New OPEC Split Is Seen

Constitution Stops House

AUSTIN (AP)--A small hitch--called the Texas Constitution--kept the House from voting today on a public school finance bill.

It will come up at 9 a.m. Thursday for sure.

Speaker Bill Clayton had hoped for a vote on his $950 million version as a substitute for the Senate's bill. But that would have required a four-fifths vote to suspend a constitutional rule.

The $943.5 million Senate bill was read for the first time this morning, and the constitution says each of the three readings of a bill must take place on separate days. So just to take up the bill would have required a four-fifths vote.

Clayton said he still hopes for final passage of the bill Thursday--again requiring a four-fifths vote--so a conference committee can begin negotiating a compromise between the two chambers.

Any chance of the House accepting the Senate's bill? he was asked.

"None," he replied.

Schmidt, Carter Talk

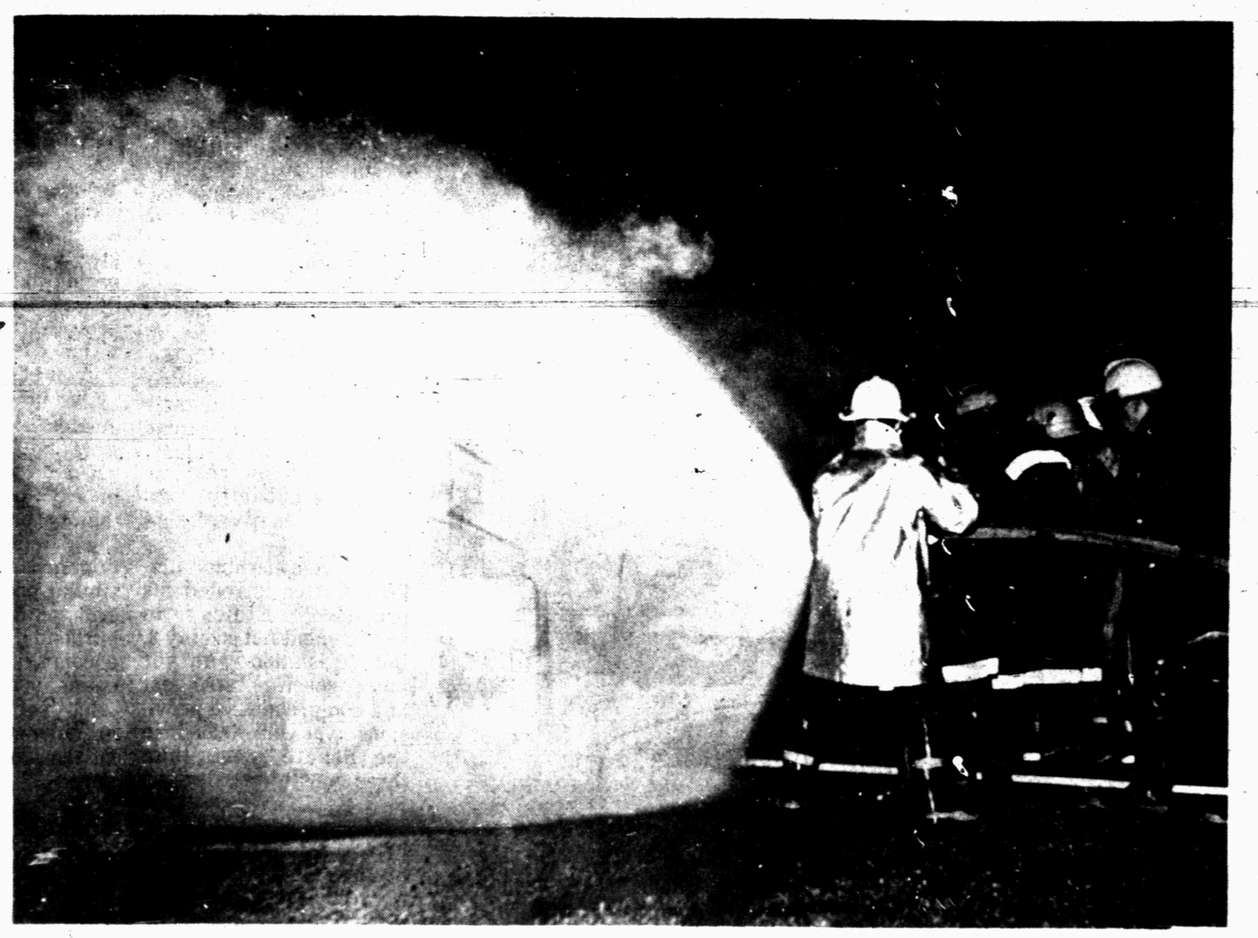

WASHINGTON (AP)-West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, uneasy about accelerating tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union, is beginning two days of talks on the subject with President Carter and other administration officials.

Schmidt was flying to Washington today, with a welcoming ceremony arranged on the White House south lawn.

Yarbrough To Court

AUSTIN (AP)-Associate Texas Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough's lawyer said today he will go to federal court in an effort to stop the legislature from trying his client Friday.

"They're only concerned with whether they've had enough time to prepare for trial. They're giving no time at all for us to get ready," said Waggoner Carr. Carr called it an "rush to judgment," and said, "it's about as bad as anything I've ever been in."

Oil Price Freeze Eyed

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)--Radical states within the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries--OPEC-- said today they would resist any attempts led by Saudi Arabia and Iran to freeze the price of oil in 1978 at current levels.

Libya's oil minister, Ezzedin Mabrouk, said, "There will probably be a new split in the organization if the Saudis maintain this position."

An Algerian spokesman said he felt there must be "Some corrections" on the current $12.70 per barrel price before the end of the year. Algerians reported Venezuela was against a hold on prices, although Venezuela officially declined to comment.

Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the powerful Saudi oil minister and the main proponent of a price freeze, indicated success of his efforts would depend partly on the world economy and progress toward a Middle East peace. The Saudis have often linked moderation of oil prices with progress in the Arab-Israeli dispute.

At a news conference, he praised President Carter for his efforts toward a Mideast peace and his energy conservation program. "Unfortunately the program has not been accepted by Congress. We think it is a step in the right direction," Yamani remarked.

Yamani said he had not discussed the freeze with the OPEC membership. But he told a news conference: "We'll do our best to convince everybody within OPEC" to support it.

The discussion of oil prices, however, was not on the agenda of the two-day meeting, which ended shortly before noon today. OPEC Secretary General Ali Jaidah read a brief final communique which said that an interim committee had been set up to continue discussions on the crude oil price differential issue.

The differential issue is basically an internal matter within the organization and has no effect on petroleum product prices at the consumer level.

Yamani and Interior Minister Jamshid Amouzegar of Iran first raised the possibility of a price freeze during a television interview Tuesday after the opening of a semi-annual OPEC meeting here.

Prison Tense But Calm Today

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)--San Quentin Prison was described as tense but calm today after Black Muslim and Nazi inmates battled with clubs and knives in racial clashes that killed three convicts and injured five in an honor wing.

Prison officials were keeping inmates confined in their cells in a prison-wide lockdown.

When the conflict erupted in an honor wing of the prison on Tuesday, Mike Laxford, acting information officer, said, "The lid's flying off."

The SDN Column

In times past we have commented on the fact that some of the world's greatest bores are persons who have successfully lost weight, quit smoking, or shot an unusually low score on the golf course. These rival fishermen and airplane pilots for tall tales.

We sucessfully quit smoking some 11 years ago and have managed to lose weight from time to time and never failed to take advantage of an opportunity to discuss it. But these are old topics by now.

The newest concerns coffee.

Several days ago there was a story on the news wires about a substantial decline in the consumption of coffee in this country. The story said retail coffee sales had dropped by some 20 per cent in recent months, undoubtedly in response to high prices and the fact that most of us are skeptical about those claims that there really isn't a lot of coffee in Brazil now due to a big frost.

Anyway, about the time this story about coffee drinking declining in this country, we were nipped by the bug that lays a person low for a day or two and not much of anything tastes good, even if you are able to keep it down. During these wretched hours, the mere thought of coffee made things appear worse than they really were. And, even after we decided that we could at least look a glass of orange juice in the face (we're still with you, Anita), coffee didn't have a lot of appeal. So, we make a resolution: One cup of coffee at breakfast and no more each day.

Three weeks have gone by, and despite the fact that we had to fight off the steaming cups of coffee offered by those gracious girls over at the Chamber of Commerce office, we have withstood the test.

Perhaps there is not as much coffee in Brazil as that old song on the subject indicates. Maybe their coffee situation is similar to our oil and gas problem. If so, they should be drinking their own coffee, whatever there is left of it. Like we do without gasoline. We haven't quit using gasoline, and have no intention of doing so until the last drop is gone.--WACIL McNAIR

Tennis Project Gets Boost

Fluvanna Property Sold By Snyder School Board

Disposal of the Fluvanna School property and a compromise decision to get a proposed tennis facility off high center highlighted a regular meeting Tuesday night of the Snyder school board of trustees.

High bidder on the Fluvanna School land and buildings was Fluvanna Coop Gin which submitted a proposal of $26,050. A total of six bids were received.

Following the opening of bids, the board then voted to advertise for sale a residence at the school property site in Fluvanna The residence was not included in the original bid offering.

The Fluvanna school property became part of the Snyder Independent School District when Fluvanna was consolidated with the Snyder system.

Following months of discussion among themselves and with city and county officials, the board voted 4-2 Tuesday night to employ an architect to prepare plans and specifications for a proposed 8-court tennis facility.

The decision to hire an architect came following a motion to hire an inspector to oversee construction. That motion failed 3-4 after trustee Max von Roeder objected that hiring an inspector would be premature since there were presently no plans nor specifications. Bill Clayton, Jerry Rice and Bill Voss voted to hire an inspector to oversee construction while von Roeder, Vera McSpadden, Dillard Teal and Ted Crenwelge defeated the motion.

The motion to hire an architect drew positive votes from Teal, Rice, Voss and McSpadden while von Roeder and Clayton cast no votes.

The school has worked jointly with the city and county governments on a tennis court project that would be financed by the three agencies. The county and city had expressed a desire to hire an architect and the vote Tuesday night removed another obstacle toward construction.

The board meeting generally was routine with trustees, approving on second reading a change in policy and regulations with liberalized the current two-day personal business leave. The amended policy allows

Customer Development Seminar Okayed By CC

Plans for sponsoring a customer development seminar were approved and two committees were appointed last night at the July meeting of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Board of directors.

