Retake Part Of Islands...

British Strike Back

By The Associated Press

Britain tightened its grip on the Falkland Islands dependency of South Georgia today, taking the icy South Atlantic island's second harbor of Leith, the Defense Ministry announced in London.

The ministry said 150 to 200 Argentines have had been taken prisoner since the marine landing Sunday after British helicopters attacked an Argentine submarine at the main port of Grytviken, 15 miles south of Leith. Britain said the Argentines there surrendered.

"We believe the numbers to be in the order of 150 to 200 including those from the damaged submarine (Sante Fe). They are regarded as prisoners but not prisoners-of-war," the ministry said.

Press Association defense correspondent Robert Hutchinson said British forces would likely attack the main Falkland Islands, 800 miles northwest of South Georgia, "within the next 48 hours."

The Defense Ministry said earlier today "There are no reports of any casualties at Leith," indicating there may have been fighting. The spokesman added, "The Union Jack is flying again on South Georgia."

A spokesman for the British Foreign Office said: "I would not say we are in a state of war and the position remains that we are determined to do all we can to settle the crisis by negotiation." Argentina's foreign minister said upon in arrival in Washington, where the Organization of American States was to convene today, that talks are suspended.

Quoting an unnamed government official, Hutchinson said the likelihood is that British troops will establish "some kind of bridgehead" in a remote areas of the Falklands to pressure the Argentines to come to diplomatic terms over sovereignty of the South Atlantic colony. The islands, ruled by Britain since 1833, were long claimed by Argentina, which seized them on April 2 and 3.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher was meeting with her war Cabinet today as the 24-day-old crisis escalated and was scheduled to address the House of Commons later in the day.

Sunday's British announcement of the recapture of Grytviken said the small Argentine garrison there surrendered, and British helicopter-gunships badly damaged one of Argentina's four submarines.

The Argentine government disputed that British claim, reporting late Sunday night that its forces had "fallen back" and "continue to fight in interior zones" of the icy, 120-mile-long South Atlantic island 1,140 miles to the east of Cape Horn. But it said communications with the garrison had been cut "for tactical reasons."

Argentine military sources, who asked not to be identified, said there were about 130 troops on the island and they destroyed the principal port installations before splitting into three groups and retreating.

The British Defense Ministry said the Argentines put up "only limited resistance" to the assault Sunday and there was only one serious casualty, an Argentine seaman who suffered leg injuries in the attack on the sub.

Sailors Seek Asylum

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Forty-four Polish sailors who thought they were in U.S. territory when they jumped ship in Panama after the military crackdown in their Communist homeland are still waiting for political asylum.

Panamanian authorities say the sailors, held at a military post, are growing frustrated, bored and increasingly concerned over the well-being of their families in Poland.

A source at the Foreign Ministry said Panama has sent along the sailors' requests for admission as political refugees to the United States, Canada, Australia, South Africa, West Germany and Venezuela.

Nuclear Freeze Silly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, dismissing proposals to freeze U.S. and Soviet nuclear weapons as "pretty silly," says supporters of the concept "subconsciously may be hankering for a good old conventional war."

"Nuclear deterrence has worked," Brzezinski said Sunday on Cable News Network's "Newsmaker Sunday" program. "We have avoided war for 35 years."

While calls for a freeze may be prompted by concerns about the Reagan administration's attitude toward arms control, he said, they also reflect "nostalgia for a little bit of crisis and tension."

Siamese Twins Critical

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — The father of siamese twins born as part of a set of triplets says surgeons may try to surgically separate the infants.

The twins, who were born late Saturday night joined at the abdomen and the chest, were in critical condition early today in the neonatal intensive care unit at Lubbock General Hospital. Hospital officials said the third child was in satisfactory condition.

Hospital officials declined to release any medical information about the twins.

Their father, The Rev. Timothy Fitzhugh, said Sunday that doctors told him they may try to separate the twins as early as Tuesday.

McMahon Nominated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is expected to nominate a 31-year veteran of CIA, John McMahon, to replace Adm. Bobby R. Inman as deputy director of the intelligence agency, administration sources say.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said McMahon, who as CIA executive director now holds the agency's No. 3 post, had been recommended by CIA Director William J. Casey and screened by the president's aides.

They said Reagan might announce the nomination as early as today.

McMahon would have to be confirmed by the Senate and hearings would be held by the Senate Intelligence Committee. Some members of that panel have expressed public concern over the choice of a deputy since Inman's intention to enter private business was announced by the White House Wednesday.

Breakthrough Reported

NEW YORK (AP) — Scientists now can create and transmit artificial genetic instructions to correct the behavior of a defective human gene that can cause an incurable and often fatal blood disease, according to The New York Times.

Scientists developed the method by determining the precise chemical subunit within the gene that was malfunctioning and devising a way to cancel the erroneous instruction that, in some instances, is known to be the direct cause of the disease, the Times reported today. The disease, beta thalasemia, can cause anemia, bone deformities, heart problems and a shortened life span.

County Given Tax Petition

Scurry County Commissioners this morning became the first governing body of a taxing entity to be presented a petition asking that tax collection service be continued at the county tax office.

A copy of a petition with 238 signatures was presented. The county commissioners court already had indicated that it planned for the county tax office to continue collecting county taxes.

Jay Massingill, county auditor, one of those who took the lead in circulating the petition, said the group he represented hoped that other taxing entities would reconsider action establishing contracts with the Scurry County Appraisal District for collection service until such time that a referendum could be held on the issue.

The three school districts in the county and the City of Snyder have contracts approved with the appraisal district for collecting taxes for 1982. The Scurry County Junior College District has not yet designated a tax collection agency for 1982 taxes.

The petition, an unofficial document, will be presented to the governing bodies of the schools and the city, Massingill said. Tax laws now provide that an election on a tax collection agency may be petitioned by 10 percent of the qualified voters in the county. This would require more than 800 signatures in Scurry County. Also, any taxing entity may contract with another entity or with the appraisal district without an election.

For the first time, the county collected 1981 taxes for all entities. However, some dissatisfaction emerged when the county announced that the collection fee would be raised from .6 of one percent to one percent. Ultimately, the fee was returned to the .6 of one percent figure, but by that time, the other entities had sought figures from the appraisal district and followed up with requests for contracts there.

