Teal Is Given Eight Years In Monts Murder

Jury In Muleshoe Court Finds Former South Plains Man Guilty Of 18-Year-Old Slaying Late Thursday

Shows No Emotion

Formal Motion For New Trial To Be Filed Today, Defense Attorneys Say; Crowd Is In Courtroom For Verdict

(Special To The Avalanche)

MULESHOE, Dec. 10.—John Teal murdered Miss Evelyn Monts with malice and must serve eight years in the state penitentiary, a 64th district court jury ruled at 4:55 o'clock this afternoon.

Without emotion, the 50-year-old machinist heard the verdict.

Formal motion for a new trial will be filed Friday, said George W. Dupree, who with Chas. C. Crenshaw of Lubbock and Pat R. Bobo of Muleshoe, defended Teal.

No Demonstration

When the jury of farmers and merchants returned its verdict to Judge C. D. Russell about 100 persons were in the courtroom. There was no demonstration.

Teal was attended by Bobo. District Attorney Chas. H. Dean, who asked for the death penalty, was present.

The trial was opened Monday, a jury was completed Tuesday morning, and testimony was concluded yesterday morning. After three hours of summations by attorneys, the Teal case went to the jury for a decision at 9 o'clock last night.

Shot To Death In 1918

Miss Monts, a 22-year-old school teacher, was shot to death Easter Sunday, April 7, 1918, at the M. McCarty home in southern Bailey county. Teal fled in an automobile, went to Oklahoma and thence to Washington and Oregon. He was living in Pendleton, Ore., under the name William Owens when he was arrested last January by Sheriff Tom Abel of Lubbock and Sheriff Jim Cook of Muleshoe.

The state's star witness was Mrs. Charles Crutchfield of Dacoma, Okla., who as a 12-year-old girl heard the shot which killed the teacher.

Teal testified in his own behalf that his mind "went blank" after Miss Monts had slapped him and had told him that she preferred living unwedded to Lee Cooper to married life with Teal. The young woman told him, Teal declared, she had had illicit relations with Cooper, who emphatically denied he had had improper relations with the teacher.

Recommendations Range From Sentence Of 5 To 25 Years

Successive proceedure of the 64th district jury that Thursday decided John Teal was guilty of the slaying of Evelyn Monts in Bailey county 18 years ago and assessed him eight years in the penitentiary, was reported Thursday night from Mule-

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Dec. 10. (AP)—Addressing the biennial session of the federal council of Churches of Christ in America, Roger W. Babson, economist and moderator of the National Council of Congressional - Christian churches, warned pastors to direct their retirement fund investments toward stocks "if you don't want to lose your shirts."

He said investments in bonds during the depression were wise, but advised a change because of the current "inflationary movement."

Injunction Granted Against Meters

Temporary Order Handed Down By Pharr Thursday

Parking Devices May Be Reduced To Curbline Ornaments As Result Of Action; Time Meters To Go Out Undetermined Last Night; City Must Be Protected By $5,000 Bond

LUBBOCK'S parking meters are expected to be reduced to the role of curbline ornaments today as soon as bond of $5,000 to protect the city is posted by a group of plaintiffs who, opposed to the devices, late yesterday afternoon emerged from the court of Judge Homer L. Pharr with an injunction.

What time the court order—which promises to be only the first round in a battle over the meters—will be in effect, to eliminate the necessity of paying a nickel to park an hour, remained indeterminate.

How those who park their cars in the business district will know when to disregard the devices and not be subject to a law infraction also was not known.

Suggests Two Possibilities

To clarify the situation, however, Mayor Ross Edwards declared that "arrangements would be made as fast as possible." He suggested two possibilities: Removal of the meters from the stands, or placing of an encasement around them.

The decision of the 72nd district court judge which was handed down in writing had been awaited since the conclusion of a lengthy hearing Monday.

Only the possibility that there would be a failure to make bond stood in the way of a temporary halt in the operation of the meters, and that possibility was considered eliminated last night.

Sureties Are Obtained

Charles C. Crenshaw, who with George W. Dupree represented the plaintiffs, said "enough sureties to make bond" had been obtained and, although deemed unnecessary to meet requirements of approval by the district clerk, additional signers were expected this morning.

It appeared to be a foregone conclusion that the city will contest the case.

City To Appeal Case

Declaring that it would be only "a matter of formality" for City commission to sanction such action, Mayor Edwards said, "I feel sure that it is the attitude of the commission to appeal the case."

No definite plans for calling a special session of City commission, which adjourned yesteray afternoon a short time before the court made its pronouncement, had been made, he stated.

City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley explained that three recourses were open. They included taking the case to the court of civil appeals at Amarillo, seeking a motion in Judge Pharr's court to dissolve the injunction, or requesting a second hearing on the injunction.

Appeal Quickest Disposition

Counsel for both sides indicated quickest disposition of the case would likely be possible by taking an appeal from the temporary order directly to the Amarillo court. Such procedure, in matters of public concern and because of the injunctive nature, holds statutory right-

Insurgent Troops Shiver In Biting Cold; Consuls From Germany And Italy Ordered To Leave Country

(By The Associated Press)

MADRID, Dec. 10. — Fascist insurgents struck again at Madrid today from the west but the government declared tonight the attackers had been driven off in a bitter three-hour struggle.

The insurgent assault was centered around Pozuelo, a few miles west of the city, and the San Fernando bridge.

The Fascist troops, shivering in the biting cold which swept down from the Guadarrama mountains, smashed at government lines after their artillery had laid down a heavy barrage.

Planes Drop Leaflets

Three fast Fascist bombing planes flew over the southwestern part of Madrid, dropping propaganda leaflets, and sped away.

The socialist administration asked the German and Italian consuls at Bilbao, on the north coast, to leave for their own countries.

(Germany and Italy have been accused by the Spanish government or aiding the Fascist insurgents. Both those nations have recognized the Fascist junta.)

SUPPORT IS PLEDGED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP) — The full moral support of the United States government was thrown unexpectedly today behind the effort of Great Britain and France to bring peace in Spain.

A formal statement by R. Walton Moore, acting secretary of state, expressed this government's "very earnest hope" that a mediation attempt initiated in Paris and London would be successful. It was made plain, however, that the United States does not intend to participate actively.

School Heads Meet Tonight

Banquet Session Is Scheduled At Hilton In First Meeting Of Group; Attendance Of 150 Is Expected

The West Texas School Executives' association, recently formed and a department of the West Texas Teachers' association including the 19th state senatorial district of 25 counties, will meet for the first time tonight at the Hilton hotel.

About 100 school principals, superintendents, and school board members have made reservations for the dinner, which will open the session, according to Dr. Kenneth E. Oberholtzer, superintendent of the Lubbock school system and a member of the association executive committee. The dinner will start at 6:30 o'clock in the hotel ballroom.

Dr. Oberholtzer reported that at least 50 besides those who have made reservations for the dinner are expected to attend the meeting.

J. M. Rankins, Ralls school superintendent, will preside. Principal speakers include J. W. O'Banion, state supervisor of high schools, and L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction.

A constitution will probably be submitted, Dr. Oberholtzer said. Also resolutions regarding betterment of education will be submitted to the association.

The association plans to meet once or more each year to consider education problems that may arise, Dr. Oberholtzer stated.

Subjects Take Abdication In Mild Fashion

Restrained Celebrations For New King Are Held In Every Corner Of Empire; In London Cheers For Edward

Tenseness Broken

Constitutional Crisis Said To Have Been Averted By King Edward's Action; Crown Is Not Endangered

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 10.—British subjects throughout the world learned today of their monarch's abdication for the most part with resigned acceptance.

In every corner of the empire there were restrained celebrations for the new king—and in London some cheers for Edward.

IRISH TO CUT AWAY

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Dec. 10. (AP) — Usually informed persons said late tonight the Irish Free State parliament probably would sever its last direct connection with the British crown tomorrow.

These sources said proposals would be submitted to parliament—called the Dail Eireann—to amend the constitution of the Free State, which has the status of a British dominion, so as to completely eliminate the king from the charter and vest all executive authority in the Dail and the Irish cabinet.

Such a move, it was said in these quarters, would be in line with President Eamon de Valera's program of cutting out of the constitution elements, which, in his words, "create a source of irritation to the Irish national feeling."

Crowds heard of Edward's historic decision and sorrowfully told one another, "the king has abdicated." Then they stood silently for hours before scattering.

Factory whistles in New Zealand screamed their signal almost at the same time crowds outside parliament learned the news, the official announcement of abdication coming by radio.

Australians stayed up after midnight waiting for the final word

Future Income Question Mark

Whether Edward Will Accept A Pension From Government Not Known But It Is Taken For Granted He's Not Poor

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 10. — The future income of Edward Windsor was a question mark tonight.

Whether he would accept a pension from the government was one of the abdication details remaining unannounced, but it was generally taken for granted he would have ample means, from one source or the other.

CASTLE IN DENMARK

LONDON, Dec. 10. (AP)—An unconfirmed report circulated in London tonight that Edward of England would purchase a castle in Denmark about 30 miles from Copenhagen.

It had been assumed he would retain at least part of the half million-dollar annual income from the duchies of Lancaster and Cornwall.

But the abdication bill title phase, "demise of the crown," seemed to indicate this was impossible. The closest historical parallel was when the Stuarts were replaced by Edward's Hanoverian ancestors, to whom all crown lands were promptly transferred.

A reigning king receives 43,000 pounds sterling ($215,000) from Lancaster. Since birth, Edward has got approximately 70,000 pounds sterling ($350,000) annually from Corn-

Acrimonious Denouncement Of Edward Found In Statement Of H. L. Mencken

(By The Associated Press)

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10.—H. L. Mencken, who had said he considered Edward VIII "an idiot" to give up the British throne for the love of a woman, suggested tonight that the retiring monarch go to Hollywood.

"He must come to America," said the author and critic. "He ought to go to Hollywood. If he is too dumb to make good there, then he could go to Washington and become a member of the cabinet."

When news came that Edward had renounced the rule of an empire to be free to marry Wallis Warfield Simpson, former Baltimore belle, Mencken commented:

"I consider Edward an idiot. His abdication shows it."

Mencken, in a longer statement had set forth earlier that he felt the king's obligations to his empire and subjects were such that he should put them ahead of sentiment or his love for Mrs. Simpson.

Aversion For Kingship Weighs More Than Love For Wally, Shaw Hazards

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 10.—King Edward renounced his throne "not because of his intention to marry Mrs. Simpson but simply because he hates his job," George Bernard Shaw said tonight.

"He has had enough of it," said the Irish playwright. "He hasn't consulted parliament in the matter. Parliament has, as usual, been humbugged by the cabinet, for Mr. Baldwin must have known for weeks past what was going to happen and yet has had to announce solemnly day after day that matters were still in suspense.

"The throne has suffered a shock by being chucked by its occupant but as the Duke of York has been persuaded to sacrifice himself and take it on and as his duchess will be a most popular queen and his daughter is already a popular pet there is nothing before us, after all the excitement, but a calm sea and a prosperous voyage for all the parties with perhaps Mr. Windsor present at the coronation as a sardonic spectator."

Love Triumphs In British Crisis As King Steps Down

Regal Mantle Falls To Duke Of York As Older Brother Quits Throne To Wed Mrs. Simpson; "End Of Kings" Predictions Echoed In Parliament; Edward To Broadcast Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(Friday)—Edward VIII renounced the throne of the British empire for a woman's love and today the Duke of York, his brother and successor took on his shoulders the problems of a troubled world.

Thus forces were set in motion which may not be fully judged in this generation.

Still king and emperor, Edward awaited one last document, the law of abdication, before becoming David Windsor who would marry Wallis Warfield Simpson, American born and twice divorced.

The king and the king-to-be had probably their last dinner together in Edward's retreat at Fort Belvedere. There Edward gave what counsel he could to the brother who will succeed him when the law dethroning the one and enthroning the other is passed by parliament and signed by Edward today. That will end his role as king.

To Broadcast Tonight

Farewell to his 495,000,000 subjects will be spoken by Edward in a broadcast tonight. It was announced he will speak as a simple citizen. He may not even speak from England. He may speak from France where he is expected to fly when he formally lays down his scepter and starts his new life.

He will be an exile, in fact, for a time, if not by legal requirement. His abdiction, read in parliament today, gave his decision as "irrevocable" and surrendered rights to the throne in the name of any descendants. He cut himself off for all time for the woman he loves and who waits for him at Cannes, where from the Villa Lou Viei she looked out through drizzling rain, under dark clouds at an uneasy sea.

"Long Live The King"

"Long live the king," shouted many in a demonstration by a crowd in front of Buckingham palace. The crowd in the main goodnatured, was estimated at 15,000. All approaches to Victoria memorial were blocked. Two double-decker bus loads of police arrived to assist in controlling the crowd.

Many in London's vast population also were quiet, disturbed and uneasy. They symbolized the world's unrest, the changing times that shadow the university with war and threat of war, political upheavals, economic changes and grave doubt of what the future may bring.

Parliament Hears Predictions

While "long live the king," echoed, the British parliament heard predictions of the "end of kings."

Three members attacked the government, the king and the monarchic system.

James Maxton, leftwing laborite, declared the "institution of monarchy had outlived its usefulness" and pointed to the present crisis as a lesson.

Attacks "Pampered Royalty"

Socialist George Buchanan spoke of "pampered royalty" which is "surrounded by a set of flunkies."

"If the king was one-tenth as good as you say he was, why does everyone want him to be unloaded? It is because you know he was a weak creature and you want to get rid of him."

William Gallacher, only communist in parliament, called the crisis "an issue between two groups who were fighting continually for domination."

