exceeding that of a year ago, by a wide margin. Retail merchants in the rural sections are buying more freely, but there is no evidence that they are overstocking their shelves. Sales of department stores in larger cities reflected a seasonal decline of 53 per cent as compared with December volume, but were 2 per cent greater than a year ago.

Financial Conditions
Financial conditions reflected but little change during the month. Federal Reserve bank loans to member banks rose from $377,792 on Dec. 31 to $2,777,227 on Feb. 15, due largely to the demand for funds by the reserve city banks, and on the latter date were $579,507 greater than on the same date last year.

While the combined deposits of member banks which amounted to $392,670,000 on Jan. 11, were $3,618,000 less than on Dec. 7, they were $102,372,500 above those on Jan. 25, 1927. The Federal Reserve bank of Dallas raised its discount rate from 3 1/2 to 4 per cent, effective Feb. 8.

Activity of building, as measured by the value of permits issued at principal cities, while 7 per cent less than in December was 2 per cent greater than in January of last year. Construction work in the majority of reporting cities is expanding.

KAHN WINS MILE IN EASY FASHION IN GOTHAM MEET

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Lloyd Kahn has added the "mile of the century" to his long string of triumphs on the boards this winter.

The short stepping Boston flier ran Ray Conner of the Illinois A. C. and Dr. Otto Peltzer, German champion, into the ground in the international mile, feature of the Knights of Columbus meet last night, but failed by a full second to equal the world's indoor record for the distance.

The 20,000 fans who packed Madison Square Garden also saw the sensational rise of Barney Berlinger, 19 year old freshman at the University of Pennsylvania, into the top rank of America's all-around athletes. He galloped off with first honors in the septathlon, defeating such stars as Falt Elkings of Nebraska, national title holder; Harold Osborn, Olympic champion, and Emerson Morton, Osborn's Illinois A. C. team mate.

Set His Own Pace
Kahn's failure to realize his ambition to break the indoor record for the mile of 4:12, held jointly by Paavo Nurmi and Joe Ray, was due chiefly to the fact that he was forced to make his own pace the whole way. Taking the lead with the gun, he pounded away steadily at a pace his rivals did not care to better. For six laps the three runners hung closely together, with Conner second and Peltzer third. At this stage Kahn began to draw away. At the close of the ninth lap, Kahn flashed a spurt that carried him to the tape 25 yards in front of Conner, while the Teuton champion, exhausted, lagged into the finish line some distance behind. Kahn's time was 4 minutes, 13 seconds, the fastest mile of the season.

Delinquent taxes collected during the past month totaled $1,154,823, a number of them being paid up from several years delinquency.

Totaling $301,978.29 for October, November, December, January and February, $24,066.54 more in state and county taxes were collected this year in Lubbock county than in the same period last year, a report in the office of County Tax Collector I. F. Holland showed today. Last year's total on March 1 was $277,922.84.

February's total for this year was $7,787.93 as compared to $7,727.06 collected in February of 1927. Fully 90 per cent of the 1927 taxes have been collected. Mr. Holland reports, a greater percentage than

MOITY DEFENSE GIVEN SETBACK BY STATE PLEA

PATROLMAN AND TAXI DRIVER DESCRIBE SLAYER'S ACTION

(By Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, March 1.—Henry Moity's prospective defense of transitory insanity for the slaying of his wife was given a setback under questioning of witnesses by the prosecution yesterday, but no indication was given by either side as to what procedure would be followed.

The defense reverse came when Patrolman Lee Dakin, who talked with Moity early on the morning of October 27, 1927, shortly after his wife, Mrs. Theresa Moity and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Moity, had been slain in an apartment, and Evan Morgan, a former taxi-cab driver who carried Moity away from the apartment with the three children, testified that the confessed slayer was not drunk, but probably had been drinking.

When the state planned to introduce the confession of Moity, in which he is alleged to have admitted killing the two women with a large can knife while they slept and placing their bodies in two trunks in his home, had not been announced.

