Thousands of Illegal Redfish Being Caught

The bays from Cedar Bayou to Brownsville are jammed with redfish ten to 11 inches long, and fishermen are catching and keeping them illegally, says M. B. Mullinax, Region 5 enforcement supervisor for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Mullinax says that quite a few otherwise happy fishermen have had their day come to an unhappy end when they were given a ticket because they did not know that the legal size for redfish is 14 inches.

With school closing, more fishermen will be flocking to the coast and catching the small redfish. Mullinax says the little fish should be returned to the water immediately after they are taken off the hook.

By fall, according to Mullinax, the fish should be of legal size.

Gulf Shrimp Season Closed On June 1

The Texas Gulf shrimping season closed for 45 days beginning June 1 and ending July 15, according to Terry Leary, Marine Fisheries Coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The 45-day closed season, established by the Texas Shrimp Conservation Act, will allow migrating shrimp to reach minimum legal size before Gulf fishing begins. Marine biologists estimate the young shrimp, migrating from bay nursery areas to the Gulf can grow approximately an inch and a half during the 45-day closed season.

Biological net samples, taken by Department Marine Biologists, indicate some migration has already started, but there has been no mass exodus. Department biologists estimate that migration should be in full swing by June 1.

Shrimp researchers also said bay waters have been cool which caused shrimp growth rates to be slow. Rapid growth is expected as the waters warm, however.

The closed season extends 10.5 statute miles into the Gulf. However, it does not close bait shrimping in the bays, he said.

Editorial

Our local businessmen offer a "home town satisfaction guarantee" that you can't buy anywhere else.

This is the theme of a new advertising program starting in our newspaper this week. During the next few months this series of advertisements will remind all of us to "Shop In Our Home Community."

Unfortunately, "Big Cities Thrive on Small Town Money" and money spent away from home keeps traveling. It doesn't return.

It doesn't stay where it belongs . . . where it will help build our schools, construct playgrounds, pave our streets and improve local government.

The "Shop at Home" messages remind us that our business community helps support our town. And they deserve our support!

Commissioners Tighten Subdivision Ordinance

Organizing Lamar All Faiths Church

At a community meeting May 31 in the old chapel at House Schoenstatt, operated by the Schoenstatt Sisters of Mary, 17 interested persons assembled for the purpose of organizing an interdenominational church in Lamar.

The Rev. Cecil H. Lang, Jr., pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Rockport, was chairman. He was assisted by the Rt. Rev. F. O. Beck. The meeting opened with the congregation singing "O Worship the King." Father Beck gave the invocation.

The purpose of organizing the church was discussed. It was generally agreed that every community needs a place, conveniently located, to worship the Lord.

The people of Lamar, desiring a place to worship near their homes and with their friends and being of several faiths, are uniting to form the Lamar All Faiths Church.

The motto of the church organization is "Through Faith, All Things are Possible." The plan is to establish an organization to serve for a three-month period beginning June 15. During this period, every effort will be made to establish a dedicated congregation and a going church organization.

At the end of this period, if sufficient interest is shown, a more formal and permanent organization will be formed.

The Lamar All Faiths Church will be open to any individual who wishes to worship the Lord. One purpose of the church is to offer convenient means of worship to the tourists and visitors to Lamar as well as the residents and they will be encouraged to attend.

The kind offer of the use of the old chapel by the Schoenstatt Sisters of Mary for the services is gratefully acknowledged and accepted. It is proposed that services be held between 4 and 5 p.m. and lasting about 45 minutes.

The Rev. Lester Hill, pastor of St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Rockport, gave the benediction after the congregation sang "Blest Be the Tie."

The help, interest and counsel of Father Beck and Rev. Lang are gratefully acknowledged. Their encouragement and suggestions have been most helpful.

It is proposed to invite members of the Rockport Ministerial Alliance to conduct services during the initial three-month period, after which time a decision shall be made concerning securing the services of a minister or ministers.

The temporary organization will consist of a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer and the following committees. Membership, finance, publicity, telephone and custodial.

On June 15 there will be a meeting at the Lamar Fire Station. Everyone is invited to attend and bring a covered dish. At this time the nominating committee will present a slate of officers for the congregation to vote on. Ministers and their wives residing in the Rockport area are especially invited.

