Eve's Clothes Are Sufficient, Justice Opines

New York Magistrate Frees Actress Held For Exposure

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Beryl Halley, actress, who was summoned to court because of the scantiness of her "Eve" dance costume, today had the charge dismissed.

Magistrate Gordon, who viewed her performance Wednesday night, in an official capacity held that "present day standards do not reasonably permit condemnation of such a performance."

"In the present case," the decision said, "there is a passive, momentary presentation by Defendant Halley as Eve with nothing hidden, as would appear to the eyes, except by a fig leaf, although close scrutiny would reveal a gauzy texture on a small part of her body."

Ramsay Wallace, producer of the show, and Harry Levy, manager, co-defendants, were also discharged.

Child Is Rescued From Bull Dog By Collie Companion

FORT WORTH, May 14.—(AP) Zoe Martin, 5, probably owes her life to a collie which saved her last night from the attacks of a pet bull dog, thought to be mad. Both dogs are owned by the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Martin.

Mrs. J. H. Clifford first noticed that the bull dog had attacked the child and beat it off, but the animal returned and after knocking the little girl down, stood over her while it ripped and slashed at her back with its teeth.

The collie sensed the danger to its little mistress and hurled itself against the bull dog, bowling it over. The protecting dog then held the attacker at bay until help came.

The bull dog, recently vaccinated, is under observation for rabies.

RADIO TRIES VAINLY TO GET WORD OF CREW

Every Channel of Communication Exhausted In Vain

MAY HAVE LANDED

Friends Point Out Amundsen Has Cache of Fuel At Wainright

BREMERTON, Wash., May 14.—(AP)—The dirigible Norge, which Tuesday passed over the North Pole and yesterday reached the northern tip of North America, today remained lost to the world. The last word received was at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Every possible radio channel of communication, the navy radio station of the Puget Sound navy yard here, announced, was covered. This station was in constant communication with a navy radio station at Cordova, Alaska, and Cordova with seven navy and army radio stations is in a favorable position to communicate with the Norge, which has wireless.

Besides listening to these seven, Cordova hears everything that passes through the air over the North Pacific ocean, northeastern Siberia, the Alaska-Siberian part of the Arctic ocean and Alaska. It is unlikely the Norge had sent signals and Cordova had not obtained them and transmitted them to Bremerton.

Among opinions heard as to the whereabouts of the Norge were:

Roald Amundsen, her commander, flew her to Wainwright, on the northwestern Alaskan coast of the Arctic ocean.

Amundsen refueled his airship at Wainwright, where he had a cache of gasoline left from an attempt to fly over the Pole in an airplane in 1923, and hurried back north to seek land in the ocean north of Alaska.

The Norge was deflated at Wainwright, that village having more than enough folk to draw her to the ground, and will be shipped out to the states when navigation of the Arctic ocean opens in July.

Few were heard to opine that the Norge had met with disaster. Optimists pointed to reports from Washington and Seattle of good weather in all of the region where it was considered likely the Norge would be.

Wichita Falls Geologist, One Time Arctic Adventurer Himself, Awaits News Of Norge With Bated Breath

Harry Campbell Once Greeted Amundsen at Nome When Explorer Returned After Unsuccessful Exploration in the "Maud"

There is no one in Texas more ready and anxious to hear of success for Raold Amundsen in his dash in the Norge from Kings Bay, Spitsbergen, across the Arctic ocean and the north pole to Nome, Alaska, than Harry A. Campbell, Wichita Falls geologist.

Nearly five years ago Campbell was a member of a reception committee at Nome Alaska, that greeted Amundsen on his return after the unsuccessful expedition of the "Maud," which was forced, after losing its propeller in the ice far north of Siberia, to signal for help and turn back to Nome behind a towboat.

The "Maud" that year was towed back to Seattle, reoutfitted, and brought back for another expedition in 1922-23.

Campbell describes Amundsen as a "tall Norwegian," "absolutely fearless" and with a thorough knowledge of the northland and the Arctic country.

The Norge's failure to make itself heard by means of its radio in the last few hours is ascribed by Campbell to a "dead" spot about 200 miles square in the Point Barrow country, over which the Norge would have to pass before alighting at Nome. In this spot for some as yet unexplainable reason, long-wave wireless transmission sets are practically useless only short wave sets being heard at all. Amundsen has a 900 meter wavelength transmission. Captain Wilkins with two Fokker planes at Point Barrow, however has a 30 meter set which has often made itself heard far to the south of Barrow.

"If the plane has reached as far as Point Barrow, as some of the wireless messages intercepted seem to indicate, there is every reason to believe no harm will come to the flyers even if their ship has been forced down," Campbell thinks. With at least one of Wilkins' planes available for a search in the Barrow vicinity there is little likelihood of their being lost long.

The country between Nome and Barrow is described by Campbell as being very mountainous. He in company with four others was a member of the first party of white men to traverse a large portion of it in the summer of 1921. Campbell is associated with T. G. Lomax in the oil business here.

BULLET PROOF LEGISLATION IS AGREED UPON

Attorneys Meet With Representatives of Lone Star State

SESSION IN SEPTEMBER

Validation Measure Will Be Submitted to Solons By Ma

Special to The Record News.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Bullet-proof bills validating something like $75,000,000 of road bonds and 600 road district taxing bodies of the state of Texas were given final approval by a group of the nation's leading bond attorneys in Chicago today. The bills were then dispatched to Governor "Ma" Ferguson of Texas, who has announced that she will call a special session of the legislature for early September for the purpose of passing the bills.

The bills were drawn in Texas and submitted to the legal bond experts for the purpose of insuring the legality of the legislation. One issue of road bonds authorized but not issued or sold was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court recently as the result of an injunction.

The bills, which are expected to be approved by the Texas legislature, were drawn to save the state and road districts issuing the bonds from court litigation.

Settlement of the Texas road district controversy in Chicago yesterday was effected along lines which J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls had predicted before he left to attend the Chicago conference early in the week. Mr. Kemp, who has taken an active part in the movement to bring validation of the bonds, assisted in the draft of the new laws which, it is expected, will be passed by the legislature and thus set aright the difficulty started by the famed Archer county question.

Book Company Salesman, Held On Bribery Charge, Claims He Is A Victim Of Widespread Frame-Up

AUSTIN, May 14.—(AP)—"I am the unfortunate victim of a state wide political feud in which I have never had a part," Frank Adrien of Dallas, Texas, representative of American Book company declared in a statement here today, following his release on $25,000 bond on a charge of offering a bribe to Thomas J. Yoe, of Brownsville, member of the state text book commission, in connection with selection of school text books.

"I am not guilty and ask the public to suspend judgment until the facts are developed," Adrien said.

"I respectfully but earnestly ask the public to consider the fact that the charge was not made by Professor Yoe, to whom I am charged with offering the bribe, but was made upon information and belief in a justice court by a person who knew nothing whatever of the transaction.

"I am charged with endeavoring to bribe Professor Yoe seven or eight months ago, yet he never filed complaint against me, but has remained on friendly terms with me. He did not report to his fellow members of the state textbook commission the alleged offer of a bribe. After the time of the alleged offer, Professor Yoe voted for adoption of two of my books. All of these things clearly are incompatible with any real connection on the part of Professor Yoe, that I had tried to bribe him.

"If Professor Yoe has made any statement on which the complaint is founded, I cannot but believe he did so through possible misconstruction of some perfectly innocent remark of mine in some of our numerous conversations.

"My friends may be assured the charge is founded upon political prejudice and that I am absolutely innocent. The public already is familiar with the stubborn litigation through which the American Book company has gone recently, in which much feeling was evidenced, but which litigation resulted in thorough establishment of the legality of the American Book company's contract."

"HER MAN"

--By Beatrice Burton--

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR has been engaged to RANDALL PHELPS for a year, when he asks her to free him, because he's fallen in love with her chum, FAY SHIRLEY.

Heartbroken, Sylvia gives him up, much to the satisfaction of her guardian, AUNT AGONY, who would have liked her to marry PETER WILK, a wealthy bachelor. Aunt Agony says that Ranny will never be faithful to any woman for very long.

Her poor opinion of him seems to be correct, too, for suddenly Ranny drops Fay and marries Sylvia after all. But their married life is not happy, even from the start, for Ranny hates to be tied down and he has one love affair after another—usually with Sylvia's girl friends. And he gambles and drinks so much that Sylvia has to give music lessons to make both ends meet in their little flat, the Nest.

After the death of her first baby, RANNY JR., Sylvia has a nervous breakdown and refuses to come back to the Nest. She returns to live with Ranny in a new little house, only after he persuades her that he really loves her and promises never to look at another woman so long as he lives. He keeps his promise until the time when the second baby, a little girl, named Sylvia the Second, is about two months old. Then an old school friend of his wife's, BABS DELANO, comes to town, and he falls head, neck and heels in love with her and asks Sylvia to divorce him so that he can marry Babs. At first Sylvia refuses to, but after Ranny leaves the Little White House, and leaves a letter telling her that he never will live with her again, she makes up her mind to give him his freedom. She goes to his father's office to tell him that she will divorce him, and finds that he hasn't been there for two days.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LXI.

Sylvia was utterly at sea. If Ranny hadn't spent the night at his father's home or at the Little White House, where on earth had he spent it? Where had he been all night? Where was he now?

She tried to think of places where he might have gone, but she couldn't think clearly at all. Her head felt as if it were stuffed with cotton wool that deadened all her thoughts.