"It will not be possible," he said,

KING FACES CHALLENGE

LONDON, Dec. 10. (AP)—Great Britain's new monarch—the man who will become either King Albert I or King George VI—tonight faced the challenge voiced by the man who was king:

"My brother Bertie," said ex-King Edward, when he was Prince of Wales, "would make a better king than I would."

For the first time in exactly 248 years to the day, since James II fled England on Dec. 16, 1688, the throne changed hands without the melancholy cry ringing through the streets:

"The king is dead! Long live the king!"

Other English kings have been deposed or died, but never before has a king voluntarily abdicated as Edward has done in his last precedent-making act of a precedent-breaking reign.

King's Message

"MY execution of this instrument has been witnessed by my three brothers, their royal highnesses the Duke of York, the Duke of Gloucester and the Duke of Kent.

"I deeply appreciate the spirit which has actuated the appeals which have been made to me to take a different decision, and I have before reaching my final determination most fully pondered over them.

"But my mind is made up.

"Moreover, further delay cannot but be most injurious to the peoples whom I tried to serve as Prince of Wales and as king, and whose future happiness and prosperity are the constant wish of my heart.

EDWARD VIII

"I take my leave of them in the confident hope that the course which I have thought it right to follow in that which is best for the stability of the throne and empire and happiness of my people.

"I am deeply sensible of the consideration which they have always extended to me both before and after my accession to the throne and which I know they will extend in full measure to my successor.

"I am most anxious that there should be no delay of any kind in giving effect to the instrument which I have executed and that all necessary steps should be taken immediately to secure that my lawful successor, my brother, his royal highness the Duke of York, should ascend the throne.

"Edward, R. I."

"to repair the damage that has been done to the monarchial institution of this country.

Question The Future

These minority voices, raised admist a floodtide of satisfaction and approval, expressed publicly and boldly the anxieties businessmen and politicians have spread in mild terms as they questioned the future.

The crisis halted factories making souvenirs for the coronation May 12 and it will cost great sums in replacing objects labelled with Edward's name and face.

The crisis went, economists said, deeper than that.

Baldwin Touches Seriousness

Prime Minister Baldwin himself touched on the seriousness of the case Monday when he told the house of commons "any considerable prolongation of the present state of suspense and uncertainty would involve the risk of gravest injury to the national and imperial interests."

Edward's blunt decision to surrender Britain's throne so he might as an ordinary man become the husband of Wallis Warfield Simpson was given to the realm and world in the historic house of commons whose walls never before echoed such words as were uttered

A KING DECIDES

THE irrevocable decision of King Edward to abdicate his throne brought the world into a closer communication Thursday, affecting as it did so many millions of subjects. Persons of high and low degree felt the startling blow which was softened by the beginning of his simple, terse statement, "After long and anxious consideration, I have determined to renounce the throne to which I succeeded on the death of my father."

As we read the story coming in over the printer from London through BOS, extraordinary service, our thoughts harked back to the day when we were a freshman student and hung a gaily colored picture of the Prince of Wales above our bed. We admired him then as a flashing, athletic, handsome, charming young man; we admire him today because we think he is a man of irrevocable decision, who had the courage to battle a prime minister and be shunted from the throne rather than give in. He means much more to us than a "middle-aged fool who fell in love with another man's wife," as we heard one business woman express it.

Whether you believe that he is "a prize sap," emotionally unstable or whether you are for him, you must agree that the affair proves again that you cannot tell how human nature is likely to react. We believe he decided freedom in his love meant more to him than the honor and the glory of ruling over 430,000,000 subjects and having decided on that course it took more than Hades and a prime minister to stop him. We admire him because he is able to do the thing he wants to do; so few of us can you know. Whatever happens there will always be a tomorrow and as far as we are concerned we're for David Windsor and wish him happiness.

LETTER FROM HOME

DEAR DAUGHTER: I received your letter telling of your trouble in deciding between paying Dad and me a visit during the holidays or going on Mary's house party. I've quit smoking and so there will be no cigarets around to tempt you. My mink coat is being repaired during the holidays and I have stored my jewels in a bank vault, to place temptation beyond holiday burglars and my college daughter.

Your father and I are having the house redecorated during the holidays, and so we will be living at the hotel. Your boy friends and girl friends can drop ashes and spill cocktails on somebody else's furniture for a change. We've traded the family automobile in on a new one, which won't be delivered until about the middle of January so you'll have to walk or rely on your friends. My supply of your favorite perfume is exhausted and I haven't replaced it, hoping Santa would remember me in that respect. So perhaps you'd better bring some home with you.

Since we will be at the hotel, there won't be room for a maid, so you'll have to wash your hose and do little odd personal jobs and go down to the coffee shop for your breakfast, instead of having it in bed. Maybe you won't mind just for this trip. I am down to my last pair of thin hose, so you can't count on wearing mine unless Santa decides to replenish my stock.

Dad came in just now and sends love and joins me in hoping you decide to come home. Love, Mother.

With due apologies to Margaret Culkin Banning.

THE FUTURE COOKS

AND now arises one Conrad Kolb of New Orleans to inform delegates to the National Restaurant Association in convention assembled that women are too impulsive and emotional to be good cooks and are really not cooks at heart; having been driven to the necessity by civilization. He predicts that the next fifty years will find as many men bending over stoves as women.

Says Mr. Kolb: " Women carry their emotional lives into the kitchen and consequently bring about these expressions in food: an angry cook, too much seasoning; a weeping cook, too much of everything. "When a women really loves her husband and everything is going fine," he added, "the result will be some beautiful meals."

Just off hand, we wonder how appetizing the meals which might have been prepared this week by King Edward would have been? Or if Landon could have been successful with an egg omelet the night of November 2, or Roosevelt, either, for that matter.

DELAYED ANSWERS

A TECH professor was lecturing before beginning the lesson on how prone are human beings to be dilatory in certain matters. The correct answer, a clever retort, matters in which one could have been more considerate come back to us during the day; a man usually thinks of such things when he's shaving, said the professor and then, "but we must get to the lesson."

Came time for a question, which was put to a youth who sat still for a minute with a perplexed expression and then who said slowly, "I can't think of the answer now Doctor Blank. Perhaps it will come to me in the morning when I'm shaving.

Port Arthur Official Facing Ouster Move From Union Men

PORT ARTHUR, Dec. 10. (AP) — The Port Arthur News said today Fred L. Bachert, city commissioner and building trades council president, faced an ouster action today by labor unions for supporting Police Chief H. F. Baker's opposition to the marine strike.

Like New Since He Began Gly-Cas

Severe Headaches, Neuritis Pains Easily Conquered By New Remedy; Mr. Michatto, Jr., Has Regained His Former Strength And Energy — Gly-Cas Again Unfailing

"I feel sure that a short trial of Gly-Cas will easily convince the most skeptical person of its merit," said Mr. Sam Michatto, Jr., 10th and Louise Anne Ave., Monroe, La.

MR. SAM MICHATTO, JR.

"Indigestion and neuritis had made my life miserable for years. My system was filled with toxic poisons and I did not know what it was to pass a restful night of sleep. The pains I endured were often unbearable, headaches continually and regardless of my diet all foods caused terrible distress after eating. It was so discouraging in my condition to be unable to find anything to help me in the least. Finally I was persuaded to give this new Gly-Cas a trial and found it the very medicine I should have had all these years."

"Gly-Cas' action was amazing to me" he continued, "I was soon relieved of my severe headaches, the terrible pains caused from neuritis were quickly conquered and I soon regained my former energy. I can now eat the foods I wish at my meals without the dreadful distress afterwards. Gly-Cas made a new man of me and I wish sufferers to know that it is unlike the common run of medicine—too much praise cannot be given Gly-Cas—for its abilities are limitless."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1219 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Three Tech Co-Eds Are To Be Honored In San Angelo Fete

Three co-eds at Texas Technological college have been notified of their selection to represent their home towns as "aggie sweethearts" at the San Angelo A. & M. club dance in San Angelo Christmas night.

Miss Gloriadel Bowen, freshman from Sterling City; Miss Mabel Carr, freshman from Big Lake; and Miss Emily Martin, freshmen from Mason, have been selected.

The club is composed of A. & M. college students of San Angelo and nearby towns. Miss Martin was informed she would represent the "Heart of Texas" at the dance.

Football Films Shown Kiwanians

Kiwanians yesterday noon saw the first showings of some semi-slow motion pictures of the recent Texas Tech-DePaul football game here, when W. G. McMillian, local camera enthusiast, showed some 700 feet of film in the Hotel Lubbock ball room following luncheon.

With the semi-slow motion pictures were some techni-color views on the same footage. A few feet of slow motion also were shown. The films, one of 450 feet and the other of 250 feet, were untouched and showed a number of close-up views of plays. One scene was the Brownfield high school band appearing, in colors, on the field honoring James Neill, of that city.

Other Films Shown

Views of the Borger-Lubbock game also were shown.

Coach Russell T. Smith was program chairman, presiding, with Carl Slaton associate.

Several announcements were made at the request of President Ray C. Mowery. O. J. Sexton announced the Goodfellow program, a toy matinee at the Palace Theatre Friday from 1 to 6 p. m.; and a meeting Thursday night of those interested. On motion Kiwanians were told to bring a gift toy for underprivileged children next week or pay a fine of 50 cents.

George P. Kuykendall announced the union men's Bible class Sunday morning at the high school auditorium, starting at 9:30 o'clock. It is the fourth annual union meeting and Attorney General William McCraw is to speak.

Secretary W. C. Rylander read a note of appreciation from Kiwanian H. A. Davidson, now confined to his home with injuries received three months ago.

HAD THIRD HORN

EL CAMPO, Dec. 10. (AP)—A deer killed by William Appelt of El Campo last week about 25 miles northwest, had a third horn. It was a 10-point buck with four on one prong, five on the other, and a spike about six inches long growing from the forehead. Veteran hunters say it was one of the largest killed in this region in many years.

World's Headlines Will Continue To Follow New King's Colorful Brother

New Monarch Will Be Second Fiddle As In The Past

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—As Britain's new monarch, the stutter-tongued Duke of York—called "Bertie" in royal family circles—still will play second fiddle in at least one respect to his glamorous elder brother.

Inevitably, it is safe to predict, the world's headlines will follow Edward.

Will Not Fade

His life-long flare for the spectacular precludes any possibility of his fading into the semi-obscurity that engulfed the log-chopping Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm in his hermitage at Doorn, the now rarely-mentioned ex-King Alfonso of Spain, and other sovereigns whose crowns have been swept away by the less romantic forces of war or revolution.

Ever since that June evening in 1894, when roly-poly, white-bonneted old Queen Victoria puffed laboriously up the stairs of Windsor castle towards the cries of her newborn great grandson and dryly remarked, "at least he has a fine, powerful pair of lungs"—always, Edward has made news.

Never Inspires Headline

By contrast, the tall, sober-faced "Bertie"—true to his backstage character as a second son—never has really inspired a headline either by action, speech or personality.

Sparkling anecdotes about "Bertie" are rare. He just doesn't sparkle.

Perhaps the best is the story of "Bertie" as a small boy lunching with King Edward VII and other members of the royal family. During the meal, "Bertie" stammeringly attempted to attract his grandfather's attention; but King Edward, busily talking, chided him for interrupting:

"Don't talk, lad, until we've finished luncheon."

Lapses Into Silence

Obediently, "Bertie" lapsed into silence. Luncheon ended, the king said: "Now then, what is it you wanted to say to me?"

"Bertie" gulped. "It d-doesn't matter now, grandpapa," he said glumly. "I was only g-going to tell you there was a c-c-caterpillar in your salad, but you've eaten it n-now."

In a way, that story epitomizes his whole career—a chronicle of unflagging obedience, even when golden initiative as in this case, might have been a wiser, more courageous course.

State Aid Payment Is Made Thursday

AUSTIN, Dec. 10. (AP)—The state department of education announced today payment of $2 per capita apportionment of the available school fund, bringing to $5 total payment applied on the current $19 apportionment.

TIME IS EXTENDED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce commission gave the Gulf and West Texas Railway company an extension of time today to March 31, 1939 to complete construction of a line of railroad from Fredericksburg, Tex., to Brady, Tex.

City Dads In Routine Meet

Measure To Prohibit All-Night Parking, Widening Of Main Street And Other Matters Are Discussed

A measure to prohibit all-night parking in the business district to permit efficient operation of the city's street sweeper was discussed, but action was passed until a future meeting, during yesterday's regular session of City commission at City hall.

Several other matters, mostly of routine nature, were presented to the commission. Mayor Ross Edwards scheduled the next session of the body Tuesday, Dec. 22, advancing the date from Christmas eve day.

To Estimate Cost

L. C. Ellis and W. H. Meador represented property owners on Main street from Avenues P to Q in response to suggestions of reopening plans to widen the street three feet on each side. Instructions were issued for preparation of an estimate of the cost.

Bond of $2,000 made by Ethridge W. Eagan, recently appointed to a position in the city water and light department, was approved.

Notes approximating $70,000 originally issued to the Nordberg Manufacturing company for a new gas-powered engine operating at the municipal electric plant were exchanged for 4 per cent interest warrants issued to First National bank at a discount effecting a saving to the city.

New Building At A. & M. Dedicated

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 10. (AP) Dedication of the new $300,000 dollar animal industries building at Texas A. and M. college—a memorial to pioneer livestock men of Texas—today drew a host of representatives of educational, official and livestock circles to the institution.

The building was begun in 1932 and completed in 1934.

Program of dedication included the formal ceremony, with a number of speakers being heard, inspection of the building and review of the A. and M. Cadet corps by distinguished visitors.

Speakers included H. F. McGill of Alice, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association. Senator Tom Connally, Dean E. J. Kyle of the school of agriculture, President T. C. Walton of A. and M., who made the formal dedication; and Representative R. M. Kleberg of Corpus Christi.

