Sunshine Boosting Mercury

By TEX DEWEESE

A bright sun joined city and public utility workers today in de-icing Pampa and surrounding towns after one of the worst ice storms in Texas Panhandle history.

Old Sol came through clear skies bright and early and went to work getting the temperatures back above the freezing mark.

After an overnight low of 27 the sunshine had boosted the mercury to 34 at 10 a.m. and the ice was almost gone from power and telephone lines.

The weatherman says it will continue to be warmer tomorrow after turning a bit colder tonight. Tomorrow's high is expected to be near 60 and tonight's low in the high 20s. While power and phone service was cut off in scattered areas of Pampa and several surrounding towns during the night, things gradually were returning to normal today.

Tree-lined streets in Pampa looked like the city had been hit by a tornado. The 82-inch rainfall in the past 24 hours had for the most part frozen on trees and power lines as it fell.

The ice weight was too much and tree limbs began breaking off, falling to sidewalks, in yards and on parked cars. Limbs fell across and broke individual service lines to many homes.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and Southwestern Public Service Co. employees, assisted by city workers were on the job through the night working to keep streets cleared and restore telephone and power service.

Gary Stevens, Southwestern Bell manager here, said possibly 145 to 150 residential phones were put out of service in Pampa due to broken lines into homes.

Telephone service was disrupted in Lefors, Allison, Canadian, White Deer and Miami. The heavy ice burden pulled down 50 telephone poles in Lefors.

All of the towns were isolated yesterday. All have local service today, Stevens said, and mobile units were restoring service between towns today. It probably will be two or three days before long distance service will be back to normal, he added. Telephone service should be normal in Pampa in a day or so.

Marvin Cooper, district line superintendent for Southwestern Public Service Co., said power was cut off in downtown and south Pampa for an hour or so last night when an ice-laden transmission line was lost. None of the main feeder lines was affected, Cooper said.

Worley Hospital was hit by the downtown power blackout but was immediately back in business with its auxiliary power unit.

Don Alexander, Worley administrator, said there was no interruption of any hospital service because of the two-hour and 16-minute downtown power failure. The temporary power blackout did not affect Highland General Hospital.

Alexander also mentioned that the 41-year-old apricot tree on the Worley hospital back lawn, the pride of doctors, nurses and hospital workers for many years, was practically destroyed by the heavy ice.

City officials said today workers were first removing broken tree limbs from streets. Next, residents were asked to move limbs from their front yards to the curb to be picked up.

Limbs in back yards, City Manager Mack Wofford said, should be cut into small pieces and piled up for later pickup.

The snow watch for the Panhandle was called off around 9 p.m. Tuesday and the forecasters today continued to predict rising temperatures and clear skies for the next couple of days.

NATURE DEALS A BLOW — Probably the greatest blow dealt by Tuesday's ice storm was to shade and fruit trees in all parts of Pampa. The scene above at Mary Ellen and 19th Sts. was typical of the destruction. Not a tree-lined street escaped. City workers expect it will take the remainder of the week to haul away hundreds of broken limbs that fell victim to the ice storm. One city official described the damage as equal to tornado and windstorm destruction.

County Repays Short Loan; Sharing Fund Still Question

The county paid back today $75,000 borrowed for a short term a few weeks ago plus $500 in interest.

The move was authorized this morning by members of the Gray county commissioners court in their regular first-of-the-month session. The money had been borrowed to meet county operating costs until tax money began to come in in quantity.

The panel discussed revenue sharing but nothing concrete is available here as yet to offer any indication whether strings attached to the new law will allow it to aid the county fiscal situation.

Gray County Judge Don Cain told the court that the information he had in hand indicated that payments promised the first part of November, would be held up until a later date. Fiscal facts regarding the county for 1966 are in the treasury department computers and payment cannot be calculated until 1971 figures are fed into the maw.

Three changes were made in election officials due to illness. In Precinct Seven, Ott Shoemaker becomes the election judge with Warren Fatherree as his assistant. In Precinct Nine, Earnest Upton becomes the assistant.

One item of a serious nature was approved that of employing counsel for Gray

County Sheriff Rufe Jordan and the County Health Officers to defend them in a suit just filed in federal court.

Judge Cain said he could not discuss the nature of the suit according to law and that details must come from the sheriff. All the facts he could divulge was that it was brought by a man who was a county jail inmate sometime in the distant past, perhaps as long as five years ago.

Sheriff Jordan was not available for comment at press time, due to the press of the aftermath of the weather emergency.

Other business transacted by the court was the routine payment of salaries and bills.

Nixon Defends Urban Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today his administration's "urban strategy" has doubled federal assistance to states and localities and has increased their freedom to use the money as they see fit.

He spelled out what he said were effective programs to help meet the crisis of the cities in the 10th of a series of paid political radio speeches.

Speaking live from the White House, Nixon said the key point of his urban strategy "is not only that it gives our communities the dollars they need, but it also gives them the freedom they need to use those dollars effectively."

"We have doubled federal assistance to states and localities—to meet the crisis of their treasuries," the President said, "but we have also increased the sense of freedom and control in our communities—to meet the crisis of the spirit."

Pampans Observe Quiet Halloween

Cold weather and falling limbs and ice put a damper on the Halloween ghosts and goblins last night.

However, some trick-and-treaters made their rounds as usual.

Police reported no major mishaps of any kind and the all-hallowed eve passed without incident.

City Manager Mack Wofford said a report that Halloween would be observed tonight had no official blessing from police or city officials.

McGovern Will Pay 5th Visit To Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas gets courted again by national politicians this weekend with another visit to the state Saturday by Democratic presidential candidate Sen. George McGovern.

McGovern will be in Waco at 1 p.m. for an afternoon rally and then fly to Corpus Christi for another rally at 3:30 p.m.

While preparations were being made for the McGovern visit, the battle for the governorship continued at a rapid pace, with Democratic candidate Dolph Briscoe flashing editorial endorsements from 23 Texas newspapers which he said have called for his election.

But Briscoe's GOP opponent, Sen. Henry Grover, ignored the endorsements and said that Briscoe has "a perfect record for being run over, run down and caving in."

Grover said the election of Briscoe "promises to make Texas a weak sister in dealing with the federal government."

Another candidate, Ramsey Muniz of the Raza Unida party, was in Denton speaking before students and saying that Briscoe is engaging in "meaningless rhetoric" when he tells people in the High Plains that his first accomplishment would be to bring water to the area.

Muniz added that new sources of income can be tapped "by closing the loopholes that permit the rich people of the state to pay less taxes than the poor people."

Veep Cancels Amarillo Trip Due To Weather Conditions

Hazardous flying weather caused Vice President Spiro Agnew to cancel his scheduled speaking appearance in Amarillo last night.

The vice president was billed as coming to the Panhandle in behalf of the candidacy of Congressman Bob Price of Pampa who is seeking re-election in the 13th congressional district.

Price today issued the following statement concerning the vice president's canceled visit:

"In view of the hazardous weather conditions, I believe the right decision was made in canceled the visit. Politics are not that important to me.

"One of the major reasons for the vice president's plan to come here was to expose the misrepresentation being used by the opposition in this campaign."

Price went on to assail what he called misstatements about legislation introduced and his opponent's claim to be next in line for the post of chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

"It never fails," Price concluded, "that these sort of half-truths and innuendoes are always exposed. I just wanted to rush up the process."

Thieu Demands That Reds Hold Parley With S. Viet

SAIGON (AP) — Shunting aside the United States, President Nguyen Van Thieu demanded today that the Communists in both North and South Vietnam negotiate a peace settlement with his government.

He repeated his demand for the withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam and his rejection of a "disguised coalition government."

The South Vietnamese president outlined a plan calling for separate conferences between his government and North Vietnam to work out a cease-fire and between Saigon and the Viet Cong to negotiate a political settlement. He made no mention of U.S. participation.

