On Illegal Dumping

County Takes Tougher Stance

By Becky Werhan

The Aransas County Commissioners' Court has voted to take a tough stance on illegal dumping in Aransas County.

The dumping of garbage in the county is a growing problem and the County Commissioners' Court has passed a resolution calling for greater public awareness of the problem and asking the county's citizens to help fight it by:

1. disposing of their excess garbage in the proper way at the legally authorized sites — the garbage compactor station on Highway 35 West and the San Patricio Disposal Unit #1 in Gregory; and

2. reporting any illegal dumping to the sheriff's office, if possible with the auto license number of any offenders seen in the act of illegally disposing of their garbage — illegal dumping of garbage is a Class C Misdemeanor and anyone caught in the act will be subject to a $200 maximum fine.

The resolution was considered and passed on Wednesday, February 25 after Cam Leonard spoke to Court, asking their support in a "Public Awareness" campaign to fight illegal dumping.

Leonard cited areas west of the airport and along Airport Road as some of the worst examples of the problem and presented the court with photos of these sites.

Areas south of the city on Highway 35 were noted also. In the discussion of the particularly bad areas, County Surveyor Tommy Griffith said, "There isn't a dead end in the county that isn't filled with trash."

The court agreed that the cooperation of Aransas County residents would be the main deterrent to dumping.

Many people do not take their excess garbage to the compactor system, complaining of expense and inconvenience, instead creating eyesores on county property by dumping.

Others have complained of the expense involved in taking items unacceptable at the compactor station to the Gregory site.

In regard to this County Judge John Wendell noted the $400 per month surcharge paid by the county for the use of the Gregory station and urged citizens to take advantage of the Gregory dump since they

The county Garbage Compactor Station on West Hwy. 35 is open to the public 9-5:30, Monday through Friday and 9-5 on Saturday. The compactor station is closed on Sundays and on major holidays for one day only.

The compactor station charges 30 cents per one plastic trash bag of garbage or per 10 paper grocery-type bags.

Garbage not in bags is charged at $1.95 per cubic yard. A flat bed pickup with no sides level full is one yard and a regular pickup full to the top is 3 yards at $3.90. The charge for one and a half yards is $2.93.

The station will accept almost all household garbage, broken concrete, bricks and wood under two feet in length.

The station will accept old refrigerators, stoves, water heaters, air conditioners, etc.

The facility cannot accept mattresses, furniture, tires or pieces of wood over two feet in length.

The station cannot accept industrial chemical waste or raw sewage.

The San Patricio Disposal Unit #1 in Gregory will accept any trash including car bodies, tree limbs and furniture. It cannot take hazardous material such as chemical waste or raw sewage.

The charge at the Gregory station is 35 cents per trash bag, can or barrel or $1.75 per cubic yard.

Navigation District

The Aransas County Navigation District will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 3, in the Navigation District Building.

County May Purchase Navigation Land

Aransas County, with the aid of an Energy Impact Grant, may purchase an area of land north of Cove Harbor from the Aransas County Navigation District.

The commissioners' court, meeting on Wednesday, February 25, heard from Navigation District spokesman Ken Faulkner in regards to the land, which the Navigation District had originally purchased to expand Cove Harbor but can no longer use in that capacity due to objections from the Environmental Protection Agency and the Marine Fisheries office.

The land has been designated by these agencies as wetlands — essential to the conservation of many species of fish and birds — and as such is useless to the Navigation District.

The District, in need of land for the expansion of present industrial harbor capacity, has hopes of selling the land to the county and earmarking the resulting funds for the purchase of land south of Cove Harbor.

The funds for the purchase of the wetland area would be provided by an Energy Impact Program Grant from the State Council of Governments. The C.O.G. had prepared a resolution that Faulkner presented to the Court but due to an error in the resolution in regards to the value of the land (which cannot be appraised until the county agrees to the project), the court did not vote on the project.

The corrected resolution will be presented at the next meeting at which time the court is expected to go along with the Navigation District's request.

In other action, the court approved the appointment of Dr. Curtis Kovac as Aransas County Health Officer to replace the late Dr. G.M. Pattillo.

The court also accepted the resignation of Mrs. C.R. Gibson as chairman of the County Historical Commission. Mrs. Gibson felt that a "younger person" would be better suited to the job. The court agreed to come up with suitable nominees for the appointment and consider them at the next court session.

Improvements to the Precinct 1 voting center in Aransas Pass were discussed by the court. Precinct 1 Commissioner John Lee agreed to look into the project.

The court considered improvements to the Seaman's Park and agreed to help pay for such improvements as soon as the cost list submitted to them is revamped allowing for the higher lumber costs than originally planned on.

The court discussed a bill

Gladice Tillison Named Local CF Chairman

Gladice Tillison has accepted the Chairmanship of the 1981 Cystic Fibrosis Sprint Special Event to be held in Rockport.

Proceeds from the fund-raising event support the research, education and care programs of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Cystic Fibrosis (CF) — the number one genetic killer of children — is an inherited, incurable disease affecting the lungs and digestive system of its young victims. CF claims three lives every day.

Approximately one in every 20 Americans is a symptomless carrier of the recessive CF gene. At present there is no test to identify these 10 million people who might pass on the gene or the disease to their children.

Children born with CF today have a 50 percent chance of reaching their 19th birthday.

Ban On Redfish Delayed Temporarily

After four hours of testimony by commercial fisherman — including some from Rockport-Fulton — a bill that would ban commercial harvest of trout and redfish was sent back to subcommittee.

The action came Wednesday, February 25, following testimony before the Senate Natural Resources Committee chaired by Senator Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso.

Danny Adams, owner of D&T Seafood, and J.C. Harlan of Rockport were both still in Austin Thursday and could not be reached for comment. It was not known if others from this area were at the Austin hearings.

Area shrimper Leon Bateman, who was not at the hearings but who talked to Senator Walter Mengden from Harris County Wednesday night, said he feels the delay is "a big plus in the commercial fishermen's favor."

Earlier, on February 18, the Senate committee had heard from proponents of the proposed bill to ban commercial redfish and trout fishing.

This past week's hearing was to give commerical fisherman and operators of seafood establishments an opportunity to state their arguments against the measure.

More than 200 persons signed up in opposition to the redfish bill.

Responding to arguments that the redfish and speckled sea trout are endangered species, those at Wednesday's hearings unfurled a banner in the Capitol rotunda and Senate balcony saying, "Save An Endangered Species — Commercial Fishermen."

Santiesteban told the crowds at the hearing that members of the Natural Resources Committee "are not taking the facts of your situation idly."

Mosquito Control Needed To Prevent Dengue Fever

HARLINGEN — Aransas County residents are asked to help control mosquitoes in an effort to avoid an outbreak of dengue fever in South Texas this year.

The disease, spread by the Aedes aegypti mosquito, has been reported in 50 cases throughout South Texas since September 19, 1980, when a five-year-old girl in Brownsville contracted the illness.

Although none of these cases was in Aransas County, one case each was reported in Bee, Nueces and Kleberg counties, 30 in Cameron County, seven in Hidalgo, eight in Webb and two in Willacy.

Officials with the Texas Department of Health in Harlingen said that, although spread of the disease has slowed down due to cold weather, warmer temperatures and spring rains could result in an increase in the South Texas mosquito population.

The Aedes aegypti mosquito multiplies rapidly under the "right" conditions which, health officials emphasize, include warm temperatures and stagnant water in man-made containers.

South Texas residents — including those of Aransas County — are urged to empty all containers that could possibly harbor mosquitoes.

Such containers include flower pots, bird baths, pet dishes, clogged roof water drains, old tires and any other man-made containers that hold water.

The last major outbreak of dengue fever occurred in the U.S. in 1922-23, with more than 41,000 of those cases reported in Texas.

Editorial / Opinion

Austin at Wharf

JAMES KILPATRICK may have said it very well when he wrote recently: "Budget cutting zeal all theory, not action." Per example, every time I turn around there's the tale of another senator or congressman who'd like to cut — so long as the cut doesn't affect his own pork barrel project "for the folks back home."

Again we may soon have a U.S. Travel and Tourist Association, endorsed by conservative stalwarts as Howard Baker Warner of Virginia and Goldwater of Arizona. Perhaps someone will explain why a $140 billion industry can't raise its own $8 million to promote tourism. So on it goes.

AND HERE I CONFESS to my own pork barrel project, support of Public Television Service from Washington — not 100 percent support but a portion. PBS as you know is constantly obliged to beg for donations from its viewers.

