Local Health Care: The Situation Is Critical

Warren and Associates' plans to build a medical clinic in Rockport has caused and will continue to cause a good deal of controversy about the route Rockport should take toward providing adequate health care for its population. This is the first part of a series of articles which will examine the situation as it exists, the alternatives, and the pitfalls along the way.

The Rockport area, which includes most of the approximately 10,500 persons who now live in Aransas County, has just three practicing physicians, roughly one for every 3,500 persons.

When tourists swell the local population, as they do in both winter and summer, the ratio becomes even more absurd.

The Rockport area contains more persons of 65 or older per capita than any other city in the coastal bend. Mostly retirees, these senior citizens have unique and immediate health problems. They are more prone than the average person to a variety of diseases, and account for almost all of the heart attacks registered by the local emergency ambulance service.

Tourism, one of the cornerstones of the Rockport economy, supports hotels, restaurants, small shops, convenience stores and other service facilities which employ large numbers of relatively unskilled laborers at low wages. The area's unemployment figures are low, but much of the employment is mirqinal, lifting the families involved barely out of the poverty range, if at all.

These families cannot afford medical care at regular prices, although their diets, lifestyles and living conditions frequently leave them in need of medical assistance.

Welfare Worker Frances Iles says the local office has registered just 90 families as "indigent", and eligible for full Medicaid or Medicare benefits. She estimates, however, that fully four times that number

EMS 'Chasers' To Be Ticketed

The circus atmosphere which surrounded the hit-and-run accident that critically injured a newlywed couple walking along Fulton Beach Road last week has prompted promises of legal action against onlookers and ambulance chasers from the Aransas County Sheriff's Department, the Rockport Police Department, and the Texas Highway Patrol.

Paramedic Bill Aston requested increased enforcement measures from the three agencies after a crowd which gathered to watch the care and loading of the victims caused a traffic jam, that required the

Water Quality Planning Begun

Wastewater treatment, protection of existing recreation and commercial facilities and planned growth emerged as top priorities in the first of three local meetings called by the Coastal Bend Council of Governments to assure cistizen input into the formulation of a long-range water quality plan for Aransas, San Patricio and Nueces Counties.

The July 1 meeting, held in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall in Rockport, drew a small but vocal crowd whose comments will be used in the preparation of the first COG report written on the federally mandated plan. The report will be presented at a public hearing in the Corpus Christi City Council Chambers at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 14. The Phase I report covers current and projected population, economics and land usage.

The COG is coordinating area planning input under contract with the Environmental Protection Agency. Governor Dolph Briscoe designated the three county area as falling under Section 208 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972--meaning LIONS ROAR. The annual Lions Club July 4 Barbecue grossed at least $2500 for a variety of local and national charities. The new location is Highway 35 North at Colorado, and the new building features 2600 square feet. Doors will open for the first time 9 a. m. Friday for the first day of the three-day grand re-opening. Owner-manager Beverly Nugent is making the move after one year at 213 South Church in Rockport to provide easier customer access and service.

The store will continue to provide full catalog service, and will have on stock large supplies of Sears tires, batteries, and most major appliances, such as washers and dryers, freezers and televisions. In addition, the store will continue

For Local Clinic

HEW Still Reviewing Funding Application

Warren and Associates' application for $275,000 in federal funds to build a major emergency medical clinic in Rockport is currently under review by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare regional office in Dallas, and an official there said Tuesday that a decision is expected within a week to 10 days.

HEW's Bo Green told the Pilot that the Dallas office had received calls and correspondence from the Rockport area, some of it negative, and that the objections were being taken into consideration by the officials evaluating the funding request.

Green also stated that some revision would be needed in the hours of operation listed by Warren and Associates in the application. The San Antonio based physicians group listed a 60 hour week, with half day service on Saturday. In an earlier conference with local physicians and the Aransas County Hospital Volunteers, Incorporated, Warren and Associates representatives had agreed to a Thursday noon through Monday noon service. Neither proposal will apparently satisfy HEW. "The purpose of the rural health care program is to make 24 hour coverage available in the funded areas," Green said Tuesday. He added that the application as filed would have to be negotiated before final aproval to assure that the services met the 24 hour objective.

The negotiation could apparently head off the need for a resubmission of the request by Warren and Associates. Green stated earlier in the interview that if the company wanted to change from the 60 hour service to a full-time weekend service a new application would have to be submitted.

The HEW comments hint strongly that a satisfactory compromise betwen the local medical community in Rockport, the ACHVI (which started the emergency ambulance service and has been deeded land as a clinic site), and Warren and Associates is still possible.

A meeting between the San Antonio group and members of the ACHVI Board of Directors had been set tentatively for last week, but did not happen. ACHVI President Michael Shellenbergar, Dr. Jerry Shaw and local physicians were due to meet with Warren and Associates representatives Tuesday night informally, and then again Wednesday morning in a Corpus Christi Hospital to discuss possible compromises.

The ACHVI and local medical community want a service which will complement patient care already available on weekdays from private physicians. This is in line with the HEW objectives. Warren and Associates have already announced

July 11 Council Agenda Short

The holiday break has kept the City Council agenda for July 11 short, with just three items up for consideration at press time Tuesday afternoon.