F. M. Law of Houston, president of the college board of directors, presided at the ceremony.

STARTS GOLD RUSH

BEAVER, Utah., Dec. 10. (AP)—Sam Brinkerhoff set off a miniature gold rush when he found a nugget in a post hole.

The nugget, shining in a shovel full of gravel, was about the size of a pecan and proved to be worth $40. Although townspeople hastily spaded the vicinity, no further traces of the bright metal were found.

Removal Of Radio Station To Wichita Falls Is Petitioned

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—C. C. Baxter, Dublin, Tex., asked the communications commission today for authority to assign the license of radio station KFPL to station WFTX, Inc., Wichita Falls, Tex.

The latter station asked the commission for authority to change the frequency of KFPL from 1310 to 1500 kilocycles and move the transmitter from Dublin to Wichita Falls.

"ALL-BRAN KEEPS ME IN SHAPE EVERY DAY"

"When I had eaten a heavy breakfast, I would feel logy. After a couple of days of this, I would have to take a laxative.

"One morning I had a dish of ALL-BRAN. Believe me, it beats any laxative, as it keeps me in shape every day."—Wm. C. Billings, 1330 19th St., Denver, Colorado.

Why put up with half-sick days, when a delicious cereal will make you feel so good? Because ALL-BRAN has "bulk" which absorbs moisture within the body. Then gently sponges out your system, wipes away the listlessness, the "blues," the headaches.

Scientific tests prove this natural food is both safe and effective—worlds better than taking patent medicines. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Take it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Proposals For War Presented

Drastic Regulation Of Nation's Industry And Finance In Event Of War Proposed By Army And Navy

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Drastic regulation of industry and finance, including government control of prices, was proposed today by the army and navy in an industrial mobilization plan designed to insure uninterrupted supply of the nation's armed forces in event of war.

Representing a revision of the 1933 mobilization programs, the new plan will be submitted to congress.

The president, at his discretion in time of war, would be empowered to:

To Fix Prices

1. Fix prices of commodities and regulate their manufacture, use, sale and distribution; real estate prices and rentals also could be "frozen."

2. Draft industrial management personnel into government service and commandeer manufacturing plants or other industrial establishments under certain conditions.

3. Regulate commodity and security exchanges, closing them if necessary.

4. Invoke regulations against profiteering, speculation, hoarding and waste.

Set Up Revolving Fund

5. Set up a $500,000,000 revolving fund emergency capital loans to industry.

For the gigantic task of harnessing industrial power to military and civilian needs in time of conflict, a war resources administration would be created somewhat along the lines of the 1917-18 war industrise board but with broader powers and jurisdiction.

It would have divisions of war trade, war finance, price control and other units, each directed by administrators chosen by the president.

Theory Advanced In Mystery Case

HARLINGEN, Dec. 10. (AP)—Highway Patrolman Dan Abbott said today a Mexican whose bloodstained coat was found in an abandoned automobile near Arroyo Colorado, may have been killed because he knew "too much" regarding the disappearance of John and Luther Blanton, San Perlita hunters.

Abbott said the coat was identified as belonging to a ranch employe of Willacy county whose boss sent him into town shortly after the Blanton's mysterious disappearance to get a payroll.

Nothing was heard of the man until the automobile was found abandoned, Abbott said. Chemists of the state public safety department analyzed stains on the coat and said they were human blood.

Abbott pressed his probe of this second disappearance, declaring the search might lead to old Mexico.

CLERK TAKES STATE JOB

CANDAIN, Dec. 10. (AP)—R. C. Jackson, Hemphill county clerk, resigned to take a job as auditor in the oil and gas division of the state comptroller's department, and Mrs. Grace Jackson, his wife, was appointed to succeed him.

Contract Is Let By State For Reconstructing Old Landmark

MENARD, Dec. 10. (AP)—A contract was let recently by the state to J. F. Perry to reconstruct a part of the walls and chapel of the Presidio San Luis de las Amarillas as a part of the Texas Centennial program. The historic ruin is about a mile and a half west of Menard on the north bank of the San Saba river. Data available shows it was built in 1756 and destroyed in 1782.

It is estimated about 600 yards of dirt and stone must be removed in connection with the partial reconstruction.

PAID FOR TROUBLE

CLARENDON, Dec. 10. (AP)—Twenty-two years ago Tom W. Eanes, Donley county farmer, pulled a tourist's automobile from a mud hole. A single-tree was broken when his team made a sudden lurch.

The tourist returned to Clarendon recently and paid Eanes a dollar for the single-tree.

Texas Tech Opens Cage Season With Big Spring Oilers; Lubbock At Sudan

Cosden Quints Play Matadors In Double Bill

Two-Game Attraction To Start At 7 O'Clock At Tech Gym; Veteran Tech Team To Make Debut At 8 O'Clock

The scene and the uniforms change at Texas Tech tonight but the athletic spirit and desire to win remains the same.

Texas Tech's Red Raiders, in skimpy haberdashery that contrasts sharply with the thick-padded clothes of the gridiron, make their 1936-37 basketball debut this evening in a double header attraction that should get the new season off to a flourishing start.

Manager Spike Henlger's Cosden Oilers, an independeent team of Big Spring and one of the most powerful independent teams of West Texas, invade the Tech gymnasium for two games tonight.

Shock Troops Clash

The preliminary, starting at 7 o'clock, will feature the "shock troops" of each side. The main event, beginning at 8 o'clock, will mark the first public appearance of the new season of Coach Berl Huffman's varsity regulars, a team which is fighting back this season for it's Border conference title relinquished last year and for a niche in the collegiate basketball world.

Tech is to be represented in the cage wars this season by an experienced, hustling squad of tall athletes whose first love is basketball. The starting lineup will resemble closely that of last season when the team was at its top strength. Nine letter men, some of them with two letters to their credit, are available, as well as a nice looking bunch of sophomores who are threatening the position of seniors.

Veteran Lineup

The club is reinforced this year by the return of Leroy Crews, basket shooting sensation of the 1934 championship team, who no doubt will step into a regular job, beginning tonight. The starting lineup a year ago consisted of Judge Garrett and Bob Case at forwards, Curly Wilkinson at center, Paul Morris and Hugh Snodgrass at guards.

The same lineup is available tonight, and for the season. Case and Morris swapped their positions last year. Crews is due to replace one of them, probably Morris. The latter is handicapped by size, but makes up for much of it by his never-ceasing hustle and bustle.

Wilkinson In Shape

Wilkinson, out with illness as the season drew to a close last year and possibly the biggest reason Tech did not repeat for the third time as Border conference champion, is in the best of health and condition now.

Three other letter men are making strong bids for regular berths. They are Maurice "Cotton" Wiginton, junior from Stratford, a guard; Robert Hale, tall senior guard from Lubbock High, and Dan Corbin, center and junior from Troup who replaced Wilkinson late last season.

Three junior college transfers, Sam Garrison from Wesley college, Greenville; George Underwood, from Haskell institute, and Frank Moore, from Wayland college, Plainview, are looking better than fair in workouts, and three players from last season's freshman squad are doing good work. They are Winston Brummett from Lubbock, Herb Currie from Westbrook and Elmer Tarbox from Higgins. Wayne Wilkins, tall, heavy guard from Lubbock and a varsity squadman last year, rounds out the varsity outfit.

All-Stars On Oilers

The Cosden Oilers are made of former high school and college stars from well known institutions. Before a player qualifies for the Cosden team, he must have made an outstanding record in college or high school. All are experienced players.

Admission to either or both of tonight's games is 40 cents for adults, 25 cents for high school students.

Westerners Eat, Receive Letters And See Films

Lubbock High school athletics passed another milestone last night when 19 members of the 1936 Westerners football squad, including fifteen seniors, were cited for gridiron bravery and courage sufficient to warrant the award of the big "L."

The entire high school squad, including Coach Walker Nichols' Cowhands, were honored at a banquet attended by coaches, members of the school board, athletic council and several other invited guests.

Ritchie Is Captain

Coach Weldon Chapman announced the letter men for 1936 and made public his appointment of the 1937 Westerner captain—Babe Ritchie, 209-pound tackle who has won two Westerner letters and who will conclude his eligibility next season. He is one of four returning letter men, the others being Herb Leaverton, a center; Walter Webster, halfback and Melvin Billings, halfback.

Walker Nichols, who has finished his first year Cowhand coach, named 16 members of his squad as having earned letters. Coach Chapman awarded two student managers letters and named four returning Westerners who shall receive reserve letters.

Following the banquet, announcement of awards, brief speeches by Pete Cawthon, head coach at Texas Tech; Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, chairman of the school board, and Superintendent Kenneth Oberholtzer, who introduced other visitors, the group filed into the auditorium for a showing of a complete picture film of the 1935 Rose Bowl game between Southern Methodist university and Stanford university.

250 See Pictures

Approximately 250 persons saw the film, a number of football fans coming after the banquet.

The following guests, in addition to those named, were introduced by Dr. Oberholtzer:

Maple Wilson, Jack Parsons, Walter Alderson, Dr. W. A. Jackson, Russell T. Smith, Berl Huffman, A. C. Jackson, George Kuykendall, Parker Prouty, C. I. Wall, Dan W. Powers, Principal R. W. Matthews, Buster Honey, Mule Davis, Lovic Liston, Coach Thompson, Goober Keyes, Ross Ayers and Collier Parris.

The following Lubbock High gridders were named to receive Westerner letter sweaters for the second time: Co-Captains C. L. Storrs and Wilburn Piercy, Babe Ritchie, Rafe Nabors, Harold Ingley and Max Rutledge. Players receiving their first letters are Herb Leaverton, Sterling Short, Paul Kinard, C. H. Tubbs, Virgle Simmons, Ralph Letsinger, Orvil Lee Oden, Billy Wood, H. L. Gantz, Walter Webster, Firman Williamson, Melvin Billings and Isaac White. Student Managers Earl Ince and C. J. Griggs, and four reserves, Bill Sessums, Jarvis Wright, Joe Pytell and H. L. Ford are to receive appropriate awards.

Nichols announced the following Cowhands would receive letter sweaters:

Amarillo Remains In Football Race

Sandie Player Said Eligible By Committee

Kilman Meets Age Limit Rule Is Finding Of State Body In Long Session At Austin Last Night; Game Goes On

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 10.—The state committee of the Interscholastic league ruled tonight that Bill Kilman, Amarillo High school football guard, was eligible and Amarillo will continue in its race for the state grid title.

Dean T. H. Shelby, committee, said the protest of Childress High school, which suffered a 46 to 0 shellacking by Amarillo's Golden Sandstorm last week in bi-district play, was disallowed since it was proved to the committee's satisfaction Kilman was not beyond the age limit of 18 years.

Evidence was submitted by both schools, Childress being represented by Superintendent A. W. Adams and Principal C. E. Damron and Amarillo by Superintendent C. M. Rogers and Principal R. V. Norman.

A family Bible formed part of the documentary evidence in the hearing. It dated Kilman's birth as December 26, 1917.

"The evidence presented by Childress," said Dean Shely, "was not conclusive."

Kilman having been found eligible, Amarillo will resume its third consecutive race for the state title in the quarterfinal clash with Abilene Saturday.

TRAIN STOPS HERE

The Amarillo-to-Abilene special football train, carrying fans to the quarter-final game Saturday, is to stop in Plainview and Lubbock to take on passengers, the Avalanche-Journal was informed last night.

The special train is being sponsored by the Amarillo Globe-News, which also made it possible for the Amarillo band and pep squad to make the trip.

First stop at Plainview, will be at 7:30 o'clock. The train arrives at the local Santa Fe station at 8:20 and will stop briefly. It is believed a large number of local fans will board the train here.

Tickets for the game will be available on the train, provided Amarillo's allotment of 1,700 has not been exhausted.

The Sandie football team, which still had not learned the outcome of the Austin meeting, paused in Lubbock last night at 10 o'clock enroute to Abilene. News of the outcome of the session was learned at Post, it is believed.

Sam Baugh Is Named On Collier's All-American; Neill, West Mentioned

Frank Of Yale, Francis Of Nebraska, Tinsley Of Louisiana State Are Named Outstanding

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (AP)—Collier's 1936 All-America football team was announced today as follows:

Ends, Larry Kelley, Yale, and Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State.
Tackles, Edwin Widseth, Minnesota, and Averell Daniell, Pittsburgh.
Guards, Max Starcevich, Washington and Steve Reid, Northwestern.
Center, Alex Wojciechowicz, Fordham.
Quarterback, Sam Baugh, Texas Christian.
Halfbacks, Clint Frank, Yale, and Ray Buivid, Marquette.
Fullback, Sam Francis, Nebraska.

In awarding gold footballs to these players, Collier's singled out Frank, Tinsley and Francis as the three outstanding players of the year. Tinsley was the only repeater.

Tracing the movement of "football supremacy" through various parts of the country, the magazine noted that "the tides of 1936 brought it back to the East, as shown by a margin of more than two to one in over seventy intersectional games."

ALSO ELIGIBLE

The following players were nominated by one or more of Collier's All-America advisory board and therefore eligible for the All-America team: (the list includes):

Ends—J. W. WEST, TEXAS TECH; Roach, T. C. U.; Morrow, Texas A. & M.; Benton, Arkansas, and Wallis, T. C. U.

Tackles—Parry, Baylor; Young, Texas A. & M.; Hale, T. C. U.; Frankie, Rice.

Guards—Routt, Texas A. & M.; Ard, Rice; King, Texas; Robinson, Centenary; Scottino, S. M. U.; Harrison, T. C. U.

Backs—JIM NEILL, TEXAS TECH; Baugh, T. C. U.; Vitek, Texas A. & M.; Sheridan, Texas; Tyler, Hardin-Simmons; Stovall, North Texas Teachers; J. Sprague, S. M. U.; Wolfe, Texas; Friedman, Rice.

