Former first lady partially paralyzed

Pat Nixon hospitalized

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Doctors kept an overnight vigil on former first lady Pat Nixon, partially paralyzed on her left side from a stroke and in "serious but stable condition."

Mrs. Nixon was reported resting comfortably after visits with her two daughters Thursday night, but neurologist Dr. John Mosier said she is far from being out of danger.

"If the stroke doesn't get any worse, she's not going to die. If it gets worse, well, people do die from strokes," Mosier said at a news briefing called after the 64-year-old wife of former President Richard M. Nixon was admitted to Memorial Hospital Medical Center.

The stroke caused "moderate paralysis" of Mrs. Nixon's left leg, arm and left side of her face, which in turn caused a "slight slurring" of speech, Mosier said.

"I think she will walk," he said, but added, "She may not walk normally." Pressures in her life "certainly could have been a contributing factor" toward her illness, Mosier added.

Doctors said Mrs. Nixon had apparently suffered a right cerebral infarct, or a blood clot on the right side of the brain. A stroke can be caused by a clot or hemorrhage and can cause paralysis and speech slurring, or in severe cases, death.

Secret Service agents called an ambulance for Mrs. Nixon, and she was accompanied during the 30-mile trip from the former Western White House by her husband and younger daughter, Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

Nixon slipped out of the hospital only an hour after her arrival and apparently returned to San Clemente.

The couple's other daughter, Tricia Cox, flew in from New York and she and Mrs. Eisenhower visited with their mother until about 9:15 p.m. before joining their father at San Clemente.

President Ford and his Republican challenger, Ronald Reagan, called Nixon at the hospital.

"It could be serious," a White House spokesman quoted Nixon as telling the President.

"They are very hopeful," Reagan quoted the former president as saying after Nixon was notified that her condition had stabilized.

"She had a stroke of maybe 35 to 50 per cent completeness," Mosier said Thursday. "We don't know if it will expand. At this point we don't know how permanent this may be." He said she was expected to remain hospitalized for at least 10 days.

Mrs. Nixon suffered the stroke Wednesday while reading, Mosier said. "She felt that she probably had a little stroke. She went up and went to bed. She didn't tell the other members of her family." But next morning the family "could tell when they saw her," and a doctor was summoned, he said.

An ambulance was called with instructions that there be no sirens.

Mrs. Nixon was being given no medication, hospital spokesmen said.

Wholesale prices rise, fears voiced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply higher prices for steel and gasoline pushed wholesale prices up four-tenths of a per cent in June, the government said today.

The increase compared with a rise of three-tenths of a per cent in May and was in line with relatively modest inflation rates so far this year at both the wholesale and retail level.

Farm and food price increases slowed last month but an acceleration in industrial prices, led by steel and gasoline, was largely responsible for the over-all wholesale price increase, the Labor Department said.

Fears of a new outburst of inflation were expressed by many economists after an eight-tenths of a per cent jump in wholesale prices in April, the biggest rise in six months. But the slowdown in May and June is expected to help dampen those fears.

The Ford administration forecast an inflation rate of about 6 per cent this year, high by historical standards but down from the 7 per cent rate in 1975 and far below the near record 12.2 per cent increase in 1974.

In June, the wholesale price index stood at 183.1, meaning it cost $183.10 to buy the same goods that sold for $100 in the 1967 base period.

The community barbecue will be held in the city park at 6:30 p.m. with awards to be presented.

Descendants of Joe Potton gather for ceremony here

By MARJ CARPENTER
A gathering that included many Big Spring natives and pioneers surrounded the descendants from the Joseph Potton family when the house was officially dedicated at 2nd and Gregg this morning. Shared memories were the order of the day as the group remained to visit following the ceremonies.

The home is one of 315 locations in the entire state of Texas that has been designated as a historical place by the National Registry.

It also was marked with a state historical survey marker. The 45-star flag, which was identical to the flag which flew over the United States at the time the house was built in 1901, was removed from the marker by Mrs. Everett Lomax, Mrs. Loy Acuff and Mrs. Merton J. Oates, all descendants of the original family.

R. H. Weaver, local attorney and longtime close friend of the family, acted as master of ceremonies and gave a complete list of the descendants. Of the three Potton children, Mary who married Henry Hayden had three children, Mrs. Lomax, Mrs. Acuff and Joseph Hayden. Two of them, along with two grandchildren were present.

The middle Potton child was Lillie Mae Wight, who died in 1907. Her daughter is Mrs. Oates, who now lives in Floresville and was present for the ceremonies.

The third Potton child, William Ball Potton had a daughter, Willie Belle Wingfield and her daughter, Sharon Renee Grewell has a five-year-old child, who is the only great grandchild.

Weaver also recognized many Big Spring pioneers present for the event including John Schwarzenbach, who had seen the house under construction when he was a child. He recognized Bill Dawes, a cousin of the Pottons.

Other oldtimers recognized were Mrs. Ruth Hardy, Mrs. Mary Hatch, Mrs. Clara Johnson, Miss Nell Hatch, Miss Agnes Currie, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Porter, Mrs. Gen Schaefer, Miss Catherine Homan, Lee Castle, Willard Sullivan, Mrs. Odessa Stallings, Joe Pickle, Mrs. J. C. Hurt and John Masters.

Mrs. Wallace Hunter read the history of the home and pointed out the fine points of Victorian architecture that caused it to be approved by the National Registry.

She commended Mrs. Polly Mays for the work she did in obtaining the marker, and also commended the Dora Roberts Foundation and Texas Tourism Council for purchasing the site. Also thanked for their work on the project, were Mayor Wade Choate and Maurice Koger.

Trucks rumbling down the street pointed out the fact that the neighborhood had changed since the construction of the home, but the faces of the crowd mirrored the memories of the early days there.

A tour of the facilities, which are to be completely restored, was held following the dedication. The Rev. Harland Birdwell gave the benediction.

BALANCING ACT — If little Gino Lazano had this Mexican sombrero full of nickels, he'd not only have a weight but a balancing problem. He's taken a role in a Bicentennial program scheduled tonight at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church, which calls for him to anchor the hat.

Rosenbaum may end flights

Trans Regional forwarded second eviction threat

By JOHN EDWARDS
Trans Regional Airlines has received a second letter from Big Spring Aircraft Inc. threatening to evict the firm from the Howard County Airport terminal if higher hangar rental isn't paid.

IF EVICTED, Louis Rosenbaum, president of Trans Regional, "won't have any choice but to terminate the flights," Robert Miller, attorney for the airline, said today.

"He's not going to disobey a court order," Miller said. But Miller added, "He will not just give in and consent to the eviction. He owes it to the citizens of Howard County to have a terminal building."

Safety requirements of the Federal Aviation Administration and the comfort of passengers makes the terminal building essential to Big Spring's commuter airline, Miller said.

"He will not burden the citizens with waiting in hot cars, un-air-conditioned trailers or standing around in a hangar with no chairs or waiting area (or restrooms)," Miller said.

In a letter dated June 28, J. W. McClendon, president of Big Spring Aircraft, notified R. E. McClure, executive vice-president of Trans Regional, rent was being increased from $126.88 monthly to $300 monthly for use of part of the terminal. The increase was to be effective July 1.

A second requirement made by Big Spring Aircraft, which leases from the county and sub-leases to the airline, was that terminal space be used only for airline business.

In a suit filed in 118th District Court, Big Spring Aircraft, the only fixed-base operator at the airport now, alleged services other than scheduled airline flights were being provided. An answer to this suit has not been filed.

McCLURE SAID services which have been provided by Trans (See Airlines, P. 2-A, Col. 1)

HISTORICAL SITE — The Potton House has now been officially marked both by the state of Texas and the national archives as an example of Victorian architecture. Descendants of the Potton family, from left to right, Mrs. Everett Lomax and Mrs. Loy Acuff of Big Spring and Mrs. M. J. Oates of Floresville, unveiled the marker.

TRICIA NIXON HEADS FOR MOTHER'S BEDSIDE — Tricia Nixon Cox walks through Los Angeles International Airport Thursday night, headed for a Long Beach hospital where her mother Pat is hospitalized after sustaining a stroke. She told newsmen: "I'm going to stay until she's well."

Action/reaction: East of Pecos info

Q. Pecos has Continental Airline jet service with maximum runway length of 6,200 to 7,200 feet. Howard County could have the same by extending present runways and other facilities. If our illustrious commissioners court was interested in industrial development of Big Spring and Howard County, why don't they push for development funds by requesting grand-aid funds from the U.S. government?

A. Where do you get your information? Trans Regional Airlines, which serves Big Spring, and Continental Airlines show no scheduled airline service being provided by any firm to Pecos, Tex., the county seat of Reeves County, nor to Fort Stockton, Tex., the county seat of Pecos County.

Howard County Airport has two runways: one 5,500 feet long and one 3,500 feet long.

Should the federal government close Webb Air Force Base, the facility could be converted into a civilian airport. It has two runways, one extends 9,150 feet and the other, 8,800 feet.

We did not try to confirm the information you provided about the Pecos airport runways.

County Judge Bill Tune noted the Texas Aeronautics Commission (TAC) immediate and long-range plans for airports at Big Spring, Pecos and Fort Stockton put the facilities at these communities in the same category.

In addition to the Federal Aviation Administration, the TAC provides grants for airport improvements, Judge Tune added.

Offbeat: Paper monster

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Several witnesses went before the Commission on Federal Paperwork here Thursday and told horror stories about the proliferation of federal forms that cost an estimated $40 billion a year to fill out.

Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., one of the four congressional members on the commission, said there can be no cutback in the amount of federal paperwork until Congress forces the bureaus and agencies to justify their need for the information.

Timothy Dowd, executive director of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, noted the most recent copy of the Federal Register he received — the June 25 issue three weeks late — carried 384 pages of notices, proposed rules and regulations governing 158 separate items of government imposition into affairs of the citizenry.

Dowd said one gem of overstatement in the Register suggested firmly that the high cost of transporting gasoline to Alaska would undoubtedly cause prices there to be higher than elsewhere in the nation.

'Granddaddy of the American Legion'

George Dreher's work makes life sweet

By DANNY REAGAN

George A. Dreher, 2210 Runnels, has recently moved to Big Spring, and at the age of 83, he is continuing his work in all veteran organizations, striving to better the condition of mankind the best he can, and live his life to the fullest.

Dreher, who has one-third vision in one eye, and none in the other, and who speaks several languages, lives by an old German saying which can best be translated "Work makes life sweet, and laziness hardens the arteries."

He is called the "Granddaddy of the American Legion," and has been a member of the Legion longer than anyone, joining the Legion in New York City in 1919. At 83, he may not be the oldest legionnaire, but he can sure qualify for the most active.

Dreher belongs to every veteran organization there is, and his wife Elsie belongs to each of the auxiliary groups. He will be going to New York City in August as a delegate to the V.F.W. annual convention.

His story is an unusual and eventful one.

Dreher was born Sept. 13, 1894, on the southeast side of New York City to a German father and a French mother, and was only two months old when his mother died. He and his brother and sister were passed from aunt to aunt, until finally, at six years of age, he was placed in a "half-orphanage" for the care of children with one parent.

