Aircraft Expert Will Speak On Rotary Forum Friday Evening

Geoffrey F. Morgan, manager of the Douglas Aircraft Company Speakers Bureau in Santa Monica, Calif., will be the second of four outstanding speakers to appear in Wellington on the Rotary Club's Institute of International Understanding. Mr. Morgan will speak Friday evening, February 22, at the high school auditorium, at 8:00 o'clock p. m. His subject will be "The Constructive Use of Air Transport."

"Although every Collingsworth County person interested in world affairs will find this talk pertinent, it will appeal particularly to all aviation enthusiasts, whether they are flying in civilian life or flew during the war," Dr. C. B. Jones, president of the Rotary Club, declared.

Audiences which have heard Mr. Morgan's brilliant talks on post war aviation are always impressed with his coverage of his subject, and the manner in which he can clear up confusing points. But at the same time, they find his discussions brightened with a sense of humor that makes him one of the platform's most popular speakers.

Mr. Morgan was born in London, England, and was graduated from Stanford University and Columbia University. He has been professor of education at Ohio University; a lecturer for 25 years; a member of the California Legislature for four years and since 1940 president of the Shoreline Planning Association of California.

In Santa Monica he has served as a member of the Board of Education, as president of the Community Chest, as chairman of the Library Board, and as a director of the Salvation Army, the Social Welfare Association and the Boy Scouts.

During the last 20 years, Mr. Morgan has delivered about five thousand lectures in every state in the union and in Canada. While he has never lectured abroad, his travels have taken him to Spain, France, Switzerland and Italy, and he spent one summer shortly before the war in touring England by automobile.

County Workers For Red Cross Drive Named

The war is over, but Red Cross work is never over, Collingsworth Countians were reminded this week as the annual Red Cross fund-raising campaign draws near. This year, the county is asked to raise $3,000 which will be used to finance the local Red Cross work and go to the national fund also.

Local work of the Red Cross is much the same as it was before the war ended, Miss Katherine Boverie, home service chairman, declared. And there is just as much of it.

The local chapter still deals with men in service overseas and with their families here. It still helps to get men out of the armed forces where home conditions make this necessary. The Red Cross acts as power of attorney for some of the men in attending to their business.

"All of this work makes it extremely important that we support the Red Cross this year just as we did in years past," John Forbis, fund raising chairman, said. "When you help the Red Cross, remember, you're helping the men in the armed forces yet, maybe your own son."

Cameron Beam will be in charge of collecting Red Cross funds in the business district and Mrs. Chester Fires in the residential district of Wellington. They will name other workers to help in canvassing the town.

Mr. Forbis again emphasized that the work should be completed as nearly as possible on March 1, the opening day. "It is possible we could raise the entire $3,000" (Continued on Page Five)

$60,000 Issue Would Purchase Right Of Way

Property owners of Collingsworth County will vote Tuesday, February 26, to determine the issuance of $60,000 in bonds for the purpose of buying the right of way for four hard surfaced roads in the county.

Voting will be at the eighteen voting boxes in the county.

All persons who are resident property taxpayers voters, both real and personal, of Collingsworth County, and who have duly rendered their property for taxation shall be entitled to vote in this election, Judge Howard Riggs, county judge, said.

The four roads concerned are the proposed farm to market roads running from Wellington southeast to Dodson; from Wellington southwest to Rolla; from Highway 83 west through Samnorwood and Dozier; and from Lutie east to Needwood.

The number of hard-surfaced farm-to-market roads the county can have is not limited to four, it is pointed out, but that is the number already designated by the highway department.

The commissioners court has figured that the $60,000 issue, if it carries, will be ample for right of way purposes.

The court called the road bond election after a petition had been presented that body requesting it. This election must carry by a two-thirds majority for the bonds to be (Continued on Page Eight)

Mr. Daffron came to this county in 1906 and settled near what is now Samnorwood. That farm continued to be his home until after the death of Mrs. Daffron, when he moved to Wellington.

A native of Alabama, Zimeriah Henderson Daffron was born February 35, 1861, and at the time of his death he was 84 years, 11 months and 13 days of age. He (Continued on Page Eight)

This young preacher is no stranger to Collingsworth County. He is

This building has undergone extensive remodeling in recent weeks to fit it to the needs of the agency. J. B. Castleberry, owner, announced that his two sons, John Ben Castleberry and Bobo Castleberry, will be associated with him in the business. Both have recently returned from service in the armed forces.

Final Rites Are Held For Pioneer Doctor

Funeral services for Dr. J. H. Loving, 83, pioneer doctor of Western Oklahoma and Collingsworth County, were conducted Wednesday afternoon, February 13, from the First Baptist Church. Rev. Henry H. Kinkeade was in charge. Special tribute was given by Dr. E. W. Jones, who had been a close friend for 30 years.

Burial was in the Old Wellington Cemetery.

Dr. Loving's death marked the passing of one of the truly pioneer doctors. In many ways his experiences were typical of those physicians who came into a new country and watched it grow. But his life was rich with the experiences and the interests that he had known, and those who were his friends felt they could have been lived by no one else but Dr. Loving.

He was a native Missourian, born May 21, 1862, the son of John and Minerva Hamilton Loving. While he was still a baby, he was brought by his parents to East Texas, and there he grew up.

Dr. Loving often told his children that when he was 16 he didn't know the multiplication table, but he determined he would get an education and he went to work to do it. At twenty he was teaching school to get money to enter medical college. At the same time he was studying chemistry.

He entered the Medical School of the University of Tennessee at (Continued on Page Four)

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post will meet Wednesday night, February 27 at 8:00 p. m. for their second meeting here. At this time permanent officers will be elected and a name for the post will be chosen.

The post will be named for some Collingsworth County boy who gave his life in World War II, R. L. Sisk, who is helping with the arrangements, said.

"All veterans who served overseas are asked to be present. This is an organization that we feel will mean a lot to every one of you, and you can do your part in making it a good, live post that will do some good," Sisk said.

The first meeting was held Saturday night when E. R. Bruce of Amarillo, district commander, came here to help with the organization.

Twenty-seven men have already signed up for membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, and a number of others are expected to join at the coming meeting.

There will be no admission charge.

Mr. Gafford, former technical sergeant with the First Division, served in France, Belgium, and Germany and was wounded in action near the Rhine River.

The citation for the Bronze Star reads in part: "The superior leadership, unflinching courage and zeal with which Sgt. Gafford executed his responsibilities—contributed immeasurably to the efficiency of his organization during the invasion of Western Europe."

The young veteran was discharged from the service in April, 1945, and is now employed by the city of El Paso as a bulldozer operator.

LETTERS FROM MEN IN SERVICE

(Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Black of Fresno recently received the following letter from their son, J. R. Black, who is with the 373rd General Hospital on Guam).

Feb. 4, 1946

Dear Mother, Dad, and kids,

How is everyone making it by now? I am still doing pretty good.

