London Sets Big Fete For General Ike

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, June 11.—Gen. Eisenhower, here to receive the honorary freedom of London tomorrow in a ceremony steeped in historic tradition, said tonight he believed "Russia, Britain and the United States intend to make it impossible for Germany to wage war again."

Eisenhower said he knew of no plans for him to go to the Pacific war zone. "So far as I know," he said, "my job is right here in Europe."

The supreme allied commander declared at a press conference that he thought Germany never would return to what was considered normal before the war.

Moods Suit Occasion

"There is no question in my mind that there are many Germans who want to be friendly," Eisenhower said. "They should have wanted to be friendly before. Our experience has been that the German is arrogant in victory and very polite in defeat."

Declaring that the non-fraternization rule was working reasonably well, Eisenhower said "I have already published one order relaxing the rule a little. Non-fraternization does not now apply to young children. Neither the GI nor the Tommy will abstain from being friendly to children."

Baseball Game Halted

The general, who will wear the ribbon of his latest decoration—the Russian Order of Victory—tomorrow when he becomes an honorary freeman of the city, told of watching a baseball game the other night when some German youngsters got in the way of the ball. The American players halted the game rather than endanger the children, he said.

Eisenhower said the favorite question in Germany was whether Hitler was dead or alive and he said he was surprised to find that some of his Russian friends were doubtful of the Nazi leader's death.

"I know this," Eisenhower declared, "if Hitler is not dead, he is suffering more than if he were, because he will be hunted for life and will be fearful every minute that he is going to be caught."

Eisenhower called Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, commander of the Russian occupation forces in Germany, "a grand soldier."

"The Russians are very friendly and I am convinced they want peace and a chance to develop themselves just the same as all the rest of us," Eisenhower declared. "They are friendly, they like to laugh and the contacts with the Russians have been heartwarming."

All the pomp and ceremony of the ancient walled city of London will be revived at the ceremonies honoring Eisenhower.

Six Men Named In Seven Bills

LEVELLAND, June 11.—(Special.)—Seven indictments naming six persons were returned by a 72nd district grand jury which reported late this afternoon to Judge Dan Blair after a one-day session.

A negro, John Roberts, was billed in connection with the shooting death of Andrew Garcia, a Mexican, on May 12. Garcia was shot after he and Roberts allegedly exchanged remarks over the price charged by Roberts for repairs on the Mexican's automobile.

Judge Blair ordered the negro held without bond. He had been denied bond since the shooting, according to District Attorney Burton S. Burks.

Car Theft Charge

John M. White was indicted for theft of an automobile April 18 from J. L. Garrett. White allegedly was found in possession of the car in Waco, according to Burks.

Alfred Blair and John Henry Crisp were named in separate indictments, each containing two counts, alleging the breaking in of the barn of Wadkie M. Fowler, ranchman, and the theft of a saddle. Blair in addition, was named in another indictment charging burglary of the barn of Bob Hester, Levelland banker, in which a saddle was taken. The Fowler saddle was recovered by Sheriff Ed Hofacket near Los Angeles, but Hester's saddle has not yet been found.

Juvenile Also Held

A 15-year-old brother of Crisp will be charged in juvenile court for his purported part in the offense against Fowler, Burks said the youth had admitted complicity in the burglary.

The prosecutor said that the older Blair previously had been placed under a five-year suspended sentence in Yoakum county for the theft of a saddle from the Yoakum county sheriff.

Jesse Moss was billed for theft of a tractor May 18 from J. P. Shofner.

Another theft indictment was returned but the subject has not yet been arrested, Burks said.

Foreman of the jury was Major H. Rodgers of Levelland.

B-29s Burn Out 102 Miles Of Jap Cities

GUAM, Tuesday, June 12.—B-29s have burned out or damaged 102.67 square miles of urban-industrial areas in Japan's six largest cities, 21st Bomber command headquarters announced today, as Army Mustangs and Marine Corsairs gave the enemy homeland its fifth consecutive day of aerial attacks.

Nearly four square miles of Kobe and more than three square miles of Osaka were burned out in Superfortress bombings June 5 and 7, respectively, reconnaissance photographs disclosed.

Mustangs Lash Tokyo

Iwo island-based Army P-51 Mustangs of the Seventh Fighter command hit the Tokyo area yesterday, a second successive day, in a low level sweep on Tachikawa and Atsuki airfields. They destroyed 16 Japanese planes on the ground and one in the air. They probably destroyed three more and damaged 33. They started fires as they attacked with rockets and machine guns for an hour.

Marine Corsairs from Okinawa bases swept southern Kyushu airfields destroying 12 planes. This was the first time Corsairs had attacked the Japanese homeland from an land base, although they have been used from carriers.

Begun Last Thursday

The daily attacks on the Japanese homeland were begun last Thursday, when B-29s heavily raided the Osaka arsenal and war plants, and have continued with B-29s, Army Mustangs and Thunderbolts, fleet carrier planes and Marine Corsairs all taking a hand in blasting industrial and military targets.

The 21st Bomber command announced that 3.8 square miles of Kobe was burned in the June 5 incendiary strike, raising to 6.8 square miles the area burned there in three fire strikes. Photographic reconnaissance shows at least nine industrial plants were damaged in the latest raid—three plants of the "" be steel works, the Kawasaki Locomotive and Car Co., the Rising Sun Petroleum Oil storage, the imperial government railway shops, the Nippon Airbrake Co., the Kawanishi machine shop, and the Kawasaki heavy industry plant.

About 3.4 square miles of Osaka was burned in Thursday's incendiary mission. The total of Osaka areas burned out in three such strikes is 14.93 square miles. New damage mainly was to the north, and northwest of Osaka castle. Twelve barracks-type structures and two other buildings were leveled in the castle area.

Court Decision Frees Bund Chiefs In Conspiracy Case

By JOHN B. OWEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Twenty-four chiefs of the German-American Bund convicted of conspiring to advise draft evasion were freed today by the Supreme court in the biggest opinion day of the term.

The court disposed of half of its remaining docket and may end its session next Monday. Its rulings included:

1. Acquittal by a five to four decision for the Bundsmen, including Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, former national leader. The group was under sentences of five years each after trial in New York. The court said evidence was insufficient.

Florida Labor Law

2. Invalidation of two vital parts of a Florida law regulating labor union activities, which the court found in conflict with collective bargaining regulations of the national labor relations act. The outlawed sections required licensing of paid union business agents and union registration.

3. Refusal to rule at this time on three provisions of an Alabama law—prohibiting a union from demanding money for the privilege of working; providing for annual union reports, and preventing ordinary unions from admitting supervisory employes. Although it had taken jurisdiction of the case, the court said it lacked the facts on which to judge whether the law conflicted with the national labor act.

The defendants in the Bund case were charged with conspiracy to distribute among members of the organization copies of Bund command No. 37 which asserted the Selective Service law infringed their rights and that they should refuse, if they could, military duty until such laws were revoked. The command protested Congress' statement of policy in the law, that jobs of inductees would not be filled with Communists or Bundists.

The majority opinion, by Justice Roberts, held that the evidence failed to show, beyond reasonable doubt, the counseling of evasion of military service within the meaning of the draft law.

Justice Roberts delivered the court's 5-4 opinion. Chief Justice Stone wrote a dissent in which Justices Reed, Douglas and Jackson concurred.

All of those convicted questioned whether they had been given a fair trial "in view of the great mass of exhibits admitted in evidence having no relevancy to the issues before the court, but calculated only to inflame and prejudice a jury sitting in time of war."

Anti-Poll Tax Vote Is Scheduled Today

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP)—Over the bitter protests of southerners the House today wrested anti-poll tax legislation from a committee pigeonhole and scheduled a vote on it tomorrow.

Supporters of the measure declared it is needed to provide "freedom of the ballot" in seven southern states where payment of the tax is a prerequisite to voting.

A number of southerners protested strongly against the move, terming it "a communistic step to wreck the constitution," but acknowledged the legislation would be passed tomorrow and sent to the Senate.

There they hope to kill it by Filibuster or threat of filibuster, as they have twice before when the house approved it.

One Dies In Plane Crash Near Austin

SAN ANTONIO, June 11. (AP)—Flight Officer Kenneth Rosenfield, son of Mrs. Florence Cohen of Detroit, was fatally injured in the crash of a training plane four miles south of Marble Falls, according to announcement from Randolph Field today.

Rosenfield, who was stationed at Randolph Field, took off Saturday afternoon for Austin and crashed a short time later. He died in the hospital at Burnet.

Skunk No Excuse For Furlough Extension

FORT RILEY, Kas., June 11. (AP)—The following urgent request was telegraphed to a troop commander here:

"Tangled up with polecat; unable travel until clothing and self decontaminated. Request ten-day extension of furlough."

The answer — "Extension refused. Return by cattle car if necessary."

Senate Votes Extension Of Price Control

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The Senate late today voted a year's extension of the price control program with a far-reaching proviso guaranteeing profits to farmers above all production costs.

Majority Leader Barkley said the farm profit amendment, offered by Sen. Wherry (R-Neb) in a surprise move and adopted by a 37-30 vote, would prove highly inflationary.

Taft Opposes Plan

Even Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), leading Republican attempt to guarantee profit margins for manufactured products, voted against the Wherry amendment and Senator Lucas (D-Ill) expressed hope it would be eliminated later from the bill.

Passed by a voice vote, the legislation extending price control for a year from July 1 now goes to the House.

Taft said the Wherry amendment changed the whole basis of fixing farmers' price ceilings from guaranteeing them parity levels to a cost-of-production basis.

Amendment Provisions

The Wherry amendment provides:

"It shall be unlawful to establish or maintain against the producers of any livestock, grain or other agricultural commodity a maximum price for such commodity which does not equal all costs and expenses (including all overhead expenses, a return on capital and an allowance for the labor of the producer and his family) incurred in the production of such commodity, plus a reasonable profit thereon."

After the Wherry amendment passed, proponents put on a "clincher" by putting in a motion to reconsider, then voting to table that motion. That left no way to get the issue revised.

Processor Price Guarantees

Earlier, administration forces had attempted to clear the decks of proposed amendments described by Price Administrator Bowles as inflationary, by proposing a compromise on farm processor price guarantees.

Sen. Thomas (D-Okla) had gained considerable support before the floor showdown for a plan to require OPA to fix maximum prices that would guarantee each processor of farm products a "reasonable" profit. As administration leaders worked on a compromise, Thomas amended his proposal to exclude cotton and cotton textile processors since they already had been given an assured profit in the 1944 price control act.

Love Wins Out In Spite Of Long And Rough Bridal Aisle

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., June 11. (AP)—A man who came back and the girl who prayed for him joined hands at the altar of Our Lady of the Angels today after reaching the end of a bridal aisle which twice was blocked by war and led from the gaiety of prewar Honolulu to a German prison camp and finally to a chapel in a Mississippi river town.

Lt. Col. Francis S. Gabreski had said of the ceremony, "I hope this one makes the grade," and 250 friends and relatives who watched him slip a diamond-set circlet on the finger of lovely Kay Cochran in the chapel of Campion Jesuit academy bore witness that it did.

No Action Is Taken By Pan-Arab League

CAIRO, Egypt, June 11. (AP)—The Pan-Arab league adjourned today without taking any official action on the crisis in Syria and Lebanon. The official communique said that the delegates had only discussed measures to support the independence demands of the two countries.

The delegates are being kept on call to reconvene if necessary, however.

Plains Wheat Yields Are Above Expectations; U. S. Record Seen

(By The Associated Press)

A report from Plainview yesterday saying the grain harvest had begun on the South Plains with yields better than had been expected, quoted an estimate by grain men of a 20,000,000 bushel wheat crop on the Plains and 45,000,000 bushels for Texas.

Farther east, out of the Plains section, rain fell a third day in Wichita county and there County Agent C. R. McNiel said that a continuation of rain for several more days would certainly destroy wheat, barley, and oats remaining in the fields. An estimated 60 per cent of the Wichita county crop was yet unharvested.

