Lewis, Coal Leaders Set New Talks

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8. — Uncle Sam today got John L. Lewis and coal operators to go back to the bargaining table and try again for a settlement of the 20-day old mine strike.

But there was only gloom on the steel strike front as the economy-crippling shutdown of America's basic industry headed into its second week. Nothing is being done.

The first doubleheader steel-coal strike in the nation's history has idled nearly a million workers with prospects the jobless list will rise quickly. Losses in wages and industry are estimated above $250,000,000.

Talks Set Wednesday

Allied industries are being hit harder and only today a small steel concern boosted prices after meeting strike pension demands of the CIO United Steelworkers. Pittsburgh district merchants told coal and steel strikers to let up on credit purchases.

United Mine Workers Chief Lewis and representatives of three operators groups will sit down in West Virginia next Wednesday in an effort to unsnarl their contract impasse.

They reached an agreement on the time and place in Washington where U. S. Mediation Chief Cyrus Ching told them to get together and end the UMW strike because a crisis is approaching.

Lewis will meet with southern operators in Charleston, and northern, western and steel company representatives in White Sulphur Springs.

Lewis was in his Washington office catching up with business after a long absence in Illinois where his mother is ill. But he had nothing to say.

Generally there was peace in the bituminous coal fields east of the Mississippi where 380,000 diggers are striking in Lewis' fight for a new contract.

Non-union mines continue to produce fuel with little of the violence that marked their return to operation in defiance of Lewis' strikers.

Last night, however, the non-union Green River Coal company at Providence, Ky., was rocked by a heavy dynamite explosion that jarred the adjacent countryside.

Lewis has let 102,000 miners return to eastern Pennsylvania an-

Top Officials Charge 'Plot' Against Navy

By JAMES LEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—Navy Secretary Matthews told Congress today that a concealed economy order by Defense Secretary Johnson would "definitely impair" the sea services' fighting ability and Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) charged defense chiefs are trying to scuttle the Navy.

Matthews, colliding openly with Johnson for the first time, informed Vinson's House Armed Services committee he told the defense secretary it was impossible to make a $350 million cut in congressional appropriations for the fiscal year which began July 1.

Nation Ought To Know

Johnson's reduction order, totaling $803 million for all the armed services, was disclosed to the committee a few minutes earlier and confirmed by Assistant Defense Secretary McNeil. It drew from Chairman Vinson this scorching criticism:

"You come in here—and when I say you, I mean Mr. Johnson—and tell us that, without having the advice of the Air Force, Army or Navy, you have said 'reduce expenses.'

"Now you say to the departments — justify our actions, our judgment. This country ought to know what is going on."

Vinson said Congress already had cut Navy plane strength from 10,786 to 7,765 and that the Johnson order would slash off 273 more planes. The Navy could buy only 570 new aircraft instead of the 843 allowed by Congress.

Vinson said further cuts are planned for the 1951 fiscal year.

Matthews said the slash order, which contained reductions of $300 million for the Army and $150 million for the Air Force, came to him from the Defense department management board created by Johnson and headed by Air Force Gen. Joseph T. McNarney.

Newest developments in the Air Force-Navy feud came as the Armed Services committee continued its sensational inquiry into charges by Navy Capt. John Crommelin that the Defense department is "nibbling to death" the Navy.

Twister Rips Edge Of Panhandle Town

Colder Weather Forecast For Plains Today; Houses Are Unroofed At Claude

BY TOM DAVIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

TEXAS had everything but snow Saturday night as a small twister struck Claude near Amarillo, hail and rain hit parts of the South Plains, a cold wave carrying possible frost and rain moved south toward Lubbock and a flood threat subsided at Houston.

There was snow elsewhere, however, and the chill winds bearing down on West Texas blew off a snow storm that pelted a wide area of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and parts of Nevada, Idaho and Utah, the Associated Press reported.

The baby twister grazed the east edge of Claude, 25 miles southeast of Amarillo, unroofing three houses and breaking windows in several others. No injuries were reported.

Heavy Hail Hits Town

Hail the size of hen-eggs accompanied the Claude storm, which came between 8:05 and 8:15 p.m. The twister formed southeast of town and apparently died out shortly after it hit and moved off to the northeast.

On the South Plains, thunderstorms brought hail, rain and high winds to areas north of Lubbock, with some cotton damage feared but none reported.

The new cold front, slowing down somewhat and getting weaker, was scheduled to reach Lubbock about noon—possibly later—to drop temperatures to 44 or 45 tonight and early Monday. There was a remote possibility of a light frost Tuesday morning, the Weather Bureau station at Lubbock said.

Cold Front Near Amarillo

Early this morning, the cold wave was nearing Amarillo after crossing the Oklahoma Panhandle into Texas.

The arrival of the cold front is expected to bring cloudy skies, the forecaster said, with showers, drizzles and rains possible over the South Plains. Typical, wet fall weather appeared likely.

Hail was reported Saturday night in and near Matador, Floydada, Petersburg, Lockney and Crosbyton, with rains ranging up to .75 at Crosbyton and Matador.

J. R. Emmons, Motley county agent at Matador, said storm clouds rolled in there about 7 p. m., with a heavy downpour of rain and

Houston Flood Threat Fades

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Oct. 8. — A threat of more flooding in Houston and Harris county diminished tonight as waters receded in swollen bayous.

Many of several hundred residents forced to evacuate by flooding streams throughout the county returned to their muddy, water-soaked homes.

There still were numerous reports of homes and small communities isolated. But further danger to them appeared to be past.

10 Inch Rain Hits City

A ten inch rain had caused flood waters which took one life, slowed and detoured trafic; chased suburban residents in sections southwest and northwest of the city from their homes, and marooned many others.

Police reported waters reached depths up to five feet in some areas.

The only streams still rising tonight were the San Jacinto river in the eastern section of the county, and Buffalo Bayou—harnessed by an effective flood-control system.

Buffalo Bayou runs through the middle of Houston and becomes the Houston ship canal. It has been harnessed since a 1935 flood spree.

All highways from Houston were closed to traffic at times, but the only one still blocked tonight was U. S. 75 to the north. It was under four feet of water about 15 miles north of Houston.

150 Residents Cut Off

It was in this area that 150 residents had been reported cut off. Most of them could not reach highways without wading through hip-deep water, but were reported in no danger.

Receding waters in Bray's bayou was one of the first indications the flood was leaving.

Weatherman E. A. Farrell predicted that showers forecast for tonight and tomorrow offered no complications. Except for a few CANTON, China, Oct. 8 — Defenses north of Canton were melting away today before the Communist advance, but the Reds appeared to be concentrating on pursuit of the Nationalist army rather than quick capture of this capital.

Practically the whole 190-mile stretch of the Canton railway from Hengyang to Yingtak, only 75 miles north of this doomed city, was either in Red hands or had been abandoned.

Shifts Headquarters

Gen. Pai Chung-His, whose 200,000-man defense force is the best Nationalist army left on the mainland, was continuing his rapid withdrawal. He was moving southwest from Hengyang toward his native Kwangsi province, rather than south towards Canton.

Nationalist press reports said Pai had decided to shift his headquarters to Kweilin, capital of Kwangsi. This is 200 miles southwest of Hengyang, which was his headquarters only two days ago.

Pai's troops were said to have fought a holding action on his western flank to permit a smooth withdrawal.

One Dead, Three Are Injured In Mishaps

BY HANK McKEE
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

A 49-year-old Latin-American farm worker was killed and three other persons were injured, one seriously, in four major wrecks in and near Lubbock Saturday. A total of ten collisions wes reported in the immediate area during the day.

Marcello Belas, who was employed as a cotton picker in the area south of here was killed instantly when he apparently ran into the path of a car at Wolfforth.

The three injured persons were identified as Billy Cagle Perkins, 17-year-old Tech student at 1608 Ave. Q, who is in serious condition at Lubbock Memorial hospital, City Patrolman Ira E. Scott, 25, of 1505 Main, and Fredia Fugate, 14, of 101 Ave. B. All were hurt in accidents on city streets.

Thrown Into Windshield

Highway patrolmen said Belas had just alighted from a truck loaded with farm workers, and, while attempting to crossthe road, was hit by a southwest bound 1949 Oldsmobile driven by Virgil Truman Bramlett, 27, of Lubbock route 6.

Chest Campaign To Open Oct. 18

Lubbock's Community Chest campaign will open on Oct. 18 with a goal of $98,850 to achieve in the annual solicitation of funds for the city's eight organized charities and welfare agencies.

Date of the Chest drive, goal and plans for the "kick-off" schedule were announced Saturday by J. Ray Dickey, Lubbock automobile dealer and campaign chairman.

In announcing the goal, Dickey pointed out that the campaign this year covers two new agencies — the Carver Heights Nursery and the Lubbock Service Organization, welfare and entertainment agency for soldiers at Lubbock Air Force Base.

The $98,850 goal, with the new agencies added, compares with $97,500 for the 1948 campaign, of which $85,710 was subscribed.

The agencies benefitting from the Community Chest are: Lubbock Boys' Club, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Junior Optimist Club, Milam Home, Salvation Army, Carver Heights Nursery and the L.S.O.

Leaders Announced

Leaders in the financial campaign, announced Saturday, will be: Joe Bryant, G. V. Fulton, Preston Johnston, Leland Payne, Jimmie Whiteside, O. J. Sexton, Max Tidmore, W. C. O'Mara, J.

Crop Control Need Studied

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Harvest-time crop reports due next week may go far in driving the government toward the broadest farm production control action ever taken.

Mounting agricultural surpluses —in which Uncle Sam may have invested upwards of $4,500,000,000, by 1950 harvest—are causing government officials to search for ways of pinching back the production spigot opened wide by war and postwar demands.

As market prospects look now, it appears the Agriculture department will seek to curb output of such crops as cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, peanuts, flaxseed, potatoes, rice, oats and possibly soybeans.

Furthermore there may be some reduction in government financial incentives to produce hogs, eggs and poultry and such dairy products as butter and cheese.

A cotton production estimate to be issued by the department Mon-

Two Claimed In Freakish Storms

Flood waters and foot-deep snows took two lives and marooned hundreds of city-dwellers and hunters in western states Saturday.

Elsewhere the freakish weather shot temperatures to both record lows and highs for the date.

One man was swept into a flooding river and drowned in Texas, and a woman was found dead in Idaho where she had been missing from her hunting camp during heavy snows and below freezing temperatures.

Snow Covers Wide Area

In the Houston area, the threat of a major flood eased after rain-gorged bayous and creeks, which rampaged through the area, began receding.

The first heavy snowfall of the year pelted a wide area in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and portions of Nevada, Utah and Idaho.

It trapped hunters in the central Idaho forested area, drifted roads shut and stalled hundreds of automobiles.

The snow ranged up to a foot

57 Bales Cotton Burn At Sudan

SUDAN, Oct. 8. (Special)—A fire, aided by a high wind, swept a field adjoining the O. L. Shannon Elevator here at about 11 p. m. today, destroying 57 bales of cotton stored there. The cotton, valued at about $6,000, was insured only this morning.

Approximately 147 bales of cotton also piled in the area were saved by firemen and volunteers who brought the blaze under control a half-hour later.

Plans For $600,000 St. John's Methodist Church To Be Made

PLANS for construction of a new St. John's Methodist church, costing an estimated $600,000, will be made in a dinner at the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall, Thirty-fourth and Ave. Q, at 7 p. m. Monday.

Dr. Kenneth Pope, pastor of the First Methodist church in Houston, the largest Methodist church in the world, will be principal speaker at the dinner, which will officially open the financial campaign for the new church. No solicitation of funds will be made at the dinner, however, it was announced.

Paul Cates, chairman of the church's board of stewards and general campaign chairman, said he hoped 500 persons would attend the dinner.

Many Firms Represented

The market is held semi-annually under the sponsorship of Western Wholesale Market association of the chamber of commerce to provide a meeting and trading place in Lubbock for retailers of West Texas and New Mexico with wholesalers from all parts of the country.

All parts of the country actually were represented on the registration list of wholesale, jobbing and manufacturing representatives who arrived Saturday and devoted the day to getting their merchandise displays in readiness.

Hundreds Expected Today

Today is expected to bring, if the weather man is kind, the largest representation of retail store operators from West Texas and New Mexico ever to attend one of the markets.

Invitations have been sent to approximately 2,500 of them, and the indications are that several hundred will accept, many bringing members of their families. Some are expected from as far as 500 to 600 miles away.

Crop Control Need Studied

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Harvest-time crop reports due next week may go far in driving the government toward the broadest farm production control action ever taken.

Mounting agricultural surpluses —in which Uncle Sam may have invested upwards of $4,500,000,000, by 1950 harvest—are causing government officials to search for ways of pinching back the production spigot opened wide by war and postwar demands.

As market prospects look now, it appears the Agriculture department will seek to curb output of such crops as cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, peanuts, flaxseed, potatoes, rice, oats and possibly soybeans.

Furthermore there may be some reduction in government financial incentives to produce hogs, eggs and poultry and such dairy products as butter and cheese.

A cotton production estimate to be issued by the department Mon-

117 Cases Beer Seized In Raids

Ninety-seven cases of beer were seized from a residence on North Ave. K in a Saturday afternoon raid by city patrolmen and sheriff's deputies.

Although ownership of the raided property, in the Latin-American section of the city, has been determined, filing of charges will likely be delayed until Monday, officials of the sheriff's department said.

The raid was made about 3:30 p.m., with City Patrolmen Doyle Clark and V. P. Stevens and Frank

Two Claimed In Freakish Storms

Flood waters and foot-deep snows took two lives and marooned hundreds of city-dwellers and hunters in western states Saturday.

Elsewhere the freakish weather shot temperatures to both record lows and highs for the date.

One man was swept into a flooding river and drowned in Texas, and a woman was found dead in Idaho where she had been missing from her hunting camp during heavy snows and below freezing temperatures.

Snow Covers Wide Area

In the Houston area, the threat of a major flood eased after rain-gorged bayous and creeks, which rampaged through the area, began receding.

The first heavy snowfall of the year pelted a wide area in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and portions of Nevada, Utah and Idaho.

It trapped hunters in the central Idaho forested area, drifted roads shut and stalled hundreds of automobiles.

57 Bales Cotton Burn At Sudan

SUDAN, Oct. 8. (Special)—A fire, aided by a high wind, swept a field adjoining the O. L. Shannon Elevator here at about 11 p. m. today, destroying 57 bales of cotton stored there. The cotton, valued at about $6,000, was insured only this morning.

Approximately 147 bales of cotton also piled in the area were saved by firemen and volunteers who brought the blaze under control a half-hour later.

MEETING IS SLATED MONDAY

Plans For $600,000 St. John's Methodist Church To Be Made

PLANS for construction of a new St. John's Methodist church, costing an estimated $600,000, will be made in a dinner at the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall, Thirty-fourth and Ave. Q, at 7 p. m. Monday.

Dr. Kenneth Pope, pastor of the First Methodist church in Houston, the largest Methodist church in the world, will be principal speaker at the dinner, which will officially open the financial campaign for the new church. No solicitation of funds will be made at the dinner, however, it was announced.

Paul Cates, chairman of the church's board of stewards and general campaign chairman, said he hoped 500 persons would attend the dinner.

Complete detailed plans for the new church, which is to be located on property now owned by the church across the street from the Texas Technological college

HUNDREDS OF BUYERS EXPECTED

Record-Breaking Attendance Is Expected At Market Here Today

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

THE biggest attendance in the 20-year history of Western Wholesale Clothing Markets in Lubbock is expected today, provided the weather is favorable.

The indications were that several more broken records will be added to those of the Saturday op-

Many Firms Represented

The market is held semi-annually under the sponsorship of Western Wholesale Market association of the chamber of commerce to provide a meeting and trading place in Lubbock for retailers of West Texas and New Mexico with wholesalers from all parts of the country.

All parts of the country actually were represented on the registration list of wholesale, jobbing and manufacturing representatives who arrived Saturday and devoted the day to getting their merchandise displays in readiness.

Hundreds Expected Today

Today is expected to bring, if the weather man is kind, the largest representation of retail store operators from West Texas and New Mexico ever to attend one of the markets.

Invitations have been sent to approximately 2,500 of them, and the indications are that several hundred will accept, many bringing members of their families. Some are expected from as far as 500 to 600 miles away.

The clear indications Saturday

BROADCASTS TO START TUESDAY

New Teacher Manuals Explain Lubbock School Of Air Project

Teacher manuals for the Lubbock School of the Air, giving detailed information on the fifty-three broadcasts which will begin this week over station KFYO, were completed and ready for distribution this weekend, according to Miss Dorothy Lomax, director of secondary education, and Mrs. J. L. Teal, radio chairman.

The first program, one of the Library Window series presented by Mrs. Teal and Mrs. Briggs Irvin, will be heard Tuesday at 10:45 a. m. Thereafter programs will be presented each Tuesday and Thursday until April 27.

Different Pattern Planned

To introduce the twelfth year of broadcasting for the School of the Air, a program describing each of the four series was presented Friday morning.

One series, Adventures in Science, will follow a different pattern this year. For the past few years this series has presented science lessons for intermediate and junior high school students.

This year the entire series will be composed of health quiz programs prepared at Radio House, The University of Texas, in cooperationw ith the division of extension at The University of Texas and the State Department of health. Each quiz program will be specially adapted to the health needs of students in Lubbock and surrounding community. Miss Evelyn Jones is chairman of this series and will act as master of ceremonies. Teams from Lubbock schools will take part on the quiz programs.

Stories, Music Included

The Library Window, a literature program for intermediate and junior high levels, will be broadcast by Mrs. Teal and Mrs. Irvin. Programs of legend, drama, adventure, poetry, humor and choral speaking will be presented.

The Story Hour, prepared for primary students and presented by Mrs. Floyd Dunn and Mrs. Grace Smith, will combine primary stories, nature lessons, and literature.

Both primary and intermediate students will benefit from the Music in the Air series presented by Mmes. Elois Elliott, Billie Tabor, Ernest Wilpitz, Laverne Rush, and Miss Bernice Bay. This series will present musical masterpieces which every child should know, giving something of the lives of great composers and presenting recordings of famed selections.

Copies Of Manual Available

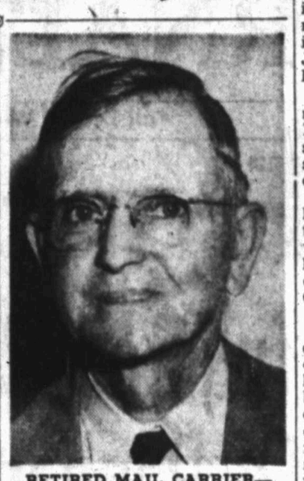

The teachers manual contains material which classroom teachers may use in preparing students for the program and follow-ups for classroom teaching. Teachers throughout the KFYO area are invited to write to the Office of Supervisors, Lubbock Public schools, Senior High School Bldg., for copies of the manual at 25 cents each. There is no charge for the manual for teachers within the Lubbock schools.

Members of the advisory committee for the Lubbock School of the Air are: Gordon Thompson, manager, KFYO; Mrs. Ross Ayers, School of the Air founder and publicity chairman; Ishmael Hill, assistant superintendent; Miss Dorothy Lomax, director of secondary education; and the three school nurses who will cooperate with the health series, Mrs. Era H. Ford, Mrs. Laura Nell Guthrie, and Mrs. Bennie B. Sanford.

Committee Members Listed

Teachers appointed from each school in both primary and intermediate levels make up the listening and evaluation committee. They are: Arnett, Mrs. Travis L. Hamblett and rs. Cleo Y. Peek; Bean, Miss Lucille Collier and Mrs. Novella Dewhurst; Brown, Mrs. Montez S. Smith and Mrs. Grace B. Belich; Carter Miss Katie Belle Crump and Miss Ruth Griffis; Central Ward, Miss Martha Mathis and Miss Anna Casey; Cottage, Mrs. Genevieve King and Mrs. David Smith; Dupre, Miss Annie Burgess and Miss Ninetta Parker.

Guadalupe, Mrs. Christine Smith and Mrs. Thelma L. Orr; Harwell, Mrs. F. L. Mize and Mrs. Mary Shaffer; Hunt, Mrs. Frances Neutzler and Mrs. H. D. Woods; McWhorter, Mrs. Roy Boyd and Mrs. Lennon Hill; Overton, Mrs. Louise A. Taylor and Miss Lula Ted Watson; Posey, Mrs. Mildred K. Rogers and Mrs. Eleanor Burgess: Sanders, Mrs. D. M. Hopper and Mrs. Martha Hard; Wilson, Miss Eddythe M. Walker and Miss Dimple Watson; and Wolffarth, Mrs. Peggy Bowling and Mrs. Marie W. Allen.

RETIRED MAIL CARRIER—William Grady Boyd, above, of Wilson, retired mail carrier after 28½ years of service, isn't living an idle life. Holding a bachelor of theology degree from Southwestern Baptist Seminary at Fort Worth, Boyd is a missionary with Mexicans in the Baptist church. At present he is working with the Mexican residents at Post. Boyd, who attended Baylor university two years and Hardin-Simmons university one year, came to Lubbock in 1919 and farmed a year before entering the postal service here. He made the highest grade in a Civil Service examination and was appointed a postal clerk in the Lubbock post office in 1920, where he worked until transferring to Wilson as a rural carrier in 1926. After recovering from a serious operation in Lubbock Memorial hospital in February, 1948, he retired on disability last June 1. (Staff Photo.)

Robert E. Hannegan To Be Buried In St. Louis Monday

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8 (U.P.) — The body of Robert E. Hannegan, who guided President Truman into the White House, will be buried Monday in the Catholic Calvary cemetery.

Hannegan, as head of the Democratic National committee, was responsible for Mr. Truman's vice-presidential nomination. In a message to Mrs. Hannegan, President Truman, who was unable to attend the funeral, said:

"In his passing in the noontide of his day, I have lost a faithful and devoted friend. Mrs. Truman and I are thinking of you and the children in this hour of sorrow."

Tech Board To Study Financing Plan For Student Building

Plans to turn profits of the Texas Technological college bookstore into a student union building fund will be considered at a meeting of the board of directors in Lubbock Saturday, Frank Junell, assistant of the president, has announced.

Members of the finance committee will meet on the campus Friday afternoon to study the situation and draw up plans for submission to the directors Saturday morning, Junell said.

Profits made by the bookstore have previously been placed in the college's general fund for betterment of the institution, but has not been specifically designed for certain projects, W. C. Cole, manager, explained.

Fund Drive Launched

The proposed move Saturday is designed to promote the building of a student union hall, which has been sought by the student body for several years. The student council has already taken over concessions on the campus this fall with a view to turning profits into the SUB fund. They expect to have some $20,000 available by next June.

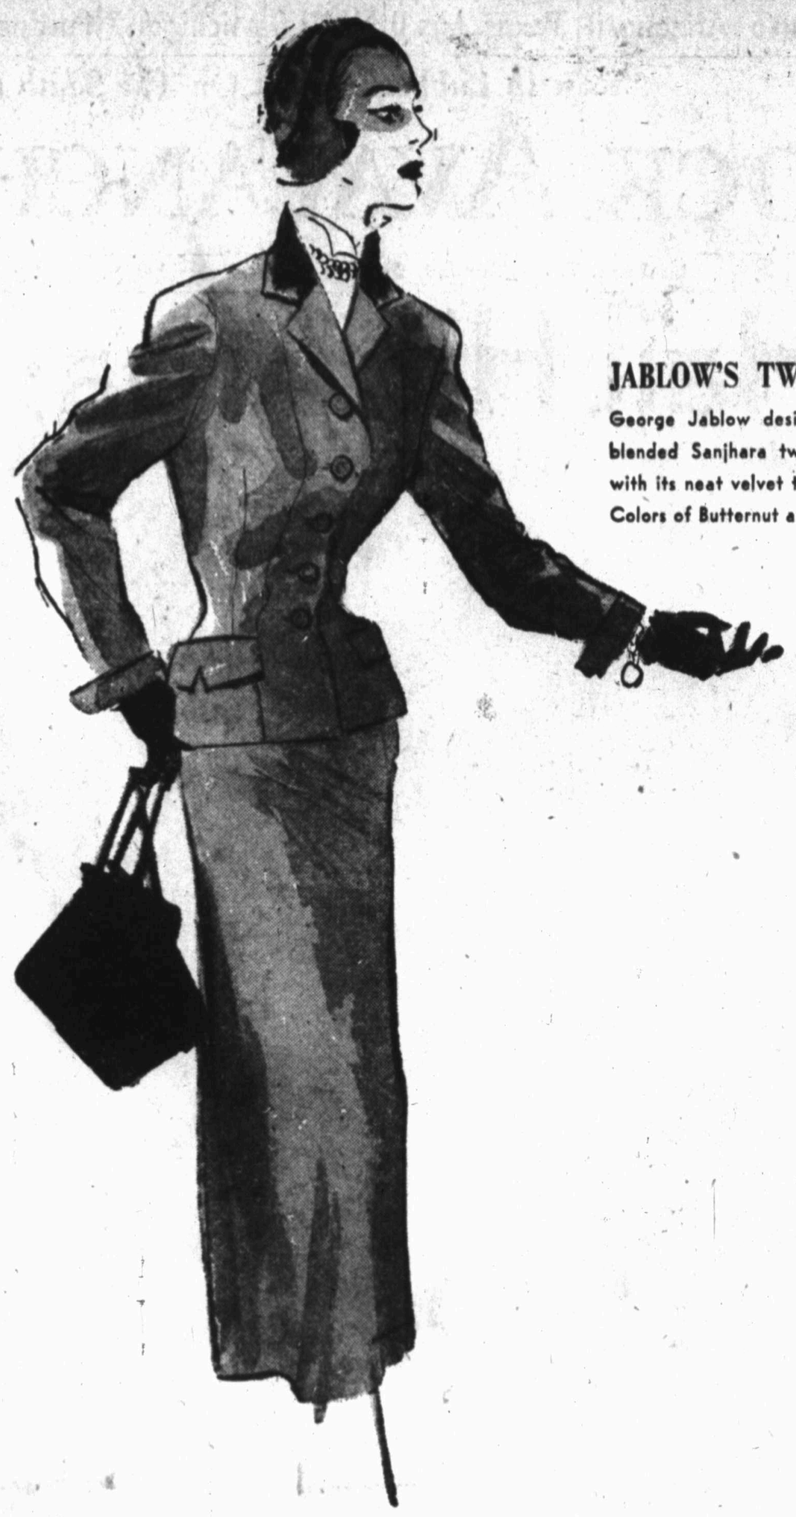

Other major business to be conducted by the board members Saturday will be consideration of plans to make additions to the engineering building. Preliminary sketches have already been made, but no definite conclusions have been formed on the extent or manner of making the additions.

Awarding of contracts for heating, plumbing and wiring two wings now being added to the administration building might also be made by the board, Junell said.

Lubbock District Of Retail Grocers Group Meets Tuesday

Members of the Lubbock district of Texas Retail Grocers association will meet at the Rocket room of Womble Olds building at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, Clyde Stovall, district president announced Saturday.

The members will hear a full report on a state convention held at Galveston. Mr. and Mrs. Stovall, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Sandlin, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Teal, Bob Roberson, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Ellis, all of Lubbock, and Mr. and Mrs. Otho Reed of Ralls attended the convention.

The Lubbock district won two trophies at the convention and these will be shown at the meeting, Stovall said. One was a national trophy for the largest increase in membership and the other was a state trophy for the largest increase.

STUNTS, CONTESTS ARE PLANNED

Lubbock Jaycees To Push Fire Prevention Week Observance

Watch for the man in the red necktie during the coming week.

One is the "fire demon," and the first to identify him each day will win a merchandise prize.

This was one of the stunts announced Saturday by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as a means of emphasizing that, starting today, Lubbock is joining in the observance of National Fire Prevention week.

Marion Sanford, general chairman of the observance for the senior chamber of commerce, said the Jaycees will do most of the "ball carrying" during the campaign.

Here's how the necktie stunt will work, as explained by W. E. Larmer, chairman of the Jaycees' committee:

Ten members of the junior chamber will wear bright red neckties Monday morning. One of them will be the "fire demon" for the day. Each day a different "demon" will be named.

If you see a red necktie, ask the wearer, "Are you the fire demon?" If he is, and you are the first to identify him, you win the prize, which will be $2 worth of theatre tickets.

Other Activities Planned

Many other activities were announced by Sanford for the observance.

The Jaycees have arranged a fire prevention truck which will make the rounds of the business streets Friday and Saturday.

Many thousands of pieces of literature will be distributed. Many radio programs will be presented.

Poster contests are being conducted in all the schools, for $100 in cash prizes offered by Lubbock Insurance exchange. There are many prizes, so that many students are sure to be winners. Some of the winners will qualify for competition for much bigger prizes in state and national contests.

Slogan Winners Named

A slogan contest already has been held in the schools for prizes ranging from $5 to $1.

Here are the winners and the school attended by each: Joe McCoy, Thompson Junior high, $5; Phil Pendly, Overton, $4; Mack Robertson, Roscoe Wilson, $3; Bobby Rodgers, Overton, $2, and Wendell Larmer, Hutchinson, $1.

Joe's winning slogan was: "Everybody should obey fire prevention rules today."

This and other slogans will be read over KFYO during the week, and some of the boys and girls who wrote them will be introduced over the air.

NO. 1 LICENSE UNDER NEW LAW — Love finally conquered all Saturday with the issuance of the first marriage license in Lubbock county under provisions of a new Texas law requiring blood tests for both parties. After having been steered wrong in their first trial at securing a license with an unofficial certificate, Miss Alice Gene Meading, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Meading of Slaton and Carl Junius Young of El Paso, 1948 graduate of Texas Tech in architecture, secured their license at the office of County Clerk Louie Moore Saturday. They are shown above being issued a license by Dorothy Moeller, deputy clerk. As they were being issued their license, a second couple to qualify under the new law came into the clerk's office. They were: Harold D. Herron and Leta Fay Montgomery, both of Meadow. (Staff Photo.)

Two Survivors Of Victims Of Mass Killer Howard Unruh Sorry Man To Escape Death

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 8 (AP)—Two survivors of victims of mass killer Howard B. Unruh said today they are sorry the 28-year-old war veteran will be sent to an institution for the criminally insane.

They said he should have been sent to the electric chair.

Prosecutor Mitchell H. Cohen announced yesterday that Unruh is insane. He will not be brought to trial on any of the 13 indictments charging him with murder.

Killed 13 Persons

Unruh walked out of his Camden home last Sept. 6 and killed 13 persons in the bloodiest street slaughter in U. S. histoy.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Day of Mantua, Gloucester county, widow of Alvin M. Day who was killed in his auto by Unruh, was the most outspoken against those who opposed the disposal of the case:

"I was afraid this would happen. He should have gotten the chair. It makes me boil to think that we will have to support him for the rest of his life."

Thomas Zegrino agreed that Unruh should be sentenced to death. "The chair is the least he should have gotten," said Zegrino whose wife, Helga, was a victim.

Capt. William Kidd, the pirate, was a well-known citizen of New York, where he lived at Pearl and Hanover Streets when not at sea.

Joe McCoy Winner Of Contest On Fire Prevention Slogans

Joe McCoy's slogan, "Everybody should obey fire prevention rules today," was judged first of several hundred entries from Lubbock city school students, the Lubbock Insurance exchange announced Saturday.

A $5 prize will be awarded to the eighth-grade Carroll Thompson Junior High school student for his winning entry.

The exchange sponsored the contest in observance of Fire Prevention Week Oct. 9-15.

Phil Pendley, fifth-grade Overton student, won second prize of $4. A $3 prize will be awarded Mac Robertson, sixth-grade Roscoe Wilson pupil, for third place. Fourth place winner of $2 is Bobby Rodgers, another fifth-grade Overton student. Wendell Turner, eighth-grade Hutchinson Junior High school pupil, won the fifth place prize of $1.

Extensive new deposits of high-quality manganese ore have been reported found in Angola, Portuguese West Africa, and American firms have shown interest, but their engineers say it will take more exploration to determine whether it is possible to exploit the finds.

Reproductions Of Old Masterpieces To Be Exhibited In Lubbock

All Lubbock school children, as well as parents and patrons, will have a chance to see an art exhibit of 150 reproductions of the world's masterpieces during the week of October 24 through 29.

The exhibit is to be hung at O. L. Slaton Junior High school, and all the schools of Lubbock are to take turns in being hosts and presenting programs for art exhibit visitors.

Funds raised by the art exhibit will go toward purchasing pictures for the Lubbock schools. Parent-Teacher associaticns of the city are cooperating with the schools in presenting the exhibit.

Tickets for students are 14 cents and for adults 35 cents. The exhibit is to be open each afternoon during the week from 2:45 until 5 o'clock and each evening from 7 until 9 o'clock.

Miss Dorothy Lomax, director of secondary education, is general chairman for the art exhibit. Assisting her are the following committee chairmen: program, Misses Claudia Neelley and Imogene Webster; finance, Ishmael Hill; hanging exhibit, Miss Mary Lou Roberson; hosts, Miss Pansy Harris; and publicity, Mrs. Ross Ayers. Other members of the publicity committee are Mrs. Dick Cosby, Miss Catherine Royalty, Mrs. Gladys Sims, Lewis Terrell, and Mrs. Ross Tillinghast.

CITY TO OFFER FREE TESTS

Observance Of Diabetes Week Slated To Begin Here Monday

Diabetes week will be observed in Lubbock Monday through Saturday, under sponsorship of the American Diabetes association, Inc., and through cooperation with Lubbock-Crosby County Medical Society and the City Health department.

Primary purpose of the nationwide observance is to find the million unknown diabetics of the United States and to bring them under effective medical treatment.

There are three unknown to every four known diabetics.

Free Tests Offered

Free screening tests will be conducted by the city laboratory, it was announced by Gerald Jarvis, city director of public health. The laboratory has been furnished with equipment for 5,000 such tests.

To obtain a free urine sugar test one has only to collect a specimen of urine one hour or two hours after a meal, place it in a clean bottle (a prescription bottle is suggested) to which the person's name is taped, and leave it at the city laboratory, first floor of the City hall, or at John Halsey Drug store at 1118 Broadway. The drug store would send the specimen to the laboratory by its delivery service.

Physician To Be Informed

At the drug store or city laboratory, the person submitting the specimen will be asked to fill out a blank listing his name and address, age, sex, whether there is a family history of diabetes, how long after a meal the specimen was collected, and the name of his private physician.

If the screening test of any individual's specimen is positive, the laboratory would inform the individual's physician who, in turn, could interpret the finding. A positive reaction does not necessarily mean diabetes. To make certain, a separate test is required.

The American Diabetes association and its affiliated societies have undertaken a year-round diabetes detection program designed to find those in need of medical attention.

The national program has been approved by the American Medical association.

Early Diagnosis Needed

Continued attention to diabetes is necessary by its high incidence, and the ill effects which so often can be prevented by early diagnosis and adequate treatment.

Diabetes' enemy No. 1 is delayed diagnosis. The American public, especially that part which allows its weight to increase and that which has diabetes among relatives, does not seem to realize the growing danger.

U. S. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, himself a diabetic, made this statement in connection with the diabetic detection week ahead:

Solon Okays Program

"I cannot stress too greatly the value of early detection of diabetes. . . . I am well aware that the finding of the presence of diabetes early in its incipiency will prevent most of its complications and permit the individual to live a useful, happy and long life . . .

"To find the unknown diabetic before the disease is established in a severe form and to see that this individual receives care for this condition is a program worthy of the approval of every citizen in our country.

". . . It is my desire to give my personal and public approval of the detection program of the American Diabetes association and I would urge that every citizen, every community, every organized group lend every assistance to discovery of the million unknown diabetics and to the institution of treatment so that they too may live a healthy life and contribute their endeavors through their work in an effective manner as their non-diabetic brothers."

It was hoped here that every person would consider safeguarding the welfare of himself and his family members by taking the free test.

RHEUMATISM AND NEURITIS PAINS

A fast acting internal medicine called ROMIND, recently developed by the Knox Control Laboratory, is now bringing new hope, happiness and comfort to thousands of sufferers from the pains of Arthritis, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatics, Neuralgia and Lumbago. ROMIND dissolves in the small intestine; then the ingredients are absorbed into the blood and thus can reach every part of the body. That's why it works so fast in helping 3 ways: 1. First dose starts curbing pain. 2. Helps Nature remove excess Uric Acid which often aggravates pains, soreness and stiff muscles. 3. Helps you work and sleep in greater comfort. Kaiser-Frazer To Construct West Coast Assembly Plant

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (INS)— The Kaiser-Frazer Corp. announced today it will begin construction this month of a $350,000 assembly plant in Portland, Ore.

The plant is scheduled to be completed after Jan. 1 and will have a production capacity of 20 cars a day. One hundred persons will be employed.

The component parts of the automobiles will be received from the K-F plant at Willow Run, Mich., for painting, triming and assembling in Portland.

Two former Portland residents will supervise the West Coast operations. They are Jean Hoffman, plant manager, and Max Pierce, plant superintendent.

LIONS PREPARING FOR MINSTRELS — The black-face chorus for the Lions Club Fourth Annual Jubilee Minstrels has long passed the throat clearing stage in its preparation for the "bigger and better" show to be presented in the Lubbock High School Auditorium on the nights of November 7, 8, and 9. That's seen clearly in the picture above of the group in rehearsal in the middle of a spirited spiritual. Shown in the front row are Dr. Clyde C. Craig, Ray Wells, Pat Cunningham, Floyd Thompson, Fred Mitchell, Doyle Jordan, Dr. Doyle D. Jackson, F. A. Kleinschmidt, George Dale, Bob Rose, W. D. Rogers, jr., Dr. Fred G. Harbaugh, and Dallas Whaley; Second row, Walter Curtis, M. D. Lakey, Forrest Rankin, J. Stewart Bailey, Al Holmquest, Phil Rosen, Howard Darden, B. C. McCasland, C. C. McKay, and Truett Cranford; Third row, Bob Newell, John Hudspeth, R. W. Duke, B. G. Ripley, Charles C. Adams, jr., James Florence, Leon Davidson, Ray Chapman, and Hill Baggett; on back row standing, George Wilson, Seth Bertram, Dr. E. M. Whitacre, Harold M. Alschuler, Frank Boone, Dudley Brummett, and Dr. Ed Davidson. Dick Richards is the director and Lawrence Ivey is at the piano. Tickets to the Jubilee Minstrels are scheduled to go on sale October 24. There'll be a booth at the Hilton hotel and every Lions Club member will have tickets for sale.

Vincent Price To Return From Peru Visit In Time For Part In 'Baron Of Arizona'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8—Vincent Price and his bride of a week are honeymooning in Peru, where they are the guests of the Peruvian government. They will be back later this month in time for Vincent to rehearse for "The Baron of Arizona," which he starts Nov. 1 for Lippert productions.

"Baron of Arizona" is a true life story about one James Reavis, who in 1872 tried to swindle the United States out of the territory of Arizona, claiming a Spanish land grant. The U.S. offered him $24,500,000, but he demanded $300 million. It was brought to the federal court, where it was discovered there was a flaw in the deed. Reavis served six years in prison.

Vincent, who likes these slicker roles, of course, plays Reavis.

Poll Brings Surprise

Few box-office polls come as a surprise, but Johnny Sands, number two position in Photoplay's poll for the most popular newcomer, is a surprise since he has done little. John Derek was first. That's no surprise, of course.

Johnny's picture, "Massacre River," apparently did it; so you never know how the public is going to react.

After this poll, Johnny was given the juvenile lead in "Outrage," by Pine and Thomas, which stars MacDonald Carey. He has also been offered a part as Joe Cotten's son in "September," and a role with Clifton Webb in "Cheaper by the Dozen."

Looks to me as if the people's choice is headed for bigger and better things.

Feminine Styles Dominate In Exhibits On Display At Show

By ORAL DIXON
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

A new height of feminity, emphasized not only by buttons and bows and feathers and other glamourous details but in the fabrics as well, has been reached by fashions of 1949.

As indicated by some of the exhibits which were being arranged Saturday for the fall showing of the Western Wholesale Market association, women dressing in keeping with fashion will have a host of styles from which to choose to suit their individual needs and personality.

Whatever they choose, they are likely to find a trend away from the severely tailored and toward the feminine.

Aided By Accessories

Even in gabardine dresses and suits, one frequently can find the details which give the apparel a modified tailored effect more feminine than in recent years. That detail may be in buttons or pockets or cuffs or collar.

If such a gabardine suit or dress goes to the office on milady it may have a properly tailored appearance but just watch it respond to furbelows to go to a party. Afeathered or velvet hat and other accessories in keeping can help the tailored to achieve the dress-up look which will take it almost anywhere.

New brown tones and navy and winter pink are among the popular shades of the season. Taupe tones of Belvedere, or coffee, and Mestre belong to the brown family and are right at home with black. They sometimes are combined in a suit or dress with black and sometimes recommended as an accessory to go with black.

Fabric Trends Change

Grays, green and red are continuing as popular shades.

One of the outstanding trends of the season is in fabrics. Many of the familiar fabrics which have been used in the past in limited manner are being extended to daytime wear.

One of the leading designers of the nation has said dress-up dresses are made of "connisseur fabrics," including brocaded materials, taffeta and velvet combined, velvet alone, and satin.

Taffeta is not unusual to find in daytime clothing and even satin makes its appearance in suits and dresses for afternoon wear.

Beads and lace and sequins frequently are decorations.

Velvet and velveteen are appearing in many guises. Particularly are velvet hats and berets popular. "We just can't keep velvet," said one man selling millinery.

Imported velour hats are one of the most popular items in millinery this year, but in some cases have not been available in sufficient numbers to supply the demand.

Much of the millinery has a side tilt.

As for hemlines, which have been a leading item of interest with women, the line apparently is to be set by the woman herself to suit her individual appearance.

Jacques Fath, noted Paris designer who visited Texas recently, recommended that a woman stand in front of a mirror and decide on the length most becoming to her. It would range from 11 to 14 inches for the average woman. Height is a big factor in determining the length.

Evening apparel is in keeping with the feminine trend, using metallic cloth of gold and silver, brocade, velvet, chiffon and taffeta and other materials. Most of the formal dresses are off the shoulder type, either strapless on one or both shoulders or drop shoulder, although some of the dresses have jackets or stoles which make the dresses appropriate for dinner wear. One of the formal dresses shown by an exhibitor at Hilton hotel had a velvet skirt andmetallic basque velvet skirt and metallic basque other was a black chiffon strapless dress with a stole, another was in sleek satin laced in the back. One had a double net skirt to give it extra fullness.

"I don't think it is now necessary for ladies to have their heads covered when they are sworn," said Judge Kingsley Griffith in the Hull, England, divorce court, when two women covered their heads with handkerchiefs before taking the oath.

READY FOR A TRIP — Modeling clothing which would be appropriate for a trip, Miss Jane Hiatt is pictured above. The semi-fitted jacket with patch pockets and gold crest was in one of the new taupe tones, Belvedere or coffee. The brim of the hat was of black velvet and the crown was covered with feathers. Bag and gloves were black. Combination of black and the new brown tones is recommended this season. The clothing and the red alligator luggage were furnished for the photograph by some of the exhibitors of the Western Wholesale Clothing market who will show their merchandise at Hilton hotel during the market today and Monday. CAB Hearing Set On New Mexico Service

DENVER, Oct. 8. (INS)—President Robert F. Six of Continental airlines announced today in Denver that Oct. 13, has been set in Washington as the date for the final hearing before the Civil Aeronautics board on an application to supply added air service in New Mexico.

Continental's application to the CAB for service to Raton, Socorro, Hot Springs and Las Cruces was filed in April of 1948.

Preliminary hearing on the case was held in Albuquerque on Oct. 12, of that year, and again in March of 1949, when Walter Bryan, examiner for the CAB, recommended that Continental be granted a temporary three-year certificate for service to the cities.

Six said, "We are confident that the Civil Aeronautics board, in this final decision, will render a ruling confirming the examiner's findings in our application to serve these four cities in New Mexico."

Addition of the cities of Las Cruces, Hot Springs, Socorro and Raton to Continental's routes will provide New Mexico with the most extensive air service on the airline's six-state system, Six said.

The new service points would link with Albuquerque, Denver, El Paso and San Antonio for connections with transcontinental carriers.

Six said that when CAB approval to serve the cities is granted, Continental will inaugurate daily flights, utilizing 21-passenger Douglas planes. The airline would carry passengers, mail, express, freight and parcel post on all flights.

South Plains Cotton Farmers Keep Planes Busy Dusting Fields

Dusting of South Plains cotton fields with chemical defoliant has become so prevalent this season that a large number of aerial dusting planes are operating in the area.

Among the operators is W. J. Worsham, operator of the Worsham Flying Service at Taft, who has nine specially-designed airplane dusting planes based at Lubbock Municipal airport.

Worsham is making flying contracts through Pop's Farm & Ranch Store, 402 Ave. Q.

Worsham, who has a total of 53 dusting planes, has "cutaway" Piper Cubs for his operations here. Pilots fly from five to 20 feet above the cotton fields in spreading the defoliant, which causes leaves to fall off 7 to 10 days after defoliating, causing the cotton to open earlier than normal.

Dust Valley Cotton

Growth now on cotton stalks doesn't materially aid maturing bolls, therefore defoliation has become a common practice.

Worsham said his planes defoliated hundreds of thousands of acres of cotton in the Rio Grande valley, in Arkansas and in the Pecos valley areas. He has dusted several hundred acres of cotton in this area during the past week.

Worsham's planes can dust approximately 2,000 acres a day. His rates are three cents a pound, running the cost of dusting from 60 to 90 cents per acre, depending on the growth of the cotton.

180,000 Attend Opening Of Fair

DALLAS, Oct. 8 (AP) — Threatening skies scared a lot of people away as the State Fair of Texas began today, but an estimated 180,000 showed up.

Fair officials had predicted a quarter million visitors would throng the exhibits and midway. Last year's opening day attendance was 222,310.

75,000 Watch Game

A midway peanut vendor said it was the best day he ever had in his life. Shows were sold out.

A good part of the crowd—some 75,000—went to the Cotton bowl at 2 p.m. and watched Oklahoma lace Texas, 20-14. Many others huddled around television sets in exhibit buildings to see the game. The rest of the fair's business slowed to a walk until the suspense was over.

For the next 15 days the fair will be open as "the show window of the Southwest."

Special Events Slated

There will be special events every day. Tomorrow is Tyler rose growers' day, East Texas day, Elks day, Texas Poultry Improvement association day, Woodmen of the World day and Dallas health museum day.

The big show began with a parade through downtown Dallas to the gates of Fair park. There Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas and Gov. Roy Turner of Oklahoma cut the ribbon officially opening the fair.

Everything went off so smoothly that the ribbon was cut 20 minutes ahead of time. As a result, newspapermen, photographers and even the fair publicity staff missed the whole thing.

Heart Attack Fatal To Idaho Senator

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (INS)—Sen. Bert H. Miller (D.-Idaho) died suddenly today of a heart attack at his Washington apartment.

Miller, 69, was a Senate freshman, a native of Utah and a former attorney general and state supreme court justice of Idaho. He was elected to a six-year Senate term in the Democratic sweep last November.

The Senate is expected to recess on Monday in respect to Miller, and send a special delegation to attend his funeral which will be in Boise, Idaho next Thursday.

Senate officials said that Miller, who attended Friday's session, had been in ill health for months, suffering from coronary thrombosis.