Well, I am really happy now. I'll be starting back toward home about the last of next week, so I should be there in about 30 days. I just can't think of anything but that. It sure does seem like a long time since I left. I never did know just how much you and dad meant to me until I had to be separated from you for so long a time. I want to see all of you so bad that I don't know what to do.

Well, I suppose they have gotten my mail messed up again as I haven't had any in about ten days. I don't have much time right now, but I'll drop you a line the day that I leave here for home.

With all of my love,

Randolph.

Nashville. Since he was married and had a young family, he could not complete the course, but he did obtain a certificate to practice medicine for two years. He returned to Fate, in East Texas, practiced for that length of time, then returned to complete his medical course. When he was 28 years old—55 years ago—he received his diploma from medical college. At the same time he was graduated in dentistry from the University of Tennessee.

He again returned to his home town of Fate to practice.

Dr. Loving had married Miss Annie Elizabeth Porter about 62 years ago. They remained in East Texas until 1889 when they and their children came to the Indian Territory and he filed on land near what is now Blair, Okla., ten miles north of Altus.

It was here that Dr. Loving became truly a pioneer physician. His medical practice carried him throughout the entire territory. His children recall how he traveled in a buggy, carrying food for himself and feed for his horse along with him. Often when he was out, he would be sent for to travel miles to a patient, there to be met by a message to come still farther to attend the sick. Many times his family would not see him for three or four days. He had considerable practice in Altus during this time.

In 1906 he brought his family to Wellington, and after a short time on a farm near town, they built the house at the corner of Dalhart and Eighth streets which has since been known as the Loving home.

Here again, Dr. Loving practiced over a wide territory, although by that time, the county was rapidly filling up. The experiences during these years afforded him much pleasure, and many of his friends here recall that they, too, have derived pleasure from their doctor's recounting his own experiences. He possessed a keen sense of humor that made life easier for himself and others.

During the last ten years of his practice, Dr. Loving confined his work to office practice, specializing in eye, ear, nose and throat work.

For around thirty years he had suffered from a heart ailment. More than 20 years ago, he began going to Falfurrias to spend the winters, then returning to his practice in warm weather. Eighteen years ago he moved there, making that his home for ten years. Eight years ago he returned to Wellington.

Among his many experiences, Dr. Loving had often recalled with good humor that he treated hundreds of children with whooping cough during his long practice without taking it himself, then the year that he retired, when he was more than 65 years old, he took whooping cough.

Mrs. Loving died in 1910. In 1917, he was married to Miss Abbie Lee Owens of Wellington.

Dr. Loving's friends often said of him that he was "well versed in almost everything." But his particular interests lay in things of scientific nature, particularly electricity and mechanics. He added to the knowledge which he gained by his own keen observation by reading widely and on many subjects.

Dr. Loving is survived by eleven children, Thomas B. Loving, Mrs. Pearl N. Shaw, Mrs. Otto Buerger, Porter E. Loving, O. K. Loving and Mrs. C. A. Harrell of Wellington; Mrs. Opal Sims of Dallas; Joseph Henry Loving Jr., of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Etta Belle Williams of Dorris, Calif.; Mrs. Phillip Welfield and Miss Mary Ann Loving of Amarillo. Seventeen grandchildren and two great grandchildren also survive.

Four children preceded Dr. Loving in death, John Loving, Mrs. C. L. Nugent, Pat Loving and Bobby. Children also survive, as do two sisters, Mrs. R. B. Mayfield of Blair, Okla., and Mrs. E. L. Stevenson of Abilene.

then sailed with his unit for the Pacific in March 1944. He was stationed first in New Guinea, then in the Dutch East Indies and at various points over Luzon.

Rev. Blalock feels that the religion of the soldier is just about what it is at home, and that it depended on his background at home.

"One of the best inspirations for a chaplain was when the men came to church. He knew they came to worship—and they came in rain or 130 degree heat. And all those who had a religious background were good to come to church," he said.

The chaplain doesn't have much faith in foxhole religion.

"But it does happen to some, and if it does there is usually more back of it than the moment of stress and fear. He had a background behind him that taught him that there was a greater power on which he could rely in such times," Rev. Blalock declared.

Life on many of the islands he found to be crude, although the natives had been Christianized by either protestant or catholic missionaries.

In the Philippine Islands, Rev. Blalock found the better educated people would prefer the protection of the United States for the next ten years. And while there are some who want to become a state, this is a minority.

F. O. Masten is deep breaking his farm east of town—without a driver on the tractor. It is run by an automatic guide. The furrow is so deep that the front wheel has no chance of getting out of the rut even in turning at the end of the field. At night Mr. Masten has the tractor filled with gas and lets it run in the night. It needs no lights. It runs just as good in the dark as it does in the daylight. The other night they put gasoline in it and it plowed the field 18 inches deep until 3 a. m., at which time it ran out of gasoline.

The Government pays Mr. Masten $1.50 an acre for deep breaking his ground just as it will any farmer. The automatic tractor may be out of the question for many farmers; but the benefits of the $1.50 an acre are open to every farmer who wants to take advantage of them.

Here is an unsigned note from some woman: "How about the Wellington Leader circulating a petition to raise a little money—enough so the county could hire someone to clean the ladies rest room on the first floor of the Court House. It has not been scrubbed clean since October at least."

The Leader will not circulate a petition; but this paper will accept donations for that cause and turn them over to the proper authorities. We will give $5 to start the movement.

The inch rain last Sunday put a very good season in the ground. Why wouldn't this be an excellent year for some farmers to try to raise a corn crop? Corn should be planted early to do well. If a late blizzard gets it, you still have time to plant maize.

Someday I hope I learn enough to keep this typewriter's big mouth shut. Coach Al Duncan has been down to inform me that they will need my services in designing the tennis court and the concrete practice wall. Also I am supposed to go down and teach a teacher on the fine points of instructing the pupils in the art of playing tennis. And here I have been thinking that an editor's job was to print the news and comment on the needs of the community.

A number of farmers have been in to see me about the road bond election. They say that there is more opposition than is healthy when an issue must pass by a two-thirds majority. The people should realize that this is not the end but the beginning of farm to market roads in this county. I am told that some who want to dictate where the roads shall run are threatening to defeat the issue. If they are successful in their negative effort no part of Collingsworth County will get any roads in the next two or three years. But these same opponents will be putting off the day when they can have paved roads even nearer their homes.

Folks, I think it is important that this bond issue should pass. I know some of the people who are against it. Some are misinformed or misled. They fail to see that the proposed paving is the beginning. There is another type of opposition. They are few; but they are powerful and they have money to spend. I believe that they are misguided or very selfish; but apparently they are bent on their course. They have a tremendous advantage due to

Feb. 5, 1946

Dear Deck,

Would you please cancel my subscription to the Leader for the present as I am coming home on the 15th of this month. I will be on a thirty day leave and will be there at some time. It will be my first visit there in two years, and I will drop in and see you when I get back to Wellington.

Yours truly,
Sherman D. McClanahan,
PhM 3-c.

(The following letter was written to us from E. A. Peck, a former Captain in the Air Force, and who was also at one time agriculture instructor in Samnorwood.)

