All Red Point Rationing Out

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 — Rationing of all meats, canned fish, and food fats and oils, including butter, was ordered abandoned effective at midnight tonight.

The sweeping action left sugar as the only food commodity, and tires the only non-food item, remaining under the rationing programs instituted early in the war to assure supplies for military requirements and to provide equitable distribution.

CONTINUES IN CANADA

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 (AP)—Canada will continue rationing of meat in order to continue shipments to Great Britain and the European continent despite the end of rationing in the United States, Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King said today.

Canadians' meat ration is about two pounds a person each week. Butter also is rationed at the rate of one-half pound weekly.

Nearly All Foods Cleared

Besides butter and meat, foodstuffs removed from rationing included margarine, lard, shortening and cooking and salad oils.

The action was announced today by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson at a news conference, two days after he and Price Administrator Chester Bowles had laid the matter before President Truman.

Bowles, in a formal statement, hailed the rationing decision as "good news for everyone." He said his agency now will be able to concentrate uopn "holding the price line against increasing inflationary pressure."

Plenty of Meat

Anderson said there is an abundant supply of meats, including poultry. He said the supply should be sufficient to allow civilians consumption in December at an annual rate of 165 pounds compared with 145 now.

On the other hand, food fats — particularly butter—are expected to continue short of demands for some time.

Anderson did not say when consumers may be freed of sugar rationing. He did state, however, that because of a serious world-wide shortage, there is no "immediate prospect" of ending it.

Tires, on the other hand, may come off the ration list shortly after the first of the year, gov-

Sledges, Cutting Torches In Action

Yank Troops Wreck Jap Atomic Plants

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, Saturday, Nov. 24. (AP)—American troops wielding sledges, crowbars and cutting torches began today the destruction of five cyclotrons through which Japan worked on the secrets of atomic power.

By order of General MacArthur, occupation forces started at 10 a. m. (7 p. m. Friday, CST) to wreck a 200-ton American-made cyclotron an da smaller model in the Nishina laboratory in Tokyo; two smaller machines at Osaka Imperial university; and a fifth at Kyoto Imperial university.

Simuleaneously, American scientists after studying Japanese records asserted that the Nipponese had made "no important progress toward working out the principles involved in the atomic bomb."

Prof. Seishi Kikuchi, head of the physics department at Osaka Imperial university, said intensive work on the mass separation of unstable elements was considered by the Japanese in 1941, but that they concluded it would be useless—other nations were too far ahead of them, and Japan had no substantial deposit of uranium.

He said that the Japanese army was consulted on the project but had not understood the significance of the development and declined to aid the project.

Destruction of the costly cyclotrons was another step in the Allied policy of eliminating Japan's warmaking potential. The destruction was directed by Maj. Joseph A. O'Hearn of Cambridge, Mass., who said that by nightfall, "Japan's potential for atomic research will have been substantially reduced."

Iran Renews Soviet Plea

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—The Iran government has sent to Russia its second note within a week protesting the behavior of Soviet forces in the northern Iranian provices, the embassy in Washington disclosed today.

The second note, dated yesterday, expresses "surprise" over the halting of Iranian troops by Red army forces near Tabriz and requests an explanation.

Sent To Riot Zone

The Iranian troops had been dispatched from Teheran to the province of Azerzaijan to quell an uprising for which Iranian officials have implied that Russian troops are responsible.

Last Saturday, the Iran government sent a detailed note to Moscow, protesting against alleged Soviet assistance to rebellious tribesmen in northern Iran.

The Iran government repeatedly has asked for U. S. assistance in persuading both Russian and British forces to evacuate Iran before the agreed-upon deadline date of March 2, 1946.

AMERICAN ADVISOR MOVES TO GUARD CITY

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 23. (AP)—Col. Norman Schwarzkopf, chief advisor of the Iranian gendarmerie, moved to safeguard Tehran itself today as an Iranian general declared rebels had killed 20 officials and landowners in continuing fighting at Mianeh in Azerbaijan province.

The general, reporting by radio from the Azerbaijan capital of Tabriz, said the rest of the troubled, Soviet-occupied province was quiet, but added that "foreign adventurers" still were loitering in Tabriz.

Reinforcements Ordered

Schwarzkopf, former head of the New Jersey state police, said "I have ordered certain gendarmerie posts from the south provinces to Gehran to reinforce the capital's garrisons and concentrated in vital places in case something happens in Tehran."

He added that "there is no indication of any disturbances" and that "the Tehran situation is under control."

Union Offer Called Abdication Demand

Representatives Of Both Sides To Be Invited To Capital Conference

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Nov. 23—General Motors corporation bluntly rejected a union request for arbitration of wage issues that led to a strike of 200,000 GM employes Wednesday.

The company action came within a few hours after Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach had conferred with President Truman at the White House on the strike situation.

Terming the offer of the United Auto Workers (CIO) a "demand for abdication, not an offer of arbitration," the nation's largest automobile manufacturing concern bitterly assailed the union's stand.

Company "Strips" Plan

"Stripped of its deception, the union proposal is that GM should relinquish its rights to manage its business," the company statement said.

The company's declaration came as a temporary damper to hopes for speedy settlement of the strike which has closed down more than 70 GM plants in 20 states. Earlier today, a GM spokesman had admitted the strike was "100 per cent effective."

The original union demand that GM submit the dispute over 30 per cent wage rate increases to arbitration was submitted to the company Monday and the union set a 4 p. m. Tuesday deadline for reply.

On Tuesday, GM officials notified the union their reply would not be available until today and this action was followed by a strike call, which was recommended Tuesday by the 200 delegates to the GM council of the UAW, which held a two-day meeting here.

Quick Reply From Thomas

The GM statement brought a quick reply from R. J. Thomas, UAW president, who said: "This is what we expected today, because General Motors had actually rejected the whole principle of voluntary arbitration in their letter of last Tuesday.

"If the corporation were willing to accept the principle of arbitration in any form they would have made a counter proposal," the UAW chieftain added.

In another major development in the automotive labor picture, the Ford Motor Co., pressing its demands for what it terms "company security," today called upon the UAW-CIO to assume financial responsibility for unauthorized work stoppages in a proposed new contract. The company said the union could make "labor history"

Quiet Reigns After Rioting

CALCUTTA, Nov. 23 (AP)—Order was being restored gradually in Calcutta tonight after three days of rioting in which one U. S. soldier was missing, 30 others injured and a total of 31 persons killed.

No trace has been found of the missing American. His name was not disclosed.

British military police began patrolling the streets. Submachine guns and steel helmets were issued to U. S. military police.

Quiet In All Sections

The city was quiet in all sections for the first time since the shooting began Wednesday during student demonstrations against the trial of Indian Army officers who fought for the Japanese during the war. Police said there had been no serious clashes since late afternoon.

A canvass of five major hospitals in Calcutta showed that in the three days 31 were killed, 16 injured seriously and 243 admitted for treatment. Scores of others suffered minor injuries.

The riots threw Calcutta into civil turmoil with 20,000 municipal workers going on strike. There were disturbances in Bombay and demonstrations in New Delhi.

Demands From Bengal

Representatives of minor political parties in Bengal demanded appointment of a non-official committee to investigate the violence.

The missing American soldier, whose name was not disclosed, left Camp Howrah across the Hooghly river from Calcutta last night in an ambulance. This morning the vehicle was found overturned and burned.

In three days, at least 15 American trucks and ambulances have been attacked and burned by mobs. Today American base section headquarters began issuing U. S. flaggs to fly on Army vehicles for identification.

Some Americans have been accosted while on duty, and cars taken from them despite all attempts to reason with the rioters. In some instances the American soldiers have been severely beaten.

Wreckage Litters Streets

Charred and burning trucks littered the streets of Calcutta, which has been placed out of bounds for U. S. troops. Gunfire echoed through the outlying sections as the uncontrolled mob action spread from the downtown section to the southern, southeastern and northwestern areas of the city.

In Bombay, 500 university and school students left their classes when a strike was called by the Bombay Students' congress in protest against police firing on demonstrators in Calcutta.

Crying "down with British imperialism," the students clashed repeatedly with police.

Chinese Retake Highway Town

CHUNGKING, Nov. 23. (AP)—The Chinese Communists have recaptured the highway town of Tsaoyang in central China, 145 miles northwest of Hankow, the Nationalists government acknowledged today as the civil conflict developed a new crop of unconfirmed reports on the maneuvering for possession of Manchuria.

The Communists themselves officially claimed capture of Tinghsien, 125 miles south of Peiping on the Peiping-Hankow railway, and Yencheng, big town near the seacoast 120 miles northeast of Nanking and 160 miles northwest of Shanghai.

(A smaller town also named Yencheng is situated on the Peiping-Hankow railway in a zone where the Nationalists have said the Communists were operating.)

Asked By Soviet To Return

A usually reliable source here reported that Soviet Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, commander of the Transbaikal front, had asked Chinese Nationalist officials to return to Changchun, the Manchurian capital, and rfesume negotiations with him. The Nationalists fled the city one week ago lest the expected Russian withdrawal leave them at the mercy of the Communists.

The Russians have not yet pulled out, but Chungking newspapers alleged that Chinese Communists already were in Changchun in strength. A few Nationalist officials still were in Changchun but presumably were prepared to leave with the Russians as a safety measure.

Hitler Gave Orders All Poles Must Die

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 23—Adolf Hitler told his generals 10 days before the invasion of Poland that he had given orders "to kill without mercy all the men, women and children of the Polish race or language," American prosecutors disclosed at the war crimes trials today.

The brutal words of the fuehrer, delivered in a hitherto secret speech at Obersalzburg on Aug. 22, 1939, so delighted Reichsmarshal Herman Goering that he leaped on a table "and danced like a savage," a stenographic record of the address showed.

Realized Soviet Influence

Another secret document told of a Hitler promise to the Japanese eight months before Pearl Harbor that Germany would accept the consequences "if Japan would get involved with the United States."

Still another secret document disclosed that Hitler in May, 1939, had told his general staff that Britain was the "driving force against Germany" and that he planned to slice Britain off from the remainder of Europe by cutting her food supplies. He demanded the immediate destruction of the British fleet after the outbreak of war.

The speech on Poland was made the day after the announcement that Russia and Germany had concluded a non-aggression pact. Of that document Hitler said:

"Today's publication of the non-aggression pact with Russia hit like a shell. Stalin also said this course will be of benefit to both countries. The effect on Poland will be tremendous."

Plotted Against Stalin

That Hitler regarded the pact as only a temporary device was indicated in these words:

"And besides, gentlemen, in Russia will happen just what I have practiced with Poland. After Stalin's death—he is seriously ill—we shall crush the Soviet union."

(The signing of the Soviet-German non-aggression pact was preceded on Aug. 19 by a Soviet-German trade agreement, which provided for a German credit to the Soviet union of 200,000,000 marks for purchase of German goods, and for the purchase of Russian goods by Germany to the value of 180,000,000 marks.

(The non-aggression pact was announced in Berlin Aug. 21, and signed in Moscow on Aug. 24. A ten-year treaty, it provided that each country was bound to refrain from any act of force against the other, and that they would not support warlike acts against either by a third power.)

Hitler asserted that "Russia has no interest in Poland and Stalin knows that it is the end of his

Hull And Welles Say No War Commitment Made To Britain

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Cordell Hull and Sumner Welles declared today they had no knowledge of any commitment for the United States to go to war if Japan attacked a British or Dutch possession.

The former secretary and undersecretary of state were asked, at the Senate-House Pearl Harbor inquiry, specifically whether President Roosevelt made such an adrangement with Winston Churchill at the Atlantic Charter meeting in the summer of 1941. Both Hull and Welles replied that they never heard of such a thing, then or at any other time.

No Hint Of Pearl Harbor

The two also testified that in the tense days before the Pacific war broke out they never got so much as a hint that Pearl Harbor might be attacked. Hull said American military attention was primarily centered on possible Japanese moves in the Southwest Pacific.

The investigating committee received a memorandum in which General George C. Marshall and Admiral Harold R. Stark, the Army and Navy chiefs, suggested to President Roosevelt six points where the Japanese might attack —and Hawaii was not among them.

Hull testified that he had hoped by "some remote, speculative possibility" to sway the Japanese from their aggressive course. He and Mr. Roosevelt, he said, strove in every possible way to avert or delay an armed clash with Japan without surrendering fundamental principles.

Rumors Of Jap "Stall"

While Welles was testifying, Rep. Murphy (D-Pa), a member of the investigating committee, remarked that there had been rumors that at the Atlantic conference, Mr. Roosevelt told Churchill America would "stall the Japs along for a period of four months." Murphy asked Welles whether there was any promise or commitment.

Welles replied that the only thing along that line "to the best of my knowledge and belief" was agreement for a parallel stand by the U. S. and Britain that it could not regard with indifference a continued aggressive expansion.

Murphy also asked about previous testimony by Admiral J. O. Richardson that President Roosevelt over-ruled the admiral when he suggested in 1940 that the U. S. fleet be removed from Pearl Harbor to the west coast of the United States.

Fleet Said Insecure

Welles recalled that Richardson had said the fleet was insecure at Pearl Harbor.

"My feeling," Welles said, "was that moving the fleet from Hawaii —leaving Hawaii defenseless — would have had an important and prejudicial influence." He said China would have been discouraged, and Japan would have been led to believe that America was giving her a "wide open road" in the Pacific.

Hull testified that a special Japanese envoy, Saburo Kurusu, had told him in mid-November, 1941 that the Pacific was "a powder

Jap Occupation Costs Are Heavy

TOKYO, Saturday, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Japanese people were told today that the American occupation might cost Nippon 10,000,000,000 (B) yen annually, or about $667,000,000 at the present rate of exchange.

Kyodo news agency gave that figure in a news story which quoted unofficial Japanese circles.

The bank has announced it has set aside 3,000,000,000 (B) yen to pay the cost of occupational troops for the first three months.

Pauley Doubts Ability

Edwin W. Pauley, President Truman's personal representative on the Allied Reparations commission, said recently on his visit to Japan that he doubted if Nippon would be able to pay the occupation costs, not to mention the reparations.

