Texans Launch Attack On Dry Laws Saturday

Proposal To Soften The Dean Law Made; Way Is Opened To Temper Anti-Prohi Section Of State Constitution

Bill Is Offered

Penalties For Violations Are Proposed; An Amendment Would Be Submitted At Election Set On July 29

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 14.—Texas anti-prohibitionists today initiated in the state legislature a move having as its purpose modification of the dry status in their commonwealth to meet whatever changes may be made in the nation's anti-liquor laws.

The way was opened for tempering the anti-prohibition section of the state constitution to permit the legislature to regulate the manufacture, sale and consumption of intoxicating liquor under the local option system, and there was a proposal to soften what is known as the Dean law, which prescribes stringent punishment for violators of prohibition laws.

Resolution Introduced

Representative Weaver Moore of Houston introduced in the house a resolution proposing submission of the constitutional amendment. Representatives Paul Hill of Laredo, and E. C. Hill of Angelton are authors of a house bill that would liberalize the state enforcement statute.

The bill fixing penalties for violations would make the first two offenses misdemeanors, punishable by fines. It would be in line with existing federal prohibition enforcement laws. The Dean law makes the first offense a felony punishable by confinement in the penitentiary of from two to five years. It provides that possession of a quart or more of intoxicating liquor shall be prima faci evidence it was possessed for the purpose of sale.

Under the proposed constitutional amendment, no intoxicating liquor would be sold for consumption on the premises where sold, or consumed on the premises where sold, but it provided that laws could be enacted by the legislature permitting sale and consumption in bona

Chinese Urge Jap Blockade

Strict Revival Of Boycott On Japanese Goods Being Asked Of Shanghai Firms; Urged To Set An Example

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 14.—The greater Shanghai Chamber of Commerce, representing the majority of local Chinese business interests, called today for a revival of the boycott against Japanese goods.

(This boycott was advanced by the Japanese as one of their reasons for attacking Shanghai a year ago. It resulted from the Japanese occupation of Manchuria, which began in September, 1931.)

In a circular sent to all commercial and industrial guilds, the chamber of commerce said the boycott had been relaxed and urged it be made effective again.

"There are only two ways China can oppose Japan," the chamber statement said. "They are by boycott and guerrilla warfare. Shanghai, being the nation's leading commercial city, should set the example by intensifying the boycott and simultaneously assisting Manchurian volunteers."

Hunter Promises Active Support For Texas Tech As He Heads For Capital

TEXAS Technological college in its entirety" has the support of Tom F. Hunter, who will be a candidate for governor in 1934, the Wichita Falls independent oil operator declared here last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and their daughter, Helen, are in Lubbock, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Scott, 2121 Main street.

Mr. Hunter, who has been elected by the State Taxpayers association and the South Texas Dairy Farmers association to represent them in Austin during the current legislature, will interest himself primarily in "retrenchment in government costs, abolition of unnecessary officers, and the re-allocation of the tax burden." The West Texan, who placed third in the first 1932 Democratic primary, also will oppose "monopolistic control" by major oil companies.

In declaring his loyalty last night for Tech the small, dynamic, black-eyed Wichita Falls man, said he would limit his field of endeavors.

"If I go down there with too many snakes dug up, I can't kill them all," he said. He added that "the expense of our educational system must be cut down.

"Our youth, however, must be guaranteed an opportunity, and the efficiency of the system must be preserved."

Will Texas Technological college have his entire support?

"My full support," he answered. "I mean, the school in its entirety. There might be some things in the school which represent an unneeded duplication. I've not investigated that.

"Your school has clearly demonstrated the need of such a school here; the enrollment is too great not to have evidenced the absolute necessity for it."

Referring to the recommendations of the efficiency committee of the legislature, which proposed reduction of Tech to a liberal arts school, and municipal ownership of teachers colleges, he pointed out that "we have too many state-supported schools doing university work."

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter will return to Wichita Falls this afternoon. Mr. Hunter and H. D. Kuykendall, his secretary, of Wichita Falls, will leave Monday for Austin.

"I'll have to remember, of course, that I'm Tom Hunter, and attend to my services as water carrier," he said.

He will spend his efforts "seeing done what I proposed should be done when I was a candidate last year."

He then directed attention to

Aged Lubbock County Father Trails Errant Son To Pay Off Bad Checks

ALTHOUGH about two months behind, an aged Lubbock county father, following the trail of his cold-checking son, Saturday paid $6.75 to take up four worthless drafts the 23-year-old son had passed.

The youth, released recently from Lubbock county jail, had served about 50 days after he had pleaded guilty of passing two of the worthless checks. The father, shabbily but cleanly dressed, indicated he would have attempted to pay the fines had he been in Lubbock county at the time. The father's shoes were almost worn out.

"And he's not out of it yet," the old man said, stuffing a note in his worn leather purse. "He's been taken to Tahoka. This is his first time in jail, but he's been giving trouble with checks about a year."

Parents, seeking to aid erring sons and daughters, regardless of the childrens' ages, are frequent visitors to his office, said County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson, who received the aged man's money yesterday.

The county attorney recalled a New Mexico father who took $51 out of his sock to pay a fine for a strapping 28-year-old son.

"The father, who had only $51, wondered how he would get back to his home, but he said he guessed he would 'make it all right'," Wilson said.

A later attempt war made to pass a split $10 at the Levelland First National bank, it was said. This bill was said to have been good, except that it had been mutilated by splitting.

Tom Hunter

present allocation of the tax burden:

"There is an undue burden on real estate. It produces only 15 per cent of the revenue, 85 per cent of the state's revenue being from other sources, and yet real estate is required to pay 77 per cent of the ad valorem tax. It doesn't take a bookkeeper to know something is wrong there."

Mr. Hunter pointed out that as representative of the taxpayers and dairy farmers association he is offering his services "without pay, and I am furnishing my own stenographer." He also intends to aid the independent operators in "one or two bills."

Controlled By Majors

Mr. Hunter rolled and smoked two cigarets while he talked. He was wearing a gray business suit, and boot style shoes.

Turning to the oil industry, he said:

"That industry is controlled by the major oil companies through pipe line monopolies and the 100 per cent filling station contract.

"Consider the pipe line monopoly As a result of it, the public pays the high rate charged for oil transportation. An extreme example of this situation: When crude oil was selling for ten cents a barrel in West Texas, the pipe line rate on that oil to the market was 56 cents a barrel.

Talks Of Problems

"In point of competition, it meant to the independent operator what a ten-cent per pound freight rate for cotton would mean to the farmer."

These things he had to say of the filling station situation:

"The United States senate hearing in Washington disclosed that 95 per cent of the gasoline was dispensed through big company stations.

"That means that only five per cent of the market is open for competition. They can give away that five per cent so long as they make a satisfactory profit on the rest."

Control Is Illustrated

Illustrating this "control":

"Day before yesterday, gasoline was wholesaling at two and an eighth cents a gallon, which justifies only 51 cents a barrel for crude oil. At the same time, the retail price, through this 95 per cent control, was such as to justify $1.40 a barrel for the same crude."

Such income, he charged, is "unfair profits."

"The plain people, whether they own oil wells or not, are being penalized this 90-odd cents per barrel for having countenanced this monopoly."

A threat that he might take the stump in the district of any state legislator who "votes favorably for these monopolistic combines" was made by Mr. Hunter.

"And I wouldn't wait until he is running for re-election; I'd do it while the legislature is in season," he said.

He forecast that "some good will be accomplished by this legislature." He also declared that he would not stand in the way of any "move for the good of the plain people" during the Ferguson administration.

"During these two years, I'll lend every possible effort that some great good might come for the plain people of Texas. On any move in that direction, they have not only my good wishes, but my aid," he declared.

Turning again to governmental income and expenses, he said:

"Our national government is spending a hundred million dollars a month more than the receipts. That's the road to bankruptcy. The state deficiency is not piling up so fast, but it is out of line."

Sudan Bank To Have Dividend

First National Bank Maintains Its Record Of Paying Regular Dividend; Ten Per Cent Paid On 1932 Business

(By Staff Correspondent)

SUDAN, Jan. 14.—The First National bank of Sudan has maintained its record of declaring a dividend by the paying of a 10 per cent dividend for 1932.

"We have always paid 10 per cent dividends," P. E. Boesen, vice-president of the bank said. "In some years we have paid 15 or 20 per cent."

The bank is headed by V. C. Nelson as president and J. C. Barron as cashier. W. H. Lyle and M. C. Robertson are assistant cashiers. The directors include besides the president, vice-president and cashiers, J. H. Furneaux and Simon D. Hay on the board of directors.

In the statement for December 31, 1932, loans and discounts were listed as $47,215.; bills of exchange of cotton and grain, $16,693.23 and cash and sight exchange $64,123.30, with total resources of $142,034.89. Deposits were $100,769.46; surplus, $5,000 and undivided profits $11,265.53.

Appointments

commissioner in that department.

Miss Frederick Turner of Washington county was appointed cashier in the secretary of state's office.

Greenville Man Named

Mayo Neeland, jr., of Greenville, who served as a lieutenant in the 144th infantry overseas during the World war, was named assistant adjutant-general.

Lawrence McGee of Dallas was made quartermaster-general.

Ranger Captains designated were J. E. Vaugh of Presidio county, D. E. Hamer of Dallas county, James Robbins of Bexar county, H. T. O'Neal of Pecos county, R. W. Aldrich of Travis county and E. H. Hammond of Harris county.

D. E. Hamer is a brother of Captain Frank Hamer, veteran ranger captain, who has served in that capacity intermittently for more than two decades. The retiring Hamer did not serve as a ranger during Mrs. Ferguson's administration in 1925-26, but he was a special investigator with the adjutant-general's office during that period.

Hickman Will Quit

Captain Tom Hickman of Fort Worth is another colorful Texas ranger who will quit the service with induction of the new administration. Aldrich returns as a captain after having served through the Moody administration.

J. H. Davis, jr., of Temple was named confidential secretary to Mrs. Ferguson. Davis obtained his first employment in the law office of former Governor James E. Ferguson in 1911. Others placed on the executive secretarial staff are John Wood of Timpson, Miss Gladys Little of Borque county, Miss Kathleen Trigg of Bell county and Miss Cora Langston of Milam county. Miss Lingston was designated as stenographer.

Hunter McLean of Fort Worth was designated deputy to Commissioner Daniel in the insurance department.

Women On Staff

Daniel will succeed W. A. Tarver, who is chairman of the insurance commission.

Two women were placed on the woman governor's staff with honorary titles as lieutenant-colonels. It is the first time women ever have been on a Texas governor's staff.

Personnel of the staff:

Mrs. J. E. King of San Antonio, Mrs. Lyt J. Womack of Marshall Wright Armstrong of Houston, Elbert Barrow of Sherman, Will Cantrell, jr., of Greenville, J. L. Lancaster of Dallas, A. S. Romansky of Houston, Robert Stern of Dallas Walter Timon of Corpus Christi and Joe E. Winfree of Houston.

Nominations Given Senate

Governor Sterling already had sent to the senate nominations for the three places on the university board of regents expiring this year. He reappointed R. L. Batts of Austin, Ed Crane of Dallas, and R. L. Holliday of El Paso to the board. Batts requested that his name be withdrawn and it was understood Governor Sterling, maintaining he had a right to make the appointments, was considering substituting Albert Sidney Johnson of Dallas for Batts in event the latter persisted in not being named. Batts is chairman of the present board.

The senate had requested the attorney general to give it a ruling whether the outgoing governor or the incoming chief executive was entitled to name university regents whose terms expire this year and three members of the board of education, also nominated by Governor Sterling. A reply from the attorney general to the senate did not clarify the situation, senators claimed.

The attorney general department's reply did not express an opinion, but merely submitted photostatic copies of the official register of appointees as kept in the secretary of state's office. This showed that the regents terms expired in "1933," but did not indicate the exact date.

National AAU Girls Champs Defeat Dallas Cyclone Team

DALLAS, Jan. 14. (AP)—The Oklahoma Presbyterian college girls' basketball team of Durant, holders of the National A. A. U. championship, defeated the Dallas Golden Cyclones last night, 33-24. The Cyclones went to the finals of last year's national tournament, and held the national crown in 1931.

