Th zoning bill, said to h been written by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and the addition bill, were introduced by Representative Norman G. Kittrell of Houston by request A large number of representatives from Houston and Dallas and othe Texas cities spoke for the measure The zoning law permits a city gov erning body to regulate the localitie for establishment of industries, resi dences and business districts.

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 29.—Hubert Harrison, secretary-manager of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce here Thursday began work carrying out the commercial organization's program.

He appeared before the senate committee Thursday which is considering the law to permit cities to regulate zoning and erection of business buildings in residence districts. The committee reported the bill favorably. He later appeared before th chouse committee which has up the bill.

Sees Board of Control.

Harrison conferred with the board control on the question of granting authority for construction of a road across a corner of the northwest Texas insane hospital grounds, leading from the city to the new municipal golf grounds, and was assured the board will visit Wichita Falls to look into the matter. The board of control requested an opinion from the attorney general whether or not a bill would be necessary to authorize this road across the state-owned campus.

Harrison is to appear before the house appropriations committee next Thursday to ask appropriations for the new experiment station in Wichita county. He will ask between $40,00 to $50,000. He will go before the senate finance committee on the same question the week following.

Seek A Free Bridge.

In co-operation with county Judge R. D. Sartin of Wichita Falls, Harrison has looked into the question of a free bridge across the Red river, advocated by the commercial organizations of Wichita and Wilbarger counties.

No opposition is expected to the measure enlarging the Wichita Falls independent school district to take in Indian Heights, but if there is a contest the commercial organization will join the author of the bill in urging its passage, Harrison said.

Tax Offices Will Be Open Late Now

Tax payers anxious to settle their taxes with the county and state will be accommodated at the county tax collector's office until 7 o'clock tonight and until midnight Saturday, Guy C. Saturday midnight is the deadline for payments and the office has been virtually swamped all week. Thursday saw waiting lines before each window in Mr. Raley's office; he is confident the same thing will exist today, and Saturday is a day to be likened to December 24 when all the Christmas shoppers try to do a week's work in eight hours.

Woman Burned To Death At Wichita County Farm

Mrs. Vivian Barnett Brushes Past Open Flame In Heater; Igniting Her Clothing; Weakened Condition Prevents Recovery From Burns.

Burns received early Wednesday night when her clothing caught fire from a gas heater in a room at the county farm proved fatal for Mrs. Vivian Barnett, wife of J. H. Barnett, a local produce salesman. The woman died shortly after her screams attracted the attention of inmates of the institution, who called Superintendent Snyder.

The remains were taken to the Merkle undertaking parlors and are being held there pending funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Barnett, who had been in frail health for some time, was taken to the farm late last week and had been there but a few days. She retired about 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, it was reported, and the accident occurred a short time later. No one saw the flames ignite, but it is supposed that in brushing past the open flame in the heater her gown burst into flame.

The burns ordinarily, it was said, might not have been fatal but in Mrs. Barnett's weakened condition the shock was more than she was able to withstand.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Barnett leaves two children, a small daughter and a son about eight years of age.

Far Reaching Possibilities Suggestion To Conservation Body

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A variety of opinions, some of them involving far reaching possibilities, have been forwarded to the new oil conservation board at Washington in response to the board's questionnaire to leading figures in the oil industry. Some of the oil company officials have taken a positive stand against further governmental regulation, while others have suggested that unless the government takes definite corrective steps the country before very long will face a serious oil shortage.

Several large operators have taken occasion to call attention to the preponderance of control exercised by the Standard group of companies over pipe lines and storage facilities, and have suggested further inquiry into the possible effect on prices. Other operatives on the contrary have protested vigorously against any suggestion of price control or monopoly.

Inefficiency Alleged

In some of the replies it is maintained that over production and waste in production processes are subverting the national interest and making for inefficiency within the industry. Exactly the opposite view is taken by other of the oil men criticized by the board.

BRIEF IS PREPARED

Committee To Accept It As Basis For Plans On Jim's Amnesty

By W. BOYD GATEWOOD
Record News Staff at Austin

Copyright, 1925, By the Newspaper Publishing Company; Not Permissible of Republication in Wichita Falls

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 29.—The same supreme court decision which upheld James E. Ferguson's impeachment and disqualification may yet prove the keystone upon which the thirty-ninth legislature will support its right to grant him amnesty or pardon.

That such a unique situation may result from the Ferguson vindication tangle was learned today when it became known that the senate committee studying "vindication" procedure will be competently advised that the legislature's right to absolve Ferguson is inherent and incontestable.

Brief Is Prepared

A brief setting forth an entirely new contention for the powers of the legislature in impeachment matters, including amnesty and pardon, has been prepared by S. C. Padelford of Fort Worth, who is regarded as an authority on constitutional law.

Another brief setting up the rights of the legislature has been drawn by Ocie Speer, also of Fort Worth, who was of Ferguson's counsel in the recent celebrated Ferguson vs. Maddox litigation which finally drove "Ma" to the stump and into the state house, batting for Jim. Both briefs probably will be submitted to the senate "vindication" committee, and it is creditably forecast in well informed circles that the Padelford brief will prove the basis upon which the committee will rest its expected recommendation for the amnesty law procedure which was exclusively explained in these columns Wednesday.

Claims Legislative Right

In lay language, Padelford's contention is that the common law or the laws of parliament gives the leg-

HE COMPLAINS OF NOSEBLEED DURING GRIND

Droning of Motor Worst Enemy of Endurance King's Contest Here

40 HOURS TO GO

100 Hour Driving Period Not to Expire Until 4:30 p. m. Saturday

The little game being played on the streets of Wichita Falls, wherein endurance and grit are pitted against the body's demand for rest and sleep, has now reached its serious side. The initial freshness and vigor have passed, and the physical strain is telling on "Daredevil Lockwood."

With sixty hours of his 100-hour non-stop drive behind him, Lockwood, when interviewed last night, refused to admit that he felt anything more serious than a great fatigue and weariness, but his appearance belied his extreme confidence. With swollen eyes, lips and face, and his shackled arm practically paralized from its confined position, the "Daredevil" smiled occasionally and said he felt "good". He suffers from frequent bleedings of the nose, but said that he did not feel weak at any time. A medical examination last night revealed that Lockwood's heart action was somewhat irregular and that his respiration was below normal. But his condition was said not to be any less satisfactory than could be expected at this stage of the run.

More Tired at Dawn.

Lockwood felt more tired at dawn yesterday morning than he did last night, he said. It is during the early morning hours, when there is no excitement or distraction from the droning of the motor and the faint clinking of the handcuff chains, that the utter monotony of the never ending motion becomes sickening, he said, and there is a secret long ing that the car will stop.

But the Daredevil is entering the home stretch and is looking with tireless toward the goal which he is confident he will reach at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when his run will be completed in front of the Zale Jewelery company, Eighth and Ohio.

Lockwood again yesterday visited surrounding cities and towns besides making himself a more familiar sight on the streets of Wichita Falls. Large crowds regularly awaited the "Daredevil's" coming in Iowa Park, Electra and Burkburnett.

The following merchants are interested in Daredevil Lockwood's endurance run.

Fire Sweeps Away Roof of Scott Home

Starting near the rear of the building from some undetermined cause, fire at 1 o'clock Friday morning swept away the roof of the J. A. Scott home, 510 Lamar avenue, and for a few minutes threatened to set the roof of an adjoining home ablaze.

They gave an alarm and ne ors and passers-by succeeded in carrying most of the furniture from the building. Firemen subdued the blaze before it could eat into the walls. The roof, however, will have to be entirely rebuilt. Some damage will probably result from the large amount of water poured on the blazing shingles.

The loss could not be ascertained at an early hour this morning but firemen estimated that it would run less than $1,000.

A Famous Man

The originator of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood, as well as the "Favorite Prescription" for women, was Dr. Ray V. Pierce, a practicing physician in Western Pennsylvania right after the Civil War. He early moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established The Invalids' Hotel, then he put up his home remedies in the World's Dispensary, where they were carefully prepared from roots, barks and herbs, and placed them with druggists all over the United States.

For over half a century, Dr. Pierce's Discovery, for the blood, has been sold in larger quantities by druggists all over the United States than any other medicine. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a tonic in its effect on the stomach and digestive apparatus; an alterative in its action on the blood, liver and skin. It increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood, clears the skin of eruptions and blemishes, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young and care free.

Just Think Of A Rose Cocktail Of Shrimp And Asparagus Tips Dished Up To You In The Form Of Rosebuds

How About a Circle of Toast Points Spinach-Centered With Roses?

Friday, 2:30 o'clock.

The breadmaking program scheduled by Mrs. Chitwood for the closing event of The Record News Cooking School at the Kemp hotel, promises to be one of the most interesting. The food expert promises to teach her audience a biscuit recipie that is guaranteed to be a success. Five different kinds of tea biscuits will be taught, and all bread problems of every sort will be discussed.

A rose luncheon, dainty and romantic enough to be served as the first meal in the love nest, beautiful enough to grace the one occasion in the bride's life, proved easy enough to Wichita Falls housewives yesterday that even a bride's inexperienced fingers need not dread its preparation.

From the rose cocktail of shrimp and asparagus tips arranged in the form of rosebuds, to the black coffee topped with a whipped cream rose which marked the fifth and closing course, the rose luncheon was demonstrated at The Record News cooking school by Mrs. Ida Chitwood, director, Thursday afternoon to a packed audience of eager women, notebooks in hand, who jotted down important points in the lecture, copied the recipes for the attractive menu, noted the various decorations, and left the ball room firmly resolved to go home and try their hand at preparing the inexpensive but beautiful menu.

Lettuce soup with cheese noodles cut in rosebud shape and topped with a cheese rose, formed the second course of the menu.

The luncheon plate for the main course contained a ring of spinach centered with a rose made of hard-boiled egg white rings sprinkled with the powdered yolk. A circle of toast points made rose petals around the spinach center. Cut lemon, tinted red with Gebhardt's Chili powder, and green with chopped parsley served as decoration, as did radish roses. Calf brains a la king in a Swedish timbale case was set on a rosette ring around which were five mashed potato roses made with a party bag. A sliced circle of fruit gelatine salad topped with whipped cream roses completed the main course.

Individual cake, iced with white and decorated with trailing vines, green leaves, wild roses and rose buds completed the fourth course.

Black coffee, percolated according to Mrs. Chitwood's explanation, being started in cold instead of hot water to improve the flavor, formed the delightful climax to the unique luncheon.

All dishes, as prepared were explained in detail by Mrs. Chitwood and special emphasis was laid upon the correct process of performing a supposedly simple task—mashing potatoes.

"Correctly mashed potatoes should be as white as the driven snow, and quite as soft. If you housewives will drop the potatoes, cubed about the size of a lemon, into boiling water, lower the heat until they simmer steadily but gentl, drain them through a seive, and then press them through the seive with a wooden spoon and set aside carefully they will dry and cool for a while; when you beat them, they will be airy and fluffy instead of soggy and steamy," Mrs. Chitwood told her audience.

"Then, as the potatoes have become cold, place them in a hot oven and the air that you have beaten into them will expand, making the potatoes more fluffy than ever, and quite appetising.

Full instructions were given for the mixing of the batter for the Swedish timbale cases, and the method of frying with the rosette and timbale irons was demonstrated. As with the decorating done throughout the courses on the various dishes, Mrs. Chitwood made it clear to her class that all work was very simply done, and within the ability of any average housewife.

"All materials for this luncheon may be procured right here in your own grocery stores. I have used nothing elaborate or imported which you women cannot find right here in Wichita Falls, and the entire luncheon is practical and inexpensive.

"The glassware and chinaware of rich quality which you see used on the luncheon tray are from Maxwell Hardware company," stated Mrs. Chitwood as she tapped a water tumbler with a wooden spoon to show its durability and its clear ring. "The store handles 45 varieties of fine china and 25 varieties of glassware, all in complete lines, and all pieces are goods of quality."

Praising highly the Hoosier kitchen cabinet, the two side units and the tables, which came from McConnell's furniture store, Mrs. Chitwood demonstrated to her audience, expressing her preference for the many excellent features which she pointed out. Workmanship and materials, she stated, were of the very finest, insuring lasting equipment, and moveable equipment which lacked the disadvantages of built in features in a home.

Constitution Of Texas Makes No Pardon Possible

In Case of Impeachment Door to Vindication Was Not Left Open

WRITTEN IN 1876

At Present Senate Has No Power, Under Constitution, To Grant Vindication

EDITOR'S NOTE: "This is the second of a series of articles by Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald attempting to put before the reader in plain language the complicated tangle now before the legislature of the attempt under way to restore farmer Jim Ferguson to citizenship. The Record News believes that this series of five short articles will cover the ground so that its readers can more easily be able to follow the daily news dispatches. After finishing this series, Mr. Fitzgerald will take up the question of taxation, the second issue of interest before the legislature.

