Volume 47

Junction, Kimble County, Texas, Thursday, May 1, 1930

BOY SCOUTS WILL ORGANIZE HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

Next Tuesday evening a boy scout troop will be organized in Junction, if present plans materialize, according to Mr. C. T. Holekamp and other men who are interested in the work. Messrs. C. T. Holekamp, H. W. Rieck, Roy Borden, V. P. Emmons, W. H. Baker and Guy C. Moses met Tuesday morning with Mr. Draper of San Angelo who is district representative of the Boy Scout work. Mr. McManus, field representative of the ranch district will be here Tuesday evening and help in the organization.

Every one interested in this work should attend the meeting Tuesday and help the boys get started right. The boy scout movement is a good one and worthy of support.

Rotarians and Lions Battle Through 7 Innings For Tie

Battling through seven innings of sensational baseball, the Junction Rotary team and the Junction Lions held each other to an 18 to 18 tie on the Firemen's Field Monday afternoon before a crowd of approximately 500 people. The Panama uniforms forced the sun behind clouds during the entire game, and made the clouds weep Monday night.

Both sides displayed unusual team work, considering the short practice allowed the teams. Excellent pitching kept the score down. Had it not been for the superior hurling of Standifer and Loeffler for the Rotarians, the Lions would have pushed over a brace of runs that they were robbed of. Aubrey Hill, R. E. Homann and Odie Wright did the mound duty for the Lions. The Rev. Milton F. Hill, outstanding Rotarian, preached a good sermon behind the bat.

Bill Murrah called a sterling game as umpire, and Arthur Dunbar watched the bases like a hawk. Members of the Junction Fire Department team, after seeing such a brand of ball being played on the field, went into a frenzy of jealousy. Coach Pete Blackburn was seen jotting down notes hoping to improve his own proteges. If Blackburn could get his team to show as much pep on the ball ground as they did Monday, the Firemen would leap upward in the percentage column.

One of the high spots in the game came in the 6th inning when S. A. McDonald, Lion first sacker, knocked a home run into deep left field and cleared the bases. In the last frame, Odie Wright pounded a four-sack hit into right field, but the umpire ruled him out because in the excitement, he failed to tromp on the second base—the Rotarians said that he didn't touch any of them.

Coach V. P. Emmons of the Rotarians, played a stellar game on third, managing to go as far as to touch one ball knock-wards him. But as a coach, he displayed real baseball talent, calling the right man to the right position.

ROTARIANS ATTEND 47TH DISTRICT MEET AT CORPUS CHRISTI

Messrs. A. G. Farmer and E. R. Borden and wives left Wednesday morning to attend the 1930 conference of the 47th District of Rotary International which is being held in Corpus Christi on May 1st and 2nd. They will represent the local club at the meeting.

An interesting program has been arranged for the two day session, and a number of entertaining features have been planned for the visiting Rotarians.

JUNCTION WILL ATTEMPT TO SECURE NEXT MEETING OF HILL COUNTRY FIREMEN

Coronation of Queen Will Be Held Saturday

Members Of I. O. O. F. Have Banquet Friday

Through the efforts of A. G. Farmer, a get-together meeting of the Junction I. O. O. F. Lodge, number 788, was held Friday evening in the Chase building, for the purpose of discussing the future plans of the lodge. A banquet was served to the Odd Fellows by the Senior Epworth League of the Methodist Church.

After the banquet a short program was given. Mrs. H. O. Patterson gave a reading which was well received. Little Edwina Lowgren delighted those present with a clever little reading.

Over $75 was raised at the meeting by the payment of dues. Many expressed a desire to reinstate in the lodge. The next regular meeting of the lodge will be held on Thursday, May 8.

Those attending the banquet were: Messrs. Joe Bissett, Pierce Hoggett, Joe Ramsey, A. G. Farmer, W. H. Baker, Carl Taff, Loss Davis, R. I. ## IT'S OPEN SEASON ON GAME FISH NOW

This morning marked the open season on all game fish in the waters of Kimble County. It's size, not season, that will protect the fish now. But if a bass more than eleven inches long happens to eat a fish hook, why, that's the fisherman's good luck.

With the opening of the season, the tourists will soon be arriving with their silk lines and enticing baits. The river banks will be lined with fishermen and then the fish stories will start and the editor's problem of finding news will be solved —for a while.

