AMERICA'S SECOND MOON-LANDING EXPEDITION

Astronauts Blastoff In Rain

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's Apollo 12 astronauts rode their command ship Yankee Clipper into earth orbit through a lightning storm today to start America's second moon-landing expedition despite heavy rains that for a while threatened delay.

Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr., 39, Richard F. Gordon Jr., 40, and Alan L. Bean, 37, thundered away from Cape Kennedy at 11:22 a.m. (EST) on a Saturn 5 super-rocket that blasted into the heavens and survived a possible lightning hit that momentarily disrupted communications.

HIT BY LIGHTNING

"I think we got hit by lightning," Conrad called just after serious loss of data from the fleeting spacecraft.

Conversation between the ground and the spacecraft indicated lightning might have affected the instrument measuring unit which contains the rocket's guidance system.

However, it did not prevent the astronauts from achieving orbit about 117 miles high, the first plateau on a trip to the moon. Their goal is a pinpoint landing in the lunar Ocean of Storms where they will spend 7½ hours walking the surface for man's first detailed study of another planet.

NIXONS WATCH

President and Mrs. Nixon were among thousands who braved a heavy downpour to watch the departure of the 36-story rocket.

Nixon, bareheaded in the heavy rain, watched the launch from a viewing site 3½ miles from the rocket pad. He became the first U.S. president to watch a manned space launch.

It was the worst weather in history for an American-manned liftoff.

Observers saw two lightning mission controllers reported a bolts flash shortly after launch and the astronauts reported so many alarm lights aboard that they were unable to read them all.

Officials reported the spacecraft briefly lost its electrical distribution system which knocked out the prime guidance system. A secondary system, which operates on batteries, took over. The prime system came back after only a few seconds.

DISCOVERY

After reaching orbit, the astronauts reset three circuit breakers and reported the electrical system was working properly.

As the rocket streaked out over the Atlantic Ocean, its millions of parts meshed, pulsed and interacted flawlessly and all three stages fired with precision during 11½ minutes of flight to drill Apollo 12 into orbit more than 100 miles high at 17,400 miles an hour.

HIGH STATIC

Shortly after the spacecraft staged, communications with the spacecraft were suddenly shattered by high static.

Conrad reported the spacecraft may have been hit by lightning.

Only seconds later, however, Conrad said they had reset the affected instruments.

"We've had a couple of cardiac arrests down here, Pete," a ground controller quipped.

"We didn't have time up here," replied Conrad. "Okay. We're all organized again."

Television provided millions with a ringside seat as man started another great leap outward. While on the lunar surface, Conrad and Bean hope to transmit to TV viewers the first color pictures ever sent from the moon.

MONKEY ON HIS BACK — Apollo 12 astronaut Charles Conrad Jr. is all smiles as he sits at breakfast before suiting up today for the spacecraft launch. Behind him is a stuffed mascot called "Irving" that has been around the crew headquarters for some time.

New Divorce Law Doesn't Open Doors?

AUSTIN (AP)—The new state divorce and marriage law does not leave the door open for common law marriages by minors, the chairman of the state Bar of Texas' family law section said today.

"Some parents and others have the idea that the legislature threw the door wide open to common law marriages for minors. This just isn't true," said Lee Malone of El Paso.

"The only change in the new law, which becomes effective Jan. 1, is a provision for recording such marriages when they meet three requirements that have long been established for common (law) marriages of minors or anyone else.

"The recording process will provide a method of preserving the evidence of the existence of the common law marriage for proof of the legitimacy of children and for proof of the marriage in order to obtain such benefits as social security."

Malone said many lawyers believe the new statute will give parents greater—not less—control over their children's marriages by providing a legal means for the parents to bring suit to annul under-age common law marriages, as well as under-age ceremonial marriages.

He said the old law gives parents no power to sue to annul their children's marriages.

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin recently issued an opinion saying declarations of common law marriage could be filed with county clerks by girls as young as 14 and boys as young as 16.

"But youngsters of this age have alway been able to form common law marriages without parental consent if they met the three requirements of a common law marriage," Malone said. "The requirements are (1) agreement to be husband and wife, (2) living together as husband and wife, and (3) holding themselves out to the public as husband and wife. Such a marriage has always been valid, whether registered or not."

He noted that the bar's family law section drafted a family code that would have abolished common law marriages contracted after a specified date, but the legislature refused to go along.

Red Troops Triggering Close-Hand Fighting

SAIGON (AP) — Strong North Vietnamese forces attacked Saigon government troops today near the Bu Prang and Duc Lap Special Froces camps near the Cambodian border, triggering close-hand fighting during which South Vietnamese bombers hit their own troops.

Associated Press photographer Rick Merron reported from Ban Me Thuot that 20 South Vietnamese were reported killed in the heaviest attack and 54 wounded, many of them by their own bombers. Two American advisers also were wounded.

Unofficial reports said 95 North Vietnamese soldiers were killed.

The heaviest fighting centered two miles south of the Bu Prang Special Forces camp, 110 miles northeast of Saigon, which for two weeks has been under pressure along with Duc Lap, 25 miles farther north.

"In the beginning everything was very confusing," said Spec. 5 John Edwards of Killeen, Tex., crew chief on a medical evacuation helicopter which flew in five times to lift out wounded.

"From what I saw the Vietnamization program kind of stopped today."

Merron reported that another South Vietnamese battalion clashed with another enemy force two miles south of the Duc Lap Special Forces camp, but he said government losses were described as light. Enemy losses were not reported.

Some 7,000 North Vietnamese are reported in the Bu Prang—Duc Lap border section in the southern part of the central highlands.

The allied command was forced two weeks ago to hastily abandon three U.S. artillery bases near Bu Prang that were providing supporting fire for field units. The South Vietnamese have been told the fighting in the border region is their responsibility and that no American infantrymen will be committed. The purpose is to hold down U.S. casualties and transfer more of the fighting to the government's forces, the Nixon Administration's policy of Vietnamizing the war.

In an effort to ease the enemy pressure in the region, 10 American B52 bombers dumped 300 tons of bombs during the night on North Vietnamese troop concentrations, base camps, bunkers and staging areas northeast of Duc Lap.

To the southwest along the border, American helicopters baited North Vietnamese gunners, flushed out several squads, then called in bombers and artillery that killed at least 22 of the enemy, military sources reported.

The only American casualty was a man wounded aboard one of the three helicopters that drew the North Vietnamese fire as they conducted "reconnaissance by decoy" Thursday some 65 miles northwest of Saigon.

The U.S. Command said all three helicopters returned to their bases safely.

In three other small clashes Thursday within a 30-mile radius of Saigon, U.S. forces said they killed 26 enemy soldiers, while three Americans were killed.

Spacemen Due To Photograph Landing Sites

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 11 broke the ice. Apollo 12 tests the water.

Apollo 11 in July proved that man can land on the moon and return safely. Apollo 12 starts systematic exploration and lays the foundation for bolder exploration to follow.

Nearly every waking minute of the Apollo 12 crew's time on and around the moon is devoted to enhancing the scientific exploration. The accuracy of the landing, the amount and quality of work done on the surface, and the scientific value of the moon samples collected, all are vital to future lunar exploration.

Apollo 12's major goals are:

—Collecting more lunar rocks for study.

—Study man's ability to work on the moon.

—Set up equipment for long-term testing.

—Attempt a pinpoint landing.

—Photograph future landing sites.

The prime objective is to gather carefully chosen moon rocks and return them to earth for analysis.

Rocks were brought to earth by Apollo 11, but this was a bonus to the prime objectives of landing and returning. The samples were gathered at random because of the press of time.

On Apollo 12, astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean will select rocks with the critical eyes of gourmets choosing steaks. Dozens of rocks will be photographed from all sides before they are picked up, each to be carefully described and packaged.

The spacemen also will do a more thorough evaluation of man's ability to work on the moon. They'll walk farther, stay outside the landing craft longer and do more tasks. Science considers this evaluation second in importance only to the return of the rocks.

The third priority goal is deployment of an array of experiments designed to give data about the moon's surface, subsurface and atmosphere. These experiments will provide months of constant data that can keep scientists busy studying for years, even if man never again goes back to the moon. A small atomic generator will power transmission of the data back to earth long after Conrad and Bean have left.

$3 BILLION Corporate Profits Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Book profits of American corporations before taxes declined in the July-September quarter for the first time since the 1967 economic slowdown, the Commerce Department reported today.

The profits fell $3 billion below the record set in the first two quarters to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $92.4 billion. It was another indication that the government's campaign against inflation is beginning to show results.

The department's Office of Business Economics said after-tax earnings would be $50 billion for the quarter, down $1.8 billion with dividend payments up by $600 million, retained earnings dropped by well over $2 billion.

At the same time, the department revised its preliminary estimate of Gross National Product for the third quarter to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $942.8 billion, about $500 million above the original estimate.

Webb Grad Is Killed

Word has been received of the death of 1st Lt. Max Rosen, member of Webb AFB graduating class 69-06, in an air crash in Vietnam.

The fatal incident occured Oct. 8, friends here learned. The circumstances were unknown. After his graduation here last April, Lt. Rosen was assiged as a pilot of C-47 transport in Vietnam.

He was a graduate of the United States Air Force Academy and was a charter member of the Webb AFB Jewish Chapel Society.

Brief memorial services will be held by the society at 7 p.m. Sunday in the home of Capt. A. L. Fox, 2614 Lynn, with A. J. Prager, president of Temple Israel, officiating.

Lt. Rosen is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Rosen, Philadelphia, Pa., and by two sisters.

Mother Of Girl Quintuplets Used Fertility Drug

LONDON (AP) — Doctors said today they were a little concerned about the conditions of one of the girl quintuplets born prematurely Thursday night to a British woman who had taken a fertility drug.

The five girls born to Mrs. Irene Hanson, 33, were the biggest multiple birth in Britain since sextuplets were born last year to a woman who had also been using a fertility drug. Three of the six babies survived.

'HERE WE GO AGAIN'

'Crusade To Conquer Space For Christ'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair says U.S. spacemen are back at what she calls "the crusade to conquer space for Christ."

Mrs. O'Hair, who has a federal court suit pending against the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) as a result of Apollo 8's Christmas messages, commented after learning that Apollo 12 Astronaut Alan L. Bean planned to take a small Christian banner to the moon and back.

The Rev. John Fellers, pastor of the Clear Lake Methodist Church near Bean's home, said Bean has among his personal items a scarf-like banner about 14 inches long embroidered with the Christian cross and other religious symbols. Bean is one of 64 charter members of the church and formerly taught a Sunday school class there.

"Here we go again," Mrs. O'Hair said from her Austin home. "Back to the crusade to conquer space for Christ."

Mrs. O'Hair heads an organization called Society of Separationists (SOS) dedicated to separation of church and state and seeking taxation of church properties. She started a suit several years ago that resulted in the Supreme Court decision against mandatory prayers in public schools.

Last August, following the Apollo 11 moon landing, Mrs. O-Hair filed another suit, this time against NASA and the astronauts to prohibit any religious activities in space, "especially the reading of the sectarian Christian religion's Bible." Her petition claimed the astronauts conducted religious ceremonies in space to the benefit of the Christian religions while on scientific - military expedition financed by public funds. Her request for a special three-judge court to decide the suit was granted.

The government denied that Apollo 8 and 11 astronauts had been required to do any of the actions named in Mrs. O'Hair's complaint.

The government asked dismissal of the suit and a hearing is scheduled Nov. 24 in Austin on the motion.

"I feel that a modest amount of the national budget should go to the scientific exploration of space. . . Certainly I am for continued exploration at the pace the scientists want, not the pace the military wants," she said.

DEMONSTRATIONS FOCUSING ON U.S. POLICY IN VIET

Quiet Marchers Moving Past White House

By The Associated Press

Thousands of Americans across the nation held candlelight vigils, church services and rallies while a long parade of marchers passed the White House intoning the names of the dead in a prologue to the second Vietnam Moratorium.

Many of the marchers, including those who made the long trek from Arlington Cemetery past the White House to the Capitol in a "March Against Death," were braving rain or snow and freezing temperatures to make their quiet protest.

The Washington marchers were led by a young Navy widow and a middle-aged man who tearfully called out, "My son, Timothy Clark," through the gate of the White House.

Each marcher carried a placard with the name of a dead American or a ruined Vietnamese village, and eventually deposited it in a black coffin on the Capitol grounds.

Amid the protests, there were expressions of support for President Nixon's Vietnam policies.

Busloads of demonstrators, many of them from colleges and universities in the Northeast and Midwest, headed for Washington to take part in the mass march scheduled for Saturday. A similar march will be held in San Francisco.

Generally the level of local activity was down compared with the first Moratorium Day on Oct. 15 as organizers concentrated on getting people to Washington where march sponsors expect a turnout of 250,000.

There were exceptions. In Gallup, N.M., a city where no major peace demonstration ever had been held before, 100 persons turned out for a peaceful candlelight vigil Thursday night.

INSULTS

They were opposed by 50 anti-Moratorium demonstrators who kept up a stream of shouted insults and then sang "God Bless America." The antiwar group was quiet through the insults but joined in the singing.

Two rallies protesting U.S. policy in Vietnam drew more than 5,000 persons out into cold, windy weather in Chicago. The first at the downtown Civic Center Plaza was sponsored by the Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace.

In New York City, 2,000 attended a rally in Times Square where pediatrician and war critic, Dr. Benjamin Spock, criticized the President as "unable to end the war."

Again and again the crowd was urged to make the trip to Washington Saturday. Entertainers who participated included Pete Seeger, Tony Randall, Mitch Miller, Shirley MacLaine, Peter, Paul and Mary, and Leonard Bernstein.

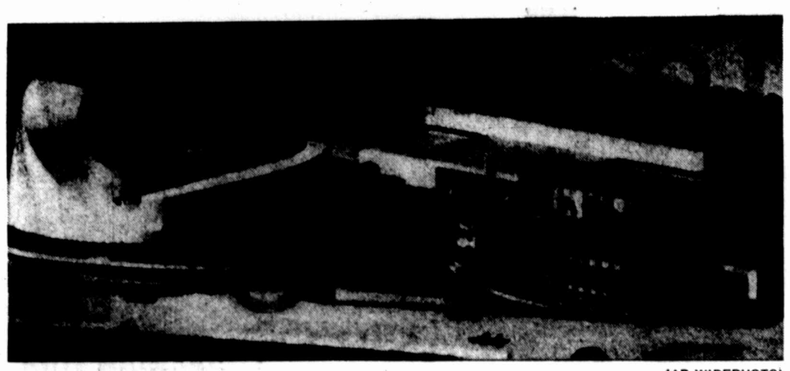
AREA TO BE CLEARED—This area in El Paso is being cleared to make way for the new civic center and related buildings as the city undergoes a face lifting with new construction replacing the many old buildings.



(AP WIREPHOTO)

NEW CIVIC CENTER—This is the architect's model of the new civic center for El Paso, which will be built at a cost of $15 million, financed by a bond issue. New buildings will be constructed around the center to make it one of the finest convention and tourist centers in the state.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You certainly are eager to have more social life now. To gain your personal hopes, make a special point to be objective and highly impersonal in your discussions with others. Otherwise a touchy and too-sensitive attitude on your part can bring difficulties.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Particular thought must be given to practical and association matters if you want to improve your present position. Be courteous with good friends, get those puzzling situations solved.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You have some moral obligations to fulfill now, so do so without getting into the practical side thereof. Talk over certain problematical affairs with associates. Get their views which can be very helpful.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Before you get into that work ahead of you, be sure of the motives of higher-ups. Your perspective has to change if you are to make changes for the better at this time. Be clever in dealing with others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do the best you can with promises you have made, and then off to the recreations that appeal to you most. Be efficient at whatever work you have to do. Make sure that all is immaculate around you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) First get home matters handled satisfactorily and then please that friend who wants to take you out for some recreation. There is some matter in the business world that needs attention. Ge tthat done, also.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get together with friends and have a good time. Stop procrastinating and contact that person you admire so much. Make this a banner day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Stay on the good side of those who like you and are interested in helping you get ahead, so don't do anything to jeopardize present fine position you enjoy. Talk business affairs over with clever persons.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Put your house in order and then entertain there. Forget that obsession you have and make your life happier. Dwelling on it does you no good and can even harm your health. Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Feel out those in the business world before you get those private plans working since you will know just how they will work out. This can be a very worthwhile day if you plan wisely, so schedule your time cleverly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to contact those who can assist you to get that cherished aim you have, and get the right results. Show that you have modern methods you can employ. Be specific in stating your true aims.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be sure you first get your ideas well organized before you approach those bigwigs whose support you want. Add to present prestige appreciably. Do whatever will stamp you as a fine citizen.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Others whose experience is different to yours now have suggestions that should be listened to, and put in operation whenever possible. Try to forget the past and you will be a happier person. Be wise.