Taking of evidence was begun yesterday afternoon after the selection of a jury had consumed more than two days. Three witnesses, including Corporal George P. Roelke, testified concerning the discovery of the bodies and the circumstances surrounding the finding of the dismembered bodies in the trunks.

Others, including a negro woman who occupied rooms in the rear of the building where the Moitys resided, testified regarding quarrels between the couple.

Patrolman Dakin asserted on the stand that he met Moity on the street between 1:40 and 2 a. m. the night of the slaying. He described the witness as "well dressed."

"I spoke to Henry, Dakin testified, and he started a conversation with me. Knowing that he and his wife had been having trouble, I asked him how they were getting along. He said he was going to leave her and take her to the hotel. He told me he was drinking again, but I told him, 'You don't look like you've had anything to drink.' I hit him on the coat pocket with my night stick and ran my hands over his back pocket to see if he had a gun. You know I haven't got a gun, Whiter," he told me, and I answered that it wouldn't hurt anything to search him. I wouldn't harm a hair on his head," he said. When I told him I knew that he wouldn't hurt his wife, but that a man who said he had been drinking might do anything he walked away.

Morgan testified that Moity had come to him about 2 a. m. and asked to move his children to their apartment. He stated that he found the children on a mattress at the top of the stairs and that they then proceeded to their destination. Moity had explained that he had had trouble with his wife and that he was going to leave her. The witness testified that Moity did not appear to be drunk but that he might have been drinking.

Texas Authorities Scoff At Reports

HUNTSVILLE, Mar. 1.—Reports from Kansas City that Joe Furey, Texas swindler, had been sentenced there for swindling, were given no credence here today by officials of the Texas penitentiary system.

"Furey died in the prison hospital on July 26, 1922," L. C. Dewalt, assistant warden, said. "There was absolutely no doubt of his identification. His body was sent to Los Angeles where burial was made. I understand that there was a question of doubt raised at that time and the body was exhumed and again identified. But there was never any doubt here. Bertillon records of Furey were compared with those of the dead man and his identity established with certainty at the time of his death for the prison records," Dewalt declared.

Similar Man Released
Dewalt said that another man convicted at about the time Furey was sentenced bore a striking resemblance to Furey. This other man was released in 1926, Dewalt said. He expressed the opinion that this was the man who claimed to be Furey.

Dr. L. G. Bush, prison physician who treated Furey during his fatal illness, also said that there was no doubt that it was Furey who died.

U. S. MARINES

John C. Purno, Crum's Bluffs, Texas, and Albert Scauaga, Jamestown, N. D., those who died from their wounds were Corporal Cicero D. Austin, Crockett, Texas, and Private Curtis J. Mott, Trenton, Wash.

Private Leon C. Davis, whose address was not given, was seriously wounded, being shot in the left shoulder.

Ranger Man Wounded
Those slightly wounded included Private Linton C. Maynard, Ranger, Texas, shot in elbow, and Corporal Fred W. Smith, Ranger, Texas, shot in the back.

Other Encounters
Other marine patrols came into contact with rebels scattered bands during the last few days. There were no marine casualties, however. Six marines and nine national guardsmen drove off a band of thirty which fired at them at long range when they were about eight miles north of Tampico.

A plane was fired on near Jico, from a barn. The flyers, Lieut. Michael Wodarsky and Sergeant Thomas Whitman, returned the fire and bombed the building.

Newspaper Story First Information
SAN ANTONIO, March 1.—A newspaper story saying that her son, George E. Robbins, had been killed with four other marines in a Nicaraguan ambush was the first word of his mother, Mrs. Aenes Robbins of this city, had had of her son in five weeks, she said today.

City Fines Total $706 In February
A total of 85 fines aggregating $706 were collected by the Lubbock police department during the month of February, the monthly report of Desk Sergeant J. T. Inman showed today. This brings the year's total to $1,793. Two hundred and three fines have been collected since January 1.