Rain In Some Areas

Thundershowers fell at Dallas, Fort Worth, and points as far west as Harpersville. The rain broke a drouth which had prevailed in Dallas county since mid-May, providing needed moisture for victory gardens, farms, and lawns.

A mid-afternoon report to the Dallas weather bureau showed rain also at Pampa, Gainesville, and a trace at Waco.

Hail in Gray county Sunday damaged wheat and broke windows in buildings at the Pampa Army Air field.

The Plainview report said dry land wheat was running 5 to 12 bushels with fields which had been given up a week ago because of continued drouth.

The estimate on this year's crop, far under the record yields of 1944, were made by grain men who were in Plainview Saturday as guests of the Harvest Queen Mills.

Estimates By Counties

Their estimates, in number of acres, and average per acre for eight counties, were: Castro, 200,000 acres, average 6 bushels; Hale, 225,000 acres, 7 to 10 bushels; Deaf Smith, 300,000 acres, 5 bushels; Swisher, 300,000 acres, 7 bushels; Briscoe, 50,000 acres, 8 bushels; Floyd 225,000 acres, 10 to 12 bushels; Crosby 70,000 acres, 10 bushels, and Randall 200,000

Stilwell Sees Two More Years Of War

TENTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, OKINAWA, June 7.—(Delayed) (U.P.) — Gen. Joseph W. (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell, chief of Army ground forces, said today that the war in the Pacific may well last another two years.

Even after Tokyo and the main home island of Honshu fall, he said, "it is quite possible that we will have to fight the Japanese in Manchuria."

"If that happens," he said, "the war could easily last as long as two years in the provinces north of the Yellow river."

Stilwell told newsmen at a press conference that the United States would need an Army of at least 500,000 men to invade Japan.

Jap Dictator Bill Approved

(By The Associated Press)

RADIO Tokyo reported today that a revised emergency bill giving the Suzuki government virtual power to rule Japan by decree received approval of the lower House of the Diet at a night session.

Quick passage of the measure by the upper branch of the parliament—the House of Peers—was forecast, probably at a session Tuesday.

Against a backdrop of acrimonious debate, during which members expressed fear the proposal eventually would result in elimination of the Diet, Premier Kantaro Suzuki won favor for the bill after arguments of members had delayed action for six hours.

Debate Fourth Article

As approved in its revised form, the rebated fourth article of the measure provides the government must confer with the Diet's wartime emergency measures committee before taking important actions. If the emergency is such that action must be taken immediately, the article provides, then the government must inform the committee later of its action.

The unexpected flare-up in the House lengthened the Diet's extraordinary session, originally convoked for two days to pass the desired legislation, to four days.

Suzuki ran into trouble with his bill during committee consideration Monday afternoon. Difficulties were ironed out at a meeting of government representatives with the empire's powerful totalitarian party, the Political Association of Great Japan, said a Domei news agency dispatch.

Face Saving Again

In an obvious attempt to dispel any reaction that the Diet might be in rebellion, Domei said the vehement protests were but "opinions being aired" and do not "mean that the Diet defies the government in any way."

The bill was described as giving the cabinet power to prevent migration of workers and to take a direct hand in reconstruction to maintain war production under the handicap of intensified American air raids.

Buckner Demands Surrender Of Jap Okinawa Remnants

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Tuesday, June 12 — Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, jr., demanded yesterday that the Japanese commander on Okinawa unconditionally surrender surviving remnants of his garrison force as American troops made substantial gains all along the southern front despite fanatical resistance.

Buckner, commander of the U. S. Tenth Army, pointed out that the Japanese were trapped in two pockets—one only about two square miles in size, the other of 15 square miles or less—and that annihilation was certain unless they capitulated.

About 15,000 Left

There are about 15,000 Japanese still on Okinawa—survivors of an original garrison of perhaps 85,000.

(This possibly was the first time in the Pacific war that an American commander had called directly upon a Japanese general to surrender. Previously, surrender pamphlets had been dropped from airplanes behind enemy lines and captured Japanese infrequently had been taken near the front and broadcast surrender appeals to their former buddies. Neither of these methods had brought in many prisoners.)

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz did not immediately disclose how Buckner transmitted his surrender demand.

There was no indication that the trapped Japanese had replied.

The 96th Infantry division, which spearheaded Sunday's surprise broadscale attack by three divisions on the Yaeju-Dake escarpment, gained control of a small area atop the heavily-fortified hills at a point about 600 yards south of Yunagusuku in the center.

It was disclosed today for the first time that the Japanese have resorted to use of painfully-lethal phosphorous shells in their fierce defense of the escarpment. The shells, used as an anti-personnel weapon, cause burns which quickly produce death.

Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th (New York) division fought off numerous small counterattacks by Nipponese entrenched in caves as they scaled the rugged, steep slopes of the escarpment which runs more than three miles, almost from coast to coast, across Okinawa's southern tip.

Day's Most Spectacular

It was the day's most spectacular gain and was made against heavy pointblank artillery fire, mortars and machineguns.

Bradley's men called upon flame-throwing tanks to knock out enemy emplacements.

Also employing tanks, the 32nd regiment of the Seventh Infantry division on the southeastern coast occupied the summit of important Hill 95, southwest of Hanagusuku, after two days of bitter fighting.

Hill 95 will be advantageous to Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh division doughboys in gaining control of the eastern end of the Yaeju-Dake escarpment.

On the western end of the line, Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's First Marine division advanced about 650 yards along the coast against surprisingly light resis-

Bay And Oil Town Taken

By FRED HAMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Tuesday, June 12.—Sweating Australian troops plunged steadily inland in British North Borneo against negligible resistance today after four unopposed landings in the Brunei bay area Sunday as Gen. Douglas MacArthur bid boldly for the oil and rubber of the world's third largest island.

Already the invasion had secured for the Allied navies Brunei bay, one of the Southwest Pacific's finest anchorages only 800 miles from Singapore; swept through the ruined town of Brooketon, where new Japanese oil machinery lay ready to be taken to the wells, and secured the town of Victoria and Labuan airfield on Labuan island.

Capital Next Objective

Brunei, captital town of the British protectorate of the same name, was the next objective, and already the Australians had plodded within 13 miles of it in the oppressive tropical heat.

The Australians, members of the tough Ninth Infantry division—the famed "Dessert Rats" of Tobruk and El Alamein — hit deserted beaches Sunday at 9:15 a. m. (7:45 p. m., Saturday, central war time); at four points: on the southeastern tip of Labuan island at the mouth of Brunei bay; on Muara island, also in the bay; at Brunei bluff, and at Brooketon town.

Advances were general on all fronts, and within two hours after the intial landings MacArthur himself went ashore with his airforces commander, Gen. George C. Kennedy, and other top officers.

Navy's Job Praised

MacArthur's regular headquarters communique here this morning did not mention the landings, but a headquarters spokesman announced them, and front correspondents wirelessed back detailed accounts of the breathlessly-easy operation.

They credited the smoothness of the job to daring naval forces which penetrated Brunei bay three days ahead of "D-day," removed 70 Japanese mines from the channel, set up buoys and charted the waters right up to shore under sporadic Japanese fire.

Ten days of continual bombing by the U. S. 13th and Royal Australian Air forces had leveled the bayside towns and driven the Japanese inland, while American cruisers and destroyers, aided by an Australian cruiser, destroyer and other vessels, laid down a-

All-Out Luzon Attack Readied

MANILA, Tuesday, June 12 (AP)—The American 37th Infantry division consolidated its positions a dozen miles from the main Cagayan valley of northern Luzon today preparatory to an all-out attack on that last major stronghold of the Japanese in the Philippines.

A communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced also that in central Luzon the American 11th corps captured the town of Santa Ines east of Manila and was closing in on enemy mountain positions east of the Marikina river, while on the southeastern island of Mindanao the 10th corps advanced up the Pulangi river and seized the town of Jasaan, 10 miles east of Mindanao's central highway.

Mindanao Sector

On Mindanao the ground forces were supported steadily by divebombers, but on Luzon the weather limited air activities.

Although the main Philippine fighting fronts were in Luzon and Mindanao, Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, described western Leyte island as "the greatest reservoir of Japanese in the Philippines."

The Sixth Army turned over the Leyte cleanup to the Eighth Army on Dec. 26. Nearly 26,000 dead Japanese have been counted on that one island, scene of the American reinvasion of the Philippines. In addition, more than 450 prison-

Berliners Joyous At Night Club Opening

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, June 10. (Delayed))—A honey-voiced German torch singer in a flashy Berlin night club has given the country its first post-war theme song, a slightly Dixieland ditty called "Berlin Will Rise Again."

The lyrics predict the ressurection of practically everything except Adolf Hitler.

The song had its premier at the swank Cafe Leon and Kabaret Der Komiker on a street far from the heart of bomb-levelled Berlin, and was received with almost bobby-soxer enthusiasm. Members of the audience sat starry-eyed during the performance. Some cried. They all cheered wildly when the singer, her piano and drum accompanists, and her three-fourths undressed but otherwise artless chorus, had finished.

A heavily-madeup young woman sitting near me gushed: "It's wonderful. It carries so much hope. It makes us feel good again."

A sample verse:

"Berlin will rise again;
"There'll be Unter Den Linden,
"And flowers will bloom again there, too.
"Yes, Berlin will rise again."

Numerous other verses assert that the city will be just about like it was with the Tiergarten, Reichstag, Brandenburg gates, Kaiser Wilhelm statue—and just about everything except der fuehrer.

We went to the night spot at the suggestion of a Russian officer who was conducting correspondents through the shattered remains of Berlin.

Other acts included a young German who with the aid of a guitar sang "Boots And Saddles." A German lady next to me said that he had not been permitted to sing this song before, because it was a negro spiritual. I told her it was a cowboy song.

"Oh well," she shrugged, "Hitler was against cowboys, too."

The next act was a pale-eyed, gaunt German, who gave his impression of a present day Berlin citizen eating a meal.

In pantomime, he showed he couldn't take the soup because it was so bad, and couldn't cut a tiny steak because it was too tough. When he belched he nearly brought down the house.

A young lady named Evelyn Kroniker danced, and then sang "Some of These Days" a la Sophie Tucker. She was followed by a woman who sang something, but was chiefly remarkable because she wore a low-cut evening gown and no shoes. Her toenails were painted a bright red.

After intermission the main attraction was that the girl master of ceremenies who had been announcing the numbers in Russian, with a Polish accent, also announced them in English, with a Polish accent.

It Wasn't Jap Balloon Levelland Residents Saw; Was Planet Venus

LEVELLAND, June 11, (Special) —It wasn't a Jap balloon.

It was the planet Venus running across the sky in its orbit around the sun.

Lots of Levelland folk watched the planet streaking westward approximately 40 degrees west of the sun, easily visible to the naked eye.

Informs Air Field

They had read requests of official sources to pass along any information or suspicion that might have to do with the Nip's hydrogen filled paper balloons, which are turned loose on one of the Japanese home islands to blow toward this continent with the trade winds and release occasionally a fire or fragmentation bomb.

Lubbock Army Air field was informed.

The field immediately reacted, as all Army posts have been instructed to do.

A group of officers went to Levelland.

An Army airplane climbed thousands of feet toward the suspicious body. The "tipoff" was that the object under scrutiny became no smaller as the plane mounted into rarefied air strata, and that it was "blowing into the wind." The officers assumed a planet was what they were stalking, returned to a landing and called Texas Tech officials.

Suggests Underwood

James G. Allen, dean of men, suggested that the Army ask Dr. Ralph S. Underwood, professor of mathematics and a self-described "amateur" astronomer who, nevertheless, writes an occasional article on astronomical subjects for scientific magazines.

Doctor Underwood bobbed up with the right answer.

Explained he:

The only phenomenon is that Venus, the "Morning" star at the present stage of its orbit—it will be the "Evening" star later when it approaches the sun from the east and begins its trek around in front of the sun—can be seen by the naked eye in daylight hours. It rises two or three hours before the sun, and sets that much earlier. It is slightly oblong now, since it is only about half "full." It soon will pass in its orbit behind the sun. Since its distance from the sun is "only" 67,000,000 miles, its orbit traces a line inside that of the earth, which is 93,000,000 miles from the sun.