Doesn't my natural conservative bent dicate that turning to the government for subsistence should be a last resort? Or should I make an impassioned plea for almost the only telly worth viewing in that vast wasteland, via PBS. Might I say that if a single child learns to appreciate the Shakespearean plays, Masterpiece Theatre, classical music, the quality of Bill Moyers, on and on, then PBS justifies itself?

Can I do that and still say that the Food Stamp Program should be reduced to reality — not ended; that able-bodied people should be compelled to go to work instead of finding it more comfortable to stay on the relief rolls? And if I answer yes, am I any different from the congressman who pursues a pork barrel program?

I want desperately to justify myself. To do so I can point to a couple of supposedly outstanding commercial programs. One "The Bunker" which presented Adolph Hitler's mistress, Eva Braun, in a very sympathetic light. And Hitler himself was not such a bad guy really, only a slightly disturbed man who loved dogs and children. His major vice was that every now and then he took time out to murder a few million people.

Or consider again last week's "Evita Peron", a multi-million dollar production staged in Guadalajara. It was pretty confused Argentine history that makes of Eva Peron a George Washington and the cherry tree history. Actually Eva is the story of an illegitimate child who became an ambitious actress — her single talent, the ability to scribble her name and phone number on scraps of paper and slip them to Argentine military men, including Peron.

Mind, these plays were slipped us as representative of commercial television at its best! So indeed with such presentations in mind I feel obliged to observe that PBS fills a need for everyone.

HERE I MUST EXPRESS regret that commercial television has for many years now been given ample opportunity to serve the public in a worthy manner. Instead it has jammed the airways with what for the most part amounts to useless, mindless junk that becomes increasingly tasteless.

Daily the best of telly is the network newscasts, but they are close to 50 percent commercials, some that are embarrassing to watch. To pick up that now hackneyed phrase: Must one wonder that "little Johnny can't read:" Let those who will contend that mine is a snobbish attitude.

That I deny and thank heaven, there are those who agree with me, although I confess, not in numbers enough to make PBS self-supporting.

A PENTAGON SIZE-UP of U.S. power in last week's USN&WR was not the most heartening thing I've read of late. Yet it comes as no surprise that President Reagan is going to have to change his views on draft registration.

In a word, and I've said this ever since former President Nixon abolished the draft — that we can't make it without volunteer military services. In addition, more and better pay won't accomplish the military the country needs.

And manpower isn't all of the story. For example, the Marine Corps presently has less than a two-week supply of ammunition. Further, all the services are in short supply of weapons, tanks, aircraft, ships — you name it. None of these circumstances can be corrected overnight.

Now it is, of course, true that Reagan has asked for a huge increase in the military budget but his first priority is going to have to be manpower. I think he is beginning to realize that, and change his mind about draft registration not being necessary.

So for one I suspect that as the dangers the country faces become real to him he will come to the decision that every young man should be trained to fight, and hope that it will never become necessary. The age-old adage holds that the best defense of any nation is being prepared.

You know, having written the above paragraph I regret every line of it. How foolish it is for great nations to be forced to recognize that so much of their wealth must be spent for arms, especially when that wealth could in every country in the world be spent to better ends.

Yet history has shown us through the ages that that is the sad fate of all of us. "Man's inhumanity to man." Odd, but do I quote the Holy Writ or William Shakespeare? Reckon I need a refresher course on my "book larnin."--ahab

Anti-Crime Package

Curb Offense Against Children

Editor's note: Governor Bill Clements has presented an eight-part anti-crime package to this year's Texas legislature. The Pilot supports these measures and in an effort to keep our readers better informed is publishing an analyses of each of the eight measures.

Background Information

Law enforcement officials report a marked increase over the past tow years of assaults against children which have included rape and sexual abuse of both boys and girls, age 4-12.

Dallas County officials and citizens, in particular, have expressed concern about this trend and requested more severe penalties for offenses of this type. District Attorney Henry Wade reports that several little girls and one little boy in Dallas County were murdered after the sexual assault and that several others have been cut upon and badly mutilated but managed to survive.

He states that most frequent assaults of this type have been the abduction and forcible rape of little girls 6-8 years old with the child being beaten but not killed.

In February, 1980, a television station serving the Dallas-Fort Worth area ran an investigative reporting series for several nights on the 10 p.m. news which concluded with a two-part editorial urging the Texas Legislature to upgrade the penalty for crimes of this nature.

The series generated a good deal of viewer response, all of it overwhelmingly in support of the station's editorial position.

Purpose

The amendment will provide:

(1) Reclassifying the offenses of rape of a child, sexual abuse of a child and injury to a child. These offenses are currently second degree felonies which carry a maximum penalty of from two to 20 years in the Texas Department of Corrections and up to a $10,000 fine. They will be upgraded to first degree felonies carrying a maximum penalty of five to 99 years or life imprisonment in TDC; and

(2) Reclassifying the offense of indecency with a child from a third degree felony carrying a maximum penalty of from two to 10 years in the Texas Department of Corrections and up to a $5,000 fine.

This offense will become a second degree felony and will carry a maximum penalty of from two to 20 years in the Texas Department of corrections and up to a $10,000 fine.

Section by Section Analysis

Section 1. Section 21.09 of the Penal Code is amended to provide that rape of a child is a first degree felony.

Section 2. Section 21.10 of the Penal Code is amended to provide that sexual abuse of a child is a first degree felony. The defenses to prosecution under this section are also amended to remove the requirement that the victim and the actor be of the opposite sex.

Section 3. Section 22.04 of the Penal Code is amended to provide that serious bodily injury to a child is a first degree felony. Further provides that bodily injury to a child is a second degree felony.

Section 4. Section 21.11 of the Penal Code is amended to provide that indecency with a child is a second degree felony.

Section 5. Savings clause.

Section 6. Effective date of the Act is September 1, 1981.

Section 7. Emergency clause.

State Of The Region

By Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend Council of Governments

In this, seen as a time of transition, local governments and service agencies may find themselves with new goals and new means of financing work toward those goals.

At the national level, consideration is being given to existing programs. Decisions will be made that some have achieved as much as they can, that others have not proved effective, and that some are achieving objectives. The method of funding may remain the same for those that are carried on, or financial responsibility may be shifted to state or local levels.

In the last five years, the amount of money for which local governments and agencies in the Coastal Bend have applied has more than doubled. In 1977, that figure was $87,741,303. It was slightly lower in 1978, $83,357,773. In 1979, there was an upward trend, to $105,132,048. The big jump came in 1979, when the total value reached $206,872,638. This held at almost the same level in 1980, $202,171,476.

The largest amount of money for which applications were filed in 1980 was $70,617,025 for transportation and street improvements. This had almost doubled in one year. The next largest was community and economic development, at $50,999,471, but this was down by about one-third from the previous year.

Health and social services held at about the same level in 1979 and 1980, $26,768,975 in the most recent year, up less than one hundred thousand dollars.

Manpower programs accounted for $18,791,698 in applications, and this was down about four million dollars from the previous year. However, manpower has been one of the programs in which there has been the most significant increase in the last five years, when it was not a significant enough amount to be broken out as a separate category.

The other totals for categories of applications in 1980 were, parks and recreation, $4,680,300; education, $4,110,253; planning, $1,161,627; and criminal justice, $1,134,285.

These figures apply to applications submitted to various funding agencies, such as the Department of Housing and Urban Development or the Community Services Administration. These are applications which the Council of Governments reviewed, providing the funding agency with the comments of local governments. The comment lets federal and state government know whether the application reviewed is consistent with regional plans and meets goals and objectives which have been established by local governments.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

BILL PROTECTS HOMOSEXUALS

Representative Ted Weiss (N.Y.)"...On behalf of Mr. Waxman, California and 31 other of our colleagues, I am today introducing legislation that address one of the most pervasive forms of discrimination found in our Nation. "My bill (The House Bill number was not listed in the Congressional Record) also reinforces the constitutional guarantee of the right to privacy since this fundamental freedom is undermined whenever an individual's sexual orientation becomes the basis for discrimination.

"A person's sexual orientation should not be regarded as legitimate grounds for bias any more than should skin color or religious expression.

"Over 20 million homosexual men and women are in every occupation and institution in our Nation. They are doctors, lawyers, professors, carpenters, clerks, secretaries, writers, Government workers and street sweepers. They are rich and poor, black and white, city dwellers and rural residents. And like most Americans, they obey the law and work hard.