Those attending the Friday night meeting were Rev. Lang, Rt. Rev. Beck, Rev. Hill, Rev. and Mrs. Edmund Folkner of Peace Lutheran Church, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Batsell, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Pete C. Gibson, Mrs. Ludine Wofford, Mrs. Lorene Fleming, Mrs. Lorie Clark, Mrs. Maggie Shropshire, Miss Freddie Linger and G. N. McVay.

EDITOR'S VIEWPOINTS

HEREFORD HAVEN

The game of finding legal ways to circumvent the income tax has been going on for years but the saga of the Hereford cow is so symbolic that his portrait might well replace the weird design on this year's tax forms.

This bovine benefactor of hard-pressed taxpayers may be one of the animals owned by Charles Coddington, a rancher in Foraker, Okla. Here is how Coddington's Hereford plan works: He rents cows. The fee is $450. The renter living in an apartment in Manchester, doesn't have to feed the critter. Coddington does that and guarantees that within the year a calf will become the property of the man who put up the $450. What is more, he will take care of this wholly-owned stock for another $150 per annum.

Suppose a man who is in the 50 per cent tax bracket rents 10 of Mr. Coddington's Herefords. This will cost him $4,500. But since the government would have taken half of it in taxes except for this deductible "expense" of renting cows, our rancher by proxy has already "saved" $2,500. Project this far-off-farming for 10 years, depending solely on those 10 offsprings from the first year's rent. The cash outlay would be $29,475 and the 140 cattle valued according to present market trends, at $90,000.

This is all on paper, you understand, since Mr. Coddington didn't come up with the idea until early this year. The novice at the income tax game might be tempted to wonder: If this Hereford haven for taxpayers is so good, why doesn't Mr. Coddington keep it all to himself—unless by the plan he himself hopes to reach an income bracket that will make it worth while to rent cows from the man in Manchester.—Manchester (N.H.) Union Leader.

Many New Books At the Library

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:
The old adage "Water, water everywhere and not a drop to drink" is what I think of when I arrive at my residence on Omohundro street after a day's work.

I am on my soap box because the city or county can spend no telling how much money on the new street lights to make our town more beautiful but when it comes to the important issue of drainage, everyone sidesteps the issue. I think it is a disgrace so I am taking my constitutional right to protest for what ever good it might do.

It brings to mind the story of the mother who told her little girl her slip was torn. The little girl's reply was "but Mother, it doesn't show unless I stoop over."

The commissioners must have the same attitude. "But people, it doesn't show unless it rains." Why, when we get music piped in the streets, we will have the most musical, water-logged streets in the area.

Little Bay Good Place to Fish

One of the first stretches of water a visitor sees in Rockport is Little Bay. And one of the first things he hears if he talks to any one of a few misinformed people is that Little Bay is "badly polluted." "This is simply not true," declares Tom Moore, regional director, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. "The waters of Little Bay do receive some pollution, of course. Any time a group of people live near a body of water, there is bound to be some pollution but it certainly is not excessive in Little Bay."

Moore went on to say that if there was ever a time when Little Bay could become polluted it would be after a light shower, just enough to run water off the streets. Heavy rains, he explained, would

Fighting Fatness Makes Good Sense

There's no doubt about it. Many of us are too fat.

Almost everyone who is too fat would like to slim down to average size for his height and build. Many women would like to be on the skinny side.

The American Medical Association's home health book, Today's Health Guide, points out that most physicians consider obesity an important factor in personal health for three reasons:

- It is common.
- It is associated with increased sickness and death rates, notably in respect to heart, circulatory, kidney, and metabolic disorders as well as surgical and obstetrical complications.
- It can be successfully treated to help control associated medical conditions.

Medical experience strongly suggests greater risks for overweight persons in respect to most of the major disorders besetting our population. The evidence for generally adverse effects from obesity seems too massive and too consistent to be ignored.

So we need to lose weight. It should be simple: just cut down on the calories. Unfortunately, it often isn't simple. Taking fewer calories than are needed seems to be within the theoretical capability of most of us. Yet results suggest that this is difficult and often not achieved. Long-term observations indicate poor success for most dieters.

