Ultra-Drys Of Texas Protest Pro Law Vote

Plea For Democratic Voters Opposed To Repeal To Cast Ballots For Dry Candidates Made Wednesday

Must Hold Ideals

Participation In Primaries Will Not Interfere With Voter's Right In November General Election

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, July 6. — Leaders of the Texas ultra-dry faction today issued a plea for Democratic voters opposed to repeal or modification of the prohibition laws to enter the statewide primary election July 23 and cast their votes for dry candidates for all offices.

In a formal statement signed by 45 ardent drys, voters were told that a determined effort was being made to destroy the prohibition laws. The statement was an expression of policies approved at a secret meeting of prohibition leaders in Dallas Tuesday.

Appeal Is Spread

"We urge all Democratic voters who are opposed to legalizing the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, and favor preservation of the eighteenth amendment, to vote for dry candidates for congressman-at-large, for district congressman, for governor, and for all state and county officers and members of the legislature," the statement said.

"In view of the movement to destroy our prohibition laws, we feel that no dry Democrat can afford to stay out of the primaries. Our party must not be surrendered to the domination of the outlawed liquor traffic."

Protests Are Cited

The statement said participation in the primary election would not interfere with the right of the voter to be guided by his conscience in casting his ballot at the general election.

"We feel that the referendum on the question of the submission of prohibition repeal should not have been submitted at this primary by the Democratic state executive committee. Its submission has resulted in widespread protest and confusion among Democratic voters.

Action Is Refused

"In a number of leading dry counties of the state, county executive committees have refused to provide the ballots and other ma-

Sentiment For Beer Advances

Vote On Bingham Proposal Is Expected In Senate Today; Petition For Vote In House Being Planned

WASHINGTON, July 6. (AP) — A campaign to marshall house sentiment behind a demand for a vote this session on beer for revenue legislation was opened today by Republican anti-prohibitionists.

Meanwhile, in the senate, the beer forces looked for a vote tomorrow on the Bingham proposal—advanced as a "rider" on the home loan bank bill—to legalize 3.2 per cent beer.

The beer drive in the house took the form of a plan to petition Speaker Garner and Representative Snell of New York, the Republican leader, for an immediate vote, emphasizing the government's need for the revenue that would be derived.

Don't Miss This Special Treat

Starting today, in columns 7 and 8 on the editorial page, The Morning Avalanche presents a series of articles on the recent Democratic National convention, the platforms of both the Democratic and Republican parties and the methods of government by political parties.

This series is written for The Morning Avalanche by Dr. W. A. Jackson, head of the department of government at Texas Tech and an outstanding authority on the subjects upon which he is writing.

For sixteen years Doctor Jackson has been studying political parties and he has attended four national conventions, the last of which was the Democratic meeting in Chicago last week.

If you're interested in politics — and especially in the 1932 Presidential campaign—you can't afford to overlook them.

Ashes Of Texan To Be Scattered

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, July 6.—Walter Holmes, Amarillo oil operator, is on his way to Alaska to carry out the last wish of his brother, the late W. H. Holmes, discoverer of the Panhandle oil field, and former Republican leader in Texas.

Holmes, who died in California last spring, expressed the desire that his ashes be scattered over Alaskan soil, a land where he spent many years and where he was prominently known.

The brother will scatter the ashes from an airplane over Mt. McKinley. Holmes was one of the small group of operators who brought in the first well in the Borger pool. He was a candidate for governor of Texas in 1928.

Hundreds Are Being Driven Out By Rivers

Texas Streams Continuing To Rise And Residents Flee To Higher Ground; Property Is Badly Damaged

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, July 6.—More than 150 residents of the lowlands at Three Rivers had deserted their homes and moved their household effects to Murray Hill, about a mile north of the town, late today in anticipation of the worst flood in the history of that section.

Late in the afternoon the Frio river had risen to 21 feet. It was expected that the crest of the flood would reach there early in the evening. A further rise of possibly 15 feet was predicted, which would mean the overflowing of all of the bottom lands and probable flooding of the main section of town with backwater. There was a possibility that during the night the town might have to be evacuated. If this occurs, it will be the first time in the memory of the oldest settlers that a flood ever reached such proportions there.

Take No Precautions

No precautions against a possible flood on the Nueces river at Three Rivers were considered necessary, although it had reached a depth of 18 feet. The crest of the main flood, fed by swollen streams in the hill country, was expected to reach Three Rivers not before early next week.

At Tilden the more than 300 residents of that town were reported as encamped in a Catholic church on a hill about a mile from the town, where they were forced to flee Tuesday when overflow waters from the Frio reached the main part of the town.

From Callihan a report was received that water was standing 10 feet in the main street, having flooded all residences and the town's stores.

The crest of the flood of the Nueces river was nearing Cotulla late today and was expected to hit there with full force early Thursday. At 5 p. m. the river gauge showed 25 feet, and the water was rising rapidly.

Appropriation of $20,000 In Garza Area Authorized

An emergency appropriation of $20,000 for the construction of a three-mile new route up the west caprock in Garza county west of Post, on highway 84, has been authorized by the state highway department, Guy R. Johnston, district resident engineer, announced.

The money is to be spent on a new route nearly half a mile south of the present one, that will shorten the distance about a quarter of a mile, and which will be a much better grade, Mr. Johnston said.

Construction work is to start soon. A new bridge about 50 feet long, across a ravine that carries water from the top of the caprock, is included in the project. Total distance is slightly over three miles.

Garner-Hoover Battle Flares On Relief Aid

Two Leaders Exchange Blows Verbally Wednesday After White House Conference On Legislation Fails

President Threatens Veto For Legislation; Charge Hoover Caters To Select Clientele Made By Texan

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 6. — The highly charged controversy between President Hoover and Speaker Garner burst vigorously into the open today as they exchanged blow for blow in a verbal battle over the $2,122,000,000 relief legislation.

Each charged the other with responsibility for failure to reach a complete compromise on the Garner-Wagner measure. Meanwhile senate and house conferees revised it to meet all the president's objections except one and planned for house action tomorrow.

Hoover Is Assailed

Garner assailed President Hoover in a dramatic speech on the house floor, charging the chief executive with desiring a "select clientele" to reap the benefits of the projected $3,500,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation loan fund. The speaker urged congress to remove restrictions so any individual with security could borrow.

In a formal statement, the president hit back at the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, declaring he would not accept the proposal insisted upon by the Texan and forecasting a veto for the relief measure.

Principle Involved

Striding up and down the well of the house and directing his speech particularly at the Republicans, Garner contended:

"There is a principle involved in this that I will not surrender. I will not surrender the principle that we ought to legislate for all the people rather than for a preferential class."

Garner said he told the president today at a White House conference on the bill that he was "through with class legislation" and that a "Democratic administration legislates for the whole republic; a Republican administration legislates for certain special classes."

Garner explained in order to obtain relief legislation he had re-

Al Smith Will Support Party

Says Formation Of Third Party At This Time Impractical; Denies Rumors Of Candidacy For Governor

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 6—Alfred E. Smith said today he would support the nominees of the Democratic party, after expressing an opinion the formation of a third party would not be practical "at this time."

Smith amplified a prepared statement in the affirmative just once to say that his declaration of support for the Democratic party included support for its nominees, Roosevelt and Garner, neither of whom was mentioned by name in the statement.

His answers to all other inquiries were negative. He would not say whether he would "take the stump" for the ticket or what he thought of the party's chances in November. He denied he intended to run for governor, and said his chief interest of the moment was to "get a little rest."

"Hell Hath No Fury Like That Of A Woman Scorned"; Bill's Sure Of It

(By The Associated Press)

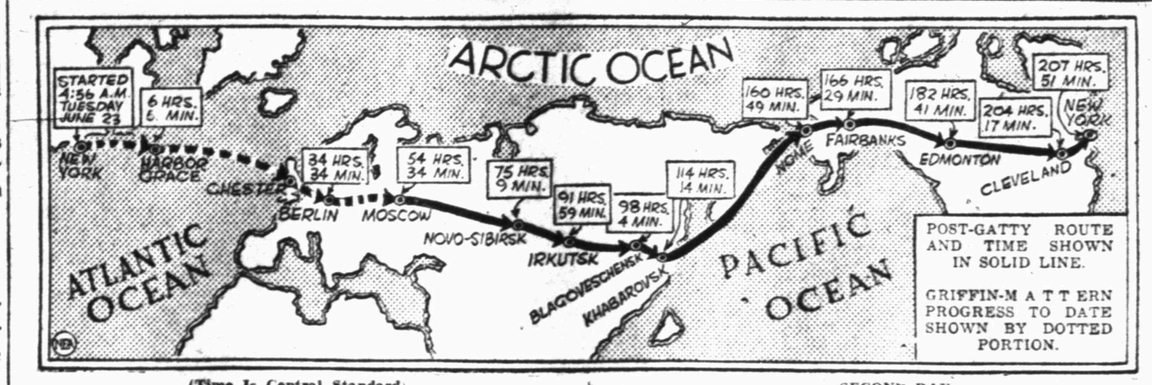

CHICAGO, July 6.—A woman scorned almost took the life of Bill Jurges, star shortstop of the Chicago National baseball club today.