Except for two occasions in the first half, the Oklahoma girls led all the way. Captain Doll Harris, all-American forward, played a marvelous game, shooting with accuracy and offering a passing game that bewildered the Cyclone guards. At the half, Oklahoma led, 15 to 13. It was the 45th consecutive win for the national champions and their fourth straight over the Cyclones.

Miss Nell Parmley Undecided About Accepting Appointment

Miss Nell Parmley, dean of girls at Lubbock High school, whom a press dispatch late Friday stated had been appointed as a supervisor in the division of rural schools of the state department of education, Saturday afternoon inferred she had not decided whether or not to accept the appointment.

J. A. Humphries, chieftain of South Plains Ferguson forces, of Lubbock, earlier in the week accepted a similar appointment, by L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction.

A press dispatch from Austin late Friday listed Humphries as of Temple and Miss Parmley as of Lubbock.

Main Offices

diverted to any other purpose. Efforts are being made to divert money from this fund now, and it is necessary to have an organization like the Texas Good Roads association, manned by the most alert and influential leaders of the state, to oppose successfully such efforts.

Reduction Opposed

"Any further reduction in the highway maintenance and building funds would slow up, or possibly stop altogether, the work now going on toward paving the unimproved gaps in the present highway system. The revenue from the two cents per gallon of the tax now going to the highway work is only sufficient to take care of the maintenance work on the roads already improved, and to meet the requirements for federal aid appropriations, of which Texas is now receiving around $7,000,000 annually.

"An organization such as we are forming" said Watson, "backed by responsible, capable business men of the state, is in position to protect the investment already made in Texas roads, and to work for a continuation of the building of a connected system of all-weather improved highways, better than any one individual.

Tax Purpose Explained

"Every time a car owner buys a gallon of gasoline," went on Watson, "he pays five cents as toll or rent for the use of good roads. He deserves to have good roads extending all over the state of Texas as a return for this toll, and it is to see to it that he does get this just return in the form of good roads that the Texas Good Roads association has been organized.

"At present, one cent of the gasoline tax is federal, one cent goes to the state school fund and one cent to the fund from which the state will pay off bonded indebtedness incurred by counties to help build state roads. The remaining two cents, which yields a revenue of approximately $15,000,000 annually goes to the highway fund, and it must not be used for any other purposes than highway construction and maintenance," Watson asserts.

To Fight Curtailment

"Since Texas must match the federal aid appropriation dollar for dollar, in order to get that assistance, for construction work on highways, and since the amount we have to match the federal funds, after providing for the upkeep of the present roads, is just sufficient to meet the requirement, any diversion would mean loss of the federal money to the state."

Curtailment of highway activities in Texas, Watson declared, would complicate the unemployment situation in Texas seriously, because today more than 100,000 people are dependent, entirely or in part on highway work, and 40,000 men are employed in highway construction in the state, he said. "To add that number to the unemployed in the state would be an economic tragedy that would threaten the well-being of the entire citizenship," he insisted.

on organization work and urged officers of the county group to strive for a closer community organization. She also urged the need of a farmer organization to support Texas Tech in its fight against curtailment of its work.

Contest Is Announced

Dean A. H. Leidigh of the school of agriculture announced plans for a non-vocational agriculture judging contest to be held at Tech this spring. This would serve to take the place of a demand for the work among schools without vocational work. He also discussed the proposed curtailment program and said that Tech's economical administration compared favorably with other state schools. Dean Leidigh also announced the livestock judging pavilion was for use by the annual farm and home conference, if they so desired.

Other speakers included: Earl Davis of Acuff and M. S. Hudson of Hale Center, directors of the T. C.C.A.; Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, economist of the Tech school of agriculture; O. G. Tumlinson, county agent and T. N. Nelson.

H. L. Gantz acted as secretary of the meeting.

fide restaurants, dining rooms, dining cars, and eating cars, unless such laws would be in violation of the federal constitution.

Any defined political subdivision of the state would be given the privilege of determining "from time to time whether the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be prohibited within the prescribed limits."

The proposed amendment would be submitted to the electorate at a special election on July 29, 1933, and would become a part of the constitution immediately if it received a majority vote. It carried a saving clause that the legislature would be empowered to pass laws "to the extent that such shall not violate the constitution of the United States as it is now or may hereafter be amended."

from federal appropriations made to Texas."

Decided To Use Funds

"The committee then decided," Mayor Clements continued, "that if the money was to be paid back that way, and, in view of the fact that we were taking care of our unemployment through local taxation, Lubbock county would be ahead by using these funds, knowing we would have to stand our part of the payment later on whether we used the funds or not."

Spencer A. Wells and J. O. Jones are other members of the work subcommittee headed by the mayor.

Will Build Road

A road, about half a mile long, will be built to the new dump grounds, Mayor Clements said, and caliche turned up there will be trucked to hard-surface construction to be begun about the senior high school block. A block of Eighteenth street, immediately north of senior high school, and three blocks of Avenue T, including one immediately east of senior high school, will be paved, the three-block strip extending past Dupre school. The mayor estimated about $2,500 would be paid for labor in the paving project.

A six-inch caliche base will be laid first, to be covered with chat, upon which asphalt will be laid later. Asphalt is ruined by freezing, the mayor explained, and it will not be put down until a warmer season arrives.

Use Funds For Labor

All Reconstruction Finance funds used here are for labor. The city will pay for materials and dispose of other expenses in the hard-surfacing.

"The committee," Mayor Clements said, "intends to handle this money in a way that Lubbock and Lubbock county will receive some lasting benefit, and only projects of this nature will be undertaken."

Charles A. Guy, chairman of the Work Relief committee, and A. B. Davis, secretary, who is manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development, went to Sweetwater to receive allotments of Lubbock county for January and February from Wilbur C. Hawk of Amarillo and D. A. Bandeen of Stamford, president and manager, respectively, of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, distributor of Reconstruction Finance corporation funds in this region. Representatives of Idalou and Slaton, which will receive an undetermined share of the Lubbock county allotments, were to accompany Mr. Guy and Mr. Davis to Sweetwater.

Section Is Cited

The Reconstruction Finance corporation bill's section E, to which Mayor Clements referred, is:

"Any portion of the amount approved by the corporation for payment to the governor of a state or territory shall, at his request, and with the approval of the corporation, be paid to any municipality or political subdivision of such state or territory if (1) the governor makes as to such municipality or political subdivision a like certificate as provided in subsection (c) as to the state or territory, and (2) such municipality or political subdivision enters into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment to the corporation of the amount so paid with interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum at such times and upon such other terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the corporation and such municipality or political subdivision. The amount paid to any municipality or subdivision under this subsection shall not be included in any amounts reimbursable to the corporation under subsection (b) of this section."

Toilets Constructed

Construction of about 40 slab toilets, which will be rented by the city to residents of Little Juarez, Mexican quarter, was begun last week, giving employment to a total of 14 men during the week, H. E. Hargis, district sanitary engineer, said.

Eight of the toilets are ready for installation. RFC funds are being used for labor, and the city has furnished materials, Hargis said. The toilets will be placed beyond the limits of sewer lines.

Edgar T. Neal, Texas ranger, of Lubbock, returned Friday night from Paducah where he and Ranger O. H. Baker of Hereford aided in settling a strike of employes of a construction company doing highway improvement work there.

The rangers were called out after employes of the J. W. Zempter Construction company struck for higher wages and attempted to restrain others from working.

"Mr. Zempter was called there from Galveston, and when he arrived he was attacked and severely beaten," Mr. Neal said. "J. W. Blair, who was superintendent of construction of the highway to Slaton, was superintendent at Paducah. The situation quiet when we left, most of the men having returned to work."

Taxpayers Are Joining Move

Lubbock County Association Reported As Growing; Next Meeting Of Group Is To Be Monday Night

Membership in the Lubbock County Taxpayers association has practically doubled since the drive started the first of the week and there are now "approximately 4,000 members, according to Dr. J. G. Hall, president.

"We hope to have reported at our meeting next Monday night between 5,000 and 6,000 members," Dr. Hall added. "There are 10 or 15 men now out soliciting. One man Friday morning turned in a bundle of memberships and said there were 200 in the list.

"Next Monday night we will have a meeting of the executive committee and the solicitors who will make a report of their work. We hope there will be 6,000 names. When we started the drive we had about 1,800 men members. Now we are taking in women as well as men.

"Just as soon as we finish the drive in Lubbock, we plan to work in the other towns, Slaton, Idalou and Shallowater and in all of the communities in the county. I attended a community meeting the other night and secured 40 members."

The organization was formed last year. During the political campaign the securing of memberships was stopped because of the inability to interest many people except in politics.

Objectives of the association, Dr. Hall explained, are: one, the elimination of every tax consuming agency, thing or person, that we do need in any orderly government; two, to ascertain what departments of government or individuals receive a greater amount than they should, commensurate with the services rendered.

"We have no quarrels with individuals, but we believe that taxes should be reduced to a point where people can readily pay them." Dr. Hall added.

TO FURNISH CERTIFIED SEED

CANYON, Jan. 14—The Canyon Chamber of Commerce has again made arrangements to furnish certified seed to the farmers of Randall county, at cost, and County Agent W. H. Upchurch is buying the seed from the growers. Last year 32,000 pounds of seed were distributed in Randall county through this plan.

Several families, as a rule, share a communal kitchen in which they do their cooking, in Moscow.

Ravens And Crows Kill Game Birds Of This Section

Ravens and crows, especially ravens, have done considerable damage to game birds in West Texas and the state fish and game department is seeking to eradicate the pests, according to O. D. Cardwell of Post, deputy game warden for this district.

"We have a raven trap in Dickens county," Mr. Caldwell said, "and in two weeks recently we caught over 700 ravens."

The trap, he said, is located close to a hog killing yard and the birds congregate there. As a result, it is easier to catch them. Ravens kill young ducks and quail and other birds and do damage to crops, the warden pointed out.

Farmers whose property is menaced by ravens are advised to build traps.

Another menace to wild fowl is the hawk. "Over in the Stamford country," Mr. Caldwell said, "hunters tell me they locate quail by hawks. I was out driving with a man one afternoon and he saw a hawk circling in the air over a certain spot. 'Bet you there are some quail there' he told me. I asked him how he knew and he said he could tell by the hawk. Sure enough, we found quail. Nine times out of ten that is a good sign."

Mr. Caldwell said he killed all the hawks he could find while on his field trips. He also kills road runners. These eat the eggs and young birds. A hawk will swoop down and carry off a young quail easily, he said.

Planting Program Planned In City

A planting program, involving setting out of more than 1,650 trees and shrubs, is being planned for Lubbock's parks this spring, C. D. McGehee, parks superintendent, said Saturday.

Most of the planting will be done at the large city park in northeast Lubbock, but there will be some replacements in suburban parks.

The beautification program for the 67-acre tract includes construction of a lily pond. The pond will measure about 40 by 120 feet, McGeehee said. Some grass will be planted.

Chinese elm trees lead the list of plantings, in number. McGeehee said about 500 of these trees will be set out. Other plantings include: 150 evergreens, 130 willows, 400 shrubs, and between 400 and 500 roses. The Chinese elms will be set out late in February, and the other shrubs and trees will be planted in March.

Professor Says Technocracy Seeks To Find Way To A New Economic Health

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. (AP)—"Technocracy," Prof. Walter Raustenstrauch told the society of Arts and Sciences last night, "offers no patent medicine for the ills of humanity. It seeks rather to find a way of light which will lead to a state of sustained economic health and well being.

"Technocracy does not state that the engineer should run the country. It is not interested in promoting any legal controls by any group of persons or class. What it does hold is that the engineering method of solving difficult problems is a good method of proven worth.

"It further maintains," continued Prof. Rautenstauch, "that the problems of feeding, clothing and sheltering ourselves are essential engineering problems and should be solved by engineering methods, which are non-political."