Absentee Voting Ends Tomorrow

Campaigns are quickening with the approach of primary elections, but few voters seem to be interested.

That is the indication both state-wide and in Scurry County as the deadline for absentee voting nears.

Tuesday is the last day for absentee balloting at the county clerk's office, and you must get there before 5 p. m. to obtain a ballot.

The absentee total here had reached only 94 this morning. Of that number, 89 were for the Democratic primary and five were for the Republican primary.

Although there are few contested races for local offices, some of the state races were expected to attract more interest. However, candidates apparently have had little luck getting attention.

Estimates are that only about 27 percent of the qualified voters in the state will bother to vote in the primaries Saturday. Unless more interest develops this week, that could be the case in Scurry County also, based on the absentee total.

Scurry County has approximately 8,600 voters who could vote if they should go to the polls.

Q.—If a person has a complaint against a local business, is there a local agency he can appeal to, or at least register a complaint?

A.—It depends on the type of complaint. If it deals with legal matters concerning operation of a business, you might complain to the county attorney or district attorney. If it is a question of ethics, or operating standards, there is no Better Businss Bureau here, but in the past some have been referred to the BBB in Abilene, we are told.

Argentina Takes Case Against Brits To OAS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Argentina is taking its case against Britain in the Falkland Islands crisis to the Organization of American States after announcing a suspension of indirect negotiations to end the conflict peacefully.

The 21 parties to the 1947 Rio Treaty, including the United States, were convening at OAS headquarters today. But it was unclear Sunday night whether Argentina would seek to impose hemispheric sanctions against Britain under the treaty's collective defense provisions.

The meeting is being held at the foreign ministers' level.

Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez told reporters Sunday night that indirect negotiations with Britain to end the crisis were being temporarily suspended because of Britain's helicopter attack on an Argentine submarine and the landing of British military forces on South Georgia Island.

"For us, this means no negotiations with Britain for the time being," he said. This contradicted an earlier statement in which Costa Mendez suggested there would be no let up in Argentina's efforts to achieve peace.

"Diplomacy never ends," he said.

Costa Mendez also planned talks today with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., causing further confusion about the meaning of his statement that negotiations were being suspended.

Haig has worked almost non-stop since April 8 attempting to negotiate a peaceful solution. He and Costa Mendez were to have met at the State Department Sunday but instead conferred several times by telephone.

Costa Mendez said the basis for Argentina's suspension of the peace effort was Britain's use of military force, which he claimed was a violation of the April 3 U.N. Security Council resolution banning military hostilities by both sides.

Britain has maintained from the start that Argentina has violated the resolution by refusing to withdraw the 9,000 troops it has deployed on the islands.

Costa Mendez said Sunday the British military action would have "grave consequences for peace" but added later under questioning: "I think we can prevent conflict, yet."

A majority of OAS members sympathize with the Argentine position on grounds that Britain's 149-year control over the islands was a legacy of British colonial rule.

But it was not clear whether Argentina could muster the two-thirds majority required to impose sanctions against Britain.

Sirhan Sirhan...

Parole Hearing Begins Today

SOLEDAD, Calif. (AP) — Parole board members, attorneys, witnesses and a large press corps converged on Soledad state prison today for hearings to consider reversing the planned parole of Sirhan B. Sirhan, convicted assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The unique "rescission hearings," spurred by a prosecutor's campaign to stop Sirhan's scheduled release in 1984, were scheduled to begin late in the day and continue for at least two weeks.

The prosecutor, Los Angeles District Attorney John Van de Kamp, contends Kennedy's assassination was political, and deserves harsher punishment.

Sirhan's attorney said his client does not have high hopes for keeping his parole date.

"He's very pessimistic at this point," said attorney Luke McKissack. "He knows he's unpopular and it's an election year, and he feels the board has made up its mind."

The unusually high public interest and length of the hearings have required complex logistical planning by prison officials, who installed a closed-circuit TV system to broadcast the proceedings to 21 members of the news media in a nearby building. Only two reporters and a sketch artist were cleared for admittance to the hearing room.

Thirty-five witnesses will appear, including many inmates who have spent time behind bars with Sirhan. Some will say Sirhan spoke of future violence, but McKissack says other witnesses will refute this.

Before the hearings end, Sirhan, a Palestinian immigrant, will testify on his own behalf. He shot Kennedy in Los Angeles on June 5, 1968, after Kennedy's victory in the Democratic presidential primary in California.

At 38, Sirhan is a model prisoner who has scored high grades on college courses he has taken in prison.

Town Had No Fire Protection...

34 Perish In Italian Fire

TODI, Italy (AP) — A fire raged unchecked for more than 40 minutes at an antiques fair in a 15th century building, killing at least 34 people and injuring nearly 40, because this town of 18,000 people has no fire protection.

Giuseppe Zamberlitti, the cabinet minister in charge of civil defense, said it took more than 40 minutes to get fire trucks from four nearby towns. Their crews couldn't control the intense flames until helicopters sprayed water onto the burning Palazzo del Vignola.

Heidi Jarratt, a New York City woman who escaped after the explosion and flash fire Sunday, said the firemen didn't arrive for an hour.

"The first ambulance arrived 20 minutes after I got out," she said. "Firemen came 40 or 45 minutes later. I knew those trapped inside were dead."

Several hundred mourning people kept vigil late into the night in the walled town's central Piazza del Popolo, where hints of smoke still wafted through the air. Relatives were escorted down a dark alley to a 16th century cathedral and filed by rows of bodies in a crypt to identify the victims.

Piero Dorazio, a painter who lives just outside town, said he warned municipal officials before that fire protection was needed for a town of 18,000 people. He said he was told it was difficult to get fire trucks because permits from three ministries in Rome were required.

"At the very least, the city should provide protection — fire extinguishers and people who know how to use them — for an exhibit in an old building that is a fire trap," he said.

The fire started with an explosion on the third floor of the four-story, 15th century building housing the town's 14th annual antique fair, a month-long exhibition and sale that attracts thousands of dealers and buyers to the Umbrian hill town 78 miles northeast of Rome.

