Spending Reaction

AUSTIN (AP)-Writers of the state spending bill, who hope to complete their jobs in about a month, will be watching closely for reaction to Gov. Bill Clements' latest stand on state spending.

Clements told a news conference Friday it would be all right with him if the Legislature just appropriated money for only one of the two years in the state's 1980-81 fiscal period.

Then, Clements said, he could call a special session in the summer of 1980 to agree on state spending for the second year.

Threaten War

By The Associated Press

Arab militants threatened terrorism and all out war as a U.S. delegation arrived in Saudi Arabia Saturday to try to win approval for the Egyptian-Israeli peace pact.

The Kuwait newspaper Al Siyassah said Palestinian guerrillas want to reactivate a Black September strike force against U.S. targets and Arab moderates supporting the treaty. Black September claimed responsibility for the 1972 Munich Olympics massacre of Israeli athletes.

Technically Running

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter is now running for re-election, technically at least, although he says he's too busy running the country to announce his candidacy formally.

Carter became a legal candidate Friday when the Carter-Mondale Presidential Committee was registered with the Federal Election Commission.

There's nothing else like a little sunshine to bring out the fruit tree blossoms. Mother nature has the capacity to trick the apricots, peaches and plums by merely rolling back the cloud cover in late February and early March. Whether there was trickery involved this year remains to be seen, but a lot of fruit trees have turned white and pink in the past 10 days. Now, we must wait to see whether a late frost will wipe them out, as has been the case more often than not around here in the seventies.

For many years we thought the temperature was the dominant factor in determining when trees and shrubs would bud out in the late winter and early spring. But the late Oscar Fowler, who was county extension agent here some 20 years ago, told us that the sun was in control. No matter how cold it gets, if the sun shines several days in a row, trees will begin to respond, he said. Subsequent observation confirmed this.

JoAnn Nunley already has called attention to the fact that we had thunder on Feb. 24. One of the better known weather legends calls for a freeze on the same date in April. However, this legend appears to be in conflict with the Old Farmers Almanac this year.

The almanac says that stage of April will be "cooler" than some preceding days, but adds that the temperatures will be "seasonal" then. Our idea of seasonal weather on April 24 is well above the frost mark.

In fact, the almanac indicates that our early-blooming fruit trees probably have a good chance of getting through without a damaging frost this time. So, we wait and watch.

We received a notice the other day that nominations are being accepted now for the "Energy Secretary of the Year Award." This award was created last year by a Midland oilman, Richard S. Gaddy. And when he specifies "energy secretary of the year" we doubt that he is referring to James R. Schlesinger.

Researchers for the Texas Office of Traffic Safety took a poll recently which indicated that only 17 percent of the drivers in the state define "speeding" as anything over 55 mph.

Most of the 4,000 drivers involved in the study believed that they could drive 57.7 mph without getting a ticket. They considered 62 mph as the most comfortable speed and listed an average of 59.3 as the "safest" speed. However, most of them support the 55 mph speed limit philosophically, confirming that most folks don't follow their own philosophy 100 percent.

Monday At Camp David...

Carter Calls Energy Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter is summoning his top energy and economic advisers to Camp David to discuss ways to turn around the nation's worsening energy problems.

The high-level meeting is scheduled Monday at the mountainside retreat where Carter has been resting following his Middle East travels in search of an Egypt-Israel peace treaty.

Carter and his advisers will discuss ways to offset the loss of oil imports from Iran, according to a White House official who asked not to be identified.

Iran, which formerly supplied 5 percent of the nation's oil, is only now beginning to restore production which was halted before the overthrow of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

The administration source wouldn't rule out the chance that the Camp David meeting also would consider decontrol of crude oil prices after May 31.

Other reports said inflation in general also would be discussed, as suggested by the list of advisers scheduled to attend the conference.

Administration officials summoned by Carter include Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps, Director James T. McIntyre of Office of Management and Budget and anti-inflation chief Alfred Kahn.

Also, chief economic adviser Charles T. Schultze, domestic policy assistant Stuart Eizenstat, and Julian Katz, assistant secretary of state for economic and businesss affairs.

Despite the loss of Iranian oil and Carter's request that Americans try to conserve fuel, the petroleum industry reported Friday that Americans are using more and more gasoline.

The American Petroleum Institute said gasoline consumption was up 5.4 percent during the first 10 weeks of this year, compared with the same period in 1978.

The Iranian cutoff also helped to drive the price of crude oil to as high as $23 a barrel on the open market in February - nearly $10 over the base price set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Those prices have since dropped to under $20, as a result of Iran resuming some exports and a decline in oil company purchases.

OPEC is meeting in Geneva March 26 and experts predict the cartel may hike prices by 9 percent April 1.

Ask Us

Q--I notice that Snyder fire trucks make a lot of runs outside the city. Does the county contribute to the city fire department's funds for its expenses?

A--Yes. Scurry County participates in the fire department's budget in the amount of $40,000 per year. And you are right--a lot of the fire calls are outside the city. In fact, for the past three or four years, the department has responded to approximately 400 alarms each year, with about half outside and half inside the city limits. The Snyder Fire Department's total budget this year is $265,000.

Absentee Voting To Begin Monday

Absentee voting will begin Monday for city council and school board posts.

Voters who are eligible to cast absentee ballots may vote during the period from March 19 through April 3. The election day is April 7.

Absentee voting will be at the various schools and city halls. The Snyder School District absentee voting will be conducted in the office of the tax assessor-collector in the administration building.

The Snyder School District has contested races for two places on the board, while only one place on the city council ballot has a contest. Hermleigh and Ira School Districts also have contest races for boards posts.

Seal-Coat Work To Begin

The annual city-county street seal-coating project is scheduled to begin this week, and officials are urging vehicle owners not to park their cars in the street in areas where the street work will be in progress.

The project is starting earlier than usual this year, since some streets sustained considerable weather damage when they were iced over during January and early February.

Seal-coating also is scheduled on the campus of Western Texas College while students are on their spring break this week.

At the end of the week it was uncertain when the street work would begin due to weather conditions. However, the streets on the list for the week are as follows:

Fortieth from Austin to College, 42nd from Denison to Austin, Austin from 37th to 42nd, Houston from 37th to 45th, 40th from Kerrville to Houston, 45th from Houston to Beaumont, Jacksboro from 40th to Houston, Irving from 40th to Houston, and 44th from Kerrville to Houston.

These are the areas where no off-street parking has been urged for the coming week so that parked vehicles will not interfere with the seal-coating operations and also to prevent hot asphalt from splashing on the vehicles.

The streets to be covered the first week are those which had the heaviest winter weather damage. Several others will be seal-coated later.

Tickets Available For Fashion Fair

Tickets to the April 3 Fashion Fair are now available at participating merchants in Snyder.

Admission is free, but seating is limited. Therefore persons wishing to attend the Fashion Fair and Style Show are urged to pick up their tickets early.

Also, tickets have space for the individual's name which will be used for the drawing of some 18 door prizes at the conclusion of the show which will be held in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The Fashion Fair is being co-sponsored by the Scurry County Extension Service and by the Snyder Daily News. The format of the show is similar to that used in last fall's successful Southern Living Cooking School which was attended by more than 900 persons.

A total of 17 Snyder merchants have indicated that they will have clothing modeled in the style show. They are J.C. Penney, Anthony's, Calico Cottage, Gray's, Rachel's, Mode O Day, D'Anns, Bea Owens, Men's II, Tot 2 Teen, Lad & Lassie, Ann Lee, Fenton's Dad and Lad, The Haberdashery, Bar-H Bar Western Wear, Snyder Athletic Center and the Country Club Pro Shop.

In addition, several merchants have indicated that they will have booths and displays at the style show. They are Perry's, Whitfield's, Dryden's Shoes, Thompson, Lad & lassie, Fenton's, Richardson Sewing Center and the Country Club Pro Shop.

Indicating that they would provide hair styles for some of the models are The Cuttery and Art Style Beauty Salon. Merle Norman Cosmetic Studio will provide makeup for some of the models.

Tickets to the style show are available at any of the participating firms.

In addition to the style show, there will be demonstrations on sewing, a seminar on fashion and fabric trends and a presentation on accessorizing.

Palette Club To Present Awards

Presentation of awards this afternoon will highlight closing day activities at the Snyder Palette Club's 8th annual Art Exhibition in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The ceremonies are set for 3 p.m.

The 368 entries were judged Friday by Robert Gartland and the exhibition is open to the public Saturday and today.

United Way Session Set

The Scurry County United Way board is scheduled to name 10 additional members and take action on some changes in the organization's by-laws at a meeting Tuesday morning.

The meeting is set for 10 a.m. in the council room at city hall.

Mike Reed, board president, urged all members to attend and take part in the business session.

Slow Year For Water District

Lower revenues and increased expenses contributed to a continuation of a slow start for the Colorado River Municipal Water District for the year.

Reduced sales to oil companies, largely because of the cut-off from surface supplies, hammered down deliveries for the first two months of the year, and with them revenues. Receipts of $515,134 in February ran the total for the year to $942,600 or $97,000 less than the first two months of 1978. Revenues from cities amounted to $693,500 for the first two months, $56,000 more than the period last year, but this was due principally to a rate adjustment. Oil company revenues to the district were $230,508, down $116,000. Municipal sales were off only slightly, but deliveries to oil companies were down 263 million gallons. The 2,173,034,000 gallons sold in the first two months was 363 million gallons off the 1978 pace.

