Reds Nearing Kharkov On Three Sides

Allies Continue Slow Advances On New Guinea

More Japs Slain At Wau As Planes Pound Nip Bases

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Sunday, Feb. 14. — The process of whittling down Jap resistance in New Guinea on the approaches to the enemy's Huon gulf bases of Salamaua and Lae is continuing, with 32 more Jap dead added to the some 1,000 slain in recent weeks in that sector, the Allied high command reported today.

The latest casualties inflicted were against a Japanese patrol in the Wau area. That is the sector where the Japs on Jan. 30 attempted to capture an Allied airdrome and were rolled back.

Retreat Continued

Earlier reports this week told of the Jap force, estimated to have once totalled over 2,000 men, retreating toward Mubo which is only 12 miles southwest of Salamaua.

"Our ground forces ambushed and dispersed a patrol of 60 Japanese Marines of the enemy's rear guard near Wandumi," the communique said.

"Thirty-two enemy dead were found in the area. Our attack units bombed and strafed the Mubo area."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's noon communique also told of another three-hour harassing attack by an Allied heavy bomber on Rabaul, Jap base on the northern tip of New Britain. This practice has been followed almost nightly for more than a week against Rabaul which has vital airdromes and also an extensive harbor for Japanese shipping.

Fires Are Started

In each case, the bomber after cruising around has managed to slip in for a bombing. Today's communique mentioned the starting of fires.

Long range fighters sped along New Guinea's north coast in a strafing sweep, starting extensive fires at Madang and Finschhafen and destroying beach barges. Some of the fires at Finschhafen still were burning five hours after the attack.

Missing Plane's Crew Divulged

(By The United Press)

DALHART, Feb. 13.—The public relations office of the Army Forces Glider base here announced today that the twin-motor transport plane missing from the base since Wednesday carried First Lieut. Jules Christian Burke and Second Lieut. Howard Douglas Bankston.

Burke is the son of Walter B. Burke, Memphis, Tenn. Bankston is the son of Mrs. Howard Bankston, Americus, Ga., the announcement said.

On Routine Flight

The plane was on a routine training filght without destination, the announcement pointed out. A search is being pushed throughout northwest Texas and adjacent New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma and Kansas areas.

Army officers said they were still without clues to the plane's whereabouts, but indicated the search had narrowed to the mountains west of Raton, N. M., an area wild and difficult of access.

Heavy Nazi Attack Is Hurled Back By British As Artillery Attacks Rommel Rearguard

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Feb. 13.—British troops, clinging to their positions low on the slopes east of Ousseltia in Tunisia, hurled back a strong German attack, it was announced today, while to the south the British Eighth Army dueled with artillery patrols against the rearguard of Marshal Erwin Rommel's Africa corps.

Planes Strafe Nazis

Allied air force units bombed enemy guns northwest of German-held Sened and strafed German troops in tents in the Pont Du Fahs area without the loss of a plane as activity picked up in this theater despite continued cold, damp weather.

Planes of the Middle East command shot down one enemy bomber west of Bengazi, Libya, and reported one of its own planes missing.

In the hills north and south of the road between Pont Du Fahs and Robaa, French Algerian Spahis captured 53 Italian prisoners.

"Successful patroling was carried out over the whole front and many prisoners were taken," an Allied communique reported.

An Allied spokesman disclosed that "on the whole front there was more activity in the past 48 hours than there had been for a week previously."

Roads Improving

"The cold and strong winds are continuing, but dirt roads are improving for the motorized forces of both sides," he added.

The Italian high command reported in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press that Allied planes bombed and machine-gunned towns and passenger trains on the island of Sicily and in Calabria province on the Italian mainland. The same report said Axis bombers attacked Allied ships anchored at Bougie and Bone "with good results" but insisted that activity in Tunisia was limited to patrols.

(The German high command, in a broadcast communique recorded in London by Reuters, reported that the Tunisian front was quiet again because of bad weather.)

Slogans To Halt Rumors Outlined

The Office of Price Administration "has set up no machinery for rationing clothing," a telegram received Saturday by Lubbock district OPA offices stated.

"Apparel rationing is not in sight. Shoe rationing was not the first step toward apparel rationing," according to the telegram, which was received from regional offices at Dallas and contained information from Washington, D. C.

The War Production board has not directed the OPA to ration clothing, the message stated. The telegram said the needs of the armed forces are being filled and "we still have several hundred million more pounds of wool than we had when the Japs struck Pearl Harbor. Convoys from Australia continue to bring us more and more wool."

Three Slogans Given

The telegram suggested three slogans for patriotic shoppers: "Buy clothes only when you need them"; "Take care of the clothes you have," and "Speak the truth —stop ration rumors."

The telegram also reminded of the provision in shoe rationing that stamps are transferrable within a family group. A father's stamp may be used to buy shoes for children. If a child needs shoes after his stamp 17 has been spent and there is no other stamp 17 available in the family, his parents may apply to the War Price and Rationing board for a shoe certificate.

Newsprint Shipments From Canada Drop

MONTREAL, Feb. 13 (Canadian Press) — Canadian shipments of newsprint in January at 215,015 tons were 76,983 tons or 26.4 per cent lower than in the comparable months in 1941, the newsprint association of Canada today announced in its monthly report.

Canadian production amounted to 233,544 tons and was 78,360 tons or 25.1 per cent below January, 1942, the association reported. Production represented 63.1 per cent of 1942 capacity as against 66.0 per cent in December and 84.3 per cent in January, 1941. There was a corresponding increase in stocks held by Canadian manufacturers.

WMC Says 12,000 Men Are To Enter Service Each Day

Essential Job Said Only Deferment For Men 18 To 38, Regardless Of Dependents

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—With cold, hard figures, the top manpower officials told the American people tonight that 12,000 men a day must go into the armed forces this year and that no man 18 to 38 can be deferred, regardless of dependents, unless his work is essential and he is irreplaceable.

Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower commission, and Major General Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, disclosed the actual rate of inductions in outlining the draft outlook in a joint broadcast over the Blue network. Heretofore, this rate has been a closely-guarded secret but in the telling there was no comfort for the Axis.

Emphasizing the tremendous size of this mobilization, McNutt said: "In a week's time, we are putting into uniform seven full division—in a month, 28 divisions. This year alone, the number of men inducted will approach in size the entire American Army in the first World war." In depicting the induction in terms of divisions he referred to draftees for the Navy, Marine corps and coast guard as well as the Army.

Hershey summed this up as meaning "the great majority of the physically fit, except the farmers, between 18 and 38 years of age must go into the armed forces this year. It is most important that those who have jobs in our war industries be left until they can be replaced in order to maintain production. . . . The majority of men this year must come from those with dependents."

Statistical Picture

Statistically, the picture presented by these and past pronouncements was this: A total of about 22,154,000 men 18 to 38 with 14,000,000 to 15,000,000 able to pass military physical requirements. About 2,500,000 deferred for vital farm work and other highly important war jobs. About 11,200,000 in the armed services by the end of this year.

"The need for men has now reached a place," Hershey declared, "where we must be sure that no registrant is deferred if he is engaged in work which can be done by an over-aged man, one physically less fit, or by a woman."

McNutt said he was presenting the facts "clearly and frankly" because he believed the American people wanted the truth and they had shown "they can take it."

Wickard Plans Farm Aid Drive

U. S. Crop Corps To Be Organized Soon

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Secretary Wickard announced today the agriculture department would inaugurate a nationwide campaign late this month to enlist 3,500,000 urban residents, high school students, unemployed farm laborers and workers employed in non-essential activities, in a "U. S. crop corps" to help meet farm labor shortages.

The farm labor shortage was said by the secretary to constitute a serious threat to food production.

Two Agencies To Aid

Recruiting of volunteers will be carried on in towns and cities by the U. S. Employment service and in rural counties by the agricultural extension service.

Urban residents will be asked to agree, in advance of the planting and harvesting seasons, to work a certain number of week days, weekends or evenings. Volunteers, Wickard said, will be people "inspired by patriotic motives and the desire to see that a local crop is not lost by lack of labor."

The department planned also to import upward of 50,000 farm workers from Mexico to help with production of cotton, sugar beets, vegetable and citrus fruit crops in southern and western states.

HEAVY DROP IN FOOD SUPPLIES IS INDICATED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Senator Thomas (D-Okla) said today that a state-by-state check of farm production prospects indicated an average drop of 10 to 15 per cent this year in American food supplies.

"With Secretary Wickard demanding an increase of 30 per cent in food production above the 1935-39 level, you can see where

Is Hitler Dead As Reported? Veteran Writer Has Doubts, But Cites Queer Goings-On

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Louis P. Lochner, author of the following story, was chief of the Associated Press bureau in Berlin for 11 years and probably knew Adolf Hitler and the Nazi hierarchy better than any other American reporter. Interned after the German declaration of war in December, 1941, Lochner was released and repatriated last summer. He is also the author of "What About Germany?")

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Is Adolf Hitler dead as hinted at in various dispatches since Jan. 30, the tenth anniversary of the fuehrer's accession to power?

The goings on within the top-flight hierarchy of the Nazi party have always been inscrutable. Hence, flatly to deny the possibility of the German chief-of-state's demise would be unwise.

At the same time, the probabilities do not point in that direction. Hermann Goering was publicly designated by Adolf Hitler as his successor in his speech before the Reichstag on September 1, 1939, informing the nation that the war with Poland had started.

Many Goering Enemies

Now, Goering has many enemies among the big-wigs of his own party. By many of them he is regarded as not quite "safe" from an ideological point of view. The men in Hitler's confidence who are Nazis first and Germans second, don't believe that Goering is determined to up-hold Nazi philosophy at all costs.

It follows that Goering would have to seize power by a blitz movement before his enemies in the party could execute a counter move. There is no evidence that he has seized power. Also, a vain, expansive man like Goering would hardly refrain from telling the world that he is now the top boss.

One wonders, also, whether Joseph Goebbels as propaganda minister would let an opportunity of Hitler's death slip by without arranging for the most impressive obsequies ever staged in Germany. The virtual deification of the fuehrer would be just the sort of thing that Goebbels would regard as A-1 propaganda material for stirring up the nation to a last heroic effort to win the war.

Decidedly Queer

There is, of course, something decidedly queer about Adolf Hitler's failure to address the nation personally on the occasion of his tenth anniversary as chancellor. The mildest interpretation is that he suffered from one of his per-

Editors Learn War's Secrets

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—With each editor sworn to secrecy on a signed card, two of the biggest off-the-record press conferences in Washington history were held today as members of the American Society of Newspapers Editors learned about the war on the foreign and home fronts direct from the nation's leaders.

General George C. Marshall and Admiral Ernest J. King, top-ranking Army and Navy officers, frankly discussed progress and plans of the military effort for ASNE members.

Professional Ethics

In addition to the point of professional ethics involved, the editors each signed a little white card which said: "I understand that 'off-the-record' meetings of the society pledge me to secrecy regarding any confidential statements made before the society. Background information obtained from our speakers is not to be attributed to them under any conditions. An old rule on background is: 'I know it's true—but nobody said it.'"

Some of the material may be used as background for stories and editorials in the future, as war developments unfold.

Later the ASNE members took their material shortage and manpower problems directly to the men in charge—War Production board Chairman Donald M. Nelson, War Manpower commission Chairman Paul V. McNutt, Price Administrator Prentiss B. Brown and Director James M. Landis of the Office of Civilian Defense. Also on the program was Agriculture Secretary Claude R. Wickard. Here, too, the sessions were off the record.

Byrnes And Briton Speak

Economic stabilization and its probable effects on the industry took the spotlight tonight with Director James F. Byrnes of that office addressing the annual banquet. Colonel John Jestyn Llewellin, chairman of the British supply council, brought an account of how Britain's newspapers have coped with wartime crises.

Editors made it plain that their papers were pledged to continue printing news no matter how stringent the newsprint and other slashes might become. News, and especially war news, will be the last part of the paper to feel the knife, they said.

BLIND SHIP WORKERS

Food Hoarders Given Warning On Poison

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—A warning that some hoarders of canned goods may be poisoning themselves was posted today by the agriculture department.

Dr. Russell M. Wilder, medical advisor of the food distribution administration in the department, said that reports many housewives—who when rationing of canned goods starts must report their stocks—were buying canned goods and transferring the contents to glass jars, intending to claim them as home canned.

Most foods that are removed from cans, Dr. Wilder said, must be reprocessed before they can be preserved in glass jars and even then the products becomes a soupy mess with decreased food value and "may be unsafe to eat."

Amateur Removes Appendix Of Buddy On Submerged Sub

By WALTER B. CLAUSSEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 13.—Far below the ocean surface, not far from Tokyo, a U. S. submarine cruised about with just enough speed to maintain steerageway.

A white-shrouded figure lay on a table in the ward room mess. He was Fireman George W. Platter, 21, of Buffalo, N. Y. He was acutely ill with appendicitis, and an operation was in progress.

Tenseness lined the faces of the men clustered about the table and occasionally one raised questioning eyes to the youngster who wielded the surgical instruments. He was not a surgeon but a chief pharmacist's mate, Thomas A. Moore of China Calley, Ariz., and he never had performed a surgical operation.

For more than five hours he worked, and finally extracted the badly inflamed appendix. Platter was sewn up and taken to sick bay. A few minutes later the submarine surfaced to recharge its batteries but instead sighted and fired a torpedo into an enemy ship and then submerged again, under a heavy depth charge attack.

Details of the unique operation were reported today by the officers and men of the submarine Silversides upon return from a successful patrol of enemy waters. Platter, long ago recovered, was as fit as any member of the crew.

All Rail Lines Are Cut; Rostov Said In Flames

Germans Believed Getting Ready To Withdraw Forces

LONDON, Feb. 13 — Kharkov, Germany's defense hub for the entire eastern Ukraine, was within reach of Russian artillery from three sides and all its main railway communications were cut by Red Army advances pounding into the suburbs, two communiques recorded by the Soviet radio monitor indicated tonight.

The Red Army drove to the northwest of the city where the railway to Bryansk was cut 20 miles outside the city limits, and battered down barriers on the north, northeast, southeast and south where it advanced to within 22, 15, 11 and 24 miles respectively, the communiques announced.

Rail Lines Cut

Kharkov's main railway communications to the north and south and northwest were cut. Only three smaller lines branching to the west and southwest were left open.

The Russians also clamped a tighter hold on Rostov on the Don, where the Germans were reported to have applied the torch to the city in apparent preparation to withdraw their forces.

In a 35-mile drive to the southwest since capturing Belgorod, the Russians took Zolachev, only about 20 miles to the northwest of Kharkov, where they cut the Kharkov-Bryansk railway line for the first time, a special communique announced.

With Kharkov thus more than half encircled, the Russians smashed forward in an arc about the city, capturing Liptsi, 15 miles to the northeast, Rogan, 11 miles to the southeast, Kamennaya-Yaruga, 17 miles to the southeast and Kazachye-Lopan, 22 miles to the north. These victories were also announced in the regular midnight communique.

Tighter Net On Rostov

On the front menacing Rostov in a tightening net, the special war bulletin reported the capture of Novocherkassk, only 19 miles outside the city and the last large town on the railway to the north.

The cutting of the railway to Bryansk severed one of Kharkov's more important communication lines to the northwest.

The Red Army thus had penetrated the German winter line to a point almost directly north of

Bombers Pound France, Holland

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Feb. 13. — British bombers hit docks and factories on the coast of France and Holland in daylight today following the second successive night attack on industrial targets in western Germany.

An air ministry communique said Bostons and Venturas of the bomber command attacked docks and shipping at Boulogne and St. Malo, widely separated points on the channel coast of France, and iron and steel works at Ijmuiden, Holland.

Six Fighters Lost

None of the bombers was lost, the communique said, but six fighter planes accompanying the formations were missing.

It said the escorting squadrons destroyed three enemy fighters while one of the Venturas accounted for a fourth.

Shortly before midday, German planes bombed and machine-gunned a town on the southwest coast of England. The explosives caused considerable damage to shops and residential property and it was feared that many casualties resulted, including a number killed.

Three Of 19 Escaped Convicts Recaptured

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 13. (AP)—State highway patrol headquarters announced tonight the capture near Clarksdale, Miss., of three of 19 armed convicts who escaped early today from Parchman penitentiary after overpowering a watchman and slugging a guard.

Patrolmen listed the captured men as Herman Frost, serving 10 years for highway robbery, and Joe Karnegay, under 25-year sentence for robbery, caught together four miles northwest of Clarksdale; and Jessie Durham, serving three years for grand larceny, taken about five miles south of that town.

Arkansas patrolmen, they said, aided in the captures.

Three others with Durham, patrolmen said, escaped into the woods.

The convicts were armed with 12 or more rifles obtained from the prison arsenal. Some were believed to be dressed in civilian clothing obtained in a holdup earlier in the day near Duncan, Miss.

THOUGHT FOR WARTIME

"Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment."—By the Apostle Paul, in First Corinthians, Chapter 1, Verse 10.

Chungking Council Pleases Kai-Shek

BY GLENN BABB
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Chungking war council unveiled this week by Prime Minister Churchill may prove the most significant of the several offshoots of the Casablanca conference, which already included Monrovia, Natal and Adana. United Nations leadership went a long way, literally, to make amends for Chiang Kai-Shek's absence from Casablanca when Field Marshal Dill and General Arnold were sent to India and across the roof of the world to discuss with China's leader the most difficult military supply problem in history.

The presence of a part of the Tenth United States Army Air force in China already has made a big difference there, and the augmentation of this force should do much to make China's period of waiting a little less cruel. Also it would lessen the danger of Japan's delivering a knockout blow against China before the Allies are ready to drive the invader from Burma or open up some other avenue by which we can put forces into China sufficient to wage war on a continental scale.

Chiang Expresses Satisfaction

We have Churchill's word for it that Generalissimo Chiang has expressed "his satisfaction about the strong additional help that will be provided for China at this stage in her long drawn, undaunted struggle" and his concurrence "in the plans for future action in the Far East which we have submitted to him as a result of our (Casablanca) deliberations." This doubtless is true in spite of the Chungking newspapers' outburst against Churchill's reiteration of the policy to smash Hitler first.

Meanwhile that Burma front shows signs of warming up again. The Japanese have taken cognizance of the menace carried by Field Marshal Wavell's limited invasion of western Burma above Akyab by bringing up reinforcements and counterattacking briskly.

No Genuine Offensive

There is no reason to believe, however, that either side is attempting a genuine offensive. The Allies make no bones about not being ready to go as long as their primary war effort is directed against Hitler. Why the Japanese wait is not so clear.

There was an interesting footnote to the announcement of the Chungking conference. Eventually, as part of the train of events now in motion, Field Marshal Wavell, who commands in India, is to confer with MacArthur, who commands in the southwest Pacific. That suggests a strategy on a much vaster scale than any yet revealed. Concerted action by those two commanders logically would take the form of a giant pincers operation from India on the west and the Australia-New Guinea area on the east. Within the jaws would lie all that rich island empire that Japan conquered last winter and for which she was ready to gamble her existence as a great power.

War Film Conditioner For Real Army Life

CAMP KOHLER, Cal., Feb. 13 (U.P.)—For movie actor Frank Alberton, who played in "Wake Island," real army life is not so much tougher than being on location for a war film. Alberton is now a volunteer officer candidate in training at the Western Signal Corps Replacement center here.

The picture, Alberton said, "was filmed on a location by Salton sea. We lived in tents. We got up at 5:30 a. m., had breakfast at 6 a. m., combed the sand out of our hair and went to work. We soldiered with real marines. We had no place to go—you couldn't get out of the desert or off the military reservation. We had to be fingerprinted and investigated by the FBI. We had to carry identification cards. In fact, we were under more restriction than I am here."

Production Of Small Farmers Is Praised

J. E. Burch, Lubbock county Farm Administration supervisor, paid tribute today to the small farmer, a group of FSA borrowers which he said makes up 7.6 per cent of the 6,097,000 farm operators listed in the nation by the 1940 census.

Burch said more than one-third of the increase in milk production in 1942 came from the 463,941 FSA borrowers, as reported by the department of agriculture.

The FSA group increased its milk production one billion, 419 million pounds, or 36 per cent of the total increase, and a 20 per cent increase over their own 1941 production. The total milk increase by all farmers was three per cent, Murch said. The 20 per cent was not a net increase since some of the cows bought with FSA money in 1942 were milked part of the year by their original owners.

The report, first to be published, shows that FSA borrowers also contributed 27 per cent of the nation's increase in dry beans, and 10 per cent of the increase in eggs, chickens, and peanuts.

FSA borrowers are from the small farm group who are considered unable to borrow funds from any other source.

'Dwigmie' Top Kick's Dream, 'Widget' Gets In His Hair

(By The Associated Press)

SCOTT FIELD, Ill., Feb. 13. — Best known of all the students at Scott field are "Widget" and "Dwigmie"—"dependents" of Cpl. Rome Tollestrup, 26, who created them to provide humor-coated advice to Uncle Sam's soldiers-in-the-making.

Dwigmie is the top-sergeant's dream of what a soldier ought to be—a perfect model of good soldierliness, who always studies his lessons, never speaks out of turn, and, as a result, receives countless pats on his uniformed back.

But Widget, there's a buck private that turns an NCO's hair gray in one "hitch." This nasty, goldbricking good-for-nothing never puts in time poring over his Morse code, seldom burns the midnight oil—usually drinking it instead—and always ends up shoveling snow off the field's runways.

'Born' in Doodling

The cartoon pair came into being one hot September day when Tollestrup, who worked for Walt Disney and did free lancing, was doodling. A fellow soldier suggested they be put to use in the Orientation Publicity department's program. Tollestrup first got into the orientation department when he was transferred to Scott field as a private to study radio. He worked during the day and drew sketches at night. When he graduated, field officials decided here was a man who not only could draw but also knew his radio communication.

The result was a promotion for Private Tollestrup and assignment to the orientation department to "boost morale" with his pen and ink.

Dwigmie and Widget appeared for a week without any names. A sergeant then suggested christening them with their present ones.

"When I was a boy I always had the Widgets when I got into mischief," he explained. "When I was good the Dwigmies had me in their care."

So, Widget explains the "don'ts" of soldiering while Dwigmie advocates the cause of hard work and the inevitable promotion.

