Man Walks 2,000 Miles To Serve Prison Term Only To Get A Parole

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 25. (AP)—The man who walked 2,000 miles so he could go to jail is free today.

More than a year ago, Admiral Walker wrote Joliet penitentiary authorities from California that he wanted to serve his term for the slaying of two men in a card game there several years before.

The Joliet police chief replied that it would be too expensive to send for Walker, but promised him a term if he would come back. Walker returned under his own power, and entered the prison.

Today he enjoyed liberty again, freed on parole.

Solons Bang Away At Measures With Unusual Speed

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 25.—The Texas legislature hammered away on important legislation today, bringing it into shape with a celerity that surprised many.

The house of representatives adopted a conference report on a bill intended to give temporary relief to persons whose taxes already are delinquent.

At the same time, the senate passed finally a house bill designed to provide a permanent policy for payment of all taxes, including those delinquent.

Brazos Bill Okayed

Previously, legislative action on a measure initiating a gigantic industrial and agricultural project on the Brazos river was completed.

By a vote of 110 to 6, the house adopted the conference committee report releasing penalties and interest on taxes delinquent on Aug. 1, 1934. This was the bill for which Representative W. E. Pope had battled.

It would make release mandatory on all political subdivisions providing taxes are paid before March 1, 1935. After March 1, 1935, release of penalties and interest would be optional with cities, towns and independents and special school districts, but still would be mandatory on state and county taxes.

Penalties Are Lowered

The bill would permit payment of delinquent taxes after March 1 with a penalty of two per cent until Sept. 30, 1935 and between Sept. 30, and Dec. 31, 1935, with a penalty of six per cent.

Senate leaders said the conference report would come up in the senate tomorrow and predicted it would be adopted with no great difficulty.

Acting on another tax measure, the senate passed, by a vote of 27 to two, a house bill setting up a permanent plan for paying taxes. The bill was house in name only, however, the text of a senate measure having been substituted. Both house and senate provisions called for a discount in return for prompt payment of taxes.

(By The Associated Press)

QUEBEC, Oct. 25. — J. Rosaire Bilodeau, former mail carrier who killed a postal official today as he ran amuck with a pistol in the Quebec post office, confessed tonight he had slain five relatives earlier in the day.

Police, with the ready assistance of Bilodeau, tonight found the bodies of three of the relatives, all women.

Others Are Sought

Search was continued through the night for the bodies of two young men, cousins, who Bilodeau admitted killing.

The dead:

Octave Fiset, city divisional superintendent of mails.

Marie Bilodeau, 63, sister of the former mail carrier.

Rosalie Bilodeau, 62, another sister.

Yvette Gauvin, 21, a cousin.

Their bodies were in the morgue tonight.

Bilodeau also admitted that he had killed two other cousins, Gaston and Fernand Gauvin, 20 and 18 years old.

Bodies Not Found

Their bodies had not been found, but the youths were missing from their homes and Bilodeau told police he had killed the young men with the same pistol he used in the murderous foray on the postoffice.

Police said that Bilodeau showed evidences of mental derangement, but seemed willing to cooperate in the search for bodies of his victims.

The three slain women were found in small patch of woods near St. Therese De Beauport.

Slippery Texas Outlaw Again Dodges Hand Of Law; Drives Away From Hideout As Cops Steal Up On Foot

(By The Associated Press)

TEXARKANA, Ark., Oct. 25. — Raymond Hamilton, notorious fugitive outlaw, was believed by officers of three states to have been the man who gave them the slip in a wooded section near Fouke, Ark., early today after they had closed in on a supposed hideout of the Texas escaped convict.

Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana officers were approaching the hideout on foot when they saw an automobile hurriedly leave the vicinity.

For several days officers had watched the section after reports that a man fitting Hamilton's description had been seen in the vicinity. A farmer identified Hamilton's picture as the man he had seen near Fouke during the last few days. Another viewed the desperado's picture and said he was the man who had represented himself as Hamiltons' half brother, asking him to purchase a machine gun for him.

Hamilton is reported to have been in the area for several days, obtaining meals from farmers and sleeping in an automobile.

VERNON, Oct. 25. (AP)—A housekeeper in the home of O. O. Tipton, Vernon business man for whose shooting Mrs. Annie Lankford is beng tried on murder charges, testified today to events which preceded the shooting.

Mrs. Lucy Price, 60, the housekeeper, said Mrs. Lankford came to the Tipton home late in the afternoon, "drunk as a Lord," and began undressing apparently intending to spend the night.

The housekeeper said she was asleep in an adjoining room when she heard a shot, then heard Tipton order Mrs. Lankford to give him the gun. She said Mrs. Lankford refused and screamed, "I'll kill you first," then another shot was fired. She said she rushed into Tipton's room and saw his body lying across te foot of the bed.

Third Major City Official Removed Here

Holland Gives Up Assessor's Post Thursday

Ed C. Young, Defeated Candidate For Commission During 1932, Appointed To Place In Speedy Action

Salary Is Pared

"There's $900 More Saved," Is Mayor's Remark; Order Calling For Hearing On Phone Rate Is Rescinded

REMOVAL of a third major city official since the new mayor and city commissioners took office in April marked the session of the commission at City Hall Thursday.

The ousted official was R. A. Holland, who had served as city tax assessor and collector for the past eight years.

Young Is Named

Less than five minutes after Mr. Holland's "at your request" resignation had been read by Mayor Rose Edwards, Ed C. Young, defeated commission candidate in the 1932 election and a candidate this year until a few days before the election, was named to fill the office.

Mr. Holland's resignation is to be effective November 1.

Following the commission meeting, he said he had been requested by Mayor Edwards to hand in his resignation. The request was made at 11:30 a. m. Thursday, two hours before the commission meeting.

Vote Is Unanimous

Mr. Young was named to the office upon motion by Commissioner A. J. Richardson and a second by Commissioner W. B. Price. The vote was unanimous. No other applicant for the post was considered, although each commissioner said he had received one or two other bids for the post.

Discussion regarding salary of the office preceded election of Mr. Young and on Richardson's motion the pay was placed at $150 a month. Mr. Holland had received $225. Evidence that Young's election was "cut and dried" was given when a commission member said $150 was acceptable to the new official. Bond for the office is to be reduced from $25,000 to $10,000.

"Well, there's $900 more saved," Mayor Edwards remarked after Young had been named to the post.

Milk Ordinance Passed

Other action of the commission during the afternoon included passage at a second reading of a standard milk ordinance providing for sale of Grade A milk only in the city, and rescinding of an order calling for a hearing with Southwestern Bell Telephone officials October 30 regarding rate reductions.

The order was rescinded by the commission after an agreement with telephone officials in which the company pledged to pay a one and one-half per cent of gross revenues on the local exchange as a fran-

Stockmen Honor Jones For Help In Great Crisis

AMARILLO, Oct. 25. (AP) — Congressman Marvin Jones ate barbecued beef on a cow ranch today and told plains country stockmen he liked "alphabet soup" better than the 1928-32 national ration.

In turn, over 2,000 ranchers and business men who gathered to honor Jones before he departs Monday to launch a Democratic party campaign in doubtful midwest states, endorsed the congressman for speaker of the house. Then a string band that had been rendering "Home-On-The-Range" pieces struck up "Happy Days Are Here Again."

The event, held on the Jack Hall ranch near here, was arranged by stockmen who said they wanted to pay tribute to Jones for fostering the emergency cattle buying program, which was described as "the one thing that saved cattlemen from ruin."

Man's Sobs For Mercy Fail To Move Jury; He Is Given Death Penalty

Daughter Of Victim Tells Of Finding Ice Pick In Mother's Hip; Screams Heard

(By The Associated Press)

BIG SPRING, Oct. 25.—W. R. Hildreth, 46-year-old automobile salesman, tonight was convicted and assessed the death penalty for the brutal ice-pick slaying of his wife, Docia, for which he suddenly had pleaded guilty after denying the accusation at his first arraignment.

Hildreth, who sobbed for mercy and told the court he was sorry, showed no visible signs of emotion when the jury reported its verdict after a two hour period of deliberation.

"I am sorry," Hildreth said in a choked voice as he pleaded guilty to the indictment charging him with his wife's murder. "I beg mercy of the court."

Hildreth previously had pleaded not guilty when arraigned.

"I heard three horrible screams," Mrs. Carlton Coburn, daughter of the victim and the state's star witness, said in relating the slaying. "I jumped up and ran to where my mother lived (next door). I met my father coming out of the back door. 'She's in there—she needs you,' he said."

The witness said she found her mother lying on the floor in the front room—the metal staff of an

Web Of Evidence Is Drawing Tighter About Hauptmann As State Reveals New Procedure

German Positively Identified By Jafsie; State To Contend Baby Was Brutally Slain In Crib And Carried Away

(By The Associated Press)

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 25. — The web of evidence encircling Bruno Richard Hauptmann tightened today with the disclosure that Dr. John F. Condon, the celebrated "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh kidnaping case, had positively identified the German carpenter as the man to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom money.

Another startling development followed this by a few hours, an authoritative source revealing that the state of New Jersey will contend in the trial of the one-time machine gunner that baby Lindbergh was brutally slain in his crib the night of March 1, 1932.

Carried Down Ladder

The state, it was learned, will contend that the infant's body then was carried down the ladder by which the kidnaper gained access to the second-story nursery of the Lindbergh home at Hopewell and buried in a shallow grave two miles away.

Whether the prosecution has some carefully guarded evidence to support this contention the golden-haired child was killed as he slept could not be ascertained. Informed sources declined to disclose if the baby's crib was bloodstained or if

Legion Urges Cash Payment Of The Bonus

Frank Belgrano, San Francisco Banker, Chosen As National Commander; He Will Direct Coming Campaign

Refund Is Asked

Other Business Is Transacted By Convention; Recognition Of Russia Rapped; Clemency To Bergdoll Opposed

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 25.—The American Legion today called upon the government for immediate cash payment of the adjusted service (bonus) certificates as a "most effective means" of hastening national economic recovery.

Frank Belgrano, San Francisco banker, was chosen 1935 national commander, succeeding Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, Ill. He will direct the Legion's campaign to obtain the bonus at the next session of congress.

Senate Has Refused

The senate has refused in the last two years to authorize payment of the bonus, although the house has twice voted for the measure. Because of the senate stand, administration chieftains in Washington believe a veto would be upheld even should the bonus be passed by congress.

Fulfillment of the convention's "recommendation" would entail disbursement from the federal treasury of about $2,000,000,000, but this, the Legion held, "will not create an additional debt, but will discharge and retire an acknowledged contract obligation of the government."

Refund Is Asked

The convention, in its closing business session of the sixteenth annual meeting, also asked cancellation of interest charged against the certificates for loans already made to veterans, and a refund of collections made on this account.

This would save certificate holders an estimated $1,000,000,000 although much of this would be but a bookkeeping loss for the government, and not a cash outlay.

With scattered boos directed at state delegations which opposed the action, the Legion voted for the bonus resolution 987 to 183, as thundering cheers re-echoed through the convention hall.

Results Are Cited

The legion claimed immediate cash payment would do these things:

1. Increase tremendously the purchasing power of millions of the consuming public, distributed uniformly throughout the nation,

2. Provide relief for the holders of certificates who are in "dire need and distress" because of the present

Political Dispute Settled In The Old-Fashioned Way

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25 (AP) — United States Senator John H. Overton and Burt W. Henry, socially prominent attorney, settled a political dispute in the old-fashioned way today when they tied up in a one-round fist fight in the crowded lobby of the Roosevelt hotel.

Overton, senate colleague and political ally of Huey P. Long, and Henry, vigorous anti-Long leader, pummeled each other for nearly three minutes before bellboys stopped the fight.

The finish found Overton bleeding from a cut over his right eye and marked by a cut and a swollen upper lip, a "strawberry" on his chin and well-defined bruises under each eye. Henry was unmarked.

Rumors Of Withdrawals, Claim Of Farley Endorsement And Asserted Plots All Hurled Into Torrid Campaign

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25. — A purported endorsement of Upton Sinclair by James A. Farley, postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic national committee, added fire tonight to a California governorship campaign already buzzing with rumors of withdrawals and asserted plots.

Farley previously had not commented publicly upon the candidacy of Sinclair against that of Frank F. Merriam, Republican incumbent, although Sinclair was welcomed to Washington shortly after his nomination on a platform designed to "end poverty in California."

Endorsement Released

Sinclair headquarters in Los Angeles released a photostatic copy of a written endorsement purportedly signed by Farley.

Although the name of the addressee had been removed from the photostat—"to relieve him from embarrassment," Sinclair headquarters said—the words "president of the Associated Democratic Club of Whittier, Calif.", had not.

The president of that organization was said by Democratic leaders here to be Eugene Troskey, who also was reported to be an employe of the Auto Club of Southern California. The Auto Club said Troskey "no longer is connected with this organization," and he could not be reached elsewhere.

Rube Borough, editor of Sinclair's "Epic News," declared Sinclair

Kidnapers Take Boy; Will Give Him Good Home

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 25. (AP) — Russell Counsel, 5-year-old schoolboy en route home for dinner, was kidnaped at noon today by two men in an automobile as police said, they failed in an attempt to also abduct their victim's brother.

Police were unable to say whether the kidnaping was done for ransom or to spite the boy's mother, Mrs. Alberta Counsel.

A note, delivered to her about an hour after the abduction by a messenger boy, said the signer "loved the boy as if he were his own" and "didn't like the way he was being cared for." Police Sergeant Clarence Peterson also said the note declared the kidnaper was going to provide a good home for the child and would give him a good education.