Brooding because the youthful baseball player had rejected her attentions, Miss Violet Popovich, a pretty brunette, forced entrance into his hotel room, made one final plea for his love and then attempted to commit suicide. In the struggle for the gun, both were wounded but not seriously.

Jurges, in a wild lunge for the gun, a .22 automatic which the woman pulled from her purse, was shot twice, one bullet struck him in the right side, ricocheted off a rib and came out the right shoulder. The second ripped the flesh about the little finger of his left hand. Miss Popovich was struck by the third shot, which entered the left hand and traveled up the arm six inches.

Beyond the statement that she intended to kill herself, Miss Popovich refused to answer questions of the police. She first gave her name as Violet Valli but a check revealed her identity as Miss Popovich of Chicago. She gave her age as 21. Jurges, too, refused to speak of the shooting except for the reluctant admission that the girl attempted to shoot herself because he rejected her attentions.

Woman Offers Borah's Name To Convention

Idaho Senator Praised Highly At Prohibition Convention; Two Others Also Considered As Party's Nominee

(By The Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS, July 6 — The name of Senator William E. Borah was laid before the national convention of the prohibition party here tonight as it began selection of a presidential candidate.

The Idaho senator was proposed by Miss Ethel Hubler of California, who urged him upon the delegates as the strongest hope of friends of prohibition for the maintenance and enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.

Is Radical Dry

Miss Hubler described Borah as a man "who is a radical dry at all times and under all circumstances, a man who is personally something of an agnostic, who does not smoke, nor drink, nor chew, nor play cards, a man whose election to the presidency would sound the death knell of the liquor traffic and all forms of political cowardice."

Then John T. Coffin of Florida nominated Dr. D. Leigh Colvin, chairman of the party's national committee, who has been a leader in the movement to make Borah the nominee.

Frank S. Regan, Rockford, Ill., was nominated by Edward E. Blake, Wheaton, Ill.

Railway Agent Says Aim Of Many People Now Is Small Home And Chance To Make Living On Farm

He Might Have Been Wiser Had He Used A Good Recipe

"Pop" went the beer bottle, and a young Abilene man landed in Lubbock sanitarium.

Whether the 26-year-old former Littlefield resident misjudged his yeast or his sugar was not known by the attending physician. But the doctor was certain that the exploding glass almost cut out the victim's left eye.

The injured eye was sewed up, and last night it was believed the sight had been saved. The explosion occurred in Abilene, and the victim was brought here for treatment.

Doherty Files Two Suits For Total Of $42,000,000

KANSAS CITY, July 6. (AP)—Henry L. Doherty, utilities magnate, filed two suits for a total of $42,000,000 today against the Kansas City Star, alleging libel and conspiracy in connection with the newspaper's campaign for lower gas rates in Missouri and Kansas.

George B. Longan, president of the Kansas City Star company, termed the actions "smoke screens" and said the Star was not concerned about them, or threats of other suits.

COLONIZATION efforts of railroads, land development companies and other groups at the present time are centered on the "small farm home," C. L. Seagraves, general colonization agent of the Santa Fe railroad and the man from whom the town of Seagraves in Gaines county got its name, said here Wednesday. Mr. Seagraves is here on a short visit. His home is in Chicago.

"There are lots of people past fifty who are through, they've gone about as far as they can in the industrial centers," Mr. Seagraves said. "What they want now is a place where they can live, earn a living and spend the rest of their days in comparative peace. They're thinking of some little farm home where they can move to, a little home with five or ten acres around it.

Only Want a Living

"That's to be the big thing in colonization in this section as well as in other sections," he continued. "The people who are promoting this movement aren't seeking to open up more new land, more production and competition for the farmer. These people who will move out to these little homes only want to make a living from the soil. They want a place where they can find

State School Head Is Scheduled To Appear Twice

CHARLES N. SHAVER, state superintendent of public instruction, will speak twice in Lubbock today. He will spend the day in Lubbock, his brother, J. T. Shaver, member of the faculty at Texas Technological college, said. Mr. Shaver is a candidate to succeed himself.

In the morning at the convocation of the summer school, starting at 8:40 and closing at 9:20, Mr. Shaver and W. A. Jackson, professor of government, will speak.

At noon Mr. Shaver speaks before the Kiwanis club at its weekly luncheon in the Hotel Lubbock.

While here the state superintendent will visit with a number of school men to discuss school problems. There are a large number of superintendents attending the summer session at Texas Tech as well as other school officials and it is probable he will meet with a number of them to talk over state matters.

Sterling Club Appears Here

Support Of Texas Governor Is Planned; Committees Named For Work; Dan Moody Is To Speak In City

Inaugurating a movement for support of the candidacy of Gov. Ross Sterling for re-election, a South Plains Sterling-for-Governor club has been organized here, Geo. R. Bean, local attorney, is chairman.

Geo. Roach is vice-chairman and L. Wesley Read is secretary-treasurer. The club is affiliated with the state Sterling organization.

Committees Named

A number of committees have been appointed to work out details of the campaign. Support of Sterling supporters in all South Plains towns will be sought.

An executive committee is composed of: J. O. Jones, Geo. R. Bean, R. S. Rogers, Dr. J. G. Hall, Geo. Heard, Geo. Roach, Carroll Thompson, Wesley Read, Alfred Scott and Joe Bowman. Publicity is detailed to Joe Bowman and Wesley Read and finances will be under the direction of J. O. Jones, chairman; R. S. Rogers, Geo. Roach, Joe Bowman and Wesley Read.

The club has already been informed by former Governor Dan Moody that he would appear here in a speaking date for Governor Sterling sometime before the July primary.

Members of the club said Wednesday they hoped to get Mr. Sterling out here for an address but have not been assured of a possibility of his coming.

Tobacco Heir Leaves Bride To Find Death

Smith Reynolds Takes His Own Life While Young Bride Is In Next Room; Estate Worth $25,000,000 Is Left

(By The Associated Press)

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. July 16.—Smith Reynolds, tobacco fortune heir, who packed an airplane trip around the world and two marriages into the last three of his twenty years of life, shot and killed himself today.

Leaving Libby Holman, the Broadway musical comedy singer, and his bride of a few months, in their bedroom at the Reynolds home here, he walked onto an adjoining sleeping porch at 1 a. m. A moment later he was lying there fatally wounded.

Recorded As Suicide

There was some doubt for a while whether Reynolds, the youngest son of the late R. J. Reynolds, multi-millionaire tobacco manufacturer, fired the shot which took his life intentionally or accidentally. Dr. W. N. Dalton, county coroner, however, said he was recording the death as a suicide and so far as he was concerned, the investigation was closed.

Miss Holman, who married Reynolds last winter in Hawaii while he was returning from an around the world trip by plane and boat, was prostrated. Her physician declined to permit anyone to see her.

Fortune Is Large

Friends said Reynolds apparently was in good spirits yesterday, although, they said, he recently had been in one of his "restless spells."

Smith Reynolds' personal fortune has been estimated in excess of twenty five millions dollars. Neither he nor his brother, R. J. "Dick" Reynolds, Jr., was ever actively connected with the management of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company.

McGregor To Speak Here This Evening

Douglas W. McGregor, candidate for congressman-at-large, place number 3, from Houston is to be in Lubbock today in the interest of his candidacy and is scheduled to speak in the district courtroom tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. McGregor is assistant United States district attorney at Houston.

He plans to spend several days in this territory, he informed friends here Wednesday.

Myrtle Moans At Story While David Scowls And Declares He's Crucified

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, July 6.—Myrtle St. Pierre, accuser of David Hutton in a $200,000 breach of promise trial, fainted late today as a maternity surgeon was testifying he performed an operation on her several years ago.

Partially restored, she was led from the court room moaning, "they're crucifying me."

Hutton, the husband of Evangelist Aimee McPherson Hutton, sat scowling.

"What does she know about crucifixion?" he muttered. "I'm the one that's getting it, and for no reason at all."

The witness was Dr. Louis Levin.

Excitement that stirred the crowded courtroom when Miss St. Pierre collapsed mounted later when Eugene Eben, a radio organist named by the defense in attacks on Miss St. Pierre's reputation, testified that on two occasions he accepted $500 from a maternity hospital for posing as the "husband" of a motion picture star and a wealthy Pasadena widow while they were in the institution.

Eben admitted he was once engaged to Miss St. Pierre, but denied his relations with her were improper.

Progress Of Flight Thus Far Is Detailed By Pair After Landing At Berlin; Refuse To Drink Beer

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Correspondent

BERLIN, July 6.—James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, two young Americans who are itching to girdle the globe by air faster than anyone ever has, brought their red, white and blue monoplane down at Templehof airdrome this afternoon after a record breaking transatlantic crossing, and three hours and 20 minutes later they roared into the air again, enroute to Moscow.

They were 10 hours and 43 minutes ahead of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, the American airmen whose round-the-world time of a little more than 8 1-2 days they are trying to beat, when they started along the brightly lighted flying route toward Koenigsberg.

