TWO SENATORS CONTEND THIS IS NOT ENOUGH

Nixon Asks $34.6 Million To Treat Alcoholism

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has announced a "major national effort" to treat alcoholism and has asked Congress to provide $34.6 million for the program.

This figures out to about $3.90 a year for each of the country's nine million alcoholics or problem drinkers.

Two senators contend this is not enough.

Dr. Morris E. Chavetz, whose appointment as director of the government's new National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism was announced Thursday, acknowledged in an interview the $34.6 million administration request for alcoholism programs next year will fall far short of the need.

"The country is ambivalent about alcholism and doesn't appear ready through Congress to provide the needed funds," he said.

Elliot L. Richardson, secretary of health, education and welfare, said his anouncement of the new alcoholism institute means "the federal government has launched a major national effort to combat this serious and widespread public health problem."

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, a former alcoholic, and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., dispute the administration's commitment to combatting alcoholism.

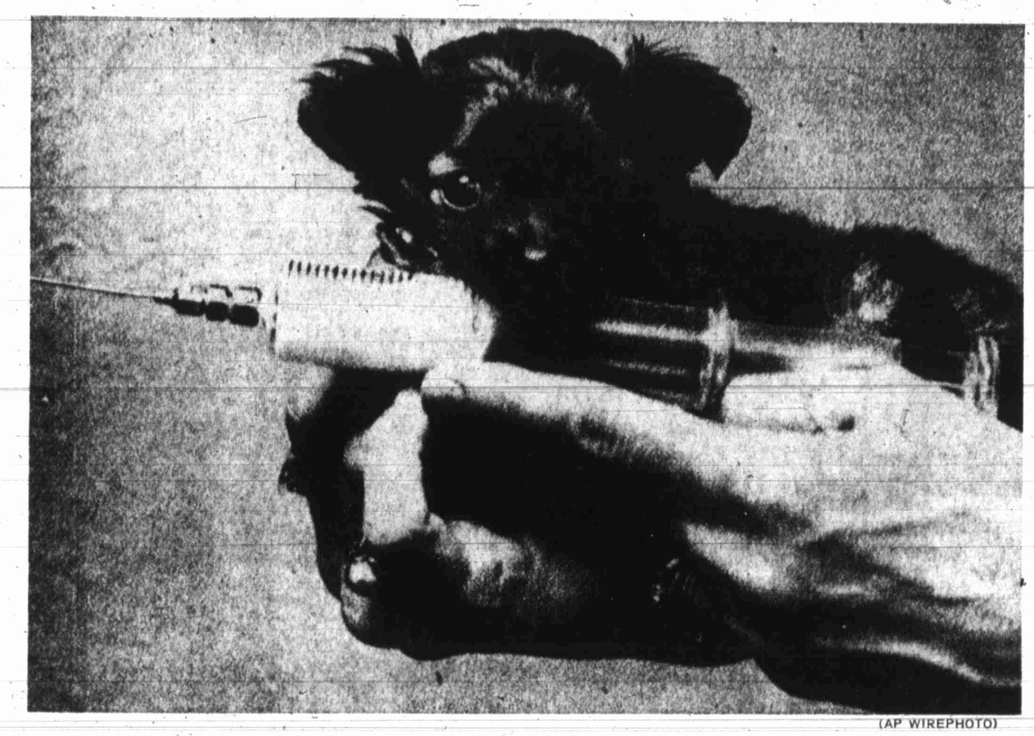

They contend President Nixon has waited five months to implement the comprehensive alcoholism program passed last year by Congress and intends to request only a small portion of the authorized funds.

The administration's fiscal 1972 budget for alcoholism calls for $34.6 million compared to $100 million authorized by Congress. Government alcoholism experts requested far more money than the White House granted. Dr. Bertram S. Brown, director of the National Institute of Mental Health indicated at a news conference.

There are an estimated nine million alcoholics and problem drinkers in the country with cases growing by 100,000 each year. More than 25,000 persons are killed in alcohol-related traffic accidents annually.

The government says 11,000 persons die each year from alcoholism with one-half of all homicides and one-third of all suicides known to be alcohol-related.

The major goal of the new alcoholism institute is to create a series of community treatment centers throughout the country. Some 19 projects averaging $200,000 each in federal funds have been approved, officials said.

GETTING THE POINT — Teddy, a four-month-old Chihuahua, is wide-eyed at the expectation of getting his frist rabies vaccination. He was awaiting his turn at the Monterey County rabies clinic when he encountered a needle and syringe as big as he. He was probably wishing he was younger, though, because rabies shots start for dogs of four months.

U. S. Jobless Rate Tops 6 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said today unemployment edged up slightly to 6.1 per cent last month. The jobless rate for blacks soared to 10 per cent, highest since January 1964.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the figures showed "the employment situation was essentially unchanged . . ."

The report followed one of Tuesday which showed a new increase in wholesale prices, dampening President Nixon's efforts to battle inflation.

Nixon has promised to bring over-all unemployment down to 4.5 per cent by the middle of 1972.

The Democratic National Committee issued a statement saying: "Wholesale prices have gone up. Steel prices have gone up. The dollar is under attack in Europe. And now unemployment has risen. And all we get from the Nixon administration is the worn-out promise that things will get better."

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson issued a statement saying that, "This month's report on unemployment levels was a disappointment. We feel sure unemployment rates will shortly be coming down but we are evidently now observing a pattern that has marked previous periods of economic resurgence after a slowdown, namely that a pickup in employment always follows by some months an improvement in other economic indicators."

The April jobless rate was up one-tenth of one per cent over the 6 per cent rate for March and was just below the nine-year high of 6.2 reached last December.

Total employment was up slightly due mainly to more farm jobs. The work week for rank and file workers edged up slightly for the second month in a row and factory overtime was unchanged.

But, after holding steady between December and March, workers moved up from 9.4 per cent to 10 per cent.

The BLS said this was due mainly to fewer jobs for Negro women.

The unemployment rate for whites remained 5.6 per cent.

For teen-agers the rate remained essentially unchanged at 17.2 per cent.

The over-all unemployment rate of 6.1 per cent compared with a 4.7 per cent rate one year ago.

Nixon says his drive to expand the economy through increased federal spending and easier money policies should reduce unemployment and the inflation rate simultaneously.

But April's wholesale price index appeared to signal a new rise in the cost of living, since movements at the wholesale level usually translate into consumer price increases.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said he hated to see the wholesale price index rise, but he added: "I don't think we should pay too much attention to it."

There was some encouraging news in another economic area. The Department of Agriculture announced consumer spending on food during the first quarter increased $600 million from January-March last year, the smallest rise in more than two years.

The report said food prices probably will end the year with an increase of 2.5 to 3 per cent. The increase last year was 5.6 per cent, largest in 20 years.

The USDA survey said food purchased at supermarkets this year probably will cost 2 per cent more than last year. Dining out is expected to continue costing more, but at a lesser rate than the 7.4-per cent rise during 1970.

Egg prices during the first quarter were down 24 per cent from a year earlier; pork dropped 13 per cent, poultry 4 per cent. Fats and oils and fish products cost 10 per cent more. Coffee, processed fruits and vegetables and bakery and cereal products were more expensive.

Menacing Twisters, Hail Fade In Texas

By The Associated Press

Texas weather calmed today after still another night of menacing tornadoes and fierce thunderstorms with battering hail in areas from the Gulf Coast to the Red River.

It was 2 a.m., however, before the last official watch against possible twisters expired.

The unruly weather moved eastward out of the state ahead of a cool front which was about halfway across Texas along a north-south line by early morning.

Although a number of tornado funnels were sighted, none apparently caused any damage.

Mineral Wells police spotted three of the spinning clouds southwest of Palo Pinto. About the same time winds gusting to 58 miles per hour and one-inch hail hit Ft. Wolters, just outside Mineral Wells.

STORMS BAD

Reports of other twisters came from five miles east of Mason, near the Beaumont-Port Arthur airport, in northern Tarrant County near the Dallas County line, north of Dallas and between Longview and Hallsville.

Hail as big as baseballs pounded areas north of Fort Worth and Dallas.

Dangerous Derailment

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — Police ordered a one-half mile area of the city empted today after a freight train reportedly carrying explosives and other inflammable material derailed and caught fire.

Police Chief Tom Miller said no injuries were reported in the derailment of the Southern Railway freight train en route from New Orleans to Birmingham.

Four of the cars burned but it was not immediately determined if they were the ones carrying explosives. About 12 cars left the track.

Nose-Dive Kills Dozen

COOLIDGE, Ariz. (AP) — Witnesses say an Apache Airlines plane appeared to be attempting an emergency landing when it nose-dived into a cotton field near here and exploded. All 12 persons on board were killed.

The plane, on a flight Thursday from Tucson to Phoenix, was the first scheduled commercial airliner to crash in the continental United States since November, 1969. The twin-engine plane carried 10 passengers and a crew of two.

The crash occurred about three miles southwest of the Coolidge Municipal Airport and about 40 miles southeast of Phoenix.

The feeder airline serves 10 Arizona communities and Las Vegas, Nev.

POGO GETS 600 BOUNCES TO A PINT

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — A pogo stick that gets 600 bounces to a pint of fuel and a motorless go-cart are on display here — new fangled machines created by students concerned about pollution.

The pogo stick being shown at the University of Southwestern Louisiana is powered by a two-cycle engine. Created by Jimmy Fitzgerald and Bill Shear, the stick moves up and down along with the stroke of the piston.

The go-cart is the brainchild of three Southwestern Louisiana students, Mike Johnson, Robert Gaddy and Kirk Resweber Jr. It has a flywheel that's cranked by connecting it to an electric motor. After 10 minutes of charging, the cart takes off for about 13 minutes at a top speed of 30 miles per hour.

Nolen Named NTSU Prexy; Listens Well

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — C. C. "Jitter" Nolen, 45, vice chancellor for development at Texas Christian University, was named president of North Texas State University today.

He will take up his duties during the summer.

A. M. Willis, of Longview, chairman of the NTSU board of regents, introduced Nolen at an assembly of the faculty and students, calling him "a man who listens well and can make a decision."

Nolen was one of a dozen candidates interviewed out of more than 300 who applied from all over the country.

His selection ends a year-long search for a successor to Dr. John J. Kamerick, who accepted the presidency of the University of Northern Iowa last May after being two years at Denton.

John L. Carter, vice president for fiscal affairs, had been acting president since Dr. Kamerick's departure.

Nolen, in his third year at TCU, directed a fund-raising campaign there that reached $19 million since January, 1970.

Street People Retreating, They Say They'll Be Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — The street people faded in retreat from the nation's capital today, their design to stop the war by stopping the government frustrated but not abandoned.

The protesters had faltered against the government's overwhelming and well-prepared police and military power. Arrested by the thousands, they ran out of bodies.

But not out of breath. "This country is going to have to deal with us," vowed demonstration organizer Rennie Davis. "It's not enough to put us all in jail because we're all willing to go to jail and stay there to end the war."

MARCH FOR VICTORY

The streets of Washington will see the protesters again in two months, Davis said.

In their absence, the capital today anticipated its first normal day since last Sunday, with no planned demonstrations, just controversy as usual.

It could last a day.

Saturday will see a march to a different beat when The Rev. Dr. Carl McIntire leads a "March for Victory" he says will attract more demonstrators than attended a massive peace rally April 24.

But the weekend events all differ markedly in both motives and makeup from the past days'. Nobody expects the mostly middle-aged and middle-class followers of the fundamentalist minister to put on the show presented by the collection of young, hairy and uniquely dressed antiwar protesters.

Certainly their tactics will vary.

The antiwar people planned to close down the government by strangling the city's traffic. On the surface this didn't seem outlandish in a town that chokes on half an inch of rain.

But it turned out to be.

From the very start, when they were routed from a park campground Sunday, until Thursday, when fewer than 50 tired, bedraggled protesters showed up in front of the South Vietnamese Embassy to face 500 policemen, the demonstrators had not a prayer.

They were greeted by 10,000 federal troops starting Monday, 5,200 city police, seemingly unlimited canisters of tear gas and a fast-breaking battle-plan that included street-sweeping arrests.

PASSAGE OF TAX BILL MEANS:

Texans To Start Paying More For Gas, Beer, Other Items

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans can count on paying more for beer, gasoline, cigarettes and other items July 1 because of a record-smashing tax bill that was en route to Gov. Preston Smith today.

SMITH TO SIGN

Smith—whose tax-avoiding bond program was laughed out of the legislature in February—was expected to sign the $684 million tax measure that won final legislative approval Thursday.

In addition to the $684 million in general revenue to cover new spending, the bill provides $23.3 million over the next two years in earmarked cigarette taxes for parks and $195 million designated for highways.

The House voted 100-46 to accept the Senate-written tax package—barely the two-thirds majority needed to put the measure into effect July 1.

Failure to put the bill into early effect would have lost an estimated $70 million in revenue.

House members first voted 86-60 for the bill, but reconsidered after lunch and gave it the needed 100 votes.

It was the first time in the memory of veteran lawmakers that the House and Senate got together on a tax bill without having a joint conference committee write the compromise.

The new taxes are needed to pay for additional state spending over the next two years, mainly for automatic increases in public schools and higher welfare costs.

SALES TAX

The tax bill would:

—Increase the state sales tax from 3.25 to 4 per cent for $32.1 million in new revenue over 1972-73. Most Texans pay an additional penny in city sales taxes.

—Raise the motor vehicle sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent and extend the levy to car rentals, $84.5 million.

—Boost the corporation franchise tax by $1.25 per $1,000 of assets, $108.1 million.

—Add 3 cents a pack to the present 15.5 cents cigarette tax, $46.7 million.

—Raise the gasoline tax 2 cents per gallon and the diesel fuel tax one-half cent per gallon, to a total of 7 cents each, $65.2 million.

Transfer financing of the farm to market road program from general revenue to the highway fund, $30 million.

—Increase the beer producers' tax—which probably would be passed on to consumers—from $4.30 to $6 a barrel, $28.8 million.

House Speaker Gus Mutscher said a liquor tax bill would be passed later, lowering the beer tax increase from $1.70 to 70 cents a barrel, cutting the new revenue by $16 million.

The bill would add $22 a year to the sales taxes paid by a family of four with a $10,000 gross income. Gasoline taxes would rise by $16 a year for a car that is driven 12,000 miles a year and gets 15 miles per gallon. A household that smokes two packs of cigarettes a day would be contributing $21.90 per year more to the state.

Rep. Ben Atwell of DeSoto, House Tax Committee chairman said business would pay $263 million of the $684 million estimated revenue from the bill over the next two years.

"Business does pay their fair share of taxes in this state," Atwell told liberals who complained the bill fell too heavily on consumers.

Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi claimed "40 lobbyists" made the initial decision Wednesday for the House to accept the bill.

But Reps. Hilary Doran of Del Rio and John Traeger of Seguin denied they had been told how to vote by lobbyists, and Traeger said Mrs. Farenthold's remark reflects on the integrity of this House."

Lawmakers passed and sent to the governor Thursday other bills that would:

—Require re-inspection of cars damaged in accidents within 30 days after the mishaps.

—Enable county governments to prohibit rock restivals and other mass gatherings in rural areas if they are found to endanger public health or safety.

The House passed and sent to the governor a Senate bill phasing out the chain store tax over a four-year period. The tax brings in about $5 million a year now.

City Dads Meeting Today

An emergency meeting of the city commission for the purpose of adding a variance to the zoning ordinance of Big Spring to authorize the issuance of a building permit for the new mobile home manufacturing plant was called at 2 p.m. today by members of the city commission.

The meeting today follows a special planning and zoning board meeting held Thursday in which members of the board and the city commission, plus representatives from the Industrial Foundation discussed possible routes by which to expedite the construction of the building for the plant.

Eagle Mobile Home Manufacturing Co., affiliated with Addison Industries, Addison, Ala., is to be located south of the intersection of Eleventh Place Extension and FM 700.

