Texans 'quite happy' with energy plan

By MILLER BONNER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas oil men and consumers will be able to live with the energy package that Congress will pass, predicted House Majority Leader Jim Wright.

During a Friday press conference, the Fort Worth Democrat also addressed topics ranging from a children's nutritional research center sale to solar energy and the opening of a U.S. Customs district office in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Although noting that "no one person can speak for the oil and gas industry," Wright said Senate and House conferees have hammered out energy compromises that "the independent producers in Texas can live with and many of them are quite happy with it."

Texas consumers, added Wright, should not expect a decline in their gas bills but "they will be kept from rising and ultimately price is a function of supply. I am told there is more gas right now than there has been for years, and gas right now is not selling as high as it was a few months ago."

The energy conferees capped a 13-hour session early Friday morning by agreeing to deregulate natural gas prices by January 1985.

"The country needs an comprehensive energy bill," continued Wright. "Throughout the world we are being perceived as a country that has become soft and flabby and self indulgent and incapable of coming to grips with our hard problems."

In a House speech delivered Thursday, Wright noted that it was "one year ago tonight" that President Carter "called our nation's energy problems and the need for a response the moral equivalent of war."

"The failure of Congress thus far to enact a meaningful response to the energy threat is a witch's brew of several ingredients — regional rivalries, the conflict of domestic pressure groups, an all or nothing insistence by some in the Congress upon ideological dogma at the expense of results and a general unwillingness to bite the bullet and do what must be done.

"The energy problem that besets our nation will grow slowly and inexorably worse until this Congress acts to set us on a corrective course," he added.

Wright said Friday, however, that he did not totally agree with the policy of conserving fuel by taxing the users, a concept included in the Carter energy proposals. "Frankly, I don't agree with the concept of using prices as a conservation tool," he said. "I've seen too many European cities where gasoline sells for $2 a gallon and people are still driving their cars."

"But if you do it in a way that you raise money and use the money for more research, more production and more conversion to alternate sources, then I think it's useful. If you make energy pay for development of more energy, then I think that's worthwhile to the nation. But to raise prices on the theory that by deliberately making prices higher, you're going to make people use less of it, I think it's socially counter-productive. The guys that are going to get squeezed are the folks that can't afford to get squeezed."

Wright said Congress and Carter should look into NASA solar energy proposals. "Solar energy has a greater potential than nuclear energy. 20 solar stations in space could supply all the energy needs in the United States," he said.

Wright also announced Friday that the Texas Children's Hospital in Houston is the "most likely location" for a children's nutritional research center.

Grain elevator explosion kills mill workman

By SCOTT KRAFT

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A grain dust explosion ripped through the Tabor Milling Company in North Kansas City on Friday, killing one workman and sending 17 others to the hospital, officials said.

The body of the dead worker was found in the rubble of the structure nearly three hours after the mid-afternoon explosion.

An insurance official called the blast "a typical dust explosion."

Witnesses said about half the block-long grain elevator and mill was destroyed in the blast, which knocked out plate glass windows of buildings for more than a block in each direction.

Ambulances were dispatched to the scene, across the Missouri River from downtown Kansas City. Police, fearful of another explosion, kept onlookers away from the area. Burlington Avenue, one of the city's main arteries, was closed to traffic at the height of the rush hour.

A spokesman at North Kansas City Hospital, Ron Fugate, said 17 persons had been brought to the hospital within 90 minutes after the blast. One of them, Eugene Larabee, 42, was reported in critical condition with internal injuries and broken arms and legs.

None of the others were believed to be seriously injured.

Charles Serrault, plant manager, said most of the injured were in an area near a time clock. The blast occurred shortly after a shift change, and Serrault said, "Fortunately, most of our employees had already taken the day off."

The plant processes corn and soybeans into animal feed and other products.

One witness reported a ball of fire rising 300 feet in the air after the explosion. Sales people at a car dealership across the street were knocked to the floor by the blast. Several people standing near the show window of the dealership backed away just before the window blew in, witnesses said.

"Everything shook," said one witness. "The ceiling shook and the glass broke. Everything was full of smoke."

The tops of the grain elevator were reported to have been lifted from the facility and shoved to one side by the force of the explosion. A huge power facility sitting atop one of the elevator bins was tossed 35 or 40 feet.

The blast was believed to have occurred in a compartment where grain and flour are blended.

U. N. votes to finance interim force

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The General Assembly adopted a resolution Friday night appropriating $54 million to finance the U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon for the six months through Sept. 18 and apportioning the costs among all 149 U.N. members.

A shortfall of at least $10 million was expected because China, the Soviet Union, the Ukraine, Poland, Hungary, Mongolia, Laos, Vietnam, South Yemen and Benin all said they would not pay their assessments for UNIFIL.

Airliner to pick up downed passengers

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM

WASHINGTON (AP) — An American civilian airliner will fly to the Soviet Union on Saturday to pick up passengers of a South Korean plane forced down in Russia by Soviet jet fighters, airline officials said Friday night.

Two passengers were killed and two others were seriously injured Thursday when the plane crash-landed on a frozen lake after being fired upon by Soviet fighters, Zbigniew Brzezinski, director of the National Security Council, said earlier Friday.

State Department spokesman Thomas Reston said 11 others suffered less serious injuries. It was not known if the casualties resulted from the Soviet shooting or the nighttime crash landing.

One of the dead was identified as a Japanese citizen, Y. Sugano, 45. The identities and nationalities of the other casualties were not known. No Americans were aboard the plane.

The Russians said Friday the surviving passengers and crew would be released. The Soviet news agency Tass said arrangements were being made for "their dispatch from the U.S.S.R.'s territory."

Pan American World Airways and Korean Air Lines announced Friday night that a Pan Am jetliner would fly to Murmansk in the Soviet Union on Saturday to pick up the passengers of the downed plane.

Spokesmen for the two airlines said the passengers would be taken to Helsinki, Finland, where they would be transferred to a South Korean airliner for a flight to Tokyo and Seoul.

Arrangements for the Pan Am flight were approved by the United States and the Soviet Union, the spokesman said. Murmansk is about 300 miles north of the jetliner's landing site.

Charles K. Cho, vice president of Korean Air Lines, said in Seoul that release of the downed jetliner would be negotiated after the crew and passengers were released.

Reston said the Soviets had informed the United States that the injured and the two dead would be flown out when the Pan Am jet leaves Murmansk. It was unclear when that flight would leave.

The downed plane, Flight 902 from Paris to Seoul with a refueling stop in Anchorage, was flying a trans-polar route when it went off course. Reston said the cause of the course deviation was unknown, but that the plane turned south over the Arctic Ocean and crossed the Barents Sea toward Russia.

Tass said the plane entered Soviet airspace near Murmansk, which is near the Finnish border and on the Barents coast.

"Fighter planes of the Soviet anti-aircraft defenses intercepted the violator," Tass said. "In nighttime conditions, using (maneuvers) of the planes and onboard lights, they repeatedly issued orders to the intruder to follow them in order to land at some nearby airfield."

"The plane, however, did not respond to these orders and landed on a lake," Tass said.

Plant inspection record queried

CLEBURNE (AP) — A munitions bunker which exploded and killed four persons had not been inspected for safety by federal agencies recently, federal officials said Friday.

Cleburne Mayor George Marti said

Friday his city will no longer provide fire and police to the GOEX munitions plant outside the city limits until the company provides the city with safety information.

Three explosions shredded a bunker Thursday afternoon, killing the four workers inside. Parts of their bodies were still being found Friday up to 400 yards away from the blast site.

Federal safety inspectors, who arrived at the plant Thursday night, met with company officials Friday and interviewed other employees.

Officials still did not know what touched off the explosions and may never know for sure, said an official for Gearhart Owen, which owns the plant.

Marti said his city was placed in a "somewhat embarrassing position" because a government contract was being performed in that building. The inspector found that conditions in building No. 3 presented no violations of government explosive safety requirements. The DCASR inspector did not inspect the building which was demolished by the explosion of April 20. We have never visited the building which was destroyed because as far as we can determine no government contracts were ever performed in that building. The contract which required our inspection Nov. 10 was completed before the end of the year and GOEX presently has no government contracts."

The blasts leveled the building and stripped nearby trees of foliage. Roofs were caved in and windows broken in houses 200 yards away.

The explosion sent up an orange cloud and smoke from the fire could be seen in Fort Worth, 20 miles to the north.

The victims were identified as Rosemary Sauble, 37, of Burleson, and Billy Clanton, 26, Elwin Brende, 62, and Bobby Trotta, 19, all of Cleburne.

GOEX vice president Don Samanie said RDX, an explosive used in military artillery shells and some commercial explosives, was being manufactured in the building which was destroyed. The four workers killed were washing and screening RDX.

"All they have over there is one big hole," said Johnson County Sheriff Stuart Huffman.

GOEX attempted to levy $20,700 in fines for three violations of federal law following the 1973 blast.

Since that time the Occupational Health and Safety Administration has been in court with GOEX officials trying to gain access to the plant.

OSHA attempted to levy $20,700 in fines for three violations of federal law following the 1973 blast.

Joseph Ansley, acting assistant regional administrator for OSHA in Dallas, said inspectors were denied entry when they attempted to make a follow-up inspection.

of the five-time former premier.

Andreotti's government, which has refused so far to deal with the kidnappers, made no immediate comment on the appeal by Moro's family, and the cabinet met to discuss the ultimatum. Italy was sharply divided among those who contend the government should not bow to the terrorists and the segment that advocates talks to free him.

Moro was kidnapped by Red Brigades terrorists five weeks ago in a Rome street ambush in which his five bodyguards were killed.

In its statement, Moro's family said "the Christian Democrat Party, taking a realistic attitude, should declare its availability to ascertain what the concrete terms are for (Moro's) release."

But the Communist Party and other hardliners said the government should not consider negotiating for Moro's release, and former President Giuseppe Saragat said freeing prisoners would be "impossible without violating the law or without provoking a revolt among police forces."

Most newspapers devoted their front pages to the Moro affair. The moderate Il Giorno di Milan said the nation faces "a decisive choice" and the Communist daily called the terrorists' demands "infamous ransom."

In the Thursday message, the Red Brigades said a Tuesday statement attributed to them claiming Moro had been executed was a fake manufactured by Andreotti and his "accomplices" as part of a "psychological war" to win sympathy.

Interior Ministry sources said experts determined the authenticity of both the Thursday communique and a photo demonstrating that Moro was still alive. It showed him with a copy of a Wednesday newspaper headlined "Moro Assassinated?"

Shakespeare's home draws tourist stream

STRATFORD ON AVON, England (AP) — It's a gray, wet and windy day beside the Avon River. But in an age of affluence and cut-price tours, William Shakespeare is never out of season.

The big buses swing around the top of Henley Street and pull up outside the timber-framed house with mullioned windows and gables, built more than 400 years ago.

In a steady stream that never ceases through the daylight hours, the peoples of the world push open the narrow door and walk upstairs into a low-ceilinged room with blackened beams and cream-painted plaster.

Tradition has it that Shakespeare was born in this room. The feeling of being crowded passes and there is a tightening in the throat.

"The tourist season really starts at Easter and goes on to the end of September, but nowadays they never stop coming," said Harry Dyke, who has been a guide at the birthplace house for 23 years. "Last year," he said, "half a million people of at least 80 nationalities came through this house."

Dyke, 64, said visitors asked personal questions about Shakespeare that nobody could answer "because biography and autobiography as we know it did not exist in those days."

He said the most common preconception of visitors was that Stratford would be a sleepy, country market town. They find it busy and noisy with traffic.

"But I tell them that under this veneer of modernity the structure of the antique and historical Stratford remains, which they can uncover a bit, if they know where to look," he said.

Dyke explained that the plan of the center of the town in the time of Queen Elizabeth I, with three streets parallel to the river and three at right angles to it, remained to this day and most of the street names survived.

Local officials put the total number of visitors in Stratford at around 1.5 million a year, making it the second most popular town in England, after London.

Dr. Levi Fox, director of the Shakespeare Birthplace Trust, a non-profit body which owns the five 16th-century buildings associated with the national poet and playwright, said that the properties last year had 1.25 million visitors. They each paid from 15 to 45 pence (28 to 85 cents) to see each property, or 1.25 pounds ($2.37) for an all-in-one ticket, half-price for children.

The income goes to maintaining the buildings, paying staff and running the Shakespeare Center, next door to the birthplace, which pursues Shakespeare studies and arranges educational and cultural events.

Visitors with the inclination to ask around will find that Shakespeare is not beloved by all the 21,500 citizens of Stratford, who find in high summer their streets choked with buses and their sidewalks crowded with camera-toting tourists.

However, Fox said the "Shakespeare industry" is responsible for the town's fine hotels, good shops and restaurants, the 1,500-seat Royal Shakespeare Theater, many jobs and the general air of prosperity.

Sea adventure makes big splash

By JOY STILLEY — an interview here. NEW YORK (AP) — "You're continually hanging on to grab rails, like commuters in the subway," he said of life aboard a 40-foot ketch in the South Pacific is still making waves in the publishing world.

That novel, "Overboard," an adventure story he wrote during a three-year voyage with his wife, Berna Ann, has just been issued in paperback and will be an NBC movie next fall. Working at his washer's belt in the typewriter in the close quarters of the yacht "in was rough. I found myself getting and pitching" was difficult, the 55-year-old sailor-writer recalled in Searls, 46, a slim woman who shares her husband's love of adventure and activities that include motorcycle trips, biking, jogging and scuba diving.

"I fly an open cockpit biplane, and I got Bunny a helmet and goggles and she goes along with me," said Searls, a former Navy pilot. He has been a fulltime writer for the past 20 years and is the author of numerous books, including "The Big X," "The Pilgrim Project" and the recently completed novelization of "Jaws 2." The couple, who have been married 18 years, had taken only short cruises around the California channel islands before they sold their home in Malibu, Calif., and set out on their sea voyage in 1972.

"But I guess I started preparing from my youth," said Searls. "I went to Annapolis, and they used to throw us into small sailboats in Chesapeake Bay."