Waste No Time

They wouldn't waste time to telephone to friends in New York and they spurned sleep.

"Tired? Not a bit of it," said Mattern, when they landed here at 5:40 p. m. (10:40 a. m. CST).

"What we want is a good long drink of water," said Griffin.

But they had properly hefty steaks to sustain them before they hit the air again.

Good Weather Ahead

When they took off for Moscow at 9 a. m. (2 p. m. CST) they faced a hop of 950 miles. The sun already had set. Ahead lay good weather.

"Berlin looks great, hope to see you this week-end," said Mattern in a message sent to his wife back home just before the beginning of the Moscow leg of the flight.

Questioned shortly after the landing here, Mattern explained why he and his partner were not over-tired.

"We've got double controls," he said, "and we stood regular watch. While I was working Griff slept, and when he took over, I curled up.

"It was 10 hours and 50 minutes on the dot after we left Harbor Grace that we sighted land. We kept on and from there — I guess that was Ireland—we got to Berlin in 17 hours, 40 minutes flying time altogether.

Social Affairs Appeal To Various Groups In City; Visitors Honored

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

PERFECTION probably is about to be attained for those who believe that the old-fashioned woman was the most beautiful. Announcement was made in New York the other day that women who attain the new silhouette will have to wear a "very snug, all-in-one corset, making deep breathing difficult, if not impossible."

• • •

This word was passed along at a meeting of the New York Fashion Group by Miss Lilian Fischer, Paris representative of Bonwit Teller and company.

• • •

So along with other things that are returning, we shall probably be having the wasp-waist costume, trains and some other discomforts of a past era. It won't be hard to get the women back out of the commercial field then. They won't be able to go through a day's work clad in such a manner.

• • •

It will be a great state of affairs but those who have longed for the good old days can have a sigh of satisfaction. Corseted and uncomfortable, women can remain at home and the man made world can rock along with men making the livings and getting things back to the state of perfection some masculine orators are so wont to claim existed a score or so of years ago.

REAL PHILANTHROPHY

BRIGHT spots in the depression stories are not infrequent. One came out of Houston the other day. Some wealthy woman there who declines to have her name used in connection with her gift, has made it possible for 2,000 public school children to have two meals a day during the summer vacation period. These children received free meals at school lunch rooms during the winter.

• • •

The philanthropist who does not permit the public to know his name, is, in my estimation, a true lover of mankind. He does a thing simply to aid another and not because honor will come back to him.

And there are few things more worthy than, feeding children who might otherwise go hungry in a time of stress.

Proper food and care for the children of today is going to make better citizens tomorrow. Houston, and other cities too, will profit for many years from the philanthrophy of this woman.

THE NEEDED CAMPAIGN

SEVERAL years ago when a campaign was being waged for a "safe and sane" Fourth of July, we heard a lot about the toll that fireworks exacted in lives. Today another active campaign needs to be waged against holiday accidents, due principally to recklessness and hurry in driving.

• • •

The person who values his life these days needs, probably, to remain at home on all holidays as these are the times when most deaths occur.

• • •

Although there is a note of encouragement in the report that this year's list of dead did not mount as high as had been expected—in figures based on records for past Fourths—this country yet needs a strenuous campaign against unnecessary accidents that cause deaths on holiday occasions.

• • •

The national safety council had announced that deaths this Fourth probably would mount to around 450, while Associated Press reports listed only 240 for the day. We can be happy that the toll was less than had been anticipated and at the same time look toward the day when these unnecessary deaths can be largely avoided.

• • •

One hundred and nineteen of those who died Monday were killed in motor mishaps. The chances are that these accidents could have been avoided in almost every instance if drivers had been a bit more careful and somewhat better informed about traffic regulations.

• • •

As a civilized nation, we have far to go in making our holidays more safe and sane.

A monument is planned to mark the spot near Seminole, Oklahoma, where Washington Irving stayed overnight on his "Tour of the Prairies."

DO YOU INHALE?

O. K. AMERICA
TUNE IN ON LUCKY STRIKE—60 modern minutes with the world's finest dance orchestra, and famous Lucky Strike features, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening over N. B. C. networks.

"We've spilled the beans" in the smoker's interest

DO you inhale? "You've spilled the beans!" said the cigarette trade when first we asked this simple question—a question which long had been treated with silence that would "shame a Sphinx!"

Why? Wasn't the subject vital enough to pursue? Or, was there a hidden reason for the general avoidance of the question by others?

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has chosen to raise this question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do—and so, in the smoker's interest, Luckies have not feared to "spill the beans."

Longview Wins To Even Count

Tyler To Open Night Season Tonight; Houston, Santone Battle To Tie As Game Is Rained Out In Sixth

TYLER, July 6 (AP)—Longview evened the series with Tyler here today, winning 6-2. Kloza and Green of Longview each hit two home runs.

Conlan let the Sports down with seven hits and never was in trouble. He was given spectacular support, especially by Clift at shortstop and Bejma at second base.

Tyler used three pitchers to no avail. One of the Sports' runs was the result of an error.

The final game of the series will be played tomorrow night under a new lighting system.

Banquets And Outdoor Play Feature Card

Tech Coaches Arrange Plans For Gala Entertainment As Well As Instructive School For Second Big Convention

Athletic coaches attending the second annual Texas Tech coaching school which begins next Monday and continues through July 22, and their families should not want for entertainment during their visit in Lubbock.

Through the efforts of Dutchy Smith, business manager of the school and co-promoter with Head Coach Pete Cawthon, program of entertainment that rivals the school itself in quantity and quality has been arranged.

Headed by the Chamber of Commerce banquet, a regular feature in connection with the coaching school, the program of entertainment includes golf, swimming, horse back riding, dances, watermelon feasts, a West Texas barbecue and numerous luncheons. To top it all off, a special trip through the Carlsbad Caverns of New Mexico has been arranged for the visitors who care to go.

Committees Appointed

A number of committees have been appointed to carry out plans for the entertainment. Chairmen of these committees are Mrs. Hub Jones, Carl Patton, Mrs. Carl Patton, W. L. Stangel, Dick Smith, Bill McMillan, Parker Prouty, Spencer Wells, Judge Raley, Miss Johnnye Gilkerson, Jack Parsons, Pete Smith, Weldon Chapman, George Dupree, Del Morgan, R. T. Smith and P. W. Cawthon.

With the list of prospective "students" swelling daily, Coach Smith said yesterday that all indications pointed to a larger attendance of coaches than were present for the Wallace Wade-Jimmy Phelan school last year. Three hundred and twenty-one coaches enrolled in the 1931 school.

With the exception of three, all head coaches and their assistants of the Southwest Conference will be here for the school. Clyde Littlefield of the University of Texas; Jack Meagher of Rice Institute, and Ray Morrison of S. M. U. are members of the faculty. Matty Bell of Texas A. and M. plans to be here.

Kubale To Be Here

Smith yesterday received a communication from Ed Kubale, former mentor at T. C. U., now head coach at Centre College, home of the Praying Colonels, saying he would be here. Lyn Waldorf of Oklahoma A. and M. is one of the latest to signify his intentions of coming.

Approximately forty coaches from the state of Kansas are to follow Dr. Forrest C. "Phog" Allen, one of the principals of the staff here. Kansas will rival Texas for the number of coaches from separate states. Coaches from 28 states will be here.

Walter Hagen Leads U.S. Invaders To Canada Open

Leading Pros From States Gather At Ottawa

OTTAWA, Ont., July 6. (AP) — Headed by Walter Hagen, defending champion, and the field of American professionals who have made the event a happy hunting ground for the past dozen years, 105 players lined up today for the start of the annual Canadian Open golf championship tomorrow.

Hagen, fresh from victory in the Western open, had failed to check in tonight.

With sole exception of Gene Sarazen, new British and American open champion who decided not to compete, the field listed all prominent professionals available in the United States and Canada.

From the United States came the cream of the professional list — Billy Burke, 1931 American open champion; Leo Diegel, four times winner of the Canadian open; Bobby Cruickshank, and MacDonald Smith, runners-up respectively to Sarazen in the American and British open; as well as Phil Perkins, the British amateur, now a professional who seemed for two hours to have won the American classic.

Two former American open champions, Tommy Armour and Johnny Farrell, also were among the entries.

Burlington Nine Deadlocks Joust

AMARILLO, July 6 (AP)—The Burlington Railroad nine of Amarillo threw the seventh annual Globe-News baseball tournament into a three-way tie today by defeating Pampa-Lefors, 11 to 4, for its second victory. The Wreckers are tied with Borger and Texola, Okla., the defending champion.

Texaco of Amarillo was the first team eliminated, losing its third game, 5-4, to Topeka, Kan., in the nightcap.

Borger meets the champions in the first big game tomorrow. Pampa-Lefors fights to stay in the competition against Wheeler-Mobeetie in the second game.

