Your grocer will tell you that Snowdrift is at its lowest price in many years. When you buy it and use it . . . white and appetizing, and already creamed . . . it's a pleasure to know that Snowdrift is every bit as good and pure as it looks.

Snowdrift is at its lowest price in years.

Lipton's Last Leaf
The Unknowable of Life
Elopement by Plane
Tempo of the Times

By EMILE GAUVREAU

You may remember O. Henry's very human story in which an old artist paints a leaf on a tree which has been shedding its foliage in order to arouse the hope and preserve the life of his little neighbor friend. Sir Thomas Lipton's faith in eventually winning the America's cup was equal to that faith of the child who knew that the end would not come so long as one leaf remained on the tree.

The child was saved, although the artist died. Now, the last leaf of hope is blown out of the life of the old sportsman Lipton. His Shamrock has lost dismally. In the only race in which she was in the lead an accident put her out of the running. Sir Thomas, ripe on the bow, may hope for another race but he probably knows he has built his last Shamrock. If the Enterprise could have maneuvered herself into a defeat, millions who wanted Lipton to win would have rejoiced. But the aged sportsman would not have wanted it that way.

Twenty thousand years ago, our ancestors were curious about natural phenomena. Dr. Payr, director of the Vienna Historical Art museum, finds evidence of this in his discovery of meteorites which fell from the heavens a score of millenniums ago and were stored away by the earth's human aborigines in caves.

Today we still look up at the skies. We measure stellar distances. We weigh planets. We predict to a second the parabolic movements of comets. Yet we ask the same questions. Despite our advancement and knowledge the why and the wherefore of life and the universe still evade us. The meteorites that fell yesterday and that will fall 10,000 years hence, will likewise give us no answer to the unknowable, for all our Herbert Spensers, Eddingtons and Einsteins.

The tempo of the times is indicated by an elopement via airplane. John Kyler, 25, and Dorothea Griffin, 18, flew from Camden, N. J., to Aberdeen, Md., to get married in haste, without, they hoped, repenting at leisure.

Flying ministers, summoned by impatient lovers, is the next logical step in the business of hasty marriages. Quick divorces by flying lawyers may be a logical development in this fast-moving age.

Stealing cars to order is another business not listed in the Red Book, but a flourishing one, nevertheless, as revealed to the police by a former Yale man, William Stanley Hayes.

The "gang" of which Hayes was a member specialized in costly automobiles, which they appropriated and sold through high-powered salesmanship to prominent men and women at prices tempting enough to discourage questions. If the cars on hand were not the makes desired by the customers, the gang went out and stole them. There were no dissatisfied customers in this racket. There may have arisen suspicions, but how many care to look a gift horse in the mouth?

Justice Crater, New York's missing jurist, still eludes the searchers. Simple-minded citizens wonder why everybody is being questioned but the racketeering Sing Sing convict who owns the vicious night club where the judge spent many of his nights.

A Pen Fire and a Movie

THE motion picture censors can usually be counted on to supply at least one good argument, every year, for their own abolition.

Just now it is the Ohio board that has been thus obliging.

Sometime during the last few months a moving picture named "The Big House" was issued. It has to do with events in a big penitentiary, and there is a riot in it, with considerable unpleasantness for all concerned, and a bit of implied criticism of the way some penitentiaries are run.

This movie, like all others, was distributed through the regular channels throughout the country. By this time, probably, it has been shown in practically every large-sized city outside of Ohio.

In Ohio, however, it has not been shown at all. The state board of movie censors held it up for several months, refusing to hand down a definite verdict on it. Now, finally, they have barred it, ruling that it cannot be shown in Ohio because it would be "harmful to the boys and girls of Ohio."

The boys and girls of Ohio are no more impressionable or corruptible than the boys and girls of benighted states where the picture can be shown freely. But, by a peculiar coincidence, Ohio had a very terrible outbreak in its own penitentiary last spring; an outbreak that came on the hells of a fire that killed 320 convicts. And "The Big House" shows prison conditions somewhat like those in the Ohio penitentiary.

Lest anyone should put two and two together and get four, the state board hastens to add that all movies of gangland and racketeers hereafter will be barred in Ohio. But human nature is grossly suspicious, and there are people mean enough to intimate that "The Big House" is banned in Ohio because someone does not want the voters unduly reminded of last spring's frightful tragedy.

Very likely that suspicion is base and unworthy. But it is worthwhile to meditate, for a moment, on the singular obtuseness with which censorship operates.

If you own a movie theater in Ohio you can show any kind of film which will give children the idea that right always triumphs, that virtue always reaps a cash reward, that evil-doers are always brought to book on this earth—and leave life to disillusion them as cruelly as it pleases.

You can show them any kind of half-baked "collegiate" picture and convince them that a university exists solely to provide witless scions of wealth with a four-year holiday.

You can fill their childish minds with rank nonsense about marriage and divorce and love in general, with propaganda about armies and navies, with sentimental goo and half-veiled suggestiveness and a whole-souled materialism that worships the dollar almighty—

But you cannot remind them that successive governments in their state ran their penitentiary so wretchedly that a fire there killed 320 men!

Surface Eddies and Undercurrents

REPORTS which crowd their way daily into the magazines and newspapers of this country calling attention to victories of "wet" political candidates and to widespread defiance of the prohibition laws might, on the surface, indicate an ultimate repeal of the 18th amendment.

In order to realize that such signs are possibly very misleading, it is necessary to consider carefully the striking difference between the "campaigns" which are being waged constantly by supporters and opponents of national prohibition.

Since the enactment of the Volstead law and the adoption of the 18th amendment, those who oppose prohibition have had one objective—the defeat of that law. Defeat, first, by defying it, and secondly, by bringing about ultimately its repeal. The law is on the books of the nation. Any instance of its violation, a victory at the polls for a wet, constitutes a news item upon which opponents of national prohibition immediately seek to capitalize. Their entire fight consists of such evidence, massed in an effort to persuade the public mind that the people of the United States do not want the amendment which they adopted.

The campaign of the dry element is quite different, and of such a character that it is little noticed. There is no occasion in their plan to attempt the passage of new legislation, the alteration of that now extant, nor the repeal of existing laws. Their efforts for the maintenance and better observance of the 18th amendment consist of educating the public to the benefits of prohibition. Their greatest hope for complete success lies in the individual citizen's gradual realization that the 18th amendment was passed not for the purpose of imposing the arbitrary will of one element in our population upon another, but for the purpose of promoting the best economic and moral interests of the people as a whole.

The reaction of anti-prohibitionists, upon adoption of the prohibition amendment, was that of any average human being who has been told by one in authority that he must refrain from following some favorite bent. His first impulse is to do that very thing—self-assertion is instinctive. Yet in many of those cases, the first flare of resentment will give way to sober judgment with the result that the imposed restriction will be respected and approved.

Numerous eddies and ripples on the surface are being pointed out excitedly. The course of the stream, however, is being determined by the strong undercurrents which seldom can be read by a casual glance at the surface.