But she gave no sign of the panic that had taken hold of her. Her blue eyes were as cool as the sea, when she got up from Father Phelps' desk.

"I've just got to get hold of Ranny," she said quietly and moved toward the door.

As she nodded good bye at him, he said: "Wait a minute."

She saw his thin, half-paralyzed hand go out to the top drawer of his desk and open it. She knew that he was going to give her some money—probably the money that Ranny had spoken of in his cruel little note—and she shook her head.

"Oh, no!" she said. She didn't want any of their money. She had taken care of herself before, and she could take care of herself again. The thought of touching the Phelps' money was dreadful to her.

But it was Mother Phelps that she telephoned a minute later, from the private phone booth in the big, busy outer office.

As she waited for her answer, Sylvia looked out at the girls in the office. Most of them were pretty and graceful as they bent over their desks like drooping flowers. One—a fluffy blond young thing—was really beautiful.

"If Ranny had to fall in love, why couldn't it have been with one of those pretty girls instead of Babs?" she found herself thinking.

But she knew the answer to the question, almost before the question had taken form in her brain. He had fallen in love with Babs because she gave him the flattery that no one else ever gave him.

There had been a time when Sylvia had had words of praise for him, too, and she had meant every one of them, with all her heart. But she knew him now. She knew that he would never be anything but a half-successful salesman. He didn't know the meaning of real work.

His mother adored him, but even she had to admit that her only son was unstable. Her affection for Sylvia was founded on her sympathy for the girl.

His father knew that he had no business ability, and had finally made Thomas Boyle his right hand man in the firm.

Lolly, who read him like a book called him "Lazy Susan." His shiftlessness had become a byword in the Phelps family. No one took Ranny seriously any more.

It remained for Babs Delano to come along and tell him that he was a misunderstood genius. Her flattery soothed his wounded vanity. He felt that she alone, of all the world appreciated him.

Sylvia saw all this suddenly, as she sat in the stuffy little booth, waiting for Central to put Mother Phelps on the wire.

"As long as Babs flatters him she'll hold him," she said to herself. And perhaps she will hold him. Perhaps she'll keep him where I've failed to—"

Her mother-in-law's voice broke in upon her thoughts.

"I can't find Ranny," Sylvia told her. "He left our house yesterday afternoon and took his clothes with him. He isn't coming back to me, he says. So I'm going to tell him I'll give him a divorce. But I can't get hold of him to tell him so, and I thought perhaps he'd called you up."

"No," Mother Phelps answered promptly. "I haven't heard from him. Hasn't he been at the office this morning?"

Then, without waiting for Sylvia to answer, she went on briskly: "I'll tell you what to do. You hop into a cab and come here to my house and we'll talk this over. And on your way here stop at the Antlers hotel. Ranny may have gone there!"

"Oh, that's where he is, of course," Sylvia thought, as she stood in the outer office, waiting for her cab.

She was unaware of the fact that the girls around her were looking her over and wondering why young Mr. Phelps' wife didn't have more money to spend on her clothes.

"Why, she's been wearing that same suit for three or four seasons," ather Phelps' secretary said to Melba Young, the switchboard operator. "The last time she was down here she had it on, and that was before the first baby died."

Melba Young shrugged her shoulders. "She should worry about clothes when she has a face like that," she retorted. "If I could have her eyes I'd wear calico for the rest of my sweet young life."

She, herself, put vaseline on her lashes every night, in the hope of making them just half as long and thick as Sylvia's. And she was coming to the unhappy conclusion that the only way to become beautiful is to be born beautiful.

Her eyes followed Sylvia wistfully as she went down the front steps and climbed into her cab.

"The Antlers Hotel," Sylvia said to the taxi driver.

She would go there and tell Ranny that she would give him the divorce that he wanted. But she must make him understand that the thing would have to be done decently and quietly. He must promise not to see Babs until he was free. He must do it, on his own account. A scandal did a man's business no good.

Sylvia's whole thought was for him, as the taxicab cut its way through the downtown traffic and stopped at the Twelfth Street entrance of the hotel.

Henry, the doorman, touched his cap in greeting, as he opened the door for her. Many a time he had greeted her and Ranny thus, in the last five years, for the Antlers grill room was Ranny's favorite lunching place, and he tipped waiters and doormen so well always that they never forgot him. Money flowed from Ranny's pockets like water, except when she wanted some of it. Then it stuck to them like glue.

"Have you seen Mr. Phelps yet this noon, Henry?" Sylvia asked him as she got out and stood before him on the pavement. She let him think that she was going to meet Ranny here for lunch, as she often had before—particularly in the long ago days of their engagement.

"Mr. Phelps left the hotel about two hours ago," he said, spreading his fingers expressively. "I myself saw him leave."

Sylvia paid her driver and started across the sidewalk to the revolving door of the building. She would go in and see if Ranny had spent the night at the Antlers, and if he had checked out this morning. But suddenly she stopped and came back to the doorman.

"Henry, you didn't happen to hear what address Mr. Phelps gave the driver, did you?" she asked, not caring all at once what Henry thought or guessed about her and Ranny.

"It was somewhere on the West Side. Fir street, I think," Henry said, taking off his plum-colored cap to scratch his head. "Yes, Fir street. That was it."

Fir street, of course. That was where Babs lived. Why hadn't she thought of Fir street in the first place? She flew across the sidewalk and flung herself into another taxicab.

She was in such a frenzy of haste to get there that the machine seemed to crawl with the slowness of a snail. But presently it stopped before the brick apartment where Babs had taken a furnished suite.

There were eight bells and house telephones in the little vestibule of imitation marble. Seven of them had cards tacked up beside them. But Babs' card was not there.

Feverishly Sylvia rang the janitor's bell and after several minutes she heard slow footsteps coming along the basement and up the stairs.

A frowsy woman struck her capped head out of the door.

"Miss Delano? What is the number of her suite?" Sylvia asked her.

The slattern shook her head and looked blankly at Sylvia with dull gray watery eyes.

"She ain't got no suite number here no more," she answered with a fine disregard for grammar. "She didn't give me no two weeks' notice, like she was supposed to, either. Jes' walked out."

"Did she go—alone?" Sylvia's soft voice lingered on the words.

Again the janitress shook her head in answer. "No, indeedy!" she said, with a worldly wise air. "A man come for her in a taxicab and she drove off with him."

She said something else, but Sylvia didn't stop to hear it.

She was back in the cab and speeding toward the Union Station by the time the janitress had reached the bottom step of the stairs that led to her basement.

The minutes that Sylvia spent in the railroad station were like the fragment of a bad dream—one of those terrible nightmares where you go hunting everywhere for someone that you never find.

She threaded her way among the crowd, peering into faces, looking everywhere for Ranny and Babs. She was sure that this was where they had come when they left the Fir street flat.

But if they had come here, they were not here now. Sylvia made up her mind to that when she had looked everywhere. She had missed no nook or cranny of the station. She had even gone out on the tracks to see if they were there, waiting for their train.

Wearily she climbed back into her taxicab and set her face toward Mother Phelps' house in Winthrop street.

She found Ranny's mother dressed for the street, in the expensive black clothes that made her look like a dowager empress—or what she thought a dowager empress looked like, at any rate.

"Well, you've been a long time getting here," she greeted Sylvia, acidly, as she came running up the steps. "I'll tell you what I'm going to do. I'm going to see this Delano woman and talk to her. This thing has gone far enough. It's time I put a stop to it."

"No. There's no use in your going, Mother Phelps," Sylvia said, with a wan little smile. "Babs Delano isn't there any more. She's left her flat. I was just there, and—I think that Ranny's gone with her."

She did not cry, but dry sobs began to shake her. Mother Phelps took her firmly by the shoulder and marched her into the house and upstairs to her own cheerful bedroom.

"Now! Now Now," she scolded her. "This is no time to go to pieces. What makes you think that Ranny and she have gone away together? Why, he wouldn't do such a thing. Ranny may be foolish, but he's not common."

Sylvia told her story.

"Then you don't really know that they went to the Union Station, do you? You just think that they did." Mother Phelps summed it all up when she had finished. "But I don't. I think that this Delano woman is just moving to a new flat somewhere in town, and Ranny was probably helping her with her luggage.

She picked up the extension telephone that stood on the table beside her bed and called the Antlers hotel.

"You see," she said triumphantly to Sylvia, when she was through talking, "Ranny hasn't checked out of the hotel. His luggage is still there in Room 418. My dear, you've been letting your imagination run away with you."

Lolly makes a startling confession which grieves her mother. Sylvia is frightened by a newspaper headline. She receives an exciting message fro Peter Wilk.

SCOUT HEADS SEEKING CAMP

Will Make Inspection Trip Sunday on Beaver Creek

Boy Scouts of the Wichita Falls area may have a place for a summer camp located near the seven counties included in the district if plans of the scout council work successfully, Frank E. Creighton, executive, said yesterday. A suitable place for a summer camp has been found at Beaver dam on Beaver creek between Vernon and Lake Kemp. Arrangements to see whether or not the site will be accepted will be made Sunday.

Mr. Creighton, J. H. Allison, president of the council, and J. W. Pond, chairman of the camp committee, will go to Vernon Sunday to confer with R. L. Moore concerning the place.

The Boy Scout troops of the area have made plans to attend camps at Crateraville Park, Amarillo and Fort Worth, and will go there should the new location not be accepted.

