College Proposal Gets Enthusiastic Response

A proposal to seek a Scurry County Junior College District, using facilities of Lamar Junior High School, drew enthusiastic response Monday night at an open meeting in the high school auditorium.

Badger Robertson, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Junior College Survey Committee, presented the proposal, which contains much more attractive conomic features than any previous proposal, along with other strengthened factors.

Robertson said the survey committee felt that the new county - wide proposal should be presented before any other course is pursued because the committee believes that it has a much better chance of gaining state board approval than either the 1957 or 1963 proposals. He noted that considerable study had been made on the possibility of working out a plan to annex the Snyder Independent School District to the Howard County Junior College District. This route still will be available if the new county-wide proposal fails to materialize, Robertson said.

Scores of signatures were obtained on petitions at the meeting Monday night. The committee hopes to have all supporting data on hand in time for a presentation to the state board on June 5.

The local committee hopes that proceedings will develop so that the required public hearing may be held after the state board's June meeting, paving the way for final state board action at its July meeting.

Robertson said that surveys involving possible use of existing facilities for starting a proposed junior college always pointed to the Lamar buildings. He said that officials of other junior colleges, as well as state officials had advised that the Lamar facilities are better than those in which 90 per cent of the present junior colleges in the state were launched and are better than those used by 6 or 8 of the junior colleges now.

Locally, Robertson said the prevailing attitude appeared to be "if it takes that (Lamar) to get a junior college, we are for it."

Economically, Robertson said exhaustive studies of tax figures, which were made by County Superintendent Buford Browning, indicated that if a junior college should lease the Lamar buildings, then the Snyder Independent School District would be relieved of some 19 cents of its current tax rate. The school owes $1,151,740 on the Lamar facility and has 19 cents of its present $2 tax rate allocated to retire that obligation.

At the same time, Robertson pointed out, such an arrangement would enable a junior college district to begin operation without any bond issue at the outset.

If Lamar facilities should be used, it would entail resumption of a two-grade (7th and 8th) junior high school here, and a four-grade senior high school.

Dr. Robert Clinton, superintendent of schools, told the group Monday night that the administration and board of Snyder Public Schools would not support any plan which would lower the quality of the public school system. However, he said school officials feel that a junior college definitely would be an asset to the over-all school program, and that the plan as presented by the survey committee would not lower any standards.

What it would amount to would be a 14-grade school program rather than a 12-grade program, Dr. Clinton concluded.

Later in the evening Monday, the Snyder School District Trustees, adopted a formal resolution pledging their support to the junior college proposal, along with an agreement that they would negotiate a lease-purchase plan on Lamar facilities if a junior college district should be approved.

The school board's resolution will be attached to the application to be submitted to the state board of education.

Surveys indicated that Snyder Public Schools would realize a saving of some 5 cents in the school district tax rate if the two-grade junior high and four-grade senior high are established. This would stem from the fact that the school district would be operating one less unit than is now the case.

Thus, with a probable saving of some 24 cents on the Snyder School District tax rate, the junior college district would be able to establish itself and operate for a few years on taxes that actually could be shaved from the current public school rate.

Projections were cited showing the difference in assessments in the Snyder district for public schools and junior college combined, compared to the present assessments for the public school alone. For a $10,000 property rendition it would amount to a total of 56 cents more in 1965-66, a total of $1.05 more in 1966-67, a total of 25 cents more in 1967-68, a total of 52 cents more in 1968-69 and a total of 84 cents more in 1969-70.

The size of high school graduating classes in the immediate area was cited as another encouraging factor. Robertson said the Texas Research League made a survey at the request of the State Board of Education and came up with a figure of 300 as the minimum number of graduating seniors needed within a 25 mile radius of a junior college. Currently, figures for schools within a 25 mile radius of Snyder show 364 in the senior classes.

This factor has improved considerably since a joint Scurry - Fisher County proposal went before the state board in 1963.

Petitions supporting the proposal still are available for signing at the Chamber of Commerce office and at the County Superintendents office. Also, several individuals have petitions which they are circulating.

Robertson said this morning that a tape of the complete presentation of the proposal would be broadcast at 10:15 tonight over KSNY so that persons who were unable to attend the meeting Monday night may hear it in its entirety.

Prisoners Walk Off; Give Up

Two prisoners who walked out of the Scurry County jail about 3 p.m. Monday were back in jail by 10 p.m. after surrendering voluntarily to officers of the sheriff's department.

Roy Cannon (Sonny) Burditt, who was serving a two-year sentence for aggravated assault, and Jerry Bob Johnson, who had nearly completed a 30-day sentence on a check charge, left the jail, possibly when another prisoner was being placed in jail.

Both were trusties, and Burditt, who had been in jail for over a year, had been a trusty for nearly a year. Burditt had just completed serving a one-year sentence for malicious mischief which had been running concurrently with the other sentence.

As a result of his leaving jail yesterday, he will lose four months of "good time" he had accumulated during his confinement. Johnson also will lose his "good time."

Officers, who had been searching for the men since their disappearance, received a call at about 9:39 p.m. that the men were at the home of Johnson's mother near Dunn, and wished to surrender.

They were placed in a portion of the jail which is more secure than that portion where the trusties are allowed.

School Ends On May 25

May 25 will be the last day of school for this term in Snyder.

The elementary schools will have their parties from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. on that date. School buses will run at the regular time, and elementary school pupils who live in town will be dismissed after their parties.

May 26 will be a teacher work day, and report cards will be distributed at 3 p.m. Buses will pick up children in time to get them to school by 3 p.m., and they will leave the schools at 3:30 p.m. to return students to their homes.

Final exams will begin at Snyder High School on Friday, May 21, and finals at the junior high schools will start on Monday morning, May 24.

Junta Readies All-Out Drive

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican junta today poised the threat of an all-out drive against the rebels after rejecting a new peace plan offered by Washington.

As the junta sent tanks and fresh troops with mortars and artillery against rebel holdouts in northern Santo Domingo, Foreign Minister Horacio Vilciosa warned that all resistance would be crushed unless the insurgents drop their "absurd and unacceptable pretensions."

The junta president, Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, rejected a U.S. proposal reportedly calling for a coalition, saying it would open the way to a Communist takeover.

The plan offered by presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy and three other officials from Washington reportedly called for a government headed by Antonio Guzman, agriculture minister under exiled President Juan Bosch.

Guzman was known to be acceptable to the rebel regime headed by Col. Francisco Caamano Deno. The rebels originally sought the return of Bosch and of the constitution which was junked when the military overthrew him.

Imbert called Guzman a "Bosch puppet." He said he reminded the U.S. envoys that a prime U.S. aim was to prevent the Dominican Republic from falling under Red domination. U.S. spokesmen have begun retreating from Washington's original contention that Communists were dominating the rebel movement.

The leader of the peace-making team sent to Santo Domingo by the Organization of American States returned to Washington Monday night and said his group had made no progress.

"Unless and until the Dominican factions decide to trust each other, it is hard to figure how peace can be accomplished in the Dominican Republic," said Ambassador Ricardo Colombo of Argentina.

LBJ Would Repeal Right-To-Work Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson urged Congress today to appeal Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act and thus wipe out right-to-work laws in 19 states.

Johnson also asked Congress to extend minimum wage coverage to an additional 4.5 million workers. He did not recommend an increase in the present federal minimum of $1.25 an hour, a major goal of labor leaders.

"The question is not whether the minimum wage should be increased but when and by how much" Johnson said in his labor message to Congress.

"The Congress should consider carefully the effects of higher minimum wage rate on the incomes of those employed, and also on costs and prices, and on job opportunities — paticularly for the flood of teen-agers now entering our labor force."