Spring Mohair Is Shipped Out First of Week

Last Monday and Tuesday the Junction Cattle Loan Company shipped out the accumulation of the spring mohair clip to the National Wool Marketing Corporation at Boston. The total accumulation amounted to approximately 225,000 pounds, according to Mr. W. P. Riley. The mohair was trucked to Menard where it was loaded for the long trip to Boston.

Wool is now coming into the warehouse and there is already about 30,000 pounds of spring wool in the warehouse. Wool is bringing about 18 to 20 cents per pound. Mohair brought 35 and 45 cents.

The Kimble County Freight Depot had charge of moving the mohair from Junction to Menard.

Livestock Meet To Draw Many

Plans are going forward on the Livestock Judging Contest and Poultry show which will be held in Junction on May 9 and 10.

A large number of visiting livestock judging teams will be entered in the competitive exhibition stock judging meet. The matter of selecting individual animals is a source of good training for boys and girls, and will serve as good practice to the teams that will be entered in the annual contest at College Station in August.

Baby Beef Auction
One of the many interesting features of the program for May 10 will be the sale of the club steer calves. These calves have been on feed for an average of 170 days and will weigh around 850 to 900 pounds. They are not outstanding show cattle, but are only grade calves. Plans are being made for club boys to feed around thirty calves during the coming year.

Home Demonstration
As a part of the program for May 10th, Miss Veta Culpepper, home demonstration agent for Kerrville, will conduct a demonstration in home improvement. Miss Leta Bennett, Home Demonstration agent at Brady, will put on a demonstration in canning.

All 4H Club boys and girls in the county and all ladies are invited to take part in this phase of the program.

GOOD RAINS

The weather man favored this section last Monday with a good rain. A shower had fallen on Friday before and with the rain Monday everything is growing. Feeding has stopped and ranchmen are feeling better. More rain is needed, but it is cloudy and prospects are good for more. All feed crops can now be planted and it is time to forget our severe winter and long drought.

There were several other applications considered by the board, but Boyd's was finally accepted.

He will start work immediately, laying plans for the continuance of the work of the organization.

MRS. J. O. DAVIS DIES

Mrs. J. O. Davis, well known to the pioneer citizens of Kimble County, died at her home in Roscoe, Texas, Sunday afternoon and was laid to rest by the side of her husband who preceded her six years ago. Mr. J. D. Braley and Mrs. Alex Hamer of Junction were the only two of her immediate family present at the funeral.

Mrs. Davis was born in Alabama January 6, 1854, being 76 years old at the time of her death. She moved with her family to Gonzales County, Texas, in 1873. She was married to J. O. They made their home here about fifteen years and after the death of her husband six years ago she moved back to Junction and lived awhile, but returned to Roscoe where she spent the rest of her life. She is survived by the following brothers and sister:

J. A. Braley, Cottonwood, Arizona; T. J. Braley, Itasca; J. D. Braley, Junction; N. V. Braley, Medina; Bert Braley, Menard; and Mrs. Alex Hamer, Junction.

In early life she united with the Baptist Church and remained a member of that organization until her death. She often said that she was ready to go and death was no unwelcome visitor to her.

Several prominent ranchmen were present at the demonstration and at the close, every rancher present heartily endorsed the new device.

EXPRESSION CLASS GIVES PRETTY EASTER PROGRAM

A number of the youngest pupils of Mrs. Conde Hardeman's class in expression gave an interesting entertainment Easter Monday afternoon at the Hodges Hotel when their mothers were complimented with a program tea by Mrs. Hardeman. The pleasant rooms were gay with garden roses and old fashioned honeysuckle. An effective grouping of growing ferns suggested a stage for the youthful performers. The program consisted of individual readings and several little dances. Mrs. Guy E. Wynne sang "My Lady Love and The Spring Has Come" and accompanied the dancers. The following children took part: Mary Kathleen Hodges, Maurice and Wilburn Nethery, Virginia Ashabranner, March Burt, Jack Denman, Josephine Hamilton, Wilna Pepper, Florence Ellen Sheppard, Cecil Martin Holekamp, Winton Oliver, Roberta Ragland and Mary Edmer. Five little former students of the class, Marie Tracy, Betty Fay Kindrick, Patricia Patterson, Dickie Dane Emmons and Victor Loeffler, with their mothers, were guests of the afternoon and took part in the program. Of special interest were the numbers given by little Mary Kathleen Hodges and Cecil Martin Holekamp, who have been studying for only a short time but whose work showed excellent finish.