At the head of the list is a Public Hearing on the City's $21,589 share of federal revenue sharing funds in the eighth entitlement period. Council was due to meet later in the week for a workshop session. The City fathers will likely have a recommendation to make July 11 when they open the question for public comment.

County Approves Smoke Detectors

Aransas County Commissioners' Court indicated approval of a request by Sheriff Bob Hewes to install smoke detectors and an alarm in the County Jail. The system will carry a $300 price tag, and Commissioners voted to put the matter on next week's agenda.

Hewes said he was scared into action by reports about a Tennessee prison fire which killed 42 inmates. Many of the deaths were attributed to smoke inhalation, and Hewes said that would be the problem in the County facility, which is fire resistant but not fire-proof. "The mattresses, padding, blankets, towels--stuff like that --I know would burn," Hewes said. "I imagine the paint on the walls and steel bars would burn or melt if it was hot enough, but the big problem is smoke."

VANDALISM. Vandals week destroyed the women's side of a public restroom on Rockport Beach. The Aransas County Navigation District operates maintains the beach and its public facilities, but Harbormaster Bernie DeForrest says repairs in Rockport and Fulton Harbors have higher priority, and that it could be several months before work crews are able to rebuild the restroom. Local law enforcement officials are investigating the incident.

Leeches

It is refreshing that local law enforcement will be ticketing persons who obstruct the operations of the Aransas County Hospital Volunteers, Incorporated's emergency ambulance service.

Persons who fail to yield right-of-way to emergency vehicles and who congregate at the scene of various tragedies raise the odds that critical minutes--and lives--will be lost.

They are leeches, and should be treated as such.

Local reporting which emphasizes personal tragedies has contributed to the misconception that real lives are not in some way involved, that it is merely entertainment of a kind, as abstract and removed from reality as television. Suitable information for stories to be reported later in bars or over the dinner table.

Such attitudes are increasingly common, and have led to similar situations in other communities, all regrettable.

Give those who have been struck down a break. Death doesn't need your help.

Diagnosis

Rockport needs a hospital built and run with local funds and staffed by resident physicians. If cooler heads prevail, the controversy now surrounding the announcement that Warren and Associates of San Antonio will build an emergency medical facility here can be resolved so that 24 hour emergency service and adequate Medicare and Medicaid treatment are available locally.

But even with a working arrangement, the Warren and Associates facility is no more than a stop-gap for a growing problem. Rockport and the Live Oak Peninsula are slated by the Coastal Bend Council of Governments to triple in population by 1995. Such growth, and the area's increasing tourist traffic and elderly population require that a local facility be built.

Locally controlled facilities would assure the highest quality care for the lowest cost. And probably turn a profit. Despite rising costs, tax-supported hospitals across Texas with fewer potential patients are making profits of 10 percent or more. A 40 bed facility could be built locally for $1.5 million at current cost levels, and staffed for $400,000 per year. Such a facility would not mean a crushing rise in taxes, and quite possibly would pay for itself ahead of time. In Luling, where ACHVI Paramedic Bill Aston operated an emergency ambulance service similar to the one he heads in Rockport, the local hospital district paid for county road equipment with profits above debt retirement and operating costs.

In Gonzales, where a 43 bed hospital was recently completed, profits are being made in a facility which cost $1.2 million to build one year ago, and $390,000 to staff. The Gonzales service area includes the town, with 8,000, and surrounding areas with 12,000 more. Rockport's population within the same 20-30 mile radius is as great, and sugnificantly higher at peak times during tourist seasons.

This community has a growing responsibility to provide similar care, and it must meet that reponsibility soon, or have the federal government and outside interests meet it. Such an eventuality would be unfortunate for community organizations who have worked patiently for years toward a local facility, and possibly tragic for local patients under the care of transient physicians in a limited service facility.

Do You Think Rockport-Aransas County Needs A Hospital?

Carol Matthews

Leah Johndrow

Pat Works

Juanita Burleson

Terry Cox

JUANITA BURLESON: I definitely feel that the Rockport area needs a hospital or at least an emergency room or something. I think the town is big enough to support one and that we could. Money is always a big problem in anything we do. Of course it will have to be considered, but it still doesn't change the fact that we need the hospital. I haven't lived here long enough to understand the taxes, but we still need the hospital.

FRANK JONES: Well, yes, we could use a hospital for this area. But you know, we can get to Aransas just as fast as people who live in Dallas or Houston can get to a hospital in the same town. But it would be nice to have one, and we are working on one.

TERRY COX: A hospital would be great and we are working on one. I think we need one badly. Smaller towns than ours have hospitals and support them. We could too.

W.B. SANDERS: A hospital would be a great thing for Rockport. Just having the ambulance crew proves that and those guys do a great job. It's something to work on. I think it could be eventually a self-supporting thing and wouldn't cost that much.

BILL DODD: Even though we are working on a hospital, many things will have to be considered. It would have to be heavily subsidized and we would need to take a long hard look at the entire project and consider the tax structure and all the financing that would be necessary.

CAROL MATTHEWS: Definitely we need a hospital to have the doctors for the area. It can be very expensive and tiring to have to go to Corpus. Sometimes you can't get help at Aransas and have to go to Corpus. Taxes are going to go to something and we are going to have to pay them. We might as well pay for something we can use and need so much.

