Eight Thousand Shabby Veterans Parade In Silence As Washington Cheers

FAMED AVENUE SEES WEIRDEST MARCH OF ALL

Overalls, Faded OD's, And Dungarees Tell Story Of Futility

100,000 LINE STREET

U. S. Workers, With Pay Cut Coming, Give Loudest Cheers to Vets

BY ROBERT BARRY

WASHINGTON, June 7. (US)—It was no pretty spectacle your national capital witnessed tonight.

Eight thousand shabbily dressed men marched in the opposite direction their all but futile hopes must take.

They paraded down Pennsylvania avenue from the treasury to the capitol. They marched in silence. Their banners and placards proclaimed their purposes. They want a cash bonus.

To gain their ends, legislation must proceed from the halls of congress up the avenue to the treasury vaults, where the responsible heads of the government, assert there is a gaping void where a cash balance ought to be.

U. S. Workers Cheer

Federal clerks, apprised by the senate they must take a 10 per cent pay cut, stood two to five deep behind police ropes, applauding and cheering this strangest of all processions on a street famous in history for the glamour of them. Approximately 100,000 persons witnessed this tribute to a set, though sad, futility.

In blue overalls, in parts of old army uniforms, in dungarees and just plain, badly worn, baggy trousers they marched solemnly, doggedly down the broad thoroughfare. They tried valiantly to keep step, to present old company formations. The great majority succeeded.

Many Are Stooped

Some threw back their shoulders, drew in paunches, just as if a top sergeant had barked at them. It was no simple undertaking for many. Scores were stooped. Others appeared youngish and too erect to have served in a war 14 years ago.

They came from the cities and towns of the Atlantic seaboard, from the midland, from the far west. There was scant distinction in their physical appearance. Those who had coats wore them. The majority did not. Blue, tan and a sprinkling of white shirts, rolled to the elbows exposing dark, tanned arms predominated.

Caps Predominate

Some wore straw hats with khaki breeches, others battered felt hats showing ravages of weather but caps were most numerous. They were the traveling caps of this bonus expeditionary force, convenient for journeys in open trucks and freight cars, for shading the eyes against the sun and the glare of concrete highways.

Three drum and bugle corps of District of Columbia American Legion posts provided all there was of music and color for the parade which required about 30 minutes to pass once it was under way just as darkness was settling around the great white dome of the capitol.

The red and gold and silver trench hats of the drummers and buglers—the gaudy accoutrements of legion national conventions—seemed incongruous in those lines.

Keep Step Well

The drum beats enabled the bonus army to keep step with surprising competency. Some of the older boys whose stride has been shortened by age had their troubles. A few of the fat ones tried for a few blocks and then gave it up. Most all had trudged the five miles from their tawdry camps in Anacostia before falling into line in the shadow of the Washington monument.

Philadelphia, Johnston, Reading and a half dozen other Pennsylvania towns had contingents in the line. Camden and South Plainfield, N. J.; Brooklyn, Schenectady and other New York banners vied with those of Chicago and mid-West cities. The "Utah Bonus Marchers" and "North Dakota Veterans Want the Bonus" banners followed.

Portland, Ore., led the procession with six well-drilled companies, the lettering of whose banners revealed there was a sign painter in the delegation. Some of the other banners were marked in washing blueing on tattered cardboard.

Police Escort

Behind an escort of motorcycle police, headed by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, himself an A. E. F. veteran, came truckloads of news cameramen. Two parade marshals appeared. One was in aged tan pants and a brown shirt open at the throat. His companion was in khaki with an overseas cap perched on the side of his head. Here and there among the color guards—there were hundreds of American flags at the heads of companies—appeared uniforms of the navy and the marine corps. One marine top sergeant commanded a company of army vets. They didn't seem to mind. An Indian in full regalia was a Camden colorbearer.

There was no laughing, no jesting. Even when there were halts in the procession the men marked time and kept eyes front. They

Brilliant Public Defender Gives Up To San Francisco Police On Charge Of Directing Murder Of Aged Widow

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7. (UP)—His thin lips spread in a smile, Public Defender Frank J. Egan surrendered to police today on a charge of directing the alleged murder of a 67-year-old widow who trusted him as a son.

"Good morning, Julius," the one-time police patrolman who became famed and trusted as the brilliant defender of San Francisco's impoverished classes, said to Station Keeper Hiett.

Hiett was startled. For 60 hours, the defender had been hunted by motor car, boat, airplane, and on foot through northern California.

"Hello, Frank," was all he could say.

Egan was booked on an indictment charging him, Verne Doran, a convict, and Albert Tinnin, an ex-convict, with the murder of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes. He refused to give his fingerprints or permit a police photograph. He readily posed for newspaper photographers.

At the city jail his expensive clothing was taken from him. The man who had saved hundreds of accused men from prison was dressed in blue denim overalls and listed as "prisoner 154."

Egan and his attorney, Vincent Hallinan, refused to say where the defender had been hiding. They insisted he surrendered as soon as he learned the indictment was returned.

Hallinan did not comment on the asserted confession of Doran, which alleged Egan had ordered that Mrs. Hughes be knocked out, placed under the wheels of an automobile in her own garage and crushed to death. Mrs. Hughes, insurance man testified at an inquest, carried $12,-

FRANK J. EGAN

000 life insurance payable to Egan. "At the proper time," Hallinan said, "we will go into court and prove Egan's absolute innocence."

New Chilean Government Threatened by Mutiny

VALPARAISO, Chile, June 7. (US)—Strikes and naval mutiny today faced the revolutionary junta that seized the government Saturday as it strove to bring some order out of the chaos its announced radical-Socialist program of expropriation and nationalization has created.

Last night's reports that warships at Talcahuano had steamed out of harbor, refusing to accept the junta's orders, were confirmed today. The naval forces are not expected to intervene actively.

American business interests in Valparaiso are stunned by the junta's program, but are tactfully awaiting its realization in the belief that the traditional Chilean respect for foreign property will safeguard their rights.

Congress May Adjourn Next Week, Says Robinson

WASHINGTON, June 7. (US)—Congress may be able to adjourn next week, Senate Democratic Leader Robinson said today. He stated:

"I believe it may be found possible to adjourn by the end of next week."

He is far more optimistic than other leaders, who believe congress won't get away before July 1.

Four Bodies Recovered, 13 Missing, After Cleveland Hotel Explosion

CLEVELAND, June 7. (US)—The exact death toll in the explosion and fire which destroyed the six-story Ellington apartment building in downtown Cleveland was still undetermined late today.

Four bodies had been recovered and 13 other persons were missing.

Authorities feared that many, if not all the 13 might be found buried beneath the huge piles of debris caused by falling roofs and floors.

The bodies of the four recovered were those of Mrs. Anna Mitchell, 70; C. W. Werner, 68; Miss Cora Stokes, 60, and an unidentified man whose body was charred beyond recognition.

It was reported that the bodies of seven others had been seen in the ruins, but firemen denied this. They expressed the belief, however, that there would be other victims of the disaster.

Among the casualties were 53 persons injured, three of them seriously.

Mickey Cochrane, catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, and Ivan H. Peterman, sports writer for a Philadelphia paper, aided in the rescue work, bringing three girls down ladders to safety.

They were in their rooms at the nearby Hollenden hotel when the blast occurred that shook downtown Cleveland for blocks shortly after midnight. Within a few minutes, the building was enveloped in flames, trapping some of the occupants in their rooms and forcing others to jump for their lives from windows. Others were able to make their way down fire escapes.

Change of Mind to Have Effect on Congress, Roosevelt Says

DRYS ALARMED

Party Leaders at Odds As President Instructs Platform Writer

ALBANY, N. Y., June 7. (UP)—The letter of John D. Rockefeller to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler urging repeal of the 18th amendment will be a great help in getting action at the next session of congress so that in every state there can be a vote on the 18th amendment, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt said tonight.

The governor, expressing himself on the question of repeal for the first time since he became an avowed candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, indicated his support of a program that would bring the question of repeal directly before the people.

In a short statement, he said:

"I am very glad to read the statement by John D. Rockefeller Jr. It will be of real help in getting action at the next session of congress so that in every state there can be a vote on the 18th amendment."

HOOVER INSTRUCTS PLATFORM WRITER

WASHINGTON, June 7. (US)—President Hoover today gave final instructions to James R. Garfield and other Republican leaders who will help fashion the platform upon which he runs for re-election.

While Mr. Hoover was conferring with his advisers at the White House, there was growing dissatisfaction over the expected party declaration in favor of law enforcement and resubmission of the 18th amendment.

One prominent senator said the administration is afraid the convention may stampede and demand a plank for straight-out repeal. President Hoover might decline to run upon such a platform.

Alarmed at this growing sentiment against prohibition, dry leaders hastened here in a desperate effort to stem the tide. These included Dr. Daniel A. Poling, former head of the Allied Forces for Prohibition, and E. A. Van Valkenburg of Philadelphia.

They went into conference immediately with a number of senators, seeking a way to curb this feeling for a smashing party declaration against Volsteadism.

It was apparent that the conversion of John D. Rockefeller to the enemy was proving a severe blow to the professional drys.

SILAS H. STRAWN DEMANDS REPEAL

CHICAGO, June 7. (US)—From the lips of Silas H. Strawn, one of the nation's foremost captains of commerce, came a challenging echo today of John D. Rockefeller Jr.'s pronouncement against prohibition.

With the opening of the Republican national convention one week away, Strawn—a personal friend and advisor of President Hoover and a powerful factor in Republican politics—declared in an exclusive

New Plot on Mussolini Disclosed by Confession

ROME, June 7. (US)—A new plot to assassinate Premier Mussolini was disclosed by police today by publication of the confession of Domenco Bovone, "professional bomb-thrower," who charged that Italian exiles in Paris promised him $50,000 if he killed the dictator.

Paris anti-Fascists were also incriminated in the confession of Angelo Sbardellotto, 25-year-old anarchist, who police say, confessed to planning Mussolini's assassination after he was arrested Saturday near the premier's Rome residence with two bombs and a revolver in his possession.

Train-Auto Crash Takes Life of Oklahoma Man

GREENVILLE, Texas, June 7. (UP)—Homer Knappenberger, 50, of Earlsboro, Okla., was killed almost instantly here tonight when a truck and train collided at a grade crossing.

Knappenberger and A. R. Keys, also of Earlsboro, were riding on the truck, which was loaded with tomatoes they were taking back to Oklahoma. The victim was pinned beneath the truck when it overturned; Keys was thrown clear.

The train was a southbound Missouri-Kansas-Texas passenger train.

Illness Keeps Darrow From Appearing in Court

CHICAGO, June 7. (US)—Clarence Darrow, aged hero of numerous famous legal battles, was prevented from appearing in federal court today by a sudden illness.

It was an attack of acute intestinal disorder similar to that with which he was stricken in Honolulu where he was chief defense counsel in the "honor slaying" case.

Darrow is 75 years old and growing somewhat frail in health, but he was said late today to be recovering from the attack.

Oklahoma Supreme Court Salves 'Oppressed Husbands'

Abuse Of Divorced Man Arouses Sympathies Of Tribunal

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 7. (UP)—The male members of the human species may sometimes be the weaker sex, and as such they are entitled to alimony from their divorced wives, the Oklahoma supreme court ruled today.

As a result of the decision, George Barnett, whom the court found had been "a model husband," will receive $15,000 from Jeannetta Barnett, Creek Indian.

"We recognize full well the difficulties connected with the quarrels between man and wife, and that the wife very frequently is the weaker vessel," the court's decision said, "but sometimes we are bound to recognize that it is the other way."

Evidence showed that both the Barnetts had received land from the government. Mrs. Barnett's land had oil on it, and she became wealthy. Her husband helped manage her property.

They lived together for 15 years and had two children. Then trouble started, and Mrs. Barnett filed suit for divorce, alleging cruelty. Barnett filed a counter suit and asked that he be given custody of the children.

The court's sympathies were with "the oppressed husband."

It found that he had given 15 years "to keeping a Christian home together until broken up by the adulterous acts of the wife, and that he now found himself destitute.

"It seems just that the innocent husband should not, in addition to the grievous wrong done by the breach of the marriage vow, be wholly deprived of the means to support himself and children.

"It was clearly the intention of the legislature to allow alimony to a husband, and to eliminate distinction in favor of the wife and place both parties as nearly as possible on the same footing."

In another opinion delivered today the court also took the side of the "oppressed husband." This case, like the other, also involved a family of Creek Indians.

The court refused to set aside a deed by which Lola Arnold transferred one-half of her Indian allotment to her husband, James B. Arnold.

The court found that Arnold had taken his family to Kansas that the children might be educated, and had worked as town marshal at Caney, Kan., to support his wife and children, and was entitled to keep the deed which his wife had given him.

Involuntary Candidacies of Two Men For Governor Ensnarl Texas Politics

Friends of Wright Morrow of Houston and W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales Enter Names in Race

By R. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 7.—Interest in the campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor centered today in probable final disposition of involuntary candidacies of Senator W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales and Wright Morrow of Houston.

Petitions conforming to legal requirements to place the names of those two on the July primary ballots were filed with the party managers. The state Democratic executive committee may decide whether to accept the involuntary applications at its meeting in Austin next Monday. It is possible that either Hopkins or Morrow, or both, may request that their names not be entered on the ballots.

1930 Situation Recalled

This situation recalls a similar one of two years ago, when friends of Dan Moody, then completing his second term as governor, filed his application with the committee for a place on the ballots. Moody had been contemplating a third term candidacy, but decided not to make the race when his friend, R. S. Sterling, now governor and then chairman of the state highway commission, announced his candidacy.

Moody appeared before the executive committee and requested that his name not be placed on the ballots. James E. Ferguson, former governor and long-time political enemy of Moody, speaking before the committee, "dared" Moody to let his name go on the ballots. Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, also former governor and wife of James E. Ferguson, already was a candidate.

Hopkins Petitioned

The movement to draft Hopkins as a candidate had its inception in San Antonio where South Texans petitioned his candidacy, expressing a hope that friends of both Governor Sterling and Mrs. Ferguson, a candidate again this time, would center on the Gonzales man in a hope of eliminating bitter factionalism and strife from the campaign.

Friends of Morrow, son of the veteran presiding judge of the Texas court of criminal appeals—W. C. Morrow—decided to make an effort to "draft" him after a conference in North Texas attended by Morrow. Morrow served under Dan Moody, while the former governor was attorney general, as an assistant attorney general. For the past

'PRETTY BOY' ESCAPES AGAIN

Desperado and Pal Shoot Way Out of 'Hole'

ADA, Okla., June 7. (AP)—Ripping their way with machine gun fire through a posse which had surrounded them at a farmhouse near Stonewall, two men identified by officers as Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, much-sought Oklahoma outlaw, and his lieutenant, George Birdwell, escaped tonight in an automobile.

The pair fled in a shower of bullets from the posse. Officers expressed belief the two men wore bullet proof vests and other armor.

The officers, led by O. P. Ray, superintendent of the state bureau of criminal investigation, and Sheriff L. E. Franklin of Pontotoc county, were reported in close pursuit.

Hearing that Floyd planned to hide in the farm house preparatory to robbing the Stonewall bank tomorrow, Sheriff Franklin notified state operatives and the posse surrounded the house.

Franklin said the two men rushed from the house with the machine guns and mowed their way to freedom. The officers took refuge behind trees and returned the fire.

The men thought to be Floyd and Birdwell reached their automobile and sped away to the northeast, holding pursuers off with a fusillade of machine gun bullets.