Operating expenses of $556,475 for the initial two months was up $71,257 or 15 percent over the same time last year. Administrative and general expense of $102,002 was about 9 percent over a year ago, but some $3,000 of it in earlier payment of insurance, dues, etc. The major increase was $305,083 for energy, up 23 percent over a year ago. At the end of February, the CRMWD had 10,650 acre feet reserve in Lake Thomas and 107,700 acre feet in Lake E.V. Spence.

If a plan to keep coal utilization from increasing were devised with the greatest ingenuity and care, it could not equal, in end results, that which is being accomplished by overlapping federal and state agencies as they approach the leasing of government coal lands.

There is the Interior Department, Bureau of Land Management, state departments of natural resources, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and other regulatory entities all projecting their ideas of control. If too many cooks can spoil the broth, this bunch of regulators are cooking up a hefty witches brew of confusion.

Most of the potential for western coal lies within government lands. The administration stresses that coal resources should be utilized to the greatest extent. But it seems that all government agencies have not been advised of this goal. Either that or they are incapable of working out their differences.

Terry O'Connor, director of legal and government affairs for the Peabody Coal Co., said the most serious flaw in the leasing program is that the Department of the Interior does not list the criteria it will use in ranking available coal tracts. "We don't know if it's all environmental or if there are other determining factors. We need a definition of the ranking process," he said.

There is no definition of who determines high coal potential or how it is selected for any piece of land. It has been charged that environment regarding leasing of coal lands was "written in gibberish."

One sentence cited in the report stated, "Due to the dynamic nature of coal transportation, incorporation of the transportation sector in the analysis required a methodological approach which recognizes the inherent differences between static processes and dynamic flows."

Whatever became of the president's promise of the use of plain English?

Since that obfuscation came out of EPA's part in the "leasing plan," and since environment activists were on hand when the report was discussed, it would be reasonable to suspect that confusion rather than information was the objective.

on to hutchinson

If you had asked the average Snyder resident five years ago where Hutchinson, Kan., is, the answer would have been vague at best.

Today, the odds for a pinpoint answer are greatly enhanced. A number of Snyder people have actually been to Hutchinson, and more will be going this week. They are going in hopes of seeing the Western Texas College Westerners win the National Junior College Athletic Association's basketball championship.

It will be the fourth trip to the national finals for the Westerners, their third in a row, after winning the national title in 1975.

Conversely, people in Hutchinson, which is known as the capital city of junior college basketball, are equally aware of Snyder's location.

So, the setting will be familiar and the prize dangling at the end of a five-day session will be the same as the Westerners join 15 others teams to compete for national honors. Coach Nolan Richardson and his Westerners already have had a sensational season, and we wish them well in their efforts at Hutchinson. The WTC teams and fans have been good ambassadors, not only for WTC but for Snyder as well, in their previous trips to Hutchinson, and we know they will again.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A perfectionist is one who takes infinite pains, and often gives them to other people."

Inflation has become a household, word, but events happen to all of us that reinforce the problem and bring the significance of it into vivid focus.

It first happened to us several years ago. We made a quick stop by the grocery store. One item on our "honey-do" list was to pick up some toilet tissue.

Although we deal with paper goods on a daily basis, we simply had never put toilet tissue in the same category. We remembered the two rolls for a dime days in college and the 79-cents was a shocker to us.

Another such experience happened just a few Sundays ago--one of those spring days that cause you to do somthing other than fall asleep in the easy chair.

We decided to tackle the chore of cleaning out the garage and we enlisted the assistance of our son. He became more interested in the project when I told him that he could have all the money we get from selling pop bottles.

I'm a veteran at selling "Coke" bottles. Many a Saturday matinee, bowling fare, drag-main gasoline and high school date were financed by selling pop bottles at the local grocery stores.

It's been a few years. In fact it was when $2 would get a couple into the drive-in movie, buy two Cokes and two sacks of popcorn and still have money left over for a Coke after the show.

In my haste that Sunday, I assumed that the dusty pop bottles collected over the past 28 months would raise two or three dollars-ample pay for an afternoon's work.

What I didn't know is that pop bottles (the big ones) are worth not three but 20 cents. As a result, the afternoon pay for cleaning up the garage was just shy of eight bucks.

Now he wants to clean out the garage every Sunday. It's a sure sign of the times.

dirty air indoors

Government and industry have spent $67.4 billion on pollution control in eight years--and it did help.

The EPA announces measurable progress.

Air and water pollution, most everywhere that they're measured, are measurably less.

Sulfur dioxide down 17 percent; carbon dioxide down 20 percent; particulates down 8 percent.

But the government's pollution measuring is all done outdoors.

Indeed, on "high ozone" days health officials have urged you to stay indoors.

Now we are learning that breathing may be more hazardous to your health indoors.

When the Clean Air Act was passed by Congress in 1970, it was hoped that everybody would meet strict government standards by 1975.

Not everybody did.

In fact, the EPA now has decided that its antismog objectives were unnecessarily rigid. This year the legally acceptable safe level of particulate pollution has been relaxed by 50 percent.

Now we are told that .12 parts per million is adequate to protect the public health.

Fewer than 10 percent of the counties in the United States still have smog levels higher than that.

But while our government enforcers were congratulating themselves, evidence was being prepared for the publication, Technology Review, that the air we breathe may be less safe indoors.

Understand, there is no such thing as an "average" person or an "average" house or an "average" anything. Averages are a mathematical fiction. The average American family, for example, consists of a husband and wife and 1.8 children and there is no such family.

But what these researchers have found is that in many or most homes the air inside is less fit to breathe than outside.

Particulate pollution in the atmosphere is less apparent across the room than across the street--but it is there. It comes from stoves, furnaces and tobacco smoking, face powder, kitchen cleanser.

There is likely a measurable quantity of radioactive radon gas in your home inevitably created by the decay of radium present in rock, soil and building materials.

A single gas stove pilot light can accumulate in your kitchen enough carbon monoxide and nitrogen dioxide to exceed government standards.

The gas burner will thus create enough "pollution," plus other oxides of nitrogen and respirable aerosal to exceed government air-quality standards in less than one hour!

Not only is the air inside many houses and commercial establishments worse than outside, but in our determination to save energy many of us have been very effectively sealing the dirty air in.

So next we can expect a government "indoor air quality index" plus a series of federal, state and local ventiliation codes.

And a whole new industry to sell you air filters for indoors.

But hold the phone--here is a new study by the Institute for Environmental Sciences at Louisiana State University saying that there may be such a thing as "air that is too clean or water that is too pure."

That murky water and dusty air may be good for you!

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The governors and state legislators clamoring for fiscal responsibility in Washington would enjoy more credibility if they weren't simultaniously promoting one of the least justifiable boondoggles in the federal budget.

A national network of a dozen federal-state agencies known as regional development commissions currently stands as a monument to the hypocrisy of the self-proclaimed economizers in state capitals across the country.

Created by a pair of federal laws enacted in 1964, the commissions generally have failed in the ensuing 14 years to accomplish their stated mission: To foster economic development, with special emphasis on the creation of new jobs.

Instead, the commissions have become a haven for high-salaried patronage appointees who preside over programs crippled by political abuse, waste and inefficiency. In some instances, there also is evidence of fraud and corruption.

The commissions are funded jointly by the federal and state governments. Washington's share to date totals about $4 billion, with approximately $3.5 billion of that amount going to the biggest and best-known of the agencies, the Appalachian Regional Commission.

That commission's dubious expenditures of public funds in the past include $1.2 million for a "Hall of Fame" for track and field stars in West Virginia and $42,000 for expansion of a bat marina in New York.

The Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission spent more than $100,000 on an ill-fated experiment substituting fish for meat in sausages, cold cuts and other food items. The resulting product was so inedible that it was rejected by both prison inmates and patients at mental institutions.

The mysterious disappearance of more than $1 million purportedly disbursed by that commission for various other projects in the mid-1970s has been the subject of a federal criminal investigation.

The Four Corners Regional Commission, in the Southwest, purchased $4,772 worth of ballpoint pens and felt-tip markers. A former Connecticut governor used funds provided by the New England Regional Commission to pay for newspaper subscriptions ($1,461), lapel pins ($6,800) and advertising agency fees ($15,500).

The legislation authorizing the commissions expires in September, and President Carter initially was inclined to oppose any renewal of the agencies' mandate.

But the country's governors lobbied hard for White House support of the commissions and the Carter administration caved in to the state's demands at last summer's meeting of the National Governors' Association in Boston.

Not satisfied with that concession, the governors then pressed for the president's approval of a scheme calling for wall-to-wall regional commissions spanning the entire country.

Early this year, Carter again relented and authorized creation of three new regional commissions. But a White Hosue memo that inadvertently became public included the president's handwritten personal opinion: "I consider the regional commissions to be a waste of time and money."

Like the governors, however, Carter has used the commissions as a patronage haven for erstwhile campaign workers who now enjoy salaries of as much as $47,500 and $50,000 annually.

In addition to those payments, most of the commissions' expenditures are for inconclusive studies, consulting fees and administrative costs - but not for economic development.

The proposed federal budget for the 1980 fiscal year includes $358.6 million for the Appalachian Regional Commission and slightly more than $74 million for the other 11 agencies.

That's less than 1 percent of the total budget, but politicians at both the state and federal levels could demonstrate their newfound commitment to spending restraint by simply allowing the regional commissions to die peacefully this year.