Holstein-Friesian Ass'n. Meets Today

Dairy production and breeding will be delved into beginning at 10 o'clock this morning in the Agriculture building at Texas Tech when the Holstein-Frisian association of West Texas will open its second annual meeting.

W. L. Stangel, president of the Texas association, will preside at the meeting with J. D. Strickland, associate professor of animal husbandry assisting.

Among those to give talks will be G. R. Appleman, fieldman of the national association, of Linn, Kansas, and O. W. Thompson, extension dairy husbandman of the Texas Extension service.

Dairy producers will serve a luncheon in the Aggie pavilion and a late afternoon trip to several of the section's leading herds is planned.

Oklahoma Insurance Premium Tax Upheld

WASHINGTON, June 11. (U.P.)—The Supreme court today ruled valid an Oklahoma law levying a four per cent tax on all premiums collected in Oklahoma by out-of-state insurance companies.

The court acted after hearing the appeal of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., an Indiana corporation. The firm, challenging the law as "discriminatory," charged that competing Oklahoma insurance companies were not required to pay the tax.

Lincoln National appealed after the Oklahoma Supreme court upheld the law on the state's contention that the tax was "for the privilege of doing business in Oklahoma."

Lincoln National sued to recover taxes of $6,238 paid under protest for 1941. It contended that the issue involved an annual revenue of $2,160,000 netted by the state from out-state insurance companies.

Evidence Indicates Nazis Starved Babies

IN GERMANY, June 10. (Delayed) (AP)—Evidence was found today that the Nazis starved to death the new-born babies of Russian and Polish women slave laborers in the Reich.

In the factory town of Fallersleben, American Army medical men found German records and got testimony from local residents showing that in that area alone 350 infants died in a nursery that was really operated as a house of death.

The children, taken from their mothers a few days after birth, were left unattended until they died, the evidence showed. Their bodies were then tied in bundles and wrapped in paper, and handed over to a German farmer who got twenty-five cents apiece for burying them in mass graves.

The babies' mothers, who had been forced to return to work, were charged the burial fee plus $4 for care in the nursery.

Death Of Texas U. Man Ruled Suicide

AUSTIN, June 11. (AP)—A verdict of suicide was returned today by Justice of the Peace Mace Thurman in the death of Alton Parker Thomason, 41, instructor in English at the University of Texas, who plunged from the 24th floor of the main building this morning.

Thurman said Thomason had slashed his throat and arms and left ankle before he fell. No notes were found and no motive for the act has been established, Thurman said.

Thomason's body was found about 8:15 a.m. in what is known as the east court between the 27-story university tower and the library.

The body will be sent to Nacogdoches for burial. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Werna Thomason.

Thomason received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Texas. He had been on the English faculty as temporary instructor since 1943. He had taught at Tulane university, Louisiana State university, Sul Ross State Teachers college, Alpine; and at Roswell, N. M.

ARRIVES IN JERUSALEM

JERUSALEM, June 11. (AP) — Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) and his associates on an interstate commerce subcommittee arrived from Egypt today on their survey of communications facilities.

Information On Centers Sought

Letters being mailed over signatures of O. W. Ribble, mayor, and A. B. Davis, manager of the chamber of commerce, are seeking information on civic centers in 69 towns and cities in the United States.

Decision to make the survey was made by the civic center committee, comprised of W. C. Wood, chairman, Ribble, Marlin R. Smith, James L. Quicksall, J. D. Hassell, Fred Childress, C. W. Ratliff, and W. T. Strange, ex-officio member.

Letter Is Quoted

"For some time there has been considerable sentiment in Lubbock for the building of a 'Civic center'," the letter states.

"Some people want an auditorium - coliseum - public library-city hall-community building-etc. —all located at one place to house all community and municipal offices and activities. Others just want an auditorium with some office space to house a few specific offices. Still others want a combination auditorium-coliseum.

"And some of us just want to have whatever is best for the people of Lubbock and its trade territory," the letter continues.

Information Asked

"To this end, we would very, very much appreciate you telling us what you have—and from your knowledge of what other cities have, what you think is the ideal set up."

Lubbock has a population of "close to 50,000 and more than likely within 10 years will have a population of 100,000. We want to be helpful in securing for Lubbock that which will be the most practical, useful and valuable."

The questionnaires ask information regarding types of projects in those towns, when built, cost, seating capacity, manner of financing, frequency used, whether large enough, percentage of seating capacity used on average, distance from retail district, annual maintenance and operating cost, sources from which maintenance and operating costs are obtained, facilities or activities provided, what those places would want if they do not have any of the facilities referred to, and request for list of cities with some or all of the facilities suggested for investigation by Lubbock.

What Is Wrong When Prayer Fails?

Thirty years ago, in Forbidden Tibet, behind the highest mountains in the world, a young Englishman named Edwin J. Dingle found the answer to this question. A great mystic opened his eyes. A great change came over him. He realized the strange Power that Knowledge gives.

That Power, he says, can transform the life of anyone. Questions, whatever they are, can be answered. The problem of health, death, poverty and wrong, can be solved.

In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as world-wide professional recognition. Thirty years ago, he was sick as a man could be and live. Once his coffin was bought. Years of almost continuous tropical fevers, broken bones, near blindness, privation and danger had hade a human wreck of him, physically and mentally.

He was about to be sent back to England to die, when a strange message came—"They are waiting for you in Tibet." He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the greatest mystic he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants everyone to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him.

Within ten years, he was able to retire to this country with a fortune. He had been honored by fellowships in the World's leading geographical societies, for his work as a geographer. And today, 30 years later, he is still so athletic, capable of so much work, so young in appearance, it is hard to believe he has lived so long.

As a first step in their progress toward the Power that Knowledge gives, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this paper a 9,000 word treatise. He says the time has come for it to be released to the Western World, and offers to send it, free of cost or obligation, to sincere readers of this notice. For your free copy, address The Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. S-376, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.—Adv.

Why Phillips is Today One of the Country's Greatest Producers of Butadiene for Synthetic Rubber

But that truck also represents one of the biggest headaches tire men—and oil men—have had to face in this war!

You see, our synthetic rubber program has had to overcome more than the lack of raw rubber from the Jap-held East Indies. It has had to cope with a fantastic demand for tires for Army trucks and other vehicles.

Why is that demand fantastic? Well, just imagine speeding along roads pitted by shell-fire and sprinkled with shrapnel . . . hub-deep in mud, or rutted in frozen ridges. Under those terrible conditions, tires have become frayed and useless at an appalling rate.

That American industry has been able to meet this terrific demand for all-important truck tires is due, to a great extent, to companies like Phillips.

For long before Pearl Harbor, Phillips scientists foresaw the possibilities of butadiene in producing synthetic rubber. As a result, when the blow fell at Pearl Harbor, Phillips great research and production facilities were ready to step into the breach.

Today, the Phillips 66 Shield stands for one of America's leading producers of butadiene for synthetic rubber . . . as well as a great producer of 100-Octane Aviation Fuel, and an almost endless list of newer and better products from petroleum gases and petroleum.

Conscription Demands Said Based On Fear, Cynicism, Imperialism

By DEAN W. DITTMER
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11. — World war I Navy Secretary Josephus Daniels declared today that demands for peacetime military conscription were based on "fear, cynicism and imperialism." The type of preparedness America needs, he said, is "that which will give conquest of the skies."

Testifies Before Committee

The 83-year-old Raleigh, N. C., publisher testified before the House postwar military policy committee on proposals to require all ablebodied young men to take a year's military training after the war is over.

He asserted that there was little demand "outside of Washington and official and military circles . . . for this radical departure from a system of government that has been our sound foundation in all our history."

"The propaganda for compulsory military service for American youth is based upon three false premises," Daniels declared:

1. "Fear, and I hold with Franklin Roosevelt that 'the only thing to fear is fear itself.'"

2. "Cynicism, the disbelief in the ability of our civilization to rise out of savagery . . ."

3. "Imperialism, the desire that Uncle Sam shall abandon democracy . . ."

He said it was too early to determine what size land, sea or air forces would be needed in the future, but "at the most there will be need only for a small, compact land force."

Planes alone will not win a war, he said, but "the outstanding lesson taught by World war two is that the nation which commands the air is the nation that can rule the world."

"I put emphasis on the sort of preparedness this war has taught will win victories, and not on the discredited broken stick of universal compulsory conscription," he said.

"The imperative preparedness of tomorrow is that which will give conquest of the skies."

Daniels said that in world wars one and two American soldiers went overseas with only a few months training, "and fighting side by side with the French (who had peacetime conscription) demonstrated that long, compulsory training did not make better soldiers."

Connally May Go To Washington In July

AUSTIN, June 11. (U.P.)—U. S. Sen. Tom Connally notified national Democratic Committeeman Myron Blalock here today that he will probably return to Washington from San Francisco the first week in July.

The information was in a telephoned conversation to determine a date for Texas' "Jefferson day" Democratic rally here to be addressed by Connally. The dinner was postponed because of Connally's trip to the United Nations conference.

Edward Clark, Austin, co-chairman with Mayor Tom Miller for the dinner, predicted that the dinner will be one of the most "harmonious" the party in Texas has enjoyed recently. He said all factions are giving approval to President Truman's policies.

Clark and Miller were leaders in the fourth term democratic faction that was opposed in the last campaign in Texas by the Texas Regulars, who were for Truman for vice-president, however.

DID you know 1,500,000 medical discharges have been issued since the war began?

TODAY'S GAG

SYDNEY, Australia is said to be laughing over the story of an American soldier there who was held up by a thug. "Give me your money or I'll blow your brains out," said the crook.

POLIO SCARE

SINCE the curve of polio incident usually rises sharply during warm months, parents of small children are expressing concern this year, although thus far no polio cases have been reported within the city.

It's natural for this concern because it is such a dreadful disease, caused by a filterable virus, but how or why it spreads is now known.

These seem to be the most necessary precautions against polio: Good home sanitation; killing of all flies, mosquitoes and rats and destroying their breeding places; strict sterilization of all dishes and glassware at home and in public eating places; thorough washing of all vegetables to be eaten raw; avoiding of all overexertion, especially among children with any type of illness and the prompt reporting to city health authorities of all polio cases.

WANTS COMPANION

A YOUNG woman, mother of two young children, has returned to her home since her husband has gone overseas. She wants a younger person to live with her, sharing expenses and meals perhaps. She has thought that this arrangement might appeal to another soldier's wife whose husband is overseas, a business woman or teacher.

We have no list of prospects but will pass this along for what it may be worth. If you have been looking for such an opportunity you might be interested in calling the young woman at 7660.

• • •

ON HOLDING JOBS

THERE seems to be considerable argument as to how many women now employed—other than service men's wives and marginal workers will give up their war-won advantages.

Today's labor force is 10,000,000 to 11,000,000,000 larger than the 53,000,000 recorded in the 1940 census. Unemployment, meanwhile, is down from perhaps 8,000,000 to less than 1,000,000.

The 7,000,000 emergency workers probably consist of 3,500,000 youngsters, 1,800,000 married women, 500,000 who are 65 and older, and 1,200,000 marginal. It is assumed that many of the youngsters will go back to school and that most of the oldsters will retire.

• • •

If the Woman's Angle ventured a prediction it would be that thousands of young women, who have been holding jobs they never would have been hired for in peace times, are going to be given the well known pink slips in their pay envelopes soon after the war ends. The cause will be largely their own doing, too, such as indifference as to being on time, clock watching, indolence and being insulting to customers of long standing or any other customers.

We feel sure that managers who have pulled their hair and wrung their hands over the green help they have had to cope with during the war years will send them on their way when they can do better.

• • •

GERMAN POWs

WHEN German war criminals are being punished (if any ever are brought to justice we hope with all our heart the ones responsible for the cruel treatment of our young airmen will be dealt the sentences they so richly deserve.