Following the recital refreshments featuring the Easter motif were served. The children's table was spread with green and centered with a great nest of rabbits and Easter chicks, and flanked with bowls of roses. The guests included Mesdames G. R. Ragland, Maurice Nethery, Guy E. Wynne, H. O. Denman, L. R. Hodges, George Hamilton, Roy Williams, George Pepper, Conrad Holekamp, Miller Oliver, Fred Burt, U. D. Kindrick, Mattie Patterson, V. P. ## LONDON LOCALS

Miss Goldie Brewer who is attending the State Normal at San Marcos was home for a few days recently. Goldie is one of our charming young ladies. She is intelligent and industrious and we expect results.

Through a mutual friend we had news of Bill Cummins recently. Bill is working his way through college and later on we expect him to show us how well he has succeeded. History gives us the record that a majority of our great men have worked their way through college and upward to success just like Bill is now working his way through college. Rah!

Our friend, Mr. Hez Denman, of Junction State Bank was a visitor in our town last week. He was all interest in the sale of a car until we mentioned county politics. Hez became mute at once, but incidentally we referred to the prohibition question and at once discovered that we had uncapped a restrained volcano of eloquence.

Mr. Denman at once forgot all about the auto he would like to sell, and in a few minutes he had cursed the entire territory from J. J. Rascoe, New York, to a banker in San Antonio, from a free born American citizen to the undesirable anarchist of the darker hue. Mr. Denman is a bright, interesting, clever gentleman and we sure did enjoy the few minutes he gave us, and will wait impatiently for his next visit.

T. S. Jones and Bob Ragland passed through town Friday with a shipment of cattle for the market. There have been a few sheep trucks also moving the last few days, don't know whether to market or changing range, anyway it looks more encouraging to see live stock begin to move.

W. U. D'Spain and son, Aaron, of Lampasas were visitors in our town Friday. They informed us the rain had extended as far east as they had driven and did not know how much farther.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lange of the Yates community visited Gillespie County the last of the week. Tullie said he was going down to associate some with the Dutch; might eat with them if they acted nice.

Miss Victoria Brewer and a crowd of school children spent Saturday night and Sunday on the river. All report a lovely time.

Jacob Fritz has sold ten acres of land off the place he bought of A. J. D'Spain to Mrs. Hulda Burt for a consideration of near $80 per acre. How is that for London real estate? No improvements. Properly improved it would easily be worth twice the amount.

Our country is looking good since the fine showers. Corn and feed crops are doing well, grass and weeds are looking well, but it make one feel sad to see so much of the live oak and mesquite dead. Froze! What about that? Timber freezing in Southwest Texas where one seldom needs an overcoat during the winter months. Well, it was cold last winter but we did not expect such results.

Our baseball boys went to Harper Sunday and engaged in a hard fought battle with Harper boys. The game resulted in a defeat for our boys—8 to 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Cole are spending a few days with Mrs. Cole's father and mother. Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brewer.

Everett Stewart, a retired school teacher, now a resident of the Ivy community and a candidate for County Judge of this county, made a talk, stating the purpose of the meet, and also spoke a few words relative to his candidacy for office. Between twelve and thirteen dollars were taken in from the sale of sandwiches, cakes, pies, candy, etc., which will be used to meet some little incidental accounts which the school had incurred.

We, as teachers, pupils and patrons, are glad to express our gratitude to all those who sent or brought articles for the sale. We shall remember your co-operation.

JOHN A. KLEIN, 95, DIES WEDNESDAY

John A. Klein, Harper's oldest citizen, died at the home of Mrs. Henry Tatch last Wednesday evening. Mr. Klein was ninety-five years and six months old at the time of his death. For several weeks he had been steadily growing in feebleness until death came Wednesday evening. Mr. Klein was a charter member of the Grand Army of the Republic and was one of fifteen original members. He was one of two left. The other is Charles Enderlin, of Fredericksburg, who survives him.

Mr. Klein came to America among 39 colonists in 1846. Of the thirty-nine there are only three or four who are still living. Funeral services were conducted from St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Harper Friday morning, with Rev. H. Kickx officiating. Interment followed in the Catholic cemetery, west of the city.—Harper Herald.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Thursday afternoon from three to five-thirty Maudine Taff and Charles Stewart Dunbar entertained with a picnic at Schreiner Park in honor of their ninth birthdays. After two hours merriment and playing all kinds of games, they were all asked to sit in a circle and the twin cakes iced in white with nine pink candles each were brought forth.

Ice cream and cake were served to thirty-five guests. They received many nice and useful gifts.

All departed at five-thirty, wishing for Maudine and Charles Stewart many more happy birthdays.

