Jacksboro And Nocona Basket Ball Teams To Play For District Title Today

YOUTHFUL BANDITS LOOT BANK AT FORESTBURG

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Governor Sterling is opposed to the creation of new district courts and Tarlton Morrow, Wichita Falls attorney, has written him an expression of approval. "Instead of creating new courts," says Mr. Morrow's letter made public from the governor's office, "we should reduce the number we have. Our system is not sufficiently elastic. Something must be worked out whereby we can reduce the number of district judges, increase their compensation and make it possible for judges to move court from time to time to such places as there is "flush production," so to speak, of litigation."

Talker would like to add his approval to Mr. Morrow's. The legislature is asked at nearly every session to create new district courts on account of "flush litigation" but is never asked to abandon any court when litigation becomes "settled" or exhausted. Thus we have a continually increasing number of court districts in Texas with judges and other court officials all adding to the cost of justice.

Here in Wichita county we have two court districts in the county alone and with Archer and Young counties are in a third court district. There was a time when all these courts were needed on account of "flush" litigation but doubtless we could get along on two district courts now and maybe if we had a more elastic system a judge from some other district could be assigned here and we could get along with one resident judge even if we had two courts.

Doubtless the East Texas oil boom will bring a flood of litigation as well as a flood of oil. We hope Governor Sterling and legislature can find a way to provide the judicial machinery to handle this litigation without the creation of new courts permanently and at the same time make a survey of the whole system of district courts to see if some of them cannot be eliminated without in any way impending the administration of justice.

One who signs himself "Taxpayer" writes in to ask if it is true that the heads of departments of the city government are asking for an increase in salaries and wants to know how much they are paid anyway.

Talker hasn't heard of any city official who has asked or expects any increase in salary and hasn't heard of any proposal for such increases. Doubtless the heads of departments in the city government are thankful to be paid as well as they are and if they are expecting anything at all in regard to salaries it is that they will be reduced.

Talker expects to print in this column in the next few days the salaries of the heads of all departments of the city government and at the same time dates of expiration of the several public utility franchises.

The water bond proponents have been slow in starting their second campaign to carry the bond issue. Maybe they are gathering ammunition for the fight and will attempt to sweep aside the opposition with a concentration of artillery. The opposition used good tactics in holding their ammunition for the courthouse meetings the other night.

Are women more careful automobile drivers than men? Why ask the question, returns the office cynic who is a mere man. The Travelers Insurance company of Hartford has published a survey of motor accident reports in the United States and this survey shows that in a total of 1,227,817 automobile accidents last year there were 1,146,781 male drivers involved compared with 81,036 female drivers. Of the drivers involved in fatal accidents 34,671 were males and 2,135 female and in non-fatal accidents there were 1,112,404 male drivers and 78,607 females.

Draw your own conclusions from these figures. Commenting upon

? ? QUESTIONABLE ? ? BUT TRUE

ARE ANIMALS INTELLIGENT?

THE answer is yes and no. Dr. Hornaday, of the New York Zoological Park, has studied the intelligence of differept animals and the ease with which they can be trained. The chimpansee is first in both respects and second is the orang-utan. The Indian elephant ranks third, followed by the horse and dog. Wolves and foxes, though smart, cannot be trained; while the sea lion, surpassing all in its tricks, is not intelligent. ELIASVILLE AND CASHION LOSE HARD BATTLES

Champions of Montague And Jack County Emerge Victorious

FINAL TILT AT 7:30

Indians Win by 43 to 22 While Foes Cop By 47-21 Count

The Jacksboro High school basket ball team, champion of Jack county, and the Nocona Indians, Montague county champions, advanced to the finals in the interscholastic league's district No. 4 tournament here Friday night by virtue of victories over Eliasville, Young county champions, and Cashion, Wichita county titilists, respectively, in a hotly contested semi-final round.

Jacksboro and Nocona will play for the championship of the district Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock on the high school court. The winner will meet the Crowell High school team, champions of district No. 3, in the bi-district probably next week.

In the first game of the semi-final, Jacksboro defeated Eliasville decisively, 47 to 21. In the second game Nocona eliminated Cashion, 43 to 22. Attended by scores of fans from surrounding towns, the semi-final games on the Coyote court brought to a close the first day of the tournament, and witnessed a starting field of 11 teams whittled by a steady process of eliminations to the two contenders who will meet Saturday night in the finals.

Jacksboro completely mastered the Eliasville quintet in the first semi-final game. Jacksboro led at the half, 23 to 10, and was never in trouble. Christian, guard, and H. K. Turner, forward, proved a stellar scoring combination, the former piling up 19 and the latter 18 points. Glover, Eliasville center, set the scoring pace for his team with 14 points.

The second game, though bitterly contested, was equally lop-sided. Zachary and Cunningham were high point men for Nocona, the former getting 17 and the latter 12 points. Crowe was high point man for the losers with 10 points. The score at the half was Nocona 16, Cashion 12.

Record crowds and wholehearted sportsmanship marked the play of the tournament through the day. More than 1,000 highly enthused fans attended the Coyote-Nocona game in the morning and the attendance at the other games seldom fell under the 250 mark. What is believed to be a record was established when not a single player was thrown out of a game on account of personal fouls or unnecessary roughness. Every one of the nine games were cleanly fought and fouls were few and far between.

Elaborate Rites Honor Veteran Peace Officer

Hundreds of friends crowded Travis Park Methodist church for the service and a funeral cortege several miles long followed the body to the cemetery.

Youth's Slayer Given Six Years' Sentence

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Texas, Feb. 20. (UP)—J. H. Curtis faced a 6-year prison term tonight for the fatal shooting of Pennington Mallow, Kingston youth, last April. Curtis admitted firing the shots but said they were intended for the youth's father, with whom he had been quarreling. The father started at him with a hoe, he said.

A jury found Curtis guilty of murder late today after 20 hours' deliberation.

American Among 60 Slain In Fruitless Peruvian Uprising

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 20. (AP)—Sixty persons were killed in an abortive revolt against the government of Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, revolutionary provisional president, today. Official estimates tonight said the figures were only approximate. The dead included 40 loyalists and 20 rebels.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 20. (AP)—Reginald A. Skidmore, 40, native of Bethlehem, Pa., was killed by a stray bullet at Callao today during fighting there in connection with an abortive revolution against the Sanchez Cerro government. Skidmore was assistant marine superintendent at Callao for the Grace Steamship company and had been first officer of one of the Grace company's liners.

BRIEF UPRISING ENDS IN DEFEAT

(Copyr., 1931, by The Associated Press)

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 20.—A small group of soldiers and armed civilians attempted the overthrow of the provisional government of Louis M. Sanchez Cerro today, but were forced to flee to Callao, where after severe fighting they were overpowered and taken prisoners.

Government troops who besieged them in the old fortress of Real Felipe at Callao, now used as a customs house, lost a number of killed and wounded, and several civilians who were watching the fighting were killed by rebel bullets. The insurgents were said to have suffered heavy casualties.

Lima remained calm throughout the short-lived revolt and while a few shops closed their shutters and troops were stationed in the main plaza, business generally went on as usual.

Fight for Leguia

While the fighting was in progress at Callao the government declared a state of seige and provisional President Sanchez Cerro issued a proclamation declaring the authors of the attempt would be punished severely.

The insurgents, numbering about 60, were declared by authorities to be adherents of former President Augusto B. Leguia, who was deposed last year by a military junta headed by Sanchez Cerro.

Murray Champions Pathetic Cause Of Despised 'Galluses'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 20. (AP)—Governor Murray announced his position on belts and "galluses" today in favor of the article known to society as suspenders.

The governor does not specify the color of the "galluses" that should be worn, but he does contend they should be part of the healthful dress of he-men.

A man's shoulders are broader than his hips, the governor reasoned. Therefore, a man should not ruin his health by wearing a harmful belt strapped tight about his waist, but should keep his trousers in position by suspenders slung over his shoulders.

"If you could get people to dress and eat according to good sense they would have better health," the governor said in commenting upon county health units.

He blamed "silly rules of society," and custom for the difficulties.

"A man should dress according to his pocketbook," he continued, "as well as for comfort and health, but most people don't dress that way. They dress according to custom."

Therefore, he said, health units cannot be of much benefit outside of vaccinating and that may be done by county health physicians.

WOODCOCK DRY SCHEME AIRED

Chief Would Leave Homes Outside Law

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (US)—"Home option" was recommended as the best solution of the prohibition problem by Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of federal prohibition, in the special report which he prepared as an expert for the Wickersham commission.

Woodcock in an exhaustive study of the whole problem, in which he eliminated other suggested solutions, declared a simple administrative policy could be adopted of making no effort to get evidence on liquor made and used in the home.

So long as a man keeps the public peace and observes his family duties, under the Woodcock policy, he would be no more prosecuted for possessing or making liquor in his home than for playing a game of bridge.

Admits Defeat

He admitted this is an admission that "prohibition does not prohibit" but he explained that the law is never successful in prohibiting acts performed in private.

Boiled down, Woodcock's theory was that the law should be confined solely to preventing commercial traffic in liquor instead of trying to prohibit liquor drinking.

This report by the nation's prohibition enforcement chief was the high spot of all the amazing prohibition evidence gathered by the Wickersham commission which was dumped upon the senate today in response to the Tydings resolution. It revealed the inside facts of the commission's 18 months investigation of national prohibition.

Evidence Bulky

Accompanied by a brief letter of transmittal from Chairman Wickersham, the evidence consisted of two bulky boxes loaded with documents, reports, and surveys which the commission gathered in its sweeping inquiry into the workings of the dry law.

The senate earlier in the week unanimously passed the resolution, sponsored by Senator Tydings,

East Texas Gets Largest Producer

KILGORE, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—East Texas today witnessed completion of what oil men declared would prove the field's largest producer when the Eddie Jones-Crim No. 1 Rusk county came in for daily production estimated from 15,000 to 50,000 barrels of high-grade oil.

The producer was completed at a depth of 3659 feet in the Woodbine sand.

In the first 30 minutes of operation the well flowed 130 barrels under a three-quarter inch choke. Under complete control, the well was allowed to flow into the 4,000-barrel storage tanks. Operators in Henderson, Kilgore and Longview regard the big producer as the harbinger of an active drilling campaign on all sides. The territory was extended about half a mile as the result of the well's completion.

Bill Sets Minimum Wage for Road Work

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—A bill to fix the minimum wage to be paid laborers on state highway projects at 30 cents an hour was introduced today by Representative Burns of Huntsville. Burns said the fact that a great number of persons were out of work had caused contractors to lower the wage scale and they were forcing men to work for less than it costs to live.

The highway commission would be authorized to withhold funds on contracts to pay the minimum wage if the contractors failed to pay the minimum amount.

Negro Wounded, Others Escape, in Gun Battle

KOSSE, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—A gun battle precipitated today by a "tip" that three negroes had been tampering with a switch at Denny, Texas, on the Southern Pacific railway resulted in the serious wounding of one negro by two special officers and a search for two other negroes by posses numbering nearly 60 men.

The wounded negro was being held in a hospital here. He named his companions. Sheriff Ross McKenzie said, but denied they were responsible for the death of Charlie Hunter, white youth thrown from a train near Mexia, by six negroes 10 days ago.

Arkansas Solons Vote 90-Day Divorce Law

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 20. (AP)—The state senate today passed the house 90-day divorce bill which now goes to Governor Parnell. The vote was 20 to 12. The house passed it last week.

The measure would permit the granting of divorce decrees after 90 days residence in the state. Non-residents might institute divorce proceedings after a residence of 60 days in Arkansas but the decree could not be granted until after 90 days.

HOUSE PASSES SHOALS BILL BY BIG VOTE

Measure Puts Operation Of Plant in Hands Of Government

HOOVER TO DECIDE

Advocates Confident Of Favorable Action In Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Only a flimsy senate barrier stood tonight between Muscle Shoals legislation and the White House.

Sped to the senate by a vote of 216 to 153, its advocates looked confidently to adoption of the measure there. A similar measure has been approved by the senate in the past.

The Democratic house minority was joined by 87 Republicans and Representative Kvale, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, in favor of the report. Three Democrats opposed it. They were Representatives Douglas, Arizona; and Linthicum and Palminsano of Maryland.