President Of Mexico Will Visit Rio Bravo

RIO BRAVO, Mexico (AP) — Mexican President Luis Echeverria today wound up a two-day visit to the Texas-Mexico border area with a visit to an agriculture research station in this small farming community.

The president flew to nearby Reynosa early today after a day-long series of speeches, public appearances and a work session with officials, including Texas Gov. Preston Smith, at Nuevo Laredo Thursday.

NO FORMAL TALKS

Veteran observers of Northern Mexico note that Rio Bravo and the research station are always on the itinerary of a Mexican president visiting this area of the border.

President Echeverria's visit today is apparently a continuation of his expressed concern for agriculture.

His appearance at Nuevo Laredo Thursday was highlighted by a speech to some 2,000 delegates at the annual convention of the National Cattlemen's Association.

Although Gov. Smith was a guest at the banquet held by the cattlemen's association, a spokesman for the governor's office said no formal talks were held. The governor, accompanied by Texas Agriculture Commissioner John White, sat at the head table with the Mexican chief executive and lunched on steak as musicians and dancers entertained an estimated 2,000 persons at the banquet.

UNITY PLEA

In addition to speaking at the convention and having lunch with the Texas governor, President Echeverria also laid a wreath at the Nuevo Laredo Founder's Monument, visited a national Charolais cattle exposition, spoke briefly at a technical school and held a work session with Tamaulipas Gov. Manuel Ravize and Nuevo Laredo and state officials.

President Echeverria urged unity between farm owners and farm workers during his convention speech.

This unity, he said, will result in "peace in the countryside and more beneficial agricultural production."

'OPEN DOOR' POLICY

Expressing his concern for agriculture in Mexico, the president also said he has an "open door" policy which means that farmers are always welcome to visit him to discuss their problems.

Gov. Ravize, speaking at the convention, urged the president to take some action to aid Tamaulipas farmers and ranchers, who like their counterparts on the other side of the Rio Grande, have been plagued with a drouth.

Gov. Ravize noted that there has been no rain in the state since last September.

"We are passing through a tremendous crisis and I am sure you as a national leader will discuss with us the drouth and consider us for legislation," Gov. Ravize told the president.

The border state governor told the cattlemen the president had proved his interest in agriculture by appearing at the convention.

"The farmers of Tamaulipas work with a sense of patriotism," he said.

To Reduce Leatherneck Strength In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today the imminent withdrawal of more than a dozen U.S. Marine units that will reduce Leatherneck strength in Vietnam by 3,085 men.

Their departure will lower the total of U.S. forces in Vietnam to about 262,000 men, the lowest level in five years. The last withdrawal target set by President Nixon calls for American strength to be cut to 184,000 men by Dec. 1.

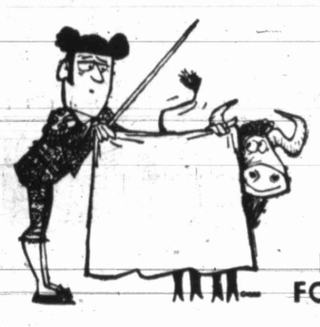

The Marine withdrawal announced today will leave about 9,000 Marines in the country. All of these except a small number of advisers will be pulled out by the end of this month or early June.

The major units that are beginning to stand down in preparation for return to the United States are the 1st Battalion, 11th Marine Regiment (Artillery), and the 2nd Battalion, 1st Marine Regiment. The artillery battalion normally has 660 men and the infantry battalion 1,155 men.

Both battalions will go to Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Six representatives from Big Spring hospitals were planning to attend the Texas Medical Association annual meeting in Houston which runs through Sunday.

Dr. P. W. Malone, Dr. P. H. Rhymes, and Dr. W. A. Riley all from Medical Center Memorial were to attend the TMA's 104th meeting.

The Veterans Administration Hospital was to have been represented by Dr. Andrew W. Para.

TMA's program is the largest annual medical meeting in the southwest and the 1971 meeting will feature 405 speakers. A registration of over 4,000 was expected for the meeting, including more than 2,000 members of the medical association.

The four-day program will be the most extensive ever presented by the association and the latest medical information will be presented to Texas physicians through a variety of techniques, ranging from lecture-type sessions and panel presentations to informal discussion groups.

Physicians attending the meeting also will obtain current data on pharmaceutical products and new treatment methods from the 1960 technical and scientific exhibits on display during the meeting.

National Aeronautics and Space Administrations only physician-astronaut, Commander. Joseph P. Kerwin, MC, United States Navy, was to be the featured luncheon speaker today. United States Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr., will speak at the Saturday luncheon.

Voters To Decide College Issue

HOUSTON (AP) — The 12,833 junior pupils in the Houston school district are being asked if they would attend a community junior college if it was available to them in September of 1972.

Voters will decide May 18 whether to create a community college system in the district using present school facilities after the normal school day.

If voters approve, the college would open in September of next year.

Webb 'Dirty Digits' To Receive Wings

Fifty-three weeks of hard work and suspense will end Saturday for undergraduate pilot training class 71-07 at Webb AFB when class members trade their class patches for Air Force silver wings and certificates of aeronautical rating.

The class will be honored in graduation ceremonies scheduled for 9:30 a.m. on the flight line. In case of inclement weather, graduation exercises will be in Withycombe Hall.

Class 71-07, called the "Dirty Digits," numbers 47 members, 42 of which are Air Force officers, two Air National Guardsmen and three foreign students, here under the auspices of the Military Assistance Program (MAP).

The class graduation ball will be held at the Officers Club tonight honoring the 47 graduating students.

Class commander Capt. Dale A. Green led the class through the T-38 Talon phase of training. Capt. Charles S. Dendy was class commander during the T-37 trainer work.

The Dirty Digits entered preflight training May 6, 1970. On June 26, the class entered primary training in the T-37 and basic training in the T-38 Oct. 30.

The Military Airlift Command (MAC) will receive the largest share of the class graduates with 11. Pacific Air Forces (PACAF) and Tactical Air Command (TAC) will each receive 10 graduates, while seven will remain in Air Training Command (ATC). Three graduates will go to Strategic Air Command (SAC), the Air National Guardsmen will return to their units, and the foreign students will return to their native countries.

Plan To 'Float' Dollar Crisis

BONN, Germany (AP) — The government's committee of economic experts recommended today that the West German mark be allowed to "float" to find a new level of parity with the dollar.

Such a move should be accompanied by "domestic stabilization measures," the committee said in an assessment of the current monetary crisis and of the economic situation in West Germany.

MARK'S VALUE

The committee, an independent group of five economists, presented its recommendations to economic Minister Karl Schiller on Thursday.

Their report was published this morning as Chancellor Willy Brandt's Cabinet met to hammer out proposals on how to deal with the situation.

Floating of the deutschemark means placing it on the free exchange market to see how much it can bring in terms of other currencies, including the dollar. Its official rate is 27 1-3 cents. It is now selling for nearly 28 cents, or 3.58 marks to the dollar.

Up to now the mark's value on exchange markets has been restricted by international monary agreements. Under these agreements, government banks intervene to support the currency if it fluctuates too high above or below the floor price of 27½ cents.

The Bonn government, a key to the crisis because of its exceptionally strong currency, does not plan to revalue the Deutschemark unilaterally, government spokesman Conrad Ahlers reported. He said it also would not seek revaluation of the currencies of all six Common Market countries because all six would never agree on such a move.

BUY OR SELL

Indications are that the West Germans instead will seek a wider fluctuation limit for the European currencies than the International Monetary Fund now permits. At present, central banks must buy or sell dollars to keep the exchange rate of their currency within three quarters of one per cent of its pegged value. Some sources say the Germans want this changed to one per cent.

Economics Minister Karl Schiller will seek joint action at a Common Market meeting in Brussels Saturday. But France and Belgium were putting up strong resistance to anything smacking of revaluation. The other members of the Common Market, or European Economic Community, are Italy, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Indications are that if the West Germans don't get their way in Brussels Saturday, Brandt's government will go ahead with its measures alone.

It could, for example, let the mark float in the world's money markets, with the Central Bank supporting it within limits set by the government rather than by the International Monetary Fund.

WANT TO BET?

This would not amount to an outright revaluation but would give the Central Bank more latitude in supporting the mark and would make the currency less attractive to speculators betting on a revaluation upward.

YEP, HE'S A POLICEMAN
Patrolman John Minnick in new uniform

Police Uniforms Given New Look

Patrolmen of the Big Spring Police Department have taken on a new look for summer with the donning of the new police uniforms.

The city policemen changed from the old military style to the 'smoother' type uniform last Saturday. The original dark brown uniform had been in use since 1961.

"We are trying to get away from the harsher type military uniform and still have a suit the general public will be able to recognize our patrolmen in," said Jay Banks, police chief.

The uniforms, made by the Donovan Uniform Co., Dallas are issued free of charge to the regular police officers and reserve officers. The regular patrolmen receive three pairs of pants and three shirts and the reserve receive one of each.

Also issued with the uniforms are boots, hats, belts and gun belts. The department members will be measured for the winter shirts within the next few weeks.

"All of the men in the department like the new uniforms and we have had favorable reports from the public on the good looks of the suits," said Banks. There is no badge, collar insignias or brass on the new uniforms, and there is only a shirt patch to indicate the department with which the officer is affiliated.

"Being well uniformed is a great morale factor in police departments and also has a good amount of influence on the public" said Banks.

Most departments around the area issue the uniforms to their personnel and the reordering cycle is staggered according to wear and need.

The approximate cost of the new uniforms including uniforms for supervisors and office personnel to the local department was $8,000. The department budget was set at $9,400 out of which the buying of dry goods required in the station and jail also is included.

Police supervisors and female office personnel were outfitted in new uniforms after the beginning of the fiscal year.

Officials Turn Down Murchison

DALLAS (AP)—County commissioners turned Dallas Cowboys owner Clint Murchison Jr. down on his move to make sales of alcoholic beverages legal in his new Texas Stadium at Irving, due to open next fall.

They told him that a proposal to add the stadium grounds to Justice of the Peace Precinct 1 by annexation would not automatically make such sales legal.

Murchison was quoted as telling county officials in a private conference that he would ask only that beer sales be authorized at the stadium.

'Brownie Day' Set Saturday

At least 300 Brownies and prospective members are expected to converge on Comanche Trail Park Saturday for a full day of activity at this year's first Brownie Field Day.

Mrs. Jack Little and Mrs. Tom Ivey are conducting the event, assisted by Mrs. Don Reynolds, Mrs. Charles Tuttle and other troop leaders.

All second and third grade girls who plan to attend are asked to bring sack lunches and 15 cents for drinks. The drink concession will be operated by Senior Girl Scouts to raise funds for a trip to the Scout cabana in Mexico.

Eighteen organized troops will be represented, with each troop being responsible for teaching a song or game.

The field day will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude at 2 p.m.

OES Chapter 67 Has Memorial

Chapter 67, Order of Eastern Star, held a memorial service Tuesday for six members who died during the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Orbin Daily, worthy patron and worthy matron, presided, with the guest speaker being Notchey Starr of Odessa, member of the OES Home Endowment Committee.

The second speaker was Walter Johnson who showed films of the Scottish Rite crippled children's hospital in Dallas.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. George Bair, Mrs. Porter Hanks, Mr. and Mrs. Alden Ryan, Mrs. W. C. Ragsdale and Mrs. Buster Pitts.

The next meeting will be May 18 when Mrs. Frederick Herrin of Austin, worthy grand matron, will visit the chapter. A banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m., to be followed by the regular meeting.

Color For Men

New styles in men's cotton shirts show the wide-reaching effect of the thirties on the fashion world.

Shirts have bigger collars and are worn with wider ties. Moreover, the outlook calls for lots of color.

Gardeners Tour Yard In Odessa

Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, 902 Mountain Park, hosted a brunch Tuesday for the Green Thumb Garden Club, after which members traveled to Odessa where they toured the garden of Mrs. M. R. Hurt. Mrs. Roy Reeder was cohostess.

Mrs. Hurt, who is chairman of the landscape schools sponsored by Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., resides in Country Club Estates. Her spacious grounds feature an unusual variety of trees. The gardeners also toured a greenhouse where bougainvillaes and hibiscus are grown.

The club's new officers will assume duties in the fall. They are Mrs. Cowper, president; Mrs. Milton W. Talbot, vice president; and Mrs. Lloyd E. Wasson, secretary-treasurer.

Upholstery Fabric In Men's Jeans

New for spring and summer are men's jeans in textured cotton upholstery fabrics. With a hand-loomed look, the fabrics come in high voltage multi-color stripes.

Even more elegant in men's wear is a California sportsuit with Western styling. The surprise fabric for the suit is sculptured white cotton matelasse. The shortcropped jacket with shoulder tabs and buttoned patch pockets is teamed with flared-leg pants which also have buttoned belt tabs and patch pockets.

MRS. KYLE CAUBLE

Wins ABWA Annual Award

Mrs. Kyle B. Cauble was named "Woman of the Year" for Scenic Chapter, American Business Women's Association, Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Gene Haston, 1607 Virginia.

Mrs. Cauble has been a member of the chapter for seven years and is presently serving as president. She is employed as an assistant crafts instructor at the Hobby Center and enjoys painting, knitting, ceramics and playing bridge.

Other activities of Mrs. Cauble include memberships in the Friendship Breakfast Club, John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge, Wesley United Methodist Church, Big Spring Art Association and the Big Spring Ceramic Club. Also, she does volunteer work at the Big Spring State Hospital and is studying Spanish at the YMCA.

Dr. Dawson DeViney, a dean at Howard County Junior College, was guest speaker, discussing "Women as Students, as Workers and as Women."

"Until a relatively few years ago, there were very few women who went to college," DeViney said. "Society has always relegated women to the home and children, although they may not have liked it. By 1980 the percentage of women attending college will be 45 to 50 per cent of the total student population."

Scholarships were awarded to Mrs. Elsie Woods for licensed vocational nursing training and to Miss Vickie Lou Finley for study in elementary education.

Mrs. Willis LeVier, vocational speaker, told of her responsibilities at Creative Visuals. Guests were Mrs. J. B. Price, Mrs. Myrtle Edgar, Miss Terry Casillas and Mrs. Woods. Mrs. William J. Crutcher was initiated as a new member.

Fashions Swing In Chic Denims

The talk about today's free-swinging fashions is reflected in some pretty unusual use of fabric and costume.

Soon you won't even do a doubletake when a chic woman swings down the street in denim engineer's overalls or a knickers jumpsuit that combines an old-fashioned little boy's style with what the very modern miss will wear.

Bride-Elect Honored At Party

Miss Sharon Roman, who will be married May 22 to Edwin Minnick, was honored with a gift shower Saturday in the home of Mrs. Mike McCreary, 1306 Wood.

Cohostesses were Mrs. A. C. Dorton, Mrs. Brent Brooks, Mrs. Andy Wilson and Miss Brenda Eppler.

Miss Roman, attired in a pink A-line dress, was accompanied by her cousin, Miss Marsha Reed of Abilene, who will serve as an attendant at the wedding.

Refreshments were served from a table laid with an ivory lace cloth and centered with an orchid candle in an arrangement of bluebonnets. The wedding colors of orchid and purple were carried out in other decorations.

The wedding will be held in the First Baptist Church, Coahoma.

Baptist Women Give Program

A program on training national leadership for Mexican Baptists was heard Tuesday by the Baptist Women, Westside Baptist Church. Mrs. J. O. Murphy was in charge, and others on the program were Mrs. E. A. Sanderson, Mrs. B. M. Boroughs, Mrs. N. M. Hipp, Mrs. Leroy Minchew and Mrs. C. L. Kirkland.

The speakers said the National Baptist Convention of Mexico, which involves about 200 churches, is promoting follow-up work "to channel the result of the Crusade of the Americas." They said Mexican law makes it difficult for Baptists to establish schools for the training of Christian workers. However, the Baptist train a number of young people by establishing and operating student homes, student centers, a seminary and a school of nursing.

The missionary birthday calendar and scripture was read by Mrs. Minchew, and prayers were led by Mrs. Hipp and Mrs. Mary Riddle.

