(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 15.—With "practically no plans at all" for her future, Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nixon - Nirdlinger, former St. Louis beauty contestant, who slew her husband in France last March, returned to America today. She said all she wanted was to forget the past and be happy with her children.

"I am very sad about the whole thing. It was terrible.

"I was afraid all the time that I would not be vindicated," she remarked.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger will be 26 next October. She was asked if she considered another not so good looking would have fared so well at the hands of the jury. "Beauty" she declared, "has nothing to do with justice. I am sometimes sorry when I think of all the trouble it has brought me."

Two Brothers Of Spikes On Stand Monday

Jeff And Ernest Spikes Tell Of Lives In New Mexico And Deny Material Alleged Contained In Book

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

Two of the four surviving Spikes brothers, Jeff, retired merchant of Crosbyton and Ernest, of Huntington, Beach, Calif., testified Monday in 99th district court in the $200,000 libel suit of Fred Spikes against the trustees of the Capitol Reservation Lands and J. Evetts Haley, Austin. Mr. Spikes is asking damages for publication of certain statements in one chapter of Haley's book concerning the fatal shooting of John and Dick Spikes and the wounding of the plaintiff.

Jeff Spikes went on the stand at 11 o'clock, following an hour's delay in opening court, due to the opening of federal district court here yesterday. He completed his direct testimony soon after the afternoon session opened and was cross-questioned for more than an hour by E. L. Klett. After the recess Ernest Spikes took the stand and completed his testimony and cross-examination just at closing time Monday.

Jeff Spikes testified that he had never, during the three or four months he had lived in New Mexico, seen any evidence of burned brands on cattle or of theft of cattle; nor had he seen any butchered hides or cut out brands on horses. Lockhart read to him the pleadings of the defendants, concerning a so-called "conspiracy" and Mr. Spikes answered he had never entered any scheme or conspiracy to do unlawfull acts. He heard of his brothers being killed on January 22, Mr. Spikes testified. He at once started for Hereford where he heard Fred Spikes had been taken and arrived there about sun up the morning of January 23, he declared.

Three months were spent in Hefeford with Fred Spikes, the witness testified on cross-questioning. He told of what he had left at his home near Mesa Redonda when he left there December 18, including bedclothes, chain harness, a dozen head of saddle horses and cooking utensils. Fred Spikes remained at John Spikes' house, the witness stated. He stated that he was not breaking up his housekeeping for good, and said he had decided to return to New Mexico "before I left Crosby," adding that his brothers knew he was planning to return.

Jeff said he left John Witt in

Era Of Prosperity Greater By Far Than Ever Before Pointed To By Nation's Executive In Address

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON

INDIANAPOLIS, June 15.—President Hoover pointed the nation tonight to an era of prosperity "greater than ever before," and called upon the people to replace the fear and apprehension of the depression with an armor of confidence.

"The underlying forces of recovery are asserting themselves," he assured. "Our transcendent momentary need is a much larger degree of confidenee among our business agencies and that they shall extend this confidence in more than words.

Mists Fade Away

"If our people will go forth with the confidence and enterprise which our country justified, many of the mists of this depression will fade away."

Mr. Hoover spoke before the Indiana Republican Editorial association in the mammoth fair grounds auditorium where dinner was served to 5,200 editors and their families. He began his address with the declaration that "the business de-

More Than 355 Persons Yet Missing As Planes And Ships Search Waters

Pitiful Sights Are Evidenced With Hope Waning

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press)

NANTES, France, June 15.—Ships and airplanes were scouring the waters off Point St. Gildas tonight searching for additional bodies of the approximately 400 excursionists who lost their lives yesterday afternoon when the excursion steamer St. Philibert capsized and sank near Noirmoutier Island.

As the quest for bodies went on the searchers also nourished the faintest hope that some additional survivors might turn up to be added to the slender list of eight who were rescued last night. Although it was not thought probable, some of the searchers held to the bare possibility that a few others might have made their way to remote havens on the island or the shore.

61 Bodies Recovered

Late tonight a total of 61 bodies had been recovered from the sea, 51 of them bodies of women, they were picked up by boats of various descriptions which joined in the search, directed by an airplane high over the surface of the water.

Indescribably sad scenes were enacted on the shore. One man came riding up to the waterfront on a bicycle crying like a child.

"I put my whole life into one ideal," he said. "My young son eighteen years old, who was on that boat."

Relatives thronged the wharves facing the Loire river, wharves piled high with coal, waiting sadly and impatiently for each report of the finding of additional bodies, most of them were hoping against hope.

No one knew exactly how many

Lubbock Water Has High Test

District Sanitary Engineer Declares That City's Supply Is Excellent; Tests To Be Made Frequently

Lubbock's water supply is equal to that of any city in the state as far as purity is concerned, H. E. Hargis, district sanitary inspector of the state department of health, said yesterday.

Four samples of water, taken from widely separated sections of the city, were tested yesterday by Hargis. An average bacterial count of 20 was found, he said.

Condition Excellent

"The condition of the water may be described as excellent," the state inspector said. "While the state department makes no effort to classify cities according to bacterial count, we consider water supplies showing a count of less than 100 to be very satisfactory."

Dr. A. Y. Aiken, of the city health department, announced yesterday that tests would be taken regularly throughout the summer.

"We do not expect the water to become polluted, but as a precaution, tests will be made often," Dr. Aiken said.

Seven communities recently visited by Slaton goodwill trippers were to have presented programs last night. Due to noise and confusion on the streets, the programs were postponed until next Friday night, when they will be given at the high school auditorium.

Silent tribute of ten seconds was paid Col. A. B Robertson, one of Slaton's founders, this morning as men, women and children bowed their heads.

Parade Staged

Utilities Are Rapped Before City Officers

Senator Pink Parrish States In Address That Time Now Is Ripe For Creation Of A Utilities Commission

Proposes Session

National Administration Criticized By Speaker; Something Said To Be Radically Wrong In Nation

IF I were governor today, I'd call the legislature into special session in the next ten days and demand that it pass a law to place under control every utility that serves this state," Senator Pink L. Parrish declared last night in his address to the delegates of the League of Texas Municipalities in its annual convention dinner at the Lubbock hotel. Senator Parrish said the time was ripe for the creation of a utilities commission and predicted that equal taxation also looms as a possibility on the horizon.

Senator Parrish's address was preceded by a short introduction of the league officials, and a two vocal selections by Mrs. Carl Scoggin accompanied by Mrs. Mamie I. Neal. Mayor J. J. Clements presided as toastmaster.

Boyd Robison Given Two Years In State Penitentiary; Woman Given Suspended Sentence In Forgery

Boyd Robison yesterday was found guilty of a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor by a jury in 72nd district court and was sentenced to serve two years in the state penitentiary.

A five years' suspended sentence was meted out by another 72nd district court jury to Mrs. W. E. Kunkel of Hale Center, who was found guilty of attempting to pass a forged check.

Arrested In Raid

Robinson was arrested on April 18 in a raid conducted by members of the sheriff's department, who found 12 gallons of whisky in the automobile in which he and Mrs. Ruby Morris were riding, officers said.

Boyd Robison's father, A. L. Robison, is facing two charges of liquor law violations, authorities said yesterday.

Serving Out Fines

The younger Robison and Mrs. Morris are now serving out $100 fines, assessed against each of them by County Judge E. L. Pitts after the man and woman pleaded guilty to a charge of adultery.

Mrs. Kunkel was arrested recently when she was attempting to pass a forged check at a local store, the complaint stated. In a statement made to County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson she admitted the offense

Girl Companion Of Starr Faithfull Now Is Sought

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 15.—The state tonight was seeking in New York City, a girl supposed to have been the last known companion of Starr Faithful, whose body was found half buried in the sands of Long Beach, Long Island, a week ago.

The girl was thought by Nassau county police to have had luncheon with the Greenwich Village beauty the day she vanished.

The authorities were investigating, too, a story told by Harry Goldstein, a prisoner charged with stealing an automobile in Los Angeles, that he had driven Starr and a prominent man on an eight day motor trip in France and Germany and that he had seen her with the same man in New York on the day of her disappearance.

In the last week the most tangible discovery in the case has been Starr's diary, as yet unpublished, and which is said to shed light on her love affairs.

Sensational statements about her girlhood and her character both sides of the Atlantic—have been made by persons on statements given anonymously for the most part, revealing her as a reckless young woman, morbidly unhappy at times and at others extremely pathetic.

Grain Member Of Farm Body Resigns Post

Samuel R. McKelvie Quits Farm Board After Two Years Service; Wheat Sales Planned, Stone Advises

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 15. (AP)—Chairman Stone said today the farm board's stabilization wheat will be sold abroad so long as it does not disturb the world market.

If a good foreign demand continues he said, wheat will be offered in keeping with the board's policy of disposing of its huge surplus stocks in a manner that will impose the minimum burden on other competitors.

Majority Is Sold

The board last February set 35,000,000 bushels for sale abroad to clear terminals at seaboard ports. At least 25,000,000 bushels have been sold.

Stone said as much more as can be disposed of in foreign countries without effecting their markets will be offered.

As for sales on the domestic market, he said the policy of careful handling was still in effect.

Vacancy Created

Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member of the board, retired today after two years service. He will remain in Washington several days before returning to his home in Lincoln, Nebraska.

His retirement creates the second vacancy, on the board. C. C. Teague, vice chairman, resigned June 1. Their successors have not been chosen by President Hoover.

McKelvie submitted a report today on the recent London international wheat conference in which he saw a reduction of world production as one of the possible results.

He also said few, if any, of the delegates to the conference had authority to commit their governments on an export quota plan and that in some cases it was plainly a case of "political face saving."

Methods Of Meeting Strained Economic Conditions In Cities Of Texas Talked By Officials On Monday

Election Of Officers And Selection Of Next Convention Carded Today; Committee Reports To Be Made

By HARRY MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Staff Writer

TWO methods of meeting strained economic conditions in Texas cities, each effective in its division, were discussed Monday at the nineteenth annual convention of the League of Texas Municipalities.