Buried Treasure, 40 Year Old Beer Sought By Youths

HENDERSON, Minn., May 14.—(AP)—Forty barrels of beer, buried in a hill side 60 years ago, is the "treasure" sought by four young men of Henderson who start digging for it today.

Charles Ney, owner of a brewery which was razed last summer, gave the men permission to sink a shaft in an effort to locate the beer.

Jacob Ritter, original owner of the brewery, stored the beer in a cellar 30 feet underground, 60 years ago. Soon thereafter the tunnel leading to the cellar caved in and no attempt has been made since to salvage the beer.

Old employes of the brewery have figured out the approximate location of the beer. The youths have a rude chart showing that by digging downward for 30 feet they will enter the tunnel leading to the cellar.

They face one hazard, however. Andrew J. Volstead, author of the federal law which bears his name and legal adviser to the northwest divisional enforcement group, last autumn decided to look into the legality of unearthing the beer. His decision has not been announced.

The youths, however, have decided to proceed and await a decision later.

Spend Billions On U. S. Highway Work

NEW PORK, May 14.—(AP)—About two billion dollars was spent in highway work in this country last year and the greater part of the money already has been repaid in saving to motorists, William H. Connell, retiring president of the American Road Builders' association, told the executives of that organization at their 23rd annual meeting today.

Mr. Connell said that about 40,000 miles of highway are being improved in America annually.

H. G. Shirley of Richmond, Va., was installed as president to succeed Mr. Connell.

The next convention of the association will be held in Chicago January 10, 1927.

WHERE THE WATER FLOWS

THIRTY years ago they needed water at Wichita Falls and Joseph A. Kemp and his associates built the first reservoir to supply the needs of the population for years to come with a large surplus for irrigation purposes to be employed by those engaged in truck gardening.

Thirty years ago they started to fight for irrigation and all the irrigation laws to be found in the books were placed there by Kemp and his band of empire builders. In very recent years with their own money, they launched the largest venture in the state.

They have another Lake Kemp now that is one of the wonders of the southwest. This provided for a body of water sufficient for the irrigation of a hundred thousand acres even in the dryest season. They have two districts with facilities for the irrigation of 50,000 acres. A third district has been surveyed to irrigate a fertile section near Holliday and east of Hilliday to extend into the Jolly section of Clay county, this to furnish water for another 50,000 acres and to cost, when it is finally constructed, approximately $750,000.

R. A. Thompson, a former resident of Austin, is the engineer. He is building Lake Garza near Dallas, but he keeps an eye on the Wichita Valley project just the same. A fourth canal system has been outlined by this noted engineer. It will be built all the way to the storage dam, with its intake about 40 feet higher than that of the present canal system. This will provide for another 50,000 acres at a cost of $1,500,000.

They have a wonderful storage dam at Lake Kemp. A first estimate by the engineer declared it capable of containing 250,000 acre feet of water. Now another estimate has been given as to the capacity of that body of water and expert opinion declares it is capable of containing 600,000 acre feet. This criptic sentence is taken from the report of the engineer, "there is plenty of water and no excuse for letting it go to waste."

This is true. Why is water wasted in a country where the summer drouth is devastating and financially disasterous to those who will till the soil?

These men of the Wichita Valley began 30 years ago. They had vision. They knew what they wanted. They knew the cost of drouths. They knew that the average rainfall was heavy. They knew that the flood waters were carried into the Gulf of Mexico from the upper country every year.

They knew it was a criminal waste. They knew that water distributed at the proper time would make their valley as fertile as the valley of the Nile. They fought 26 years for a practical idea. They had to convert the people of the state to their idea of ideal.

They had to win over lawmakers. They had to win over hostile editors. They had to win the man in the rut who was untaught and insisted that what was good enough for his grandfather was good enough for him. They had to make campaign after campaign. They had to go down in their pockets to pay the necessary expenses of these campaigns. They had to make many sacrifices.

They had to kick aside the barriers of prejudice and custom. After a battle that lasted for years, they won in legislative halls, at the ballot box and before the courts of the commonwealth. They organized their own districts. They voted their own irrigation bonds.

They sold the bonds. They employed engineers and contractors. They broke ground and they completed or thought they had completed the job. They made a lake that will be one of the show places of Texas. They placed themselves in a position to laugh at drouths throughout the coming years. They rendered Texas an object lesson which cannot be effaced by even the withering hand of time.

Now they are going ahead with the work of organizing new districts and the building of new canals to make productive additional thousands of acres of land to make the Wichita Valley and the surrounding country the habitats of prosperous and contented wealth makers who laugh at the scorching rays of the sun and turn the water on their growing crops whenever it is needed.

These are men who build cities in deserts. These are men who live and die in the ruts made by the heavy feet of their ancestors. Those who could build cities in deserts are largely in evidence in the Wichita Valley and in the queenly city that faith built.

It was said in the beginning, "let there be light." Now men of vision, blessed by light, men who live in lands that may be parched by drouth, say, "let there be water" and wherever there is light and water combined under the skies of Texas, it is possible to make the land that is tilled yield rich returns and place dividends in the pockets of the tiller.

WURZBACH ON THE ROAD

CONGRESSMAN HARRY. M. WURZbach of the San Antonio district is back on the firing line in his native state. He is the only republican representative from Texas. He is serving his third term. He is willing to serve the fourth term. He is on the black list of the Creager slate organization.

Boss Creager and his organization have no time for Wurzbach. They are out for his scalp. They are going to do all in their power to prevent his renomination. They have picked a candidate to oppose him in the primary. This candidate is a citizen of the home county of Wurzbach, Gaudalupe, and he is the republican district attorney of the county. He is an organization republican, that is, a Creager republican, and he is going to the mat with Harry M.

State Senator Julius Real was urged to make the race by the Creager republicans. Senator Real is a hold-over. He defeated a democrat for a place in the upper house two years ago. He has a strong following in all the counties around the Alamo and democrats usually put him over. Julius is a wise politician. He believes that a bird in the hand is better than two guesses in the political bush.

There is going to be lots of fun in the fourteenth congressional district this year. Wurzbach has powerful family connections who are democrats. His father was a gallant confederate soldier.

He is a wet and he represents a wet district. If he wins a renomination, there are republican politicians who say that he will be knifed at the polls by the Creager republicans. If he loses the renomination, then it is safe to predict that the Wurzbach followers or many of them, will use their knives frely on election day carving the man selected to carry the republican standard in the old Alamo district.

National Committeeman Creager has never yet met his waterloo. If Wurzbach defeats him it will be a waterloo for the canny and cunning statesman and political boss of the lower Rio Grande Valley country. Wurzbach has State Chairman Eugene Nolte to fight as well as the national committeeman of his party.

Wurzbach and Nolte are follow townsmen. They are rivals for high leadership honors. If Wurzbach wins the renomination then he is going to put his claim for the position of high boss of the republican party of Texas.

TRAPP IS ONLY ACTING

OKLAHOMA is having another political row this year.. When Jack Walton was kicked out, M. E. Trapp, succeeded him as governor. Trapp wished to run as a candidate this year. His political opponents said that he was ineligible because he was governor both in fact and name, and therefore could not make the race as the state constitution provides that the governor cannot succeed himself.

Well, the state election board settled it, by declaring that Trapp has never been elected to the office of governor and may run for office this year if he sees fit.

Trapp was elected lieutenant governor when Walton was elected governor of Oklahoma. This was in 1922. In 1923 Jack was deposed and Trapp was given the reins of power.

Jack Walton cost the democrats of Oklahoma two seats in the United States senate. After the people of Oklahoma refused to vindicate the loquacious Jack, he turned his attention to oil. He is said to have made a fortune in the game.

Now if Trapp were to turn his attention to oil perhaps the democrats of Oklahoma of all factions could get together and make a clean sweep of the offices this year from United States senator to that of constable in one of the Indian precincts. Harreld must stand for re-election. He is an accident in the senate. Oklahoma is a democratic state when conditions are normal and the democrats are not throat cutting over the Jefferson road to heaven.

Queer people, some of the alleged followers of Thomas Jeferson. They permit the essentials of democracy to go on the blink and fight over non essentials with all the ferocity of a tiger cat.

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

What One Woman Learned About the Wife-Job. Why the Girls Who Go the Pace Have Beaux But No Husbands.

Dear Miss Dix—I was married to a good man, and had a nice home and a car, but because we argued and quarreled I was fool enough to leave him. Since then I have had to earn my own living, and I realize now what a man has to go through to keep up a home, and I don't wonder that he is sometimes cross and irritable.

Believe me, if my husband would take me back, I would be willing to overlook a lot of his shortcomings that I made such a fuss about. I have had my lesson. Would you tell him so, and ask for another trial. JENNIE.

Answer: I certainly would, Jennie. Perhaps he has had his lesson, too. And you both will have learned the folly of crying over things, and know how to make concessions, and you will put as much thought and work into trying to make your marriage a success as you would into trying making a success of any other job you tackled.

It can always be done, you know. There would be mighty few divorces if the husband would try to "sell" himself to his wife as he does to his best customer, and if the wife would handle her husband as tactifully and put up with as much nerves and crankiness in him as she does from her boss in an office or store.

You say, now that you have tried making your own living, that you realize what a man has to go through with, and how, when he comes home tired and nerve-wracked at night, that he has simply reached the limit of his endurance, and any chance word or little misadventure is the straw that breaks the camel's back. He is ready to fight at the drop of a hat and likely to drop it if you don't.