Hoover Gives Thoughts To Dawes' Successor

WASHINGTON, June 7. (US)—President Hoover today is giving serious consideration to the selection of an acceptable successor to Gen. Charles G. Dawes who resigned as president of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to return to his private banking business.

As General Dawes is not to relinquish his duties as director until June 15, the president still has much time, but the impression is that he will make the announcement as soon as possible.

General Dawes will leave next week for Chicago. There he will devote his entire time to his bank. Today he was busy winding up his work with the corporation and plans to have his task completed by the end of this week.

Banker Cites Need for Adequate Control System

LOS ANGELES, June 7. (US)—"As a people, we have defaulted in our responsibility because we have been too ready to believe in Santa Claus and in the comfortable doctrine that things would be all right," Arthur K. Touching on the banking business, he urged the necessity of a more adequate system of control, both in the banks themselves and in their relation to the public.

BILL TO HELP NEEDY GIVEN SAFE MARGIN

Senate Gets Proposal For $2,300,000,000 Plan To Aid Jobless

216 TO 182 VOTE

Public Works Program Calls for Expenditures Of $1,200,000,000

By ARTHUR HACHTEN
Universal Service

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Speaker John N. Garner's $2,300,000,000 unemployment relief bill was passed by the house today by roll call vote of 216 to 182.

Authorizing $1,200,000,000 for a vast federal public works program to put thousands of men to work, the bill now goes to the senate where a wide variety of relief proposals are pending.

Loans Approved

As an emergency measure the senate banking committee approved a bill by Senator Wagner, Democrat, of New York, to authorize the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make loans aggregating $300,000,000 to states for quick relief to the destitute.

Passage of the Garner bill came after the house had killed the Hoover relief plan by voting down, 218 to 183, a motion by Representative Hawley, Republican, of Oregon, to recommit the bill with instructions to substitute the administrative plan.

Passage Foreseen

That the Garner bill would be passed became apparent earlier in the day when the house by a vote of 205 to 189 adopted a "gag" rule for its consideration.

Party lines held fairly firm in the showdown on the Garner bill in the house with the bulk of Democrats voting for the measure and Republicans for the most part voting against the bill because of the public works feature or provisions giving President Hoover a fund of $100,000,000 for direct relief as he deems wise.

Twenty-one Republicans voted for the bill, while only 10 Democrats voted against it. Representative Kvale, Farmer-Laborite from Minnesota, voted for the bill.

Increase in R. F. C. Funds

In addition to the gigantic public works program and "mercy fund" for the president to dispense, the Garner bill would authorize an increase in the capital of the Reconstruction Finance corporation from its present $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000.

Broad power would be given to the corporation to make loans to states, counties, municipalities and other political subdivisions for construction projects that will put men to work.

Loans also could be made to cities to meet any municipal problem, including refinancing of bond issues or for direct relief to the unemployed, it was explained.

Expand Limitations

The corporation would be empowered to advance loans to any private company furnishing adequate security and assurance that its loan was for employing labor. The corporation under present law is limited in making loans to railroads, banks, insurance companies and farmers' organizations.

Provision is made in the Garner bill for a five-day work week for

SENATE CUTS BUDGET BILL

Economy Program Wrecked During Session

WASHINGTON, June 7. (US)—The congressional budget-balancing act went up in one grand explosion today, as the senate slaughtered its $238,000,000 economy program.

After killing the $48,000,000 item for reduction in veterans' payments, administration leaders turned on the 10 per cent pay cut item—representing $121,000,000—and prepared to force through tomorrow the president's enforced furlough plan, in its stead, with another loss of $40,000,000.

Passage Predicted

This would bring the bill down to about $130,000,000.

Although the furlough plan was voted down today, through efforts of the coalition economy machine, by a vote of 47 to 36, missionary work throughout the afternoon by White House spokesmen had produced such results that its passage tomorrow, on a revote, was predicted tonight.

Meanwhile, Democratic leaders openly charged President Hoover with wrecking the entire economy program, blaming the collapse of the pay cut item on his desire to see his own personal plan go through.

One member of the economy subcommittee, which drafted the bill, was particularly bitter in his criticism, declaring the movement to be a matter of political exigency.

Turmoil Results

With the budget-balancing performance thus abruptly thrown into turmoil, senate leaders abandoned their plan to hold the body in session tonight until the measure was passed, and after seeing the mutilation of the $48,000,000 veterans provisions, surrendered to the inevitable and adjourned until tomorrow. An impelling force behind the adjournment also was the gigantic veterans' demonstration.

The veterans' slashes were voted down in one full swoop, 63 to 14, the opposition listing many senators who voted for the provisions in committee, and four of the six senators who drafted the legislation.

Leaders of the veterans' bonus expedition were active in the capitol throughout the day, seeking defeat of the slashes.

Six Die When Speeding Ambulance And Auto Crash At Intersection

COLLINGSWOOD, N. J., June 7. (US)—Because little Emma Bloemaker fell out of her crib and cut herself on her nursing bottle, six persons, including the baby, were killed today and another was seriously injured.

A police ambulance speeding at 60 miles an hour toward West Jersey Homeopathic hospital in an effort to save the life of the baby, who was thought to be bleeding to death, met a sedan traveling almost as fast at a boulevard intersection here, and the resulting collision spread blood and wreckage for 50 feet along the highway.

The dead were:

The 2-year-old baby, Emma Bloemaker, and her father, Richard J. Bloemaker, a jobless printer, father of six children, who was rushing his little daughter to the hospital.

William A. Rodecker, 19-year-old student at Georgetown university, his mother, Mrs. Mary Rodecker, of Perth Amboy, N. J., and his aunt, Mrs. Catherine Smith, of Keyport.

Patrolman John Knorr of Haddonfield, driver of the ambulance.

Patrolman Frank B. Tucker of Haddonfield, who was also in the ambulance, suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries. He was reported in a serious condition at the hospital.

The terrific crash of the two speeding cars was heard for blocks,

Baby Dies When Lovers Abandon Suicide Plan

LOS ANGELES, June 7. (US)—Mrs. R. Kanda, Japanese mother, today revealed a strange story of Oriental love, according to detectives. After having taken her 3-year-old daughter with her when she went away with her lover, she said, she and the man became conscience striken and decided on self-destruction.

They turned on the gas, but found the fumes unbearable and ran into the air, leaving the child behind. They went back, opened the windows and tried to revive the little one, but without avail.

J. Hatomoto, alias Kogi, Torrance rancher, was the man in the case, according to the woman.

Chicago's Shady West Side Hums As G. O. P. Convention Date Nears

Dismal District of Burlesque Houses and Speakeasies Scene Of Great Activity These Day

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

CHICAGO, June 7. (UP)—The Republican National convention one week away found Chicago's dismal west side humming with cheerful activity today.

The excitement and the hammer pounding centered on West Madison street, thoroughfare of burlesque houses, 25 cent hotels, speakeasies and the colorful Chicago stadium where the convention will begin next Tuesday morning.

Workmen swarmed through the vast structure, dusting off its 25,000 red painted seats, hoisting decorations, erecting platforms and installing telegraph cables.

A sewing machine operator named June Burlingame had by her side 23 miles of blue and yellow bunting which had seen better days. June and her helpers looked through all 23 miles for rips, after which other workers festooned it on the ledges jutting out from three balconies.

Platform Erected

Steel workers labored on the south side of the building, putting up a large platform with an iron rail around it. The rail, explained one of them, is to keep possible absent minded speakers from falling off into the laps of 1,000 newspaper men who will be clustered in front of the 2,300 delegates and alternates.

Another crew lifted flags to the ceiling 201 feet up, with pulleys. Two of the flags were 18 feet long. The 1,500 other flags were about the size of those which suburbanites erect on their front porches on decoration day.

An electric truck scooted over the concrete floor, carrying portable platforms and rows of seats from the stadium's storeroom. At one end of the hall stood a dozen loud speaker horns, looking like so many silver plated caps for oversized dunces.

Wires Installed

In the basement the electricians and carpenters stumbled over each other. The former were putting in $500,000 worth of telegraph sounders and complicated switchboard equipment. The latter were erecting long corridors of cubbyholes for the newsmen. Each room was lined with cardboard, was topless, dank and dark. Lights will be installed later, so that the workrooms for the press will resemble in most details the sleeping rooms in the "flop houses" down the street.

Throughout the building were signs which said "no smoking—no betting." President Sidney Strotz said they would be taken down before the Republicans assemble.

The Republicans have paid $31,000 for four days rent, the bunting and the carpenter work. That indicates, as June pointed out, that the business of nominating a Republican presidential candidate is expensive indeed.

Nominating the Democratic candidate at the other national convention 13 days later won't cost nearly so much because the Democrats will use gratis all the improvements paid for by the Republicans.

NO LIQUOR TO BE FOUND, SAYS CERMAK

CHICAGO, June 7. (UP)—Mayor Anton J. Cermak assured guests of the forthcoming national political conventions today that there is no liquor to be found in Chicago.

"Why, everybody knows there's no liquor in Chicago," explained the mayor, "and I guarantee the police won't find any here during the conventions.

"I'm pretty angry over reports that the Chicago police will assist federal prohibition agents in raids. The police will do no such thing. They won't be pestering any delegates and I don't want stories going out frightening the boys. If Amos W. Woodcock wants to find liquor law violations, he can start looking around in Washington where he is, and he'll find plenty to keep him busy."

Herriot Accorded Vote Of Confidence

PARIS, June 7. (UP)—Premier Edouard Herriot won an overwhelming vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies tonight after presenting the new cabinet's program for stern economy at home and friendly collaboration abroad toward solution of world problems.

The vote was 390 to 152, one of the largest majorities obtained by any cabinet in recent years.

Former Premier Andre Tardieu, who had been heckled when he spoke in unconciliatory terms regarding Herriot's cabinet, led the opposition to the new government.

Herriot's declaration of policy definitely disclosed that his government will not deviate much in foreign affairs from the program of the former right-wing cabinet. Although the new regime is drawn from the Liberal center and left wing, and supported by the Socialist party, the premier made only minor gestures toward liberalizing Tardieu's former policy in dealing with reparations and disarmament.

Houston Attorney Runs For Seat in Congress

HOUSTON, June 7. (AP)—Thomas B. Lewis, Houston attorney for the past 25 years, has announced as a Democratic candidate for congressman from the eighth (Houston) district of Texas, Charles Kamp, secretary of the Harris County Democratic Executive association, said this afternoon.

"Mr. Lewis mailed his filing prior to midnight Monday, and we received it today."

Daniel E. Garrett is the congressional incumbent. Another candidate is Joe Eagle.

Socialist Party Asks Places on Ballot

AUSTIN, June 7. (AP)—The Socialist party of America, which held its national convention at Milwaukee, Wis., today filed with the secretary of state an application for a place on the Texas general election ballots.

Norman Thomas of New York and Joseph B. Maurer of Reading, Pa., were certified as candidates for president and vice president, respectively, by Clarence Senior of Chicago, Ill., executive secretary.

PROUD DAD AT 72

WINDSOR, Ont.—Frank Winters, 72-year-old carpenter, stepped up to the city clerk's desk. "I want to make application for my old age pension," he said. "I qualified three years ago." The clerk made the necessary entries. "Now that that's over," Winters continued, flashing a proud smile, "I want to register the birth today of my fourth child."

LEGION MEET LAUDS PATMAN

Throckmorton Convention Raps Andrew Mellon

Special to The Record News.

THROCKMORTON, Texas, June 7.—The 13th district convention of the American Legion here Monday passed a unanimous resolution calling upon congress to enact the universal service act which provides for the drafting of wealth in time of war as well as men.

Other resolutions passed was one commending Wright Patman for his fight in favor of the immediate cash payment of the adjusted service compensation certificates. He was also applauded for "his meritorious service to the cause of honest government in forcing the resignation of Andrew Mellon as secretary of the treasury." Mellon was caustically referred to as the "chief plutocrat of America," and the "archenemy of justice, freedom and democracy."

A parade was conducted through the streets in the morning by some 400 legionnaires. Cyclone Davis delivered a memorial address to the convention at 11 o'clock. More than 600 ex-service men were present.

Texans Urge U.S. Economy

Sheppard Reads Petition From Houston

WASHINGTON, June 7. (INS)—A telegram signed by 7,770 Houston citizens was offered in the senate today by Senator Sheppard of Texas with the 22,000 words making up the signatures omitted.

The Houstonians declared:

"We implore our Texas senators and congressmen to join in securing drastic economy in government expenditures. It is our opinion the estimated returns from income taxes will not secure the expected increase due to the poverty of all the people, including thousands of the former rich. To balance the government budget we must put into effect the same economies found necessary in all lines of business.

"All business is imperiled by uncertainties over taxes and appropriations and the people are in fear of worse to come."

The petitioners urged that congress adopt an economy program and adjourn.

Seabury Report To Reach Roosevelt's Desk On Wednesday

NEW YORK, June 7. (US)—Governor Roosevelt will have in his possession tomorrow Samuel Seabury's analysis of the testimony of Mayor Walker before the Hofstadter committee as well as a complete transcript of the testimony and some 400 exhibits.

In these exhibits will be included the identity of the mysterious unnamed person to whom the mayor and the missing Russell T. Sherwood paid more than $82,000.

This will place it up to the governor to determine whether the identity of this person shall be made public, possibly at the public hearing before him to which the mayor is expected to be called. In his questioning of the mayor, Seabury was extremely careful to cloak the name of the person to whom, evidence indicated, Sherwood paid $75,000 and the mayor $7,500.

This evidence was introduced in Seabury's effort to show that the money which Sherwood gave was paid in behalf of Walker and that, in reality, Sherwood's million dollar bank and brokerage accounts were the mayor's.

Prison Break Aide Returned From Canada

DETROIT, June 7. (INS)—Harold Fontaine, under indictment in connection with the outbreak at the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., in which the warden was wounded, was returned to the United States today from Canada.

Fontine was spirited across the border from Essex county, Ontario, by deputy U. S. marshals who feared that an attempt might be made to kill the prisoner to prevent his making further disclosures concerning the prison break.

He was lodged in the county jail, and later will be taken to Kansas City, Mo., for trial on a conspiracy charge. Fontaine was accused by federal investigators of supplying guns and ammunition used by the rebellious prisoners. He secreted them in a barrel of shoe paste sent from St. Louis, they charge.

TRINITY CANAL JOB VETOED

Adverse Report Returned On Texas Project

DALLAS, June 7. (AP)—An unfavorable report upon the proposed canalization of the Trinity river from Fort Worth to the Gulf of Mexico has been made by divisional engineers of the war department, according to a bulletin received here today from Col. Warren T. Mannum, engineer in charge of the gulf division, headquarters in New Orleans.

Colonel Hannum's report follows, in part:

"It having come to the notice of the undersigned that you have expressed an interest in the pending proposition for the improvement of Trinity river, Texas, for navigation, you are hereby informed that the report thereon, authorized by act of congress approved July 3, 1930, has been made and is unfavorable to the improvement.

"The principal grounds upon which the adverse conclusions are based are the narrow widths, low banks, tortuous course and scant water supply of the Trinity river during critically dry periods, which make it physically unsuited for canalization.

"The cost of canalization to the federal government would be disproportionate to any benefits which might accrue to the local communities through the use of the inferior waterway which thus could be obtained."