While small cities of the state have been reducing salaries and consolidating departments of government to cut down expenses, cities with populations of 30,000 or more have actually increased their payrolls and are conducting public building programs to aid the unemployed, reports showed.

One-Half Represented

Approximately one-half of the 141 cities with membership in the league were represented in brief reports from the convention floor, and there was not an exception to the above rule.

Most of the officials reported expenditures for public improvements in keeping with the size of their towns, and none of them reported a hike in taxes. There is a reasonable demand for city bonds throughout the state.

Revisions Reported

Some of the cities reported revisions in utility rates, and the speakers were wholeheartedly in favor of further reductions.

Reports from the city officials followed the address of Joseph P. Leopold, Dallas, representative of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who stressed "greater efficiency in the conduct of municipal affairs."

Speaking on "These Changing Times," Leopold said that most cities were overbuilt, and that in the future cities would not expand within themselves as much as they would draw from each other.

Provide Conveniences

"A city must provide adequately for its entire population by giving them paved roads and streets, water, sewers, and cultural, educational and recreational facilities at a reasonable cost," Leopold said. "With the increased competition between cities

Pageant By Girls Auxiliary Is Feature Of Church Women's Meetings

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THERE are a lot of compensations in belonging to the great middle class instead of to the very rich or the very poor. There is an example in a recent survey made in Australia, which shows that more middle class marriages turn out successfully.

Statistics gathered by social investigators there revealed that 80 per cent of Australian husbands are happily married and spend their evenings at home with their wives. Of this 80 per cent, it is asserted, 60 per cent are markedly happy, and the remaining are still contented, at least. Of the 20 per cent professing to be unhappily married, at least half say they are on good terms with their wives. Also, in this class fall the very rich and the very poor.

Probably we who are of the middle class are more happy in most ways. Without actually wanting for necessities, most of us have to work hard enough for these things to make life a sort of game with the luxuries for prizes. Probably if we had enough money to have leisure we would be wanting many things that we cannot have.

However, I'd like to try it for a day—even risking the unhappiness.

STYLE NOTE

MOTHER-OF-PEARL necklaces are the newest fad for evening wear. They are fashioned of linked flowers, similar in design to pansies, and are worn as long in back as they are in front.

AND, WHY NOT

NOTHING that entrantrance in beauty pageants sometimes carries the implication that one does not have the most desirable moral principles. Martin Starr, pageant director at Galveston the other day required each entrant in the international beauty parade to answer a detailed questionaire concerning her habits as to smoking, drinking, her use of cosmetics and the like, and required a physician's certificate, by affidavit, as to physical condition.

He discovered, among other things, that most of these young women are church goers and that one is a Sunday school teacher.

Whether beauty pageants are good things to have, I cannot say, but I was glad to see that the young women are mostly church goers. There has been too much tendency to disassociate pretty women and the church and beauty with Sunday school teachers. Christianity certainly was not meant only for homely women. And many pretty women are as good as they are pretty.

GOOD IN THE WORST

THERE is an old saw about good in the worst of us and bad in the best of us that has an illustration in kangaroo court rules at City jail, which were published in the Sunday Avalanche-Journal. Men who are behind the bars for some offense against society and who are, we too often assume lacking those characteristics that we attribute to gentlemen, have displayed these chivalrous qualities in one item.

"There are ladies in the outfiding and we must respect them at all times by desisting from vulgarity and profanity. This is one law that must be upheld or the guilty one must and will take what the court sees fit . . ." reads one of the rules.

This, in spite of the fact that most ladies who are in jail probably are lacking in a proper appreciation of the gentlemanly qualities—or is that unjust? It may be that women never fail to appreciate chivalry and from a fellow in jail, it may be more impressive—this good in the worst of us.

For the first time in several weeks no circle meetings were held Monday afternoon and several women's societies observed the summer program which calls for occasional rather than weekly meetings. In this latter group were the First Methodist, St. Paul's Episcopal and the First Presbyterian auxiliaries. Methodist and First Presbyterian societies are to meet twice monthly during the summer and the Episcopalians have suspended until autumn. Attendance was smaller at most meetings than it is during the winter months.

A monthly missionary collection was taken at the First Baptist meeting and yesterday's offering is to go to Buckner's Orphans home. Mrs. J. H. Harkins led singing that opened the program and Mrs. W. M. Lowrimore led in prayer. Mrs. Pearson was in charge of the girls' program.

A pageant, "Stewardship and the Star", was presented with those participating wearing costumes. Girls who had parts were Lucille Carter, Melba Dawn Pearson, Addie Lee Terrel, Georgia Knight, Marion Rogers, Loraine Aydelott and Sammy Bass, about 35.

A talk on Christian fellowship, given by Mrs William Dingus, was the outstanding iteem on the First Methodist Mary Helm auxiliary program. This meeting was in church parlors and women in Circle 1, of which Mrs. Rufus Rush is chairman, served punch during a social hour that followed. About thirty women were present.

Another society observing a social program following the lesson was the First Christian General Aid, which met at that church. Women in Circle 2 of the society served as hostesses and passed refreshments.

A theme for the afternoon program was "Patience" and Mrs. K. M. Renner led the devotional. Mrs. R. J. Keller talked on the seventh chapter of a society study, "On Being Towed In," and Mrs. Townsen Waddill sang a solo. There were 21 in attendance.

Royal Service, magazine of the Baptist Women's Missionary society, furnished material for a program given by women in the Calvary Baptist W. M. S., in a meeting at that church. Mrs. C. J. McCarty led the lesson on "The Youth of the Day" and Mrs. J. A. Alred conducted a devotional service. Twenty-eight women were present.

Investigation Is To Be Made

Judge At San Angelo Orders Thorough Probe Into Break From Jail Of J. D. Connor And Four Others

SAN ANGELO, June 15. (AP)—A comprehensive investigation into the jail break of J. D. Conner, San Antonio extortionist, and four others here last month was ordered today by J. F. Sutton, district judge, in charging the June term grand jury.

Judge Sutton said that J. C. "Sandy" Martin was in jail now charged with aiding the escape and that the part many others might have played should be investigated fully. Martin is a brother of R. E. "Blackie" Martin, one of the five.

Judge Sutton pointed to the jury that it might indict one or more of the five with robbery with firearms, a capital offense, if it believed they took the pistols of jailer August Luedecke and deputy Dude Thompson at the point of a gun that had been smuggled to them. He also called attention to the fact that the five had driven away from the jail in automobile commandeered from a post office employe.

Under Texas law, the escaped five may not be punished for the mere act of breaking jail, Judge Sutton said.

The Tailor Maid Figure Is Typical

By LUCIEN LELONG
(Special Cable to Central Press)
PARIS.

The Tailor Maid is one of the most typical figures of new fashions for tailored suits, after having been reduced to a negligible factor in Paris styles for a few seasons, have returned to favor with a vengeance. Every elegante has at least one—and usually several—tailored suits.

There is nothing hard and fast about the new tailored suits, however, nothing of the dull monotony that characterized the garconne interpretation of the tailored mode. The new suits, though clear cut and simple, are 100 per cent feminine. They have slightly flaring or pleated skirts. Their jackets are semi-fitted and often cut away. They may be double-breasted, single breasted or barely meeting, in which case they are held trimly in place by a separate belt at the natural waist. Jackets are usually quite short the favorite length being somewhere in the vicinity of the hip bones.

Dark Suits Brightened

My tailored jackets have long sleeves except in one or two cases where a little more fantasy governs the silhouette.

The suit is very smart worn with a short sleeved waistcoat instead of a blouse. Often the waistcoat closely imitates the jacket in cut.

Dark suits are freshened up by white pique waistcoats, buttonhole flowers and the like. Often a touch of color is added in belt, handkerchief and embroidery on the blouse or waistcoat.

Dainty blouses of lingerie, dotted swiss or mousseline are also worn with all but the most austere type of tailored costume.

Woolens in fine checks or small geometrical patterns are liked by smart women for the semi-sports type of tailored suit.

Contrasting jackets have invaded the tailored mode as well as almost every other branch of this season's fashions. I like a black or dark brown broadcloth skirt worn with a very light yellowish natural jacket and a satin waistcoat of the same light tint for afternoon.

The tailor maid will be careful to keep her accessories simple; this is essential in achieving that effect of thoroughbred grooming that is one of her chief charms. Her shoes will be simple pumps or low cut oxfords. Her gloves will be plain six or eight button slip-ons in white, cream or chamois color. One of the new cloche sailor hats will be the most appropriate accompaniment to her coiffure which will be arranged in smooth waves rather than in mad-cap curls. Jewels, if present, will be reduced to their simplest expression: a string of beads, a clip, a fob or a colonial bracelet. Handkerchiefs will be of fine linen or of foulard silk. Stockings will be plain and of a medium beige tone.

COOKING CROQUETTES AND ROASTING COFFEE HAVE MUCH IN COMMON

Success Depends Upon the Rule—A Little at a Time

Careful cooks do not crowd too many croquettes into the hot fat because they lower the temperature and then absorb grease. Cooking a few at a time prevents this.

In roasting coffee there is similar difficulty when too much is roasted at once. It is impossible to control the heat and often, as a result, part of the batch is overdone and part underdone. This causes variation in flavor.

Hills Bros., following the rule in the croquette recipe, roast only a few pounds of coffee at a time by their patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting. There is no variation in the roast because there is accurate control of the heat, also of the flow of coffee through the roasters. A rare, uniform flavor is developed such as no other coffee has.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee in vacuum cans that keep it fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed from the cans when they are packed, and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., Kansas City, Missouri. ©1931

South Plains Schools Given Recognition By State Group

Many Schools Of This Area To Be Recognized As Two, Three And Four Year Institutions Following Meeting

AUSTIN, June 15. (AP)—The department of education announced today that fifty-three non-accredited schools were recognized as two, three or four year high schools at the meeting of the high school classification committee here Friday and Saturday.