Frogs Not Talking About Cotton Bowl Game Until They've Played At Frisco

FRESNO, Calif., Dec. 10. (AP)—The Texas Christian university football team will not consider an invitation to oppose Marquette university in the Cotton Bowl game at Dallas, New Years Day until the Horned Frogs play the University of Santa Clara in San Francisco Saturday.

Officials of the T. C. U. team, stopping here today with the squad for a workout on the Fresno State college stadium field, said "we know nothing about the Cotton Bowl game and even if we do get an invitation we will have to let the players decide if they want to play another game, and then the athletic committee of the board of trustees will have to approve that action."

Coach Dutch Meyer of the Frogs said his men have been through a hard 12-game schedule and he doubted if the players would decide to play New Year's Day. Dan D. Rogers, Dallas banker and member of the board of trustees, here with the party of 200 Texans, said "I don't think we will be interested in the game."

North Side Coach "Happy Over Decision

FORT WORTH, Dec. 10. (AP)—"That's fine," was the comment of Coach Herman Clark of North Side High school tonight when advised Bill Kilman, star linesman of the Amarillo Sandies, had been declared eligible.

If victorious over Gainesville here Saturday, Clark's team will meet the winner of the Abilene-Amarillo quarterfinal.

"Winning the state title with Amarillo disqualified would have been an empty honor," Clark concluded.

Played At Fort Worth

It was learned tonight that Kilman was a member of the 1932 Jennings Avenue high school football team here. He played under W. C. O. Harris, now coach of Fort Worth Riverside. Records here show that Kilman was 13 at the time. Harris is sure that the boy is under age limit of 18 prescribed by the Texas Interscholastic league.

Levelland Opens Home Cage Season With Whiteface Five

LEVELLAND, Dec. 10. (Special)—Coach Bill Stevens' Levelland Loboes will initiate their home basketball season Friday night when they meet the Whiteface team at 7:30 o'clock here in a non-conference game.

Gainesville Is To Meet Steer Club 2nd Time

Critics Consider North Side Victory Over Leopards In Early Season; Winner Gets Abilene Or Amarillo

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Dec. 10. (AP)—Gainesville's Leopards Saturday will be in the unusual position of playing in the quarter-finals of the Texas Interscholastic league football race against a team that already holds a decision over them.

The vagaries of the gridiron threw the Leopards against North Side of Fort Worth in the opening game of the season, neither realizing it would advance to another meeting later on—this time for a place in the state championship drive.

First Didn't Count

In that inter-district affair North Side defeated Gainesville 13-0. It meant nothing but loss of prestige for Gainesville's hopes. Then the following week when the Leopards fell before North Dallas 26-0 forecasters immediately counted them out of the race.

From there on, however, Gainesville gathered steam with each game, racing down the stretch to the championship of District five and beating a favored McKinney team 26-7 in the bi-districts.

Critics were rather uncertain now that North Side can repeat the conquest though the Steers have a better season's record.

North Side boasts the best defensive showing of any team left in the race. Only thirteen points were scored against the Steers while they ran up 183. North Side holds decisions over two district champions—Gainesville and North Dallas; a runner-up, San Angelo of the Oil Belt, and a state champion—Kosciusko of Mississippi.

Kerrville Plays Lufkin

The Steers have been undefeated and untied and won the district championship for their first time in history.

Gainesville scored 228 points to 66 for the opposition but the record inside the district was unimpressive.

The winner of this game will meet the West Texas champion in the semi-finals. In the lower bracket Kerrville plays Lufkin and Port Arthur engages Corpus Christi in this week's quarter-final games.

Southwest Conference Holds Annual Session At Dallas

DALLAS, Dec. 10. (AP)—Coaches, athletic directors and faculty representatives of the Southwest conference gathered here tonight for the annual two-day session at the Baker hotel.

Basketball mentors held a session at Southern Methodist university today, James St. Clair, S. M. U. coach, heading a rules interpretation discussion.

Coaches meet tomorrow and athletic directors and faculty members go into executive session Saturday.

Judge Landis Gives B. Feller Back To Indians

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis ruled 18-year-old Bob Feller the property of the Cleveland Indians today in a long-deferred decision which cost Feller perhaps $100,000 and set a new precedent in baseball law.

Simultaneously, Landis directed Cleveland to pay $7,500 to the Des Moines club of the Western League. Des Moines protested last July 7 that its efforts to obtain Feller had been frustrated by Cleveland's signing him in violation of the major-minor league agreement.

Landis based his decision on the recent relaxation of this agreement by both major and minor league officials.

May Scrap Agreement

Several major league owners were predicting that what remains of the major-minor league agreement will be scrapped entirely sooner or later.

Landis ruld that when Cyril Slapnicka, an official of the Cleveland club, signed Feller to a contract of the Fargo-Moorehead club of the Northern league, he did so in violation of a baseball law which forbade major league clubs to sign sandlot players.

Feller was signed to a Cleveland contract and on Sept. 13 against the Athletics he tied Dizzy Dean's single game strike-out record of 17, setting up a new American League standard at the same time. He finished the season with five games won and three lost.

Dead Ball Question Turns To Quick Life

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (AP)—The major league baseball, voted "dead" yesterday, came to life again today in the league meetings when manufacturers advised club owners they have almost a season's supply of the fast balls in stock.

The owners decided to consider changing the ball again at the end of the 1937 season.

Bible, Morrison And Twomey Are Hinted For Post

AUSTIN, Dec. 10. (AP)—Three men were mentioned today as possible successors to Jack Chevigny as head football coach at the University of Texas. They were Dana X. Bible of Nebraska, Ray Morrison of Vanderbilt and Ted Twomey, Chevigny's first assistant.

It was variously reported they would be made offers, or already had been approached, but there was no confirmation.

Student Member Of Texas U. Athletic Council Is Replaced

AUSTIN, Dec. 10. (AP) — Jimmy Brinkley of Houston, president of the students' association, tonight resigned as a member of the University of Texas athletic council.

His successor will be named by the students' assembly next Tuesday.

Brinkley several days ago revealed a secret vote of the athletic council as 4 to 0 to oust Jack Chevigny as head coach.

Charging violation of the rules of executive sessions, Dr. J. C. Dolley, chairman of the council, asked the assembly to replace Brinkley.

An 11 to 5 vote, with two members not voting, climaxed a stormy session.

Westerners To Open New Cage Year In Visit

Coach Goober Keyes Lubbock High Team Lists Only Two Veteran Regulars But New Material Looking Good

Lubbock High school's Westerner baseball team opens its new season tonight at Sudan, playing the Sudan High school quintet.

Coach L. G. "Goober" Keyes and Assistant Walker Nichols have been working their large Lubbock High squad out for little more than a week, but announce favorable progress. Nichols, former Texas Tech grid captain and coach of the Lubbock High Cowhand football team, is officially coach of the Cowhand cagers, but will assist Keyes.

Only two regulars of last season's Westerner team are back this time. They are Ralph Letsinger and Orvil Lee Oden, ends off the Westerner grid team. Other "varsity" prospects looking good are Virgle Simmons, tackle from the grid team; H. P. Ford, Harold Ingley, Rafe Nabors, Robert Allen, Harold Parsons, "Rusty" Johnson, Walter Webster, L. D. Venable and Dutchy Cawthon.

The average height of the Westerner lineup is approximately 6 feet.

First home game for the Westerners is billed for next Friday night when the Meadow High school team plays at the Lubbock High gym. Anton plays here on the night of December 21.

Schmeling Ready To Box Braddock

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (AP)—Max Schmeling hurled a challenge at James J. Braddock and the New York State Athletic commission when he arrived here today on the liner Bremen.

The German heavyweight sought to thwart a proposed February meeting between Braddock and Joe Louis by offering to fight Braddock for the title as soon as James J. can be lured into the ring.

"If Braddock is ready to fight, so am I," declared Max. "I'm willing to take him on in Atlantic City, Miami or in Madison Square Garden any time they arrange. We don't have to wait until June."

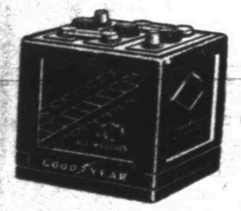

SENSITIVE OR DUMB

CORPUS CHRISTI, Dec. 10. (AP)—A stingray, thinks a fisherman who caught one off the breakwater here recently, either is sensitive or dumb.

The fish had been caught previously because its tail was cut off. Being caught a second time, the fisherman reasons, indicates dumbness unless—and he says he isn't sure—stingray pyschology counsels suicide when the tail goes.

Littlefield Is Moving Toward Midland Today

Caravan Of Automobiles Take Wildcat Fans To Scene Of Regional Final; Game Set For Today At 2 O'Clock

LITTLEFIELD, Dec. 10. (Special) A long caravan of automobiles carrying possibly two hundred nervous but hopeful football fans is to pull out of Littlefield today, head for Midland and the regional championship grid fest between the Littlefield Wildcats and the Midland Bulldogs.

Coach Bill Sanders' Littlefield team won the bi-district championship last Friday by defeating Snyder; Midland swamped McCamey last Saturday for the other bi-district title of the region. Since regional championships are as high as Class B teams go, Friday's game in Midland means to the fans and friends of each school as much as the state championship game does to Class A schools.

KFYO TO BROADCAST

Play-by-play report, as sent from the Midland press box, of the Midland-Littlefield regional championship football game will be broadcast today over station KFYO, Lubbock, Judge Landis, radio manager, announced last night.

An announcer for the station will be in the Midland press box, and the broadcast will come by remote control direct from the game. The contest is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

It is Littlefield's first football advance past a district championship, the Wildcats hope to bring the regional title to this district for the first time since Lamesa's heyday.

The Wildcat team was in good physicial condition when it left today for a workout at Lamesa before going on to Big Spring tonight. Coach Sanders took 26 men on the trip.

Off to a shaky start, the Wildcats rallied to win the northern half of District 5 then get the best of a tie with Slaton in the district finale. The team has scored 244 points to 55 for the opposition, but will enter the Midland game as underdogs.

Jack M. Randal Is New Scout Leader

Officers for Lubbock district, Boy Scouts of America, Thursday night were elected at a dinner meeting conducted at Tree Top inn.

Jack M. Randal was named chairman, J. A. Raley vice chairman, and Sam A. Henry district commissioner. Induction will be Jan. 1, and chairmen of district committees will be appointed in a meeting of the newly-elected officials next week.

Joseph R. Griggs was toastmaster at the dinner, which was attended by 25 Lubbock scouters. Rev. Carl E. Herefcrd, pastor of the First Baptist church of Lubbock, spoke on "Leadership." Dr. E. L. Reed, past chairman of the district, was given a bronze statuette for meritorious service to scouting over the six years. Howard Green, Lubbock scout, played accordian selections.

Several committee reports were made.

D. L. Doughtie was chairman of arrangements.

Bids To Be Accepted For New Federal Building At Houston

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—The treasury announced today bids would be opened in Houston, Tex., on December 30 for temporary quarters for federal activities now housed in the Franklin Street postoffice.

The specifications called for 6,780 square feet for postoffice requirements and 2,310 square feet for the customs service.

Bids will be opened here on December 20 for construction of a new federal office building for which a $695,000 appropriation has been made.

Indiana Federal Judge Rules In Favor Of "Windfall Tax"

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 10. (AP) — Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell of the southern Indiana district court upheld today the validity of the "windfall tax" passed by congress to levy on tax money refunded to processors after the Supreme court declared the Agricultural Adjustment act unconstitutional.

The "windfall tax" was attacked by Kingan and company, an Indianapolis packing concern which alleged it would be required to pay $900,000 on refunds of $2,543,832 received after the Supreme court's ruling on the AAA.

Texas Grid Stars Of Former Seasons To Play St. Mary's

AUSTIN, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Coach Jack Chevigny joined today in the fun of practicing with the University of Texas all-stars who Saturday pit their prowess against the colorful St. Mary's university Rattlers of San Antonio in a charity game here.

Austin football folk will see such former greats as "Bullet Bohn" Hilliard, Charley Coates, Joe Smartt, Gordy Brown, "Ox" Higgins, Phil Sanger, Jimmy Burr and Hank Clewis and present top-notchers, including Lloyd Russell and John Reynolds of Baylor, perform once more in Memorial Stadium.

Smith Charges Employes Appointed By Him Are "Executed In Military Style"

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 10. — Lon Smith, member of the railroad commission, charged today in a statement that the majority of the commission had "executed in military style" several employes appointed by him.

Ernest O. Thompson, commission chairman, said yesterday there was "nothing unusual" in the dismissal of four men and declined to comment on Smith's statement. The other commissioner is C. V. Terrell.

Smith opposed unsuccessfully the recent re-election of Thompson, who was supported by Terrell.

"These men have been my loyal friends through the years and this punishment is inflicted upon them because of their friendship and loyalty for me," Smith said.

Fair-Haired Little Princess Elizabeth Shows More Care For Her Pets Than Turn Of Events In Kingdom's History

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 10. — Fair-haired little Princess Elizabeth perhaps cared more today for her pony and a dog named "Yorky" than for the turn of events that projected her into the limelight.

With her mother, the Duchess of York, and her little sister, Princess Margaret Rose, Elizabeth continued making short trips from her Piccadilly home about London and to Windsor, unaware of the meaning of the excitement about her.

Endeared To Subjects

The princess' regal manner and loveliness have endeared her to all subjects of the crown. The death of King George V, her grandfather, placing her third in the line of succession, served to accentuate the public concern over her welfare.

For the decade of her life, her education has been designed to equip her for the role of queen and empress. Even the British cabinet considered the matter of her preparedness.