James M. Gilberts Announce Birth

Mr. and Mrs. James Michael Gilbert, 1837 Fuller Drive, Dallas, formerly of Big Spring, announce the birth of a son, Anthony Michael, April 14. The infant weighed six pounds, 10½ ounces. The Gilberts also have a daughter, Angela Marie. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Buchanan, 1605 Harding, and Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Gilbert, 1306 Dixie. Mrs. Essie Nanny is the great-grandmother.

AAUW Chooses Topic

The day and night study groups of the American Association of University Women held a combined meeting Monday in the First Federal Community Room, to choose a topic of study for the coming year.

The three subjects discussed were "We, the People," by Mrs. Star Warford; "A Crisis in Education" by Mrs. Julian Patterson; and "A Dollar's Worth," by Mrs. Lynn Hise. Both groups agreed to use "We, the People," based on the U.S. Constitution and contemporary novels, as the source of study for next year.

Mrs. Harold Rosson, vice president, presided, and Mrs. Ben Faulkner was hostess. Mrs. Doris Peters was a guest.

An installation banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m., May 17 at the Holiday Inn. Mrs. Marjorie Black of Bryan, AAUW state vice president, will be the guest speaker and installing officer. Guests are invited, and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Walter Wheat, 267-5310.

Tells Growth Of Mexican Baptists

The "Mexican Baptist Thrust to the Future" was discussed for the Baptist Women, Tuesday at the First Baptist Church, by Mrs. W. F. Winn, Mrs. Bill Reynolds, Mrs. Earl Newell, Mrs. W. H. Younger, Mrs. John C. Ebersole and Mrs. Charles Sweeney.

The women talked about the search by the Mexican Americans during this century for a self-identity, and the campaign underway to give them a sense of pride in their heritage.

Baptist work programs "organized to assist Mexico in its self-discovery," include the training of students to develop national leaders, hospitals, student centers and student homes.

Mrs. Carl McGlothlin, president, presented plans for group activities during the summer. Hostesses were Mrs. Younger and Mrs. Virgie Dyer. The next meeting is at 9:45 a.m., June 2 at the church, when the women will study Japanese missions.

Local Delegate Summarizes Highlights Of Convention

Mrs. J. C. Pickle, president of Big Spring Garden Club and delegate to the recent state convention of Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., reported on the event Wednesday when the club met in the home of Mrs. J. E. Hogan, 509 Westover.

The convention was held in El Paso with 343 in attendance. Mrs. Robert H. Dooley of Dallas was installed as state president, and Mrs. James Malone of Pampa is the new director of District 1.

A state award went to the Oasis Garden Club of Big Spring for its garden therapy project for handicapped children. Six national awards were won by Texas clubs, and the Morning Glory Garden Club of Del Rio won 17 state awards.

District 1, which includes Big Spring, reported a total of 86 clubs with 1,900 members. Its three garden centers are located at Amarillo, Lubbock and Midland. The state has 17 judges' councils, 55 new clubs and 1,274 national judges.

All Texas garden clubs will participate in the national council project, "People and Their Environment." The goal of the project is to provide all school teachers with material to make conservation and environmental education an integral part of educational activities.

Guest speaker at the convention was Dr. Russell Deter of El Paso who spoke on "A Trip to Nowhere." He urged young people to combat drugs and stand up for what they want and believe in.

Mrs. Pickle said the fall board meeting will be Oct. 26-28 in Fort Worth, and the spring convention will be April 25-28, 1972, in Waco.

New officers for the Big Spring Garden Club were installed by Mrs. D. S. Riley. They are Mrs. Pickle, president; Mrs. John Knox, first vice president; Mrs. John Balch second vice president; Mrs. Marvin Sewell, recording secretary; Mrs. John Coffee, corresponding secretary; Mrs Robert Stripling, treasurer; and Mrs. Clyde Angel, parliamentarian.

Hyperions Install At Luncheon

New officers for the 1955 Hyperion Club were installed by Mrs. Walter Wheat, outgoing president, at a salad luncheon Tuesday in her home at 901 Mountain Park.

The officers are Mrs. Charles Bell, president; Mrs. W. A. Moore Jr., vice president; Mrs. Bill B. Johnson, recording and publicity secretary; Mrs. W. L. Wilson Jr., corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. C. Fryar, treasurer; and Mrs. Wheat, parliamentarian.

The tables were covered with bright colored cloths and centered with large white daisies and greenery. The next regular meeting is in September.

New PTA Executives Installed By Council

A new slate for the PTA City Council was installed Tuesday by Mrs Wayne Henry during a luncheon in the Officers Open Mess, Webb Air Force Base.

Leading the council this fall will be Mrs. Garland Braun, president; Mrs. Leon Miller, vice president; Mrs. Douglas Hattenbach, recording secretary; Mrs. Roger J. Coffman, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Edman McMurray, treasurer.

After the invocation by George Archer, Mrs. David Hodnett, retiring president, reminded unit presidents to send in names of their officers. The treasurer's books will be audited by Mrs. Braun, Mrs. Dale Ditto and Mrs. Jack Brown. Appointed to approve the minutes were Mrs. Hattenbach, Mrs. Iver Spencer and Mrs. Frank Moore.

Mrs. Billie Reynolds reported that the council's scholarship will go to Ruth Ann Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Moss, 1207 Ridgeroad. Miss Moss was chosen for her outstanding scholarship and leadership abilities.

Sam Anderson, school superintendent, awarded certificates of appreciation to the council officers, and similar certificates were presented to unit officers by the respective principals. Gifts of appreciation were received by Mrs. Hodnett and Mrs. Henry.

Mrs. Braun will attend the June seminar in Austin. The new state theme is "Who Says You Can't?" and the question was emphasized at the luncheon with decorations of owls and question marks.

Summer Brings Dry Skin Areas

Women with normal skin are apt to discover patches of dryness this time of the year. Blame the steam heat.

Lubricate the dry areas with moisturizing cream during the day and a light complexion oil at night. Use a mild skin freshener such as good quality witch hazel.

A LOVELIER YOU

Tasty Diet Food Is Weigh To His Heart

By MARY SUE MILLER

A Lovely writes: My husband weighs about 15 pounds more than when we were married 10 years ago. He attends a great many business luncheons and dinners, where fancy dishes and rich desserts are his downfall. Still, I hate to serve him diet meals at home. Seems so institutional. Your ideas, please.

The Answer: A wife is smart to be concerned. A man who gains 15 pounds in 10 years is apt to be 30 to 40 pounds overweight by the end of the next 10 — if left unchecked. He is just as aware of this as you. The dangers of excessive weight to fitness are on every tongue.

So what should you do? Put your foot down and put him on a reducing diet? Only doctors have any success at all with edicts about dieting. Your best course is not words, but action. Give him the foods he should have, so deliciously prepared and attractively served that he never suspects hidden motives.

You make a good beginning by emphasizing protein foods and decreasing fats to 50 grams per day. Fats get to his waistline and possibly to his health quicker than other foods. One tablespoon of salad oil and one of butter add up to 224 calories, 21 grams of the daily fat allowance and no solid eating.

To keep the fat intake in hand, trim fat from meats; serve butter or other spreads in fluffy curls; season with herbs and spice, instead of butter; avoid frying; serve low-cal salad dressings. Such gambits, used daily, can lop off some 400 calories. The saving reverses creeping weight and no one the wiser.

HOUSEWORK

Attention, Homemakers! If housework saps your energies, looks and nerves, send for my booklet, "Beauty of Housework." It explains how to keep home and self sparkling in time to spare. AUTHOR OF PATTON PRAYER — The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James H. O'Neill, 79, officiates during holy communion at Sacred Heart Cathedral in Pueblo, Colo. Msgr. O'Neill held the rank of brigadier general under Gen. George Patton during the World War II American drive into Germany. Patton asked O'Neill to write a prayer asking an end to the rain which had stalled the army.

Author Of Prayer Remembers Patton

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James H. O'Neill says he hasn't seen the award-winning movie "Patton," but he remembers vividly serving with Gen. George S. Patton Jr. during World War II, including the time he composed a prayer at the general's request.

With Patton's forces stalled by rain in France in 1944, Msgr. O'Neill, then an Army chaplain, received a telephone call from the famed general.

"We must do something about these rains if we are to win the war," Msgr. O'Neill quoted Patton as saying.

The Roman Catholic chaplain typed out a short prayer and Patton ordered 250,000 copies so every man in the 3rd Army would have one.

Four days later, the rain ceased and the assault resumed, Msgr. O'Neill recalled Tuesday.

He said he did not see the general again until a month later in Luxembourg.

"Well, padre, our prayers worked," he quoted Patton as saying. "I knew they would."

"Then," the churchman recalls, "he cracked me on the side of my steel helmet with his riding crop. That was his way of saying 'Well done!"

Msgr. O'Neill, now 79 and a retired brigadier general, is assigned to Sacred Heart Cathedral here.

In "Patton," George C. Scott in the title role reads the prayer while standing alone in the rain.

"It would be a little like seeing a movie about your mother — it's not very interesting because I already know the story," Msgr. O'Neill said.

Release Revised On Appointments

AMARILLO — Methodist ministers will learn their church appointments on the first day of the 62nd session of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference here May 24-27.

This is a break with the long standing practice of not reading the pastoral appointments until the close of the conference, a practice which generated some suspense.

The New Mexico Annual Conference in Odessa May 17-20 also will reveal appointments on the first day. Bishop Alsie H. Carleton presides over both conferences.

The first session of the Amarillo conference will begin at 3 p.m. May 24 with the election of deacons and elders as first item of business.

A special service of worship will be at 4:30 p.m. Monday honoring retiring ministers of the conference. This will be followed by the traditional service of memorial.

The theme of the conference will be: "ALDERSGATE '71." The conference hymn chosen by the agenda committee will be "And Can It Be That I Should Gain," a hymn written by Charles Wesley. Hymn leader for the conference will be the Rev. Homer Henderson, pastor of St. Matthews United Methodist Church of Lubbock.

Dr. Jameson Jones, president of Iliff School of Theology of Denver, Colo., will be the conference preacher.

Special guest speakers in addition to Dr. Jameson Jones, will be Dr. Robert C. Monk, member of the conference, who will lecture on the topic, "History and Nature of the General and Jurisdictional Conference System of the United Methodist Church." Dr. Donald Redmond, executive secretary of the Texas Methodist Foundation will also speak on the topic, "The United Methodist Church in Mission Through our Church Agencies."

The Rev. Joe Washington, a member of the conference, and who is with the general board of education, the United Methodist Church will speak on "Major Issues to Come Before the General and Jurisdictional Conferences of 1972" at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, May 25.

Sacred Heart Holds Carnival

The church societies will sponsor a carnival Saturday night and Sunday night to help raise money for the Sacred Heart Catholic Church building funds.

The carnival will have booths, games and prizes for those attending. The carnival will open at 6 p.m. both nights and close about 10:30 p.m.

Saturday only hot tamales will be available at the church youth center beginning at 1 p.m. until they're gone.

The carnival will be on the youth center patio at 509 N. Aylford.

Religious Editor Named To Office

NEW YORK (AP) — Lillian Block, managing editor of Religious News Service, has been named a vice president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, under whose auspices the service is operated.

Nazarenes Attend Meet

The Rev. Wales Lankford, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, and eight members of the church will be attending the missionary convention and the West Texas district assembly May 19-20 at the First Church of the Nazarene in Lubbock.

Representing the church in the assembly will be Mrs. Pauline Elrod, Mrs. Cletis Meek and Mrs. Linda Lankford, Cotton Mize, Sunday school superintendent; Dan Turner, young people's president; and Evelyn McGuire, missionary president, will also attend the assembly.

Virgil Patton and Mesdames Meek, Elrod, Lankford and Billie Dixon will attend the missionary convention.

The district superintendent, the Rev. Lyle E. Eckley, Lubbock, will present the annual assembly message.

District officers will be elected at the assembly, and delegates to the 18th quadrennial general assembly of the demomination to be held in Miami Beach, Fla. in June, 1972.

Ministers Install Officers Tonight

New officers of the Howard County Minister's Fellowship will be installed at a dinner-meeting at 7 p.m. today at Coker's Restaurant. All ministers and their wives are urged to attend. The cost for the dinner will be $1.75 per person.

Officer for the coming year are The Rev. Byron Orand, president; Lt. Col. Kenneth D. Summy, Webb AFB chaplain, vice-president; the Rev. E. Wales Lankford, secretary; the Rev. Connell Taylor, treasurer; and the Rev. R. Earl Price, Bible fund chairman.

This will be the last meeting for the group until September. The Rev. John Beard is in charge of the program.

A DEBT GOES UP IN SMOKE
. . . Airport deacons burn building note

Ashes Are All That Are Left Of Church's Debt

"Note-Burning Sunday" May 2 climaxed a campaign which was begun March 13 to pay off Airport Baptist Church's building debt.

The note burning also marked the end of a week-long revival held at the church with the Rev. A. Clayton Hicks, Veterans Administration Hospital Chaplain, as evangelist.

The deacons of the church burned the note at 2:30 p.m. Sunday during services in the sanctuary. An old fashioned family-style dinner was served in Fellowship Hall prior to the note-burning, and church members, former members and visitors attended.

A financial pledge by each member of the church made it possible for the debt to be paid, according to the Rev. Arthur Thomas, pastor.

Performing the note burning were James I. Findley, Sam Wells, Roy Spivey, Ernest Hodo and LeRoy Findley.

Ministry Exalted, Preachers Are Not

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — A Baptist minister says, as a profession, the ministry is held highest among America's professional people, but as a person the preacher is a laughing stock.

The Rev. Everett Lemay, pastor of Park Avenue Baptist Church, Mount Vernon, Ill., said in a speech at a ministers conference that the greatest problem "I have in relation to other pastors is that people do not respect me because of what they know about some other pastor. They lump us all together."

Lemay said some of the ministers' shortcomings are professional incompetence, failure to meet financial obligations, laziness and dominance by outspoken parishioners.

He said ministers need to be cautious in areas of ambition, public respect, personal spiritual life and moral integrity.

Select The Church Of Your Choice And Be Faithful

In Your Attendance

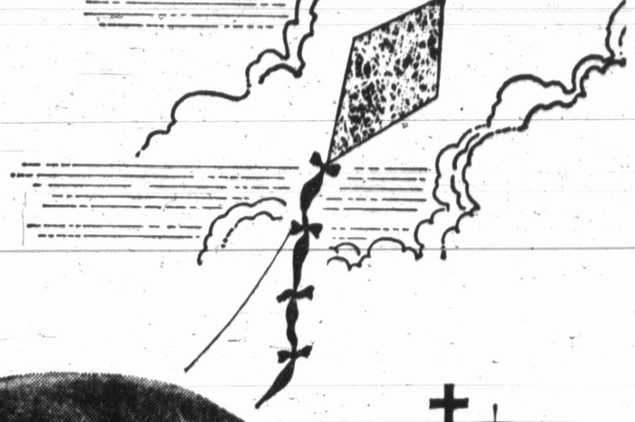

"Look at the red kite up there! See how high it's flying!"

The little boy follows her finger, and she is warmed and gratified by his smile of appreciation.

It seems as if mothers are eternally anxious to make sure that their children get all there is to get out of life—that they miss nothing.

Mothers would, if they could, show their children all that there is to see and give them everything—time for fun, time for play—new clothes, new toys, a television to watch cartoons, endless red kites and bright yellow balloons and, later, skis and sports cars.

Yet, in this eagerness to show and to give, aren't they in danger of overlooking some of the most important things of all? What of beauty, of serenity, of joy—the knowledge of God's goodness, His love, and familiarity with His house on earth . . . the Church?

They said the procession is set to start at 2 p.m. Sunday and it will move from Kennedy Memorial Plaza to the city hall.

"It's only the beginning," said Richard Dockery, Southwest regional director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Pettis Norman, a football player with the Dallas Cowboys, and the Rev. Peter Johnson of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference joined Dockery in disclosing arrangements for the protest march at a news conference.

