Christmas has passed and the new year of 1935 will be here in another day or two.

What the new year has in store for us will depend a great deal upon what we do ourselves. 1934 has been a good year for all of us. Our farmers made the largest cotton crop for many years and received reasonably good prices. Because of acreage controls the cotton crop in 1935 will not be as large as the 1934 crop unless some method is followed to increase the production per acre. That is one thing we need to do—decrease production per acre on all crops.

We can keep our area prosperous by diversifying more. Cows, chickens and hogs on the farm help to make prosperity.

Talk of opening the Lorraine Cooperation as a grade A milk plant—if it materializes—will provide a means of utilizing surplus acres at a very profitable advantage to those who care to milk cows. Young farmers who are just getting started should find this opportunity to get ahead fast.

Best man was Ernest Homer Duesterhoef, brother of the groom, from Lincoln, Nebraska. Groomsman was Johnny Metzinger, of Dallas, Texas. Ushers were Frank Crumb and Leroy Eck of Austin.

Christmas greens, white mums and tall white candleabra were church decorations.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Zuch, 711 E. 43rd St., Austin, sister of the groom. Miss Martha Zuch presided at the guest book. Mrs. Adrian Sebastian poured cranberry punch. Mrs. Cortis Mahoney and Mrs. Robert Battle served wedding cake. Table was laid with lace cloth over red satin. Punch bowl was surrounded by Christmas greens. The three-tiered cake centered the table and was topped by miniature bride and groom.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Henze and children Gloria, William, and Gay Nell, of Brenham; Ernest Duesterhoef, Lincoln, Nebraska; Miss Darlene Schlange, Lincoln, Nebraska; Johnny Metzinger, of Dallas; Mrs. William M. Mahoney of Lorraine; Mr. and Mrs. Cortis Mahoney of Big Spring.

The brides mother wore floor-length, dress of brown tissue faille with lace yoke and brown accessories and white baby orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore teal blue faille floor-length dress, tan accessories and white orchid corsage. Members of the houseparty wore white carnation corsages.

The bride is a graduate of Lorraine High School and from Hardin-Simmons in 1934 with a degree in journalism. She has been employed the last four years in the Registrar's office at the University of Texas.

The couple will leave for California the first of the year where Mr. Duesterhoef will continue his teaching at California Tech, Pasadena, California, while working on his Doctor's degree. He received Master's degree in electrical engineering from the University of Texas in June of 1929.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ray and Billy spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Crownover at Bronte.

U. S. Sailors Play Santa To Greek Kids

Emmett W. Neel, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Neel of Lorraine, who is serving aboard the destroyer USS English in the Mediterranean, may this Christmas change the conception many Greek children have of Santa Claus.

In the future, they will probably envision Santa as an American sailor aboard a warship, instead of the proverbial sleigh. The reason is that plans have been made for the crew of the English to share their Christmas with a group of underprivileged children from Athens, Greece. Their holiday entertainment will consist of a turkey dinner, a program of carols and movie cartoons reflecting the Christmas spirit, capped by a visit from Santa with gifts. Each child will also receive candy and nuts and will be taken on a conducted tour of the ship.

The English is operating in the Mediterranean with the Sixth Task Fleet, under the command of Vice Admiral John J. Ballentine.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Rankin and Willie Mae and Mr. and Mrs. James Miles spent the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Overton at Big Spring.

Guests in the T. J. Newton and Harold Hallmark home on Christmas day were Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Mahon and Douglas of Champion, Mr. and Mrs. Hank Brown and Ronnie of Silverton, Mr. and Mrs. Max Wright and Maxie of Roscoe, and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smalligan and Diana visit in the E. O. Leggett home Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Richey entertained with a dinner party on Christmas Eve. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clark and Judy of Lubbock, Boyd Richey of Colorado City, and Garnett Moore. Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Richey accompanied the Clarks to San Angelo, where they visited in the John Clark home. They also visited with her mother, Mrs. Laura Clark, in Ballinger before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Olan Griffith of Slaton were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bennett during the holidays.

Mrs. L. G. Baker visited during the holidays with her parents in Ranger.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McNally Christmas day were Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Freeman and children and Jack McNally of Odessa.

Fifteen Years Ago

In Lorraine

(Taken from files of the Mitchell County News December 27, 1934)

On Sunday evening, December 23, at 6:30 o'clock, Miss Frances Bennett and Mr. Lewis Wilcox, both of Lorraine, were united in marriage at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church at Denton, Texas. The ring ceremony was read by Rev. J. L. Elliott, pastor of the Denton church, and lifelong friend of the bride.

Gayland Hardin underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Sweetwater Sanitarium Tuesday. Mrs. S. M. Hallmark underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Sweetwater Sanitarium Monday.

There were 10,507 bales of cotton ginned in Mitchell County from the crop of 1934 prior to December 13, 1934, as compared to 19,894 bales ginned to December 13, 1933.