Duchess Overruled

The Duchess of York, when Elizabeth barely was above the toddling stage, pleaded the little girl be sent to a private school where she might mingle with other girls of her age.

The duchess was overruled French, literature, piano, dancing, writing, and arithmetic, for which she expressed a dislike, have been taught her. Sometimes she has frowned on the restraint of convention.

Queen Mary, her grandmother, undertook to teach her etiquette and diplomatic convention.

Story Is Related

Once Elizabeth attempted, so the story goes, to make use of public favor to her own advantage, only to be given a lesson in behavior by Queen Mary, with whom she was attending the theater.

The imperious little miss insisted on standing and was admonished to sit down on pain of being sent home.

"I can't be sent home," was the princess' retort. "Think of all the people outside waiting to see me."

Another time she attempted to trade on her high birth. A nurse told her to do something she did not want to do and when the nurse insisted, Elizabeth frose her with the reminder: "Royalty speaking."

The oldest inmate of Missouri penitentiary at Jefferson City is Hayden Peoples, negro "lifer" who has served 28 years since he was checked in for murder when 24.

Tech Speech Department Will Present Play On December 17

"Big Hearted Herbert," a three-act comedy, will be presented before the public Thursday night, Dec. 17, in Senior High school auditorium by several students of the speech department at Texas Technological college.

Miss Ruth Pirtle, head of the speech department, is directing the production.

Herbert Kalness, role taken by Rex Webster, is a self-made business man who insists that his family be brought up in the plain tradition. His daughter becomes engaged to a Harvard man but the home is made safe for her fiancee only after Herbert's family embarrasses him by taking his order concerning plain traditions too literally to please him.

Tech students in the play are Webster, Eron Gafford, Helen Lehmberg, Earl Crow, Lillian Heard, Noel Edgar Thompson, Ernesteen Lockhart, Billy Yeatts, Lee Byrd, Katherine Kersch, R. V. Jones and Priscilla Davis. Thomas Pirtle, public school student, also is a character.

Student activity tickets will admit Tech student to the play.

MIGRATION LARGE

CLARENDON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Migration of wild ducks in the Clarendon area this winter is the largest in several seasons. Large numbers of greenhead mallards, gray specified mallards, canvasbacks, red heads, and green winged teals have been reported.

OLD GRAY MARE

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa. (AP)—William Gombert, Mahoning Valley farmer, has a horse 33 years old. He bought the animal as a five-year-old and has worked him 28 years. "Old Dobbin" still does occasional odd jobs. The average life of a horse is 15 years.

RANCH IS PRESERVE

SINTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—The 11,000-acre ranch of R. H. Welder, San Patricio county cattle and oilman, has been converted into a state game preserve. It will be stocked with deer, turkeys, doves, quail, and ducks, and Joe H. Morrow, deputy game warden, will live on the ranch during hunting season.

It is said that nearly 100,000 people are engaged in the $50,000,000-a-year "coal bootlegging" business.

Beware The Cough
From a common cold
That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Wild Cherry and Menthol, but also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

LUBBOCK MAN COULDN'T GET HIS BREATH; GREAT VAN-TAGE NOW RELIEVES

Mr. Stark, of 6th St., Suffered 30 Years Due To Gas, Bloat, Constipation, Kidney Misery — Appetite Gone and Rest Broken—Now He Says: "I Have Taken Van-Tage One Week and It Has Done Wonders!"

MR. WM. F. STARK, Prominent Lubbock Man, Eased of His Awful Misery, Says: "I Think VAN-TAGE Is a Wonderful Medicine and I Am Glad to Recommend It!"

Just a few weeks ago, VAN-TAGE was unknown in Lubbock. Today, this Amazing Formula is the Drug Sensation of this whole community. Crowds now flock daily to the Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1221 Broadway, Lubbock, where Van-Tage is being introduced to the public of this city and vicinity by a Special Van-Tage Representative, known as The VAN-TAGE Man, and, at the same time, a continual stream of widely-known men and women, living throughout Lubbock and section, is coming forward with Remarkable Statements, describing what Van-Tage did for them and urging others, who suffer in the same way, to get it and take it. For instance, just a few days ago, the following statement was received from Mr. Wm. F. Stark, of 1424 6th St., Lubbock. Mr. Stark is a Widely-Known local man with friends throughout this whole region. Read his sincere testimonial.

Appetite Gone And Rest Broken By Suffering

"For years," says Mr. Stark, "I had terrible stomach disorders that caused me great misery. My food would lie in my stomach and form awful gas that would bloat me away out. At times this gas would press up inside me and I COULD NOT GET MY BREATH! My kidneys were weak and ailing, and I had to get up so many times in the night that my rest was completely broken up. My appetite was very poor. I guess I must have been constipated for thirty years. I thought it would be impossible to ever be normal because I had always had to take strong laxatives or my bowels would not act.

Van-Tage Relieved Him In One Short Week!

"I read in the local papers about Van-Tage being introduced in Lubbock so I thought I would give it a trial. I am certainly glad I did, for I have only taken Van-Tage for a week and it has done WONDERS FOR ME! I have gotten a tremendous amount of good! My former gas and bloat has disappeared and my kidneys are regular for the first time in thirty years. In short, I think Van-Tage is a Wonderful Medicine and I am glad to recommend it to others!"

Over 20,000,000 Bottles Great Formula Sold

SUFFERERS! This amazing Formula has been tested by the sale of over 20,000,000 bottles. There isn't anything like it anywhere! It is the One and ONLY Van-Tage! In just the past few weeks, it has helped thousands (this is literally true!) in this vicinity alone! So, if you are a victim of sluggish, irregular bowels; inactive liver; swollen, gaseous stomach; sluggish kidneys, or awful rheumatic or neuritic pains, due to the sluggish action of these organs, get Van-Tage. VAN-TAGE acts as a carminative, laxative, cholagogue and diuretic. Remember — due to the immense volume in which it sells, the price of Van-Tage is reasonable. Get it—TODAY!

A Special Van-Tage Representative, direct from The Van-Tage Laboratories, is now at the Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1221 Broadway, Lubbock, daily meeting crowds of people and introducing and explaining this Remarkable Compound.

World War Veteran Dies Of Heart Attack At Ropesville

ROPESVILLE, Dec. 10. (Special) Funeral arrangements for Kenneth L. Combs, World war veteran about 40 years old, are expected to be made here Friday morning after arrival of a brother of Royalty, Texas.

Combs, who had obtained employment as a mechanic after coming here two months ago without funds, died of heart attack in a drug store this morning.

Relatives of the man were located by Constable L. S. Kennedy, who said he had permitted the veteran to sleep in the Ropesville jail when he was engaged this fall in pulling bolls. The body was at Levelland tonight, at a funeral home.

Information regarding other relatives was not available here. Combs' only immediate identification was an army discharge.

Constable Kennedy said Combs complained of feeling ill last night but went to work as usual this morning. At 10:30 o'clock Combs went into the drug store to obtain medicine, he said, for a heart pain. Combs fell dead while a clerk was getting the medicine.

Tax Structure Said Shelved

"Streamlining" Plans Delayed So That Current Revenues May Be Retained, Authority In Capital Reveals

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Congressional plans for a "streamlined" federal tax structure were said on high authority today to have been shelved so that most of the current revenues may be retained.

The "streamlining" contemplated elimination of levies that conflicted with state taxes and sometimes caused friction. The plan held a possibility that many important sources of revenue would be lost to the federal government.

Decision against so pruning the national tax system at this time was said to have been based on advice of fiscal experts who doubted that appropriations for government departments would be reduced sufficiently to warrant it next year.

The advisors were described as believing that, if president Roosevelt's and secretary Morgenthau's recommendations against no new taxes are accepted, the government could not afford to reduce its tax revenues more than $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.

Paramount Pictures Declare Initial Dividends Thursday

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (AP)—Directors of Paramount Pictures, Inc., today declared initial dividends of $12 on the first preferred stock and of 60 cents on the second preferred stock.

The payment will give holders of the two issues a total of $6,860,000. These are the first payments on the two issues which were created in the reorganization of the company completed more than a year ago.

The $12 payment clears up the arrears on the first preferred, which is a cumulative issue. Both dividends are payable Dec. 26 to holders of record Dec. 17.

Arrears of 60 cents remain to be paid on the second preferred following today's declaration.

San Antonio Man Pays $3,500 For 13-Month-Old Hereford

LLANO, Dec. 10. (AP)—H. A. Fitzsimmons of San Antonio, owner of the Fitzsimmons Land and Cattle company here, bought WHR Royal Domino 85th, a 13-month-old bull, at the recent Wyoming Hereford ranch auction at Cheyenne for the top price of $3,500. He also bought five yearling bulls at $450 a head.

The price for Domino 85th set a new 17-year record at the sale. The animal formerly was reserve champion at Billings, the Fort Worth Centennial show, and the American Royal. Bred by the Wyoming Hereford ranch, it is the son of Price Domino C. out of Donna Domino 166th by Prince Domino Randolph 2nd.

After being shown at Chicago, the young bull will be placed on the Fitzsimmons ranch in a registered herd of 100 select cows, along with two other famous sires, Manassa Domino, and Domino Mischief. Fitzsimmons has a commercial herd of 1,500 cows in addition to his registered stock.

Order Is Adopted To Prevent Blowouts In Sandia Territory

AUSTIN, Dec. 10. (AP)—The Railroad commission adopted an order today designed to prevent blowouts in the Sandia field which might endanger the water supply of Corpus Christi and the irrigation district near Calallen.

The order provided that at least 1,000 feet of surface casing must be set in every well in the field, which is in Jim Wells, Nueces and Live Oak counties. It also will require installation of a blowout preventer, control head and other connections for keeping each well under control at all times.

The commission called a hearing December 19 to determine whether these regulations should be made permanent.

WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, At Sea, Dec. 10. (AP)—The presidential cruisers steamed across smooth seas today, less than 500 miles from Port-Of-Spain, Trinidad, where they were scheduled to stop for refuelling tomorrow.

President Roosevelt, homeward bound from his peace mission to South America, appeared tanned and rested by the mild, tropical weather as the flotilla left the last of the Guianas to the south.

New Theories Are Advanced

Use Of Native Grass For Highway Beautification And Soil Conservation Work Talked In Session At Tech

New theories in use of native grass for beautification and prevention of erosion are rapidly being adopted with good results by highway and conservation groups, discussions at the opening session of a two-day meeting at Texas Technological college indicated Thursday afternoon.

Between 60 and 75 men, including a good representation of the Soil Conservation service in West Texas, attended.

To Talk Plants Use

Program for today's sessions, beginning at 9 a. m. and 2 p. m., will include discussion of uses of native plants other than grasses. The sessions are held in room 109 of the agriculture building.

Experiments have revealed that 11-2 year old plantings of buffalo grass yield an equivalent of three tons of hay per acre, speeches revealed. The grass, besides being used for pasture, is being planted around Texas Highway department matters and in ditches along highways to prevent erosion.

Use of wild grass for lawns and to prevent washing and blowing was discussed.

Several Are Heard

On Thursday afternoon's program were B. C. Langley, agronomist, Spur experiment station; W. B. Holden of the state highway department, Lubbock; and R. L. Burdette, vocational agriculture teacher in Lubbock public schools. A. W. Young, associate professor of agronomy, presided.

A. H. Leidigh, dean of agriculture, presided at a dinner last night at Hilton hotel, at which C. D. McGehee, superintendent of Lubbock parks, spoke. Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president, spoke briefly.

Jones To Preside

Dan Jones, superintendent of the Lubbock experiment station, will preside at this morning's session. Speeches will be given by E. W. Johnson, U. S. field station, Woodward, Okla.; Holden; U. A. Randolph, assistant forester, Texas Forest service, Lubbock experiment station; J. M. Del Curto, chief of the division of horticultural inspection and quarantines, state department of agriculture, Austin.

O. B. Howell, associate professor of horticulture at the college, will preside this afternoon, when H. D. Petheram, regional forester, Amarillo, and J. E. Gaston, assistant resident engineer, state highway department, Amarillo, will speak.

Those Attending Affair

'Twas The Seal's Whiskers But They Started Thurber On Road To Success; His "Scratchpad Art" Brings Fortune

It may look like child's play but ladies and seals such as these brought the artist fame and fortune.

BY CHARLES NORMAN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Funny things happens to humorists.

James Thurber's drawings of forlorn, fleeing men, exultantly pursuing women, and sympathetic rughounds are well known today, but his first effort to make the "new Yorker" where they are a familiar feature, ended in failure.

His first submitted drawing, a seal, not only was turned down, but two staff artists, with pity for his blunders, drew seals at the bottom of his picture to show him what the animal really looked like. For one thing, the whiskers on his seal pointed the wrong way.

Thurber Himself

One of his best known drawing is of a seal in a bed. It began as a seal on a rock. Thurber noticed the rock resembled a bed. So he finished it that way.

His "scratchpad art," drawn with all the abandon of a bored kindergarten pupil, is the despair of editors. It is also the despair of fellow artists, some of whom are bitter about competing with a man who just dashes off things. Thurber sketches quickly, in ink; the first result is the finished product.

Tall, serious-looking, spectacled, he might be a broker so far as appearances go, instead of a nationally known humorist and artist who walks hatless about town with long strides. The ebullience sometimes associated with professional funmen is absent from his make-up.

A year after his drawings began to appear in the "New Yorker," he received a bid from the magazine. "I started in as managing editor,' he says. 'Everybody starts in as managing editor, and then works down."

To this day, he adds, the magazine occasionally turns down one of his drawings, whereupon he waits two or three months and submits it again. He finds the technique works.

Once he drew a picture of a woman looking at a hippopotamus.

"What is that animal?" he asked his four-year-old daughter.

"That is a hippopotamus,' she replied.

