Wallace Outlines Ten Point Program To Help Farmers

Secretary Says Aim Will Be To Maintain Present Parity Between Agricultural And Urban Incomes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. (AP)—Secretary Wallace outlined today a ten-point program for keeping America's 30,000,000 farmers on a par with business and industry.

"Agriculture is no longer the forgotten industry of the United States," he said, citing a four-year rise in estimated farm income from $3,500,000,000 to $4,000,000,000.

The farmer's income has returned to its pre-war parity with urban incomes, Wallace said, declaring he will seek to maintain that relationship.

His program:

1. Free opportunity for farmers to organize.
2. Fair and stable income for the farmer, on an equal with city incomes.
3. Supplies of farm goods adjusted to adequate home needs and foreign demand.
4. Foreign policies to encourage peace with other countries and an expanding market abroad for American farm products.
5. Conservation of the soil and other natural resources.
6. Turning below-standard land to non-farm uses.
7. Crop insurance, to cushion the shock of drought, flood, frost and plague, combined with the ever-normal granary.
8. Better opportunities for the man with the hoe to own his land, and increased security for tenants and owner-operators.
9. A higher standard of living for the poorer farmers.
10. Industrial policies to insure abundance for wage earners and farmers alike.

Only two dangers threaten the farmer's future, farm experts said:—A European war or another drought.

A plan for the government to insure farm crops is on the president's desk. The insurance would start only in wheat in 1938, but administration leaders say congress may include cotton and corn.

The president has indicated he would press for aid to the nearly 3,000,000 tenant farmers, varying from $3,000 a year.

Former Legislator

Bobbitt, a World War veteran, has served both as speaker of the house of representatives and as attorney general. He represented the Tarrant district in the house for six years.

"Judge Bobbitt was not an applicant for highway commissioner," Alfred said. "He was not suggested or recommended by anyone. The first he knew of it was Monday night when he came to Austin at my request. I presented the matter to him from the standpoint of a real opportunity to be of service to Texas, and after hours of consideration he finally accepted."

"I am deeply grateful to him for his acceptance and the sacrifice he is making in resigning from the court of civil appeals in order to serve Texas. The whole people have confidence in him and his acceptance will add much to the dignity and high plane upon which affairs of the highway department should be conducted."

Harry Hines of Wichita Falls, Alfred appointee and chairman of the commission the past two years, suggested that Bobbitt be given the honor the next two years.

The governor chose C. S. Slaton, 42, state democratic executive committee member from San Antonio, to succeed Bobbitt as judge.

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 7. (AP)—Robert Lee Bobbitt was attending to his duties as associate justice of the fourth court of civil appeals here today and said he would have no comment to make regarding business of the state highway commission until he takes over the chairmanship of that body on Feb. 15.

Mrs. Robert Richey of Kermit is a guest in the home of Miss Veda Robinson. She plans to visit here several days.

Hope To Open Negotiations On Car Strike

Michigan Governor Confers With Motor Officials And Employees

DETROIT, Jan. 7. (AP)—Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, after conference with General Motors corporation officials and representatives of striking employees, said today prospects for opening of direct negotiation between the two sides "looked good."

The governor came to Detroit at the invitation of James F. Dewey, United States department of labor mediator, seeking to avert the threat of a general strike in General Motors automotive divisions.

After talking with corporation heads and with the "strategy board" of the United Automobile Workers, Murphy returned to Lansing, the state capital, to address the Michigan legislature.

51,000 Out of Work

The governor would not say a conference between union and General Motors leaders was a certainty, but said he would keep in "constant touch" with Dewey.

Murphy several times has talked with leaders of both the corporation and the union in attempts to break the strike deadlock which General Motors said today had thrown 51,000 of its wage earners in 19 plants out of employment.

At Flint, Mich., where strikes in two Fisher Body plants left approximately 15,000 idle, George E. Boyesen, former mayor, announced organization of the "Flint alliance," to combat strike sentiment.

Boyesen said the alliance was intended "for the security of our jobs, our homes and our communities. It is not aimed at any organization. The enrollment will show how Flint and its workers stand."

Assembly Lines Halted

Representing General Motors in the conference with Murphy and Dewey were William S. Knudsen, executive vice-president, Edward T. Fisher, head of operations of the Fisher Body company, seven of whose plants are closed by strikes, and M. E. Coyne, general manager of the Chevrolet Motor company.

Five Chevrolet assembly lines have been suspended because of lack of parts supplied by the Fisher plants.

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 7. (AP)—The Chevrolet Motor company announced today that all of its operations here, and its iron, foundry and small parts plants in Saginaw and Bay City, Mich., would be suspended by Friday night. The closings will throw 19,775 additional General Motors employees out of work.

MONEY FOR SCHOOLS

$5,900 In Tax Collections Received At Office

Receipt of $5,900 tax money was announced today by Mrs. Helen Acuff, assistant county superintendent.

Of the amount, $5,900.52 was from current collections. Local maintenance came in for $4,801.59 of the current receipts while $913.52 was for interest and sinking fund purposes.

Delinquent collections, totaling $156.13, saw $117.49 go to the local maintenance fund while $38.64 went to the interest and sinking fund.

HOW TO KEEP SLEET OFF THE WINDSHIELD

"Household" remedies talked by motorists today to prevent windshield from becoming covered with sleet while driving included:

Rub the windshield with a raw potato, or a raw onion.

Rub the sleet away with salt and keep the windshield wiper going.

Rub the windshield with glycerine.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 7. (AP)—Montana kept close by the fireside today as the official temperature tumbled to 30 below zero at Helena and Havre.

COAHOMA MEETINGS CONDUCTED BY AGENT

Three meetings were conducted by Miss Lora Farnsworth, county home demonstration agent, Wednesday at Coahoma. She led in two girl club sessions, one for the junior and one for the senior girls. They had demonstrations in grooming and discussed the year's program which opened with the meeting.

Women club members discussed the essentials of a good bed and also listened to explanations of the year's work. In all meetings, copies of the year book were distributed.

CRITICALLY ILL

Word was received today from San Antonio that Mrs. A. J. Rippes, aged mother of A. M. Rippes of this city, remained in a critical condition. Little hope was held for her recovery. Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Rippes left here Wednesday afternoon on learning of her illness.

Meat Production Is Stressed

Farmers Turning Attention To Raising Cattle, Swine And Poultry

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth and last of a series of articles based upon the county agents' annual reports. Today's article deals with beef cattle, swine, and poultry production.)

In the balanced farm program, more attention is being paid to the production of beef, pork, and poultry, both as the means of satisfying home food needs and furnishing another source of income.

The practice of including animals and fowls in all yearly programs for individual farms is by no means as widespread as might be imagined, but the tendency is growing, just as is to raise and preserve food at home.

During 1936 only one demonstration reported on a combination pasture and feeding project. The report shows 100 head, weighing 82-

Chill Blasts Strike Wide Western Area

Mercury Slips To 30 Below In Montana; Traffic Blocked By Snow

CHICAGO, Jan. 7. (AP)—A severe cold wave enveloped most of the western half of the nation today. Chill blasts poked into the central states after giving the far west and Rocky Mountain regions their coldest spell of the winter.

Sub-zero temperatures were general west of the Mississippi river. It was 26 below in Yellowstone park yesterday. In Montana the numbing cold caused two deaths.

Blizzards in Utah, Nevada, Arizona and other mountain states marooned scores of travelers and left highways clogged with snow. Several snowbound Utah cities were on fuel rations.

At Cedar City, Utah, a railroad wrecker battered through snow drifts to rescue nine bus passengers marooned 14 hours.

In Nebraska two trains stalled in snow drifts and many highways were blocked. Ice sheathed highways made traffic hazardous in Iowa and Wisconsin. Highways out of Las Vegas, Nev., were blocked last night and the fate of a rescue party of four, headed toward three persons stranded at a mine, was unknown.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7. (AP)—A huge "cold" front" moved down from the north Pacific on southern California today but protective measures saved the citrus crop from damage.