Another Cinderella Story

THE old Cinderella story never having lost any of its appeal, these news items about stenographers who marry millionaires' sons are always interesting. This is especially so in the case of Miss Minerva Aaronson of New Haven, Conn., who is to marry John J. Raskob Jr., son of the very wealthy chairman of the Democratic national committee.

What makes it especially interesting is the fact that the elder Raskob is not running true to form in matters of this kind. Tradition requires the rich father in such cases to cut his son off with a shilling, or something, indignant because the lad is refusing to marry some other millionaire's daughter. But Mr. Raskob is not doing this; instead he is reported to be settling $2,000,000 on the young couple, effective the day they marry.

There seems to be nothing left, accordingly, but for all of us to wish them lots of happiness.

The AGE of YOUTH

A New Serial by ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Hopeless because of her failure to make a decent living in New York City, pretty Donna Raynor writes to Randolph Granby, a wealthy bachelor: "I could get a rich husband if I had the proper setting. It would cost a thousand a month and I'd need two years to get the proper man. Will you give it to me?"

Intrigued by the girl's personality and her unconventional ideas, Granby accepts her proposal. Through his brokers Donna receives $25,000; Granby prepares to sail for France; and Donna leaves her shabby hotel for a more fash-ifties.

Shortly after she retires, a handsome young man, intoxicated, enters Donna's apartment. "Believe I'll marry you," says the youthful visitor, who, Donna learns, is none other than Frank Gardner, wealthiest and most sought-after bachelor in America.

Next morning Gardner sends orchids. Donna refuses to speak with him. She arranges to take singing lessons from Mademoiselle Galero, whose pupils include most of the Junior League.

In a few weeks she is in the midst of the social swim. At the Fairleigh home she meets Granby again, also Frank Gardner, who asks: "How would you like another proposal from me?"

Gardner displays jealousy. Granby, quietly is evidently more than ever in love with Donna. The situation is tense.

Then the bubble bursts. At Mme. Galero's Donna picks up the paper. In the society gossip column is an unmistakable reference to her—with the insinuation that Donna confides her troubles to Mme. Galero. Others in the "set" remain loyal to her.

Mrs. Fairleigh extends an invitation to dinner. Granby is Donna's escort. After dinner and bridge Donna and Granby go to the embassy to dance. Gardner appears. He has been drinking and loudly exclaims: "Why, it's old Ran Granby and the li'l girl he's keeping."

Granby, gentleman that he is, does nothing. Mrs. Outview, society matron, comes to Donna's aid.

Now Continue the Story

An Unequal Combat

To him, smoldering with jealousy, with shame, with humiliation, these were two people of opposite sex whose relationship, one to the other, was that of an attractive desirable girl to an ardent desiring man.

Frank Gardner had been drunk. He had told the truth when he admitted to Donna that he had been sober for months, and he had sincerely meant it when he had said that she would never seen him intoxicated again.

But there is no jealousy equal to that which holds suspicion in its dour depths. Libby Prentiss, acute in matters relating to sex, had sensed something in Granby's manner when, on the sands of Biarritz, she had casually mentioned the name of her tenant. She had, quite without malice, mentioned Granby's manner and its occasion in the course of a rambling letter to Gardner. Then the young man had seen Donna with Granby.

Now, Frank Gardner was not given to swift passions. Had he been the sort of youth who blazed into fire at the sight of every pretty face, custom would have habituated him to himself, and a certain common sense would have leavened his emotions.

But Donna Raynor had taken him by storm; so much so that he had fled the sight of her. But he had not forgotten her, and that queer alchemy which a certain woman will work upon a certain man stirred in him at sight of her at Mrs. Fairleigh's. It was not love, he told himself. A man who had knocked around as gayly as he had done was not to be overcome with the gentle passion at mere sight of a girl. But a savage possessiveness surged in him. By what right did she smile at another man? Hadn't he, Frank Gardner, fled the sight of her? Hadn't he quit drinking? True, she knew about neither of these matters, but—she ought to know.

And the man at whom she smiled was Ran Granby, whose name had been coupled with hers somewhat scandalously, by Libby Prentiss. Then Donna had denied previous acquaintance with Granby. She had been effective in her denial, but Gardner was sensitive with jealousy. He disbelieved her.

So . . . he had been thinking of this girl tenderly; although it was not love that possessed him, whatever the feeling was, it was strongly tinted with romance. And he had been romantic about another man's mistress! Donna had snubbed him.

It needed only this last to set him, none too strong of will at best, down from that water wagon on which he had been virtuously perched for months. The rest followed inevitably. He could no more have resisted insulting Donna than he could have refrained from following one highball with another. To hurt, to soil, to smirch.

But, like all people who yield to violent emotion, reaction set in. He was no sooner out of the night club than, liquor-inflamed though he was, he saw himself for the vicious sot he had been. Suppose the girl was Granby's mistress? What was that to Frank Gardner? Why did he assume the right to censure her? Why had he shamed her?

So it was with no violent intent that he awaited Donna on the steps of her apartment. He had been a cad. He would abase himself to the girl; he would beg her forgiveness. And as he contemplated begging that forgiveness, he began to doubt his charge against her. Damn it, a man could look at the girl and know she was all right. Libby Prentiss hadn't suggested anything really wrong between Donna and Ran Granby. His own filthy mind had read insinuation where nothing particular had been meant. He had committed the unpardonable sin; he had smirched a woman's character.

Then Donna kissed Granby.

Something exploded in Gardner's brain, something suffused his eyes with blood. The—the—he found no word to characterize her harshly enough. Didn't know Granby, eh? Never met him until last night, eh? And kissing him here on the sidewalk, as shamelessly. . . .

Donna saw him before Granby did. Her warning cry was a gasp of horror, no more. It served to make Granby turn, and what he saw made him realize that he was to fight for his life. For Gardner was upon him, a whirlwind of fury. The liquor which remorse had nullified became more potent than before. Drunk, not only with wine, but with jealous rage!

The girl was whirled aside in the first outrageous assault. She staggered against the wall of the building, faint, sick, unable to cry aloud, appalled at the disclosure of a male brutality which she had never witnessed before. For this was no boxing match. She had witnessed affrays of that sort, beneath powerful lights, in evening dress, surrounded by people she knew.

But this was the sort of thing which one saw in the newspaper headlines, which one thought of as occurring to a class of humans one could never possibly encounter. This was a beast male trying to kill, to murder, another male.

Before that mad rush she saw Granby go down; she saw him, with an agility she had not suspected him of possessing, roll to one side, avoiding the trampling of his assailant; she saw him clutch at Gardner's knees; she saw him, despite the blows rained upon his face pull himself upright, saw him begin to fend blows, saw him strike back, saw him rock the younger man with short savage blows to the body.

She saw Granby's face a bloody smear which glistened in the arc-lights. She saw Gardner's face a twisted mask of rage. She heard the sick thud of punches driven home.