I often think that the old proverb, "One-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives," is truer in matrimony than anywhere else. If husbands and wives could only change places now and then, and know the trials and difficulties of each other's lot, they would have much more sympathy and patience with each other, and the exchange would correct so many of the abuses of matrimony.

If a woman had wrestled all day with unreasonable patrons, or stupid and unreliable employes; if her very soul had been torn with anxiety and she had seen ruin staring her in the face; if she was scared blue when she thought of what the future might hold not only for her but for those dependent upon her, she wouldn't wonder if a man, similarly situated, wants to sit silent of an evening, nor would she mistake this silence for grouchiness and surliness.

And if any man had ever had the experience of going the round of the domestic treadmill of cooking and sewing and washing and baby-tending day after day, he would never wonder that a woman needs a bit of gayety to cheer her up and take her thoughts into new channels.

A fellow feeling makes as wondrous kind, and if only husbands and wives could swap places occasionally, it would bring about a domestic millenium. DOROTHY.

Dear Miss Dix—We are two modern girls. We believe in petting parties, mugging, drinking, smoking, everything that the up-to-date flapper does. We have plenty of beaux, but among them all we cannot find any man who comes up to our ideal, or whom we consider worthy of our love. Why is this?

TWO BROWN EYED BEAUTIES

Answer: I should say that there Answer: I should say that there is a very simple explanation to your problem. It is this: that no worthwhile man wants to marry a girl who pets and drinks and smokes. You can't imagine Sir Galahad being allured by a cheap little sport, can you? Nor can you think of any good reason why a clean living man, who has fastidious ideals of feminine purity, would desire to kiss a girl whose lips had been a free-lunch counter to every Tom, Dick and Harry, and who had been pawed over by every drug-store sheik who took her to the movies.

POEMS THAT LIVE

"Sigh No More," by William Shakespeare.

All through Shakespeare's plays there run these little songs, so simple, apparently, yet the perfection of art. They are quite as important as the plays themselves, and live apart from them, as well as in them. And they all have a fragrance, a grace, a delicacy that can not be matched. Moreover, they are easily committed to memory, for they sing themselves.

Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more,
Men were deceivers ever;
One foot in sea, and one on shore;
To one thing constant never.
Then sigh not so,
But let them go,
And be you blithe and bonny,
Converting all your sounds of woe
Into Hey nonny, nonny.

Sing no more ditties, sing no more
Of dumps so dull and heavy;
The fraud of men was ever so,
Since summer first was leavy.
Then sigh not so,
But let them go,
And be you blithe and bonny,
Converting all your sound of woe
Into Hey nonny, nonny.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

A CHANCE TO GROW

But give a plant a place to grow,
A little sunshine every day,
A little rain when clouds are low,
A hand to keep the weeds away,
And it will make your garden gay
With all the joy that gardens know.

But give a tree a chance to bear,
Room for its roots and spreading boughs,
But give a tree a little care,
And shelter when the winds carouse
And many a blossom it will wear,
And many a golden fruit to house.

But give a heart a chance to bloom
Along the road, beside the stile,
Some comfort in some hour of gloom
That comes to gardens for awhile,
But give a heart a litle room
And how a heart will bloom and smile!

But give a soul a kindness, spend
A little time in gentle deeds,
And buds will blossom, branches bend,
Wherever handshave sown the seeds,
Yes, man will find the joy he needs,
And in life's autumn reap a friend.

What Do You Know About It?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX

1. What are some dyes derived from animals?
2. How does a dye differ from a stain?
3. What is a mordant?
4. In what American states was indigo once grown?
5. From what source in nature, and from what country does henna come?
6. What dye is yielded by a crocus?

Answers to these questions in Monday's Record News.

Scarlet of British Uniforms

For centuries the beautiful scarlets of medieval clothes were derived chiefly from the root of a plant called madder, which was at one time a monopoly of the Turkish empire, and again, of the Dutch. So great was its value that nations sought to get control of the madder industry and keep up the world's price. At one time madder was brought to America and tried in Delaware. Then in the middle of the last century a boy of eighteen, William Henry Perkin, discovered how to make indigo synthetically, from coal tar, and from then on the progress of chemical dyes has been triumphant. Today madder is grown nowhere, as its chief chemical constituent, alizarin, is easily synthesized, except in certain portions of England. For an act of parliament dated from long ago, prescribes that the dress parade uniform of the British soldier shall be dyed scarlet with the root of madder, and the British stick to this no matter what others do.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. The chief peninsulas of Europe are the Balkan, Spanish, Danish, Scandinavian, and Italian.
2. The chief island possessions of Denmark are Iceland and Greenland.
3. Russia is the largest country in the world.
4. Baluchistan is a semi-independent Mohammedan country between Persia and India, partly controlled by Britain.
5. The Rhine flows through Germany, France and Holland.
6. Florida has been possessed by Spain, France, England and the United States.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE

TAURUS

Today's planetary aspects are variable. In the morning, they are adverse, in the afternoon, they are favorable. In the evening they assume a negative character, and protend neither good nor evil. During the forenoon, it will be advisable to devote your time and efforts to duties that are obligatory and of a routine nature, exercising, at the same time, self-restraint in order to counteract the tendency to be easily irritated. Between noon and sunset, your pent-up energies can be allowed free play, and anything worth while that is attempted during this period promises success. Relaxation and restful recreation are favored for the balance of the day.

Children born today will, although relatively healthy during infancy, not escape all of the ailments which little ones are usually subjected. Careful nutrition and healthy environment will rob these illnesses of any gravity or danger. These children as they grow up, will, in a physical sense, flourish like the green bay tree. Their dispositions will be cheerful and they will develop great strength of character, which combined with perseverance and tenacity of purpose, will insure for them success and bring them happiness.

If today is your birthday, you possess intellectual ability, as well as charm of manner. You, however, lack self-confidence, are thereby unable to capitalize your assets. Bovee says "self-distrust is the cause of most of our failures. In the assurance of strength, there is strength, and they are the weakest, however strong, who have no faith in themselves or their powers." You are, as a friend, both sincere and loyal, ever ready to help those who stand in need of it. Your emotions very often get the better of your judgment, and many of those actions that you afterwards regret are based on hasty impulse.

Your home life should be, given your affectionate nature an easy temperament, ideally happy. Your social life, given the esteem in which you are held by your friends, if 'full of pleasure. It is a pity, however, that you are at times, so different and so afraid to give expression to your thoughts as the courage to do so would inure to your benefit, and to the advantage of those associated with you.

Successful people born this date are:

"APRIL SHOWERS BRING MAY FLOWERS."

By One of the May Flowers.

"April showers bring May Flowers,"
'Tis a statement often heard;
I declare it makes me swear it
Is so silly and absurd!

April fickle, with her trickle,
Brings the things that folks detest,
Mackintoshes and galoshes,
Rubbers, slickers and the rest.
But as flowers? . . . by the Powers,
April's got a nerve, indeed!
I remember last November;
Even THEN I was a seed.

Many another seedling brother
Slept with me the Winter through,
Waiting, waiting, hibernating,
Till the March-wind's trumpets blew

He aroused us where we housed us,
Then this April swamped the skies
And her waters dowsed our quarters
Till we simply HAD to rise!

We May flowers knew the hours,
LONG er April's rain and mud;
Like the sages of the Ages,
We were born . . . before the Flood!

AN ADVENTURE IN THE EVERGLADES.

A Bit of Detective Work Under Difficulties.

By Dr. Walter E. Traprock.

The capture some weeks ago of the notorious Whittemore and his gang recalls an experience of my own along these lines. The arch-crook involved was the famous "Egg" Earlap, a safe-blower with something to blow about. When he got away with two million from the Philadelphia Mint the government though it was time to call me in.

Space compels me to skip the steps by which I traced my man as far as Palm Beach, Fla. There, disguised as a chair-pusher, I kept my ears pinned back and eyes peeled. I spotted Earlap one day in the lobby of the Beach-and-Tennis club. Unfortunately he saw me at the same instant. The chase was on!

I kept a small scout-plane in a local garage. In the tonneau were a brace of bloodhounds, bought from a stranded "Uncle Tom's Cabin" show. Taking the air I circled and picked out my quarry, headed inland at 80 miles an hour. When Earlap heard the drone of my motor I saw his machine plunge into the brush. I made a tickfish landing in the narrow roadway, loosed the dogs and went after him.

The hounds caught the scent immediately. After three strenuous miles we were stopped by a 60-yard bayou that was simply a mass of crocodiles. There was only one thing to do, ... sacrifice the hounds. With regret I urged them in to the mire. Meanwhile I made my way across, leaping from back to back of the heaving creatures under me!

A hundred yards further on I spied my victim in the top of cocoanut palm. Whipping out my revolver I began cracking the nuts about him, shouting as I did so, "The next nut to be cracked is yours." A quavering voice trembled, "Don't shoot, I'll come down."

It was the beginning of the end for "Egg" Earlap. The government, besides a handsome fee, presented me with a beautiful silver cocoanut that holds just two quarts, not necessarily of milk!

Hunting for It.

"What are you doing up on our roof, little boy!" I called to a neighboring lad the other day. "Come down at once or I shall tell your father."

"Oh, I was just looking for the mortgage papa said was on your house," he called back. —A. B. Schmidt.

An Urgent Case.

The little man with the wrinkled clothing and several days growth of beard rushed into the doctor's office and said: "I understand, Dr. Pearson, that you're a baby specialist."

"Yes," replied the doctor, "what can I do for you?"