MRS. LEONARD COWSERT COMPLIMENTS NIECE

Advertising Makes People Eat Oranges

The daily purchases of millions of people are conditioned by advertising. The breakfast foods, ketchups, toothpastes and galoshes that they could do without, and which their grandfathers did do without, were introduced by advertising and are kept there by advertising—the advertising of manufacturers in the newspapers, posters and window displays and direct mail matter. Cut this advertising sharply off and we would have a slump beside which the stock exchange debacle would be a mere incident.

Our prosperity depends on the state of mind of the ultimate consumer, and the ultimate consumer is at the other end of an advertisement.

Orange growers in California have taught us to eat fifty oranges a year. What do they do with the money they get for them? Spend it for goods that you and I make and sell for a living.

Would we be better off if the Californians kept their oranges and we kept our goods? There would have been no such consumption of oranges but for the co-operative advertising of orange growers. A large market was created out of nothing. If they let up we would slump back to our old annual quota of seventeen oranges per capita instead of sixty-seven, and the orange growers would have less to spend for toothpastes and radios, and the toothpaste and radio manufacturers have to retrench a little, and so on around the circuit. Business is simply money and goods in circulation.

When they circulate freely, business is good. When there is restraint, caution, hesitation, business slumps.

The above item is taken from an article "Now is the Time to Advertise," which appeared in the Review of Reviews, March issue. We wish that every business man could read it. Also, we wish that every producer of wool and mohair would read it twice.

The sheep and goat rancher might get an idea about what could be done through national advertising to increase the demand for wool and mohair goods, and combat the consumer's tendency to accept substitutes of rayon, etc.

And also, we have an idea that many local business men, some of whom think that advertising is hokum, that it may work in some other town but not in Leakey, might at least have a different argument.—Leakey Leader.

FINAL INSTALLMENT

He telephoned to the hangar and learned to his satisfaction that the pilot had arrived. He would have liked to advance the hour of his departure, but he knew that for once he must keep faith—Connor was a dangerous man, and he had no desire to let two enemies grow in place of one.

Once or twice, as he loafed about the less frequented streets of Pimlico, he had the impression that he was being shadowed; but when once he walked back in desperate boldness to interview the man who was following him, he found it was a perfectly inoffensive stranger to the neighborhood who was trying to find a street and a number.

He had work to do—vengeful work—and he completed this in a teashop near Vauxhall Bridge. Making a wide detour, he reached the central post office and handed in the telegram addressed to Inspector Bird. It ran:

The man who was concerned in the Taffany robbery was Luke Maddison. He is attempting to leave London tonight. His wife and Gunner Haynes are aware of the double life he has been living. He signed with his own name. Late as was the hour, he knew that the telegram would be delivered. He went back to meet his companion in misfortune, feeling more cheerful than he had felt all day.

It was nearly eleven o'clock that night when Margaret had the car brought to the door and Luke's suitcase deposited. Her intention was to drive the car to the lower part of Villiers Street and send the chauffeur with the suitcase to the cloakroom. She came into the south end of the Strand and the car had some difficulty in making its way through the returning theater traffic, but after a long wait it turned down the steep street toward the Embankment, and at a signal from Margaret the chauffeur stopped the machine.

It was raining heavily; there were few pedestrians in sight, and those were hurrying to reach the shelter of the Underground station. She pulled at the catch of the door to open it, that the chauffeur might more easily take the suitcase at her feet, when, out of the shadows, came a shabby-looking figure. He must have seen her difficulty, for he turned the handle and pulled open the door before the chauffeur could descend.

"Thank you," said Margaret, and handed him the piece of money she had ready to pay the luggage-room attendant.

As she did so she switched on the light. For a second she stared into the unshaven face and the grimy figure.

"Luke!" she gasped. He was stricken dumb with amazement, was unable to speak or move.

"Luke!" she said again. Then, as he shrank back, her hand shot out and gripped him by the coat.

"Come in, for God's sake!" she said breathlessly, and half dragged him to her side.

At that moment the chauffeur arrived.

"Drive on," she said hurriedly. "This is a—a friend of mine."

She only hoped that the man could not see the scarecrow who was seated at her side.

"Where shall I go, madam?" "To—the house," she said.

As the chauffeur climbed back into his seat, a third figure appeared. He came running down the street like a man pursued, and gripping the handle of the door, leaped onto the running board as the car moved.

She thought at first it was a policeman, but then a passing street lamp revealed the dark face of Gunner Haynes.