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Record News Staff.

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 29.—"Shall the citizenship rights of James E. Ferguson be restored? If so, how?"

This is the text as was outlined in an introductory or foreword to the series dealing with the all absorbing subject of James E. Ferguson and his past and his present and his future. Now that the main issue is the paramount issue before the law makers and the suffragists the men and women voters of the state, what will be the developments, the line of procedure adopted by the champions of vindication and what will the final harvest be for the main figure of the story or the leading man of the human drama.

Texas has a constitution. It was made by the fathers, or rather the sons of the fathers, in the year 1876, not many years after the close of the war between the states.

This venerable document points the way for the courts and the law makers to travel. It also points the way for the law makers to proceed, as a high court of impeachment, for the trial of a chief executive or governor who has been accused of high crimes or misdemeanors violative of his oath of office.

And the constitution made by the sons of the fathers almost half a century ago failed to provide for a rehearing or a reopening in or of the case of an official convicted and disqualified and ousted from the position to which the people have elected him.

These constitution makers failed to make provision for a rehearing of an appeal and they did not vest in the senate of a Texas legislature the power to grant a pardon to a supplicant for either justice or mercy regardless of the development in after years concerning the convicted and ousted servant of the people, or exonerating circumstances if they should come to the surface in the flight of years, or in response to a new born ideal or theory of correct public policy, or the mellowing influence of a merciful people after the stormy period of passion and prejudice and their deadly fires or gasses had been extinguished or had evaporated.

Like the laws of the Medes and the Persians, the sons of the fathers who made the constitution of 1876 unconsciously created a document or constitution for legislative guidance that seemingly closed the door of hope on an unfortunate impeached and ousted from office, made him a man without a country and placed high above the portals of the hallroom of the high impeachment court, "He who enters here leaves hope behind" if conviction follows.

The third of this series dealing with this sensational subject of the hour will be given space at an early date for the readers of this newspaper.

Two Briefs Filed In "Vindication" Case

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Two briefs have already been filed with the James E. Ferguson impeachment bar removal senate committee according to announcement today of Senator Lloyd E. Price of Daingerfield, chairman.

They were offered by Joe L. Hill of San Antonio and S. C. Padelford, a lawyer of Fort Worth. Their contents were not disclosed. Because most of the members of the committee were attending a meeting of the senate insurance committee, no meeting of the Ferguson committee was held today. Senator Price said he would probably call it together tomorrow, when it would be organized and a plan for conducting the hearing agreed upon.

The committee, including Senator Price, is composed of Senators J. Roy Hardin of Kaufman; Gus. Russek of Schulenberg, Walter C. Woodward of Coleman and Pierce B. Ward of Cleburne.

Senator Hardin is the author of a senate resolution offered last week, which would commit the senate to take some action covering Mr. Ferguson's case. Senator Price is the author of the resolution under which the committee is acting. It merely would take steps to learn the legal way in which Mr. Ferguson could be restored to his political rights.

Various unofficial plans have been discussed ranging from the necessity of a constitutional amendment to the passage of a bill by the legislature.

RATIFICATION DEFEATED

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 29.—The house of the Washington legislature today defeated 67 to 30 a resolution to ratify a child labor amendment.

WOMEN WORKERS.

According to recent census figures there are more than one million women engaged as farmers in the United States, approximately twenty per cent of whom are owners and managers of their own farms, specializing in dairying, truck gardening, poultry, fruit, flowers or bees.

While nearly two million women are engaged in business, the survey finds only two per cent are owners, managers, officers, foremen and overseers. This is laid to the prejudice against giving woman administrative experience, and to woman's too frequent temporary attitude toward business.

In the field of library work it is noted that eighty-eight per cent of the total number of librarians in the United States are women and that while most of the highest administrative positions in large library systems are filled by men, this is one profession where women have a practically equal chance for progress on merit.

Significant for women is the fact that with the exception of a few obdurate outposts most professional schools are open to women on equal terms with men. Later along in the month in Texas the state board of education will be dominated by women. There are three members of the board and the new governor and the new secretary of state will be all powerful.

This should give the schools of the commonwealth an inning. There are many women farmers in Texas, one in Ellis county who is more successful than most men farmers in that banner cotton producing county of the world.

ELECTRIC RAILROAD LINES.

George McQuaid, Texas newspaper writer has the figures to show that the electric railroad lines have laid in America, tracks enough to circle the earth nearly twice, or 44,000 miles. They serve a population of approximately 50 million or about half of the population of the United States. They have carried passengers in one year equal in number to 160 times the population of America, or 16 billion. Money invested in these lines totals $5,590,300,000, and they employ 340,000 people. There are 6,544 electric plants producing electric energy. This republic has expanded a bit since the early Texans made their declaration of independence from Mexico.

WEEKLY LETTER.

Dear Girls:

Recently a great many of my readers have written in, asking me why I discontinued my weekly letters. I had thought perhaps you had rather read my articles, than an account of my activities in New York, but if you really enjoy this, here goes.

Have any of you ever been to a night club—of which New York is supposed to have the smartest and most attractive collection? I went to one just last night.

It's really quite a thrill dressing up in your very nicest evening clothes—in my case they consist of a white chiffon velvet dress with a rhinestone buckle at the side, white satin slippers with rhinestone heels, and a rhinestone bandeau for my hair—having some nice man send you flowers to go with your dress—white orchids for me—and sailing forth to any one of the newest and gayest places New York has to offer.

At S——'s which is the very newest club in town, all the smart people foregather to dance and eat after the theatre. As you enter the small reception room a fragrance greets you—a fragrance compounded of all the rarest and most expensive perfumes—the scents of the flowers which the women wear—just a nice expensive fragrance it is.

You're taken upstairs in a small lift, along with several other pleasure-seekers who eye you with well-bred indifference, and discuss with each other the possibility of getting a table—for even reservations are useless at a brand new place.

Then the lift comes to a stop, you walk through a small foyer, and stop at the doorway to revel in the loveliness of the scene before you. A long low room stretches before you, rose lights everywhere, sparkling glass on white linen.

At the far end of the room an orchestra is beating out the most marvelous dance music ever heard in this world—soft colorous blues that simply make you ache to dance.

On the floor a few couples are dancing—for it is early yet—and the gold and silver of the women's dresses stand out against the severe black and white of the men's dinner clothes. Everyone looks well-fed and happy.

Cushioned seats line the wall, and on these you will find always the youngest couples in the room for the canny head waiter doesn't think it worth while to give the young boys, who are probably out on father's allowance, the tables right next to the dance floor. These are reserved for the red-faced old gentleman who strut in looking expensive but puffy, and settle down puffing and blowing, so that they entirely obstruct your view of the dance floor.

Presently the steady after-theatre stream of guests arrive, and the odor of Welsh-rarebit begins to fill the air. It seems to be a well-established rule in New York that if you are hungry after the theatre, you eat a Welsh-rarebit.

All the flappers and their escorts dance every dance, and sip gingerales in between dances. The boys are determined to get their money's worth—and gingerale is positively the cheapest thing you can buy at any of these places. The older people take their time about dancing, and eat a good deal.

Presently the lights go out, a spotlight flashes on and two of the world's best dancers come gliding out to give us all a treat by showing us dancing as it should be done. The people are very enthusiastic about this, calling for more and yet more—but the dancers, being wise and well-paid ask us to come back another night—more money for them and less work.

Suddenly it is three o'clock and we should have been home long ago. The check is called for and paid—I always avert my eyes so as not to see the tragedy—and then we are homeward bound. A lovely time was had by

Yours,

With love,

MIMI.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE ONLY WAY OUT

No wonder the royal and bachelor Bulgar
Is seeking a princess allover the lot,
For though he's not war-like or savage or vulgar—
And his habits are settled, his country's are not.
It is true that at present no war drum is sounding
Throughout all his majesty's peaceful domain,
But there's trouble enough in the nations surrounding,
To promise the prince quite a turbulent reign.

With the Turk on the one hand, the Serb on the other,
And the Bolshevik wolf leering in at the door,
Not to mention the gentle Roumanian brother
Who isn't at home when he isn't at war;
One is not surprised that no royal young maiden
Has jumped at his highness's hand and his heart,
For the skies of the Balkans with portents are laden
And no one is certain when something will start.

The average princess, we fancy, would rather—
No matter how much she may yearn for a crown—
Sit safe in the palace with mother and father,
At least till the Balkans have got settled down,
And since as far back as our reading's extended,
They've skirmished and battled there early and late,
And on war for their very existence depended,
We judge that the prince will have quite a long wait.

Perhaps some fine day when at last he is weary
Of keeping a desolate bachelor's hall,
And vainly cries "Say there!" or "Wifie!" or "Dearie!"
With never a helpmeet to answer his call,
He will throw up his job and go out and get married,
Not quite as poisonous as snow,"
As he would if his luckless lot were our own,
For a bachelor's life is but dreary and arid,
And a wife is worth many times more than a throne!

GOMPERS.

Samuel Gompers was the president of the American Federation of Labor.

He recently died, and his death was the occasion of a great display of public appreciation.

He was born in England in 1850. He was a cigar maker by trade, and one of the founders of the American Federation of Labor in 1886. For the thirty-eighth time he had just been elected to its presidency at the convention held at El Paso, Texas.

The rise of this English Jewish boy to a position of great prominence in the world is significant apart from whether one believes in his ideas or not. No one but a man who is really great could make such a rise and achieve the commanding position he occupied in the last forty-three years of his life.

He was opposed to strikes, and avoided them whenever he could do so wisely.

He was a conservative in his unbending adherence to trade unionism pure and simple. He was usually understood as being opposed to all sorts of radicalism.

It was largely through his efforts that the American Federation of Labor has replaced the Knights of Labor, which now is only a memory.

He succeeded in getting many laws passed by congress and state legislatures for the betterment of labor conditions.

He held to the very last his authority over his organization.

He had no idea as to what would be the permanent settlement of the labor question. He accepted things as he found them—that there was an eternal conflict between capital and labor, and he was on the side of the laboring man.

Once, when Morrison, his lieutenant was asked: "What are you going to do with all this growing power of organized labor? To what ultimate end are you working?" he replied: "God only knows; I don't."

Gompers never made any attempt to lead men any further than they could see. He never lost himself in economic speculation. He was essentially a craftsman, for he took things as he found them and worked for immediate results.

All his career he opposed communism and bolshevism. He also opposed the institution of labor banks and the ownership of productive enterprise by labor. He was opposed to prohibition, and worked actually against the adoption of the Volstead law.

Opinion as to the value of his character and work will be divided. But there is no difference of opinion as to the essential greatness of the man.

On the whole, he was a sane, conservative and constructive labor leader, and his place will be a very hard one to fill.

It is significant that the man who thus united behind himself the majority of the labor forces was an American. He was an Englishman and a Jew.

What Today Means To You

Until midday, only routine matters and the daily round of duties should receive your attention, as the planetary aspects are adverse—very distinctly so—to anything new or untried. In the afternoon, however, the conditions reveal a very marked change, and that which was impolitic or inexpedient before, is now desirable and of good augur. Any plan that you have delayed putting into execution, especially if along commercial or mechanical lines, can now be launched with every assurance of ultimate success. It is also an excellent opportunity, if you desire it, of putting your fate to the test, and finding out from the one you care for most if your love be reciprocated, and the signs still futher indicate that marriages made at this time will be unusually productive of happiness and contentment.

A child born today will be normally healthy and practically immune from infantile sickness. Especial vigilance must be exercised later on in order to guard it against accidents, as, given its robust condition, it will be more than ordinarily disposed to take chances, that one, not so healthy, would avoid. Its disposition will be of the "happy-go-lucky" variety, hardships and even privation will not disturb it sequanimity, nor will luxury or ease give it a "swollen head." Its great ambition will be to travel, and it promises, at all times, to be a "rolling stone." If its affections should become involved early in life, it should be encouraged to marry, as this will do more to stabilize its actions than either advice or good counsel.

If today is your birthday, you are very conservative, a little too prudish, and not quite as human as others would like you to be. You take life too seriously, and do not get out of it the pleasure that it affords to all those who know how to live. Your friends are few, as the majority of your associates do not look beneath the surface to uncover your many good and valuable traits, and, by your demeanor, rather look upon you as a "prig."