Meanwhile as the latest of changes wrought in Japanese life following surrender, the office of lord keeper of the privy seal, an advisory institution which has been close to the emperor since 1885, was abolished formally today with imperial sanction.

Some Debt Payments

The imperial household minister, confirming frequent reports, announced the end of the position, currently held by Marquis Koichi Kido who figured in the elevation to office of such premiers as Hideki Tojo, No. 1 on the Japanese war criminal list.

General MacArthur's headquarters today issued authorization for the payment of debts owed banks closed Sept. 30 on his orders. The action was taken after a number of debtors expressed a desire to pay maturing obligations. Accounts may not be drawn upon except on specified approval of MacArthur.

Church Head Rules Gen. Roosevelt Not In Good Standing

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. (AP)—Bishop William T. Manning said tonight Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt was not in good standing in the Episcopal church and was ineligible to serve as a vestryman in the family church at Hyde Park.

Roosevelt was named Nov. 13 to the board of St. James church, of which his father, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, was senior warden.

The Episcopal bishop of New York issued a statement from his home saying:

"I have officially notified the vestry of St. James church, Hyde Park, that General Elliott Roosevelt is not in good standing in the church and therefore is not eligible for the office of vestryman and cannot serve in that office."

The bishop declined to say why Roosevelt was not in good standing and refused to elaborate on his statement.

In Poughkeepsie, Edmund P. Rogers, named senior warden to succeed the late President, said he had received no official notice of Bishop Manning's decision, but added that he knew about it.

Asked what the vestry would do as a result of the bishop's ruling, Rogers said:

"I haven't the foggiest notion but I certainly think the vestry wouldn't go against Bishop Manning."

Yount, will arrive in San Antonio Sunday to participate in activities during the visit of Marshal of the RAF Sir Arthur Tedder.

Ten Texans Die In Holiday Tragedies

(By The Associated Press)

At least ten persons were killed or died in Texas in a series of Thanksgiving day tragedies.

Three others died Thanksgiving day of injuries received earlier in the week.

Twenty-six injuries were included in the holiday toll.

Last year, there were only four fatalities on the Nov. 23 Thanksgiving, according to the state police. There were six on second official Thanksgiving Nov. 30, last year.

Senator Assails Red Aggression

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—Senator Hatch (D-NM) spoke out today against "present unilateral steps being aggressively taken by the Soviet Union."

He said that "many students of international affairs" see them as "a grave danger to permanent world accord."

Criticizing what he viewed as insistent attempts by some European countries "to try to dominate internal affairs of neighboring nations," Hatch asserted after his reference to Russia:

Others Charge Britain

"Others also declare Great Britain is following in some places a similar course. Even we are accused of like policies in certain areas. No matter which nation pursues such a course, it is wrong.

"It is time to change. It is time to try something new. It is time to substitute law instead of force. It is time to adopt complete freedom of thought, communication and of press everywhere in the world."

Hatch, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee and a close associate of President Truman when the latter was a senator, spoke on the floor in behalf of a pending measure to authorize the President to use the armed forces which the U. S. allocates to the world security council without further congressional checks.

Must Amend Charter

Hatch said it was his belief that the United Nations charter must be amended to eliminate the veto powers of the Big Five nations over forceful action by the league.

He proposed that the charter also be changed to grant legislative authority to the general assembly.

War Trials Of Tojo And Others Delayed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP)—The War department said tonight that because of the international aspects of the case against the former Japanese premier, Tojo and other Japanese officials, Gen. MacArthur had been instructed to delay their trials as war criminals.

Cases involving violation of the laws of war or of inhumane acts against civilian populations will be pushed at once, however.

An American diplomatis official explained that because Tojo and the other high diplomatic officials were regarded as international war criminals it was desired to have other nations participate in their trials.

But the order sent MacArthur, it was added, apparently has no connection with any current discussions with Russia on Far Eastern affairs.

Commenting that was a new one on him, Dist. Judge Clifford Jones granted her requested divorce.

Tanks Turned On Indonesians

BATAVIA, Java., Nov. 23. (AP)—British Sherman tanks wheeling into action for the first time blasted out 2,000-yard gains in Soerabaja today, while a British relief force fought bloody engagements enroute to Ambarawa where 16 civilians were reported killed by Indonesian attacks.

Indonesian resistance melted before the tremendous fire power and the British drive into Soerabaja is the swiftest advance yet scored in the drive to occupy entirely the great port city.

No British Casualties

The British made the gains without a single reported casualty, while at least 40 Indonesians were killed or wounded.

Bitter fighting raged elsewhere, particularly along the 25-mile road from Semarang to Ambarawa, where the Dutch news agency Aneta said 16 persons, mostly women and children, were killed last night in attacks upon a civilian internment camp by Indonesian extremists.

One company of Mahrattas which set out yesterday from Semarang for Ambarawa had failed to reach the city, and in battles en route lost nine wounded and one killed. At least 150 Indonesians were believed killed.

Ghurkas Reach City

A company of Ghurkas which had started from Magelang reached Ambarawa last night, and the British said the situation there today was "much quieter."

In Batavia, acting Governor-General Hubertus Van Mook expressed disappointment over the refusal by Indonesian leaders to participate in further negotiations with the Dutch, but added that "as far as I am concerned I shall always keep the door for discussion wide open."

Adm. Ramsey Named To Succeed Spruance

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—Rear Admiral Dewitt C. Ramsey today was named Deputy Commander in Chief of the Pacific fleet succeeding Admiral Raymond A. Spruance.

Spruance recently was designated by President Truman to head the Pacific command succeeding Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz, who has been ordered to Washington as Chief of Naval operations.

Ramsey, 57, served as chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics from Aug. 1943 to June 1945, when he was assigned duty as chief of staff to Spruance, then cammander of the Fifth fleet. He recently was ordered to duty with the commander of the Pacific fleet prior to Spruance's elevation. Ramsey was born at Whyple Barracks, Ariz. He lists his present address as Avon by the Sea, N. Uruguay Offers Sharp Change In Latin Intervention Policy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—Uruguay has suggested that the American nations adopt the principle of collective intervention when one of their number denies its people essential rights or fails to fulfill its international obligations, the State department disclosed tonight.

The proposal was advanced in a 2,500 word note which Dr. Alberto Rodriguez Larreta, Uruguayan foreign minister, handed to U. S. Ambassador William Dawson and other American chiefs of mission in Montevideo yesterday. Its adoption would mark a broad departure from past inter-American policy, which has been strongly against interference in the internal affairs of other countries.

No mention of Argentina was made in the note but diplomats saw it as applying directly to the military regime in that South American nation.

The strongest support for non-intervention policy in the past has come from expressed or implied fears of Latin American countries that the United States might interfere in their affairs.

In the note, which the State department said it understood Uruguay was making public today, Dr. Rodriguez Larreta said the non-intervention principle would not shield without limitation "the notorious and repeated violation by any republic of the elementary rights of man and of the citizens."

Newly-Born Baby Burned Alive, Four Other Bodies Destroyed

Ash Heap Yields Gruesome Story

MANCHESTER, Tenn., Nov. 23. (AP)—Three persons were being held on murder charges today, Sheriff Sim Banks said, in connection with the burning to death of one newly-born baby and the destruction of the bodies of four others in a tourist camp ash heap.

Banks said H. H. Peters, 65, tourist camp operator, Mrs. Peters and her son, Harry F. Carraway, were in jail at Fayetteville, Tenn., on charges of murdering "a person or persons unknown."

Banks said officers found on the ash heap four baby dresses, a small bone and flesh wrapped in charred paper.

The trio was arrested after a negro couple employed at the camp, Willie and Mary Ramsey, went to officers with the story that five infants had been cremated there since Oct. 18, Banks said.

They claimed they had not been allowed to leave the place, he related, but slipped away last night after Peters refused to pay them their monthly wages.

Banks quoted Mary Ramsey as saying the babies were brought to the camp on five different days, which she marked on the calendar as Oct. 18 and Nov. 8, 14 and 19, and that they were immediately soaked in oil or gasoline, placed on a pile of wood and cremated.

Only one was alive when brought there, she said.

The Ramseys said they took no part in the alleged deeds, Banks reported.

Banks quoted the negro woman as saying the baby burned alive was white.

Peters, his wife and her son denied any part in the death and cremation.

Varied Programs Given For Clubs

Home Demonstration club members have met this week for programs on science and China and for a business session.

Mrs. W. O. Fortenberry was hostess to the Monroe club Wednesday. Taking parts on the program on "Science and Medicine" were Mesdames Fortenberry, E. W. Smith, J. C. Justice, A. L. Hunter and L. E. Hobbs.

A Christmas party for members and their families was planned for Dec. 18.

Guests present were Mesdames Guy Young, Lonnie Teal, R. M. Emery and John Harrell of Southland. Others present were Mesdames E. J. Exum, W. H. Emery, John McGuire, Clem Clutter, C. L. Goble and B. E. Gentry.

The club will meet with Mrs. Smith Dec. 13.

"Conditions in rural China are far behind the conditions in rural United States," K. D. Deng, Chinese agricultural trainee, told the Slaton club Wednesday at a luncheon in the home of Mrs. Douglas Wilson.

"Many rural Chinese do not live, but merely exist for they are very poor. The Chinese women make most of the family clothing including shoes," Mr. Deng said.

Miss Clara Pratt, County Home Demonstration agent, spoke on Vitamin C.

Members present were Mesdames W. H. Long, H. H. Booker, W. F. Henry, E. E. Wilson, Pierce and a guest, Mrs. A. G. Saage.

At a meeting of the Shallowater club in the home of Mrs. N. A. Cain Thursday, the following committees were appointed:

Education, Mesdames M. T. Stanton, Bill Henry and A. C. Woodruff; membership, Mesdames T. H. Curry, Volney Farris and W. W. Stanton; finance, Mesdames George Pratt, Faye Luck and George Leftwich; recreation, Mesdames Cain, James Baker and Cleo Vaughn; flower and card, Mesdames John Meek, A. F. Reece and Bob Crump; reporter, Mrs. Edna Arnold.

Mrs. R. B. Sport, program chairman, presented a program on "New Foods for Your Table." Mrs. Bob Crump gave a description of several new foods and Miss Clara Pratt gave a demonstration on making coffee cake filled with prunes and apples, and spoke on the care of orchards.

Miss Elizabeth Elliott and Mrs. T. Teel were guests. Other members attending were Mesdames Luck, George Pratt and John Redwine.

A Christmas luncheon will be given Dec. 20 at the home of Mrs. M. T. Stanton.

Houston Follows Up "Bull's" Visit With One By "The Body"

By CLAUDE RAMSEY
United Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, Nov. 23—Still breathing hard from a visit by "The Bull," Houston today began panting for a visit by "The Body."

The Bull was square-chinned Adm. William F. Halsey; The Body is solid-stacked Marie McDonald, the movie actress.

She will come to Houston to receive the city's plaudits for her well-turned body and be awarded the title of "America's most beautiful girl."

Invited To State

The long-haired curvesome thing was given the award by an outfit that should know, the Texas Association of Accredited Beauty culturists.

"Not only is her figure excellent," (a master stroke of understatement), the cosmetologists said, "but her features, eyes and long hair lend themselves to styling." (There was no voice of protest anywhere).

So the beauty culturists invited Marie to come to the Texas boom city so they could get a feel of that texture of her skin and get a closeup of those eyes. Knowing a bit of publicity when she sees it (among other things Miss McDonald has a brain), she accepted.

To Sell Bonds Also

Somewhere in the background during the negotiations was the War Finance committee.

"Now," the committee explained, "Hollywood won't let its Queens tour the country to sell Victory Bonds in this campaign. But we figured that since she'll be here anyway, well, she might sell a few for us."

So the committee today made plans for a big show starring the pretty girl with price of admittance a war bond. They also plan a fashion show explaining, "you know she has the most elaborate wardrobe in Hollywood."

Wardrobe or no, Marie is elaborate enough for any one.

No State Action On Draft Board Is Seen

AUSTIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—No state action seemed imminent today in the refusal of a Parker county Selective Service board to make a November draft unless Gen. J. Watt Page, State Selective Service director, comes there to discuss the situation.

If no November call should be made by the board, it was said here, the question of removal of board members would not be a state matter but one to be decided by the national organization.

Records here showed that Texans are being released from Army duty at the rate of about 3,000 a day. New enlistments and re-enlistments are not meeting the Texas quota for induction. Total number of Texans released from Army service was estimated at 250,000.

If Parker county's quota is not filled, the lack will have to be made up in other parts of the state to fill the state quota.

Heart Attack Fatal For Marshall Man

MARSHALL, Nov. 23. (AP)—A. B. (Red) Irion, sr., 57, drilling contractor, died at his home here last night following a heart attack.

Irion was born at Rocky Mount, La.

Crime Wave In State Doubted By FBI Agent

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 23. (AP)—Unprecedented co-operation among law enforcement officers forestalls any postwar crime wave in Texas, M. W. Scers, agent in charge of the San Antonio Federal Bureau Investigation office, declared today.

Referring to the nine conferences of police officers recently held in the 60 counties making up the San Antonio district, he said "they were the most successful from the standpoint of attendance and general interest of any ever held."

The conferences, held at Temple, Austin, New Braunfels, Eagle Pass, Kerrville, Caldwell, Lareda, Brownsville and Brady, he said were attended by 892 law enforcement officers representing 96 per cent of the police agencies of central and southwest Texas.

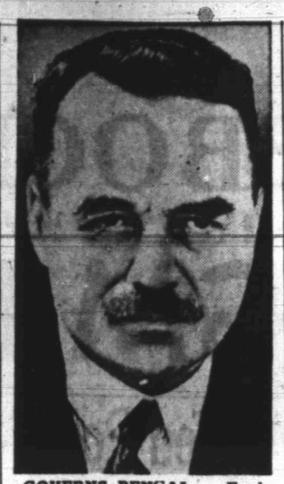

"The next semi-annual FBI sponsored meetings will be held in April and May," Acers announced. Conferences are scheduled for Waco, Austin, San Marcos, Uvalde, Fredericksburg, Hearne, Laredo, Raymondville, and Llano. Exact dates have not been set.

Stevenson Bags Deer In Davis Mountains

AUSTIN, Nov. 23. (AP)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson bagged a 184-pound, 10-point mule deer in the Davis mountains to open the hunting season last week.