President to Decide

For the second time in 10 years a president must rule on government or private operation of the $150,000,000 project on the Tennessee river in Alabama. Two years ago a similar bill was given a pocket veto by President Coolidge. The same course is open to Hoover.

The bill now approaching the chief executive sets up a corporation to operate the power plant at Wilson dam, construct the Cove creek dam in Tennessee and build transmission lines to carry any surplus power to purchasers. State and local governments have the first right to surplus power.

Power Given Executive

The president is given wide powers to negotiate a lease for the nitrate plants. The lessee would be sold power on the condition that not less than 85 per cent could be used in production of fertilizer. Other products could be manufactured with the remaining 15 per cent but not on government property.

Failure to lease the nitrate plants within 12 months leaves them to the government corporation for the production of fertilizer.

The house conferees contend the production of fertilizer will consume all the power and leave none to warrant the construction of transmission lines which presented the major battle over the bill in conference.

HOOVER PROMISES VETO OF BONUS BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—President Hoover sent word to the defiant congressional advocates of the veterans loan bill today that he would return it to congress next week with a veto.

Flushed with their overwhelming victories in both the senate and house, sponsors of the legislation confidently predicted tonight it would be enacted over the veto—a move that requires a two-thirds majority.

Mr. Hoover's intentions were relayed to the senate by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, after Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, had undertaken to block enactment of other legislation until the president had acted.

Indian Claims Defense In Mother-in-Law's Death

GUTHRIE, Okla., Feb. 20. (AP)—Dave Harris, Sac and Fox Indian on trial for the slaying of his mother-in-law, Lilly Carter, testified in federal court today that he fired shots which killed the woman and wounded his 212 pound son, Battice, after Mrs. Carter had produced a knife.

He also said the boy struck him when he attempted to expostulate with him regarding an alleged immoral affair. The youth and his grandmother, Harris said, had a gun in their motor car.

Nellie Melba Near Death From Strange Malady

LONDON, Feb. 20. (US)—A mysterious malady contracted in Cairo, Egypt, had tonight brought Dame Nellie Melba close to death's door, according to advices received from Sydney, Australia.

The condition of the famous opera diva is reported so grave that relatives have been summoned to her bedside.

Dame Nellie was first reported ill, when she arrived at Melbourne from England before Christmas, but authoritative reports lay it to a disease contracted in Egypt.

Managers Board Urged For State Hospitals

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—A special committee of the house, appointed by the 41st legislature to make a survey of state eleemosynary institutions today recommended creation of a board of managers for state hospitals. The membership would not exceed six persons. The board would be charged with coordinating the services of the various institutions and would work with the board of control and the superintendents of the various units.

The report was submitted by Representative Helen Moore of Texas City.

King Zogu Unhurt When Assassins Shoot Aides

Albanian Monarch Escapes With Life While Escorts Battle Two Men at Theater Entrance

VIENNA, Feb. 20. (US)—King Zogu I of Albania left the Vienna opera house by the main entrance tonight, escaping assassination.

Save for a last-minute change in his routing, the king would have departed by the stage door, where two assassins killed one of his equerries and seriously wounded Major Popolaj, the king's chief aide.

The assassins, apparently conversant with the Albanian monarch's plans, were waiting at the stage door. As soon as Major Popolaj and the military equerry of the king left the portal, the pair of plotters opened fire.

The equerry was instantly killed and Major Popolaj seriously injured. From a prone position, Major Popolaj drew his revolver and opened fire on his assailants. Twenty shots were exchanged before police who rushed to the scene struggled with the assassins and arrested them.

Police stated that only King Zogu's switch in leaving by the principal door had saved him from almost certain death. The two assassins, both dressed in the accepted opera fashion, had apparently attended the performance to allay suspicion, according to police. It is believed they are Albanian students.

King Zogu did not learn of the death of his aide and Major Popolaj's wounding until he arrived at his suite in the Hotel Imperial. Deeply grieved over the incident, he asked Viennese police to make every effort to learn from the two culprits if they had been ordered to attempt the assassination by a secret Albanian terrorists' society.

The Albanian monarch had attended the opera frequently since his arrival from Tirs to undergo medical treatment for a throat infection.

Oil Men Seek Compromise to Bar Petroleum as Session Nears End

House Committee Proceeds With Russian Embargo and Capper Tariff Bills; Treaties Unviolated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—With the end of the session in sight, independent oil interests attempted today to reach a compromise with the administration on limitation of oil imports.

Meanwhile, the house ways and means committee continued hearings on a bill to bar Russian goods from this country and approached final action on the Capper-Garber bill to limit foreign oil entries to 16,000,000 barrels annually for the next three years.

No action was taken today by the unofficial Republican steering committee on giving embargo legislation a place on the legislative program. Speaker Longworth has said however, the oil bill is the only one of the group "having a chance." For house consideration.

Compromise Sought

Oil negotiators conferred with administration officials on a compromise plan to protect domestic independents. The tentative proposal would permit free entry of foreign petroleum as long as it was prorated with domestic production. The federal commission would make the decision.

In the absence of a proration agreement, a tariff of $1.19 a barrel would be levied against imports of crude oil with a higher scale for refined products.

A letter from Secretary Mellon was read before the ways and means committee by Representative Williamson, Republican, South Dakota, in which the treasury head refused to commit himself on any of the embargo bills.

Treaties Unviolated

"As to the policy involved," Mellon said regarding the proposed ban on Soviet products, the department does not care to express an opinion and feels that this is a question for congress to decide."

Williamson read a letter from Secretary Stimson stating that "I know of no international obligations of the United States which would be violated by the proposed law."

RELIEF OFFICE AT FORT WORTH

Drouth Aid Headquarters Announced

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—A field office of the seed loan bureau of the department of agriculture will be established shortly at Fort Worth, Texas, to expedite the making of government crop production loans to drouth areas of Texas.

O. S. Fisher, extension agronomist at Washington, will have charge of the office. He expects to arrive at Fort Worth next Tuesday or Wednesday. Loans from the office will be made only to farmers in Texas.

G. L. Hoffman, chief of the seed loan office, said today that for the time being loans from the $45,000,000 seed loan appropriation would be made from that office. Later, however, with an administrative plan established for the $20,000,000 relief appropriation, it was expected loans would be made from that fund also.

Mr. Fisher will be accompanied by an attorney, a disbursing officer and others to assist in administrative work.

RED CROSS NOT TOLD OF PLAN

FORT WORTH, Feb. 20. (AP)—J. W. Richardson, assistant national director of disaster relief of the American Red Cross, now stationed in Fort Worth to direct drouth relief, said tonight he had not been informed of the plan to establish a field office seed loan bureau here, although he was aware such action was contemplated.

Until the Fort Worth office is established and in working order, Richardson said, applicants for the loans should continue sending their requests to the regional office at St. Louis.

Absence of Brookhart Halts Action on Meyer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Action on the nomination of Eugene Meyer to be governor of the federal reserve board was deferred again by the senate today because of the absence of Senator Brookhart, opponent of confirmation.

Chairman Carey, of the Banning subcommittee, which favorably reported the nomination after a long investigation, served notice he would seek final action on it tomorrow.

Old Timers to Tell 'True Story' Of Billy the Kid in Big Pageant

ROSWELL, N. M., Feb. 20.—A second "Lincoln county war," this time one of words, not bullets, is in the offing here and is expected to break out on Thursday, Feb. 26, at a meeting of the Chaves County Historical society here.

This modern war is over a film version of the life of William (Billy the Kid) Bonney, famous bandit who was shot and killed by Sheriff Pat Garrett at the Pete Maxwell ranch near Fort Sumner, more than 50 years ago.

As soon as the film story appeared, protests long and loud and vigorous, from old timers especially, were heard on all hands. Said they, "The film is all wrong—it's garbled and does not tell the true story."

So the old timers decided to stage a day here when the true story, so they say, of "Billy the Kid" will be told. The day will be known as "Days of Billy the Kid in Story, Song and Dance."

The theme song, "The Pecos Valley," was written by Miss Elizabeth Garrett, daughter of Sheriff Pat F. Garrett, the slayer of Billy. She is also author of the state song of New Mexico.

An old timer, whose name has not been made known but who was well acquainted with all of the characters in the famous Lincoln county war, will be present and tell some of the things he recalls about the bandit and his slayer.

Other old timers have agreed to be present and to contribute their share of the day's entertainment.

One of the men who was active in affairs in Lincoln county is Frank Poe, who recently celebrated his golden wedding anniversary. He and his cousin, George Poe, were active in the war. They are still living

Auto Show Crowds Continue To Increase; Exhibits to Close Tonight

Larger crowds attended the afternoon and evening hours of the annual automobile show Friday than was accorded the show Thursday, the opening day, D. L. Fritz, president of the Wichita Falls Automotive association, said Friday night.

"Thursday was not expected to be a big day because of other attractions that we felt would overshadow our show. However, the motoring public apparently is more interested in seeing the new 1931 model automobiles than other attractions and just packed the exposition hall Thursday, while Friday the crowd was a jam," said President Fritz.

The show will close Saturday night and it is expected the attendance for Saturday will be the heaviest of the three days. A large number of out-of-town visitors, especially people from the rural districts, are expected all day Saturday.

A musical program by the Radiolites, splendid orchestra of radio station KGKO, will be given Saturday afternoon and night. The orchestra has its hours from 3:30 to 4:30 in the afternoon, and will make its final appearance from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. The program is being broadcast.

No effort will be made to move any of the booths installed by oil and accessory companies during Saturday evening. The show will

Sheriff's Posse Pursues Fugitives Toward Alvord

Special to The Record News.

FORESTBURG, Texas, Feb. 20.—Two youthful bandits, unmasked, backed officials and clients of the First State bank here against the wall, looted the cash drawer and vault of $2,966.44 in cash and escaped in a small roadster about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

G. D. Wiley, cashier, Pryor McGee, J. M. Dunn and a Montague county boy were in the bank when the pair entered, drew guns and announced: "We've come for it."

After scooping up the money, the robbers marched the four back to the vault and attempted to lock them in, but a daytime catch lock thwarted their efforts and they fled, disappearing southward toward Alvord and Decatur in a small car. Forestburg is in southeast Montague county, 30 miles from Gainesville.

The entire sheriff's force, backed up by city officers from nearby towns and by volunteer citizens posse, started in pursuit, but no trace of the fugitives had been found at nightfall.

Wiley described the bandits as short and heavy set. One wore gray unionalls and a gray cap. The clothing of the other suggested that worn by an oil field worker, the cashier declared.

LEASES COVER MANY COUNTIES

Scramble for Acreage In East Texas Spreads

By R. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MARSHALL, Texas, Feb. 20.—Viewing the East Texas oil field from this terminal after traveling through Tyler, Joinerville, Henderson, Kilgore and Longview, each full of activity, one gets the impression that the world is beating a path to this section. While major operations are concentrated in and around Joinerville, Overtown, Henderson, Kilgore and Longview, the scramble for oil holdings and actual exploration has spread to more than 12 counties, not to mention Van Zandt county, where the Van field is located.

Rusk county is the principal spot in the great picture, with 24 wells producing and an estimated 50 going down. Gregg county has the Lathrop producer and several important tests drilling. Smith county, just a few miles outside the Joinerville field on one side and the Van pool on the other, has a test drilling only a short distance from the Joinerville wells. Harrison county has been leased almost solidly from line to line. Several wells are being drilled and new locations are being made rapidly.

Others Get Play

Upsher, Wood, Marion, Panola, Anderson, Cherokee, Nacogdoches, Cass and Reagan counties all have felt oil play and leasing in each of them is in full sway, according to J. L. Martin, Texas railroad commission oil and gas division supervisor for the district with headquarters at Tyler. Martin has 20 counties to supervise and is swamped daily with applications for drilling permits.

Frank R. Foster, S. B. Crabtree, M. G. Jeffries and others who participated in oil rushes in Oklahoma and Arkansas, said the intense interest attracted by the East Texas field was equal to, if not greater than, any they had witnessed. Certainly, the scenes through the area, into which conservatives estimates indicate an influx of at least 35,000 persons within the past three months, impress the novice with the magnitude of the development; and the trading for royalties and leases in hotel lobbies, on highways, in fields, and in streets of headquarters towns sets up a rare spectacle.