Plainview Auto Races Are Postponed Until Sunday; Crack Drivers Expected

PLAINVIEW, July 6. (Special) — The automobile races being sponsored by the local American Legion and scheduled to take place here as part of the July Fourth celebration was postponed until Sunday, July 10, according to J. M. Wilmot who is in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Wilmot stated that he expects to have some of the best race drivers of the southwest entered in the races. In addition to the six professional race events there is to be a race of stock cars, limited to roadsters. Other features of the day's card include a matched race between Ford and Chevrolet stock cars.

Another interesting feature will be the junk car race. No entries for this event will be received of cars valued at over $25. There is also to be a head-on collision of two cars racing at full speed around the track.

Due to heavy rains the track had not been properly prepared and it was decided to postpone the event until the date mentioned.

When in a shallow trap, it is often best to use the chip shot to come out, but when the bunker is high and the cut shot cannot be employed one must rely on the explosion.

Our best players have little variation in the method used for this shot. The ball is played from a point opposite the left foot or slightly in front of it. The player stands fairly erect with the feet not far apart. A full swing is taken and the club is driven into the sand about an inch behind the ball.

Swing through on this shot. Don't allow the club to stop as soon as it enters the sand. This is sure to result in a pop-up.

Browsing About A Bit

THIS country, from ocean to ocean and border to border, is standing upon the threshold of the most dangerous "brother-against-brother" era that it has seen since the Civil War. Perhaps you may not realize it, but this country is sharply divided over prohibition; the line of demarkation is keenly drawn and on either side there stands a group ready to fight to the last trench for the principle involved.

Don't misunderstand. When we say "brother-against-brother" lines we do not mean to indicate that a force of arms to civil warfare is either impending or possible. That's entirely out of the question.

But we do mean that the "brother-against-brother" era will spoil friendships, fellowships, business and professional alliances just as the slavery and the klan questions did—only the wet-dry controversy is going to be more widespread than the klan issue, which was mostly southern, ever was.

Look over into columns 7 and 8 where there reposes the first of a series of political articles being written exclusively for The Morning Avalanche by Dr. W. A. Jackson, head of Tech's department of government.

The Morning Avalanche is proud to be able to present the ideas, theories and knowledge of so eminent a student of government as Doctor Jackson, who is without doubt one of the best informed men in Texas along this particular line.

Incidentally, Doctor Jackson has both scientific and practical experience as a background for his political dissertations —a combination essentia lto intelligent discussion.

President Robert Maynard Hutchins, youthful head of University of Chicago, believes in enlisting modern science in higher education.

Accordingly, he has had installed in his university talking picture machines to be used in lecture work, where, to quote Chicago Tribune, you may "see the excavation of a Pharoah's tomb right before your eyes."

Educators everywhere, from the primary schools to the largest of colleges, have long seen the possibilities of education by cinema and more than a year ago The Morning Avalanche opined that the time is not far distant that Texas Technological college will have lecture courses through the talking film.

Lubbock High, incidentally, has all arrangements made for such practices with the exception of installing the actual projection machine.

BOON TO HUMANITY

For decades and centuries humanity has been sorely in need of an infallible method of ushering out the visitor who is more loath to depart than his host is loath to have him prolong his stay. Many subterfuges are in vogue but none of these is 100 per cent efficient or practical on all occasions and throughout the twice-twelve hours of the day.

A German professor of philosophy has just conceived of an innovation in this direction which before exhaustive experiments have been conducted seems to be the answer to this social dilemma and promises to put an end to much human suffering.

Besieged by a marathon caller the Leipzig dean took up his hat from his own library table said to his caller, "Excuse me, sir, for taking up so much of your time," and bowed himself out of his own house.

Humanity owes a debt of gratitude to this doctor of philosophy. He has hit upon a method at once, final, graceful and complete. If the guest has not departed after a few turns around the block or a walk to the post office the host can slip into the house through the back door or cellar window and retire.

While it may have its defects this invention has much to recommend it over the paper-rustling and yawning method, the sudden remembering of a fictitious engagement, making a casual reference to a call on a sick friend and pooh-poohing the carrying on one's clothes the germ of smallpox. These latter are crude and ineffective by comparison.

The killing of those escaped convicts is a lesson to others that there are dangers connected with escape besides being run down by an automobile.

The dream of engineers is to furnish all the power from one central district. This is also the dream of politicians.

A rich man could be happy if he could overcome the suspicion that his friends have designs on his purse.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

He setteth an end to darkness, and searcheth out all perfection: the stones of darkness, and the shadow of death.—Job, xxviii, 3.

Hotly Disputed Subject

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHNGTON, July 6.—The wisdom of a back-to-agriculture movement by the urban jobless is a hotly-disputed subject in Washington—largely due to the presence almost in the capitol's shadow of thousands of World war veterans, stranded here after their vain trek hither in quest of bonus payment.

John E. Rankin

Their number is not so great compared with more important industrial centers, but the city's very smallness makes them conspicuous. They are concentrated, too, and their destitution is absolute.

Besides, Washington is politically strategic.

The suggestion that each ex-service man who applies for it be provided with a farm of sufficient size to feed him and his family is Police Superintendent Pelham D. Glassford's.

The idea is not a new one, however, in its application to the general unemployment situation. It was urged by several lawmakers during the 1931-'32 session of congress—notably by Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, and Gov. Doyle E. Carlton even sent a definite offer to the capital to aid in providing free acreage for veterans and others desirous of a foothold on the land in the Everglade State.

* * *

AT FIRST THOUGHT, the plan sounds attractive, but Fred Brenckman, Washington representative of the National Grange, already has broadcast a warning against its adoption—without the most careful consideration, at any rate.

Experienced farmers are "sinking into bankruptcy" at their calling now, he points out.

A horde of city dwellers, turned loose on the land, and left to shift for themselves, primitively equipped and wholly unfamiliar with country life, simply would 'starve to death,' declares the grange spokesman.

Furthermore, query members of congress from various farm states, what hope is there for agriculture, already over-productive to the verge of ruin, if the rural areas are to be swamped by additional millions seeking livings from the soil?

* * *

FULLY ACQUAINTED with the unemployed ex-service men's difficulties, as chairman of the house of representatives' committee on veterans' legislation, and equally in touch with agriculture's troubles, as a native of one of the country's foremost farming commonwealths, Congressman John E. Rankin of Mississippi deals with the problem from a standpoint of exceptional enlightenment.

"The abnormal congestion of our population in cities," says the Mississippian, "unquestionably is responsible, in a large measure, for our present economic embarrassments.

"The Fordney-McCumber tariff, by placing an enormous premium upon manufacturing, started the cityward rush, to take advantage of the opportunities which it offered for high priced, but, as the sequel has proved, only transitory employment.

"Our rural-urban balance was completely upset thus. Obviously it must be restored, if we are to regain prosperity."

* * *

"IN A SENSE," continued the congressman, "this means that there must be a return of vast numbers of folk from the cities to the country, but it does not mean that all those who leave the city must turn to actual farming.

"In the country towns of my own state, for example, existing conditions positively have stimulated manufacturing on a small scale.

"Unable to pay big city prices, the townspeople and neighboring farmers are equal to those charged by their little local factories, operating with low rentals, with comparatively cheap neighborhood labor and with no transportation charges to meet, to get their goods to market."

* * *

AND, TO BE SURE, as highly-respected an economist as General Charles G. Dawes mentions an improvement in "small business enterprises, with low overhead. Larger ones," adds the general, "must necessarily follow."

But, by no means," rejoins Congressman Rankin. "The country has had its lesson. Big business has sickened its customers, by over-dosing them with its greed. Our back-to-the -country movement has begun —though it is not a 100 per cent movement back-to-soil."

* * *

"AS FOR THE FARMER," said the representative, "I doubt that even he is over-producing as is represented.

"The prices he receives are ruinously low, but those paid by the city consumer remain high—not as high as they were, but still high. With a return to a normal population balance and consequently better times, his market will improve—for he is the victim of his consumers' loss of buying power, just as urban industry is the victim of the same thing.

"The land owner who has farmed on a mass production basis may not recover. He is rather a business man than a farmer, and has overdone matters like big city industry.

"The small farmer, without a watered investment, which no longer will pay dividends, will recover, as his prices advance to an equality with his taxes and mortgages—and to bring them up to this level," observed the Mississippian, "currency inflation in moderation is imperative."

Which will mean that the urban worker's wages, already cut, will not buy so much.

"Yes," agreed the congressman, "but unless he acquiesces, his wages will be cut again and again and yet again and finally down to none at all."

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

ALEX MORRISON'S ACCURATE GOLF:

Morrison, famous golf technician, was the first to make a business of trick golf shots, and during his varied exhibitions has hit a golf ball off a girl's knee, foot, wrist and head. Also off the neck of a bottle, off a mirror and similar objects where extreme accuracy is needed in the swing. Morrison has probably the most perfectly arced, accurate swing in golf.

In all his performances it is strange that he should have used someone's head for a tee more frequently than anything else, where a divot would be most disastrous, but he has made 6188 such shots without a miss. Practically all of his exhibitions have been in theatres or on golf courses, before public galleries.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHERRY DIXON, 19 and pretty, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter whom her wealthy, aristocratic parents have forbidden her to see. When Cherry learns Dan's telephone messages have been kept from her she steals out of the house to meet him. Her father discovers this and threatens to send her to California. Cherry defies him and he orders her to leave.