Widget gives officers the hotfoot, tells military secrets, never studies and ends up gigged, broke, or blown to bits by his own carelessness. Dwigmie always shines his boots, learns his code and gets promoted, transferred to Florida's gunnery school and eats with the commanding officer's daughter.

A typical strip shows Santa Claus leaving money and candy to Dwigmie and spare radio parts to a disgusted Widget.

Widget looks something like the popular Gremlin—and some baby Gremlins have his name—but Corporal Tollestrup's characters were created before gremlins became famous in story and article. He has dates to prove it, he says.

Appear in Textbooks

Proof that Widget and Dwigmie have caught on is the fact that two textbooks now being published will carry full-page illustrations of the two showing right and wrong sides to military courtesy and study methods.

Widget and Dwigmie even get fan letters. Scott field graduates, transferred to other barracks and climes, often write words of caution to Widget and ask for advice from Dwigmie.

After the war, Tollestrup thinks he can muster the pair out of the air force into a civilian comic strip. Asked which of his "children" he favors, Tollestrup grins guiltily but confesses:

"I like the mean one."

Ranching Is Leading Topic Among Yanks At New Guinea Base

By WILLIAM F. BONI
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH AMERICAN FORCES In New Guinea, Feb. 13.—"Look," says Lt. George S. Goolsby of Denmark, S. C., "we'll have these whitefaced cattle, see . . ."

"And I'll have my white leghorns," adds Lt. Fred Harrington of Seattle.

"Where is all this gonna be?" asks darkskinned Lt. Francis Pankau of Chicago.

On Casey's Ranch

"Why, on Casey's lemon ranch, of course," shouts Lt. Jim Watson of Gaffney, S. C., pointing to curly haired John Casey of Pomona, Calif. . . .

All this takes place under the overhanging, coconut-frond leaves of a native-built hut in an American fighter squadron's area.

Major Norman G. Morris of Sipe Springs, Tex., the squadron commander, has introduced you to these boys. He used to coach football, so they call him "coach."

Return From Patrol

Others come back from a routine patrol—including Lt. Archie Swanson of Muskogee, Okla.

Major Morris suggests a visit to the strips.

One you had already seen, when you landed in a transport. It is a hurry-up strip, simply carved out of a coconut grove in as little time as possible and still subject to submersion in six inches of mud when it rains hard.

All-Weather Job

The other is strictly an all-weather job—metal stripping laid down on a firm gravel base, facing out over a deep-blue bay so that there is always a clear approach for landings, and with seemingly countless dispersal bays scattered about through the jungle scrub.

Back to the squadron area, back to that knolltop hut, and there are Goolsby, Harrington, Watson and Pankau.

"We'll Have Those Cattle"

"So then," says Goolsby, "we'll have these whitefaced cattle, see . . ."

"And we oughta have pigs—it doesn't take much to raise pigs," Watson chimes in.

"Where is all this gonna be?" asks Pankau . . .

Thirty-Acre Farm Is Run Inside Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13 (U.P.)—This city of 1,000,000 boasts a 30-acre farm, with a 100-year-old farmhouse, well within its geographic limits.

The farm is owned and operated by William and Lawrence Boyd, bachelor brothers. The homestead was built by their father to replace the log cabin which he built when he and his bride settled about seven miles outside the little village of Cleveland 120 years ago.

Gradually innovations came about — Cleveland's boundaries stretched out to embrace the farm, horse cars replaced cart and team and finally gave way to buses, but the Boyd farm, though some of its acres were sold, is unchanged.

The Boyds' cousin, Miss Ida Clark, has kept house for them since she came, 40 years ago, to help out when their mother was sick.

Then they have a farm hand, Charles Tyson, who worked for them for 25 years until he went into business, but he came back, two years ago, for a visit.

Children's Week Is Set By Stevenson

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (U.P.)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today proclaimed Texas children's week to be observed Feb. 28-March 6.

"Among those who are contributing to the war by work and sacrifice on the home front are the youth and children of Texas," the proclamation said. It suggested reexamination of services for children and consideration of them in planning.

Sixteen More War Crops Are Listed

Sixteen additional farm and vegetable crops, each with incentive payments to encourage production, were announced Saturday for Lubbock county by Walter Y. Wells, AAA administrative officer, in addition to peanuts, soybeans (for beans) and Irish Potatoes, previously announced.

Wells, who was one of the speakers Saturday afternoon at a meeting of the Farm bureau organization, said sweet potatoes and grain sorghums are among the crops added to the list of "musts" to be planted, most of them having an acreage goal.

Egyptian Cotton Included

Other war crops are lima beans for processing, cabbage for processing, beets for processing, carrots for processing, sweet corn for processing, snap beans for processing, field peas for processing, tomatoes for processing, castor beans, dry English peas, dry edible pinto and Great Northern beans, and flax for seed or fiber. American Egyptian cotton (long staple), and flax are not expected to be musts in Lubbock county, but are among the list of 16 war crops. Sweet potatoes are a must only on farms where goals are established, and Irish potatoes are a must on farms only where the goal is three acres or more.

Lubbock county goals include 194,086 acres of grain sorghums, 588 acres of soybeans, 1,900 acres of peanuts, 500 acres of Irish potatoes, 50 acres of castor beans, and 200 acres of dried beans. Other goals were not announced. Wells said the sorghum grains acreage will represent about 40 per cent of the entire county's tilled acreage.

Penalties Set

Farmers will be assessed a penalty of $15 an acre for each acre below 90 per cent of the goals of all war crops planted, which means that he may plant his full farm goal to any one crop up to 90 per cent of the total for all, and leave off the others. He may also leave off cotton and still earn his payments on war crops, any one or all he chooses, up to 90 per cent thereof of his goals.

The rate of payments as an incentive for planting war crops was given by Wells as follows:

Soybeans, $15 an acre; peanuts, $30 an acre, dried English peas, $15 an acre; grain sorghums, $8 an acre; fresh vegetables, $50 an acre; Irish potatoes, 50 cents a bushel on 5-year normal yield; sweet potatoes, the same as Irish potatoes, and dried edible beans, $20 an acre.

Must Plant 90 Per Cent

Whatever a farmer's goal may be of any one war crop, he will be paid incentive payments at above rates only for the number of acres he plants between 90 and 110 per cent of his total goal. He must plant 90 per cent, but can plant all he wants to, but will not be paid beyond the 110 per cent of his goal, and then only for the acres between 90 per cent and 110 per cent.

Incentive payments are in addition to 80 cents for every 100 lineal feet of approved terrace the farmer builds, in addition to the 75 cents an acre he will get for every acre of soil building crops other than cotton, and in addition to the usual one and one-tenth cents a pound for cotton in his quota.

Agreements On Unions Frozen

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — All established union shop agreements were virtually frozen today for the duration of the war in an effort to keep war production stabilized.

The War Labor board, with employer members dissenting, has ruled that a company may not abandon in wartime a union shop agreement that is embodied in a labor contract reached after legitimate collective bargaining.

Renewal Of Clauses Ordered

The policy was established in the case of the Harvill Aircraft Die Casting corporation, Inglewood, Calif. The WLB ordered the company to renew shop and check-off clauses in a new contract with the National Association of Die Casting Workers (CIO).

Dissenting from the decision were industry members Cyrus Ching, Harry L. Derby and Almon E. Roth. They may issue a dissenting opinion later.

Stabilization Is Goal

The majority opinion was written by WLB public member Frank Graham who said that the decision means that for the duration the board will try to maintain the status quo in labor-management relations.

"No company can take advantage of the no-strike agreement to throw out a union shop previously established by agreement between the parties," Graham said.

"By provision for the continuance of the established union shop, the board seeks to keep stabilized the union in an area already stabilized . . . For unions in open shop industries to fight out to the bitter end the battle for the union shop would be most unstabilizing and devastating for war production.

Would Unstabilize Unions

"Likewise, to push union shops back into open shops would unstabilize, for war production, the unions of the millions of American workers who have pledged themselves not to strike but to leave to peaceful arbitration the security of the unions which they have won after long and arduous struggles. . . .

"The board holds that the government will not compel a worker to join a union in order to get a job, and that the government will not use its sanctions during this war to establish or disestablish the union shop."

'Dead' Man Finds He Didn't Die After All

BLUEFIELD, Va., Feb. 13 (U.P.) —Anyway, it gives a fellow a jolt! Randolph Adkins, 20, flopped right over when a revolver was discharged into his hands. Friends rushed to put in a hurry call for an ambulance and stretched Adkins out on the bed.

When the ambulance attendants picked him up, the bullet dropped out of his belt buckle—where it had lodged.

Adkins went back to work—grinning sheepishly.

Preparations Are Made For First Plant Day Wednesday

Skeleton committee organizations for the first of two plant exchange days Wednesday were announced Saturday by J. E. Maisen, chairman of the cleanup campaign committee of the chamber of commerce.

The plant exchange days, the second of which will occur in April, will be conducted this year as preliminaries to the annual cleanup campaign in May, he explained. This has been done, he said, so as to time the free distribution of the various beautifying plants with the period during which they should be set out.

Garden Clubs In Charge

Wednesday's distribution will be of trees, including evergreens, and shrubs. The varieties that are desired were listed by members of the plant exchange committee.

In charge of this particular activity, according to the announcement, are the various garden clubs of the city and parent-teacher organizations.

Headquarters will be at 1509 Avenue Q, the hours will be from 9 a. m. until 5:30 p. m., and various groups are to supply committees to be in charge of the headquarters during various periods of the day, according to Mrs. J. E. Garrison and Mrs. L. S. Mast, members of the distribution committee.

Everyone is asked to help supply cuttings of beautifying plants. They should be taken during the forenoon to 1509 Avenue Q. There they will be bundled and will be given to anyone who asks for them. However, at 2 p. m., quantities of the available plants will be taken to Sanders school, Guadalupe school for Mexicans and Dunbar negro school for distribution from those points.

Suggestion was made that plants be dug up Tuesday and be kept moist until taken to the distribution center.

The following committee schedule was announced for distribution center, with the hours each group is to report: 9 a. m., K. Carter PTA, Mrs. Dewey McNeil; 10 a. m., Dupre PTA, Mrs. L. H. Hobbs, Mrs. Joe Taylor and Mrs. J. B. Jones; 11 a. m., Lubbock Garden club, Mrs. Mast; noon, George M. Hunt PTA, Mrs. Jack Ray and Mrs. C. C. Chambers; 1 p. m., Garden Study club, Mrs. Alfred Crosby; 3 p. m., Dahlia club, Mrs. C. N. Kennon; and 4 p. m., Central Ward PTA, Mrs. Clarence Young.

Here are some of the plants suggested as especially desired: trees—maple, sycamore, elm, ash, catalpa, willow, honey locust, desert willow, Russian olive, cottonwood, hackberry, walnut, fruits, persimmon, poplar and redbud; evergreens—pines, junipers, arborvitae, cypress and spruce; shrubs—pyracantha, jasminum, ligustrum, vitex, buddleia, honeysuckle, photinia, spirea, pussy willow, forsythia, dogwood, crape myrtle, flowering almond, Japanese quince, abelia, eleagnus, cherry laurel, euonymus, lilac, Spanish broom, coloneaster, tamarix, mahonia, coralberry, barberry, sumac, bird of paradise, kerria, hibiscus and pomegranate.

Accompanied by his parents and brother, Corporal Pat O'Daniel, 24, Mike reported to his selective service board and a few minutes later joined scores of other selectees on their way to nearby Fort Myer, Va.

Before leaving for Fort Myer, Mike kissed his mother and shook hands with his father and brother. Corporal Pat O'Daniel recently completed his officer candidate school courses at Fort Washington, Md., and is expected shortly to receive a second lieutenant's commission.

The senator's son-in-law, First Lieutenant Jack Wrather, is in the Marine Corps stationed at San Diego, Calif.

Confiscation Seen Of German Capital

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 13 (AP) — Walther Funk, German minister of economics, was reported by the Swedish press today to have predicted confiscation of German capital.

"There will be new decrees by which the state will be enabled broadly to confiscate all capital which cannot be changed into real value as a result of war conditions," Funk was quoted as telling a Stockholm conference.

Funk was said to have predicted taxes on all foodstuffs.

Funk's decree forbidding speculation on the German bourse, closing the Berlin stock exchange on Saturdays and limiting trading to one hour on other days became effective today.

Order Reserves Half Of Lard

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard today ordered federally inspected packers to reserve 50 per cent of their weekly lard production for purchase by the food distribution administration. The order becomes effective tomorrow.

The order was designed to provide approximately 1,050,000,000 pounds of lard for war requirements this year.

Civilian Supplies To Rise

Despite the order, however, Wickard said, civilian lard supplies in 1943 will be increased slightly over 1942. The order will not affect the approximately 800,000,000 pounds of non inspected lard expected to be produced this year. This, together with the other 50 per cent of the lard from inspected packers available to civilians, would make a total civilian supply of 1,850,000,000 pounds in 1943. Last year civilian supplies were about 1,846,000,000 pounds.

The increase in civilian supplies over 1942 may be larger, the Department of Agriculture said, if production this year exceeds present estimates. Current lard purchases by the food distribution administration are not large enough to meet urgent requests for export shipment, Wickard said.

No Doubt This Guy Filled Requirements

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—A 19-year-old draft registrant, selective service headquarters disclosed today, gave these answers in filling out the occupational questionnaire sent him by his board:

Under item 24, "job for which you are best fitted," he wrote: "shooting Japs."

Under item 28, "job for which you are next best fitted," he stated: "shooting Germans."

And under item 31, "duties of job for which you are next best fitted," he finished it off with: "shooting Italians."

Interpreter Needed For Drilling Orders

CAMP SHELBY, Miss., Feb. 13 (AP)—Private Manuel T. Tarin of the 99th evacuation hospital, who started his Army career as an embryo cook, was torn away temporarily from his beloved ollas y charolas (pots and pans) when Privates Jacinto Gomez, Bruno Montoya, John A. Rodriguez, and Joe C. Velanzuela were assigned to the 99th. He was needed as interpreter for these Mexican-Americans.

Since the soldiers can't savvy the drill sergeant's commands, Private Tarin usually drills them as a platoon, issuing orders in Spanish.

"That worked pretty well until the day our commanding officer came out to watch us," said Tarin. "I got so flustered that I gave some of the commands in Spanish and some in English. You've never seen so much confusion in your life," he declared.

Private Tarin's difficulties will soon be over, for Privates Gomez, Montoya, Valanzuela, and Rodriguez are being taught to speak and understand the English language.

Army Finding New Uses For Cotton

By MAX HALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. — The Army is still finding new uses for cotton and is trying to increase the production of cotton textiles.

Present production of the mills is not enough to meet the growing demands of the armed services, lend-lease and civilians.

Cotton, one of the softest of all materials, is to be used by the Army as a substitute for sheet metal.

These bits of information are in a letter from Maj. Gen. W. D. Styer of the services of supply to Sen. Hattie W. Caraway (D-Ark). She made the letter public today.

Some Definite Steps

The general informed her that definite steps have been taken to effect the substitution of:

1. Cotton for silk in powder bags.
2. Cotton duck for sheet metal in truck body cab tops.
3. Cotton cloth for sheet metal in certain types of airplanes and gliders.
4. Cotton cloth for metal in liquid fuel containers.
5. Cotton yarn to replace manila, sisal, henequen and jute in rope and twines.

Mrs. Caraway said the letter was in reply to her request that the services of supply do everything it could to push cotton ahead as a war material.

Mrs. Caraway also has started a campaign, she said, to increase civilian uses of cotton for the post-war years. In this connection, she said she had contacted the department of commerce and the department of agriculture and would begin conferences with representatives of those departments next week.

Reds At Kharkov

Dnieperopetrovsk on the big bend of the Dnieper river where, some observers believed, the Germans were preparing to form a second line of defense. Dnieperopetrovsk is about 120 miles south and slightly west of Zolachev.

Kharkov was now closely menaced by Russian forces on three sides, previous penetrations having carried the Red Army to Chuguyev, 22 miles to the southeast, Ozovaya, 70 miles to the south, and villages and towns 18 miles directly to the east.

Rostov Reported Aflame

A CBS correspondent, reporting from Moscow, said it was reported that the Germans had set fire to Rostov, an action which presumably would be ordered only in case the Germans were getting ready to evacuate their forces for the second time.

No such drastic action was taken in November, 1941, when the Germans were forced to withdraw at the beginning of the first Russian winter counteroffensive, and if they had fired the city this time it presumably was because they expected never to return.

The Russians also announced the capture of a string of towns farther north on the Rostov-Voronezh railway, including Likhaya, 75 miles north of Rostov, Zverevo, 10 miles to the south of Likhaya, and Novorshakhty, 15 miles northwest of Shakhty.

Shakhty, only 45 miles north of Rostov, was reported captured yesterday, and the towns occupied by the Russians today were more or less behind the Russian lines.

The Russians, with today's captures, were in control of all the Rostov-Voronezh railway except a few miles in the immediate vicinity of Rostov.

Lending credence to reports that the Germans were getting ready to quit Rostov was the fact that when the Germans gave up Shakhty they withdrew to the west instead of toward Rostov.

Is Hitler Dead?

iodic fits of depression—as well he might after Stalingrad.

It may also be that he is a very sick man, either physically or mentally. There has never been a doubt in my mind but that, sooner or later, Hitler would crack up.

From the viewpoint of the war effort, by far the best view to take is to assume that Hitler has once again relapsed into one of those "creative pauses" of his during which he weighs hunches of his own and practical advice by his henchmen against each other.

Hitler or no Hitler, for a while at least, the Nazi regime will run on, at first perhaps with an even greater temporary fanaticism inspired by the death of the fuehrer and by the attempt of the successor, whoever he may be, to prove that he is entitled to the succession.

No Evidence of a Double

The question has often been asked whether Hitler has a double. During the ten or eleven years during which I have had an opportunity to observe him at close range I have seen no evidence of a double.

For one thing, if one stands close to him, one cannot but observe that he must at one time have had very bad teeth which obviously were repaired at a much later period of his life.

Next, there are certain slight mannerisms of speech which even the best of doubles would have difficulty in imitating. Nor would a double be able to curve his shoulders in exactly the same manner as nature has curved Adolf Hitler.

Davies Urges Pact By Biggest Allies

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (U.P.) — Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to the Soviet union, said today the "big four" of the United Nations should sign formal treaties or agreements for control of the post-war world.

In a speech to the Metropolitan opera guild and victory committee, Davies said: "We must not fail to organize peace, so that it cannot again be smashed by aggressor bandit nations, who run amuck, rule or ruin their neighbors, and destroy the peace of the community of this shrunken world. That is the first job to be done.

"Clearly, if it is to be done, it must be done by an agreement, a contract or treaty, by the four great nations—China, Russia, the British commonwealth and ourselves — who bore the brunt of the fighting."

Son In Africa Well, FDR Informs Mother

"Dear Mrs. Petros:

"During my recent trip, I had the pleasure of seeing your son, George, and thought you would like to know that he is well and in fine spirits. The services he rendered during my visit were capably performed and I want you to know of my appreciation.

"Very sincerely yours,

Ills Of Farmer Discussed Here

"No man who has good sense will stay on the farm and work for 18½ cents an hour when he is offered work in war industry that will paly ihm from $1 to $2 an hour," G. H. Nelson, Farm Bureau leader told a mass meeting of farmers gathered here to solve their production problems.

Nelson is a Lubbock lawyer, farmer, and former state senator. He said the West Texas farm hands who didn't volunteer in the fighting forces are in war plants and the land is denuded of manpower.

Machinery Problem

W. A. Robertson, representing the price division of OPA, said the government "froze" farm machinery, tractors, combines, and the like, and placed price ceilings on them to protect the farmers from skyrocketing retail prices, only to find the farmers themselves began bidding among their neighbors and were buying $600 machines and reselling them for $1,600 to $2,000—until a second order came along from Washington to stop the traffic.

Richard E. Wood, Lubbock district manager of ODT, said if the war were to end tomorrow the trucks and farm vehicles now needed and already worn to abandonment since Pearl Harbor could not be replaced by manufacturers in three years. "To keep them rolling," he said, "farmers must nurse them and house them and use them as few miles as possible—for at least another three years without replacements."

Many Joining Bureau

The meeting was called by the Farm Bureau. W. R. Tilson of Brownfield, organization leader, said thousands of farmers are joining the bureau and a paid secretary will be in every West Texas county within a few weeks. He said what the farmer is demanding is what he always has wanted, war or peace—and that is the ability to go into the open market and bid for farm labor on an equality with other industries. He emphasized that agriculture is as much a war industry now as shipbuilding, plane making, or the fabrication of steel work.

"We want enough money for farm products to pay prevailing labor wages the year around, we can take care of production," he said.

Zone Ordinance May Head Off Skating Rink

Inquiries relative to reported plans to operate a roller skating rink in a vacant building at Thirteenth and Avenue Q caused a hasty scanning of zoning ordinances at the city hall Saturday.

The resulting opinion of officials was that a skating rink cannot be placed in that locality without violating zoning ordinances. Officials said further, in response to tentative inquiries, that no provision is made for the issuance of temporary licenses to such establishments.

As yet, officials said, nothing of official nature relative to the rink has occurred.

Officials were informed, however, that a number of business men and residents of that area have been approached with inquiries as to whether they would object to a rink in that section.

Washing-Machine Charley Is Given Bit Of Own Medicine

By OLEN W. CLEMENTS
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUADALCANAL, Jan. 29. (Delayed) — The air raid alarm croaked hoarsely like a young rooster learning to crow.

Men piled out of their cots and mosquito nets and made mad dives for the foxholes. Some sleepily paused to slip on flying suits and shoes. I went with one shoe on and half a flying suit, wondering if the rain had seeped into our cozy, covered foxhole built for four.

All through the camp men were running for foxholes and calling to sleeping comrades to wake up, that Washing-Machine Charlie had come for his nightly visit. This is the name the Americans gave Japanese bombers because of their unsynchronized propeller pitch.

Hear Him Chugging Along

We could hear him chugging in over the far end of Henderson field.

Three more men piled in on top of us.

We waited for the crash of bombs. None came. Charlie cleared the other end of the field and went on.

"There he comes," cried Creech.

And there sure enough coming over the mountain hell bent for leather was old Charlie. He was in a long glide and headed for the section of Henderson field away from us, so we stood and watched. Down he came to 1,500 feet, then 1,000, then 500 feet.