The well was cemented on top of sand early in the week and commenced bailing late Friday. Its completion will be closely watched as the test means a new extension to some of the oldest production in the Wichita Falls district.

Pace, Conyer

George Pace will recommence drilling Monday on his No. 1 Conyers test in the Grimes survey on the east Montague county line. The test has been shut down on top of a gas sand topped at 806 feet for several weeks awaiting clearing of title. More sand will be taken before casing is set to test. To the east a short distance and in Cooke county on the same structure as worked by L. E. Trout, John Hoosor is skidding 50 feet to put down a second well to test sand drilled from 1,396-1,410 feet in his No. 1. This well which is located in the Moss survey was drilled 10 feet into sand before casing was set to test; the bottom four feet showing a good deal of oil on testing, at which time the well created a good deal of interest among local operators.

Chenault, Rachuig

N. B. Chenault and associates are setting casing to test a sand topped at 1,163 feet in their No. 1, Rachuig located in R. B. B. & C. survey north Young county.

One Side of City Bond Issue Is Heard By Council

The affirmative side of a debate before the business council of the chamber of commerce as to the advisability of the city's voting a $1,200,000 bond issue June 12 for the purpose of rebuilding its water supply system was heard at the luncheon Friday noon in a talk by Mayor R. E. Shepherd. The negative side, which was to have been presented Friday by A. M. McPherson, consulting engineer, will be taken up at the meeting next week.

In his talk the mayor referred to the present water system as capable only of supplying the needs of a city of 12,000 people, whereas it was being made at the cost of inefficiency in delivery, etc., to supply the needs of a city of 55,000 people. The mayor also stressed the needs of a water softening plant, calling attention to a huge loss annually due to mineral conditions in the water. Mr. Shepherd stated that it was necessary for the pumping plant at its present location to force water into certain portions of the city, particularly the Floral Heights district, against an 85 foot head. By placing the new plant, funds for which are provided in the proposed bond issue, at a level much nearer that of the lake itself this "head" can be eliminated.

Mr. McPherson, it is understood, will deal with the other side of the bond question, taking up in detail the minority report of the chamber of commerce committee recommending the bond issue as filed by C. H. Clark.

Stars of Great War Play to Come Via the Air Route

Edgar Mason and Miss Miami Campbell, stars of "What Price Glory," the sensational war play of the season which will open at the Majestic theatre Sunday, May 16, for a week's showing, will arrive Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, by way of airplane, piloted by Captain Bill Irwin, internationally known fifth American ace. The plane will circle the city several times before landing at Call field, southwest of the city.

"What Price Glory," is a play of the World War, startling in its truthful picturization of the cruelty and enormousness of the big fight. It is a precise interpretation of the lives men live when they fight.

Arthur McKeogh, editor of the Cosmopolitan magazine says "It's realism made me gasp. In fact, it's so far removed from the traditional bunk of war plays in which the heroine coyly catches her French heel in the front line duckboards that I wonder if the public will know enough to appreciate it."

The play tells a story of war, a woman and a few Marines. Charmaine, a peasant girl, daughter of "Cognac Pete," daughter of the soil, daughter of whichever regiment is passing through, makes hay in the sunshine as the war clouds roll by. There is a vicious though humorous fight between two leathernecks, old enemies, who come face to face in the little French town—with Charmaine.

Miss Campbell and Mr. Mason with the remainder of the Mason Players, have been playing in Dallas recently, where they have made a highly successful debut. The Wichita Falls engagement will conclude May 22.

At The Mission Saturday

Big Boy Williams A Heroic Worker

Big Boy Williams, the genial, smiling, dynamic cowboy star, appearing with Wolfheart, the wonder dog in "THE BAD MAN FROM BODIE," now at the Mission Theatre, is the one and only hero for Wolfheart. Not that he has expressed his personal desires "verbally," but the fact remains that this remarkable canine Edwin Booth will not be happy with another cowboy as his "leading man." Big Boy Williams learned to love Wolfheart and they spend many many hours romping through the hills and valleys, when on location. This good-natured cowboy knows every whim of this dog actor—so it follows that they are perfectly teamed. In "The Bad Man from Bodie," both are seen to excellent advantage. The Western is spectacular melodrama of a sort that all outdoor lovers will enjoy. The cast also includes pretty Kathleen Collins, Larry Fisher and Rex Ballard.

Dog Is a Star In Picture at Gem

There is no gauging a dog's courage, or moral bravery, or any other psychological attributes that belong to humans. This much is known to man: that when he is in danger, cowardice is a far-off element in the dog, who is to be depended upon for salvation. He comes through to the rescue, when all else is hopeless. The war brought forth countless such stories of the bravery of the dog.

On the motion picture screen excellent exhibitions have been given of a dog's devotion to a master, and the unselfishness and sacrifice he reveals when he is depended upon in a crisis. Wolfheart, the extraordinary police dog, is the attraction at the Gem theatre today in his latest and greatest adventure story, "The Courage of Wolfheart."

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—An honest taxicab driver today saved a Dallas, Texas, woman several thousand dollars and won a $2 tip.

The honest chauffeur was suspended in a moment of mental d.abt, and in the interlude the reputation of the entire chauffeuring profession was imperiled.

But deciding swiftly, he chucked the passenger out and sped back to the pier to find Mrs. Dabney sobbing just as the steamer was pulling up anchor. The purse was handed over and for his pains the driver clutched two crips one dollar bills.

Coolidge Vetoes Bill Designed to Restore Officer

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—President Coolidge vetoed his first bill of this session of congress today when he returned to the senate without his approval a measure to reappoint Chester A. Rothwell, formerly a captain of engineers in the army, as an officer of the engineers.

Captain Rothwell, a native of Ohio, was honorably discharged with one year's pay, June 23, 1925, after he had been placed in Class B which, the message said, "meant that his work was below average."

"I deem it necessary," the president said, "for the discipline of our military forces that the judgment of the efficiency board (of the army) should be accepted by the president and the congress as final, unless some information develops which was not known at the time of this action, and which otherwise would probably have caused them to reach a different conclusion."

Although the officer was said by the president "apparently to have served acceptably in France and was recommended for a decoration, which however was not given," a final classification board of the army unanimously on April 10, 1925, placed him in Class B.

Eastern Employers Take Texas Labor

SAN ANTONIO, May 14.—(AP) Because of the high wages offered Mexican labor by eastern farm interests, Texas is threatened with a labor shortage this summer, A. P. Carrillo, Mexican consul general declared today.

In that section of the United States the consul pointed out, there are vast sugar beet fields, the owners of which give months of employment yearly.

And, because of the shortage of laborers there farmers are forced to offer special inducements to laborers in order to carry on their work, it was stated further.

Go To—' Causes Injury But Saves Safe and Valuables

DALLAS, May 14.—(AP)—A Dallas druggist last night told two robbers to go to the place where the lost battalion commander told the Germans to go when the robbers demanded that he open his safe. Today the druggist wears an ugly wound on the head.

As John Couch was closing his store for the night, the two men entered. They demanded that he open his safe. He refused, inviting them to the place where snow is reported to melt rapidly. One robber struck him over the head with a pistol and then the two fled, leaving Couch wounded but his safe safe.

Pulmotor Fails To Bring Life Back

SAN ANTONIO, May 14.—(AP) While 25 members of the Bexar county safety council watched Assistant Fire Chiefs Butler and Mechler demonstrate the use of a lung motor last night, 2 persons at the municipal swimming pool worked vainly over the body of Felipe Garcia, lying in six feet of water the drowned youth was discovered by Ramon Maldonado, his chum.

The assistant chiefs reached at the safety meeting, rushed with the lung motor to the swimming pool.

For more than an hour the chiefs worked with the youth, but every device and every effort failed to bring life back into the body.

YOUTHFUL LESTER WHITE TAGS IT ON VETERAN BOB COUCHMAN IN TEN INNINGS BY 2-1 SCORE

Los Angeles Semi-Pro Allows Six Safeties And Goes Route, Ping and Tony Furnish Punch

Lester White, young right-hander recently plucked from Los Angeles semi-professional ranks by the Spudders, Friday stepped out in mud almost knee deep at the Gardner orchard and hurled his way into the hearts of Wichita Falls fandom by defeating San Antonio in the final game of the series, 2 to 1.

White, performing with the calmness and sangfroid of a veteran instead of a youngster, withstood the heavy artillery of the South Texas detachment ten long innings, allowed six hits and gave up one run, the lone enemy counter coming in the second frame.

Not only did White pitch Wichita Falls to a ten-inning victory, but he staged the more or less astounding feat of stopping the wily Bob Couchman, San Antonio mound ace and so far this season one of the Texas league's most effective flingers.

Saved in Ninth.

White, however, came very near to coming up on the red side of the ledger with his sterling performance, for the Spudders did not get him a run until the ninth inning. With one out Brainard blasted a single at the box. Couchman endeavored nobly to spear the drive with his meat hand, but merely deflected the ball. Washburn followed with a sharp single to left, sending Brainard to third. Fitzgerald hit to Golvin, forcing Wash at second, Brainard scoring. Turgeon forced Fits at second.

The Spudder defense held in the tenth and then the heavy guns opened on Old Bob for a quartet of bingles and the winning run. Query led off with a single to right. White attempted to sacrifice, forcing Query at second. Lester gained a life at first base on fielder's choice. DeFate dropped a Texas leaguer back of short, sending White to second. Lamb singled down the third base line, loading the runways. Ping Bodie stepped to the plate and slammed the first ball pitched for a single to right center, scoring White.