Norman said the Negro community of Dallas felt a personal affront over the treatment Allen, whom he described highly qualified for the po

He invited persons of "all races, creeds and colors" to take part in the march and "any other subsequent action that might be taken to indicate their displeasure at the blatantly discriminatory action of the council last Monday."

Allen said no one had discussed the demonstration with him and he had not been invited to take part.

Clean-Up, Fix-Up Last Day Of Drive

Saturday is the last day of "Give a Hoot Week". The Pride People are asking that Big Springers clean-up and fix-up their homes.

"We want people to do any repair work that needs to be done around the home," said Bob Butler, chairman of the Pride People.

"We hope people will be caught up in the spirit of the week and make it a continuing thing," he said. "We were impressed by how much cleaner Big Spring is this year as compared to last year."

"People seem to be more interested in keeping Big Spring clean, and there has been a lot more individual effort this year."

The Pride People will clean up a vacant lot at Fourth and Birdwell today at 6:30 p.m. Any citizen who wants to help will be welcome.

The Pride People have sponsored a number of clean-up activities throughout the week. The first day of "Give a Hoot Week" was a general clean-up of the city entrances along U. S. 80 and U. S. 87. A small mountain of trash was collected and then displayed.

Later activities included messages to local church congregations asking their help in "Give a Hoot Week". Then a push to clean up alleys was started and went on into "Litter Alert" day, where local radio stations asked people to stop and clean up the area they were in.

The local Fina gasoline stations asked to empty litter bags and provided bags for cars that had none. Then this month's yard-of-the-month contest winners were announced. The week will end with tonight's Pride People project and Saturdays "Clean-up, Fix-up" day.

Jails Not Answer In Crime War

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Jails are the biggest contributing factors to crime in the United States, a leader in prison reform says.

Ellis MacDougall, director of the Georgia Board of Corrections, said jails are "warehouses" and "deep freezes" that turn out people worse than when they went in.

He spoke here Thursday at the federal judicial conference of the U. S. courts of the 5th Circuit, which covers six states.

MacDougall said that while the nation is concerned about air and water pollution, it also should concern itself with "human pollution."

Prison and jails, he said, are returning "polluted humans" to the community.

Administrators of prisons and jails have never had the money and tools to administer properly their institutions, MacDougall said.

It's easy to control a prison population by locking the inmates up and hiring more guards, he said, but all this does is eventually release a bitter, frustrated group of people to prey on the community.

McDougall suggested regional institutions for misdemeanor prisoners, with provisions for treatment and evaluation, to stop their trend toward crime.

It makes no sense, he said, to wait until a person is in prison before seeking a solution to his problem through diagnosis and treatment.

Docket Call

Sixty-five defendants are set for docket call Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Howard County Court. Trials are to begin May 17. Involved are charges of driving while intoxicated, circulating worthless checks, aggravated assault, petty theft and traffic violation appeals.

'Dopey' Chinese On His Way Back To Peking Pals

PARIS (AP) — The drugged Chinese technician whom police kept off a plane bound for Shanghai left today for home after French authorities said he told them he wanted to return to Communist China.

Chang Chi Jung was accompanied by a representative of the Chinese Embassy and 10 other Chinese who had refused to leave France without him.

Chang was half conscious on April 28 among a group of blue-uniformed embassy personnel passing customs when police stopped the group. He had been with a mission in Algeria, and there were reports he told French officials there he planned to defect in Paris.

The Chinese Embassy filed an official complaint. The police said Chang would be allowed to say for himself where he wanted to go after he recovered.

Braniff Sky High On Aged Austin Hotel

AUSTIN (AP) — Braniff International will operate and manage the restored Driskill Hotel in Austin, the airline and the Driskill Hotel Corp. announced Thursday.

The historic hotel, a landmark in downtown Austin, has been closed since 1969.

The corporation announced last week it had completed purchase of the 12-story Driskill Annex, which was built in 1928, and holds a 99-year lease on the properties and the original 4-story building which was constructed in 1886.

"Our objectives," said R. Max Brooks, president of DHC, are to restore the old Driskill to its one-time splendor and, equally important, to convert its 12 storied sister into a luxury hotel. Each is expected to complement the other."

John Leer of Braniff said their plans are to have a modified version of the Tanbo De Oro restaurant which they operate in Lima, Peru.

"As a corollary program we plan to develop a series of package tours which would include air travel to Austin, a stay at the Driskill and a visit to the attractions of the state capitol and surrounding area," Leer said.

Hotel Flames Burn Eleven

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Investigators were still looking for the cause today of a $100,000 fire at Caesar's Palace Hotel that sent 11 persons to a hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation, the fire department said.

Thursday's fire was confined to one room on the second floor of the two-story north wing of the hotel. But smoke and water extensively damaged all of the wing's 40 rooms.

There was no evidence of arson, said Assistant Chief Robert Taylor. The fire apparently broke out in a mattress.

Smoke from the fire reached the casino area but patrons stayed at the gaming tables as ambulances took the injured away.

It was the second Las Vegas Strip fire in a week. A blaze on the 16th floor of the International Hotel caused $10,000 damage and hospitalized seven people. Two of them remain under treatment for burns, Taylor said.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The controlling interest in the Cincinnati Enquirer was sold for $20 million Thursday by the E. W. Scripps Co. and related interest to a subsidiary of American Financial Corporation.

American Financial Leasing and Service Co., the 80-per cent owned subsidiary, took possession of the stock with a federal restriction that it sell either the newspaper or its local bank within 10 years.

IN SAME OIL FIELDS

Bill To Force Sharing Of Costs By Producers

AUSTIN (AP) — A controversial proposal which could force oil and gas producers in a single field to share costs and profits was approved by a Senate committee Thursday.

It was considered a victory for major companies which, like others, must now rely on a 1949 voluntary unitization law to merge their efforts an oil.

The sponsor of the bill, Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon, said the bill was written by Bill Abington, a lobbyist for Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, and others.

CRUCIAL COUNT

The measure, doggedly debated in the Oil and Gas Committee since Feb. 23, was sent to the Senate floor on an 8-5 vote, but the crucial count to accept Hightower's proposal was 7-6.

By accepting Hightower's bill, the committee blocked consideration of a so-called compromise which committee chairman, Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland, said he put together overnight.

"Forced unitization is repugnant philosophically to me because the law would destroy contractural rights and property rights," Snelson said.

Those voting for the Hightower bill were Sens. Ronald Bridges of Corpus Christi, Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells, O.H. "Ike" Harris of Dallas, Glenn Kothmann of San Antonio, W. T. Moore of Bryan, Charles Wilson of Lufkin and Hightower.

Opposing it were Sens. Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater, Don Kennard of Fort Worth, Bill Patman of Ganado, Max Sherman of Amarillo, Murray Watson of Waco and Snelson.

The presence of 13 senators out of a committee membership of 15—after the Senate had adjourned until Monday—indicated the importance of the legislation.

75 PER CENT

Under the original bill, owners of 75 per cent of the oil produced in a field — or smaller area — could ask the Railroad Commission to form a production unit. The commission would hold a hearing and would have to find that estimated recovery would exceed estimated cost and that the unitization plan is fair to all owners before a unit could be formed.

To take effect, a plan for operating the united and distributing costs and production would have had to be approved by owners of both 75 per cent of the working interest and 75 per cent of the royalty interest.

Short-Changing

After merchants complained to police that their places had been visited by short-change artists, Detectives Bill Lee and Avery Falkner picked up a man and a woman Thursday afternoon in the College Park area. The two were being held under the city's suspicious persons ordinance. Investigation was continuing today.

Motors Recovered

Starting motors valued at $800 to $1,200, stolen two weeks ago from the Texaco oil lease at Vealmoor, have been recovered by county sheriff's officers. Deputy Sheriff Eddie Owen located the motors Thursday. They have been returned to the lease.

Determination Of Fairest HCJC Coed Set Saturday

"Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the fairest of them all?" will be the question answered Saturday at 8 p.m. as the stage is set for the Fifth Annual Miss HCJC Pageant in the Howard County Junior College Auditorium.

Fourteen campus coeds will vie for the crown Saturday night. The college choir is scheduled to sing the songs of the Pageant's theme: "Paint Your Wagon." The "Midnight Satin" will provide musical accompaniment for the choir and for the contestants.

The pageant has become an annual fund-raising project by the HCJC Press Club. Proceeds go for convention trips and scholarship money for the journalism department.

Ann Haggard won the Pageant last year. Doris Medrano is the reigning Miss HCJC since the former Miss Haggard got married. Miss Medrano was a runner-up in last year's Pageant.

Qualifications for contestants are that they must be female, have never been married and attend at least one class at HCJC.

The Pageant is divided into three categories: modeling campus fashions, modeling swimsuits and a presentation.

The coeds, in the order in which they will appear, are:

—Doris Allen, 19, a freshman from Stanton majoring in commercial art. Miss Allen will perform a twirling routine and is sponsored by Montgomery Ward.

—Sharon Andrews, 19, an English major planning a career as an airline stewardess. Miss Andrews will sing as her presentation and is sponsored by Swartz.

—Christene Campbell, 19, a freshman from Rotan planning to attend Southwest Texas State University after HCJC. A commercial art major, Miss Campbell will be exhibiting some of her painting. She is sponsored by the Fabric Mart.

—Robbie Cheatham, 20, a sophomore history major also planning to attend SWTSU next year. Miss Cheatham plans to perform a dramatic monologue as her presentation. She is sponsored by Good Housekeeping.

—Ann Crawford, 19, a Coahoma freshman majoring in journalism and planning a career as a college instructor. Miss Crawford will play the piano. She is sponsored by Hemphill-Wells.

—Billie Jean Crook, 18, an elementary education major who will sing "You'll Never Walk Alone." She is sponsored by McMillan Printing.

—Phyllis Hagen, 18, a freshman from Crookston, Minn., is undecided about her major field of study but is very active in drama at HCJC. She will sing and is sponsored by J&K Shoes.

—Jessica Patton, 18, a freshman elementary education major will sing for her presentation and is sponsored by Barnes-Pelletier.

Mix-Up 'Kills' Smith's Veto?

AUSTIN (AP) — A clerical mix-up wiped out Gov. Preston Smith's veto of a bill designed to help accident victims collect their expenses in court, Rep. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi claims.

Not so, the governor's office said Thursday.

KNOCKED OUT IDEA

The bill was designed to knock out the long standing legal rule that an accident victim cannot win his suit for damages if he helped cause the accident, even the slightest bit.

Smith vetoed it Wednesday, claiming it would force up auto liability insurance rates since many people who might be denied damages under present law would collect under the bill.

As the House reading clerk began to read Smith's veto message, Hale raised a point of order against receiving the governor's proclamation.

Hale said the bill had been received and officially filed by the secretary of state Wednesday, and bore a file mark to prove it.

The state constitution requires vetoed bills to be sent to the originating House, not to the secretary of state. A bill normally becomes law without the governor's signature if he files it with the secretary of state without a veto.

Smith's office confirmed that the vetoed bill had been sent by mistake to Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. Wednesday afternoon. It was later returned to the governor's office, and an aide delivered to the House Thursday morning, along with the veto message.

POINT OF ORDER

"Once the bill was filed in the office of the secrtiary of state it immediately became law under the provisions of Article 4, Section 4, of the Constitution of Texas, and the action of the governor in attempting to recall it and subsequently to send it to this house with his objections can be nothing but a complete legal nullity," Hale, the bill's sponsor, declared.

House Speaker Gus Mutscher refused to consider Hale's point of order, since a speaker can't rule on constitutional questions. But he ordered Hale's statement printed in the House Journal "for such decision theron as the courts of Texas shall deem legal and appropriate.

A spokesman for the governor said an attorney general's opinion held several years ago that a governor can legally reclaim a vetoed bill mistakenly filed with the secretary of state.

"As far as our office is concerned, it was sent over here in error. I feel sure there was no intent to file it as a bill to become law," an office in Dies' office said.

Royal Air Force Joker Unmasked

LONDON (AP) — The joker in the Royal Air Force has been unmasked. It started with an announcement over the public address system at Cranwell, the Air Force training college.

A fault, said the announcer, had been discovered in the heel design of the shoes worn by officers. All officers were asked to hand them to the porter's lodge for a check by the makers.

The shoes flowed in. Then someone became suspicious.

Who was the hoaxer? Was it Prince Charles, heir to the British throne and currently a Cranwell student taking jet training?

"I'm afraid it was," said the spokesman at Buckingham Palace.

Smoke Bombs Plot Fizzles

DALLAS (AP)— Pupils proposing to use smoke bombs as a sign of support for protesters in the nation's capital failed Thursday in a plot to force the closing of a high school, authorities said.

Principal Gene Golden suspended seven of the nearly 2,200 who attend W. T. White High School in far northwest Dallas. Police said they might charge three of them under the state bomb law.

A PLANE MISTAKE

DALLAS (AP) — Clyde Shaver has discovered something about policemen. They may be dressed like hippies.

Clyde, a Southern Methodist University student and member of the Student Mobilization Committee, was sitting in the balcony of the McFarlin Memorial Auditorium during the recent speech by Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

"It was a drag," commented Clyde.

He made a paper airplane and sailed it into the air.

"It didn't even go off the balcony," said Clyde.

But the young man in the sweater seated next to Clyde showed the youth a badge and said "Come with me."

Clyde did. But he and another airplane flyer were released a short time later, Clyde said.

Westbrook School Bond Election Slated Saturday

WESTBROOK — Westbrook High School District residents will vote Saturday at the school on a $75,000 bond financial school improvement program.

The school board hopes to sell the bonds, if they are approved, and complete the improvements in time for next fall's school term.

There will be no extra cost to the district's taxpayers. The financially healthy Westbrook district had a $3,000,000 increase in valuation on its tax rolls last year and the bond issue will not require an increase in the current tax rate, said L. M. Dawson, school superintendent.

Plans for the bond issue include new dressing room facilities, attached at the north rear of the gymnasium; new kindergarten building, attached to the school's west end with an entrance through the present teachers lounge; new rooms for the main school building; water proofing the gymnasium and improvements to the vocational agriculture building; and additional improvements such as painting, plastering and landscaping.

The improvement program has been under consideration for some time. The dressing room situation has been studied for several years.

School officials are hopeful that the bonds, if approved, can be sold at an interest rate of about 4 per cent. School reinvestment of the cash can draw approximately 5½ per cent for the school.

The district is in a position, if it is advantageous, to buy its own bonds, said Dawson.

The Sweetwater architectural firm of Welch and Hampton has been hired for the program.

Election judges will be D. J. Barber and J. K. Williamson.

Actress Not Entitled To Half Estate

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A Hollywood actress is not entitled to half the estate of a Texas oilman, an appellate court ruled.

The 4th Texas Court of Civil Appeals upheld a lower court finding that a codicil, or revision, to the will of William Lafayette Dugger Jr. was invalid.

Dugger revised his will in longhand to include actress Lizabeth Scott, whom he described as his fiancee.

The revision left equal shares of Dugger's estate to Miss Scott, now in her 40s, and to his sister, Sarah Dugger Schwartz of El Paso.

The San Antonio oilman and rancher died in 1969 at 46.

The appeals court found Dugger struck out the typewritten words "to her," apparently referring to Mrs. Schwartz, and "interlined in lieu thereof the words 'in equal shares'."

The phrase "and Lizabeth Scott, my fiancee," was added to the bequeathing clause.

The appeals court held the codicil was not a valid instrument and, therefore, did not affect Dugger's will.

A county judge approved the codicil in December of 1969 but Mrs. Schwartz challenged the ruling.

A district judge held the codicil was invalid and not entitled to probate. This decision was upheld by the appeals court.

The value of Dugger's estate was not disclosed.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♡

Loose handling of the trump suit by South provided the defenders with an opportunity to upset the declarer's four spade contract.

The bidding was routine and West opened fire with the jack of hearts. South won the trick in his hand with the king. An examination of the dummy revealed that there were two diamond losers, but the contract appeared to be impregnable and—if declarer could pick up the king of trumps, he would score an overtrick on the deal.