She goes to Dan, tells him what has happened and asks him to marry her. The ceremony is performed that night by a justice of peace.

Cherry looks for an apartment but is discouraged to find them so expensive. Dan works late one night on a tip that TONY TOSCALLI, gangland chief, is coming to Wellington. Cherry unconsciously gives this news tip to a reporter on the rival newspaper. Dan arrives at midnight, learns what she has done and is angry. He tells Cherry he could be fired for such a thing. Next evening when she meets him he intimates he has lost his job.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI

Dan's eyes met the girl's. They were smoldering and resentful. "It's what you think," he went on. "Bates is sore as the devil about that Toscalli business. Did you see the Sentinel?"

"But, Dan, you're not—?"

"Fired? Well, not quite. One more change Bates said. Oh, he said plenty more beside! Reminded me that I fell down on the Inez Mallory story. Reminded me of everything else that's gone wrong in the last six months. And here I was counting on a raise!"

"But it wasn't your fault."

"Yeah? Try and tell that to Hiram J. Bates! If you haven't seen the Sentinel you don't know the worst. They carried a story that Toscalli was here last night. With the Chief waiting to arrest him at the station Tony is supposed to have breezed in in a high-powered roadster, had dinner at a restaurant, called on a couple of friends and then beat it. Or so the Sentinel says. It's one of those vague stories. No one quoted directly and nothing you can pin down to facts, but is the Chief sore! And is Bates burning up!"

Cherry's face had gone white. She said, "It wasn't your fault, Dan. You know that. It's because of what I told Garth Hendricks—"

"There's no use saying that and there's no use even thinking it. You've no proof. Hendricks spilled the tip. Anyhow the thing's done and that's all there is to it."

"I could tell Mr. Bates it was my fault."

Phillips looked his horor. "For Lord sake, no!" he exclaimed. "Then I would be out of a job! I've told you, Cherry, the only thing to do is forget the whole matter. I'll have to watch my step for a while. Of course it isn't very pleasant to take a bawling out like the one I just got — especially after working half the night."

"It's not right, Dan. It isn't fair."

Dan laughed ruefully. "Neither are a lot of other things that happen but there's nothing anybody can do about them. Well—what say we eat?"

They walked down the street in silence. The crowds of office workers hurrying to board cars and busses had thinned. It was a spring evening as fresh and invigorating as any of the season but for Dan and Cherry the magic was lost. Both were preoccupied.

* * *

Presently Dan remembered something. "Dixie Shannon tried to call you this morning," he said. "Told me that if you haven't found a place to live she knows of an apartment we could get. It's in the building where Dixie lives. People leaving town want to sublease. Dixie said she'd go out with you to look at it if you want her to."

"Oh, I would like that! I've had such a time all day. Everything I've seen is ugly and dark and they charge so much. Where is the apartment?"

"Somewhere around Kensington Circle I think. Dixie says she likes the place."

"When can she go with me?"

"You might call her tonight and find out. Her name's in the phone book. Tell you what let's do, kid. After dinner suppose we go on a regular spree and see a movie. Would you like that?"

Cherry would like anything at all that suited Dan. She was feeling repentant. She told him nothing would please her so much that evening as to see a movie.

At 12 o'clock next day Cherry met Dixie Shannon at a Twelfth street drug store. They had sandwiches and malted milks, sitting on high stools before the marble-topped counter. Dixie was wearing a green hat again — not the one she had worn the night of the wedding but a tiny green straw with a short scarlet feather tucked into the crown. The hat was tipped at an outrageous angle. It was too bright and yet somehow it suited Dixie.

"Like the bonnet?" she demanded almost as soon as their first greetings were over. "Three ninety-eight in Daily's basement if you're interested."

Dixie always did her shopping at bargain counters and was perfectly frank about it.

"It's very becoming," Cherry said. "I'd never dream it cost so little."

"They had some other. You can get one if you want to. I won't mind." She interrupted herself to remind the soda fountain clerk that she liked plenty of cinnamon in the malted milk. Then she continued. "Just came from a preview at the Capitol. Ronald Colman's new picture. And is he a wow! They're going to show it next week and, my dear, wait till you see it! I'll get you passes—"

Dixie's voice bubbled on. She talked of motion pictures, of the

The Democratic National Convention Of 1932

This is the first of a series of articles dealing with the Democratic National convention, the platforms of the two parties and an explanation of the workings of the party system of politics. It is written especially for The Morning Avalanche by Dr. W. A. Jackson, head of the department of government at Texas Tech and a widely known authority upon scientific government and politics.

PRELIMINARY STAGES

The writer of this article left Lubbock at 10 a. m., Saturday, June 25. He left Amarillo at 3 p. m. via the Continental and Western Airways and was in Chicago the following morning at 8 o'clock.

The Texas Delegation to the Democratic National Nominating Convention held a caucus on Saturday preceding the convention. It was reported that this caucus was turned into a stormy session. The argument started over recommendation of a Texas delegate for the Platform Committee.

Convention Is Game

Sunday was spent in sightseeing and resting up for the "Big Show" However, the national convention is not a big show—it is a big game and the most skillful players win. In this case the stage had been set by the Democratic National Committee with Franklin D. Roosevelt directing. The National Committee had prepared the temporary roll in Roosevelt's favor by leaving off all the contesting delegates of known anti-Roosevelt proclivities. The preliminary selections for the four great committees were made in the same way. Consequently, the convention was a Roosevelt convention from the beginning.

It is not to be inferred that the convention was a cut and dried affair as Roosevelt did not enter the contest with a two-third's majority of pledged delegates.

Generally speaking, a Democratic National Nominating Convention is composed of twice as many delegates as there are representatives in the national congress, with one alternate for each delegate. However, in many cases more delegates are selected than there are votes, consequently a National Nominating Convention may be composed of 1500 or even 2000 delegates—some of them having fractional votes. For example, Texas sent four times as many delegates as the Democratic Party of Texas had votes in the National Convention.

First Session Opens

The first session was called for 12 o'clock noon on June 27. The call to order was one hour later by John J. Rascob, Chairman of the National Committee. Commander Booth of the Salvation Army delivered the invocation. The Chairman of Chicago's Citizens Committee was then introduced and in turn introduced Mayor Cermak of Chicago who welcomed the delegates. The Mayor made a Democratic speech, that is, he praised the Democratic Fathers from Jefferson to Wilson and poured it on all Republicans in general and Hoover in particular. Incidentally, during the course of his speech he favored repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment wich caused much cheering in the galleries.

About this time Al Smith came on the floor to join the New York Delegation which was the signal for more cheering.

At this stage of the proceedings everyone was admonished to be quiet in order that the official picture might be taken. The picture was no good, the chief reason being that no members of the Texas Delegation could be identified.

Raskob Speaks

Mr. Raskob paid tribute to a number of party workers. He referred to the Republican Party as dead and as having destroyed faith and hope on the part of the American people. The next order of business was the reading of Jefferson's first inaugural address. No one knew why it was read. Few seemed to care anything about it as there was much confusion during the process of reading.

The Secretary of the National Committee was then instructed to read the call of the National Committee for the meeting of the convention, after which he also read the list of proposed temporary officers, this list having been compiled by the National Committee. The vote was taken and the slate ratified without opposition.

DR. W. A. JACKSON

Barkley Takes Chair

Mr. Barkley of Kentucky, the temporary Chairman Elect, was then escorted to the chair as the organ played "Dixie" and the band played "My Old Kentucky Home". The gavel was presented and the "keynoter" launched into an address. Photographers got busy. They must have taken pictures of every state delegation, all the notables, and all the speakers. Mr. Barkley was snapped throughout every stage of his speech. Even Evangeline Booth and all the other divines were shot during their opening prayers. Laudatory remarks by the keynoter of Woodrow Wilson started cheering, the organ played "Stars and Stripes Forever", and photographers then turned their batteries on the widow of the late President.

The key-noter stepped on the Republican tariff policy and blamed Hoover for the farmers' plight. Among other things he stated that stabilization of the farmer by the Republicans had consisted of taking him out of his home and putting him in the stable. He furthermore stated that it had taken five hundred million dollars to stabilize the farmers' prices from reasonable to almost nothing. One would gather from this speech that the Republican Party was in a sad plight and that it had gotten the country in pretty much the same boat.

Quoting, "The plank of the Republicans on the Eighteenth Amendment is not a plank, it is a scrap of lumber. Butler condemns it as dry, Borah condemns it as wet, the American people will condemn it as a fraud." The key-noter's reference to the proposed Democratic stand on the Eighteenth Amendment started a demonstration and a parade which lasted for about ten minutes. It was during this time that the Texas Delegation was reported to be in a free for all fight. There was much confusion but as far as could be ascertained no broken bones nor black eyes. The Texas standard however did suffer serious damage, likewise the Arkansas standard. The key-note address lasted for more than one hour whereupon a resolution of thanks was passed commending the key-noter. In the judgment of this writer Mr. Barkley was the best speaker of the convention.