PAT FARLEY: I'm in favor of a hospital. Number one, I think its evident from the surrounding hospitals that are 90 percent full 90 percent of the time. We never know when we make an ambulance run, if there is going to be a bed or not for our patient. I think that in itself says something. It leaves little room for doubt the need for another hospital. I think every county ought to have its own hospital. Every county ought to take care of its own people. We should not have to depend on another county to put out its time, money, and effort for our people. It's evident from events lately, our people may or may not get into a hospital.

Our winter population should be considered. Fifty to seventy-five percent of them are on some kind of medication. These people are guaranteed payment. They have insurance or Medicare. It would also be great for tourism and business. The ambulance has been a great thing. A combination of the two would be unbeatable. We can support a hospital. I suppose taxes would have to go up, but eventually, the hospital would be self-supporting.

PAT WORKS: As to the question, does Rockport need a hospital, speaking as a private citizen, yes, very definitely, we need a hospital. Speaking as the local president of the AARP group, yes, Rockport does need a hospital. In order to have a hospital, we must be willing to support a hospital. With good doctors, adequate facilities, and Rockport's projected growth, I feel that we can support a hospital. HUD figures show that 29.2% of Rockport's population is over sixty. Sixty year old persons should not have to drive so far for medical care. That age person has above average aches and pains and more serious illnesses. Many are winter visitors and have no close relatives and it is hard to drive to Corpus Christi. It is not fair or good to the older citizen. It is not good for the image of Rockport for its citizens to have to go so far.

We can make Rockport a beautiful city to live in, but not without a hospital.

LEAH JOHNDROW: We really don't know anything about the financing of a hospital but it would have to have the support of the whole town. Most people have insurance or Medicare or something like that. I think that a nospital could support itself after a while.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

We enjoy reading The Pilot and pass it on to friends who are looking for a place back home in the good ol' U.S. of A. when they retire, or for investment property. Some know the Rockport area--others do not, but all are equally interested in reading your newspaper. At this moment five of our copies are being used to fill out a complicated survey called "Pattern of Living Questionnaire." The H.E.B. and Super D ads on food are three to five percent less than the local supermarket prices (For the managers of those concerns, don't get any ideas from this to go up on your prices for there is always Safeway or some other competitor to step in, while here in Scandinavia we live with a Socialist Government where the competition is not so keen).

Norway has two seasons--a green winter and a white winter. It is not cold enough for me on the West coast, so an American friend and a Norwegian friend and I are taking a car trip to the North Cape far above the Arctic Circle. We will drive 3000 miles thru Norway, Finland and Sweden. If my fingers are not too frozen I will write you next week from Lapland, where the sun never rises above the horizon for two months each winter and for two months the sky never darkens in the summer. I think I may wear out my new ski suit in one summer.

Sincerely, Your Foreign Correspondent.

Dear Sir:

Each month the taxpayers of Texas are losing almost $2 million. Much of the state's money (over $400 million) is on deposit in checking accounts drawing no interest, rather than in savings accounts.

Banks use this $400 million (which belongs to the people of Texas) without paying 1c of interest. Why should the banks benefit from this money rather than the taxpayers?

Fortunately, something can be done about this scandalously inefficient money management. But it is up to the Governor to include appropriate legislation in the July 11th Special Session of the Legislature.

Texans who want to stop this senseless waste should write Governor Dolph Briscoe at the state capitol in Austin and insist that this money management legislation be included in the Special Session. If this revenue does not come from interest, then it will come from the taxpayers' pockets.

During the regular session I introduced H.B. 1984, which would have saved the taxpayers $42.6 million each biennium. Although the bill passed overwhelmingly (127-5) in the House, it died in the Senate.

Incompetent, inefficient investment can cease, if you are willing to invest you time in writing a letter.

Yours truyly,
Frank Hartung

ARE YOU HALF INSURED?

Did you know that more than 55 percent of all single family homes in the U.S. do not have sufficient insurance coverage? In fact, the average insurance on all homes today is only 70.8 percent of replacement cost.

Why? The major reason is that insured values are not changed to reflect the skyrocketing cost of replacing homes today. If your house cost $20,000 ten years ago, it may cost you $30,000 to replace it today. Another common reason is the failure to obtain added coverage for aditions and improvements.

Insurance policies should not be treated like the Dead Sea Scrolls. Don't lock them up and forget them. It's wise to review them every couple of years. Indifference can cost you money running into the thousands of dollars. If you're not sure about your own insurance coverage, call us today. Don't be half insured.

August 13 Is Dual Election Day

August 13 will be a dual election day for local voters. The Aransas County Navigation District's five positions will be up for grabs, and the recently voided City election in Ward One will be held again.

Polls in both City and County voting places will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The City election will be closed to all but the two original candidates, Charles Garrett and Joe "Pepe" Zambrano.

All city voting will be done at the Rockport City Hall. Registered voters living inside the City limits south of North Street on August 13 will be eligible to vote. Absentee voting will also be held at City Hall.

The Navigation District election will fill places in the four County voting precincts as well as an at-large position on the five-man board.

Candidates in the Navigation District election must reside in the precinct they plan to represent unless they seek the at-large position.

The deadline for candidates filing in the Navigation District election is on or before noon, July 18, at the office of County Clerk Ruby Hart in the Aransas County Courthouse.

John Gore Win Yard Of Month

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Gore, Henderson St. in Fulton, has been selected as the Yard of the Month for July.