SKYLINES OF TEXAS—V

El Paso Will Be Ready For 'Boom'

Editor's Note: El Paso and Juarez show their seamy sides to each other, but the U.S. city has a new central skyline taking shape. This is the fifth and last in a series of stories on the view of Texas cities.

EL PASO (AP) — The bustling centers of the biggest border cities of Texas and Mexico show their seamy sides to each other across the sleepy Rio Grande.

Approaching Juarez along El Paso's Stanton Street, the view to the right and left degenerates into a polyglot of open-fronted groceries and second - hand stores with signs in English and Spanish.

The return to the United States is more upbeat, ending at the Santa Fe Street Bridge in a clutter of honky-tonks and liquor stores harking back to Prohibition when Juarez was a mecca for thirsty U.S. residents.

TOURIST'S PARADISE

The modern opulence of Juarez—its magnificent dog track and luxurious Pronaf Hotel and shopping complex which combine in a tourist's paradise—are far from the hectic traffic at the old bridges.

So too with El Paso, where a new central city skyline is taking shape. A million people will live in those two cities by 1985, and the groans of bulldozers say El Paso will be ready.

This is a year of industrial, commercial and building boom in El Paso as exciting as the frantic World War II expansion which reversed the city's downward population trend.

In the following decade the city's head count more than doubled to 277,000. Now more than a third of a million residents occupy the 117 square miles in El Paso's corporate limits.

'TWIN-PLANT CONCEPT'

And the city at El Paso del Norte, gateway for Spaniards, Mexicans, and American pioneers, is putting some yankee enterprise and bordertown savvy to the task of keeping the boom alive.

The thrusts are toward convention and tourist business through construction of new roads and facilities, and toward industry with the "twin-plant concept" which has taken hold along the border.

Interstate 10 is near completion through El Paso County now, and ground is being leveled for a north-south freeway and the $15 million Civic Center going into construction this year.

The rounded, staggered plans of the center will be an aesthetic focus for the core city's new look. Its theater will seat 3,000 in upholstered chairs, and its 60,000 square foot exhibit hall will seat another 5,000.

The city's third Holiday Inn is going up where once the Masonic Temple stood. Construction is halfway up the intended 16-story height of the new hotel which will have 210 guest rooms.

14-STORY HOTEL

Western Greyhound will build a terminal and 14-story hotel adjacent to the center, and in the same neighborhood work has begun on a new high-rise Travelodge.

Construction is about 20 per cent complete on a $3 million project to modernize El Paso International Airport so it can handle the biggest jets.

The State National Bank is clearing land for a 20-story structure to end the dominance of the 18-story El Paso National Bank building, the 16-story El Paso Natural Gas building and the 14-story Southwest National Bank building over the skyline.

And the American Bank of Commerce is moving into its building after a complete remodeling that will result in all downtown bank buildings having a new, modern appearance. Also, Mountain States Telephone Co. is completing a $4.5 million addition to its building.

The Chamber of Commerce, which is building new quarters for itself, is proud to announce that El Paso is one of the few American major cities without a single vacant building downtown.

PLAN BRIDGES

The "twin-plant concept" works this way: U.S. industry sends materials across the border to be processed by Mexican labor, then the components are returned to the U.S. for assembly or completion, with the manufacturers paying duty only on the value of labor performed in Mexico.

Plants are mushrooming around Juarez as a result. Radio Corp. of America has completed a million-dollar factory, and the success of the operation is breeding more such plants, resulting in companion plants in the El Paso area to apply the finishing touch.

New bridges over the Rio Grande are in the planning stage, partly as a result of growing industrial traffic.

Already the new, free Cordova Island bridge a five-minute drive from the central city competes with the older toll bridges for traffic. At this new bridge there is a colorful monument to the Chamizal settlement, festooned with Mexican flags.

Semifinalists Say All Gaps Aren't Between Generations

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The eight semifinalists for the Miss Teenage America Pageant sat down for a talk session Thursday and revealed that to their way of thinking, all gaps aren't between generations.

"Teens as a whole are criticized for endulging in drugs, alcohol and sex. Some do; others have the strength not to—there's your gap," said sprightly, pixie haircut Slyvia Stockwell of Colorado Springs, Colo.

SHE'S RIGHT

"She's right—strength or hope for a defined future keep you off drugs," echoed California-tanned Karin Breuer of Los Angeles. "The kids who turn to these things are the ones that are still searching for a future."

"I've seen so many intelligent kids that have gone blase," said Miss Breuer.

Defined futures these eight certainly have.

"I want to be a nurse; that's a profession where you know you're really needed," said Nancy Meek of Indianapolis, Ind.

Miss Teenage Dallas, Kristina Mordaunt, said she planned a career as an interpreter for the United Nations. "It's fantastic to speak to people in their own language," she said.

The semifinalists were asked if they thought being named the winner in Saturday night's pageant would make a difference in their futures.

'WANT TO BE ME'

"I don't want it to—I just want to be me," was the answer of Christian Coleman of Jacksonville, Fla.

Lynne Leonard of Seattle, Wash., said she thought it had already made a difference. "I already feel more mature. I've done something others my age haven't," she said.

The contestants, aware that the selection of one among them will take place on the same night many others their age will be participating in moratoriums against the Vietnam War, unanimously grouped themselves in the so-called "silent majority."

Miss Stockwell compared herself and her counterparts to President Richard Nixon: "We have the support of our schoolmates back home for the pageant. You can imagine how we would feel if they didn't care. It's a tiny scale for comparison, but I can imagine how the President would feel if he didn't think he had the support of the people."

ROCK THROWING

"It's amazing how fast the rock throwing starts once comeone gets in office," added Debbie Patton of Odessa, Tex., referring to the President.

Topics in the session switched rapidly from teen dilemmas to politics to racial problems—areas about which all the girls spoke out frankly with decided views.

Miss Stockwell mentioned her original poem she will read in the talent competition during the finale. Entitled "Society, Why Do You Weep?" the poem is about racial turmoil.

"There will be 40 million people watching—if it touches just one I will have won. I don't feel I can loose whether I gain the Miss Teenage America title or not," she said.

Saturday night's pageant is to be telecast over CBS at 9 p.m. CST. Featured along with the eight semifinalists will be the remaining 37 candidates and a list of movie and singing stars.

Contract Awarded For Borden School Addition

GAIL — Contract was awarded Thursday to James Blair Construction Company of Lubbock on a low bid of $153,617 for addition of quarters for four departments to the Borden County High Sschool.

These will provide for a new agricultural building with classroom and shops; a new science department, and a third building to house the homemaking department and the music department.

Construction will be of brick and tile with built up roof. With the exception of the agriculture building, they will be carpeted and all units will be air conditioned. This fits into a pattern for the remainder of the high school, which also is air conditioned and carpeted.

The three buildings aggregate 11,500 square feet. The science unit will be between the high school and the elementary school building, and the covered walkway between the two will be covered so elementary children will have all-weather access to the cafeteria. The home-economics and music building will be south of the present auditorium. The agriculture building will be west of the high school plant. The science building includes space for chemistry and physics labs as well as for biology and earth sciences, plus a lecture room.

One decorative touch will be a mural on the south wall of the band hall.

Hedleston Recalls Drug Store Changes

By TERRY HOPKINS

Prickly Ash Bitters for the stomach and bowels, East India Medicine (Made in Texas), to cure any ailment; and Over the Top, a cure-all named for the doughboys when they went over the top in WWI; all are medicines common in the early 1900's, but the curious bottles and battered boxes that carried their healing remedies to our grandparents now serve only a decorative purpose and are displayed with pride on counters at Cunningham and Philips Drug Store, 905 Johnson Street.

Joe B. Hedleston, owner of the 50-year-old drug store, said the pharmacy business has changed tremendously in the last 20 years, but he can remember well the time when he took over the local Cunningham and Philips Drug Store in 1946 and actually sold things like Weber's Genuine Alpine Herb Tea, for constipation.

"Oil of Tar is another interesting old remedy," said Hedleston. "It was used to cure the itch.

"Course, we don't have that anymore," he added wryly, "we have allergies."

Hedleston said that today, most ailments are cured by antibiotics, and they come already prepared. But he recalled his schooling years at Danforth, and his own drug store in Coleman (he received his license in 1928), and said he mixed his own powders back then, filled capsules, and even made his own tinctures.

"I sold my business in Coleman in 1946, though," Hedleston said, "and I started looking around for another interest to buy. That's when I came to Big Spring and went into partnership with Shine Philips." Hedleston said C. W. Cunningham had died five years prior to his coming into the business.

"And then Mr. Philips had a series of strokes and I bought out his half of the business in 1962." Mr. Philips died in 1967.

"But I kept the Cunningham and Philips name because it is so well known," Hedleston said. "People around here trust it."

Although the present store has only been on Johnson Street since 1955, the firm itself can count back 50 years to its origin. Several displays in the drug store date that far back, too, and they include an array of Hedleston's collection hobbies that range from inch-tall Coke bottles to an antique tobacco cutter on the drug counter.

"I started collecting bottles a long time ago," Hedleston said, and he pointed out a few of the unusual ones like a mounted green wine bottle in the shape of a pistol, a violin shaped bottle, one likened to a fish, another commemorating the 50th anniversary of the American Legion, and another recalling President Eisenhower's military days.

"The tiny Coke bottles came from a play refrigerator that my daughter had as a child," they don't make it any more and I sold my last bottle about three months ago."

"Something unusual happens every day in a drug store," Hedleston said, and he mentioned frequent calls for drugs that he can't issue without a prescription.

"It's usually people who sincerely believe they can get the drug, though," he said. "They mean well, they're not deliberately trying to break the law."

Hedleston and his wife, Juanita, are members of the Hedleston explained.

Hedleston has a collection of mortar and pestle sets, too, and they run the gamut from brass, wooden, and enamel, to one made of a rough-surfaced stone, similar to granite.

"I collect barbed wire, too," Hedleston said and his collection is displayed with pride on a green burlap screen behind the soda fountain, wire snipped into uniform lengths and properly labeled, as to variety.

"Say," said a tall suited stranger as we were admiring the wire, "do you have Dr. Porter's Antiseptic Healing Oil?"

"Sorry," answered Hedleston, First Christian Church where he is a deacon, and they have two grown daughters, Mrs. Stan Koop, Carlsbad, N.M., and Nancy Hedleston, who teaches school at Richardson.

"My wife's a school teacher, too," Hedleston added. "She teaches at College Heights."

Hedleston belongs to several professional organizations, the National Association of Retail Druggists, the American Pharmaceutical Association, the Texas Pharmaceutical Association, and the West Texas Pharmaceutical Association, as well as serving as a consultant pharmacist at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital.

Joint Dining-In Is Being Studied

Webb's Junior Officer Council (JOC) and Top Three Steering Committee are considering the possibilities of holding a joint JOC — NCO Dining-In.

The idea has been received enthusiastically from both organizations and special committees have been formed to begin laying the ground work for the project. 1st. Lt. David Little, instructor pilot in the 3561st Pilot Training Squadron, and M.Sgt. Paul Hooser, of the synthetic trainer branch, have been selected as the project chairmen. Both are soliciting opinions and ideas concerning the event.

Although a joint formal, social gathering of officers and NCOs is a rare occurence, the event has drawn favorable comments from personnel at Webb, as well as other bases throughout the Air Training Command.

Both C.M. Sgt. Donald Harlow, chief master sergeant of the Air Force, and C.M. Sgt. E. J. Brown, on the executive staff, Headquarters ATC, have, through informal conversations, expressed interest in the event.

February is the proposed month for the dining-in following the base's Inspector General inspection in January. The dining-in would stand as another "first" for Webb.

Photo Wins

Drug Store Marks 50th Year

A golden anniversary celebration for 50 years of uninterrupted service by Cunningham and Philips Drug Store to Big Spring residents is due to start Saturday at the store, 905 Johnson Street, with an open house kicking off the week of prizes and surprises for all.

Joe B. Hedleston owns the business now, but it was founded by two Big Spring notables, Shine Philips and C. W. Cunningham, in 1919.

"I became a partner in the firm in 1946," Hedleston said, "and then I bought Shine Philips' interest in 1962 to become sole owner." Mr. Philips had suffered several heart attacks when he sold out to Hedleston, and he died in 1967.

The original store, conducted business from the 200 block of Main Street for 32 years, but since 1958, has operated from the present location, 905 Johnson.

At one time there were five stores operating under the same management, and when Hedleston joined the firm he managed the store in the Petroleum Building. Mr. Philips directed the Main Street store until it was transferred to Johnson Street in 1952. The Petroleum Building store was consolidated with Johnson Street in 1958, when Cosden purchased the Petroleum building. It was about that time that Mr. Philips suffered a series of strokes and retired from the business.

Mr. Cunningham and Mr. Philips had purchased the drug business from a former superintendent of schools, the late B. Reagan, who had bought the store from the Camant Brothers in 1898.

C. W. Cunningham served Big Spring in many respects, having been both a mayor of the town and a school board president. He was a native of Houston County, trained as a school teacher, and became a licensed pharmacist in 1900. He came to Big Spring from Lufkin in 1908 and after a year opened his own store in Garden City, operating there until his partnership with Philips in 1919. He had also served as county judge of Glasscock County. He died in 1941.

Shine Philips was regarded unofficially as the first citizen of Big Spring, and by his own admission was one of the most mischievous lads in town. As a boy he sold newspapers and bottled castor oil and other remedies at the Reagan drug store. He got his pharmaceutical permit in 1910 and a license in 1913. Mr. Philips had publicized his beloved home town with a book titled, "Big Spring — Biography of a Prairie Town," still a best seller.

A TRUSTED PHARMACIST, Joe B. Hedleston measures out a prescription in his 50-year-old pharmacy, Cunningham and Philips, with the same pride and deliberation as his predecessors, Shine Philips and C. W. Cunningham, did a half century ago.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Jesus said unto Simon, Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught. (Luke 5:4)

PRAYER: O God, enable us to know more of total commitment to Thee and Thy kingdom in this world. Grant that we may be able to prove Christianity by our lives—in word and deed. Lead us by Thy spirit as we accept the challenge to launch out into the deep. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Trouble In Chile

By quick firm action Christian Democrat President Eduardo Frei Montalvo recently squelched an armed military - pay protest that easily could have exploded into Chile's first military coup in a generation. Thus he may succeed in completing the final year of his precarious six-year term, but the uncertainty of Chile's future allows for no complacency in its relation to the Nixon administration's Latin American concerns.

Frei has been walking a tight rope in his extensive agrarian reform, or compensated redistribution of some two million acres of land, and his compromise "Chileanization" of the great mineral resources, led by copper and nitrates, that account for two-thirds of his country's exports. At the same time he has been pushing social reforms, particularly in housing and education.

Frei and his Christian Democrat party is plagued on the left by a strong force of Communists and radical socialists that might win national control by election if they could achieve a workable coalition. This near-majority element is sharply critical of Frei for not pushing revolutionary change and undertaking outright nationalization of Chile's basic industries, particularly mining.

And Frei is squeezed from the right by the traditional privileged classes who think his agrarian and social reforms are going too far too fast. This element probably would support a military coup if it thought such necessary, not to stop Frei's relatively moderate program but to prevent a socialist-Communist election victory when his term runs out.

The outcome is of more than ordinary concern, because what happens in Chile seems to be exceptionally influential in South America.

Give Your Vote Of Confidence

For those who have not already made plans to attend the Big Spring-Permian football game this evening, we urge them to do so.