Unable to move, enthralled by something worse than terror, she watched the combat. Unequal from the start when, surprised, Granby had almost been overcome before he could lift his hands to defend himself, it became steadily more unequal Gardner was younger, faster, taller, even heavier. He was the well-conditioned athlete opposed to the well-preserved man of middle age. Only in courage was Granby his equal; perhaps, even his superior. And Donna, her sympathies, utterly with the elder man, was relieved when he fell to his knees. For now it was ended.

But it wasn't. As Granby, mouth-open, gasping for breath, bloody and beaten, struggled, with an inner courage that could not accept defeat, to rise, Gardner drew back his right fist.

Then Donna found her paralyzed will and made her muscles obey it. She flew across the sidewalk, caught at the descending arm, deflecting it, hung onto it, was swung from the ground by it. Her feet touched the ground and she faced him.

"You—you damn' coward!" she cried.

For a moment she thought that Gardner would hit her. Then the fire in his eyes died. He passed a hand across his forehead. He looked from her to the pitifully bruised face of Granby.

Granby's groping hand caught Donna's skirt. His other hand joined the first. Almost toppling her with his weight he pulled himself, by what effort only he knew, to his feet. Tottering, reeling, mouth open eyes bewildered to put himself in front of Donna. He raised a half-closed fist and struck feebly at Gardner.

"Oh, my God!" said Gardner.

He turned away, with a sound that might have been a curse, a sob or a prayer, and began half-running down the street, as though afraid to look upon the ruin he had wrought. Granby's hand still made motions toward the spot where his opponent had stood; through his lips came jumbled sounds that Donna knew were defiances. Around a corner disappeared Gardner.

She looked helplessly up and down the street. Not a taxi was in sight and, strangely, no pedestrians had been attracted by the brief but furious battle. So far as Donna knew, the fight had attracted no witnesses at all. She turned back to look at Granby.

To all intents and purposes he was unconscious. His body moved and his lips uttered sounds and his eyes saw. But he didn't know what his muscles did; his sounds were incoherencies, and his eyes could not tell his brain what they beheld.

Would he die? Men did die from beating, didn't they? God Lord, punish Frank Gardner! Would he die?

"Home."

She could distinguish the word that painfully found its way through bleeding, torn lips.

"Hospital," she gasped.

Coherence was returning to Granby now "Scand'l," he muttered. "You—can't—'ford—that."

He staggered as though about to collapse. She caught him, staggered with him, and almost fell through the doorway of her apartment building. She lowered him upon a leather-cushioned seat and looked for the elevator man. But the cage had gone aloft in response to a ring. She started for the shaft, to press the button, to summon aid.

She heard Granby move and turned back to him. Coherence had completely come to him now: "Can't stay here. Scandal—not right . . ."

Before she could stop him he was on his feet. But, blinded, he did not walk through the street door, but through the door leading to the cafe. She was beside him, detaining him. Feebly he tried to shake off her hold.

"You must have a doctor," she cried.

"You go home—away from me—hold-up—swear that's what happened—your name—"

Bewildered, he began climbing the stairs. His every movement was effort of the most painful, racking kind. But she ceased argument. Instead, she comforted him with soothing words, with formless syllables of encouragement. For on the second landing was her apartment, and if she got him there.

She did. With fingers that trem-

Q.—Is there moonlight at the poles during the long nights?—T. S.

A.—When it is continuous night at a pole, the moon is above the horizon during that half of the month in which it passes from its first to third quarter.

Q.—Was an ass an animal ridden by upper class people in Palestine?—A. V.

A.—One writer says: "The most noble and honorable amongst the Jews were wont to be mounted on asses." Traditionally Mary made the journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem mounted on an ass.

Q.—Which city is older, Quebec or Montreal?—L. T.

A.—Both were founded as Indian villages about 1535, but Quebec was laid out as a city by Champlain in 1608, while Montreal was laid out as a city by the French in 1642.

Q.—Which has the great lifting power, the monoplane or biplane?—H. T. McL.

A.—The monoplane type, with a single span, produces more lift for the same wing area than the biplane of two-wing type. A monoplane may not have quite the same wing area as a biplane, yet the lift may be equal. For this reason the monoplane is considered to be more efficient. With its single wing span the monoplane gets all the lift possible from the air. The wings of the biplane, on the other hand, interfere with each other. This is also true of machines with three or more sets of wings, such as the triplane and the quadraplane.

Q.—Is the palette of Gilbert Stuart in existence?—A. P.

A.—The palette from which it is believed that the "Athanaeum" portrait of Washington was painted is owned by the artist, J. L. G. Ferris.

Q.—How many people are born each day and how many die?—B. K.

A.—It is estimated that in the world the births average 180,000 a day and the deaths 100,000.

A.—The division of the earth's surface into torrid, temperate, and frigid zones is determined by the amount of the inclination of the earth's axis to the plane of the ecliptic. This inclination being 23 degrees, 27 minutes, the torrid zone extends from the equator to latitude 23 degrees, 27 minutes both north and south, while the two temperate zones extend from the torrid zone to within 23 degrees 27 minutes of either pole, the remaining regions lying about each pole forming the two frigid zones.

Q.—What is a round of ammunition?—D. N.

A.—It is ammunition for one shot by each soldier, gun, or cannon.

Q.—What was the controversy over the death of Washington Irving Bishop?—J. D. S.

A.—Bishop died in a coma following a cataleptic trance soon after giving a strenuous demonstration of mind-reading at the Lambs' club, May 13, 1889. An autopsy was performed by several doctors less than four hours after the death had been pronounced and without the consent of relatives. His relatives stated that on his persons he carried papers at all times prohibiting an autopsy or the use of electricity to revive him should he be thrown into a trance. Electricity was used. A second autopsy was ordered and later an inquest was held, due to the statement of his mother and others that the first autopsy had been performed while he was still alive. The jury's verdict, however, was that the death was due to coma and had occurred before the autopsy. Later the grand jury indicted the doctors for violation of the sanitary code. A book was published by his mother giving his biography and also her view of the case.

A.—It provides for a registration of 2,070,000 motor vehicles without exceeding six characters on any plate. The first plate is No. 1A1. Then the numbers run from that to 9A99-99. Then the series shifts to 1B1 and goes up to 9B99-99 and so on through the whole alphabet.

Q.—How may I safely dispose of a quantity of old cartridges?—S. P. W.

A.—The National Rifle association says that you may safely dispose of your old cartridges by throwing them in a river or any convenient body of water.

Q.—How old was Roald Amundsen at the time of his death?—R. K.

A.—Roald Amundsen was born in Norway, July 16, 1872. It is probable that he met his death in the arctic wastes on the night of June 18, 1928, while searching for the Nobile expedition. He would have been 56 years old in July.

GARNISHES ADD ZEST TO MEAL

Mrs. Dawson Tells How To Use Them

of the toast in finely chopped parsley. These are used principally with creamed dishes or dishes served in connection with a sauce.