"But unlike other groups, homosexuals do not have legal recourse when they encounter discrimination. A man or woman may meet every possible criterion for housing or employment and yet if he or she is a homosexual an apartment or job can be denied him or her simply on the basis of personal private sexual orientation.

"Last October, hearings were held by the Subcommittee on Employment Opportunities in this issue in San Francisco. Almost every witness testified to the need for this legislation.

"And its enactment would confirm my belief that most Americans oppose this form of bias just as strongly as they reject discrimination directed against racial and religious minorities.

"I hope this Congress will recognize that homosexuality is not a sufficient reason to religate a person to the status of second-class citizen. I urge my colleagues to join me in co-sponsoring this legislation to amend the Civil Rights Act so that we may eliminate discrimination against homosexuals in housing, employment, education, and public accommodations..."

Our Readers Write

Editor:

I wonder what Mr. Ehrlich does for a living that he uses such noble words as "fairness" and "concern for fellow man" when writing about the Gulf coast fishermen and shrimpers.

Surely the illegal activities of the aliens are not taking the bread from the mouths of his children.

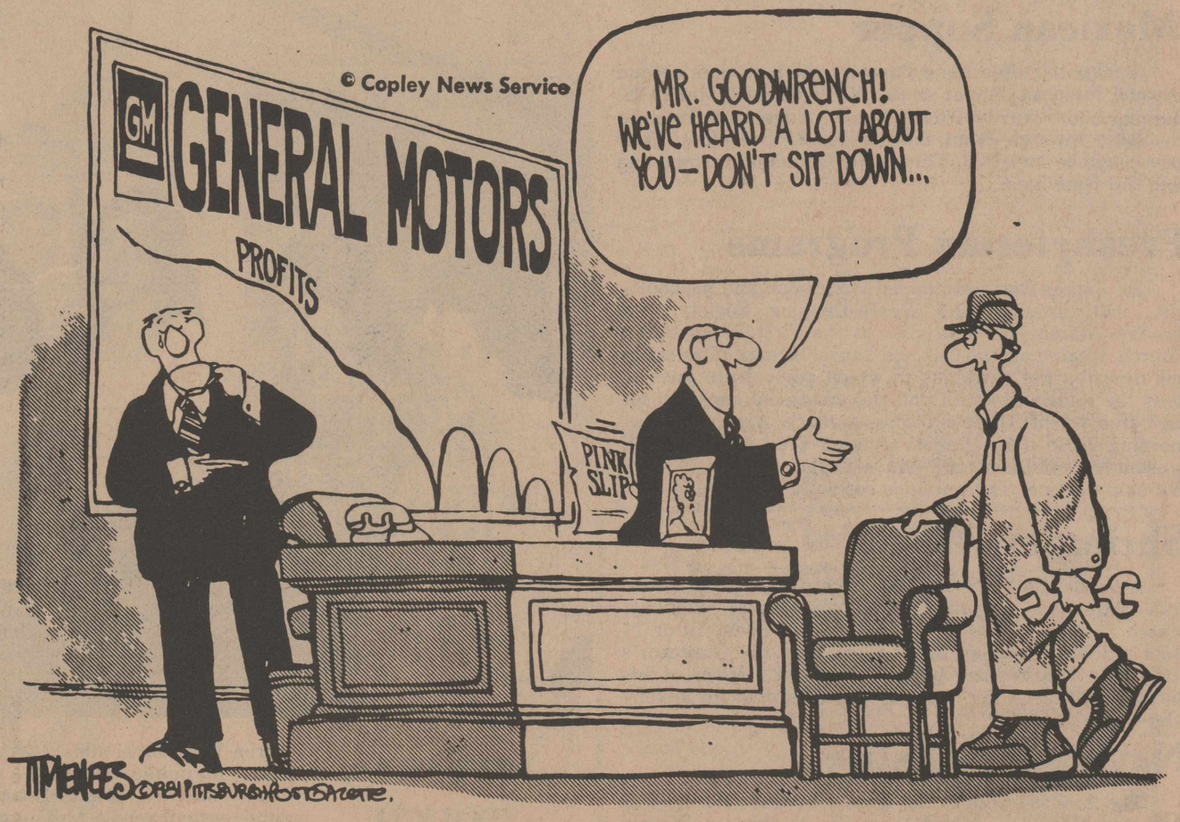

Is it "fair" that one group of aliens are exempt from our fishing laws; that one group should be exempt from social security and income taxes for the first five years; that one group should be exempt from our immigration laws; that our friends from across the border should be treated like criminals when they ask only to be allowed to work? And, is it "fair" to ask us to welcome and share with people who have deserted their own country?

Is it a lack of "concern for fellow man" to expect our Government to treat the citizens fairly? Is it a lack of "concern for fellow man" to resent the free flow of foreign people and goods into our country; to resent the loss of our jobs because of alien labor; to resent the destruction of our businesses and industry because of no tariffs?

And, finally, is it a lack of "concern for fellow man" to resent our tax dollars used to support aliens instead of our own poor?

Nobody likes the Ku Klux Klan but the sad thing is that they are growing in numbers because the Government has turned away from the people.

Speaking Out

How do you feel about HB139 -- the bill that would prohibit commercial fishermen from catching and selling redfish and trout?

Laura Whissler
Rockport
I don't think its fair. Instead of helping, its making it harder and harder for them (Commercial fishermen) to make a living.

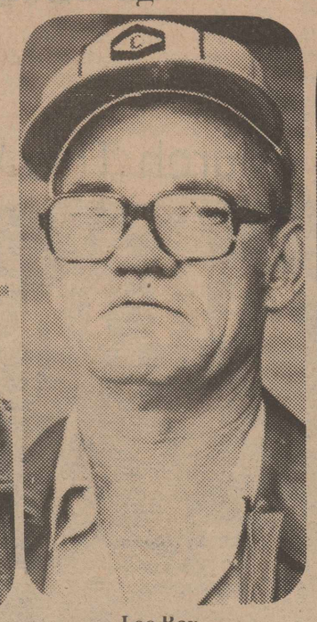

Rick Fleming
Rockport
I personally think there's some bad things about it and some good things about it. I can see the sports fishermen's side but then I can see the side of the guy's who make a living fishing. I make a living shrimping and I'd hate to see my job taken away from me. Those guys have to feed a family — take their jobs away from them and what are they going to do?

Annie Brooks
Rockport
That's the way those people make a living, isn't it? Why would anyone want to ban that?

Clifford Olson
Dayton, Iowa
That's what conservation's all about — if its getting scarce, you better save it. I think the sportsman can fish — we're not going to take that many. It's those boats that go out with nets that need to be stopped.

Leo Ray
Rockport
I'm strictly for the commercial fishermen. Those people are raising children. Take the redfish and trout away and that's their business gone. They couldn't catch enough of the cheaper fish to pay for their equipment.

Lucy Floyd
Rockport
I really think they shouldn't limit it. (redfish/trout fishing) completely. Maybe up to a point but not completely. There should be limits on both sides, so both commercial and sport fishermen can fish, for redfish and trout. There should be some for everybody.

There should be a limit on the commercial fishermen. If the fishing turns bad down here, the northerners aren't going to come down here. There should certainly be a limit on the sports fishermen, too, though, especially on the game fish.

"Plan to Compete" is the title of the keynote address to be made by ABWA National President Joan Suddarth at Saturday morning's opening session. She is currently serving her third term on ABWA's national board of directors.

Houston Man Charged With Gas Fraud

HOUSTON — A Federal Grand Jury at Houston indicted Robert L. Topper Jr., February 18, charging six counts of mail and wire fraud.

In addition to the indictment for fraud, Topper was also charged in a separate indictment with making false statements to obtain loans from the Small Business Administration, Small Loans Houston bank.

The indictment charges Topper with submitting false and fraudulent invoices to the E.A. Oil Corporation, the major partner in a gas pipeline joint venture. False invoices were submitted which indicated gas was sold at a rate lower than the actual selling price. Topper is charged with converting the difference between the stated and actual selling price, approximately $198,000, to his own use.

Postal Inspector in Charge W.R. Newsome stated the indictments were the result of a seven-month investigation which was conducted at Houston by U.S. Postal Inspectors and Special Agents of the Office of the Inspector General, Investigations, U.S. Department of Agriculture. Assistance was also provided by officials of the Small Business Administration.

Assistant United States Attorney Earl Shamwell Jr., said this prosecution was being directed by the Economic Crime Enforcement Unit of the U.S. Attorney's Office. The unit, established in May, 1980, was designed to prevent, detect, investigate, and prosecute "white collar" crimes.