One factor involved in overweight is psychological. Emotional factors are operative in all of us. Psychological factors may help cause overweight, or help to maintain it. Seldom is psychiatric consultation required. The general practitioner, the internist, the pediatrician usually can provide suitable guidance and support as part of the weight-reduction program, the AMA book says. The physician's aim is to prod and reinforce our will to lose weight, to help us be so determined to trim off excess pounds that we will stick to the reducing regime.

The physician may prescribe drugs at first, as a crutch to help us get started. These can reduce appetite, promote a feeling of well-being, add bulk in the stomach, eliminate excess fluids. They can, at best, afford only temporary help. They postpone the day when facts must be faced, when we finally make up our minds that we must change our eating habits to keep our weight under control.

Edwards Awarded Bronze Star Medal

Not all battlefield heroics are performed by rifleman. There are other young soldiers—like Army Specialist 5 Bobby R. Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie D. Edwards.

A member of the 101st Airborne Division in Vietnam, Spec. Edwards does not carry a rifle; his major tool is a kit consisting of gauze, tape and a variety of medications.

And the 20-year-old soldier is as proficient in first aid skills as expert riflemen are in shooting skills.

Medical aidmen with Company B, 2nd Battalion of the division's 501 Infantry, Spec. Edwards proved his courage and value when the unit came under attack, suffering many casualties.

Under heavy enemy fire, Spec. Edwards continued to treat wounded soldiers, and was credited for saving many of their lives.

For his heroism, the specialist was awarded the Bronze Star Medal at a ceremony in Vietnam. He also holds the Combat Medical Badge.

Spec. Edwards entered the Army in December 1966, completed basic training at Ft. Polk, La., and was last stationed at Ft. Campbell, Ky., before arriving overseas in December 1967.

He is a 1965 graduate of Aransas County High School.

SGT. GARCIA IN VIETNAM ACTION

Staff Sgt. Jesus T. Garcia, son of Mrs. Trinidad R. Garcia, recently took part in two successful ground support missions over Vietnam.

Scrambled from the alert pad at Bien Hoa AB, Vietnam, Sergeant Garcia and fellow AC-47 Drangonship crewmembers provided flare illumination for fighter strikes and fire support for friendly forces 28 miles west of Bien Hoa. They were then called to aid friendly forces in contact with the enemy 18 miles southwest of Saigon. The dragonship crew was credited with causing three secondary explosions.

Sergeant Garcia is an AC-47 loadmaster in the 3rd Air Commando Squadron at Bien Hoa.

He attended Aransas County High School.

The sergeant's wife, Judith, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Camp of Miami.

Tips for OUTDOORSMEN

By Vern Sanford

Litter Is Individual Problem

With twice as many people using the outdoors today, the litter problem can become immense unless we do something about it ourselves.

Fishing Rod Breakage

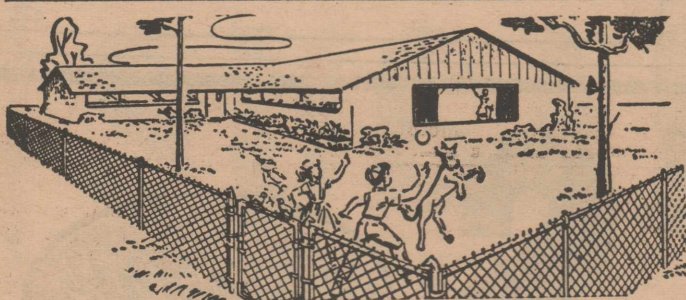

More fishing rods are broken by car doors than by fish. Be careful in handling your fishing equipment in the car, as well as in the boat, and it will last much longer.

Surface Water for Drinking

It is estimated that by 1980 some 165 million people will be depending on surface water for drinking purposes. By the year 2000 it is expected that the fresh water supply may total more than 1000 billion gallons daily.

Fish Abundant in Texas

Texas has something like 100 species of fresh water fish. However, only a dozen are of interest to fishermen. Mainly they are bass, with catfish, crappie and bream in about that order.

2 Whooper Chicks, 8 Eggs Migrate By Air

Two whooping crane chicks and eight eggs were doing well at a Government Wildlife Center near Laurel, Md., after a 2,600 mile jet flight from Canada's Northwest Territory.