Emerging from a gulch in which the deer was bagged the governor and his hunting party, Gordon Stewart of Sonora, discovered they were 20 miles from camp.

The deer was hoisted on one horse. The governor and Stewart alternately rode a second horse and walked the 20 miles.

GOVERNS BENGAL — Fred Burrows, above, 56, once was a railway porter at $10 per week salary. Now he is the new governor of Bengal, huge province in India with a population of 60,000,000 — a post described as one of the most responsible jobs in world statesmanship.

Murder Charge Filed In Santa Fe Slaying

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 23 (AP)—Charges of first degree murder were filed today against Louis Young, 44, fourth term negro convict, who is accused of stabbing to death Mrs Eloise Kennedy, 23, wife of a Santa Fe bank employe.

Young is being held incommunicado in the state penitentiary. Asst. Dist. Atty. Bert Clancy asserted he would demand an early trial and the death penalty.

The prosecutor announced Young, formerly of Houston, Tex., had signed a confession.

The convict Monday did housecleaning at the apartment of State Police Chief Frank Young, Clancy reported, and wandered into the apartment occupied by Mrs. Kennedy and her husband, Leon G. Kennedy, jr., who is the son of a Denver bank vice president.

Kennedy returned from work to find his pretty blonde wife on the bathroom floor. Examination disclosed 11 knife wounds.

Effort To Save Face Bottleneck To Compromise In Java's Strife

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press Staff Writer

The spirit of compromise, which is supposed to govern post-war international relations, still is not evident in Java.

Fighting continues in various parts of the island, and the ugly issue of white supremacy has crept increasingly into the picture.

There is nothing apparently irreconcilable in the attitude of the Dutch, British and native Indonesians. No side, however, has shown willingness to make major concessions for fear of "losing face," which is so important in the Far East.

British, Dutch Involved

A curious mixture of nationalities and interests is involved. The spectacle is presented of British troops from India, a country which itself is clamoring for independence, fighting to put down Indonesian nationalists. Dutch troops are involved, as well as native troops from islands other than Java, loyal to the Dutch. Some of these are being withdrawn to relieve the tension.

Both the British and Dutch are using some American lend-lease material. The Indonesian insurgents, on the other hand, are reported to have gotten hold of Japanese weapons, and to be receiving some secret support from Japanese forces whose surrender has not yet been completed.

Japs Aid In Uprising

The Javanese uprising can be attributed only partly to Japanese influence, but it is evidence of the unrest left by the Japanese throughout southeast Asia by their efforts to promote a "greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere." The British War Secretary, J. J. Lawson, told parliament on Wednesday that while there is no evidence that the disturbances were started by the Japanese "there are signs of clandestine support of the Indonesians by Japanese personnel." Some 50,000 Japanese troops and 25,000 civilians still remain to be brought under control in central Java, he revealed.

The situation, involving so many nationalities, seems to call for international action if there is to be a just settlement. The action of the unrecognized Indonesian Republican government last night in refusing to attend a peace conference with the British and Dutch illustrates the difficulties.

Leave Way For Talks

The Indonesians declined to negotiate further with the Dutch until their attitude is changed, although they left the door open for conciliatory moves by the Dutch.

Holland's position was set forth in a statement by the official Netherlands news agency. It said the Dutch, having already made concessions, refuse to continue making them without limitations. It referred to Queen Wilhelmina's offer to the Indonesians of self-government in internal affairs and full partnership in the Netherlands imperial kingdom as "generous enough to make it worth while to take its place at the round table."

The British meanwhile seem to realize that no permanent solution can be reached by force of arms. They nevertheless decline to withdraw as long as European refugees in Java are not fully protected and all the Japanese disarmed. They also feel morally bound to back their Dutch ally until normal conditions have been restored.

Neither the British nor Dutch have shown any positive reaction so far to informal suggestions that the United States be asked to act as arbitrator, or that the whole question be referred to a council of Pacific powers.

DeGaulle Asks Quick Reforms For France

PARIS, Nov. 23. (AP)—President De Gaulle presented to the constituent assembly today a program calling for quick nationalization of France's credit, electricity and insurance industries.

He called for reforms in public service and administration, judicial reforms and a constitutional change in the military structure of the national defense. The general asked for "modernization" of mining, industry and agiculture and said the franc must be revalued so French money can be "established on an indisputable base."

De Gaulle declared that the threat of atomic destruction was hanging over the world and that French foreign policy would be directed toward a role of harmony among the nations of western Europe.

He said France's policy would not be one of blocs, but one of "cooperation." This, he said, did not exclude France from signing accords with specific countries. He recalled the French - Russian treaty of 1944 and described Russia as a country "like ourselves, primarily interested in preventing in the future any Germanic menace."

Goering Said Nazis' Natural Born Leader

NUERNBERG, Nov. 23. (AP)—Hermann Goering with an I. Q. bordering on the genius rating, is the "natural born leader" of the 20 high Nazis being tried by the international war crimes tribunal, an American Army officer said today.

Maj. Douglas Kelley, former University of California psychiatrist, found the fat ex-Reichsmarshal had an intelligence quotient of 138 and that he still exerted a dominating influence over nearly all of the Hitler aides on trial.

Wants To Keep Dignity

"Goering is a natural born leader," Major Kelley reported. "He and (Grand Admiral Karl) Doenitz and (former Reichsbank President Hjalmar) Schacht are the brainiest of the lot.

"Goering is the most aggressive and energetic. He keeps after the others to 'maintain German dignity!' If he has a phobia, it's of being made to appear ridiculous. He asserts he is not afarid of any verdict. He says the Luftwaffe commander who asked so many of his best fliers to go their deaths shouldn't flinch at losing his own life."

Doenitz, Raeder Composed

Kelley, who continually checks the mental condition of all defendants, described former foreign minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop as "wishy washy;" Hans Frank, who got the title of "butcher of Warsaw" while ruling Poland, and Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Hitler's governor of Austria and later of the Netherlands, as the "most cold blooded."

The two admirals, Doenitz, and Erich Raeder, and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col. Gen Gustav Jodl, are the "most philosophically composed," Kelley said.

Finer Cuts Of Meats Still Scarce Despite Letup On Rationing

Need a pound of bacon or cured ham? Don't go to your grocery store today and try to buy it cause it won't do you any good.

Rationing of all meats, it's true, was discarded at midnight. That made it easier to purchase what is available—but will not create what is unavailable.

Pork Products Low

Packers and produce men told The Morning-Avalanche that only 20 per cent of pork and pork products demand is available in Lubbock meat counters. Any extensive run on what is there would reduce further the scant supplies which have offered as equitable a distribution as is possible when stocks are low.

Beef products are something else again. There is plenty Butter is not so plentiful as is usual on the High Plains, which has been recognized as one of the most important shipping areas in the country. That is due to the drouth and its two-fold contribution to shortages: By reducing pasturages and feed crops and by influencing the selling off of dairy herds.

Meat Is Shipped Out

At the moment, the pork situation here is better than it will be probably for six to 10 months, producers and slaughtering houses say. The annual run of hogs to market is afoot. One packing concern said it was killing as many hogs as labor would allow, but that much of the meat was being shipped out of this section. The situation will deteriorate progressively, it was indicated. Fresh pork could be bought, but cured pork was almost unobtainable, and the condition tends toward worsening.

Lard and shortening remained tight.

For producers the situation was like this: Beef growers can enjoy great volumes of deliveries through the months when pork is difficult to obtain, and what pork producers there are can be assured of the ceiling price on every pound they send to market.

Don't Like Those Stamps

It was too early to find much reaction among consumers, but, as one merchant put it: "They don't like those stamps and little red point coins any better than we merchants."

The fats salvage program sponsored by the government since early in the war will be continued so long as fat supplies are short, the Agriculture department said today.

Housewives and other consumers will continue to receive four cents a pound from local retailers participating in the program, but of course there will be no red point bounty as in the past, since the red point ration program ended at 12.01 a. m. today.

Hungarian Fascist Is Condemned To Death

BUDAPEST, Nov. 23. (U.P.)—Bela Imredy, Hungarian fascist and former premier, was convicted of war crimes today by the people's court and sentenced to death on the gallows.

Counsel for Imredy filed an appeal, but it was expected to be denied.

The charges against Imredy included high treason, collaboration with the Nazis, and authorship of the Hungarian anti-Semitic laws. He also was accused of founding the Hungarian new orders party.

Mrs. Effie Schaefer Dies Here Friday

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. today in Rix chapel for Mrs. Effie Schaefer, 47, 2306 Eighth, who died in West Texas hospital about 10:30 a. m. Friday of surgical shocks while undergoing an operation.

Rev. L. L. Richardson, pastor of the College Ave. Baptist church will conduct the service. Following the service, the body will be taken to Cisco for burial, Rix funeral home reported.

Mrs. Schaefer had lived here about two years.

She is survived by a son, Don S. Schaefer of Cisco, and two sisters, Mrs. W. A. Robinson of 2411 Nineteenth, and Mrs. Cynthia Warner of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Employment Outlook Over State Hampered By Housing Shortage

AUSTIN, Nov. 23. (U.P.) — Good employment prospects in most parts of Texas but lack of houses or apartments for workers are shown in November's digest of employment opportunities in Texas issued by the U. S. Employment Service today.

Sample notations in communities where work is available are:

Alice—No houses or apartments are to be had and single rooms are scarce.

Angleton area — According to real estate agents there are on file approximately 50 persons to every available house.

Brownsfield area — There is a shortage of approximately 200 houses.

Eastland area—Almost every house and apartment has a waiting list.

Houston area—Housing conditions have improved slightly but are still acute. There are no houses for rent in the more desirable sections of Houston, but many are for sale at wartime prices. Apartments are still scarce.

Orange, Pampa, Big Spring, Corsicana, Del Rio, Eagle Pass, Gainesville, Mexia, Mineral Wells, Paris, Terrell are mentioned as places where living places may be found. Victoria housing is noted as "approaching the critical stage."

Rites Are Conducted For Medical Chief

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—Military services were conducted today at Arlington National cemetery for Dr. John Alfred White II, 51, of Philadelphia, chief medical director of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Dr. White, a veteran of the First World war, died unexpectedly of a heart attack in Baltimore Nov. 16 while enroute from Washington to Philadelphia. Funeral services were held Monday in Philadelphia.

Speaker Sam Rayburn, delegate Joseph Farrington of Hawaii and a group of Congressional, diplomtic and railroad company friends attended the burial rites today.

He was born in Clarksdale, Ark., July 15, 1894, moved to Clarksville, Tex., when a youth.

His widow is the former Miss Margaret Scott Penn of Sherman, Tex., a pianist and composer. Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. Alice T. White, and a brother, Eugene T. White, both of Houston, Tex.

Atomic Bombs To Be Retained By U. S. Until Control Is Set

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Atomic bombs now being made in the United States almost certainly will remain here until the United Nations act on proposed world control measures.

So far no question of sharing physical possession of the bombs even with Britain has arisen officially, it was learned today from top government informants. Their hope is that it may never have to arise.

Not Dividing Bombs

American policy, these authorities said, is pegged to international handling of the whole range of atomic problems. Hence officials would like to avoid any impression that this country and Britain were dividing up the bombs between them as if in preparation for a war which actually they are seeking to prevent.

The question of who is to possess the bombs in the immediate future was raised with various persons familiar with the recent Truman-Attlee talks as a result of a series of incidents indicating Britain might have asked and been promised a share of them.

Possibilities Are Seen

Top officials believe that neither Prime Minister Attlee's conversations here nor otherwise has the subject of sharing the bombs with Britain ever come up.

What will happen to the bombs now being made here? Three main possibilities are foreseen by persons in position to make competent guesses:

1. Some of the weapons actually will be used in experiments to determine the effects of atomic explosives on battleships, submarines, possibly surface fortifications, and the like.

2. The rest will be held in storage under President Truman's "sacred trust" policy until the United Nations see what they can do about the problem given them.

3. After that, and depending on results, the bombs may be dismantled and their explosive materials devoted to peaceful industrial uses.

Pearl Harbor Quiz

keg" and that Japan had reached "an explosive state."

By this, Hull explained, Kurusu was simply pleading that we must agree on the diplomatic side or something awful would happen."

Japs Move Men And Ships

It was in response to questions that Hull said the possibility of an attack on Pearl Harbor had not occurred to him. American officials were receiving almost constant advice that the Japanese were moving men and ships to the lower end of Indo-China, he said, and "we knew that was the jumping off place for an attack."

Amid the threatening situation, Hull reported, the State, War and Navy departments were "very much like a family, seeing and talking with one another" and keeping in constant touch.

The gray, 74-year-old former secretary of state denied emphatically that the counterproposal he gave to Japanese "peace ambassadors" on Nov. 26, 1941, constituted an "ultimatum." Japanese leaders called the proposals that after the sneak assault on the Hawaii naval base.

Report Criticized Hull

An Army board of inquiry into the Pearl Harbor disaster had criticized Hull, in a report made public last August, on the grounds that he had precipitated a crisis when Army and Navy leaders were urging delay so Hawaiian and Philippine defenses could be strengthened.

Hull gave the committee a memorandum sent by General Marshall and Admiral Stark to the President on Nov. 5, 1941.

It recommended:

"That the dispatch of United States armed forces for intervention against Japan in China be disapproved. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was pleading at the time for American air support).

"That material aid to China be accelerated consonant with the needs of Russia, Great Britain, and our own forces.

"That aid to the American Volunteer group be continued and accelerated to the maximum practicable extent. (This group was composed of volunteer American airmen in China, better known as the "Flying Tigers.")

"That no ultimatum be delivered to Japan."

Hull Agreed Generally

Saying he agreed generally with all these recommendations, Hull declared:

"I concurred completely in the view that no ultimatum should be delivered to Japan. I had been striving for months to avoid a showdown with Japan, and to explore every possible avenue for averting or delaying war between the United States and Japan.

"That was the cornerstone of the effort which the President and I were putting forth with our utmost patience."

Yet he had felt all along, he said, that there was "not one chance in 20 or one in 50 or even in 100 of reaching a peaceful settlement and had constantly warned the cabinet before Dec. 7 that Japan could be expected to attack "anywhere, anytime."