At eight years of age, Dreher left the orphanage to wait tables and wash dishes for his father in a Newark restaurant. He received two cents a week for seven 18-hour days, and half the weekly earnings were given to the Sunday school collection.

At the age of 12, George had saved up 10 cents and left home for a life of independence. Along the way he learned to play the mouth organ, and started a quick business career of playing the mouth organ in saloons, receiving a few coins in his hat placed in the middle of the floor.

From his saloon money, he established a newsstand, selling the New York Journal for a penny, (making a 1/2 cent profit). While working as a newsboy Dreher became friends with Eddie Cantor, who went to the same school.

George's teacher was Rabbi Samuel Stephen Wise, leader of the Zionist movement in the United States. For four years he attended the school, and later got a job as a blacksmith's helper in a brass foundry at $3 per week. This allowed him to attend high school at night.

After an eight-pound sledgehammer fight with a "hot-headed German" at the one of his friends that college buddy Lou Gehrig introduced him to. That's right... Babe Ruth. Dreher has met some interesting people in his 83 years, and has been to some fascinating places. His story accompanies this vintage photograph.

George from her friend and wrote him herself.

The two began corresponding, and after a few letters, Elsie invited George for a visit. So on his first furlough, he went to Muskogee and knocked on her door.

Elsie answered, and without a word of explanation, turned and ran into the bathroom to hide. Her sister and brother-in-law, with whom she lived, invited the embarrassed soldier in to breakfast, and eventually Elsie emerged from hiding.

The romance progressed with great caution for two days, when George, blurted out, "Will you marry me?" Elsie, nodded affirmatively.

The next day they were married, spent the day riding a street car and attending a movie, and at midnight, George caught the train back to camp.

After his discharge from the Army, he and Elsie went to Newark, to his father's restaurant, so that the new wife could meet her father-in-law.

The elder Dreher came out, shook hands with his son and wife, and without a word, returned to the kitchen. George never saw him again.

As Elsie held a position as dress designer for Bergdorf and Goodman, George enrolled in civil engineering at Columbia University, and studied for the ministry four nights a week at Trinity College of Theology. Seven years later, he had earned two degrees, and he and his wife returned to Oklahoma.

He worked as an assistant chief engineer until 1933, when he passed a civil service test and went to work with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. He worked for the civil service 37 1/2 years.

His work took him all over the United States, Panama and Greenland, but he was working in Newkirk, Okla., in 1970, at the time of his retirement.

He has written free-lance articles for newspapers and magazines throughout his life, and wrote a weekly column entitled "Gad-About Town" for the Newkirk Herald-Journal until his move to Big Spring last November.

Dreher devotes most of his time now to veteran's organizations, and at the present, he is writing a series of articles entitled "Veteran's Program Planning Council," work that is to fashion a program so that all the veteran's organizations can get together and plan holiday observances in a more organized manner.

Dreher has been a judge in Michigan, a justice of the peace in Kansas, has written for Collier's magazine, The Evening News in Newark, the Long Island Star, and has given over 500 books from his enormous library to veteran organizations and The Boy Scouts of America.

In Oklahoma, he and his wife and a man named Everett B. Hays, set up a non-profit Methodist Social Service Center where clothing and other items were taken and mended and sold to raise money for the American Legion Children's Home and Opportunity Center in Ponca City, and the Methodist Orphanage in Tahlequah, Okla. He took no compensation for his work.

George Dreher came to Big Spring relatively late in life, by most people's standards, but with the vigor of a man half his age, he is destined to play a major role in adding to the quality of life in the community.

Nixon is disbarred in New York State

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon has been disbarred from practicing law in New York State after a court proceeding which he chose to ignore.

A state appeals court found Thursday that Nixon had been guilty of the "most serious offense" of obstructing justice in the Watergate scandal, made more serious by the fact that he was not only a lawyer but also "the holder of the highest public office in this country."

"We find," the court said, "that the evidence adduced in the case at bar warrants the imposition of the most severe sanction available to the court."

The 4-to-1 decision of the same court that admitted Nixon to the New York bar in 1963 marked the first time any official body had found the former president guilty of Watergate connected charges.

The charges were originally brought by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, whose grievance committee began an investigation in September 1974, one month after Nixon resigned the presidency.

Nixon, who has said he never intends to practice law again, tried to resign from the New York bar as he did from the bar in California.

Takeover of bank tested by $1.4 million lawsuit

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A Dallas businessman has filed a $1.4 million lawsuit stemming from the takeover of Union State Bank of Carrizo Springs.

The suit in 131st District Court here by Charles Gary of Dallas names as defendants Eagle Pass businessman Enrique Salinas and Gross National Bank of San Antonio.

Salinas bought Union State in May and Gross National Bank, owned by South Texas rancher-banker Clinton Manges, financed part of the purchase, the suit says.

Gary alleges that Salinas ignored a lien Gary had on a majority of Union State's stock and used the shares as collateral for another loan. The suit also claims Salinas failed to pay $280,744 owed to Gary and associates for the stock.

Gary claims Gross National shouldn't have released the Union State stock to Salinas.

The suit is the latest challenge to Salinas' banking monopoly in Carrizo Springs. On Wednesday, Salinas' attorneys failed to save his Citizens State Bank of Carrizo Springs.

Citizens State was closed June 28 by the Texas Banking Commissioner. Union State is the town's only other bank.

Bank examiners found that Citizens State had written off some $2.8 million in bad loans and that the bank's books were $515,000 out of balance.

Recent examinations, however, have shown Union

State to be in good financial condition.

State Banking Commissioner Robert E. Stewart took possession of Citizen State's assets and turned them over to the federal deposit insurance corp. (FDIC).

By Thursday morning, FDIC officials were paying Citizens State depositors up to the $40,000 per individual account limit. An FDIC spokesman said 1,405 bank customers picked up $3,049,656 in checks on Thursday.

Gary's suit arises from a complex sequence of transactions in which Salinas arranged to purchase controlling stock in Union State from Gary and nine other businessmen.

Airlines eviction set

Regional are within the range of customary services performed by airlines.

In a letter dated July 2, McClendon wrote Rosenbaum, El Paso, of the alleged breach of the terminal "rental agreement."

"You are also advised that in the event of your failure to vacate the premises as above provided, a forcible detainer suit will be timely filed... and a judgement may be entered for the rents due, attorneys fees and costs of suit."

Monday, County Commissioners Court will hear from Clyde McMahon Sr. of the Chamber of Commerce transportation committee about the rent controversy.

"I EXPECT TO BE available at the commission meeting on Monday in the event the commission is interested in hearing our comments," Guilford L. Jones, an attorney and officer with Big Spring Aircraft, said.

Consideration of a contract with Rosenbaum for a fixed-base operator's lease is also on the agenda.

In other business, the court will: Discuss delinquent tax collections and the proposed budget for the tax appraisal office with Zarah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector.

Confer with a representative of Brown, Bancroft and (Robert) Miller about the law firm's work as county delinquent tax attorneys.

Set the salary for Jeanette Nichols, secretary for the adult probation office.

Hold a work session on budget proposals for the fiscal year starting

Oct. 1. Discussing paying some expenses of Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena Jr. attending a week-long judicial training school at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo.

Consider paying expenses for Bruce Griffith, county extension agent, at an August meeting in Richmond, Va.

Consider entertaining bids for or purchasing a plat cabinet for the county clerk's office, equipment for sheriff's office vehicles, a typewriter for the adult probation office and filing cabinet for the county auditor's office.

Open bids on an ice-making machine for the road department.

And confer with County Engineer Neel Barnaby and review bills and correspondence.

Pay raise projected in budget

A $55,708 proposed budget, which includes a 5-per-cent pay raise for tax appraisal office personnel, was studied by the tax appraisal board Thursday afternoon.

The budget would allow $16,380 yearly for the senior appraiser plus a $3,000 car allowance.

Of the $38,004 total suggested for the salaries, $10,080 is for a junior appraiser, who also would receive the same $3,000 car allowance from another account.

Proposed for a clerk is $5,544; for part-time workers, $4,200 (and $600 for car allowances); and for map making, $1,800.

Carlton Harry, the senior appraiser, said the cost of operation was divided among the local taxing agencies according to the number of tax accounts each has. Howard County and Howard College, which both tax countywide, pay 26.7 per cent each, Harry said.

Hospitalization insurance estimated at $504 and participation in the Texas Municipal Retirement System were the only two new categories of allocations mentioned by Don Crockett, chairman of the board.

Crockett suggested making the City of Big Spring the "permanent fiscal agent." Howard County has been providing accounting services for the appraisal office this year.

The budget proposal will be submitted to participating local governments for consideration. In addition, tax board members will be studying the intergovernmental contract for renewal.

Crockett suggested board members "pay particular attention to the guidelines" for tax appraisal.

The board changed its regular meeting day to the second Wednesday.

All participating governments except the City of Forsan were represented at the meeting Thursday.

Final registration for extension classes for the University of Texas at Permian Basin will be July 12.

HARLEY SADLER AS TOBY — Pictured with his wife, Billie, in the 1930s, Harley Sadler delighted West Texans for more than two decades with his comedy and routines. He appeared in Big Spring many times. Revived by Texas Tech University Theater, the New Harley Sadler Show has introduced the tent show concept to a new generation of fans. Housed in Texas Tech's Southwest Collection are original Sadler show materials, including hundreds of scripts which were invaluable to the tent show recreation. A regional archival repository, the Southwest Collection has microfilmed or copied approximately 20 personal collections of scrapbooks, programs, and photographs depicting the Sadler era.

Retrospective exhibition of King art work shaping

President V. R. Cardozer has asked Dr. Don Toomey, professor and chairman of Earth Science, to head a committee to arrange a retrospective exhibition at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin of the works of the university's late Professor and Art Chairman William A. King.

Professor King, an internationally known artist, died April 22 after an illness. The retrospective exhibition will concentrate on Professor King's creative work during his last 20 years, and specifically emphasize his oils, watercolors, and etchings.

The exhibition will be hung in the University Art Gallery for one week, with opening ceremonies on Thursday evening, Sept. 9, Dr. Toomey said.

Some of King's etchings will be available for purchase, with proceeds going to the William A. King art scholarship fund at UT Permian.

Other university faculty members on the committee include Wes Simpson, Pam Champion Price, and Herb Bryant. In addition, Barry Phillips, Art chairman at Odessa College; Marian

New drive-in windows due

First Federal Savings and Loan, 500 Main, has filed a $10,000 demolition permit with the city for the destruction of the buildings that extend to 6th Street on the south side of the building. The work is already underway.

Charles Beil, president of the company, indicated that the cleared area will be the home of four new drive-in windows and "some parking area." A storage basement will also be built underneath the property.

Beil said that the new structures built on the site would cost an estimated $300,000. "Long range plans would ultimately provide for the expansion of the surface facility to the new drive-in windows at the corner of Sixth and Main," added Beil.

of the all aluminum recyclable can.