Officials suspected a gas leak caused the explosion. Others said it might have been an electrical short circuit or a cigarette dropped on the floor.

Police said the fire spread rapidly because the paintings, tapestries and wooden furniture were highly flammable. Miss Jarratt, who was on the second floor, said the floors, stairs, walls and doorways had been covered with carpeting to give a look of elegance.

Many of the estimated 200 people panicked and rushed for the staircase, which rapidly filled with choking smoke. Townspeople piled mattresses onto a truck, and dozens of people jumped from third-floor windows. Some missed the truck and hit the pavement.

Fausto Ermini, 22, said he was among those who jumped to safety, but "some old people were trying to hold on to their precious art objects, waiting for the firemen to come up with a ladder."

Police said 31 people, including an infant girl, suffocated or burned to death in the fire. Three others died in hospitals. The dead and injured were all believed to be Italians.

Twelve victims, including an 11-year-old boy, were reported in critical condition with burns.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Prevention beats a cure

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I know what you mean about the hazards of smoking. I loved my cigarettes. You could have told me everyone around me was going to die if they didn't quit and it wouldn't have stopped me. I did quit 14 years ago and I am glad.

You are probably wondering how a person who smoked for over 15 years could quit overnight. Let me tell you.

I had a very good friend who, like me, didn't believe he would ever be the victim of lung cancer. He just kept puffing away like me, two, sometimes three packs a day. The day finally came. You've probably seen it before. The X-rays showed a tumor in the lungs that you couldn't see until it got the size of a baseball. Then the doctor told him he couldn't operate on him. After that the six months waiting until death finally took him.

I learned from this. My friend said to me, "Bob, quit now before it's too late." I did.

Who was this friend? My father.

DEAR READER — Your father did you one last good turn before he died. And in quitting smoking I know you must have filled one of his most important wishes.

Eighty percent of lung cancers occur in people who smoke. It follows that the leading cause of cancer deaths in men and the second or third most common cause in women could be prevented usually if no one smoked. We spend enormous sums of money to find a cure for a disease that could easily be prevented. It doesn't make sense. Prevention always beats a cure.

Beyond the problem of lung cancer are the other bad effects of tobacco. These include chronic lung disease, which is almost as bad, and digestive complaints. The risk of heart attacks or sudden death is three times as great in smokers as in nonsmokers. There is almost nothing to recommend a smoking habit.

I know you will want to read The Health Letter number 19-6, Tobacco, The Great Health Hazard, which I am sending to you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have rheumatic heart disease and am on Digoxin. I also have a high cholesterol. Is there anything I can do to correct this other than taking Digoxin? I have been on it for two years now. I am only 50 years old and have not gone through the menopause yet and would like to prepare myself for the times ahead.

DEAR READER — You are wise to think ahead. It is better to prevent fatty-cholesterol deposits than start a program after a complication has already occurred.

Digoxin is not to control your cholesterol. It and other digitalis preparations are to strengthen your heart muscle contractions to prevent or control heart muscle failure.

You should have the ratio of your "good cholesterol" (HDL) to your total cholesterol measured. If your ratio is fine you are not in trouble and if it remains good you'll not need to worry about your cholesterol. But if not you may need to lose weight, if you are overweight, use a non-fat, low-cholesterol diet and perhaps even take medicines if those measures are not effective.

Of Rep. Martin...

Cousin Claims Shooting Bungled

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — The shooting of former State Rep. Mike Martin was a hit and miss proposition with more amiss than not, says the man who claims to have fired the shot.

Charles Goff says he shot his cousin as part of a cut-rate plot to draw the sympathy vote for the Longview Republican's anticipated state senate race.

But Goff told The Dallas Morning News that the bungled cover-up soon brought investigators to his door.

In a plea bargain, Martin pleaded guilty last week to misdemeanor perjury, paid a $2,000 fine, resigned his legislative seat and agreed to give up the chance to return to it next session.

He had been charged with aggravated perjury for allegedly lying to a Travis County grand jury when he said he did not stage the July shooting that left him with a slight arm wound. However, the felony charge was dropped as part of the agreement.

Martin still denies orchestrating the shooting, and he calls his cousin "a vagabond and a liar."

But Goff says he agreed to shoot Martin because the freshman legislator had promised him a $30,000-a-year state job as his bodyguard.

"I figured if he was dumb enough to want himself shot, I was dumb enough to do it," Goff said.

Goff said Martin first told him a senator had put out a contract on him because the legislator "had been investigating some kind of bid and he had uncovered that the state had paid out a larger sum than was bid."

The "controlled hit" was designed to make the senator forget about the contract and to gain Martin "a lot of sympathy when he decided to run for senator," Goff said.

Martin gave him $400 to buy a 12-gauge shotgun and .00 buckshot in Marshall, Goff said.

He said he practiced firing the gun at his brother's home, but neglected to pick up all the used shells, which investigators later discovered.

Goff said the day before the shooting he picked up a rental car Martin had arranged to have left at a Longview church parking lot.

Lying to the grand jury about the car was what Martin pleaded guilty to last week. Martin still maintains he misunderstood the question the grand jurors were asking him.

Goff said he used his own name when he checked into an Austin motel, and police later found the name on the register.

The cousins met in a supermarket parking lot, he said, where they signified their readiness by shaking hands through the car windows. Two street sweeper operators, however, witnessed the meeting and later described it to authorities.

Goff said he arrived at the mobile home shortly before Martin, "drew up and got ready. Mike pulled in. I stuck the gun out the window." But twice they saw vehicles approaching and were forced to drive away and circle back, he said.

"Mike pulled in again. It seemed like hours before he got out of the car. He smiled and nodded his head. He then knelt down at the rear of the car and held his arm up. I checked to make sure there wasn't any lights. I then aimed at him and began firing," Goff said.

Although Goff said he had test-fired the gun to make sure the shells would stay inside the car, he leaned too far out the window and the shells flew into the road, where police found them.

Goff said he later made threatenening phone calls to Martin's friends to support the legislator's story that he had been the victim of an attack by a satanist cult.