Confusion and enthusiasm make it difficult for an inexperienced oil observer to estimate potential production, although several wells are known to be of what is commonly called "gusher" type. Production of others has undoubtedly been exaggerated in the excitement.

Oil of Rare Type

However, with purchasers rushing construction of refineries and pipe lines, there are authoritative indications that the East Texas pool may be the largest and richest in the Southwest, if not in the nation. An analysis of the oil itself stamps it as of a rare type.

Proration of the field is yet to be worked out. No one knows when the railroad commission will cut production, but indications are that action will not come before March 15 or April 1. Many anticipate a warm argument when the matter is broached. There was controversy recently when it was feared proration would be invoked before the field had been given the opportunity to develop its extent and production. Some wanted the field immediately prorated, but anti-prorationists won a delay. There is much sentiment for and against proration and those opposed will be firm in asking certain conditions when it is finally made effective.

In the meantime there is feverish haste in drilling.

Pinchot Denies Execution Stay For Irene Schroeder and Dague

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 20. (AP)—Brutal truth in the remote village of Zagajniki has proved stranger than fiction, which was laughed away as preposterous when Henry Rostworowski, Polish dramatist, wrote it as a play.

Andrew Cygan, so this real life drama goes, came home to that little town after 18 years of hard work and thrifty living in America.

Late in the night, according to the story the villagers tell, he knocked at the door of the cottage where his aged parents lived.

His mother let him in, but the only light in the single room came from a fire on the hearth. It was too faint for the old eyes of his parents to recognize their son. He decided to pose as a stranger.

Late into the night he sat with the old folks beside the fire and told them of the wonders of the new world, showing them a wallet bulging with money.

A look of grim understanding passed between the old man and his wife and Louis Cygan, seizing an axe, brought it down on the stranger's skull. Then they looked at identification papers in the dead man's wallet.

The next morning neighbors found them moaning over the body of their son. The mother was insane.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 20. (AP)—Governor Pinchot late today declined a request for a respite for Mrs. Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, under sentence to die in the electric chair at Rockview penitentiary next Monday morning for slaying a policeman.

The stay was asked by an attorney retained by Mrs. Ella Mountz, wealthy Clearfield county woman, who interested herself in the case of the blonde bandit.

The appeal was based on a desire of defense counsel to search for a revolver in a Fort Worth, Texas, pawnshop. It was said the gun was disposed of there as the couple fled to the Southwest after Corporal Brady Paul of the state highway patrol had been slain near Newcastle more than a year ago, and on its recovery hinged a contention that Mrs. Schroeder did not fire the fatal shot.

The governor, in a written reply, said he had carefully studied the petition for a respite "and regret to advise I can not see my way clear to postpone the execution of the sentence."

SLAYER'S NERVE SHOWS STRAIN

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Feb. 20. (AP)—Their last hope of a respite denied, Mrs. Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, condemned to die in the electric chair Monday for slaying a highway official, were ready to be taken to Rockview prison and its death chamber tonight or early tomorrow.

Dague was shaved at noon and both prisoners were issued new clothing. The pair will be rushed to Rockview by automobile, and it is likely the journey to the prison will be over the road where Corporal Brady Paul was killed Dec. 29, 1929, as he sought to question them about a holdup at Butler.

Mrs. Schroeder, who had astonished visitors with her calm aloofness, began to show signs of breaking down. She paced her cell nervously last night and today seemed uneasy. She shook off her gloomy attitude, however, long enough to appear cheerful in a final meeting with her aged father, Joseph Crawford and her 5-year-old son, Donnie.

Dague to Talk

Dague was reported by the Rev. H. O. Teagarden, his spiritual adviser, as ready to make some startling statements prior to his execution, but there was no indication as to what he might say.

It also was reported Dague was writing a confession, but this was unconfirmed.

Counsel for the pair made a last minute request at Harrisburg this afternoon for a respite so a revolver said to have been carried by Mrs. Schroeder at the time of the shooting might be located. Governor Pinchot declined to grant the request.

The gun, attorneys said, was sought in an effort to prove the woman did not fire the fatal shot.

them the survey says: "Records indicate that men were behind the wheel in 93 out of every 100 cars in accidents causing deaths and non-fatal injuries in 1930, with women being the drivers in the remaining seven. While these figures may or may not be indicative of the ratio of men drivers to women drivers, male drivers were behind the wheel in 94 per cent of the cars in fatal accidents and women in the remaining 6 per cent. Men operated 93 per cent of the cars in non-fatal accidents and women 7 per cent. Whether the better record of women drivers as to fatalities is due to better things, or not being behind the wheel for as many miles as men on the average, is not indicated by records."

More than a fifth of all persons injured in automobile accidents last year were under the age of 18. The victims by number included more than 45,000 children under the age of 5, and more than 170,000 over that age but under 15. Nearly a third of the children injured under 5 years of age were the occupants of cars, while in the group of 5 to 14, slightly more than a fifth were the occupants of cars.

Seven out of every 10 persons hurt from 15 to 54 years of age were riding in automobiles, while among the injured victims over the age of 54, fewer than half were the occupants of cars. Pedestrians suffering injuries in the ages of 15 to 54 numbered 23 per cent as against 50 per cent in the ages over 54.

The analysis shows that persons under the age of 15 and over the age of 54 comprised 67 per cent of pedestrian deaths numbering around 15,000 out of a total 32,500 motor vehicle fatalities last year. Among the pedestrians injured, 58 per cent of the victims were under the age of 15 and over the age of 54.

For every child killed under the age of 5, there were 22 injured in automobile accidents. Thirty-three were injured on the average for every child killed in the age group of 5 to 14. Among the victims between the ages of 15 and 54 there were 36 hurt for every fatality, while among persons over the age of 54, the injured averaged 12 for every death.

The peak of fatal accidents during a day of 24 hours occurred from 4 p. m. to 9 p. m., as 38 per cent of the accidents which resulted in deaths happened within those five hours. Thirty-seven per cent of the non-fatal accidents also occurred from 4 p. m. until 9 p. m.

The direction of travel was straight ahead in more than 85 per cent of the fatal accidents, and in 78 per cent of the non-fatal mishaps. More persons were killed and injured in left-hand turns of cars than in right-hand turns. The backing of cars was responsible for 14 deaths out of every 1,000, and for 17 injured out of every 1,000. Skidding was the cause of more than 6 per cent of the deaths and for more than 5 per cent of the injured, which numbered during the year more than 960,000 victims.

Several times New showed feeling at Blaine's method of examination and once accused him of asking "insulting questions."

MEDIC JAILED AFTER FIGHT

Ousted Sooner Official Protests Move

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 20. (AP)—Dr. F. R. Dolson, ousted health superintendent of Nowata county, was free tonight on $2,000 bail on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon—the upshot of an alleged attempt to shoot Dr. G. N. Bilby, state health commissioner, in Bilby's office at the capital today.

Dolson pleaded not guilty, vigorously denying allegations of Dr. Bilby and a number of other persons who said he drew a gun, threatening to kill the commissioner during a conference at which Dr. Bilby said he informed the Nowata man he could not retain him in office because of many complaints.

J. R. Suddeth, who was removed prior to Dolson's appointment a few days ago was given the county post again.

No Shots Fired

Dr. Bilby said Dolson whipped a pistol from his pocket, shouting "you put me back or I'll kill you." And that he grappled with his visitor, struggling in the office and into a corridor until H. E. Sullivan, aide to a former governor, arrived and took the gun away from Dolson. His story was corroborated by Sullivan and women employes in the commissiner's office.

No shots were fired.

Dr. Dolson, however, told newspapermen Dr. Bilby took the weapon from a desk drawer and that he (Dolson) was unarmed.

"I never heard such accusations," he said.

Claims Defense

Dr. Dolson, who waived preliminary hearing, insisted he acted in self-defense but admitted swearing at the commissioner and striking him, newspapermen said.

An additional bond for $1,000 was required of Dr. Dolson, as a peace bond, after Dr. Bilby had signed a second complaint charging him with a threat against his life.

Dr. Dolson stayed in jail only an hour, posting bond immediately upon arraignment.

Hearing on the charges was fixed for March 13.

WOODCOCK DRY REPORT READ

Situatior in Texas Shown By Survey

REPORT DESCRIBES TEXAS CONDITIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Surveying prohibition enforcement in Texas, Frank Buckley, prohibition bureau attorney, in a report to the Wickersham commission described conditions in the northern district of Texas as "generally satisfactory with the population in that area firmly behind prohibition."

The report was made public today when the Wickersham commission turned over to the senate the mass of evidence it took in studying the prohibition problem before making its recent reports.

Buckley described conditions in the oil fields of Texas as bad, with liquor plentiful and enforcement organizations inadequate.

"Plenty of good, moderate priced liquor is available both in Fort Worth and Dallas," the report said. "Foreign liquor is likewise available, but in small quantities and at higher prices."

"Few of the counties of the southern district could by any stretch of the imagination be described as 'bone dry,'" the survey added. Liquor was said to be available to all. Along the Mexican border, there is a plentiful supply of Mexican liquor at reasonable prices, it said.

"In Galveston," it continued, "the statutes against liquor, gambling, prostitution and other vices are fractionally ignored."

Orange Biscuits

Two cupfuls flour.
Four teaspoonfuls baking powder.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
Two-thirds cupfuls milk.
Four tablespoonfuls shortening.
One-half tablespoonful grated orange rind.
Juice of one medium size orange.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening with two knives or a pastry blender. Add orange rind and enough milk (about two-thirds cupfuls) to make a soft dough. Roll out on a slightly floured board to one-half inch thickness. Cut with a biscuit cutter. Dip half-size piece of loaf sugar in orange juice. Put piece of sugar on each biscuit. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes.

French Soup

Three teaspoonfuls vegetable extract or three bouillon cubes.
Three cupfuls boiling water.
Two tablespoonfuls butter.

Few grains cayenne.
Two-thirds cupful top milk.

Dissolve vegetable extract or bouillon cubes in boiling water. Melt butter and when brown add flour. When well browned add stock, stirring until it boils. Season with cayenne, add milk and serve when hot.

Braised Veal Bouquettiere

Cut one and one-half pounds veal in six circles, saute in hot frying pan in pork fat until brown on both sides, put in a shallow covered baking dish, cover with a dressing made of one cupful bread crumbs mixed with one teaspoonful onion juice, a teaspoonful of powdered sage, one-fourth pound calves' liver forced through a food chopper, three tablespoonfuls melted butter, one-fourth teaspoonful celery salt, three-fourths teaspoonful salt, one-fourth teaspoonful pepper and one tablespoonful of hot water. Surround with one and one-half cupfuls tomato sauce and bake at 300 degrees F. or in a moderate oven for one hour or until tender. Remove cover at the last in order that the crumbs may brown nicely. Put a bed of hot boiled rice in the center and the center of a large platter, place the veal on the rice, surround with cooked vegetables, such as tiny onions, carrots cut in fancy shapes and string beans. Dilute the sauce if it is too thick and pour around the vegetables. The vegetables would take the place of the French fried onions, Turkish pilaf and sliced tomatoes in the above menu. Stuffed celery or celery curls might be served with the above.

French Fried Onions

Peel onions, cut in one-fourth inch slices and separate into rings. Dip in milk, drain and dip in flour. Fry a few at a time in hot fat. Drain on brown paper and sprinkle with salt.

Three-fourths cupful tomatoes, stewed and strained.
One cupful brown stock, highly seasoned, or one bouillon cube dissolved in one cupful of boiling water.
Three tablespoonfuls butter.
Salt and pepper.

One-half yeast cake, compressed.
Two tablespoonfuls luke warm water.
Three-cupfuls flour.
Two tablespoonfuls shortening.

Scald milk in top of double boiler and add salt. When lukewarm add yeast cake, dissolved in lukewarm water. Add three-fourths cupful flour, cover and let rise. Then add melted shortening, egg well beaten, molasses and whole wheat flour. Mix thoroughly, let rise again, roll and cut with small round cutter, put close together in greased pan, let rise again and bake in a hot oven or at 425 degrees Fahrenheit, for from 12 to 15 minutes.