The queen of spades was led, on which West discarded the six of diamonds—revealing that East's king of trumps was well protected. Without further ado, South played the ace of spades from dummy and continued with the deuce. East put up the king and having noted his partner's signal in diamonds, he switched to the king of that suit. Declarer played the nine and West the four. East continued with the seven of diamonds and West was in with the ace. A third round was led and the dummy ruffed with the seven of spades, but East overruffed with the eight for the setting trick.

As soon as South released dummy's ace of spades, he surrendered control of the hand. East cannot be prevented from getting in with the king of spades while trumps are being drawn—therefore, it becomes essential for declarer to retain the ace of spades so that the defense cannot profit from their one remaining opportunity to regain the initiative.

If declarer merely passes the queen of spades around to East, the latter will presumably switch to the king and another diamond. However, when West leads a third round, South is in position to ruff with North's ace of spades and then draw East's remaining trumps and claim the rest. He loses two diamonds and one spade on the deal.

Uncontested Bills Rushed To Senators

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators approved 27-4 and sent to the House Thursday a bill that would let the State Board of Health supervise all hospital rates and charges in Texas.

The measure, by Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas, was approved on a so-called "local and uncontested calendar" with most senators not in the chamber.

Under the bill, all hospitals and clinics would be required to file a schedule of their rates and charges with the State Board of Health for approval as being "just and reasonable."

Also sent to the House on a 27-4 vote was a bill that would make a course in consumer education required for all Texas high school graduates.

Other Senate bills sent to the House in the rapid-fire session today included:

—A measure that would require all persons 12 years or younger in a boat to wear a vest type life preserver, not a ski belt or ring.

—A bill that would let each family manufacture for its own use up to 200 gallons of wine each year.

—A bill that would let the tribal council of Tigua Indians near El Paso issue revenue bonds for projects designed to attract tourists and tourism revenue.

—A bill raising the maximum weight limit for vehicles on state highways from 48,000 to 72,000 pounds.

—Allow pro sport stadiums with a seating capacity of 40,000 and over to have a private club operated under the pool system prescribed by the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

—Create a Texas Navy Commission of nine, appointed by the governor, of which three must be "Texas admirals," a honorary title bestowed by the governor's office.

—Transfer powers of the board of manager of the Texas State Railroad to the Parks and Wildlife Department. The railroad extends from Rusk to Palestine.

The Senate also passed and sent to the governor 28 bills, most raising county officials' pay. One bill would allow Lamar State University at Beaumont levy a student union fee.

'M*A*S*H' Star Seeks Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Donald Sutherland, 35, is seeking a divorce from his wife, Shirley Jean Sutherland, 37, daughter of Canadian political leader T. C. Douglas.

Sutherland, costar of the hit movie "M-A-S-H," filed suit for divorce in Superior Court Wednesday. The couple were married Aug. 6, 1966, in London and separated last November.

He asked that his wife be awarded no alimony or attorney fees, and both be given joint custody of their 3-year-old twins.

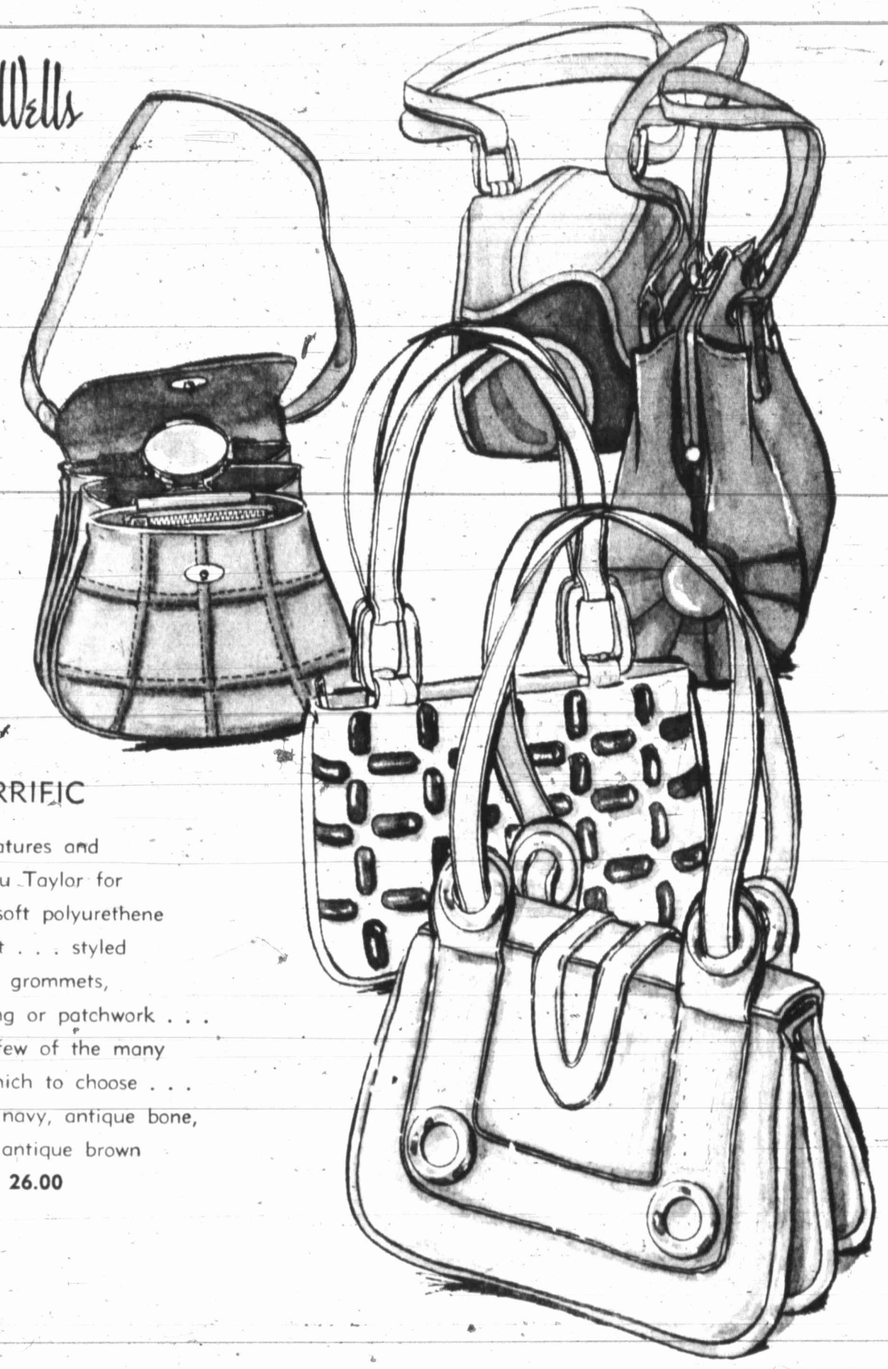

Mrs. Sutherland faces federal conspiracy charges in Los Angeles for the alleged purchase and possession of hand grenades. The U.S. attorney said she was arrested in 1969 at her Beverly Hills home.

Says Latins May Turn To 'Terrible Violence'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya says an increasingly embittered and militant Spanish-speaking minority may turn to "terrible violence" unless it gets political power and equal opportunity.

Montoya, the Senate's only Spanish-named member, says he repeatedly has urged his people to work within the system and to be moderate.

But, the New Mexico Democrat said in a Senate speech Thursday, the discrimination and bigotry has barely lessened, something the returning veterans of Vietnam won't tolerate.

LOUD LIP SERVICE

The Spanish-American jobless rate is nearly twice that of any other group, their illiteracy rate is five times higher than Anglo-Americans, they are the target of prejudiced law enforcers in the Southwest, and their television image is a totally demeaning stereotype, Montoya said.

"America continues to pay loud lip service to the aspirations of these people," he said. "Such superficial concern is surpassed only by the paucity of what our society is doing to aid them escape conditions of life afflicting so many of them. It is one of our worst national disgraces.

"A small but growing group in our Spanish-speaking community is beginning to despair of making real progress," he continued. "It feels only deliberately-fostered turbulence will awaken our power structure and the nation to their needs."

He rejects that approach, Montoya said, yet understands the frustration which prompts it.

NOTABLE SUCCESS

"The most notable success achieved by Spanish-speaking Americans has been through the religious-oriented nonviolent union of farmworkers of Cesar Chavez," Montoya said.

With Chavez going to jail to gain in 1971 for his farmworkers what most American labor got during the New Deal, Montoya said, "the Pentagon repeats an atrocious policy by escalating lettuce-buying just as it suddenly discovered a need in past years to support nonunion grape growers through increased purchase of grapes."

In the military services, he noted, Spanish-speaking Americans are drafted at disproportionate rates and their death rate in Vietnam is at an exaggeratedly high level.

Those who return face the difficulties — unchanged—they left.

Post Office Asks Help To Meet Goal

Big Spring Postmaster Frank Hardesty has asked that Big Springers help in attaining the "next-day delivery" goal set by the post office.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount has announced that the first "National Service Goal" of the U.S. Postal Service will be next-day delivery of ZIP-coded airmail to principal cities within 600 miles of the point of origin and second-day delivery between most major cities within the continental United States.

Big Springers can help accomplish this goal, Hardesty said, by following these guidelines:

1. Have airmail in the post office as early as possible and no later than 4 p.m.

2. Use easily identifiable airmail envelopes or otherwise mark "airmail" on them in large letters.

3. ZIP-code all airmail.

Also Too Ill To Serve

Doctors at Bethesda Naval Hospital have found Rep. John Dowdy of Texas "neither physically nor mentally capable" of standing trial on federal bribery-conspiracy charges.

The naval doctors' report said Rep. Dowdy, "is considered unable to consult rationally with counsel or assist counsel in his own defense." The judge, for the sixth time, postponed Rep. Dowdy's trial.

Yet Rep. Dowdy's administrative aide said the congressman, who has been absent most of the time since last September, is returning to his duties on a part-time basis.

The aide said Rep. Dowdy will not resign. Rep. Dowdy is a member of the Judiciary and District of Columbia committees and chairman of the education subcommittee of the D.C. committee.

Can a man found "incapable" by a number of disinterested physicians and psychiatrists represent his constituents or participate in congressional debate and decisions?

This is a delicate question for the House, which hesitates to act against one of its own. At the least, the House Democratic caucus should review Rep. Dowdy's ability to serve on his committees and perhaps remove him.

Rep. Dowdy could resolve the issue by resigning and going home to Athens to recuperate and then facing charges against him when he is found capable. By keeping his seat, he is doing a disservice to himself, his constituents and to the House.

Long Overdue

Prompted by last year's diphtheria epidemic in San Antonio, the legislature has now passed and the governor has signed legislation requiring the immunization of school children against seven diseases.

Under the new law, each child entering school or various child care institutions must be immunized against diphtheria, rubeola (red measles), rubella (German measles), tetanus, polio and smallpox.

During the signing ceremony, Gov. Preston Smith cited some mournful statistics: "Comparative figures for 1968 indicate that Texas has the highest rate in the nation for measles and polio; the second highest for diphtheria, and the fourth highest for whooping cough."

That is nothing short of disgraceful. The legislation now on the books should go a long way toward correcting this; the only wonder is why it took so long, and in the end took a disastrous and killing epidemic to put such a law on the books.

An Independent

Marquis Childs

BUCHAREST, Romania — One of the charter members of a small exclusive club, "For Nixon Before '68" is the President and Secretary General of the Communist party of this Eastern bloc country. Nicolae Ceausescu, a wily political operator, has demonstrated the courage of his convictions. As a dissenter in the Communist world he has stood up to the frowns of the Soviet Union, Romania's powerful neighbor on the east.

SHORTLY BEFORE the Congress of World Communist Parties in Moscow at the end of March reports circulated that Ceausescu meant to return to the fold and be a good boy. He led his delegation to Moscow and on April 4 delivered a 20-minute speech which in length, in the tradition of Communist oratory, is equivalent to clearing your throat.

In that speech he repeated all he had said before about not meddling in the affairs of other countries. It was the same declaration of independence that after the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia threatened an invitation to a similar disaster.

IN THAT fateful summer of 1968, when so many plans were dashed by Russian tanks rumbling through the streets of Prague, Ceausescu denounced the invasion in speeches throughout Romania. It was a chancy thing to do since there were many who believed the Soviet colossus might very well turn next on Bucharest and throw out the dissenters.

Ceausescu spoke out first in 1965 when the quarrel between the Soviet Union and Communist China began to break. He contended that each Communist state should have the right to chart its own course and choose its own brand of communism. This meant a closer relationship with Peking and the beginning of a cooling off with Moscow.

THAT WAS capped by what happened in 1969. Ceausescu invited President Nixon to visit Bucharest. Two years before, when Nixon was in Eastern Europe on a world tour, calculated to build up his stature as a statesman, he got the frigid treatment in one Communist capital after another. This seemed to be on signal from Moscow where every door was closed.

But Ceausescu received Nixon and the two shrewd politicians laid the groundwork for a continuing relationship. It was the first time since the end of World War II that an American President had paid an official visit to Eastern Europe.

THE CEAUSESCU government continues to keep the door to the West open. Pan American Airways has just inaugurated a twice-weekly flight to Bucharest and an NBC television crew is traveling about the country filming various aspects of Romanian life for the "Today" program.

The significant change has come in the shift of Romania's trade. In 1965 about 80 per cent was with Eastern bloc countries, 20 per cent wth the rest of the world. In 1970 this shifted to 54 per cent with the bloc, and 46 per cent with the outside world.

FIRSTHAND OBSERVERS credit Ceausescu with being hard-working, austere, and determined to build an advanced industry in a country which has been largely agricultural. But the road ahead is long and hard.

Walt Finley

Friends, I'm still at my favorite pastime — cleaning my desk. It's an endless job, I'm convinced after more than 25 years in the business.

BUT I PERSIST. At the moment, it looks worse than it did when I started several weeks ago, in part because so many things show up in other departments which they do not want to throw away, surely someone can use it, I know, I'll give it to crazy old Walt.

One item which just sifted to the top is a letter from Mrs. Pete Pruitt of Colorado City, who wrote the editor last Feb. 21.

SHE WROTE she didn't agree with my Feb. 19 "Rim" comment:

"Have you noticed the moon since the eclipse? Knocked it lopsided."

Mrs. Pruitt asked a really good question: "Didn't he think about the big rock the astronauts brought back?"

Uncle Sam's Gold Woes

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Suppose you ran your checking account as Uncle Sam runs his. You are rich and powerful but you let the bills pile up. Oh, you pay them all, but slowly, and you permit the total to grow over the years.

Your creditors demand you pay but you insist that your promise is as good as the payment—only slower.

They wonder, though, how long your deficit situation can continue. Credit should be temporary.

They know you have plenty of assets that they could demand in place of cash. They know you have a pile of gold, though a diminished one, and they toy with the notion of demanding it.

But you tell them that they'll never get their hands on it. Rather ridiculously, none of you wishes to face the reality that there isn't enough gold there anyway.

You can enforce your wishes because your smaller neighbors need your business. So they don't press too hard for that gold. They don't like what is going on, but certainly don't want to lose your business, which would hurt theirs also.

What do they do? They can suggest that you increase the size of your checks, in effect, devalue money with which you pay.

This would mean that you'd have to shell out more money for the same bills.

But you are big and powerful and you insist this just won't be done. Your money is good, you maintain. You always pay your bills, if slowly. In fact, you pay some of your neighbors' bills.

Nobody is more generous than you when it comes to aiding the less fortunate, either with alms or armaments, in your own neighborhood or in the next town.

And you are confident that eventually you will have more money coming into the checking account than leaves it. You intend to do nothing other than to work toward that eventual balance.

They have another alternative. They can lower the size of the checks they send you. That is, they could revalue their checks upward. They could say that their $1 check really was worth $1.05, take it or leave it.

This would serve over a period of time to reduce the disparity in accounts and would devalue your checks, even though they took the action.