One of the calls was tape-recorded by police, however, and Goff's voice was recognized.

He was picked up and questioned, but on instructions from Martin, he said, he lied to investigators.

In our inevitable, eventual enlightenment Americans have recently un-learned two devastating untruths.

We have learned that "government money" is not government money — it's ours.

And union workers have learned that they do not work for the union.

FDR's political PR sought to sell government as a creator of jobs. Review the numbers:

In the depth of the Great Depression, 1933, our nation had 13 million unemployed.

By 1939 — for all of government's WPA and NRA and FCA and CCC and a score more make-work efforts — unemployment, in seven years, had been reduced by only 3½ million.

It took World War Two to bail him out.

And it took until the Carter, Administration for most Americans to about-face toward self-reliance.

For all of that President's enormous social conscience, it was more than we could afford.

It was in 1981 that Americans satisfied themselves that they had been mostly misled for 50 years —

That the nothing-but-the-truth truth is——"government money" — which politicans have been using to buy our votes — is our money!

And that union workers do not work for the union. They sink or swim, are poor or prosperous, only to the extent that their employer is poor or prosperous.

Now for the first time ever — and in just one year — an unprecedented metamorphosis.

Our nation's labor relations have never been better.

Last year there was less labor strife than any year in 15, fewer strikes began than any year in 40!

And more than that, in industry after industry workers are accepting reduced pay until things get better.

Conrail employees...

General Tire rubber workers...

Armour meat workers... two airlines... three car companies...

Even truck drivers. Even the historically militant and arbitrarily demanding Teamsters — 30,000 strong — agreeing to work for less to aid their ailing industry.

Now the industries are going to have to play fair.

General Motors' auto workers made concessions worth $3 billion to the company. The company had promised to pass that saving along to you in reduced car prices. It had better!

Or the circle will be complete and we'll be back to stage one of the industrial revolution when the big guys were the bad guys, and we don't need another confrontation.

LSD Returning To Popularity

DALLAS (AP) — A powerful hallucinogen that hit the height of its popularity a decade ago is making a comeback in a more potent form sold in colorful cartoon stamps attractive to young children, narcotics agents said.

The drug is LSD — lysergic acid diethylamide — and agents told the Dallas Morning News the 1980s version has been confiscated in significant amounts recently in several Texas cities, including Austin, Houston, Odessa and Pasadena.

The drug is being sold for $2 and $10 a "hit" in the colorful tattoo stamps printed with Walt Disney characters. Agents told the newspaper that children who think they are playing with a harmless toy and apply the stamps to their skin can absorb the hallucinogen into their skin.

"The Blue Star LSD is one of the most alarming things I've come across in a long time," said an Austin narcotics agent.

"Our lab reports show that this stuff is more powerful than what we saw in the '60s. It's called Blue Star, but the stars are white and placed on dark blue perforated paper — similar to a sheet of stamps," he said.

In February, Texas Department of Public Safety agents seized 13,500 dosage units of Blue Star LSD from two Austin traffickers in one of the region's largest busts. The drug was traced to California.

And in Houston during the past year, the Harris County Sheriff's Department has confiscated about 35,000 stamps printed with a cartoon character Goofy juggling pills. A dosage of about 24,000 hits seized last summer "was the strongest ever tested," said Lt. M.D. Smith.

Dear Abby

Keeping the Faith Can Stunt the Spirit

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I was amazed at your response to the 15-year-old girl who felt guilty for dating out of her faith against her parents' wishes. She said she was proud of her heritage and had no intentions of marrying out of her faith, but at 15 she wasn't considering marriage.

You replied: "You will avoid a lot of possible heartache by dating only boys you may one day marry. The heart doesn't care what the head is thinking."

I deplore your bigoted point of view. If we limit our dating only to people who share the same religion, philosophy and political views, we will not grow or learn. We need to associate with people who make us think and question our own beliefs.

Children should be taught to choose their friends for their character, worthiness, intelligence and caring rather than for their religion, color of skin, social status, style of dress or any other basis for prejudice.

There are many reasons why people date a member of the opposite sex, Abby. It isn't always a prelude to romance and marriage.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Move over. Many others were also disappointed. Read on for a letter from someone who agreed with my "bigoted" point of view:

DEAR ABBY: I'm glad you advised that 15-year-old girl against dating boys of a different religion if she had no intentions of marrying out of her faith.

I was raised in a strict Baptist home, but dated boys I knew I could not marry.

I fell deeply in love with a Jewish boy, but I married someone else.

That was over 30 years ago, and I still dream of my first love. Now I wish I had either married him or not set myself up to fall in love with a man I could not marry.

I REMEMBER MOREY

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My mother always used to ripen tomatoes quickly by setting them on the windowsill with the "belly-button side" up, so that's the way I've always done it.

A friend recently told me that tomatoes ripen faster if they are placed with the belly-button side down. Who is right?

SANDRA

DEAR SANDRA: It makes no difference which side is up. To ripen tomatoes quickly, place them in a brown paper bag, with the top closed.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Honest Amy," who gives her telephone number to men just to avoid hurting their feelings, then ducks them when they call, that it's cruel and dishonest to give a man hope when none exists.

There's nothing worse than having your hopes built up at the first meeting, then getting the runaround when you phone the lady for a date.

When I ask a girl for her phone number, a polite but honest, "Thanks for asking, but the chemistry is just not right for me," would be perfectly acceptable.

Disappointing? Of course, but I have nothing but respect for women who are honest enough to let me know immediately what my chances are.

APPRECIATES HONESTY IN ALASKA

DEAR APPRECIATE: I'll bet you do. Especially when the nights are six months long.

The waiting game

A mother-to-be should take extra care and pride in her appearance — neglecting your looks now can easily get you down. Remember, don't think of yourself as fat; you're pregnant! Treat yourself to a stylish maternity outfit, and accessorize your new look with pretty scarves, bright jewelry. Wear sensible but flattering shoes — it's easy to get cranky when your feet hurt.

During the warm weather ahead, it's a good idea to carry a cotton handkerchief: You may perspire more, and a hanky is handy for patting your face dry. When you get too big to touch your toes, pamper yourself with a professional pedicure. Finally, always take a few minutes to dab on some lipstick, comb your hair and let your special radiance shine through.