Place on slices of fresh buttered toast and pour over them a sauce made with one package of velveeta cheese and one-fourth cupful of milk, cooked over water until the cheese is melted. Season with salt and paprika to taste.

Jellied Ginger Pears

Eight halves canned pears, drained.
One pint boiling pear juice and water.
One tablespoonful preserved ginger, chopped.
Two tablespoonfuls ginger syrup.

Lima Beans

The cheapest and best sources of protein for the main dish, aside from milk, are the dried beans and peas. The lima bean is perhaps the most delicious of all the beans because of its rich, nut-like flavor.

They are a concentrated form of food due to their high protein and carbohydrate, iron and calcium salts. An average serving of cooked lima beans (one-third cup) supplies 11 per cent of the daily requirement of iron for an adult while but 10 per cent is supplied by an egg yolk, which has been considered as a valuable source for this element for some time. As a proteid producer they are almost in a class to themselves. And they are higher in potential alkalinity than most other foods. Due to this fact they are considered as an excellent help in combating acidosis. Bread made from lima bean flour is recommended in cases of acidosis by many doctors.

When beans are combined with bacon or other fats they make a most acceptable variation to the usual main course of meat and potatoes, and they may be used in soups and salads extensively.

The recipes given below, which call for lima beans, are only a few of many that might be recommended.

Lima Bean-Basic Recipe

Soak lima beans in cold water from six to eight hours. Drain. Cover with boiling water and cook slowly until tender. Add salt 10 minutes before removing from the fire. Add boiling water if an insufficient amount was put in at the beginning. A waterless cooker is a good utensil for cooking dried beans of any kind.

Lima Bean Sausages

One cupful lima beans.
Three and one-half cupfuls hot water.
One teaspoonful salt.
One-third cupful dry bread crumbs.
Two eggs.
Fine dry bread crumbs.
One-fourth pound bacon.
Three tablespoonfuls butter.
Few grains pepper.
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
One-half teaspoonful sage.
Turkish pilaf.

Pick over and wash lima beans; soak in cold water for six or eight hours. Add boiling water and put on simmering burner, cover and cook slowly until tender, adding salt 10 minutes before removing from the fire. It will take about 1½ hours for this cooking. Watch carefully at the last and add, if necessary, enough hot water to keep from burning. Force through a puree sieve. To three-fourths of bean pulp add one-third cup dry bread crumbs, melted butter or heavy cream, pepper, salt, sage and one egg slightly beaten. Taste and add more salt if necessary. Shape in the form of small cylinders. Roll in fine dry bread crumbs, dip in one egg beaten with two tablespoonfuls of cold water and again roll in crumbs, shaping this time to look like sausages. Cook bacon until delicately brown. Remove to soft paper and cook the sausages in the hot fat until brown. Serve around a mound of Turkish pilaf with French fried onions and garnish with bacon.

Pimiento Cheese Roast

Two cups cooked, dried limas.
One cup grated cheese.
One egg, slightly beaten.
One pimiento, chopped.
Three cups bread crumbs.
Two tablespoonfuls butter.
One-half teaspoonfuls salt.
One-eighth teaspoonful pepper.

Run limas through a meat chopper; mix with cheese, pimiento, seasonings, egg and bread crumbs. Mix well. Shape into a roll, roll in bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (360 degrees F.) until brown, about 30 minutes, basting with melted butter and water. Serve with tomato sauce.

Limas de Luxe

Two cups cooked dried limas.
One-half cup minced pimientos.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
One cup grated cream cheese.
One and one-half cups white sauce.
Two tablespoonfuls tomato catsup.
Two tablespoonfuls butter, melted.
One-half cup bread crumbs.

Mix pimientos, catsup, limas, salt, cheese and white sauce. Pour into buttered baking dish. Mix crumbs and butter and spread on top. Bake in a moderate oven (360 degrees F.) about 30 minutes.

Lima Timbales

Two cups cooked, dried limas.
Two tablespoonfuls butter.
Two tablespoonfuls chopped onions.
One and one-half tablespoonfuls flour.
One-half cup milk.
One egg slightly beaten.
One-half cup chopped walnuts.
One-fourth teaspoonful pepper.
One-half teaspoonful salt.

Rub limas through a coarse sieve. Melt butter; add chopped onion and cook until yellow. Add flour, stir until smooth, then add milk. Stir constantly until creamy. Add pureed limas, egg, salt and pepper. Pack in buttered timbale molds or custard cups and place in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (360 degrees F.) for about 20 minutes. Turn out and serve with tomato sauce.

Lima Salad

Mix one small onion grated, one pimiento cut into tiny pieces and one cup celery cut in small pieces with two cups cold cooked limas. Marinate with French dressing and serve on lettuce leaves. Place a spoonful of mayonnaise on top and sprinkle mayonnaise with paprika, chopped pimiento or green pepper.

Dickens Clubs Can Beeves for Needy

Special to The Record News.

SPUR, Texas, Feb. 20.—The home demonstration clubs of Dickens county under the direction of Miss Jennie Osborne have canned six beeves for the Red Cross. The meat was put up in 800 number 3 cans and is valued at 60c per can or total value of $480. The beeves were donated by the public spirited stockmen and farmers of the county. In addition to the meat many cans of wheat and turnip greens were put up for the same purpose.

The clubs organized through their council in such a way that all clubs and members in the county did their proportional part of the work. The work is still going on and the probability is that several times this amount will be done in the very near future.

Master Painters Guests at Dinner And Demonstration

Modern methods of manufacturing paints, varnishes, lacquers, brushes and insecticides were pictured to a large group of Wichita Falls master painters at the Labor temple Friday night by D. K. Gillespie of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, who was presented by the Southwestern Glass and Paint company.

Following a dinner at 6:30 o'clock, a discussion by Mr. Gillespie was combined with the exhibition of several motion picture films covering all phases of the paint making and painting industry.

Extensive development of the painters' business may be accomplished upon the basis of safeguarding property against weather and that of improved appearance, he said. Statistics were used to emphasize the enormous losses experienced annually in the United States by depreciation of buildings on account of inadequate surface protection.

Painters were urged to familiarize themselves with the principles of color harmony, and a workable knowledge of that subject was introduced with the aid of charts used by Mr. Gillespie.

Approval of the meeting held Friday night under the auspices of the Southwestern Glass and Paint company was expressed by the group of workmen present. Such assemblies are being held throughout the country, Mr. Gillespie said.

FLOYD DEATH JURY CALLED

Joe Hawkins Faces Trial February 23

FLOYDADA, Texas, Feb. 20.—A special venire of 100 men has been drawn for district court here Monday, Feb. 23, to hear the case of the state of Texas vs. Joe Hawkins of Crosby county, charged with the slaying Oct. 28, 1929, of his father-in-law, S. M. Walker, 76 years old.

The case was transferred to Crosby county on a change of venue after the state court of criminal appeals had set aside the verdict of the 72nd district court at Crosbyton, which sentenced Hawkins to 50 years in the state penitentiary. The verdict was returned about a year ago and Hawkins appealed to the higher court, which reviewed the case.

The slaying of the aged man occurred late in the afternoon at the home of Hawkins, about 10 miles northwest of Crosbyton. The immediate cause of the shooting was said to have been a fight between several dogs.

Walker had lived in Crosby county for 38 years. He was en route home and in passing the house of his son-in-law, saw a crowd of men and stopped to investigate. The older man found several dogs fighting and called to his son-in-law to stop the fight. This Hawkins refused to do.

Testimony in the first trial said Hawkins ordered his father-in-law to go home but the latter refused. The younger man then said he would "make" him go. An argument followed and during the quarrel the olden man was shot through the heart.

Tired of the King
A Letter From a Tudor
Alfonso's Worries
Our Modern Portia

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Interesting news about the king business.

A gentleman named Mr. Anthony Hall, descended from an illegitimate Tudor, writes to the king of England to vacate the throne. Mr. Hall says that the king is a rank outsider. The Tudor claimant addresses his letter to Mr. George Frederick Ernest Albert Windsor. This happens to be the king's name. Mr. Hall says that the throne belongs to the Tudors and to the descendants of the Tudors, and not to the child of a changeling, the changeling, referring to James I., ancestor of King George.

Unfortunately, Mr. Hall will not be able to do much about it at this time. A strong man, active during the time of the changeling, might have been able to have his own way about it, but that does not happen today. Mr. Hall's letter to the king of England will remind some people that the king of Spain receives annual notice from the incumbent duke of Medina-Celi to vacate the throne. The Medina-Celis purport to have a better claim to it than the Bourbons.

King Alfonso never has lost much sleep over that annual claim. Alfonso is more apt to stay awake over the claims of his people, who are tired of monarchy altogther. The king business pulled the superstructure from what was known as divine right. There is no such thing on this earth. Kings, at last, are permitted to exist by the will of the people. They have little to say.

Perhaps nothing will serve to throw more discredit or aspersions on the feminine inroad in politics than the example of a New York woman magistrate, Jean Norris, the "pride of her sex," who admits altering her vice court records on the ground that she was punctilious about her English and changed the records on that account. Such a defense is given the lie by the records themselves. It develops that she owned stock in a bonding company. What that means does not seem to need any clarification.

The advent of a woman in the magistracy of New York was hailed some 10 years ago with a fanfare of tributes and prophecies. But now, according to testimony, Jean Norris is revealed as the harshest of magistrates. This lady who was to have "humanized" the courts was more active apparently in swinging the lash. Acclaimed as a champion, she winds up as the most uncompromising judge of her own sex. No revelations of New York's corruption of the poor man's court could be sadder to contemplate than this single exposure of an ambitious lady on the bench who seems to have hesitated between honor and gain.

This is so emphatically an age of big business that even royalty is engaged as salespeople to bolster trade. In New York a grand duchess will wait on you if your daughter or sister or wife decides to buy an expensive dress. If you don't care what a cavair sandwich costs you, you can have the pleasure of being served by a real prince. But the super-salesman turns out to be the Prince of Wales, who, until now, was considered merely a fashion-plate.

In visiting a newspaper plant in Lima, Peru, after watching an American speed press operating, he remarked, "Your plant is quite up-to-date, but I hope the next press you buy will be English."

The prince need say no more. His words will be engraved on a bronze tablet and serve as a perpetual reminder. There is no doubt that, in deference to His Royal Highness, the next press of El Commercio will be of English make. How are American business men going to compete with a saleman price?

Smudge fires were used to protect gardens from frost by the ancient Romans and by the Peruvian Indians in pre-Columbian times.

The Glint of Spangles

SOMETHING of loveliness and enchantment has slipped down from the world at the circus top with the death of Lillian Leitzel, whose slim trapeze swung more madly than any of the others.

There are those who are saying sagely that she risked her life foolishly—that its danger never did anyone any good—that she came to the inevitable end when the iron ring broke in Copenhagen the other day.

But the people who are talking that way have forgotten the old, old thrill that came when they sat on a bench, with the smell of sawdust strong in the air, and watched a girl in a gilded dress throw her body across one shoulder over and over again. They have forgotten how they pressed their hands together and held their breath until finally the drums grew deeper as they did a crescendo, and the queen of the circus world came sliding down the ropes. Their imaginations have grown sedate and dignified and they have become too old for circuses.

The world needs Red Cross nurses and women who know how to bake cookies and make dresses and run typewriters and all the rest. It would be a maudlin place if everyone put on a pair of spangled tights and turned somersaults on iron bars. But along with all the people who minister to its physical and mental and spiritual needs it also needs somebody, now and then, to sound the call to adventure, to open the doors into a glamorous place, as unreal as the shining figures which the spotlights find at the circus roof, and as remote as the distance between a sawdust floor and a white top.

Every day people die as they perform their tasks. That was what Lillian Leitzel was doing. It was her job to put a little sparkle into the march of stodgy thoughts that go parading through most of our minds. Somehow tasks were easier when people knew that once in awhile there was someone who swayed to dangerous music, unafraid.

Every little girl who has wished that she could climb a stepladder without getting dizzy, and every little girl's mother who wrapped up her dreams instead of throwing them away when she grew up, will miss Lillian Leitzel.

Harlequin, Pierrot, Grimaldi, Pantaloon . . . they are names that are cherished for they charmed the make-believe world. Lillian Leitzel did the same thing. It was much too soon for the drums to sound the crescendo with which she always closed her act—but the trapeze artist would have been glad that she went on to her next show straight from the flying bars.