Group Swears To Starve Or Obtain Relief

"In Desperation We Come To You," Petition Handed To Governor Reads; Peaceful Death Only Request

Appeals Refused

Several Women And One Three-Year-Old Child Included In Group; No Violence Or Resistance Planned

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 25. — A group of hungry men and women picketed the capitol of Texas today, swearing they would starve to death unless their demands for government relief were granted.

They called themselves "the starving hordes of Travis county," the county in which the capitol is located, and demanded rectification of alleged injustices from state relief agencies.

Come In Desperation

"In desperation we come to you," a petition to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson read. "All we ask is to be allowed to peacefully starve to death in the corridors of the state house."

Specifically the complaint was directed against the relief administration of Travis county and indirectly against the legislature, now in session, and the state relief administration.

Leaders claimed county officials recently cut 1,700 persons, including those on the hunger strike, from relief rolls. Many of these persons, they asserted, were entirely destitute.

Heartlessly Refused Aid

"We have appealed to the Travis county relief administration and have been heartlessly refused aid," the petition to the governor continued. "We have taken our just cause to the Texas relief administration and the board of control, but they have ruthlessly ignored us.

"From then we have gone, by peaceful petition, to the legislature now in session only to have our cries for food indefinitely postponed."

About forty persons began the hunger strike at 9 a. m., leaders said, including a dozen women, one of whom had a little girl, about three years old with her. Throughout the

WHAT are your earliest recollections? Clark Gable's, according to an article in a press book, are of a hen lost in a blinding snowstorm and of his grandmother stirring a kettle of soup. An impression that we can't forget is a switching that we got because we ran away from home when we lived at Shafter Lake. With our little dress making a bolt on the prairie landscape, we were easily spied by our father, whose keen eyes also picked out a mesquite switch to aid him in creating the impression.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

NO word rising out of the night club era is harder to define or has more possible meanings than "torch singer." No two persons think of it as being the same thing. We took a hasty survey down here.

One reporter thought of it as being a woman who "burns you up with her songs." Another said it is "a dame who is all burned up." One said it is a song to be sung at night. Still another thought it was a song that "should be moaned low."

Libby Holman was the first singer of torch songs to be called such. "Eadie Was a Lady" is supposed to be an example. Perhaps the song, "I've Got to Sing a Torch Song," is another. We won't lose any sleep worrying over the definition but wish we understood more what it really means.

MORE life insurance policies and annuities should be sold after the book, "The Years Are So Long," by Josephine Lawrence has been read. No book in recent years has given us such a let down feeling. AS THIS perfect autumn day draws to a close we have just talked with Miss Margaret Weeks, dean of the division of home economics at Tech college. Who could say that this nature of the prairies is monotonous? Changing clouds and splashy sunsets, if nothing more, keep them from being the same at any time.

WHY aren't the pumpkins as yellow as they used to be? Do you think they are? MODERN MARCIA RIDES THE TRAIN OF TOMORROW AND DISCOVERS A THRILLING NEW COFFEE, TOO!

WHY THIS RARE MOUNTAIN COFFEE GIVES YOU RICHER TANG AND FLAVOR

Really DIFFERENT from Any Other Coffee Known!

THERE'S no mystery about coffee. There are many grades of coffee just as there are many grades of silverware. The cheaper coffee comes from the lowlands. And the richer-flavored coffees come from high up in the mountains.

Because Folger's is real mountain coffee—it is deliciously different from the lowland coffees used in ordinary brands. Folger's is grown on tiny plantations high up in the mountains—where clear, bright sunshine, steaming tropical rains, and an odd type of volcanic soil combine to give coffee a rare winy tang and extra rich flavor that makes ordinary coffee taste thin and flat by comparison.

Experts know this. And they'll tell you there's no way of roasting or packaging coffee that can bring out flavor that nature didn't put there in the first place! Delicious tang and flavor has to be grown in—as it is in Folger's!

It may be news to you—but you can easily afford to serve this finer coffee in your home. For even though you may pay a few pennies more per pound for Folger's—it's so much richer in flavor that you can use ¼th less! That means you get more cups—and after all, that's the way to figure a coffee's cost—by its price per cup.

Folger's fresh mountain flavor is especially appealing to men! This coffee is served in the dining cars of 10 great railroads; in many of the finest hotels and clubs where men's tastes are catered to! Order Folger's for your home today!

TO GET BETTER DRIP COFFEE—Use FOLGER'S DRIP GRIND—Vacuum-Packed! You can't get best results by using cheap coffee or the wrong granulation. Folger's Drip Grind is the same mountain coffee—scientifically granulated for use in dripmakers or vacuum coffee makers. It's more economical, and gives a richer, fuller flavor.

Control Bill Is To Be Introduced

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 25 (AP)—A $50,000,000 flood control bill will be introduced in the next congress by Rep. Wesley Disney (D-Okla) of Tulsa.

Representative Disney announced today he would ask the appropriation for water improvements and flood prevention work in seven states and creation of the Arkansas valley authority.

"Army engineers are ready to approve the entire plan," Disney said. "All we have to prove is that there is a market for the water and water power that would serve a double purpose, along with prevention of floods.

"President Roosevelt seems to favor flood control work in his 50-year plan above all other types of permanent improvements."

States included in Disney's plan are Oklahoma, Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Texas, Missouri and New Mexico.

Administration Prepares To Resist Drive For Immediate Payment Of Bonu

Bitter Fight Now Forecast

No Comment Forthcoming From White House But It Is Recalled That FDR Promised Veto Last Session

By MAX BOYD
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—The administration prepared today to resist a drive for cash payment of the soldiers' bonus that is sure to mark the coming session of congress.

At the White House there was no comment forthcoming on the American Legion's vote for the bonus today but it was recalled that President Roosevelt spoke in unmistakable terms against immediate payment of the adjusted service certificates in dedicating the veterans' hospital at Roanoke, Va., last week.

Estimate Is Given

Preparing to attack, the veterans administration put together an estimate that it would cost $2,506,000,000 to meet the Legion's demand.

That the president would veto an immediate cash payment bill is certain. When the issue was before congress last spring, the chief executive sent word to Democratic leaders that he would use his veto power if it reached the White House. Although it passed the house, the bonus bill died in the senate.

Many observers here believe that the action of the Legion in demanding not only cash payment but cancellation of interest on loans made on certificates enhances the possibility that congress will approve the proposal. Virtually all felt, however, that in the event of a veto, the senate, if not the house, would sustain the president's position. It requires a two-thirds majority to override a presidential veto.

Get Only A Part

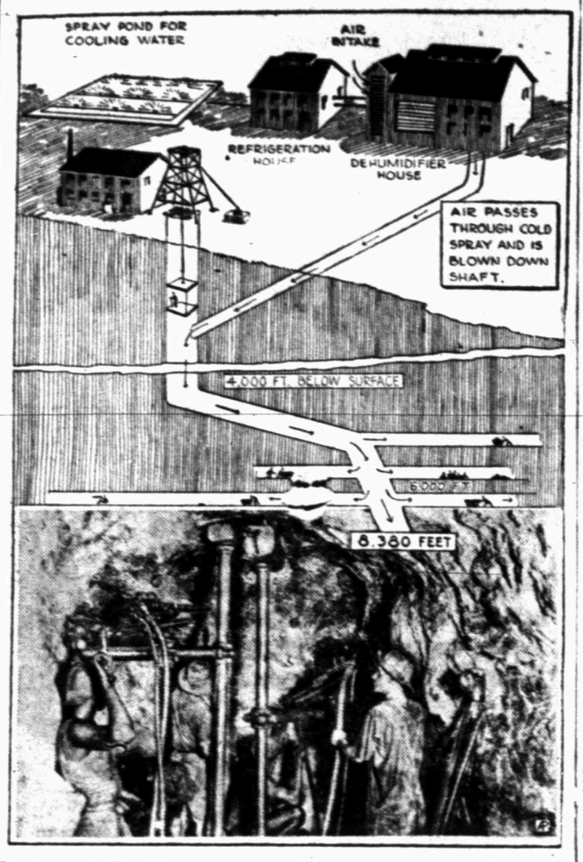

Should the Legion's program become law, veterans administration officials said, the ex-soldiers would receive about $2,006,000,000 of the two and a half billion outlay. The remainder would go to repay money advanced by the government to the life insurance fund and banks for bonus loans.

Cancellation of interest charges on advances made under the fifty percent loan act, as proposed by the Legion, would add $206,000,000 to the cost of paying the bonus now. Only $1,230,000 of this interest has been paid. This would be refunded under the Legion plan. Veterans already have received about $1,800,000,000 in loans and certificates.

About $118,000,000 is available, officials said, in the government's bonus fund. The balance of the money required to pay the bonus and interest claims would have to be appropriated by congress.

Ten Deputies Guard Adam Richetti In Condemned Jail

LISBON, O., Oct. 25. (AP)—While 10 deputies armed with repeating rifles guarded Adam Richetti in the 95-year-old county jail here today, police throughout Columbiana county kept a close watch for an automobile containing four men and two machine guns reported seen in Wellsville and East Liverpool last night.

Fear was expressed the strangers might be friends of Richetti and his notorious companion, Charles Arthur (Pretty Boy) Floyd, who was slain by federal agents Monday afternoon.

Another Is Sought

Police Chief John H. Fultz of Wellsville, who captured Richetti and refused to yield him to department of justice operatives, said he believes another gangster may have been with Floyd and Richetti before the pair engaged in a gun battle with the chief Saturday.

"Richetti said they came here on a truck from Toledo," the chief said, "but I think they were waiting for somebody who had their automobile."

Richetti was visited today in his cell by a woman who said she was Mrs. Nancy Hudson of Fort Wayne, Ind. She arrived in East Liverpool last night by taxicab from Alliance, O., and asked to view Floyd's body, only to be told it had been shipped to Oklahoma.

Is Seeking Son

She explained today after talking to Richetti that she was seeking her 26-year-old son who has been missing from her home for years. The grayhaired woman said she thought Floyd or Richetti might be her boy. Richetti told her he knew nothing of Floyd's past history except that he came from Oklahoma.

Prosecutor George Lafferty, Sheriff Frank Ballantine and Chief Fultz reiterated today that Richetti would be turned over to Columbia, Mo., officers on a murder charge as soon as the officers arrive with the proper papers.

Major L. M. Means of the Missouri state highway patrol is expected here tomorrow to claim the prisoner. It is possible, however, that he may have to go to Columbus first to obtain an extradition order from Governor George White.

With the close of cattle purchasing as a drouth relief measure, a total of 12,442 head of cattle has been purchased in Lubbock county, R. N. McClain, assistant county agent, said last night. He estimates and average price of $10 a head, bringing the total money to be received to approximately $125,000.

At the same time, records kept of purchases show but 11,173 head purchased. Of this number, 6,376 were condemned by inspectors and killed on the farms, and 4,797 head were shipped out of the county or to the local canning plant. Purchases were from 1,595 farms.

Checks received recently, the first in three weeks, added several hundred dollars, bringing the total to $81,618. There are estimated to be between 450 and 500 or more checks outstanding.

ECONOMY NUMBER 2. Phillips 66 is genuinely high anti-knock, without the faintest ping on hard pulls or hills. That used to cost a premium, too. Now you pay nothing extra for the extra anti-knock quality added by Lead Tetraethyl.

And changeable weather can't affect this all-round improved performance, because CONTROLLED VOLATILITY matches Phillips 66 to your location and climate in advance. Remember, Phillips originated this scientific process of "custom tailoring" gasoline.

Lottery Plan Being Opposed

New York Project Draws Fire Of Churches; History Of Lottery Dates Back To Days Of The Colonies

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. (AP) — It's been given a fancy name and new airs but it's still a lottery so far as the opposition to New York City's proposed "Municipal Supplemental Relief Association" is concerned.

The Greater New York Federation of Churches voted a condemnation of this plan to raise revenue for relief purposes. The president of the Board of Trade said the moral sense of the community was shocked. Even Mayor LaGuardia doubted the legal status of the project, which has passed the board of aldermen and the board of estimate.

MAYOR VETOES

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia vetoed today a bill which has caused more uproar in New York than any other municipal proposal in years—the measure providing for a city lottery.

His objections to such a scheme for raising funds for unemployment relief were the lawyer's objections and not those of the city clergymen.

Without discussing moral grounds, the mayor vetoed the bill because he doubted its legality.

Shares At $2.50

Borough President J. J. Lyons of the Bronx, its sponsor, said it is not "properly" a lottery. His plan is to sell shares at $2.50 each in the MSRA. Twelve trustees would be appointed by the mayor to serve without pay. There would be a hundred or so "officers" who would be paid generous "salaries" as the method of distributing prizes.

These officers would be members of the association, their names to be picked from a jury wheel, such as those used for selection of jurors. Not more than 44 per cent of funds collected would go to the officers. Expenses would not exceed 12 per cent, the remainder going into relief coffers.

Old Game In U. S.

A court test seems inevitable. "Is it—or is it not—a lottery?" That is what will have to be determined.

As a game in the United States, the lottery is very, very old, and it had some illustrious colonial dabblers before it became strictly taboo. Practically every state has a law or constitutional provision against lotteries, and the federal government has post office, interstate commerce and tariff laws against them.

Lotteries originated in Greece and Rome, and today some foreign countries conduct them to bolster railroads, arts, museums and to fill their treasuries.

The lottery in America goes back to 1612, when King James authorized lotteries to finance and supply the Virginia colonists.

