On The BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr.

Crows are again swarming over the countryside it seems in as large number as were here last year when thousands of them were killed with dynamite blasting gravel into their roosting places.

The crows are roosting in the same area again and are becoming quite bothersome as well as destructive and they have farmers and county officials scratching their heads trying to think up some method of destroying them.

County Judge Elmer Martin told this editor Thursday night that an effort will be made to interest officials in several surrounding counties together with the game commission in an effort to come up with something.

The author of this column has been saying, both publicly and privately, for years that Loraine ought to do something that it isn't doing to attract more business to our town. We need to expand our territory in every direction. How that could best be done should be decided by all of the business interests getting in a huddle for the purpose.

Right now of course most of us are having a fairly good business, some extra good, but there are not many who would not agree that his business could stand a lot more income. Lets get together for a study of our problems anyway.

Well the football season is over for the Loraine Bulldogs. During the season Coach Dodds, Coach Kimzey and all of the boys did an excellent job. The boys played good hard football. They won their district. They met defeat in the bi-district game but they need not be ashamed of the way they played the game, Knox City was just too much for them.

New Land Use Adjustment Programs Assigned ASCS

The development and administration of the new land-use adjustment programs authorized under the new Food and Agriculture Act of 1962-recently enacted by Congress-will be the responsibility of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has announced. ASCS and County Committees will be responsible for the day-to-day operations of the programs. The Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service will be responsible for the technical phases of "those practices for which technical assistance is required."

In a press conference announcing the mobilization of the full resources of the Department in a far-reaching attempt "to create new economic opportunity, update wasteful and outmoded patterns of land use and infuse new vitality into rural America," the Secretary said that he had established policies and assigned to various agencies the responsibility of various segments of the coordinated Rural Areas Development (RAD) program.

The objectives of the long-range land-use adjustment programs assigned primarily to ASCS, the Secretary declared, are to help farmers and ranchers to: A. Permanently convert to other productive use land regularly used in but not suited for the production of crops. B. Permanently convert to other productive use land regularly used in the production of crops that is suited to that use only occasionally. C. Convert to other uses land used in, and suited for, production of crops, but not currently needed for crops.

"These new programs," he said, "will enable farmers to expand grasslands, to expand and improve woodlands, and to develop recreational use of private lands.

"To encourage farmers to participate in long-range land-use changes, the Department can offer them transition or adjustment payments to lessen the immediate economic impact of the change from crops to other uses, as well as cost-sharing, including materials, services, and other assistance they may need for conservation measures.

"Agreements with farmers and ranchers to convert land to non-crop uses will be made at the local level by the ASCS county committees. The agreements will be based on farm conservation plans which farmers have developed in cooperation with local soil and water conservation districts and with technical help from the Soil Conservation Service.

The new programs will be started at the earliest possible date in selected counties to test the administrative feasibility and effectiveness of these long-term programs for general application."

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cushing, Sandra and Joe were in Gainesville during the holidays visiting in the home of his mother Mrs. Beulah Nugent, and her parents Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hatcher, and other relatives.

Bogus Social Security Books Offered For Sale

Erven L. Fisher, social security district manager in Big Spring today warned the public to be wary of advertisements promoting the sale of books that promise to tell how to "get around" certain provisions in the social security law.

Some of these advertising materials, Mr. Fisher noted, say that books, offered for sale at $1.95, $2.99, $3.99, and sometimes $5.00, will also show "How to get social security for doing absolutely nothing."

"Actually," Mr. Fisher said, "these books cannot tell the reader anything basic about the social security law that he would not find in the free booklets and leaflets available at the Big Spring Social Security District Office."

In fact, if advice contained in some of the books were followed it might result in extensive investigation by this office and thus delay social security payments rather than expedite their issuance. Further, following some of the advice might place the individual in a worse rather than a better financial position.

Be zealous to be found by him without spot or blemish, and at peace. (II Peter 3:14. RSV.)

One day while riding on a train in Japan, I began talking with a young married man, the father of two small children. We got on the subject of happiness. Finally he said, "You who have faith forget how unhappy one can be if you could remember the unhappiness of those of us without faith, you would be more zealous in trying to help us."

I then tried to recall my life without Christ, its uncertainty and lack of purpose, its burdens and loneliness. However, my life had been changed when Christ and I became one. Life took on new meaning; it became purposeful. I entered into fellowship with Him. To be like Him became my goal. In the place of loneliness, I found Christian friends abundant. I began to enjoy the fruits of peace.

It is true that in the midst of my happiness I have many times forgotten my fellowmen, many of whom know not peace and joy because they know not Jesus Christ. I need God's forgiveness every time I forget that my happiness cannot be complete until I have earnestly tried to give it to my neighbor.

