BULLDOGS WIN EIGHTH

A band of Bulldogs that took only a brisk romp the first period, edged into a trot in the second, then went into a roaring charge in the third to blank St. Mary of Albuquerque 28 to 0 in a game played at 8 o'clock last night on Morris Field here.

It was the eighth straight win for the Artesia High School football team in as many starts this season and the score duplicated that of the Bulldogs' third game when they repulsed the powerful Roswell Coyotes 28 to 0 in a game played here Sept. 22.

Garner's Kicking Perfect

The Bulldogs played a smooth but non-energetic game in the first period and it was not until well into the second quarter that they scored, with Fullback A. L. Terpening going across from the 12-yard mark.

Sonny Garner had a perfect score last night, with all his kicks for the point after touchdown being good.

The half ended with the score Artesia 7, St. Mary 0.

As it has many times in the past, the Tinson Trolley converted to the Tinson Express in the third period. Lanky Joe Harbert, quarterback, shot one of his superb passes to End Bill Brown who scampered down to whispering distance

Good Will Cemented Tuesday Night As Artesians Dine at Atoka School

Atoka and Artesia folk said howdy over a boiled ham supper in the Atoka School cafeteria at 6 o'clock Tuesday night.

The affair was the first good-will trip of Artesia Chamber of Commerce this autumn.

J. D. Smith, who last summer led the chamber's good-will caravan on the trip to Cloudcroft, was master of ceremonies. Brief speeches by members of the Artesia contingent and by two from Atoka, music by the Atoka band and an Artesia quartet, were other parts of the program.

Band Benefit

Mrs. Paul Terry and members of the Atoka Band Mothers were in charge of serving the meal, which consisted of boiled ham, potato salad, pickles, onions, bread, coffee and pumpkin pie, topped with whipped cream.

Cost of the meal was paid by the Artesia chamber. Proceeds go to start a uniform fund for the Atoka band.

Directed by Ben Stevens, the 30-piece organization played a half dozen selections, waltzes and marches. The band gave a pre-Halloween touch to the occasion by its attire of tattered and patched clothing, straw hats and comic masks.

Howard Stroup of Atoka, in his response, said "We're all home folks."

He said Atoka has received cooperation from Artesia but thought more could be given. Talking of the Atoka School he stated there were many pupils who would not be in school had it not been for Atoka, that when the school was started, residents "discovered 'teen-age Anglos who had never been to school."

Mrs. Terry made a brief "thank you' 'talk for the turnout at the meal.

Emphasizes Fellowship

Value of friendship and of "'getting back to the neighbors we used to be" was the theme of a talk by Bill Siegenthaler, chamber president.

Bob Konce, chamber manager, said a "chamber of commerce was the only organization dedicated full time for the benefit of the whole community."

Another speaker was Supt. Tom J. Mayfield of Artesia schools. Introduced also were Artie McAnally, president; J. L. Briscoe, vice president; Mrs. Landis B. Feather, clerk; Lloyd Simon and Fred L. Jacobs, members of the Artesia school board.

In another part of the program, the barbershop quartet, composed of Vancel Lowrey, Albert Linell, Ben Caudle and Howard Miller, sang "Tumbling Tumbleweed," "Riding Down the Canyon," and "That's Where My Money Goes."

An inspection tour of the fine Atoka School, as modern though not as large as any pictured in a recent issue of Life magazine, came after the supper. Atoka is six miles south of Artesia.

The Atoka School has developed from a two-room adobe structure to a modern pumice block and concrete building, in three chief divisions.

It has a cafeteria, electric kitchen, gymnasium, locker rooms, motion picture projectors and excellent Bermuda grass planted athletic field with aluminum sprinkler system.

Superb Gym

An artesian well supplies water. Diesel fuel is used in the central heating system. The gymnasium, which contains a basketball court 42 feet wide by 72 feet long, has telescopic seats, stage, flood, spot, and colored lights, piano, and is used for community gatherings, graduation, and holiday programs. Seating capacity is 700.

Floor is of fine maple, recently refinished. Locker rooms for both boys and girls are of ample size. Boys' locker room contains 64 lockers.

Basketball and softball are the chief sports.

Lighting of the building is fluorescent. There are separate rooms, for home economics and shop.

Nile green is the color of walls, yellow the ceiling, and buff the asphalt tile floor of the cafeteria.

Kids to Have Halloween Party Oct. 31

Goblins and ghosts and witches will fill the air and every Alice and Al in Artesia will take a journey through a witches' wonderland as Artesia children attend the Lions Club Halloween party to be staged at 6:45 o'clock Tuesday night, Oct. 31, on Morris Field.

There will be awards given for the child having the best Halloween costume, the one making the best jack-o-lantern and premiums for the winners of sack, three-legged and potatoe races.

Apples and peanuts will be distributed.

"We hope to have a big turnout," says Vernon R. Mills, a member of the club's Halloween party committee, "and there will be fun for all the children."

The committee has been at work the last fortnight on the party. Ray Carpenter is chairman. Other members are Ulas Golden, Jack Frost and Mills.

HOBBY DISCUSSION IS CONTINUED BY ROTARY

A discussion of hobbies by various members of the Artesia Rotary and guests, started at a meeting some weeks ago, was continued Tuesday noon.

At that time Charlie Bullock presented a five-year perfect attendance lapel button to Dr. C. Pardue Bunch, who had earned it shortly prior to his recent illness, which caused him some absences.

POT OURRI

We wrote a story for the Tuesday issue which we had been wanting to write for 12½ years, to the effect that the Eagle Draw bridge between Artesia and Hope is actually to be replaced, and that work has started.

It was not through our efforts alone by a long shot that the old, narrow, dangerous bridge is about to be torn out and a two-lane bridge erected in its stead.

The combined efforts of a number of persons, as well as newspapers, have entered into the job.

Showing the greatest interest with The Advocate, naturally, has been The Penasco Valley News at Hope, and our good friend there, W. E. Rood, has harped and harped on the dangerous old landmark month after month for many years.

The Carlsbad Current-Argus and The Eddy County News of Carlsbad have from time to time commented about the bridge.

We have written letters and have cussed and discussed the bridge with three governors.

So the credit is well spread around.

But we like to feel we have had a part in getting the badly-needed bridge and perhaps in saving someone's life.

—o—

Now that the old S-turn-dip at the west edge of Artesia on the Hope highway has been fixed—for which we take 99 44/100 per cent of the credit—and the Eagle Draw bridge is about to be replaced, we will next concentrate more on having the L-turns farther west on the Hope highway eliminated.

That is another must—and we certainly don't want to see it put off too long.

We'll bide our time for the present, however—until after Nov. 7, that is—and then you can lay it on the line that we'll go after the project. And we have that word of Editor Rood at Hope that he'll be rigth in there pitching also.

—o—

While we're on roads and road improvements, hark back a few paragraphs, please, and recall that we gave the two newspapers in Carlsbad credit for having plugged for the Eagle Draw bridge replacement.

That is as it should be, for we cannot all live just within our little immediate circle, but we are a larger community than that — the Pecos Valley. And then next we are Southeast New Mexico. Next we are New Mexico. Then we are a community of states.

So it is with the oil-field-potash loop road, which we are so anxious to see built in its entirety from the Potash Company of America minesite to Highway 83.

The agreement as to improvements on that road some weeks ago was that Eddy County, through the Board of Commissioners' action, will put up $40,000 provided the state matches the sum, and that an all-weather road—not blacktop—will be built beginning at the south end as far as the funds will go, perhaps 12 miles.

We in North Eddy County will protest any move to blacktop only a short distance at the south end—in other words from the P.C.A. property to the proposed minesite of the Southwest Potash Corporation.

We want a road for all. And certainly more miles of road will benefit more people, both in South

Attempt to Form Barber Shop Singers Fails

An unsuccessful attempt was made here Monday night for the forming of a chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Singing in America, when 20 members from Roswell and 17 from Carlsbad came here. A chapter formed several years ago died out.

Lack of local interest was shown when the visitors coming as much as 45 miles were greeted only by the members of the Pecos Valley Four, V. F. Lowery, Howard Haines, Albert Linell and Ben Caudle, who had invited them here.

However, tentative plans were made at the meeting Monday night for members of the Roswell and Carlsbad chapters to come here and present a free program in the high school auditorium.

Among the visitors were only two complete quartets, but the visitors and hosts all had lots of fun and some good singing in the basement of the educational building of the First Methodist Church, where the meeting was held.

In addition, women of the church served coffee to the singers.

The two organized quartets, both from Roswell, were the Walker Four of Walker Air Force Base and the Scale Twisters.

'Girl Scout Week' Observation in Artesia Starts With Church Sunday

Artesia Girl Scouts will join a million and a half other Scouts next week in celebration of the 38th birthday of Girl Scouting, with "Girl Scout Week."

They will begin the week by attending church in uniform and in troops Sunday morning.

A window display in the west window of the Thompson-Price Company store will honor the local Girl Scouts and an interview of Troop 2 over KSVP at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon will mark the occasion.

Artesia's 250 Girl Scouts and Brownies have been doing their part this year to bring about a united world by making overseas school bags for children all over the world, it was announced. They have also contributed to a world friendship fund which helps to provide camping scholarships for DP girls in this country and to further scout work in Germany, Korea, Japan and many other countries.

Today's Scouts are organized by age: Brownies, 7-9 years; intermediates, 10-13 years and seniors, 14-17 years. Their activities cover 11 big fields from arts and crafts to international friendship. Scouting involves individual effort and group activity. Camping is particularly popular and many Artesia Girl Scouts spent one or two weeks at Camp Mary White in the Sacra-

For Good Citizenship

This Girl Scout leader is typical of the many thousands of women all over the country who devote their spare time to helping Girl Scout troops learn good citizenship. Thousands more are needed to cut down the long waiting lists of girls who want to join the Scout movement but cannot because of the lack of leaders.

Thrifty Thursday To Be Nov. 2

A sure winner on any ticket is Artesia's Thrifty Thursday. Next in the series of monthly sales events is the Thrifty Thursday slated for Thursday, Nov. 2, just five days in advance of the general election.

Artesia merchants are constantly increasing their attention to the special day when super bargains are offered customers. Beach Barton, chairman of the mechants' committee of Artesia Chamber of Commerce, says merchants to whom he has talked manifest keen and ever-increasing interest in the special day.

Next issue of The Artesia Advocate containing Thrifty Thursday advertising will be issued Tuesday, Oct. 31. Advertisers are again reminded that copy for the issue must be submitted by noon Saturday, Oct. 28.

Out of Valley of Death

Korean Custer's Last Stand

Cpl. Lyle A. Frego, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Frego of 911½ Richardson, in writing his parents under date of Sept. 22 from Korea, enclosed a copy of 'Out of the Valley of Death Came the 600," by Roy Macarthney, an International News reporter, telling of an experience he had.