As for his wife, "I'd only sailed twice before we met. The sea never did come up in conversation before we were married." But she began to suspect something was in the air — or on the water — when "on our honeymoon he started

Faith Begins With Crayons

Remember! Arithmetic began with apples. I had one. You gave me one. Then how many did I have?

So don't be surprised that Faith begins with crayons!

And never forget that this free land your government compels only secular education. Rightly, it leaves the religious education of your children up to you.

From the first halting strokes with the crayon to the eager use of the Bible as a guide for life, the Church is your ally in the spiritual development of your child's soul.

But the compulsion must come from within... from your convictions... from your determination that your child may share your Faith.

Wise parents find their children's crying need for religious training a happy incentive for their own church life.

Festival of arts tonight

The Midland Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 2101 Tarleton St., will hold a fine arts festival tonight. All residents of the community 12 years old or above are invited to attend the event.

The event will begin at 7:30 p.m. with a concert in the chapel, followed by the opening of special displays of art, creative writing, musical compositions, homemaking arts and crafts and genealogical exhibits.

"Talents - A Gift of Love" is the theme of the festival, an annual event at the Mormon Church here which provides members with the opportunity to show their particular talents and creative abilities.

Art, music and creative writing entries will be judged, while homemaking arts and crafts items will be for display only. The displays will include such items as handmade cradles, crewel work, needlepoint, original jewelry and macrame items.

Special genealogical displays will include such items as a wedding dress from the 19th Century, plus diaries, life histories and antique dolls.

The musical program initiating the festival will include instrumental solos by several individuals and special numbers presented by youth and adult choirs of the church. Art, photography, creative writing and music winners in the festival will be announced at the conclusion of the concert and refreshments will be served in the church cultural hall.

Mrs. Stephen Brinkman is general chairman of this year's festival, and chairmen of various divisions include Mrs. Merrill C. Horne, Mrs. Chesley Blackham, Mrs. Timothy Huchton, Mrs. Thomas Heller, Mrs. Guy Hammer, Mrs. Charles Younger and Mrs. Harold Riggan.

Adventists to hear talk

Cathy Taylor, member of a student missionary taskforce at Southwestern Adventist College in Keene, will be speaking at Adventist churches in Midland, Big Spring and Odessa today.

Miss Taylor, who spent the 1976-77 school year as a volunteer worker in Nigeria, Africa, will share her experiences with the Odessa congregation at 9:30 a.m., with the Midland congregation at 11 a.m. and with members of the Big Spring church at 3:30 p.m. She will be assisted in her presentations by Elizabeth Qualls of Midland.

It has been pointed out that the student missionary program enriches both the student and the people served. Some students, after completing their year's service, choose to return for a regular three-year mission term after completing their college work. This year, 13 students from Southwestern Adventist College are serving in 10 countries abroad.

Miss Taylor and Miss Qualls are participants in campus ministries planned and conducted by students at the college. The ministries include weekly vespers services on campus as well as evangelistic services, health seminars, stop-smoking clinics and various special programs. Southwestern Adventist College was founded in 1894 to train youth for Christian service. Many young people from the Midland area have been trained there through the years.

Saturday's special programs in the three cities will be open to all interested persons. The Midland Adventist Church is at 3114 Travis Ave.

Lecture series for adults set

St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton Ave., is announcing a series of lecture-discussions for adults and senior high school-age youth.

The inquirers' classes are intended for persons curious about Christian beliefs and those who are interested in learning more about the Episcopal Church and its teachings.

The series will begin with a session at 7 p.m. Sunday with sessions scheduled each Sunday, Monday and Tuesday for a total of 12 sessions. Instructors for the series will be the Rev. Sam B. Hulsey, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, and the Rev. James L. Considine, rector of St. Nicholas' Church. Additional information on the series may be obtained from the St. Nicholas' parish office, 694-8856.

Church to show new color film

The Midland Foursquare Church, 415 Alta Ave., will show a new color motion picture, titled "And They Said It Couldn't Be Done," at 7 p.m. Sunday. The screening will be open to all residents of the community free of charge, although a voluntary offering will be received, said the Rev. Pete Adcock, host pastor.

Pastor Adcock said the film forcefully affirms that, in Jesus Christ the impossible is indeed possible. The viewer will meet Barnabas, the "son of encouragement," who relates New Testament insights to today's world and the individual.

Rev. Presley Hand

Revival to begin

A spring revival which begins Sunday at South Memorial Baptist Church, 1700 W. Carter Ave., will continue through Wednesday.

The Rev. Presley Hand will be the revival preacher and Fred Harvey will direct the music, said the Rev. Jimmu Stovall, host pastor. Sunday services will begin at 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m., with weeknight services scheduled for 7:30. A nursery will be provided for the care of infants and children. The public is invited to attend the special services.

Professor to speak

Dr. William Baird, professor of New Testament at Brite Divinity School of Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, will present a series of public lectures on Biblical apocalyptic material this weekend at Memorial Christian Church, 1001 Andrews Highway.

In laymen's terms, apocalyptic material consists of writings dealing with the end of time.

Baird's first lecture is scheduled for 4 p.m. today in the church parlor. It will be on "Tracts for Bad Times: Jewish Apocalyptic Writings."

The second lecture, scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Sunday, also in the church parlor, will be on "The Kingdom of God and the End of the World: Jesus and Paul." The third and final session is scheduled for 5:15 p.m. Sunday, with the speaker's topic to be "The Message of Christian Apocalyptic: The Book of Revelation."

Baird, who holds a Ph.D. from Yale Divinity School, has had post-doctoral study at the University of Heidelberg and the University of Marburg in Germany. He has presented lectureships at Yale Divinity School, the University of Chicago, Drake University and other colleges and universities, and is a popular speaker at churches in Texas and elsewhere in the Southwest.

Memorial Christian Church is inviting the public to attend Baird's lecture series at no charge.

Tent revival will begin

A tent revival sponsored by Midland's Faith Temple Church of God in Christ will begin Sunday at the corner of Parker and North Dallas streets.

The deliverance crusade will have widely-known evangelist Jonathan Rodgers of Memphis, Tenn., as revival preacher. There will be services at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. daily, said the Rev. W. C. Kenan, pastor of Faith Temple Church. He is inviting the public to attend the special services under the big tent.

Singing programs set

"The Sign of the Covenant Singers," an outreach to the deaf, will have presentations in Midland Sunday.

The singing ensemble is made up of a group of 10 young people under the direction of Janet Carver. With contemporary music and a contemporary approach, the ensemble demonstrates God's love to the deaf while showing those with normal hearing how to communicate. "People who can hear," says director Carver, "must understand how to help not only the deaf but all people, because there are so many who need encouragement."

The singers minister in word and testimony as well as in song at churches of many denominations throughout the country; they also present their programs in schools, at colleges and universities, in camps and rehabilitation centers and before community and civic organizations.

The ensemble will be performing at a meeting of the Midland Full Gospel Fellowship at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in Furr's Cafeteria in Town and Country shopping center, West Cuthbert avenue and North Midkiff drive. The group will conduct a service at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Church of the Dayspring, 310 N. Weatherford St. The public is invited to attend the service, said Tom Wood, pastor of the Dayspring Church.

As in ages past, Passover relived

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Both now and ages ago, the conflict was between Egypt and the people of Israel. They broke free in that ancient time from slavery. But as they celebrate anew that Passover liberation, they see new threats to it. The pressures are recognized as different now, more outside Egypt than in it, but still entangling.

"The struggle for freedom is never over," says Richard Maass, head of the American Jewish Committee. Citing terrorist strikes in Israel, Palestinian vows to eliminate the Jewish state, Soviet anti-Zionist campaigns and neo-Nazi incidents in many places, he adds:

"We are only too well aware that there are certain governments and certain political groups which still seek to persecute Jews for no other reason than that they are Jews."

The week-long Passover observance, starting this Friday evening, comes during what Rabbi Walter S. Wurzburger, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, calls the "diplomatic isolation of Israel." Negotiations with Egypt had stalled a-borning. The United States prods Israel as "intransigent," not yielding enough, and the United Nations issues reprimands.

Yet at the same time, there was evidence among American Christians of rising support for Israel and solidarity with Judaism as Israel marked its 30th anniversary in a Passover season regarded as echoing in some ways the travail of old.

"The Jewish people still are struggling for authentic expression of peoplehood," says the Rev. William Harter, a United Presbyterian pastor of Chambersburg, Pa., an organizer of the National Christian Leadership Conference for Israel meeting April 26 in Washington, D.C.

"The contemporary forces working against the Jewish people are different now but in a very real sense are analogous to those in the days of the pharaohs."

While evangelical Protestants and many Roman Catholic leaders have been vocal in newspaper ads and otherwise in backing Israel's rights to security in its land, the Washington conference for the first time brings together in that cause a wide spectrum of Christianity, also including leaders in mainline and liberal Protestant denominations.

"There's a significant swing of realization about how Christians at the grass roots feel about the issue," says Harter. "They have a deep attachment to Israel and what it represents as the people of the land and the book."

This hasn't always been reflected in the bureaucracy of some mainline denominations.

Meanwhile, a prominent Roman Catholic, David Hyatt, president of the National Council of Christians and Jews, said that U.S. spokesmen in deploring the "so-called intransigence" of Israel are "simply not facing up to a number of frightening facts," particularly the fact that Israel has been invaded three times in 25 years and struck by 14 terrorist forays by the Palestine Liberation Organization in the last eight years.

If Israel turned over the West Bank of the Jordan River to Palestinians, he says, "PLO police state domination would very soon become a Soviet-dominated, Soviet-armed satellite next door to Israel — not unlike Castro's Cuba" once appeared to the United States.

"When tiny Cuba, a full 90 miles away from our coast, appeared to be threatening giant, powerful U.S.A. simply by the presence of Soviet arms, although there were no Cuban guerrillas invading our country, blowing up our buses or killing our children, we mounted a major military solution to our problem ...

"To speak of establishing a Palestinian state next door to Israel to be headed by such murderers (as the PLO) is sheer madness."

When Israel was founded in 1948, the West Bank was put under United Nations oversight, but Jordan seized it by arms. Israel, which gained it in the 1967 war repulsing Arab attack, has offered to give it self-rule with Israel only maintaining security forces there.

That offer by Israel, plus concessions in the Sinai, came in the bloom of Egypt's recent peace bid, now faded with no specified concessions from Egypt.

Rabbi Saul Teplitz who heads the Rabbinical Assembly of the nation's conservative rabbis and who met recently both with Egyptian President Sadat and Israel's Premier Begin said in a Passover message that both seek peace. "Freedom from the deadlock can only come through continued face to face negotiations between the two heads of state," he said, and quoted the prophet Malachi:

"Then those who revere the Lord speak to one another."

'Ninth command often broken'

By REV. W. LEETRUMAN
Copley News Service

Ask the average person on the street to list and name the Ten Commandments, and few can name more than five correctly. One in 50 can name eight, and it is a rare individual who remembers all 10.

The commandment consistently put wrongly in last place is, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

RELIGION

Possibly this is because this Ninth Commandment from Mt. Sinai is one we all break so often. People do talk about other people, and this is a warning of what we say.

When we are at our best, we discuss ideas. When we are with those we do not know as well or trust as much, we discuss events, and when we are acting our smallest, or off our guard, the conversation drifts to other people.

Most of us have not made a concerted effort to stretch our minds since we left school. Having not made much disciplined mental effort, it is easiest to talk about mutual acquaintances.

But there is another factor at work. It takes the sting out of our failings if we can rub off the luster of somebody else's achievements. So mark it down in your life notebook that when anybody knocks another person's achievements, it is a sure sign of his own feelings of inner inferiority.

I guarantee that when you take the lid off the pot of gossip, inside you will find jealousy stewing.

In my life as a pastor, I have had, I believe, every commandment confessed to being broken, if not shattered, except this one. Never has a person confessed to me their gossiping, except as they have assumed a self-righteous attitude which gives them license to condemn me how much they enjoy talking about their brother's sin in a backhanded way. Is this how we humbly brag how good we are?

Sometimes No. 9 breaking takes the form of false concern.

Mrs. Hand-Wringer says, "I am certainly troubled to hear about the difficulty Mr. and Mrs. Sad are having in their marriage." This raises the red rocket of suspicion quiet effectively, piques curiosity and excites imagination.

This commandment can also be fractured by just listening. There cannot be gossip without an ear to hear. The law says that a man who receives stolen goods is as guilty as the man who stole them. Of course, no one means to be cruel when he idly talks about others. Idle tale bearing is the way to pass the time with close friends.

The best defense against such people is to so live our lives that we would not be afraid to sell the family parmeo to the most self-righteous judgmental gossip in town.

Pierre van Paassen tells in his book, "The Days of Our Years," of a hunchback by the name of Ugolin, who fell sick. He never knew his father, and his mother was a drunken outcast. He had a lovely sister named Solange. Because she loved Ugolin so much and because she could not get the money to buy his medicine in any other way, she sold her body on the streets.

The people of the town so condemned them that Ugolin drowned himself in the river and Solange shot herself. For their funeral, the little village church was crowded.

The minister mounted his pulpit and began his sermon.

"Christians!" (the word was like a whiplash). "When the Lord in death shall ask me on the day of judgment, 'Where are thy sheep?' I shall hang my head in shame, and I shall answer him: 'They were not sheep. Lord, they were a pack of wolves.'"

Night rites open revival

Mt. Calvary Baptist Church, 303 E. Shandon Ave., will begin a revival Sunday night.

The evangelistic emphasis will continue through Friday with services at 7:30 p.m. daily, said the Rev. H. F. Doyle, host pastor. The revival evangelist will be the Rev. F. W. McIlveen, and the public is invited to hear him in the special services planned next week.

Former pastor to visit church

First Baptist Church will be host to a former pastor, Dr. Vernon Yearby, at Sunday morning services.

Dr. Yearby served the congregation as pastor from 1942 to 1953. He will preach at both Sunday morning services at the church.