Jubilant, Thurber sent the drawing to the magazine. It was filed: "Woman and unknown animal.'

Lady By Thurber

Woman Indignant

His career really began at Ohio State university during the war. He found himself on the staff of the Sun Dial, undergraduate magazine, with a shortage of artists due to enlistments.

Children have always liked his drawings and write to tell him so. Occasionally a proud mama will send him the work of her offspring. But one woman wrote to the editor: "I want the drawings by that man stopped.'

Aimee Reveals She Relies On Turkish Baths To Cure Colds; Testimony In Suit Is Taken

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10. (AP)—Believe it or not, Aimee Semple McPherson testified today, curative powers of a Turkish bath brought her to Sixth and Hill streets early yesterday morning.

"In the parlance of the pavement," questioned Arthur Brigham Rose in a deposition hearing, "were you plastered at Sixth and Hill streets at 3 a. m. yesterday morning?"

Sister Aimee, irate, declared the question was "silly and humiliating," then replied, "I certainly was not plastered, and I wasn't there at 3 a. m."

She was, she added, at the spot about three hours later.

"Believe it or not," Mrs. McPherson testified, "I was coming out of a Turkish bath."

Rose wanted to know why the bath was necessary, and Aimee said she took it to cure a cold. "Many do," she explained.

The evangelist was quizzed in proceedings preliminary to trial of the $1,080,000 suit brought against her by Rheba Crawford, former associate pastor at Angelus Temple.

Vinegar is announced as a new grapefriut by-product by a Mission, Tex., concern. It has a greenish color.

Conservation Of Wild Turkeys Is Urged By Wildlife Official

DALLAS, Dec. 10. (AP)—Conservation of wild turkeys will aid materially in assisting Texas farmers to eradicate grasshoppers, says Dr. L. M. Dickerson, assistant wildlife technician of the National Park service.

"All types of insects are grist to the mill of this bird," he says, "the wild turkey being hatched with a seemingly full-grown appetite, preferable for 'hoppers.'"

Dr. Dickerson, directing attention to wildlife preserves established in Texas state parks, says "the key to the restoration of the turkey, as in the case of other wildlife, is to provide adequate sanctuary protection and food supply.

"The history of the wild turkey," he says, "is in a very real sense the history of American wildlife. By nature a denizen of the forest, the turkey will use open fields as feeding ground, but prefers them small and within easy running distance of tall trees. Equipped with acute vision and hearing, it is rarely caught napping even the cleverest stalkers. Possessing strong flight muscles, and the endurance of a Marathon runner, the turkey is able to survive in spite of all predators in its native habitat."

Blocks Of Granite To Mark Townsite, Soldier's Grave

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 10 (AP)—Blocks of Texas granite will mark a vanished town and the burial place of a forgotten soldier. The town is Ben Ficklin, original seat of Tom Green county, washed away by a flood 54 years ago, and the soldier is John Ingram, survivor of San Jacinto buried in Fairmount cemetery here.

Ten Lubbock men Thursday night were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Adams of 1319 Fifteenth street at dinner. Thomas Plans To Ask Probe

Houston Congressman-Elect Says He Will Request Full Investigation Of Contract On Brazos Project

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Dec. 10.—Congressman-elect Albert Thomas said today he would request a full investigation of a contract by which the Texas Power and Light company would purchase electricity from the Possum Kingdom dam in Palo Pinto county.

A contract between the Brazos river authority and the power company was under consideration by the Works Progress administration, Thomas said.

Would Defeat Purpose

"Such a contract," Thomas said, "would defeat one of the main purposes of the Brazos development. It would take away from Texas an electricity yardstick such as President Roosevelt established in the Tennessee Valley to the great benefit of the people of Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi.

"If the Possum Kingdom power is sold to a private utility, the people of the Brazos valley are going to lose their chance to have lower rates. Anything that fixes rates at their present level ought not to be accepted.

"I am absolutely opposed to using public money for private interests."

Building Plans To Be Talked Friday

Major George Kilks, state commander of the Salvation Army in Texas and Major John A. Morrison, new divisional secretary, are to meet with local groups this noon at the Hilton hotel, Captain John G. Churchill, local commander, said last night.

The property committee and the executive committee of the advisory board of the local council will meet with them. Matters of importance are to be discussed, it was said.

Patricia Shirley Mansell, 5-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Chris C. Mansell, early Thursday night apparently continued improvement at West Texas hospital, where she is receiving treatment for pneumonia. She was "resting" and her temperature had decreased.

The little girl fell ill with an ear infection last Friday and the difficulty turned into pneumonia of the bronchial type. She has been seriously ill for the past six days.

Patricia Shirley's baby brother, Chris, jr., nearly nine months old, died after a siege of pneumonia last Monday and was buried Tuesday.

Parking Meters

of-way before the appellate court, which could consider the matter without testimony on a transcript of records.

Request for a restraining order culminated opposition to the meters active since the commission June 11th contracted with the Dual Parking Meter company of Oklahoma City for 350 machines on a trial period later fixed at 90 days. The devices began in operation November 9 under ordinance of the commission passed with one dissenting vote, that of A. J. Richardson.

Here Only On Trial

Members of the commission have frequently stated the paid parking system was here only on trial to determine its effect on parking problems frequently called to their attention.

After rendering his order, Judge Pharr said the injunction proceedings presented more questions of law than any other before him in ten years on the bench, and that the newness of the meters and lack of appellate action on cases in which they were involved left him with no parallel rulings. Only in Miami, Fla., he said, had an injunction been granted so far as he knew.

(The Morning Avalanche later yesterday received an Associated Press report that an injunction against parking meters had been granted in Wichita Falls.)

Judge Careful In Order

The judge was careful to distinguish, in addition to a statement in the written decision, that his action not even remotely defined whether parking meters were correct in principle.

"The sole question is a question of law," an excerpt from his ruling reads: "Does the city commission have the right, power and authority to enact and pass the ordinance . . . with reference to parking meters?"

Cases on which he based his findings, Judge Pharr said, were affirmed by appellate courts.

Order Is Quoted

"After a careful and deliberate consideration of the City charter of Lubbock, the laws of Texas, and the decisions of the Supreme Court of Texas, and many other cases from many states in the United States, upon the power, right and authority of the City commission of Lubbock to enact the ordinance . . . in question in this case, and after carefully considering the case the City of Amarillo et al versus Garwood by the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals for a temporary injunction attacking the validity and constitutionality of a City ordinance, I have come to the conclusion," the order read, "that the plaintiffs are entitled to a temporary injunction upon executing bond in the sum of $5,000 to protect the city for any damages that might arise in the event that the Appellate courts of this State should hold that a temporary injunction was erroneous.

"I can reach no other conclusion than that . . . the plaintiffs are entitled to a temporary injunction for the reason that said ordinance involved . . . is invalid and beyond the power of the City of Lubbock to enact."

Seventeen Lubbock business men and property owners, joined by others who were not named parties to the suit, brought the injunction procedings.

An attorney for the parking meter company assisted City Attorney Bradley and his law partner, W. D. Wilson, in the defense as agreed by terms of the contract entered by the city.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 10. (AP)—Rushing up to fresh peak price records, wheat and other cereals then reacted late today, and lost most of their new gains.

Heavy selling to realize speculative profits was largely responsible for late setbacks of quotations.

May wheat in Chicago reached an apex of $1.25.

Chicago wheat futures closed varying from ½ cent lower to ½ cent higher than yesterday's finish, Dec. 1.38⅛@1.38½, May 1.23⅞@1.24, July 1.09½@1.09¾, corn 1⅛ down to ¼ up, Dec. 1.09⅝@1.09¾, May new 1.03⅝@1.03½, July new 99½@99¾, oats unchanged to ¼ off, May 49@49⅛, and rye showing ⅜ to ¾ bulge, May 99⅝. In provisions, the outcome was unchanged to an advance of 22 cents.

Corn, oats and rye largely duplicated the action of wheat.

Provisions again outdid top price records, owing more or less to a steep upturn of the cottonseed oil market.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Dec. 10. (AP)—Demand was fair for grains at Fort Worth today, estimated receipts were: wheat 17 cars, corn 7, and sorghums 2.

The jury voted first on whether Teal was guilty, unanimously balloting in the affirmative. On a question of whether he was guilty of manslaughter or of murder, the body stood evenly divided.

On recommendation of penalty Teal should be assessed, jurors suggested terms ranging from five to 25 years, eventually compromising on eight years.

Whether appeal action is to be taken will depend on a conference Saturday afternoon at Muleshoe of Teal, his relatives and the defense counsel, said Dupree, who with Crenshaw will go to Lamesa for resumption of hearing in a Loving county case. The jury in that cause is to report back to hear additional testimony today, and arguments are expected to be made Saturday morning.

Edward Gives Up The Throne

King Renounces Rule Thursday For Right To Marry Woman Of His Choice; Mantle Falls To Duke Of York

In a formal document of voluntary abdication he passed the throne on to his younger brother, the present Duke of York, and expressed as his last kingly wish that his ascension speedily would come to pass.

Was 68th King

Thus did the sixty-eighth king of Britain, at the age of 42, step down from the ancient and honorable throne of his forefathers to joins his life and destiny with those of a woman his government told him he must not marry so long as he was king.

His regal mantle fell to the tall, slender Duke of York, homeloving father of two princesses who would be next in line for England's throne. York will be 41 on Dec. 14.

The house of commons, after hearing the momentous words from the man who was king, reconvened at 6 p. m. to consider legislation carrying out Edward's abdication and the succession of the Duke of York.

Sorrowful Resignation

The momentous decision of the sovereign was accepted for the most part with sorrowful resignation, although in the night parliament session, Winston Churchill, Col. Josiah Wedgwood and other staunch champions of Edward expressed regret that the denouement might not have been otherwise.

Ernest A. Simpson, the king's officer Mrs. Simpson divorced so she would be ready to marry Edward, was reported tonight to have himself made a last minute plea to save his sovereign his throne.

With no thought of reconciliation between him and his former wife, friends said, he sought to no avail through intermediaries to persuade Mrs. Simpson to exert her influence against the king's abdication.

To Rush Legislation

Desipte marked reluctance of some of Edward's parliamentary supporters to accept his abdiction, it was virtually certain that the necessary legislation would be rushed through the houses and made ready for Edward's signature Friday.

This was borne out by the British Broadcasting company's announcement that Edward would broadcast an address to the empire over their facilities Friday night at 10 p. m. (5 p. m. eastern standard time).

The representatives of his majesty's subjects, sore of heart, had heard the decision of the man who was uncrowned king of England for 326 days since the death last Jan. 20 of his father, George V.

Love Means More

His love, he told them, meant more to him as a man than the bejewelled crown which was to have been placed on his head next May 12.

The king had spoken.

The next procedure was legislation to accept the new king so that Britain on the morrow would as always have a sovereign, king and emperor formally named.

The heir apparent himself remained in his Picadilly home after returning from a farewell with Edward at Fort Belvedere. At his side were his duchess and their two daughters, the princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose.

Future Plans Unknown

What would be Edward's future plans as plain Mr. David Windsor or as the Duke of something-or-other were not disclosed, but there were reports he would fly from the land of his birth Friday, forever to exile himself from the British realm.

Whether he would go to Mrs. Simpson in the Villa at Cannes where she fled when the storm over their love broke on the world was not made known. Lord Brownlow, her spokesman, said she would not comment and Edward would not come there.

Inasmuch as her divorce does not become final until next April 27, there were many who thought the man who had been king, too, might enforce on himself a solitary exile until the time arrives when he and the American divorcee can be man and wife.

What portended for the realm now was in the hands of parliament and the dominion governments.

What had taken place in the past days of anxiety was revealed by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, the man who told the king of England he must not marry against the dictates of his ministers, subjects and dominions.

Draws Curtain Aside

Drawing aside the curtain which had cloaked the love drama of a king and a commoner the prime minister in conversational terms told all.

It was he, Baldwin said, who first had informed the king of the gravity with which the king's ministers viewed the divorce decree nisi granted Mrs. Simpson from Ernest A. Simpson last April 27.

It was he, Baldwin said, who first told the monarch of his firm conviction that the British empire would not countenance any union whatsoever between the king and the twice-divorced woman.

It was he, the prime minister continued, who first received from the king's own lips Edward's assurance that he was determined to marry Mrs. Simpson.

Black-clad and sombre, Stanley Baldwin, the first minister, moved immediate consideration of the abdication by parliament.

In the deep, breathless, hush, Baldwin pleaded for an understanding of his part in the most "repugnant task ever imposed on a prime minister," and told the story of the momentous weeks of struggle between king and prime minister.

Last For Life

"When I said 'goodbye' on Tuesday night," Baldwin told his tense listeners, while unsmiling crowds surged and jostled outside in parliament square, "we both knew, and felt, and said to each other that our friendship—so far from being impaired by the discussions of this last week—bound us more closely together than it ever had—and that it would last for life."

Happily, Edward's renunciation of the throne came without bitterness, and his pledge of hope for the empire's stability and the people's happiness gave the whole situation the aspect of a family problem.

Edward, with his younger brother, the Duke of Kent, spent the last fateful moments of his reign at turreted Fort Belvedere, the country retreat which has been the focal point of the empire's drama.

New King Leaves

Just before parliament heard the word of abdication, the new king and the Duke of Gloucester had left Edward's side, to motor toward Windsor.

Tragic Queen Mary had gone to her second son's home in Piccadilly circus while commons assembled.

Baldwin Outlines Crisis

Baldwin outlined the whole crisis for commons in a voice low and broken with emotion. He described his discussions with the king about Mrs. Simpson, and told the members how Edward from the outset had declared his determination to marry her.

"I felt doubly bound to speak," he said, "it was my duty . . . to the country, my duty to him, not only as counsellor but as friend."