The minimum temperature here this morning was 35, the coldest of the winter. At Arcadia, in the citrus belt, it was 29, the lowest temperature in the lowlands. At Palmdale, on the edge of the Mojave desert 35 miles north of here, the thermometer fell to 18.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 7. (AP)—Winter hurled snow, sleet and zero winds at Oklahoma today. Ice covered roads and sidewalks in eastern and southern Oklahoma, making travel hazardous.

Before cold winter winds, the mercury slipped to zero at Boise City, Beaver and Forgan in the Panhandle.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 7. (AP)—Montana kept close by the fireside today as the official temperature tumbled to 30 below zero at Helena and Havre.

Juliana And German Prince Wed

Colorful Ceremony Links Royal Couple; Cheering Crowds Throng Streets

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Jan. 7. (AP)—A colorful ceremony today united in marriage Crown Princess Juliana and the German nobleman, Prince Bernhard zu Lippe-Biesterfeld.

A preliminary ceremony was read at the town hall then the couple rode in a procession to the church. Along the way, crowds cheered the new member of the royal family and his gracious bride.

The prince was smiling broadly as the procession moved toward the town hall. Behind the royal coach were three wedding party carriages and then the stately "glass coach" of Queen Wilhelmina.

Down shouting lanes of close-packed people the coaches rolled, cracking in kneebreeches beside the creaking doors. The sun glinted on the polished medals and buckles of ten thousand soldiers, lining the route.

Police, struggling against the lines of surging Hollanders, forbade the throwing of flowers.

In the town hall, sitting before a scarlet-draped table, the burgomaster, Dr. S. G. R. De Monchy, asked Bernhard:

"Do you confess your willingness to take Juliana as your legal wife, to support and hold her wherever she goes?"

"Yes," replied the prince, in a strong voice.

The burgomaster repeated the question, to the flushed Juliana.

"Yes," she said, in almost a whisper.

The burgomaster placed their right hands together and continued.

Fix Plans For IOOF Session

300 Delegates Expected Here At Council Meeting Jan. 18

Members of the local canton and the ladies auxiliary were perfecting plans today for the entertainment of approximately 300 delegates to the I. O. O. F. department council meeting here Jan. 18.

Leading figures in the lodge organization over the state will be here for the session. Special services will be conducted at the East Fourth Street Baptist church on the evening of Jan. 17. The women will hold open house at the church the following morning between the hours of nine and 10 o'clock.

Men will hold their convalesce in the I. O. O. F. hall, and both units will come together at noon for a banquet at the Crawford hotel, official headquarters of the council.

Among those to be here are W. R. Francis, Fort Worth, brigadier general; Maj. John A. Kee, Fort Worth, adjutant; Col. L. W. Mercer, inspector, Austin; Col. W. Waterfield, Houston, chief of the staff; Col. A. L. Honeycutt, Chillicothe, colonel of the regiment; Elizabeth Bunch, Fort Worth, state president; L. A. P. M.; Nora Guiley, Big Spring, state vice-president; Johnnie House, Fort Worth, state secretary; and E. N. Pasley, Dallas, treasurer.

STUCK BY CAR, MAN SERIOUSLY INJURED

A. J. Campbell, employee of the Crawford Cleaners, was injured seriously Thursday at 6:30 a. m. when struck by an automobile while crossing W. 3rd at the Gregg street intersection.

At the Big Spring hospital where he was rushed for emergency treatment, it was reported he was suffering from a broken leg, a shoulder injury, possible concussion and shock. He also sustained severe bruises and cuts about the head and face.

Extension Of Money Powers To Be Sought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. (AP)—Congressional and administration chiefs today charted plans to push three bills through congress this month extending for two years the monetary and stabilization powers of the treasury and the life of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The extensions will include also power to issue federal reserve notes against government securities up to 100 per cent, and prolong some other emergency agencies.

It was agreed to extend all of these emergency acts until June 30, 1938, with the provision that the president, by proclamation, could end the lending functions of the RFC.

In his annual message yesterday, President Roosevelt asked that congress act at once to extend these powers, many of which are the keystone of the administration's fiscal policies.

Authority to change the gold value of the dollar and operate the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund expire January 30 and February 1. The power to issue notes backed by government obligations will not expire until March 3.

They conferred as other members of congress discussed the court's outspokenness toward the courts and plans for wage and hour legislation as disclosed in his address to congress.

Awaiting definite indication how far he would go, party ranks threatened to split into factions as the alternatives became plainer. Both houses were in recess but that meant only the transfer of the arguments to private quarters.

The legislators speculated whether Mr. Roosevelt had a specific course in mind to assure "a liberal interpretation" of the constitution by the supreme court.

They had noted—and many democrats cheered—the cryptic way in which he told congress yesterday "means must be found" to adapt the judicial viewpoint "to the actual present national needs."

German And Italy Agree That Volunteers Should Be Halted

By The Associated Press

Germany and Italy, the fascist powers of Europe, answered French and British pleas that they stop sending volunteers to Spain in conciliatory, yet reserved, notes to night.

Both replies, delivered in Berlin and in Rome, were said to agree in principle that volunteers should not go from other countries to fight with the Spanish government or the insurgents.

Informal sources indicated they made their acceptance conditional, however, upon the formulation of a board nonintervention plan which would bar both direct and indirect forms of foreign aid in Spain.

French Naval Move

Their replies were delivered while French officials—following the lead of Great Britain—announced 34 warships and a number of submarines would be concentrated in Spain within two weeks. "In case they are needed in connection with the Spanish crisis."

British already has 172,000 tons of naval craft near the coast of Spain.

Germany and Italy, which have helped the insurgents, pointed to what they contend are the unclarified positions of other nations, presumably Russia and France, whose volunteers are fighting in the defense of the socialist government.

Italy, in particular, was said to have raised the question of the Franco-Spanish border, over which most volunteers bound for the international defense of Madrid have passed.

Temperature Is Down To 19 In Big Spring

Low Of Four In The Panhandle; Lower Readings Expected Tonight

The worst norther of the winter swept Texas Thursday, blasting the temperature down to four above zero in the Panhandle and covering the Plains with snow.

The stinging cold wave penetrated deep into the state, with the Big Spring area experiencing the lowest mercury readings of the season. The weather forecast indicated there would be no immediate relief for this section—in fact, the prediction was for colder weather tonight as the full force of the norther moved down from the Panhandle.

From 67 To 19

The airport thermometer registered 19 at noon, the low reading of the day. It had slipped steadily through the night from a high of 67 Wednesday afternoon. Light sleet covered trees, house-roofs and tops of cars. There were some traces of snow, and poor visibility, coupled with slippery streets and highways, made travel risky.

As the major portion of the state was chilled, residents of South Texas prepared themselves for a freezing onslaught tonight.

The weatherman at Amarillo said there probably would be more snow tonight with continued, but slightly less severe, cold. The mercury tumbled from eight degrees at Amarillo last night to four degrees this morning.

Rains In North Texas

Borger and Pampa thrived in the grip of similar temperatures. Heavy rains drenched much of North Texas as the norther rushed in. Sleet fell at some points and temperatures plunged downward. At Abilene the overnight slump was 32 degrees. Wichita Falls had a fall of 47 degrees.

Cold rains drenched various parts of north and central Texas in advance of the cold.

It was snowing at Amarillo and Borger in the Panhandle and sleet was overcast. Borger reported the ground was covered and the mercury clung to an eight degree level.

At Wichita Falls the mercury fell to 15 degrees—the coldest since last February. Fife, light sleet was falling.

Abilene registered the coldest weather of the winter—19 degrees—with the mercury still falling. Mist befogged the city and slickened streets.