Eagle Pass, Texas
February 14, 1946

Dear Mr. Wells:

I noticed in the last issue of The Leader that you want all servicemen's present addresses. I am now working as a Federal Plant Quarantine Inspector on the international bridge here at Eagle Pass. Our work is to enforce all Federal quarantines as to imports to the United States from Mexico and to inspect all freight and plant materials for insects and diseases. In another week I will go on the fumigation (freight) shift where eight cars are fumigated at once. I have a seven room house available today, and Mrs. Peck and the children will be down right away. Before being appointed to this position, I was teaching math at Eastland High School which I resigned. I wish all of my many friends the best of everything; but I consider this the best position I've filled to date.

It is with regret that I see unrest in the United States. It is too bad that the strikers could not have seen some of the things that G. I. Joe saw while overseas. It would certainly bring home to all that our country is next to heaven, compared to the other countries of the world. Perhaps all will settle down and keep our country secure and free from strife.

With best wishes to all,
Your friend,
E. A. Peck.

Dodson Juniors To Give Comedy

Juniors of Dodson High School will present a three-act comedy, "Crashing Society," Friday evening, February 22, at the high school auditorium, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The story centers around Adam Dunnigan, who is played by Billy Carter, a genuine nature loving, hard working country man who is visibly discontented with his wife Elsie, played by Maurine Keefer, who is making him move to New York, where she has her head set on crashing society.

Darvin Chrisco, as the son, George, is exactly like his father. Betty Stanley as Cristobel, the youngest daughter, is entranced with the possibilities of resting high in society. The other daughter, Marguerite, played by Ruby Cornelius, has gone to college and has acquired a certain amount of poise.

Other characters are Scruples Scruples, played by Harold Darby; Mr. Witherspoon, J. E. Darnell; Mrs. Witherspoon, Ramona Talley; Cyril Witherspoon, Jearld Warren; Erma Dell Collins as the tutor and Louise Weaver as Agatha Mulrooney.

Miss Rachel Deahl is directing the play.

A small admission charge will be made.

voted, Judge, Riggs pointed out. The bonds, if carried, will be sold on competitive bids, and only an amount of bonds sold at a time to care for the right-of-way on each road project as it comes up ready for construction. It is estimated that if it were necessary to use the entire amount of these bonds at one time, a tax of 5 cents on the $100 taxable valuation will retire them.

The proposed issue would bear interest at a rate not exceeding three per cent and would mature serially over a period not exceeding 30 years from their date.

The polls will be open between the usual voting hours. The ballots will have printed on them:

"For the issuance of the bonds and levying an ad valorem tax in payment thereof."

"Against the issuance of the bonds and levying an ad valorem tax in payment thereof."

Voting boxes will be, North Wellington, South Wellington, Aberdeen, Buck Creek, Samnorwood, Quail, Pleasant Mound, Dodson, Dozier, Abra, Swearingen, Ring, Lutie, Lone Mound, Shinnery, Nicholson, Rolla, Lillie and China Grove.

Veterans Back To Pipe Line Co.

Separation centers are now turning former United Gas employees at the rate of approximately twenty per week, according to an announcement this week by N. C. McGowan, of Shreveport, president of the United Gas system.

After "sweating out" an extreme shortage of experienced personnel through the war, United is now absorbing former employees as fast as the Army and Navy can release them. More than 15 per cent of all present employees of the United Gas Pipe Line, Union Producing and United Oil Pipe Line companies are veterans of World War II, Mr. McGowan said.

In a report released by the companies' personnel department last week, it was shown that a total of 1,020 employees of those companies have served in the Army, Navy or other services. According to the report, 480 of these have returned from military service and are now back on the pay-roll, 305 are still in the service, and a number have not yet reclaimed their former jobs. It was also noted that there are 27 gold stars on the companies' service plaque in Shreveport.

It has been United's policy to provide a job for every former employee who has served in the armed forces, without regard to the fact that many of the are originally employed on a temporary or replacement basis. Now an entire section of the personnel department is devoted to the specific

Cook Car Burns On Quail Road

A 1936 Chrysler Sedan belonging to Jimmy Wayne Cook was almost totally destroyed by fire on Tuesday, February 12, on the Quail highway two and one-fourth miles northwest of town.

Clyde Amburn of the Jones Wrecking Yard, which brought the car to town, reported that the vehicle had stalled, and was being pulled in an effort to start it. Backfire ignited gasoline that had been spilled while priming the carburetor.

The fire department was called but the entire car was afire by the time the truck could arrive.

The department answered two other calls, both Saturday morning. The first, at 2:30 a. m., was to the colored section, when a wash house and washing machine burned.

At 10:30 a. m., fire in the Arlie Smith home at Childress and Second streets caught from a gas stove. Damage was confined to a small area, J. H. Williams of the fire department said.

Material Ordered For Dodson Farm Labor Center

Material has been ordered for the construction of the Dodson Farm Labor Center, and delivery is expected late this month, E. J. Smith, one of those in charge of the plans, said Tuesday.

Approximately $2,500 has been raised by the farmers and business men of Dodson to pay for this center, which will house migratory labor coming to the community until the workers can locate jobs and places to live. Workers, principally Mexicans from South Texas, are directed to sections needing help by the Farm Labor office, which works in conjunction with the Extension Service of A&M College.