These schools will be required to furnish an exhibit of their work, after which the committee will determine whether they will be accredited. Graduates of accredited schools have their school work recognized by colleges without examinations.

The following schools were classified:

Two year: Cedar Hill, Long Mott and Spring Branch.

Three year: Campbellton, Canyon, near Lubbock, Chireno, Cochran, Parrouzett, Elliott, near Harrold, Garden City, Jonah, Lawson, Lela, Markham, Point Isabel, Saoul, Spade, near Anton, Sweeney.

Four year: Andrews, Bledsoe, near Becton, Cold Springs, Comfort, Devers, Dodd City, Ekhart, Eola, Gruver, Hobbs, Leaky, Los Fresnos, Mertens, Mirando, Missouri City, Mobeetie, Morton, Mount Enterprise, Muleshoe, Oak Hill, Oakwood, Odell, Pflugerville, Plaska, Prairie Point, Rio Vista, Rockport, San Felipe, Scurry-Rosser, Stoneburg, Talco, Talpa, Van, Waller, and Williams near May.

The committee adopted a resolution requesting Texas colleges to reduce the mathematics requirement for entrance from three to two years.

It authorized a change from the method of accrediting schools by subjects to that of granting recognition to the work of a school as a whole. The plan will not become fully effective until the beginning of the school year 1932-1933. The change will make it possible for schools to receive recognition without submitting exhibits. Emphasis will be shifted to preparation and success of the teacher and library and laboratory equipment.

An executive committee of five was appointed to act on questions arising between annual meetings. Members of the committee are S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent; B. B. Cobb, Waco school superintendent, L. A. Woods, of Waco, county superintendent; E. J. Mathews, registrar of the University of Texas, and C. E. Evans, president of the Southwest State Teachers college, San Marcos.

Plant Planned As Laboratory

Counterfeiting Plant In Operation For Popular Scholarly Enlightenment; Will Reproduce Volumes

SAN MARINO, Cal., June 15. (AP)—A counterfeiting plant is in operation here for popular and scholarly enlightenment. It it the laboratory of the Henry E. Huntington library and art gallery.

Its latest, and second in a proposed long series of counterfeits, made its appearance recently—a facsimile reproduction of "The Tragical Historie of Hamlet Prince of Denmarke," from the rare quarto of 1603.

The original little, thin quarto of 66 pages is worth more than many entire libraries, for there are but two known copies extant. One is in the British museum, the other among 165 volumes of Shakespeare embracing every first edition of the plays with the exception of "Titus Andronicus," and 20 various copies of the four folios... a collection worth $2,500,000.

Four three-foot shelves of the Huntington library house this world's most valuable collection of Shakespeare.

Max Farrand, curator of the museum and its director of research, in making known the existence of his counterfeiting plant announced that the library plans to issue from time to time, for the benefit of students throughout the world, exact facsimilies of the Huntington treasures.

As if imbued with the ghostly spirit of the ghost within it, this Hamlet quarto vanished two centuries ago and was finally found in a dead man's closet. It was said to have been prematurely born, kidnaped, fraudulently exposed to view, then lost for 200 years, and finally sold to the late Henry E. Huntington, America's greatest collector, who left his art treasures for the public.

The "true and perfect coppie" of Hamlet "newly imprinted and enlarged to almost as much again as it was" was printed in 1604, and is the edition with which most people are familiar.

China Government Is Given Defeats

SHANGHAI June 15. (AP)—Victorious on one front in its campaign against bandits the nationalist government admitted today it had received a crushing defeat on another battleground.

At least 20,000 government troops were slaughtered or otherwise disposed of by reds in Kiangsi, Hunan and northern Fukien provinces recently, an official announcement said.

In Hupeh province, however, an announcement at Hankow said, nationalist troops routed 15,000 reds and captured several communist strongholds.

The government said it had made no effort to ascertain the death toll among peasants of Kiangsi, Huan and Fukien.

To combat the red menace, the government announced it had rushed 200,000 troops into Kiangsi province and thousands of additional soldiers into Fukien and Hunan. Nationalist leaders regard the red threat as the most serious ever to confront the present government.

Abandonment Of Railway Sought

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—The San Antonio and Aransas Pass and the Texas and New Orleans railroads today applied to the interstate commerce commission for permission to abandon a leased branch line from Gonzales to Luling, Texas, a distance of 19 miles.

The application also sought trackage rights for the two roads over the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio railway between the two points.

The lease on the line is expected to expire soon and the arrangement would become effective, the petition said, "when and if" the lease expires.

The branch line proposed to be abandoned is paralleled by improved highways and the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio railway. Floods from the San Marcos river make upkeep of the line expensive.

The roads are all subsidiaries of the Southern Pacific.

How Army Blimp Looked After Crash In Fog

Here's what happened to a baby blimp that stayed out late at night. The army craft, TC 10-252, was cruising in the vicinity of Chesapeake Bay after midnight, when it encountered a dense fog. It crashed, so gently that none of its crew of seven was injured, but hard enough to puncture and deflate its nose. This unusual picture shows the result, with the forward end collapsed and dragging in the water while the undamaged fabric at the rear retains enough gas to hold the car and its motors high and dry.

Liquor Seized Over Weekend

Nearly Half Million Dollars Worth Of Contraband Taken By Uncle Sam's Revenue Cutters From Runners

(By The Associated Press)

Uncle Sam gathered in nearly a half million dollars worth of liquor and boats during the weekend as his guardsman continued the battle of wits with alleged rum runners along the Atlantic coast.

The biggest capture was the "Surf," a $100,000 snowy white yacht seized off Montauk point at the eastern tip of Long Island. Coast guardsman said they trailed her from a "mother ship" on rum row and found $300,000 worth of liquor aboard.

In Block Island Sound, a speedboat carrying 250 sacks of liquor valued at $12,500 fell into the toils of a patrol vessel. In Little Harbor, on the New Hampshire coast, a motorboat's crew escaped by driving their craft on the sands, leaving $20,000 worth of contraband behind. The crew of the other two boats were taken.

(AP)—Old man river kicked up such a fuss today, on the eve of the intercollegiate championship regatta that naval headquarters along the banks of the Hudson prepared for another rough-water battle for rowing supremacy, with Cornell's heavyweights favored to retain the varsity honors they won on stormy seas a year ago.

Nine crews are entered. The entire fleet of nine crews in the big race will be prepared for fair weather or foul, without rigger "aprons" specially-built gunwales and other facilities calculated to keep the slim racing craft from shipping too much water.

Right To Jaw Ends Battle In First Round As 20,000 Look On; Irish Heavyweight Has No Chance Against iant

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 15.—Primo Carnera of Italy knocked out Pat Redmond of Ireland in the first round of their ten round bout before a crowd of 20,000 here tonight. The end came after two minutes and 24 seconds from a right to the jaw.

Redmond never had a chance with the Giant Italian. Almost the first punch Carnera landed, a hefty right, put the lantern-jawed Irishman down for a count of eight and from there until the finish he was rocking on his heels. Carnera swarmed all over Redmond, never giving him a chance to get set.

Carnera, whose weight was announced at 275 pounds, pushed the fighting from the bell, getting around with amazing ease for his size. He came out throwing punches and the result was never in doubt after he connected with his first right. Redmond's weight was announced as 246 pounds.

Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight who originally was scheduled to meet Carnera on tonight's program, climbed in the ring to congratulate the winner as Redmond's seconds worked frantically to revive their man.

It was raining steadily at the sudden conclusion to promoter Jimmy Johnston's program.

Harold Mays of Bayonne, N. J., gave the veteran Jack Renault of Canada a beating in six rounds. Renault scaled 210 Mays 192.

Ted Sandwina, Sioux City heavyweight gained an eight round decision over Tom Kirby of Boston in a slow grueling match.

Manager Hornsby was out of the lineup, for he has been in such a slump of late that he decided it would be best to bench himself temporarily. Blair, however, went hitless and made an error that accounted for two Boston runs while Blake was pitching.

Twenty Grand Looms Bigger Money Winner Than The Fox

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—Well on his way to pass Gallant Fox as the leading money winner of the American turf, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand's next appearance under colors will be in the renewal of the Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct, July 4.

He will start in the Dwyer, however, and then go to Chicago to fulfill his engagement in the $75,000 classic at Arlington Park later in the month.

In the Aqueduct classic Twenty Grand again will be called upon to meet the best of the east and west—including Mate, his conquerer in the preakness, and Sweep All, runner up in the Kentucky Derby.

Twenty Grand already has won $164,075.

Baseball Playboy Serious At Altar

"How Ya Feel, Dizzy?" "Like Bases Were Loaded, Nobody Out And Clean-Up Man Coming To Plate"

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, June 15. — Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, playboy of the diamond, and great young pitcher of the Houston Buffs, for once in his life was serious. He was married here this afternoon in the study of the First Christian Church to Miss Patricia Nash of Houston.

Dean, rated one of the most promising young pitchers in baseball, listened very intently as Dr. Harry G. Knowles, pastor went through the ceremony.

Dean showed none of the confidence that has made him one of the most ballyhooed youngsters in the history of the game.

Just before the wedding Dean was asked how he felt. He replied: "I feel as if the bases were loaded, nobody out, and the cleanup hitter was at bat."

Dean is 20. The bride, an attractive brunet, is 24.

As a present to his wife, Dean has promised to beat the Fort Worth Cats here Tuesday night. He already has chalked up 10 wins as against 3 defeats.

In the wedding party were Major Becker, "Red" Gresham, one of Houston's most enthusiastic fans; Mrs. Margaret Morrow, close friend of the bride; Andrew French, road secretary of the Houston ball club, who last year was delegated by Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, to "Chaperone" Dean, and the sports editors of Houston's three daily newspapers—Kern Tipps of the Chronicle; Andy Anderson of the Press and Lloyd Gregory of the Post-Dispatch.

During the past week the Dean wedding had been postponed a number of times, and even this afternoon there was considerable anxiety as to whether he would appear. The wedding party was half an hour late, but the Reverend Mr. Knowles, a baseball fan, said he didn't mind waiting.

