Austin. — Texas school teachers are planning a big push for another pay raise. This time it will be for a $500-a-year increase with built-in adjustment to keep their salary level equal to the national average.

They will try to sell the 1967 Legislature on this plan—on the heels of a $100,000,000 raise voted them in 1965.

Legislative candidates already have been polled by the Texas State Teachers Association. More than half the 415 candidates responded to the TSTA questionnaire on salary increases, retirement benefits and a statewide sick leave program. Of the 212 who responded, three-fourths reportedly favor the salary plan which would move the teachers to the national average next year and set up machinery to keep them there automatically without a biennial blood-letting legislative fight. Support was said to be almost identical for retirement and sick leave proposals.

TSTA's salary proposal calls for adjusting the base pay at the beginning of each biennium to insure that it remains at the nationwide average. This likely will mean increases in teachers pay every two years since the "average" will automatically rise with each Texas hike in pay.

Minimum salary for beginning teachers today, in Texas, is $4,104. Average is $5,950. Texas now ranks 29th in the nation in teacher pay... or four states below the average.

Gov. John Connally reminds that a blue ribbon study committee is at work on a long range survey of school needs. He also points to possible need for overhauling of school finance formulas.

Connally is a firm believer in local districts financing a greater share of the cost of education. He remains uncommitted to any specific program, and cautiously observes that he must consider overall state needs in making recommendations that would necessarily require new taxes.

A 3c per pack increase in cigarette taxes took care of last year's teacher pay raise.

THAT'S ALL FOR NOW — There will be no more free-voter registration periods for Texans this year.

A three-judge federal court in Austin refused a U. S. Justice Department request to reopen registration during April 8-19 and August 22-October 8. Decision was made final, as was the February 9 order declaring the poll tax an unconstitutional voting requirement for future elections.

Acknowledging that the March 3-17 free sign-up period for 1966 elections, as provided by the new state registration law enacted last

February, was "extremely short," the court nevertheless found it "afforded reasonable opportunities to register."

"The United States," proclaimed the judges, "has not demonstrated that this court should undertake to substitute its judgment for... legislative action."

More than 2,900,000 Texas adults now are registered to vote in the 1966 elections. This includes the 635,600 signed up during the March period. About 2,000,000 adults have not qualified as voters.

As for the registration itself, Asst. U. S. Atty. Gen. Stephen Pollak said the FBI found no evidence of racial discrimination during the 15-day period for free registration, and county tax collectors, who served as registrars, did a good job in the brief time allowed them.

Texas' Attorney General, Waggoner Carr, maintained that if the request for two additional registration periods had been granted, the next move would have been to require more than one day for elections.

SURFACE PITS HALTED — Texas Railroad Commission has ordered the use of salt water surface pits for storage of oil field brines in Young County and part of Archer County to be stopped by September 1.

Included in its order is part of Archer County which comprises the Salt Creek Watershed.

DRAFT STUDY EXPANDED — State Board of Education has ordered expansion of its study of why so many young Texans are rejected by the draft boards for medical reasons.

Study will be pushed by 28 workers in nine offices over the State.

Board in recent meeting here also authorized changes in vocational rehabilitation plans, increased available school fund aid from $80.55 per student to $83, and approved federally-financed coordination of migrant school programs in several states.

Special training programs for migrant school teachers will be operated at Texas A&M College in Kingsville and Pan American College in Edinburg.

COLLEGE PROGRAMS DEFENDED — Texas Southern University and East Texas State University urged the Coordinating Board of the State College and University System to let them retain their law school and doctor of philosophy programs.

No other schools appeared for the hearing on the board's plan to concentrate Phd programs in six institutions.

On April 18 the Board will reach a decision on the role and scope of 22 state-supported colleges and universities.

Mercer - Fry Vows Read Thursday

Miss Janet Carol Mercer and C. W. Fry were united in marriage Thursday evening at seven o'clock at the home of the bride in Mt. Pleasant. Guests were relatives and immediate friends.

The Rev. W. N. Parrish, pastor of the Highland Park Baptist Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony before a bridal setting marked by arched seven branched candelabra. Crystal vases with soft yellow candles, and garlands of smilax decorated the candelabra. Tall white wicker baskets of white princess gladioli were placed on each side of the arch.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Mercer of Mt. Pleasant and Lt. Col. Oliver L. Mercer of Anchorage, Alaska. The parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fry of Talco. The bride is a graduate of Mt. Pleasant High School and attended Paris Junior College and is now studying at East Texas State University. Mr. Fry is a graduate of Talco High School and is attending East Texas State University.

For her wedding the bride chose an original design gown of white peau de soie overlaid with Chantilly lace embroidered with seed pearls. She wore a short veil and a tiara of seed pearls. Her bridal bouquet of feathered carnations was centered with yellow cymbidium orchids nestled in puffs of pale yellow and white silk tulle and satin ribbon. For something old she wore earrings given to her by Mrs. Ruth Ferguson. Her only other jewelry was a diamond pendant.

Mrs. C. D. Brown of Mt. Pleasant, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a candelight sheath dress with an overskirt of silk organza with shoes to match. Mrs. Brown carried a Victorian nosegay of yellow carnations with jonquil satin and tulle.

Serving Mr. Fry as best man was Richard Parrish of Talco.

The traditional wedding music was furnished by Mrs. E. A. Barrett.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mercer wore a green silk sheath with bone accessories. The groom's mother wore a light blue dress with black accessories.

At the reception following the wedding the bride's table was centered with a silver candelabrum holding bowls of white beauty stock and pale yellow carnations accented with tall white candles and showers of white and yellow satin ribbons.

The register table held a white candle garlanded with miniature yellow pom pom mums and accented with bisque cherubs.

For her traveling attire, Mrs. Fry wore a two piece navy blue suit with beige accessories. Upon their return from a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Fry will be at home at Talco.

Alcorn Has Strong Answer To People Who've Been Saying He's Lazy

Editor's note: Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur seems to be trying to defend himself, his letter this week indicates. It's a job we'd never undertake.

Dear Editor: From time to time people around here have implied, implied thunder, have come right out and said that I'm lazy.

"Ole A. A., whoever he is, must be the laziest man in this part of Texas," I heard one man tell another in town one day while he was looking over a copy of this newspaper. "You ever heard of anybody as far behind in his work as he seems to be?"

I now wish to state that some people just don't know the difference between an economist and a bum.

According to a front-page article I read in a copy of a newspaper last night, the leading economists of this country have advised President Johnson to ask big business to slow down and even postpone some plant expansion, in order to head off inflation. They have studied the economic index and the cost of living and spiraling prices and decided that too fast expansion at this time would be inflationary, and many industrialists have agreed.

I am pleased to announce that I was years ahead of the economists.

Some people thought the reason I didn't build a new fence around this Johnson grass farm was that I was too lazy, whereas actually all the time I was fighting inflation.

I didn't have to wait for the economists to tell me that plunging into the job of putting a new roof on my house would be inflationary. In this modern, complex world, a man has got to know when to put the brakes on. You'd think the big industrialists would know this without having to be told.

Declining to jump on my tractor and plow up some un-used ground isn't laziness, it's anti-inflationary. You're not going to catch me sending the inflationary spiral off the top of the chart and bringing economic collapse to the entire nation.

The next time you hear somebody say I'm lazy, ask him to get in touch with President Johnson.

Yours faithfully, A. A.