The flak opened up. Charlie sped on. Wham! Off went his bomb.

"Got guts hasn't he?" said Lt. W. H. Bruce Erwin of Fort Worth, Texas.

A fighter plane, a P-38 roared off the field and shot up into the air like a cannonball. Charlie was headed for home.

The P-38, looking something like a native outrigger canoe with its two fuselages, rose above him and old Charlie began to shoot for his life.

Charlie Is Scared

We waited for the P-38 to make its pass. It nosed over and started down. Charlie was plainly scared. His plane wobbled. There was a burst from the P-38 and Charlie's plane blew up in mid-air. The P-38 did a victory roll and started home.

He didn't have to do that, for everybody knew that Washing-Machine Charlie was dead.

But as long as Guadalcanal is defended by Americans and raided by Japanese night bombers, there will be a Washing-Machine Charlie. He is a war character that the slangy American doughboy won't let die.

Ex-Playboy Facing Army Courtmartial

RENO, Feb. 13. (AP)—The escapade of the red bathrobe tonight appeared likely to end in an Army court-martial for Private Jacob L. Webb, 24, ex-New York playboy and descendant of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Webb climbed out a window of the Army air base hospital last night, police said, walked nine miles to town in a red bathrobe and pajamas, registered as "Bill Perton" at a downtown hotel and was arrested there by police early today.

The soldier already was facing Army court-martial on charges of impersonating an officer and telling tall stories about heroic fighting against the Japanese. His mother, Mrs. W. Seward Webb of Delray Beach, Fla., arrived last night to be told her son had fled the base.

"Jakie has a strong personality and doesn't like discipline," she told newsmen today.

'Big Inch' Delivers First Flow Of Oil

NORRIS CITY, Ill., Feb. 13—"Big Inch," world's largest oil pipeline, delivered its first flow of Texas oil into Norris City today but officials of War Emergency Pipelines, Inc., said tank cars probably would not begin carrying it to the fuel-starved east coast until next Thursday or Friday.

B. E. Hull, WEP director, said the first flow through the 24-inch line, running from Longview, Texas, to Norris City, began at 2:10 p. m. (CWT) at a rate of 60,000 barrels daily. Some six months after workmen started its construction.

Chemicals introduced into the pipe near its eastern terminus acted to remove water which had accumulated in the 550-mile tube since its completion last month.

Dairy Groups Oppose Freezing Milk Price

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP) — Leaders of dairy farmers organizations of 23 states, attending a national farm emergency conference, urged the government today to abandon an OPT proposal to freeze farmers milk prices at January levels, terming it "unwise, futile and devastatingly unfortunate.'

Charles W. Holman, secretary of the National Cooperative Milk Producers' federation, which called the conference, said that the statement of policy adopted by the national meeting was later ratified by the federation as its program.

The OPA proposal to "freeze producer prices would increase the present general shortage of dairy foods," a conference statement said, adding that the Department of agriculture estimated that 140,000,000,000 pounds of milk were needed for military, lend-lease and civilian use.

"Under the most favorable conditions production will be no more than 1118,000,000,000 pounds," the statement continued.

Starvation Threatens Many In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 13. (AP)—Danger that "a vast number of people will quickly and assuredly starve to death" on this island was seen today by Sen. Homer T. Bone, member of a senatorial committee investigating food and material shortages in Puerto Rico.

Bone's declaration came at the end of the first morning's session of the committee, after Jesus Benitez, a representative of Puerto Rican wholesale and retail merchants, testified that the average citizen of the island is getting only 30 per cent of a normal diet.

(Puerto Rico's shortages of food and other materials have resulted largely from a war-time lack of shipping to take out the main cash crop, sugar, and bring in dried fish, beans, rice and other staples.)

Monopoly Indictment Against A&P Quashed

DALLAS, Feb. 13 (AP)—Federal Judge W. H. Atwell today quashed the anti-trust indictment against the nation's biggest food chain, the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company group, and the government announced it would appeal his decision to the Fifth U. S. Circuit court at New Orleans.

The court, before quashing the indictment, sustained the demurrer of the company, whose attorneys argued the indictment's allegations were too vague to allow a suitable defense to be formed. Judge Atwell remarked from the bench the indictment was "too inflammatory in places to be allowed to be presented to a jury."

The indictment, returned here Nov. 25, charged the chain with conspiracy to "monopolize a substantial part of trade and commerce in food and food products." The grand jury had been given evidence the anti-trust division of the department of justice had secured in an investigation starting in May, 1941.

House Group Favors Lifting Salary Ban

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP) — The House Ways and Means committee today approved a measure to wipe out President Roosevelt's decree limiting salaries to $25,000 after taxes and substitute a more liberal ceiling.

It was the first formal move in the new Congress to challenge an order issued by the executive under the sweeping war powers acts. Rep. Disney (D-Okla), its sponsor, called the action "a revolt against government by directive."

The plan would peg salaries which exceed $25,000 net to their level of Dec. 7, 1941, while stipulating that salaries which did not exceed $25,000 before Dec. 7 could not rise above that now. It was attached as a rider to a bill raising the nation's legal debt limit from $110,000,000,000 to $210,000,000,000.

Absenteeism Is Said Contagious

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The CIO and the government appealed to war workers today to stop absenteeism, saying that the I'll-take-a-day-off practice had doubled since the start of the war.

Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations wrote to all affiliates requesting that "means be worked out for cutting preventable absenteeism to a minimum."

"The nation," he said, "cannot afford the loss of man hours resulting from workers absenting themselves needlessly or for trivial reasons from their jobs. Hours lost cannot be regained and hours lost mean production lost."

Murray noted that "absenteeism is also contagious," that "when one man takes a day off irresponsibly, others are likely to follow and the effect on those who do remain at their post is sometimes demoralizing."

Rate Is Doubled

Normal absenteeism in industry, Murray said, is 2.2 per cent; since the beginning of the war absenteeism of men has increased to 4.5; among women the percentage is 6.5.

The Office of War Information issued a report on studies by the War Manpower commission, War and Navy departments, Maritime commission, War Production board and Labor department. From these studies the OWI concluded:

"There are no statistics which give an adequate picture of the problem because of the many factors involved in job absences. Bebore the war industries got under way, a job absence rate of about 3 per cent was common in industry. Now job absence, on a monthly basis, may be twice this figure, and in some plants under difficult working and transportation problems, the rate may be even higher."

Farmers Set Debt Paying Precedent

By R. C. HANKINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

South Plains farmers and stockmen in recent months have broken all available records in working their mortgage debts into a more healthful condition.

In 1942, members in the 13 National Farm Loan associations serving this territory retired one-seventh of their outstanding Land bank and commissioner loan debt, according to reports of the Federal Land bank of Houston.

This showing for one year is especially notable since land bank loans are made on long terms that run up to as high as 34½ years and are designed to be paid in small regular payments from earnings that reduce the principal and interest until the entire balance is paid.

"Cushion" Provided

Land bank and commissioner debt reduction in this area was $3,482,000 in 1942. In addition to that amount, advance payments were put into special "future payment funds" by borrowers for an aggregate of more than $260,000. These reserve funds draw interest for the borrower at the same rate he pays on his loan and are a cushion against future difficulties that might hinder keeping the loan current.

At the end of 1942, loans outstanding amounted to $22,543,000 in the 13 National Farm Loan associations serving Hale, Terry, Crosby, Floyd, Dawson, Gaines, Yoakum, Hockley, Cochran, Lubbock, Lynn, Bailey and part of Parmer county.

While members were cutting down their debts on their primary investment in their homes and businesses, there were 746 new loans amounting to $1,673,000 made last year. These land owners were putting their indebtedness into long-term, amortized land bank and commissioner loans.

Prepare For Post-War Era

"We think it is a healthy sign that farmers and ranchmen in this territory are taking the lead in reducing their debts and trying to avoid coming out of the war period with a sackful of debts as was the case in many parts of the nation in World war No. 1," said R. S. Rodgers, secretary-treasurer of the Lubbock National Farm Loan association.

"From 1914 through 1920, the farm mortgage debt in the whole country doubled; this time the outstanding debt has been on the decrease since the beginning of the war."

Rodgers said more than 300 farmers and stockmen had paid land bank or commissioner loans in full in the last six months.

"Streamlined" Payments

"It is most unusual," Rodgers said. "I've been collecting loans in Lubbock 17 years, and I've never seen anything like it. Some farmers have paid off their entire debt before the first payment on it was due!

"Payments have been 100 per cent higher than any comparable period.

"Numerous persons who had not been on our books a year have paid the entire debt—and they could have waited 34½ years."

There have been several contributing factors to the debt retirement.

Good Prices Received

Farmers, bankers and Rodgers will explain, made a wonderful cotton crop in 1942, and the price for it and other farm products was high. Then came war and with it two important realizations: Purchases of tractors, cars and other machinery and durable goods were frozen, so that the farmer and stockman could not spend his money as in other years; and a memory of the other war, when he was paid high prices for farm products and instead of retiring indebtedness spent it for cars and machinery and sometimes too much land purchasing, leaving him flat broke when the depression hit.

The farmer and stockman today, or a considerable percentage of them, now are taking the accumulation of money and paying debts. They are laying aside 10 per cent or more for war bonds. They are buying tax bonds so they can discharge their income tax levies March 15. So explain bankers and land bank officials.

First World War A Lesson

One Shallowater farmer obtained a mortgage release on his land Saturday.

"Fellow tried to get me to buy another 160 acres that would have me a section," he said. "But I remember what happened to me in the other war. I'm clearing what I have, contributing a part to the government war bonds and getting ready to intensify my farming on land that is entirely clear."

A banker could remember the time in the first world war when he lived on a farm. The owner cleared it of debt.

"We rode through without any inconvenience," he said. The depression hit. We could take a side of bacon, or some eggs or milk or various other products into town, swap for what we wanted and go on back to the farm and eat. We didn't have to have money, because we didn't have any debt.

Mortgage Releases Filed

"Looks like a whole bunch of farmers are getting ready for whatever emergency might come."

Louie F. Moore, deputy county clerk, said an unprecedented number of mortgage releases were being filed here.

Rogers said the association and the Land bank system were "created to help farm and ranch families get out of debt, and we think it is fine that farmers are killing off their indebtedness on homes instead of speculating with them.

"In 26 years we have learned something about farm mortgage credit, especially from the farmer-stockman's viewpoint. One of the most important lessons is to base loans on appraisals that reflect the normal agricultural value of the place in the hands of a good operator. We do not think it is sound to lend on appraisal that is more than the average earning power, because the borrower is going to retire his loan from earnings made over a long period of years that may cover all sorts of conditions.

Situation Changed

"During the depression years a schedule of normal agriculture value was developed and adhered to by the Federal Land bank in arriving at appraisals of land for loans. Sale value of the land involved was sometimes less than the normal agricultural value in those distress years and the faith of the bank in the return of normal value enabled many families to get the financing needed to save their homes. Today, the reverse may be true and normal agricultural value in some cases may be less than current sale value. But we are sticking to the established principles because our primary objective is to help farm and ranch people get out of debt."

Women are now driving 4,-passenger buses through congested streets in San Diego where the transit riding has increased more than 208 per cent above last year.

Snyder Marine Is Island Chief

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SNYDER, Feb. 13. — Named "White Chief" of an entire South Sea island village because of friendliness to the natives, Staff Sgt. Chalmer Watkins, U. S. Marines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Watkins, who was here on furlough, leaves behind a story of the following experiences, which will be of interest to West Texans in general:

"When the U. S. Marines landed on a South Sea island, it took two months to convince the natives the Marines did not want to take over the island.

Divorces Few

"Of the 8,000 to 10,000 natives who lived on two islands where the Marines were stationed, we never heard of but one divorce case. While prevailing religion in the South Seas Isles is Catholic, the LMS—London Missionary society—a Protestant organization, has many followers. It is compulsory for South Sea islanders to attend church, and those who do not must have excuses from the chief of their community.

"People of the isle live off the fat of the land, fruits, cocoanuts and fish. Strangely enough, there were no snakes or animals of any kind on the islands we visited.

'One-Man" Women

"Natives," Watkins declared, are highly honored when a U. S. Marine wants to go with a native girl. Once a Marine, however, starts going with a native girl, he had better not look at another female. South Sea girls are 'one-man women,'" he concluded.

Sergeant Watkins, who has reported back for active duty with the U. S. Marines, has had over one year's overseas action. The youth is an honor graduate of Snyder schools.

Hale, research consultant for the Dow Chemical Co., had said in a Minneapolis speech that an unpublicized trade treaty proposed with South American nations pledges the United States to post-war dismantling of its synthetic factories. The State department officials, who asked not to be identified, said any allegation that such an agreement has been proposed or signed is unfounded.

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You
No. 4 of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of Chiropractic.
CASE HISTORY No. 206. This patient had developed fainting spells which grew in number and severity as time went on. During one of these spells she struck her head on the floor and on trying to rise discovered that all use had gone from her legs. Despite costly advice and treatment the condition gradually became worse. Sensation as well as movement was lost in the limbs. Eventually she was carried into a Chiropractor's office where analysis revealed the nerve pressure that was the cause of her trouble. The first simple adjustment enabled her to move her toes. In three weeks' time, leg movement returned, and a week later she was able to walk again. There has been no recurrence of the fainting spells since Chiropractic adjustments were given.
CASE HISTORY No. 468. Severe headaches had troubled this woman for eight years, the attacks occurring sometimes two and three times a week. She had obtained only temporary relief from the many treatments undertaken, and when she finally decided to try Chiropractic it was, she explained, "her last hope." A series of spinal adjustments brought immediate relief, and within 3 months the headaches had apparently ceased. Headaches occurred twice during the following six months, and in both instances Chiropractic adjustment brought prompt relief. There have been no headaches since.
CASE HISTORY No. 421. A baby girl who had been subject to eczema since she was six months old. Scores of remedies were tried without success. Her mother, who had begun taking Chiropractic adjustments herself, suggested that Chiropractic might help the child. Analysis indicated nerve pressure and a series of adjustments were given. The eczema completely cleared up and has not reappeared at any time since.
WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC? The Chiropractor teaches that the brain and nervous system are the root of health. From the brain, nerve energy is distributed through the nervous system to control all parts of the body. When this nerve energy is shut off even slightly between brain and body (by bone displacement in the spine), one or more body functions are interfered with and ill health results. By x-ray, analysis and spinal adjustment the Chiropractor is able to relieve nerve interference and restore normalcy to the affected part. No drugs. No surgery. Nature is the healer.

Buffs Come From Behind In Last Half To Trim Raiders

Cox, Allen Team To Give Tech 30-27 Halftime Lead

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

Texas Tech's Red Raiders fought their hearts out for the second straight night against the giant West Texas State Teachers, but they couldn't match the Buffaloes' last-half drive and went down, 53-47, before a near capacity crowd at Tech gymnasium.

It was the fourth straight loss to Gus Miller's Buffs by Polk Robinson's crew this season, but once more the Techsans made a full-fledged battle of it all the way.

Whereas it was the Raiders who put on the last-half push in the series opener here Friday night, last night the Buffs were closing strong at the finish, after trailing by 30-27 at halftime.

Cox Sets Pace

With Norman (Frosty) Cox, senior forward, and George Allen, senior guard, each pumping ten points through the hoop in that hectic first stanza, the Raiders hopped away to a 6-0 lead and lost the lead only for one brief span which saw the Buffs ahead 10-8.

Cox, who gained a starting berth when Coach Robinson decided to let all three seniors start this last home game, wasted little time in making his mentor's decision look good. All ten of his first-half points came on field goals, and each of these on a one-handed shot. Moreover, the big forward was hitting his shots just when they counted most—when the Buffs were beginning to pull up.

In addition, Cox was a wheelhorse in off-the-backboard work, pulling down numerous rebounds as Tech controlled the ball most of the time.

Stockman "Hot"

Once the Teachers hit their old pace in the last half, however, it was plainly a case of "bar the door" for Tech, although the Raiders never gave up until Ledru Jacobs hit the Buffs' 53rd point on a free shot as the final whistle sounded.

After Bill Stockman, veteran guard, had kept them in the thick of the battle by scoring 14 points in the first half, the visitors began to hit as a unit in the closing stanza. In the final 20 minutes, Jacobs and Charles (Chattis) Johnson each hit seven points, Clark (Deacon) Johnson six, and Ray Ellefson four.

Meanwhile, Tech's first-half aces, Cox and Allen, were limited to four and two points, respectively, by the tight zone defense adopted by the Buffs in the last stanza. Only Garland Head was able to maintain his first-half pace for Tech, hitting eight points after collecting seven in the first period.

Fast and fairly rough all the way, the battle was a real crowd-pleaser. Highlights were the one-handed shooting of Cox in the early stages, Bill Stockman's tricky under-the-basket work for the Buffs, Ledru Pacobs' nifty ball-handling, and a heated argument which ensued when Referee B. A. Stock awarded Tech a field goal late in the game on a charge that Ray Ellefson, the Teachers' huge (6-9) center, touched the rim in an effort to tip out one of Garland Head's long shots.

Fans' interest seemed to center around Ellefson, who played most of the last half for the Buffs. The WTSTC freshman, tallest player to perform here this season, gave the Buffs added rebound power and scored two field goals himself, but appeared to lack the polish of last year's WTSTC tall boy, Charley Halbert.

Longhorns Win Over Razorbacks Again

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP) — Texas university's Longhorns practically sewed up the Southwest conference basketball championship here tonight with an easy 48-35 triumph over Arkansas' tall Razorbacks.

The triumph, Texas' second in as many nights over the Porkers, left Bully Gilstrap's Steers with only one conference loss. It was the third setback of the campaign for Arkansas.

District 1-AA Cage Play-Off Opens Here Tuesday Night

Lubbock's Westerners open their campaign for the 1943 district 1-AA basketball championship here Tuesday night when they play host to Amarillo's Sandies in the first in a two-out-of-three series to decide the title.

The series opener will start at 8 o'clock at the local high school gymnasium, Coach Pinky Lowrey of Lubbock announced last night. Admission prices for the game will be 15 and 30 cents, tax included.

Thursday night the Westerners repay the visit to Amarillo for the second and, if necessary, the third game of the championship play-off. Both games, if needed to decide the title, will be played Thursday night, Lowrey said.

Lubbock and Amarillo gained the right to meet in the district 1-AA play-off by taking the southern and northern halves, respectively, in regular season play.

Sandies Look Strong

Amarillo swept through a round robin schedule with Pampa and Borger, the other two northern half contenders, to take its division, while Lubbock automatically won the southern crown when both Brownfield and Plainview, only other teams in the division, decided to abandon inter-school basketball.

Apparently the Westerners have a tough assignment in beating the Golden Sandstorm, for the Sandies are not only undefeated this season on the court. They are, to coin a phrase, unpushed as well, having won their games from Pampa and Borger handily. They clinched the northern title Friday night by walloping the Pampans 46-22 at Amarillo.

As usual, Amarillo boasts a tall team, with plenty of strong reserve power. The Sandies are coached by T. G. Hull, athletic business manager of Amarillo High school and an old-time rival of Pinky Lowrey, one of Lubbock's two cage coaches.

Both Were Track Mentors

This week's games will mark the resumption of the personal feud between these two friends, who have been squabbling over finances for the past 21 years, since both hold the position of athletic business manager at their respective schools. A few years ago both were also track coaches and the two district 1-AA rivals and engaged in some heated track and field competition.

Lubbock's quintet, under the direction of Lowrey and J. (Mule) Davis, has lost only one game to a high school team this season. That team was Levelland, which won the district 1-A championship in a tournament at Levelland Friday. Lubbock also holds one decision over the Lobos, having won by a single point in an overtime battle at Levelland several weeks ago.

The Westerners' only other losses have been to local service teams.

Ponies Have Another Dewell---Billy's Bud

DALLAS, Feb. 13. (AP)—There's another Dewell out at Southern Methodist university and he looks like he'll take up just where his older brother left off.

This one is John Dewell, versatile athlete from Dodge City, Kas., who enrolled at SMU at the beginning of the second semester.

Billy Dewell belongs in the Methodist hall of athletic fame. He played on the football, basketball and baseball teams all three of his varsity years and won all-Southwest conference recognition in each sport.

After completing his collegiate career in 1939, Billy played professional baseball and now is an all-around athletic star at the Corpus Christi Naval air station.

John is smaller than his brother, standing 6 feet 3 and weighing 200 ponnds. Billy is 6 feet 4 and weighs 210.

In high school John played center on the basketball team but Coach Jimmie Stewart has shifted him to forward at SMU. He is a back in football and third baseman and pitcher in baseball.

With only four conference games left on the SMU schedule, Dewell may have difficulty playing enough to earn his letter in basketball this year.

Southern Methodist will have no baseball team this year but will be ready for Dewell in football next fall.

Basketball Is Said To Be Great Conditioner

WACO, Feb. 13. (AP)—The theory that basketball is harmful to baseball players has become a war casualty as far as Hank Greenberg is concerned.

Almost since the day the cage game was recognized as a major sport, staid old baseball men have frowned on it as harmful to their proteges and in many instances managers have forbidden their players indulging in it.

But Greenberg, former major league star and now a lieutenant assigned to the AAF flying training command as physical training inspector, in a letter to the Waco Army flying school labeled basketball one of the greatest conditioners in the Army air forces' athletic setup.

Commending the flying school on its Gulf coast all-service basketball tournament to be held here March 4, 5 and 6, Lt. Greenberg revealed that a recent test proved that as a group, the cagers are better conditioned than any other men.

Manpower Shortage Is Biggest Problem For Next Football Season

BY HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. — Have any use for a football stadium? . . . Our guess, after reading about the program for training Army specialized personnel, is that the colleges won't have the teams to fill them next fall. . . . The main hope of carrying on football on anything like a normal basis was to have the soldier students mingle with the rest of varsity teams and apparently that's out. . .

Big Leagues Work Out Under Warm Gulf Sun

HOUSTON, Feb. 13. (AP) — Thawed by a kindly Gulf sun, two championship pitchers and a veteran catcher held an outdoor workout today—probably the first major leaguers in the country to loosen up outside a gymnasium.

Wearing uniforms borrowed from the Houston Buffaloes of the Texas league, Harry Gumbert and Howard Pollett, St. Louis Cardinal moundsmen, and Gus Mancuso, New York Giant backstopper, spent an hour on the Buffs' diamond.