The Way It Can Happen

He took his turn, half-heartedly, out-living an excuse.
He figured he was beaten — so he couldn't see the use.
But when he made his little play, it took a lucky move.
A sudden, unexpected flop — a title-winning curve.
And straightaway they all raved about his "courage" and his "nerve."

He started in with bulldog jaw to make a winning fight.
He started in to see it through—as any stalwart might.
But when he cut in with his play, it took a hard luck bound,
And so they rose and branded him a
"quitter" and a "bound."

Just write this in your little book, all set for early call—
"Dame Fortune is a cockeyed wench who makes or breaks them all."

The Other Side of the Picture

ANY NUMBER of words have been spilled lately about the glory of Notre Dame—the grandeur of Army—the greatness of Oklahoma and the gilded fortune of California.
Here were the centers of all the cheering—the homes of the loud huzzas. We began to look around to find out how the other side lived.

I can remember the day when Harvard, Holy Cross, Colgate
and Indiana were notable football teams. In the reign of Percy Haughton, Harvard was the best team in the country, not even barring the Big Ten,
the far west or the south. You remember—Mahan, Hardwick, Brickley, Bradley, Felton, Casey—on and on.

I recall the year when Andy Kerr and his Colgate squad were the prides of the East—unbeaten—untied—unscored upon. And uninvited. Holy Cross often has been tough competition—especially under the direction of John McEwan, the great Army leader. And it was only a few years ago—short years—when Indiana was the pride and conqueror of the Big Ten—as Bo Mc-Millin and his "po' little Indiana boys" finished far in front.

As I reviewed the record of these four teams for 1949, I recalled certain lines—

"I'll say on this terrestrial ball
Nations and markets rise and fall—
But football wobbles most of all."

The 1949 story of this quartet of teams is sad and somber. I hate to repeat what I found. Harvard, Holy Cross, Colgate and Indiana played 38 games this last fall. Each won a game. They lost 34 and only won four. As a rule they were murdered—wrecked—annihilated.

Now these are not unknown universities. They are quite important universities. Oddly enough, Indiana's only victory was over Pittsburgh, the team that beat Northwestern, conquerors of Michigan.

I might add another great university to this list—Columbia university coached by Lou Little. Columbia lost her last seven games.

I see where Gen. Dwight Eisenhower says Columbia should have a winning team. How can you have a winning football team minus football players? You can't build up a scholarship blockade against good football players, most of whom are not the best students in the world.

The Most Valuable Player

The turmoil and the shouting, one way or another, over the selection of Ted Williams as the most valuable player in the American League for 1949 is fading out. But there is one detail that will be remembered by those conducting this poll—this is the matter of waiting until the two big league races are over.

In this last season the poll was ended with a week left to go.
This was like calling a horse race in the stretch with half a furlong left! It is a very simple matter to wait until the final play is over. When Ted Williams was voted the most valuable player, it looked as if the Red Sox were sure to win.

Up to that point Williams had been a big factor in the pennant race. He was then the leading hitter in the league. He was in front with runs driven in.

The judges who failed to give Eisenhower a vote must have been covering basketball or the races. They certainly saw no ball games or looked at no records. Or they would have selected differently.

Ford Frick, not only president of the National League, but formerly one of the best of all baseball writers, agrees with this idea of postponing the poll thoroughly. "They should wait, of course," he said,
"until the season is over. Suppose we started awarding pennants with five or six games left to play?"

WOMAN'S WORLD

New Bridal Gowns Showing Less Fullness

By Ertta Haley

GIRLS WHO THINK they'd prefer to be June brides instead of January brides simply because the dresses look prettier, should take a look at some of the bridal fashions now being featured! They may find that there's nothing left to be desired in the new gowns, and the fabrics probably have more splendor than summery ones.

She's found the man of her dreams, planned the little home of her dreams, a girl wants the dress of her dreams, be she a winter bride or a summer one. Today's bride just like those of yesteryear pictures herself in creamy white satin with a train. Designers are well aware of this desire, and they have indeed used their best tricks to create gowns to match those of the dream world.

White satin, is of course, the traditional fabric for the girl being married for the first time, but other fabrics vie with it in fashion importance. Even though you may have your heart on the satin, take a look at some of the other luxurious fabrics and their styles if you want to choose the dress of your dreams.

The other materials include white velvet which is soft and shimmering because it's transparent and very queenly. Then there's Bridal gowns show new slenderness.

white brocade for real dramatic pastel. You might even choose satin which is shown mostly in blush pink and ice blue.

Many of the lovely bridal gowns this season combine satin with lace, much of the latter being imported and comparable in exquisiteness with great grandmother's wedding veil.

One fabric may look better on you than the one you've imagined.
The best way to tell is to try on different types, and then decide.