Thieu declared:

"Today, we also demand that the so-called South Vietnamese Liberation Front organization discuss seriously the issues in order to sign a political solution for South Vietnam's internal affairs, in Paris, or right in Saigon, or in any other country in the world."

Thieu spoke in a recorded broadcast commemorating South Vietnam's National Day today, the anniversary of the overthrow in 1963 of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Informants said both North Vietnam and the United States are trying to stockpile as much war materiel as they can before a cease-fire. While North Vietnam is trying to push supplies south down the Ho Chi Minh Trail and store them in eastern Cambodia, the United States has launched a crash program to furnish South Vietnam all the military equipment it can before a peace agreement curtails American military aid, sources said.

A number of helicopters and transport planes previously scheduled for return to the United States have been given to the South Vietnamese Air Force, and big cargo planes from the United States have stepped up their delivery of armored personnel carriers in the past week, the sources said.

The Saigon command reported more than 100 Communist attacks in South Vietnam for the seventh successive day, with several clashes in the Saigon region.

One hard fight was reported along Highway 1, about 16 miles northwest of Saigon, and the Saigon command claimed 50 enemy were killed and 10 weapons were captured. It reported no government casualties.

The troops there are trying to clear the enemy from the hamlet of Tan Phu Trung, and the fighting has closed the highway. A spokesman said there are now five hamlets in provinces around Saigon that are still held by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

and on base camps in eastern Cambodia.

The B52 effort in Cambodia and Laos cut the number of strikes in South Vietnam to about 40, the lowest since the first stages of the North Vietnamese offensive last April. For the first time in several weeks, there were no B52 strikes in the Saigon region.

The cease-fire agreement worked out in Paris last month by U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese representatives remained unsigned, and sources close to the Paris peace talks said North Vietnam has not responded yet to Kissinger's request for further negotiations.

The North Vietnamese in Paris attacked the Nixon administration for failing to sign the peace agreement Tuesday.

Despite the delay in the agreement between the United States and Hanoi and Thieu's rejection of its major points, preliminary arrangements were being made in foreign capitals for a force of 1,000 officers to supervise the cease-fire. Informed diplomats in Washington said Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland had agreed to provide the men.

Jury To Decide Prison Term For Former State Lawmaker

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The prosecution will ask a nine-woman, three-man jury today to send former Sen. David Ratliff to prison for stealing from the state, and the defense will plead for a probated sentence.

The jury may select any term of years between two and 10, and it can decide to probate that sentence so the 60-year-old Ratliff will not have to go to prison.

The jury took an hour and 35 minutes Tuesday to convict him of theft by false pretext—stealing a state paycheck payable to a woman who testified that she did not know he carried her on his payroll for 20 months.

Dist. Atty. Bob Smith pointed at Ratliff and shouted to the jury in his final argument that the defendant stole more than $10,000 from the state.

Ratliff was charged with stealing only one paycheck since a man cannot be tried on more than one charge at a time. But the prosecutor introduced the other paychecks into evidence for the purpose of showing Ratliff schemed to steal by placing Mrs. Virginia Moser of Abilene on his payroll without her knowledge and then cashing her paychecks.

Mrs. Moser's husband, Sam, a car dealer, testified he received $880 in cash and checks from Ratliff during the time his wife was on the senator's payroll. That money was later returned to the state.

The defendant not only stole from the state as a common thief but he stole in such a way he didn't even have to pay income tax on it," the district attorney said.

He said Moser paid income tax on the money he received, but that Ratliff did not pay tax on the money he allegedly kept.

The defense argued that the one paycheck listed in Ratliff's indictment had no value because the state's general revenue fund was empty at the time the paycheck was issued.

The prosecutor countered by saying, "The defendant thought it had value or he wouldn't have taken it."

He said the defense argument was "an insult to my intelligence."

Ratliff stood with his hands clasped in front of him as the verdict was read. He did not blink or betray any emotion. Then he sat down beside his wife.

Ratliff is the fourth legislator or former legislator to be convicted of a felony this year.

Former Speaker Gus Mutscher and Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth were convicted March 15 in Abilene of conspiracy to accept a bribe. They got 5-year probated sentences. Former Rep. Walter Knapp of Amarillo was convicted May 23 of theft by false pretext and was sentenced to four years in prison.

Two Women, Boy Survive From Fall

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Two women and a 2-year-old boy in an auto plunged five stories from a parking garage and survived without serious injuries.

Police said Tuesday the car jumped a curb, smashed through a concrete retaining wall in the high-rise parking garage of the Hartford Hospital and plummeted five stories onto two unoccupied cars.

They identified the driver of the car as Christina Niland, 20, of North Easton, Mass., and the other two occupants as Grazia Chiaramida, 59, and her grandson, Paul Valdesi, both of Wethersfield, Conn.

Mrs. Chiaramida was admitted to a hospital in good condition. Her grandson and the other woman were treated for minor injuries and released.

Beef Production Expansion Asked By USDA Chief

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Beef production needs to expand by half a million additional beef cattle each year just to keep pace with population growth, Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz told the Texas Cattle Feeders Association convention Tuesday.

"There is no facet of agriculture which looks more favorable down the road than the beef industry," he said. "Your recent performance indicates what you can do—increase beef production by two and one-half times in 20 years."

Butz, who was keynote speaker at the convention which closed Tuesday night, said he expected annual beef consumption to reach 130 pounds per person by 1980.

The mean temperature in West Virginia is 55.6, ranging from January's average of 36.6 degrees to an average 74.9 degrees in July.

Canada's Election Deadlocked

OTTAWA (AP) — Whether Pierre Elliott Trudeau or Robert Stanfield will be Canada's next prime minister remained in doubt today as political leaders and their advisers pondered the tightest general election battle in the nation's history.

Complete returns from Monday's vote gave Stanfield's Conservatives a one-seat edge — 109 to 108 — over Trudeau's Liberals in the new House of Commons. But the Conservatives were 25 seats short of a majority, and recounts in half a dozen close races could change the result.

It appeared unlikely that Prime Minister Trudeau would decide whether to relinquish the government reins he has held since 1968 until the recounts are completed.

The balance of power now lies with the socialistic New Democratic party, which won 30 seats. The Social Credit Party elected 15 members, all from Quebec, and two independents also won, completing the total of 284 members.

Trudeau was meeting with his Cabinet today to discuss the election outcome.

The prime minister could resign and let Stanfield form a minority government, or he could face Parliament and risk defeat by the combined opposition.

Most constitutional experts say Trudeau should face Parliament before resigning, but there are precedents for both courses of action.

Stanfield made clear that he is ready to assume power.

Liberals leaders offered a variety of reasons to explain their party's decline from 147 seats in the outgoing House to 108 and the Conservatives' comeback from 73 to 109.

Here's Explanation Of Election Voting Procedure

By RAY BAXTER

At the polls Nov. 7, red tape bids fair to become a yellow blanket for that is the color and about the size ballots have taken. Because of this, certain liberties have been taken with reproduction of the sample ballot, so...

Read carefully!

FIVE columns have been reproduced; there will be SIX on the official ballot. The sixth column occupying the extreme right side of the sheet was a blank column headed "write-in."

Voters desiring to write-in preferred candidates should ask the election judge at the polling place for explicit instructions. To do less than the officials' instructions direct--or more--could invalidate that voters ballot causing the election officials to throw it out.

Also, in this reproduction, the 14 amendments contained at the bottom of the official ballot are missing here because they were printed in an earlier edition with an explanatory story of the changes proposed.

In all but Precinct 3 ballots, the final two lines of candidates before going to the amendments are devoted to candidates concerned in those particular precincts. In Precinct 3, there is only one candidate.

These are printed lower left under separate designations. These will be at the bottom of the ballot just preceding the proposed amendments.

blank column to the extreme right. Then, just under the name of the candidate for Gray County School Superintendent, place your precinct candidate or candidates.