The story was dated at Changuyong Sept. 5 and reads:

"This is a story of a Korean Custer's Last Stand. It is the story of how 600 exhausted GI's fought for three days, stumbling over their own dead and wounded, against overwhelming communist numbers crowding in a tight circle around them.

"They are the men of the First Battalion, 23rd Regiment of the U. S. Second Division.

"Their heroic stand virtually turned the tide of the battle in the Naktong bulge and stopped the Red drive across the river. Again and again they hurled back North Korean attacks, while helpless, wounded comrades lay in their midst.

"Without rations for 36 hours, without water for 18, the desperate defenders were practically down to throwing rocks, when a C-48 supply airdrop saved them.

"Tanks and infantry that tried to battle through to the beleaguered men had been repulsed with heavy losses.

"In three days the battalion lost 300 men. On one day the enemy penetrated the defense and took a knoll overlooking and aid station filled with wounded GI's.

"A day and a night counterattack with bloody hand-to-hand fighting, hurled the Reds off.

"Late on Sept. 3, with 100 Korean bodies littering the field, the besiegers had had enough. An American relief column got through and the main line of defense was established on the line held by the valliant 600.

"'It was like Custer's stand, only more of them came out,' an officer said, as tanks moved up to escort trucks carrying back the wounded."

Cornett Replaces Gary as Manager Of Veterans Club

Homer L. Gary, manager of the United Veterans Club the last two years, submitted his resignation, effective Nov. 1, to the veterans' central committee at its regular semi-monthly meeting Wednesday night. The resignation was accepted and Bob Cornett was hired as bookkeeper-manager.

Fred Lopez and two other Spanish-speaking veterans appeared before the committee, requesting use of the Veterans Memorial Building to stage a dance, the proceeds of which are to be used in paying the dues of Spanish-speaking members in the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Use of the building was granted for Saturday, Dec. 9. The committee explained that this would be more or less an experiment and that it could not be used as a precedent.

Fred Jacobs, chairman of the committee and Bob Cornett were authorized to purchase a file for the use in the office.

Members of the committee present: Fred Jacobs and John Simons, Jr., of the American Legion; Julius Chandler, W. H. Ledbetter, and Bill Dunnam, of the Disabled American Veterans.

The next regular meeting of the committee will be Nov. 8.

National Official Of Conservation Group to Speak

Don Dailey of Boulder, Colo., executive secretary of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts, will speak at a public meeting in the assembly room of the city hall at 7 o'clock next Tuesday evening on the soil conservation program, it has been announced by G. L. Beene, district conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service office at Artesia.

At this time Dailey is touring New Mexico on a speaking trip to share with farmers, ranchers, and businessmen his enthusiasm in the field of soil and water conservation.

Dailey, a graduate of Veloit (Wis.) College, has worked with the state tax commissions in Illinois and Colorado.

In his present capacity, he maintains headquarters at Boulder, but is working closely with Waters S. Davis, Jr., of League City, Texas, president of the national association.

Beene said he feels that this area is fortunate in having Dailey spend a day and night in this vicinity and to appear at the public meeting, to which an invitation was extended to everyone ,especially ranchers, farmers, and businessmen.

Dailey is also scheduled to speak at noon next Tuesday at the weekly luncheon of the Artesia Rotary Club and during the day will look over conservation projects in the Pecos Valley.

C-C Managers to Hold Spring Meet In Artesia

Artesia will be the location for the spring conference of New Mexico Chamber of Commerce Managers Association. The month will be March but date has not been set.

Both Carlsbad and Farmington made bids for the convention but Artesia came out winner. Motion that the convention be held here was made by A. J. Zimmerman of Santa Rosa, seconded by Jim Riley of Santa Fe, at the fall meeting held Oct. 21-22 in Santa Rosa.

Bob Koonce, manager of the Artesia chamber, attended the session. He also went to Albuquerque and Santa Fe, checking on printing of an Artesia folder and about publicity in New Mexico Magazine and in Life magazine.

In line with the latter, was a conversation with Al Rosenfeld, Life correspondent, who had the Hope assignment in a copy of that magazine.

An attendance of 35 is expected at the spring managers' meeting in Artesia.

Represented at Santa Rosa were Artesia, Roswell, Carlsbad, Portales, Farmington, Alamogordo, Silver City, Tucumcari, Santa Rosa and Belen.

'ATHLETIC DADS' TAKE PLAYERS TO SEE GAME

The "Athletic Dads" of the Artesia Quarterback Club took a large number of the "A" and "B" squad members of the football team to see the game between Carlsbad and Albuquerque High that was played at Carlsbad Wednesday night.

Somerville Admits Killing Spears; Charged With First Degree Murder

Florzell (Floyd) Somerville, 27, Alabama Negro, admitted three times Wednesday, once in a signed confession and twice in court hearings ,that he fatally stabbed Wiley Spears, 25, Blytheville, Ark., Negro, early Sunday morning at the Jessie Chase Cafe east of the Artesia Compress Company plant north of Artesia.

In his third such admission, Somerville entered a plea of guilty before Justice of the Peace J. D. Josey, when arraigned on a charge of first-degree murder brought by Sheriff Dwight Lee.

Judge Josey set 3 o'clock Friday afternoon for a preliminary hearing, mandatory in New Mexico in murder cases, even though a plea of guilty is entered. Somerville is being held in the Eddy County jail at Carlsbad without bond pending the hearing.

Prior to the arraignment, while on the stand at a coroner's inquest into the death of Spears, Somerville testified as to striking Spears with a knife, which was placed in evidence.

Although officers were quite certain Somerville was the wielder of the knife in the affair about 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning at the Negro cafe, an actual break in the case did not come until Wednesday morning. And then events followed one another in quick order.

The break came when the blood-stained murder knife was found about 33 yards southeast of the Negro cafe Wednesday morning by three Artesia police officers, who have continued to work on the case, although it is a state case.

A few minutes later Somerville was confronted with the knife, and he issued a statement of confession, which he signed.

Then the Negro testified at the delayed coroner's inquest, which was held Wednesday afternoon in Judge Josey's courtroom in the city hall by Miss Duluth Richardson, young woman justice of the peace of Loco Hills, who had been brought in because Judge Josey had been going through a clinic in Roswell. However, Judge Josey had returned and arraigned Somerville, after Judge Richardson's inquest.

Assistant District Attorney Gene Lusk, who questioned witnesses at the inquest, told Somerville when he took the stand that it was planned to bring criminal charges against him and that he need answer any questions which might incriminate him, that he could stand on his constitutional rights. However, Somerville elected to testify.

Somerville said that just prior to the knifing, he had had an argument with Spears. However, he said it had to do with telling Spears to "shut up," that "he didn't know what he was talking about."

Although the assistant district attorney did not draw Somerville out with details, the Negro testified that he and Spears had had words before over $2, that he knew Spears had a knife, that he "went over and got my knife," that Spears was coming up and cursing, that he reached up, telling Spears to get away and that he pushed and hit him.

Somerville demonstrated the motion he used and with an unopened knife belonging to Sheriff Lee, showed how he held the knife after the stabbing.

The prisoner testified he later threw the knife away outside the cafe.

Somerville, when asked why he had denied the knifing at the time of his arrest, said he was scared,

John Boren's Elk Rack Is Real Hunter's Dream

John Boren has brought home a trophy to warm the heart of any hunter, a sportsman's dream in the form of what other nimrods who have seen it say is the finest they have ever seen—a beautiful rack of elk antlers, from a 900-pound bull he killed last week in the Hermosa River country 45 miles northwest of Durango, Colo.

In the party with Boren were Ray Bartlett, Owen Hensley, and C. R. Baldwin, all of whom killed cow elk.

Although the antlers of Boren's elk are enormous, they do not have as wide a spread as many seen, but their beauty lies in the graceful upsweep on each side of seven points—or 14 for the rack.

Boren said he is sorry he did not bring the entire head to be mounted, but that he has no place for such a trophy. However, he plans to have the antlers properly mounted for showing.

The four Artesia men were in the elk country for the opening of the Colorado season on Oct. 15.

They said it was extremely hot and that many hunters lost their elk through spoilage before they could get them out.

Navy Recruiter Says Enlistments Are Now 'Wide Open'

Haldeman Claims He Is Misquoted In News Story

County Commissioner W. T. (Doc) Haldeman of Artesia declared Tuesday he had been misquoted in a news story in last Friday's Carlsbad Current - Argus, which in turn was quoted directly in the Tuesday issue of The Advocate.

He was referring to a statement in the reporting of receipt of a telegram from State Highway Engineer Burton Dwyre regarding the oil-field-potash loop road that he, Haldeman, had made a statement "referring indignantly to contractors getting "extra fees'."

Commissioner Haldeman said he made no reference to "extra fees" and that the conversation was misquoted.

He disclaimed any quoted statements which might throw discredit to the State Highway Departmnt or Highway Engineer Dwyre.

The commissioner said he is "more than satisfied with the favors the Highway Department has given North Eddy County."

He pointed to projects promised under the present administration which have been completed or for which provision has been made. He referred to the new Atoka road, the present work being done to replace the old one-lane Eagle Draw bridge with a two-lane bridge, and the fact the contract for construction of the Cottonwood

Great Virgil Show Carries Expensive Stage Equipment

Actually more than $100,000 has been lavished on The Great Virgil's Gigantic Mystery Spectacle which will arrive here Nov. 8 for performances at the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Artesia Lions Club.

Tons of elaborate and costly magical equipment and scenic effects along with an array of beautiful and exotic costumes will be used during the presentation of The Great Virgil's production.

Playing the lead in his production, The Great Virgil, as The Mighty Master of Illusion, transports his audience from enchanting and mystery-filled lands of the Far East to fantastic and unknown worlds of outer space, as one thrill-packed scene follows another, during all of which he is capably assisted by Julie, the Sweetheart of Magis, and his company of skilled wonder workers.

Among the dozens of perplexing mysteries that will be presented are:

"The Hindu Princess Asleep in Space," in which a young lady, while under the power of the master, is caused to ascend into the air.

"Sawing a Woman in Half," a young lady literally severed into two separate parts while held by members of the audience.

"Execution on Mars," a fantastic drama climaxed by the firing of an examined and marked steel bullet through the body of a girl.

"The Houdini Trunk Mystery," during which The Great Virgil changes places with his leading lady in a locked and roped trunk in less than one second, a mystery that staggers the imagination and utterly defies solution.

Kutnewsky Gives Reasons for Being of New Mexico Magazine

(Fremont Kutnewsky, advertising manager of New Mexico Magazine recently addressed the Santa Fe Rotary Club about the magazine, which has the reputation of being one of the greatest state magazines in the nation. Here are a few excerpts from his talk.)

Every publication has a reason for being. The reason for New Mexico Magazine is that there's a growing number of people in this state, in neighboring states and throughout the country who are simply "that way" about New Mexico.