U. S. Ruled Not At War In Sneak Blow

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 23. (AP)—U. S. District Judge Tillman D. Johnson ruled today that the United States was not at war when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, and consequently an insurance company must pay double indemnity on a policy held by a battleship commander.

Johnson in a directed verdict instructed a jury to award Mrs. Louise C. Bennion of Salt Lake City $12,270, the amount asked from the New York Life Insurance company.

Mrs. Bennion is the widow of Capt. Mervyn S. Bennion, killed when the USS West Virginia was bombed.

Hitler's Orders

regime, no matter whether his soldiers come out of a war victorious or beaten."

Only Three Statesmen

He told his generals that personal contact with Stalin "is established. We need not be afraid of blockade. The east will supply us with grain, cattle, coal, lead and zinc. I am only afraid that at the last minute some scheweinhund (filthy pig) will make proposals for mediation."

Hitler indicated admiration for the Russian leader, asserting "on the whole there are only three great statesmen in the world—Stalin, myself and Mussolini."

He said Mussolini, "the weakest, has not been able to break either the power of the crown or the church. Stalin and I are the only ones that see the future. So I shall shake hands with Stalin within a few weeks on the common German-Russian border, and undertake with him the new distribution of the world.

Hitler said that Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch had promised him to bring the war with Poland to an end within a few weeks.

"If he had told me it would take two years or even one year I would not have issued the order and would have temporarily entered into an alliance with England instead of Russia," Hitler added.

Wear Polish Uniforms

In an attempt to conceal the aggression against Poland, the German troops would wear Polish uniforms, Hitler said.

"The invasion and extermination of Poland begins on Saturday morning," Hitler said. "I will have a few companies in Polish uniform attack in upper Silesia or in the protectorate. Whether the world believes it does not mean a damn to me. The world believes only in success.

This speech, and other Nazi secret documents, requiring hours even to read, were presented to the court just before the tribunal adjourned for the week-end.

Was To Attack Lowlands

They were introduced as the American prosecution sought to prove that the 20 high Nazis on trial are guilty of conspiring with Hitler to wage the costliest war in the history of mankind.

In another speech to his military commanders on May 23, 1939, three months before the war began, Hitler said blitz attacks would be made to seize Holland and Belgium as bases for smashing Britain and France.

Still another secret document disclosed that Hitler informed Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka on April 4, 1941, that "Germany on her part would immediately take the consequences if Japan would get involved with the United States."

Favored Surprise Attack

Matsuoka had told Hitler that Japan wanted to attack Singapore, but feared war with the United States. The Japanese minister, who said he personally favored a surprise attack on the United States, was successful in getting Hitler's promise to share German secret weapons with the Japanese.

Earlier today, Assistant U. S. Prosecutor Thomas Dodd, who brought in evidence to show how Goering and Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, chief financial adviser to Hitler, cracked the whip over German finance and industry to gear up armaments production.

Schacht Admirer Of Hitler

Schacht, who in his talks with foreigners used to deride the Nazis, was disclosed by the documents as being an ardent follower of Hitler.

Addressing Vienna bankers after the German grab of that country, Schacht was quoted as saying "the Reichsbank will always be National Socialist, or I'll cease to be its manager."

Dodd named Munitions King Gustav Krupp Von Bohlen Und Halfbach, who has been granted a delay in trial by the international war crimes tribunal because of his health, officials of the I. G. Farben Chemical Trust and other industrial leaders as entering into the conspiracy with the Nazis for world aggression.

These industrial leaders agreed to finance the Nazi party as an antidote to Communism, then later cooperated in a secret rearmament program, Dodd's evidence charged.

OPA Refuses Higher Ceilings For Steel

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP) — OPA today refused to grant higher ceilings on steel—price increases which industry leaders declare to be necessary before they can discuss wage demands of their CIO employes.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles announced that he finds "no cause at this time for a general increase in steel prices," but would review the plea early in 1946.

For a minor segment of the industry, perhaps 45 small non-integrated concerns suffering financial hardships, Bowles indicated some price increases may be granted soon.

Commemoration Stamp To Be Issued

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP) — A three cent postage stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the admission of Texas to statehood will be issued December 29, the Postoffice department announced today.

It will feature an American flag with a ray shining from the 28th star to the single star of the Texas state flag.

The stamp will be placed on first day sale at Austin.

AGREEMENT ACCEPTED

AUSTIN, Nov. 23. (AP) — The attorney general's department today approved legality of an agreement whereby the state board of control will acquire title to Fort Ringgold at Rio Grande City which will be converted into a tuberculosis hospital.

SAWS HER ARTHRITIS AWAY—"How d'you like that muscle?" asks 87-year-old Mrs. Emma Kupfer of Bay Village, Ohio. She'll tell you that she got it — and keeps it — by cutting up heavy white oak trees trunks for firewood. She insists, too, that the work is a grand cure for arthritis. She uses a woodsman's axe and a long saw, says she can keep up with any wood-sawing man in her neighborhood and "Fact is, some of them can't keep up with me!"

News Briefs

Lubbock firemen made their 400th run this year at 8:30 p. m. Friday. Fire in cotton seed, which caused slight damage, was extinguished at a delinting plant on the north by-pass road.

Robert Owen Johnson, 33, who was cut several times about the face and shoulder in a downtown hotel room late Thursday night, paid fines Friday of $15 each on charges of drunkenness and disturbance, and did not press charges or give information against the person who did the cutting, police reported.

Gladys Wilhite paid a fine of $100 and county court costs Friday on a liquor law violation charge. In another case, on a similar charge, Odessa Lon, 21, negro woman, was fined $100 and costs. Melvin Easter, 23, negro, was held by county officers for the Waco sheriff's department, which said it had a child desertion warrant.

Reports to city and county officers included theft of a German-made gun, with two 16-gauge barrels and one rifle barrel under these from W. M. Pickard of Levelland; theft of a $32.50 wrist watch from Jim Jones, 1625 Broadway, in a downtown drugstore; and the sheriff's department at Plainview told officers here about a car driver sought by them. The driver, according to three soldiers, left them stranded in Sudan. They had paid him $55 each to take them from California to North Carolina.

Nimitz To Transfer His Command Today

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 23. (AP) —The Navy announced today that tentative plans called for Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz to board a submarine in the Navy yard here Saturday morning and there to transfer command of the Pacific fleet and Pacific ocean areas to Adm. Raymond A. Spruance.

Nimitz, now en route here, is a proud veteran of the submarine service.

Canada's present tariff system was established in 1904.

Doctor Badly Injured, Wife Dies n Wreck

LONGVIEW, Nov. 23. (AP)—Mrs. Ella Betta Elkins, 26, was killed and her husband, Dr. O. W. Elkins, of Longview, was injured critically when their car overturned early today on Highway 149 near the Sabine river.

Dr. and Mrs. Elkins were pinned beneath the wreckage until rescue came after daylight.

Mrs. Elkins lived possibly three hours after the accident occurred, Dr. R. J. Van Sickle, associate of Dr. Elkins here, said.

The couple had spent Thanksgiving with relatives in Overton and were returning home.

250,000 Texans Are Freed From Service

AUSTIN, Nov. 23. (AP)—Approximately 250,000 Texas men have been separated from the armed forces.

Brig. Gen. J. Watt Page, state Selective Service director, said today Texas men are now being separated at an average of 3,000 a day. The actual daily rate fluctuates and reached 10,242 Nov. 19. On another day it reached 11,000.

STRIKE VOTE SET

HOUSTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—A strike vote to support union demands for a $2 per day wage increase in the steel industry will be taken Wednesday by 15,000 steelworkers at 13 plants in the Houston area, Frank A. Hardesty, district director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) said today.

Radio Watches And Operating Station Proposed To FCC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Radio watches and a broadcasting station to run them were proposed today to the Federal Communications commission.

Applying for a permit to set up a developmental station in New York City, Electronic Time, Inc., said it has developed a portable receiving unit about half the size of a package of cigarettes. The set will receive only on the frequency of the proposed "time" station. A desk set measures two by two and a half by three inches.

The proposed station would give a weather report at intervals and terse news reports that would not interrupt the continuous time announcements, such as thtse: "The time is 10:30 and one quarter—raining" or "10:30—Detroit 8, Cubs 3 final."

The company said the portable unit or the desk set would sell for an estimated $5 and a home set for $10.

Former Premier Is Sentenced To Hang

BUDAPEST, Nov. 23 (AP) — Bela Imredi, former premier of Hungary, was sentenced today to be hanged for treason.

Imredi immediately appealed the death sentence to the national council of people's courts.

As a minister in the Fascist Sztojay cabinet, Imredi was found responsible in part for severe anti-Semitic policies which resulted in the death of several hundred thousand Jews. He was convicted in a 10-day trial of high treason for his part in forcing Regent Horthy to carry out Hitler's demands for resistance to the Russian armies. Imredi was premier in 1938-39.

Gen. Eisenhower Is Sent To Hospital

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, new acting chief of staff, went on sick call today.

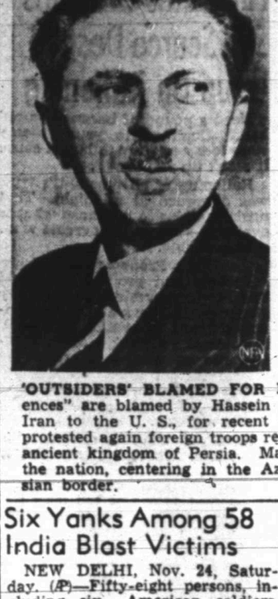

Suffering from a severe cold, he entered the Ashford General hospital at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., "to prevent any complications developing," the War department announced.

His illness "cancelled for the time being General Eisenhower's plans to return to Europe where he intended to fulfill several important engagements,' the announcement added.

Eagle Lake Man Dies Of Wreck Injuries

HOUSTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—Perry Hobbs, 45, of Eagle Lake, died in a hospital here last night from head injuries received in a wreck near Sealy Wednesday night.

Eighteen persons were injured in the collision of an Austin-bound bus and an automobile just outside Sealy. All but Hobbs were treated at Sealy.

'OUTSIDERS' BLAMED FOR IRAN REVOLT—"Outside influences" are blamed by Hassein Ala, left, new ambassador from Iran to the U. S., for recent disturbances in his nation. He protested again foreign troops remaining longer in his land — the ancient kingdom of Persia. Motley County Leading Area In "E" Bond Sales; Lubbock Lags

According to a report of the Texas State War Finance committee based on bond sales officially tabulated by the Dallas Federal Reserve bank through Nov. 19, Motley county led all other counties of the Lubbock area in the bond E phase of Victory loan drive, with 56.9 per cent of its quota attained. In the state, it ranked seventh.

Lubbock county with 10.1 per cent was tied with Gaines for eighth place among the ten highest counties of the South Plains and adjacent territory. However, Lubbock county did not get an organized campaign under way until Nov. 20, it was pointed out by Neil H. Wright, chairman of the Lubbock County War Finance committee.

Totals Are Given

Excepting bonds purchased this week at banks and other institutions, the county had invested $257,146 in Victory E bonds, according to an unofficial tabulation made Friday. Solicitors had reported purchases amounting to $153,685.50. Drive officials said this figure is expected to be increased substantially when reports are received from the banks, the postoffice and the First Federal Savings and Loan association.

While solicitation reports were far from being all turned in, most of the canvass was due to be finished yesterday afternoon.

The county E quota is slightly over $800,000.

"E" Bond Quota Lags

Officials indicated that the county's over-all quota of $2,950,000 could be met easily, but it is with the important, small investors' bonds that they are most concerned.

The campaign is under the sponsorship of the Allen Bros. post of the American Legion.

The Nov. 19 report disclosed the following counties ahead of Lubbock on E bond sales: Hale, Lamb, Yoakum, Bailey, Cochran and Garza.

Man Held In Death Of Albuquerque Soldier

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 23 (U.P.)—Louis Del Gross was being held in Albuquerque city jail in connection with the death early this morning of Pfc. Raymond V. Beaudreau, a Kirtland field soldier.

According to Police Chief Pat Dugan, Del Gross has admitted striking the blow which allegedly resulted in the soldier's death, attributed to a skull fracture apparently sustained when his head hit the sidewalk.

Del Gross told Dugan that he stopped in front of a hotel late last night to pick up friends, and that Beaudreau asked for a ride. The soldier later became abusive, according to Del Gross, who said he then alighted from his car and struck Beaudreau, according to police.

Del Gross then picked up his friends, a man and a woman, at the hotel. Questioned by police, the woman said she saw Del Gross strike the blow, but the man said he only heard it.

Del Gross then drove away, according to Assistant Chief Frank Doyle, went to another hotel and called the police to tell them of seeing a soldier lying on the sidewalk. However, Doyle said Del Gross did not identify himself at the time.

The case is expected to be turned over to the district attorney today, according to Police Chief Dugan.

Officials of the Farm Credit Assn. estimate that land prices have risen one per cent each month in the last four years.

Wife Of Ernie Pyle Is Claimed By Death

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 23. (U.P.)—Mrs. Geraldine Pyle, "that girl" of Ernie Pyle's died today, seven months after her famous war correspondent husband was killed in the Pacific.

Mrs. Pyle, who was 45, died in St. Joseph's hospital at 7:30 a. m.

The hospital is not far from the little white clapboard cottage where she and Ernie lived when they had not wandered together over 150,000 miles of the western hemisphere before the war.

Had Lived Alone

Although Mrs. Pyle had suffered from a prolonged illness, she had lived alone since her husband's death. Only a nurse attended her at the cottage. She entered the hospital Wednesday when she was stricken with acute uremic poisoning. She failed to rally.

Funeral services will be held at Afton, Minn. Date of the funeral was not announced.

Mrs. Pyle, the former Geraldine Siebolds of Stillwater, Minn., met Pyle in Washington, D. C., when he was managing editor of the Washington News. They were married July 7, 1925.

She Accompanied Him

In 1935, when he wearied of desk work and started on a roving assignment as a Scripps-Howard columnist, she went with him.

Millions of readers came to know her as well as they did Ernie through his columns. He always referred to her as "that girl who rides beside me."