This would be an excellent way to pay respects to the coaching staff during this observance of Coaches Week. We think our community is singularly blessed by having not only good coaches but good men who are good coaches. This is important because they have a tremendous influence upon the lives of our young men, not only now, but down through the years.

Another reason for attending the game is to give our football squad a vote of confidence and a vote of appreciation. They have lived up to expectations, and more. Anytime a team can go 5-2 in conference play in this district up to this point, it has had a successful season. Of course, we are pulling for a victory over one of the teams in West Texas to give us an almost unprecedented 6-2 record in district play.

These young men have been an inspiration to the town, setting an example of team spirit and of determined efforts; an example of poise and purpose.

And what we say for Big Spring High, we certainly can say of Coahoma High School, which has a tremendous record for the season, Forsan and Sands.

The Ambassadorial Plums

WASHINGTON — One of the embarrassments of a new President in his first months in office is the scramble for ambassadorships. Generous contributors and faithful friends feel that the least reward they can expect is to be "Mr. Ambassador" — and not in the sweltering capital of some struggling new African state but in Europe where the amenities and the honors still flourish.

OVER THE YEARS this has had its comic aspects as certain choices for these posts of high dignity and little influence have been singularly ill suited for the diplomatic life. It also has its serious side, as the professional foreign service deeply resents the fact that the plums are handed out as political rewards. Congress has been niggardly about adequate living allowances, so that only those with private wealth can sustain the embassies in London, Paris and other European capitals where entertainment is costly and junketing Congressmen drop in for free meals at any and all times.

MR. NIXON is having his troubles in this department. The theory is that a President is privileged to pick his own ambassadors since there is a certain personal as well as official relationship between the Chief Executive and his legate.

The President last Aug. 5 sent a nomination to the Senate that has lain quietly in the recesses of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee ever since. And if Chairman J. William Fulbright has his way it will stay there.

FOR AMBASSADOR to Morocco Mr. Nixon nominated Robert Strausz-Hupe, director of the Foreign Policy Research Institute at the University of Pennsylvania. Born in Vienna, Austria, in 1903 and naturalized in 1938, Stausz-Hupe is a passionate cold war warrior. He believes in a "protracted conflict," the title of one of his books, with the Soviet Union, and the concept of coexistence he regards as a deadly trap.

The staff of the Foreign Relations Committee has prepared a dossier on Strausz-Hupe covering some of his more far-out positions. He opposed the nuclear non-proliferation treaty and testified that he would be for the limited test-ban treaty only if conditions were attached which would, in effect, have nullified it. On arms limitation he wrote in 1965:

"DISARMAMENT would have to begin by an international agreement to subject, in all countries, a quota of scientists and technologists to surgical prophylaxis, preferably lobotomy. If there is anything to be learned from the Washington treaty on the limitation of naval armament and from the Geneva negotiations in the interwar period, it is that disarmament agreements not only do not prevent evasion, they prompt it. To tell the inventive mind that it is debarred by any law except the law of science from exploring one approach to the development of a technique is to challenge it to seek for another or to substitute an altogether novel technique for the "outlawed" one."

THERE IS A question here whether an individual's views, however radical on the right or the left, should be disqualifying. Moreover, in this instance the Ambassador to Morocco is unlikely to exert any great influence on American policy.

Yet the larger question of the selection of qualified men with diplomatic experience remains. When the President named Walter Annenberg, the Philadelphia publisher and one of the most-valued clients of the Nixon law firm, to be Ambassador to Britain, a muffled outcry arose from the professionals and those who look on the Court of St. James's as the star on the top of the diplomatic tree.

NOT UNTIL there is a frontal attack on the system itself will the Foreign Service and the State Department be equipped to do a thorough professional job. So far as the outsider can tell, the present Administration is simply drifting with the current of the past and anguished cries come out of Foggy Bottom of demoralization and disarray.

Billy Graham

Our son joined a church which does not believe in the saving power of Christ. We have tried to show him the mistake he is making but he won't listen. What can we do? T.J.

Young people often defect from the beliefs of their parents — and often it is temporary. They defect for many reasons, or for no reason at all. Sometimes it is because they see a lack of sincerity and dedication in their parents. Sometimes it is just the normal rebellion of youth against tradition, and the urge to be 'free' from their parents' apron strings. Sometimes, it is a sincere desire to find that which is true and good — an adequate faith.

Many homes have been broken up over differences of religious belief. This is tragic, since one of the purposes of true Christianity is to bring more love and understanding to the home. When this happens, you may rest assured that someone is wrong — either parent or child.

If your son is in the wrong, and according to you, he is, don't lecture him; don't scold him — above everything else, keep loving him and pray for him. Time is a great healer, especially, if all minds and hearts concerned are open to Truth. If your heart is right and you are faithful in prayer, I have no doubt that your son will return. "Train up a child the way he should go, and when HE IS OLD, he will not depart from it."

Hal Boyle

One-Man, One-Vote Crusader

By ROY MALONE
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Paul W. Preisler is a 67-year-old crusader who won't take no for an answer when it comes to the one-man, one-vote principle.

Three times he has successfully filed suits forcing the Missouri Legislature to remap state congressional districts to make them more equal in population.

Now he has turned his attack to the state's two-thirds majority requirement for passage of bond issues. A decision in those cases is pending.

"It doesn't make sense when one no vote is equal to two yes votes," he says.

Missouri is one of about 20 states that has either state or local laws requiring more than a simple majority for passage of propositions such as bond issues or tax levies.

In recent months, judges in West Virginia, Idaho and California have declared invalid a requirement of more than 50 per cent. The legal attack is also being waged in Iowa and Minnesota and "it's going to snowball," Preisler said.

Preisler is an unassuming biochemist-turned-lawyer who files "citizen suits," usually at his own expense, to protect "our democratic principles."

The tall bachelor organized a teachers union in St. Louis in 1930 only to find the school board forbade teachers from joining. His court suit to get the restriction lifted was successful.

His other suits, over the years, have established the right of school board members to be elected on a nonpartisan basis, the right of minority parties to have poll watchers and the right of a nonpartisan candidate to run for Congress.

Just before receiving a law degree in 1954 he successfully argued before the Missouri Supreme Court against a state senatorial redistricting in St. Louis. The districts were changed but, Preisler muses, he received "only a B" in the law-school course for which he filed the suit as a class project.

'Everyman's Cause'

NEW YORK (AP) — That angry stirring in the market place called consumerism has been recognized and analyzed in a Chamber of Commerce study as not only understandable and legitimate but as likely to intensify in years to come.

The recognition comes in an acutely perceptive study of "Business and the Consumer—A Program for the Seventies" which is probably the most succinct summary of the movement ever compiled.

That the chamber should recognize consumer complaints as something business must respond to is nothing new. For several years it has put consumerism at the top of its list of concerns. Perhaps its attitude showed through; consumerism seemed to be "this problem we have to contend with."

However, in the present analysis, prepared by the chamber's Council on Trends and Perspective, the consumer's fight for safeguards in the market place is viewed from the second paragraph on as "everyman's cause."

The distinction is important. Ever since the early 1960s, when consumer grumblings grew perceptibly louder than at any time in at least three decades, many businessmen felt the movement was antibusiness. They reacted angrily.

This was an understandable but still curious response, for the very manufacturer who denounced those who complained about his product could, almost in the same breath, rail against the manufacturer who sold him an inferior good.

Many Americans, that is, reacted solely as producers and forgot that they were consumers also. The response was almost habitual, for this is a nation that emphasizes production and which knows that its material wealth results from pouring out a great volume of goods.

Americans couldn't forget for long that they were consumers also. Two-thirds of the spending in this nation is by consumers. Every man, woman and child is a consumer of goods and services—and is consuming more each passing year.

As consumers, these Americans asked: Does it really improve life that much to flood the country with goods if these goods are poorly made and dangerous and unserviceable?

Cause Of Hemorrhoids Or Piles

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes hemorrhoids (piles)? Would nerves or certain foods cause them? A member of my family has trouble, it seems, when she is under nervous strain, or when melons are in season.—M.H.

Hemorrhoids are a type of varicose veins. Most trouble with varicose veins is in the legs, but quite a lot is in the anal (rectal) region.

What causes them? Basically a weakness in the veins. And after that, any pressures that affect the flow of blood through veins, which results in increased pressure in the veins. This pressure damages the valves in the veins, and also causes swelling of the veins. These swollen veins are "hemorrhoids."

The hemorrhoids can itch, can be painful, or can burst and bleed. Such hemorrhoids are no fun. Absolutely no fun.

The swollen condition of these veins is pretty much continuous. The basic condition doesn't come and go. It remains. But under some circumstances the trouble is dormant. Then something that increases the pressure or irritates the swollen veins brings on the annoying or painful symptoms.

Constipation is doubtless the worst offender. Anyone who has hemorrhoids is asking for trouble unless he (or she) controls constipation. And in the vast majority of cases, the patient can do a great deal for himself in this regard.

But saying that constipation is the worst factor doesn't say that others don't exist. "Nerves" can have an influence, because "nerves" get us all tense, can constrict muscles, "tighten us up," and increase blood pressure. Nerves don't cause hemorrhoids but can touch off trouble when the basic condition exists.

As to when melons are in season, I'll have to hedge a bit. Some allergic reaction could be involved, and temporary irritation is set up. Or the irritation may be a consequence of the vegetable fibers in melons — assuming that your family member goes a little wild over melons, in season. (For that I don't blame her — but!)

Or the large amount of fluid in melons may result in more frequent bowel movements, and this can cause some irritation.

If your relative, old or young, will take the trouble to study up a bit on hemorrhoids, the prospects for comfort in the future are pretty good. If she won't, she'll keep on suffering.

Hemorrhoids won't kill you, but they can make you pretty miserable unless you understand what the basic nature of the problem is. I refer you to the bottom of the column for a booklet I have written on one aspect of this disagreeable affliction.

I think you might also do a good deed by sending for a copy of my booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids," on behalf of your troubled relative. For a copy, send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes dandruff? I have used every dandruff shampoo on the market. The day after I brush it all out, the dandruff is back. I asked my mother if I could go to a dermatologist, but she thinks it is not important. There must be some way to get rid of it, isn't there? Do poor eating habits contribute to it?—L.S.

"Dandruff" is skin which scales off from the scalp. Often the dandruff shampoos clear it up. When they don't, it indicates that some more stubborn skin ailment is causing the scaling — so your thought of seeing a dermatologist makes sense. I doubt if poor eating habits have much to do with it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it all right for a man who had his prostate gland removed to have sexual intercourse?—C.M.

Yes.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading the booklet, "The Way To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 25 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Cunning Campaign In Making

Despite a bit of political up-staging the past few days, my campaign for governor is coming along nicely.

ONE OF THE difficulties in putting together a strong campaign — other than the fact that I have no visible support — is meeting the issues head-on.

Gov. Preston Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Sen. Ralph Yarborough argue over revenue when the fact is, we don't have much for a big state like Texas, and a lot of what we have is earmarked.

My solution is relatively simple.

If elected, one of my first programs will be to install pay toilets in every public building in Texas. It ought to raise a lot of money.

I PLAN TO call this program "Pay As You Go Government."

I'm also tinkering with an idea to raise huge sums of money by adopting modern techniques in our state publications.

Think of the money we would raise if we had center section pullouts such a s Playboy magazine. What magazine? You know the slick ones that the publisher delivers to Sports Editor Tommy Hart.

My present thinking is to feature a different state legislature each month.

ANOTHER UNTAPPED source of revenue is available if we charge legislators for bills they introduce. It costs a lot of money to print all those bills, and most of them never become law.

My idea is to charge a filing fee, to be refunded if the bill becomes law. I believe this will shorten future legislative sessions to approximately two or three weeks a year.

SINCE I AM a former state publicity director of the Democratic party in Oklahoma, I plan to cooperate fully with President Nixon on his revenue sharing plan.

I am hopeful we can get enough federal revenue from the President to enable us to repeal some of our nuisance taxes — the sales tax, oil tax, etc.

Financing education is always a headache. To deal with this problem I propose to transfer the public school system to the state Welfare Department. Specifically, to the Aid to Dependent Children program.

I'M ALSO working on a snazzy campaign motto, a little campaign song and adoption of a campaign mascot. My mascot will be the Texas buzzard.

As far as I can tell, he's the only one doing anything about the carnage on our highways.

The Racial Question And Television

WASHINGTON — In all the controversies over segregated or integrated schools, there is an underlying issue which rarely is mentioned in print. Yet it is often the basic factor which prompts families to take their children out of public schools and send them to private schools. It is also causing many white families to move to the suburbs in the hope of avoiding to a large extent what they consider the real danger in the mixing of the races — namely, interracial marriages.

TELEVISION HAS been criticized lately for portraying violence, and some members of Congress have been discussing the extent to which television shows have been influencing the younger generation to participate in riots and disorders. The broadcasters now are faced with more criticism because they have recently ventured to show Negro and white young men and women in scenes that have not been witnessed before except perhaps in some theaters in New York or other big cities.

DURING THE last two or three years, Negroes have been appearing on some of the TV shows on a regular basis, and there has been an increase in the number of programs featuring black actors and actresses. But not until this week did a television show focus on a white girl and a Negro man as the two leading characters, singing and dancing together in an intimate fashion.

INCIDENTS LIKE these will be defended as merely the repetition of the kind of dances previously presented without interracial participation. The sight of a white woman and a black man in an affectionate embrace on TV is something, on the other hand, which arouses in the minds of many white mothers a fear that their youngsters will begin to regard what they have seen as an acceptable practice and that this will lead to a further social mingling which could result in interracial marriages.

VERY FEW PERSONS who discuss publicly the segregation problem in the high schools mention the possibility of friendships developing between the races which might be followed by intimate relations. In the last few years many high schools which have been "desegregated" have abandoned social activities such as dances because there is recognition of the embarrassments that might ensue. Undoubtedly a feeling of apprehension exists, and it is probably the biggest influence generally against racial mixing in the schools.

The passage of laws to govern broadcasting programs is not likely to bring a solution. For the television stations have as much right as the theaters to present shows with interracial aspects. It is possible, of course, that public reaction to television programs with an interracial emphasis will cause many viewers to switch channels or turn off their sets.

THE PROBLEM, however, for the parents is not merely a fear of interracial marriage, but what their own youngsters are going to be saying about it. The younger generation of whites has been inclined to regard fraternizing with Negroes as in line with their own concepts of a new way of life. Their mothers and fathers are concerned with how to persuade their youngsters to maintain the traditions that have prevailed so long against racial intermarriages.

Two Scenarios On The Crime Story

WASHINGTON — Two lovers, naked to the onlookers' eyes, lie folded in sexual embrace, their limbs entwined. A third figure is that of a moderately bearded man, and from his remarks he might be a bitter parody on Christ, or Jehovah, or an Old Testament prophet, or an early Chief Justice. The Arena Stage, D.C. was giving a performance of "The Cage," a play written and acted by ex-convicts.

THE BODIES on the floor break apart, the stage-lights rise, and you get the intended shock. The lover being embraced is not a woman, but a man who soon begins to sway at the hips the way that homosexual males are supposed to do. His love-partner is a tough Negro who, naturally, as the play progresses, is physically and intellectually the superior of the whities.

Next, there enters the fourth principal, a beautiful blonde youth, made to look like an adolescent Billy Graham. All the kid's done, evidently, is to murder his sweetheart while working his way through college.

OR, MAYBE, NOT. The dialogue says he's been falsely arrested, wrongly convicted, cruelly deceived by his lawyer; and soon the action shows that all four cellmates are suffering from police brutality at the hands of their guards. It's a play with that sort of message. The players discourse in suitable obscenities, and put on internal playlets about the depravity of civilization.

In Hamilton, Bermuda, shortly after this play had its limited run, Attorney General John Mitchell was offering a rival scenario. Mitchell, you understand, has the job of putting criminals into "The Cage."

"I AM FIRST and foremost a law enforcement officer," he told the UPI annual conference that he was addressing. A tough hombre, Mitchell has a short way with offenders. "I think that persons who break the law ought to be promptly arrested and tried — today."