Second Job Income Taxable

AUSTIN — Income earned while "moonlighting" is taxable and must be reported on the tax return, whether received in a regular payroll check or in cash, Internal Revenue Service officials say.

Many Americans find it necessary to work at more than one job, or "moonlighting," to supplement their incomes.

If a second employer does not furnish a W-2 form, "Wage and Tax Statement," to the employee, or if the earnings have been in cash, the income must still be reported as, "Wages, salaries, tips, etc." on Line 8 of the 1040 Form or on Line 7 of the 1040A Form, the IRS says.

Taxpayers receiving income from a second job and itemizing deductions on the 1040 Form may take a Miscellaneous Deduction to claim certain expenses incurred in producing the income or use Schedule C if self-employed.

Such expenses could include special uniforms or protective clothing.

Taxpayers who need further information on taxable income should order the free IRS Publication 525, "Taxable or Nontaxable," by using the order blank in the tax package or call the IRS Forms/Tax Information number listed in the telephone directory.

Sheep and shepherds are mentioned more than two hundred times in the Bible. Economically, that reflects the importance of sheep raising as a means of livelihood in Bible times. Religiously, it suggests that men saw in the pastoral scene vivid implications of religious experience.

Probably the best known passage in the Old Testament is the Twenty-third Psalm. Among the most beloved parables of Jesus in the New Testament are the Good Shepherd and the Lost Sheep. In these and many other verses of scripture the shepherd and his sheep are seen as symbols of God and man. Particularly they emphasize God's faithfulness to us and our dependence on God.

Sheep raising is not the heart of our economy today. But discovering our spiritual needs and realizing God's readiness to fulfill them — that is the religious quest to which the Bible continues to call men.

"DON'T ROCK THE BOAT"

Scene: The Sea of Galilee. A setting that represented for some of the disciples a means of security and livelihood. But on a certain evening that sea was to demonstrate their undoing. For it was going to let them perceive that their situation was out of control and would surely be lost.

The artist Rembrandt portrays this scene in his painting named "Calming of the Sea". He shows the disciples with different expressions: one clutching the mast, another leaning over the side (seasick), but then showing Jesus secure and asleep with a calm radiance. (Showing in a dramatic way that Jesus knew something that the disciples did not know).

These disciples were the ones who had lost complete confidence in everything that they knew as experienced fishermen. Then Jesus calmed the sea. Showing us the key to our relationship with Him. That we are to lose confidence in our own strength and come to rely totally on Him.

But, looking at this scene, we seem to hear the disciples saying, "Teacher, don't you care?" Just like us as human beings isn't it? When something goes wrong we really don't want to look at ourselves — we want to blame someone else.

Or how many times have storms come into our life over things very familiar and what we thought we could handle and we shout out, "Don't rock the boat!" We don't like things to disturb our lives and when they do someone has got to be blamed. Especially when the master is asleep.

And Jesus commanded the winds and waves to cease. "Have you no faith? he said."

Jesus rocked their boat that day. He showed that he cared for them, but he also wanted them to grow in their relationship with Him, moving them from trust in themselves to trust in Him. He awakens us as He did the disciples to the idea that when the old and familiar don't work out the way we had planned, we can discover a whole new way of approaching them. That is the way of Jesus isn't it? Moving us to the newness of life with Him.

So the disciples followed, learned, grew and gained through Him that day. Jesus showed them He had power to calm the storms of life and bring a newness that they had not seen before. And He was preparing them when He rocked their boats again on His way to the cross — to death; then resurrection — bringing a newness to their lives again.

He does know something that we sometimes don't, doesn't He? But as we trust in Him He shows that He can calm the sea.

Nursing Home News

The Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center was a very busy place last week.

Our one-to-one volunteers, families and friends were out in numbers to bring cheer to all of us.

Valentine week I forgot to mention the very nice lap robes which members of the Mobile Inn Trailer Park Friendship Club made and brought over to our residents and the clothing which some of them brought to us. We appreciate these people very much.

Monday afternoon was "Blue Grass Music Time" with John Blair, Altie Lee Albers, Bill Cooper and George and Fannie Langley playing for us. We also wish to thank the members of the Alpha Delta Mu of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority of Portland for the nice Valentines which they sent each of our people.

Tuesday afternoon was Bible Study with Bro. Gary Bennett, minister of the Church of Christ of Aransas Pass, leading the study. Annie Stacey and Ada Griffin, two very faithful volunteers, were out Tuesday afternoon to bring candy canes and orange slices to our residents as they visited.

Also the Presbyterian Ladies who come each month for their one-to-one visitation with our residents were here Tuesday afternoon. They brought the new name plates which they make for our residents. Some of these ladies brought "Guidepost" magazines for us also. Delma Rodgers was out to visit and bring cheer to so many of our shut-in residents.

Thursday afternoon, members and friends of the Ingleside Chapter 1037 Order of Eastern Star were over to play bingo with our residents. Helping out with bingo and doing some visiting was Mary Portenier, another very good volunteer.

Friday morning was Paint Class time with Frankie Edwards, Mary Gunn and our dear friend Lyla Olive. Glad to see Lyla up and out once more.

Friday afternoon was "Old Fashioned Sing-Along" with the Rockport AARP group doing the honors.

Also Paul Carlson came along with them and sang several very pretty numbers for us.

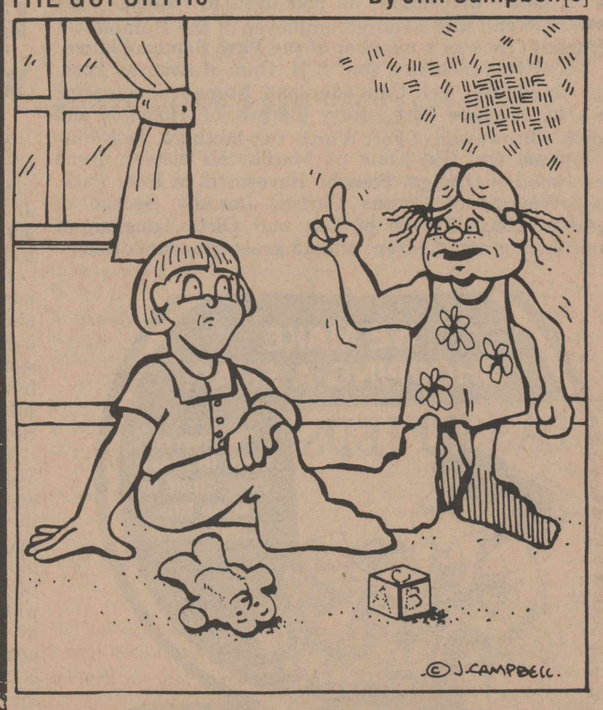

Saturday morning, Father James Hamilton was out to give Holy Communion to our Catholic residents.

Saturday afternoon the young people from the Primera Iglesia Bautista of Aransas Pass along with their sponsors were out for their weekly program.

Sunday morning worship services were led by Rev. Al Bankert and Sunday afternoon the pastor, members and friends of First Christian Church of Ingleside were over for their monthly "Sing In."

Each morning we had our Reality Orientation and Exercises classes and every morning and afternoon we had our social and coffee hour.

Committee Lauds Valentine Volunteers

The volunteer workers who helped make the 1981 Valentine Day benefit dance a success were recognized at last Friday's, February 20, meeting of the Women's Committee, Aransas County Medical Services Inc.

The luncheon meeting that began at 11 a.m. at the Sandollar Restaurant was attended by some 91 members and guests.

One of the guests, Charlie McCann, won the door prize — a free body wrapping from "Waist Away."

Rhonda Liles, the wildlife control specialist with the Texas Rodent and Predatory Animal Control Service in Corpus Christi, was guest speaker at the meeting.

Recognized during the business portion of Friday's meeting for their services in the February 14 Valentine's Day Dance was Eileen Harrison, co-chairman of the affair, along with Joann Haskell, chairman; Thyra Russell who was in charge of decorations; and Lois Liner, a winter visitor, and Billie Franklin who were in charge of the food.

Billie and Thyra were also recognized for their service, along with Ginger Duckworth, Martha Lewis and Jane Morin, as bartenders during the dance, and Carolyn Behee was recognized for her efforts in securing deliveries.

Others given recognition included Karen Dempsey in charge of ticket sales, Vi Street for door prizes and publicity, Rip Harrison who did the posters for the dance, and Mary Casey who was in charge of table cloths, table settings and the seating arrangement.