Dates for the customer development seminar are to be set and more details will be announced later. The seminar will involve three two-hour sessions on consecutive weeks, probably on Monday or Tuesday nights at a maximum cost of $49.50 per person. Joel Comb, representative of Development Training Service, presented the proposal to the board.

Board President Henry Clark appointed a nominating committee composed of John Cameron, Jack Cypert and Ed Thrift. They will submit nominees for four places on the board to be filled at the end of this year.

A budget committee composed of H.W. Cargil, Dorothy Downing and Dr. Jim Tully was appointed.

The board tabled a recommendation for a revaluation of dues to the Chamber, pending further study being made by Dr. Tully.

Roy Kidd, chairman of the 1977 July 4th Celebration, reported that annual event this year was one of the most successful ever held here. He said that funds from tickets sales enabled the celebration to erase a $2,000 deficit from last year and will provide some beginning funds for the 1978 celebration. The board voted to begin the 1978 Independence Day event on Saturday,, July 1, to give the tennis tournament and tractor pull events additional time.

Ralph Miller, head of the National Junior Rodeo Association National Finals Committee, reported that plans for the 1978 event at Scurry County Coliseum on Aug. 9-13 are virtually complete. He said more visitors will be in town for the AJRA National Finals than last year because the organization has more members now.

This is the second year in a row for Snyder to host the AJRA National Finals.

Bids were opened for the sale of a metal building across the street from the Chamber office building. A bid of $327 submitted by Billy Ray Browning was accepted. Bidders were asked to submit proposals on the building, including its removal clearing of the lot. Two other bids were received.

Dr. Ray Moving To Bridgeport

Dr. David Ray, a physician practicing in Snyder since 1975, has announced he will soon be leaving town.

Dr. Ray, a general practitioner, said his last day to receive patients will be Friday, July 15.

A native of Bridgeport, Tex., Ray said he will return there to set up his practice. Accompanying him will be his family.

"Snyder is a fine community and I have been well treated," summed up Ray. "The people of Snyder are friendly and I have encountered no problems," he added.

Citing reasons for his move to Bridgeport, Ray said he hopes to help alleviate a doctor shortage in his home town and be closer to his parents who reside there.

Entries Are Invited To Join Rodeo Parade Here

Plans are underway for the Scurry County Rodeo Parade, to be held at 5 p.m. Wednesday, July 20. The parade is a joint effort of the Scurry County Rodeo Association and the Scurry County Sheriff's Posse.

They are encouraging all clubs and organizations to enter floats to help make this the best rodeo parade ever in Snyder. Four prizes will be given for the best floats. The first prize will be $150, second prize is $100 and third place will walk away with $90. A fourth prize of $60 will be given if there are as many as eight floats.

The prize money is given by the Rodeo Association, and the Scurry County Sheriff's Posse will line up the parade. There is no entry fee. All car agencies and implement houses are urged to participate in the parade also.

Those entering floats are asked to call the rodeo association secretary at 573-0362 or the posse secretary at 573-2816. They will need to give the identification of the float, the name of the organization, the person in charge and an adress so that the prize money might be mailed.

There is no set theme for the floats, but naturally most people think of the western theme for a rodeo parade. Judges will be out of town people. The floats will line up headed toward 26th St. on Ave.Z.

As an added attraction, Miss Denise Fuchshuber, 1977 queen of the American Association of Sheriff Posses and Riding Clubs, will be the honored guest of the Scurry County Sheriff's Posse. Miss Fuchshuber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Fuchshuber, is from Grapevine. The Scurry County's Sheriff's Posse is now selling flags to the businesses. This is the only money making project that they have to cover the costs of their many projects.

promises are easy

James Earl Carter Jr. was elected President by an extremely narrow margin in both popular and electoral votes. Critics of our electoral system are still reminding us how a shift of a few hundred votes here and a thousand or so in some other place would have given the decision to former President Ford.

This leads to the conclusion that promises to make this or that change in conducting the public business probably had a decisive effect on the outcome of the election. One of the more easily understood promises was to do something about simplifying the task of figuring income tax liability. Promises were a trifle vague concerning details but the general impression was that if Mr. Carter should be elected it would be possible for the average citizen to feel reasonably sure after filing his income tax return that an Internal Revenue agent wouldn't show up some day and inform him he was guilty of the crime of tax evasion.

Nobody would be against that kind of relief. No doubt many thousands voted Democratic because they were all for simpler ways of computing income tax liability. Quite likely this one factor influenced a sufficient number of voters to insure victory for the Democratic ticket.

There is no reason to suspect intentions or motives of anybody. A glance at the score card of legislation already passed by Congress will, however, show how far performance is from promises made during the campaign.

In energy legislation alone there are three new types of credits available to individual taxpayers. The number is much larger for business firms and corporations. At least half a dozen modifications or additions are made in the tax code, affecting energy related items. In addition are changes in Social Security taxes occasioned by the increase in Social Security benefits and attempts at elimination of cheating by claimants or employer and employes making contributions to the fund.

A corporation or business firm which can get by without employing additional clerical help to handle the increased record keeping ordered by the present Congress will be fortunate indeed.

These citations show, instead of reducing the size of the army of Federal employes and making things easier for the average individual citizen, the exact opposite result will be achieved. It would be unfair, however, to charge the Carter Administration with bad faith or to imply that matters would have been much different if Gerald Ford had been elected.

There is no way to simultaneously expand the welfare state and reduce the number of Federal employes or the cost of government.

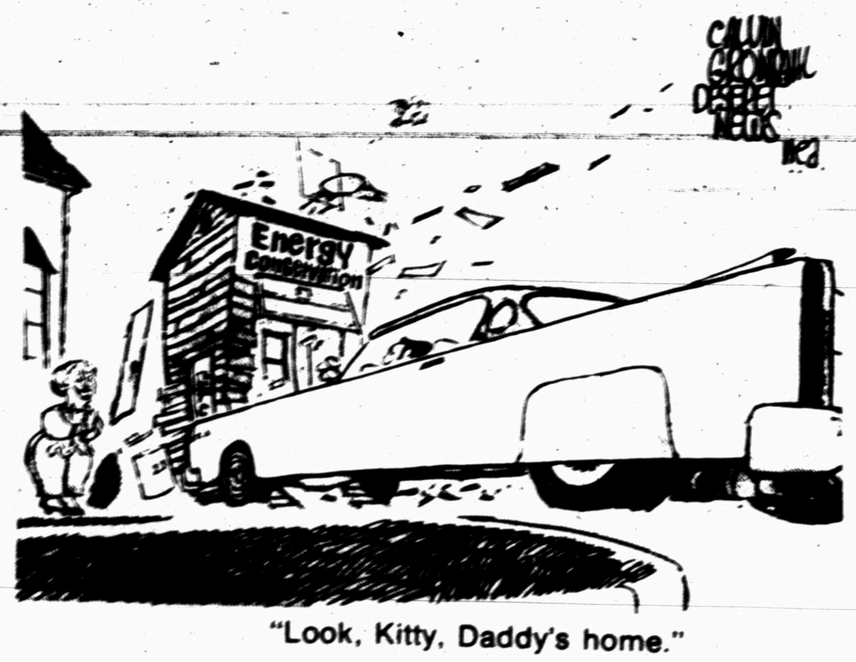

alligator comeback

The alligator is making a comeback in Florida - so much so that "urban alligators" have become a pest problem in communities bordering the Everglades.

Only a couple of decades ago this descendant of the dinosaurs was in danger of being hunted to extinction. Thanks to a federal ban on the sale of alligator hides and products, it has grown to such numbers that last year the Florida Game and Fresh Water Commission received 10,000 complaints of alligators invading residential canals and swimming pools or sunning themselves in backyards.

Fortunately, the alligators are more of a nuisance than a danger, though they can range up to 12 feet in length. There have been few reported attacks on humans (pets and poultry are another matter), and most Floridians welcome their reappearance.

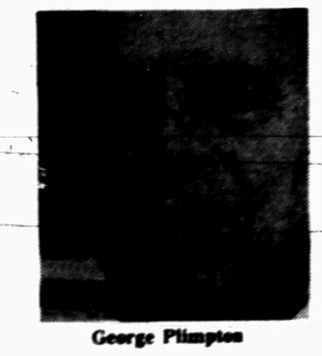

If these lowly reptiles can survive urbanization, maybe we smart mammals can, too.

WASHINGTON (NEA)- President Carter's legal staff is quietly but aggressively working to kill plans to authorize citizen initiated complaints against federal officials believed to be violating the government's proposed new ethics law.

If the White House is successful in its effort, it will have eliminated the only formal procedure available to an individual citizen seeking to present evidence of misconduct, conflict of interest or breach of public trust on the past of a government employee.

With considerable fanfare, Carter unveiled his proposed Ethics in Government Act on May 3. But legislation with far more specific, stringent and comprehensive provisions was introduced in the Senate more than three months earlier, on Feb. 1.

The Senate Bill, the Public Officials Integrity Act, became the focus of attention when the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee began "markup" meetings to perfect the legislation, one week after Carter's announcement.

Both the White House and Senate bills called for the establishment, within the Civil Service Commission, of a new Office of Government Ethics, to administer and monitor the tough new government-wide ethical standards.

But the Senate bill also included specific language establishing a procedure under which a citizen complaint, required to be sworn and in writing, would be referred to the agency for which the accused individual worked.

A preliminary inquiry would be discreetly conducted, with the results reported back to the Office of Government Ethics. That initial inquiry would serve to either screen out frivolous and unwarranted complaints or lead to a fullscale investigation.

Despite those built-in safequards, Robert J. Lipshutz, Counsel to the President, wrote on May 11 to Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate committee, with a strong objection to the citizen complaint procedure:

The following day, May 12, Lipshutz again wrote Ribicoff, specifically calling for elimination of the citizen complaint procedure on the grounds that "The Office of Government Ethics could easily be swamped with allegations of conflicts of interest having little basis in fact and which become a vehicle for the harassment of one individual by another."

According to Ribicoff's staff, the committee planned to retain the citizen complaint provision but it was inadvertently eliminated in the haste of preparing the bill for the full Senate, where it was approved — without the provision — just before the July 4 recess.

Common Cause, which intends to fight for restoration of the provision when the bill is considered in the House, has noted that both the House and the Federal Election Commission have used a similar procedure for several years without overburdening their staffs or encouraging unwarranted complaints.