Johnson also recommended legislation to discourage overtime work in order to spread employment by boosting the overtime pay requirements from time and one-half to double time.

The message was not specific on the point but administration sources had indicated in advance they expected a proposal to apply the double pay formula only after 48 hours of work, leaving time and one-half in effect between 40 and 48 hours.

In another recommendation, Johnson asked Congress to overhaul the federal-state unemployment insurance system and its present patchwork of varying jobless benefits.

"No major improvements have been made since its original enactment 30 years ago," Johnson said of the jobless aid program.

Johnson discouraged labor's drive to cut the present federal standard work week of 40 hours.

"I do not think the time for change in the law has come," Johnson said.

But he left the door open for later action on both higher minimum wages and a reduced work week.

"As average wages rise, the minimum wage level should be increased periodically," Johnson said in suggesting that Congress review the matter.

Teacher's Raise Quickly Approved

By ERNEST STROMBERGER

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators quickly passed a compromise teacher pay raise bill Monday and again may stave off today the anguish of redistricting themselves.

Part of the compromise by Gov. Connally and backers of the Texas State Teachers Association reportedly included Connally's promise to "twist the heads of some House member," as one senator put it, over Senate enlargement.

A plea for more delay to solve the enlargement matter was expected today, but it may be contested.

Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris, sponsor of the TSTA bill and a party to the compromise talks, is one of several senators who feel the only solution to senatorial redistricting is enlarging the Senate.

The Senate plan to retain present districts with minor changes and increase membership from 31 to 39 — giving the eight new seats to cities — has been stymied by House insistench that senators first approve a proposal allowing four year terms for House members.

The enlargement proposal is popular in the Senate because seven senators from rural areas stand to lose their districts under court-ordered redistricting on the basis of a 31-member Senate.

Feelings rose over redistricting when Sen. Louis Crump of San Saba laid out last week recommendations of his redistricting subcommittee. Unhappiness with Crump's plan brought together a majority of senators to back a rival plan by Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall, which placed in one district about equal amounts of their old districts.

House committee action was expected on the compromise Teachers pay raise bill, which the Senate unanimously approved only minutes after Connally disclosed the agreement.

TSTA backers won their argument that Connally's original plan didn't provide enough money for teachers, but he won the vital argument over how it is to be spent.

US SORELY DISAPPOINTED

Viet Cong Seems Unaware Of Suspension Of Raids

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman said today the United States was "disappointed" at the failure of North Viet Nam to respond in any way to the suspension of air strikes against North Vietnamese targets.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey told a news conference under questioning: "We must assume that the other side was aware that the strike had not been carried out for a number of days, and we have seen no reaction to that fact.

"If the other side saw anything in it, we've had no evidence of it."

McCloskey's comments underscored the resumption of bombings of North Vietnamese targets today. The resumption indicated a failure in the latest attempt by the Johnson administration to get North Viet Nam to negotiate on a peace settlement.

McCloskey was asked whether it was correct to say that the government was "disappointed at the fact there was no reaction" by North Viet Nam to the six days of suspension. He replied, "That is correct."

The suspension gave President Johnson time and an occasion to intensify diplomatic efforts to get North Viet Nam to begin to change its policy of support for Viet Cong guerrillas in the South and move toward a cease-fire.

Johnson is reported to have made his views known to leaders in Hanoi through diplomatic channels, believed to be primarily British. He had also tried in a public statement last Thursday, coincident with the pause in the bombings to drive a wedge between North Viet Nam and Communist China. Johnson said the Red Chinese want the war to continue whatever the cost to North Viet Nam. He said the interest of the North Vietnamese lay in negotiation because continuation of the conflict "without talks, means only damage without conquest."

North Viet Nam's reply Sunday was to accuse Johnson of seeking to play a "contemptible trick" designed to split the Communist countries.

U. S. officials, pending decision by Johnson on how to handle the situation from here on, were reluctant to discuss the latest developments today.

Presumably U. S. strikes in the North may now enter a new phase with some greater escalation of the Vietnamese war. So far as the bombings are concerned, escalation can occur by attacking targets closer to the capital of Hanoi, and by attacking new types of targets.

Presumably as the war goes on there will also be increased participation by U.S. ground forces fighting in the South. U.S. combat strength assigned to Viet Nam now totals about 45,000 men and steady increases are expected.

'Head Start' Plan Okayed

WASHINGTON — A $7,672 grant to set up a "Project Head Start" unit for pre-school children in Snyder has been approved by the Office of Economic Opportunity, Rep. Omar Burleson announced today.

The project in Snyder will be operated by the Snyder Independent School District. The 17th District Congressman said the approval is for a project for up to 60 children, with three paid adults to carry on the program.

The program is designed to give special pre-school training to youngsters who will be entering the first grade in September and who have language and cultural difficulties which might handicap them upon entering the public schools.

Herman Trigg, principal of Central Elementary School in Snyder, is to be in direct charge of the project in Snyder.

Flash Floods Hit San Antonio Area

By The Associated Press

An overnight rain of 6.20 inches set off widespread flash floods in west and south San Antonio Tuesday.

Runoff from the rain and flooding creeks closed virtually all main thoroughfares leading downtown.

Calls for help came so fast that it took hours to check them.

Firemen and ladder trucks rolled on one rescue mission after the other, mainly in low sections on the city's west side.

Civil Defense teams assembled boats for rescue work.

A police helicopter rescued a mother and her baby from the roof of their home.

Dozens of cars were reported overturned in Alazan Creek on the north side.

An undetermined number of persons were stranded on a roof of a home.

A house was reported washed away on the west side.

Berg's Mill, on the southside, was cut off by flood water and calls for help came from many homes in the area.

A family of ten were rescued from the roof of its home which had been partially dislodged from its foundation by flood water.

Numerous persons were saved from trees, rooftops and cars.

Rain tapered off at about 8:30 a.m. It was uneven, from 2.09 inches at the Weather Bureau gauge to 6.20 inches in the Las Palmas area. Four inches fell downtown from 2:30 and 4:30 a.m.

Water was 22 feet deep back of Olmos Dam, built a half century ago to keep major flooding out of the downtown area.

Austin had an early morning rain of 2.5 inches. Several creeks flooded in the city. Intersections were under water. But there was no serious damage.

Lakes west of Austin rose from the heavy rains of the weekend. Lake Travis had risen 16 feet since Sunday. Seven flood gates were open at Lake Buchanan and water was still going over the spillway.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wish people would quit feeling sorry for a woman just because she's not married. I am 36, unmarried and intend to stay this way. I have been married (twice) so it isn't like I don't know what I'm missing.

I earn my own living, pay my own bills and don't have to nag a man to give me a dollar every time I need one. I come and go as I please and don't have to worry about a two-timing, lying husband who thinks he's doing me a favor by living with me. Don't think I'm lonesome because I'm far from it. I have four steady boy friends and I see them as much as I want to. And, believe me, I like it better this way.

INDEPENDENT

DEAR INDEPENDENT: I'm sure your "boy friends" like it better this way, too. So what's the problem?

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I first became acquainted with the woman across the hall when I heard a child screaming so loud I thought someone was killing her. I later learned it was the usual mealtime battle. Penny is four years old and the way her mother explained it, she's always been a very poor eater. The mother said she took the child to the doctor and he said there was nothing wrong with her — they should put the food in front of her and if she didn't eat it, take it away. And when Penny got hungry enough, she'd eat. The mother said she tried it once but it didn't work and she couldn't stand to see the child "starve," so now she holds the kid's nose and forces the food down her. The child gets nervous and upset and gives the food back afterwards, so I can't see where this method is any good. Have you or any of your readers any suggestions for making a child eat?

FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: The doctor offered the best suggestion. Urge your neighbor to follow his orders before she has to take the child back to him with a more serious problem.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law is a lonesome widower. He constantly presses expensive gifts on my husband and me, saying, "You'll get everything I have after I die, anyway," and, "What does an old man like me need money for?" We really don't need the gifts, but it's hard to turn down new cars, good furniture, trips, etc. The problem is that he's trying to build up an obligation on our part to invite him to live with us, which would be disaster. Generosity is his only virtue. He drinks too much, is a hypochrondriac, talks endlessly about myself, and has a dull personality. My husband (who loves him) and I (who tolerate him) agree that it would never work out to have him live with us. We don't want to hurt him unnecessarily. How should we react to his gifts and offers?

NAMELESS, NATURALLY

DEAR NAMELESS: Simply refuse his gifts — and offers — and you'll have no problem.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What a stupid generality "Washed Up" made. At age 76 an uncle of mine from Fort Smith, Arkansas, was the proud father of a baby boy. His wife was 33 at the time. My mother (his sister) said he lied about his age. She was sure he was 80!

Guilty Pleas Are Heard By Courts Here

Erskin Hue Nix of Snyder pleaded guilty this morning in district court on each of four charges, and was given a two-year prison term on each charge.

Nix pleaded guilty to the burglary of the Vernon Service Station in Hermleigh; to theft of a tool box from Gail Nail; and to two burglaries of pay telephones, one at the White Star Launderette and one an outside phone near the Town House. All of the burglaries took place in February.

Jack Earlyn Vicars and David Fraley of Snyder entered pleas of guilty this morning in county court on charges of theft. They had been charged with theft of gasoline.

The youths had been turned over to the county sheriff for prosecution on those charges by Snyder city police after they had been charged with petty theft in the corporation court.

Sentencing in the case was deferred until Thursday.

Also in county court this morning, Ruby Taylor of Snyder pleaded guilty to two counts of illegal sale of alcohol. The cases had been filed by an agent of the Liquor Control Board.

She was sentenced to 15 days and costs on each count, and fined $200.

US Plane Downed Over North Korea

TOKYO (AP) — Pyongyang Radio said a U.S. light reconnaissance plane was shot down today over Communist North Korea.

In Seoul the United Nations Command reported announcement that a South Korean L19 aircraft was reported missing and presumed down in North Korea after it strayed across the demilitarized armistice zone.

The fate of its Korean pilot was not immediately known.

An announcement said it still was not definitely determined if the plane had been shot down, as claimed by a North Korean radio broadcast.

Tire Failure Blamed For Similar Mishaps On US 84 Monday

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated two one-car mishaps on US 84 Monday. Both mishaps were blamed on blown-out tires.

At about 6 a.m. a 1955 Ford driven by Malcolm M. Mahassey of Abilene crossed the median strip about 14 miles south of Snyder. The car continued across the other lane of traffic and came to rest in a field but did not turn over. The driver told officers he lost control when the tire blew out. Damage was estimated at $200.

The other mishap occurred three miles north of Snyder near the Santa Fe underpass. Involved was a 1963 Pontiac driven by Judy Ann Stone of Hereford.

Following the blowout, the car turned over on its side, causing an estimate $300 damage. The mishap happened at 1:35 p.m.

No injuries were reported in either mishap.

Panel Spotlights Corrupt Officials

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY

BOSTON (AP) — Corruption pervades almost all areas of the Massachusetts government and costs the public "scores of millions" in public funds lost through waste, incompetence and outright theft, says the State Crime Commission.

The commission, in its final report, said these conditions came about because too many otherwise decent men in public life, business, journalism and the professions, "despite their awareness of existing conditions, have looked the other way, have compromised, have failed in their duty to speak up."

"Our investigations have shown that corruption in Massachusetts is much more than the giving and taking of bribes and the larceny of public funds," said the report, submitted Monday night to Gov. John A. Volpe and the legislature.

"It includes the widespread and dangerous practice of the exaction of campaign contributions in return for promised or implied favors . . . the spoils system of allocation of jobs to political henchmen . . . the now deeply ingrained view of government jobs and government business as a private preserve for taking care of those with political connections."

The commission, created by special legislative act at Volpe's request, began its investigation in January 1963.

The report placed a major share of the blame for corruption on the legislature, but noted that the commission recently had found "significant improvement in the climate in the legislature and of those departments where corruption was most serious."

The commission never has disclosed the areas of government it was investigating. However, information it turned over to the attorney General has led to the indictments of about 50 individuals and a dozen business firms on charges which include bribery, larceny and conspiracy.

The commission said the legislature had failed to meet its responsibility to create an atmosphere of "law, order and decency and it must bear a major share of blame for conditions in Massachusetts."

The commission said 19 legislators had received more than $100,000 in insurance and performance bond commissions "over which the (Massachusetts) Turnpike's chairman exercised control." Individual amounts ranged from $600 to $5,000, said the report, which did not name the legislators.

The report was accompanied by a supplement containing scores of recommendations for legislation. They included reorganization of the state civil service system, which the commission said had decayed through years of political interference.

Killed In Mishap

GORMAN, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Fannie Crundwell, 66, of Rt. 1, Teague, was killed Monday when a car and a train collided west of here.

Mrs. Annie Spencer, 77, of Mexia was critically injured. Lex Crundwell, 68, the driver and husband of the dead woman, was hurt less seriously.

Bar-Hopping Minister Loses Job

PHARR, Tex. (AP)—The congregation fired the Rev. L. L. Nash, who also operates a McAllen used car lot, from the church he founded here because his family sings hymns in a beer hall.

The Rev. Mr. Nash organized the interdenominational People's Chapel in this Rio Grande Valley town eight years ago.

Apparently, he said, some of the 200 worshippers have forgotten they formerly were alcoholics.

"They were our own converts. We reached them in a similar way," he said.

Mrs. Nash and the couple's son Billy, 20, have been singing and playing the piano and guitar at the Melody Lounge, owned by the preacher's sister, Mrs. Audray Cast, and her son, C. B. Ferrell.

"We seek the friendship of the winner. We want to go where the action is," said the Rev. Mr. Nash.

"I know this is a new trend in religion, because I know Billy Graham has gone into all the night spots in Las Vegas and the Salvation Army is going into dives in California."

"This is no reflection on them whatsoever, but they think it's wrong for us to go into these places," he said of the decision by the board of trustees Monday.

Board member Raymond Reeves had no comment on the firing and board chairman Bob Vacca could not be reached.

"We have orderly crowds and they bring their families along," Mrs. Nash said. "They serve soft drinks as well as beer.

"Bill is branching out into the Country and Western field, in addition to singing spirituals, and is only singing Gospel songs (in the lounge) on request but he has more requests for them than any other type of song."

The Rev. Mr. Nash, an ordained minister, is a former Assembly of God member but now claims no denomination.

He says he plans to start a new church immediately in a building donated for his use in McAllen.

Bolivia To Stage Riot Crackdown

By JOHN HENNESSY

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — To curb military units ordered to crackdown today on mounting workers' protests against the rule of Gen. Rene Barrientos, a state of siege was declared in La Paz.

After a day of bloody rioting that left a number dead and wounded, the move slightly eased tension in the capital. It is 12,000 feet high in the Andes Mountains.

The state of siege, declared by Barrientos' regime, banned labor union meetings, sharply restricted travel, and said that, should the trade unions refuse to call off their strike, elections to be held within 90 days.

A general strike shut down La Paz Monday and unrest spread to other parts of the country.

The miners in Mina Vinto, 30 miles south of the capital, seized the mine's administrative and technical employes and six Americans hostage.