Tattooed Initials
On one arm the initials 'E. J. F.' were tattooed.

Barrentine testified Furey met him at a hotel here last November and offered to sell him some liquor. When they left the hotel a third man stopped them. Furey and the confederate accused the man of selling narcotics. They offered to accept $1,500 bond, but Barrentine refused and notified the police.

Furey conducted his own defense in court. He was sentenced by Judge Merrill E. Otis to serve three years in prison.

Building Permits Continue To Climb

Building, showing greater activity in the past sixty days than in any period of the permit records, continued climbing toward the half million mark today and permits totaling $13,250 sent the year's total to $387,735.

February's building total was $113,030. Eighty six permits have been issued since January 1. Permits today were: $6,000 to J. G. Wilson for a five room brick veneer residence on lot 22, block 79, Overhill addition; W. S. Moss, $4,250 for 8 room brick duplex for Mrs. J. A. Payne on lots 23 and 24, block 59, McCrummen addition; W. S. Moss, $3,000, five room frame residence for Thomas E. Boyd on lot 13, block 60, Crosslaw and $3,000 to R. A. Coker for a five room brick veneer residence for Chas. C. Donnell on lot 20, block 4, Perkins addition.

Barrymore Victim Of Real Fist Fight

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 1.—John Barrymore hero of many stage and screen duels today was in seclusion asserted as the result of being the loser in a "real fight" which lasted about ten minutes, on the lawn of the Ambassador hotel Saturday night.

Myron Selznick, film agent, who said he had resented Barrymore's "sturring remarks" about his nationality, gave his opinion that the actor would not be seen in public "for at least several days."

At the motion picture studio which features Barrymore in the film, it was declared that the actor left on Monday for a movie location. His friends reported him missing, and neither the actor nor his representatives issued any denial of the fist fight or Selznick's account of it.

THE JAZZ SINGER

Novelized by Asline De Haas
Taken from the scenario 'The Jazz Singer', Starring Al Jolson.
Copyright, 1927, By Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS
Cantor Rabinowitz, who has trained his son, Jakie, to be a cantor, finds the job singing jazz in a beer garden. He whips the child and Jakie runs away. Ten years elapse. Jakie, now Jack Robin, obtains a job singing jazz through Mary Dale, a dancer. Mary returns to New York to star in a musical comedy and gets Jack a part. Jack returns home for the first time in years, but when the Cantor hears he is a jazz singer he drives him out. Jack has never told Mary of his family and becomes embarrassed when, at rehearsals, the publicity man, Forbes, questions him.