But perhaps the best argument for restoring the citizen complaint procedure was articulated in a Dec. 12, 1974 speech at the National Press Club here.

"For the long political leaders have been isolated from the people. They have made decisions from an ivory tower," said the speaker that day. "Now it is time for this chasm between the people and government to be bridged and for American citizens to join in shaping our nation's future."

He added: "The root of the problem is not so much that our people have lost confidence in government, but that government has demonstrated time and again its lack of confidence in the people."

That stirring rhetoric on behalf of citizen participation came from a then-obscure politician named Jimmy Carter. The occasion was his declaration of candidacy for the presidency.

new energy headache

Nine years after discovery of the huge oilfield at Prudhoe Bay, oil at last is flowing through the 800-mile trans-Alaska pipeline — and the nation has a brand new energy headache.

The problem is that by Oct. 1 the pipeline will be transporting 1.2 million barrels a day, twice as much as West Coast refineries can absorb. Moreover, no pipeline is ready to move the surplus to the Midwest, where it is much needed.

Clearly, a permanent solution must include a pipeline connecting the West Coast with crude-hungry midcontinent refineries. Until that is done oil industry officials and President Carter's energy advisers have three temporary ways to go, unfortunately none of them attractive.

The choices are to sell unneeded Alaska crude to Japan in return for Middle East oil delivered to the East Coast; to ship it in tankers through the Panama Canal to the Gulf Coast; or to relieve the glut by shutting down the Naval Reserve oilfield at Elk Hills, Calif.

Purely from an economic standpoint, selling some 600,000 barrels a day to Japan makes sense. However, the political and psychological costs would be excessive.

Too many people believe there is no oil shortage and the "crisis" is a ripoff engineered by a greedy industry. Seeing Alaska crude flowing to Japan would reinforce such suspicions and make the public less likely to cooperate in energy conservation.

Also, trading Alaskan for Middle Eastern crude would keep this country highly vulnerable to another oil embargo, hardly a sound policy.

Since supertankers cannot use the Panama Canal, the Alaska surplus would have to move to Gulf ports in small vessels; an expensive and wasteful procedure. However, this probably will turn out to be the least bad temporary measure.

Closing down the Elk Hills would deprive the country of 250,000 barrels a day of domestic production and make us more dependent on the unstable Middle East.

With about a year of work a gas pipeline from Midland, Tex. to Long Beach, Calif. could be "turned around" and converted to carry Alaska crude. That would be an excellent step, since Midland could easily be connected to piplines serving the Midwest.

However, California authorities and environmental radicals are fighting the unloading of tankers at Long Beach on the grounds that it would add to air pollution. The protests are a bit reminiscent of those that delayed the Alaska pipeline for years and helped bloat its cost to $7.7 billion.

Because of what it called "unreasonable" demands from California air-quality officials, Exxon has reluctantly withdrawn from the Long Beach project. It is to be hoped that the Carter administration will not permit this pipeline to fall victim to regulatory sabotage.

The plain truth is that a country which can send a space shuttle flying about piggyback on a 747 has the technology to unload oil safely at Long Beach. Each barrel of Alaska oil used in this country means $14 not sent abroad and that much less leverage by foreign suppliers.

my turn

by jo ann nunley

After so much attention given all the minority and special interest groups, you would think that we have run our course and there just couldn't be another group left. Wrong. There is one more. It's called Lefthanders International with headquarters in Topeka, Kansas, which was formed in 1975.

They claim they no longer want to be left out, left behind, left over or put into left field. It seems their objective is for society to realize that lefthanders have needs and shouldn't be forced to conform to the world of righthanders.

The American Psychological Association and several major universities have done extensive research on hand preference. Among the discoveries are:

-Not only do people favor a particular hand, but favor a left or right eye, ear and foot.

-Lefthanders may have more athletic and creative abilities, but they tend to be more stubborn and impulsive.

-Although it is generally believed that lefthandedness is an inherited characteristic, some experts contend that it can result from brain damage at birth or from social pressures to conform to a right-handed world. The latter is believed to put stress on a person who rejects the message from their brain to favor one side or the other and can result in tendency toward ulcers, high blood pressure and nervous tension.

Because of the new interest in handedness, it is one of the fastest growing areas in psychology.

It is important, it has been found recently, that lefthanders should not be forced into a righthanded system since it is not abnormal. More and more manufacturers are responding to the needs of lefthanded people with articles such as wrist watches, pencil sharpeners, fishing reels, cameras, scissors and other items.

We have one lefthanded family member and when asked if she felt handicapped in any way, she replied, "No, not really, the only awkward thing I can remember is when you bought me those lefthanded scissors I could never use."

She only writes and eats with her left hand and everything else she does righthanded.

businessmen not napping

NEW YORK (AP)-In the two months following Independence Day, when the days are humid and customers are vacationing, the cares of business sometimes take a siesta.

This little midsummer nap of buyer and seller often appears clearly in the mix of retail sales, in the number of corporate announcements, in business decisions postponed, in the pace of stock market activity.

One day this week an oldtime broker on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange was sitting at his post, knees crossed, the daily newspaper crossword puzzle occupying his attention.

A slip of paper was presented to him, perhaps an order, which he accepted without looking up from his puzzle and, without turning, handed back over his shoulder to a clerk. The empty blocks on the puzzle were more important.

But the sometimes dull days of summer do not mean businessmen cease worrying. Not everything is put off until Labor Day. No, they ponder, for example, what is to become of OSHA. And they busy themselves with its paperwork.

OSHA is the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, and according to some of its many critics, it has brought more harassment to business than safety and health to workers.

The Bureau of National Affairs, a private, Washington based group that publishes legal, economic and other information for business, recently conducted a survey of 124 personnel executives to determine the impact of the act.

It concluded from the answers:

"To date, OSHA's impact has been in the costs of protective equipment 'thousands of dollars on guard rails' and in the additional reports and record keeping to conform to government requirements.

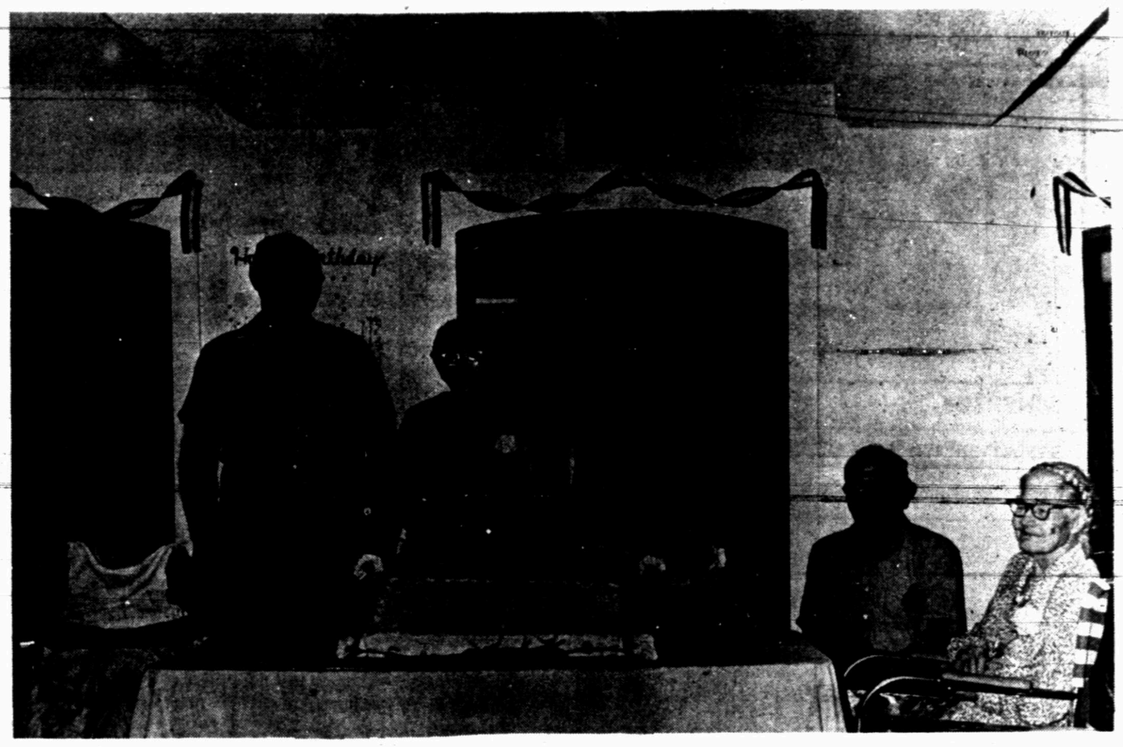

"As far as any noticeable effect on safety performance is concerned, however, less than one quarter of the companies represented...indicate OSHA has had any impact on their safety record."

While laboring over OSHA's paperwork, retailers all across the country are concerned about another puzzle: Just what is the significance to them of all those houses that are being sold?

If you combine the sale of existing homes call them resales if you prefer with those for new homes, you come up with figures that have never been matched.

Grape Treat Times Two

By Ailees Claire
NEA Food Editor

Grapes are refreshing when eaten out-of-hand but also make cooling desserts during summer months.

A grape fool combining rich whipped cream and Thompson seedless grapes is even cool to look at. Another grape treat, a spiced grape compote, is excellent chilled but also may be served warm.

Grape Fool

3 cups Thompson seedless grapes
1/2 cup sugar
Juice of half lemon
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Combine grapes, one-fourth cup of the sugar and lemon juice in saucepan. Cook (covered to steam) over low heat for 5 minutes. Crush grapes slightly. Chill. Just before serving, marble (stir) grape mixture into the whipped cream sweetened with the remaining sugar. Makes 4 to 6 servings. (Note: Cut sugar in half for less sweet dessert.)

Spiced Grape Compote

3 cups grapes
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup orange juice
3 cinnamon sticks

Combine ingredients in saucepan. Cook over low heat for 5 minutes. Serve warm or chilled. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Fluorenscent Bulbs Reduce Fuel Use

Use of electrodeless fluorescent bulbs in homes and businesses could reduce fuel demands for lighting by the equivalent of up to 500,000 barrels of oil a day. These new bulbs will cost about $7 but produce three times as much light per unit of electricity as an incandescent bulb. Manufacturers estimate that a 100-watt bulb used eight hours a day will pay for itself within a year, and the new bulbs will last over two and a half times as long as conventional bulbs.