Oswald: "Hugh Kelsey's newest book is called 'More Killing Defense at Bridge.' Like all of Kelsey's books it is tough, but well worth reading if you want to see defense at its best."

Alan: "Even the first hand in the book is a hum-dinger. You are East and your partner opens the ace of hearts. You signal with the 10 and he continues with the seven to your nine. You lead the king and South ruffs with the nine. Now he plays ace-king-jack of trumps. Your partner wins with the queen and your side has three tricks in."

Oswald: "You also are in the embarrassing position of having to discard. You had let a diamond go on the king of spades. You can't afford to let a heart go so you must either unguard your queen of clubs or jack of diamonds. At first glance it seems that you should throw the four of clubs and hope that your partner holds the jack."

Alan: "Kelsey says you must look further and see that you not only must throw a diamond, but you must keep on with diamonds as long as you have to make discards."

Oswald: "South surely has a seven card spade suit. Hence, if he has just one diamond, the diamond finesse will give him 10 tricks. So your only chance to beat declarer is that he is void of diamonds."

Diet facts & fallacies

These nutritional tips brought to you by DIET CENTER

Read the label, and you will set a better table! Under FDA regulations, any food to which a nutrient has been added must have a nutrition label. Nutrition labeling can help you serve more nutritious meals, and save money.

Diet Center believes in "counting nutrients, not calories." Reading the label will help you select foods that contain the nutrients you need daily.

For example: Many canned products, such as orange drinks, appear by the label to contain a natural source of vitamin C. While consumers may think they are buying the "real thing," in reality the drinks contain mainly chemicals and flavorings with little natural vitamin C.

Read the label to avoid foods that contain sodium and cholesterol. Diet Center believes that too much cholesterol in the diet increases the risk of coronary heart disease and atherosclerosis. Sodium contributes to high blood pressure and water retention.

Fresh fruits and vegetables, lean meats, fish and poultry are less costly, but equally nutritious, alternatives for more expensive foods. Fresh produce and lean meats contain more of the nutrients needed by the body at a lower cost to you.

Let Diet Center show you how to get the best possible nutrition from your food dollar.

Musical Coterie Meets

Musical Coterie met at the Martha Ann Woman's Club Apr. 8. Mrs. Ralphene Canon, president, conducted the brief business meeting. Barbara Perkins, program chairman for April, presented a program on "Contemporary Piano Music." Among the most important styles and trends since 1900 are expressionism, atonality, serial music, neoclassicism, and since World War II, electronic music, aleatory music and musique concrete.

The second decade of the century, dominated by World War I, saw a daring and widespread musical experimentation. Of basic importance was the work of Schoenberg, who, casting away the harmonic system and formal methods of the past, arrived at atonality. New possibilities in rhythm were exploited.

The French writer Cocteau aptly expressed the spirit of this period: "After the music with the silk brush, the music with the axe."

The neoclassical movement which began in the early 1920s, fostered a return to the aesthetic ideals and formal methods of the 17th and 18th centuries recast in modern idioms. Stravinsky took the lead with such compositions as the Octet for Wind Instruments (1923). Bartok and Hindemith, the major composers of the movement (along with Stravinsky) began to receive international recognition.

Barbara Mott played "Etude in C Minor" by Scriabin and Verna West played six Rumanian folk dances by Bela Bartok. Included in the six were "Dance with Sticks," "Wastband Dance," "Stamping Dance," "Rumanian Polka," and "Quick Dance." Lynn Bethel played "Le Polichinelle" by Villa Lobos and Judy Neill played "Lyric Waltz" by Dimitri Shostakovitch. "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell was played by Barbara Perkins and "To Spring" by Edward Grieg was played by Donna Smith.

Mrs. Perkins told interesting details of all the composer's lives whose pieces were played.

The Musical Coterie Scholarship was discussed and preparations were made for the auditions. The scholarship is open to any Snyder senior interested in auditioning Tuesday, May 11. For more information concerning this scholarship, please call 573-5816 or 573-7293 after 6 p.m.

The next meeting will be Thursday, May 13, at MAWC at 8 p.m. Program will be "National Anthems of the World" with Susan Scott as program chairman. Installation of officers will be held at this time.

Musical Coterie is affiliated with the Texas Federation of Music Clubs and the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Parham Qualifies In Three...

Tigers Finish Fifth In 2-4A

SAN ANGELO -- Andrews' Mustangs grabbed a first, second or third in almost every event here Saturday to walk away with the District 2-AAAA Boys Track And Field team title.

The Mustangs outdistanced Monahans by 34 points, winning 143 to 109, while Odessa Ector took third with 84 points, Lake View fourth with 60 and Snyder fifth with 46.

Snyder gleaned 34 of its points from the individual efforts of Glenn Parham, who qualified for the upcoming Region I Meet in three events. Parham, who had won Friday's long jump, also won the 300 intermediate hurdles in a meet record 39.4 and took second in the 110 high hurdles in 14.73.

He also placed third in the high jump with a leap of 6-2.

Snyder's other points came from a sixth-place effort by Ross Bawcum in the shot put (50-1¾); fourth and fifth place finishes in the high jump by James Caldwell and D.W. Lofton respectively; a fifth place finish by the 400 meter relay team; and a sixth place finish by the 1600 meter relay team.

Running the 400 relay in 45.3 were Ramsey Rodriquez, Tommy Holladay, Mark Shaw and David Nichols. The team of David Miller, Caldwell, Nicholson and Parham ran the 1600 relay in 3:28.4.

"We really did about what we had hoped," said Snyder Coach Robert Crawford. "I really thought we would qualify someone in the high jump but the approach was real wet and our jumpers were unlucky. I also thought Ross Bawcum might qualify in the shot. He did have one put of 55' but his foot just barely touched the toe board and that is a scratch. His put of 50-1¾ was his best of the year.