All that remains is to picture the 14 amendments across the bottom and the voter should be able to either comprehend the ballot completely or be able to plan specific questions for election officials when the official ballot is handed out.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the necessity for accurate marking of the official ballot, according to official instructions to avoid disqualification.

Remember: the election judge is the final word.

GENERAL ELECTION

Gray County, Texas

November 7, 1972

INSTRUCTION NOTE:

Vote for the candidate of your choice in each race by placing an X in the square beside the candidate's name.

You may vote a straight ticket (that is, vote for all the candidates of a certain party, and for no candidates outside that party's column) by placing an X in the square beside the name of the party of your choice at the head of the party column. (If you use this straight-ticket method of marking, do not mark squares beside the names of individual candidates.)

PLANNING HOLIDAY BASKETS—Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets are being prepared by members of the Welfare Index, an organization set-up to coordinate baskets to those in need. Ted Gikas, center, president, urges church, club organizations and ladies clubs, along with Georgie Mack, left, and Marie Boyd, to work with the Index on these projects. Last year, the organization gave 57 Thanksgiving and 107 Christmas baskets. She Takes Mystique Out Of Cooking For Students

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Anna Muffoletto, a petite, attractive brunette of Sicilian extraction, has been unraveling the mysteries of European and Asian cooking for fellow New Yorkers over the past decade.

"I believe in taking the mystique out of the kitchen and making people understand what they are cooking," said Miss Muffoletto, who formerly taught home economics at Hunter College and now runs her own cooking school, the Cordon Bleu of Gourmet Gallery, on New York's upper east side.

"After all, it is not as complicated as some of these experts try to make it sound," she went on. "In fact I can teach some of the most complicated recipes to a child."

Miss Muffoletto likes to have her students get the feel and flavor of foreign cookery first hand.

"This fall," she said, "I will take my classes on tours of Middle East spice shops, let them browse through Italian noodle and sausage factories and visit Greek bakeries and Japanese grocery stores. We will also poke our noses into the cooking pots of a Greek taverna and an Italian trattoria."

Miss Muffoletto also believes there is a good deal of snobbery about the superiority of foreign wines, fine as they may be.

"I use a lot of domestic wine for both cooking and drinking," she said, "and I have found the wines of America are shaping up very well with their foreign cousins. They may not be on a par with the great imports, but they are good table wines, perfectly suited to every day dining."

Our friend also is a firm believer in the theory that you should use the same wines for cooking that you do for drinking.

"There is no sense in spoiling a good dish by seasoning it with an inferior wine," she said.

Miss Muffoletto decided back in 1960 that it was time she paid a visit to the land of her Sicilian forbears.

"My first visit was just 72 years after my grandparents had left for America," she recalled. "I went to the community of Cefalu where they were born and walked along the narrow streets, inhaling the fragrance of the olive and orange trees."

Miss Muffoletto said Sicilian cooking differed considerably from the cuisine of Italy.

"It is influenced by Greek and Arab cuisines," she said, "as well as those of Italy, France and Spain. And it is not coarse or heavy as some foreigners imagine."

Pork has long been a mainstay on Sicilian dinner tables and it is fixed in many ways. Here is a recipe Miss Muffoletto brought back with her.

PORK CUTLETS IN MARSALA WINE

1 1/2 pounds pork cutlets 1/8 inch thick

Flour
salt and black pepper
1/3 cup chopped salt pork
2 cloves garlic, cut in half
1 cup dry Marsala wine
8 slices prosciutto (Italian ham)

Pound cutlets thin with meat mallet. Dredge in flour mixed with salt and pepper. Fry salt pork in skillet with garlic five minutes. Add cutlets and fry five minutes on each side. Discard excess grease. Stir in wine and simmer 10 minutes. Cover each cutlet with 1 slice ham, cover and simmer 5 minutes more. Discard garlic. Arrange meat on platter and pour sauce down center of meat. Serves 4 to 6. Good with a Sicilian white wine, such as Val di Lupo.

El Progreso Club Tours Aviation Agency In Amarillo

El Progreso Club, with Mrs. Glenn Dawkins acting hostess, toured two Federal Aviation Agency facilities at the Amarillo Airport and had lunch in the Palo Duro Room of the Terminal Building for its regular club meeting recently.

An orientation session and conducted tour of the Federal Aviation Agency Traffic Control Center impressed members with the vast amount of time, energy, and concern spent to insure the maximum safety in aircraft transportation for both pilot and passenger.

The F.A.A. is an air service function under the United States Department of Transportation. At the Control Center members were briefed on the nature of "highways in the skies", the contrast radar and radio contact of pilots of all types of aircraft, the large amount of traffic of all types handled in Amarillo, and the qualifications and requirements for personnel. All new employees must be under the age of 33 years, pass rigid health, psychological, and aptitude tests, and complete a two year on-the-job training period satisfactorily. College is not required, however, within a short time after completing the training period, an employee can receive salaries equivalent or greater than many offered college graduates. It was thus pointed out that F.A.A. offers excellent fields of job opportunities for young people, men or women, who have a basic interest in aviation.

Members were taken through the radar room to observe the actual movement and direction of airplanes in flight and the interrelationship between the radar room and the actual control tower. Then they continued to the top of the control tower, which is equivalent to the height of a ten story building. There they observed the procedure required in clearing planes for landing, ground taxiing, take-offs, and in the air flights in the air space above the field and for a radius of sixty miles.

The second installation toured, with orientation and actual observation and explanation of work in progress, was the F.A.A. Flight Service Station. This is housed in a new building provided by the City of Amarillo. Here pilots have all the facilities at hand, such as maps, air miles, terrain, weather bulletins and forecasts, to plan and file a flight plan for any air trip. Due to the large number of planes flying in and out of Pampa, there are two toll-free lines into the facility from Pampa. The very latest equipment is used, and new equipment installed as rapidly as it becomes available, to insure the maximum safety in air transportation. A graphic explanation of the method used in tracing "missing" aircraft was given since, at the time of the visit, an airplane was some 45 minutes overdue at its destination in Burlington, Iowa, which had filed a flight plan in Amarillo.

El Progreso members were impressed with the type of men filling these places under Civil Service in the Federal Aviation Agency. Each displayed great pride in his work, evidence of being highly trained technicians, and a sincere desire to achieve perfection in a task that truly requires perfection in achieving maximum safety in handling the lives of people while in the air. Each sensed that here, indeed, was a facility of the Federal Government dedicated service for the people governed.

Tuesday, Oct. 31, the El Progreso Club will entertain members of other organizations in Pampa at a tea in the White Deer Land Museum from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. as a part of its celebration of its Fiftieth Anniversary as a Federated Club in Pampa. El Progreso was the first Federated Club in the city.

Floor Pillows Evolve Into Fashion Furniture

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It was inevitable that the floor-sitting pillow set would find new ways to be comfortable. Ideas have run the gamut for those who have tried to devise furniture that would hug the floor. For example, old-fashioned bolsters found in an attic were propped against the walls with gargantuan pillows on the floor to provide one girl with "upholstered magic carpets" as she calls them. Two or three bolsters provide a good back rest, she has found. Now there are patterns available for making sofas, chairs and beds that take the guesswork out of the idea. It is a stitch, stuff, assemble project. Tubular shaped units assembled with stuffed squares or other shapes help tubes become seating or sleeping units. A muslin pattern is stitched and stuffed and the fashion fabric is zippered over it and easily removed for cleaning.

Imagination can run riot in choosing fabrics. Stripes and printed canvas, corduroys and plushy fake furs are suggested. More ambitious types might like to try their hands at patchwork over muslin. Belling or bands of trim are suggested to keep tubes firm and provide decorative accents.