At 13, Paternity Suit Doesn't Fit

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible for a 13-year-old boy to father a child? Our neighbor claims that our 13-year-old son, Vernon, got Cathy, their 15-year-old daughter, pregnant.

Vernon has always been big for his age, but he never was a runaround, and he hardly ever looked at a girl. He has never been in any kind of trouble. He's a good student and an altar boy at church.

Vernon said he fooled around with Cathy "some," but he wasn't the only one. Cathy says she is sure Vernon is the one, but she admitted to having given in to three other boys.

Cathy refuses to have an abortion because it's against her religion. She is very religious and always said she wanted to be a nun.

We don't know where to turn, Abby. If it's our son's baby, we want to do the right thing, but if it isn't, we don't see why we should be stuck with the responsibility, expense and so on.

Can you help us?

MONTANA MESS

DEAR MESS: First, you need some expert legal advice. If you can't afford a lawyer, consult your local Legal Aid Society. Then get some counseling from your clergyman, Family Service and/or Planned Parenthood office. It is obvious that both Vernon and Cathy need to know a lot more about the birds and the bees and PEOPLE. What kids don't know CAN hurt them.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 and take piano lessons, but I hate it. My lessons are almost over for the year, but my Mom says I have to take piano lessons again next year, and I don't want to.

What should I do?

PIANO LESSON HATER

DEAR HATER: Take your lessons and practice! Many adults have told me that one of the biggest regrets of their lives is having quit music lessons. But not one who quit has said that he was glad he did.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and need some advice. My boyfriend (20) keeps asking me questions which are none of his business: such as, how many guys were there before him and who were they.

He said if I don't tell him it means I don't love or trust him. He also says that no matter what I tell him he won't hold it against me.

We've been going together for a year, and this is the only thing we ever fight about.

He insists that the past should be forgotten, yet he keeps bugging me to tell him everything about mine. I never ask him any questions about his.

What should I do? I really love him, and I don't want to lose him.

BUGGED IN GAINESVILLE

DEAR BUGGED: Tell your boyfriend he's absolutely right—the past should be forgotten. And if he doesn't quit bugging you, it means HE doesn't love or trust YOU.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DISCOURAGED IN DENVER: Try harder. Self-discipline can be just as self-satisfying as self-indulgence. And infinitely more rewarding.

Do you hate to write letters of condolences, congratulations, and thanks. It's not difficult when you let Abby guide you in her booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Museum To Take Break

The Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College will be closed Thursday and Friday for the spring holiday.

Classes at the college are in recess for a week-long Spring Break, but offices and the museum will be open Monday through Wednesday.

The museum will be open on Sunday, March 25, and that will be the final day for visitors to see the exhibit of photographs by Bill Wright of Abilene. Most of Wright's photographs were made on a visit to Nepal, and the exhibit includes color and black and white prints.

Regular museum hours are 9-12 and 1-5 Monday through Thursday, 9-12 and 1-4 on Fridays and 1-5 on Sundays. Visitors to the museum this week may need to park in the East Parking Lot rather than the West Parking Lot due to some paving planned during the Spring Break.

Hearing Test Set For Snyder.

Free Electronic hearing tests will be given at the Pal-O-Mar Motel. East Hwy. 180 Tuesday March 20, 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Factory-trained hearing aid specialists will be at the Pal-O-Mar Motel to perform the test.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a test using modern electronic equipment to determine if his loss is one which may be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained, and diagrams of how the ear works will be shown.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out if they are one of the many a hearing aid can help.

The free hearing test will be given at the Pal-O-Mar Motel, East Hwy 180 Snyder, Texas. If you can't come Tuesday call 573-2633 and arrange for an appointment at another time. In home testing is also available.

All Hearing Aid users are welcome to our services. Batteries for all makes.

COLLEGE GIFT—Dr. Carl Dillaha, left, has given this horse to the Farm & Ranch Management department at Western Texas College. Shown with him is Kent Mills, FRM instructor. The horse was given in lieu of Dr. Dillaha's annual scholarship to the department and it will be used by students in their lab work on Dr. Dillaha's farm and on area ranches. Farm and Ranch Management students study fundamental principles of farm and ranch operation and put these principles into practice by performing a variety of work on site.

Oil Interests Ask RRC To Lift Dumping Ban

AUSTIN (AP)—Oil operators, companies that dispose of oil field brine and legislators have asked the Railroad Commission to lift its ban against disposing of brine in Whalen Lake in Andrews County.

Their testimony was taken under advisement.

The commission shut down disposal operations at the lake Oct. 23, declaring there had been "substantial pollution."

President Arnold Darrow of Whalen Corp., which operates the principal brines disposal facility at the playa lake, told commission examiners Thursday his company has spent more than $77,000 over the past two years to improve its facilities and the appearance of the lake.

Danny Pence, a Texas Tech wildlife professor appearing for Whalen, said he was unaware of any creditable evidence that brine disposal at the lake had caused bird deaths.

"It is my experience that it is uncommon during any year to visit any playa lake which has moderate to heavy use by waterfowl in the Texas Panhandle and not observe at least a few carcasses of waterfowl which have succumbed to any one or several causes," Pence testified.

He said he had toured Whalen Lake in late January and found nothing he considered as an overt hazard to aquatic birds or waterfowl.

Midge Erskine of Midland, operator of a bird rehabilitation center, submitted letters from persons she identified as a chemist and a veterinarian. The letters said brines cause death to waterfowl.

WTC Judo Students In National Meet

Eight students from Western Texas College will participate in the National Collegiate Judo Championships at California State University in Long Beach on March 23-24.

WTC students who have qualified for the nationals competition are Soyla Santos of O'Donnell, Kathleen Utsman of Colorado City, Danny Ramoz of San Angelo, Joe Dunn of Loraine, Mark Thomas of Alaska, and Debbie Sewell, David Peralez and Tony Whittenburg of Snyder.

Dr. Shelby Hillis from WTC will accompany the students and will also be serving as coach for Texas students, representing the Texas Judo Black Belt Association. Hillis has recently been named chairman of collegiate judo in Texas and will serve as coordinator for collegiate activities.

The WTC judo players were to participate in an open tournament in Odessa Saturday before starting their trip to Long Beach.

Hillis plans to attend the national high school competition in Rogers, Ark., on May 4-5 and will serve as a referee there.

Don't forget dried fruits such as raisins and apricots for quick energy, says Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Horticulture Seminar Set Here Tuesday

Specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will discuss production practices relative to fruits and nuts, vegetables and plant diseases at a meeting in Room A of the Scurry County Coliseum beginning at 1:30 p.m., March 20.

Dr. George McEachern, Dr. Roland Roberts and Dr. Robert Berry will be the speakers.

The information presented will be designed for the home owner with fruit and nut yard trees and the home gardener interested in vegetable production. Each year plant diseases cause considerable concern to producers, whether he be a home gardener or a commercial grower, and the information on plant diseases will be applicable to both type of producers.

Anyone interested in this type of information is encouraged to attend.

Heater-Treater Fire Doused

The report came in about 2:55 p.m., and the fire occurred about 17 miles outside town. Reports show the unit was owned by Bentley-Laing Co.

Three Mishaps Investigated

Three minor traffic accidents were reported Friday to city police.

One wreck involved a parked 1978 Mercury owned by Alex LeFeuvre that was struck by a vehiele which apparently fled the scene. That collision was discovered about 1:30 p.m. in the 2400 block of College Ave.

At 8:40 p.m., in the 3600 block of College, two cars collided. Involved in that collision were a 1978 Ford driven by Timothy Dean Stahl and a 1973 Ford driven by Val Francis Lapin.

A March 15 accident was also belatedly reported to police. It involved a 1979 Caprice driven by Emma Herrera that struck a tile fence owned by Doug Morris causing an estimated $25 damage and a sign owned by Barrie Bowlin causing about $50 damage. The mishap occurred in the 1800 block of College Ave.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Your Birthday

Bernice Bede Osol

March 18, 1979

This coming year you could be rather lucky at things you either create or inaugurate. Use your ambition and imagination to the fullest.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Situations where you can use your leadership qualities will be the ones you shine at today. Your way of doing things is just a shade or two better than others. Learn more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

ARIES (March 11-April 19) Things you do with the family will turn out to be the most pleasant today. It might be a crazy, but extremely fulfilling, day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The more people you are around today the better you'll like it. If you don't have plans, make some which involve sharing in a group activity.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Competition stimulates and brings out the best in you today. This should be a rewarding day if you choose activities with this in mind.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your magnetic personality is showing today. Don't be surprised if you find yourself surrounded by friends and admirers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Facades of superficial people don't fool you today. You know where the real values in life lie and this is where and with whom you'll spend your time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Joy and happiness will come to you today from two separate sources, yet each will involve your sharing of something.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Even though it is Sunday, something quite fortunate could happen today to affect your career or work in some manner. The rewards are large.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Lady Luck is making certain that all goes well with you today. Don't be surprised if you pick up an admirer or two.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) When you aren't looking today, something very unusual could occur to bring you happiness, as well as possibly adding to your collection of things.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There isn't much chance you'll be bored today. Friends who always come up with new and different things to do will be camping on your doorstep.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your ingenuity can be put to very profitable use today, so be prepared to use it. Something beneficial could even develop at a social gathering.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

March 19, 1979

This coming year offers exceptional promise in two unrelated areas. One is with your social standing and the other could fatten your bank account.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There are special advantages earmarked just for you today. Don't let another who has been a drag tag along and upset your chances. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you for the next year? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If someone is giving you a hard time today, speak up for what you believe in. You'll discover many supporters ready to back you up.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A condition you didn't figure on may look like it will halt your plans. However, everything works out so successfully, you'd think you planned it that way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something is in the offing today to give you an opportunity to make much more money than you were able to previously. Stay alert.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Use your head today instead of just your muscle. You have a chance to bring together several factors that will result in an extremely successful adventure.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If things aren't exactly right for you, talk to as many people as possible today. Someone you least expect will step forward with your solution.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The old saying that "we can never have too many friends" will prove true when several recently made acquaintances prove extremely valuable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is a major change coming, one with an advantageous effect on your career. This could come about through someone you run into today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your ideas are exceptionally sound today. You stand a chance to correct an annoying problem and to receive great recognition as well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Make your personal goals second to those of others. Surprisingly, you'll receive far greater rewards than those you'd have gone after.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Alliances made today are especially fortunate for you. This will be doubly true if you team up with high-caliber people and if you've prepared to adjust your thinking.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A fortunate development that could affect the status of your work or career might present itself today. Accept it for the blessing it is.