"This district is really a good district for track. I think there were nine new records set and two others were tied. Anytime you see results of the 1600 relay and six teams are under 3:28.4 you know there are some good runners with speed in the meet. I thought if we ran 3:28 we could get third or fourth but it was good for sixth. I was very pleased with the time, and also the effort though. We had only three seniors (Shaw, Gilbert and Lofton) on the team so we have a lot returning next year."

Ector's bid at a district title crumbled with the relay events. The Eagles, who took blue ribbons in the 100, 200, 400, 800 and 1600 meter runs, dropped a baton the sprint relay and finished third in the 1600.

Key races included the 800, where Ector's Tony Gamble edged out Andrews' talent Kirk Pearcy by 1:54.5 to 1:54.9. Gamble also edged Pearcy out in the 1600 meters with a 4:28.2. Both winning times broke District 2-AAAA records previously set by the Ector senior.

While Gamble ruled the 800 and 1600, teammate Charles Ricks carried the weight in the 100 and 200. Ricks flashed times of 10.6 in the 100 for a new loop mark, 22.0 in the 200. Doyce Mitchell of Ector won the 400 meters in 49.2.

Henry Farris of Andrews also set a new time in the 3200 meters, breaking Raul Hernandez' (AHS) previous best of 10:13 with a 9:50.

Andrews won the 400 meter relay in 43.0, with San Angelo Lake View as a surprise second, while Monahans ran away with the 1600 meter relay in 3:22.4.

Monahans, which did well in the field events to add points, got another blue ribbon when Merv Scurlark ran the 110 high hurdles in 14.7, beating out Snyder's Parham by .3 of a second.

Crawford Comments: Weight Program Works

Coach Robert Crawford indicated his overall pleasure at Snyder's effort in the Boy's District 2-AAAA Track and Field Meet held last weekend, and indicated optimism for the future.

Snyder finished fifth in the team title race, with Glenn Parham qualifying to regionals in three events.

"We had planned to be at our best for the district meet and that is exactly what happened," said the coach. "Our coaches have been trying to sell our athletes on a free weight program in high school. To be honest about it, I think several of our track boys were skeptical about the weights. They doubted how much good the weights would do, thinking they were just for football. I knew they would help but I didn't have any idea we would see such quick results from them. Parham really felt the effects of them, and he was one of about five or six of the tracksters that had time for any real extended workouts, the others being in basketball.

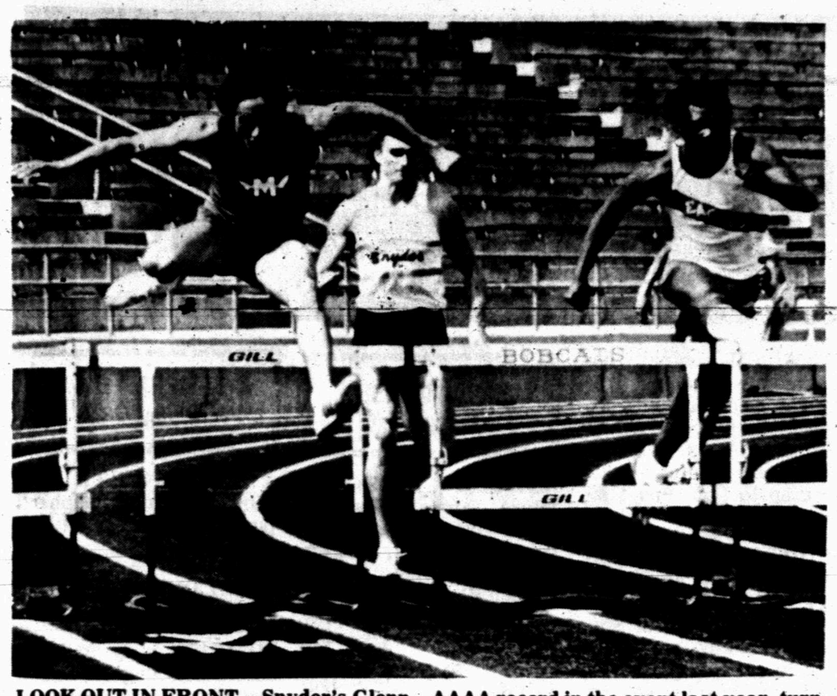

"It takes a lot of time and hard work on the weights to do any good. We haven't worked as hard on them as we could have. There have been a few days we have worked weights past 30 minutes, but we usually get finished in that length of time. I tried to sell the kids on the idea that it was good for them in all sports but we had to put nearly 50 kids through weights every day and sometimes that didn't give everybody all the time they needed," the coach added. "Weights take a lot of work and we have lost some athletes from our program that weren't willing to work. But if we can convince a few, some others will eventually come around. You have to work to be successful and some of our athletes are just beginning to understand this.

"I would like to thank those coaches (George Byerly, David Creswell and Walter Hargrove) that put us through the weights. They really knew what they were doing and helped us a great deal. Also, Boe Smith coached our shot and discus men and he did a super job with them," said Crawford.

"We also had some fans that followed us to some long distance track meets. Our athletes are just like those from anywhere else, they need support and they deserve it. They really did appreciate the support they got.

"I enjoyed coaching these youngsters very much and am looking forward to next year. We will take Glenn (Parham) to Abilene Christian University for a regional qualifiers meet this week and enter him in all three of his events."

The regional meet will be held May 8 in Odessa.

LOOK OUT IN FRONT -- Snyder's Glenn Parham, center, appears to be behind Monahans' Danny Tarrango (left) and Ector's Anthony Miller heading down the stretch of the 300 intermediate hurdle race. Parham, who set the District 2-AAAA record in the event last year, turned on the burners after this hurdle and won the race with a new mark of 39.4, however. See track roundup at right. Anderson Cops Second; Receives Trip To State

ODESSA -- Snyder's Brenda Anderson will head to the Girl's State Track Meet for the third consecutive season after qualifying in the Region I Meet here over the weekend.

Anderson, a senior, hurled the shot 41-feet, 3¾ inches to take second place. Sweetwater freshman Wanda Gardner won the event with a throw of 43-1½.

Lubbock Estacado took team honors by racking up 96 points. Sweetwater, winner of the District 2-AAAA title this year, was second with 67 points. Vernon and Odessa Ector tied for third with 46.