Stitch 'n Stuff furniture from patterns (Butterick) is expected to be big news on campuses and in children's rooms. It should also provide ideas for the pre-teen set, a young girl's first apartment, and people furnishing second homes on a budget.

The cost of such a project depends on the fabric and filler used. It may vary from store to store. One chair made of sailcloth with stuffing of chopped foam was made for approximately $40. This might be kept in mind as a gauge if one plans to pursue the idea.

Fall Fragrances

Fall fragrances are reminiscent of the woody outdoors. If you haven't tried some of the new perfumes, pick up on one of the exciting flower scents such as hyacinth or honeysuckle.

SEW YOUR OWN—Sew up a room with make-it-yourself furniture patterns, versatile and durable and made in fabric, color and trim the home decorator chooses.

"Leveling" with Labeling

In cooperation with national meat and food industry organizations, more and more meat retailers throughout the country are adopting uniform meat identification labeling programs. Designed to provide meaningful specific information for consumers, the voluntary meat industry program identifies each cut as to type of meat (beef, pork, veal, lamb), the primal cut from which it comes, (chuck, loin, round, etc.) and the retail name of the cut (pot-roast, steak, chop, etc.) plus recommended cooking methods. Example: "Beef Chuck Pot-Roast (Braise)." In addition, carcass identification charts for each type of meat would be on display showing where each primal and retail cut is located.

Slips for Pants

Anti-cling slips were a blessing to prevent body-hugging fashions from riding up or clinging. Now these taffeta-like slips are made for pants. Sheer palazzo pants won't cling where they're not supposed to and women who can't stand wool next to their bodies will be relieved.

As a dressing for sliced cucumbers, use only olive oil and salt. No vinegar!

Dear Abby

Married, but wants to find new partner

By Abigail Van Buren

(c. 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My best friend, a 40-year-old divorcee with two children, joined Parents Without Partners last year. She met a swell man there [a widower with three children] and they are being married soon, and I am so envious I am ashamed of myself.

I would love to join Parents Without Partners and meet a nice gentleman with a family who wants to meet a nice lady with children.

I am 42 and have three wonderful sons who need a father. The problem is I am still married. My husband is never home and I am tired of being both mother and father. If I could find a man who really wanted to stay home and be a family man I would leave the one I'm married to so fast he wouldn't know what hit him.

I wonder if anyone has ever joined that club just to look over the prospects? PARENT WITH NO PARTNER

DEAR PARENT: Sorry, but you don't qualify for membership in Parents Without Partners, because technically you HAVE a partner. I suggest you get some counseling to improve your marital relationship, and get that silent partner of yours to sing a more cooperative tune. Widows and divorcees have enough competition without married women who would like a change.

DEAR ABBY: I am 79, and I am NOT senile, but something has puzzled me since my teens. I was secretary to a psychiatrist for many years, but could never pick up the courage to ask him about my problem, if you can call it a problem. [Unfortunately, he is dead now.]

I can "see" things that are not there. For instance, I glance down on the floor, and in the figured linoleum pattern I can actually "see" an animal, bird, or the profile of a person! At times I can look again and see the same image, and at other times, no matter how hard I try to see that image again, I can't.

These are not just crazy lines all over the linoleum, yet at a glance they go together to form a distinct image. I can do this with numerous things. I "see" images in trees, whose leaves are swaying in the breeze, in clouds, and in some hodge-podge modern paintings. And if I look a moment later, the images I clearly saw are gone forever.

Can you explain this? STILL PUZZLED IN P.A. DEAR PUZZLED: The images are conjured up by your imagination, and I dare say there is not a person alive who has not had the same experience, so don't let it bother you.

DEAR ABBY: Newton and I have been married for a year. His first wife died after 22 years, and from what he tells me, theirs must have been a perfect marriage. This is my second time around, too. Only I was divorced and my marriage was miserable.

Newton moved into my house after we married and the first thing he did was to set up no less than a dozen pictures of his first wife. He hung an enormous one over the fireplace in the living room and started burning an "eternal torch" under it. [He said if Jackie Kennedy could do it, so could he.]

I made him take the torch away. He also started burning jasmine incense all over the house because that was "her" favorite fragrance. I developed an allergy to it, so now he burns it only in the den, and sits in there smelling jasmine every chance he gets.

The last straw was when he started going to the cemetery every morning to visit her grave. It's 26 miles out of the way to his job, so I have to get up at 5:30 a. m. to prepare his breakfast. Also, he uses my gas card to fill his tank.

My friends say I am crazy to put up with this oddball, and they ask me what I need him for. So now I'm asking you.

DEAR FED: I'd have to vote with your friends. And when you figure out what you need him for, please let me know.

Betty Canary

We took the children out to eat last night. Yes, I know why. Because I'd forgotten how awful it is, that's why.

The trip to the restaurant is always one of gay companionship progressing to horror.

"Seatbelts fastened?" we laugh. "Stop singing that song, dear, while your sister is telling us what happened in gymnastics class." "Of course I'm under the speed limit!" "Please don't read any more signs." "No, it's your turn. Sing." "I SAID, stop reading those signs!"

Once inside the restaurant we remind the children about good manners. I tell my son to take off his coat. His sister tells me he forgot to put on his shirt.

The older children ignore us. They eat rapidly and silently, their eyes fixed on the sugarbowl. They obviously believe that if they don't look up, nobody will recognize them. Or, if they are recognized, they will be pitied for somehow being placed at the same table with a group of weird strangers.

We make it through to dessert. I am not crying. Yet. My husband waves grandly to the waitress who is seen openly quarreling with the manager. I am sure they draw straws when we eat here and this girl is a sore loser.

She arrives at our table in time to referee our order.

"I want the chocolate pie-but I ate too much so I'll have it to go."

"This stuff on the menu is glock. Let's stop on the way home and get ice cream."

"My face doesn't break out so I'll have the butter-scotch surprise-With marshmallow."

"Her dinner cost more than mine so why can't I have two desserts?"

"Well, if he eats more, I'm not sitting next to him in the car because you know how he gets carsick."

By Oswald & James Jacoby

About a hundred years ago a writer named James Clay proposed a double dummy whist problem with the statement that the most celebrated player in Vienna looked at it and instantly said, "South makes all the tricks."

It turned out to be surprisingly difficult for the whist players of that day and the key play in the hand has since been called the "Vienna coup." The Vienna coup consists of setting up a trick for an opponent and then squeezing him out of it.

There was no bidding at whist, so we have changed the cards slightly and proceeded to misbid the hand all the way up to seven no-trump.

The term "double dummy" means that all four hands are exposed and everyone takes full advantage of this.

South wins the heart lead in dummy and runs off four clubs, while discarding a spade from dummy. West discards a diamond on the third club; his best discard on the fourth one is a heart.

Now comes the Vienna coup. South must cash his ace of spades! Next comes the parade of the rest of dummy's hearts. South winds up with the ace-queen and a small diamond and West must either unguard his jack of diamonds or discard the king of spades.

Either way the grand slam wheels in because East started with just king and one diamond.

What do you do now?

A—Pass. If your partner is the sort who might hold seven hearts to the king-queen and bid the way he has, then bid five hearts.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding three hearts, your partner has bid three clubs over your two spades and four diamonds after you rebid to three spades. What do you do now?

Arts, Antiques Show Scheduled In Spearman

The third annual Hansford County Arts, Crafts and Antiques Show will be held Nov. 4-5. The show will be staged in the Hansford Library building at Spearman.

Artist, craftsmen and antique collectors from the panhandle are invited to have exhibits and displays at the show.

There will be no admission charge, but a silver offering plate will be available for donations.

Anyone wishing to enter an exhibit at the show, is asked to contact the club president, Mrs. John Bishop, Spearman, Texas.

Whipped Shadow

New whipped eye shadows, which come in bright but soft translucent colors, have an advantage over powdered shadow. The creme shadow doesn't crease or cake up. It's much better for drier complexions or for women with lots of wrinkles around the eyes.