They worked slowly with pepper games, fly shagging and a few cuts at the plate. For several days they've loosened kinked muscles in a gymnasium.

"It was a swell workout," Mancuso said. "The weather was much better than Florida. After the war I think more clubs should train in Texas."

Mancuso now weighs 185 and hopes to take off about 10 pounds. Gumbert, tall righthander, looks to be just about at his regular playing weight, Pollett, slim 21-year-old southpaw, has added at least 10 pounds, but his six feet can easily carry the added weight.

The players have received contracts but have not signed them. However, no difficulty is anticipated in reaching terms, it was indicated. All are fathers but Pollet's only child is of such recent birth that his draft status is in doubt.

Physical Fitness Institute To Be Staged Here This Week

A physical fitness institute is to be sponsored Feb. 20-21 by the department of education in cooperation with Texas Technological college and Lubbock High school, with its headquarters at the Lubbock Senior High school.

Each high school of the 18 counties in District 2 is invited to send along with a faculty member two or three high school students, selected on the basis of athletic ability and qualities of leadership. The purpose of training the boys is to use them as leaders and helpers in installing the physical fitness program in their respective schools.

The program is to be held in the Lubbock High gymnasium under the guidance of Army officers who will give instruction in various athletic games such as boxing, wrestling and calisthenics. Provisions have been made to take care of the boys and coaches in "Army fashion" Saturday night. Army cots will be placed in the gym and the participants will eat at the Texas Tech dormitories.

Girls Invited

Girls are also invited to participate in the program. Morley Jennings, athletic director at Texas Tech, is general director of the two-day school for boys. Mrs. Johnnye Langford, head of the women's physical education department at Texas Tech, will be in charge of the girls' training. Miss Josephine Pasgral, state supervisor of homemaking, will give lectures to the girls on foods and nutrition.

With 500 participants expected at the physical fitness institute, the administrative staff, including superintendents, principals, physical education directors and homemaking teachers, of 74 schools are invited.

Carl Hubbell First To Sign With Giants

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—Carl Hubbell today signed up for his 16th big league season, the first member of the New York Giants to enter the fold for the 1943 campaign.

Eddie Brannick, secretary of the Giants, announcing that Hubbell had sent in his signed contract from his Oklahoma City home, pointed out that "Carl wound up last season with 249 wins for his career, and don't be surprised if he makes it an even 250 on opening day this year."

Although refusing to say whether the 39-year-old left hand ace had been boosted from his salary for 1942, when he won 11 games and lost eight, Brannick added, "We always take good care of Carl, and he's always satisfied—don't forget that."

One of the few survivors of the McGraw era with the Giants, Hubbell came up to the Polo Grounds from Beaumont in the Texas league in 1928 and has been there ever since, one of the top southpaw elbowers of his generation.

He Was Going To "Take It Easy" With Ray—

Wilson Promises Robinson The "Licking Of His Life"

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. — That beautiful, razors-out friendship already existing between negroes Sgt. Jackie Wilson and Ray (Sugah) Robinson, the two top welterweight contenders, was sharpened additionally today by Robinson's alleged run-out on Wilson's stablemate, Jose Basora.

Accordingly, when Sergeant Wilson tangles with Robinson at Madison Square Garden Friday night, the chocolate soldier from Mitchell field will be out to "moider" young Robinson of Harlem. At least that's the promise of Chris Dundee, irate handler of both Wilson and the allegedly wronged Basora.

Dundee explained: "Wilson planned originally to take it easy with Robinson Friday night—just knock him out in an early round so Robinson wouldn't get hurt enough to prevent his fighting Basora at Philadelphia on March 1. Robinson had contracted last month for the Philadelphia bout. But yesterday Robinson draws out of the Philadelphia scrap and, instead, takes a match with Jake Lamotta at Detroit for Feb. 26."

Will Ask Extension

Robinson, who is slated to go into the Army early in March, assured Dundee and Promoter Herman Taylor of Philadelphia that—after fighting La Motta—he would try to get an extension so that he could go through with his Basora contract at Philadelphia.

Dundee commented wryly: "But Robinson knows he hasn't got a chance to get an extension because he's already had two. Promoter Taylor and I would have him suspended everywhere, if he wasn't going into the Army. But what's the use. He's taken a run-out on Basora because he's afraid of the Puerto Rican boy. He knows Basora licked LaMotta in June—the same LaMotta who upset Robinson at Detroit. He knows Basora is a knockout puncher, while LaMotta isn't."

LaMotta of New York and Basora are middleweights. LaMotta and welterweight Robinson have fought twice, with Robinson winning the first decision but losing the second, when his victory streak was ended at 40 straight pro wins. Their Feb. 26th meeting at Detroit will be a "big-money" rubber match.

"Licking Of His Life"

Dundee concluded: "But maybe Mr. Robinson won't be able to go through with that Detroit bout—after Jackie Wilson gets through with him Friday night. Wilson always hated Robinson, anyway, because Robinson gave Jackie the run-around for two years, always refusing to meet him. Robinson wouldn't have taken Friday night's match with Wilson if Jackie hadn't made a bad showing against LaMotta a few weeks ago when Jackie was out of shape. That was before LeMotta licked Robinson, remember. But Jackie will be sharp for this one, and he says himself he'll give Robinson the licking of his life."

Apparently the betting men do not agree with Dundee, because Robinson is favored at 2-1 over Sergeant Jackie.

McNutt Asked To Give Statement

Texas Loop Bosses Await WMC Reply

(By The Associated Press)

SHREVEPORT, Feb. 13.—Texas league club owners in session here today put the operation of their 1943 campaign up to Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower commission, by asking him to define the status of professional baseball players relative to essential employment to the war effort.

After filing a telegram addressed to McNutt in Washington the club owners adjourned their first day's business session to wait a reply. They will reconvene at 10 a. m., tomorrow, and if no word is received from McNutt the moguls will make their own decision on the advisability of starting the season.

The decision to place the matter before McNutt came after several hours of discussion by the club owners behind closed doors. Fort Worth and Oklahoma City were openly in favor of starting the season while the report is that Beaumont, Dallas, Houston, Shreveport, San Antonio and Tulsa were only luke warm.

Manpower Main Topic

The question of manpower was the main topic of discussion. A check of the circuit by President J. Alvin Gardner revealed that the eight clubs have only a total of 71 players and that considerable buying and rebuilding will have to be carried out. In view of McNutt's recent "work or fight" ruling a majority of club owners deemed it inadvisable to gather talent unless the status of baseball to the nation's welfare is clarified.

The telegram, which places the matter directly up to the government representative follows:

Feb. 13, 1943
Shreveport, La.
Hon. Paul C. McNutt, Chairman,
War Manpower Commission,
Washington, D. C.

The Texas baseball league directors are now holding their annual meeting formulating plans for the 1943 season. It is imperative that we know at once if baseball players who report to their clubs will subject themselves to reclassification as having thus entered employment non-essential to the war effort. An immediate reply will be appreciated.

J. Alvin Gardner, Pres.
Texas Baseball League.

Gardner To Continue

By a unanimous vote club owners extended President Gardner's term to the fall of 1947, elected Fred Ankenmann of Houston, Jack Zeller of Detroit and John Holland of Oklahoma City to the long list of honorary vice presidents and awarded Shreveport the 1942 Texas league pennant.

Milton Price, league secretary, offered four schedules for the 1943 campaign for consideration. The fact that they called for eight teams indicates the club owners are not considering reducing the circuit to six teams.

Because of local transportation problems, Tulsa is regarded as definitely out but Austin, Wichita Falls and Waco are said to be in the market for the franchise. William Huff, honorary vice president of the league, who was associated in operating a Wichita Falls team in this league several years ago is in attendance.

Fort Worth Cats Boast Loop's Biggest Roster

SHREVEPORT, Feb. 13. (AP) — Only 71 players remain on the Texas league roster, it became known here today at the two-day session of club owners.

The Fort Worth Cats, who are campaigning for the start of the 1943 season, are the richest in player talent with 24 while Beaumont has only three athletes available, and all are under the 18-year-old-age limit.

Bonneau Peters of the Shreveport Sports informed President Gardner that he has only eight men to start the season. Tulsa has 10 but expects to lose three or four to the armed forces before April. Houston has seven players and two are in the doubtful class. Oklahoma City has 12 athletes it can depend on and Guy Airey of San Antonio said the Missions' list includes 12 but he expects to lose at least three before the spring. Ten players are on the Tulsa roster but four will be removed soon.

On the active player list at the close of the 1942 campaign there were about 160 players and each team had men farmed to smaller circuits the past season.

Dixon Takes Mile Run In Boston Track Meet

BOSTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Frank Dixon, New York university's sensational negro freshman, fought off the supposedly invincible finishing spurt of Earl Mitchell of Indiana, regarded as the season's outstanding miler, to win the Boston AA meet's famous Hunter classic tonight by about a foot in 4:11.4. Gil Dodds, the home favorite, shocked the overflow crowd of 13,232 by winding up fourth in the five-man field.

Hugh Short, Georgetown's flying junior middle-distance star, lead all the way while defeating Seaman Charlie Beetham of the Iowa Naval pre-flight school by seven yards in the Hollis "600" feature.

Chunky Greg Rice, now competing for the New York AC was caught in 9:06 flat while winning his fourth straight billings two-mile event, and his 58th consecutive race. He had 40 yards to spare on Forest Efaw, a member of the Navy's RV-7 forces at Oklahoma A & M college, who was his runner-up here last year.

Menchaca Eliminated In GG Tourney; McCarty Beaten

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Feb. 13—Little Dick Menchaca, a former national champion, was ushered out of the Golden Gloves tonight in a jarring upset at the hands of Manuel Ortega as the state tournament entered its semi-final round.

Menchaca, 126-pounder from Port Arthur, was an overwhelming favorite to return to Chicago for the national tournament although he had moved up to the featherweight division from the bantams, where he won in 1941. He did not compete last year due to illness.

But Ortega, a Dalhart boy fighting for Biggs field, closed with a rush to take a close although clear decision over Menchaca.

McCarty Drops Decision

Lubbock's last representative in the state fistic eliminations, bantamweight Wiley McCarty of Littlefield, faded from his division in his third round bout when he lost a clear-cut decision to Dean Webb of Amarillo. McCarty easily won the first round, but lost both the second and third.

There were 28 fights tonight as the tournament decided four men in each class who will go into the semi-finals Monday night.

Tom Attra of Temple, another former national champion, remained in the running with a clear decision in the light heavyweight over Private Dominic Dottavio of El Paso.

Private Jack Mullen, the 173-pound Pittsburgher, remained the giant-killer of the tournament as he toppled Aaron Barker, 215-pound fighter from Texas Christian university.

Sailor Wins

Opening the fights among the light heavyweights, Seaman Henry McAdams of Dallas, 175-pounder from Grand Prairie Naval air station, was awarded a three-round decision over Sergeant Presley Darnell of Bay City, 164-pounder from Tarrant field, but the judges' announcement brought booes from the crowd. Lenoir, 170, Mount Calm boy fighting from Blackland Army flying school at Waco, decisioned Corporal Charles Stump, 174, of Frame, W. Va., and the Fifth Ferry command, in three rounds.

Joe Brayer, 167-pounder from Lincoln, Neb., and Camp Wolters, won on a technical knockout in the second round over Corporal Edwardson, 169, Camp Maxey. This placed McAdams, Attra, Lenoir and Drayer in the semi-finals.

Bantamweights

Starting off the bantamweights, Private Frankie Montoya, 118, of Las Vegas, N. M., fighting for Fort Bliss, knocked out Private Dominic Ardito, 119, Minneapolis and Camp Maxey, in 52 seconds of the first round. Deno Tufares, 119, of Tempe and Allen academy, decisioned Private Billy Bento, 119, of Providence, R. I., and Camp Bowie, in three rounds.

Dean Webb, 118, Amarillo, won over Wiley McCarty, 119, Lubbock, in three rounds. Bob Hammer, 117, Dallas, decisioned Andrew Jones, 116, Blackland Army Flying school, in three rounds. Thus Monday night's semi-finals will have Montoya, Tufares, Webb and Hammer.

Sergeant Manuel Ortega, 126, of Dalhart and Biggs Field, staged the tournament's major upset by decisioning Dick Menchaca, also 126, of Port Arthur and Allen Academy, the national bantamweight champion in 1941. Menchaca did not fight last year due to illness and this year entered the featherweight division.

Three Round Decisions

Robert Delgado, 127, San Antonio, decisioned Private Teddy Kardanlski, 126, Chicago and Camp Polk, in three rounds. Private Joe Rodriquez, 124, of Tampa, Fla., and Camp Wolters, won a three-round decision over Tommy Bratton, 124, Dallas.

This placed Ortega, Delgado, Rodriquez and Jack Osteen, 127, Texas Wesleyan and Fort Worth, who had advanced on a bye, in Monday night's semi-finals.

Hubert Gray, 135, of Wichita Falls, defeated Arlo Roye, 136, San Angelo, in the opening fight among the lightweights. Gray was the bantamweight champion last year and Roye was the featherweight king. Buddy Garcia, 134, Houston, won an unpopular decision over Abner Beddingfield, 136, Dallas.

Corporal Phil Brown, 135, of Gillespie, Ill., decisioned Corporal Juan De La Torre, 135, Mercedes and Fort Bliss. Brown was Illinois and national featherweight champion in 1941. Jess English, 136, of Temple and Allen academy, decisioned Private Daniel Lopez, 136, Abilene and Camp Barkley. This sent Gray, Garcia, Brown and English into the semi-finals.

Welterweight Forfeit

Seaman H. H. McKnight, 143, Dallas and Grand Prairie Naval Air base, won over Private Ernest Miller, 145, Garrett and Camp Bowie, by forfeit in the welterweight division.

Private Joe Lopez, 144, South Bend, Ind., and Fort Brown, decisioned Priavte Ramon Saragosa, 139, Houston and Camp Wolters. Max Waller, 144, of Tyler and Blackland Army Flying school, was given the decision over Private William Cox, 141, Dallas and Camp Maxey, and the crowd booed. Morris Corona, 146, Port Arthur, knocked out Tom Guerrero, 139, Houston, in 1:12 of the second round.

Semi-finalists in this division Monday night will be McKnight, Lopez, Waller and Corona.

Middleweight Division

Corporal Harry Flowers, 154, Fort Worth and Tarrant Field, knocked out Private Floyd Reddig, 158, Detroit and Camp Wolters, to start off the middleweight division. Private Emil Zoltak, 160, Milwaukee and Fort Bliss, decisioned Seaman Louis Pezet, 153, St. Ste Marie, Mich., and Grand Prairie Naval Air station.

James Mayfield, 159, Cleveland, Ohio, and Waco Army Flying school, decisioned Buddy Munster, 154, Dallas. Private Clarence Rogers, 160, Oak Hill, W. Va., and San Angelo Bombardier school, decisioned Private Carl McFadden, 160, Bangor, Me., and Camp Hulen.

In Monday night's semi-finals will be Flowers, Zoltak, Mayfield and Rogers.

Most Schools Plan To Continue With Spring Football Training

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—College football isn't sure whether it can even get to the post next fall, but it's going right ahead with plans to hold as reasonable a facsimile of spring training as possible.

While disappointed and somewhat surprised over the Army's rule forbidding its soldier-students to participate in intercollegiate athletics, a survey by the Associated Press today showed most major American colleges intend to play football as long as they can field eleven men on a side and get a man to blow a whistle.

The squads will be much smaller and many of them will be composed largely of 17-year-old boys but it is with these recent high school graduates and men who do not come under the Army ban that the colleges are planning to operate on at least a limited basis this fall.

Yale, Dartmouth and South Carolina were the only schools that said no spring football practice was being planned. Football "conditioner sessions" will be held in the summer, however, if conditions permit. At Pittsburgh, where Clark Shaughnessy recently took over as head coach, spring drill was uncertain, however. Shaughnessy said he might wait until summer so as to have a better idea of boys who'll be available in the fall.

Committee To Ask ODT To Modify Restriction

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 13. (AP) —The committee from the Association of School Administrators will go to Washington to request modification of the gasoline allowance on school busses and private means of transportation so competitives sports in Texas high schools may be continued.

H. D. Fillers of Wichita Falls, committee chairman, said it was proposed to ask the Office of Defense Transportation for a transportation allowance up to 65 per cent of the travel time in 1941-42.

The group is framing the proposal and outlining plans to carry it into effect before requesting a hearing with J. B. Eastman, ODT chief.

Regulations now prohibit use of school busses for transportation to athletic contests and also prohibit any supplementary allowance for private automobiles for that service.

"The committee has taken this action in order to further the physical fitness program in high schools," Fillers said. He added that the hearing, when held, would become a blanket policy to cover high school athletics over the country.

At Orange, J. W. Edgar, president of the Association of School Administrators, said:

"If athletic transportation could be permitted under the present rationing program in the amount of 65 per cent of the 1941-42 mileage, it is believed an adequate program of competitive training can be carried on by Texas high schools which will meet the demands for Army-Navy high school victory corps standards and will provide adequate training for about 50,000 Texas high school boys."

Part-Time Baseball Is Braham's Suggestion

DURHAM, N. C., Feb. 13. (AP)—Organization of part-time baseball clubs for war workers and sandlotters was proposed today by William G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Baseball leagues, as a solution for minor leagues which are being forced to suspend for the duration.

Provision for this type of league was made by the national association four years ago when an 'E' classification was established, Bramham explained. "It would provide a chance for young fellows to develop and for our players in war work to continue in the game as well as providing organized baseball for those localities where leagues of higher classification are being forced to suspend.

"Such leagues would have to be compactly located to eliminate travel and loss of time, but this could be accomplished by having several clubs in the same community, perhaps representing various industrial plants, or different departments of the same plant."

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13. (AP) — The Calumet Farm's Ocean Wave raced to victory today in the $5,000-added mile-and-70-yard Fair grounds feature for three year olds, but Trainer Ben Jones said he planned to keep the colt in his age class, pointing him for the Louisiana and Kentucky derbies.

State Senators To Push Pet Measure

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 13.—Texas senators will scramble next week for advanced consideration of their bills.

Announcement that Sen. Clem Fain will leave about Feb. 25 to report March 1 for active duty as a lieutenant of Marines is responsible for the expected rush.

Fain will be the fifth member of the Senate to go into military service, and his absence will leave the attendance so low that bills not voted on before he goes may have to wait until after March 12.

Loan Shark Bill Pending

Prior to March 12 a four-fifths vote is required to take up a bill for consideration unless the governor has submitted it as an emergency measure.

First place on the legislative calendar for Monday in the House belongs to the bill by Rep. S. J. Isaacks of El Paso to add attorney fees to court costs in usury cases as a method to break up loan shark operations.

In the Senate the calendar for Monday is headed by the joint resolution for a constitutional amendment to prohibit extension of a regular session of the legislature beyond 120 days. Last regular session was 171 days.

Campaign Bill Up

Anto-loan shark legislation may also be reached in the Senate Monday. Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston holds a favorable place on the list for his bill to enjoin habitual chargers of usurious interest, though several bills are ahead of it.

Among these is the bill by Sen. Karl Lovelady of Meridian to regulate campaign expenses and require full reporting of radio costs. The bill by Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe requiring pure insecticides and fungicides is ahead of the election bill.

Bills approved by House committees this week came back from the printer today and will be eligible for House voting next week. Included are the basic sciences bill affecting healers and House bill 100 to regulate labor organizations. Both occasioned large attendance at hearings this week.

Appointments Due

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson was expected to be ready with a number of appointments to submit to the Senate for confirmation. He is due to make new selections for adjutant general and secretary of state as a result of Senate rejection of his first nominees. Governor Stevenson was expected also to act on the expiring terms in the board of regents for A&M college and the board of regents for the state teacher colleges.

Installment Tax In Wide Favor

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Congressmen reported today that mail from their constituents is overwhelmingly in favor of a pay-as-you-go plan with opinion widely divided as to the details.

The Ruml plan appeared to be the most often mentioned by persons who went into detail in their recommendations but congressmen reported many popular misconceptions of the effect of its proposal to cancel 1942 taxes.

One letter among 50 received by Rep. Angell (R-Ore) was distinctly out of step with the majority. The writer said he had the money for his 1942 income tax all saved up and wanted to get rid of it.

Massachusetts Active

Senator Lodge (R-Mass) expressed the opinion that a campaign for pay-as-you-go was under way in Massachusetts in view of the fact that he and Senaotr Walsh (D-Mass) both members of the finance committee, have been getting 200 or more letters daily. The volume compelled Walsh to resort to a mimeographed reply saying that he is "generally in accord."

Lodge's staff estimated that 60 per cent of his correspondents favored the Ruml plan, while five to eight per cent proposed plans of their own.

DALLAS, Feb. 13. (AP)—Thomas Wallace Tucker, 31, who escaped Dec. 27 from Retrieve prison farm at Angelton, was arrested here today by Officer A. M. Ganz, who recognized Tucker from a picture on a "wanted" circular.

Tucker was convicted and sentenced in the fatal stabbing of his wife and a man in a Fort Worth rooming house in 1940. He was sentenced to 50 years in the death of his wife and 14 years in the slaying of the man.

Man Loses His Life Between Freight Cars

BROWNWOOD, Feb. 13 (U.P.) — Grant McJunkin, 34, was fatally injured late yesterday when he was crushed between two freight cars.

McJunkin is general agent of the Waco-Tex Materials company and was operating a rock crusher when the accident happened.

TEACHERS TO GET BONUS

McALLEN, Feb. 13 (AP)—School trustees announced that teachers here who received $1800 per year or less would receive a $100 bonus each at the end of this year's school term providing approval is given by the War Labor Board.

Work Ordered Halted On Detinning Plants

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP) — The War Production board today ordered a halt to construction and the revocation of priority ratings on 10 detinning and recovery plant projects with a total cost of more than $12,000,000.

Postponement of the construction jobs does not indicate a better supply situation in either tin or scrap steel, Chairman Donald M. Nelson said, but rather that "the motors, boilers, tanks and other equipment used in such plants are urgently needed in other phases of the war effort."

The plants halted were to have been located in Chicago, New York, Los Angeles, Dallas, Buffalo, Baltimore, Birmingham, Pittsburgh and Sewaren, N. J.

Texas Spanish Paper Celebrates Birthday

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 13 (AP)—La Prensa, Spanish language newspaper of San Antonio, today celebrated its 30th anniversary.