Prof. Rautenstrauch, head of the department of industrial engineering at Columbia university, presented this definition of technocracy:

"Technocracy is a human enterprise and seeks to find the basis for a stable policy of social growth. It is not a cult, it is a non-profit and non-political organization."

With Howard Scott, the director of technocracy, the Columbia professor was invited by the society to outline the purpose of the movement which has headquarters in his laboratory.

"If in the progress of its investigations" the professor said "it (technocracy) finds commercial and financial practices and economic policies which are not in the public interest, it must of necessity bring these to view for intelligent public discussion."

Baseball Men Meet Here Today To Study League Plan

Alvin Gardner Here To Help Organize Loop

Delegates From Six Towns To Meet At Hotel Lubbock At 2 O'Clock This Afternoon; May Perfect Organization

A new baseball league may be organized here today.

Baseball enthusiasts and prominent civic leaders of the six towns being considered as sites for clubs in the West Texas-New Mexico Beseball League are to meet at Hotel Lubbock this afternoon at 2 o'clock and hear detailed plans relative to the organization and operation of a Class D League for this territory.

If the league is organized, professional baseball will return to this section after a lapse of five years.

J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League, and Milton Price secretary of the Texas League, arrived here yesterday afternoon in order to attend today's meeting. Mrs. Gardner accompanied the two. The party drove from Wichita Falls yesterday after leaving Dallas Friday.

Local Citizens Invited

Representatives of baseball interests in El Paso, Albuquerque, San Angelo, Amarillo, Pampa and Lubbock are to attend today's session, which is open to all local and visiting citizens. It is hoped that a large number of local sportsmen will attend the meeting.

Marty Fiedler, owner of the Albuquerque baseball club, probably will assume the chairmanship of today's meeting, with Mr. Gardner and Milton Price being principal speakers.

Wilbur C. Hawk, Amarillo newspaper publisher and an important figure in West Texas business circles, is expected to be present, representing Amarillo and presenting that city's answer to the question of league organization. It has been suggested that Hawk, who is reported to look favorably upon the league plans, may be elected president of the league.

Gardner Is Optimistic

Upon his arrival here yesterday Gardner said that he saw "no reason why the league should not be organized as planned," and that "it would be a fine thing for West Texas and New Mexico, as well as for all the rest of Texas.

"The Texas League," Mr. Gardner said, "will be glad to see the league organized. I am here to give it all the support I can, and I personally hope there is no hitch and that the towns under consideration will come through. They may be assured of my best personal support and the Texas League will count it as a fine step.

"I have brought Secretary Milton Price along to take all notes and assist in any way that he can toward the organizing of a league tomorrow. He has statistics, rules and regulations and facts to show that organization of such a league is not impossible and that it is good for the community.

Not a Promoter

"Organization of this league must not be mistaken for a promotional project," Mr. Gardner said. The National Association does not recognize 'promoters,' and in connection with the plans here, there are no promoters."

It is understood that larger minor league clubs plan to use the teams in the West Texas-New Mexico League as farms, offering farm support. The Pacific Coast and Texas leagues are said to be especially interested.

Bobby Stow Plans To Organize Loop

FORT WORTH, Jan. 14. (AP)—An effort to revive the Class D baseball league in the heart of West Texas is to be made by Bobby Stow, veteran Texas League player and club officials.

He announced today that he would leave his home here Monday to make a trip to Abilene, Coleman, Ballinger, San Angelo, Big Spring, Midland and possibly Lubbock and Sweetwater.

Stow says he has no ambition to connect himself with the league in any manner as he will return to Beaumont with the Exporters during the coming season.

"My only idea," he said, "is to re-establish baseball in a section which should have it. Now that players' salaries and general expenses have come down there should be a chance for such a league to survive. It would be a place for young ball players. Baseball needs smaller cities in leagues and the cities need baseball."

The idea is to organize and operate the league on the Nebraska State league plan—a sort of cooperative plan where all the business is handled by one central office.

Stow's plans have no connection with those of another group to organize a West Texas-New Mexico league. He believes the latter is too scattered or practical purposes, whereas the cities he has in mind are near enough together to make traveling inexpensive.

Tunney To Settle With Tim Mara

Promoter Receives "Vindication" On Former Match

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. (AP)—Tim Mara's suit against Gene Tunney, former world heavyweight boxing champion, for $500,000 has been settled, the New York promoter announced today. Mara has agreed to drop the suit on a cash payment of $30,000 to be made next week.

Retrial of the suit, brought by Mara on claim for 25 per cent of the former champion's ring earnings, was scheduled for next week. The case was tried originally here three years ago and resulted in a verdict for Tunney after much sensational testimony delving deeply into the inner workings of the big league fight business.

Letters Not Admitted

This original verdict later was reversed by the appelate court and a new trial ordered on the grounds that letters from Tunney to Mara, allegedly confirming the promoter's claim that Tunney had agreed to give him 25 per cent of future earnings for gaining Gene a title match with Jack Dempsey, were not admitted as evidence.

"The lawyers have been dickering for weeks," said Mara, owner of the New York Giants professional football team, and a boxing promoter, "and I have signed a release of all claims. Tunney is ill and payment of the $30,000 to me has been deferred until next Thursday or Friday."

Mara's case was based on his claim that he had agreed to use his political and other influence to persuade Tex Rickard to name Tunney as Jack Dempsey's opponent for a match in 1926 in return for a percentage of the fighter's future earnings.

Tunney claimed no contract had been made, and that Mara's aid had been invoked only for a match to take place in New York.

During the testimony prominent political figures, including a former New York state governor unnamed, and James A. Farley, former head of the New York State Athletic commission and now chairman of the Democratic national committee, figured in the evidence.

The maneuvering of Tex Rickard promoter of both Tunney-Dempsey bouts, provided high lights in the evidence as it was shown through telegrams, letters exchanged with both warriors that he tried to convince each man the other couldn't fight.

Mara, who once offered his lawyers for themselves any judgment that could be obtained just so that his suit was vindicated, explained today the payment of $30,000 on Tunney's part justified his claim.

"In these times," he said, "that's a lot of money for Tunney or anyone else to pay. All I wanted was vindication. Now I've got it."

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Baylor 28, Rice 45.

Texas A. & M. 24, Southern Methodist 28.

Arkansas 28; Texas 31.

One of the most popular names in baseball will reverberate on the eardrums of local and visiting citizens when J. Alvin Gardner is introduced at a convention of delegates and fans here today.

Mr. Gardner is coming from his Texas League offices in Dallas to Lubbock where he will be the center of attraction at the meeting, at which time organization of the West Texas-New Mexico league is expected to be perfected.

The meeting is scheduled to open at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The ballroom of Hotel Lubbock has been designated as the place. Official representatives of towns anxious to become members of the proposed league will be here. It is reported that five towns are ready to go. Four towns have declared themselves as all set.

Enthusiasm here has not been all that it could have been, but it is hoped that enough Lubbock fans will attend the meeting, which is an open affair, to revive baseball interest and make a showing good enough to warrant the further consideration of this city as a member of the league. Regardless of whether Lubbock enters, some form of organization, if nothing but a four-club circuit, probably will result from today's meeting. It is Lubbock's big chance. Under the plan of "home cooperation," it is felt that Lubbock lacks only a few leaders to get at the helm and put the thing across. Once started, it is believed that the league will flourish. Major and big minor leagues are interested in the formation of a circuit in this territory, and have promised farm support.

If an organization is perfected today, it is forecast that Wilbur C. Hawk, Amarillo publisher and prominent West Texas leader, will be elected president. Mr. Gardner, president of the Texas League, is another likely candidate. Both men are due to attend today's meeting.

Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, director of athletics at the University of Kansas and nationally famous basketball expert (he was an important figure at the Tech coaching school last summer) is writing his annual series of basketball features for the Associated Press. In one of his stories, Dr. Allen points out the importance of making free shots count. Here are some figures he published after the basketball rules committee, of which he is a member, made a special research which resulted in the rule changes:

51.3 per cent of the fouls attempted were shot from the foul line by the winning team.

47.8 per cent of the fouls attempted were shot by the losing team.

8.9 per cent fouls per game on the average were made by the winning team.

10.1 per cent fouls per game were made by the losing team. Therefore, on the average, the calling of fouls presents approximately a 20 per cent advantage to the winning team, scores resulting from fouls considered.

55 per cent of all games were decided at the foul line.

94.5 per cent of fouls called were upon the defensive team.

51 per cent of the fouls were committed in the free throw circle and close vicinity, an area that comprises but 11.5 per cent of the total playing space of a standard sized court.

Those statistics may not be of interest to the average fan, but this writer has noticed in the course of his brief professional career that basketball teams who sink the most free shots are usually the teams to win. He has also noted that the winning team usually commits less fouls than the losers. Thus it would seem to behoove all good basketball players to come to the aid of their team while shooting from the foul line.

Maybe we have room for one of Lone Star Dietz' stories, as retold by Brian Bell, A. P. scribe.

Dietz, coach at Haskell, likes to recall one of "Hurry Up" Yost's experiences. One of Yost's great Michigan teams was playing Buffalo in an early season game and giving the little New York school a fine trimming. Buffalo substitutes were going in and out in droves.

Near the end of the game, Yost suddenly noticed a strange player on his bench, bundled up in blankets so as hardly to be recognizable. He looked closer and recognized the youngster as one of the Buffalo players.

"What are you doing over here?" Yost demanded.

The boy, bruised and battered, looked at Yost appealingly.

"Please, Mr. Yost," he said, "don't say anything. I know where I'm at. My coach has sent me in there four times already, and I'm not going back again, I don't want to be killed.'"

Steers, Owls And Mustangs In Cage Wins

Mustangs Win Second Geme Of Season In Beating Aggies; Longhorns Nose Out Razorbacks In Second Contest

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 14. (AP)—The University of Texas basketeers made it two in a row on successive nights from Arkansas by handing the Porkers a 31 to 28 trimming.

Arkansas took an early five point lead before Texas scored and the Porkers ran their total to 14 while holding Texas to five points. Near the middle of the first half Texas broke loose with a fast passing attack that netted 11 points while Arkansas scored but two, tying the score at 16-all at the half.

Porkers Take Lead

The Porkers jumped into an early second half lead but it was short lived. The teams were tied at 18 points, again at 19 at 21, at 23, and at 25. Texas pulled ahead 31 to 26 with seconds to play, Murphy sank a long one to give Arkansas 28 as the gun cracked.

The summary:

Half time score: Texas 16, Arkansas 16.

Personal fouls, Gray 3, Price 2, Fagan, Francis 3, Beall 3, Murphy 3, Gibson 4, Lasoff 3.

Referee: Sears (Kentucky Teachers). Umpire Bushman (Missouri).

Mustangs Stay On Even Terms With Texas

DALLAS, Jan. 14. (AP) — The Southern Methodist Mustangs defeated Texas A. and M., 28 to 24, tonight to remain in a tie with the University of Texas for the Southwest conference basketball leadership.

Fast Breaking Game

In defeating the Aggies, the Mustangs played a fast breaking game with the entire lineup shooting constantly for the basket. The first half, ended in favor of Southern Methodist, 15 to 14.

Captain Joe Moody, with four field goals, led the Aggie scoring.

He registered all four goals in the first half. He tied with Zachery for high point honors.

The summary:

Half score: Texas A. and M., 14; Southern Methodist 15.

Personal fouls: Moody, Horn, Breazeale, Merka, Marcum 2, Robert, Baccus, Wilhite 3, Wright 4, Lovern, Carter 2, Johnson, Riley.

Referee—Happ Morre (Washington State). Umpire—Dutch Myers, (Texas Christian).

Defending Champs Fail To "Follow Through"

HOUSTON, Jan. 14. (AP)—Clever, speedy ball handling featured the 45-28 victory gained here tonight by Coach Jimmy Kitts' Rice Institute Owls over Coach Ralph Wolf's Baylor Bears, defending Southwest conference basketball champions. The Kittsmen showed remarkable improvement over the form they exhibited in losing a week ago to the Texas Aggies.