Julienne, Saratoga or French fried potatoes look and taste well with croquettes, cutlets, steaks or chops and do not preclude the use of a slice of lemon and a few sprigs of cress or parsley.

Potato or pea "roses" are very attractive with almost any meat or fish dish. Nests of mashed or duchess potatoes, with a spoonful of buttered or cream peas in the center are a favorite with baked fillets of fish. Their use, however, necessitates disposing the fish sauce in a separate dish.

Cheese may be grated, cubed or made into fancy designs and used in many ways. Mock crab apples are made by softening American cheese with a small amount of cream or mayonnaise, and molding it into small balls. The balls are flattened slightly at one end and a clove stuck in, to resemble blossom end of the apple. Rose leaves are placed in the opposite end to resemble the stem, and the cheese of the apple is colored slightly by rubbing on moist red coloring, or dusting with paprika.

Cheese carrots are made in the same manner, and formed into carrots after being seasoned with paprika and salt. A sprig of parsley is stuck in the large end. A toothpick might be used to punch the hole for the parsley.

Cream cheese balls are made by cutting a 3-ounce package into 10 cubes and rolling each into balls. The small balls are then rolled in chopped parsley or chopped nuts.

Cheese balls may also be made of one-fourth pound New York cheese, four hard-cooked eggs, 1½ tablespoonful mayonnaise and one-half cupful walnut halves. Grind or chop the cheese until smooth; chop the hard-cooked eggs and add them to the cheese. Mix well, add the mayonnaise and chill. Form into balls and press two walnut halves on either side.

The above cheese combinations are delicious and attractive when served with salads. One is ordinarily sufficient for a salad but more may be used if they look well on the plate.

Hard-cooked eggs may be sliced, diced, or cut in petal fashion. Frequently the yolks of eggs are put through a fine sieve and sprinkled lightly on top of the food to be decorated or arranged in little mounds. The pointed end may be cut off and the whites from which the yolk is removed, fastened with liquid gelatine on a plate and these vases may be filled with capers or mayonnaise. As a border to enclose a salad the ends of lengthwise eighths of eggs may be cut to stand evenly and fastened to the plate with liquid gelatine to form a crown or flower.

Ham makes a nutritious and flavorful garnish. For this purpose it is usually diced in the smallest cubes.

Aspic jelly cut in cubes or diamonds or beaten fine with a fork and pushed through a forcing bag and tube, garnishes cold meats and chaudfroids beautifully.

Very stiff mayonnaise dressing may be applied with a pastry tube to many dishes. Pleasing colors may be introduced by means of vegetable coloring. It may either be made into rosettes or piped around the edge of the dish.

Now for the second class of garnishes—the ones that are used mainly for their decorative effect. Lemons—maraschino cherries, minted cherries and olives may be cut in fancy shapes, cut in very thin slices or finely diced. Maraschino cherries, minted cherries and olives may be cut to resemble flower petals, leaving a solid center. Cucumbers should be scored with a fork, lengthwise, and cut in wafer thin slices, and the tomato either sliced, cut in sections, or shaped like a rose or daisy. To make a rose cut a solid tomato in such a way as to have fine rounded inner and outer petals. Turn the outside row out and fill the center with a macedoine of vegetables mixed with mayonnaise and sprinkle the salad mixture with egg yolk. Arrange with a spray of rose leaves underneath.

The number of garnishes it is possible to make with a lemon are almost countless. Lemon also serves a very definite purpose when used as a garnish with fish—it supplies an alkaline residue to neutralize the acid residue of the fish, a most desirable result.

Figures, cut from slices of pickled beet and laid upon slices of lemon, give a suggestion of color often desirable. The same effect is secured with radishes cut in various ways without removal of the skin. For radish roses, select round red radishes and remove the tips of the root. Wash, and, beginning a little way from the root end, make several incisions around the radish. Make another ring of incisions several below this, at a little distance from it. Slip a sharp bladed paring knife under the skin at each incision, and cut downward, forming a petal. Place in cold water (ice water, if possible) and let stand an hour or two. Tulips are made by preparing the radishes the same way. But instead of making a ring of circular incisions, about five are made, extending nearly the entire length of the radish.

The third class of garnishes does not need to be prepared in any way—simply shake a few grains of nutmeg over a baked custard or a dash of paprika over baked potatoes, popped open and buttered. Paprika also makes a colorful addition when sprinkled on soups, salads, mashed potatoes, the cream sauces poured over croquettes, egg dishes and many vegetables which lack color, such as cauliflower.

So much, then for the different types of garnishes. Our choice is varied and there are many possibilities for unusual effects. In carrying out any decorative scheme remember that the garnishes chosen must fit in with the plan when considered as a whole if the use of color is to be effective.

Garnishes increase the food cost very little as smaller servings are required if nourishing garnishes are used and the cost of a few sprigs of parsley, a dash of paprika and a little cheese is slight.

A Few Garnish Suggestions

1. Green and red peppers cut diamond shape.
2. Marshmallow with candied cherries in the center.
3. Sliced tomato, with sliced cucumbers and radish rose on top.
4. Cheese apples, carrots and balls.
5. Cheese balls with green and red cherry flowers on top.
6. Egg sections or slices with chopped parsley and paprika.
7. Tomato wedges with chopped watercress.
8. Cubes of brightly colored jelly.

Pastor Sharply Criticizes Barron's Interpretation of Story of Jonah

Editor, The Record News: In an address published in The Record News last Monday, the Rev. John Daniel Barron boldly takes the position that the story of Jonah did not take place as recorded in the Bible. He heartily assails a literal view of the Book of Jonah, brands those who profess to believe it as "far more funny than sensible," and launches into a treatment of the book as an allegory without historical foundation.

The position of the Rev. Mr. Barron is not tenable in the light of New Testament teaching. His position is one that would be expected of agnostics rather than ministers of the gospel. In support of a literal acceptance of the story as recorded in God's book, the following paragraph from the words of Jesus Christ is submitted:

"For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the whale's belly, so shall the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation and condemn it, because they repented at the preaching of Jonah; and behold a greater than Jonah is here. The queen of the south shall rise up in judgment with this generation and shall condemn it, for she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and behold a greater than Solomon is here."—Matt. 12:40-42.

The Rev. Mr. Barron finds reason to doubt that Jonah ever preached to Nineveh at all and stops to wonder how Jonah, a Jew, could preach to foreigners. Jesus said that Jonah did preach to Nineveh and that Nineveh repented. Followers of the Lord will not find a choice between these two positions very difficult to make. The Rev. John Daniel Barron says that the story of Jonah's three-day sojourn in the whale's belly taxes his credulity to the breaking point. Jesus refers to it as a historical fact in the same breath with the story of King Solomon and compares his death, burial and resurrection to facts mentioned in the story of Jonah.

Countless arguments may be brought forward to show that Reverend Barron's "unanswerable questions" in the way of a literal acceptance of the story of Jonah are after all mere trifles. The real questions that confronts a Christian is "How can I believe other than what Jesus said about the story?"