Founded Feb. 13, 1913, by Ignacio Eugenio Lozano, its present editor, the publication has the distinction of being the oldest Spanish language newspaper in the western hemisphere in length of publication under the same management.

La Prensa is served by the world wide news facilities of the Associated Press.

Elk Loses Dignity In Brush With Humanity

STIRNITE, Idaho, Feb. 13 (AP) —This wandering bull elk lost some of his dignity.

The elk, following a snowplow, was trapped on a bridge by automobiles coming from both directions. He leaped into the stream but was ice-bound.

Miners roped and pulled him to safety. He made no attempt to charge—just stood and shivered and, one miner said, looked thankful.

He finally wandered on.

THIEF STEALS GLASSES

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 13 (U.P.)—A mere "Zoot suit" robber here boosted his professional ration to that of a "meanest thief" at one fell swoop. Approaching Frank Samuel Robb, who was standing at a corner waiting a favorable moment for crossing, the thief snatched Robb's thick-lensed glasses from his nose and fled. Robb, helpless without his glasses, was unable to give chase.

1. Checks Germ Growth in Drinking Water. 80% of 3,355 chicks sent Dr. Salsbury's Laboratories for free diagnosis had bowel troubles. These troubles often come from germs entering the digestive system through the drinking water. Phen-O-Sal inhibits germ growth. 2. Medicates Chick's Digestive System. Phen-O-Sal's non-oxidizing medicines stay active, reach the entire digestive system with astringent action so often needed in bowel troubles. Use Phen-O-Sal in any kind of water.

Guadalcanal Fight Ends In Reunion

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert C. Miller was the only correspondent to cover both the invasion of Guadalcanal by American Marines and the conclusive last battle. In the following dispatch, Miller describes the climactic meeting of the American forces after crushing Japanese resistance on Guadalcanal in America's first great land offensive of the war in the south Pacific.

BY ROBERT C. MILLER
United Press Staff Writer

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES ON GUADALCANAL, S. I., Feb. 9 — (Delayed) — Two bearded men, their uniforms caked with mud, advanced cautiously toward each other through an abandoned cocoanut plantation today, saluted and clasped hands in a reunion that signaled the end of land fighting on Guadalcanal.

It was the union of two American forces which had driven the last vestige of Japanese resistance from the northwestern tip of Guadalcanal in the first all-American victory of the war in the Pacific.

Jubilant Meeting

Leading the forces moving from the west, Maj. H. Wirt Butler, 45-year-old Springfield, Ill., national guardsman, greeted Lieut. Col. James Dalton, Burlington, Vt., pushing westward with his battle-begrimed troops.

"I'm damn glad to see you, colonel," said Major Butler, wringing his senior's hand.

"I'm sure glad to see you, too, major," the colonel replied.

Men from both commands rushed forward through the dense underbrush, waving their rifles and hugging each other. Every man of them shouted almost as one.

Friends Reunite

"It's over boys," they cried. "We chased those little yellow (unprintables) back to Japan."

Old friends from the two forces recognized each other despite the dirt and beards on their faces and the camouflaging of their uniforms. They greeted each other uproariously.

One said 'jeez, men, I wish we had a bottle to celebrate this. I'll bet my mom will be glad when she reads this back home."

Exhausted, the men flopped on the ground for the first relaxation since the offensive to drive the Japs from the island was renewed Feb. 1 by landing troops at Verahue, 18 miles beyond Cape Esperance behind the Jap lines and trapping the enemy between two columns rushing along the coast.

Makes First Jap Retreat

The historical battle for Guadalcanal, which began six months and two days ago, 35 miles to the east down the coast near the mouth of the Tenaru river, ended at 4:25 p. m., about 100 yards west of the deserted native villlage of Tenamba, near the Tenamba river.

The simultaneous drives of the two American columns ended completely the Japanese occupation of the island and for the first time in the Pacific war, the Nippons were forced to retreat from previously conquered territory.

Except for a few hundred who escaped in small boats from the northern part of the island in the past fortnight, the Japanese army and marine units on Guadalcanal were utterly annihilated or taken prisoner.

Nips Leave Much Booty

In their haste to evacuate the then untenable island, the Japs left great quantities of booty behind them. This included two complete radio stations and scores of sampans and landing boats, about 200 collapsible boats and dozens of outboard motors, field pieces, machine guns, coastal guns, ammunition, food and medical supplies.

Few Japanese officers were captured, but everywhere there was evidence of their exodus. Behind them they left their personal gear, including the coveted officer's sword, pistols, daggers, all of which they are forbidden by divine tradition never to remove except in death.

"It is impossible to comprehend the supplies and equipment the Japs left spread along the beach between Marovoro and here," said Major Butler.

Try To Bury Valuable

The Japs made a frenzied effort to bury some valuables, but other supplies were dumped on the ground and abandoned.

Three bullet riddled Zero fighters which apparently had been shot down early in the campaign were discovered along the beach, not far from a two-man submarine which had been beached.

Col. Alexander George of Chicago, who led the force down the coast from Verahue, was wounded slightly by Jap machine gun fire and was removed. Lieut. Col. George F. Ferry of Chicago, former Carnegie steel manager, replaced him, and Butler was sent to the head of the advancing spearhead from the west.

Dalton's forces meanwhile had driven steadily along the western coast, meeting diminishing resistance as the hours passed.

Fresh Japanese Lauded

Ferry said that "from the landing we advanced behind a barrage of marine artillery, which did a magnificent job. Our first contact with the Japs came on Feb. 2, when we met a force estimated at 2000 fresh Jap marines, fully equipped and well armed.

"We believe these troops landed recently to protect an attempted evacuation, since they disappeared on Feb. 3 when we outflanked them."

George's troops remained at Marovoro until Feb. 8, when they advanced. Meanwhile Dalton's forces pushed up beyond Tassafaronga, 15 miles below Cape Esperance, behind heavy artillery barrage which blasted open a path for them.

"Apparently the Japs evacuated a large number of troops the night of Feb. 7," said Major Butler, "in the vicinity of Marovoro, as our forward outposts heard much jabbering and commotion along the shore, and we had little opposition on Feb. 8 or today.

Prisoners Malaria Stricken

"Most prisoners we captured suffered malaria. There were undoubtedly hundreds of Jap soldiers who died on this island from malaria and one of the reasons for our victory was that we were able to combat the disease and the Japs apparently couldn't."

It was estimated that less than 200 Japs remain in the island's jungle interior, without food, short of ammunition and probably suffering from malaria and other diseases.

Patrols are leaving tomorrow to ferret out those remaining, and take them prisoner or annihilate them, too.

With fighting ended, troops will be utilized day and night, establishing impregnable defenses to make Guadalcanal permanently secure from any possible future Japanese invasion and to build on it an arsenal from which to drive the enemy from all his conquered lands.

STOCKS ADVANCE SHARPLY

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Stocks, again paced by low-priced utilities, today edged out of a generally bullish week on the fastest and broadest Saturday market since Dec. 27, 1941.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended with a net advance of .3 of a point, and on the week was up .7 at 38, a new top since Jan. 13, 1941. Of 799 individual stocks traded, 439 were up and 360 down or unchanged. Transfers totalled 734,380 shares compared with 500,390 a week ago.

Among issues touching best levels for 1942-43 or longer were American Power and Light, Columbia Gas, National Power and Light, North American, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power and Light, American Water Works, International Telephone, Commonwealth and Southern, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, Deere, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Houston Oil and Warner Bros.

Up around a point were International Harvester, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Allied Chemical and U. S. Gypsum. Modest gains were shown for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Westinghouse, Anaconda, American Can, Texas Co. and U. S. Rubber. On the offside were Santa Fe, Philip Morris, Delaware and Hudson and Corn Products.

In an uneven curb gains were posted for Hazeltine, American Cyanamid "B" and Electric Bond and Share, recessions by Lehigh Coal, American Gas and Aluminum of America. The aggregate here was 220,880 shares versus 119,920 in the previous two-hour stretch.

Bonds were irregularly higher. At Chicago wheat was unchanged to off ¼ of a cent a bushel, corn up ⅛ to ¼, and hogs steady. Cotton was up 25 cents a bale to down 10 cents.

This week' activity on the big board, approximating 1,500,000 shares each on Wednesday and Thursday, best in more than a year, was due almost wholly to the spring of stocks selling under $10 a share. On one day the 10 liveliest performers averaged $5.66 a share and accounted for about 20 per cent of the volume.

The upturn in rye was supported by a scarcity of offerings. Some traders said they felt the feeding demand for rye grain had improved. At the start of trading today open interest in rye totalled 39,353,000 bushels, an all time high, compared with 28,764,000 bushels of wheat.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅝ lower, May $1.39⅝-1.40, July $1.39¼, corn was ⅛-¼ higher, May 88¾, oats advanced ⅛-⅜, rye gained ⅝-⅞ and there was no trading in soy beans.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13 (AP) — The lost mascot of a company of army engineers is starving, apparently from grief.

Wearing a blanket indicating his company and regiment, the dog has been wandering around union station for three days without food. Baggage agent Clarence J. Wehmeyer said officials of Jefferson barracks and Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., reported they did not know the location of the animal's unit.

Meanwhile, the forlorn pet makes up with all soldiers, spurns all civilians and refuses to eat from the hands of either.

Japs Set Losses Well Under Ours

(By The United Press)

A Tokyo radio broadcast heard in London today gave a summary of losses not previously reported in the Solomons campaign, including seven small Japanese warships and five cargo ships sunk and eight small Allied warships and eight cargo ships sunk.

A little later a Berlin broadcast, purporting to cover the same communique, said that three Japanese battleships had been sunk.

215 Jap Planes Lost

The Tokyo version quoted an imperial headquarters communique, covering losses not previously reported during the entire campaign from Aug. 7. to Feb. 7, including 215 Japanese planes destroyed.

Three destroyers, five cargo ships, three submarines and one patrol vessel were reported sunk and one cruiser, four submarines, five cargo ships and one patrol vessel damaged.

It was reported that 114 Japanese planes were damaged.

Allied losses, not already reported, were put at four submarines, three torpedo boats, one patrol vessel and eight cargo ships sunk, and three destroyers, four submarines, one patrol vessel and two cargo ships damaged.

The communique said that 205 Allied planes, in addition to those reported, had been shot down and 32 destroyed on the ground.

Three Battleships

The Berlin broadcast, quoting the same communique under a Tokyo dateline, put Japanese losses at "three battleships" sunk, in a statement of losses not announced so far, in addition to the three destroyers and one submarine sunk, four submarines and one patrol boat heavily damaged, and one cruiser damaged.

This version of the communique reported 205 Japanese planes lost.

The Berlin version listed four Allied "battleships" sunk, in addition to losses already reported, along with three submarines, and one torpedo boat sunk and four submarines, one patrol boat and three destroyers heavily damaged.

It also put the number of Allied planes destroyed on the ground at 30.

Behind The War News

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

The hour is close for the concerted Allied attack to drive the Germans out of Tunisia, by the words of President Roosevelt and Secretary Stimson in their warnings of American casualties to come and of Prime Minister Churchill in his review to Commons.

Neither President nor Prime Minister nor anyone else in authority has revealed much about the definite Allied plan of action worked out at Casablanca to crack up the Axis in Europe and then turn all resources against Japan. It was not to be expected that the details would be disclosed even by inference.

KIRKE SIMPSON

Circumstances of the struggle at sea or in Russia as they develop always must govern the timing and direction of Allied attacks within the four corners of the general strategic design adopted.

Basic Objectives

That does not apply to basic objectives, however. And in the British drive from India into Burma, in developments in the Solomons theater and MacArthur's steady push northwestward in New Guinea, ultimate recapture of lost oil fields is a fundamental facet of Allied strategy now just as their taking in Burma and the Dutch Indies was the key to Japan's conquest design.

Mr. Roosevelt promised that "important actions will be taken in the skies over China—and over Japan itself." The supplying of fuel for planes which will undertake that action is a prime consideration.

Mr. Churchill pictured the British purpose in Burma as the reopening of the Burma road to China. Implicit in that is ultimate reopening of a Burma oil source to power the planes, tanks and other oil-fueled war weapons to be supplied to China and to be launched at Japan.

At the moment American planes operating in China's aid must be largely fueled with gasoline flown in over difficult routes as MacArthur's weapons are powered by slow trans-Pacific oil shipments.

East Indies Oil

Given ultimate access to Burma or Dutch East Indies oil sources and the Allied transportation strain in the Pacific and Indian Ocean theaters could be greatly reduced. Tokyo does not need to be told that. I know that early recapture of oil sources must be a controlling motive in the Allied war design in the Pacific.

The reverse of the oil metal so far as the Allies are concerned is a basic asset of the African campaign which unquestionably went far to shape the pattern of major strategy evolved at Casablanca. Nowhere but in the Middle East except in Russia is oil to implement Allied attacks by land, air and sea available free of sea-borne Hazards and delays. Once Tunisia has been cleared of the foe, a tremendous concentration of Allied troops and planes in relatively easy reach of adequate food supplies as well as oil will be poised in Africa and the Middle East for offensive action in any of several global theaters.

Bolivian Kills And Dismembers Women

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 13. (U.P.)—Police said today that Luis Ancleto Montano, 29-year-old Bolivian medical student, has confessed to the "Patio murders", admitting that he killed his mother, his mistress and the latter's daughter in Cordoba, Argentina. Montano, police said, dismembered their bodies with a butcher knife and buried them under the tiles of the patio in their home.

Police were led to Montano's hiding place by a letter he wrote to municipal authorities in Cordoba asking that his back salary be forwarded to "Juan Via" in Cochabamba, Bolivia. They arrested Senora Foustian Via, who said she was Montano's aunt, and located Montano as a result of a statement she made.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

THE origin of St. Valentine's day dates back 2,000 years to the days of pagan culture of ancient Rome and the custom of sending Valentines goes back to Chaucer's era in the 1400's. Although the holiday is deeply rooted in antiquity many of its early observances have not been lost.

During the festivities honoring the pastoral gods Lupercus and Pan, Roman maidens would place their names in an urn set up in a public place and the unmarried men would draw the slips. This lottery method of introduction, it was hoped, would lead to a permanent romance.

The Feast of Lupercalia and the love lottery persisted even after the advent of Christianity, notwithstanding the fact that church leaders frowned upon the festival as a pagan celebration. The problem finally was solved by dedicating the day to St. Valentine, patron of the amorous.

There are actually seven St. Valentines, but THE St. Valentine was a young Roman priest who was beheaded on Feb. 14, 270 A. D., during the reign of Emperor Claudius for refusing to denounce his faith in Christianity. It is said that during his imprisonment he formed a friendship with his jailer's blind daughter and wrote her a farewell message signed, "From Your Valentine," thus setting a phrase for Valentine greetings which has carried down through the years.

SCATTERINGS

LUCY MONROE, "the Star-Spangled Banner Girl," says our fighting men are wonderful singers if they have a "cheer leader," and not a "musicologist with a long puss" to lead them . . . Lubbock women who like to entertain will probably make out lists of "must bring" for their dinner guests after rationing goes into effect, something that has been done in England for months. It's said over there every hostess welcomes the guest who can bring her jams, homemade cookies or a few fresh eggs . . . Nomination for week's story of a gallant man: a Chicago secretary, upon running to catch a bus, slipped and fell. As she lay on the pavement, a man rushed past her, calling out, "Get up quickly. I'll hold the bus for you."

WAR DIARY — If you want to have some interesting reading for a few years hence, why not start a war diary? In it keep track of members of the family in the service. Jot down rationing rules and regulations. Keep track of the things you were asked to save and the things you couldn't buy. Tell on what date you began slicing bread. Keep a diary, not of the headlines from the newspapers, but of everyday living of one family —your family.

AN army of vegetable eaters has descended upon Australia, in the uniforms of the United States. Australians, who normally consume a much smaller amount of vegetables than do Americans, were suddenly confronted by huge demands for fresh vegetables for our Army's use. So, as our transports docked and troops filed off, Australia's requests for additional supplies of vegetable seeds were frantically dispatched to American firms. The orders were filled and Australia is now growing more vegetables than ever before in her history.

DID you know why the Navy's deadliest vessels are known as PT boats? It's because they take their name from propeller torpedoes . . . The proximity of our office to the County War Price and Rationing board has caused an influx of perplexed people whose faces brighten when they are directed "next door, please" . . . Although he plugged Max Hill's interesting book, "Exchange Ship," in a recent column, we doubt that Walter Winchell had read it because he mentions Hill was grabbed at Pearl Harbor. Those who read the book know that Hill was grabbed just after dawn one morning in Tokyo where he had been bureau chief of the Associated Press for two years . . . Since juke boxes are on the doubtful list, perhaps we'll see a revival of the put a nickel in the slot pianos . . . HOUDINI'S SECRET—Notice of the death of Mrs. Harry Houdini, widow of the famous magician, recalls a story Houdini told years ago of secrets of a happy married life. It seems Mrs. Houdini had something of a temper and early in their marriage young Houdini realized there might be many unfortunate quarrels if they didn't take care. Knowing that it takes two to make a quarrel he would arise when there was a flare of temper, take his hat and walk around several blocks. Upon returning home he pitched his hat in the door. If it came sailing back he took a longer walk. If it remained inside he followed it.

IN keeping with the spirit of these days when "getting the most for your money" is almost a daily necessity, Shulton presents the Old Spice Tissue box. It serves a two-fold purpose, containing talcum powder and three cakes of soap and after the contents have been removed the box will serve as a cleaning tissue dispenser . . . he had "lost his marbles," as they say in the Air Corps. However, they soon discovered he was a friendly business man with a son at Pearl Harbor who was proud of the Air Corps and found that means of expressing it.

Greetings and Salutations, folks . . . this your ole friend, NOSEY III once again. I've been wondering whether all of the good people from the East, North and West who are in the Army—or visiting in Lubbock survived the duster (or sand storm) the other day. It was a pretty good one, wasn't it. Say, time's slipping by pretty fast, so guess I'd better ramble over to Decorators Studio and see what's cookin'. Maybe some of Fredda's market purchases are beginning to come in . . . ole NOSEY will let you in on anything new that arrives. Marge (Mrs. J. E. Edwards), former employee at Decorators, was recently injured in an automobile wreck near Chicago. She is getting along fine and will probably be in the hospital for six more weeks. Her infant son and husband escaped uninjured. The baby was thrown in the snow and was said to be plenty mad about the situation. Fredda saw Marge last week and said she looked grand.

Fredda's still in Chicago and there's reports that (like the rest of us) she was unable to purchase shoes last Monday.

Looks like Mr. Paul V. McNutt is going to get the boys between the ages of 18-38 in the army—defense or on the farms before long so looks like yours truly won't be Nosey III very much longer. Guess we'll have to name the next nosey PRIVATE NOSEY.

Yours, NOSEY III.

From Lou To Louella

DEAR LOUELLA: Lavon Ostrom, who went to Whitworth college in Mississippi last semester, has returned to Tech. Her sister, Elnita, also a former Tech student, is now attending Northwestern university, Chicago . . . Two very attractive transfers from Tarleton are Frieda Relley and Pat Snodgrass . . . Jean Morgan, who hails from Mamaroneck, N. Y., is getting a touch of Texas in her heart . . . We really miss the presence of Rex Harris on the campus. Rex left for armed service recently . . . A Tech professor popular with the students is Paul Arnolds-Patron, who teaches economics and management. Several coeds have remarked on his striking resemblance to Charles Boyer.

IN THE MAIL

Dear Lou: Seen around together frequently are Joy Bockman, dashing junior from LHS, and handsome Ernest Conley, Tech sophomore. What happened to Ruth, Ernest?

ARMY-NAVY NOTES

THE ever-ready wit of Cadet Tom Caldwell is "sumpin'". Tom is in LAFS class 43-B, and hails from Farwell . . . Sgt. Earl J. "Smitty" Smith, formerly stationed at LAFS, visited in Lubbock recently. Earl is now stationed in Pueblo, Colorado . . . Henry Austin, Tech graduate, is now in Miami, Fla. He recently graduated from Naval school at Notre Dame . . . Bettye and Pat Wiman (she is the former Bettye Babb), now living in Chicago, are expected to visit Lubbock in the near future. Pat is attending school at Great Lakes Naval Training station . . . Seen together lately are Marie Street and LAFS Cadet Pete Austin, who hails from Virginia. He has the most distinctive drawl! . . . Lt. Jack Loving, former Lubbock High gridster, is now an instructor in navigation at Clovis.

ON THE FLY

Mrs. Jimmy Moore, of Tishomingo, Okla., surprised her sister, Lucille Hall, with a visit this week . . . Despite rumors to the contrary, Mary Ann Stephenson is not working at LAFS. However, she is not attending Tech this semester . . . Seen having fun together last week were Nita Edwards, attractive freshman from San Angelo, and Bobby Lewis . . . At a dinner given for J. C. Bearden by the Paul Sherrods, several of his friends decided to surprise him with a shower. He received dishpans, soap, scrub boards, and other household articles, and from what we hear, he was more than embarrassed. Motion pictures were taken of J. C. opening the gifts. . . .

HERE AND THERE

MARY SMITH, Tech junior, received a box of Valentine candy from Cadet Robert Pardue, former Tech student, who just finished pre-flight training at San Antonio . . . Jo McDuff and Lt. John Yates of Mississippi and LAFS, are quite the steady twosome. We wonder if he rates as well as Lt. Norman Tanner at Pyote Field, and Tom Stuart, a glider pilot now stationed in Victorville, Cal. . . . Dora Lee Lewis, freshman from Sweetwater, and Zanelle Bledsoe, freshman from Waco, are quitting school because they haven't been able to find a suitable place to live . . . In class recently, a professor remarked that Georgia Lee Powers, senior journalism major, was the "wit of the class." To which a student replied, "You're only half right, sir."

Love,
Lou.

Harry Crockett's Fearless Hunt For News Carried Him To Death In Mediterranean

EDITOR'S NOTE: "We all owe far more than we can express to the war correspondents who are in the front lines of battle that we may receive the news swiftly and completely. Too seldom, in our easy chairs, as we read in our papers about exciting far-off events, do we stop to think that the correspondents left their homes and native land for a life of hardship and peril that we might be informed about battles which are deciding the destiny of the world." — the Rev. Franklin P. Cole, Church of the Gardens, Forest Hills, N. Y., at memorial services to Harry Crockett, AP reporter, killed in action with the Mediterranean fleet.