The Coors "Press-Tab" eliminates the "ring-pull" litter that is a concern at beaches, in lakes or streams and parks or golf courses. The "ring" of the ring-pull generally has been more damaging to the environment than the entire beverage can, improperly discarded.

Easily opened, if the proper technique is used, this feature will benefit our parks, forests and all outdoors. If you experience difficulty in opening the can, call your nearest Coors Distributor; his expertise and instruction will change frustration into a pleasantly simple function.

Formal training helps police

In days not so long ago, police officers had little or no formal training. Police chiefs or sheriffs pretty well did their jobs by the seats of their pants.

IF ANY RECORDS at all were kept, it was just because the big police departments did it.

A former Big Spring resident who visited here last week is a testimony to how law enforcement work is changing.

Peter A. Stone, who spent eight years with the Big Spring Police Dept., is a records management consultant with the Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education in Austin.

That's more than a mouthful of title. What it is he does is this:

Stone helps small local law enforcement agencies set up and maintain a record system.

The small law enforcement agencies, those with 35 sworn officers or less, really need help, he contends.

PETE STONE

"Many of them are keeping records," he says, "but they don't know why."

Stone, who began doing this kind of work in Big Spring and is now doing it all over the state, helps individual agencies design a paperwork system that will meet their needs.

For example, the goal for a very small sheriff's office might be to let the original offense report become the complete system, including an index to make it workable by one two or three people.

Increasingly, he says, modern management techniques are being brought into police work, and records form the basis for management.

GOOD RECORDS not only help officers solve crimes, he claims, but they also help police chiefs know what equipment and personnel they need, and when, and where.

Stone began as a patrolman with the Big Spring police in 1964. After two years, he became assistant identification officer under Lt. Bob Bronson. From Bronson he learned a practical knowledge of fingerprints, and a detailed knowledge of photography.

Following a number of fingerprint schools, including one pilot school in Washington, he left Big Spring in 1972 to work for the police department in San Marcos. His main goal was to finish his college degree at Southwestern State University.

In San Marcos he set up a completely revised record and identification system which came to the attention of Austin officials. When the law enforcement commission was established by the Texas Legislature, Stone was asked to join it.

Stone clearly believes in the value of police records, even properly maintained criminal "intelligence files." He says he has not seen a local police department abuse its records by keeping "political" files.

The criminals seem to keep getting smarter and more plentiful, so I guess it is necessary that police continually update their methods and record systems.

Are you a "serious" beer drinker? Then, you might as well be practical about it.

BY INSTALLING a manufactured "keg box" or converting an old refrigerator, you can drink "better beer for less money."

Figuring $7 per case retail and about $30 for a "half-barrel" size keg of draft beer, you would save $19, fixed investments excluded. Quarter-barrel kegs, which contain 7.75 gallons, are available also.

Manufactured keg boxes provided by one firm cost $485 new, but guzzlers may purchase the necessary equipment for converting a refrigerator for about $150, said Herb Woods, sales manager for D.K.T. Co. Inc.

"We find that with Coors (I refuse to commercialize my column by advertising any product), since we don't have any preservatives or foam retardant and since our carbonation is a natural carbonation, that the public is more interested in draft than packaged beer," Woods said.

"All other beer, with the exception of Coors, is pasteurized in cans or bottles," Woods said.

So other brands also taste better in their nonpasteurized draft beer form, Woods said.

Coors uses a "super-filtering process" instead of pasteurization, Roy Collins, manager for the D.K.T. distributorship in Big Spring, said. (D.K.T. has other facilities in Midland, Odessa and Kermit.)

The "longevity" of draft beer is 30 days while packaged beer may be kept for 90 days, Woods said.

"THE QUICKER you drink it the better," Collins said, comparing beer to coffee. On the 31st day, draft beer will still taste good, Collins said.

"All draft beers have to be kept under refrigeration," Woods said. "This maintains the brewery fresh flavor."

In Texas, many beer drinkers like it served at 33 or 34 degrees, Collins said. But 40 degrees is considered the best temperature for best taste.

The refrigerator must keep the temperature constant, Collins said.

About 18 inches from the inside of the door to the back of the refrigerator will accommodate most 15½-gallon kegs, Collins said. With little problems, the same refrigerator may be used for the smaller keg.

"It's really important to keep your equipment clean," Collins said.

Woods recommends serving packaged and draft beer with a ¾-inch head to "release the flavor."

"Otherwise, the flavor may be bitter, heavy and sharp in some instances," Woods said.

A booklet offers other advice:

"NEVER DRY glasses with a towel." This leaves lint in the glass, Collins explained. While a "beer-clean" glass will collect bubbles on its side, none will originate on the bottom. But a glass need not be "beer-clean" to be sanitary, Collins said.

"Never draw beer into a dry glass. Always immerse the glass into clear, cold water."

Causes of "wild beer," "cloudy beer" and "off-taste beer" are also listed to help you make it through the long, hot summer with a cool draft.

Dear Editor:

I have a copy of your "Two for the Road" column about the Globe productions. It was very well written, covered a few things that had not been mentioned by other writers, but there was one error in the story — "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is not over. It will play alternately with "The Merry Wives of Windsor" until the "Life of Christ" opens July 18 — then all three plays will continue through the festival ending August 22.

Again, thank you for the wonderful publicity and coverage. I hope you will be able to return and see the other plays.

Dear Editor:

In retaliation of the letter written criticizing Big Spring's lack of Bicentennial celebration, I would say that to sit back and criticize someone else's efforts is like criticizing the federal government when you don't bother to vote. I should suggest the critical writer participate in the arrangements for celebrations so they would be more to her liking.

Dear Editor:

If all the Fourth of July means to Mrs. Springsted is fireworks — how depressing.

What are fireworks? A bang bang bang and it's gone and forgotten.

What is rain? Something this part of the country does not get enough of. But when we do the results can be seen and remembered a lot longer.

I can not think of anything more wonderful for our 200th birthday than the rain we had. Oh what a beautiful ending for such a glorious occasion.

I do hope Mrs. Springsted, wherever you are next year, you have your fireworks on the Fourth of July and your turkey on Thanksgiving and Santa comes down your chimney.

Mrs. Walter (Nina) Benier

Dear Editor:

I have a message for Mrs. Phillip Springsted:

I am sorry our Bicentennial birthday to you seemed a wasted day because, on Scenic Mountain, they cancelled the fireworks display.

How thankful I am our forefathers took changes of plans in stride. If they'd done nothing but sit and complain this great country of ours would have died.

We have a fierce pride here as we fight the wind and weather and like our Founding Fathers we're proud to stick together.

That rain didn't "dampen" our spirits. In fact, we thanked God for it and in typical West Texas fashion we all just grinned and bore it.

The cotton crop was saved by rain. We had more cause to celebrate and — the fire works on the mountain, we knew they'd have to wait.

The fellows who did all the planning and helped get the show together were responsible for the fireworks, ma'am, but certainly not the weather.

You say we show pride in our rodeos, you better believe we do. Texas was once a wide open space, the cowboy helped settle it too.

So we had our fireworks delayed, but as they lit up the sky, we felt no less patriotic than we did on the Fourth of July.

We know the love of our country can't be crowded in a mere display. It's rooted deep in the hearts of the people one meets in Howard County each day.

A Texan by choice not chance.

Dear Editor:

I would like to voice my opinion toward the perfectionist, who wrote on the depressing 4th of July in Big Spring. For the thousands of men and women who dedicated their lives to America, we sure can give up more than one day to them and the great U.S. of A. Few things are perfect and the weather isn't one of them! Anticipation is half the fun.

Dear Editor:

After seeing Tuesday's Herald, I want to say I am very disappointed, but not discouraged. I can't possibly see how your photographer got all the pictures he got Monday at the park without at least a corner of the Gospel Band Wagon getting in his way.

You do know that it takes weeks and months to get these groups together to sing and play. This float 30 feet long in full colors was right in the middle of all the park activities and I am grateful to the Jaycees for making this possible. Many folks stood and sat and listened to the singing and playing of Gospel songs. It takes time and effort for these groups (weeks and even months) to get together for these united efforts.

No one is trying to get any personal glory for these efforts, but why can't Christian activities in Big Spring get as much play in the papers as do other activities? But this is one thing that really disturbs me, I put up a 30-foot pole (with crane) and attached a 5 by 9½-foot new American flag atop this pole. I flew it Sunday and Monday and what a great beautiful sight to see, as the wind was good all day. To see Old Glory waving in the wind like it did, was worth what effort I put forth. If I am not mistaken, this was the only pole flag flying in the park. If your photographer didn't think that the float was interesting enough to take a photo of, I am thinking that at least he could have included Old Glory, but this was hard to do without getting the Gospel wagon in the picture too.

If these efforts of these Christian people and churches are not worth mentioning or showing, why should we go to the trouble of trying to unite the Christians in such activities in Big Spring?

I don't want to be like the big firecracker. One loud boom and quit, I want to be like the little crackers and keep shooting all Bicentennial year.

Sig Rogers,

$2 bill so far has been a 'flop'

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a lot of buck-passing when it comes to the $2 bill. Despite government predictions that "the two" would be warmly received by the public as a partial substitute for the $1 bill, it so far has been a flop — hoarded but not spent.

More than 210 million twos have been delivered by the government to banks, but relatively few have found their way into general circulation, officials say.

Millions of dollars worth apparently are being hoarded as collectors' items, especially those issued April 13, the first day.

Although officials aren't giving up on the $2 bill yet, there's a lot of finger-pointing on who's to blame for the poor reception.

The Treasury Department blames banks and retailers; banks blame the public and the government; the Bureau of Engraving and Printing blames the U.S. Postal Service and the Federal Reserve Board.

Heart problem can be gradual

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please explain congestive heart failure? What takes place? What damage is done to the heart? What is the care afterwards? — Mrs. O. H.

It can be a serious matter. Congestive heart failure means that because of a weakness in the heart muscle the heart is not able to pump enough blood to nourish the body. As a result there is congestion of blood in the lung. Breathing is impaired. There is also congestion in the liver and extremities.

Because of this general breakdown in circulation, liquid accumulates in the abdomen and in the extremities. In an acute attack the victim coughs in a futile attempt to clear the lungs. Death can result.

In a chronic (gradually developing) case early signs are a shortness of breath and swelling of the feet, ankles and lower legs. An attack means that damage has already been done to the heart — the initial damage that caused the attack to begin with.

Basic causes can be varied, such as a heart valve disease, emphysema of the lungs, severe anemia or some congenital heart disorder. Whatever the cause, the end result is a buckling of the heart muscle under the prolonged extra strain.

Treatment involves rest to reduce oxygen needs. In an acute attack rest must be complete, including being waited on hand and foot. Usually, the victim is most comfortable sitting in a chair. Digitalis is used to strengthen the heart muscle and diuretics help release fluid trapped in the tissues. A low-salt diet is a must.

After recovery there must be a restriction of activity and continued use of the medicine. In less severe cases total bed rest may not be needed, the diet, medicine and reduced activity being sufficient.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the Huhner test and what does it show? — Mrs. R. T.

This is an examination of the secretions of the vaginal wall done shortly after intercourse. It shows the amount of sperm present and their condition. It is one of several possible tests to determine whether anything at this point is interfering with conception.