Anti-Saloon Head Sees Normal Trend

TOPEKA, Sept. 26. (AP)—As F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, views the congressional campaign, there are "indications only of a slight trend toward normalcy rather than any significant gains in wet strength."

A return to a "more normal division" between wets and drys in the off-year elections was a natural supposition, said the Anti-Saloon league superintendent, here yesterday for a visit at state headquarters of the league.

HALL COUNTY PAVING GROWS

Draining, Grading and Graveling Ordered

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Sept. 26.—More paving has been ordered for Hall county, according to County Judge A. C. Hoffman. The state highway department has authorized 3.186 miles on highway 86, beginning at Turkey and running to the Briscoe county line. State highway engineers have been instructed to proceed with the grading, drainage structures and triple bituminous surface treatment of a gravel base along this highway. The McClung Construction company of Fort Worth was awarded the contract for the above paving.

The department also authorized the graveling of the strip of highway 5 which connects the paving on either side of Red river. The commission has passed a resolution appropriating $12,000 in funds to be used under the direction of the state highway engineer for the purpose of graveling this strip or road, the work to be done by the state without additional cost to Hall county. The gravel road is not to be permanent, but is only for the improvement of the highway until the road bed is in shape for paving.

Attorney Living as 'Hotel Hermit' For Five Years Hurls Self to Death

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (UP)—The "hotel hermit," an attorney who divorced his wife and refused to see even his most intimate friends after doctors told him five years ago that he would die in 1930, is dead. He committed suicide.

In 1923 a specialist told Joseph F. Sarley, income tax expert and lawyer, that he had tumor of the brain. Two years later, the same specialist told him he was suffering from cancer and could not live longer than five years.

The attorney, formerly of a sunny disposition, brooded over the specialist's prediction. He divorced Mrs. Sarley and for almost five years lived in seclusion in his hotel room, refusing to see anyone except a cousin, Mrs. Charles A. Curran, to whom he confided the horrors of his "living death."

A few months ago Sarley was taken to Mercy hospital. Physicians said he could live only a short time. Last week he suddenly became interested in the outdoors, the sunshine, people. He asked daily to be taken to the roof garden.

Yesterday a nurse was wheeling Sarley toward the roof edge, where he had asked to be taken. Suddenly he rose from the wheel chair, sprinted rapidly across the roof, hurdled the railing and jumped into space. He was dead when attendants picked him up below.

PACK HAMMERS ENEMY HARD

Stellar Backfield Makes Imposing Gains

By FRED D. THOMPSON

A backfield that clicked with stellar precision and a line of iron were elements the Temple, Okla., Tigers could in no way match Friday afternoon, and the Coyotes lashed the visitors, 32 to 0, in the final practice game of the season. The game was played mostly in the visitors' half of Athletic park, before about 500 fans.

Through with pre-conference engagements, and all-square in their practice debuts with one victory and one defeat, the Coyotes now look forward to their first conference game here next Saturday with the Lubbock Westerners.

First Period Scoreless

The Tigers, who won their first conference game last week over Ringling, Okla., by the impressive score of 21 to 0, were no equals for the larruping Coyotes, though it must be said that they acted like real little men in holding the Coyotes scoreless the entire first quarter. But Bill Morris, assistant Coyote coach made a few changes in his backfield toward the last of that period, and from then on, with Withrow, Ray, Cox and White splitting the opposing line wide open, the scoreboard keepers got busy.

The Tigers threatened only once, and during the entire game made only one first down. Both events came in the second quarter, when Schupps, Tiger fullback, got through the Coyote line for a 44 yard run. A penalty took the ball down to the Coyotes' one-yard line, but they failed to take it over before the gun ending the half sounded.

The Coyotes scored first in the second quarter, when King, Coyote center, charged through to block a kick on the 13-yard line. In the ensuing scramble White recovered the ball and got credit for the first marker of the game. Withrow made the extra point with a drop kick. An aerial battle, featured by the punting of Chick Holden, had preceded the first touchdown.

The Coyotes returned to earth to open the second half, and profited immensely thereby. The frame had scarcely opened when the Coyotes were back in their accustomed place in the enemy's territory, due to terrific line plunges and end runs by Ray and Smith. Ray finally got the ball on the 10-yard line and went around left end for the second touchdown. White failed to kick goal.

Withrow Scores

Play had scarcely been resumed when a 25-yard penalty for slugging was called on Temple, and with this advantage Withrow charged around right end from the 34-yard line and made the third touchdown. White again failed to kick goal.

The remaining counters were piled up in the last quarter. Bennett Withrow, undoubtedly the backfield star of the day, plunged through a hole in the right of the line and scampered through a broken field for a 35-yard run to pave the way for the first counter of the period. Cox then relieved Withrow and sailed around left end to score. Withrow sent the ball sailing through the posts for the extra point. The final touchdown was made by Harlan Ray, but again only after Withrow had paved the way with a dash through the weakening Tiger line which left the pigskin on the enemy's two-yard line. Ray went around left end to tally, and Smith's attempt at the extra point failed.

Bill Morris, who switched his lineup continually, sent in a fresh group of linesmen toward the last, with the result the Tigers came near scoring, but at that the ball was never inside the Coyote 10-yard line.

Game Bunch

If fighting spirit alone could win, the Temple crew would have gone much farther than they did, but weight entered into consideration heavily. Price, Temple quarterback, slim little spindle-legged youngster too frail to risk with the ball, insisted on carrying it anyway two or three times, and succeeded in boring through the steel framework of the Coyote defense until they had his number. Price eventually was carried off the field by his coach, and replaced by Sparks.

An amusing incident occurred in the last period. Temple sent in a sub for right half. Stanfield, Coyote right tackle, kidding the newcomer along, asked him his name, and the innocent Tiger shouted it, thus incurring a 15-yard penalty which cost the visitors heavily.

Coach Barry Holton was not present at the game. He was scouting the Pampa-Lubbock game at Lubbock.

The starting lineup:

PAMPA BEATS LUBBOCK, 12-9

Westerners' Championship Hopes Jarred

Special to The Record News

LUBBOCK, Texas, Sept. 26.—Coach Henry Frnka's Lubbock high school Westerners came out of their first clash with a clear record as far as putting up a stiff battle, but with their championship hopes distinctly dim, while 600 Pampa fans who rode a special train here tipped out of the stands joyous over a 12 to 9 victory, won, if barely earned, by the Pampa Harvesters.

Saulsbury and Lard of Pampa were the visiting heroes while Smith of Lubbock made the lone touchdown for the Westerners.

Saulsbury pushed over the first touchdown of the day in the second period after he and Lard, and other Pampa backs had made a drive down the field. Smith pushed the ball over for Lubbock's lone touchdown. Smith kicked goal while Saulsbury missed, leaving Lubbock in the lead temporarily, 7 to 6.