Cage Duo Gains Some Recognition

By The Associated Press

Penn and St. John's hardly have been mentioned as basketball powerhouses this season: certainly not in the same class as Michigan State and Notre Dame.

But Penn, the unheralded Ivy League champion, and lightly regarded St. John's, the last team extended an invitation to the 40-team NCAA tournament, have reached the same plateau as third-ranked Michigan State, the Big Ten Conference co-champion, and No. 4 Notre Dame, the nation's outstanding independent.

Sunday, Penn and St. John's play for the NCAA East Regional championship at Greensboro, N.C., while Michigan State and Notre Dame meet for the Mideast Regional title at Indianapolis.

The odds on Penn and St. John's reaching their present positions were astronomical. They were seeded ninth and 10th, respectively, in the 10-team East Regional.

Notre Dame and Michigan State, meanwhile, are right where they expected to be; they were seeded 1-2, respectively, in the Mideast Regional.

All four teams won their regional semifinal games Friday night.

Snyder Finishes Third At Brownfield...

Cats Wearing Five Blue Ribbons

BROWNFIELD – Snyder High School boys track team pulled down four individual first place ribbons to take third at the Cub Relays held here Friday.

The Tigers will host the annual Canyon Reef Relays in Snyder, March 24.

Lloyd Benson, Thomas Selmon, Brad Richardson and Dale Jenkins all grabbed first places as the Tigers polled 145 points. Brownfield won the meet with 166, followed by Levelland with 154, Snyder 145, Lamesa with 55 and Seminole with 54½.

Benson ran the 440 in 52.1 for his ribbon while Selmon leaped 22-4 in the broad jump. Jenkins vaulted 13-6 and Richardson cleared the high jump at 6-4.

The Tiger 440 relay team also took first place, racing to a time of 44.4.

Second place ribbons went to Jenkins, for his 16.1 effort in the 120 high hurdles and to the mile relay team for its time of 3:39.3.

Taking third were Cary Welsh in the discus with a throw of 120-0, Miguel Ortegon for his 53.5 time in the 440, Robert Schooler for a 4:47.0 effort in the mile run, and the Tiger two-mile relay team for its 9:10.7 mark.

Brownfield and Levelland took first places in all the other events, and wrapped up a large number of second through sixth place points.

Snyder undoubtedly lost some points when it was determined earlier this week that junior sprinter-hurdler Keith McClain was scholastically ineligible.

Take A Handful Of 2nd Place Ribbons...

Felines Find Fourth At Spur

SPUR – Snyder varsity girls track team opened this season's campaign with a fourth place finish at the Spur Relays here Friday.

Lubbock Monterey won the meet's division II with 132 points, followed by Abilene Cooper with 125, Slaton with 99 and Snyder with 94. Abilene High grabbed 38 points while Sweetwater and Post accounted for 33 and 6 respectively.

"We did real well for the amount of girls running," commented Coach Ken Housden, who explained Snyder fielded 10 girls in the running events while the Abilene and Lubbock schools had in the neighborhood of 35 each.

"We didn't have anyone in the 440 dash the 880 or any of the long-distance events and that hurt us," he added.

Snyder was also without the services of Cindy Koonsman, out with a leg injury.

The Felines grabbed several second place ribbons however. Lesa Sterling took second place in the triple jump with a mark of 30-4 and finished third in the long jump with an effort of 15-11. Dana Elrod was second in the long jump with a 16-1½.

Sarah Fagin placed second in the 80-yard hurdles, snapping the string with a time of 12.4. Taina Barrett was fourth in the run with an effort of 12.9.

In the 220 dash, Pam Brown notched second place with a 29.0. Brenda Anderson was second in the 100 dash with a time of 12.85. Anderson was sixth in the shot with a heave of 31-10½.

Also taking second place was the 880 relay team of Kelly Dryden, Karen Littlepage, Elrod and Anderson. The time was 1:55.8.

Snyder took third place in the 440 relay with a time of 53.8. Fagin, Sterling, Anderson and Brown ran the distance for the Tigers.

In the Mile Relay Snyder was fourth (Brown, Sterling, Littlepage, Elrod) with a time of 4:35.0.

Also, Fagin took third in the 100 dash with a time of 13.0.

March 24 the girls will attend the Coahoma Relays.

Lam 'N' Dickey To Vie At Texas Relays

AUSTIN (AP)-Curtis Dickey of Texas A&M, winner of the 60-yard dash at the recent NCAA indoor meet, will duel Olympic sprinter Johnny "Lam" Jones in a special 100-meter race at the Texas Relays, April 6-7.

Jones, a junior at the University of Texas, dropped out of school this semester and is running unattached.

Last year Dickey won the 100 meters at the Relays in 10.22 seconds, and Jones, coming off a leg injury, was seventh in 10.53.

The Relays is the first major outdoor track and field meet of the season and is expected to attract up to 2,500 athletes from 150 schools.

The schools include Texas-El Paso, which was second in the NCAA indoor meet: Brigham Young; Arizona State; Louisiana State; Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas from the Big Eight Conference; and all the Southwest Conference schools.

Francie Larrieu, the women's American record holder in the mile, now lives here and will run.

Michael Carter of Dallas Jefferson, a football recruit of Southern Methodist, recently broke the national high school record in the shot put and will defend his Relays title in that event.

The 1979 Relays has been shifted back to Friday night and Saturday after a experiment last year with a Saturday-Sunday format.

Lambright Hospitalized

RUSTON, La. (AP)-Louisiana Tech Athletic Director Maxie Lambright, who retired as football coach after last season, has been hospitalized in intensive care with heart problems.

"Coach Lambright had a little heart problem, but he's okay now," said Harold Smolinski, chairman of the school's athletic council.

Hogs Defeat Rice Netters

HOUSTON (AP)—A powerful Arkansas tennis team blasted Rice 8-1 in a Southwest Conference match Friday, with Ron Hightower and Peter Hawking leading the way in No. 1 and No. 2 singles.

Hightower rolled over Owl Dan Rastland 6-2, 6-2, while Hawking had a harder time in beating Rocky Royer 6-3, 6-7, 6-4.

The only Razorback loss came in No. 1 doubles when the team of Royer and Jay Evert edged Hightower and Peter Cowden 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

A Fan's-Eye View, Or Kamikaze Coaching

By BILL McCLELLAN

Hello sports fans! Tonight we have a special interview for you, courtesy of KAGE News in the Hutchabin, Kansas. As you know we're about to kick off the NBCA, National Big College Association Tournament here, and we've been talking with the various coaches nightly.

This evening however, we plan to give you a different look. We've selected a typical basketball fan - beady eyes; large mouth - and asked him to put himself in the role of a coach. Just how would the typical fan coach a team anyway? We'll find out in just a moment.

REPORTER: Harry, Harry Stutterstep. That right?

HARRY: That's right, that's right. Boy this is a thrill!

REPORTER: Okay Harry, settle down now. As coach, tell us how you'd go about preparing your team for the big game.

HARRY: First thing I'd do is crowd them all together in the gym. I'd have 'em sit on the floor and I'd climb up in the second row of bleachers, Ya' know?

REPORTER: So you would be like a power figure, looming over them in total command, right?

HARRY: No, so I'd be at eye level with them. That's very important, looking right in their eyes.

REPORTER: Harry, do you have a feeling you are too short to be a coach?

HARRY: No, not at all. It's not size at all, it's what you've got up in your head that counts.

REPORTER: That's what I mean. Don't you think you're a little too short?

HARRY: What? I don't think I understood the question.

REPORTER: S'all right. Listen Harry, as a fan become coach, what is your biggest gripe with the game? What would you change?

HARRY: The officials. Definately the officials. Boy, this is some thrill!

REPORTER: You think there ought to be three officials out there in the NBCA?

HARRY: No, height is the problem. It's all wrong. It's all wrong. I don't really want to talk about them.

REPORTER: I don't believe I understand.

HARRY: Well, okay. Most officials right now are about 5-10, 5-11. Maybe frustrated basketball players, ya' know? Not all of 'em, but I swear sometimes the only reason most blocked shots are called fouls is 'cause the ref was never able to do anything like that when he was playing eight years ago. He can't imagine anyone else doing it.

REPORTER: Well, you may have a point there, Harry.

HARRY: Anyway, I'd make it mandatory that refs had to come in two sizes, seven foot and four foot.

REPORTER: What! Seven foot and four foot?