The senator is survived by his wife, and a brother, Jack Miller, who served as his administrative assistant.

An attorney, Miller was born at St. George, Utah, Dec. 15, 1879, and graduated from Brigham Young and Cumberland universities.

LITTLEFIELD, Oct. 8. (Special)—Albert W. VanWinkle, 83, retired farmer and Littlefield resident for 25 years, died at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

Only survivor is a nephew, Roy VanWinkle of Littlefield.

Services will be conducted at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Fundamental Baptist church of Littlefield. Burial will be held in the Littlefield cemetery under direction of the McDonald & Son Funeral home of Lubbock.

California Group Named Winner Of Air Force Bombing 'Contest'

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 8. (AP)—Col. Glendon P. Overing's 93rd Bomb group, Castle Air Force base, Merced, Calif., won top honors today in the Strategic Air Command's bombing mission at Davis-Monthan Air Force base here.

The awards were presented after a week of competition among 10 Air Force bases. Crews from Arizona, Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana, South Dakota, Washington, California, Florida, and Georgia competed.

Second place went to the 509th Bomb group of Walker Air Force base, Roswell, N. M. In third place was the 43rd Bomb group of Davis-Monthan.

"Ellis Air Force Base" Suggested As New Designation For LAFB By Clarendon Man

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—A suggestion that the Lubbock Air Force Base be named the Ellis Air Force Base, in honor of a young Texan who gave his life to help win World War Two, has come to Senator Connally (D-Tex) from W. H. Cooke, jr., of Clarendon.

In a letter Cooke wrote that Lieut. Lewis Calvin Ellis, jr., formerly a student at Texas Tech at Lubbock, was shot down over Germany in 1942 when his son was only 6 weeks old.

"The Ellis family is one of the real pioneer families of West Texas," said Cooke.

"They have been well known out here for many years and have been among our leading citizens. They are prominent in banking circles. . . .

"I have known this young man's family for 35 years and there are no finer people, so I think it would be altogether fitting if the Lubbock Air Force base were named in his honor."

Family Of Eighteen Bouncing Baylys Arrives In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8. (INS)—The eighteen bouncing Baylys—one of the nation's largest families—arrived in Hollywood today to begin their first family vacation.

The Baylys made the 3,000-mile trip from Troy, N. Y., in an especially-constructed station wagon.

The troupe consists of grandma and grandpa, Mr. and Mrs. Archer Bayly, both 58, mama and papa, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bayly, 38 and 37, and 14 little Baylys ranging in age from 1 year to 18 years.

The Baylys liked the letter "B" so much that they named their brood: Benjamin, 1; Bernard, 2; Beryl, 3; Bernadette, 4; Brenda, 6; Blake, 8; Bernice, 9; Brian, 10; Bradley, 12; Bette, 13; Barbara, 14; Barry, 16; Buddy, 17, and Beverly, 18.

Biggest headache of the family was finding a motel to house 18 during overnight stops. After a week in Hollywood, the family will take in the sights of San Francisco.

Wichita Falls Man Is Named Assistant To Senator Johnson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) announced today the appointment of Walter Jenkins, formerly of Wichita Falls, Tex., as his administrative assistant.

Jenkins succeeds John Connally of Austin, Tex., in the $10,000-a-year job. Connally, no relation to Senator Connally (D-Tex), has returned to Austin to practice law.

Jenkins is a graduate of Wichita Falls Junior college and the University of Texas. He is married and has two children. His wife is the former Marjorie Whitehill of Wichita Falls.

After graduating from the university, Jenkins joined Johnson's secretarial staff in 1939 when Johnson was in the House. He has been on the staff since except for Army duty during the war.

Poet Claimed Born In New York City

Spiritualist Fails To Contact Poe's Spirit, Misses $10,000

"And neither the angels in heaven above
"Nor the demons down under the sea,
"Can ever dissever my soul from the soul
"Of the beautiful Annabel Lee."
—Edgar Allan Poe, "Annabel Lee"

By LEO TURNER
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. — Poe didn't show.

A little band of hopefuls—who in an inspired moment received a message that Edgar Allan Poe was born in New York City's Greenwich village, and not in Boston—gave up hope early today of contacting his spirit on the 100th anniversary of his death.

The meeting broke up with Wirt Whitcomb Barnitz, 62-year-old writer and lecturer, claiming that he could feel great "pulsations" and see a great light.

But Joseph Dunninger, the mentalist, kept in his pocket the $10,000 he has offered to anyone who can produce a spiritual effect that he can't duplicate by scientific means.

However, it was Dunninger who saved the day.

Birthplace Found

After the use of Poe cottage in the Bronx was denied Barnitz for use in the experiment, Dunninger suddenly recalled that he had a letter written by poet John Greenleaf Whittier to author Edward Everett Hale claiming that Poe was born out of wedlock to an English actress named Miss Hopkins at 13½ Carmine street, Greenwich village.

At 7 p. m. the party knocked at the first floor apartment of Mrs. Eugenia Hurd, a government employe formerly of New Orleans, La.

"Did you know that Edgar Allan Poe was born here?" Dunninger asked.

"No," said the white haired Mrs. Hurd.

"He was, and we're expecting his spirit to return here tonight," Barnitz said.

"Why, you all come right in," Mrs. Hurd said.

Matches Didn't Move

The half-dozen persons, led by the grey-haired, stooped Barnitz, filed into Mrs. Hurd's 10 by 12 foot parlor at the back of the building. Barnitz claimed that the lights bothered him.

Mrs. Hurd turned them out.

At 9:07 p. m. Dunninger placed a book of paper matches on a table.

"I'll give you $10,000 if you can cause those matches to move 1/16 of an inch," Dunninger said.

The matches lay there for 30 minutes until Dunninger picked them up and lighted a cigaret.

The only unusual phenomena was a yellow lead pencil that was dropped on the floor six times. Barnitz fumbled it four times and Dunninger dropped it twice.

"I feel a great pulsation," Barnitz said. "I don't believe Poe is on this sphere. I believe he is on another. I don't think we need to quote any Poe poetry, because I don't believe he thinks much of his writing now."

He sat a few minutes.

Finally, he said, "I'm sorry I can't get anymore."

The group arose and thanked Mrs. Hurd for her hospitality.

"Thank you for coming," Mrs. Hurd said, and shook her head.

Newsmen Told Postal Rate Hike Will Add $15,000,000 In Costs

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 8. (AP)—A proposed increase in U. S. postal rates will cost newspapers an extra $15,000,000 a year which will have to be passed on to readers, Pennsylvania newspaper executives were told today.

William N. Hardy, manager of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' association, said if the proposed Senate bill is passed it will result ultimately in fewer people reading newspapers and magazines.

Hardy told the association's 25th anniversary convention that if the measure becomes law many of the newspapers will find it more economical to withdraw from the mails and establish their own motor routes.

Truman Collects 50 Cent Bet As Weather Forecast Pays Off

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 8. — President Truman collected 50 cents today when his own weather forecast paid off in a wager with his weekend hostess.

The President and a handful of White House aides were the weekend guests of Stanley Woodward, state department chief of protocol, and Mrs. Woodward at their estate, Colle, near Monticello.

Mr. Truman made the bet on fair weather last night when his hostess said she feared the presidential holiday would be spoiled by rain.

Body Of Test Pilot Found Near Wreckage Of Plane

LEWISVILLE, Tex., Oct (AP)8. (AP)— The body of test pilot Joe King, about 25, was found early today near where his F4U5 fighter plane crashed last night.

Chance Vought officials said the plane was a production model on a routine test flight. King's body was hurled into a creek when the plane exploded on hitting the ground.

AFTERNOON, EVENING SHOWS SET

Clyde Beatty And Rogers Bros. Circuses To Open In Lubbock

Tuesday will be Circus day in a big way in Lubbock when both the Clyde Beatty and Rogers Bros. circuses set up their big tops for afternoon and evening performances.

The Beatty show will arrive by Fort Worth and Denver railroad, and will give performances at 2:30 and 8 p. m. on the lots on East Broadway directly opposite the entrance to the fairgrounds.

Rogers Bros. circus is appearing under auspices of the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce and will give performances at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. at the fairgrounds.

Full Two Hour Show

For the convenience of circus patrons, a downtown ticket office will be in operation at Wylie's Drug store, 1106 Texas avenue, where tickets for both performances will be on sale at the same prices charged at the circus grounds.

The show will give performances Tuesday only. Clyde Beatty, one of the world's outstanding animal trainers, will appear in person with the show.

The Rogers Bros. circus will arrive by motor truck. It features a full two-hour show with more than 23 acts, the clowns, elephants and girls on horseback. Peanuts, popcorn and soda pop will be sold for "only 10 cents," as the old circus saying goes. One of the show's big acts features Capt. Eddie Kuhn, who at 29 is the youngest wild animal trainer.

Jaycees To Sell Tickets

The motorized circus and its 230 workers and performers will arrive in Lubbock about 5 a. m. Tuesday. The afternoon performance will cammence about 4 p. m. or as soon as school children arrive.

The night performance will begin at 8 p. m.

Ticket prices are 65 cents for children and $1.30 for adults. Reserved seats cost 65 cents more. All prices include tax.

The Jaycees will receive 50 per cent of proceeds from all tickets sold in advance of the show and 10 per cent of all tickets sold at the circus.

R. S. Wilkinson, president of the Jaycees, says proceeds will go to the Youth Welfare program of the organization. Tickets can be purchased at the Jaycee office in the chamber of commerce building.

Explosion Near Gambling Czar's Home Attributed To Pranksters

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8. (INS)—An explosion near the home of gambling czar Mickey Cohen and heard over a two-mile radius was attributed by police today to pranksters.

Cohen told police that he was entertaining at a dinner party at the time and he heard no explosion. Said he:

"The only explosion I heard was when my associate, Mike Howard, pulled a cork from a wine bottle."

Last Rites Held For Resident Of Lamesa

LAMESA, Oct. 8. (Special)— Funeral services were held today at 3 p. m. at the Bryan Street Baptist church for S. H. Moore, 69, who had been a resident here three years before his death Friday.

Rev. E. L. Jones, pastor, officiated, assisted by Dr. Julian Atwood. Burial was in Lamesa Memorial park with the Higginbotham Funeral home in charge.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Mollie E. Moore; five brothers, C. B. Moore of Clovis, Samson Moore of Lamesa, Charlie, Robert and John Moore, all of New Mexico; three sisters, Mrs. Simantha Blair of Robert Lee, Mrs. Lina Ford of Clovis and Mrs. Minnie Boley of Lubbock; five sons, Archie and Leonard Moore of Lamesa, Lawson Moore of Midland, Roy Moore of Brownfield and Melvin Moore of McFarland, Calif.; four daughters, Mrs. Ollie Stephenson of Watsonville, Calif.; Mrs. Ruby Ballew of Lamesa, Mrs. Esta Mae Driver of Midland and Mrs. Leta Bell Dyer of Lubbock; 30 grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Fred and Cecil O'Brien, I. S. Davis, Arthur Nolan, Fred Bell and Charlie Roberts.

Perrin Air Force Base May Become Permanent Field

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Air Force said today that Perrin Air Base near Sherman, Tex., is still under consideration as a permanent installation but no decision has been reached.

The Air Force said discussions are underway between Sherman and Army Engineers on an offer by the city to furnish land on which to erect housing units for Perrin personnel.

Engineers are acting for the Air Force. The outcome of the talks are expected to determine if the Air Force will seek bids for housing construction under the Wherry act.

The act provides for Government aid to private builders, through FHA loans, in erecting housing facilities for families of armed services personnel at military centers.

The Air Force announced recently that Perrin, one of its aviation cadet training centers in the postwar air program, will remain active at least through 1951.

House Speaker Rayburn of Texas in whose district Perrin base is located, said procedures for making the installation permanent are "in the mill."

IN THE U. S. A., THEY'RE STILL DP'S — After seven years in displaced persons camps in Europe, these eight families sharing the basement of a Ukranian Orthodox Church in Cleveland, O., find they're still DP'S. These refugees, along with 38 others in Cleveland, are homeless because sponsors who agreed to care for some of them changed their minds, and because more DP's came than were expected. Clothes, food and money are provided by church parishoners. Canvas cots, blankets and pillows were supplied by the Red Cross. Although their shipboard dreams of life in the U. S. A. are far from fulfilled, the refugees are thankful to be permitted to stay and hope soon to begin a normal family existence.

Government May Remain In Egg Market For Two More Months

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)— The government announced today that it will remain in the nation's egg market for another two months.

Such action appears necessary, officials said, to assure producers a national average price of 35 cents a dozen this year. That price guarantee is required by law.

The government already has bought the equivalent of 15 eggs for each person in the nation. This quantity, which has been converted into dried eggs, is equal to about three percent of national production so far this year.

Purchases of dried eggs will be made by the department from processors who pay poultrymen the support price of 35 cents a dozen. Virtually all the buying has been done in the Midwest, where there is a surplus of lower grade eggs over market demands.

Switzerland has established a new Swiss Film Chamber charged with "promoting the collaboration of all film services" there and "regulating and encouraging the cinema in Switzerland."

Mahon To Fight Military Cuts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (Special) —Cong. George Mahon of Lubbock, leader of the House Democratic conferees who is staunchly resisting Senate attempts to cut the military appropriations bill, said here today that he will carry the fight back to the House next week for a vote of confidence on two issues.

Mahon predicted that the House by two-thirds vote, will uphold him in insisting that the nation now have a 58-group Air Force instead of a 48-group force, and by four to one vote on continuing to buy strategic materials from abroad. Mahon is going to call for roll call votes on these issues.

The appropriations for the 58-group force looks ultimately to the accomplishment of a 70-group force which Mahon and other Texas congressmen have long insisted is absolutely essential to adequate national defense.

Mahon said the nation should continue to buy tin, magnesium cobalt, rubber and other supplies for stockpiles.

These are the two items in dispute. Otherwise, Mahon says House-Senate conferees agreed on many economies and savings to the country. The bill calls for the largest national defense budget in the nation's history, about $14 billion.

It was carelessness when a man of Musselburgh, Scotland, left his false teeth under the pillow and ran out when his house caught afire—and the Government will not buy him a new set, under the new National Health Service Act.

Storm Insurance To Be Cheaper In State

AUSTIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Texans can anticipate a saving amounting to more than $2,000,000 a year on their windstorm, hurricane and hail insurance, state fire insurance Commissioner Paul H. Brown announced today.

Brown said a rate reduction averaging 12 per cent would take effect on business written after Oct. 7 on brick and masonry, mill construction, dwellings, and farm and ranch property.

The reduction applies to the inland zone of Texas, an area including all of the state except the first two counties bordering the Gulf of Mexico.

Blind Vet Enters Race For Navarro County Representative

CORSICANA, Oct. 8 (AP) — Jim Sewell, 38-year-old blind war vettran, entered the race today for Navarro county representative.

Sewell was blinded by a bomb explosion on the aircraft carrier Hornet. He is a law student at the University of Texas. His home is Blooming Grove.

Four candidates will draw Monday for places on the Nov. 8 ticket. They are running for the post vacated by George O. Nokes who resigned and is a candidate for senator from the sixth Texas district.

Besides Sewell, the candidates are Roark Montgomery, Corsicana, retired Navy captain; Kenneth Douglas, Corsicana, Baylor law student; and Bill Ragan, Barry, law student in Houston.

15 Area Children Enrolled In Special Speech Clinic At Tech

Parents who give children what they want without making them ask can often be blamed for speech defects of the child, Miss Helen Lindell, one of the directors of a special clinic at Texas Tech, said Saturday.

Fifteen children from as far as 100 miles away have enrolled in the clinic this year, held annually since 1934. First weekly sessions were held Thursday afternoon.

All types of speech defects from poor articulation to cleft palate to deafness are handled by Miss Lindell and John Upshaw, another speech faculty member.

Explaining some of the causes for poor speech, the two workshop directors said that a child should be made to ask for whatever he wants or he will develop the attitude that speech is unimportant.

Child Helped Each Week

Each child enrolled in the free workshop is helped once a week, on Thursday afternoon, by one of the directors. Fifteen weekly sessions usually produce either complete rectification of defects or marked improvement, observers say.

Nervousness and lack of motivation are two of the chief contributing factors to poor speech, says Upshaw. The latter is usually apparent in 50 per cent of the cases handled by the workshop, while poor examples set by elders may also cause faulty pronunciation or slovenly speech.

"Just because a child cannot speak does not mean he is dumber than others," Miss Lindell emphasized. "In fact, he might be smarter in that he has perhaps learned that he doesn't have to talk in order to get what he wants."

Twins Have Own Speech

A few special cases which have come under direction of the workshop include twins who developed a speech of their own, which could be understood by no one else. Deaf students also need special attention since they must rely upon the formation of another's lips to form words.

The Tech workshop is open to anyone on a "first come, first served" basis, although many cases are referred to it by doctors or elementary grade teachers who find it impossible to understand students. Special sessions are often arranged for adults who wish to improve their speech, Upshaw said.

Many of the children enrolled in the workshop refuse to cooperate in the first few meetings, say the directors. Instead, they wait until they get home, then try to teach a younger member of the family everything they learned during the day.

Poor hearing can often lead to poor articulation, according to Miss Lindell. That defect along with stuttering is one of the comparatively simpler corrections the workshop directors help students make.

Not set up as a "cure-all" clinic, the Tech workshop seldom hears from students after they have completed their course, the directors declared. Occasionally, however, they do get cards of thanks for the corrections they have helped make.

Wife's Suicide Is Failure; Man Dies

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8 (U.P.)—Mrs. Mary Meager, 59, attempted suicide but it was her husband, Burt, 63, who died.

Mrs. Meager slashed her wrists yesterday as her husband attempted to stop her, yelling: "We've got years of happiness ahead of us."

He called Lincoln Heights receiving hospital for help, then collapsed. Ambulance attendants found him dead. They were in time to save his wife.

Arrest Of Chiang's Sister-In-law Sought

CANTON, China, Oct. 8. (AP)—The Nationalist cabinet today ordered the arrest and unspecified punishment of Mme. Sun Yat-Sen, but it was an empty gesture. She is in Red Peiping.

Mme, Sun, widow of the man who founded the Chinese republic and sister of Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek, hitherto has been inviolable, even though she long has favored the Reds. She recently has become a leader of the Communist Sino-Soviet Friendship association in Peiping.

She was one of 86 Communist or pro-Communist leaders that the Nationalist cabinet ordered arrested, but the cabinet failed to say how it hoped to get hold of them. The list included Mao Tze-Tung and Chou En-Lai, chairman and premier of the new Red government.

The cabinet also dissolved the northwest headquarters of Gen. Ma Pu-Fang and ordered "punishment" of him and his subordinate cousins, Generals Ma Hung-Kwei and Ma Hung-Ping.

Need for a northwest headquarters ended with recent Red conquest of the entire northwest. Ma Pu-Fang has gone on a pilgrimage to Mecca, while Ma Hung-Ping has gone over to the Reds with a large force of his Moslem troops.

Ma Hung-Kwei is in Chungking and could be reached for punishment, but the cabinet order may have been intended merely to make him lose face.

Boy Is Seriously Injured By High School Pranksters

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 8. (AP)—William Bunker, 10, was in critical condition today from injuries suffered in the prank of high school football fans.

Witnesses told the police William had alighted from a streetcar last night after a football game. Pupils remaining on the car reached through a window and seized his arm. The car started. William was dragged several feet. He fell under a rear wheel when the pranksters released him.

Three Arraigned On Felony Charges Here

Three of five persons charged in capital felony offenses were arraigned Saturday morning befor Judge G. V. Pardue of 99th district court.

Two others waived arraignment. Each is charged with murder.

Those arraigned were Nesaro Flores, 24, Luciano Gonzales, 20, and Fred Navarette, 20, charged with rape Aug. 28 of a Lubbock woman.

Each pleaded innocent of charges. They are represented by counsel, Roy Carpenter and Byron Chappel.

Chappel also represents Fred Hammonds, 32, a negro charged with murder in the Aug. 21 shooting of German Fisher. Joe Berlanga, jr., 22, of Lubbock, charged with murder in the Sept. 4 shooting of Joe Valdez, is represented by E. A. Blair.

Defense counsel, while not having waived, nevertheless had made no motion for a special venire in any of the cases.

Judge Pardue said a jury would appear Oct. 31, when specific settings of the cases will be announced.

Clovis Man Is Named Head Of New Mexico Bar Association

TUCUMCARI, Oct. 8 (AP) — The New Mexico Bar association today elected Otto Smith of Clovis as its president. He replaced E. Forrest Sanders of Las Cruces.

Other officers elected today are Floyd W. Buetler, Taos, first vice president, and George L. Reese, jr., Carlesbad, second vice-president. Lowell Green was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

McGrath Scored By AMA Official

DENVER, Oct. 8.(INS)—An American Medical association official today lashed out at Attorney General J. Howard McGrath's explanation of investigations of medical societies as "an insult to the intelligence of the American people."

Dr. R. B. Robins of Camden, Ark., Democratic national committeeman from Arkansas and member of the House of delegates of the AMA, spoke before the Colorado State medical society in Denver.

Misuse Of Facilities Charged

"As a United States senator, Mr. McGrath was one of the leading advocates of compulsory health insurance, and one of the most intemperate and vitriolic critics of the American medical profession."

The doctor charged that McGrath, as chairman of the Democratic National committee, "misused the facilities of that committee to make scurrilous, slanderous accusations against state medical societies and the American Medical association."

The AMA official labeled McGrath's statements and tactics as an "affront to all doctors."

Threat Claimed By Doctor

"Now," Dr. Robins said, "he has gone even further, by using the facilities of the Department of justice for political purposes."

He added that McGrath "and other Washington proponents of political medicine" have for many months, "cleverly and indirectly threatened" the medical profession, because of the profession's opposition to compulsory health insurance.

Dr. Robins declared:

"With McGrath in the saddle as attorney general, the reprisals and crack-downs are in full swing."

Explanation Called Lame

He continued: "This nationwide use of police state methods was revealed and protested yesterday by the board of trustees of the AMA. Mr. McGrath in admitting the investigations, then gave the lame explanation that they resulted from complaints by doctors and the general public. The straight-thinking American people, believing in fair play according to democratic rules, will recognize his public excuse as camouflage."

He charged that the program was a "politically-inspired maneuver" to discredit American doctors and "stifle opposition to the Truman health program."

Texas Told Oil Imports Not To Blame For Production Cutbacks

By SARAH McCLENDON
Avalanche-Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The U.S. State department told the Texas congressional committee on oil imports today that imports are not to blame for cutbacks in domestic oil production.

The department also said imports would increase, but then so would demand for oil in the next few months. Texas production should be considerably upped, it said in a report to Chairman Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls.

Fuel Oil Imports Climb

Of the 12 principal oil importing companies which have been asked to furnish estimates on their projected imports and exports for the remainder of this year and for 1950, 11 have sent replies, and analyses of 10 have been made the department stated. The ten which accounted for between 86 and 92 per cent of the foreign trade in crude and refined oil indicate a steady but moderate increase in imports of crude oil. They show a sharper increase in imports of refined products during the winter months with a substantial decline thereafter.

Increases are almost wholly accounted for by heavy fuel oil. Importers say they cannot get enough at competitive prices. They say because of the substantially lower price for this product as compared with crude oil, imported heavy fuel oil does not compete with markets for the domestic crude oil output.

As to increased demand approximately 700,000 barrels daily of domestic oil will be required for the fourth quarter of 1949, according to Bureau of Mines. Domestic production, the report says, is expected to increase to the average for 1947 although it will still be less than for December, 1948.

The State department said since reductions in domestic output were made largely by Texas producers, it would seem that the anticipated higher demand for domestic crude should result in substantial production increases in Texas.

The report says that 1949 will see the wildcat drilling record of 1948 bested.

Texas Output Slumps

Employment which had dropped from June, 1948 to June, 1949 from 357,600 to 348,000 is expected to return to near 1948 levels by the end of this year.

The study points out that Texas' production for the first six months of 1949 was 325,000 barrels daily below the first half of 1948, whereas, in the same period of 1949, other oil states increased their production compared with 1948 by 40,000 barrels daily.

Assistant Secretary Willard L. Thorp said the department meant no slur on the Texas Railroad commission's efficiency when it indicated previously that market demand and supply were not the sole reason for the Texas cutback. Changes in allowables were mentioned as one factor in the supply and demand picture.

Thorp said conclusions of the department are that restrictions on imports are unnecessary and would be both "unwise and detrimental to the interests of the petroleum industry of the U.S." He said the department was keenly aware of the importance of the U.S. industry to national security.

Other Texas committee members are Representatives Ken Regan of Midland, J. M. Combs of Beaumont, John Lyle of Corpus Christi, George Mahon of Lubbock and Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater.

Steel Company Hikes Prices On Products

HARRISBURG, Pa., (AP)—A $5 a ton price increase in steel plate was posted today by Central Iron and Steel Corp., in the wake of a 10 cents an hour insurance and pension agreement with the CIO-United Steel Workers.

Basil M. Graham, Central president, announced that the boost from $75 a ton to $80 is effective immediately on all new business.

The firm averted a strike yesterday by signing a contract calling for free (non-contributory) pensions and insurance for its 1,100 workers on the basis of a recommendation of a presidential fact-finding board.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. — It's impossible to chat with the Colonel for an hour and leave without a story.

Col. Warren Hardenbergh, who has covered almost every inch of the world in his 87 years, didn't disappoint me. This yarn was loaded with dynamite. About dynamite in fact.

It all happened about 30 years ago when the colonel was in the Brazilian army. With eight men, all natives, he was sent by canoe up the Reo Madevia river in Amazonas province to see if a bridge or railroad could be stretched across a certain stream.

Men Lashed Together

"All we had for protection were a few Springfield rifles—single shot—and 500 rounds of ammunition," the Colonel said, tugging at his goatee.

It took a bit of doing, but finally a line was established across the stream. The Colonel had to lash his men together with rope to keep them from drowning during the 130-yard crossing.

Once across, the soldiers flintlit a fire and battened down for the night.

"All of a sudden," the Colonel recalled, "I heard a fella holler. It was one of my men. We had been warned a band of hostile Indians lived in the neighborhood. My man came to with an arrow busting a bone in his shoulder."

Next morning, the Colonel was sitting on a log and doing some paper work on his engineering project when he looked up and saw a redskin staring at him from the brush. He had a prearranged signal for his men to come running—three shots from his .38 Colt.

His boys came running but the Colonel found mutiny on his hands.

"We're leaving," they announced.

"Damned if you are," the hard-bitten soldier said, and he produced a couple of sidearms to enforce the order.

That night he sat up alone. He remembered that he had fetched along a few sticks of dynamite, a small battery and a detonator.

While his men slept in the palm groves, the Colonel took his little battery and cushioned the sticks in sawdust around the stump of a palm tree near a water hole. He strung a wire across the trees and down to where he was hiding the plunger.

Then he tried to sleep.

In the middle of the night he heard a rustle. The enemy, he was sure, was upon him. He pumped the plunger. Maybe, he shouldn't have.

There was a terrific explosion, followed by the doggondest squawking of parrots and jibbering of monkeys you have ever dreamed of—plus the doggondest shower of feathers and monkey fur.

"We beat it out of there at dawn," the Colonel recalled. "I don't know how many parrots or monkeys or Indians we killed. And I don't know if anybody ever got a bridge or a railroad over that stream."

One Dead, Four Hurt In Mishaps

Belas across the hood of the car and into the windshield. His left arm was laid open by a hood ornament on the car, patrolmen said.

It was believed after questioning of witnesses that Belas and the other laborers were returning from Lubbock when the accident occurred. The driver of the truck from which Belas had alighted said he was distributing passengers to various houses along the artery.

Youth Knocked Unconscious

The body was brought to Lubbock by Rix Ambulance. Officials were unable to determine immediate whether Belas was a citizen of the United States, or merely working here on a labor permit from Mexico.

Bleas' death was the fifth in traffic accidents on the South Plains since last Sunday morning. Two other persons have died violently in other mishaps, one in a plane crash at Floydada, another crushed to death at Levelland.

Young Perkins, who had not regained total consciousness at 1:15 a.m., was injured when his undersized motorcycle and a car driven by Efford Parrish, 58, of Floydada route 1 were in collision at the intersection of Ninth and Ave. A about 2:50 p.m.

The youth was rushed by Rix ambulance to Lubbock Memorial hospital where his condition was described as "fair". Attendants there said he had suffered a broken left arm, possible skull fracture and internal injuries, and lacerations and bruises over the face and body. His condition was described as "fair" early today.

Reporter On Scene

Bill Clark, Avalanche-Journal reporter-photographer, was returning from Municipal airport and was the second person to reach the scene. A. W. McLaughlin of 1912 Twenty-fourth reached the scene first and immediately went to telephone for an ambulance.

"I was returning from Municipal airport and first saw the motorcycle at the intersection of the new Ave. A cut-off and the old Plainview highway," Clark said.

"Perkins evidently had come out Ave. H and turned back on the Ave. A route. He pulled ahead of me rapidly, and it was several minutes before I arrived at the scene of the collision."

Man Holding Youth's Head

"Mr. Parrish had jumped out of his car and was holding the boy's head. He kept saying, 'This is terrible. This is the first accident I've ever had. I don't see how I could have avoided it.'

"The Perkins boy was lying unconscious on the street, moaning and crying out. His nose and mouth were bleeding profusely." A Rix ambulance arrived in less than five minutes' time, Clark said.

Police reports indicated that Parrish, traveling north on Ave. A was starting a left turn onto Ninth when Young Perkins, going south, smashed into the right side of the Parish car. The impact of the collision bent the right front door-handle and right-rear fender of the car, throwing the motorcycle behind the vehicle and near the west curbing of Ave. A.

Parrish was driving about 20 miles per hour at the time, police said it was indicated. Skid marks from the tires of the motorcycle measured nearly 40 feet.

Patrolman Scott, a casualty of the heavy football-game traffic near Tech, suffered numerous bruises when he was knocked down by a car while directing motorists at Eighth and College Ave. at 7:35 p.m.

X-rays made at West Texas hospital where Scott was taken by a McDonald ambulance, revealed no signs of broken bones. His injuries were described as bruises of the right hip, back, and the back of his head.

Girl Also Struck

The patrolman was reportedly struck from behind by the right fender of a car driven by Billie Sol Estes, 23, of 2618 Edna. Scott was standing on the north crosswalk, the car moving in the inside lane of traffic.

Attendants at West Texas hospital said Fredia Fugate had been treated for a contusion of the right breast and released after she had been struck by a car at Fourth and Ave. A about 6:10 p.m.

The car involved in the accident, police said, was driven by Billy Eugene Cline, 18, of 2501 Ave. H. The youth told officers his brakes had locked near the intersection causing the car to swerve over the curbing and strike the girl who was on the east sidewalk, and come to rest against a telephone pole. Cline was traveling north.

Official records also listed the following minor accidents: 1200 block Ave. F, 9:30 a.m.; 1900 block Ave. J, 9:40 a. m.; 1200 block Ave. A, 11 a.m.; Eighth and Texas Ave., 4:50 p.m. and Nineteenth and Ave. Y, 6:20 p. m.; College Avenue and Wolfforth, 7:30 p. m.; Tahoka traffic circle, 8:10 p. m.

FLOYDADA MAN REMAINS IN CRITICAL CONDITION

PLAINVIEW, Oct. 8. (Spl.)—R. D. Nelson, 32, of Floydada, who suffered a skull fracture Friday night when the car in which he was riding overturned four miles west of Petersburg, remained in critical condition Saturday night at Plainview sanitarium.

Attendants said a slight improvement had been noted in Nelson's condition and that he regained consciousness intermittently.

Four other persons injured when the car overturned were released from the sanitarium after treatment.

AURIOL MAY QUIT

PARIS, Oct. 8. (AP)—President Vincent Auriol underwent a dental operation today and sources close to his palace said he would resign if the operation was not a success. Premier Henri Queuille resigned Wednesday and Auriol has been trying since then to find another leader acceptable to the multi-partied French parliament.

NEWS BRIEFS

An anonymous donor added $3 to the Billie Eugene Williams get-well fund Saturday to run total contributions to $736.46. The eight-month-old boy with a heart defect will be taken to Galveston for an examination when a hospital bed is available at a diagnostic center there.

An organizational meeting for a Unitarian Fellowship in Lubbock will be held at 8 p.m. today in the south wing at 1304 Avenue X. The public is invited.

Police last night charged 12 women with vagrancy by prostitution following their arrest in raids on three downtown hotels. All were released after payment of $25 fines each.

Slight damage was caused by fire Saturday morning in the Blackwood cafe at 606 Thirteenth, city firemen said. The blaze was believed to have started when grease on a stove became overheated.

Warring faction in the steel strike won't budge. There isn't a move anywhere to get them together. The government is still keeping to a hands off attitude in the pension fight.

President Philip Murray of the steelworkers insists on industry financed insurance and pensions as recommended by a presidential fact finding board. Industry wants workers to help foot the bill.

The next two weeks may tell whether the railroad workers and 20,000 aluminum workers will join the ranks of strike idle.

The 110,000 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen are free to strike after Oct. 19 if they choose. The Aluminum Company of America faces a strike by the CIO United Steel Workers union Oct. 19 if union demands for a wage boost and free pension-welfare program are not met.

A month ago a presidential fact-finding board ruled against the firemen and enginemen, holding there is no need for a second fireman on diesel locomotives. Under the railway labor law, no strike can be called for 30 days after such a report.

Addressing union officials in Chicago Saturday, David B. Robertson of Cleveland, union president, said the board's report should be "positively rejected and in no uncertain terms condemned." Robertson did not suggest what action should be taken but he said in Washington last month that a nationwide protest strike was planned in October.

Union officials have not yet authorized a strike vote.

The American Federation of Labor convention at St. Paul, Minn., charted plans for a 1,000,000 member gain in 1950. Key AFL officials said privately they hoped to pull a large portion of this number from the rival CIO unions.

Missing Border River Rider Is Found Dead On Sand Bar

SANDERSON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The body of Gilbert Loden, river rider for the Department of Agriculture on the foot and mouth disease patrol, was found in the Rio Grande today.

It was found face up on a sand bar at Zuberbueler bend, about 50 miles below where the 35-year-old Loden was reported missing late Wednesday.

In an inquest at Del Rio Justice of the Peace O. J. Vinyard returned a verdict of death by drowning.

Loden was a resident of Sanderson. He left camp Wednesday morning on his regular patrol up the river. When he didn't return that night a search was started under direction of Max Kimble of Sanderson, foreman of the Terrell county patrol.

On Thursday Loden's horse was found. There was evidence it had broken loose after being tied by the bridle reins.

A plane piloted by Fred McMichael of Del Rio and bearing river rider W. T. Anderson as observer sighted the body and it was recovered at 9:05 a. m. today.

Dr. L. M. Cartall, acting Val Verde county health officer, said after an examination at Del Rio he found no evidence of anything except death by drowning.

The body will be taken to Sanderson for burial.

Endurance Fliers Plan To Stay Aloft As 'Long As Its Safe'

YUMA, Ariz., Oct. 8. (INS)—Endurance flight record breakers Bob Woodhouse and Woody Jongeward radioed their ground crews today that they will remain aloft "until we feel it isn't safe any longer."

The two ex-Navy fliers cracked the 1008-hour record last Wednesday.

They previously planned to land their light plane next Wednesday to take part in a civic celebration.

In the meanwhile, Yuma police investigated the robbery last night of the electrical company owned by Jongeward in which bandits made off with some $394 worth of cash and checks.

The gin is owned by O. L. Shannon and was not endangered by the fire.

The fire was the second blaze affecting cotton on the South Plains this week. A blaze in the McDonald Gin company's warehouse at Lamesa Thursday night destroyed the building and 55 to 60 bales of cotton, causing an estimated $20,000 loss.

Houston Flood

Worst Believed Over

Bray's bayou flanks Houston along the south and runs through some of the city's most fashionable residential areas and several suburban towns to the southwest.

The Harris county flood control engineer R. C. Putney announced:

"We think the worst is actually over. However, while the rise appears to have halted in all bayous more water coming down from above could reverse the trend."

Bray's bayou reached a 51.5 crest late today and began to recede at about one one-hundredth of a foot per hour.

Water depths up to five feet stood in some home areas.

Many Reported Marooned

The sheriff had reports about 150 people living between Aldine and Westfield, small rural communities north of Houston, are marooned by flood waters. There were numerous other reports of smaller groups being isolated.

The lone storm fatality was Tony Lock, 43, Sheffield steel employe, who drowned in the flooding San Jacinto river about 15 miles northeast of here last night.

Rice, cotton and vegetable crops took another beating. They had been battered by a hurricane earlier in the week and by a small tornado which lashed the edge of Houston yesterday.

Highway, rail and plane traffic still was moving into Houston but some routes involved long and hazardous detours. About 5,500 Houston telephones were out of order because of wet cables.

10.25 Inches Recorded

Putney said practically every bayou and creek in the county is overflowing or near flood stage.

The lone exception was Buffalo bayou which bisects Houston. Buffalo was tied into two flood control projects following a severe flood in 1935.

Rain stopped falling at 3:40 a.m. (CST).

The municipal airport weather station had recorded 10.25 inches of rain in the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m.

The downpour began at midmorning yesterday.

Most areas over the county had at least five inches of rain. Baytown, heart of the sprawling refining and industrial area along the Houston ship channel, had 9.1 inches in a 12-hour period ending at midnight.

Residents Evacuated

The most serious flooded areas were several towns southwest of the city where Brays' bayou flood waters swept over a wide area.

Some 100 people had been evacuated from the new Southern Oaks addition to West University place and were removed to a community center and the Houston YMCA.

About 10 families were taken from the nearby Southdale addition to Bellaire.

Waters were a foot over Houston's South Main street bridge, only five blocks from the new $18,000,000 Shamrock hotel.

About 25 people from the Airline and Humble road areas in northeast Houston sought sanctuary in the downtown city auditorium, which had housed hundreds during Monday night's hurricane.

At Jacinto City, 15 miles to the east on the Baytown highway, some 40 families were evacuated from lowlands areas last night.

Thousands Of Czech Prisoners Reported Sent To Labor Camps

PRAGUE, Oct. 8. (AP)—Czechoslovakia is sending to its uranium and coal mines and forced labor camps the thousands snatched up in a week-long police roundup, reliable reports said tonight.

Flying squads of security police still roamed the streets of this fearful capital and their activity was expected to continue.

Businessmen and property holders seemed to be the main targets. But almost anyone suspected of harboring sympathies with the west or Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia appeared in danger.

There were warnings, too, that too-overt sympathizers with the Roman Catholic church hierarchy may be arrested.

Red Troops Begin Evacuating Berlin Headquarters Building

BERLIN, Oct. 8. (INS)—Soviet troops began evacuating the central kommandatura headquarters building in east Berlin tonight in a prelude to recognition of the newly created Communist East German "republic" government.

Russia is expected to recognize the government formally by next Tuesday. Other Cominform states are expected then to follow suit in bolstering the regime which is pledged to try to liquidate the west German state.

Some of the evacuating troops actually did not go far in their withdrawal gesture aimed at showing the so-called "sovereignty" of the new Communist-controlled German regime.

Plainview Horse Wins Trophy, Banner At Texas State Fair

DALLAS, Oct. 8. (AP)—The first championship pennant of the Texas State Fair's 1949 livestock show went today to Jole Blon, a sleek, dun mare.

Owned by Doyle Saul of Plainview, the two-year-old mare took the prize banner and trophy in the American Quarter Horse association's official halter class judging.

The rosette went to a 1946 mare, Strawberry K, from the King ranch.

Miss Elinor Broyles of Follett received a prize horse colt from the quarter horse breeders. The 16-year-old 4-H club girl beat more than 100 other entrants in a letter writing contest on quarter horses.

New Secret Weapon Project Is Reported

SYDNEY, Oct. 9. (Sunday)—The Sydney Sunday Herald said today a hand-picked team of scientists is working at Salisbury in southern Australia on a "new secret weapon project" which might provide a counter-device against the atomic bomb.

The Australian newspaper said the weapon involves the use of radar and high frequency radio based on the idea of exploding an enemy plane or missile while in flight.

It said British, Australian and German scientists hope to fashion a device to detect the plane or missile on a screen which automatically tabulates height, speed and direction.

The counter-weapon would be guided to the target by radio frequency. If the experiments are successful the ordinary radar device would be replaced by western powers.

Oil Activity In Louisiana Reaches High Point Of Year

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 8. (AP)—Louisiana oil activity reached its high for the year during September, commissioner of Conservation S. L. Digby reported today.

He said new highs were set during the month in drilling permits issued, well completions and dry holes.

Digby said his department has issued 275 drilling permits during September, including 35 for exploratory wells. The month's figure brought the total for the year to 1904, of which 229 were for wildcat operations.

During September, the commissioner reported, there were 274 wells completed, of which 171 were oil wells, 51 were gas or gas condensate producers and 52 were dry or non-producers. The total for the year to date is 1648 completions, of which 1032 were oil, 267 gas and 344 non-productive.

Election Talks Get Boost As King Plans Return To London

LONDON, Oct. 8. (AP)—Talk of an early general election in Britain got an added boost from the announcement yesterday that King George VI would return to London alone from Balmoral castle, in Scotland.

Queen Elizabeth will remain a while longer at Balmoral, where the royal family has been spending the summer.

Some quarters in London thought the king might have returned to the city to be on hand in case the government decides to dissolve parliament and call a general election. Such action would require the king's signature on a royal proclamation.

Meeting Of U. S. Envoys Is Called

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (INS)—The U. S. summoned its western European ambassadors today to a top-level Paris conference Oct. 21-22 to streamline "cold war" diplomatic strategy in the light of Russia's A-bomb development.

Announcement of the Paris meeting was made by the State department which said laconically that the envoys will gather "to discuss matters of mutual interest and concern."

Key diplomatic observers pointed out, however, that the Paris conference coincides with the meeting of the Atlantic pact military chiefs in Washington.

London Meet Also Set

Informed quarters suggested that the diplomats will be perfecting diplomatic plans at the time the armed services chiefs of pact powers are discussing means of repelling possible Soviet aggression.

The Paris meting will come immediately before U. S. ambassadors to Russia and other "iron curtain" powers gather in London.

This London meeting is scheduled for Oct. 24-25 and publicly dedicated to the purpose of devising an approach to an "outrageous Communist propaganda" campaign against America.

The Paris conference will be attended by Admiral Alan G. Kirk, American ambassador to Russia, who then will speed to London to attend the conference there.

Crop Controls

day is expected to reaffirm earlier forecasts of an excessive supply. If so, the department probably will issue an order before the end of the week proclaiming rigid marketing quotas on the 1950 crop. Quotas would have to be approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in a referendum.

Added Quotas Seen

The department already has slapped acreage allotments on next year's wheat crop trying to cut production. Only those who plant within their allotted acreage will be eligible for price support aid.

Quotas may be proclaimed on corn for the first time since Congress enacted control legislation in the thirties. A crop report to be issued Tuesday will show whether the supply is big enough to warrant quotas.

A record rice crop this year, coupled with shrinking overseas markets, poses the possibility that acreage allotments, with their tie-in with price supports, may be extended to this product next year.

Beer Seized In Raids

Mitchell and Ray Land, sheriff's deputies, participating.

Members of the Liquor Control board, meanwhile, announced that they had seized 17 cases of beer in a raid Saturday at Ralls, bringing the total to 117 cases in both raids.

W. A. Jernigan, about 35, has pleaded innocent of liquor law violation in the Ralls case, it was reported.

Rain Hits Area

hail beginning at 7:45 p. m. and lasting for about an hour.

Although Emmons said it was not possible to determine whether cotton damage resulted, he said he was "afraid the open cotton will be damaged if the rain and hail covers any area at all."

Crosbyton got its .75 rain in two batches. W. H. Curry said the first began between 6 and 6:30 p. m., and the second between 9:30 to 9:45 p. m. Hail was reported in the area, but Curry reported none in Crosbyton.

Winds Strong At Lockney

At Lockney, the rain was estimated at .50, starting about 7 p. m. and lasting about 45 minutes, accompanied by some hail. A hard wind also blew briefly, but no damage was reported.

J. L. Suits reported a .23 rain at Petersburg in three showers, the first at 5:30 p. m. and the last around 7 p. m. Suits said "buckshot" hail fell there, but no real cotton damage was feared. He said the rain and hail extended eight miles east of Petersburg and six or seven miles north.

Hail was also reported at Sand Hill, about 14 miles west of Floydada. No hail was reported in Floydada, but the rain there was estimated at .25, falling between 7:10 and 9:30 p. m. Clouds moved over the area at 5:15 p. m. and temperatures dropped about 15 degrees with the rain.

At Lorenzo, A. F. Hamm said showers began about 6:30 p. m. bringing a total of .25.

Other Points Hit

Showers and sprinkles also were reported at Plainview, Abernathy, Idalou, Ralls, McAdoo, and Olton from the thunderclouds that moved for the most part from the southwest to the northeast.

A few scattered sprinkles fell near Lubbock, but the dark clouds overhead failed to bring a major rain.

As the cold wave moved toward Lubbock Saturday, the mercury there went to a [illegible] at 4 p. m. after a morning low of 60. Unless the cold front crossed up the forecasters and went into high gear during the night, the low this morning was predicted around 60.

The cold front and possible wet weather is expected to continue into Tuesday, it was indicated.

Reporting on the small twister at Claude, Mrs. Ellie Foster, a telephone operator there said she did not believe there was serious damage. The Amarillo Weather bureau added that it had no other reports of damage.

The bureau rated the storm a "small twister, not a tornado."

New Church Planned

campus on College Aveune and Fifteenth street, will be announced at the dinner. Preliminary plans call for a style of architecture in harmony with the progressive spirit of the west.

A sanctuary that will serve a church membership of 3,000, a fellowship hall adequate to serve the young people of the community and the college, a chapel and an educational plant of satisfactory proportions, are tentatively planned for the new church.

A goal of $300,000 has been set for the financial campaign and leaders in the drive hope to achieve it in three-year pledges by Jan. 1. Sale of the present church property, located at Fourteenth and Ave. X; receipt of $75,000 from the Texas Interconference Commission on Students' Work, and the borrowing of $125,000 if needed, would account for the other half of the church's cost, according to plans of the building committee.

James G. Allen is chairman of the building fund committee, and other members are: Charles Bartley and R. L. Elms, big gifts; W. B. Rushing, special gifts; C. V. Bullen, J. William Davis, Mrs. I. C. Enochs, Henry English, Frank Ford, Everett Fulgham, Mrs. Coleman Hasie, Jim Lawrence, C. E. Love, Mrs. Lawrence Lusk, W. C. Mauzey, jr., Donald McDonald, Mrs. Marvin McLarty, William McLaughlin, Mrs. R. Lloyd Neelley, C. H. Scales, William R. Sewell, Rolan Simpson, William Slagle, F. W. Sparks, Preston Smith, Winston Wofford and Glenn Woody.

Mrs. C. H. Scales is chairman of the arrangments committee with Mrs. Hasie, Mrs. S. W. Brunson and Rolan Simpson as members. William R. Sewell is chairman of listings; Preston Smith, chairman of publicity with Joe Bryant and W. B. Gates; and Dr. F. W. Sparks is chairman of campaign finance.

Rev. Hubert Bratcher is pastor and Rev. Charles Luttrick, associate minister, of the church, which now has a membership of 1,082.