One of the first lottery notices appeared in Philadelphia in 1720. The colonists used lotteries to build churches, schools, roads, wharves, glass factories and other industries, lighthouses, bridges, canals and to encourage such agricultural projects as grape growing. In 1761 the largest number of lotteries in Philadelphia was for ecclesiastic projects.

Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth and Brown were among early colleges partially supported by state-authorized lotteries.

In 1748 Benjamin Franklin and others organized a lottery to erect a battery of cannon on the Delaware to protect the colonists.

Washington subscribed to many lotteries, including one to save the Col. William Byrd estate in Virginia, and another to build the Cumberland mountain road.

When Thomas Jefferson was 83 years old, Virginia authorized a lottery to save his Monticello estate from debt, but he died before the lottery could be held.

Faneuil Hall in Boston was built from lottery receipts.

Although there have been many state lotteries, the national government has held only three. The Continental congress in 1776 authorized a lottery to pay the army. Massachusetts did the same.

In 1793 a lottery to raise $350,000 for public buildings in the new national capital, with "one superb hotel" worth $50,000 as the first prize, was held. Maryland also held a lottery to build a canal and drain swamps about the new capital. Approved by congress and by President Madison in 1812, it was advertised as a "national lottery."

But abuses, frauds and appeals to the credulous led to formation of the Pennsylvania society for the suppression of lotteries as early as 1833 and the enactment of a steady procession of restrictive laws. The Union canal company, chartered in Pennsylvania in 1811, which issued lottery tickets priced at $21,000,000 by 1831, was one of the early scandals. "The Kentucky state lottery," a private company which in 1877 conducted a lottery based on a charter issued for municipal improvements in 1838, was a later one.

Last stronghold of the lottery was Louisiana, where the Louisiana state lottery company began in 1868 paying $40,000 annually to the state for the lottery monopoly. According to its own books it sold $4,000,000 worth of tickets a year and made profits of more than $800,000 in its best years. It flourished until 1890 when its new charter for 25 years, in which it agreed to pay $1,250,000 a year to the state, was vetoed by the governor.

The Spanish lottery, one of the most famous, goes back in its present form to 1811. Estimated lottery receipts in the 1932-33 budget amounted to 420 million pesetas out of a total of four and one-half billion pesetas estimated as total budget receipts.

French lotteries which flourished in the time of Louis XIV were suppressed, revived by Napoleon, and suppressed again. Last year they were revived for the purpose of keeping up payments to war veterans.

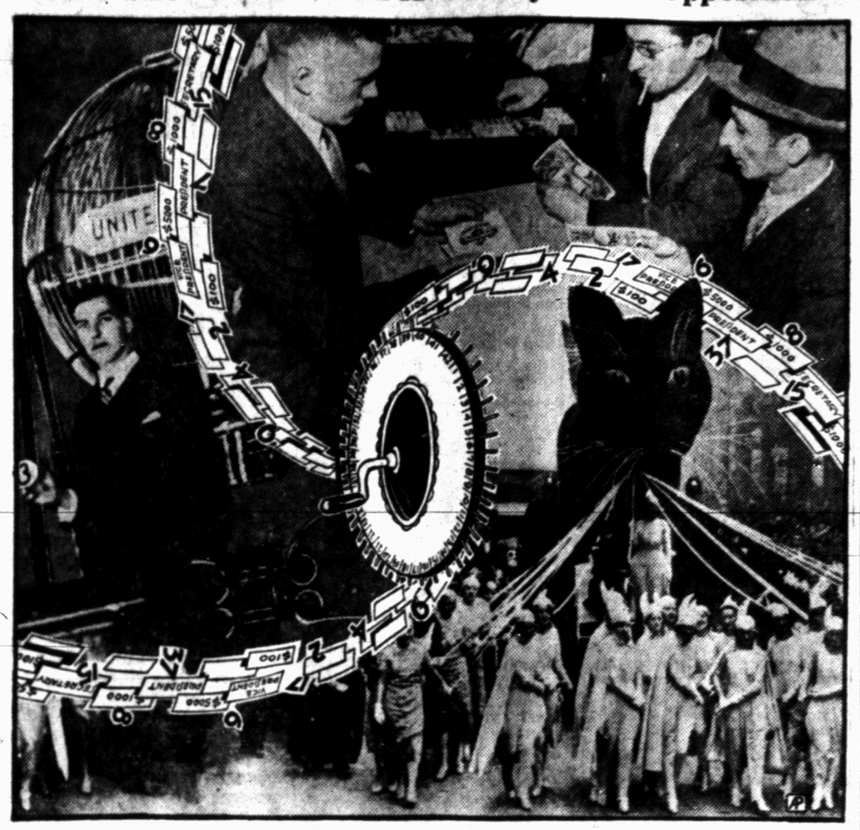

Out of the operation of its lottery the Italian treasury has realized a net average income in recent years of 280,000,000 lira annually, and devotes its funds largely to the navy.

Legalized lotteries are conducted by German states. Turkey devotes lottery funds to aviation. Sweden to drama, music and art.

The Cuban national lottery was created in 1909. Most South American and Central American countries have them.

Belgium, Holland and Australia are among other countries having lotteries. The queerly lettered lottery tickets of the Chinese government have made their appearance in California.

New Name—But It's Still A Lottery To The Opposition

It's like reporting for jury duty, but you pay $2.50 for the privilege instead of having the state pay you, and instead of conferring on the merits of The People vs. John Doe you just hope your name will come out of the wheel, and with it a fortune. That's the way the proposed New York City lottery, with which it is hoped to raise funds for the needy, is expected to operate. The man on the left has just drawn a number during a rehearsal of the draw in the French national lottery, and the two "fortune hunters" on the right are purchasing tickets for it. The big black cat figured in a Dublin procession attendant upon the drawings in the Irish Free State sweep on the Grand National.

Jap Proposal Unacceptable

Full Outline Of Naval Plan Offered By Japan Will Be Asked; Measure Too Vague For Acceptance

LONDON, Oct. 25. (AP)—The British and American delegates to the preliminary naval conversations were reported authoritatively today, following a meeting at the prime minister's residence, to have decided that the general proposals of Japan were unacceptable.

The representatives of the two Anglo-Saxon nations were said to have agreed to ask for a full outline of the complete technical plan which Japan wants to use as a basis for a new naval treaty.

The two delegates did not reject the plea for equality in principle outright but it was said that they agreed that the plan still was too vague for acceptance, pending full information from the Japanese. It was expected that this request would be conveyed privately to the Japanese before the British-Japanese meeting tomorrow.

An authority said that this action could not be regarded as a threat to end the conversations and that all the Americans and British want is a complete explanation of what equality in principle means to the Japanese, what the Japanese mean by a maximum level of tonnage to replace the ratio system, and just what the Japanese consider "offensive" ships.

The interchange of views took place after Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald personally telephoned Norman Davis, the United States ambassador at large. Davis took Roy Atherton, counsellor of the United States embassy, with him and they met MacDonald and Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, in the prime minister's office.

Which Is Which—We Ask!

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go.

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Let's find out why Turkish tobacco is so important to a good cigarette

Native tobacco grower telling American tourists how Turkish tobacco is cured.

On the sunny slopes of Smyrna..in the fertile fields of Macedonia..along the shores of the Black Sea..grows a kind of tobacco that is different from any other tobacco in the world.

THESE Turkish tobaccos are the only tobaccos of foreign cultivation that are used to any great extent in making American cigarettes.

Turkish tobaccos are famous for their spicy aroma, and a blend of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco with our own home-grown tobaccos is better than any one kind used alone.

In Chesterfield we balance mild, ripe tobaccos grown in this country with just the right amounts of the right kinds of Turkish.

It is by blending and cross-blending these different tobaccos that we make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.

Turkish tobacco hung in the open air to be cured.

Vigorous Blows Directed From Washington And London Against Oil Policy

Pacific Area Is Aggravated

Violation Of The Nine-Power Treaty Charged; Japan Now Seeks Absolute Control Of Oil In Manchuria

By LLOYD A. LEHRBAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—Vigorous blows were directed from Washington and London today against Japan's plan to establish strict governmental control over the oil business in that country and its sponsored empire of Manchoukuo.

As Great Britain followed the American representation with a protest against any Manchoukuan petroleum monopoly, it became apparent that oil—fuel for warships as well as industry—is aggravating rather than smoothing the troubled Pacific.

Netherlands Acts

The Netherlands were reported authoritiatively here to have acted along similar lines. Although the representations were worded much alike, it was imphasized here that the three actions were not concerted. Both the London and Washington governments claimed a violation of the nine-power treaty.

Joseph C. Grew, American ambassador to Tokyo, was reported today to have made a series of representations to the foreign office against the Japanese plan. He objected against two separate proposals, each of which, however, dovetails into the other. They are:

Gives Strict Control

1. Japan's petroleum industry control law, which gives the Japanese government strict control of all oil business in Japan to the detriment of Standard company of New Jersey and other American oil firms.

2. Manchoukuo's proposal to establish a government oil monopoly which virtually will put the Standard Oil Co. of New York, the Texas Co., and other foreign oil companies out of business in that new Asiatic state.

Grew's representations on the Manchokuan count, like those from London, claimed directly a violation of section three of the nine-power treaty, which pledges equality of treatment for nationals of all countries in the far east. He contended the act would slam shut the traditional "open door."

Have Sole Right

Under the monopoly proposal the Manchuria Oil company, owned by Japanese interests, would have the sole right to sell and distribute oil and petroleum products in Manchoukuo.

The new oil law in Japan would require all foreign petroleum companies to keep a six months supply on hand in huge storage tanks. The law states that the Japanese government could confiscate this supply in case of an emergency.

Japan's action in placing the oil business under governmental control is considered by observers here as of special significance in view of the implied Japanese threat to walk out of the preliminary naval discussions in London.

Some Nipponese spokesmen have indicated that country would abrogate the Washington and London limitation treaties, and build a navy of any size it deems necessary for its defense, unless Great Britain and the United States grant it equality in naval power.

Import All Oil

Japan is forced to import practically all the oil it consumes. A majority of the Japanese navy vessels and a large number of Japanese merchantmen are oil burners.

The Japanese government was reported reliably to have stored a huge emergency pool of oil in underground "tank farms" near Yokohama, which was lost when the earthquake of 1923 shook the Japanese empire. Japan, since that time, has been reported on numerous occasions as building up an enormous supply of oil for use in any emergency.

American and other foreign oil companies now have large investments in property, plants and equipment in Manchoukuo which would be virtually wiped out under the monopoly plan. They have protested strenuously to the state department. In addition, the foreign firms assert, they would lose the profitable trade they have built up over a period of years.

The "open door" policy has given nationals of all nations equality in commercial affairs in Manchuria and it is privately feared by some officials here that establishment of an oil monopoly would be only the first of a chain of monopolies which eventually would place all Manchoukuoan business entirely in Japanese hands.

Prisoner Takes Fuel From Water

Behind the bars of his cell in Folsom prison, Cal., James F. Burke has developed a process by which he claims to extract hydrogen from water in large volume at low cost. Such an invention, experts say, would mean a revolutionary advance in fuel. Burke claims automobiles could be driven by hydrogen for a half cent an hour, and airplanes for five cents.

Former Mayor Gets A Pardon

G. C. Butler Exonerated In Swindling Case After Being Given Two-Year Sentence In State Penitentiary

AUSTIN, Oct. 25 (AP) — G. C. Butler, former mayor of Albany, has been pardoned by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson from a conviction of swindling. He was sentenced to two years.

Behind the pardon lies a dual story of a wife's sacrifice and doubt of the man's guilt.

Received Commission

In 1929, petitions to the governor assert, Butler, a prominent druggist, interested other prominent men of Albany in purchasing sale rights for a luminous gas advertising sign. The others paid $9,000 for the rights. Butler received $1,000 commission.

But the signs didn't sell and it developed two promotors had failed to receive a charter for the company.

The men sued Butler and obtained a $9,750 judgment in December, 1929. Subsequently Butler and the two promoters were indicted in Shackelford county of swindling. Tried in Taylor county, they were convicted and sentenced to two years.

Others Pardoned

The two others served a short time and were pardoned. Butler, so Mrs. Butler stated in a petition, left the United States April 16, 1930.

Butler's property other than the homestead failed to satisfy the judgment. Mrs. Butler offered to sacrifice that, if all parties concerned would petition the governor for a pardon.

The agreement was perfected.

Seven jurors, expressing doubt of Butler's guilt, joined with numerous others in recommending a pardon.

The pardon was recorded yesterday.

Another Man Is Implicated In Torch Murder; More Facts Being Revealed

Actual Slayer Denies Count

Real Estate Dealer Says That Another Man Was Obtained To Help In Murder Of Step-Son For Insurance

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 25. (AP)—Authorities said today Rufus S. Edwards, 37-year-old Thayer, Mo., real estate dealer and politician, had implicated "Ike" Dawson in the insurance "torch murder" last July of Edwards' stepson, Oscar Bushart, 27.

Highway Patrolman O. L. Willis quoted Edwards as saying that Job (Luck) Braden, 35, the alleged actual slayer of Bushart, "tried to get another man to help, but the man left town."

Was Not To Know

"Finally," the purported statement continued, "he (Braden) came and told me Dawson would help. Dawson was not to know that I was in on it."

Asked why he had not implicated Dawson before, Edwards was quoted as saying: "Well, I thought I'd give Braden a chance to spill it. It might have helped him."

Braden steadfastly has denied that Dawson had any connection with the slaying of Bushart.