To all these people—maybe 100,000 in all—New Mexico represents a special interest, hobby, a cause. To them its history, its people, its forest and monuments and climate are fascinating subjects. They want to know more and more, like the children with their fairy tales. There is never one fairy tale to end all fairy tales for children. There is never one piece of information to end all curiosity in adults once they get their hearts set on some special interest.

Our circulation isn't very large—about 14,000 magazines a month. That doesn't compare favorably with national magazines with their millions of subscribers. Yet we think it has influence out of proportion to its size.

I want to quote a paragraph that explains what I mean. It's from "The Education of Henry Adams."

It reads: "The difference is slight to the influence of an author. Whether he is ready by 500 readers or by 500 thousand. If he can select the 500, he reaches 500 hundred thousand."

We are sure that our state magazine reaches a far larger audience than would appear from the circulation figures. Our readers are enthusiastic. They are like zealous missionaries. They spread the word about the glories of New Mexico. They pass their copies along to others. They buy subscriptions for friends and relatives. These friends and relatives pass their copies along to neighbors. All the way through we have a select audience.

The magazine has two primary objectives. One is to tell our own people what they have here in New Mexico, how to see more of it, what the landmarks mean, who did what in our past 400 years of history and the what-when-where of our fiestas, rodeos, fairs and community events.

It is the only magazine that tells about New Mexico and nothing else from cover to cover and from one year's end to another. No matter what is happening elsewhere in the world, New Mexico Magazine sticks to what is happening or has happened in this state. When the atom bomb story was released from secrecy, New Mexico Magazine following its usual policy told only about that part which New Mexico had played in creation of the bomb.

Comparing our magazine to more colorful, more costly publications put out by other states, people sometimes ask why we don't have more color. Arizona Highways, for example, is out of this world with its color photography. The answer is that the state of Arizona sets up a hundred thousand annual appropriation. With that as seed money they doll up the magazine . . . no wonder it's so gorgeous.

We somehow feel that our magazine, produced and supported by the people and the businessmen, is closer to representing our common interest in our state. We think that no future historian can ever get the whole story of New Mexico without spending plenty of time in the files of our state magazine.

Tokyo (AFPS) — Zizz, Boom, Bang, went the mortar shell and Long was "short" about 500 bucks. It happened recently when Pfc. William Long almost lost his fortune as a mortar shell landed near him.

The soldier, a member of the 24th Division, was fighting near Haman. The shell burst and threw him into the air, shaking five postal orders, totaling $500, from his pocket. Even though he suffered a leg wound, he searched futilely for but could not find them.

A postal officer has assured him new money orders would be issued to him.

Great Virgil Show Carries Expensive Stage Equipment

Actually more than $100,000 has been lavished on The Great Virgil's Gigantic Mystery Spectacle which will arrive here Nov. 8 for performances at the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Artesia Lions Club.

Tons of eraborate and costly magical equipment and scenic effects along with an array of beautiful and exotic costumes will be used during the presentation of The Great Virgil's production.

Playing the lead in his production, The Great Virgil, as The Mighty Master of Illusion, transports his audience from enchanting and mystery-filled lands of the Far East to fantastic and unknown worlds of outer space, as one thrill-packed scene follows another, during all of which he is capably assisted by Julie, the Sweetheart of Magis, and his company of skilled wonder workers.

Among the dozens of perplexing mysteries that will be presented are:

"The Hindu Princess Asleep in Space," in which a young lady, while under the power of the master, is caused to ascend into the air.

"Sawing a Woman in Half," a young lady literally severed into two separate parts while held by members of the audience.

"Execution on Mars," a fantastic drama climaxed by the firing of an examined and marked steel bullet through the body of a girl.

"The Houdini Trunk Mystery," during which The Great Virgil changes places with his leading lady in a locked and roped trunk in less than one second, a mystery that staggers the imagination and utterly defies solution.

Kutnewsky Gives Reasons for Being of New Mexico Magazine

(Fremont Kutnewsky, advertising manager of New Mexico Magazine recently addressed the Santa Fe Rotary Club about the magazine, which has the reputation of being one of the greatest state magazines in the nation. Here are a few excerpts from his talk.)

Every publication has a reason for being. The reason for New Mexico Magazine is that there's a growing number of people in this state, in neighboring states and throughout the country who are simply "that way" about New Mexico.

To all these people—maybe 100,000 in all—New Mexico represents a special interest, hobby, a cause. To them its history, its people, its forest and monuments and climate are fascinating subjects. They want to know more and more, like the children with their fairy tales. There is never one fairy tale to end all fairy tales for children. There is never one piece of information to end all curiosity in adults once they get their hearts set on some special interest.

Our circulation isn't very large—about 14,000 magazines a month. That doesn't compare favorably with national magazines with their millions of subscribers. Yet we think it has influence out of proportion to its size.

I want to quote a paragraph that explains what I mean. It's from "The Education of Henry Adams."

It reads: "The difference is slight to the influence of an author. Whether he is ready by 500 readers or by 500 thousand. If he can select the 500, he reaches 500 hundred thousand."

We are sure that our state magazine reaches a far larger audience than would appear from the circulation figures. Our readers are enthusiastic. They are like zealous missionaries. They spread the word about the glories of New Mexico. They pass their copies along to others. They buy subscriptions for friends and relatives. These friends and relatives pass their copies along to neighbors. All the way through we have a select audience.

The magazine has two primary objectives. One is to tell our own people what they have here in New Mexico, how to see more of it, what the landmarks mean, who did what in our past 400 years of history and the what-when-where of our fiestas, rodeos, fairs and community events.

It is the only magazine that tells about New Mexico and nothing else from cover to cover and from one year's end to another. No matter what is happening elsewhere in the world, New Mexico Magazine sticks to what is happening or has happened in this state. When the atom bomb story was released from secrecy, New Mexico Magazine following its usual policy told only about that part which New Mexico had played in creation of the bomb.

Comparing our magazine to more colorful, more costly publications put out by other states, people sometimes ask why we don't have more color. Arizona Highways, for example, is out of this world with its color photography. The answer is that the state of Arizona sets up a hundred thousand annual appropriation. With that as seed money they doll up the magazine . . . no wonder it's so gorgeous.

We somehow feel that our magazine, produced and supported by the people and the businessmen, is closer to representing our common interest in our state. We think that no future historian can ever get the whole story of New Mexico without spending plenty of time in the files of our state magazine.

Tokyo (AFPS) — Zizz, Boom, Bang, went the mortar shell and Long was "short" about 500 bucks. It happened recently when Pfc. William Long almost lost his fortune as a mortar shell landed near him.

The soldier, a member of the 24th Division, was fighting near Haman. The shell burst and threw him into the air, shaking five postal orders, totaling $500, from his pocket. Even though he suffered a leg wound, he searched futilely for but could not find them.

A postal officer has assured him new money orders would be issued to him.

Collector Tells of "Undesirable" Issues of Stamps

By C. GOTTFRIED FINKE

Switzerland announces this year that the annual Pro Juventute series will appear with three species of butterflies, a honey bee and a portrait of Theophil Sprecher von Bernegg, late chief of Swiss Army, in early December.

The portrait of General von Bernegg will appear on the low value, five plus five centimes of the series of five stamps. Color will be brown-gray.

The butterflies will be featured on the 10 plus 10 centimes, green, gray and orange; 20 plus 10 centimes, orange, brown, gray and blue, and the 40 plus 10 centimes, blue, gray, and yellow.

The honey bee will be pictured on the 30 plus 10 centimes, violet, gray and brown.

Since 1943 the annual Pro Juventute series, sold for the benefit of Swiss child welfare agencies, have pictured Swiss wild flowers.

Postal authorities said in 1949 that was the last set of wild flower motifs and that future series would deal with Switzerland's insect and animal life.

Other new issues of the week:

Germany—The German government announced they have issued a 20 pfennig commemorative, printed in dark red, to advertise the European Recovery Program.

The design features an astrolabe and the initials "E.R.P."

Puppet Russian Stamp

Meanwhile the East-German government under Russian control issued an election stamp for the Oct. 15 balloting in the Soviet sponsored German democratic republic.

The 24 pfennig red brown stamp shows a hammer, spade, book, a dove and a ballot box. The stamp is inscribed "Volks Wahlen" or "People's Will."

Incidentally the dove on this issue is more of a picture of a pigeon than it is a dove.

Netherlands has brought out an issue on Oct. 3, for the 375th anniversary of the University of Leyden.

Austria issued a series for the 30th anniversary of the plebiscite in Carintha in 1920.

In Mexico just south of our border has appeared new five and 50 centavos postage stamps and a 20 centavos airmail stamp.

The low value shows a modern building and the higher values depict ancient sculpture.

Continuous articles come to me about stamps banned by various organizations and at this time I wish to acknowledge a few of them.

The American Philatelic Society thinks the collectors should not collect any of the stamps issued by Russia or its satellite nations. I for one have this to say on that issue.

If a collector is specializing in a country that pertains to this it places his collection in a peculiar situation.

The reason I know for being a member of this society if following the suggestion of the authors of this article, I could not keep my present day German issues up to date, if I abide by the rules.

Thus I say this I think if it has anything to do with the country you should collect them let it not interfere with the country and that country only.

Undesirables Talked

A release from the International Philatelic Federation (Switzerland) the publication states their committee wants to combat undesirable issues. They list:

Belgium, 1947, Anti-tubercular issue, five stamps.

Belgium, 1948, Achel Abbey, four stamps.

Belgium, 1948, Chevremont Abbey, four stamps.

Belgium, 1948, Anseele Foundation, four stamps and miniature sheet.

Belgium, 1948, Liege Monument.

Belgium, Anvers Monument.

Saar, 1948, flood relief, four stamps and a miniature sheet.

Saar, 1948, flood relief, a stamp and miniature sheet.

French Morocco, 1948, solidarity, miniature sheet.

Belgium, 1949, Jordaens and Weyden miniature sheets.

France, 1949, United Nations miniature sheet.

French Morocco, 1950, General Leciere, two stamps.

Belgium, 1950, St. Annee, three stamps.

From this report one takes it that stamps of Belgium issued in 90 per cent of the times for use in relief and restoration of their abbeys have gat a bad impression in the eyes of the committee of undesirable stamps.

They think that too many of these issues are put on the market and that the money does not go for what it is intended.

As to the Saar issues, it is no doubt that some of funds did not get to relief but if one checks closely on this issue he will find it is one of the hard to get issues.

Is it that there were not too many of them issued and that dealers have them stockpiled for future sale at a higher price?

I have a few of this issue on hand, and think it is a very nice looking issue, but cannot see the eye to eye view of the board on undesirable issues.

It is true sometimes stamps are issued solely for the collectors benefit, usually you will find in checking there were only several thousand printed and that was all. But when over 500,000 of an issue is printed I would not condemn them on undesirable items as it is probable that it is of a country that is not too popular with a collector.

But a country like Liberia, Austria and a few of the others there has been quite a few times that they have issued undesirable material in the past few years.