The church was organized on Jan. 14, 1940 with Rev. R. L. Kirk as pastor, with 72 members signing the charter, 33 of whom are active members today. The present church was buildt in 1940 and is now valued at approximately $100,000.

H. Felton, Don Lewis, John Halsey, Frank Junell, E. K. Hufstedler, O. L. Byrd, K. T. Thomas, Earl Collins, Chester Hubbard, Royal Ferguson, D. C. Casey, L. E. Davis, O. W. Ribble, Fred Hackle, C. J. Lighholder, Don Mitchell, Arthur Griffith, Bill Bradbury, Bill Marquis, Wyatt Hester and Briggs Irvin in the unit accounts division.

Hugh Anderson will be leader of the men's sales division with Orville Stewart, Frank Baker, Ira G. Dunlap, Roy Faubion, Gradie Bownds, Kenneth D. Moore, Rayford Ball, Louie Moore, Kenneth Leslie, John Speers and Horace Coffman as captains.

Mrs. Wm. G. Dingus will be a colonel of the women's sales division with her group of workers to be announced later.

Kickoff meetings will be held at the Lubbock Boys' club starting at 8 a.m. on Oct. 18 and 19, with the men's sales division spearheading the drive.

Approximately 200 workers are expected to take part in the campaign, in which leaders hope the goal can be achieved in a week's time.

The Lubbock Community Chest is now in its fourth year after being revived in 1946. It is the only financial campaign conducted by the affiliated social welfare, health and recreation agencies during the year and supplants individual campaigns by the various agencies.

in depth in Idaho. It began falling again Saturday after a brief letup. But officials said isolated hunters generally were in no danger. Below freezing temperatures were recorded in the area for two nights.

Crews cleared roads to free hundreds of stalled automobiles in southern Idaho's Minidoka National forest Saturday. But by night, many roads were drifted shut again and officials said a number of stranded cars remained in the area. Their occupants were expected to find refuge in ranch houses, however.

Saturday temperatures plummeted to 19 degrees at Cut Bank, Mont., and record lows for the date were recorded in parts of California. Fresno had a chilly 39 and Bakersfield, Calif., 44.

In contrast, residents in parts of the Midwest and East sweltered in Indian summer weather. The mercury rose to 87 in Chicago, highest for the date ever recorded there.

Hundreds Expected

were that they will discover that the buyer once again is king after the years of war and postwar shortages, when he usually took what he could buy and was glad to get it.

Exhibitors Set Record

In this market, the shoe clearly is on the other foot, and the fellows with merchandise to sell were frank to acknowledge it Saturday. Their most cordial welcome will await those who appear to consider the replenishment of fall and winter retail merchandise stocks from the samples displayed here.

Officials of the market association, of which Luther Godwin is president, agreed that more wholesale, jobbing and manufacturing representatives are exhibiting in the present market than in any since the event was established more than 20 years ago.

Jim Crook, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce and secretary of the association, had not completed his checking Saturday night to determine just how many were on hand.

Eight Floors Reserved

But the reports made by the managements of the Lubbock and Hilton hotels were highly significant, and by remarkable coincidence, were almost identical.

In each hotel, four floors had been reserved for the merchandise displays. The total of eight floors —exclusive of portions of the lobbies—compared with a maximum of five floors, all in the Lubbock hotel, at any previous market.

Before dusk, every reserved room except one in each hotel had been claimed. And, in each instance, the one absentee had taken no chances. His room was paid for with reservation to make sure that it would be held.

Therefore, for the first time in any market, advance reservations have been claimed 100 per cent.

In addition, a considerable number of jobbing representatives apepared who were unable to obtain advance reservations. They came to the market anyway, taking their chances they would find some place to stay. Accommodations were arranged for most of them by utilizing smaller hotels and tourist courts.

The prospects are that the final tabulation will show close to 100 exhibitors in the market. None previously has attracted as many as 80.

Many Items Displayed

The displays include all sorts of wearing apparel for men, women, children and infants, accessories, novelties, draperies, holiday merchandise and the like.

It was strictly guesswork as to the value of the goods on display. But experienced observers said they considered $100,000 a conservative figure.

Likewise, there was no way to estimate how much business may be done in the market. The sellers usually keep these figures a closely guarded trade secret. But individual purchases may range from a few dollars to many thousands. Total transactions of more than $1,000,000 would not be particularly surprising before Monday night.

The market, according to association officials, offers merchandise in greater variety than ever displayed before—due, in large degree, to wartime developments which just now are becoming available to the mass of consumers.

Also, in larger degree than at any time since the outbreak of war in 1939, the sellers will be prepared to make quick deliveries—in many cases, spot deliveries.

Of further significance was the statement by the hotel managements that, if any of the retail visitors should prefer an overnight stay in Lubbock so as to allow more leisurely shopping, accommodations probably can be arranged.

During the last several years, the visitors have been cautioned that, if they planned to remain overnight, they should make sure well in advance that they would have a place to sleep.

Dispute Over Navy

vealing that top Navy Admirals Denfeld, Radford and Bogan support his charges.

Other highlights:

1. It was reliably learned that Denfeld, chief of naval operations, who according to predictions would dispute the charges when he sums up the Navy case, instead will substantially support them.

2. Navy sources said privately that the $203 million cut in naval aviation will bring to a dead stop all developments, research and procurement of plane types which the Navy says can down the Air Force's prized B-36 bomber.

3. Ace Navy test pilot Capt. Fred Trapnell told the committee that if the Navy's Banshee jet fighter is ever permitted to go against the B-36 in a test it will blast the bomber out of the sky "and cancel any B-36 production."

that Lin Piao, Red general confronting Pai, would continue the pursuit, leaving a slower frontal drive on Canton to Communist forces of Gen. Chen Keng.

City Is Abandoned

(This view was supported by a Communist broadcast, heard in San Francisco by the Associated Press.)

Yingtak, rail town 75 miles north of Canton, was also described as a "vacuum," the Nationalist having withdrawn but the Reds not yet having entered. The Communists often wait a while before taking abandoned cities, to make sure they are not walking into an ambush.

A canvass of Nationalist opinion showed that, while there was hope of holding Canton for a considerable period, the government probably would move west to Chungking within a fortnight.

FLOATS TO HIGHLIGHT PARADE

Tech Homecoming Crowd To Jam Housing Facilities In Lubbock

By KENNETH MAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Housing was almost extinct Saturday afternoon for that part of an expected crowd of 8,000 ex-students of Texas Technological college who had not already made reservations for Homecoming next Saturday.

A check of 10 of the leading hotels and courts in the city netted a total of only 15 rooms as yet not reserved for the weekend. One or two of the proprietors feared they might be overbooked. All but two had out "no vacancy" signs.

Largest Reunion Planned

Meanwhile, plans were still in full swing to make this year's reunion the largest and most colorful on record. Organizations which have entered one of the 43 floats in the gala parade were busy making plans for their theme, while ex-students' officers scurried about the Tech campus making sure of every detail.

Main attraction of the event will be the gridiron tussle Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in Jones Stadium between Tech and Baylor universary, a contender in the Southwest conference title chase. A crowd of more than 20,000 is expected for the game.

Focal point of Homecoming will be the Green room of the recreation hall, which will be set aside for "bull sessions" and meeting of old acquaintances. Snack bar privileges will be open to the exes.

Parade Route Given

The parade itself will form in the 1000 block of Avenues N and O and between Avenues Q and M on Main street between 9 and 10 a.m. Saturday. It will move out at 10 and march down Main street to Texas avenue and back up Broadway to College, according to D. M. McElroy, executive secretary for the ex-students.

Football tickets to the afternoon game will go on sale at 8 a. m. Saturday to ex-students only and will be thrown open to the general public at 10, if any are left.

Members of the ex-students association will vote on next year's officers Saturday morning, following an executive meeting Friday at 3 p.m. Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of the college, will address the executive council at the election breakfast Saturday morning. Dr. E. N. Jones, vice-president, will also be a guest.

Directors To Meet

No speeches are planned for the Homecoming festivities. Doors of the college will be thrown open to exes, instead, to roam about at will.

A meeting of the Tech board of directors will be held Saturday morning in the administration building, according to Frank Junell, assistant to the president. Principal business will be to consider plans for additions to the Engineering building.

Other highlights of the occasion will include a free lunch Saturday for ex-students and their escorts, given by Furr food stores and Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma motor coaches. To be held in the gymnasium, the luncheon is expected to be attended by approximately 1,800 persons.

Campus Bonfire Scheduled

Actual registration of alumni will begin at 5 p.m. Friday, followed by the traditional Homecoming bonfire on the campus at 7 p.m. Expected this year to be the largest reunion ever staged by the college, registration officials will set up booths in campus buildings as well as in the Hilton and Lubbock hotels.

This year's total of 43 floats in the parade make it the largest in the history of the college. A breakdown shows that 20 are entered in the descriptive division, 14 in the beautiful classification, and nine comic. A plaque bearing the name of the organzation will be awarded the float chosen best in each division.

A bronze trophy in the form of a Greek goddess will be given the float chosen best of these top three in special services at halftime of the football game. It will be retained by the organization only so long as it continues to have the best float in succeeding Homecoming parades.

Shoe Race Planned

Other halftime performances will include the traditional freshman shoe race and an exhibition by the Tech marching band, under direction of Professor D. O. Wiley.

All organizations on the campus are expected to have welcome mats out for former members, while Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will decorate the gym for the noon free lunch.

Homecoming festivities will be concluded Saturday night with dances in the gymnasium for exes and in the Recreation hall for students. Burl Hubbard's orchestra will play for the exes. Both "shindigs" will begin at 9 p.m.

Classes will be dismissed at 9:30 a.m. Saturday for the remainder of the day, Dr. Jones has announced, in order that students may join in the parade and other celebrations.

'Howdy' Week To Open Monday For Students At Tech

It will be a friendly six days on the Texas Technological college campus beginning Monday.

"Howdy" week, sponsored by the Tech Chamber of Commerce, will be in progress.

Held each year in an effort to promote friendliness and warm feelings among the student body, "Howdy" week will find freshmen and seniors speaking to each other on equal terms as everyone goes all out for comradeship.

Special tags for the occasion, bearing the name, hometown, classification, and division of the college in which each student is enrolled will be worn by all, Dale Thut, chairman of the Howdy committee, said.

The idea was the product of the Tech War Veterans association soon after the close of World War II. "A sort of get-acquainted week," they called it. The six-day period has since become an annual college institution.

Traditional bonfire formerly held at the close of each Howdy week will give way this year to the Homecoming bonfire to be held Friday night.

Lubbock Woman Dies Saturday Afternoon

Miss Willie Thompson, 53, of 2204 Twenty-fifth, died at 4:30 p.m. Saturday at Lubbock Memorial hospital after a brief illness.

She was a native of Jackson, Ga., and had lived in Lubbock for five years.

Survivors are two brothers, Charles Thompson of the Twenty-fifth street address, and Grady Thompson of Atlanta, Ga.

Rev. J. Ralph Grant, assisted by Rev. Travis A. White, will conduct services at 3 p.m. today at the First Baptist church. Burial will take place in Lubbock cemetery under direction of McDonald & Son Funeral home.

Work Is Slated On Lubbock Farm Road

AUSTIN, Oct. 8. (Special)—Improvements for 12.29 miles of Farm Highway 400 from U. S. Highway 62, one mile east of Idalou to the end of pavement north of Slaton, were included in contract bids called by the State Highway department Saturday.

Grading, construction of drainage structures and flexible base and double asphalt surface treatment are scheduled for the Lubbock county farm road.

The highway department's highway maintenance and construction projects will cost an estimated $3,405,600.

OFFICE BUILDING PLANNED

SWEETWATER, Oct. 8. (AP) — The Board of City Development is backing plans for a six story, modern office building here. Its estimated cost is $600,000. Tentative plans have been drawn for a location on East Broadway (Highway 80) near the business district.

In Crystal City, Texas, the spinach capital, there is a 12-foot statue of Popeye.

Four New Members Initiated Into Lubbock Pilot Club

Four new members were taken into the Lubbock Pilot club in a formal initiation ceremony following a dinner held in their honor in the Colonial room of the Hilton hotel Thursday evening.

The new members are Mesdames Irene Ausburn, Mallie Sanders, and Misses Sannie Callan and Peggy Martin.

Mrs. Sanders is X-ray technician at West Texas hospital, Mrs. Ausburn is director of nurses at West Texas hospital, Miss Callan is head of the child development at Texas Tech and Miss Martin is branch secretary for the General Adjustment Bureau, Inc.

Miss Lois Alexander presided at the business meeting that followed the ceremony. Two of the new members, Miss Martin and Mrs. Sanders were appointed to the Public Affairs committee. Miss Callan was appointed chairman of the newly-formed International Relations committee with Mesdames Pearl Smith and Ausburn as members. Miss Evelyn Clewell is a new appointee of the Board of Directors.

Members present, other than those mentioned above, included Mesdames Bessie Ford, Jewel Huie, Joesphine Ballinger, Ida Harkleroad, Ila Beal, and Misses Leeth Smith, Martha Whitacre, Margaret Hess, and Lois Graves.

Mrs. Beal was in charge of the ceremony, assisted by Miss Graves.

Enrollment At Tech Reaches 5,804 Total

With the graduate division marking a 75 per cent increase, total enrollment at Texas Technological college for the fall term is 5,804, Registrar W. P. Clement has announced.

Although total matriculation is off from the 6,145 enrolled last year, the graduate division showed an increase of 132 above the 1948 mark of 176, putting this year's figure at 308.

Of the 5,804 students enrolled in the college, 4,391 are men, compared to 1,413 women. The agriculture division is the only other one to show an increase. The 801 enrolled in that division is .4 per cent above last year's figure.

All other divisions of the college noted declines in number of students, with the engineering field hit hardest with a 16 per cent drop.

A few late registrants are still to be added to the total enrollment, Clement said.

Texas' Capitol was built without the outlay of one cent in cash.

Yankees Subdue Brooklyn, 6-4, To Move Within Game Of Title

Tech Smothers Tulsa's Attack For 15-0 Victory

New Yorkers Gang Up On Newcombe

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

BROOKLYN, Oct. 8 — The "pitchingest" World Series of modern times came unstuck today as the New York Yankees smashed out 10 hits—four of them ringing extra-basers—to subdue the Dodgers, 6 to 4, and pull within a single victory of the winners' share.

In two big innings, the fourth and fifth, the American League champions blasted two Dodger pitchers for all their runs on two singles, three doubles and a three-run triple by their "golden boy" Bobby Brown.

Then, after the home team had rallied with seven singles in an amazing sixth chapter to rout starter Ed Lopat and reduce their deficit to two runs, the Yankees sat back behind remarkable relief pitching by Allie Reynolds to clinch their 3-1 lead in the play-off.

Brooks Stopped Dead

From the time he took over from Lopat with the tying run on base and two out in the sixth, until he struck out the final two Dodgers to wind up the game, Reynolds did not permit another Brook to reach first. The 10 men he faced went down as though they had been pole-axed.

Johnny Jorgensen, who got a double off Allie in Wednesday's classic, was sent in to pinch hit when Reynolds replaced Lopat today and went down looking at a called third strike.

More runs were scored by the two clubs today than they had amassed in all the previous three contests. The Yanks, in ganging up on Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's big negro fireballer, for three doubles and knocking him from the premises in the fourth inning, tied a series record. No club has bashed more two-baggers in one frame.

Newcombe, pitching with only two days rest after his brilliant but losing effort Wednesday, didn't have what it took to halt the Yanks today. The first two men to face him hit safely, and he sweated through a bad 20 minutes before he retired the side.

The walls fell in on him in the fourth when Bobby Brown, the day's slugging hero, pounded a double into left, Gene Woodling drew a walk on four pitches and Cliff Mapes delivered a bruising double into the left field corner which counted both Yanks.

Manager Burt Shotton didn't yank the negro at that point. He let him pitch to Jerry Coleman, who fouled out. But then Lopat poled the clincher against his mound rival, a screaming double against the left center field barrier. That made it 3-0, and was enough for Newcombe.

Reese led off the sixth with a single into short center. Billy Cox hit for Miksis and laid down a swinging roller to the left of the hill which Lopat bobbled. It went for a hit, and brought up the young Dodger centerfielder, Duke Snider, who has been one of the biggest batting busts of the series. He hit into a double play, Phil Rizzuto to Henrich, and there the Dodgers were, with a man on third and two out.

Starting from there, the next five Brooklyns—Jackie Robinson, Gil Hodges, Luis Olmo, Roy Campanella, and Gene Hermanski—sprayed base hits into every section of Ebbets field. The final two, by Campanella and Hermanski, carried plenty of authority, and it was all too evident that Lopat was through.

TEXAS TECH GAINS TOWARD THE GOAL — Fullback Bud Conley, Tech's crashing back, drives his way forward for a four yard gain early in the third quarter of last night's game at Jones Stadium. Conley reached the two yard line on this play, but the Red Raiders were unable to punch the ball over. Moments later they had their first score when End Dick Cavazos tackled Fullback Paul Barry in the end zone for a safety. Raiders in the picture are, from left to right, End Luke Thompson (partially hidden on the ground), Halfback Cal Steveson (22), Halfback Tim Hatch (10), Conley (with the ball, head down), an unidentified Raider. Tulsa players, left to right, are Halfback S. J. Whitman (23), End Ernie Walkup (84) and an unidentified player. The Raiders won the game 15-0 to extend their victory string over the Golden Hurricane to three straight games. Tulsa won the first five in the series that now exends from 1941. (Staff Photo.)

15,000 On Hand To See Alert Techsans

Third Period Safety, Hawkins' Pass And Price's Interception Give Win

BY JOE KELLY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Editor

An alert Texas Tech football machine, that smothered Tulsa's vaunted passing attack and stopped its running game almost stone cold, surged to a second half safety and a pair of touchdowns that spelled a 15-0 victory for the Red Raiders last night in Jones Stadium before a crowd of approximately 15,000.

Dick Cavazos tackled Fullback Paul Barry in the end zone for a third period safety and Tech drove 47 yards on two plays, Ernest Hawkins passing to Tim Hatch on the 14 and the shifty back going over for the touchdown. The final score came at 10 minutes of play in the fourth quarter when Tackle Jerrell Price intercepted a pass by Dub Graves in the end zone. Hatch converted and the game ended shortly afterwards with Tech holding its lead.

Bitter, Bruising Game

It was a bitter, bruising game with the final quarter turned into as fine a Donnybrook as you'd want to see. Faith, and if the lads had had shillelaghs, old Ireland would have been done proud. But lacking the trusty cudgel of Eire, both teams made good use of existing elbows and knees. Finally, with less than two minutes remaining, Price and Tulsa Guard Arnold Burroughs were banished from the field.

This was the game that both Tulsa and Tech needed for confidence. Neither had had a good season and each team felt that a victory would put it on the right track. As a result, the publicized scoring bee failed to materialize and an old time defensive battle ensued.

The Raiders had all the edge in the statistics, rolling up 10 first downs to seven, gaining a net of 157 yards rushing to only 34 for Tulsa, completing four of 14 passes for 73 yards against five completions in 21 attempts for 50 yards by the Golden Hurricane. The yardage gained showed Tech with an impressive 230 yards to Tulsa's 80.

Backs Spark Raiders

Probably the turning point in the Raider offensive was the running of three fullbacks, Bud Conley, Earl Jackson and J. W. Thompson. All three ran hard and gained most of the ground for the winners. They had assistance from Hatch, Ike Stuver and Cal Steveson who ran diversionary raids to open up the defense.

In the line, the work was magnificent. Marshall Gettys and Price turned in outstanding jobs, while Dick Cavazos, working as a defensive end, made many tackles in addition to his safety. Dick Pirtle and Luke Thompson also turned in outstanding performances and Tulsa's supposedly dangerous end sweeps failed to materialize.

But the most outstanding work of the night was the rushing of the Tulsa passer, usually Tommy Dickerson, and the work of the generally frail Raider pass defense. For a team known for its passing, Tulsa looked woefully inadequate with only five completions in 21 attempts. Much of the defense was due the fine work of Hawkins.

First Half Defensive

The first half was a defensive battle, with neither team able to launch an offensive, and it lapsed into a punter's duel. Ike Stuver and Dub Graves held each other about even on the exchanges.

Tulsa almost scored in the first quarter when Barry went to the Raider three, but a backfield in motion penalty nullified the run and Tech threw the invaders back to the 32-yard line.

After Tulsa had been held late in the quarter on its own 27, Tech opened a drive that carried to the Tulsa 18 as the first stanza opened. On the first play, Steveson cut for a touchdown that was called back when Tech was guilty of holding and the drive petered out.

Early in the second quarter, Stuver's punt went to the Tulsa 23 and the Hurricane was guilty of unnecessary roughness, moving the ball back to the eight. Two plays later Tulsa was on its own four, but a punt brought the ball out of danger and a Tech drive stalled on the 15, when Bill Lyman, attempt-

H-SU Blanks Arizona, 35 To 0

ABILENE, Oct. 8. (AP)—Hardin-Simmons displayed a vicious attack and an uncommonly strong defense here tonight to defeat the University of Arizona 35-0 in a Border Conference game.

Until he was hit hard on his bum knee early in the second period, Wilton "Hook" Davis led the Cowboys in a couple of first quarter touchdown sprees. He raced 46 yards on the second play of the Cowboy scrimmage to reach the five-yard line, from where Quarterback John Ford went for touchdown.

Later in the period, he alternated with Fullback Chick Tiger to move the Cowboys 50 yards down field into scoring position. He moved to the 13-yard line on the second play of the second quarter, was caught under a mass of tacklers, and carried from the field. Ford passed to Dunie Goode over the goal line for the touchdown.

Hardin-Simmons scored twice in the third period, driving 45 yards for one, with Harold Taylor going over, and 70 yards for the other, Taylor again scoring. Cliff Swain, big tackle, converted from placement after each of the Hardin-Simmons touchdowns.

Hal Hoag, Fred Batiste, Kes Kastner and John Kelly were hard workers in the Arizona backfield, but the Wildcat attack only twice passed midfield, and once with aid of a 15-yard penalty. The Cowboys dominated from the start, rolling up 19 first downs to eight, gaining 338 yards rushing to 101. Kelly's passes to Hoag and Wolgast and Bill Glazier were good for 96 yards, Hardin-Simmons completing seven passes for 93.

Massive Sooners Rip Steer Line

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

DALLAS, Oct. 8. — Oklahoma gouged out a 20-14 victory over Texas today in a rough forty-fourth renewal of this storied intersectional football game.

Gouged is right because the massive Sooners tore the Texas line as wide open as the Lone Star prairie while Leon Heath, George Thomas and Darrell Royal scooted through for great chunks of yardage.

No team with more power ever showed its wares in the big Cotton Bowl. It was for the edification of 75,347 fans — the largest crowd ever to see a gridiron battle in southwestern history.

Steers Fight Back

Texas fought back and although outplayed could have won or tied but for a dropped pass and several fizzles of drives that carried deep into Sooner territory.

Oklahoma spotted Texas a touchdown and then roared back like the national No. 3 rating it knows. The Sooners pounded out 216 yards on the ground and used the overhead sparingly, although it was the air weapon that brought the last touchdown. Texas got 112 yards rushing and 139 passing.

Rain Slows Texas

Rain fell just before the game started and turned into a downpour midway of the second period. It lasted 15 minutes then stopped and as the contest ended the sun broke from behind the clouds.

The rain came in the midst of a Texas drive and obviously handicapped the Longhorn passing which was clicking well until the ball got wet. In the second half the Texas air attack blossomed again.

After the game the Oklahoma band played and some Oklahoma partisans tried to tear down a goal post. But a policeman knocked out one persistent fellow with a single punch. Fellow Oklahomans revived him, then took him off the field. The others scattered.

Thomas Leads Sooners

George Thomas of Oklahoma was the leading ground-gainer with 80 yards on 12 runs. Randall Clay led for Texas with 50. In passing Paul Campbell of Texas completed 13 out of 26 for 84 yards.

Texas scored to open the second period. After twice being repulsed in the shadow of the Sooner goal line, the Longhorns got a drive under way that carried 52 yards for the pay-off. Clay made it, cracking the line twice from the 10-yard line. He also kicked the extra point.

But Oklahoma took the kick-off and paraded 66 yards to a tying touchdown, getting it in six plays. It was on a 39-yard blast over left guard by Thomas. Ken Tipps converted.

Pearson Goes Over

Oklahoma crashed and banged down to the Texas 14-yard line a little later but Texas braced and Thomas tried a field goal from the 21. It was short.

But Oklahoma soon settled the issue. Taking the second half kick-off the Sooners snorted and crunched to a score in five plays. From the 12-yard line Lindell Pearson plowed left tackle for a touchdown. Tipps again converted.

Oklahoma scored again in the fourth period on a 38 yard surge after a short Texas punt. Leon Heath circled end for 17 and Darrell Royal passed to Jim Owens for the score. Tipps missed the extra point.

Texas smashed 68 yards for a touchdown as time ran out. Lew Levine made it with a 12-yard crash through the line. Clay kicked the point.

EAST TEXAS STATE WINS

COMMERCE, Oct. 8. (AP) —East Texas State upset Stephen F. Austin 13-0 tonight in a Lone Star Conference football game. David Hurst took the opening kick-off back 100 yards for a touchdown and in the second period Bill Engle passed to John Murphy for 26 yards and another counter. Bobby Nations kicked one extra point.

YALE BEATS COLUMBIA

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)— Yale outpitched and outclassed its old Ivy League rival Columbia, 33 to 7, in a loose, rough football game in baseball weather today.

Between The Lines by Joe Kelly

Manager Casey Stengel's rampaging Yankees have taken a three to one lead in the World Series at this point and there is considerable question that the Dodgers will be able to overtake the Gotham Gang. Certainly Stengel is in the driver's stat. He led with two of his finest hurlers, while Burt Shotton had to gamble on Don Newcombe in the first game. Newcombe failed and then failed again in yesterday's all-important fourth game. The slender Preacher Roe, unable to work without at least three days of rest and even better, four or five, is no help to Shotton. It is highly doubtful that Shotton would dare come back with him today. His initial gamble failed and with it may fail the Dodger hopes in the Series.

• • •

Now Stengel can gamble himself, secure in a 3-1 advantage, knowing that he could use his big righthander, Vic Raschi on Monday, if the Series goes that far. And Joe Page probably will be held out of today's game to come to Raschi's aid, if it is needed and if the Series goes through today. Just as yesterday's game showed that both teams had gotten beyond starting pitchers, so should today's game — only more so. It ought to be a slugging bee, with both teams hitting much harder than they have so far.

• • •

Which brings up an interesting question, one that seems to have no answer. That is, are the Yankees better psychologically with Joe DiMaggio in the lineup, but not hitting, than they would be with the Jolter out of the lineup and a hitting outfielder in his place? No one can underestimate the tremendous surge of faith that the Yanks feel when DiMaggio is in the lineup. We doubt seriously that Boston would have dropped both games if DiMaggio had been on the sidelines. However, the big guy hasn't hit a lick in the current Series. He's been a pathetic figure at bat, unable to do more than drop a bleeder single into the infield. If he had been hitting his usual average, there would have been little question about the outcome of any of the games. But if you were Stengel, what would you do? If we were Stengel, we'd probably play him.

• • •

Two years ago when the Yanks blasted the Dodgers for the second time in a World Series, a young medical student broke into the New Yorker's lineup to become the hitting sensation of the Series. Bobby Brown was inserted three times as a pinchhitter and three times he delivered booming blows. That same Bobby Brown isn't doing badly this time. Yesterday he was the cannon in the Yankee lineup. C. W. Ratliff, managing editor of these papers, saw the Series two years ago and sat in the box next to Bobby's parents. When their son came to bat, Poppa Brown ducked his head and leaned over, refusing to look. Momma Brown had to give him a pitch-by-pitch description of what happened. When Bobby hit, she'd reach over and pound Poppa on the back and Poppa, stung by the excitement, straightened up to look. C. W. said that it was worth the price of admission.

• • •

Way back last spring, we brought to your attention the argument preesnted by some Abilene persons that they would rather be in the Longhorn League because the Blue Sox, wouldn't have so far to travel for games. There wasn't much of anything concrete at that time, but now there definitely is a move afoot to make the switch possible. And even earlier, an attempt was made to have Odessa and Lamesa switch franchises. Lamesa wouldn't do it and the whole thing fell through. Now the entire situation is coming to a head again and before next spring, the West Texas-New Mexico League might have a re-alignment of teams.

• • •

The latest situation has Abilene moving into the Longhorn League, which then would become a Class C circuit. Abilene's loss, of course would mean that there would be a vacancy in the WT-NM loop. That void could be filled easily. Roswell, which now is in the Longhorn loop, wants to get into the WT-NM group. Hobbs, N. M., has a standing bid for a place in the circuit. And now El Paso says that is also is interested in becoming a member, so much so that they will be willing to put up a guarantee to that effect.

• • •

Admission of either El Paso or Roswell — or both — is getting some support around the league, we understand. There is even an effort being made, indirectly and sotto voce, to ease Lamesa into the Longhorn League. Loss of Abilene and Lamesa, or Abilene and Clovis, would make it possible to take in Roswell and El Paso. If only El Paso came in, it is almost certain that the WT-NM League would petition to be named a Class B League. After all, they'd have almost twice the total population required to the advancement in rating. Moreover, they'd have at least four cities capable of drawing over 100,000 admissions a year. That's half the circuit and the other four teams would come close to drawing that number.

• • •

It's an ambitious idea, but one that we think most fans would greet with enthusiasm. After all, it would make possible better baseball for the spectators, with more veterans, a faster brand of ball, better pitching and less of the astronomical scores that have marked this league. El Paso certainly would be an asset to the league. The city is large enough now to support Class B and the fans are beginning to demand it. Trips to Albuquerque and El Paso could be broken with games at Roswell and Clovis. And if those teams were thrown in now, providing Abilene and Lamesa were out, the alignment in the league probably would be Pampa, Borger, Amarillo and Lubbock, against Albuquerque, El Paso, Clovis and Roswell. It's already been figured that the travelling distances would be better than they are at present and the league would be stronger.

• • •

Yank Catcher Praises Mound Work

Hurling Is Tops

Larry (Yogi) Berra, who has caught each of the New York Yankees' three victorious World Series games, herewith gives his impressions of the outstanding single feature of the series to date—Yankee pitching.

By LARRY (YOGI) BERRA
New York Yankee Catcher

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (INS)—Allie Reynolds was very fast today and he really poured them in there after relieving Eddie Lopat in the sixth inning.

I would say that, even with only two days' rest, he was faster than in his two-hitter on Wednesday. Where he used a great variety of pitches Wednesday, we didn't need much but the fast one today.

Lopat Was Tired

You can see that it worked as he retired ten men in a row, half of them on strikeouts.

Lopat was going along fine until that sixth. He seemed to tire all at once, and I could tell he was losing some of his stuff.

I guess the Dodgers could tell it, too, as they got to him for seven hits.

Our pitching has really been good in this series. It is no accident that those Dodgers haven't been hitting.

I finally got my first hit today. My left thumb, which I broke several weeks before the end of the season, still is all swollen up. It doesn't hurt much when I'm catching, but it bothers me a lot at bat.

Newcombe Still Tough

Don Newcombe didn't seem nearly as fast today as he did against us on Wednesday. He was still tough enough for me, though. I thought we had him on the way out in the first, but he got out of a bad hole when my grounder to third was turned into a double play. And then, after we filled the bases the same inning, Duke Snider pulled down Gene Woodling's fly to center for the third out.

My hit came off Joe Hatten, a left hander, although I usually have trouble hitting the lefties. I just wish I had two good hands to hit some of the good balls I've had thrown at me.

But after today I think we have Brooklyn really on the run, and I guess it doesn't matter who gets the hits as long as we win.

A RAIDER MOVES FORWARD—Fullback J. W. Thompson, one of the three fullbacks who handed the Tulsa line a terrific pounding last night, is shown above going for a short gain midway through the third quarter. Thompson, in one sequence of six plays, carried the ball five times, gaining 27 yards, only to see the drive die after it had reached the Tulsa 37-yard line. It was a rough, bruising game and the line play was hard. Here Thompson is shown trying to shake off one tackler, while another comes up to help drag him to earth. The other Raider player is Quarterback Ernest Hawkins (17). Tulsa Golden Hurricanes in the photo are Halfback Dub Graves (30), Fullback Paul Barry (41), making the tackle, and Halfback S. J. Whitman (23) coming up to help Barry. The Raiders went on to victory 15-0 before 15,000 fans. (Staff Photo.)

Smooth-Working Army Whips Michigan Eleven, 21 To 7

First Loss For Team Since 1946

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 8. (AP)—A beautifully-posed Army team snapped mighty Michigan's 25-game winning streak today as it whipped the Wolverines 21-7 in one of the big upsets of the year.

Michigan, a 10-point favorite in pre-game betting, fell behind 7-0 in the first 10 minutes of play and never was able to hit its stride thereafter.

Army, in winning its 14th game without a defeat, maintained its jinx over Michigan which has lost all three of its Army games.

It was their first loss since they dropped a 13-9 game to Illinois on Oct. 26, 1946, and their worst defeat since Navy took them 33-7 in 1945. Army edged them 20-13 in the 1946 game.

There was no question about Army's superiority today, for they were razer-sharp.

Army wasted little time in letting the sell-out crowd of 97,239 know they were witnessing a real ball game.

With Galiffa completing two passes to right end Bill Kellum good for 20 and 14 yards, the West Pointers swept along to their 39.

Then Galiffa changed receivers as he hit left End Dan Foldberg with a 46 yard pass that put the ball on Michigan's 15. Kuckman picked up 10 for a first down and then Halfback Frank Fischl broke off left end for five yards and crossed the goal line standing up for Army's first touchdown. Jack Mackmull kicked the point and Army led 7-0.

Michigan, stunned in the opening minutes by the Army score, got a great scoring chance late in the period but could not cash in on it.

Teninga booted out of bounds on the Army five yard line and a clipping penalty set the ball back on Army's one.

Tom Brown's punt from the end zone was blocked by Michigan center Tony Momsen and the ball went out of bounds on Army's 16.

Michigan picked up on a running play but three of Teninga's passers were batted down and Army took over as the first period ended.

Wyoming Defeats Montana State, 48-0

LARAMIE, Wyo., Oct. 8. (INS)—The Wyoming Cowboys racked up an impressive 48 to 0 win over Montana State college before 4,500 chilled fans at Laramie today.

It was a sweet victory for the Punchers, who have been on the reverse end of many a similar score in the past. The game also made the Waddies the leading contender for Conference honors as the only undefeated eleven in the Skyline Six.

Wyoming's "new look" team started slow but warmed to the task at hand despite near freezing weather. They scored once in the first period, twice in the third and four times in the final stanza.

The Bobcats threatened only once, and the drive in the second period was cancelled by a fumble on the Wyoming 19.

Cowboy scoring honors were divided. Tailback Walker (Sonny) Jones connected twice, and Fullback Royal McMullin tallied once from the 4 and passed to End Dick Shaner for a second.

Hardy Rollins and Wingback Vern Gale each tallied once, while defenseive Tailback Selmer Pederson made the most spectacular touchdown of the day, racing 77 yards on a punt return.

Tulane's Green Wave Blanks Southeastern Louisiana, 40-0

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8. (AP)—Tulane's Green Wave toyed playfully with Southeastern Louisiana college and built up a 40-0 football victory today.

The Tulane powerhouse dominated the game in all departments as 20,000 drenched fans watched. The smaller opponents never were able to make any progress.

Burk's Passing, Quarterbacking Deadly

Baylor's Bears Turn Out 35-13 Win Over Arkansas Razorbacks

WACO, Oct. 8. (AP)— Adrian Burk brought Baylor's "T" to a quick boil and the Bears steamed to a 35-13 victory over Arkansas today. The licking dumped the Razorbacks from the ranks of the undefeated and kept Baylor there.

Bob Woodruff's smooth machine spotted Arkansas a touchdown in the first few minutes of play, tied the score before the end of the period and then went on a three-touchdown spree in the second quarter that assured the southwest conference decision.

A touchdown for each team in the third period settled the scoring and Baylor subs stopped Arkansas the remainder of the game.

Burk's passing was deadly, but it was his quarterbacking that routed Arkansas and preserved the Bears' record of never having lost to a Razorback club at Waco.

He blew the Arkansas defense open as he sent James Parker, Dudley Parker, Jerry Mangum, James Jeffrey and an assortment of other backs in a precision pattern of morale-shattering plays.

Arkansas played without the services of its great fullback, Leon (Muscles) Campbell.

Fred Williams recovered Jerry Mangum's fumbles on Baylor's 32-yard line in the opening minutes of play for Arkansas. In ten plays the Razorbacks had scored, Don Logue smashing over from the half-yard line.

The Bears burst loose in the second period, 12 plays covering 78 yards for one touchdown with Burk scoring from inside the one. Jeffrey, a few moments later, ran 45 yards for another touchdown and the very next time Baylor got the ball James Parker climaxed a 54-yard drive for a tally. The play before, Brother Dudley had gone over the goal but a penalty nullified this effort.

Arkansas came back for the start of the third quarter and went 81 yards for a touchdown, Logue's pass to Joe Dugan accounting for the last 62 yards.

Baylor matched the effort when Rupert Wright blocked Louie Schaufele's punt on the Arkansas 35-yard line. Mangum and a Burk to Ison pass moved the ball to the goal line and Burk crossed it on a line plunge.

Tarheels Take 28-13 Win From Gamecocks

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 8. (AP)—All-American Charlie Justice and the North Carolina Tar Heels were too much today for the South Carolina Gamecocks and walked off with a 28-13 Southern Conference victory.

Justice himself didn't score, but his running, passing and kicking left little to be desired. His deadly accurate passes to End Art Weiner led to the first three touchdowns. Weiner caught eight passes from Justice and Billy Hayes for 118 yards.

South Carolina surprised by holding the Tar Heels to a 7-7 halftime.

Justice and company really went to work after the intermission, and scored three times.

South Carolina ended the scoring with a pass play.

If opened to capacity, Texas oil wells would produce more oil in a day than the U. S. could use in a month.

BY CHOC HUTCHESON

Coach C. R. Pattison, the gent who oils the Lubbock High school football scoring machine, said Saturday that he was disappointed in Friday night's Lubbock-Vernon game.

Now don't go jumping to hasty conclusions. The Lubbock coach wasn't let down by the performance of his team. After all, a mentor whose crew runs up a 35-0 halftime lead can hardly do anything but smile and say, "I hope we can do it again next week."

This time it was the opposition that disappointed Pattison.

"I honestly expected more of Vernon," he said Saturday. "After all, Vernon had played Pampa to the limit only the week before. I wasn't trying to fool anyone when I said during the week that I thought we had a tough ball game on our hands. I really expected Vernon to give us trouble for at least two or three quarters, but it didn't turn out that way."

At the risk of being labeled a "moaner," Pattison added that he was preparing for an all-out battle with Pampa here next Friday night. Pampa has a big, well-conditioned team, he pointed out, and played highly-rated Wichita Falls to a near-standstill last week before going down, 14-6.

Asked whether he planned to "hold back" anything in preparation for the Oct. 21 game with Amarillo, Pattison emphatically answered, "No. We're playing our ball games as they come, and Pampa is next on the schedule. Besides, our boys haven't forgotten last year's game when we blew a 19-6 lead and lost, 26-19."

* * *

Discussing the heavy penalties assessed against the Westerners this season, Pattison said he had no complaint whatsoever against the officiating.

"The officials in all our games have done a fine job," he said. "Our boys are guilty of the infractions charged against them. However, it's not a case of 'dirty' playing, but simply of holding. Some of the players get a little over-anxious, and when they throw a block that doesn't stick they have a tendency to grab with their hands."

* * *

Westerner notes: Pampa was the last team to defeat Lubbock. Since then, the locals have compiled a six-game winning streak, with two at the tail end of the 1948 season and four more this year . . . Lubbock came through the Vernon game with no serious injuries . . . In the press box Friday night, an Odessa scout—after watching Vernon try unsuccessfully to dent the Westerner first-team defense—threw up his hands in a gesture of hoplessness and laughed, "Don't run to the right. Don't run to the left. Don't run up the middle. Don't pass. In fact, just DON'T PLAY 'EM!" . . . But the word from Odessa, which is substantiated by Friday night's Broncho win over Amarillo, is that Joe Coleman's team is one of the most improved in the state since the start of the campaign.

Cary Middlecoff, who appeared Friday in an exhibition golf match at Lubbock Country club, possesses one of the freest golf swings I've ever seen. The ex-dentist from Memphis is a personable fellow, and favorably impressed the gallery with his carefree, yet careful, style of play.

In case you wondered about the black head on Middlecoff's putter, there's a story behind that. After shooting a four-over-par 75 in the first round of this year's National Open, Cary took the putter home and painted it black, naming it "The Black Widow."

"When I'm not putting well," he explained, "I figure something is wrong with my putter or me—and it's easier to fix the putter." After the paint job, he grew deadly on the greens and went on to win the Open.

* * *

Some local fans were asking why Frank Stranahan is making this exhibition swing. As an amateur, Stranahan nets nothing from such a tour. And, as a gent who has more dollars than the Yankees have rooters (his father is head of the Champion spark-plug outfit), Frankie doesn't need the money, anyway.

Stranahan's own explanation of his presence on the exhibition circuit was that "I'm combining business with instruction. These exhibition matches give me a chance to call on automotive people for my dad's company, and playing with Cary isn't going to hurt anyone. After all, he's the best in the business right now."

* * *

Looks as though the "Hutcheson hex" will carry Brooklyn down to defeat. I picked the Dodgers to win in six games, and here the Yanks are beating Dem Bums like a Salvation Army drum. Ouch! . . . Second-guessing the managers seems to be quite fashionable these days, so I'll put in my oar and ask why Casey Stengel left "Un-steady Eddie" Lopat in there through a seven-hit Dodger inning . . . Before Saturday's loss to Oklahoma, Texas Coach Blair Cherry solemnly declared, "We don't aim to go all out in an effort to win. We have too many tough games ahead to shoot the works against Oklahoma." Now let's all sit down and have a good laugh on that one . . . In one of last week's columns, I commented that I'd like to meet McMurry's great halfback, Brad Rowland, so that I could learn if he can cook, too. By way of reply, the mail from Abilene brought a dispatch which stated, "You mentioned that you were curious about Brad's cooking ability. I'll bet you'll be surprised to know that he CAN do that, too—along with playing the piano by ear. Brad usually cooks Sunday night supper and enjoys it greatly. I can vouch for this because I'm Brad's girl friend!"

Huskies Bow To Oregon State

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 8. (INS)—A battling Oregon State college team came from behind to defeat favored University of Washington 7-3 in the Huskies' inaugural Pacific Coast conference game before 27,000 fans in Seattle today.

The underdog Beavers scored the game-winning touchdown in three minutes and 45 seconds of the fourth period following a pass interception by OCS tackle Don Zaronsinki on the Washington 40-yard line.

Two completed passes brought the Beavers to the Husky 10-yard line.

Quarterback Gene Morrow teamed with Carpenter to lead the Beaver attack with thrusts through the Husky line and ground-gaining passes.

The Huskies opened the scoring in the third quarter when Jim Rosenzweig kicked a field goal.

The 3-0 advantage was wiped out, however, a few minutes later when the Beavers hit pay dirt.

The stubborn Beavers battled the Huskies to a scoreless tie at halftime as they repelled two Washington drives that carried the ball inside the OSC 15-yard stripe.

A Husky attempt to score in the closing minutes of the first half was futile when Rosenzweig missed his first attempted place kick from the Beavers' 22-yard line.

Washington made 19 first downs and OSC eight.

Oklahoma Ags Bow To Missouri, 21-7

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 8. (INS)—The University of Missouri football team scored two touchdowns in the third quarter to break a halftime tie and whip the Oklahoma Aggies 21 to 7 today before 28,000 fans in Columbia.

Quarterback Phil Klein and Ricky Braznell paced the winners razzle-dazzle attack. Klein completed four of eight passes for 121 yards and Braznell carried the ball 170 yards in 18 attempts.

Kansas Jayhawks Rally To Drop George Washington, 21-14

LAWRENCE, Kas., Oct. 8. (AP)—The University of Kansas Jayhawks had to come back twice here today to eke out a hard earned 21 to 14 football victory over George Washington.

It was Kansas' first victory of the season.

Some 18,000 fans watched the Jayhawks under a hot autumn sun take a 14-7 halftime lead then see it fade in the third period under the pressure of a hard fighting Washington eleven.

But the Jayhawks were not to be denied.

WAKE FOREST UPSET

WAKE FOREST, N. C., Oct. 8. (AP) — After being outgained throughout the game, Georgetown scored a touchdown in the last two minutes of play today to upset Wake Forest, 12-6. A crowd of 6,000 saw the Deacons march up and down the field but fumble and otherwise throw away their scoring chances.

Soggy Field Slows Up Frogs' Air Attack

Berry's Bullet Aerial Sparks TCU To 13-6 Win Over Indiana

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 8. (AP)— Opportune passing and some deceptive running after a bullet aerial gave Texas Christian university a mud-splattered 13-6 football victory over Indiana's Hoosiers today.

Little Lindy Berry, TCU's nomination to fill the shoes of Sammy Baugh at the Fort Worth school, was responsible for a third period pass that broke Indiana's back.

Berry, slightly ill from tooth trouble at the start of the game, sat out most of the first period but his quarterback post was well filled by 19-year-old Dan Wilde. The Graham, Tex., substitute for the Wichita Falls wizard threw the pass that opened scoring in the first period.

Rain Soaks Gridiron

A half-hour long rain soaked the gridiron about an hour before game time and took away much of TCU's aerial threat. The ground was too soggy for the pass receivers to get a good footing, but 20,000 fans waited out the rain to watch the game.

Quarterback Nick Sebek, a three-letter man on Coach Clyde Smith's sophomore — studded Western Confernce squad, uncorked a jump pass to End Hugh Craton on a play that covered 34 yards for Indiana's only touchdown in the second quarter.

Both ground games were stalled in the slime of the puddle-filled field. Indiana, twice beaten before today's game, wound up with a rushing deficit of 12 yards. Coach Dutch Meyer's Horned Frogs — starting with a victory, a loss and a tie — picked up only 70 yards on the gound.

Frogs Open Scoring

The Southwestern Conference team, after its third victory without a defeat in its series with Indiana, scored quickly in the first period. A bad pass from center sailed over Indiana's Bobby Robertson as he stood back to punt on a fourth down. TCU smothered Robertson on his 18, and after a first down Wilde heaved to End Wilson George over the goal. Fullback Homer Ludiker added the extra point.

Indiana's score came midway in the second period when Sebek found Craton behind the TCU defense. The six-foot two-inch end pulled in Sebek's pass and romped untouched for the score. The attempted placement was wide.

The day's most spectacular play was TCU's third period score that finished Indiana's offensive threat.

POWERS SPARKS FAR WESTERNERS

Ohio State Battles To 13-13 Tie With USC's Trojan Team

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8. (INS).—The Buckeyes of Ohio State and the Trojans from the University of Southern California went at it furiously in a bone-crushing football battle today and when it was all over the final score read: Ohio State 13, USC 13.

The Big Ten pre-season co-favorite and the Pacific Coast Conference predicted Rose Bowl choice gave it everything they had before 62,877 limp spectators at massive Memorial Coliseum.

Ohio State supplied the razzle-dazzle that time after time drove the Buckeyes deep into Trojan territory. But except on two occasions the ponderous USC line held and Quarterback Jim Powers came through to kick the Far Westerners out of their hole.