John M. Fouts, general manager of the Trinity Canal association, organized several years ago to promote the navigation project, said an informal notice of the adverse report already had been received and that steps were being taken to appeal to the board of engineers for rivers and harbors.

Woman Delegate Demands Repeal Stand For Hoover

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 7. (INS)—Mrs. George H. Miles, delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention, today declared she would refuse to attend the convention unless President Hoover "immediately pledges himself to repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act."

Her stand was made plain in a letter she wrote to Daniel E. Pomeroy, Republican national committeeman from Englewood.

Mrs. Miles, who is president of the Women's State Republican club of New Jersey, asserted her election as delegate-at-large resulted from a misunderstanding, and had she known she was not to represent the club, she would have removed her name from the ballot as she could never "pledge my personal vote for a candidate who has not definitely declared for immediate repeal" of prohibition.

Texas Vegetable Crop Shows Improvement

AUSTIN, June 7. (AP)—Marked improvement in growing condition of most summer vegetable crops was noted by the June 1 report of G. D. Clark, truck crop estimator of the federal-state crop service.

Digging of Irish potatoes in the Sugarland-Eagle Lake-Wharton area began in May and was at its peak on June 1, Clark said.

The May movement of tomatoes totaled in excess of 600 cars, mostly from the lower valley. There was a light movement of green corn during May, which amounted to 70 cars and came mostly from the lower valley.

Junior Forum Luncheon Honors College Girls

A rainbow luncheon, featuring rainbow streamers down the center of each table, huge varicolored balloons floating above them, and bowls of coreopsis, glads, thistles, day lilies, larkspur and roses completing the beautiful motif, was the background for the interesting program arranged to honor Junior Forum girls who have just come home from college at the Forum clubhouse Tuesday at 12:30.

Miss Mary Virginia Barron, president, opened the meeting with a charming address welcoming the home-coming members who were presented in turn.

Miss Marguerite Peery announced the junior activities for the summer. A bridge tournament will be given at the home of Mrs. P. P. Langford Friday afternoon and evening, the afternoon games to start at 2:30 o'clock and the evening games at 8 o'clock. A twilight tea honoring mothers of the members will be a pretty event at a later date. Announcement was also made of a short story, poetry, miscellaneous and play contest.

The program preceding the clever one-act play, included a piano number by Miss Geneva Taylor; a dance by Misses Janelle Eichelberger and Betty Hargett, two of the most graceful forum exponents of the terpsichorean art and a lovely song and encore number by Joan Fox.

One-Act Play

The clever one-act play, "Rousing Roberta," was laid in the living room of a modern home belonging to Roberta, a neurotic wife, and her husband. Miss Constance Clark was a splendid "Roberta" and Misses Margaret Staniforth and Mary Brown Basham were charming in the parts of Marion, Roberta's friend, and "Maria," the maid. The play was based on the usual triangle; Roberta's husband, who liked going about, was tempted by another fair lady who wrote him a note suggesting a party from which she said, "We won't be home till morning." The note was shown Roberta by her friend and roused her. She left with her husband, on pleasure bent, leaving a note for the prospective visitor who had intended taking tea with her before going out with her husband, saying, "We won't be home till morning." The short one-act play was presented with unusual cleverness.

Misses Margaret Staniforth and Constance Clark were presented as new members. Covers were laid for 75 members and guests for the delightful luncheon. Among the out-of-town guests were Misses Hazel and Katherine George of Iowa Park, Mrs. Dan Grieder of Austin, Miss Elizabeth Perkins, Petrolia, and Mrs. Seldon Hale.

The balloons used in decorations were afterward presented to children at the day nursery.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

June is the month ceded to weddings—"the month of brides," as they used to say. Then close on June, comes the period of vacation. On vacation, we have, each of us a right to his own opinion. Mr. Webster, who has set definitions for our words so far at least as those coined in the past decade, speaks of it as "An interim in work; a change of scene; a rest." There, in the last two words, lies our own opinion; vacation should be "a rest." It should refresh a tired body for the occupation of a new year; it should revivify a mind; it should leave spiritual peace.

We are not so brave as Peter Haick who wrote in the June Woman's Home Companion on "Enduring Marriage." There can be no set rule for enduring marriage; and so far as that goes, we have known the tie to endure when marriage in its true sense did not exist.

No two men or women are exactly alike—neither physically, mentally, morally or spiritually. No two people know one another before marriage, for there is no question but that in courting time, the best foot is put forward.

So mentally, morally, spiritually and biologically, men and women have to adjust themselves. And the success of marriage depends upon whether married couples are wise enough to know and practice adjustment. It takes long, long thought. We have known couples to marry who were incapable of long, long thought.

The theory of vacation is a different thing. Each person must settle vacation for himself. We have known people who stop the whirl of social activities at home long enough to go away to some popular resort where they were engulfed in the same whirl with a new set of people. And we have seen them come home refreshed.

We have known people who merely change work during their vacations. And they really enjoy it. We have heard husbands suggest to their working wives (how numerous they are), that they merely stay at home and rest. As if planning three meals a day, watching for dust on shining furniture, hearing the same discussions of the future and sleeping restlessly in the same bed, made a vacation.

Two things would make ideal vacations for us; one is a round trip on a Tennessee river boat—that is if the Tennessee river boats are anything like they were years ago. (Aha! we hear that anonymous writer say.) The other is quiet and cool, birdsongs and a little music and reading—with perhaps a game of bridge—decidedly not a party—far from our accustomed haunts.

It is almost a necessity to leave home now and then to have a full appreciation of it. A daily routine becomes dreadful to anything but the cattle species of man and womankind. And there's nothing bovine about us.

And before we close this column in which there is no information and which is intended to give none, we wish to thank the dozen friends who called us between 7:30 and 10 o'clock on the morning of June 2 about the anonymous letter we printed. The consensus seems to be that the writer of anonymous communications is not worth consideration. In our answer to it that morning, though we forgot to call attention to real information we gave in a column enclosed, concerning flies. But the writer evidently was not interested in flies. She was interested in seeing that we didn't have our picture at the top of our column—a thing furthest from our thoughts.

Particularly we wish to thank Mrs. P. A. McCurdy, who wrote from Longview—not to us, but to our editor—and who concluded the letter with "Let's have a life size picture of Mrs. Cason," though that was far from being the part of the signed letter we treasure. But don't worry, anonym, if you still seek information in this column. We have no vanity about our likeness.

Fowler Bible Class Junior Meets Tuesday

Mesdames G. D. Anderson and T. V. Wisely were assistant hostesses to members of the Fowler Bible class junior of the First Presbyterian church at Mrs. Anderson's home Tuesday afternoon.

A short program preceded the business meeting, when Betty Jo and Louise Robertson gave a charming costume reading. Dr. Geo. P. Horst made an inspiring talk on "What It Means to Be a Presbyterian."

Mrs. D. J. White, president of the class, presided in the business meeting when plans were discussed for future activities of the class.

In the social half hour following the meeting, delicious refreshments were served to Mesdames W. A. Ehlert, T. J. Griffin, C. A. Hall, W. E. McCarthy, R. G. Scott, D. J. White, G. C. McGown, M. B. Oates, L. C. Robertson, R. S. Shields, Dr. Horst and the two hostesses, Mesdames Anderson and Wisely.

Emily Post Suggests Business Qualifications

By EMILY POST
Author of the "Blue Book of Social Usage."

In answer to the many, many questions I receive from women in business, who seem to encounter endless "problems," I want to repeat that a woman who goes into an office because she thinks herself pretty and hopes to meet romance in the form of her employer or at least to rise quickly because of her physical charm, has clerkship and chorus work mixed. Sex is one thing that has no place in business. Much as man may admire a pretty or amusing woman in his leisure hours, in his hours of work he wants some one to help him with that work, and the more help she can give him the more he values her and the more salary he is willing to pay.

Naturally he likes one whose personality is attractive, rather than one who is strikingly the reverse, but business personality and leisure personality are two different things. They are some times combined in one person, and sometimes romance is an outcome of business, but so seldom as to be negligible.

Of course, every man likes a woman that is beautifully neat, competent, and polished, just as he likes a motor that is valve-ground and shining and ready to go any distance without boiling over. A successful business personality has as its first attribute—efficiency.

The ideal business woman is accurate, orderly, quick and impersonal, whether she is typist or manager of a great concern. By "impersonal" is meant exactly that! Her point of view must be focussed on the work in hand and not on her own reactions to it, or to any one's reactions to herself.

At the very tip of the list of women's business shortcomings is the inability of most of them to achieve impersonality. Mood, temper, jealousy, especially when induced by a "crush on" her employer, is the chief flaw of the woman in business. Her greatest handicap is her inability to leave her personal feelings at home!

Our Children

Play

"The trouble with Dick is that the only thing he thinks about is play. When I want him to study his lessons in the evening he is too tired. Any excuse is good enough. But when it comes to play you can't hold him. I've forbidden him to play ball until he gets a hundred in arithmetic but I can't see that he is improving and I'm all tired out struggling with him."

Did you ever try to hold a slippery fish that was trying to get back into the river? You didn't succeed unless you had a net or a bucket handy. You either let that fish go or you killed him. Something like that happens when you try to hold a boy of 10 from play. He has as much need of that ball game on the lot as the fish has for the river. You have just as much chance to hold him, too.

Play is the child's sincere desire for growth. It is not his own idea. That is, not his own in the sense that he created it. The play instinct is born in every child. Its satisfaction is as important to him as the satisfaction of any other major hunger. He needs play as he needs food and air and sunshine.

Play is not a waste of time. We have been too earnest about work in America. We have put it first even in the lives of our children. Play has first place in their lives. It is of first necessity. We have put a bad conscience in play so that whenever we take a day off we have a feeling of guilt. To do nothing but live for a day is a grievous fault with some of us. If it is too late for us to right that notion, and I do not give up yet, it surely ought not to be too late to get the idea right for our children. They are to be free to play their allotted time.

When should a child stop playing and turn to work? When his stage of growth demands it. That does not happen all at once. There is no day fixed for the change. It is a slow merging of the play spirit into the work motive. It comes gradually. You notice that the child works more and plays less. He gives away his cherished marbles. She parts with dolls that have been her heart's delight. Old interests are dropped and new ones taken in their places. Life takes on a more serious aspect and the old childish ways are lost. There will be an occasional glimpse backward as though the child took a last look at his childhood before parting with it for good. A girl will play with the dolls she has given to her younger sister, a boy will stop for a few whacks at the ball. But the old relationship is broken and it is not resumed.

It will not be necessary to tell the child to stop his play and go to work. Instinct tells him that and he obeys that voice without a thought of protest. It becomes his driving force. As it was in his play so it is in his work. If we provide for a healthy play life for the children we are setting the stage for a healthy working life. The one is dependent upon the other.

Try to look upon play as one of the necessities of a child's life and make rich provision for it.

Archie R. Taylor Weds Prominent Elk City Girl

A simple and beautiful ceremony united Archie Raynold Taylor of Wichita Falls, and Miss Julia Peeler in marriage Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Peeler, Elk City, Okla. The bride chose as her wedding day, the anniversary of her parents' wedding. John C. Carman, former pastor of the Second and Adams street Church of Christ read the vows before an improvised altar of palms and garden flowers. Sprigs of orange blossoms showered from a white wedding bell suspended over the couple.

Following the prenuptial music, the bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a white satin gown with long sleeves and fitted silhouette; her lace trimmed cap was trimmed in pearls and orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and valley lilies. She carried her mother's wedding handkerchief.

Mrs. William Clarence Lollar of Blair, Okla., was matron of honor and the four sisters of the bride, Misses Grace, Mary, Gordon and Monte Ruth Peeler, were bridesmaids. Raymond Taylor of Wichita Falls was his brother's best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left immediately for a wedding trip in Oklahoma City, the bride wearing a blue crepe suit with harmonizing accessories. They will be at home at 1717 McGregor street, Wichita Falls, after July 1.

Mr. Taylor is the son of Mrs. Thomas B. Taylor of Wichita Falls and is a young business man of this city.

WETS WELCOME ROCKEFELLER

Financier's Stand Throws Drys in Panic

interview with Universal Service:

"This country is numerically wet and no candidate for the presidency can be elected on a platform that does not give the people an opportunity to repeal the 18th amendment.

"Mr. Rockefeller's right-about-face from an advocate of prohibition to a champion of repeal will serve to stimulate organized opposition to the persistently intolerant drys."

Strawn, who has just retired as president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said he felt certain President Hoover would approve a "resubmission" plank for the party.

WETS WELCOME ROCKEFELLER TO RANKS

NEW YORK, June 7. (US)—Welcoming John D. Rockefeller Jr. into the anti-prohibition ranks as "our most powerful recruit yet," the leading wet organizations in the country united today in a joint effort to force the inclusion of a repeal plank in Republican and Democratic platforms.

Pierre S. Du Pont was elected chairman and Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, vice president of a "united repeal council," which will carry on the fight at the Chicago conventions. The council is backed by wet groups with a membership of more than 2,500,000.

Demonstration Planned

It was announced a mass meeting will be held at the Chicago coliseum on the evening of June 13, the day before the Republican convention opens. It also is planned to hold a nautical demonstration on Lake Michigan, an air review and an automobile parade to impress the strength of the wet cause of the delegates.

The enthusiastic response of the wets to Rockefeller's announcement, that he has lost faith in prohibition and now favors repeal of the eighteenth amendment, was matched in intensity only by the chagrin of the drys.

The New York Anti-Saloon league, in a statement issued on behalf of its board of directors, reaffirmed its faith in the amendment and asserted its confidence in the success of prohibition is "unshaken."

The statement did not mention Rockefeller by name, but it denounced the "hypocrisy" of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, to whom Rockefeller made known his change of convictions.

Reactions Varied

In other parts of the country, the reaction of the drys ranged from frank regret at losing Rockefeller's support to utter disbelief that he had so completely changed his position.

At the offices of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, where today's meeting of wet leaders was held, the prevailing view was that Rockefeller's sincerity and high motives in announcing his espousal of repeal would have a far reaching influence on public opinion throughout the nation.

The Rev. James K. Shields, militant superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon league, said:

"I am surprised that Mr. Rockefeller should take such a position. I don't believe he or any one else can prove by specific instances the truth of his statement about increased crime and general lawlessness. I do not think that Mr. Rockefeller's statement will have any influence."

Takes Courage

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, leader of the women's organization for national prohibition reform, said:

"I am delighted to learn that Mr. Rockefeller has come over to our side. It takes a lot of courage to admit the failure of a law one has supported. His statement will be a great disappointment particularly to those dry organizations which he has supported."

William Hale Harkness, of the family which has made tremendous philanthropic donations to universities and public welfare agencies, said:

"I am very glad that Mr. Rockefeller has changed his mind. I have long been convinced that repeal is necessary to the well being of the nation."

Mrs. Ella A. Bogle, president of the National Womens Temperance union, said:

"Before any one is in a position to criticize the eighteenth amendment he should suggest something better than prohibition for restricting the liquor traffic. Mr. Rockefeller is, of course, a very rich man, but he is only one. We have tried various forms of government control of liquor, and I say that prohibition is the best we have tried. Something better must be suggested before we consider a change."

Another Indication

Samuel S. Koenig, president of the New York county Republican committee, said:

"Mr. Rockefeller's declaration is just another indication of the reversal of public opinion regarding this matter. It makes it imperative that the Republican convention take some definite action along the lines which have been suggested."