Rare Canadian Stamp

It may be of interest to collectors of Canada that a copy of the Canadian (Scott's No. 32) was sold recently for $3,800, and that additonal copies are wanted and if a person has one he can name his price for it.

Is it easy to find? Apparently not. In 80 years of its existence lightning has struck but twice.

Someone, somewhere has these but does not realize it. It is easy to distinguish from No. 24, for it has on the back, magical horizontal lines.

After 100 of these were made and there must have been more than one sheet, so hid away in collections or on old mail in attics or cellars is a small fortune if one is discovered.

Postmaster General Donaldson is said to regard with favor a set of stamps proposed to be issued in a series featuring the country's industries.

There has been no official announcement on this, but the New York World Telegram and Sun says that Washington sources believe it likely that a series will appear.

The proposed series would feature such varied activities as mining, manufacturing and agriculture.

It is a series mentioned over the past 10 years, and it has been suggested that it replace the present Presidential series as regular postage.

Teachers Attend State Conference

Artesia pupils got the word to "take two" this week. With the sixty-third annual convention of New Mexico Education Association in progress at Albuquerque, classes ended at noon Wednesday, giving the youngsters respite from books until Monday morning.

The convention also caused the high school football schedule, listed before the season, to be set for Thursday night instead of the customary Friday.

Artesia Education Association held a pre-convention session at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, Oct. 23, in the high school library.

Business included a talk by Supt. Tom Mayfield in which he stated that Eddy County schools had led in teacher salary schedules and have used money to give teachers good salaries for a number of years while other counties have built up a reserve with lower salaries in the past and can afford to give higher salaries now.

There was a routine report by Jean Stone on the district council meeting held three weeks ago in Lovington.

Kiwanis Raising Money for Eddy 4-H Stock Sale

Artesia Kiwanians are again backing up 4-H boys of North Eddy County.

A five-man committee composed of Ralph O'Dell, Justin Newman, Doyle Hankins, Burl Sears, and Tom Hymer, is raising money for awards and purchases at the annual county 4-H livestock sale to be held Saturday, Nov. 4, in Carlsbad.

Canvassing is being conducted today, and will extend through Wednesday.

There are three clubs in the north part of the county with a membership of 22 boys.

This is the second year the Kiwanis Club has taken part in the sales event.

A vivid demonstration of the value of courtesy, not once in a while but all the time, every day, is provided in the motion picture, "By Jupiter," shown to Artesia Kiwanians at their regular weekly luncheon meeting at noon Thursday in Masonic Temple.

Harry Stigler, who was in charge of the program, said he would be glad to show the film to any group desiring to see it.

The picture is a public relations film of Marshall Field and Company, Chicago.

of the St. Mary Cougar's goal.

Traveno Trips Through

Brown wired the next one for sound, taking it over for the payoff.

Cougar fumbles set up the other two Bulldog touchdowns. Artesia recovered a fumble on the St. Mary 21. Herbie Traveno, 155-pound back and a sophomore, demonstrated that old deceptive slow start, then turned on the dual ignition for a smash around end that netted 14 yards.

This paved the way for a drive through left tackle with Traveno again carrying for the marker.

Garner showed his prowess in another way besides his booming boot when he recovered a fumble on the St. Mary 21. On the next play Doyle Cole, left halfback, raced around the Cougar left for the interval and final touchdown of the game.

Points Total 222

The victory over St. Mary, a new team on the Bulldog schedule, increased the Bulldogs total points scored this season to 222 against only 35 for their opponents.

Only four games remain on the Artesia schedule, two more at home and two away.

On Nov. 3 Thomas Jefferson of El Paso plays here; on Nov. 9, Eunice; then the Bulldogs end the season with games against traditional foes, the Carlsbad Cavemen in the county capital on Nov. 17, and the Hobbs Eagles in the Lea County bustling oil town on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 23

Keystone State Jaycee Speaker For Local Club

Artesia Jaycees learned how big city Jaycee clubs function in a talk by Frank Loxterman of Pittsburgh, Pa., at the Jaycees regular semi-monthly supper meeting at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night in Artesia Hotel basement clubroom.

Loxterman, Jones & Laughlin Steel accountant, told of the 1000-member club, how it was impossible to keep up acquaintance since attendance changed weekly.

He praised the energy of Jaycee clubs in the West.

Announcement was made of a state Jaycee board session to be held in Las Cruces on Nov. 4-5. Last such gathering was in Artesia. Jaycees planning on attending the Las Cruces assembly are asked to notify President Clayton Menefee.

and North Eddy County.

However, we feel that some of our neighbors in South Eddy County would like to tap the oil field, but fear at the same time we might tap the potash industry.

Tit for tap, in other words!

—o—

We have nothing but the kindest of feelings for the people of South Eddy County.

But we just simply sometimes feel sorry for them when they think we're being unneighborly, and they fail to realize that what's good for one section is good for both.

—o—

The high school through T. Stovall, principal, has sent out a plea for living accommodations for two young men and their small families for six weeks, starting this week end.

The men are seniors at New Mexico A. & M. College, who are to be here for the six-week period for practice teaching in the vocational agriculture department.

Each of the last several semesters we have had two young men here from the college for practice teaching and all have been mighty fine fellows, as we are sure these wto will be.

Anyone willing to put them up in small houses or apartments for six weeks is asked to call the school business office, phone 140.

—o—

Sometimes we run into the exception to the rule. In this case it comes from Bill Dunnam, D.A.V. forget-me-not drive publicity chairman, who writes:

"I have been requested to write you in behalf of the Donald S. Simons Chapter 19, Disabled American Veterans, for the excellent publicity given our forget-me-not drive of last Saturday. Our total receipts were $401.51.

"The success of the annual drive, we believe, was largely attributable to the good publicity we received prior to Saturday. Most of us are always requesting free publicity for our pet projects, but too few ever take the time out to write a few words of thanks. Believe me when I say we are sincerely grateful.

"We also wish to extend our thanks to good old John J. Public, who is ever willing to support a worthy cause, when he or she is convinced it is a worthy one."

—o—

Which reminds us of a little jingle we read in The Pelican Press Messenger, official organ of the Louisiana Press Association:

He who whispers down a well
When he has merchandise to sell
Will never reap as many dollars
As he who climbs a tree and hollers!

—o—

And we're always happy to do the hollering for such a cause as the D.A.V. forget-me-not sale.

Turner Sentenced To Penitentiary On Rape Charge

Paul David Turner, who was arrested here June 11 for the alleged rape the night before of a girl under the age of 10 years, was sentenced Tuesday in Eddy County District Court by Judge C. Roy Anderson to eight to 10 years in the state penitentiary.

Sentence was passed after Turner entered a plea of statutory rape.

The girl involved was the daughter of a woman with whom Turner had been living about a year in Artesia, according to testimony in court.

Turner said he was intoxicated at the time of the alleged crime and did not remember anything.

Turner also said it was very seldom he ever drank.

Judge Anderson made a statement to the effect that he didn't consider drunkenness an excuse for the crime to which Turner plead guilty.

A war record of the defendant in the South Pacific was mentioned by Caswell F. Neal, appointed to represent Turner. Neal also said Turner's former employer in Artesia had nothing but praise for Turner before the defendant was arrested. Turner told the court he originally came from Virginia.

mento Mountains last summer.

Although there are 1,540,278 Girl Scouts in the world, only nine out of every 100 girls of scout age belong to the Girl Scouts. Thousands of others would like to belong, leaders here stressed. Artesia has waiting lists and many troops are overcrowded but there is always a great need for adult workers. Artesia has 45 leaders and assistants and 13 members of the girl scout board—men and women who are unpaid volunteer workers and who give their valuable time to make scouting possible in Artesia.

Whether in 1912 or 1950 a Girl Scout has always lived by the Girl Scout promise and laws, leaders said. First of these is a simple statement of the highest ideals for youthful living which for 38 years has been the heart and challenge of Girl Scouting. Whenever she wears her Girl Scout uniform, she knows that to earn it she must first of all live by the laws and promise of Girl Scouting, the leaders continued. Her Scout activities do more than provide good fun—they help develop resourcefulness and teach loyalty, obedience and co-operation with others.

Oct. 31 marks the birthday of the founder of the Girl Scouts, Juliette Low, who started with the idea that Girl Scouting would bring the girls of the world closer together and they are doing just that.

Few people realize how much a few hours a week of their time would mean to the children of Artesia, leaders pointed out. To be a volunteer worker, one needs no previous training, as training courses in the fundamentals of scouting are offered frequently free of charge by trained personnel. All that is necessary is an interest in building good citizens and a devotion to children.

adding that he "just meant to hack his shoulder."

Jessie Chase, proprietress of the cafe, testified as to the affair and said she saw Somerville strike at the other Negro, but saw nothing in his hand.

She said Spears whirled and said he was hurt and that she opened the door to her bedroom, where the injured man ran. At that time she saw no blood on him.

The Negress testified Spears screamed in the bedroom and that she asked that someone take him to a doctor. When two men brought him out of the bedroom, she said, he was bloody from his shoulder down to his trousers.

Ezoria Wiley, a young Negro woman, who testified as to the affair, said she saw a knife in Somerville's hand. She said that Spears had said something about someone drinking all his wine and that Somerville asked him if he wanted it back, that when Spears said he did, Somerville stood up and stabbed the other.

She said that after the stabbing, Somerville did not put his hand in his pocket but held the knife at his side, which coincided with the prisoner's testimony on that point.

Charles Driver of Timpton, Texas, threw light on Somerville's statement that he "went over and got my knife," when he testified he had borrowed the knife sometime before on the job at the compress, where both were employed, and that Somerville had asked him for it at the cafe.

Driver said he told Somerville he "might get into trouble" if he gave him the knife, but that he insisted, so he handed it over.

The witness said after giving the knife to Somerville he went outside and gambled and that he did not see the knifing, although he had returned to the cafe by that time.

He first saw Spears, he said, behind the counter, where he "squealed and hollered." He said he saw Somerville in the middle of the floor "while Wiley squeled."

Prior to the testimony of the Negroes, Police Chief Earl D. Westfall testified as to the finding of the knife by officers and said it belonged to Somerville.

State Policeman Bud South testified as to Spears' wound, which he saw at the hospital, and the subsequent investigation at the cafe.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict as to Spears' death that "Wiley Spears was stabbed in the left front breast above the heart. The stabbing occurred at the Jessie Chase Cafe nort hof Artesia . . and said Wiley Spears died in Artesia General Hospital of said wounds about 2:30 a. m. Oct. 22, 1950. The jury find that the wound was inflicted by Florzell Somerville, by admission of himself."

The jury: John Lemley, John Shearman, D. C. Blue, Abe Conner, I. C. Keller and Nappy Ogg.

Fine Leadership Training Taught By City's Newest Club

President and secretary-treasurer of Artesia's newest club, Toastmasters International, are Clyde Gilman, left and Orville (Rooster) Durbin.

Application has been made for a charter. First organizational meeting was held Oct. 4. Purpose of the club is to develop leadership in its members and to make an intensive study of parliamentary law and public speaking.