Nine eggs and one chick were plucked from their nests in Wood Buffalo National Park Friday and flown by helicopter to Fort Smith, where one egg hatched before the valuable cargo was transferred to a pressurized Canadian Air Force jet for the flight to Andrews AFB in Maryland.

Dr. Ray Erickson, director of the rare and endangered Wildlife Center, and Glen Smart cradled portable incubators on their laps during the flight. Smart said that periodically the chicks and eggs were given whiffs of oxygen and that the eggs "are doing fine and the chicks are eating well."

Smart said that one egg which showed signs of hatching during the flight may produce during the flight but due another chick at any time.

Last year six eggs were picked up and five subsequently hatched successfully at the center. One chick broke through its shell during that long flight in a slow plane but died for lack of oxygen.

The purpose of the joint Canadian-U.S. effort is to build up a captive propagating flock and eventually to release young birds to increase the vanishing whooping crane population. The birds winter in Texas, near Rockport.

television set, a trip to Mexico, a boat and motor, or a trip to Las Vegas.

Along The Waterfront

Fishing was fair this week at the Copano Causeway lighted pier. Due to many rain squalls during the day, best fishing was at night. However, some good catches were made including some of the following:

Bill Knox, owner of Rollin' Bear Cafe in Rockport, landed 40 specks using live shrimp. Mrs. Agnes Irwin of Corpus Christi snagged 40 specks, also on live shrimp.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Goodman of Corpus caught 65 trout; 40 trout and 38 trout on three different nights, using live shrimp on all occasions.

Henry Wolf of Victoria caught a 30 pound and an 8 pound drum using dead bait.

Fishing May 29 with Buck Armintrout on the Balboa, Dr. R. B. Gilliam and sons, Robert and Danny, of Victoria caught 75 specks and threw back at least 50 specks that were too small. On May 30 a party of four from the Beck Engineering Co.

of Houston, caught 50 specks in a strong south wind.

On June 1 Mr. and Mrs. Alan R. Tomasek and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Tomasek of Temple caught 75 specks.

Brown's Harbor/Marina on South beach reported some good catches last weekend in spite of the weather. The unusual and unseasonal weather, namely wind, rain, have hampered some anglers, but those willing to put up with the winds and rains have scored well.

Finding the fish has been no problem and so far, at least, the abundance of fresh water from the rains has not seemed to have any ill effect on the fishing. Trout, reds, gafftop and flounder are plentiful in the bay and the feeding conditions are still good, according to Joe Browne.

In general, the outlook would seem to be favorable, depending, of course upon fickle Mother Nature.

Mildred Petrofsky at Palm Harbor Marina reports the following catches:

Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Anderson of Waco caught 2 trout. Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Ziegler and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Carr had a nice catch of trout, gafftop and reds. Col. and Mrs. McCoy of San Antonio caught 24 trout.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer H. Zeigler, Jr., of San Antonio, has a nice catch of trout, gafftop and a few flounder. Linda Maxey of Dallas, while visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mitchell, caught a 4-pound trout and a 3 1/2-pound flounder.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Chapman of San Antonio caught a few drum, trout and 2 nice flounder. Vernon Townsend, fishing in Red Fish Flats, caught a 5 1/2-pound trout.

William Tuttle fishing in front of his home in Palm Harbor channel, caught a 24-inch 4 1/2-pound trout, also a few nice flounder.

Col. Leo Kaufman and Al Colman of San Antonio caught about 100 assorted fish.

When Princeton and Rutgers met on the gridiron in 1869 at New Brunswick, N.J. it was the first collegiate football game.

The first income tax went into effect in 1913 as a "temporary" tax.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

"Texas has an astronomical fox population.

There are few places in the state where this familiar animal is not found. Gray fox predominate. But in a few places there are some red foxes.

Most people falsely believe the fox to be a real villain. They shoot every one in sight. Some counties even pay a bounty on each one killed.

Many times the fox gets blamed for something he didn't do. He is a handy scapegoat. He's charged with everything from a reduction in the quail population to a decline in wild turkeys.

But facts seldom convict the fox.