"And those interested in this sort of colonization aren't seeking to put off indigents on the people of the country. All the people brought together in this movement will be substantial citizens, people who really have something and are able to take care of themselves.

"You've probably read much about the movement in the leading magazines of the nation," Mr. Seagraves added. "The little farm home, ofttimes near a city the size of Lubbock or even smaller towns is the goal of a large number of people of the larger centers.

"When these people go to leaving these larger centers, the congestion and unemployment problems will be relieved," Mr. Seagraves said. "And that will do a lot toward bringing back good times."

hours sooner, but we missed the town and veered off to the north. Griff spotted the name on a little railroad station, I think it was Soldin, and we turned around and came south again.

"For all we saw there might not have been any ocean at all. We were flying blind in fog and, believe it or not, our altitude ran from six inches to 10,000 feet.

"Well, we went south of Scotland and then we hit the North Sea. Just where we struck the continent of Europe I don't know."

The fliers amazed their welcomers by turning down beer, thrust at them in great scuttles as their ship taxied to a stop.

"What we want is a good long drink of water," said Griffin. "That beer looks good but it might not set so well. We haven't had anything but oranges since we left New York."

NEWS BRIEFS

Mrs. R. E. Hoops of Lubbock late Wednesday had not been released on $750 bond set Tuesday by Justice of the Peace W. S. Clark. Mrs. Hoops is charged with manufacture and possession of liquor.

J. E. Stokes, about 40, said by the sheriff's department to be an employe of the Slaton postoffice, has been freed in bail of $1,000 after he was charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated. Stokes was arrested by the sheriff's department south of Lubbock on the highway Monday night.

One of Lubbock's first county commissioners, J. D. Caldwell, is a candidate for justice of the peace, place No. 1, precinct 1, and was distributing his cards here Wednesday. Caldwell is asking voters to write his name on the ballot, having entered the race too late to get his name on the ticket.

Mr. Caldwell has resided here since the county's organization with the exception of a few years spent in Cochran county.

Members of a summer class in Elements of Scoutmastership at Texas Technological college will attend a second outdoor meeting late Thursday about a mile north of the campus in Yellowhouse canyon, D. T. Jennings, an instructor and area scout executive, said yesterday.

The students and instructors will meet at the old book store on the campus at 4 o'clock this afternoon and go to the campsite. Instruction in map work, nature study, and first class cooking requirements will be given.

Bill Edwards, 2101 Eighth street, who suffered a dislocated shoulder while swimming at Shannon park, was dismissed from Lubbock sanitarium after treatment Tuesday night.

Calvin Stephenson, 12, of 317 Avenue U, was treated Tuesday at West Texas hospital for a broken left shoulder and collar bone suffered when he fell from a bicycle.

The same rate for the round trip to Carlsbad Caverns the students of Texas Technological college have been accorded for the second annual trip Friday and Saturday is available to the public, Joe W. Bowman, manager of South Plains Coaches, Inc., said last night. Announced rate is $5 for the trip.

E. P. Hamner, 57, of Plainview, Wednesday underwent an operation at Lubbock sanitarium for removal of his right eye. Details of the accident injuring the eye were not known here. Hamner remained in the sanitarium last night.

Thomas S. Blacknell, charged with violation of the prohibition law, was released Wednesday in bail of $50, U. S. Commissioner Victor R. Lindsey said.

F. E. Gordon, of Athens, 83, uncle of Dean James M. Gordon of Texas Technological college, is visiting Dean and Mrs. Gordon and F. E. Gordon's son, Ed Gordon, who lives four miles north of Lubbock.

Texas Tech Convocation Is Scheduled In City Thursday

Number of Texas Technological college students who plan to visit Carlsbad caverns Saturday will be determined at a convocation at 8:40 o'clock this morning on the administration building lawn, Cecil Horne said last night.

The official motorcade will leave the administration building at 10 o'clock Friday morning and will reach Carlsbad that afternoon. The caverns will be visited Saturday.

Dr. W. A. Jackson of the government department will discuss the Democratic convention at Chicago at the convocation this morning.

Kellogg Sale Is Drawing Interest

Arrangements for the sale of Kellogg's products, to be conducted here Saturday by the Lubbock Parent-Teachers association are nearing completion. The stores lending their aid to the local association have been named, and Mrs. N. L. Peters, president of the organization, reports that the women who are to participate have been selected and will be stationed in each of the stores. Look for the announcement in Friday's and Saturday's Avalanche-Journal giving the names of the stores cooperating, and the women who will be located at each of them.

If the housewives of Lubbock do their part and buy all the cereals possible, the sale should reach expectations and the P.-T. A. will earn the extra bonus as well as the money guaranteed by the cereal manufacturer.

The corn flakes bonus, which is to go to the woman selling the greatest amount of this product, seems to have aroused interest, as all of the stores cooperating Saturday will have an equal chance at the bonus. It now appears that competition will be strong.

The Kellogg company is spending a large sum of money this week in Lubbock for advertising purposes. A large portion of the money will go to the local P.-T. A., for their participation in Saturday's sale.

The women will sell Kellogg Corn Flakes, Pep Bran Flakes, Whole Wheat Flakes, Kellogg's Shredded Wheat Biscuit, Rice Krispies, Krumbles, Kellogg's All-Bran and Kaffee Hag coffee, "the coffee that lets you sleep."

James V. Allred To Speak In City On Friday Night

James V. Allred, candidate for re-election as Texas attorney general, will speak here Friday night at 8:30 o'clock on the courthouse lawn, District Attorney Durwood H. Bradley said last night.

The engagement previously was announced for Thursday night, but was changed due to a re-arrangement of the attorney general's speaking campaign.

Record In Office Is Cited By Pharr In Address Here

Basing his campaign for re-election as 72nd district court judge on the record he has made since appointed to the bench in 1927 by Governor Dan Moody, Judge Homer L. Pharr addressed a small audience on the courthouse lawn Wednesday night.

Certified reports of district clerks of Lubbock, Crosby, Hockley and Cochran counties show that Judge Pharr has disposed of 2,181 suits, of which 84 have been appealed, the candidate said. Of the cases appealed, 43 have been affirmed and 23 reversed, a percentage of affirmed cases which Judge Pharr said was considerably above that of the average of Texas district judges.

Statements made by W. P. Walker of Crosbyton, also a candidate for the judgeship, regarding Pharr's record were challenged last night, although the speaker did not mention Walker's name. Judge Pharr declared that the question of qualification and ability to fill the office was to be considered in the race.

Two Bankruptcy Petitions Are Filed In Local Court

A schedule of assets and liabilities has been filed in bankruptcy in U. S. district court here by the Caprock Uniform and Embroidery company. An involuntary petition in bankruptcy for the company was filed July 2 by Woolverine Shoe and Tanning corporation, Lane Cotton Mills company, and Dallas Uniform Cap Manufacturing company, companies representing themselves as creditors of the Lubbock firm.

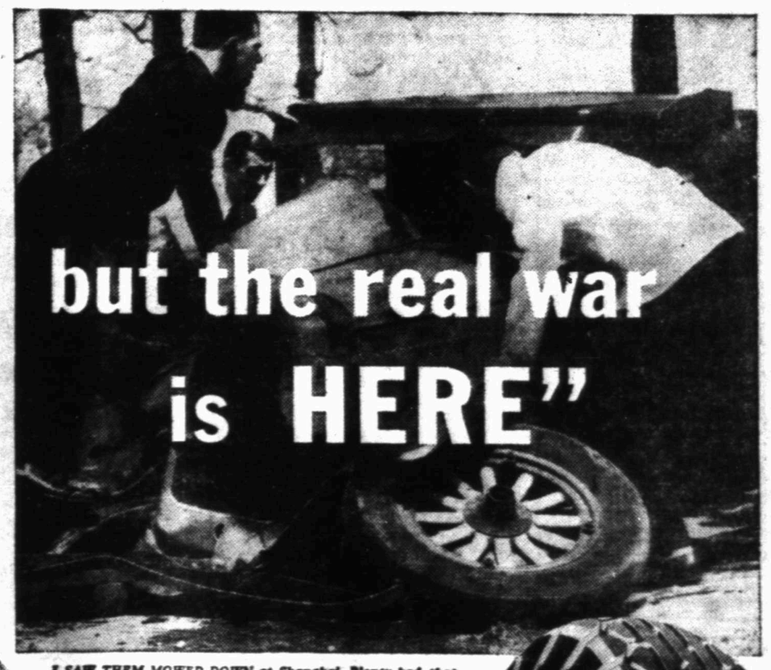

Assets are listed as totaling $32,506.67 and liabilities are $10,433.16. No exemptions are sought.

George Zeigler company, Mohican Rubber company, Bunte Bros., Inc., and Orbit Gum company, alleging themselves to be creditors of J. L. Pinkerton and W. A. Pinkerton, doing business as the Pinkerton Candy company and Crown Drug company, have filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy for the Pinkertons and their businesses.

"The Headlines screamed 'SHANGHAI' but the real war is HERE"

Floyd Gibbons

I SAW THEM MOWED DOWN at Shanghai. Plenty bad, that stuff. War at its worst. But the greatest shock came when I got back. Found how many had been killed here. In peaceful America!