Buckeyes Pile Up 407 Yards

Statistically the game was all Ohio State with the mid-Westerners piling up 407 yards from rushing and passing to a mere 194 for the Trojans.

On the ground, it was Ohio 343 to 101, while in the air the Trojans held a slight edge, 93 to 64.

Jim Hague's perfect placement made it 7-0 Ohio with but five minutes gone in the game.

The Trojans came back before the period ended, capitalizing on a Buckeye fumble which was recovered by End Harold Hatfield on the Ohio five. Three plays later Fullback Billy Martin boomed over. Frank Gifford, who has connected on 11 out of 11 previous conversion attempts, missed his first kick of the year and the score read 7 to 6 in favor of Ohio.

Both Lines Hold

That's the way it stood throughout the second quarter as first the Trojans and then the Buckeyes moved across the mid-field stripe, only to lose the ball before scoring.

Ohio State increased its lead when the Buckeyes drove 80 yards in 10 plays after the second-half kick-off. Krall, Jim Clark and Fred Morrison were the heroes of the drive as they stayed on the ground with devastating lunges through the Trojan forward wall.

Morrison tallied, taking a lateral from Clark and sprinting 48 yards down the sidelines. But Hague's extra point try was batted to the turf by Hatfield.

The Trojans wasted little time tieing the count as they took the ensuing kick-off on their own 37 and marched 63 yards in 10 plays for the score.

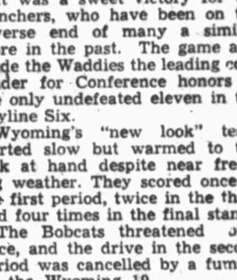

Martin was the battering ram in the USC offense, but Powers helped the cause along with two yardage-eating passes to End Bill Jessup and Halfback Johnny Fouch.

Martin ploughed over from the two for the score.

Reserve Halfback Leads Gophers To 21-7 Win Over Northwestern

Soph Dick Gregory Slows Up Wildcats

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 8 (INS) — Coach Bernie Bierman plucked a sophomore halfback off his bench of reserves and put him behind Minnesota's "thou-shalt-not pass" line to produce a 21 to 7 victory over Northwestern today.

A capacity crowd of 64,212 fans saw Dick Gregory of Billings, Mont., replace injured Billy Bye early in the second quarter and dart through Northwestern for touchdowns in the second and third quarters.

Minnesota's mighty line protected the Gophers' 14 to 0 halftime lead by halting every major thrust of the Wildcats. Northwestern was unable to cross mid-field until late in the third period.

The Golden Gophers sent Northwestern's Rose Bowl winners on the way to their second straight defeat immediately after the opening kickoff. Minnesota marched 70 yards in a dozen plays to score on Fullback Frank Kuzma's plunge from the one-foot line. End Gordon Soltau then kicked the first of three extra points.

Gregory's speed and trickery provided the offensive zip for Minnesota when Bye was carried from the field early in the second quarter with a groin injury. The 173-pound trackman spearheaded a 65-yard drive at the opening of the second period.

Gregory made runs of 25 and 13 yards in this sustained attack and threw an eight yard pass before crossing the goal line himself. In the third quarter, Gregory weaved through Northwestern for a 23-yard touchdown run. He was the day's leading ground-gainer with 123 yards in 12 attempts.

Northwestern scored in the final five minutes of the game. A pass interception led to Halfback Rich Athan's plunge into the end zone from the one-foot line.

Referee Lyle Clarno was knocked over and injured by a Northwestern ball carrier in the second period and the game was finished with three officials.

Wilson's Six-Man Gridders Wallop Guthrie Team, 74-6

GUTHRIE, Oct. 8. (Special) — Wilson's powerful six-man football team, scoring almost at will, rolled to an easy 74-6 victory over Guthrie Friday in a 4-B conference game.

Wilson used reserves through most of the game, with the lone Guthrie touchdown coming against the visitors' third string.

It was the third successive conference win for Wilson, which has scored 170 points to the opponents' 31.

Crowell's Wildcats Rack Up 27-13 Win Over New Castle

CROWELL, Oct. 8. (Special)— Crowell's Wildcats marked up a 27-13 win over the New Castle Bobcats here last night before a crowd of 1,000 people.

Coach Red Amonett's Wildcats were held to seven points in the first half but came back strong in the last two quarters. Ralph Todd, James Weathers and Carl Norman scored for the home team while Charles Blanton made both of the visitors touchdowns.

New Castle had four first downs and Crowell notched 11 firsts in all.

ILLINI ROLL UP FIRST WIN

Karras' Thrusts Lead Illinois To 20-14 Win Over Iowa Eleven

IOWA CITY, Oct. 8 (INS) — A pair of long thrusts carried out by capable John Karras was enough for erratic Illinois this afternoon.

The Illini, stymied every time but once when they drove inside Iowa's 20-yard line, huffed and puffed to a 20-14 Western Conference victory before 45,066 sweltering fans at Iowa City.

For Illinois, it was the first victory of the season after two ties, one of them in league competition. Iowa dropped its second fray and now holds a 1-1 conference record.

After a scoreless first quarter, Illinois found Iowa's line weakening on the left side and sent Karras rifling through for 34 yards and the score. Lou Levanti kicked the first of his two successful placement attempts.

Karras shattered a 7-7 halftime tie early in the third period by working the same play for a 63-yard touchdown jaunt.

Sam Piazza plunged a yard for Illinois' other marker in the fourth —the only time the Illini were able to ring the bell after moving inside the 20.

On three other occasions, Iowa's line held on the one-yard line, forcing Illinois to give up possession of the ball on downs.

Iowa tried manfully to break the seven-year jinx held by Illinois—and the Illini did its part by coming up with a couple of costly mistakes, both of them paying off in Hawkeye touchdowns.

A hand-off on a punt return by Illinois backfired in the second quarter when Dick Raklovits fumbled on the Illini 28. After Glenn Drahn shot a 20-yard pass to Don Commack, the latter shot through Illinois' line for three yards and the tying score a play later.

Bill Reichardt's first of two placement attempts was good.

Interference on an Iowa pass by the Illini on their 13 set up the second Hawk counter. Drahn flipped the necessary yardage to Jack Dittmer for the touchdown. With less than a minute remaining, Iowa recovered another Illinois fumble on the Hawks 33, but four straight passes by Drahn failed to connect.

Iowa State Stops Colorado, 13-6

BOULDER, Colo., Oct. 8. (INS)— Iowa State's Cyclones picked up a rugged third Big Seven Conference 13 to 6 win today on a wet, exasperating field over the University of Colorado Buffaloes at Boulder as the fans braved a drizzling rain.

The Iowans scored their two counters on solid 46 and 80-yard drives while the Buffs made their lone touchdown on a quick running attack early in the second half.

Sophomore Merwin Hodel led Colorado in its scoring attack, while Bill Chauncey, Bill Weeks and Ed Green carried the Cyclone burden.

Hard-running Chauncey spelled the difference between the two teams in the first half. He broke through a hole inside right tackle midway in the second period and ran 27 yards to goal. Joe Brubaker's conversion kick was good.

C. U. got a break late in the quarter when Sam Winningham recovered an Iowa State fumble on the Cyclone 24. Passes did the trick, but stalled at the goal.

Colorado pressed hard to open the second half with Harry Narcisian laying a first down from the 49 to the Iowa 35. Sophomores Hodel and Jerry Apuzzo took over with Apuzzo scoring from the five.

Late in the third period the Cyclones began their successful grind which carried them to the end zone from their own 20. Two passes, Weeks to Bob Angle, aided the march, and Weeks plunged the final four. Brubaker missed the conversion.

Colorado then initiated a sensational crush down the field, marked by the action of Narcisian and Hodel, but Don Ferguson stopped it cold with a pass interception on his own goal line.

TEXANS WIN EVENTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)— A near capacity crowd of 15,000 jammed Madison Square Garden for today's matinee rodeo. They saw two Texans triumph. They were Wallace Brooks, Sweetwater, Tex., bare back bronc; and James Biyum, Waxahachie, Tex., steer wrestling, 5 1/5 seconds.

California Beats Wisconsin, 35-20

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 8. (INS)— California's powerful Golden Bears whipped the Wisconsin football team 35 to 20 today in a bruising game before 44,000 fans at Camp Randall in Madison.

One-time Northwestern Coach Lynn Waldorf enjoyed a pleasant visit to the Western Conference for his team completely outclassed the Badgers by scoring in every period.

Wisconsin's fighting spirit alone created a 13 to 7 lead at the quarter. At halftime, however, California was ahead 14 to 13 and increased its margin to 28 to 20 by the end of the third period.

Lisle Blackbourne scored two touchdowns for the Badgers and Gene Evans crossed the goal for the other. Blackbourne kicked two extra points.

Five players participated in the California scoring parade. Jim Monanchino, Bob Celeri, Frank Brunk and Dan Begovich and Jim Cullom produced the points. Cullom kicked all five points after touchdown.

NEBRASKA WINS

MANHATTAN, Kas., Oct. 8. (AP) — Sophomore Halfback Ronald Clark wheeled back the opening kick off 100 yards as the Nebraska Cornhuskers defeated Kansas State's Wildcats 13-6 in a Big Seven Conference football game today.

Henderson Fight Ducats Selling

A brisk advance ticket sale has been reported for the Oct. 18 Bill Henderson-Manny Ortega fight card at Chapman fieldhouse.

Representatives of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post N. 2466, sponsor of the professional fight program, said Saturday that a number of ducats for the event already have been sold.

Tickets, priced at $3.50, $2.50 and $1.50, currently are on sale at the Hilton hotel, Hub clothiers, and City Club gym in Lubbock and at Talley's Barber shop in Levelland. Mail orders accompanied by check or money order are being accepted at City Club gym, 1313½ College avenue, Lubbock.

Profits from the fight card are to be divided equally between the Lubbock Goodfellows fund and Girlstown, U. S. A., VFW officials have announced.

Meanwhile, Henderson continued serious training preparations for the bout, in which he will be facing one of the toughest opponents of his 28-bout pro career. Ortega, a speedy and dangerous hitter, is one of the Southwest's top lightweights, and has beaten such ring notables as Manuel Ortiz, the present bantam champ, Jackie Callura and Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson.

The main event will be over the 10-round route.

In an eight-round semi-final, Heavyweight Gene James of Lubbock goes against Amarillo's Dickie Brown in a return engagement.

Leonard Duncan, Hale Center middleweight, will meet Dick Smith of Oklahoma City in a six-rounder.

Two other four-round bouts, yet to be matched, will round out the card.

Penn State Takes To Air For 32-14 Win Over Boston College

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 8. (AP)—Penn State went through the air for four of its five touchdowns today to score a surprise 32-14 victory over Boston College.

Bill Luther passed for two of the touchdowns, Vince O'Bara for another and the fourth came when Ed Hoover intercepted a pass.

Alert UCLA Bruins Gain 14-7 Victory Over Stanford Eleven

STANFORD STADIUM, PALO ALTO, Calif., Oct. 8 (INS) — The alert UCLA Bruins let Stanford take all the statistical yardage this afternoon but got enough yardage of their own when it counted for a 14-7 victory.

It was the third Pacific Coast Conference win for the Bruins, whose sweet running tailback Ernie Johnson scored both of the UCLA touchdowns on end sweeps, the first for 12 yards in the first quarter and the second for 20 yards in the final period.

Stanford's sophomore Quarterback Gary Kerkorian saved the Indians from a whitewash when he scored from one yard out as the clock showed one minute and twenty seconds to play.

Kerkorian set up the Stanford score on his own doing, touching off the belated scoring drive from his own 40-yard line with an 11 yard run to the Bruin 49. Then he pitched two sweet passes to Rupe Andrews, one for ten yards, the other for 30, to place the ball on the Bruin 9-yard line.

Andrews sped through tackle for seven yards. Fullback Bill Deyoung added one at the same spot and then Kerkorian took it over. He also booted the extra point.

Bob Watson toed the points after the UCLA touchdowns, the first of which was set up on a Stanford fumble recovered by Bruin End Bob Wilkinson on the Indian 13-yard line. Johnson took it over from this spot.

The second Bruin score late in the fourth period was made possible by the alert UCLA defensive play which was apparent throughout the game. Ray Nagel snared one of Kerkorian's tosses on the Stanford 38 and raced to the 25 before being hauled down. In two line plunges, Fullback Cliff Schroeder moved it to the 20 and then the fleet-footed Johnson again turned Stanford's left end for 20 yards and the second score.

Navy's Improved Middies Defeat Favored Duke Grid Squad, 28-14

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 8. (INS) —Navy's improved Middies stormed from behind today to defeat favored Duke, 28 to 14, and rack up their second victory in a row.

The Sailors, with Bobby Zastrow passing for three scores, tied the game at 14-all in the third period and crushed the Blue Devils with two more in the last quarter.

Navy evened it on Zastrow's 19-yard pass to Captain Phil Ryan after a 68-yard drive. But Duke immediately shoved off on a 73-yard offensive that ended with Jack Mounie plunging over from the one.

After the half, Zastrow and Bill Wilson engineered a 64-yard play an Zastrow's 13-yard aerial and a 51-yard run by Wilson.

The winning touchdown came early in the last quarter when Zastrow passed from the Duke 36 to Frankie Hauff, who lateraled to Bill Powers on the 30. Powers went all the way from there.

Oregon Tramples Cougar Eleven

PULLMAN, Wash., Oct. 8. (INS) —Oregon's speedy ground attack and stifling defense carved out a 21 to 0 victory over Washington State in a Coast Conference football game at Pullman today.

The Webfeet made most of their yardage on the ground, but their first touchdown came on a 19-yard pass play from Quarterback Earl Stelle to End Darrell Robinson with two minutes gone in the second quarter. Chet Daniels kicked the extra point.

Daniels tried a field goal from the W. S. C. 19-yard line with eight minutes gone in the third quarter, but the attempt fell short.

Oregon scored twice in the fourth quarter. With one minute gone in the period, Fullback Bob Sanders tore through the W. S. C. line from 11 yards out for one counter and eight minutes later he carried the ball over from one yard out. Daniels kicked the extra points.

LSU Wallops Texas Aggies, 34-0

Van Buren Is Big Gun For Bengals

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 8. (AP)—Louisiana State brushed aside three years of gridiron gloom here tonight and walloped Texas A & M 34 - 0 on passes, plunges and pure class.

The Aggies were bowled over by the rampaging Bengals, apparently determined this season to regain the football glory they haven't known since 1946. The Texans, however, never quit trying and, in the last play, almost scored on a pass that traveled 41 yards to the Tiger 10.

The intersectional fray was witnessed by about 30,000, most of them LSU partisans thirsting for Tiger touchdowns.

LSU Fullback Ebert Van Buren, like his brother, professional footballer Steven Van Buren, battered through the line for healthy gains. Precision blocking in the line and down field gave him plenty of room to stretch his legs.

Playing his heart out for the outclassed Cadets was little Glenn Lippman, a scat halfback who whizzed through the Bengals on sloping punt returns and sweeps. Aggie defensive star was big Jim Flowers, a tower behind the line.

Louisiana State scored in every period. Touchdowns came on three passes, a 62-yard run by Van Buren and a two-yard sneak by Quarterback Carroll Griffith. Griffith placekicked all but one extra point. Cadet Quarterback Don Nicholas was able to connect with only a few tosses in the gumbo-like field, churned up after being muddied by a pre-game rain. He was rushed throughout by the big Bengal forwards.

The Aggie ground attack likewise was battered to a standstill by the LSU line. Best ground gainer for the Cadets was Fullback Bob Smith, but he couldn't hold the ball several times and lost it on fumbles.

Raiders Beat Tulsa

Steveson Intercepts

Tech's first score came with suddenness. Steveson intercepted a pass and ran it back to the Tulsa 35. Three plays later, Rathbone passed to Hatch and the field judge called interference on the Tulsa three. An offside penalty, followed by a backfield in motion penalty moved the ball back to the 13 and Hawkins was smothered on a pass play. Hawkins hit Hatch, who went to the five and Conley carried to the three.

There Tulsa took over on downs when the Raiders couldn't score. On the first play, Barry attempted to run out of the end zone and was levelled by Cavazos.

Tulsa kicked off and Stuver returned from the Tech 35 to the Tulsa 47. Thompson crashed over left tackle to the Tulsa 42 and on the next play Hatch took another pass from Hawkins, after getting behind Halfback S. J. Whitman, and went on to score.

Late in the fourth quarter, Stuver put Tulsa deep in its own territory with a kick that went to the Hurricane 14. On the first play, Dickerson's pass was intercepted by Hawkins on the 39 and returned to the 22. The Raiders, aided by another Hawkins to Hatch pass, moved to the Tulsa six and a first down, but could punch no farther than the two-yard line.

The Hurricane took over, but instead of kicking out of danger, Graves tried a pass. The ball, partially blocked by Tech tacklers, popped into Price's arms for the second touchdown. Hatch converted and the game virtually was over.

Booker T. Washington Suffers 350 Yards In Game Penalties

HOBBS, N. M., Oct. 8. (AP)—Is a total of 350 yards in penalties a new record?

Negro members of the Booker T. Washington High school football team were wondering about that today after a three-hour game last night with Odessa, Tex., high school.

The local team was penalized that much yardage in the game.

STEPHENS VOTES WET

BRECKENRIDGE, Oct. 8. (AP)—Culminating one of the hottest campaigns ever staged in Stephens county on the beer issue, the drys again went down to defeat today by an unofficial count of 1890 to 1191 votes with less than 100 votes uncounted.

SITKO MAKES THREE TOUCHDOWNS

Notre Dame Racks Up 35-12 Victory Over Purdue Team

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 8. (AP) Notre Dame ran up a five-touchdown lead over Purdue's football team today and broke the elastic Western Conference club, 35-12.

It was practically the same Purdue team that held Notre Dame to a one-point victory last year, but its two-touchdown rally in the final period was only a gallant gesture.

Notre Dame's wealth of fleet backs and its superior blocking had the game in full control after an early Purdue drive to the Irish seven yard mark.

Emil (seven-yard) Sitko, Notre Dame's stubby fullback, ran over the first three Irish touchdowns. He got the first quarter's only score with a 41 yard dash and added the other two in the second period with short plunges.

Notre Dame's lineup was sprinkled liberally with reserves in the final quarter when Purdue cut its losing margin from five touchdowns to three.

An all-time record crowd of 52,000 for enlarged Ross-Ade stadium saw long runs galore — and practically no passing. Notre Dame's Bob Williams tried only four passes and completed but one. Purdue backs took to the air 11 times, completed two passes and had four intercepted.

Purdue backs gained 316 yards on the ground to Notre Dame's 384, but Purdue was hurt by the Irish pass interceptions and two ball losses on fumbles.

Muggy heat at 83 degrees had the players sopping wet, but this only speeded them up.

A couple of dashes set up Purdue's two late touchdowns. Quarterback Bob Hartman passed to Mike Maccioli in the flat and the sophomore sprinter traveled 59 yards before he was knocked out of bounds on the Irish four. Big John Kerestes scored three plays later.

Bill Skowron set up Harry Szulborski's touchdown with a 61 yard dash that was pure desperation. Williams had punted out out of bounds on the Purdue two. Skowron dropped to punt, couldn't and ran instead. Szulborski went 14 yards for the game's final tally.

Notre Dame was penalized twice for illegal use of hands on offense — the same penalty that brought an outburst from Coach Frank Leahy after it was imposed repeatedly against the Irish last week at Washington.

The first of the 15 yard penalties today only made the Irish fighting mad. Thrown back to their four by the penalty, they scored a touchdown in just two plays. Frank Spannaxl went 55 yards around right end and Stiko galloped the rest of the way.

The second of the official setbacks possibly cost Notre Dame a touchdown in the first quarter. It threw the Irish back to Purdue's 38 yard line and they couldn't make a first down. William's punt at that point preceded Skowron's 61 yard run.

WT-NM League. Remember, please, that this is a paper dream and that it hasn't gone through — yet. But we have heard, from a definitely well-informed source, that the present owners of the Lamesa club have no desire to sink the large sum needed into a new ball park, nor to meet the additional financial requirements made necessary by Class B classification. If that is the case and Lamesa dropped out of the WT-NM circuit, they'd still be able to play in the Longhorn and remain Class C. They wouldn't have the pleasure of licking Lubbock, but they'd still have Abilene to take on, along with other natural rivalries. A lot can happen this winter and it might not go through, but it's at least worth thinking over.

State Revenue Fund Shows Sharp Decline

AUSTIN, Oct. 8 (AP) — The state's general revenue fund hit the skids in September, the first month of the new fiscal year, decreasing more than 8½ million dollars.

The general fund may be used up by the end of 1950 if the 51st legislature does not provide new sources of revenue.

State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert reported the general revenue fund was cut from $85,085,033 to $76,566,436.

The $8,518,597 reduction was largely the result of increased appropriations which went into effect for all branches of state government on Sept. 1.

The cost of running the state in September was $47,341,238 compared with $43,485,761 for the same month last year.

Cash receipts for September totaled $33,317,992 compared with $33,144,924 in September a year ago.

VMI LOSES GAME

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Oct. 8. (AP)—William and Mary scored in almost every conceivable fashion in routing Virginia Military Institute's football team 54 to 6.

McMurry Is Downed By Mississippi Team

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Oct. 8 (AP)—Mississippi Southern hit its stride tonight to swarm over an outmanned band of McMurry college Indians from Abilene, Texas, 55-32 before a homecoming crowd of about 10,000.

On Southern's second play Halfback (Bubber) Phillips romped 47 yards for a touchdown.

With their brilliant Halfback Brad Rowland passing 29 yards to End Les Cowan for one score and Cowan bulling five on an end around for another, the Indians came back to take a 13-7 lead in the quarter.

A 50 yard pass from Quarterback Tom LeGros to End Cliff Coggin set up the tieing Southern touchdown, Fullback Jim Owens crashing over.

The Southerners wrapped it up with three more tallies before the half.

Phillips passed to Coggin for another six points in the third. Rowland raced 54 yards around end for an Indian touchdown before a fumble set up a one-yard scoring punch by Southern's Spruiell.

A 59 yard dash by Rowland pulled it up to 48-25 at the end of the third quarter.

Each team added a final touchdown in the last period. Bobby Johnson scoring from the one for McMurry and LeGros passing 13 yards to End Razor Sharpe for Southern.

Old Spanish Documents May Aid Texas' Tidelands Fight

SEVILLA, Spain, Oct. 8. (AP) — Centuries-old Spanish documents may prove Texas and not the U.S. government is entitled to tidelands oil rights in the Gulf of Mexico, a congressman said today.

Rep. W. R. Poage of Texas said he had engaged special investigators to search the dusty India archives here for material aiding his state in its oil controversy with the federal government.

The investigators hope to find documents that will prove the Spaniards originally fixed Texas' jurisdiction in the Gulf of Mexico at "three Spanish leagues (10½ miles) seaward."

The documents have become important centuries later, Poage said, because Texas companies have found oil beneath Gulf waters, but the federal government claims it belongs to the United States. The government claim is based on the contention all territorial waters come under its jurisdiction.

Poage said, however, that when Texas joined the federal union in 1845 the federal government agreed not to claim any property belonging to the then Republic of Texas.

The India archives house a fabulous collection of original source material pertaining to Spanish activities in the new world from the time of Columbus' first voyage.

Mayes Sparks Vanderbilt To 28-27 Win Over Mississippi

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8. (AP)—Sophomore Cannon Mayes' unerring toe gave Vanderbilt a 28-27 victory over underdog Mississippi in a bruising, free-scoring Southeastern Conference football game here today.

The two evenly matched gridiron machines racked up four touchdowns each, but Mayes converted each extra point after touchdown with a perfect kick. Don Blanchard missed the first kick for Mississippi.

Texas Western Wins Tussle

CANYON, Oct. 8. (AP)— Texas Western of El Paso won its fourth straight grid battle here tonight with a 34-7 defeat of West Texas State.

It was Texas Westerns first Border Conference game, and West Texas State's second Conference loss.

Bill Thesak of Texas Western went over from the four yard line after a 46-yard march downfield. Jim Davis kicked the point.

George Frazer went over from the two yard marker. Thesak bucked over from the one, and Cordell McBraw scored from the eight yard line. Davis kicked two and missed one extra point.

Bob Steele scored from the one yard line and Davis converted. West Texas State's score came when Gene Mayfield went over from the two yard line on a quarter back sneak. Junior Melton added the extra point.

Kentucky Wildcats Drop Georgia, 25-0

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 8. (AP)—Georgia forgot a football lesson it should have mastered two years ago and its fatal blunder tonight opened the flood gates for a 25-0 rout at the hands of Kentucky before a homecoming crowd of 36,000.

The defending Southeastern Conference champions erred in letting Emery Clark squeeze through a narrow gap near midfield with a Georgia punt and the sophomore safety man outdistanced the field for 60 yards and the first score.

It was just two years ago on the same field that Don Phelps returned a punt for the same distance and a touchdown against Georgia to open the way for a stunning 26-0 upset for Kentucky.

Aside from Clark's explosive run the Wildcats weren't too potent of offense the first two quarters but they struck with lightning fury at the opening of the third frame and amassed a 25-0 total before the final round started.

RANGER PIONEER CLAIMED

RANGER, Oct. 8. (AP)—C. E. May, sr., 69, who helped write Ranger's city charter, died today. He had been a resident and businessman in Ranger more than 50 years. At his death he was a real estate and insurance agent. Earlier he had been a banker and druggist.

Rote, Glass, Carswell Lead Winners

Rice's Owls Trample New Mexico, 55 To 0

HOUSTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — Rice's Owls ran inexperienced New Mexico ragged with quick opening plays tonight and walked off with an easy 55 to 0 victory over the Border Conference team.

Four of the eight touchdowns came as Rice forwards opened gaping holes in the center of the New Mexico line to permit speedy backs to rush through for scoring runs of 19, 48, 39 and 8 yards.

Three Owl quarterbacks—Tobin Rote, Vernon Glass and Harmon Carswell — tossed touchdown passes good for 34, 50 and 8 yards. Fullback Bobby Lantrip plunged over from the 2 for the other marker after Halfback Rex Proctor had returned a punt 62 yards.

Lantrip and Van Ballard each scored two Rice touchdowns. In addition to his line plunge, Lantrip made the 18-yard quick opener run.

Ballard took a 34-yard scoring pass from Glass and accomplished the 48-yard scamper.

Sonny Wyatt scored from 19 yards out in a 54-yard drive, while Rote's 50-yard scoring toss was to reserve End Billy Taylor. End Frank Allen took the 8 yard pass from Carswell.

Froggie Williams made good on five of six extra point kicks, while Billy Burkhalter and Gerald Weatherly kicked one each.

Rice had 14 first downs to New Mexico's 10 and ran up 285 yards rushing and 162 through the air.

Auburn Eleven Gains 14-14 Tie With Florida Gridders

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 8. (AP) — Auburn's sophomore-studded football crew, spearheaded by veteran Travis Tidwell, outplayed a favored Florida squad to gain a thrilling 14-14 tie here today.

Only 11,750 paying customers saw the two long-standing Southeastern Conference foes match reckless running and passing attacks.

Both elevens scored once in each of the two periods.

PENN BEATS PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 8. (AP)—Two extra points place kicked by Herb Agocs gave Pennsylvania a 14-13 victory over a keyed-up Princeton football team today.

Tempe Romps Over Flagstaff

TEMPE, Ariz., Oct. 8. (AP)—Arizona State at Tempe exploded around, through and over Arizona State at Flagstaff here tonight, turning a traditional rivalry into a 62-6 rout.

For 20 minutes the Tempe varsity roared through the Lumberjacks. Coach Eddie Doherty then sent in reserves to finish the game.

At the half the home club led 48-0.

East Texas Baptist Battles To 0-0 Tie With Daniel Baker

BROWNWOOD, Oct. 8. (AP) — East Texas Baptist college of Marshall and Daniel Baker football teams battled to a 0-0 tie here tonight.

The nearest scoring threat was East Texas' drive to the Daniel Baker three yard line in the third period. But the ball was lost on downs.

Daniel Baker never threatened.

Generals Lose To Georgia Tech

ATLANTA, Oct. 8. (AP)— Junior size Jimmy Jordan turned a peaceful Washington and Lee-Georgia Tech football game into a flashing, flank attack today as Tech's light legion won, 36-0.

Except for the moments when the 145-pound Jordan was sweeping the flanks of the Virginia Generals, the game was flat and filled with fumbles.

He scored two touchdowns on long scoots along Washington and Lee flanks and set up a third touchdown.

The last five minutes finished the ruin of W. and L. Tech Tackle Clay Matthaws blocked a kick. W. and L's Charlie Holt fell on the ball for a safety.

Colorado Gets Over $65,000 From Horse And Dog Tracks

DENVER, Oct. 8. (INS) — The State of Colorado netted more than $65,000 in revenue from first-year operations of legalized horse and dog tracks in the state.

The State Racing Commission said the figure reached exactly $670,323, from license fees and five per cent of all money wagered at pari-mutuel windows at the three horse and three dog tracks.

Twelve State Teams Undefeated

Westerners Rate With Top Squads

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

A baker's dozen answered "here" today when the roll was called for undefeated, untied teams in Texas schoolboy football.

Five took the count last night including Amarillo's Golden Sandies, who went down before Odessa 34-21 in an upset.

Wichita Falls trimmed Pampa, 14-6, in another top test. This kicked Pampa out of the unbeaten, untied list.

Today the undefeated, untied are: Wichita Falls, Highland Park (Dallas), Galveston, Marshall, Corsicana, Henderson, Lubbock, Port Arthur, Lamesa, Ysleta, Grand Prairie and Galena Park.

Undefeated but tied are John Reagan (Houston), Baytown and Lamar. Regan was supposed to have played Austin last night but the game was postponed due to rain. Galena Park also was to have met Bowie (El Paso) but that contest also was postponed.

Highland Park, one of two teams unbeaten, untied and unscored on, lost the latter distinction in defeating Waco 13-7. Galveston, the other team without its goal line crossed, stayed in the groove. Galveston beat South Park of Beaumont 19-0.

Ropesville Eagles Cop 28-0 4-B Game Over Cooper Squad

COOPER, Oct. 8. (Special) — Tailback Kenneth Means was the big difference here last night as Ropesville's Eagles scored a 28-0 victory over the Cooper Pirates in a District 4-B game.

It was the third straight district win for Coach Bryan Boatmun's Eagles, who have not yet yielded a score in conference competition.

A crowd of 750 fans saw Means open the Ropesville scoring with an 81-yard touchdown dash in the first quarter.

In the second period, Means returned a punt 71 yards to the Pirate four-yard stripe, then went over for a touchdown on the next play.

Means also tallied two fourth-quarter counters, from three and six yards out, respectively.

Glenn Hewlett ran across three extra points, with Condray adding the other.

Cooper, although failing to dent the scoring column, led in first downs, 9-5. Bobby Benson gained 57 yards rushing and Bobby Dodd completed six of 12 passes for 66 yards.

Henrich slashed a ground single past Hodges sending Rizzuto to third.

Joe Hatten, a lefthander, started warming up in the Dodger bullpen.

Berra grounded to Miksis and Rizzuto was caught in a rundown between third and home. Rizzuto ran out of the baseline trying to evade a tag by Campanella and was ruled out by third base Umpire Art Pasarella. When Henrich who had reached second on the play, strayed too far off the base Campanella whipped him out with a fine throw to Robinson who made the tag to complete a double play. Berra was safe at first on the fielder's choice.

DiMaggio walked.

Newcombe pitched three straight balls to Brown bringing Coach Clyde Sukeforth out of the Dodger dugout for a conference.

Newcombe remained in the box and threw a fourth ball to Brown to load the bases.

Woodling went out on a vicious liner to Snider in dead center.

FIRST INNING DODGERS

Miksis topped Lopat's first pitch a few feet in front of the plate and was thrown out, Berra to Henrich with Reese holding second.

Snider grounded out, Brown to Henrich, Reese holding second.

Rizzuto made a scintillating stop of Robinson's hard grounder near second base and threw to Henrich fo rthe putout.

SECOND INNING YANKEES

Newcombe speared Mapes' drive back to the box and tossed him out easily at first.

Coleman fouled to Campanella.

Lopat filed to Snider.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING DODGERS

Woodling came in for Hodges' looping fly.

Olmo also filed to Woodling.

Lopat picked up Campanella's trickler down the first base line and easily threw him out at first.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING YANKEES

Rizzuto slapped a one-bouncer down to Miksis who tossed him out.

Hodges made a nice gloved-hand stop of Henrich's hard grounder and tossed to Newcombe who covered first to get Tommy by a step.

Berra filed to Hermanski who hauled in his drive near the scoreboard in right-center.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING DODGERS

Hermanski went down swinging.

Newcombe went out the same way.

Reese went out on a high pop to Henrich between the mound and first base.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH INNING YANKEES

FOURTH INNING DODGERS

Miksis was called out on strikes.

Snider raised a high fly to Mapes.

Robinson walked on four pitches to become the first Dodger base runner since lead-off man Reese in the first inning.

Hodges went down swinging, missing an outside curve for a third strike.

FIFTH INNING YANKEES

Berra singled past Hodges sending Henrich to second. When Miksis let Hermanski's throw-in from right field roll through his legs, the runners advanced a base on the error.

DiMaggio was purposely passed to load the bases, and righthanders Jack Banta and Carl Erskine began to warm up feverishly in the Dodger bullpen.

While making his fourth pitch to Brown, a called ball, Hatten sprawled on all fours. Brown rifled a three-bagger down the right field line scoring Henrich, Berra and DiMaggio to put the Yankees ahead 6-0.

Woodling flied to Snider in short center and Brown was forced to stay put at third.

Hermanski came in fast for Bauer's bid for a Texas leaguer and caught the ball on the run.

His throw to the plate was far off his mark but Brown still held third.

Three runs, two hits, one error, one left.

FIFTH INNING DODGERS

Olmo fouled to Berra right at home plate.

SIXTH INNING YANKEES

SIXTH INNING DODGERS

Reese got a single when DiMaggio fell trying to get his looping fly in short center.

Bill Cox, a righthanded batter, went in to hit for Miksis.

Cox topped a roller to the left of the mound and was credited with a single when Lopat failed to come up with the ball. Reese stopped at second.

Snider grounded to Rizzuto who stepped on second forcing Cox and threw to first to complete a double play as Reese moved to third.

Olmo singled to center scoring Robinson and sending Hodges to third.

Campanella lined Lopat's first pitch over Rizzuto's head for a single scoring Hodges and sending Olmo to second.

Hermanski lined a single over Henrich's head scoring Olmo and sending Campanella to third.

Reynolds replaced Lopat for the Yankees.

Jorgensen was called out on strikes as Reynolds made only three pitches.

SEVENTH INNING YANKEES

Billy Cox replaced Miksis at third base.

DiMaggio rolled out, Robinson to Hodges.

Robinson also threw out Brown.

Woodling also grounded out to Robinson to enable the Dodger second baseman to equal the World Series' record for a second baseman making three assists in an inning.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SEVENTH INNING DODGERS

Cox filed to DiMaggio.

Snider went down swinging.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING YANKEES

Reese scooped up Bauer's bouncer near second base and threw him out.

Coleman flied to Hermanski in short right.

Reynolds fouled to Campanella behind the plate.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING DODGERS

Robinson bounced out, Brown to Henrich.

Hodges sent a hot smash on the ground to Rizzuto who threw him out.

Olmo was out on strikes.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NINTH INNING YANKEES

Rizzuto walked on four pitches.

Henrich singled past Hodges sending Rizzuto to third.

Righthander Ralph Branca and southpaw Minner began warming up for the Dodgers.

On Banta's second pitch to Berra, Rizzuto was nipped off third on a lightning peg by Campanella to Cox.

DiMaggio fanned.

NINTH INNING DODGERS

Hermanski struck out.

Dick Whitman, a lefthanded batter, went in to hit for Banta.

Whitman went down swinging.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Howard Payne Comes From Behind To Defeat Southwest Texas State

SAN MARCOS, Oct. 8. (AP) — Howard Payne college of the Texas Conference came from behind in the fourth quarter here tonight to defeat Southwest Texas State of the Lone Star loop, 6-3.

The first three quarters were slow and scoreless due to a muddy field.

Howard Payne came back to score when Charles (Whizzer) White grabbed one of Mabe's punts on his 28 and ran 72 yards. Charles Olsen missed the point.

Getz, Fenton In Main Event

In bringing Al Getz and Rod Fenton together Wednesday night in the main wrestling event, Sled Allen is giving the fans a match often requested but which up to now has been impossible to line up.

This match should settle several arguments among fans as to who is the better man. Both Fenton and Getz have recently returned to the local territory and both are in great shape and going strong.

In the semi-final event Pat O'Dowdy has drawn Herb Parks, another grappler who was breaking into the game in the 1930's and has wrestled here several times. In the last 15 years Parks has stacked up lots of experience in meeting all comers in this country and abroad. A Canadian, Parks spends most of his time in that area.

Parks differs from O'Dowdy inasmuch as he likes the clean and scientific side of the game, and if possible, will be using that type against O'Dowdy this week.

Bill Brooks, who lost a tough one to Pat O'Dowdy last Wednesday was not in a good humor when he left the arena after the matches and can be depended on to give Dory Detton a rough time in the 20-minute preliminary.

Detton is well-known and needs no introduction among local fans. He will be hard-pressed to defeat the rugged Brooks, who has displayed some fine wrestling tricks since coming to this part of the country.

Matches start at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday and tickets may be bought in advance at the arena from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. that day.

Danny Gardella Drops Suit Against Organized Baseball

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP) — The last pending legal threat against organized baseball was removed last night when Danny Gardella announced he was dropping his $300,000 suit to return to the game as a member of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The pint-sized wartime outfielder of the New York Giants, who hauled baseball into the courts after he was banished for jumping to the Mexican league, made the announcement through his attorneys at the World Series press headquarters.

A Greater S & Q

YES . . . like a dream come true, our new store will serve the needs of the Lubbock area better, more completely and with greater shopping comfort for our friends. Increased volume has made it necessary that we e-x-p-a-n-d! We've got growing pains and need room! So we're planning and constructing the finest store for men and boys in this part of the country.

ADDING a Downstairs Store which will be a completee Men's Store within itself. We are adding this Downstairs Store to enable us to have large assortments in additional price ranges we would not otherwise have room for. In this Air-conditioned Downstairs Store you will find all the departments for Men represented . . . Hats . . . Shoes . . . Clothing . . . Furnishings and Work Clothing. By having this additional Downstairs Store we will be able to offer you even GREATER VALUES than we have in the past.

HERE'S what we're doing. Taking over additional space to the tune of over four times our present size . . . Installing modern, up-to-the-minute fixtures that will make your shopping a pleasure. Enlarging every department so that you'll always be able to find the biggest selections, the newest of everything here in quantity. Adding the most efficient air-conditioning system available . . . you'll be cool in summer and comfortable in winter despite the weather.

WE HAVE strong faith in the long-range growth and long-range prosperity of Lubbock. And we feel certain that, as the years go by, you will continue to think of S and Q as this city's largest and finest store for men and boys. We dedicate this new institution to YOU entirely . . . and to serving YOU! We will continue to add new ideas and improvements as they develop . . . to maintain our prestige in this community.

● We Built the FIRST Store
● YOU Built the Second

HOW TO CUT MONTHLY PAYMENTS IN HALF

Point 1: Add up all your bills.
2. Total monthly payments they require.
3. THEN ask us to show you how a Pacific Finance loan can often cut those payments by as much as 50 per cent. Come in tomorrow and get the details.

ONE PAYMENT COVERS EVERYTHING

RE-PAYMENT EXAMPLES

Cash to You	12 Mo. Payments	15 Mo. Payments
$100	$ 9.64
$200	$18.28	$16.20
$500	$46.19	$39.83
$700	$67.46	$54.94
$1000	$96.37	$78.05

Other amounts in proportion

Above payments include insurance which pays the payments in case of sickness or accident or the entire balance in case of death. To apply phone or come in. Information gladly given.

READ ABOUT BEAUTIFUL COLORADO—THE FISHERMAN'S AND HUNTER'S PARADISE—AND READ THE FOLLOWING LETTERS TO BACK UP WHAT I AM TELLING YOU ABOUT.

This is the best summer vegetable country in the United States, and one of the best wheat, barley and oats countries; the best cattle, hogs, poultry, and sheep country. It is wonderful country in which to raise Timothy Blue Grass and Clover, strawberries, and raspberries.

The farmers are making their big money and the biggest yield in the United States on potatoes, which are the best quality. (They can be kept in cellars for as long as eight months.) They make the biggest money on an average on head lettuce, which is now making them from $800 to $1,500 per acre. Several of them have told me that it is the best country in which to raise cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower and carrots, and they make the most money. The climatic conditions are exactly right for these vegetables. This is one of the healthiest and best climates in the United States. The land is cheap because it is undeveloped.

The first strike of land I ever sold in my life was 960 acres, located near Godley in Johnson County, a small area overlooking, and owned in large tracts. I sold this tract to Monroe Yates for $21,000, fairly well improved. In ten months from the time he bought it, he was offered $45,000, cash. I doubled the land in this entire territory in less than twelve months.

In the summer of 1906 I sold the first three tracts, located near Corpus Christi. One tract I sold at $12.50; another tract, I sold at $13.00; and one tract of 400 acres I sold for $20.00. The men who bought this 400 acre tract were Allen and Nelson, Grandview, Texas. After they bought it, everyone they talked to, knocked the deal. These tracts were adjoining the little town of Corpus Christi of 4,500 people at that time. They sold the first 200 acres in 1910 at $200 per acre. They sold the last 100 acres in 1912 for $1,000 per acre, which is fifty times what they paid for it, and they didn't spend a dime improving it. The George H. Paul Land Company bought it for a sub-division, and they made plenty of money. Corpus Christi today has approximately 150,000 people, and is growing rapidly. So, you see, the "Old Timers" didn't realize what they had. I predicted that Corpus Christi would make a big city.

I sold a large amount of land in Nueces County for $20 to $60 per acre. Now the land sells in this territory from $200 to $1,000 per acre.

The first tract of land I sold located near Harlingen was twelve acres within a block of the school building. I sold this to Mr. Hargill for $175 per acre. He sold this land in less than ten months at $800 per acre without having to pay commission. There are a great number of people who have bought land from me near Harlingen, and who doubled their money five to ten times within ten years. Where they bought, close to Harlingen, is now the metropolitan area of Harlingen, which has a population of over 35,000 today. I spent over $100,000 for newspaper advertising and distributed 20,000 booklets. I used to run numbers of special trains to Harlingen, advertising and selling to influence people out of South and North Texas and Oklahoma, to put all of South Texas on the map, especially from Whorton to Brownfield. I have doubled the price of land the last few years near Balisville, Uvalde, Crystal City, Eagle Pass an average of over three times. I have sold a lot of land on the Plains in various parts from Muleshoe, Perryton, Dumas, Hartley and Dalhart, and the highest priced land I sold did not exceed $40 per acre, located in the proven shallow water belt, one of which was the Warner tract, east and northeast of Muleshoe. I have sold lots of land in various parts of the plains including Spearman and Perryton at $15 to $25 per acre. The $20 to $25 per acre was for land in cultivation with the necessary housing and plenty of stock water.

Pardon me for telling you these things, but I thought you should know for your own financial benefit. I have already doubled the price of land in the Eastern part of the famous San Luis Valley more than twice during the past 90 days. This entire country is now proven to be land with plenty of water at a shallow depth. The best farmers near San Luis, Santa Cacis, Blanco, and Ft. Garland, who live on their land, do not want to sell, as they are making too much money and are well established. Four of the most successful farmers in this territory are of German descent, and they tell me that they will recommend my land at $200 per acre to people in Iowa and adjoining states, where I put it in cultivation, under irrigation, with the necessary levelling, and one 2,000 gallon a minute well on each half section. $35 per acre will do that. If I were charging $50 per acre now, it wouldn't be above the market, for the best land in this territory has jumped high compared to what it was, since I commenced to operate this territory, and since we have all the proven shallow water district.

I have had some wealthy men buy up the best bargains for me to re-sell for them, and also an Oil Company from Denver has been buying up the best bargains. I have been advertising in the Denver Post, as well as five papers in Texas. Therefore, if you expect to buy any land for less than $50 per acre, you will have to get it not later than by Oct. 1, provided there is no alkili and it is first class land that is level and the water is not to close to the top of the ground.

I am going to put this country on the map on a gigantic scale. I expect to leave in about ten days to go to bringing farmers from Iowa. I will sell them at $200 per acre under cultivation and irrigation. I made a deal with a local man to put this land in cultivation and under irrigation and to build a nice club house so that we can have a place to keep the prospects. The people in this territory are lucky to have a chance to buy such good bargains from me.

If you don't believe the men who wrote the letters which are presented below, just write to Mr. Zackius, Vice President of the Alamosa National Bank, Alamosa, Colorado.

I will not sell any of the large tracts myself or other parties by advertising after Saturday of this week for less than $40 per acre, and $50 per acre after the first of the month. If you think you can buy land as good as this, cheaper, then go up and look around for yourself.

All who are interested in buying smaller tracts during the next two weeks can buy through Mr. Morris Grimwood, who lives two miles east of Blanco and two miles South.

While they last, we have some tracts of 160 acres to 2,000 acre tracts at $25 to $35 per acre.

I have sold an enormous amount of land in my life, but I now have the best colonization proposition I ever had. Therefore, I am going to put it on the map. Regardless of what somebody might tell you, do not listen to knockers. Remember, your banker, your lawyer, your doctor, and your undertaker do not want you to leave their country. The people who don't buy from me when I first start a proposition lose money, and the people who buy, make money. Now is the time to act and act quickly, or you will be too late.

I will be glad to show you the proof of what I am telling at the Capitol Hotel, with pictures, farmers' statements, etc. I would advise you to go to this country as soon as possible and see them digging potatoes, harvesting cabbage, head lettuce, sugar beets; see the grain crops, some of which have not yet been harvested; see the beautiful scenery. They have just had enough frost to color the leaves on the trees, and you will see some of the most gorgeous scenery you have ever seen in your life. Remember, we don't have sandstorms, very strong winds, earth quakes, hurricanes, bad blizzards, and when it gets cold in this country, it is a dry cold with very little wind. There are millions of people who would be glad to have the opportunity to buy this land if they knew about it.

Anyone on the Plains who doesn't know me, ask your neighbors or someone who does.

The safest investment on earth is the earth. According to my judgment, we are going to have the biggest land activity we ever had in the next two years.

CAPITOL HOTEL

Mr. F. Z. Bishop
Capitol Hotel
Amarillo, Texas

Dear Mr. Bishop:

We have lived in this valley 40 years and developed this place from a rough brush desert condition. Until today, it is one of the most productive farms in the community.

At present we are engaged in general farming and live-stock raising. The land has doubled in yield and crops since it was developed as a result of crop rotation and livestock raising and feeding.

The last few years the yield of grain has been as follows, oats from 30 to 110 bushel an acre, field peas 46bushel an acre, and wheat has been yielding from 50 to 65 bushel.

The Japanese that farmed part of the land made yearly rents that ran from $100 to $250 per acre which was our share for the use of the land. For 1950 I have leased 40 acres of land at a cash rent of $60 per acre payable in advance.