In addition to the shot, Sweetwater also won the discus, as Gerilyn Stone tossed out a throw of 120-11½, and the 800 meter relay, in a time of 1:42.59. Deborah McCain also qualified in the 200 meters, taking second place with a time of 25.49.

In other qualifications to state involving District 2-AAAA members, Carolyn McIntire of Ector placed first in the triple jump with a 35-4; Tela Lindsey of Monahans took second in the long jump with a 17-9½; Cyntia Johnson, also of Monahans, took second in the discus at 120-1¾; Mary Jane Gonzales, Monahans, took second in the 3200 meters with a 12:26.49; and Odessa Ector came away with second place finishes in the 400 and 1600 meter relays.

WTC Wins Rodeo; ENMU Places 2nd

ABILENE -- Western Texas College captured the men's team championship at the 36th annual Hardin Simmons University NIRA Rodeo here last weekend.

Western totalled 258 points to outdistanced runnerup Eastern New Mexico University, which had 201.

Dave Appleton took the all-around championship saddle by winning the saddlebronc riding and taking a third in bareback.

James Zant, who had won all-around a week earlier in the Western Texas College NIRA Rodeo, won second in calf roping and fifth in steer riding.

Tim Gradous also placed in saddle bronc riding for Western.

The Westerners still trail Sul Ross State University for region honors.

The final rodeo of the regular season will be at New Mexico Junior College in Hobbs, N.M. this weekend.

Scott 4th At Meet

ODESSA -- Snyder's Kelly Scott finished fourth in the Region I, Class 4A Tennis Tournament, held here last weekend.

Scott, who had placed second in girl's singles in the District 2-AAAA Tennis Meet, lost to Beverly Triana of Vernon, 6-2 and 6-3.

Angie Riza of Cleburne defeated Nichole Morgan of Monahans, 4-6, 6-4 and 7-5 for the singles title.

In Class 4A doubles, Shanna Gilliam and Penny Dupler of Andrews defeated teammates Janice Eads and Terri Bender, 7-5 and 6-3.

Third place went to Becky McKoy and Patty Jack of Borger, who defeated Amy Stone and Carla Houge of Brownfield, 6-7, 6-1 and 6-3.

First and second place winners advance to state competition.

Brewers Bag Rangers; Win By Big 11-6 Count

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - No choruses, please, of "Home, Sweet Home," for the Texas Rangers.

Arlington Stadium has not seen the Rangers' finest efforts this year.

A week ago, for example, Texas got sound pitching, timely hitting and solid defense to sweep a three-game series from the Brewers in Milwaukee.

But Sunday, the Brewers feasted off three Texas pitchers for a resounding 11-6 victory and a three-game sweep of the Rangers in Texas.

It was the fifth-straight win for Milwaukee and ran Texas' home record to 2-7.

"It's just a combination of everything," moaned Texas Manager Don Zimmer. "When the hitting has been good the pitching goes flat, and when the pitchers are right we don't hit."

Following Saturday's 4-1 loss to the Brewers, Zimmer said there were no lineup changes being contemplated. But after Sunday's pasting, Zimmer did not sound so positive.

"I don't know yet. I've got until Tuesday to think about it," he said.

The Brewers ripped three Texas pitchers for 16 hits and the Rangers committed three errors in the Sunday massacre.

Cecil Cooper, who blasted Texas for seven hits in the three games; led Milwaukee with three hits and three runs batted in Sunday.

"Cecil always gives us the big hit. He is an outstanding hitter," said Milwaukee Manager Buck Rodgers. "He drives in runs, he gets on base. When he is not driving them in, he sets the table for the next guy."

Lining up behind Cooper for Brewer hitting honors were Robin Yount, Roy Howell, Don Money and Jim Gantner, each with two runs batted in. Money and Gantner both slammed home runs.

For the Rangers, Lee Mazzilli, Mike Richardt and Buddy Bell each drove in two runs, Mazzilli via his first home run of the season.

Two relief pitchers logged their first decisions of the year, Dwight Bernard getting the win and Jon Matlack the loss, but neither was around at the finish.

In all, six pitchers surrendered 25 hits, seven of them for extra bases. Texas is idle until Tuesday, but the Brewers play an exhibition game today against their El Paso farm team.

Women Coal Miners...

Harrassment Suit Breaks Ground

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Darla Baker says she was warned before she started working in the Appalachian coalfields five years ago that she would be harassed by male miners.

Now she says such warnings were understatements.

The warnings started in 1977, when Ms. Baker, then 20 years old, became one of the first female coal miners at Consolidation Coal Co.'s Shoemaker Mine in Wheeling.

"I got laughed at a lot, and the men did anything they could to embarrass me. At that time, the men exposed themselves a lot. They took great delight in that, but they don't do that much anymore," Ms. Baker said.

Ms. Baker, who builds block walls to aid ventilation in the underground mine, said she once was assaulted on the job.

"I was attacked in the mine by a man, and he threatened to rape me. A supervisor and a group of men sat and watched the whole thing," she said.

Ms. Baker is one of eight women who, claiming they have experienced years of sexual harassment in the coal mines, are seeking $5.5 million in damages from Consolidation Coal. The suit was filed June 30, 1981, in U.S. District Court in Wheeling.

James Bordas, the women's lawyer, says depositions in the case are nearly complete and a trial date has been set for Sept. 20.

The catalyst to the suit was the discovery of a peephole in the women's shower room at the Shoemaker Mine, Ms. Baker said. It was poked between tiles in a wall that divided the shower room from a first-aid room accessible only to a handful of supervisors.

The women say officials of Consol, the nation's second-largest coal producer, knew about the peephole, and they allowed it to remain unfilled for more than a year. The suit says men regularly peered through the hole and that the women suffered damages from invasion of privacy.

"The company knew about it and allowed it to go on," said Diane Smith, another plaintiff. "The first time the hole was discovered, we went to a lampman and asked him to fill it in, but it was not done. We stuffed toilet paper in it, but in a few days it was gone."

Graffiti covers the walls of the mine, and Mrs. Smith said the women became increasingly upset when the markings started containing graphic references to them.