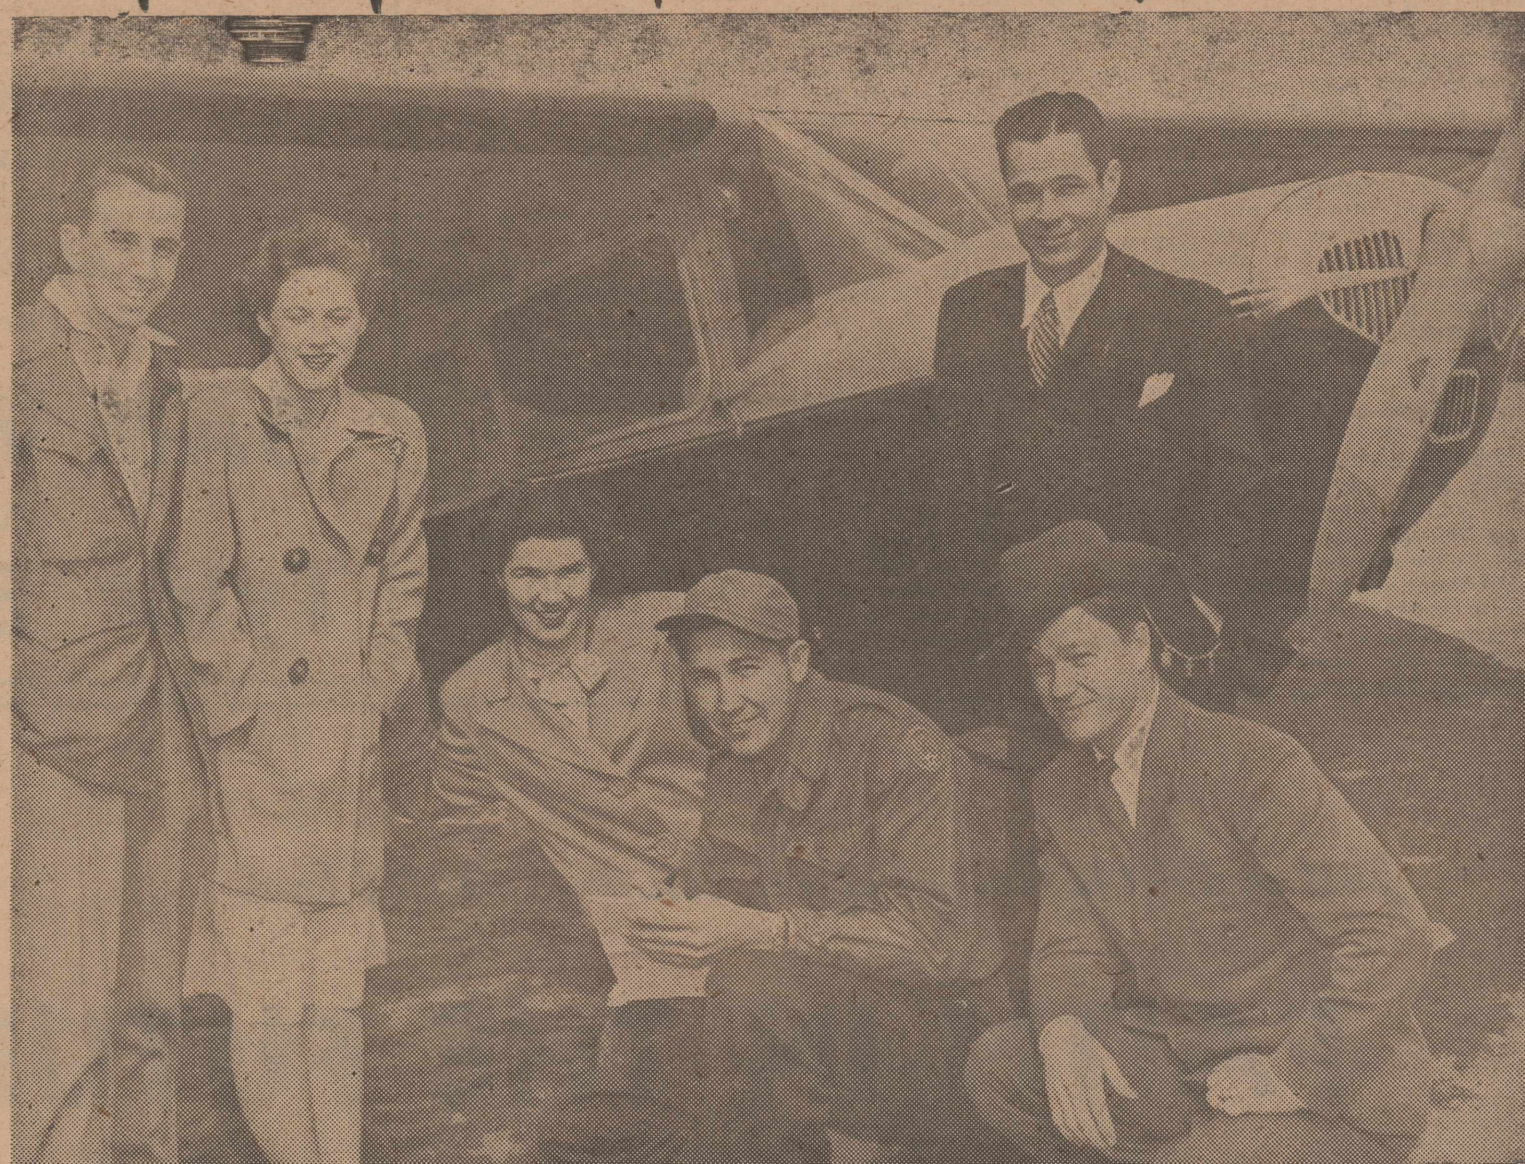

An effort will be made to bring workers here for the cotton chopping as well as the cotton picking season.

The Dodson Labor Center will be constructed of corrugated iron and will be 28 by 104 feet in size. The materials were ordered prefabricated and will be ready to put up on arrival. Mr. Smith estimated that the center will be completed sometime early in March.

We, the Farmers, Urge You to Vote for the Right of Way Bond Issue on Feb. 26

It is not often that a group of farmers ask the people in the towns and cities to vote for a bond issue. Seldom do we want to vote for one ourselves. Even less frequently do we ask our neighbors to vote such an issue.

But this time we do respectfully ask you to go to the polls on Tuesday, February 26 and vote in favor of the bond issue to buy right of way for paved roads in this county.

It will take the utmost effort on the part of every person who wants to drive over better roads to cause this election to pass. This is not a 50-50 election as far as public opinion is concerned. IT WILL TAKE A TWO THIRDS MAJORITY VOTE FOR THE BOND ELECTION TO PASS.

If it fails no one will suffer as much as the farmers and the small stockman; but we would like to point out that the trading center of Wellington, Dodson and Quail will also be handicapped if the election fails to pass.

The issue is clear cut. Certain rich men and a number of disgruntled rural people who wanted the roads to run right in front of their homes have organized a minority that can defeat the election due to the necessity of a two thirds majority. But if all who are for it will go to the polls and vote, the bond election will pass.

The bond issue can be used for right of way only. Four are definite. These are the road to Dodson, the road to Rolla, the road to Lutie to Needwood and from Lutie to Dozier. In addition the funds may be used for additional road in the Quail community for a paved road or for any other one in any part that is approved by State Highway Department. But it can be used only for buying right of way.

This is the time for the farmers and the stockmen to vote for their own interest and the welfare of their children. The date to vote is next Tuesday, February 26.

FAITH IN THE FUTURE

From the first turning of the furrow until the final harvest, no man lives more by faith than he who tills the soil.

His faith is in the good earth and in the laws of nature—in the fruits of toil and in the promise of reward according to achievement.

We who are engaged in business also have convictions upon which our policies are based.

As we face the peace—bringing with it obligations to the many who have sacrificed so much to gain it—we must turn to these unfailing guides on which Americans have so long depended:

Faith in America and America's future—a future of expanding, useful productivity and even higher standards of living.

Faith in the rightness and benefits of individual freedom and individual enterprise.

Faith in the principle that there can be no rights without responsibilities—no privileges to enjoy without duties to perform.