In your affections, you expect too much from the partner of your joys and sorrows, and this creates a critical atmosphere that does not breed either happiness or contentment. Making mountains out of molehills is a hopeless task, and, if you really want to secure peace of mind, the human microscopic habits must be discarded. A little toleration, and a little more expansion, is all that you need to change your view of life.

Nine Times Out of Ten!

Cross-Word Puzzle

GARDNER No. 13

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE.

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may of course begin both a horizontal and a vertical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it will read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions.

GLEANINGS

FROM THE BOOK OF LIFE

IN REFERENCE TO PERSONAL LIBERTY.

There is a class of people who, whenever they see any good to be done, or evil to be remedied, would willingly instigate the government to undertake the business; while there is another class that prefers to bear almost any amount of social evil, rather than add one to the departments of human interests amenable to governmental control. And men range themselves on one or the other side in any particular case, according to this general direction of their sentiments; or according to the degree of interest which they feel in the particular thing which it is proposed that the government should do; or according to the belief they entertain that the government would, or would not, do it in the manner they prefer. But they very rarely do so on account of any opinion to which they consistently adhere, as to what things are fit to be done by the government, whether it be liquor prohibition, or child labor regulation, or control of navigable rivers.

In consequence of this absence of rule or principle, it is apparent that one side is at present as often wrong as the other; and the interference of government is, with about equal frequency, improperly invoked and improperly condemned.

John Stuart Mill expounded the principle that the sole end for which mankind is warranted, individually or collectively, in interfering with the liberty of action of any of his number, is self-protection.

"The only purpose for which power can be rightfully exercised over any member of a civilized community, against his will, is to prevent harm to others," he held.

"His own good, either physical or moral, is not a sufficient warrant.

"He cannot be rightfully compelled to do or forebear because it will be better for him to do so, because it will make him happier, because, in the opinions of others, to do so would be wise, or even right. These are good reasons for remonstrating with him, or reasoning with him, or persuading him, or entreating him, but not for compelling him or otherwise. To do that, the conduct from which it is desired to deter him must be calculated to produce evil to someone else.

"The only part of conduct of any one, for which he is amenable to society, is that which concerns others. In the part which merely concerns himself, his independence is, of right, absolute.

"Over himself, over his body and mind, the individual is sovereign."

It is hardly necessary to say that this doctrine is meant to apply only to mature human beings. Those who are still in a state to require being taken care of by others, must be protected against their own actions as well as against external injury.

MATTERS OF HEALTH

Wingless traveler of the night,
Curse thy voracious appetite,
Lead me now, Oh, kindly light—
To crush 'im.

The deliberate exposure of one's children to such diseases as measles, whooping cough and chicken pox, "to have it over with," simply displays a lack of knowledge regarding the dangers of these diseases.

Oh, the coal we would save,
And the "dough" we would save,
If we'd moisten the air of our rooms;
The microbes would scamper
If we'd turn off the damper
And stop using obsolete brooms.

Overweight is often an inherited tendency that must be combated, for such tendency is also associated with a tendency toward Bright's Disease, high blood pressure and other undesirable physical disqualifications.

I've heard it said often
By those who are wise,
That the more a man eats
The faster he dies.

Who controls his appetite controls his destiny.

In the matrimonial drama the bride is often a leading lady.

The surgeon who is a golf enthusiast often makes a hole in one.

French prevention of disease—
That beats treatment — if you please;
A lot of stuff that's fed the victim
Does not agree with Nature's dictum.

While silence is golden it isn't accepted in payment of unpaid bills.

If you're not interested in clean milk for your baby you're not posted on dirty milk.

Page the Fairest Damsel In Texas for Cuban Trip With Senorita Ferguson

By MARGARET STALLINGS
Record News Staff

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 29.—Just about the time that the feminine portion of the state is getting used to the idea of a woman governor and a woman secretary of state they are confronted with another surprise—and this time it's to be in the nature of an open competition—the selection of the "most beautiful young lady of Texas state" who is to accompany Miss Dorrace Ferguson, young daughter of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, governor of Texas, as her maid of honor when she attends the carnival at Havana, Cuba, the second week in March as guests of the people of that republic.

Will it be golden hair and blue eyes or black hair and dark eyes—the Texas college girl or a young business woman—a society favorite or the out-of-doors type whose photograph will appeal to the committee of Cubans who will pick the "beauty" to accompany Miss Ferguson.

Laughs About It.

While Dorrace finds time to laugh about the trip and to make her plans the rest of the young women of the state will be calling the most exclusive photographers for "poses" with which they will hope to make an impression on the judges.

"I think I appreciate the invitation so much that I'm really not getting much of a thrill out of it" is the way Dorrace looks at her part of the trip to Cuba.

"Sister—Mrs. George S. Nalle, will go with us as chaperone and I am looking forward to the trip with much pleasure—I have never been to Cuba but I have always heard that it is a wonderful place and I know that I shall enjoy every minute of the week that we spend there.

"They have asked me to make out a list of my friends in the various cities of the state, who will be asked to enter the contest, but the whole trip is such a surprise to me that I haven't had time to submit any names and I really find it hard to think of girls all over the state."

Plans of the contest will permit any young lady of "representative family" to enter the contest, a candidate being selected from each city in the state, her photographs numbered and sent to Cuba where the committee in charge of the Plaza hotel will select the winner.

"It's a Lot of Fun.

"I always get a lot of fun out of things" was the further statement made by Miss Ferguson, "but I never was able to get much of what people call 'a thrill' out of anything—I like to plan for things but I never did like to hunt for 'thrills'—so this trip to Cuba is really going to be a "looking forward" to the good times that they have planned for our party."

The party from Texas will be guests of the Cubans at the Plaza hotel for the second week of March and numerous brilliant social affairs have been planned for them, including a reception at the Plaza hotel, a visit to the president and to the governor and mayor of Havana, a visit to the Casino and drives through Havana and visits to the various pleasure resorts of Cuba where the party will be guests of honor.

And with all these things in store for her the young "first lady" of Texas finds her days too busy with the duties of the mansion to get much of a "thrill" from the cablegram of invitation.

"It will be lots of fun" she declares—and goes about her business as mistress of the mansion in a calm manner—but of course she is "anxious to know who the other young lady is to be"—and so will the rest of the state.

Irrigation

Practically the entire western half of the United States is classed as arid or semi-arid as Dr. Youngblood pointed out in his talk before the chamber of commerce. He said that less than 25 per cent of this area is subject to irrigation and that less than one-third of these irrigable lands were now irrigated.

There are so many irrigation projects both government and private and one hears of so many plans to irrigate additional areas that sometimes you get the impression that irrigated lands are plentiful. This is wrong. Irrigated lands are now and always will be comparatively rare. The state of Iowa alone has far more land in cultivation than is now irrigated or will ever be irrigated in the whole United States.

Dr. Youngblood says "The irrigated farms of our country will, for all future time be our best assurance of an adequate supply of feed and food stuffs in times of shortage and will lend stability to our civilization as nothing else will."

The rarity of a valuable thing has much to do with determining its value. If steel were as rare as gold steel would be far more valuable pound for pound.

Irrigated lands are rare and always will be from the very nature of the conditions which surround them. Limited water resources will for all time prevent any considerable development of irrigated land as compared to the total farm area of the United States.

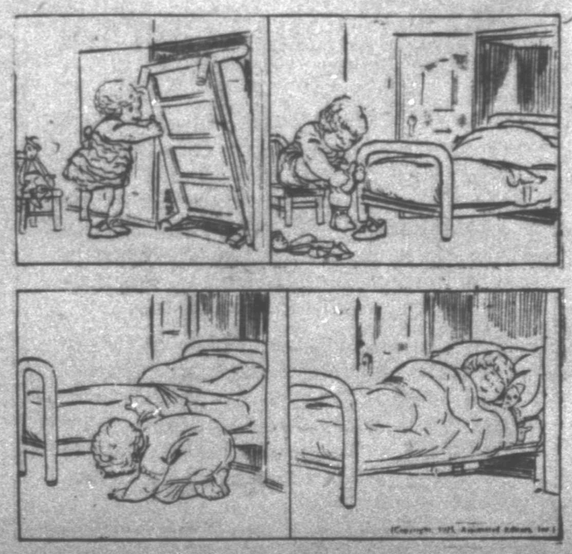

Irrigated lands are rare. They always will be. They will increase greatly in value as time goes on.

Playing with Fire
The Story of a Social Climber

by Lucille Van Slyke

"I don't. I'm teaching you to dance my way." He was perfectly insolent yet somehow very droll, for the next moment he added: "I'm left-footed, did you notice it? But good hearted, oh my, I'm good hearted. I'll teach you free of charge."

DICK rescued her and laughed when she grumbled softly about her ex-partner.

"No party is a regular party without him," he told her, "and this is sure developing into a regular party. Sambo has a whale of a limousine here. We're all going to pile in together.

"I don't know as I'd like that," she said sprimly.

"Oh yes, you will, Miss Prunes and Prisms," he assured her.

Their tea had come, they drank it and watched the others dance. Dick leaning closer toward her to explain a little bit about the persons to whome he had just introduced her.

"That is Sybil Morrell dancing with Sambo now. She isn't pretty but she's a three ring circus-best-hearted kind you'd want to know. No class at all but rolling in money. Her father struck oil or ore or sumething on a ranch out west. They do say that Sambo is pretty near on the rocks himself, he's spent his so fast, I wouldn't be surprised if he married her."

"What's his name really?" she asked curiously.

She gasped when he mentioned it. "And the tall girl in the blue dress is Mary West. She has a real estate office in a dinky Jersey suburb, calls herself a 'homeseeker' and makes a scrubby kind of a living, really. But she's a darned good pal. Sambo smashed into a flivver of hers one day last spring and they've been rather thick ever since. That's Spud Adams she's dancing with—"

"Not Spud Adams the football man?" Rosalie was eager.

"The very same, but don't try to vamp him because that's his wife dancing with Paul Merritt—"

ROSALIE, watching them, decided that Mrs. "Spud" was quite the most interesting of the women. She was as small as Rosalie herself, but decidedly more plump, not exactly pretty but with a piquant manner that more than made up for that. She brought Paul Merritt up to their table, protesting that her own "two feet were almost danced off" and begged Rosalie to finish her dance for her, so Rosalie danced away with Young Merritt and found him a most comfortable partner. She was genuinely sorry to stop and naively said so when she saw that the others were signalling that they were getting ready to leave.

"Oh we'll get a-plenty of it in the next place," he drawled. "This gang is just dance crazy."

The rain hadn't stopped, the awning under which they scurried to Sambo's car was drenched with it. Nor was the big seven passenger car such a tight squeeze for them all as it had sounded when Dick mentioned it. For little Mrs. "Spud" sat demurely on her stalwart husband's lap. It was she who started the singing.

"The rain it an a-pourin' the rain it an a-pourin—" she began gaily. And they all joined in with the solemn assurance that "th' ole ark was movin'."

Nothing could have seemed more carefree or innocent then the beginning of the party that Dick said would be a "regular one."

BUT Rosalie didn't like the looks of the next place at which they stopped. It was dingy, dimly lighted and they entered through an old iron gate at a basement door through which a sullen man demanded to know what they wanted.

Sambo had a card in his pocket, which he extended murmuring, "Advance and give the countersign," fellow, somebody cross his palm with silver."

The man let them in grudgingly, they stumbled along a narrow hallway covered with slippery oilcloth. Mary West was ahead of the other women and she held aside a rather grimy curtain to let them into a tiny dressing room.

"I do think Joey charges enough that he might clean things up," she grumbled. She caught up a towel, swabbed a sloppy wash basin dry, uncermoniously dumped a mangy looking box of powder into the rubbish basket and proceeded to pull out her own repair kit as she dubbed her cosmetic supply. She seemed to Rosalie to have plenty of color already but she recklessly dabbed on more and catching sight of Rosalie's awed eyes in the mirror she winked at the other two women and said: "Soon as I finish whitewashing the old barn door I will brighten up the corner where she keeps her little dimples—" she whirled about gaily. "Honestly, me child," she complained, "you look positively naked in the cheeks, they are so white." She reached out, caught Rosalie's chin in her capable fingers and tilted her face upward. "Open a little wider, please," she murmured mockingly as Rosalie tried to back away.

When she had finished Rosalie stammered:

"But I do look simply awful."

"Looked awful before, didn't she girls?" Mary moved aside so that the others could use the mirror. "Tut! tut!" she pretended to slap Rosalie's fingers, "Mustn't touch!"

THEY went out into a noisy dining room, rather small, very crowded and frankly ugly as to decorations and table appointments.

And when Dick pulled out her chair for her Rosalie's heart went to her boots.