Mr. and Mrs. Gore have lived in Fulton for only two years, but their yard shows that a lot of hard work and loving care have gone into it. A number of trees dot the well-kept lawn, also palms, crepe myrtles and other smaller shrubs.

Foundation plantings of several kinds of pittosporum, ferns, elephant ears, azaleas, split-leafed philodendron, as well as a number of flowering annuals create a pleasing effect in the overall picture.

An area shaded by oaks and oleanders provides the setting for an old-fashioned porch swing--an invitation to come sit and enjoy.

The Rockport Home and Garden Club gives this award every month for a well-maintained yard. Anyone is eligible to win and nominations may be submitted to Mrs. J. Paul Rogers, 729-2178, or Mrs. F.A. Taylor, Jr., 729-0756.

Stretching meat is about all you can do with the tough cuts we can afford.

ENGAGED. Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Ruttiger of Rockport are happy to announce the engagement of their daughter Karen to Robert W. Milton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Milton of Laredo. A September 3 wedding is planned in San Marcos, Texas. Both bride and groom are graduates of Southwest Texas State

Ruling Due Soon On Bay Fishing

Texas Parks and Wildlife Commissioners are expected to set rules July 21 or 22 for commercial fishing in eight Texas coastal bay systems, including Aransas Bay. The ruling was requested by a Seadrift resident concerned over the apparent decline in the number of both redfish and trout in coastal bays. The TP&W commission put off a ruling until late July to allow staff members working on creel and abundance surveys at the Rockport Region V headquarters time to correlate current data from the ongoing research.

State Senator A.R. Schwart' Redfish Conservation Act, passed recently by the Texas Legislature, placed catch limits and new licensing restrictiions on commercial fishermen who take red drum, and empowered the Parks and Wildlife department to set rules on equipment and methodology. The July 22 ruling will be the first to apply the TP&W's new regulatory authority, and the rules will have an equal effect on the taking of trout in the bay systems.

The alarm over sea trout in the bays and gulf is relatively new in comparison to the controversy over the redfish population, which was one of the hottest issues firing the 65th legislative session. The concern was brought on by preliminary data from the creel and abundance surveys.

The creel survey is a harvest analysis of eight Texas bay systems, taken four to a year. The third year of the survey, and the first year for comparative figures in first test group (which included Aransas),won't be complete until Setpember 1. The data from the ongoing monitoring of sport and commercial catches, boat traffic, modes of catch and catch per effort, etc. is being forwarded to Austin for programming and review by commissioners. Survey head Tom Heffernan, head of Coastal Fisheries management in Region V, has complete figures for only one year. The figures show that 70 percent of the sport fishermen in Aransas Bay caught one or more fish if they went by boat, 30.9 percent if they wade-fished, and 42.9 percent if they fished from a lighted peir. The most successful fishermen used live shrimp, with artificial baits a close second. Live shrimp in the first year caught 65 percent of the seatrout and almost 50 percent of the red drum.

Dead shrimp caught less than 10 percent of the red drum and less than 24 percent of the seatrout.

Comparative figures will be in the hands of commissioners when they decide in late July, and Heffernan said plans are already being made to continue the survey beyond its original funding life to assure analysis of the bay harvests so the TP&W can plan fishing clinics, public education programs, and determine the effect of restrictions and quotas on the fishing catch by both commercial and sport fishermen.

Gary Matlock, the biologist in charge of the abundance survey of bays being carried out from the Region V office, is also in the middle of completing the initial phase of a long range program.

Fresh figures on gill net samples taken in November through March of 1975 and December through March of 1977 show abundance and density levels down significantly overall. Aransas Bay, however, remains one of the bay systems in which the population is apparently holding its own.

Gill net samples in 1976 turned up one red drum, 1.1 black drum and .4 sea trout per hour. In 1977, the figures for red drum were less than half the 1976 totals, or .4, but the sea trout level was identical at .4.

Both sets of figures were average or above in comparison with other bay systems tested. the 1976 red drum catch was matched only by Matagorda Bay results.

Matlock says the decline could be caused by several factors, including the severe cold the area experienced during the past winter, and /or increased commercial fishing pressure.

Trammel net surveys in October and November of 1976 turned up four and seven red drum per set, respectively. In April and May of 1977, the figures were down to 2 and 2.5 per set. Matlock says the decline may be a seasonal change in density and abundance--figures are not in which allow comparison over a number of years.

The abundance survey samples were taken with a non-selective trammel net and gill nets of four different mesh sizes in water from shore to four feet in depth. Size limits were 14 inches for red drum and 15 inches for sea trout.

From July through September, the abundance survey will be using toxicants in small areas to get absolute figures on density and abundance for comparison with its sample results.

Those figures will not be available, however, when the TP&W commission meets July 21 or 22.

Sen. Schwartz' Voting Record Best In Senate

The official record of the Senate of the 65th Texas Legislature show that Senator A.R. Schwartz, whose district includes Aransas County, compiled one of the best voting records of any legislator.

The Senate convened 79 times, and Schwartz was there for 77, a 97 percent attendance record. Schwartz voted on 2247 of the 2280 pieces of legislation considered and debated, a 99 percent record.

Secretary of the Senate Betty King, who informed Schwartz of the attendance and voting figures in a letter dated June 24, said she considered the performance "unique and significant...and in my opinion demonstrates a faithfulness to your job of which the people of your district should be proud."