Never mind about that vague "tomorrow" when "research and development" into "physical and emotional problems" may help us "solve crime . . . tomorrow is too late," said the nation's top law-man.

THE CRIME WAVE crested — up 122 per cent — in the ascendency years (1960-68) of the Democratic party, this Republican campaign manager and cabinet officer explained. And the reason was, he made clear, that preceding Attorneys General Kennedy, Katzenbach and Clark listened to "social scientists who can explain the motives of the criminal, but who can do little to protect the innocent against the mugger and the armed robber."

MITCHELL'S SCENARIO, as delivered to the UPI, demanded "practical and immediate" treatment of the outlaws. He'd fling a lot more of 'em into "The Cage," if he had his way, and he expounded upon Mitchell's Way. Kick down the door with "no knock," and grab the evidence. Stop and frisk and detain suspicious characters. Take confessions without regard to the Miranda rule, and tap the telephones of known crooks. Put 1,000 additional cops on the city streets, and get $269 million out of Congress so that the Federal government could spread these methods to the States and provinces.

There were these two messages, one by "The Cage" and one by the Attorney General. Two senarios on the crime story. One call's for guilt, and one calls for action. Which one will the people buy?

Bride-Elect Is Honored

Janet Richardson, bride-elect of Edward Lee Akin, was the honoree at a gift shower held Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Bill Owens, 2206 S. Fourth, Lamesa.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Bill Ray Horton, Mrs. John Plunkett, Mrs. Jim Speck, Mrs. J. B. Brock Jr., Mrs. Oscar Eilis, Mrs. Ted Hughes, Mrs. Bill Whisenant, Mrs. Kenneth Harper, Mrs. R. T. Bingham and Mrs. Sam Stevens.

The honoree, her mother, Mrs. T. C. Richardson of Big Spring, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. W. E. Akin of Lamesa were all presented white glamelia corsages.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a lace cloth over yellow underlay and centered with an arrangement of yellow roses and white stock flanked by yellow candles. Appointments were crystal and silver.

The couple will be married Friday in Big Spring at Wesley United Methodist Church.

Webb Announces Holiday Bazaar

A Christmas Bazaar, sponsored by the wives of pilot training class 70-07 at Webb, will be held in the John H. Lees Service Club Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The bazaar will include boothes from classes 70-05, 70-06, 70-07, 71-01, 71-02. It will be open to all base personnel and their families.

A numerous variety of items will be on sale. The wives have made Christmas decorations which include tree ornaments, tree skirts, fancy candles and wall plaques.

Santa Claus and one of his helpers is scheduled to be on hand to talk with children. Photographs will also be taken at this time.

Mother's Club Slates Conference

Mrs. Keith Thompson announced a parent-teacher conference will be held Nov. 24 at Tuesday's meeting of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Mother's Club. The Rev. William Meagher worded prayer. A garage sale was slated Nov. 30 at the Thompson home, 609 Highland, and a parish party was set for Dec. 6. The group will have a tamale sale Jan. 17, 1970. The door prize was won by Mrs. Emma Peredez. The next meeting will be Jan. 13, 1970.

Reviews Book At Midland Meeting

Mrs. Clyde Angel, 706 Hillside, reviewed the book, "I Didn't Come Here To Argue," by Pat Bachren at Wednesday's luncheon meeting of the En Amie Review Club in Midland. The event was held at Ranchland Hills Country Club. Approximately 130 persons attended.

A LOVELIER YOU

Try Uplifted Lines For Youthful Look

By MARY SUE MILLER

A portrait painter will tell you that a youthful face features upturned contours. You can prove this to yourself by making this little experiment before the mirror:

Pull your mouth down in a droop. How do you look? Be you teen or umpteen, it's for sure you look haggard. And not at all winsome! Now turn your lips up in a little smile. Suddenly you're ageless and so very attractive!

Of course, a mature face may need more lift than a smile provides. Missing quantities are easily supplied by a few makeup and hairdo tricks. Some of the best follow:

Eyebrows take wing when they peak above the outer edge of the pupil. The effect is achieved by brushing the strands straight up and filling in gaps with soft, close pencil strokes. Thereafter, smooth the top line with one upward whisk of the brush from inner corner to peak; another whisk from peak outward toward temple.

For a lilt to the eyes, keep the lashes swinging upward and outward by any cosmetic means that works for you — from curler and mascara to eyeliner and falsies. The merest flick of a lipstick brush flicks up the corners of the mouth, beguilingly.

The final fillip comes from a hair style with upward movement — with height over the forehead or a clean rise at the temples. As contours go up, the age comes down!

BEAUTY KNOWS NO AGE

Some women age before their time; some retain their youthful beauty and charm. Why? The secrets of non-stop attractiveness are revealed in "Beauty Knows No Age." Advice covers ways to a youthful figure, skin and hair; to flattering makeup, hairstyles and fashions. Former Navy Gauger Tells Canal's History

Dick Bartlett of Coahoma, a former liquid fuels gauger for the Navy, spoke on the Panama Canal Zone at Tuesday's meeting of the Chaparral Club in the home of Mrs. Perry Chandler, 2302 Cindy. Mrs. Paul Sheedy was cohostess.

Bartlett said the Panama Canal, completed in 1913, has three series of locks or chambers. It is 52 miles long, with each chamber being 1,000 feet long and 100 feet wide. Ships coming in from the Atlantic are 85 feet higher than ships coming in from the Pacific, providing the need for the locks.

The speaker said 52 million gallons of water are required for each ship that passes through the canal, and this would provide enough water for a city the size of Fort Worth for one day. The canal gets its water from Gatun Lake.

Approximately 14,000 ships go through the canal daily, and each ship costs about $6,000 which is based on weight. Ships from the United States are the only ones which can go through free. By going through the canal 13,000 miles are saved when traveling from Los Angeles to New York.

Mrs. Jimmy Taylor was a guest. The next meeting will be a Christmas party, Dec. 9, at Big Spring Country Club.

New Class Named 'Bible Learners'

Officers for the young married women's Sunday school class of Midway Baptist Church were elected at a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. R. B. Mills who gave the devotion.

Mrs. Mills will serve as teacher for the newly-organized class which chose the name, "Bible Learners." As its motto, the class will have "Be careful how you live; you may be the only Bible some people will ever read." The song selected was "Let Others See Jesus in You."

Officers will be Mrs. Eugene Bennett, president; Mrs. Jeffie Phinney, vice president; Mrs. Melba Camp; secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Vernell Powell, assistant secretary. Other posts held are Mrs. Wanda McMurray and Mrs. Nancy Doolin, group leaders; Mrs. Patsy Shaw, activities chairman; Mrs. Phinney, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Marilyn Burgess and Mrs. Camp, Christmas program committee; Mrs. Phinney, Mrs. Glenn Drewery and Mrs. Burgess, projects committee.

Plans were made for visitation and a Christmas dinner. Mrs. Drewery led prayer, after which refreshments were served. The next meeting will be Dec. 1 in the Phinney home.

High Tallies Told In Duplicate Play

North-south winners in Wednesday duplicate bridge play at Big Spring Country Club were Mrs. R. E. Tinley and Mrs. Hayden Griffith, first; Mrs. Sam McCombs and Mrs. Ray McMahen, second; Mrs. L. B. Edwards and Mrs. Ayra McGann, third; and Mrs. Granville Hahn and Mrs. Jack Irons, fourth.

Winners in east-west position were Mrs. Joe Moss and Mrs. R. H. Weaver, first; Mrs. James Owens and Mrs. D. E. Brazel, second; Mrs. Paul Shaffer and Mrs. J. H. Parks, third; and Mrs. J. H. Fish and Mrs. R. W. Thompson, fourth.

Bridge play will begin at 1 p.m. Friday, and special games will be played with more points being awarded.

Dorcas Class To Prepare Basket

The Dorcas Sunday school class of Forsan Baptist Church planned to prepare a Thanksgiving food basket for a needy family during Tuesday's meeting in the home of Mrs. Joe Evans, Sterling City Route. The class will also contribute to the Christmas Cheer Fund.

Mrs. John Cardwell led a Bible discussion, "Solomon, the Builder." The devotion, "Thanksgiving Fragrances," was given by Mrs. Carl Tippie.

Mrs. C. V. Wash led prayer, and the next meeting will be at 2 p.m., Dec. 9, for a Christmas party in the home of Mrs. Jesse Overton.

Announces Officers For Auxiliary

New officers were elected at Tuesday's meeting of the National Association of Letter Carriers Auxiliary No. 1975 in the First Federal Community Room. Mrs. J. R. Piper was hostess.

Mrs. Jesse Crane Jr. was named president. Other new officers are Mrs. Roy Zeigler, vice president; Mrs. Fred White, secretary; Mrs. Melvin Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Mike Enelow, chaplain; and Mrs. Edward Slate, color bearer.

Mrs. Wayne Beene was named Girl Scout representative. Letters of appreciation were read from elementary schools for the donation of books to the libraries.

Plans were made for a couples Christmas party on Dec. 13. The club Christmas party and gift exchange will be held Dec. 9 in the First Federal Community Room with Mrs. Slate as hostess.

The auxiliary will sell brandy snifter candles as a fund-raising project. Cakes for the Veterans Administration Hospital were provided this week by Mrs. Zeigler and Mrs. Alden Thomas.

Hear Reports On Convention

The Business and Professional Women's Club heard reports of the Nov. 1-2 District Eight meeting in Odessa when it met Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce. Giving reports were Mrs. Frank Arner, Mrs. Willard Sullivan, Mrs. Cass Hill, Miss Movelda Rhine and Mrs. Weldon Nuckolls.

The membership committee, headed by Mrs. Garland Morrison, served as hostesses. Mrs. Nuckolls, president, presided as plans were completed for the Dec. 8 Christmas party at Coker's Restaurant where the guest of honor will be Mrs. Joy Ogle of Odessa, district director. The foundations committee, composed of Mrs. John Hardy, Mrs. Ruby Billings and Mrs. Hill, will be in charge of the program and gift exchange.

The next meeting will be Nov. 25 at Coker's Restaurant. The program will concern the meaning of the B&PW emblem.

Rainbow Girls Hostesses For 'Friendship' Dinner

Local Rainbow Girls hosted a "friendship" salad supper Tuesday evening at the Masonic Temple where 108 persons were in attendance. Guests were from Midland, Odessa and Colorado City.

Grand officers attending were Ayn McGlothlin, grand faith; Sharon Parrent of Odessa, grand immorality; and Mrs. O. L. Nabors, grand visitor.

Vicki Annen, chairty, expressed appreciation to the members for assisting in the American Legion poppy sale Saturday.

Tables were decorated in a fall motif with autumn leaves, as name tags.

BULL RIDING will be one of the six events at the annual HCJC Rodeo Club college and high school rodeo Saturday and Sunday starting at 2 p.m. at Big Spring Rodeo Bowl. Richey Tubb, freshman, Garden City Route, is shown riding in last year's rodeo. This year's rodeo promises to be even bigger, as all entries are filled in boys' events.

Entry List Filled For HCJC Rodeo

More than 155 contestants have signed up for the weekend Howard County Junior College Rodeo Club rodeo, which will be staged Saturday and Sunday afternoons at the Rodeo Bowl.

All boys' events have been filled, and there are a few girls' events still open for entries. Deadline for signing up in the rodeo is 5 p.m. today, and girls interested may call 267-6261 or 267-6311.

Events, which start at 2 p.m. each day, include calf roping, ribbon roping, bareback riding, and bull riding, all for boys; barrel racing and goat tying for girls.

A highlight of the rodeo will be a four-calf roping contest between Robert Crenshaw, Rodeo Club president, and Mike Carter, HCJC student.

The Landrum Rodeo Co. will provide the stock, 25 bulls, 20 bareback horses, 30 calves and two goats. Contestants will have one try in each event.

Admission for spectators will be $1 for adults, and 75 cents for students.

The all-round cowboy and cowgirl will each receive a belt buckle. First through fourth place winners in each event will receive cash prizes in the form of a refund of their $15 entry fees; $10 for the girls' goat tying event.

Each event is limited to 30 contestants.

News Briefs

Pleads Guilty To DWI Charge

A one-car accident Thursday morning on IS 20, led to an arrest for driving while intoxicated and a plea of guilty to the charge in Howard County Court this morning by Morris S. Currin, 61, Fort Worth. He was fined $50 plus court cost and placed on six months' probation by Judge Lee Porter.

The accident was investigated by Texas Highway Patrol and sheriff's officers who said Currin was traveling west on IS 20 about two miles outside Big Spring when he apparently lost control of the car and hit a bridge guard rail, turning his car and trailer crossways in the road. No injuries were reported.

Riding in the car with Currin were his wife, Francis, and grandson, Steve Gida. Damage to the car was limited to the right front fender. Currin was en route to California.

Three Thefts Investigated

Big Spring police investigated three more thefts Thursday.

John Monger reported his wallet, containing several credit and identification cards, was lost at Howard County Junior College Men's Dorm. Linda Hartly told police her wallet, containing $34 in money and some personal cards, was taken from her car while it was parked at her home, 1512 Scurry.

Rex Martin reported two tires, two wheels, and a can with gas was stolen from his pickup while it was parked at his home, 1418 Tucson.

Fire Damages House On Benton

A fire at 1806 Benton, occupied by Mrs. La Vona Stevens, Thursday caused light damage to a wall.

Firemen answered the call at 5:40 p.m. They said the fire was caused by an iron being left plugged into a wall. The iron scorched the desk it was sitting on, and a TV cable nearby caught on fire and scorched the wall.

DAV Backs U.S. Policies

Richard L. Hargrave, Austin, commander of Texas Disabled American Veterans, said the state DAV organization is participating in "Operation Speak Out," Nov. 9-15, in support of U.S. policies in South Vietnam.

He stated that DAV participation in the "Speak Out" is in accord with national policies of the organization, and that National Commander Raymond P. Neal, California, has issued a proclamation urging all members, chapters, and departments of the DAV to support it.

Hargrave suggested that all citizens fly the United States flag.

Abilene Baptists To Dedicate Bells

A set of 49 Schulmerick hand bells, a gift memorializing Mrs. Kate Amerson, Mrs. Letha Amerson Green and Roy Green, will be dedicated in Abilene Nov. 23.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bristow, 2589 Hickory, Abilene, have given the bells in memory of her mother, her sister and brother-in-law. Dedicatory services will be from 10:50 a.m. to 12 noon at the University Baptist Church, and friends are invited to share in this occasion. A visiting choir from Fort Worth will demonstrate the use of the bells.

Mr. and Mrs. Green were long-time residents of Big Spring. She was the former Letha Amerson, who taught in the schools here from 1925-65. Mr. Green started with Pioneer Gas Company when it was known as Empire Southern Gas. He was the brother of Mrs. Jim Skalicky, Big Spring.

AFA OFFICERS—W. C. "Connie" Edwards, (left) congratulates the incoming president of the Big Spring Chapter, Air Force Association, A. J. Statser, who was elected at a meeting of the chapter at the Big Spring Country Club, Thursday evening.

Statser Elected AFA President

W. C. "Connie" Edwards relinquished reins of president of the Big Spring Chapter, Air Force Association (AFA), Thursday evening in a meeting held at the Big Spring Country Club. Taking over as president for the 1970 club year will be A. J. Statser.

Statser showed that he means business as president when in his opening speech he stressed the need for a more enthusiastic membership drive and better membership attendance to the AFA meetings. He appointed all those present as members of the membership committee and asked each member to bring a new member to the next meeting.

He also stressed the goal of the chapter to back the Air Force and Webb Air Force Base. He said that any Big Springer is welcome to belong to the association and that everyone's help will be needed if the chapter here is to be a success in hosting the state convention in July, 1970.

Statser reiterated that the AFA Chapter here believes a strong Air Force will keep the peace.

Also elected as officers for the new year were: Jack Alexander, vice president and membership chairman; Jack Gulley, secretary; Tom Eastland, treasurer.

Featured at the program was a NASA film, "The Eagle Has Landed." This 30-minute, colored film featured sequences never seen on TV of the moon landing.

