Soviets Free C47 With 9 Occupants

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—The U.S. Air Force announced today that Soviet authorities today freed a C47 that strayed into Communist East Germany last Friday and the nine Americans aboard it.

The Soviet high command in East Germany issued a vigorous protest against the twin-engine transport's flight and demanded the American command in West Germany would have to take full responsibility for the incident.

A Soviet statement said the Soviets forced down the plane to protect the frontiers of East Germany as a member of the Warsaw Pact.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman said the plane with its occupants, eight Air Force men and a woman, had taken off from East Germany and was en route to Air Force headquarters at Wiesbaden.

But a short time later the spokesman withdrew this and said he could not say exactly when the plane would arrive.

Then came a U.S. Army announcement that a delegation from the U.S. military mission in the Soviet zone "will meet with the nine passengers and crew... to determine whether the plane is in condition to fly them out or if it will be necessary to evacuate the personnel by other means."

The Soviet protest was directed to Gen. Clyde D. Edelman, U.S. Army commander in Europe. Edelman had asked for release of the Americans and their plane in a message Saturday to Col. Gen. I. Yakubovskiy, commander of Soviet forces in East Germany.

The East German news agency ADN announced the protest in Berlin.

It reported that Edelman was in Berlin.

It was not officially specified whether this action included warning shots.

The protest concluded with a statement that Yakubovskiy was ready to turn over the plane, crew and passengers to a representative of Edelman whenever the American found it convenient.

The C47 transport was forced down when it got over the border into East Germany while on a flight from Copenhagen, Denmark to Hamburg, Germany.

The plane landed near the East German town of Grundsagen, about 20 miles from the West German border. Soviet spokesmen in Berlin said it landed undamaged.

The Soviets made an attempt to whip up an international incident over the plane, as they had over the U2 spy plane forced down over the Soviet Union on May Day.

Nor did they follow their usual tactic of trying to force American military authorities to secure release of the plane and its occupants from the Communist East German regime.

In the past, the Soviets referred such matters to the East Germans to force a measure of Western recognition for the satellite regime, with which the Western Allies normally refuse to deal.

But this time the Soviets kept the Americans in their custody and handled the matter with American military authorities themselves.

Five crewmen and four passengers were aboard the plane when it was downed.

The crewmen are Capt. James Lundy, 41, pilot, of Fordland, Ohio; Capt. George A. Jordan, 37, copilot, West Lafayette, Ind.; Capt. William Thomas Frewen, 36, a third pilot, Galveston, Tex.; Sgt. Leon Porter, 24, radio operator, Russellville, Ala.; and Sgt. Chester Kenneth Sledge, 22, engineer, Galveston, Saratoga County, N.Y.

The passengers are Capt. Paul K. McCash, 25, of Atlanta, Ga.; a U.S. Air Force doctor, his 24-year-old wife, who is a nurse, Airman James A. Garvin, 25, of Woodbine, Iowa; and Airman James A. Morrison of Richmond, Va., and Cleveland, Ohio.

GOP Blocks Panel Meet On Wage Bill

Lead minimum wage 10¢, TAP

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican objections today blocked the Senate Labor Committee from meeting on legislation to raise the minimum wage to $1.25 an hour.

The meeting had been called for 8 a.m. EST, the same hour the Senate met. It was canceled when Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois objected to the committee's meeting while the Senate was in session.

Under Senate rules, it requires unanimous consent for a committee to sit while the Senate is in session.

Dirksen, a member of the committee, told the reporter he objected because he wanted to be on hand when the committee considered the measure, and had to be in the Senate chamber when the Senate was meeting.

Another committee session tentatively was set for Thursday.

Dirksen said Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) also objected to the committee's meeting during the Senate session. Goldwater Monday had asked a one-day delay in a meeting scheduled at that time.

Democrats have accused the Republicans of stalling on the bill, hoping to kill it.

School Term Nearing End

Although one more trip to the classrooms is scheduled for distribution of report cards, some 4,000 Snyder school pupils wind up academic work today for the 1959-60 term.

Pupils will go back to school briefly Thursday to get their report cards and officially end the school term.