Traffic Hazardous

The norther stung Lubbock with 15-degree weather and clouds, heavy with mist, drizzled moisture into the streets. The mist froze immediately, coating streets with ice and making traffic hazardous.

Rapidly sinking temperatures followed drizzling rain at Paris. The mercury registered 24 degrees today and dense fog settled over the northeast Texas city.

The cold wave blew into Fort Worth around midnight, causing the temperature sink from 64 to 31. Cold rain accompanied the norther.

San Angelo's temperature touched 31 and at Corsicana the temperature fell from 32 to 46.

Hail On Coast

Along the Gulf coast the weather was balmy but Corpus Christi expected freezing tonight, with the temperature likely to go as low as 29 degrees by tomorrow morning. It was 70 at Corpus Christi today. Galveston reported no signs of the cold wave.

Light snow extended beyond Weston, where the temperature touched 14 above zero.

The norther blew into Dallas shortly after midnight, accompanied by rain. The temperature fell from 65 to 31 this morning and was expected to continue lower. Sherman had a temperature slump from 62 to 29 and rainfall amounted to .33 of an inch. Ice formed on trees.

Tablecloth Crocheted Motif

By RUTH ORR
Pattern No. 285

If you don't know much about crocheting, now is the time to learn. In a piece like this, where the article is made up of a lot of small motifs, you will seem to accomplish a great deal in a very short while.

The motifs measure about 3 3/4 inches across, when made of knitting and crocheted cotton, for a bedspread, or 2 inches across when made of No. 30 cotton, for a tablecloth or table runner. The stitches are simple and before you know it you'll have enough to make a little scarf. Even if you never crocheted before, it won't be long until there's a new bedspread or lunch-cloth in your family.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions, with diagrams to aid you; also what crocheted hook and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 285 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address: Big Spring, Texas, Herald, Needlework Dept., P. O. Box 200, Station D, New York, N. Y.

Social Whirl Gets Underway In Capital Today With Parties

By BETH CAMPBELL
WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—New congressmen's wives were adrift in the capital's social sea today, clutching desperately at such buoys as correct calling cards, trustworthy advice and super-handshaking endurance.

The first of a series of cabinet "at homes" started yesterday when Secretary Frances Perkins and Mrs. James A. Farley, wife of the postmaster-general, entertained.

Several hundred officials' wives required by tradition to make first calls on wives of cabinet members, some personal friends and an unestimated number of curiosity seekers marched by one hostess, thronged about one tea table, then hurried to another hostess and another tea table.

If some left the scramble with hats cocked over their ears and orchids dipping the wrong direction, it was all chalked up to another busy social season.

And if one hostess greeted a caller warmly and did it all over again when the caller returned for a personal chat a few minutes later, that too was just a part of the system.

For years, all cabinet wives were at home on Wednesdays, but in the present administration each entertains just twice in the season.

Friendship Members Check Prospective Members At Meeting

Members of the Friendship class of the First Baptist church held their monthly business session at the church Wednesday morning at which time they checked records for prospective members and active members who are ill.

At noon the group was served a covered dish luncheon and prepared a plate for Mrs. Ervin Daniels, who was unable to attend because of illness.

After luncheon the group divided to make calls throughout the city.

Members are Mrs. Larson Lloyd, Mrs. Vernon Logan, Mrs. Hugh Hendrix, Mrs. E. T. Hatch, Mrs. G. E. Morehead, Mrs. Ira Powell, Mrs. Denver Dunn and Mrs. Theo Andrews, teacher.

VICKS V-A-TRO-NOL

Reading And Writing

By John Selby

Herewith apologies for repeating something you must have read too often before. It is the question, "Why prize novel contests?" We have with us this week another prize novel, called "The Street of the Fishing Cat." Its title is very provocative.

But this novel won an international prize which comprised $19,000 in money and heaven only knows what other perquisites. Thirteen countries were represented in the contest at first; Italy and Spain dropped out before it was done. Each country had the privilege of choosing its best novel, and some of them provided a money prize, motion picture entanglements, serialization awards and so on. John T. McIntyre's "Steps Going Down" was American winner, and for it he got $4,000 and the honor of an alternate selection by the Literary Guild.

"The Street of the Fishing Cat" is by a Hungarian woman named Jolan Foldes, doubtless frowned upon by the Archbishop of Canterbury when in England, inasmuch as she corrected an early matrimonial mistake by divorce. She has written a couple of novels besides her prize winner, and had a play produced. She writes well.

In fact, her little and unimportant story of the refugees gathered in a narrow Paris street hard by Notre Dame would probably have had an excellent critical reception and a moderate popular success if introduced on its merits. Now that it has been made (by implication at least) the cream of the western world's recent literary crop, it probably is in for a beating. For definitely it is not the cream. R. C. Hutchinson's "Shining Scabbard" is for me the cream—among novels, that is.

The author hangs her story on a Hungarian family which emigrated to Paris shortly after the war because the fur cutting trade was in a bad way in Hungary. The family lodges in the rue du Chat-qui-Pêche, and gradually is tangled in the skein of Parisian life. One of the three children, is singled out for special treatment, but for the most part the story has no legitimate central character at all. It is a picture of refugee life in Paris, a set of character studies, another exposition of the fact that life goes on and on.

"The Street of the Fishing Cat," by Jolan Foldes (Farrar & Rinehart).

DETROIT, Jan. 7 (AP)—The Detroit News says Larry Kelley, Yale's all-America end, has agreed to join the Detroit Lions professional football team next fall.

The news quotes George A. Richards, owner of the Lions, now in Los Angeles, as saying Kelley had promised him to report in Detroit as soon as he graduated in June.

Plans Needed On FHA Loans

Requirements On Applications Listed By Housing Official Here

R. E. Sikes, district director of the Federal Housing Administration, who is in Big Spring on official business, is desirous of acquainting the public with the requirements for plans and specifications to be submitted for new construction of homes under the F. H. A.

In talking to a reporter of The Herald Thursday morning, Sikes said:

"The public seems not to be fully acquainted with the requirements of submitting plans and specifications. The drawings of the proposed home must be submitted with application for loan and must include:

(1) Plot plan.
(2) Foundation plan.
(3) Floor plans.
(4) Roof plans.
(5) Elevations.

(6) Sections and details sufficiently complete to indicate clearly the extent of the work and the design and construction. The specifications shall cover quality of material, equipment construction and workmanship.

"Working drawings and specifications must be complete and adequate as contract documents to produce a suitable home, complete so far as construction is concerned and ready for occupancy."

Sikes, who is located in the Petroleum building, will be glad to furnish any other data necessary in the securing of F. H. A. loans in this district, he said.

Personally Speaking

L. F. Bookman, representative of the Mergenthaler Linotype company, New Orleans, was a business visitor in Big Spring Thursday.

N. L. Peters of the architectural firm of Peters & Bradshaw, Tyler, was a visitor in Big Spring Thursday. He has been in Odessa for some time.

Miss Lorraine McGuire of Lubbock is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hal C. Farley. Miss McGuire is a sister of Mrs. Farley.

Sue Beth Hargrove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hargrove, underwent an operation for an ear infection Wednesday. She is resting well at her home, 800 Main street.

Harold B. Robb, Jr., has returned to Roswell, N. M., to resume his studies at N.M.M.I., after spending the holidays here with his mother, Mrs. H. B. Robb and grandmother, Mrs. D. H. Hatch.

American Girl Reportedly A Leader In Communist Uprisings In China

SIANFU, Shensi Province, China, Jan. 7 (AP)—Agnes Smedley, an American, is credited with playing an important role in a campaign to establish a communist empire in Northern China openly opposed to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government at Nanking.

The movement, reported to have attracted support from 200,000 members of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's former Manchurian army, together with Chinese communist forces numbering 60,000, has emerged into the open with a burst of propaganda led by Miss Smedley.

Reliable sources declared communists in Shensi and Kansu provinces are in open revolt against the central government as a development of Marshal Chang's military rebellion in which the generalissimo was held prisoner for two weeks last month.