Coin Club Elects Officers

The Big Spring Coin Club elected officers for 1970 at its regular meeting Thursday in Settles Hotel. Taking office in December will be Charlie Wasson, president; M. K. Britton, vice president; Doyce McKee, treasurer; and Mrs. Dorothy Lusk, secretary.

J. W. Coots received a prize for having the best display at the recent coin show. Charlie Wasson won a 1969 proof set for earning the most points during the year for various activities, including enlisting the most new members and inviting the most visitors.

Thursday's program was given by Fred Clark, district governor of The Texas Numismatic Association. The next meeting will be a Christmas party Dec. 11 at Mack's Coin Shop.

Probation Is Revoked

Probation was revoked Thursday afternoon in 118th District Court by Judge R. W. Caton for Jose Garcia Lopez Jr., 21, 801 N. Goliad, and he was sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary, Huntsville.

Lopez was transferred to Howard County jail Nov. 5 by police on an alias capias of revocation of probation which names two offenses. The first is an arrest Nov. 1 for carrying a prohibited weapon and the second for an arrest Nov. 3 on suspicion of burglary. He was held in jail on $2,000 bond for the suspicion of burglary charge which was set by City Judge John Burgess.

Lopez was serving a three-year probated sentence from an indictment in June, 1968, for burglary of White's Store. He pleaded guilty to that charge in May, 1969.

Fire Snuffed

The Coahoma Fire Department answered a grass fire call about two miles off IS 20 behind the old Sahara Drive In Thursday afternoon and extinguished the blaze which was reported by Charlie Creighton, who owns the land. A spokesman for the fire department said it took about 20 minutes to put the fire out and that it was along the railroad right of way.

C-C Study Of Downtown Area Approved

COLORADO CITY (SC) — At a special meeting Thursday night, the city commission approved a contract with Parkhill, Smith and Cooper of Lubbock for an engineering study of the downtown business area and its possibilities for beautification and the creation of a downtown shopping atmosphere.

Cost of the study, said Bennett Reaves, consultant for the engineering firm, will be $2,800. It will include sketches of the 100 block of East Second and the 200 block of Walnut.

The study was urged by Dr. Bill Bridgeford, chairman of Operation Pride. Other members of the panel are Rev. Weems Dykes, Mrs. Dennis Wright and Drew Ballard.

Financing for the beautification program, if approved by the city after completion of the study, will be by bond issue or by assessment of property owners involved, according to Reaves.

The Old West atmosphere with wooden sidewalks, suggested by one city planner for downtown beautification at a recent meeting, is out, according to Ballard.

"Nobody wanted to go back to wooden sidewalks," he said.

City Favors Joining Permian Basin COG

City commissioners adopted a resolution at their regular meeting Thursday night, expressing Big Spring's desire to form or join a council of governments for the Permian Basin Planning Region.

Mayor Pro-tem George Zachariah said the city should join a COG, or it would be left out of some federal programs. The city, however, can not join unless the county does so first, he added, and the Permian Basin region is the only region without a COG.

Several residents, Don Brooks, Mrs. Mary Thomas, E. L. Meeks and Paul Hood, all asked questions about a COG. Brooks asked for more details of a COG, if the federal government controlled it, if the representatives to the COG were determined by population, and who would determine if Big Spring will join. Mrs. Thomas asked if the Texas Municipal League has anything to do with COG.

"COG is a group of local governments," said City Manager Larry Crow, "such as schools, cities, water districts, counties, etc., joined together basically for planning purposes, but it does go farther. What a COG is depends on what it wants to be and what its needs are."

He also explained that COG is state orientated, but could serve as a reviewing agency for federal programs, and that usually there is one representative to COG from each governing unit, though each COG decided for itself what it would be.

Both Mrs. Thomas and Hood asked how a COG is financed and Mrs. Thomas asked if the legislature could make it a taxing agency.

Zachariah said COG is funded through small assessments from each of the participating governmental bodies, but that it is not a taxing agency. He said the legislature could make it one, but he thought it unlikely. Crow said each COG determined its own means of financing.

Meeks asked what COG would bring Big Spring, and Crow said each COG can do what it wants.

Mrs. Thomas said the cost of joining a COG should be determined before Big Spring joins, while Hood said, since a city can back out whenever it wanted, it could go ahead and initiate a COG, and then back out if it didn't turn out to be feasible.

Mayor Arnold Marshall thanked the residents for giving the commission a chance to inform them about COG, and said the commission had been studying the matter for about a year, but had been moving slowly because of the unknown cost.

In other action the commission:

1. Approved drawing up a lease agreement so the Citizens Radio Club can build an operations building on city property.

2. Approved recommendations from the traffic commission to reduce the speed zone on North Main between Tenth and Twelfth, the confines of the Northcrest Apartments, to 20 miles per hour and to extend the fire lane (no parking) on the south side of Sixth, from Johnson to Goliad.

3. Approved a public hearing for the next commission meeting for a one taxicab franchise, requested by Jack Becker.

4. Adopted a resolution to the family of R. L. Tollett, expressing appreciation for his services to his community.

DEATHS

Jordan H. Reece, Retired Farmer

Jordan Hale Reece, 90, Odessa, died Thursday in an Odessa hospital. He was a retired farmer formerly of Ackerly. He was born Aug. 1, 1879 in Corinth, Ark.

Services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in Ackerly Church of Christ. Roy Phemister, Church of Christ, Clyde, will officiate with the assistance of Larry Marshall, Lamesa. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Big Spring's Future Is WIDE OPEN!

IT CAN BE ANYTHING ITS CITIZENS WANT IT TO BE . . .

and the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce stands ready to help!!

The future of any community is in the hands of its citizens. They can make it what it should be or they can allow it to die. In Big Spring's yesterday many people of vision saw its potential. As a result we have industry, Cosden, Grace, Fiber Glass Systems, Gamco, Data-Mate and many, many others. We have an outstanding Air Force Base, beautiful parks, good schools, good streets, and a record of steady growth. Now we are at the crossroads. Now we can provide the conditions and climate that will bring in new industry, provide new jobs and opportunities and make Big Spring the city it can be — or, we can look the other way and let opportunity slip away.

The officers and members of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce believe opportunity is knocking now and stand ready to open the door.

Many Good Suggestions Have Already Been Made

. . . and here are a few of them:

- Bring in at least 100 new jobs by January 1, 1971, and more every year afterward, by sponsoring a three-year, intensified search for new industry or expansion of existing industry.
- Cut taxes by eliminating duplication of local government agencies and services.
- Promote agriculture in Howard County and surrounding area through all-risk crop insurance, promotions and other means.
- Improve streets and highways and concentrate on a north-south interstate.
- Attract at least 10 conventions to Big Spring in 1970.
- Upgrade school playgrounds, encourage more city-school parks.
- Promote a new and modern hospital for the 1970's.
- Improve the appearance of the entrances to the city, provide prestige through beautification.
- Develop a convention facility.
- Attract more high school playoff games, both football and basketball.

And many more!

All The Good Ideas Aren't In Yet—Yours May Not Be

The President's Special Task Force needs all suggestions that might help build a better Big Spring. In order to make certain none are missed, an Open House is being held at the Chamber of Commerce, corner of Scurry and Second Streets, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. all this week. Drop by, have a cup of coffee and tell the Chamber what you think it should do to make the Seventies soar.

If you can't get by, simply clip the coupon at the bottom righthand corner of this page, put your idea on it and mail it to:

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce
P. O. Box 1391
Big Spring, Texas 79720

It's Up To You!

Big Spring Must Plan, Organize & Move Ahead Or It Will Surely Fall Behind . .

During the past two months an effort has been going on at the Chamber of Commerce to determine what Big Spring should be in the future, how its citizens can go about making it realize its potential. Some outstanding suggestions have been heard, some that could make the seventies soar for Big Spring, provide new prosperity and create a more exciting life for all its citizens.

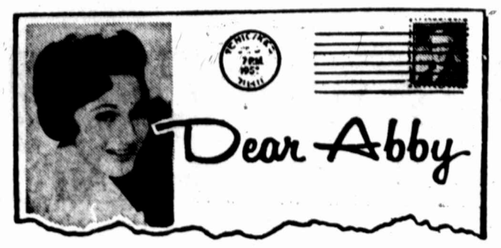
The President's Special Task Force on Priorities of the Chamber, Adolph Swartz, chairman, and members John Currie, Larson Lloyd, George McAlister, Clyde McMahon Sr., Paul Meek, Marvin Miller, R. W. Whipkey and M. R. Koger, Chamber president, have talked with Big Springers from all segments of our population, but they may have missed you.

You may have the best suggestion of all and they want it!

Here's What I Think The Chamber of Commerce Should Do Next Year . . .

NAME: _____

(NAME NOT NECESSARY)



DEAR ABBY: Ron (not his real name) and I have been married for five days and we love each other very much. I am 19 and he is 21.

On the first night of our honeymoon we went sightseeing, and when we got back to the motel Ron locked himself in the bathroom, took a shower and came out in his pajamas and went right to sleep. I know he was tired that first night, but it's been like this ever since we've been married. I am not ugly and I am a very clean person. Please don't get the idea that all I have on my mind is sex, but I am getting very impatient.

Ron has had two years at Reed College in Oregon so I can't believe he's all that shy. What is he waiting for?

UNTOUCHED IN DENVER

DEAR UNTOUCHED: I don't know, but I think it's time you asked him. If things don't improve at your house, insist that Ron have a talk with a clergyman, or a doctor. Something is wrong in Denver.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a young man who is going to be married soon and a problem has come up. I have an aunt and uncle who were my favorite relatives when I was growing up. They treated me as if I were their own son. They were my Godparents when I was confirmed. Well, shortly after that something happened between my parents and this aunt and uncle and they haven't spoken since. I still don't know the complete story of what was behind the quarrel.

I would like to send this aunt and uncle an invitation to my wedding with a little note telling them that I'd like to include them during the happiest time of my life — my wedding.

I suppose my parents will be hurt if I do, but I feel if my parents want to hold a grudge, it is their grudge, not mine. I am not sure my aunt and uncle would even come to my wedding if they were invited, but I think they'll appreciate being asked. What do you think? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: I think your attitude shows great understanding and maturity. Children should not be expected to "inherit" and perpetuate the grudges of their parents.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "NO GRANNY," asking for a snappy comeback for strangers who mistook her child for her grandchild prompts this letter.

I, too, had a child late in life, (39) and that was MY problem. I have no snappy comebacks, but I do have a suggestion:

When my little boy first started school, he brought a playmate home for lunch. The playmate took one look at me and said, "Why, you've got white hair just like my grandma's!" Then he turned to my son and asked, "Are you SURE she's your MOTHER and not your GRANDMA?"

I took the hint. That Saturday I did something I've wanted to do for years. I became a honey blond. My husband loved it. My son was ecstatic, and my friends asked me why I hadn't done it years ago. Sure, it's a lot of trouble, but it's worth it. And I'm not going to look like a grandma until I'm good and ready. NOT READY

Nixon Reveals Giant Prison Reform Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon outlined Thursday a 13-point program to reform prisons and overhaul correctional procedures.

Nixon, in a memorandum to Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, charged him to carry out his proposals—most of which involve further study of means to detain and rehabilitate offenders.

"The purpose of this directive," Nixon told Mitchell, "is to make the federal correction system a prototype for the much-needed overhaul of our generally archaic state and local corrections institutions. The federal government should make every possible resource available to help states and local systems in similar reform efforts."

In a companion statement Nixon said "in an appalling number of cases, our correctional institutions are failing."

He cited a study indicating that 40 per cent of those released from confinement later returned to prison.

Repeater rates are even greater among persons under 20, he said, "and there is evidence that our institutions actually compound crime problems by bringing young delinquents into contact with experienced criminals."

Here are five points covered in Nixon's directive to Mitchell:

1. Develop a 10-year plan for complete modernization of the facilities and correctional programs in the federal prison system.

2. Start discussions with state and local officials on the practicality of constructing regional institutions to house women offenders convicted at all levels of government.

3. Give priority to special problems presented by such groups of offenders as juveniles, women and the mentally disturbed, "with special emphasis on the use of alternatives to traditional institutionalization."

4. Expedite planning of a new federal psychiatric study and treatment facility for mentally disturbed and violent prisoners.

5. Draft legislation to revise federal handling of the mentally incompetent who have brushes with the law.

The key to successful defense against North's four spade contract was to deprive declarer of access to his hand at the critical moment.

Altho North's jump rebid to two no trump is not an absolute force and South apparently gave his all with his original response of one spade, it is hard to criticize him for persisting to three spades. The suit is rebiddable and may provide just what is required to produce a game if North has a fit. The four spade contract would have come home against anything but perfect defense.

West opened the ten of clubs. The jack was played from dummy and East won the first two tricks with the queen and ace. The shift was to the five of diamonds and West put up the ten to force out North's queen.

The deuce of spades was led and East's king fell under the ace. South continued with the jack of trumps. The key to the hand hinges on West's play to this trick. If he releases his queen of spades, declarer will be able to draw trumps when he regains the lead, and subsequently discard his heart loser on North's long diamond when that suit divides favorably.

West, however, declined to cover the jack of spades. He waited till the next spade lead to put up the queen for, with the removal of dummy's last trump, West hoped to sever his opponent's line of communications.

West led back another diamond, and South found that he was hopelessly locked up in dummy. Even assuming that the diamonds divided evenly, he could not take a discard while West still retained a small trump. There was no way for declarer to get back to his hand, and in the end he was obliged to give up a heart for the setting trick.

Winds Shoot Chill Deep Into Texas

By The Associated Press

Snow sifted down lightly in the Texas Panhandle and sharp north winds drove a chill deep into the state today.

As skies started clearing, even colder weather was promised tonight with a freeze nipping all sections except the extreme south.

Although there were often brisk flurries of snow, there was no report of enough to whiten the ground and moisture was sparse.

The Weather Bureau reported some of the white flakes fell from the north edge of the Panhandle southward past Amarillo and Childress. Also in the snow belt were Dalhart, Dumas, Canadian, Spearman, Perryton, Borger and Pampa.

There was a little very light snow mixed with very light rain in the Red River Valley north of Wichita Falls and close to Gainesville.

Temperatures near dawn ranged down to a frigid 20 degrees at Perryton in the northeast corner of the Panhandle. Dalhart recorded 28, Pampa 31 and Amarillo and Lubbock 32.

Readings elsewhere over the state at the same hour stood in the upper 30s to 40s and 50s, with the thermometer still at a warm 70 degrees at Brownsville on the southern tip.

As the norther caused cold wave warnings to go up Thursday for parts of the Panhandle, it was so warm in the Lower Rio Grande Valley that the mercury hit 94 at Brownsville and McAllen—the highest readings in the nation. It was a record for this late in the season at Brownsville.

LCB Eyes Tax Nip At Military Bases

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Liquor Control Board has ordered its staff to find out if there are any Texas military bases where it has enforcement powers.

The board wants to know if the state has ceded its police powers to the federal government at all bases within the state.

Liquor sales by military package stores "have been giving us a problem," said board member Joe Burkett of Kerrville.

Burkett said the legislature passed a law several years ago giving the governor power to cede jurisdiction at such installations to federal authorities. Before the LCB met, it discussed this power with Gov. Preston Smith. Smith's office said he would reserve comment until the LCB completed its study.

In some cases, Burkett said, liquor stores on bases have been underselling civilian package stores by $1 a fifth.

Ted Read, representative of the Licensed Beverage Institute, said the state tax on distilled spirits is paid at the wholesale level before the liquor is sold to the military base. LCB officials said the state tax on wine also is paid, but beer is distributed to the bases free of state taxes.

The board also told its staff to look into the matter of some $200,000 to $300,000 in club fees owned by airlines. If the attorney general finds the money is, in fact, due, the board wants him to take steps to collect it.

LCB attorney Joe Darnall said the attorney general is expected to report Monday on the money.

Administrator O. N. "Newt" Humphreys was asked to make a report on alleged violations of a 1966 board rule that beer in warehouses can't be artificially chilled below 72 degrees.

Humphreys reported that the new nickel a drink private club tax has brought in $265,594 since it took effect Oct. 1.