HARRY: Yeah. The tall one watches hands and the short one watches feet. Too many referees, at 5-11, are calling belly-button fouls. Can't blame 'em. If they don't, all that up and down bobbing back and forth from hands to feet'll drive 'em crazy before the second half. Some are already that way, ya' know? But that's enough about referees. I don't want to talk about them anymore.

REPORTER: One final question, Harry. How would you prepare your team for a game in the national finals?

REPORTER: No?

HARRY: Naw. The teams are going to be too equal. It's one player against the other. Coaching makes no difference. It's the breaks that make the difference.

REPORTER: So you just sit back and hope for the breaks, huh?

HARRY: No, no. You use DT.

REPORTER: DT?

HARRY: Diversionary tactics. DT. You know, the old "your shoelace is untied" bit.

REPORTER: Surely nobody goes for that line anymore.

HARRY: Well, that's just an example.

REPORTER: How about some particulars?

HARRY: Sure this won't get back to the other team? We don't want to give away any secrets ya' know. Can't be too careful in this game I always say.

REPORTER: No, Harry, I doubt it.

HARRY: Okay, hmmm. Well, say your man is dribbling the ball towards the basket and some 6-10 Godzilla is in front of him. Your guys stops, stares at the fans and says, "Wow! Is that a scout for the New York Knicks? Oh boy, hi Coach!" Something like that. Then when Godzilla looks over he just passes by him for the score.

REPORTER: But that only works once doesn't it?

HARRY: Sure, but you can substitute the scout for a streaker or something. You know, change it around a little. Use your cheerleaders to your advantage if you know what I mean. Then there's the old bomb threat trick.

REPORTER: Bomb threat!

HARRY: As soon as the second half starts, you walk to your captain and tell him you saw a bomb squad wagon outside and that men in funny outfits are walking around behind the bleachers. Godzilla overhears the conversation of course, and he gets to thinking about it. Meanwhile, everybody on your team is constantly checking the exits and looking around suspiciously. Pretty soon, Godzilla has informed his teammates, and believe me, it'll cool off their shooting percentage. If Godzilla suspects something, have your trainer pop a balloon about the time he goes up for a shot. He won't be worth nothing the rest of the night. Ha!

REPORTER: Now wait a minute. Isn't all of this illegal? I mean there is no scout from the Knicks in the stands, there's no bomb or anything. Now how can you say something is there when it isn't?

HARRY: I thought we weren't going to talk about referees anymore.

REPORTER: What? Oh. Listen, I think you're nuts. Your ideas are stupid if not downright a violation of the rules. You'd made a terrible coach!

HARRY: Well, how 'bout a referee?

REPORTER: I thought you didn't like referees?

HARRY: This is different. I could be the one that watches the feet, ya' know?

REPORTER: I'm through interviewing you. You're an idiot.

HARRY: Woah, buddy! That's a technical. Godzilla, take two free throws.

Enter Monahans Finals...

Tigers Edge Lubbock

MONAHANS -- Snyder's varsity baseball squad was to enter the championship game of the Monahans Tournament here Saturday.

The Tigers, in winning their seventh contest in a row Friday, were to play Odessa Permian at 7 p.m.

Snyder made the finals by stopping a tough Lubbock High crew Friday, 5-4. The victory puts the Cats at 7-3 for the season. They play in Jal, N.M. at 5 p.m. Tuesday as the season continues.

Lubbock got a pair of runs in the top of the first inning here when a walk, a hit and two errors set the team in motion.

In the bottom of the set, Snyder tied it up as Bryan Vincent drew a walk and Richard Crayton blasted a home run.

The game stayed deadlocked until Lubbock garnered two third-inning hits to go up 3-2. The opponent scored another run off of three fifth-inning base hits.

Snyder tied the totals in the bottom of the fifth. Designated hitter Kyle Short walked, Vincent banged a basehit and Crayton smacked a long fly to deep right, scoring one run. Mackey garnered a hit as next-up to push in Snyder's fourth run of the day.

Both teams challenged in the sixth inning and Lubbock made a good effort in the seventh but came up dry.

Snyder's Vincent grounded out in the bottom of the seventh, but Crayton tripled and Mitch Mackey was given a walk. Snyder's second out came as Crayton tried to score on a wild pitch but was caught at home plate.

Moments later Snyder pitcher Sid Everton drew a walk, giving the Tigers two baserunners. Scott Crenwelge then slapped a single to score Mackey - the winning run.

Everton grabbed his third victory with the win. He gave up seven hits, walked five and struck out eight. Andy Vasquez took the loss. Vasquez also allowed seven hits, and struck out seven.

Coach Albert Lewis indicated he would start Tony Degrate on the mound Saturday against Permian. The Odessa team made it to the finals by beating Seminole (7-0) and Pecos (6-2).

The victory helped to shade some bad news coming out of the Tiger bullpen. Second baseman David Lee was spiked during an attempted steal in the fourth inning. Lee's left hand was injured and he will be out of the lineup for two weeks.

Collins' Back; Leonard Tossed

By The Associated Press

Doug Collins of the Philadelphia 76ers played his first game in nearly two months - and Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard didn't get to see much of it.

Collins, who underwent surgery Feb. 12 for an ankle bone spur and hadn't appeared in a National Basketball Association game since Jan. 21, contributed 10 points while playing 21 minutes of the 76ers' 114-106 victory over the Pacers Friday night.

Leonard was on the bench for barely 9½ minutes before referee Bernie Frayer thumbed him for objecting too strenuously to a couple of calls.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Milwaukee 134, Washington 126 in double overtime; Boston 99, Detroit 98; Low Angeles 111, Atlanta 110; Golden State 117, New Jersey 102; Kansas City 120, New Orleans 112; Phoenix 128, San Antonio 122, and Houston 124, Chicago 118.

Darryl Dawkins, who had been bothered by an irritated right kneecap, scored 29 points, including seven dunks, as the Sixers broke Indiana's four-game winning streak. James Edwards had 25 points to lead Indiana, which was coached by assistant Jerry Oliver after Brown's departure.

Bucks 134, Bullets 126

Junior Bridgeman's nine points in the second overtime shot Milwaukee past the Bullets after the teams ended regulation play at 114-114 and the first overtime at 118-118.

Bridgeman, who finished with 23 points, hit two jumps shots and two free throws and Marques Johnson, who wound up with 21, added a slam dunk as the Bucks built an unsurmountable 130-122 lead. It was only the Bucks' second road victory in 13 games. Wes Unseld had 25 points and Elvin Hayes 20 for Washington.

Celtics 99, Pistons 98

Dave Cowens sank a free throw with three seconds left to give the Celtics their victory over Detroit. Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell scored 25 points to lead Boston and Cowens had 15. M.L. Carr topped the Pistons with 23.

Kevin Porter had five assists for Detroit, putting him within 12 of the NBA season record.

Lakers 111, Hawks 110

Don Ford stole an Eddie Johnson pass, sprinted the length of the court and slammed home the basket with three seconds to play to sink the Hawks and halt the Lakers' five-game losing streak.

The Lakers trailed 109-101 with barely a minute to play before Ford's two jump shots and a sky hook by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar shaved Atlanta's lead to a basket.

Dan Roundfield's free throw with 18 seconds left gave Atlanta a seemingly unbeatable three-point lead, but Abdul-Jabbar made another hook with 14 seconds to play, then Ford made his big steal.

Abdul-Jabbar and Jamaal Wilkes led the Lakers with 27 points each. Armond Hill and Johnson had 20 apiece for the Hawks.

Warriors 117, Nets 102

Sonny Parker's 22 points and Tom Abernethy's 20 led Golden State past the Nets.

The Warriors pulled out to an 11-point lead after three periods, then scored the first six of the fourth quarter to take command. John Williamson of New Jersey scored a game-high 30 points.

Kings 120, Jazz 112

Sam Lacey scored 10 of his 22 points in the fourth quarter as the Kings held off New Orleans. Kansas City held a four-point edge in the closing minutes before Otis Birdsong's jumper and Lacey's pair of foul shots put the Kings ahead 112-104 with 1:42 to go.

Suns 128, Spurs 122

Paul Westphal poured in 43 points and Alvan Adams added 32, each of them scoring a key basket in the final minute when Phoenix after trailing most of the game, pulled away from a 122-122 tie. Seventeen of Adams' points came in the final period.

Rockets 124, Bulls 118

Moses Malone's 32 points and 22 rebounds plus a 21-point game by Rudy Tomjanovich and 20 points from Mike Dunleavy enabled the Rockets to withstand Chicago's late charge.

Discards Instant Replay Idea...

NFL Adopts Several Safety Rule Changes

HONOLULU (AP)-Nobody will ever know how much Billy "White Shoes" Johnson would have helped the Houston Oilers or Elvis Peacock would have aided the Los Angeles Rams at the end of the 1978 National Football League season.

They were on injured reserve status and, even though they might have recovered, they were out for the season.

Since the NFL has gone to 16 regular season games, it has now made a change in the injured reserve status so that some can return from the hurt list.

At the same concluding session of its annual meeting, the owners discarded television instant replay as an aid to their officials. The attitude seemed to be, after experiments, that we do okay without it.

Six new rules were adopted toward protecting players from injury and the owners may go further into the broken bone problems at their summer session.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle once again stepped into the ring in behalf of former boxing manager Max Winter, who now is president of the Minnesota Vikings.

While a legislative committee was voting against the Vikings' bid for a new domed stadium, Gov. Al Quie said Friday that the Metropolitan Sports Facilities Commission should be given "another crack" at the stadium question.