Miss Smedley's activity has been confined to radio propaganda. Every few hours she broadcasts appeals—in English—for new recruits to the movement.

Her propagandizing, it was reported, has brought opposition from British residents in the interior provinces who recall her deportation from India from years ago when she was alleged to have conspired to provoke a nationalist uprising.

The sudden resurgence of communist influence in the past 24 hours caused widespread fears Sianfu was doomed to renewed disorders like those of Dec. 12 when Marshal Chang rebelled against the Nanking government and captured Premier Chiang Kai-shek.

An estimated 65,000 of the troops who took part in the Dec. 12 coup have suddenly become restive gangs, roving leaderless through the streets, intimidating the populace, threatening merchants, looting shops and causing business to come to a standstill with many stores closed.

Officials were uncommunicative the crisis precipitated with Marshal Chang's revolt, for which he was pardoned after fleeing Chang and giving himself up—was far from ended.

CRAFT WARNINGS

Strong Winds Expected To Reach To The Gulf

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7 (AP)—Small craft warnings were issued today by the United States weather bureau here for the Gulf Coast from Pensacola, Fla., to Brownsville, Tex., in advance of a cold wave forecast to sweep down into Louisiana and Mississippi.

A wintry wave was predicted to invade north and west Louisiana and Mississippi tonight, carrying below freezing temperatures, from the Panhandle of Texas and Oklahoma where snow and sleet fell today.

The coast warning follows: "Small craft warning 8:30 a. m., Central Standard Time, Pensacola, Fla., to Morgan City, La., fresh and occasionally strong, easterly and southerly winds Thursday. Small craft warning Morgan City to Brownsville, Tex., fresh to strong southerly winds Thursday, becoming strong northerly Thursday night."

BABY'S BODY FOUND

Two Youths Make Discovery In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 7 (AP)—The battered body of a baby boy was found late yesterday in a brush pile at the edge of San Pedro Creek, 5,500 feet; strong to 10 higher youths walking along the stream and the police were notified.

Justice of the Peace Pat Corrigan, who examined the body, said all that could be determined at present was that it was a boy and apparently had been in the water two or three days. He was continuing his inquiry today.

QUAKE REGISTERED

Recording Indicates Disturbance In Asia

LONDON, Jan. 7 (AP)—An earthquake, estimated from seismograph needle movements to be almost as forceful as the quake in the Indian Quetta region in which 26,000 persons were killed in May, 1935, was registered in London today.

Experts said the needles moved between six and seven inches. The earthquake was estimated to have occurred approximately 4,770 miles away, apparently either in Central Asia or the West Indies.

FUNERAL FRIDAY

Temperature Range Of Almost 100 Degrees Recorded During Past Year; Rainfall Above All-Time Average

A freakish weather year was 1936—the year that "finally broke" the drought.

It produced a temperature range of 99.5 degrees with a maximum of 109.5 and a minimum of 10 degrees, gave one of the driest growing seasons in years, yet yielded more than a normal amount of precipitation.

The year produced freezing weather in five of the 12 months, so distributed as to kill promising fruit prospects and cut short the growing season. Yet it turned the tables for 12 days of temperatures of 100 degrees or more.

Rainfall, ranging from none in August to 10.52 inches in September, amounted to 25.50 inches for the year, yet only four months saw as much as an inch precipitation. The total was less than the 25.30 inches for the preceding year but was above the 35-year average of 19.12 inches, and above the 20.12 inches average for the past 10 years.

Ten Degrees Lowest
Lowest temperature of the year occurred on January 18 when the mercury sank to 10 degrees. January was the coldest month with downpours put the ground in the only two days in which freezing weather was not registered. February was almost as cold with a minimum of 11 degrees on two consecutive days and 15 days in which the thermometer went to 20 or below. February and April both produced temperature ranges of 74 degrees, the widest for any months of the year. A temperature of 22 degrees on April 6 almost ruined fruit prospects while a heavy frost on November 3 and a temperature of 25 degrees cut the growing season a week under the normal.

Peak temperature of the year occurred on August 12 when the thermometer climbed to 109.5 degrees. Three days of more than 100 degrees preceded the peak and one following it combined to make August the warmest month in the year. In May 4.55 inches of rain fell but June produced only .48 of an inch. July .95 of an inch, and August none. When rains did fall in September, too late to do much good for crops, they did not stop until 10.52 inches had blessed the county terrain. However, the heavy

Wedding

Then, after the Dutch law, I declare you to be married, and I am now entitled to address you as your royal highnesses."

Over at the church, while everyone waited for the ceremony to begin, Juliana almost tripped over a cushion placed in front of her arm chair.

But Bernhard, patently ill at ease, guided her safely to the seat and then perched himself on the edge of a chair beside her.

At last came the ceremony and the words of Dr. Obbink: "The grace of God will be your share; you are borne by the love and prayers of our people."

With the final boom of the organ, the congratulations began in a steady stream. There was an informal reception at the rectory and then cries of "good luck" trailed princess and consort as they drove back through the city, over a winding route four miles long.

4 H club units. Twenty-six boys were enrolled for pig feeding and 19 of the number reported on an equal number of fed pigs. The swine, weighing 560 pounds gained to 4,226 pounds at a cost of $268.25 or 7.3 cents per pound. The finished porkers were valued at $328.26 or approximately eight cents per pound.

The poultry campaign consisted of six demonstrations keeping an average of 477 hens. Pullets on hand December 1 totaled 875. During the year 8,667 eggs were produced and were valued at $2,752.39.

From the demonstrations it was proven that home feeding of beef and swine could be made profitable and that perhaps the widest margin of profit was to be found in poultry if attended properly.

Demonstration in screw worm and don-worm control were held to assist farmers and ranchers in curbing damage done by the two parasites, and assistance was given by the agent in curbing ga paralytic disease which became prevalent in a few flocks. By the end of the year the poultry malady had been eradicated, to all intents.

Another big year for the baby chick industry further improved the farmers' poultry situation. Scores realized supplemental incomes from this source, both from sale of fryers, hens and eggs. Too, they had more for home consumption than ever before, and many canned poultry products for winter months.

Development of these farm practices was not phenomenal during the year, nor was it so intended. Local agricultural leaders, while looking upon it as desirable and eventually necessary, believe it is a long range program.

FEW CHANGES

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7 (AP)—Agricultural adjustment administration officials from nine Southern states, in conference here today, were told by Cully A. Cobb, Southern division AAA director, that the 1937 conservation program will be closely similar to the program in which they took part last year.

Director Cobb said the programs for rice and sugar cane and sugar were essentially the same as in 1936, and that only a few changes have been made for cotton. He said "the program, of course, is contingent upon an appropriation of $500,000,000 by congress."

"The few changes that have been made for 1937 are designed to further encourage farmers to conserve and build up their soil and to preserve and add to the gains in farm income that have been made in the last four years."

"So far as cotton is concerned, only a few changes have been made and each of these is in line with the thinking of farmers as expressed in community and county meetings throughout the south."

China Opens Drive

On Narcotic Addicts

PEIPING, Jan. 7 (AP)—China's long-heralded campaign against narcotic addicts and dealers was launched tonight with police raids on dens of addicts where 100 prisoners were reported seized.

Reliable informants declared the captives, who had failed to obey stern orders to "be cured by New Year's or die!" would probably be shot Friday but municipal officials kept strict silence on execution plans.

The raiding parties scattered through various parts of Peiping, estimated by authorities to have an addict population of 100,000.

Dreamy slumbers of the inmates of the dens were interrupted by the entrance of strong-arm police squads which combed the dark passages of the illicit houses.

Most of the prisoners were reported to be low-class Chinese and beggars.

Gen. Sung Choh-Yuan, chairman of the Heph-Chahar political council and personally directing the anti-narcotic campaign, was represented by authoritative sources as inclined to show leniency to the addicts who expressed willingness to be treated.