Opening lead — K♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

You are playing in a tournament and find yourself in a very normal six-spade contract. You are a little disappointed with the dummy. It has a mirror of your own distribution, so you must lose a club and may have to lose a diamond.

In any event you win the club lead, draw trumps, play out the ace, king and queen of hearts and lead your jack of clubs.

West wins with the queen and plays the queen of diamonds!

He has stayed out of the heart and club traps and not given you the ruff and discard youhoped for. He also hasn't led a low diamond. The lead of the queen or jack would have been automatic for most players with just one diamond honor while the lead of the queen would be automatic for any expert who had been dealt queen plus some small diamonds.

If you think that West is an expert you should go up with dummy's ace and finesse against East for the jack because from queen-x-x he had to lead the queen while from queen-jack he might well have led the jack. If you don't think he is an expert let the trick come around to your king and play West for the jack. Or, better yet, take a peek at the East-West cards and see what to do.

Ask the Jacobys

A New York reader wants to know what he should rebid with:

♠ K J x x ♥ x ♦ K x x ♣ A K x x x

He has responded one spade to partner's one heart opening and partner has rebid two hearts.

There is no correct rebid. He should have responded two clubs to start with whereupon he could bid spades next.

Snyderite Grabs Second At Lubbock Dragway

David Shifflett of Snyder drove his 1970 Camero to runner-up honors in Super Eliminator at Lubbock Dragway Saturday night.

Shifflett, who has been racing some four years, took the number two spot in the final round, losing to Lubbock's Truman Rust by .0034 seconds through the quarter mile.

Competition was keen among the 150 area drivers trying for first through fourth place in three brackets to earn points, enabling them to compete for over $10,000 in the National Hot Rod Association's E.T. Racing Championship at Green Valley Raceway near Dallas-Fort Worth this fall.

Fans Vote Carew 'Best AL Player'

NEW YORK (AP) -- Maybe it was Rod Carew's near-.400 batting average. Perhaps the close races in both American League divisions caused it. Or maybe major league baseball is just more popular than ever.

The Minnesota first baseman, having his greatest season in an already-illustrious career, gathered 4,292,740 votes, more than any player in the eight-year history of the fan balloting, according to the final tabulations released Tuesday by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Before this season, just three players had reached the three million mark in selections. The two next highest vote-earners in the AL were catchers Carlton Fisk of Boston with 3,476,028 and Thurman Munson of the Yankees with 3,362,177. Outfielder Carl Yastrzemski of Boston and third baseman George Brett of Kansas City also topped the three million plateau.

Joining Yastrzemski in the starting outfield for the game, which will be played July 19 at Yankee Stadium, are Reggie Jackson of the host team and Richie Zisk of the White Sox, who was elected to the AL squad in his first season in the league.

The Yankee's will have another starter in the AL lineup in second baseman Willie Randolph, an easy winner with 2,846,479 selections to 2,053,642 for Don Money of Milwaukee.

In the closest race in five years, defending league champion New York just missed having another starter at shortstop when Rick Burleson of Boston edged out Bucky Dent of the Yankees by 3,426 votes. It will be the first start in the game for Burleson.

The pitchers and the reserves for the American League team will be announced later this week.

Smith Inks Intent With Westerners

Michael Smith, 6'3" guard from Wilmington, N.C. via the U.S. Army, has signed a letter of intent with Western Texas College.

WTC secured the 180-lb. athlete in a recruiting battle which included Midland and Amarillo colleges.

Described by scouts as an outstanding offensive player and rebounder, Smith's strengths lie in his shooting skill and "outstanding" jumping ability. He averaged 24.7 points per game, 11.7 rebounds and four assists for the Fort Bliss team which competed against small colleges as well as other Armed Forces units.

"Michael is a mature, 21-year old player with great desire and ability. He has a definite defensive weakness he will have to overcome, but he will add depth and maturity to an already strong guard corps," observed WTC men's basketball coach, Nolan Richardson.

Smith will have the task of competing with returning players Doug Worthington and Wayne Jamison and newcomers Joe Mendoza and Dwight Williams for playing time.

Women's Leagues

Twenty walks made the difference in this contest, as the scorebook indicates Martha Braziel gave up no hits to the winning Big Lake squad.

Hitting singles were Jeanette Parker with three; Debbie Johnson, Lori Cunningham and Evelyn Wesley with two each; and Nutt, Braziel, Moffett and Vanessa White with one apiece.

FAST-PITCH TOURNAMENT

Snyder Flames will welcome five North and West Texas women's fast-pitch ball clubs July 15-16 at Winston Field.

Pirates Move On Cub Lead

BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

Jim Fregosi pulled the third-place Pirates within six games of first-place Chicago in the National League East Tuesday with a 12th-inning homer that lifted Pittsburgh to a 5-4 victory over the Montreal Expos.

In addition to Fregosi, Phil Garner homered for Pittsburgh, connecting with one on.

Mets 4, Cubs 2

"It's good to be back on the list of the living," said New York's Jon Matlack after ending a seven-game losing streak with his first victory in two months, against Chicago's Rick Reuschel, the NL's only 12-game winner.

Rookie Steve Henderson's two-run homer - only the fourth off Cubs' relief ace Bruce Sutter in 78 innings - provided the winning margin. Henderson's drive followed a single by Lenny Randle off Reuschel in the eighth.

Phillies 5, Cards 4

Philadelphia rookie Randy Lerch also gained his first victory in two months, allowing nine hits against St. Louis.

He surrendered a two-run homer to Mike Tyson in the ninth inning, tying the score 4-4. But in the bottom of the ninth, the Phils scored the winning run when St. Louis right fielder Roger Freed dropped a fly ball.

Dodgers 8, Astros 0

Los Angeles' Doug Rau spaced four hits for his fifth straight victory and 10th in 11 decisions - the best record in the major leagues - in blanking Houston for his second shutout of the season.

Ted Martinez collected three hits and scored three runs for the Dodgers, who ended a three-game losing streak.

Break Orioles Winning Streak...

Rangers Rob Birds

Rangers 4, Orioles 3

Toby Harrah lined an RBI single in the bottom of the 10th inning to lead Texas over Baltimore reliever Dick Drago, 2-2, came after Bert Campaneris walked and moved to third on a perfectly executed hit-and run play by Juan Beniquez.

The Orioles, who had won 10 of 11 games going into the game, lost a chance to gain first place in the American League East. The victory was the sixth straight for the streaking Rangers.

A's 3, Mariners 2

Winning pitcher Vida Blue, 7-11, fired a seven-hitter.

Angels 3, Twins 0

Nolan Ryan joined teammate Frank Tanana as the American League's only 12-game winners, recording his fourth shutout in pitching California over Minnesota with a four-hitter. Ryan, 12-8, passed Juan Marichal on the all-time strikeout list by fanning eight to boost his career total to 2,307.

Indians 7, Red Sox 1

Andre Thornton's two-run homer by Charlie Spikes lighted a four-run fourth inning that carried Cleveland over Boston.

The Indians raked Boston starter Reggie Cleveland, 7-5, for 10 hits and six runs in 51-3 innings, while Dennis Eckersley picked up his ninth victory against seven losses with relief help from Rick Waits.

Royals 8, White Sox 3

Amos Otis drove in five runs with a two-run homer and bases-loaded triple and John Mayberry hit a towering homer to lead Kansas City over Chicago.

The board also accepted the high bid of $1142.99 from Earl H. Sneed to purchase a wood-frame building to be moved which is presently located at the Northeast Elementary School. Three other bids were received ranging from $367 to $570.

Snyder National Bank also was the successful bidder to become the school's depository for the next two years. A second bid was submitted by West Texas State Bank.

The board also accepted the resignation of three persons and approved the employment of 12 teachers and the reassignment of one.

Resignations were accepted from Kenneth Heronema, industrial arts; Jeannine Rundell, junior high special education; and Sammie Roberson, junior high band director. The reassignment of Jeanelle Hammack to fourth grade at Stanfield also was approved.

New personnel included Anne Adams, Stanfield library; Dale Byrd, junior high science and coach; Inez Dickinson, educational diagnostician; Barbara Dressler, Northeast kindergarten; Sarah Henry, first grade East Elementary; Kay Hensley, first grade North Elementary; Carole Haynes, sixth grade West Elementary; Linda Carol May, junior high special education; Paul Mitchell, junior high social studies and coach; Nona Morrison, high school English; Robin Smith, Central Elementary Music.

A request by instrumental music supervisor Don Eiring that teachers in his department be given a salary adjustment was delayed and will be considered when other salaries are considered.

The board also approved the free and reduced lunch eligibility program for the coming school year. Trustees also voted to subscribe to the Texas Association of School Board Policy Reference Manual services for one year at the initial cost of $575.

The board also authorized the administration to advertise for bids for two pickups, one a crewcab and the other a standard pickup. The board then tentatively set July 26 as the date for a budget study meeting.

The board also approved on first reading a change in salary range for clerical employees. The new policy states that all new clerical aides employed may be classified as Aide I or Aide II depending upon education qualifications.

In administrative reports, Supt. Bill Hood reported that a representative from the Equal Employment Opporuntity Commission will be in Snyder July 18-19 to gather information regarding a charge made against the school by Mrs. Ester Thompson, filed with the commission on May 21, 1976.

The board also was given a letter from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare requesting the school provide information on employment practices relating to male and females.

The letter states that the HEW had received a complaint alleging that the school district "engaged in discriminatory conduct in violation of title IX... specifically, the complaint alleges sex discrimination realting to inequities for male and female coaches in work schedules, salaries, employment and coaching facility arrangements."

The board was not informed who had lodged the complaint, and HEW said that the case did not presently warrant an on-site investigation but merely requested data relating to the charge.

Listing Is A Mystery

ROCKY RIVER, Ohio (AP)—Detectives in this Cleveland suburb have a mystery on their hands: Who gave the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. a listing for a "Burglar Dept."

The listing is the first one under Rocky River in the new Cleveland area telephone directory.

"That's the number for the Detective Bureau," an embarrassed Police Chief Richard Lough said.

He said the telephone company put a new telephone system in City Hall recently and theorized that the listing came from a temporary worker manning the switchboard.

"People are calling from all over to report burglaries," he said.

Andreotti To Visit Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti of Italy will make a two-day official visit to Washington July 26-27, the White House announced Tuesday.