Dr. Dr. Thosteson: What is the benefit or advantage of using a heating pad? My husband uses one every night for his back. I think wet heat is better. What do you think? — Mrs. L. K.

Any heat will relax and soothe his muscles. I dislike heating pads because the prolonged steady level of heat can burn the skin. A hot water bag will provide sufficient heat and cool off gradually as he falls asleep.

Wet heat is good for inflamed areas or acute sprains. But caution must be taken when using an electric heating pad. The pad should be well insulated.

Maybe your husband needs more than just heat. If his pains occur at night, he might need a firmer mattress or a board under it. Often, too, a change in sleeping position helps — a lower, higher, firmer or softer pillow, for example.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I hear the word colic often, but I don't think I understand just what it means. I know it has to do with pain. — Mrs. R. J.

Colic (KOL-ick) is taken from the word colon, and it means an attack of abdominal pain. For the purists it might mean strictly pain originating in the colon (intestines). The gall bladder is a common cause of colicky pain. But it has come to be referred to abdominal pain generally.

Thus a "colicky baby" is one with abdominal pains.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would it be morally wrong for a widow and a widower both in their 70s to enjoy sex without marriage, as it is not feasible for either of us to marry for many reasons?

We have known each other for many years and enjoy each other's company, and need the emotional and physical contact to relieve much stress and depression.

We would be hurting no one. — Mrs. K. T.

Medically, on the basis that it might represent a needed physical and psychological release for both of you, I see nothing wrong in it. The moral decision is yours, and at 70 you should be equipped to make that.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You have mentioned a medication that can be used for constipation. Can you please give me the name again? — Mrs. L. V.

I don't believe I mentioned a specific medicine by name.

Stool softeners can be helpful. That's probably what I did mention. There are various brands, one pretty much as good as another. Your doctor can prescribe one he has recommended successfully.

My answer

Billy Graham

Dear Dr. Graham: My friends' daughter was a good Christian girl, active in her church youth group. Now she has fallen for temptation and is wrecking her life, as well as breaking her parents' hearts. How can this be? — Mrs. E. B.

Dear MRS. B.: I know this is a tragic situation and one that occurs far too often.

First of all, it may well be that this girl was never truly a believer in Jesus Christ. It is possible to be outwardly active in Christian things, but never to have committed one's life to Jesus Christ. Or there may be certain things in her family background that have helped make her more rebellious. Or again, the girl may simply have begun to take her Christian faith for granted, and by failing to maintain a strong relationship with Christ, she opened herself to temptation. The Bible recounts several instances of people who were sincere believers (such as King David), but who fell into grievous sin.

Whatever the reason, never underestimate the evil power of Satan. He will seek to take advantage of any weakness in our armor, and that is why we must always be equipped with "the whole armor of God" (Ephesians 6:13).

I encourage you and other friends to continue to pray for this girl. Let her know that you still love her, even though you disagree with what she is doing. Pray that God will give you opportunities to talk with her. Sin is never as attractive as it appears at first, and you may find this girl eventually is revolted by her sin and is more open to the Gospel.

Take heart from the words of Jesus: "In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world" (John 16:33).

IS 20 signs promoting Big Spring discussed

Plans for placing billboards on IS 20 promoting Big Spring were discussed by the Community Development Council when they met at noon Thursday at La Posada.

The billboards are to be placed west of Odessa and East of Sweetwater, according to Larry Willard, chairman of the council. "Plans in the future may include signs also to be placed on Highway 87," he told the group.

He also outlined plans for the brochure on the new coliseum, now being prepared which will be funded by the tourism occupancy tax. The brochures will be used to attempt to obtain meetings and events for the facility.

Mrs. Edna Womack reported on beautification activities and told of plans for special awards to be presented at the board meeting of the chamber next Monday.

Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery reported on completion of the Bicentennial activities, but added, "There will still be several events during the rest of 1976 that are designated as Bicentennial." She also told of the reports being prepared for the city, county, and national archives.

She thanked the community for their participation and cooperation in the events. In the absence of Jerry Phillips, Willard made the sports and recreation report.

He told of plans for a junior college football game this fall, and said the Water Show had been tabled until another year. He called for suggestions for the group.

A discussion was held of the possibility of some type of production centering around early west history that might be geared toward the local amphitheatre in the summer months.

He also heard a report from Tom Roy that there is some interest by a large motel chain in the community but that they are seeking someone to purchase a franchise. Anyone interested may contact Roy at the chamber office.

Terry Hanson, chamber manager, told the group that Texas First awards will be given at the board meeting Monday.

Cal Calvin raised a question about the possibility of front yard trash pickup when the alleys are muddy. The recent attempt by the city to change to front yard pickup was reviewed. Mrs. Womack pointed out that the people who wanted it and were concerned about litter in the city failed to make themselves heard at that time. Fourteen persons attended the meeting.

Fort Stockton Water Carnival is nearing

FORT STOCKTON — Fort Stockton's annual Water Carnival for the Bicentennial year scheduled July 15-17, follows the thread of memory into a tradition-rich past, with a look into its own beginnings and the poolside productions in the intervening years.

"Memories Left Behind" is being presented in the 40th anniversary year of Water Carnival in Fort Stockton, which began in 1936 (the Texas Centennial year) and now coincides with America's Bicentennial.

The big show will run for three straight nights around historic Comanche Springs Swimming Pool in Rooney Park. Director is Molly (Mrs. Paul) Yeager, utilizing a frame work narrative written by Gail Lain and Mrs. Yeager. Veteran swimming performer David Hoffman is assistant director of the production, which is produced by the Fort Stockton Water Carnival Association. Bob Gray is current president.

Among feature attractions of Water Carnival '76 are three separate and complete beauty revues in five divisions.

President arrives early for queen's garden party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II gave a farewell dinner and a garden party for 1,500 guests as she ended the Washington leg of her Bicentennial tour and prepared to move on to New York and New Jersey today. President Ford was the guest of honor at the Thursday night dinner at the British Embassy, but Mrs. Ford missed the colorful finale of the royal visit because of a head cold.

Aides said Mrs. Ford hoped to be well enough to dine with the queen and Prince Philip aboard the royal yacht Britannia at Newport, R.I., on Saturday.

Ford had arrived too early, reaching the embassy before the queen. So his motorcade had to drive around several minutes to give the queen a chance to get to the embassy so she could greet him on his arrival.

The queen's two days of fast-paced sightseeing and ceremonies in Washington ended at midnight Thursday with white-uniformed British royal guard musicians sounding retreat in a ceremony on the flood-lit embassy terrace.

The royal couple had invited 80 guests for dinner in the embassy ballroom with the Fords. Most of those invited were government officials, but there were such other notables as actress Elizabeth Taylor, comedian Bob Hope, Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne and violinist Yehudi Menuhin, who played a solo after dinner with students from a music school in England that is named after him.

Outside, while the dinner was underway, the 1,500 guests invited to the reception gathered under three huge red-and-white striped tents for a buffet and drinks.

Queen Elizabeth was resplendent in an outfit of diamonds and a tiara.

Bible in pocket' heard by ABWA

Members of the Seenic Chapter of ABWA heard a talk by Mrs. O. T. Brewster entitled "Gun in Hand, Bible in Pocket," a humorous view of pioneer religion, during their monthly meeting in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas.

A salad supper was sponsored by the losing team in the attendance contest.

The vocational speaker was Mrs. Marie Roland, highlighting her amusing experiences in real estate, having been in the profession since 1952.

Guests were Mrs. Ester Trantham, Marguerite Bryan, Fay Rodgers and Lillian Wheat. The August meeting will be held at the Spanish Inn.

W W I vets' ladies meet

Veterans of World War I Barrack 1474 and its ladies Auxiliary will meet 9:45 a.m. Saturday at the Kentwood center.

Guest speaker will be George Dreher. All veterans, their wives, widows and daughters are urged to attend. Following a covered dish luncheon, there will be games, singing and fellowship.

The groups are now meeting the second Saturday of the month.

Knott reunion held

The annual homecoming of Knott's students and teachers was held recently in the First Baptist Church of Knott. Oliver Nichols Jr. officiated as vice-president in the absence of Walton Burchell president, who had resigned because of ill health.

Larry Shaw secretary, read the minutes of last year's session. Mrs. Edna Nichols, treasurer, had prepared the financial report, which was read by Bud Nichols.

New officers for 1976-77 are Joe Derwin Baines, president; Gary Ridder, vice-president; Mrs. Gary Riddle, treasurer; Mrs. Sonny Ditto, secretary.

During the business meeting a door prize was awarded to Mr. Lee Castle as the oldest ex-student present and to Mr. Buddy Henderson of Houston as the ex-student who had traveled farthest to attend.

A Bicentennial boutonniere and corsage were presented to Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Nabors as guests of honor.

Following the business session, Mr. Nabors played a patriotic address on his recorder titled "Old Glory Speaks."

"Every heart was deeply touched by the Bicentennial observance which made us more appreciative and proud of our great nation," said a member.

Attendance of approximately 50 ex-students and teachers enjoyed an old fashioned meal prepared by the families. The class of 1946 received recognition for the largest number present, 19. They were also entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Ditto, who notified the class of the annual.

Have motherly talk before it's too late

DEAR ABBY: We have a live-in girl, age 21, who helps with the housework and is wonderful with our three young children. (I'll call her "Nancy.") Nancy was a farm girl who came to us from a home for unwed mothers after having had an illegitimate child, which she gave up for adoption.

Nancy is sweet and fun-loving, but she's not too bright in the ways of the world. Recently she met a young man at church with whom she's been spending a lot of time. Yesterday she asked for the weekend off to go fishing with him.

I know Nancy is of age, but I worry about her. My husband says I should have a motherly talk with her, send her to my doctor and have him put her on the Pill. She's not a tramp, Abby, but I don't want her to get pregnant again if she is going all the way with this fellow, and she probably is. She's a Catholic and doesn't believe in abortion.

Even though she's 21, I feel responsible for her. Am I overstepping my rights?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: No. Have that talk with her and offer to send her to your doctor for whatever information or prescriptions she wants. If Nancy is sexually active, let's hope she'll agree to some form of birth control that is compatible with her religious beliefs.

DEAR ABBY: When addressing a letter to a female, is it proper to use the title "Ms." only when the marital status of the woman is unknown? Or should one use "Mrs." to address ALL women, regardless of their marital status?

We are having a heated debate in this office over this question.

SIGN ME "MS."

DEAR MS.: Who's to say what's "proper"? If I know that my correspondent is married, I use "Mrs." If I know she's single, I use "Miss." If her marital status is in question, I use "Ms."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have both spent a lot of money on dentists, not to mention the time we have spent in the dentist chair, so we are trying to instill good dental care habits in our children.

Our problem is HIS parents. I have told them countless times to PLEASE refrain from giving our children candy and other sweets, but they slip them candy and cookies when our backs are turned.

I don't know how to handle this problem, Abby. Last Easter they gave the children Easter baskets filled with jelly beans, and we couldn't very well ask the children to throw them out.