On potatoes our yield has run all the way from 200 to 350 sacks per acre. We follow a livestock program of raising clover with sheep through the summer, and carry them through the winter on stubble and alfalfa. This program has been responsible for the increase in fertility of the land, as well as being a very profitable part of our farming.

Very truly yours,
Signed: G. C. HUFMAN

Dear Mr. Bishop:

My main crop is potatoes. The average yield is 200 sacks per acre. We also raise sugar beets which run 18-21 per cent sugar content, average around 14 tons per acre and net around $100.00 per acre. Land in the Fort Garland area planted to lettuce this year has netted the grower $600 or more per acre.

Yours truly,

871 BUSHELS OF SPUDS YIELDED ON ONE VALLEY ACRE

A measured acre on the R. S. Loser farm at Mount Pleasant measured 871 bushels or 523 sacks this morning, according to Dave Greenwalt, county agent.

Greenwalt said that the total was the largest this year. But he'd appreciate knowing of any other large yields. Loser is county commissioner of Rio Grande county. Present at the measuring this morning were Greenwalt, Fred Christie of the RTC, Loser and Gus Nigel.

Wall Street

MARKET HOLDS GROUNDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—Wall Street is touting a new bull market.

For several weeks the market has been served a diet of such news as the coal and steel strikes, British devaluation, and the Russian atomic explosion. The diet proved nourishing.

The general price level scored a new 1949 high Tuesday. On Wednesday the performance was repeated and again on Thursday. The market wobbled a bit on Friday but on Saturday regained its balance.

Not since Nov. 4 last have prices, on average, been so high. Industrial and utility components have been doing fine, with both groups at their highs for the year. The rails, though, have quite a little way to go to reach the year's high.

In Saturday's two-hour session low-priced issues, including some with somewhat of a speculative rating, attracted strong backing.

Out of 760 issues traded, 327 advanced and 184 declined. Sales totaled 540,000 shares.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Wheat and corn sold off on the board of trade today, although large declines were reduced in a rally which started shortly before the close. The July wheat contract showed the most weakness throughout the session, falling more than 2 cents before making a slight recovery.

The rest of the market was lower with the leading cereals during early dealings.

Wheat closed ⅝-⅞ lower, December $2.11⅞-½, corn was ⅝-¾ lower, December $1.18, oats were unchanged to ⅛ lower, December 67⅝, rye was ¼-⅝ higher, December $1.48¼.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Oct. 8. (AP)—Wheat No. 1 hard 2.31-2.37.

Oats No. 2 white 86-86½.

Corn No. 2 white Texas, only 1.50½-1.54½.

Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo per 100 pounds 2.12-2-17.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—Following an active opening, trading in cotton futures turned dull today. Price changes were small and most of the activity involved liquidation of nearby October contracts. Along with hedging in the December and May deliveries. The quiet market conditions were attributed to desires of dealers to await publication of the government cotton crop report on Monday. Merchants reported that sales of spot cotton in the south again continued heavy, although there also was a slight pick-up in the movement of cotton into the government loan.

Futures closed 15 cents a bale lower to 15 cents higher than the previous close.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8. (AP)—Cotton futures declined in the early trading here today but in the last few minutes rallied on weekend short covering and trade buying. Closing prices were steady unchanged to 15 cents a bale higher.

Evening-up operations in advance of the government's crop estimate Monday dominated the trading. Some of the early selling was attributed to Senate action rejecting farm price supports at 90 per cent of parity for basic crops.

Cotton remained unchanged with middling 15/16ths-inch quoted at 29.35 cents a pound. Local sales amounted to 3,891 bales.

OUTSTANDING LEADERS TO SPEAK

Texas Oil And Gas Operators Meet In Houston This Week

HOUSTON, Oct. 8 (Special) — Two gatherings of Texas oil and gas operators representing the leadership in the state's petroleum industry have been scheduled for Houston this week.

The Texas Railroad Commission will hold its monthly hearing here Wednesday.

The Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas association begins its two-day session Thursday, marking the group's 30th year of operation.

Governor Allan Shivers will introduce a key opening-session speaker, Governor Frank Carlson of Kansas, who is chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission and chairman of the conference of state governors.

Both the commission hearing and the association's sessions will be held in the Crystal ballroom, Rice hotel.

Awards To Be Presented

At the end of the Thursday sessions, two Texas oil men, an independent and a major company representative will be presented the association's distinguished service awards.

"We have everything ready for one of the best meetings in our thirty year's history," said George Sawtelle, president, Kirby Petroleum company, who is chairman of the general arrangements committee.

Also included on the Thursday agenda are addresses by a scientist-business man, Dr. Robert E. Wilson, chairman of the board, Standard Oil company (Indiana), and one of the nation's leading economists, Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of The Brookings Institution.

A featured address for the Friday morning business session will be that of Lieutenant General LeRoy Lutes, newly-appointed commanding general of the Fourth Army, San Antonio. General Lutes directed logistical operations which supplied the Army throughout the world during World War II. He participated in high staff plannings of several invasions. He goes to his new post at San Antonio from an assignment as military director of the munitions board under the secretary of defense. General Lutes is expected to discuss petroleum phases of the industrial mobilization and supply plans which have been readied for future military emergencies.

Social Events Set

The first report ever made to the association on the petroleum industry's national public relations program will be given by John M. Lovejoy, New York, president of the Seaboard Oil company of Delaware Friday morning.

Social events of the meeting include an all-membership buffet at noon Thursday; a style show and luncheon for wives of members Thursday; a reception and dinner for association directors Thursday evening.

After Friday's business session, members will take part in the annual golf tournament, River Oaks Country club, and skeet shoot at the Houston Skeet club. The convention will close with an all-membership reception and banquet and floor show Friday evening.

Other speakers: Thursday—R. B. Anderson, Vernon, association president; State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, Austin; Claud Gilmer, Rocksprings, Chairman, Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special schools. Friday—Homer Garrison, director, Department of Public Safety, Austin; Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson.

An ejection order against a renter at Docking, England, was refused because the house owner had forgotten an 111-year-old law stating that a landlord must read the notice of proceedings to the tenant, to protect people unable to read.

New Mexico Kiwanis Group Told Of Governmental Costs

SANTA FE, N. M., Oct. 8.(INS) —H. J. Miller, extension director of the National Taxpayers foundation, told southwest district Kiwanians it takes the income of 40 percent of all gainfully employed persons in the nation to pay the cost of government.

Miller declared that the Hoover commission on governmental reorganization is a "memorable and unique milestone in the efforts of those who want to do something about government's fantastic cost."

Kiwanians yesterday got a look at the new Miss America, Miss Jacque Mercer. She was accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mercer of Litchfield Park, Ariz.

Shrubs, Trees Hit By Strange Blight In Louisiana Area

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 8 (AP) — People trying to solve the auto "paint blister" mystery here had another riddle to consider today.

That was a report that a considerable area in the vicinity of the Mansfield road-Greenwood road intersection was partly blighted by some mysterious substance, which has attacked shrubs and trees.

Two experts contended the "goose pimple" or paint blister" mystery is solved. It is all a matter of capillary action, they said.

Capillary Action Blamed

D. B. Entrikin, head of the department of chemistry at Centenary college, said analysis of rain which fell Monday and Tuesday showed it devoid of any substance which could have caused paint on cars to blister.

"It is my personal belief," Dr. Entrikin said, "that it is a case of too much rain over too long a period."

The head of the chemistry department of Northeastern State college at Cape Girardeau, Mo., theorized the "goose pimples" on cars were caused by capillary action.

Entrikin said he subscribed to that theory as the best yet advanced to explain the mystery.

An entomologist with the U. S. Department of agriculture here said that the area in which the shrubs and trees were damaged covered about five square miles.

He could not say what damaged the trees and shrubbery. He said he is positive that it was not caused by a disease or bugs.

Entrikin said he is satisfied there is no connection between the damaged cars and the shrubbery and trees.

The entomologist said whatever had damaged the plants caused leaves and twigs to shrivel and drop to the ground.

Abrupt Drop Reported For State Construction Awards

AUSTIN, Oct. 8 (AP) — Texas construction awards dropped abruptly in September. Lettings for the month totaled only $41,432,348, less than September of 1947 or 1948.

The first week of October got off to a stronger start as contracts totaled $14,210,981, the Texas Contractor, building trade journal, reported today. Awards the previous week amounted to only $10,069,343.

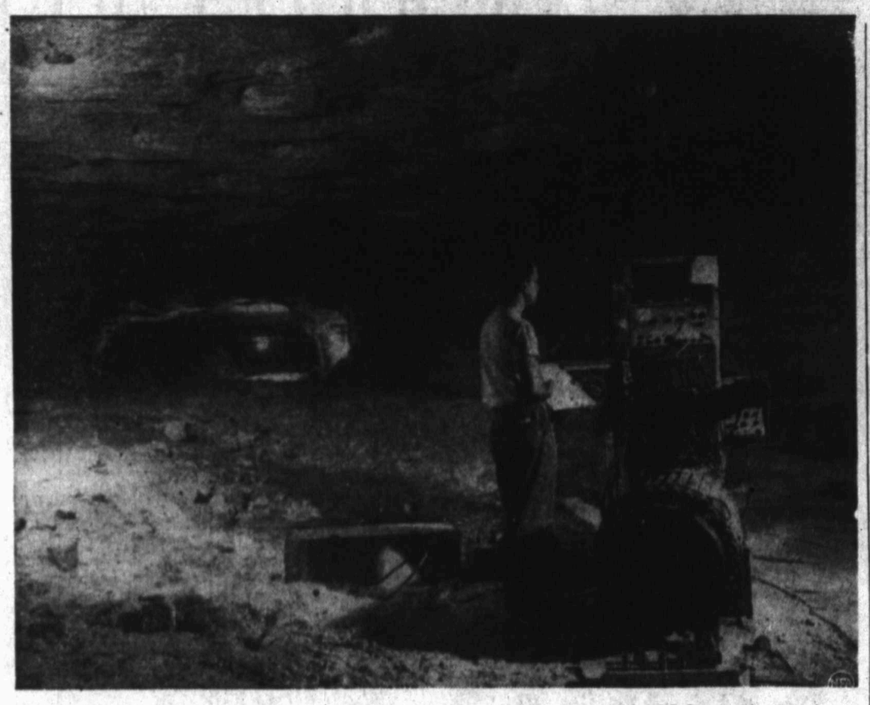

All classes of work registered decreases in September, with residences and highways hardest hit.

REA Okays Loans For Co-Ops In New Mexico Farming Areas

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (U.P) — The Rural Electrification administration has granted $4,685,000 in loans to finance expansion of electric service in farming areas in New Mexico.

The loans were $3,975,000 to the Jemez mountains Electric Co-op, Inc., San Ysidro, and $710,000 to the northern Rio Arrida Electric Co-Op, Inc., Chama.

REA said yesterday the loans will finance construction of the new distribution lines to serve 2,520 new electric consumers.

HUNT COSMIC RAYS 2000 FEET UNDER — Working in a comfortable 76-degree temperature more than 2000 feet down in a rock salt mine, Lowell M. Bollinger of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., takes data fro mthe complex apparatus he has set up to measure cosmic ray particles in the earth. The tubes surrounding the cylinder are Geiger counters, which detect cosmic ray particles.

Rural Telephone Bill Scheduled For Action

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)— A bill to extend rural telephone service probably will go to a Senate-House conference on Monday or Tuesday, an aide to Rep. Poage (D.-Tex.), said today.

Poage, author of the measure, is expected back in Washington Monday. At that time Speaker Rayburn (D.-Tex.), probably will name representatives of the House to work out differences over the measure with a similar group from the Senate, the aide said.

The House-approved bill, which passed the Senate Wednesday with amendments would authorize government loans to extend the rural service.

State Teachers May Adopt Austin As New Headquarters

AUSTIN, Oct. 8 (AP) — The executive committee of the Texas State Teachers association today unanimously recommended moving the association's state headquarters from Fort Worth to Austin.

Final action will be taken by the house of delegates of the state association at the convention in Fort Worth Nov. 26.

The executive committee approved and adopted a report by a special committee, presented by Joe McNeilf of Wichita Falls, chairman, recommending the move. Its action was announced by Joe Humphrey of Abilene, association president, at the close of the committee session this afternoon.

Andrew Carnegie came in America in his 13th year.

The Woman's Angle

By Margaret Turner

SOME women have the worst memory — they remember everything.

• • •

NOTE ON INFLATION: With the same coin that virtually insults a waiter now when given as a tip we could afford to buy a fairly substantial meal a few years ago.

• • •

COUNCIL'S AIM

THE FEDERAL Council of Christ in America has set out to rescue observance of New Year's from "headache producing revelry." On Dec. 31 the congregation of the affiliated churches will be summoned to an all-night vigil of prayer to say farewell to a "half century of material progress and spiritual bankruptcy."

• • •

FIRE EXTINGUISHERS

MOST of our business friends are developing admirable resistance to the many special "days" and "weeks" and "months" inflicted upon the calendar by some one with an axe to grind. Such promotion doesn't mean much anymore. There are just too many of them.

There is one newcomer, however, that might deserve recognition and support. That event is "Check Your Fire Extinguisher day" recently proclaimed by Fire Protection institute for Oct. 12, right in the middle of Fire Prevention week.

• • •

We found the office's extinguisher, at the end of a wooden case, one of the few places you can nail something in the editorial rooms. It had been serviced January last and so far as we could tell by looking is in working order. Although cigarettes sometimes are thrown on the floor up here, none of the men expect any damage because we didn't find any interest when we asked where the extinguisher is located.

We can remember when some of the desk men were in their salad days they kept the extinguisher in mind; because after a pretty woman had called at the office they made a grab for it and yelled "fire!"

SCATTERINGS

A successful man is one who earns more than his wife and a successful woman is one who finds such a man . . . Dry cleaners so something terrific with suits and dresses and blouses, but we think they fail on neckties . . . Wonder where the expression "living the life of Reilly" originated? . . . When a normal human being tells a lie, according to the psychologists the saliva flow stops in the fibber's mouth . . . a doctor outlines these six stages of drunkenness: dry and decent, delighted and devilish, dizzy and delirious, dazed and dejected, dead drunk and dead.

• • •

In the Ozarks is a person "sulls up" it means he's gone sullen. A logical verb, if you stop to consier it . . . Nomination for a good ad line, used to describe a maternity style show "For the Women Who Dress for Two." . . . Usage by now probably has made it polio with a long "o" but a quick trot to the dictionary will show Mr. Webster giving it the "polly-o" pronunciation . . . Automobile drivers in the 16-20 age bracket have five times as many accidents as drivers in the 45-50 group—"teenicide" is what safety experts call it.

• • •

ADVERTISING AGE

THERE is an illustrated article in a current magazine that sets out that facial habits advertise ones age. After reading it and seeing the faces, one becomes so self conscious she wonders how she appears in public.

They are thought provoking at that.

The only way a woman can know if her habits are betraying her is to check up on the facial expressions she uses while talking in front of a mirror. If she thinks that is too silly, then she can ask a member of the family who likely will give her an honest opinion if she has facial that need correcting.

• • •

Many women mug, purse their lips and squint. They don't add anything useful to a woman or make her face any prettier. Moreover, each habit cited will speed the sagging movements of muscles and eventually cause lines in the skin.

CLASS PLANS MEETING

First Baptist Homemakers class will have an executive meeting Thursday afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock at Mrs. L. J. Abbott's, 1922 Twenty-seventh.

Coral Doors Through The

Howdy Folks,

Had a letter from James waiting for me when I walked through the coral doors this week. This will be the last of those interesting letters with the foreign stamps—so I thought I would send it on to you——

Hi there!

Greetings from France "and how are all of those horses and oil wells"! I hear that from nearly every Frenchman and the average American tourist who has never been out of his home state. I then go to great lengths in explaining that I, as well as many other Texans, unfortunately don't own a private oil well and have been on a horse four times in my life. Three of those times were out of the State of Texas.

As I write to you I am traveling from Paris to Rome in one of those luxury compartments that I have heard about ever since being in Europe. I have two rooms comprising the toilet and a large compartment with a couch-type seat, foot stool and writing table, so I am traveling in so-called style.

During the rounds to wholesale houses, factories and various markets, many individual items have been purchased for the Studio and will be shipped shortly after I leave for New York next month. I am very anxious for everyone to see the purchases for they were chosen for having that artistic French style plus being smart accessories for West Texas homes.

With French Provincial being advertised so extensively in the States, I know many people think that this style is all over France. However, it is rare to find much of this style in any part of France other than the Normandy and Britanny areas. I spent the past week with some friends at their chateau on the Northern coast of Britany. They had only the dining room done in French Provincial. This room was simple, but very well decorated. They still use cushions on the floor for your feet to rest upon while you eat. The cushions were a lot of fun, but frankly a little small for my big feet.

Modern tapestry work is quite popular in France for decorating rooms in the home. In my visits to expositions and to tapestry factories, I have seen many beautiful modern pieces of tapestry. It has been lots of fun to stand around for hours watching the workers work on a job weaving and tying the silk threads that perhaps they have been working on for six months and still have another six months before completing the job. If you have a painting that you like very, very much, it can certainly be arranged to have a tapestry made from it. The factory assured me that they could do a tapestry of a cowboy on his horse and make it as beautiful as any of their other work.

Being an interior decorator, I know that I should stay on the inside of the house. However, I have been so impressed by many beautiful French gardens that were so smartly terraced, I just couldn't keep from making a study of them. I have already informed the Studio that they need not be surprised if they see me having all sorts of things done to the yard the first day I get back. I do think the grounds around a building should be as interesting as the inside.

Be seeing you the middle of October when I fly in from Paris. Don't be surprised if you dial the Studio number and hear a voice in a Texas-French accent say "Bonjour, Decorators Studio."

James Pinson.

Well, Folks, I hope you enjoyed James' letter as much as I. I will be writing you more about the goings on behind that coral door next week.

See 'ya at Broadway and Avenue N,

Grandpa Nosey. adv.

Miss Graves To Teach Course In Nutrition

Miss Martha Graves, director of home and family life education at Texas Tech college, will organize a course in nutrition under sponsorship of the City Parent-Teacher council Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock in Annex G of the home economics building.

All women who are interested, whether or not they are affiljated with a parent-teacher unit, are invited to attend. Topics will be decided upon at the initial session.

Birthday Party Plans Made By OES Chapter

Freedom chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will conduct a birthday party at IOOF hall at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

Hostesses are Mesdames Mary Edwards, Sallie Monk, Elizabeth Evans and Fannie Watson.

Becknell-Sawyers Wedding Is Read In City Saturday

Miss Wanda Lea Sawyers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Sawyers of Route 1, and Edgar Eugene Becknell, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Becknell, 2606 Twenty-second, were married Saturday at 7 p. m. in St. John's Methodist church with Rev. Joe Motzenbocker performing a double ring ceremony.

Decorating the church were baskets of pink gladioli, yellow roses and white stock, and tapers in candelabra and palms. Miss Imogene Webster, organist, played traditional wedding marches, "Indian Love Call" during the ceremony, and accompanied Miss Betty Ray Forgeson as she sang "I Love You Truly' and "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a two-piece street length dress of pink slipper satin and a matching hat with a fingertip veil falling from the back. She also wore navy opera pumps and carried a white orchid showered with lilies of the valley and lace atop a white Bible.

Relatives Are Attendants

Miss Bobbie Lawson of Idalou, maid of honor, wore a dress of aqua slipper satin with black accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations. Lynda Mac Sawyers of Idalou, niece of the bride, and Nelda Kaye Becknell of Lubbock, sister of the bridegroom, were flower girls and wore yellow taffeta dresses trimmed in blue and blue daisies in their hair. They carried yellow baskets of net and taffeta.

Bruce Isom of Idalou was best man, and ushers were Delbert Mac Sawyers of Idalou, and Clayton J. Sawyers of Lubbock, both brothers of the bride; and Cecil Becknell of Quanah, cousin of the bridegroom.

Reception Honors Couple

After the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bridegroom's parents. The couple were assisted in receiving by their parents, and assisting in hospitalities were Mesdames Bruce Isom, Clayton Sawyer and J. W. Furgeson.

The bride's table was laid with lace over pink satin and held an arrangement of pink and white dahlias, the punch service, and a three tiered caked decorated with pink rosebuds and topped by a bridal couple.

Out-of-town guests were from Quanah, Baird, Borger and Cross Plains.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado the couple will be at home on Oct. 14. For traveling the bride wore a brown tweed suit with dark brown accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride graduated from Idalou High school and attended West Texas State college, where she was a member of Gamma Phi sorority. She is now a member of the Junior Civic and Culture club.

The bridegroom attended Texas Tech after graduating from Idalou High school.

Dance Federation To Begin Fall Season

The first dance of the season sponsored by Lubbock Square Dance federation will be held Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the Playmor on Slaton highway. Classes for advanced dancers are to be conducted Tuesday and Wednesday nights at 8 at the Playmor with instruction by Jack Fomby of Sweetwater.

Admission to the lessons and the Thursday dance will be 50 cents for federation members and 75 cents for guests.

Lee Searsy and the Plains Ryders will provide music Thursday night.

To make certain that you serve good coffee you must frequently wash out the pot with soap and water. Old wives' tale to the contrary, rinsing is not enough.

FOR NEEDLE CLUB

Mrs. M. K. Simpson, 2124 Twenty-third, was hostess to the following members of Needle Club Bee Friday afternoon: Mesdames V. T. Brady, Bob Bowron, Fraser Moore, Elbert Higgins, Earl Burnett, C. C. Chambers, L. M. Wartes, Odell Hughett, H. A. Scarborough and O. J. Felty. The club will meet Oct. 21 at 3 p. m. with Mrs. Burnett.

Fall Parties Are Continuing As Courtesies For Brides-Elect

As parties continue in the series of Fall courtesies honoring Lubbock brides-elect, Miss Betty Jenkins, who will marry Dean Allam, Thursday, and Miss Martha Loveless, who will marry Ray Cook on Saturday, Oct. 22, are being entertained with breakfasts, luncheons and dinners.

Miss Paula Fix will be hostess this morning with a 9 o'clock breakfast honoring both Miss Jenkins and Miss Loveless.

Yellow pottery will be used on a red table cloth, and an arrangement of red leaves and red asters will center the table. A hostess gift will be presented to each honoree.

On the guest list are Mesdames E. Y. Gibbs, Eugene Miller, Bill Franklin, O. P. Harlan, jr., and Misses Cecile Butler, Mary Harral, LaVaughn Bearden, Elizabeth Howard and Jeanne Allam.

Mesdames Neil Wright, sr., and John Chrisler entertained with a brunch in the Wright home, 1634 Main, Friday at 10:30 a. m. as an additional courtesy to Miss Jenkins. An arrangement of white pom pon dahlias centered the table.

Attending were the honoree, Mesdames Ray Collier, John Hampton, Daris Jones, Bill Franklin, O. P. Harlan, jr., Elmer Reed, jr., A. G. Barsh, Sidney Brown, Fred Brown, O. R. Hand, Joe Bryant, Newton Walton, Stanley Hays, Leila Jenkins, Arthur Jenkins and Misses Nan Whisler, Gay Reeves, Xen Harris and Martha Enochs.

Honor Miss Jenkins

Thursday Mesdames J. D. Hassell, jr., and W. T. Fain were cohostesses at a breakfast in the Fain home, 2712 Twenty-first, honoring Miss Jenkins.

Marigolds were arranged in the center of the table, and the hostess gift was of Dresden china.

Guests were Miss Jenkins, Mesdames Arthur Jenkins, Stanley Hays, Leila Jenkins, Al O'Brien, Bill Franklin, O. P. Harlan, jr., Julian Fairly and Misses Betty Jim York, Charlotte Carter, Paula Fix and Judy Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bryant were hosts Thursday with a 7 p. m. buffet supper honoring Miss Jenkins and Mr. Allam. White mums and gladioli were used in decorating.

Guests were the honored couple, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Jenkins, Mesdames Leila Jenkins and Stanley Hays, Messrs. and Mesdames Bill Franklin, O. P. Harlan, jr., and Stanley Huckabay; Miss Mary Alice Christian and Dutch Gillespie; Miss Dorothy Brown and Curtis Coxen, and Miss Barbara Luncemord and Winston Roberts.

Gives Bridesmaids Luncheon

Mrs. Bill Franklin entertained with a bridesmaids luncheon for Miss Jenkins Saturday at 1 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Joe Bowman, 1906 Twenty-ninth. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Bert LaRoe, and her aunt, Mrs. Bowman.

The table was laid with a white grass linen cloth and centered by an arrangement of gold mums. The honoree was presented with electrical kitchen appliances as hostess gifts.

Covers were laid for the honoree, Mesdames Arthur Jenkins, Sttanley Hays, Leila Jenkins, Edgar Allam, O. P. Harlan, jr., Misses Elizabeth Howard, LaVaughn Bearden, Jeanne Allam and the hostesses.

Tuesday as an additional courtesy to Miss Jenkins, a luncheon will be held in the Aztec room of the Hilton hotel with Mesdames Sam West and Lewis Price of Big Spring as hostesses.

Wednesday Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins will be hosts at a rehearsal dinner for their daughter and Mr. Allam in the Lubbock Country club at 7 p. m.

For Miss Loveless

Mesdames Hub Jones and Charles H. Read were hostesses at a Thursday luncheon in the Lubbock Country club honoring Miss Loveless.

Carrying out the honoree's chosen colors, the table was centered with an arrangement of pink dahlias and silver eucalypus leaves The hostess gift was of china.

Wedding Is Announced

Miss Nadene Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Hamilton of Idalou, and William Bob Creel, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Creel of Birmingham, Ala., were married in Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.

The bride is a graduate of Idalou High school and while in Lubbock was employed at the Citizens National bank. During the war she served in the U. S. Marine Corps Women's reserve. The bridegroom is a first lieutenant in the Marine Air Corps and is stationed in Washington, D. C.

For the ceremony Mrs. Creel wore a tan suit with dusty pink accessories and carried a prayer book topped with a corsage of a white orchid showered with lilies of the valley.

Miss Helen Sledge of Washington, D. C., maid of honor, wore a brown suit with aqua accessories and carried Talisman roses showered with aqua ribbons.

Lt. Johnny Johnson was best man.

Build Poise By Speaking

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Conversation is a word-of-mouth method of advertising yourself. Good speech, of course, is the best kind of self-advertising. But whether yours is good or bad, speak up.

That's Evelyn Knight's advice. This singing star has been around enough to know, she says, that you have to be heard as well as seen. Evelyn says the "only business in which silent partners can't draw dividends for very long is conversation."

She thinks that silence is mostly induced by a person's fear that she'll make the wrong impression. But she warns that the impression you make when you say nothing is that you're aloof, restrained, uninterested or are a difficult conversationalist.

It takes practice to become a good conversationalist, says this singer, who stresses the need to break the ice and plunge in.

The reward, besides the pleasure of being able to hold your own with others, is mental and emotional enrichment, says Evelyn.

"It's the talker," according to this observer, "who gets to know people, draws out interesting facts from them, enlarges her scope, and renews her interests."

France has raised postal and telephone rates by from 50 to 100 per cent.

Miss LaWanda Carter To Wed Mr. Herring

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Beason of 217 Ave. U are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss LaWanda Carter, to Alton W. Herring of the U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Herring of Lubbock.

The wedding date has not been set.

Mr. Herring will graduate from a Navy x-ray school at Bethesda, Md., today and will come to Lubbock sometime this week. He is a graduate of Lubbock High school and Miss Carter is a student at the high school.

Guest Tea Is To Be Given

Lubbock Woman's Forum has planned a guest day tea for Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Clem Boverie at 3210 Twenty-third. Mrs. R. S. Prothro is to be program leader.

Musical numbers will be presented by Mrs. Charles Moeser and a talk on a summer European trip will be made by Mrs. M. Norvel Young.

Hostesses with Mrs. Boverie are to be Mesdames J. L. Downs, Earl Archer, William Lowrimore, jr., Noel Stalnaker and Gradie Bownds.

Study Of Japan To Be Concluded By WSCS

Mrs. A. L. Hewitt will be speaker for First Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the church parlor. The last of a series of lessons on "Japan Begins Again" will be presented, and the theme will be "Which Way Japan." Mrs. William G. Dingus is director of the study.

Topics for discussion are "Urgency of Our Task" and "Life In Japan Today."

Mrs. C. P. Carlock, chairman, and members of Perue circle will be tea hostesses following the program.

Institute To Be Conducted By Nurses In District 18

The 17th annual one-day institute sponsored by Texas Graduate Nurses association for District 18 will be conducted Wednesday at the Lubbock Women's clubhouse, 2020 Broadway. The program will open at 9 a. m.

Miss A. Louise Dietrich of El Paso, R. N., general secretary of the Texas Nurses, will present a report of the meeting of the International council of Nurses held in Stockholm in June of this year. She will also talk on world health, federal legislation which affects nurses, final report of state legislation, and district problems.

Mrs. S. J. Brown of San Antonio, another featured speaker, will discuss "One Organization or Two." Mrs. Brown, a registered nurse, is state chairman of the planning and structure committee of the nurses, organization.

All registered nurses and student nurses of the 18 counties of District 18 are invited to attend the institute.

JUNIOR GLAMOR

If mother has difficulty in getting junior to brush his teeth, perhaps a holster set will persuade him. Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Wiggins, Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Jones, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Holden and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Moore were special guests. Mr. and Mrs. Moore are club sponsors.

Hostesses and their husbands attending were Messrs. and Mesdames Hubert L. Allen, K. N. Clapp, R. C. Harvey, J. D. Hassell, R. F. Hinchey, Wright Kerr, Frank M. Maddox, C. E. Maedgen, W. G. McMillan, Walter S. Posey, O. B. Ratliff, Roy Riddel, W. L. Stangel, A. B. Strehli, Tom Welborn, Robert Wright, Edgar Wommack, Judge and Mrs. Dan A. Blair, Dr. and Mrs. D. D. Cross, Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Howard, Dr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Jones, Mrs. W. H. Bledsoe, Mrs. H. F. Godeke, an honorary member, Miss Sannie Callan and Dr. Agnes True.

KITCHEN SPACE

If your kitchen is too small to accommodate a table and chair set, use an eating bar which is ideal for breakfast and snacks. A set of open shelves to hold coffee cups, saucers and other dishes most frequently used at breakfast is helpful. The shelf can take on a festive air if trimmed with sparkling shelving paper that harmonizes with the color of the bar.

Wedding Is Read In Slaton Church

Announcement is being made of the recent marriage of Miss Estelle Simek of 1312 Sixteenth, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Simek of Bomarton, and Oscar Heindrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heindrich of Slaton, which took place at St. Joseph's church there.

The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, J. J. Simek. She wore a gown of slipper satin fashioned with princess lines. The neckline featured an almost invisible yoke with off-shoulder treatment of folds of satin finished with a design of seed pearls and sequins. The bodice was fitted and the full skirt swept into a long train. She wore an imported silk illusion veil attached to a bridal bonnet of illusion and pearlized orange blossoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Heindrick will make their home at 1312 Sixteenth.

Fall Fashions Topic For Club Discussion

Mrs. Glenn Fletcher spoke on "Fall Fashions" for Mend 'n Mind club members who met Friday afternoon with Mrs. R. A. Berrier at 2101 Twenty-seventh.

Plate favors were corsages made of fall flowers. Eighteen persons attended.

The club is to have a coffee Oct. 20 at 9:15 a. m. in the home of Mrs. J. H. Aufill, 3207 Twenty-ninth.

Town Talk

MR. AND MRS. E. L. KLETT, 2223 Broadway, entertained with a Wednesday night dinner in the party room of the Lubbock Country club as a courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. John Govett and a Miss Dewey, all of London, England, and W. A. Arbuckle of Montreal, Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brewer also attended the dinner. An arrangement of marigolds centered the table.

After a three-day stay in Lubbock the visitors to Texas returned to New York by plane Thursday night. While in Lubbock they were guests at the Hilton hotel.

The four travelers have been all over the world, and last year toured Australia, South Africa and Burma. Their Lubbock friends describe them as "charming polished people who are interested in everyone and everything," and add that "talking with them is like taking a trip around the world."

Mrs. Covett finds this part of the Southwest to be very much like Australia. Since she owns one of the largest farms in England, she was interested in seeing the local agricultural areas, and because of her interest in raising Angus show cattle, she especially enjoyed a trip to the Howard Hampton ranch near Slaton.

An excursion to the Levelland oil fields provided an interesting afternoon for the visiting foursome, who seemed to like this part of Texas immensely. The Covetts and Mr. Arbuckle collected wild west and cowboy souvenirs while here to take back to their sons.

Mesdames Hub Jones, Neil Wright, sr., R. C. Goodwin and Morley Jennings are leaving today for a two week's stay in Pass Christian, Miss., with Col. and Mrs. Roy Hagerty.

Ten couples left Friday night on a reserved pullman to attend the University of Texas-University of Oklahoma football game played Saturday in Dallas.

Making the trip were Messrs. and Mesdames O. L. Slaton, jr., Tom Murphey, Harry Holcomb, Richard Jennings, Wayne Prather, Paul Graham, Harris Underwood, Everett Fulgham, John Bell of Plainview and Howard Marvin.

They are leaving Dallas tonight and will be home Monday morning.

Also attending the game in Dallas were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Meador of Matador and Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Pettey of Lubbock.

The two couples left Friday, spent that night in Mineral Wells and went on to Dallas Saturday for the game.

A regular Sunday night buffet dinner will be served tonight at the Lubbock Country club.

Members of the club and their guests may attend.

An annual Parish Fall reception will be held by St. Paul's Episcopal church in Seaman hall Monday at 7:30 p. m.

All members and friends of St. Paul's church, including children of twelve years or older, are invited to attend the informal entertainment.

Honored guests at the reception will be those who have joined the parish family during the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spencer and son, Charles Edward, of Charleston, W. Va., are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Fitch.

The family will visit here for two weeks during Mr. Spencer's vacation from his West Virginia business.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harvey, jr., of Sharon, Pa., are to arrive this week-end to be guests in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Harvey, 2602 Twenty-second.

The Pennsylvania couple will attend Texas Tech Homecoming events before returning home.

Course Scheduled In Adult Education

Miss Martha Graves, director of home and family life education at Texas Technological college, is teaching a course for the Crosby County Council of Parents and Teachers, and the second of the series will be taught Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Ralls High school.

The topic will be "Visual Aids as a Method of Instruction in Home and Family Life Education." Miss Graves is to present an illustrated talk.

Pakistan's banking and commercial centers are "cautiously optimistic" about 1949.

MISS ALICE MEADING

Church To Be Scene Of Afternoon Wedding

Miss Alice Gene Meading, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Meading of Slaton, and Carl Junius Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Young of El Paso, will be married today at 4 p. m. in the Slaton First Methodist church. Rev. W. F. Ferguson will read a double ring ceremony.

Baskets of bronze and white chrysanthemums will be placed on each side of the altar, and white tapers in candelabra will form an arch as a background. Vows will be exchanged beneath a floral arch of white chrysanthemums and greenery. Lining the bridal aisle will be tapers rising from a base of chrysanthemums and ribbons in alternating bronze and white.

To be given in marriage by her father, the bride will wear an original creation of white velveteen designed with a fitted bodice, long fitted sleeves ending in points at the hands, and a straight floor length skirt. The high rolled collar and plunging neckline are accented with tiny buttons and loops extending from the waistline to the top of the collar. Her train is gathered from the waistline and falls to a semi-cathedral length. From her matching velveteen cap, fashioned with a small rolled brim and outlined in seed pearls, will fall a shoulder length veil of bridal illusion. Her arm bouquet of white chrysanthemums will be tied with white satin and lace streamers.

Sister To Be Attendant

Mrs. B. N. Ball of Slaton, sister of the bride and matron of honor will wear a gown of chartruese velveteen and carry bronze chrysanthemums. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. H. M. Englund and Miss Dorothy Jones, both of Slaton, wearing dresses of gold velveteen, and Mrs. LaVern Curry, sister of the bride from Lubbock, and Miss Jo Ann Stokes of Dallas, wearing gowns of ginger velveteen. The four bridesmaids will carry bronze chrysanthemums.

Martha Young, niece of the bridegroom from El Paso, will be flower girl and will wear a rose velveteen dress and carry a white basket filled with rose petals. Misses Shirley Ball, wearing aqua velveteen, and Patsy Hickman dressed in rose velveteen will be candlelighters.

Attendants To Bridegroom

Walter T. Clark, jr., of Houston will be best man, and the ring bearer will be Steve Ball, nephew of the bride from Slaton. Ushers will be Jack Tippit, Hugh English, Bill Thurman and Burl Hubbard, all of Lubbock.

After the ceremony a wedding reception will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Z. Ball in Slaton, and the couple will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Ball, their parents, Mesdames B. N. Ball, LaVern Curry, H. M. Englund, and Misses Dorothy Jones and Jo Ann Stokes.

The table will be laid with a cloth of rose organdy appliqued with heavy white lace, and table appointments will be of milk glass. An arrangement of white chrysanthemums will center the table and be flanked on each side by rose colored tapers in milk glass candelabra. The wedding cake will be of double wedding ring style. Out-of-town guests are expected to attend from El Paso, Lubbock, Houston and Dallas.

Following a wedding trip to Santa Fe, N. M., the couple will be at home in El Paso on Oct. 15. For traveling the bride has chosen a wine gabardine suit with navy accessories.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Texas Technological college, where she was a member of Sans Souci and he was a member of Kemas and Tau Beta Pi.

Mr. Young is connected with Carroll and Daeuble, architects, in El Paso. The bride is a former teacher in Slaton public school system, and a former employee of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Gravy-Proof Tie Quickly Cleaned

By GLORIA YARBROUGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8.—Do you have gravy spots before your eyes? Relief for you sufferers is on the way.

"A plastic tie," says Irene Colle, who has created the new cravat, "is the remedy for that old soup-splattered tie.

"You won't need to worry about spilling coffee down your front, or dragging your tie through the soup. All you have to have to make your plastic tie good as new is a damp cloth.

"It's the ideal tie for the young man whose girls is always getting lipstick on his tie. Even greasy cosmetics come off this new tie with just a little soap and water.

"It will cut out cleaning and ironing bills. If you should get caught in the rain, you won't have any fear of getting your tie streaked, faded or even wet. It is water repellant, will last indefintely, hold its shape beautifully—and the knot will not slip," says Mrs. Colle.

The tie has a lustrous appearance and comes in white, pastels, and all basic colors. It's made of standard four-in-hand and bow sizes.

Two Classes Enrolled For Leaders' Course

Because of the large number of women attending the Basic Orientation course for new Girl Scout leaders, the class is being divided. Intermediate leaders now enrolled in the course are to meet Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Little House, 2600 Ave. P, and Wednesday morning, the Brownie leaders will meet at 9:30 at the Little House.

More than 60 women attended the first lesson and 79 leaders and co-leaders met at the American Legion hall Thursday for the second session.

In both morning classes, crafts, games and folk songs will be studied and Mrs. Frank Ludwig will give an illustrated lecture on different steps in working with clay. There will also be exhibits on leathercraft and metalcraft. In the afternoon session, the study will be on nature, hiking and crafts.

Instructors are Miss Madeleine McDonald, executive director of the Girl Scouts, Mrs. W. C. Warren and Mrs. L. L. Beck, volunteer trainers, Miss Peggy Hess and Miss Mary Warren, field directors.

Workshops Listed For Leaders, Co-Leaders

Mrs. J. Nelson Green, chairman of the training committee for Lubbock Girl Scouts, has announced the following workshops for leaders and co-leaders:

A troop dramatics workshop will be held at the Scout Little House, 2600 Ave. P, Oct. 18, 20, 25 and 27 from 9:30 until 11:30 a. m. Mrs. E. H. McMurtry, Mrs. Sam Hildreth and Mrs. Green will be instructors for the class. Leaders interested in attending are asked to register at the Little House.

A clay modeling workshop being planned will be instructed by Mrs. Frank Ludwig. Those interested are to register at the Little House.

Miss Nancy Walker and Miss Emma Jewel Morrison, senior students in the department of applied arts at Texas Technological college, will be instructors for metalcraft and leathercraft workshops to be given for Intermediate leaders in November.

A workshop of folk songs and dances to be taught by Miss Zora Joy Gifford, supervisor of play grounds and community centers for the City of Lubbock, is being planned for the Scout workers.

Since the enrollment in each workshop will be limited, leaders are asked to take the training which will be most beneficial to them.

Two-Day Training Course Is Ended With Cook Out

Speakers at a two-day training institute for Camp Fire Girls' leaders held at First Christian church Wednesday and Thursday were Dr. Agnes True, associate professor of education and psychology at Texas Technological college, Miss Corinne Moller and Miss Louise Fargher, regional representatives for Camp Fire Girls. Women from Lubbock and Hereford attended.

Dr. True's subject was "What Are Little Girls Made Of?" In discussing children 8, 10 and 12 years of age, she enumerated their qualities as being: limitless affection unbounded energy, curiosity, creativeness and idealism.

Ten second grade pupils of Mrs. Fred Nelson at Dupre school acted out the story of "The Shoemaker and the Elves."

Is Positive Program

"The Camp Fire Girls program," according to Miss Moller, "is a positive program. The aim of which is to provide opportunities for girls to have fun, make friends, acquire creative skills in arts and crafts, and experience the democratic process in small self-motivated groups toward the development of personality and a consciousness of home and community responsibility."

Miss Fargher described how symbolism and ceremonials are used in the Camp Fire programs as a technique or tool to stress new goals and higher ideals. She closed the institute with a ceremonial drill.

The leaders attending had a cook-out at Aggie grove Thursday night.

At Nusaka, Northern Rhodesia, lions frequent Government House grounds.

From Lou To Louella ..

DEAR LOUELLA: Ed McLeroy and Jackie Small, Tech graduates, will be married on the "Bride and Groom" radio show on Tuesday, Oct. 18.

Jackie, who received her degree in home economics in August of 1948 taught school at Spade this past year. Her fiance is now assistant to the county agent at Floydada, and was formerly president of the Aggie club and a member of the Student Council and Who's Who. He was also chairman of last year's Homecoming committee.

For Student Photographers

All Texas Techsans who have not taken a photography course at the college, and who wish to pledge Kappa Alpha Mu, national photography fraternity, must submit prints to KAM members for approval at a meeting Monday at 5 p. m. in the Journalism building.

The Tech chapter of the fraternity has adopted the basic construction of a KAM darkroom as its project for the year, and will also help send a delegate to the national KAM convention in Missouri this spring.

TEXAS ABROAD

James Pinson, who had been touring Europe this summer, will return to Lubbock by plane the middle of this month. After spending a week with friends at their chateau on the Northern coast of Brittany, he returned to Paris for a short stay, and then went on to Italy. It is from there that the following letter was written.

"Vinice, Italy,
Oct. 2, 1949

I am really carried away with Italy and wish I could spend a month here. I have decided that the world is a small place after all. Not a day has gone by here in Italy that I haven't met someone from the States that I know. This morning I had just stepped out of the hotel when I met Gilmore Brown, who has charge of Pasadena Playhouse in California. It was quite a surprise for him to meet one of his ex-students in Europe. So we have been exchanging news while doing the town of Venice today.

I'm just a green Texas kid seeing Europe, so naturally the fabulous luxury and super-service of the Italian hotels I have stayed in have 'knocked me off my feet'. The hotel in which I am staying now is the most outstanding of them all. I am used to just a plain ordinary bathroom, so the all-marbel bath with all sorts of modern gadgets has me amazed. I spent one hour learning how to operate all of the gadgets and seeing what all of the buttons did. My room is full of buttons that do almost everything anyone would want done.

In the process of pushing buttons and pulling silken cords, I had them all figured out but one. That was a silk cord in the bathroom. I couldn't figure out what in the world it was for, so I took a chance and pulled it. The place didn't explode and I heard no noise, which still left me baffled as to its purpose. Shortly there was a knock on the door. It seems I had pulled the cord that calls the maid to draw your bath water for you. Having had a bath, I really didn't need one, but I didn't want to expose my ignorance any more than it already had been so I took another bath.

I have been going from city to city here by Ciat bus. These busses lay any we have at home in the shade. Of course, you reserve your seat on them, and they come by the hotel and pick you up. A hostess greets you at the door calling you by your name (having gotten it off the reservation list). Your seat is just as comfortable as a big easy chair at home that you are used to sinking down in. You can push a button on the back of the seat in front of you, and a table falls out. You have a button to call the hostess, and you will also find a refreshment bar, radio, clock and bulletin board with the name of the next town pasted on it.

The hostesses and two drivers wear smart tan and blue uniforms, and all speak English. They drive you around points of interest on the way to your destination, so with all of this, plus the hotels, a tour of Italy is made in the most comfortable way.

Yours very truly,
James Pinson."

All sets of women twins attending Texas Tech are asked to report their names and addresses to the office of the dean of women. Dean Margarette W. Walker has explained that an entertainment will be planned for all of the girls as soon as the list is complete.

Use Brisk Massage To Relax Tired Feet Is Advice From Model

You can be your own masseuse, if it's feet that need atention. Feet do, if they "go to sleep" while you're still awake, are benumbed by the cold, or are slow on the uptake when you want a snappy response.

Before you massage, sponge feet and legs with witch-hazel. This treatment will help to relax tense muscles and soothe tired feet, says model Doris Dillon. Blessed with photogenic feet, Doris is exacting about their care.

Her massaging technique begins with toes, manipulated with thumb and forefinger of each hand. For feet and legs she uses a brisk movement of hands in a bracelet twist for which hands encircle the limb with opposite motions.

If you haven't time for regular foot exercising, Doris advises using the minutes while you sit reading, knitting or riding in a taxi to keep feet flexible. The simple exercise of rotating an ankle from left to right and of reversing the motion will repay you with stronger and nimbler feet, says Doris.

Three Give Friday Tea

Entertaining at tea Friday afternoon in the John G. King home at 1914 Twenty-fifth were Mesdames King, Ted Waldrip and John R. Hall, jr. Approximately 130 guests called between the hours of 3 and 5:30.

The tea table was laid with a white grass linen cutwork cloth and decorated with old rose gladioli and silver appointments. Those presiding at the tea service were Mesdames J. D. Reese, John R. Hall, sr., Claude A. Burrus, Charles Cathey and H. A. Watson, jr.

Others in the houseparty were Mesdames Joe E. Baldridge, Clifton K. Cox, J. Robert Duncan, G. W. McCraw, J. Floyd Smith, David C. Weaver and Robert M. Williamson. Those assisting with hospitalities wore corsages of gladioli.

Bouquets of fall flowers were arranged throughout the King home.

Dr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Jones have returned from a residence of six months at Chipita Park, Colo., and are at home at 3501 Nineteenth.

These Tricks Hide Lines

• By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

"What can I do about those so-called 'parenthesis' lines that are beginning to make a path between my nose and mouth?" a reader asks.

She—and so can you, if that's your problem — can keep these lines under better control with exercises.

The best daily stint for cheeks, according to a Fifth Avenue beauty specialist, is to puff them out. She suggests puffing, then blowing, as though you were chasing an imaginary feather.

Best time to do this, says our specialist, is while you are creaming your face, at which time skin is suppled up for this exercise.

Deeply grooved "parenthesis" lines will escape notice, if you'll wear as dark a shade of foundation as your skin tones will take, and will apply rouge high on the cheeks. What you want to avoid is a light shade of make-up that accentuates lines and any placement of rouge that highlights these unwanted implications of age.

Use Perfumes To Create Feeling Of Confidence

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Anything that builds up your own consciousness of glamor is worth the time it takes and the price you pay.