Toast to Football

French toast with a difference—the NFL Training Table Foods way—can make a real difference at breakfast. It's kitchen-tested.

TOUCHDOWN TOAST

- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1½ Tbsps. sugar
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. ground cinnamon
- ¼ tsp. ground nutmeg
- 8 slices of bread, crusts removed
- 2 cups Wheaties, crushed with a rolling pin
- 2 ripe Chiquita bananas

Beat eggs slightly; add milk, sugar, salt and spices. Mix thoroughly. Cut bread in half diagonally. Dip in egg-milk mixture and in Wheaties, coating both sides with crumbs. Cover the bottom of a skillet with oil and fry the bread pieces on both sides until brown. Drain on a paper towel and keep warm in oven until all are cooked. Add more oil as needed. Slice bananas and put between two, diagonal, cooked bread pieces to make a sandwich. Serve hot with syrup. Makes 8 servings.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

Thursday, Nov. 2
Your birthday today: You learn prudence this year. Today's natives have a faculty for showmanship, sometimes present precisely the reverse of their true qualities.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: From a stiff, standing start you come out rather well by day's end. Persistence pays double dividends.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Seek teamwork rather than stardom. Nearly every detail you had thought settled is subject to revision.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: It is all too easy to get into rash statements, hasty actions in today's turbulent emotional tides.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Cater to your spontaneous urge toward humorous situations. Rushing into important deals isn't the proper spirit—pause for better information.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: The question is not so much of attraction, but more of what and whom. Selective choices are crucially important.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Everybody you know is in on the act. Check out both sides of every story as you get the chance, mainly by just listening.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: There's room for maneuver, yet, you needn't try forcing issues. Close friends are helpful but very sensitive.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: For once you've drifted into more commitments than you can comfortably cover. Set priorities, make choices very early.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: More experienced people are here and there waiting to be asked to help you on almost any project.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Today's routine is later seen to be a significant achievement in future perspectives. Express yourself, make your presence known.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Technical questions find direct, possibly drastic answers. Seek the best or final authority.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Practical moves dominate, mostly, developed on the spot as the situation evolves. Give everybody plenty of time to say and do.

What Do 2 Presidential Candidates Say About Issues Facing Nation?

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon and Sen. George McGovern have described next Tuesday's election as the most important one of the century. Here are the stated views of the Republican and Democratic nominees on some of the major campaign issues:

VIETNAM

Nixon: "We have gone the extra mile, in fact tens of thousands of miles, to seek peace on the negotiating front. We have offered a cease fire, a total withdrawal of all American forces, an exchange of all prisoners of war; internationally supervised free elections with participation by the Communists both in the elections and in their supervision."—Acceptance speech, Miami Beach, Aug. 23, 1972.

"If we can make the right kind of settlement before the election we will make it. If we cannot, we are not going to make the wrong kind of a settlement before the election. The election, I repeat, will not in any way influence what we do at the negotiating table."—News conference, Oct. 5, 1972.

McGovern: "If Mr. Nixon can end this war on the night before the election I'll rejoice along with all other Americans no matter the political impact."—ABC television interview, Oct. 22, 1972.

"I submit to you that for the last few weeks Mr. Kissinger and Mr. Nixon have literally been begging for a settlement of the war, and I'm glad they have."—New England regional telecast, Oct. 29, 1972.

"I think the aerial bombardment of Southeast Asia by Richard Nixon is the most evil thing ever done by an American president."

"I think that the ending of the war in the closing hours of the campaign will not be a political plus for Mr. Nixon in that it leaves unanswered the question of why that couldn't have been done four years ago."—Interview with The Associated Press, Oct. 27, 1972.

WATERGATE CORRUPTION

McGovern: "A president who will send his agents over to wiretap the Democratic National Committee, a president who will send saboteurs inside the Democratic ranks to try to sabotage another major political party, that is the kind of man who won't hesitate to wiretap your union hall ... or even your home."—Speech at Philadelphia, Oct. 19, 1972.

"The men who have collected millions in secret money, who have passed out special favors, who have ordered political sabotage, who have invaded our offices in the dead of night—all these men work for Mr. Nixon. Most of them he hired himself. And their power comes from him alone."

"He has refused to answer questions from either the press or the people. He stays hidden in the White House, hoping you will mistake silence for innocence."—Nationwide television speech from Detroit, Oct. 25, 1972.

"The chain of scandal and corruption runs to the very heart of Mr. Nixon's White House."—Cleveland rally, Oct. 25, 1972.

This last remark was a comment on a story in The Washington Post saying that H.R. Haldeman, top aide to Nixon, had a hand in dispensing money from a secret fund to sabotage Democratic campaign activities.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler denied it vigorously. "This is a vicious abuse of the journalistic process," he said. "It is political and ... a blatant effort at character assassination."

Nixon generally has declined to comment on the Watergate bugging, on the ground that the matter was under investigation or in the courts.

Nixon: "This kind of activity, as Mr. Ziegler has indicated, has no place whatever in our electoral process ... The White House has had no involvement whatever in this particular (Watergate) incident."—News conference, June 22, 1972.

"I conducted the investigation of the Hiss case ... It was successful. The FBI did a magnificent job, but that investigation, involving the security of this country, was basically a Sunday school exercise compared to the amount of effort that was put into this ..."

"I wanted every lead carried out to the end because I wanted to be sure that no member of the White House staff and no man or woman in a position of major responsibility in the Committee for Re-Election had anything to do with this kind of reprehensible activity."—News conference, Oct. 5, 1972.

"I have noted that this administration has been charged with being the most corrupt in history, and I have been charged with being the most deceitful president in history ... I am not going to dignify such comments ... I think the responsible members of the Democratic party will be turned off by this kind of campaigning."—News conference, Oct. 5, 1972.

MILITARY SPENDING

McGovern proposes cuts in defense spending by reducing total U.S. troop strength from 2.4 million to 1.7 million. He would slow development of some new weapons and scrap many aging ones, while strengthening the submarine fleet and modernizing the present bomber force as an alternative to an expensive new bomber.

He projects his defense budget would be $54.8 billion in fiscal year 1975, and says Nixon's would grow to about $100 billion. The Defense Department disputes both figures. Military spending this fiscal year is about $77 billion.

McGovern: "I will not run the Defense Department as a welfare agency for fat-cat defense contractors ... I'll create and maintain a force of nuclear missiles and bombers stronger than those we have today and many times stronger than we need to level any nation in the world ... But the Nixon administration is spending more than $25 billion per year beyond this requirement."—Position paper, Sept. 8, 1972.

"Currently military spending wastes literally billions of dollars on planes that do not fly, on missiles that do not work; and we have more top brass today to command 2½ million men than we had to command 12 million men at the end of World War II."—Wall Street speech, Aug. 29, 1972.

Nixon: "I have never gambled—and I never will gamble—with the safety of the American people under the false banner of economy."—Chicago speech, Aug. 23, 1972.

"Our opponents have proposed massive new cuts in military spending—cuts which would drastically slash away not just the fat but the muscle of our defense ..."

"The day the United States becomes the second-strongest nation in the world, peace and freedom will be in deadly jeopardy everywhere."—Radio speech, Oct. 29, 1972.

Taxes

Nixon: "I oppose any new spending program which would add to the tax burden of American wage earners."—Acceptance speech, Miami Beach, Aug. 23, 1972.

"We have made no decision with regard to a value-added tax."—News conference, Feb. 10, 1972.

"I strongly favor not only the present depreciation rate but going further than that, so we can get our plants and equipment more effective ... rather than moving in the direction of reducing the oil-depletion allowance, let us look at the fact that all the evidence now shows that we are going to have a major energy crisis in this country in the '80s."—Impromptu remarks in question session with guests at the Texas ranch of John B. Connally, April 30, 1972.