For he was most evidently no longer on his boasted water wagon. He leaned over and quite calmly, he kisse dthe cheek that Mary had so recently rouged.

"Atta girl!" "And one lil' drink wouldn't do you any harm. They mix wonderful ones here and the food is the best you ever tasted."

CHAPTER XXX.

"We Won't Go Home Until Morning!"

THE dinner in the place called Joey's was quite the jolliest party that Rosalie had ever attended. These amusing persons with wohm she herself were delightfully friendly. Almost instantly they were calling her by Dick's nickname for her.

"Oh Rosy Lee! Rosy Lee!" young Mrs. "Spud" cried as they all laughed at one of Rosalie's demurely funny comments on New York. "You are a love! That's what you are! And a girl after my own heart. The rest of this bunch has to lap up a lot of drinks to keep merry but you and I are the kind who get a big kick out of a party just because it is a party."

Mrs. "Spud" was a comfort to Rosalie, because she did not drink and she did not smoke and that kept Rosalie from feeling conspicuous because she herself did not.

Nor was the rest of them doing any excessive amount of drinking. It was just a nice gay little party and Rosalie began to love every minute of it.

They didn't attempt to dance in the crowded basement dining room but when they had finished their salad—which happened to be Rosalie's first alligator pear—the waiter suggested that they might like their cheese and coffee upstairs. So they tropped up a tiny stairway. Indian file, their hands on each others shoulders singing the popular waltz song that the rather small orchestra, stationed on the hall landing, was playing. The room above was much larger than the dining room, with a splendidly waxed floor. Coffee tables—tiny, low ones were placed in front of the cushion benches along the side walls.

Wichita Falls' women voiced their sentiments Thursday concerning the threat of the legislature to stop work under the Sheppard-Towner maternity act when messages and night letters of protest were sent to Austin by the Council of Mothers, Parent-Teachers association and the Women's Forum.

A committee was appointed from these organizations to send the message, and the Federated Missionary society and Civic league will folow with more, it was announced. When this is done, the sentiment of practically every woman in the city concerning the threat will have been expressed.

"This appropriation covers a wide territory of interest to women and children," Mrs. E. S. Goodner said. "And since the appropriation for the elimination of the foot and mouth disease has been granted, I am wondering if the federal funds to alleviate the suffering of women and children is not at least equally important. Surely they should rank in importance with Hereford cattle."

"When the bill is referred to as infant maternity work and a fad we women of Wichita Falls who have studied it know that they are not conversant with the splendid work done under the act and the many phases of maternity and infant work it includes," Mrs. Goodner said.

The latest fad in Paris is the "funny face." It is a figure about an inch or so in diameter, of a pierrot, or clown, or Chaplin, or other amusing character, attractively painted and fitted with human hair. Parisian women are carrying them attached to purses or handbag or millinery. This one, as you see, adorns a hat.

Friday 7:30 p. m. the Spanish club of the Junior college, will present at the Benita Juarez club one of Spain's most popular comedies, "Zaragueta." The Spanish club under the able direction of its president, Miss Vaugn Buchanan, has been doing some excellent work in the Mexican district. Thanksgiving the club distributed baskets among the Mexicans. Christmas it provided the Christmas tree at the Mexican school, and now it will present to the Mexicans a two hour comedy in their own language. According to Mrs. Gilbert, head of the Spanish department, the presentation of a two hour play in a foreign language is no insignificant undertaking for the club, but as the players have been chosen because of excellent grades and fluency in speaking the Spanish, the success of the play is assured. The play has action, sentiment, and is full of fun. Between acts Mrs. Aline Fischer and Miss Jane McCulloch will sing popular Spanish songs. There will be no charge for admission. Those interested in Spanish and the members of both clubs are invited to attend. The Spanish club wishes to express its gratitude to W. W. Brown and Mrs. L. R. Buchanan for assistance rendered in preparations for the play.

Dorothy Dix Advice On Happy Marriage

MIX TOGETHER GOOD NATURE AND THE APPRECIATION OF EACH OTHER'S VIRTUES, SWEETEN WITH THE ABILITY TO LOVE AND STIR WITH A SENSE OF JUSTICE— THEN YOU'LL MAKE A MOST SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGE.

A correspondent asks what qualities a husband and wife should possess in order to make marriage a success.

The ability to love.

Not every one possesses it. Indeed, a talent for loving is just as rare as a tenor voice, yet only those who have this great gift ever make matrimony a grand, sweet song, instead of thirty or forty years of perpetual discord.

It is a great thing to be loved, but it is far more important to be the lover than to be the beloved one. For only love blinds our eyes to the faults of those with whom we live, and makes their eccentricities and peculiarities interesting characteristics, instead of damnable faults and weaknesses that get upon our nerves.

A grain of love outweighs a ton of the standardized virtues. It doesn't make much difference what an individual is. It is what we think he or she is that counts, and a marriage is successful only so long as a husband and wife are so hypnotized that they see in each other only what they want to see.

Good nature.

It is the dispositions of those we marry with which we have to live. It is the morning smile across the breakfast table; the cheery greeting; the contented spirit; the optimistic outlook; the reasonable attitude; the courageous meeting of all the vicissitudes of life that make the husbands and wives whose price is above rubies, and whose yokemates are in a state of perpetual thanksgiving for their luck in having drawn such prizes in the matrimonial lottery.

Beauty, brilliance, wit, cleverness, sobriety, high and noble principles are all admirable and highly desirable qualities in those we marry, but they are the Sunday clothes, so to speak, of matrimony.

The possession of them, or their lack of them, does not make nor mar our happiness as does the good or bad disposition of our life partners.

A pretty face does not compensate for a selfish, peevish, fretful, discontented nature, and no man pines to come home at night to a wife whose witty and sarcastic tongue will spare none of his shortcomings.

Nor do any of a man's achievements, however great, make up to his wife for his being self-centered and egotistic, or gloomy and grouchy around the home, or one who vents on his own family the rasped nerves and the surly temper he dares not inflict upon the public. Poor Jane Carlyle warned all women who expected happiness in marriage against marrying a genius, and doubtless every other hsband or wife of a famous woman or man has felt like giving the same device.

A sense of justice.

That is the most needed, and the rarest thing in matrimony. Men and women give each other devotion—they make sacrifices for each other, but when it comes to playing the game of matrimony fair and square and dividing fifty-fifty on its work and worry and pleasures and perquisites, they seem unable to do it, and yet nothing else would do so much to assure their happiness.

A man will work his fingers to the bone in order to pay his wife's bills and support her in ease and comfort, but he will not be just with her and make a fair divide of their income. He humiliates her by making her come like a beggar to him for every penny, and she is sore and disgruntled because she feels that she isn't getting a square deal.

A wife adores her husband, and because she loves him she feels that she has a right to monopolize him and enslave him. She can't be just enough to see that he has a right to some personal liberty and to a fe whours off a week to amuse himself in his own way, and according to his own taste. Therefore, every minute that isn't spent toiling for her and the children must be passed under her watchful eye, doing the things she enjoys doing.

It is because husbands and wives try to tyrannize over each other, and force their own opinions and habits on each other, that marriage is so often a failure. If married couples would simply try to be just to one another, it would usher in a domestic millennium.

Appreciation.

You could almost answer the question, "What's the matter with marriage?" in one word.

It's "dumbness." It is because husbands and wives grow eloquen over each other's faults and failures, and are silent as the grave about each other's virtues.

A man can come home on the dot 364 days a year, and his wife never makes a favorable comment on his promptitude, but if he stays downtown until 10 o'clock on the 365th day she raises cain over it, and be never hears the last of it.

A man will sit down and gobble up a thousand perfect meals without handing his wife a single compliment about them, but if by accident she should once get too much salt in the soup, or the bread should be heavy, he will wonder why she can never learn how to season things, and tell her about the biscuits his mother used to make.

It is a joy to do things for people who appreciate them. It is bitter to be forced to work for those who take everything for granted and as no more than their due.

If husbands and wives would only say "Thank you" to each other; if a wife would only tell her husband how she admires and loves him for all he does for her and the children, and the husband would tell his wife how he appreciates all the sacrifices that she lays upon the family altar, there would be no more disgruntled husbands and wives rebelling against the burdens of married life.

Being a good sport.

No marriage is all beer and skittles, nor lovey-dovey sentiment. There are bound to be hardships and disappointments and work and sacrifice and dis-illusionment in it aplenty.

Only those who are good losers, who are good sports, who can take the run of luck as it comes, will ever win out to happiness.

THE SECRET

of more tempting foods

Tests by Domestic Science teachers over all the country have revealed in Crisco unique advantages:

In deep frying, they noticed that Crisco put a rich brown on croquettes and doughnuts.

They noticed, too, that an egg fried in Crisco looked as delicately delicious as a poached egg—the white unscorched and the edges of the yolk set like a full moon in an ivory circle.

Their Crisco cake layers came out of the pans whole, without any ragged little breaks to mar their beauty. Their cakes, too, had a wonderfully even texture, and stayed moist and fresh for days.

And pie-crusts made with Crisco were rich-brown, inviting—short and flaky.

So it is not surprising that Mrs. Ida Chitwood uses Crisco exclusively in the Cooking School now being conducted by this newspaper. She will be glad to show you how you, too, can serve—with the aid of Crisco—crisp, digestible fried foods; flaky, tender pastry; delicious, full-flavored cakes.

Petroleum Producers yesterday completed two good wells in the Carey district on their Pollei and Hausler leases, No. 5, Pollei, and No. 7, Hausler, both showing for 300 to 400 barrel wells from sand at the usual Carey depth just below 1,100 feet.

No. 5 Pollei, the second location north from the southeast corner of the lease, seemingly due to strike the north edge of the pool, looked yesterday to be at least a 350 or 400 barrel wel with a possibility of making 500 barrels a day, sand record given as 1,110-40 feet.

The completions makes it look as if a large part of the Petroleum Producers lease and Roxana's Kunkle lease will be good for large wells, part that had been hitherto considered as possibly lying too far north.

On the Hausler lease the No. 7 looks like a 300-400 barrels well, from sand at about 1,106-1,140 feet.

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company has obtained by purchase from Lowrey and Cavin their 57 acres in the Swastika pool, southwest Archer county, Hachison land, with five wells making between 375 and 400 barrels a day for a consideration of $250,000.

Deepest Texas Duster Complete

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Jan. 29.—Texon Oil & Land company has just completed in Reagan county at 6,002 feet what is claimed to be the deepest oil testever drilled in Texas. A wire line only three quarters of an inch in diameter was used and there was 2,040 feet of open hole when work stopped. The test is on section 22, block 9, and is the first "duster" of the Texon company, which in May 1923 brought in the discovery well at Santa Rita. Six years ago the Ryan Petroleum corporation drilled a well on the Henderson ranch in Crockett county, to 5,910 feet, which was supposed to hold the record until the Texon company put down its group No. 1.

Wewoka-Cromwell Leads Oklahoma

A total number of operations for the state of Oklahoma during the past week showed 1319, according to the comparativer eport issued this week by The Oil Weekly. This is a decrease of 36 operations as compared to the previous week with its total of 1385 operations.

Wewoka-Cromwell district continues to lead the fields in operations with 342 operations, a slight decrease under the previous week, of the 342 operations a total of 243 operations were drilling wells. This is due largely to the increased interest in the Gilcrease-Papoose pool, the Cromwell pool of course is playing a strong part laso. But is being forced into the minor role by its neighbor.

A total of 101 completions were recorded, which is a large increase over the previous week. The previous week shows the total of 70 completions. Of the 101 completions for the week the Wewoka-Cromwell district reported 22 completions.

PACIFIC OIL RUMORS RIFE

Claim Standard of California Seeks Ownership of Company

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The turnover of more than 200,000 shares of Pacific Oil in the last two days has revived rumors in the financial district that the company was being acquired by the Standard Oil company of California which owns about 20 per cent of its outstanding capital stock. Another version was that Pan-American Petroleum was about to acquire the company. None of the reports, estimated at $10,500,000 after charges and federal taxes, equal to $3 a share on the no par value stock which represents an increase of 17 per cent over 1923. The company has enormous oil reserves in five counties in California, said to aggregate 260,000 acres.

NE ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 29.—The cotton market was somewhat two sided in today's trading, and although for a time during the afternoon there was some activity shown in the trading, it was rather dull during the greater part of the day. The market sagged moderately, after a slight gain at the start, due to cables being better than due, on prospects for fair weather in the eastern belt and an opinion issued by the department of agriculture that exports during the balance of the season should not exceed last season as consuming centers had already pretty well supplied their needs. March declined during the morning's reaction 17 points from the opening high and at the lowest was 8 points below yesterday's close.