Well, that's all right, then, as long as you don't care. Forbes agreed cheerfully, and not at all anxious to make up his own story for he had found the life histories of most theatrical people to be so much the same that he had to use all his ingenuity anyhow. Added to which most of them became very much upset when he introduced a few of his own deft touches, the lack of which would have kept the story out of any paper. 'I'll just stick in a few lines about the East Side—probably a singing waiter in a bowery dive—pious father—objects to stage.'
'No-o-o,' Jack started nervously at Forbes' words. 'I don't think you'd better do that—it wouldn't be so good anyhow. Too common.'
'But it's got a lot of color and it usually works,' Forbes insisted.
'Well, I don't like it,' Jack was becoming obstinate now.
'Go ahead and write anything you like, Forbes,' Lee spoke sharply.
'I'm sorry, Mr. Lee,' Jack looked pitifully toward Mary for help. 'I don't want to be mean, only I'm rather sensitive about my childhood—Oh, not that there was anything wrong with it, but—'
'Mary sensed some trouble, and she rather suspected what was going on in Jack's mind. 'Look here, Mr. Forbes, why not to my discovery of Jack out in Frisco. He was singing in a cafe and I had never heard anything quite like it before.'
'Sure, that's all right. Go ahead,' Forbes began jotting down notes on the back of an envelope while Mary emboldened her story.
'You go ahead and fix this story up with Forbes, Mary,' Lee interrupted. 'I want Jack to go over that new song. We'll be over there,' he pointed across the stage.
'Mary nodded and the two crossed to the wings and began a rehearsal. As she talked Dillings came in from the stage entrance and waited until Forbes had finished his interview before he interrupted.
'Publicity man had concluded his questions and taken his leave Dillings sat down beside Mary.
'I haven't seen you for some time,' he began quite formally.
'Oh, I've been working like a dog, Randy. I'm sorry. But these days life is just one rehearsal after another, and by the time I get to bed at night I'm so tired I simply flop. What have you been doing?'
'Nothing in particular—a little bridge at the club. I thought I would take a look in this afternoon and see how things were going. What are you doing tonight?'
'Rehearsing, as usual.'
'What about dinner?'
'I'm going just to snatch a quick bite—and I told Jack Robin I'd run around the corner to the Chop House with him. By the way, you haven't met Jack yet, have you?'
'Mary had decided to take matters into her own hands. 'He's over there with Harry. Jack Yoo-hoo!' She motioned for Jack to come over without waiting for any answer from Dillings.
'Jack, I want you to meet Mr. Randolph Dillings. Randy, this is Mr. Jack Robin.'
'How do you do, Mr. Dillings,' Jack started to hold out his hand cordially, but on receiving no answering gesture from the other man he dropped back, somewhat abashed.
'How do you do,' Dillings answered coldly and looked away, furious at Mary for forcing him into this uncomfortable situation and not a little hurt at the faintly hidden smile that played over her face as she glanced back and forth between the two.
'It's a nice day,' Jack said at length, making another attempt at friendliness. But Dillings was staring straight ahead at Mary despairingly.
'I said it's a nice day,' Jack repeated, looking at Mary despairingly.
'Yes, Jack, it is a beautiful day,' Mary sent a wicked smile in Dillings' direction.
'Thank God, that's settled,' Jack looked about nervously. But since this man was a friend of Mary's he decided to make one last stand.
'You know, Mr. Dillings, Mary has spoken of you so often that I almost feel as though I know you or I'm sorry, Mary, but I've got to get along.' Dillings turned to the girl and bowed stiffly.
'Goodbye, Randy,' Mary walked half way across the stage out of earshot of Jack. 'I know you don't mean all this, so see you more or less soon.' She turned on her heel and went back to Jack, who had retired to a corner and was gazing mournfully after the departing figure.
'That's the angel of this show, isn't it?' Jack questioned Mary. 'I don't think he's very strong for me.'
'That's all right, Jack,' Mary placated him. 'Don't mind him. He's an old friend of mine—and the family's. He's quite frightfully rich, but just a bit old-fashioned. He didn't really mean to be rude. I know that. He's a good sort. He got together with Lee and talked about me, and that's one reason I'm here.'

Thought For Today Am I my brother's keeper? Gen. 4:9

IF the master takes no account of his servants, they will make small account of him, and care not what they spend, who are never brought to an audit.—Palmer

Changes Pace BY BRUCE CATTON IT HASN'T been such a long time since the surest way for a politician or a writer to gain popular favor was to get up in meetings and attack "the trusts"

The word "trust" was used, rather loosely, to include any and all business organizations larger than the small manufacturing plant or the average department store

Now, however, Edward A. Flinn, well-known Boston merchant, declares that the small business everywhere in the United States, is doomed. It can survive, he asserts, only by becoming a large concern

A few years ago such remarks would have created a furore. Liberal journals and statesmen everywhere would have declared and contradicted

Yet today these statements pass almost unheeded. We have ceased to distrust the big barriers and the big industries, instead we are beginning to look on them as our leaders

We have accepted business prosperity as the base of our civilization, so to speak. We have learned that it is not the glittering reform who can make conditions more comfortable and pleasing for us but the industrialist