F. W. Seward, superintendent of the New York State Anti-Saloon league, said:

"I think exactly as much and not a darn bit more of the opinion on prohibition repeal held by Mr. Rockefeller as I do of that held by Dr. Butler or ex-Senator Wadsworth. The wets are not running this country. They are sore because they were fired."

Murray Recalls Troops From Denison Bridge

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 7. (UP)—Gov. William H. Murray today called a truce in his "war" with "inferior federal courts" when he ordered national guardsmen withdrawn from the Red river bridge between Durant, Okla., and Denison, Texas.

Governor Murray called out the troopers when he heard that Judge John C. Pollock of federal court had refused to dismiss an application for an injunction to close the free bridge which parallels the Red river toll span.

The convention, to be known as a unity convention, will include the Farmer-Labor party, the Liberty party, the National Progressive party, the Blue Shirts, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

BOYS IN MANHOLE

BOSTON.—Three small boys went down into a manhole in Lynn to catch fish that had been swarming up Moore brook under the street. The manhole cover had been replaced while they were in the hole, and they were imprisoned. John Murray driving over the manhole, heard cries coming from under his car. He stopped, raised the cover and rescued the youths, who were in the last stages of fright.

Measure for Public Works Program to Senate

men employed on the federal public works program, so as to give employment to a greater number of men than would be employed on a five and one-half day week.

Loans could be made by the Reconstruction corporation for financing exports of wheat, cotton and agricultural products on long-term credits.

Gasoline Tax

A gasoline tax of one-fourth of a cent per gallon would be imposed to bring the government an estimated $40,000,000 in revenue to cover interest and sinking fund charges on loans for the federal public works program, so as not to jeopardize balancing the federal budget.

Democrats, augmented by a sprinkling of Republicans, scuttled the president's relief plan, which would have no federal public works program.

Under the administration plan, for which a fight will be made in the senate, the Reconstruction Finance corporation's borrowing ability would be increased $1,500,000,000.

Loans to states and political subdivisions would be limited to self-liquidating projects, but up to $300,000,000 would be made available for loans to states for unemployment relief in such form as the states, directly or through cities or counties, desired to extend it.

Aid to Farmers

To facilitate exportation of agricultural products $50,000,000 in loans would be made available for the federal farm board and $50,000,000 would be provided for additional loans to farmers' organizations for domestic use.

Twelve Republicans and the sole Farmer-Laborite voted for the "gag" rule, while eight Democrats, four of them from Nebraska, voted against it.

Under the rule only the ways and means committee, which meant the Democratic majority, was permitted to offer amendments, though the administration forces were given an opportunity to offer the president's substitute relief plan.

New Jersey Crash Takes Six Lives

But the light sedan, which leaped into the air from the force of the impact, burst into flames as it careened down the road, and the bodies of its three occupants were charred almost beyond recognition by the time they could be extricated from the wreckage.

The ambulance turned over several times and struck an iron pole. Roedecker, his mother and aunt were returning from commencement exercises at Georgetown university, where the boy was a student, when the accident occurred. The gasoline tank of their car exploded from the force of the collision.

Rescuers had difficulty in extricating the bodies of the six victims from the twisted wreckage of the two cars.

The Bloemaker baby was still alive when she was rescued, and was rushed to the hospital, where she died from a fractured skull.

Veterans Parade At Washington

scarcely spoke to the men alongside them in the formation of fours.

"Pay Bonus Now"

The burden of the appeal of the banners was:

"Pay the Bonus Now."

"We Want Cash," "Give Us What Is Due Us" and "Pass the Patman Bill" predominated on the banners and on the sides of passenger cars and trucks, many of which had come hundreds of miles to Washington.

In spite of late afternoon alarms over threats of Communistic disorders none developed. The lines moved with a genuine semblance of military precision. The halts were infrequent. The nearest approaches to excitement were protests from the watchers when street cars or camera trucks obscured the parade which held to the south side of the avenue.

A boy of about 5, in a clean white blouse and green pants, led a tiny brown pup on whose cotton blanket was inscribed B-O-N-U-S, evoking bursts of applause from women spectators. The youngster is living with his father, a Chicago veteran, in the B. E. F. camp.

William G. Smith, 40, of Cincinnati, one of the camp cooks, collapsed as the parade was forming. He had been ailing for several days. Physicians at the hospital said the excitement was too much for him.

Empty Stomachs

This army moved on empty stomachs. The men marched after a scant meal. They are being fed at an average cost of 3 cents a man per meal. Just before the parade formed, notice went forth from the senate committee on military affairs that no appropriation of $75,000 to feed and shelter the bonus army would be forthcoming.

Senators Capper, Republican of Kansas, and Copeland, Democrat of New York, constituted a subcommittee to consider the item in the army supply bill. They made no recommendation. Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee, did not present it to the full committee.

The marchers disbanded at the peace monument, at the foot of Capitol hill, and trudged back to southeast Washington, to camps where there may not be sufficient food to go around at the kitchens tomorrow.

Parley Opens to Settle Anglo-Irish Difference

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 7. (AP)—Negotiations aimed at eradicating the differences between Great Britain and the Irish Free State started today when J. H. Thomas, British dominion secretary, spent an hour and a half with President Eamon de Valera in the Free State government building.

After their conversation Mr. Thomas said he would leave it to Mr. De Valera to make any announcement, as the president served as host. An official communique said the meeting was preliminary in character.

The Record News Offers Booklet on Modern Manners

Teach the children the rules of etiquette. Good manners are an asset—bad manners a life-long handicap. This is one reason why children should have the advantage of early training in the practice of the little courtesies that rub off so many of the sharp edges of daily living.

The easiest and best way to teach the children manners is to set a good example yourself. Maybe you had better brush up on a few points.

The etiquette booklet which our Washington bureau offers is just what you need for this purpose. Send in your name and address, together with 10 cents in coin or stamps, and a copy will be forwarded promptly.

Strange Aspect of the Tax Bill

THE new tax bill is going to make things tough for gangsters. It gives the government the right to slap a 100 per cent tax on any profits that come from illegal activity, and hereafter the bootlegger or racketeer who marches in to pay his income tax is going to get an unpleasant surprise.

All of this, probably, comes under the heading of good news. We haven't had such distinguished success in our war on gangsters that we can afford to overlook any new law that will enable us to clamp down on them a little more effectively.

And yet, when you stop to think about it, the whole business is a little bit funny.

It constitutes, probably, the most roundabout way yet devised for sneaking up on criminals.

Here, in effect, is what we tell the gangster:

"Go ahead and put on your rackets if you like. Bootlegging, gambling, murder—try anything you please, for the chances are about 50 to one that we shan't be able to catch you, or punish you if we do catch you.

"But watch out for the money you make. If you come in to pay a tax on it, as the law provides, we'll take it all away from you. And if you don't come in at all, and we find out about it, we're apt to send you to prison for a few years."

To be sure, this roundabout method finally landed no less a man than Al Capone in the jug; and half a loaf, in an affair of this kind, can be a whole lot better than no bread at all. But it's a funny system, and if our famous American sense of humor were working properly we'd be laughing at ourselves night and day.

What it means is that the income tax law is about the only one we can hope to enforce.

Which, in turn, may mean that we are a lot more in earnest about punishing crimes against money than we are about punishing crimes against life or public decency.

Hitler: The Reason for His Rise

EVENTS are evidently moving rapidly toward some sort of climax in Europe. Hitler and his Fascists, after all, seem about ready to take hold of things in Germany, and what may happen after they do is a matter for pessimistic speculation.

Right at this moment, the principal moral of the whole business seems to be the way in which it all stems off from the treaty of Versailles.

Hitler is coming to power, not because he has any particular ability, but because he has been insisting, in season and out of season, that that treaty must be revised—and, if not revised, repudiated.

The crushing burden of reparations is to be borne no longer; nor will Germany continue to accept the treaty's assertion that she alone caused the war. Today's ominous crisis was made for us by the men who made that treaty.

The Senate Tax Bill

NOW that the senate has finally passed an adequate tax bill, a good many people are raising their voices to ask why in the name of good government the job took such a long, long time.

The obvious reply, of course, is that the senate is an unwieldy body cursed by politics, and that the delay was chiefly a matter of sheer inefficiency and partisan obscructionism. But that hardly tells the whole story.

It would be more nearly right to say that the senate went slowly because it reflected the confusion of the country at large. There is no sign that the mass of citizens have at any time been in agreement on any phase of the taxation measure. A score of plans have been advanced, each enjoying wide support. The senate had to choose among them—and, really, when all is said and done it did a pretty fair job.

Minimizing the Chances

IT IS permissible to wonder just how far an international conference on world economic conditions is likely to get if all discussion of reparations and war debts is omitted, as this government has stipulated.

To be sure, there are several hundred answers to the great question, "What is wrong with the world?" And nobody seems quite wise enough to tell us just which one of them may be most nearly correct. Yet it seems fairly obvious that the reparations-war debts tangle is inextricably tied up with the general economic collapse.

Can the job of setting world business right be tackled properly if it be assumed from the start that reparations and war debts are strictly secondary matters? Maybe so; but it does seem as if such an attitude distinctly minimizes the chances for success.

SO THEY SAY!

Having for many years followed extremely closely the development of America's economic life, I have definitely reached the conclusion that the despondency now prevailing there has gone much too far.—Lord Rothermere, British newspaper publisher.

It is perfectly right that if a country has no money to pay its debts it has no right to spend the taxpayers' money on an armaments race between people who have all outlawed war.—Senator Henry de Jouvenel of France.

The Squelch Swelegant

Credit Lynn Norris with this one: Noel Coward is supposed to have been in a hotel dining room a table away from Lady Diana Manners. She leaned over and chirped: "Are you the author of 'Private Lives'?"

"Yes, I am," said Noel.

"Huh," huh'd Lady Manners, "not very funny."

Coward thought for a moment and then queried: "And are you the Lady Diana Manners who played the Virgin in 'The Miracle'?"

She nodded.

"Very funny!" was the snapper.

As If You Didn't Know

And one wag's thrust goes: "Joe Miller appears to be the favorite author of most radio comedians."

Romantic Note

Take it from Jimmy Starr, another of the Los Angeles capables, who made this observation while visiting the apartment of Eddie Buzell. Eddie once was married to Ona Munson.

On the Buzzell piano is a photo of Ona on which Buzzell himself inscribed: "To Eddie. This ought to be a lesson to you!—Eddie Buzzell."

Observation

Seen on the cash register of a Santa Barbara, Calif., hat shop:

To Trust Is Well
To Bust Is Hell
No Trust No Bust
No Bust No Hell!

Merciless Truth

The Santa Fe rattler had paused for 15 minutes at Albuquerque, N. M., and dozens of fans collected about Dick Barthelmess for his autograph.

"It must be tough," said one towner, "to be bothered by people who keep asking for your autograph."

"It must be tougher," replied Dick, "when they stop asking for it."

Hehehah

The Boston Post's Mr. Bill Cunningham did an essay for his newspaper recently which he christened: "The Price of Fame."

In it, Mr. Cunningham discussed our sudden, but temporary, retirement from The American Scene, and depending mainly on the current legends, prepared a pretty gloomy paragraph.

Most interesting were these lines: "Within 48 hours the wolves had torn him to pieces . . . The pallbearers were standing by marking time."

So sorreh to have disappointed you all.

Of All Complaints

We have been accused of many things in our colyuming capacity but never before have we served as the target for an autograph collector's finger.

In Los Angeles, where we were convalescing from a mad desire not to work any more, a sissy who collected autographs on the side, cornered us. We jotted down our handle in haste and hurried on to catch up to companions.

The next day, however, we learned that the autograph gatherer had phoned Harrison Carroll, a colyumist, and urged him to scold us in print, for "being so cold" when he asked for the autograph.

If he had only said that he was a conversationalist!

Add Billies

Robert C. Benchley was ankling along the street brushing things off his sleeves. "I think," he was heard to groan, "I'll buy a Lint suit and pick up a little blue serge."

They Must Be "N. G."

At one of the radio stations the other day an announcer insisted upon telling his auditors that he was doing the announcing. Alf Friedman, the studio manager, crushed him. "Say," he thundered, "you certainly think a lot of yourself, don't you? Have you ever thought of calling the station by your name?"

"Yes," was the conceited one's retort, "several times—but I only have two initials."

Form of Criticism

Far be it from us to fingerpoint at the California prize-ring decisions after the offensive smell of the recent ones at Madison Not-So-Sq. Garden. But in Hollywood where there are no judges, only the referee, he usually lifts the arm of the fighter nearest him.

As a matter of fact, they said, once a referee out there lifted the arm of a "winner" while he was prone on the floor. After a recent decision which drew long and lusty groaning, Abe Roth, the referee, was cornered in a restaurant by Rufus LeMaire.

"Did you get your share of the loot?" Rufe asked sarcastically.

"I should say not!" barked Roth.

"Well," sneered LeMaire, "you should have!"

Ouch

A conceited actor, with a head so big he could put three phrenologists to work if he were inquisitive, was quietly eating a sandwich in one of those shoppes. Another actor and Fred Allen happened in, and after ordering, Allen's friend remarked: "Isn't that Gus Driffel eating over there alone?"

"Yeh," groaned Fred, who is a bit of a critic, "he's giving a banquet to his host of admirers!"

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

CHRIST'S HOSPITAL IS A SCHOOL—Christ's hospital in London was founded in 1553 by King Edward VI of England as a school for orphans. Its ex-officio governors are the lord mayor of London, the aldermen, and 12 common councillors. The institution is sometimes referred to as "Blue Coat School," from the curious uniform of its pupils which has survived to this day.

Many prominent persons who led England in the field of government, science and literature have been educated at Christ's hospital.

THE MILLION-HEADED FAMILIES OF CHINA—Among the vast multitudes of China there are no more than 400 surnames evolved from the original 100 families of the Bac, the original founders of the Chinese nation.

The bearers of the same name consider themselves as the members of a single family (Shin), applying to this conception all the limitations and privileges applicable to a family unit. In particular it is forbidden for two of the same name to intermarry, and there are other picturesque restrictions to make the lot of the married promoter very hard indeed.

China numbers approximately 400 million inhabitants. With the exception of the Wong family, which numbers four million members, it is figured that every Chinese family has no less than a million living heads.

THE WALKING KITCHEN—The Hindu Shaikia of Jaipur had spent most of his life undergoing the fire ordeal, a very meritorious sort of martyrdom for a Hindu Saddhu. The fire ordeal consists of sitting bareheaded in a broiling sun surrounded by five fires which add to the discomfort of the sitter. Shaikia then demonstrated a variation of the fire ordeal for the benefit of a European. He placed a burning coal brazier on his bare head and held it there until his frugal meal, a sort of Hindu gruel was cooked and ready to be eaten.

LISTS CLOSE IN WILBARGER

Several Democrats of Area Seek Offices

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, June 7.—With the curtain down on the period for filing for places on the primary ticket in district and state races, there will be competition in all legislative and judicial posts in the districts including Wilbarger county, according to announcement of O. T. Warlick, county Democratic chairman.

Ten candidates are seeking posts for which the filing period expired Monday.

Three opponents face Guinn Williams of Decatur in his campaign for re-election as representative from the 13th congressional district of Texas. They are George W. Backus of Vernon, W. D. McFarlane and Dillard Hinson, both of Graham.

District Attorney Race

In the field for state representative from the 112th district, including Wilbarger and Wichita counties are O. T. Warlick Jr., and Albert G. Walker, incumbent, both of Vernon.