The president of the Bolivian Mining Corporation, Col. Juan Lechin Suarez, also announced that miners seized control of the Caracoles Tight Tobin mine, where six months ago miners held four Americans hostage.

Some 7,000 workers clashed with police in La Paz. A government spokesman said one person was killed and 19 others were injured. Eight of the wounded were policemen, he said.

Police used tear gas in a 1½-hour battle to disperse the demonstrators, who set fire to a restaurant used by air force personnel and burned an army jeep.

The demonstrators were mostly factory workers who walked off their jobs at midnight Sunday to protest the exile of Lechin to Paraguay on Friday. The strike was called by the Bolivian Labor Federation which Lechin headed. About 25,000 tin miners in other parts of the country also walked off their jobs.

The government headed by Lt. Gen. Rene Barrientos accused Lechin of taking part in a leftist plot against it. Lechin was President Victor Paz Estenssoro's vice president but broke with him when Paz amended the constitution so he could run for a third term last June.

The military overthrew Paz six months ago. The junta announced earlier this month that presidential elections it had scheduled for Oct. 31 had been postponed indefinitely.

MISS AND MR. LAMAR JUNIOR HIGH were named at the school's banquet Saturday evening. Posing with the trophies are the winners, Deborah Raines and Frankie Grimmett.

Queen's Visit Demonstrates Friendship Of Former Foes

BONN, Germany (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip arrived in West Germany today for a historic 10-day state visit and a spectacular demonstration of Britain's deepening friendship with its foe in two world wars.

Elizabeth was the first British sovereign to step on German soil in 52 years, since her grandfather King George V came to the wedding of Kaiser Wilhelm II's daughter Victoria Louise in May 1919. Fifteen months later World War I broke out.

President Heinrich Luebke, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and all Erhard's Cabinet were on hand at Bonn's Wahn Airport for the royal arrival.

For many Germans, particularly the youngsters who know World War II only from their history books, the royal visit was an exciting spectacle, a colorful moment in this otherwise drab public life of West Germany.

Prince Philip, who spent much of his childhood in Germany, has long urged his wife to make the trip and thus set the royal seal on the two nations' postwar reconciliation.

Thousands of officials have worked since before Christmas to prepare for the occasion.

The queen's schedule includes visits to every major West German city and a five-hour stay in West Berlin May 27.

The queen and Philip are staying at the hilltop Petersberg Hotel near Bonn for the three days they are in the capital. The German government requisitioned the entire hotel. It will be British territory until the queen leaves Thursday for a boat trip down the Rhine.

From the boat she goes by special train to Munich. The royal couple will spend seven nights in Germany aboard this train.

Sox-Yank Gap Much Greater This Year

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

A year ago today, the New York Yankees were 10 percentage points behind the Chicago White Sox. Today, the Yankees are 10 games behind.

The White Sox are in the same position they were in 1964 — first place in the American League. but the Yankees are nowhere near the second spot they held down at that time. They are in eighth place.

Chicago continued its torrid play by clobbering Kansas City 13-2 Monday night for its eighth consecutive victory. The Yankees, on the other hand, continued along their floundering way dropping a 9-2 decision to Baltimore.

The pitchers for the Yankees and White Sox more or less typified the teams' 1965 fortunes.

New York's Whitey Ford lasted only four innings against the Orioles en route to his fourth straight defeat. At this time in 1964, the 36-year-old left-hander had started eight games, completing five for a 4-1 record and a 1.66 earned-run average.

Ford currently has completed only one of eight starts and owns a 2-5 mar k with a 6.07 ERA.

Gary Peters, however, is slightly ahead of his pace of a year ago after going the distance for the first time in seven starts. The victory against the Athletics brought his record to 4-2 and 3.60.

In 1964, the 28-year-old southpaw had not completed a game in seven starts while posting a 3-2 mark and a 3.73 ERA.

The Yankees wound up winning their fifth straight pennant last season, and it certainly is too early to say they won't make it a sixth time this year. Ten percentage points, though, can be wiped out in one night. It takes a little longer to erase 10 games.

In the only other AL game Monday night, Los angeles edged Minnesota 5-4 in 10 innings.

Philadelphia nipped St. Louis 2-1 and Los Angeles trimmed Houston 5-3 in 11 innings in the only National League action.

Peters scattered eight hits in handing the Athletics their first loss after two triumphs under their new manager, Haywood Sullivan.

Floyd Robinson, Pete Ward and Ken Berry led the White Sox 16-hit attack, each slamming a home run. Robinson and Berry also singled in a run apiece in the six-run seventh inning while Bill Skowron knocked in a pair with a single.

Milt Pappas limited the Yankees to five hits, one of them Joe Pepitone's two-run single ino the first inning.

Bob Johnson rapped four Baltimore hits, driving in two runs, while John Orsino and Jack Brandt each collected three hits. Orsino batted in three runs, his two-run single in the fifth knocking Ford out of the game.

Los Angeles edged Minnesota in the 10th inning when Albie Pearson led off with a double against Johnny Kippstein, advanced to third on a sacrifice and scooted home as Bob Rodgers blooped a single to center field off Mel Nelson.

Los Angeles had taken a 4-3 lead in the eighth on Vic Power's two-run single, but pinch-hitter Don Mincher of the Twins started the ninth with a home run off Bob Lee.

Hunt Is Bitter Over His Injury

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Hunt doesn't exactly say so, but the New York Mets' hard luck second baseman feels Phil Gagliano of St. Louis should shoulder the blame for a baseline collision that has shelved Hunt for most — if not all — of the 1965 baseball season.

"I guess it was unintentional," Hunt said at a bedside news conference at Roosevelt Hospital Monday. "But I don't understand how he (Gagliano) could say he didn't see me."

The St. Louis base runner belted Hunt while Ron was attempting to field a ground ball in the fifth inning of a game here last Tuesday. The All-Star second baseman suffered a severe shoulder separation and underwent surgery the next day. He will be out for at least three months—possibly for the year.

Gagliano continued to insist he was blameless. The young Cardinal infielder, who was ruled out for interference on the bases-loaded play, said in St. Louis Monday:

"It was entirely unintentional I was just trying to beat the play and I thought I could. I wouldn't see him until he hit me."

Hunt disagreed.

"My play was to go get the ball," he said. "He knows the rule. It was his job to stop and avoid hitting me.

"I had to get in front of him and get the ball. If I didn't charge the ball, if I'd waited for him to pass in front of me, I wouldn't have had a play anywhere, at second, at home or even at first."

Hunt denied inferences by the Cardinals that he deliberately had blocked Gagliano's path in an effort to draw an interference call and prevent a run from scoring

"If I wanted to hit him," Hunt said, "I wouldn't have left myself exposed for a hard rap like that. I was wide open, not even braced, so how could I be at fault?"

The 23-year-old Met mainstay, who led the club with a .303 batting average in 1964, showed a pile of correspondence he had received from well - wishers. Among the telegrams was one from Gagliano which read: "Hoping you're feeling better. Incident purely unintentional."

Taylor Is Due Some Credit For Belinsky's First Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tony Taylor will never win the Fireman of the Year Award but the Philadelphia second baseman rates the Side Pocket Plaque today for saving Bo Belinsky's first National League victory.

Belinsky, the Phillies' pool-playing southpaw pitcher, topped the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 Monday night with a full-route five-hitter and a couple of vital eighth-inning assists from Taylor.

The little Cuban homered off Philadelphia nemesis Curt Simmons in the top of the eighth, giving Belinsky a 2-0 margin. Then, with one St. Louis run in and Bo on the ropes in the bottom of the inning, Taylor's perfect relay throw cut down the tying run at the plate.

Sandy Koufax, working longer and harder than Belinsky for his fifth 1965 victory, singled to start a four-run rally in the 11th inning that carried the Los Angeles Dodgers past Houston 5-3 in the only other National League game.