That's why frivolous indulgences such as wearing exquisite lingerie that doesn't show, building up mountains of bubbles in a bath tub, or putting perfume on dancing slippers rate the serious sanction that they do.

If you razz the practice of perfuming slippers or stockings, for that matter, which plenty of girls do, you aren't up on the philosophy of the ancient Greeks. They believed that this down-to-earth practice made beiter sense than perfuming the hair or earlobes, where we are wont to think that fragrance belongs.

Because perfume vapors rise, it is better to start them off at the feet where they can envelop the body, than at the head where they climb wastefully out of reach of all noses.

MANICURE SHORT CUT

Every time you wash your hands, do the dishes, or the family wash, cuticles become softened from the warm water. That is the time to gently push cuticles back. Do not press too hard as fingers will become irritated. Saturate a handy cotton square with cuticle oil and massage finger tips. Use a pair of good manjcure scissors to trim hangnails and rough edges. You'll notice ragged cuticles and rough edges will disappear after a few weeks of this treatment.

Boyd-Hampton Marriage Is Read In Methodist Church

In a double ring wedding ceremony performed at the Idalou First Methodist church Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock, Miss Mary Catherine Hampton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hampton, Rt. 1 Lubbock, and Herbert Truman Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Boyd of Idalou were married. Charles R. Gates performed the service before a candlelighted background of fern and palms. Altar decorations were baskets of white chrysanthemums and lemon leaf.

Mrs. Charles R. Gates accompanied D'Aun Weaver, cousin of the bride, as she sang "Always" and Pauline Miller as she sang "Because." "Melody of Love" was offered as vows were read and "The Wedding Prayer" was presented as the musical benediction.

The bridal party marched down an aisle decorated with white tapers and white satin ribbon. Given in marriage by ner father, the bride wore a white velvet, ballerina length dress with a sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves. She wore matching elbow length mitts, a crownless with velvet hat and carried a white Bible, a gift from her mother. A white orchid was arranged on the Bible. For something new, she wore a rhinestone necklace and earrings, gift from the bridegrooms, and for good luck, she wore a penny in her shoe.

In Wedding Party

Miss Samye Jean Hampton, sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore a gold velvet bellerina dress with a matching velvet hat and a bouquet of chrysanthemums tied with gold ribbon. The candlelighters, Mrs. Sam Garrard of Tahoka, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Tracy Weaver of Lubbock, sister-in-law of the bride, wore wine velvet dresses with matching hats and white chrysanthemum corsages.

A white velvet dress was worn by the flower girl, Marilyn Garrard of Tahoka, niece of the bride. She carried a white velvet basket.

Reception Follows Service

At a reception given in the Idalou clubhouse, parents of the bride and bridegroom, members of the wedding party, Mrs. Earl Weaver, Jonelle Judd, Patsy Holmes and Mrs. G. K. Bullock, jr., assisted with hospitalities. The bride's table was laid with a white linen cloth and decorated with a two-tiered wedding cake, with chrysanthemums and crystal and silver appointments.

Out-of-town guests were from Tahoka, Amarillo, Lubbock, Dallas and Fort Worth.

For a wedding trip to Santa Fe, N. M., the bride wore a green gabardine suit with spice accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Boyd is a graduate of Roosevelt High school and attended Texas Technological college where she was a member of Freshman Honor society. She is employed by the West Texas Distribution corp., Lubbock. Mr. Boyd is a graduate of Idalou High school and is employed in Idalou.

Student Will Discuss Missions In Europe

George Worrell, a student at Texas Technological college, will speak Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the chapel of First Baptist church for the Women's Missionary society. Theme for the program will be "Youth in World Missions." George attended a meeting of the World Youth congress in Stockholm, Sweden, this summer, and at the Monday meeting, he is to discuss visits he made to mission stations in Europe.

Special music is to be presented by another Tech student, Winstead Laymance.

Twenty Children Are At Birthday Party

Mrs. Pete Bynum was hostess at a birthday party given Saturday afternoon in the Party house at Mackenzie State park for her daughter, Sandra Gail, who was nine.

The lace covered refreshment table was centered with a birthday cake, a gift from the honoree's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bynum.

BAKED APPLES

Cookery scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture offer the following directions for baking apples.

Wash apples thoroughly and core them without cutting through the blossom end. Place the apples, blossom end down, in a baking dish. Fill holes with a mixture of brown sugar or honey, raisins softened by soaking or chopped soaked prunes, a bit of butter if it can be spared, and chopped nuts if desired. The dried fruit is suggested because it adds sweetness and helps save sugar. Add just enough water to the pan to keep apples from sticking. Then cover the dish. The steam held in by the cover makes the apples cook faster and more evenly. Bake at a temperature from 350 to 400 degrees F. Baking will take about half an hour, depending on the size and variety of apples.

When apples are soft throughout when tested in the center with a fork, they are done. Serve hot or cold, with or without cream.

JOINS STAFF OF KSEL
For 21 years Mrs. Carter has been broadcasting to American women in New York, the South, and New England. And now the women of the southwest can hear Charlotte Carter's "This Day" each morning from 10:30-10:45 (Monday thru Friday). Mrs. Carter chats about the thousand and one things that appeal to her and her neighbors in the South Plains, eastern New Mexico and western Oklahoma —neighbors in every sense of the word, for "This Day" is a bright mid-morning interlude, a chance to learn new things and to "set a spell with a neighborly friend." Mrs. Carter combines her experience (and intuition) with a priceless knack of talking with listeners as informally and pleasantly as if she were right in their kitchens enjoying an extra cup of coffee.

Episcopalians Pledge Battle Against Attacks On Freedoms

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Episcopalians turned homeward today to carry on militant battle the next three years against "a world-wide attack on freedom."

The Episcopal Church of the United States closed out its two weeks triennial convention yesterday with the reading of the bishops' pastorial letter calling for a militant church.

The pastorial letter, representing the thinking of all the bishops, was read to the convention by Bishop Oliver J. Hart of Pennsylvania.

Weakness Is Cited

It cited "religious illeracy's as a basic weakness of the church. It warned:

"Like a pendulum between two extremes we have moved from an exaggerated individualism to a demonic collectiveism; from an individualistic anarchy to a collectivist tyranny; from a false freedom to a worldwide attack on freedom. . .

"As God's children we are neither bricks in the building of the state, nor irresponsible individuals. We are individuals who fulfill our lives in responsible fellowship.

"We have been contaminated by the secular humanism of our time . . . and that is why we call our people to crusade for better Christian education."

Policies Approved

The church set these policies in the convention closing hours for its 1,600,000 communicants:

1. The house of deputies approved releasing children on a voluntary basis from schools for religious education in their own churches. They said they would not interfere with separation of state and church.

2. The deputies voted down two more resolutions approved by the bishops. One would have allowed licensed laymen administer the chalice in holy communin. The other would have urged amnesty for conscientious objectors.

3. The deputies ratified a bishops' resolution calling for internationalization of Jerusalem as a holy city.

Researchers Declare Deer, Antelope Meat Rich In B Vitamins

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 8 (U.P.)—A survey just ended by four home economists at the University of California shows that deer and antelope contain more thiamine (B1) and more riboflavin (B2) than all commercial meats except pork.

The research by Dr. Agnes Fay Morgan, Dr. Bessie B. Cook, Lois E. Witham and Marion Olmstead was made for the California Division of Fish and Game. They wanted to ascertain the best time for hunting.

The survey showed venison contains more vitamins and tastes better in summer months. However, the results won't change the hunting season because factors such as breeding periods and fire hazards are more important.

Pork Leads In B1

In thiamine content, pork hams and loins lead all others two to one. Antelope comes next, followed by deer, Beef, veal and lamb trail. Antelope hams and loins are richer in riboflavin than the cuts of all other animals examined.

Antelope and venison liver contain more riboflavin than the livers of other animals. In thiamine content, venison liver ranks with pork, antelope with lamb.

Dr. Cook said the main reason deer and antelope vary in vitamin content and taste during different months is the availability of food. "Their diet is not controlled or enriched as is that of commercial animals."

Respect From Adults Termed As Top Goal Of Adolescents

CHICAFO, Oct. 8 (U.P.)—A University of Chicago psychologist classes present-day adolescents as "outcasts."

"We do not use them economically, politically or socially — with the exception of war periods," Miss Bernice L. Neugarten says.

Miss Neugarten believes, too, that teen-ager often finds in his parents "inconsistency which often surpasses his own inconsistency."

Adolescents, she says, seek two things: "Understanding and respect for their personality."

IT'S JUST DUCKY, DEAR—Barnyard fashion expert Mary Lou Prentice of Chicago adjusts the bonnet she designed for her delighted duck friend. Duckie will display the millinery—cut from a printed poultry feed bag—in a forthcoming fowl fashion parade. Such fashion shows are being held throughout the country the next few weeks to select the "best-dressed fowl in the nation."

Mother, 27, Goes Berserk And Murders Her Two Children With A Celery Knife

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Oct. 8 (AP)—A 27-year-old mother went berserk today and killed her two children with a celery knife, police said.

Undersheriff B. K. McGregor said she told him she couldn't stand the continual crying of the children.

William Howard Freeman, 28, the husband, said he found his wife this morning sitting in a blood-spattered bathtub with the knife in her hand.

The dead body of their nine-month-old baby, Larry, was in the tub. In a nearby bedroom was the body of another son, John Carroll, six.

End Of Four-Week-Old Missouri Pacific Railroad Walkout Seen

ST. LOUIS ,Oct. 8. (AP)—Hope for ending the Missouri Pacific railroad strike rested in negotiations today.

Campany and union officials accepted a plan yesterday formulated by governors and other officials of nine states through which the railroad runs .

The strike began four weeks ago. Five thousand members of four operating brtherhoods struck over interpretation of rules. The interpretations involve 282 claims.

Company and union representatives will begin negotiations immediately to dispose of as many claims as they can. They will attempt agreement on some way of settling any which are not disposed of through negotiations.

Probe To Be Asked

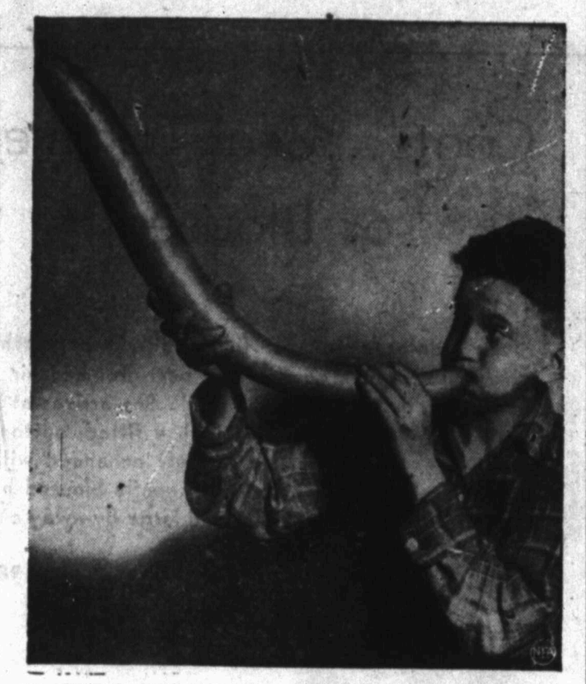

"Trains should be running in a week's time," Gov. Forrest Smith of Missouri said last night, "unless some unforseen obstacle arises.

At Cleveland, O., the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, one of the four striking unions, ordered a two-dollar monthly assessment o neach of its working members to support the Missouri Pacific walkout. The assessment will be effective Nov. 1.

A brotherhood spokesman in Cleveland announced a delegation plans to visit the attorney general in Washington soo and ask for a Justice departmet investigation of the Missouri Pacific trusteeship.

He announced also that Texas and Pacific railroad workers were taking a strike vote on issues similar to those involved in the Missouri Pacific dispute.

Man Fights For More Prominent Place In Capitol For Benjamin Franklin's Statue

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (U.P) — J. Henry Smythe, Jr., writer of trade names and slogans, said there ought to be a law against the way Congress is mistreating the memory of Benjamin Franklin.

Someone is trying to get Congress to move Franklin's statute from a niche in the Senate wing of the Capitol, where hardly anyone looks at it. He wants to put it in a place of honor in the Capitol rotunda, where the likenesses of presidents and others are on display for all tourists to see.

But Congress has indicated that the big marble statute of Franklin by Hiram Powers will have to stap put. All remaining space in the rotunda is being saved for presidential busts.

"They tell me Franklin isn't big enough," Smythe said. "Why, he's one of the three greatest men of all time. It is time for us to be frank about Franklin."

Smythe, an ardent Republican resembles the late Democratic President Roosevelt, pince nez and all. He has been self-appointed press agent to Franklin ever since he waved a flag in a Franklin Day parade in 1921.

Now, at 65, he's chairman of the Franklin Committee of the Sons of the American Revolution, which is waging a rentless campaign to unseat George Washington as the "father of our country" and give the title back to Franklin.

"Ben had it first," Smythe said. "Of course, I'd settle for 'forefather of our country,' if I had to."

As a slogan concocter, Smythe has made up more than 1,000 slogans for both world wars, including catchy phrases like "Ax the Axis" and "Smash the Axis with bombs and taxes."

Rapid Progress Of Colonization Plan In Mexico Reported

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Agriculture department says a program of land colonization to expand farm production of the state of Jalisco, Mexico, has progressed substantially in two years.

A comprehensive report made by an American official after a survey said over 125,000 acres of land are now under cultivation. The ultimate goal is about 250,000 acres.

New Land Opened

In 1948 nearly 25,000 acres of new land were opened for cultivation and this year an additional 37,000 are expected to be ready for farming.

The work has been speeded by modernization of machinery, several irrigation projects, numereus roads and introduction of new crops and farming methods.

The program is sponsored by the state government of Jalisco.

The region is descrjbed as being heavily timbered and mountainous, with fertile subtropical valleys and tropical lowlands along the Pacific coast. Crops include corn, beans, rice, sesame, pineapples, coconut palms, sugar cane, tobacco, bananas, and garden vegetables.

About 30 percent of the arable land is owned by small farmers, it was said 20 percent by ejidatarios and 50 per cent by 16 haciendas.

The fertility of the soil and the rapidity with which things grow led the Agriculture department to say that "without further mechanization little progress can be made in opening new land and keeping it under cultivation."

Railway To Sponsor West Texas Fourth Soil Conservation Tour

FORT WORTH, Oct. 8. (Special) — Burlington Lines has announced plans for sponsoring its fourth soil conservation tour through West Texas towns served by the Fort Worth and Denver City and the Wichita Valley railways.

The first meeting of the soil conservation group will be held in Shamrock Nov. 15. Other meetings will be held at Quanah, Nov. 16; Hendietta, Nov. 17, and Spur during the afternoon and Stamford during the night Nov. 18 to close the tour.

Burlington is cooperating with the Second National bank of Houston, Texas A&M Extension service and the U. S. Soil Conservation service in sponsoring the tour for executive, traffic and operating officers of the lines.

Club's White Flag Is Reminder To Japanese Of Defeat In War

BY IAN MUTSU
United Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, Oct. 8—The 500 members of the Roosters Club consisting of former civil airlines pilots are the most surrender-conscious Japanese.

Club officials each morning break out a white flag. It is the remains of a silken parachute. The flag is run up on a staff atop the club building, which is situated in Tokyo almost next to the red-beflagged headquarters of the Japan Communist Party.

Fujio Tanaka, who used to own an aviation school and who is director of the club, pointed to a ball draped in black cloth at the end of the white flagstaff.

"That is to express mourning," he said.

"We want the Japanese people to realize, to a point where there is absolutely no doubt, that they were defeated. They should know that they were thoroughly beaten. We don't go along with the talk about an 'end to the war' and the reference to American troops as the 'advance garrison'."

The club members feel, Tanaka said, that a full sense of defeat will spur the Japanese to a determined effort to reconstruct their country.

"Understand," he warned, "we are not seeking a comeback to the Japan of former days.

"We feel the Japanese are apt to rely too much on the Americans.

"We feel if they realized they lost the war they would be ashamed to depend on the Americans to accomplish what is clearly their own duty."

Birds Can't Fly

He said: "We the Roosters — birds which can't fly—are among the most helpless. But we are sticking together, doing our share."

The movement, he said, harbors no revenge.

"Also," he said, "we are not trying to rival the Communists' red flag."

Then he walked into the office. He opened a green lacquer box on which appeared "The Flag of Imperial Japan" in golden letters.

The box contained a silken flag of the Rising Sun and a ball covered with gold tinsel, bamboo stemmed to fit atop a flagstaff.

"These will remain here until the day of the peace treaty," he said.

Supersonic Commercial Air Flights Seen By Scientist

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8 (U.P.) — Dr. Clark B. Millikan, professor of aeronautics at the California Institute of Technology, believes supersonic commercial passenger flights will be commonplace in from 10 to 20 years.

"It is my conviction," he said in a recent speech, "that peace-time application of supersonic aircraft will come within 10 to 20 years—when long-distance flights will be routine."

He added that rockets probably were the most feasible medium for faster-than-sound flight.

Absent-Minded Watchman Has Narrow Escape From Death

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (U.P.)—Forgetting the keys to the building where he is a watchman almost cost Harold Gallie his life.

Returning to the building, Gallie found the keys missing from his pocket. He started up a fire escape. As he did so, a police squad spotted him and ordered him to halt.

He went on. The policemen prepared to fire at him but decided to await the arrival of additional squads. Finally, while a full-scale search of the building was under way, he appeared on the street to ask what all the excitement was about.

Comic Strip Creator Is Claimed By Death

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (U.P.)—Monte Barrett, 52, cartoonist, creator of the "Jane Arden" comic strip, died at the Presbyterian hospital-Columbia university medical center at 3:45 a. m. today of a brain tumor.

He had been ill less than a month. He entered the Nix hospital in San Antonio, Tex., his home, and was transferred to the medical center here on Sept. 29.

The body was being flown to San Antonio today. Funeral services will be held in the First Presbyterian church there Monday.

He was a graduate of De Pauw university and was the author of two novels, "Tempered Blade" and "Smoke Up The Valley." He is survived by his widow, Mary Helen, his father Edward W. Barrett, of Muncie, Ind., a brother, Edward of Pasadena, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. Virginia Thornburg of Muncie.

VA Warns Disabled Veterans Of Jan. 1 Deadline For Insurance

World War II veterans with service-connected disabilities were reminded by Veterans administration today of an important deadline in connection with their entitlement to National Service Life insurance.

Prior to January 1, 1950, such disabilities actually incurred in service between October 8, 1940, and September 2, 1945, if less than total in degree, are disregarded in determining aligibility under the health requirements for National Service Life insurance purposes.

This means that veterans who might not otherwise qualify for life insurance or buy new or additional insurance up to the $10,000 maximum if they applied before the end of the year.

A physical examination is required, however, for all insurance applied for under this special provision. Such examinations are made by Veterans administration without cost to the veteran.

Traditional Burro Losing Job To American Jeep In Brazil

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 8 (U.P.)—The traditional burro is losing his job to the jeep in almost inaccessible parts of Brazil.

The Oblate Fathers of Mary Immaculate, doing missionary work in the rugged interior, have sold their burros and purchased jeeps. They said the little cars can go anywhere a burro can and never make up their minds to be stubborn.

State Labor Department To Aid In Settling Disputes On Wages

Cotton pullers who have wage disputes to be settled can utilize the services of the state labor department without charge. they were reminded by Tom Barnes, deputy labor commissioner whose office is in the basement of the courthouse.

No charge is made for the service, Barnes said.

"Last year we were called upon to handle a large number of such disagreements," Barnes explained. "We try to go into all the facts and then help settle the dispute."

Most disputes between farmers and laborers arise as a result of failure to have a complete understanding at the outset, Barnes said. For example, it should be made clear whether the laborers are agreeing to remain until the harvest is completed, and the farmer should make it clear what rate he is paying for cotton pulling.

By having a clear understanding of these and other factors, most disputes can be avoided, he believes.

Barnes covers 52 West Texas counties in his duties.

Ohio County Plans Center To Rehabilitate Petty Criminals

CANTON, O., Oct. 8. (AP)—Jail is the wrong place for drunks and petty thieves, Stark county commissioners said today.

They want to organize a rehabilitation center for them.

Instead of gloomily staring at iron bars, the not-so-hard criminals would serve out their terms in the center. There, they would receive psychiatric and other forms of treatment designed to straighten them out so they won't come back.

Brownfield Lions Will Sponsor Inter-Club Meeting On Oct. 12

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 8. (Special)—E. G. House of New York City, one of the nation's leading psychologists, will speak in Brownfield Wednesday, Oct. 12, at an inter-club meeting sponsored by the Lions club.

Members of the Rotary club and the senior and junior chambers of commerce will be guests of the Lions at the meeting. W. T. McKinney is chairman of the Lions inter-club relations committee.

The title of House's talk will be "This Complicated Age." He has addressed Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis, and other clubs, factory personnel, and other groups throughout the United States for the past 30 years.

When Cherokees Play Stickball, Nobody Cares About The Rules

CHEROKEE, N. C., Oct. 8 (U.P.)—When Cherokee Indians get up a little game of stickball at this big Indian reservation, chances are they're out for blood.

That is not just a phrase used by sports writers. The blood in an Indian stickball game is real.

Stickball, a game something like rugby and lacrosse mixed in with hockey and a touch of mob violence, has been played for countless years by the Cherokees. And as a matter of fact, it was invented by wise old chiefs who fully expected that the players would come fairly close to slaughtering one another. That was the idea.

Things got dull for spunky young warriors in those days just as they do today and the chiefs knew that idle time, petty arguments and disagreements could lead to savage brawls and feuds.

Grudges Paired Off

So rather than have the young bucks lie in ambush for their enemies and crease their scalp locks with a stone axe, the chiefs invented stickball. Each full moon, the chief rounded up his quarrelsome warriors, paired them off according to individual grudges and set, the whole crowd to playing stickball.

The ball is an oversized walnut. Each player carries a small racquet. The only rule is that the ball cannot be picked up from the ground with anything but the racquet. Once the player has his hands on the ball he can get it through the enemy goalposts any way he chooses. He can throw, run, crawl, fight, slug and anything else that helps. Usually he puts the ball in his mouth to keep both hands free and lights out for the goal.

Since each player has an opponent and that opponent is chosen for his enmity, the game soon turns into a series of two-way brawls all over the field with very little attention being paid to the ball.

Referees Mum

That is perfectly all right with the three referees who generally have grudges too and pay little attention to their suposed job of keeping order with their long switches.

Things have changed slightly now. The Cherokees, who stayed in the Great Smoky Mountains despite the best efforts o fthe Army to push them westward, play stickball just at the spring council and at their October fair.

That means that pent up grudges are saved up six times as long, and afternoons during councils or fairs are times for mayhem on the stickball field.

Tot Puzzled As Men "Clean Out" House

BOSTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—The three men who told six-year-old Martha Murray they were going to "clean" her house were right—they did.

Martha greeted her mother, Mrs. Margaret Murray, on return from a shopping trip yesterday with this inquiry:

"Mummy, why are we having our house cleaned out?"

Pressed further, the child explained that the men had entered and told her they were going to "clean out the place."

Mrs. Murray discovered $126 in cash and a $26 radio missing from the apartment.

Charm In Office Is Essential To Business Girl

(By The Associated Press)

It is just as important to look pretty in the office as it is to look lovely when dating. Some girls tear around their offices looking like zombies all day and then at 5 o'clock suddenly emerge as glamor queens.

Little charm aids which can add to your attractiveness should be kept in the desk drawer, and used not just for emergencies, but at frequent intervals during the day.

A bar of soap and a clean towel will come in handy as a quick refresher. Small cotton balls can serve as powder puffs and can be disposed of after they have been utilized. You can get a good supply of these for a few cents and they will prove more sanitary than your dirty powder puff.

Witch hazel is a wonderful pick-me-up when your face is flushed and as an astringen before applying new makeup.

Include in your little grooming kit a clean pair of stockings, an extra dickey or collar and cuff set and a pair of sparkling white gloves. Crisp white accessories always can flatter even a drab office dress which must serve as a last minute date dress.

Be particularly careful of the makeup you wear in the office. The point is to look neat and clean. You don't have to plaster yourself with greasy foundations, mascara, eye shadow and rouge to win the boss' admiration. You may, with this glamor routine, only succeed in making him ill.

Look as pretty as possible by keeping your skin free of blemishes. Use powder, a not-too-dark lipstick and brush your hair to a lovely sheen. A light cologne is always permissable to use in the office, but skip the heavy, exotic perfumes.

Extension Group Of Lubbock Jaycees Marks Up Mileage

The committee, headed by Chairman Ralph S. Krebbs, travelled 6,536 miles in September to visit nine South Plains towns in Jaycee Region 2.

Towns visited last month included Tahoka, Muleshoe, Crosbyton, Abernathy, Lamesa, Levelland, Seagraves, Plainview and Ralls.

The trips to Seagraves and Ralls were for the purpose of organizing Jaycee units in the respective towns.

Visits to Post, Spur and Ralls are planned for the near future by the committee to aid in organizing units for the organization.

"We are told those towns are each in need of a young man's organization," Krebbs said, "and we think Junior Chambers of Commerce are the answer."

COURSES FOR VETERANS PROBLEM

GI Education Mixed Up; VA Charges Program Is Abused

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—There's been a mix-up over the GI education program.

At the root of it is the belief of the Veterans administration (Va), which runs the program, that it's being abused.

This is a brief explanation of what's happened.

In 1944 Congress passed a law letting World War II veterans go to school at government expense and get paid while going.

They got this under two main conditions: If they were under 25 and could show the war had interrupted their education.

In 1945 Congress changed the law, wiping out the two limitations mentioned, opening the program to veterans of any age.

Then began a government philosophy that all veterans should have any education they wanted, based on their military service up to four years.

Change In 1948

Veterans not only poured into the long-established colleges but began taking various kinds of instruction like dancing, mixing drinks, learning to fly, and even how to tell the sex of unborn chicks.

They could take these courses whether or not what they learned could be used later in making a living.

In 1948 the government philosophy changed a bit. In that year Congress tightened up the law a little. As a result—

VA banned—unless a veteran could prove he needed it to make a living—recreational courses like dancing, mixing drinks, and learning to fly. But—

VA let the other courses stand—like college or a trade, such as plumbing—if they'd help a veteran learn to make a living.

He could take such courses and even switch or change them as he wished.

Order Rescinded

In August, 1949 the policy got a little tighter. Congress did it by banning the spending of government money in schools that had been in existence less than one year.

The VA, on its own, tightened up the program even more than the law itself called for in so many words. Why? On the grounds that the program is being abused.

VA not only continued to ban purely recreational courses but added something else.

Under this last rule, unless he could how it was really necessary for him a veteran no longer could resume an interrupted course, even in a regular college, or transfer to a new course or a new school, take post-graduate work, or enroll in schools established since 1944.

The VA released this ruling Sept. 15. It raised such a storm of protest in Congress, among veterans and even among some educators, that this week VA wiped out the Sept. 15 order.

Rule Explained

Recreational courses still are banned, unless a veteran can show how one of them will help him make a living. But VA now will let a veteran, without proving anything, change courses, resume interrupted ones, and take post-graduate work—provided it's in the same general field.

For example: A veteran taking a bachelor of arts course in college could switch from chemistry to physics without having to prove anything. But a veteran who had been stpdying law and then wanted to switch to the ministry, which is in a different field, would have to show why.

And further—. VA under its latest ruling, knocking out its Sept. 15 ruling, won't let a veteran enroll in a school that's been in extence less than a year.

Abuses Charged

H. V. Stirling, assistant veterans administrator in charge of the education program, still thinks it's being abused because "practically every World War II veteran is eligible for education or training without regard to need, with a potential, total additional cost to the government of $60,000,000,000."

The program since 1944 has already cost the government between $8,000,000,000 and $9,000,000,000. Of the 15,000,000 veterans, most of whom are eligible for it, about 6,500,000 have used the program.

Stirling has indicated he believes the living allowance given veterans while attending school has induced many of them to take a course just to get the government money.

In addition, he says, 1,400 new schools, teaching everything from business administration to paper hanging, have sprung up in the past year, many of them just to get government tuition money.

Under present law, Stirling says, VA can't stop all the abuses. So, apparently, stopping them is a job for Congress under a changed law.

Man In Rowboat Set Record By Crossing Atlantic In 45 Days

BOSTON, Oct. 8. (U.P.)—Americans today are familiar with speed records being set to all parts of the world—and being broken just as fast.

But here's one record that isn't likely to be challenged:

Across the Atlantic Ocean in a rowboat in 45 days!

The record was established during a rowboat race from Boston to Cornwall, England, 58 years ago. The time of the winner, Josiah W. Lawlor, was 24 days less than it took Columbus to cross in the opposite direction.

Both rowboats were of the same size—14 feet, 11 inches overall.

Used Sails Also

The other contestant was William A. Andrews, a Manchester, Mass., piano-maker. His boat, the Merimaid, had capsized several days previously. He had righted it single-handed.

The pair started June 21, 1891, and at the end of the first month Lawlor's Sea Serpent was 1,100 miles ahead. Both craft had auxiliary sails to use with a following wind but the only method of communication was via bottles tossed to passing steamers.

Lawlor's log records that he fell overboard twice in storms and capsized his frail cockle-shell vessel once. He brought it right side up only by jumping on the exposed keel. His log ended with this advice to future sailors:

"Don't go to sea, boys."

Squirrels And Bees Occupying Same Tree In Park At Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 8 (U.P.)—Feudin' mountaineers had nothing on the swarm of bees and squirrels claiming the same residence in a park tree in downtown Memphis.

Lt. D. L. Peeples, on the park beat, says the squirrels had the whole tree until the bees moved in to make it a duplex.

"It was rough at first, with the bees chasing after the squirrels right down the tree," Peeples said.

"But now they seem to get along—bees on one side, squirrels on the other in the tree, never a bit of trouble between them.

"It looks as though the squirrels will have honey on their acorns this winter."

Radio Announcer Booked On Suspicion Of Manslaughter

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8 (AP) — Frank Haven MacQuarrie, 55, producer and announcer of the radio show, "Noah Webster Says," was booked today on suspicion of manslaughter in the death of a woman pedestrian.

Lieut. E. R. Evans, a motorcycle officer, said MacQuarrie's car struck Mrs. Dorothy Friedman, 47, on Cahuenga freeway and that the impact hurled her more than 20 feet.

MacQuarrie told police that another car struck Mrs. Friedman and tossed her body on his machine.

RELEASED ON BOND

TEXARKANA, Oct. 8. (AP)—Carl Maddox, 47, has been released on $3,000 bond in the slaying of Neil Phillips, 24, of Bloomburg, Tex. Phillips was fatally beaten last Friday during a cafe brawl.

AIR FORCE ASSUMING SPOTLIGHT

Legislators Express Views On Major U. S. Defense Questions

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—What does Congress think of the big battle going on within the armed forces over the roles of air, land and sea power and the broader question of military preparednes?

It's hard to gauge the reaction of more than 500 lawmakers to such things as the B-36 investigation and a Navy captain's complaints that Defense department big brass is out to kill off Navy air.

But here are the composite views of some key legislators who deal with defense legislation, speaking frankly, although they asked that their names not be used:

On the Navy—

Long the darling of congressmen, the Navy has lost its place in their minds as the first line of defense. Most of them think the Air Force has taken over that role. Long range bombers, as the offensive striking arm, are likely to remain in Air Force hands.

But that doesn't mean that Navy air is going to be wiped out. Congress generally seems to envision the future Navy as a supporting arm for major Army and Air Force offensive and defensive operations.

Have Largest Navy

It will appropriate cheerfully for carriers, planes and submarines, but it figures the day of the battleship is gone forever. It might like to see some of the mothballed battle wagons turned into carriers if practical.

Most congressmen apparently don't want to restrict planes to the Air Force. They remember the painful experience of the British navy at the start of the last war, when the Royal Air Force couldn't furnish adequate protection for surface craft.

Budget-wide, however, the Navy probably is going to have to take most of the bumps in future economies. The argument is simple in the minds of many congressmen:

We now have the world's biggest Navy, about three times as large as the fleets of the rest of the world combined (counting laid-up ships).

The Army is far outnumbered in divisions by Russia's, although the Air Force stacks up better in number of planes and is far ahead in quality.

In the rush to build up defenses you spend the most money where you expect the most results and where you may be comparatively weaker. Thus, the Air Force gets first call (on the basis of expected results), the Army next and the Navy last.

B-36 Not Invulnerable

On the B-36—

The Air Force's biggest bomber is regarded on Capitol Hill as good but certainly not invulnerable. Few believe there was any skull-druggery in the staff chiefs' choice of it as the bomber to put in big production.

But Congress is impatient for long-range jet bombers and disturbed by reports that Russian jet fighters may be faster than our own. It wonders whether our guided missile program is keeping pace with Soviet developments.

On the atom bomb—

Despite warnings by the experts, many congressmen still think the atom bomb will be the deciding factor in the next war. Some think it might win a war without invasion of enemy territory, but that belief is declining under repeated hammering by defense leaders.

President Truman's announcement of the Soviet atomic explosion seemed to have convinced a majority of Congress the complete know-how of the bomb ought to be shared with Britain and Canada. It had heard so often that the Russians would have the bomb soon it had come to accept that as inevitable, so the announcement was not too shocking. But lawmakers generally think bomb-making ought to be carried on exclusively in this country and that the British ought to get out of the way to let full uranium supplies come here from the Belgian Congo.

Congress Is Optimistic

On unification—

Lawmakers are getting tired of the squabbling among the services.

They would applaud Defense Secretary Johnson's knocking some heads together — up to a point. They wouldn't stand for abolition of the Marine Corps or Naval air. And when economy closes a naval base in their district, it still hurts them where the votes are.

Some of them believe Johnson wants to run for president. Those who are against him watch closely every move he makes, ready to pounce on any mistake.

The next war—

There may be more optimism in Congress about the possibilities of avoiding future war than there is among military men.

If war comes, lawmakers think it will be fought largely in the air, with the atomic bomb, guiding missiles and possibly with germs. They look at the North Pole route as the pathway of strikes at or by Russia, the only potential enemy in sight. They shudder to think of what Russian bombers might do to industrial cities with atomic bombs.

They are resigned to the belief that this country will have to furnish not only most of the machines but most of the fighting men in any future war.

If all the people in the U. S. moved to Texas it would be no more densely populated than Massachusetts.

First Little Theatre Play To Be Dedicated To LAFB Groups

Both the Monday night and Tuesday night performances of "Ah, Wilderness!", first play of the second season of Lubbock Little Theater, will be dedicated to officers and enlisted men of Lubbock Air Force base and their families.

Both plays will be given at 8 p. m. in O. L. Slaton Junior High school auditorium at Thirty-second and Ave. Q.

"Ah, Wilderness;" will be directed by Weldon George, who appeared last year in principal roles in "You Can't Take It With You" and "Jane Ayre."

Cast Is Listed

The play, written by Eugene O'Neill, has as its leading character Nat Miller, blunt, family-loving publisher of a small town newspaper in Connecticut. The play opens with a typical family situation on the Fourth of July around the turn of the century. From there, it works its way through difficulties encountered by son, Richard, because of his teenage revolt against conventions.

Those in the cast will be: Miss Linda Rogers, as Judy; Miss Ann Eskin, as Mildred; Mark Smith, as Arthur; Mrs. Walter Wilson, as Mrs. Miller; Mrs. Ruth Wilson, as Lily Miller; Gene Looper, as Nat Miller; Wilson B. Ward, as Sid Davis; William Murphy, as Richard; Leon E. Harris, as David McComber; Miss Quanah Lewis, as Nora; Jim Moll, as Wint; Miss D'Ruth Hopping, as Belle; Carl Garner, as the bartender; Glen Garner, as the salesman, and Miss Marcia Rogers, as Muriel McComber.

Taylor Stage Manager

Stage manager will be Charles Taylor. Properties will be handled by Mrs. Bert McGinis, jr. Costume design is under direction of Mrs. Marshall Harvy and Mallory Byrd, lighting is directed by Bert McGinnis, jr., and make-up is under supervision of J. Glenn Garner.

Ample parking space will be available along Thirty-second street, it was announced.

Proceeds from the five plays of the season will be used to pay royalties and provide equipment and costumes for producing more plays.

Ticket prices are: Season, $6.50; reserved seats at individual performances, $1.80; general admission, $1.20, and student tickets, 60 cents. Tax is included in those prices.

Dawn Redwood Trees May Soon Grow Again On Pacific Coast

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 8 (U.P.)—Hundreds of seedlings of the dawn redwood, an ancient Chinese tree, have been transplanted along the Pacific Coast from Alaska to Guatemala.

The dawn redwood previously was believed to have become extinct 20,000,000 years ago, but recently living specimens were discovered in the remote interior of China.

University of California scientist Ralph W. Chaney went to China and brought back four seedlings and thousands of seeds, which he sent to former students and colleagues to plant in their neighborhood.

Rossellini Wins Long Fight With Studio On Film Cutting

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8 (AP)—Italian Director Robert Rossellini won't have to leave Ingrid Bergman in Italy to come here for the cutting of their film, "Stromboli."

He has won his long controversy with RKO over the editing of the picture, the studio conceded yesterday.

Rossellini balked at coming here to cut the film and held up the final sequence until he got his way. The studio said it will send film editor Terry Kellum to Italy to assist Rossellini.

Failure Of French Designers Seen

Goal Of Short Skirts Is Reached By Women's Club

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

PAMPA, Oct. 8—The determined ladies are happy now.

They are the members of the Little Below the Knee club—that band of intrepid women rebels who swore two years ago that no French fashion designer was going to make them wear long skirts. No siree! Or rather, no ma'am.

This year the skirts are shorter—right where the LBK women drew and held that line two years ago, about three inches below the knee.

"Won In 1947"

"Personally, I feel that we won our argument in 1947, and it has taken the fashion industry two years to admit their failure with the 'new look'," said Mrs. Warren J. Woodard.

Mrs. Woodard was the young, good-looking Dallas housewife who started the revolution and organized the LBK club in August, 1947. Last spring she moved with her husband to Pampa, on the West Texas plains.

"Three months after the club started it had 300,000 members and we in Dallas had received some 25,000 letters and cards from all over the world," Mrs. Woodard said.

Several hundred women marched up the main street of Dallas in their grandmothers' old pavement sweeping skirts that fall.

Skirts Are Shorter

"We don't want to look like this," their placards proclaimed.

"In the fall of 1947," Mrs. Woodard said, "the fashion association announced skirts had stopped their decline 13 inches from the floor. The club advocated three inches below the knee. But even though skirts went below this length, they did not reach the five inches from the floor length designated by the designers.

"The LBK club felt we had won our battle."

Mrs. Woodard said the club disbanded the latter part of 1947.

Fashion designers concede that skirts most assuredly are shorter, but they set no arbitrary length this year—just the length most becoming to individual height.

And what does the man on the street think about it?

Said one—"I don't like to see skirts so short they show a woman's knees. Still, I don't like to see skirts scraping the floor. Anywhere in between is okay with me."

And the cop on the corner—"One year they're shorter and the next year they're longer. Lady, I just can't keep up with it."

EXERCISE BECOMES GAME

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (U.P.) — Women's college basketball first was played at Smith College. Instructor Senda Berenson introduced it as a class exercise in 1892. She later developed the set of rules used in the women's version of the sport.

Recognition Of Voice Foils Suicide Effort Of Fort Worth Woman

FORT WORTH, Oct. 8 (U.P.)—A south side Fort Worth woman who called police to obtain their promise "the papers won't call my death a suicide," was believed recovering from an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Asst. Police Chief R. R. Howerton got the telephone call and heard the woman say she wanted to die—that she had swallowed enough sleeping tablets to take her life.

Woman's Voice Recognized

Howerton recognized her voice, recalling quickly he had met her when she did civilian defense work during the war. He tried reasoning with her, asking for her address.

She refused, asking Howerton to "promise me that when I'm gone, the papers won't call my death a suicide."

Police Chief R. E. Dysart, who was conferring with Howerton when the woman called, was quickly informed of the circumstances by Howerton, who covered the mouthpiece with his hand as the woman sobbed out her story of despondency.

Voice Becoming Weaker

Dysart worked fast, checked the city directory and telephone book and dispatched a police patrol car and an ambulance as Howerton continued reasoning with the woman.

Her voice became weaker as Howerton talked. Then he heard the doorbell ring at the home—within less than 20 minutes after the woman called him.

It was the officers and ambulance attendants, who entered just as the woman collapsed and dropped the receiver.

Today, the woman was reported in fair condition in a Fort Worth hospital.

CONESTOGA STOGIES

The humble stogie derives its name from the fact that it was the favorite smoke of the men who drove the famed Conestoga wagons having their origin among the Dutch farmers of the Conestoga valley, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Rumors Are Rife, But She's Never Been Engaged In Her Life

Charming Sharman, Douglas' Daughter Won't Forget What England Taught Her

By JAMES E. BROWN
(INS) Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 8 — Sharman Douglas, 22-year-old blonde daughter of American Ambassador Lewis Douglas, decided today to explode some of the myths which have grown up about her during the past two years in London.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service, the first such formal talk she has ever given to a newspaperman, Sharman chatted naturally and unaffectedly. She began:

"I honestly dont' like having so much publicity, and I know that most of it here in London is due to daddy's position—and not to anything remarkable that I have done, such as swimming the channel or flying an airplane.

Flattery Embarrassing

"Naturally, every girl likes to see her picture in the paper and to read flattering remarks about herself, but it gets a little embarrassing for my escorts. I have been reported engaged to three different young men in the past two weeks, and it's a little hard on them — especially as I'm sure that they don't want their names attached to me in such a manner.

"While we are on the subject, I am definitely not engaged to anyone, and I have never been engaged in my life."

When it was pointed out candidly that her vivacious beauty, position, and friendship with members of the British royal family made her in inevitable subject for columnists, she said:

"I realize the circumstances, and I am not being a prima donna, but I do think there has been too much of this social butterfly type of story. For instance, I just graduated from the Queen's secretarial college where I have been studying typing and shorthand. I now can do 120 words of shorthand a minute and 53 words on the typewriter. There's nothing exceptional about that, but it shows that I am not just interested in dancing and parties."

May Look For Job

Sharman is think of looking for a job when she returns from a holiday in Italy, but she has not yet decided on any particular type of work. This attractive girl, whose picture is now known to millions of Britons, was born in New York City on October 5, 1928. As a child she lived in Washington, where her father was then a congressman from Arizona, and later attended Brearley school in New York. She has two brothers, James Stuart, 27, nicknamed "Doo" by his family, and Lewis, jr., called "Peter" among his intimate friends.

She entered Vassar in 1946 and, after her first year there, was planning a summer holiday in Europe with her parents when Douglas was appointed ambassador to Great Britain. The "summer holiday" developed into a stay in London of over two years. Today she says:

"I have absolutely adored every minute of it. The experience has been wonderful, and I would not have missed it for anything."

Besides studying secretarial work, Sharman has also been taking courses in music and the history of art. She took piano lessons when she was young and plans to start practicing again this winter.

Met Great People

Asked if she ever regretted not finishing her education at Vassar, she said:

"No, because being here with daddy has enabled me to learn more than I ever would at college. It has given me the opportunity to meet some of the world's greatest men—it's like having a ringside seat and watching history in the making."

Sharman felt it might be undiplomatic to name her favorite English statesmen.

"Naturally," she said, "there are some I like more than others, but I have found all of them most interesting. I think anyone who is interested in government procedure should pay at least one visit to the House of Commons. The debates are on a very high level, and the members do not rely on notes as much as I had expected."

Sharman laughingly recalled a recent incident when she was asked to open a youth hostel and make a short speech.

"I had it all written out," she said, "but my hand shook so much that I could hardly see what was on the paper."

Loves Princesses

Asked about gossip columnists' stories that she and Princess Margaret seem to be sharing the same boy friends, Sharman said:

"Well, I suppose it does look that way, but it only happens because we all go around together in the same set. Princess Margaret and Princess Elizabeth couldn't possibly be nicer—I love them both. And the Duke of Edinburgh is very attractive. The little baby, Prince Charles, is sweet—he crawls around like mad, and everybody adores him."

Sharman was reluctant to discuss King George and Queen Elizabeth, saying:

"It wouldn't be right for me to say anything about them except I think they are two of the most wonderful people I have ever met. I recently spent two weeks at Balmoral for Princess Margaret's birthday, and the king seems very well and in good spirits."

In spite of attending many diplomatic and society dinners where the food is lavish and sometimes exotic, Sharman prefers good old-fashioned American dishes.

Interested In Stage

"I love corn-on-the-cob," she said, "and my favorite snack is a bacon sandwich. When we went to Spain my friends used to tease me because I always ordered something like ham-and-eggs instead of any of those elaborate Madrid specialities. But it's no use pretending—I like plain food, and I always will."

Sharman enjoys meeting stage and screen stars, but she is not seriously thinking of trying to break into the movies herself.

"I'm very much interested in everything concerning the stage, and it would be nice to work in Hollywood, but I'm afraid I wouldn't be a good actress."

She admitted that she has received offers but added:

"The offers never came directly to me"—implying that a parental veto had been exercised on a possible stage career. Nevertheless, although Sharman was unwilling to discuss the question, this correspondent received the impression that it is not something which she is seriously considering.

While on the subject of actors, she referred to Danny Kaye who is a great favorite with the entire Douglas family. The most popular personal appearance by an American star in London during last season was that of Danny Kaye.

English Boys Slow

Although Sharman has met many of England's most eligible young men, blue-blooded, successful, and many with gallant war records, she has not yet lost her heart to any of them. She maintains an open mind about the varying attractions of Englishmen and Americans and says she likes a man for himself not for his nationality.

"But," she admitted thoughtfully, "there are differences between them. Many of these different qualities are so intangible that it is difficult to define them. On the surface, however, there is one huge difference—a girl can be on a chatty basis with an American in two seconds whereas it sometimes takes fifteen minutes to break the ice with an English boy. But, after the ice is broken, he can be just as charming and amusing—it sometimes takes him longer, that's all."

Among Sharman's recent escorts have been such notables as the Hon. Peter Ward, the second son of the Earl of Dudley, the Marquess of Blandford, Captain Tom Egerton, and others. But her partiality to the stage is revealed by her accompanying such talented and titled playwrights as Julian Fane, the brother of Lord Westmorland, and the Hon. William Douglas-Home to the opening nights of their efforts.

Saddened By Death

Sharman has been saddened, however, by the tragic death of Mary, daughter of Helen Hayes and Charles MacArthur. Both families have been intimate friends for years, and Sharman wore her haid in pig-tails about the same time as Mary.

"It seemed to us as though a member of the family had died when we heard the news," said Sharman, "we just could not believe it. How terrible that such a thing could have happened."

This, then, is Sharman Douglas—a friendly, healthy American girl who likes to play tennis, likes to dance, smokes a little, and remains sensible about her part in the international world of which she has now become a part.

The Douglas family—dignified, genial Mr. Lewis Douglas, friendly, hospital, gracious Mrs. Douglas, and lovely, vivacious Sharman—have come to represent Americans to the British. And all Americans who come to London on work or please agree that they could not have better representatives.

Principal Of Houston School Dies In Veterans Hospital

HOUSTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—George A. Loescher, 57, principal of Stephen F. Austin High school since it opened 13 years ago, died yesterday.

He had entered the veterans hospital here August 30.