Together they traveled to Canada. They toured the west, went to Hawaii, traveled through South America. They crossed the United States 35 times, and wore out three cars.

Between trips they would return to the white cottage in Albuquerque and sit on the front porch, gazing out over the mesa.

Had Great Influence

From the time of their marriage, Mrs. Pyle had a great influence on her husband's writing. When they started on their roving assignment ,she always read his column when he had finished writing it and made suggestions.

After Ernie was killed by a Japanese machine gunner on IE island last April 18, "Gerry" lived much in the past, surrounded by her husband's papers and letters and the souvenirs they had collected together in their travels.

Negotiations In Bus Strike To Be Opened

DALLAS, Nov. 23 (AP)—Negotiations will be resumed Tuesday in the Southwestern Greyhound bus strike which has left 2,000 company workers idle and tied up company operations since Nov. 4.

The Dallas office of the U. S. conciliation commission announced today negotiations will be resumed in Fort Worth between the company, the Amalgamated Street, Railway and Motor coach employes of America (AFL) and a three-man panel of the commission. Members of the panel appointed today are Commissioners L. J. Smith of Amarillo, Tex., C. T. Emory, Tulsa, Okla., and John L Cone, Atlanta, Ga.

Company and union officials were not available for comment.

A conference held in Fort Worth following the strike was adjourned Nov. 10 when negotiations over a new contract incorporating wage increases for drivers failed.

Red Raiders Close Season In New Mexico Duel Today

Three veterans, one of them Walt Schlinkman, Texas Tech's candidate for All-American honors, will close their collegiate football careers this afternoon as the Red Raiders close the season with the New Mexico Lobos at Albuquerque.

Jack "Spider" Dillon and T. M. Cox are the other two who will close their service with the Lubbock school. Schlinkman is from Dumas, Dillon a product of Chillicothe and Cox is from Muleshoe.

The Red Raiders took a final workout at the site of the game Friday afternoon.

Two Stars Crippled

Two members of the squad were crippled for the game, but may see some service. However, neither of the men were listed on the probable starters for the Red Raiders. They are R. W. Moyers of Lubbock, regular left end, and Floyd "Red" Lawhorn of Temple, regular left guard.

Frank Ottmers likely will start in place of Moyers, with Pat Farris expected to take over Lawhorn's guard post.

Sun Bowl Bid

It has been reported that the Sun Bowl officials from El Paso will be in Albuquerque today for the game, and will extend a bid to the winner of the game to appear in the El Paso New Year's classic, but whether the Red Raiders would accept such a bid remained unknown.

The Red Raiders have won three, lost five and tied one this season, while New Mexico has been beaten but once, a 21-20 decision dropped to Utah two weeks ago.

The entire New Mexico coaching staff was in Stillwater last week, and scouted the Red Raiders in their 46-6 defeat at the hands of the powerful Oklahoma Aggies, but the Lobo scouts saw very little that might cause worry in the New Mexico camp.

Raiders Favored

The Red Raiders are being favored in the game from many sources, but on the basis of season's records, the charges of Coach Dell Morgan are underdogs for the battle, but left Lubbock confident of making another direct reversal of play.

The Red Raiders reached a season's peak in a 12-0 victory over the Texas Christian Horned Frogs. A week later, they reached a new depth in losing to the Oklahoma Aggies by the greatest score ever piled up against a Morgan coached grid team. The club hopes for a rebound this week.

The game looms as an offensive duel between Tech's Schlinkman and Don Rumley, New Mexico's great ball carrier. Rumley, who has gained 907 yards in six games.

The pair are not strangers, and fans are looking forward to seeing the duel between this pair of well known Border conference backs.

BELLARD BREAKS LEG

AUSTIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—Emroy Bellard, freshman reserve back on the University of Texas football squad, broke his leg yesterday in scrimmage. Bellard is from Aransas Pass.

Randolph Page, a World War I pilot, flew the first coast to coast air mail service of the Post Office Department in 1920.

Alabama Given Rose Bowl Bid

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23 (AP) — University of Alabama was officially named today as the Eastern representative in the Rose Bowl, Jan. 1.

Vic Schmidt, Pacific Coast Conference commissioner, and Willis O. Hunter, chairman of the Rose Bowl committee, said Alabama had accepted the invitation to play in the 32nd renewal of the annual New Year's day classic after "serious consideration had been given to the possibility of inviting undefeated Army."

Hunter said that Army authorities informed the committee that they would be unable to give an answer until after the Army-Navy game Dec. 1, and that the committee believed it would be unwise to delay the selection of the Eastern representative that long.

His announcement at a press conference confirmed a Birmingham, Ala., report that Alabama had been extended the bid and accepted.

It will be Alabama's sixth appearance in the Rose Bowl, the most for any Eastern visiting representative. The Crimson Tide's Rose Bowl record—one of the best—reads three wins, one defeat and one tie.

The Crimson Tide's coast conference opponent will probably be decided by the Southern California-University of California at Los Angeles game Dec. 1. It would be the first time Alabama has met either of these teams in the bowl.

NEARLY DESERTED CAMPUS RECEIVES NEWS CALMLY

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 23. (AP)—The University of Alabama campus, almost deserted because of the Thanksgiving holidays, received calmly tonight the news that the school's football team would go to Pasadena for the Rose Bowl game Jan. 1.

Coach Frank Thomas said he was too busy thinking about games with Pensacola Navy tomorrow and Mississippi State on Dec. 1 to do much thinking about the Rose Bowl, but expressed pleasure at Alabama's ninth bowl invitation in 20 years, six of them from the Pacific coast.

"The boys want to go to the Rose Bowl," he said, "and we at Alabama are glad the opportunity has been afforded them."

Ranger Finally Wins One—The Hard Way

RANGER, Tex., Nov. 23 (U.P.)—This is a sports story in a little different vein.

It's about two football teams which had played eight games without either winning one. Then they played each other, so one won.

That's not all. Ranger, the winner by a score of 12 to 7 over Weatherford, made only three first down. Weatherford made 16. Ranger gained a net of only 39 yards from scrimmage; Weatherford gained 153.

Both of Ranger's scores came on intercepted passes. Weatherford was stopped on the one-yard line once and finally scored on another downfield march.

Virginia Interested In Playing In Cotton Bowl

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 23 (AP) — Officiay, Virginia university, now rolling along on one of its best football seasons in history, isn't talking about bowl bids, but it is known that Coach Frank Murray and others of the athletic department, also the players and students, are much interested in a possible trip to the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

The Cavaliers have seven straight victories, yielding the lowest average number of yards per game of any team in the country—904. Also, Virginia has an average of 333 yards per game offensively.

On the first coast to coast air mail flights, the mail was carried in planes by day and trains by night.

Class A Elevens Set For Playoff

REGION ONE
Phillips vs. Hereford
Wellington vs. Floydada
REGION TWO
Littlefield vs. Denver City
Monahans vs. Roscoe

The eight top Class A teams of West Texas have been made, and paired, for the start of bi-district play in regions one and two and that is the way the picture looks now as coaches of these eight lucky teams start out again next week with intensive training sessions to get ready for the journey down the December trail.

The Class A schools will go only to a regional championship, but many hope soon to expand this to a state playoff. But under the present rules regional affairs are the top honors attainable.

The Phillips Blackhawks, long a power in Class A circles and rated as one of the most powerful teams in the north Panhandle, will pair with Hereford, another high scoring outfit, and only once beaten this season, that by Littlefield, one of Texas's top scoring teams. The site and date of this game is not known here.

The Wellington Skyrockets, finalist last year, is back in the picture again, and Coach Al Duncan's fine team will battle the Floydada Whirlwinds, the Cinderella team from District 4. The game will be played in Wellington, it was announced Thursday, but the date has not been agreed upon.

The winners of these two games will play for the Region One title.

Region Two Pairings

Moving closer to home, the pairings will send perhaps the state's best Class A offense against perhaps the best Class A defense when the high scoring Littlefield Wildcats tangle with the Denver City Mustangs, a defensive super team.

Littlefield has roared over the West Texas gridirons to score 428 points this season in ten games. Denver City has had its goal line crossed but two times this year, giving up only 12 points in ten games.

This is a repeat performance between these two clubs, having played in the bi-district last season. The game last year was played at Denver City, so will likely be played in Littlefield this year. School officials could not be contacted last night for a statement on this fact.

Littlefield won the bi-district game last year, then lost in the finals to Merkel.

In the lower half of the region, the Roscoe Plowboys, with the state's leading schoolboy scorer, Walter Maloney, will play Monahans. Maloney has scored 175 points this season. (This does not include any scoring in last night's game with Anson at Abilene.)

Roscoe and Monahans will play a night game at Sweetwater Dec. 7 for the bi-district title, it was learned here last night.

The winners from these two games will play for the region two title.

Lions Keglers Gain By Sweeping Series

The Lions club bowling five increased its lead to four games in the Civic club race Friday night at the Lubbock Bowling center alleys by sweeping three in a row over the Rotary club, while the runner-up Jaycees were winning only two over the Levine Scouts.

Another clean sweep of the night was turned in by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, with the Optimists as the victims, while the American Legion won two from the Kiwanis.

Leo Bell of the Lions set the scoring pace for the night, getting a 217 top single game and a 571 top series.

The town of Dublin, Va., had a breakdown in its community water supply. So the Army came through by supplying water to the town temporarily from the new River Ordnance plant's system. Not all our tankers carry oil. Water, too, is vital on shipboard. To supply this need, a number of water tank ships have been built. They can carry 200,000 gallons of fresh water. These vessels will serve principally at seaports where it is more convenient to secure a fresh supply of water than to make sea water drinkable by dehydration.

Albuquerque Eighth WT-NM League Club

The West Texas-New Mexico League family was complete Friday, it was revealed by Sam Rosenthal, owner of the Lubbock Hubbers and vice president of the league, following his receipt of a letter from President Milton Price at Dallas that stated that the New Mexico city had been voted a place in the league by the other seven members.

At the reorganization meeting here early this month, seven teams were picked, and a committee appointed to investigate others on the list of prospective teams. The committee reported to Price, and a mail vote was conducted on the selection of the eighth club. The result of this vote was revealed in the letter from Price Friday.

The six charter members of the league—Pampa, Borger, Amarillo, Clovis, Lubbock and Plainview—voted in Abilene as a seventh club at the meeting here early this month.

The letter from Price also revealed that the dues of the league has been forwarded on to the office of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, and that as soon as the official verdict on this application is received teams will be allowed to start signing players, and getting ready for the season.

Rosenthal also said that he would attend the annual minor league meeting in Columbus, Ohio, with Business Manager Harry Faulkner. The meeting is scheduled Dec. 5.

Rochester Rallies To Beat Meadow, 20-13

HASKELL, Nov. 23 (Special)—Striking from behind in the last half, Rochester won the Class B bi-district championship here tonight by beating out the powerful Meadow Bronchos 20 to 13 in a thrill-packed battle.

Meadow started rolling early in the ball game, and G. W. Hunter smashed over from the five to climax a sustained drive with a touchdown. A few minutes later, Paul Nettles sweept around end from the 12-yard line to score again for Meadow, and Gunter added the extra point.

Meadow led 13-0 at the half.

Rochester started clicking late in the ball game, smashing over for one touchdown in the third quarter, then striking into pay dirt twice in the closing minutes of the game.

Oklahoma Aggies In Huddle On Bowl Bid

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 23 (U.P.)—Oklahoma A. and M. officials flatly refused to comment today on a report that the school's football team, unbeaten in 17 consecutive games, would play Duke in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

The Aggies play the University of Oklahoma at Norman tomorrow.

Athletics Director Henry Iba said he had "no statement to make at all" concerning a report that the Aggies were seeking to join the Southwest Conference and would prefer to play the champion of that circuit in the Cotton Bowl bid.

Montreal, with a population of 903,007 is the largest city in the Dominion of Canada.

Coyotes Coach Has Praise For Gridmen

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 23. (U.P.) — Coach Thurmon "Tugboat" Jones says his Wichita Falls Coyotes have "the greatest team spirit I ever saw."

This esprit de corps and the capabilities of a light, fast backfield operating behind a powerful, hard-charging line may bring the Coyotes their second state high school football championship in five years.

States Biggest Tackles

Boasting the biggest pair of schoolboy tackles in Texas, 249-pound "Wee Willie" Bigham and 219-pound Bob Hames, the Coyotes are without defeat, running 255 points to opponents' 37 and have only a 7-7 tie with strong Highland Park to mar their record.

Jones, a veteran of professional football with the Brooklyn Dodgers, gave these examples of his squad's morale:

"Every time I've been delayed in getting to the practice field on time, I find the boys taking calisthenics on their own or taking laps around the field.

Boys Stay In Shape

"They keep themselves in such good shape, an elbow injury to Billy Pyle, one of my scat backs, has been the only injury to keep any member of the team out of a single game.

"And after that Graham game, when we won by only a touchdown when we should have had a walkaway, the squad voluntarily shunned their girl friends in order to get in that much more sleep."

Jones believes Hames and Bigham are two of the most powerful high school tackles in the land. Neither lad is fat, each is comparatively fast and both are vicious tacklers and blockers. They particularly stand out on defense.

Admittedly a difficult task, Al Miller, a lanky 170-pounder, is taking care of the center job All-State Dick Harris left.

Buddy Gregg, who weighs just 127 is at one end and Lane West, 159, is at the other. Guards George Washburn and Dick Lowe, 155 and 160 pounds, have done good work alongside Hames and Bigham, though overshadowed by them.

Berry Leads Backs

Leading the Coyote backfield is fleet Lindy Berry, quarterback, field general and passer who has reminded many of little Gene Hill, a Coyote immortal whose forwards brought Wichita Falls its first state title in 1941.

Berry's running mate is Billy Pyle, while Bobby Rogers handles much of the blocking and Joe Tidwell, a solid 182-pound fullback, does the punting.

Call it spirit, call it luck or call it good football—the Coyotes are roving the plains again.

Cage Teams Increase In Texas For Year

AUSTIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—A total of 1,018 high school basketball teams will compete in three divisions of Texas Interscholastic League play this season, an increase of 234 over the 1944-45 enrollment.

Rodney Kidd, league athletic director, today announced resignation.