Is Held In Jail

Edwards, a former Arkansas convict, who was arrested early this week after his wife had accused him in three mysterious slayings, is held in the Butler county jail here for safekeeping. Braden and Dawson are held at Alton, Oregon county. Braden also is a former Arkansas convict.

Officer Willis said Edwards continued to admit that he hired Braden to kill Bushart in an effort to collect insurance, but denied any connection with the slaying of Albert Johnson, near Mt. Vernon, Ind., three years ago, and the more recent slaying of Clinton Claibourne, near Calico Park, Ark. Mrs. Edwards, who told officers she feared she was next on her husband's "murder list," has accused him in both slayings.

Bushart's charred body was found in an automobile near Thayer last July.

Further Probe In Murders Launched

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 25. (AP)—The federal grand jury investigating the union station plaza slayings here June 17, 1933, delved deeper into the crime today after accusing eight persons of conspiracy in a plot to deliver Frank Nash, a gangster, from officers.

Those named in an indictment returned yesterday allegedly engaged in a series of telephone conversations that led to the plan to rescue Nash and finally to the slaughter of four officers and the prisoner.

They were: Louis Stacci, night club operator of Melrose Park, Ill.; Mrs. Frances Nash, widow of the gangster; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tallman Galatas, Hot Springs, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen Farmer, Joplin, Mo.; Frank H. (Fritz) Mully, Kansas City, and Vivian Mathias, alias Mrs. Verne C. Miller, Chicago.

The government charges that Stacci ordered the attempt to free Nash after his capture at Hot Springs, Ark., and that Verne C. Miller, Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd and Adam Richetti went to the union station here to rescue the federal prisoner.

INJURED SERIOUSLY

COLORADO, Tex., Oct. 25 (AP) — Ross Hargrove of Colorado was injured seriously today when an eastbound passenger train struck and demolished his truck at a grade crossing near the freight depot here.

YOUR GROCER WILL HELP YOU KEEP HEALTHY AND HAPPY

Delicious Cereal Promotes Regular Habits

The right kinds of foods form the very basis of health. You need nourishment for strength and energy. And you need "bulk" to prevent common constipation.

Otherwise, this ailment may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy. You can correct it, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN adds generous "bulk" to your daily menu. Tests show this "bulk" is similar to that found in leafy vegetables.

Inside the body, the fiber of ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

ALL-BRAN is also a good source of vitamin B and iron.

Isn't it safer—and pleasanter—to enjoy this food in place of taking patent medicines?

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will overcome most types of common constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or cook into fluffy muffins and breads.

Remember, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is all bran with only necessary flavoring added. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Marlboro Corps Defends Title

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 25. (AP)—On a flood-lighted gridiron here, the plumed and belted Marlboro, Mass., drum and bugle corps successfully defended its 1933 title last night against the challenge of 11 other crack squads of the American Legion.

Before a convention crowd estimated at 20,000, the 48-man champion corps marched and countermarched with machine-like precision.

The team was garbed in blue coats, red breeches, red cadet caps with red plumes and white double Sam Browne belts. The Massachusetts squad garnered 94.150 points from a possible 100.

Other drum corps which competed in the qualifying round, but failed to reach the finals, and their score, included: Port Arthur, Texas, 89.57.

Nobel Prize For Medicine Divided Among Americans

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 25. (AP)—The Nobel prize in medicine today was divided among three citizens of the United States—Dr. George Minot and Dr. William P. Murphy of Harvard medical school, and Dr. George H. Whipple of the University of Rochester.

The three scientists are noted for their research into the treatment of anemia.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . . Vigor . . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

Wings of the Morning!
Good coffee—man's morning friend—warm and fragrant as her greeting.

A tip to coffee lovers. Whatever the method you use (Drip or Percolator), buy a coffee prepared for that method. It's important. Here's why. In a Drip Maker, boiling water drips only once through a coffee prepared to yield its flavor quickly. In a Percolator, water passes many times through a coffee prepared to yield its flavor slowly. No coffee should try to serve both methods. "A Jack of all trades is master of none." There are two Schilling Coffees—one for Drip—one for Percolator.

Fifty Members Of House Sign A Bill To Establish A Separate Commission

AUSTIN, Oct. 25. (AP)—Representative Jesse James of Cameron said today fifty members of the house had signed a bill to establish a separate commission to supervise the production of oil, Texas' greatest industry.

James said he planned to present the governor with a petition signed by house members requesting submission of the subject at this special session. James said he believed chances for submission were good and that he had received numerous letters, telephone calls and telegrams urging him to seek passage of the bill.

The bill would strip the Texas railroad commission of its power to regulate oil and gas.

Have Three Members

The new commission would be composed of three members, one to be appointed by the governor, one by the lieutenant governor and one by the speaker of the house. One would be a petroleum engineer, one an attorney and the third a business man. They would be paid $6,000 annually.

Duties of the board for mineral development of state land would be assigned the new commission but it would not take over the functions of the board of water engineers and the reclamation board as previously contemplated.

An additional tax of one fourth of one cent per barrel of oil produced would be levied to provide funds for the commission to enforce its orders.

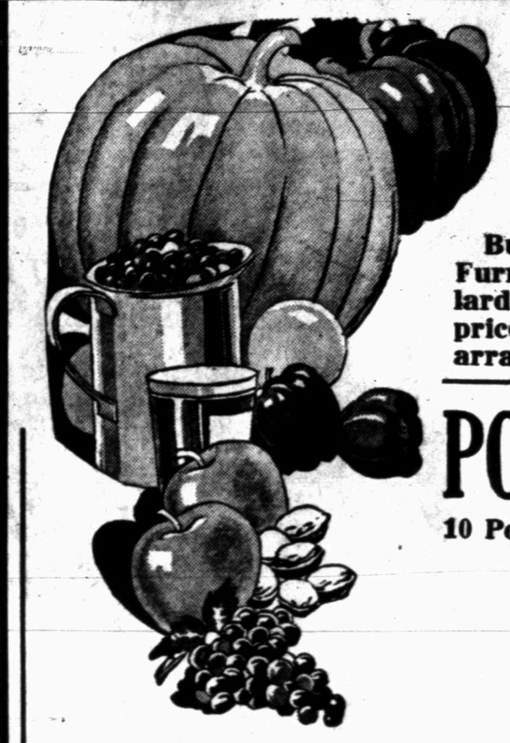

Among the states, New Mexico has the highest birth rate.

Pension Plan Gets Support

Townsend Proposal Would Give $200 A Month To All Over 60 With Mandate To Spend It Every Bit

LONG BEATCH, Cal., Oct. 25. (AP) An organized clamor for a pension plan which would give $200 a month to people over 60 with a mandate to spend it all has been attuned to vibrate on congressional ear drums at the next session. Officially known as "Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd.," it is commonly called the Townsend pension plan.

More than a thousand clubs have been formed to support it, its supporters say, and every state has one or more local organizations formed to urge it upon senators and representatives.

Doctor's Brain Child

This project, dedicated to "relieve humanity from the fear of destitution and want for ever," is the brain child of a scholarly appearing, mild mannered medical practitioner of the old school whose inspiration, he says, came from his work among the indigent sick.

The author, Dr. F. E. Townsend, some years ago was a practicing physician in the Black Hills region

Conceiving the idea of a pension was assistant city health officer of Long Beach; later he engaged again in private practice.

Conceiving the ieda of a pesion for the aged and incapacitated financed by a revolving fund derived through a sales tax, he proceeded to incorporate it with Robert E. Clements as "co-founder." Its object, he said, was to assure that "all who serve society to the best of their ability in whatever capacity shall not be denied that security in their declining years to which their services in active years have entitled them."

Volunteers Aid 'Crusade'

In a time of financial troubles it caught on with an amazing sweep. Volunteers appeared to work without pay. Stenographers, typists, bookkeepers, mailing clerks and others were set to work in a crusade to persuade congress to pass a measure which would require levying via the sales tax route an assessment which, it has been estimated, would total probably two billion dollars a month.

Old Age Revolving Pensions calculates there are 10,300,000 past 60 in America of whom about 8,000,000 would be eligible for pensions. Those owning income property with a greater income than $200 a month "would not need or possibly care to apply for the pension, as it is not designed to be compulsory," but these whose income is less, "undoubtedly would readily consent to turning over the management of their properties or business to younger friends or relatives, thus creating paid positions and jobs for others when receiving retirement pay for themselves."

The federal government would assume a monopoly on the sales tax method of raising money and this revenue would be devoted only to the pension, supporters of the plan explain.

Retirement pay would be required to be spent in the United States within 30 days of receipt and only those free from habitual criminality would be eligible.

Lubbock Meets Mustangs Here Tonight; Red Raiders Engage Loyola Lions

Westerners To Meet Invaders At Tech Field

Once Mighty Sweetwater Team Is Doped To Lose To Chapman's High-Scoring Outfit; Game Starts At 7:45

The Lubbock High school Westerners will attempt to knock the galop out of the Sweetwater Mustangs in an inter-district conflict at Matador Field, 7:45 o'clock tonight.

Last year and many of the years before that, slapping the Ponies about was a heavy chore. But this fall the calibre of Coach Ed Hennig's herd is not so high, according to scores of the football games they have, so far, played.

The Mustangs are to arrive here late today. They are to catch a night train so they won't be with us long. Long enough, however, to spring a tremendous up-set. Rise from the ruck of a poor season's start to smite the Westerners.

Westerners Are Alert

So it is against anything like this that the pupils of Coaches Weldon Chapman and Berl Huffman will be alert. The Mustangs work from a nine-man line with a tricky variation of the Southern California shift.

The physical condition of the Westerners will not be uniformly good for the struggle. There are no broken legs or noses, but the workouts during the letter part of this week have been very hard at Fair Park, and have left their trail of bruises and aches.

Morris White, Chapman's brilliant running halfback, stepped into one of the irrigation canals that someone has been digging around and through the high school practice lot. Morris stepped into one of these little ditches while running down under a pass. He fell and hurt his leg against a pipe. This may handicap White considerably tonight.

Chapman indicated yesterday that he would start the same line of huskies who have carried the Westerners through a stiff quintet of games, thus far, with a record of four victories and one deadlock.

The backfield will consist of White, Robert Allen Hill, Charles Calhoun, and "Squarehead" Barnes. Starkey Whitehorn, Dixie White, Weldon Phillips, Woodrow Aycock, Robert Dowell, Captain Howell Young and Ocie Griggs will be on the line.

Wednesday the Westerners hustled through their stiffest drill of the week. A lot of practice at blocking and tackling was included in the workout. Then to top off the session the reserves, coached in Sweetwater plays, were hurled at the regulars.

Ticket Sales Good

There was no abatement in the training camp regime yesterday.

E. J. Lowrey, business manager of athletics at Lubbock High, reported a brisk sale of tickets yesterday. The ducats, now on sale at J. and J. sporting goods store, will be sold at the field after 5 o'clock this afternoon. Price for adult tickets is 75 cents. Texas Tech students will be admitted for 25 cents providing they present student activity booklets.

Arlington Downs Races Draw Huge Crowd Thursday

ARLINGTON DOWNS, Tex., Oct. 25. (AP) — Jockey C. Parvin gave Crout Au Pot a great ride today to bring the A. M. Creech and B. Creech entry down the stretch a winner in the $1,500 added inaugural handicap.

While an estimated crowd of 12,000 persons stood and cheered, Crout Au Pot, carrying the light weight of 101 pounds, got away fast but was lucky to escape when in close quarters soon after the start. He moved up with a rush on the turn, easily disposed of Desert Call, the early pace setter and had something left. Desert Call, running mate of the winner, hustled along in the pace-making but weakened in the final furlong to lose second place to Siskin who was forced back early, raced wide when moving up and finished with a burst of speed that left his supporters gasping with excitement. The distance was 150 feet short of six furlongs.

Special Train Arrives In Los Angeles Almost Five Hours Late; Game Starts Tonight At 10 O'clock, Texas Time

By COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Oct. 25. — Four hours and 40 minutes behind schedule, the special train bearing Texas Tech football players and a hundred fans arrived here at 12:40 p. m. to find a hearty welcome awaiting at the Los Angeles union station and the Roosevelt hotel in Hollywood where headquarters are established.

After a light lunch and nap, Coach Pete Cawthon herded his Red Raiders together and hustled them out to Gilmore stadium, home of the Loyola university Lions, whom they meet Friday night in an important intersectional game. At the stadium a battery of sports writers and photographers took interviews and close-ups.

Have Night Drill

The lights were turned on tonight for a workout, a stiff signal drill, and lots of blocking and tackling. The field gates were barred against spectators, hundreds of whom sought a glance at the crimson-clad athletes from Texas.

More than 200 Californians, among them several former Lubbock residents, crowded the platform when the special train rolled in. An even larger delegation was present at 8 o'clock this morning when the Texas party was slated to arrive.

Changes Denied

Cawthon said there was little doubt that he would start the shock troops against Loyola tomorrow night, especially since Tom Lieb of Loyola announced his second-stringers probably would start. Regulars on both sides are expected to be in the game before the first quarter is over.

Morning and afternoon newspapers are carrying emphatic denials of any reception by Lieb and his assistants of information concerning Tech signals and play description such as reported in Lubbock Tuesday.

Coaches Are Undecided About Starting Lineups

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25 (AP)—The rugged Red Raiders of Texas Tech, accompanied by a trainload of rooters and a 55-piece band, moved in on Los Angeles today and went through their final training paces for their game here tomorrow night with formidable Loyola. Enthusiasm ran high as the special train with the team, the blaring band, and 125 shouting followers, rolled into town.