Joann Haskell quipped, "Mary is now known as having given one of the largest dinner parties in Rockport."

Also recognized were Polly Rogers who was in charge of the center piece and the food table and Sarah Bates and Ann Callahan who, with their husbands, served as greeters.

Joann estimated that this year's dance netted about $2,729. This profit will go to the ambulance service.

It was also announced that the residents of Trailer Inn by the Bay, who held a Valentine Dance this year, donated their proceeds — $305 — to the ambulance service.

Mary Casey, giving the treasurer's report at Friday's meeting, said the Women's Committee projects for the past July through January period brought in some $20,469.79. This figure includes $5,705.06 in memorial donations and contributions and $3,183.79 from the sale of items produced in the Committee's own workshop in Encina Plaza.

The Christmas Bazaar brought in some $8,375.62.

CASTAWAYS DONATION

Ramona Lewis, Castaways Thrift Shop volunteer, presents Roy W. Olbrich, President of the Aransas County Division of the American Heart Association, a check from the Castaways. Mr. Olbrich, expressing his thanks on behalf of the A.H.A., stated that a county wide fund campaign is underway during February, which has been proclaimed Heart Month by Mayor Falk. Donations like this are made possible by the contribution of clothing, furniture, books, appliances and other items to the Castaways Shop, located at 1011 Concho. [Pilot Photo by Perry Carter]

Healthful Hints

Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition

Some people have a problem with the taste, but you'll get used to it if you give it a chance. Also, you can experiment a little with the way you mix it. If you're mixing it with milk (which will further increase your intake of protein and other beneficial nutrients), you might try adding papaya juice concentrate, frozen concentrated orange juice or ANY of your favorite juices in a concentrated form. You could also add honey or blackstrap molasses to give a sweet taste and use some vanilla extract (or other flavoring). Tossing different types of fruit into the blender with it can be helpful — banana, strawberries, peaches, etc.

One should remember that when they first begin to use brewer's yeast, they should start off gradually — ½ to 1 teaspoon daily; increasing the amount by ½ to 1 teaspoon daily until you reach the recommended two to four tablespoons. This is necessary because, if a person is deficient in the B vitamins, the high B content of yeast will cause bloating in the beginning.

Q. Could you please tell us how you use brewer's yeast in your daily diet and what amount you use? I've read in several places that one should use brewer's yeast, but nobody ever says HOW to use it.

A. Two to four heaping tablespoons of brewer's yeast daily is usually the amount that's recommended by leading nutritionists. It can be used in cooking — mixed with such foods as home-baked bread, pancakes, scrambled eggs, meatloaf and many others. The USUAL method of using yeast, however, is to mix it with milk or juice in a blender (unless it is the less-concentrated "instant" yeast that will stir easily into liquid).

Q. What, if anything, do nutritionists say about aluminum cooking utensils?

A. Apparently small amounts of aluminum oxide dissolve into foods cooked in aluminum utensils. However, stainless steel utensils, when scoured even once with abrasive powder, steel wool or other scratch pads, allow small amounts of chromium, nickel, and other highly toxic metallic compounds to dissolve into every food cooked in them thereafter. Experts feel that these compounds are considerably MORE toxic than aluminum. Ingested aluminum combines with phosphorus, a nutrient extremely abundant in our American diet; the resulting aluminum phosphate is excreted from the body.

Until next week, Folks, stay happy and healthy! It's a beautiful world!

Comptons Get Big Surprise For Fifieth

Dorothy and Wilbur Compton's fiftieth wedding anniversary is on April 14, which is one of the reasons they were surprised by the "celebration" their neighbors at Trav-Trail-R-Inn held for them last Saturday evening, February 21.

But the big reason for their surprise was the fact that this was no ordinary anniversary party — a "mock wedding" was staged for the flabbergasted couple, complete with a 260-pound bride (Bill Freitag), a diminutive and quite reluctant groom (Ellery Knotts), a shotgun-toting father of the bride (Stan Parker), a rejected suitor (John McGregor) and an additional cast of ushers, bridesmaids (all male), and assorted other wildly costumed participants.

The "bride," Rosebud Delicatessen, and "groom," Archibald Hercules Headlight, were united in a ceremony attended by 104 guests. Refreshments were served after the "wedding."

The celebration was held early since most of the park's residents will be going back to their homes in April, including the Comptons, who have been wintering here for the past nine years from Coldwater, Michigan.

"We've pulled stuff like this on everyone else, but this is a complete surprise," said Wilbur Compton after the ceremony. "This is the greatest group of crazies in the world!"

And Rodney, who's in pre-kindergarten at Rockport Elementary, is four years old on Sunday, March 1.

VOE CONTEST WINNERS

Vocational Office Education students Connie Flores, left, and Renee Wagoner, right, did quite well in last week's Office Education Association Youth Leadership Conference competions held in Victoria. Renee placed sixth in the Job Interview II category. Connie placed second in the Accounting and Related I contest and will go on to the state level in April. [Pilot Photo by Becky Werhan]

Pirates Post 18th Win; Robstown

"It was no masterpiece," said Coach Bobby Flanagan following his Pirates 63-53 win over the Cottonpickers of Robstown Tuesday night in Robstown.

Flanagan, whose team recorded its 18th win of the season, had reference to the way the Pirates played against the Pickers. "We were sloppy and had so many turnovers. A better ball team might have blown us out of the gym," Flanagan said.

The game was in the Pirates' hands from the beginning. Early on, the Pirates established a lead and held it. After a period, the team led 12-8, mainly on the strength of James Walls hitting three baskets.

Then came the second period where the Pirates had the opportunity to blow the Pickers out of the gym from the free throw line, but they missed eight free throws some of which would have led to second shots if the first shot had been hit. Even with the bad shooting, the Pirates did extend the lead of 26 20, but the last two points came on a 2/3 court desperation shot by Dennis Hull.

The Pickers played the Pirates even-up in the third period, both teams scoring 16 points. The inside men for the Pirates, Micheal Simmons and Marty Davenport, accounted for ten of those points in the eight minute stretch.

The big quarter for the Pirates was the final stanza, when they poured 25 points through the nets. Donnie Frels, whose scoring hand had been silenced for most of the game, hit nine points in the runaway.

Simmons was the eventual scoring leader with 19 points, followed by Frels and Dennis Hull with 11 points each.

Rockport's JV posted its 15th win of the year, but it took the team an overtime to eventually beat Robstown 48-44. The win was particularly sweet because it was the Cottonpickers that broke the Pirates' seven game win streak in the first round of play.

Aaron Commander led the way for the Pirates with 15 points, including 3 big points in the overtime period. David Ramirez supported with 13 points, and Tim Redden added 10 points.

The Pirate Freshmen rolled over Robstown 61-30. Bobby Dingenary pumped in 10 of his 16 points in the first period to pace the Pirates and help them get a big advantage of 33-12 by halftime. Dingenary was the only Pirate hitting for double figures, but eight other Pirates hit for at least 4 points each.

State Records Likely At Bahia

New State and track records appear near certain for both the Texas Futurity and South Texas Derby at Goliad's La Bahia Downs. Through three payments the Futurity total gross is $165,050 while the Derby gross is $42,300 with a final fee due March 1 and with late entries with penalties up until March 1 both Stakes should surpass then estimated purses of $225,000 and $60,000 respectively." This according to track manager Leonard Von Dohlen III. "The late penalty thru March 1 is only $500 according to Von Dohlen, and we expect twenty-five to forty late entries at this level alone."

This is La Bahia Downs twentieth anniversary. The meet is scheduled for March 21-22, April 4-5. Post Time each day is 12 noon. Many of the nations leading trainers will bring their stables to the Goliad meet. Among those trainers with a large number of stake entries are: Bobby Hoff, Paul Pruitt, H.C. Werner, Jack Dube, James Bertrand, Johnnie Goodman, Matt Baker, Dale Baker and James Gerhards. A large delegation of out of state trainers are also bringing their strings for the meet.

The Feature schedule is very full for the sprint meet. Feature races include: The Anticipation Feature; Great Texas Championship Series; Goliad Graded Championship Series; Yellow Rose of Texas Dash; Mission City Dash; Zargoza Sprint and La Bahia State Bred Feature. All these features are still open to entries.

Ground Crews are busy sprucing up the La Bahia Downs Facilities. Buildings and grandstands are being repainted, stalls remodeled and the track brought to an excellent condition.