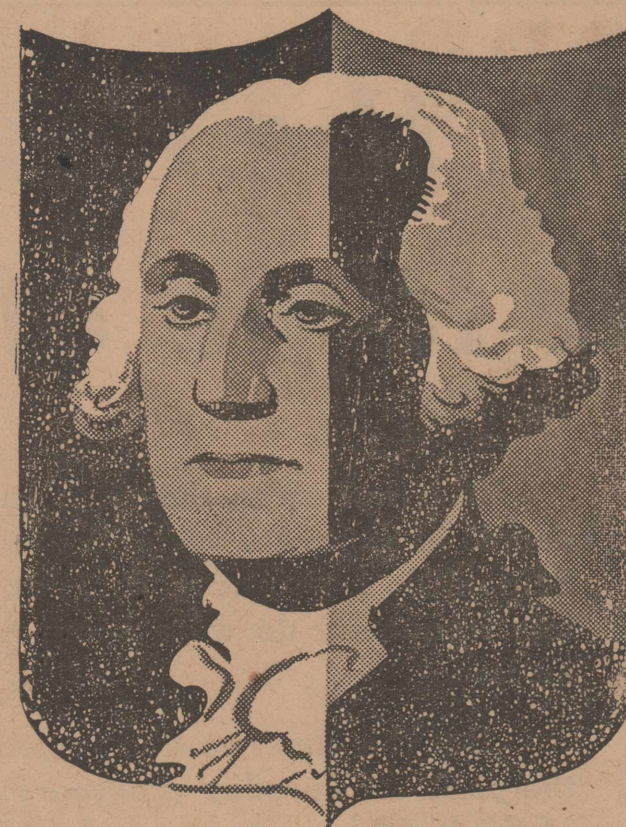

Faith in work, as the forerunner of reward—in incentive, as the kindling spark of productive energy—in opportunity to serve a need, as the first requirement to provide a job.

Faith in the American way of doing things, by which each person, each organization, each industry, each business must take its place—and be granted that place—according to ability and capacity—in one great, coordinated, inter-gearred system of living, working and contributing to the national welfare.

Faith in America's progressive instinct and in the things which serve it—science, research, engineering, technical knowledge and skill.

Faith in the rights of great and small alike—and in the importance of all to a free, peaceful and productive nation.

We believe that with stout hearts and willing hands dedicated to these principles, America's future will inevitably bring BETTER THINGS FOR MORE PEOPLE.

ELEMENTARY,
my dear Watson!

Here's a problem for you, Watson. What living cost has DECREASED while nearly all other costs have gone right on rising?

My dear Watson, the answer is at your finger-tip. What else gives you twice as much for your money as it did 15 years ago? What else is ready day or night, winter or summer, to lighten your tasks and make life more comfortable for you? What else gives you so much service for just a few pennies a day? What else, my dear Watson, but Electric Service?

Elementary, my dear Watson. Electric Service—dependable and cheap—is the result of hard work, private initiative and experience on the part of the men and women of your electric company—under sound, steady business management.

Collingsworth One Of 62 Ships To Honor Texas During War

Led by a remarkable old battleship and a plucky aircraft carrier, 62 ships represented with honor the state of Texas during World War II.

The battleship TEXAS was the biggest man-of-war in the group. This was her second war, and she fought in the toughest battles in two hemispheres.

But the ship that usurped the title of "flagship of the Texas Navy" was the doughty carrier SAN JACINTO, renowned throughout the Pacific Fleet for her spirit and devastating record against the Japs. She always flew the state flag of Texas beneath the national ensign. Early in her career she began to call herself the "flagship of Texas", and the name stuck.

Texas was further represented by two hard-hitting cruisers, the HOUSTON and GALVESTON, and a handful of gunboats, all named for cities in the state: the BROWNSVILLE, EL PASO, ORANGE, CORPUS CHRISTI, BEAUMONT, and CITY OF DALLAS.

The bulk of the Texas "fleet" was composed of transports, hard-working ships that hauled troops and supplies over all the oceans, fought off enemy air attacks, sailed into range of shore fire, and did it all quietly and anonymously. Such ships as these were the DUVALL, HIDALGO, MIDLAND, TARRANT, STARR, UVALDE, MONTAGUE, CLAY, FAYETTE, KNOX, LAMAR, LEON, BRISCOE, BURLESON, DAWSON, PRESIDIO, SHELBY, HANSFORD, HASKELL, BANDERA, BOSQUE, COLLINGSWORTH, COTTE, CROCKETT, BOWIE, DICKENS, EASTLAND, FREESTONE, GRIMES, KARNES, LAVACA, LUBBOCK, MENARD, NAVARRO, RANDALL, ROCKWELL, SAN SABA, McLENNAN, BEXAR, CAMERON, and NUECES. All were named for Texas counties.

Ten tankers, named for rivers, sailed with Service Squadron 10, the so-called "secret weapon" that permitted the fleet to fuel and replenish at sea and remain in action for protracted periods of time. In this group were the BRAZOS, TRINITY, SABINE, GUADALUPE, NECHES, PECOS, ATASCOSA, CONCHO, NAVASOTA, and RIO GRANDE.

One other transport, the MATA-GORDA, took its name from a Texas bay.

The battleship TEXAS has been known as a "shooting ship" for 30 years. She took to the seas in 1914, the most deadly dreadnaught afloat at that time. Soon after joining the feet the prowess in gunnery was well-known to Navy men.

With the start of the first World War, she sailed to Europe with other American battleships as protection against any naval maneuvers that might be attempted by Germany.

Between wars the TEXAS was modernized, and she furthered her shooting reputation. World War II found her in the Atlantic until the North African invasion. There her 14-inch rifles pounded ammunition dumps, shore installations, and Nazi troops.

Those big guns were needed for the Normandy invasion, too. The TEXAS approached Pont du Hoc, a promontory just east of Grand Camp, France, in the early hours of the morning of June 6, 1944, and conducted a pre-invasion bombardment while standing 12,000 yards from the beach. She literally demolished the promontory with 250 projectiles.

Only once in her long history was the TEXAS damaged by the enemy. It happened in June, 1944, off Cherbourg, France. In company with a force of battleships, she was engaged in a three-hour gun duel with German shore batteries. She was straddled at least 30 times, and finally hit by two shells. One struck the top of the conning tower, and the other penetrated the side of the ship, but did not explode.

The Iwo Jima operation was in progress when the TEXAS arrived for duty in the Pacific. She bombarded the Japs there, and after a short rest, moved to Okinawa to support that bloody invasion. There she expanded four complete shiploads of ammunition. She shot down one suicide plane unassisted and helped bring down half a dozen others.

There probably was no prouder ship in the fleet than the SAN JACINTO. She began her fighting life in May, 1944, and finished the war at the gates of Tokyo.

She was given her name by the citizens of Houston, Texas. When the old cruiser HOUSTON was lost off Java in 1942, the citizens of Houston held a bond selling campaign to raise money for a new cruiser to carry that name. The drive ended and enough bonds had been sold not only to pay for a cruiser but also for a light aircraft carrier. The Navy Department ask Houstonians for a name, and they gave it SAN JACINTO, which commemorates the decisive struggle in Texas' battle for independence.

This fast, small carrier, which had only a fraction of a number of plans that were on the big carrier with whom she operated, destroyed or damaged 712 Japanese aircraft carriers, two battleships, four cruisers, 10 destroyers, and 200,000 tons of auxiliaries, merchant ships and small craft.

She was subjected many times to enemy suicide attacks, torpedoes once bracketed her stern and bow. Kamikazes missed by less than a plane's length on three different occasions. Her guns shot down 12 planes, and had assisted on eight others—more kills than any ship of her class.