But Rozelle reiterated the NFL owners were angered by the attempt of at least one Minnesota legislator to twist the stability of the NFL into assurance that the Vikings must stay in Minnesota.

The safety rules were:

-Prohibiting all players on the receiving team from blocking opponents below the waist during kickoffs, punts and field goal attempts.

-Stipulating mandatory equipment for all players when they play and outlining illegal equipment.

-Broadening the zone where the crackback block is illegal (Coaches agreed they will discuss the prohibition of chop-blocking preceedures).

-Granting permission for players to wear elbow and knee pads during off-season camps and all tryouts.

MDA Sets Fish Tourney Benefit

HUNTINGTON -- The Fifth Annual Bass Tournament benefitting the Muscular Dystrophy Association will be held March 31 and April 1 at Lake Sam Rayburn.

Holiday Marina will be the center of activities for the event.

Nearly $10,000 in prizes will be offered, including a King Fisher Model 171, Roadmaster Custom trailer, rods, reels, hunting knives and other sport equipment.

Many family activities will also be sponsored, including a kiddie tournament, games, displays and a huge fish fry.

Entry fee is $75. The field is limited to 300 fishermen. For further information, call 573-6110 after 6 p.m.

All net proceeds will go to support the continuing patient services and research of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Higher Food, Oil Add Force...

Spiral Squeezes Plan

NEW YORK (AP)—With higher food and oil prices adding force to the inflation spiral, there are signs that the administration's inflation fighting plan may be buckling under the pressure.

The Administration so far hasn't changed its inflation forecast of 7.4 percent for the year. But some officials have all but admitted they will have to in the face of double-digit trends that may continue for several months.

Private forecasters, who at the start of the year were predicting somewhat slower inflation this year than last year's level of about 9 percent are now moving forecasts back up to the 9 percent to 10 percent range as an average price rise for 1979. Those forecasts generally call for the worst inflation through the first half of the year then some decline.

Administration concern over this trend became more than evident this past week as top inflation fighter Alfred Kahn took a strident note with businessmen and criticized small businesses in particular for failing to follow the government's voluntary price guideline.

Matt Bahr kicked 22 field goals for Penn State in 1978, an NCAA major-college record.

April Proclaimed Church Month

The churches of Scurry County are joining together in a community-wide emphasis on Sunday School attendance during the month of April. The Sunday School campaign theme is "We Really Do Need Each Other."

Mayor John Fagin has proclaimed the month of April as "Attend the Sunday School of Your Choice Month."

A sign will be erected on the courthouse lawn depicting the Sunday School attendance of Scurry County for each of the Sundays in April. The featured Sundays are as follows: April 1, All The Family Sunday; April 8, Bring A Friend Sunday; April 15, Easter Sunday; April 22, Beat Our Best Sunday; and April 29, Membership Sunday.

Each church in Scurry County will be called upon to report its Sunday School attendance after each Sunday in April.

CHURCH MONTH---April has been set aside as "Attend the Sunday School of Your Choice Month" based on a proclamation signed by Snyder Mayor John Fagin, seated. On the left is Monte Jones, vicar of St. John's Episcopal Church, and on the right is Rev. James R. Jackson, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church and president of the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance. (SDN Staff Photo)

Tortilla Curtain Placed On Hold

WASHINGTON (AP)—A California congressman whose district borders Mexico says the Carter administration apparently has shelved a plan for building a double fence - a "tortilla curtain" - along the U.S.-Mexico border to help curb illegal Mexican border crossings.

"It looks as if the fence will not be built," Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., said Friday.

He said White House and State Department pressure on the Justice Department has resulted in a "hold" on building plans for 12 miles of fence in border zones near San Diego, Calif., and El Paso, Texas.

The Justice Department, which includes the U.S. Border Patrol and the Immigration and Naturalization Service, advocated the barrier plan and issued a $1.9 million construction contract five months ago to Anchor Post Products of Baltimore, Md.

A Justice Department official said a decision on the fence will be announced April 15 in statements from Washington and Mexico City, the congressmen said.

In a response to a reporter's questions, a Justice Department spokesman said, "to my knowledge there has been no decision. The question of building it is still on hold."

Van Deerlin said the Baltimore company has yet to be informed of a change in plans.

"Whether or not the project is dead," the congressman said, "we're going to need tougher laws to discourage the employment of and trafficking in illegal aliens."

Van Deerlin, who supports construction of a barrier, said mail from his constituents is running two to one in favor of the plan.

Hiatal hernia cases differ

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column in the paper about the lady who had the hiatal hernia and dragged herself around all day. I discussed this with my husband and we felt it was important to write to you.

My husband suffered with this and was operated on for it 19 years ago. He is sweet and pink and round instead of cranky, green and skinny. The dragged out feeling was due to acute anemia from internal bleeding at the hiatal hernia.

We'll always be grateful for the surgery that relieved his pain and weakness. Before that, he'd gone for years without being properly diagnosed and had been treated with vitamin B-12 injections and a bland diet, but that didn't help much.

DEAR READER — If a person has a severe anemia from any cause, it is apt to cause him to feel fatigued and exhausted. Fortunately, a simple blood test will at least identify the presence or absence of anemia. A further definition as to the type of anemia and what treatment should be used may require further testing.

It's true that some people can bleed from a hernia of the stomach through the diaphragm (hiatal hernia). That is one of the complications of a hiatal hernia. Fortunately, a lot of people have hiatal hernias who do not have this complication. In those people, provided their diet is adequate and they don't have any other health problems, you will not find an anemia and that's why those people don't have the dragged out, tired feeling that your husband experienced. In point of fact, a large number of people have small hiatal hernias which cause no symptoms at all.

I'm glad your husband received good results from his surgery. Sometimes surgery is necessary in people who have bleeding complications from the hernia. The fact that it was necessary and successful in your husband's case does not mean that surgery should be used for all other people who have hiatal hernia.

Many people who have symptoms of burning and irritation in the pit of the stomach and also have a hiatal hernia have these symptoms because of a leak of the acid contents of the stomach into the lower esophagus. Unfortunately, repairing the hernia does not always correct the leak. The closure mechanism at the top of the stomach may still remain faulty after the hernia has been repaired. That's why some people continue to have burning and irritation in the pit of the stomach even after surgery.

So, what is the answer? It's an individual matter. Each case has to be looked at individually. If a person has a small hiatal hernia and has no symptoms, drastic treatment is certainly not indicated.

In another instance, where the hernia is associated with complications such as the bleeding in your husband's case, then the answer has to be entirely different. That's one reason for doctors, not only to make diagnoses but to evaluate the total picture and decide what the best treatment should be in that individual case.

Readers who want more information about hiatal hernia and what you can do for it can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 5-8. Address your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

3 Paintings Now On View

WASHINGTON (AP)- The National Gallery of Art says three paintings it has acquired during the past year are on view at present.

The 19th-century paintings are by American artists Eastman Johnson (1824-1906), Francis William Edmonds (1806-1863) and Thomas Wilmer Dewing (1851-1938).

Johnson's painting is titled "The Brown Family," Edmonds' is "The Bashful Counsin," and Dewing's is "Lady with a Lute."

The gallery also says it has acquired two "major works of early 16th-century German graphic art - a drawing by Hans Burgmair entitled 'The Fight in the Forest,' and an etching by Albrecht Altdorfer entitled 'The Large Landscape with a Watermill."

Bookbinding Exhibition

NEW YORK (AP)-"Twelve Centuries of Bookbindings," an exhibition of more than 100 examples from the Morgan Library's collection, will be on show through April 8.

The library says the show "Will trace the history of bookbinding from the 5th century to the end of its golden age, the 16th century in France and Italy."

Two other exhibitions run through April 14. They are "Medieval Manuscript Leaves" and "Bab' Ballads and Their Operas." The first will show over three dozen single leaves of the 12th to 16th centuries from the library's collection. The latter deals with "W.S. Gilbert's early contributions to the comic weekly Fun, many of which reveal the origins of 'H.M.S. Pinafore, 'Patience' and 'Iolanthe.''

West Texas Activity Directors Meet Here

Dr. Gilbert Fleer, counselor and instructor of WTC, was speaker at a meeting of activity directors for nursing homes. In the course of instruction Dr. Fleer stressed psychological and sociological understanding for persons working with nursing home residents. Activity directors are called on to plan and implement programs of physical and mental stimulation that will respond to the total needs of the persons they serve, he told the group.

Special emphasis is placed on the aging process, physical and psychological impairment, personal interaction and communications, leadership dynamics and personal and community resources, he concluded. The course involves 80 hours of instruction.

Attending, other than those pictured, are Jerry Wooddell, Marsha McAdams and Darlene Hamrick, all from Leisure Lodge, Loraine; Joni Benfield and Patti Brooks, Leisure Lodge, Abilene; Sue Galbreath, Leisure Lodge, Anson; Florence Putman, Leisure Lodge, Roscoe; Clara Hoskins, LSnyder Oaks Care Center,; Snyder; Ossie Crowley, Holiday Lodge, Hamlin; Jane Webb, Root Valley Fair Lodge, Colorado City; LuJane Walker, Golden Haven, Rotan; Glynna Seals, Anson Memorial, Anson; Dottie Baer, Burmont, Abilene; Mary Pallarez, Starr, Merkel; Betty Clinard, Happy Haven, Abilene; Sara Buevara, Shady Oaks, Abilene.