For industry itself has changed front. No longer does an enlightened manufacturer seek to hamper down wages and boost prices to the limit. Instead, he is raising wages and lowering prices. He is giving us things that we never had before

To be sure, there are men who protest that mentally and spiritually we are becoming enervated that we are attempting to do by bread alone, that our prosperity is improving our bodies but deadening our minds

But such men see only one side of the picture. A worker in a vast factory may be only a cog in a machine, whereas his grandfather, yet the modern workman has more money and more leisure than his grandfather had, and with them he can win a greater spiritual development than his grandfather dreamed of

The soul rises easiest when the body is freed. Our dependence on our business leaders is sound. The path that stretches out before us, flanked by huge factories, great skyscrapers and the other signs of our culture, is full of promise

For A Boy's Lie An Iowa youth, 16 years old, testified in a recent performance, that he was accused of driving while intoxicated, and told a lie. He was caught at it. Brought to trial, he pleaded guilty to perjury and was sentenced to 10 years in the reformatory

That seems like an extremely severe sentence. Perjury to be sure is a deadly evil. It strikes at the very foundations of justice. But 10 years—for an 16-year-old boy! Will that solve the problem?

Can You See? Eye of man spans Atlantic, says a brilliant headline referring to the television that recently performed. Probably it's wonderful news, a triumph of science and all of that. Yet it does seem as if the real issue is not "how far can you see?" but "what can you see?"

THE PLAINSMAN

Says: That Girl on Broadway says she doesn't see any harm in girls smoking, providing they don't start so early as to be too young to handle matches.

Hon. Louis J. Wardlaw, Ft. Worth lawyer and a former West Texas ranchman, is nothing if he isn't original

Now who in the world ever think of these questions upon which to base a political campaign? The answer is "nobody but a politician."

Lubbock's elaborate plans for a county-wide hard-surface road campaign seems to have gone glimmering. To say exactly why it has failed the car store's wooden Indian might hurt somebody's feelings but the plans surely haven't been sidetracked because the need for paved roads has vanished

Some of these days most of the citizens of Lubbock county are going to have a vacant feeling in the pit of their stomachs when they drop off Hale county's north-south road highway into the mud of Lubbock county—and it's not going to be so long, either

And a short time after they experience that feeling they're going to have a similar one, when enroute home from Central Texas they guide their machines from off the paved highway in Scurry county and face the necessity of driving the balance of the way home on more or less pleasant-riding dirt highways

When these two happenings are experienced by Lubbock county folks they're going to start thinking about hard-surface roads in their own county—if they don't wake up before

And while we're on this subject of paved roads it is only natural to think of the outlets from the city and when you think of outlets from the city you can't help but think of subways

All of us realize that two of the principal outlets from the city—East Broadway and North Avenue—cross the Santa Fe railroad tracks and all of us also realize that a heavily traveled road crosses a railroad track the people who travel the road are courting DANGER

Now there are some people in Lubbock who will tell you that the Broadway crossing should get a subway first—and there are others who would say that the Avenue should be a subway first. As the Plainsman sees it there is very little, if any, choice in the matter

Both crossings need protection and need it badly and Lubbock's citizens should never be satisfied with one crossing if either crossing and none at the other

Everybody in the city who will look at the matter fairly will admit that both crossings should have subways—underpasses if you prefer that term—and should have them soon

The City commission has gone on record favoring BOTH subways. The Plainsman believes he is expressing the opinion of members of Lubbock's civic clubs when he says that they are overwhelmingly in favor of them and if that fact doesn't add impetus enough to the drive to put it over then there's something radically wrong with the way we're working on the proposition

The Santa Fe, of course, has to be taken into consideration and it may be that in the end the city, county and railroad company will have to split the cost of constructing the subways in three equal parts. However, the coming of another railroad may change the complexion of matters and somewhat the Santa Fe may be inclined to help defray the expense at a slightly larger percentage. It has been known to do that very thing and, unless The Plainsman is misinformed, two subways under Santa Fe tracks at Brownwood were paid for entirely by the railroad company