The western invaders had to give three goals on handicap to the winners, but these were not needed, that is iwthout handicaps, the score would have favored Army, 9-6.

Oklahoma's 18 ponies, shipped here from Norman, Okla., performed in excellent style and were on a par with the cadet mounts.

Qualifying Rounds In City Tournament Extend Through Thursday; Match Play Will Begin Friday, Country Club

Records show that approximately 200 men of Lubbock play golf at more or less regular intervals and that is the number expected to enter the qualifying rounds at the Meadowbrook Golf club course tomorrow as the initial step in the annual city championship tournament.

Throughout Wednesday and Thursday Lubbock golfers may shoot an 18-hole qualifying score over the Meadowbrook course and on Friday morning all who have qualified for first, second or third flights will move to the Lubbock Country club for first round matches. Fourth flighters will remain at the Meadowbrook for the entire tournament.

Final On Sunday

Semifinals in the tournament will be held Saturday, with 36-hole final matches for the city championship and for the flight and consolation championships will be held Sunday.

Jo Dick Slaughter, Lubbock Country club offical, and W. G. McMillan, owner and manager of the Meadowbrook course, are in charge of the tournament, and they desire that it be made plain that every golfer in Lubbock, whether or not he is a member of any local club, is eligible and urged to take part in the tournament.

Non Members Entitled

An entrance fee will take care of all charges and these fees will be made alike to club members and non-members.

As a sort of prelude to the city tournament, the Lubbock Country club staged its annual "neck and gizzard" tournament last Sunday, the "Gizzards," captained by Dr. J. T. Kreuger, defeating the "Necks," headed by Jack Parsons, 39-29. Forty-eight local golfers took part in the tournament.

Two City League Contests Today

Two City League baseball games are scheduled for today. The Avalanche-Journal club will meet the Advertisers at Merrill Park and the Legion-Lions and Wholesalers will clash at Rainbow Park at Texas Avenue and 23rd Street. Both games will begin at 6 o'clock.

League President J. R. "Dutch" Leuenberger called a meeting of club officials and managers at the Lubbock Hotel last night to thrash out details of the schedule and to designate umpires for coming games. "We're going to be compelled to stop so much squabbling among players and umpires and henceforth the umpire is going to be boss of the field, his decisions to be upheld all the way through," Leuenberger said. Unwarranted transfers of players from one team to another was also attacked by the president last night.

The NUT and CRACKER

BY COL. JOE O'GOOFTY
One-Time Big League Pitcher

NEW YORK, June 15.—I have just called Manager McGraw's attention to what I think was his mistake by sending me to the defunct Sally League after my recent tryout with the Giants.

Dizzy Dean, another pitcher sent to the minors this year, has taken Houston by storm. The Cardinals shipped him to Houston, and after riding a train two days and two nights, Dean went to the mound two hours after arriving in Houston and shut out Wichita Falls, giving the Falls fellows three hits.

A couple of days later, Dizzy pitched a night game against Shreveport and shut 'em out with four hits. Dizzy wrote and told me he could have done better but he hadn't had any sleep since leaving St. Louis.

The next day he went in in the eighth inning with the score tied, held the enemy hitless for three innings and drove in the winning run himself, putting his team in first place.

This just goes to show what hunting, fishing, crapshooting, staying out all night, refusing to report for practice and indiscriminate talking will do for a pitcher.

If Dean can manage to break a few more training rules, he ought to hurl a couple of no-hit games this year.

State Official Talks On Fire Losses Before League Meeting

Eugene Sanders Declares That Every Insurance Man Of The State Should Preach Prevention Each Day

EVERY insurance company and every agent of the insurance companies in Texas should preach the prevention of fires 365 days in the year, and if that were done, the fire loss of Texas could and would be brought down millions of dollars annually, and at the same time the business of fire insurance would show an increase accordingly," Eugene Sanders, director of fire prevention of the State Fire Insurance department, said here Monday in commenting upon fire prevention work. Mr. Sanders addressed the League of Texas Municipalties session Monday.

Ten lives were lost in flames for each of the 365 days of 1930. In addition, about 400 houses and approximately $1,400,000 in property were destroyed daily, in the nation.

Total Loss Heavy

The total national annual loss in 1930, Mr. Sanders said, has been estimated close to the half billion dollar mark, and of this vast sum, more than 2-3 (two-thirds) was lost in one type or another of residential property. In other words, somebody's home went up in smoke every four minutes.

Mr. Sanders stated that years of study as to the cause of our heavy annual fire waste has revealed that carelessness, after all, is the underlying cause for practically all destructive fires.

$20,000,000 In Texas

The fire loss in Texas for 1930, Mr. Sanders said, was approximately $20,000,000 and that the insured losses paid for 1930 was approximately $16,475,514. (This amount subject to correction for additional reports.) He stated that the twenty million dollars annual loss for Texas was equal to about $36 per minute. Or, in other words, one year's fire loss in Texas alone is equivalent to an expenditure of $585 per day for every day that has elapsed since the battle of San Jacinto was won on April 21st, 1836, nearly a century ago.

Mr. Sanders made a comparison of the annual European fire loss averages with that of the United States, and stated that the record show that the annual Euporean fire loss averages 33 cents per person, while the American average is over $4.000. And, that every American family of five is assessed $20 per year for fire waste, but that family doesn't know it pays this, because the tax is concealed in the cost of the goods it consumes.

Idea Not Clear

"It isn't clear to most of us," he said just how fire insurance is collected and paid. We think, when there is a fire that the insurance companies get stuck; but they don't at all. The people get stuck. They collect from the people by a fire tax on eevrything that is insured that we eat, drink wear and use. They naturally have to collect from the people of America to pay the American losses, which average over $500,000,000 a year. Also, they have to collect enough additional to pay their rent, business expenses and interest on their capital. If they could not collect all this from the people they couldn't, or wouldn't remain in business, which would mean that we would have no insurance at all, and it wouldn't take long for us to see who pays the fire losses."

"In America a man who has a fire in his home, store or factory is considered an unfortunate. In Europe he is regarded as a public offender. Carelessness is assumed from the fact that the fire occurred. If the man cannot prove in court next day that he had taken every reasonable precaution to prevent such a fire occurring he is fined for his negligence and has to pay the city for the unnecessary use of the fire department. Wouldn't that make the average thoughtless American gasp?"

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

What is the effect of irritation upon the throat? Here are the exact words of a noted authority retained by us to study this question. He writes—

"First, the vocal chords, on account of their delicacy of structure, would be the first tissues to give indication of irritation, evidenced by the huskiness of the smoker's voice, the result of relaxed tension and slower vibration of the vocal chords. The next site of irritation would be the tissues adjacent to the vocal chords comprising the larynx, therefore the general focal point of the irritation would be in the voice box represented externally by the Adam's Apple."

So—Consider your Adam's Apple. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Reach for a LUCKY instead.

A New Kind Of Blind Men

In the "Buddhist Philosophy of Life" you will find this sentence: "There was a man born blind and he said: 'I do not believe in the world of light and color. There is no sun, no moon, no stars. No one has ever seen these things.'"

All about us there are men who say: There is no such thing as love. There is no such thing as loyalty There is no such thing as unselfishness. There is no such thing as virtue. All those things are but dreams and visions.

Why do they say these things? You think that perhaps they do not dream what they say. You think they are just talking for effect or to raise an argument.

The case is sadder than that. They give voice to this belief because they are men who are blind. Perhaps they were born as blind men and never had a decent chance to get their eyes open. Perhaps they have become blind through habits of thought and action.

At any rate they are like the man in the Buddhist book. They are blind and they say that there is no love, no loyalty, no virtue.

They have never experienced the finer emotions of life in their own darkened lives. They have not had these emotions often enough and strong enough to believe in their reality.

You who read this may never look out of your window in the night. Nevertheless the stars are very beautiful. Be sure of that.

The next time you hear a man or a woman deny life's beauties, its spiritual achievements, its satisfactions, its deep and worthwhile experiences, do not be misled.

Life is all right. Folks, for the most part, are all right. But you are talking to a blind man.

Have a look at yourself, too, and your own emotions and conclusions. When you are discouraged, when you find yourself cynical, when you doubt the eternal verities, make sure that you are not becoming a blind man.

THE PERENNIAL PIONEER

There is unfailing romance in the story of pioneer ventures into new fields of life and thought and human endeavor, and its heroes come out of the past clear-cut and picturesque. We are disposed, in fact, to measure an age by the pioneer spirit of its men and women and the fascinating story of their bold challenge to unknown dangers and chances.

But even today we lack no opportunity or incentive to seek new worlds to conquer. We must in fact, constantly seek them, for old fields cannot be plowed to exhaustion, and necessity drives us further abroad. There is a recurrent challenge to our powers—the challenge to create new work for ourselves, new uses for energy and new fields of labor and happiness.

The fascination of the past is made out of perspective and the miraging mists of time and distance. Lacking these, we may miss the inspiration of the pioneer spirit that is always making the world over. Yet it dwells among us, in every man who matches his wits and work against the challenge of his own future; who hazards a new business enterprise, perfects an invention, preaches a gospel or writes a book. For the pioneer spirit is the perrenial expression of vigorous human life, and it asks no favor of time or circumstance.

You always wonder how a great man looks. Well, imagine him and then divide by six.

Practical Health Problems

CARBON MONOXIDE DANGERS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Carbon monoxide gas is colorless and odorless. It is produced when wood, coal, coke, illuminating gas, or gasoline is burned. If the flame is hot, it is burned more completely than when the flame is slow and has insufficient air. Small amounts of carbon monoxide cause headache and other symptoms; large amounts produce death.

Because of the extensive occurence of carbon monoxide in various industrial pursuits, the New York State Department of Labor has issued a warning to workers to be posted in plants in which various combustibles are employed. These include particularly plants in which machines are used which are heated by gas. The warning applies to workers in the gas industry, garages or service stations, furnaces, steel mills, celluloid manufacture, acetylene welding, brass foundries and various chemical industries.