It's difficult for us to write impersonally of this subject when boys we have known from the first grade are coming back from those camps with lined faces indicating ages far beyond their years, showing loss of weight and with jumpy nerves. Most terrible of all are their haunting memories of long marches through the icy weather when they saw weak comrades fall, the terrible meals and the long days and longer nights of wondering when they would hear from home.

One Lubbock officer, who is reluctant to speak of it at all, said he could have wept to see the faces of young men who looked in vain for news from home during the entire 12 months he was in prison. Parents at home weren't getting their letters either.

This columnist thinks the Germans responsible for the condition of the mails and for destroying or hiding the Red Cross parcels of food should be sought out, tried immediately and have the sentences executed before someone has an opportunity to ask for appeal.

Revolt In Honduras Quickly Suppressed

SAN SALVADOR, June 11. (U.P.)—The government claimed today to have suppressed a revolt of a few hours led by an army general and high members of the staff of President Castaneda Castro.

The feature of the rebellion was an attack on government house by a lone plane which dropped six bombs—and missed with all six.

An official announcement said the revolution was led by Gen. Emilio Ponce, and that his son, Francisco, was the pilot of the plane which made the raid.

According to the announcement, the rebels presented complaints of a "personal character" to President Castro before the revolt broke out. It did not reavel the nature of the complaints.

After the bombing scare, national guards occupied the military airfield at Ilopongo.

The government said most of the rebels were arrested.

Puebla Students Protest Texans

PUEBLA, Mexico, June 11. (AP)—The University of Puebla student body went on strike today protesting the presence of 42 summer school students from Texas and other matters.

The Mexican students, numbering 2,000, refused to attend classes, and said they would remain away until their demands, including "cancellation of the registration of 42 students," are met. They object to the Texans, they said, because Texas allegedly discriminate against Mexicans.

The visitors sat in regular classes Friday and Saturday, and were to have started their own classes, separate from the others, after a welcome assembly in their honor this morning.

"There have been no incidents involving the Texas students," Rector Roberto Larragoiti said today. "The Mexican students have been perfect gentlemen to them."

The striking collegians also demanded the resignation of Facundo Martinez as university secretary, but did not give reasons. They also asked that enough courses be added to the curriculum to make the school "a real university," that arrangements be made with the state general hospital to admit medical students to practice, and that faculty members cease to "cut classes."

Information Bureaus Operated By Fifteen Foreign Nations In U. S.

By CHARLOTTE G. MOULTON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11 —Foreign "information bureaus" spent nearly five and a half millions to propagandize the U. S. in 1944, with Britain topping the list, Attorney General Francis Biddle revealed today.

Britain spent two and a half times as much as any of the 15 nations maintaining official information services here. Next came Poland (the London group), the Netherlands, Belgium and France.

Uses Other Means

The Soviet union, Biddle said, does not maintain an official bureau in this county but conducts "parallel activities by other means in large part not subject" to the foreign agents registration act.

Biddle issued a 560 page report to Congress on the justice department's 2½ year administration of that act, which requires persons representing foreign governments, groups or individuals to file statements revealing their identity, connections and the nature of their activities.

During the 30-month period covered by the report 508 statements were filed at the department by 227 organizations and 281 individuals. Biddle estimated 12,000 items of propaganda were filed annually in 26 languages.

Most Have Bureaus

The attorney general said that most foreign governments were giving over their propoganda work here to official "information bureaus." In 1942 such agencies spent $2,873,000. In 1944 this was hiked to $5,368,000.

The British information service spent almost half of the total or $2,143,000, putting out in one year more than 4,000,000 copies of publications, 250,000 copies of press releases and about 10,000 photographs. "Desert Victory," its most popular film, was shown in over 9,500 theaters.

Other leading information bureau expenses reported were Polish, $850,000, Dutch, $530,000, Belgian, $432,000 and French, $347,000.

The Soviet union, the report said, works through the Soviet embassy, the Soviet information bureau in Moscow and the All-Union Society for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries. Registered commercial agencies, however, spent $849,000 from 1942 to 1944 on Soviet films, photographs, books and other material.

Ropesville War Vet Found Dead Monday

ROPESVILLE, June 11 (Special) A former Ropesville grocer who several months ago was discharged from the armed forces and who allegedly has been despondent because of illness, Harvey C. Lewis, about 33, was found in a clothes closet of his residence this morning, shot through the head. A pistol lay beside the body.

Mrs. Lewis, 29, was taken to St. Mary's hospital and placed under care of a physician. She was outside the residence when she heard the sound of the pistol, about 7 o'clock, investigators were told.

She ran to the home of Aubrey Cates, living next door and asked for "help." Cates found the body when he went into the bedroom.

Deputy Sheriff Sam Williams of Ropesville also investigated.

Justice of Peace J. G. McCarroll of Ropesville had not entered an inquest verdict early this afternoon, he said, pending a routine interview of the widow.

Lewis had sold his store when drafted, and had spent several months in a camp in the northwest United States. After his discharge, he was treated in Lubbock. A physician suggested Lewis' treatment by an orthopedist, who prescribed a brace for the spinal column.

An 11-year-old stepdaughter, Tommie Nell, survives. Plains Funeral home said officials there had been informed there also are two sisters, one of Acuff and one in Illinois. No arrangements for funeral services had been made early this afternoon.

Mrs. Lewis was taken to the hospital by J. W. Berry of Ropesville, the body of her husband to the funeral home by ambulance.

TEMPLE, May 25. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker will assume command of the Eighth Service command wearing the three stars that Gen. George S. Patton, jr., wore through north Africa, Sicily, France and Germany.

The stars previously had been presented Patton by General Eisenhower, who wore them when he was a lieutenant general.

In Belton, Tex., Mrs. S. S. Walker, mother of General Walker, said yesterday she was happy "to have Walton so near home."

"You know," she added, "Walton has been in the Army since he was 16 when he entered Virginia Military institute. He went to West Point at 17. I do hope he won't have to go to the Pacific."

Lester York Pitches, Bats ABC To Third Win Of Season

Lester York pitched and batted the American Business club junior baseball nine to a 7 to 6 victory over the Kiwanis club Monday afternoon at the Boys club diamond, leading his mates to the third straight win of the season.

The ABC nine scored all its runs in the first and last times at the bat, and were otherwise well handcuffed by Bank Webber, Kiwanis pitcher.

Whiffs 18 Men

York accounted for 18 strikeouts during the seven inning ball game, and his lusty triple in the sixth inning drove home the winning run of the ball game. He allowed only six hits.

Webber also limited the opposition to six bingles, struck out eight men, and drove in one run, and scored another, with a lusty triple in the sixth inning that sent the Kiwanis into a late two-run lead.

The ABC got away to a flying start in the first inning as Dorrance Guy and Ronnie Kent poled out home runs, each with a mate on base, and gave the ABC a 4 to 1 lead in the first inning.

Kiwanis Come Back

Kiwanis came back, pecking away from runs until the score was tied at 4-4 in the fifth inning. In the sixth, a single and Webber's triple and an infield out gave the Kiwanis a 6-4 lead.

Bill Wylie opened the ABC sixth with a single. Webber fanned Kent, then Duane Scott was safe on an error, and Wylie went to third. Clark smashed out a single that scored Wylie and Scott, and took second on the throw in. Elliott attempted to bunt, and popped to the catcher, then York delivered his lusty triple that sent in the winning run.

Cecil Grigg Named To School Faculty

COLLEGE STATION, June 11. (AP)—Cecil Griggs, backfield coach at Rice Institute, Houston, has been selected as backfield coach, specializing in the T formation, for the Texas High School Coaches Association coaching school at Abilene, Aug. 6 to 10, W. R. Carmichael, executive secretary, said today.

Griggs will also assist Skip Parlang in coaching the North team for the All-Star high school classic, Aug. 10.

American Legion Nine Beats Squadron Team

Lubbock's American Legion junior baseball team outslugged the Section C baseball nine from Lubbock Army Air field Sunday afternoon at Chapman field and won a 16 to 10 decision over the soldiers.

Both sides used three pitchers in the ball game with Vaughn, Davidson and Higginbotham working for the Legion nine, while Hansen, Foss and Dangello worked for the soldiers.

Alderson, Arrington and Jones of the Legion nine paced the hitters, each getting three bingles, while Bucknell provided one well timed "money" punch with a triple with the bases loaded. Folsom was robbed of a sure homer when Johnson turned in one of the greatest catches of the game of his hard hit drive to left.

Red Sox Place Accent On Youth

NEW YORK, June 11. (AP) — Joe Cronin is accenting youth on his Boston Red Sox squad, looking for expected improvement to shove his gang into the wide open scramble for the American League pennant.

"We have fellows like Jack Tobin at third base, Ben Steiner at second and George Metkovich at first, all of whom should get better as the season goes along," observed Cronin, "And I don't see where any club in this league is going to be able to pick up and run away from the rest of us. Then, of course, we have Dave Ferriss. . . "

The broad-shouldered Irishman from San Francisco still limps decidedly because his leg, broken at the Yankee stadium April 19, hasn't completely mended. He isn't sure yet whether he'll be able to do any more ball playing this year. But he hasn't given up on himself. That attitude seems to give a good example to the whole ball club.

Ben Steiner shouldn't have been playing Sunday when Ferriss tried unsuccessfully for his ninth straight victory. The rookie second sacker had been spiked in a mixup with Russ Derry the day before and favored the ankle in fielding practice.

"I'll probably forget all about it when I get started playing," pleaded Steiner when he saw his name missing from the batting order Cronin had prepared. "I don't want to hurt Ferriss, chances but I really do want to play."

"We're going for youth," said Skipper Joe commenting on his pitching staff. "Oscar Judd's arm wasn't coming along so we let him go and we also sent Joe Bowman away. I'm going with Ferriss, Jim Wilson, Emmett O'Neill, and Clem Hausmann as starters. Pinky Woods also has been taking a turn but he's out for a month or so with a bad arm and I may have to call Mike Ryba in from the bullpen to be a starter.

Ferriss Refuses To Offer Alibi

NEW YORK, June 11. (UP)—Reporters trooped into the dressing room, ready to sing the blues with Dave "Boo" Ferriss, the Red Sox story-book pitcher whose winning streak had just been snapped at eight straight by the Yankees.

"That was a tough one to lose," said a reporter, with sympathy dripping from his tongue. "You certainly got some bad breaks."

Has Had Breaks

"But I got a lot of good breaks in the eight I won," grinned the big, handsome, dark-haired flinger from Shaw, Miss. He was stripped to the waist and sitting on the rubbing table as Trainer Win Green massaged his right flipper with a lotion that smelled to the newsmen delightfully like alcohol.

Another journalist mourned, "Too bad the team didn't support you with more hits. They should'a given you at least two more runs."

Young Ferriss took a bite of the chocolate-coated ice cream "pop" he held in his left hand and chuckled: "They gave me more hits and runs than I deserved in some of the games I won—particularly when I gave up 14 hits, myself, to Philadelphia. A fellow can't expect to be that lucky all the time."

One of the sympathizers remarked that it was a "crying shame" that poor Ferriss and his asthma (which had caused him to be let out of the Army) had to be out there pitching against the Yanks in a drizzling rain.

Pretty Wet Day

"I'll admit it was the wettest game I ever pitched," said the Mississippi Mudcat. "But I felt fine, and my arm felt fine."

Trainer Green, a genial fellow, laughed good-naturedly at the reporters and said, "You boys are getting nowhere fast. You're trying to dig an alibi out of him for losing. But you've got the wrong guy. He's not an alibi artist."

Ferriss, in his soft Mississippi drawl, agreed with Green: "Hell, no, I've got no alibi. I just lost—that's all."

Now that his winning string had been broken, it might be better for Ferriss—because the pressure would be removed, one of the baseball bards ventured. This tickled big "Boo." What pressure was the reporter talking about? Ferriss said he never felt any pressure—any nervousness, as his victory string lengthened. "One game seemed just like another to me."