Candidates for associate justice of the seventh court of appeals at Amarillo are A. B. Martin of Plainview, recently appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Hal C. Randolph, and Perry S. Pearson of Amarillo.

Ed L. Gossett and Jesse Owens are contesting for the district attorney's post for Wilbarger, Foard and Hardeman counties.

'JUST OUT'

Merchant's Entire Stock Of Goods Removed By Thieves

LAWSON, Texas, June 7. (INS)—S. W. Ewalt, Lawson merchant, opened the doors of his dry goods and grocery store for business this morning, but he couldn't have handled any business if he'd had any.

Ewalt never did carry a large stock of merchandise, but he didn't have any this morning. Burglars had paid him a nocturnal visit.

The stock was valued at several hundred dollars when Ewalt closed up last night, but today he didn't have a thing. There wasn't a can of sardines or a bolt of calico in the place. Nothing, in fact. The robbers apparently operated with a truck and took the entire stock while they were at it.

VERNON LEGION OPPOSES ARMY

Seige of Washington Called Unpatriotic

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, June 7.—Condemning the bonus march of world war veterans on Washington as "unpatriotic and revolutionary," the Albert E. Robinson post of the Vernon American Legion at a meeting here Monday evening passed a resolution urging all members of the legion to take no part in the activities.

The resolution, drafted by Post Commander R. M. Fielder, and formally approved by the legion, declared the "march of veterans of the world war on Washington demanding payment of the soldier bonus is unpatriotic and revolutionary in character."

Spanish War Veterans Of Oklahoma Elect

ENID, Okla., June 7. (UP)—Tom A. Brandes of Tulsa was elected commander of the United Spanish War Veterans at the organization's annual state encampment today.

Other officers elected were Fred T. Kirby, Ponca City, senior vice commander; A. H. Denham, Oklahoma City, junior vice commander.

Muskogee was selected as the next encampment.

W. J. Otjen, Enid, senior vice commander of the national organization, was endorsed unanimously for national commander in chief.

The encampment closes today.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

JOHN N. GARNER

WASHINGTON, June 6.—That favorite political sport of the hour, gossiping about the possibilities of a nomination deadlock at the Democratic national convention, might well have been influenced by the Garner letters to his Indiana friend, Joseph Leib, touching upon the Garner candidacy.

For if busy Jack Garner, backed by the nearly a hundred votes from Texas and California, does not now regard his hat as in the nomination ring, has no intention of throwing it there at a later date and is "very hopeful," as he said to Leib, "that the convention will be harmonious in every respect," what becomes of the deadlock possibility?

Guessing About Garner

Governor Roosevelt's leadership in state primary and convention returns for the Democratic nomination at the time the Garner letters were made public by Leib with the speaker's permission—do not overlook that—was such as to suggest a first ballot majority.

Roosevelt's supporters were claiming nearly 700 votes for him, 70 short of the two-thirds necessary to nominate.

It would be difficult to see how Mr. Roosevelt could be blocked without the direct or indirect aid of the Garner strength.

Every attempted forecast of a Democratic dark horse nomination counts on Garner as being at least in a receptive mood and willing to sit by, holding his strength intact, until through a wearing down process the Roosevelt drive faded and his own chance loomed.

Yet how can any such plan of action be ascribed to Garner in the face of his repeated declarations of absolute aloofness from his own boom, of his assertion to Leib: "I have no intention of throwing my hat into the ring"?

There has been expectation among some of Garner's friends that he would make some definite statement of his intentions as to the nomination if and when congress laid off for the pilgrimage to Chicago.

None of Garner's friends has ever gone further than to express a personal opinion. Most of them thought Garner would not be a candidate at Chicago.

Garner's freedom of speech in assailing Hoover does not suggest a candidate. More recently the speaker poker scorn at the senate, which is no way for a presidential candidate to talk.

A Jab at the Senate

When the house busted the sales tax idea, Garner said, the papers were full of leadership collapse tales, yet when the senate changed its mind on tax items two or three times a day, nothing was seen about "the senate running wild." Maybe it was better "story" making in the house press gallery, Garner said:

"Or else the senate has been that way so long nobody pays any attention to it."

Burk Celebration Plans Progressing

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, June 7.—Plans are rapidly going forward for Burkburnett's silver anniversary celebration on June 23, with each meeting of those in charge bringing out new successes in their efforts to stage a gigantic celebration.

Fourteen committees are working on finances, food supplies for the barbecue, decorations, concessions, communications with old-timers, the band contest and other phases of the event. These committees report enthusiasm and good cooperation among the citizens of the town.

About 5,000 pounds of beef has been donated for a crowd of visitors expected to total 10,000 persons on the day of the celebration.

Morrow and Hopkins May Refuse to Run

several years he has been practicing law in Houston.

Moody Called In

While the Morrow conference was in progress last Sunday, Moody was also in the North Texas city attending a conference of Sterling campaign managers. He was called into the Morrow confab.

"Wright Morrow is my friend," Moody said. "I told him I was committed to Mr. Sterling's candidacy. You have got to have an issue to win the governor's office and you must have an acquaintanceship. The only issue in this campaign will be responsible government. It is a race between Governor Sterling and Mrs. Ferguson."

It was expected that followers of Morrow and Hopkins would confer prior to the executive committee's meeting next week and reach a conclusion as to which, if either, shall push his candidacy. It was considered certain one would make way for the other, but there wasn't any assurance friends of one would follow the other.

Politicians around the capitol were wondering what issue or issues the Hopkins and Morrow followers contemplated bringing to the fore front.

Highway Wrangle

Interest second only to that stirred by the gubernatorial campaign developments was evinced in an indicated break between Governor Sterling and his highway commission.

It was understood that the governor had suggested to the commission that it drop its plans to build a cutoff from the Bankhead highway beginning at Weatherford and extending for 46 miles to a point between Strawn and Ranger. Considerable opposition from Mineral Wells and other communities developed to the proposal.

Testifying at Palo Pinto in a court proceeding instituted by opponents of the cutoff idea in an effort to block its construction, W. R. Ely, chairman of the commission, said that 'as long as I am a member of the highway commission, no governor is going to dictate to me.'

Ely and Governor Sterling have been long-time close political friends.

Al Smith Crowd Bases Hopes On Fight Over Naming Of Convention Chairman

Last Ditch Battle Promised as Brown Derby Faction Backs Jouett Shouse Against Thomas Walsh

By ROBERT ST. JOHN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, June 7.—Alfred E. Smith's political allies decided today to hinge their hopes of nominating the "happy warrior" on a furious fight over the selection of a permanent chairman of the Democratic national convention.

This was learned at conclusion of a strategy meeting of Smith's "war board," which spent four hours today behind closed doors in a smoke-filled skyscraper office.

"It will be a fight to the last ditch," said the spokesman of the group, Thomas F. Spellacy, Smith leader in Connecticut, as he outlined plans for a united battle to elect Jouette Shouse, executive chairman of the Democratic national committee, as presiding officer of the convention.

Ely to Nominate

He inferred the meeting had dealt with little else, except a decision that Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts would nominate Smith, and that Representative Mary E. Norton of New Jersey would be among the seconders.

It thus appeared the first test of strength between the Roosevelt and "stop Roosevelt" groups would come on this question.

The Smith forces were represented as feeling this issue would give them an ideal ground on which to solidify the opposition to the New York governor and prevent him from dominating the convention.

"Good Faith" Questioned

Shouse already has questioned Roosevelt's "good faith" in the recision of the New Yorker's forces to fight for the election of Senator Walsh of Montana as permanent chairman.

Senator Wheeler of Montana today countered by accusing Shouse of using his national committee position to aid in the "stop Roosevelt" movement.

A two-thirds vote is necessary to nominate a presidential candidate, but only a bare majority is needed to elect a chairman.

The Roosevelt leaders, claiming they will have 691 of the 1,154 delegates with them at the opening of the convention, expressed firm belief in their ability to elect Walsh.

To make certain, however, that no Roosevelt delegation will vote against Walsh, the question is being discussed with leaders in every state claimed for Roosevelt.

JAIL CONCERT

Federal, state and county prisoners in the Wichita county jail were entertained Tuesday night with "breakdown" and similar tunes by Abe Anderson, federal trusty, and Hugh Devers, federal prisoner. Devers played a guitar and Anderson handled a fiddle. The concert opened with a short period of entertainment for Night Jailer Sid Johnson in the jail office.

Store Held Liable For Injury Caused By Golf Stroke

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 7. (UP)—If a storekeeper invites a customer to play golf in his store and another customer accidentally breaks his jaw with a golf club while practicing to improve his driving the store is liable, the state supreme court ruled today.

The court upheld a $4,000 judgment given in Garfield county district court to George L. Clevinger, Enid, against the Champlin Hardware company.

Clevinger charged that he went to the store May 5, 1928, and received the blow on the jaw from another customer who was practicing on an indoor golf trap, called a "golfett."

Upholding the verdict, the supreme court found Clevinger "was hit on the jaw by a competitive swing of another man trying to improve his drive."

Brookhart Defeated In Iowa Election

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 7. (AP)—A new twist to the Iowa senatorial campaign was indicated today with apparent defeat of U. S. Senator Smith W. Brookhart in Monday's Republican primary by Henry Field, Shenandoah, seed dealer and radio station operator.

With 2,293 of the state's 2,435 precincts reporting, Field was about 45,000 ballots ahead of the veteran senate foe of "big business and Wall street." The vote was: Field, 188,765 and Brookhart, 137,386 with the other four candidates trailing far behind the two leaders.

Field, dry and endorsed by organizations supporting prohibition, apparently was to be opposed in the November election by Louis Murphy, Dubuque, Democrat, whose pre-primary campaign centered around the slogan, "I am wet."

MORROW WINS WIDE SUPPORT

Francis Tells of Plan To Draft Attorney

More than 100 community leaders from all over Texas participated in the Dallas conference Saturday, Sunday and Monday which resulted in the drafting of Wright Morrow of Houston as a candidate for governor, according to Charles I Francis of Wichita Falls, one of the leaders of the movement.

Mr. Francis, long a leader in the Democratic party, said several hundred telegrams had been received since the conference endorsing Mr. Morrow. The Wichitan returned here Tuesday. With Judge C. M. Smithdeal of Dallas and Gus Wortham of Houston, he issued the following statement:

"As a result of a series of conferences extending over the last three days a number of citizens from various parts of the state who are interested in the political welfare of Texas, decided to file with the Democratic state executive committee the name of Wright Morrow of Houston as a gubernatorial candidate in the forthcoming primary election.

Brother of Wichitan

"The response to the publicity given their efforts to find a suitable candidate for governor has been so encouraging as to leave no doubt in their minds that the people of Texas are weary of the strife and turmoil which such candidates for governor seemed determined to perpetuate, and that the electors will be glad of an opportunity to support for governor a man who is not identified with any faction, but who is a Democrat and a Texan, and who would be in a position, if elected, to consider and protect the interests of the people as a whole. Believing that Wright Morrow is such a man, we are urging him to become a candidate.

"Mr. Morrow was born in Hillsboro, Hill county, Texas, in 1892. He is a worthy son of Judge W. C. Morrow, presiding Judge of the court of criminal appeals. He has two brothers practicing law in Texas, Tarlton Morrow of Wichita Falls, and Wm. C. Morrow of Hillsboro. He has a sister, Mrs. Roger W. Guthrie, who lives in Houston. He is related, through his mother, to the Tarlton family, which has contributed much to the upbuilding of the state. Judge R. D. Tarlton, Mr. Morrow's uncle, was for years chief justice of the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth, appointed to that court by Governor Hogg, and after his retirement from the bench, was for many years and until his death, professor of law in the University of Texas. Mr. Morrow was educated in the public schools of Hillsboro and at the University of Texas. In 1916 he married Miss Genivevе Bowman of Hillsboro. They have two daughters, Genivevе and Nancy Morrow. Mr. Morrow began the practice of law in Hillsboro in 1914 and in 1919 he removed to Dublin, in Erath county. He practiced law in that and adjoining counties until 1925, when he went to Austin to become the law partner of Charles L. Black of Austin. When Dan Moody was elected attorney general, he chose Mr. Morrow as his first assistant. In 1925 Mr. Morrow moved to Houston, where he has since been engaged in the practice of law. He is now a member of the firm of King, Wood & Morrow.

"Wright Morrow is by virtue of his native education, experience and character fully equipped for political leadership in this trying time. He has the capacity for straight thinking and plain speaking. He has courage and ability of the highest order. He can and will, if elected, concern himself first and last with the interest of the people. We have reached a crisis in the political affairs of this state. Believing as we do that Mr. Morrow can be nominated and elected and that he can and will restore the state government to the people, we hope he will accept the challenge and announce his acceptance as a candidate.

"We call upon all those who are concerned about the present situation confronting the Democratic party and the people of Texas to join with us in this effort to secure an able and unselfish native son to accept this call and become a candidate for governor."

RUTH BRYAN OWEN WINS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 7. (AP)—With only six of the state's 1,263 precincts reported in today's Democratic primary, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, incumbent, was leading her wet opponent, Mark Wilcox, West Palm Beach, 92 to 84, for renomination to congress from the fourth Florida district.

Summer vines on a backyard fence at the residence of Henry Straw Jr., 1512 Polk, proved a hindrance for a negro prowler about 9 o'clock Tuesday night when Mr. Straw returned home to see the negro at a rear window. Heath and Diet Advice

Berries

Among the wholesome berries we find barberries, blackberries, blueberries, cranberries, loganberries, mulberries, raspberries, roebuck berries, service berries, strawberries and whortleberries.

Blackberries contain more magnesium than the others; cranberries more calcium and sulphur; huckleberries lead in potassium and phosphorus; and raspberries lead in chlorin. It is better to obtain the fully ripened berries so that no sugar is needed to make them palatable. The berries which do need the addition of sugar, such as cranberries, are not quite as valuable from a dietetic standpoint.

Strawberries contain a larger amount of iron, sodium and silicon than any other fruits or berries. The strawberry flavor appeals to every one, and it is better for one to use the fresh fruit rather than artificial flavoring in preparing foods. Strawberries, though an acid fruit, do not cause acidosis. In fact they are so alkaline-forming as to be a valuable remedy.

The Strawberry Rash

While strawberries are wholesome, it must be remembered that they are an acid fruit and should never be used with starchy foods, but should be eaten along with milk, non-starchy vegetables or proteins. They should never be used as strawberry shortcake. Wrongly combining strawberries with starches is largely responsible for their bad reputation of being poisonous to some people. Those individuals who break out after eating strawberries suffer from a toxic condition, and it seems that the strawberries actually speed up the elimination through the skin to such an extent as to cause itching or even inflammation.

Care should also be used in not using the other berries with starches. All of the berry pies and berry shortcakes, while exceedingly palatable, are unwholesome for this reason.

Berries of all kinds combine well with milk or cream and may be used in imparting a delightful flavor to many recipes which do not call for starch or flour. Below is given an excellent recipe for making berry ice cream. One may vary the flavor each time the ice cream is made, using strawberries one time, loganberries another, and so on throughout the obtainable varieties of berries.

Berry Ice Cream

Measure into a dish half the contents of an envelope of unflavored gelatin and add to it enough cold water to soften. Crush the desired amount of any kind of berries and mix thoroughly with a half pint of cream. Into another bowl put a pint of whole milk into which has been thoroughly mixed about half a cupful of honey and add to the berries. Next add the gelatin which has been dissolved over hot water. Stir all together and pour into freezer and freeze until of the desired consistency. The amount makes about a quart, depending upon the quantity of berries used. The amount of honey will vary, according to the kind of berries you prefer.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Pellagra

Question—Mrs. Myra I. writes: "I would like some information about pellagra. Can it be cured?"