High school seniors, 175 of them are scheduled to get their diplomas tonight at commencement exercises in the high school auditorium.

The commencement program will begin at 8 p.m.

The commencement speaker will be Dr. James Jauncey, pastor of the First Christian Church in El Paso.

Dr. Jauncey is a well-known educator and missile scientist, having previously been on the faculty of a college in Australia and a seminary in the United States, and also an engineer on scientific projects at the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico.

A native of Australia, Dr. Jauncey came to America in 1948 and became a naturalized citizen of the United States in 1954. He received the George Washington gold medal and a $1,000 prize for making the best patriotic address in the United States in 1958.

T. D. Wiman Jr., high school principal, will preside at the commencement. T. E. McCollum, superintendent of schools, will present the graduates, and diplomas will be awarded by Malven Stevenson, president of the board of education.

John W. Joyce will give the valedictory address and Sherrell Bell will give the salutatory address.

FAITH OF RESIDENTS SET 'FUTURAMA' STAGE

A Snyderite bought a ranch he didn't have in the depth of the depression and as a result of his faith in the area and himself he's paying an annual payroll of more than $100,000 and probably contributing that much more to the area's economy in services he's buying from others.

Such experiences as these are what "made" Snyder what it is and the enthusiastic faith in the future is what our "Futurama" revolves around.

Plane Crash Kills 2 Near Fort Worth

FORT WORTH (AP)—Richard Burke, 37, former Fort Worth auto-firm executive and a companion were killed early today when a private plane crashed on a runway near Russell Field, a mile south of Fort Worth.

William Riley, 37, believed to be of Crestview, Fla., also died in the crash.

Max Finley, 25, of Fort Worth, lay unconscious in the wreckage for nearly three hours and then made his way to a residence a quarter-mile away and reported the crash. He was in fair condition later.

The plane, a four-place Piper, was probably piloted by Riley, to whom it belonged. It apparently took off between midnight and 3 a.m. from the darkened airport on U.S. Highway 81.

The first word of the crash came at 5:45 a.m. when Finley staggered to the residence of Mel McGowan north of Russell Field. "I was in a plane crash," Finley told him.

The plane's wheels touched ground about 15 feet north of a barbed wire fence. The craft burst through the fence and stopped 91 feet to the south.

O. C. Thompson, manager and operator of Russell Field, whose residence is on the field, said he heard a plane take off between midnight and 3 a.m. He said the airport was not equipped for night flying, that it would be possible to take off at night but very difficult to land.

There will be close to 1,000 pictures in the issue. It'll be the biggest presentation we've ever offered. Advertisers, there's still time to deliver a message for you, too. If you haven't been contacted, please call our advertising staff.

AUSTIN (AP)—A bomb scare hoaxed unconvicted girls early today in the big new Kinship dormitory.

About midnight Miss Wilma Galbreath, telephone room operator at the University of Texas dormitory, received an anonymous telephone call.

"There's a bomb in Lipka's suitcase," the caller said and hung up.

Miss Galbreath notified police who began looking for Lipka. She found 22 Lipka. While the 700 occupants of the dormitory huddled in the downstairs dining room, the police bomb squad searched the 22 rooms. The search was completed about 1 a.m. Almost on the spot Miss Galbreath got another anonymous call, gaily informing her it was all a hoax.

The 700 sleepy clogs stumbled back to bed.

The United States had only been trying "to secure information in advance of possible further Communist assaults" like those in Korea and Hungary, Lodge said.

"If the free world failed to protect itself against such a danger, it would be inviting destruction," he declared.

Lodge renewed Eisenhower's 1955 summit conference offer for mutual U.S.-Soviet exchange of aerial inspection against surprise attack.

"I am authorized to say," he declared, "that the United States is prepared to negotiate an open skies treaty with the Soviet Union... which would obviate forever the necessity of such measures of self-protection."

He promised proposals "at an appropriate future time" to eliminate "the danger of wholesale sudden death by surprise attack"—an apparent reference to Eisenhower's new broadened plan of U.N. aerial surveillance of all countries that would accept such inspection.