He related how he and the monarch had wrestled with the problem as man to man, the king insisting they settle the whole issue between themselves.

Cheers rang through the chamber as Baldwin declared:

"I reminded him of what I have often told him and his brothers in years past, and that is this: The crown in this country through centuries has been deprived of many of its prerogatives but today—while that is true—it stands for far more than it ever has done in its history.

". . . Its integrity is not only the last link of empire . . . It is a guarantee, so long as it exists in that integrity, against the many evils that have affected and afflicted other countries."

In the tense house of lords, the venerable archbishop of Canterbury raised his voice to declare:

"This is an occasion when our thoughts are too deep for tears, certainly too deep for words."

Then the primate, united with Baldwin against morganatic marriage for the wearer of the crown, praised the "dignity, calmness and courage" of the queen mother.

Before he arose, Lord Halifax had read to the peers the correspondence which passed between cabinet and king in which Baldwin and his ministers vainly sought to change Edward's "irrevocable decision."

Last Note Received

When he had finished, Baldwin, as a sign of the conciliatory nature of the king's renunciation of his throne, took out a pencilled note received from Edward this morning.

It was interpreted as the last word from the sovereign.

The Duke of York and the king, the note said, "always have been on the best terms as brothers. The king is confident the duke deserves, and will receive, the support of the whole empire."

Approximately 800 At Police Dance

Representative of the entire South Plains, a large crowd—approximately 800 persons—Thursday night tripped to the strains of Duane Fuqua's orchestra incident to conduct of an eighth annual benefit ball of Lubbock police department.

Persons of several states, spending the night in Lubbock and attracted by the function, mingled with dancers of the immediate section.

C. E. Luce and Don Reeder, respectively city recorder and assistant chief of police, said at midnight a complete check would not be made until late this morning, but that "approximately 300 tickets were sold on the door tonight, which, added to pre-dance sales, should total about $800 realized."

Thanks for public contribution to success of the dance was said by Luce and Reeder, as well as Police Chief H. L. Johnston.

ARLINGTON WOMAN KILLED

FOST WORTH, Dec. 10. (AP)—Miss Mable Smith, 21, of Arlington, was instantly killed when struck by an automobile as she attempted to cross the Fort Worth-Dallas pike a mile east of Arlington early tonight.

German Public In Dark As To Identity Of Wally

BERLIN, Dec. 10. (AP) — Puzzled Germans seized copies of the first King Edward extras just before 8 o'clock tonight and then asked each other: "Who is this Frau Erneste Simpson?"

The papers have carried practically nothing heretofore about England's crown crisis.

Tonight's extras bannerlined the abdication, carried pictures of King Edward, the Duke of York and his duchess, (but none of Wallis Warfield Simpson) and mentioned briefly in a modest corner of page two: "The king's desire to marry one Frau Erneste Simpson caused the crisis."

"Who might that be?" many readers asked.

Civil Matters Scheduled

Several civil matters are scheduled for today.

It had been planned to have a plea or two Thursday afternoon. In one instance two cases were to have been heard against Mrs. A. D. Ryan. She was injured in an auto crash near Matador Wednesday and was in a Slaton hospital. Unable to come to court, her cases were postponed.

A sentence meted out to Melvina Jones, negress, was later changed by Judge Davidson to a $10 fine and a year and a half in Alderson, West Virginia women's prison, suspended for three years.

Sentences were passed on 10 persons, including the dismissal of a case against the wife of a man found guilty and the dismissal and a bond forfeiture case set aside, in another. All were liquor cases.

Clyde O. Eastus, district attorney and Frank Taylor, assistant, handled the government's case. Max Coleman represented Johnson. Hill Stewart represented Valadez and an interpreter was used to explain the case to him, he being unable to understand English.

Cases Announced

Cases were as follows:

Against E. P. Hamner, charged with possession and concealing of unpaid tax liquor; $50 fine and two years in Leavenworth federal prison, suspended three years if fine paid by Tuesday next.

Thirty days in jail for Baldomero Valadez, Spur Mexican, two years in El Reno reformatory, suspended for three years.

Eighteen months in Alderson, West Virginia woman's reformatory, suspended three years, for Mary Reyna and Cumby Lucero, Mexican women.

J. B. Farr, former Levelland man, must serve a year and a day in El Reno on one charge, and two years in Leavenworth, suspended for three years, in another. Mrs. Farr, charged in the second case, was dismissed by Judge Davidson.

Noel Johnson, alias Fred Johnson, negro, a year and a day in Leavenworth, and two years there, suspended three years.

Felix H. Latson, former Plainview man, two years in Leavenworth on one count and three years, suspended for five years, in another. In a previous case, where bond was ordered forfeited, it was set aside and the case dismissed.

District Attorney Eastus told the court that he had been advised Alva Adams, charged in a liquor case, had died and asked the case be continued until next term in order to get permission from the attorney general to dismiss it.

Order in a civil case, Texas Land and Mortgage Co., vs. C. E. Boone, et al, was entered.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Dec. 10. (AP)—Funeral services for Mary Pickford's sister, Lottie Pickford, will be held Saturday morning, her family announced today. Interment will be in the family crypt at Forest Lawn.

Miss Pickford died of a heart attack last night. She was 41 years old.

MAN LOSES WALLET

H. R. Bowling of Levelland reported to police early today the loss of his wallet, containing $55 in cash, his driver's license and additional identification papers, while attending the policemen's ball at the Auditorium. He said he would give a reward for the return of the wallet and its contents.

RICHMOND MAN SUICIDES

RICHMOND, Dec. 10. (AP)—G. A. Tippen, about 50, father of Homer Tippen, University of Texas football player, shot himself to death in his room here today.

No Clues In Job Pulled At Lamesa

LAMESA, Dec. 10. (Special) — Sheriff Gus White and his deputies today had turned up no clues in burglary here Wednesday night of the W. L. Bedwell residence and theft of clothing valued at $500.

Miss Edna Bedwell honored Miss Fay Reed, bride-elect, with a party. Coats and wraps were left in a bedroom. Bedwell went into the room, noticed the coats where they had been left, and, a few minutes later, returned to find them gone. A window was up and the screen had been slit.

Search revealed a pair of gloves and a purse had been dropped in a nearby alley. Coats taken were described generally as: A tan sports coat, a tweed sports coat, a British tan swagger coat with fur collar, a British tan and green swagger coat, and a Russian pony fur coat.

from London. Forewarned by strong intimations of a "grave decision," crowds stood patiently but in tense suspense.

Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons of Australia echoed official statement from other parts of the empire when he said "we are sad of heart bidding Edward farewell."

Bombay officials expressed relief that the king's renunciation of his throne has ended a constitutional crisis without endangering the crown.

Mounting excitement in South Africa was quelled by the actual announcement.

The Canadian cabinet authorized approval with that of the English commons of the abdiction of Edward VIII and the accession of the Duke of York to the throne.

Both in Dublin and Belfast tremendous excitement was displayed when the news was received but only Belfast, northern Ireland, followed with expressions of loyalty to the new king.

From far-off colonial stations in India, on tiny islands in the Pacific ocean, from eastern Crown lands, came formal expressions of regret coupled with pledges of fealty to the new occupant of the throne.

"In the act of abdication," said the Rangoon Gazette, "the man in Edward VIII triumphed over the king, and by the irony of fate the most popular of English monarchs has voluntarily given up the throne of his fathers."

Bollworm Area Is Designated

Allred Issues Proclamation Designating Five Counties In West Texas Under Regulations Of Infestation

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 10.—Governor Allred issued a proclamation today designating five West Texas counties as a pink bollworm regulated area in accordance with recommendations of the pink bollworm commission.

The area comprises Dawson, Howard, Glassock, Martin, and Midland counties. Cotton from those counties will be treated to prevent the spread of the pink bolworm.

Moderate Regulations To Apply, McDonald Says

AUSTIN, Dec. 10. (AP)—J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, said today moderate regulations would be applied in the newly-designated West Texas bollworm area about July 1.

On the basis of a preliminary study, he said, it appeared the infectation was light in Dawson, Howard, Glasscock, Martin and Midland counties, which Governor Allred designated as a regulated area.

To Make Further Study

McDonald said he would make further study before deciding what type of regulation was necessary, adding severe winters in the affected district would contribute materially toward eradication of the pest. In all probability, he said, seed would be shipped to designated mills.

Previously designated for regulation where Starr, Hidalgo, Cameron, and Willacy counties, in the Rio Grande valley, where the infestation was worse. McDonald said the federal government required sterilization of seed in the area but whethre it would be done at gins or central plants was to be determined later. Regulations would become effective about June 1.

He said the Mexican fruit fly situation in the valley seemed better than in several years, largely because of cooperation of growers in removing fallen fruit from the ground. The fruit fly will not attack fruit on a tree.

Mongrel Pampered When Long Life Neared End To Receive Honor Accorded To The Dead

OCEAN CITY, N. J., Dec. 10. (AP)—A memorial drinking fountain was planned today for "Hobo," mongrel mascot of the city.

"Hobo" died last night of old age, estimated at 20 years. Popular with residents and visitors, the dog's infirmities were noticed last summer and friends started to raise a memorial fund.

A volunteer committee, composed mainly of summer residents, raised about $75 and started a trust fund in a local bank.

The board of education voted to allow burial of "Hobo" in a corner of the high school lawn where he used to snooze on hot days.

Sailor Writes Mother Notes Were Written As A Prank

KILGORE, Dec. 10. (AP)—Mrs. A. B. Hall, mother of James F. Hall, sailor charged with attempting to extort money from Ginger Rogers, movie star, said today her son had written to her that his notes to Miss Rogers were intended as a prank.

Mrs. Hall said she would go to Los Angeles as soon as advisable and would be with her son during his trial.

She said James had "always been a good boy," and had never given her "any trouble."

Famine Feared In Flood Area

Floodswept Valley In Island Of Philippines Is Object Of Government Relief; Death Toll Unknown

(By The Associated Press)

MANILA, Dec. 10—Health director Eugenio Hernando tonight reported "hunger epidemic everywhere" in the floodswept Cagayan valley north of here.

Official advices said 80,000 persons needed relief.

They also showed thirteen towns and scores of hut villages badly affected in Isabela, one of the three provinces through which the destructive waters swirled. The reports added the death and property toll would be "great" but remained undetermined.

To Send Supplies

While soldiers buried the dead, the vanguard of relief workers began innoculating survivors against typhoid and cholera. A ship was loaded with supplies here for dispatch tomorrow to the scene.

Dr. Hernando, reporting "people were mowed down like grain," asked the capital to speed relief supplies and requested authority to purchase available food and medicine on the spot. The national emergency board immediately granted this request.

Famine Is Evident

Government officials rushed supplies into death-ridden areas to check hunger and disease. Relief officials asked the government to provide rice and medicine to the Echague sector, Isabela province, where "famine is evident."

Doctors and nurses who reached parts of the valley by Cagayan river boats were inoculating survivors against typhoid fever and cholera, while soldiers buried the dead.

Commonwealth President Manuel Quezon issued an order from Cinia setting aside $500,000 from the government's gasoline funds for flood relief.

With the communication facilities still severed, all authorities said it was impossible to even estimate the number of dead. All agreed casualties and damage would be "considerable."

We hope he is aware of his need. Some of us wish he gave more positive signs of such awareness."

Mrs. Simpson Issues Statement

Mrs. Simpson in a signed statement issued in Cannes said she was willing, if her action would solve the problem "to withdraw forthwith from a situation that has become unhappy and untenable."

Decorating For Christmas

FOR the past several years, in a manner more or less desultory, Lubbock has decorated for Christmas.

Some decorations are up for this year. President J. D. Hassell, of the chamber of commerce, reports that additional decorations are likely to be added. He agrees, however, with a suggestion of The Morning Avalanche that next year, if business conditions are at least normal, Lubbock should start early activities along holiday decoration lines, improve equipment and add to features, so everyone will be early impressed with the fact that this is a Christmas city.

Abilene this year is not content only with decorations. At the entrances to the city on all sides are to be found attractively decorated billboards welcoming Christmas shoppers and calling attention to the city's holiday offerings. That is a good thing, we think, and one which might well be considered here. Abilene's welcome messages are signed by the chamber of commerce.

Lubbock draws its Christmas trade from a wider territory than any other city of its size in the United States.

Lubbock business houses of all kinds and classes are given a generous slice of business by people living away from the city, eespecially in purchase of articles not generally found in smaller stores and smaller cities.

Lubbock business men and their organizations should, we think, give more attention to stimulating the Christmas spirit, if for no other reason than to let people know we appreciate whatever consideration they give us.

Today's One-Minute Sermon—1-18 Center

Ye shall do no unrighteousness in Judgment, in meteyard, in weight, or in measure.

Just balances, just weights, a just ephah, and a just hin, shall ye have: I am the Lord your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt.

Therefore shall ye observe all my statutes, and all my judgments, and do them: I am the Lord.—Leviticus, XIX:35-37.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Through a tip from his friend Billy Ross, Terrance Mahony has been able to rescue Elsa Little from a gang of kidnappers headed by Ambrose Lawson, who is a respected friend of the Little family. But while Terrence was returning Elsa home, Lawson killed her uncle. Terrence has escaped from the house, knowing he cannot prove his innocence of the murder. But Elsa heard Terence's voice although she did not recognize him . . . and now Inspector Kennedy, investigating the murder of Mr. Little, believes Elsa is about to remember whose voice it was she heard.

Chapter Nine

ELSA REMEMBERS

Inspector Kennedy leaned forward slightly.

"Have you remembered?" he asked eagerly.

"I . . . but it can't be," she said slowly. "Why, I hardly know him at all. And, anyway, he was a friend of Billy Ross, who was one of my best friends."