Twelve Champs Named In State

(By The Associated Press)

Twelve district champions of Texas schoolboy football have been determined and the other four will be known next week.

The play-off begins Dec. 7 in the battle for the state championship.

Titles determined:
District 2—Wichita Falls.
District 4—El Paso High.
District 5—Paris.
District 7—North Side (Fort Worth).
District 8—Crozier Tech (Dallas).
District 9—Breckenridge.
District 11—Marshall.
District 12—Lufkin.
District 13—Milby (Houston).
District 14—Goose Creek.
District 15—Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio).
District 16—Brownsville.

North Side meets Crozier Tech, Marshall plays Lufkin, Milby engages Goose Creek and Thomas Jefferson plays Brownsville in the bi-district round.

Wichita Falls awaits determination of the District I champion, expected to be Amarillo. Paris will play District 6 titlist, due to be Highland Park (Dallas). Brownwood will meet the District 10 champion where Waco is favored to come through.

In games Friday and Friday night Crozier Tech sewed up the Dallas district crown by beating Sunset (Dallas) 21-7, Lufkin crushed Jacksonville 52-7 for the District 12 title, Goose Creek beat Galveston 28-6 for the District 14 flag and Brownsville defeated Harlingen 32-6 for the District 16 pennant.

Cleveland Rams Win Western Pro Title

DETROIT, Nov. 23 (U.P.)—Paced by Bob Waterfield and Jim Benton, the Cleveland Rams clinched the National Professional football league's western division championship Thursday by defeating the Detroit Lions, 28 to 21, before 40,017 freezing fans at Briggs stadium.

Benton caught 10 passes thrown by Waterfield to set a new league mark for yardage gained by a pass receiver. Benton gained a total of 303 yards by catching the passes as the Rams completely outclassed the Lions. The Rams piled up an early lead, shortened only by two Lion touchdowns late in the game.

Benton's mark cracked the old record of 237 yards, held by Don Hudson of the Green Bay Packers and established Nov. 21, 1943, when he caught eight aerials against the Brooklyn Tigers.

Benton started the Rams toward victory on the first play of the game when he intercepted a Lion pass. Waterfield then shot a 40-yard pass to Benton which carried to the 18-yard line and Fred Gehrke circled end for the opening score. Waterfield converted for a 7-0 Ram lead.

Bob Westfall's touchdown buck and Bill Callihan's placement evened it before the end of the period but Cleveland got two more touchdowns in the second period and another in the third.

Zivic-Robinson Bout Set For Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 23 (U.P.)—Fritzie Zivic, who will fight a ten-round match here Dec. 10 in municipal auditorium with Ray Sugar Robinson, told Promoter Freddie Summers by long distance telephone today that he will receive a discharge from the Army Dec. 2.

Zivic has compiled 56 points in 20 months of service and is the father of three children.

Opening Fight Show Held At Boys Club

Nine fast battles gave the opening session of the weekly leather pushing shows at the Lubbock Boys club a rousing start last night with 439 fans on hand to see the youngsters trade punches.

Norman Lindsey, Boys club battler, stole the show for the night when he landed a kayo on the whiskers of George Boyd from the Community Center in the second round. It was the only knockout registered in the nine fights.

Gene James of the Boys Club also turned in a victory over a battler from the Community Center, besting R. J. Metheney in three fast rounds. Johnny Boyd of the Community Center won over Robert Johnson of the Boys Club in the only other scrap pairing boys from both clubs.

There were two fast exhibitions that featured scrappers from the Community Center. Glen Metheney won over Frank Brown, and Harold Doss decisioned James Rowden.

Pinkey Owens won a split decision over Bobby Goodrich in the opening bout of the card, and the first of four battles between Boys club members. Wilburn Roach won the nod from all three judges over Jimmy Nelson. Don Decker won a whirlwind battle with James Holloway on a split decision that was one of the best fights on the card. Pat Warren won a split decision over J. D. Fowler in the remaining bout.

Bo Sexton was the referee. Judges were K. N. Clapp, Ray Simmons and Bert Kahan. The card drew 218 club members and 221 visitors for the opening show

LARGEST ENTRY EXPECTED

CORSICANA, Nov. 23 (AP)—The largest entry in the history of the Texas open championship of the Texas Field Trials association is forecast for Dec. 3 at Malakoff by A. P. Mays of Corsicana, association president.

Samuel Littler, West Camden, N. Y., planted the tree from which, years later, he made his own coffin.

Frogs, Rice In Top SWC Scrap

DALLAS, Nov. 23 (AP) — The Southwest Conference football race reaches its penultimate round tomorrow but no matter how the two games go, nothing will definitely be decided toward a championship.

It is a typical Southwestern race—a free-for-all and no holds barred. The thing could wind up with four teams sharing the title and there are any number of other ways it could end much to the dissatisfaction of all concerned.

Anyway, tomorrow's schedule has Rice playing Texas Christian at Fort Worth and Southern Methodist tackling Baylor at Waco. The Rice-TCU game is loaded with importance.

Rice, with a grand opportunity to gain at least a tie for the championship after doing an amazing about-face from four humiliating lickings, wouldn't be out of the running with a defeat at the hands of the Horned Frogs—a strong possibility indeed. But it certainly would put the Owls close to the eight-ball.

In that event Texas could lick Texas A. and M. next week and win a clear claim to the championship. But if Rice beats Texas Christian, then there would be the matter of the Owls tripping Baylor next week to end up with a tie with Texas for the title should the Longhorns come through over the Aggies.

It's quite confusing but it's interesting nevertheless with 12,000 fans due to turn out at Fort Worth and 11,000 to see Baylor's traditional joust with Southern Methodist.

In the latter game, there's little riding on the result. Southern Methodist has faint hopes only of the race closing in a four-way tie, in which event the Methodist would be in it should they beat Baylor and trim Texas Christian next week.

A Regrettable Incident

Mr. Truman Has Prestige, Too

A definition of the control exercised by the Baptist General convention of Texas over it denominational schools may grow out of Baylor university's proffering of an honorary degree to President Truman in defiance of a resolution adopted at the convention's meeting in Fort Worth last week.

It seems that in the Truman case, the convention attempted to dictate not on general policy but on administrative detail. It took the specific stand that it has authority to determine who shall, or not, be granted honorary degrees by Baylor university. Baylor President Pat M. Neff and other university officials questioned this power, and demonstrated their stand by sending word to Mr. Truman that his degree "was waiting."

While some may say the whole tempest in a teapot regarding the President, his Baylor degree and the Baptist convention are matters of interest to Baptists, only, that isn't true. Although he is a member of the Baptist faith, Mr. Truman, as President of the United States, represents all the people. He is a national figure, not a denominational one.

It occurs to us that the big point has been overlooked in the Truman-Baylor incident. That is, there is quite as much—if not more—honor involved in the President's acceptance of an honorary degree than in the college's proffering it. After all, Baylor, it seems to us, has much more to gain from official recognition by the President of the United States—whomever he may be—than the President has to gain from being awarded a kudo. This would be true no matter what university or college might be involved, with the possible exception of a very few educational institutions with world prestige.

Our view of the whole matter, we think, is joined in by most Texans, including many members of the Baptist faith. In brief, that view is: "The whole thing was unfortunate and unnecessary."

The Chamelon Of Labor

MOST commentators on the current labor-management conference in Washington are of the opinion that John L. Lewis has come close to dominating it.

He got some support of business by demanding an end to government interference in industrial relations and also a general price rise to allow for higher wages. He put the CIO on the defensive by living up against it on the side of the AFL, then overshadowed William Green, AFL president, by sheer superiority in tactics and oratory.

Yet once Lewis was called a communist by business for demanding nationalization of coal mines. He was once a leading light in the AFL, running for presidency of the union in the early 1920's, but withdrew in 1935 to form and head the CIO. Then in turn took himself and his United Mine Workers out of the CIO. And now he is flirting with the AFL again.

Once, Lewis was chief labor adviser to the Republican national committee, and claims that he was offered the Secretary of Labor portfolio in 1925 by President Coolidge. A few years later, he went whole-hog for the New Deal and called President Roosevelt "the greatest man to sit in the White House since Lincoln."

But in 1937, when the administration refused to take sides in the sit-down controversy, Lewis began to cool toward Roosevelt, and in 1940, flatly predicted that Roosevelt would be overwhelmingly defeated if he ran for a third term. In coming out for Willkie, he said that a Republican victory was necessary to save the country from dictatorship.

Because bushy-browed Lewis is so unpredictable, he is always a threat to smooth conduct of industrial relations. He is indeed the chameleon of American labor.

A New Tack On U. S. Homes

MR. ROBERT L. DAVIDSON, New York housing research expert, has established himself as a true friend of the "little people." Davidson has some revolutionary ideas, but you can't say they are not good.

He advises that while you are planning that dream home with the built-in gimmicks and the robot gadgets, why not give some thought to the kids?

Davidson proposes that adult-size houses be adapted to child-size occupants. If adults had to cope with houses and furniture as large, in proportion to themselves, as conventional houses and furniture are to children, they would see the point quite readily, he believes.

"Doors, windows, stairways, chairs and so on seem insurmountable problems to children and are not only physically difficult for them, as constant reminders of their inferiority, exert an unfortunate influence psychologically," Davidson declares.

Naturally, houses and furniture cannot be brought down to juvenile dimensions, but some adjustments should be made, he says. Here are some of his suggestions: Instead of a high chair, a chair made to look like a grown-up's but with a higher seat and available by an extra rung or two. A step below the window sill which will enable the youngster to observe the outside world without having to hang by his chin. A second and lower stair rail and a second clothes pole in the closets.

Adults might agree with Davidson if they stop to think how they would feel if they had to live among things twice as big as they are.

Marshall's Report On The War

By Gen. George C. Marshall
Wartime Chief Of Staff

(This is the tenth of 42 installments of material selected from General Marshall's report on the winning of World War II).

TOWARD ROME

THERE were now 11 Allied divisions in the Italian line, but the Germans had at least 24 on the Italian mainland. Although 14 of these were in Northern Italy outside the combat zone, the enemy was in a position to build up a considerably greater defensive force than General Eisenhower had available for his attack. The additional Allied air power and the threat of a landing further north by General Patton's Seventh Army were counted on to deter the enemy from moving his divisions south from the Po Valley. This threat was exploited by skillful use of General Patton and his headquarters. Following the Sicilian campaign, the Seventh Army headquarters, which no longer had any divisions assigned to it, was moved to Corsica. General Patton's mysterious movements throughout the Mediterranean area kept the Germans guessing where the Seventh Army, which they had learned to fear so much in Sicily, might strike next.

MARSHALL

Early in November the II Corps, then commanded by Maj. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes, moved to the mainland of Italy from Sicily. German plans to hold the line of the Volturno were frustrated when on the night of 12-13 October the II Corps and the VI Corps, now commanded by Maj. Gen. J. P. Lucas, of the Fifth Army forced crossings of that river. Destroying every bridge and culvert en route, the Germans withdrew to the "winter line" which they had been preparing feverishly since the Allied landings on the mainland. This defensive position stretched across the peninsula, following generally the lines of the Carigliano and Sangro Rivers, about 75 miles south of Rome.

Winter had arrived. Heavy rains were falling and streams were in constant flood. The resources of our engineers were taxed to keep in place the temporary bridges on the vital supply routes. Vehicles and men mired deep in mud.

Hardest Kind Of Fighting

Despite the difficulties there was no relaxation of pressure. The purpose was to seize Rome as quickly as possible and engage the maximum number of German divisions. The offensive was a series of attacks and pauses, the immediate objectives being key terrain features. It was the hardest kind of fighting. The Germans had mined the roads, trails, natural cross-country routes of advance, and even the stream beds. To reinforce terrain barriers the enemy constructed strongpoints in which he skilfully employed mine fields, wire entanglements, log-and-earth emplacements, and automatic weapons. Machinegun and mortar emplacements, many of them dug four or five feet into solid rock, covered every approach. To deal with them the artillery was heavily reinforced by batteries of the heaviest field pieces we had produced. The 240-mm Howitzer and the 8-inch gun were rushed from the United States.

In December the Fifth Army arrived before the entrance to the Cassino corridor to Rome. The 2d Moroccan Infantry Division arrived in Italy at this time and was assigned to it. The United States had agreed to equip eight French infantry and armored divisions including supporting troops. The Moroccan division was the forerunner of the Corps Expeditionaire Francais which, under the leadership of Gen. Alphonse Juin, greatly distinguished itself in the hard fighting of the months that followed.

Allied interest in the Eastern Mediterranean shifted to the Balkans following the conclusion of the North African campaign. Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton's Ninth Air Force based in Northeast Africa bombed strategic targets there, including the Ploesti airfields and, with elements of the Royal Air Force's Middle East Air Command, dropped supplies to the hard-pressed patrio forces.

The Eastern Mediterranean had constituted a separate theater under British Command until 5 December 1943 when the entire offensive in the Mediterranean was brought under one command. On that date the Combined Chiefs of Staff delegated to General Eisenhower responsibility for all operations in the Mediterranean other than strategic bombing. Three weeks later on 24 December, he was appointed Supreme Allied Commander of the invasion forces from the West, meaning from the British Isles, and was ordered to England to take over the final preparations. General Montgomery, Air Chief Marshal Tedder, and General Bradley joined him there. Gen. (Sir Henry Maitland Wilson was named Supreme Commander of Allied Forces in the Mediterranean Area, to succeed General Eisenhower, and Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, U. S. Army, was appointed his deputy. Lt. Gen. Sir Oliver W. H. Leese assumed command of the British Eighth Army. General Clark continued in command of the Fifth Army.

German Counter-Attacks

At this time Lt. Gen. Carl Spaatz was selected to command the United States Strategic Air Forces in Europe with headquarters in London, and General Doolittle was appointed commander of the Eighth Air Force, vice Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, who assumed command of the Mediterranean Allied Air Forces. Maj. Gen. Nathan F. Twining was given command of the Fifteenth Strategic Air Force and Maj. Gen. J. K. Cannon continued in command of the Twelfth Tactical Force.

Early in January the French Corps, under General Juin, took over the right sector of the Fifth Army Front from the United States VI Corps, which was withdrawn to prepare for the Anzio landings. The Fifth Army then launched its attack against the line of the Garigliano River.