The big problem with this sort of thing is that it may bring other troubles, some only dimly understood.

It would raise to you the price of their goods. It would lessen your ability to buy and their ability to sell to you.

And worse: Distrusted as your checks might be, they are the most widely distributed, because you are the biggest, most powerful man in town. Your checks are commonly endorsed and used and reused throughout your area. They circulate like originals.

McGovern Failure

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — After two weeks of messy, noisy and often violent anti-war demonstrations here, I wonder if it has occurred to Sen. George McGovern and other "peace" candidates for public office that the movement to end the Indochina conflict is too important to be left to the creeps.

TO BE SURE, McGovern early on warned that violence and destruction of property was "counter-productive" — the fashionable word these days. Unfortunately, if unwittingly, he also gave aid and comfort to the Rennie Davises, the David Dellingers and other vicious nuts by endorsing their right to protest.

The good Senator must have known, unless his naivete passeth all understanding, that when anti-war demonstrations are led by violent and irresponsible men they will surely erupt into disorder and probably into physical rabidity.

I'M AFRAID George McGovern and other anti-war liberals, some sitting on judicial benches, have been carried away by the sanctimonious premise that protest is a proper part of the democratic process. Of course it is. But that does not excuse turning over the nation's capital to a spiteful, hate-filled rabble, many of them crazed by drugs, some publicly proclaiming they represent the enemy North Vietnamese regime. This is criminal irresponsibility on the part of our liberal leadership.

ALMOST INCREDIBLY, part of the blame for the wildness of the past two weeks is borne by that panel of four Superior Court judges, who decided in effect that the malignant weirdos who tore down a temporary wall in the Health, Education and Welfare Department building were merely naughty pedestrians. The panel's ruling on bail gave the mob carte blanche to raise hell to its heart's content.

Specifically, the panel overruled a brief policy of requiring arrested demonstrators to post $50 collateral. Bail of $10 was sufficient, said the panel, because after all the charge was a traffic violation.

AS GERALD M. CAPLAN, counsel for the D. C Police Department, complained, the decision forced the police to operate "as a turnstile — arresting people for disorderly conduct, letting them go if they pay $10, and then going out to lock them up again."

Granting George McGovern's utter sincerity, he has at least muffed an opportunity to lead. He stood by sadly, but he did stand by, while the peace campaign — launched so gallantly by the Vietnamese War veterans two weeks earlier — deteriorated into a wildly irrelevant saturnalia of vulgar exhibitionism.

IT IS TEMPTING to wonder where these "poor" people get the money to traipse from town to town bellowing for their "rights." But that is another story. Quite simply, they came to Washington to claim a piece of the sordid action. And George McGovern, a decent man and a man of integrity, a candidate for President, let the cup of leadership pass from his lips to be savored by these greedy and frenetic showoffs.

Guerrilla Tactics

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The activists who have been carrying on demonstrations endeavoring to paralyze government operations in the national capital have also been causing trouble in individual offices on Capitol Hill. Sen. John G. Tower, Republican of Texas, tells the story to his constituents as follows:

"A number of anti-war demonstrators carried out their 'guerrilla theater' pantomime within my Washington office. They burst into the office making a great hullabaloo and commotion, filled my reception room and an adjacent secretary's office and would have forced their way into my private office if one of my staff had not locked the door.

"IT WAS apparent that this group was carrying out a highly organized attempt to disrupt the regular activities of my office, and were not the least interested in any rational communication regarding the issues. They shouted for some minutes and then fell to the floor in what they claimed was a portrayal of death. They left within 10 or 15 minutes after capitol police arrived on the scene and told them to do so.

"THE REGRETTABLE aspect of this incident is its effect upon serious communication. I have attempted in the past to listen to those who have come to my office to voice legitimate concerns. I have listened and members of my staff have listened, and when my views have been asked, they have been rendered. I believe that both the dissenters and I have gained from these rational exchanges.

"BUT THE disruptive activity being carried on by the more militant elements is not contributing to communication or solution. Instead, it constitutes a nuisance which hampers the regular efforts of public officials to serve their constituents and the general citizenry. And these activities are working against the efforts of dissenters who are taking reasonable steps.

"OF COURSE, I was not singled out by the demonstrators for disruptive activities. The offices of many senators have been visited by these elements, as well as many administration offices elsewhere in the city."

The national capital has been confronted with dissenters from time to time. Never before, however, have there been so many activists who have deliberately violated the law. Not only have they trespassed on private property, but they have caused considerable material damage as well.

THE DEMONSTRATORS have not aided their cause by the attempts they have made to disrupt traffic and raid the offices of members of Congress. Some of the activists who were arrested have been released from jail with light fines and have gone home. The supposition is that attempts to disrupt traffic will diminish.

The police here have been instructed to make prompt arrests for disorderly conduct, and have handled the problem very efficiently. Federal troops and National Guardsmen have given the police a helping hand.

ALL FUTURE demonstrators may have learned a lesson from the episodes here. The federal government is not going to permit disturbances in the capital and, while free speech will not be impaired and opportunities will be given for gatherings at which opinions can be expressed, no interference will be permitted with the operations of the government or private business.

Life In The Office

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — You can win an Oscar in Hollywood or a Tony on Broadway, but there is no nationally recognized award for acting in an American business office.

This is a shame because if there is any real center of drama in U.S. life it is the average office, full of shabby green desks and bilius-feeling people, each desperately playing the role of his choice to the hilt.

For example, they all display the talent of a Barrymore even in getting on stage. If you just pause and see how some of the people in your own office come to work each morning, you are likely to find familiar some of the following characters in the east:

"How do you do you do you do you do you?" sing out "Mike and Ike the office drunks, as they enter arm in arm. They have had a pick-me-up already at a bar down the street. Because of the theory that there's safety in numbers, they do their drinking together. By 10 a.m., each will have stolen $5 from the petty cash drawer, and they'll be back at the bar, stool to stool, having a drink during coffee break.

The femme fatale—The boos's secretary, an antique adventure in fading mascara, writes her name ruefully in the dust on her desk. As she tugs off her gray-white gloves she notes there's a hole in another finger, sits down primly and says fatalistically, "Oh, well, one hell at a time."

Busted Ben-Jauntily whistling alternate strains of "Dixie" and "Tea for Two," the office gambler posts himself just inside the door at 8:57 a.m. and tries to borrow money from all who enter. If he's lucky, he'll be phoning in the first bet of the day to his bookie by 9:12.

The Office Wolf—His hair has turned to silver and his claws to rest, but he still tries to make points with every new girl who joins the firm. He likes to reminisce about how much fun it was to rustle a bustle in the old days.

The Sage—He was here before the building was finished, standing by the water cooler and whispering to every comer, "Whatever you're doing, I wouldn't do it if I were you. It'll only get you in trouble."

There is some truth to his philosophy. He has never missed a day's work or done a day's duty, but for 41 years the treasurer has always spelled his name right on the paycheck.

The gossip—"Have you heard that—" she mutters at 9:01 a.m Heard what? It doesn't matter really. But at 5:29 p.m. half the office staff has spent all the work day trying to find out whether what she said was fact, hearsay, or conjectural rumor.

The Great Man Himself—The boss almost breaks the hinges off the door as he storms in, fresh from losing the 1,046th argument in a row with his wife. "Heads will fall," he threatens, looking around darkly. Then he strides into his sanctum, closes the doors and sags into his reclining chair for his first nap of the day.

It's odd why so many people are still willing to pay $10 or more to go to the theater in the evening when they can see the finest acting on earth merely by going to work in the morning.

My Answer

Billy Graham

Would it be all right to pray about a job, asking God's guidance? I would like to change my work, but want to do the right thing. S. D.

Certainly, pray about your job and about a possible change! At the same time, remember that prayer about such matters must not be making a convenience of God but rather of finding out what God has planned for your life and then doing His will. In all of our lives, there come times when we desperately need the direction God alone can give us. Do not make your decision in the light of your own personal desire but rather in the light of clear leading from God. This may come while praying, or, while reading your Bible, or, through a friend or a combination of circumstances. If you are truly willing to know and do God's will about your own work, then stick to what you are doing and when He wants you to do something else, you will have the clear understanding in your own heart that God has led you to change. The wise course is to pray for definite guidance and when you know you have it, do what God wants you to do.

Colorado Sheriff Leaves State Legacy -- His Sons

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) —John P. Maestes, a sheriff and undersheriff in the rough and tumble country of southern Colorado's Costilla County for 22 years, would be proud of his sons today — as proud as they are of the heritage he left them.

Maestes is dead now, but his love and regard for law enforcement has carried through to three of his sons, and possibly his fourth.

Dave, Charles and John, all of Fort Collins, have followed their father's lead and made law enforcement their professions.

"He was a strict man," said Dave, a patrolman on the police force in this north-central Colorado city at the foot of the Rockies. "I can't ever remember him lying to me. I'll always thank my dad for what he did for me."

Dave, the oldest son at 30, was the last to move into police work, when he signed up here two years ago after a job as a salesman. Charles, 26, is the newest addition to the Larimer County sheriff's office, although he was a patrolman in Montrose, in southwest Colorado, for three years.

John, the youngest brother, has been a member of the nearby Weld County Sheriff's Department for the past 12 months, after a six-month stint as a policeman in Gothenburg, Neb.

Now all but Leroy, 28, live here with their families. And Leroy, now in the Navy at San Diego, Calif., has indicated to his brothers he's considering leaving the Navy to join them in police work.

"Our father was a well respected man," says Charles.

"You would never hear people yelling out 'pig' or 'rotten cop' or whatever the terms of this generation are, when he was on the street. People were always friendly."

Like their father, who played a part in the establishment of the Colorado State Patrol in 1932, the sons take pride in their work and enjoy it.

"I don't know why," says Charles, "It certainly isn't because of the pay . . . or the hours . . . or the working conditions, and it sure isn't for the glory."

The lawmen's father died in July, 1968, at the age of 81, nine years after he retired. The brothers know their line of work is dangerous, and Dave, the elder son, is custodian of three grim reminders.

They're .38 caliber bullets, removed from his father's chest in 1945 after he was wounded by a gunman during a burglary in San Luis.

Commission Is Restoring Jewish Graves

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — For decades they lay pretty much forgotten, the graves of hundreds of Jews who joined the flocks of wealth-seekers who poured into the Sierra east of here in the Gold Rush of the 1850s.

The Jewish communities buried their own in small separate cemeteries in six towns along the route of what is now California Highway 49.

When the groups owning the cemeteries disbanded by the turn of the century, five of the burial sites generally fell into neglect, filling with weeds, leaves and other litter over the years.

The sixth cemetery has been cared for by Julius E. Baer in his native town of Sonora for 70 of his 94 years. He took over the task from his father, Mayer, who died in 1907.

But one by one, the other cemeteries are being restored and documented in a continuing project to preserve that part of California's Jewish heritage.

The nonprofit Commission for the Preservation of Pioneer Jewish Cemeteries has restored and rededicated graveyards so far in Sonora, Placerville, Grass Valley and Nevada City.

Stockholm Urban Renewal Draws Cries Of Protest

By LARS LUNDBERG

STOCKHOLM (AP) Tired cities quietly are being chopped all over the world but here the process of urban renewal has been like a public execution with cries of protest from a disapproving gallery.

Almost overnight, this ancient royal capital lost its Norrmalm city area where renaissance palaces crowded cozily with carpenters and tinkers' shops.

The razing went ahead in spite of impassioned protests from Swedes ranging from film director Ingmar Bergman to hippie youngsters. Today the area has the world's most modern Parliament building, Europe's biggest underground parking tunnel, and an incredible assortment of builder's rubble. But while the architecture and style of the 1640s is lost, part of it as cheap filling under a new hotel, the exercise has alerted the community at large to the conservation issue.

New-born sensitivity is manifest in "City Alternative," an environment society whose membership has risen to several thousand after a recent start. Per Janse, speaking for the society, said the lesson of Norrmalm was that automobile traffic posed unacceptable demands on inner city rejuvenation and planning.

"Cars will just have to budget for new and rational means of public transport," Janse said, citing New York and Tokyo as places where a conventional approach to city and traffic planning had led to severe health hazards.

"In essence, we demand city planners shape the environment to benefit human beings instead of automobiles."

To press their demands for a viable alternative to current modes of city transportation, City Alternative and other grass-rroots groups are busily organizing vast demonstrations with participants blocking up the city on foot or riding bicycles.

At all times, such actions have been models of good behaviour on all sides, with even car drivers caught in deliberately caused traffic jams exchanging cheery waves and greetings with "the enemy."

The same spirit was evident recently when some 10,000 signatures were collected on an appeal to save half a dozen elms marked out for destruction by the Department of Transport. All this, observers say, can be traced back to the wholesale Norrmalm demolition plan which was implemented from the 1950s onwards "to make way for the new city-road systems and car parks."

Over a period of 10 years, the axe was put to 395 shops, flats in the thousands and a scattering of churches. Through the 1960s, Bergman and some of this country's most prominent authors and artists jointly spoke up to block the further progress of demolition teams into the then still untouched southern Norrmalm area.

But somehow, the grinding wheels of government crushed their protest and 18th century houses again began crashing into the narrow city streets.

Today the work is complete and, to the chagrin of City Alternative, parking space has grown by 10,000 per cent.

Jesuits Look Forward To Television

Vatican Radio Broadcasts In 23 Languages

By PATRICK O'KEEFE
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — On a cold February day in 1931, Guglielmo Marconi, the father of radio, motioned Pope Pius XI to a microphone standing in the Vatican Gardens.

Quoting the Old Testament, Pius XI exclaimed: "Hear O Heavens, what I am about to say; hear O Earth the words of my mouth. Hear all peoples . . ." Then he read the rest of the first discourse broadcast over Vatican radio, built by Marconi.

Since that day, three more popes — Pius XII, John XXIII and Paul VI — have beamed to the world their missionary messages about the Roman Catholic faith, pleas for peace and for social justice.

Forty years later, Vatican radio has developed short or medium wave broadcasts in 32 languages — 16 of them languages of the Soviet Union and Communist Eastern Europe. It also broadcasts in Chinese.

Now the Jesuits — who have always run the radio station — are looking toward the day when the Vatican can beam television programs to many countries. What's needed to justify the expense of a TV station, the radio's directors believe, is satellite transmission that would not depend on ground relays but could project programs directly to receiving sets on earth as did TV cameras used by astronauts on the moon.

Efforts to improve radio broadcasting, meanwhile, are being stepped up. Vatican radio perennially has faced two sizable obstacles:

—Short wave transmission reaches relatively few people.

—Programming, bound up in expositions of Catholic teaching and under the watchful eye of a conservative Roman Curia, has rarely made for exciting listening.

The Rev. Giacomo Martegani, a 69-year-old former Jesuit assistant superior general who now directs Vatican radio, has been chipping away at both these obstacles. To get more listeners, he has plans for strengthening the radio's 1,000-kilowatt complex of transmitters, expecially for medium wave broadcasts, and for more links with long wave stations that air programs taped at the Vatican.

Already, Spanish and Portuguese national radio broadcast Vatican programs once or more a week. So do stations in Chile, Mexico, Colombia, Venezuela, San Salvador and Boliva. French-Canadian radio exchanges programs regularly with the Vatican. Taped programs also are sent to Manila's powerful Catholic station, Radio Veritas, and to both French-language and English-language stations in Africa.

Of the radio's second problem, content, Father Martegani says: "There is an almost daily effort to make programs more appetizing. He cited the introduction of female voices to Vatican radio as one solution, begun within the last five years.

The Rev. Jorge Blajot, program director, has tried to change the preachy tone Vatican radio had a reputation for, even to introducing some light music. There is now more general news on the air and it's presented more as information than as religious instruction of propaganda. There also are interview shows and round-table discussions, which get away from the tradition of presenting a single line of thought on any one topic.

Still, Father Blajot admits, the latitude for discussion isn't so great that "we would bring a Communist in to discuss politics." Although the topics of last year include divorce and problems of youth, Father Blajot said the radio "does not favor things that do not have Vatican approval."