The American League-leading Chicago White Sox drubbed Kansas City 13-2; the Los Angeles Angels edged Minnesota 5-4 in 10 innings, and Baltimore downed the New York Yankees 9-2.

"I'll start going now," Belinsky, 1-2, said after completing his first start in six tries. "Sure, I've had trouble in the late innings but you have to be a little lucky when you get past the seventh."

Bo was working on a two-hit shutout when the Cardinals came alive with one out in the eighth. Pinch-hitter Phil Gagliano singled, took second on a passed ball and scored on Lou Brock's single. Curt Flood followed with a double to the right-field corner but Johnny Callison fired to Taylor, whose strike to catcher Gus Triandos nipped the speedy Brock at home.

Koufax, who allowed three hits and struck out 13 through the first 10 innings of a 1-1 duel with Houston's Bob Bruce, needed relief help from Bob Miller in the 11th after scoring the tie-breaking run in the top of the inning.

The Dodgers' ace singled with one out, moved around on Maury Wills' single and a walk to Wes Parker and scored as Ron Fairly beat out a hit off reliever Hal Woodeshick's leg. When second - baseman Joe Morgan picked up the ball and threw wildly to first, Wills also scored.

Morgan then uncorked another wild throw on John Roseboro's grounder and two more runs crossed, giving the first-place Dodgers their winning margin.

Clay Gets Exam At Own Grounds

WISTON, Maine (AP) —You can take the Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston fight out of Massachusetts but you can't take Massachusetts out of the heavyweight title rematch.

Champion Clay, who intends to continue training up to the 11th hour at his western Massachusetts camp, has the Maine Boxing Commission coming to Muhammad—Ali that is—for a pre-fight physical today at Chicopee, Mass.

The referee for the transferred May 25 bout may come from Massachusetts. The gloves definitely will. The 10 - point must scoring system is the same that Massachusetts uses. And the promoters are gloating they will make an additional $18,000 in closed-circuit television revenue because of Massachusetts.

Postponed by Clay's hernia operation last November, the fight had been rescheduled May 25 at Boston Garden until court action threatened a ban. So the backers switched to the Central Maine Youth Center here.

Boxing men can't recall when, if ever, members of the commission of one state traveled to another to give a pre-fight physical. The group made its decision Monday so that Clay wouldn't have to lose a day's workout by traveling.

George L. Russo, Maine boxing commission chairman, said the non-voting referee will be from out-of-state, though he hasn't been selected. The three judges have been picked, but the identity of all officials will be withheld until fight time.

The $154 gloves specially made to fit the hands of the contestant were originally ordered and locked in a safe by the Massachusetts Boxing Commission, and were shipped here recently.

The 20-foot-square (inside the ropes) ring is native, being sent to this city of 41,000 from the Brunswick Naval Air Station.

The mandatory eight count on knockdowns is debatable. The commission hasn't thrashed out that question because Russo said "we haven't had too many fights here in recent years." It has been used in Maine in the past.

Fred Brooks, head of Sportsvision handling the closed-circuct TV, said the transfer of the fight has opened up the Greater Boston market previously to be blacked out, and he expects a sale of an additional 30,000 seats at an average of $6 apiece.

Reuther Is Suspended

LUBBOCK (AP) — Norman Reuther, whose failure to pass sufficient work caused Texas Tech to forfeit its rights to the Southwest Conference basketball championship, was out of Tech athletics for good today.

He was suspended from further athletic participation by Coach Gene Gibson, who said it was for disciplinary reasons and had no connection with scholastic ineligibility.

The loss of Reuther, who would have been eligible to play next season as a senior, cut Tech's lettermen to seven and its starters to two—Dub Malaise and Russ Wilkinson.

Dave Olson probably will take over for Reuther but unless Bob Glover becomes eligible the team won't have the necessary tall man. Glover was scholastically ineligible as a sophomore last winter and it will be next week before his future status is determined.

Reuther was found to lack one hour's work at midterm last season and was declared ineligible with only a few games to go. Tech forfeited its rights to the championship but finished up in front of the league, two games ahead of Southern Methodist and Texas, who tied for the championship.

New Push On Gun Control

AUSTIN (AP)—Sportsmen and gun lovers began another attempt Monday night to win legislative approval of a firearms control bill sponsored by the National Rifle Association.

The measure heard by the House State Affairs Committee and sent to a subcommittee contained all the provisions removed, when it passed the Senate recently, including a 210 annual pistol permit.

As approved by the Senate the bill merely adds to present law a list of persons who are exempt from Texas' gun carrying laws.

"This is a complete rewrite," said Rep. Willis Whatley of Houston. "This is what the NRA tried to get out of the Senate and didn't make it."

Pistol permits, to be required of those not exempt in the statute, would be issued by the sheriff ow each county. They would be denied dope addicts, habitual drunkards and inmates of mental institutions.

The measure provides extra punishment for those convicted of a crime while carrying a firearm.

Longhorns In World Series

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — The NCAA district selection committee has decided there is no competition for Texas, the Southwest Conference baseball champion, in going to the college world series at Omaha June 7-11.

Trinity University was considered as an at-large team to contest Texas for the District 6 spot. But it was found that Trinity had eight freshmen, that freshmen were not eligible to play in NCAA events and that without these players Trinity would not be strong enough, said Tom Chandler of Texas A&M, chairman of the district selection committee.

Trinity had a 19-3 record and was champion of the Southland Conference. It had only 18 on the squad, however, and the loss of the freshman would cut it to 10.

Broyles Is Grim Over Prospects

By ED SHEARER

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Frank Broyles, the University of Arkansas football coach, admits there is something grim about him this spring, all because a fairy tale came true.

The fairy tale happened last season when the Razorbacks rolled over 11 straight opponents for a perfect football season.

Spring practice for Arkansas' 1965 football squad has just ended and Broyles says, the fairy tale is undeniably over.

But much remains to be said.

"We've got more stories to be told in September than ever before," says he, meaning some would-be Razorbacks have to prove themselves — not this spring, for it's too late, but in September, on the eve of the campaign.

Two major problems faced Broyles when spring practice started.

They were:

1. Filling eight vacated positions in a defensie unit that blanked its last five foes last year in regular season.

2. Replacing quarterback Fred Marshall who led the Razorbacks to the Southwest Conference championship and a Cotton Bowl victory over Nebraska.

Neither problem was solved in the 20 days of practice allowed under NCAA rules.

The quarterback slot is still up for grabs. Jon Brittenum, a 1964 redshirt, may have the inside track with his all-around ability, but the passing of Ronny South and the running of Harry Jones must be reckoned with before a choice is made.

Two years ago Broyles could not settle on one field general and Arkansas finished with a 5-5 record. Last year, with Marshall in control, the Razorbacks had a perfect season.

Floyd Pulls For Cassius

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson is rooting for Cassius Clay to whip Sonny Liston again on May 25 so that he can get a shot at the heavyweight champion.

But if Liston should regain the title, Patterson will keep busy, says Al Bolan, one of the former heavyweight champion's advisers.

Bolan said Monday he has discussed the possibility of a London bout in September between Patterson and Henry Cooper with British promoter Harry Levene.

Bolan said he and Patterson will attend the Clay-Liston fight in Lewiston, Maine.

LBJ's Dominican Envoys Stir Speculation By Latins

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Operating in extraordinary secrecy, President Johnson sent a high-level mission to the Dominican Republic last weekend. Its evident three-fold objective: to end the civil war, bring dissident elements into a provisional coalition government and keep Communists from gaining control.

U.S. officials tried to keep the mission's presence in Santo Domingo a secret, and once the secret was out both the White House and the State Department remained tight - lipped about its purposes.