To disrupt communications in the rear of German forces in the Cassino area, the VI Corps landed on beaches near Anzio, 25 miles south of Rome, on 22 January. The landing forces included the 3d United States Division, a British infantry division, and American Ranger and parachute units. Reacting swiftly to the threat to his rear, the enemy rushed both infantry and armor to the Anzio area; the Hermann Goering Panzer Division was hastily shifted to the beachhead area and other divisions were sent down from Northern Italy. By the end of January the Allied troops in the beachhead faced a perimeter of strong German forces. With observation from the surrounding hills the Germans were able to deliver persistent accurate artillery fire throughout the flat beachhead and against ships near the shore.

Defeating the initial effort to capture Cisterna, the enemy drove in an attack to split the beachhead and annihilate our forces ashore. A masterful defense, in which the 3d and 45th Divisions suffered heavily but fought magnificently, halted the counter-attacks which reached their peak of intensity on 17 February. Later in the month the Hermann Goering and 29th Panzer Grenadier Divisions led another unsuccessful drive aimed at Anzio.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

H. G. Wells, the English author, has just written a series of articles in which he predicts "the end of life" in the near future.

From the wisdom of his 79 years, he sees very little hope for the human race, and the mind has about exhausted its possibilities, he writes.

BRANDEIS

It is a matter of months, or maybe weeks, thinks Mr. Wells, but the end is near!

Well, at the age of seventy-nine a man has a perfect right to think of his own end and of the exhaustion of his mind.

But, if Mr. Wells weren't such a well-respected citizen of the world, who, in his day, really showed much sagacity and talent, we would ridicule his theories as much as we did those of that fellow out in Los Angeles who predicted the end of the world for a certain day a few weeks ago and then was terribly disappointed because it did not happen.

And all we did—even before his prophecy proved false—was to laugh at him and call him queer.

Now let me predict something—and you may laugh at me and call me queer.

I predict that instead of perishing, the human mind will become greater and better.

I predict that some day—perhaps in centuries from now—there will be no more wars and no more racial differences and no more greed and avarice and envy.

I predict that some day—maybe in 1945 years from now—the world will be the kind of the world we could have had 1945 years past if we had heeded the teachings of Christ and the Apostles.

AND I further predict that this world and all life upon it will come to an end if we don't stop making unmitigated asses of ourselves for the sake of a few dollars and a few oil wells and a few rubber plantations and for the sake of power and glory and vanity and—bunk.

Here we have hardly finished a terrible war in which millions of us humans have lost our sons and husbands and sweethearts, in which we suffered and wept and raised our hands to the Lord in supplication for deliverance from evil—and what do we do?

We squabble and we scrap and fight like guttersnipes over who is to have what and whose boats are to be allowed to sail upon what river and who is to own that side of the river and who the other side.

We try to foist our ideals and our faiths and our ways of living upon people who don't want those ideals and those faiths and those ways.

We fight with each other in our own country about hours and wages and by the time we get through we'll have another war and the next one will be, as Mr. Wells predicts, the finish.

Why on earth can't we behave like human beings? Who do we think we are?

What a laugh Satan must have when he sees how God's children, who pray so fervently on Sunday, behave from Monday to Saturday!

The National Whirligig

New Type Of "Political Football"

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

AMERICA'S national defense system in the post-war period will be built on selfish, sectional politics rather than military considerations unless Army-Navy chieftains can successfully battle the MCs. The nonpartisan spirit which prevailed during the conflict has vanished.

Almost every member insists that an airfield, training center, anchorage for laid-up ships or hospitals be erected in his district or state, regardless of the cost or inconveniences to the armed services in planning for a balanced program. Few agree to scrapping or abandoning sites no longer needed.

Congress alone is not responsible for this interference in the Administration's attempt to prune costs without jeopardizing defenses. Local groups have put pressure on their representatives at Washington, and only a few legislators can muster courage to resist the home-town boosters.

TUCKER

Kenneth McKellar, president of the Senate and acting chairman of the Appropriations committee, has hinted that funds may not be forthcoming for the Army-Navy's broad program unless he has his way. He wants to retain and expand a small field at Smyrna, Tenn., that has been listed for closing.

The congressional lobbyists have even dragged the atomic bomb into the controversy, and with some justice if this weapon is not to be outlawed. They point out that its deadly effect necessitates the decentralization of military centers as well as factories, and places a premium on remote areas as against seaboard sites.

RETIREMENT: The sensationally swift demobilization of the most powerful military machine in world history does not involve only GIs, sailors, fliers and the armaments that swept them to victory over the Axis. The retirement of Army, Navy and Air Forces officers of the highest rank threatens to be appalling.

Almost the only outstanding figure who seems to want to remain in the service is General "Ike" Eisenhower, the new Chief of Staff.

Included in the list of those who want less arduous careers are such other illustrious leaders as Leahy, King and Nimitz, Air Forces Chieftain Henry H. Arnold, Gen. George S. Patton, jr., Lt. Gen. Joseph D. McNarney, who succeeds Eisenhower in Europe, "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell, Lt. Gen. "Joe" Chennault and many of less distinction.

REST: Although some of these men are below the retirement age, they tell friends that they are "burned out." They have been on extraordinary and wearying duty ever since it become evident almost 10 years ago that only a miracle could keep this country out of war. After they had spent dreary nights and days in reorganizing the three services and helping to transform this country into an "arsenal of Democracy," they had to lead to victory the machine they had created. They think they deserve a rest.

The oldsters among the group also admit that modern war has become too grueling a game even for them, with its motorized forces, difficult questions of supply and equipment, atoms, rocket and jet bombs and other weapons still in the laboratory stage. National defense has become a young man's study and game.

GLOOM: The foreign and domestic troubles which beset the world cast a pall over Washington and other capitals, where leaders doubt the wartime promises that a brave, new and free world will arise from the ruins of the old. But optimists recall in the midst of encircling gloom that the pattern resembles closely the difficult conditions that prevailed from 20 to 25 years ago.

The Allies were quarreling among themselves at Versailles. London and France were giving aid to the White Russians again the Bolsheviks. Japan was grabbing everything in sight across the Pacific. Germany and other defeated nations were pleading poverty. Gandhi had seized upon Woodrow Wilson's crusading cry of "self-determination" to renew his battle for India's independence. China was in turmoil.

HOPING: At home the Senate's Battalion of Death was "breaking the great heart of the world" by crucifying the Covenant of the League of Nations. The "Ohio Gang" was preparing to descend on Washington. Political idealism had fallen to a new low.

Senate Democrats — the late Tom Walsh and Burton K. Wheeler — were hearing rumbles that resulted in the Teapot Dome, Veterans, Alien Property and Daugherty investigations. The Republican defenders of the administration were yelling "politics," as do the Democrats today in relation to FDR and Pearl Harbor.

Meanwhile, the world's "little people" were working, hoping for the best.

TEXAS
By Gordon Shearer

AUSTIN.—The state capitol visitors have a new sport. It is searching for relatives in the painting of the Annexation of Texas, now on display in the Senate chamber.

The painting is by P. D. Searcy, Austin, who also painted the picture of Judge Roy Bean's court for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

As there are approximately 170 persons in the painting, many people pick out an ancestor who was at the annexation. Factually 40 of the 170 persons are depicted by likenesses taken from old daguerreotypes or portraits.

In one case a descendant was used as a model to paint the presence of a participant in the annexation ceremonies for whom no photograph could be found. George Menefee of Austin posed for the portrait of Francis Menefee White of Jackson county, member of the first legislature.

NOTABLES: Attending the ceremony held February 19, 1846 were Anson Jones, last president of the Republic of Texas, with his cabinet; members of the last Congress of the Republic; and members of the first Texas state legislature together with first Texas Governor James Pinckney Henderson. Past Presidents of the Republic David G. Burnet and Mirabeau B. Lamar are shown among the special guests. Sam Houston did not attend and Stephen F. Austin had died before the annexation.

Austin appears in the painting, however, in a reproduction of his portrait shown as part of the decoration of the old capitol verandah where the exercises were held. Site of the building was near the present Austin City hall.

SUBSTITUTES: Among prominent invited guests who appear in the painting are Tomas F. McKinney, financial agent of the Republic of Texas and Gail Borden, of publishing ranch and milk fame.

Another publisher whose account of the annexation in the "Daily Intelligencer" is widely quoted is shown in the picture with a copy of his La Grange paper under his arm. The head on the figure is that of Garland Adair, later Texas editor and commissioner of the Centennial of Statehood. No likeness of the earlier editor was available to the artists.

Surprising to those who inspect the painting closely is a life-like portrait of L. W. Kemp of Houston. Kemp's face was used on the figure representing the early Texas historian John Henry Brown. Brown's picture, too, was unavailable so Kemp, a later day historian of Texas, was substituted.

Among the women in the picture are Mrs. Anson Jones and Mrs. Pinckney Henderson painted from likenesses of the time. Other figures of women in the picture represent no particular individual. Two fictitious figures show an elderly frontiersman holding his wife's hand as they walk away, in apparent disapproval of Texas giving up its separate government to become a state of the United States.

Why work so hard for money when few things you can buy with it are worth what they cost?

Curtailing Of Lend-Lease Is Blamed

British Reaction To U. S. Seen

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J. — A little more than one-third of the British people say they feel less friendly toward the United States today than they did a year ago.

This is found to be largely a reaction to stoppage of Lend-Lease in the latter part of the summer. Surveys by the British Institute in the past have found the British public friendly toward the United States.

GALLUP

Even so about 10 out of every 100 say they feel more friendly toward the United States today than they did a year ago. The present situation is shown in replies to this question, recently asked of a carefully selected cross-section of Britons:

"Are your feelings toward the United States more friendly, or less friendly, than they were a year ago?"

More friendly	9%
Same	46
Less friendly	35
Don't know	10

What remains still to be seen is the effect upon the thinking of the British man-in-the-street if United States grants Britain the three-to-four billion dollar loan which U. S. leaders have been discussing with representatives of the British government.

Meanwhile, Russia seems to have fared better than the United States. While two in every 10 British voters say they feel less friendly toward Russia now than a year ago, 70 per cent say they either feel the same or more friendly toward the Soviet.

Those who regard Russia with diminishing warmth today say they distrust Russia and/or her intentions. They say they think she may be out for world domination.

Replies to the question about Russia, worded the same as the one about the United States:

Added Help Is Urged In Fight Against TB

Speaking on behalf of the Lubbock County Tuberculosis association's annual fund drive, George J. Young urged more than the usual $2 contributions for Christmas seals from the American Business club, assembled at their luncheon Friday in the Hilton hotel, to help "eliminate this dreaded disease."

Quoting resultant figures of 16,068 patch tests made recently in Lubbock schools, Young said that 133 students or eight per cent of the number tested are positive reactors, on the verge of tuberculosis. "No cause is more worthy of your attention and assistance than of the tuberculosis association," he asserted.

The association is asking for $9,000 this year, but if they exceed their goal it might be possible to buy needed X-ray equipment, obtain another nurse and eliminate tuberculosis in Lubbock county, Young declared.

G. H. Nelson presided in the absence of Jimmie Wilson, club president. L. D. Casey, president of the Optimist club, announced the presentation of "Cover Girl Revue" to be staged at 8 p. m. Thursday, Lubbock High school auditorium.

Luncheon guests were F. C. Mc Knight, Abilene; Curtis Patterson, George W. McClesky, Rush Dickinson, Mack Mead, and Floyd (Dutch) Turner, former member recently discharged from the service.

Services Set Sunday For Mrs. D. Rogers

HALE CENTER, Nov. 23. — Funeral services for Mrs. Dale Rogers, the former Maxine Caraway who was killed Sunday night by a hit-and-run driver in Burbank, Calif., will be conducted here at the Church of Christ at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon with the minister, A. C. McIlroy, officiating. Burial will be in the Hale Center cemetery.

Her husband, recently returned veteran from the European theater, and her father, H. A. Caraway, are accompanying the body home.

Besides the husband, Mrs. Rogers is survived by her parents, one sister, Miss Emogene Caraway, Ft. Worth, two brothers, John Evan, with the Marines in Japan, and H. A., jr., student in the local high school, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Caraway, Weatherford.

Mrs. Rogers planned to return home in a few days to be with her husband who was discharged only last week from the Army Signal corps. He had served since June, 1942, 18 months of that time in Europe.

She was born Dec. 28, 1921 at Wellington, and attended Hale Center schools.

Aged Slaton Man Is Found Dead Friday

SLATON, Nov. 23. (Special) — E. H. Cook, about 75, was found dead at 4 p. m. Friday in his Eight-street home here where he lived alone. Death apparently was due to heart failure about 48 hours before he was found. He moved to Slaton from Lubbock 11 years ago.

Definite funeral services had not been announced, Rix Funeral home at Lubbock reported.

Survivors include six sons, Carl Cook of Lubbock, Jack Cook of Wilson, Foster Cook of Spur, Myer Cook of Gallup, N. M., Lawrence Cook of Chilicothe, and Fred Cook of Tyler; two daughters, Mrs. R. Blankenship of Dallas and Nannie May Cook, who lives in California; nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

LEADERS GENERALLY RETREAT

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — Scattered specialties achieved modest headway in today's stock market while leaders generally extended their retreat by fractions to more than two points.

Transfers of 1,350,000 shares compared with 1,910,000 Wednesday.

Belief that more of a technical correction of the swing to 14-year average peaks was likely caused the further trimming of accounts. Bearish factors were the General Motors strike, threat of a national telephone walk-out, refusal of the OPA to grant a steel price boost at this time and another drop in freight car loadings.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .7 of a point at 74.

Exceptions to the downturn at tops for 1945 or longer were Shamrock Oil, again buoyed by word the head of a major petroleum company had secured an option to purchase control of the concern; warner Bros., National Supply, Electric and Musical Industries and Hupp Motors.

Prominent casualties included General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodyear, American Telephone, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Bendix, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Can, General Electric, Dow Chemical Du Pont, Eastman Kodak and Philip Morris.

Bonds were irregularly lower.