Tony Leads Attack.

Clyde DeFate, Spudder utility infielder, worked at short in lieu of George Distel who has been ailing the past two weeks with a sore whip, and led the attack with three hits, a double and a brace of singles. A drizzling morning rain had made the going exceptionally heavy, but both clubs fielded errorlessly. DeFate turned in a neat defensive game, the mud notwithstanding.

White was in the hole on two occasions but smart and gritty pitching backed by sterling work afield brought him out unscathed.

Couchman did not allow a hit until the sixth inning when Tony connected for a misjudgement safety. It was the eighth stanza before the Spudders connected cleanly, a crack between third and short by White himself. Couchman walked the first two men who faced him, but pulled out safely.

Bambino's Home Run Clout Wins Game For Yanks

Huggmen Hang It on Tris And Tribe by 2-1 Score

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Babe Ruth's eleventh home run of the season in the first inning with Gehrig on base gave the Yankees a 2 to 1 victory over Cleveland today for a clean sweep of the three game series. Levsen, right hander from Iowa held the New Yorkers to two hits, Ruth's smash and a single by Collins in the second. It was the lowest number of hits the Yankees have made in any game this season. Ruth's homer was the 320th of his 12 years' career in the majors and fell on the anniversary of his 11th homer of his 1921 record year when he made 59 circuit blows. However, on May 14, 1921, the Yankees had played but 22 games while this year they have completed 27. The score:

Pate Wins One

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—(AP)—A three-run rally in the ninth inning today enabled the Athletics to overcome a five-run lead and take the final game of the series with Chicago, 6 to 5. The White Sox scored five runs in the first two innings off Heimach and Walberg but Joe Pate blanked them over the balance of the game with four scattered singles. Connally, who relieved Thurston in the seventh inning, was pounded for five hits in the ninth. The score:

Will Two Fast Bradley Colts Repeat Stables' Triumph of '21?

Five years ago Behave Yourself and Black Servant, from the stable of Col. E. R. Bradley, romped away with first and second money respectively in the historic Kentucky Derby. Now railbirds are wondering if two of his present stable, Bagenbaggage and Boot to Boot will repeat this triumph.

KENTUCKY DERBY NEVER HAS FAILED TO CAUSE BIG THRILL

What Will It Be This Year? Will Another Outsider Come Through?

The Kentucky Derby, grandest of all turf events in the western hemisphere, will be run again at Churchill Downs, Ky., today.

Picking the winner is largely a matter of guesswork of course.

But one thing is certain. The turf classic will produce another interesting chapter in a sporting event that has been replete with thrills, human interest and spectacular settings. It always has.

A purse of over $50,000 is enough to lure the cream of the turf world and hundreds of thousands of spectators to the historic track for the event. The winner this year will receive $50,000, hung up by the Kentucky Jockey club, plus the money paid in as entry fee by the entered horses, $525 and less the sum of $10,000 deducted to pay the second and third and fourth horses, the second money being $6,000, the third $3,000 and the fourth $1,000.

But what sort of a thrill will the 1926 event produce? What interesting lore will it add to the race's history?

Will It Be Maiden?

Will another maiden entry surprise and produce much the same thrill Sir Barton produced when he was the first maiden (with no previous victory) to enter the winning list—and added to that victory by winning the Preakness event following the Derby that year?

Will an outsider come through to victory this year as did Flying Ebony last year? Forty-five of the post time favorites in the history of the race have come through. Figure the odds on the outsider.

There are other sidelights on the Derbies of the past.

For the long shot players, it should be chronicled that Donerail, winner of the 1913, paid the longest odds ever collected, 92 to 1.

Those who like the little maids may not know that 44 of the races have been won by colts, six by geldings and but one by a filly.

The honor of being the only jockey to ride three winners goes to a colored rider, Isaac Murphy. He rode Buchanan to victory in 1884, Riley in 1890, and Kingman in 1891.

Four jockeys have copped twice, Wingfield, Willie Simms, Johnny Loftus and Earl Sande. Loftus was the man who rode Sir Barton to victory. George Smith was his other winning mount.

Owners pay $525 to enter their horses in the Derby, $25 when the horse is nominated, $500 when he starts.

The glorious old "Rosebud" is the record holder for the event, at the mile and a quarter distance. He won the event in 1914 with a mark of 2:03 2-5.

The get of Virgil and Falsetto each won three Derbies. Vagrant won in 1876, Hindoo in 1881, and Ben Ali in 1886, for Virgil; Chant won in 1894, His Eminence in 1901 and Sir Huon in 1906 for Falsetto.

Sir Barton is the only Derby winner to capture the Preakness also.

No Regret Then, However

Regret is the only filly ever to win the Derby.

Only one Derby winner has ever had the good fortune to sire a winner. Helma, winner in 1895, produced Allan-a-Dale, who ran to victory in 1902.

Only one imported thoroughbred has ever won the American event—Omar Khayyam.

From its inception in 1875 the distance for the Derby was one and a half miles. Then it was reduced to one and a quarter miles.

A sterling horse named Spokane set the speed record for the longer distance in 1889 with a mark of 2:34 1-2.

In the half century an average of eight horses have gone to the barrier each year—a total of over 425 horses in the Derby's history. Morvick won for his owners the highest purse when, in winning in 1922, he drew a purse of $53,775.

The greatest single thrill in the Derby records was recorded by Earl Sande last year when he took the outsider, Flying Ebony in hand and drove the colt home to victory.

What will this year's event bring forth?

John Cudahy of Kansas City has reserved seats for a party of ten coming from the Missouri metropolis. Tom Law of Wichita Kan., late last night reserved eight tickets for fans in that city. John Hoppes of Lawton has reserved eight seats, and Lew Cutler, Oklahoma City matchmaker who endeavored to buy the match but failed, has reserved seats for ten Oklahoma City mat enthusiasts.

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Clever riding by Jockey Earl Sande brought the Rosedale stable's Sanford home first today in the Montana handicap, a mile and seventy yard event worth $1,385. Lancaster was second and Flat Iron third.

Flat Iron and Flag of Truce ran neck and neck over the first six furlongs when the remainder of the field closed in on the leaders. As the pack swung into the stretch Sande took Sanford along the rail to the front and beat off the drive of Lancaster at the finish.

Thirteen-sixty, Legere up, owned by H. P. Garner, won the debuntantes stake for two-year-old fillies at five furlongs at Louisville. The value of the race was $7,850 net to the winner. Ethel Dear was second and Krick third. The time was 1:00 1-5.

EXCELLENT RACING WEATHER CARDED FOR 52ND RENEWAL OF LOUISVILLE CLASSIC TODAY

Pompey and Bubbling Over Carry Colors Of East Versus West, City Is Thronged on Eve

LOUISVILLE, May 14.—(AP)—Keyed to the highest pitch, packed to overflowing with thousands of visitors from all sections of the land, Louisville tonight awaited tomorrow's dawn and post time for the 52nd renewal of the Kentucky derby for which 17 of the finest three-year-old colts in the nation have been entered.

Downtown a throng milled, crowded into theatres, gathered in knots about the hotel lobbies to swap information and discuss relative merits and chances of the thoroughbreds that 4:30 tomorrow afternoon face the barrier in the turf classic at historial Churchill Downs.

Dry Both Ways.

Many of those who walked the streets were faced with the possibility of spending the night on the street or in the parks for early in the day the hotels and rooming houses were filled despite increased prices. And yet, with each passing hour the throng increased and will continue to grow until noon or shortly after tomorrow, as every road leading into the city, every train coming in and boats on the Ohio river add to the multitude.

Excellent weather—clear and warm and dry—appeared tonight to be in prospect and that arm of the federal government known as the "weather man" was backed up by another, also bent on dryness of his own kind—the well known prohibition director. His forces have been busy working for aridity too. Plenty of little fellows who would make it a "wet" derby have been rounded up and today two men giving their names as Harry Cole, 25, and Donald Bruton, 24, were arrested, charged with trying to bring in 18 cases of "Canadian" whiskey from Florida. Their automobile and the liquor was seized.

17 Entries.

The stands at Churchill Downs will be filled long before the barrier flashes for the first race of the hour on the card preceding the derby, and thousands who are here will be unable to see the race, even though they are within the grounds.

Pompey, champion two-year old of 1925 carries the main hopes of the east and Bubbling Over, the west's leading contender, will race with Bagenbaggage, Boot to Boot, Display, Blondin, Rhinock, Canter, Espino, Light Carbine, Recollection Roycrofter, Champ De Mars, Bolton, Rock Man, Rasuli and Take a Chance.

STRIBLING SOCKS WAY TO WIN OVER RISKO IN TEN-ROUNDER

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Young Stribling pounded his way to victory and the judges' decision over Johnny Risko tonight in the 10 round feature match before a crowd of 15,000 in Madison Square Garden.

ROUNDS.

ROUND ONE—Stribling landed three lefts to Risko's chin as he blocked the latter's opening rush. The Georgian sent a left to the head but blocked most of Risko's leads. Stribling stung Risko with a left hook to the jaw and they clinched. Risko was booed for hitting low. The Georgian's shiftyness had Johnny flustered.

ROUND TWO—Stribling landed both to the head but took a sharp left to the chin. Another smacking left stung the Georgian, as they came close quarters. Risko curled a long left to the head after a clinch but a left jab caught him in return. Stribling seemed to prefer a long range attack and they were sparring at the bell.