The announcement said Andreotti "will have an opportunity for talks with the President and other United States government officials on an extensive range of issues in the context of the friendship and alliance between Italy and the United States."

Some American Indian "medicine wheels," such as one in Wyoming's Bighorn Mountains that is formed of stones placed in the shape of a 28-spoked wheel, were used as primitive astronomical instruments, researchers believe.

Young Horse Thieves Nabbed

AUSTIN (AP)—It wasn't like the Old West, but six horses were stolen recently.

Austin police announced Tuesday they had the rustlers in hand. One was 15, another 14 and the third was 12 years old.

"I think the 12-year-old was the ringleader," said youth services detective Lt. John Vasquez. "They just like to steal them and ride them."

He said the horses were apparently well-treated and there was no evidence they tried to sell them.

The six horses were found tethered to a 120-foot chain in a dense, overgrown field behind a housing development in east Austin. Buckets of water had been set out for them.

The boys were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Man Charged In Girl's Slaying

LONGVIEW, (AP)—A 25-year-old Longview man was jailed in lieu of $100,000 bond today after being charged with first-degree murder in the beating death of his nine-month-old stepdaughter.

Peace Justice Charles Cashwell accepted the charge and set the bond for Terry Reed, who was arrested Tuesday.

Police picked up Reed after young Rachel Goldstein died in Longview's Good Shepherd hospital. Doctors said she had bruises to the face, head and arms, and cuts on her legs.

ABC Top Last Week

NEW YORK (AP)--ABC won last week's television ratings with five of its programs as the top five prime-time shows, the A.C. Nielsen figures show.

ABC's Sunday movie, "The Scalp-Hunters," was the first among 62 rated programs, according to Nielsen figures made available Tuesday. It was seen in 15.3 million homes.

National averages for the week ending July 10 gave ABC a 13.6 rating, according to Nielsen, which represents 9.7 million households. CBS was second with 12.8, or 9.1 million homes, and NBC had a 12, or 8.5 million.

The top 20 shows in order were:

Economists Question Withdrawal Of Rebate

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The third straight monthly decline in consumer spending is raising new questions about whether the economy faces a substantial slowdown in months ahead.

The decline in consumer spending began in April, the month that President Carter withdrew his proposal for a $50 tax rebate for each American. Carter said the rebate no longer was needed to stimulate the economy.

Some government economists privately say they think withdrawing the rebate plan was a mistake, and that the economy now may be paying the price.

But Maynard Comiez, a leading Commerce Department economist, said it still is too early to say whether the economy is headed for a significant slowdown. He said the Carter administration had expected the economy to grow at a slower rate in the second half of the year than the 7 per cent growth rate in the first.

"A lot of things look more and more like 1976," Comiez admitted, but quickly added, "I'm not saying there's going to be a pause."

In 1976, the economy grew rapidly in the first half of the year, then suddenly ground to a near halt as consumer buying and production slowed and unemployment climbed.

President Carter sounded optimistic about the economic outlook at his news conference Tuesday. "I have been impressed with the long-range trend projections that have been given me...I feel very good about our economy," he said.

The Commerce Department reported Tuesday that retail sales in June totalled $59.233 billion, down very slightly from the May total of $59.247 billion.

While the decline was less than one-tenth of 1 per cent, it followed a decline of three-tenths of 1 per cent in May and one-tenth of 1 per cent in April.

Carter announced on April 14 he was withdrawing the rebate plan. Retail sales had increased sharply in February and March.

Since retail sales figures are not adjusted for inflation, the actual decline in volume of purchases was probably even greater than the dollar decline.

Consumer spending had been the major force behind the economy's recovery from the 1976 slowdown. Unless business investment rallies to pick up the slack, the economy could flounder again, Comiez acknowledged.

"I still think business investment is an open question. It's one of the keys," he said. "I think it's too early to say whether there will be a sharp slowdown."

Budget Director Bert Lance said in an interview last week that the administration would not rule out a new economic stimulus if the economy does enter a new slowdown period, although he added he doesn't think this will happen.

He acknowledged that the several recent adverse economic reports could be interpreted as signalling a possible slowdown. In addition to retail sales, these included the rise in unemployment to 7.1 per cent in June and the first decline in the government's index of leading economic indicators in several months in May.

Georgia was the youngest of the 13 original colonies that took part in the American Revolution, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Accidental Shooting Is Reported

A 29-year-old Snyder man is listed in good condition this morning at Cogdell Memorial Hospital after accidently shooting himself in the foot.

Reports at the police station indicate that Pete Martinez was reputedly attempting to place a .22 caliber pistol inside his boot when the gun discharged, wounding him in the foot. The incident is reported to have occurred about 10 a.m. Tuesday at Martinez's 2700 Ave. G home.

In a separate incident, Junita Cadena told police that a wheelbarrow had been taken from her 1911 23rd St. house sometime between Saturday and Monday. The wheelbarrow is valued at $50, police reports show.

The only traffic accident occurring Tuesday in Snyder took place in the 3700 block of Ave. U.

Accidently slipping into gear, a parked 1974 AMC owned by Sherry Witcher was involved in a collision with a parked 1975 Chevrolet owned by I&R Meter Service. The mishap occurred about 6:49 p.m. yesterday. Only minor damages were reported to the two cars.

Class Action Suit Filed Over Mexican Laborers

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer

BROWNSVILLE (AP)- The Texas Rural Legal Aid has filed a class-action suit in federal court claiming President Jimmy Carter used his political pull to pave the way for Mexican laborers to work in the Presidio Valley of Texas which deprived Texas migrant farmworkers of attainable employment.

U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, Immigration and Naturalizaton Service INS Commissioner Leonel Castillo, INS Duputy Commissioner Mario T. Noto and Griffin and Brand, Inc., a McAllen-based firm which purchased crops in the Presidio Valley, are named as defendants.

The suit was filed Monday afternoon and lists 27 migrant farmworkers and plaintiffs and "at least 250 farmworkers whose contracts were canceled by defendant Griffin and Brand, Inc. as a result of the defendants' unlawful submission and approval of visa petitions for temporary foreign workers."

The suit claims Griffin and Brand, Inc. and the Presidio Valley Farmers Association "conducted an intense campaign to obtain approval of the visa petitions for Mexican labor through Political and extralegal contacts.

"This effort culminated on June 9, 1977, when President Jimmy Carter, at the request of Congressman Richard C. White of Texas, personally contacted Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall. Secretary Marshall then passed the President's wishes onto the Justice Department. On the same day, the visa petitions were granted by INS Acting Commissioner Mario T. Noto."

The suit asks for a preliminary injunction "restraining defendants from approving nonimmigrant visa petitions which have been submitted by an employer where said employer has failed or refused to observe the employment policies of the Department of Labor."

Although the suit acknowledges the government's right to grant temporary work visas to foreign workers after receiving a petition from the prospective employer, the suit maintain this can only be done if domestic workers cannot be found.

"We don't see any reason why farmworkers should be imported especially with the unemployment rate in the Rio Grande Valley," said James Hermann, the Texas Rural Legal Aid attorney who filed the suit. "Our interest is not letting the INS do this again. We'd like to see the government comply with their own regulations."

"It's a harrassment suit, that's all it is," countered McAllen Mayor Othal Brand of Griffin and Brand, Inc. "In this country, anybody can file a suit.

"The small growers in the Presidio Valley were going broke. The weeds were grown up in the fields and the crops were overripe."

Brand added that a "substantial salvage" of the pepper, onion and melon crops was possible "as a result of Commissioner Castillo's decision to permit the entrance of foreign workers."

The McAllen mayor also said he had spoken with the department of Labor and to one of Congressman White's aides on behalf of the Presidio Farmers but "I was only one of 100 voices."

Oscar Spencer, a Presidio area farmer, said earlier that growers needed about 2,000 persons to work the harvests in the area.

Spencer said, "We tried to get some help. We explained our problem to people in Austin and Dallas to make them see that their requirements would not apply here and that we were about to lose our crop because we could not get anyone on this side (Texas) to help."

Spencer also said the workers would be paid $2.20 per hour to harvest canteloupes, one of the most perishable crops grown in the area.

The suit claims the farmers should have been made to pay "the adverse affect wage rate for Texas of $2.83 per hour."

Brother, Sister Arrested

AUSTIN (AP)— Austin police arrested a brother-sister team in less than half an hour after the Travis Bank & Trust Co. was robbed late Tuesday.

Charged with aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon were Barry Lane Bennett, 24, and Bonnie Bennett Hudgins, 22, both of Zachary, La.

Bank officers said a man waved a .32 caliber revolver at bank teller Melissa Casbeer and demanded only $50 and $100 bills. He fled with less than $5,000, they said.

Police said the money was recovered when Bennett was arrested at an apartment in north Austin. He offered no resistance.

Police and FBI said Bennett and his sister had lived in the apartment for about two weeks.

A third person was initially taken into custody but officers said later the man was only visiting the Bennett apartment when Bennett was arrested. The third person was not charged.

Debate Is Deadlocked On Gas Deregulation

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)— The debate over deregulation of natural gas remains deadlocked with both President Carter and congressional supporters of deregulation standing fast in the debate over deregulation's impact on gas consumers.

At his news conference Tuesday, Carter reiterated the administration position that deregulation would cost consumers at least $70 billion by 1985, in return for a negligible amount of additional gas.

The comment came after a reporter asked about a study by three Republican congressmen, who said deregulation would actually save consumers $47 billion because of the "hidden costs" of Carter's plan.

The dispute has been underway since the administration's energy expert, James Schlesinger, unveiled the $70 billion figure last month just before a key subcommittee vote on deregulation.

Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Tex., said the Schlesinger analysis was at least $40 billion in error. He said he told that to Carter in a private meeting two weeks ago, but little ever came of that meeting.

"Clearly, the assumptions in Dr. Schlesinger's paper were erroneous. But the White House has stonewalled it," Krueger said.

Dave Stockman of Michigan, one of the three Republicans who presented the competing, pro-deregulation study, was pleased that it got any reaction at all from the White House.

Stockman said the main goal of the study was to get the proponents of deregulation out of the defensive position Schlesinger put them in. A key House Commerce Committee vote on deregulation is expected this week. It may tell whether the pro-deregulation study has fulfilled its purpose.

All of the estimates published to date differ on numerous details, such as whether gas prices would rise to $2.50 per thousand cubic feet or $3 if they were deregulated. But they all agree that prices would rise.