Whatever It Is, He Proves It

IN AN age quite insistently devoted to the idea that men begin a rapid decline in efficiency after becoming 45 years of age, Ignace Jan Paderewski, Polish pianist who electrified thousands of hearers here Thursday night, may be in the paradoxical position of illustrating the truth of directly opposed theories.

Those who espouse the cause of youth to the extent of putting the man of 45 in the "has been" class will remind us that rules are always proved by exceptions, and that Paderewski is an outstanding exception. His efficiency in his concert here certainly was not questioned.

That Paderewski is the exception will be admitted frankly also by those who believe that the third quarter century of a man's life should be his richest from the standpoint of service to society. But they will find in him proof of the possibilities of preserved mental and physical vigor towards the attainment of which they would encourage all men.

The 70-year-old artist's playing revealed an amazing reserve of physical stamina. The program he played demanded an output of energy which makes a full day's wood-chopping look like pleasant recreation. And the manner of his playing—particularly the inclusion of four modern Debussys—offered voluminous evidence of a vigorous, alert mentality.

These exponents of prolonged "youth" will see in Paderewski an excellent example of their theory fulfilled; a man whose relentless devotion to continued growth through the medium of directed thought has retained to his 70th year a superb degree of efficiency.

His Soldiers Loved Him

IN THE death of General Clarence R. Edwards the United States has lost a good soldier and a valuable citizen.

As war-time commander of the 26th division, which had a distinguished record in France, General Edwards proved his mettle as a soldier in a way that left no room for doubt. He turned his New England national guardsmen into first-rate soldiers, and won their admiration and affection as did few other division commanders in the A. E. F.

Indeed, it is that last statement that gives the best measure of the man. Many American generals in the world war did not inspire the regard of their soldiers in the traditional manner. The sheer size of the divisional units, and the strict discipline enforced throughout the war, made this an impossibility for all except the unusual officers. General Edwards, literally, was the idol of the Yankee division. He needs no better tribute than that.

THE LOVELY LIAR : BY ROB EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Poppy Prior is in love for the first time, with a writer, Kevin Wallace, whom she met through Celia Nixson when she was accused of stealing the heiress' bracelet. Poppy found it on the train coming from Ashland but she went to a reform school rather than admit the truth. If they had gone to her hometown to investigate her mother and sister and everyone in Ashland would have learned that she was still Poppy Prior when she had told them she was going to New York to marry Ted Allison, a press agent for a theatrical company. Even Ted Allison didn't know that she was posing as his wife. She was too proud to tell him that she had taken his flippant proposal seriously and had come to New York to marry him. Kevin Wallace and Jane Rochester were Poppy's only confidants. Kevin took her to Jane after she ran away from the reform school and Jane got her a job in a department store as fashion model. She lived with Jane and saw Kevin often and would have been happy except that her mind was not at ease about her mother. Lying ill at home, Mrs. Prior kept asking to see Poppy's husband. Finally the doctor wrote that her recovery depended upon seeing "Ted" and knowing that Poppy was happy. So Kevin offered to pose as the mythical husband for a day. They took a plane to Ashland on Sunday morning. On the way Kevin asked Poppy if she were in love, and when she admitted that she was he lapsed into silence. Poppy suspected he was in love with Celia Nixson and was thinking of her. The knowledge didn't give her any more courage to face the ordeal before her—of introducing Kevin as her husband, Ted, to her mother and sister, and her sister's fiance, Roy Manners.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXXIV

The ordeal had begun.

Grace met them at the door and kissed Poppy and greeted Kevin warmly. Behind Grace was Roy Manners.

"So this is Ted, eh? Glad to meet you!" And he and Wallace shook hands.

"Doctor Lanniger is here, Poppy. He wants to see you and Ted before you go up to mother." So they went into the living room that Poppy knew so well, where the doctor was waiting. Poppy saw him appraise Kevin narrowly through his glasses, then nod as if he were satisfied.

"He's a darling—your Ted," Grace whispered to her sister. Poppy swallowed hard. Of course Kevin was a darling, but he was not Ted Allison. All this duplicity. . . .

"Fine of you to come, Allison," Lanninger was telling Kevin. "Just what Mrs. Prior needs. Her nerves, you know, all shot to pieces. Worries about the least little thing—and her heart's not been so good lately. That's what I'm worried about. Otherwise she is all right—physically. Mentally it'll take quite a while to get her in shape. After cases of concussion like hers the recovery is slow. Fine husband you have, Poppy," he beamed on Poppy, who tried not to look as miserable as small as she felt.

"Mother wanted to come down stairs, but doctor told her she had better stay in bed all day. With the excitement of your coming and all—" Grace explained.

"Yes," Lanniger said, "no hysterics now. I want the visit as calm as possible."

A voice calling down from upstairs: "Grace! Roy! Is that Poppy I hear?"

"Coming, mother. We'll go right up—". Grace led the way up the narrow stairs, over the worn carpet that had been on them since Poppy could remember. Poppy who knew the stairs by heart, stumbled half way up, and Kevin caught her arm, and held it until they were at the top.

Flowers in the living room, great purple and gold asters, flowers on the landing at the second floor. A glimpse of a table set in the dining room. The best silver, the best linen. Poppy knew them. They were never used unless the Priors had some very special guests . . .

The special guests today—Ted and and she. Ted who was Kevin. Who wasn't Ted at all.

She could hear her mother give the orders to Grace: "The best silver, Grace, and polish it well. My big tablecloth, and the monogrammed napkins. Don't forget the flowers—"

All for her and her husband.

A delicious odor of chicken through the house. Grace had prepared the best. A banquet.

Mrs. Prior Meets "Ted"

The door to Mrs. Prior's room was open, and she was sitting up in bed, a pink fleecy crocheted bed jacket over her shoulders, her graying hair carefully arranged. More purple and yellow asters in a bowl on the table, the autumn sun streaming through the window.

"This is Ted?" A quaver in her voice that shocked Poppy, that made tears rush to her eyes regardless of the doctor's orders. "My new son?" Kevin stooped and kissed the pallid forehead, near the ugly red scar that was healing. A gash at the left temple.

"Why are you crying, Poppy?" Mrs. Prior chided. "No need to cry."

Poppy tried to choke back the sobs that came to her throat. Grace had withdrawn as quietly as possible, and she and Kevin were alone with Mrs. Prior.

If only her mother wouldn't look at Kevin so. As if she were studying him thoroughly, as if she wanted to photograph his face forever on her memory. Her eyes had left him when she spoke to Poppy.

"I wanted so badly to see you, Ted, to know that you were worthy of my girl. She's my baby, you know, and I was so surprised when I found out she was married. You —you're older than I thought. That's good because Poppy needs a steady hand."

Poppy wanted to fly away—anywhere to get away from this room where her mother was. Away from the gray blue eyes that were searching Kevin. Eyes that could see so much. She wanted to hide her face in shame . . .

"I was so afraid," Mrs. Prior went on, "that Poppy wasn't happy. When she didn't write, when I didn't hear from her. Then in the hospital when I became conscious, I was sure she couldn't be happy. I know my little daughter pretty well after these 18 years. Something about her face. It had changed. Her eyes, they were different, too. She wasn't the Poppy I had known. I see now I was wrong. You're making her happy, aren't you, Ted?"

Kevin murmured that he was trying.

"Perhaps it is marriage that has changed her. Made her older. She was such a child before. I can't think what she was doing when she ran away and married you. I certainly would have consented if I had known you. You look very nice, Ted.

"Thanks—"

Poppy was digging her nails into the bed covers. The ordeal was harder than she had thought. Pretty terrible. If she could only hold onto herself a little longer.

"Poppy, so unprepared to be married! Why, I'm ashamed. No linen, no silver, nothing. And Grace has so much! With the expense of my accident and all I'm afraid I can't give you very much. At least, not now, until I get caught up a little. However, you can make your choice of either grandmother's silver coffee pot or tea pot, Poppy. Seeing you have been the first of my girls to marry, you can have first choice."

Mrs. Prior had always said that the fine old silver tea pot and coffee pot which had belonged to her mother's mother would go to the girls. Poppy knew them well. They were part of a silver service which had been in Mrs. Prior's family for years. Both of them had stood as long as she could remember on the buffet in the dining room. As a child she had tended them, cleaned them.

"Which do you want?"

How could she tell her mother she didn't deserve either? That she wasn't married and that Grace still had first choice?

"Let Grace have them both, Mother," she said in a small, weak voice. "I've—no place to keep them."

"I'm Sorry, Poppy"

"That's nonsense, Poppy. I want you to take one of them back with you to New York. There's that old Sevres dinner set of my grandmother's too, that I've always intended you and Grace shall have. It's almost complete, and I want you and Grace to divide it. Pick out the pieces you want today while you're here. We can send it on to you later. Have it packed. I haven't much to give you but what I have I want you to take. The Sevres set is quite valuable. I had a collector here just before my accident begging me to sell it. I don't know how he got wind that I had it."

Luckily Grace poped in then, and Mrs. Prior called her. "You'd better let Poppy and Ted get cleaned up before dinner, Grace." Then she turned to Ted. "Sorry you can only stay the one afternoon—you must be very busy."

"I've your room all fixed up for you, Poppy," Grace said. "Why you haven't even taken your coat off yet!"

So Poppy and Kevin followed her into Poppy's old room. She didn't stay, but closed the door after them, as she went.

"Was it so hard?" Kevin asked, looking vaguely around the room his eyes finally falling on the window, through which he could see the maple tree, the blood red leaves tapping the glass.

Poppy couldn't answer. She took off her coat and hat slowly, and threw them on the bed. The gardenias were still fresh, so mechanically she pinned them on the dress she was wearing. She was uncomfortable, partly embarrassed that Kevin should be in the room which was so familiar to her. He didn't fit, somehow. And Grace, closing the door, so calmly, so naturally, as she went out. As if he really belonged, as if he were her husband.

"Tell me, Poppy, was it so hard?" he repeated.

He had walked over and was looking down at her.

"Pretty hard. I feel so sorry for you—"

"You shouldn't. It was my idea. I like Grace and your mother very much."

"I'm glad!"

Then his hands lifted to her shoulders, and gripped them tightly. "Look at me, Poppy!" She couldn't.

"Poppy!" His arms were around her, his lips on her hot mouth, kissing it. Only for a moment, though, for he jerked himself away so quickly. "Poppy. I'm sorry, so sorry—I forgot myself a moment. You'll forgive me, won't you? If I promise I'll never do that again? I promise, Poppy—" he turned away and flung himself through the door, closing it silently after him.

Why had he said he was sorry? Promising never to do it again? Forgetting himself . . .

Poppy stood, touching the lips he had kissed, unable to move. Apologizing for kissing her, when she didn't mind. When she wanted him to kiss her. But he had been sorry he said. He had forgotten himself. Forgotten that he loved Celia? That was it.

Bitterly she moved toward the window and pressed her flushed warm face against the cool of the glass. Sorry he had kissed her. Sorry because he loved Celia. . . .

"Poppy! Dinner is ready!" Grace calling through the door. Somehow Poppy answered that she was coming. She didn't want Grace to come in now, and see her—didn't want anyone to see her. The glass felt so good. So cold. Like ice.

Kevin posing as her husband, posing as Ted Allison when he loved Celia Nixson. Thinking of Celia . . . Hard for him.

Her lips were still tingling from his kiss, and the pulse in her temples was beating riotously when she finally left her room a few minutes later.

Q.—When did Fascism come into existence?—B. A.

A.—What is known as Fascism in Italy originated in Milan, March 1919, when Benito Mussolini and about 150 of his friends organized a movement of nationalism and syndicalism taking for the symbol the fasces, a bundle of rods containing an axe, carried by the lictors before the magistrates of ancient Rome as a symbol of authority. The movement was anti-Socialist and its aim was the defeat of the Reds or radical element which after the world war appeared to be gaining a preponderance of power with consequent disaster. The Fascisti organization was mostly of young men who were dissatisfied with the findings of the peace conference in which it was held that Italy was discriminated against. The party grew rapidly until among the "black shirts" as they were named there were upwards of 200,000 practically all young men. They formed a political party under a protectorate, but on obtaining power expressed adherence to the monarchy, Sept. 10, 1922. Mussolini became both the head of the party and of the government.