The mission is composed of McGeorge Bundy, a presidential assistant on national security affairs; Thomas C. Mann, undersecretary of state; Cyrus R. Vance, undersecretary of defense, and Jack H. Vaughn, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs. They have been the President's chief advisers since the Dominican crisis began April 24.

But while Washington officials refuse to talk for publication about the mission, Latin-American diplomats are quite willing to discuss the matter. They say the President obviously was motivated by efforts to:

1. Bring the two major forces in the Dominican struggle, and representatives of all factions except Communists and extreme rightists, together in some plan to form a provisional government.

2. Emphasize, by the very dispatch of a mission, the importance he attaches to a peaceful, democratic solution of the Dominican civil war.

3. Try to safeguard the Organization of American States role in dealing with the problems in this hemisphere and not allow the problem to go by default to the United Nations.

The Latin diplomats say Johnson seems determined that the OAS not become discredited as a vehicle for mediation and peace making in the Dominican Republic. The rebel forces, in contrast, appealed for United Nations action.

Latin Americans say it would be disastrous to give the U.N. Security Council, where the Soviet Union exercises veto power, any preferential role in solving problems in this hemisphere.

It probably is no coincidence that on the same day the council voted to send a mission to the Dominican Republic, Johnson issued a statement mentioning only the OAS in a mediation role in the Dominican Republic; pledged U.S. economic aid once the OAS achieves a settlement and decided to send his own high-level mission to the country.

The administration's official position is that the United States is strictly impartial between the rebel forces of Col. Francisco Caamano Deno and the civilian military junta of Gen. Antonio Imbert.

Despite this and despite the fact that news dispatches indicate sharp differences of opinion between the Imbert group and U.S. officials, Latin Americans suspect a strong U.S. role in establishment of the junta.

But the impression here is that the United States and most of the Latin-American countries would like to see both Imbert and Caamano step down and clear the way for a coalition regime.

Latin Americans say the circumstances suggest the next Dominican president almost would have to be a member of the political party of ousted President Juan Bosch — for whose return the Caamano forces say the uprising was begun.

The fact that the Bundy mission stopped overnight in San Juan, P.R., where Bosch is in exile—but apparently in close touch with the Caamano forces —gave rise to speculation the group conferred with him.

Boyle Finds LBJ Ranch In Viet Nam

By HAL BOYLE

GIA VUC, South Viet Nam (AP) — As you land on the small runway in a plane that contains native soldiers, some chickens and ducks, five squealing pigs and three small steers, the first thing you see is a sign saying, "The LBJ Ranch."

That sign is the way a U.S. Army Special Forces team has chosen to say that America is here to stay for the duration.

"The LBJ Ranch" is engaged in a bitter fight against enemy rustlers.

It is typical of many Special Forces bastions throughout South Viet Nam which seek to protect villagers from the Viet Cong.

Gia Vuc lies in a valley bordered by rugged and lovely hills 83 miles south southwest of Da Nang, the country's second largest city. It is astride the famous Ho Chi Minh trail, the chief north and south pathway for infiltrators.

It centers around old French-built fortifications and resembles in some ways an American 19th century fort against the Indians on the Wyoming or Montana frontier.

The "ranch" covers some 50 square miles in which 3,..0 Montagnards, or mountain tribespeople, till their farms and dwell in a dozen closely grouped hamlets of thatched huts. The group of a dozen Americans is led by Capt. William A. Hicks of Linden, N.C.

It is his job to work closely with a strike force of 375 native troops who make up a miniature United Nations themselves. They consist of the hillbilly Montagnards and Vietnamese and 25 Nungs, who are Chinese mercenary soldiers.

The Nungs get roughly $40 a month each, paid for by Uncle Sam. That is about three times what the other native troops earn. But they win high praise from the Americans here.

"They are real good troops — about the best you could ask for," said Lt. Charles A. Carroll Jr., of Delmar, N.Y. Sgt. Dominick Tantalo of Waterloo, N.Y., added: "If we run into any real trouble, the first thought of the Nungs is to cover the Americans."

Under Hicks, no American here has been killed, but a number of Viet Cong have.

"We run continuous local patrols. Air strikes have been a real help to us in these hills," Hicks said.

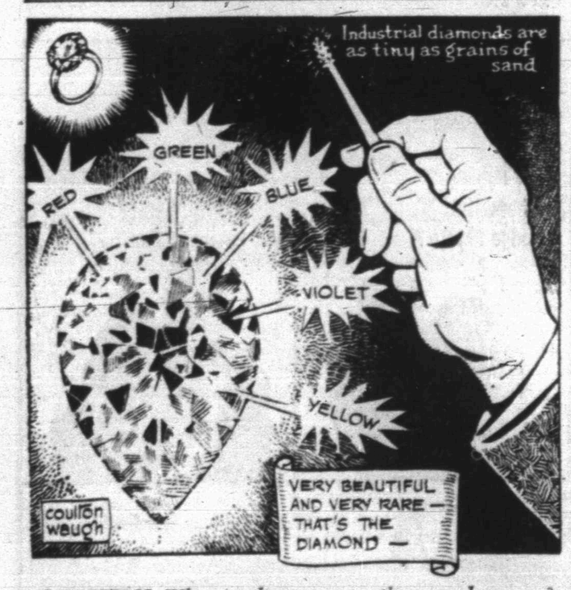
"We estimate that there are two companies of enemy in the area, and we feel that our presence here has forced them to detour a lot of the infiltrators using the Ho Chi Minh trail."

These U.S. Army Special Forces teams work almost as hard helping the villagers as in fighting the enemy. Sgt. Chuck Bartley of Fayetteville, N.C., senior medical adviser, has set up a clinic.

When I visited his clinic, a native woman was moaning softly from the pain of a bullet hole in her calf.

"As no bone was broken I can take care of it here," said Bartley. "These people haven't had much done for them in their lives. They appreciate any help you give them."

Junior Editors Quiz on DIAMONDS



QUESTION: Why are diamonds worth so much money?

• • •

ANSWER: There are certain objects whose values are not reckoned by their utility, but are based upon their beauty and rarity. Paintings by Rembrandt have been recently sold for sums in the millions of dollars. Everyone knows they are very beautiful. They also are extremely rare. Their value keeps going up as collectors outbid each other for them. Diamonds are also both beautiful and rare.

The diamond is the hardest substance found naturally. Diamonds are crystals of carbon which have hardened under great pressure. When ground with many small flat faces, diamonds split or refract white light into vivid, brilliant flashes of the rainbow colors. A diamond may look colorless as our picture suggests, but turn it slightly and the wonderful colors leap out as if the stone was on fire. Diamonds are rare because they are found in only a few places, and many tons of rock must be crushed before a usable stone can be obtained. This rarity and their beauty are what make them so valuable. Diamonds can be man-made in huge presses, but these tiny stones are mostly used in industrial work, often to cut other substances.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Not all diamonds are white except for sparkles of color; some may have a general color tone, such as light yellow, blue or green. Look in a jeweler's window and see if you can spot some diamonds with these delicate general colors. 5/18

Sen. Williams Challenges Democrats

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams, a Delaware Republican, takes the Senate floor at high noon today ready to duel Democrats.

If there are any who don't like his role in the Bobby Baker investigation, Williams will say, let them criticize him to his face.

A lone-wolf investigator, Williams made a private inquiry into Baker's affairs. The evidence he dug up forced the Senate last year to reopen its investigation of the one-time secretary to the Democratic majority.

The Rules Committee has completed hearings and a draft of a report by its Democratic members has been prepared. Monday Williams rose in the Senate and ticked off a number of news stories originating, he said, with a "Democratic spokesman," and reporting that the draft would criticize him.