Voluntary accounting more common

By RUSSELL CHANDLER

LOS ANGELES

Media reports blame out the unsavory details: misuse of charitable funds; fund-raising costs as high as 60, 80 and even 90 cents out of every donated dollar; far too little actually reaching people in need.

And though the generosity of the American public has not diminished — $28.5 billion was donated to charities in 1976 — pressure is mounting from donors, government and the media for charitable fund-raising groups to provide full financial disclosure.

Nowhere is the demand for closer accountability stronger than among religious charities.

"Though those who mishandle funds are really few in number," says Ted W. Engstrom, executive vice president of the World Vision International, a Christian social-service agency headquartered in Monrovia, Calif., "their unprofessional conduct sorely undermines the credibility of us all."

To date, religious organizations have been generally exempted from the disclosure of funds required of other nonprofit groups by the Internal Revenue Service.

But a variety of pending federal and state legislation would force full disclosure and monitoring regulations.

Most religious groups oppose such measures, preferring instead to demonstrate that they can keep their own houses in order through voluntary disclosure and accountability.

Responding to the pressures and scrutiny, religious organizations are scrambling to develop better business procedures. New ethical codes and fund-raising guidelines are multiplying.

On March 30, a unique meeting of 259 representatives of 109 religious groups assembled in Los Angeles for the first Christian Management Seminar.

Sponsored by the Christian Financial Executives Association, a professional management group barely two years old, the seminar featured technical expostions on topics such as interstate regulation of fund raising, definitions of a church for tax purposes, donor development, current developments in charitable giving, and what happens in an audit of a nonprofit organization.

and celebrity faith are rich... Marty said.

"Any individual operator worth his or her radio-television times pulls in millions of dollars per year, each as much as, say, a 3 million-member denomination. They have grown fiercely competitive, protective and secretive, eager to use church-state lines to keep Congress from passing disclosure laws."

The Rev. Richard V. Kendall, pastor of California Heights United Methodist Church in Long Beach, Calif., is one of a number of ministers who feel that the bigness of many religious enterprises and the hostility and suspicion of the public towards unscrupulous fund raising hurt the cause of local congregations.

"In the past five years there has been a dramatic growth in the raising and spending of huge amounts of money by large, independent Christian organizations," Kendall told his parishioners. "Media blitzes, slick productions and mass appeals have garnered tens of millions of dollars each year."

At the same time, Kendall pointed out, the vast majority of churches are small — a few hundred members — "yet they do the bread and butter work of our faith and form the spiritual foundations of our communities."

Red flags about the accountability of religious organizations were raised in late 1976 when it was revealed that many Christian groups, for various reasons, did not meet the standards of the Washington-based Council of Better Business Bureaus.

The Pallottine Fathers scandal, involving misrepresentation and mishandling of money, caused a cry for greater financial disclosure.

Further flak came when media attention spotlighted the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association's low-profile $23 million fund and its reluctance to divulge financial data.

(In reaction to criticism, the Graham association began publishing annual reports, as corporations do for stockholders, beginning with fiscal 1977.)

In the tangled debate over tax and solicitation regulations applying to religious organizations,

Player holding lead in Houston Open tourney

HOUSTON (AP) — South African Gary Player continued his rampage through the American pro golf tour Friday, composing a solid, no-bogey, 5-under-par 67 that left him with a one-stroke lead in the second round of the $200,000 Houston Open.

Player, a come-from-behind winner in each of his past two starts, put together a 36-hole total of 131.

His two-round score was 13 shots under par on the exquisitely-conditioned, 4,997-yard Woodlands Country Club course, and matched the best two-round total on the tour this year.

It also marked the 11th time in the last 14 rounds that a foreign entrant has led or shared the lead in an American tour event.

PLAYER WON two of those, the Masters and Tournament of Champions, coming from 7 strokes off the pace each time.

The little rancher from Johannesburg reversed the script this event, started off eagle-birdie and finished with a 67 that put him at 134, alone in fourth and three shots back.

"I'm playing really well," he said, sighed and added, "but it looks like Gary is going to be awfully hard to catch."

Player wasn't as sure. "Remember what I did in my last two tournaments," he said. "You don't feel confident or relaxed until you have a 15-shot lead."

"Ol' Sarge" Orville Moody and Howard Twitty were next at 135. Moody had a 68, Twitty 66. Jack Renner, a lanky, 21-year-old rookie, fired a 65 that put him at 136.

PGA CHAMPION Lanny Wadkins and the defending titleholder, Gene Littler, were seven shots off the pace at 138. Littler had a 70 while Wadkins matched par 72. Lee Trevino shot 69 for 139.

Player, who hasn't had a bogey in the tournament, missed only one green in his second 18 and easily saved par there. He failed on a pair of 6-foot birdie putts and made only one really long one, a 20-footer on his 16th hole.

He started his big move on the 10th hole, lofting a wedge to six feet and holing the putt. He scored from 10 feet on the next, parred the next, then chipped to two feet for a birdie-4 on the next one.

Gary Player, winner of the Masters last week, looks dejected Friday after he came out of a sand trap during the Houston Open. Player shot an eight-under-par 64 Thursday to take the lead and still holds it today going into the third round of play. He also won the Champions Golf crown two weeks ago. (AP Laserphoto).

Diablos take 13-11 slugfest

BY TED BATTLES

The score was 13-11, but the name of the game is relief pitching. If you don't have it, your in trouble.

El Paso Manager Moose Stubing had it Friday night as lefthander Dan Boone, sans coonskin cap, came out of the bullpen to hold the Midland Cubs in check in the late innings. The night managed only one hit off him in 2 innings of relief. Manager Jim Saul brought up righthanded hitting-Duane Gustavson to bat for lefthander Brian Rosinski so Stubing countered with righthander Billy Wilson. Boone got before Tom Butler rode to the rescue of the Cubs, pitching three innings of shutout ball down the stretch to preserve a 10-9 win over the Diablos.

The Cubs were embarrassed before the season's largest Cubs Stadium crowd, 1,854, when they failed to hold a 10-2 lead.

An eight-run second, highlighted by Tony Pepper's three-run homer, propelled the Cubs into an 8-2 lead, but the Diablos retaliated with a six-run seventh. Scott Moffitt hit the two run homer to tie it and Steve Whitehead followed with a two-run homer to put the Diablos ahead while Boone did the rest, or almost.

Boone got lost out relief help from Billie Wilson, although the Cubs had help, but he didn't look like he needed any.

THE WIN leaves El Paso trailing in the series 3-2 going into tonight's 7:30 p.m. finale. Randy Martz, 0-1, will pitch for Midland against Steve Eddy, the pre-med student from Yale University. They started in the first game, but neither was around for the decision.

Friday's matchup looked like a pitching natural. Dorsey was 4-1 against Midland last year and Ledbetter was 4-1 against El Paso. Against one another, they split.

El Paso scored in the first on a couple of one-out walks and Danny Goodwin's ground-single through hole into right. Bob Slater's lead off homer in the third made it 2-0. That's when the Cubs broke loose for their biggest inning of the season.

Midland paraded 12 batters to the plate to score eight runs with six straight batters reaching base after two were out.

Steve Macko and Jim Buckner hit lead off singles, but then Dorsey whiffed Greg Keatley and hot-hitting Aaron Randall. That brought up the slumping Pepper, who powered the ball over the right field fence for a 3-2 Midland lead.

BRIAN ROSINSKI and Kevin Drury singled and Eric Grandy walked to load the bases. Dorsey walked Kurt Seibert on four pitches to force in a run and then Macko doubled for two runs and Ruckner doubled another an 8-2 Cubs lead.

Randall's triple, Rosinski's single and singles by Drury and Grandy made it 10-2, but when the Diablos and Cubs got together, pitching usually is just a necessary nuisance and runs flow like champagne in the World Series winners' clubhouse.

El Paso stung Ledbetter for four runs in the fifth, three coming as the result of an error. Midland used three walks and a wild pitch to score in the

Vasicek, Broe to meet in regional net finals

By PAUL DOMOWITZ R-T Sports Writer

LUBBOCK—Comedian Rodney Dangerfield is always complaining how difficult life is when you don't get any respect. But take it from Karen Broe. Respect isn't all that it's cracked up to be.

At least not on a tennis court anyway.

"I like to be the underdog," the pretty 17-year-old Lee High net-woman said of a role she has played more than once in her career. "There's less pressure on you when you're not expected to do that well, and you have a lot less to lose."

Again cast as the underdog here Friday, Broe made believers out of many of the spectators who watched her at the Region I Girls Tennis Tournament on the Texas Tech University campus as she disposed of three highly-regarded opponents, earned a berth in this morning's finals, and most importantly, qualified for the state tournament in Austin in two weeks.

Not surprisingly, she'll be the underdog again today when she meets top-seeded Vicki Vasicek of Midland High for the girls singles title.

In the girls doubles final, top-seeded Leslie Miller and Carmen Lewis of Odessa Permian will face the second-seeded Midland High talent of Cary Garton and Dinah Boyd.

Both of today's championship round matches are rematches of last week's District 5-4A finals. In those, Vasicek downed Broe in straight sets, and Miller and Lewis squeaked out a hard-fought three set win over Garton and Boyd.

While Broe would like nothing better than to upset Vasicek for the second time in a month (she beat her in the finals of the Abilene Invitational three weeks ago), the Lee junior is happy just to be in the finals.

"It's kind of anti-climactic," she said after defeating second-seeded 16-year-old Susan Garner of El Paso Coronado in the semis, 7-5, 6-2. "Making the finals and qualifying for state is the important thing. It was the same way last week when I played Vicki in the district finals. I had made the regional tournament regardless of what happened in our match and that was what was important to me."

Broe had a surprisingly easy time against Garner, only a freshman. She had played a 2 1/2 hour marathon match in the quarterfinals against Lubbock Monterey's Cheryl Rosen only a short time earlier, and many figured she'd run out of steam.

But she didn't. With the wind blowing nearly 40 miles per hour at times, Broe was patient just to play her regular baseline game. "With the wind the way it was, I just tried to keep the ball in against her (Garner) and let her make the mistakes."

The Broe-Rosen quarterfinal contest was an endurance test, since both girls like to lay back and duke it out from the baseline. Rosen actually had Broe on the ropes in the long struggle. After winning the first set, the Monterey senior was up 5-3 in the second and serving for the match. But Karen broe her and went on to win the set in a 5-3 tie-breaker and broke her three more times in the final set to pull out the victory.

Vasicek, the defending champion here, had very little trouble Friday. After a first round by, she whitewashed Clara Collaxe of Killeen 6-0, 6-0 in the quarters and later eliminated Beck Gerkin of Amarillo Caprock in the semis, 6-1, 6-2.

It was quite a successful day for Coach Larry Burgin's Midland High netters. Minutes after Vasicek assured herself of a second straight visit to the state tourney, Garton and Boyd bought themselves a free ride with a 6-2, 7-5 victory over Dana Craig and Nancy Lee Weaver of Lubbock Coronado.

NET NOTES: Laura Scott of El Paso High, who was teamed with Frances Lovelady in the girls doubles competition, tore cartilage in her knee during a first round match against Luran Marble and Julie Barnett of Temple. Today's singles and doubles finals begin at 10 a.m. at the Men's varsity courts on the Tech campus. Lee coach Bobby Connell after Karen Broe iced her win over Garner. "I've never been to Austin. I think I'm going to like it."

Rebels in key District 5-4A tilt today

By BOB DILLON

Robert E. Lee hits the road today for a date with tough Cooper's Cougars in Abilene.

While Lee and Cooper battle in a game of co-leaders in the District 5-4A baseball race, Midland High will entertain the Abilene Eagles at 2 p.m. at the Memorial Stadium diamond.

Lee, Cooper and Abilene are all tied for first place in the second half of the race with 2-0 marks. Midland, meanwhile, is 0-2, but can still play the part of spoiler.

The Rebels sport a 17-7 season record while the Cougars, doubly tough at home, stand 10-6 on the year. Abilene brings an 11-8 season reading compared to the Bulldogs' 9-13 mark.

Lefthander Gary Gibson gets the call in Abilene today against Cooper while Tracy Booth will throw for the Purple Pack against the Warbirds.

Midland may not have the services of senior outfielder Joe Mowles who suffered a sprained ankle against Big Spring in Big Spring Tuesday during that 11-2 loss.

In other 5-4A games today, Odessa Permian takes on the Big Spring Steers in Odessa while Odessa's Bronchos play San Angelo Central in San Angelo. Permian is 1-1 in league play while the Steers also own a 1-1 mark. OHS and San Angelo are 0-2 in a game of the cellar-dwellers.

PERMIAN HAS the No. 1 hitter in the district in third baseman Gary Hix who is hitting at a .519 clip. Lee's John White and Richard Josely follow with .500 and .455 averages, respectively.

Glen Stirman of Abilene is hitting .444 while Terry Austin of Abilene follows with a .414 average. Craig Van Horn, who has been on a hitting terror in recent games for the Lee Rebels, is hitting .400 while teammate Terry Willis is hitting .387.

Both Clay Calhoun and Pat Moore of Lee are hitting .375.

Tommy Munoz, Jimmy Zachry and James Allen lead the Pack in league hitting with averages of .375, .357 and .33, respectively.

Mowles has been play fine defense in the outfield this year for the Bulldogs while Gibson, in his last start on the mound for the Rebs, threw a four-hitter and struck out 12 OHS batters.

5-4A mark not in danger

By BOB DILLON

Bobby Stevens of Midland Lee won the batting title during the 1975 season with a robust .553 mark and knocked in 31 runs that year.

These two records don't seem to be in jeopardy this season, but 5-4A still has some very fine hitters.

Stevens wound up knocking in 40 runs for the Rebels in 1975 and wound up hitting at a .430 clip. That same year besides hitting .430, shortstop Brett Blackwell wound up hitting at a .432 clip, but he went to bat only 57 times and Stevens 100.