By Brownwood Emerson

Business and professional men of Artesia, as learned as any in their vocations anywhere, who can state their business as conscientiously and coherently as a military "estimate of the situation," are students now.

They are learning how to be eloquent, to have good stage appearance, and how to make enthusiastic speeches, as meritorious as any sales or professional speech they ever made, as members of Artesia's newest club, Toastmasters International.

They told of all this in a discussion on what they expected to gain from membership in Toastmasters at the club's regular meeting at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night in Artesia Hotel basement clubroom.

The club meets each Tuesday night at that place. Supper and non-supper meetings alternate. Thus, this week's session was non-dinner. Coffee and doughnuts were served, however, after the meeting.

Next meeting will be at 7 o'clock Tuesday night, Oct. 31, a dinner meeting.

First move to start the club was on Oct. 4 when an organizational gathering was held. Application for charter was made Friday, Oct. 20. Membership is limited to 30. The membership list is now complete. Toastmasters do not merely "get up and talk," they plan and study their speeches. Each meeting has its toastmaster and topic master.

Table topics are assigned by the program committee, of which Clyde Gilman is chairman.

Each gathering has a critic, called a speech evaluator, and a reserve speaker is in the battery, to replace any of the four regulars if needed.

Started In 1924

Toastmasters International was founded in 1924. Headquarters are Santa Ana, Calif. Membership totals 25,000.

For the meeting Tuesday, Oct. 31 meeting the table topic is "Should Red China have a seat in the United Nations?"

Taylor Cole will be toastmaster; Grady Wright, topic master; Marshall Rowley, speech evaluator. Speakers will be Howard Achen, Ray Griffin, Wayne Griffin, W. C. Thompson, with Bill Keys as reserve speaker.

Bob Siegal was speech evaluator at the last meeting; A. C. Sadler was toastmaster; Floyd Hall, topic master; speakers were C. R. Scott, Jr., Maurice Dippel, Dave Saiken, and W. C. Thompson, reserve, who substituted for D. A. Miller.

Miners Seek to End Raider Post-War Jinx

Two injury riddled Border Conference teams get together at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in Lubbock when the Texas Western Miners of El Paso attempt to shake off the post-war jinx held over them by the Texas Tech Red Raiders.

The Miners found their 48-13 victory over New Mexico University last Saturday a costly one as it put their two top backs on the sidelines with injuries. Harvey (Pug) Gabrel, who has clipped off 416 yards in the 55 times he has carried the ball, pulled a leg muscle the third time he packed the ball after scoring touchdowns on each of his other two carries.

Bill Chesak, line-ramming 206 pound halfback, received a chest injury. Trainer Boss Moore said that it is unlikely they will play against Tech. Still on the cripple list are halfbacks Jimmy Williams and Billy Walsh.

Coach Dell Morgan's Raiders, who whipped the Miners 13-0 last season, have had tough going in their 1950 campaign and are without a win. However, four of their losses have been at the hands of Southwest Conference foes. The defending loop champs must still be rated as a strong team by Border Conference standards.

Injuries have played a key part in the losing ways of Tech. Ace backs Ike Stuver and Earl Jackson have been benched with injuries, along with their top ends.

Resourceful Mike Brumbelow, who in his first year as boss of the Miners, has guided the Orangemen to four consecutive victories after dropping an early season game to Cincinnati University.

Two weeks ago the Miners used only three passes in defeating Arizona University 14-12. Last week Coach Brumbelow had a snappy passing attack in operation, with 17 completions in 31 attempts, while snowing under New Mexico 48-13.

Just what weapons Texas Western will rely on against Tech remain to be seen. However, indications are that the Miners will have a double-barreled attack ready.

One thing certain is that this will mark the crucial stage in the 1950 season for the Miners. Although undefeated in conference play, Texas Western must face the three league king-pins — Texas Tech, West Texas and Hardin-Simmons on consecutive week ends.

Wilford White, who currently leads the nation's ball carriers in total ground gaining, has piled up an amazing 572 yards in his first three games to lead Arizona State at Tempe to three lopsided victories. He has averaged 9.1 yards per try.

—o—

Bob Fuller, who boots extra points barefooted for Arizona State College at Tempe, has been successful in 17 of his first 18 placement attempts. Barefoot Bobby kicks with the ball of his right foot, curling his stubby toes backward as he meets the pigskin.

Grubstakers Back To Gridiron Wars

After a four-week layoff, the Texas Western Grubstakers of El Paso take on the New Mexico A. & M. freshmen tonight in Las Cruces.

Coach Ross Moore's young Miner squad lost its only outing of the season by falling before the steamrolling University of Arizona team 35-14. The Aggies were shipped by New Mexico University two weeks ago.

Although the Grubstakers were defeated by Arizona, they showed a great deal of spunk and ability before finally falling before superior manpower.

Having had considerable work by scrimmaging with the Texas Western varsity, the Orange frosh is set to go in high gear. Two pint-sized backfield aces are ready to go into their specialty acts against the rival Aggies. They are Billy Bob Plumbley, sharp-shooting quarterback from Ysleta and Pat Drumm, 135 pound speedster from Wink.

Probable starting line-up for the Grubstakers:

Ends—Gene Odell, Ysleta, and Dick Shinaut, El Paso; tackles—Ray Heard, Odessa, and Harris Cantrell, Ysleta; guards—Ben Parrish, Monahans, and Billy Todd, Abilene; center—Bobby Dirmeyer, El Paso; quarterback—Billy Bob Plumbley, Ysleta; halfbacks—T. W. Harvey, Odessa and Pat Drumm, Wink; fullback—Howard Greenlee, Monahans.

Whizzer White Tops the Nation In Ball Carrying

By Dean Smith

The other Whizzer White?

Sure, folks down in the vast Southwest remember a guy named Byron White of Colorado, but they are too excited over the new Whizzer—Wilford White of Arizona State—to think much about Byron these days.

They're too thrilled over the new White's terrific 1950 performance on the gridiron—his twisting, dodging deception — his breathtaking kickoff returns—his never-say-die competitive spirit.

And they're not at all surprised that he's the nation's top ball carrier, according to the National Collegiate Bureau of Athletics, with a three-game total of 572 yards and a per-carry yardage average of 9.1 yards.

And, despite the fact that it's unheard of for a back from a small college (4500 students) to make All-America, they won't be too surprised if the new Whizzer makes it.

After all, he was selected to the United Press All-America honorable mention team in 1949 and has made All-Border Conference and Little All-America.

And he's never looked as good as he does this season. Those who have seen the Arizona State Whizzer in action say there's not a better back in these United States. It's beginning to look like they're right.

Texas Western Power

CORDELL McCRAW, Back
Texas Western

Cordell McGraw, 210-pound fullback from Lynchburg, Va., has turned into a star on both offense and defense for the Texas Western Miners. McGraw plays every down on defense as a linebacker and on the offense he is a hard-charging fullback. He has been assigned a key role for the Miners crucial Border Conference game with Texas Tech Saturday.

SPORTS ON THE HOME FRONT

By BROWNIE EMERSON

Typewriter T Tripped and Tackled Tangled By Terrific Timing Trouble

There's T-timing trouble—afoot this week and it, to use the w. k. cliche, quote wrecks havoc unquote, with covering sports. Artesia-St. Mary game Thursday night and we go to press before the game but planning on late P-1 story.

Have seen three football games in five days, two at State College, one in Carlsbad . . . Cavemen are going to be tougher than they looked Wednesday night . . . they only half tried on aerial game, took contest in stride . . . Albuquerque faster and better than Cavemen expected . . .

Due to lack of time, a lot of news will have to be boiled down . . . along with mention of stories I wanted desperately to get but didn't have time or contacts . . . Artesia apparently doesn't want organized pro baseball deal outlined by red-haired hazel-eyed Dr. Marshall Dyke of Borger, Hutchinson County, Texas, in session 10 a. m. Tuesday city hall . . . at least no all-out expression on matter from 50 attending . . . Dykes asked only use of muny park, guarantee of attendance, said needed 1000 at each game, wanted sale of season tickets at 50 bucks, said minimum of 47 grand needed to start team.

Hornets Take Off

Junior high football and QB club also on the uncompleted list . . . hear the Hornets vastly improved although still not on black ink side of ledges . . . held opponents to one touchdown last two games.

Haven't found time to contact Coach Ray Hall to get all the facts on his hussars . . . also missed last two QB suppers since have to be here when page made-up . . . saw Coach Jack Tinson proudly showing red and blue helmets and shoulder pads for Bullpups . . . another development I'd like to cover.

After All These Years!!

It has finally happened! The play that officials and coaches have jokingly discussed for years was used in a game.

Team A was deep in its own territory. They lined up in their normal offensive positions. The quarterback then asked the referee if he was going to penalize the defensive team for the foul they had committed.

Before the official could answer he remarked that since the referee wouldnt penalize them he would. The center handed him the ball with a legal snap. He stepped off 15 yards as if administering a penalty against team B.

Team B looked on in a rather amused manner to see what he was doing. After he walked past the safety man he ran for a touchdown. All this action was executed in a legal manner as far as formations, motion, and other requirements for putting the ball in play are concerned.

Some officials have asked for a ruling on this play. The ruling is as follows:

This was definitely an act on the part of the offensive team to use the officials as decoys to relax the defense and put them off their guard. It is not the intent of the men who draw up the rules that football be played in any such manner. This is a deliberate attempt to violate the spirit of the rules. The officials should unhesitatingly penalize such acts as unsportsmanlike conduct. Such acts carry a 15 yard penalty.

It is impossible to list in the "Official Football Rules all of the situations which could arise under the heading of unsportsmanlike conduct. However, all acts of this nature are covered in Rule 9, Sec. 3 which says:

"No player shall act in an unsportsmanlike manner during either a period or intermission. This applies to any act the official deems contrary to sportsmanlike principles and includes the following:" The rule then lists a number of such acts. Officials have the Rule Book to back them up in a case such as this one and should not hesitate to penalize a team for using such tactics.

Coaches Please Note

Rule 1, Section 2, Article 1:

"The field shall be a rectangular area with dimensions, lines, zones, goals, flags, and markers (as shown on the accompanying diagram)."

So writes Webb Porter in Whistle Notes, a part of the October bulletin of the high school athletic association.

Porter says the diagram shows a field marked off with lines five yards apart and an inbounds line that is clearly visible.

"This is a definite part of the rules," he comments. "Such markings of a field will prevent many mistakes and misunderstandings and will make for a better administered game."

Porter Says Check This

The same bulletin says "some officials are refusing to let the defensive team have a player call defensive signals from in or beyond the neutral zone. This is a college rule, not high school. See Play 299, Page 43, of Case Book."

Coach On Field

When should a coach come on the playing field during the progress of a game? Porter says "there can be only one answer to this question. The coach never has a right to enter the field without the express permission of one of the game officials.