Williams then served notice he would stand up again in the Senate today and challenge the committee's chairman, Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., and other Democrats to either criticize him to his face or disavow what the "spokesman" was quoted as saying.

Jordan declined to comment in advance. Other Democratic members reserved comment, too.

"I do not intend that these charges by innuendo go unchallenged," Williams said, declaring that whatever was said he would be prepared to answer.

Senate leaders arranged to set aside debate on the voting-rights bill to permit the potentially stormy showdown.

At issue in the Senate committee's investigation were deals on which Baker made a fortune he estimated in excess of $2 million while drawing a $19,600 salary as secretary to the Senate majority.

Republicans cried "whitewash" when the committee's Democrats refused to quiz many witnesses the GOP senators demanded be called.

Panel Oks College Bills

AUSTIN (AP)—Bills to create new state senior colleges at Odessa and Texarkana were approved for House debate Monday night by the House State Affairs Committee.

Both bills carry a provision that the central coordinating board for higher education must approve the schools before they can ask a legislative appropriation.

One would make Odessa Junior College into Permian State College. The other would make Texarkana State College from Texarkana Junior College.

The Senate passed on voice vote earlier Monday similar bills to elevate junior colleges at Odessa and Texarkana to the state's 23rd and 24th state-supported senior institutions.

The measures go to the House.

Nine senators asked to be recorded against the bill by Sen. Pete Snelson of Midland to create a four-year school at Odessa.

Eight senators were recorded against the bill by Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris to create a senior college at Texarkana.

Record Prosperity Brings Windfall To Treasury Dept.

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There's nothing like a 51-month stretch of prosperity to gladden the heart of a federal tax collector.

Record corporate profits and record personal incomes are bringing the U.S. Treasury a windfall of $1.5 billion this fiscal year. It anticipates a like amount in the fiscal year starting July 1.

The $3 billion is revenue that the Treasury hadn't foreseen when it drew up its budget last January. Cuts in federal income tax rates both for individual incomes and corporate earnings are now being offset in sizable amounts by the increased totals on which to levy the new, if lower, rates.

And the windfall has led the Treasury to agree to share some of its good fortune with the individual and corporate taxpayers. The share will be in the form of a greater than previously planned cut in excise taxes, paid at retail by customers, or levied at manufacturers' level of some items.

The 51-month business expansion, which this month is setting a peacetime record of its own, has flowered this year in higher than expected profits and incomes.

Right now, for instance, the Commerce Department figures that corporate gross profits are running at a record annual rate of $62.6 billion. The increase of $5.6 billion in these pretax earnings from the annual rate of $57 billion in the final three months of 1964 is pure gravy for the Treasury.

Even with corporate income tax rates dropped this year from 50 per cent to 48 per cent, the Treasury will take in a sizable hunk of money, close to $31 billion.

The corporations aren't complaining because they're glad both for the lower rate and for the record profits. Part of what's left after taxes will be handed out in dividends to stockholders — increasing personal incomes — and part will be used to finance new plants and equipment.

Confidently, the Treasury expects that this business spending, along with increased outlays by individuals with larger incomes, will keep the business expansion going far past this 51th month.

And with the expansion should come still higher corporate profits and larger totals of personal income. The lower tax rates will be applied to that still expanding volume of taxable profits and income.

Things could go wrong with all these fine hopes. The expansion rate probably will slow during the traditional summer lull. Overconfidence could lead both individuals and corporate executives into excesses that would undermine the so far sober and steady growth.

But right now the news is all reassuring: records falling month by month, the chance that this summer's slowdown will be less marked than average, the probability that the momentum of the long expansion will keep things going for some time.

And then there are the new stimulants now taking form: the cut in excise taxes that could spur private and corporate spending, the increased government outlays that projects of the "Great Society" imply.

Old Timer Is Identified

EASTMANVILLE, Mich. (AP) —After spending 98 years without an identity a 102-year-old man in this small community about 15 miles west of Grand Rapids has been identified.

On Feb. 25, 1907, the man, who has been known as "Joe Steel" was found wandering in subzero weather near Grand Rapids. He had no memory and was considered feebleminded. He was taken to the Ottawa County infirmary here.

The Holland (Mich.) Sentinel published a story recently on the "man without an identity." Two Michigan relatives who saw the paper now have identified "Joe Steel" as Monroe Rutty.

The relatives, Monroe Eaton of Ganges and Blanch Wilkinson of Glenn, said they would leave Rutty in the infirmary where he seems to be happy.

Hoover Tells Congress Of Red Agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover has told Congress Soviet secret agents in the United States pose a growing menace.

Unless they are exposed, the FBI chief of 41 years said in a report, they eventually will serve as the nucleus of an extensive, clandestine espionage network.

Hoover said spying is heavily augmented by Soviet intelligence agents in virtually every Soviet group that enters the United States including diplomats, businessmen, scientists, students and cultural exchange missions.

What's more, Hoover predicted, "there is every likelihood that Chinese Communist intelligence activities in this country will increase in the next few years — particularly if Communist China is recognized by the United Nations and is thereby able to establish a diplomatic mission in this country."

Hoover delivered his latest report on the espionage threat in testimony before a House Appropriation subcommittee March 4. It was made public Monday night.

"In regard to the Communist bloc espionage attack against this country, there has been no letup whatsoever," he said. "Our government is about to allow them to establish consulates in many parts of the country which, of course, will make our work more difficult."

A growing problem, he said, "is the extent to which the Soviet intelligence services are dispatching undercover spies into the United States. They are well-trained, professional intelligence officers and usually bear assumed identities and are supplied with expertly fabricated documents and unlimited funds.

"Their detection among the more than 190 million people in this country is a counterintelligence problem of great magnitude.

Asked whether advantages of cultural exchange would balance a possible intelligence disadvantage of having Soviet consulates around the country, Hoover replied:

"We have found in practically every cultural exchange group or student group that has come to this country ,there is always a member of the EKGB, the intelligence service of the Russian government. They are called students, but some are 36, 37 or 38 years old."

Bear Sheds Radio Collar

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — For at least one black bear, transistor radios are strictly for teen-agers.

The State Department of Natural Resources trapped the 20-pound bear, fitted him with a collar carrying a small radio transmitter, then released him Monday in the wilderness of the Olympic Peninsula.

The idea, forest scientists said, was to trace his movements as part of research into animal-caused damage to forests.

Later in the day, officials reported the bear had lost the collar.

"We have a radio, but no bear," said Donald Hopkins, forest management supervisor. Hopkins said the project would continue with tighter collars.

Backers Seek To End Bill's Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leadars tried today to unite backers of the voting-rights bill. Success, they felt, could lead to an end of debate and passage of the measure late next week.

The apparent key: a vote today on an amendment to heal the wounds suffered by some of the bills backers when their attempt to ban the poll tax in state and local elections was beaten by a 49-45 vote last week.

The administration opposed including a flat ban in the bill, claiming it would be of doubtful constitutionality. This split the bill's backers.

Today's amendment would insert in the measure a congressional declaration that the right to vote in certain states is denied or abridged by making poll taves a prerequisite to voting.

Losers in last week's battle have urged such a statement. They say it would strengthen the attorney general's hand under another section which directs him to test the poll taxes in court.

The amendment was introduced by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Mansfield later told newsmen he probably would file a petition to shut off debate later this week.

He would need signatures from two-thirds of the senators to do so. He hoped the poll-tax amendment would make this task easier.

Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia require voters in state and local elections to pay poll taxes. A constitutional amendment has banned the poll tax as a requirement for voting in federal elections.