By JOHN FERRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The German plane swooped low over the hot desert and suddenly its machineguns started firing. The reporter dived under a truck.

Later he was to ride in a tank perilously close to enemy minefields . . . and in planes of all types . . . and in destroyers, battleships and submarines.

He was to stand with tough British artillerymen under the glaring Egyptian sun and watch them pound the Germans and Italians, and to expose himself to bullets to see an infantry advance . . . And finally he was to sail with the British Mediterranean fleet—and die.

Something Of A Legend

Around the camp fires in the western desert he had become, in short time, something of a legend. That was understandable: he was bold and breezy and salty in his humor. But in most respects he was like the other men he worked with, willing to take the risks imposed on modern war reporters, doing it without bravado and digging for the news wherever there was any.

His name was Harry Crockett and he said goodbye to his wife, and his two children last April and went out to Cairo, inwardly tremulous with excitement, eager to do a good job and with no more of the premonitory dread than would come to any normal man. He was 31 when he died somewhere in the Mediterranean early this month after being wounded in the torpedoing of a British warship which was carrying him back to Alexandria from Malta.

Typical Example

His story is worth the telling because Harry was a good example of the kind of man who goes out to the world's battlefronts to get the news for the people at home.

He was born in Lowell, Mass., and was educated at Lowell High school. He didn't go to college, though most reporters do. Harry went to work for the Lowell Courier-Citizen. His first boss, Willis Beane, who was city editor of the paper, remembers him as "long, lank, slender, straight as an arrow, large dark eyes and a smile."

"He was fast-thinking and fast in movement," Beane recalls.

"He loved news. He loved to chase it and he loved to get the names and the facts. He was of the who, when, where and what type. A cheery boy, everybody liked him.

He Loved Life

"He loved life and he had what not all men do have, the competitive news spirit. If there was ever any misunderstanding with the desk, he always wanted to straighten it out at once."

Before he went overseas he came down to see me one day.

"I said: 'Harry, what are you doing it for.'

"He answered: 'I think I can do a good job there. I don't know, but I'm going to try.'

Faced Death Many Times

"Once or twice since he went I saw letters he sent back to relatives here and he'd looked death pretty squarely in the face quite a number of times.

"In one he said: 'We were in a slit trench and the other fellow was a New Zealander. Gleason was his name and we could see German tanks coming. We just looked and said let 'em come, we can't stop them if they are going to get us—.' But they veered to one side and went by.'

"Well, that's the story of Harry,"—

There is more to it, of course.

After nine years with the Lowell paper he had joined the Associated Press bureau in Boston, eager and alert as ever. His willingness to volunteer for any dangerous assignment as keen as always.

During the New England hurricane in September, 1938, he was working in the office on the Massachusetts primary election. He gave up sleep to jump to the hurricane story.

In the following year the submarine Squalus sank off Portsmouth, N. H. Harry had worked all night and, still without sleep, stole a march on hundreds of other reporters covering the disaster.

Went To Scene

With two other reporters he started out in a small lobster boat to the spot, 15 miles offshore, where Navy men were trying to hook a rescue line onto the sunken submarine.

From the admiral directing the operations, Crockett received word that 26 men were trapped in the flooded after compartments and had been given up for lost.

The lobster boat turned back with three seasick reporters. Only Crockett was able to leave the boat immediately. He had almost severed his right thumb when rough seas threw him on a lobster hook. But he staggered to a telephone and told his office the news 12 hours before the Navy officially announced it.

Transferred To New York

He was transferred to New York in the spring of 1940, still as enthusiastic as the youngest reporter in the world.

"I know exactly what I'm getting into," he told a friend just before he left for the war. "I know the dangers and I know my chances of ever coming home again. But I want to cover some of this war and I'm going to."

He was nervous but not afraid.

Saw Plenty Action

And, as Ed Kennedy wrote later, he saw action as fast and as often as any correspondent who came to the Middle East. He went into the desert and met Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, prime minister of South Africa, who gave him a personal message of gratitude and pride to the people of the United States for their aid.

He spent weeks in the desert, brilliantly reporting the fall of Tobruk to the Axis forces. He went to Eritrea last August and was the first to report that the United States had raised a large drydock in the Massaua harbor where the Axis had scuttled 26 ships.

He interviewed Wendell L. Willkie at Cairo.

Volunteered For Task

In September he volunteered for the dangerous fleet assignment after Larry Allen had been captured at Tobruk by the Italians. British naval officers called him "the pilgrim" because of his love for the sea. Men of the RAF, fleet air arm, army and torpedo boat flotillas knew him and liked him. He never hesitated to take the risks they were taking.

On January 20 the Associated Press received from him a dispatch telling of the sinking of 11 Axis supply ships in the Mediterranean. The perils of being under gunfire had not abated his enthusiasm.

He was heading back from Malta to Cairo when the torpedo struck.

They buried him at sea.

The Fourth Annual Leadership Training school for Christian Workers, sponsored by a number of Lubbock churches, will be held in the First Christian church, Broadway and Avenue X, from Feb. 28 to March 5, it has been announced by Lubbock ministers, who term the meeting "probably the greatest cooperative affair since the day of union revival meetings."

The churches are expecting about 500 persons to attend the school to learn "what and how the church teaches." The leaders are men and women of outstanding ability, selected because of proficiency in their respective fields.

Miss Lois Swick, who will offer a course of particular interest to those who have children of intermediate age, is a graduate of Phillips university and was for three years an educational worker in one of the largest churches in Kansas City. She is at present educational director of the First Christian church in Amarillo.

Miss Callan has a B. A. degree from the University of Pittsburgh and an M. A. degree from Columbia university.

Miss Grace Padley, guidance director in the Lubbock public schools system, who has an M. A. degree from Northwestern university, will conduct a course for those who are working with young people of high school and college age.

Rev. Hall To Teach Course

To teach a course entitled "When Children Worship," is Miss Ruth Towne, director of religious education at the First Christian church. Miss Towne holds B. A. and M. A. degrees from Phillips university.

Rev. A. W. Hall, retired pastor, who spends his time in teaching Bible schools, will offer an original study on "The New Testament, Its Contents and Values."

A course for superintendents of church schools is to be taught by Rev. W. E. Hamilton, executive secretary of the Northwestern Conference of the Methodist church.

There will be two class periods at each daily session.

One of the highlights of the school will be an address each evening by Rev. R. A. Partlow, religious education director for the El Paso presbytery, who will use as the basis of his talks "The Sermon on the Mount."

Second Victim Dies Of Accident Injuries

UVALDE, Feb. 13. (AP)—Ike Ammons of Sabinal died in a hospital here Friday several hours after a traffic accident in which Loue Smith, 35, also of Sabinal, was killed.

The three men were en route to work at Hondo when their automobile and a truck collided head-on on a bridge east of Sabinal.

COLOR AIMED AT YOUTH

Orange carpets, green pews, and gaily painted walls were introduced into St. John's church, England, because the vicar thought such brightness would attract more young people.

TO PREACH HERE—Dr. E.D. Head, president of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, will conduct services at the First Baptist church here at 11 o'clock this morning. For several years a professor of Bible in Baylor university, he has for the past 10 years been pastor of the First Baptist church in Houston. He recently succeeded Dr. L. R. LAFS Officer Former Fighter For French; Was Miner, Ice Man

Fighter in the French army, ambulance driver and a naval cadet in the last war, Captain Edward R. Byrd of the Lubbock Army Flying school has engaged in various activities since then, from the ice business to mining.

At LAFS he is field maintenance officer and his home is San Antonio. In 1917 he received his A. B. degree from Washington university, where he was a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity and participated in track and football. In May of that same year he arrived in France as commander of the Washington university ambulance unit and served in that capacity until the time the unit was dissolved.

Captain Byrd then enlisted in the French army and was attached to a transport military unit of the French army. This unit operated in the Aisne and Chemin Des Dames front. Upon completion of his duties with that unit he returned to the United States and at the time the Armistice was signed was a flying cadet in the Naval Air Force ground school in Boston, that same year was released from the Navy.

Since then and the time he entered the Air Forces he was engaged in the ice business and then in lode mining activities in Arizona and Sonora, Mexico; mining silver, copper, lead and zinc. Either this later activity influenced his hobbies or his hobbies influenced the mining business, for among hobbies he likes mineralogy and metallurgy.

In May of 1942 he volunteered into active service with the Air Forces and was commissioned at Randolph Field, Texas, May 26, was transferred to Lubbock on May 29 and has been serving here since.

His wife is a former San Antonio resident and they now reside in Lubbock.

Would You Do This With Milk?

When the milkman brings the morning's milk, do you at once step to the sink and pour out a portion of it? Certainly not!

THEN WHY WASTE NATURAL GAS?

The various gas cocks, fittings and piping on your premises may not be gas tight and can frequently waste a large amount of gas in a year through leakage.

With the Bunsen type of blue flame burner, a showing of red or yellow in the flame is an indication of imperfect combustion and therefore waste. Much gas is wasted by keeping room temperatures too high.

Heat radiated into furnace rooms from the furnace, the furnace piping, and hot water and steam piping does not enter the room that is to be heated and therefore is wasted. Proper insulating of furnace piping will greatly curtail this loss. In any gas heating device the temperature of the combustion products where they go into the chimney has an important bearing on heat loss.

Improper adjustment of appliances resulting in imperfect combustion is a waste.

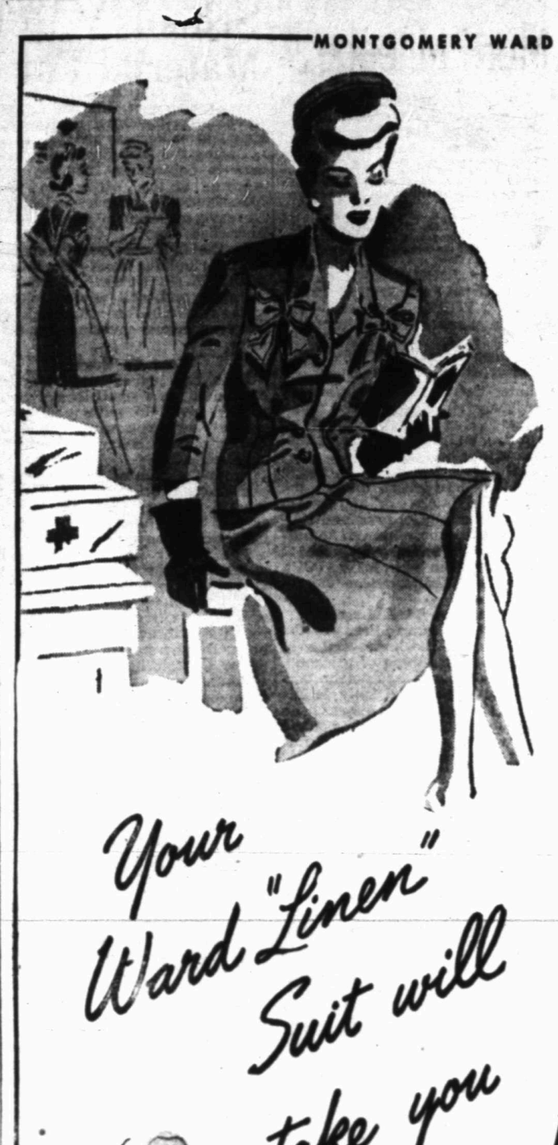

Water that precipitates scale or sediment will frequently build up a thick coating on the inside of the water heater over point of flame contact and greatly increase the amount of gas necessary to heat the water.

Turning on gas to a point where the flame goes over the top in open top space heaters wastes gas.

While we can not regulate the amount of gas that you use, we do urge you to take care that your consumption does not exceed your actual needs. Satisfied customers constitute our best asset. They are worth more to us than any revenue derived from gas which is wasted.

Salesmen Ask More Mileage

Traveling salesmen working out of Lubbock have enough rubber on their present tires to serve their business requirements considerably more than a year if liberalized mileage allotments they are seeking should be approved.

This was the showing claimed in a survey completed in cooperation with the salesmen and reported Saturday at the chamber of commerce.

The survey represented the latest move in the effort to persuade the national rubber administration to be more liberal in its treatment of salesmen in the gasoline ration allowed them to carry on their work.

700 Miles Per Month

At the present time, chamber officials explained, the maximum allotment for salesmen allows them approximately 700 miles of business driving per month. Their average mileage in 1942 was shown to be approximately 2,500 miles per month and in 1941 it was more than 3,000 miles. Through the chamber of commerce, the rubber administration was urged recently to allow them slightly less than 1,500 miles per month.

The answer to that plea was, in substance:

The mileage you ask represents 3,990,000 miles of travel. Where's the extra rubber coming from for that travel?

Answer Is Prepared

The chamber of commerce answer, following the survey, will be:

The rubber on the tires they have is good, conservatively, for more than 4,600,000 miles of travel without re-capping. They have the rubber if you will let them have the gasoline.

The average salesman, according to this showing, has enough rubber, with re-capping, to drive an average of 1,500 miles per month almost until Jan. 1, 1945.

Cut In Service Threatened

Unless they are treated more liberally, according to the chamber of commerce contention, they cannot serve the large territories that are typical of sparsely settled areas like the South Plains.

Information in the survey, chamber officials explained, was compiled from questionnaries returned by individual salesmen. The questionnaries are detailed.

They show, in the aggregate, that salesmen were following rigid tire and gasoline conservation practices long before rationing was put into effect. They are visiting their territories much less frequently, using buses and trains when practical, have worked out doubling-up arrangements among themselves, are using the mails and telephones much more than ever before, and are employing various other devices to hold rubber and gasoline uses to the minimum.

They have accomplished very large reductions as to their requirements in spite of the fact that the average territory is much larger because so many salesmen have gone into the armed services.

Chamber officials said the new information will be submitted to William M. Jeffers, national rubber administrator, at once.

Students In Army Training Schools Will Be Potential Material For Commissions

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — Students attending colleges and universities under the new army specialized training program will not be permitted to participate in inter-collegiate sports, Col. Herman Beukema, director of the program, announced today.

It will be up to institutions to determine whether they can maintain normal athletic programs with civilian players, he said.

However, when the Army program gets in full swing this spring most of the civilian men left on campuses will be selective service rejects and youths under 18. As a result, a difficult time was foreseen for college football next fall.

To Begin March 1

Intensity of the study and training program will preclude participation in major athletics by the student-soldiers, Beukema said, although competitive intramural sports will have a place in their physical training.

The first courses under the Army specialized training program will begin March 1 in advanced engineering subjects at least one university in each service command, Beukema said. by April 1 the program will be in full swing.

As yet no contracts have been concluded between the Army and any educational institutions, but they soon will be, he said.

First Claim To OCS

Generally speaking, officer candidate schools will have first claim on college youths upon completion of their basic training of 13 weeks, in Army camps, it was said. If such candidates are mature enough for officer material, they will go directly to officer training schools.

However, youthful students who need further development, and others with special qualifications such as technical education who require additional specialized training, will be selected after basic training and assigned to colleges and universities.

Beukema said it was up to the educational institutions to determine what credits they would grant for the army courses.

Calls Due By Spring

When the educational program is in full operation the Army will have 150,000 students in colleges under the specialized training program, 70,000 aviation cadets, 30,000 men taken from the ranks for courses in meteorology, electronics and other subjects, and, ultimately, 37,000 WAACS. WAACS attending school now number 19,000.

Lieut. Col. W. E. Gregory of the adjutant general's department said all members of the Army's enlisted reserve will be called up by the end of the school year. Exclusive of aviation cadets, these reserves in colleges and universities number about 48,400.

Some 19,400 were in certain special groups who will be called up at the end of the first school term which started in 1943.

The other 29,000 are liable to call at the end of the first college term ending Dec. 31, 1942. Many of these, in fact, have already been called up.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13. (U.P.)—Yessir! It takes all kinds.

A customer in a St. Louis cafeteria noticed, upon reaching his table, that he had been overcharged a nickel.

He summoned a waitress and asked her to take his check back to the cashier and rectify the mistake.

A few minutes later the waitress returned carrying a scoop of ice cream which she deposited on the customer's pie.

Shower-Room Singer Reveals Opera Voice

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13 (U.P.)—Pvt. Giovanni Benedetto, 19, Metropolitan Opera singer stationed here, was found out by a weakness for singing in the shower.

He successfully kept his identity a secret until another private passing by the shower heard the refrains of a song from within. He inquired who was singing and was told:

"Oh, that's Benedetto in there. Nice voice."

The name was recognized and the young soldier was persuaded to sing for the boys. He rendered Victor Herbert's "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Celeste Aida."

Benedetto was shipped with his company this week for an unknown destination.

Watch Is Smashed To Get Class' Attention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13 (U.P.) — Officer Candidate Milton Seaman, former New York attorney, instituted a novel way of getting attention at recent class exercises by borrowing a gold watch from a willing volunteer and smashing it on the floor.

The class expected unusual attention-getting speech openings—called "Ho-Hum" in the course—but had not expected anything quite so drastic.

The laugh turned out to be on the audience, however, as the speaker had cleverly switched watches and had in reality broken a cheap watch.

Public Recreational Opportunities!

Yes, the City of Lubbock hopes and plans public recreational opportunities in city parks next summer.

Naturally, all present planning must be subject to changing conditions. But the outlook at the moment appears encouraging.

This answers a question about which many people may have wondered, and some have asked, since the recent discontinuance of the Works Projects administration.

Since the WPA has had a part which has been so important in recreation projects of past years, it has been natural that people might be curious as to how the discontinuance of the agency would affect similar projects in the future. Through the WPA the first such project was made possible some six years ago. During the years that have followed, WPA participation has been an essential part of the activities. The WPA has paid the salaries of the operating personnel. The City has supplied the equipment required for operation of the projects.

Now that WPA help no longer is available, the City hopes and expects to carry on. Very probably some curtailments of activities will be necessary if the project can be operated next summer. But the expectation is that the activities still will provide constructive, healthful and pleasurable recreation for many thousands of Lubbock people of all ages.

The cost of anything that may be done will be astonishingly low to the city. In past years, the cost has been substantially less than 1/25th of 1 cent for each hour of entertainment and pleasure afforded participants in the project. This has been a big return for busy mothers who have not hesitated to entrust their children to the trained and skilled supervisors in the park. It doubtless has helped to keep boys "out of mischief" by providing constructive outlet for their youthful energies. There have been many other benefits. Yet the total outlay for any season of operation never has been more than a few hundred dollars.

Of the "recreation dollar," less than 6 cents has been obtained through taxation. More than 80 cents has come from profits of City Electric and Water Departments. The profits from these utilities pay more than four-fifths of the operating cost, not only of recreational projects, but of every activity of every kind that is involved in the operation of the city government of Lubbock.

Thus, when you patronize those utilities, you get much more than the electricity and water you use for your money. You are helping to pay for the operation of the city government. Yet the Lubbock electric rate is among the lowest—if not the lowest—of any city in Texas. The water rate is wholly in line with those of other cities.

Plains Land Is In Big Demand

Farm land on the high plains of West Texas is in big demand, and more acreage is selling than at any time in the last several years.

The demand for improved farms has had the effect of increasing prices anywhere from $2.50 to $20 an acre, depending on improvements and location. It costs $40 to $75 an acre now to buy an improved farm in Lubbock county.

Virtually all sales, and there have been a great number reported by real estate firms and land companies, have been negotiated between local owners. There has been only a small percentage of purchases by families coming to West Texas from other sections. The trading seems to represent a readjustment between neighbors, or a desire to enlarge operations by one owner who has bought additional land from a neighboring owner who had more acres than he could farm successfully with a shortage of manpower.

Possession Is Problem

Real estate offices report many farm tracts for sale, but with difficulty in obtaining possession.

Renters who have been dispossessed because of farms being sold out from under them report they are having difficulty finding farm which they can rent. A few are buying homes of their own for the first time.

Sales are reported from every county on the South Plains. In a few counties outsiders are coming in, but in most instances the sales are of a local nature. All say the volume of land changing hands is unusually heavy, and good prices realized generally.

No Land For Rent

Brokers without exception reported they had no land for rent, but in every instance they reported considerable tillable land listed for sale, in almost any size tracts.

In a tour of several counties, supervisors from government agencies in touch with the situation reported farm work of every kind is "behind" the average in February. Some believe this is due to a desire on the farmer's part for conserving his moisture. There is a splendid season in the subsoil, and some farmers say plowing the land now for row crops would hasten the drying out process, which is the very thing they want to avoid. Others believe it is due to the shortages of labor and a general readjustment of ownership, tenancy, and slowness of the government in announcing policies for this year's production.

Rationing Of Nurses Considered Likely

CHICAGO, Feb. 13. (AP)—It soon may be necessary to ration nurses and to convert dude ranches and other vacation resorts into infirmaries, the American Hospital association was informed today.

James A. Hamilton, president of the organization, reported nurses would have to be rationed unless there was a substantial increase in the number trained by nursing schools. He estimated 50,000 new nurses would be needed to assure adequate care for patients.

Maury Maverick, director of governmental division of the war production board, stated treatment of sick civilians and casualties from the war zones would make it necessary to use all available hospital space and all kinds of buildings that can be adapted to such use—including "seaside resorts, mountain homes, dude ranches, office buildings, spas, fishing lodges, factories, ski lodges." He predicted the number of war wounded may rise as high as 1,000,000, and recommended an immediate national survey to find quarters.

combat in July and August and for courage and devotion to duty. His death resulted from failure of a heavy bomber to make the last few rods back to his home base, when it ran out of fuel. It struck trees and killed four airmen. His ship and three others participated in an aerial mission to destroy an enemy airplane carrier at extreme flying range of the flight. The target area was reached at sunset and, in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire and attacks from enemy pursuit aviation, bombing runs were immediately launched. Having completed its mission and successfully released all bombs on the carrier, the plane began the long flight home, in darkness, rain and low visibility. Lt. Montfort left Tech to enter the Marines, where he served three years, the last, in 1940, as head of the mathematics department of the Marine Corps institute in Washington, D. C. War Conditions Delay New Flag For Capitol

AUSTIN, Feb. 13 (AP)—There is no Texas flag flying from the state capitol today, but there's a reason.

Muslin, like lots of other things, is hard to get.

But for that fact, a new flag would have been up weeks ago.