"An official should be very careful about allowing a coach to come on the field. While the official should be very tactful in his dealings with the coach, it is doubtful procedure ever to allow him to come on the field except when a player of his team has been injured.

"Sometimes situations arise during a game which make it difficult for a coach to sit quietly on the bench and say nothing about decisions on the field. However, should the coach come on the field to argue with the officials about their decisions, he is always taking the chance that he will precipitate a riot.

"Any satisfaction he might gain from discussing the point with the officials would certainly not be worth the chance of causing his spectators to put on an exhibition of mob violence. A game won or lost is not worth that much.

"The game officials should realize, however, that they are often responsible for situations arising that create in the coach a desire to come on the field. Officials should do everything possible to prevent such situations. Coaches and players are human beings and should be treated as such.

"All officials should assume a courteous, kindly attitude toward these men. Correct signals should be given on all plays in order that the coach will have a clear picture of what is taking place on the field. When an unusual situation arises that cannot be covered by signals, the officials should find some means of conveying this information to the coach.

"The coach certainly has a right to discuss the game with the officials after it is over. This should be done in some private place and not publicly. Should the coach feel angry toward the officials he should wait until some later date to discuss their work!"

In their first three games of 1950, the Arizona State College Sun Devils, led by All-America candidate Wilford "Whizzer" White, traveled farther by land than any other American football team in history. They piled up an average of 461 ground yards per game, surpassing the old mark of 378.3 yards set by Texas Mines in 1948.

Texas Western Spark

GERALD CAMPBELL, Back
Texas Western

Little Gerald Campbell, 145-pound speedster from Odessa, is winning laurels as one of the top safety men in the Southwest. His speed, agility and sure-tackling ability makes him an outstanding defensive man against both passes and running attacks. Campbell has had a key role in the Miners victory march over their past four opponents. Last week against New Mexico University, Campbell intercepted four Lobo passes, which was considerable help to the Mines in their 48-13 victory.

Lobo Grid Team Reduced 419 Lbs.

Has anybody seen 419 pounds of stray beef lying around? If you locate it, drop it by Coach Dud DeGroot's office at the University for molding into a couple of 209½ pound tackles.

The 419 pounds represents the amount of weight lost by the 1950 Lobo varsity since practice started in Albuquerque this fall, and the amount is not remarkable when you consider that some of the players have lost as much as 12 pounds during the course of one game.

Regular daily practice sessions, at which the Lobo weights are carefully checked before and after practice, knock off anywhere from three to eight pounds.

There's no need to diet, ladies, as can be proved by checking the before and after records of a few of the husky Lobo line. Tackle Tony Bernitsky, who at the start of the season was simply huge at 240 pounds, how now dropped to a lithesome 225 and has switched to suspenders in place of belts.

Don Anderson, another tackle from El Paso, has knocked his waistline down several degrees by losing nine of his original 235 pounds.

Among the limelights, too, there has been a noticeable loss of gross tissue. Bob Cooke, formerly a strapping 220-pound fullback, now tips the beam at a puny 208 and has to carry pocketsfull of small change to keep from being carried off when the coaches shout at him!

In all, the team has averaged a weight loss of 10 pounds per man since the season began which, with the price of meat as it is, is no inconsiderable outlay.

Girl Scout Notes

"Girl Scout Week" begins Sunday, Oct. 29, in honor of the birthday of Juliette Low, founder of the Girl Scouts. Many of the troops are to attend the churches of their choice in uniform that day. A Girl Scout window display in Thompson-Price's window and a radio show next week will honor Artesia's Girl Scouts. The radio show will be an interview of Troop 2, and Mrs. D. M. Walter, president of the Girl Scout Association, will tell something about scouting.

Troop 2 worked on the Backyard Camping and Good Grooming Badges. The group elected the following officers: President, Peggy Lou Hodges; vice president and reporter, Sandy Barr; secretary-treasurer, Diane Thomas. After the business session the girls practiced folk dances.

Troop 3 elected officers for the next five weeks. They are: President, Marie Herbert; vice president, Cynthia Rowley, and secretary, Barbara Sadler. The girls made invitations to a Hallowe'en party and will invite girls who are not Brownies. The costume party will be from 6 to 7:30 o'clock next Monday evening at Mrs. Ralph Gray's home, where the girls plan to roast wienies and marshmallows.

Troop 4 completed the party invitations they are making and discussed the investiture ceremony. They began working on blue printing and played a game to select party committees. They were dismissed with the "Goodbye Song."

Troop 5 met Friday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, with 16 girls present, five of whom are new members. The new members are Nancy Fowler, Wanda Moore, Martha Elgan, Linda Boyce and Karla Barron. The girls sang three roundalays and elected Kay Schnaubert and Helen Willingham as patrol leaders. Their assistants will be Carol Ziegler and Gerene Havins. Troop secretary will be Sharon Aston. Each patrol helped the new girls with their Tenderfoot requirements.

Troop 6 discussed a hike and cookout which the troop had Saturday. The girls hiked east of town and on the way the girls learned the names of many leaves and flowers. On the cookout they prepared "heaven sandwiches," which are made with hamburger, ketchup, onions, and chili powder. The girls learned to tie knots and on the return trip helped extinguish a fire under a small bridge. At the Monday meeting the girls planned a scrapbook for troop memories and finished overseas school bags for children in Korea and Greece.

Troop 10 divided into patrols and selected Lou Ann Siegenthaler and Hollace Cockburn as patrol leaders. They discussed the badges in which most of the girls were interested and planned an indoor Hallowe'en party with Hallowe'en games and menu.

Troop 11's Pioneer Patrol made plans for a cookout in the George Nickolds backyard for the next meeting as work on their Outdoor Cook Badge. The other patrol discussed child care in the John Gates yard.

Troop 13 learned trail signs for the hike planned for Friday afternoon. The group voted to go to the First Baptist Church Sunday. They played the jigsaw puzzle hiding game.

Troop 14 discussed getting new members for the troop and discussed having a cookie sale with the approval of the Girl Scout board. They had pop for refreshments.

Troop 16 gathered material for ming trees on their way to the Episcopal Church, where they made "some-mores" for refreshments. At the fireplace the girls held the investure ceremony for Jo Ann Harrison, Irene Reynolds, and Sammy Dale Beal. The girls learned some new songs and games and voted to go to the First Methodist Church on "Girl Scout Sunday."

Troop 17 held the investiture ceremony for two new Brownies, Joy Shaw and Billie Jean Shotts. Leader of the day was Patricia Short. The girls made popcorn bags in the shape of owls to hold popcorn for their party next Monday. They elected the following officers: President, Edwina McCaw, secretary, Silvia Haile, and Linda Lorang, treasurer.

Troop 19 opened the meeting with "America" and played "A Hunting We Will Go" and "Carrousel," preceding a wienie roast held on the Carver School grounds. The girls discussed safety while on picnics and hikes, and planned a terasure hunt for Hallowe'en.

Troop 20 elected officers for November: President, Shirley Staggs; secretary, Ann Stromberg; treasurer, Nancy Lamb. The troop received invitations to a Hallowe'en party to be at the home of Mrs. Raymond Cavin, troop leader, from 5:30 to 7 o'clock next Tuesday.

Mrs. Othel Olson's new troop of Brownies will meet at the educational building at the First Methodist Church in the future. The last meeting was held at Mrs. Olson's home with a backyard party for 16 girls and 14 mothers. Mrs. V. P. Sheldon spoke to the mothers on the meaning of Brownies and troop committees and the little girls played games and sang songs in the yard. The group was served punch and cookies by troop committee members, Mrs. Hugh Parry, Mrs. Clark Storm, and Mrs. W. C. Thompson, Jr. Each girl told what she did to earn her dues.

Mrs. Bill Ellinger's new troop of Brownies learned the "Brownie Promise" and "Brownie Smile Song" and several games. Mrs. Othel Olson assisted Mrs. Ellinger.

Mrs. Bob Gates' troop elected the following officers: President, Jana Wickersham, and treasurer, Carolyn McNicol. The girls played "Stir the Stew."

Chiropractic is not confined in its practice to one particular illness or type of illness. Chiropractic is not intended just to relieve a "pain in the neck" or a "catch in the back."

Chiropractic is a scientific method of eliminating the CAUSE of DIS-EASE by adjusting the subluxated (misaligned) vertebrae of the spine, thereby removing pressure from nerves and permitting the 100 per cent transmission of nerve energy to all parts of the body. JUST INEXPERIENCED?

About all the opposition and the Democrats have said about Ed Mechem, Dona Ana County attorney and Republican nominee for governor, has been he is young and inexperienced.

That, of course, is about all they could say about him. They can't dig up any political scandal or political records with a bad odor to discuss.

But Ed Mechem wasn't too young to help protect this nation and to chase down spies during World War II as a member of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He wasn't too inexperienced to help in every way he could during those trying days and times.

Ed Mechem wasn't too young and inexperienced to represent Dona Ana County as their representative in the state legislature and to do such an outstanding job he became known over the entire state.

Ed Mechem wasn't and hasn't been too young to represent the water users in legal matters and even to represent them in Washington when this valley was fighting to help protect its water supply and to rehabilitate the Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Valley.

Ed Mechem hasn't been too young and too inexperienced to join with the other attorneys in Dona Ana County in the fight for law and order and decency. He hasn't been too young and inexperienced to handle legal matters for a great many clients in Dona Ana County and in this state.

What the politicians meant, of course, about him being young and inexperienced is that he is not part of a political administration which believes in using its position to promote the interest of the members. They mean he isn't experienced in political programs and undertakings which give the patronage to the favored few. What they meant was he wouldn't play along with those who have benefited and profited in this state from politics.

We believe their comment has helped Ed Mechem's campaign and helped him to convince the people he is the kind and type of man that New Mexico wants and needs for governor.

And the more they talk about Ed Mechem being young and inexperienced—the less campaigning Ed Mechem has to do because they are doing it for him.

Six months ago there was some doubt as to what the Republican party could and would do in a campaign. Six months ago there were those who were convinced the Republican party was dead and couldn't be revived.

Six months ago the Democrats were not worried or concerned about this young, inexperienced attorney from Dona Ana County. Even some of the Republicans were skeptical.

All of that has and is changing. The Democrats have openly admitted they have a fight and an election on their hands. Their very actions and activities indicate that.

They are concerned, according to reports from over the state, because of the lack of interest in their campaign and because their campaign is not clicking.

These are the same individuals who contended the young and inexperienced Las Cruces attorny didn't have a chance. They are not so sure about that now.

And those Republicans who wondered about their party have now learned that the old GOP has a lot of life in her yet. The Democrats who have sought a change have found a candidate willing to give his best and a candidate who has been accepted by the people of New Mexico.

And Tuesday, Nov. 7, will tell the story. If you believe in Ed Mechem and the things for which he stands; if you want a house cleaning in the state; if you are tired of one little handful of politicians controlling and dictating affairs in our state—then go to the polls and cast your ballot for Ed Mechem.