Schwartz was earlier named one of the "Ten Best Legislators" during the recently closed 65th Legislative session by TEXAS MONTHLY. He was one of three senators to repeat on the list, and the selection was his third in recent years. Schwartz is headquartered in Galveston when the Legislature is not in session.

OPEN LETTER
Rockport at the Crosswords

A group of developers have requested changes in the city zoning ordinances to permit the construction of four buildings, each seven stories tall, to be sold as condominiums. These four concrete towers will be located on the west side of Fulton Beach Road near Harbor Oaks bridge.

We believe the citizens of Rockport should be aware of this activity and its potential impact.

FACTS

- Current Zoning Ordinances limit the height of multi-family dwellings to 2½ stories and 35 feet.
- Fire insurance premiums for businesses insured for over $50,000 will be increased.
- Rockport does not have fire fighting equipment to reach much more than two stories.
- Rain water run-off from parking area for 300 to 400 cars will create polution problems in Little Bay or Canoe Lake.

There are many other items of concern, such as accelerating the need for new sewer lines, increased traffic on Fulton Beach Road, potential of increased taxes to provide services to the project.

We believe, if approved, this project sets an irreversible course and a precedent that will permit the erection of other high rise buildings to the detriment of the character and architectural harmony of Rockport.

We request your support and help to defeat these changes. If you agree, contact the Zoning Committee or City Council and let them know your concern and appear at the scheduled council and lend your support. This is your opportunity to help shape the future course of Rockport. FRIENDS OF ROCKPORT

Local Welfare: Most Work, None Drive Cadillacs

By Mark Simmons

The myth of the welfare Cadillac sprang from a number of frauds unearthed by federal investigators in the late sixties and early seventies. The idea of a rip-off by the poor was easy justification for many prejudices, and extensive coverage by the media made the problem seem pervasive.

The paranoia died down in the mid-seventies with the exception of dead-horse whipping references in scattered political debates, but the image hadn't really died in the south and Texas until this year, when statistics from a federal report showed that most of those who can, work, and that instances of fraud were few and far between. The study hinted that the poor were in fact underpaid, if one can call it that, expecially in Texas.

The pendulum is now beginning to swing away from distrust of the poor. A comprehensive and poignant overview of the Texas welfare system in the May issue of TEXAS MONTHLY and some belated increases in child support and base payments by the Texas Legislature are evidence of a new, more reasoned image of the underpriviledged.

The change comes none too soon, because state statistics are disheartening. They show, for instance, that approximately 17 percent of those eligible for welfare or related benefits receive them. Those who receive benefits get only enough for a bare existence. The pay scales now in use were drafted in 1965 to represent 75 percent of the cost of a minimum diet, minimum housing and a minimum of other essentials.

Those scales had gome unchanged and virtully unquestioned for 12 years until the Legislature granted small increases in the session just concluded.

A mother with one child and no wageearner in the house now receives $86 per month total, plus food stamps, for which she must pay a portion of the $86. A family of four, average for Aransas County, receives $140 per month, and can buy $166 in food stamps for $30. That means a total income of $246 for a family of four, or less than $62 per mouth, per month.

Mrs. Frances Iles, financial services director for the local Welfare Department office on Highway 35, North, arranges benefit payments for 90 families a month in Aransas County.

She says there is not a Cadillac in the bunch, and that the 90 families represent only 10 to 20 percent of those actually eligible for income assistance. Not all of those 450 to 900 families eligible but not on the rolls would receive maximim payments. Sliding pay scales would make some eligible for only a few dollars in food stamps, others would receive only payments for the support of children.

All would have to fight their way through a number of lengthly forms each month in order to maintain their eligibility. Mrs. Illes says many families feel it simply isn't worth the money they receive to complete the forms regularly, and so bypass benefits due them.

Of those 90 who maintain eligibility, 22 are currently receiving job training in Corpus Christi. Of the 68 who remain, some are disabled and cannot work, and 40 receive payments only for children in the family unit.

The average family in Aransas County stays on welfare for two years, then either finds work, completes job training or moves to a state where benefits are larger.

Those who stay face a number of obstacles. Rockport has little low-cost housing, and Mrs. Iles says many of her families are paying more than half of their monthly income for shelter. Some single women pay $65 per month from their $86 a month check for no more than shacks. Those who can afford to often move to San Patricio County where Section 8 federal housing is available on a sliding payment scale for as low as eight dollars per month.

Those mothers who have small children are hampered in their search for work or job training by a lack of day care facilities in the county. Childred must either be left with a neighbor, or left alone.

Mrs. Illes came to Rockport in 1974 when the local office opened. She says housing continues to be the main problem faced by welfare families, and was disheartened earlier this year when the City of Rockport and the Commissioners Court voted against a low cost federal housing project because it would have been tax exempt and had the right to eminent domain.

The objections raised by local officials were largely economic, but were in part the result of the continuing belief that welfare housing is not worthy of subsidy. That viewpoint is rooted in the often stated reason that providing services would "only make them stay".

Mrs. Iles, however, stresses that her experience in three years leads her to believe that those on the system is more of a leg up than a free ride in Aransas County. Only a handful of her 90 families are permanent recipients. The others, as mentioned, are in training or receiving child support payments. Almost all of the non-permanent recipients will leave the rolls within two years. Given day care facilities and public low-cost housing, the turnover would be greater and quicker. Tax revenues generated by employment would then go a long way toward offsetting the local expense of such facilities.