Horsemen are urged to make their stall request immediately as stalls will be at a premium. With the largest number of horses in the tracks twentieth year history expected stalls must be reserved and confirmed before shipping.

County Agent News

Those attractive and interesting seed catalogs and colorful seed packets found on store shelves and seed racks are great temptations to many vegetable gardeners in Texas, but considerable thought should be put into selecting varieties and garden seed.

As most "green thumb" gardeners know, the success or failure of a home vegetable garden often depends on the variety selected. Vegetable varieties may differ greatly in time of maturity, quality, disease resistance and yield.

A lot of useful information is found in seed catalogs and, oftentimes, on seed packets. However, gardeners should realize that most of these seed catalogs and packets are intended for national distribution and therefore the information may or may not be appropriate for the Texas gardener. Gardeners should be encouraged to pay close attention to the information, but also rely upon variety advice from local successful gardeners, reputable garden centers and nurseries, and the local County Extension Agent's office.

There are some items which gardeners should consider when selecting any type of vegetable variety. Choose those that have built-in resistance to diseases. This feature which has been added to many popular vegetable varieties by plant breeders with seed companies as well as land grant universities can prevent many problems and assure a better crop. It just makes good sense to utilize varieties which are resistant to many of the common problems that plague Texas gardens each and every year.

When selecting transplants, remember the biggest plant in the store is not always the best buy. Ideally, transplants of tomatoes, peppers, and eggplants should be about as tall as they are wide. They should be dark green in color, vigorous looking and without spots, lesions or damage to the foliage.

When purchasing seed, purchase only the amount you expect to use this current year. This will save you money and fresh seed can be purchased next year. The amount of seed needed can be determined by measuring the length of row to be planted of each vegetable. Be sure to purchase and then plant enough seed to insure a good stand. If you have a large garden or plan to make a considerable sized planting of any one particular vegetable, the larger and more economical packages can be purchased. Many garden centers, nurseries and feed stores carry bulk vegetable seed which generally is more economical.

Remember, thought and care should be taken in choosing varieties for your garden along with seed and transplants. Wise decisions and smart purchases will generally produce a better garden and save time and work later on in the season.

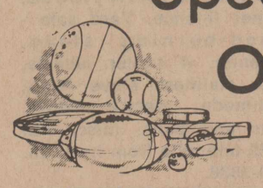

Tennis Team Takes Honors

Rockport-Fulton's Tennis Team met stiff competition at Beeville last weekend, and came home with 4th place honors.

Highlight for the Pirate team was the singles win by Tony Aleman in the Varsity Division. For the third tournament in succession, the team of Terri Price and Holly Garrison placed second, this time losing to state ranked Flour Bluff's doubles team.

Alice was the overall winner of the tournament. There were 20 teams playing.

Speaking Of Sports

LOS ANGELES — Amy Alcott can hardly wait to get her fellow golf pros on the year-old layout at Industry Hills.

It's a scenic wonder, but it's a scheming, vicious endorsement for the old saying, "beauty is only fairway deep."

And that's exactly what the seventh-year pro from Santa Monica likes. She thrives on adversity.

She calls Industry Hills "a thinking men's and women's course."

It's a course that resembles a roller coaster ride, a course with double bogeys lurking at every turn, a course that will require a gallery to take a bus ride on occasion to get from hole-to-hole due to the mountainous terrain.

"It's a showplace for golf," Amy says.

Amy is a competitor who says that at age 24, she has learned how to compete.

Captain Brownie

Aboard The 'Whooping Crane'

Captain Brownie Promises Satisfaction

By Pat Blair

It's a guaranteed trip — if you don't see any whooping cranes, you get the price of your ticket refunded.

That's the promise of Captain "Brownie" Brown, skipper of the "Whooping Crane" excursion boat that — four days every week from October through early April (weather permitting) — carries a load of passengers along the Intracoastal Canal to see the famous birds for which it is named.

The boat makes a 32-mile round trip, starting from its "home port," the Seagun Resort Motel in Lamar and heading up along the Blackjack Peninsula — better known as the Aransas Wildlife Refuge.

Many of those on board the 65-foot vessel come just to see the whooping cranes, but Captain Brownie points out numbers of other bird species along the way, from the gulls who follow the boat in hopes of getting popcorn handouts from the passengers to the various species of herons, grebes and ducks.

Some lucky excursionists even get a glimpse of the rare brown pelicans—like those on this past Wednesday's trip who were treated to the sight of a flock of four of five of the big birds flying over.

Despite the overcast skies and threatened rain — that became actual — on Wednesday, Captain Brownie carried a full load, 150 passengers, on the trip.

He tries not to cancel trips although if the weather is really bad, he won't take the "Whooping Crane" out. This year, he said, he's missed more days due to bad weather than in prior seasons.

"Mondays and Tuesdays will be clear," he said, "then the bad weather sets in on Wednesdays and lasts through the weekend." And its those weekend days — Wednesday then Friday, Saturday and Sunday — that the Captain makes his trips, starting at 1:30 p.m. sharp.

The season starts October 20, to coincide with the annual arrival of the whooping cranes, and continues through April 10 when the big birds return to their northern breeding grounds in Canada.

After April 10, Captain Brownie hauls the "Whooping Crane" out of the waer and gets her ready for the summer fishing season. He's available for fishing parties "til up in December or whenever the water starts getting cold."

Once the water gets too cold, the Captain firmly refuses to take any fishing parties until, in his opinion, the fishing is good again.

But it's the whooping crane excursions that have made Captain Brownie famous — and he almost gave those up at one time. That was back in the mid-60s when he first came to Lamar from Corpus Christi. He started operating the "Whooping Crane" in 1964 and for the first three years, he lost money.

Discouraged, he was ready to quit, "but quite a bunch got behind us. helped us stay in business," and after those first three years, Captain Brownie and the "Whooping Crane" were established. Even now, his passengers include many who made that first trip with him back in '64 — and who keep coming back year after year.

During the ride, Captain Brownie points out bird species and landmarks to his passengers and entertains them with patter that includes information, exhortations to buy from the "Whooping Crane's" snack bar and stories.

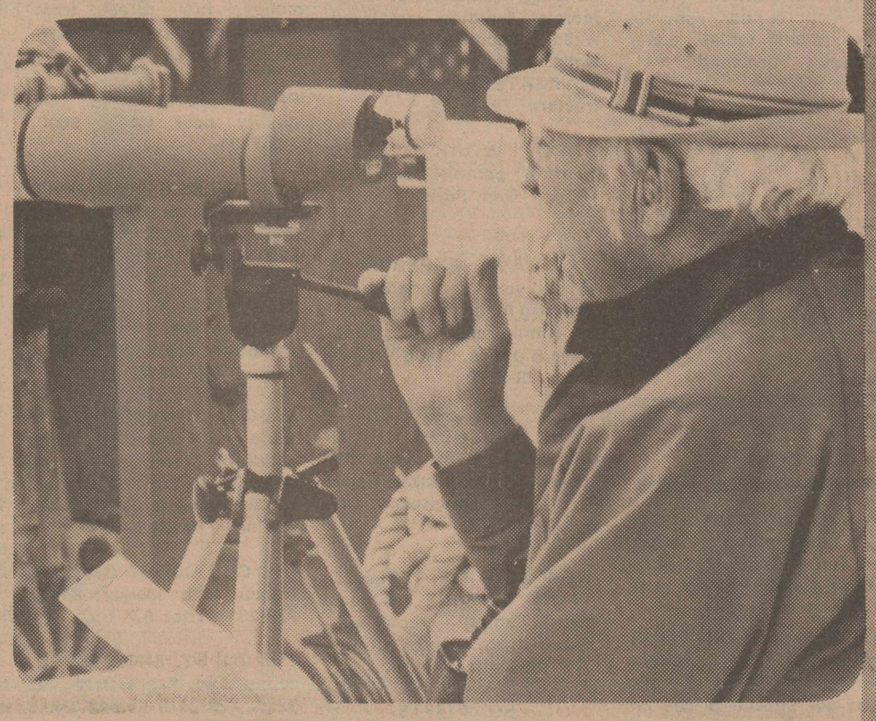

His companion on these trips is the boat's cat, "Hardhead," named for the catfish and a "crew member" for 15 years — since she was eight weeks old.

There's also a human helper along, sometimes a Winter Texan like George Rapson, an Iowan who has been assisting Captain Brownie on trips for about 10 to 12 years.