A few of the suggestions are so simple that every workman should become familiar with them. These suggestions are particularly applicable to workers in the home, because illuminating gas used for cooking purposes is a dangerous source of gas poisoning.

"1. If there is a yellow flame heating your machine, report this fact at once. There should be a blue flame at all times. A yellow flame gives off carbon monoxide.

"2. Never use a gas-heated appliance which is connected up by means of flexible rubber or metal tubing. This is not safe. The only flexible tubing which does not leak is an approved cloth-covered tubing.

"3. Do you suppose that you can find a leak in your tubing by running a lighted match along it? It will light only when there is a very large leak. There may be many small leaks which make it dangerous to work at your machine, even though those places do not permit enough gas to go through to actually light up when you appyl a match to them.

"4. When you are working over an open flame, do not put any utensil on the fire which is so large as to cover the flame too completely. This keeps the air out, and increases the amount of carbon monoxide gas which is produced.

"5. Do not try to patch a leak or make any adjustments yourself. Close off the gas till the repair man comes.

"6. If the gas pressure changes report the fact at once. If there is too great pressure, the gas will not burn properly and will give off considerable carbon monoxide gas. If there is too little pressure some of the port holes in your appliance may not light. This will happen particularly if they are dirty, and filled with soot. Those port holes which do not light leak a certain amount of gas, and injure your health. As has already been stated, the fact that you do not smell any leaking gas is no indication that there is no leak.

"7. If you find that you get a headache at your work, carbon monoxide may be present in the air. Look for leaks and poor connections. Report your headaches to your employer and the plant doctor, so that they can find out if your headaches are caused by carbon monoxide gas.

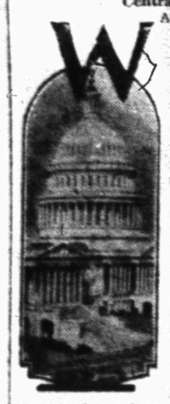

"8. If you are not feeling well see a doctor right away. If you get headaches at work due to gas, try some other kind of work. It does not pay to remain where you are and permanently injure your health."

Success Explained

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Army aviation headquarters realizes now that it erred in making its publicity, preceding the recent air maneuvers, quite as blood-curdling as it did.

Carried away by professional enthusiasm, officers of the flying corps admit their failure to take into consideration the likelihood that many groundlings would sense considerable danger in the affair, not only to the aviators, but to themselves, too, from the zooming and zipping of hundreds of planes all at once, right overhead.

Reckoning that the public would welcome the event as the greatest show of its kind in history, and anxious to make the maximum impression with it, war department press agents drew on their descriptive powers to the limit. Presently, to their astonishment, they found themselves with a rapidly-developing sentiment of opposition on their hands. It never wore off while the maneuvers lasted.

THERE was not a fatality from start to finish, either—or even a serious accident.

From a pacifist's standpoint, maybe it was very painful, in its militaristic aspect, but technically it was a wonderful performance—as much of a surprise to veteran flyers as to ordinary folk.

So large a number of planes—at the outset 659—never was assembled under a single command before.

And not a man killed!

Of the three who suffered injuries, none was badly hurt. Moreover, out of this trio, only two met their mishaps while the maneuvers were going on, the third, a national guardsman, having encountered his accident in landing, after being dismissed, while on his way home.

EXPERTS give the chief credit for the maneuvers' success, with no record whatever of lost lives or broken bones, to strict, highly intelligent flight supervision.

The thoroughness of United States army training is mentioned as an additional important reason for the efficiency of American aviators in the intricacies of formation operations—an efficiency born of fully twice as much time spent in the air as is required of any other nation's military flying men.

Finally, sound army planes get a tribute.

Of the 659 with which the maneuvers started, 641 were still in at the finish. Only two of the total number were put permanently out of commission; five required major repairs; eleven, for various causes, were returned to their home stations, but were able to leave under their own power.

"Ours are not as fast as some of Europe's," as one pilot put it, "but they stand wear and tear."

THE MANEUVERS represented 315,000 aircraft hours.

Seven hundred and twenty pilots and 644 enlisted men took part in them, plus enough miscellaneous civilians to bring the total up to about 1,400.

And but three casualties!—not bad ones.

Can commercial aviation equal it?

"No, probably not," an expert army authority told me, "but neither can any other country's military aviation service. At France's last important maneuvers 345 planes were assembled, as against our 659, and eight Frenchmen were killed, not to mention many more or less serious additional casualties."

"FOR THAT MATTER," continued this authority, "even the United States army air corps could hardly employ so many planes and so many men for so many hours without more crashes minus the constant supervision which characterized our latest performance.

"As for commercial flights, they frequently are over strange routes, with descents on strange landing fields.

"And mail pilots are bound by schedules; hence must risk bad weather.

"Commercial planes, too, must be built to carry pay loads, which the army's need not allow for. Thus the latter can be, and are, heavier, and weight and strength go together."

"STILL," said the aviator, "army air maneuvers mean formation flying, which is extra hazardous.

"And out of 1,400 we didn't kill a man.

"How does auto racing compare with it?"

PACIFIC BECKONS TO LINDY

Soon the "Lone Eagle" will take off with his mate for another ocean-hopping, continent-circle flight. Before they return they will have crossed the Pacific and obtained a bird's-eye view of much of Siberia, China and Japan.

It is like Colonel Lindbergh to call it a vacation trip. Such is his confidence in the airplane that nothing seems impossible or difficult to him. Nevertheless his vast "public" will follow the fortunes of these two far-flying human birds like a great and hazardous adventure. Many are a little reluctant to have them undertake what they consider a dangerous flight.

Other eyes will follow the flight of the Lindbergs. They belong to those whose interests mainly concern diplomacy of the gold braid, dollar and glad-hand varieties. Washington expects as much from this Lindbergh family vacation as its unofficial ambassador of good will accomplished on his flights to Paris and through Central and South America.

Right at this time a transpacific and continent-circling flight around Asia can accomplish considerable in the way of cementing America's friendship with the Far East and in drumming up business for the United States in the Orient. And with the country in the depths of a depression dollar diplomacy is quite as humane and moral as the other kinds.

JAMES MACIE SMITHSON.—James Macie Smithson, (1765-1829) an Englishman who had never been to the United States and had neither friends nor acquaintances there, bequeathed the reversion of his fortune of $500,000 or more to the United States of America for the purpose of "founding at Washington under the name of the Smithsonian institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men". This sum was infinitely larger in relative importance at the time than it is now. The Smithsonian Institution: founded by this British subject in a strange and far away country, occupies an exceptional position within the Government of the United States, and has had a very prominent place in the scientific activities of our age.

AUTHOR OF "THE HUSBAND HUNTER," ETC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BERYL BORDEN, secretly in love with TOMMY WILSON, prevents his attempted elopement with her half-sister, IRENE EVERETT, by kidnaping him with the assistance of her "gang." Failing to convince him of his duty to finish college and not disappoint his aunt, Beryl lets Tommy return to Irene who, enraged at the delay, refuses to elope with him.

Irene is granted an audition over radio. She condescends to let Beryl accompany her to the studio. While waiting in an ante-room, Beryl sits down at a piano and croons melodies while thinking of her dead father. Accidentally hearing her, one of the directors is charmed and gives her a private test. He likes the velvety tones of her voice and assures her of a contract with MR. GAYLORD. Irene fails, and is furious when she hears Beryl has had a test. She misrepresents facts to home folks and says Beryl has made a fool of herself. Such sarcasm makes Beryl miserable as time goes by and she hears nothing from the studio.

Then after she had given up hope the letter comes and she slips away for an interview with Mr. Gaylord. She is nervous but elavated to ecstasy when presented with a contract. The flaw in her happiness is that she fears Tommy will think she had robbed Irene.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

Wouldn't Tommy believe now that she'd got a contract to sing at the broadcasting station where Irene had hoped to thrill her soprano notes, that she had robbed her sister of her chance?

This was the thought that marred Beryl's joy. Wouldn't it look as if there might be something in the charges Irene had brought against her? Tommy might be fair but he was infatuated. . . .

Yes, that was just what he was, Beryl thought angrily. Simply infatuated. And an infatuated man could believe anything that had a semblance of truth in it.

She was more disappointed in having her satisfaction with the day's events lessened than she cared to own. She couldn't take lightly the possibility that Tommy would misjudge her. But it did seem that something in life ought to be perfect. And if she couldn't be blindly, joyously elated at this time. . . .

She arrived home exasperated with her depression. "What do I care what anyone thinks?" she had said to herself over and over before she got there. "Tommy Wilson is nothing to me!"

But it did no good. She said nothing to anyone about the precious contract until the family were at dinner. Then she spoke of it quietly, looking across the table at her mother.

"I don't suppose Dad told you that I went to town today," she remarked. And then, before her mother could reply, she hurried on; "I was called in to sing again at RKG for Mr. Gaylord, the soap man. He's putting on an advertising campaign to popularize Velvetan—his new summer soap—and he wanted someone who wasn't either a singer or a crooner and. . . ."

"Good heavens! Stop and get your breath," her mother exclaimed. "What are you talking about?"

"Well, if you hadn't stopped me I'd have told you. It seems that I'm like that—neither a singer nor a crooner—and he liked my voice and I'm to sing on his radio hour. They're going to call me the Velvetan Girl with the velvet voice."

She could not resist a glance at Irene who, had she been troubled with high blood pressure, undoubtedly would have been threatened with apoplexy.

"I don't believe it!" Irene shrieked after a struggle to get her breath. Thereafter there was much commotion at the Everett family dinner table for a good half hour.

Beryl lost her depression and enjoyed her triumph. They'd been treating her pretty shabbily and she was intensely human.

When it was all over Irene was upstairs declaring she wouldn't stand for it. She'd leave home if her mother allowed Beryl to make a laughing stock out of her like that. Everyone knew she'd had a voice test and hadn't got anything out of it. That was humiliation enough without this!