Don't let the paid, professional Democratic politicians tell you that you have to vote their ticket in November, because you voted it in the June Primary.

In the November Election you can vote as you please, no matter how you voted in the Primary.

United Nations Day Noted By Students

In a nine-part campus program pupils of Artesia senior and junior high schools noted United Nations Day at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The observance was a part of similar programs held over the nation, and was featured by the hoisting of the United Nations flag and pledge of allegiance to the world organization.

Presentation of the flag was by Mrs. Ralph Rogers, representing Clarence Kepple Unit 41 of the American Legion Auxiliary.

A. L. Terpening, student council president, directed the pledge of allegiance to the United Nations.

The color guard was composed of Dick Cranford, Clarence Lamb, Don Mulliniks, and Altus Boulden.

Pledge of allegiance to the Stars and Stripes was conducted by Larry Wehunt, junior high pupil.

Rev. S. M. Morgan, First Baptist minister concluded the program with a prayer.

Other parts of the program:

"America," by high school band and student body; "The Star Spangled Banner," high school band; raising of the flag by color guard.

"This Is My Country, sextette; "Hymn of Nations," mixed quartet.

United Nation Pledge

Rolfe Lanier Hunt is the author of the pledge to the all-nations federation. The pledge reads:

"I pledge allegiance to the United Nations and to the ideal for which it stands; union in the one world, indivisible, where, under the One God, men dwell on earth, living in liberty, equality and fraternity, one government of all people, by all people, and for all people, serving each other in peace and good will."

Legion Auxiliary Urges Disabled Be Remembered

With the nation concentrating thought and effort upon the rebuilding of its defensive strength against new dangers, those who were disabled defending America against the attacks of the past must not be forgotten, Mrs. Raymond Bartlett, rehabilitation chairman of Clarence Kepple Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, told a meeting of auxiliary workers recently.

The auxiliary carries out a continuous program for the welfare of disabled war veterans and their families and is now planning expansion of these activities to include those disabled in the present conflict. To maintain this work and at the same time meet other demands for service growing out of the new crisis, increased membership strength is being sought for the coming year.

"More than 100,000 veterans of the Great Wars are confined to the hospitals of the Veterans Administration," Mrs. Bartlett said. "They must not become 'forgotten men' because of the nation's preoccupation with present problems. The auxiliary's work of bringing them comfort, peace of mind and contact with the outside world must continue. We must continue to make sure that their families at home are not left in need.

"With wounded servicemen again coming back from overseas, the need for the auxiliary's rehabilitation activities is increasing. We are hoping that many women who have not been enrolled in the auxiliary in previous years will join us now and help carry forward our work 'for those who have borne the battle, their widows and their orphans'."

Albuquerque Man Named Chairman March of Dimes

MAX HOOD

Appointment of Max Hood of Albuquerque as 1951 March of dimes chairman in New Mexico was announced by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, in New York.

In his capacity as head of the National Foundation's fund-raising drive in the state, Hood will co-ordinate the activities of county and city campaign directors during the March of Dimes appeal next Jan. 15-31.

Hood is executive secretary of the New Mexico Pharmaceutical Association, a post he has held since 1938.

Prior to World War II, Hood was manager of the Las Cruces Chamber of Commerce. During the war he served with the Army Criminal Investigation Division and after his discharge was associated with the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce in charge of memberships and public relations.

He is a graduate of the Business Education School at Arizona Teachers College, Flagstaff, is married, and has three children.

In announcing Hood's acceptance of the March of Dimes post, O'Connor declared: "I am pleased to know that Mr. Hood will serve during our appeal in January. I am certain that his efforts and those of his associates, aided by the co-operation of all New Mexico citizens, will make the 1951 March of Dimes the success it must be."

Maddox has been with the local concern only since Aug. 8 this year, coming to Artesia from Roswell.

WE'RE FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT

● Our state purchasing law is a mess. We need a thorough revision of the law to guarantee honest, open, competitive bidding on state contracts.

Under our present law the purchasing agent is free to buy from whom he pleases at any price he pleases.

What happens under this system? Simple—friends of the machine get all the state business. People who refuse to pay kickbacks are ignored. Result—you pay more for state purchases than you should. The State Taxpayers Association says the state can save $1 million a year with real competitive bidding. But the machine said it was "not too disturbed" about this advice.

To get a new purchasing law—

EDWIN L. MECHEM

● A postcard we got in the mail the other day was so interesting, we thought we'd pass it on to you. It came from Taos—

"Dear Mr. Mechem:

"I am going to vote for you this year because you are not a politician. You trying to do your best for the state and have fight a terrible political organization.

"I tell all my friends vote for you and Paul Larrazolo."

WE'RE AGAINST THE DINERO-CRATS

● Two out of every five purchases the state makes do not go through competitive bidding. And there is no guarantee that low bids will be accepted on the remaining three.

Cars bought without bids cost $104 more than they did after the machine was forced to call for bids on cars.

But after this automobile deal was exposed the machine went ahead and ignored low bids on highway equipment—at extra cost of $14,000; spent hundreds of thousands in insurance premiums to machine friends without a bid; and intends to do more.

"If they don't think we're doing right, let them put us out of office," the Purchasing Agent said.

Let's take his advice and—

Vote For Mechem - Larrazolo

Election Pilgrimage

THE ELECTION PILGRIMAGE IS NOW ON.

Those public officials seeking re-election are now making the rounds to visit their old friends. They are making their usual calls at the newspaper office.

We have been seeing a lot of the politicians recently. As we have pointed out before we don't see much of these politicians with the exception of one or two from one election to the other.

However, we can always be sure they are going to come by and see us to solicit our support and our backing during the campaign and the election whether they bother to check to see whether there is any service they can render us while they are in office or whether there is anything we need.

They contend, of course, they haven't time during their regular duties to pay these visits. They have their regular jobs to perform and they are receiving pay for doing this.

However, during the election campaign they can take off three or four months from their jobs; campaign all over the state; remain on the taxpayers' payroll and do just as they please.

As we have said before, newspaper people only have one vote. They haven't half as much influence as some folks seem to think they have; and they are usually already sold on a candidate or they are against a candidate.

But maybe it is nice that the officeholders come around and see us now and then because if they didn't—well perhaps we wouldn't see them at all.

However, we have never been able to understand how a political party or a candidate or an officeholder seeking re-election can expect much consideration at the hands of a newspaper when the newspaper has sort of been kicked around, ignored, forgotten and treated like an orphan or a stepchild for the term of an individual as an officeholder.

But anyway the election pilgrimage is now underway and it will continue until the day before the election and until the people go to the polls to cast their ballots and make their decision.

As newspaper people we are just sort of grateful there won't be another for two more years.—O.E.P.

Plan to Go and Vote

THE REGISTRATION PERIOD for those eligible to qualify to ballot is now over.

It ended on Oct. 7 and those who failed to register cannot qualify to ballot in the November election.

It is not too late to make those plans to go and vote if you are eligible and registered.

Far too many in the past have failed to visit the polls and to exercise their right of franchise.

Too many have taken an attitude of indifference and have seemed to think that it does not matter whether they cast their ballot or not.

I does matter whether they vote. And it is an obligation and a responsibility which their citizenship imposes on them.

Far too often in recent months we have heard the statement that the people elected such and such an individual to office—the majority of the people.

That, of course, has not been true because the majority of the people did not vote. We are told that less than 25 per cent of the voters elected President Harry Truman.

It is known that in many instances only 30 to 50 per cent of the voters have taken the trouble to go to the polls and cast their ballots on election day.

We refuse and fail to go and ballot but we continue to complain about those elected to state and federal offices. We complain about the manner in which they operate our business, but these complaints do not mean a thing unless they are registered at the ballot box.

Surely we realize now that it is time for people to take a real interest in governmental affairs. Surely we have learned that we must participate in these affairs; in the electing of our officials; and in selecting those who will run these affairs for us.

On Nov. 7 we will see just how well we have learned this lesson. The number of ballots or percentage of total voters who visit the polls will clearly indicate whether we have or haven't.

Make your plans now and be sure and go vote Nov. 7.—O.E.P.

They Shout Loudest

IT IS ALWAYS INTERESTING to watch political campaigns and to take particular notice of those who shout the loudest regarding the records of their candidates.

You will notice that the loudest shouter is the one who stands to profit, to gain, or to benefit from his or her candidate being elected to office.

We are never very much convinced by the arguments of a staunch party supporter when he starts talking about his party's candidates. We can't understand what he is saying, because we are thinking so loud about what he or she is going to get out of the election of their particular candidate.

Others, we are sure, have had exactly the same experience. They have observed the action and conduct of politicians for a good many years and they aren't convinced by some of the propaganda and the campaign arguments, which are advanced.

It is the fact that certain candidates have many workers and those who gain and benefit by their election which has controlled too many of our elections in the past. They have controlled the elections because as individuals we have permitted less than 50 per cent of the voters of the nation to elect the public officials.

It has actually been a minority which has controlled our election instead of a majority. That is our own fault. We are the ones who have refused to accept our duty and our respensibility which our citizenship imposes on us to go to the polls and cast our ballots.

We can, of course, change this situation when we are willing to go and vote. We can eliminate a great deal of the influence which the politicians and their followers have been able to bring about when we exercise our right of franchise.

There, of course, are not going to be any changes in the manner in which our government is operated as long as we silently approve of what is being done by our failure to go to the polls.

Tuesday, Nov. 7, is the day on which you can voice your opinion and have it count. Make your plans now to be among those who ballot on Nov. 7.—O.E.P.

BEANS AND BARRELS

Ho, hum! And lackaday! Here we go again!

Just as we are beginning to bask in the death of flying saucer stories comes news of a 21-pound bean and a self-filling barrel.

The big bean was grown by a Pittsburgh suburban gardener on a stalk 50 feet high. The seed he planted (it says here) came from the tomb of an ancient Pharaoh. The barrel was constructed, or discovered down in the Missouri Ozarks. No matter how often water was drawn from it, the barrel refilled itself.

Both the bean and the barrel have their points. But the barrel has more possibilities. About all you can do with a four-foot bean is to eat it. That's what the proud gardener did. He entertained his friends (about a score, we would guess), and the bean was served stuffed and baked, French fried, and sliced raw. No complaints about a musty flavor reported.

But the barrel! What mightn't New York City have given for it last spring and summer. And if its horn-of-plenty secret could be applied to dispensing wampum as well as water, we would like to place our order now for a convenient family model, and recommend the large economy size for installation in the huge, gray-pillared building to the east of the White House.

But there's a hitch, of course. We learn later that trespassers by night tipped over the Ozark barrel and its water works quit cold.

Well, it was nice while it lasted. What's next?—Christian Science Monitor.

DEAR MISS——:

It was a great disappointment to me to see you where you were last Saturday night.

Your mother and your father are among my best friends and they would have been shocked to see you dancing with a reeling drunk, consorting with people who have more money than good sense; more depravity than deportment.