Slenderness of Line

The main impression which the new bridal gowns give is that of youthfulness has been sacrificed. You'll slenderness. This does not mean that be thrilled with the luxury of the gowns, with their opulence of fabric, but the over-all effect will be that of trim lines.

The effect of slenderness is achieved partly by keeping the neckline smooth and giving the skirt restrained fullness with wide un-pressed pleats. Another way in which this is done, is to point or elongate the bodice into the skirt.

In either event, the waistline remains small looking, which should make all the girls happy.

Winter Bride

For the girl being married this season, nothing could be lovelier than this white transparent velvet dress with a pearl beaded yoke by a New York designer. The elegant bodice features a tiny collar and buttons run down the back.
Buckram stiffening at the hips shapes the graceful skirt.

even those who have naturally small waist measurements. The effect is frequently emphasized with a yoked off-shoulder neckline and bertha collars of either fabric or lace.

Some necklines are demurely high, and are finished with little round or rolled collars which are flattering to so many faces.

On some princess style gowns, you'll find what is called a Puritan shaped collar, with a snug bodice buttoned to below the waistline, and the skirt pocketed on each side at the hips. Both the collar and pointed flaps of the pockets are richly embroidered.

Sleeves on the dresses carry out the theme of over-all slenderness.
They are long, slender and pointed and beauty of line.

at the wrists, and help to give the bride a willowy grace she desires when she glides down the aisle.

In one dress seen recently, the white satin is overlaid with delicate white lace in tunic effect, and the sleeves are entirely of lace.
In another semi-formal style, a two-piece floor length dress of white brocade has a short jacket top with tight sleeves stopping below the elbows.

Choose Veil to Fit With Wedding Gown

A question which frequently arises when one chooses a wedding gown is whether the veil or the gown is chosen first. It seems much simpler to pick out a gown first, then to choose the veil.

It is not that the gown is more important than the veil, but it is much easier to choose a veil to go with the gown, than vice-versa.
You may have to try on as many veils as you do gowns before you find one that fits with the gown.

Should you fail to find a veil which fits both your face and gown, the veil and head dress can be made much more simply than the gown.

If you do not trust your own taste in the choice of a head piece, be sure to seek advice. In general, these tips will help. The round faced girl should select a veil which comes to a point, rather than one which gives a round halo effect that merely emphasizes her round contours.

Those with pointed or angular faces will probably do best to choose a veil and head piece which will help give a gentle roundness to the face.

Home-Making Is Great Destiny

DO GIRLS, OR BOYS for that matter, learn anything at college, and if they do not, is it important? My answer to both these questions would be "No."

By "learn anything" I mean, of course, from courses and classes, professors and instructors, and books. I mean learn anything of science, political economy, modern business methods, languages, literature and the cultural arts generally. Of course they don't. They don't go to college to learn anything like that.

Sometimes, in a third or fourth year—much less than half the enrolled students reach, a boy will suddenly awake to the value of a genuine business course, or a girl will discover her coming profession in an advanced course in child psychology.

Why College?

But most youngsters go to college because of the charm and freedom of it, the delightful stretching of young wings, the golden opportunity of meeting friends of their own and the opposite sex. It is all too good to be true; no home restrictions, a smart new wardrobe, the campus, the stadium, the glorious library where they sit dreaming over notebooks they will not only not open next week or in the years to come, but never again in their lives.

After high school—what? Idling about home, wishing something would happen? Taking a kindergarten or nursing course? Not for any girl or boy who can coax Mother and Dad into putting up the required cost of college—preferably a far-away college. If they are living in New Jersey, why not go to California? If they live in Oregon, then it must be Penn or Mass.

College provides four glorious years, and after living myself within a stone's-throw of a great col-

... idling about home ...

lege, in the very shadow of its immemorial oaks, I think it is a good thing for both boys and girls.

Girls who are weak morally and boys who are naturally idle waste-rels don't get much out of decent friendships, freedom, sports, picnics and week-end theatricals and dances, but then they wouldn't anyway, no matter where they were. They would be the village scandals if they stayed at home.

These thoughts are brought to me by an earnest article in a recent issue of Harper's Magazine, whose author is Dr. Mirra Kamarovsky, associate professor of so-ciology at Barnard college. The article is entitled "What Should Colleges Teach Women?" and she quotes a certain convention of educators who recently accused colleges of deprecating marriage as an absorbing vocation.

She also quotes Dr. Mildred Horton, retiring president of Wellesley as "attacking" women's colleges for treating their students as "men in disguise." And she quotes Dr.
Lynn White, of Mills College, as lightly suggesting that a "beginning course" in food preparation might be as "exciting as a course in post-Kantian philosophy."

Learn at Home

The truth behind all this agitation being, of course, that girls from good homes don't come to college to learn that cooking and home-making and child-care are

Be Smart!