Loescher had been a member of the administrative faculty of Houston public schools 26 years.

Survivors include the widow, the mother, Mrs. Emma Mueller Loescher, Oshkosh, Wis., and a sister, Mrs. Harry Boeder, Oshkosh.

Post-War Baby Boom Creating Future Need For More Schools

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—The post-war boom in babies will make it necessary to provide school facilities for at least 8,000,000 more children within the next years, a survey shows.

A study by the Council of State Governments on school systems across the nation shows that at least 250,000 new schoolrooms will be needed to accommodate these children.

You Can Help Fight FIRE!

...AMERICA'S NO. 1 ENEMY AT HOME!

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK
October 9 to 15

Fire losses in the United States are the highest in history! You can help fight fire by eliminating fire hazards! Statistics indicate that poor housekeeping in home, farm and industry is the biggest single cause of fire. You can help—fires don't just happen—80% of them need never occur! If fire should happen to you, could you afford the dollar loss? Think too, of indirect losses in medical costs . . . in jobs . . . in wages . . . production . . . in loss of savings that occur as a result of fire! Of the thousands upon thousands of lives lost each year! President Truman stated, "The whole hearted efforts of all of us together, and each of us individually can go far toward halting fire's mounting destruction of human life and property!" It's up to each of us to be more careful while smoking, while using or storing inflammables. It's up to each of us to be our own fireman! For your own sake . . . for the sake of the 2,000 children who will never have a chance . . . *do your part in fighting fire!

Do your part to stop fires BEFORE they start! Insure against fire loss

Flanagan Field In Gaines Is Extended

George P. Livermore, Inc., has completed his No. 2 Joe Head as an extension to Clearfork production in the Flanagan field of Central-south Gaines county.

The well pumped 24 hours and made an initial production of 95.22 barrels of 38-gravity oil, with a gas-oil ratio of 480-1. There was no formation water reported.

Top of Pay 7,175 Feet

The top of the pay was 7,175 feet. The pumper was completed from above the plugged back bottom of 7,230 feet. It drilled to a total depth of 7,242 feet. A five and one-half inch oil string was cemented at 7,149 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 12, block A-23, psl survey, and about 12 miles south of Seminole.

To Abandon No. 2 Bice

Cabot Carbon Company of Midland No. 2 S. E. Bice, northeast Gaines county wildcat between Cedar Lake and Welch fields, treated open hole between 4,925-954 feet with 10,000 gallons of acid and swabbed out water.

It developed no signs of commercial production and is preparing to plug and abandon.

The failure is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 2, block C-31, psl survey.

Samedan Oil Corporation and W. D. and R. S. Anderson No. 1-B-A Andrews, wildcat adjacent to the Robertson field in central-south Gaines county to 12,500 feet and which has shown for commercial production in the Devonian, is now drilling past 10,970 feet.

The show from Devonian came in a drillstem test of a 35-foot section of Devonian. Flow was at the rate of 40 barrels of oil per day. Section tested was 10,062-090 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 19, block A-24, psl survey and 15 miles southwest of Seminole.

Exploring Ellenburger

Forrest Oil Corporation and Anderson-Prichard Oil Corporation No. 1-A Parmer county school land fee, slated 15,000-foot wildcat in southeast Gaines county, was making hole past 10,434 feet in lime and shale.

It is to explore the Ellenburger.

The drillsite is 860 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of labor 12, league 317, Parmer county school lands survey.

Other Wildcats Drilling

A slated 8,000-foot wildcat in central-west Gaines county, Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation No. 1 L. R. Nichols, was waiting on cement to cure after setting 9 5/8 inch casing at 4,420 feet with 3,000 sacks of cement.

When the plug has cured, it will be drilled out and deepening continued.

This project is 23 miles west of Seminole and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 7, block A-10, psl survey.

A deep wildcat in west central Gaines county and adjacent to the North Riley field, Los Nietos Company and Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 2-B M. S. Doss, was continuing to drill deeper past 9,077 feet in lime.

It is contracted to drill to 11,000 feet to test into the Devonian.

The drillsite is 660 feet from west and 760 feet from north lines of the Southeast quarter of section 360, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey. That makes it nine miles southwest of Seminole.

Wildcat In Borden Is To Be Plugged

Sinclair Oil & Gas company is preparing to plug and abandon its No. 1 Rosa Pratt, wildcat one mile west and one-quarter of a mile south of the discovery well of the Borden field in northwest Borden county.

The prospector recovered 3,800 feet of salt water in a one-hour and 50-minute drillstem test at 10,024-070 feet. It drilled to a total depth of 10,070 feet.

The failure is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 44, block 32, T-6-N, EL&RR survey.

No Shows In Test

Another outpost to Sinclair No. 1 Sterling C. Williams, the deep discovery and field opener, Sinclair No. 1 Ruth Reynolds was drilling ahead after recovering 15 feet of drilling mud and no shows in a drillstem test at 10,022-062 feet. The test lasted on hour

This project, 1,980 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of section 33, block 32, T-6-N, EL&RR survey, and one mile north and a half mile west of the discovery is now making hole past 10,062 feet in lime.

No. 1 Bryan Coring

A north offset to the No. 1 Williams, Sinclair No. 1 W. H. Bryan, was coring lime at 9,900 feet.

No. 1 Bryan is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 40, block 32, T-6-N, EL&RR survey.

Deepening was in progress at the fourth offset, Sinclair No. 1 Turner, direct east outpost to the discovery.

FIFTH POLIO FATALITY

HOUSTON, Oct. 8. (AP) — Carl Ann Dement, 21 months old, died in the City-County hospital here yesterday. She was Houston's fifth polio fatality of the year.

Northwest Terry Adds Producer

The second producer from the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian has been assured for the Mound Lake field in northeast Terry county, about eight miles northeast of Brownfield.

Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware No. 2 E. M. Hinson, one quarter of a mile south of the discovery well of the Mound Lake field, flowed at the rate of 350 barrels of oil per day from the Canyon lime at 9,400-35 feet, natural.

No Water Develops

That showing was made during a six-hour test when a total of 101 barrels of clean oil was produced. In the first two hours of that period the flow was through a one-half in choke. During the last four hours the oil was flowed through three-eighths inch tubing. No water was developed.

At last report the well was shut-in while a pump was being installed and connections were made with the tank battery.

Pump Being Installed

Operator is putting in the pump to be sure that the well will produce regularly. On preliminary tests made since the pay section was penetrated it has not flowed regularly or steadily, on account of the low pressure in the producing horizon.

Interested observers think that by using the pump, to agitate the well that it will flow most of the time after it is put on production. A completion test on this new producer likely will be taken and reported within the next ten days or two weeks.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of the northwest quarter of section 91, block 4-X, EL&RR survey.

Deep Test Drilling

A scheduled 12,500-foot wildcat four miles east of the Adair pool in southeast Terry county, Tide Water Associated Oil Company No. 1 J. P. Nystal, was making further hole past 8,565 feet in lime and shale.

This prospector is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 9, block C-38, psl survey, and 14 miles south of Brownfield.

Trying For Completion

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 2 Holt, one-quarter of a mile stepout from the discovery well for Devonian production in the Landon-Deep field about 25 miles south and a little west of Lehman is continuing to test to try to complete as an oil well.

It is testing on perforated section at 11,710-794 feet in the Devonian. That section has been treated with acid.

At last report operator was cleaning out after a 10,000 gallon acid injection. The well has shown considerable amounts of free oil and probably will be finished soon as a commercial producer.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 3, block L, psl survey.

Stanolind No. 1 Grollman, another exploration to try to develop production in the Devonian in the Landon-Deep area, and 660 feet from west and 407 feet from south lines of section 4, block L, psl survey, had progressed below 11,243 feet in lime and was continuing to make hole. It has not yet reached the Devonian.

That formation is expected to be tested by the time the hole reaches 11,750 feet.

Deep Tests Holding Attention In Dawson

Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware No. 1 Mart Barrow, wildcat to 10,000 feet in northeast Dawson county, and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet form east lines of section 8, block 35, T-6-N, was continuing to bore ahead past 10,333 feet in lime and shale.

The prospector is 11 miles northwest of the Spraberry field.

Taking Electric Log Survey

A north stepout to production in the Spraberry field, Seaboard No. 7-AD Robinson, was bottomed at 6,650 feet and taking an electric log survey.

This venture is at the center of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 37, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey. It is one mile northeast of the Spraberry area.

Other Projects Drilling

A south offset to the discovery of the Spraberry-Deep field, and 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 47, block 34, TP survey, had cemented 7 5/8 inch casing at 3,048 feet with 600 sacks of cement.

This project, Seaboard No. 3-D Lee, will drill ahead when the plug is cured. It is contracted to drill to 7,000 feet.

A new exploration in Dawson county is to be Cities Production Corporation No. 1 Aynesworth, contracted 4,950-foot venture in the Welch field in the northwest part of the county.

No. 1 Aynesworth is to be 660 feet from south and west lines of section 86, block M, EL&RR survey. That makes it 20 miles northwest of Lamesa.

98-Year-Old Prospector Still Seeking Pot Of Gold In Hills

BIG BEAR VALLEY, Cal., Oct. 8 (U.P.)—Prospector Jim Erwin, grizzled, tanned and healthy at 98, still hopes to find his "pot of gold" in the rugged San Bernardino mountain country.

Erwin, an old-time Indian fighter, came to Big Bear Valley in 1884 after mining lead in Missouri. He is believed to be the oldest living resident of the area and remembers the hectic, roaring days of Holcomb and Big Bear Valleys.

A foreman at the old Lucky Baldwin mine, Erwin drove six-horse stages and even took a turn at boxing when he fought a famous heavyweight for a $600 wager. Old-timers who remember the bout recall that Erwin won the fight without bothering too much.

He still walks to his mining property, five miles from his home, and except for an occasional mining trip out of the area, he has spent the last 65 years in San Bernardino County.

Deep Wildcats For 3 Counties Slated

Deep wildcats are to be drilled in the near future in central-east Garza, northeast Dawson, and in southeast Terry counties.

G. H. Tracy, G. P. Moore, Star Oil company and others have taked location and operations are to start soon at their No. 1 OS Ranch Unit One to explore the Ellenburger at about 8,000 feet in Central-East Garza county.

No. 1 OS Rranch Unit One will be 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of the east half of section 84, block 5, GH-& H RR survey, and ten miles east of Post.

Drilling will be with rotary tools.

Dawson To Get 10,000-Foot Test

Definite arrangements to drill a wildcat in northeast Dawson county have been made.

This project was previously reported in the planning stage.

It will be drilled as R. J. Carraway of Dallas No. 1 T. A. Loe to go to about 10,000 feet to test into the Pennsylvania lime.

The prospector will be 660 feet from north and west lines of labor 12, league 31, Munger subdivision, Taylor county school land survey, in the Mungerville area.

Majors Have Acreage

Humble Oil & Refining Company Standard Oil Company of Texas, Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware, and Magnolia Petroleum Company have acreage in the vicinity.

Helmerich & Payne, Inc., have the rotary drilling contract and are now moving equipment to the drillsite.

Amerada Petroleum company is to tstart drilling on a 10,000-foot rotary wildcat to explore the Pennsylvanian lime in southeast Terry county, ten miles southeast of Brownfield.

It will be located 660 feet from south and east lines of section 26, block 1-A, EL&RR survey.

Devonian Test Is Completed In Lea County For 456 Barrels; Producer Opens New Field

HOBBS, N. M., Oct. 8—McAlester Fuel Company No. 1-A Denton, flowing discovery from the Devonian in central-east Lea county has been officially completed for a 24-hour potential of 456 barrels of clean, 44-gravity oil.

The completion test was flowing through a 12/64th inch tubing choke. Gas-oil ratio was 1,463-1. There was no water in the oil and the production is natural from perforated section at 11,325-464 feet.

The new field opener is 12 miles north and east of Lovington, about ten miles northwest of the nearest Devonian production in the Jones Ranch field in extreme northwest Gaines county, Texas, and at the center of the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 11-15s-37e.

To Drill Outposts

The Atlantic Refining company is to start drilling at once on two outposts to the McAlester producer which has been designated as the opener of the Denton field. Both are slated to go to 11,500 feet to explore the Devonian.

Atlantic No. 1-B Dickinson will be 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 12-15s-37e. That makes it slightly more than one half mile north and east of the Denton discovery.

Atlantic No. 1-C Dickinson will be 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 13-15s-37e. It is three quarters of a mile south and one quarter of a mile east of field opener, and one half mile south of Atlantic No. 1 Dickinson, which is a southeast outpost to the McAlecter producer.

Atlantic No. 1 Dickinson, at the center of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 13-15s-37e, logged some light shows of oil in samples above 8,834 feet, in the Leonard zone of the lower Permian, and was preparing to run a drillstem test to check those indications before drilling on toward the Devonian.

Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 1 Rose, one-quarter of a mile stepout from the opener of the Knowles-Devonian field in Central-East Lea county, and 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 35-16s-38e, has been finished as the second producer in that pool.

The well made a daily initial production of 532 barrels of 47.1 gravity oil, with no water, from open hole at 12,597-607 feet in the Devonian.

No. 1 Harrell In Hale County Is Drilling Below 5,100 Feet

Tobe Foster of Lubbock and others No. 1 G. A. Harrell, contracted 7,000-foot wildcat eight miles northwest of Hale Center in northwest Hale county, was making hole past 5,100 feet in lime.

This prospector is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 7, block O D&SE survey.

Housewife Quits Packing School Lunches After Almost 45 Years

FARMER CITY, Ill., Oct. 8 (U.P.) —Mrs. S. E. Rhoades isn't packing a school lunch for the first time in years.

She started packing lunches in 1906 for her son, Carl. By the time she "packed" all her children through school, two grandchildren came here to make their home. The last of them finished school last year.

High Voltage Fatal For Six Brazilians

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Oct. 8 (AP) Six women were electrocuted in succession here yesterday after an iron rod hit a high-tension wire in a flooded yard.

Mrs. Isoldina Martine had borrowed the rod to open a drain in her flooded back yard. When she touched it against live wires overhead, the current killed her. Three of her daughters, ran to save her. Each died when she touched her mother. The same fate met Mrs. Martine's sister and the neighbor who had loaned the rod.

Finally an unidentified passerby warned other would-be rescuers away from the death-trap yard.

DEFOLIATE

HARVEST A BETTER GRADE OF COTTON

Which Is More Profitable To You

The bolls at left were defoliated which speeded up maturity and made perfect cotton.

The bolls at right are the same age but were not defoliated and the early frost caught them.

Pickers Are More Easily Attracted To Leaf Free Cotton

Here Is An Example of How Defoliant Speeds Up The Growth And Improves The Quality Of Your Cotton Harvest!

(defoliant doesn't stop the growth of small bolls)

Here are two examples of how Defoliant has improved the grade of cotton by dropping the heavy foliage and letting the air and the sunlight hasten the maturity of the cotton. Not only does the Defoliant hasten the maturity of the cotton and avoid loss in late cotton from bad weather, but it is a fertilizer that improves the soil for the next year's crop.

McCARRAN ASSAILS NEW BILL

Senators To Press For Action On Displaced Persons Measure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—Over the objections of Chairman McCarran (D-Nev), a move will be made in the Senate judiciary committee Monday to win approval of a House bill liberalizing the displaced persons law.

Some chance of success was seen by Senate leaders, although they previously had despaired of getting committee action on its this year because of McCarran's opposition.

A resolution to take the bill away from the committee and bring it before the Senate for a vote was introduced several weeks ago by a bipartisan group of senleader Lucas of Illinois and Senator Taft of Ohio, the Republican policy chief.

Plans were made to call up the resolution next week, but the Senate's dislike of overriding any of its committees made the outcome undertain.

To Recommend Action

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) told a reporter he will ask the committee Monday to recommend the House bill to the Senate. He said he wants to give the members a chance to do so before the discharge resolution is brought up.

Assistant Democratic leader Myers of Pennsylvania said he thinks the move has a good chance of success.

A similar view was expressed by Senator O'Conor (D-Md), acting chairman of a judiciary subcommittee on the legislation in the absence of McCarran.

Increase Is Proposed

The bill, passed by the House June 6, would increase the number of displaced persons eligible for admission to the United States from 205,000 in two years to 339,000 in three years.

It also would eliminate provisions which President Truman and others have charged discriminate against Jews and Catholics. Mr. Truman has urged that the new bill be passed before Congress adjourns.

McCarran, now on an extended European trip, yesterday reiterated his opposition to the proposed changes in the DP law enacted by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress last year.

Program Is Probed

"If we pass the House version of the DP bill as it is now before the judiciary committee," he said in a message read to the Senate by O'Conor, "it would be a serious mistake."

McCarran said he personally has investigated the DP program in Germany, adding "authentic information discloses to be fraud in essential documents, misrepresentation, maladministration and violation of law."

All the officials he has consulted, he said, agree that "the program under the present act when completed will have taken care of the persons actually displaced by the recent war, except for a so-called 'hard core'."

McCarran said this core "covers a group of applicants who are disqualified under the immigration laws because of disease or criminality or because they are persons likely to become a public charge."

Ex-Convict, Girl To Delay Marriage Year

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8. (AP)—William J. Sansbury must mark time for another year before he can marry the pretty blonde whose faith paved his way to freedom.

In suspending a 10-year sentence for Sansbury yesterday, criminal court Judge Robert France said he was doing so largely because Peggy Peterson believes in the ex-convict.

Sansbury and Peggy met and fell in love in a California prison, where she was an employe and he an inmate. When he was released and turned over to Maryland authorities on an old forgery charge, she followed him here to plead for his liberty.

She told the court she knew Sansbury could become a useful member of society and they planned to marry. She even offered to help repay the $850 he had gotten through forgery.

Judge France told Sansbury he is "exceptionally lucky in having by your side and willing to help a young lady who believes in you."

He placed him on probation for three years and made his release conditional on his promise not to marry Peggy for one year, not to use any of her money in making restitutin for the forgeries, and that he use any refund on his service life insurance for that purpose.

"It is her belief in you that to a large extent is responsible for your receiving a suspended sentence," Judge France said, nodding toward Peggy.

MISPLACED GARBAGE

PETERSHAM, Mass., (U.P.)—It cost artist Susan W. Flint $10 to get rid of her garbage. When the collector failed to pay his regular visit, she dumped her refuse on his front lawn. She was fined $10.

Most of the mica produced in the United States comes from western North Carolina.

Court Asked To Forget Eisler

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Justice department told the Supreme Court today it might as well forget about the case brought before it by Gerhart Eisler, the bail-jumping communist.

Eisler has taken public office in the Soviet zone of Germany, and in all probability never will return here, said Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman in a formal motion filed with the high tribunal.

The fugitive communist was sentenced to a year in jail and fined $1,000 after he refused to be sworn as a witness before the House committee on un-American activities. The charge was contempt of Congress.

He appealed to the Supreme Court, sat in the court chamber while attorneys argued his case, then fled from the United States before a decision was announced.

Jackson Dissents

While apparently irked at this turn of events, the justices split 5 to 4 on what to do about it. The majority said the case would not remain on the docket, but would still be technically before the court. Their legal language ordered the appeal "left off the docket until a direction to the contrary."

Perlman informed the court that in addition to taking office in Germany, Eisler has "otherwise given further evidences, if any were needed, of his intention to stay out of the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court."

The solicitor general looked up the court's technical language and then offered this suggestion:

"It is submitted that it is appropriate for the court to issue the 'direction to the contrary' mentioned in its prior opinion, dismissing the appeal."

The high tribunal's sharp division was pointed up by Justice Jackson. He wrote a dissent saying, "I do not think we can run away from the case just because Eisler has." He said the court should have gone ahead and affirmed Eisler's conviction.

The 5 to 4 split was announced last June 27, seven weeks after Eisler left the country where he was once called the "no. 1 communist" by the House committee.

Unthinking Jewelry Salesman Forgets Suitcase Of Diamonds

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 8 (AP)—Selmar Hilborn, a New York industrial diamond salesman, was thinking of something else yesterday when he set down his suitcase to unlock his car.

Hilborn got in the car and drove off, leaving the suitcase sitting on the sidewalk.

The salesman missed the case about 15 minutes later. He came back posthaste. Luckily, the customer he had just finished calling on had found it and kept it for him.

It was full of diamonds.

Nephew Of U. S. Representative From Texas Dies After Surgery

GALVESTON, Oct. 8 (U.P.) — Charles Luker, nephew of U. S. Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana, died here yesterday after an operation.

The 17-year-old high school senior and football letterman of Hughes Springs was the son of Mrs. Vennirea Luker.

100-Year-Old Storm Near U. S. Coast Drowned 143 Emigrants

By TOM NOONAN
United Press Staff Writer

COHASSET, Mass., Oct. 8. (U.P.) —A violent nor'easter raged 100 years ago yesterday along the New England coast studded with death traps of jagged rock.

Somewhere offshore the brig Saint John labored in mountainous seas as it neared the end of a stormy voyage with a band of Irish emigrants.

Land was sighted amid driving rain and murk when dawn broke. But already the hopes of emigrants from famine-ridden Ireland for a fresh start in a new world had given way to fears for their very lives.

Almost none of the emigrants ever reached America alive. For within a few horror-filled hours the Saint John became the most disastrous shipwreck ever to occur in the outer reaches of Boston Harbor.

Only 12 Live

One hundred and forty-three persons perished in the boiling waters near Minot's Light including 99 emigrants. Only 12 survived including Captain Oliver, skipper of the brig, and a 14-year-old Irish lad who was a stowaway.

Despite every trick of seamanship at Captain Oliver's command the ancient brig was swept by hill-high breakers onto the Grampus, rocky tomb of many a more sturdy ship.

Waves poured over the ship sweeping emigrants and crewmen to death.

More than half the Saint John's cargo had been lost when her jolly boat was swept overboard. About 25 persons jumped into the little craft which soon capsized. Only Captain Oliver and the stowaway were able to swim back to the Saint John.

Then the brig's long boat was swept some distance from the vessel. The captain, the stowaway and 10 other persons battled their way to it. An hour later the tide carried all of them safely ashore.

About that time the sea subsided. A rescue boat was launched from the Cohasset shore with the help of men from among the hundreds who had watched helplessly from the shore. Rowing to sea, the rescuers spotted the survivers' boat.

Though there still were some persons alive on the shattered brig, the rescuers assumed all had been taken from the Saint John; so they continued on to the British brig Kathleen which rode out the storm at anchor nearby.

Claimed Whole Family

Among the emigrants who died were Patrick Swaney and his 11 children.

Author Henry David Thoreau arrived in Cohasset the next day en route to Cape Cod.

As he walked by Cohasset common he noted an immense freshly-dug grave where many of the victims were about to be buried.

Later, Thoreau was to write in detail of his observations of the tragedy.

His account cast strong doubt on the Saint John's seaworthiness. After an examination of pieces of the brig's wreckage including one 40-foot section, he wrote: "Some of these timbers . . . were so rotten that I could almost thrust my umbrella through them."

Morrow May Carry Out Special Mission On Vacation In Europe

HOUSTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Wright Morrow today declined comment on reports he is going to Europe on a special government mission.

The national Democratic committeeman is to leave New York next Tuesday for a European tour which he described as a vacation.

Friends of the Houston attorney said Morrow also is to carry out the special mission.

Chinese Communists Take Action To Curb Western Newsmen

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Chinese Communists yesterday muzzled all U.S. and other western power press representatives in Red China, at least temporarily.

The Shanghai military control commission announced that henceforth only foreign correspondents from nations which recognize the new Red regime in China could send out news.

Later a dispatch from Fred Hampson, Associated Press bureau chief in Shanghai, was received in San Francisco. It had been timed, however, nearly 24 hours before the news of the shutdown order reached the United States.

Order Sudden

His dispatch said that press rates had been suspended in Shanghai "pending nationwide regulations."

"Not specifically instructed to cease activities yet," he added. "Seeking amplification."

The dispatch was timed at noon, Shanghai time, Oct. 6. This would be 11 p.m. Oct. 5 EST.

The commission's shutdown announcement said the action was taken Oct. 6 but was effective "today," which would be Oct. 7 China time.

Only Russia and her eastern Europe satellites have recognized the "Chinese peoples republic," as the Communist regime is called. Western powers are taking a go-slow attitude.

The order appeared to have come so suddenly that even correspondents did not have time to get out the news.

Lid On Tight

The announcement of the shutdown headquarters of Press Wireless. The organization's Shanghai office forwarded a copy of the shutdown order to the New York office.

The stopper seemed to be shoved down tightly. Press wireless in San Francisco reported no press dispatches were moving out of Shanghai.

The Communists have been steadily tightening the screws on foreign correspondents.

It began at Peiping, now the Communist capital. At first foreign correspondents there operated as usual after the Communists came. Then, in "response" to demands of the Red Press, Peiping authorities put the lid on.

Foreign correspondents in Nanking were forbidden last week to send out further news. This affected only the Associated Press and the United Press. Other foreign correspondents had left.

The Communists gave foreign correspondents a free hand at first in Shanghai when they took over that great city. The only trouble was Communist officials were unavailable as news sources.

Later, the authorities prohibited the distribution of news from abroad inside Shanghai. They likewise imposed a military censorship which delayed dispatches.

It was estimated in 1889 that there were only 541 bison in the United States of an original 50,000,000.

Grad Of Texas Tech Is New Director Of Red Cross At LAFB

Duties as Red Cross field director at Lubbock Air Force base have been started by Clifford L. Gibbs, who has been employed by the Red Cross seven years in Army camps in the United States.

Gibbs received a bachelor of arts degree from Texas Technological college in 1938 and a master's degree from Tech in 1939. His wife, the former Miss Mozelle Lowe, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Lowe of 512 Forty-fourth.

Gibbs came here Monday from Smoky Hills Air base at Salina, Kas., where he was Red Cross field director.

To Handle Emergencies

He will work with men stationed on the field in connection with emergency needs, which might involve death, serious illness, family problems, emergency financial situations and other needs. He also will furnish information to the Lubbock county Red Cross office on status of soldiers who live in the city and seek emergency help from the office of the county chapter at 1513 Ave. K. The chapter verifies military status and pay of men seeking help.

Gibbs is a brother of Weldon Gibbs, who is employed by First Federal Savings and Loan association in Lubbock.

TREMOR IS RECORDED

BREAKFAST SLATED AT HILTON

Business Women's Week To Be Observed By Local B&PW Club

Joining in observance of the 22nd annual National Business Women's week opening today will be Lubbock Business and Professional Women's club, which will attend a breakfast at 8:30 o'clock this morning in Hilton hotel and then will go to the First Christian church in a group.

The club will attend a banquet at 7 o'clock Wednesday night at Hilton hotel. A Hallowe'en theme will be emphasized. James G. Allen, dean of men at Texas Technological college, will review a mystery story. Mrs. O. P. Harlan, president of the Business and Professional Women's club, will welcome members and guests. The Kiwanis Hot Shots will present music.

Tickets On Sale

Tickets for the banquet may be bought by club members until 12 noon Wednesday from the Hilton coffee shop cashier.

Several radio programs in observance of the week will be presented.

The national theme of the week will be "Boost Your Town — It Boosts You."

Supported By HST

Purpose of the national week is to pay tribute to the accomplishments of women everywhere in business and professions.

More than 150,000 women are members of the 2,500 clubs in the national federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs.

Engineer Killed In Train Wreck

DALLAS, Oct. 8 (U.P.) — One trainman was killed today when a Texas and Pacific "700" type locomotive derailed rounding a 30-degree curve on the outskirts of Dallas.

O. W. Cooper, about 60, of Golden, Tex., the engineer, was scalded to death when he was pinned in the wreckage of the overturned locomotive, which was pulling a passenger coach on a "deadhead" run from Fort Worth to Mineola.

Three Men Escape

Three other crewmen escaped with only light bruises. The fireman, B. M. Mosley of Mineola, jumped to safety just before the big locomotive and tender jackknifed and overturned.

Mosley, who said they were running between 18 and 20 miles per hour at the time, said he attempted to pull a safety valve which would have cut down on the escaping steam into the cab. But, he said the valve apparently was stuck.

Shovels Are Used

City firemen called to the scene used shovels to remove Cooper's body from the cab, which was filled with mud it scooped up while rolling over in the soft dirt.

The other crewmen — Conductor J. M. Felts and Brakeman O. R. Orr and L. W. White—were riding in the steel passenger coach and were only shaken up as it too left the track and turned over on its side.

Texas and Pacific officials immediately launched an investigation to determine cause of the derailment.

American Student Is Arrested By Slovak Security Police

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 8 (U.P.)—An American student said today he was picked up by security police in Slovakia, taken on a wild ride during which his car rolled over and hurt his shoulder, and held in a solitary cell for five days.

The student was Savel Kliachko, 26, of Palo Alto, Calif. He came here on invitation of the Czech government to attend Charles university.

Kliachko checked in today at the U. S. embassy and told his story to embassy officials and later to newsmen.

He said the food he had while he was held inccommunicado, without explanation and with no formal charge against him, was "slop." He lost about 10 pounds, he said.

The young American, who is of Russian descent and speaks fluent Russian, said he was picked up Sept. 28 in the village of Michalovce, in the eastern tip of Slovakia 10 miles from the Soviet frontier.

While he was in custody, he said, the police tore an American flag off his lapel, demanded that he admit he was a U.S. spy and lodged him incommunicado in a cell seven by 13 feet.

Syrian Seeds Grow Cucumbers So Large Man Can't Sell Them

LITCHFIELD, Mich., Oct. 8 (U.P.) —Harry Anderson's cucumbers were so big that he couldn't market them.

He grew one that was 30 inches long and weighed four and a half pounds. The seeds, obtained from Syria, produced about 100 cucumbers.

Anderson said they looked more like watermelons.

"Burma Handbook" Reveals Strange Rites And Customs Of Country's Savage Tribes

LONDON, Oct. 8. (U.P.)—Head-hunting and communal love-making are included in the Oriental mysticism of complex Burma, official records disclosed.

An official "Burma Handbook" published by the Burmese government said the countless indigenous tribes of Burma are allied to the Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, Tibetans, Malays and other inhabitants of eastern Asia.

The book tells of "love houses" in tribal villages, surrounded by bamboo stakes hardened by fire and sunk into the ground as barricades, and giraffe-necked women who roll cheroots in the curve of their thighs.

"It is impossible to mention in detail more than the principal races of Burma," it said. "They are all firm believers in magic and are convinced that invulnerability against wounds can be conferred by magical rites."

Hate Marriage

The reports tell of the great variety of races in the Shan States, including the "curious Banyok, of whom only six families survive because of their marked distaste for marriage to which they submit only under official compulsion."

The Shan States also are inhabited by the Pandaungs, whose women "stretch their necks to giraffe-like proportions by wearing brass necklets to which extra rings are added from the day of their birth."

In the northeast of Burma the wild Nagas still pursue head-hunting and believe in human sacrifice.

Among another tribe called the Wa, head-hunting is regarded as necessary for their fertility rites at ploughing time and "in an average year, 60 to 100 heads will be taken in the area."

Most of the tribes, it said, "have little interest in modern party conflicts and many of them regard present-day politicians as upstarts and have a lingering nostalgia for the days of the king."

Attain Nirvana

By religion the Burmese proper are almost exclusively Buddhist, with a creed "to store up merit by good living so that a man will not be reborn in this world or in any of the spirit worlds but will attain to Nirvana, where self-consciousness ceases," the Burma Handbook said.

It added, "Although the great majority of Buddhist Pongyis or monks are 'virtuous members of their order,' some younger members have lately intervened in politics and 'certainly proved a source of trouble'."

The Burma Handbook describes tribes named Yahows, Klang Klangs, Vamtus and Kukis and the wide variety of languages and dialects spoken.

Details of weird rites and customs are included in the reports on remote tribes which still resist all intrusion with spears, poisoned arrows and bamboo spikes.

"Every village has a love house in which young couples foregather. Pregnancy is always followed by a public admission of marriage. And there are men's clubs into which an outsider's entrance is a grievour offense."

McCLOY OUTLINES AMERICAN OCCUPATION GOALS

U. S. Official Urges Halt To Dismantling German Industry

BY SEYMOUR BERKSON
INS Staff Writer

FRANKFURT, Oct. 8—U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy today urged a halt to what he termed the "aimless" dismantling of Germany's Ruhr industrial plants.

McCloy recommended instead a firm foolproof program of international military control over the Ruhr to prevent the rebirth of any war industries. He declared emphatically that such control can be made effective.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service the American high commissioner said:

"The dismantling that has been going on is a losing game from the viewpoint of the best interests of the western powers as well as Germany.

"It is bound to increase unemployment and delay German economic stabilization, thereby prolonging our own burden.

Security Desired

"We can understand the general desire for security against the rebirth of Germany as a military power.

"I think, however, that instead of continuing to allow the dismantling of vital productive facilities essential to make Germany self-supporting we should approach western Germany and request solid guarantees in return for a halt to dismantling."

McCloy added:

"I am confident we can secure effective agreement from them, including payment of reparations from Ruhr production and the setting up of an effective international control board with real teeth.

"This board would be empowered to make absolutely certain that no war weapons ever again are produced by Germany.

"We must recall that it was never lack of knowledge of what was going on in Germany that stayed our hand in the period between the two world wars.

Irresolution Blamed

"It was our own irresolution. This is the lesson for us to apply now. Firmness and determination can effectively prevent German rearmament.

"As for reparations the amount this time is more moderate than after the last war and can be amortized soundly over a period of years out of continued Ruhr productivity."

McCloy was asked about reports that the British have been speeding dismantling of steel and other key plants in the British zone.

He said he had heard such reports and actually had asked British High Commissioner Gen. Sir Brian Robertson but was assured that no acceleration is taking place.

McCloy said he believed the British would welcome a better solution than the plant dismantling which has become a headache for all concerned since it destroys the very productivity of the western powers desire so that Germany can be self-sufficient again.

McCloy said that he believes western Germany is making progress toward democracy thouch such progress is bound to be gradual and hesitant.

No Overnight Job

"Democracy won't come to Germany overnight," said the U. S. high commissioner, "and even when it does it will not be the same brand as in the United States.

"The Germans will have to evolve their own brand of democracy." He continued:

"A hopeful sign is that they are showing a healthy interest and curiosity in democratic practices. They no longer have confidence in the totalitarian life which brought them defeat, but they are groping for something new they can have faith in.

"It is important that we set them a shining example of what democracy really means. They are watching us closely.

"Our 80,000 troops here are walking show windows of American democracy. Their conduct in daily relations with the Germans can have an important effect."

McCloy said that progress is standard of living in western Germany, and the western German government established at Bonn has been showing remarkable vigor and seriousness of purpose which he considers a healthy sign for the future.

More Propaganda Expected

McCloy said that the west German government probably will be subjected to intensified propaganda blasts from the Soviet zone now that an east German government is established, but he seemed unworried that it would have much effect on western Germans.

McCloy said that the west German government would participate fully in the coming organization of European Economic cooperation conference in Paris at the end of this month on the west European program for improving trade and currency relations.

McCloy revealed that the French at first objected to accepting Germany as a full-fledged participant, but later agreed.

"One of the most important things which must be done in Germany's international relations," he said, "is to cement closer ties with France.

"If their relations can be stabilized on a sound plane, logical and fruitful economic cooperation can be pursued to the greater benefit of west Europe as a result."

Goals Explained

Four major steps which must be taken to improve the situation in Germany were outlined by McCloy as follows:

"First, we must reduce unemployment in western Germany by a halt to dismantling of plants and stimulation of private capital flow into German industries.

"Second, we must find a solution to the refugee problem which is very grave since between eight and ten million German refugees who fled or were expelled from Soviet or former German areas now are trying to exist in western Germany.

"Ways must be found to house, feed, and employ these people properly. If handled properly this mass migration may prove to be a boon to Germany just as such migrations did to America in pioneer days.

"Third, we must find a better political and economic solution for Berlin instead of attempting to treat it as a sort of combined city-state.

"Fourthly, we must intensify education in democracy and the responsibilities of the average citizen under democracy throughout Germany.

"If those four goals are achieved we will witness a remarkable progress in the new-born republic of western Germany."

Truck Destroyed By Fire After Striking Bridge Near Santone

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 8 (U.P.)—A large trailer truck hit a bridge north of here last night and caught fire, destroying its load of 30,000 pounds of fertilizer. The bridge was damaged but did not burn.

The driver, Buell Cecil Dickey of Comanche, Tex., was not hurt. He said he swerved his truck to avoid hitting a car which had no lights and struck a bridge railing. Sparks from the railing apparently started the fire, the driver said.

ainter Given Divorce After Lengthy Separation From Wife

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (INS)—Circuit Judge Julius H. Miner today granted Ole Finmark, 67, a painter, a divorce from Martha, also 67, when he said he didn't want to celebrate his golden wedding anniversary with his wife absent in Norway.

Finmark testified he was married in Stathele, Norway, in 1900 and when he came to tnis country Martha refused to accompany him. He made a trip back to Norway to bring her to Chicago in 1939 and she again refused saying: "Norway is good enough for me."

Ole showed the judge postal receipts showing in the last 25 years he had sent his wife $30,000.

Snyder Will Stage "Welcome Newcomer Festival" On Monday

Parade, Barbecue, Square Dance Contest Set; Governor To Speak

By EDWARD WELSH
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

SNYDER, Oct. 8—The entire population of this 'oil boom town' is ready to put forth an enthusiastic greeting with the "Welcome Newcomer Festival" to be staged here Monday afternoon and evening.

The Welcome Newcomer Festival is to be a dual purpose event. First, to welcome the many new citizens who have come to Snyder in recent months; folks who are associated with the oil and gas companies and other new enterprises that have become a permanent part of the scene. Second, to honor the pioneers who came to Scurry county years ago and who planted the first seeds of this thriving community.

The top spot on the list of honored guests will go to Governor Allan Shivers. The governor will be the principal speaker Monday evening at 6:30 p. m.

The day's program is sponsored jointly by the Chamber of Commerce and the Sharon Ridge Producers and Royalty Owners association.

The one-day event will really get get underway with a street parade which will start from the east side of the Snyder First Methodist church at 5:30 p. m. James Rosser, young Snyder attorney, is parade marshal and chairman of the parade arrangements.

Most Colorful Ever Held

"We can promise you it will be the most colorful parade ever staged in Snyder," Rosser said Saturday.

The parade with be led by a motorcycle escort from the Texas Highway Patrol. The escort will accompany the governor and other notables. They will also assist in keeping the parade moving smoothly until it reaches its destination at the Snyder Tiger stadium.

Prominently featured in the parade will be the Hardin-Simmons cowboy band from Abilene. Its 42 members will be led by Marion McClure. The 30 member Sheriff's Posse from Big Spring will be next in line.

With Governor Shivers in the lead car will be Mayor Forest G. Sears. The car will be flanked by members of Company E, 112th Armored Cavalry Regiment. Eight men under Sergeant Acalee Kinkaid will form the honor guard.

Oil Men Take Part

Officials from oil companies which have combined investments of more than $20,000,000 in the Scurry county deep oil development program will take part in the parade.

The Snyder High school band under the direction of Richard Elliott will follow the line of cars. Mechanized units of the National Guard will come behind the band.

Mayor Sears will give the address of welcome and introduce Governor Shivers after the parade breaks up and the crowd assembles in the stadium. While the crowd is getting settled the Hardin-Simmons band will provide a brief concert.

Barbecue Is Scheduled

The grand climax for the celebration will be a true Western style barbecue with all the trimmings. While visitors and guests are stowing away the barbecue Carl Herod will direct a square dance contest. Entries for this contest have come from several communities. The winners will be presented with a "Diamond M" trophy from C. T. McLaughlin, president of the Chamber of Commerce and a new director of the Snydet National bank.

McLaughlin, a member of the Board of Regents of Texas Tech college, will be unable to attend the festival because of a recent major operation.

In preparation for the Welcome Newcomer Festival the city fire department will start at midnight Sunday to wash down streets and walks. Vehicles will be prohibited from the courthouse square after 4:30 Monday to allow more room for the parade and crowds of visitors.

Boy Scouts in uniform will assist as ushers and ticket takers. The boys will be chosen by local sponsoring organizations. Other officials giving unstintingly of their time to make the event a success are: John Blum, transportation; Marcel Josephson, barbecut; Dr. H. G. Towle and Lee T. Stinson, tickets and special arrangements, and Willard Jones, publicity.

Extra hands have been added to the airport staff to handle the large number of aircraft that are expected.

Pub's Patrons Agog As Fish Swim Past

DARTMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 8. (AP)—Patrons of the local pub rubbed their eyes and looked again.

Fish were swimming in flooded streets after a cloudburst backed up the River Dart through the town's sewer system.

Wounded Vet's Case Prompted Solons To Revise Pension Law

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—Prompted by the unhappy experience of a West Texas veteran, Congress is moving to correct a technicality which has penalized a small group of valorous soldiers.

The man whose case has come to the attention of the Defense department and Congress is Orville D. Perkins, route 4, San Angelo.

Seriously wounded in fighting in the Pacific, he was one of about 50 men who won battlefield promotions to commission rank but can draw only enlisted grade benefits.

On Jan. 22, 1945, he was promoted from sergeant to second lieuenant. Japanese fire had thinned out the officer ranks and the officer in command had ordered Perkins into the gap.

Benefits Limited

It wasn't until April 6 that his commission was processed through the top command and his pay increased. In the meantime, however, he had been shot in the right leg by a sniper. That was on Feb. 24. The wound was so serious he had to spend the next two and a half years in various hospitals; he now walks with a limp and still requires medical attention.

The irony in existing law came to light after he was mustered out.

Since he had been wounded and incapacitated before formally receiving his commission—even though he actually had been fighting as a second lieutenant—he had to go on the Veteran administration rolls as a sergeant. That meant his benefits were limited to those provided for that grade.

Bill Passed Senate

Texas Senators Tom Connally and Lyndon Johnson and Rep. Clark Fisher went to work on the case.

Secretary of the Army Gray said the army could do nothing to correct the injustice in Perkins' case, but he gave his endorsement to legislation sponsored by the Texas Legislators to make it legally possible for the government to give the West Texas veteran the benefits of a disabled commissioned officer.

Gray estimated there were 50 such cases throughout the country.

Johnson headed a Senate Armed Services subcommittee which promptly approved the measure. The bill passed the Senate and is now in the House. Fisher a member of the Armed Services committee there, plans to push for House approval.

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL

Lubbock, Texas, Sunday, October 9, 1949

L. BRIDGES operates a very unpretentious service station at the highway junction in Whiteface. Bridges' station may lack a lot of glitter and glamour but he has something to offer that is a decided asset to his business. That is "courtesy", and he offers it to everyone with a smile. It's there for you whether you spend a dollar or get some "free service" such as I got the other day.

Need Freight Cars

A. L. Holder, cashier of the State Bank at Wilson, says the biggest need in that area right now is freight cars in which to ship the bumper sorghum grain crop. "We'll ship some 200 cars this year, I expect Holder stated. "About 75 have gone out already."

* * *

Mayor and Postmaster Pat Campbell, Wilson, finds the cotton crop is slow coming on. "This area produced about 13,000 bales in 1937," Campbell said. "We will come close to that figure this year but it is slow starting. Only a few bales have gone through our gins so far."

* * *

L. E. HUGGINS, co-partner of Mayor Tom McAlister in an implement business at Morton, says: "We look for a heavy demand in cotton pickers and strippers this year. The labor situation has caused more and more farmers to turn to the machine to get his crop to the gin." Huggins added that Cochran county crops looked as good as at any time in the county's history. "Farmers are all optimistic." he said.

* * *

Mayors May Organize

Since the "Hizzoner The Mayor" series started in the Avalanche-Journal a large number of the municipal chief executives have indicated they may form an association of "South Plains' Mayors". There are nearly 50 of them all together and a meeting once or twice a year would help them to understand and solve the various problems that beset our area communities. Those I have talked with like the idea. It's only a matter of some one starting the ball to rolling.

* * *

Lorenzo gins have turned out nearly 500 bales of cotton so far this season. Weather has been blamed of the slow start. The three gins expect to be in full swing within a few days—operating 24 hours a day to keep up with the pickers.

* * *

TERRY county Sheriff Ocie Murry has been named president of the new Sheriff's Posse that has just been formed in Brownfield. Clarence Lackey was chosen captain; Clyde Truly, secretary-treasurer; Ray Christopher, lieutenant; George Wade, corral boss; L. B. "Shorty" Forbus, wrangler.

* * *

O'Donnell City Secretary Tom Yandell says insurance companies settled for about $25,000 on the school building and auditorium damaged by fire last month. A contract will be let in the near future to restore the building to usefulness.

* * *

DOING A SWELL JOB

When Bill Schiebel went to Snyder some two and one-half years ago he thought it would be the ideal town to learn Chamber of Commerce work and grow with the town. He didn't bargain for the kind of growth that took place in Snyder during the past year. But Bill is doing a swell job and manages to stay a few steps ahead of the oil boom.

* * *

William Fuller is the third generation of his family to head the Snyder National Bank. Young Fuller took over the presidency when his father fent to Fort Worth to head one of the large banks there.

* * *

FOLKS around Fluvanna are hanging on to the nucleus of their town. They are confident that the Scurry oil play will extend to their community up in the northwest corner of the county.

* * *

The Brownfield News is really earning its claim to the title "first in community service" in Terry county. Mike Barrett and Charles Didway have not spared themselves when it comes to promoting any community project. Right now they are plunging the Harvest Holiday Jubilee which is set for Wednesday, October 19.

Two Persons Die In Head-On Auto Crash

BELTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Two passengers were killed and two drivers were injured in a head-on automobile collision early today near Salado, nine miles south of Belton.

Mrs. Clay House, 39, of Austin, was killed and herband injured critically.

Orlando Donald Stevlingston, 48, Camp Hood civilian employe formerly of Austin, also was killed. He was a passenger in a car driven by Lt. John M. Battle of Camp Hood. Battle received a broken jaw and cuts and bruises.

Festival Slated At Brownfield

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 8 (Special)—The principal development of the past few days in plans for this city's third annual Harvest Festival and Merchants Jubilee October 19 was the announcement that motion picture star Rod Cameron will appear on the program and will crown the Harvest Queen.

Others scheduled to appear include Elmo Wasson of Big Spring, district Rotary president, and James G. Allen, dean of men at Texas Technological college.

Opening the day's activities will be a demonstration from 10:40 to 11 a. m. by four jet-propelled "Sabre" fighter planes from the U. S. Air Force base at Albuquerque, N. M.

Tech Band To Parade

The opening parade, led by the Texas Tech band, will follow the plane demonstration. Also in the parade will be bands from nine high schools in this area and numerous floats, including those for the three Harvest Queen candidates.

Band music, addresses, and other entertainment will be held at the festival platform, which will be at the southeast corner of the courthouse square.

Two fillders contests, one for those over 45 years and the other for those under that age, will be held; with cash prizes of $75, $50 and $25 in each contest. A square dance contest, expected to attract outstanding sets from throughout this area, will be held at the Veterans hall, with finals scheduled for Wednesday nights.

Awards Planned

The afternoon program will also include a band concert, and awards will be presented high school bands on the basis of their performances in the opening parade. These awards will be made by C. K. Kendrick, president of the Brownfield Rotary club, which sponsors the event.

Appearing late in the afternoon will be the Brownfield Men's quartet and Community Glee club.

The three queen candidates are Ann Snedeker, sponsored by the Lions club; Elizabeth Jo Anthony, sponsored by Howard-Henson Post No. 269 of the American Legion, and Margaret Goza, whose sponsor is the Beta Theta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha.