The main points of contention are whether deregulation, as opposed to Carter's proposed $1.75 price, would result in significantly greater exploration and production of gas. The administration says it would not. The deregulation proponents say it would.

Going on from that premise, the deregulation proponents assign a "hidden cost" to the Carter plan. It is the amount consumers will have to pay for more expensive alternate fuels to replace the natural gas that would be produced under deregulation.

An independent study by the Congressional Budget Office, which Carter cited Tuesday, actually disagreed with both sides. It supported the White House estimates of the amount producers would derive from higher gas prices under deregulation. But it also said that deregulation would be a significant spur to exploration and production, although not as much as the deregulation proponents predict.

The CBO economists also rejected the argument by saying that alternative fuels would not be significantly more expensive than natural gas at the deregulated price.

The exchange with the President was a sign that the White House is not interested in a compromise on the deregulation issue and intends to fight it out on the floor of the House, Krueger said.

Quick Action Predicted On Minimum Hike

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-A key member of Congress is predicting quick action on a proposal to raise the minimum wage by 35 cents following a compromise on the issue between President Carter and organized labor.

The House Educational and Labor Committee will consider the proposal early next week, Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., said Tuesday after meeting with Labor Secretary Ray Marshall.

Perkins, committee chairman, said he expects final congressional action before the August recess.

Officials say an estimated 3.1 million American workers are paid the minimum wage, $2.30. Under the proposal, reached after months of negotiations, their pay would rise to $2.65 an hour on Jan. 1.

Future increases would be tied to the nation's average hourly manufacturing wage. Under the formula, the hourly minimum would go to an estimated $2.89 in January of 1979 and about $3.15 in January of 1980. It would remain at 53 per cent of the manufacturing wage thereafter.

Some issues remain to be worked out, including changes in the current system of permitting restaurants to pay only half the minimum wage since their employes receive considerable extra income from tips.

The compromise on the minimum wage, announced Tuesday by congressional leaders and confirmed by President Carter at his news conference, breaks a months-long impasse and averts what appeared last spring to be a serious showdown in Congress between the new administration and organized labor.

Labor leaders had wanted a $3 hourly minimum to take effect next year with future increases tied to between 55 per cent and 60 per cent of the average blue collar worker's wages. But Carter said he would accept no more than a $2.50 minimum and an indexing set at 50 per cent.

Test Results Due On Judge

BALTIMORE (AP)—Test results were due today on Clement Haynsworth, chief judge of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., who was in stable condition at Johns Hopkins Hospital here after earlier complaining of chest pains and faintness.

Haynsworth, 64, was sitting as part of a three-judge panel at the federal courthouse here Tuesday morning when he became ill.

Dr. Richard Light conducted tests to determine whether the judge had suffered a heart attack.

Haynsworth was nominated for the U.S. Supreme Court by former President Richard Nixon on Aug. 18, 1969. But the Senate rejected the nomination on a 55-45 vote.

Man Teaches Car With Bat

AUSTIN (AP)—Police officer Steve Forman thought he was seeing things when he spotted a man early Tuesday beating on his car with a baseball bat.

"This is my car and it won't start," the motorist explained. "I'm teaching it a lesson."

Forman verified that the man was the registered owner of the battered 1966 model Cutlass, then drove away.

"It's not against the law to beat up your car," the officer concluded in his report.

Causes of enlarged heart

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 64-year-old widow and live alone. The doctor says I have an enlarged heart and he is giving me Hygroton for water.

What causes an enlarged heart? Is there any pain? How large does it get compared to normal size? Can you ever feel it when it gets enlarged? What is the best way to care for an enlarged heart? Is it serious? Does it cause rheumatic fever? Can it be inherited? Does it ever cause heart attacks?

DEAR READER — A normal person who is a vigorous athlete may develop a heart that is somewhat larger than less active people. Why? Because the heart is a storage organ and must store blood inside its chambers before it beats to pump blood with each heart beat. The heart enlarges to accomodate more blood so it can function better in these individuals. In that case it is a sign of health, not disease.

In other instances, and I am certain this is true of your case, the heart enlarges because there is some underlying disease. There are four chambers to the heart and any one or all can be enlarged. If the valve inside the heart between the upper and lower left chambers is faulty the upper chamber (left atrium) may get as large as a wash-tub and may fill a major portion of the chest.

The lower left chamber (left ventricle) is the chamber most often involved in disease. This is the chamber that does all of the heavy pumping of blood to your body and is responsible for your measurable blood pressure in your arm. It can enlarge because of high blood pressure — causing it to overwork — or from a defect in the valve at the outlet of the heart.

Disease of the arteries to the heart muscle, from fatty-cholesterol deposits, may cause diffuse damage of the heart muscle and eventually failure.

What does failure mean? The muscle fibers are like long springs and when they are overstretched the heart fails. It is not as effective in pumping blood as it was. This may lead to the accumulation of fluid. That may be why you are taking a medicine to eliminate fluid from your body.

Enlarged hearts do not cause heart attacks. The disease of the arteries that causes the enlarged heart may. Also a heart attack that weakens the heart muscle may result in failure with heart enlargement.

Nor does an enlarged heart cause rheumatic fever. But damage of heart valves from rheumatic heart disease may overwork the heart and lead to heart enlargement.

An enlarged heart is not inherited as you can see from the list of things I have mentioned that can cause this condition. And surgery is not needed for an enlarged heart itself but if the enlargement is associated with a defective valve then in selected cases it is wise to replace the valve by surgery. This sometimes produces remarkable results for years and may extend life.

The most common cause of death is a heart attack. Everyone should learn what to do if a person has sudden stoppage of the heart. The American Heart Assn. in many areas offers courses to teach you the method. To learn about the method and how it works send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 7-4, Save a Life: Heart and Lung Arrest. Sirhan Wants To Return To Scene---

LOS ANGELES (AP)- Convicted assassin Sirhan B. Sirhan's attorney says his client will seek court permission to return to the Ambassador Hotel where he shot Sen. Robert Kennedy in 1968.

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, who visited Sirhan in Soledad Prison on June 2, said he received the information in a letter from Sirhan's attorney, Godfrey Isaac.

Hahn and another county supervisor visited Sirhan as part of a county investigation to resolve whether Sirhan acted alone in the assassination.

Hahn said Monday that Isaac wants to see if a return to the hotel will jog Sirhan's memory about the shooting. Sirhan's defense at his trial was that he had blanked out and couldn't remember anything about the assassination.

CB Files Help Find Runaways

By Ink Dipper

Well, it was bound to happen. Just a matter of time I guess.

Ole buddy, if you're a runaway father and a CBer, look out. It's 10-10, and out. The Federal Office of Child Support and Enforcement is going to use the Citizens Band license files at the Federal Bureau of Communications to find fathers who haven't been paying up.

According to the agency, they have had about 175,000 requests to locate fathers since the agency was founded in 1970, and they have been successful in 70 per cent of the cases. They think the rate will go higher if they do turn to the CB files.

George Walden, an Eastern Airlines captain, has a CB in his car, but he needed it in his 727 while en route to Daytona Beach the other night.

The circumstances were indeed right for a CBer. He was flying his jet into Daytona when he got a call from the control tower that a small plane had been forced to ditch in a swamp. There were rescue teams out looking for the two occupants but they couldn't get an exact fix on the plane's location. The control tower asked Walden if he could turn on his landing lights and perhaps spot the plane.

Walden advised his passengers about the problem and began circling the area where the small plane was downed. Upon spotting it, he called the control tower to give them the location of the wreckage.

"Our problem was that I had to radio the tower controller, who in turn had to telephone the police station," he said. "Then they relayed my messages to the rescue men in the field. Boy, how I wished for my CB. It would have been so much easier and quicker!"

Walden got the job done, though, and the two occupants got out of the wrecked plane and swamp without getting their feet wet.

Now is certainly a good time to buy a CB unit. Production in Japan was off nearly 50 per cent in March as manufacturers strive for sales and retailers cut prices. A 23-channel unit can be bought for as low as $34.95, and even low end 40-channel units are selling for $59.95 in some places.

This depression has forced manufacturers to seek out better design and engineering for units they are introducing to the market. There is a definite shift to better gear at much better prices, all good for us who love CBing.

Micro processor units, which most of the big suppliers are now manufacturing, are an example of this. There is also a trend toward detachable mikes with the CB module mounted behind the dashboard or in the trunk. This remote control CB unit can gain a lot of steam in the future because of its theft-proof characteristic.

It's an ill-wind for the manufacturers, but this depressed market means that CBers can get better buys than ever before. There is a unit priced now for everyone, no matter his taste or pocketbook.

By the way, the new edition of the FCC's CB rules (stock number 004-000-00342) is available for $1 from the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. The new version is shorter and cheaper than the previous editions. This one omits the rules of the other two personal radio services.

You should get one because the FCC requires CB licensees to have a copy of the current rules with them when using their units.

Bridegroom Prepares Wedding Feast

NARRAGANSETT, R.I. (AP)-When Stephen Bonzagni and Paula Santos, both 25, were married here recently, the groom prepared all the food for the 120 guests at the wedding reception.

Bonzagni, who is supervisor of food preparation for all the eating facilities at the University of Rhode Island, offered a menu of some 20 dishes, including lasagna and beef stroganoff. He spent two days preparing the food in the university's kitchens.

Mrs. Bonzagni, who says she doesn't know how to cook, admits she'll be happy to let her husband continue to do the honors as family chef.

Oklahoma Harvest Is Record

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)-A record Oklahoma wheat crop of 169 million bushels has been harvested and dumped on an already overloaded market, the Oklahoma Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Tuesday.

The harvest easily topped a 1975 record of 160.8 million bushels.

"Wheat prices will remain sluggish for the near future," said Gary N. Mennem, Oklahoma State University extension economist.

Storing the wheat appears to be the best alternative for wheat farmers, Mennem said.

In light of the massive harvest, Oklahoma farmers are beginning to favor placing limits on the acreage devoted to wheat. President Carter has suggested cutting the amount of wheat acreage by 20 per cent.

However, the farmers say they will have to be compensated for being forced to take land out of production.

"If farmers have no compensation, they'll have no profits-and, you can put that in capital letters," said Tonkawa farmer Bob Vincent.

Train Wreck Claims Fourth

LOS ANGELES (AP)-An 8-year-old girl who with three other children walked inexplicably into the path of a train has died after four days in critical condition.