In the third quarter Saulsbury carried another touchdown over the line after Pampa backs had brought the pigskin to the one-yard line. The "never die" spirit of the Westerners was very much in evidence in the final period with the local lads pushing the ball well into Pampa's territory where an attempted punt from behind the Pampa goal line by Saulsbury was blocked to result in a safety, giving Lubbock nine points to Pampa's 12 for the final count.

Yardage gained was nearly even with Lubbock making 13 first downs to 10 for Pampa, however Pampa gained more yards than Lubbock.

Gabby Street's Cards Cinch National League Pennant

REDBIRDS WHIP PIRATES, 10-5

Victory Throws Team Into World Series

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26. (AP)—It's the Cardinals versus the Athletics in the world series.

"Gabby" Street's Redbirds today qualified to uphold the honor of the National league against the Philadelphia Athletics, American league champions, in this year's baseball classic by slugging out a 10 to 5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and clinching the 1930 league pennant, the St. Louis club's third in the last five seasons.

Although Chicago defeated Cincinnati today, the Cubs are three full games behind St. Louis and, with only two more games to play, the Cardinals could lose both and still win the flag.

Despite chilly weather that smacked of football days, some 10,000 howling fans went wild as the Redbirds climaxed their sensational drive that lifted them from a poor fourth to first place in the closing weeks of the season.

To Jesse Haines, dean of the Cardinal hurling staff and a veteran of the Redbirds' two other world series campaigns, fell the honor of clinching this year's pennant. Haines outpitched Ervin Brame of the Pirates to chalk up the Cardinals' 21st victory in the last 24 games.

Tomorrow the high-flying Redbirds will be feted with a parade and celebration that will be a fitting honor to a team that made one of the most sensational dashes to a pennant in National league history. Score:

Breakfast—Toasted dry cereal with cream, dish of berries, fresh or canned, without sugar.

Lunch—Buttered corn, cooked greens, artichoke salad.

Dinner—Roast mutton, baked grated carrots and beets, vegetable salad molded in gelatin (small green peas, string beans and celery), prune whip.

"Cream of tomato soup: Canned tomato juice is excellent for making this soup. To three cupfuls of the juice use one cupful of fresh or canned cream, mixing together quickly while cold. Place over the fire and continue stirring until very hot but not boiling. Let the soup stand where it will keep hot about 10 minutes, turn into soup tureen in the bottom of which has been placed a half cup of whipped cream; or, a spoonful of whipped cream and a sprinkling of finely chopped parsley may be added to each service. Crispy toasted wafers may be used if desired.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Chased by a Nightmare

Question: W. S. writes—"Can you advise me as to what will get rid of frightful dreams? I am 73 years of age. I am no sooner asleep than I am chased by a mad bull or something of that nature, which wakes me up."

Answer—Distressing dreams are usually caused by indigestion, and when you have a nightmare, or are chased by a particularly vicious bull, try to remember what you had for dinner that night and you will usually find that fried onions, cooked cheese, or garlic in your soup, is the thing responsible for inducing the indigestion which produces the dream.

Do Oranges Cause Gas?

Question: Mrs. F. Y. writes: "My doctor says that I should eat at least a dozen oranges a day, but they seem to cause so much gas. What would you advise?"

Answer—It is all right to eat a dozen oranges a day if you do not eat any other food the same day; otherwise, you should confine your eating of oranges to one meal, eating as many as you desire, for instance, at luncheon. Oranges should never be mixed with a regular meal as they are liable to cause an excessive amount of stomach and intestional fermentation.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—Still lower prices were reached in cotton here today owing to continued Southern selling combined with scattering liquidation and local selling.

Covering and trade buying on scale down orders were readily supplied during the progress of the decline which extended to 10.51 for the new December contract or 15 points below yesterday's closing quotations. Closing prices were the lowest of the day and season so far, with the market barely steady at net declines of 11 to 19 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 5 points under overnight selling orders which appeared to come partly from the South.

Reports of poor prospects for a top crop in Texas and somewhat less favorable reports from some sections of the Eastern belt appeared to have very little effect on sentiment and traders seemed to be more interested in the development of trade conditions than in weather and crop advices.

Liverpool cables said Bombay buying in that market had been supplied by hedging and continental liquidation. Exports today 32,649 making 1,029,271 so far this season. Port receipts 105,892. U. S. port stocks, 2,490,752.

Futures closed barely steady, 11 to 19 points lower; spot quiet; middling 10.35.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26. (AP)—Fairly active trading and frequent and erratic price fluctuations today featured the cotton market. The opening despite fairly favorable Liverpool cables was irregularly lower, first transactions showing losses of 2 to 3 points. Prices continued to ease off in early trading until they showed losses of 8 to 11 points from the previous close.

Later the market rallied on reported activity in manufactured goods and an official prediction of frost for Oklahoma and Northwest Texas, prices gaining 13 to 14 points from the early lows. This bulge attracted hedge selling and realizing and prices eased off 8 to 10 points from the top.

The market declined further in the late trading in sympathy with weakness in stocks, making new lows 14 to 16 points under the highs and closed at the bottom showing net declines for the day of 10 to 12 points.

Liverpool came in as due to 1 point better and first trades here showed declines of 2 to 5 points. Although there was a momentary rally right after the opening call prices soon eased off again on hedge selling and realizing, October trading down to 10.28 and December to 10.52 or 8 to 11 points under the previous close.

In the later rally October advanced to 10.42 and December to 10.65 up 13 to 14 points from the early lows. The market eased off in early afternoon on hedge selling and declined to new lows in the late trading in sympathy with weakness in the stock market. October dropped to 10.26 and December to 10.51, or 14 to 16 points below the highs. The market closed at the lowest, October showing a net loss of 10 points and December 11 points.

Port receipts 106,642, for week 391,737, for season 2,056,098, last season 1,571,577. Exports 33,570, for week 164,111, for season 1,065,433, last season 786,766. Port stock 2,497,762, last year 1,169,216. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 94,147, last year 123,105, spot sales at southern markets 62,480, last year 75,493.

Futures closed steady at net declines of 10 to 12 points:

High-Priced Stocks Halt in Plunge Downward Before Reaching Low Level

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (US)—Stock prices continued to decline today, but stopped just short of reaching the extreme lows of the June depression. That is, the "averages," usually composed of the highest-grade issues in the various groups, failed to break through the previous low of the year; but many individual stocks slumped to the lowest price not only of this year but for many years past.

Liquidation, quite evident for the past few weeks, had halted somewhat in the early transaction, but developed again as the session continued. The motor shares, already considerably depressed by their long downswing which commenced months before the "market" attained its peak last year, experienced considerable weakness which influenced the entire list and brought about new lows for the present decline in virtually all stocks.

Lacking cheering developments, the continued slump in wheat and cotton prices, both of which touched new lows for many years, assumed continued importance despite the frequency of this establishing of seeming ever-lowering values of these vital commodities. Trade news was of mixed tone, with perhaps a slight weight toward seasonal betterment in evidence. The market, however, was little inclined to observe anything except the "ticker's own story" and this was recording lower prices.