Drama with sleeves, drama without sleeves. At the right shantung issued for a casual classic of distinguished design.
Note how pocket flaps and close-fitting cuffs repeat the unusual collar design. The pointed cuffs likewise are used to give emphasis to the new bloused sleeve with flowing fullness below the elbow. At the left, is a look into the resort collections that are just around the fashion corner, a handsome checked linen, played on the diagonal to accent
the magnificent clean-cut lines of the design. Even the absence of sleeves seems to add importance to the impression of line.

TIME MARCHES ON . . . Just
on the off chance that anyone is wondering what a 1901 calendar looked like, here is an example, albeit partially obscured by a young lady in a bathing suit that definitely is not 1901 style. This also might make you think, as the world moves on toward 1950, that it's been a long time since things have been as simple as they were at the beginning of the 20th century.

New Year Is Age-Old Rite

The history of the celebration of New Year's Day takes one far back into antiquity, and encompasses many peoples, lands and customs.
It is only in relatively recent times that the New Year has been ushered in on January 1.

This holiday has been a mobile one and various races have marked it at various seasons. For example, the ancient Persians and Egyptians celebrated New Year's September 22 at the autumnal equinox, while the Greeks did so at the winter solstice on December 21. The vernal equinox, March 22, marked the beginning of the year for the Jews.

The famous Pope Gregory, in 1582, instituted what has since been known as the Gregorian calendar.
Europe during the middle ages had observed New Year's on March 25, but with the advent of Gregory's far-reaching time-recording system of the day adopted for the beginning of a new twelve-months was January 1.

All countries did not adopt the change at once, but the Christian world accepted it generally in 1752 when the British Parliament finally established New Year's Day as January 1.

New Year's customs always have had a joyful theme. Few tears mark the death of the old year.

Future Homes May Fit Mood

Design Held Effective On Human Emotions

CHICAGO — The house of the future may be tailored to fit your emotions.

In addition to seeing that the roof doesn't leak, the builders may also guard against booby traps for emotional complexes.

The new theory is that the house you live in may slowly drive you crazy.

A drive for a "humane approach" to home design and construction has been launched by two Government housing experts.
Leonard G. Haeger, director of the division of standardized building codes and materials, and E. J.
Herringer, a U. S. sanitary engineer, called 24 University of Illinois scientists together to discuss the problem.

"A house must provide for some emotional needs," said Mrs. Harry C. Kehm, director of the association for family living, who participated in the conference.

"It must be a real home, not just a shelter," she said.

Mere size and space are not important in themselves, said Prof.
R. A. Jones of the university's department of architecture.

He said a kitchen may have enough room for the kids to go roller skating and yet some people would be unhappy in it.

"Social well being and mental health are not satisfied by mere material requirements in a house," he said.

In use of radiated heat, for example, the scientists want to find out how it affects humans.

Do heated floors leave the same emotional scar as a "hot foot?"

Does a draft through the living room leave the occupant with a pain in the neck?

Philosophy

A love-smitten youth asked an old-married man for advice on marriage. The old man summed it up this way:

"Love is the star men look up to as they walk along and marriage is the coal-hole they suddenly find themselves floundering in."

Save Money On This Home Mixed Cough Syrup

Big Saving. No Cooking. So Easy.
You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, when you try this splendid recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful for real relief.

Make a syrup with 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) in a quart bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of medicine that will please you by its quick action.
It never spoils, and tastes fine—children love it.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

Adjust Life to 'Second Choice'

By Lawrence Gould

Can you learn to love a "second choice" mate?

Answer: Certainly—in the same way in which you can succeed at a job or occupation that is not the one you would have liked best: by adjusting yourself to it and making the most of the opportunities it offers. For love is not the emotion of a moment and does not depend on finding an ideal partner. It grows out of years of sharing ordinary tasks and pleasures. The one thing that may keep you from learning to love someone who is not your first choice is childish resentment at the fact that you could not get what you wanted.

Is anyone too old for Psychiatry?

Answer: On the whole, No. There are types of psychiatric treatment—especially psychoanalysis—which are likely to be ineffective with elderly people or with "rigid" personalities. But unless you are completely set against accepting new ideas and viewpoints, a psychiatrist can at least help you to achieve new "insights"—to show you, for instance, how to get on better with your family. And of recent years success has been reported even with people who are actually senile by medical-psychiatric treatments like "shock."

Gotham Cabbie Cheers Up Fares With Neat Puns

NEW YORK.—For 29 years now Abe Heller, New York cab driver has been spouting puns for his passengers every time the meter clicks.

In fact, his puns have become a part of his life and of the lives of his passengers, too. He even carries his puns into his home on W. 64th street where he lives surrounded by four radios, a television set, jokebooks and Sam Katz. Sam Katz is his cat.

"I have heard it stated that the pun is the lowest form of humor," Heller said with great dignity. "But don't you believe it. The party who said that was just jealous."

"Say, here's a new one," he cracked, "what chemical do you get from the telephone company? The answer is 'nitrate'. Get the idea? I originate jokes to amuse my fares. Most of them love it. I very seldom get paid off without a tip."