Prayer: Dear Father, as I have so freely received from Thee, help me in return to give. As I meet my neighbor today, give me wisdom to pray for him. For Christ's sake and in His name. Amen.

Farmers Lose Money On Special Condition Bales

Farmers lose money each year as a result of "special condition" bales of cotton. Most of these special condition bales that create problems in classing, reclass, and marketing can either be avoided or corrected, says B. B. Manly, Jr., Officer-in-Charge of the USDA's Cotton Classing Office in Abilene. As the name implies, a "special condition" bale is different from an ordinary bale and requires special attention. They may be Repacked, False Packed, Water-Packed, Small "plates" and numerous other conditions. In most cases, it is necessary to correct these conditions before the farmer can market his cotton advantageously. Repacked cotton is common throughout the harvest season. "Repacks" are a result of combining two or more remnants or small bales regardless of whether they belong to the same farmer or whether they may be of the same quality. In other words, any time that a bale is put back into the Gin Press and more cotton is added, the resulting bale is considered to be repacked and must be identified as such. These bales are not eligible to be put into the CCC Loan Program. Water-Packed and False Packed bales are not too common as they can usually be prevented. Water Packed bales are bales damaged by water, usually caused by being exposed to the weather or standing in water while in storage. False-Packed bales are bales that have the appearance of normal bales on the outside but the interior is made up of lower quality cotton, inferior cotton, linters, or even substances entirely foreign to cotton. Small plates of inferior cotton on one side of the bale are very common. These "plates" may be caused in many ways. One of the most common causes is turning the Gin Press too quickly between trailers of cotton. When samples from special condition bales are sent to the USDA's Cotton Classing Office the Class Cards that are returned to the farmer will indicate that such a condition exists. These bales may be then be corrected by the Ginners or Warehouseman by removing the inferior portion of the bale.

Such bales are then eligible for a Review Classification. The form requesting that the bale be reclassified must indicate that the bale has been "reworked" and exactly what was done to the bale. Any operation short of the addition of cotton is called "reworked". Where the sample from a reworked bale is reviewed the Class Card will carry the notation "reworked to remove plate". The bale is then a normal bale and can be sold or placed in the CCC Loan Program. Not all bales can be "reworked". They may be damaged beyond repair. Usually this can only be determined after the bale is opened and inspected. Next week, in answer to the many questions arising this time of the year, Mr. Manly plans to write an article on the subjects of Mixed-Packed bales and Review Classification. Cotton harvesting in District 2 progressed steadily last week according to Mr. Manly. However many farmers are waiting for a "killing" frost before beginning full operations. District 2 is composed of the Counties surrounded by Dickens, Sterling, Brown, and Jones Counties. Grades in District 2 dropped slightly last week with only 4 percent being classed in the White Grade category. Sixty-eight percent was Light Spotted and 28 percent was Spotted. A further breakdown of some of the more predominant grades show: Middling made up 2 percent; Strict Low Middling, 2 percent; Middling Light Spot, 39 percent; Strict Low Middling, 26 percent; Middling Spot, 16 percent and Strict Low Middling Spot, 10 percent. Staple length also dropped off some from the preceding week. The predominant staple length was 15.16, which made up 64 percent of the total classed. Two percent was classed as 1-inch or longer; 5 percent as 31.32; 28 percent, 29.32 and 1 percent, 7.8 inch. Micronaire readings showed a slight decline last week; however, 90 percent was 3.5 and higher with 26 percent of this total being 4.5 and higher. Market activity remained steady. Some of the average prices received are: Middling

Light Spot 15.16, 30.52; Middling Light Spot 29.32, 29.88; Strict Low Middling Light Spot 15.16, 29.35; Middling Spot 15.16, 28.91 and Strict Low Middling Spot 15.16, 27.98. The classing office classed a total of 25,272 samples last week. This brings the season's total to 154,701 at the close of business Friday. OPEN HOUSE TO SHOW NEW SCHOOL FOR BOYS The Texas Youth Council has invited the general public to attend the Dedication and Open House of the new Mountain View School for Boys and the Open House activities at the Gatesville State Schools for Boys located near Gatesville, Texas, on Saturday, December 1, 1962. Governor Price Daniel will be the Dedication speaker for the new $2 million Mountain View School, a security treatment institution designed for the treatment and training for 480 delinquent boys. Governor-elect John Connally, members of the Legislature, state officials, judges, juvenile officers and interested citizens from all over the state have been invited, and it is anticipated that they will attend. Following the Dedication and Open House at the Mountain View School, the general public and officials are invited to visit and inspect the Gatesville State Schools for Boys composed of the following open-type training units: Hilltop School (250 boys) with the Reception Center (100 boys); Terrace School (240 boys); Valley School (160 boys); Riverside School Unit I (160 Negro boys); and Riverside School Unit II (160 Negro boys). Construction on the Hackberry School (for 240 boys) is nearing completion. The Council is eager to have as many citizens as possible visit these new institutions and see for themselves the many new facilities, new programs, and other improvements recently completed. "Texas training schools for delinquent boys can no longer be thought of as mass custody institutions where large numbers of young offenders are held under overcrowded conditions," said Dr. James A. Truman, Texas Youth Council Executive Director. "The people of Texas can point with pride to these modern facilities and training programs as major accomplishments of recent years." Dr. Truman issued the Open House invitation to the general public in behalf of the Texas Youth Council members: Robert W. Kneebone, Houston, Chairman; Louis M. Henna, Round Rock; and Guy D. Newman, Brownwood.