Cotton

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Prices in the cotton futures market drifted lower today in quiet trading under light pressure of hedge selling and liquidation. There was considerable evening up in December anticipating first notice day in that month next Tuesday, along with switching into the latter months. Mills were the principal buyers on the decline. Memphis advices reported less active mill demand for spot cotton during the week but buying for nearby and forward deliveries increased in the Atlanta territory.

Futures closed 10 to 55 cents a bale lower.

Arbitration Plan Rejected By GM

by agreeing to such a proposal.

GM not only rejected the 30 per cent wage demands but also withdrew its counter offer of 10 per cent increases declaring, "in view of the union's summary rejection of our proposal, this offer is hereby withdrawn."

The company spokesman said the 10 per cent offer had been made without regard as to whether or not the government would approve an increase in prices of new cars.

Schwellenbach, who conferred with the President at the White House, disclosed that Mr. Truman had approved a proposal to summon both parties in the dispute to Washington for conferences.

The secretary, who conferred today with the President at the White House House, said he had gone "over the whole General Motors situation" with Mr. Truman.

Capital Conference

Schwellenbach said General Motors officials and representatives of the United Auto Workers (CIO) would be invited to Washington to talk with Edgar L. Warren, chief of the Federal Conciliation service.

He indicated the meeting could not be held before Wednesday because the union is planning an executive committee meeting in Detroit Monday and Tuesday.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW vice president in charge of General Motors negotiations, commented "we will be most happy to confer at Washington and to help in any way we can to effect an early settlement of this strike.

Comment Withheld

Company officials withheld comment pending official notification from Washington on the Schwellenbach report.

Asked if he was optimistic about the situation, the secretary said: "It is too early to know."

The discussion between the nation's chief executive and Secretary Schwellenbach came as nearly half of the nation's automobile production capacity remained idle in the strike of UAW workers seeking a 30 per cent wage rate increase from the General Motors corporation.

A GM spokesman said earlier today that as far as automotive production was concerned the strike was "100 per cent effective."

Schwellenbach said he gave the President a summary of a report on the GM dispute received today from John Gibson, a Labor department conciliator, who studied the Detroit situation over the holiday.

The strike already involves more than "twice th enumber of workers involved in the 44-day "sit-down" strike in GM plants in 1937.

Little Production

A corporation spokesman estimated today that GM plants had produced slightly more than 20,000 of the 1946 model cars up to the time the strike started Wednesday. In 1941 General Motors assembled 2,257,124 of the industry's overall production of 4,838,561 vehicles.

Picket lines at Michigan plants were small today. Union officials attributed this to a swirling snowstorm along with temperatures in the 20's. They said larger "and more colorful" lines would be on the job next week.

Today was pay-day for hourly-rated workers in most General Motors plants, but company reports indicated the picket lines kept office workers away from at least half the plant offices.

Rationing Ends

ernment rubber authorities said recently.

Today's action on meat directly affects only the better grades of beef and lamb and most pork and pork products. Lower grades of beef and lamb and all mutton were made ration-free in October.

Anderson emphasized that termination of rationing will in no way affect government plans for aiding Allied and war-liberated areas.

Surrender of Tokens

OPA announced that to prevent their misuse, all red ration tokens in the hands of the trade should be surrendered to ration banks before Dec. 12.

The public, OPA said, will not be required to turn in tokens "because of the burden this would impose."

The red stamps can be disposed of, the OPA said.

Any civil suits which had been pending in connection with red point rationing are automatically dismissed, the OPA said, but criminal suits will be prosecuted.

The OPA said that any case of suspension of the right to deal in rationed red point foods is now cancelled.

Iranian Protests

sian troops had been moved toward Karaj, 25 miles northwest of Tehran.)

Schwarzkopf said he had been "in touch with the military and the government since the outbreak of the revolt in Azerbaijan."

Schwarzkopf, who helped investigate the Lindbergh kidnapping case, came to Iran in September 1942, to reorganize the country's national police. Before the war the gendarmerie numbered about 7,000 men.

Decentralized Vet Service Is Sought

WACO, Nov. 23. (AP)—The Veterans administration setup in Texas will be decentralized, with Dallas the headquarters for a three-state region, Col. Harry Rubin, manager of the regional office here, said today.

Waco at present is state headquarters for the administration.

Col. Rubin said he had submitted to Washington recommendations for the decentralization plan, but preferred not to reveal details until he heard from Washington officials. He said he expected action on his plan within two or three weeks.

Improvements immediately are planned in medical services, vocational rehabilitation, contact services and legal and social services, he said. Expanded services will come from the decentralization plan.

Better service in the lower Rio Grande valley was pledged.

Unconfirmed reports have said the office in Waco will be divided into three area offices and two sub-area offices. The area offices would be in Dallas, Houston and San Antonio, and the sub-area offices in Waco and Lubbock.

Col. Rubin would neither confirm nor deny the reports.

Jury Says Minister Is Father Of Child

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Nov. 23 (AP)—A Wyandotte county district court jury late today found Lawrence I. Goodrich, 56, retired preacher, to be the father of the eight-month-old daughter of unmarried Glady Beard, 39-year-old former missionary worker.

The jury of ten men and two women deliberated only 15 minutes. Miss Beard smiled broadly when the jury announced its finding.

Pending a hearing on a motion for a new trial, which defense attorneys said would be filed within the next three days, Judge Russell C. Hardy issued a temporary order requiring Goodrich to pay $10 weekly toward support of the child.

Goodrich, who lives here, was required to post a $200 bond insuring compliance wit hthe court's order.

'Free Press' Plan Stricken From Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP) — The widely-discussed "free press" amendment was struck from the $550,000,000 UNRRA fund bill today by a Senate appropriations subcommittee. The members acted unanimously.

The House had stipulated that none of the fund could be spent in countries which refuse American reporters free access to news of UNRRA activities there.

The deletion is subject to review by the full committee Monday and on the Senate floor later. The $550,000,000 would fulfill the balance of this country's pledge of $1,350,000,000 for this year to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration.

The subcommittee tacked on another amendment, however, designed to buoy farm prices. It was opposed vigorously by the State department and UNRRA.

Citizens Repay Fine Imposed On Veteran

WACO, Nov. 23 (AP)—Citizens of Waco today raised funds to pay the fine of a veteran who lost his leg in action in Europe, and there was money to spare.

Following an appeal by the Waco Times-Herald, residents of this city oversubscribed a fund to repay Warren Crouch of Benton, Ark., a $50 fine assessed him by Judge Charles A. Boynton in U. S. District court. The fund also will pay Crouch's fare from Benton to Waco and back.

Crouch pleaded guilty to taking a military policeman's pistol from a jeep at Temple while celebrating his release from the Army after an artificial leg had been fitted at McCloskey General hospital.

Hungry Japs Storm Warehouse And Seize Food And Other Supplies

TOKYO, Nov. 23. (AP) — More than 200 famished Japanese broke into an American warehouse today at Sendai, within 200 miles of Tokyo, and seized food and other stores, Sendai police reported.

The police said they arrested 180 persons, including 94 women.

No other details were available on the outbreak, which was the first to be reported involving American supplies, although there have been similar raids on Japanese stores in the northern island of Hokkaido.

Koiso Surrenders

While the food riot was in progress in Sendai, Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, one of Japan's wartime premiers, surrendered at Sugamo prison to American occupation authorities who had placed him on the "wanted" list of war criminal suspects.

The grayclad 65-year-old Koiso, leaning on a heavy cane and fingering a close-cropped mustache, told correspondents, "we believe in our innocence."

Koiso was premier from July, 1944, to April, 1945, resigning as a result of the American invasion of Okinawa. He said that actually, he knew the war was lost when he took office at the time Saipan fell but he had hoped to recapture that island when the Philippines campaign was in progress.

Vain Effort For Peace

Koiso said that as premier he had made a vain effort through China to negotiate peace. He did not elaborate.

Another member of the wanted fraternity, former Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, also talked peace today.

In a statement issued from his mountain home near Aisome village, Matsuoka contended that he had planned to go to Washington to seek a neutrality treaty with the United States in 1941 but was unable to do so because of illness.

Alignment With Axis

He also contended that his alignment of Japan with the Rome-Berlin axis and the Japanese-Russian pact were intended as peace moves.

The latest name on the wanted list was that of Col. Tadashi Kamashima, formerly with the Japanese Sixth Army headquarters in Hankow, China. The Japanese government was ordered today to deliver him to jail.

Sugamo and Omori prisons now house 250 Japanese and 41 non-Japanese war criminal suspects.

News Briefs

Mrs. Hopie Austin of 2607 Twenty-fifth received news Friday that her husband, Lt. Henry W. Austin, USNR, had arrived in the states after six months service in Manila. He is in a Naval hospital at Oakland, Calif., where he is being treated for pneumonia. His brother, Lt. L. M. Austin, jr. who recently returned from France where he served with the Army engineers, is suffering from burns received Sunday when an explosion occurred at Ft. Louis, Wash. He is in the hospital there. Both are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Austin of 2012 Fifteenth.

Grover E. Hampton, recently returned from 10 months service with the Army infantry in the European Theater of Operations, has received his discharge and returned to his former job as elevator foreman with the Purina Mills. Hampton, who was a private, served 29 months in the Army. Mr. and Mrs. Hampton and two children, J. E. and Minnie Ruth, reside on the Tahoka highway.

Funeral services for W. A. Patterson, 73, of 1923 Second were conducted at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Broadway Church of Christ with Elder Liff Sanders officiating. Plains Funeral home reported. Burial was in Lubbock cemetery. Patterson died Tuesday at Sulphur Springs where he had been visiting a daughter.

Nelson Worley Named Clovis Police Chief

CLOVIS, Nov. 23. (U.P.)—Assuming duties as Clovis chief of police today was Nelson Worley, former police captain, replacing Roy Ansley, who resigned.

Ansley's resignation followed the city commission's announcement that it had asked the city manager to relieve Ansley of his duties on Dec. 1.

The commission's action, according to Mayor C. Roy Smith, came as a result of reports that Ansley had been using personally a stolen car recovered by police.

Hatch Cites Danger To Continued Accord

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—Senator Hatch (D-NM) condemned in the Senate today what he said appeared to be an insistence by some countries "to try to dominate internal affairs of neighboring nations."

The New Mexico senator told his colleagues that he didn't want to blame anyone, but asserted that "many students of international affairs clearly see a grave danger to permanent world accord in present unilateral steps being aggressively taken by the Soviet union."

"Others also declare Great Britain is following in some places a similar course," he said. "Even we are accused of like policies in certain areas. No matter which nation pursues such a course, it is wrong."

SENATOR SWORN IN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—William H. Stanfill, Republican, was sworn in today as senator from Kentucky. He succeeds Senator A. B. Chandler, Democrat, who resigned to become baseball commissioner.

Buying Public Is Now "Economy" Conscious

The average American household stretches pocketbooks for added savings by buying big sizes in most everything and it works the same way when you buy the 100 tablet size of St. Joseph Aspirin for 35c as you get nearly 3 tablets for 1c. For handy pocket use, remember world famous 12 tablet package for 10c. None finer, faster or more economical. The choice of millions. Always demand pure St. Joseph Aspirin.

Cold Wave Blankets Northwest States

(By The Associated Press)

An intense storm which has controlled the weather over the eastern half of the country for three days remained centered in the upper lakes region today but was weakening and gradually retreating northeastward.

The storm brought a solid cover of snow ranging from one to three inches or more to the entire area embracing northern Missouri, eastern Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, upper Michigan and the western portion of lower Michigan, the Chicago weather bureau said.

The heaviest officially reported snowfall was at Land O' Lakes, Wis., which had 15 inches. Marquette and Grand Rapids, Mich., each reported eight inches and Houghton, Mich., seven.

The nation's lowest official temperature was five below zero at Minot, N. D. In northern Texas Amarillo had 21 and Abilene 25.

One Dead, Five Hurt In Train-Truck Crash

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 23. (U.P.)—Five passengers on a big four passenger train were injured today and the driver of a truck was killed in a crossing crash at Clermont, five miles east of Indianapolis.

The four-coach train, enroute from Indianapolis to Peoria, Ill., was derailed and the engine overturned when it struck the truck.

M. O. Cooper, of the P. & E. dispatcher's office, said the truck driver was found dead in a creekbed near the crossing. He said he understood that none of the train passengers was injured seriously.

One of the cars remained upright and three others were "leaning," Cooper said. The engine overturned on its side.

Cooper said he did not know the name of the truck driver or the names of the injured passengers.

Indiana state police rushed troopers to the scene.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Two Dormitories To Be Built At NTSTC

DALLAS, Nov. 23 (AP)—Construction of two additional girls' dormitories at North Texas State Teachers college, Denton, will get under way next spring, R. L. Thomas, member of the board of regents of the seven state teachers colleges, announced today.

Thomas said the project was approved at a joint meeting of the board with presidents of the colleges here today. An expenditure of $1,300,000 to finance the two dormitories was approved.

An architect will be employed immediately to draw up plans and contracts will be let at the February meeting of the regents in Austin.

Ground was broken for a $300,000 girls dormitory at NTSTC about a week ago. The three dormitories should provide ample space to house more than 1,200 girls who could not enroll in the college this year because of lack of housing facilities, Thomas said.

The board will issue bonds to finance the projects.

At sessions today and tomorrow the groups will consiler further requests of Dr. J. A. Hill for expenditures of $600,000 at each of the other six state colleges for additional dormitory facilities.

City Manager Faces Ouster In Houston

HOUSTON, Nov. 23: (U.P.) — The Houston Press today carried a story saying Mayor Otis Massey, acting on instructions of the city council, had asked the resignation of Houston's city manager, John North Edy.

"I've got nothing to say at this time about plans concerning a resignation," Edy said. The mayor likewise withheld comment.

However, the Press said, three unidentified councilmen said the council had instructed the mayor to notify Edy the council wanted him to give up his $17,500 a year post.

The Press quoted the councilmen as saying:

"Mr. Edy has become unpopular because of adverse newspaper publicity and that unless he resigns the city manager form of government will be endangered."

The newspaper said that city treasurer, W. B. Collier, now a $6,000 a year man, was being considered as acting city manager on a probationary basis. Another possible successor was Ike Ashburn, vice president of the Todd-Houston shipyards, the paper said.