Always Thinking
Stockily built and with the gleaming eye of a punster perpetually thinking up his next horror, Heller announced a standing offer for Miller and Berle and anybody else who fancied himself a fast man with a gag.

"I will wager $1,000 nobody can outpun me," Heller challenged. "Berle says there's nothing new in jokes. Maybe not in his. But get this: A Ubangi dame got fresh with her husband. 'Lissen,' he says, 'don't give me none of your lip.' That's new, that's fresh stuff, it's my own."

Heller, who hacks his own cab nights, said proudly he can drive a passenger from South Ferry to Yonkers and make a pun practically every time the dinger (meter) clicks, without repeating himself.

"I give it to them in continuity," he declared. "Like this: What has Irene Dunne lately? She went to Veronica Lake to be near Dinah Shore where Larry Parks has car, and she wouldn't have gone, only Preston Foster. She's a nice girl who considers Robert Young but not Mature. She don't like fellows with beards and says, 'Isn't Monte Woolley?'"

Comes Puzzle Him
Sam Katz poked his paw at Heller, who spat neatly and went on:

"I can tell pretty fast whether a fare is susceptible to jokes. Sometimes it's like batting your head against a stone wall, so I clam right up."

Passengers entering Heller's chariot have been startled to hear him ask: "Why is the floor of a cab like a restaurant?"

Before they can recover, Heller yaks yaks: "Can't you see it's an auto mat?"

"Professional comedians," Heller said, "puzzle me. They look so sad when they get into my cab, and when I give them a good one, they look sadder."

Heller said his ambition is to write gags—and get paid for them.

"Another fellow and me," he said, "had a chance to get on television, but we got sinus trouble. Nobody would sign us."

Solid Silver Bars Taken From Sunk Spanish Ship
MIAMI, FLA.—The Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., has revealed it has bought one of the ingots of solid silver recovered from a sunken Spanish galleon in the Florida keys.

Dr. Alexander Wetmore, secretary of the institution, said the bar had been bought from Charles M. Brookfield, Florida representative of the National Audubon society, and that it was "more than 200 years old."

The find was made by Arthur McKee, city recreation director of Homestead, Fla., last Memorial day while pursuing his hobby of making underwater pictures.

McKee, who has searched the keys for nine years as a hobby, says the ship was inside the reef and "more than three miles from land."

He would not divulge the exact location but said the wreckage lies in less than 60 feet of water.

"The ship carried at least six guns we can see," McKee said. "It lies in sand with coral grown partially over the wreck."

Patrons Aged 30 'Forgotten' Class Of Movie-Attendants

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.—The forgotten man of the movies is the theatre-goer over 30 years of age. That's the contention of Maxwell Shane, producer, who declares the movie industry will boom when it realizes that fact.

"People over 30," he says, "are finding it more comfortable to sit at home in the evening instead of going to a movie scaled to the mentality of a 15-year old." Shane's observation was made after a survey tour of movie-going habits in 24 states.

"These people of 30 are the customers the movies are losing," he said, "and the ones we have to re-establish in the movie-going habit."

The movie industry can stop worrying about customers under 30, Shane believes. He said he's found they'll go to the movies anyway, regardless of what may be playing.

"Children go to the movies no matter what the picture is," he said. "They just go to the pictures. They like the cowboy pictures, of course, but the fact is they'll go to anything that's playing on the Saturday matinee."

"When they're a little older they go to pictures largely as a social function. They go with their gang or their school club. Hollywood can't lose them."

Shane's next classification of movie-goers is the older juvenile-young adult age.

"They're having dates and they go to the movies because it's a relatively inexpensive place to take a girl and a dark place to hold her hand."

But the folks who are making the dents in the box-office returns, he insists, are the ones over 30 who won't go out to a show unless they're sure it's a good one.

"They are more selective," says Shane, "because they go to fewer shows and also because their taste is more mature."

Glamor Girl Makes Sure Has Job for Real Security

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.—A movie actress, Jacqueline Dalya, who has the big brown eyes of Gene Tierney and the curves of Maria Montez, isn't attempting to rely on glamour alone in making her way in the world. So, she got her job selling brake linings.

Miss Dalya still plays the sultry, come-hither siren of the movies, but as insurance against the day when nobody wants to see her in pictures, she's sales manager of a California auto-parts manufacturing company, with a staff of 20 working for her.

"I've pushed sales up 22 per cent," she says, "and I believe I can increase business by 2 per cent a month for another year."

"I gave up pictures several months to attend strictly to business. Then I suggested to the president that I be sales manager between pictures. He said that I'm doing so well, he doesn't mind at all."

'Dark Horse' Wins Prize At Pancake Eating Test

WINTER, WIS.—Robert Massey, Mindov, a comparative dark horse among pancake eating specialists, won Winter's national pancake eating contest with a meager score of 33.