Both Stevens and Blackwell were named to the Class AAAA all-state team that year and the Rebs downed Wichita Falls Rider in two straight games, 4-3 and 5-3 in the bi-district playoffs before bowing to eventual state champion Duncanville, 9-7 in the regional playoffs.

The other two games of the series were washed away leaving Rebel fans helpless.

Looking over the years since 1959, either Lee or Midland High have had batting champions on several occasions.

LARRY STANLEY of Midland High won the first hitting crown in 1959 with a .524 average which along with Lee's Bucky Kimble in 1963, is second only to Stevens. Kimble, by the way was a sophomore the year he won the coveted title.

Sam Flourney and Kimble followed back-to-back in 1962-63 while Wayne Merritt of MHS won the title in 1965 with a lousy .462 average.

The next Tall City athlete to win the title was Dan Smith of the Bulldogs in 1967 and then it wasn't until 1975 that Stevens won the crown.

Rusty Laughlin, who played as a junior with Stevens and Blackwell, won the championship at the plate in 1976 with a final .478 average.

Stevens broke the RBI record of 18 held by five players with his 31 RBIs in 1975 and it may be a long time before that mark falls.

BY THE WAY, that same year that Kimble won the title, he also hit at an amazing .532 clip while Stanley hit .418 in 1959 for the Bulldogs.

Monte Harris of Abilene hit five homers in 1974 while Robert Shaeffer of Midland also had five round-trippers in 1973 when the Bulldogs won the Class AAAA state title, beating Houston Westchester.

Ricky Steen of Big Spring slugged five in 1973, but it was Jackie Wells of MHS that broke the homer mark in 5-4A with six circuit clouts in 1975.

Shaeffer knocked in 33 runs for the Pack during the season in 1973. Bill Brown of MHS had 32 RBIs during the 1960 season and Bob Davis of Midland knocked in 31 in 1960, giving the Pack some kind of punch at the plate.

Rusty Stallings of Lee had 25 RBIs in 1965, but both Jimmy Zachry and James Allen of this year's Bulldog edition already have 23 RBIs each.

In the pitching department, Brown had a 15-3 mark in 1960 while Shaeffer chalked up a 13-3 record in 1973. John Howell of Lee racked up a 17-2 mound record in 1968 and Randy Prince of the Rebels, won 13 and lost three during the 1969 season.

DISTRICT 5-4A HAS had some great hitters with Midland athletes a paving the way through the years.

Aggies nab win

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M's Robert Verde and Tim Feickert knocked in key runs in the seventh inning Friday to rally the Aggies to a 4-2 Southwest Conference baseball victory over Texas Tech.

The Red Raiders had taken a 2-0 lead in the third inning on three singles and an Aggie error. The Aggies, now 15-4 in the SWC and 28-11 for the season, trimmed the margin to 2-1 in the third inning.

Texas A&M then put together its two-run seventh inning and added another run in the eighth frame.

Mark Ross, 7-3, picked up the victory with relief help from John Pokcrus. Freshman lefthander Robert Bryant, 1-6, absorbed the loss for Texas Tech.

The Raiders dropped to 7-12 in the SWC and 32-21 for the season.

TCU topples Rice by 8-1

HOUSTON (AP) — Steve Houk and Chuck Lamar drilled triples and John Shelley added a two-run double Friday to lead Texas Christian to an 8-1 Southwest Conference baseball victory over Rice.

TCU right-hander Cameron Young, 3-3, went the distance, allowing nine hits. Rice starter Doug Watson, 2-5, was chased in the seventh when the Horned Frogs scored five runs.

John O'Keefe was the only Rice player to get two hits off Young.

TCU now is 6-13 in conference play, while Rice fell to 5-14.

Islanders lose, 2-0

TORONTO (AP) — Toronto goaltender Mike Palmateer recorded his second Stanley Cup shutout by turning turned aside 19 shots while Ron Ellis and Ian Turnbull provided the scoring punch as the Maple Leafs defeated the New York Islanders 2-0 Friday night in Game 3 of their best-of-seven National Hockey League quarter-final playoff series.

The Islanders held a 2-1 lead in the series which continues Sunday night in Toronto.

After a scoreless, hard-hitting first period, Ellis, a 33-year-old right wing, gave the Maple Leafs a 1-0 lead at 14:37 of the second session. Jim Jones knocked the puck off Glenn Resch's stick on a stuff-in attempt, then centered it through a maze of players to Ellis, who beat Resch from five feet.

In the third period, Islander defenseman Stefan Persson lost the puck in his own end and Ian Turnbull let go with a blast from just inside the blue line that beat Resch at 5:37. Resch was partially screened by teammate Gerry Hart and the Leafs' Jerry Butler.

Lee girls golf team qualifies for state

LUBBOCK—The Midland Lee varsity girls golf team fired a two-round 747 here Thursday and Friday to win a state golf tournament berth in Austin in two weeks.

The Lee total was 22 strokes behind Region I champion Amarillo High, but the top two teams in the AAAA competition earn state berths.

The Lee junior varsity also had good regional exposure with a fourth place 837. El Paso Coronado was third with 784.

Wendy Goodwin paced the Rebelettes with a two-day 171, which was good for fourth place in the medalist chase. Odessa Permian's Jackie Diass won the medalist honors and a trip to state with a 161. Five strokes better than her nearest competitor.

Amarillo High ran away with the competition with a 725, and should be a strong contender in the state meet. Lee will enter the state run as a darkhorse, but they have been there before.

Sheryl Guthrie posted a 177 to aid Goodwin's 171 while Sally Reavis came in at 197 and Gayle Rowan at 202. Paige Worrell rounded out the Lee varsity effort with a 218.

Theresa Stoltz and Brenda Heath paved the way for the Lee junior varsity, both with 205. Kim Lewis was not far behind with a 207 and Gail Watson ended with a 220. Angie Willis contributed with a 234.

In the AA competition, Kermit walked off with the title after a 828 two-day score. Dalhart was second with a 844 to win the other state berth.

Orioles defeat Royals by 2-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lee May doubled home the tying run with a sixth-inning double, then scored on consecutive wild pitches by Kansas City's Dennis Leonard, giving the Baltimore Orioles a 2-1 victory over the Royals Friday night.

The loss ended Kansas City's winning streak at eight games.

Baltimore's Jim Palmer, who hurled a shutout in his only other start this season, allowed four hits in eight innings before being relieved by Don Stanhouse starting the ninth. Stanhouse yielded one hit, completing a combined five-hitter. The victory was Palmer's ninth straight dating back to last August.

The Royals' only run came on Tom Poquette's leadoff homer in the sixth.

Leonard, who had throttled two Baltimore threats before the sixth, now is 2-2. He lost the season opener and is the only Royal pitcher to be beaten this year.

Larry Harlow doubled opening the sixth for Baltimore's third hit and remained at second until May doubled into the right field corner for his 11th run batted in.

With Doug DeCinces at bat, Leonard's first two pitches got past catcher Darrell Porter, allowing May to score the winning run. It was Baltimore's fifth victory in the last seven games.

Prior to his homer, Poquette had been the only Kansas City runner to advance beyond first base. He got a hit with one out in the third inning and continued to second when the ball took a bad hop past Harlow in center field.

Porter extended his hitting streak to 10 games with a fourth-inning single but was thrown out at second after Clint Hurdle struck out. Hurdle also struck out in the second but reached first when catcher Rick Dempsey was charged with a passed ball.

Dempsey, however, also threw out Porter following a strikeout of Amos Otis in the seventh, completing Baltimore's second such double play. Kansas City, successful on 15 of 17 stolen base attempts against the rest of the league, has been caught on seven of nine attempts against the Orioles.

Al Bumby walked and stole second in the Baltimore first but was only able to reach third on a single by Ken Singleton after holding up to see if the ball would clear the infield. Leonard then retired Eddie Murray and May.

In the Baltimore fifth, Bumby was retired on a tapper to the mound after Dempsey drew a walk and moved to third on a double by Mark Belanger.

Canadiens post victory

DETROIT (AP) — Jacques Lemaire, Pierre LaRouche and Yvan Cournoyer scored three-period goals Friday night to send the Montreal Canadiens to a 4-2 National Hockey League playoff victory over the Detroit Red Wings.

The triumph gives the Canadiens a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup quarter-final series.

Detroit, which hasn't beaten Montreal in a playoff game at home since 1956, led 2-1 after two periods on a goal in each period by Nick Libett sandwiched around a first-period score by Montreal's Steve Shutt.

Montreal poured it on in the final period, outshooting Detroit 13-4 to wind up with a 32-19 shooting bulge.

It took the Canadiens just 30 seconds into the final period to score the tying goal with both teams short a man. Lemaire slammed in a rebound of a Shutt shot.

Then, at 3:46, LaRouche put a rebound of a Shutt shot past goalie Ron Low — who had made many superb saves throughout the game.

Cournoyer put the game away at 12:38 with his fourth playoff goal, a backhander off a pass from Yvon Lambert.

Libett opened the scoring at 7:54 of the first period with a power play goal, getting a pass at the right corner of the net and jamming the puck past goalie Ken Dryden.

Shutt's tally, at 8:38 from Larry Robinson and Lambert, also was on a power play. It was the first goal given up by the Red Wings in the first period in six playoff games.

The second Libett score, his third of the playoffs, came at 13:48 of the second period from a Vaclav Nedomany pass.

Dawson signs Expos pact

MONTREAL (AP) — Outfielder Andre Dawson, the 1977 National League rookie of the year, agreed to a one-year contract with the Montreal Expos, General Manager Charlie Fox announced Friday.

The agreement was reached between Fox, Dawson and his agent, Nick Buoniconti.

Last season, Dawson batted .282 with 19 homers and 65 runs batted in in 139 games with the Expos.

This season, Dawson is batting .250 with six RBI and two homers in 10 games.

TORONTO (AP) — Two-run homers by Chet Carlson Fisk capped another Boston batting barrage with a tiebreaking two-run homer in the seventh inning Friday night as the Red Sox outslugged the Cleveland Indians 9-7 for their eighth consecutive victory.

Jim Rice and George Scott also homered for the Red Sox, who had to hold off several Cleveland challenges before Dick Drago checked the Indians in relief.

The victory, Boston's seventh in a row in its first home stand of the season, boosted the Red Sox' record to 9-3, just percentage points behind Detroit in the American League East.

The Indians picked up unearned runs in each of the first two innings but Boston gained a 2-2 tie on Rice's fourth homer of the season, into the center field bleachers, and singles by Fisk, Fred Lynn and Dwight Evans.

The Red Sox went ahead 5-2 with three runs off Cleveland starter Wayne Garland in the fourth. A single by Carl Yastreski, two walks, a 17-hit Chicago attack as a double play grounder the White Sox routed the Toronto Blue Jays 11-2 and Butch Hobson tied the Friday.

Fisk paces Sox past Tribe, 9-7

Lemon, who collected three hits, drove in three runs in the sixth on a run and scored twice, hit homer by Johnny Grubb loser Tom Underwood's and singles by Buddy first pitch over the center Bell, Andre Thornton, a field fence 400 feet away fielder's choice grounder in the first inning after and Ron Pruitt's single.

Scott put Boston in front again with a two-run homer, his first, off reliever Dennis Kinney in the sixth. But the Indians again tied the score at 7 in the seventh.

Fisk then drilled his homer in the bottom of the inning off reliever Jim Kern, 1-1.

Drago, who surrendered a two-run single to Larvell Blanks after replacing starter Mike Torrez in the seventh, settled down and earned his second victory in three decisions.

Brewers rip Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Wohlford, Don Money and Ben Oglivie each drove in two runs as the Milwaukee Brewers struck for eight runs against Ed Figueroa in the fifth inning and coasted to a 9-2 victory over the New York Yankees Friday night.

Wohlford broke a scoreless tie with a two-run single inside the first base bag, driving in Sal Bando and Gorman Thomas. With one out, Bando singled and moved to third on a doubled by Thomas.

After Wohlford's single, Buck Martinez singled and Wohlford scored when Yankees center fielder Mickey Rivers misplayed the hit.

Paul Molitor then singled Martinez to third, Molitor advancing to third. Money then doubled in two runs and scored when Larry Hise reached on a two-out throwing error by shortstop Bucky Dent.

Oglivie capped the big inning with his first homer of the season.

Brewers' starter Jerry Augustine was relieved by Bob McClure in the seventh inning but gained his third victory in four decisions. Figueroa is 2-1. The Yankees' starter had allowed only one hit.

Gerualaitis is fined

by Pro Tennis Council

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Vitas Gerualaitis, who created a furor while winning a World Championship Tennis tournament here in February, reportedly has been handed the largest fine in the brief history of the men's Pro Tennis Council.

The Richmond Times-Dispatch said in its Saturday editions it had learned from sources who were not identified that Gerualaitis, who won the singles championship at the Richmond Coliseum, was fined $2,300 for four incidents during the week-long tournament.

The paper said the major charge, aggravated behavior, was not taken up by the council at a meeting this week in Nice, France.

Six other players received fines ranging from $700 to $200, making the total amount of $4,350 one of the biggest known assessments for disciplinary actions in a single tournament.

The tournament itself also was fined $200 for an obscene gesture made by a linesman to Gerualaitis as the linesman was leaving the court in protest over the player's treatment of another linesman.

"I might not have treated it exactly the same way, but taking into account all the factors, I think he was treated in an equitable manner," tournament director Lou Einwick said.

He added: "There was no formal probation as such, but if he gets $700 more in fines, he would be automatically suspended."

Einwick said four incidents led to the fines against Gerualaitis:

—Calling tournament referee Walter Horsley "a jellyfish" in the media.

—Hitting a ball at a linesman and later gesturing obscenely to the linesman during his match with Ken Rosewall.

Urps scores eagle

BY REX WORRELL
Hogan Park Golf Pro

The golfers have returned to the links with the coming of spring weather, so hopefully we'll have some outstanding feats to report in the coming weeks.

There was an eagle scored at Hogan this month by Tommy Urps on the par four, No. 12 hole. Tommy hit a good drive and holed his wedge second shot for the eagle two, which was witnessed by playing partner Bob Paul.