Holly Kline of Cudahy died Monday of head injuries and multiple fractures, said Lee Althar, spokeswoman for St. Francis Hospital in suburban Lynwood.

Killed instantly Thursday were Amanda Lack, 7; her brother Jason, 6; and Holly's sister, Julie, 10.

The children were walking hand-in-hand toward the approaching train in a Union Pacific home yard near Huntington Park when they were hit.

Engineer Larry Van Daele tried to stop the 15-car freight train and blew the loud diesel whistle to warn the children. Brakeman Maurice Dieu jumped from the train and ran towards them shouting and waving his arms. But the children paid no attention, railroad officials said.

Ms. Althar said she had talked to the children's parents, and there was no indication that any of the youngsters was mentally retarded or had a hearing impairment.

Union Pacific spokesman John Forbes said the train was traveling at less than the 20 miles-hour speed limit in the train yard

Kent State Protest Over

By SERGIO LALLI
Associated Press Writer

KENT, Ohio (AP)-The tents are gone. The demonstrators have been fingerprinted, photographed and jailed. The two-month-old protest on Blanket Hill by the May Fourth Coalition is over.

The scene Tuesday when 193 demonstrators were untangled and dragged off to police vans and arrested was drastically different from that of May 4, 1970, when panicky National Guardsmen whirled on an anti-war demonstration and shot and killed four students.

There was little resistance from the protestors, and officers were careful to be gentle.

A deputy who helped make arrests said, "Thank God there was no violence. We kind of had to pry them apart. It was sort of a game, but we have a sense of humor, too."

The dispersion of the Tent City did not end resistance to alteration of the tree-topped hill by a planned $6 million gymnasium annex. The May Fourth Coalition voted Tuesday night to hold more rallies, and some discussed reoccupying the hill.

John Coble, 20, a student at Miami University Mami, Ohio, said he was in junior high school when he saw the television reports of the Kent State shootings.

"It touched me deeply, even at that age," the Toledo native said after he was released from the Portage County Jail.

"To me it was a misuse of government authority and the guilt still hasn't been placed in an official way on anyone. So the only truth of the matter left is the memories and the site itself.

"The site is not a petty or insignificant issue. It's like a great shrine. Like the ones Americans place on famous battlefields. It's like our Gettysburg," he said.

"But here's one of the really instructive things about this whole day. We had just conducted a non-violent protest and yet outside the courthouse I heard two local women say, 'There should be a bullet for every one of them.'"

Among the first arrested Tuesday were the parents of Sandy Lee Scheuer, one of the four students killed. Sarah Scheuer said she decided that morning to be arrested. "I don't want the gym built there," she said after being taken into custody with her husband, Martin.

Dean Kahler, wounded and paralyzed from the waist down in the 1970 shootings, said he also learned how deeply the emotional scars of the past still affect him.

"It was a victory," he said at a coalition meeting after the arrests. "You showed the world you are not afraid to struggle...but I didn't sleep all last night. As you know, I didn't participate in the arrests. I didn't think I could have held up psychologically."

Plate Charge Is Dismissed

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A Superior Court judge dismissed a license plate mutilation charge against a well-read traveling salesman who folded his plate to conceal the slogan, "First in Freedom."

The salesman, Victor Graham Jefferys, 23, of Burlington, said Monday he folded the plate because he didn't think "North Carolina has any monopoly on freedom, no more than the other 49 states."

He told Judge Lacy H. Thornburg he read recently that the U. S. Supreme Court had ruled that states have no authority to require citizens to display slogans or mottoes.

Judge Thornburg agreed, citing the same court opinion. The charge was dismissed after a 20-minute trial.

Texas Nursing Home Situation Is Critical

LUFKIN (AP)— The number of violations of nursing home standards in Texas is much higher than the national average, according to a federal investigator who labels the nursing home situation in Texas as "critical."

A report issued Tuesday by U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin said "The situation in Texas clearly requires ongoing congressional oversight as well as strong and prompt action by appropriate federal and state officials."

The report was prepared by investigator David Holton of the House Select Committee on Aging under orders of committee chairman Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla. The investigation had been requested by Wilson following a series of stories in the Lufkin News about alleged irregularities and violations in Texas nursing home.

The report said the stories published-including reports of unsanitary conditions, starvation diets and neglect by nurses' aides - were "substantially accurate."

"If the enforcement effort in Texas is not massively overhauled, strengthened and made more effective," the report said, "one cannot help but predict that the horror stories like those out of Lufkin will continue."

Investigations showed that Texas is far above the national average in total number of violations. "Standards for dietary sanitation conditions," it said, "were violated in 11 per cent of the U.S. nursing homes. During the same period, 33 per cent of Texas nursing homes violated those standards."

The report blamed the lack of proper supervision on a climate "of bureaucratic jurisdictional disputes and official permissiveness."

The report recommended that Texas designate the Department of Health Resources as the single state agency responsible for certifying and enforcing standards" and asked that the criminal investigation unit of the department be placed under the authority of the attorney general's office.

The state enforcement agency should be able to levy fines "in flexible amounts based on severity and length" for violations of the standards, according to the report.

It also referred to the use of untrained nurse's aides and the "wholesale dumping of patients from mental hospitals into nursing homes."

"The burden to upgrade" the quality of nursing home services now "rests with the Texas Department of Public Welfare," Wilson said.

He referred to reforms already proposed by the state welfare board including a system of financial penalties for poorly operated nursing homes and requirements that police be notified when patient abuse occurs.

Wilson added "If those reforms already are not in force, certainly the federal reports is startling enough to have them put into effect immediately."

Food Suit Of Inmate Dismissed

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)-The food at the Virginia State Penitentiary may not be gourmet cooking, but an inmate who must eat it isn't being subjected to cruel and unusual punishment.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals made that ruling Tuesday as it dismissed a suit filed by an inmate who contended that his constitutional rights were being violated by being forced to eat the food.

State officials acknowledged that there were deficiencies in the penitentiary's food service operation, but they said they had moved to correct them.

The plaintiff, prisoner Russell B. Vinnedge, admitted in his appeal that there were improvements in sanitary conditions. But he said he still didn't like the food.

Ron Palillo Hitchhikes To Theater

LACONIA, N.H. (AP)-Ron Palillo, who portrays the exuberant Horshack in the "Welcome Back Kotter" television series, made an inauspicious entrance in New Hampshire summer stock theater.

He was scheduled to arrive in a seaplane Sunday for a stint at the Lakes Region Playhouse but ended up hitchhiking with two dogs and two co-stars the final 10 miles to Laconia.

Hundreds of fans had been waiting for Palillo to land on Lake Winnipesaukee when his amphibious plane developed engine trouble.

The pilot landed 10 miles short and the Paillo troup decided to fend for themselves.

The pilot, however, repaired the plane quickly and flew on to Laconia. He arrived before the passengers.

Peillo is starring in the Neil Simon comedy, "The Star Spangled Girl."

Seadock Seeking New Shareholders

HOUSTON (AP)— Six remaining members of an oil and petrochemical consortium say the group needs new shareholders or efforts to build a deepwater crude oil unloading terminal for supertankers 25 miles off the Texas coast near Freeport will die.

ATTENDS MEETING—Charles Stenholm, a farmer and rancher from Stamford and a state committee member of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, attended a meeting held here recently in which 11 executive directors of county ASCS offices attended. Roy Hanson, the executive director of the Scurry County ASCS office, said the 39-year-old Stenholm is believed to be the youngest member to ever serve on the state committee.

A spokesman for the group commented Tuesday after Gulf Oil Corp. dropped out of Seadock, Inc., the second oil firm to depart the consortium in two days.

Following an hour-long meeting, the remaining six members said in a statement they "will continue to hold the project together long enough to determine whether or not enough new shareholders can be found to support the venture."

But they added, "Unless we get some new shareholders, however, the project is dead."

Dave Coslett, information officer for Seadock, said the consortium began with three members and reached a peak of 13 member companies in 1974. Since then, he said, seven companies have "gradually dropped out" and no new members have joined.

The three most recent companies to leave constituted the majority shareholders in the operation.

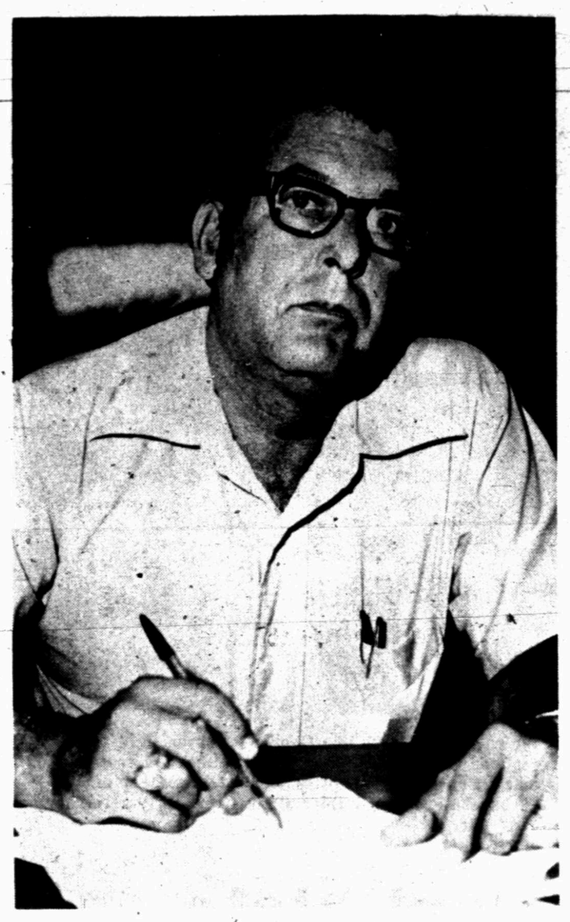

Mobil Oil Co., which pulled out in April, had about 15 per cent interest in the terminal. Exxon Pipeline Co., which dropped out Monday, was the biggest shareholder with about 22 per cent. Gulf's holdings amounted to about 15 per cent, bringing to about 52 per cent of the operation that has dropped out recently.

Gulf Board Chairman Jerry McAfee, in announcing his firm's withdrawal, cited "restrictive government requirements as set forth in the license for Seadock issued by the U.S. Department of Transportation."

He said the license raised serious questions as to the rights of the owners of Seadock to operate and manage the terminal and imposed unprecedented open-ended liabilities on individual shareholders.