Answer—The best dietetic treatment seems to be a short fast for four or five days followed by a well balanced diet as outlined in my weekly menus. In overcoming this trouble it is especially important that you obtain sufficient protein, such as meat, and also a sufficient amount of foods containing Vitman B2 which prevents pellagra. Some of these foods are whole grain cereals, milk, meat, green leafy vegetables, egg yolks, asparagus, dried lima beans, wholewheat bread, buttermilk, raw cabbage, carrots, canned corn, eggplant, fresh ham, lentils, oatmeal, oranges, parsnips, baked Irish potatoes, baked sweet potatoes, green peas, canned tomatoes, turnips, walnuts and yeast.

Catarrh

Question—Mr. E. Robert J. writes: "Just clearing my throat brings up little sacs of clear mucus. Do you think this is necessarily a forerunner of tuberculosis?"

Answer—The little sacs you mention are simply the exudation of catarrhal phlegm and cannot be considered the forerunner of tuberculosis. Of course, an extreme catarrhal condition may be good soil for the development of tuberculosis, but your problem now is to get rid of your catarrh, which you can do by living on a diet to overcome catarrh. I will be pleased to send you instructions if you will write to me again and enclose a large self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The plant will be operated under the supervision of Miss Grace Nelson, county home demonstration agent, and members of the local home demonstration club, and will be at the disposal of all citizens residing in the Munday trade territory.

A plan is being worked out whereby funds from the community chest may be used in the purchase of caps for those unable to purchase them, and a toll of all fruits, vegetables and meats left for distribution through the chest committee. The plant will be operated under the direction of a committee from the chamber of commerce composed of D. T. Mauldin, W. A. Baker and R. D. Atkeison.

Fears Felt for 300 Fishermen in Orient

TOKYO, June 7. (AP)—A dispatch to the Rengo News agency from Hakodate, Japan, today said grave fears were felt for the safety of 300 Russian fishermen and forty members of the crew of the Japanese fishing steamer Genzan Maru who have been missing since abandoning the ship yesterday off Karaginsky island, east of Kamchatka.

The Genzan Maru was bound from Vladivostok for the Kamchatka fishing grounds. It struck a rock Sunday in a dense fog near Karaginsky. Later it managed to pull free from the rock but was so badly damaged it was abandoned.

ANGLERS OF THREE COUNTIES PLEDGE AID IN STOCKING LAKES

ONEAL NAMES COMMITTEES

Each Lake's Funds to Go To Stock Own Waters

By FRED THOMPSON
Record News Sports Editor

Hopes of fishermen for a permanent source of cash with which to keep the big lakes stocked with fish came a step nearer realization Tuesday night when sportsmen of this section, meeting at the courthouse, paved the way for negotiations with the Waggoner estate relative to collecting the "stamp tax" on fishermen at the lakes.

Acting on authority given him at a meeting of sportsmen here last week, Ben G. Oneal, president of the local Izaak Walton league chapter, appointed a committee of representative sportsmen from Vernon, Seymour and Wichita Falls to carry on the negotiations. The committee includes Dr. Q. B. Lee and B. B. Greever of Wichita Falls, Judge I. O. Newton, Judge Jo A. P. Dickson, and E. L. Craddock, all of Seymour, and J. L. Showers and R. M. Fielder of Vernon.

Conference Asked

The committee was instructed to confer as soon as possible with Bob More of Vernon, representative of the Waggoner estate, relative to the stamp tax plan, which originally was proposed by Dr. Lee at the meeting here last week. It would tax each holder of a season pass to the big lakes $2.50 annually. Those male fishermen over 16 years of age not holding passes would be taxed 10 cents per day for fishing privileges. All of the money thus collected would be used to repair present rearing ponds, build and maintain new ones, and in other ways keep the lakes well stocked.

The committee was further instructed last night to assure Mr. More that funds collected at each lake would be used for the express purpose of obtaining fish for that lake. Thus money collected at Lake Kemp would be used to restock Lake Kemp, and funds collected at Diversion lake would be used to restock that body of water.

The committee is to notify Mr. Oneal as soon as it has conferred with Mr. More. The former then will call another open meeting of sportsmen to hear the report of the committee.

Cooperation of the Waggoner estate is essential to the plan, as otherwise it would be impossible to collect the tax. A stamp would be placed on each season ticket as soon as the purchaser paid his tax. This system would avoid confusion, and would let the fisherman know that his "stamp tax" money was to be used in building up fishing in the Wichita valley irrigation system.

Vernon Man Talks

A note of optimism pervaded last night's meeting after Mr. Showers, one of Vernon's committee members, said that in a recent conversation with Mr. More the latter seemed anxious to further some plan that would better fishing conditions in the big lakes.

"Mr. More did not tell me he was in favor of the stamp tax plan," Mr. Showers said, "in fact we did not discuss that matter at all, but he did say that unless something was done about the fishing situation soon, it would only be a matter of about two years until there would be no fish at all in the big lakes except catfish and carp. This led me to believe he, and the Waggoner estate, will co-operate with us."

Bill Lee, secretary of the local Walton chapter, reported a total of approximately $250 had been contributed by local sportsmen within the space of one week as the result of the "four bit" donation campaign started last Tuesday to raise a temporary fund to make much-needed repairs on rearing ponds at present in operation.

The sportsmen were gratified with the results of the campaign so far, and took steps to extend its activities to surrounding communities. Sportsmen from nearby cities pledged their co-operation, and beginning today fishermen outside of Wichita Falls will be asked to match the work of the Wichitans in boosting this fund.

Mr. Showers said he was confident Vernon fishermen could raise about $75. A. J. Cooper of Seymour said he would present the matter before a meeting of the chamber of commerce in his city today.

Seymour Ready To Help

Mr. Cooper also added the cheerful information that the Seymour Chamber of Commerce had included $50 in its next year's budget to be used in the interests of better fishing. Phil Mencke said he would try to open campaign headquarters at the Sheurer Hardware store in Electra, in the hope that Electra fishermen would assist in the campaign. L. L. Dougan and J. R. Boyd of Burkburnett said they would boost the campaign along in their city.

C. Fred Russell, president of the Vernon Walton league chapter, was present at the meeting, and participated in many of the discussions. He said a friend of his would go to Crowell some time this week in an effort to get the fishermen there to "kick in."

Sportsmen all over this territory interested in the cause may contribute their 'four bits' or any amount they desire, either through designated campaign workers in their city or directly by mail to J. W. Lee, secretary to the local Walton chapter, or to this newspaper.

The meeting last night voted that this temporary fund should be handled by the local Walton league chapter. President Oneal explained that the Wichita Falls chapter maintained rearing pond accounts at the local banks, and that money raised would be deposited in those accounts and would not be used for any other purpose than that designated by the sportsmen. Funds of the local Walton league chapter are kept in a separate account.

Committees Named

Two other committees besides the 'stamp tax' committee, were named by Mr. Oneal last night. A committee to determine, if possible, the cause of shortage of fish food in the big lakes was named as follows: Dr. R. H. Peterson of Wichita Falls, D. C. Harper of Dundee, and C. C. Parfet of Wichita Falls.

A committee to investigate the costs of building additional rearing ponds and making repairs on the ponds now in operation was named as follows: J. H. Cotton, J. E. King, J. W. Pond, Jim Robinson and G. Remington.

Curtis Harper, superintendent of the state fish hatchery at Diversion lake, opened the meeting with a discussion of how state fish hatcheries co-operate with one another in keeping each other stocked with fish.

Judge C. M. McFarland introduced a resolution calling for a rising vote of thanks to Al Parker, Daily Times sports editor, Henry C. Fulcher, managing editor of The Record News, and other employes and officers of the Wichita Falls newspapers for their co-operation in the present campaign to secure better fishing. The resolution passed.

NEW ELECTRA COACH NAMED

W. W. Gibson of Shawnee, Okla., Given Post

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 7.—The board of education at a recent meeting selected W. W. Gibson of Shawnee, Okla., as coach of the Electra Tigers for the ensuing year. Gibson has been coach at Healdton, Okla., during the past season and comes to Electra highly recommended. He will also be in charge of the high school manual training department. Gibson succeeds Harvey Stanford, who has been football coach for the past five seasons. Stanford resigned recently to accept a similar position at Matador.

The Tiger prospects for the 1932 season are not exactly "rosy" due to the graduation of Monty McDannald, Robert Cloninger, Arthur White and Eual Sandefer. However, several letter men remain to form the nucleus of the team. McDannald's sensational work at center will be hard to duplicate, and Gibson will have no easy time finding his successor.

Powell Defeats Noble-Little, 2-0

Phillip "Smokey" Powell, Wichita Hardware company fireball artist, let the hard hitting Noble-Little Hardware company nine down with only two scratch hits and hung up a well pitched 2 to 0 victory over little Willard Hillin Tuesday afternoon on Debus field. It was the second loss for Noble-Little and the second time this year that they have been blanked by Powell, his first shutout ending in a scoreless tie with Hillin.

First Baseman Alexander and Second Baseman Keith allowed Paul Whatley's pop fly to fall between them just back of the base line, and some daring baserunning turned it into a double. Doc Allen bunted one toward third which Willard Norris waited in vain to roll foul for the two hits off Powell. Powell and Hillin both whiffed nine men and walked one.

Powell started the winning rally himself when he stopped one of Hillin's fast balls with his ribs to reach first. Ralph Bracken drove him home, after he had stolen second, with a single, and took second himself on the throwin. Dewey Pigg made the lead sure with another sharp single that scored Bracken on a close play at the plate.

Hillin lost his second game of the year, but again was the victim of sensational pitching. At the same time he was pitching winning ball himself. Hillin allowed only four hits, two of which were bunched in the third. Score:

Nowlin and Cochrane Miss First Flight

DALLAS, June 7. (AP)—David Clark of the Dallas Cedar Crest Country club won the qualifying round of the annual Dallas Country club invitation tournament with his Monday score of 38-31—69. Although an estimated field of 110 golfers shot at Clark's 69 today, it withstood the pressure.

Jack Tinnin of Paris, Gus Moreland, Texas amateur champion from Dallas, and John Falconer of the country club clicked with 74 each. Moreland was out in 37 and home in 37.

Johnny Dawson, nationally known star from Chicago, qualified with Moreland and Falconer. He posted a 38-39—77.

Louis Nowlin, second low in the qualifying round of the state tournament and who went to the semifinal in the state and Fort Worth River Crest, failed to qualify in this tournament for the third consecutive time when he shot an 81. Tommy Cochran, former state champion, missed the first flight with an 80.

Matches in the first, second and third flights will start tomorrow with two matches scheduled each day until the final 36 holes Friday.

STATE P. G. A. MEET OPENS

FORT WORTH, June 7. (AP)—Derald Lehman, of Fort Worth, and Francis McGonagill, of Dallas, teamed together here this afternoon to win the pro-amateur event which opened the state P. G. A. tournament over the Ridglea course. They posted a best ball 69, two under par to lead the field by a single stroke.

Jack Grout, Fort Worth professional, and M. L. Massingill, Fort Worth veteran, came in with a 70. Dr. S. B. Miller, Fort Worth amateur and Smiley Rowland, Fort Worth professional, posted a 71, as did Clarence Fincher, Fort Worth professional and his partner, Ed Stewart, Fort Worth. Twenty-two twosomes competed.

Lehman and McGonagill played beautiful golf to win first place. A pair of deuces helped their count considerably and they had four 3's. McGonagill scored consistently most of the way and when he went over on the last 1½ holes, the former Central High school star came to the rescue with pars.

Twenty-five professionals registered for the state title play which will open tomorrow.

Shippers Whip Panthers, 8 to 5

FORT WORTH, June 7. (AP)—Manager Dick McCabe juggled his lineup and produced run getting results, but holding Beaumont was another problem and the Exporters battered out an 8 to 5 victory for a clean sweep of the two-game series here tonight.

A big second inning when five runs were scored gave the Exporters a lead and the Panthers were never able to head them. Score:

Natives Ahead In British Tourney

By FRANK H. KING

SANDWICH, Eng., June 7. (AP)—The younger school of British golf, led by Alfred Bradbeer, Eric McRuvie and Don Curtis, sent hopes soaring for a native victory in the British open golf championship today by leading the qualifiers at a record-breaking pace.

In the pack of 236 contestants were three leading American professionals—Tommy Armour, defending champion, MacDonald Smith and Gene Sarazen—and all the important older British professionals who have been unable to stem the postwar tide of American victories.

Bradbeer, youngest of seven golfing brothers from Somerset, won the qualifying medal with two par-cracking rounds of 70-71—141. The 23-year-old McRuvie, Scottish amateur and Walker cup star, and the equally youthful Curtis, professional from Bournemouth, broke the record at Prince's by two strokes as they blazed away at one of the toughest tests in Britain for 69s. Their cards were five under par and broke the old record, set by Jock Hutchinson, by two strokes.

I have been telling you of the great suit values and men's furnishings that I carry—now I must plead with you to come and buy this merchandise and here is why—Sunday Arch Taylor got married (he is the red-headed fellow you have seen in here for several years.)

He married a fine girl of Elk City, Okla., and will be back on the job Wednesday. So be sure to come in and give us your business as there is another mouth to feed now.

P. S.—Mr. Taylor thinks two can live as cheap as one. I've been married a long time and know different—but that's all right for him to think so (at least for awhile).

Waite Hoyt Is Given Release

NEW YORK, June 7. (AP)—The victim, he believes, of his own dietary discipline, Waite Hoyt's attempted pitching come-back with the Brooklyn Dodgers ended today with his unconditional release.

It was the second time within a year the veteran right-hander was made a free agent and may mean the end of his big league career after 14 years in the majors. He was let out this February by the Athletics, for whom he pitched the latter part of the 1931 season and one world series game.

Hoyt signed a Brooklyn contract with a promise to get himself into first-class condition again and settle down to consistent work. He assured Manager Max Carey he would turn in 20 victories for the Dodgers and put himself on a diet which soon became the rage in the Dodger camp at Clearwater, Fla.

The former star of seven pennant clubs reduced his weight 30 pounds only to find the loss in avoirdupois was accompanied by a decrease in stamina and effectiveness. He was knocked out of the box in Brooklyn's opening game. Since then he has started only three times. He quit the diet but still failed to improve. His only victory was against the Giants in a game he entered as a relief man. He was charged with three defeats.

MUNDAY AND ROCHESTER TIE

League Leaders Held to 7-7 Draw

Special to The Record News.

MUNDAY, Texas, June 7.—Munday and Rochester battled 12 innings to a 7-7 tie here last Sunday, the game being called on account of darkness. McGraw replaced Abbott on the mound for Munday in the third inning and held the Rochester league leaders to six hits and three runs the rest of the way. The game was an exciting one and umpires had a hard time keeping the crowd off the diamond in the hectic seventh inning when the score was tied.

Two other games in the Brazos Valley league were played Sunday. Rhineland defeated Sunset at Rhineland, 7 to 6. Errors cost Sunset the game. Chick Smith of Sunset fanned 19 of the 24 men to face him but misplays by his mates lost the contest.

At Bomarton the home team lost a decision to the Knox City nine, which is showing signs of recovering from a protracted slump.