In Harry Journeay and Hokie Snider, both former San Jacinto High school stars of Houston, Rice apparently has a brace of sophomore forwards of rare promise. Journeay was high scorer with 13 points, while Snider scored 12. Harold Johnson, big sophomore center, showed flashes of ability; while Captain "Bubba" Koch, Virgil Dixon and little Jake Alexander played well at guard.

Captain Abe Barnett, 1932 all-Southwest guard of Baylor, turned in a scrapping exhibition. It was his fine work that prevented the Owls' scoring almost at will.

Despite a game leg, Frank James, lanky center, fought hard, accounting for seven points. It was apparent that Baylor's chances of retaining its basketball crown are indeed slim.

Score at half: Rice 24, Baylor 11.

Personal fouls: O'Heeron 2, Reynolds 4, James 4, Parks 3, Barnett 1, Kroney 1, Journeay 1, Snider 1, Johnson, Koch 4, Dixon 4, Alexander 2, Metzlet.

Referee, Boggess (Waco High); umpire, Brock (Texas).

Southern Conference Charges Members Are Subsidizing And Recruiting; Big Investigation And Legislation Opens

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 14. (AP) — Charging recruiting and subsidization of athletes, together with low scholastic standards, existed in southern colleges, the Southern conference today asked an investigation and steps to prohibit such practices.

The Southern Association of colleges and secondary schools was asked to institute an investigation in every school in its jurisdiction and to adopt a regulation to withdraw standard college rating from schools found guilty.

C. P. Miles, athletic director of Virginia Polytechnic institute and president of the conference, hailed the action as "the most far-reaching and progressive legislation ever promulgated by an athletic conference" and asserted athletics in the south would be "cleaned up" if the conference recommendation was accepted.

Mr. Miles said in a prepared statement given out after the executive session in a small hotel parlor, "to make the administrative heads and educational authorities responsible for athletics is our aim."

Atlanta Crackers May Be The Team To Watch In Southern Association Race; New Player, Manager Deals Complete

Joe E. Brown Realizes Long Ambition When He Acquires Third Interest In "Blues"

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 14. (AP)—A life-long ambition to possess an interest in a baseball club came to fulfillment today for Joe E. Brown, the film comedian of the spreading mouth, with his agreement to purchase a one-third share in the Kansas City club of the American association.

Joe, who has a wisecrack for most any occasion, reverted to the serlousness of a dyed-in-the-wool fan when he took up discussion of his newest venture into the realm of base hits.

Tris Speaker To Manage

Motion picture player that he is, Joe does not intend to allow films to make a sideline out of baseball for him. He does not expect to manage the club. That will be left to his old friend, Tris Speaker, but between pictures the fans of the American Association may expect to see the grinning face of the comedian wherever the Blues are playing.

It was Speaker, whom he met in Cleveland in 1920, when he was a baseball player in his own right, that brought Joe into the ownership end of a ball club. Speaker, one of the greatest figures of the major leagues, had come to know of the comedian's fondest hope. The other night, Speaker called him up, told him of the opportunity and over the telephone, the deal was closed, subject to ratification by attorneys for the Muehlebach estate of Kansas City, the present owners. E. Lee Keysery, Des Moines, will be the party of the third part.

ATLANTA, Jan. 14. (AP)—The Southern baseball association race this summer will be one of the hottest in years if pre-season trades, purchases and general strengthening all down the line may be used as a basis for early judgment.

Virtually every club has improved its attack and defense by the acquisition of new blood. Wholesale revisions by Atlanta, New Orleans and Nashville have featured the January-December deals.

New managers are found in Atlanta, Knoxville, and New Orleans. Larry Gilbert, after a year as business manager, takes over the New Orleans managerial reins again to relieve Jakie Atz, who will return to the Texas league. Tommy Taylor replaced Bernie Neis at Knoxville and Charlie Moore, formerly with Hartford in the Eastern league, succeeded Red Barron in Atlanta.

Wilbert Robinson At Head

The Crackers, hardly a threat in any recent race, may be the team to watch this season. A new organization finds Wilbert Robinson, for many years Brooklyn manager, as president and T. L. Huston, former part-owner of the Yankees, as a director. The new officials have shown a tendency to loosen the purse strings in an effort to bring Atlanta a winning club.

The Crackers will have a brand new inner circle with the possible exception of Bustery Chatham at shortstop. First Baseman Gordon Phelps and Second Baseman Wally Dashiell, who played a year ago with Chattanooga, were acquired through Washington. Third Baseman Russell Rollings of Denver was bought from the St. Louis Cardinals' system.

Atlanta also acquired Art Weis, a Birmingham outfield star two years ago. Other outfielders available are Duck McKee. Fred Sington and Red Barron. Moore hopes to obtain a few pitchers before the curtain rises.

Lookout Personnel Unknown

Chattanooga, 1932, champions, will have another contender but the personnel of the Lookouts is unknown as yet. Washington recalled Infielders Boss, Kingdon and Travis. Outfielders Gill and Andrus and Catcher Bolton. Boss later was sent to Cleveland in a deal which shipped First Baseman Bruce Connatser to Washington.

Connatser may play for the Lookouts and it is possible that Andrus, Gill, Travis and Kingdon will be returned by the Senators. Practically all the excellent pitchers of 1932 will be available, as will Jile, a catcher, Wilburn, an infielder, and Bonowitz, an outfielder.

Browns' Team In Texas Loop May Be Known Monday

WICHITA FALLS, Jan. 14. (AP)—Denial that a deal was pending between the Longview baseball club and the San Antonio interests for the transfer of the Longview Texas League club to the Alamo City was made here today by L. C. McEvoy of St. Louis, president of the Longview club and vice-president of the St. Louis Browns who own a controlling interest in the Texas League franchise.

"Other than an informal conversation with Homer Hammond (president of the San Antonio club) at the minor league meeting early last month, the project of operating at San Antonio has been given no consideration," McEvoy said today following his arrival for the annual stockholders meeting here Monday.

He announced the St. Louis Browns of which he is vice-president positively will operate a Texas League club this season, but that a decision on the location of the club would not be made until the stockholders meeting is held here Monday.

McEvoy intimated the controlling club looked with little favor on the possibilities of continuing the club either at Wichita Falls or Longview, the scene of its activities last season. He said invitations had been received from Tyler and Waco to operate the club in those cities, but denied that a definite proposition had been received from San Antonio.

CRAIG-MARTUCCI WIN

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 14. (AP)—Wilson Craig of Akron, Ohio, and Jim Martucci of Teterboro, N. J., won the annual winter pro team championship of the Miami country club today, defeating Walter Bourne of Princeton, N. J., and Herman Rama of Fresh Meadow, L. I., 2 and 1 in the 36-hole final round.

CUNNINGHAM TO RUN

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. (AP)—Glenn Cunningham, National Collegiate A. A. mile champion and Olympic team member from the University of Kansas, has sent in his entry for the classic Wannamaker mile in the Millrose A. A. indoor track and field games in New York, Feb. 4.

Ray Mangrum Shoots Best Card Of Last Day In Comeback

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Jan. 14. (AP)—A young but experienced golfer, Paul Runyan, won the $7,500 fourth annual Agua Caliente open, scoring a victory over par and a select list of professionals here today with a 72 hole total o 287.

A thrilling rally on the last nine accounted for the 2 stroke margin by which the 24-year-old pro from Arkansas and White Plains, N. Y., trounced his pal, Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., who played in the same threesome and was the runner-up.

Runyan was tied for first at the end of the third day with Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., who had won open tournaments at San Francisco, Pasadena and Los Angeles before the western winter trail led him here. They had totals of 217, and Horton Smith was two strokes behind them.

At the end of 63 holes at noon today Horton had moved into the lead with Runyan by virtue of playing the first nine in 34, and Wood had fallen back a pace, in the race for the $1500 first prize money, turning the corner in one over par, 37 strokes.

Runyan Gets Ahead

Both played the tenth hole in four, par. Runyan made a par three on 11, but Horton missed a putt and was one behind. On 12 they both took birdie fours, and on 13 had par 4s, but of 14 Runyan sank a 20-footer for a birdie 3 and moved two ahead of Smith. Horton lacked a foot of tieing it up on the 15th with a near hole-in-one when his drive stopped just 12 inches short of the cup. He took a birdie two, and Paul got a par.

Both gladiators were nervous on the last three, but Runyan managed to play them in perfect figures, while Horton took bogie fives on the 16th and 18th when his putter went on a strike, and one trap got in the way.

Wood's Try Is Vain

Meanwhile Craig Wood was trying futilely to match the sub-par pace set by the pair. He toured the first nine in 37 and the last in even par for a 73-290 and a tie for third place.

Young Ray Mangrum, the Texan from Los Angeles, made a marvelous comeback today to avenge himself on Wood, whose uncanny putting yesterday broke the 22-year old's heart.

Mangrum led at the half way mark, but while playing with Wood yesterday he dropped nine strokes to the blond giant, and fell well back. But today Mangrum turned the corner with a par 36, and came home in 33, for a 69, the best score of the day, which gave him a 72 hole total of 190, and a tie with Wood.

Leo Diegel, the home professional, blew his chances after being in the third bracket last night. He took a 78 when all his clubs by turns refused to work, and finished with 296, as did Olin Dutra, P. G. A. champion, Tony Manero, and Willie Goggin.

Mangrum made a spectacular finish, shooting 36-33—69.

It was the second round of 69, low card of the tournament, for the Waco, Texas, youth, and was three strokes under par. He was putting in great fashion again today, and was dead to the green on half of the holes with a steady iron game which had marked his early rounds.

His card:

Out: 443 434 653—36.

In: 443 443 344—33—36—39—290.

Final scores included:

Ray Mangrum, Waco, 221-69—290.

Ben Hogan, Ft. Worth, 238, withdrew.

Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., 217-70—287.

Byron Nelson, Ft. Worth, 230-74—304.

Ted Longworth, Texarkana, Texas, 230-77—307.

Westerners In 51-22 Victory Over Ralls Hi

Snodgrass And Stone Hit For Lubbock Scoring Honors To Lead Westerners To Win; Ralls Girls In Victory

RALLS, Jan. 14. (Special)—Flashing an offense that left the Ralls Jackrabbits in the dark, the Lubbock High school Westerners defeated Ralls High school, 51 to 22, here tonight.

It was the highest score made by the Lubbock team this season.

Snodgrass, who was used for only a few minutes due to a recent illness that has kept him entirely out of games, and Robert Stone led the Westerner scoring with ten points each. Coach Swede McMurray used nearly every player on the bench.

Jenkins, tall center for Ralls, scored 14 points to lead the Jackrabbits and to take high point honors.

In another game here tonight, the Ralls girls team won over Petersburg, 20 to 16. The game was close all the way, with but one and two points separating leader from trailer until the last few minutes when Ralls launched an attack that resulted in the four-point margin.

Wheeler led Ralls' scoring with eight points, but Jay of Petersburg was high scorer with 10 points.

AGAIN AGAIN AGAIN

I say "I told you so," about the BIG BARGAINS in brick veneer homes that I have been selling. Only last Sunday, I told you about these houses that were selling like "hot cakes" and warned you to HURRY, if you were interested, or else they would be gone. The following brick veneer homes were purchased this past week:

2124 27th street, sold to Mr. L. R. Wood.
2414 9th street, sold to Dr. W. B. Lanning.
2408 16th st., sold to Mrs. Bessie Rodgers.

NOW, you still have a chance, if you HURRY, as I have two REAL BARGAINS left that will POSITIVELY be sold this week. I doubt it, seriously, if I will ever have any more homes to offer at such prices as I am asking for these.

IF YOU HAVE SOME CASH and want to buy a nice home plenty worth the money, then look at these brick veneers:

2117 15th street, five-rooms, located in the heart of Lubbock, close to schools, two-room servant quarters, splendid neighborhood.

Cotton Cotton Trading Only Moderate — Livestock Broader Demand Seen In Cattle — Grain Wheat Values Pitch Backward

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14. (AP)—Trading in cotton was very moderate in today's short session and prices fluctuated narrowly and without any definite tendency, closing steady net 1 point down to 1 up.