Coach Tom Lieb of Loyola gave his Lions their final workout at Del Rey Hills, far from the shouting invaders. He indicated he was undecided about the starting lineup, mentioning the possibility of starting the second team so his first eleven could get a line on the opponents from the bench before being injected into the contest.

The probable starting line-ups:

Texas Tech — ends: Spears and Morris; guards: W. Wilson and B. Gilmore; tackles: Browning and Nichols; center: Wiginton; halves: Neil and Winters; quarterback: Beauchamp; fullback: Scoggins.

Loyola — ends: Maxwell and O'Brien; tackles: Duvall and Kipp; guards: Shceliga and Santa Cruz; Center: Saunders; halves: Foley and Whaley (C); quarterback: Galassi; fullback: Lubisich.

This Is A Jinx Week For A Quartet Of The Titans Of College Football

Rice, 'Bama, Indians, Chicago Face Tilts With A Shudder

By BOB CAVAGNARO
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — The last Saturday in October is once more the dreaded jinx day for four big teams in the limelight of the current "they're up, they're down" college football campaign.

Last year they were in the forefront before this corresponding Saturday arrived and after it had passed they were shunted into the background.

And now comes Saturday, Oct. 27, and with it you find Stanford vs. Southern California; Rice vs. Texas; Alabama vs. Georgia and Chicago vs. Missouri.

Date Holds Jitters

Stanford, Rice, Alabama and Chicago can look back to a few days before last October's final Saturday when they were enjoying good season. Now, they're going as well, if not better. But that fateful Saturday in 1933 was a day of defeat for them and they've got a plain case of the well known jitters over what Oct. 27, 1934, holds for them.

Take them alphabetically:

At this corresponding stage of the season last year, Alabama's Crimson tide was rolling along nicely, with three victories and one tie game. Then came the last Saturday in October and their fifth game and the Crimson Tide crashed against the rockbound front of the Fordham Rams. Fordham won, 2-0.

Clark Shaughnessy's Chicago eleven went into its fourth game last year with Michigan with a record of two triumphs and one defeat. The Kipke-coached Wolverines prevailed by the wide and handsome margin of 28-0. But it's a different Chicago team this year and the Maroons should get by Missouri and their "croocial" Saturday easily.

Steers Drubbed Owls

Rice wasn't anywhere in particular last year when it met Texas' Longhorns. Rice had won two and lost three and its deficit grew larger on the short end of an 18-0 defeat.

Finally, Stanford, the unsuccessful Rose Bowl contender, was in the midst of a satisfactory season, winning four of the first five games and being held to a 0-0 tie by Northwestern. Washington university came along and upset the dopesters, defeating the Cardinals 6-0. When the Cardinals go against the Trojans Saturday they'll be in exactly the same spot they were in last year—four wins and one tie.

The college campaign's co-leaders—Pittsburgh, Duke, Minesota and Princeton—won't have a jinx hovering over them when they meet Westminster, Tennessee, Iowa and Cornell, respectively Saturday. But the Dukes have no setup in the very good volunteers.

Oct. 28, 1933, held some anxiety for Princeton. On that day the Tigers pulled out a 6-0 winner over Washington and Lee, but Minnesota defeated Iowa 19-7. Pitt humbled Notre Dame, 14-0 and Duke whipped Tennessee, 10-2.

Rice-Texas Go May Hinge On Hilliard's Hip

Owls And Texas Squad Take A Breathing Spell Before The Battle; T.C.U. Frogs Leave For Brush With Gentlemen

(By The Associated Press)

Will Bohn Hilliard play?

That is the burning Southwest Conference football question tonight as the University of Texas Longhorns and Rice institute Owls take a breathing spell before their colorful clash Saturday at Houston.

Coach Jack Chevigny sent his Longhorns through a final drill today. They leave tomorrow for Houston. With Hilliard in the game the Orange crew would be blessed with a powerful scoring threat. Jack Gray, Texas end, also is suffering injuries but may be able to play. "We will give Rice the best we have. I hope it is enough to win," was all Chevigny would say about the game.

Owls End Preparation

The Rice Owls breezed through a stiff workout today behind locked gates. Coach Kitts has been working his cohorts on several new plays he hopes will click against Texas. It will be the first 1934 conference game for Texas and the second for Rice. All tickets have been sold. A crowd of 15,000 is expected.

Coach Homer Norton headed 28 Texas A. and M. Aggies out of College Station for Waco where Saturday the Cadets will battle Baylor in a conference go. It will be homecoming day for Baylor. The Bears will be minus the broken-field running of Lloyd Russell who is out with injuries.

The Texas Christian Frogs left tonight for Shreveport where Saturday they battle Centenary college. George Kline, star halfback, did not accompany the Frogs because of injuries. Darrell Lester, giant T. C. U. center who was injured last week against Texas A. and M., probably will play part of the game. At Fayetteville, Coach Fred Thomsen drilled his Arkansas Razorbacks on a pass defense to use against the Missouri School of Mines.

Babe Ruth To Be Athletics Pilot?

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. (AP) — The New York Daily News says that Babe Ruth is slated to become manager of the Philadelphia Athletics next season and that Connie Mack, veteran pilot who will be 72 years old in December, will retire.

Mack's retirement, the paper says, will be announced when he returns in January from an exhibition tour to the Orient with a group of major league players, of which Ruth is manager.

"Just what terms were offered the Babe is uncertain," the News says.

Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, said there was "nothing to" the report.

Twenty thousand plants are contained in the cactus gardens of the Huntington library in Los Angeles.

Auditorium To Be Scene Of Dance And Football Play-By-Play Party

A combination dance and football party at the Auditorium tonight will feature reports of the Texas Tech-Loyola game and music by Ned Bradley's orchestra.

The game will begin at 8 o'clock, Pacific time, two hours later than Lubbock time. Fans here may attend the Lubbock-Sweetwater game at Tech field, starting at 7:45 o'clock, and then have time to hear the play-by-play over a public address system.

The Plainsman, Lubbock Evening Journal columnist, will announce the plays.

Starting at 9 o'clock at the Auditorium and resuming at intermission and after the broadcast, Bradley's orchestra will provide music for those who wish to dance.

Women's Tourney Continues Today At Meadowbrook

First round matches in Lubbock's woman's city open tournament were completed Thursday afternoon at Lubbock Country club. Second round matches are to be played today at the Meadowbrook course. Finals will be Sunday, leaving one extra day in which to play the second round matches.

Results of Thursday matches in the championship flights follow:

Mrs. Sam Edmisson defeated Mary Lois Thompson 6 and 5 after shooting a brilliant 39 on the difficult back nine. Mrs. Ruby Riggs won over Mrs. Sue Mast 3 and 2. Mrs. Georgia Mae Key beat Mrs. Opal McAfee 1 up. Mrs. Clowe won over Mrs. Sue Dean in an upset match 2 and 1. Mrs. Dean being considerably off her game.

In the first flight results were: Mrs. Jeannine Helwig defeated Mrs. J. E. George 4 and 2. Mrs. Vera Jones beat Mrs. Louis Quillen 4 and 3. Mrs. C. F. Hagler won over Mrs. Mary Giles and Mrs. Ford Benham 5 and 4. Mrs. Doris Huntley won over Mrs. C. E. Dean 3 and 1.

Horned Frogs Taper Off For Battle With Centenary Gents

FORT WORTH, Oct. 25. (AP) — A long and hard but non-bruising workout this afternoon completed Texas Christian university's physician preparation for their game at Shreveport Saturday afternoon with the Centenary college Gentlemen. Thursday night, the 25 athletes who will make the trip to the northern Louisiana metropolis were busy getting their tooth brushes and extra shirts ready for the ride.

Coaches Dutch Meyer and Raymond Wolf will lead their charges into Shreveport about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. They will go immediately to the field where Saturday's game is to be played and suitout for a final practice session.

With the exception of George Kline, all the Frog regulars will be able to play. Kline's broken hand is healing rapidly but since there was no chance of his playing he will not make the trip to Shreveport. Drew Ellis, guard with a broken shoulder, will also stay at home and there is doubt if he'll be ready for Baylor.

Picadors Will Meet Decatur Here Saturday

Green-Clad Texas Tech First-Year Men Polish Offensive In Scrimmage With Varsity Reserves Thursday

Since Texas Tech began playing football the school has been particularly known for its talented and colorful freshmen gridiron units. This year the young tradition seems in no danger of dying.

Football followers of Lubbock are to get a first glimpse of the 1934 Picador edition in an official game when the 35 husky charges of Coaches Vergil Ballard and Elva Baker rush into combat with an invading Decatur Junior college squad at Matador Field Saturday night.

Green Wave

Sheathed in their green uniforms with candy-stick socks of jade and white the husky-bodied Picadors are a comforting sight when one thinks of the hard games for Tech probably forthcoming next season.

Yesterday the team shined up its offense in a scrimmage with the varsity reserves. Today the squad will take a light calisthenics drill, although none of the workouts this week have been particularly strenuous. Injuries are already rife in the squad and Coach Ballard is taking no chance on addition causalties. Turn, one of the guards, is now in the hospital, not with a football injury, however. Keen another guard is out with hurts.

Decatur continues to be a team about which no information may be obtained. When the team trots on the field it will be like the Masked Marvel entering the wrestling arena. All the informaton Ballard has about the club is that it will definitely be here Saturday night.

Texas Schoolboys Clash In Important Games This Week

All High School Clubs Will Enter Into The Swirl Of District Races; Lions Of Greenville Defend Title

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 25. (AP)—The last of the sixteen Class A Texas Interscholastic league district football campaigns will start Friday when Greenville invades Paris for a district nine combat. The other 15 districts are well into their championship schedules with several offering important battles this week-end.

The Greenville Lions, 1933 state champions, are favored to inaugurate their championship race with a victory. It will be the only district nine game this week.

Coach Blair Cherry's Amarillo Sandies, always a strong unit in the interscholastic league race, start their district race Friday against Borger. The Sandies are in District One where Lubbock is leading the parade with a victory over Borger.

Abilene Plays Ranger

The big noise in District Two will be the Cisco and Breckenridge tussle Friday at Breckenridge. Another important game in this district will be Saturday when Abilene invades Ranger to play the Bulldogs. Breckenridge, Ranger and Cisco are in a deadlock for the District Two leadership.

The three way tie for first place in District Three between San Angelo, McCamey and Big Spring will be smashed Friday when San Angelo plays at McCamey. Big Spring will not play a district game.

Down on the border where El Paso is pacing the District Four race with three victories and no defeats, one district game will be played when Austin High of El Paso tangles with Ysleta. Austin is favored. El Paso will take on Las Cruces in a non-district melee.

No District Five games are scheduled this week. Vernon and Quanah are setting the pace here with two victories each.

The District Six race faces a heavy schedule of three Friday games, Denison playing the Dallas Highland Park team at Dallas, McKinney invading Sherman, and Gainesville at Denton. Denton and Gainesville, each with a perfect record of one victory, are setting the championship pace.

Dallas Clubs Battle

District Seven, composed mostly of Fort Worth schools, is staging a torrid race with Polytechnic, Masonic Home and Central tied for first place with perfect records. The outstanding Friday game in this district will be the Polytechnic and Central affair which will spoil one of the two undefeated records.

Two championship games will be played in District Eight which is composed of Dallas teams only. Dallas Tech and Oak Cliff tangle Friday. The big battle will be Saturday when Forest Avenue and Sunset, tied for first place, clash at the Fair Park Stadium.

Tyler at Gladewater and Kilgore at Texarkana is the District Ten card this week. Kilgore is tied with Longview and Marshall for the district lead.

District Eleven, paced by Jacksonville and Henderson, will offer a pair of championship tilts when Athens plays Nacogdoches and Lufkin takes on Palestine. It will be the first 1934 district game for the Athens Hornets who are favored to take the crown in their section.

Old Rivals Meet

Old rivals will battle in District Twelve Friday night when Corsicana plays Waco, and Cleburne invades Temple. Waco, Corsicana and Cleburne are leading the race with undefeated records. Corsicana is favored to take Waco. The Temple and Cleburne battle is a toss-up.

Three Houston schools, Milby, San Jacinto and John Reagan, are leading the race in District Thirteen. Conroe against Sam Houston, Jeff Davis against Milby, and San Jacinto against John Reagan is the attractive district schedule for Friday and Saturday.

Port Arthur and South Park of Beaumont will clash Saturday in the only District Fourteen game. It will be a crucial game since they are in a deadlock for first place with one victory each.

District Fifteen offers a championship schedule of two games which will pit Harlandale against San Antonio Tech and Brackenridge against Austin. Jefferson, Brackenridge and Austin are leading this district with unmarred records.

Three important games are scheduled for District Sixteen where Corpus Christi plays Harlingen. Robstown takes on Laredo, and Brownsville battles Kingsville. Corpus Christi and Kingsville, with one win each, are leading the championship parade.

Tennessee Highway Patrol And Nashville Police Say That Order Will Be Preserved As LSU Studes Roll In

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 25. (AP) After a long distance telephone conversation with Huey Long, the state highway patrol reported today that "we are working on a cooperative line now" to preserve order when special trains bearing L. S. U. students roll into Nashville Saturday for the L. S. U.-Vanderbilt game.

Chief J. Lon Foster of the Nashville police force promised his cooperation and said "everything is all right." He added he would supplement a force of twenty state highway patrolmen with fifty Nashville officers.