Short of not allowing his parents to see their only grandchildren, what's the solution?

LOSING PATIENTS

DEAR LOSING: There must be something about the way you've asked the grandparents to refrain that lacks conviction. Try again. And this time let them know that you mean business. They are out of line on two counts: ignoring your requests and encouraging the children to disobey their parents.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

CARIBBEAN CRUISE — Mrs. Margaret Lloyd and her son Leslie, 10, look over the brochure material outlining their trip to the Caribbean islands.

Work, travel plan uses time well

Half work and half play is a pretty fair compromise. And it's a way to make a summer worthwhile without making it drudgery.

Margaret Lloyd spent the first part of her vacation working as a part of the Special Education program held at Moss elementary school, first started by Gene Atkins this year. She'll spend the second half cruising around the Caribbean on an ocean liner with her husband and children.

The special education program was a special challenge. Mrs. Lloyd described the children as weak in oral communication.

"Instead of academic work, we just took them and gave them experiences. We went bowling twice, visited the fire station and courthouse, Webb, the park and even took them one day to ride the elevators in the Settles Hotel and they just loved it. Some of them had never even been on an elevator before."

Four teachers were needed for the thirty children, who came half in the morning and the other fifteen in the afternoon. Janie Chavez, a speech therapist, also worked with the kids along with Joey Lucas of Moss, Susie Sharply of Bauer, Carol Green of Stanton and Mrs. Lloyd. Because of the physical handicaps many children had, the program needed a teacher for every three to four children.

They also had a grooming day, baked cupcakes, popped popcorn, and made crafts. "One day we just played baseball. Everyday was something different. Time will only tell how much good it did the children," Mrs. Lloyd said.

The children's ages were about six to fifteen.

Some were physically handicapped and some others were mentally handicapped. The latter is probably the most surprising to find in our affluent society and the most difficult to combat.

Although it was too dangerous to allow the children to swim because of several handicaps, the teachers did take them wading. Many little ones didn't know what the word "wading" meant, she said.

"These children were the ones that diagnosticians thought would benefit the most from the program," she said. Diagnosticians visit different schools in the area testing children and recommending the ones who fall short for special education programs.

Although there were no academics during the programs, Ms. Chavez worked with the children individually for 15-20 minutes a day. Mrs. Lloyd said she used flash cards to help children with their vocabulary.

"More than fun, I hope it helps," said Mrs. Lloyd regarding the program. "One little boy who just wouldn't say anything at all finally limbered up enough so that the other day I heard him kidding another child. I was so glad to see he'd loosened up," she added.

The other half, the play half, begins today for Mrs. Lloyd. She and her family will leave for Dallas and Sunday they will reach Nassau.

The Lloyds are taking their children on a trip that the parents have made once before, although they flew that time. This trip will be made on the Mardi Gras—Carnival line, one of the many ocean cruisers that make their way from Florida to the Caribbean and back all year long.

"We kid about the kids having been to Coahoma twice and Stanton once, but really, we've all been pouring over every inch of the map (of the Caribbean) for the last month," said Mrs. Lloyd.

For Larson and Margaret Lloyd, the trip will be a return to an enjoyable vacation spot. To Leslie, 10, Lisa, 12, and Larson, Jr., 14, it will be the first long trip they've ever taken.

An article called "Steal No Covered, Senior" appeared in the May edition of "The Road Rider" magazine for motorcycle. It was written by Bill Cooke, son of Mrs. Steele of Big Spring.

Cooke was writing a trip he made to Mexico where he stopped on the south of the border at a bridge in El Paso and chased Mexican insurance.

He told the agent the motorcycle was valued over $2,000 and said he wanted full coverage two-week vacation in Mexico.

Cooke said in the article he paid the fee of $9.64 the papers he had filled out and headed for Acapulco, way of Guadalajara.

Two days later, when returned to his motel, the motorcycle was gone. Cooke asked the desk clerk to call the police and his insurance representative.

He said the motel was very helpful and he had him prepare a report and a receipt for information.

But when he found insurance agent the morning, the agent glared at the policy and said, "Sorry, stealing no covered."

Cooke said he could have believed it but there

'Stealing no covered, senior' from 1975

with Marj Carpenter

An article called "Stealing No Covered, Senior" appeared in the May edition of "The Road Rider" which is a magazine for motorcyclists. It was written by Billy B. Cooke, son of Mrs. May Steele of Big Spring.

Cooke was writing about a trip he made to Mexico where he stopped on the way south of the border at an insurance company at the bridge in El Paso and purchased Mexican insurance. He told the agent that his motorcycle was valued at over $2,000 and said that he wanted full coverage for a two-week vacation in Mexico.

Cooke said in the article, "I paid the fee of $9.64, took the papers he had filled out and headed for Acapulco by way of Guadalajara."

Two days later, when he returned to his motel, his motorcycle was gone. He asked the desk clerk to call the police and his insurance representative.

He said the motel clerk was very helpful and helped him prepare an advertisement and a reward for information.

But when he found the insurance agent the next morning, the agent glanced at the policy and said, "Sorry, stealing no covered, Senior."

Cooke said he could hardly believe it but there was nothing he could do. He found out that the policy did not cover fire, theft or collision. It only covered liability.

In his article, he said, "Don't call off your trip to Mexico. It's a wonderful place to visit." He suggested checking with your own insurance agent before you leave home. He also gave a list of real good chains and locks to keep motorcycles safe and suggested staying at motels with a high fence and only one entrance if possible. He also suggested installing a burglar alarm.

The former Big Springer pointed out that a lot of these are also good things to do at home to keep your motorcycle from getting stolen.

Cooke graduated from Big Spring High School in 1953 and now lives in Wyoming. He and C. P. Ward, who works for the city juvenile department, at one time went together on a motorcycle trip through Mexico without any mishaps.

His advice, includes one sentence that says, "Chain up your motorcycle even if you are going to be gone for only a few minutes."

The Road Rider staff, in an editor's note said they were quite surprised by Cooke's unfortunate experience. They added, "During our many trips to Mexico, we had always assumed — as had Billy — that the bikes were riding were fully covered." He did a follow-up and found out some startling facts. At San Ysidro, Calif. one agent told him that he could not insure a motorcycle against theft or collision. He then went to another agent and they told him they had not sold a theft-collision policy in years.

Cooke's article may have made a lot of motorcyclists aware of precautions to take before heading south of the border.

His mother, who works at the state hospital here, said "This is Billy's first attempt at writing, but I'm kind of proud of it."

Matching funds are approved

LAMESA — The City Council approved a request for $2,500 in matching funds for the operation of the airport when they met this week.

The council also approved the expenditure of up to $720 for electricity at the Plains Fairways Golf Course.

They authorized the city manager to sign a grant award for the second year with the cities of Plainview and Brownfield and the Governor's Office of Traffic Safety for the services of a traffic engineer.

David Hughes, secretary of the airport board, met with the council requesting $2,500 from the city for the operation of the airport. They also plan to approach the county with a similar request.

Jim Nance represented the golf course in its request for assistance. In other action, the city authorized the donation of up to 2,000 used bricks, which have been taken up out of Lamesa's streets for decorative purpose at the Senior Citizens Center.

R.L. Cobb, loan guaranty officer for the VA Houston office, reported 31 foreclosures in June, bringing the six-month total to 151, compared to 311 for the first half of last year.

Theft of coins charge dismissed

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — A state court judge here has dismissed an indictment against one of three men charged with a theft of rare coins in 1975.

Dist. Court Judge Temple Driver said he dismissed Thursday an indictment naming Barry Donnell and placed the Wichita Falls businessman on non-judicial probation. Donnell had been charged with theft over $10,000.

Driver said the dismissal took place at Driver's home with only Donnell and his lawyer, Elmer H. Parish, present.

The judge said the proceeding occurred at his home because he is recuperating from back surgery and is under doctor's orders not to spend more than an hour or two a day at the courthouse.

The dismissal was recommended by Dist. Atty. Jim Eysen, Driver said. Eysen refused to comment.

Donnell was indicted June 26 with James F. LeBus.

Singers due at Salem

The Calvary Singers from Odessa will be presented in a special concert here Sunday night at 7:15 p.m. at the Salem Baptist Church.

Old-fashioned preaching set

The First United Methodist Church is planning an old-fashioned revival at four morning services on July 18 and 25 and August 1 and 8.

They offer gospel singing, evangelistic music specials and revival preaching. Dr. William R. Fleming, minister of the church, will preach the sermons.

The group includes two women who are former members of the Salem Baptist Church here. They are Karen Murphy and Delores Andrews. Karen also serves as pianist for the group.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend the concert. These religious singers have traveled all across the state of Texas singing at revivals and meetings at many churches.

Officials from the Salem Church urge Big Spring citizens to take advantage of the opportunity and "come here this wonderful singing group."

Baptists label decision license to raid treasury

DALLAS — The U.S. Supreme Court's recent decision that states may provide direct aid to sectarian colleges was described here by Texas Baptist leaders as "a license for church schools to raid the public treasury."

The Christian Life Commission of the 2-million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas, the Convention President James Harris, Fort Worth, and BGCT Executive Director James H. Landes, Dallas, deplored the Court's ruling in a strongly-worded statement on the eve of the Nation's Bicentennial.

"Citizens will again suffer taxation without representation. Institutions with the strongest sort of sectarian special interests will totally escape public control over the tax dollars they receive," said the statement adopted by the 15-member elected Commission and endorsed by Drs. Harris and Landes.

Baptists have traditionally fought anything they consider a violation of First Amendment guarantees of church-state separation. Roger Williams and other early day Baptists in this country often suffered persecution for refusing to pay taxes to the Church of England and to follow its dictates.

"Before the Constitution was written, separation as a safeguard for religious liberty was a Baptist doctrine," said the Christian Life Commission's director James Dunn. "It is not simply a question of Constitutional law," Dunn added. "The Baptist General Convention of Texas repeatedly has made it clear that our institutions' refusal of public funds is an issue of morality, not merely legality."

BGCT President James Harris warned that the Court's decision could reduce the principle of church-state separation "to slick accounting, simply moving money from one pocket to another."

The Court's approval of the use of public funds for "nonreligious purposes" is meaningless, a thin veil that does not hide the inevitable purposes, Harris said.

The Supreme Court upheld an earlier ruling by a federal district court that Maryland program of direct aid to sectarian colleges is permissible.

Cedar Ridge history told

In the fall of 1952, a small group began meeting on Sundays for worship in the American Legion Hall in Coahoma. The hall, located on Main Street, was an old store building with concrete floor, a glass front, and had been furnished with old wooden slat seats when it was converted for meeting purposes.

Included in the original group were G. A. and Ruby Moore, Ed and Dorothy Moore, Bill and Lucille King, Jr. and Nelda King, Rupert and Mayme Cagle, Charles and Lola Galbraith, and Paul and Ellen Keele, and some young children and infants belonging to members of the group.

Plans to secure a permanent meeting place soon materialized and a lot was purchased and construction of a building was begun. The building site was in Coahoma across Main Street from what is now the Post Office (built much later). That site is now the present location of the Sooper Dooper Grocery Store and other businesses.