Influence Probers Conclude Hearings

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—House influence investigators wind up today hearings which Rep. Owen Harris (D-Ark.) says have produced evidence of improper off-the-record calls on Federal Power Commissioners.

Harris criticized "the way and the manner" in which Washington lawyer Thomas G. Tomney the Cork-Corcoran visited FPC members while they were pondering a client's case last fall.

That situation, Harris said, was as flagrant as any uncovered in his House subcommittee's investigation of practices in and before the commission.

The subcommittee today called for testimony from Melwood W. Van Scoyoc, a Washington consultant on public utility problems. Van Scoyoc was to be questioned about costs of utility services which might include big lawyers' fees.

Security Council In Session Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower presided today at a two-hour special meeting of the National Security Council. It was held one day in advance of Eisenhower's planned public tour of the summit conference collapse.

The White House declined to provide any information as to what was discussed.

However, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Monday that he assumed that the meeting would deal in part with Eisenhower's television-radio report to the nation Wednesday evening on the summit conference in Paris.

He will become a professor at large in the state University of California, a post shared by another distinguished scientist, Dr. Harold Urey, now at U.C.'s La Jolla campus.

Succeeding Dr. Teller will be Dr. Harold Brown, 32, deputy director. The change is effective July 1.

Longview In Big Increase

LONGVIEW (AP)—Longview claimed to be East Texas' fastest growing city of the past decade but was unhappy about its preliminary census report.

District director Paul Jameson said Monday the city's estimated population of 40,000, up from 24,502 in 1950.

It was the largest 10-year gain ever recorded by Longview and the largest numerical increase for any city in the East Texas area. City leaders, such as Mayor Clyde Tomlinson, were not happy about it.

"I am shocked and disappointed," said the mayor, "that the figure has not come up to our expectations."

Gregg County increased 7,771 to 69,029, compared to 61,258 in 1950.

Rockefeller Suggests Debate On Failure Of Summit Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has called for a national debate, free of political partisanship, on why the summit conference failed.

He said Monday Republicans and Democrats both were duty bound to "speak and act with a frankness and a responsibility transcending the conventional restraints and formulas of partisan behavior."

By implication, the governor's statement was an endorsement of Democrat Aglai E. Stevenson's call last week for a full discussion of the summit failure in Paris.

But it was also a rebuke to any who might seek political advantage from the collapse.

"I fervently hope," said Rockefeller, "that the Democratic party in its proper desire to get at the facts, will not engage in any shallow partisan effort to assign all error to its adversaries, all wisdom to itself."

"I hope—no less fervently for being a Republican—that Republicans will not try to disguise the present situation for equally partisan reasons. For it would be false and frivolous—and ultimately damaging to both nation and party—to dismiss sober criticism of specific American conduct as a peril to national unity."

The statement came less than 48 hours before a scheduled meeting of New York GOP leaders at Albany to consider their course at the Republican National Convention in July.

Among the items to be discussed is whether Rockefeller's name should be entered for the party's presidential nomination.

Rockefeller, who last December gave up a bid for the nomination in the face of overwhelming party support for Vice President Richard M. Nixon, noted that he had explained five months ago he intended "to speak plainly on national issues of serious moment."

He referred to the dignity of President Eisenhower in the face of the aggressiveness of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the Paris meeting.

Then he added: "The crudity of Soviet conduct gives neither reason nor excuse for denying that"

Mrs. Ryan Due Honors At College

At the commencement exercises to be held at Incarnate Word College in San Antonio on Friday, Mrs. Katherine A. Ryan will be honored with the degree of Doctor of Laws in recognition of her contributions in the field of religious and educational philanthropy; of her active support of education and civic improvement; of her dedicated community service; and of her leadership in the fields of business and industry.

His Excellency, the Most Rev. Robert E. Lucey, Archbishop of San Antonio, will confer the degree on Mrs. Ryan, and Major General William E. Shambaugh will give the address.

Although Mrs. Katherine A. Ryan was born in Emporia, Kan., she is claimed by Texas as one of its outstanding citizens. She is a member of the advisory board of Incarnate Word College, and has donated a child center to the college for mentally retarded children—this center, named after Mrs. Ryan, is now under construction on the campus. Mrs. Ryan's contributions are numerous, but among the most outstanding has been the building of a church and a parochial school in Snyder.