Congratulations, Tommy. There was one other remarkable shot at Hogan Park this week, it was a putt on the No. 9 hole by Thurman Pylant of the Keenagers. Unfortunately, we do not have room in this column to explain exactly what happened, however, if you are really interested in hearing the story, give Py a call and he will be glad to explain it to you. Good putt, Py...

We would like to take this opportunity to introduce a new staff member at Hogan Park Golf Course. Kaye White is the new smiling face local golfers will be seeing behind the counter in the Golf shop. Kaye and husband Lendon moved back to Midland last month from Sweetwater and we're pleased to have Kaye on the staff.

PLAY INCREASED this March over March 1977, figures for the month were: Annual fee players, 1,813; green fee players, 2,746; high school players, 578; college players, 44 for a total number of 4,944 in March 1978. Overall increase in the number of players was 277. Revenue for March 1977 was $6,216 while revenue for March 1978 was $8,844.30, giving us an increase of $2,628.30.

The Hogan Park Women's Golf Association held a Strokes-to-the-green event for their play day Thursday with the 18-hole division winner Gloria Dellenback. There was a tie for second between Betty Cobb and Florence Mailey while Merla Ketter was next.

In the nine-hole competition, Bernice Webb and Betty Reimers finished in a tie for first place.

The ladies will hold a low net event this Thursday with the pairings as follows: 18-hole division—Nell Kimball, Sue Campbell, Alvina Hill; Bernice Cox, Anelle Mack and Wilma Cox; Sandy Wilkerson, Jet Schultz and Charleen Roseberry; Gene Veltan, Lucha Haskins and Shirley Mays; Merla Ketter, Marilyn Philby and Pauline Simon; Jane Wagner, Margaret Mills and Golda Morgan; Florence Mailey, Muriel Inman and Marilyn Walker; Betty Cobb, Pete Minnerly and Jean Elkin; Dorothy Melzer, Chata Mee and Maxine Buskirk; Gloria Dellenback, Ella Heath and Jackie Luvisi; Dottie Turk, Shirley Edwards and Fern Barnett.

Nine-hole division—(start on No. 1) Jeanne Allen, Dot Pringle, Kim Gentry, Margaret Moore, Margaret Stricker, Vera Powers, Evelyn Ballard, Rita Boe, Betty Williams; Bernice Webb, Mary Davis and Barbara Larsen; Carol DePaul, Evelyn Guildry and Frances Stahl; Wilma Allenson, Bonnie Walbel, and Peggy Matilda; Betty Reimers, Marjorie Caldwell and Leah Sutcliffe; Pat Kolb, Romona Snow and Mary Behner; Keenie Ashland, Ernestine Browning and Peggy Parkins; Juanita Evinger, Peggy Barry and Carolyn Cobb; Rosa Lee Cook, Patty Frizzell, Karen Clark and Margaret Rhea.

Gottfried takes big tennis win

HOUSTON (AP) — Fifthseeded Corrado Barazzutti of Italy took advantage of a second-set lag by Chile's Hans Gildermeister for a 6-3, 6-3 victory Friday and moved into the semi-finals of the $175,000 World Championship Tennis tournament at River Oaks Country Club.

Top-seeded Brian Gottfried recovered his sagging volley game late in the first set and defeated Jeff Borowiak of the United States 7-6, 6-2. Gottfried, U.S., will meet Barazzutti in Saturday's semifinals.

Gottfried was in control of the first set when he led 5-3 but allowed Borowiak to escape two set points in the ninth game. Gottfried continued to mis volleys in the tenth game that went to five deuces before Borowiak broke Gottfried, forcing a tie-breaker.

Gottfried's game suddenly returned as he won the tiebreaker 7-1 and easily took the second set.

Gildermeister, who uses a two-handed backhand and forehand, had maneuvered into a 3-2 lead in the second set after breaking Barazzutti in the fifth game.

But Gildermeister, after winning the first two points of the next game, then lost four straight points to lose his serve on a series of errors.

Barazzutti, ranked 12th in the world, then held in the seventh game, broke Gildermeister in the eighth and held again to wrap up the match as the fading Gildermeister won only four of the last 20 points.

Barazzutti jumped to a 4-0 lead in the first set, breaking Gildermeister in the first and third games. Gildermeister rallied to a 4-3 deficit before Barazzutti held in the eighth game and, using superb passing shots, broke Gildermeister in the ninth game to take the first set.

"It took me a while to get my concentration back after that—bad call," Barazzutti said.

He referred to the final point in the fourth game when a linesman called a shot by Gildermeister out and then changed it, giving Gildermeister the game.

"I was just too impatient today," said Gildermeister, who is playing in his first tournament since early February. "If I'd stayed back on the baseline we could have played all day."

Ali will win back his title

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Take it from Angelo Dundee, trainer and confidante of Muhammad Ali for nearly 20 years, "the greatest" is going to win his title back.

"Muhammad Ali is going to regain the heavyweight championship of the world," Dundee said in a recent interview.

"Muhammad's a guy who needs to have goals, who strives for them," said Dundee, who was visiting relatives and friends in Winston-Salem. "He's a person who needs something to shoot for — he needs a big mental lift," Dundee continued. "Now he has a real goal to shoot for. Nobody has ever won the title three times running. And that's going to be the difference for him."

"He'll win it." All will attempt to regain the championship Sept. 15 in New Orleans in a rematch with Leon Spinks, the former Marine who won a split decision over Ali in February.

Dundee did not grouse over that decision, saying, "a decision was rendered and it can't be changed. We're not looking for any kind of cop-out."

"The next time," he said, "All will take charge early and win it. He'll just be Muhammad All this time."

Although Ali's doctor has said Ali should quit for health reasons, Dundee is waiting for Ali to make that decision. "I think that's Ali's decision," he said. "A lot of people try to get into the act, try to tell him what to do. But Muhammad is smart enough to know when he's had enough. He knows what he's doing. Anything I have to say to Ali in that regard, I say privately."

Bovina takes large lead in Class A region track

ODESSA—The Class A girls got a head start on their AAA counterparts here Friday in the AAA-A Region I track meet at W. T. Barrett Stadium, and Bovina got the biggest jump of all.

The AAA girls didn't have to have preliminaries today, so the Class A girls had the track to themselves. Five events were completed with Bovina scoring 37 points to take a big early lead.

Pat Shepherd led the way with a first in the shot put and a second in the discus while Sandi Sides won the triple jump and Denise Reed was second in the high jump. That staked Bovina to a big early margin. Stanton's Loretta Young took a second in the triple jump and a sixth in the long jump to give Stanton nine points. Rankin scored two points with a fifth place from Joyce Plagens and McCamey got one point with a sixth place in the shot put from Terry Welling.

In qualifying trials Stanton's Loretta Young and Marcel Young had the second best qualifying times in the 80-yard hurdles with 11.3 seconds, but that is the only hope for Stanton points today.

Rankin qualified two individuals and an 880-yard relay team for today's finals. The relay squad posted a 1:46.2 for the third best time and Plagens had a fourth best time of 1:00.35 in the 440-yard dash. Phyllis West of Rankin managed a 5:52.4 in the mile run to qualify sixth in that event.

McCamey's Shelly Phillips had a third best of 28.6 in the 220 and a fifth best 11.9 in the 100 for the Badgers' only hopes for additional points today.

The AAA girls will have to go through all 14 events today. The top two girls in each event will earn a state berth in Austin in two weeks.

Houston netter takes upset

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Houston's unseeded Nduka Odizor stunned second-seeded Kevin Curren of Texas, 6-2, 6-4, Friday to move into Saturday's semifinals in the South-west Conference Tennis Championships.

Odizor, a freshman from Lagos, Nigeria, used a powerful serve and well placed returns to avenge an early-season loss to Curren. Curren had lost only once in SWC round-robin play, while Odizor posted a 5-3 mark.

Odizor will meet defending SWC champion and No. 3 seed Randy Crawford of Texas Christian.

Top-seeded Jal DiLouie of Southern Methodist easily trimmed Mark Hurd, 6-3, 6-3, in quarter-final action that saw the Mustangs add to their pre-tournament point advantage in the race for the team title.

The defending champion Longhorns, however, suffered two upset losses and gained only six points. SMU got eight.

Texas A&M's Jim Crubert knocked third-seeded Texas' Doug Swallow, 6-3, 6-3.

SMU lost only in the No. 6 singles, where Chris Delany was beaten by Arkansas' Mark Johnson, 5-7, 7-6, 6-0. In No. 1 doubles competition, the top-seeded Longhorn duo of Curren and Gary Plock, defending SWC champions, breezed to an easy 6-1, 6-2 win over Texas Tech's Harrison Bowes and Felix Amaya.

Plock and Curren meet Houston's tandem of Dennis Cahill and Dan Valentincic on Saturday.

Heading into Saturday's semifinals, the Mustangs have 65 points, while Houston has 60. Texas and Arkansas each post 58 points, while TCU has 51.

Ties are cut with tourney

NEW YORK (AP) — In a dispute over what's good for women's tennis, the association that represents women players cut its ties Friday with the cigarette manufacturer which has sponsored the major tour for eight years.

"The players didn't feel that the tour concept was advantageous to women's tennis at this time," said Jerry Diamond, executive director of the Women's Tennis Association. He said the announcement followed a vote last week by the WTA Board of Directors in favor of a system of individual tournaments with differing — and generally greater — amounts of prize money.

Sentiment among the players, however, was expected to be mixed toward the loss of a sponsor that gambled in 1970 and carried women's tennis to prominence. Billie Jean King, a pioneer, was sad but resigned. "I'm disappointed," she said. "Eight years ago they (Virginia Slims) helped my fight for women's tennis... But it's a difference of philosophy. We just have to go forward." Virginia Slims officials had wanted to maintain its schedule of 11 32-player winter tournaments all with the same prize money, culminating in a championship event. This year, the series tournaments all were worth $100,000 while the championship offered a total of $150,000 to the eight top competitors.

"The women felt that certain tournaments should have more prize money than others and that some should weigh more than other," said Diamond.

He acknowledged that other companies have been champing at the bit to get into women's tennis sponsorship over the last few years. He said two companies, which he declined to identify, offered solid backing for at least four tournaments by Friday evening, hours after the decision had been made to drop the Slims tour.

Diamond said the new schedule of tournaments would offer more prize money per tournament than that provided on the Slims tour in which the winner's share was $20,000. "You won't see many tournaments with as little as $100,000," he said.

But Diamond said he did not know what the increase in total prizes to women pros might be over the course of a year. He said there was no question in his mind that sponsors would be found to create a full schedule of tournaments in 1979.

It was unclear whether a rift had occurred between the WTA and Virginia Slims. No company officials could be reached for comment.

Diamond, however, insisted that as far as he was concerned, relations were still friendly and that he would welcome sponsorship by the company of a tournament under the new system.

Boxing problem child Spinks has troubles

By The Associated Press
The world should be looking to Leon Spinks, who at 24 is the heavyweight champion. But that world is quaking.

Spinks started his championship reign as the conqueror of Muhammad Ali by being 2 1/2 hours late for his first news conference.

Things have been downhill ever since for the strapping ex-Marine, who has been acting like he's on a two-week furlough binge.

Leon Spinks and the people around him, who have been playing tug of war with his life, better get their act together ... fast.

At about 4 a.m. Friday morning Spinks, who really is half heavyweight champion of the planet, was arrested in his hometown of St. Louis by police who saw him drive into a restaurant with the car's lights out.

Officers stopped him and began a search after, they said, Spinks' companion, 26-year-old Sharlean Gunn, began berating them. Police said they found cocaine hidden inside Spinks' hat band and marijuana in a jacket pocket.

The circuit attorney's office issued a warrant charging him with possession of one one-hundredth grams of cocaine and the prosecuting attorney's office issued warrants charging him with driving without a license and of possessing less than 35 grams of marijuana. A spokesman said it was about four or five grams of marijuana.

"Come on, man, you know who I am. I don't have one," Spinks reportedly told a cop when asked for his driver's license.

Yeah, Leon, we know who you are. You're the heavyweight champion of the world and an Olympic gold medalist. Start acting like it.

"This is the United States, you're innocent until proven guilty," said Bob Arum, the promoter with a grasp on Spinks' professional life but obviously no control over his personal life.

Arum is right, of course. Spinks is innocent of any crime until proven guilty. But he is guilty of stupidity. It's not too much to ask a champion to behave like a champion.

Since he won the title from Ali with a display of guts Feb. 15, Spinks has displayed contempt for the position he won by hard work, not because it is a birth right.

It almost certainly isn't Spinks' fault he was stripped of title recognition by the World Boxing Council because that organization contended he had no intention of living up to an agreement to make his first title defense against Ken Norton. Leon signed what he was told to sign by Top Rank, Inc., so that group could put on an All-Spinks fight, a fight that earned Spinks $300,000.

Okay, so Spinks' loss of partial title recognition was really beyond his control. After all, a man who has been a complete stranger to the kind of money big fights mean, wasn't hard to sell on a rematch with Ali. The fight is scheduled for New Orleans Sept. 15 and will, if it is held, bring him much more than he could have earned with a Norton bout.

It is interesting to note that Leon had to borrow money recently from Mitt Barnes, his manager of record, who has been battling with Top Rank and with Leon's attorney, Judge Ed Bell.

Ongais after 3rd straight

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Danny Ongais, the "Flyin' Hawaiian," goes for three victories in a row Sunday at the Trenton International Speedway in a U.S. Auto Club 200-mile, $105,000 race.

Ongais, the 1977 USAC rookie of the year, scored stunning triumphs in 200-mile races at Ontario, Calif., Speedway and Texas World Speedway in recent weeks behind the wheel of the Interscope Racing McLaren M-24 prepared by the West Coast racing shop of Vels-Parnell Jones.

The 35-year-old Ongais, who now lives in California, started racing as a teen-ager in Hawaii. He came to the mainland and got into drag racing, quickly rising to star status before moving into road racing.