Last December, the authors of the rock opera "Jesus Christ Superstar" were interviewed on Vatican radio.

Of greater concern to Vatican radio than musical programming is in its reach behind the Iron Curtain, where millions of Catholics are limited in their religious practices, if allowed any at all. How great an influence does the radio have?

"It's hard to say concretely," says Father Martegani. "What we know for certain is this: Vatican radio is heard more than we probably think in all these countries as a free and true voice." He said the radio had begun to beam Latin rite masses to the Soviet Union "upon the request of a Russian listener."

Whether the listener ever hears that Mass is in doubt. Since 1969, the Soviet Union has reportedly again been jamming some Vatican radio transmissions. In recent months Bulgaria, too, has resumed jamming.

Movie Music Sells Records

The only movie music which sells records is music from successful movies, says Henry Mancini.

"You never get anything going anywhere from an unsuccessful picture. It could be the greatest music in the world and nothing would happen.

"I don't think either the theme from 'Love Story' (Mancini's latest hit record) or the theme from 'Romeo and Juliet' (a recent giant hit) would have had a breath of a chance without the films that go with them. The melodies are very pretty, classically oriented, but without that ear and eye matching up, I don't think they would have been successful.

"I think the day of the sound track for the sake of a sound track is gone. I've had several scores I felt have been some of my best work, in the last year even. The 'Molly McGuires,' I was proud of that, and 'Sunflower.' But because of the movies not catching on, it is nothing. In this business we say we have to eat them."

Mancini got a gold record for the single "Love Theme from 'Romeo and Juliet,'" and also for the LP which featured that theme, "A Warm Shade of Ivory," and on which he played piano.

"The movie had been cut almost a year. No one had thought to record the theme. All the smart guys completely overlooked it. I overlooked it too, really."

Laughter Focuses On Mod Teenager

QUEENIE. By Hortense Calisher. Arbor House. $6.95.

What can you say about a teenage girl named Queenie who lived, and lived, and lived?

Well, for openers, Queenie's one of the best comic figures to appear in a contemporary novel in a long, long time. And, if that isn't enough, then say that the cast of characters surrounding her is just as hilarious, even though its role strictly is supporting Queenie. Finally, note that a first-rate writer such as Hortense Calisher is polishing out the fine sentences from which his novel is made.

And, as Miss Calisher has proven many times in the past and does here once again, she has a way with words that makes reading, once again, a pleasure. She especially is good at drawing a character with a riposte that leaves him forever exposed, completely.

Consider the young man eating everything in sight at a party: "Aren't you eating anything?" he asks, not really caring. He has a small, macrobiotic mouth." Or Queenie discussing this young man with another young man: "'He wasn't perverted,' I say. 'Not a bit more than any of you, if you could manage it. He was merely being psychological. In his way, Nosey. In his way. If he'd been a great reader like you — Freud, Kraft-Ebbing, Playboy — it might've been different.'" And, finally, Queenie's college roommate Sherry who "likes to think her name just might be short for Scherherazade, but everyone knows her parents are top-flight account executives in a large ad agency, and the fact-fantasy borderline has been very difficult for her. She can't even wear stuff like jeans, because one of her parents originated the word 'sudsable.'"

Queenie's story is divided into three parts. The first deals with her early life. The second, which contains a hilarious description of a "love-in," covers her in college. The third, out of college and wandering about the world. The first two portions are finely-written episodes. But the level of writing falters a bit in the third section and it is not as well blended as the others, growing, at times, a bit chaotic.

HIGH-SPEED CAMERAS MAY HELP SAVE LIVES

Lab Computers Predict Results Of Car Crashes

By ED GOODMAN
Associated Press Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A late-model car occupied by two life-like dummies speeds down a track and smashes into a concrete-supported steel post.

The crash takes place too fast for anything except high speed cameras to see or record. The cameras are everywhere, beside the post, above the post, in a special pit below it, and even in the back seat of the car.

The pictures, scientists hope, will show how the front end of the car caved in, the movements of the dummies, and the actions of doors, windows, the steering column and other inside objects.

The place is the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in the Buffalo suburb of Cheektowaga. The lab, owned and operated by Cornell University, employs about 1,500 persons and does $30 million worth of research each year.

About 10 per cent of the lab's work involves automotives.

"We are probably unique in providing in one place a comprehensive attack on highway problems," says Dr. Edwin Kidd, head of the lab's transportation research division.

Kidd says the lab is capable of studying anything from the psychological state of a driver before an accident to the crash-worthiness of a new car design. The lab has also developed computers that can predict what will happen during a crash.

In one current study, the lab is trying to find a front end design that best protects the passenger compartment during a crash.

The problem, Kidd said, is that if the front end gives way too easily, the driver ends up with the motor in his lap. But if the front end is too rigid, he said, then the passenger compartment gets the full impact of the sudden stop.

What the lab hopes to come up with is a front end design that cushions the passengers by collapsing at a controlled rate, he said.

To find out how different designs work, the lab plans to build nine cars with different front end constructions and crash them into the steel post.

Nor is the lab content with devising its own crashes. As part of its accident research program, it has special teams to investigate highway collisions.

The lab has under way a $524,000 program studying actual accidents. The project includes an in-depth look at 200 accidents, an examination of the performance of 4,000 accident cars from the last two model years and an over-all look at accident rates for vehicle type and driver classification in New York State.

"We don't really know yet the relationship between drivers and vehicles that causes an accident," said John Garrett, head of the lab's accident research division. "W're trying to fit all the variables into one study."

He said the lab had automotive engineers and technicians, highway engineers, doctors and psychologists ready to pool their knowledge in the investigations.

Garrett told of an accident at an intersection of three main roads that was caused by one of five stoplights failing to work. The result was that two cars came at each other from opposite directions.

"We found out about it when our researchers almost got run over," he said.

When the study is over, Garrett said, the lab hopes to be able to take any age group or class of driver, in any automobile under any road conditions and predict with some accuracy the chances of an accident.

It sounds like a heavy order, but the lab has made many important discoveries. Here is a history of some of the lab's major findings:

1954 — The lab proved that if you stay in the car during an accident, you'll be better off. The study is credited with being the first to call attention to the need for seat belts and the installation of interlocking door latches.

1955—The lab found that the dash and instrument panel was the leading cause of injury and the third most important cause of death in accidents. The results pointed to the need for padded dash boards.

1959—The lab issued its first list of the 10 leading causes of injury during an accident. The list is credited with prompting the start of the drive for automotive safety.

1963—The lab developed the box-beam guard rail, now the standard guard rail in many states. The box-beam rail cushions impact, slows the car down and, without breaking, doesn't force the car back into traffic.

1964—The lab issued findings showing the penetration of the steering column as a major cause of injury and death. The results showed the need for collapsible steering columns.

"We disseminate our results to the people who have to make the decisions," Kidd said. "There is no question of our results getting to both the government and to industry. We make known our findings in papers. We try to comment on proposed standards. But we do not apply any pressure."

Kidd said the lab has seen a progressive improvement over the years in vehicle safety.

While the future of safety research appears bright, some people believe the future of the lab is in jeopardy.

Cornell University signed a contract last October selling the lab to EDP Technology Inc. of Washington, D.C., for $25 million. A suit to block the sale, filed by the State of New York, is pending before the State Supreme Court's Appellate Division.

The state said, in opposing the sale, that it "represents a major change detrimental to the national interest, to the quality and effectiveness of the laboratory . . ."

Kidd said he and some of the other researchers at the lab oppose the sale.

"We have here a very unique reputation that might ultimately be compromised by a connection to a private firm. I don't want there to be any reduction in our reputation," he said.

Wants Family

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I once read in your column where a man had been injured in the war and became sterile, and he asked you to find him a woman with a ready-made family. I have the same request. I want a man with a family. I am not sterile. My problem is my looks. I am extremely fat. I am 18 years old and weigh about 250 pounds. Don't tell me to see a doctor and lose weight. I've been all through that without success.

I have never been kissed on a date, so don't get the idea that I am a pregnant girl looking for some guy to marry her.

I love children and need some to give my love to. I can cook and sew and keep house better than any woman I know. I've lived on farms and in the city, so it doesn't matter where I live. I don't care if the man wants love or not. If he doesn't, I won't bother him. If he does, I have plenty to give him.

I insist on marriage and will promise to love and cherish his children as if they were my own. I prefer an older man, but it really doesn't matter. Sign me,

READY, WILLING AND NEEDY

DEAR READY: You obviously have very little self esteem — because you are fat. You are willing to marry any man who needs a cook, housekeeper and substitute mother, but is no prize himself, because you don't consider yourself a prize either. You could be wrong. Fat girls who have less to offer than you are getting married every day to men who really love them.

Before agreeing, at age 18, to spend the rest of your life with just any man in return for your services, get some counseling from your local mental health clinic. You will thank me for sending you there.

DEAR ABBY: After 36 years, Grandpa has jumped the fence. When I found out about it and told him I knew, he went to pieces. He has been bending over backwards to make it up to me ever since. I have lost all respect for him and will never be able to trust him again.

I don't want a divorce, but it makes me sick to look at him, never mind sleeping with him! Can you give me a word of encouragement to help me go on? I am broken-hearted.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Time heals all wounds. (And sometimes wounds all heels.) This is not the end of the world. Have you never done a deed which you later regretted? Have you never needed to be forgiven? Answer these questions honestly, then concentrate on some of the good things Grandpa has done throughout the years.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

No Firm Money Offer Disappoints GOP Committee

HOUSTON (AP)—The site selection committee for the Republican National Convention says Houston's facilities are adequate but expressed disappointment the city had made no firm money offer.

Jack Gibson, Republican committeeman from South Dakota, said he was "very impressed with Houston, especially the convention facilities and the hotel situation."

However, he said he was "disappointed in the lack of any offer of money, goods or services."

He said Houston's failure to do so makes him "question whether the City of Houston is really interested in our convention."

Athlete's Foot

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I've never seen anything on athlete's foot. Is there a preventive or cure or a germicide to spray in your home to keep the germ down? My doctor says everybody has it. Is this true? —Mrs. L.

Sorry, but I've written about it before, and nothing new has come along to change things.

Athlete's foot is an infection involving any of several common types of fungus and, for most people, the ordinary drug store remedies, used according to directions, work very well.

These remedies, of which there are several, are fungicides, to apply to the skin of the feet. The thing to remember is that these fungi are pretty stubborn. The fungicides kill off some of the fungus, the athlete's foot seems to be cured — so you stop using the fungicide.

That's the error. A little of the fungus still remains, and it grows, and presently you have the same trouble over again. The trick is to keep using the fungicide for some time after the trouble seems to have stopped, to get rid of the lingering bits of it.

Dusting the inside of your shoes regularly with medicated foot powders, also available at the drug store, is helpful.

In stubborn and severe cases of athlete's foot, better go to a podiatrist, your doctor, or a skin specialist.

Clean and iron your hose. Use clean hose daily and do not go barefoot around the house. Be especially careful to dry between the toes after a bath.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Although I am in my late 20s, I have had a constipation problem all my life. It has progressed so that now laxatives have almost no effect. Any suggestions on this common ailment? — C. G.

Yes — enough suggestions so that they finally were enough to make into a booklet, called "The Way to Stop Constipation." Actually there isn't any one way to do it, there are several.

Most people, I found, had a pretty vague idea of just what causes constipation. Likewise many of them, having been brought up from childhood with the idea of using laxatives, got into the "laxative habit" without realizing that they were, in the long run, prolonging the trouble instead of making it better. Not that laxatives, properly used, don't have their value.

So first learn what constipation is really all about; then make use of whatever methods best suit you. I suggest that you send for my booklet — send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of The Herald.

* * *

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble" It may be only minor, but it can be dangerous. Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Your Kidneeys — Facts You Need To Know About Them." Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Hearld enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

To Study Fencing Swimming Pools

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Louie Welch has appointed a committee of three councilmen to study a proposed ordinance which would require fencing of swimming pools.

One purpose would be to prevent small children from wandering into unattended pools and drowning.

Trevino Scolds Caddy After Round Of 68

DALLAS (AP) — Jack Nicklaus believes Lee Trevino is one of the best shotmakers in golf, but the fiery Mexican says it doesn't do any good if your caddy keeps feeding you the wrong yardage.

Trevino was particularly miffed at his caddy Thursday in the opening round of the Byron Nelson Golf Classic in which he fired a roller-coaster two-under par 68, placing the Dallas native two blows behind leader Jerry McGee.

"My caddy, who has been with me two and one-half years, has been making too many mistakes," Trevino said. "It's getting where I have to walk the yardage off.

"To make up for mistakes, he's going to have to walk the whole course tonight."

Trevino said his caddy, Neal Walker, told him it was 195 yards to the pin on his second shot on the 432-yard Par four No. 5.

"It turned out to be only 175 yards," Trevino said. "There's too much indecision out there. He's going to have to get him an assistant or something."

Trevino, the local favorite who has never won here, was in a group with five others at 68 on the wind-swept, 7,031-yard Preston Trail Golf Course—Ted Hayes, Bob Stone, John Schlee, Ed Sneed and Gay Brewer.

Nicklaus was tied at 69 with Frank Beard, Masters king Charles Coody, Bob Charles, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Hugh Royer, Gene Littler and Homero Blancas. Arnold Palmer was in a group of 11 others at even par 70.

McGee is a 27-year-old five-year tour veteran who has never won a tournament. He made $22,000 last year and has pocketed over $26,000 this season, playing without an exemption. His immediate goal is to finish in the top 60 in 1971 so he won't have to go through the qualifying pains next year.

Scrimmage Is Set Saturday Morning

Big Spring winds up its first week of spring football practice with a scrimmage Saturday morning on Blankenship Field. The boys will take the field about 10 a.m.

Sixty upper classmen and 45 sophomores-to-be make up the local squad.

In a scrimmage conducted Wednesday, coach Clovis Hale said he was satisfied with the team's defense but the offense left something to be desired.

Sophomore Earl Reynolds has moved into a first team position as a defensive halfback. Reynolds is going to clock a lot of playing time for the Steers over the next three years. He weighs about 160.

Chippers Host Abilene A's In 2 Games

Two former State ASA softball champions, the Abilene A's and the Big Spring Chippers, tangle in a doubleheader in Comanche Trail Park here Saturday evening. First game gets under way at 7:30 p.m.

Jack Richards likely will be pitching for the A's. Cotton Mize and L. W. Utley will divide time on the hill for the Chippers.

The A's copped the state crown in 1968 while the Chippers were the champions in 1970.

The Chippers continued their winning ways by defeating Goodyear Service Store twice here Thursday night, 4-2 and 4-0.

Dean Stephenson pitched the opening win for the Chippers, although he was tagged for eight hits. The Chippers managed only five safeties in that one, two of them by Ralph Cirillo. Roy and Steve New had doubles for the Chippers.

Both of Cirillo's blows went for two bases. Francis Johns, Danny Clendenin and Jackie Wolf each had two hits for the Goodyear team.

Roy New held the Goodyear team to two hits in the second game. New also smashed a home run and a single for the winners in that one.

Bernard McMahan accounted for two of the winners' hits, both doubles.

Golfers Open Austin Bid

Coach Royce Cox and five members of the Big Spring High School golf team pulled out for Austin Thursday, where this morning they were to begin play in the State Class AAAA tournament.

Members of the local squad are Mark Peters, Mark McCraney, Howard Stewart, Mark Slate and Jarrell Carroll.

The Steers won the right to take part in the state tournament by finishing first in Regional competition at Odessa recently.

The Steers will be quartered at the Cross Country Motel in Austin. Activity takes place over the Morris Williams course.

The 36-hole event continues through Saturday.

Snyder JC Cagers Won't Seek Title

Western Conference schools have voted unanimously to accept Western Texas College of Snyder as a new member.

The Snyder school will not compete for the league's basketball championship next season, although it will field a team. It will compete in all other spring sports, however.

Western Texas becomes the ninth school in the league. Others are Howard County, South Plains, Odessa, Clarendon, Amarillo, Frank Phillips, New Mexico JC and NMMI.