Kid, you're just headed wrong when you're heading in that direction—when you keep that kind of company.

How old are you, 17? Seventeen is a good age, It is a wise age, but not the age that you, a pretty girl, can afford to cast your lot with a bunch of bums whose conduct is smart aleck and whose behavior is much less pretty than the beauty you have to contribute to the world.

We saw one of your dancing partners. He wasn't much older than you are. There he was, sporting a whiskey sour, just as though he knew what to do with it.

We saw other young kids guzzling beer just as though they thought they were pretty smart, instead of the muttonheads they are.

Miss, your mother didn't know where you were that night. We're not going to tell on you. But we are going to do something to keep you out of the sort of trouble that a joint like that creates.

Saturday night you were not as pretty and as happy as you should be and can be. There are plenty of good sober boys who will admire and respect you. You had none of that Saturday night. You know that as well as I do.

You have great beauty and you have great charm. You have the power to bring out the best that there is in American manhood. Can't you see that it is foolish to waste your great talents on those teen-age boys who have no more respect for you than to act ungentlemanly in your presence?

In saying these things, we do not seek to deprive you of your pleasure. Yo uare young and entitled to your fun. But, please, do not sacrifice your future for a few hours that may look like fun and which may lead you into a future of torment and disgrace.

You can be a great person. But a dump like that will make it impossible for you to amount to anything other than a druge. That's what playing around in a joint like that can do to you.

We have said that we aren't going to tell on you, and we will keep our word. We are going to do something about it besides this, though.

Some night that joint is liable to be raided. We don't believe that you want to be listed among those present at that time. The joint will be raided because it has sold liquor to minors and that is against the law. You don't want to be present when the raid occurs.

Please take this to heart. Please tell your friends. We want to be proud of you and so do your friends want to be proud of you—those who are worth your thinking about.

Respectfully yours,
—E.F.B., Otero County Times.

THEY HAD A HOME---THEN CAME THE HURRICANE

SITTING AMID wreckage, all that's left of their three-room home in West Hollywood, Fla., J. R. Reynolds consoles his daughter as she looks at the head of her doll. The hurricane smashed away the rest of it, as well as their home. Her brother, arm broken, waits for a car to take him to a hospital. (International)

Assignment New Mexico

By G. Ward Fenley

I think I have America's prize guinea-piggish family. We try everything.

When sulfa and penicillin first became popular, we couldn't wait to get a cold so we could test their effectiveness.

Last winter no day was complete without a health-restoring dose of the anti-histamines.

Getting ready for the coming winter, my wife has got me, daughter, Jane, and herself on a one-a-day vitamin that is due to prevent influenza, ingrowing toenails, and receding foreheads.

I never know what to expect in the way of some new cure-all when I go home at night.

All those miracle drugs sound so exciting we find we are missing something if we're healthy.

The Ultimate

Last Saturday I got my prize surprise. My wife had read last month in Readers' Digest a story on yogourt.

Ever eat any yogourt? Well, it's a yeasty, butter-milkish sort of whitish custard that has made Bulgarians live from one to 20 years longer than individuals elsewhere. So say the laboratories of Dr. Gaymont up in Chicago.

Now I'm eating my daily pint of yogourt. My wife says she is going to make me (a slim 150-pounder) become a man like my son who at 19 is a strapping six foot four inch, 185-pounder.

Another fad she's got me on now is wheat germ. Most grocers still look at you dumbfounded when you ask for the quart jar size of wheat germ. But it's on the market and, as usual, my family rushes in to buy the first shipment.

That radio serial about One Man's Family has nothing on my tribe. The lady boss of my family is striving to keep that school girl complexion and I'm yearning to retain that school boy's digestion.

Products of What We Read

The trouble with us (and with most Americans) is that we are products of what we read. Take the little girl Judy Jordan, 9-year-old offspring of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jordan at Portales, who broke her arm tackling dummies at the high school. Exact replica of the comics' great girl football fullback, Lucille Sweeney.

After Wayne Winters ran an ad in The Grants Beacon, every male resident wants the job. "Wanted," said the ad, "a man to wash dishes and two waitresses."

Only Grants' Frank Humphries declined to do half the work saying he'd have nothing to do with dishes.

The Santa Fe New Mexican said the Capital Chamber of Commerce got a letter from a South Carolina man wanting the full description of the blue uniforms used in the last siesta celebration.

And a lady at Los Alamos claims in a suit that she lost her psychic powers while getting a permanent wave in a local beauty parlor.

Said the New Mexican: "Guess she got curled too tight."

Fearing bad associations, The Clovis News Journal says that the Curry County Bar Association has become the Clovis Lawyers Club in dry Clovis.

Being a Ph.D. (stands for post-hole digger) I was amused at Dr. John Eliot Allen's 5-year-old daughter's description of her daddy in the Defensor of Socorro: "Oh, no, my daddy is not a medical doctor, he's one of those talking doctors."

That's all this week except to remind you that the average woman weighs 135 pounds, sleeps 26 years, eats three tons of chocolates, grows 30 yards of hair, and talks eight years during her lifetime.

Uncle Bill Says

By Will Robinson

What a complete change there has been in the mental attitudes of students of Americana is illustrated by the practical disappearance of the celebration of "Columbus Day" Oct. 12. long regarded as being of even greater importance than Yom Kipper or "Guy Fawkes Day."

So far as known from the public print of New Mexico, there was not a single celebration of the anniversary of the day incorrectly and long looked upon as the anniversary of the day upon which the Genoan, and the men on the two dinky little Spanish ships caught sight of the island of Salvador, cattywumpus, north by east by east from Cuba. Then the white man proceeded to unload a varied collection of phony jewelry on the Indians and began the gold brick-

Truman-MacArthur Talk May Have Political Significance | Limited Service Draft For Rejectees May Be Demanded

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Aside from its diplomatic and military aspects, the recent meeting between President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Pacific may turn out to have great political significance.

Political observers—both Democrat and Republican—say Mr. Truman's decision to confer with MacArthur may strengthen Democratic chances in the November elections. The reasons are:

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey

1—The meeting answers repeated GOP criticism that the President has refused to consult adequately with MacArthur about far Eastern problems.

2—MacArthur, though publicly "non-partisan," generally is considered to be a leading Republican, and Mr. Truman's conference with him may help to restore the bi-partisan foreign policy.

3—It is politically-wise for a candidate to sit down with a widely acclaimed public hero because such a move attracts the voters' attention and helps at the polls.

• • • • •

● LIMITED SERVICE DRAFT—Selective service officials are considering ways and means of bringing into the military manpower picture young men who can't quite come up to the stringent mental and physical requirements the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Forces have set.

Draft Chief Lewis B. Hershey says he is especially interested in finding a place for these men—probably in non-combat jobs—because he is a handicapped person, himself. He has one false eye.

Hershey puts it this way: "It would be very nice if the services could maintain a completely interchangeable force, with every man potentially able to do every job. But when you're building a military force of three million men, you can't do that."

The general says he feels some place should be found for the men who either physically or mentally, are not quite up to snuff, but who are still capable of rendering a real service by relieving a better-equipped man for combat duty.

● PEACE PACT—Developments in Korea have convinced Washington observers that the "peace" pact negotiated by Stalin and Chinese Communist Gen. Mao Tse-Tung is finally beginning to show its true form.

These observers believe that Stalin and Mao are working in agreement under which Mao will direct Asiatic operations, leaving Stalin free to move against the democracies in Western Europe, if he wishes.

The observers point to the renewed red drive in Indo-China which has partially wiped out both French and Indo-Chinese forces and forced the remainder to keep together—pinned down for fear of further traps.

As far as Korea is concerned, it is thought that while Mao will not openly intervene in the struggle against United Nations forces, he will continue to lend every possible form of support behind a screen of neutrality.

● COAL TALKS—Don't be too surprised if the coal operators make an unusually amicable gesture in John L. Lewis' direction in the near future.

Under the wage contract signed last March, the miners cannot ask for new negotiations on a pay boost until next spring—unless both parties agree by "mutual consent" to reopen the agreement.

Pay Boost Talks Out 'Til Spring

The coal operators just might agree to this in view of the new round of wage boosts sweeping the country and the almost certain fact that Lewis is going to want a share for his miners.

The steel industry agreed to reopen its contract early for new pay talks with Phil Murray's steelworkers and the coal men may follow suit in order to keep peace with Lewis and avoid any threat to profitable, high-volume defense production.

ing that has continued ever since.

Columbus came several hundred years after the sturdy Norsemen landed on the New England coast, so that Columbus was in fact not the discoverer of America. Just why such homage should have been so long accorded him without a bit of justice or truth is one of the hardest things we have to understand.

The late Chee Dodge, an American if there ever was one, refused to participate in a "Columbus Day" doings because, he said: "Columbus was a fraud, just as all other white men are. He was the first European to make and break a treaty with the true Americans and start a system of broken faith that has continued down to this day."

After which short-arm jab which is unfortunately founded in fact, it may be just as well to side-track the said Christopher Columbus, though the job has been pretty well done already.

During the Civil war, soldiers from Tennessee were called "Butternuts," from the color of their uniforms.

Try and Stop Me'

By BENNETT CERF

JEAN ARTHUR, the Hollywood star who came back to Broadway to delight audiences with her recreation of the role of Peter Pan, is a very unpredictable young lady in private life. At the height of her film career, she suddenly gave up acting to enroll in a school in the east for a year. Another time she persuaded producer Max Gordon to release her from a contract to star in Born Yesterday, although the show was an assured smash.

This year, Bert McCord tells of an even more incomprehensible move by Miss Arthur. Before the Peter Pan revival was set, Alfred de Liagre persuaded her to read the script of Norman Corwin's "Mary and the Fairy." She called to say she was interested and suggested a reading. De Liagre and Corwin hurried over to her suite, and the author began to read his play. Flaw way through the first act, Miss Arthur began to render her lines from memory, and continued letter-perfect through the remainder of the script. When she finished, however, she waved aside their enthusiastic comments, and declared, "Gentlemen, I don't feel I'm right for the part," and walked out of the room!

Librarian Gives Informative Talks

(From Artesia Hi Beacon)

For the benefit of the students who use the library, Miss Nethery, the librarian, has been giving library instructions during the first 10 or 15 minutes of each study hall. This instruction is especially valuable to the students who are planning to write research themes. To write a theme you must gather material from many different sources. During the days that instruction was given, the librarian showed and explained many different ways of getting information.

The first day was spent in a tour of the library with Miss Nethery beginning at the bulletin board and pointing out sections of interest around to the charging desk.

The next day was used for explaining how to use the card catalog. Enlarged cards of the real ones in the card catalog were used very effectively in explaining how to look up a book by the author, title and subject.

A day was also spent on the clipping file and the Readers' Guide, the most common periodical index.

Books in which you can find famous people was the subject of the next period. Some of these were: Who's Who, British Authors, Living Authors and the Biographical Dictionary.