And Mrs. Everett was on the living room couch trying to ward off a sick headache with an ice pack. She didn't want Beryl near her so the girl whose good news had caused a volcanic eruption in the family drove disconsolately away from the house in her old car to pick up some of the gang and tell them she'd got the contract.

"And so, you see," she ended softly, "there is a fairy godmother afid a magic wand, after all. Don't ever forget that, men. Some day some of you may doubt it—but you never know what's just around the corner."

One of the boys—Pigmy—squirmed uneasily. "Well, what you so sad about it for?" he asked.

"Sad?" Beryl echoed, and laughed. "I'm crying with joy," she said because she guessed they'd seen the glint of tears in her eyes.

"Say," Mike exclaimed suddenly. "We'll have to send you flowers!"

"Flowers?"

"Sure for year . . . your de—" he paused, helplessly involved with the word he'd been practicing to

Letters to the Editor

Lubbock Citizen Decries Literary "Debunking" Program

Editor Avalanche:

There appeared in your columns recently a book review entitled More Debunking Bared in "The Martial Spirit" by Walter Millis. In the review it is said 'Mr. Millis believes that the Spanish-American War provides an excellent example of the way in which wars are made and waged. The war and most of its heroes are thoroughly debunked."

"The author shows how the war was caused by yellow journalists and self-seeking or pur-blind politicians. He shows that Spain had actually surrenuered every point at issue before war was declared. He also says that we started the war 'to free Cuba' by attacking the Philippines. And he explains how Theodore Roosevelt emerged from the war a national hero. In brief he puts the whole war under a microscope and reveals it for what it was."

The review also states," this book should be made required reading in every high school history class in America. It would do a lot of good." All of this is interesting, if true.

According to the adopted textbooks we teach in high school, and many of the best references in our high school and college libraries, we are led to believe that the Spanish-American War was entirely justified on the part of the United States and that on the part of our nation it was one of the most humanitarian undertakings of modern times. We are also informed by study of textbooks and references that Theodore Roosevelt, Richmond P. Hobson, Admiral Dewey and numerous others who played brilliant parts in this war were and will continue to be real American heroes, and not blatant hypocrites, or international pirates as Mr. Millis would have us believe.

The writer is confident that on second thought, if not at first, the editor of the Avalanche is thoroughly aware of the "Debunking process" now being propagated in the United States. Last year there appeared a book which undertook to debunk Gen. Robert E Lee, Stonewall Jackson and others who are revered by people of the South, representing them as hypocritical traitors and wholly undeserving of the high esteem in which they are held, and at the same time lamenting the fact that they are given an honored place in American History, as at present.

Within the past month there has appeared in the press report of a severe criticism and denunciation of Abraham Lincoln. There have been articles in the press and books published within recent years which have undertaken to debunk Washington and other revolutionary heroes. And some have even made the allegation that the Declaration of Independence and the Revolutionary War were wholly unjustified.

There seems to be a well organized movement in this country to debunk, or depreciate, the worth of most persons, institutions, ideals and achievements which have inspired the American people to loyalty, patriotism and greater endeavor.

Those who obtain the information, which is readily obtainable by reading, should have no doubt of the source of the propaganda which has as its purpose debunking and finally overthrowing the American type of home, educational system, religion, government, and economic organization as at present constituted. All these institutions, as it is planned, will conform to Communistic ideas. That this is the intention is evidenced by the statement, as reported in the press recently, of a Communist leader who said 'We intend to replace the American Flag with the red flag of Russian Communism.

As indicated in the address of a commencement speaker recently in our city, the present with its depression, unemployment and other problems makes fertile soil in which to sow the seeds of Communism. But are our people so uninformed, or have they so forgotten the fundamental principles of American Government that they will lisen to the false and seductive teachings of Communism in the belief that the acceptance thereof will solve the problems of the present? If this the case, then we need an awakening a rededication to the prieiples upon which America has attained its position of supremacy among the nations of the world.

We need not be radical Nationalists who say "America right or wrong," nor do we have to believe in extreme militarism in order to be loyal and patriotic. But more in furtherance of American ideals, institutions and her future success would it be if the press of the nation, public schools and colleges, and citizens in general would emphasize in this day of trial the economic, social and political achievements of our country rather than aiding in the "Debunking process" fostered by Bolsheviki, Communistic Russia which seeks to weaken and destroy the confidence, loyalty, patriotism, ideals and institutions of our country.

Much more might be said on this subject but it is probable that much more will be said as our people become aware of the source o fthe debunking of our great historical characters, our institutions and achievements.

The MELODY GIRL

by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

AUTHOR OF "THE HUSBAND HUNTER'S CLUB"

pring on Pigmy the first chance got. Mike had an older sister no liked to think of her first par- as her debut and call it that, o.

"Debutt," Pigmy aided him, and ot nothing but a grunt of disgust thanks. Pigmy, too, had an old- sister who had been overheard scussing her friend's "debutt."

"Let's leave the French until we ecome musketeers," Beryl advised 'll love the flowers."

She had in mind a huge bunch blooms, surreptitiously plucked rom neighborhood gardens. But like disabused her mind of the dea that it would be done in any uch fashion.

"And it ain't goona be no measly unch of pansies, either," he prom- sed. "We're gonna get you a swell owkay."

And so it was—a swell bowkay with "Roses are red and voilets are blue. Sugar is sweet and so are ou," accompanying it.

Before Beryl received it on the night of her debut, while she was struggling with a teacher to take the crudeness out of her voice, the boys worked like young Trojans to achieve its magnificence.

Beryl herself helped, unknowingly. She, like the others who contributed their services or their money, believed that she was doing it to benefit Snooks, Pigmy's dog.

The boys had tied one of the animal's hind legs up in splints and mualin and unblushingly declared that he would be a cripple for life. They wanted, so they said to the people they approached in respect to the matter to get him an up-to-date dog house.

Beryl wanted to see the leg but they solemnly assured her that the splints must not be removed. She had her doubts but she agreed to do what they asked. All they asked was that she drive her car over to the lot on which they were staging their benefit circus and let them use it in their medicine men act.

Their families contributed other properties and in some cases paid admittance as well. Strangers paid admittance in all cases. Beryl's money alone was refused.

It was a big event and had a good attendance. Snooks was given a seat of honor in the "royal box" at the right of the main "stage" ad there Pigmy kept watch over him. For his sister, who had been refused a part in the show (girls weren't allowed), threatened to bring her pet cat and find out if Snooks was really a cripple or if it was "just a fake like she thought it was."

The medicine men sold small bottles of lemonade, sweetened with black molasses, and called it a tonic. There was a shooting gallery where beans were used as the ammunition, and the usual assortment of freaks were on exhibition: the (pillow) fat man, the tattooed man (whose mother was filled with horror at sight of the ink marks on his half naked body); the sword (collapsible) swallowing man; the ape man (who'd have a time removing the glued-on hair); and the man you could stick pins in. This last was a very ingeniously arranged freak. Floyd Merton it was, standing under a box with his head and hands protruding at the proper places to appear a part of the dummy seated on the box. Just how Floyd would account to his mother for the disappearance of a bed quilt that still had a year or two wear in it the boys had not yet determined. Nor was it settled how the ape man would explain to his father how the stuffing happened to be missing from the back seat of his old flivver when the fact was noted. All that could come later when the fever of inventiveness had cooled.

For the present it was a thrilling show. There was a sleight of hand act that brought a gasp of dismay and "My best bridge cards!" from Mrs. Walter, and the end of the journey for a half dozen eggs that Mr. Everett had donated.

A male quartet brought forth hearty applause as did some fancy tap dancing but the act of the evening, in the principal actor's opinion at any rate, was the one entitled "A Newsboy's Dream."

Conceived, staged and acted by Michael Dorgan, it was a masterpiece of propaganda. Mike was, in real life, the boy who delivered papers in the neighborhood. He wanted a bicycle on which to make his rounds but because of something in the past his father would not get him one.

And so Mike's act (his father, he saw to it, had a first row seat) showed the suffering of a lad who was forced to walk miles each day to deliver his papers. Then he went to sleep when he stopped to rest a moment fro mhis weary burden (a large paper box wrapped in a newspaper) and dreamed that he had a bicycle. He got up (still dreaming) and found it where it had been concealed on the stage beneath a pile of gunny sacks that were supposed to look like tree stumps.

As he mounted the bicycle and rode hapily around the stage, Gilbert Walter, to whom it belonged, thought maybe he hadn't appreciated it enough. Mike certainly seemed thrilled. He whistled and rode and twirled his bundle (that a moment before had been so heavy) lightly around his head and generously refrained from looking at his father.

Mr. Dorgan became decidedly uncomfortable as understanding laughter broke loose around him. It was, however, the remark of a girl sitting behind him that stirred his anger.

Crime Wave Is Recorded Here

Four Automobiles Stolen, Beer Raid, Two Break-Ins And A Fight Feature Police Blotter Over Weekend

Automobile thieves were busy in Lubbock during the weekend, police records yesterday revealed.

Four automobiles, two of which were recovered, were stolen Saturday night and Sunday, police were told.

A downtown beer raid, two break-ins and fight in which a Mexican was wounded, were other items carried on the police boltter for the weekend.

Police said they and members of the sheriff's department confiscated 150 bottles of beer, destroyed 15 gallons of brew and 51 uncapped bottles of beer and arrested a man and woman in a raid Sunday afternoon on 1107 1-2 Avenue K, in the Dyke Cullum building.

A break-in at Hooks Drug company quarters at Nineteenth street and Avenue T was discovered about 2:15 a. m. Monday. Half a dozen bottle of hair oil, as many of wine elixir and a two-pound box of candy were reported stolen. Thieves had reached through a small hole in glass at bottom of a door and turned a key inside, police said.

Dresses Stolen

A negro woman, Mabel Jones, reported $19 in cash and three dresses were stolen Sunday night from her home at the rear of 2627 Twenty-second street. Entrance had been gained through a window after the screen had been cut, police said. The Jones woman told police she believed her husband had robbed her.