The opening was irregular and Liverpool cables came in 1 to 2 penny points worse than due. Liverpool cabled the market was a dull trading affair with a general disposition to mark time, pending outcome of legislation in congress, result of the debate on the French budget, and the hostilities in Manchuria, although spots were more active. Manchester cabled sales of cloth and yarn were rather below hedge selling. March dropping to 6.11, May to 6.25, and July to 6.35 or 4 to 5 points below the previous close.

During the second hour prices rallied slightly on trade buying and in sympathy with some improvement in stocks and wheat. March advanced to 6.18, May to 6.29 and July to 6.41 or 4 to 7 points above the early lows. There was a reaction of a point or two at the end on realizing and March closed at 6.16 or net unchanged for the day. May at 6.28 or 1 point net down and July at 6.40, net unchanged.

Port receipts 21,371, for season 6,215,920, last season 6,975,317. Exports 49,469, for season 4,531,103, last season 4,292,545. Port stock 4,668,919, last year 4,908,061. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 142,847, last year 195,785. Spot sales at southern markets 18,439, last year 30,290.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. (AP)—Trading in cotton was quiet today with slightly early declines under further liquidation or southern selling followed by rallies on week-end covering and trade buying.

Business was restricted by a disposition to await the further progress of the farm relief bill, and the narrow fluctuations reflected the influence of comparatively small orders either way. March contracts after selling at 6.13 during the early trading, advanced to 6.20 and closed at 6.18 with the general market closing very steady, unchanged to 2 points higher.

The opening was unchanged to 2 points lower and the active months sold about 3 to 5 points net lower during the early trading with July declining to 6.38 or about 21 points below the high of last Wednesday.

Offerings were absorbed by continued trade buying which seemed to be coming partly through houses with foreign connections, and the market was steadier late in the morning. Trading became more active near the close when trade demand was supplemented by week-end covering. July sold up to 6.44 with active months general showing rallies of about 5 to 7 points from the low levels. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the best.

It was reported that the uncertainties of farm relief legislation was checking the forward demand for goods in the primary markets here. Liverpool cables reported a small market with narrow fluctuations and small offerings absorbed by trade calling. The report of the census bureau placed consumption in this country for December at 440,062 bales against 415,401 last year was about in line with expectations.

Stock Trading Of Routine Nature On Saturday; Small Changes Are Noted

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. (AP)—Stock trading was of a routine nature today. Week-end profit-taking sent prices off for a time, but leaders met fresh buying after moderate setback and there was generally little change by closing time. Turnover totaled 360,910 shares.

The market appeared to be under the guidance of professional traders who, if they were unwilling to hazard many guesses as to future happenings, also found no immediate reason for changing their recent attitude of conservative optimism. Resistance of leading shares to realising was evidence, though frequently a Saturday session is hardly a good test. Bonds again eased and wheat weakened toward the close.

Tobacco shares made another favorable showing, net gains for the three leading members of that group running from a fraction to just over a point. Proctor and Gamble slid off 1 3-8 net on announcement of the dividend reduction, to $1.80 annual basis from $2, but the stock had been anticipating the cut earlier in the week. McCrory stores issues were firmer.

Automobile stocks tended to sag, but Chrysler's loss of a point was exceptionally large. Rails were little changed at the close, favoring the down side by a narrow margin. Small net losses appeared for such a miscellaneous list as American Telephone, American Can, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, United Corp., U. S. Steel and Santa Fe, while National Biscuit, Consolidated Gas, Pacific Lighting, drug and several others finished slightly higher. Eastman rallied more than a point and Homestake jumped 3.

For week: Slaughter steers strong to 25 higher; other classes slaughter cattle steady to strong; occasional small advances in she stock; slaughter calves fully 25 higher; better grades stock steer yearlings 15 to 25 higher; other stocker classes fully steady. Bulk prices: Plain and rail run common killing steers 2.75@3.25; better grades fed yearlings 4.00@4.65; butcher sorts around 3.25; down; butcher cows 1.75@2.25; low cutters around 1.00; heavy slaughter calves 2.75@3.50; cull sorts 1.75@2.00.

Sheep, 300; today's trade nominal. For week: Fat lambs and yearlings steady; aged fat wethers 25 higher; medium to good fat lambs 4.00@4.75; fat yearlings 3.50@4.00; aged fat wethers 2.00@2.25, latter price closing top.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 14. (AP) — Cattle trade during the week under review was featured by a fairly broad demand for light weight fed steers and yearlings at strong to unevenly higher prices. Several markets showed upturns of 25 to 50. Light mixed yearlings, fed heifers and lower grade light weight steers sold to an especially good advantage. Medium weight and heavy steers were on a steady to 25 higher basis. Although the tone on killing cattle was the best in several weeks, the market is in no position to withstand increased runs as several eastern dressed beef centers reported demand poor with price concessions being made in order to effect clearance. There was a fair country demand for the rather limited offerings of stockers and feeders at firm to 25 higher rates. Aggregate receipts at eleven markets totaled around 143,900 as compared with 118,873 last week and 175,514 the corresponding period a year ago.

Fat lambs opened the week at lower price levels, reacted on mid-week sessions and then took another decline on the close. Chicago reports a loss for the week at 25 to 40 on the better grades while other centers show little change. Yearlings and fat ewes ruled steady to 25 higher. Supplies of around 300,000 were 102,000 heavier than last week and 60,000 short of a year ago.

Trade on hogs has been somewhat uneven with some centers closing steady to 15 higher with a week ago while other markets show losses of 5 to 15. St. Louis had a late top of 3.35. Total offerings for the week were around 524,700 against 431,375 last week.

Cross Funeral Services Are Conducted Here On Saturday

Funeral services for M. B. Cross, 54, who died Friday afternoon in his home at 2015 Fifteenth street, were conducted by the Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor, at the First Baptist church Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Burial was directed by Bynum-Stahler funeral home in Lubbock cemetery.

A broken hip, suffered about six weeks ago when Mr. Cross fell on ice, was a contributing factor in the final illness. A resident of Lubbock for the past 12 years, Mr. Cross was a member of the First Baptist church. Survivors are the widow, two sons, Loy and Hollie Cross, and one sister, Mrs. E. M. Aikins of Shallowater.

Episcopalians Will Attend Annual Gathering At Abilene

Several Lubbock persons, including the Rev. Lyle S. Barnett, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church here, will attend an annual convocation of the missionary district of North Texas of the church in Abilene January 22 and 23. The convocation will be held at the church of the Heavenly Rest, of which the Rev. Willis P. Gearhart is rector.

Besides the Rev. Mr. Barnett, delegates from the Lubbock church will included Mmes. Carl L. Svenson, Herbert Barstow and Thomas F. West, and W. W. Rix, Thomas P. West, and others.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Jan. 14. (AP)—Only fair demand was seen in the cash grain market at Fort Worth as the week closed.

Quotations ranged as follows: Basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid, delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat, No. 1 hard, according to protein and billing 52 1-4@53 1-4. Barley, No. 2 nominally 33 1-2@34 1-2. No. 3 nominally 32 1-2@33 1-2. Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 pounds 65@70; No. 3 milo 62@67. No. 2 kaffir per 100 lbs. 58@60; No. 3 kaffir 57@58.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: Corn, No. 2 mixed 41@41 1-2; No. 2 white or yellow 41 1-2@42 1-2.

Delivered Texas common points: Oats, No. 2 red 24@24 1-2; No. 3 red 23 1-2@24.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 14. (AP)—An outbreak of concentrated selling pitched wheat values backward late today, and more than offset earlier gains.

Much of the selling which accompanied the break in wheat was attributed to sudden liquidation of holdings by a large professional trader. Stop-loss orders from other sources were automatically thrown on the market as a result of the quick fall of prices. Recent speculative buying support had evaporated.

After a tumble of more than a cent a bushel, wheat closed unsettled, 3-8 to 3-4 under yesterday's finish, corn 1-4 to 1-2 down, oats unchanged to 1-8 to 1-4 off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents advance.

French dressing, to which fresh mint has been added, is a refreshing one to serve with fresh fruit salad.

SERVICE

WHEN YOU LIGHT THE BURNER of your gas appliance and the flame springs to life instantly, you see results — comfort — convenience — not causes.

Seldom, if ever, do you see the Service agencies that make this ideal fuel supply possible. Pipe lines, gas wells and manpower, Service!—the combination of efforts that brings natural gas to your burner and which plays a major part in the cost of your fuel supply.

It is Service that provides heat at the burner automatically, when and as you want it, without ashes, smoke, or soot, or the need for extra labor or storage. Back of the flame of your burner stands the service of your gas company with its skilled employees and its facilities for delivering the gas. Service must be maintained! Service is what you are paying for!

The fact that your gas company must maintain the year round, at great expense, capacity equal to the coldest day of the year—even though this peak capacity is not required except on a few cold days in winter—is merely one of the items of this responsibility called SERVICE!

Your Gas Company takes pride in the fact that it pioneered the distribution in this section, of the only available fuel that can be utilized by the consumer without special handling or the use of costly mechanical accessories. Realizing our responsibility, we take the utmost precaution to assure you permanent fuel satisfaction by providing a dependable flow of good gas, free from sulphur, regardless of the weather.

One Of Largest Feeding Programs In Southwest Progresses At Brownfield

Homer Rowe Details Work Underway On Hearst Cattle

(By Staff Correspondent)

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 14.—Largest home grown grain feeding program of cattle in the state of Texas and among the largest in the entire southwest is the full feed experiment being conducted here by Leon Goodman, mayor of Midland, for William Randolph Hearst, the publisher.

There are in the 27 pens north of town, approximately 5,750 head, all steers but one, shipped in under bond from the Babicora ranch of Hearst at Chihuahua, Old Mexico.

Feeding At El Paso

"The same outfit has 7,500 head on feed at El Paso, but that is an oil mill proposition," says H. W. Rowe, Midland, superintendent in charge of the operations here. "As far as know, there is no other project in the state where there are as many cattle in one group of pens at one place, with home grown feed being used."

Rowe came here November 22 on orders of Leon Goodman and started construction of the pens. "On December 1 we got our first cattle in," he added. "When I came there was not a stick of fence put up. In less than 10 days we got our first pens built and were feeding cattle."

Average Weight 468

Average weight of the cattle when they arrived here was 468 pounds. The animals were mostly yearling steers and coming two years olds, with a sprinkling of younger stuff.

There are 27 pens in the nearly 10 acres fenced. Goodman has leased 130 acres in a canyon just north of the Santa Fe railroad tracks. He has erected a feed mill with a 94 h. p. motor that has a capacity of over 80,000 pounds a day. The mill is not kept running all the time as the demand is not up to capacity. A two-day supply is generally ground at a time.

Fed Direct To Cattle

Maize heads and corn are ground in the mill. This is fed direct to the cattle, an average morning's run being 50 wagon loads. As fast as a wagon is filled, it is driven into the pens and the contents dumped in the troughs. When this is done there is a general scampering of cattle, almost a stampede, for the troughs and every bit is eaten.

Bundles are chopped and fed, with bone meal, lime and cottonseed meal This mixture also is fed in the morning. Salt also is mixed with the ensilage, providing a balanced ration.

In the afternoon bundles are fed to the animals, huge wagons piled high with bundles being driven to the pens and dumped into the troughs.

Stock Fast Gaining

An average now of 25 to 27 pounds a day is being fed. They are fast gaining on this ration and by the time the full 200 day schedule is completed, it is believed that the calves will increase weight 100 per cent.

When Mr. Goodman sent Rowe to Brownfield, he gave him two helpers. Ed Rountree, a cowboy and a man for engineer. He was told to use local labor for the rest.

Brownfield men were used to build the pens. The crews now are all composed of local men except the trio from Midland.

Payroll Is Heavy

"Our payroll will average $1,500 a month now," Mr. Rowe explained. "It was larger than that at first, as we have had to do a lot of construction work. But this month it will be around $1,500.

"This does not include the money we spent for feed. We are not buying as much now as we did. I expect we have in our feed lots 4000 to 5000 tons of feed. We are just now beginning to buy corn. There is a lot of maize, kafir, bundles and heads.

"Salt, black bone meal, cottonseed meal and minerals are bought by the carload and shipped in. We built a warehouse for the storing of these things."