Weaver Baker, chairman of the Board of Control, said the new flag would be ready "any day now" and would be raised as soon as it is.

There is no basis to reports Washington asked that the national instead of Texas colors be flown over the giant granite building in Austin, Baker asserted.

During the year 1941, sixty per cent of the buyers of farm land were farmers themselves.

Art Institute Hopes To Add Painting By Inness To Collection

One of the pictures which the Art Institute of Texas Technological college hopes to add to its collections of paintings through the current membership drive is "American Landscape" by George Inness, according to F. A. Kleinschmidt, head of the department of architectural engineering and allied arts.

This painting, which has an appraised value of $750, is one of 58 paintings secured by the Texas Tech Art Institute, as a member of the American Federation of Arts, for display during the month of February in West Texas Museum.

Introduced Movement

Inness is considered the father of the naturalistic movement in American landscape, introducing a form of romanticism into landscape painting, giving it a poetic interpretation.

Inness was of religious temperament; highly imaginative and at the same time questioning and argumentative. Applying these qualities to his art, he was unremitting in the investigation of truth, while regarding nature in a spirit of elevated poetry. Seeming to have had always an alert consciousness of the simultaneous claims of the spirit and of the senses, he found an interdependence between the two.

The progress of Inness's art was steadily in the direction of serenity, that highest quality of calm which is the flux of passion. The ideography of his work is entirely personal, the brush work having been refined until it expresses precisely the author's point of view.

This painting, obtained through courtesy of the Metropolitan museum of New York City, will be on display for a month.

As to date 15 persons have pledged membership in the Art Institute, the goal being 100 members. Membership fee is $10. Bert Kahn is chairman of the membership committee.

Hollywood On The Loose...

Now They're Even Freezing Movie Roles Of Stars

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13—Exclusively yours: First war plant in America to present a stage musical a la "This Is The Army" will be the Vultee airplane factory of Burbank, Calif. Former professionals now working as welders and riveters on the assembly line are rehearsing a two hour show financed by Vultee, to be staged early this summer at the Muic Box theater in Hollywood. Twenty former Fanchon and Marco dancers will be in the chorus.

Del Rio

Now they're even freezing movie roles. All story properties originally purchased for Tyrone Power and Henry Fonda have been put on ice by 20th Century-Fox until the end of the war pending the return of the two stars . . . That script which Dolores Del Rio took to Mexico to make into a picture there was authored by her ex-boy friend, Orson Welles.

Gene Tierney will age from a glamorous 20 - year - old to a sprightly 45-year-old in her next film, "Heaven Can Wait." . . . Betty Grable and her girl friend Anne Gaber play gin-rummy twice a week, the loser paying off with a quarter pound of butter. Because of the big stakes, Betty refers to herself as Bet-ty Million Grable . . . Twentieth Century-Fox is about to renew the popular Charlie Chan pictures with Sidney Toler again in the title role.

THE FLESH IS WEAK

LUPE VELEZ missed a dance routine several times for Columbia's "Redhead From Manhattan." Wailed Lupe: "The mind is all right, but the body she no follow" . . . Aside to M-G-M: How about buying up those old Harold Lloyd stories like "Grandma's Boy" for Red Skelton. He's a natural . . . Add ways to beat the priorities: Republic studio purchased one of Pasadena's finest homes and transported it to the studio. The house makes its screen debut in the Mary Lee starrer, "Shanytown."

Private Orry-Kelly will be assigned from his camp in the South to return to Warners to do the gowns for Ginger Rogers in "This Is the Army." . . . Playing the plum character role of Janoshik, the men's room attendant (and secret leader of the Czech underground movement) in Paramount's "Hostages" in no new experience for Bill Bendix. As a kid he lived just a block from the Polo Grounds where he worked as a locker room attendant for the Giants.

Jack Benny only pinches those nickels on his radio show. He's personnaly paying all expenses for his company of 39 currently touring Army camps . . . John Loder, who has been dating Hedy Lamarr recently, has now entered the last lap of the film "Old Acquaintance," where he is an old man and wears gray hair. One of the crew hailed him the other morning with: "Say, John, I thought going with Hedy Lamarr would make a man 10 years younger, not older!"

LAUREL AND HARDY

ADD oddities: Both Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy started in pictures as villains, Laurel in Larry Semon comedies and Hardy with Hal Roach . . . Bob Livingston, the cowboy actor, gets a white collar role in "Girls in Chains."

John Beal, actor turned Army private, is back to acting. He's playing a starring role in an Army Air Force training film at Minter Field, Calif.

A down-and-out actor stopped Barton MacLane on the street the other day and asked him for $375 for a cup of coffee. "But a cup of coffee costs only a dime," said MacLane. "Sure," replied the panhandler, "but I gotta go to Brazil to get it." . . . Motion Picture Relief cases have jumped from 18 in its first year, 1919, to 20,000 in 1942. But just wait till March 15 of 1943.

Forty Top-Notch Film Stars Are Together In Lindsey Feature, "Star Spangled Rhythm"

* * *

"Star Spangled Rhythm," booked today through Wednesday at the Lindsey theater, is just about Hollywood in one package.

Paramount, in an all-out effort in behalf of entertainment, has included approximately everyone from Dorothy Lamour to the studio mouse. The press books say it is the most illustrious cast ever assembled for any one film.

The picture almost does the impossible. It gives more than 40 stars a chance to strut their stuff and makes that stuff an integral part of the story. Among the 40 top-notchers you'll find Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Fred MacMurray, Franchot Tone, Ray Milland, Victor Moore, Lamour, Paulette Goddard, Vera Zorina, Mary Martin, Dick Powell, Betty Hutton, Eddie Bracken, Veronica Lake, Alan Ladd, Rochester, William Bendix, Jerry Colonna, Macdonald Carey, and Walter Abel.

Unlike most "stupendous" musicals, its story is clear-cut. It is the story of Victor Moore, Paramount studio gateman, who has deceived his sailor son, Eddie Bracken, into believing that he runs the studio. When Bracken shows up at the studio with a group of friends, the situation calls for something drastic, and Moore and Betty Hutton, his switchboard operator friend, do it. Shortly, every one of the stars is helping them.

Hayworth At Tower

An audience pleasing twist is that most of the stars play themselves.

Rita Hayworth's loveliness, Fred Astaire's dancing, Jerome Kern's music and Xavier Cugat's band, presented in a whirl of gaiety, romance and melody, make up Columbia's extravaganza, "You Were Never Lovelier," which will be offered today through Tuesday at the Tower.

Kern's score is considered the greatest since "Show Boat."

Miss Hayworth appears as the eldest daughter of an eccentric South American impresario Adolph Menjou, who insists that her younger sisters cannot marry before she does. Determined to arouse her to romance, Menjou "creates" an unknown suitor for the girl, a dream prince with whom she falls in love. Astaire shows up, a penniless Broadway hoofer.

Lamarr Wears "Lurong"

Applying for a job, he finds himself mistaken for the girl's Galahad. In order to obtain that much-needed job, he poses as the suitor, only to discover promptly that he is in love with the girl.

Hedy Lamarr in a "lurong" makes a three-day appearance at the Broadway, beginning today. The picture depicts drama in the raw at a rubber station deep in the African jungles.

Miss Lamarr plays the glamorous but sinister Tondelayo, and Walter Pidgeon is cast as a fighting plantation overseer. The film endeavors to show how white men succumb to the heat, primitive conditions and sinister mysticism of the Dark Continent. Pidgeon has conquered it, but others must go back to civilization. Richard Carlson plays a young overseer who becomes enslaved by the charms of the dusky Tondelayo, preciptating a stark dramatic situation.

One of the best of current war films, "Flying Tigers," is set today through Tuesday at the Lyric theater. John Wayne and Anna Lee are featured.

Paulette Goddard, Dorothy Lamour and Veronica Lake are only three of the more than two-score stars performing in "Star Spangled Rhythm," showing at the Lindsey for four days starting today.

Love comes to the forest . . . Bambi and his pals in Walt Disney's fantasy in technicolor, "Bambi," showing at the Lindsey Thursday through Saturday.

Screen Version Of "My Sister Eileen" Tops Week's Program Of Pictures At The Tech

* * *

Uproarous comedy, as done in "My Sister Eileen," is the fare today through Tuesday at the Tech theater.

The film version is said equal to the stage success which panicked Broadway for two years. Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne and Janet Blair are starred.

Bothered With Wolves

Miss Russell and Miss Blair are the two sisters, Ruth and Eileen, who come to New York to win fame and fortune as author and actress, respectively. Ruth is a reasonably level-headed individual; her kid sister is a blonde and devastating young woman, who manages to get into one difficulty after another. Both sisters complicate their life in New York by choosing as residence, a Greenwich Village basement apartment which becomes the happy hunting ground of every wolf in New York.

The stellar supporting cast includes George Tobias, Allyn Joslyn, Miss Jeff Donnell, Richard Quine, June Havoc, Donald MacBride, Frank Sully, Gordon Jones, Grant Mitchell and Elizabeth Patterson.

HOMELIKE TOUCH

CHELSEA, Okla., Feb. 13 (U.P.)—Youngsters in the Longfellow school here made $30 selling scrap and wanted to spend it for service men. They knew what the soldier wants and so they bought a red plush chair complete with footstool and presented it to the USO in Muskogee.

"COVER GIRL" Elyse Knox's striking beauty has won her one of the envied screen roles of the season. The New England beauty has been selected by Messrs. Abbott and Costello as a diverting offset to their hi-jinks in their forthcoming Universal picture, "Oh! Doctor." Elyse is donning skates and skis as a typical outdoor beauty in the new film.

* * *

"Whispering Ghosts," "Jail House Blues" Are Twin Bill Attractions At The Arcadia

The well-known stage and radio funnyman, Milton Berle, makes his first starring film appearance in Twentieth-Century-Fox's "Whispering Ghosts" which is picture No. 1 on a double bill today and Monday at the Arcadia theater.

No. 2 film is "Jail House Blues," with Nat Pendleton and Anne Gwynne.

Playing a radio crime-detective who solves mysteries via the air, Berle finds himself aboard a mystery ship trying to discover where the jewels are hidden and just what are the strange goings-on!

Music In A Jail House

Supported by attractive Brenda Joyce and a cast of screen favorites including John Shelton, John Carradine and Willie Best, the movie wends its way through one hilarious situation after another, with a horror note furnishing large helpings of thrills and chills.

Universal employs a unique locale for a musical comedy in "Jail House Blues." The story concerns a pardoned convict, impersonated by Nat Pendleton, who insists on remaining in prison while he produces a musical show with his fellow inmates as performers. The warden, played by Cliff Clark, strenuously objects to the upset of institutional routine.

Robert Paige supplies the major portion of the singing, and introduces several new tunes. Warren Hymer, the guy with the nasal baritone, also is in the cast.

Your Screen Test

BY ROBBIN COONS

1. This former Chicago model, real name Doris Simpson, briefly known in films as Beth Drake, is making the grade now under what name?

2. Famous characters in famous pictures: (a) Who played Belle Watling in "Gone With the Wind"? (b) Captain Bligh in "Mutiny on the Bounty"? (c) Anna Held in "The Great Ziegfeld"?

3. What film comic is first to tour the South Pacific war zone to entertain the fighters?

4. What words from "The Star Spangled Banner" form the title of what new movie about Bataan?

5. Pun-and-Double-Talk Special. (Substitute their other names and you get—approximately—a musical cowboy's plea.) "Don me Elyse on the Massey prairee."

Hedy Lamarr and Walter Pidgeon have lead roles in "White Cargo," playing at the Broadway Sunday through Tuesday.

Rita Hayworth and Fred Astaire dance together in "You Were Never Lovelier," booked at the Tower today through Tuesday.

Abbott And Costello In "One Night In The Tropics" Is Today's Feature At The Midway

* * *

Abbott and Costello, Allan Jones, Nancy Kelly and Peggy Moran are leading players of "One Night In The Tropics," showing at the Midway today through Tuesday.

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello frolic in a breezy and romantic comedy, "One Night in the Tropics," today through Tuesday at the Midway theater.

Allan Jones, Nancy Kelly, Robert Cummings and Peggy Moran handle the romance.

Cummings is to marry Miss Kelly, but has all sorts of troubles, not the least of them being Miss Moran. In view of these troubles, Jones sells Cummings a "love insurance" policy.

New Angle To Triangle

Miss Kelly and her aunt, Mary Boland, sail for a Caribbean island. Jones makes the boat but Cummings is not in time. Thus, the triangle turns into a four-sided mixup, with Kelly, Jones, Moran and Cummings as participants.

Everything is settled in due time, including the matter of "love insurance."

Leo Carrillo and William Frawley, two of Hollywood's most popular supporting players, also are in the cast.

GERMAN DEATH RATE UP

Under the Hitler regime, Germany's annual death rate has risen by 80,000. The number of suicides in that country is almost equal to the total for the rest of Europe.

No Pardon-Parole Election Needed; Brown Opens Campaign On "Black Markets"

Governor's Job Hard Enough

Let Board Continue On The Job

MEMBERS of the legislature should refuse to require a statewide election on a proposed constitutional amendment under which pardoning powers of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles would be returned to the governor. If submitted, people of Texas should, and probably will, reject it.

First of all, this added responsibility would be unfair to the governor. He has enough cares already without being burdened with the added strain to heart and mind of sole responsibility for decisions affecting the liberties, sometimes the lives, of unfortunate men and women.

It would be unfair to him also from the mere standpoint of the time required for consideration of the hundreds of applications for leniency that would flood his desk.

A final argument against the proposal is the opportunity for abuse the pardoning power would afford. This does not imply suspicion that Governor Stevenson, or most governors, would abuse it. But scandalous abuses have occurred in Texas. That is why the power rests with a board today.

The board, on the whole, has operated effectively and efficiently since its creation some seven years ago. There have been relatively few criticisms, and no scandals. And the governor has been freed of a burdensome and time-taking responsibility so that he could devote more attention to the affairs of state.

What could be the sense of abandoning this system for return to one that was far less satisfactory? Why should there be an attempt to force upon the governor a responsibility that most of them would not want?

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PRICE Administrator Prentiss Brown has undertaken a complete revision of his ceiling structure in an attempt to wipe out a nation-wide system of black markets for meat products. Under present conditions every bootlegging and racketeering evil which existed in prohibition days are being revived.

Maximum charges were fixed by the Michigan man's predecessor, Leon Henderson, at the highest levels prevailing in March 1942. Customers were supposed to file complaints if retailers exceeded that figure. But few purchasers make the effort to ascertain official prices; they are so glad when they are able to get chops, steak or a roast that they don't grumble. Small, uncontrolled packers are the principal suppliers of hog and beef cuts to illicit traders.

Although his proposed reforms will not eliminate chiseling, Brown believes they may make enforcement easier. So, in place of a variable and conflicting top quotation based on the costs of last March, he plans to set a definite sum as a general standard for all butchers. To that they may add a certain percentage as their profit.

For instance, he may rule that 40 cents is the base amount for a pound of pork chops and that four cents may be added as the mark-up. By such an arrangement the housewife will know if she is being gypped, whether she lives in San Diego, California, or Haverhill, Massachusetts. To bring the processors under stricter regulation he intends to insist on licenses. In short, he will federalize the industry.

BRIBES: The diversion of meat to illegal channels has reached such volume that supplies for Britain, Russia, our armed forces and the civilian population are running far behind requirements. Representatives of the Big Four—Cudahy, Armour, Wilson and Swift—have informed Washington authorities that they may have to close down for lack of livestock.

Some smaller packers are offering fancy prices to farmers for their hogs and cattle and the owners are glad to sell at a premium, since there is no ceiling on the primary transaction. Middlemen are eager to pay almost any price for they know they can unload on an avid retail market. The customer with his purchasing power increasing every day does not question when he is asked excessive amounts for fine cuts.

Many butchers are handing out bribes to salesmen for wholesale distributors in order to obtain larger quotas. A former member of the Capone mob has bought four slaughterhouses in Chicago and is making more money than he did on bootleg liquor. Appeals to the patriotism of the violators, whether producers, packers, middlemen or ultimate buyers are made in vain. And it is obvious that OPA cannot assign a snooper to every barnyard processing plant and corner store in the country.

REPUDIATED: Everyone on and off Capitol Hill blames personal and national troubles on that vague monstrosity called bureaucracy. But nobody seems to be doing anything about it except Hatton Sumners, chairman of the House Judiciary committee. For 20 years the venerable Texan has been studying this problem from all angles and now he believes he has hit on a partial solution.

His remedy consists of two Constitutional amendments which he will introduce at the opportune moment. They are designed to break the grip which the Executive branch of the government, through the President and his departmental aides, exercises in every cranny and corner of the federal establishment. As the acknowledged legal light in Congress and a man whom the U. S. Supreme court once honored for his judicial attainments, his sponsorship of these improvements virtually insures their approval.

Sumners will propose that vetoes be overridden by a simple majority instead of a two-thirds vote. He points out that under the present provision one man—the Chief Executive—actually casts 15 ballots in the Senate and 72 in the House. Those figures depict the difference between a mere majority and a two-thirds balloting in each body. In the chairman's opinion, no official in another arm should be permitted to exert such power in the representative chambers.

His second measure will prevent lame ducks from accepting presidential appointments for two years after they were defeated at the polls. Repudiated congressmen may not be so eager to side with the White House if plums in the form of $10,000 jobs downtown are not forthcoming immediately. No one has used this type of reward more frequently than FDR.

• • •

AWAY: Absenteeism of Democratic members may give control of the House to the Republicans even though Joe Martin's crowd is in the minority numerically. On several rather important issues the GOP has whipped the administration by approximately 60 votes because so many of the Rayburn-McCormack boys skipped school.

For years it has been the custom for Democrats from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia and the Carolinas to appear only when a subject of special interest to their constituents came to a roll call. Tammany members, for instance, never missed a showdown on liquor during prohibition. Living near the capital, men from the areas named can practice law during the week and fly or take a train to Washington when notified that their presence is needed. Nobody complained in the days when the ins had a great margin over their opponents. But with only 13 seats separating the two parties regular attendance is necessary if the majority hopes to enact its program.

Roosevelt lieutenants have put the heat on the gang to make it behave, but to no avail. When the TreasuryPostoffice Appropriation bill reached the amendment stage last week, Leader McCormack sent letters to his followers begging them to be on the job. Whip Ramspeck of Georgia arranged for his regional representatives to contact their groups and to make last minute telephone calls. These orders were carried out, but still forty members stayed away. It looks as if their hearts aren't in their work.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

ONE of the strangest incidents of the war may occur if Anglo-American forces invade the Balkans. Instead of meeting last-ditch resistance from the 20 desperate divisions holding the mountain passes, our soldiers may sweep forward encountering hardly any serious interruption. United States military strategists doubt whether such a turn of affairs is possible but certain statecraft experts contend that Berlin will retreat.

They argue that the Nazi GHQ fears the Communist tide may sweep through Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary and swarm across the frontiers of the Reich itself. Soviet troops would show no mercy to the German population whose fighters pillaged Muscovite cities and committed unspeakable crimes against refugees. If United States and British armies are not on continental soil in force, there will be no bulwark between Teuton civilians and the avenging Red hosts.

But should General Eisenhower's command win the race against Stalin's advance guard and reach the Balkans first, its presence on the flank would have a sobering effect on the Russians and would shield Axis countries from reprisals and proselyting. Hence is Wehrmacht officials are convinced that they cannot hold back the USSR invaders they may allow the Carpathian regions to go to us by default as an "insurance policy" against what the Kremlin might do to the Reich.

"Into The Valley" Another Good War Book

Minor Battle On Guadalcanal Described In Vivid Writing

BOOKSHELVES are filled with volumes on the armed services, all well worth your time. Here are a few that should not be overlooked:

"Into the Valley," (Knopf), is a short book, only 138 small pages; you can read it in an hour, but you won't forget it in a lifetime.

It is John Hershey's story of a minor battle on Guadalcanal. But it presents a picture of fighting Americans that stirs your pride. The mission failed, the skirmish ended in defeat. But the fighting men did not fail, they were not beaten. Those that lived will fight again—and win.

Hershey does not analyze the battle, nor does he report it in detail. He is more concerned with the men who fought there, their attitude before the advance, their actions under fire and their outlook after the withdrawal. He brings you a vivid picture of officers and men, the heroes, the wounded and the dead.

One incident Hershey reports is particularly important to us at home. During a pause in the advance, Hershey was besieged by questioners demanding "Where's the Army? The planes? That great production? Strikes? Politics? Propaganda?

He countered with a question: "Today, here in this valley, what are you fighting for?"

They did not answer immediately . . . Then one of them spoke . . . .

"'What I'd give for a piece of blueberry pie.' . . . Fighting for pie. . . . Here, pie was a symbol of home . . . Home seems to most marines a pretty good thing to be fighting for."

That includes your home, too.

PLENTY OF ACTION

"THE Flying Guns" (Schribners) There is no letup in action from the moment Lieut. Clarence E .Dickinson, U. S. N., flies into the attack on Pearl Harbor until the victory at Midway. A fine record of naval action.

The Victory At Guadalcanal

AMERICAN forces have gained an undenied victory in the battle of Guadalcanal. Whether this marks great progress toward the supreme objective of victory in the war remains to be seen.

Probably it does mean progress toward winning the war. Certainly the Japs didn't want to lose the battle. Surely, Japanese morale will not be helped by this first loss of conquered territory. They will not be deceived by Tokyo's official pretense that the retreat was "strategic" after the Japs had accomplished their purpose with Guadalcanal. There can be no glossing over the fact that the enemy has lost an important springboard for an invasion of Australia and for the interception of aid from America.

But it will not help the cause of the United Nations if the importance of the victory should be exaggerated. That might cause some slackening of effort among those who might feel that we are on the way to victory in the Pacific. It is better to calculate the possible results of victory in the battle coldly and conservatively, with full recognition of any prospectively unfavorable aspects that may exist.

A proper consideration is that the reconquest of the island required more than six months. The Japs lost not more than 50,000 men, a few hundred planes and a very few dozen ships, at the most. It is not denied that they have millions of trained men, thousands of planes and hundreds of warships. Their resources and fighting power have not been impaired seriously.

They have not been idle during the past six months. It is acknowledged as a fact that they have been building air fields, naval bases and powerful fortifications along the great lengths of the East Indies during that time. These represent much more than defenses for the various islands, individually and collectively, where they are located. They are points from which to strike at aggressions toward Japan proper.