In his first two attempts at Indianapolis-type competition, he drove a Mickey Thompson-prepared car at Hanford, Calif., and Phoenix, Ariz., crashing both times.

When USAC turned him down for a driver's license at Indianapolis in 1968, he went back to the road racing circuits and drag racing, but continued to seek championship car rides. Finally, in 1976, he qualified for the Ontario 500, started 11th, crashed early and finished 28th.

In 1977, he ran 13 of USAC's 14 races, won a 200-miler at the Wisconsin State Fair Speedway near Milwaukee and finished 12th in the driver standings for the season. He was an easy choice for rookie of the year.

Last season Ongais developed a reputation for going as fast as — some say faster than — his car was able to go. He was the quickest qualifier in four of the last five races of 1977.

He also won the pole position as the fastest qualifier in the season opener at Phoenix in March, but failed to finish. He started from the pole position at Texas, too.

Although only in his second season as a championship circuit driver, Ongais is a veteran campaigner because of his experience on other circuits. He also is one of the quietest drivers in USAC racing.

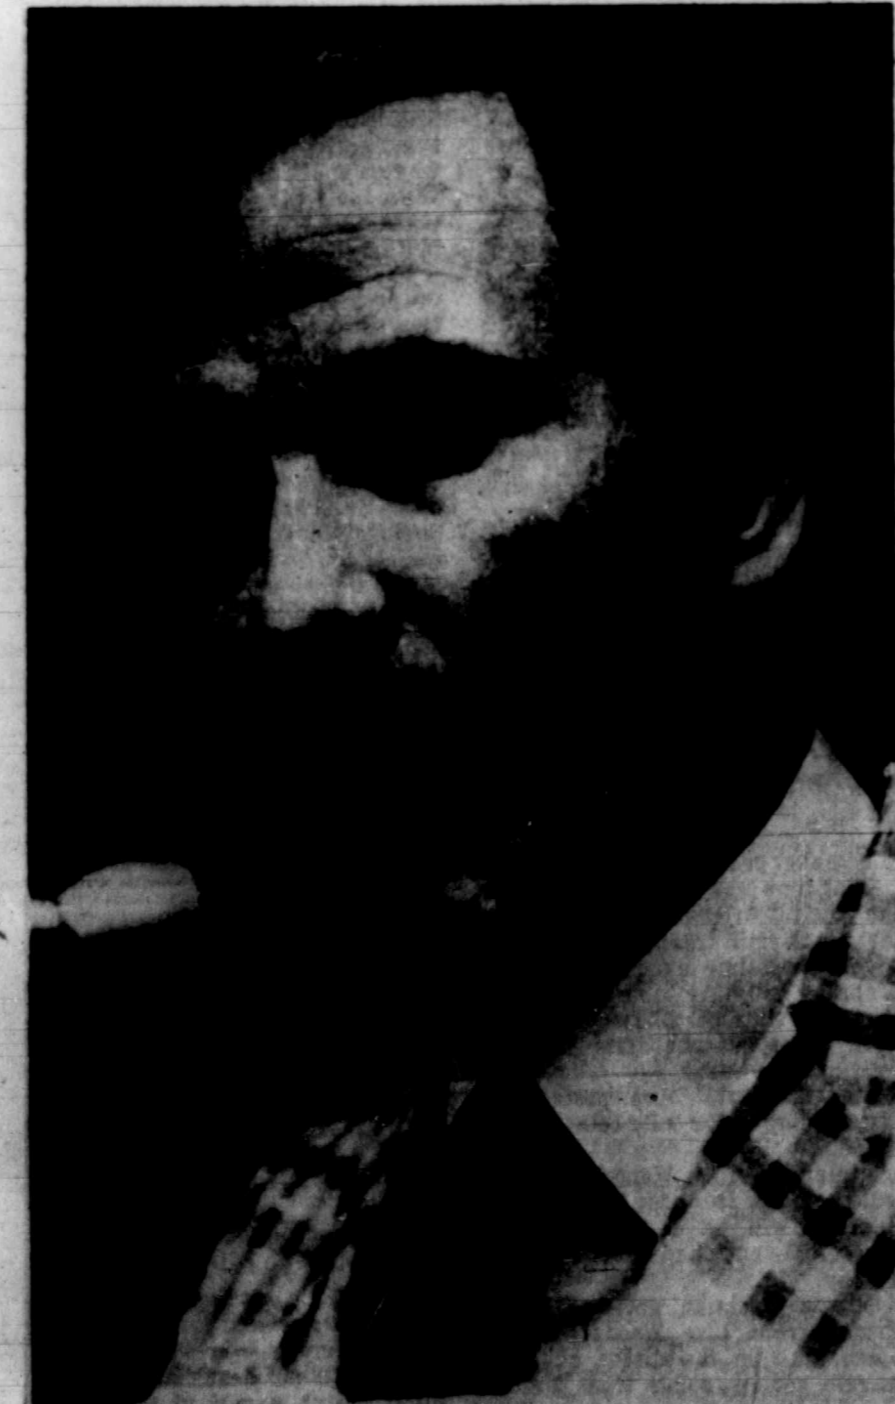

Newsman have been known to get flustered when, upon asking Ongais a lengthy question, they get a "yes" or "no" answer, instead of the wordy replies.

Ongais is content to let his car do the talking. He leads in the seasonal point race for the National Driving Championship.

The race gets under way Sunday at 1:30 p.m., preceded by a 100-kilometer "Mini-Indy" race for formula SuperVee cars.

Broadcast team is the youngest for Oakland A's

By CHARLES MAHER
The Los Angeles Times

If somebody asked you to name the youngest team in the major leagues and you guessed the Oakland A's, you'd be close.

It's actually their radio broadcast team, the senior member of which is as spry and alert as he was at 20, way back last week.

As you may have read, the A's awarded radio rights for their first 16 games this season to KALX in Berkeley, Calif. It was a routine transaction except that KALX is a non-commercial FM station, is owned by the University of California, is operated by students and has as many wats (10) as the light in your refrigerator.

The No. 1 play-by-play man is Larry Baer, a junior majoring in political science. He comes to the job with a rich background, having announced 10 home baseball games at Cal.

"The saga of how we got the A's really started last year," he said. "It was only two weeks before the season and Charlie Finley still didn't have a radio station lined up. So I called him and said I was from KALX, 10 wats and everything, and sort of gave him a sales pitch. And his first line was, 'B.S. walks and money talks.'"

"But then he warmed up and started making small talk, asking me about school and myself. It turned into a very cordial conversation."

FINLEY WOUND UP on a 50,000-watt station last year but the deal was for one season only. And this spring, when nobody was sure whether the club would represent Oakland or Denver or maybe operate at large, interest in Finley's radio rights slackened to the point of invisibility.

"This year it was only five days before the season and he still didn't have a station," Baer said. "So I called again."

Baer knew some people in radio and his plan this time was to offer to help Finley find a station. If that didn't pan out — well, he could mention there was always KALX to fall back on.

"I had called other stations and sort of tested the wind," Baer said. "There wasn't really a whole lot of interest and I expressed that to Charlie. Finally he said, 'Heck, let's have some fun. We'll put the A's on your station and have a good time.'"

So, for an unannounced but undoubtedly modest sum, KALX bought the broadcast rights. It was a short-term deal because it still wasn't certain the A's would stay put all season. Also, Charlie probably wanted to test his young announcing team.

But, for the moment at least, Baer has the job he's been angling for since his younger years.

"I grew up in San Francisco," he said, "and when I was 6 or 7 my dad started taking me out to Candlestick Park. We'd sit in right field, in section 19, and I'd watch Willie Mays in center. I became a fanatic Giant fan. And I sort of fantasized about being a major league announcer."

WHEN BAER was about 12 he approached Lon Simmons, the veteran San Francisco play-by-play man, and asked about joining the Giants' broadcast team. Nothing came of that, though Baer was perfectly willing to start out as the No. 3 man and didn't threaten to take Simmons' job straight away.

As it turned out, Baer broke into the majors as the lead announcer. He does six innings and Bob Kozberg, a 20-year-old mass communications major, does the rest.

"I've always been a Dodger fan," Kozberg said. "I went to Beverly Hills (Calif.) High. I've always wanted to meet Vin Scully because we had something in common: We both did Dodger games. He did them from the booth for a 50,000-watt station and I did them from the stands. I'd sit there and call the plays, just as if I were announcing from upstairs. Everything went fine except sometimes people around me would tell me to turn down the volume a bit."

Kozberg announced about five Cal baseball games before he made the big leagues. He and Baer have both worked Cal football and basketball games. Baer, the KALX sports director, has also produced daily five-minute scoreboard and sports feature shows.

"We feel we can give Charlie the day-to-day coverage vital to the franchise," Baer said. "Even though we're only a 10-watt station our coverage area is 2 to 2.5 million people. Our transmitters are in the Berkeley Hills and the signal covers, the East Bay, most of San Francisco, a good share of Marin County and down the Peninsula to about Menlo Park."

While KALX doesn't carry commercials it does solicit contributions from business and recognizes them with brief on-the-air announcements: "This broadcast was made possible by a grant from....."

Baer is about a straight-A student but he wasn't sure he could keep his A's straight last week. "It's amazing," he said. "You need a computer to keep track of who's on the team. In the last 24 hours they brought in three new bodies. The A's media guide has a roster as of the beginning of spring training and there are 36 names on it. Only 12 are still with the club. We had to get last year's media guides from seven or eight teams to get information on our players."

BAER AND KOZBERG did their first A's game from Anaheim Stadium last Friday. With them was producer Steve Blum, 20, a history major from Concord, Calif.

"There were a few problems," Blum said, "but they were mostly minor. We were off the air about two minutes when a headphone jack knocked a switch off. But we did better than KPIX (the TV station that carried the game back to the Bay Area). They got knocked off the air for a whole inning." (KPIX and the A's negotiated their deal before the latest uncertainty about the franchise arose.)

"It went well," Baer said, "but we did have a tape-recorder malfunction. I interviewed Bobby Winkles (the Oakland manager) and Jack McKeon (a coach) for the pregame show but when I got back upstairs I found the recorder had busted. I had to go back down and do another interview and I got back to the booth about five minutes before we went on the air. So it was hectic. But I started to relax. I think, about the fifth inning."

Back suits King Tennis set Monday KC team physicians

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Charging that negligent physical therapy cost him a promising professional football career, former Kansas City Chiefs defensive back Bruce Polen has filed suit against Research Medical Center.

Polen asks for $950,000 in damages for himself and his wife, contending the damages were caused by allegedly faulty postoperative treatment he received at the hospital.

Research officials could not be reached for comment. Polen, now a football coach at Pittsburg, Kan., State College, joined the Chiefs in 1974 after starring in football and baseball at William Penn College, Oskaloosa, Iowa. He graduated from Lee's Summit, Mo., High School in 1969.

Polen injured the knee in April 1974 while training with the National Football League club, and was operated on by a team surgeon. He was sent to Research for postoperative physical therapy.

The suit claims that a physical therapist employed at Research "negligently and carelessly" damaged his knee and that treatment failed to measure up to professional standards. He said a second operation in 1975 failed to solve the problem and he was forced to give up his football career.

Shoemaker honored
NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Shoemaker, who has ridden more than 7,300 mounts to victory in 29 years, has been named Man of the Year by the Jockey Agents' Benevolent Association.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Defending champion Jimmy Connors will be seeking his third straight title, but he'll have to contend with three former champions in the $250,000 Alan King Tennis Classic April 24-30.

The quartet of Connors, who won in 1976-77; Roscoe Tanner, the 1975 champion; Brian Gottfried, 1973 winner, and 1972 victor John Newcombe of Australia heads a field of 32 players from 12 nations.

Three former runners-up also will be competing for the $50,000 first prize money — Mexico's Raul Ramirez, Australian Ken Rosewall and Arthur Ashe.

"This is the toughest field we've ever had," said King, adding that the singles purse is the largest of any tournament.

Other top players entered include Italy's Corrado Barazzutti, Romania's Ilie Nastase, Poland's Wojtek Fibak, Harold Solomon, John McEnroe, Chile's Jaime Fillo, Australia's John Alexander, Stan Smith, Tim Gullikson and Australia's Phil Dent.

Other top competitors will be India's Vijay Amritraj, Jeff Borowiak, Australian Colin Dibley, Peter Fleming, South Africa's Bob Hewitt and Ray Moore, England's John Lloyd, Bob Lutz, Tom Leonard, Hank Pfister, Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia and Victor Pecci of Paraguay.

Smith and Lutz will defend their men's doubles title. This division of the tourney carries a $50,000 purse, with the winners to receive $15,000.

Tennis pro Pancho Gonzales will seek his fourth Pinch Hall of Fame victory, having won every other year since 1973.

Also seeking that title, which carries a $10,000 purse, will be Pancho Segura, Billy Talbert, Sven Davidson and Frank Parker.

The finals and semifinals of the men's singles will be nationally televised live April 29-30.

The event, part of the Colgate Grand Prix and expected to draw 30,000 fans, will be held at Caesars Palace.

Quarterbacks Kingman paces Cub win will compete

NEW YORK (AP) — Craig Morton of Denver and Roger Staubach of Dallas, opposing quarterbacks in the Super Bowl last January, will compete in the June 19-22 Dewars Cup tennis tournament in Las Vegas, Nev.

Defending champions Rick Barry of pro basketball's Golden State Warriors and baseball Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers are among the 32 stars entered. Others include track star Wilma Rudolph, Bob Lanier of the Detroit Pistons basketball team and Archie Griffin of pro football's Cincinnati Bengals.

Kingman paces Cub win

CHICAGO (AP) — Dave Kingman slugged his first home run of the season in Wrigley Field, a three-run shot in the sixth inning, and rookie Dennis Lamp earned his first major league victory with a four-hitter, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 5-0 triumph over the New York Mets Friday.

Kingman's blast, his second homer of the year, — his first was at Pittsburgh April 9 — came on a 3-2 pitch from Craig Swan and barely got it into the left field seats.