ROUND THREE—They flailed away at each others ribs in a wild swinging exchange. Stribling sank his right into Risko's body but took a left to the jaw. Stribling was blocking his opponents leads as they came to grips, and employing his boxing skill effectively. Stribling scored lustily to the head and body just before the bell.

ROUND FOUR—Risko plunged into the attack but found Stribling's defense hard to penetrate. The Georgian's stinging left kept snapping Johnny's head back or throwing him off balance. Risko pounded Stribling on the ribs but was sent back with another sharp left hook just before the gong sounded.

ROUND FIVE—Stribling stung Risko with a smashing overhand right to the chin. It started the blood trickling from Johnny's mouth. The Georgian waded in with both fists. They clinched repeatedly with Stribling unable, however, to put over another telling blow. Risko seemed groggy as he went to his corner.

ROUND SIX—Stribling opened with a rush but they became entangled in frequent clinches. They pummelled each other about the body. Risko kept his chin well protected from Stribling's curling left. The Georgian found his mark with a right to the jaw and took a left in exchange at the bell.

ROUND SEVEN—Risko kept up a succession of bull-like rushes but Stribling blocked most of his blows. The Georgian connected with a right to the head that staggered Risko. He drove the Clevelander about the ring under a shower of rights and lefts. A right uppercut shook Risko but he rushed back to land on the Georgian's ribs just before the bell rang.

ROUND EIGHT—They came to grips with a rush. Both seemed willing to mix. Risko was warned for hitting low and the crowd yelled. Stribling took a sharp left to the nose and the blood started to flow. They pounded each other about the ribs and Stribling missed a wild right to the chin. They were in a clinch at the bell.

ROUND NINE—Risko directed a heavy fire to the body as he forced the milling. The Georgian seemed a bit tired from his fast pace. Risko took a long left to the head but rushed back to whale away to the body. A sharp left to the nose brought Risko up short just before the bell.

ROUND TEN—Risko rushed out of his corner and slugged away with both fists. Stribling countered with his left to the jaw and stood the Clevelander off with a succession of jabs. Risko was wild in his efforts to connect. Another low blow doubled Stribling up but, they kept on fighting. Stribling drove Risko to the ropes with a wild flurry just before the bell.

Longhorns Take Lead In Track And Field Meet

Varsity Qualifies Nine Men In S'west Conference Prelims

FORT WORTH, May 14.—(AP) Texas university obtained advantage over the other six institutions entered in the Southwest conference field and track meet by qualifying nine men in the five preliminaries held today at T. C. U. stadium here. Baylor and Texas A. and M. were runners up with six men each. T. C. U. and S. M. U. placed in three events, Rice in two and Arkansas in one. Three men qualified in each event for the finals here tomorrow.

Cockrell and Landa, Texas university sprinters, led the field in the 100 and 220 dashes, each capturing first in his heat in each event. Landa and Cockrell both made the century in 9.9, tying the conference record but the mark will not stand on account of the wind, officials believed.

Kenneth McCorkle, T. C. U., was a good second in the 100 yard dash, but Dickinson, his team mate, failed to place in either dash. McCorkle, running with Cockrell and Wilson, the latter of A. and M. placed in the furlong.

Crow, Baylor, led the high hurdles, lowering the 120 yards in 1-5 of a second of the conference mark of 15.1, but the time is not expected to stand. Stovall, also of Baylor, won the other heat in the high hurdles, and McGee, another Wolfe product, made it three B. U. men in that event for the finals. McGee won the low hurdles, with Harve Light, T. C. U. captain, qualifying.

The Summary.

120-Yard High Hurdles—First heat, Crow (Baylor) first, Wright, (Texas) second, Mann (S. M. U.) third. Time, 15.1. Second heat, Stovall (Baylor) first, Dixon (Arkansas) second, McGee (Baylor) third. Time 15.6.

220-Yard Dash—First heat, Cockrell (Texas) first, Woolridge (A. and M.) second, Buck (A. and M.) third. Time, 21.8. Second heat, Landa (Texas) first, Wilson (A. and M.) second, McCorkle (T. C. U.) third. Time, 9.9.

Eight Texas High School Youths To Compete In Chi

Lone Star Athletes Turn Out for Nat'l Track Meet

AUSTIN, May 14.—(AP)—At least eight Texas high school athletes who competed here last week in the state championship track and field meet will compete June 4-5, in the national interscholastic championship meet at Chicago, Roy Henderson, athletic director of the Texas University interscholastic league, announced today.

Henderson certified to officials of the national meet the following entrants: Ferdinand Herman, Lee Phillips, Brown White, Herbert Crowell, Ellwood Davis and John Arbuckle of San Antonio Main Avenue; Lee Simpson of Denton; and Jim Stewart of Fort Worth Central.

Herman, by taking first in the javelin and Phillips in tying with Stewart for first in the high jump, and placing fourth in the broad jump, were the main factors in winning the state championship for San Antonio Main Avenue.

Herman and Phillips will compete in the specialties in the national meet; while Crowell will run in the quarter mile; White will throw the 12 pound hammer; Arbuckle will pole vault; and Davis will run the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

The San Antonio athletes are cached by "Fuzzy" Fessenden former Illinois university star and holder of the national junior quarter mile record.

Stewart will defend national interscholastic high jump honors he won last year at six feet 2 inches. This year, he will meet determined opposition from Phillips. Last Saturday they tied for the state title at six feet 2 7-8 inches, setting a new record.

Simpson, the Denton star, Saturday won the state championship, in the mile, racing to victory in 4:33.8 and clipping 4.2 second for the previous record.

4 Injured When Machines Collide

Mrs. Mildred Eighmy and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eighmy, of Chickasha, Okla., received treatment in the General hospital Friday afternoon from injuries received about 1 o'clock when the Ford car in which they were returning home from California collided with a heavy car on the Burkburnett highway. Severe bruises and minor cuts on the face were suffered by the three.

It is said the Ford was attempting to pass a truck and an oncoming car met them before they could get clear of the truck. The occupants of the light automobile were hurt, but the heavy car is said to have turned but no one was injured. The accident took place several miles from the city.

FLOWERS MISSING

A practice generally known as "bush-whacking," especially enjoyed by the youngsters of the neighborhood when roses are in bloom has progressed to such an extent in Floral Heights that complaints have been made to Juvenile Officer W. G. Brailey. Rose bushes in this vicinity have been stripped of all buds and flowers and a warning from Mr. Brailey to the effect that unless this is stopped at once, the courts will be called upon to deal with the offenders was issued Friday.

A few of the boys have been described and occasionally a name has been reported when the alleged offender was recognized.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—The cotton market developed a fair degree of activity today and the general trend of prices was upward following a slight recession of a couple of points right at the start. Reports of cold rains in the west started prices upward soon after the opening and although the census bureau's consumption report for April showing that domestic mills had consumed less cotton than the preceding month and also less than in April last year caused a momentary halt, values were soon on the upgrade again owing to the advices that the railroad strike in Great Britain had been settled. The advance continued into the afternoon on advices of snow at Fort Worth and Ennis, Texas.

At the start the market was slightly irregular, first trades showing net losses of one to two points on old crop months and net gains of one to three points on new crop ostions. Prices eased off slightly after the start to 17.71 for July and 17.02 for October, or one to three points under yesterday's close. These were the lows of the day.

The market soon started upward and although there were occasional small reactions, the market reached the high points in the middle of the afternoon, July December to 17.32, or 18 to 27 points trading up to 17.92, October to 17.28 and above the previous close. The market eased off a few points in the final trading on realizing. Exports for the day totaled 21,172 bales and for the week 100,026 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Early declines in the cotton market today were followed by rallies on reports of showers or rains in North Texas. October sold up from 17.35 to 17.61 or 20 points net higher and closed at 17.56. The general market closed steady, at net advance of 10 to 15 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of five to seven points owing to continued realizing or selling for a reaction. Offerings were probably encouraged by relatively easy Liverpool cables and early reports of unsettled labor conditions in England. A fairly favorable view of overnight weather conditions in the south also was a factor on the decline and there may have been a little selling during the morning on the report of the census bureau showing domestic consumption of 575,790 bales for April, compared with 634,595 for March and 596,541 for April last year. These figures were below expectations, but did not attract much comment and after early offerings had been absorbed prices steadied on renewed covering. There also seemed t obe a little trade and commission house buying of new crop months.

The official western belt forecast was for warmer weather with increasing cloudiness in Texas and beneficial showers were reported in the eastern belt, but local traders seemed doubtful of weather conditions in the southwest. This was reflected in increased buying on private reports of rains or showers in North Texas in later trading and prices reached the highest point of the day in the last half hour. July sold up from 18.30 to 18.50, while December advanced from 17.42 to 17.69. The close was within four or five points of the best.

The week-end statistics showing a decrease of 70,711 bales in the world's visible supply of American cotton for the week compared with 205,022 last year were considered bearish, but evidently had little effect on the market. The later labor news from England was more favorable but the chief factor on the advance was the weather. Exports for the day 24,172, making 7,226,774 so far this season. Port receipts 23,194. U. S. port stocks 939,054 bales.

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Disregarding the declaration of an extra cash dividend of $4 on General Motors common stock, the stock market today continued to fluctuate irregularly within a narrow trading area. Prices generally closed lower on the day with total sales barely exceeding 850,000 shares.

The day's business news was largely constructive, it included the announcement of special dividend distribution by the Standard Gas and Electric and Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern Power companies and the annual report of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey showing consolidated earnings of over $111,000,000 exceeded only once before in the company's history—in 1920.