Consider, for example, an incident which happened in New York state in 1947. There was a drastic reduction in the state's pheasant population and hunters were looking for something to blame it on. Unfortunately the fox got caught in the crossfire between the politicians and the hunters. Since hunters can vote and foxes cannot, the politicians concluded that the matter needed some serious study.

Two areas were chosen. In one area all the foxes possible were eliminated. In the other area foxes were protected and actually pampered. Each area had a comparable pheasant population.

After the study it was concluded that fox control had no bearing whatsoever on pheasant numbers. Despite claims to the contrary the fox was an insignificant factor as far as pheasant survival was concerned.

Actually the fox does more good than harm. One naturalist who studied foxes for 35 years, through observation of dens, stomachs and droppings, concluded that their main food was mice.

In "The Mammals of Texas" (published by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department), Dr. William B. Davis points out that the stomach of 42 gray foxes in Texas were examined, and the winter diet consisted mainly of small mammals like mice and gophers (56 per cent), with the rest being composed of insects (23 per cent) and birds (21 per cent).

During the summer the fox's diet changed somewhat, with the bulk of it (30 per cent) being persimmons and acorns, followed by small mammals, insects and birds. In only one of the 42 stomachs examined was there evidence of domestic poultry and quail.

"Consequently, as judged from these analyses, the usual food habits of the gray fox do not conflict much with man's own economy," Dr. Davis concluded.

Despite man's efforts to eradicate it, the fox not only has survived, it actually has multiplied and expanded its range.

Much of this can be attributed to his adaptability. The fox can live under almost any conditions, and is clever enough to escape man's best efforts to do away with him.

SELF-SUFFICIENT, Crown Prince Carl Gustaf of Sweden prepares his own meal while on his last army maneuver before finishing military service.

RINGED TWIGGY appears thoughtful during London showing of her summer fashion collection. She modeled many of her creations.

Ernest Thompson Seton, the late American naturalist, wrote in 1910 of a remarkable fox that seemed to have unlimited stamina. His father's pack of fox hounds chased the fox over hill and dale. Soon the fox seemed to be ready to drop from exhaustion, but suddenly the fox was as spry as ever.

Finally it dawned on Seton and his companions that something was amiss. Every time the fox made a circle he went into a hollow log and out again. The hunters examined the log by banging on it. Out popped another fox.

The two foxes had been running in a relay. When one got tired he ran into the log and the fresh one scampered out the other side.

Based on such evidence of survival, it is no wonder that the fox still is with us!

Eskimos have broad facial features.

KENNETH DULLEY DIES

Kenneth Lee Dulley, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vic Dulley, died Wednesday at home following a short illness.

He was a graduate of Aransas County High School and Del Mar College.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a brother, V. K. Dulley of Rockport; and his paternal grandfather, A. V. Dulley, Sr., San Antonio, and other relatives.

Funeral Mass will be conducted at Sacred Heart Catholic Church at 7 p.m. today (Thursday), with the Rosary to be recited at 8:30 at Cagle-Marshall Chapel. On Friday at 10 a.m. Mass will be said at St. Ann's Catholic Church in San Antonio, with interment in San Fernando Cemetery in that city. Cagle-Marshall Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers, masses be offered for the repose of the soul of Kenneth.

The Intermediates and Young People of First Baptist Church and Bethel Baptist Mission, with their sponsors, journeyed to Leaky May 31 to attend a three day Youth Retreat at the H.E.B. Foundation Singing Hills Camp.

This is an annual event for the young people which is usually held the weekend after school is out. They enjoy the recreational activities as well as the spiritual blessings attained.

The theme for the Retreat was "I Have Decided to Follow Jesus." The camp director was Freddie Geese, assisted by Rev. Charles Faye.

The guest speaker was Rev. Jack Taylor of Castle Hills Baptist Church in San Antonio. Bob Ramsey, formerly employed at the Parks and Wildlife Division and now a rancher, gave an interesting talk on Indian relics and various plants and the animal life of the area.

On Saturday evening the young people presented a talent show under the direction of Dean Griffin.

Rev. Faye led in the Sunday morning worship service. J. O. Robertson, formerly of Rockport and now a resident of Hondo, led the music not

There were 98 people in attendance.