Never Noticed Crowd

Didn't he feel nervous—pitching in Yankee Stadium for the first time? And before a crowd of 41,216? The 23-year-old moundsman seemed surprised. He asked, "Were there that many people out there? Maybe I would have been shaky if I'd realized it. But, honestly, I never noticed how many fans were in the stadium. I was too busy thinking about other things."

One of the pitcher's bad breaks came in the eighth inning, when he was at bat. Ferriss slammed the ball into deep left center where outfielder Hershel Martin—on the dead run—caught it about six inches from the ground, then turned a complete somersault, but came up still holding the ball.

This circus play robbed Ferriss of a triple, which would have resulted in another run, since the next two batsmen drove out long flies. That run would have proved mighty important, for the Yanks won, 3 to 2.

Did Ferriss do some fancy cussing when Martin came up with the ball?

"No, I didn't," big Dave denied. "I just said to myself that it was a great catch, and I hoped someday someone would make one like that for me when my pitch happened to be hit so hard."

And the way he said it, we knew he meant it; for Ferriss is as grand a fellow personally as he is athletically.

Red Barrett Blanks Cincinnati, 5 To 0

ST. LOUIS, June 11. (AP)—Red Barrett scattered seven hits in shutting out the Cincinnati Reds tonight for a 5 to 0 victory for the St. Louis Cardinals in the only after-dark game in the major leagues.

The Cardinals scored once in the first inning and exploded for four runs on three hits in the second. Howard Fox relieved starting pitcher Bucky Walters in the third and except for Emil Verban who singled in the fourth and doubled in the sixth not a Cardinal got to first base until reliefer Al Libke walked Ken O'Dea and Marty Marion in the eighth.

Lubbock Golfers Cop Two Odessa Flights

Bill Skeeters of Dallas won the sixth annual Odessa Country club golf tournament Sunday afternoon, beating Doug Jones of Duro one up, but Lubbock golfers came in for their share of the glory and won two flight championships, one consolation flight and was runnerup in another.

Dr. J. H. Stiles won the fourth flight championship and Jack Henry won the title in the sixth flight, each coming home with the $50 war bond prize.

Kirk Dean was winner of the consolation flight of the third flight, and also won a war bond.

Chick Trout went to the finals in the first flight before he was beaten by Lt. Al Stroer, 2 and 1. Stroer was one of the nation's best known pre-war golfing stars, and was a name often high in the running of many of the leading tournaments.

Holmes Takes Lead In National League

NEW YORK, June 11. (AP) — Tommy Holmes' .386 batting average, tops in the National League, was one big reason today why the Boston Braves boasted a seven-game winning streak and the New York Giants' grasp on first place was loosening.

The Braves' outfielder slapped out 14 hits in the last seven days including games of Sunday to take over the hitting lead from Manager Mel Ott of the Giants who was second at .31. Four of Holmes' blows came in the series with the New Yorkers, swept by Boston.

Biggest gain of the week was made by Goody Rosen of Brooklyn. His .360 mark represented an increase of 11 points.

Whitey Kurowski of St. Louis fell away 20 degrees to a fourth place .358 after being tied for second with Holmes. Brooklyn's Luis Olmo slid down a peg to fifth at .352.

Other leaders were Tommy O'Brien, Pittsburgh, .345; Nap Reyes, New York, .345; Phil Cavarretta, Chicago, .331; Andy Pafko, Chicago, .316; and Gee Walker, Cincinnati, .304.

Durocher Hearing Is Slated Next Monday

NEW YORK, June 11. (UP)—Leo Durocher, strangely silent and subdued, was arraigned in Brooklyn felony court today on a charge of felonious assault. He was accused of beating an Ebbets Field fan who disagreed with him vocally and loudly on tactical maneuvers during the Dodgers' game against the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday night.

Joseph Moore, a special patrolman at Ebbets Field, was arraigned on the same charge. He and the Dodgers' manager were continued in $1,000 bail each for a hearing on June 18.

The complaint against them was brought by John Christian, a medically discharged soldier, who said Moore took him underneath the stands. There, he claims, he was hit with a black jack and with the Durocher fists.

Laundrymen Avenge Loss To Post Team

Blue Bonnet Laundry's geared softball team reaped revenge Sunday afternoon at Post, winning a 6 to 5 extra inning thriller over Postex Mills.

The lone loss of the season for the Laundrymen was at the hands of the Postex Mills team earlier this season.

Ray Littrell hurled five-hit ball for the winners to hang up another win. Although Breedlove and Hilliard were the batting stars for the Lubbock nine, each getting four for five, it was Frank Earthman's blow in the tenth that drove home the winning run.

Bangtails Ready For Preakness

BALTIMORE, June 11. (AP) — Fit and rarin' to go after the second cog in racing's triple crown, Hoop, Jr., the Kentucky Derby king and his confident trainer Ivan Parke arrived at Pimlico today, along with half a dozen other candidates for the $50,000-added Preakness Stakes Saturday.

First to check in was Walter M. Jeffords' Pavot, undefeated as a juvenile in 1944, and considered by many a colt to watch despite Hoop, Jr.'s easy conquest of the 16-horse field at Louisville last Saturday. And they weren't overlooking the fact that Pavot lost a photo decision to Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Polynesian in the Withers mile at Belmont last week.

Unloading besides F. W. Hooper's derby champion after the long train ride from Churchill Downs were C. S. Howard's Sea Swallow, Mrs. W. O. Lewis' Darby Dieppe, and Col. E. R. Bradley's Burning Dream and Bail Bond.

All went in the "run for the roses" excepting Bail Bond, and although he didn't go in the derby and Bradley's intentions here still are unknown, Pimlico officials said it was obvious the chestnut son of Discovery "didn't come to Baltimore just for the ride."

The mile and three sixteenths Preakness, which is expected to gross around $90,000 for a new record in the classic first run in 1873, probably will have a dozen starters, with a possibility that 14 might parade postward when the band strikes up "Maryland, My Maryland."

In Oroku peninsula, Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, jr.'s Sixth division Marines captured two important hills, 62 and 53, northeast of Tomigusuki town and made gains which reduced the area controlled by the trapped Japanese garrison to some two square miles south of Naha harbor.

Japanese on Oroku continued to resist strongly with 40 mm. anti-aircraft guns leveled to fire point blank at the Leathernecks and with mortar and small arms fire.

Nimitz said only "minor enemy aircraft activity" was noted in the Okinawa areas Sunday after having announced yesterday that one small fleet unit was sunk quickly on that day. He said three attackers were shot down.

Corsairs of the Okinawa-based Second Marine Aircraft wing raided southern Kyushu airfields Sunday, destroying 12 planes—11 of them on the ground.

Escort carrier planes attacked the Sakishima islands in the southern Ryukyus again Sunday, a third straight day. They destroyed a single Japanese plane they found on an airfield.

Nimitz reported that Fleet Air Wing One search planes—four-engined Privateers and twin-engined Mariners—have sunk 108,480 tons of enemy shipping and damaged 98,350 tons since they began operations off Okinawa about two months ago. In addition, they shot down 31 Japanese aircraft and damaged 20.

Small Vessels Sunk

Planes of this wing damaged two luggers yesterday in one of their least productive forays into the Korean area. Planes of Fleet Air Wing 18 sank a small cargo ship and another small ship and damaged a third off Honshu.

Far to the north searchers from Fleet Air Wing 4 damaged four small ships off Paramushiro Sunday.

De Gaulle Tour Seen As Personal Triumph

PARIS, June 11 (AP)—Gen. de Gaulle returned to Paris today from a Normandy trip which was intended as a routine inspection tour of devastated towns and which developed into a spectacular personal triumph.

The trip seemed to indicate, first, that De Gaulle has gained rather than lost backing with the mass of the French people in the year since he returned to France, and second, that the French people apparently are in full agreement with his foreign policy, despite the humiliation which arose from the Syrian crisis.

De Gaulle was mobbed wherever he halted along a route which led him from Caen through Bayeux and St. Lo and dozens of small villages.

De Gaulle in impromptu speeches spoke of his criticized foreign policies with boldness.

"France is in a difficult position," he said at Alencon, "but she will not always be and the world will learn that it is not sound policy to humiliate her. It will learn that the people of France know what they want."

Legion May Revive Drum, Bugle Corps

Members of the Allen Bros. post of the American Legion Monday night gave favorable discussion to revival of the post's drum and bugle corps.

A committee of J. M. Hall, Walter F. Smith and Troy McEachern was appointed to arrange for the re-organization. Youngsters interested in becoming members of the corps are asked to be present at the Legion home, 910 Texas Ave., at the post's next regular meeting.

H. J. McCabe, chairman of the post's junior baseball program in Lubbock, reported that in current local league play there are 135 boys under 14 and 60 boys over 14 participating.

Forrest Rankin, Legion's county service officer, reported that to April 1 of this year 1,978 interviews dealing with the problems of veterans of the present war had been made. He said that the number of interviews probably will increase substantially within the next few months. His office i at the Legion home.

Plains Wheat Crop

acres, 5 to 8 bushels.

Continued high winds were depleting surface moisture in the Austin area and damaging fruit crops. Except for a few scattered thundershowers there had been no rain there since the first of May. Cotton was doing fairly well.

South Plains Cotton

On the South Plains, only cotton on irrigated farms, had made a stand, and continued dryness, already of two months' duration, held back other planting.

A majority of farmers were waiting for rain before planting their cotton, although June 20 is the accepted deadline for getting seed into the ground.

In the Amarillo area, cloudiness was delaying the start of wheat harvest, probably until next week. Elevator men said storage space was plentiful but they expect a squeeze on box cars.

Denton Oats Harvested

Denton County Agent G. R. Warren said most of the country's oats had been cut and shocked. Rain yesterday, which broke a month-old dry spell, helped cotton, corn, gardens and pasture land, Warren said.

At Malakoff, in central-east Texas, strong winds have cut into melon and tomato crops and damaged gardens. Although recent rains have relieved Henderson county crops, more was needed.

Near-drouth gripped Nueces county in the coastal bend where only .6 inch rainfall has fallen since April. Crops were progressing normally in spite of the driest month of May in 18 years.

RECORD WHEAT CROP INDICATED FOR NATION

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP)—The largest United States wheat crop ever produced—approximately 1,085,000,000 bushels—is indicated for 1945 on the basis of June 1 reports, the Agriculture department said today.

At the same time, in spite of one of the coldest Mays on record, the total volume of all crops this year is expected to be "well above average."

Persistent rain over a large area of the country contributed to a reduction in crop prospects while in the Southwest drouth developed locally and threatened to spread with dry weather persisting in the extreme southeast.

The indicated winter wheat crop of 797,255,000 bushels, second largest on record, coupled with an indicated spring wheat crop of 287,397,000 would bring the total wheat production to 1,084,652,000 bushels, the biggest crop ever produced.

If realized, it would top last year's record wheat crop slightly, and would be the third crop of over a billion bushels in U. S. wheat production history, the first having occurred in 1915.

"Oats and hay promise above average production. The rye production forecast is down somewhat compared with last month's prospects, but is still good.

Early Irish Potatoes

A record crop of early Irish potatoes is in prospect and the tonnaged truck crops for market appears to be as large as the record volume produced in 1944.

Total fruit production is expected to be nearly equal to the record output last year despite frost damage to some fruits, especially the apple crop which may make a record low.

Corn planting, pushed to the limit allowed by the weather, was nearly three-fourths finished for the country as a whole.

Parley Reports 'Hoodwink' U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) declared today that the American people have been "hoodwinked" by reports from San Francisco that Russia had yielded ground on the international security organization veto formula.

What actually happened, he asserted in a Senate speech, is that the Soviet delegates "unexpectedly enlarged" the scope of the veto power to be granted the Big Five then gave up the additional point in what the senator described as "an extremely shrewd horse-trading game."

He said certain "misleading statements issuing from San Francisco should be put in their real light." Those included, he said, official comments and press reports that Harry Hopkins had achieved "a great victory" in Moscow because Marshal Stalin "yielded" in his opposition to discussion of international disputes which might shatter world peace.