Last year U. S. fishermen spent a total of $52,851,224 for licenses. Hunters planked down $64,026,782.

There are figures just released by the United States Department of Interior. For the first time the total figures include all 50 states.

In total 19,394,177 sports fishermen and 11,798,890 hunters bought licenses.

Actually, even these staggering figures do not include all who hunt and fish. Many sportsmen need no licenses because of age, legislative exemptions, or methods of fishing.

Also, there are a great many hunters and fishermen who fail to pay their share of the cost of wildlife conservation by going without licenses.

Texas ranked eighth in the sale of fishing licenses. Receipts totaled $1,875,308 for 872,236 licenses.

It must be remembered, however, that Texas has a universal license of $2.15 for all fishermen, including non-resident. As such it is the lowest-priced license in the U. S.

All other states issue non-resident licenses for just a few days of fishing, at a much higher price than Texas for a whole year. Texas ranks tenth in the sale of hunting licenses. A total of $1,652,631 was paid in Texas for 52,805 licenses. Of this total 3,971 were non-resident buyers. The non-resident license sells for $25, except in the case of the migratory bird license which sells for $5.

New York ranked first in hunting licenses purchased, with a total of $5,783,969 received for 972,635 licenses issued, of which 38,614 were non-resident.

California topped all other states in fishing licenses with $6,218,457 received from 3,466,589 licenses, of which 326,469 were non-resident.

Other states with more fishing licenses than Texas were Wisconsin $3,257,233 for 1,079,819 licenses, including 371,708 non-resident; Michigan, $2,707,418 for 1,308,715 licenses, 234,100 of them non-resident; New York, $2,390,242 for 735,000 licenses, 46,818 non-resident; Minnesota $2,286,246 for 1,418,275 licenses, 306,584 non-resident; Missouri, $2,186,265 for 1,556,546 licenses, 99,257 non-resident; and Pennsylvania $1,998,669 for 597,716 licenses, 24,088 non-resident.

In hunting, other states ahead of Texas were Michigan $4,834,419 for 1,149,376 licenses, 17,812 non-resident; Pennsylvania $4,331,575 for 1,295,416 licenses, 45,486 non-resident; California $3,759,747 for 1,338,399 licenses, 1,608 non-resident; Colorado $3,307,058 for 371,959 licenses, 62,734 non-resident (mostly Texans); Wisconsin $2,721,720 for 671,317 licenses, 9,641 non-resident; Washington $2,077,589 for 569,363 licenses, 731 non-resident; Wyoming $1,911,177 for 172,029 licenses, 38,427 non-resident; and Oregon $1,834,129 for 625,571 licenses, 3,559 non-resident.

All these figures represent not only the fishing and hunting licenses, but the special tags, permits, etc., which would in some cases include commercial fishing licenses. But they do represent the total number of persons paying money for some type of license.

These figures should be significant to Texans, who have the greatest deer population in the United States and some of the best fishing waters. They also should be very significant to those who have not taken hunting and fishing seriously as an economic asset.

It also is generally recognized that Texans make up the bulk of the hunters and fishermen who go to Colorado, and even a greater portion of those who go to Wyoming.

With Texas wildlife population on the increase, more landowners making their property available to hunters and more dams being constructed which will impound good fishing waters, these figures in Texas are likely to increase heavily within the next few years.

This will provide more funds for the development of the wild life resources in more limited areas. And areas are becoming more limited every year with the increase in population and the expansion of our urban areas.

For instance, one interstate highway across Texas built to present day standards will require something like 100,000 acres of land. Since much of this area is rural, highway construction alone is knocking out a lot of good hunting territory.

This means that the conservation program makes provisions for this wildlife in wider areas. This is done with the aid of funds from the hunting and fishing licenses.

Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it. (Ephesians 5:25)

A church I once served as pastor was discussing the idea of renovating the sanctuary and adding a church school annex. When the matter of finances was brought up, an elderly man who loved the church and was faithful in his support of it rose and made a persuasive statement.

He said, "I don't think you could make a better investment anywhere than in the church." His statement and the demonstration of its truth in his life exerted a great influence upon the people. He helped them decide in favor of the proposed undertaking.

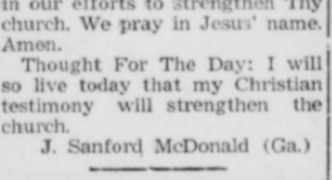

When we invest our time, talents and treasures in the church, we know they will not be lost or wasted. We should love Christ and the church so much that we would be ready to die for them.

But the more pressing need is to live for them. An investment of our total lives in its daily ministry will strengthen Christ's church and further enable it to accomplish its mission in the world.

Prayer: O Father, we thank Thee for Thy church and for the privilege of sharing in its ministry to mankind. Keep us faithful in our efforts to strengthen Thy church. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

Thought For The Day: I will so live today that my Christian testimony will strengthen the church.

He plans a career in teaching and coaching athletics. As a result of his selection as "Young Texan of the Month," Wilkinson will receive the state's highest youth recognition award—the Troy V. H'arm Facts

According to Francis E. Clark, U. S. Department of Agriculture microbiologist, earthworms are to be considered an indication of good soil fertility rather than its cause.

Sharp differences of opinion exist, he says, concerning the relationship of earthworms to soil fertility. Some people insist that earthworms almost singlehandedly are responsible for good fertility. Clark notes in the USDA's Yearbook of Agriculture that such a viewpoint has little basis in fact. He says organic residues ejected by earthworms are poorer in nutrients than the original residues ingested.

The beneficial effects of earthworms on plant growth are largely those associated with improved aeration and improved till. They are important in making surface organic residues with the underlying soil.

Earthworms in an acre can bring 20 tons of soil a year to the surface. Their burrowing activity is most intense in the top 6 inches, although some tunnels extend to depths of 6 feet.

Earthworms flourish best in well drained soils that contain abundant organic matter and a continuous supply of available calcium. They may number millions per acre.

What is the Answer?
Q. Are quail and partridge the same bird?
A. Technically, no. Both belong to the same family, but the quail (or bob white) is smaller than the true partridge. In certain parts of the country, the two names are interchanged. In some Southern states, for example, quail are called partridge.

This winding crown caps a Rolex watch in more ways than one. Without its extraordinary twin locking mechanism, the watch could not be absolutely waterproof. A Rolex Oyster Perpetual must be 100% impervious* to water, dust, sand, grit—anything that would impair its accuracy. Twin locking is a double safety device that screws the crown down snug into the case. It's a Rolex exclusive—just one of a multitude of features that makes this watch much more than a timepiece. With a Rolex, you're not just keeping time, you're gaining a possession. We'd be delighted to show you why. *When case, crown and crystal are intact.

DEPENDABLE POWER
for RURAL INDUSTRY
There was a time when rural industry consisted of the saw mill, the cotton gin, and little else. Then the rural electric systems were organized and rural industry began to hum. Industries native to the rural area were joined by a host of manufacturing, industrial and processing projects, attracted by the steady, dependable, efficient electric service furnished by these member-owned electric systems. Farms and ranches became more productive and a billion dollar a year market for electric appliances was created.
The electric cooperatives of Texas have been good for everybody, warming the hearts and homes of rural citizens, creating a billion dollar a year market for home town merchants and furnishing dependable power for rural industry.

WOOL GROWERS URGED TO KEEP RECORDS
Wool growers who marketed lambs this fall should keep adequate records of their sales so that they will be able to make proper applications for payment under the wool incentive program. Rex T. McKenney, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Community A Committee, urged today.

The sales record for lambs sold must include the name of the buyer, his signature, and the number of liveweight lambs sold, plus the description "unshorn". Lamb payments are made only on lambs that have never shorn to encourage the customary practice of selling lambs with the wool on.

The Chairman emphasized that growers should get all their fall sales records together and either keep them in a safe place at home or file them at the ASCS County Office. The final date to apply for payments on 1962-63 marketings is next April 30, but an application may be submitted anytime between now and then. The applications cover wool and lamb marketings from April 1, 1962, through March 31, 1963.

Mr. McKenney said that lamb feeders particularly should keep accurate records which will establish the length of time they have owned lambs on which they apply for payment. Lamb payments are made only on lambs which a producer has owned for 30 days or more, and the amount of payment is based on weight gain of the lambs during the seller's ownership.