McGovern: "There's something wrong about a tax system that allows a $100,000-a-year corporate executive to deduct his $20 martini lunch while the workingman can't even deduct the cost of bologna sandwich."—Off-repeated campaign statement.

"As president I would seek a fair tax reform to raise approximately $22 billion by 1975."—Campaign statement, Sept. 8, 1972.

"I strongly believe that Mr. Nixon will call for higher taxes in the form of a national sales tax ... To take the sting out of it, it will probably be called a value-added tax."—Wall Street speech, Aug. 29, 1972.

Busing

Nixon: "In March I proposed to Congress two bills to stop excessive busing. I proposed these bills because education, not transportation, is the name of the game. Busing forced by a court to achieve an arbitrary racial balance is wrong."—Detroit speech, Aug. 24, 1972.

McGovern: "With the exception of his failure to end the war, there is no darker chapter in the presidency of Richard Nixon than his exploitation of the emotion surrounding busing."—Detroit speech, Sept. 22, 1972.

Jobs

Labor Department figures show 3.3 per cent of the work force was jobless when Nixon took office in January 1969. The unemployment rate subsequently climbed to around 6 per cent and stayed there for 18 months despite a rise in the total number of jobs. Recently it began to decline; the latest figure is 5.5 per cent.

Nixon: "More Americans have jobs now than ever before, 2½ million more than a year ago, with jobs being created at the fastest rate in 20 years."—Labor Day speech, Sept. 3, 1972.

McGovern: "I will take whatever steps are necessary to guarantee a job opportunity to every man and woman in America who is able to work ..."

"I have previously urged a $10-billion federal investment in new jobs through government contracts with private industry. Our highest economic priority is the lowest possible unemployment."—Wall Street speech, Aug. 29, 1972.

Welfare Reform

Nixon: "My program ... would place a floor beneath the income of all American families not able to adequately support themselves. Its payments would vary, according to family size and resources, from a minimum of $1,600 to a maximum of $3,600. The basic benefit for a family of four with no other income would be $2,400."—Message to Congress, March 27, 1972.

McGovern: "The best answer to welfare is work ... Within the next three years, by guaranteeing jobs I think we can reach the point where 3½ million Americans are living on the earnings of breadwinners rather than living on welfare."

"We should expand Social Security to cover 3 million people who otherwise would be on welfare ... We should assist as generously as we can the 12 million people, largely dependent children and mothers, outside Social Security, who are not able to work ... We should be able to set an annual minimum of approximately $4,000 in cash and food stamps for a family of four with no other income who are unable to work."—Wall Street, New York, Aug. 29, 1972.

With this speech McGovern abandoned an earlier proposal to give $1,000 a year in taxable grants to every American.

Abortion

Nixon: "From personal and religious beliefs, I consider abortion an unacceptable form of population control. Further, unrestricted abortion policies, or abortion on demand, I cannot square with my personal belief in the sanctity of human life. For surely the unborn have rights also ..."

McGovern: "They say that I am advocating federal action to set aside all restrictions on abortion. That is a lie and my critics know it is a lie. The states have sole jurisdiction over abortion."—Speech, Fremont, Neb., May 6, 1972.

"I do not believe in abortion on demand. But I do believe that each person should be free to decide what personal course to take ... in keeping with state laws."—Issue paper, Sept. 8, 1972.

Marijuana

Nixon: "I am against legalizing marijuana ... With respect to the penalties on marijuana, that is a matter which I do think is open to a national recommendation with regard to more uniform standards. In some states they are extremely strict; and in other states they are quite lax. I believe that a penalty in some instances can have a detrimental effect on achieving our goal."—News conference, May 1, 1972.

Nixon later rejected recommendations of the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse. It unanimously urged an end to criminal penalties for smoking marijuana, but not for growing or selling it.

McGovern: "A more-promising route than present laws might be to regulate marijuana along the same lines as alcohol, while continuing and expanding educational programs aimed at discouraging its use."—Congressional record, Feb. 15, 1972, later modified.

"I am opposed to the legalization of marijuana. I support the recommendations of President Nixon's Commission on Marijuana. That is, private possession and use of marijuana should be made a misdemeanor not involving a jail sentence."

CONGRESSMAN GRAHAM PURCELL

As Chairman of the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Livestock and Grains, Congressman Purcell attended 97 per cent of the meetings on this vital panel during the 92nd Congress (1971-72) and 92 per cent of the meetings during the 91st Congress (1969-70).

By contrast, Bob Price, a minority member of this subcommittee, attended only 76 per cent of its meetings in the 92nd Congress and an appalling 55 per cent in the 91st Congress.

BUT IF YOU THINK THAT'S BAD...

Consider Price's attendance record on his other committee, Science and Astronautics. Here he managed to show up for only 36 out of 85 meetings—a performance so miserable that Chairman Olin Teague took the virtually unheard-of step of chastising Price by printing his whole sorry attendance breakdown in the Congressional Record!

I submit the Congress ought to stop trying to buy votes with public funds; the time has come to face up to our responsibilities to not just a few special constituents or interests, but to all Americans, of both present and future generations, and to restore integrity and balance to our national budget.

Price's use of congressional free mailing privileges (since he announced for re-election) is authoritatively estimated at more than $165,000. In 1971 alone Price put more than 42 pages of his own speeches in the Congressional Record at a cost to taxpayers of $140 per page.

San Antonio Still Number One

By Associated Press
The big guns held control in The Associated Press schoolboy football poll this week but some new faces are starting to make noises.

San Antonio Lee, Uvalde, Childress, Sor and Rule retained their No. 1 rankings again.

Some of the newcomers are starting to move up in Class 4A, however.

Unbeaten Longview and unbeaten Port Arthur Lincoln, which first appeared as ninth and 10th last week, moved up to sixth and eighth, respectively.

Abilene Cooper, ranked sixth last week, dropped from the list after suffering its second loss, a 27-0 shutout from No. 2 ranked Odessa Permian in a district battle. Wichita Falls dropped from fifth to ninth after it was tied 15-15 by Mineral Wells.

Baytown Sterling, 6-1, made its first appearance, replacing Abilene Cooper.

Uvalde is the kingpin again in Class 3A, with the next seven teams remaining the same as a week ago. Ninth ranked Kilgore lost last week and was replaced by McKinney.

The top six teams remained unchanged in Class 2A, with Devine edging ahead of Needville from eighth to seventh. Hondo and Clifton, rated ninth and 10th last week, were beaten and have been replaced by Floydada and Rosebud-Lott.

Sonora held the tightest grip of any of the leaders with a strong margin over Schulenburg in Class 1A.

Stepin Fetchit's Woes

One of the most tragic results of racism as a political issue is the dehumanizing effect it has upon individuals.

A story out of Indianapolis is a case in point.

Lincoln Theodore Perry is now 70 years old. He brought a law suit against Columbia Broadcasting System, Xerox, 20th Century Fox and the Indiana Broadcasting Co. Seeking $3 million in damages because of a film which depicted him as a discredited to his race.

Who is Lincoln Theodore Perry?

In Hollywood of the 1930's, Perry was Stepin Fetchit, a black comedian with whom American moviegoers laughed through so many films when movies were strictly for entertainment.

But the freedom of America has allowed the black man to advance in economic and social status by tremendous strides since the 1930's, and the black people of show business today do not think kindly of the "image" of Stepin Fetchit. They seem to feel he was a discredited to his race.

This is the fallacy of groupism.

Certainly Mr. Perry's portrayal of a slow talking, slow moving "darker" was not a picture of the black man in the 1930's. His role was merely one man, doing what he could do well and bringing a measure of happiness to people who wanted to laugh a bit.

But elements of the black community are sensitive about such portrayals in light of the new status they have rightly earned in America's society.

So the "documentary" presented about Mr. Perry presented him in unkindly terms, with the attacks coming from a present day comedian, the talented Bill Cosby.