"That's when we realized something was going on," Mrs. Smith said. "The graffiti included things done and said that nobody should have heard or seen but people in the shower bank."

Consol officials have repeatedly refused to discuss the case. Spokesman Len Gross said the company won't comment because the suit is pending.

"I can't imagine them settling the case out of court based on their action up until now," said Bordas.

2 Weekend Burglaries Occupy Local Police

Snyder police officers are investigating two burglaries reported over the weekend.

Carl Stweart of 2404 28th St. called police around 12:15 p.m. Saturday and reported the burglary of his residence. Taken in the burglary were a Ruger pistol and a Winchester rifle. The burglary is thought to have occurred sometime Friday night.

The Tiger Drive In on South College Avenue was the victim of an attempted burglary Saturday night. Tony Hayley, manager of the theater, called police around 1:20 p.m. Sunday and told officers that someone had broken into the building at the business and attempted to open the safe.

Entry was apparently gained through a ventilator in the front of the building and the safe had been damaged but the thief was thwarted in his efforts as nothing was reported missing.

One major traffic mishap was reported in the city Saturday night.

According to police reports, a 1978 Pontiac driven by Roy Garza Jasso was in collision with a utility pole in the 3000 block of Avenue L around 11:30 p.m. The Jasso vehicle was reported to have sustained extensive damage in the accident and several homes in the area were left without electricity for a short time after the mishap.

Three other minor accidents filled out the weekend's action for the local police.

The first minor mishap occurred in the 1300 block of 24th St. around 11:50 a.m. Saturday. Involved in the accident were a 1975 Oldsmobile driven by Alma Yruegas Terrazas of 3804 Muriel Drive and a parked 1980 Ford owned by the Highland Pump Co. of Midland.

The 1300 block of 37th St. was the scene of the weekend's second minor mishap around 2:30 p.m. Saturday. Involved in this accident were a 1978 Pontiac driven by Petra Gutierrez of 502 32nd St. and a 1979 Cadillac driven by Lorinza Garcia of 3806 Muriel Drive.

The weekend's third minor accident was reported at 3:10 p.m. Sunday in the 1300 block of 17th St. Involved in this accident were a 1967 Buick driven by Edwin Nelson Stagner of 1312 17th St. and a parked 1979 Datsun owned by Erwin F. Hale of Rt. 1, Snyder. Moderate damage was reported to the Hale vehicle.

No injuries and only minor damages were reported in the rest of the weekend mishaps.

Local police also arrested one man on charges af fleeing from a peace officer and unlawfully carrying a weapon following a short high speed persuit early Monday morning. The subject failed to stop for an officer and fled out the old Lubbock Highway around 12:11 a.m. Monday. Two officers finally stopped the suspect near the pro shop on the grounds of the Snyder Country Club.

May Need Refinement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration may need to refine its plan to require parental notification when minors receive contraceptives so the effort won't place an "undue burden" on clinics, a Department of Health and Human Services official says.

The administration also is prepared to consider whether parental notification should be required for intrauterine devices as well as birth control pills, said Marjory Mecklenberg, assistant HHS secretary for population affairs.

CRMWD Will Be Bond Agent For Two Cities

BIG SPRING—The Colorado River Municipal Water District has agreed to issue more than $45 million in bonds for water and sewer improvements in Midland and Odessa.

Directors executed a contract to issue approximately $20 million in one or more increments on behalf of the City of Midland. These would be backed by revenues if needed and would not constitute a direct obligation of CRMWD. In the case of Odessa, acting city manager Chester Nolen said the total would be an estimted $26 million of which $10 million would be for water treatment plant additions. Four sewer extension and improvement projcts of $4 million each also are contemplated. The CRMWD agreed to be the issuing agency.

In both cases, the cities will save money by not having to provide bond coverage. The fee for issuing the bonds will be one half of one percent, plus a negligible annual charge for payment of bonds, bookkeeping, etc. Midland conceivably could be in position to talk bout issuing bonds by June, although the time table could run as late as August. Odessa's projects have not yet been firmed, although they are fairly clear. The district and Midland will use First Southwest Corp. as fiscal agent.

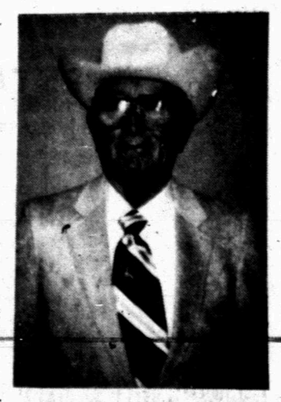

Directors approved $95,000 in capital expenditures, although that much may not be required. They allocated $60,000 from the contingency and improvement fund for a truck tractor and winch for hauling heavy equipment. Another $45,000 was authorized for drilling a replacement well in the Ward County field, but only a fraction of this will be required if an ailing well can be rehabilitated instead.

CRMWD will pay $4,840 for a 4.84 acre tract near the northwest part of Midland on which the district has a pump station. Until now, the land has been leased.

The board adopted a policy of paying major capital equipment purchases or major repairs to capital equipment from the contingency and improvement fund without reimbursing the fund, which is comfortably above the required minimum. In this way, these purchases and repairs will not affect water rate charges as if they were budgetary items.

A request by Sayres Operating Co. to reduce its contract quantity of water from 6,000 bbls. per day to 3,000 bbls. a day was tabled. Transfer of the concession at Fish A Rama at Lake E. V. Spence from Maurice Duncan to J. R. Morgan was approved, as was an easement to Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative for a power line right-of-way in Scurry County. Although premiums may go up about 37 percent, the board decided to continue with Blue Cross-Blue Shield for hospitalization insurance for employees. Only one other bid was received.

O. H. Ivie, general manager, reported that the P-Navajo airplaine, used in weather modification efforts, is getting a new right engine. Robert Moore III, legal counsel, anticipated that a U. S. District Court may rule within a month or so on a motion by SACROC for a summary judgment on a contract interpretation dispute with the district. President P. C. Harbour, Odessa, called a meeting of the long range planning committee for Thursday at 10 a. m. at district headquarters in Big Spring to review unprecedented first quarter demands by cities served by the district.