Volume swelled to the largest daily total for many weeks, over 3,700,000 shares. The bear crowd, for the past few weeks hardly opposed marketwise, selected the motor stocks as fine targets to further unsettle the market. In this maneuver they were favored by the recognized poor earnings of most companies for the third quarter, with the possibility of deficit for many auto concerns.

Chrysler appeared a particular target, although some of the liquidation was attributed to forced selling of stock acquired materially higher in price. That a leading investment trust identified with the company was selling, however, was emphatically denied. The Chrysler dividend obviously is endangered and this explains the selling, rather than bear raiding.

General Motors slumped to a new low on the reaction and Auburn was heavily sold by a strong bear clique which only recently commenced their attack against this issue. The oil stocks as a group also declined to new lows.

It would be difficult to ascribe whatever strength developed during the day to anything more potent than short covering. The persistency of the selling in such speculative issues as radio, which slumped to a new low, emphasized that additional outright liquidation was taking place. As a matter of fact the low priced stocks have been under pressure as to seemingly confirm in reasonable degree the report that many banks were loath to continue lending on such collateral and in some instances were requesting borrowers to liquidate.

Extraordinary ease in money, with call money available today at 2 per cent, although the official rate remained at 2 per cent, emphasizes the great surplus of funds throughout the country, perhaps only recently enlarged by release of funds previously tied up.

Emboldened by their tremendous success, the bears were publicly proclaiming their intention to raid the public utilities. In this group undoubtedly are many issues which, as frequently commented upon here, are far out of line with the remainder of the market, from standpoint of relatively low yield and high ratio to earnings per share. It is not at all improbable that the market for the near future will be determined by the outcome of the severe contest which already has developed between the bears and the bulls in the utility stocks.

Several leading utility stocks slumped with the general list, but in such issues as American & Foreign Power and Electric Power & Light strong support developed. Foreign Power actually closed with a net gain, while Electric Power closed a small fraction lower. Consolidated Gas apparently was used as the bears' opening wedge, this premier utility closing virtually at its low for the day. Under 100, however, gas probably will meet heavy investment buying, unless large orders already placed are cancelled.

Again today, as on the previous day, the bears' success seemingly was not as brilliant as on earlier days of the present decline. Steel Common was forced to a new low on the present setback but actually closed off only ¼. International Nickel closed off ⅜. Vanadium was down 1⅛, United Aircraft 1⅜, General Electric 1⅜.

American Can, to which the bulls had looked confidently for leadership, fulfilled this mission for several hours but finally yielded to constant pressure and when it slumped with the entire market.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Sept. 26. (AP)—Fair demand was reported for the limited receipts on the cash grain market here today. Mills were taking the few cars of wheat arriving on the basis of 88½c to 89½c for No. 1 hard delivered Texas common points. There was no export business reported.

Estimated receipts included: Wheat, 4 cars; corn, 8; oats, 4; barley, 2; sorghums, 1.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 92½c to 93½c; No. 2 white 93½c to 94½c; No. 2 yellow 99c to $1.00.

Oats—No. 2 red 50c to 51c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 46c to 46½c, to which add one cent for delivery group three.

Barley—No. 2 nominally 66c to 67c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo nominally $1.80 to $1.85; No. 2 kaffir $1.50 to $1.55

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Grain values today lay nearly motionless after touching low record figures unequaled before in the experience of most traders here.

Virtually the sole demand for future deliveries of wheat and other cereals during much of the day was from previous sellers who were in a position to collect a profit. The extraordinary standstill was reached pending action by board of trade directors which came after business had ended for the day and which took the form of an official assurance to Secretary of Agriculture Hyde that measures would be instituted to end selling of grain future contracts here by any foreign government.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsteady, 2-2⅜c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1⅛-2⅜c down, oats 1⅛-1⅛c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of $1.00.

Lowest prices of the day and for many years were reached just before the final gong cleared the crowd of brokers out of the wheat pit. From the outset, prices of wheat had shown a downward trend, which soon became pronounced and which at no stage gave signs of much likelihood of being altered until traders could get new light on what to expect about problems akin to recent heavy selling operations here by the Russian government.

Corn and oat prices melted away as a consequence of weakness of the wheat market.

Despite higher quotations on hogs, provisions declined with cereals.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, December 77⅜-⅜, 82⅝-⅜, March 82¼, 86⅛; May 84⅝-½, 88⅛-89.

Corn, December 81⅛-⅝, 81⅝-⅞; March 79⅛, 83⅛; May 81⅝, 85⅝-½.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (US)—Poland has a crop of 70,400,000 bushels of wheat, according to final revised estimates, against 60,240,000 bushels a year ago; 266,000,000 bushels of rye, or 22,000,000 bushels more than a year ago, and 150,000,000 bushels of oats, which is 25,000,000 bushels less than last year.

There was less chartering of freight room for Black Sea shipments, according to Liverpool, and rates were barely steady.

Rain is badly needed in Eastern Australian states, according to cables received this morning. Argentina shipped 547,000 bushels of wheat this week and Australia 1,320,000 bushels, both amounts being smaller than last year.

A Liverpool cable to Pynchon quoted a reliable authority to effect Germany had passed a bill raising the percentage of home-grown wheat required to be used by mills from 60 to 80 per cent.

Minneapolis stocks of wheat increased 750,000 bushels for the week.

Winnipeg reports state that 2,283,000 bushels of wheat were shipped from Lakehead and Pacific coast ports Wednesday night. Grain marketing in the West Wednesday totaled 1,940,000 bushels. Grain in store, country elevators, 51,728,000.

Generous rains have fallen over all of Iowa. Dairymen contend the rainfall will rejuvenate fall pastures and result in a saving of millions of dollars in feed.

DRAINAGE VOTE HERE OCT. 4

District to Decide on Bond Issue

Voters of the proposed Wichita County Drainage District No. 2 will be asked to decide by their ballots on next Saturday, Oct. 4, whether or not that district shall be formed and whether or not it shall vote bonds of approximately $26,958 for the purpose of constructing drainage ditches complementary to the irrigation system.

Comprising 2,085 acres near this city, most of which lies near Holliday or McGrath creek, the proposed district is the outgrowth of a petition filed by J. Solon Downing and others last spring seeking the provision of drainage for irrigated lands in this community. A complete survey which had been made by the Wichita County Water Improvement district No. 1 served as the basis for the movement in outlining the areas which will be served by the proposed system of ditches.

Following agreement of the Wichita County Water Improvement district No. 1 to pay one-half of the estimated $53,916 required for the project provided the drainage district would pay the other half, the county commissioners conducted a public hearing on the matter on Aug. 28, and thereafter passed an order for next Saturday's election.

Qualified voters in the prescribed area will vote at the Ballew store at the intersection of the Wichita lake road and the Rosemont cemetery road. A. V. Moller was named as presiding judge, with Tom Fields as assistant judge. E. S. Ballew and R. H. Graham have been designated as clerks.