"Don't make a fuss," he said, as he blundered in, slamming the door behind him. "I've chased your car from the Haymarket. Who's this?"

He peered forward and she heard him whistle.

"Is that Mr. Maddison?" "Yes, it's me," said Luke, speaking for the first time.

His voice sounded pitifully weak. He had been turned out of the police station—where he had been detained on a charge of vagrancy—in the early part of the afternoon and had not eaten since the morning. He made no attempt to explain his need, he was too tired and weary to care very much. The soft luxury of the padded seats dulled him into lethargy; he was nodding almost before the car reached the Embankment.

"All right, don't wake him," said Gunner Haynes in a low voice. "He was arrested this morning. I've only just found out; one of my—friends told me. The police are looking for him. Somebody sent a wire to the Sparrow—I suspect it was friend Danty. Where are you taking him?"

"Home," she said. She was wrapping a rug about the chilled figure in the corner of the car.

"You'll have a policeman waiting on the mat. No you'll take him to Elford. What's this?"

He kicked against the suitcase and she explained, and heard him chuckle.

"You must be a thought reader. That's the very thing he'll require—not tonight perhaps, but in the morning. We're going to Elford. Do you know it?"

It's three-quarters of an hour's run, and if we're lucky we'll reach there before two of the biggest rats that ever climbed out of Thames mud."

She leaned out of the window and gave directions to the chauffeur.

"Couldn't we drive on to Dover and get on board the boat?" she asked urgently.

Gunner Haynes shook his head.

"No, that won't work. The Sparrow's a good fellow, but he'd shop his own mother. And if, as I believe, Mr. Morell, or whatever his present name is, has blown—has told the story of Taffany's—every boat will be watched. Besides, there isn't one till daylight that we could possibly catch. There's only one chance, and that is for Mr. Maddison to appear in Spain, where he is supposed to be. I think that can be worked—unless Mr. Danty Morell has got too far ahead of us."

"You've got a fur coat on—that's good. You can lend it to your husband. It'll look rather silly, but nobody will see him."

"What are you going to do?" she asked.

"I'm going on an airplane ride tonight, and he's going with me," he said. "As for you, Mrs. Maddison, your work is very simple. You'll return to London; you'll lie a little—I hope it won't hurt you very much—and leave for Spain tomorrow. If I can't get him there after I've landed him in France, I'm a Dutchman."

There was a silence, and then:

"I know a better way," she said quietly. "I can go with him."

To her surprise, the Gunner did not combat that suggestion.

"Perhaps you're wise," was his comment.

They came at last to a dark and bumpy road, and here the car was stopped by the Gunner's instructions. He got down and pointed into the darkness.

"Pull your car over there and shut off all your lights," he said, and when this was done and with great trouble the car had been maneuvered over the rough ground and the engine had been shut off, he came back to the girl. "We're here first," he said. "I'm banking on Danty being cautious—look!"

Lights were coming along the road from the direction of London. It was a car, which stopped a hundred yards away, and then after a while turned around.

"They're walking the rest of the journey," murmured the Gunner with grim satisfaction.

"Wait here."

He walked to the entrance of the untidy little aerodrome and slipped something from his pocket. He had not long to wait; Danty and Connor turned out of the road again.

"Is that you, Higgins?" asked Danty. "Is the pilot here—?"

"Everybody's here including me," said the Gunner. "Don't try any funny business, Connor; I've got you covered, and there's a silencer on my gun. You'll hear no more than a 'plop' and you'll be in hell!"

Danty said nothing. Haynes could almost hear him shivering with fear.

"Well, what next?" asked Connor.

"The next is a long walk back to the nearest town, unless you've had the intelligence to keep your car. If you're clever you'll run—I'm afraid you haven't a chance," he added, as he saw the red tail light of the car moving rapidly away. "The police are controlling this aerodrome, and you've a snowflake of a chance of getting away."

"You're being a friendly little fellow and helping us; is that what you're telling us to believe?" sneered Connor.

"Don't talk—walk," said the Gunner sternly. "I'm not in my best temper tonight. I've practically promised I wouldn't kill you, but it won't take a hellolafot to make me change my mind."

"Come on, Connor. The Gunner wouldn't put us in bad—"

"I found the letters, Danty," said Haynes softly. "You know just how near you are to eternal rest, don't you?"

Danty said nothing; he grabbed the arm of his reluctant friend and almost dragged him back to the roadway. They walked rapidly back the way they had come, and must have gone a hundred yards before Connor stopped.