The pendulum swing toward recognition of the opportunities inherent in helping welfare recipients leave the rolls is gathering speed, however, powered by a creeping public compassion Jimmy Carter has used to good advantage.

The present system, certainly, favors no one race or ethnic group -- the Aransas County rolls include 50 percent Mexican American families, 40 percent Anglo Saxon and 10 percent Negro.

The future hopefully holds needed increases in benefits, more money for housing and day care centers, and an increasing acceptance of the fact that welfare recipients are usually families in need of a helping hand on the down side of a cycle.

Local Clinic

are in need of financial assistance and low cost medical care, but cannot or will not fill out the deluge of forms required to keep their registration current on a regular basis.

The forms and government runarounds also put off local doctors, and only one, Dr. H. F. Elliot, accepts Medicare or Medicaid patients. Most of these patients end up in Aransas Pass or Corpus Christi, or doing without.

Rockport's tourist population is by and large a healthy bunch, out for fun and sun and not usually prone to health problems, although coronaries are common among elderly winter tourists.

Tourists do, however, cause or become involved in, traffic and other accidents which require quick and precise medical aid and care.

More than one third of the 60 calls received in the month of June by the local ACHVI emergency ambulance service were for auto crashes, most involving out-of towners.

These accidents and other situations requiring medical aid occur after the closing of local doctors' offices, requiring transportation of the victims to hospitals in Aransas Pass or Corpus Christi.

On the 60 calls answered by the ACHVI service in June, 45 resulted in transportations to area hospitals. Expenses for these patients averaged perhaps $100 or more per day. Relatives who attended them spent money for hotels, meals, etc. None of the money returned to the community.

Area hospitals who accept Aransas County patients are showing increasing reluctance to bear the cost of care for many of those in borderline financial condition. While the government may not class them as "indigent" and make them eligible for benefits, their income makes it quite impossible for them to meet emergency expenses of any sort. At Lyman-Roberts, where staff and administrators monthly do a heroic and selfless job, the financial burdens and in-patient traffic are beginning to take their toll. Hospital Administrator Gene Scott says he is at an impasse with the Aransas County Commissisoners Court over the payment of bills incurred by indigents, and has no choice but give consideration to requiring some form of advance payment upon admission. Such a policy has not been instituted, but it soon may be. Lyman-Roberts is a private hospital, with its own community to attend to, and its own bills to meet.

Recently a newborn child and its mother were refused admission to Lyman-Roberts by a nurse who said the hospital could not accept the patients without a $300 bond, and because the two were not under the care of a staff physician.

Incidents of refusal to administer treatment have been rare, but they are evidence of something the community forgets from time to time - - that care in Aransas Pass and other communities is a courtesy in many ways. And courtesy can be fickle and, in cases like that involving the newborn child and its mother, can lead to confusion, possibly the death of a patient.

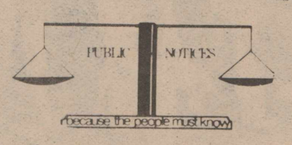

In summary, Rockport has a fast growing need for increased medical care. Local physicians are on call five days a week for the most part, and don't have the special equipment necessary to handle emergencies when they are on call.

The only medical service available to all at any time is the ACHVI ambulance service, which handles emergencies only and is not manned by medical doctors but a single paramedic and other trained volunteers (many of whom will soon be Paramedic level).

The area hospitals who accept local patients serve other areas as well, and do so without adequate financial support from local government bodies.

In so many words, things are very bad here, if not critical. Next week, a look at some alternatives.

Keep On Going

They were marching down Main Street, and right at the height of the parade the tuba player blew a sour note. A really sour note.

People snickered. Some burst out laughing. But, regardless, they had to hand it to the tuba player . . . he kept right on blowing, right on going.

Makes you stop and think. Sure, it's natural to laugh at someone else's sour note. But how about our own mistakes? No one can get through life without them — that's sure.

The question is, do you stop or do you keep on trying, keep on going? If you've been in church lately, you'll know the answer to that one.

Wagley Asks Corps Permit

Mrs. Juanita Wagley of Rockport has requested a permit from the Army Corps of Engineers to construct 11 wooden groins in Copano Bay, lots five through 15 of Copano Ridge Subdivision, approximately four and one-half miles northwest of Rockport.

The work would consist of driving six inch by eight inch creosoted pilings and using two inch by eight inch creosoted material for the groin structure. The groins would extend from the eroded shoreline into the bay to prevent further erosion.

Plans of the proposed work may be seen at the office of the District Engineer in the Essayons Building, 400 Barracuda, Galveston, or at the Corpus Christi Area Office, 2000 North Shoreline, Corpus Christi.

Outdoors 'n Things

By L. D. Nuckles
Information Officer, TP&WD

Some old-timers who grew up during the depression years can contribute valuable information to TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE magazine.

The magazine staff is planning an article concerning the work done by the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) in helping to construct many facilities in the then fledgling state parks system. They need all the information they can get about who did what work, when it was done and the methods used. Many of these records exist only in the memories of the men who actually did the work.