J. W. Watson was charged with automobile theft in Justice of the Peace H. K. Porter's court yesterday in connection with theft of a Ford coupe owned by A. B. Steen of 2209 Tenth street. The suspect was arrested near Burrus elevator to which police alleged the stolen auto had been towed by a rent car.

Suspect Arrested

A young man was arrested by police early Sunday in connection with theft of a Cadillac sedan from Avenue K, in front of Fickas apartments. The machine was found undamaged.

A Chevrolet sedan was stolen Sunday night, the owner, Carl Grace of Camp Comfort, tourist camp at 1926 Avenue H, reported.

O. L. Peterman of 1220 Avenue O reported yesterday that his Oldsmobile sedan had been stolen.

Four Mexicans were arrested in connection with a fight in the Mexican district late Saturday night or early Sunday. A man reported cut in the back in the altercation was said to have been left in the Mexican quarter. One suspect was released without charge and three were freed on bond.

A man was arrested Sunday by a state highway patrolman for reckless driving.

Lock Broken

A lock at the Nineteenth Street garage was reported broken by boys late Saturday night or early Sunday.

Paris' municipal construction program is being carried out.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 15. (AP)—Trading was decidedly moderate in today's session of the cotton market. The close was steady unchanged to 2 points up for the day.

Advices from Southwest Texas reported that the first net bale owuld be ginned in a day or so.

Liverpool cables came in 2-3 penny points better than due and private cables stated that shorts covered and the trade called. Mancheser cabled that the home cloth trade was improving and that a fair business in India was pending.

July closed at 4.86 or net unchanged for the day. October closed at 8.93 or 1 point net up and December closed at 9.16 up 2 points net.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—An early decline in cotton was followed by recoveries on trade buying and covering today. The general market closed steady, net 1 point lower to 1 poin higher.

The weather news also made a rather bearish impression on sentiment judging from the prevailing comment, but contracts became comparatively scarce after the early selling had run its course.

Liverpool cables reported continental and Bombay covering combined with trade calling in that market and said a fair business with India was pending in cotton goods. Exports today 18,098 making 6,516,-896 so far this season.

Interest In Stocks Wanes And Market Eases Slowly After First Hour Start

BY JOHN M. COOLEY,
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—Interest in stocks waned today and the market, instead of advancing on a small turnover as had been the recent tendency, eased slowly after a fair start in the first hour.

Group movements were most noticeable in the rails, which were down 1-3 points. Steels paid no attention to the announcement that one independent was raising prices. Baking stocks made a good showing and a few motors occasionally took hearty but the list generally closed with small losses in a volume of 1,300,000 shares.

Parrish Speaks

tell you there's nothing wrong with this great government of ours. The machinery's not working right when farmers produce thirty-cent wheat and five-cent cotton and 540 individuals receive dividends that total more than the entire cotton and wheat crop of the nation. There's something wrong when thousands of people go without food and clothing. There's something radically wrong when eight per cent of the nation's population control 80 per cent of its wealth. The time is when we must say and fix it impossible that these 540 individuals can control this 80 per cent of the wealth. It's time the anti-trust laws of which we heard about when we were boys are again enforced."

Scheduled to speak on the achievements of the past legislature, Senator Parrish said he believed there never has been a session in Austin in which the members worked harder to put across needed legislation. "If they did nothing more than take the ad valorem tax from Texas homesteads valued up to $3,000 it was worth all the time spent," he said.

Supported Cigaret Tax

Senator Parrish said he supported the cigaret tax bill, declaring that he thought it fair and right that the smoker of a "fifteen-cent pack of cigarets" should be made to aid in the support of the state.

He told of the efforts of various corporations and individuals to defeat certain legislation and of the measure limiting city officials in issuing warrants, pointing out that the "bill was written by an attorney for the utilities of Texas" and that he had stated on the senate floor that "no man can serve two masters." "I have no complaints against the lobbyists," he said, "the only regret I have is that the farmers of Texas did not have lobbyists in Austin every day of the session." He declared that every effort to give municipalities more freedom in their work was defeated.

"Texas needs foreign or outside money to develop its resources," he continued. "But we expect them to come here and be good citizens and make a reasonable return on their investments and it's wrong when a corporation takes more than a reasonable return. No man or group of men has the right to take fifteen times the cost of any commodity they sell to us."

Need Equal Taxation

Citing the fact that assessed valuation of four billion dollars was bearing the burden of fifty-six billion dollars of Texas' other wealth, Senator Parrish said the time for equal taxation was at hand.

"If you men who represent your cities, will get behind what's right and demand that the people get a fair and square deal, a commission on utilities will be appointed with teeth in it, if you please, and things will get down to reason again," he declared in closing remarks.

Following his talk, Miss Elitabel Tilory gave two violin selections accompanied by Miss Florence Anderson.

Colonel E. O. Thompson of Amarillo, who substituted on the banquet program for Chairman W. R. Ely of the Texas highway commission, told the mayors and commissioners present that if they would work out their own individual problems they would not need so much help from the legislature.

"The economic salvation of this country does not depend upon the legislature at Austin or the national congress at Washington, but upon you and me as administrators of our city government," Mayor Thompson said. "We need to return to the old town hall meetings."

Chairman Ely was delayed by a court action at Abilene. It was announced that he might be able to reach the convention some time tomorrow.

Hoover Talks

pression is the dominant subject before the country today."

Policies Are Cited

From this platform in the heart of the region where Democrats scored many of their gains in the last congressional election, he then enunciated his economic policies, his plans for the future and his efforts of the present.

He proposed a revision of the whole national and local taxation system with a view to relieving home owners, land owners and farmers. He advocated revision of the federal reserve and national banking systems to prevent diversion of money into channels of speculation and stock promotion and give greater protection against failure.

Faith Is Urged

He condemned the capital gains and loss tax. He urged finally a faith in American ideals and a building up on that system rather than adoption of any new philosophy of government.

Referring to the Russian five year plan "through which Russia is struggling to redeem herself from the ten years of starvation and misery," Mr. Hoover proposed an "American plan," to take care of a 20,000,000 increase in population in the next twenty years.

Diffusion Of Wealth

This plan in addition to increased internal developments of every kind included a "greater diffusion of wealth, a decrease in poverty, and a great reduction in crime."

With emphasis he lashed out at "that minority of people who would make political capital out of the depression through magnifying our unemployment and losses." He turned also on "other small groups in the business world who make their contribution to distress by raids on our markets with purpose to profit from depreciation of securities and commodities."

Mr. Hoover named no day for the end of the depression. He said:

"If, as many believe, we have passed the worst of this storm, future months will not be difficult. If we shall be called upon to endure more of this period, we must gird ourselves to steadfast effort, to fail at no point where humanity calls or American ideals are in jeopardy."

Baker Will Be Unable To Aid Prosecution Of Pair

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 15. (AP)—Fred A. Baird, attorney here, said today Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, had informed him that he would be unable to act as a special prosecutor in the trial of W. E. Guess and Cecil Crosby, former sheriff, at Ardmore, June 24 for the murder of Emilio Cortes Rubio, cousin of the Mexican president and Manuel Garcia Gomes.

His services, Mexican dispatches said, had been sought by the families of the slain youths.

DRUGGIST MEETING

DALLAS, June 15. (AP) Members of the Texas Pharmaceutical association, meeting here today in their 53nd annual convention, were expected to be asked to join in a protest against the state cigaret tax recently passed by the legislature.

Nearly 1,5000 druggists were expected to attend the four-day convention.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 15. (AP)—Despite rallies on account of increased drouth in spring crop territory, wheat prices averaged lower today responsive to news of big yields of winter wheat. Harvest operations southwest were reported to be making rapid progress with Texas and Oklahoma returns showing 1-2 to 1 bushel an acre more than the figures suggested by recent government estimates. Fort Worth messages said 30 cars of new wheat had arrived there today, and that all of them graded high No. 1 hard.

Wheat closed unsteadily 3-8 to 7-8 cents lower, corn varying from 3-8 decline to 1-2 advance, oats 1-4 to 1-2 off and provisions at 2 cents setback to 5 cents gain.

Two Brothers

charge of the mercantile store he had a half interest in, at Old Emma. He had bought the business with a small stock and built it up. In New Mexico his duties were looking after cattle, he stated. Sam Spikes had married in Floydada before going to New Mexico and Mr. Spikes was not sure whether she was related to J. W. Elliott family in that state or not.

"If John Spikes wrote to Henry Hawkins, I never knew it," the witness said in response to a question concerning a letter John was alleged to have sent to Hawkins at Clifton, Ariz. "He never told me of receiving a reply to it. I never heard of Cook or Massagee until this suit was filed."

Touches On Cattle Business

The witness said he had never seen any men around the Mesa who he did not know. "If I did not know them I would soon get acquainted with them," he added.

Figures on the number of calves and cattle taken to New Mexico by the brothers were gone over, also the number of animals sold to T. A. Wayne, Mr. Spikes explaining that he had sold about 325 head and that the total was around 800 or 900 head. With calves, the witness said, the number might have been higher.

Other Suits Filed

Questioned concerning his own interest in the suit Jeff Spikes said his mother and Ernest and Sam Spikes also filed suits "so I understand," as well as the three children of the late John Spikes. Plaintiff's attorneys objected to mention of the other suits, but their objections were not sustained.

Asked by Klett, "do you claim to be one of the four Spikes brothers mentioned in the book?" The witness replied, "I claim that the book slandered me." Again he answered "I claim to be one of the Spikes brothers." Then he stated "I am one of the four Spikes brothers."

Was Never Accused

On redirect examination Jeff Spikes declared he had never been accused of the theft of any cattle or of anything else. Referring to a trip to Mesa Redonda after the death of his brothers, he explained why he made his trips by night. "I was afraid to be seen," he said. "It would have meant death." Questioned by Klett if he thought his brother Sam, who remained in that section until late in 1903, also had been "afraid," the witness said. "I do not know." He said he knew that John, Dick and Fred Spikes were around the ranch almost every day because he saw them there.