Howell Buys Grain

K. W. Howell, local grain man, was employed to buy all the grain and bundles needed. For a time he was swamped with calls from farmers who were anxious to dispose of their surplus feed stocks.

Howell, a veteran buyer of grain in Terry county, inspects each load brought to him. He has a "curb" market near the courthouse and farmers take his order and present it at the yard after unloading. Howell estimates his purchases are in excess of 5,000 tons. The feed yard had been enlarged three times since the original section was set aside by Mr. Rowe.

Grain is ricked up, each kind in separate piles. There are between 20 and 30 of these ricks, some larger than others.

Weight Being Added

When the calves were received here they were thin from the long journey from Chihuahua and also from a shrinking at the ranch before shipment. The first lot, received here December 1, have made extraordinary gains in weight.

Mr. Rowe estimates from tests he has made of gains that the calves first placed on feed have averaged nearly five pounds per day. "That is not a fair average, as the animals were probably 100 pounds under what they should have weighed," he added. "I think that we have shown a gain of probably two to three pounds a day over and above what they made to get back to their normal weight."

The feed ration has been increased on the earlier cattle until they are now receiving about 27 pounds each per day. "They never get enough to eat," Mr. Rowe commented. "They are always hungry. We can't seem to fill them up."

The Starting Ration

Starting ration is under 20 pounds. It includes ground feed, cottonseed meal, lime and phosphates and salt as well as bundles for roughness. The ration has been increased as the cattle became acclimated.

One of the pens has been set aside as a "hospital" pen for cattle injured in the long rail journey or who became sick. Theer are so far a very few of these. Several cattle were injured in shipping when a bunch of cattle were jammed during a small stampede.

The feeding pens are the center of attraction in this section for farmers and business men. Scores of people visit the pens daily to look over the animals.

Most of the cattle show plainly the Hereford strain. Hearst has used registered Hereford bulls with his herd and the calves show the white face strain. There is to be found an occasional spotted or roan marked animal.

The calves are still wild. "Nature in the raw is seldom mild," according to current advertisements and this is seen in the actions of the calves. They are afraid of people on foot, walking through the streets between the pens, but are not afraid of men on horseback. Even wagons do not disturb them much and feeders drive freely into the pens to unload the feed.

When the first shipment came across the international border at El Paso Uncle Sam set an import duty of about $14 a head. This was based on the weight of the animals. Since then other shipments have come in under bond, presumably for shipment to Canada.

Would Change Day

Friday Is Proposed For Thanksgiving

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Jan. 14. (AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, after he becomes president, is going to be asked to change a 68-year-old custom in The United States.

T. H. Cash, superintendent of county schools, believes the last Friday in November is a better day for Thanksgiving than the last Thursday and says he will ask Mrs. Roosevelt to prevail on her husband to make the change.

Cash points out that schools lose two days of class work on account of the present Thanksgiving holiday. He says too much time is lost, especially when the holiday comes so near Christmas. He says if it were moved to Friday, a day less would be lost and that everybody would benefit.

Bowman Purchases North Plains Line

Purchase of the North Plains coaches, between Lubbock and Amarillo, was announced Saturday by Joe W. Bowman, owner and manager of South Plains Coaches. The change in ownership is effective at once and the line will be operated by the new owner.

Mr. Bowman has been operating bus lines out of Lubbock for more than three years and is one of the active members of the state association of bus line owners. He is also active in civic work here.

"No changes are contemplated in the schedule of the line between Lubbock and Amarillo at this time," Mr. Bowman said in making the announcement. "We have added new equipment to the line including a new Cadillac bus."

Arch Tyler, former owner, established the line a number of years ago. Three schedules daily each way are operated. Mr. Bowman plans to adjust the schedules of his lines to Sweetwater and to Big Spring to make more direct connections with the Amarillo line.

Program Of Thrift Is Listed For Parent-Teacher Societies By Chairman; 10 Points Given

Outstanding State Societies Are Mentioned For Helping Pupils; Thrift Said To Be More Important

BY MRS. J. M. CRAIN
State Publicity Director

CLAUDE, Jan. 14—(Special)—Parent-teacher workers throughout Texas consider particularly, in January, the subject of thrift and its relation to character education, with practical application to training children in thrift habits and to managing wisely on reduced incomes. Many organizations have been most active in aiding pupils who have been in need of clothing and lunches. Houston, Amarillo, Dallas, and Pampa have been outstanding along this line, according to reports received.

Mrs. Sidney T. Gilmore, Sonora, state chairman of thrift of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, sends to congress units this message:

"Never before has the call for observance of 'Thrift' been so keenly felt, as the economic situation in which our people find themselves at the present time. It makes unusually appropriate the principles and practices which have been sponsored by the national thrift committee for the past fifteen years.

Proposes Change

"In 1932 we heard so much of the 'Depression'. As the parent-teacher association has for one of its chief objectives 'Trained Parenthood', your state chairman of thrift would like to suggest that in 1933 we eliminate the 'De' and the 'I' from the overworked and much abused word 'Depression', which will leave in its stead the two words 'Press On'.

"Current inquiries, regarding the general situation, suggest that most of us have been watching the waves instead of the tides. The tides are fundamental, the waves are transient, so let us with faith and courage enter 1933 trying to learn the true meaning of the word 'Thrift', also let us apply it not only during this Thrift Week, January 17-23, but in each week of the year.

"By precept and example let us teach our children that thrift does not only mean earning and saving money, but how to spend our earnings wisely, also how to conserve and how to spend our time, energy, and health. Thus the habits of thrift, learned in childhood, will make us a happier and more contented nation.

Responsibility Individual

"Your individual responsibility is to do your fair share in the work in the promotion of our undertakings. So let us not fail to make the best use of the ten point financial creed of the national thrift committee which is: Work and earn; study and learn; make and use a budget; have a savings account; carry life insurance; own your own home; make a will; invest in safe securities; pay bills promptly; share with others.

"To each parent-teacher association your chairman sends greetings and urges you to give a detailed report of thrft week observance in your local association at your district meetings so that the district presidents may have material for their report that they in turn may send their report to the national chairman of thrift. There is no association too small (oft times the best reports come from the smaller associations) to direct efforts to the cultivation of thrift habits."

Poetess Believes Women Reckless

MILLAY

EDNA ST. VINCENT MILLAY, poetess, cultivates flowers on her farm home while her husband, Eugene Jan Boissevain, grows vegetables. She also like to walk about in the garden and composes some of her poems there.

She is quoted as saying that she "can walk any strapping male off his feet" (Miss Millay is petite), and that she thinks women are more reckless, courageous and less sentimental than men.

In 1923 she won the Pulitzer prize for the best volume of verse. Her latest works are "Fatal Interview", published in 1931, and "The Princess Marries the Page", which was printed late in 1932, but was written in her undergraduate days at Vassar, from which college she was graduated in 1917.

New Frocks Have More Quiet Dignity

Tendency Now Is For Naturalness In Fashions

BY JEAN PATOU
Written for NEA Service

PARIS, Jan. 14—The world of fashion is evolving in a natural, conservative movement in tune with the times in which we are living. Women are reaching for dignity, taste and charm, but also a modified simplicity. My mid-season collection, therefore, is a step onward from my winter collection, in which I dared to lower the waistline and have since found vindication of my judgment.

Because of the time at which a mid-season collection is shown, hardly two months after the big winter collection, it would be "wrong to consider it as a direct indication of the future mode. Prematurely created, as they are in this respect, they must show a certain reserve and cannot go too far into novelty.

Mid-Season a Barometer

During the times of normal evolution, when fashion changes slowly on an admitted theme, these mid-season models are only interesting to me as a barometer. But when mode has recently been subjected to important, even brutal change, as in the case of my winter collection, the mid-season styles take on a new significance. They are created on indications taken from the reactions of women.

The new mode has been widely discussed, though not so much as that of a few years ago when I reacted against the skirt showing the knees. The discussion has confirmed the original idea and is a natural sequence of women's admission of the new style. This, therefore, is the principal theme of my mid-season collection.

Simplicity Is Formula

Mid-season collections are always devoted to certain simplicity of style and that is the formula that I have adopted. Normally, the more simple the dress the more the creative idea must be brought out in order to avoid the commonplace. The result is that, in their simplicity the mid-season models can be very characteristic and much fantasy may be incorporated providing it is done in good taste.

It is too early to speak of the future tendency, but I think we may find encouragement in the knowledge that we are moving in the right direction and that women have given their approval of the subtle change that has come about during the past few months. I am content to work on this theme.

PICK-UP paragraphs: Even though it is early for planting most flowers, this is the time of year to turn that soil over again and get it in condition for later in the spring . . . Stores showing flower and garden seed and warm sunshine will fool you into wanting to do outdoor planting and make your fingers itch to dig around in the dirt.

If screen stars are just types, one of the Charlie Chase types was in this office today . . . . He even wore a cap and had the same nervous characteristics . . . . We thought the actor had come in at first the resemblance was so great . . . . The man was from California but he was buying turkey eggs instead of making personal appearances. . . .

It isn't hard to wonder why other people don't change their ways of doing things. Probably most of us continue dangerous habits when we should stop. But wonder why people continue to start fires with kerosene and gasoline when deaths are so common from explosions and why people continue to lock rooms up tight and turn gas stoves high when carbon monoxide poisoning is so frequent.

Likewise, wonder why people continue to dash into through streets without stopping to look and listen when it is such an easy way to cause a wreck. We pay a high price for our carelessness. . . .

WATCH 'EM

PERHAPS you scoff at superstition but watch the people who knock on wood and, with discreet questioning, find out how many turn down an alley when a black cat crosses the path. . . Oh, they are not superstitious, either, but just in case. . . .

Economy in government might be a lot easier if some of the government employes had had the experience of Mr. Average Taxpayer these last few years.

Most of us have found out a lot about economy—as one woman put it, "I'm living on a fifth as much now as I did five years ago and I'm still overeating at every meal!"

The book isn't new but you, too, might enjoy reading "In Coldest Africa" by Carveth Wells and discovering that it is possible to freeze to death under the equator in Africa.

WHAT MAKES BEAUTY

EVEN though we know that it isn't exactly Emily Postesque to discuss personalities, our dinner table conversation the other day recalled two women we had known—although none of us could remember the name of either. For years, one has been "that homely woman" to us because she was just that—to a superlative degree.

However, the mere fact that she is not beautiful might not have caused us to remember her. It was because she counteracted her looks by having personality — that much sought-after quality—and made us like her and forget her looks. That was what has made us remember her so long.

The other woman we remembered might not have been so homely had she not have neglected all those things that help nature along—keeping her stocking seams running as they should, having her dress skirt a bit longer than her petticoat, filing down her finger nails and all the rest of the things coming under the head of grooming.

And after that conversation, which did not get to the moralizing point but was just one of those reminiscences inspired by small talk, I thought perhaps there was a great deal to that saying that "beauty is only skin deep" and that what you do speaks louder than your words.

THRIFT WEEK

YOU may think it isn't necessary to set aside one week and call it Thrift Week this year but the plan could do some good. We might learn more about making every week Thrift Week.

The national observance begins January 17—next Tuesday — and continues through January 23. It has been suggested that the observance start with a study of "What constitutes thrift in the light of the present economic situation?" Many of us might be surprised at just what does constitute thrift, for the thrifty person doesn't always refuse to buy.

While Popularity Of Older Stars Continues, Youth In Line For A "Break"

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Although the popularity of old and middle-aged character stars continues as expected with the successes of Marie Dressler, George Arliss, and Lionel Barrymore among others, the new year seems likely to see greater opportunities extended to youth.

MARIE DRESSLER

No halt in the parade of more experienced character players to the movies can be noted. Henrietta Crosman is yet to be seen in her first film under her new contract; Alison Skipworth continues to draw leading assignments; Edna May Oliver is spotted in principal roles time and again.

Yet now there seems to be a disposition also to give the younger generation a chance in pictures in which they do not take positions secondary to older characters.