The rally during the afternoon was due to rather liberal exports for the day, good reports from the southern spot markets and advices from New York to the effect that a prominent operator, believed to be identified with southern mills was buying. March advanced on this rally 28 points from the low of the morning, but in the closing trading some of the gain was lost and the near month rally closed at a net gain of only 9 points for the day.

At the start in sympathy with good cables the market was steady and first trades showed gains of five to seven points. The market soon started to ease off and at the lowest of the morning March traded at 23.37. May 23.80 and October 23.69 or 6 to 8 points below the previous close. The afternoon rally carried March up to 23.85, May 24.09 and October to 23.94 or 25 to 29 points above the earlier lows and 10 to 23 points above the previous close. Some of the recovery was sacrificed in the late trading on realizing and the close showed net gains for the day of 8 to 9 points.

TEXAS LIVE STOCK

FORT WORTH, Jan. 29.—Buyers and sellers traded rapidly Thursday, the market showing even more activity than developed Wednesday. It was another day in which receipts were below requirements and steady offers were forthcoming early. All classes were disposed of at rates that were fully in line with the mid-week basis. Around 2,000 head of cattle and 500 calves were here.

The usual scarcity of beef steers developed less than a half dozen carloads being on offer. Most of the run consisted of cattle of short feeding and bulk sales ranged around 6.00 to 6.50.

Consignments of butcher stock went scaleward at good, steady prices, and the demand was urgent. Choice cows in mixed lots brought 5.00 upward, but the top on carloads was 4.65.

STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Revival of excited speculation in the oil shares, most of which attained their highest prices since 1923 and then fell back on profit taking; buoyancy of several high priced industrial specialties and heaviness of many standard industrials and rails, characterized the trading in today's irregular stock market. Business was in increased volume, the day's total transactions running close to two million shares.

Feverish activity in the oil shares followed the publication of the weekly report of the American Petroleum Institute showing a drop of over 20,000 barrels in the daily average of crude oil production, and the announcement of an advance of 25 cents a barrel in Gulf Coast crude. Atlantic Refining closed 3 points higher at 113¼ after touching 115, but most of the other active issues showed only fractional changes on the day.

U. S. Steel common closed nearly one point lower at 126½ after selling as high as 127¾. Baldwin yielded fractionally to 131. American Can pushed up more than 4 points to a record top at 169¾ and then slipped back to 167½. New life was infused into Studebaker, which closed 1½ points higher at 45½. Spirited trading for Mack Truck, which sent that issue up 13 points to 134½ gave birth to rumors that General Motors interests were seeking control, but Pierre Dupont, General Motors chairman declared it was news to him.

J. C. Penney scored nearly 50 points to a record high for all time at 310 on the declaration of a 50 per cent stock dividend, and the announcement that 1924 earnings were equivalent to more than $40 a share on the common stock. It later reacted to 300½. Associated Dry Goods soared 7 points to 156, also a new top, and the first preferred moved up 3 points to 95½.

The commercial solvents issues recorded another sensational advance but were unable to hold it. The A stock knocked to 190 and then fell back to 175½, off ¼ on the day, and the B stock fell from 189 to 175, off 1¾ on the day.

Another bear attack on Radio Corporation common forced that stock down nearly 4 points to 62.

Rails were supplied freely on the theory that recent storms would increase operating costs and cut down earnings, losses of 1 to 2 points being recorded by New York Central, Lackawanna, Rock Island, Baltimore and Ohio, St. Paul pfd, Southern Pacific, Erie first pfd, Lehigh Valley, Missouri Pacific pfd and Western Pacific. Wabash pfd "A," which has been bid up prior to each director's meeting for the last year or more in expectation of a resumption of dividends, fell back about a point when the directors again failed to take any action.

Call money held steady at 3½ per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

TEXAS PRODUCE

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—The hay market is showing tone, although practically unchanged in prices. Increased receipts are burdening markets and causing lower grades to take wide discounts. Alfalfa is distinctly weaker.

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—Shipments of fruits and vegetables yesterday were very light on account of the cold weather. Texas shipped four of five cars of spinach, 10 of 61 cars of grapefruit, and one of 53 cars of white potatoes; loading station markets showed practically no price change, although Norfolk advice of a low temperature of 18 degrees at San Antonio gave the spinach a 25c firm tone. Reports from the valley were of some frost damage to young cabbage and considerable to tomatoes. At Austin the spinach crop cleared the cold spell with inconsequential injury. This crop will be ready to move about March 1.

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—Butter is firm, eggs easier to possibly half cent lower on the Chicago board and poultry firm, under a good demand today. Exchange sales of eggs were mostly around 35 cents per dozen. Chicago and at Texas points, the market was mostly 41¢ a case, although a few sales were registered as high as $42 and as low as $40.50. Packer stock country butter at north Texas markets sold this morning for 18 cents and creamery 41@43 cents, according to grade. In the poultry trade of the state, large hens brought 18 cents, smaller 15@16c; springs 26c; turkeys 25@26c and old roosters 8@9c. Medium sized geese were worth $1 each and ducks 60@75c. Stocks on hand this morning were 49,561 cases, 30,357 cases, 17,498 cases and 1,294 cases in the markets as listed above.

Texas poultry receipts amounted to 481,664 pounds in New York and 191,575 pounds in Chicago. The result of storage movement which was a net reduction of storage stocks of the four markets of 2,571,520 pounds was a holding this morning in New York of 33,825,871 pounds, in Chicago, of 42,030,861 pounds, in Boston of 11,253,889 pounds and in Philadelphia of 4,631,196 pounds.

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—Thirteen spinach markets today struck an average for Texas bushels of 1.68 to 1.82, with most of the eastern consuming centers around 1.75 to 2.00 for the light offerings. The situation continued to firm as cold weather retarded the movement, which yesterday called for but five cars, four of which were Texas and one Virginia. The St. Louis clearances totalled 13 cars and included three each for Buffalo, Chicago and Philadelphia, two for Washington and one each Cincinnati and Pittsburgh.

Kansas City, no arrivals or track supplies; steady, mostly 1.75.

Chicago, no arrivals, 14 track, steady 1.50 to 1.75.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—Poultry alive, higher; fowls 23@28c; springs 28c; roosters 16½c; ducks 30c; geese 22@23c.

Butter, higher; creamery extras 37½c; standards 37¾c; extra firsts 36@37c; firsts 35@35½c; seconds 32@34c.

The Fact Remains

That this institution is assisting nearly 500 people to own homes in this city. This is far in excess of any other corporation or individual lending money on Wichita Falls property. This institution is the strongest financially of any building and loan association west of San Antonio and Fort Worth in Texas. The invested cash capital of this corporation closely approximates $1,000,000.00 which provides ample funds to take care of the real estate loan requirements of the people who are endeavoring to own a home in Wichita Falls. Come to see us for either real estate loans or our installment investment shares.

FERGUSON

islature the right to pardon or grant amnesty to an officer of Texas found guilty of impeachment. In support of that contention, the Padelford brief does straight back to the Ferguson-Maddox litigation which resulted in the supreme court upholding the validity of the legislature's impeachment and disqualification of the former governor.

To make the point understanable, it should be recalled that at the time the legislature impeached Ferguson there was not, nor is there now, any constitutional provision fixing the grounds and acts upon which impeachment could be predicted. Therefore the legislature went back to the laws of parliament for precedents, the Padelford brief then states:

"The supreme court of Texas in the case of Ferguson vs. Maddox 263 S. W. 891-892, correctly holds that art 15 vests in the legislature of this state the same full power and authority over the offense of impeachment as was possessed by the parliament of England at and before the time of the formation of our constitution.

"Under the law of parliament the house of commons, as does our house of representatives, prepares and presents the charges against the officers accused, and he is tried before the house of lords as by and before the senate of this state. If the legislature of Texas must look to and depend upon the principles and practice of parliament in order to convict an officer (as it did do in the Ferguson case), then it certainly must look to and depend upon the same source for authority to set aside the judgment of conviction, or grant a pardon or amnesty to the officer convicted, where not otherwise provided for.

A Power of Parliament

"In England, the parliament could pardon and grant amnesty especially to those charged by the house of commons and tried and convicted by the house of lords."

Further in the brief Padelford drives home these points:

1. The legislative department of the state, as representative of the people possess all the sovereign power of the people, except where restrained and limited by the constitution.

2. There is no limitation in the constitution which inhabits or prohibits the legislature of this state to grant a pardon or amnesty to one convicted by the legislature acting as a tribunal.

3. The federal constitution does not prohibit the state of Texas of the legislature from granting pardon or amnesty in the offense of impeachment.

4. Since there is no express prohibition of such power, the legislature department possessing the sovereign power of the people of Texas has the same power to make such provision by law as does the people by means of a constitutional amendment.

Every point, heavily reinforced by voluminous citations, drives unerringly back to the laws of parliament tenet, concluding as follows:

"Wherefore, it is submitted that the legislature has authority to enact a law providing for the granting of amnesty or pardon to each and all persons convicted of impeachment under article 15 of the constitution, because such power is not conferred upon any officer or department and the constitution does not prohibit the legislature from enacting such a law, nor does it prohibit it from setting aside a judgment or conviction in impeachment proceedings and as decided by our supreme court in the case cited (Ferguson vs. Maddox), because the legislature and senate being governed by the law of parliament, such power is conferred upon them, the legislature or the senate, to enact a law to pardon or grant amnesty or to set aside the judgment of conviction."

Concurring with Padelford are a great many other able lawyers whose briefs or opinions have been transmitted to the senate committee. Among them is J. D. Harvery of Houston.

CRAWFORD

rister on the bench. An unprecedented heterogenous crowd packed the seats and aisles of the grimy court room. Society girls and aristocratic matrons rubbed elbows with men of the field and industrial laborers. A gloomy atmosphere permeated the chamber, broken only by a few shafts of sunshine from a cold January sun, which shone through dingy windows.

As the first barrage of oratory was fired by District Attorney Shelby Cox, the tension heightened. The eager audience, attorneys, court attaches and principals were stirred to a feverish point, when they realized that the first engagement of the final battle for a man's innocence and guilt was underway. They maintain absolute silence as the barrister launched into heavier attacks for the conviction of the defendant and called fo rthe conviction of Crawford, "for cold blooded murder."

Mrs. O'Day Present.

In the chancel near the state's attorney sat Mrs. Paul M. O'Day, pretty young widow, of the man slain, in the American National bank building September 11. She was in heavy mourning. Beside her sat Eugene E. Locke, former partner of her late husband. On his lap sat Little Molly O'Day, six year old daughter of Mrs. O'Day. She was pathetically with one of her little legs in splints, and in her pitiful attempts to console her sobbing mother, by wiping away her tears.

In front of the window the shot gun that was used in the killing of her husband, lay on the table. Nearby, surrounded by members of the defense counsel, sat William Lester Crawford, his face somewhat drawn, eyes intently watching the effect of the words of state and defense attorneys on the jury.

Also Death Penalty.

District Attorney Cox recounted the evidence in effort to show that the murder was premediated and was done "in cold blood" because Paul O'Day stood between him and his mother's property." He scored Crawford's testimony relative to the will suits and Willis Evans' hearing. He pointed out that Crawford was the sole heir of Mrs. Kate LaMar Crawford, his mother, widow of the late Colonel W. L. Crawford. He declared that O'Day was only performing his duty as an attorney in drawing up the brief over which he was killed and concluded by asking the death penalty for Crawford.

Jed Adams opened the argument for the defense. He stated that O'Day smarted under the sting of defeat in a will suit and made derogatory remarks about Mrs. Crawford, coincident with statements made in the brief, which he claimed, justified Crawford in committing homicide. He said, the language of the brief was a studied insult; that Crawford, as the judg ehad said in his charge, was within his rights in carrying the shot gun to stop the slander against his mother. He concluded by stating that it was te duty of a southern gentleman to protect the name and character of his women relatives and denounced use of a negro's testimony against a white woman's, and saying that the negro did not state the woman was immoral, but that the preversion was made by the authors of the brief.

OIL

serves on the ground that it might be cheaper in the long run for federal government departments to purchase their oil than to be a party to waste and over production and a contributor to the depletion of the reserves. One operator suggested that the government might inaugurate some measure which would prevent pipe line companies extending connections to fields where over production is evident.

A divergence of opinion among independent companies as to the position of the Standard group in the oil industry has been developed by the questionnair. In at least one case an independent has intimated to the board that in his opinion the Standard companies were behind the move which led to the board's creation, and hoped by that means to secure regulation as would cut down production to a point where price manipulation would be easier.