EARN CAMPERSHIPS—These girl Scouts were the top three cookie sellers in the February GS cookie sale. Robin Rodgers of Troop 223 sold 19 cases and was the outstanding salesman for Brownies. Christy Gannaway, Junior Troop 203, sold 22 cases and six boxes which earned her a full campership at Boothe Oaks. Janetta Pylant, right, of Junior Troop 62, sold 18 cases and earned ¾ campership. There is an excellent chapter on safety plays in "Play of the Hand with Blackwood."

Here is an old hand that is well worth study.

You are in three notrump against a 10 of clubs lead. Can you play safe for your contract?

You certainly can, unless that lead happened to be a singleton. Just duck in both hands!

The actual hand shows East with three clubs to the queen. If he puts up his queen, South just plays his ace and gets four club tricks. If he holds the queen back, South gets only three clubs. But two spades and four diamonds get him to the magic total of nine.

If West has led from Q-10-9-8, South will play his ace of clubs next. East will show out and South will have a proven finesse.

And if West started with queen-10-small, the queen would drop on the third lead. South would collect one less trick than he could have scored, but his contract would have been safe.

Saturday Series

NEW YORK (AP)-The Metropolitan Museum of Art says a new Saturday series of gallery events has been inaugurated at The Colisters.

The series, which continues through June 30, was organized "to introduce visitors on an informal basis to a variety of medieval crafts and related arts."

During the next few months, save energy and money, advises Pat Seaman, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Turn off the home heating system as soon as possible and wait until very warm weather comes to use the air conditioning, the specialist recommends.

Parents Direct Loves In Children's Lives

Parents play an important role in creating an environment where the "loves in our lives" can grow and develop.

Children need other 'Loves' in their lives besides the affection they learn to express for friends and family.

Four special loves can help children become independent, self-confident adults.

--Love of learning. Stimulate enthusiasm for new skills, new places and new ideas. If children feel good about learning, they will enjoy it instead of fearing failure or poor grades on their report cards. Encouraging a love of learning in children can result in a desire to learn which will remain with them always.

--Love of liberty. Allow freedom--appropriate to the child's age and abilities--to touch, taste, explore, play, choose friends and even make noise. Children learn to love liberty, become independent and develop a sense of adventure if they are not over-disciplined. "Too many "no's" or "don't" can result eventually in a passive adult who lacks self-confidence or initiative.

--Love of law. Set reasonable limits geared to each child's age, developmental level and abilities--and explain to the child why the rules are necessary. Reasonable limits provide a guide for the child; they help him understand what is acceptable behavior. Don't feel guilty for saying "no." Rules help a child learn self-discipline and respect for laws.

--Love of life. Show your child he is loved and valued as a person.

HORTICULTURAL MEETING MARCH 20

Don't forget the meeting scheduled for March 20 on "Fruits, Nuts, Vegetables and Diseases." It will be at 1:30 p.m. in Room A of the coliseum. Specialists in these areas will present the program.

QUALITY PLANTING SEED KEY TO COTTON PRODUCTION

Although seed cost represents only a small portion of the total expenses of growing cotton; high quality planting seed and profitable cotton production go hand-in-hand.

What does high quality seed mean to the cotton producer?

First, it can give producers a head start in getting their crop up. Quality seed is essential for planting early in the season when unfavorable weather is more likely. Of course, if planting is delayed long enough, even poor quality seed can usually result in some stand. High quality seed can cope with a wider range of planting conditions and still come up to a uniform stand.

Second, high quality seed is one of the best weapons against seedling disease that is responsible for much replanting over the state each year. Most replanting is usually done after the optimum planting date, and this can spell trouble for the rest of the season since it results in a late crop.

Knowing the quality of your seed before planting is just as important as knowing the amount of fertilizer needed in each field.

If a producer has saved his own seed if should be tested for germination. This will indicate whether the seed should be delinted for planting or whether it should go to the oil mill.

While a regular warm germination test indicates the percentage of viable seed, it does not always indicate seed vigor or field emergence, especially if conditions are unfavorable for germination and seedling growth. A cool test will give additional information on seed vigor and how well the seed will emerge in the field. Seed are germinated at temperatures of 65 to 68 degrees F. and counted after six to seven days. Weak, low quality seed will not develop normal seedlings under these test conditions.

If a cotton producer is unsure about the quality of his seed, he should consider purchasing certified seed. This will assure him of varietal purity and the germination percent as indicated on the seed label.

High quality planting seed is basic to getting your crop off to a good start. Don't go to the field without it.

Ray Summers has been elected president of the newly organized Golden K Kiwanis Club, with E.B. (Pete) Glass named secretary-treasurer.

The Golden K now has 20 members, and membership is open, Summers said. The club will meet at noon on Tuesdays in the Senior Citizens Center at 2705 Avenue M, and men interested in joining are invited to attend the meeting next Tuesday.

Members of the Noon Kiwanis Club have helped organize the new club. Presentation of the club charter is planned at ceremonies in May, and men who become members before that time will be listed as charter members.

Present members of the Golden K in addition to Summers and Glass are Owen Miller, Dale Glover, Dean Cochran, John Wiman, A.E. Deen, Olen Johnson, T.A. Faver, George Montandon, E.J. York, Jack Burney, Jeff Stubblefield, Gilbert Fields, Ben F. Wilson, J.L. Byars, Wayne Williams, J.B. Newton, Alton Greenfield and J.M. Glass.

Realtors Back Bill To Float Interest Rates

By a unanimous vote of the Texas Association of Realtors legislative committee in Austin this week the full support of the state's largest trade association was thrown behind legislation designed to increase the availability of home mortgage money, giving the maximum benefit to the borrowing public.

S.S. Steinberg, president of the Snyder Board of Realtors said, "Realtors are actively supporting the committee substitute for Senate Bill 134, carried by Sen. Bill Meier and its companion bill in the House by Rep. Jerry Donaldson.

The committee substitute includes the provision that a mortgagor whose mortgage bears an interest rate in excess of 10 percent per annum may prepay such a mortgage without penalty. And should the interest rate in the marketplace drop below the rate being paid in his mortgage he would be able to choose renegotiating his note or refinancing elsewhere at a lower rate.

"We are also glad to report that the amended bill will provide that the savings and loan section of the Finance Commission and the Savings and Loan Commissioner will be directed to promulgate rules and regulations whereby variable interest mortgages may be made by savings and loan associations. Of course, such rules will comply with the Federal Home Loan Bank Board Alternatives Mortgates Instrument Final Rule which went into effect January 1 of this year.

"This will mean that variable rate mortgages may be made by contract with a borrower wherein the rate of interest in the note will vary with the regional or national cost-of-funds index. The contract or agreement with the borrower would clearly set out the dates of interest adjustment and the date the monthly payment would be affected by such adjustment. The agreement would have provisions of minimum adjustment 10 percent and maximum adjustment 50 percent in any one year, with a maximum increase during the life of the 2.5 percent and no maximum decrease."

Steinberg said that TAR's president, George Sandlin of Austin, is also asking that Realtors support other bills in Austin which will assist in making additional funds available for home mortgages.

"For example, we feel that Bill SB267 by Sen. Ike Harris would make it possible for domestic life insurance companies to make 90 percent and some 95 percent loans with private mortgage insurance. You see, currently, insurance company funds being channeled into the home mortgage area are now being held back by a 75 percent loan limit.

"Realtors are also looking favorably on Sen Lloyd Bentsen's bill, S246, which would exempt from income tax the first $500 of interest received from savings by an individual taxpayer or the first $1,000 in a joint return. This tax savings would retain funds in the financial institutions which furnish the majority of funds available for home loans. We are asking our members in TAR to support Bentsen's legislation on behalf of the many thousands of homebuyers now finding mortgage money so difficult to find."

Students Are Gone, But Offices Open

Students at Western Texas College will be taking time out for spring break this week, but offices at the college will be open on the regular schedule from Monday through Wednesday.

Classes will be resumed on March 26.

Several special events are scheduled at WTC during April. A piano concert by Ronald Clinton of Austin is planned in the Fine Arts Theatre on April 1, and a reception honoring Marian Ford will be held in the Scurry County Museum on the campus that same day. Ms. Ford will be exhibiting graphics in the museum from April 1-30. The Fine Arts Gallery will host a showing of batiks by Rebecca Munro of Austin during April.

The Goldcoat Scholarship Golf Tournament is to be held on the WTC course on April 7. The tournament will be moved to April 14 in the event of bad weather.

The annual Awards Day program has been set for April 19, with recognition to be extended to students for outstanding achievement during the school year.