Grain Elevator Fire Burns Five

WACO, Tex. (AP)—An explosion and fire at a Waco grain elevator Thursday burned five persons, two of them critically.

The men were in a grain grinding room at the Clements Feed and Grain Co. when dust in the air was ignited, fire officials said.

The explosion blew off the roof of the elevator and knocked down portions of the walls. A small fire was started but firemen quickly extinguished it.

Critically burned were John Jejl, 44, and Sherman Childress, 49. One man, Lloyd Huffman, was seriously injured. Hospital authorities said Eugene Sheppard and Robert Kindrick, 58, were in fair condition.

All five men were from the Waco area.

Stomping Nets Death Sentence

McKINNEY, Tex. (AP) — The first death sentence in Collin County in 30 years was assessed Billy Ray Stanley, 32, Thursday.

Stanley was accused of beating and stomping to death his wife, Linda, 21.

The nine-man, three-woman jury returned the sentence after finding Stanley guilty of murder.

Stanley's attorneys said they would appeal.

Turkey Shoots On Saturdays

A turkey shoot will be held every Saturday from Nov. 15-Dec. 20 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the American Legion Post No. 355, San Angelo Highway.

An open sight, .22 caliber rifle will be used; an individual can bring his own gun and ammunition, or these will be supplied him. Anyone 16 years of age or older may participate.

Truck Industry Has Big Role

The Texas Motor Transportation Association claims that the truck and bus industry in Texas employed 666,968 persons during 1968 and paid them more than $3½ billion. In fact, one out of five non-farm pay checks in Texas comes from trucks, according to the association.

In 1968, Howard County alone had 3,134 persons employed by the trucking industry, said the association, and they earned $16,986,280. The value of the 5,197 trucks registered in this county amounts to $5,901,350.

San Antonio Teen Gives Up In Slaying Of Patrolman

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A somber teen-ager wanted in the slaying of a state patrolman surrendered to authorities Thursday in the offices of a lawyer.

Felipe Orta, 18, turned himself in at 5:28 p.m.

State police Lt. Col. Leo Gossett, other officers and the youth's parents had awaited his arrival from Houston since 4 p.m.

ONE OF THREE

Orta is one of three youths charged with the Sunday night shooting of highway patrolman Travis Locker, 35, of Waxahachie. Another is still at large.

Locker was shot twice in the back after stopping a vehicle carrying five persons, officers said.

Orta stayed in the Bexar County jail overnight. Officers indicated he would be transferred to Ellis County authorities in Waxahachie shortly.

A tall youth with a thick shock of coal black hair and a goatee, Orta surrendered in the 12th floor offices of lawyer Fred Semaan.

Semaan said the youth's mother, Mrs. Jose Orta of San Antonio, called him several times Thursday.

SENSELESS

Young Orta then contacted him about 1 p.m. and "he agreed to come in as soon as we asked him," Semaan said. "I told him it was senseless to try to hide."

Held at Waxahachie in the slaying is Ernest Guzman, believed to be from San Antonio. He was wounded in the shooting and was captured near the scene.

Amadeo Guerra, also charged with murder, is still at large.

Orta told Semaan he had not seen Guerra since they went their separate ways Monday in brush country. The youth said he did not know where they separated, nor where Guerra planned to go.

Semaan said Orta went to Houston and had been there since early this week.

Speaking in barely audible tones, Orta was arraigned on a murder charge before peace justice Charles Bond and held without bond.

TENSE WAIT

Orta's surrender ended a tense wait. His parents fidgeted in a library room while Gossett, Bexar County Sheriff Bill Hauck and other officers waited with Semaan in his office.

Mrs. Orta, wearing a black dress, paced back and forth, her heels clicking on the floor. She walked with determined strides to an elevator and back to the library several times. Her husband stayed in the library.

At 5:27 p.m. a man in a blue shirt arrived in the office, then disappeared. A minute later he appeared with Mrs. Orta and her son.

Orta, wearing a black knit shirt, olive green trousers and suede shoes, went with the man and his parents behind closed doors to meet Semaan and the officers.

Soon the group left the offices and walked a block to the county courthouse for the arraignment.

Semaan asked that the man who drove Orta here not be identified.

Five Charged With Eight Bombings In Skyscrapers

NEW YORK (AP) — Authorities say five persons charged with a series of eight bombings in Manhattan skyscrapers and federal buildings may have been motivated by a vendetta against the "establishment."

The five were charged by the FBI Thursday as the city continued under a siege of false bomb threats that kept police busy and forced the evacuation of several major buildings.

Three men and a woman were held in bail of $500,000 each in the four-month series of blasts that injured a score of persons and caused property damage estimated at $250,000. A second woman was being sought.

Those held for arraignment next week on federal conspiracy charges were Samuel Joseph Melville, 34, a former employe of an engineering firm; George Demmerle, 39, an unemployed diemaker; John David Hughey III, 22, former art assistant for the radical newsweekly, the Guardian; and Jane Lauren Alpert, 22, a contributor to Rat, an underground newspaper.

The woman being sought was identified as Pat Swinton, 22, who the FBI said last worked for the North American Congress of Latin America, which "correlates research on what it calls U.S. imperialism in Latin America."

The FBI said there was no evidence linking the five to any larger group of terrorists or any extremist organization.

Agents declined to list a motive but said a hint of one might be contained in letters sent to the news media in connection with the bombings. The latest, received by The Associated Press Thursday morning was written in advance of the bomb explosion Wednesday night at the Criminal Courts Building.

"The establishment," it read, "is in for some big surprises if it thinks that kangaroo courts and death sentences can arrest a revolution."

In addition to the Criminal Courts blast, the defendants were charged with conspiring in the bombing of a United Fruit Co. pier July 27, the Marine Midland Grace Trust Co. Aug. 20, the Federal Office building Sept. 19, the Armed Forces Induction Center Oct. 7, the RCA, General Motors and Chase Manhattan Bank skyscrapers last Tuesday and the attempted bombing of an Army truck Wednesday night.

Melville and Demmerle were arrested as they allegedly attempted to place dynamite bombs in the truck and Miss Alpert and Hughey were picked up at their East Village apartment soon after.

'HFD UNVEILED' — The letters "HFD" which base personnel have been seeing recently around Webb AFB came to life Thursday when Col. H. Lobdell Jr., 3560th Pilot Training Wing commander, and Big Spring Mayor Arnold Marshall unveiled this sign at a traffic safety meeting. "Holidays From Danger" is the Air Force theme that is hoped will reduce holiday motor accidents. The campaign will run from Nov. 26 until Jan. 4.

Program For Safe Holiday Driving Urged At Webb

Planning is under way at Webb for "Holidays from Danger," the Air Force program geared for safe traveling during the Thanksgiving-Christmas-New Year period, it was announced Thursday by W. W. Brown, ground safety officer.

Holidays from Danger will extend from Nov. 26 through Jan. 4, Brown stressed, which covers the peak period of winter leave and traveling time. Heaviest emphasis is on traveling safety, although education and care on safety matters also covers sports and hunting.

Mayor Arnold Marshall and other local citizens attended the traffic safety meeting, hosted by Col. Harrison Lobdell Jr. wing Commander, who introduced the "HFD" theme.

He asked the visitors for suggestions that could enhance the holiday safety program at Webb.

Brown, the wing ground safety officer, screened a film concerning auto accidents, which depicted how a driver or passenger in a vehicle traveling 21 miles per hour involved in a head-on crash may be killed. A second film, that is shown to incoming personnel at Webb, was also screened. This film outlines the driving conditions at Webb and the Big Spring area. It emphasized potential danger points and urges motorists to exercise extreme caution when operating motor vehicles in these areas.

Major Gail M. Key, flying safety officer at Webb, closed the meeting by urging all military personnel at Webb and the civilian populace of Big Spring to work hand in hand to reduce accidents and fatalities attributed to auto accidents during the coming holiday season.

Trying To Buy Dope Backfires

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Two Beaumont men were indicted Thursday by a grand jury which accused them of robbing a Department of Public Safety agent who was trying to buy narcotics.

Indicted were Daniel Hawkins Jr., 19, and Thomas Franklin Hardin, 20.

The agent, who was not named, was robbed of $170 while on an undercover assignment.

REV. GLENN H. SMITH

Smith Assumes Pastor Duties With Baptists

The Rev. Glenn Howard Smith, member of a family of preachers, has assumed his duties as pastor of the Le Fe Baptist Church, Northwest Tenth and North Scurry Streets.

He came here from Brownfield where he pastored the First Mexican Baptist Mission. Previously, he had held pastorates in Colorado City, Olton and Kress.

He is one of four brothers who are ministers, all following in the footsteps of their father, the Rev. Robert A. Smith, pastor of the Hale Center Baptist Church. His brothers are Rev. Robert A. Smith Jr., Levelland; Rev. Troy Smith, Sundown, and the Rev. Fred Smith, Whitharrel.

Born in Cameron, the Rev. Glenn Smith yielded to the call to the ministry some 10 years ago when his father's family lived in Littlefield. He attended Wayland Baptist College and began his career as a minister.

On his father's side he is of Cherokee-Irish ancestry, and on his mother's side of Mexican extraction. He was married in 1959 to Juanita Christian, and they have four children, Glenn Jr., Esther, and Joe, who are in school, and Roy.

Baylor Choir Plans 1st Baptist Visit

The Baylor University A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Dr. Euell Porter, will present a concert here at 11 a.m. Sunday at the First Baptist Church.

The 55-voice choir's Big Spring performance is part of a three-day concert tour of four West Texas cities including Lamesa, Sweetwater and Abilene, in preparation for a Canadian concert tour planned by the choir for the spring semester.

The choir will sing a program of sacred music ranging from the Baroque period to contemporary compositions. The program will include "My Soul Doth Magnify the Lord" and "Psalm 100," both by Schutz; "Ecce Videmus Eum" by Palestrina; and "Sing We Merrily Unto God" by William Child.

Mary Robinson, Garland senior, and Margia Carter, Temple senior, will sing a duet, "I Waited For the Lord" by Mendelssohn.

Contemporary selections on the program will include "O Thou In Whose Presence" by Noble Cain, "Advent Motet" by Schract, "Bless the Lord, O My Soul" by Bill Littleton, "The Lord's Prayer" by Molette and a spiritual, "John Saw duh Munkur," arranged by Shaw.

The feature number of the contemporary selection will be "The Singers," a composition based on Henry W. Longfellow's poems and written especially for the Baylor choir by Lannie Allen, minister of music at First Baptist Church in San Antonio.

The Baylor A Cappella Choir was organized in 1934 by Robert Hopkins, music professor, and was directed by him until his death in 1957. The choir was reorganized in the fall of 1958 by Porter. Since 1958, it has presented concert tours throughout the United States and in Mexico.

Stanton Church Plans Homecoming

STANTON (SC) — The Belvue Church of Christ has announced plans for a 10th anniversary and homecoming Nov. 16-20. Wayne L. Zuck, minister, said a lectureship will also be held each evening through the week, with the theme "Remember." Mr. Zuck will preach Sunday at 11 a.m. and at the six o'clock evening service.

A dinner will follow Sunday morning's service, at 12:30 p.m. at the Cap Rock Auditorium, and there will be area singing at the building at 2:30.

Speakers and subjects for sermons at 7:30 p.m. throughout the week are: Monday, Marian Hays, Sterling City, "Remember, To Be Sure, Your Sins"; Tuesday, Roy Phemister, Clyde, "Remember, Your Blessings"; Wednesday, Bob Mize, Midland, "Remember, The Cleansing of Your Sins"; and Thursday, the final evening, Earnest West, Lubbock, "Remember, Thy Creator."

Phemister, Mize and West are all past ministers of the Belvue church.

Orand Will Speak At PMOC Meet

Dr. R. Byron Orand, pastor of the College Baptist Church, will be speaker for the monthly Protestant Men of the Chapel's (PMOC) meeting, Nov. 21.

The PMOC meeting will be held in the Noncommissioned Officer's Open Mess, beginning at 11:30 a.m.; membership in PMOC is not required to attend the meeting. The doctor will speak on the "Tragedy of Neglect."

Rev. Orand has been pastor of his church eight years. He is a graduate of Baylor University, and holds a master's degree in theology and a master's degree in religious education from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth. He holds a doctor's degree in theology from Luther Rice Seminary, Jacksonville, Fla. He has also taken graduate studies at the University of Glasgow in Scotland.

Witnesses Get More Realization

"We received greater appreciation of our individual responsibility to God and to the people in this community, to be living proof that the Bible is a reliable guide," said C. L. Lundsford, local presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses, after returning from an Assembly in Hobbs, N.M. About 60 persons from Big Spring attended the three-day convention.

Highlight of the gathering came when 1,170 delegates from West Texas and New Mexico heard E. R. Brandt, Watchtower representative, speak on "True worship vs. false."

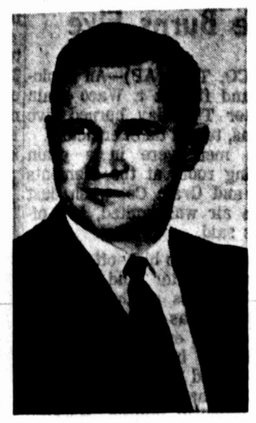
"True Christians today," he said, "face an overtowering issue. What course will they take when confronted with a conflict of true worship with that of false? Pointedly speaking, it's a life or death issue."

Local meetings of the Witnesses will resume this week at Kingdom Hall, 500 E. Donley St.

Blonde Selected Queen Of Roses

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Pamela Dee Tedesco, a 19-year-old blonde, has been chosen queen of the 81st annual Tournament of Roses.

Miss Tedesco, a sophomore at Pasadena City College, won out over six other finalists in the judging Wednesday. The losers will serve as her court for the New Year's Day parade and the Rose Bowl football game.



GENE TONE

Gene Tone To Preach At Revival

Gene Tone, pastor of the Lakeview Baptist Church, San Angelo, will be the guest evangelist for a revival at the First Baptist Church, Coahoma, Nov. 16-23. A homecoming for all Coahoma Exe's that have been members of the First Baptist Church is set for the first day of the revival, with a dinner to be served at the church following the 11 a.m. service.

Jim Stephens, Odessa, will lead the song service Sunday. He was formerly the music and education director of College Baptist Church, Big Spring.

Revival services are, Monday through Friday, at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. with a Saturday service at 7:30 also. Sunday's services are at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

A nursery will be provided for all the services and everyone is invited to attend. Guy White is pastor of the Coahoma church.

Two BS Laymen Named As Trustee

Two Big Spring Baptist laymen have been appointed trustees for educational institutions affiliated with the 1.8 million member Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Phocian W. Malone, 901 Main, will serve a one-year term as trustee of Wayland Baptist College, Plainview. He is a local opthalmologist.

Robert W. Whipkey, 711 Dallas, was named for a three-year stint on the advisory board for Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene. The publisher of the Big Spring Herald was graduated from H-SU in 1928. Both men are members of First Baptist Church.

The Bennetts live here. That's Grandmother Bennett's Bible on the window sill, and the whole family goes to the church across the snow covered field.

John Bennett works in the local bank. Martha, his wife, is president of the PTA, and they have three lovely children. Grandmother Bennett has been living with them for the past couple of years, since she broke her hip. She can't always get to church in wintertime and that's why she calls this her window. When she can't be in church, it helps to be able to see it.

To her, the church steeple represents a great many things, and brings back many memories. Her son was married in that church. Her husband was buried from it. Her grandchildren were christened in it.

The Church has helped her to bear grief, in hours of sorrow; and it has seemed to put a benediction upon her happiness, in times of joy. Most important of all, whatever the occasion, whatever the crisis . . . the Church has always been there.

To Grandmother Bennett, the most comforting thing in the world is knowing that it always will be there.

SCRIBE PICKS WASHINGTON, VIKINGS, GIANTS TO WIN

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Sunday is the last chance day for Green Bay, opportunity day for Washington and the moment of truth for the New York Jets and the Kansas City Chiefs.

The Minnesota Vikings can forget about the Packers if they come out of the Milwaukee game with an eighth straight win. Dallas can just about close the door on the upstart Redskins with a victory. The Jets, sleep walking through six straight wins, will take form staged a comeback last week and the Hand picker sneaked through 10-1-2 for 74-25-5 on the year, on a real, live football club in the Chiefs, leaders of the American Football League's Western Division.