Standard Defended

Other independents warmly defended the Standard companies, declaring that those indepeudent concerns who are willing to play the game fairly with Standard officials fare very well in the long run.

One suggestion given the board was that it might well take steps to induce all oil producing states to enforce rigidly their conservation laws o renact new ones. The conservation laws of Oklahoma were cited by one producer, who pointed out that some years ago a cycle o fover production and waste i nthat state was stopped by invoking a law closing many wells for a year.

Still other steps advocated on some of the replies to the board include the curbing of stock promotion and speculation; federal regulation of drilling; a limited application of a policy of rate fixing in supervision of pipe lines; a law requiring oil companies to dispose of oil within a reasonable time after it is put into storage so as to prevent exaporation, waste and over production; a requirement that oil must be marketed at a price representing its gravity, and taking into account naphtha evaporation during storage.

Many of these suggestions were designed to remedy a supposed present condition of over production, the companies in question declaring that hundreds of thousands of barrels of oil have been stored for so long that the value has greatly deteriorated.

FIND MAN UNCONSCIOUS.

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 29.—Detectives investigated in vain Wednesday night to penetrate a cloud of mystery surrounding the appearance at the Santa Infirmary of Jose Hernandez, who was found there in an unconscious condition at 3:30 p. m Wednesday. An abrasion on his head had apparently reduced the man to a state of coma.

A RANGER GOES TO TRIAL.

State Asks Death Penalty In Trial of Y. H. "Buck" Taylor.

CUERO, Texas, Jan. 29.—Into a courtroom where both sides are among strangers, Y. H. "Buck" Taylor, former San Antonio ranger, went to trial Thursday morning for the killing of R. L. Flowers, San Antonio merchant, during a raid at San Antonio, several months ago. For the act, the state will ask the death penalty, while the defense will plead accidental shooting and self-defense. The case has attracted considerable attention in Cuero, due to the ranger situation in San Antonio.

A NEW RANGER BILL.

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Activities of Texas rangers would be curbed by a bill introduced in the senate today by Senator Archie Parr of Benavides; A. J. Wirtz of Seguin, and R. S. Bowers of Caldwell.

Senator Parr explained that the bill would continue to vest control of ranger force in the governor and the state adjutant general's department, but it would require it "to stay in Travis county."

Top O' Morn Stuff

Tex Rickard is one person who doesn't believe there's chance on earth of Dempsey's retiring. Rickard says positively that Dempsey will box again next summer. Probably twice. Rickard is doubtful that any new heavyweight will come up far enough to be in demand, and thinks that Gibbons and Wills may be the champion's opponents.

If Dempsey does box, it is a 10 to 1 shot that Rickard will run the bout, or all the bouts. Dempsey has made more money boxing for Rickard than in all his other fights put together, and probably more than he has made in other fights, on the stage and in the moving pictures. Jack says himself that the movies haven't cut much of a figure in fattening his bank balance. Movie profits, for fighters, are mostly on paper.

Coach Rockne announces that he will stay with Notre Dame. This is a great relief to half a dozen Eastern and middle western colleges that had tried to win him, and were afraid he might go to U. S. C. Even a college hates to be "scooped."

Lew Tendler, knocked out by Jack Zivic, never came back after the disappointments inflicted by Benny Leonard. Tendler fought along so well against other lightweights that he felt sure he could beat Leonard. He even tried claiming the title once. The first time he boxed Benny he made a good showing. The next time Benny gave him a course of boxing lessons, round by round for fifteen rounds. After the second Leonard fight all of Tendler's airy confidence seemed to slip away, and his punch went with it.

The new California boxing commission is gradually straightening out the boxing tangles that came with the new law. The commissioners had no precedents to go by, and instead of copying the boxing regulations of other states, took their time to work a set out for themselves. In the end this will be the best way. Many permits have been issued to promoters —the most recent to a club in which Assemblyman Morrison, sponsor of the boxing bill, is the chief figure. This club will build a half million dollar arena in San Francisco and will go after some of the championship battles that Tex Rickard hasn't corraled.

Nurmi says that he isn't running fast yet on board tracks. He doesn't feel as much at home as he does on the ground, but he doesn't see any reason for not running as fast on boards as on cinders. If Nurmi makes up his mind to break outdoor records indoors he'll do it. He'll have plenty of chances, entered in thirteen meets between now and March 21.

If nothing else the row between Big Munn and Strangler Lewis will act as a fine ballyhoo if they never meet again. Munn naturally claims the wrestling championship, having been awarded a decision over Lewis by a referee. Billy Sandow, Lewis manager, refuses to give up the championship belt to Munn and claims that Lewis is still champion and Munn will have to beat him again to get the title. Sandow says Munn shouldn't have received the decision before, but should have been disqualified for fouling when he chuckled Lewis out of the ring.

To a mere outsider Munn's claim to the title looks perfectly good. Munn put Lewis down twice. He threw Lewis to the mat so hard in the first fall that Lewis was unable to come back for the second bout in less than fifteen minutes. The second scramble stopped when Lewis went over the ropes and fell on the floor. That time the referee didn't give Munn a fall, but allowed Lewis time to recover and come back to wrestle again.

Lewis came back, and was immediately thrown. If he hadn't come back to the mat he might have had a point to argue on but by coming back he gave up his claim of foul. Anyway, the referee's decision is final in all sporting events, and the championship went with the referee's decision, whether Lewis and his manager approve of it or not.

The severe nervous breakdown of Jimmy Crowley, Notre Dame's great halfback, suggests that Notre Dame's football schedule, with a terrific contest like the Stanford game following it, is a good deal of a strain, even for the Four Horsemen and their teammates. Notre Dame beat Stanford by serving three long runs, but Stanford made four first downs to Notre Dame's one during the game and kept Rockne's team backed up to its goal line all through the last quarter, except when one of the breaks started a horseman galloping. Notre Dame was under terrific pressure all through the game. The hardest of Notre Dame's glorious victorious season.

California Backs Joe Benjamin In Lightweight Meet

The New York commission, in staging their lightweight elimination contest for a successor to Benny Leonard's crown, are seeking entries from all the boys that can wallop Kid Fairbanks at the 135-pound notch. The list is a long one, for contenders are many. Still, when we sift it all down probably not more than 10 of these boys will qualify for the finals. The Californians are firm believers that Joe Benjamin will be one who will crowd into the finals, for Joe has a wallop that causes the cuckoo to come out of the clock and sing jazz when he parks it. Any boy that will swap punches with Benjamin is courting danger. The type of opponent that bothers Joe is the clever fellow that jabs and jumps away. Benjamin battles very much on the order of Mickey Walker—bores in, willing to take a punch to give one. Benjamin is now under the management of Eddie Conners, who is willing to bet his kale the Californian can more than hold his own in the contemplated elimination party. And seated at the ringside, looking on, will be Benny Leonard, watching the boys do their best to gain what he gave up without an effort.

GIANT OUTFIELDER WILL SPEND MANY MONTHS IN CALIFORNIA'S GOLDEN SUNSHINE, SAYS LAWYER

Cozy Dolan and Landis' Secretary Quizzed in New York's Investigation; Others Coming Up

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 29.—(INS)—Jimmy O'Connell, the Giant outfielder, intends to spend many months in California's golden sunshine, his attorney, Jos. McInerny, announced here today.

"Jimmy O'Connell has been refused the immunity he demanded by the New York district attorney and therefore will not go east to testify in the probe of the alleged attempt to bribe Heinie Sand, Phillies infielder," said McInerny.

"Get Cozy Dolan to talk and then you can get all the higher ups and all the boys in this affair.

"We don't blame Judge Landis. He did all he could in his investigation and was without authority to go further but the district attorney can go further and make a real investigation.

"However, O'Connell has no intention of testifying unless a genuine investigation is assured and unless he is promised immunity."

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Leslie M. O'Connr, secretary of Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, and Cozy Dolan, former coach of the New York Giants who has been barred from baseball, were the principals today in the state's investigation into the attempted bribery of Heinie Sand, shortstop of the Philadelphia National league baseball club, during a game in this city last season.

Jimmy O'Connell, Giant infielder in that contest, confessed that he offered Sand $500 if he would "not bear down" and with Dolan went out of the national game forever.

Today O'Connells' attorney wired to Assistant District Attorney Brothers that his client would not come east to aid in the investigation unless immunity was promised. Such a course is impossible at this time, Mr. Brothers replied.

O'Connor Furnishes Dope

O'Connor is believed to have furnished the authorities with every particular of evidence in the hands of the commissioner, including questions and answers at the time the matter became known and telegrams and letters which have passed between the commissioner's office and various players whose names have been mentioned.

Emil Yde of the Pittsburgh Pirates, one of the leading pitchers of the 1924 season today sent in full denial that he had stated that there had been talk among players regarding the "fixing" of the "higher ups." It was in the form of transcript of the correspondence he had with the commissioner. William A. (Bill) Cunningham, former Giant outfielder, now with the Boston Braves, denied saying in a press interview that he had been told by Ross Young of the Giants, named with Frank Frisch and George Kelly, in the O'Connell confession that the whole bribery business had been started through "kidding" among the players. Cunningham called the story a "mass of lies" and insisted he had "not" been interviewed in the O'Connell affair since last October.

Young On Way

Cunningham is about to be operated upon in California and it is understood his physicians will not permit him to come east at this time.

Arthur Fletcher, manager of the Philadelphia Nationals to whom Sand told the story of the attempted bribe, and Johnny Couch, pitcher, together with George Kelly, of the Giants are expected to arrive here for questioning tomorrow.

Ross Young is reported on his way east from his home in Texas.

WHEREIN LA GRAVE DISCUSSES, BUT NOT HIS FORT WORTH CATS

Panther Business Custodian Says Dallas Club Not As Good As Scribes Say It Is

By ZEKE HANDLER

FORT WORTH, Jan. 29.—"There being no further business scheduled for this session, the meeting is now adjourned." These words might have followed the writer's latest interview with one Paul Aloysius LaGrave, shekel-snatcher extraordinary and David Harum of the Fort Worth baseball club, five times crowned the reigning organization in Texas professional circles and for four years the king bee of the south.

One thing in particular that impressed ye chronicler of baseball gossip was the nonchalant manner with which Paul masticated his Brown's Mule, his expectorating talents being used at intervals.

"Well, LaGrave drawled, "there isn't much news right now." Ho, ho and a bottle of shellac! The Shpinx himself had uttered and the only thing to do was draw other synonms, anonyms and abbreviations from the baseball business boss, who's harder to make talk than to work a full-page crossword puzzle.

In this particular instance, LaGrave didn't put out any news, as usual, but he remarked and commented. Anybody in baseball who knows Paul and those not acquainted with the gentleman are in the minority, will corroborate the testimony that when he talks he says something interesting and usually worth-while.

He Talks, But About Dallas

"Come to think about it," the Panther paymaster recalled, "I was readin' not long ago about how good the Dallas club will be during the coming season. And I kinda studied the matter for a few days and reached the conclusion that the Dallas owners have not the material on their roster at this time that was drawing the checks on the Steer treasury last January."

"While I grant you the men lined up for the 1925 spring training battle for berths will give the club at least 99% of what's in them, where the players swapped, sold and drafted in breaking up the combination of last season would produce but 40%. I cling to the belief that several bad deals were made by the two bosses.

"Outfields composed of Griffins, Vanches, and Donohues are created mysteriously—possibly by a divine power—and once in a blue moon will a baseball man find himself able to boast of such a pasture combination. The three have left the Dallas club."

And then LaGrave ventured the opinion that the ability of Bernard (Bud) Hungling, catcher, obtained by Dallas from Des Moines, does not match that of Backstop Cyrus Lingle, who was one of the real mainstays of the teers for two seasons. Lingle went to Des Moines along with Donader and Pug Griffin.

Paul paid a little compliment to several new Steers, including Rinaldo Williams, the singing outfielder; Emil Huhn, the Prussian first sacker, who managed Mobile in 1924; Larry Gardner, who, in the words of Texas league standbys, graduates from the Cleveland Americans' utility position to that of manager of the Dallas nine, and Pitcher McCall, who comes from the Western league. Paul had heard of McCall before and thinks he is a fine prospect.

One Must Be Very Careful

Being a Fort Worth scribe means you must say as few nice things about the Dallas club as possible, so let us turn our attention to the house of the finest hotel in the state, the biggest artificial lake south of the Mason-Dixon line and the Champion Cats, which are right here in dear old Fort Worth.

Peter J. Donohue, Cincinnati moundsman, wishes to inform the baseball world:

"I am not a 'holdout' in the true sense of the word.

"I have returned two contracts to Mr. Hermann at Cincinnati.