Points Discussed

"From the very beginning of the San Francisco conference until the fifth week of the United Nations discussions," Bridges said, "there never came up the problem of a big power being granted veto power enabling it to stop presentation and discussion of any international situation threatening the peace of the world.

"What was discusseed at San Francisco was a so-called 'two points veto program' consisting of: (1) The right of veto for every one of the Big Five to forbid the use of force against any potential or actual aggressor; (2) The right of veto for every one of the Big Five to forbid investigation of conflicts or situations which might endanger the peace of the world."

Bridges said a majority of the United Nations reluctantly accepted the first point, but the second aroused so much opposition that some of the Big Five began considering ways to soften it.

Unexpectedly Enlarged

"When the legal advisers of the Big Five started drafting a more flexible formula concerning the investigation of international situations dangerous to the peace of the world," he said, "the Soviet delegation stiffened its opposition to any attempt to change this formula, and unexpectedly enlarged it so as to make it cover not only the 'investigation' but also any 'presentation' and 'discussion' of international situations that might put the peace of the world in danger."

Bridges said Hopkins came into the picture when the United States,, Britain, France and China opposed the Soviet interpretation.

"He (Hopkins) obtained in Moscow only and exclusively the withdrawal of the extended Russian interpretation of the veto formula," Bridges said, "but he did not obtain any change of the Russian attitude concerning the two points involved in discussion at San Francisco for the last six weeks."

Called One Of Smoothest

Rear Adm. Forrest B. Royal, commanding the Seventh Fleet attack group, called the operation "one of the smoothest yet."

Watching the bombardment MacArthur correctly predicted that not a man would be lost in the landings. Actually, the troops had advanced 2,000 yards inland before the first man was wounded.

Artillery, tanks and bulldozers followed the troops ashore and soon were moving directly to Brooketon. At 5 p. m. Sunday another unopposed landing was made at Hamilton point on Labuan opposite the first landing.

The Japanese have been estimated to number 2,000 to 5,000 in the landing area, but only the merest handful were at first in light skirmishing after the beaches were secured.

Sweepers Clear Path

Minesweepers cleared the path into Brunei bay and Allied warships soon steamed into Victoria harbor, the only deepwater spot in the area. The captured Labuan airfield is a mile and half north of the invasion beach and slightly inland. Timbalai, the only other air strip on the island, is on the west coast.

Just after daylight a lone Japanese bomber sneaked into the bay area under low clouds. It dropped a bomb harmlessly in the vast convoy area dotted by more than 200 ships, Hutcheson reported. That was the only Nippon aerial reaction to the invasion.

First announcement of the invasion came from J. B. Chifley, acting prime minister of Australia. He gave no details.

Two Million Bbls. Of Oil

Borneo, of 309,906 square miles and an annual oil production of some 20,000,000 barrels, has been an objective of Allied Pacific forces since MacArthur started on the long northward trail from Australia. The island, controlled by the British and Netherlands governments, also produces rubber, some coal and many tropical products.

The island, second only to New Guinea in area, is about 730 miles in length and about 600 miles wide. Most of the populace, estimated at 3,000,000, lives along the coast.

From bases on Borneo Allied planes will be in a position to hammer Singapore, the Malaya area and Indo-China without letup. They also will be within easy striking distance of Java and the other Japanese-held islands of the Dutch East Indies.

ers have been taken, yet the starving and hopeless Japanese fight on, and the surrender rate has not increased materially.

Since the main invasion at Leyte last October 20 a total of 81,081 Japanese bodies have been counted and about 1,000 have surrendered.

The remaining major Japanese position in the Philippines, however, was on Luzon, in the broad, 100-mile-long Cagayan valley, toward which the 37th division was pointed.

B-29 Destruction

The totals in square miles burned out in other Japanese cities were announced as Tokyo 56.3, Nagoya 12.33, Yokohama, 8.94 and Kawasaki 3.37.

One B-29 was lost Sunday as 250 to 300 Superforts, some escorted by Iwo-based Mustangs, attacked five factory and military targets in the Tokyo-Yokohama area with high explosive bombs.

Reconnaissance photographs showed that 820 bombs struck the Hitachi engineering works and railway yards at Sukagawa, one target. Others were similarly plastered.

In the five days, which covered Japan's worst air raid weekend, American bombers and fighters smashed at targets from extreme southwestern Japan to its Tokyo area heart. The raiders included Superforts from the Marianas, Iwo Jima-based Mustangs, Okinawa-based Thunderbolt fighters and Navy carried aircraft.

Maj. Gen. Curtis Lemay's 21st bomber command announced that Superfortresses from this and other Marianas bases flew 5,485 sorties against Japan in the last 19 days.

Sixty-one B-29s were lost in the 40 days — 40 during May and 21 in the first nine days of June.

Unsettled Weather Brings Only Duster

South Plains residents looked hopefully at overhanging clouds Monday between gusts of a typical West Texas duster, but late last night no moisture had been reported to break the long period of dry weather.

Early Monday morning Snyder and eastern Scurry county received a one-inch rain, but it was not extensive enough to materially affect a crop situation that is rapidly becoming acute. A quarter-inch rain was also reported at Canyon last night.

A drastic 37 degree drop in temperature was recorded in Lubbock Monday, with 99 degrees being registered by thermometers at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and a 62 at midnight.

Slightly cooler temperatures were forecast for today, with tomorrow fair and warmer.

News Briefs

Injuries suffered by Mrs. Lillian M. Gothardt, 2120 Twenty-fifth, and Cpl. Homer DuBois, Houston, formerly stationed at Lubbock Army Air field, in an automobile accident Friday near San Angelo, probably were not serious, local friends said Monday. Mrs. Gothardt, a civilian employe at LAAF, received a back injury and Cpl. DuBois an injured arm. Three other Lubbock persons escaped injury when Mrs. Gothardt's car overturned twice when a tire blew out. They are Fern, 14, and Janice, 12, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Duncan, 1906 Eighteenth, and Mrs. Ruby Moore, 2124 Twenty-first. The Duncan children continued on to San Antonio where they will visit their grandparents. The rest of the party was going to Houston. The soldier had recently received overseas orders and was going to spend a furlough at home. He and Mrs. Gothardt were taken to San Angelo for treatment.

Firemen made a run at 7:15 o'clock Monday night to Slim's cafe, 707 Broadway, where a gas petcock under a dish washing vat had exploded. There was no damage, firemen said.

Let War Memorials Be Beautiful

WITH one war still to fight, it is a little early to start controversies over war memorials. But a suggestion which has just been made should be spiked before it gets any further. This is the proposal of Rep. Francis Case, South Dakota republican, that the Army dispose of its surplus warplanes by planting them as memorials in the nation's public squares.

As a way of getting rid of surplus planes, the congressman's proposal has its points. There are plenty of communities which would be glad to be handed a Flying Fortress or a Mustang for temporary display in the courthouse square. But having a plane as a permanent memorial is a different thing altogether. The towns which try it will live to rue the day they listened to Representative Case's suggestion.

There are, to be sure, a number of the relics of other wars strewn around the nation's cities, mostly in the form of Civil War cannon and neat mounds of cannon balls. But these are, for the most part, tidy and solid affairs which require no upkeep but an occasional coat of paint. They are small and relatively inconspicuous things to have around.

But it is difficult to imagine a Flying Fortress, or a Sherman tank, for that matter, blending into the landscape of Lubbock's courthouse square or a public park. In a few years they would be certain to become headaches and eyesores, as incongruous and out of place as a 1910 automobile parked on the lawn.

Memorials, instead of being improvised from the scrapheaps of this war, should be designed by artists and architects.

Extending War's Controls

ACCORDING to the War Production board's survey on civilian wants, the public is ready to buy nearly 6,000,000 washing machines, 5,000,000 electric irons, 5,000,000 radios and 4,500,000 vacuum cleaners.

As a result of full employment, high wartime wages and large savings in banks and war bonds, we Americans have the money to make these purchases. But it will be a long time before industry will be able to supply these goods in anything like the quantities mentioned above. Until reconversion gets into full swing, the demand will be very much greater than the supply.

This sort of a situation is made to order for inflation. When money is plentiful and demand heavy and the supply of goods short, the price level has an irresistible impulse to rise. Many business men and officials are citing this potentiality as a reason for continuing wartime controls on business after Japan is licked.

But indications are that the people will brush the controls aside when hostilities have ceased, and the result may be several years of boom conditions under the operation of the old law of supply and demand. These indications, of course, stem from the deep-seated American tradition of doing what one pleases with one's own money, when one pleases to do it.

What will happen after the postwar boom subsides, economically speaking, is anybody's guess. A good many observers forecast that another depression—one that will make the depression of the 1930's "look like a Sunday school picnic"—is certain to come. Others believe there is no such certainty involved.

If continuation of government controls for an indefinite period could guarantee no depression in the future, the people would be for such controls—would insist upon them.

But the trouble is, many of our controls—and many of those who devise and operate them—have proven so silly and ineffective that there is no certainty a continuation of them after victory will do anything more than make a bad situation worse.

The Railroads Step Out

A LARGE percentage of the American population will take to wheels or to the air the moment restrictions on travel are removed after the defeat of Japan. For more than three war years persons who had to travel endured many hardships. They look forward to days when they can go on pleasure trips de luxe.

There will be comfortable seats for daytime travel. Movies, dancing, individual radios, telephones, improved dining car service—all this and many other features will make the railroad trip of the future a thing of joy for either long or short trips.

Innumerable revolutionary safety devices have been developed. Shock absorbers will provide smoother riding. Improved brakes will eliminate jerky stops. Speed will be increased. In short, those who travel by rail after the war will encounter many surprises, all conceived in the interest of their comfort and safety.

All this is very encouraging because the nation needs railroads and railroads which are prosperous contribute a gerat deal to our national economic picture. After victory over Japan, the railroads will face more competition than ever before, because the bus and air lines, too, are planning progressive moves and unless they are met by the railroads the latter are certain to suffer.

Death's Bright Diamonds

A FORTUNE IN DIAMONDS
XXVIII

When I turned in at the cemetery gate for the second time that day it was almost dark and there was no sun to help me find my way. The rain had turned to snow.

I parked my car under a great oak tree and shut off the motor. The wind had risen and I heard it keening mournfully in the branches overhead. I walked slowly away from my car, feeling the ground with my feet and staring against that curtain of night and snow.

Suddenly I saw the monument ahead of me, dimly white in the gathering darkness.

Then I felt the ground, soft and oozy under my feet. I looked down. I was standing on the fresh-turned earth of Phineas Hudson's grave. Quickly I stepped off and turned toward the monument again when something caught my eye. I turned back and looked more closely.

The grave looked odd. It seemed curiously untidy. As a matter of fact, it was not completely filled in.

There was a little mound of dirt beside the grave. I stared at that mound and I began to think about it. A couple of swings of the shovel would have spread the earth evenly, if loosely, over the grave.

I leaned down, moved my hand across the dirt, and felt a hollow in the soil. A hollow, scooped-out, unnatural and unmistakable. At first, I merely looked at it curiously. But the more I looked at it, the odder I felt. Then I had a horrible conviction. It swept over me like the cold wind of a seaturn. The sweat broke out on my forehead. I stood up and looked around. And all the while that horrid question kept hammering in my brain. Who had been digging in Phineas Hudson's newmade grave?

• • •

I should have liked the courage to run. Instead I went up to the monument, with the ivory elephant in my hand.

A monstrosity, I thought, as I looked at the polished granite sphere supported by four granite pillars. Within must be the recess where I was to place the elephant. I put my hand over the edge. The cold, wet snow brushed my flesh. I put the elephant in and moved him about indecisively.

My fingers closed on a small solidity. And I was at once horrified and exalted. I drew it out—a small leather bag—and loosened the draw-string with numb fingers. I put in my hand, and even with all my ignorance of precious stones I knew I held one of the Ostermann diamonds! And in the other hand four million and some hundreds of thousands of dollars.