"What's his name?" asked Inspector Kennedy.

"The voice sounded like Mr. Mahony's—he came to tea this afternoon," answered Elsa. "But he couldn't possibly have done it. Why should he? And he wasn't going to the dance. He told me so."

"He was talking to you about the dance, was he?" asked the Inspector. "Asking you questions?"

"Well—yes," admitted Elsa. "But why should he want to kidnap me and kill my uncle?"

"Who is that Mr. Mahony, and where does he live?" demanded the Inspector.

"He was a friend of Billy Ross, a friend of mine who was very badly hurt in a motor smash," answered Elsa, "He was staying with Billy when I met him. I don't know where he is now."

Nor did Lawson know where Mahony was living. In fact, nobody did. Mahony had not yet bothered to tell anyone his change of address.

"I'll find his address all right before morning," said the Inspector.

Luckily for Mahony, that statement was a trifle optimistic.

Mahony's first action after driving away from the Little's house was to return to the Albert Hall. He had left his own car in a park near the Hall, and in the men's cloakroom he had left an overcoat, a hat, and a pair of grey flannel trousers.

He had worn the overcoat, hat, and trousers on his way to the dance, since an Arab kit is chilly wear in an open sports car on a cold winter evening. Since he intended to deny that he had ever been to the dance if anybody questioned him, it was essential that he should remove those things before the dance finished.

In a quiet street in Kinsington he stopped the car and changed his costume round, so that he now appeared as an Arab instead of a monk. Leaving the car in a side street near the Hall, he returned to the Hall on foot and entered.

The dance was still in full swing when he arrived; the floor was still crowded; everything was just as he had left it before Elsa's kidnapping, except that now the dancers were unmasked. Mahony did not unmask. Avoiding the dance floor, he made his way towards the men's cloakroom.

Half-way to the cloak-room he felt a sudden touch on his shoulder. He turned. Facing him was the man dressed in the costume of Charles II who had taken Elsa to the exit where the men dressed as monks had seized her. From conversation he had heard in the car while Elsa was being taken away, Mahony knew that he man's name was Mulgrave.

Seen unmasked in the brilliantly lighted passage, he was a dissipated, cynical-looking man of forty-five, with a heavily veined face, small, calculating eyes, and a heavy, brutal mouth.

"So you've got back at last, have you?" he said roughly. "Where the devil have you been all this time? And where are the others?"

It was obvious that, judging from Mahony's costume, he mistook him for one of the kidnappers. Evidently those worthies had not returned to the Hall after their recent setback.

For a moment Mahony was undecided how to answer. Then he had an inspiration.

"The game's up," he said hoarsely "The whole scheme's a flop. The others have all been copped by the police. I came here to grab my things from the cloak-room and make a quick getaway."

The red veins in Mulgrave's face showed up suddenly against a deathly pale background.

"Copped!" he gasped. "But . . . how the hell did that happen? Our plan was absolutely water-tight."

Mahony laughed grimly.

"It's wrecked now," he said. "And I'm going to beat it as soon as I've got my things. I've got a fast car outside, and I know where to go. You'd better grab your things and come with me."

"But . . ." began Mulgrave.

Mahony had no intention of arguing. For one thing he was too unsure of his ground. For another he wanted to get away as soon as possible before the police arrived at the Albert Hall. But he wanted to take Mulgrave with him if possible. He decided to bluff.

"Hell," he said. "What are you arguing the toss about? The police will be on their way here now. Are you coming, or are you going to stay and be pinched?"

And he resumed his progress towards the cloak-room.

That decided Mulgrave. He also made for the cloak-room.

Mahony reclaimed his belongings and fairly bustled Mulgrave out of the cloak-room and out of the Albert Hall to the car park where his Aston Martin was waiting. With a roar they shot away, heading north.

"Tell me exactly what happened; how did things go wrong?" asked Mulgrave excitedly as they drove along.

"Don't talk; I'm busy. You'll learn all about it when we get where we're going," replied Mahony shortly.

• • •

There was a slight smile about his lips as he drove the car at high speed through the silent and empty streets. He was reflecting that, as a piece of kidnapping, his abduction of Mulgrave had been rather neat.

Leaving Hampstead behind him, he headed out across the lonely heath. Half-way across the heath he brought the car to a standstill. All round them was bare grass, and away in the distance the lights of Hampstead and Highgate twingled brightly. Mahony switched off his headlights and turned to Mulgrave.

"This is our first stopping-place," he stated. "Get out of the car."

"Get out of the car?"

It seemed that Mulgrave did not understand.

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"I mean get out of the car. I don't want you to bleed all over the upholstery," said Mahony.

During this speech he quietly produced his pistol. Mulgrave looked at it, and from it to Mahony, rather as a rabbit, paralyzed with terror, looks at a deadly snake.

"B-but w-what—?" he began.

"Shut up," said Mahony, his voice suddenly cold and savage.

Mulgrave shut up.

"You've been kidnapped," went on Mahony in the same cruel, biting tone. "And now you're going to be murdered. At least, I think you are. But maybe you're not. It will all depend on how much information you can give me."

"B-but you c-can't bring me out here, and m-murder me in c-cold blood," protested Mulgrave in a terrified tone. "You can't do it."

"But I can," said Mahony. "Quite easily."

He spoke quietly and naturally. And yet, somehow, the manner in which he spoke made it quite clear that he would not have the slightest hesitation in shooting Mulgrave if he considered it necessary. The realization made Mulgrave feel slightly sick.

"W-w-what is it that you want to know?" he quavered.

Mahony thrust a hand into his hippocket and produced from it a newspaper cutting. The cutting was from a copy of the evening paper which the barmaid in the wayside pub had been reading just before the motor smash the previous night. It consisted of one small paragraph:

Miss Ruth Fraser, a popular young Society girl, has been missing from the house of her guardian, Mr. Gerald Lee Ramsden, of 173 Upper Brook Street, since yesterday afternoon. Miss Fraser, who is twenty years old, is an intrepid airwoman and a well-known tennis player Mrs. Lee-Ramsden states that she left home with the intention of going shopping, and has not been heard of since. It is feared that she may be suffering from loss of memory.

Since the barmaid's comment on this paragraph had agitated Billy Ross considerably, Mahony concluded that Billy had known something about the young woman's disappearance. And Mahony felt that if he was going to shield Billy, it was certainly up to him to try to undo as far as possible any harm that Billy had done. That was the chief reason why he had kidnapped Mulgrave. He wanted to ask questions.

"I want to know where that girl is," he said. He leaned forward and switched on the dash-board light in his car so that Mulgrave could see the cutting clearly.

Mahony tries, tomorrow, an outrageous bluff.

Mining payrolls of Salt Lake county, Utah, increased nearly $1,000,000 to $4,372,464 in the year ending June 30, 1934.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

YOU can discount reports that President Roosevelt will seek legislation to curb the American press because of certain newspapers' conduct during the recent campaign. FDR is too smart to contemplate legislative censorship, and Dr. Stanley High is not, no matter how "authoritatively" he writes, a presidential ventriloquist.

Mr. Roosevelt is sore on certain publishers, but you can count their number on less than half the fingers of one hand. He virtually named one in the midst of the campaign, and it isn't difficult to imagine who the other midwestern journalist is. But he will not submit the matter to Congress or to the people. He will ask the editors to clean their own house if they think it needs cleaning—probably at the Gridiron Club dinner or when he receives an editorial delegation during their January convention here.

FDR won't depart from his technique in handling the press—a strategy which few sense. Former Presidents—Messrs. Harding, Coolidge and Hoover—cultivated the publishers and editors. Mr. Roosevelt makes pals of the correspondents at Washington. They're just as human as he is! He knows it!

• • •

COINCIDENCE: Certain folks not in the know suggest that the Roosevelt administration formally enlisted its influence with Prime Minister Baldwin against King Edward by issuing its release against mixed diplomatic marriages on the same day that the British cabinet met to discuss the monarch's prospective marriage with a "foreigner." Superficially a good case can be trumped up for that viewpoint, and Baldwin is understood to be using it.

But the supposition doesn't hold up against the inside facts. The Hull order was promulgated on November 17, and distributed to members of the foreign service on November 27. It was forwarded to editors of the Federal Register, which is supposed to publish all important executive orders. But the governmental journalists didn't think it had sufficient general interest to include it in their daily batch of federal news.

Eventually—about November 30—the order crossed the desk of Michael McDermott, the state department's able public relations counsel. He recognized its news value, also realized that it would leak out eventually. Consulting his superiors, he found that they had no objection to publicity. So he gave it out on December 1—the day when Stanley Baldwin mobilized his ministers against the marriage. It was simply a "mixed-up affair."

• • •

SYSTEM: An amazing form of interference in the relationship between the executive and legislative branches of the government has recently been spotlighter at the Capital. It affects vitally the balance between the twin ends of Pennsylvania Avenue, and it has given sleepless nights to heads of New Deal executive and emergency department.

The vast majority of subordinates in downtown departments owe their appointments to Democratic Senators and Representatives on Capitol Hill. Therefore they give first allegiance to their patronage sponsors, and in certain instances are actively disloyal to their immediate superiors. Frequently when a major policy is framed which, in thei ropinion, might concern their political backer, they tip him off. He immediately lodges a complaint at the White House or elsewhere, and the program has to be abandoned. It is a mild form of the inside espionage which Whirligig has headlined so often.

Certain executives have tried to smash the system by transferring suspected subordinates to cities remote from Washington. But the employes involved immediately importune the politicos, and the transfer is thwarted through political influence. This problem will be placed in FDR's lap on his return to Washington, and he will have to decide to whether to stand with the politicians or his appointees. The latter expect to win out.

• • •

CHOICE: Secretary Perkins seems safe in her job until she chooses to retire—and she doesn't so choose. No cabinet member is more reluctant to leave the official loaves and fishes than she.

Here's what has happened: The ways were greased for her departure, for it is generally admitted that she has not lived up to advance notices. Even Mrs. Roosevelt, her strongest supporter, was reconciled to the horrible idea. But then the women—politically influential ladies—set up the cry that if Miss Perkins left, the post must fall to another feminist.

Messrs. Farley and Cummings, the administration's politicos, would prefer a man in that position, and have so informed the President. But if Miss Perkins' departure threatens to precipitate a squabble involving sexes as well as rival male politicos, they feel that the easiest way out is to let her stay on. She happens to be the lesser evil!

NOTES: Several smaller European countries are accumulating credits in the U. S. with which to purchase war aviation equipment . . . Federal Trade Commission will demand more money or fewer orders to make investigations . . . Lack of funds cripples administration of Robinson-Patman anti-rebate law . . . Cuban sugar interests will lobby against cut in Cuban quota . . . Railroad men fear impending revelations on bank-railroad relations will be used to boost move for government ownership.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

SENATOR BURTON K. WHEELER of Montana is going to run into stiff legal opposition on certain phases of his forthcoming investigation of railroad finances. He has been trying to get his hands on confidential communications between counsel and client involving some of the nation's most famous law firms and financial houses—and has been sharply rebuffed. What's more, the firms involved are in a mood to battle this invasion of privacy issue to a finish in the courts.

There is more private resentment at this Wheeler "inquisition" in high financial circles than there has been at any previous congressional investigation in the past four years. Bankers and railroad men are frankly convinced that Wheeler's only purpose is to depict them all as unprincipled crooks in order to further the cause of government ownership of railroads—and thereby promote his personal political future. He is suspected of having his sights firmly focused on 1940.

The leaders involved are remarkably unworried about Wheeler's ability to make headlines at their expense. Comment runs that the dirt on railroad finances has all been spread on the record long since and therefore has little news value now.

• • •

DELICATE: The railway unions will press hard for 6-hour day legislation as soon as congress convenes. However, enactment of such a measure is rated unlikely by New Yorkers with first class Washington contacts. For one thing, the White House is understood to be against it. For another, there is considerable doubt as to the sincerity of the fight the brotherhoods will make for it.

Informed circles get word that railway labor leaders privately do not expect it to pass. There are even subrosa intimations that they don't really want it to pass because, if it did, they would be deprived of one of their livest issues for future use. Their plan, according to these sources, is to throw such a scare into the railroads with the threat of a 6 hour day that the roads will be glad to make a compromise concession on wages and hours.

Whatever settlement is reached will almost certainly be the fruit of direct negotiations between rail management and unions—not of legislation. Either a 10 percent wage raise or a 7 hour day or some combination of the two factors is predicted as the probable solution. Even this much of an increase in wage costs could be a serious problem to the many railroads that are still in a delicate state of financial health.

• • •

SIDELIGHTS: Veteran brokers comment that last week brought them a new experience . . . They have seen the stock market affected in the past by elections, wars and rumors thereof, drouths, strikes, etc.—but never before by romance . . . Prosperity psychology is catching up with the New York banks . . Some are paying Christmas bonuses to employers for the first time since 1930.

TARZAN AND THE LEOPARD MEN, 119

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Kali Bwana dragged from her hut by the small, strong warriors and brought before Rebega. The little people smacked their lips and laughed and jeered at the captive who was soon to die. The girl knew what was about to happen to her, but she was too dazed to care.

The pygmy women brought out cooking pots and lighted fires. The men danced a little, but not long for they had been on short rations for days. Their energy was at low ebb. Now there was some dispute as to who should slaughter the captive for the feast.

Rebega was afraid. Not knowing that Bobolo was dead, he feared the wrath of the big black. Finally is was agreed that the women should kill her. Wlala, remembering the blows the white girl had struck her, volunteered for the job. "Tie her hands and feet," she demanded.

The captive was thrown to the ground and bound hand and foot. Kali Bwana breathed a prayer—not for herself, but for the loved ones she had left behind, and for Jerry, the man she had come to Africa to find. Then the poor girl closed her eyes and awaited her doom.