Those, it was said, might receive life imprisonment instead of death sentences.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

IOOF Organization Leaders Assume Duties

Officers were installed by Canton No. 23 IOOF, Wednesday evening and for the L.A.P.M.

J. Hollis Lloyd was installed as captain by Major M. M. Madison, Sweetwater. D. C. Lykins was made lieutenant, W. E. Johnson, ensign, R. W. Randolph, clerk, Lieut. L. L. Gulley, accountant, and Jones Lamar, junior past captain.

Willie Neil, Midland, was made president of L.A.P.M. Mrs. J. P. McVickers, Crane, vice president, Roxana Fuller, Midland, secretary, Leota Johnson, Big Spring, treasurer, and Hazel Lamar, Big Spring, past president. Installation of the auxiliary officials was made by Jones Lamar, captain.

The canton named Lamar as official representative to the department council to be held here January 18. J. B. Neill, Midland, was elected as alternate.

SUIT IS SETTLED

$300 Judgment Awarded In Friendly Litigation

One of two damage suits filed in 10th district court Wednesday was settled today. Mary Ruby O'Donnell was given a $300 judgment in a friendly suit brought on behalf of the Baldridge minors against Patrick J. O'Donnell for a collision on December 19.

A. C. Fletcher brought suit against B. A. Duffy for a car crash 20 miles south of here on November 18, 1936. In his petition he asked $15,000 damages, charging his car was struck while parked off the road and with the lights on.

Man Doomed To Die Wants To Make Statement

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 7 (AP)—Cockey Joe Bologna, 24, "trigger-man" in the $200 holdup murder of a Brooklyn subway collector, "brave" today in Sing Sing death house and whispered for a chance to make a statement before he joins two confederates in the march to the electric chair tonight.

"It's important," he whispered nervously, begging for an interview with District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn. "I gotta see him right away."

While Bologna paced his cell, the two men who must die with him, Salvatore Scuta, 19, and Theodore Di Donato, 31, drowded apathetically in their bunks.

ONE-VARIETY COTTON PROGRAM LAUNCHED

Prospect of enlisting cotton growers of the Luther community to grow only one variety staple today was seen as the foremost step toward improving the quality and staple of Howard county lint.

Approximately 75 per cent of the farmers in that area are engaged in growing a cotton now which normally produces an inch staple. The gin has indicated willingness to cooperate and other farmers have appeared amicable toward the idea.

It is believed that definite proof that better quality cotton pays will come from the practice.

LUBBOCK MAN NAMED

AS EDUCATIONAL DIRECTOR OF CHURCH

The East Fourth Baptist church, in conference Wednesday evening, named Herbert Findley, Lubbock, as educational director of the church.

Findley, who today told Rev. W. S. Garnett, pastor, that he would accept, is educational director of the Calvary Baptist church in Lubbock. He came there four months ago from Jonesboro, Ark. where he had been for six years.

A graduate of Southwestern Theological Seminary, he engaged in evangelistic work for five years as a gospel singer before taking up work as an educational director.

He will come here Monday. Mrs. Findley and daughter will come later in the week.

THREE DIE IN FIRE

Blast Occurs When Kerosene Poured In Stove

PARIS, Jan. 7 (AP)—Kerosene poured upon embers in a heating stove was blamed today for an explosion which took three lives and left two other persons suffering burns.

Mrs. Frances Allen, 17, of Paris; her four-year-old nephew, Weldon M. Henshaw; and the child's mother, Mrs. Weldon Henshaw, were burned to death. Tenley Henshaw, 31, was seriously burned, and another Henshaw child, Ethel Katherine, two, received minor burns.

The explosion occurred yesterday in the Henshaw home in the Reno community, six miles east of here. Tenley Henshaw was burned when he tried to rescue the others.

Neighbors extinguished the blaze before the house was destroyed.

FLIERS BAIL OUT

Army Men Jump Before Ship Crashes, Burns

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 7 (AP)—Major J. C. Kennedy and First Lieut. E. E. McKesson, both of Brooks Field, jumped from their plane near Randolph Field shortly before noon today, the ship crashing and burning near the Austin highway.

Neither flyer was seriously hurt. It was reported Major Kennedy suffered a sprained ankle.

Their 12th squadron plane was destroyed by fire before equipment from Randolph Field could reach it.

It was not immediately learned what caused the officers to leave the ship.

SCOTT SUE

LONG BEACH, Calif., Jan. 7 (AP)

Walter "Death Valley" Scott, mystery prospector of the west, was sued here today for separate maintenance by Mrs. Ella Josephine Scott, 60. They were married Nov. 5, 1930, in Cincinnati, Ohio. Mrs. Scott asked the court to award her $1,000 per month and living expenses and medical care.

FLU IS SPREADING

Disease On The Increase Throughout Nation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—The public health service said today influenza was on the increase all over the country.

There were 3,998 cases reported for the week ending January 2 compared with 2,008 for the previous week. A health service official said these represented "only a fraction" of the actual number of cases.

The sharpest increase, the health officer said, was in New York City where there were 487 cases for the week ending January 2 against 36 for the previous week.

FEAR KIDNAPED BOY MAY BE SUFFERING FROM EXPOSURE

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 7 (AP)—Coldest weather of the winter today alarmed the parents of kidnaped Charles Mattson who believed the ten-year-old boy might be suffering from exposure.

The mercury sank to 15 above zero during the night as the abductor ignored opportunities to return the victim or collect $28,000 ransom.

Dr. W. W. Mattson, the boy's father and a prominent Tacoma physician and surgeon, was more than usually apprehensive that Charles, recovering from a cold when seized December 27, might be seriously affected if he were being kept in an outlying, poorly heated shack as some other kidnap victims have been.

PLAN TERRACING Farmers Of Vincent Area To Meet Tuesday

Farmers of the Vincent area will meet at 7:15 p. m. Tuesday to better organize themselves for a terracing program.

Tractors being used in the terracing work are due to reach Vincent area in about two weeks.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 7 (AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon said today he will not accept an invitation to attend the inauguration of President Roosevelt January 20.

TO OFFER PRAYERS TO HALT FLU EPIDEMIC

DENVER, Jan. 7 (AP)—A pastor called a mass meeting to offer prayers for abatement of Denver's influenza-pneumonia epidemic as Carl P. Schwab, city health manager, estimated today there were "at least 20,000 cases" in the city.

Death certificates filed up to 4 p. m. yesterday disclosed 20 more deaths attributed directly to influenza or pneumonia, bringing Denver's toll to 78 and that of the Rocky Mountain west to at least 108.

Physicians at Denver General Hospital, which was turned over to "flu" cases exclusively today, labeled the outbreak "fatigue flu." They said it almost every instance, persons felt excessive exhaustion and physical debility just preceding the respiratory infection.

TODAY'S ANNIVERSARY — Millard Fillmore, 13th president, born January 7, 1800.

CONSOLIDATING THE GAINS

Competent Washington observers noted long ago that Franklin D. Roosevelt, master at interpreting public sentiment, would abandon any efforts he ever considered to promote constitutional amendments enabling the more liberal social statutes.

No surprise, then, was his assertion before congress Wednesday that "liberal interpretation" of the constitution was to be desired above "alteration."

The statement may be taken definitely to mean that there will be no agitation, for the present, for constitutional amendments. And it may be presumed that efforts will be made to enact statutes that will fall within the limits of the broad law—a procedure that supposedly has been followed all along.

Haste in passing laws during the 1932-33 emergency meant that some of them would not meet with approval of the supreme court. Such emergency does not exist during the present session of congress, and it is not too much to expect that the lawmakers can perfect needed laws which will conform with constitutional requirements and at the same time meet today's needs of social reform. The president cited such procedure when he called for the harmonizing of congress and the courts in meeting present national needs.