At any rate—and no matter how the expense is split we need subways on both Broadway and Avenue H and The Plainsman is in favor of having them at the earliest possible date. No compromise should satisfy the citizenship at large across the Atlantic if we are blind to certain things that are happening on our own doorstep. Let's let trans-Atlantic night wait until we have cleaned up a few messes like our oil scandals, our city slums, our coal strikes and the like

"Without-Or-With, Offense To Friends Or Foes, We Sketch Your World Exactly As It Goes."—Byron

Some Intelligent Folk Still Believe That Coolidge Is To Receive GOP Nomination, Rodney Dutcher Discovers

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—Now and then the subway sardine turns into a whale and slashes about in the water, leaving confusion and turmoil in his wake

Now and then, on a rain-splashed day, with the wind whipping a minor waterfall around the Times building, the half-light of the underground staidly becomes a terrifying spectacle. Standing at safe distance and watching the battle of milling mobs, I often have imagined that in such a scene is captured the spirit that moves the masses in time of revolution. Life, limb and the rights of others are forgotten. It becomes a great mob struggle for the clicking turnstiles, with women, children and old folk caught helplessly in the struggling stream

Here are people who, just a moment before hurried through the streets, more or less human beings, possessed of the usual decencies and chivalrous attitudes. Once they have joined the turbulent river, however, they are changed to something pushing, fighting organisms, ready to hurt or anything that stands in their way

It is not often that these scenes are staged. Ordinarily, the subway sardine is a long-suffering creature. He is willing to be crushed and pressed into sandwich shape while clinging precariously to a strap. He stands the sudden turns of the train and the sudden stops at stations. He grows accustomed to having his feet trod upon and his coat all but pulled off him

But when storms sweep the midtown belt, an unusual strain is put upon the Times Square station upon thousands pour in out of the street, choking the passageway and the walls that had from shuttle to main stem and from up-town to down-town platforms. The sweating figures in the "nickel-change" squads try to handle the crowd and finally give it up

A few days ago I saw a mob unheeded because the change windows had been choked, sweep down upon the gates, carrying the guards with it, opening the train guards ahead and crashing through the turnstiles—not one of them peering their fare. Police reserves with riot sticks came dashing in suddenly out of the rain, turning the melee into chaos

A New York mob in full swing, is a baffling and terrifying study in human nature displaying its ugliest moods

"THIS is another of those 'little stories' from off Broadway. He was a composer of very popular musical shows. She was a comedienne in the dirty-dirty attractions. They married and, after a time, found things didn't go along so well. So they divorced

Yet he still composes music for shows in which his ex-wife appears, and thinks her one of the best performers on the "big street." He is generally to be found in the audience several times a week, watching her sippers. He almost invariably sends her flowers on opening night, and many other nights as well. She still keeps an eye on the songs he writes for the shows. He is generally to be found in the audience several times a week, watching her sippers. They're two of the best friends on Broadway. Yet they couldn't stay married.

ADVERTISING A CITY The startling announcement that a fund of $450,000 is to be raised for the city—rather by the citizens of Dallas to be used solely for advertising purposes, is made by the Dallas News. The fund will be expended during a period of three years, at the rate of $150,000 per year, according to an announcement by the advertising committee.

The Dallas plan to spend nearly half a million dollars in community advertising is not by any means an unbusinesslike one. A whole year was devoted by a hard working committee to a study of the city and its needs, and capable engineers were employed to make surveys of the industrial and commercial structure of the city. Upon this mass of information, which has been carefully assorted and arranged, the advertising campaign of the city is to be based by the committee having it in charge. Every dollar will be spent along sound and conservative lines. It is stated, with the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce supervising the work.