Through Governor O. K. Allen of Louisiana, Senator Long yesterday requested permission to enter Tennessee with armed state police aboard the special train. This was not granted after Attorney-General Roy H. Beeler ruled Tennessee officials had no authority to authorize it.

In a telephone call to James English, assistant chief of the Tennessee highway patrol, Long made final arrangements for policing the trip through this state. English said the senator voiced no objection to Beeler's ruling, but merely inquired as to arrangements for handling the crowd.

Safeguarding Our Mail

THE postoffice department in Washington, through its various agencies in Lubbock and everywhere else, has been trying for years to educate the users of the mails to write legibly, address carefully and place names of streets and numbers of houses on their communications, but without appreciably reducing the number of pieces of mail matter that find their way to the deadletter office.

While trying to impress users of the mails with the need for care in packing and addressing, the department recognizes that much of the vast tonnage of deadletter mail might be delivered if more care were exercised by local postal employes. Sometimes it seems the civil service clerk doesn't use as much ingenuity and patience in deciphering blind addresses as he did in the days when John Wanamaker was postmaster general.

How many postal employes in the dead-letter office or in the local post offices could safely deliver to an obscure person in Oswego, Oswego county, N. Y., a letter addressed to "Horsewigger, Horsewigger county, America?" It was done under the administration of Wanamaker by a woman employe who had the happy thought that the h's and r's were superfluous.

Let it be remembered, however, that the volume of mail has multiplied many times since Wanamaker's day and that the difficulties of making deliveries have increased with it. Investigation might even disclose that the percentage of mail that reaches the dead-letter office now is smaller than ever, although troubles of the postal service keep pace with increasing population.

WINGS

Man has ever been able to go anywhere and do anything on wings of imagination. Today his wings are those of an airplane.

These new wings are bringing within the reach of man for the first time the remotest regions of the world and vast wealth which has been beyond his reach. Aviation is tapping valuable mineral deposits heretofore discovered discoverable but inaccessible. In the Rockies, among the mountain peaks of South and Central America. In the mountain recesses of Europe, prospectors have discovered mother lode but have been unable to bring out much of this hidden wealth because of insurmountable obstacles which made the ordinary methods of transportation useless.

When a single airplane can transport 400 tons of mining machinery into a region surrounded by towering 15,000-foot peaks it can no longer be said that mineral wealth anywhere is beyond the reach of the mining engineer. The airplane is destined to supplant the pack-mule, the llama, and the mountain switchback railroad. It will carry the machinery and man-power into the hills and fly back with precious metal.

Where are the wiseacres who a score of years ago ridiculed the idea of transportation by air? They are probably still carrying a candle to bed.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

EVEN before the Federal Housing administration gets its new-home drive swinging there is talk in left-wing ranks about getting the housing act amended at the coming session of Congress to permit direct federal financing of home-building.

Introduction of such a proposal is almost a certainty. Whether it will pass or not depends largely on how many left-wingers are elected next month.

Also, of course, the demand would be lessened materially if the banks and building and loan associations produce material results when FHA's big campaign gets under way.

Regulations governing federally guaranteed loans for home construction are benig drawn very carefully. It had been hoped to have them ready to permit opening of the drive on November 1 but one of the lawyers vitally concerned in the work was taken ill and sent to the hospital. Prospects are now that it may be as late as the middle of the month before the regulations are issued.

Administrator Moffett is determined that the rules governing home financing shall be fool-proof, yet as attractive as possible. The New Deal is definitely committed to a resurrection of the building industry and Moffett and his men intend to overlook no avenue of approach.

President Roosevelt and FHA officials are opposed to the idea of setting up a financing agency that would deal out government money direct to the people as is done in England but they recognize there will be a strong movement for such a setup if the one prescribed by existing law doesn't click.

RESERVES: FHA bosses are increasingly encouraged by indirect results of their renovizing and repair campaign, even though the number of direct loans reported has been disappointingly small.

A condensed milk company which has regular time on the radio wired in to advise that it intended to start plugging home-repair on the air. Obviously there is no direct connection between condensed milk and building a new porch. The idea is that the milk people figure FHA's campaign has resulted in a lot of spending and they expect that some of the extra money thus put in circulation will be spent on their product.

Both of the big mail-order houses the American Radiator company and Johns-Mansville have advised FHA that their sales are way up over last year. They attribute it to the intensive publicity let loose by the Housing administration, so it would seem a lot of people are using cash reserves to modernize their homes and not bothering to borrow through the banks.

REBATES: Attorney General Cummings and Secretary Morgenthau are at loggerheads over income tax matters. Morgenthau is actively pushing cases against delinquents and Cummings promises to help. But when it comes to reimbursing taxpayers who have overpaid, the Treasury is a tightwad, even in cases where the Attorney General has certified that taxpayers must be paid. "Try and get it," is the Treasury attitude. "We've credited you on the books."

A test case is about to be sprung involving a large sum. The taxpayer who overpaid is to go into the Court of Claims and get a judgment. He is fortified by a decision by the Attorney General that his claim is just and should be settled.

Cummings thinks his rulings on the status of claims ought to have some weight with Morgenthau.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NEW YORK experts say that the Far Eastern rukus caused by our silver policy will have an important—though indirect and unplanned—effect on Anglo-American monetary relations. It's claimed that we can force the British lion to eat out of our hand if we choose to take advantage of the situation.

The sharps figure it this way. Our silver purchases have forced the Chinese to declare a virtual embargo on exports of the metal as a measure of self-defense. This has driven Chinese exchange so low that it gives Chinese exporters an edge against their Japanese competitors and threatens Japanese trade supremacy in the Orient. The Japanese in turn have depreciated their yen still further to meet the menace.

What has this to do with Britain? Plenty. It's the yen—not the dollar—which keeps Neville Chamberlain and British exporters awake nights. They were having a tough enough time trying to keep foreign markets alive in the face of Japanese competition before. A still cheaper yen hits them square in the solar plexus.

The British textile industry—one of the most vital—is faced with virtual extinction under this pressure. And here's the rub. Britain can't do a thing to defend herself against this nightmare unless we are willing to help.

We could do quite a lot—by the simple expedient of slapping a prohibitive tariff on silk. This would ruin Japan's primary export market and make it very difficult for her to acquire the exchange she urgently needs for the purchase of cotton. England can't do this for herself because her silk imports aren't big enough to matter. The informed believe Japan would be willing to make substantial concessions on money and trade if it would prevent the hurling of such a large monkey-wrench into her economic machinery.

Astute New Yorkers are urging their Washington contacts not to pass up such a golden chance to bring the lion to heel. They suggest an unofficial offer to threaten Japan with a silk tariff—provided the British could afford to refuse if the proposition is properly presented. There's no guarantee that anything will be done about it but it's under discussion in responsible quarters.

WORRY: Conservatives are cheered by the latest inside bulletins from California. Their scouts report that Sinclair is slipping and that in any case the state legislature will be so constituted as to put an effective damper on his more radical ideas.

A keen New York observer remarks: "We have a lot more reason to worry about Minnesota than California. Floyd Olson has become about twice as radical as Sinclair and he's certain to be elected. It's a good thing our capital investments in that state are so small."

BEACH CLUB GIRL

by Mabel McElliott

Copyright 1934 by NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOOTS RAEBURN, 18 and pretty, tries not to be jealous of the other girls in her crowd at Larchneck, fashionable New York suburb. SYLVIA RIVERS, richest girl in town, dislikes Boots and fails to invite her to a party at the Yacht Club. Boots accepts a last-minute invitation from MRS. WATERMAN, socially prominent, to a dinner at the club that same night.

Quite innocently, Boots is thrown into an embarrassing situation by HARDY WHITMORE, one of Sylvia's guests, who had been drinking. He tries to induce Boots to go sailing with him and, when she runs away, goes off in a boat alone and falls overboard. His rescue causes considerable excitement and Sylvia is furious. She resolves to punish Boots and maliciously repeats the story in a way to discredit the other girl. MRS. FERNELL, prominent member of the Woman's Club, asks Boots to resign from the Juniors.

Hardy calls to apologize and Boots is coldly unresponsive.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

Boots' tete-a-tete with Hardy was interrupted by the arrival of the Beach Club swimming instructor, Russ Lund. Hatless, looking by comparison to Hardy's leanness and trimness rather the "roughneck" that Patty had dubbed him, he stood there grinning at her.

"You forgot something."

Boots stared at him. Then she smiled. He was holding her vanity case out to her, a frivolous affair of fine tortoise shell, flat and thin. She must have left it in the car when he drove her home.

"Oh, yes. Thanks a lot." She began rather haltingly to make the necessary introductions. "Mr. Whitmore . . . Mr. Lund. . . ."

Hardy bowed a trace too stiffly and said they knew each other. Russ's duck trousers were rather bedraggled looking. The virile white sweater, in cantrast to Hardy's beautifully tailored flannels, looked utterly hopeless.

"Well, I'll be seein' you. Thought you might want the gadget. . . ."

Boots came out of her trance to thank him again, this time too profusely, because she felt sorry for him and hated to see him snubbed. Who was Hardy—what did he think he was—to go high hat on her all of a sudden?

Her momentary sense of embarrassment fled in the face of Hardy's cool arrogance. What if he did assume, quite without warrant, that the Beach Club guard was unduly friendly with her? It was none of his business. If she were going to be one of Larchneck's girl outlaws she might as well play the role to the limit.

As Russ's old car, parked a few doors down the street, chugged spasmodically out of sight she said coolly, "He's a grand person, really," with an enthusiasm she was far from feeling. She knew little or nothing about the square-built big-shouldered young man with the shock of unruly hair, except that he obviously admired her.

A few moments ago she had been considering the possibilities of turning Hardy's abject politeness to good account. She had a golden opportunity. Why not use it? But all at once the thought sickened her. No, she wouldn't cry on his shoulder and tell him he was the big, bad man who might save her from all the village disfavor. She wouldn't, either, adopt a devil-maycare attitude which often went over famously with the boys.

The golden youth beside her looked at her in puzzlement. What had gone wrong with the interview? He was accustomed to fluttering interest. He would have sworn this little thing would be grateful for any crumbs of flattery he might toss her way. But some-how she wasn't playing up. He felt it had been darned decent of him to come around in the first place. Why, he hardly knew the girl although he had always thought her flyaway yellow hair and big brown eyes a delectable combination. She could be a knockout, he told himself solemnly, with the right clothes and more sophisticated makeup. Of course she was one of the younger crowd. Why, he was two years older. That made a lot of difference. She had spirit though. She threw up her head like a young filly and he liked that husky voice of hers. It had a sirupy undertone in it. You could do something with this girl. . . .

What did she mean by smiling that way at old Reedneck from the club? Something ought to be done about it. He wasn't her class.

Thus Hardy's thoughts. . . .

He had been relieved, a few moments before, when Boots had assured him he had nothing to do with any discomfort she might be suffering at the hands of the good ladies he casually dubbed "the village witches." Every women over 30 was a witch to this arrogant, handsome young man. But now he wasn't sure he wanted to have his kind offer so casually dismissed. If Isabel was right Boots was "in bad" with the witches. He knew the town; it would make her suffer.

Selfish as he was, Hardy was decent enough underneath to feel a slight qualm at the prospect. He had been boiled as an owl the other night, Isabel had assured him. Sylvia had ridden him badly when he had met her and he'd still had the hangover. He hadn't been very nice to Sylvia. He had high-batted her all over the place. Sure, Sylvia was oke but she mustn't act as though she owned him. He couldn't stand that. Nothing burned him up so much as the inevitable feminine possessiveness. He shied at the least hint of it and Sylvia had made a fatal error in showing her hand.

He therefore turned on Boots now his most devastating smile. Older women than she had been known to be stirred by it, and Boots had been hurt and baffled all day. Small wonder she succumbed to the charm he managed to inject into his agreeable voice.

Letters To The Editor

John F. Turner Urges Election Of George E. Benson

Editor, The Avalanche: Almost a half century ago Lubbock was founded, a gem of the South Plains whose destiny, at that time rested in the hands of hardy pioneers.

Today we behold Lubbock as a real city, a modern city, but no longer do we find the pioneer spirit prevailing as a safety valve of the future.

Lubbock is infested with enemies who would tear it into shreds if they are allowed to have their way. And it is indeed a pathetic picture. For they have nothing to offer except wreck and ruin.

On next Tuesday, October 30th you will be permitted to vote for a new commissioner for this city, one of the most important positions affecting our future course and we who love Lubbock and want to see her continue to grow and prosper should go to the polls en masse and vote for George E. Benson.

George E. Benson is a Lubbock citizen of long years. He has labored for the city, given liberally of his time and money and he is a successful business man who may be depended upon to safeguard our welfare.

If we will awake to our duty we can elect Benson, as I have been informed that there is a split in the opposition at this time and they have a left wing supporting Butler, the architect and a right wing supporting W. D. McClain, the auto parts man.

Of course this is a bit unusual. For we all know, that as a rule the opposition centers its strength on one man and in this way win their battles.

We hold no brief for any man in the race nor do we propose to fight any man. But we are for Benson first, last and all the time. And it we hope for peace of mind and prosperity we will make his election sure by doing our duty next Tuesday.

John F. Turner,
Lubbock.

Chicago Women Offer Lowdown On Art Studies

CHICAGO, Oct. 25. (AP) — Why study modern art?

That's what the Chicago Art Institute asked of nine professional and business women enrolled in its night class in art appreciation this fall and here are the answers:

"To find out which of us is crazy—the modern artist or I."

"In preparation for a European trip."

"To compensate me for the loss of funds for travel."

"Last year it was contract; the winter before, symphonies; this year I get introduced to art."