"I'm not going to stand for this bird—" he began, when a voice behind him said:

"Walk!" and he obeyed.

When he had seen them well on their way, the Gunner sped back to the car. Luke was awake; they were talking together in a low tone, he and this strange bride of his, and Gunner Haynes thought it delicate to leave them and interview the pilot.

He found the machine waiting, with two weary mechanics and an impatient pilot, and to the latter he gave new instructions. The other argument he employed was a very effective one, for the airman agreed cheerfully to all conditions.

"I can carry three or ten," he said. "There'll be no difficulty about getting up. I've done this night trip hundreds

NEW LINES IMPROVE TELEPHONE SERVICE

Mr. J. B. Whiteman of Brady, district manager of the Southwest States Telephone Company, was here the first of the week looking after the interests of his company. A metallic circuit has just been completed to Roosevelt and lines have been built out from Junction in several directions to lighten the load on some of the rural lines. The citizens of Roosevelt and vicinity can now get connection with Junction without any disturbance on the line. Several of the other lines have been relieved by building additional lines.

Approximately forty miles of new lines have been strung out of Junction the past few weeks at a cost of about $1,500 to the company. It is the plan of the company, Mr. Whiteman states, to keep improving the service in Junction until it is as good as the best.

Statement of the Ownership, Management, Circulation, Etc., Required by the Act of Congress of August 24, 1912. Of the Junction Eagle, published Weekly at Junction, Texas, for April 1, 1930.

I, Edgar McLenndon, do hereby certify that I am the owner and publisher of the Junction Eagle, published Weekly at Junction, Texas, for April 1, 1930.

1. That the Junction Publishing Company, Junction, Texas, is the owner and publisher of the Junction Eagle, published Weekly at Junction, Texas, for April 1, 1930.

2. That the owner is: The Junction Publishing Company, Junction, Texas.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders, mortgagors, and other persons, owning or holding in whole or in part any interest in the said publication, are: Weaver H. Baker, Junction, Texas.

of times." Satisfied on this score, Gunner Haynes went back to the car and interrupted the more than usually intimate conversation.

"I've a little scrap of paper to give you when its light enough to read it, Mrs. Maddison. It concerns the death of your brother—I'm sorry to be so brutal, but I think you ought to know that the man who ruined him was Danty, and—"

"I guessed that," she said quietly.

It was still drizzling and the clouds were low, but neither of the three passengers evinced the slightest anxiety as, with a roar of the engines, the big monoplane swept into the dark-thick mist of clouds, until they emerged with the moon riding in a clear sky above them and billowing white clouds beneath.

Watch for "Our Ideal Senior Boy."

ENGLISH VII

During the past week the 7th grade English class has been the scene of many discussions.

A number of vital problems have been discussed and most of these have been put into written form.

These are examples of some of the subjects on which the students have expressed their opinions.

SCHOOL ROOM WASTE AS PUBLIC GRAFT

School children must be less destructive.

Each year in Texas alone, millions of dollars are spent for books. Usually more is spent for equipment.

The homes are the nests of these bills.

Had the parents instilled enough pride and respect in their children, teaching them to care for their belongings and not to destroy other's property because they have no interest in it, the amount would be greatly lowered.

Will the parents of Texas allow their children to be classed as "young ruffians" because of the amount of equipment destroyed each year?

By Fay McConaig, grade 7.

THE COST OF SMOKING CIGARETTES

What is the real cost of smoking? Estimate that a person smokes one package a day. That would be $54.75 a year. But is this the real cost of smoking? No; physical cost is first.

A boy who starts smoking when very young is not likely to grow much but will be run down and unhealthy. Sometimes smoking causes tuberculosis and other diseases of the lungs.

When young people smoke, they will not usually let their parents know. In this way they become sneaks. If they can get by with this and need some money, they will steal.

Of course there is the lasting danger of fire. Smoking causes more fires than any other thing.

Again, there is money. This habit, as well as any other, costs money. If cigarettes are used, there is the cost of matches besides.

Now smokers, young and old, are you not convinced that money is only one-fourth of the cost of this habit?

By Marguerite King, grade 7.

A SQUARE DEAL ON THE PLAYGROUND

Do you believe in justice for all?

If so, help us to provide enough equipment for every child to get a square deal on the playground.

Every day you find children who do not get a square deal. There are some children who think they must have all the authority.

It is useless for them to try, because we are going to stop all this selfishness and disorder which will enable us to become better boys and girls.