Q.—Why is a shop where locomotives are repaired called a roundhouse?—A. V.

A.—The shop is round, since it is built around a turn-table, hence the term round-house.

Q.—Is Clara Bow's former secretary's name Daisy De Voe or Daisy De Boe?—F. J. K.

A.—Her legal name is Daisy De Boe. She changed the spelling of it when she went to work for Miss Bow because of its similarity to the screen star's name.

Q.—What per cent of automobile accidents are attributed to fast driving?—C. S.

A.—Speed mania accounts for 21.4 per cent of the whole number of casualties, that is to driving in excess of fixed speed limits.

Q.—Why don't all musical instruments sound alike over the radio when striking the same tone?—J. D. A.

A.—Radio transmission reproduces not only the pitch and tone, but also the characteristic timbre of each musical instrument, because each sound wave entering a microphone, has not only the general characteristic of frequency, but also infinitely smaller waves within the general frequency wave. These incidental—or supplemental waves—within the tonal frequency wave, are caused by the peculiar or characteristic timbre of the instrument producing the sound. For example, the tonal frequencies of both the violin and the saxophone, playing the same note "A," will be identical, but the incidental "over-tone" waves within the frequencies will be different, and will also be transmitted, identifying the characteristic "form" or "timbre" of the instrument itself.

Q.—Who designed the state, war, and navy building?—N. S. G.

A.—It was designed by A. B. Mullett, supervising architect. It is an example of renaissance architecture on the Roman doric order.

Q.—How many days' supply of oil is on hand?—A. G.

A.—On hand Dec. 1, 1930, were 248 days' supply of all oils—crude petroleum, refined products, and natural gasoline.

Q.—How many dry docks in the United States will accommodate the Leviathan?—N. H. T.

A.—There are only two dry docks in the United States large enough to accommodate the Leviathan, the dock at the Boston navy yard and the dock at the Norfolk navy yard. However, the Norfolk navy yard is not yet accessible to the Leviathan, because the channel which approaches it needs further dredging in order to allow passage of the Leviathan.

Q.—Why does thunder seem to roll?—M. W.

A.—The weather bureau says the long duration of thunder is owing mainly to the fact that the several parts of a streak of lightning are at different distances from the observer and that sound travels at the rate of about a mile in five seconds. Reflection of the sound from clouds and other objects also helps to produce the long, drawn-out roll sometimes heard.

Q.—What is the French colony near Newfoundland?—W. C. N.

A.—St. Pierre and Miquelon are two small groups of rocky, barren islands close to the southwest coast of Newfoundland, belonging to France. The area of St. Pierre is 10 square miles and the population about 3,500. The area of Miquelon is 83 square miles, and the population about 500. The present governor is Monsieur J. H. E. Bensch, and the capital is the small town of St. Pierre.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Pains in Head

Question—R. F. Writes: "I have been getting terrible pains in my head, and there is a tight feeling in the back of my head all the time. Also, am very nervous. I have a constant fear that something is going to happen to me. Can you tell me what is causing this and what I can do?"

Answer—The feeling in the back of your head indicates that you have some form of pelvic congestion. This would make you nervous and might cause you to be fearful. Have a good diagnosis so that you can discover the exact source and cause of the congestion.

Expectant Mother

Question—Mrs. T. E. L. asks: "What is the danger, if any, of tooth extraction during the early stages of pregnancy?"

Answer—There is no danger if the tooth can be extracted easily with the use of a local anesthetic.

Absent-Mindedness

Question—C. L. asks: "What causes a person to be very forgetful and absent-minded? Is there any cure for this?"

Answer—One who is absent-minded is suffering from severe toxemia, usually from absorption of poisons from the colon. This is the cause of absent-mindedness at any age. Of course, it is more common with those of advanced years. When the toxemia is removed and constipation overcome the patient's memory will improve somewhat, but often in spite of removal of the causes there will still be a tendency to absent-mindedness. When the brain has been injured by toxic poisoning it does not recover as quickly as other tissues of the body.

CROWDED GYM EXPECTED AT CAGE TOURNAMENT FINAL TONIGHT

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

The Rambler came out on top in his predictions, getting three out of five right; but he didn't get the right ones right: he thought for sure Eliasville would go under, but the Young county lads threw a monkey wrench into the machinery and emerged victorious in the first round, defeating Holliday of Archer county in the first round in no uncertain terms.

We also missed out on the Joy-Harrold game. We picked Harrold to whip Joy, but Joy nosed 'em out by one point.

We were right in predicting that Jacksboro would whip Electra; that Nocona would beat Wichita Falls; and that Cashion would trample Masters of Throckmorton county.

But how far wrong were we about Eliasville!

That Eliasville bunch must have it in for me. On the heels of my prediction that they would get beat in the first round, this column received a telegram from them, as follows: "Go to Eliasville-Holliday game today and learn sportsmanship from us."

Well, in the first place I don't have to take lessons in sportsmanship from anybody. I think I'm just as good a sport as any of them, and pardon yours truly for talking like this. But I don't believe that's what the Eliasville boys meant to say. They meant something else, but what it is I don't know. If they are razzing me for thinking they would get beat so early, then that's all right. I didn't believe they had the team to last through the first round, but if they've proved up otherwise, then power to them and shut up, Rambler.

I'd like to get this thing settled right away, because you see—but there I go talking about my operation again. If I were all intact as of yore, and had my trusty appendix at my side, I wouldn't mind getting whipped up on by a bunch of husky Eliasville lads; but you see, mates, I can't afford to get into an argument these days unless it's with a typewriter. So you boys stick to the telegraph wires, and I'll fight back with the Underwood, model 1911.

Now as to Music

Well, Mr. B. C. Shulkey, the Olney schoolmaster, and myself went up to hear Paderewski Thursday night just to see if he would hit that bum note in the second Hungarian rhapsody, like he did when he made a record of the piece for the Victor people. Now I bet you didn't even know the great Pole hit a sour note in that rhapsody, did you?

Well, it turned out that Paderewski didn't play the second Hungarian rhapsody at all. I guess he got scared of that piece.

And so it is with pleasure that Mr. Shulkey and myself report that, Paderewski having left the second Hungarian rhapsody alone, he didn't hit a single sour note in the whole concert. For a time we were not so sure, but we later discovered that that little squeal in E flat was the joyous cry of an elderly woman when Paderewski started playing something by Debussy.

So far as Mr. Shulkey and myself are concerned, music lovers are divided into two classes: Those who like music, and those who like Debussy; consequently, when the pianist started playing Debussy Mr. Shulkey and myself started discussing the probable winners in the basket ball tournament, much to the disguset of the Debussy-lovers around us.

There was another little thing that Mr. Shulkey and myself wished Mr. Paderewski had consulted us about before the concert. The matter, to-wit, as to whether Frederic Chopin ever did write a good sonata. Mr. Paderewski included one on his program. Unfortunately, or fortunately, according to how you look at it, he also included a Beethoven sonata. Now two things that mix about as well as an Olney and Crowell basket ball team are sonatas by Chopin and Beethoven.

Those getting bored by a sport writer's musical opinions turn over and read the classified ads, for this is going to a finish.

Beethoven's sonatas, in fact, are so good, and Chopin's are so bad that, indeed, Mr. Shulkey and myself had to use manly control to keep from grieving aloud. Chopin, in his lighter stuff, is marvelous. He could write waltzes, mazurkas, nocturnes and etudes to a whoop-my-dear; dreamy, sentimental stuff. He is the idol of effiminate masculine undergraduates, and unattractive co-eds.

But when he gets away from such themes as the moonlight on the tiny wavelets and tries to write a sonata, something with fire and gusto in it, he merely produces something that's hard as nails to play, and makes the true music lover want to pluck open a keg of nails in order to forget it.

Chopin as a sonata writer, in fact, is about as nonsensical as Debussy trying to write anything. All either succeed in doing is giving a concert pianist something hard as the devil to play. That Paderewski can play such stuff is one of the marvels of this age. Oh yes, Mr. Shulkey and I are not picking on Paderewski. He played Chopin's sonata and Debussy's stuff all right. We're aiming at Chopin and Debussy.

Of course, my business is making out box scores and covering football games and such. Well, I couldn't help but make out a box score at the concert. I gave Paderewski about 10 hits in 10 trips to the plate. In fact, every time he came up there. But Debussy was a flop, couldn't hit and couldn't field. Better send him out on option, Carl. Chopin did fairly well. Got about three hits in five times up. Fair fielder. Made only one error—that sonata. The rest of the men "composing" the team were all 1,000-percenters, fit for Connie Mack himself.

FREDERICK TOURNEY

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., Feb. 20.—More than 20 teams have filed formal entry in the annual basket ball tournament of the Tillman County Interscholastic association to be held at Frederick Feb. 26, 27, and 28.

ATHLETES PLAY CLEAN GAMES

Not One Player Is Ousted During Whole Day

time in the history of the tournament an umpire assisted the referee in calling fouls and making decisions. B. L. Bray, Bridgeport High school coach, was umpire.

Crowd Expected Tonight

Fully 1,500 basket ball enthusiasts are expected to crowd the Coyote auditorium Saturday night for the final game of the tournament. If the true sportsmanship is maintained in tonight's games the game will be interesting and satisfying from the spectator's standpoint.

B. M. Dinsmore, Electra school official, is the conductor of the annual tournament, having served in that capacity for a number of years. Dinsmore and S. H. Rider, principal of the local high school, cooperated in making the tourney the best in the school's history.

Eliasville fought their way through the first round by outclassing Holliday, 45 to 21, and drew a bye through the second round to the semi-finals. Jacksboro also drew a bye after defeating Electra in the first round, 35 to 14. Cashion and Nocona were forced to play two games to win their way into the semi-finals, the former eliminating Masters and Joy while Nocona came through with well-earned victories over Wichita Falls and Bomarton.

Opens With Thriller

None of the first and second round matches were set-ups and torrid battles resulted from each fray. Joy and Harrold blasted the cover off the meet with a game replete with thrills, the former team winning, 23 to 22 when Ferguson, flashy forward, sank two field goals in quick succession to fetch the game from the fire. The victors used a slow defense and offense but were always on hand when their goal was threatened. The score was tied at 13-all at half-time. The last quarter found the lead changing several times, Joy leading most of the time. Ferguson was high scorer for his Clay county team with eight points. McClendon was the big noise in the charge of the Wilbarger county champs with 13 counters.

With Owens hitting the basket from all angles the Cashion Cats, Wichita county champs, conquered the Masters quintet from Throckmorton county, 37 to 20, in the second game. In the third quarter the winners went wild and piled up an enormous lead after being held to a 20 to 14 score at the half. A second string finished the game. Both were erratic passing machines and depended on long shots as the main method of scoring. Owens for the victors with 16 and Brown for Masters with 10 were the high scorers of the game.

Nocona Whips Coyotes

A brief lapse from form in the third quarter cost the Wichita Falls High school a victory over the powerful Nocona Indians. The Coyotes went down fighting in a rough game, 35 to 26. The visitors led at the half, 18 to 10. More than 1,000 spectators crowded the auditorium as the Pack went down to defeat. Zachary, all-district forward in 1930, led his mates to victory with 15 counters. Scarbrough scintillated for the vanquished with an even dozen markers.

Clearly outclassing their opponents, the Jacksboro quintet rolled over the Electra Tigers, 35 to 14, in the fourth game of the first round shortly after noon. Curfman was the stellar performer for the losers with eight points while the entire Jack county team worked like a well-oiled machine to roll up the heavy total.

Eliasville, Young county champs, eliminated Holliday in the last game of the first round by the score of 45 to 21. The winners, who defeated Olney in the county race, boasted of a powerful attack that mowed the Archer county lads down like hay. Each and every one of the Eliasville first team took part in the scoring spree. Butts, speedy forward of the smaller Holliday five, was high for his team with nine points. Eliasville led at the half, 20 to 10.