G. A. Moore and his sons, J. W. and Lee, all experienced carpenters, guided and oversaw the construction of the church. The building had not been completed but was in an adequate stage of development for the congregation to move into in 1953, at which time the congregation was designated as the South Side Church of Christ in Coahoma. The building was eventually completed, with the congregation paying as they built and the debt never exceeded $600.

The decision was eventually made to move the congregation to Big Spring. After purchasing a site located at the northwest corner of the intersection of Marcy Drive (FM-700) and Birdwell Lane, the congregation and the building were moved to that location in the summer of 1960.

The group consisted of about 30 to 35 members at that time and became known as the Marcy Drive Church of Christ.

In 1966, a congregation of the Church of Christ which had been meeting on West Fourth Street in Big Spring merged with the Marcy Drive Congregation. Among this group were the Eldon Pounds, E. S. Conway, Dale Ditto, Ed Brumley, Doris Perkins, Faye Hobbs, Will Miller, Ette Wilkerson, Louis Harrell, Hazel Richardson, Elbert Dennis, Annazine Williams, and Bud Wright families.

As the congregation increased in numbers and parking facilities proved inadequate, a site was purchased for a building program at the corner of 2110 Birdwell Lane in Big Spring. The services of E. B. McCown Construction Company of Abilene, were retained and plans were formulated for the new structure. Bill Higgins, Lester Young, Randall Morton, Grady Teague, B. H. Denson, Jimmy Thomasson, Paul Keele, E. S. Conway, Rupert Cagle, Dale Ditto, Ed Brumley, and Les Duffer were among those whose suggestions, efforts, time and talents were utilized in designing and executing the building program.

The building program was culminated by the completion of a 255-person capacity sanctuary with new furnishings, and adequate paved parking area. The new building was first used for worship April 22, 1973; and the congregation was designated as the Cedar Ridge Church of Christ, being located in the Cedar Ridge division.

The congregation at that time consisted of about 96 members. There were an additional 32 children in attendance, not included in the membership count. At the morning service of July 22, 1973, the maturity of the congregation was emphasized by the ordination of officers to serve the congregation. Brother E. B. McCown of Abilene installed Grady Teague and Paul Keele as elders and B. H. De and Randall Morton as deacons on that occasion.

The congregation has never had a full-time preacher, but has always met its pastoral responsibility through the volunteer services from within its membership, with occasional visiting speakers. Most of this responsibility has been met by brethren Grady Teague, Lester Young, Randall Morton, and Paul Keele. Wendell Hudleston, formerly principal of Park Hill Elementary School in Big Spring and now a resident of Lubbock, is a frequent visiting preacher enjoyed by the congregation.

Presbyterians slate events

The First Presbyterian Church will hold the Sacrament service Sunday. The sermon will be called "The Message and the Ministry."

The Rev. Bill Henning was installed the last week in June as the new minister of the congregation.

Last week, Mrs. Joe S. (Marilyn) Knight assumed the duties of church secretary.

National conference is to focus on family life

GLORIETA, N.M. — To support the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board's emphasis on family life, Glorieta Baptist Conference Center will host a National Family Enrichment Conference, July 10-16.

According to Joseph W. Hinkle, secretary of the Sunday School Board's family ministry department, the week-long meeting will provide something for every member of the family, as well as for church family ministry leaders.

Topics for adults include Sex Roles in Marriage; He, She or We: Facing Family Crises; The Marriage Checkup; and A Good Marriage: Your Greatest Gift to Your Children.

The evening sessions will relate particularly to family life. Speakers for those sessions include John Drakeford, Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth; R. Lofton Hudson, director of Midwest Christian Counseling Center, Kansas City; Wallace Denton, Purdue University, Lafayette Ind.; and J. Clark Hensley, director, Christian Action Commission of the Mississippi Baptist Convention, Jackson.

John Howell of Midwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Kansas City, and

Christian Scientists hear challenge

Christian Scientists from around the world were told at a conference recently that the only sufficient response to challenges confronting churches in general and their denomination in particular is "more Christianity."

An estimated 10,000-12,000 members of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. were on hand to hear the keynote message. Many of the denomination's more than 3,000 branches in 57 countries were represented at the 81st Annual Meeting. There is a branch in Big Spring. For information contact Mrs. Dorothy Ragan at 3-2413.

In order to involve members more deeply in the meeting, members were invited six months ago to submit talks and questions. More than 250 talks were received and many played an important part in the three days of inspirational discussions and church reports.

Mrs. Hanks spoke frankly about a decrease in numbers of those in the healing ministry of Christian Science and of the need for strengthening branch church membership in many areas.

Historian Robert Peel recalled to members that Mary Baker Eddy's first address in The Mother Church "didn't indulge in a paean of triumph. Instead she gave them the quiet reminder: 'Christianity is not superfluous. Its redemptive power is seen in sore trials, self-denials, and crucifixions of the flesh. But these come to the rescue of mortals, to admonish them, and plant the feet steadfastly in Christ.'"

Newspaper tops sources

NEW YORK (AP) — A survey by the United Church of Christ finds that lay members and clergy rely more on newspapers for their information and opinions than on other news media.

Although some previous surveys have indicated a major reliance for news on television, the United Church study found that twice as many laymen depended on newspapers as on television.

Fifty-three per cent put newspapers in first position, while 23 per cent named television first and the rest cited various other sources.

For his "diligent efforts" as the volunteer project officer of the Change of Command parade, Capt. Eldon J. (Jim) Layton received the Wing White Scarf Award.

First Lt. John M. Rudiger, "F" Flight, is the T-38 Instructor Pilot of the Month for May in the 83rd Flying Training Sq. He also serves as flight gradebook officer as well as snack bar and athletic officer. While still in the buddy-IP program, he became a junior controller — "a tribute to his accurate decision making ability."

Scouts win key awards

Boy Scouts from Webb AFB Troop 146 earned a variety of awards and honors during their one-week stay at the Buffalo Trail Council Scout Ranch near Toyahvale, Tex.

The 6,000 acre ranch, which serves an 18-county area, offered the local Scouts ample opportunity for hiking, mountaineering, swimming and a variety of other outdoor activities during their June 13-19 stay.

Troop 146 hiked more miles than any other troop at the ranch during the week.

Senior Patrol Leader James Forner and Assistant Patrol Leader Kevin Crenweige earned merit badges in geology, environmental science and orienteering. Forner also got the mile swim patch.

Allen Morris took home merit badges in camping, citizenship in the community and first aid along with completion of his requirements for the First Class Progress Award.

Jimmy Charlton earned geology, communications and citizenship in the community merit badges. He also completed his First Class Progress Award.

Gary Elmadolar worked for and received a geology merit badge.

In addition to the above awards, Charlton, Morris and James Forney were elected to the Order of the Arrow, an honor camper's organization.

Attending the camp with the Scouts were Jay Jackson and Scoutmaster Bob Wiggins.

faces possible discharge. Obese officers won't be thrown out of the service, but their chances of promotion will be sharply reduced if their weight isn't.

A tougher Navy policy on weight control affecting reservists as well as regulars, is spelled out in a new order issued from headquarters. It sets guidelines for permissible weights at various heights.

"A continuing laxity exists in the area of weight control among some members of the Navy," the order said. "Excess body fat is a serious detriment to health, longevity, stamina and military appearance. The Navy community is no less susceptible to the insidious effects of sedentary jobs, than the civilian community."

The new order is part of "Operation Shipshape," inaugurated by Adm. James Holloway II, chief of naval operations.

Holloway recently imposed strict limits on hair length in a rollback from more lenient policies followed by his predecessor, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt Jr.

Energy

County oil production increasingly important

As an era of cheap energy and energy independence faded for America, Howard County's 1975 crude oil and natural gas production became more significant to Texas and the United States than at any time since production began in 1925.

With its production marketed for a record $123.9-million and an industry payroll totalling $24.5-million, petroleum continued as an important factor in the economic health of the county, according to a study by the Dallas-based Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

Jack S. Blanton, Houston independent oil company executive and president of the Association, said increased prices, caused by the growing shortage of domestic oil and gas, has given a multi-billion dollar boost to the economy of Texas and the state's treasury.

"Increased prices help offset the economic effects of the downward trend in volume of Texas production," Blanton said, pointing out that increased revenues for producers are being soaked up by zooming drilling costs.

"The average cost of drilling a well in Texas has jumped from $55,000 in 1962 to $137,000 last year, a 150-per-cent increase and one of the reasons why 29-cent gasoline and low utility bills are relics of the past," Blanton said.

The total value of production statewide increased from more than $11-billion in 1974 to over $13-billion last year, a jump of nearly 19-per-cent.

Howard was one of 200 Texas counties which produced oil and gas with a market value in excess of $100,000 last year, an increase of three over the 1974 total and seven more than in 1973. The county ranked 29th in the state in the total value of petroleum produced, realizing $120-million from the sale of 15.3-million barrels of crude oil; $3.9-million from the sale of 8-million MCF of natural gas. The county's royalty owners last year received $15.5-million.

In addition to paying local school and county property taxes, county producers also contributed to the support of state government with production tax payments totalling $5.8-million — $5.5-million paid on oil output; $295,000 on gas production.

According to the Texas Employment Commission, 1,903 oil and gas industry employees worked in the county in 1975. But because oil and gas production and processing operations require such extensive support from service and supply firms, these direct employment figures are only a part of the story of the industry's impact on the local economy.

The industry's search for oil and gas continued in Howard County, with oil and gas developers last year spending an estimated $22.7-million drilling 150 wells in the county. Some $6.1-million of that was lost in 17 dry holes, but the total drilling effort yielded 133 oil wells. The exploratory effort in the county last year saw the drilling of eight wildcat wells.

Processing also contributed to the county's petroleum-related economy, with one refinery having a daily capacity of 65,000 barrels. Two carbon black plants, one petrochemical plant, and one natural gasoline processing plant, having a daily capacity of 48.4-million cubic feet, also were in operation.

Miller fires into British Open lead

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Johnny Miller shot into the lead midway through the third round of the British Open Golf Championship today.

Miller, who started the day at 140, two strokes back of leader Severiano Ballesteros, got hot while Ballesteros faltered. At the end of the first eight holes Miller led the 19-year-old Spaniard by two strokes.

Miller took the lead on the short, par-three seventh hole when he parred. Ballesteros bogeyed the hole. Miller added another stroke to his lead when he birdied the 470-yard, par-four eighth.

Ballesteros lost two stroke on the first two holes of the par-72, 7,001-yard Royal Birkdale course that was hit by rain today but was not affected by it. He missed on a six-foot putt on the opening hole for a bogey and then bogeyed No. 2 when he needed a putt from eight feet.

Miller missed a chance to tie for the lead when he missed a four-foot putt on No. 2 for a bogey. But he did gain a tie when he drove to just a foot from the cup on the par-three, 206-yard fourth and made the putt.

As the afternoon rounds started, a driving rain started to beat down in earnest and it was back to traditional British Open weather. When the rain stopped, it had not made much of impression on the parched fairways and greens. But the wind was still blowing in from the sea and making low scoring very difficult.