We are all human beings and should have a desire to enjoy life and help others enjoy it. You cannot do this when you are treated unjustly.

Boys and girls, do unto others as you would have them do unto you.

By Melba Stephenson, grade 7.

NINTH GRADE NOTES

Eleanor Highsmith spent Saturday night and Sunday at the Hendricks ranch.

Stella Bissett and Jewel Riley attended the baseball game at Menard Sunday.

Veola Wahl visited her aunt and uncle in Fredericksburg the past week-end. Why did Raymond look so sad?

The ninth grade English class has read several interesting one-act plays in class.

Everyone seemed to be sorry that Osborn Fox, a sophomore, missed his chair when he started to give a book report Tuesday morning. Did he hurt—the floor?

Harry: "I would like to see a pair of shoes that will fit my feet."

Bonita: "So would I."

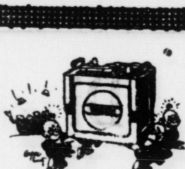

The Juniors wish to take this method of expressing their appreciation to those who supported them last Saturday in the sale which they had.

Cultivate your better self and you will develop into a man pleasing in the sight of God.

The happiness of discounting one's bills brings happiness and profit.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas: The all-wise and Supreme Ruler of the Universe has in His Infinite Wisdom seen fit to remove from his earthly home into Higher and Holier service our esteemed brother, J. W. Boone, and

Whereas: The transition has caused a void and vacant place in the home of our deceased brother, where the bereaved wife and children are mourning with bleeding hearts over the death of the devoted husband and loving father therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of our beloved brother, his wife has lost the companionship of one whose place cannot be filled and his children a kind and loving father. May God in His Infinite mercy help his widow and her loved ones, standing as it were, on the lonely shores of time, with deepened faith and hope to sustain the irreparable loss, with tender fortitude and humble submission to His Divine Will, and

Whereas: This Lodge mourns the loss of our beloved brother. While the parting is sad we must remember that:

"One by one we cross the river; One by one we are passing o'er; One by one the crowns are given On that bright and happy shore."

In recounting the days and years we have known this brother, it awakens in us a knowledge of his many virtues. We sorrow in the loss of his worthy example, his righteous life, and his good influence. To his family he was kind and generous; to the principles of honor he was always true; to his fellow man he was ever just; in thought and manners he was considerate. His friends, though numbered by the hundreds, each had a warm place in his great heart. We cannot disregard our obligations to such a friend and fail to give him the homage he is due; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in respect to our departed brother the members of Junction Lodge No. 788, I. O. O. F., wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days, and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be conveyed to his bereaved family that they may know our esteem for him, and that they may feel they can depend on our kindness to them, and that these expressions also be spread on the minutes of this lodge, and a copy be furnished the Junction Eagle for publication.

SNOW IN MAY, 1857

On the 11th day of May, 1857, snow fell throughout North Texas to a depth of twelve inches and all vegetation was destroyed. Forest trees were stripped of their foliage, wheat, corn and oats and all farm and garden crops were so completely destroyed as if the entire country had been swept by fire. On the 8th day of May in 1877, the cold was nearly as intense but there was no snow.—Menard Messenger.

Junction Trade Notes

(By G. G. Co.)

May 1, 1930: With abundant rains, it's like Christmas in the Hill Country and Valleys of the Llanos. Tired business men of Texas cannot make a mistake this year of our Lord in coming with their families to rest and play on the classic Llanos, where every prospect pleases. . . . San Antonio Express, enumerating West Texas attractions, says the spring rivers of the Hill County are among Nature's wonders—the most striking of all being known as the "Land of 700 Springs" on South Llano, which should be designated as a State park. . . . Have you been counted in the Census? If not, you should get in touch with C. W. Atchison of Junction, or the enumerator of the district in which you live.

The Universal Mfg. Co. of Abilene has spent thousands of dollars developing a new food product—"Woman's Club Coffee." We have it for sale in 1 and 3 lb. tins. There is a 10c cash coupon in each 3-lb. can, which may be donated to any civic club. Gann Grocery Company, "Pecan Nut Butter" blended with peanut, is a product of the Abilene firm, and it is attracting favor in Junction.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Homann are happily domiciled at beautiful Kimble Courts in Junction, after a honeymoon in San Antonio. . . . Mrs. C. L. Mohr is again at home in Kimble Courts after a visit with her mother and sisters in Ballinger.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Browning moved this week and are occupying the Mrs. Lola Braley residence. . . . Mrs. C. W. McCarroll during the week enjoyed the visit of her father, T. J. Motley, of Miles, who was captivated by the magic waters of the Llanos. Mr. Motley is a pioneer West Texan, locating at Miles when there was little to designate the town except livestock leading pens.