"Like all ball players, I want more money when I think I am entitled to it. Such is my belief at this time.

"It can never be said of Pete Donohue that he is a 'holdout' for I think the term is a vulgar one and I interpret it to mean that such a player is one who squeezes the club for every nickel he can get, in some manner, whether above board of underhanded. That isn't my way.

"When the time comes, if Mr. Hermann does not agree to my terms I intend to settle with him at an arbitration conference, which we both shall attend in person. He is a wonderful fellow to work for and I never fear the worst of any deal I take up with him."

While other Texas league club owners—to get out of the National for awhile—are improving their ball parks in some way, the Fort Worth management is content to ride along with Panther park as it stands for another season and maybe several more to come. The local playing field is undoubtedly the finest in the south. That bars, of course, the stands and other such things, but the diamond itself is absolutely the best in Dixie.

Groundkeeper John Johnson, accused of being Swedish by some scoundrel, knows every blade of grass by its middle initial and get the credit for keeping the field in its superb condition year in and year out.

Topper Goes Hunting

Tiny Goodbred, former Panther heaver-funmaker, who has retired to the peaceful existence of an automobile salesman, continues to while away his spare time at the ancient and honorable contest of dominoes and is reported to be a past master at the game.

Arthur E. Phelan, Manager Jacob Atz's lieutenant, and utility demond for the Panthers, has become associated with a well known theatrical man and a vaudeville show is being taken to nearby towns by the pair. In day light, Phelan is recognized as a cotton expert. He is learning the ins and outs of the fleecy stuff business in the same office which provides Pete Donohue with three squares during the off-season.

Emory Elmo Rigney, Detroit's own Topper., has ceased distributing Henry's flivvers for a local firm and is at present shooting in the general direction of deer, rabbits and other animals in the wilds of Cuero county, the jungle of Texas. Topper hasn't sent any photos of himself and several dozen deceased victims around him, so he must be having less luck than Jimmy O'Connell.

GREB ON HAND FOR DELANEY GO TONIGHT

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 29.—Harry Greb, middleweight champion, arrived here today for his 10-round bout tomorrow night with Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul light heavyweight. No title is involved in the fight. Greb holds two decisions over Delaney.

McMullen Billed To Mix It With Duke Thursday

Kansas Battler Scores K. O. Over Hoffman In 6 Rounds

LEVINE WINS AGAIN

Lyons Beats Savage By Technical Knockout In 2 Rounds

Elmer McMullen versus Duke Trammel next Thursday night!

That's the largest bit of news for the year so far to be broadcasted in Wichita Falls fistic circles. Fans have called loud, long, and often for a battle between the chubby Dodge City, Kansas slugger and the powerful little Cowtown knockout artist.

Trammel long has reigned over the welterweight division of the southwest, has beat everything brought to Wichita Falls at that weight for him to scrap, and has gone out on his own hook to other cities and licked the pugilistic cream of this section. But Trammel will have his hands full Thursday, in fact, many fight bugs are of the opinion that McMullen will put a stop to Dukum's meteoric rise.

Mac Trains Here.

McMullen, by boring in and knocking out Johnny Hoffman of Fort Worth, last night in the Legion main event in the sixth of a scheduled ten-rounder, won the right to meet Trammel next week. The Fort Worth lad agreed to meet the winner of the bout next Thursday. The two will step over the ten-round route. McMullen will remain in Wichita Falls, training daily at the Legion hall, until the day of the fight.

Hoffman turned out to be a fairly tough nut. Neither scrapper accomplished much in the opening stanza, but Mac came back in the second frame, led the going, and clipped Johnny on the cheek with a hard right cross, sending him down to mingle with the resin until the count of nine. Hoffman arose, and tore into his opponent as if he had never been touched.

McMullen earned a shade in the third and fourth. He socked Hoffman freely, the latter assimilating gobs of punishment, but displaying willingness to mix it. Hoffman bested Smiling Elmer in the fifth canto. Seemed to sock him groggy early in the round, and then tie him up with a series of jolts to the body. McMullen weathered the gale, however, and was having the better of the milling at the gong.

Elmer Quits Smiling.

The finish came early in the sixth. McMullen romped from his corner with a scowl on his face, bucked up, and slashed away with little or no let-up. Fighting in close, he punched Hoffman's ribs merrily, and then reversed to the head. A combination of wallops to the midriff followed by right and left head clips put Hoffman down for the ten tabulation.

Tabby Levine clearly beat Johnny Sherwood, San Antonio featherweight, in six rounds, but Johnny stayed in there, took a lot of punishment, and battled back, exchanging with the local lad freely. Sherwood refused to give ground, but neither did Tabby. Levine hit Sherwood almost at will after the first two rounds, but couldn't get to the button. Sherwood, on the other hand, rarely got over a clean blow. With a bit more coaching and training, the San Antonio boy—he's a beginner—should develop into a powerful little scrapper.

Jennings Not Out.

George Storey of Oklahoma City was given a three-round knockout over Battling Jennings, Henrietta welter. Storey had the better of the going, but Jennings was not down when counted out. He was in such a position that had Storey stepped in and clipped him there would have been no foul. The bout was a scheduled six-rounder.

Mickey Savage, Wichita Falls welter, failed to answer the bell for the third round after going down for the count of nine in the second before the dAving attack of Joe Lyons, one of the Thrift Terrors.

A negro battle royal was won by Kid Eddie.

Yankee Boss And Hurler Confer But Is It About Team's Chances?

Miller Huggins, manager of the ex champion Yankees, is wintering in St. Petersburg, Fla., where the permanent training camp of the team is being completed. Bob Shawkey, veteran hurler, is also sojourning at St. Pete. There they are on a bit of Florida real estate. Bob one of them is selling 'tother some of it.

Landon-Hill Beats Iowa Park Five

Chubby Neal led his fast stepping Landon-Hill basket ball squad into the Iowa Park lair and dragged a fast contest from the fire by a 24 to 22 count. This was the local team's sixth straight victory. The score at the half was 14 to 12 in the favor of the victors.

Shaw of the winners was high point man with six throws from the court tabulating 12 points. Van Horn, the bushy haired forward of the home club, ran Shaw a close second for high point honors with four from the court totaling eight. The usual brilliant guarding of Rice of Landon-Hill, was a feature of the game.

Commish Governed Boxing Not So Good In California

The California boxing commission has been functioning less than a month yet the three members composing this august body are headed in three different directions. The chief obstacle which leads to these different paths is the granting of permits. The trio in whose hands the safe guarding of the game is vested all have various ideas concerning what should be done. The trouble started to brew when the veteran, Tom McCares, started to erect a big arena and after he got well under way with his plans he was unable to secure a permit to operate.

So work halted and Tom visited Sacramento to learn the why and wherefore for such action.

When he arrived there he was told the session would be private and behind closed doors. Then he was told all questions about permits would have to be postponed until late in February, when the commission meets in the southern part of the state.

Then came the announcement that Seth Strellinger, the chairman of the commission, was favoring the American Legion in the matter of permits. He probably can't be blamed much, for he is a legion man and feels that the boys who fought for their country should also be allowed to fight for themselves. The other two commissioners want no favoritism shown and declare all are entitled to an equal chance. But Strellinger very cunningly brought politics into the fracas and had a bill introduced in the California assembly, which passed a resolution that the legion be favored when the matter of granting permits for boxing was the issue. Naturally the average politician caters for votes, annd realizes the legion was a big item at election, and the measure was adopted unanimously, 74 to 0. So that's that.

However, Steflinger has but one voice in three, and the other commissioners are in a position to outvote him. The other two commissioners also have their friends and favorites, and feel their friends mean as much to them as the legion means to Strellinger, so we see a merry little war between the commissioners ahead of us. There is only one solution to the matter. That is to grant permits to all whose records are clear, a license to operate. This means, with many clubs in the field, the survival of the fittest. Many of the clubs would prove failures, many of them could not meet the purses they offer, and this would automatically remove them from the field. In six months it would dwindle down to four or five clubs in the large cities and the matter adjust itself, for none of them can support continuous nightly fights. The commission, however, seems to adopt this plan. They want their favorites to have permits and then want to banish all opposition as well. That's how the matter stands at present writing

Paavo Rests Two Days, Then Continues Campaign Tonight

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—With only two days rest, Paavo Nurmi, will continue his sensational campaign tomorrow night when he attempts to lower the existing standard for one and one eighth miles at the indoor games of the Morningside Athletic club.

Far from showing any signs of staleness as a result of his strenuous and unprecedented sweep, the phantom Finn appeared fresher than ever in establishing three more world's records in two victorious races at the Millrose A. A. carnival the past two nights. Unexpected in either race, the invader romped to a victory at three quarters of a mile and a mile and a half. He has hung up 15 worlds marks in nine races since he began knocking out time and outclassing all rivals on January 6.

CANADIAN WALKER SENT TO HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—George Goulding, famous Canadian walker, who was forced by a breakdown to withdraw from competition on the eve of his attempted comeback last night against Ugo Frigerio, of Italy, and Willie Plant of the United States, was sent to a sanitarium today for a complete rest.

Physicians who examined Goulding today confirmed the announcement last night at the Milrose A. A. meet that it would have been dangerous for the veteran to have competed.

NURMI'S SPOOFING DEAR OLD AMERICAN PUBLIC; NO DOUBT ABOUT THAT, DECLARES LOOMIS

Shame, Shame—Phantom Finn's Not Running His Best While Defeating U. S. Champs

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—After watching Paavo Nurmi deposit his fifteenth indoor record in the athletic morgue, while winning the Wannamaker mile and a half list night, Jo Loomis, national champion of another day and age, delivered himself of the opinion that the Finn has merely kidded the great American public to date. Loomis thinks that, not unlike John Paul Jones, Admiral Perry or somebody who said he had just begun to fight, Paavo has not even begun to run.

The man who has made the records fall right and left in the path of his twinkling toes has only given 80 per cent of real speed since coming to America, that exchampion declared.

Nurmi, he says, can do a half mile in 1:49, the mile in 4 minutes, two miles in 9 minutes and so on at a corresponding speed up to 10 miles.

No Competition

"This talk of Nurmi's wonderful achievements is a joke, said Loomis, who had seen the great Finn in most of his races here. "Why, that man can take every one of the 15 records he has made on our indoor tracks and break them all over again by as much as five seconds. The public seems to be dazzled by his performances but it has missed the vital fact that the man has been under wraps in every race."

Loomis added he didn't consider Nurmi a limelight seeker and that, therefore, no one would really see him run until a new and almost equally gifted contender is developed. The present lot, he says, will not do at all; I nfact, ought to be given handicaps. Joie Ray included, in order to make the business interesting.

Million Dollar Legs

"Six or seven years ago Ray would have made Nurmi step some and you would have seen recordes created that would make the present standards look sick." Loomis declared. "But Joie is not the runner he was, in spite of general opinion to the contrary. This idea, I think, has been fostered by the fact that Ray ran 4:14 for the mile against Nurmi. But it is a fallacy. Seven years ago Nurmi would have carried Ray along at least two second faster than he can do now.

"As it is, Nurmi's competition is such that he plays around during a race. In the special three-quarters on Tuesday night he did everything a runner shouldn't do and yet he won, pulled up, in record time. I am not criticisizing his tactics, however, because I think he knew perfectly well that he did not have to resort to strategy.

"Nurmi has a million dollar pair of legs and they tell me he is very intelligent. That is an unbeatable combination. If he really makes up his mind to run no record will be safe, from Ted Meredith's half mile mark on up to 10 miles."

White Follows Benny's Lead— Quits Mitt Game

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Following the chamtion of his division, Charley the champion of hi sdivision, Charley White, veteran Chicago lightweight and one of Leonard's foremost rivals for years, today announced his retirement from the ring through his manager, Ike Dorgan.

White who plans to devote his future to business in Chicago, leaves the ring with a record of having fought eleven champions in bantamweight, featherweight and lightweight ranks, in a career begun in 1906. Record books credit him with having engaged in 181 fights, of which sixty one were knockouts.

One of White's most notable encounters was with Benny Leonard, in 1920 at Benton Harbor, Mich. White was knocked out in the 9th round of a terrific battle after he had sent Leonard through the ropes with one of his famous left hooks and came close to winning the lightweight title.

Her Reading Time and Her Newspaper!

STATISTICS minimize the importance of men to the retail merchant. Fully 90% of the retail merchandise of this country is bought under the direct influence of women. That covers men's clothing as well as women's apparel, children's wear, automobiles, food and general household furnishings.

The woman is the family purchasing agent.

What medium should you choose to gain the most attention from the greatest number of women?