Real property within the proposed district shows an assessed valuation of $132,103. Aside from the original cost of $12.91 per acre for construction of the drainage channels, it was estimated by engineers who worked on the project that the district will be required to pay about $2,580 every six years for cleaning of such ditches. The outlined system comprises 5.16 miles of drainage canals.

THE AGE Of YOUTH

bled so that she didn't think they could perform the slight task set them, she withdrew her latchkey from her bag and opened the door. Three minutes later the frightened Jennie, uncompromising in a wrapper that hid even her ankles, was hearing Donna's hysterical commands.

Hot water—bandages—iodine.

She herself led Granby to her own bed, helped him upon it, drew off his torn jacket, unfastened his blood-soaked collar. But it was the capable Jennie who, her fright mastered, took command now.

"I'll telephone for a doctor, ma'am."

For a moment Donna fought with a base impulse. To call in a doctor meant, doubtless, publicity.

"Hurry," she said.

"His doctor, ma'am," said Jennie. "Dr. Lindstrom."

Donna didn't bother to ask how Jennie happened to know the name of Granby's doctor. She felt that Jennie had read the mean impulse in her heart and was reassuring her. She merely nodded.

Granby was either unconscious now, or close to it. He made no response to Donna's murmurs of horror, as she bathed his face, settled pillows more comfortably.

Dr. Lindstrom asked no questions until he had made a thorough examination. Then, leaving his patient asleep—Donna had seen him use a hypodermic on Granby's arm—he followed Donna into the living room.

"Don't tell me any more than you feel you must," he said. "Only," he warned, "he'll not be able to stay here."

"Why not?" demanded Donna.

The physician shrugged.

"You're an unmarried woman, Miss Raynor. No, a hospital—possibly his own apartment—but I'd not dare risk moving him for a couple of days except to a hospital. Frankly, Miss Raynor, he ought not to be moved at all."

"Then you shan't move him," declared Donna.

The doctor shrugged again.

"But—the circumstances, Miss Raynor. After all—"

"Circumstances can't be permitted to endanger his life," she said. She ended the sentence on a questioning note.

"I don't think it's as bad as that," the doctor reassured her. "Only—there may be a slight concussion—I might as well be frank, Miss Raynor. A case like this—if there's danger of—death—has to be reported to the police. If you care to tell me anything—our stories should—er—coincide, you know."

"Not now," she said. "I—you mustn't move him."

"That," said Lindstrom, "is what I hoped to hear you say. But your—hospitality—may cost you more than you care to pay, it's only fair to warn you."

"It can hardly cost me more than —then friendship for me has cost him," said Donna.

The doctor picked up his hat and surgical case.

"The nurse should arrive in 15 minutes or so," he said. "I've left written instructions for her. I'd advise sleep, Miss Raynor, and—er—" He became suddenly embarrassed, not at all the suave, collected man of medicine. "I'm very glad to have met you," he finished awkwardly.

Donna thought it was one of the nicest compliments any man had ever paid her. And her lips were curved in a smile when the nurse arrived to find her sound asleep. Could the smile have been translated into words, it would have said, "There are great cads in the world, but also great gentlemen."

Sculptor Sues for Stone Mountain Work

ATLANTA, Sept. 26. (AP)—Augustus Lukeman, sculptor, has filed suit in the Fulton superior court against the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association in which he seeks to recover $16,666.33 which he claims to be due him for work on the mountain monument.

In his petition Lukeman sets out that he entered into a contract with the association April 16, 1925, to carve the memorial on Stone mountain and as a result of the contract he says he made designs and models which were accepted by the association at a cost of $12,500. Acting under the contract, the petitioner says, he superintended the work of carving for which he says there is now due him $4,166.33.

Applications numbering more than 150 and representing territory in all directions from Wichita Falls to a distance of more than 100 miles have been received by those in charge of the fourth annual Atwater Kent radio audition which is to be held here next Monday night, Sept. 29, it was announced Friday.

Cisco, Childress, Vernon, Burkburnett, Iowa Park, Electra, Jacksboro, Henrietta, Altus, Frederick, Snyder, and Randlett, Okla., are represented in the applications which have been received.

Preliminary examination of applicants which began Friday night is expected to reduce the field of contestants to about 14 by Monday night at 9 o'clock, according to Mrs. Lois Parker, who is again in charge of the contest in this district.

Finalists to be heard from radio station KGKO Monday night will be judged jointly by radio listeners and by a corpse of judges who will hear, but not see, the singers. Rules for voting will be similar to those effective in former years, but will be announced before Monday, according to Mrs. Parker. Contestants are to submit three songs to the judges just before the contest begins, and that body will select one of the three which will be used.

Headed by Mrs. F. C. Barron and Mrs. O. E. Maer, the committee includes representatives of numerous other civic organizations here.

From the standpoint of continued activity in the field of music, Mrs. Barron and Mrs. Maer are veterans in this community, and will bring to their evaluation of the various performances extensive experience and a thorough comprehension of musical values.

STRAND: "The Spoilers" with Gary Cooper and Kay Johnson. Comedy, Terrytoon and sound news.

STATE: Indian cast in "The Silent Enemy." Comedy, screen song and sound news.

MAJESTIC: Al Jolson in "Mammy." Short subjects and news.

Those who clamor for action and something new should visit "The Spoilers" some time during the week. It is one of Gary Coper's best—at least next to "The Virginian" in good acting.

Cooper's rather slow and doubtful reformation and Kay Johnson, the cause of it all, bring just enough good old morals into the picture to make it worthwhile and leave enough out to keep it interesting. Kay Johnson and Betty Compson are well contrasted.

The real point of interest in the picture, however, is the gorgeous fight between the hero and the villain, both of whom, of course love the girl. Just for a change, however, they are not fighting over her—she's just a minor issue at the time of the big battle.

Mickey (ShayFane) Maguire, alias John (Himself) McCormack, whose real name I know but won't tell, sends in some of his Irish wit in regard to the "Disgusted" letter printed Friday morning:

"Miss Fleming, you've surely offended
A kin of the Arlens, or Wrays,
Just omitting a nod for the 'flicker', Sea God,
Endangers your columns and pays.
Some fellow who 'knows' theater owners
Types a note full of jibes and disgusts—
Insists that you fade—Publix critics be made,
'Carloads of Epics'—no busts!
—"Mickey (ShayFane) Maguire."

Anybody that can write a rhymed acrostic is good. That Irishman is going to be missed when he goes back to Erin next month.

Jury Fails to Report In Barnes Damage Suit

Deliberations of the jury in the suit of Seaton A. Barnes against the Southwestern Bell Telephone company and L. W. Kelly in the 78th district court continued throughout Friday without a verdict being rendered.

Members of the jury were dismissed at 5:10 p. m. Friday to resume their study of the case Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Pitts received a broken jaw and a number of other cuts on the head. He was taken to the hospital at Olney.