In 1958, Mrs. Ryan was the recipient of the first Aristotle Aquinas award, presented to her by the Catholic College Foundation comprising Incarnate Word College and Our Lady of the Lake College.

The conferring of the degree of Doctor of Laws degree on Mrs. Ryan will be the high point of the commencement exercises at Incarnate Word College, when 161 other candidates will receive academic degrees and honors.

Execution Due To End Chess Game

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A man sentenced to die in the Alabama electric chair is playing a game of chess he may never finish with a Houston geologist.

Cecil Lewis Tiner, 28, received his daily sentence for the "big make, no-fake" set for his execution, Monday morning, an Alabama sheriff's spokesman said.

His opponent, who opened the game of postal chess in April by moving his white king's pawn, is Blumenthal, 22, president of the Houston Chess Club.

Tiner wrote friend Cook, Houston Club secretary, from his cell at Kilby Prison Farm in Montgomery, Ala. He said he could play chess but was just a beginner. He asked for an opponent and some magazines on chess.

Cook turned the letter over to Blumenthal, who sent the magazines and started the game. The men have completed six moves each.

Blumenthal mailed a card stating he would play a year ago but no ruling has been made.

American Women May Have To Forget French Label Fad

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

America's worship of anything imported may sink the American fashion industry, says Oleg Cassini, designer, dress manufacturer and man-about-town.

"I expect my business to fall off one million dollars next year, just because of the hysteria of American stores over French copies," says the suave Cassini. "All over the country stores are displaying French fashions—some are copies of couture designs and others are French ready-mades. Within a month of the Paris openings you'll see copies selling for as low as $14.95."

"Some stores even have the nerve to ask well-known American designers, like me, to make French copies. That's the ultimate insult."

Cassini points out that U.S. stores now can buy French ready-made clothes at much less than they would cost here, even including import duties. And the glamor of a French label continues to dazzle the American public, even if it's sewed on a gunny sack.

Cassini announces that he is head of the American custom of following every new fashion label introduced in Paris.

No matter how ugly, grotesque and unflattering a new style may be, Americans rush to buy it and copy it. If it's first shown in Paris.

The rage for French labels is more widespread now than ever before, says Cassini. And if American designers don't take a firm stand he says many of them are going to find themselves out of business.

"The public can help, too," he says. "And, of course, some French clothes are becoming so common and so inexpensive all over this country, they'll soon lose their value as status symbols. That's when women will rush back to American designers—but it may be too late."

Worrying about old age?

Don't, advises Kathleen Donay, who is having more fame, recognition and excitement at 70-plus than she ever had before.

A little Dresden doll lady, pink-cheeked, blue-eyed and white-haired, Mrs. Donay is the widow of a prosperous New York real estate man and the mother of three happy and successful daughters.

Mrs. Alex Waller, wife of a West Coast doctor, Mrs. Oscar Caswell, wife of a well-known composer, and Miss Natalie Donay, a New York advertising executive.

But does Mrs. Donay live with any of her daughters? No indeed. She has her own apartment in Jacksonville Heights, Long Island, makes exquisite, historically accurate costume dolls and works two days a week as a volunteer relief teacher in the New York public schools.

One of the exhibitors in the recent hobby show for older people in New York, Mrs. Donay says she is so busy that she scarcely has time to make chocolate brownies for her grandchildren, as often as they would like them, says she.

"It's a shame when older people just sit and wait to die, trying to pass the time by playing cards or working crossword puzzles. There is so much that needs doing, and people are so grateful when you do it."

A former milliner, who had her own Fifth Avenue shop, Mrs. Donay retired from business after her children were born and devoted her time to the many duties of wife, housekeeper and mother.

But after her daughters grew up and after the death of her husband she looked around for something to employ her active mind and vigorous body, says she.

I was on a vacation at the shore when I met a woman who collected rare antique dolls. She showed me a particularly valuable one she had just bought. It was in perfect condition except for the hat, which was tattered. I offered to make a new hat for the doll in the covered period, and that was the way it all started."