Many young men, just out of high school during the depression years, found themselves at loose ends -- no jobs were available, there was no money to attend college and they were ashamed to stay around home eating up food that was needed by the rest of the family. They were desperate and would take any job that would contribute anything to the family's income -- but there were no jobs. Only those who lived through that era can understand their need.

When the CCC was formed and they were offered a chance to do honest, constructive work, have a tiny bit of spending money for themselves and send home a little bit to their families, they jumped at the opportunity. In addition to the money they would be fed, given all their medical care and furnished clothes (such as they were).

The boys were sent all over the United States, especially in the western states, to do reforestation, build parks, build public buildings, dig out and extinguish burning veins of coal and do other conservation work. They worked hard, ate well, learned trades and were proud of themselves for the things they accomplished.

Many of the CCC boys worked in Texas state parks. They built fences, buildings and terraces. Much of this construction was done with native stone and now, over 40 years later, they are still in use.

All ex-CCC boys who have worked on projects involving state parks are urged to get in contact with Mr. Neal Cook, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Rd., Austin, Texas 78744. Mr. Cook would like to know what parks you worked on, the structures you helped build, any memorable experiences you had as a member of the CCC and your current address. Any good pictures you have, especially of the construction work, would be welcomed. They will be copied and the original promptly returned to you. Please try to identify any personnel that appear in the picture and give the location and, as close as possible, the date the picture was taken.

County

The smoke detection system is one of many changes which will be required by the Legislature's new jail standards, but Hewes said the standards wouldn't be specific as to equipment, and that they would not be a delaying factor. Hewes earlier estimated that the standards could cost the county $100,000 or more in new equipment, supplies and construction if no variances are granted. The standards call for 24 hour surveillance, new detention rooms and services, and a number of new one-man cells.

The County will begin paying for the changes in the 1978 budget, and Hewes said because the standards will not be specific, County governments will have to hire an architect to submit plans for approval to the State Jail Standards commission.

In other business, the Court approved a $4125 part-time budget for District Clerk Tony Harden.

The figure was $675 above the original $3450 figure included in the preliminary budget for 1978, and the full amount Mrs. Harden had requested for the year.

Water Quality

that the area faced a balancing act between environmental and commercial interests in the coming years--and designated the COG as the area planning body which would work with the EPA.

The July 1 meeting was held for the purpose of determining local priorities. A second meeting in late August or early September will be for the purpose of discussing sepcific local problems. The final meeting in the series will be held in November, when technical consultants will be on hand to review alternative solutions and report on available local, state and federal financing.

Local elective boards and citizens will they have until June of 1978 to decide which route they want to take.

Rockport and the Live Oak Peninsula, taken together, were recently named by the COG as having the greatest growth potential in the study area, from approximately 10,000 to 30,000 permanent residents and tourists. Those figures were the basis for the July 1 meeting, one of several being held in the three county area under study.

Charles Kaigler and Doris Winship, both of Rockport, noted that any plan adopted should give high priority to the protection of birds and wildlife, which, they stated, are positive economic factors for the area. Rockport currently contains at least one recognized bird sanctuary, the Connie Hagar Wildlife Refuge, within its city limits.

Economics and land use were concerns of Rockport Mayor Walter Falk and engineer M. W. Cochran. Falk pointed out the potential impact of concentrated populations on future water quality, mentioning the proposed seven story condominium project in Harbor Oaks. He also stressed the negative aspects of septic tank systems, now used in all but the incorporated areas of Aransas County because no county-wide sewer system exists.

Cochran pointed out that the tax load on the city population for such a county-wide facility would be the test of its viability. He noted that much of the current development, including that on the Live Oak Peninsula area, is outside an incorporated city, but that it would be city taxpayers who would foot an ever increasing development bill as those areas were inevitably annexed into the city.

Navigation District Hal McKnight was on hand to discuss the District's ongoing problems with balancing environmental, recreational and commercial interests in the use of District lands. The Environmental Protection Agency's ruling have prohibited the dredging of the turning basin in Rockport Harbor because effluents now on the bottom would be stirred by the work and cause damage to fish and oyster breeding grounds.

Because many of the factors mentioned at the July 1 meeting will require exclusively local decisions, the wastewater treatment problem will probably emerge as a top priority in any areawide report. The Conservation and Reclamation District is currently pursuing federal funds for a study of local needs which would compliment the COG report, and the second of the three planned meetings should include preliminary discussions on the financing and placement of such facilities. COG reports indicate the Rockport-Live Oak population increase will require at least two more sewage treatment plants.

loaded Modulance to spend critical minutes detouring through backstreets on its way to Highway 35.

Aston said the public has become increasingly brazen in following the ambulance to its calls. Some vehicles have taken to circling the block in which a call is being made, causing traffic tie-ups and preventing other emergency vehicles from reaching the call-site.

Onlookers at calls have frequently obstructed Volunteers in their efforts to aid patients, and in at least one case have tried to physically restrain a Volunteer from helping a patient.

In the future, anyone except police and press caught following an ambulance or other emergency vehicle will be ticketed. In addition, those who fail to yeild right-of-way to the ACHVI vehicles will also face tickets.

Onlookers who obstruct the Volunteers or emergency personnel will be ticketed or prosecuted as necessary.

HEW Funding

their intention to build a clinic in the area regardless of the outcome of the HEW decision, but wished at first to work with the ACHVI and perhaps use the land deeded to the non-profit organization by Mr. Emory M. Spencer of Rockport.