My fingers began to tremble. It's quite a common thing with diamonds. They do things to you. But this was more than that. This was sin, heartache, and death. I had to hurry. Panic seized me. I spread the maw of the little leather bag. And I dropped the diamond. But not in the bag. It slid crazily past the opening and I felt it strike my ankle and bounce off.

Carefully I got down on my hands and knees, and I began to move my palms swiftly, but dightly over the earth. I picked up three pebbles. My trousers got soggy and my hands ached with cold. And I was still looking when I saw the lights of a car turning in at the cemetery gate. It stopped, then came swiftly along the curving drive. I debated withdrawing behind the monument. But an irrational sense of thrift kept me there on my knees rooting in the soft, oozey earth for that diamond.

The car stopped behind mine. I rested my hands on my thighs and saw the door open. Then a voice, high and clear like a gun shot in that quiet place.

"Nick!"

It was Brenda Temple.

"For God's sake, come over here," I shouted, all my tension curiously spilling away.

She came across the lots, calm, unhurried, deliberate.

"Never mind how you got here," I said, "I dropped a diamond. Help me find it."

"Pat called me. She was worried about you. I thought—" Her voice trailed off. She leaned down and stared close into my face. "Did you say a diamond, son?"

"As big as a robin's egg," I said.

"Great day," she said. "So you've found them."

She leaned down, picked up something, and held it close for inspection.

"Is this what you're looking for?"

It was.

"Give me that," I said.

"I'm sentimental about these things," she said. "Let me hold it a moment."

I grabbed her wrist. She fended off my hand with cool amusement.

"Nick! Don't be precipitate."

"Big words for a little girl. Look!"

I pointed at Phineas Hudson's grave—at a little mound of loose soil. Her fine brows drew down in concentration. She emitted a soft whistle. She smiled up at me, passed back the stone, and took my arm.

"Isn't it a bit early for planting?"

"It all depends upon what you're planting," I replied. "Come."

We stepped carefully around the dirt. Brenda shuddered a bit and said:

"How horribly fascinating! Who d'you think did it?"

I didn't answer that question. I never even had time to ponder it. Brenda had turned for a last curious look at the disturbed grave. I heard her gasp sharply and I turned. And I had my answered.

JONES VISITS TRUMAN

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP) — Jesse H. Jones, former secretary of Commerce and loan administrator, called on President Truman today. He told reporters later it was a "courtesy" visit.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

A NEWSPAPER editorial I read this morning criticizes President Truman for selecting for his cabinet men "who are not outstanding."

I disagree with the editorial.

In my opinion Mr. Truman is wise in picking men who may not be at all spectacular, who are completely lacking in showmanship and front, but who know their jobs, who are honest and who represent America rather than an aristocracy of family or culture or wealth.

BRANDEIS

I'll never forget an interview with the late Harvey Firestone out in California.

"No business has much of a chance to succeed" he said, "if it depends upon genius for its success.

"I would rather have a thousand ordinary men—and by ordinary I mean honest, intelligent, loyal Americans—in my employ than a few mental giants.

"Ordinary men know their place and can be replaced. Genius is not only hard to handle but when you lose one of them you have one heck of a time finding another to take his place."

• • •

I have often thought of that interview.

Many a business organization has had a lot of trouble in its administration and its human relations when genius was at the head.

Then Mr. Genius died and ordinary men took his place.

What happened?

Where Genius was an individualist, a dictator and an emotionalist, the ordinary men who followed him brought harmony and teamwork into the organization and changed turmoil into peace.

• • •

IN calling Harry Truman an ordinary man I am paying him a compliment.

Ordinary, in one sense of its dictionary meaning, stands for commonplace.

But it also means "normal." and isn't it about time that we go back to the normal way of life?

he continues to select men men and the ordinary way of living. By his own experience he knows what the ordinary American citizen wants and what his rights and duties are.

If oratory were the principal qualification for the presidency Truman would not appear in a very favorable position.

But every-day life is not an "all-star performance."

Government should be "of the people, by the people and for the people."

Truman is "of the people" and if he continues to select men who approved "by the people," we are sure to have a government that will be good "for the people."

What more need we ask?

No Fuss And Feathers

Truman Mirrored By His Record

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

AN INTENSIVE study of Harry Truman's speeches during the last decade helps to round out the sketchy picture the American people have glimpsed of the man who will guide the United States through the difficult postwar shoals at home and abroad.

He has discussed every conceivable public problem baldly and boldly, and his record so far suggests that he means what he says. He has not indulged in the double-talk to which so many gifted and facile statesmen are prone.

His pronouncements have special significance because they were not uttered in the heat of hard-fought political campaigns. He was not posing or seeking to corral votes. They are to be found in Senate debates that won no headlines, in addresses not published by the press and in the files of the Senate Committee to Investigate the National Defense Program — the so-called Truman committee.

TUCKER

Moreover, HST has always written his own speeches. He has a horror of ghost writers, although he will have to employ them now that he runs the United States of America. And when a man writes his own stuff, slaving at a typewriter or with pencil, he gives more thought to his words.

The new Chief Executive's utterances do not make easy or elegant reading. He hasn't the literary style of Franklin Roosevelt or Winston Churchill. Apparently he gives more consideration to the thought than to the trimmings.

But Mr. Truman's expressions do have the virtue of being his honest, undressed and unrehearsed answers to the great questions of today and tomorrow. Never believing that he would be called to his present high office, he was simply thinking out loud.

Leftists, Communists and ultraradical laborites will not appreciate his sound viewpoint, perhaps. Many groups which swore by FDR will be disappointed, for he sets a limit to reform and to the starry-eyed idealism which sacrifices basic American interests. But it is probable that millions of plain, everyday Americans, Republicans and Democrats, will welcome his Missouri Midwest sentiments.

• • •

ANARCHY: President Truman's opinions on peace aims and world security, as set forth when he was only another senator and an obscure Vice President who got that nomination by a political accident, are particularly timely.

They supply an important footnote to the bewildering San Francisco deliberations, to Russia's rule-or-ruin behavior in Eastern Europe and to the Anglo-French clash in Syria.

HST's comments foreshadow, first, strong American intervention to make and keep the peace and to persuade our Allies to do so. But they also envisage a withdrawal from turbulent and tangled world politics of the pressure variety unless the major members of the United Nations accept our democratic aspirations.

Discussing postwar relations only three weeks before he became President Mr. Truman said:

"International organization can be successful only if all members of the family of nations actually abide by reasonable rules agreed to for the benefit of all. This requires self-restraint and tolerance.

"If each nation insists upon absolute freedom of action according to the legal concept of sovereignty, international anarchy becomes inevitable."

This statement seems like a pre-White House shot at Moscow.

• • •

PEACE: President Truman, unlike his predecessor, concedes that our State department diplomats are not infallible. He advanced that belief more than a year ago, and the performance of the "Stettinus team" in Mexico City and in San Francisco, with particular reference to their eulogies of Argentina, makes him something of a prophet.

"There have been occasions in the past when we were outmaneuvered. Our counsel, while then appearing well advised, has been shown to have been hasty and ill-conceived. We must not repeat blunders of the past. It will be no easy thing to formulate the good peace.

"We must evaluate carefully every factor, every possible approach to the problems of postwar living. As each separate problem comes before that peace conference, we should be prepared to meet it intelligently."

In perhaps his most important speech on future foreign problems, Mr. Truman made known the philosophy that will guide him in his dealings with Churchill, Stalin, de Gaulle and Chiang Kai-Shek. On the Senate floor in November of 1943, he declared:

"I am as sure as I can be that this World war is the result of the 1919-1920 isolationist attitude, and I am equally sure that another and a worse war will follow this one unless the United States and their Allies, and all the other sovereign nations, decide to work together for peace as they are working together for victory."

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

THE flock of conflicting plans lately recommended by American officials shows that we still have not made up our minds what to do with the Germans — both "good" and "bad."

Pope Pius expresses the hope that the Reich will find its way back into the family of nations after the "satanic specter" of Nazism has been dispelled. General Eisenhower's deputies are trying to use non-Hitlerite mayors for local administration. But the political immaturity of the people is a tremendous handicap.

Investigation since V-E day gives a clearer picture of the conquered than we have had previously. The alibi of those living near concentration camps that they didn't know of the horrors does not hold water.

Back in 1934 a "Brown Book" was circulated depicting Nazi atrocities in the prisons. In reply the Gestapo printed an authorized document, "K. Z. Oranienburg," justifying the inhumanities.

LEMAN

When a victim's body was returned from one of the hells, two SS troopers always stood guard over the coffin to prevent the lifting of the lid. This secrecy should have made everyone suspicious.

A clergyman admitted to an American soldier that he knew of the goings-on at a near-by concentration pen. "If I had said or done anything," he explained, "my wife and children would have suffered as well as I." Knowledge was general but fear kept lips sealed.

Not all Germans remained silent.

Some paid for their opposition in suffering and by death. Their martyrdom is believed to have had a profound effect on their sorrowing relatives who are now free to square accounts.

The horrors of Buchenwald, Dachau and other terror spots shown in American films and publications were recent. Earlier prisoners were not alive when our men broke in. But it should be remembered — a point ignored in most reports—that a large proportion of the rescued were Germans from the Fatherland itself and from the "old Reich" — Austria, the Sudetenland and the Protectorate.

• • •

OLD: Another obscured fact is that Buchenwald and others like it existed long before the war. Political enemies of the Brownshirts were sent to them from the beginning.

A doctor who made a personal examination of these institutions recorded in the Catholic Medical Guardian in 1939 that, prior to the annexation of Czechoslovakia, at least 100,000 men and women were locked up. Among the punishments were flogging, hanging on trees, solitary confinement in darkness — familiar terms. "I must see blood," shrieked an SS guard as he maltreated the helpless.

Republicans Take Some Advice From Dewey

GOP Getting Back In Procession

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — The Republican party, after some floundering around and some faltering steps backward, is suddenly showing signs of getting back into the procession toward effective international cooperation.

It is no secret that some progressive GOP leaders had become discouraged lately particularly after the almost solid front of the party in the House against the reciprocal tariff bill's authority for seeking further tariff reductions in negotiations with other nations.

STOKES

This represented a retreat toward economic nationalism in contrast with the party's steps the last two or three years toward international cooperation—through support of the Fulbright and Connally resolutions in Congress, the Mackinac declaration, and in declaration, and in party commitments of various kinds including its platform.

• • •

Now the party in the House is back in line with its general support of the Bretton Woods agreements for an international bank and monetary fund, which passed the House overwhelmingly. Instead of taking the advice of those who tried to get the party to fight this phase of international cooperation, as on the tariff bill, the leaders on the banking and currency committee worked in cooperation with administration leaders to get some amendments they regarded as essential. It was a fine example of teamwork.

• • •

Not Just Another Speech

THIS recognition of party responsibilty in these times was followed significantly by a rally-call for cooperation in the international economic field by the party's titular leader, Governor Dewey of New York.

The 1944 presidential candidate was not just making another speech. It was evident that he took the occassion of an address to a local Seventh War Loan committee to warn his party and to bring it back in line with the policy of international cooperation along all fronts, economic as well as political, which he had stated so forcibly in his campaign last year.

He, like others, was manifestly conscious that the party was straying and was taking a mistaken course.

• • •

A Thorough Presentation

The governor's speech was a thorough presentation of the necessity of economic cooperation. He showed a fine appreciation of the part that economic maladjustments, bottling up of trade by artifical barriers, the rapid march toward nationalism all over the world after the last war, played in bringing on the present war. He knows that the political security organization being framed at San Francisco is not enough without economic cooperation.

"All of the work being done at San Francisco will mean tragically little if economic conflict is to divide the nations," he said.

• • •

For Full-Scale Program

HE came out boldly for a full-scale program to do this—a world economic conference to readjust tariffs and do away with trade barriers, the reciprocal tariff program, Bretton Woods, cancellation of World war 1 debts, repeal of the Johnson act prohibiting loans to nations in default on their first World war debts, prompt settlement of lend-lease obligations all around, and long-term stabilization of the dollar and the pound sterling in agreement with great Britain.