Veteran observers conceded, however, that the pancakes were larger than in previous contests.

The record holder, William R. Cople of Winter, who downed 69½ pancakes a couple of years back, was not in form and finished a poor third after dropping out on pancake No. 28.

Charles Edwards of Radisson took second place with 30. Oris Hoffman of Exeland, with 23, and Clifford Holmberg of Winter, with 18, finished fourth and fifth.

A number of other aspirants to the title began too fast and fell by the wayside in a welter of syrup and butter.

The contest, an annual affair, is sponsored by the local American Legion post. It was held in the high school gymnasium. In case any of the contestants worked up an appetite, there were plenty of pork sausages and gallons of coffee at hand.

Woman Discovers She Moted Out Punishment in Error

ATLANTA, MICH.—Mrs. Bruce Underhill set an apple pie on her window sill to cool. Shortly afterward she found it had disappeared and spanked her three young sons, Elmer, Leo and Phillip.

Two days later Mrs. Underhill placed a mince pie on the window sill and it also was gone when she looked for it an hour later. This time Mrs. Underhill used an ax handle on Elmer, Leo and Phillip.

When she baked her third pie Mrs. Underhill decided to catch the culprits. She hid in the hay-mow and watched. Just before dark a small bear came out of the woods, grabbed the pie and took off for a feast.

Elmer, Leo and Phillip now attend a weekly movie.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Let Salads Add Color to Meals (See Recipe Below)

Accent on Salads
JUST ABOUT THIS TIME of year, many homemakers get into a rut about their salads. Their excuse is that there aren't enough ingredients to give them any salad inspiration.

To prove they're wrong, and, too, that salads can be colorful and attractive in winter as in summer, here are some excellent recipes that not only are tops in taste appeal but also in appearance.

Now's the time to bring out those interesting molds to see what magical qualities they can yield to mealtime. Now, too, is the time to raid the canning cupboard to see what you can do with summer canning efforts to make menus interesting.

HERE ARE TWO RED salads with frosty white trimmings which will glorify the table and stimulate jaded appetites as well as giving the family their vitamins and minerals the easy way:

- *Molded Tomato Salad (Serves 6-8)
 - 2 cups tomato juice
 - 2 small bay leaves
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - 2 teaspoons lemon juice
 - 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
 - ½ cup cold water
 - 1 cup diced cucumber
 - ½ cup sliced, stuffed olives
 - 2 cups cole slaw

Simmer tomato juice with bay leaves, add seasoning and lemon juice. Add gelatin which has been softened in cold water and stir until gelatin dissolves. Chill mixture until it begins to set, then add cucumber and olives. Fill ring mold and let chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce leaves and fill center with cole slaw.

- Snow Cap Vegetable Salad (Serves 4)
 - 1 3-ounce package cream cheese
 - 3 tablespoons light cream
 - 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
 - 1 envelope plain gelatin
 - 1 12-ounce can mixed vegetable juices
 - ½ cup chopped green pepper
 - ½ cup chopped onion

Combine cheese and cream well, mix in parsley. Put in one large or four small greased salad molds. Place in refrigerator to chill. Soak gelatin in ¼ cup vegetable juices. Add pepper and onion to remaining vegetable juices and bring to a boil. Add gelatin; cool. Pour vegetable juice mixture in mold on top of cheese. Chill in refrigerator four hours or until firm.

- Molded Cranberry Salad (Serves 6)
 - 1 package lemon flavored gelatin dessert
 - 1-½ cups boiling water
 - 2 cups cranberries
 - ½ orange
 - ½ cup sugar
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - ½ cup fruit juice (drained from ground fruit)

Dissolve gelatin dessert in boiling water. Soak together for five minutes the gelatin and cold water. Dissolve in boiling water. Then add lemon juice, sugar and salt. Chill gelatin mixture until it begins to thicken. Then add oranges, bananas, and grapes. Rinse mold with cold water. Pour salad into molds and continue to chill until firmly set. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Folks who like kidneys will like them placed on skewers alternated with whole mushroom caps and squares of bacon. Grill and serve with shoe-string potatoes.

If you add some leftover black coffee to your next baked bean dishes you'll have folks wondering whatever gave the beans such a good flavor!

You won't find this on a reducing diet; but it's good: mix some coconut with vanilla ice and serve scoops of it with a rich chocolate sauce.

ing water. Cool. Grind cranberries and orange, including rind, using fine knife of food chopper. Drain off juice. Add sugar and salt to cranberry mixture. Combine all ingredients and pour into individual molds. Chill in refrigerator until firm.