The Mansfield - Dirksen amendment reportedly has administration backing and, if accepted by the bipartisan anti-poll-tax forces, could clear away a major stumbling block to passage of the bill.

At Monday's session, the Senate rejected 60 to 19 an amendment by Sen. Herman Talmadge, D1Ga., to strike from the bill a requirement that covered states obtain the approval of the attorney general or the federal district court in Washington before putting new election laws into effect.

Talmadge denounced the provision as "blatantly unconstitutional," but Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., said it was vital to prevent some states from devising new barriers against the right to vote.

Independents Discuss Oil Problems

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of the National Oil Jobbers Council says his industry must expand if it is to meet increasing competition from large integrated oil companies.

W. Tom Jones of Montgomery, Ala., said lagging profits and price wars still are major problems of the independent bulk distributors of petroleum products

Jones and Otis Ellis, general counsel from Washington, D.C., spoke as the coumcil opened its annual meeting Monday. The session was a preliminary to today's start of the three-day mid-year meeting of the marketing division of the American Petroleum Institute.

"The territorial expansion of some of the large integrated companies over the past few years has thrown many of us into direct competition with these corporation giants the first time," Jones said.

"Blinded by a desire for volume and blessed with a seemingly limitless treasury, they are formidable competitors.

"They are bidding for, and getting, long term supply contracts with commercial accounts for prices no jobber can match. They are driving real estate values up out of sight."

Jones said he did not see how the large companies can expect a profit on such excessively expensive commitments.

"I think in the long run the drain on their pocketbooks will be sufficient to make them understand their foolishness," he said. "Then they will somehow have to find a way to sanity in markets where they've over-exterded themselves — or get out of them.

"Meanwhile, jobbers can give a good account of themselves in direct competition with major companies by exploiting the new comers' weakness — limited knowledge of the local market inflexibility and absentee management . . .

"Every indicator points toward a future that will be marked by high volume operations, with low per unit profit. Jobbers must do more than hold on to gallonage — they must hold on to market share. This means expansion."

Ellis said he is convinced Jobbers will be forced to seek some form of government aid or assistance if such problems as gasoline price wars are to be overcome.

"I do not believe the question is whether you should go to government for relief, but the question now posed is when will you go and for what form of relief," Ellis said.

Another Pole Said Seeking US Asylum

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — Another defection from Poland's diplomatic colony in Berlin was reported today. U.S. authorities said the 19-year-old son of the Polish economic attache in East Berlin escaped to West Berlin two weeks ago and asked for political asylum.

The chief of the Polish military mission in West Berlin, Wladislaw Tykocinski, defected Sunday and was flown to West Germany. U.S. officials said his request for political asylum in the United States was under consideration.

The economic attache's son was Marek Radomski, who presented a diplomatic passport to the East German border guards at checkpoint Charlie on May 5 and crossed through the Berlin wall.

On the West Berlin side, Radomski told U.S. military police at the checkpoint that he wanted political asylum.

U.S. officials contacted Tykocinski's Polish mission in West Berlin and arranged for Polish diplomats to talk to the boy to satisfy them that his decision was entirely voluntary.

A telephone conversation between the youth and his mother also was arranged, but Marek did not change his decision to stay in the West, a U.S. spokesman said.

Gyrenes Discover War Frustrating

Editors Note — U.S. Marine ground forces have been tangling with the Viet Cong every day for the past month. How are they settling down to the first ground action by U.S. troops since the Korean War? Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett spent three weeks with the Marines. Here is his report.

By PETER ARNETT

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines have found no magic formula to beat the Communist Viet Cong.

Pickings have been lean since they moved out on combat patrols from the Da Nang and Hue base camps in mid-April. And they have discovered many frustrations: the searing heat, the tangled jungle and a disappearing enemy.

The Marines have found it will take hard slogging and perseverance to get a military victory.

The Marines appear to be developing a grudging respect for the black pajama-clad guerrillas who have been stubbornly staying inside the perimeter the Marines have been given to defend around the Da Nang air base.

These guerrillas, most of them equipped with old-fashioned French weapons, have inflicted about 70 Marine casualties. Almost every Marine patrol that moves out of base camp makes contact and firefights ensue.

The Marines have brought back 18 Viet Cong bodies from patrols, not as trophies but for intelligence purposes, they say. They feel that for every body they get, two others have been spirited away.

"Everyone knows our casualties but no one knows the enemies. We are giving as good as we get," said the Marine commandant, Gen. Wallace M. Greene, in a news conference at Da Nang recently.

This was after the Viet Cong had surprised two Marine outposts, killing and wounding several.

The Marine defense perimeter around Da Nang extends about 15-miles deep.

Familiarity with the terrain is breeding a certain amount of contempt.

"Those guys were picked off walkin' single file along that dike. Why didn't they deploy properly," one Marine complained about a platoon that was ambushed by three Viet Cong snipers.

Some Marine companies have a tendency to bunch up while returning from long, wearying patrols, making ideal targets for Viet Cong snipers.

The Marines have found that it is not easy to fight by the book in Viet Nam.

One Marine officer said: "We know we are targets when we keep moving over the same trails. But where else can we go? Often, there is only one way to go."

"Our biggest problem is the heat," a Marine doctor said. "We just can't move too quickly or too far in this heat. We have to slow down."

One Marine company of 400 men had 10 per cent heat casualties one day. To prevent this happening again, the Marines have longer and more frequent rest periods.

The Marines have made a special study of their relations with the civilian population. Marine commanders are almost overly careful in their attempts to protect the civilian population from being hurt.

Marine officers feel that with gradual adaptation to the climate and terrain of Viet Nam, the performance of their men will improve. But they are not looking for any quick, spectacular victories.

Some of the Marines feel they are not really equipped psychologically to fight in Viet Nam.

"The Marines are essentially an assault force, sent ashore to take a beach or secure an air strip, then to move on. Here, we are acting like the Army," one said.

Said a senior Marine: "We haven't been in a war for 10 years. Our boys are green, This is just what we need.

Kohler Walks Out At Moscow Function

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler, who has recently boycotted a number of official functions because of attacks on U.S. policies in Viet Nam, walked out of one for the first time Monday night.

Kohler walked out of a Bulgarian reception when visiting Bulgarian President Georgi Traikov accused the United States of criminal actions in Viet Nam.

"He walked out because he dodn't like what was being said," an American official said later.

Political Issue Stolen With Excise Tax-Cut Proposal

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carefully touching all the bases President Johnson appears to have stolen a political issue from the Republicans by assuring early Congressional approval of a $4-billion excise-tax cut.

When the President indicated weeks ago that he would propose a $1.75-billion reduction in what have become known as nuisance levies, congressional Republicans started priming their guns for a fight to increase the amount.

Some of the GOP members had been talking privately of a $1 billion reduction. Johnson's choice of that figure for graduated cuts over a period of years up to 1970 was regarded as no mere coincidence.

To diminish the opposition to this sliding - scale procedure, White House teams worked with industries concerned to get advance agreements on specific items.

For example, they were reported to have won informal agreement from auto industry leaders to go along with first-step reduction from 10 per cent to 7 per cent in the levies on cars. Industry spokesmen as late as last Friday had called for immediate repeal of the full tax.

If this agreement stands up it could eliminate the best-lobbied opposition to the bill's early passage, just as could agreements with other affected industries.

Johnson guarded his plans carefully, but he made sure that he and the Democrats would be the political beneficiaries of removing taxes on such items as air conditioners, television sets, pocketbooks, toilet goods and many other things.

By staggering most of the cuts as of next July 1 and the following Jan. 1, the President appeared to be taking out some insurance against a lag in the economy, which could hurt Democratic candidates in 1966.

He anticipated Republican criticism by voicing assurances that the cuts would not affect necessary defense spending.