HELLO EVERYBODY: Floyd Gibbons speaking. I'm just back from China. Plenty war there. Messed around with it for four months, from Manchurian madness to Shanghai slaughter.

They killed six thousand over there. That's the best estimate I can give. They wounded twenty thousand more. Men. Women and children. Mowed them down. Frightful.

But wait. What did I find out when I got back? Eight thousand had been killed. A quarter of a million injured. Right here in America. During the months I was gone. In automobile accidents!

This happened to my own kind. Men, women and children. No screaming headlines. No war correspondents. Just death. Maiming. Suffering.

Just too common to be news.

This burned me up. Seeing women and children killed in China made me realize the awfulness of it here.

I stopped in Akron. There I found a tire manufacturer doing something about it. Goodrich. Goodrich was crusading for safety. Goodrich was developing more safety in tires.

You know, your tires are a sort of endless belt between your car and the road. They carry the weight. They transmit the power. They do the braking. They do the steering.

No matter what kind of motor—brakes—steering gear you've got, it's up to the tires!

You send a car weighing maybe 2 tons along at 50 miles an hour, and a few square inches of rubber are your sole connection with the world—and safety. That's worth thinking about.

I certainly thought about it, when they showed me what they'd done at Goodrich. They've got a new tire. They worked three years to develop it. They call it the SAFETY Silvertown. They say it's the safest tire ever built. They convinced me.

I can't go into the details of their marvelous test machines—their manufacturing processes—their Silver Fleet that has covered 50 million miles testing tires. But I'll give you the climax.

I saw them drive a car on Safety Silvertowns around a sharp, wedge-shaped corner.

The pavement was asphalt, and wet. The car went around that corner at 42 miles an hour.

It leaned so, I thought it was going over.

I saw puffs of steam come out from under those Safety Silvertowns as they clutched that wet, glassy pavement.

YET THEY DIDN'T SKID AN INCH.

That car held its path like it was tied to it—running on rails. That's SAFETY!

With thousands injured in skidding accidents every year, I want to say that Goodrich has done something BIG—SENSATIONAL.

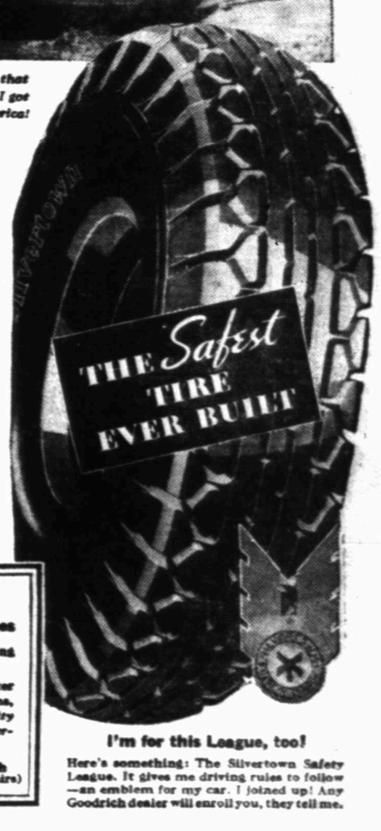

They told me out there in Akron that 57% of the cars now on the road have at least one tire that invites disaster.

Yet their new Safety Silvertown can be bought for a price that astonished me. It doesn't cost one cent more than any standard tire.

Peace negotiations stopped the killing in Shanghai. Goodrich engineers have at last put something into a tire that will reduce the highway slaughter.

It's the price of safety on the road.

I'm for stopping the HIGHWAY SLAUGHTER. I'm for Safety Silvertowns—the tires which have scooted the scare out of the skid!

Goodrich states its position on prices

As you read tire advertisements emphasizing price, bear this fact in mind:

Goodrich has provided its dealers with greater values in each price class—Safety Silvertowns, Cavaliers and Commanders. Size for size—quality for quality—Goodrich dealers will never be undersold.

Goodrich tire prices begin at $3.20 each (in pairs)

I'm for this League, too!

Here's something: The Silvertown Safety League. It gives me driving rules to follow—an emblem for my car. I joined up! Any Goodrich dealer will enroll you, they tell me.

Read the Classified Ads very carefully. Then pick out some phrase (one to six words), in one of the ads on the classified pages, that you think describes your interpretation of the cartoon, the best. Write your title in the space directly under the cartoon, and attach copy of ad, from which you extracted the title, along with your name and address. The titles will be judged every day, and the best one, each day, will receive two tickets to Lindsey Theater to see "Winner Take All"; the second best will receive two tickets to the Palace Theatre to "Without Honors."

BRING OR MAIL YOUR TITLE N-O-W TO THE CLASSIFIED AD DEPARTMENT, AVALANCHE-JOURNAL. Titles accepted until 6 p. m., Thursday, July 7th.

Mrs. M. C. Wall Is First Voter

Mrs. M. C. Wall of voting precinct No. 4 Wednesday was the first Lubbock county person to vote in the Democratic primaries this year. Mrs. Wall was one of five persons to cast an absentee vote yesterday at the office of Amos H. Howard, county clerk.

Others voting were Mrs. K. M. Renner, No. 1; Jas. H. Goodman, No. 27; H. K. Porter and J. C. Allensworth, No. 1.

Ballots were mailed yesterday to these persons visiting out of the county:

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. O'Brien, Houston; J. Hill Wright, Hubbard; Mrs. L. E. Davis, Fort Worth; T. H. Thomas, Corpus Christi; Julia Hale, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller, Monticello, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Mule Davis, Hereford; Miss Mary Cowsert, Dallas; Wm. T. Stitt, Fort Worth; Mrs. P. W. Wright, Walnut Grove, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. C. Galbraith, Hereford; C. W. Goodgion, Canadian, and Murry Smith, Rogers, Texas.

Absentee voters are not required to appear before a notary public while marking the ticket this year, the county clerk said.

Davies Acquitted Of Theft Charges

After deliberating about one hour, a jury in county court late Wednesday acquitted A. E. Davies of a charge of theft of maize.

Judge E. L. Pitts has reset trial of C. C. Lindsey, local theater manager, and Clifton Armstrong on charges of aggravated assault on Olin (Spook) Marquart for 9 o'clock Friday morning in county court. Lindsey also is charged with forcing Marquart to sign an instrument in writing, and Armstrong with threatening to take Marquart's life, and with unlawful detention of Marquart.

A verdict of not guilty in the case of Dr. J. W. Philips, a Lubbock dentist, charged with disturbing the peace by use of abusive language, was returned early Wednesday in county court. Mrs. Fritz Meyers and Murray Howell, tried jointly in county court Tuesday on charges of disturbing the peace by using abusive language, were found not guilty by a jury.

Rabbit Williams yesterday pleaded guilty of a charge of aggravated assault and was fined $25 and costs. He was charged in connection with administering a beating to his wife.

Case of W. E. Elroy, formerly an evangelistic minister here, and Etta Black, charged with adultery, is set for trial in county court this morning, Wm. H. Evans, assistant county attorney, said.

John Hancock's signature on Declaration of Independence was so large that his name has been synonymous with signature over since.

Bond Opposed For Prisoners

Jess Covington Is Arrested Here Tuesday On Charge Of Murder; No Bonds Have Been Set In Cases

The district attorney's office will oppose any attempt to free on bail Jess Covington, B. L. Richardson, and Hugh Walker, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Fran V. (Leather Hat) Brown, Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, said Wednesday. Bonds have not been set in the cases.

Covington was arrested Tuesday afternoon in the 100-block of Main street by Policeman Grady Harrist.

Covington, Walker, and Richardson were charged with murder in Justice of the Peace W. S. Clark's court late June 29. Richardson was arrested here June 25, the day after he and three other suspects had been released after a grand jury appearance, and Walker was arrested at Hobbs, N. M., and was returned June 29. Walker was wanted here for jumping bond and failing to appear in district court for trial for liquor law violation. Covington also was free on bond in connection with charges of liquor law violation.

Richardson, Sheriff Wade Hardy said, had been identified by three witnesses as the man carrying a pistol in the fatal shooting, which evidently was precipitated by a holdup attempt, at the T. B. Hilton residence.

Judge A. B. Martin Visiting Lubbock And South Plains

Judge A. B. Martin, candidate for re-election as associate justice of the court of civil appeals at Amarillo, is visiting in Lubbock and the South Plains area this week in the interest of his candidacy. He spoke briefly at the Lubbock Rotary club Wednesday.

The judge, a former justice of the court of criminal appeals at Austin, was appointed to the Amarillo court after the death of Judge Hal C. Randolph.

office, of a party she had attended the night before. Cherry thought that you could not help liking Dixie even though her chatter might grow monotonous. She was so friendly and obviously sincere. Already Dixie was calling Cherry by her first name and expected Cherry to do the same.