Mrs. Ed. Allen and W. E. Jr., left Monday for a visit with her mother in Midland, and Ed is open to dinner engagements for ten days or longer.

Special price on choice Mason County honey, in gallons, for next ten days. Gann Grocery Company, ice cream, salt, in bags and in bulk, "Doggie Dinner," a prepared food for dogs and other pets, in 15c tins.

The town of Mason has purchased a 500-gal. water tank mounted on a commercial truck chassis with pressure pump operated by the machine's own power—adapted for fighting grass fires and incipient residence fires. . . . Any reference to a fire department reminds us of the invaluable service which the Junction Volunteer Fire Department is rendering to the community, and that with small cost to anyone. Members of the local fire dept. should not have to pour concrete at night.

Junction's accumulation of 200,000 lbs. spring mohair was sold last week to the Co-Op Marketing Ass'n on an average of 35c and 45c. The mohair was loaded out Monday and Tuesday, and on Thursday the growers got their money, which is the exemplification of efficient services. . . . Boston wool market quotes fine Texas 12-month wools at 78c to 80c, scoured basis.

For spring cleaning: Linen mops, "Bettye Bright" self-wringing mops, brooms 45c to $1 for the best, O'Ceard polish, warhorse brooms, etc.

KNOW TEXAS

Texas has 119 oil refineries with combined daily capacity of 882,500 barrels of crude. One-third of the Texas total manufactures comes from these refineries.

Texas derives nearly $1,500,000 a year from its poll taxes, payment of which is prerequisite to voting, and gives two-thirds of it to the available school fund.

FORD OUTSELLS ALL CARS IN LAST THREE MONTHS

Forty and four-tenths per cent of all cars sold during January, February and March this year were Model A Fords. For the first three months of 1930 Ford sales amounted to 192,918 and the nearest competitor 118,459, giving Ford a majority of 74,459.

Speaking of cylinders, there are two main factors that enter into or influence the use of a particular engine in an automobile of a given size: First, COST OF OPERATION and MANUFACTURE; Second, DURABILITY.

To obtain a given horse power from a motor, the total displacement must be a definite number of cubic inches. This can be obtained in two ways: A large bore with a SHORT STROKE, or a small bore with a LONG STROKE. If six cylinders are placed in the same space as four, they must be SMALLER in BORE, necessitating a LONGER stroke to give the same displacement, with certain attendant disadvantages. It will have a larger cross section, because the LONGER the stroke, the greater the throw of the crankshaft and the greater the diameter of the crank case.

The greater the throw of the crankshaft, the heavier the shaft must be. The greater the diameter of the crank case, the more material is needed, adding both WEIGHT and COST as well as DECREASING the horse power per pound of engine weight. On the other hand, the FOUR cylinder car achieved a FURTHER DECREASE in weight in the connecting rod, which can be lighter because it is shorter and yet just as strong.

A LONGER stroke naturally necessitates greater piston travel with its attendant increase in FRICTION. Since FRICTION is the cause of ALL engine WEAR and can never be entirely eliminated, the LONGER stroke means MORE wear on the engine. Friction also consumes MORE horsepower so that the SHORT stroke engine takes back less of its horsepower to keep itself running; that is to overcome the friction produced by its moving parts.

Thus, the value of the LARGE bore SHORT stroke design, such as the FORD has, reflects itself in unusual DURABILITY and operating ECONOMY.

"Son, don't you think you're getting too big to be forever begging for pennies?"
"I expect you are right, dad. Gimme a dollar."

Diversification Pays!

The good rains came in time to plant practically all crops that grow well in this county. Farmers and ranchmen are happy over the good rains, and when they are happy the rest of us are happy. Planting is in full force and we congratulate our farmers on their good judgment in planting more feed. We are also glad to see the diversification idea popular with farmers and ranchmen. Most farms and ranches can easily keep a cow or two, a few hogs and one hundred or more hens and can grow feed for them. With feed for the cow she will help the hogs and hens.

Every ranchman and farmer should try to raise some food and feed. Even people in town should have their back yard gardens, and with good pens a few hens will prove profitable in town. Peaches, pears, apples and other fruits, as well as berries, grow well in Kimble County. We advise a diversified program, especially during the slump in the livestock industry.

We shall be glad to talk over your problems with you. Your prosperity means our prosperity.