Weinert forfeited to Gores. Weinert recently dropped out of the league.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 7. (AP)—Moderate opening advance in cotton was followed by reactions during today's trading under liquidation and some scattered selling promoted by favorable weather reports and the action of the stock market.

After selling up to 5.20 at the start, July eased off to 5.10, or 2 points net lower, but steadied in late trading on covering and closed at 5.14. The general market closed steady at net advances of 2 to 4 points.

Overnight reports from Washington disposing of the tax bill uncertainties, were considered favorable and may have helped the opening tone of the market. They evidently failed to stimulate much buying in view of the stock market action, however, while favorable weather reports and belief that the crop was making good progress probably brought in some selling.

General business was quiet during the greater part of the day, with the market correspondingly sensitive to small orders, and much of the July liquidation was in the shape of switching to later deliveries.

Futures closed steady, 2 to 4 points higher. Spot quiet; middling, 5.20.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 7. (AP)—Cotton was rather quiet today with prices fairly steady but without special trend. The market closed steady at net gains for the day of 3 to 5 points.

The market opened very steady owing to Liverpool cables coming in 3 to 4 penny points better than due. Private cables stated there was local buying and covering by shorts. Manchester cabled the market there was unsettled and the ballot on the proposed strike was indecisive.

The market was quiet most of the afternoon but rallied 4 to 5 points in late trading on favorable Washington advices and some improvement in stocks. July closed at 5.14, up 3 points net for the day; October closed at 5.36 up 4 points net and December at 5.52, up 5 points net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow unchanged to 1 penny point down.

Port receipts 5,016, for week 15,240; for season 9,741,048, last season 8,853,806. Exports 16,734, for week 67,002, for season 7,945,335, last season 6,264,482. Port stock 3,765,877, last year 3,187,686. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 73,409, last year 62,682. Spot sales at Southern markets 1,746; last year 2,252.

Futures closed steady at net declines of 3 to 5 points:

Futures opened steady, with July at 3.83d, Oct. 3.87d, and Jan. 3.93d.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, June 7. (AP)—Chicago cotton market was nervous today and held within a 10-point range, closing unchanged to 3 points net higher. The opening was 4-6 points up on better cables than due. Liverpool closed 3-6 points net higher. Prices advanced 7-8 points in morning trading and then lost most of the gain. Crop prospects are said to be fully up to normal and acreage reduction estimates point to around 7 per cent. Large sales of print cloth last week moved accumulated stocks.

Bonds Only Buoyant Factor Of Market As Stock Hopes Fail To Materialize

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 7. (US)—Whatever cheer might have been derived from today's markets came exclusively from bonds. Duplicating Monday's performance, the bond list closed fractionally higher on the average, while stock prices continued their decline.

The action of stocks was distinctly disappointing to those who had anticipated immediate response to the overnight news, including passage of the tax bill and the Rockefeller prohibition announcement.

Influence of such favorable developments apparently was overcome by continued slump in wheat, forecast of a further sizeable drop in unfilled steel orders, and the usual allotment of dividend items.

Wheat's sharp drop has come entirely unexpectedly. Its effect has been doubly noticeable because of the widespread feeling that wheat had definitely entered a stabilization era.

With such items combining with quite obvious continued liquidation in stocks, it was naturally difficult for the market to make any headway.

Firmness in bond prices provided genuinely encouraging development which, if it can be maintained, would overcome most unfavorable items in the current budget of good and bad news. The bankers' group officially announced that it had entered the bond market on the buying side, but this was not known until the market had closed.

Now that the bankers' group stands ready to make firm bids on blocks, the bond market for the first time enjoys the concerted support of the banking community. It is unreasonable to suppose that the banking group will attempt an actual supporting movement. Rather, its efforts probably will be directed toward absorbing any sizeable blocks of bonds for which ready independent bids are not available. In this way the bankers will attempt to revive general sentiment toward bonds. It is understood that a decidedly increased interest already is evident among investors in bonds. Unless some new disturbing influence develops, this interest is likely to expand. The banks could do much to stimulate a reviving bond market by communicating their more friendly attitude direct to their customers.

Within the stock market, Brooklyn-Manhattan-Transit continued as the most disturbing feature. The common stock slumped to a new low, off three points, and a flock of stories were broadcast concerning the fate of the dividend.

Weakness in the stock affected the entire list. It was reported that a large stock account was in process of liquidation, but such stories are common these days. They probably are true in numerous instances but the major incentive to the current selling probably exists in the general nervousness and uncertainties.

An optimist might argue that the present setback in stocks is a natural consequence of the rally last week. Actually, stocks must wait upon bonds for leadership; that is why the bond market constantly is emphasized here as the most valuable index to the future of stocks.

Even though stocks have acted disappointingly thus far this week, it must be conceded that genuinely encouraging developments have taken place in the general situation.

Washington has made a valiant effort to balance the budget. The bankers have begun to display a new spirit, commencing with their present endeavors in the bond list.

How immediate is the beneficial reflection of the Washington and Wall street attitude is best shown in the strength in dollars in foreign markets. The French franc today declined under the gold-export point. Gold shipments aggregating $21,000,000 were arranged for foreigners, but this movement presumably reflects the attitude existing prior to the budget-balancing revenue bill's passage.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 7. (AP)—Faced by prospects of bumper crops of spring wheat in Canada and the United States, wheat values today again outdid season low price records.

Retrograde action of securities counted also as a bearish influence on grains. Another weakening factor was evidence that although Canadian wheat export business had reached the huge total of 7,000,000 to 10,000,000 bushels in the last few days, demand abroad for United States was reduced nearly to zero.

Wheat closed nervous ⅝@1⅛c under yesterday's finish, corn ⅛@⅝c up, oats ⅛@½c down, and provisions varying from 7 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.

Absence of any big general demand here made it difficult to maintain rallies, the lower levels of prices failing to bring in the usual volume of investment buying. A reason assigned for this was an improved domestic winter crop outlook in some sections, with wheat reported ripening rapidly in the Southwest.

More rain in the spring wheat country Northwest was meanwhile regarded as basis for promise of a big crop both north and south of the Canadian boundary. Adding to bearish sentiment were authoritative unofficial estimates that on June 1 domestic wheat on farms amounted to 90,100,000 bushels, with 60,000,000 in country mills and elevators, compared with 43,900,00 bushels on farms and 52,800,000 in country mills and elevators a year ago.

Some improvement of shipping call here for corn was noted, together with a falling off in primary receipts. Oats followed wheat rather than corn.

Provisions were steadied by upturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July 50½@⅝c, 52⅝@¾c; Sept. 52⅞@⅝c, 54⅝@⅝c; Dec. 55⅝@⅝c, 57⅝@½c. Corn, July 28⅝c, 29¼@⅝c; Sept. 30⅝c, 31½@⅝c; Dec. 32⅛@¼, 32⅝@⅝c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, June 7. (UP)—Steadiness in wheat most of today was due principally to the knowledge that foreign buyers are willing to accept large qualities of Manitobas at prevailing prices. This tended to restrict selling pressure. It is worthy of comparison that on the sharp break to record lows in October, foreign buyers showed no disposition to take wheat. In fact, price declines in North America tended to restrict import demand at that time.

Two facts have been conclusively proven by the decline at Winnipeg. First that Europe needs quantities of wheat and second that she can buy large amounts. Throughout the year, though exports have been running ahead of a year ago there has been much talk of the inability of Europe to buy any quantity of wheat, owing to lack of credit.

Nat C. Murray estimates farm stocks of wheat June 1 at 90,000,000 bushels, and country mill and elevator supplies at 60,000,000 bushels, which figures compare with 44,000,000 bushels on farms and 53,000,000 bushels in country mills and elevators a year ago.

Rain which fell over Kansas the past week has caused improvement in some sections, merely checked deterioration in others and actually caused damage in some sections, the state department of agriculture reports.

Gasoline Jobbers Buying Heavily To Make 'Killing' On One-Cent Tax Hike

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., June 7.—The belief that only refiners must pay the new government gasoline tax of one cent on and after June 21, is causing hundreds of jobbers to flood midcontinent refiners with orders for gasoline.

Every order asks for immediate shipment. The flood of orders on the basis of current wholesale tank car prices has sent that market up from 4¼ to 4¾ cents a gallon to 5 to 6 cents. With prospects of further increases right along.

Refiners are expecting a hearing to be held Wednesday with the treasury department at Washington to rule that all gasoline sold to the public on and after June 21 must pay the extra cent a gallon tax, regardless of whether it is in jobber or refinery tanks.

An appeal is going out to refiners to not lose their heads and keep runs of crude to stills in hand so that after June 21 no marked slump in demand may occur to wreck the wholesale refinery gasoline market.

Advice To Investors

By Charles W. Storm—Editor of the "News Service of Wall Street"

B. C. Wichita Falls—Please furnish me with some information on Continental Oil. Is there any chance of the stock paying a dividend soon?

Answer—Continental Oil has materially improved its financial position and is expected to stage an impressive comeback. Company has broadened its scope of operations in recent years and is now a completely integrated unit in the industry, operating 11 refineries and crude oil properties. Products are distributed through nearly 2,900 bulk and service stations located in 38 states and Canada. It is declared April operations resulted in a profit for the first time in 14 months. 1931 deficit equaled $2.54 a share, as compared with profit of 5 cents in 1930 and $1.90 in 1929. Funded debt on March 31, 1932, totaled $10,557,000, as contrasted with $19,979,000 a year earlier. Current assets of $27,168,000 compared with $3,923,000 current liabilities. The issue must be considered speculative as dividend payments are not in prospect for some time.

F. E., Wichita Falls.—Please give me some information on St. Louis-San Francisco railway common.

Answer—St. Louis-San Francisco Railway company serves the southeastern and southwestern districts which have been adversely affected by poor economic condition. Moreover, the road has lost considerable oil tonnage to competing pipe lines and lumber is now transported in much smaller volume. Funded debt is heavy, comprising $300,000,000, as compared with $49,000,000 preferred stock and $65,000,000 common stock. A $2,372,274 deficit after charges reported in 1931. Has weak working capital position. Shares are highly speculative and lack attraction.

L. N.—Do you consider New York, New Haven and Hartford preferred a good investment at this time?

Answer—In March, at the annual meeting, President Pelley, of the New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R. company stated that "the dividend policy for 1932 will depend upon business conditions, earnings and the financial condition of your company." Dividends on the common stock were discontinued in the last quarter of 1931. For the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1931, the net income after deducting guarantees on separately operated properties was the equivalent of $16.76 a share on the 490,367 shares of 7 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock outstanding. In the first quarter of this year, net income declined $1,616,129, or about $3.30 per share of preferred, in comparison with net income reported for the first quarter of 1931, indicating that in the 12 months ended March 31, 1931, the company earned about $13.46 per share of preferred stock. The traffic and earnings outlook for the year is not bright, and if the present rate of decline continues, preferred dividends will not be earned in full this year. The company is not well situated financially, a recent statement showing that on Feb. 29, 1932, current assets amounted to $21,894,698 as compared with current liabilities of $25,876,503. Included in current assets was cash $8,859,522, and included in current liabilities were loans and bills payable $15,250,000. In view of the above, it is not yet possible to consider the preferred shares attractive even at current depreciated levels around 34. Uncertainty regarding the safety of the dividend may result in further liquidation and lower prices.

YOU CAN'T STING BEN

STOCKTON, Calif.—A nightstick is scarcely a proper weapon to disperse a swarm of bees, Officer Cassidy will tell you. Called to a parked car in which a swarm was improving each shining hour, Cassidy waved the nightstick vigorously. Then, detecting an air of belligerency among the little creatures, he suddenly remembered a forgotten errand and departed hastily. Some unknown hero subdued the bees with a box and a long pole.

NEGRO TRAIN FIREMAN SHOT

Illinois Central Employe Is Sixth Victim

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 7. (AP)—The lower Mississippi valley's strange war on negro railroad firemen has claimed its sixth victim.

Clarence Brooker, 42-year-old negro employe of the Illinois Central, was shot to death at his post yesterday as the freight train he stoked passed through Shandy, four miles from Bolivar, Tenn., officers said two white men fled after the slaying.

Four negro firemen previously had been slain mysteriously in Mississippi and one in Louisiana, within recent months.

Natchez, Miss., business men met there and urged action toward checking the killings when a negro fireman was assassinated on the streets a short time ago. Arrests were made in Natchez but the slayings have never been explained.

21 Indictments Voted By Jury

negro, Sunday afternoon from knife wounds received Saturday night.

Other indictments follow: R. W. (Buster) Canada, robbery by assault and violence in the futile jailbreak made here several weeks ago in which Night Jailer Sid Johnson was slugged and seriously injured and his pistol taken; Floyd Brown, theft over $50; R. B. Nichols, robbery with firearms in the theft of a yellow cab here May 30; two arson bills, one for theft over $50 and five for child desertion, in the last eight cases named the defendants are not under arrest.

Grand Jury's Report

The grand jury made the following report, signed by Foreman W. F. George, to Judge Martin:

"Now comes your grand jury for the April term of the 89th district court and respectively submits this their final report for the term.

"We have been in session eight days and have examined 145 witnesses, returning 61 true bills of indictment.

"We have met on the first Monday of each month during the three-month term, remaining in session long enough to care for the business that has arisen since the last month's session. We find this system very expedient and recommend that it be continued.

"We want to commend Sheriff Perry Browning and his deputies for apprehending some bank robbers recently and the resulting discovery of other crimes and clearing them up. We also want to commend the other officers, of the city of Wichita Falls, and of the county for their diligence in keeping crimes cleared up.

"We appreciate the work of our bailiffs and the efficient manner in which Sam B. Spence and his assistants have presented all matters to us.

"Wherefore we respectfully request that we be finally discharged."

Nichols Waives Extradition

R. B. Nichols, indicted Tuesday by the April grand jury for robbery with firearms in connection with the theft of a yellow cab here on May 30, is under arrest at Hot Springs, Ark., has waived extradition, and will be brought back to Wichita Falls this week, according to Perry Browning, sheriff.

The charge brought against Nichols by the grand jury Tuesday specifies that it is his alleged second offense. He was convicted in 1929 on a similar charge in connection with the robbery of the Spoonts Drug store on Van Buren and Tenth streets, and was given four years in the state penitentiary. He was discharged from the prison last Christmas eve, good behavior and recommendation of prison officials effecting a material abbreviation of his term.

The taxicab seized when Nichols was arrested at Hot Springs was stolen from Frank Smith, driver for the local Yellow Cab company, on May 30. A second man, said to have been Nichols' companion, has not been arrested.

"Bring 'Em Back Alive"

By FRANK BUCK with EDWARD ANTHONY

Dead animals mean nothing to Frank Buck—he brings 'em back alive! He hunts them barehanded; with snare and coil; in jungle, and mountainfastness, in wildest Africa, in darkest Thibet—but always he brings 'em back alive. Many of his living trophies can be seen today in the New York Zoological park, in the Lincoln park zoo in Chicago, in municipal collections all over America, in circuses throughout the world. He has crossed the Pacific 40 times, encircled the world five times, knocked out an orang-utan in fair fight, walked the width of Borneo, and delivered to the city of Dallas one complete zoo.

Buck has just obtained, in Singapore, the largest orang-utan ever captured. He asks the natives how they accomplished the capture. Buck has just witnessed a battle between a tiger and a buffalo. Buck's friend, Wendell, who works for a rich Indian maharajah, invites him to witness a cruel performance staged for the potentate's amusement. A tiger's claws have been pulled out.