James H. Dallas, program chairman, said negotiations still are under way to secure an outstanding speaker for the main address.

THE QUESTION

Do you think that the mechanical cotton picker will be an asset to you?

THE ANSWERS

T. L. BURLESON, Jr., Shallowater, farmer: "If they ever get it perfected to do the job, it will eliminate lots of headaches. You almost have to move out of your house now in order to satisfy the cotton pickers you hire. In the long run it will be a great saving to the farmer."

ROBERT F. BUTLER, Anton, farmer: "Yes, I think it will. We will be able to plant storm proof cotton and gather it with the machine. Then you won't have to hunt for cotton pickers and worry with them. It will also mean more money for the farmer."

M. D. WALDEN, Lubbock Route 2, farmer: "It sure will. The cotton pickers are trying to raise their wages too high and we just can't afford to pay them. The cotton picker will eliminate them will be a great saving to the farmer."

R. E. SIMMONS, Springlake, farmer: "I have never seen one operate, so I don't know whether they would be practical for this part of the country or not. I don't think we raise the right kind of cotton out here for the cotton picker."

F. A. McLAIN, 3118 Twenty-ninth, sales and credit manager for the Farmer's Supply: "Yes, it will give them as good a grade as the cotton pickers could gather and will also give them as good a turn out. Last but not least, it will solve their problem of trying to get cotton pickers.'

R. D. PARKER, Lamesa, farmer: "I think it be an asset. It will enable us to harvest a crop that might not be harvested with hand labor alone without running the risk of great loss. In some instances it will save money too."

Freak Storm Lashes Dutch Ocean Liner; Passengers Injured

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Oct. 8 (U.P.)—The Dutch liner Nieue Amsterdam arrived 24 hours late today with several passengers injured, deckwork battered and furniture damaged in a freak storm.

Rep. Abraham Rubicoff, D., Conn., was thrown heavily across the lounge. He cut his head, and had to have three sitches.

Mrs. Jack La Rue, wife of the film star, said the passengers had "terrifying" experiences.

"Porthole covers were wrenched off at the height of the storm and water poured into the cabins," she said. "We were thrown around in our cabins, and many people were badly cut and bruised. One huge wave threw the ship right over on its side."

Crewmen worked day and night repairing damage and tidying up the ship before it reached port. Passengers took up a special collection for them, totaling $500.

WIND INCREASES

The force of wind increases with the square of velocity. A 30-mile wind compares with a 10-mile wind as 900 compares with 100. For this reason, a small increase in velocity accounts for a great increase in wind damage.

"Who Are You!" Question Gets Surprising Variety Of Answers

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8 (U.P.) — "Who are you?"

Phychologists J. F. T. Burfental and Seymour Zalen of the University of California at Los Angeles asked that question of several hundred persons at random, requesting the answer in a simple sentence. They got some surprising answers.

More than 18 per cent considered themselves a name, responding "I'm Bill" or "I'm Susy." About the same number thought they were a job and answered "I'm a divinity student" or "I'm a rivter." More than 18 per cent replied "I'm a woman" or "I'm a man."

The youngest girls played up their social status and such answers as "I belong to the best club in high school," or "I'm a police captain's daughter," the scientsts found.

Point-Four Plan To Be Delayed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — Senate leaders appear ready to shelve until 1950 a bill to carry out part of President Truman's "point four" program for economic improvement of backward areas of the world.

"I doubt very much that the bill will be called up at this session," said Senator Myers of Pennsylvania, the deputy Democratic leader.

The bill would authorize the Export-Import bank to guarantee certain types of investment abroad by American private industry. Last week the Senate Democratic leadership put the measure on the "must" list for action before adjournment, expected this month.

House Defers Action

But Myers told reporters the picture has changed because the House has decided against taking up the bill at this session. The House banking committee approved it earlier this week.

"Inasmuch as there seems to be no prospect of final House action this year, there would be no point in the Senate going ahead," Myers said. "We probably will call it up for debate early next year."

Senator Capehart (R-Ind) said he is ready to lead a fight against the bill whenever it does come up. He said a proposed administration amendment prompted by his objections to the measure does not satisfy him.

As approved by the Senate banking committee, the bill would let the Export-Import bank guarantee American investments abroad against risks "peculiar to such investments."

Provision Said Broad

Capehart said that provision is too broad and he called the bill a dangerous one. So Senator Maybank (D-SC), the banking committee chairman, introduced an amendment to narrow the provision.

The amendment would guarantee investments only against the risks of (1) converting foreign currency into American dollars, and (2) confiscation, expropriation or seizure of American property abroad.

"That change would help some," Capehart said, "but I still think it isn't a sound bill and I understand there are several others in the Senate who agree with me. We'll have plenty to say about it when the debate starts, whether it is this year or next year."

The plan for economic improvement of underdeveloped areas of the world is known as the "point four" program because it was the fourth point of an outline for peace and freedom which Mr. Truman set forth in his inaugural address last January.

WARNING IS GIVEN

LAREDO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Border Ptarol Chief E. B. Debrail has given warning this his men will begin arresting unregistered alien workers in the Laredo area after Oct. 17. Previously, the Texas Employment Commission set a registration deadline of Oct. 14.

Death Of Woman Is Ruled Accidental

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP) — The death of Mrs. Loretta Ring, an expectant mother who was run over by her paraplegic former husband in his car, was accidental, a coroner's jury decided yesterday.

Her former husband, James Moore, 21, a victim of multiple sclerosis which has left him paralyzed from the waist down, did not testify at the inquest.

Police said the accident occurred on Sept. 10 in a west side alley after Moore and Mrs. Ring, 26, had quarreled. Moore told police they had been drinking and later went to his specially-equipped automobile.

Mrs. Ring left the car, police said Moore related, and he attempted to follow her in the car. He said he felt the wheels pass over her before he saw her.

No charge was placed against Moore. He was released from the Hines (Ill.) veterans hospital last July.

Daughter Born To Wife Of Movie Producer Hal Roach

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8. (AP) — Film producer Hal Roach at 55 is a father again.

A daughter, Jeanne Alice, was born yesterday to his second wife, the former Lucille Prin. They have another girl, two years old.

Roach also has two children by a previous marriage.

Songstress Bonnie Baker Is Granted Divorce In Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—Songstress "wee" Bonnie Baker, who a few years ago popularized the song, "O, Johnny," was granted a divorce in superior court yesterday from Frank Taylor, Chicago theatrical booking agent.

Miss Baker, 32, waived alimony and was given custody of a daughter, Sharon, 9 months, by Judge Joseph A. Sabath. They were married March 16, 1948.

Miss Baker alleged cruelty and charged Taylor struck her last July 8 and again on Aug. 18 when they separated.

Alan Ladd Is Kissless Hero

By PATRICIA CLARY
United Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8. — Alan Ladd is the dream man of a million girls, but in his movies he often winds up kissless.

Many women would like to rectify this oversight, but Ladd says he doesn't care.

"As long as I've got a good story to work on," he said, "I can take 'em or leave 'em and be perfectly satisfied."

Ladd, as usual, nails his man in his current "United States Mail" at Paramount. But he doesn't get a single girl. The reason is that there's no girl to be had.

Phyllis Calvert, red-haired British beauty, has the feminine lead opposite Ladd, but her role cuts out any romance. She plays a nun.

Miss Calvert is supposed to be the sole witness to a gangland murder and sought by both police and killers. Ladds is a postal inspector too busy unraveling the film's mystery and tracking down a gang of mail robbers to have any time for romance.

Loved Image

It isn't the first time Ladd has been a kissless hero. He fell in love with Donna Reed in "Chicago Deadline," but he never knew her alive. He loved the image his imagination created while he investigated her death.

Ladd got his man but lost his woman again in "Whispering Smith." He was secretly in love with Brenda Marshall, and she was married to somebody else.

You don't need to feel sorry for loveless Ladd, however. He's had his share of romantic successes with beauties like Wanda Hendrix, Gail Russell, Loretta Young and Veronica Lake.

Standardization Of Airliners Urged By Former Airlift Head

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8 (AP) — The former commander of the Berlin airlift urges standardization of commercial airliners to allow quick use by the military in a national emergency.

It would mean, said Maj. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter yesterday, "insurance against inefficiency, waste and delay in our air lift should it be called upon in another major emergency."

Kuter, now commander of the military air transport service, made his comment to the aeronautical panel of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Movie Starlets To Press Campaign On Use Of "Falsies"

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7. (U.P.)—A group of well-endowed and indignant movie starlets today organized a new AFL—the Anti-Falsie league.

"Our motto is 'ban unnatural stuffing tricks,' said President Peggy Dow. "Look hard at the first letter in each word, and you'll see our point."

Shelley Winters was named vice-president and Dorothy Hart secretary of the new organization. The girls said they were tired of repeated inferences in the public prints that practically all young women wear falsies.

They got the idea from a disgruntled New Orleans beauty contestant who accused winners of "coming to the contest with their chests in their purses."

"We're not going to allow any store-boughten curves to enter our studios," said Miss Dow. "We are movie showcases, but we don't need false fronts."

Film Stars Employ Various Remedies To Relieve "Mike Fright" On Radio Shows

By PATRICIA KELLY
United Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8. (U.P.)—Just like the high school speaker or the lady who addresses her club, movie stars get "mike fright," too.

Nervousness is such a problem with actors that most of them develop a stunt to quiet them before they go into scenes or start radio shows. Dick Powell and Jimmy Stewart inflict long rehearsals on themselves. When they appear on the Lux Radio Theater, even after the dress rehearsal is over, they still stay in their corner, reading their lines over and over, until it's time to go on.

Mickey Rooney, who grew up in show business, still has moments of insecurity, believe it or not. He plays the piano or drums to keep his mind occupied.

Muni Plays Violin

Barbara Stanwyck, Joan Crawford and Claudette Colbert twist nervously when they get before a mike. Miss Crawford takes her shoes off unconsciously. Miss Stanwyck slips in and out of them while she talks.

Paul Muni plays the violin right up to broadcast time. Bette Davis and Gary Cooper chain-smoke, while William Powell and Don Ameche gulp soothing drafts of milk. Gale Storms knits argyle socks and Elyse Knox immerses herself in a novel.

The Lux Theater, which has hosted so many stars in its 15 years, has a device of its own to calm their microphone nerves. It's a four-foot high metal stand on the stage directly under the microphone. (Producer William Keighley suspends the mike from the ceiling so nobody'll hug it for support.)

"Oscar" Helps Some

The metal stand, called "Oscar" has smooth tubular steel braces, and every star to appear on the show has gripped, kicked or stood on them.

"It helps them to have something to brace themselves with," Keighley explained.

But even "Oscar" isn't enough for some stars. Two actors—James Mason and Ann Blyth—went to every rehearsal of the show for two weeks before they were to appear. Seeing other people live through the ordeal seemed to give them confidence.

State Youth Council Director Makes Report On Delinquents

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Oct. 8 — "Bundles of emotions—each one with his fears and ambitions." That was the way the Youth Development Council's institutional director described the boys at the Gatesville Training School.

The director, Harold J. Matthews, was making his first report to the council members who hired him about a month ago.

Matthews wasn't being mushy. He knows many of the juvenile delinquents at the Gatesville, Gainesville (for white girls), and Brady (for negro girls) schools are tough.

But he was driving at a basic factor which makes wrongdoers of so many of today's youngsters: emotional instability.

Interviews Given

He didn't go into any highly technical explanation of what it takes to make these children worthwhile citizens. He told what work has been done in the short time since his appointment and outlined a few objectives.

Two case workers went to Gatesville about mid-September. They began interviewing new boys coming in and those preparing to leave. Purpose of the interviews is to help the newcomers adjust themselves and to maintain home relationship. Talks with outgoing boys are designed to help them make a better go of it when they return to their communities.

Matthews mentioned three boys who require special attention.

One has an osteomyelitis knee, and inflammatory bone condition.

Appearance Distorted

Another has faulty eye-lid muscles which cause one lid to drop badly, distorting his appearance and making him the object of teasing by other boys. The teasing makes him violently angry. He wants to be put in a hospital ward where there will be fewer people to see him and ridicule his looks.

Plastic surgery might improve his appearance, make him no longer an object of curiosity, Matthews observed.

A third boy suffers from epileptic fits. His is another case of a highly emotional youth being subjected to stares and rude remarks of companions.

These cases need particular treatment, but virtually all the boys can be helped by improving the general program of activities at the school, said Matthews.

Library Needed

"They need a library, and we will be most willing to accept books and magazines from anyone in the state," he told the council.

"I hope it will be an interesting library, not one of those kind with five-foot books of dull information," commented council member Leslie Jackson of Dallas.

"We want it to be interesting. We want books of adventure—action books," Matthews agreed. He urged Texans to send books either direct to the Gatesville training school or to the Youth Development Council's Austin office.

He reported the school now has secured a coach and physical education director.

"Just a detail, but I've heard stories in the past of punishment creeping into physical education programs at such schools," said Jackson. "Like making boys run until they drop, having them try to tear each other apart, and making them climb up and down ladders until they can't take another step."

Program Planned

He wanted to make sure the physical education program at Gatesville would be a constructive one taking into consideration the boys' individual abilities. Matthews assured him a wholesome program was planned.

The institutional director recommended appointment of a recreation director.

"One is needed very much to institute a program that will include all the children. They need in-door and out-door games, hand craft work."

The question arose with reference to whether a proposed choral choir at the Gainesville school for girls might be allowed to sing at an Episcopal church service.

Council members agreed there should be no exploitation of such a group, that they should not be made objects of public curiosity.

On the other hand, observed Jackson: "It looks like all the spiritual and beautiful things they could be exposed to would be helpful. They've certainly been exposed to enough of the other side of life."

Chinese Naval Force Releases U. S. Ships

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (INS) — The State department announced today that two U. S. merchant vessels detained by the Chinese Nationalists navy have been given permission to proceed to their destination.

The ships, the Isbrandtsen line's "Flying Independent" and "Flying Clipper," were halted by the Nationalist navy forces when they tried to run the Chinese blockade.

Both vessels were seeking to leave Shanghai when intercepted. The State department later ordered U. S. officials at Canton to inquire into the case.

Department authorities said that the Nationalist government this morning allowed the "Flying Independent" to proceed to Fusan, Korea, and the "Clipper" to continue to Hong Kong.

Woodmen's Circles Of District Hold Convention At Brownfield

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 8. (Special) —More than fifty delegates, representing Woodmen's circles of Brownfield, Earth, Slaton, Amarillo, Muleshoe and Littlefield, gathered here recently for a district convention.

At the morning session, visitors were welcomed to the city by Mayor C. C. Primm, and response was by Mrs. Lula Taylor of Littlefield.

Lunch was served at noon, and at an afternoon session a team from the Woodmen's circle at Earth conferred degrees on three candidates.

Mrs. Cornelia Moore of Brownfield was elected district president.

Decline In Consumption Of Ice Cream In U. S. Reported

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (INS) — The American public appears to be losing much of its traditional taste for ice cream. Either that, or their pocket books can't stand the strain of "relatively high retail prices" for the delicacy.

The Agriculture department said today that ice cream consumption per person has slumped a full 25 per cent since 1946 and is expected to fall further next year.

The department blames the drop in ice cream eating on a shift in consumers' expenditures — from food to durable goods—and "the relatively high retail prices."

FROM THE LUBBOCK ALBUM—The above picture is of one of Lubbock's first grocery stores—The Hunt Grocery—which is a far cry from the modern stores of today. Two of the brothers who operated the store, A. G. and C. E. Hunt, still reside in Lubbock, the former still being engaged in the grocery business as a wholesale salesman. In the picture, left to right, are: Mrs. Iva Yates, A. G. Hunt, C. E. Hunt, and an unidentified customer. The picture was made in 1913 when the store was located in the building now occupied by the Holly Shop.

Chief Probation Officer For Harris County Is Appointed

HOUSTON, Oct. 8 (U.P.)—Howard G. Large, assistant probation officer of Dallas county, has been selected chief probation officer for Harris county, the juvenile board revealed today.

Large, 40, will succeed S. L. Bellamy who announced his resignation to become coordinator of community work for the Texas Youth Development council. Bellamy will leave his job Oct. 15.

Large, who served at Dallas since April, 1947, said he expected to report for work here by Oct. 17. He was one of the 13 applicants for the Harris county job, which carries a salary of $7200 per year.

Large is a native of Herrin, Ill. He has lived in Texas five years, and was formerly sales manager for Texas Bakers in San Antonio.

Introducing Lubbock's Ministers

Rev. Purviance Is Serving As Pastor Of New Church

★ ★ ★

Rev. Harry Purviance, first pastor of the new Lubbock View Christian church at Thirty-fourth and Harrison Ave., moved to Lubbock in early September after receiving his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Texas Christian university.

However, Mr. Purviance was no stranger to his congregation when he took up residence here. For most of this past summer he traveled from Fort Worth to Lubbock each weekend to conduct services at the local church.

Mr. Purviance, a native of Missouri, received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Johnson Bible college, near Knoxville, Tenn., and later held a pastorate in West Point, Ga., for two years. While attending Brite College of Bible at Texas Christian university he held a pastorate at Marlin.

The Lubbock View Christian church was organized last spring and now has over 100 members. The church structure, which originally was a dairy barn, was completely remodeled and modernized several months ago. After the permanent church building is constructed, the temporary structure will serve as a recreation and educational center for the church. It stands on the back of the church property behind the building site for the new church edifice.

Mr. and Mrs. Purviance reside in the new church parsonage at 3406 Harrison Ave.

Pastor Of Brownfield Church Marks Fifth Anniversary Today

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 8. (Special)—A special sermon Sunday will mark the fifth anniversary of Rev. J. Preston Murphy's pastorate in Brownfield at the Presbyterian church.

Past accomplishments and future plans will be told at the service. At this time the church has an extensive building program under way. A new church is being constructed at the east end of Broadway.

Outstanding Speakers To Appear At Methodist Meeting In City

One of the 75 Methodist mass meetings scheduled across the nation on the Advance for Christ and His Church will be held here at the First Methodist church Oct. 20-21.

The Methodist Advance is a four-year program stressing the study of faith, improvement in local church programs, and an extension of missionary aid. Total financial goal for the four-year period is $50,000,000.

Top Speakers On Program

Top flight speakers, including Bishop H. G. Werner of Columbus, O.; Bishop R. S. Cushman of St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. Evelyn M. Duval, executive secretary of the National Council on Family Relations in Chicago; Mrs. B. B. Wedemeyer, president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, Waco; Dr. Warren Johnson, pastor of the First Methodist church, Fort Worth; and Call S. McFall, conference lay leader; Frederick, Okla. Bishop W. C. Martin of the Dallas-Fort Worth area, will preside.

Mrs. Duval will speak on "Rearing Our Children in the Christian Faith." Mr. McFall will speak on the Methodist man and the Deepening of Christian Faith.

Women's work will be featured by Mrs. Wedemeyer.

Bishop Werner's subject is "Our Christian Conception of the Worth of Man."

Others To Speak

Dr. Johnson will discuss the pastor's relationship to the Advance.

Bishop Cushman will conclude the meeting Friday noon with an address on "Our Faith in Christ."

The first morning session will open at 10 a. m., Oct. 20, Bishop Martin leading the worship with Mrs. Duval and Dr. Johnson on the program. The afternoon session includes addresses and a forum.

Bishop Werner will speak Thursday evening at a mass meeting. Friday mornin, early communion will be observed, followed by addresses and a forum, with adjournment at noon.

"In planning this program," Bishop Martin said, "we are bringing nationally known speakers to West Texas."

Man Breaks Three Keys Trying To Unlock Door That Is Stuck

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 8 (U.P.)—W. E. Foley gave up trying to unlock the front door to his home after he broke three keys and used up a can of oil.

Then he took the door from its hinges and found the trouble. The door never had been locked—just stuck.

Indian Missionary Has No Reservation Or Preaching Post

ATLANTA, Oct. 8. (AP) — For whipping three Seminole Indian girls, a Baptist missionary today was a man without a reservation, or job.

The Baptist Home Mission board placed Stanley Walker Smith, 38-year-old Creek Indian missionary to the Seminoles at Dania, Fla., under permanent suspension yesterday.

As a result, the native Oklahoman must give up his 35-acre parsonage on the Seminole reservation.

Whippings Admitted

The board's spokesman, J. B. Lawrence, said, "we couldn't retain him after a situation of that character. What he did wasn't so terribly wrong, but you can't have things like that happening in religious work."

Lawrence added that it might have been all right for Smith to whip Indian girls in Oklahoma, "but it just won't go in this part of the country."

Smith admitted whipping the girls because they had gone out with his 19-year-old son. He said the girls had been drunk and "otherwise misbehaved. The whipping was a disciplinary measure. My son was similarly punished."

The girls who accused Smith of whipping them with an electric cord were identified as Juanita Fewell, 23; Agnes Billie, 19, and Sadie Tommie, 17.

New Members To Be Received Into Church

A total of 125 new members will be received into the First Christian Church at the regular worship services Sunday. The new members were enlisted in a week of evangelistic-visitation directed by Rev. Bayne Driskill, crusade director of evangelism for the Disciples of Christ in Texas.

More than 50 lay members visited in the homes each night during the week. Miss Aletha McCasland, Tech student, directed the visitation among college students.

The new members will be received by the church school classes at 9:40 a. m.

A special invitation service for the morning worship at 10:50 a. m. will be conducted when Rev. Travis A. White will receive the new members.

Rev. White's sermon will be "Power to Become." Baptismal services for those making confession will be held at the close of the evening service. The sermon theme at this service will be "Spiritual Acrophobia."

B. C. McCasland, chairman of the evangelistic department of the church, served as director of the campaign.

BUSY DOCKS

During 1947, 1,500,000 trans-Atlantic passengers were carried to Great Britain by sea and air and the Southampton docks handled 577,000 passengers for an all-time record.

CHURCH Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Sim O'Neal of Lubbock route 5 will be guests at the state convention of the Presbyterian Mo-Ranch assembly held at San Antonio Tuesday. The meeting opens at 10 a. m. at the Plaza hotel there. The Mo-Ranch is a 6,500-acre property containing 35 buildings located on the Guadalupe river 25 miles west of Kerrville.

Community singing will be held from 2 to 4 p. m. today at the Central Baptist church, 1309 Eighteenth. The public has been invited to attend.

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You
WHAT DOES A CHIROPRACTOR DO?
The brain generates all life force, and this keeps us healthy when it is going to all bodily parts in normal quantity. When it is interferred with and all organs of the body parts are not getting the natural amount of nerve energy—we get sick. This can only be interferred with at the spine where slight displacements of spinal bones press upon the nerves. The Chiropractor replaces the spinal bones which are pressing on the nerves.

Nervousness
CASE HISTORY NO. 1291: Man age 36 who was very nervous, constipated, could not sleep, back ache, right arm and left leg would go to sleep, and he had dizzy spells. He had had this trouble from 12 to 14 years. As a last resort he came to a chiropractor. He took the examination, was told he could be helped, thus began his adjustments. He began his adjustments in January and the following year he was completely cured.

Neck and Shoulder Trouble
CASE HISTORY NO. 1450: Lady age 32 had hurting in back, shoulder and neck, got tired very easily, had uncomfortable sensation at the base of the brain, her legs and arms would go to sleep, and she was constipated. After trying many things without results, she came to a Chiropractor. She began services and now is feeling fine.

Mention Of Pay Hike 'Forgotten' On Ballot; Senator's Moves Watched

REMEMBER THAT!

Do Not Be Misled!

MOST Texans are aware that an election will be held November 8 on 10 proposed amendments to the State Constitution, one of which provides for increased salaries for legislators and annual legislative sessions.

Yet those who vote that day will discover nothing on their ballots to suggest that such a pay boost is involved. They will be asked to vote for or against a proposition which reads like this:

"And amendment to Article III of the Constitution by adding a new section, to be designated Section 5a, to provide for additional sessions of the Legislature and the committees thereof."

As can be seen, there's absolutely nothing in the proposition as submitted which even mentions the subject of salaries. There is nothing to tell the voter that approval of the amendment will mean an annual salary of $3,600—$300 a month—for each legislator, as compared with the $10 a day maximum now received for each day of sessions. There is nothing to warn that the Legislature would meet each year, instead of every two years as at present, to try to devise new ways of squeezing taxes out of Texans.

Perhaps the vague wording of the amendment does not represent a willful oversight. Possibly those who did the phrasing of the proposition as it appears on the ballot had no thought of trying to conceal the actual intents of the amendments.

But these would be broad concessions to make to any politician. The more plausible explanation is that the proposal was worded by someone who theorized that the less said about the salary increase, the better would be its chances of approval. The wording, to be blunt, looks like nothing more nor less than an attempt at deliberate deception.

If so, it may backfire. The word will be spread—and The Avalanche-Journal will do what it can to aid in the spreading—as to what this amendment actually proposes.

The prospects for its approval will not be helped among Texans who may share the seemingly justified feeling that some of the "smart boys" down at Austin have tried to throw them a curve.

Forward, March!

THE EXPANSION program announced Thursday afternoon by the Citizens National bank was important not alone for Lubbock, but for the entire South Plains and Northwest Texas, as well.

The program, still subject to formal ratification which undoubtedly will be given by stockholders, includes the doubling of capital stock from $500,000 to $1,000,000; the occupancy as a new home of the building now occupied by Hemphill-Wells and the addition of several floors to that structure; and, of utmost significance, the erection of a five-story parking garage—the first of its kind in this section of the State.

One of the most essential of all needs of any community and area is strong, stable and progressive banks. Few factors can do more to stimulate, or retard progress of a community and area than their financial institutions. The control they exercise over purse strings often means the difference between slipping backward, standing still or going forward.

Lubbock is fortunate in its possession of the kind of banks and bankers who plan realistically, yet soundly, for the future. They are the type which, unless they should reverse present policies, will be an accelerating rather than a braking influence upon progress, not only in this city, but in the entire territory. The stronger they are, the better is their position to assist the banks of smaller communities which come to them with their financial and financing problems.

The Citizens National program adds most impressively to the evidence which proves all this. And the announcement was all the more refreshing because it came without any preliminary drum-beating, community prodding or money-raising conditions.

The officials of Citizens National simply saw certain needs, then "hauled off" with the announcement that they will be supplied.

LEWIS NORDYKE, AMARILLO NEWSMAN, IS AUTHOR

"Cattle Empire" Relates Vivid Story Of XIT Ranch

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Lewis Nordyke, widely known Amarillo newspaperman and author, will be in Lubbock Monday for an autograph party in connection with the sale of his book, "Cattle Empire," just recently published. Mr. Nordyke will be at the Hemphill-Wells Co. bookstore from 2 until 5 p. m. to sign copies of the book. Following is a review of the book by Cliff Blackburn, Avalanche-Journal staff writer).

CATTLE EMPIRE. By Lewis Nordyke. William Morrow and Company, New York, 1949, $4.00, 273 pp.)

THIS is a vivid and authoritative account of the biggest ranch in the history of the United States, the fabulous XIT. Barbed wire boundaries surrounded its 3,000,000 acres but its influence was felt in Chicago, London and the halls of Congress.

When Texas decided it must have the finest and largest capitol building in the nation in 1875 and offered 3,000,000 of the state's wildest and most barren acres as a payment for the builders, it opened a chapter in the country's history that proves that fact is stranger by far than fiction.

Got Land From State

Four Chicagoans with money and dreams of a Western empire agreed to undertake the construction of the Texas State capitol and accept the land as their reward. The men, Charles B. Farwell, later of the United States Senate; John V. Farwell, the merchant prince who gave Marshall Field his start; Abner Taylor, the contractor who built the state capitol; and Colonel Amos Babcock, were, according to most Texans, daft. The immense acreage of arid and desolate country was purchased sight unseen. The Northern speculators had been out-witted!

Yet, when one day in March, 1882, Col. Babcock arrived in Tascosa for a rather belated peep at the purchase, his visit changed not only the history of the Texas Panhandle but the history of the entire West.

Was Wild Area

The citizens of Tascosa were amused and surprised to see this dumpy, heavy-set civilian, wearing a soft fedora, descend among them. The fact that he arrived seated at a table in an old ambulance reading a book did not improve their opinion.

Babcock informed all interested parties that he was there to inspect and survey the 3,000,000 acres. He explained that it would either be colonized or stocked with cattle or sheep.

Local residents chuckled in amazement. It was the last place in the state of Texas to be inhabited because it was high and dry and lacking in water and wood. The winters were nightmares with howling blizzards playing the major role. The summers were deadly with their heat and dryness. Prairie fires, killing frosts, and outlaws were several reasons the area was one of the nation's last frontiers.

Established Great Empire

Yet the dumpy little civilian succeeded in doing just what he had planned. He established the greatest cattle empire that the world has known and changed the ways of the reluctant cow puncher so as to make him unrecognizable to old associates.

This was no easy task. It took work, time and many failures. Texas politicians, later wondering just who had gotten the best end of the deal, made the way a hard one for the financers to travel. The men themselves would not have recognized a cow in a head-on collision and understood little of the mores and habits of the cowboys that worked the great ranch.

South Plains Area Included

For the people of the state of Texas, this is a very interesting book. But for those of the South Plains and Panhandle, it is a must on each individual reading agenda.

Much of the historical action found in the book takes place in and around the immediate area.

The book does not tell the tale of a financial venture alone. It shows how history was influenced by several men with ideas and a large stretch of land deemed worthless. The coming of the railroad to the Panhandle, the experiences of men still alive today, and the far reaching effects of the XIT ranch are displayed in such a way by the author as to make this book much more than "just another story of the West."

Photographs Are Included

The author's fluid and easy style makes for interesting reading all of the way. Until the last page is turned, the reader is swept along by the author's writing genius with the cowpokes of Texas at the turn of the century. With them he rides the lonely ranges, suffers the horrors of Panhandle bliggards, fights the devastating prairie fires that destroy all that lies before them.

The only complaint that could be made of the book is that it has an ending.

A colorful collection of photographs of the XIT ranch and the men who made it are found in the book. They, as well as the other personal letters and the author's writing ability keep the book from housing a monotonous heap of facts.

When in the fall of 1912, the XIT sold its cattle, horses and equipment to the ranch partnership of Shelton and Trigg and leased its remaining rangeland, one of history's immortal eras drew to a close. The author, Lewis Nordyke, cleverly carries the reader to this point without losing his interest one step of the way.

Lewis Nordyke was born on a farm near Cottonwood. After his graduation from the University of Missouri School of Journalism in 1933 he worked as a newspaperman throughout Texas, writing for national magazines on the side. Since 1937, he has been associated with The Amarillo Globe-News, where he now has a daily column.

He examined more than 60,000 letters and documents pertaining to the XIT to make the book as factual a spossible. He listened to thousands of stories spun by the state's oldtimers and surviving cowboys of the ranch. His book is a carefully checked historical work.

Humor and pathos are mingled with the author's astonishing ability to tell a good story well in "Cattle Empire." This book is one that will not be laid down until it is finished.

Book Briefs

"RAISING A RIOT" by Alfred Toombs is the story of a father who took over the rearing of his three children for 18 months, including the housework and cooking. The children had lots of fun but papa got very tired. The book will be published Oct. 10. Illustrated by Dorothy McKay.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

SOME Time ago I wrote a column that started "What do you want to be when you grow up?"

I made the rash assertion that "boys nowadays all want to be aviators, parachute jumpers, television stars or leaders of bebop bands."

BRANDEIS

Our local newspaper apparently didn't agree with my opinion about modern boys.

So they interviewed six typical American boys — five in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades and one in the fourth grade.

Not one of them expressed a desire for any of the vocations I had named.

But their choices convinced me again that we have nothing to worry about as far as modern youth is concerned; that boys are boys, no matter in what century they live; and that the future of America is quite safe, provided we leave our country to the common sense of the new generation instead of messing around with it ourselves.

The first boy wants to be a cartoonist.

"I draw pictures on paper when I should be studying. I think I might get together with somebody who can write stories to fit around the characters I draw."

That's what he told the interviewer — and from the incomes some of your favorite cartoonists enjoy, I think the kid is making a wise choice.

Boy No. 2 wants to be an aeronautical engineer and design airplanes.

"I have made lots of models and become more and more interested in the maintenance as well as the design," he said.

His father could not have chosen better for the boy.

* * *

The third boy wants to own his own garage.

"I like to work on cars and motors and things mechanical," he said.

And with the usual disdain of a ninth-grader for women, he added "I suppose repairing some lady's fender would be part of the day's work."

The fourth lad shows a lot of good common sense even at his early age.

"I used to want to be a baseball player, but I gave that up because baseball players can only play for a few years."

So, like boy No. 2, he, too, has decided to be a designer of airplanes — airplanes, in his opinion, being the transportation of the future.

* * *

"My father is an architect, and the work that he does looks very interesting. I'd like to study engineering at Yale."

Now for No. 6, the nine-year-old fourth grader.

"I would like to be a taxi driver. You could drive around in your very own car and meet all sorts of people. Maybe I could work up to having five cabs of my own."

None of the six wants to be a columnist.

They have too much sense for that.

SPECULATIONS AIRED

Thomas Blocks Bill

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The U. S. Senate now has an excellent illustration of why it's disastrous to have a senator speculate on the stock or commodity market at the same time he is passing legislation.

The illustration involves—as usual—Sen. Elmer Thomas, Oklahoma Democrat, who has speculated in a long list of commodities all the way from cotton to silver. In fact, the tall, gray-haired senator from Oklahoma has done so much speculating that now almost every move he makes which might influence the market is suspect.

PEARSON

For instance, Thomas has been holding up the shipment of 168,000,000 bushels of wheat to Marshall plan countries—despite the fact that he comes from a wheat state and his natural inclination should be to help his own state.

Furthermore, the bill he is blocking is pretty much routine. It merely clarifies the question of whether the Department of Agriculture or ECA should pay a 50-cent-per-bushel subsidy on the shipment. No matter which agency pays, it still comes out of the taxpayer, so the bill shouldn't make much difference to Thomas.

As chairman of the powerful agriculture committee, Thomas could have rushed the bill through the Senate weeks ago, but instead he appointed Olin Johnston of South Carolina, a cotton senator, to hold hearings.

Effect of this delay may overload the market and force a drop in wheat prices—which is the last thing Oklahoma farmers want. Ordinarily, it would also be the last thing Senator Thomas would want.

But thanks to his previous speculating activities, colleagues can't help wondering whether Thomas or his speculating partner, Dyke Cullum, is in the wheat market.

Backstage On Minton

Here is what happened when the Senate judiciary committee met behind locked doors to consider the confirmation of ex-Senator Sherman Minton to be a supreme court justice.

Sen. Forrest Donnell of Missouri had previously demanded that Minton make a personal appearance, but had not revealed to his colleagues that he intended searching Minton's past all the way back to his birth. Tip-off came when Donnell announced: "I have heard a story that Minton tried to gyp a court in Indiana."

This turned out to be a business loan, shared with two partners, which Minton had paid in full. No one was gypped—unless it was Minton.

But Donnell also charged that Minton owed money to two banks while he was serving in the Senate. This brought a sharp retort from Donnell's fellow Republican, "Wild Bill" Langer of North Dakota.

"There isn't a single allegation against this man's honesty or integrity," Langer snorted. "It is no disgrace in America to be poor."

Donnell and Ferguson of Michigan howled the loudest, however, over Minton's one-time stand in the Senate in favor of packing the Supreme court. But Sen. Herbert O'Conor, Maryland Democrat, was prepared for them. He brought in a stack of bound volumes, giving every opinion which Minton had written since he was appointed to the Circuit Court of Appeals in 1941.

"I am asking you gentlemen to point out just one decision which was in any way political or which departs in any way from the constitution or established law," the senator from Maryland challenged.

* * *

DONNELL also charged that Minton had tried to stifle the free press by introducing a bill to make newspapers criminally libel for publishing any statement which they knew to be false.

Finally, Sen. Harley Kilgore, West Virvinia Democrat, charged angrily that Donnell and Ferguson were trying to force Minton to commit himself on record, then be tied to those commitments throughout his service on the Supreme court.

"It is damned dangerous," warned Kilgore, "to appoint a man to the Supreme court who has been commited at hearings to a certain course of action."

In the end, only Sen. Alex Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, joined Donnell and Ferguson in voting that Minton should appear. But even Wiley deserted in the final roll call and voted to confirm the new Supreme court justice.

While almost 1,000,000 men were on strike for old-age pensions, the House rules committee staged a significant closed-door debate on the new social security bill which increases such pensions, not for union members alone, but for most old people.

This bill has been stymied in Congress ever since January. It was first recommended by President Truman in 1946 but got nowhere with the 80th Congress. Even in the 81st Congress it has been stymied by many Republicans and Dixiecrats who now propose amendments when the bill comes on the House floor for debate.

That was why members of the rules committee rowed so vigorously behind closed doors over whether to give the bill an "open rule" permitting amendments on the House floor, or a "closed rule" permitting no amendments. Congressman Ray Madden, hard-hitting Indiana Democrat, strongly urged a closed rule, warning that G. O. P. Congressman Noah Mason of Illinois admitted that the Republicans "were trying to filibuster this bill to death."

"He made no bones about it," declared Madden. "He told me he had about 75 amendments to offer if we let this bill come up on the House floor under an open rule. He added that he would 'like to filibuster' the bill so it wouldn't pass.

"Supposing all House members offered 75 amendments," continued Madden. "Why, we wouldn't get the legislation passed until July 4th. That's why we've got to have a closed rule for debate."

"It seems to me that on an issue as important as social security both sides should be heard and it should be handled in a nonpolitical manner," challenged G. O. P. Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio. "Don't you think we ought to be nonpolitical about it?"

"Certainly, I am for nonpolitical procedure," replied Madden. "That's why I was so happy to see the Republican presidential nominee, Tom Dewey, devote a whole speech to social security in the last campaign. The trouble with you fellows is that you're for the social security program only around election time."

The Magician's "Miracle"

An Exclusive Avalanche-Journal Feature By The Author Of "The Greatest Story Ever Told"

Dear Friends
and Gentle Hearts:

SOMETIMES the demands made upon us seem too much. We are tempted to kick over the traces. But if we keep right on, we are sometimes rewarded beyond our brightest hopes. Like my friend who performed an unexpected "miracle" when he least expected it.

OURSLER

All over the world he is known as Blackstone the Magician, and during the war he made many camp tours, cheering the soldiers. One day he had given nine shows and went to bed dog tired. No sooner had he fallen asleep, about one in the morning, when he was aroused by a knocking on the door. A harsh voice was calling:

"Hey, magish! Are you asleep! Well, wake up!"

Blackstone opened the door a crack and glared like a somnombulist.

"Listen, magish! A load of wounded men have just been flown in for transfer to a base hospital but there's going to be a two hours' hold-up. Most of the fellows have been unconscious for two days but now they've all come to—and they're pretty restless. The Colonel wants to know could you maybe keep 'em quiet with some tricks?"

* * *

THE wounded men were lying on cots on the moonlit airfield as Blackstone, old enchanter with his crazy nimbus of silver hair, suddenly appeared among them.

"Boys, what did the big prize-fighter forget to do?" he cried.

And out of the midnight air, as if by magic and from nothingness, Blackstone snatched a living duck, full-sized and quacking. Nothing up his sleeves, he gathered long-stemed roses from the moonbeams. He tore old comics into shreds and from the tatters poured hot coffee into paper cups. Like falling stars, lighted cigarettes appeared between his fingers, one for every man.

Finally the show seemed over, and Blackstone himself had no idea that he was, in the next minute, to perform the most welcome trick in the history of prestidigitation.

"Not far from Paris," answered Blackstone promptly.

Seeing a sudden, preposterous advantage, Blackstone acted with the speed of a hand quicker than the eye.

As from one throat came the cry: "Texas! That's where this outfit comes from. Texas!"

"Very well. Just shut your eyes!"

* * *

At that moment, there shone on the tired faces that willing suspension of disbelief which is poetic faith. But what casualty among them dared to hope that the dream would actually come true, the impossible turning into reality?

Like a medicine man at invocation, the old necromancer spread wide his arms, and starlight glimmered in the waggish mop of his hair. "One! Two! Three!" he cried. "Boys, now you're home. You're just outside of Paris — but it's Paris, Texas!"

Among all those happy, wounded men, Blackstone was the happiest. By doing more than his duty, when he had really wanted to refuse, he had come to one of the happiest memories of his long, adventuresome life. "Give to him that asketh of thee," said The Master of Galilee. No man who follows that advice will ever know regrets.

Defoliants Rush Cotton Harvest

By OPAL DIXON
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Taking the leaves from cotton plants by means of chemical defoliants applied from airplanes and ground machines, South Plains farmers are working to assure an early harvest and thereby bring about better grades and more money for their cotton.

Approximately 25 airplanes operated from Lubbock Municipal airport by three local and two transit dusting firms have been used during the past week to apply the defoliant from the air. In addition, some farmers of the area own planes they have used for the purpose.

Plan Aids Cotton

Farmers have a relatively short period in which to apply the defoliants at the time when they will serve the best purpose, generally considered to be from Oct. 5 to 15—not so early that defoliation might stop growth and normal development and yet late enough that about two weeks will be allowed for leaves to shed before the normal time at which frost may be expected early in Novemmer, said Don L. Jones, Lubbock experiment substation superintendent. Under those conditions, second growth of leaves does not occur to great extent.

The conditions brought about by chemical defoliation generally are kinder to the cotton plant than those brought about by Mother Nature. By defoliation before frost or a freeze, the plant itself is prevented from deterioating as it sometimes does when nature stops the growth.

Assures Better Growth

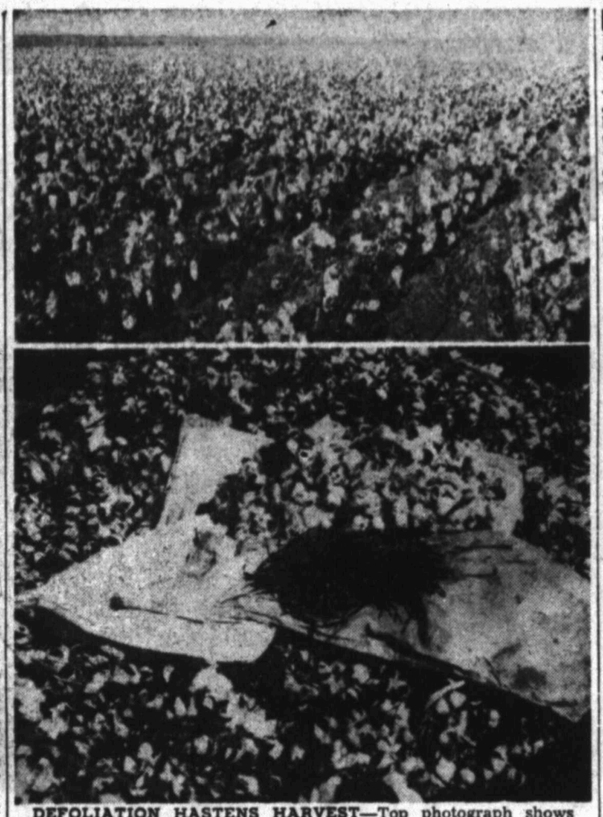

Proper chemical defoliation, by working on the abscission layer, does not cause complete stoppage of the normal functions of the plant as it only affects the leaves, said Jones. It hastens maturity, since with the absence of leaves sun can reach the bolls, bringing about an early harvest. In addition to assuring better grades and more money to the farmer and better commercial product, chemical defoliation also speeds up harvesting if done by hand, said Jones. Hand labor is able to harvest more cotton per day since the leaves are not in the way.

On the other hand, if the defoliation is left to Mother Nature, a frost or freeze soon results in the plants becoming brittle and breaking easily. "Cotton stripped after the plant deterioriates gathers more extraneous material resulting in higher ginning cost, lower grades and consequent lower farmer income," said Jones.

Use of the power-driven cotton harvester, stripper type, as an efficient method of harvesting cotton on the Texas High Plains has been increasing, Jones and Earnest L. Thaxton, jr., wrote in their progress report of results of 1948 cotton defoliation tests at Lubbock. "To insure best results," they wrote, "the grower must either await the occurrence of frost or use a chemical defoliant to drop the leaves from the cotton plant if he expects a consistently good grade of cotton."

The penalty for delayed harvesting found in extraneous material collected by cotton stripped after deterioration of the plant serves as incentive to many farmers to use the defoliants or "man-made frost" to drop the leaves.

Cosmic rays are best observed at high altitudes.

Meadow Organizes Terry County Junior Deputy Sheriff's League

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 8. (Special)—Organization of a Terry County Junior Deputy Sheriff's league has been completed at Meadow, and units at Brownfield and Wellman will be perfected within a few days, according to Sheriff Ocie H. Murry.

Forty-one boys from 10 to 16 years old are members of the unit organized by the sheriff at Meadow. Ben McCarthy is chief of boys 10 to 12; Ray Gober, 12 to 14, and Gary Valentine, 14 to 16.

The sheriff said he expects to have approximately 150 boys in the league when organization is completed. Badges are being issued the members.

Fire losses in the United States in 1946 exceeded by almost 25 per cent the damage done by German incendiary blitz on England during 1940 and 1941.

Truman And Other National Figures Began In Business World As Newspaper Carriers

BY HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—Men, is there one among us who can not claim to have been a newsboy?

Certainly not.

I just called the White House, on the eve of National Newspaper Carrier week. Charlie Ross, the President's press secretary who used to be a peddler of papers himself, said, sure, Mr. Truman did, too. Back in Independence, Mo.

The Library of Congress here is full of lore about big and little shots who once wheeled a bike up to many a front door and maybe misfired and left a morning paper behind a fir tree instead of on the front porch.

Newsboys Make Good

The National Association of Circulation Executives and other sources list an imposing group of big-timers who started their business careers as paper boys.

Among them are Leroy A. Wilson, a vice president of the A. T. & T. Sen. Robert F. Wagner of New York. Charles Luckman, president of Lever Brothers. Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon. Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson of the Supreme Court. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Attorney General Tom C. Clark. James Cagney, the tough guy of the movies. Bing Crosby, who sings, and Bob Hope.

Friends of Guy M. Gillette, Democratic senator from Iowa, like to tell about the time a few winters back when his youngster was ill and the senator himself bucked a head wind and peddled the boy's papers.

Later he told his pals in private: "I had a heck of a good time, and collected some back accounts for the boy."

Business Has Advantages

The circulation people are great hands to keep the boys hopped up. They tell them that (1) they meet such interesting people. (2) They get a background in business. (3). It's a good place to build character. (4) No income tax.

It's all of that.

A kid, when he takes a route, is taught that he will catch the very old mischief if he's a few minutes late with the morning or evening sheet. He learns all by himself to make up a lot of excuses. Like the route man who stubbed his toe and didn't get the papers out on time. The presses broke down. The editor didn't show up. And out in the country—the train was late.

Also, it's good training for parents. The old man has to teach his boy how to keep books. How to meet and influence people and get new customers.

Have Other Duties

The kid himself, has to be more than a newsboy. One customer is likely to ask him to stop at the Godwins and deliver a pie. Another will ask him to shinny up a tree and rescue a pet cat or monkey which was run astray.

The kid, being a kid, always does.

But there are rewards. On Christmas morning maybe a candy cane or a nice tie. In Boston, the newsboys take over the government one day a year during National Newspaper week. Some papers offer free trips for a job well done.

In the old days, a lad used to work many hours a week and maybe make $2.75. They do better now.