Sunland's Racing Is Nearing End

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — Sunland Park brings down the curtain on the '70-71 racing season this weekend.

The track will be closed Friday, but plenty of action is crammed into Saturday and Sunday.

Thirteen races will be run each day, starting at 1:30 p.m. Saturday's lineup will include the $5,000 consolation of the Riley Allison Thoroughbred Futurity and the finals of the $7,500 (estimated) Texas Appaloosa Allowance at 440 yards.

Sunday's closing-day program includes the finals of the $16,500 (est.) Texas Appaloosa Futurity, the finals of the Riley Allison Thoroughbred Futurity, and the giveaway of a four-door 1971 Cadillac.

The drawing to decide the winner of the Cadillac will be held immediately after Sunday's last race.

In Sunday's Allison Futurity, 10 of the finest two-year-olds in this section of the nation will hook up in a lucrative five-furlong dash. Regarded as Sunland's top stakes race, this year's edition of the fast-growing Allison Futurity will carry an estimated first-place prize of $33,600.

This, of course, will be the biggest thoroughbred purse in the history of the track.

Dub, a colt owned by Ernie Davidson of Cleveland, Okla., emerged as the leading qualifier in last week's trials when he raced to a surprising three-length win and stopped the clock in a bristling 51 4-5 seconds. This was the fastest time in the six trial spins. Dub led every step of the way.

Prior to last week's brilliant trial trumph, Dub's record was pretty dismal. He made his first two starts at Oaklawn Park and finished 11th both times. Then he shipped to Sunland, where he ran fourth at 102-1 in the betting.

The other trial winners who advanced into Sunday's finals are Italian Ruler, owned by Dr. Leopoldo Villareal of El Paso; Colorado Run, owned by Janice Dunivan of Albuquerque; Jet Pocket, owned by Jack Grunwald of Denver; First Estimate, owned by Diamond Stables of Salt Lake City; and Uncle George, the property of Alan Antweil of Hobbs.

The starting cast will be rounded out by four second-place finishers in the trials: Mr. Tattoo, Rosa Heritage, Egg Cracker and Battle Bloom.

Egg Cracker was another big surprise in the trials, annexing the place slot behind First Estimate at remarkable odds of 62-1.

Baltimore Rolling; Twins Top Yanks

By The Associated Press

Dave McNally's wife told a rare joke but it was business as usual for her husband Thursday evening.

The result was a slick four-hitter for the Baltimore left-hander, who is gunning for a fourth consecutive 20-victory season as the Orioles swept a twi-night twinbill from the California Angels by 3-1 scores.

The triumph gave McNally a 5-1 mark and it was his fifth complete game of the young season.

In the nightcap right-hander Pat Dobson evened his record at 2-2, scattering nine hits and striking out 10 Angels as the Orioles crept to within one-half game of East Division leader Boston.

"When I was leaving the house today, my wife said, 'pretend you're Vida Blue.' She usually doesn't make wisecracks like that," said McNally.

CITED A's STAR

Mrs. McNally was referring to the young Oakland A's southpaw who has jumped off to a 7-1 record this season.

In other American League action, Minnesota toppled the New York Yankees 5-3 and Boston routed Chicago 10-1.

In the National League, Houston tripped Montreal 5-2 and Los Angeles trimmed Cincinnati 5-2.

The Chicago at New York Mets and St. Louis at Philadelphia games were called by rain.

McNally got all the support he needed in the fifth inning when run-scoring singles by Brooks Robinson and Dave Johnson snapped a 1-1 tie. The only run the red-haired lefty gave up was in the fifth on doubles by Tony Conigliaro and Ken McMullen.

Dobson was staked to a 1-0 edge in the opening inning of the second game on Frank Robinson's RBI single and Baltimore made it 3-0 in the fifth on Dobson's run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly by Elrod Hendricks.

The 6-foot-3 right-hander had a three-hit shutout until McMullen homered in the eighth. Although rapped for five other hits in the last two innings, the Angels failed to score.

SERIES SWEEP

Rookie Steve Braun bounced a two-out, two-run infield single in the eighth inning, giving the Twins their victory over the Yankees and a three-game sweep of the series.

Braun's hit off Mel Stottlemyre, 2-1, was grabbed by Horace Clarke, but the second baseman couldn't make a play as Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva scored. Earlier Tovar had driven in the tying run with a single.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

That should be quite a Spring banquet the Quarterback Club is cooking up for May 20.

The BSHS golf team will have a story to tell. Interest in tennis is percolating here as it never has before, thanks to the ceaseless work of coach Novice Kniffen. The Steer baseball team has done famously on occasions. Glenn Petty started a youth movement in track, trying to get the Spartans interested while still in the lower grades, and his program promises to pay dividends in future springs. Opponents who had to play Ron Plumlee's Steer basketball team are just now catching their breath, after combatting the locals teams' fast break. The girls' volleyball team won more games than it has in several years, and placed Ann Brown on the All-District team.

All that proved icing on the cake for local sports buffs, who had been told not to expect much from the 1970 Steer football team and then saw them win five of ten starts and close out with a 20-9 creaming of the storied rival, San Angelo.

If rain dancing, cloud seeding and revival prayers all fail to bring Jupiter Pluvius back to the area, I suggest the citizenry import the Memphis, Tenn., entry in the far-flung Dixie Association to play a few baseball games here.

The club had 24 rainouts during the 1969 and '70 seasons. This year, two of their first four contests were washed out.

Abilene Cooper came into District 5-AAAA two years later than did Big Spring but the Cougars have played five times as many ties against league opponents as have the Steers. Overall, Cooper has been involved in eight deadlocks, Big Spring only one.

Two members of the Big Spring High School baseball pitching staff have learned to throw knucklers.

Some of the catchers who have had to try and corner the pitches say the best way to do it is to let the ball roll dead, then beat it with a stick.

Woody Woodward, the Cincinnati infielder who has been rather warm with the bat of late, is a cousin to the movies' Joanne Woodward.

Until this spring, some critics insisted Joanne could hit better than her cousin. Woody had a wide range in the field but needed a nine-foot bat and some sympathy on the part of an opposing pitcher.

Only the old-time fight fans likely will recall Fidel LaBarba, who won the world's flyweight championship in the late 20's.

A screen writer in Hollywood after he hung up the gloves, Fidel is now out of work and down on his luck. His friends are rallying behind him, however. He'll get a benefit.

At least 15 Negroes now playing professional basketball reportedly are each earning $100,000 or more a season.

Fewer than that in baseball, black or white, do as well financially and, of all the pro footballers, only Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears is supposed to be pocketing that kind of loot. If you want to aim your boy toward a pro basketball career, be sure and tell him to grow to a height of 6-10 or better. Otherwise, he'll need a compass to get from one end of the court to the other.

Steers Visit San Angelo

The Big Spring Steers venture to San Angelo Saturday to end what has, by turns, been a frustrating and a rewarding baseball season. Game time is 2 p.m.

The Longhorns need this one to finish above .500 in the second half of the 5-AAAA campaign. They are now 3-3.

Oakey Hagood's club was knocked out of the running for the second half time when they were shut out by Odessa High Tuesday, 2-0. Nineteen of the Longhorns went down on strikes before Richard Wortham in that one.

San Angelo has no chance to overtake Big Spring in the standings but could get a great deal of satisfaction out of ruining the chances of the locals to finish third in the race.

Last time the two teams met, Big Spring won by a score of 6-1.

Coach Hagood could go with David Carter on the mound, in which event he would have to come up with a shortstop.

Other starters could be Pete Shaffer behind the plate, Grady Ray at first base, Roddy Caffey at second, Tommy Fletcher at third, Ricky Steen at shortstop, Randy Womack in left field, Gatlin Jones in center and David Englert in right.

Merchants Try Webb Tonight

Fresh from a 14-3 victory achieved at the expense of a newly organized team, Intech, the Big Spring Merchants face a busy weekend.

They go to Webb AFB for two games tonight, then visit Lamesa for a doubleheader Saturday evening.

The game with Intech was played on the FM 700 diamond. Charles Lendermon limited the Intech club to one hit. That was by Petty in the fifth inning.

Claude Fryar crossed the plate four times, Lendermon three times for the Merchants.

Dierker Picks Up Fifth Win

MONTREAL (AP) — Larry Dierker wasn't around for the finish, but the Houston Astro ace welcomed his fifth consecutive victory Thursday night.

The Astros whipped Montreal 5-2 as Dierker went seven innings, allowing six hits, walking two and striking out four.

Dierker was lifted by Astro manager Harry Walker after allowing a leadoff single to Rusty Staub in the bottom of the eighth.

Denny Lemaster came on to put the Expos down the final two frames.

Houston jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Singles by Roger Metzger, Jim Wynn and Jesus Alou, a walk and an error provided the runs.

The Astros added another run in the third off loser Steve Renko, 3-1, on Wynn's run-scoring double. Houston upped it to 5-1 in the fifth on a Joe Morgan double, an error and a wild pitch.

Montreal scored twice in the opening inning on a bases-loaded passed ball and got another in the seventh on Ron Swoboda's run-scoring single in a pinch-hitting role.

Mobile Home Plant Zone Change Explained At Meet

A meeting to help expedite the establishment of the new mobile home manufacturing plant in the city was held by the planning and zoning commission Thursday evening.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss with members of the Industrial Foundation the possibility of a new zone change for the land that will be utilized for the site of the new plant.

"The company is ready to start work on the building and we need to know how we can cut some corners and get this construction off the ground," said Ken Perry, president of the Industrial Foundation. The company is the Eagle Mobile Home Manufacturing Co., affiliated with Addison Industries, Addison, Ala.

"There are two things you must do before you can effect a zone change on the land. You must give 10 days prior notice to land owners within 200 feet of the site and a notice of public hearing 15 days prior in the local newspaper," explained Herb Prouty, city attorney.

However, the attorney did indicate that a building permit could be issued Friday if the members of the planning and zoning board and the city commissioners present in the meeting saw no immediate problems in passing a zone change on the land.

Prouty also explained that those land owners within 200 feet of the site could be asked to wave their right to public hearing and the zone change could come as soon as May 21, allowing for the 15 days notice in the newspaper.

The land, on the south corner of the intersection of the Eleventh Place Extension and FM 700, was previously zoned for Heavy Commercial or Light Commercial, but had been changed to agricultural, for holding purposes, explained Bill Sheppard, chairman of the planning and zoning board.

The consensus of the board members was that they could see no problems getting a recommendation from the board for the zone change.

City Commissioner Jack Watkins left the meeting because he said he felt he was being asked to commit himself.

"This is an informal meeting, and we cannot discuss the proposal," said Watkins.

Some members of the city commission agreed that they could see no future problems in the company getting the zone change. "We will pursue these routes of action to get this plant established in the city," said Perry.

Southern State Gas Co. Sold

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP) — The assets of Southern State Gas Co., a Texas firm which serves Longview and Kilgore, have been bought for $3 million by the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co.

Kansas-Nebraska serves more than 190,000 customers, both wholesale and retail in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming.

Open House Plans Firmed

The board of directors of the Boys Club Thursday night finalized plans for the open house at the new club building May 16 from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The directors adopted a resolution expressing appreciation to the Dora Roberts Foundation for the contribution to the club which helped make the opening possible.

Members of the board also judged posters made by members of the club inviting people to the open house. Results of the contest will be announced later.

The new building is at 212 E. 3rd. Members of the Boys Club and the board of directors will welcome visitors to the open house, and refreshments will be served.

Bert Andries, president of the board, reported that while there is still some work to be done, the remodeling is in the final stages.

The next Boys Club birthday party will be May 20, sponsored by the Evening Lions.

Items Needed For Display

Items are still needed for the ranch exhibit, which will be the next regular presentation of the Heritage Museum.

Some material is coming in, more has been promised, but still more will be needed, Jerry Worthy, president, told the executive board at its meeting Thursday.

The board formally expressed appreciation to the Hemphill-Wells Foundation for its $1,000 gift toward helping the museum get started on its mission.

Worthy also acknowledged gift of a tape recorder from Anderson Music Company. It is being used for interviews with old timers.

The museum is in urgent need of a typewriter, he added, and for volunteers who can type correspondence, materials for displays, membership cards, etc. Worthy asked that any club in need of a project consider performing the typing service for the museum.

He also told of efforts to pinpoint the location of the ranch home of the Earl of Aylesford in the Luther area. Items pertaining to the Earl in any manner will be mosty timely for the early ranch exhibit, he said.

Mobile Home Loan Info At VA

A special pamphlet for veterans and servicemen who want information about a guaranteed loan for a mobile home has been prepared by the Veterans Administration according to Jack Coker, director of the VA regional office in Waco.

The brief pamphlet, (No. 26-71-1) titled "Questions and Answers on Mobile Loans to Veterans," concerns the program which was established last December. Coker said single copies of the pamphlet are available free at all local VA offices.

Fiesta Week Disturbance Probe Vowed

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Mayor John Gatti promised a "thorough investigation" Thursday of a disturbance during last month's annual spring festival.

He made the statement after Negroes protested police handling of the matter in appearances before the city council.

About 30 persons were arrested during an illuminated nighttime parade in the downtown area April 24 to climax Fiesta Week celebrations.

Peter Hardin Jr. and another Young Negro, John Talbert, urged the city council to launch a "community investigation," independent of any report from the city manager or police chief.

Talbert asserted that many of the Anglo policemen assigned to the scene of the disturbance were "anticipating trouble and caused some of it as a result."

Other speakers said there were no Negro officers on duty in the area.

In a related development, Gatti ordered a special program to recruit Negroes into the police and fire departments here after the city council learned Negroes make up a small percentage of the two forces.

Councilman Robert Hilliard, a Negro, asked about the percentages after hearing the complaints about the Fiesta disturbance.

Officials said 29 of 931 policemen are Negroes and the city has one Negro fireman. They denied any discrimination in hiring.

About 10 per cent of San Antonio's residents are black. Mexican-Americans account for about half the population, and officials said a large percentage of Spanish-surnamed personnel work in the police and fire departments.

Promotion Good News For 95 Men At Webb AFB

May 1 brought news of promotion to 95 Webb men; 21 officers and 74 enlisted men were notified of increased rank and pay on that date.

Leading off the officer promotions were three majors elevated to the lieutenant colonel: Arnold G. Barry, Charles J. Curry and Roy S. Woodson. Four captains moved up to gold leaves of major: Jessie L. Falconer, Gordon R. Flygare, Melvin E. Mills and Henry J. Pirkkala.

Farm Questionnaire Delivery Will Be Soon

Howard County farmers will receive the annual acreage survey questionnaire from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Austin some time during the past half of May, according to Paul Gross, Howard County agent.

Some 22,000 farmers throughout Texas are expected to answer the questionnaire. The information derived from the replies will be the basis for the official estimates of crop acreage for the State of Texas and for each county.

Cary D. Palmer, state statistician for the Texas Reporting Service, emphasizes the importance of returning the questionnaire so that accurate estimates can be made.

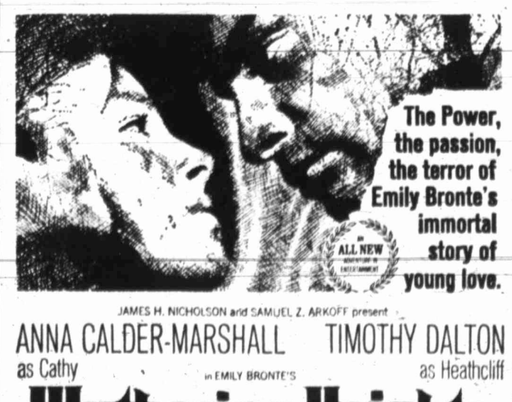

The Texas Legislature, said Gross, has provided a program of estimates for each county. Because Texas covers such a wide area, state totals alone do not provide adequate information on our most basic industry; hence, the need for county information.

The program is a cooperative effort of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Statistical Reporting Service and the Texas Department of Agriculture.