- Buffet Salad (Serves 8-10)
 - 1-½ cups diced cooked veal
 - 1-½ cups diced cooked ham
 - 2 cups cooked elbow macaroni
 - 1-½ cups chopped celery
 - 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - ½ teaspoon paprika
 - 3 tablespoons minced parsley
 - ½ cup chopped sweet pickles
 - 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
 - ½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Combine diced veal and ham. Rinse macaroni with cold water, drain thoroughly and add to meat. Add all other ingredients, mixing lemon juice with mayonnaise before adding. Mix well but lightly. Chill and serve in individual lettuce cups. Garnish with tomato cut in strips.

- Molded Lemon Salad (Serves 6)
 - 1 cup seedless raisins
 - 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
 - 2 cups hot water
 - 2 tablespoons finely cut green chili pepper
 - ½ cup finely sliced celery
 - 3 slices canned pineapple
 - Lettuce
 - Mayonnaise

Rinse and drain raisins. Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Stir in raisins and chili until thick but not firm. Fold in chili pepper, celery and cubed pineapple. Pour into six individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise.

- Fruited Gelatin (Serves 6)
 - 1 tablespoon gelatin
 - ½ cup cold water
 - 1 cup boiling water
 - ½ cup lemon juice
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - 2 oranges, diced
 - 2 bananas, sliced
 - 1 cup seedless grapes
 - Lettuce
 - Mayonnaise

Soak together for five minutes the gelatin and cold water. Dissolve in boiling water. Then add lemon juice, sugar and salt. Chill gelatin mixture until it begins to thicken. Then add oranges, bananas, and grapes. Rinse mold with cold water. Pour salad into molds and continue to chill until firmly set. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

SCRIPTURE: Acts 1: 1 Peter 2:9-10
DEVOTIONAL READING: John 14:12-20

Praying into Tomorrow

Lesson for January 1, 1950

FOR THE BENEFIT of those who may not be familiar with this column, and perhaps of some who are, a little explanation may be helpful. This column is not expected to take the place of Bible study, nor to be a substitute for the quarterlies and other helps which are furnished by the various denominations. All this column can do is to offer some thoughts which the Lesson Scripture has suggested to the writer.

Reading this Dr. Foreman column will not make a Bible student out of you; only the direct study of the Scriptures can do that. Forty denominations cooperate in this feature. If it helps the reader, we shall all be glad.

Limitations of space keep this from pretending to be anything like a complete analysis of the lesson. For those are not at all familiar with the Bible, it is hoped that this column may arouse interest so that the reader will go and see for himself what the Bible says.

What are Sunday school lessons for? In the words of the 77-year-old International Sunday School Lesson committee, the "ultimate end sought is the acceptance of the Bible as the very Word of God." Practically, this means Bible study which "will help growing persons (who have not stopped growing, we hope!) increasingly to know its content and to understand its message in the light of their own experiences and relationships."

The writer of these lines shares in this purpose and this hope, and wishes you a Happy New Year!

The Early Church Faced Its World

FEW PERSONS in their right minds would want to go back down into their babyhood, yet the first years, indeed the first months, of any one's life are immensely important.

So it is with the Christian church. Few sensible people would want to return to the days of the church's infancy in the first few months and years after Christ's resurrection. And yet that was a vital era. For the Sundays between now and Easter we shall be looking at the early Christian church.

Very early, that is; so early that the name "Christian" was quite new, and even the word "church" was not often used. We shall find that as those untold Christians faced their problems similar to those with which the church of today has to grapple.

How they did it, how they succeeded and how they sometimes failed, is not a mere story of the long-ago, but is valuable as we think about our own times.

Praying Into Tomorrow

THE TEN DAYS between Jesus' ascension and the great event of Pentecost were among the most fateful in all Christian history. The church, if we can call by that name the little group of a few dozen friends of Jesus who lingered together in Jerusalem, did not profess to read the future. But during those ten days of suspense they did three things; they waited, they prepared, they prayed.

They waited because Jesus had told them to wait . . . wait for power, he said. What the power might be like they did not yet know. No doubt some of them had business of one sort or another back in Galilee; but Jesus said, Wait—and so they waited.

They also prepared, by setting apart a witness to take the place of Judas. And above all, they prayed. Tomorrow for them was darkly uncertain, Jesus had dropped hints about persecution; they were not naturally supermen.

Yet in the midst of vague fears, and facing a tomorrow which was one large question-mark, those early Christians—much less well-informed and "worldly-wise" than we—did the wisest thing they could have done: they spent their time in prayer. A praying church is on the way to power.

So as we begin a new year, the best thing Christians can do is not to make all the noise they can, but quietly to wait in God's presence.

NEW RELIEF! For Stuffiness, Coughs of Colds

You know—like millions of others—how wonderfully effective Vicks VapoRub is when you rub it on.

Now...here's amazing, special relief when there's much coughing or stuffiness, that "choked-up" feeling. It's VapoRub in Steam . . . and it brings relief almost instantly!

Put 1 or 2 spoonfuls of VapoRub in a vaporizer or bowl of boiling water. Then—breathe in the soothing, medicated vapors. Every breath eases coughing spasms, makes breathing easier. And to prolong relief—rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back.