That the need exists for some legislation on one can doubt who believes in the advancement of broader social welfare. The wage and hour problem—left hanging fire by court decisions on the NRA and the New York minimum wage law—must be settled by statute. There are similar topics that must stand the test of public welfare and of constitutionality.

It would appear that congress, using due deliberation, can enact needed laws that stand both tests. The need for further experimental legislation does not exist; the present trend would call for what military commentators call a "consolidation of gains." Consolidation of gains in social legislation is the task before the lawmakers now.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Notes on the big town, jotted here and there on a quick round-up:

Stealing in major department stores was less prevalent than usual this season, there being only a total of 12 arrests in the two major stores over the Christmas holidays. Most arrests are made by women who are paid to keep an eye on the customers. Usually they browse around, pretending to shop or to examine merchandise. When a thief is detected, he is allowed to leave the store before an arrest is made. This is necessary, because the suspect can always claim to have been "looking" at merchandise if collar-ed inside the store.

Incidentally, not all the scholarly looking gentlemen you see in the reference rooms of the libraries are seekers after knowledge. Many of them are detectives, looking for lawbreakers who are known to frequent libraries and art galleries. There are also library detectives to keep an eye on slyly looking individuals who might want to make off with a couple of books.

In the morning mail comes an attractive photographic history of Katharine Cornell, a brochure which traces her career in the theater and contains much information on the many character roles she has played. Aptly titled, "A Gallery of Stage Portraits," it includes "Little Women," Miss Cornell's first important role, and all the others up to and including "The Wingless Victory," now being seen. A valuable bit of reference to have around, for which, much thanks.

The organ recitals which are supposed to amuse train-waiters in the huge midtown railway terminal are usually sombre in tone, but now and then a gay note is struck. The other afternoon, between doleful numbers, the "customers" were treated to a quick flash of "The St. James Infirmary." And was it appreciated!

Zelli's Royal Box has attained its objective. That is, it is once more the haunt of gay worldlings who knew his place in Paris years ago. The other night there were seventeen people from as many states who told Zelli they had enjoyed his hospitality in the old days on the other side. My favorite dish at Zelli's is frogs.

As usual, a New Year's A. M. treat was breakfast in the Kitchen at the St. Moritz, that vast, copper-like cathedral of S. Gregory Taylor's 59th street hotel. More than 500 guests "dropped by" to partake of the menu, which was, as always, tasty and filling.

Jim Tully, Lee Tracy, Capt. Irving O'Hay, Rex O'Malley—colorful Don Juans, is each an Irishman and New York loves them. Yet, more than all, New York sighs for Jimmy Walker, who ruled a metropolis with one hand and played a piano with the other. With Walker out of politics, as one observer wrote, "New York is like a thrilling drama with its chief actor missing."

When Boswell couldn't have put it better than that.

Personal motives seen in Tugwell resignation.
RA chief held overshadowed by Wallace.
Agriculture Department crowd belittled him.
Influence as "brain-truster" held exaggerated.

Personal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Rex Tugwell's resignation was dictated by circumstances more personal than political. The professor's sphere of influence within the new deal is a divorced to just about one degree above zero. When the president handed over the farm tenant problem to Agriculture Secretary Wallace there was little left for Tugwell to do but to drop in at the White House and resign. He had been crowded out of the agriculture department by Wallace a year ago. He still had a desk there and received a salary as under-secretary, but only occasionally came around. His Rural Reclamation and subsistence homestead experiments turned out, by experience, to be playthings. He found they could never be built up into important national programs, as originally hoped. If he could have put across his plan for the tenant farm problem, in which he was deeply interested he would have had something to do here. But when that went to Wallace, there was little left to engage his talents.

Add to this the fact that even a brain-truster can have a wife and two children to support, and you will wonder why it took him so long to find out there is more sugar in the American Molasses company, operated by his friend, Charles Tausig.

Tugwell was appointed on the Wallace farm tenant study committee, but the significance of the appointment lies in the position of his name on the list. It was next to last.

Autopsy

You may suspect the republican attacks and something to do with Dr. Tugwell's departure. They may have had some influence, but not very much. Neither did the yelling by so-called new deal conservatives, who have been saying Tugwell was a political liability to the president.

If anyone got Tugwell, beyond his own earnest efforts in that direction, it was the liberal crowd around the agriculture department. That is both an old and a new story, the trouble started when Dr. Tugwell is supposed to have irritated the most peckers at a time when AAA administrator Chester Davis was trying to get them into line for the original AAA program. The split opened wide when Secretary Wallace purged his department of some of Tugwell's best friends.

The new angle on it is that Tugwell recently attempted to transfer his disestablishment administration to agriculture and Wallace declined it nor did Wallace much for the Tugwell farm tenant plan. It seems Tugwell wanted to organize a corporation like RFC and get started in a big way, while Wallace wants to start from the bottom.

Fundamentally, also, the AAA crowd has felt all along that the Reclamation administration gave the new deal a bad name. They considered Tugwell's effort to be basically contrary to theirs. He did not attack the farm problem from the standpoint of commodities and surpluses the way they have. His was a social program; theirs commercial. They have often cursed his set-up behind their hands more vehemently than republicans have.

Over Emphasis

Tugwell has always been an exaggerated figure in the public eye. From the beginning, he had very little to do with general policy. For the past two years, he has not even been influential in framing agricultural policy, although he was nominally an under-secretary. The infrequently observed Prof. Frankfurter and Mr. Moley were still are, highly influential inside the White House on general matters but Tugwell looked the part of brain truster better than they. He had said so many things in so many books. His first name was "Red." He was youthfully collegiate. Thus while his inside role was no more than secondary by comparison, he became the official whipping boy of the headlines with check of red.

From a practical policy-making standpoint, his passing will mean only this: The leading social-minded philosopher will be eliminated from the new deal picture, but there are many more important ones still left in it. There will be less of what the new dealers have come to regard as "that Tugwell foolishness," but no change of policy.

So far as indicating whether President Roosevelt is going to turn to the right or left is concerned, it certainly means what it seems to be, because Prof. Tugwell was wholly unimportant in the development of economic policy.

Notes

The navy admirals apparently do not know why the president chose young Charles Edison to be assistant secretary of the navy. They had nothing to do with it.

It was the number one brain truster, Prof. Moley, who brought

Officers Are Charged In Man's Death

Policemen Accused Of Beating Hot Springs Jail Prisoner

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 7 (AP)—Second degree murder indictments charged seven Hot Springs policemen today with "striking, kicking and beating" to death a city jail prisoner.

Garland county authorities last night arrested the men accused of "beating and murdering" John Dickson, 32, whose death certificate showed he died of pneumonia Christmas eve.

Those taken into custody were apt. Bob Moore, Patrolman Andy Irvin, Pat Griffin and Joe Scott, Capt. Arch Cooper, Detective Glen Buchanan and Lieut. Cecil Brock. Each was released on $1,500 bond. All denied the charges.

Mayor Leo P. McLaughlin said the seven "are permanently discharged and will not again be connected with the city administration."

Concluding a three-day investigation, the grand jury reported yesterday to Circuit Judge Earl Witt that "we found no evidence to connect Chief of Police Joe Wakelin with the actual mistreatment of any prisoner."

Mayor McLaughlin said it was "doubtful" if Wakelin "will again serve as chief of police." McLaughlin had placed Wakelin under suspension pending outcome of the inquiry.

When arrested Dickson was accused of assault to kill and grand larceny. It was charged he attacked Wakelin.

ROADS, SCHOOLS RECEIVE BIG SHARE OF STATE'S MONEY

AUSTIN, Jan. 7 (AP)—Seventy-seven per cent, or more than $26,000,000 of Texas' total government expenditures last year was allotted to highway development and education.

A report by the comptroller's department to Gov. Allred and the legislature, listing total expenditures of $125,089,962, showed highways received $37,706,667, free schools $37,078,234 and higher and eleemosynary education $5,859,597 and $338,419, respectively.