Women Have MORE Reading Time in Daytime

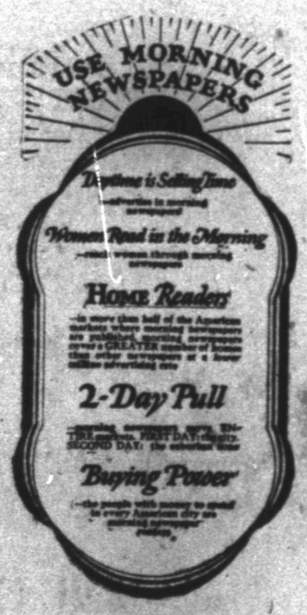

The reading habits of women were made the subject of a recent, thorough research in a group of representative American cities. It was found that thousands upon thousands of women have MORE time for reading newspapers during daylight hours.

Take This Plain Example

A receptive audience is granted the daylight selling message. The arguments penetrate when the lapse between reading and buying is reduced to a minimum. There are no locked-door hours between morning advertising and the woman's opportunity to buy.

Suppose you decided to sell your merchandise by house-to-house representatives instead of across the counters of your store. You would keep your men on the job during daylight hours—during the time when they would find their prospects at home. Daytime is selling time.

The morning newspaper is your representative before thousands of women in every trade territory. TEN HOURS EACH DAY.

Daredevil Lockwood Is Weakening

But The Big Reo Stock Touring Car Is Going Strong

—After 65 hours of non-stop endurance running finds Lockwood showing signs of fatigue and suffering from the cold weather he has had to face. While the big Reo is still going strong.

—Daredevil Lockwood is out to out do the big Reo. We do not believe he can do it. The Reo is a powerful, sturdy car and is built for endurance. One hundred hours of continuous driving is a strain on any car and driver, but we know what the Reo can do and are willing to wager a nice little bet that it will be going strong at the end of the 100 hours and could continue its grind indefinitely.

WATCH FOR LOCKWOOD AND THE BIG REO.

—The speedometer of the REO will be sealed throughout the entire run.

—To the person writing the nearest number of miles the car will travel in 100 hours of continuous driving, the Fritz Motor Co. will give a credit for one hundred dollar deposit on a new REO automobile. A box will be placed in the salesrooms of both places of business, Eighth and Austin streets, and 908 Ohio street, for the deposits of this.

Town Talk

ALL they needed at the city hall Thursday afternoon was a pine tree, some stockings, artificial snow, tinsel strings, red bells, candy and gifts. If they'd had those it might have been Christmas, for the red, green and yellow lights that usually accompany Yuletide celebrations were much in evidence.

Up above the flasher that operates the new traffic signals was installed a minature street intersection, so wired and connected that when green lights on the big lamps outside were burning, smal lgreen bulbs glowed two ways on the painted board. At the same time, the red lights set the other way were burning and when the switch from one to the other was made the amber bulb in the center flashed.

Most of the visible police department, an assortment of firemen and variops and sundry other city functionaries gathered in the municipal welfare offices where the device is located, turned off the lights and "oh'd" and "ah'd" when it was first put in operation.

IT doesn't take any seventh son of a seventh son to figure out what high school civics classes are studying these days if you happen to have many dealings with city officials.

For a week or more now the mayor, city clerk, tax collector, engineer and others have been besieged with students from the school collecting data on the workings of that intricate things known as "the city of Wichita Falls." Names, positions, salaries, length of official terms and other information is sought.

There have been lots of them, but invariably the juvenile petitioners have been diffident, unobtrusive and appreciative.

"Let 'em come," the dignitaries have said. "We're glad to help."

"THAT," quoth their honors the city clerk and tax collector as they schnned an envelope that had come to Wee Everett's desk, "is either subtle humor or a dirty dig."

Inside the covering was a city and school tax statement and a check remitting for the correct amount. An explanatory letter was also included.

Nothing so unusual about this, but the outside address was what took the eye of all and sundry.

It was simply directed to "The City of Wichita Falls, TAXES."

Marriage licenses issued Thursday by the county clerk's office were as follows: John Horton, Charlie, and Miss Ruby Robbins, Harrold; Richard Kohlman, Iowa Park, and Miss Dita Maxwell, Iowa Park.

Hubert Harrison, manager of the chamber of commerce, has gone to Austin to assist in the presenting of Wichita Falls interests to the legislature. County Judge R. D. Sartin has been in the capitol for some time in connection with the same affairs.

Milton Johnson has returned from a short business trip to Wynne, Ark.

Chief of Police George H. Hodgins is in Fort Worth and Dallas making a further study of the traffic control lights there and attending to other official business for the department.

S. M. Roberts Jr., has returned from a 10 day visit in Dallas.

Wichita Theatre Offers Good Bill For Week-end

Two Popular Songwriters Scheuled For Trip Here Today

JA DA, DARDANELLA

Couple of Good Comedians Promise to Tell "How It Happened"

Benny Rubins and May Usher with a company of Broadway players explain "How It Happened" This promises to be an exceptionally good and is the headliner at the Wichita theatre this week. The title of the act is not important and any other name would do equally as well. Benny Rubins is a well known vaudeville and moving picture comedian. He and his associates offer as lively a lot of songs and dances as one could wish for.

Lidell and Gibson announce themselves as "Just Vaudevillians." They sing, dance and talk, and tey do all three uncommonly well. They crowd fifteen minutes of good entertainment.

Song A Minute.

A song a minute is a pretty swift pace even for a song writer, but Bernard and Townes manage this without difficulty and this gives speed and pep to their act. Felix Bernard is a composer of popular music. The most popular of his muis cis probably "Dardanella." Townes is a lyric writer and so intheir act, Mr. Bernard presides at the piano and Mr. Townes furnishes the songs. Their act is full of fun and music.

Sam Berk and Juanita Saun are in Vogue. When Berk and Saun are not actually engaged in dancing, they are thinking up ideas for new dance steps. Among the best is a variety of Russian backsteps and a new arrangement of modern steps. Berk and Saun also sing a bit, just enough to create a breathing spell between steps.

Bob Carleton Here.

A young man named Bob Carleton peacefully pursued the life of an average citizen until one day he wrote a song called "Ja Da," and the next day he was known even unto the villages and the farms. Everywhere that songs were sung or murdered, "Ja Da" was heard. Since then he has originated many new songs, and he now sings them himself. His new associate is a clever and attractive young woman named Julia Bellew. Together they are offering a feast of songs and dances.

Sidney Landfield sings, plays and displays a sense of humour along with his playing that rates him high as an entertainer.

Yale Student Shoots 23 Yr. Old Widow

BRIDGEPORT, W. Va., Jan. 29.—After repeated refusals to marry him, Neeson Woods, 29, shot and probably fatally wounded Mrs. Georgia Wardner, pretty 23 year old widow at her brother's home here today and then shot and killed himself.

Woods, a university student, and son of the late J. E. Woods, prominent West Virginia attorney, had been infatuated with the widow for some time.

$3,000 Judgement To Whitham Co.

A personal judgment without foreclosure was returned Thursday morning in the 78th district court in the case of the L. E. Whitham company, paving contractors, vs. Mrs. S. D. Childers. Approximately $3,000 was involved.

The suit arose over a paving assessment levied by the city in favor of the plaintiff Whitham, and without the consent of the defendant Childers. In finding for the plaintiff the court sustained the provisions of the state paving law which permit a municipality to levy paving costs against property not used as a homestead.

Dallas And Sunny Galveston Line Up For Parnell Fight

Characterize Bill As "Disastrous" to Municipal Institutions

Dallas and Galveston are the latest Texas communities to line up with Houston and Wichita Falls in opposing Senator J. D. Parnell's public utilities bill, introduction of which has brought widespread complaints from municipal officials. A persistent belief that the measure, if it becomes operative, will work to the serious detriment of utility plants controlled by city governments, has inspired the kicks from the four cities mentioned.

Holcomb First

Senator Parnell's bill, the complete context of which was printed in Thursday morning's editions of The Record News, was assailed early in the week immediately after it had been reported on favorably to the senate by a sub-committee. Mayor Oscar Holcomb of Houston sent a protest to Senator Parnell and also wired Mayor Frank Collier of Wichita Falls, requesting that he use his influence to block further action on it, at least until interested parties could be heard. With the sanction of the city council, Mayor Collier wired Senator Parnell, asking that this be done.

Dallas and Galveston swung into line Wednesday when Mayor Louis Blaylock of the former and Mayor Bayliss Harris of the latter city wired legislators at Austin that they were unutterably opposed to the Parnell measure. Among other things, Mayor Blaylock's wire declared that "it is the judgment of myself and our legal department that the bill is wholly revolutionary and disturbs the entire machinery set up under our charter. x x x In our judgment the bill is wholly inimical and disastrous to the rights of the city of Dallas in operating its waterworks."

Galveston Emphatic

Mayor Harris of Galveston, characterized the measure as "disastrous to Galveston." Mayor Holcomb at Houston said it "sounds the death knell of publicly owned and operated utilities in Texas and Mayor Collier, while he has not given utterance to an official comment on the subject, has intimated that he is in favor of a thorough investigation of its provisions before it should be made operative.

Dr. Powers Garners Tyler Baptist Favor

The following article was clipped from Sunday's issue of the Tyler Texas paper:

"Dr. McNew, pastor of the First Baptist church, announces that arrangements have been made for a series of revival meetings, lasting about two weeks, in this city, beginning February 9.

"The preaching will be done by Dr. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church at Wichita Falls, and Mr. Young, well known evangelistic singer and choir director, will assist in the song service.

"Dr. Powers is one of the strongest Baptist pastor-evangelists of the south, and Dr. McNew considers his congregation exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure his services for the meeting. The Baptists are looking forward to the event with much enthusiasm."

Tax Paying Made Easy

In a great number of cases it works a hardship and is often impossible for the taxpayer to meet his taxes in a lump sum as is required in the case of property and personal tax of the state, county, city, school and water improvement district.

These taxes become delinquent after January 31st and thereafter are subject to penalty, costs and interest. These charges run the total up materially.

A plan is now offered by the Wichita Falls Finance company whereby the tax payer can obtain the necessary funds to pay his taxes in full and refund the loan from them in monthly payments.

The cost is considerably less than if one's taxes become delinquent and are unpaid for several months and the fees and interest are added.

They have the funds for this purpose and can give prompt service. Call on them at 806 Eighth street, Kemp Hotel Bldg., and have the method explained.—Adv.

Radio Thief Will Pilfer No More; All Fans Happy

Believe He Burned His Set Up; Ether Is Clear Now

Marked silence that radio fans of the city have joyously absorbed has emanated lately from Wichita Falls' "radio thief." For a week or more now, it seems, his aerial clatter that wrecked receiving and ruined tempers has not been heard. The supposition is that the offender, who ever he was, was stricken with qualms of concience, suffered an acute attack of lmek ague when he learned several hundred radio enthusiasts were thirsting for his blood, or else his infernal wireless outfit burned up and scorched his fingers. It is hoped the latter possibility is the nearest correct, his one-time victims assert.

The trouble was pronounced for several weeks here early in the year and what was declared by many to be static was diagnosed by some experts as really the broadcasting efforts of an amateur who had a wireless set. Wireless senders and radio receivers are a constant neighborhood quarrel in the scientific social set, it seems, for nothing so disturbs the equanimity of a respectable receiving set as to have an aggressive wireless outfit in the same vicinity cluttering up the ether.

Recognizing this, the U. S. department of commerce has put into effect some very clear and emphatic regulations concerning the operation of wireless stations—the general trend of which make it a case of no can do for them.

Wichita Falls' host of amatuer bugs are in hopes that the disturber has definitely quieted down and that stations BULL, PDQ, COD and all the others can do their dirtiest without interference.

Hold Second Hearing On Harrison Paving

Another holding of public hearings on the Harrison street paving project from Pearl street to Speedway may be necessary, it was disclosed Thursday, although this will in no way effect the contract awarded the Plains Paving company. Neither will it in any way delay construction of the hard surface.

It has been found that a few of the streets crossing Harrison within the proposed improvement area had not been dedicated to the city by the property owners over which the thoroughfares run. The hearing date, Feb 2, was set before the dedication had been made and thus a legal technicality may make necessary the holding of hearings at a later day.

Grant 8 Building Permits Yesterday

Eight building permits issued Thursday by Building Inspector Fred A. Smith swelled the already large total this week, but added only $19,750 to the aggregate values of new structures started.

Oddly enough, out of the entire lot of eight, not a single permit was for an amount greater than $3,000. Three of the permits were for that figure and the balance were for sums ranging down to as low as $500. All but two of the jobs were for new residences.