The weekly mercantile reviews report that business is running about on a level with that of a year ago. Some curtailment is noted in the steel and textile trades with a reduction in output also reported from some of the automobile and furniture manufacturing centers. Bank clearings this week were about 3½ per cent above those of the corresponding week last year. General Motors opened a point higher at 126½ but when no effort was made to follow up the advance, large offerings appeared and the stock sold down to 124½ and then back to 125⅝, up ½ net. Hudson got down to within a fraction of the year's low at 61⅝, and then rallied slightly. Chandler-Cleveland common and preferred, Dodge Brothers "A," Jordan, Moon, Paige-Detroit, Fisher Body, American Bosch Magneto and Stewart-Warner all touched new low levels for the year. One of the most interesting developments of the session was a flurry of buying in the oil shares under the leadership of Atlantic Refining, Mariand and Pan-American "B," which closed 1½ to 2 points higher. Buying of these issues was based on reports of large current earnings and record breaking gasoline consumption.

Heavy calling of loans by banks, presumably in connection with the increased demand for funds for May 15 payments, sent the call money rate up from 3¾ to 4 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Extreme weakness of French francs, which broke nine points to a new low record figure at 3.04½ cent and Italian lire which broke 34 points to 3.36 cents, the lowest since last June when the extreme low of 3.32⅝ cent was established, featured the reactionary foreign exchange market.

Demand sterling ruled about ⅛ of a recessions took place in practically all cent lower around $4.85⅝, and moderate other European rates.

Livestock

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, May 14.—(AP)—Friday's receipts 2,000 cattle, 200 calves; a week ago 1,123 cattle and 171 calves; a year ago 1,615 cattle and 97 calves.

For the fifth successive day beef cattle sold slow. Packers held aloof, from this class allowing outsiders to get into the trade and takings of steers for shipment ran around $6.00@6.75. Packers contended themselves with steers in small lots coming in mixed loads at $6.00@6.50 and up. Trade looked unchanged from Thursday.

Butcher and beef cows regarded with suspicion at first by the talent, but later the market showed best cows $5.25@6.25, good butchers $5.00 and up. Canners usual spread of $3.25@4.00. No weakness appeared in the canner trade.

Young slaughter stock generally in low costing scale selling from $5.50@7.50.

Bulls a quarter lower, extreme top $6.00; bulls generally $4.00@5.50, or 50c decline for the week.

City butchers wanted the best end of the calf supply—milk veals, and for these paid $10.25. Other good veals had a spread of $8.50 to $9.00, heavy calves $7.50 down. Amid all the ups and downs of the calf trade for the week, common sort has remained steady.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, May 14.—(AP)—Prospects that the 1926 harvest will have an auspicious start as early as June 1, did much to bring about lower prices today for wheat. Reports from Texas where the new harvest begins said the outlook is for a big yield. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅛c to 1⅛c net lower, with corn unchanged to ⅜c off, oats varying from ⅜c decline to ⅛c gain and provisions at the same as yesterday's finish to 25c higher.

Cold, unsettled weather and scantiness of receipts led to some early buying of corn and oats but later the corn market and likewise oats gave evidence of sympathy with the action of wheat.

Provisions were helped upward by an advance in hog values. Demand for lard, however, was reported as slow.

TEXAS PRODUCE.

SAN ANTONIO, May 14.—Onion shipments fell off yesterday, the movement being reported incompletely as 40 cars, a total for the nation of 42. There was also a pick up of four Texas and 31 California cars for the 12th and six Texas for the 11th. Other Texas shipments were seven cars potatoes, eight cabbage and 12 cucumbers, which pick ups for previously unreported days were 15 cars of tomatoes for the 12th and 19 for the 8th, 26 cars potatoes for the 12th and 56 for the 11th, seven cars cabbage for the 11th and 17 cars mixed vegetables for the 12th and 46 for the 11th.

Potatoes at Brownsville yesterday were slightly firmer with the terms market around $5.25 and cash trading around $5 cwt. for sacked triumphs. Tomatoes in that section were also in good tone with four basket crates of unwrapped pinks bringing mostly $1.75@2.00 and greens, wrapped $2.00@2.25 on a usual terms basis. Fancy pack of wrapped green globes in six basket crates sold cash track for $5.00. Onion trading yesterday at Laredo was rather dull around $1.25@1.35 for No. 1 yellows and $1.50 for whites usual terms. Trading as the day closed, however, was slightly firmer as at Crystal City where the cash market advanced to $1.05@1.10 for No. 1 yellows and one car of whites was reported moving for $1.50 cash basis.

BOSTON WOOL.

BOSTON, May 14.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

While the wool trade has one less problem to consider, with the settlement of the British general strike, the outlook is by no means a happy one yet. Locally the market has been dull and what business has been done has been unsatisfactory on the whole although not altogether without profit. The manufacturers, however, are not having a happy time at best and profits are exceedingly narrow, where they exist at all.

In the west there is moderate activity as the wool is shorn at prices which show little or no change, some growers refusing still to meet the market.

The foreign primary markets are without material change. Mohair is firm. Quotations:

Scoured basis, Texas fine 12 months selected wool $1.12; fine 8 months $1.00.

Mohair best combings 65@70c; best carding 50@55c.

DUN'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Dun's tomorrow will say:

Something of a check to industrial activity is noted in the textile and steel trades, but in other departments of manufacture production is maintained at a very high level. The curtailment in textile lines is widely attributed to the restricted demand for seasonable fabrics resulting from the backward spring. While the report of the largest producer of iron and steel, showing a decrease in unfilled orders during April in excess of 500,000 tons, was less satisfactory than had been expected and production by this interest had previously been closed to capacity, establishing a very high record of output and indiscating an unusually large consumption of material. Ordering for fall is noticeably conservative in most departments of trade the facility with which supplies can be secured having become such a recognised trade convenience that there is little or no pressure to make commitments far ahead. In the aggregate business is of substantial proportions. Building continues on an extensive scale and helps materially to sustain activity in numerous kindred lines.

STATE PROBING COPS' COURT

Roadside Tribunals May Come In for Widespread Airing

DALLAS, May 14.—(AP)—"Highway courts" presided over by "strong arm" deputy constables who arrest motorists and fine them on the roadside, are still under scrutiny of the Dallas county grand jury, which did not report today.

Cases of alleged "roadside justice" are now being brought to light in other Texas counties, say reports reaching the sheriff's office here, and the investigation may become of statewide importance.

There was no official confirmation of the rumor that a Bexar county grand jury at San Antonio is instituting an investigation similar to that here.

WINTER HITS CITY AGAIN

Cold Wind and Hard Rains Bring a Touch of Fall Friday

Spring weather was replaced Friday by fall weather in the Wichita Falls sector when low temperatures, rain and chill winds transformed a May day to one with a late November complex. It was just another twist to the peculiar series of weather offerings this section has been receiving all spring.

The day broke with a heavily clouded sky and a steady rain that was whipped in on the wings of a cold, north breeze. The showers extended south and east to central Texas, reports reaching here indicated, while at the same time they reached northward almost to the New Mexico line and continued with less intensity northerly into Oklahoma.

Locally, the rain ceased about noon and the sun broke through the clouds. Friday afternoon was partly cloudy but the early evening hours brought a crystal clear sky and crisp and invigorating atmosphere.

Fair weather was the prediction for Saturday and Sunday.

STRIKE CLOUD GROWS DIMMER

England Expects That By Next Monday all Will Be at Work

LONDON, May 14.—(AP)—The heavy clouds which lowered over Great Britian's industrial world last night cleared today, and the present prospect is that next Monday most of the industries which were compelled to suspend operations because of the general strike, will be working again, with the possible exception of the mines. Likewise, there is greater hopefulness than ever that a satisfactory solution of the mining difficulty will be reached before long.

The outstanding event of the day was the announcement of the government's decision that, sincere mutual agreement between the miners and mine owners was impossible if they were permitted to come together of their own accord, it must act on its own responsibility if any solution was to be found. Premier Baldwin therefore reduced the recommendation to to the coal commission to succint form and submitted them to the parties. The general situation also improved rapidly. An agreement was reached between the railway managers and the railroad men's unions for re-instatement of the men, although the unions had to make certain broad concessions. Arrangements also were made for the resumption of work on the tramways, the underground tubes and the omnibusses. Here, doubtless, there will be considerable difficult details to settle about the disposition of volunteer workers who aided the government and who have Premier Baldwin's pledge that they will not suffer for their loyalty.

The only important industry still in an unsettled state is that of the printers. Prolonged conferences were held today between the printers' representatives and the newspaper owners. These meetings were adjourned until tomorrow.

The newspapers are still appearing in skeleton form.

There still remains to be settled the terms for reinstatement of the men belonging to the general transport workers' unions.

In the meantime the government is continuing its emergency regulations in full force until there is a general return to work in all industries.

Youths Are Held As Jewel Thieves

SAN ANTONIO, May 14—(AP)—Two young men, who police say, are implicated in recent local jewelry thefts, were brought to San Antonio today from Austin where they were held in connection with a car theft, having been arrested and taken there from Shreveport, La.

A statement made to city detectives by a woman arrested recently in Laredo, acknowledging complicity in thefts of jewelry here, implicated the two suspects as confederates. Police say that the two men used the women as a look out, who in the guise of a domestic servant, obtained information for them as to the whereabouts of jewels and other valuables.