As the war reached the finishing stages, with the east carrier forces roaming more or less unopposed off the Japanese coast, planes from the SAN JACINTO evolved a technique for "digging out" hidden aircraft. At this time her task group commander called her the "Little Giant" a new nickname that her crew has perpetuated.

She fought at Marcus, Wake, the Marianas, Palau, Leyte, Luzon, Iwo Jima, and Tokyo. Twice she had out tremendous typhoons. At the end she was still fighting.

Texas Observes Arbor Day Thurs.

A 57-year-old custom will be renewed this year when Texas observes Arbor Day on February 22.

Governor Coke R. Stevenson has issued a proclamation designating George Washington's birthday anniversary as the day when the state will mark the importance of trees, forests, and forest industries.

In his proclamation, Governor Stevenson said: "I do earnestly recommend and urge that all citizens, individually or in association, and state, by appropriate exercises render due observance of this occasion in the interest of the commonwealth and the nation."

The Governor said that Arbor Day has been set aside to bring the attention of the people of the many benefits which trees offer as a forest crop, as a raw material for industries, as a protection for the soil, as a cover for the wildlife, and as a beautifier of the state.

Arbor Day was originally observed in Texas on February 22, 1889. A bill was introduced in the Senate by the State Senator George W. Tyler of Belton, Texas, and was signed by Governor L. S. Ross.

Rotary Anns Prepare Luncheon For Rotary Club

From left to right are Mrs. J. E. Leggett, official mother of the Rotary Club, and leader in preparing regular weekly luncheons; Mrs. Charles B. Jones, wife of the president and chairman of Rotary Anns; Mrs. Enis Schaded and Mrs. Sam Gholson, volunteer workers; and Mrs. S. R. Pinkston, official pianist for the club. All Rotary Anns take their turn at helping prepare and serve the weekly luncheons for the club at the Community Club room.

Ladies Of Service Clubs Praised For Their Outstanding Meals At Weekly Luncheons

Rotary Anns and Kiwani Anns are due a great deal of praise for their help in the outstanding meals which the members of the two clubs are served every Tuesday and Friday. The idea of serving the meals at the Community Club room was instigated by Mrs. Morris Wells, wife of the president of the Rotary Club for the year 1944-45. With the ladies of the Christian Church giving up the project of serving the Rotary, new plans had to be made. The club room kitchen was finished about that time and Mrs. Wells organized the Rotary Anns into groups to help each week.

Mrs. J. E. Leggett accepted the place of supervisor and does all the planning, buying and managing. She is then assisted by the current president's wife in always having help to prepare the food and serve the luncheons. The first meeting under the new plan was held the first Tuesday in January 1945. Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Leggett and all Rotary Anns worked faithfully to make it the success it has been. The men of the club are quick to praise their efforts.

Mrs. Leggett was named club mother of the Rotary for her untiring efforts to please each member, giving them their favorite breads, cooking the meats to their taste and all the little things that make a meal like an indulgent's mothers.

At the close of President Morris Wells term in May of 1945, Mrs. Wells was given a tribute in the Rotary News for her service. The year was named as one of the most successful years in the history of Rotary, and Rose Wells had her part in making it a success along with the President.

In June Dr. Charles Jones took over the president's duties and Mrs. Jones followed in the footsteps of Mrs. Wells. She too has been on the job continuing work which is the envy of all the out of town visitors.

Following the lead of Rotary, members of the Kiwanis Club started holding their weekly meetings at the club room the first week in June. Mrs. Horace Clark, wife of President Clark, began her duties assisting Mrs. J. E. Leggett who also supervises the Kiwanis luncheons.

Mrs. J. W. Holder, wife of the current president, is now on duty and all Kiwani Anns are quick to respond when their time comes to cook and serve the members.

A list of the Rotary Anns follows: Lois Alexander, Vera Beaird, Teresa Campbell, Marian Couch, Inez Cummings, Lawrence Curry, Many Lou Denley, Lala Dunson, Eddie Gibson, Lillian Hajek, Lillian Handley, Helen Hurst, Nell Jones, Kathleen Jones, Margaret Johnson, Gladys Leggett, Pauline Manzer, Ila Moore, Lois Parsons, Lela Pinkston, Mary Miles Pigg, Ruby Raburn, Floy Rapp, Isabel Schaded, Clay Sullivan, Claudia Sweat, Reba Tarter, Rebecca Wells and Rose Wells.

The following Kiwani Anns are always on the job to help: Mmes. Marjorie Anderson, Ethel Brickey, Mary Clay, Cameron Beam, C. V. Botkin, Guy Bell, Horace Clark, Levi Duncan, J. B. Floyd, G. B. Hopper, Elmer Hiatt, Myrrett Henry, Charlie Harrell, J. W. Holder, T. J. Jones, H. H. Kinkeade, Claude Killingsworth, John Holton, Austin Moore, Claude McKinney, Ernest Lewis, Morris

LETTERS From The PEOPLE

It looks as though our war debt, that it might gain a little more knowledge of atomic energy was going to sacrifice 100 ships, the major part will probably land in Davie's locker, those remaining will, in all probability be made useless. Now, the question is this: Could these 100 ships be placed where they could be used to alleviate the pains of the housing shortage, and at less expense than it will require to destroy them.

Another teapot dome is in the making and has already dumped into the lap of the Democratic party the largest white elephant in has ever had the displeasure of nursing, and we would advise that the old boy be turned out to graze on the Whit Hout lawn, and left there as our next President will more than likely want to ride him into the Whit House.

Consequently our politicians, big, little, and young, are now very busy climbing in the fence.

Mr. Pauley has never said that he did not say it; in fact, all he has said was that Mr. Ickies did not understand him.

Will the messes swallow this? We will find out—1948.

The question of compulsory military training has a very obnoxious, nauseating odor arising from it. In fact in short it smells. Our sense of smell tells us that this particular odor can only come from contamination brought on by war.

What did Sherman say war was? The Pearl Harbor investigators have ask for some time to enable them to make their final report. Not long ago one of them made the statement that not two of them had the same opinion about the matter. So it will be just another hung jury. Question. When will the next investigation start?

When capital and Labor through greed and greed alone threatens the economic social and physical standing of the world at large, it is time for someone to act.

Our president criticised big business because they refused to hand over their books to the fact-finding boards. What more than income tax reports should they want.

We have just recently ended a conflict in which millions of lives and billions of dollars were sacrificed. Almost all classes were engaged in death and destruction to his fellow man. There were two exceptions, our doctors and nurses, who during all this time were doing all in their power to relieve the suffering and prolong the life of man "a greater spirit hath no man".

When man becomes christianized and civilized there will be no wars, there will then be unity, there will be a world wide organization.

The brotherhood of man: — "Behold how good and how pleasant it is to dwell together in unity."

Gospel Of Christ

(Rom. 1:16)

REPENTANCE AND BAPTISM

"Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit." (Acts 2:38).