Ivan DeJesus had opened the Chicago sixth with a single off Swan, 1-1. Two outs later, with DeJesus at second base, Bobby Murcer was walked intentionally, another run in the inning when Steve Ontiveros doubled, Dave Rader was intended intentionally and Mick Kelleher singled home Ontiveros. They got their final run in the eighth on Greg Gross' RBI single.

The four runs in the sixth were the first earned runs given up by Swan this season in 21 innings.

Lamp, 1-2, walked three and struck out one in pitching his first complete game in the major leagues. He was up briefly at the end of last season with Chicago and had a 0-2 record in 11 appearances.

DELVIN WILLIAMS, the runningback who was displaced by the acquisition of O.J. Simpson, was traded to the Miami Dolphins early this week. The Dolphins gave up wide receiver Freddie Solomon and defensive back Vern Roberson and some draft picks. (AP Laserphoto).

Pond captures pole position

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Lennie Pond edged out Cale Yarborough for the pole position Friday in qualifying for Sunday's Virginia 500, the first time the Chester, Va., driver has been the top qualifier in a Grand National stock car race.

"I've started second and all the way back to way, but never first," explained the 1973 Grand National rookie of the year. "I'm very happy about this because I think it shows how close to winning we are. Right now I feel we've got a good chance to win each Sunday we go to a race track."

"Actually I thought we would have been a winner by now, especially after the way we ran in Richmond (in February). I'm figuring on changing that this Sunday."

Pond had to wait out a lengthy rain delay for Benny Parsons to make the final assault on his speed. Parsons, stymied by a backfiring engine, ended up fourth quickest.

"I thought one of them would knock me off," said Pond, who still is in search of his first Grand National race victory. "But we got in a real good lap, and the other guys didn't."

Pond drove his Chevrolet to an average speed of 88.730 miles per hour, which was about one-tenth of a second off Neil Bonnett's year-old track record. Yarborough, in an Oldsmobile, averaged 88.552 mph on his run. Yarborough needs only to start Sunday to surpass $2 million in career winnings.

"Neil probably could have done it, but he got a little wide in one of the turns and lost some speed," Pond said.

Bonnett wound up fifth. Barely one second separated Friday's 20 qualifiers. The slowest man to earn a spot was Jimmy Means at 84.491 mph.

The final 10 starters in the $110,000 race will be determined in qualifying Saturday at the .525-mile Martinsville Speedway oval.

Sunday's race is scheduled to start at 12:30 p.m. EST.

Women's tourney set

FAR HILLS, N.J. (AP) — The LaGrange, Ill., Country Club will be the site of the 1981 U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship, the U.S. Golf Association said Friday.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mickey Lolich, making his pitching comeback at age 37 with the San Diego Padres, may be sidelined for the season by a knee injury. And he's miffed because word of his ailment is out.

"Doesn't anybody think around here?" he asked after Randy Jones and Rollie Fingers combined for a three-hit, 2-0 victory Thursday over Atlanta. "I might have been able to get by as long as nobody knew about it."

"Now, there's no way. Once the word gets around, teams would be bunting me like crazy." Padres General Manager Bob Fontaine wants to be optimistic about the injury Lolich suffered Wednesday night while relieving against Houston, but admits it's difficult.

Team physician Dr. Paul Bauer "is very seldom wrong when it comes to knees," Fontaine lamented, "and he's afraid it will require surgery."

"I'll know for sure after he has an orthogram," said Bauer, who scheduled an examination Friday for Lolich. "It looks like torn cartilage, though, the same thing Mark Fidrych had. If he does need an operation, I'd say he'll be out a minimum of six weeks."

Nothing could be worse for the Padres, who are 3-7, 4½ games behind Cincinnati in the National League West.

Lolich miffed at press

Lolich has been one of the Padres' most effective hurlers since making the team this spring, following a one-year layoff from baseball. He had spent the 1976 season with the New York Mets after being acquired in a trade from the Detroit Tigers.

Padres Manager Roger Craig planned to move Lolich into the starting rotation as soon as he was physically ready. Lolich, 10, had a 1.13 earned run average for his 81-3 innings, all in relief.

"I don't know what we'll do, yet, if we lose him," mused Craig. "We probably can get by with nine pitchers, but in order to do that, we'd have to go to a four-man rotation."

The portly Lolich spent last season as a first baseman for the VFW team in Romeo.

Jaycees, youth getting ready for coming Superkids events

It's time to dig out the old tennis shoes and start brushing up on running and jumping to get ready for the Midland Jaycees Superkids event scheduled May 13 in Midland Memorial Stadium. Featured attraction at the day-long event will be Thomas Henderson, star linebacker of the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys. He will participate in the events and sign autographs at the end of the contest. Superkids is a new state Jaycees project following the motto, "Superkids win because they care — help fight lung disease!" Proceeds will go to the American Lung Association of Texas. Youths 6 to 12 years old are eligible to enter in any of the eight events which will include baseball throw, football kick, 50 yard dash, 100 yard dash, plastic disk throw, sack race, jump rope and an obstacle course. Each event will be divided into seven age groups with boys and girls competing against each other. To enter, they must complete registration and sponsorship forms and have signed permission from their parents or guardian. Sponsors can pledge any amount they wish for each point the child accumulates during the day. Points will be given for each event entered with more points going to the top ten places. Top winners in each event will receive ribbons. Decathlon winners in each of the seven age groups will receive trophies. The grand prize will be two bicycles presented to the boy and girl who collect the most from sponsors based on their point total for the day's activities. Registration will start at 8 a.m. with the events to begin at 10 a.m. Preregistration and sponsorship forms can be obtained from all local Dairy Queens and YMCAs, the Boys' Club and Burger Chef. "Superkids promises to be an exciting and fun-filled day for both the kids and parents of Midland," a Jaycees spokesman said. "We hope to have an outstanding turnout so that this will become a yearly event the kids can really look forward to."

Candidate favors primary battle

By The Associated Press

Republican gubernatorial candidate Ray Hutchison said Friday he and Bill Clements, his GOP opponent, should air their differences in the primary — not wait until the Democrats get hold of them in November. Hutchison challenged Clements to publicly reveal his business dealings, and those of his firms, during the time he was deputy secretary of defense. "If there are things that need to be discussed, they should be discussed by Republicans in this primary," not wait until the Democrats discuss them in November," Hutchison told a news conference. Hutchison stressed that Clements should tell of any financial deals between Clements' Sedco Inc. or Sedco Maritime Inc. and OPEC nations. The Democratic governor's race, as usual, was more war than peace. Attorney General John Hill mentioned the battle of San Jacinto in an Austin speech on San Jacinto Day while most state offices were closed. "The men whose heroics on the battlefield at San Jacinto in 1836 are celebrated every April 21 in Texas were men who met the challenge when their state needed help," Hill said. "Our state needs help in 1978, yet our governor is not meeting the challenge. That's why Dolph Briscoe will become the 10th governor in Texas history to be voted out of office, instead of the first governor in Texas history to serve 10 years in office." Briscoe's office said it has made a total of 130,130 telephone calls in Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, Corpus Christi and McAllen during the campaign to recruit volunteer workers and to identify favorable, unfavorable and uncommitted voters. The headquarters said the massive sampling showed, among other things, that: — Six weeks ago there was no real interest in the campaign; now the electorate is beginning to focus on the governor's race. — The undecided vote is going down and the favorable and unfavorable votes are going up. In Laredo, Briscoe said Texas voters have a choice on May 6 "between a governor who produces and a candidate who promises. The main difference in this race is a difference in philosophy and a difference in performance." A group of elected Mexican-American officials held a news conference in Austin to announce support of Hill. "Dolph Briscoe has had his chance to lead this state and he has failed," said Rep. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, who also works in Hill's headquarters. "He has proved by his record that he neither cares about, nor understands, the concerns of the average wage earner, much less the poor." Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, a Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, said in Kilgore that the nation needs a fiscally conservative, comprehensive economic policy to deal effectively with inflation. Krueger indicated he would introduce a bill to limit increases in next year's federal budget to the rate of inflation when Congress discusses the budget in May. Krueger challenged his primary opponent, Joe Christie, to spell out his positions on national issues. Christie charged again, in a Capitol news conference, that Krueger had made campaign trips to Texas then collected travel pay from the federal government. He said this has become a major issue in the campaign. "For instance," Christie told the news conference, "I talked to a couple dozen taxpayers last Monday while they were mailing in their income tax returns and I asked them if they realized they were involuntarily contributing to Krueger's Senate campaign. "Without exception they expressed great indignation," Christie said.

Mortician board changes its stance

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Faced with the chance of early death under the new Sunset Act, the State Board of Morticians said Friday it now backs pro-consumer legislation it had fought for years. "I think the Sunset Act gave impetus to it," conceded Herbert Baker, a board member who represented the agency before the Sunset Advisory Commission. Shortly before, the commission took its first life or death votes on state agencies — admittedly minor ones. It voted to recommend that the Legislature wipe out the Burial Association Rate Board, the Stonewall Jackson Memorial Board, the Texas Vehicle Equipment Safety Equipment Commission and the Pesticide Advisory Committee. "I may not be very popular at the next family reunion," said Rep. Lee Jackson, R-Dallas, in moving to abolish the Stonewall Jackson Board. The board, created amid the segregationist fervor of 1957, never met. Majorities, but less than the required three members each from the House and Senate voted to eliminate the Pink Bollworm Commission and the take state agency status from the Texas Navy, Inc.

Naturalists say 1978 'year of the condor'

EDITOR'S NOTE — There are only 40 wild condors, and last year they managed to rear only one chick. With their numbers so small, the Audubon Society has a plan that could save these magnificent, soaring creatures from extinction.

BY JOE WING

OJAI, Calif. (AP) — This is the year of the condor — a year in which California's huge vulture could start a hesitant retreat from oblivion's brink or continue its slow slide toward extinction. "The way things are going now the condor has no chance for survival," says John Borneman of Ventura, Calif., the Audubon Society's condor specialist.

But this may change. A five-man, government-sponsored "condor recovery team" headed by Sanford R. Wilbur, biologist in charge of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service station here, has recommended to federal and state authorities that three wild birds be captured to round out two breeding pairs. On these captives would rest the hope for the breed, because the few condors now flying free are producing few young.

"It's the only thing we can do, even though the chances for success are anybody's guess," says Borneman, a member of the recovery team.

It is estimated that only 40 California condors exist, down from 50 a decade ago. Only one is in captivity.

The magnificent species has the widest wingspan of any North American land bird, averaging nine feet although one authority notes a maximum of 11 feet.

In flight, air passing through its wing tips creates a steady whine. When it dives, there's a roar like escaping steam. The condor can soar for more than an hour without flapping a wing. Much more stable in flight than the turkey buzzard, it is often mistaken for an airplane.

It subsists on carrion, scavenging about two pounds of decaying animal flesh a day, but it can survive for several days without food.

The one condor in captivity is Topa-Topa, named for the canyon in which she was found by hunters as a very sick youngster 11 years ago. The big black and white bird lives in an oversize cage, out of public view, at the Los Angeles Zoo.

When introduced to a visitor by Michael Cunningham, acting curator of birds, Topa-Topa lumbered down from her high perch and peered quizzically through the wire mesh Her naked face and neck, rather than appearing repulsive, reminds one of a ruddy, balding friend.

The condor is one of the wild's shyest creatures, but Topa-Topa has learned to like people, getting rough with them only on occasion. Some time ago she tore off one of Cunningham's fingernails.

If three condors are captured, one would be paired with Topa-Topa. Optimistic that the proposal will be approved and that the pair would remain in Los Angeles, the zoo is building a 65 by 90 foot cage, with native trees and shrubs and an attached cave for nesting. The other pair is earmarked for a federal Condors were bred in captivity years ago at the San Diego Zoo, when the birds were more plentiful. But last year, in the wild, the condors managed to rear just one chick, and Wilbur, who has been studying the birds since 1969, is pessimistic about prospects this year.

"It looks like another bad breeding season," he says. Weeks of wind and rain this spring beset the 52,000-acre condor refuge in the Los Padres National Forest. The birds don't fly in bad weather and may have had trouble finding enough carrion to support them.

As long as 90 years ago ornithologists were referring to the condor as a doomed species. Never numerous, they dwindled in that era as collectors hurried to obtain eggs and museum specimens before it was too late. Also it was a mark of distinction among California boys to have shot a condor.

Now, because of strict laws, refuge areas and an educational campaign by the Audubon Society and others, hunting and collecting are no longer problems.

But the condor doesn't reach breeding age until 6 years at least. At best it lays a single egg once in two years. And the appearance of a man within 500 yards or the sound of a distant plane may cause it to stay away from its nest. Wilbur is seeking a rule barring planes from flying lower than 3,000 feet over refuge areas.

Other factors that could have contributed to the condor's decline are pesticides and the advanced age of the surviving birds, which may live 70 or 80 years.

Even with the breeding project, survival of the species is by no means assured.

For one thing, there is no certain way short of surgery to determine a condor's sex. Only by watching its behavior can sex be determined otherwise. That takes time. Even if things go well, says Wilbur, it will be 10 years before young birds can be returned to the wild. He envisions the project as one lasting 30 or 40 years.

Defense is difficult without X-ray eyes

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

One of your big advantages as declarer is that your opponents cannot see each other's cards. This prevents them from making a certain kind of good play that would be routine if they had X-ray eyes.

South takes the ace of spades and plans to draw trumps and run the diamonds. If South leads the ace of hearts and then goes to work on the diamonds, East ruffs the third diamond and returns the queen of clubs, defeating the contract.

"Bad luck," South complains. "I'd make four hearts if West had the second trump, or if East had three or more diamonds, or if East had the ace of clubs."

All very true, but don't sob your heart out for poor South. After taking the ace of spades South should lead a diamond to dummy's ten and return a trump to dummy.

CANNOT SEE
If East could see his partner's hand he would step up with the king of hearts. But for all East knows, West might have the singleton ace, and then East would never hear the end of it.

East must therefore play the jack of hearts, and South shrewdly plays low. West must win the queen of hearts, and South later draws the last missing trump with the ace.