The charges by Gulf echoed similar accusations by Exxon officials Monday. However, the Houston Post quoted Department of Transportation officials as saying the department is not considering softening the terms of its permit in the wake of the pullouts.

A spokesman for Shell Oil Co., a member of the consortium, said Exxon's departure alone placed the project in "serious jeopardy."

Past NOW President Hired For Tour

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) —Karen DeCrow, the past president of the National Organization of Women, will be employed by American Express to conduct a 17-day tour of four European countries to show tourists how the role of women in those countries compares with their role in the United States.

"It's the first trip of its kind that I've heard of, and I'm excited about it," Ms. DeCrow said Tuesday.

"It will be an educational trip that I think will be a lot of fun. Let's face it, why do people travel. It's for the fun. The main purpose of the trip is to have fun."

The tour will include visits to Sweden, which is regarded as one of the most advanced societies in women's rights, and Ireland, which is "almost medieval" when it comes to women's role in society; and Denmark, she said.

Rusk Praises Rights Stand

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)— President Carter's strong human rights stand is "very appropriate," but U.S. leaders must remember the importance of relations with the Soviet Union, former Secretary of State Dean Rusk says.

"However deep the differences between us and the Soviet Union on human rights, at the end of the day we have to find ways to inhabit the same speck of the universe at the same time," Rusk said at a question and answer session Monday at the Taft Institute of Government at the University of Georgia.

Rusk said United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young "is going to be a fine ambassador," adding that he believes Young has been baited by the news media.

Many Are Arrested

Police Fence Most Effective

DALLAS (AP)-Got a "hot" 25-pound African lion you need to fence? Don't try Trend Associates as one thief recently did.

The firm went out of business Tuesday with the disclosure that the men operating the going business on an industrial street in the southwestern portion of the city was actually being operated by Dallas police officers and FBI agents.

The officers started a six-month phony fencing operation that has resulted in the recovery of millions of dollars worth of stolen property, including the lion. They put out the word that they were in the business of fencing stolen merchandise and got plenty of business.

So far, more than 25 persons have been arrested and officers indicate that more arrests are coming.

The merchandise recovered includes 75 automobiles, motorcycles, some large tractor-trailer rigs, 110 color television sets, 100 stereo units, 87 rifles, pistols and shotguns, two tractor-trailers loaded with heavy equipment, 500 automobile and truck tires and 280 batteries.

Dallas police chief Don Byrd said officers have been unable to determine where the lion came from.

At a news conference Tuesday after Trend Associates went out of business, Byrd said the operation is a "message to hoodlums and burglars that we intend to arrest them if they are dealing in hot merchandise."

Officers said charges filed so far in connection with the operation include state charges of burglary, theft, robbery and receiving and concealing stolen property. Federal indictments are anticipated for such charges as theft of government property, theft from interstate shipments and federal firearms and postal violations.

Byrd said officers spent about $53,000 purchasing goods, part of a $238,052 grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to finance the operation.

About 65 per cent of the items were stolen in local burglaries, about 30 per cent from out of the Dallas area and a small amount came from out of Texas, officers said.

The operation will result in a slowdown in the stolen property traffic "as soon as we get the people off the streets," Byrd said.

Similar operations involving police officers posing as fences have been carried out earlier this year in Dallas, San Angelo and Washington D.C.

Jail Cells Are Sold

WILLIMANTIC, Conn. (AP)—An antique dealer is buying eight jail cells from this city's old police station and hopes to peddle them for a profit.

William Jordan of Willimantic bid $210 for the units Monday. They were auctioned to make room for offices when the police station is moved to another location.

Six units are enclosed cells with metal ceilings and backs and two just have cell bars.

Jordan says he has two prospective buyers, both in California. One owns a dude ranch and the other is a movie company that would use them for a movie set, he says.

Jordan's was one of only two bids. The other bidder offered $25.

Attack Rabbit Due Counseling

NEW YORK (AP)-Harvey the Attack Rabbit is on his way for a visit to Phoenix and Jo Jo the Mynah Bird isn't going anywhere.

Harvey bit six people and was turned over to the Manhattan branch of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Among Jo Jo's favorite phases is one not suitable for family listening. Officials say Jo Jo's owner thought it was cute at first but then became bored with the repetitious vulgarity.

In both cases, according to the local ASPCA's executive director Duncan Wright, the animals were well cared for physically but "there are other forms of abuse."

Responses to news reports about Harvey included a letter from Pedro the Rabbit in Phoenix, who is owned by a doctor. Pedro, who pointed out in "his" letter that his name is Spanish for Peter, as in Peter Rabbit, told Harvey to pay a visit to his air-conditioned home for some counseling. Pedro claims he's "a well adjusted rabbit," Wright said.

Wright said the rabbit will be sent west for a trial, two-day visit "as soon as it can be scheduled."

Wright has more than a passing interest in getting Harvey on his way since on Saturday, while enjoying a piece of freedom in the executive director's office, Harvey bit a chunk out of Wright's $20 sports shirt.

As for Jo Jo, scores of people have offered to adopt the trashmouthed creature, but Wright said he'll stay with the ASPCA.

"We know how he's being cared for here. If someone else takes him it'll probably be because they think he's cute and then they'll get bored of him just like before," he said.

In an attempt to capitalize on the humorous aspects of the Harvey case, and to raise funds to increase the society's annual $4.5 million budget, "Harvey the Attack Rabbit" T-shirts will go on sale soon at the ASPCA. Kids shirts will sell for $3, adults for $4.

An ASPCA spokeswoman said no decision had been reached on whether to fill requests for autographed photos of Harvey.

Cattle Production Declines

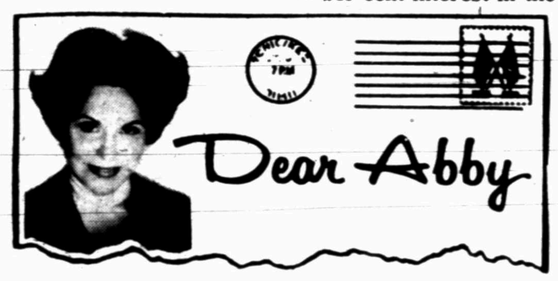

WASHINGTON (AP)— Cattle production has been cut back on a worldwide basis because of sagging beef prices and drought.

The Agriculture Department, in an annual review, says most of the decline has occurred in the big beef producing countries. In the United States, for example, the cattle inventory on Jan. 1 was 199.9 million head, down 4 per cent from Jan. 1, 1976.

In all, cattle inventories in 52 selected countries on Jan. 1 totaled about 715.5 million head, down 1 per cent. It was the second consecutive year of decline for the 52-country cattle herd, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said.

"Drought was important factor in the herd reduction in almost all of the countries showing declines," the agency said.

"In the United States and Canada, where numbers were down 4 per cent in each country during 1976, unfavorable feed-cattle price ratios have been an important factor in a two-year drop in numbers."

Mom Doesn't Want Girls Calling Son

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Please, please print this for me and all the other mothers who have this problem:

What happened to the good old days when the boys chased the girls? I am the mother of a 17-year-old boy, and I am bothered day and sometimes as late as midnight by girls calling my son on the phone. When I say he's not home, they keep calling. Sometimes when I answer they even hang up in my face.

Abby, boys don't like to be called by girls. I know that the girls my son likes best are the ones who never call him.

I have a 14-year-old daughter and if I ever catch her calling a boy I'll tan her hide.

I hope every girl in St. Louis who knows my son reads this!

ST. LOUIS MOM

DEAR MOM: There's no excuse for rudeness on the phone, or calling at unreasonable hours, but please don't spoil it for all the boys in St. Louis. Some boys LIKE girls to call them.

DEAR ABBY: I publish the Towers Club newsletter in which I feature a monthly quote. In searching for a quote I came upon your lifesaving advice in Marquis' WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA. Following your biog-profile were these classic Dear Abby words:

"I have learned the art of enlightened selfishness. If one permits others to waste his time, he will forever be fighting deadlines and working under pressure. When I learned how to say 'no' graciously, life became immeasurably more productive."

After using that quote in my newsletter it occurred to me that you should share that advice with your readers. I'm a faithful reader and I've never seen it in your column.

Thank you, Abby.

JERRY BUCHANAN

DEAR JERRY. Well, now you've seen it. You're welcome, Jerry.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 11 years and have one child, age 9. My husband seems to think all he has to do is pay the bills, go to work, and his obligation as a husband and father is paid in full.

He goes off every weekend and we have no idea where he is. When I ask him, he says it's none of my business. It sounds like he has a woman somewhere.

I went to a marriage counselor and he said, "If you had the trouble most married women have, you'd think you were in heaven. As long as he supports you and your child, doesn't drink, use drugs or hit you, disappearing every weekend is a minor fault. Get yourself a boyfriend, and don't complain."

Abby, I don't want a boyfriend. I want my husband home weekends. Am I expecting too much? I'm 29 and he is 33, and this weekend disappearing act has been going on for nearly three years.

Can you help me?

SICK OF IT

DEAR SICK: First, find yourself another counselor. I see nothing wrong with putting a "full-time husband" high on your list of priorities. Your husband's weekends ARE your business.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

July 14, 1977

A lot of things are in store for you this coming year, especially socially. However, be careful about entering into speculative ventures with people you meet.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) While you're certainly not a loner today, you should choose your company carefully. A pal prone to be silly could do something you'll have to pay for. Having trouble selecting a career? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In family situations today you're better off to go along with what the majority wants to do. Let compassion overrule your logic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep an air of mystery about you if you meet someone new today. If you let her know a little bit, she'll be eager to learn more.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Friends may think an idea of yours is a hare-brained scheme. If you feel strongly about it, go ahead — you could have the last laugh!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) Where others may fail, you have the knack today for adding a little touch to what you do. It could be the factor that spells success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're better off not asking people for favors today. Your needs are already known — they'd rather act of their own volition.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A good friend wants to act in your behalf today, but don't seek her advice unless she's an expert in the field. She could unwittingly steer you wrong.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) An unambitious associate or one whose ideas clash with yours could mar your chances for success today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Praise goes a long way with those working for you today. A few encouraging words will do more good than a bonus.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The end results could be less than satisfactory to you today. You could well make last-minute changes and foul up the detail.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) For some inexplicable reason, you may say something that rattles your mate today. The antidote: A nice, unexpected gesture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might have an idea for a do-it-yourself project today. Study it before beginning, for you could come up with a money-saving method.