Use it in steam . . . Rub it on, too! VICKS VAPORUB IN STEAM

Hadacol Helps Textile Workers Stay On The Job

The great textile mills of the Carolinas are booming again with shifts working day and night to turn out the nation's finest materials, and HADACOL is doing its part to keep folks on the job.

Many textile workers have reported the wonderful relief which has been brought them by HADACOL with its five B vitamins and four important minerals. Two of these workers, a young father employed by the great Cannon Mills at Kannapolis, N. C., and a mother, working at a mill in nearby Salisbury, N. C., recently told how HADACOL had helped keep them on the job.

Jay W. Barnhardt, Route 3, Box 343, Kannapolis, N. C., is 30 years old and the proud father of two children.

His work in the Cannon Mills calls for a great deal of standing up.

"I had been ill for several years," said Mr. Barnhardt as he explained how close he came to having to give up his work. "I suffered with a weak stomach. It became worse and worse with gastric disturbances. I just could not hold food and no food agreed with me. I could not sleep and finally I became so sick that my legs got weak as I worked in the mill each day."

Mr. Barnhardt, like so many sufferers, had tried many preparations without relief, when he heard about HADACOL.

"After the second bottle of HADACOL I began to feel better and to regain the weight I had lost," said Mr. Barnhardt. "My digestion became normal again and today I am as well as ever. My legs no longer bother me. I eat and enjoy my food. I sleep well and have plenty of energy."

Mr. Barnhardt has taken several bottles of HADACOL and now takes the famous vitamin and mineral preparation to help stay well. He has had his wife take it with wonderful results and has recommended it to his friends in the mill.

Mrs. Maggie H. Poole, 1503 Carolina Avenue, in Salisbury, N. C., had become so ill that she was forced to give up her work, but soon after hearing the wonderful news about HADACOL she was back on the job and has been doing swell ever since.

"I was tired, weak and nervous," said Mrs. Poole. "I suffered indigestion and food didn't agree with me. I also had headaches. After taking five bottles of HADACOL I felt good and was back on the job at the mill. I had tried so many things that the HADACOL news was a fairer—Adv."

Questions and Answers

Q. I intend to apply for a GI loan to go into business. Is there any limit to the period in which I must repay such a loan?

A. If your GI loan is a non-real estate business loan, it will have to be repaid in 10 years or less; a real estate business loan may run up to 25 years.

Q. Why do I lose all the money I paid in premiums on my term insurance when I convert to a permanent plan?

A. While your term insurance was in force, you received insurance protection against death at a very low rate for that period. Term insurance was intended to provide no more than that.

Q. I am receiving compensation from VA for a service-connected disability. My dependent parents reside in a foreign country. In event of my death, who should they contact to get the compensation to which they may be entitled?

A. They should contact the U. S. Foreign Service in the country in which they reside. The U. S. Foreign Service cooperates with the VA in the administration of benefits available to veterans, their dependents or beneficiaries in foreign areas.

Q. I was honorably discharged without disability after World War 2 service. Since my discharge, I was partially disabled in an automobile accident which prevents me from holding down a full-time job. Am I entitled to any VA benefit for this disability?

A. No, but if you should become permanently and totally disabled for reasons not traceable to your service in the armed forces, you may be entitled to a pension, providing your income does not exceed $1,000 if you have no dependents, or $2,500 if you are married or have a minor child.

Complete oven meals are efficient time-savers and can include every course from soup to dessert. When cooking your oven meals, use an Oven-Made Vegetable Soup. Most other recipes in the complete oven meal won't take as long as three hours' cooking as does this soup but slide it into the oven ahead of the other dishes. Put 2 lbs. beef knuckle into Dutch oven or tight-lidded pan. Cover with 2 qts. water, set on oven rack, turn thermostat to 350°. Cook for 3 hrs. Then mix in 1 cup cornstarch, 1/2 cup cabbage, 1 cup potatoes, sliced, 1 medium-sized onion, 1 stalk celery, diced, 1 tsp. salt. Cook an additional hour. Note: Tomatoes, turnips or rutabagas may be added to the soup. It may also be cooked over a low flame on the top burner if you're not baking.

Old powder puffs are flexible and soft enough to make excellent silver polishers and for applying cleaner to mirrors.

Added comfort for cold bathrooms is a gas space heater now made in white to match bathroom fixtures.

When a hot dish sticks to oil cloth, pour hot water under it and in a few minutes you can pick up the dish without marring the oil cloth.

An owner's guide is always included with your gas range. It's a good reference for time-saving hints on meal preparation and cooking and simple everyday care.

Equal parts of finely crushed cornstarch and flour will make a crisp crust for fish. Keep the flame turned low because you don't need as high heat to brown the crust.

Laundry bleach whitens kitchen sinks. Pour on the wet porcelain, then rinse well.