After a week of upsets,

Permian, the overwhelming favorite to win the state championship before the 1969 season began, moves into Big Spring tonight to help the resident Steers put the inflated oval into mothballs for another year. Kickoff time is 8 o'clock.

The Panthers, coached by able Gene Mayfield, rule as the favorite in this one, just as they have in each of their games this season.

The Steer buffs who saw their team take the fight to Abilene High last week and win by a comfortable two touchdowns, figure an upset is possible, however.

A win over Permian would simply add frosting to the cake as far as Big Spring is concerned. The Steers are 6-3, the Panthers 7-1-1.

Both teams lost to the 3-AAAA playoff representative, Abilene Cooper. The Black Knights gave the Cougars a scare before yielding, however, 15-13. Permian was shocked by the Cougars, 21-7.

On the other hand, Permian handled Midland High easily, whereas the Bulldogs ran all over Big Spring, 28-8.

Permian depends heavily upon a fine running back named Charles Billingsley, who is leading the circuit in ground gains. The hard-running senior has averaged 7.2 yards each time he's handled the ball.

Larry Hix will direct the Panthers most of the time. He's a 149-pound senior who passes well and is a threat when he runs with the ball.

Daniel Justice and Tony Boxell are other Permian backs who will clock a lot of playing time.

The Panther line is tough and seasoned. The Permian defense is built around linebacker Craig Mondy, a terrifice ball hawk; Boxell and Jerry Blasche, 211, one of the visitors' down men.

More than a score of Big Spring players will be singing their swan song in this one and they hope to make it a memorable one for the fans.

Those bowing out include QB Gary Hinds and Gary Hughes, backs Johnny Rutherford, John Hilario, Herman Evans, Kyle Rosene, Mike Holten, Benny Marquez, Joe Zubiate and Rick Peurifoy, flankers Mike Barnes and Noel Brooks, center Dave Thomas, guards Fillmore Guinn, Joey Ortega and Randy Morgan, tackles Robert Dennis, Roy Anderson and Andy Neiland and ends Charley Rodriquez, Steve Tidwell, Jimmy Farris and Lewis Switzer. Bobby Heith, another flanker, was injured some time ago and cannot play.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Warren McVea of San Antonio, who some think was the greatest high school ball carrier in the history of Texas schoolboy football, didn't make the ripple with Cincinnati of the AFL because he wasn't Paul Brown's idea of a team player.

McVea did have his off moments while at the University of Houston, a factor that caused coach Bill Yoeman to grit his teeth in silence on occasions.

McVea says he feels more at home with his new employers, the Kansas City Chiefs, mainly because he's playing with another San Antonio native, Willie Mitchell.

Warren says he prefers playing at running back for Kansas City, mainly because the Chiefs block well for him. McVea can go 40 yards in 4.4 seconds but in order to get there he needs a convoy.

It was obvious Brown didn't think much of McVea. Paul traded him to Kansas City for Horst Muhlmann. Muhlmann is no Joe Namath. All he does is kick but there are a lot of people with German antecendents in Cincinnati and Brown reasoned he'd fit snugly into the community.

Barry Rodenhaver, the Odessa College golf coach, says Scott Stegner is the best college linkster he's seen in his five years as a coach.

Wait until he gets a look at Tommy Jackson, a Negro youth from Dallas, who likely will enroll at Howard County JC for the spring semester.

The boy can put his tee shot out there with the longest of them. His irons play is superb and he has a fine touch around the greens.

When Royal Crown Cola made a business arrangement with O. J. Simpson recently, it rehired a fellow who once drove a truck for the concern.

O. J. lasted only three days with the company, however. He was caught sleeping on the job.

Idaho State University is rallying behind its quarterback, Jerry Dunne, for All-America honors.

The Univiersity of Idaho, where ex-Big Springer Don Robbins coaches, lost to Idaho State, 47-42, earlier this year and Robbins might be ready to agree with those projecting Dunne's name as All-America timber.

Against Idaho, Dunne carried the ball 38 times for gains totaling 133 yards and completed 12 of 26 passes for an incredible 301 paces.

Some observers of repute insist Dunne is the finest quarterback ever to function in the Big Sky Conference.

Incidentally, when Oregon knocked over Idaho recently, 58-14, the Ducks scored four touchdowns in the first eight minutes of play.

Robbins' long suit is defense. That must have left him talking to himself.

Those who have seen Bronte play this fall insist that Keith McCutchen, the Longhorn quarterback, is more gifted than his cousin, Doug McCutchen, who led Bronte to greatness several years ago.

Melton McMorries, the Martin County boxing entrepreneur, was close to booking his Sal Martinez with Frazier Scott in Seattle recently when Scott's backers took a new reading on Martinez' knockout record. Right away, they decided they wanted no part of the Juarez tiger. Scott is the middleweight who fought Nino Benevenuti in Rome recently.

Martinez' next action may come in a Tampa, Fla., ring although Paul Clinite, the former publicity man for Ruidoso Downs, is now promoting in San Antonio and has indicated he will book Martinez.

McMorries is also talking contracts with Mexico's No. 3 middleweight, Royale Del Gado.

Permian JV Tips Dogies

ODESSA — Odessa Permian scored three times in third and one in the fourth to defeat the Big Spring JV's, 28-12, here Thursday night.

Two of the Panthers' TD's came on fourth down plays and one of those after a controversial penalty against Big Spring.

QB Dave Duncan ran 89 yards off right tackle for Big Spring's first score in the opening round. Roddy Caffey got the other on a 50-yard sprint off left tackle in the second.

The Dogies drove to Permian's eight in the third only to lose possession on a bobble. Permian scored its third touchdown with six seconds left in the first half.

The Big Springers played up to expectations, coach Oakey Hagood said, and he heaped praise on all 24 boys who saw action.

Permian wound up its season undefeated in ten games. Big Spring finished with a fine 9-1 mark.

Score by quarters:

Big Spring	6	6	0	0—12
Permian	0	21	0	7—28

In what must have been the most exciting game of the season for both teams, Runnels came from far back to tie Goliad, 30-30, in eighth grade action at Memorial Stadium Thursday evening.

The Yearlings trailed, 30-16, with less than six minutes to play but scored three touchdowns in that length of time.

Runnels counted its first fourth period TD on a nine-yard pass from Everista Pineda to Albert Smith at the end of a 49-yard drive with 5:50 remaining. Orville Rau added the two PAT's.

The second Yearling TD of the period came with just 25 seconds left in the game on a 65-yard drive, Pineda going to Nathan Baker with a 28-yard pass. Rau then flipped a pass to Randy Marshall for the two extra points. That made the score 30-24.

Runnels tried an onside kick but the ball wound up deep in Goliad territory near the sideline and Jerry Mintz recovered for the Yearlings at the then scored in three plays, Rau passing to Marshall for the score.

Runnels operated much of the evening from a spread formation and Goliad had trouble adjusting.

In the early part of the game, Goliad dominated play although Runnels scored first.

The Yearlings drove 70 yards in eight plays in the opening round, Pineda flipping a 26-yard pass to Marshall for the tally with 3:01 left. The Yearlings then made the extra points twice, the second time from the 18 after a major penalty. Pineda went to Rau with the pass that paid off.

Later in the round, Pineda broke loose on a 63-yard scoring jaunt for Runnels but it was called back.

Goliad took charge, driving 75 yards in nine plays for its first touchdown. Lonnie Gillihan got it from five yards away, after which Tom Sorley ran the point. There were 7:53 minutes left in the first half.

The Mavs hooked up to go 65 yards in eight plays for the go-ahead score, Earl Reynolds traveling the final two following a pitch. A pass gave the Goliad team two more points.

Time was running out in the second period as Goliad collected its third TD at the end of a 69-yard surge. Sorley sought out Reynolds on a 60-yard pass play for the tally. Goliad also added two extra points to lead, 24-8, at half time.

Goliad appeared to have put the game out of reach with a third period march that carried 68 yards, Reynolds accounted for the six-pointer on a 49-yard run. He went across with 1:48 left. Then came Runnels' comeback.

Runnels thus ended its season with a 3-5-2 record. Goliad wound up at 5-3-2.

Pugh Broke Many Records; Hagood Instills 'Spirit'

RARE FEAT AT WTSU
Coach Kirby Pugh as player

Editor's Note: Big Spring Mayor Arnold Marshall has designated this as Coaches Week. Two of the men who have done much to promote athletics in Big Spring are herewith projected:

A man who came off a highly successful playing career to enter the coaching profession is Kirby Pugh, who Saturday night here sends his Big Spring High School cagers into action against Plainview.

A three-year basketball letterman at Abilene High School, where he is still regarded as one of their finest players in history, Pugh had won a starting berth by the time he was a junior. In his senior year, the aggressive youth made the all-star team in every tournament in which Abilene competed.

Also a unanimous all-district player for the Eagles, Kirby set an all-time scoring record for the War Birds.

Against the team he was to coach in a few years, Pugh scored a fantastic 40 points in one game. His athletic adventures weren't limited to basketball in high school — he played football until his junior year.

He signed a letter of intent with Texas Tech following his graduation from high school but changed his mind and enrolled at San Angelo Junior College.

As a SAC Ram, he was named the outstanding player in the Region V tournament for two years running, the only player in history to accomplish such a feat.

He was named an all-conference player both his years at SAC and won an award during his sophomore season as the school's Most Valuable Player.

He climaxed a fine JC career by having been named to the Junior College All-America, the second SAC to be so honored. Those familiar with junior college ball will tell you it is probably more difficult to bag such an honor than it is in senior college circles.

As a freshman at San Angelo, Kirby was named to every all-tournament team the Rams entered, save one. He did even better his second year there, having been included on star-spangled units in every meet in which SAC competed.

Pugh transferred to West Texas State University at Canyon after leaving San Angelo and was named team captain his junior year.

While there, he won both the Fighting Heart award and the Wes Keinschmidt award, the latter presented to cagers picked as Most Valuable Players. Only five other West Texas players have ever earned both trophies.

Kirby ranked second in the nation in field goal percentage and finished as the 18th leading scorer in WT's history. More important still, his field goal percentage was the best in the school's history.

Pugh had scholarship offers from 27 major colleges, including several Southwest Conference schools, before he accepted the West Texas bid. He played semi-pro basketball for a year after finishing up his eligibility at the Canyon school.

After winding up play at the Canyon school, he was named WT freshman coach. He coached the club to an 11-4 record and, in addition, assisted with varsity duties.

He was approached by pro football scouts from the Dallas Cowboys, Green Bay Packers and San Francisco 49ers — all attracted by his ruggedness and his jumping ability — but chose instead to go into coaching.

He became head coach at Brownfield High School, a 3-AAA team, and remained there one year before being piped aboard at Big Spring by coach Spike Dykes.

Dykes uses Kirby whenever possible as a football coaching aide, says he'd make one of the best if he cared to concentrate on the game alone.

The relationship between the football and basketball departments might be strained in some places — it certainly isn't here. Pugh is a 'team' man, just as he was as a player.

ONCE A JAYHAWK
Coach Oakey Hagood

Head Big Spring JV coach is Oakey Hagood, who is gaining a reputation for installing a flaming spirit in the boys he coaches.

Oakey, a native of North Carolina but a long-time resident of Big Spring, shocked District 3-AAAA by leading his Steers to a tie for second place in the baseball race last spring.

The Longhorns upset champion Midland Lee and Abilene High in the final week to achieve the trick.

The fact that Big Spring had only one player named to the All-District team might have been a tribute to Hagood's coaching acumen.

Hagood and his co-coaches spurred the Big Spring JV football team to nine straight wins this fall. Before the season began there was some doubt expressed that the Dogies would be able to win half their games, because of a lack of depth and size.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hagood, Oakey graduated from the local high school in 1953, after having wor. letters in both basketball and baseball.

He also won a letter in the round-ball sport at Howard County JC. He transferred to Sul Ross, in time, and took his degree there in 1957. He also found time to play baseball and won a letter while there.

He began his teaching and coaching career in Big Spring during the 1957-58 school year at Park Hill elementary.

From 1959 until 1965, Hagood coached at Goliad Junior High. He was transferred to Big Spring High in 1965 and coached junior varsity basketball for the next two years, duties he held in addition to his work in varsity football.

Presently, he teaches World History, is head baseball coach and coaches both the varsity and JV's in football.

He and his wife, Rebecca, also a high school teacher, have three children, Kent, age 7; Kimberly, 4; and Kevin, 2.

Oakey is a member of the First Methodist Church.

Steers, Bulldogs To Vie Saturday

A small but speedy Big Spring team opens its 1969-70 basketball season at home Saturday night, at which time it squares off with the towering Plainview Bulldogs. Tipoff time is 8 o'clock.

Bruce Hutto, 6-2; and Robert Evans, 5-11; are the only returnees who saw much varsity action last year. Gary Hinds, due to join the squad Monday after a season of football, also logged some playing time last season.

Hutto averaged 7.9 pointed a game in 1968-69, Evans 8.0, Hinds 5.0. Randy Womack, who'll likely be a regular, hit a three-point norm last year. Bruce had a total of 206 points, Evans 208.

The 1968-69 Steers finished with a 5-25 record and were 1-15 in district.

The club was plagued with hard luck, however. Snake Tucker, a fine rebounder, was injured in football and never did hit his strade in basketball after laying out half the season.

The team won't have the height it had a year ago but it'll try to run the opposition to death. Coach Pugh is very impressed with the improvement the boys have made since practice began.

James Farris also joins the club Monday and figures to give the Steers added strength under the basket. A third boy who exchanges moleskins for cage shorts Monday is Herman Evans. He figures to add to the team's depth and speed.

In workouts lately, Pugh has been starting two sophomores. They are David Carter, 6-1½; and 6-2 Mike Randle. Those two could open Saturday night, along with Hutto, Robert Evans and Womack.

B teams of the two schools square away at 6:15 p.m.

The Steers go to Amarillo for a game with the Sandies Tuesday night and move on over to Crane for a practice tilt against Arlen White's squad next Friday.

Wellman Favored Over Bearkats

GARDEN CITY — Wellman, 7-1 on the year, is favored to topple Garden City in a District 3 eight-man game here tonight. Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m.

Wellman's only loss has been to Three-Way and that by a margin of only 24-22.

In league competition, the Wildcats have beaten Loop, Klondike, Gail and Sterling City.

Big gun of the Wellman attack is Johnny Tubb, 165-pound senior quarterback, who runs the ball a lot off the option. The Wildcats' starting lineup averages out to more than 165 pounds per man.

Coach of the Wildcats is Jerry McPherson.

Garden City winds up play here next Friday against Klondike.

Sands To Oppose Wilson Tonight

ACKERLY — Sands hosts mighty Wilson in a District 6-B football encounter at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

Wilson is nearing the conference title, having won seven of eight starts. The visitors lost only to Class A Cooper, that time by a score of 28-14.

Helping to stay the tide for Sands will be such standouts as halfback Alex Calvio, 155; halfback Paul Hopper, 140; and linebackers Marcy Robles, 125; and Randy Clemens, 124.

Steven Briegar, 170, is Wilson's chief threat and the boys Sands must stop if it hopes to win. Sands' scouts say he is the best football player they've seen this season.

Probable starters:

SANDS

E—Ronnie Oaks 151 and Felix Robles 160; T—Kerry Lewellen 165 and Gavino Rodriquez 180; G—Steve Herren 124 and Kelly Gaskins 157; C—Larry Shaw 180; QB—Stve Herm 140; HB—Tony Gillespie 124 and Eddie Newcomer 134; FB—Reggie Hambrick 145.

WILSON

E—Joe Cruz 175 and Mike Kolson 160; T—Don Lee Stone 195 and Wayland Peterson 170; G—Frank Lopez 160 and Steve Bednarz 180; C—Gary Schwertner 160; QB—John Fields 150; HB—Steven Briegar 170 and Woody Folils 160; WB—Steve Meador 150.

HC Fems Compete In Denton Meet

Howard County JC's Jayhawk Queens are one of 24 teams entered in the annual North Texas State University girls' volleyball tournament, starting in Denton today and continuing through Saturday.