"Yes, I am a Daughter of the Revolution, although I did not pose for Grant Wood. But that painting is a warning to me that I need a mental shake-up before my mouth begins to tighten."

"I'm starved for something, and I think it is beauty."

"For 15 years my job has had to come first. From now on I come first. I want to grow more interesting to myself and others."

"My work is with the poor. For my leisure I want riches."

"I've been bored to death for years, professionally and socially. Perhaps art is an antidote for boredom. I'm giving it a try."

Officials of the institute say the answers were received from women representing nine different occupations.

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE, No. 35

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

In the city of Castra Sanguinarius, the betrothal of Dilecta, daughter of Dion Splendidus, to Maximus Praeclarus, had excited the populace romantically, for it was known that Dilecta had rejected the Emperor's son and the chance of being Empress for love of the young officer. The garden of her father's home was the scene of the lover's meetings.

But Fastus had sworn revenge for the insult to his princely honor when he was turned out of the garden after his humiliating encounter with Tarzan. Now came his opportunity. An hour after he had learned that Praeclarus had protected Tarzan, he sent a messenger to the officer's home, commanding him to a banquet that night.

Fastus was strangely cordial when Praeclarus arrived and the officer was puzzled. He always suspected something when the rat-faced prince smiled upon him. He excused himself as early as possible from the banquet hall. As he got out of his litter in front of his home, he frowned at seeing no slave there, according to custom, to receive him.

The house seemed unusually quiet and lifeless. The night light, which was always kept burning in the forecourt when a member of the household was away, was absent. The door was ajar. For an instant Praeclarus hesitated upon the threshold, and then, throwing back his cloak to free his arms, he pushed the door open and stepped within.

John H. Wright And ... lando Give Details ... Unhappy Experience Hands Of Persians

BAGHDAD, Iraq., Oct. 25. (AP)—John H. Wright and John Pola... took off from Shaiba, Iraq, early today for Karachi, India, after giving details of their unhappy experience as the prisoners of Persian authorities for more than 24 hours.

The American fliers in the Melbourne derby were forced down Tuesday near the Persian border.

Dreads Next Flight

Wright, in a telephone conversation with the Associated Press in Baghdad, said "what causes me anxiety is that we again have to fly over Persia. Heaven knows what will happen if we are forced to land again.

"We had a devilish experience day before yesterday," he said. "We were compelled to land because of trouble with our fuel supply but came down safely. The Persians were greatly excited. Some helpful Britons hid me away, but the Persians got hold of my colleague Johnnie (Polando), who was immediately placed under police guard.

Water Is Refused

"He had a stiff time. They would not even give him a drink of water. Later I joined him, so we suffered together. We did our best to point out there was no possible reason for our arrest, since the passports were visaed by the Persian legation in London, but they would not listen to us.

"We spent a most unpleasant night. Yesterday the Persians thought better of their extraordinary behavior and released us. I believe our British friends who made representations to them were chiefly responsible for our release. We flew back to Basra (Iraq), where we had the best possible treatment."

Two Soviet Officials Are Put To Death For Sabotage

MOSCOW, Oct. 25. (AP)—Two Soviet officials were put to death by firing squads today for counter-revolutionary activity and sabotage which resulted in the destruction of state property.

They were Kokhan Nikolai, chief of the Sosnovsky state grain farm and Mikrail Strebkov, president of the collective farm in that state.

Both were sentenced by the West Siberian circuit court which is investigating poor grain collections in that area. Nikolai was charged with failing to dry grain and place it in the warehouse with the result that 300 tons were ruined.

The prosecutor charged Strebkov permitted horses to be neglected with the result that many of them died.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The stock market retreated hastily today after efforts to extend a rally had encountered stiff resistance in early trading.

Realities in the way of lower earnings by major corporations and profit-taking in rail shares following their sharp advance in the preceding session offset better feeling generated by President Roosevelt's address to the American Bankers' association.

With trading brisk around the opening, as well as on the decline in late dealings, turnover expanded to 1,028,070 shares, the largest in two weeks, compared with 772,300 yesterday. The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 selected stocks dipped 1.7 points to 70.9, more than eliminating the gain on the previous upturn.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25. (AP)—The cotton market was somewhat more active today and although prices were erratic and fluctuating during the morning, they turned weaker in the afternoon owing to long liquidation and weakness in the outside markets.

After reaching levels near noon net unchanged to 3 points above the previous close, prices eased off 14 to 18 points during the afternoon and closed steady at the bottom with prices showing net declines for the day of 12 to 18 points.

The old October option went out at noon and new October traded as low as 12.18.

Prices made lows for the day right at the end with December at 12.26, March to 12.36 and May at 12.41. The close was at the bottom. December closed 12 points net lower for the day, March 14 points net lower and May 15 points net lower.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 7 penny points down.

Port receipts 55,915, for week 182,147, for season 3,030,518, last season 3,183,763. Exports 36,117, for week 93,325, for season 1,185,147 last season 2,101,857. Port stock 3,129,096, last year 2,935,056. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 75,646, last year 195,085. Spot sales at southern markets 27,358, last year 54,322.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. (AP)—Cotton just about lost Wednesday's advance during today's trading under southern selling and scattered realizing promoted by the easier ruling of the grain and stock markets. December contracts sold off from 12.40@12.27 and closed at that figure, with the general market steady at net declines of 9 to 11 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 6 points on October which was influenced by liquidation incident to the circulation of a few notices, but generally 1 to 3 points higher in response to steady Liverpool cables and overnight buying orders. Buyers were supplied within a point or two of the initial prices by southern hedging and Wall street and local selling which carried prices lower in later trading.

The lowest prices of the day were reached in the late trading when March sold off to 12.34 and May to 12.39 or about 12 to 14 points below the high prices of the morning. Closing quotations were at or within a point or two of the lowest for the day.

Overnight press advices from Washington containing the speech of President Roosevelt were read with interest in the cotton trade and generally commented upon as constructive but evidently failed to materially stimulate immediate market interest. The early trade buying was accompanied by reports of a slightly improved domestic inquiry for spot cotton, while the late selling was attributed largely to liquidation.

The report of the census bureau showing 6,748,223 bales ginned prior to Oct. 18 against 8,608,090 last year was about in line with expectations. The discounts reported on contracts for delivery next October in Liverpool and New Orleans again came in for considerable comment. Exports today 40,477 making 1,196,235 so far this season. Port receipts 69,723. U. S. port stocks 3,130,686.

Southwark is London's most crowded borough; it contains 151 persons to the acre.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Oct. 25. (AP)—Good demand for wheat and fair for other offerings was reported Thursday on the grain market here. Estimated receipts were wheat 7 cars, oats 2, barley 3, corn 10, and sorghums 2.

Prices:

Wheat No. 1 hard 1.09 1-4@1.10 1-4. Barley No. 2 nominally 90@91; No. 3 nominally 88@89. Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally 1.85@2.00; No. 3 nominally 1.93@1.98. No. 2 kafir nominally 1.85@1.90. No. 3 kafir nominally 1.83@1.88.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 25. (AP)—Sharp breaks in grain values took place today notwithstanding earlier slight upturns associated more or less with President Roosevelt's address to bankers.

Failure of wheat buying to assume broad volume led to augmented selling pressure and to execution of numerous stop loss orders from disappointed holders. Ensuing downturns of wheat prices were accelerated by a reaction in foreign markets.

After a maximum fall of 2 1-8 cents, wheat closed weak, 1 5-8 to 2 cents under yesterday's finish, May 94 1-4@95 3-8, corn 1-2 to 1 cent down, May 74 1-4@74 3-8, oats 1-8 to 1 1-8 off, and provisions exactly unchanged.

Legislature

pressed doubt that Representative Sarah Hughes, of Dallas, who sponsored the bill in the house, would accept the senate changes.

The senate accepted amendments to a bill providing for remisison of certain taxes in ten counties along the Brazos as a means of obtaining possibly $50,000,000 in loans from the federal government.

The action, taken by a vote of 19 to 6, sent the bill to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, whose signature was expected. Enactment of the Brazos river legislation was one of the purposes for which the legislature was called into special session 14 days ago.

Even while the senate was completing legislative consideration of the Brazos river bill, debate was resumed in the house on a bill providing for completion of the Buchanan dam on the Colorado river.

Original Insull Project

The Buchanan dam, about sixty miles north of Austin near Burnet, originally was an Insull project, but was left incompleted in the collapse of the Insull fortunes. After viscissitudes it went into federal receivership and recently the promise of a federal loan of $4,500,000 for completion was obtained on condition the state create an authority to administer the property.

The house disposed of what is regarded as one of the greatest stumbling blocks to passage of the Colorado river bill when it adopted an amendment to prohibit payment by the public authority of any commission or fee in connection with acquisition of the dam site or in sale of the district's bonds.

Sponsors of the amendment contended the bill as written would permit the payment of a fee equal to 51 per cent of the bonds to be issued by the district in payment for the uncompleted dam. The amendment was adopted, 71 to 39 after long argument.

The house also added an amendment to require the district to furnish strips of land along the proposed reservoir to permit free access to the water by the public for hunting, fishing and other recreational purposes.

day they sat in the galleries of the senate and house.

Loiter About Building

As night came, they loitered about the big building, some studying the statues of General Sam Houston and Stephen F. Austin near the entrance. The woman with the little girl leaned against a radiator.

Spokesmen said they would not leave the building at night unless forced to do so, although they would not resist. The regular closing hour is midnight, and John Wallace, member of the state board of control, said the building would be closed at the regular time.

"If they close the building, we'll spend the night on the steps," a leader said. "And if they put us off the grounds, we'll stay as close to the entrance as we can."

Chairman Claude Teer of the board of control, which administers relief, said recently, after demonstrations by relief clients before the legislature, that the board's policy was to give every needy family entitled to relief full assistance and to cut off persons who had no just places on the rolls.

The house of representatives yesterday killed a resolution to appoint a legislative committee to inquire into relief administration practices.

"Bernice, he's killed me this time. Get a doctor," Mrs. Coburn testified her mother said. She identified an ice pick shown her by R. W. Hamilton, state prosecutor, as the death weapon.

Mrs. Coburn said she tried to remove the ice pick from her mother's hip.

"I couldn't even budge it," she testified.

Twenty one wounds were found on Mrs. Hildreth's body, Mrs. Charles Eberly, undertaker, testified. Dr. T. B. Hoover said that two of seven chest wounds had struck the woman's heart.

Women After Public Posts

Eighty Women Are Asking For Major Posts, Many Others Also Out; Are Just Becoming Government Conscious

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP) — More women candidates will battle for high state and national offices this year in the fall elections than in any year in the history of the country.

There are 80 women running for major posts, for congress, governor's chairs and other high state offices.

There are 31 women running for seats in congress. Four of those are contending for seats in the senate where Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway of Arkansas still stands as the only elected woman member.

There are 45 women running for state offices, among them 10 women running to succeed themselves. The ten are evenly divided between the republican and democratic parties.

"Never before have so many women entered the field for political offices," says Mrs. June Pickel, assistant director of the women's division for the democratic national committee. Mrs. Pickel has just returned from a tour of states where women into the political field so the elections.

"Government Conscious"

"I think women are just becoming government conscious," she says. "They begin to see a place for themselves. No doubt, the appointments of Frances Perkins and Ruth Bryan Owen contributed a great deal to the impetus which is taking women into the political field to noticeably this fall."

Pennsylvania, with 10 women running for office, has the largest number of feminine candidates for major offices. New York follows with nine, and Illinois and Iowa with eight.

Curiously, the two states which have had women governors have only one woman candidate apiece this fall running for any of the more important positions. In Texas, where Mrs. Jim "Ma" Ferguson is completing her second term as governor, Bertha Blatt, socialist, has filed for superintendent of public instruction. In Wyoming, where the director of the mint, Nellie Tayloe Ross, served one term as governor, Mrs. Katharine A. Morton, republican, the present state superintendent of public instruction, is running to succeed herself.

For Minority Parties

A surprisingly large number of women candidates have filed as representatives of minority parties, the socialists leading with 17 women running on the ticket, and the communists following with 13 women candidates.

Women are contesting for the governor's office in four states — Mrs. Elba Chase, communist, in New Hampshire; Mrs. William Langer, Republican, North Dakota; Bess Gyekis, industrial labor party, Pennsylvania; and Ann L. Medow, national party, Michigan.

Lawyer Versus Artists

In New York two women candidates are battling for representative-at-large. They are Natalie F. Couch, Republican, and Mrs. Caroline O'Day, Democrat.

Miss Couch is a Fordham law school graduate, a former secretary to a state supreme court justice and for years an active worker in her political party.

Mrs. O'Day has been active in several fields of work. As an artist she has exhibited in Paris. She has been a director of a New York school of social research and of a Rye, N. Y., bank. She is a leader in the Consumers' league and the League of Women Voters, and as a staff member of the Val Kill furniture shop, a co-worker with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who plans to urge her election. She is the widowed mother of three children.

The six present women members of the house of representatives bid fair to return. They have been renominated, and in no instance had any marked difficulty in doing so. They are Mrs. Isabella Greenway, Democratic, of Arizona; Mrs. Virginia E. Jenckes, Democrat, of Indiana; Mrs. Florence P. Kahn, Republican, of California; Mrs. Mary T. Norton, Democrat, of New Jersey; Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, Republican, of Massachusetts; and Mrs. Kathryn O'Laughlin McCarthy, Democrat, of Kansas.

chise tax until March 1 when an annual statement will be scrutinized by city officials to determine further action on rate reduction efforts.