"About this apartment," Dixie began suddenly. "You can get it as a bargain I'm sure. It belongs to Clarice Clark and her husband. Clarice does advertising and Johnny's an artist. A while ago he won a scholarship in Boston. They didn't think they could afford to take it but now Clarice has been offered a job and they're terribly anxious to go. They have the apartment on a two-year lease. If they rent it unfurnished they'll have to store their things. I was thinking that if you want to you might arrange to keep the place just the way it is, furniture and all. I think Clarice would be glad to let you have it because it would really be cheaper for them. She isn't at home but the janitor will let us in."

"When can I see it?" Cherry wanted to know.

"Any time. As soon as we finish lunch if you want to."

• • •

They paid the checks and departed. It was a 15-minute ride by street car to Kinsington Circle and only a block further to the apartment address.

The neighborhood was new to Cherry. The buildings on either side of the narrow street were old residences that must have been imposing in their day. They were set close together and each house looked almost exactly like the next.

Dixie had a key and let them in to the entrance hall. She rang and within a few minutes the janitor shambled up some steps.

"Yes, Miss Shannon. You want to see the second floor rear? The Clarks' place?"

Dixie said that was right. She introduced the janitor, whose name was Bergman. He said, "Pleased-t-meet-yuh" to Cherry and led the way up the long flight of stairs to the "second floor rear."

"This is a nice place," he said as he unlocked the door. "Those Clarks have got it fixed up fine."

The room they entered was large. Cherry's first impression was of creamy walls, dark floors and abundant cheerful colors. There were two windows on the east through which the mid-day sun shone.

"Why, it is nice!" she said eagerly, stepping forward. "What pretty curtains—and a window seat. I like that!"

It was a comfortable looking room. A low couch piled with pillows stood against one wall. There were three large easy chairs, plainly showing their age. Several small tables and an upholstered footstool. The gate-leg table near the window had the leaves lowered and was covered with a piece of Chinese embroidery. In the center of the north wall a colorful square of woven woolen stuff had been pinned. Several black and white drawings and two smaller ones in oil decorated the other walls.

"Clarice and Johnny hunted around auctions and second-hand places for most of this furniture," Dixie explained. "Some of the things Johnny made. That couch there and the book shelves. He made those. The kitchen's over here—"

• • •

The kitchen, such as it was, was behind a door Dixie pulled open. Originally it had been nothing more than a large clothes closet. There was a two-burner gas stove with an oven, an ice chest and miniature sink, two rows of shelves bordered with scalloped oil cloth and piled with dishes and cooking utensils. There was no window and no light except that from an electric drop lamp.

There was a bathroom that also had been designed for some other purpose. Its old-fashioned white tub was nothing like the shining rosé and silver bath of the dressing room that had been Cherry's in her father's home. Checked blue linoleum covered the floor instead of handsome black and gray tile.

"Where's the bedroom?" Cherry asked.

"Oh, there isn't any. You see the couch folds open. With that chest of drawers and this closet you have plenty of room for clothes. None of the apartments in this house have bedrooms."

It would be a new way of living but the big room with the window seat and home-like furnishings had won Cherry's heart.

"This is the nicest place I've seen," she said. "If Dan likes it and it's not too expensive I'd like to live here."

"That's grand!" Dixie declared. "I'm on the next floor. It's cooler in summer but you'll be glad you have only one flight of stairs to climb. Want to come up and see my place?"

They left Mr. Bergman to lock up the apartment and Cherry followed Dixie to inspect her tiny third floor quarters.

From there Cherry telephoned to Clarice Clark. It developed that the apartment rented for $50 a month. However, as Dixie had predicted, the Clarks did not want to pay storage on their furniture. They were anxious to get away at once. Clarice Clark said that if Cherry and Dan would take the place immediately they could have it furnished for $50 a month.

"I'll talk to my husband and let you know this afternoon," Cherry promised.

She decided to go with Dixie to the News office and there consult Dan. The two girls boarded a car and rode down town. They were walking toward the newspaper office when the other girl put her hand on Cherry's arm.

"Here's somebody you should know," she said. The next moment she was saying to a young man who had stepped out of a building just ahead of them, "Oh, Max! Have you met Cherry Phillips? She's Dan's wife, you know. Cherry, this is Max Pearson."

Cherry put out her hand. She raised her eyes to meet the young man's. They were dark eyes, very handsome.

Something seemed to tighten about Cherry's heart. It was uncanny but for an instant she felt a certain premonition of danger. The dark eyes held hers.

Employment For More Than 50 Men In City Has Been Secured By New Group

Employment for more than 50 men has been secured by the Lubbock Unemployed council, which has a membership of 900, since its organization about a week ago.

That was the information given Wednesday by Henry Devorell, chairman of the newly organized jobless group here. The council has launched a campaign to aid jobless persons in obtaining employment and to contribute to the support of indigent families.

Work on farms is the objective of the council at the present time, Mr. Devorell said. "If we get men to working on farms and the farmers haven't any money, they can pay in produce, vegetables, milk, eggs, etc. and the workers can at least live."

The organization is the first effort of unemployed groups to seek jobs for themselves. Devorell said he expected more members to join after the council has begin to show results.

Varied Program Is Presented At Rotary Affair Wednesday

Lubbock Rotarians, meeting at Hotel Lubbock Wednesday noon, heard a varied program which included a classification talk, orchestra and vocal selections, and a brief address by Judge A. B. Martin, associate justice of the court of civil appeals at Amarillo.

W. W. Rix was chairman of the program and presented several selections by an orchestra and vocal numbers by Mrs. Joe Hilton as the feature. M. E. Ware gave a classification talk on land development. Members of the orchestra were: Miss Margaret Halsell, Mrs. Waldo Trotter, Howard Hunt and Mr. Rix.

Judge Martin spoke briefly, relating humorous incidents happening in sessions of the court of criminal appeals at Austin.

Besides Judge Martin, John Doyle of Levelland; E. J. McCarty and A. L. Mudd of Amarillo and Dr. L. M. Jones of Abernathy were out-of-town guests at the luncheon.

Lubbock Postal Patrons Are Using New Government Rate

With few exceptions, Lubbock postal patrons Wednesday were adding one more penny to the postage carried on their letters, Postmaster John L. Vaughan said late yesterday. Some even bested Uncle Sam and used four cents on their letter.

"A few letters carrying two two-cent stamps and some with only two cents in postage have been received," the postmaster said, "but practically all are placing the correct amount of postage on their letter."

Several letters were mailed Tuesday with three cents in stamps, although the new rate designed to help balance the federal budget went into effect Tuesday midnight.

SCIENCE PICKS BEST CIGARETTE; OLD GOLD WINS FROM ALL RIVALS

75 TESTS ACCLAIM OLD GOLD COOLEST, EASIEST ON THROAT

"O. G.'s Finer Tobacco and its Freedom from Added Flavorings Make it a Definitely Cooler Cigarette," say Noted Authorities

"Conclusive evidence that Old Gold gives a cooler smoke . . . cooler than any of the three other leading cigarette brands . . . has been obtained through the most accurate heat-testing method known to Science," it has been announced by the New York Testing Laboratories.

"Seventy-five repeated tests of the four big brands confirmed this finding," G. Brinton Jack, Jr., Director of the Laboratories, asserted. Mr. Jack emphatically stated that the tests were initiated by the Laboratories solely as a matter of scientific research, and entirely without the participation of cigarette manufacturers.

"Accurate temperature records made of the smoke of each of the four cigarettes completed the proof that Old Gold is definitely cooler than the other brands," Mr. Jack asserted.

"It is not our province in this report to speculate on the reasons for Old Gold's cooler smoking qualities," Mr. Jack stated. "But we are told that Old Gold is a cigarette of the finest and purest tobacco quality . . . without artificial flavoring. This alone might well account for its coolness and mildness, since low grade tobacco, or tobacco containing oily flavorings, has a tendency to burn into hot and irritating fumes." He continued:

"These tests required eight months to complete. We purchased hundreds of cartons of the four leading brands through regular retail channels, and each brand was represented in each of the 75 tests. We employed the Oxygen Bomb Calorimeter, recognized by scientists throughout the world as the most accurate method of measuring the heat given off in the combustion of any organic substance."

Scientists of Two Leading Universities Check Tests That Prove Old Gold Best

Scientists of two leading Universities have checked the tests described on this page and their findings corroborated in every detail those of the New York Testing Laboratories.

Samples of each lot of cigarettes tested have been sealed in airtight bottles:

1. For scientists who may wish to check the tests.
2. To refer to in later years to see what effect the tests have had in improving other brands up to the Old Gold pure tobacco standard.

To any scientific or technical authority, the signed report of these two scientists will be sent on application to P. Lorillard Company, Inc., 119 West 40th St., New York City.

THE EVIDENCE OF SCIENCE

"This is to certify that in 75 repeated cool tests made of the 4 leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette in B.T.Us. with the Oxygen Bomb Calorimeter, it was shown that:

Old Gold averages 112 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand X
Old Gold averages 155 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand Y
Old Gold averages 156 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand Z

"To further verify Old Gold's coolness, the temperature (Fahrenheit) of the smoke of each cigarette brand was checked and Old Gold's smoke was found to be definitely cooler than the smoke of the other three brands."