For 18 exciting years, Frank Buck has been gathering live animals, reptiles and birds for American zoos, circuses, and dealers. He hunts them barehanded in jungle and mountain-fastness, in wildest Africa, in darkest Thibet—but he always brings 'em back alive.

He now tells about a 16,000-mile journey into the interior of Nepal to capture, at the order of Dr. William T. Hornaday of the New York Zoological park, a great armor-plated, single-horned Indian rhinoceros as rare as the unicorn of fable. He obtains help from General Shum Shere, a nephew of the Maharajah of Nepal. Buck's plans are frustrated by the Ganges river which is on a rampage. He starts back for Singapore. Later he returns to collect the rare rhinos the Maharajah has captured for him.

CHAPTER XI

And then the fun began.

The man in charge of the rhino camp was a Nepalese official, a pompous person who acted as if he was in the habit of giving orders to the maharajah.

He had joined us at Bilgange where I was amused by the Napoleonic attitudes he struck as he barked out trivial commands to the half-scared Gurka escort that accompanied him.

I was so occupied with thoughts of the closeness of my rhinos that I paid no attention to the fool. I thought his greeting needlessly gruff and I didn't see any occasion for his scowl but he seemed so unimportant a detail that I dismissed him from my mind.

He didn't lose much time asserting himself when we arrived at the rhino camp. His English was poor but he didn't have any trouble telling me, as I stood before the cages admiring my prizes, that he had taken care of the animals long enough; and that he would now turn them over to me and take payment for them. The animals were about as much use to me away up here in the jungle in these great heavy crates as they would have been in their original wild state.

It didn't take much imagination to see what would happen if I did this officious bonehead's bidding. He would break all speed records in vacating the camp; and with only Lal and Johereim to help me get two or three tons of rhino to the railroad yards in distant Raxual, I would certainly be up against it.

I flatly refused to make payment at the camp.

The American did not realize what he was saying. Would he be good enough to pay the money at once and not waste any more of the time of one of Nepal's busiest officials? As he said this he struck a military pose, doing his best to look like a field marshal.

My fingers itched. I never felt more like clouting a man on the nose. But that wouldn't have accomplished much. There were at least 30 Ghurkas in and around the camp and I had no desire to have their carving knives wind up in my innards. Some of them started crowding round as I snapped out my reply. I would pay for the rhinos when they were loaded onto the cars at Raxaul, and not a minute sooner.

This declaration was in reality merely a more emphatic version of what I had already told him. Nevertheless it had a strange effect on him. First he spat on the ground. Then he raised both arms in the air and waved them around frantically, to the tune of a series of shrieked exclamations which Lal afterwards told me were simply excellent cussing in the Nepalese dialect. Then he returned to his garbled English, capping his outburst by calling me a pig.

I said nothing. Again my fingers itched. But that was not my only emotion. I also wanted to laugh. In all my experience I had never encountered a more ludicrous ass. I stood there alternating between a desire to break his neck and laugh in his face. I wound up by doing the latter. What else could I do when this funny Nepalese, arms akimbo, poked his face into mine, and with what he doubtless considered a fierce look but which was merely a stupid glare, announced that he would give me five minutes in which to make payment? It was the best joke I'd heard in a long time.

My laughter was interrupted by a command to the Ghurkas from this comic-opera official who, I afterwards learned, was a major in the Nepalese army. He barked out something in Nepalese and the Gurkhas lined up in a ragged row behind him. They had an expectant look, like chorus boys waiting for their music cue.

The major, who had dropped back a few paces, beckoned to me to join him. I refused. Whereupon he pompously strode over to where I stood, the Gurkhas advancing a similar distance behind him.

Then the major, shaking a finger in my face, told me that I was a fool; that he was aware I had been instructed to bring cash with me; that he knew full well that I had this money on me; and that if I didn't pay for the rhinos at once he would be forced to take the money away from me.

This was going too far. A joke is a joke. Musical comedy soldiers have no right getting that fresh. I removed my revolver from its holster, turning it over in my palm for effect. Then I significantly stuck it in the front part of my belt where I could grab it quickly. I had no desire to fight the Gurkha army but I was perfectly willing to plug a few of these boys if they forced a scrap.

Needless to say, I did not want a knife and gun party if it could be avoided. I was in Nepal to get those rhinos and I knew enough about this country, which had no use for white men and excluded them, to know that a skirmish with the authorities would probably result in the confiscation of the animals. And, what with all those knives, there was a possibility of my losing more than the rhinos—perhaps an ear or an eye.

I mean to shoot only to defend myself. I stepped back a few yards, removed the pistol from my belt, fingered it again for effect, and put it back in place. Then, by way of emphasizing that I was ready for anything, I took some cartridges out of my pocket, ran them from one hand to the other a few times, and put them back in my pocket.

All the time I was trying to figure out a strategic move calculated to impress the major with my importance.

I started by telling him that General Shum Shere was one of my oldest friends. In Calcutta he and I were inseparable. I practically lived at his house there.

The major's widening eyes showed that I was making progress. I went on. And on.

How could I have secured special permission to enter Nepal if I hadn't been an old comrade of the general's? The general, in securing the rhinos for me, was merely doing me a friendly service. True, I was to pay for them; but little did he, the major, know how I had to plead with the general in Calcutta to get him to consider taking my money. Shum Shere had told me a hundred times that it was a small enough service to a friend to secure a pair of rhinos for him as a present. After all, Nepal was full of rhinos, and they were trampling the rice fields. They would all be shot as pests any how, so why not give an old friend a pair?

If he (the major) thought this was merely a business deal, he was sadly mistaken. My friend Shum Shere would hear of my abominable treatment. He would hear how the major had threatened to take my money from me by force. He would hear how—

But that was as far as the major would let me go. He was melting by the second. His manner plainly indicated that I had scored. If I had told him that I was in the habit of putting Shum Shere on my knee and playing with his whiskers, the major would have believed me. Raising one of his arms, he pleaded with me not to say anything to General Shum Shere. It was all a mistake. He (the major) understood he was to take payment here at the camp but if the American gentleman said no, no it was. I had him on the run. I saw no point in abandoning my hard-boiled tactics too soon. I would think it over. Perhaps I wouldn't say anything to Shum Shere.

He wanted a promise, a definite promise.

So I made one. I would not tell the general how badly I had been treated if the major would immediately start making arrangements to help me get the rhinos to Raxual. There he would have to load them onto the cars. Then I would pay him, and only then. And I would not tell the general that there was a major in the Nepalese army who deserved to be shot.

The major agreed with alacrity. He would help General Shere's good friend get the rhinos to Raxual.

I never appreciated the truth of Kipling's poem about the man who tried to hurry the East so much as I did during the days that followed. Most of my time during the day was spent with the rhinos, and some of the nights too. I made three or four trips back and forth between Raxaul and the rhino camp, traveling by elephant as far as Bilgange and from there either by mountain pony or in one of the rickety horse-drawn gharries. While waiting for the major to complete his arrangements (there were many delays on account of the red tape involved in securing permission for a troop of Gurkha soldiers to make the trip to Raxaul with the rhinos), I devoted myself to negotiating at Raxaul with the railway officials for the flat cars I needed for shipping the animals, and to a number of other important details involved in getting my valuable freight back to Calcutta.

By this time plenty of Nepalese must have known that I had considerable cash on me and I did not relish those trips at all. I now kept my revolver handy at all times, being called upon twice to scatter, with shot in the air, suspicious-looking natives in the underbrush along the road. But perhaps I misjudged them. Maybe they were only playing hide-and-seek.

More than once I thought the major was walking out on me. Every time there was a fresh delay I decided he must have discovered that General Shum Shere and I were not such great cronies after all.

But this was not the case. He was actually making haste, for a Nepalese. Finally he completed his arrangements and the rhinos started on the first stage of their 16,000 mile journey.

Vets Meet Today To Organize Bonus March

All veterans of the world war who are interested in going to Washington in an effort to secure payment of a cash bonus were asked to meet at the J. Mr. Allen said several cars had been secured for the trip, and urged that those desiring to join the bonus march meet today to complete plans.

Pupils of Eithel Allen Nelson Give Brilliant Program in Recital Here

Miss Merrel Strong, William L. Donnell and Arthur Davis Share Honors With Junior Violinists

By W. L. UNDERWOOD
The Record News Staff

Since highly successful and impressive student recitals by the Eithel Allen Nelson studio of violin have become a fixed institution in recent years, the audience of more than 400 persons which attended the 1932 year-end recital at the Junior college auditorium Tuesday night were not surprised with a program of outstanding brilliance. Their expectations were fulfilled.

As must invariably be true of student recitals, performances of the less experienced players which form the early part of the program are crowded definitely into the background by the finished accomplishments of more matured pupils. This is particularly true in recitals presented by the Nelson studios, for Mr. Nelson has been favored for several years with a group of unusually talented students who have responded remarkably to his coaching, and who invariably provide a recital-finale of near concert caliber.

Artists of Future

Yet the junior violinists, and less experienced students in the intermediate group, hold their place definitely on the recital stage. Through them there are revealed the stages of progress by which this year's beginner will be one of the "finale" players a few years hence. From the background which they form emerge the youthful artists who are honored with last places on the recital program, as were William L. Donnell, Miss Merrel Strong, and Arthur Davis Tuesday night.

This trio of matured students aroused to an enthusiastic and maximum pitch the audience-response which had greeted the entire program. Six other pupils, however, won similar honors in slightly lesser degree, for from the moment that James Hull was compelled by insistent applause to return twice to the stage, Misses Ferrel Brewer, Josephine Killough of Vernon, Harold Knox of Temple, Okla., Miss Roberta Lincoln and Peggy Williamson maintained an increasingly high standard of performance.

From the standpoint of audience response and critical analysis by musicians in attendance, Mr. Donnell and Miss Strong amply justified their assigned places at the conclusion of the recital. The two numbers given Mr. Donnell for presentation called for widely varied feeling and style. For sheer beauty of tone, intensity of feeling, and exquisite shading, his playing of the Mendelssohn-Achron "On Wings of Song" left almost nothing to be desired. The flawless legato of the widely-favored melody was a distinct compliment to the technique which Mr. Donnell has perfected, while the deeply romantic theme of the composition was admirably present in the choice of tempo, quality of tone, and skillful shading. His playing of Cecil Burleigh's "Ghose Dance," which is just what its name implies, was a brilliant demonstration of technical celerity coupled with a spirit of fantastic mischief.

Miss Strong held next to last place on Mr. Nelson's recital—held it and her audience from the first tones of "Serenade" (Drigo-Auer) by virtue of consummate artistry supported by beautiful command of both her instrument and her theme. Delicate lightness of tone used for delivery of the entrancing melody of her number involved no lack of depth nor intensity. The spirit of the serenade, as interpreted by Miss Strong, was one of entire serenity. Since stage presence and personal bearing are so much of a soloist's appeal, acknowledgment of her excellence demands acknowledgment of the grace and dignity which she personified.

Both Miss Strong and Mr. Donnell were put on their mettle by following youthful Arthur Davis, for this diminutive virtuoso who first thrilled a recital audience four years ago accomplished a thoroughly brilliant performance Tuesday night in the most impressive concert number he has yet been assigned—the finale of Mendelssohn's "Concerto in E Minor." After hearing the number, none could suspect Felix Mendelssohn of having written it for presentation by a violinist scarcely in his 'teens, for the concerto finale vibrates almost wildly with the verve of Mendelssohn's romantic spirit in full flight. The score comprises a heavy demand upon a matured violinist, for it calls for technical resources of intricate nature. In addition to a captivating portrayal of the movement from the standpoint of tone production, tempo, etc., the young recitalist again revealed a confident but genteel stage bearing which would honor many an accredited virtuoso.

Many Fine Numbers

With 25 compositions comprising the recital program, acknowledgement of the merits revealed individually by the various pupils becomes an impossibility. A review of the program, however, in terms of high lights could not be complete without mention of numbers played by Miss Killough, Miss Roberta Lincoln, Miss Peggy Williamson, Miss Brewer and Mr. Hull. Miss Killough imparted a large measure of real fire to the Mlynarski "Mazurka," and enunciated its intricate phases with pleasing clarity. Mr. Hull accomplished one of the richest tonal perfections of the evening in his playing of Spialek's "Alice." Miss Lincoln's "Caprice Viennois" (Kreisler) also was rich in feeling, and was played with commendable smoothness. Among the younger players, Miss Edna Earle Williamson on Olney and Jimmie Curtis of Frederick, Okla., contributed numbers of outstanding charm.

Other pupils presented by Mr. Nelson were Laura Jean Murph, William Goolsbee, Benny Hausler, Bobbie Brewster, Selma Louise Voelcker, Earl Frost Read of Nocona, Bobbie Cocanower, Bonnie Lincoln, Joyce Eason, Mary Elizabeth Kolb, and Dorothy Louise McPhail. Attired in their court costumes of red and white, the Louis XIV Court fiddlers presented two ensemble numbers under Mr. Nelson's direction as an opening group. They played with excellent effect Mozart's "Minuet" from the G Minor symphony, and Chaminade's "Scarf Dance."

Accompanists Tuesday night were Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, Mrs. Lucille Brooks Huff, Mrs. W. L. Underwood, Miss Fannie Noah of Olney, Miss Gwendolyn Voelcker, Miss Arline Murph, Miss Ellen Newby, Mrs. J. R. Gossett, Temple, Okla., and Mrs. J. W. Hill of Nocona.

C-C DIRECTORS PLAN SPECIAL

Wichita to Join Pampa In Rail Celebration

Launching of plans for operation of a special train to Pampa for a Wichita Falls delegation to join in the proposed celebration marking completion of the Pampa-Childress-Fort Worth and Denver City railway line extension marked the meeting of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

Julian Montgomery will head a committee to complete the plans and President Albert E. Kelly is expected to name members of the group at an early date. Tentative plans for a one-day trip and return have been made contingent on securing desired rates for the trip.

The new line to Pampa opens a direct rail connection for Wichita Falls with the large West Texas grain area in that section and will result in millions of additional bushels of grain flowing into Wichita Falls. The line affords a new connection at Wellington and the first direct line to Pampa and Shamrock. The date for the party has not been set. A feature of the local participation will be further advertising of the golden jubilee celebration here in September, chamber leaders said.

J. N. Sherrill was named as the chamber representative on the Wichita County Fair association board. Other appointments handled by the directors Tuesday included Mrs. Ben G. Oneal and Lester Jones as county committee members for Texas centennial plans in 1936, and Walter D. Cline and Julian Montgomery to arrange details of a delegation to Burkburnett for a silver jubilee party on June 23, which will include a band.

The board set aside $50 to be used in securing advertising for the Shrine caravan to San Francisco for the national convention.

Committee reports covering completed activities and outlines of projected retail merchants division plans also were heard at the meeting.

Suspects Grilled in Second Shreveport Theft

Efforts were being made Tuesday evening to connect three men arrested by county officers 10 days ago with another crime not heretofore reported here, according to Sheriff Perry Browning.

On Tuesday, Sheriff Browning received a telegram from Shreveport officers stating that the golf bag and clubs were believed to belong to a Shreveport man whose Studebaker car also was stolen about the same time as the Packard. The three men held here are suspected of having stolen both cars, and of having transferred the golf equipment to the car in which they chose to travel to Wichita Falls.

The trio of John Russell, Fred Smith and Travis Williams already have admitted a number of offenses in this area, and have been identified as the bandits who robbed the bank at Petrolia on May 18.