Second Witness Heard

Ernest Spikes followed his brother on the witness stand. The witness said he was about 13 years old when he came to Crosby county and that he attended school at Emma, then worked for his father, the Z-Bar-L and other ranches.

John and Dick Spikes went to New Mexico in 1899 and he helped drive the cattle, the witness said. Two trips were made with the cattle, 400 to 450 head in the first bunch and 135 to 150 head in the second group. Some of the cattle belong to Van Sanders, Mr. Spikes testified.

Fred and Jeff Spikes went to New Mexico in 1901, the witness said. Sam Spikes and his wife were there for awhile.

"I never attended a roundup at Fort Sumner and my brothers never did," he said. Asked if he had heard of any alleged acts of lawlessness, as claimed by the defendants the witness said, "Not until I heard of them in this case."

The witness said he did not enter into any conspiracy with any one in acts of lawlessness.

"I left Mesa Redonda in December, 1901, and after a little time in Crosby county, I went to Mineral Wells. I was there when I heard of the death of my brothers in New Mexico. I then went to Hereford where I met Fred," the witness said.

After returning to Crosby county, Ernest Spikes said he worked for T. H. Ellis and on other ranches until about 1906. Questioned concerning his trip to Mesa Redonda after the killing, Ernest said he made the trip because he was afraid to appear in daylight. He stayed there two nights, the witness stated.

Attorney Lockhart asked him about a conversation which Frank Bond, living on Mesa Redonda, purported to have occurred three or four weeks before the shooting, allegedly heard that the residents of the community "were going after the Spikes brothers."

"I never was in Frank Bond's house with John and Dick," Ernest Spikes said. "I was at Bond's house one time with Dick, but it was not the time stated by Bond."

Klett again cross-examined the witness and after asking him several questions about his work in California and his hearing about the book written by Haley, the attorney began to quiz the witness whether or not he claimed to be one of the four brothers mentioned in the bok.

"I claim the book refers to me as a cattle rustler and a cow thief," the witness declared after the objection of the plaintiff's attorneys had been overruled by Judge Clark M. Mullican. Again he answered, "I claim to be one of the Spikes brothers mentioned in the book." After being told by Judge Mullican to answer "yes" or "no", or if he did not know to say "I do not know," the witness said "I do not know."

The witness said he had heard of the trouble his brothers might have had with Sam Gohlson and Bud Lee. "I talked to Mr. Gohlson," he said, "but it was not about cattle." He said he was not seeking trouble when he left the ranch.

In response to a question concerning a letter from Henry Hawkins to John Spikes, the witness said, "All I know about Henry Hawkins was when he worked for the Circle S ranch. The witness said he knew nothing about Fred Spikes obtaining a Winchester rifle from Condy Carmack.

Ernest Spikes said he did not hear of any cattle rustling and did not hear of the state sanitary board taking cattle from anyone that were believed were stolen animals.

At morning session Jeff Spikes in telling of alleged calf stealing charges brought against John Spikes by a Mr. Kidd said the calf, branded both "WAX" and "KID", claimed by Mr. Kidd, went to sucking a Spikes cow when it got near the herd. Mr. Kidd, he said, told John he would have the case thrown out of court and it was dismissed. Jeff Spikes said he sold the animal in 1894 as a two-year-old.

Bob Norfleet, brother of J. Frank Norfleet, in testifying about his trip to Mesa Redonda about January 10, 1902, said he planned to buy the Spikes ranch. He said he told Sam Gohlson about the proposed purchase.

"Mr. Gohlson told me he thought I had better wait a few days and that I could make a better trade when there would not be so many Spikeses to deal with," Norfleet said.

Norfleet stated on cross-examination that on his return to New Mexico later in the summer he did not make an attempt to buy the Spikes ranch.

"There appeared to be a great deal of discord around there," the witness replied when asked why he did not buy the place.

Norfleet was not inclined to answer cross-questions with a "yes" or "no" at times and argued with his inquisitor. He also stated that while talking to Sam Gohlson the later had exhibited a new rifle which he said had been given to him. The conversation occurred about January 10, 1903, the witness said.

Governor Rolph, of California, then commuted her sentence and she was pardoned. She is pictured above with Warden Holohan, after saying goodbye to her husband, Edward K. Advertising's Role In Helping To Raise Living Standard Is Praised

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—Advertising's role in helping raise America's standard of living, stimulating invention, and maintainng competition was praised today by President Hoover, in a message to the Advertising Federation of America.

The message, which was read at the luncheon opening the organization's annual convention, follows:

"It seems to be most appropriate that at your annual convention you propose to clarify the function of advertising as an economic force, so that its benefits may be better understood, not only by those who employ it but by the public to which in the aggregate it renders its greatest service.

'Advertising has played an important part in raising our standard of living, in stimulating invention, and in maintaining competition. By promoting production and distribution, it has brought within the reach of many the comforts and conveniences previously enjoyed by the few.

"The theme of your convention is especially timely because of the part sound constructive advertising is bound to play in accelerating the return of normal business activity."

Three Cities

inevitably in sight on the one hand, and the demand for municipal facilities and the ever-increasing tax rate on the other our only solution is greater efficiency."

Leopold said municipal taxes had increased 100 per cent since 1920, and that part of it could be contributed to mismanagement. He stressed, however, that taxes should not be cut during a period of depression.

Rector Is Speaker

The matter of reducing taxes by efficient management had been discussed by J. Bouldin Rector of Austin, president of the league, in the opening session.

"If city officials know what they are doing, and will watch expenses, taxes can be reduced," the president said. He pointed out that the league could be of service to Texas cities in legislative, legal, engineering and accounting matters.

Cooperation Is Urged

Dr. J. C. Anderson, state health officer, urged cooperation between city health units and the state department, especially in the health of school children and the filing of vital statistics.

State Fire Insurance Commissioner J. W. DeWeese talked on the accomplishments of his department, stating that the average insurance rate for all Texas cities has been reduced from $1.46 in 1923 to $1.09 at the present. Eugene Sanders, director of fire prevention, discussed the new arson laws, schools for firemen, and other steps for lowering fire insurance rates.

The problem of lower utility rates, which appears to be of outstanding interest at the convention, was discussed by Mayor Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo who recently compromised a gas fight after getting a 40 per cent cut in rates by threatening municipal ownership.

Mayor Thompson stated that he preferred "effective regulation" of rates fair to the utility company and the public rather than municipal ownership. He asked Texas city officials to keep in mind, however, that they have the right to condemn utilities as a last resort.

A few moments earlier President Rector had declared his stand for private ownership, but stated that every city in Texas should conduct a campaign for revision of utility rates.

Maj. E. A. Wood of Dallas outlined the creation and operations of a city planning board. He said that a dozen Texas cities are now using the plan successfully.

Dallas, Beaumont, Galveston and Weslaco have invited the 1932 convention. More than 100 registrations had been received late today. Reports of committees, election of officers and the selection of a convention city will conclude the program today.

More than 100 delegates were present today when the convention was opened with addresses by Tom Lee, former mayor of El Paso, and Baltasar Adame, mayor of Juarez, Mexico. Alba Pitts Being Returned To San Angelo By Officers After Capture Sunday In Junction City, Kansas

JUNCTION CITY, Kas., June 15 (AP)—Alba Pitts also known as Ila Woods, 20, said by officers to have escaped jail at San Angelo, Texas, May 16, while awaiting commitment to a Texas penitentiary, was being returned to San Angelo today by Sheriff J. R. Hewitt.

The prisoner was arrested in a rooming house here yesterday by Texas and Junction City officers to whom his whereabouts was made known by federal officers who found a letter written by Pitts here in possession of his cousin at Webb City, Mo.

Pitts, convicted of car theft in Texas, was said by the officers who arrested him to have confessed several filling station robberies in Oklahoma in company with other escaped prisoners whom he named as William Quinn, U. D. Connor, R. E. (Blackie) Martin and Clint Powell.

He also was quoted as confessing that he was a member of a quartet which recently kidnaped the purchaser of a new automobile at Tulsa, drove him into the country and left him in a ditch, bound with barbed wire.

Pitts said he was thrown out of a car here last Wednesday night by his companions after he had become intoxicated.

Sheffield Case Is Set In July

Because of the absence of Joe Bowman, a material witness for the defense, the case of C. A. Sheffield, local hotel manager, charged with negligent homicide, was postponed until the July term of county court by County Judge E. L. Pitts when the case was called for trial yesterday.

Sheffield was driver of an automobile that hit and fatally injured Palimae Kelly, 17, on April 24.

Charles C. Triplett and W. F. Schenck, attorneys for Sheffield, in their motion for continuance, said they had cases in both the United States district court and 72nd district here this week.

Hoffman became confused when he reached a railroad not shown on his map and followed it under the impression it was the Southern Pacific line leading into Marfa. It was the new Santa Fe road to Ojinaja.

Reports from Marfa stated that Hoffman will be held a minimum of 72 hours before he can gain permission to leave Mexico. His plane is in custody of Mexican soldiers.

More carloads of Goodrich Tires are shipped to Lubbock than all others combined. THEY MUST BE GOOD.

Don't Do It—

Never in the past have our Tire prices been so low and the service per mile been greater.

It is unreasonable to think of plodding along the highways with road-battered tires knowing that tire failures are dangerous to have on high-speed highways.

Cost

The mileage cost for car owner in West Texas is higher than any place in United States, the reasons for this are many, the unimproved highways, long miles from town to town, and the tremendous speed at which we drive.

The Demand

The sale of Goodrich Tires have been greater on the South Plains than any other Tire on the market. We have shipped more carloads of Tires into Lubbock, Texas than all other Tire dealers combined.

Reason

To have these honors year after year, there must be a reason; that reason is tire performance; tire cost; tire safety; tire mileage and fair dealing.

Drive by our station today and let us show you the new and greater Goodrich Silvertown Tires.

Let us show you why they have excelled in road service and low mileage cost.