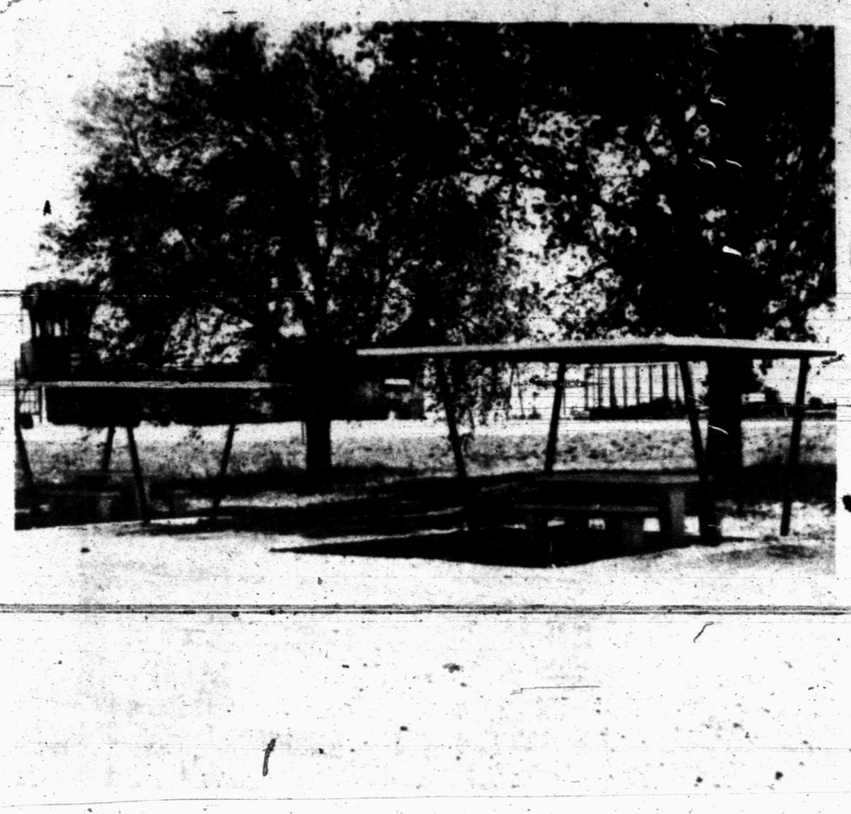
WTC will host an NIRA rodeo from April 26-28.

Success Predicted For Lunch Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee predicts "we are going to succeed in this congress" in fighting plans to cut the federally subsidized school lunch program.

Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., said at a subcommittee hearing Tuesday he will fight the proposed plan, aimed at saving the Agriculture Department $146 million by cutting the school lunch subsidy by five cents a meal. But Carol Tucker Foreman, who administers the $9 billion Food and Nutrition Service, said the changes would mean only that "children from middle- and upper-income families would have to pay about $9 more per year for their lunch at school."

In 1919, Grand Duchess Charlotte ascended to the throne of Luxembourg.



IRA'S CROSSROADS PARK--Ira residents built this little park in memory of the community's founder, Ira Green.

Scurryly Speaking...

Ira's Crossroads Park Memorial To Founder

Editor's Note--This is an article prepared for the Scurry County Historical Commission, which recently resumed its monthly series on topics involving the history of Scurry County.

By OPAL B. BROWN

IRA--In 1976 when we were all thinking of the past 200 years, or how we happened to be where we were, and of how our country came to be, each little community held some kind of celebration, and most of them did something to commemorate the beginning of their own particular settlement.

Our contribution to the centennial year was a park at the crossroads in memory of Ira Green.

Ira had its beginning when the wheel of a freighter's wagon broke and he was held up for a few days while a new wheel was brought out from Colorado City to replace the broken one.

While the freighter (Ira Green) waited for the new wheel, he sold his load of freight to the settlers in the area.

Later Green built a store at the crossroads.

In February of 1899 a post office was established at the store. The name "Greenville" was asked for at the time but since there was already a Greenville, Texas, this name was refused by the post office department.

As it had become a common among the people of the area to say, "Go down to Ira's to pick up the mail," they decided to ask that the post office be named Ira, and that name was accepted.

In 1976 the centennial year, all the people of Ira banded together to raise the money to build the little park at the cross roads in memory of Ira Green.

We are proud of the park and hope that it will remain a memory in the years to come that our children can look to and know that this is home, this is where their roots are planted in the earth.

Hermleigh Highlights...

Play Set For Thursday

HERMLEIGH — "Mooncalf Mugford," the Hermleigh High School entry in U.I.L. One Act Play competition, will be presented to the public on Thursday, March 22.

The play will begin at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium and will follow the Hermleigh town meeting, according to Phyllis Smith, director of the play.

"Mooncalf Mugford" is a dramatic play set in New England during the late 1800's. The play features Jackie Williamson, a freshman in her first dramatic role as Etta Mugford, a woman about 50 years old who is torn between sanity and the insane world of her husband.

Etta's husband, John Mugford, played by senior Curtis W. Tate, is a man in his seventies. Mugford's preoccupation with the possibility that his wife might leave him for a younger man has driven him insane. In his paranoid mind, he believes that the only way he can keep Etta with him is to bring her into his own insane world.

Julie Roemisch, a junior, plays Tabby Pipp, Etta's nosey and eccentric neighbor.

Kellie Robbins, a sophomore, portrays Mrs. Lowell, a well-to-do Boston lady who visits the Mugford home to purchase one of the rag mats that Etta makes to occupy her mind.

Michael Castillo, a sophomore, plays John Mugford's only friend, Caleb Orne, a fisherman who has been dead twenty years.

Working on the crew are Lori Fuqua, Ann Fletcher, and Anthony Tate. The crew is responsible for lighting, sound effects, and other technical functions in the production.

Admission to the Thursday evening performance will be fifty cents. Money raised from the play will help pay production costs.

The play will be entered in zone competition with plays from McCaulley, Hobbs, and Roby at Sweetwater on Tuesday, March 27. Two winning plays will be selected to complete in district competition in Snyder on Thursday, March 29.

Scholarships Available To Teachers

ABILENE -- Abilene Christian University has announced its 22nd annual American Studies Program for the summer, June 4-July 11.

The program makes available 30 scholarships for classroom teachers which cover costs of room, fees, and tuition for six graduate hours. Any classroom teacher is eligible for an American Studies scholarship. In addition, undergraduates who expect to graduate in May and who will hold a teaching certificate at that time are eligible.

Scholarship benefits include tuition charges for six graduate hours, fees and textbooks, air conditioned dormitory rooms, meals taken in connection with American Studies program activities. Students are responsible for travel expenses, most meals and supplies and incidental expenses.

Anyone interested in applying for a scholarship may contact Dr. Gary Thompson at ACU, Box 8235, Abilene 79601. Applications must be in the office by April 15.

Council Formed In '46 Studying Energy Sources

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—President Harry S. Truman, in May 1946, was winding up the affairs of war agencies as quickly as possible after their emergency responsibilities had been discharged.

It was on May 3, 1946, that Truman advised Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes the Petroleum Administration for War was being terminated five days later.

But Truman's letter added a bit of caution about the future.

"I need not emphasize to you the importance of petroleum in the life of the Nation and the consequent necessity of assuring the adequate and continuous availability of this vital resource," Truman wrote.

"You are requested to keep me informed concerning significant developments in the petroleum field, and to consider and recommend such steps as may be necessary appropriately to safeguard our petroleum future."

Truman said he had been impressed "with the great contribution of government-industry cooperation to the success of the war petroleum program, and feel that the values of such close and harmonious relations between Government and industry should be continued."

He suggested Ickes establish an industry organization for advice and consultation.

The suggestion was not new to Ickes. After President Franklin D. Roosevelt had named him Petroleum Coordinator for Defense, Ickes appointed the Petroleum Industry War Council. The industry group was directed to "....mobilize most effectively all resources and abilities of the petroleum industry to deal with the emergency conditions under which the industry must operate...."

So it was on June 18, 1946, that Ickes established the National Petroleum Council as the peacetime successor to the Petroleum Industry War Council.

The advisory functions of the federally chartered and privately funded council were transferred in 1977 from Interior to the new Department of Energy and its committees are now working on four special studies requested by Secretary James R. Schlesinger.

Council members include both major and independent operators from all segments of the industry and the membership has been broadened in recent years to include environmental, labor, consumer, academic, state government, and institutional representatives.

Since being established by Ickes, the council has prepared more than 200 reports ranging from ocean petroleum resources, law of the sea, and enhanced oil recovery to the potential for energy conservation and near-term and long term U.S. energy outlooks.

The Schlesinger projects now under study include an updating of a 1974 report on materials and manpower requirements for oil and gas exploration and development. Schlesinger asked that the study focus on the 1979-1981 period but also address the longer term situation.

The study is being headed by John P. Harbin, chairman of the Haliburton Co., Dallas. At a recent council meeting, Harbin said manpower requirements will receive a more detailed examination than was included in the 1974 study and that the impact of federal laws and regulations also will be reviewed to identify possible constraints.

Jerry McAfee, Gulf Oil Corp. chairman, is heading the study on refining flexibility. The project is concerned with the time period to 1990 and McAfee said it will analyze current and future refinery yield flexibilities which might be called upon in times of supply dislocations.

John F. Bookout, president of Shell Oil Co., is chairman of the committee on unconventional gas sources. He advised the council the study will include estimates of ultimate recovery and possible production rates, by year, to the year 2000 for four unconventional sources of natural gas, deep geopressured zones, Devonian shale, tight gas sands, and coal seams.

"We should emphasize that, at best, these will only be estimates subject to considerable uncertainty," Bookout said. "If possible, we will also estimate the range of the uncertainty."

AP To Open China Bureau

NEW YORK (AP)-The government of the People's Republic of China has approved the immediate opening of a permanent Associated Press bureau in Peking. No American news agency has had a bureau in China since 1949.

Superfund Eyed For Clean-Ups

WASHINGTON (AP)—A top official of the Environmental Protection Agency says the Carter administration, 'has decided that a comprehensive attack should be made on the oil and hazardous waste problems which concern us all."

With that in mind, EPA assistant administrator Thomas C. Jorling told a House subcommittee Tuesday, the administration is considering a federal "superfund" that would underwrite the cost of cleaning up oil spills and leaks of other hazardous material. The fund could be used to clean up abandoned chemical dumps such as the Love Canal in New York and the Valley of the Drums in Kentucky.