The franchise tax will bring in from $1,200 to $1,500 annually, it was estimated.

Case Is Explained

The agreement was reached after A. O. Thomas, district manager of Lubbock, N. H. Moore, Amarillo district manager, and J. B. Patterson of Dallas, had explained their case to the commissioners.

City Manager W. H. Rodgers was instructed by the commission to "bear down" on enforcement of an ordinance against all-night parking of automobiles on downtown street.

Reading of Mr. Holland's resignation came near the close of the session, the majority of which had been taken up in discussion of the milk ordinance and the telephone situation.

Mr. Holland had been an employe of the city for the past ten years, working for two years in the tax office before being made assessor and collector in 1926.

No Immediate Plans

He said he had no immediate plans for the future.

Action on the tax man's resignation and appointment of a new man marked the third major change in the city's personnel under the new regime. City Secretary Jim Holt and Police Chief Wiley Metcalfe were replaced by new men soon after the new commission took office. W. O. Stevens replaced Holt and H. L. Johnston took Metcalfe's post.

John F. Bacon recently resigned as commissioner, declaring he was opposed to activities of the new commission.

On each occasion of the change in personnel at the City hall, the new commissioners have evidently ignored section 10 of the city charter referring to "further duties of the city commission" which states "The City Commission shall appoint the City Secretary, City Treasurer, City Marshal, City Tax Collector and the City Attorney, upon the recommendations of the City Manager and may remove either of said officers upon the recommendation of the City Manager or at will."

City Manager Rodgers made no recommendation Thursday in the change, remaining silent as he has done on the two previous removals.

Feminine Hats Are In The Ring, Too

Women are becoming "government conscious," says Mrs. June Pickel, assistant director of the women's division for the democratic national committee. She thinks the high offices held by Frances Perkins and Ruth Bryan Owen helped to inspire them. Eighty women are running for major posts. Above are shown Natalie F. Couch (left), Republican candidate in New York for representative-at-large. She is opposed by Mrs. Caroline O'Day, Democrat (center). At right is Mrs. William Langer of North Dakota, seeking the governorship resigned by her husband after conviction on a conspiracy to defraud charge.

Boilermaker Foreman By Day And An Orchestra Leader In Evening Hours

FALLS CITY, Neb., Oct. 25.(AP)—A 225-pound railroad boilermaker foreman here wields the baton for a little symphony orchestra he organized.

Adolph Goodman, 61, turns at night from nuts and bolts and the task of directing a crew of me in the railroad shops to a neat suit and the job of directing a 24-piece orchestra. It has won success despite predictions that this town of 5,000 was too "countryfied" to support it.

Studied In Germany

The director-boiler maker studied music in Germany before coming to America for his career. He took up railroading when he decided he could earn a better living for his family in the shops than on the platform.

A boilermaker foreman now for 25 years, this is his first attempt to organize a large orchestra. He called together and selected the members of his orchestra, conducted the rehearsals and directed the concerts.

By day, the big-boned gray-haired music lover can be found garbed in overalls, shirts and a tan hat. His hands are darkened with grease and he directs his men with quiet words tinged with a broad German accent, often helping at some task.

Abhors Jazz

A few hours after he finishes there, he steps before his hand-picked orchestra. His large body looms before the musicians, bending and swaying to the strains of the classical music, for he abhors jazz.

In Germany, Goodman concentrated his study on the clarinet and piano and spent three years at the University of Music in Freiburg, Baden. He was a member of a regimental band while he served in the German army and for two years played in the Heidelberg Symphony Orchestra.

In 1898, when 25, he came to the United States and immediately joined the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra as first clarinet. Later he played with a Sioux City, Ia., band and directed a 28-piece orchestra in Des Moines.

headquarters "had not the slightest doubt" the letter was from Farley. He stated the original copy of the letter now is in a "place of safekeeping."

The copy bore the letterhead of the Democratic national committee and carried a postscript in longhand.

The endorsement of Sinclair, together with Senator Hiram Johnson, was contained in the second paragraph:

"California Democrats, Republicans and progressive alike are to be congratulated for their wise judgment in selecting Hon. Hiram Johnson as the nominee of all parties for United States senator. By electing the Hon. Upton Sinclair, your popular Democratic candidate for governor, California will have a combination of leaders in Washington and in Sacramento who can cooperate in the best interests of the people of the state and of the nation."

The troublesome bonus question settled, so far as the sixteenth national convention is concerned, and a new national commander elected, the Legion transacted the following other business:

Want Action Rescinded

Demanded by voice vote that the United States rescind its recognition of Soviet Russia, declaring that country had not kept its promise that "communistic activity" would cease in this nation.

Adopted a mildly opposed resolution to deny use of the mails to "any publication advocating resolutions and overthrew of our form of government."

Went on record in opposition to any executive clemency that would permit Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the wartime draft dodger, to return to the United States from Europe.

Pledged continued activity against "insidious propaganda" attacking the constitution of the United States.

Sign Allegiance Pledges

Asked that school teachers be required to sign pledges of allegiance to the American flag.

Urged prohibition of federal farm and home loans to aliens "unless and until" American citizens "have been cared for."

Called for a ban on employment of aliens on federal, state and local government jobs "wherever qualified American citizens, including those in the process of acquiring American citizenship, are available."

Directs its Americanism commission to study old-age pensions. Unemployment insurance, and nation-wide reduction of working hours to determine if such proposed legislation is suitable for inclusion in the Legion's national program of Americanism.

Recommended continued efforts to enforce collection of war debts from European nations.

Hated Speeches, Lands In Cooler

RIBECOURT, France, Oct. 25. (AP)—Louis Landragin hates political speeches.

For 16 years he listened to Mayor Bourgoin orate on every possible occasion, summer and winter, fall and spring. After each one he told his neighbors he couldn't sit through another.

After the latest speech, Mayor Bourgoin was pedaling his bicycle back to the town hall, when an automobile hit him from behind and threw him 30 feet. He will be in the hospital two months.

Louis Landragin, driver of the car, is being held for trial. Police say he did it on purpose.

Dramatic Crisis In German Church Fight Now Reached

BERLIN, Oct. 25 (AP) — A dramatic crisis in Germany's bitter church controversy brought an almost open break today between Adolph Hitler and his reichsbishop, Ludwig Mueller, and fore-shadowed, informed sources said, the nazi government's early withdrawal from church conflicts.

The rift between the reichsfuehrer and his one-time protector, portended in recent weeks by fast-growing hostility to Mueller's distatorial rule, came as Hitler announced he would not today, nor at any time in the future, receive Mueller for the purpose of taking his oath of loyalty.

Allred And Dies Speakers At Fort Worth Convention

FORT WORTH, Oct. 25. (AP) — After hearing two outstanding figures in state politics at both morning and afternoon sessions, the 1,000 delegates to the annual convention of the County Judges and Commissioners' association of Texas, terminated their first day's program here tonight with a barbecue and dance.

The address of Congressman Martin Dies of Orange, was the feature of the afternoon session. During the morning delegates heard Attorney General Allred, Democratic gubernatorial nominee.

Police Doubt Girl's Story Of Being Kidnaped By Pair

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25 (AP)—Miss Virginia Switzerland, country school teacher of McHenry, Miss., who disappeared from her home today, was located in a theater dressing room tonight by police and told a story of having been kidnaped by two men.

Police doubted her story of the kidnaping since they said she parked her automobile in a parking lot alone and entered the theatre alone. Several country people also said they saw her driving toward New Orleans alone during the day.

Twenty-eight cities, 32 counties, and one state bear the name of Washington in this country.

it gave other indications the infant was seriously or mortally hurt before he was carried down the ladder.

Have Several Plans

One high source, admitting the state would seek to prove in the trial starting Jan. 2 the baby was first killed and then taken away, said this contention would not prevent the prosecution's charging also that the child was killed during the kidnaper's flight down the ladder, or subsequently.

"It is necessary to prove the child met death in connection with the burglary," this source stated, "that is all. It is immaterial whether death occurred before the burglary, or during the burglary, and the New Jersey law permits the prosecution to contend either or both."

Train Record Again Broken

Crack Union Pacific Streamlined Train Rolls Into New York; 56 Hours, 55 Minutes From Los Angeles

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — Her Diesel engines rumbling a symphony of power, the M-10001, streamlined train of the Union Pacific railroad, rolled into the dark caverns of Grand Central terminal at 9:55 a. m., today and marked a new chapter in American railroad history.

When her blunt, canary yellow nose clicked over the bumper joints at the concourse platform, she had set a new rail speed record from Los Angeles to New York City of 56 hours 55 minutes.

Two decades of railroad history were thrown in sharp relief when W. A. Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific, stepped from train to the platform.

Father Set Record

Eighteen years before, his father, the late E. H. Harriman, the west's great builder of a railroad system, had set the coast-to-coast record when he traveled from San Francisco to New York in 71 hours and 27 minutes.

His son, slender, youthful, chairman of the board at 44, had ridden the route in 14 hours and 32 minutes less time in the new modern stream lined flyer.

The M-10001 negotiated the 3,334 miles on schedule, and between Cheyenne, Wyo., and Omaha, Neb., speeded to a new world's railroad record dash, she covered eighteen miles at an average speed of 110.5 miles an hour.

The nine-coach, articulated, aerodynamic modernism of railroading, "loafed" on the Chicago-New York run for a time of 17 hours 25 minutes, twenty minutes ahead of the time of the Twentieth Century limited over the New York Central tracks.

Passengers and railroad men on the train expressed the opinion the M-10001 could have made the Chicago-New York run "easily" in twelve hours "or less." It was in Foughkeepsie at 8:08 a. m. and train officials said it was "held back" to avoid arriving earlier than its scheduled hour of 10 a. m.

Buenos Aires has a new subway four miles long.

BEACH

are not mad at me. Come out tonight. We'll go places. Dance."

Well, why not? She had, she told herself, nothing to lose and everything to gain. Her father wouldn't object. All the young men in Larchneck looked pretty much alike to him.

"All night," she said casually. She had a "sort of date" with Johnny but that could be broken easily. It would be a triumph to be seen going places with Hardy and as long as the Mrs. Fernells of the world had turned thumbs down on her she might as well have some fun out of the situation.

Hardy went away a bit surprised at himself, if the truth be told, at the way things had fallen out. He hadn't in the least intended to take this girl places, he grumbled. He had meant to do the graceful thing, say he was sorry for getting her mixed up in something awkward which hadn't been her fault. But Redneck's arrival had stirred something primitive and jealous in him.

It would be amusing, Hardy reflected, driving away in a cloud of dust, to show the town what a queen this yellow haired girl could be Maybe this was how Svengali had felt about Trilby. . . . .

When Boots appeared in the doorway some hours later, immaculate in sleeveless white silk frock with a brief emerald green jacket worn over it, you would never have suspected that she had washed dishes and wrung out tea-towels only a short time before. She was cool, scented, self-possessed.

"Hi!"

She lifted her slim hand and let it fall in the greeting.

Hardy gave her an approving glance. "Good girl. Thought you might change your mind."

She widened her eyes. "Oh, why?"

"Thought the town fathers might be writing you letters about my reputation."

She smiled a far-away smile. "Oh, I guess it isn't as bad as all that."

Hardy was frankly nettled. At 21 he was rather proud of being known as the bad boy of Larchneck. He had always been able to slide gracefully out of difficulties. His money, his father's position, his own undoubted charm had something to do with this. But he wanted this girl to understand that usually he was regarded as rather dangerous medicine. She was only a kid in his estimation. It was irritating to feel he was not appreciated.

* * *

But when she settled into the seat at his side he forgot to be annoyed. Her profile was exquisite—classic, he decided, and yet the classic outline was softened and sweetened, altogether unlike the faces of Grecian maidens on old coins. There was something flowerlike about her, something untouched and virginal and remote, in spite of the fact that she talked the glib language of the day and in almost every respect conformed to the rules of the younger set. It wouldn't be hard, thought Hardy, pu... brake quite s... to imagine th... with a rose tuck... curls at her throat.

"I must be getting..." told himself with disgust.

They were out on th... road now, the motor ... smoothly and silently and th... of newly-cut grass borne to ... nostrils like perfume. Past a h... of dew-drenched honeysuckle ... car glided and the heavenly scent was borne to both young people simultaneously. The girl caught her breath in sheer delight and the boy smiled to himself secretly, as some far-off childhood memory touched him.

"Honeysuckle! Ah, don't you just love that?" breathed the girl, forgetting to be cynical, forgetting her pose of disillusionment and sophistication.

"That what it is? I could go for that," said the young man briefly.

The night was cool under the stars. Trees were black shapes against the sky and everywhere in hedges were blurred patches of roses, startling in the light thrown on them from the car's headlights. There was some kind of unnamed magic in the air. Both felt it, forgetting for the moment their poses and their chosen roles of worldlings. Boots put the problems of the day away from her, feeling only that it was good to be alive and young and strong, with this tide of sheer unreasoning happiness flowing in her veins.

"Well, where do we go from here?" They were at a crossroads now, the blinker flickering on and off in silent warning. Hardy drove "like a streak," Boots said; and this rushing through the scented night was part of the pleasant dream life that was tonight. It had nothing at all to do with carping old women and resignations from clubs and schoolmates who hated one and were ready to do one harm if they could.

"Oh, the Barn, I guess," said the girl languidly, leaning back and hugging her brief wrap around her shoulders. She had never been to the Barn, but Hardy wasn't to know that. Probably he would demur, anyhow. She didn't really expect him to accept her suggestion. It