The Big Spring team opens against the University of Dallas at 5:45 p.m. today.

Other schools fielding teams in the meet include Texas Woman's University, Odessa, Tarrant County JC, Midwestern, SMU, Lamar Tech, Northeastern Louisiana, East Texas, West Texas, Baylor, Southwest Texas, Houston, Texas, North Texas, Texas Tech, Sam Houston and Stephen F. Austin.

The HCJC team carries a 13-5 record with it.

Mavericks Shade Runnels Stars

The Goliad All-Stars hammered out a 24-6 victory over Runnels' elite troops in a football game played at Memorial Stadium Thursday afternoon.

The Mavericks took an 8-0 lead in the opening period, expanded on that with a third period score and then swapped TD's with the Yearlings in the fourth.

Gilbert Padilla managed the first Goliad score with a 20-yard run around left end, after which Terry Tredaway added the two extra points on a counter play.

QB Barry Canning, who handled the ball expertly throughout for Goliad, scored on a 60-yard bootleg play in the third. Tredaway made it 16-0 on the try for point on another counter play.

Runnels counted in the fourth with the wind to its back on a pass from QB Doub Robison to Dick Earhart, the play covering 25 yards.

The Yearlings later tried a fourth down running play from their own ten, with disastrous results. Goliad took over and scored on the first play, Tredaway going the final ten yards. Canning added the two PAT's on a run.

Goliad used all 37 boys in uniform. Offensive standouts, other than those mentioned, included Wade Franklin, Ricky Darrow, Robert Rasmussen, Casey Lovelace and Mark Callahan.

On defense, Darrell Miller was a tower of strength at right tackle for the Mavs. Others who glistened included Huberto Padilla, Hayes Stripling, Ronald Peterson, Mark Taylor and Wes Boullioun.

Score by quarters:

Goliad	8	0	8	8	—24
Runnels	0	0	0	6	— 6

Garcia Second In 3-3A Derby

David Garcia, Colorado City, is the second leading football scorer in District 3-AAA with a total of 83 points.

Garcia has counted 12 touchdowns, added five extra points and booted two field goals.

He trails only Larry Miller of Lubbock Estacado, who appears to have the scoring crown wrapped up with 117 points.

The leaders:

Player, Team	Td	Pat	Fg	Tp
Larry Miller, Estacado	11	42	3	117

A STERN AGNEW — Vice President Spiro Agnew adjusts a microphone during his speech Thursday night in which he challenged the networks to take a more responsive look at their news reporting. He charged the networks with exercising too great control over public opinion.

Bullets Kill 2 Policemen

CHICAGO (AP) — A second policeman died today of wounds suffered Thursday in a South Side gun battle between police and some members of the Black Panther party.

Patrolman John Gilhooly, 21, paralyzed from four gunshot wounds in the face and neck, died in Billings Hospital.

Seven others, six of them policemen, were wounded in the shooting which also claimed the life of patrolman Francis G. Rappaport, 36.

Rappaport's alleged assailant, Spurgeon J. Winters, 19, was shot and killed by other policemen who told of seeing Winters shoot Rappaport in the face with a shotgun as the patrolman lay wounded on a sidewalk.

Another youth, Lawrence Bell, 20, was wounded as he attempted to flee the building from which shots were being fired at police.

Authorities said both Winters and Bell were members of the Black Panther party, but it was not known if the shootings were connected with any Panther activity.

Agnew Charging Television With Unfair News Reporting

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, asserting that public opinion is being molded by selective or biased news telecasts, says the time may have come for the networks to be "made more responsive to the views of the nation."

In a speech to a Midwest regional Republican committee, the vice president declared Thursday night that power over television news is concentrated "in the hands of a tiny and closed fraternity of men."

Agnew emphasized he was not suggesting any kind of government censorship. And he said the networks have made important contributions to national knowledge. He added they often have used their power constructively and creatively to "awaken the public conscience to critical problems.

CHALLENGED

But he said an unfair news presentation could raise widespread doubts about the veracity of a public official or the wisdom of a government policy and urged televiewers to "let the networks know that they want their news straight and objective."

Agnew was immediately challenged by some network and other TV spokesmen who charged him with an attempt to cow the television industry into more favorable treatment of the federal government.

Dr. Frank Stanton, president of CBS—which along with the other major networks carried the speech live—called it an "unprecedented attempt by the vice president of the United States to intimidate a news medium which depends for its existence upon government licenses."

'AN APPEAL TO PREJUDICE'

Julian Goodman, president of NBC, said it was "an appeal to prejudice" in which Agnew "uses the influence of his high office to criticize the way a government-licensed news medium covers the activities of government itself."

Leonard H. Goldenson, president of ABC, said he felt that "the performance of ABC news has always been and will continue to be fair and objective." He expressed confidence in "the ultimate judgment of the American public."

A spokesman for the Mutual Radio network "heartily endorsed" the speech as a "call for fairness, balance, responsibility and accuracy in news presentation."

Networks and affiliated stations reported many telephone calls in response to Agnew's suggestion of public protest against TV news handling. The count of caller views ranged from 231 in favor of Agnew and two against him at WBAP-TV, the NBC affiliate in Fort Worth, Tex., to 614 favorable and 554 against at NBC in New York.

MINDS MADE UP

Agnew told his Republican audience an example of the kind of TV news handling he had in mind was the networks' comment immediately after President Nixon's Vietnam speech Nov. 3.

The vice president said it was "obvious" that commentators had their minds made up in advance.

In his speech Agnew said, "Every American has a right to disagree with the President of the United States and to express publicly that disagreement."

But, he added, the people "have a right to make up their own minds and form their own opinions about a presidential address without having the President's words and thoughts characterized through the prejudices of hostile critics before they can even be digested."

After stating he was not suggesting government censorship of TV news, Agnew said, "I am asking whether a form of censorship already exists."

CALLS FAVORING VEEP

'I Don't Like To Hear A Grown Man Cry'

By The Associated Press

Thousands of persons telephoned television stations in response to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's challenge to "let the networks know that they want their news straight and objective." Not all agreed with his criticism of broadcast news.

A random survey of 21 radio and television stations across the country that tabulated the calls they received Thursday night showed Agnew was backed by more than 2 to 1. Calls supporting his criticism totaled 3,296 to 1,389 calls opposed.

In his speech at Des Moines, Iowa, the vice president said that the networks allow commentators and newscasters to give a highly selective and often biased picture of the news.

ABOUT TIME

Calls favoring the vice president were reported by the stations to include such comments as, "Amen, it's about time," "We're behind him," and, "His speech was the best I've heard in five years."

Opposing views were reported to include such comments as, "Who's paying for his air time?" and, "I don't like to hear a grown man cry."

A number of the calls opposing the speech criticized the three national networks for carrying the entire speech live instead of the regularly scheduled programs. Likewise, some of the calls favoring the criticism attacked their local stations for failing to present the speech live.

Many stations reported a heavy telephone response from the viewers, beginning before Agnew finished his speech.

MR. WONDERFUL

In Oklahoma City, a switchboard operator at WKY-TV reported, "We got 350 calls, all praising Agnew to the sky. One said, 'Oh, Lord, you are wonderful. He said just what I've been thinking for years.' There were two against him."

WFAA-TV, the American Broadcasting Company affiliate in Dallas, Tex., reported 231 calls approving the speech and two against it. "I'm 100 per cent behind the vice president and I think the news media is responsible for all our troubles," one caller said.

WBAP-TV, the National Broadcasting Co. affiliate in Fort Worth, Tex., which also serves Dallas, said there were 125 calls for Agnew's speech and 10 against.

In Dallas, KRLD-TV, the Columbia Broadcasting System affiliate, reported almost 300 calls—all supporting Agnew—in the first two hours after the speech.

BUNCH OF IDIOTS?

KYW-TV, the NBC affiliate in Philadelphia, said the phones started ringing in the middle of Agnew's speech and the ringing was continuous for hours. The station said it received 500 calls about evenly divided.

WFIE-TV in Evansville, Ind., reported about 300 calls, evenly divided, and WANE-TV in Fort Wayne, Ind., which did not carry the speech, got about 20 calls charging the station with censorship.

WBNS-TV, the CBS station in Columbus, Ohio, reported 111 calls. Most were complimentary to news coverage, 15 to 20 complained about network coverage and the fact that Agnew preempted regular programming.

In Reno, KOLO-TV, a CBS affiliate, said they received only one call from a man who asked, "Who does Agnew think we are? A bunch of idiots to be led by the nose? We can make up our own minds from what we see and hear."

Lt. Pettit Is Honor Pilot

The 3561st Pilot Training Squadron at Webb AFB bestowed the "pilot extraordinary" honor on 1st Lt. Elvy Pettit recently as he was selected the Cessna T-37 instructor of the month for October. Lt. Col. Robert Wall, squadron commander, said Lt. Pettit exemplifies all the favorable attitudes of an officer, having both excellent military bearing and immaculate appearance.

Students experiencing difficulty are frequently transferred to Lt. Pettit. Under his supervision, they usually show a marked improvement. The lieutenant is from Brooklyn, N.Y. He was graduated from Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, Pa., earning a bachelor of arts degree in economics. His wife is the former Linda Baker of Jenkinton, Pa.

Assistant May Sign Checks, But Matter Is Disputed

Mrs. Maxine Shaffer was appointed assistant city secretary and authorized to sign checks in the absence of Charles Smith, city secretary, up to the amount of $500, by the city commission Thursday evening.

As a result of debate on that question, Mayor Arnold Marshall said the Master Plan committee would be reconvened, and a revision of the city's charter would be one of the items on its agenda.

Two residents, Jack Watkins and Mrs. Mary Thomas, told the commission it did not have the authority to authorize an assistant city secretary to sign checks.

Watkins said he had consulted four attorneys on this question, and they all agreed with him that the commission could not authorize by ordinance a third person to sign checks. He cited the city charter and several points of law to support his view.

"I don't object to the appointing of Mrs. Shaffer as assistant city secretary," he said, "but I do object to the amending of the city charter by ordinance.

"The city charter says the mayor and the city secretary shall sign all warrants. The idea of a 'warrant' is the same as that of a 'check.'

"We have definite rules for spending money and how power can be exercised that must be pursued; we can't ignore the rules of procedure. The intent of the original wording is important. You can't allow a third person to take an authorization not given in the charter."

Watkins suggested a committee be appointed to revise the charter.

Mrs. Thomas agreed with Watkins. She said she did not think the commission had the authority to authorize an assistant city secretary to sign checks, and suggested that during the brief intervals Smith may be out of his office, checks could wait to be signed until he returned.

She pointed out that 11 city officials attended a meeting in San Antonio earlier this week, and asked who had taken their places while they were gone. What would happen, she asked, with an assistant signing checks, who is not acquainted with all the city's business, when there was an example of one check slipping by the city secretary last month?

She also asked the commission to amend the charter and then submit it to the people for approval.

City Attorney Herb Prouty said the question was not one of procedure, but the creation of an office. He said he also had consulted other attorneys, and they agreed with him that the commission could do it.

"We want to create the office of an assistant city secretary," Prouty said, "to pay checks when the city secretary is temporarily absent. There is no law, statute or case, that prevents this. There has been a previous case in law that says even if we don't appoint an assistant city secretary, someone could fill in for the city secretary in his absence anyway.

"Also 'warrants' are defined in the city charter, and these are different from 'checks.'" Prouty explained that warrants were used when the city would review each claim against it individually. If these were found to be good, then the city would issue 'a promissory note,' and the individual could take that to the city secretary for payment. Prouty added that he could find no city with more than 2,000 population that still used warrants.

Commissioner Jimmy Morehead said everyone agreed an assistant could be appointed, but wanted to know if it was legal for her to sign checks, which was being disputed. Prouty assured him it was.

Mayor Pro-tem George Zachariah thanked both Watkins and Mrs. Thomas for their concern and opinions, but said the appointing of an assistant is something all businesses do.

"We are acting within our power," he said. "We are doing what the charter says."

Marshall said the Master Plan committee would be reactivated, and one of the items on its agenda would be the revision of the charter. He said the revision would then be started by representatives of the people.

Stop-Smoking Clinics Shape

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Tony Curtis says the American Cancer Society will set up free stop-smoking clinics throughout the country.

Curtis is president of the society's IQ (I Quit) Club.

The clinics would be manned by volunteers and a physician, concentrating on group therapy sessions, a spokesman for the Los Angeles County ACS chapter said Wednesday.

Curtis' father died of lung cancer.

Developer Of 'Blue Baby' Surgery Reports Good News

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A new study erases long-held fears that "blue babies," while savable from virtually certain death by intricate heart surgery, might wind up as mental defectives.

This was reported today by Dr. Helen B. Taussig, professor emeritus of pediatrics at the Johns Hopkins University and codeveloper of the first "blue-baby" surgical operation 25 years ago. That pioneering technique is generally recognized as a hallmark in the world annals of surgery.

The grey-haired, eminent scientist told the annual scientific meeting of the American Heart Association that a recent checkup on survivors among 70 "blue- babies" operated on by Hopkins surgeons between 1944 and 1951—a generation ago—disclosed this:

Among at least 441 still living, 52 hold professional positions—including lawyers, doctors, ministers and teachers—and another 32 have semiprofessional jobs.

Thus, she said, the evidence indicates that the congenital condition resulting in "blue babies" does not, of itself, cause mental retardation.

"Blue babies" are infants born with a combination of heart and blood-vessel abnormalities—usually four in number—which prevent proper oxygenation of the blood. This results in a blue tinge to the infant's skin, called cyanosis.

The breakthrough operation devised for this previously almost invariably fatal condition was conceived by the late Dr. Alfred Blalock and by Dr. Taussig.

The pioneers designed their operation as a kind of stop-gap, relief technique, possibly requiring further surgery later in life.

Since their initial work, advances in surgery have made possible total correction of the "blue baby" defects during infancy.

But Dr. Taussig, voicing confidence in the original technique, said young patients still living after undergoing the original-type surgery "should not be urged to have further surgery at an early date."

Such patients, she said, "would be better off to wait until the risk of operation was less."

THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT?

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "Love," says Prof. George Carpenter, "is nothing more or less than an elaborate friendship."

Carpenter teaches a course called "Marriage and Family Relations" to 75 students at the University of Nevada.

The 47-year-old instructor, father of six, says he stresses love in his course because "society is compulsively interested in it but refuses to analyze it."

His researches on the subject have led Carpenter to this definition:

"Love is the successful interaction of two personalities. It is based on and positively correlated with the ability the two people have to share confidential communication.

"The pleasure of love is the emotional security one gets from such interaction."

In an interview, Carpenter cited the main ingredients of love as understanding, a sense of equality and mutual reliance.

He tells his students — who receive three semester credits for the course—that:

—There is no such thing as love at first sight. It's just an "idealized affection attachment."

—Sex is "a beautiful companion to love" but not a part of it.

—The movies tell it wrong when they put forth the ideas that love is permanent, opposites attract, there is only one person in the world right for you and you can love only one person at a time.

Odessa Salesman Gunshot Victim

ODESSA (AP)—A 50-year-old Odessa real estate salesman, who was shot Oct. 23 by a lone gunman in his office, died Thursday in the Odessa Medical Hospital.

Harold Knight was shot once in the chest with a 25-calibre automatic and had remained in grave condition for the past three weeks.

The gunman walked into the real estate office and shot Knight minutes after a similar shooting at the GSC Loan Co. office nearby. Ronnie Johnson, 22, was only slightly injured in that shooting when a bullet grazed his neck.

Charges of assault with intent to commit murder have been fled aganst Wley Hays, 40, who was arrested at the scene of Knight's shooting.

Texas Corn Crop Will Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Texas corn crop will decline more than 2 million bushels according to Agriculture Department forecasts issued Wednesday.

The USDA said the Texas corn harvest will be 30,528,000 bushels, a decline from the 32,436,000 predicted a month ago.

The rice forecast showed a slight decline from a month ago. The newest prediction, 21,411,000 hundred weight, compares with 21,960,000 at the first of October.

Sugar beet forecasts remained the same as last month—1,056,000 tons.