JOHNNY MILLER

Shoots into lead after eight holes today.

Before the rain began to fall, another fire broke out in the area along the 13th fairway. Firemen, standing by at the course because of the tinderbox conditions, doused the fire in 15 minutes.

Several other fires in the bushy rough that covers Royal Birkdale had broken out earlier in the week.

Hubert Green and Christy O'Connor of Ireland, who were tied at 142 after two rounds, had six bogies between them on the first six holes.

But their problems hardly matched those of Jerry Pate, the U.S. Open winner, who started the day at even par. Pate took an incredible eight on the par-four 11th and double bogeys on the fourth, sixth and 12th holes.

Youngsters make Johnson reserves

NEW YORK (AP) — Butch Wynegar, who would become the youngest All-Star participant if he plays, and Willie Randolph, the first rookie ever listed on an All-Star ballot, were among the 11 reserves named today to complete the 28-man American League All-Star team.

Wynegar, the Minnesota Twins' prize catcher, will be 20 years, three months, 29 days old Tuesday night, when the AL meets the National League at Philadelphia in the 47th All-Star Game.

Randolph, second baseman for the New York Yankees, already broke ground when he was listed on the ballot. He finished second to Baltimore's Bobby Grich in the fans' voting.

Boston Manager Darrell Johnson named two other Yankees, front-runners in the AL East, to the squad — first baseman Chris Chambliss and outfielder Mickey Rivers. He also named a trio of players from Kansas City, the leader in the AL West — outfielders Hal McRae and Amos Otis and shortstop Fred Patek.

Also selected for the AL team, which has lost 12 of the last 13 midseason games, were catcher Carlton Fisk and first baseman Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, Baltimore shortstop Mark Belanger and Milwaukee third baseman Don Money.

Six of the 11 reserves have been selected for the All-Star Game in the past. Patek was on the team in 1972, Money in 1974 and McRae in 1975. Otis has made the All-Star team four times. Fisk has been given the honor three times and Yastrzemski will be participating in the game for the 13th time.

Johnson mainly selected runner-ups from the All-Star balloting, with the exception of McRae, who finished eighth in the outfield voting but is the AL's leading designated hitter at .338, and Wynegar, who was fifth in the balloting for catchers. But Wynegar led all written candidates in both leagues with 561,488 votes.

Six Yankees are on the complete AL squad, which consists of the reserves, pitchers chosen by Johnson, and eight starters selected by the fans. Yankees catcher Thurman Munson was the fans' choice, while pitchers Catfish Hunter and Sparky Lyle were two of Johnson's nine pitching picks.

The other pitchers on the squad are Mark Fydrich of Detroit, Rolfe Fingers of Oakland, Rich Gossage of the Chicago White Sox, Dave LaRoche of Cleveland, Frank Tanana of California, Luis Tiant of Boston and Bill Travers of Milwaukee.

George Brett of Kansas City, the AL's top hitter, was picked by the fans as the starting third baseman. The other electees were first baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota, second baseman Grich, shortstop Toby Harrah of Texas and outfielders Fred Lynn of Boston and Ron Lettore and Rusty Staub of Detroit.

Southwest slant—Cowpoke samplers

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — A sampler of Dallas Cowboy veterans, led by quarterback Roger Staubach, took to the practice field here today to join rookie hopefuls in the getting-ready process.

Reporting along with quarterbacks Staubach and Clint Longley Thursday were wide receivers Drew Pearson, Golden Richards and Percy Howard; tight end Billy Joe DuPree; center John Fitzgerald; and linebackers Bob Breunig, Randy White, Thomas Henderson and Warren Capone.

Quarterbacks and receivers were scheduled to work on pass routes and timing Friday while the linebackers were expected to join in the regular practice.

The rookies held a 15-minute scrimmage Thursday following workouts.

Coaches said a pair of cornerback hopefuls had a standout day, Henry Laws of South Carolina and Beasley Reece of North Texas State.

The rookies head north to Irvine, Calif., Saturday to scrimmage the San Diego Chargers rookies.

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros say they have broken off negotiations with Floyd Bannister, the team's number one choice in the recent major league free agent draft.

Astros General Manager Tal Smith said the club and the left-handed pitcher from Arizona State "are far apart."

"We have withdrawn our offer," Smith said Thursday. "It was a fair and equitable offer in our judgment."

Late rally rocks Rangers

Defensive sub, Thomas, unlikely hero

MILWAUKEE (AP) — As a ninth-inning defensive replacement who struck out in two subsequent times at bat, Gorman Thomas seemed an unlikely hero.

But a series of moves by Managers Alex Grammas of Milwaukee and Frank Lucchesi of Texas gave Thomas another chance Thursday night. His one-out, bases-loaded double scored two runs and capped a three-run 13th inning, lifting the Brewers over Texas 5-4.

Thomas' drive over the head of left-fielder Tom Grieve came off loser Joe Hoerner (0-1), a left-hander brought in by Lucchesi three batters earlier.

"I knew that if they brought in another right-hander against me to replace Hoerner that Don Money would hit for me," Thomas said. "But I was happy to have the opportunity to hit—particularly in that situation."

The Rangers, who had gained a 2-2 tie on ex-Brewer Joe Lahoud's first home run of the year leading off the ninth, scored twice in the top of the 13th on a leadoff double by Toby Harrah, an intentional walk, an RBI pinch single by Gene Clines and a squeeze bunt by Jim Sundberg.

But Bernie Carbo started the Brewer half with a double and took third on a single by George Scott. Lucchesi then replaced right-hander Steve Foucault with Hoerner to pitch to the left-handed batting Bill Sharp. Sharp bunted, and when the ball rolled past Hoerner and first-baseman Mike Hargrove, Carbo took off from third and scored. Scott made second and Sharp was safe at first without a throw.

"That was just a sacrifice bunt," Grammas said. "I just wanted the tying run (Scott) to get to second. That guy on third can score any time. But the bunt was kind of hard, and with the pitcher and first baseman charging in like they were, it just got past them."

"We anticipated that, but it was a hell of a bunt and there was no way I or anyone else could have got it," Hoerner said.

FINLEY BLASTS KUHN FOR "VENDETTA" — Charlie O. Finley, owner of the Oakland A's accused baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn of "A personal vendetta against me," during a taping Wednesday night of the Tonight Show starring Johnny Carson. Finley said, "Kuhn is the fifth baseball commissioner in history, and the first to stop a sale." Kuhn has vetoed the proposed 3 million dollar sale of Oakland A's players Vida Blue, Rolfe Fingers, and Joe Rudi.

NL leaders fill 12 all-star slots

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cincinnati's Big Red Machine and Philadelphia's power-packed Phillies placed a combined 12 players on the National League All-Star team. Surprise — they're all hitters.

The Phillies, way out in front in the NL East, will have five players competing in front of their home fans at Veterans Stadium Tuesday night for the 47th All-Star Game. The Reds, leaders in the NL West, added two reserves to the five Cincinnati starters the fans had chosen earlier.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson Thursday picked 11 reserves, including four Phillies, to fill his NL roster to 28 players. The four Phillies were catcher Bob Boone, second baseman Dave Cash, shortstop Larry Bowa and third baseman Mike Schmidt. Earlier, the fans had selected Philadelphia outfielder Greg Luzinski as an All-Star starter.

Anderson also named two of his own players, outfielder Ken Griffey and first baseman Tony Perez. With the fans' previous selections of Cincinnati's three other infielders, second baseman Joe Morgan, shortstop Dave Concepcion and third baseman Pete Rose, the NL could field an all-Cincinnati infield sometime in the game. The fans also named Cincinnati outfielder George Foster to the starting lineup.

The other reserves chosen by Anderson were third baseman Ron Cey and shortstop Bill Russell of Los Angeles, catcher Steve Swisher of the Chicago Cubs and outfielders Cesar Cedeno of Houston, Al Oliver of Pittsburgh and Bake McBride of St. Louis.

Anderson agreed with the fans' overall balloting, choosing the runners-up in the voting at each position. At shortstop, Bowa, the second choice, and Russell, the third pick, were both named to the squad. Boone was the second leading vote-getter at catcher, while Swisher, the Cubs' mandatory one representative on the squad, was the seventh choice in the fans' balloting.

In the outfield voting, McBride, hitting .342, and Griffey, batting .334, were the top runners-up. Oliver finished ninth in the balloting but leads the major leagues in hitting with a .363 average. Anderson passed over Lou Brock of St. Louis, Rick Monday of Chicago and Garry Maddox of Philadelphia to get to Oliver, the one Pittsburgh representative on the team.

Anderson didn't name any Cincinnati or Philadelphia pitchers for his eight-man pitching staff.

Teenage League

Knights tie for top

The Knights of the Teenage Senior League clipped the Red Sox 9-5 in a battle for the league's top spot.

Mark Harris (6-0) pitched a four-hitter (all singles) to pick up the win. The Knights' victory pulled them into a first place tie with the Red Sox. Both teams have an 11-2 record.

Harris, Mark Pox and Freddie Martinez each belted two hits for the winners. Tony Paradez drilled a double for the only extra base blow of the game. Ricky Myers, had the Knights' other safety in the winner's eight-hit attack.

The Sox four hits were divided among Johnny Mize, David Manley, Ronald Sunday and David Altom. Larry Smith started for the Sox surrendering for runs on four hits in two and third innings. Kev McLaughlin went three at four runs on three hits at David Manley put it Knights down on one hit the seventh.

However, Johnson's hits were not enough. Astros relied on Jose Nunez in his third inning bases single to pull out the against Montreal loser Dunning, 0-3.

Taiwan's Ting questions

Canada worse than Hitler?

MONTREAL (AP) — Olympic officials strove for a last-minute compromise agreement with the Canadian government today as Taiwan's Olympic team, center of a political controversy, headed for Montreal.

A group of 36 members of the Taiwan Olympic team, including approximately 20 athletes, arrived in Los Angeles Thursday night. After a two-hour stopover, the group took off for Chicago, the second leg on its journey to Montreal, where the delegation was supposed to arrive later today.

Lawrence S. Ting, chief of Taiwan's Olympic mission, said during the stop in Los Angeles that he was hopeful the Canadian government would abide by IOC regulations.

"In 1936, Hitler was trying to intervene in the Olympic Games in Germany," Ting said. "After the IOC's strong representation, Hitler changed his mind and respected IOC rules. So I really hope the Canadian leaders will come to their senses, turn around, if they are not worse than Hitler in terms of sensibility."

Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, called a hurried meeting of his tripartite commission, made up of delegates from the IOC, the international sports federations and the national Olympic committees. He had hoped to find a compromise to put to the Canadian government before the Taiwanese plane touched down.

The Olympic Games, scheduled to begin July 17, could be threatened if agreement was not reached over the Taiwanese.

Willi Daume of Germany, a vice-president of the IOC and a member of the commission, said:

CHINESE COACH SITTING TIGHT — C. K. Yang (left), former world record holder in the decathlon and now coach of track and field athletes from Taiwan, sits in the grandstand watching some members of his team compete in an all-comers meet in Los Angeles Wednesday night. He said the team would not go on to Montreal for the Olympics until the squabble about whether they will be called the Taiwan team or the Republic of China team is settled.