He went the whole route of the administration's program and even beyond, pointing the way for his party.

Governor Dewey's appeal, which took a high note of non-partisanship, comes at an appropriate time, just in advance of consideration by the Senate of the reciprocal tariff bill and Bretton Woods measures.

• • •

Will Be Decisive Battle

There, in the Senate, will be the decisive battle.

The Senate will be watched closely, at home and all over the world, for its decision on international economic cooperation. For later it, and it alone, will have the decision on ratification of the San Francisco charter, with which the other two are so tightly linked.

Republicans, and Democrats, too, might benefit from what Governor Dewey had to say.

East Texas Grocers Report Sugar Thefts

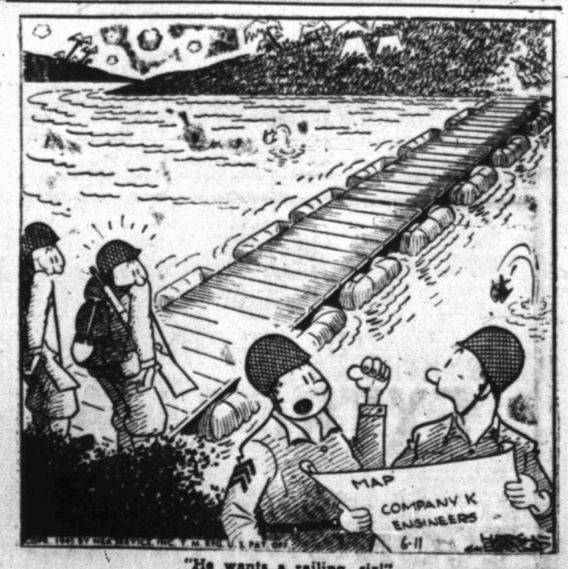

HENDERSON, Tex., June 11. (U.P.)—Sugar thefts in five East Texas cities over the week-end were reported here today, with losses being listed at Marshall, Longview, Linden, Kilgore and Tyler.

It is alleged that customers made off with the sugar in self-service stores. One complaint rationing officials received reported that 50 pounds of preserving sugar disappeared almost under the nose of a checker when he was called to a telephone while filling the order.

Some dealers, it was reported, are keeping their dwindling sugar stock under close observation as a result of the losses and no longer allow patrons access to the stock.

Whether Office of Price administration investigation will be made to catch the person or persons responsible for the losses or local authorities called in to handle the matter was not revealed.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

THANKS FARMERS
IN BEHALF of our boys in the armed forces, we wish to thank you for the way you responded to our plea for large clean grade A eggs. Because of your patriotic cooperation, we have been able to get their eggs to them much faster than could have been possible otherwise. We still have many more war department orders to fill, and the government is looking to you to help us meet our increased quotas.
If you haven't heard of the way that you can make more money, and still be helping our soldier boys, ask your neighbor, or we will give you the information. Your large clean grade A eggs are still desperately needed. Thanks again.

Fight On Johnson Grass Heightens

Reasserting their determination to rid the county of its current No. 1 pest the Lubbock County Johnson Grass committee met Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the agriculture building, 14th and Ave. Q, and discussed ways and means of combatting spread of the grass.

Headed by Joe Nislar, chairman, the group discussed various methods being used throughout the county and studied results.

Work being conducted by county commissioners in back sloping roads was brought up and it was stated that over 200 miles of roads in the county have been back-sloped.

State Aid Sought

Nislar reported a meeting last week with several soil conservation experts in an attempt to receive aid in the eradicating program. He said little state aid could be expected as long as projects were required to be statewide before being conducted. Hope for division of the state into districts was expressed by the committee members.

H. P. Read, special assistant to the county agent, displayed a map of the county's farms with distinctive markings showing "clean" farms and back-sloped roads. Read interviewed 630 farmers and traveled 1,207 miles during May in Lubbock county. He reported that in the past few weeks he has seen 205 farmers and of the group but 15 were doing little or nothing to rid themselves of the grass.

A report from the various precincts of the county by committee members showed a widespread and growing interest in the work.

The committee requested farmers to clean up turnrows and back slope roadways, after tearing away old fences, for the most effective means of killing the grass.

Suggested by the group for small bunches of the grass was grubbing while it was said that solutions of kerosene and salt, plus continuous and intensive cultivation, was one of the best methods to eliminate larger bunches.

The committee also emphasized that the time was ripe for spraying, plus cultivation.

Those attending the meeting were Nislar, chairman, George Kuykendall, H. T. Swanner, Douglass Pounds, J. C. Smith, jr., C. E. Lilly and Henry Mahoney. All of these are committeemen.

Jason Gordon, county agent, Read, and W. B. Griffin, assistant county agent, also were present.

Enrollment In Water School Is Near 100

With approximately 100 persons registered for the Red Cross water safety school to be conducted Friday through June 29 at the Municipal swimming pool, today is the final day enrollments will be taken.

More than 60 per cent of this enrollment is composed of children 12 years of age or younger, and the remainder is women. No men have registered for the safety school, pool attendants said.

Enrollment forms, which have been published in Avalanche-Journal newspapers, are also available at the pool. These forms are to be turned in at the pool.

Classes will meet each day except Sunday.

The school originally was scheduled through June 24.

Further plans were announced this morning for the junior first aid and accident prevention course to be offered in connection with the school.

Girls and boys 12 to 16 may enroll for the class, which will be taught by a qualified Red Cross representative, H. J. Kendrick. There will be no charge. Registration for the course also is to be made at the pool. Enrollees may take that course, in addition to a swimming course.

A certificate for junior first aid will be presented by the American Red Cross to those completing the course, which will be offered at the American Legion hall from 3 to 4 p. m.

Inquiries may be made at the Red Cross office at the City hall or by telephoning Kendrick, 2-3985.

LEAN TOWARD CAUTION

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Buyers concentrated on motors and specialties in today's stock market while rails and many pivotal industrials stumbled over further selling.

Investment services still leaned toward caution because of the belief reconversion troubles had been far from discounted.

Prices stiffened around midday but slipped in the final hour with carriers in supply. Transfers of 1,490,000 shares compared with 1,710,000 Friday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .3 of a point at 65.7. The market was broad, 930 issues registering. Of these, 463 were down against 280 up.

At highs for 1945 or longer were American Airlines, which ran up 2¾ to 62 in the last few minutes; United Corp., Alleghany Corp. and Hayes Mfg. In the plus ranks were Graham-Paige, Hudson Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, Kennecott and Boeing.

Losers of as much as a point or so included Southern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, American Can, DuPont, Texas Co. and Allied Chemical.

Bonds were fairly steady.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—After soaring to new highs for the season cotton futures reacted sharply today.

Professional selling, southern hedging and commission house profit taking demand limited to scale down mill buying. Crop and weather reports from the cotton belt were unfavorable. Demand for spot cotton was active. Most of the recent buying in futures was said to be based on the belief the government purchasing program would be continued and increased labor costs would be reflected in higher ceiling prices for textile goods.

Heaviest selling was in the final hour which left prices at or near the lowest levels of the day with losses extending to 50 cents a bale. The market closed 20 to 50 cents a bale lower.

Rites Held For Mishap Victim

Funeral services were read at Plains chapel Monday afternoon for Mrs. Edna C. Fitzgerald, 50, whose body was discovered about 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning in a Thirty-third and Ave. H bar ditch, about five hours after a truck in which she had been riding had struck a concrete culvert there.

Burial was in Memorial Park cemetery. Rev. L. L. Richardson of College Avenue Baptist church officiated.

Truck Driver Held

A 41-year-old truck driver was held at county jail late Monday for questioning begun that morning after his arrest five miles west of Lubbock on Fourth. He was walking toward Lubbock.

He said he was driver of the truck, but remembered "practically nothing" after the mishap, except that he had been thrown clear. He said he had spent the remainder of the night at a vacant house on College Ave., and showed the place to Sheriff Grady Harrist and to Aubrey Fawver, captain of city detectives. He said he was suffering of a back injury and of a hurting in his right shoulder.

Both investigators said they had been informed that the truck cab's right door had been damaged several days ago when a woman caught it against a tree in backing the machine, that, as a result, it was easy to open.

Driver Abandoned Truck

The truck struck the culvert about 12:55 o'clock, less than 30 minutes after the man and Mrs. Fitzgerald had left Camp Joy, diagonally across the road from the culvert, to "go to town and buy some bread," two of Mrs. Fitzgerald's daughters said. It had skidded off the pavement, scrubbed its way several yards down the bar ditch, slewed out of the ditch and come to a stop in the middle of the Tahoka highway, where the driver abandoned it, investigators said.

It was theorized by investigators and by C. E. Lynn, justice of peace who had not completed his inquest pending further questioning of witnesses and officials, that the woman was thrown out of the cab when the truck whipped back onto the road and that the heavy "bob-tail's" dual rear wheels had skidded against her, breaking her against the culvert.

Arrested This Morning

The driver, according to one witness walked a few yards westward on a lateral dirt road and "lay down," police said. Then he "left."

The bar ditch is only 30 inches or so deep, but it is partly choked by vegetation, and the position of the body made it easy to evade discovery in the darkness, despite the traffic of perhaps hundreds of automobiles.

Death Instantaneous

Death probably was instantaneous, it was believed by Dr. W. L. Baugh, county health officer, and morticians of Plains Funeral home, whose ambulance removed the body. The woman had suffered a deep cut in the top of her head; the left leg was broken in two places, above and below the knee; the right hip was broken and the right ankle; there were several broken ribs and the body was bruised "all over."

The body was discovered by J. W. Barker who lives in cabin 2 of Sun Ray courts, at Thirty-fourth and H. He informed Mrs. T. F. Hill, manager of Camp Joy, who told three daughters of Mrs. Fitzgerald who lived at the camp with their mother. He earlier had reported the wreck, but along with police who had moved the truck from the highway had not seen the body. One of the daughters, Mrs. Judson Crockett, had been alarmed when they found the truck but not their mother or the truck driver, and had checked all hospitals, not realizing their mother's body lay a few [illegible] mouth of the culvert.

Other survivors are four other daughters, Eunice Faye Fitzgerald, Allie Pearl Fitzgerald, Mrs. Loraine Shaw, Mrs. Olton Mae Oldham, all of Lubbock; two sons, Ellis of Lubbock, and Lester Fitzgerald who is overseas in the armed forces.

Problem Of Wheat Transportation Cited

KANSAS CITY, June 11. (AP)—Approach of the Kansas wheat harvest, expected to start in the southern part of the state by June 21, finds the transportation problem still unsolved, Walter R. Scott, secretary of the board of trade, said today.

"In a normal year the railroads have 25,000 cars stored on sidings near elevators," he said. "Now there is none.

"There are just enough cars in the state to clean up the remnants of last year's wheat crop."

Seventy-Six Bills Before Stevenson

AUSTIN, June 11. (AP)—Gov. Coke Stevenson said today he still had before him 76 bills and resolutions of the 49th legislature for final action.

He has until June 25 to sign, reject, or file without his signature these acts of the legislature.

Remaining on his desk without action were 29 Senate bills and 42 House bills. They included the district judge pay raise bill, about which there has been some talk of a veto.

Russian Hospitality Too Much For Monty

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, June 11. (AP)—As a man who has been exposed to both dangers, Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery now realizes that Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's artillery was nothing compared to the social demands imposed by the Russians.

The British commander, who is almost as well known as a teetotaler as he is as the hero of El Alamein, has been under a barrage of "bottoms up" requests since hostilities ended.

Here yesterday, when he received the Soviet Union's Order of Victory, Montgomery finally had to call on Gen. Eisenhower to save him. Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov and a dozen other Russians surrounded him with glasses, insisting they be drained to the final drop.

Dismayed, Monty grinned sheepishly and looked hastily around. "Ike, get me out of this," he called to Eisenhower.

Eisenhower's grin was never broader. He shouldered his way to Montgomery's side. He explained to Zhukov's interpreter. Monty sighed with relief as the Russians indicated that they understood.

Pacific Red Cross Staff To Be Larger