Mrs. Donay discovered there were many antique doll collectors around the country, and started making miniature millinery for them. Then she had to have a doll on which to fit the hats, and bought a stock model. But the doll didn't look right unless she had a costume to match the hat so she started doing research on period costumes and ended up by dressing the whole doll. She now has a collection of about 50 dolls each in an authentic period costume, which has been a highlight of the hobby show for several years, says she.

"If I'm really inspired, I can finish a doll in a month. Otherwise it takes longer."

Among her collection are such characters as Camille and Eliza Doolittle of "My Fair Lady." Each is complete, down to the last ruffle on the last petticoat. Fabrics for the costumes are carefully selected from attics and old storerooms and often dyed to achieve the mellowed colors of age, says Mrs. Donay.

"When I finished Camille, I cried. She was so beautiful."

The two schools in which Mrs. Donay works as a volunteer are in the Harlem section of New York, and the pupils are all just darling, in the words of this active elder craftsman, who says:

"God has given me one great blessing—my love of children. On yes—she's going to work this summer as a camp counselor at Camp Madison, Felicia in New York State, on a volunteer basis, says she.

They've found that older persons can be a great help to the youngsters at camp. It's a new trend."

Pre-Schoolers Meet For First Instructions

Pre-school was held at Ira Saturday, Mrs. Agnes McCormack, teacher, acquainted the children with the functions and activities of school.

The Ira P.T.A. served a plate lunch consisting of sandwiches, pickles, crackers, cookies and chocolate milk.

Those attending who will enter school in Sept. were: Jerry Millhollin, Connie James, Debbie Sterling, Mike Kerley, Annette Erwin, Ricky Cox, Marsha Falls, Skeel Kimbrell, Bobby Stokes, William Rasco, Janie Roddy, Billie Jean McMeans, Linda Menges, and Debbie Autry.

...the proposed 5 p.m. meeting was a "preliminary" bout for the main attraction, a real bona fide summit gathering.

If the USSR spokesman continued over the still ringing phone, the meeting was a prelude, while the other three heads of state postpone it until say 5 p.m. That would give Chairman Khrushchev time to eat his luncheon. He had just returned from a jaunt in the country with his shadow, Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, and was wolfing hungry.

Figuratively speaking again, on the other end of the line at Elysee Palace sat Ike, determined not to give an inch surrounded by President DeGaulle and British Prime Minister Macmillan. They hopefully awaited a reasonable Khrushchev. They had gathered for a 3 p.m. summit meet to which President De Gaulle, as host, had issued invitations that morning for a gathering.

At 3:30, as the Western Bloc Three tried to settle down to work around the table, the phone rang again. Another right connection. This time it was a Russian Embassy man. The Russian Embassy was not to know and no nonsense. If the meeting in progress was "preliminary" or "summit."

At 3:25 p.m. the phone, still in fighting trim, converted a call from Elysee Palace to the Russian Embassy, requesting M. Khrushchev to replace the Russian Ambassador to replace the Russian Ambassador to De Gaulle's morning invite to the afternoon meeting now in progress.

At 3 p.m. the phone, in a frenzy of unaccustomed efficiency, triumphantly trilled again in the palace.

The U.S.S.R. Embassy was cutting it pressed for an answer to Khrushchev's confounding questions, apparently last night. Khrushchev's info into the sashlik.

meeting to solve the knotty problems of international harmony could get little work done.

Finally, the Big Three, even as you and I when the phone drives us out of the house, gave up by 4:45 p.m. The phone had done what Khrush had not been able to do — it had licked the Big Three.

They adjourned the meeting.

There is no thought of sabotage in the sudden efficient performance of the French phone; there is only general pride that this French institution rose so superbly to the historic challenge. There are rumors that the Croix de Guerre will ultimately be conferred upon it.

Charmed Ike's Life

Experts also say the day is here when electronics can carry on a business, starting with sales forecasting and ending with evaluation of the final product.

And looking still further ahead, the experts forecast that in the near future electronic computers will be making 80 or 90 per cent of industry's decisions. This prediction comes from D B Paquin, president of the National Machine Accountants Assn.