"I do not think there will be any move to make the athletes compete under the name of Taiwan, or Formosa. We recognize them as the Republic of China. But we shall try to find some sort of compromise."

In 1969, when Montreal bid for the Games, the Canadian government pledged free entry for all national Olympic committees recognized by the IOC. Canada now is threatening to ban the Taiwanese following diplomatic pressure by the Communist Chinese government in Peking.

Mainland China has been gathering a lot of support from the international sports federations and from Asian Olympic committees in its bid for Olympic recognition. But Peking insists that Taiwan be kicked out of the Games — and most of the 70-strong IOC stand firm against that.

Henry Hsu, IOC member for Taiwan, said he has no objection to athletes from Communist China competing in the Olympics, but argued they should be a separate body.

"There are two Germanys, and two Koreas," Hsu said. "Why should there not be two Chinas?"

DETROIT (AP) — The Taiwanese Olympic team, embroiled in a controversy with the Canadian government over participation in the Montreal Olympics, was stranded today at a Detroit airport because of a dispute over visas, an Allegheny Airlines official said.

The 45-member team arrived at Detroit Metropolitan Airport this morning on a flight from Dallas and Los Angeles.

They had been slated to leave Detroit for Rochester, N.Y., and then Montreal at 10:45 a.m.

The delegation had been scheduled to go from Los Angeles to Chicago and Montreal. However, the team apparently went from the West Coast to Dallas and then to Detroit, officials said.

Jones' 16th snaps record

CHICAGO (AP) — "I think 16 wins is enough work for half a season. I'd like to start the All-Star game on Tuesday."

So said San Diego's Randy Jones, 16-3, the winningest pitcher in National League history at an All-Star break.

Jones, who surrendered seven hits and was in trouble only twice enroute to a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday, was talking about the chance to tie Vida Blue's major league mark of 17 victories at the All-Star recess, set in 1971.

To do so, Jones would have to start Sunday in Philadelphia on only two days rest and Padres Manager John McNamara said he won't do it.

"I think his arm might be a little tired and I won't use him unless it's in relief and the game is in the balance," said McNamara.

Jones' victory was his 15th complete game in 21 starts, his fourth straight victory and his 11th in his last 12 starts.

It came one game past the halfway mark in the season for the Padres and made Jones the first potential 30-game winner in the NL since Dizzy Dean was 30-7 for St. Louis in 1934.

Not bad for a 26-year-old southpaw, only in his third major league season with a history of a sore arm and a fast ball that makes hitters scoff and wouldn't earn him a second look with most major league scouts today.

Yet, he's proved a continual frustration to some of the best hitters and already has reached the heights only a few of the games greatest hurlers ever achieved.

His secret?

A sinker and a slider that hitters can't distinguish, pinpoint control and concentration that amazes his pitching coach, Roger Craig.

"He possesses a sinker and a slider that both drop," says Craig. "They look the same to a hitter but they break in opposite directions. The slider goes into a right-handed hitter, the sinker moves away."

Jones has averaged only 95 pitches per game this year, once throwing as few as 67, according to Craig.

Earlier this season, Jones matched a 63-year-old NL record, hurling 68 innings without yielding a walk. The JONES' DELIVERY — San Diego Padres pitcher Randy Jones (35) scratches his head before going into his delivery in the first inning of Thursday's game against the Chicago Cubs in Chicago. Jones pitched his 16th victory to break the National League record for the most wins before the All-Star Game. Jones, 16-3, has a chance to tie Vida Blue's major league record of 17 wins.

alltime record of 84 1-3 innings was set by Kansas City's Bill Fischer of the American League in 1962.

Two-wheeled lineup

British Olympic cyclists maintain their file as the follow a motorpacer Thursday during training session in the velodrome of the Montreal Olympic village. The cyclists are preparing for the 1976 Summer Olympic Games later this month.

Aggie grad Smelser leaves training camp

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Offensive guard Dennis Smelser of Texas A&M, called "the best offensive prospect we had in camp" by Coach Dick Vermeil, has voluntarily left the Philadelphia Eagles training camp along with two other rookies.

"Sometimes a kid gets real down," Vermeil said Thursday. "In Dennis' case, he misses his wife in Texas, who is pregnant. And there are a lot of emotional things they go through."

"I've talked to him, more than I would a player who I thought wouldn't have a chance to make the football team," Vermeil added. "I'd like him to come back because he has an awful lot of talent. But there are a lot of people walking around with talent."

The others who left camp, which opened Monday, were defensive tackle Jose Gonzales of the University of Miami and offensive tackle John Jacobi of West Texas State. All three are free agents.

Vermeil has only three offensive guards and one offensive tackle in camp until the veterans report Saturday. The shortage of offensive linemen makes Vermeil's plans for Saturday's scrimmage against the Baltimore Colts sketchy.

"Right now I don't know whether we're going to have enough offensive linemen to scrimmage," said the former UCLA coach. "But those we have left, I'll tell you, they're going to fight."

Ex-catcher powers Astros to 7-6 victory over Expos

HOUSTON (AP) — For the first few months of the season, Cliff Johnson tried in vain to become the Houston Astros' No. 1 catcher but he suffered through poor performances both behind the plate and a bat.

In an effort to keep Johnson's power in the lineup, Astros manager Bill Virdon moved him to left field. Johnson showed signs of breaking out of his season long slump Thursday night by driving in three runs with a three-double performance as the Astros trimmed the Montreal Expos, 7-6.

However, Johnson's three hits were not enough as the Astros relied on Jose Cruz' ninth inning bases loaded single to pull out the victory against Montreal loser Steve Dunning, 0-3.

Ken Forsch, 2-2, gained the victory for Houston in a tuneup for his first All-Star appearance next week in Philadelphia.

Cruz' hit to left followed a one-out single by Enos Cabell and intentional walks to Bob Watson and Leon Roberts.

A two-run single by Roberts and Johnson's first double brought home three first inning runs for Houston off Montreal starter Woodie Fryman.

An unearned run crossed the plate for Houston in the fifth on Larry Parrish's error and Johnson's run-scoring double to right.

Fryman surrendered two more Astros runs in the seventh on an error by Expos shortstop Tim Lincecum's double and Johnson's third twobagger of the evening.

"I owe it all to Deacon (Astros hitting instructor) Jones," said Johnson. "We work extensively in batting practice on hitting the ball where it is pitched. When the ball was pitched away from me tonight, I was not trying to pull it. I've also been using a heavier bat in order to cut down my swing."

The Expos used a bases loaded walk against Astros starter Mike Cosgrove and an RBI double by Bombo Rivera to score single runs in the first and fourth innings.

Rivera hit a two-run home run off Cosgrove in the sixth.

Police beat Chain of events leads to arrest of man here

An unusual chain of events led to the arrest of a Big Spring man at 8:23 p.m. Thursday.

At 7 p.m. Big Spring Police received a call regarding a domestic argument between a man and his wife on the south side of town. Officer Jimmie Hensley investigated the incident, and it was settled for the moment.

Then at 7:15 p.m. employees of the Bob Brock Ford Dealership on 500 W. 4th called to report that a 1976 pickup had been stolen off of the back lot.

Moments later, the woman involved earlier in the domestic quarrel called to tell the police that her husband had run out of the house, and shortly thereafter had driven past the home in a strange pickup truck.

At 8:23 p.m. Officer V. Y. Garcia spotted the missing truck on North Lancaster. Officers Howard Kloss and Hensley arrested its driver (the woman's husband) for suspicion of auto theft and public intoxication.

shots from a pistol into the driver's side door.

Zubiate was unhurt in the incident and police have not located the orange VW.

Employees of the Montgomery Ward store at Highland Shopping Center reported that a sneak thief had taken the time to take the timepieces in a display case there.

The theft occurred during business hours Wednesday, and the culprit got away with 12 Timex watches valued at $299.25.

A Big Spring cab driver reported that vandals opened the door of his cab and ripped the glove compartment out with their hands.

The incident occurred around 2 a.m. today while the driverless cab was parked on the 300 block of Runnels. Damage was estimated at $100.

Juana Swinney, 1504 Bluebird, lost her purse at 8:45 p.m. Thursday.

According to reports, she left the purse in Winchell's Do-Nut Shop, came back five minutes later, and the purse was gone. Value was estimated at $20.

There were only two mishaps reported Thursday.

A parked car belonging to Marjorie Morris, 106 E. 17th, was hit by a car that left the scene at Highland Shopping Center parking lot, 4:44 p.m.

Cars belonging to Catarina Martinez, 1002 N. Main, and David Garcia, 2001 Runnels, collided at 3rd and Benton, 3:43 p.m.

Prisoner shotgun victim

Former Castroville Marshal guilty of aggravated assault

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — A state district court jury recommended the maximum 10-year prison sentence Thursday for former Castroville City Marshal Frank Hayes, who was earlier found guilty of aggravated assault in the 1975 shotgun slaying of Richard Morales, 29. Morales died of a shotgun wound in 1975 while allegedly in Hayes' custody. Hayes had been charged with murder, but in his charge to the jury Judge Earl Smith said Hayes could be found guilty of murder, murder while committing a felony, aggravated assault or criminally negligent homicide. The guilty verdict came during the early evening, and the jury elected to continue with the punishment phase.

Hayes took the stand Thursday to testify in his own defense. He said he never intended to kill Morales.

The former law officer gave his version of the incident during testimony, saying the fatal shotgun shooting was accidental and occurred during a struggle.

"He (Morales) started coming closer and I had to push him back with my hand and the shotgun. I pushed him with the butt of the shotgun and possibly with the barrel," Hayes testified. "I absolutely did not punch him with the shotgun."

The 1975 slaying occurred after an arrest warrant was served on Morales by Medina County Sheriff's Deputy Donald McCall.

"I advised McCall to turn him loose and take the handcuffs off," Hayes said. "I never said I would kill him. I've never killed anyone intentionally."

The shooting happened at an isolated road shortly after Morales' arrest at his home. Morales' body was found in a shallow grave on an East Texas farm by a Texas Ranger.

Hayes' testimony came after the defense paraded 30 character witnesses into the courtroom along with other witnesses.

Two doctors from the Air Force's Wilford Hall Hospital in San Antonio testified they treated Hayes for gunshot wounds in 1973, and that he had been taking medication since that time.

Hayes referred to that incident in his testimony when describing the struggle with Morales.

"I did have fear of my life, because I remembered how my gun had been taken from me before and I was injured seriously."

Hayes also said there was "personal animosity" between him and Medina County Sheriff Charles Hitzfelder and that there was also "friction" between him and McCall.

Prosecution witnesses had testified earlier that Hayes said he was going to kill Morales.

'Happy Days' at Paramount

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was "Happy Days" at Paramount Television with Henry Winkler back in the cast of the ABC series after a two-day absence.

"Everything has been worked out," a company spokesman said Thursday.

Winkler, "The Fonz" of the situation comedy, had been absent from the resumption of filming for the new season, reportedly in a move to improve his contract terms.