Cashion Eliminates Joy

In the first game of the second round, Cashion entered the semi-finals by defeating Joy in a close battle, 33 to 26. The Wichita county lads were pressed all the way and won only after a bitter fight. Owens again sank some uncanny shots to get 14 points and lead his team's scorers. G. Howell hit his scoring stride after going scoreless against Harrold and gathered 14 points. Cashion led at the half, 19 to 16.

Nocona won the right to go into the semi-finals by winning their second game of the day from Bomarton, 36 to 22. After the first team had piled up a big lead in the first half the Indian mentor rushed his shock troops into the battle. The second stringers held their own but did not make much headway against the determined resistance of the Baylor county basketeers. Zachary was the brilliant star in the first half with eight points and a sensational floor game, but Fenoglio led the way when the yannigans were in the fray with 10 points. The warriors led at the half, 26 to 8. Burns gathered 10 points to lead the sharpshooters of the losers. Bomarton drew a bye in the first round.

Helen Hicks Wins Florida Tourney

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20. (AP)—After it seemed she had tossed away her chances with a badly topped brassie shot, Helen Hicks, Hewlett, L. I., stood idly by on the 19th hole today and watched victory in the Florida women's golf championship come suddenly her way as her opponent, Virginia Van Wie, Chicago knocked Helen's ball into the cup in a futile attempt to negotiate a dead stymie.

This freakish finish was the climax to a sensationally close and keenly fought final round contest, furnishing an unlooked for thrill to a fashionable gallery of nearly 2,000 spectators. It brought triumph to the sturdy New York girl by the slender margin of one up, marking Miss Hicks' first victory in the tournament at the same time costing Miss Van Wie the chance for a third win and permanent possession of the championship cup.

Crowell Basketeers Await Game With Wichita District Champs

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Texas, Feb. 20.—The above is a picture of the Crowell High school Wildcats, champions in basket ball of district No. 3 of the Texas Interscholastic league, the position held for the past three years by Estelline, the team which won second place in the state race last season.

Back row: D. Todd, forward; Carter, guard; Hall, guard; Hinds, center; Crowell, forward; Coach Grady Graves.

The winner of the Wichita Falls district will meet Crowell in the bi-district to determine the team to represent this section of Texas at the state meet.

Crowell has a total of 1,124 points to opponents' 443 for the season and has won 28 out of 30 games, two losses being by narrow margins to Olney. In both cases Olney defeated Crowell in the last minute of play.

The Wildcats won the championship in district three in the recent tournament at Childress in which the following counties were represented: Foard, Hardeman, King, Cottle, Childress, Collingsworth, Wheeler and Hall. Childress high was defeated in the final game, 32 to 23. The team this year is the most successful in the history of Crowell High school.

Crowell Defeats Thalia All-Stars In Thrilling Uphill Fight, 23-22

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Texas, Feb. 20.—After fighting an uphill battle for three tense quarters, the Crowell High school basket ball team tonight raised high the banner of victory, and their victims were none other than the Thalia All-Stars, champions of the West Texas conference.

The victory was all the sweeter in that it was won by one point. The final score was Crowell 23, Thalia 22. The visitors, not a school team, have ruled the amateur field in this section with an iron hand, and the joy of Crowell players and fans over Crowell's victory knew no bounds tonight. Crowell won the championship of district No. 3, interscholastic league, at Childress last week, and next week will play the winner of the district 4 tournament now in progress at Wichita Falls.

Tonight's game was played in the Crowell gymnasium, before a cheering throng that watched the Wildcats slowly but surely fight their way to the top. At the end of the first quarter Thalia led, 11 to 7. At the half they led, 15 to 14. But at the end of the third quarter Crowell had managed to tie the score at 17-all. Then blood started to flow. The battle waxed hotter and hotter and each basket came to be worth its weight in gold. And in the end Crowell, with a burst of speed, triumphed.

Crowell was charged with eight personal fouls, while Thalia was charged with 12 personal fouls and one technical foul.

It was the 28th victory for Crowell out of 30 games played, and it raised the team's total points to 1,147 to their opponents' 465.

OMAHA GOLFER BEATS ATTWELL

Hunt, Carleton, Moreland Also Play Today

COUNTRY CLUB, HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 20. (AP)—A blond young chap from Omaha, Johnny Goodman, showed the golfing stuff of which he is made this afternoon to carve out for himself a place in the 36-hole semi-finals of the Houston Country club's 17th annual invitation tournament.

Goodman, five down at the turn of 18 and shooting poor golf that far, suddenly got hold of himself, shot three birdies in a row in his last nine and defeated Leonard Attwell of Houston, 2 up.

Along with Goodman, W. C. Hunt of Houston, O. S. "Ossie" Carlton of Houston and Gus Moreland, 19-year-old Dallas player, qualified for tomorrow's semi-finals.

Hunt Beats Manion

Hunt bested Jimmy Manion of St. Louis, the medalist, who had been looked on as bad medicine for the veteran, 6 and 7, the Manion putter doing its worst.

Carlton had to go 38 holes to beat a fellow club member, Preston Moore, one up. He got over the hurdle by taking the 35th and 36th holes with birdies, halving the 37th and taking the 38th with a par three.

Moreland defeated his kid compatriot from Dallas, 18-year-old Reynolds Smith, 8 and 7. Moreland was five up at the turn of the 18th hole and had no trouble the rest of the way. The older boy was seven up on Smith through the 27th, but the young conqueror of Johnny Dawson of Chicago, the defending champion, kept right on laying them down.

Goodman's last nine holes of play was brilliant. He came back in with a 33, two under par, while Attwell was taking a 39.

Loses by Putting

When they came in to No. 36, Attwell was over the green and in the woods. From that extraordinary bad lie, he got on in one but twp-putted to lose the match.

The margin of victory gained by Hunt over Manion constituted one of the biggest upsets of the tournament. Opinion had been about evenly divided as to who would win but nobody expected such a score.

Manion started off well, having Hunt one down through the ninth, but shortly his putter failed. At the turn of the 18th, the St. Louisan was three down. From then on to the 27th it was an almost unbroken record of bad putting. Two times during the third nine his putt stopped on the lip of the cup and once it shaved the pin. All three bits of misfortune occurred at vital moments.

Hunt, who only last year won the state championship after more than 20 years of play, shot the most consistent game on the links. He was especially strong in the one department where Manion was fatally weak.

Hunt will play Goodman tomorrow and Carlton will play Moreland.

Longhorn Athletic Council Declares 1931 Grid Captain-Elect Ineligible

'Ox' Emerson Must Disprove Charges Brought by Waco Scribe If He's to Play Football This Year

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—Burden of proof of his eligibility to play football for the University of Texas Longhorns next fall lay entirely on the shoulders of Captain-Elect Grover "Ox" Emerson today.

In the eyes of the University of Texas athletic council, Emerson is ineligible, W. E. Metzenthin, chairman, declared today in commenting on charges of Jinx Tucker, sports editor of the Waco News-Tribune, that Emerson played in the 1928 football game between Baylor and Texas, thereby forfeiting his right to another season on Southwest conference gridirons.

The university athletic council will assist Emerson in every way toward proving his eligibility if he furnishes sufficient facts that he did not play in the Texas-Baylor game, Dr. Metzenthin stated. He said further, however, that he (Metzenthin) had been investigating rumors of Emerson's ineligibility for several months and has had a memoranda on his desk. The memoranda is to be presented at the next meeting of the council Dr. Metzenthin said.

Emerson takes the stand that he did not play in the Baylor game or any other game during 1928 on account of injuries. He said he was certain accurate records would bear him out in his contention.

Supporting the Longhorn ace is Hollace Schultz who managed the 1928 football team at the university and who said that his records of that year fail to reveal the entry of Emerson in the Baylor contest. Part of the duties of student athletic managers is to keep an accurate account of the names of players engaging in games during the season.

Houston Shooters Lead in Arizona Event

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 20. (AP)—E. F. Woodward, Houston, Texas, and his son, N. E. Woodward, walked away with top honors in the Arizona hundred, first scheduled shoot of the A. T. A. gold medal trap-shooting here today. The Houston pair broke 99 pigeons out of 100 at 16 yards, to split first money.

SEEK EXHIBITION GAMES

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Feb. 20. (INS)—Exhibition games with the Texas league will be sought by teams in the Valley league after spring training is started in April, according to President Withers.

Players in the league will take the field April 6 for an intensive work-out before the season opens.

BOXING CULT FLOPS IN EAST

Rickard's Once-Famous Gates Are No More

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. Beset by serious opposition and a number of minor ills, boxing in the East, once the paradise of the leather slingers, is packing burdens that have the ancient game creaking at the knees, staggering over the rough spots, with little sign of better days in the offing.

The ancient art of the maulers is a $5,000,000 annual industry in New York state where Madison Square garden, the mecca of all youthful and ambitious gladiators, shines out as a legendary house of gold to be broken open by any colorful pair of young fists. But the garden right now is stamping the ground of the wrestlers, the amateur fighters, professional tennis and hockey, and the fisticuffers exult over a 10,000 attendance for which the late Tex Rickard would scarcely have deigned to open the doors.

Strange as it may seem, the state athletic commission reports that wrestling, the big rage of the East at the moment, now is outdrawing boxing throughout New York state. Fistic receipts, the commission reports, are averaging about the same as they did in 1930 because the number of fight clubs has been increased. The promoters, rather than the state treasury, are the big sufferers.

Up through New England, where Boston was rated such a promising fistic center that Madison Square garden helped build a subsidiary, the fight business has been bad. The Boston garden has lost a great deal of money on boxing.

Wrestling booms in New England, and with Boston the capitol of the Paul Bower-Gus Sonnenberg-Don George combination, right wing of the Pachyderm party, the situation has become so acute among the fisticuffers that radical relief measures are in prospect.

AROUND THE RADIO CLOCK

(Time is central standard time throughout)

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—To pick up less than a minute of the signature song, a special wire will link New York to Los Angeles when Bobby Jones starts broadcasting from the Pacific coast week after next.

For 12 weeks Jones will give his Wednesday night program over the WEAF chain from Hollywood while he is making some movie shorts. The musicians who play "Georgia Moon" at the start and close of the program will be in New York.

Bobby is to speak directly into the network from Los Angeles. The music, played from New York, will go over the special wire to Los Angeles before it begins its trek over the network.

Such a setup is necessary because facilities will not permit an instantaneous switch back and forth over the same wire. This can be done with the special hookup.

Walter Damrosch, conducting his orchestra on WEAF and stations tomorrow night will present a duplicate of a concert conducted by his father, Dr. Leopard Damrosch, at the old Academy of Music, New York, on Feb. 17, 1883. It will include Siegfried's funeral march and the Good Friday spell from Wagner's "Parsifal."

The program starts at 8 o'clock.

Senator Alben W. Barley, Kentucky, will talk on "The Lame Duck Amendment" in the national radio forum on WABC and stations at 8:30 p. m.

The theme of Ted Husing's sport slants on WABC and stations at 5 p. m., is the Kentucky Derby.

Otherwise your dials may be set for:

6:00—Morton Downey, tenor, and Freddie Rich's orchestra, WABC and others.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—The reactionary sentiment which developed in cotton here following yesterday's early advance, became more pronounced during today's trading.

It was stimulated, apparently, by relatively cheap Liverpool cables as well as by the extent of recent advances and reports of a somewhat less active demand from the trade. A little more Southern selling was reported as well as realizing on the decline which sent the price of May contracts off to 11.20 or 19 points net lower and 32 points below the high level of Thursday morning. May closed at 11.21 with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 18-22 points.

There was some narrowing of the differences between March and late months during the day with March closed 100 points under December compared with 102 points at the close of the previous day.

Liverpool cables attributed the decline there to hedge selling and general liquidation but said the British home trade in cotton cloths was improving with a fair turnover in yarns. Reports from Worth street said it was expected that sales of print cloths would reach a large total again this week. Exports today 9,993 making 4,867,091 so far this season. Port receipts 54,000. U. S. port stocks 4,025,101.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 20. (AP)—Although the cotton market was fairly active today prices developed a reactionary trend. This was due to a decided falling off in the trade demand, rather poor cables, selling to force a reaction and somewhat bearish weekly statistics.