Here's The Proof

STRIKING proof of the return of youth to the films is the elevation of Bette Davis to top billing in "Ex-Lady"—Bette Davis who heretofore has played a variety of roles, but none in which she was not subordinate to some other player.

BETTE DAVIS

Boots Mallory's co-featured status with James Dunn is another concession to youth; the attention Dorothy Wilson is getting marks another; and Patricia Ellis, after one role with George Arliss, goes into "Picture-Snatcher" with James Cagney.

Screen Plays Pranks

BUT for many of the younger players the screen has turned ironic prankster. There is a vogue for films whose action covers several generations. So young girls, who shine in the bloom of youth in earlier sequences must dim their beauty under make-up for the later.

IRENE DUNNE

Wera Engels like Ann Harding and Irene Dunne, her predecessors as Richard Dix's leading ladies in such screen sagas, is an elderly woman before the end of "The Great Jasper." On another stage nearby the years are rolling past for "Sweepings," as they did in "The Conquerors" and in "Cavalcade" and "Smilin' Through."

They're Not Mad

IN times like these names that will sell tickets are so necessary, who are the Warner brothers to quibble about a minor matter like an actress walking out?

ANN DVORAK

Ann Dvorak, on her way back to Hollywood now, will very likely go back to work for the studio from which she took French leave. So an official of Warners unofficially impiled recently. I asked about Ann's status and he answered:

"Miss Dvorak still is under exclusive contract to us. And I'm not mad at her."

The same firm took James Cagney back under its wing when Jimmy changed his mind. Ann quit, soon after marrying Leslie Fenton, because — so goes the report — she learned that a youngster in her picture, "Three On A Match," was being paid more than she.

She was getting $250 a week. The youngster, Buster Phelps, got $275.

While Plot Thickens

AN INTERMISSION of one minute to give the audience an opportunity to solve the mystery is a new idea in mystery films. After all the clues, characters and murders are established, the story will pause for an entr'acte instead of continuing to the solution and conclusion.

In order to get a one-reel film explaining the theory of Technocracy on the market immediately, a producer rushed it through to completion in six days. But he had to work 16 hours a day to do it—which isn't a bit Technocratic.

"Life Begins" Heads List Of Theater Offerings

Movie Unusual Both In Theme And Treatment

"Fast Life", "Hot Saturday", "The Son-Daughter", "The Night Of June 13" Listed On Week's Program

THE drama child birth—an intimate glimpse into a modern maternity ward showing the lives and tragedies of the women confined there—is the theme of "Life Begins," which will be screened at the Lindsey Wednesday and Thursday. Because of the delicate subject, the picture will be presented to women only Wednesday and to men on Thursday.

ALINE MACMAHON

Hailed by movie critics as the most unusual picture of the age, from the standpoint of both theme and treatment, the story takes a number of individual stories and weaves them into a compact drama. There is a young woman who is serving a prison term for murder who is allowed to enter the hospital to give birth to her child. There is a pleasure-loving woman of the night clubs who disdains her twins; a snobbish, intellectual woman who changes her cold, psychological idea of bringing up babies when her's is born. Loretta Young, Eric Linden and Aline MacMahon appear in the leading roles.

William Haines and Madge Evans head the cast in "Fast Life", which starts a three-day run at the Lindsey today. The story deals with the adventures of two motorboat mechanics who are determined to enter their boat in international competition. The various complications in which they become involved are worked out through a blend of comedy and drama. Cliff Edwards and Conrad Nagel head the supporting cast.

"The Son-Daughter," colorful drama of San Francisco's Chinatown, with Helen Hayes and Romon Novarro in the principal roles, is the talkie attraction scheduled at the Lindsey Friday and Saturday. It is a story of the struggle of Chinese revolutionists and royalists in America. The plot deals with a Chinese girl in love with a Chinese prince who is in America incognito. As a result of political intrigue she is auctioned into marriage to raise funds for an Oriental revolution. Her purchaser kills her father and wounds her lover. The girl eventually kills the buyer, rescues her lover and they escape to their native land.

HELEN HAYES

Nancy Carroll, Cary Grant and Randolph Scott head the cast in "Hot Saturday," starting a three-day run at the Palace today. Miss Carroll is seen as a bank employe who is pursued by all of the local sheiks because they think she is fast. One after another she disillusions them, but the last one, failing to "make" her, starts a scandal about her and a millionaire playboy. She loses her job and is deserted by all, even her childhood sweetheart. Defiant, she finally goes to the millionaire, resolved that the rumors shall be realities. The climax that follows is startling in its boldness.

Mary Boland, stage star, returns to the screen to play with Clive Brook, Lila Lee, Charlie Ruggles, Gene Raymond, France Dee and Adrianne Allen in "The Night of June 13," booked at the Palace Wednesday and Thursday. Set in a suburb of a large city, the story deals with four families, living in adjacent houses. They find their lives closely connected when the wife of one man commits suicide and the husband is charged with the murder. At the trial, each neighbor lies to cover up some petty deficiency of his own, and the innocent man is about to be convicted when a dramatic climax saves him and reveals the publicity of the others.

Tom Mix in "Flaming Guns" will be offered as the Palace Friday and Saturday. Mix appears as an army sergeant, fresh from the trenches, who sets out to shoow the cow country a few new tricks. And he shows them plenty.

RICHARD ARLEN

"Wayward," a powerful drama of the conflict between a young wife and her mother-in-law, starts a three-day run at the Lyric today. Nancy Carroll, Richard Arlen and Pauline Frederick appear in the leading parts. The story concerns the fight of a young married couple for happiness against almost overwhelming odds.

Tom Brown appears in the title role of "Tom Brown of Culver," which will be screened at the Lyric Wednesday and Thursday. Slim Summerville heads the supporting cast. The entire story is laid against the background of Culver Military academy and many of the scenes were taken on the campus of the Indiana institution. The picture tells a dramatic story of a boy whose father was erroneously credited with being a hero in the World war. No girl appears in the cast.

On Friday and Saturday the Lyric will present Buck Jones in one of his newest western thrillers, "Forbidden Trail." Barbara Weeks and Mary Carr appear in important parts.

"House flags" for steamships in American trade vary in color from pale pink and blue to violet, red and purple.

At the THEATER

William Haines and Madge Evans are pictured here in a scene from "Fast Life", which begins a three-day run at the Lindsey today.

Loretta Young and Eric Linden are shown, above as they appear in "Life Begins", scheduled at the Lindsey Wednesday and Thursday.

Here is shown a scene from "Hot Saturday", starting at the Palace today. Nancy Carroll, Cary Grant and Randolf Scott appear in the leading roles.

Sunday Avalanche-Journal

"The South Plains' Own Newspaper"

Published Every Sunday Morning by the Avalanche-Journal Publishing Co., 1211 Texas Avenue

Chas. A. Guy, Editor and Publisher — Parker F. Prouty, General Manager

It is not the intention to cast reflection upon the character of anyone knowingly, and if through error we should, the management will appreciate having our attention called to same, and will gladly correct any erroneous statement made.

An Independent Democratic newspaper supporting in its editorial columns the principles which it believes to be right and opposing those questions which it believes to be wrong, regardless of party politics; publishing the news fairly and impartially at all times.

Devoid Of Sportsmanship

WHEN Governor R. S. Sterling continued to buck against the traces following the second primary and, with no grace at all, refused to concede his defeat at the hands of the voters, The Avalanche-Journal did not censure his actions.

All over the state the cry of "poor sportsmanship" was levelled at the chief executive but we did not join in that cry, simply because we didn't know whether or not there was basis for his claim that the election had been marked by fraud.

But now we do charge him—not with being unsportsmanlike but with being devoid of sportsmanship altogether.

It is a custom in Texas for the outgoing governor and his family to leave in the executive mansion on inauguration day a well cooked meal for the newly sworn in governor and his family. The custom will be broken this time, however, "because the cooks are going to leave Monday night," the night before inauguration day.

That's entirely too thin.

Suppose the cooks are going to leave. Suppose they have such important business that they couldn't possibly arrange to stay in the mansion for another half day?

Are they the only cooks in Texas? Couldn't Mr. Sterling, if he wanted to, arrange to keep the tradition at the executive mansion?

Surely a great business executive like the Houstonian could solve a little problem like that.

No, the excuse about the cooks leaving is too thin for anybody to believe. In offering it, Mr. Sterling is only trying to play the public for a bunch of chumps.

We would have had more respect for him had he contented himself with blurting:

"No, I won't leave a meal in the mansion for Jim Ferguson and his family. I despise him. I won't do anything for him, tradition or no tradition!"

But instead he trotted out a lame excuse which, to our mind, convicts him of our charge of being without sportsmanship.

This newspaper didn't support the Fergusons.

It never has.

It supported Mr. Sterling in both primaries, simply because it was, to our mind, "any old port in a storm"; he appeared to us to be the lesser of the evils.

But we are sports enough to concede defeat; we are sports enough to hope that the Ferguson administration is a satisfactory one. And we are sports enough to tender to the new administration—at least until it proves itself unworthy—all the courtesies that tradition commands.

Mr. Sterling pulled another blunder and he certainly didn't improve his standing by doing it—even his friends can't condone it.

ANOTHER POLITICAL COMEBACK

Add to your list of political comebacks—right along side of Jim Ferguson and Jack Walton—J. C. Nance, one time Lubbock citizen.

Remember Jim Nance?

Apparently 'washed up' in Oklahoma politics when the Walton administration went out like Lottie's eye, Jim moved to Lubbock.

He bought, from Curtis Keen, the monthly Plains Agricultural Journal, turned it into the Plains Journal, a weekly, and established a beautiful printing plant on the corner of Texas avenue and Tenth street. From the Plains Journal sprouted the Evening Journal, which, in turn took over the Morning Avalanche and formed present Avalanche-Journal company.

When Jim came to Lubbock he thought he was through with Oklahoma and through with politics. With a million dollar smile and 'all broke out' with personality, he was an addition to this city, then about 6,500 population, as he would have been to any similar community.

But he was never able to shake off the Oklahoma ties and, after six months in Lubbock, he went back to Oklahoma and bought a newspaper. But he was 'through with politics'—or at least he thought he was.

But he hadn't been back in the Sooner state much more than a year before he was re-elected to his old seat in the House of Representatives where, for several terms, he served with distinction. At one time, when Oklahoma was in the throes of one of its fights over the governorship, Jim became acting governor and acquitted himself, nobly.

Last summer he ran for the state senate, where he's serving now as administration leader in the upper house.

Keep your eye on Jim Nance, one time Lubbockite.

He may be Oklahoma's chief executive or one of its United States senators one of these days.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

Whoso causeth the righteous to go astray in an evil way, he shall fall himself into his own pit: but the upright shall have good things in possession.—Proverbs 28:10.

Equality Held Impossible

(This is the fifth of a series by Charles P. Stewart outlining the farm problem as Washington sees it.)

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—It is as easy to consider that the farmer is charged exorbitant prices for everything he has to buy as that he gets ruinously low prices for everything he has to sell.

David J. Lewis

It should help him, then, just as much to have the other fellow's prices cut to his level as to have his prices boosted to the other fellow's level.

It is common talk that American factory products are on price stilts; that prices of American agricultural products are on strictest terra firma. Why not knock the manufacturers' stilts from under them?

Senator Robert B. Howell of Nebraska chuckles sardonically at this suggestion. "Those stilts are concrete piles, on examination," he answers.

THIS BASE of concrete, piling, mainly in protective tariff form, but reinforced by various additional privileges, is the foundation upon which Yankee industry is built.

Francis J. Clair, of the National League for Economic Stabilization, illuminatingly explains how the tariff benefits the manufacturer to the disadvantage of the farmer.

Manufacturers are comparatively few in number and can get together, to agree upon output restrictions—not over-obviously, in defiance of anti-trust laws, but effectively. Having agreed, they can quickly suspend and resume factory operations. They also can considerably stimulate demand for their goods, by advertising and changes in styles, patterns and models. Finally, having gained control of their home market, they can keep foreign competition out of it by heavy import taxation. Thus, up to the limit of the home public's buying power, they can dictate prices.