Mr. Perry feels he has been damaged by the show and asked the court in Indianapolis for redress. The judge in the U.S. District Court issued a summary judgment blocking the suit.

"In a single hour, all the years of my life, all the warm emotions that I was able to convey, all understanding I was able to teach, all the compassion I was able to generate in the hearts of millions of people, both black and white in most of the free nations of the world was destroyed, as was my private life." That was part of Mr. Perry's comment after he lost his court plea.

"All my money and all my resources are gone. It was the public who made me a star. Now I am asking the same public, not a judge, nor CBS nor Xerox, but a jury selected from the public to judge me," Perry said.

Cosby in his comment during the film, said Fetchit was "the whitest man in the Negro, the traditional lazy, stupid craps shooter, chicken-stealing idiot." We doubt that Mr. Cosby really believes that. Certainly there are individuals across the land who held blacks in low esteem in the 1930's and some do so today. The bigot has always been around.

But to criticize Stepin Fetchit for his portrayals of the 30's seems an improper approach at trying to eliminate bigotry. He should be considered an individual doing his bit in a way only he could do it, not as a symbol of his race.

Neither should Sidney Poitier whose roles show him as a black superhero be considered as a symbol of his race today.

We all are individuals. There are all shades of competence in all races, and the only path to understanding is to reject any attempt to evaluate people by groups.

A person is one.

A New 'Growth Industry'

Never underestimate the adaptability of the free enterprise system.

With criminal offenses soaring, the business of fighting crime has become a "growth industry," according to the financial publication Business Week Letter.

Criminal offenses jumped 176 per cent in the 1960s, with violent crimes rising by 156 per cent and crimes against property a stunning 180 per cent.

"But the market for crime prevention services is growing even faster," says editor Jane Quinn, and businessmen are cashing in on it.

There is now a widespread market for various guard services to protect commercial property, a sophisticated business market for centrally monitored electronic surveillance systems and a sprouting residential market for home protection devices.

Never rise to speak until you have something to say; and when you have said it, cease.—John Witherspoon, American clergyman and educator.

Ted Kennedy Campaigning Hard... '76?

By BRUCE BOSSAT
CAMPAIGNING WITH KENNEDY (NEA)—It was icy weather when Ted Kennedy reached the tiny Sanford, Me., airport to fly to Vermont. Some 1,500 people and a bare-legged girls' band were there.

Surprised at the turnout from a town of 10,000, the senator said he supposed many had missed their supper. He talked briefly, thanked them for coming out, then stepped down to shake some hands.

Aboard his small plane, he said he was sorry he could greet so few. He waved at them through the window. Then he shook his head and said to an aide: "We're too tight (on the schedule). We should have seen more of those good people."

Forty minutes later, he landed at Burlington, Vt., to find that another sizable airport crowd had been waiting two hours in 30-degree cold to greet him. Again, he rewarded them with a short talk.

Wherever he went in a two-day swing aimed at helping Democratic candidates, Kennedy was the focus. Big "Welcome Ted" signs abounded. Often his name was linked with the congressional or other contenders he was boosting. He got huge hands.

He was in friendly New England, home territory, yes, but he made out as well on a recent western trip.

In Pawtucket, R.I., his ovation was so big it was embarrassing. Ted quickly started a "We Want Ted" chant for the incumbent senator he had come to plug.

What's this all about? Is Kennedy preparing for 1976 in expectation of Sen. George McGovern's defeat?

His record suggests he'd be doing this stuff no matter what. He's always in huge demand, has almost always responded to calls for aid, and likes to help. Weeks ago, he promised to give nearly all of the last two campaign weeks to McGovern's uphill campaign.

But 1976 is never far from his thoughts. Add a McGovern defeat to the earlier chaos of the Democrats' nomination struggle, and you have a field strewn with scarred and broken bodies. Kennedy, a dominant figure, may loom then almost alone on the 1976 horizon.

You can easily make much of this if you wish. Kennedy not only works the game for all its fun, but goes at it with tireless professionalism. His staff is highly efficient. He mentions the name of helpful young man in Maine and it is promptly noted for future use.

He constantly adds new political helpers, but the old ones, some going back to John Kennedy's time, hang in loyally. The Kennedy aura remains bright. Ted keeps it to himself, but candidates, friends and voters would sustain it even if he did not.

Mayor John Buckley of Lawrence, Mass., says "It's a joyful day when a Kennedy comes to visit us." A Boston woman touches him and says: "Good Luck to you—and your family." Some observers think it's all a bit much, but it is probably inevitable.

Kennedy's fun-making has its serious core. It's no accident that some of his handclaps are audible. He's working.

It's not altogether trivial when he tells a Framingham, Mass., crowd: "We've had a nice stop-over at Paul's bakery. We picked up two eclairs and some glazed doughnuts." He's in league with people, easily and naturally.

But it can't be forgotten that he's also now a 10-year veteran of the Senate, still hard-plugging, well-schooled on many issues, a quick study on others, able to spout facts and figures convincingly—usually without the tinge of party propaganda. And he gets charged up.

The Ted Kennedy of today still carries handicaps and burdens—the lingering if fading memory of Chappaquiddick, the threats to his life, the Kennedy unpopularity in the South. These things will all get heavy attention if he becomes the big one after Nov. 7.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

After being renominated for President, Abraham Lincoln quipped: "I do not allow myself to suppose that either the convention or the League have concluded to decide that I am either the greatest or best man in America, but rather they have concluded that it is not best to swap horses while crossing the river, and have further concluded that I am not so poor a horse that they might not make a botch of it trying to swap."

Commissioner Murphy has done a good job in New York with a situation that was almost out of hand. His frank estimate of the crime problem we face nationally should be appreciated and his words of wisdom absorbed. Let local, state and county law enforcement agencies cooperate more closely for maximum results. We can still whip the problem of crime.

Party Of The Third Part On Ballot In 30 States

By PAUL HARVEY

There is a third party in this presidential race and it is capturing some spotlight. He insisted that the Wallace shooting was a "conspiracy involving others."

My phone rang. A man of means whose name you'd recognize said, "We've got to dethrone Nixon."

I said, "Why?" He said, "Because he's sold out to the Commies."

I said, "How are you going to defeat him?" He said, "With John Schmitz."

I confess I had almost forgot; there is a party of the third part in this presidential race, on the ballot in at least 30 states.

John Schmitz, nominee of what's left of Gov. George Wallace's American Party, is consistent in his convictions. If this is to his credit as a California congressman, it is to his disadvantage when it comes to capturing headlines.

How many times can it be repeated that his platform opposes busing, favors a military draft, opposes trade with Communist countries. He wants to end the Vietnamese war by winning it militarily.

Recently, in a brave-try at capturing some spotlight, he insisted that the Wallace shooting was a "conspiracy involving others."

But the allegation died of malnutrition. Of all the recent generations who have rallied to the political extremes, left and right, today's appears less dangerous than did yesterday's.

Yesterday's superpatriot on the right demanded that we "kill all Commies." Yesterday's radical on the left wanted to smash the Establishment.

Today there is so much less political paranoia that organizations and publications which have supported themselves on dissent, left and right, are floundering for issues.

President Nixon, soliciting broad-based support in Congress and in the hustings, has, as his party slogan says, "brought us together."

When John Schmitz challenges the White House to "cut welfare, reduce taxes, restrict the prerogatives of the courts," he is reiterating the things President Nixon tried to do and could not do while the opposition was in control of the Congress.

An observer has to see John Schmitz as a stand-in for George Wallace and can only imagine how different the campaign might have been otherwise.

Would Wallace, campaigning now, arouse a significantly greater response?

Doubtless. But the inescapable plight of the far right is even more hopeless than the utopian guest of the far left.

For where the latter wants heaven on earth, the former wants the status to remain quo. If either is desirable, neither is attainable.