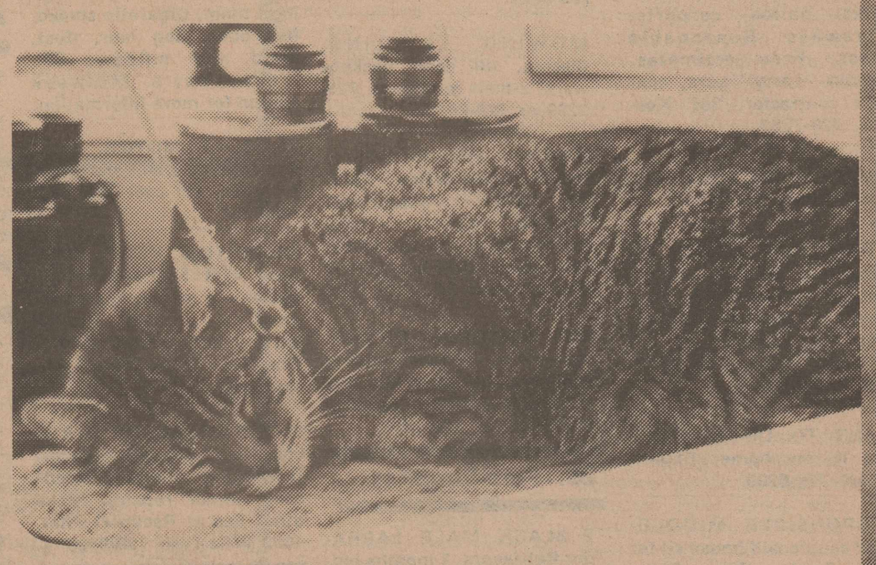

Captain Brownie's passengers come from just about everywhere not only inside but outside the U.S. Wednesday's excursion included at least one visitor from England, the Netherlands and a tour group of 11 from Scotland.

The one promise that Captain Brownie makes — and aims to keep — for all his tours are that his passengers will see whooping cranes. "I'll put you close enough to see their teeth," he pledges.

"I've shown more people whooping cranes," he said Wednesday, "than any other man in the world."

COLOR VISION PROBLEM

Dear Dr. Pettey: After reading your column on red contact lenses for color blindness, I finally had one fitted for my left eye. I am delighted, it helps in lots of ways. Thanks for the column.

It's always gratifying to know when one of our columns helps someone; that is always my hope.

I quickly say again, though, that the red contact lens may not help every color-blind patient. As a rule it is helpful only in those persons having difficulty with reds and greens. Little help can be expected when colo: deficiency is caused by some body chemistry imbalance or in certain eye diseases. In those cases, the causes must be removed before improvement in color recognition is achieved.

Only the color deficient case knows to what extent his disturbance causes restrictions in his life. You are one who knows, since you have now found a degree of relief. Chances are you now appreciate seeing traffic light colors more accurately, and being better able to tell the color of your new shirt, tie, and suit, that big juicy steak in the meat case, not to mention your wife's beautiful blue eyes!

Fulton Elementary's Winter Carnival A Big Success

Fulton Elementary held its first Annual Winter Carnival last Saturday night, February 21, and according to Carnival chairman Suzanne Pearson, the event was a big success.

The carnival proceeds cleared an estimated $400 but money was not the main goal of the carnival committee. They wanted a project that would get the elementary students and their parents and teachers working together in a unified effort and that was the real success Saturday night.

Said Pearson, "The kids had a ball. Parents, kids, teachers — everybody worked together real well."

Between 150 and 200 people of all ages came to the school Saturday night. The carnival-goers had a wide choice of activities available to them. Fire truck rides, a country store, bean bag toss, a jelly bean guess, face painting, a cake walk and much more.

Mrs. Nancy Lanfair won a plant on a macrame hanger and Jamie Ayala won a large Raggedy Ann doll in a drawing held at the close of the event.

Mrs. Pearson wished to extend special thanks all around: to Millie Schutz, cochairman, the Fulton Fire Department for the loan of the fire truck, and personnel, L.E. Casterline for ice, and Whataburger for much help with the refreshments.

Earned Income Credit Still Available

AUSTIN—The Earned Income Credit (EIC) is still available to taxpayers, Internal Revenue Service officials have announced.

The Earned Income Credit is a unique tax credit: it is refundable, which means it will be paid to the taxpayer even if it exceeds tax liability.

Generally, the law makes the credit available to married or widowed taxpayers with at least one dependent child and to heads of households who maintain a home for at least one unmarried child.

The base amount is 10 percent of earned income up to $5,000—for a maximum credit of $500. It phases out at $10,000, which means the closer earned or adjusted gross income ges to $10,000, the smaller the credit.

The credit is available in two ways. Qualifying persons may receive their EIC in the form of a tax refund after they file their federal income tax return, or, if they wish, may get it in advance in small payments each payday.

Taxpayers must still file a tax return to show that they are eligible for the credit.

To receive advanced payments, qualified persons must certify to their employers that they are eligible by filing Form W-5, "Earned Income Credit Advance Payment Certificate."

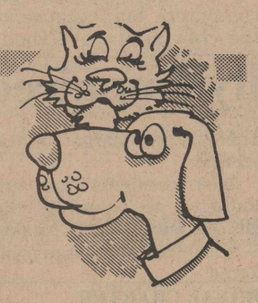

Interested individuals can get more information on the Earned Income Credit and Advance Payments from the local IRS office or from Aransas County's Tax Aid Service at the public library.

Pet Talks

By Dr. Hap Lutz

Dr. Lutz is a graduate of Baltimore City College and Texas A&M University. He specializes in small and exotic animal practice. He was an instructor of small animal diseases and surgery in the Veterinary School at Texas A&M and was in private practice in Waco for 25 years.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dear Dr. Lutz,

I just purchase a Doberman Pincher puppy. I want to make a watch dog out of him — only.

Different people have advised different things to make him mean. A member of my church states that feeding a dog nothing but raw meat will make a mean dog.

A neighbor says never to allow anyone to pet or touch my dog. A friend says he heard you could starve a dog to the point he becomes mean.

Is there any truth to these stories? —Wilbur

Dear Wilbur,

None of the above suggestions will produce a watch dog. They are only "old wives tales." Dogs must be trained to be a watch dog. Your local library has several books on training of guard dogs.

Let's Observe Public School Week

MORE 'SHORT PEOPLE'. After last week's column on short people, I've discovered there's quite a lot of us "shorties" out there — and one, Mrs. O.H. Brueggeman, sent the following letter.

(I hope you don't mind, Mrs. Brueggeman, but the dinner party idea is too good not to share.)

"Dear Ms. Blair,

"We enjoyed your essay on 'short people.' Our two daughters, our daughter-in-law and I are all five feet two inches tall.

"When our daughter was in college, she hosted a 'short people' dinner, at which only people five three and under were invited. The menu was short ribs, short cake and shrimp.

"The dinner was a big success, but tall friends crashed it, claiming discrimination.

"Sincerely,

Jerry Brueggeman."

PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK BEGINS, MARCH 2. Parents, guardians and friends of students in the Aransas County School District are being urged to visit the schools, take advantage of this opportunity to view the educational process.

The educational system has changed quite a bit since 1850 when Mrs. Jane O'Connor — a kinswoman of Captain James W. Byrne, founder of Lamar — opened the doors of Lamar Academy to children of the area.

So popular was Mrs. O'Connor's school that families living away from Lamar actually moved to that community and lived there while their children completed education.

Rockport's first school was established in 1881, a private institution conducted by Professor R.T. Barton and Miss Allie Nold. Miss Nold was later principal of the first public school, established about 1884 in a two-story frame building — formerly a military academy — approximately where the city water tower is now.

In 1886, Fulton's first one-room school house was established, then came the Sparks Colony school. By 1893, there were seven Common School Districts in existence in Aransas County — Rockport, Fulton, Lamar, Sparks Colony, Faulkner, Rincon and Estes.

In June, 1949, these districts voted to consolidate, becoming the Aransas County Independent School District.

The first graduating class of the Rockport High School received diplomas on May 17, 1907. Four girls and two boys were so honored in commencement exercises at the Bailey Pavilion: Lee McCaughan, Irene Norveil, Bertha Oertling, Nellie Clendening, Eugene Coghill and Tom Coghill.

By way of contrast, 118 RFHS seniors received their diplomas in commencement exercises last May.

It isn't just in the numbers of students that schools have changed, though. Courses change, teaching methods change, and the schools are proud of their achievements and want people in the community to know what they're doing.

In particular, they want the parents of their students to know what's happening in classrooms today.