Cities ought to advertise, and they ought to do it just as carefully as does the retail merchant—whose business progress depends upon it. Enormous sums of money have been wasted by cities which have launched spontaneous advertising campaigns, careless as to the methods employed and seeking only that vague result generally known as "publicity"

For the growing city, advertising is a necessity, just as it is for a growing business establishment; and when it is directed by the same principles that guide the retail merchant in his advertising, it pays most satisfactorily. Dallas is undertaking a stupendous task, but in a manner which encourages one to believe that it will be an unequalled success. Instead of mere "publicity" Dallas is seeking constructive advertising, which will sell Dallas and its resources and opportunities to countless patrons scattered throughout the country. Half a million dollars for advertising a city such as Dallas appears, at first thought, to be quite unusual; but we should remember that individual advertisers have spent millions of dollars in only one or two cities, and that only a nickel, why not half a million for advertising a city worth two or three hundred millions?—Brownwood Bulletin.

Cities too often do not let the balance of the world know just what is going on around their vicinity. They do not put out enough official information about the town. Towns should be kept up to the minute in improvements and in equipment. Men then let the people everywhere know about them. People are attracted to places where there is really something doing, and for that reason the benefits from advertising will be greater than the average town builder realizes.

TWO WOMEN DIE AS FIRE SWEEPS HOME FOR AGED

CHICAGO, March 1.—Fire sweeping an old women's home last night took two lives and sent a score of women, all more than 50 years old, running into the street in night clothing.

Mrs. Mary Coffey, 80, and Mrs. Mary Wallace, 60, were suffocated. Herbert Duggs, a one-arm negro youth of 19, fought his way through the smoke and carried Mrs. Catherine Swan, 75, to the street. Mrs. Sophie Beler, 64, was trapped on the third floor where she sprang to freedom by leaping out a window. Firemen rescued her by ladders.

An overheated furnace was given as the probable cause of the blaze. The fire was discovered shortly after the women had retired for the night. Smoke filled the three-story structure when firemen arrived.

Oil Lease Activity Grows Near Dallas DALLAS, March 1.—An increase in oil lease activity, based on a showing of oil in the well drilled by the Alford Oil company two miles north of Carrollton, Dallas county, is indicated by the filing of leases with the county clerk here. Twenty leases were filed Wednesday with a request for speedy recording.

Fifteen Year Goitre

Removed Texas Woman Wants Others To Know Her Experience with Home Treatment Mrs. N. A. Hollman, Honeygrove, Tex., says in her own home paper, the Honeygrove Signal: "My goitre bothered me terribly. Had such pains in my head and eyes. Had dizziness and choking spells. Two different treatments I did not do good. Then commenced to use Sordol. Quadruple the colorless liniment. Imagine my joy when in about a week the goitre began to disappear. Now after two months the goitre with its disagreeable symptoms is gone. I will be glad to tell of my full experience to anyone."

It is not expensive and is easy to use. Sold by all drug stores. For more information write Sordol Company, Mechanicsburg, O., or locally at Brown Drug Store.—Adv.

A Great Many "Sales" are made before the buyer reaches the shopping district

This is a busy age in which we live—every moment is filled with pleasure or duty, and buyers of luxuries, and necessities no longer have the time to go from store to store in search of the things they desire to buy.

They take the easiest method of shopping . . . they read the ads in The Avalanche and Journal. They make up their "buying minds" at their leisure in the home, when they can discuss the prospective purchase while they're all together. That's when a great deal of the merchandise is really "purchased." And that's why if you do not carry consistent advertising in these publications you are missing the opportunity to present your merchandise, service and prices to those who are constantly in need of the commodities you sell.

Advertising in The Avalanche and Journal creates buying confidence in you and your merchandise. It is an exhibition of your pride in that merchandise — its quality — its value, and if you fail to advertise it, and thereby delay its sale, You Are Losing Money; the money that comes through increased volume in sales and the profit that results therefrom.

A 28% Circulation Increase

—means that your advertising dollars buy more NOW than they ever have.