It is often urged that the clause "be baptized for the remission of sins" is susceptible to different interpretations, but this passage presents an inseparable connection between repentance, baptism and remission. Here two things—repentance and baptism—are related to a third, the remission of sins. Whatever relation repentance bears to the remission of sins, baptism bears the same. The one particle EIS cannot express two relations.

Compare these uses of EIS: "Be converted THAT (eis) your sins may be blotted out." Acts 3:19. "Believeveth UNTO (eis) righteousness." Rom. (10:10). Repentance UNTO (eis) life." (Acts 11:18). "This is my blood . . . shed FOR (eis) the remission of sins." (Matt. 26:28).

In these passages does EIS mean BECAUSE OF or IN ORDER TO? Was Christ's blood shed BECAUSE OF or IN ORDER TO the remission of sins? So, the preposition EIS in Acts 2:38 means IN ORDER TO. The word EIS never meant "on account of" and was never so used anywhere in all the New Testament. Baptism is, therefore, in order to the remission of sins.

In an unparalleled job switch, Paul Bixler, right, former assistant grid coach at Ohio State, is now head coach and Carroll Widdoes, left, former head coach, is assistant coach, his old job under Paul Brown. Reports of dissatisfaction and possible transfers to other schools by several players preceded the job trade.

Tuesday, February 26 is a date that every person who is sincerely interested in the welfare and future progress of Collingsworth County should mark on the calendar. It is the date on which the people will go to the polls to vote on the proposition of voting $60,000 in bonds to buy the right of way for paving farm to market roads.

* The reason there is a need for every person voting who favors the bond issue is that this election must pass by a two thirds majority vote before the bonds can be issued.

The advantages of such roads to Wellington and Dodson are obvious; but the greatest benefits will be derived by the farmers and stockmen of the county. They more than anyone else should interest themselves in the passage of the bond issue.

The bond issue will raise taxes approximately 5 per cent; but the paved roads which will be maintained by the Highway Department will take 47 miles of dirt roads that are now maintained by the county. In a few short years it will mean a saving and not an expense to the county government. But the greatest saving will be to the farmer who has to use these roads to bring his produce to town and to secure supplies.

The Highway Department has many requests from other counties for paved roads.

Respectfully,

Commissioners Court

- Riches By Night

Rising like a jeweled icicle out of the misty velvet night, the lighted derrick brought enchantment to the fabulous plains sleeping beneath the darkness. Far to the south crimson clouds drifted over gas flares licking the horizon with restless tongues. Near them the thick, black wealth of oil throbbled in pipes, a drowsy and mighty servant to the needs of man. It was over this same soil that the hoofs of horses bearing Coronado and his men had traveled in search of Seven Cities of Gold. Many had perished on the great trailless mesa and the survivors found no gold. Instead they found disaster, pain, privation and the vostoness of space. Perhaps it is the Phoenix of their rich dreams rising from the ashes of perished centuries to light an oil derrick with jewels on a winter night—Douglas Meador in The Matador Tribune.

• Skyrocketing Farm Values

Officials in the Department of Agriculture and those who are associated with the farming industry in the land banks and other federal agencies, have continued to decry the fast-advancing prices in form lands.

Farm land values are high and continue to mount. In the United States as a whole they are 57 per cent above 1940.

However, it seems to us that the point of the whole matter of farm land buying is not in the price so much as in the question of whether the buyer pays for the land or just promises to pay for it. We cannot help noting that many having been laying the cash on the line for their land buying but of recent weeks the inclination to dive in on equities has increased sharply—Homer Steen in The Floyd County Hesperian.

- Circle of Success

Quitting the farm to become a banker to get rich enough to retire and live on a farm is another example of success in life—W. E. Keeling in Grapevine Sun.

If the bond issue does not pass, it will be two or more years before we will have a chance to secure paved roads built by state funds.

We have been paying through the gasoline tax for these roads and we will continue to pay for them even if we do without their distinct advantages. It is common sense to get what you are paying for. Let's have the paved roads. Go to the polls next Tuesday and vote for the bond issue.

COLLEGE STATION.—Farmers want more facilities for delinting and chemical treatment of cottonseed, according to E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas A&M College Extension Service, who believes that this equipment could be operated profitably on a commercial basis in many sections of the cotton belt.

Many farmers know the advantages of planting delinted seed, he pointed out, but not much is offered for sale and there is not enough volume to justify operation of a delinting plant on anything except the larger farms. A good many farmers, he thinks, would bring seed to a custom delinting plant if one were available nearby.

Results of Texas Agricultural Experiment Station tests over a period of years have proven that treatment of seed with an inexpensive commercial fungicide will improve stands and increase yields.

Many Texas farmers are treating seed with a rotary type home mixer, but the few commercial plants in operation are doing a good business. If more were established, a big increase in the volume of cottonseed treated for control of angular leaf spot, sore shin and other seed-borne diseases would follow, Miller says.

He pointed out that no one would expect a ginner, cottonseed crusher or seed dealer to put in a cottonseed treating plant merely as a means of demonstrating good will to his customers. "The equipment can be made from scrap and is economical in operation, especially if used during the off-season in connection with other enterprises for which power and building space are available," he said. Such plants would pay their own way wherever the volume of seed planted in the locality is large enough to support two or three gins."

Motor Vehicle Owners Should Check Titles

AUSTIN — The Motor Vehicle Division of the Texas Highway Department today urged all Texas motor vehicle owners to see that the titles for vehicles to be registered in 1946 are in order. The law provides that before a vehicle may be registered, the owner must present to the Tax Collector the prior year's registration receipt and must have a title.

Many people do not understand the importance and value of the Title Act, and do not realize that the Certificate of Title Act was passed to improve the validity of titles on motor vehicles thereby making such title comparable to an abstract on real estate.

Motor vehicle owners who have acquired used vehicles, and who have received assigned titles from the previous owners, are urged to apply at once for their titles in order that the transactions may be recorded and the new owners shown on the title records of the Department. Motor vehicle owners are also urged to register their equipment by purchasing the 1946 license plates as soon as possible. It is a common practice throughout the State for owners to wait until the last week in March, thereby creating congested conditions and long lines of applicants in the various Tax Collector's offices. The County Tax Collectors are experiencing difficulty in obtaining temporary help, and you will be helping them and yourselves by obtaining 1946 license plates during February or in the first part of March and not waiting until the last day or days.

There are some persons operating motor vehicles with out-of-state license plates who may legally operate under 1946 out-of-state license plates, and these persons are cautioned to obtain such 1946 plates and apply same on or before the expiration of their present plates. There are others operating motor vehicles with out-of-state license plates who must legally re-register in Texas, and these persons are advised to purchase Texas plates immediately to avoid having to pay a penalty in addition to the registration fee.

Particular attention of the owners of trucks, truck-tractors, trailers, semi-trailers and buses was called to the fact that they must be prepared to furnish the Tax Collector with a complete description as to the size, type and serial number, et cetera, of equipment to be registered, and must be prepared to register for the actual weight of the empty vehicle plus the heaviest load to be carried, which under the law cannot be less than the manufacturer's rated carrying capacity. If in doubt as to the actual weight, the owners of commercial vehicles should have them weighed and present the weight certificate at the time of registration.