Marvels in control of the cycle from raw material to finished product are set forth by Gilbert E. Jones, president of the Data Processing Division of International Business Machines. They are backed up by S. E. Miller, vice president of American Bosch, who says his company already is saving $120,000 a year by using an IBM electronic data processing system without human interven-

Daysfrom's factory process consists of using a continuous group of electronic computers in an integrated system. The equipment is used to collect critical data at hundreds of points along the production line, perform speedy computation for human operators to make decisions.

Its second function is to start up, operate and shut down plants. It can either follow the routine of devices and methods to solve problems—but only after human brains have told the machines what to do.

The trick in making a plant completely mechanical, according to Jones, is in designing and engineering a group of components into an integrated system. Such devices then can sense, signal, analyze and act.

The IBM management operating system starts in the front office by putting a customer's order on a punched card which can be run through computers for sales forecasting, materials planning, inventory management, plant scheduling, work dispatching and operations evaluation.

Bufs Clip Cats In Teenage Tilt

The Teenage League swung in to its opening play here at Towle Park last night, with a pair of Texas League tilts gracing the slate.

The initial game of the night found the Walter Hales Lumber Co. Bufs nipping the Optimist Club Cats by 1-0, that game being followed by a 3-3 deadlock involving the Grimmer Brothers Braves and the Scurry Butane Dodgers. The latter contest was called at the end of seven innings due to the previously specified time limit.

The Cats were able to pick up only a pair of hits off the offerings of Buff Robert Force, but 13 walks contributed to their run total. Meanwhile, losing hurler Jerry Owens was tagged for a total of eight base hits, three of which were gained by the Bufs' left fielder, Tommy Winters, including a fourth inning double. The only other extra base hit of the contest was a follow-up double in the same frame by Winters' teammate, third sacker Adam Romero.

In the nightcap, Albert Rainwater of the Braves turned in a no-hit job, although seven bases on balls contributed to his giving up of the three runs picked up by the Dodgers in the deadlocked contest.

Gerald Bullard went the distance for the Dodgers, giving up eight hits, including a double by Brave William Robinson.

Robert Stipe also bolstered the Brave cause with his three-for-four for the night.

Tonight's action will see the Rebels tangling with the Sports and the Cats taking on the Dodgers.

The line scores:

Bufs	033 51-12
Cats	215 61-9
Braves	102 100-3
Dodgers	200 100-3

Speedway Separates 'Sheep From Goats'

By DALE BURGESS

Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The 500-mile Memorial Day auto race still attracts probably the biggest paid attendance in sports. "And," said two-time winner Jimmy Bryan today, "it's still the track that separates the men from the boys."

Bryan is the only active driver with an Indianapolis Motor Speedway record remotely approaching that of the late Ralph DePalma. DePalma set the pace on 613 laps around the 2½-mile track. Bryan tops active drivers with 206 leading laps. Pat Flaherty of Chicago, temporarily out of action with injuries, has led 138 laps and Roger Ward of Indianapolis, last year's winner, has been in front on 130 circuits.

DePalma was one of a long line of colorful drivers who made the Speedway the world's series of auto racing. He led all but the first two and last two laps in the 1912 race, then pushed his disabled Mercedes around the finish line as the crowd groaned in sympathy.

Joe Dawson is listed as one of the 93 men who have led the 500. He was in front those last two laps in 1912 and never led before or afterward.

DePalma finally won in 1915 at an average speed of 89.24 miles an hour. Ward's record average last year was 135.857.

There are a couple of reasons drivers take awesome chances trying to grab the lead. One is that each leading lap is worth $150 in addition to the regular prize money of about $300,000.

For another, only one driver has ever been killed while leading—Bill Vukovich in 1948 when a couple of cars stacked up in front of him.

The track has taken 50 lives since it opened with a far surface in 1909. It was paved in 1910 and in contrast to the steep turns of such modern tracks as Daytona International Speedway and the Monza, Italy, Autodrome, the Indianapolis Motor Speedway still has the original gentle slopes of a little over 12 degrees—not much steeper than the turns on a super-highway.