Expenditures were $14,692,925 greater in the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1936, than in the preceding 12 months, totaling for the latter period $111,001,066.

However, about $8,000,000 more was received in various kinds of aid from the federal government, and the total for the last year being $24,410,501, of which $23,253,181 went to the highway department.

Total revenue, including federal money, was $127,092,235, which compared with $118,942,782 for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1935.

BILL PREPARED ON RETIREMENT PLAN FOR STATE TEACHERS

AUSTIN, Jan. 7 (AP)—Olan R. Van Zandt, of Tloma, member said today the senate school survey committee will make available for study a teachers' retirement bill to the executive committee of State Teachers' association meeting in Fort Worth Friday and Saturday.

Van Zandt announced the committee completed work on the bill to be recommended to the legislature at the regular session convening Tuesday.

He estimated the plan would cost the state $2,350,000 annually. However, the committee will make no recommendations, Van Zandt said, on the character of taxes to pay the bill.

Each teacher in a public school and college would be required to contribute five per cent of his salary up to $180 per year. Retirement benefits would begin after 20 years or longer, but teachers who die or leave the profession would receive back their payments with interest.

Conservation of natural resources $2,211,652, eleemosynary and correctional, including the prison system $2,231,269; parks and monuments, including $1,600,000 for the Centennial $1,718,014; pensions old age and Confederate veteran $4,183,977; relief, $2,849,171; payment on public debt $2,974,391, and miscellaneous $276,102.

Wings For Sally

by BAILEY WOLFE

Chapter 25
Aunt Dora's Wedding Cake
As they went down the drive, long rapid steps that Sally was almost obliged to trot in order to keep up with him.
"I've got to run down to the McDonald's," said Philip, when they were in the car. "Want to come with me?"
"Yes—if you want me."
"I want a witness to the question I'm going to put to McDonald. You know that Morris has received a threat against his life, and another against his property?"

came from. With I did know. Some one's been blackmailing Morris for years, Mary says. Of course they've caught some people involved, in conspiracy to kidnap, but this is different. I have a hunch that all these letters come from one person—and that person has a score to even up with Morris."
"There might be plenty of people like that," said Sally.
"Milltown was entirely dark as they rode through it. Philip left Sally in the car while he went in and talked McDonald. He and McDonald, who was barefooted and had put on overalls over his night

Tip and Terry were married in the Warren's garden.

"Yes—I knew of the threat against his house. Does he think McDonald sent the letters?"
"He thinks McDonald sent those threats, just because McDonald headed that delegation of workmen that tried to bargain with him."
"You don't think so?" Sally questioned.
"No. I don't know where they clothes, came down to the car. "I can swear you lay in the truth on anything you say in my hand, and before anybody," McDonald was saying. "I don't know nothing about the letters to old man Morris. So far as I know, there's none of the hands working for him that wrote them letters."

"I believe you," said Philip. They rode away from Milltown, leaving McDonald staring sleepily after them.

"What will Mr. Morris do about the threats?" asked Sally.
"He'll try to prosecute McDonald, very likely," said Philip grimly. "If he does, we'll give the town a little excitement."
Goodbyes at the Airport
Tip and Terry were married in the garden. Tip had a new dignity that became her as well as her simple white gown and her grandmother's wedding veil. Sally kept her eyes steadfastly on Tip. She could not bear, somehow, to watch Terry in his happiness, to see his proud possessive look at Tip.

Terry's own family looked at him almost in surprise, as if they found it hard to believe that he had become the town hero and acquired a wife, all in one week.
Once the ceremony was over, Sally was able to lose herself in the maze of things to be done before Tip and Terry left. It was she who helped Tip change to traveling clothes. Mrs. Warren, suddenly realizing that Tip was going far away from her, could do nothing but sit and weep. Sally found her father and sent him to comfort Mrs. Warren while she ran across the street to see to the luncheon that Aunt Dora was preparing at the Page house.

Sally found little to be done, for Aunt Dora was an old hand at wedding feasts. She had made the best biscuits with her own hands. The faultless white wedding cake, too, was her work.
"I be making one of these for you soon, honey," Aunt Dora told Sally. "You put you a piece of this cake under yo' pillow and you bound to dream of him you goin' to marry."
"It's too good to waste under a pillow," Sally protested. Nevertheless she hid away a bit of the cake and took it home.

At last Tip and Terry were ready to leave. Philip Page drove them to the airport, with half the town following. It was Sally who said the last goodbye as they were ready to embark.

"You've been wonderful," Tip whispered, hugging Sally tight. "I won't ever forget what you've done for me and—and I hope you'll be as happy as I am some day—I do hope so."
"That's the best thing you could wish me," said Sally tremulously. "Goodby—and good luck."
Then Terry took Sally's hand and squeezed it in a grip that hurt.
"Goodby, Sally—I hope we'll be here to do the thing up brown for you some day!" He bent his head and kissed her.
In a daze of unreality, Sally watched them climb into the plane and head the deafening roar of the propellers.

They were off. Joe Morris led the cheer that followed them into the air. Twice the plane circled the town in farewell, then it headed south. They watched till it was a speck in the sky.
Pain Pierces Sally's Armor
"Ready to go?" Sally was startled to find Philip Page close beside her.
"Yes," Sally got into the car beside him, glad she would not have to listen to Joe Morris or anyone else talk of the two who had just gone. Philip was the only one she could bear at this moment. Philip knew.

"Want to ride a bit before we go back to the ruins of the wedding?" asked Philip.
"Please," Sally hurried in one corner of the car. Terry was gone. He was lost to her forever.
"I can't bear it!" Sally cried out suddenly. It was as if a sudden, sharp pain had pierced through the armor of control that had protected her. Her hands trembled, her eyes were dry and burning. "You don't know how it is," she said. "I love him. I love Terry—I want him more than I ever did. I—I can't face the rest of my life without him."
"This is the worst of it," said Philip calmly. "Get a grip on yourself. You've been pretty fine. I've been proud of you. You can face this thing out, and you can get over it—just give yourself a little time."
"A little time," said Sally. She laughed shakily. "Time—I've got all the time in the world—to remember. To remember how he looks, how he talks—to remember how it feels to be in his arms."
"Stop that," said Philip roughly. "You're only torturing yourself. You're forcing yourself to remember, trying to hurt yourself."
"I don't care," said Sally. "I've been so sensible—I pretended to be so generous. I'm not either. You may as well know how shameful I am. You'll despise me. I don't care about that either."
"I don't despise you," said Philip. "I like to know that you can feel like that—it makes me hope that you will one day feel that desperately in love with someone else—someone who will realize how lucky he is—and make you happy."

Sally did not remember afterwards all that Philip said to her or where they rode. She knew simply that he was her friend, that he was trying to help her.

Former Teacher Woman Without A Country
HOUSTON, Jan. 7 (UP)—Roshen Hyman, 17, former Minneapolis school teacher, temporarily was a woman without a country today after immigration authorities denied her permission to re-enter the United States.
She appealed to the department of labor after she was returned to the Japanese steamer Buenos Aires Maru. A Buenos Aires society paid her passage after she said she was wooed and swindled of $1,000 by a handsome man in South America. Born in London of Russian parents, she said she was unable to obtain aid from the United States, British or Russian embassies.
The Buenos Aires Maru sails today. It will go to New Orleans, Panama, and Japan, before returning to Buenos Aires, where she must be taken unless immigration authorities drop the bars.

WAGNER HEAD OF POTENT COMMITTEE
WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (UP)—Senator Wagner of New York was chosen by the democratic steering committee of the senate to head the powerful senate banking committee.
The New Yorker was named after Senator Glass of Virginia, the committee's ranking democrat, decided to retain the chairmanship of the appropriations committee.
Wagner's change will make Senator Adams of Colorado chairman of the public lands committee.
Senator Robinson, democratic leader, announced the steering committee had approved a flexible committee ratio worked out by him and Senator McNary, republican leader, which would permit incumbent republicans to retain important committee posts.
He announced appointment of a steering committee on committee assignments members of which included Senator Sheppard, Texas.
To the policy committee, which cooperates with a similar group from the house on policy, Robinson named with others: Connally, Texas.