West wins his side's trump trick and cannot collect three clubs. South has time to discard a club on a diamond.

DAILY QUESTION
Dealer, at your right, bids one spade. You hold: S A 2 H A 10 7 4 3 D K 8 2 C K 7 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Double. Your hand calls for action, but your hearts are not strong enough to bid. A takeout double is the logical choice.

Trash yields gold

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trash plant operated by the Bureau of Mines in suburban Maryland consumes five tons of garbage a week and transforms it into reusable aluminum, glass, steel and tin, reports National Geographic.

The bureau's plant, constructed from off-the-shelf mineral processing equipment, was made to show city governments and private industry that trash can be an untapped resource that can be recycled economically.

In most cities, it costs an average of $6 a ton to dispose of a ton of trash, but certain cities have tighter pollution controls and fewer landfill areas, resulting in disposal costs of up to $20 a ton.

If the Bureau of Mines prototype were duplicated by the commercial sector, it could process 1,000 tons of trash a day, says Geographic. It would cost about $8 a ton to operate at that rate, but the sale of its recycled products would bring $12.60 a ton, officials say.

Senate facing crowded calendar, little time

By RICHARD L. LYONS

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Senate devoted 38 days to the Panama Canal treaties and has about 120 working days left this year to settle the other problems of the nation and the world. That assumes adjournment soon after Oct. 1 to allow time for campaigning.

House and Senate Democratic leaders are working up their agenda for the rest of the session and will meet next week to synchronize their operations. "They can't sit around twiddling their thumbs, but there is time enough to address issues that need to be addressed," said a Senate leadership aide.

Some of the time-consuming issues will be left for the next Congress. They include welfare reform, national health insurance, results of the strategic arms limitation talks.

The bill that could tie the Senate up for the longest time is the labor reform measure, which the House has passed. Opponents are geared up for a long post-cloture debate that could go on for weeks. Labor has not got much from this Congress and Senate leaders want to pass their bill, but it could be yanked if the fight appears endless.

The business that Congress must take up includes the long list of annual bills authorizing department budgets, such as Energy, Justice and military procurement, extension of programs that expire such as Aid to Elementary and Secondary Education and public service jobs (CETA) plus more than a dozen appropriation bills providing the money for them.

Then there is the special legislation President Carter or Congress wants.

First, is Carter's tax-cut-reform bill, which probably will serve as a vehicle for all kinds of fights. There will be efforts to roll back Social Security taxes and give tax credits to help pay college tuition.

The energy bill, one-year-old Thursday, is still bogged down in a House-Senate conference. Members insist they will finally resolve their differences on natural-gas pricing and, take a bill back to the House and Senate where more long fights could ensue.

Mellowed black power firebrand blames dad

By PAUL HENDRICKSON
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Bobby Seale has mellowed, everybody says. "That's because I'm not going around saying, 'Off the pig.' You got to meet the climate of the times, man. For one thing, there is no J. Edgar Hoover out there. Or John Mitchell. Or Mayor Daley. God bless his racist soul. Hell, yes, I'm still a revolutionary. But that don't mean I'm going down the street carrying guns."

The firebrand symbol of '60s Black Power is 41 now. Though the Black is still taut and explosive-looking, the face is softer these days, fuller, with creases under the dark, hooded eyes and a certain tiredness — maybe sadness — inside them. The hair that used to ring his jaw in a malevolent-looking Fu Manchu is trimmed to a mustache.

SITTING AT A FRIEND'S kitchen table in Washington recently, wearing cranberry double-knits, sipping a can of beer, Bobby Seale could be a claims adjuster for Allstate. Almost anything, in fact, save what he was chairman and co-founder of the Black Panther Party for Self Defense.

The Black Panthers, Oakland, Calif., 1966. Huey P. Newton and Bobby Seale. Berets and black leather jackets. Upraised fists. Vigilante patrols. The takeover of the visitors gallery at the Sacramento statehouse. And later: a pre-dawn police raid at Fred Hampton's Chicago apartment (two slain, four wounded). The conspiracy trial of the Chicago 7. Judge Julius Hoffman.

In the nearly eight years since he sat bound and gagged in a Chicago courtroom, eyes spitting defiance at Judge Hoffman, Bobby Seale has faced a murder trial in New Haven, helped negotiate peace at Attica, run for office in California, fallen out with the Black Panthers (exactly why is still an inner-circle mystery), and dropped from sight to write his autobiography — an oddly moving and lucid book titled "A Lonely Rage." Now, like any good capitalist, he is out promoting it.

"YOU CAN GO TO the whitest, most racist community in America and they still know who the — Bobby Seale is," he says, unable to stop a grin. "I figured that was a good starting base."

Seale says — James Baldwin, his literary hero, provided the book's title. The two had first met the day of Martin Luther King's funeral in Atlanta, in Marion Brando's hotel suite. Seale had come ambivalently, having okayed King's being called a "bootlicker" in Panther newspapers.

"James said, 'Now Bobby, what are you trying to say in this book?' and I said, 'I'm trying to say it ain't no sin to have a lonely rage.' Well, there's your title," he said. "He says he got a $25,000 advance to write the book. 'I had a $35,000 offer from another publisher, but they wanted it cowritten. This one's all mine.'"

He admits the book has not been very well received by activist blacks. "They wanted more the issue of political events. Well, it wasn't supposed to be that. It was supposed to be an autobiography."

IT IS SEALE'S STORY to be sure — from the dirt poor Texas boyhood to the bad-conduct discharge from the Air Force. From a teen-age identification with the American Indian ("We were some kinda nigger macho Tarzans — with buckskin and Bowie knives and everything") to trying to make it later as a jazz drummer and stand-up comic.

If there is one psychological thread running through Bobby Seale's story, it is his murderous and nearly lifelong rebellion against a violent, move-about father who was forever exploiting his family and beating up on his elder son. One time Bobby aimed to kill him.

"WE WERE ALL in the living room — my brother John, who was home from the Air Force, my sister Betty, Mama. George was sitting on this old, worn, maroon couch and he kept getting on me till I'm in a killing rage. I ran into the kitchen rattling through drawers, looking for Mama's wooden-handled butcher knife. I had to have her knife, you see. I think what had piled up in my head all this time was a horrible fear my father was one day going to hurt my mother. Anyway, I found it, faced George, and said, 'Okay, you nasty nigger mother — I'm going to cut your guts out.'"

He is off the chair, standing in the center of the room, his eyes large as walnuts. The voice, calm a moment ago, is high and racing.

"And that's when we all started crying. My brother and Betty and Mama. Even George. I just kept standing there, shaking, but aiming to do it, let him and the whole damn world know how much I hated him. But when I saw those tears rolling down his face, I couldn't hold back my own. I started bawling and said, 'I've always loved you. I'm sorry. You used to be everything to me. I'm sorry, Daddy.' He walked off into the living room saying, 'Yeah. I'm sorry, too.'"

BOBBY SEALE CONTENTS his simmering rebellion against his father is at the root of his becoming a revolutionary. "I don't say it's absolute. But I say it's highly possible that if I hadn't been a victim of maladaptive repressive behavior at home, I might have become a totally different adult. Look, man: I was once studying to be an architectural draftsman. I had started to college in engineering. In high school I used to get A's on the tiniest details."

He is comfortable with such terms as "maladaptive repressive behavior." He will tell you all about his "super-ego" now, and how he controls it. He learned this on his own: "My mind is my own laboratory." Not long ago Seale formed Homicide Prevention Inc., an organization he says helps deal with the "high rate of conflict-motivated homicides." "See, nearly two-thirds of all murders in this country are conflict-motivated. They usually arise from an irresolvable conflict between two individuals, maybe a husband beating his wife, maybe a white cop trying to pin a rap on a black. Parents raise their children with too much repressed anger."

How is his relationship with his father now? "It's a whole new day. Hell, that old guy has learned a lot. And I've learned a lot. We get along fine. He calls me up every once in a while to get a little money."

Even his feelings toward Judge Hoffman have softened. (In his book Seale describes a "screwed-up old face" that "peered down through his round metal-rim glasses.") "Him? Oh, I imagine he's pretty much like he was. But I don't hold a grudge. That's over."

Seale says he doesn't see his old comrades much anymore. "I recognize now that one of my problems was that I always had a psychological friend-dependency. It was that way with Huey. I'm on my own now." Besides, he says, the Panthers, as everybody knows, are a shadow of their former selves — down from 22 chapters and several thousand members in 1969 to probably less than 100 active members in just two chapters today, one in North Carolina, the other in Oakland, where the party began.

THAT IS TRUE. It is also true that the Black Panthers are far from the militant organization they once were. As party spokesman David G. Dubois said a few years ago, the emphasis has changed from the old "by any means necessary" to the new "by any means available." In the '70s the party regrouped under Elaine Brown.

one of the original members and a former minister of information. Under her the Panthers established a health clinic, a free food stamp program and the private Oakland Community School.

Seale seems to have amazing recall of events in his life; he can even remember exact conversations, he says.

"IT ALL STARTED when I was in the joint at Greystone prison in California. We'd be in 24-hour lockup and not come out for three days, and then just to shower and then just to shower and shave and go back in. Half the guys in there were in mania states, banging their heads against the bars, screaming at the bulls. Man, I wanted out of there so bad. I'd lie in my bunk wide awake. That's when I got the idea of 'escape dreams.' I trained my mind to concentrate so hard I could be gone from that cell just remembering things. Like how far it was from Jasper to San Antonio. Or what my mama used to say about the new house we were going to get. Or all the plans Huey and I had in the beginning. By the time I was ready to write the book, I had it all remembered."

IN 1973 SEALE ran for mayor of Oakland as a Democrat. He conducted a hard, well-financed campaign and received 44,000 votes to the incumbent's 77,000. "We were dead serious," he says. "Like Huey used to say: 'If I should move one grain of sand from one spot to another, the world will never be the same.' We made our point."

Nowadays, Seale says, he likes to barbecue, play with his two sons (they apparently don't live with him, and he is vague about his marital situation) and watch his man, Kenny Stabler, throw passes for the Oakland Raiders. He has pretty much left the Bay Area behind, he says. Sometimes he stays with his aunt in Los Angeles; he's crashing these days in White Plains, N.Y. It sounds temporary; also vague.

WHEN HE SPEAKS on college campuses, he is always being asked why he's now working within the system, he says. "And I answer, 'But I was always working within the system — you just gotta understand the total system.'"

And this suddenly lights a bulb. "You know, I was talking to Jerry Rubin and he said, 'Bobby, I 'spect what'll happen is that all of us — you and Huey and Abbie and Tom Hayden and me — will keep on raising trouble, just like we always have. Then one day we'll all end up in the old folks home, bein' the meanest, nastiest senior citizens anybody ever saw.'"

Cool spring not really so rare

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — It isn't that the spring is so cool but that the winter was so long, a National Weather Service spokesman said Friday of April's reluctance to warm up.

"In a sense, it's psychological," said Allen Pearson, director of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center. "The winter hung on a month longer than usual, and people are hungry for spring."

Pearson said that over a long period of time, four years out of 10, there is this kind of cool spring in the Midwest.

"They forget that April is a very changeable month," he added.

Nuclear plant rises in Arizona

WINTERSBURG, Ariz. (AP) — The black lava rocks on the sides of midget mountains cooled peacefully for several million years, recently disturbed only by the buzz of tractors in nearby cottonfields.

Then came June 9, 1976. Puffs of black smoke rose from giant yellow earth scrapers as they growled and gouged out an 80-acre lake and three other holes, each 60 feet deep.

"That was the day we first scratched the earth," said Ted Dando, spokesman for Arizona Public Service Co. and four other power companies building the $3-billion Palo Verde Nuclear Generating Station. A forest of industrial cranes sprang up, hoisting steel beams and buckets of concrete. Two thousand hardhats were hired, along with 500 clipboard-carriers and telephone-answerers.

"Unit One is about 22 percent complete," said Ed Van Brun, director of the project that will provide about a quarter of Arizona's electricity in the next decade. "Unit Two is 17 percent done and Unit Three about a half percent."

Each unit will house a nuclear reactor and steam-powered generator. The first is scheduled to begin producing electricity in May 1982, followed by the second in May 1984 and the third in May 1986.

Twenty-two percent complete means the structural steel is up for one 300-yard-long generator building and about halfway up for an adjacent 200-foot-tall concrete silo. The silo, its 3½-foot-thick shell reinforced with a carefully planned jumble of steel rods bigger around than an arm, will contain the nuclear reactor.

Because of the 113-degree heat on the desert 50 miles west of Phoenix, ice must be used to keep the concrete from setting too quickly and losing its strength. So a huge icemaker was installed alongside a concrete-mixing plant that operates by computer.

"In the summer, we use almost 100 percent ice in mixing concrete," Van Brun said. Bucket after bucket of this "cement Daiquiri" was used to pour the 9-foot-thick slab beneath the containment silo of Unit One. While the desert presents a challenge, it also provides plenty of room to maneuver 100-foot-long beams and steel wall sections. The 4,000-acre site was mostly farmland before APS made the million-dollar purchase in 1973.

Land-sale signs dot the drying fields and brush around the plant site, offering 1 to 80 acres and listing telephone numbers.

Dinosaur may be oldest found in North America

DETROIT (AP) — cluding bones, teeth and vertebrae — are those of Robert Dawley, a Wayne State University graduate student in paleontology, has discovered what may be the oldest remains of a dinosaur found in North America.

Dawley said the 180-million to 190-million year-old remains — including bones, teeth and vertebrae — are those of either the earliest dinosaur or the thecodont, of which the dinosaur is a direct descendant.

The remains were found in an excavation in Wyoming. "It was a retired sheepherder, George Clark, who actually noticed the bones scattered around the area (in the foothills of the Big Horn Mountains)," Dawley said. "He notified Wyoming University, which in turn told us when we got there."

Dr. John Ostrom, a paleontology professor at Yale University, said the find may be the only one of its kind in North America and perhaps the oldest.