Owing to lower cables than due prices eased off 7 points in the early trading but soon recovered practically all of the loss on some week-end covering. As the morning advanced prices turned reactionary and eased off under selling pressure until losses from the highs of 14 to 16 points were shown. Mill takings and the visible supply comparisons were bearish which helped the decline. In the early afternoon the market was quieter and also a shade steadier with prices near the lows. Prices made new lows 19 points under the highs and closed steady a shade above the lowest at net declines for the day of 15 to 18 points.

Port receipts 60,468; for week 126,940; for season 7,885,631; last season 7,736,538. Exports 15,535; for week 129,093; for season 4,783,213; last season 5,175,550. Port stocks 4,170,126; last year 2,289,583. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 75,344; last year 110,185; spot sales at Southern markets 15,740; last year 7,789.

Industrial and Utility Stocks Lead Advance to New High Levels

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (US)—The stock market continued to advance today, although the gains were confined chiefly to Industrial and Public Utility stocks.

Combined averages, however, achieved the highest price level of the year.

Failure of the Railroads to participate more aggressively in the upturn was somewhat disheartening to the friends of the market, but it was recalled that the rails as a class preceded the Industrial-Utility groups in the first demonstartion of strength following the December break. Thus, it was hoped by the bulls that the recent sluggishness of the Rail shares was but a resting speel preliminary to their participating in the general improvement.

Volume expanded considerably, rising almost to 4,000,000 shares for the day, against 2½ millions the day previous.

Trade news was generally of a cheerful nature, with more Steel plants reopening due to increased orders from the automobile industry, and the weekly business reviews reporting that the improvement in fundamentals had become more pronounced.

Submission of the bonus bill to the White House exerted no influence

JUNIOR C.-C. HEARS POWER

Archer City Wit Wise Cracks Prohibition, Women

With humorous observations on practically all the generally conceded ups and downs of the world, with women and prohibition as the chief targets of his wit, Frank Power, former mayor of Archer City, appeared Friday noon as the principal speaker of the Junior chamber of commerce semi-monthly luncheon held at the Kemp hotel. Also a feature of the program was the presentation of a number of dance students of the Knickerbocker studios by Miss Virginia Hampson, head of the dance department.

Tap dances were given by Betty Jo Wright, toe dances by Jane Rahl, and group tap dances by Faith Galmiche, Janelle Eichelberger and Virginia Green. Accompaniments were played by Mrs. William Rosenblatt.

Many of Mr. Power's observations were given in apparent seriousness until a final phrase inserted surprising humor into the situation. One philosophy of this nature was exhibited when the speaker sagely remarked, "Some women thirst after fine clothing, some thirst after social prominence, others thirst after power, but all women thirst after salted peanuts."

A hearty laugh was obtained when in speaking of prohibition, he observed, "It is remarkable how the flavor of a pinch of salt is improved on a hot day by a cold bottle of home brew."

After dinner speakers were also the subject of Mr. Power's quips. Stating that many speakers preferred their talks with the assertion that they would speak "from the shoulder," he declared that he hoped his own remarks came from a place a little higher up.

Turning to more serious philosophy, the speaker urged the conservation of a part of one's earning, in that "it is just as foolish for an individual to spend all he makes as it is for the nation to consume its entire corn, wheat or any other crop without saving any for seed." Another of his remarks was "If you are not getting along as well as you like, turn yourself loose; be yourself; give way to honest impulses."

Pat Simmons and J. Wilkie Talbert, senior chamber of commerce members who form the advisory group of the junior organization, were honor guests at the luncheon. Miss Lorene Tucker played dinner music.

Court Releases Jury In Cemetery Suit

Despairing of a verdict after several hours of deliberation, the jury which heard the cemetery injunction suit of C. H. Mataska et al. against Walter Nelson Jr. and Jerry Vinson was discharged by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court about noon Friday.

The action was brought to restrain the defendants from developing a four-acre tract near the Petrolia road about two miles east of the city as a cemetery for negroes. The hearing was begun Tuesday morning.

"Stolen Heaven" and "The Criminal Code" are booked in the wrong order. In "Stolen Heaven," Phillips Holmes goes to jail, and in "The Criminal Code," still the same curly headed, big-eyed, innocent boy, he gets out.

With a rather improbable story, Nancy Carroll and the delightful young Mr. Holmes, however, manage to achieve some drama and near-plausibility. At least, "Stolen Heaven" never lags. (Note, also, that the title means something and is definitely related to the story—only one explanation for that—new blood in Hollywood.)

◇ ◇ ◇ ◇

From old London itself comes a letter from Mickey (Himself) McGuire, who is the same Irishman he was when he was writing anonymous letters to this column about "Song 'o My Heart." Mickey opines, in nine interesting pages of longhand, that London is far too slow for the Marx brothers, who played for several weeks at the Palace theater there.

"Half the chatter had to be deleted as the delivery was too fast for the locals," he said. "The dress circle customers were missing them badly, even at the final performance . . . Groucho served his quips with a distinct hesitancy—not at all reminiscent of the 'overlapping' humor that he dished up in 'Animal Crackers' or 'Cocoanuts.' They (the Marx brothers) observed enough of this London conception of humor to 'make' their next talkie."

Our London correspondent also informs us that "the interval was grand . . . fancy a bar in the Majestic at Wichita Falls!" Maybe that's an idea, after all. Some pictures need ideas like that.

New Contracts Speed Completion Of Unpaved Gaps in Highway 5

Special to The Record News.

DALHART, Texas, Feb. 20.—Those tourists who travel over highway 5 will receive with pleasure the announcement that contract has been let and much work done on this route in New Mexico between Clayton and Des Moines. Workmen were busy all last year on one stretch of this road which is now open to travel.

Work is now underway on contracts which were recently let for oil and gravel type of road, so popular in New Mexico, between the Texas line at Texline through Clayton to the hard-surfaced road at Des Moines. Work will be finished on this road in time for tourist traffic in late summer and perhaps before as the federal aid appropriations which must be used before Sept. 1 are being depended upon largely for this improvement.

It is believed with this stretch of road paved that highway 5 will gain much in the good graces of the traveling public. The road between Clayton and Des Moines was formerly a bad one after rains. All of this will soon become a thing of the past.

Improvement of the grade and drainage structure in Dallam and Hartley counties has been effected. In addition, a second inlet is now available to traffic on highway 5 over Oil Field Highway through Dumas which connects with highway 5 at Hartley. The Oil Field highway interesects highway 5 at Claude on cutting through the oil field territory into the newly opened pool in Moore county thence to highway 5 at Hartley, 14 miles this side of Dalhart.

United cooperation between New Mexico towns and Dallam and Hartley counties has been assured on highway 5, and Oil Field highway is kept in excellent condition.

Detectives O. A. Roberson and Luke Hart made arrests in both theft cases.

TAX PAYMENT RULES GIVEN

Collectors Give Dates For Penalties

For the purpose of clarifying any doubts which may have arisen with taxpayers in this county since a new state tax payment law recently was passed, complete information relative to penalties, rates of interest on delinquent and current 1930 tax accounts, etc., was given to The Record News Friday by both city and county tax collectors.

Under the recently enacted law, a new plan of tax payment is provided for all state, county and independent school district taxes. This group of accounts includes the usual state and county taxes, those of the Weeth, Fairview, Iowa Park, Valley View and Clara school districts, and the Wichita Falls independent school district. All such taxes now unpaid are drawing 10 per cent interest beginning Feb. 1, 1931. Should the first half of the taxes be paid prior to Oct. 15, interest on that amount at 10 per cent per annum will be paid from Feb. 1 to date of payment.

General Taxes

The entire amount of 1930 taxes of that class, less whatever has been paid previously, will be due on Oct. 15. Should it remain unpaid on that date, it will become delinquent, and a five per cent penalty will be added. Such unpaid balances will draw six per cent interest from Oct. 15 until paid.

As an illustration, if one's taxes in this group totaled $50, and he pays $25 on them March 1, he will be required to pay one month's interest at 10 per cent per annum on that $25 payment. The balance of $25 will be due on or before Oct. 15, plus interest at 10 per cent per annum from Feb. 1 until the date of payment. Should he make no such payment by Oct. 15, then the second $25 of taxes will be increased by a five per cent penalty, or $1.25, plus the accumulated interest, and will draw six per cent interest from Oct. 15 until paid.

"We believe that many tax-payers do not realize that all such 1930 taxes unpaid after Feb. 1 draw a 10 per cent interest to date of payment," said Arthur C. Howard, county tax collector. "It is probable that some of them, at least, will prefer to pay taxes now rather than assume the accumulating interest."

Payments for automobile licenses are not included in the above group, Mr. Howard pointed out. Any licenses issued after Feb. 1 for a car which had been used on any public highway prior to Feb. 1 is increased by a 20 per cent penalty for delinquency.

According to City Collector W. R. Hyer, the date for payment of city taxes has been extended by the city council to Feb. 28, without interest or penalty. If taxes have not been paid by March 1, it is provided that a 10 per cent penalty be added to the amount of taxes due, plus interest from Jan. 31 at the rate of 6 per cent per annum.

Irrigation District

There is an additional charge of $1 made for placing the tax account upon the delinquent tax rolls, but Mr. Hyer stated that as a rule, some weeks elapse following the expiration of the non-penalty paying period before such transfers are made.

Irrigation taxes for 1930 will become delinquent if not paid wholly or in part prior to March 1. However, if one-half of the tax is paid by Feb. 28, the remainder may be deferred until July 31 without penalty or interest. In case no payment of taxes is made by a taxpayer by March 1, a 10 per cent penalty will be added to the amount due. All persons on the irrigation tax rolls are being urged to avail themselves of the half-payment plan if unable to pay the entire amount.

I tells him as how he'd better not stop at a leaf but turn over the hule tree.

He tuck out a hule role of bills and seys as how he wants to pay pack what he tuk from us and of course thet sounded grate. A $50 bill was his smalest change and wanted us to take it and give him the remains as he only borrered $24.13. Borrered nothing, seys me, you jest naturaly tuk it. What abot the car car, asks Marthie and he says as how it were in the A. B. garage,—heres the ticket, he says—you kin git it to-morry. Al, Marthie and me rusteled roun and we colected $21.19, Marthie's buter and egg money and my hay role. We give him the money and he thanks us saying as how we hed showed him the strait and narrer path and Marthie makes over him. Sits him down in my cheer and feeds him my peace of pie.

The next day after he leaves I go over to Oklahommy to ramsact busness but I din't hev time to go to git the car as I wuz in one hurry after another. I rode Mesquiter Bar, my hoss. After I got there I decided to buy maw thet black silk dress she's ben wanteng. I only hed the $50 bill with me so I tuk it to the bank. The cashier asks me to wate while he maks the change. At fust, I guesses as how they had a time making the change as $50 is two twenty-fives or five tens, 10 fives, ecterry. While I was sottin there in walks the sherruf and tells me to foller him.—I ain't don nothin—I insists.—Oh, no, sezs the sherruf, only passin counter feet money. . . Thet money don't hev feet but he woldn't believe me and take me to jale and hear I be wating fer the grand jury to meet. Now, I asks you, Mister Editor, what wold you do? I called Marthie up to come to my resque but she sezs thet the car which was in the garage had been in a turrible reck and wold take $125 to git it fixed. I kin buy another one fer thet I say, but I won't out of jale. Marthie is coming to my resque I guess, but Mister Editor, wold you mind using yore henfluenze to git the job done quick. If I ever ketch thet guy he will look like Lon Cheany's 100 faces all roled inter one.

Hoping to here thet you will git me out of this buggy jale and go my bale. I hev three bails of cotton to hum, maybe thet will be bale enuff.

Yore frend in distress,
JOSHUA EBENEZER FRY.

Teacher Sues City For $5,308 for Injuries

Injuries said to have been sustained by Miss Louise Lipscomb when she stepped on the loose top of a water meter container in front of the William Mary hotel on Jan. 29, 1930, were made the basis of a suit for $5,308.22 brought against the city in district court Friday.

As the plaintiff crossed the parking between sidewalks and curb in approaching her car, the petition sets out, she stepped upon the cover of a receptacle which housed a water meter. It tipped, allowing her foot to slip sidewise into the space between the meter and the wall of the container. Loss of time at her occupation of teaching school, doctor bills and permanent partial disability of one ankle are alleged in the pleading to support the claim for damages.