To Campaign For Organization Of The Oil Industry
LONG BEACH, Calif., Jan. 7 (UP)—Harvey Fremming, president of the International Oil Workers' Union, announced today a campaign would start April 1 to organize approximately 1,000,000 workers in the oil industry.
"We expect that John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, will personally direct the membership campaign," said Fremming.
Lewis and his C.I.O. are at odds with the regular leadership of the American Federation of Labor. The oil workers' union, the executive council of which will conclude its sessions here tonight, now claims 100,000 members.
The campaign, said Fremming, would include service station operators.
"There are about 1,000,000 employees in the oil industry eligible to membership under the C.I.O. plan," Fremming said.

OVER 100 ASSISTED BY SALVATION ARMY DURING PAST MONTH
The local Salvation Post had 225 applications for aid during December. It is shown in the monthly report of Capt. Charles Gordon, in charge of the unit. Meals were supplied to 100 persons and 77 were given lodging. Eight persons were helped with clothing, three with shoes and other aids were supplied to nine.
One hundred and thirty-five separate transient cases were assisted during the month.
One hundred and seventeen Christmas baskets were distributed. Capt. Gordon reported, and more than 525 toys were given to children at Yuletide. The Army officer expressed appreciation to all those who assisted in the organization's Christmas activities.
Black-eyed peas are becoming more important to East Texas. The regiments was one of the most successful vegetables for canning grown in the section last season.

Crew Extinguishes Blaze In Vessel

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 7 (AP)—The 33-man crew of the freighter El Occidente conquered a fire below decks in the early hours today and the vessel continued northwestward through the Gulf of Mexico to Galveston.

Hurriedly mobilized coast guard vessels along the east gulf shore were ordered back to their stations after starting toward the oil-burning steamer.

The El Occidente, which left New York January 2, sent a distress call at 12:32 a. m. (eastern standard time), asking aid from ships in the vicinity. She was about 20 miles west, northwest of Key West and about the same distance southwest of here.

The German steamer Lubec, between 90 and 100 miles from the scene, responded but returned to its course after the master of the El Occidente reported "fire out. No further assistance needed. Proceeding."

The El Occidente told the radio-marine station at Palm Beach the flames were amidships. There was no report on the extent of the damage. The nature of the cargo was not indicated.

In September, 1935, the El Occidente took part in rescue work when the liner Dixie went aground on a Florida reef in a hurricane.

A HANGING MAY BE HIS FIRST DUTY

G. D. Embargo On Arms Delayed

Another Shipment May Be Made Before Ban Becomes Effective

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—A parliamentary knot which held up signature of the speedily-enacted Spanish arms embargo gave rise today to the possibility of another race to ship war materials to the loyalist army.

House and senate jammed through the embargo late yesterday with only one dissenting vote, but a technicality may keep President Roosevelt from signing it into law until tomorrow afternoon.

Before that action could make the shipment illegal, Richard Dineley, San Francisco munitions dealer, hoped he might be able to get a $4,507,000 cargo of planes and arms en route to Spain.

One shipment of planes, shipped by Robert Cuse of Jersey City, was carried from New York on a Spanish freighter yesterday while the embargo resolution was rushed through congress at a pace reminiscent of the emergency banking bill four years ago.

Ready in 24 Hours

Dineley, ready to take advantage of the delay, said he could get his goods on the sea in 24 hours but had to wait for Spanish officials flying here from Mexico City. Bad weather delayed them.

Administration leaders, deciding at the last minute to try to halt Cuse's shipment, offered the embargo resolution in both house and senate after President Roosevelt finished his address in mid-afternoon.

The senate failed to authorize Vice President Garner to sign the resolution outside of a session. That keeps it from the White House until the senate convenes again Friday.

When the house roll call started at 5 p. m. the freighter Mar Cantabrico was already outside territorial waters with part of Cuse's $2,777,000 order of second hand planes and engines.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY STANTON CLUB

STANTON, Jan. 7.—G. A. Bond, county agent, was elected president of the Stanton Service club in a luncheon meeting at the Methodist church here Tuesday.

Other officers chosen for the organization for 1937 were: Vice-president, L. H. Waite, re-elected; secretary, W. A. Kaderli; treasurer, Arlo Forrest.

Bond succeeds M. G. McDonald, former county attorney who recently resigned his law position.

Present at the meeting were: L. H. Waite, Mrs. W. A. Kaderli, Arlo Forrest, Mrs. A. W. Keisling, Horace Blocker, J. A. Wilson, Bob Schell, M. G. McDonald, James Jones, Morgan Hall, Jess Woody, and O. B. Bryan.

The luncheon was served by women of the Methodist church.

NEW TEACHERS Two Added To Staff Of Schools At Stanton

STANTON, Jan. 7.—Two new teachers have been appointed to positions in the Stanton school system with the re-opening of the school term.

W. E. Kelly has been added to the high school staff. He will teach the class work formerly handled by W. V. Stephenson, including history, commercial law, and general science. He is a graduate of the University of Texas and is from Uvalde. In 1935 he taught in a CCC camp in Garner Park.

Mrs. Phil Berry, who taught in Big Spring before her marriage, has been made assistant in the Mexican ward school of which Mrs. Whitt Hines is principal. Mrs.

ROOSEVELT LOSER IN COURT RULINGS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. (AP)—President Roosevelt's appeal to the supreme court to adopt a "liberal" interpretation of the constitution followed a series of decisions invalidating administration measures.

The high tribunal in four years has sided with the administration in four cases and voted against it 11 times. Decisions which produced the most controversy were those overturning NRA, AAA, and the Guffey act to regulate the soft coal industry.

The president's criticism of the court in his message to congress yesterday was interpreted in some quarters as a bid for upholding the law.

Berry is a graduate of Oklahoma university.

COUNTY ATTORNEY AT STANTON RESIGNS

STANTON, Jan. 7.—M. G. McDonald, county attorney of Martin county, has resigned his position here. The resignation took effect immediately upon its acceptance by county officials, although McDonald will remain here until about Jan. 15 transacting business.

The young lawyer came to Stanton in June, 1935, and was made county attorney by appointment. He was president of the Stanton Service club at the time of his resignation. He plans to practice law in Odessa.

To Seek Funds For State Office Bldg.

AUSTIN, Jan. 7 (AP)—Rep. Lon E. Alsop of Carthage announced in Austin this week he has prepared a bill to appropriate a million dollars for erection of a state office building near the capitol.

Sen. Allan Shivers of Port Arthur will sponsor a bill in the senate for the same purpose.

Alsop said the building to be designed may not cost $1,000,000, but this top is being put in the bill so that the board of control may design a structure adequate to the state's present needs.

His hope is to withdraw the 15 or more departments now in rented office space, and save the state sums estimated at $50,000 to $60,000 a year now paid out in rent.

A further effect will be to remove gingerbread partitions in the capitol corridors which now deface the building, and to take several state departments out of the basement of the capitol.

Gov. James V. Allred and Chairman Claude D. Teer have declared the state's urgent need for office space. The board of control has been pressed with demands of the various departments already having offices in the capitol and state buildings for more space. Many, including the board of control and the oil and gas division of the railroad commission, are so badly crowded that officials say high efficiency in the work is made impossible.

Psychologists say that the inability of some children to learn from books is normal.

INJUNCTIONS DISSOLVED

WACO, Jan. 7. (AP)—The tenth court of civil appeals today dissolved injunctions by Judge Fountain Kirby, of Freestone county, restraining Freestone and Harris county officers from interfering with marble machines.