So the practicalities of modern politics lead us right back to the prescription of the Delphic oracle: "Nothing too much."

Wit & Whimsy

There is no such thing as a vote that's good for nothing.

Remember—a vote against something is a vote FOR the opposite question.

If one million people each thought their vote didn't count—their nonvote could determine the election.

Quickest way to change a man's vote is to stuff his hands with literature for his favorite as he walks into the polling place.

An old-timer is a fellow who recalls when you got three recordings for a dime when you played the juke box.

Underneath the falling leaves of autumn is the rake you left out last spring.

The Rewards of Running for President

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — For Sen. McGovern, morality is as morality does.

With characteristic hauteur and unctuousness, the South Dakota radical is loudly and rancorously tirading against political opponents as "immoral" and "evil"—carefully not spelling out exactly on what and why.

At the same time, he piously sees nothing dishonest or unethical in collecting tens of thousands of dollars from taxpayers and doing nothing for it—except to scamper about the country running for office.

That's what he has been doing for 20 months while being paid $42,500 as a U.S. Senator, plus another $250,000 in numerous perquisites and fringe benefits.

In effect, taxpayers have been financing his Presidential electioneering.

For some 20 months, the morality-spouting leftist has done virtually nothing to earn his nearly $300,000 in salary and benefits.

For most of the Congressional session this year, he was away from the Senate for weeks at a time. When he did appear, it was only briefly—and sort of incidentally. Of the several hundred record votes on momentous issues in the Senate, McGovern was on hand for very few—and again only passingly.

Yet while ignoring these eventful deliberations and ballots, running the gamut of the major problems and issues facing the country, he was busily stumping the country haranguing and declaiming about them. From one end of the land to the other, he orated endlessly and stridently about what he would and wouldn't do, while the Senate was acting on legislation dealing with these very matters.

He didn't even show up on the one issue he sanctimoniously professes to feel most deeply about—the Vietnam war.

On every Senate showdown on the various "end-the-war" amendments and resolutions sponsored by fellow doves, McGovern was prominently not present.

He has shooed buckets of crocodile tears about Vietnam, but on these important tests his votes weren't where his mouth was. He was too busy dishing out campaign promises—which he subsequently junked or waffled on.

In the New Left, apparently there is nothing immoral or evil about such a devious course.

Among the self-righteous do-gooders, morality is as morality does!

Collecting some $300,000 in salary and perquisites while doing little or nothing for it is only part of the McGovern "morality" story.

In the 14 years the South Dakota radical has been in Congress (four in the House; 10 in the Senate), he not only has become well-to-do, but has used his office to make tens of thousands of dollars in lucrative moonlighting.

In three years (1969-71), he pocketed $147,000 in lecture fees and other payments.

That explains how and why he now owns a $160,000 custom-built home in a fashionable Washington residential area after living for years in a modest suburban six-room frame house; a $75,000 eleven-acre estate on Maryland's Eastern Shore; a "blind trust" that netted him $4,200 last year; and sundry other assets.

Prior to coming to Washington and latching onto the Federal payroll, McGovern never earned more than $6,000 a year. Politics has paid off very handsomely for him—particularly running for President.

Interesting Sidelights

McGovern's $160,000 Japanese-style Washington home, which he bought from Chief Judge David Bazelon of the U.S. Circuit Court of the District of Columbia, has ten rooms and four baths. Bazelon, a New Leftist, handed down the majority opinion last spring upholding McGovern in the crucial California and Chicago delegate contest.

McGovern's Eastern Shore estate, sonorously called "Royal Oak," has a swimming pool, tennis court, white picket fence and sun porch extending the full length of the house.

Since last October, he hasn't spent five consecutive days in Washington. During this protracted absenteeism (while drawing full pay and perquisites), his office has been run by assistants and other personnel—provided—by taxpayers. One casualty of this long absence is an investigation McGovern announced last year would be made by the Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, which he heads.

According to his press release, purpose of this inquiry was to explore the possible link between high levels of cholesterol and heart disease. An impressive list of witnesses was announced, but these grandiose, widely publicized plans all went up in smoke while McGovern clattered about the country-stumping for votes.

It's a sound bet that next year, when he resumes being an on-the-job Senator, he will revive this project—with another round of hoopla and publicity. McGovern is up for reelection in 1974, and he can be counted on to exploit every opportunity to hold onto his lucrative Senate seat.

SILENCE PREVAILS
 LONDON (AP)—Bus driver Edward Couchman and his wife, Rose, have not spoken to each other for 25 years — and they maintained their silence when they faced each other in the divorce court.

They married in 1936 and have three grown children. They separated in 1947. Couchman was granted a divorce because he had not lived with his wife for more than five years.

Outside the court Couchman said: "It's right, we have not spoken for 25 years."

Mrs. Couchman remained silent.

TAKE THE A TRAIN?
 NEW YORK (AP)—The noisiest subway stations in the world are on Manhattan's west side where the "A" trains run express at high speed between 59th and 125th streets, according to a noise survey.

"It sounds something like a tornado going directly overhead when you're in a storm cellar," said Martin F. Huss, a transportation engineer at Brooklyn's Polytechnic Institute.

Huss said, "The very best system in terms of low noise would appear to be Montreal's, which runs on rubber wheels."

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Girls, heed Miriam's plight! For the "Pill" doesn't protect you against the two dire venereal diseases. And they can cause insanity, heart attacks, paralysis, arthritis, and even prevent your having children when you marry! Beware!

CASE V-533: Miriam D., aged 16, is a high school junior. "Dr. Crane," her Guidance Counselor began, "Miriam joined a sorority of ultra modern teen-age girls.

"And by that, I mean they began to use the 'Pill' and then have promiscuous relations.

"So Miriam contracted gonorrhea.

"Her Fallopian tubes were so inflamed, her parents first thought she had acute appendicitis.

"Miriam hesitated to tell them she had been sexually loose, but the physician soon diagnosed her case as a venereal disease.

"Meanwhile, Miriam infected at least 5 boys in our high school, and they then passed along gonorrhea to many other girls.

"Dr. Crane, a U.S. Public Health Bulletin is asking us teachers to warn young people about the alarming increase in such sexual diseases.

"So could you explain them more fully and tell us the dangerous medical after-effects?"

Gonorrhea and Syphilis The two widespread venereal diseases are named gonorrhea and syphilis.

You can become a victim of either one alone, or may contract both at the same time.

As a rule, they are usually caught by sexual relations with an infected person.

And homosexuals likewise get infected, especially with syphilis.

Gonorrhea is produced by a specific germ that produces a whitish discharge from the mucous lining of the sex organs.

It produces knife-like pain in males when they urinate.

But it may go unrecognized by many females, so they may be infected and spread the disease without realizing that fact.

Later, it can blind their baby's eyes!

But the male gonorrheal victim usually is well aware when he is afflicted.

Syphilis, however, is caused by a very different germ, which must get into your blood stream.

This may occur due to erosion of a spot on the genitalia.

Or from a cracked lip when kissing a syphilitic.

For at a certain stage in the onset of syphilis, the victim may have a very sore throat that is teeming with literally millions of syphilis germs.

That's why an innocent girl may contract syphilis just from kissing an infected escort.

And also why lesbians, as well as male homosexuals, often contract and spread syphilis via an infected mouth.

Modern drugs and antibiotics are very helpful in checking the dire results of both gonorrhea and syphilis, if used early.

But prevention is far superior to cure!

Before the advent of antibiotics, we medicated this disease with mercury.

For mercury was one of the drugs employed to combat the dire ravages of syphilis.

Alas, syphilis can cause all sorts of ailments of heart and brain, as well as produce insanity, paralysis, etc.

Gonorrhea also can produce arthritis as well as blindness and permanent sterility.

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a long, stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mott, Indiana 47958, enclosing a long, stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)