The ACHVI Board of Directors voted against the clinic as proposed last week because of the conflict between the original proposals voiced by Warren and Associates representatives and the system described in the HEW application. The means that Warren and Associates will not have access to the ACHI land, or the approval of local physicians unless the vote is reversed.

The Coastal Bend Council of Governments, (COG) upon the urging of Rockport Mayor Walter Falk, Jr. earlier approved the application for Rockport. The Warren and Associates proposal was rejected by Beeville representatives at that COG board members complained at the time about a lack of time to review the proposals, a complaint that has become common as the proposals have unfolded locally. Warren and Associates was itself given less than a week to prepare its HEW application, and Business Manager Terry Coker told the Pilot that the time squeeze was responsible for much of the continuing confusion over the hours the facility will operate. He assured The Pilot, Mayor Falk and ACHVI representative Dr. Jerry Shaw last week that the group would work with local citizens and physicians to reach a compromise that was best for the community.

City Council

In other business, Council is due to set a date for the opening of bids on a backhoe for the City road repair crew. The City's faltering 15 year-old backhoe will be used as a trade-in.

An ordinance mandating the replacement of yield signs on feeder roads to Highway 35 with stop signs will also be adopted. The ordinance will also lower the speed limit on Percival Street in Little Bay Shores to 25 miles per hour. Traffic control adjustments in the Little Bay Shores had been originally requested by citizen Joe Hugenberg, a Little Bay Shores homeowner. The plans were formulated by Police Chief Jim Craigmile, and Council later broadened the ordinance to include all feeder street in the City limits.

Later in the week the Commission is meeting in a workshop session to discuss recommendations for revision of the city's current zoning regulations. Those recommendations could be ready for the July 11 meeting.

Pilot Asks For Local Club Histories

The Pilot is preparing a "Progress Edition" for publication July 27. Similar to The Pilot's 1969 Centennial Edition, but broader in scope, the issue will touch on many facets of Rockport's recent growth as a community and a resort of national reknown.

To reveal the scope and size of community involvement, we would like to present a short article on each of the many local civic and church organizations.

This information is best prepared by the historian of the club, official or unofficial, and for this reason, we are soliciting short histories of local organizations, their founding, evolution, and a short listing of their services to the community. We would also, in the next weeks, like to take a picture of the president only, of each local organization which submits the requested historical copy. Appointments for picture-taking sessions (studio pictures are usable in most cases) can be made by calling Mark Simmons, editor at The Pilot office, 729-2357.

Many local organizations were covered in The Pilot's Centennial Edition, and in those cases, the groups should simply bring the community up to date on their activities since 1969, except in such cases where grievous errors have been made in chronology or attribution.

These organizations are: Rockport Chamber of Commerce, Rockport Fire Department and Auxiliary, Rotary Club, Fulton Fire Department and Auxiliary, Rebekah Lodge, Lamar Women's Club, Lamar Fire Department, Lions Club, Aransas County Riding Association, IOOF, Peace Lutheran Church, Masonic Lodge, Rockport School of Fine Arts, Calvary Baptist Church, Troop 49, First Methodist Church, Fulton Baptist Church, St. Peter's Episcopal Church, First Baptist Church, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post and Lamar All Faiths Church.

Those organizations who submitted no information in 1969 or were not yet formed are of course welcome to begin at the beginning.

Area Births

It's A Boy!

Kathy and Micky Travis of Corpus Christi are the proud parents of a new baby boy, Patrick Ryan Travis, born June 23 in Spohn Hospital in Corpus Christi. Patrick Ryan weighed seven pounds and 15 and three-quarters ounces at birth, and measured 20 and one-eighth inches. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Travis, Jr., of Taft. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bauer of San Antonio. Mrs. Travis is the sister of Jacqueline Hattenbach of Rockport.

Area Deaths

Croney

Rosary was recited at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 29, for William B. (Bill) Croney, 81, who died Tuesday, June 28. Funeral mass was celebrated at 10 a.m. Thursday at Sacred Heart Church in Rockport with Monsignor Harold Palmer officiating. Interment followed in Rockport Cemetery.

Croney was born in Ashland, Illinois. He was a member of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Rockport and a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Marshall Funeral Home in Rockport was in charge of arrangements.

Local Heart Association Holds Tourney

Roger Barrier of Corpus Christi and Rosario Suavely of Kingsville were the winners in the first fund-raising bowling tournament held by the Aransas County chapter of the American Heart Association. Barrier rolled a 794 handicap series, Suavely a 661, also with handicap.

Eddie Reissig of Fulton was the runner-up in the men's division and the only local entrant among the top four. The local man would have made good if the pins had fallen for him in the last frames of game three.

The Heart Association tournament was the first in a continuing series to be held at the Coastal Bend Lanes in Aransas Pass. The public is invited, and tournament rules are very inviting--nine pins on the first ball is a strike, and a strike when a colored pin is up means a free game from the Coastal Bend Lanes management. Entrants can bowl as many series as they wish as long as they re-enter and make another doantion to the local AHA chapter.

The next event has been set for October 30, 1977, and Chapter promoters Dr. Hap Lutz and Ken Clark hope to do even better the second time around. The first time crowd was small, but those who came out got the royal treatment from Coastal Bend Lanes manager Riley Taylor and his staff.