Speeds have increased steadily because most of the 1910 brick surface has been paved and chasses, tires and engines have been vastly improved.

A first-time entrant hasn't captured the big race since George Souders won in his first start in 1927.

If Eddie Sachs wins from his pole position today, he will be only the seventh driver to lead both at the start and finish in 44 Memorial Day classics. The feat was accomplished by Jimmy Murphy, 1922; Tommy Milton, 1923; Billy Arnold, 1930; Floyd Roberts, 1938; Bill Vukovich, 1953; and Pat Flaherty, 1956.

The Farm League took the wraps off its season Saturday with the principal gimmick encountered being the scarcity of able-bodied duds to assist in unspooling scoring, etc. Which tended to reverse the wheels of progress somewhat due to

'Big Series Next Up For Tigers'

THE TIGERS FACE what has thus far been their sternest test of the year beginning tomorrow, as they take on Odessa Ector in the second round of the schoolboy playoffs.

There doesn't look to be a lot of difference between the two clubs, with the hitting strength comparable and Ector holding a slight edge in the won-lost column with its 16-6 mark as against Snyder's 15-12-1.

As a team, the starting Tiger nine is hitting at a .292 clip, while the Eagles are .284.

Comparative scores against common opponents mean little, but it is nonetheless interesting to note how close they tally out in this case. The one for question to both teams is Midland, a team which Ector engaged on four occasions.

The first two contests went to Midland by scores of 10-1 and 5-3, after which the Eagles bodied back later in the season and nipped the Bulldogs twice by identical scores of 3-2.

Things Are Looking Double Tough

INDICATIONS ARE that the upcoming series will be the three game limit, with the Tigers holding a paper-thin edge psychologically due to the second and third (if needed) tilts being set for their own Towle Park field.

A Snyder win in the first game would definitely "put them in business" series-wise, while a loss would be unfortunate but not necessarily disastrous. A healthy following of fans to Odessa tomorrow, complete with 11½ "encouraging" boots and bolters, could make the difference.

Odessa is quite a bit closer than the short-handed situation which developed.

Any and all pops (and moms) who would be able to help out in any capacity are urged to contact Hugh Nance, the league manager, and advise him as to which capacity he or she will be able to serve.

Snyder tangled with Midland in a mid-season double header, the Tigers dropping the first, 9-8, then coming back to win the second by 8-7.

As still another yardstick, the margin of district victories is close as close can be. Snyder winning out in the three team district 3AAA with a 3-1 mark, and the Eagles copying the 2AAA crown with 5 wins and a pair of losses.

Ector, one of six teams making up the district, lost single games to Pecos and Kermit, both in the early stages of the double round robin state, then came back in the home stretch to avenge the defeats. In the meantime they swept to twin wins over the remaining district members, which include Monahans, Brownfield, and Andrews.

Snyder swept its series against Mineral Wells, 19-1 and 8-5, a clean sweep being evident in the Ector-heretofore series, also, by 10-1 and 8-2.

Mineral Wells was the cross files. So grab the first crowd out, or, if you have aversions to flying, latch onto a pack mule or some such creature of burden and come on over.

See you there.

Sox, Indians Take Farm Encounters

Last night's firing on the Farm League front found the White Sox waxing the Athletics by a top-heavy 20-0, and the Indians following up by squeezing past the Yankees, 10-9.

Kirk Burks pulled off a one hit job in the initial game, a four inning affair called due to the 10-run rule. Tommy Browning picked up the sole Athletic hit of the contest, a second inning single.

Meanwhile, the Sox pounded Lonnie Gullstrap for 13 hits, including two-baggers by Ronald Potts, Keith Noble, John Thomas, and Burks.

Noble also picked up three-for-four to lead his team's plate onslaught.

Richard Townley registered the victory in the Indians' close call over the Yanks with Don Thompson suffering the loss.

Highlighting that game were the clouting of triples by the Indians' Benny Garrett, Darl Blythe and Clyde Wehrer. James Alexander and Donnie Thompson of the Yanks pounded out doubles to further their team's cause.

The line score:
Athletics 000 6-0
White Sox 204 2-20
Yankees 623 9-11
Indians 11 0 10 2-23