Fulton Elementary is the only school in the district that has announced plans for a formal open house — starting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 5 — but schools will welcome visits from interested families and friends throughout the week. At RFHS, members of the Future Teachers of America will serve as official greeters.

It's an opportunity to find out how your school tax dollars are being spent.

More important, it's a chance to see how today's children are being prepared for their roles as tomorrow's adults.

March 5-May 10 Is Season For Planting Cotton

AUSTIN — Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reminds South Texas cotton farmers that planting dates for the 1981 cotton crop are March 5 through May 10.

The 23 county area in South Texas includes Aransas.

"If our current favorable weather conditions continue through next month," said Brown, "cotton farmers in the area should be able to get an early start on this year's planting."

According to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, statewide Upland cotton planting intentions dropped two percent — from 7.85 million acres in 1980 to 7.7 million.

The final estimates for Upland cotton production in 1980 totaled 3.28 million bales and is valued at $1.1 billion, Brown said. The 41 percent drop from last year's 5.5 million bales is largely attributed to last summer's punishing heatwave.

Cotton planting and plow-up deadlines are set around the state as part of the Pink Bollworm control program administered by the Texas Department of Agriculture.

PHILIPPE ENJOYS VIEW AT TURNING BASIN

Visitor From Switzerland Finds 'Lot To See And Do'

By Pat Blair

"There's a lot to see and do in the U.S.," Philippe Troesch observed during an interview recently. "Especially here."

Philippe has been seeing and doing a lot lately — sightseeing around Rockport and Fulton, going to the beach . . . He was "fascinated by the beach."

But then you don't see many beaches in Switzerland — which is Philippe's native country.

Philippe is in the United States on a one-year work permit, having taken a job with the Western Geophysical Company.

Western Geophysical is a division of the Litton Company. Back home in Geneva, Philippe's father is employed by another division of Litton — which was one factor in his choice of jobs.

At the age of 21, Philippe says, "I was in business school in Switzerland, was in the army nine months (total) and now I'm doing something completely different."

What he's doing with Western Geophysical is working on a boat that's conducting a seismic survey in the Gulf. Philippe signed on to operate the computers but because of the crew size, "everybody does a little bit of everything." He also works on the compressors.

Philippe arrived in Houston — headquarters of Western Geophysical Company — on January 3.

"Houston is just incredible when you come from Switzerland," he said. "In Switzerland, the biggest city is 450,000 people. Geneva is second or third largest has only 250,000 people."

He didn't really see a lot of Houston, though. On January 5, he went to work for Western Geophysical and immediately joined the crew of the survey boat. He was out on the Gulf until February 22 when he was given a 10-day "holiday."

"You work 20 days then get 10 days (holiday)," Philippe explained.

A friend, Jeff Paul — son of Betty Paul — is responsible for his being here in Rockport. Jeff wanted him to see a bit of the United States, and after they left Rockport — this past Friday — they headed for New Orleans and the Mardi Gras by way of Houston.

In Houston, Jeff plans to take Philippe to the livestock show and rodeo.

Although this is his first trip to the States, Philippe has traveled extensively throughout most of Europe and has been to Morocco. He speaks three languages — French which is his "mother-language," English and German.

Switzerland, he added, has four official languages — French, German, Italian and Romanish which is "a very old language derived from Latin" and spoken by only a few people among the Swiss.

As for his future plans, Philippe will finish out his year here with Western Geophysical (and may take advantage of the option to extend his work permit by another six months), then head home, to Switzerland.

Would he ever consider returning to this country to live? "It's too early to ask," he said. "And no matter were I live, I am Swiss. I will never forget that."

RRC Continues Top Crude Allowable Through March

AUSTIN — The Railroad Commission has set the Texas oil production rate for March, 1981, at the market demand factor of 100 percent for the 49th month in a row and the 105th time since the Commission first went to the ceiling level in April, 1972.

Chairman Jim Nugent and commissioners Mack Wallace and Buddy Temple directed the continuance of the maximum statewide allowable after receiving and reviewing purchaser nominations for Texas oil in March totaling 2,581,679 barrels per day — an increase of 14,092 barrels daily when compared with February, 1981, buyer requests.

March, 1980, nominations totaled 2,631,965 barrels daily.

Next month's permissible rate of output is calculated to average 3,463,345 b/d with actual production estimated at 2.5 million b/d.

The maximum allowable applies to all but 10 fields in Texas that are assigned lower legal rates of flow for conservation purposes. Actual production in March, 1980, was 2,592,718 barrels daily.

Nugent reported that March, 1981, nominations for the purchase of Texas gas totaled 24,064,001 Mcf/d (thousand cubic feet per day). Gas nominations for February amounted to 24,313,657 Mcf/d. March, 1980, gas nominations totaled 25,737,112 Mcf/d.

Nugent, taking note that several purchasers had increased or decreased their February and March nominations, inquired about the results and the buyers' expectations. He was advised the changes had or would bring the purchasing companies' nominations in line with actual lease receipts.

The next statewide oil and gas hearing is set for Thursday, March 19, at 9 a.m. in Houston at the Sheraton-Houston Hotel.

For years this session has been described as "the state - of - the - industry" hearing since a large number of top petroleum industry executives appear to brief the three Commissioners and the Oil and Gas Division on the conditions and outlook in domestic and global oil and gas operations.

The Houston session is open to the public.

Chairman Nugent reported that crude oil and petroleum products imported into the U.S averaged 7,056,000 barrels daily for the four weeks ending February 6, down some 1.4 million barrels from the same period a year earlier.

Secondhand Smoke Hurts The Lungs

AUSTIN — Research with both healthy adults and children show that the lung fuction of nonsmokers is affected by others' tobacco smoke.

Two carefully controlled major studies — one on children whose parents smoked at home, the other on nonsmokers exposed to smokers at work — have demonstrated that the small airways in the lungs of nonsmokers are affected adversely by tobacco smoke in the environment.

According to the American Lung Association of Texas it is possible, though not proven, that the changes which occur in nonsmokers exposed to a smoky environment for long periods may improve when the smoke is removed.

However, it is also possible that the changes may lead to further lung disease. More research is required. What is clear is that lungs do not function normally when forced to breathe smoky air.

During the last few years, says the Lung Association, ways have been pinpointed to determine changes in the small airways. What is significant is the rate at which the person forcibly exhales.

Inhaling air is not usually a problem, not even for those with advanced lung disease. But to exhale efficiently, the lungs must be healthy and elastic.

After the person forcibly inhales a deep breath, an instrument called a spirometer measures exactly how fast and how much air is forcibly expelled.

Disturbances in the smallest airways are measured at precise points during the exhalation — during the middle half, for example, and at one later point in the exhalation.

To find out more about protecting your lungs against cigarette smoke, contact the American Lung Association of Texas, the Christmas Seal People. Write ALAT, 7701 North Lamar, Suite 104, Austin, Texas 78752.

RRC's Wallace Named Co-Chairman

AUSTIN—Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace has been appointed co-chairman of the Legal Committee of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission for 1981, New Mexico Governor and IOCC Chairman Bruce King has announced.

The IOCC was formed in 1935 to promote conservation of oil and gas and to prevent their physical waste. It has worked for laws, regulations and advanced technology to conserve oil and gas.

Today the IOCC is comprised of 30 oil and gas producing states and six associate states.

Wallace, the senior member of Texas' energy and transportation regulatory agency, served the IOCC in the same position in 1980.

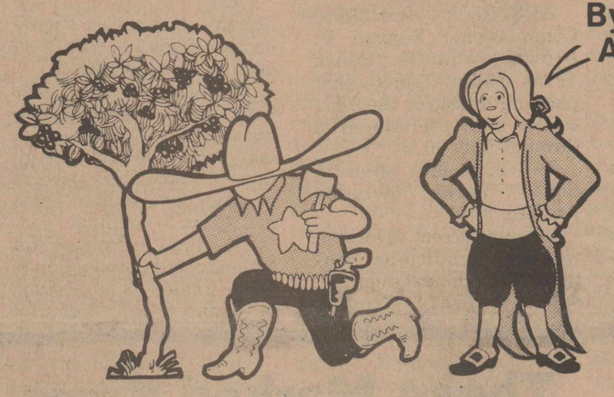

The IOCC holds a midyear and annual meeting each year to give the states an opportunity to meet and discuss the latest developments in the energy field.

Industry and government officials from both the state and federal levels attend the meetings, which feature reports on current problems affecting the nation's energy scene.