New West Point Exams March 5

Colonel Robert L. Hardy, West Texas Army recruiting officer, recently announced "West Point exams will soon begin and World War II veterans up to 24 years of age, sons of deceased veterans of World War II, and sons of Congressional Medal of Honor winners will, for the first time, participate in the annual entrance examination for admission to the United States Military Academy at West Point." The examination will be held at 24 military posts throughout the country on March 5, and successful candidates will be eligible for admission to the Academy, in accordance with existing vacancies, when the next regularly scheduled term begins on July 1.

Colonel Hardy stated, "As a result of recent legislation veterans with at least a year's honorable service in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard are now eligible for appointment to fill vacancies at the Military Academy at any time between their seventeenth and twenty-fourth birthdays." Previously the top age limit for entrance was 22 years. The new law was enacted to provide for men who might have applied for admission had they not been serving in the armed forces. These men, however, must meet the usual entrance requirements.

For the first time sons of deceased veterans of World War II may compete in the same examination for the 40 cadships which were set aside by Congress in 1926 for the sons of deceased veterans of World War I. These men do not need Congressional nomination. Their letters of application giving their full name, address and date of birth, together with information necessary to identify their father's record of service, must have been received in the War Department by February 15. Those who qualified for appointment will be issued authority to compete in the March entrance examination.

In addition, under further provisions of law, sons of Congressional Medal of Honor winners will be appointed by the President to take the examination. Congressional nomination is not needed for these men, and the same rules governing applications for the sons of deceased veterans apply to them.

"The recent legislation giving preference to veterans and sons of veterans does not in any way lower the qualifications for admission to the Military Academy," Colonel Hardy stated. "All candidates must qualify from a physical and academic standpoint just as in the past."

World Co-operation Is Necessary For Survival

Nations of the world must work together and in harmony if they expect to survive, Morris H. Coers declared Friday night, October 15, in the first of four forums of the Institute of International Understanding sponsored by the Wellington Rotary Club.

Mr. Coers based his observations and opinions upon his own experiences in Europe, both before and during World War II, in which he served as a Red Cross worker. His discussion was "Making International Organization Effective."

As a background to the main part of his talk, Mr. Coers gave something of conditions he had seen in Europe and the Near East, particularly before the war. He pointed out that in Italy there were many successes in Mussolini's regime, such as good roads and schools, and personal safety which had not existed previously.

"While I was there in 1938 and '39, I don't believe I saw a single person who was not for Mussolini. Only in the lower tip of Italy was there any opposition at all," he recalled. "When I was back in Italy during this war, I did not see a single person that was for Mussolini. But that is only human nature. Two thousand years ago the crowd cried 'Hosannah' one day and 'Crucify Him' the next. Even here in America we have sometimes turned against our leaders."

Of the Jewish-Arab situation in Palestine he said:

"The Jew and Arab could live together in peace if it were not for the outsiders."

Mr. Coers paid tribute to the great spirit of the American boys who fought in the war, and decried the selfish interest that at the same time operated to slow down military operations and gave profit to a few.

With this as a background, Mr. Coers declared that international organization was necessary.

"And we had better make international organization effective," he emphasized. He referred to the atomic bomb and its potential use.

"Scientists have told me that within a few hours the 20 key cities of the country could be destroyed," the speaker said, and a few minutes later added, "It is not a question of whether we like the Russians and whether the Russians like us. We have got to work together."

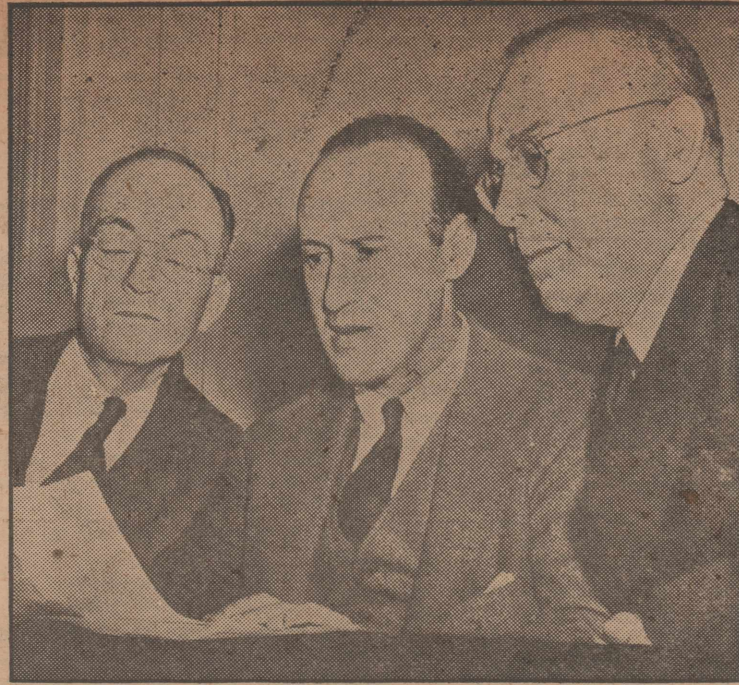

"We are going to have to pay a tremendous price for world organization," Mr. Coers warned. He reminded that just a few years ago England was arming Germany as a buffer against Russia, and that the United States sent its scrap iron to Japan. "The Chinese remember this. And that was a frankenstein that turned against us," he said.

"One of the hardest things that we will have to do will be to put aside our prejudices," the speaker pointed out.

World organization must have power, Mr. Coers continued. It must be able to prevent one country from committing acts of aggression against another. He recognized that there will be opposition to this power and the feeling by many that it will be giving up a portion of a nation's sovereignty, but if this is what it takes to maintain peace, the speaker declared himself in favor of it.

In conclusion, Mr. Coers told his audience that making world organization effective is an individual job. Business and professional men don't want to be in politics, he acknowledged, but at the same time he reminded that people must be educated for peace, just as they were educated for war.

Again expressing the belief that nations can work together in harmony, he concluded, "Our enemy is the one that builds the wrongs."

Mr. Coers discussed briefly the UNO during the question and answer period that followed his talk.

"It has to be a trial and error period," he pointed out. "But I think we are ahead of where we were in 1919." America must take the leadership in the UNO, he urged. "We let Russia grab the chairmanship in the UNO, and then we got peeved about it. We led in war and we must lead in peace." Growth of UNO must be by the evolutionary process, but it has got to be all powerful until war can be outlawed. The speaker felt that in the atomic age, there is no time for the veto power.

Mr. Coers felt that the differences between Russia and other members of the UNO during the current conferences are a good sign—an indication that they are bringing their problems out in the open and not resorting to kid-glove diplomacy.

Asked if he believed that socialization of industries would work in the United States as it has in foreign countries, the speaker declared himself firmly against it and added that he believed if America did adopt socialization of industries there would be a major breakdown in the country. He added that he believed that many of the countries that claimed to have socialism in Europe did not have it at all.