The Intermediates and Young People would like to thank all of those who were responsible for the preparation of the food, as well as those who sponsored this trip.

Bill Scott, the director of the H.E.B. Camp, with two members of the Camp staff attended several sessions with the group. He commended these young people very highly on their conduct during their stay and also the cleanliness of the camp after their departure.

Chester and Trixie Cox of Fulton have ridden in a parade each year for the past 25 years. They rode in their little red and yellow buggy in the June 1 parade sponsored by the Aransas County Riding Association.

The buggy was brought from Arkansas to Texas by a Baptist minister and sold to Jake May, former owner of the Fulton Mansion. Cox purchased the little buggy in 1958 for the Bee County Centennial.

Their participation in the Aransas County Riding Association parade through Rockport and Fulton marked the 10th year in succession that Mr. and Mrs. Cox have ridden in this particular buggy in a parade.

A crew from a Boston educational television station is in town shooting motion pictures for a 30-minute film being produced for National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) at Houston.

The film will depict how satellites now make it possible for accurate, long range forecasting, and how this science helps everyone by such services as tracking hurricanes to give people a chance to get out of their path.

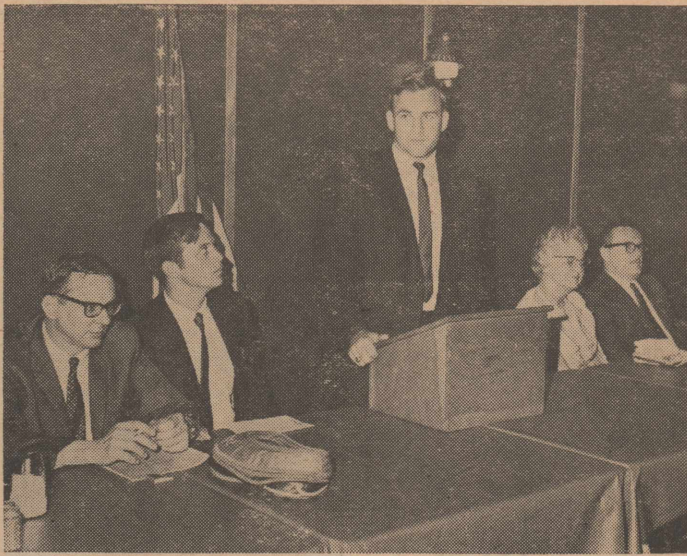

Some of the shots will be made in the Rockport area and some will be made in Corpus Christi.

The "stars" of the film will be Mrs. Peggy Bloomer, two of her children and Coach Benny Bloomer. After this experience, don't be surprised if the Bloomers wind up in Hollywood.

When the film is completed, NASA will make it available for showing by television stations, movie theaters and before clubs and other organizations throughout the nation.

Seafood Brochure Available Now

The title of the brochure is "Texas Seafood Recipes," but that doesn't tell the story.

The little foldout, compiled by the Seafood Marketing Section of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, has recipes all right, but the main attraction is the wealth of information on nutritive value, storage, cooking, and variety of fish.

There is information on how to thaw fish, and how to tell a good fish from a bad fish. From the brochure, housewives may learn how much to buy for a serving and how to tell fat fish from lean fish.

Seafood Marketing Specialist Bill Schwartz says the recipes included combine ease of preparation and variety.

Recipes include: Baked Flounder in Wine Sauce, Charcoal Grilled Red Snapper, Texas Fried Catfish, Baked Red

Snapper, Flounder with Crab Stuffing, Galveston Gumbo, Shrimp Creole, Southern Curried Shrimp Pizza, Gulf Coast Oyster Stew, Baked Oysters on the Half Shell, and Crab Canapés.

Sauces were not forgotten. There is a recipe for Sour Cream Stuffing, Crab Stuffing, and Hot Marmalade Soy Dip, included in the brochure. "Texas Seafood Recipes" may be obtained by writing, Texas Seafood Recipes, Seafood Marketing Section, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas, 78701.

Clyde J. Townsend, Jr., and family will leave for Champaign, Ill. June 14 to attend the University of Illinois for a three-month summer session. Clyde was awarded a National Science Foundation Fellowship.