Thus, the possibility cannot be ignored that the Japs have gained time that might be of far more importance to them than victory in a battle. The fact cannot be denied that, if they can hold what they have now, they will be the winners of the war.

Even the most optimistic evaluation of the victory on Guadalcanal must recognize that the road to Tokyo still is long, uncertain and beset with unimaginable difficulties. The war still is to be won.

A Lesson In Suffering And Hardship Of Another Land

Today's World . . . By Nelson Springer

ANYONE in Lubbock who thinks he is suffering hardship may consider the following picture of Vienna in peace-time: It is bitterly cold. A heavy snow, driven by a furious wind, is falling. On the street, one plows through drifts. There is nowhere in town to get warm.

In a XIVth Century house, there are perhaps 12 rooms, but there is a fire in only one of them, a charcoal fire in a porcelain stove that is very beautiful but that does not make its heat felt three feet away. The room measures approximately 14 x 22 x 20. The family sits and shivers. Of course, as the stove grows hot, the pictures on the stove's panels become luminous, and are very pleasant to look at.

Horse-Meat Lacks Something

Meat is rare. For most people it does not exist. What there is is mostly horseflesh, with little nutritive value. I have eaten five horse-meat steaks in succession, and arisen from the table hungry. There are bread and vegetables, but little of either; and the vegetables are inferior, because Hungary no longer is part of the empire, and the Austrian soil is so poor that vegetables shrivel in the fields before they ripen.

Occasionally, each member of the family has 10 groschen (1¼ cents) with which to go to a cafe for a cup of coffee. This is very thrilling, because the Austrian coffee is good; because there are newspapers to read; because the crowd's bodily heat warms the room. One sits in the cafe until it closes at 2 a. m., because it is so wonderful to be warm. Anyone who has not experienced the combination of cold and despair cannot know how wonderful it is to be warm.

IN Vienna, there are three able-bodied men for every job (in a year there will be eight for every job) so, if the man in your family does not have a job, you know he never will have one. There are no jobs for Austinans anywhere, save in "Amerika," also known as "the beautiful land;" but there the immigration barrier is up. In the end, the man will go to the Danube; and he will not return. The women then will choose. Either they will go directly to the Danube, or first to the Cafe Saccher . . . and eventually to the Danube.

This is the city of Mozart and Schubert and Beethoven! There is no Mozart in Lubbock; but Lubbock is still fortunate, even in war.

I do not like to think of the lot of Viennese children, but some day I shall tell you how Alfred Adler tried to help them. It is very good to see in Lubbock children who can smile, and who know how to play.

THE WORLD'S HISTORY

BACK in the XIXth Century, John Clark Ridpath sat down and wrote "A History of the World." He was another Hoosier who took himself seriously. His monumental work met with a respectful reception, because neither he nor anyone else realized at the time that no one could hope to write a history of the world. In the valley of the lower Euphrates, for example, we have found some remains of a pre-Sumerian culture of which as yet we know very little. That takes us back prior to 15,000 B. C. on one relatively microscopic spot on the earth's surface.

Whether we ever shall recover enough of the remains of the Wood Age, that preceded the Old Stone Age, in ancient Thailand and Cambodia, is very doubtful. Nowadays, a historian selects a limited period in a restricted locality, such as the Renaissance in Florence, and hopes, at the end of a lifetime, to have made some small contribution to the topic.

• • •

Study Is Essential Now

Today everyone of intelligence is studying history. Fortunately for him, he is not expected to cover the history of the world. Today everyone knows that he can't. What he is trying to do is to get the history of this war through his head.

He needs to do this is he is going to arrive at some intelligent and controlled idea of how to order his life henceforth. A few facts wil help to simplify his problem.

• • •

NOT only can no man cover the history of the world; no man can cover the history of the war. To indicate how impossible it would be, let me mention but three of man fields which would have to be surveyed:

(1) The History of Japanese Diplomacy; (2) The History of Bolshevism; (3) The History of National Socialism. Manifestly, a lifetime, devoted to nothing else, would be necessary to cope with any of these subjects.

What saves the individual from sinking in this morass is the truth of Emerson's proposition that the universe is contained in a dewdrop. After familiarizing oneself with the "highlights," the student is safe in focussing on one narrow phase of the struggle, which he cannot study, of course, apart from its setting in the whole. Eventually he will have, not all of the facts and dates, but an understanding of the subject; and it is the understanding that is important.

Library Needed Here

Everyone should travel, but not everyone will be able to travel. The substitute for travel is history and geography. That is another reason for a library in Lubbock.

When that library is founded, I trust that it will not be merely a place where one may find books, but a place where one may find the means to live. I believe it should be founded with that definite function in mind, and that it should never be satisfied as long as there is one book on the shelves, instead of in a reader's hands. In fact, the library I would found probably would violate all of the rules.

• • •

BECAUSE this is Lubbock, it would be open very late Saturday night, and probably open on Sunday afternoon and night for people who work six days a week. On Monday it might not be open at all . . . It might contain more magazines and newspapers than books; certainly it would contain maps and globes.

The librarian would constitute at least one-half of the library. Again, this person probably would violate all the rules. He might be a person who wouldn't even know how to catalogue a library. But he would be a person with a burning enthusiasm for learning . . .and for people. A French wit, summarizing Briand and Poincare, was cruel enough once to say:

"Briand knew nothing, but he understood everything; Poincare knew everything, but he understood nothing."

My librarian would be Briand. And he would be a man who would keep his eye glued on the children's room.

The whole future of the world now is in the hands of our six-year-olds.

Big Farm Problem Concerns Tenants

BY DEWITT LAMB
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

The farm tenant is having his troubles on the South Plains.

Just how important he is as a factor in agricultural production is revealed in estimates of how much land he works. And from his point of view, at least, he is not being considered seriously enough in the government's ever-widening program of converting West Texas from more cotton to food and other war crops.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, after a recent survey of the 15 counties in the South Plains, reported there are 20,000 farms and ranches in the defined area. The state experiment station here estimates that renters operate more than one-half of this vast acreage. The extension department believes the renter's part in the farm work is larger, perhaps 60 per cent.

Dissatisfaction Probe

An effort is being made to learn why so many farm tenants are dissatisfied. They say they are being made to move; that when they do, they are having the most difficult time they ever had in finding farm land for rent.

One farmer in Lubbock county, who has been renting land and working the same farm the last 14 years, was asked why tenants can't find land on which they may farm this year — of all years. This man said it all began when the AAA started its "incentive payments," that is, giving landlords and tenants, alike, "bonus" checks for growing fewer pigs and for plowing up cotton. He said the landlords, most of whom have their homes in town, were quick to see the greater profit of dismissing their renters, paying day wages for help to take renters' places, and thus pocketing all the incentive payments on their land. Until so much farm labor was inducted into the Army this trend had increased gradually to an alarming extent.

Draft Is Factor

Another Lubbock county farmer, a man who owns and occupies his farm, was asked the same question. He agreed with the tenant farmer and added the information that a large number of non-occupant landowners are seeking to have their sons deferred in the draft and are placing them on their farms for the first time in their lives, where they are learning to drive tractors, operate four-row listers and stalk cutters, and otherwise supplant the regular farm renters.

Be he owner or tenant, the South Plains farmer must have $2,500 to $3,000 worth of tractors, plows, livestock, trucks or trailers, and other equipment to operate a quarter section. If he irrigates, as one out of every six or eight does, he must be experienced beyond the average farm worker to handle the farm machinery, the land, and the crops they produce. Most of the tenants on the South Plains have been here for years. They have learned the practical way, and know how to farm here, which isn't like farming anywhere else. Most of the renters have families, but their sons are in service, and they can't work single-handedly what lands the family heretofore has worked as a team. Many have had to give up the farms they have been tending for years because of this, and some landlords have moved some of them when the working force was reduced.

Situation Is Paradoxical

The situation is paradoxical. It seems that good tenants would have the landlords looking for them.

Real estate offices say farm lands are selling rapidly in this area, and that farm property is up from $20 to $30 an acre. Changing ownership has deprived a number of good renters of their homes, and this is believed to have caused much of the confusion.

Whether the changing situation, coincident with an acute shortage of all kinds of farm labor and an overwhelming disposition to increase production of everything on the farm (except cotton and wheat) will have further repercussion and result in the very losses to production that are so much feared, remains to be seen.

Survey Reveals Production

The farm survey already mentioned reveals that 150,000 cattle for beef, 265,000 hogs for pork products, 15 million pounds of commercial butter, 10 million pounds of cheese, 12 million pounds of dressed poultry meats, 20 million dozen eggs, 24,302,000 pounds of cotton linters, 595,000 bales of raw cotton, and 89,831,035 pounds of cottonseed oil were produced on the South Plains in 1942.

In addition there was an unmeasured but a vast quantity of wheat, sorghum grains, hay and forage for man and livestock food and feed, and numerous other tons of fruits, vegetables, potatoes, and products common to the area also grown. An increase in all of it (except cotton and wheat) is wanted this year.

If, as many authorities say, more than one-half of all this acreage in the South Plains is worked by the tenant farmers, many of whom are leaving to look for homes in other areas, the farm tenant should have some Gibraltar in the form of a government agency, or a sympathetic landlord's ear, to whom he may turn in his quest for a place to live and work in the biggest of all arsenals — agriculture.

U. S. Sub Torpedoed Jap Sub On Surface

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13. (U.P.) — Chief Petty Officer Ira Arch Francis, 26-year-old veteran of sub warfare in the Pacific, told recently how the underseas craft he was on in Japanese waters knocked off an enemy sub—one of the first such cases on record.

Three days after Pearl Harbor, the sub on which Francis was serving as quartermaster set out to help deliver America's return visit to the Japanese.

"We reached a certain Japanese harbor and hove to, remaining submerged until nightfall when we surfaced," he said.

"Well, ten days went by before any ships came out. We sighted a freighter and loosed a torpedo at her but missed. Three days later another big freighter passed near us. We got her. Then the captain decided we'd better move.

"Not long after that, the submarine's radio flashed word that enemy subs were shelling Midway Island. The skipper thought we might get a sub if we played our cards right. And we did. We torpedoed one on the surface."

The eighth naval district said "this is one of the first times, if not the only time, that one submarine has destroyed another."

Francis, a native of Wichita, Kans., who has seen nine years of navy service and is now in preflight training, said the submarine he was on also accounted for a large transport and a cargo vessel near Japanese shores, once getting 18 depth charges thrown at it. It was later that it was on hand at the battle of Midway. Francis came back with a half-dozen recommendations, one from the commander of the Pacific submarine fleet.

Sure, he's been injured once in service. He got two scars on his forehead in a fall in gymnastics at the Athens, Ga., pre-flight school.

Texas Sergeant Is As Good A Talker As He Is Fighter

BY SERGEANT MACK MORRISS
Yank Staff Correspondent

FROM AN AIR BASE in the South Pacific—Joe Melton, a solid master sergeant with a G.I. haircut and the most infectious grin you ever saw, lay stripped to his underwear. Outside, a tropical rain pelted down on the pyramidal tent.

Joe pushed aside his mosquito bar and offered beer all around. He didn't get up. Not that there was anything wrong with him; it was just siesta hour.

Joe's from Texas, been in the army 14 years, can get beer where most people can't find water.

Told Of Experiences

Listening to Joe was wonderful. He declined behind the mosquito netting like some sprawling pasha and told of his recent experiences on Guadalcanal, where he put in two months as radio man for an Army fighter squadron.

There was that night the Jap battleship shelled them. . . .

"Well, sir, I was asleep when the first ones hit, and just sort of instinctively I found myself out of my bunk on my hands and knees. Thought it was an explosion of some kind—maybe one of our own guns—but then there came four more. Hell, I knew it was no explosion when the dirt from them first ones started falling on the tent, but when the next four hit I just zzzzt! into that fox hole. I'm not saying I was first, but I'll be damned if I was last."

Went To Fix Radio

Then there was another time . . .

"This lieutenant came up to me on the beach and says, 'Joe I got a radio out back there—let's go fix it.' I looked at the jeep he's driving and says, 'how far back'? and he says, 'oh, just a little piece back — come on, let's go fix it.'

"So I got in with him and we started back toward the front and pretty soon I hear this tat-tat-tat-tat off in the trees somewhere and I says, 'what's that?' and he said, 'oh, that might be one of our own machineguns.' I says, 'whatta you mean—MIGHT be?' And he says, 'what's the matter, you scared?' I says, 'well, I'm not saying I am, but I'll be damned if I'm sayin' I'm not.'

Joe had a Jap mess kit and canteen on the table, and he distributed some Jap street car tickets to his audience.

Fight For Souvenirs

"If the Japs didn't know before, they know now what the American Army's fight for—it's souvenirs. Up there, they'll shoot a Jap and he'll jump in the air. Before he hits the ground, the boys will be all over him, frisking him for souvenirs.

"They find some funny things—American money sometimes, pictures and things the Japs had taken off other marines and soldiers. One boy even found a picture of Hedy Lamarr on a dead Jap."

Joe brought out his prize souvenirs—a Jap battle flag and an officer's saber.

Haircut Is Explained

Joe likes to tell how he got the saber.

"Why, I fought that Jap officer for eight hours and 15 minutes, and me with only a mess-kit knife. Finally, I whittled him down, but I had to stop twice and sharpen my blade. He damned near got me once. If you don't believe it, look at my head."

Joe's GI haircut is as beautiful as his gift of gab.

Tactics Of Dies Scored By Ickes

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—Secretary of the Interior Ickes asserted last night that there had been a "revolt in Congress against the despicable tactics" of Chairman Martin Dies of the House committee on un-American activities.

He stated he felt that Dies "will never again stride quite so lustily and balefully across the stage, shooting at clay pigeons," because the Congress had "given evidence that it will not be roused to lynch-law, even by Judge Lynch himself come to life."

Speaks At Meeting

In an address prepared for a meeting honoring George W. Norris, Nebraska independent whose 30 years in the U. S. Senate were ended by his defeat in last fall's election, Ickes said:

"About ten days ago, Mr. Dies put on his annual melodrama. Hissing through his teeth, rending the air with blood-curdling yelps, freezing the very marrow of our bones with his tales of fearsome, ferocious government clerks who read The New Republic, he called upon the great Congress of the United States to smite them down—all 38 on his list.

Expresses Gratitude

"I cannot adequately express my profound gratitude to the members of the House of Representatives who resolutely refused to allow themselves to be stampeded by Mr. Dies' appeal to strike down 38 people who had never been heard, indicted, tried or convicted."

The secretary said it developed that Dies wanted more money "for that shadow of a committee which never meets and is never consulted," and that four of the persons on the list had entered the armed services and another had retired.

Charges "Character Assassination"

"Mr. Dies has already gotten $495,000," Ickes said. "It has been used in character assassination of anyone whom Mr. Dies suspects of believing that government should promote the welfare of the people."

He said Dies used to call administration officials Communists, had shifted to the term "crackpot," but still was out to "crush the tiniest spark of liberalism or tolerance that may flicker before his bloodshot eyes.

"People whom Dies has pilloried can generally prove they're not Communists," Ickes added. "But how can anybody prove he's not a 'crackpot'?"

Cowboys Use Planes In Search For Stock

GUNNISON, Colo., Feb. 13. (U.P.) —They're trying a new kind of roundup on Colorado's western slope—with the cowboys riding airplanes instead of horses.

Stockmen representing five cattle pools are making flights with Lt. Eddie Drapela, Grand Junction pilot, to locate snowbound cattle.

When the cattle are located, riders are sent out after them, cutting losses to stockmen from cattle freezing to death in isolated regions.

"Conveyor Belt" Used In War Bond Sales

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13 (U.P.) — The handling of war bonds has been put on an assembly line basis here.

The Federal Reserve bank of Cleveland, which handles all the bonds purchased in the Fourth Federal Reserve district, reports that 12 tons, or 2,000,000 bonds, moved through their offices during December.

The bulk of this tonnage represents bonds in the series E, $25 to $1,000 classification. The remainder is in 40,000 pieces of Victory fund "paper."

The department, which operates a "conveyor belt" that receives, checks, consigns, and ships the bonds, has expanded from a scant 60 employes before Pearl Harbor to 500 harried workers today.

CONVENTIONS "RATIONED"

Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, urges abandonment of all conventions involving inter-city travel that do not contribute to the war effort.

Speeders convicted in municipal court in Cleveland, O., on charges of driving faster than 35 miles per hour face possible loss of their mileage ration coupons, according to OPA's regional attorney.

HOW TO FIX YOUR OWN PLUGS AND CORDS

THESE DAYS almost every housewife has to be her own repairman at some time. By making simple repairs on your own lighting plugs and cords, you can save the time of lighting service men so urgently needed for vital war work.

Of course, it's always preferable to get new cords and plugs and to use new wire. If you can't, you can do a good job of patching up the old by following these suggestions.

• Inspect your lamp cords where they come out of the lamp base. They fray and crumble quickly at this spot.

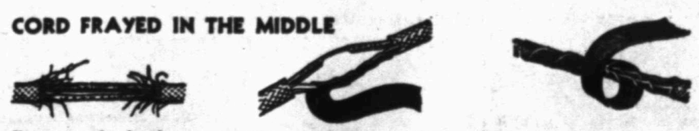

1. RIGHT AND WRONG WAY TO WIRE A PLUG

Right. Wires put around the prongs. When cord is yanked or jerked, pressure is put on the prongs.

2. CORD FRAYED IN THE MIDDLE

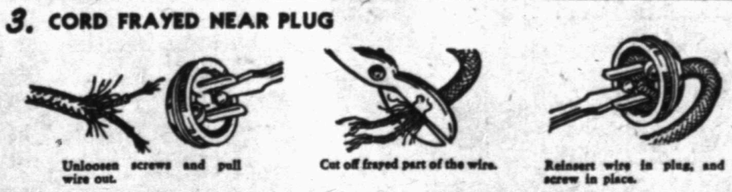

Clean away the frayed or crumbled part.

Tape up each wire separately, using electrician's tape.

Then tape wires together. Adhesive tape cakes and cracks very quickly.

3. CORD FRAYED NEAR PLUG

Unloosen screws and pull wire out.

Cut off frayed part of the wire.

Reinsert wire in plug, and screw in place.

4. PLUG SHOULD FIT SNUGLY

Where "A" doesn't fit snugly into "B," plug "B's" springs may have lost their "tension."

Bend plug "A's" prongs apart with your fingers. Just enough to get a snug fit.

Or bend out the ends of the prongs with a pair of pliers.

Priorities And Educational Campaign By Treasury Make Counterfeiting Profitless

DENVER, Feb. 13. (U.P.)—A "depression," induced by priorities and an educational campaign by the U. S. Treasury Department, has hit the counterfeit money racket, Rowland K. Goddard, U. S. Secret Service supervisor in Denver, says.

Goddard says that both craft—coin and note—have felt the pinch caused by the war.

Coiners, who rely heavily on babbitt metal (an alloy of copper, tin, antimony and other vital war materials) have been affected at the source of their supply, Goddard reports. Sale of those metals are carefully regulated by the War Production regulated by the War Production board to see that they go to war industries.

Simple To Detect

The "note men," the artists of their "profession" who must be skilled in engraving, chemistry and printing to escape detection for even a short time, also are unable to obtain the materials they need. Chemicals they once used to bleach $1 notes so the false imprint of larger denominations could be superimposed are hard to get. Goddard says. Other materials, ink, printing equipment and zinc also are unavailable.

Combined with the ceaseless campaign the treasury has waged to advise the public on easy ways to spot bogus coins and paper money, priorities have made the counterfeiting racket a profitless one.

Two simple ways in which phoney money can be detected, Goddard says, are:

1. The old "teeth and ear" test for coins. If it isn't fairly biteable and doesn't ring, it's not real.
2. Counterfeit bills usually have a "greasy" feeling, or contain noticeable flaws in materials or workmanship.

States Adopting Plan On Car Use

By PATT PATTERSON
United Press Staff Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 13.—The "New Hampshire plan" for cutting mileage of state and city-owned automobiles is "going great guns" and already has been adopted by 12 of the 48 states, Director Paul H. Blaisdell of the New Hampshire travel division reported here.

Byaisdell is on a nation-wide tour sponsored by the Office of Price Administration, explaining the idea to state, county and municipal officials in every commonwealth.

He said his state had cut its mileage 57 per cent and travel costs 55 per cent in only five months. "In New Hampshire," he said, "we are saving 926 gallons of gasoline and a set of tires each day."

Four Steps Needed

Four steps are all that are needed:

1. Appointment of a mileage administrator by each state and city.
2. Giving full power to control use of all government cars, and travel of all private autos used on state or city business.
3. No state or municipal worker be able to obtain a car except on written requisition, stating when it was to be used and for what purpose.
4. Whenever practicable, state or city workers—for instance, an electrical inspector and a plumbing inspector—would make their rounds together, using only one car instead of two.

"This plan already is in operation in each state where it has been suggested," Blaisdell said, "including New Hampshire, Vermont, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, North and South Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, Michigan and Indiana.

"Too, many cities have been able to eliminate so much useless driving that savings effected have enabled them to balance their budgets without curtailing any city function—in fact, efficiency of departments has increased under plan operations."

Approved By OPA

Blaisdell stressed the flexibility of the New Hampshire plan which makes it applicable to state, county and municipal governments. The head of each form of government may appoint a travel mileage administrator with full authority to enforce regulations adopted.

He said he had been drafted by the Washington OPA to tour the country and outline his operations after OPA noted the success of the New Hampshire plan.

OPA has requested a voluntary 40 per cent reduction of mileage this year by all state and municipal governments, and, while the New Hampshire set-up is not "official," it has the full approval of OPA officials, Blaisdell said.

Films Training Aid In Defense Plants

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (U.P.)—A survey of 239 companies engaged in war production, conducted by the Management Research division of the National Industrial Conference board, indicates that motion pictures and sliders are playing an increasingly important part in the training of industrial workers.

Executives of the companies surveyed estimated that the use of such visual aids resulted in from 25 to 50 per cent greater understanding of the subject matter by trainees. Many of them found that time spent in learning the job was sharply decreased.

The survey found that visual aids "stimulate interest in learning, increase the retention of learned material, improve the quality of workmanship and provide a method whereby standardization of training may be achieved."

After Paris, Montreal is the world's largest French-speaking city.