Farmers are too numerous to combine, except very loosely. Their production depends largely upon nature's vagaries. Consequently they cannot regulate it at all accurately. They cannot greatly stimulate requirements for their crops, for appetite is but slightly elastic. And, generally speaking, American agriculture does not fear foreign competition. Instead, its surplus is enormous and it needs overseas customers. Its market is international, impossible to protect. It must take whatever prices it can get, the world over.

UNTIL 40 years ago, says Clair, agriculture in the United States was not seriously prejudged by the growth of industrial privilege, because vast areas of free land were available.

Crops grew almost wild.

Cattle took care of themselves, and multiplied, on unfenced ranges.

The farmer and the livestock man could hardly be called producers, remarks Clair; they simply took, and whatever they sold, even though they sold it at exceedingly low prices, yielded them almost clear profit.

NEVERTHELESS, Congressman David J. Lewis of Maryland, a member of the original tariff commission, as launched in 1917 under the Wilson administration, shakes his head at the suggestion that the end of the free land era, in itself, need have marked the beginning of rural prosperity's decline in America.

"Free land," he concedes, "doubtless helped, while it lasted, but the certainly of hard times for the farmer dates from the adoption of a policy which decreed that any ship, sent abroad with his export products, must return empty."

Congressman Lewis is not without his sympathizers on Capitol Hill, in the view that real agricultural relief depends on a reopening of American markets to foreign goods, in order that there may be something that the Yankee farmer can get back in trade for his crop surplus, which foreigners would be glad to take off his hands, but have no means of paying for under Uncle Sam's protective system.

Oh, these reformers are well enough satisfied that they know what is the matter.

The thing that gives them pause is the sight of the substratum of concrete piling, referred to by Senator Howell, upon which the superstructure of American industrialism is erected. The thought of the all-around effects of the terrific explosions necessary to dynamite it, makes them shudder.

BRAZEN IMPERIALISM

Again Japanese soldiers enter Chinese territory, kill Chinese, bombard a Chinese town and occupy Chinese territory. Again it is not a war of aggression; in fact, no war at all, just a "defensive move."

Is it merely a coincidence that the Japanese occupied Jehol, a rocky region which forms a natural rampart of Manchuria and rounds out the territory of Manchukuo, instead of some other sector of a long boundary? Odd how those Chinamen provoke the peace-loving Japs into attacking their most stragetic fortresses.

Occupation of Shanhaikwan puts Japan right back where she was during the occoupation of Shanghai. Pressure brought to bear upon Tokio by the United States, Great Britain and the League of Nations forced the evacuation of Shankhai and removed the more serious complications resulting from the Japanese Manchurian policy. Shanhaikwan again complicates the whole situation.

Tokio has fooled nobody. Her designs on China are as plain as her fear of America. Her contempt of China is as strong as her distrust of the Russian Bear. But what is she to gain from these military invasions? Instead of strengthening herself she is but weakening her defenses in case Russia and China do double-team her.

What Other People Think

A rigid belief in right and wrong is a form of insanity since it takes no account of changes in standards from one generation to another.—David Seabury, New York psychologist-adviser.

The best friend the cotton farmer ever had was the boll weevil.—Representative Miles C. Allgood (Dem., Ala.).

If you have a job, the best country in the world to live in is the United States of America, but if you haven't a job you are better off most anywhere else.—Karl de Schweinitz, executive secretary of the Philadelphia Community Council.

A CHARMED LIFE

Lieut.-Col. Sir Arthur Slogget, born in 1857, is believed to have been the only soldier who survived a bullet piercing his heart. He sustained this mortal wound at the Battle of Khartum, in 1885, at the hands of one of the Mahdi rebels who fortunately used an Italian rifle with a very fine pointed bullet. A blunter bullet would have meant implacable and instant death. Sir Arthur survived this wound by 44 years, dying three days after his 72nd birthday in 1929, after a life distinguished in the service of his country.

TUESDAY: "THE LARGEST ARROWHEAD."

THE NEW BOOKS

"High Low Washington", Another Anonymously Written Book On Capital Doings Gives Insight On "Inside"; Ludwig Has Treatise On Mussolini For America; Houston's Daughter Writes

"HIGH Low Washington" is one of the most illuminating and penetrating analysis of recent American politics that has been published in recent years. While in some instances its observations are doubtless a bit disturbing to the naivete of the great bulk of American citizens, to the informed and critical student of our political institutions, or possibly more particularly of those who are administering the public affairs of the nation, it is unfortunately a too accurate appraisal of the inferior stature of contemporary American politicians whose chief qualification is their ability to manipulate an electoral system and secure the approval of an indifferent, disgusted, and frequently incompetent electorate, almost fifty per cent of which boycott our elections by abstaining from exercising the suffrage.

It is discouraging and disconcerting to the truly patriotic and seriously minded American to have to admit that this diagnosis is unfortunately too accurate; the symptoms of the patient, however, are controlling and dictating.

Ten Provoking Chapters

This survey includes among its ten provoking chapters such headings as: "City of Magnificent Intentions"; "Grand Old Parties"; "My District 'Tis of Thee"; "Frenzied Finance"; and "Misery and Grandeur."

The party system is shown to be artificial and largely unrelated to our social and economic order and, therefore, not expressive of the local issues of American life. Its chief function is to furnish an occupation for American politicians who are always preoccupied with re-election schemes, and, therefore, have no time to study the problems of American life and to function as real Burkian representatives, conceding that they are capable of making such a revolution. The result is the development of a frank and open lobby system at Washington that has taken over legislation and really represents those interests that are capable of financing such a system. The lobby system, it is pointed out, has become a most important part of our unwritten constitution and, hence, a substitution for properly organized and articulated political system acting at least within the nebulosity of a written constitution.

Represent Interests, Sections

It is again reemphasized that our senators and congressmen represent interests and sections and seldom rise to such elevations as to enable them to discover the nation and the American people in their relations to the other nations of the world. In other words, the great national government whose chief offices are at Washington, having for its object the direction of the affairs of the greateest nation on earth, presumably only in their national and international aspects, actually in its operation is converted into a provincial government for the use of senators and congressmen to look after local interests in the states and congressional districts. The bureaucracy is overworked in producing bulletins of every phase of American life for the use of senators and congressmen with their constituency, without which it has been agreed in congressional caucus, there is no hope of reelection.

This book should be widely read as means of disillusioning the simple and provoking to renewed interest and activity the more informed. Democracy must give a better account of itself by profiting from its experience and modifying its technique in the light of this experience.

"High Low Washington," by "30-32." J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia, Pa., $2.50.

Ludwig On Mussolini

URGED on by press, public, and his own inner compulsions, Emil Ludwig journeyed to Rome, there to look up his friend Benito Mussolini.

He arranged to talk with Il Duce, an hour a day, and to publish whatever came out of the talks. He faced the dictator across a bare table (bare excepting for a lamp of strange design), under a high ceiling, in a large room. The ideal setting.

"Talks With Mussolini" was published in Italy, 20,000 copies were sold. But he has nothing to say about American sales, which continue with the text Mussolini objected to. One only hopes Herr Ludwig's subject objeected because he found his remarks mostly platitudes.

Indeed, the problem of saying something brilliant enough to interest the world without committing himself and Italy too far may have no solution. There is a fine picture of Mussolini in the new book, and a good deal of Herr Ludwig. But aside from a direct avowal that when the time is ripe Mussolini plans to organize a European state, most of the content has been published before.

Sam Houston's Blanket

THE story is told of Margaret Bell Houston, grandaughter of Sam Houston, that one of her first memories is of her father being introduced on the speakers' platform as the son of Sam Houston. "I am too small a man to wear the mantle of Sam Houston," he had said. "On me it would drag the dust." Sometime later, the diminutive Miss Houston was invited in a spirit of jollity to speak to another assemblage. "I am too little," she declaimed, remembering her father's words, "to wear Sam Houston's blanket. If I was to put it on it would get all dirty."

In her new novel, "Hurdy-Gurdy" she has distinguished herself in a manner worthy of her heritage. She has worn the mantle becomingly and certainly has no cause to blush "at getting the blanket dirty."

Miss Houston writes of life in Texas and New York in this story. She has lived in both places and her scenes are realistically portrayed. She depicts with sincere sympathy her character, the brush-talented Derry Carewe who hears the hurdy-gurdy—an odd tune full of longing for beauty and far-away places. This hurdy-gurdy guides her actions finally leading her away from the man who loves her and whom she loves. Eventually she realizes her mistake. One must read the last two lines of the book for Miss Houston's answer to the age-old question of marriage versus career.

As an interesting novel for a winter evening's reading this book is recommended. It is romantic and simple.

"Hurdy-Gurdy," by Margaret Bell Houston. D. Appleton and Company, New York and London. $2.

Crime Still Rampant

THE detective story, apparently, is going to go on forever. It is occasionally good, generally mediocre and frequently downright terrible, but it continues to get published; and today we might as well glance at a few of its recent incarnations.

First there's "Those Seven Alibis," by Charles G. Booth (Morrow: $2). This tells about the San Francisco antique dealer who is shot shortly after he has dug up a hitherto unknown bit of work by Phidias. A couple of professional rivals, a phlegmatic Chinese, a dapper salesman and a globe-trotter are involved, and if you can stand some archaic ten-twent-thirt diction and atmosphere you might find the yarn suitably puzzling.

Then we come to "No Witness!" by Cortland Fitzsimmons (Stokes: $2). A Long Island house burns, and in the ruins are found the remains of a racketeering theatrical agent and a charming young suburban housewife, and there's a likable Irish cop who solves it. This yarn is good up to the last chapter, when for some unaccountable reason it becomes foggy and amateurish.

Lastly, there's "Society Editor," by Henry Charlton Beck (Dutton: $2). A newspaper gal who runs a gossip column gets taken for a ride, a reporter is the chief suspect and a society editor saves him; and this might have been a good book if the author hadn't got more interested in picturing newspaper folk as underbred scoundrels than in putting together a readable mystery story. As it stands, it doesn't quite click.

Letters To The Editor

Reader Discusses "The Burning Question Of Today"

Editor, Avalanche-Journal: The people of the United States today stand at a crossroad in their economic, political and social life. In one direction it leads toward materialistic, nationalistic, imperialistic, selfish and racketeering oligarchy or dictatorship of wealth, "practical men" and "best brains". On the other path it leads toward unity, a common striving toward the common good, Christianity—true Christianity—socialism, and democracy—true democracy—not a democracy where one man has a million dollars and lives as he pleases, and another man has one dollar and exists the best he can.

What our "practical business men", "best brains", are now attempting to do and they are backed by the moral apathy, stupidity and gross ignorance of the mass of the people, is the abandonment of our spiritual background, of our heritage and experience along the lines of mutual aid.

The prophets and Jesus stood for the weak, the poor. It was their wisdom that the common welfare was to be found by organizing society to meet the needs and develop the lives of the people at the bottom. What is the survival chance of the latest imperialism now being built, on the control of natural resources, technical appliances and credit? Who will underwrite it against the decay or revolution that have overtaken all empires? And how long are our churches going to sanction it, and will they fall with it if they continue to sanction it as they do today?

Mr. Editor, that is the burning question of today as I have one of our local pastors characterize the liquor traffic in his Sunday sermon. His intentions were good but he was just off on his "burning issue". His "burning issue" or question involves the every minute life of everyone, whether one is to be an economic slave to an oligarchy of wealth or a free man, whether the church and his religion is to stand or fall with a corrupt and wasteful system, and the abandonment or progress along the lines of our spiritual, moral and material progress as laid down by the prophets and Jesus, or defeat.

A Reader.

Babson Says Farmers And Business Men Should Study "Allotment Plan"

New Bill For Relief Said To Be "Dynamite"

Proposed Legislation Branded Strictly An Emergency Bill And Contrary To Any Set Economics, Adviser Says

BY ROGER W. BABSON
Copyright for Avalanche-Journal
BABSON PARK, Florida, Jan. 14. Farmers, business men and consumers should study the new Jones bill for farm relief, known as the "allotment plan." It is extremely important, but loaded with agricultural and political dynamite. Nevertheless, it may be that nothing less than "dynamite" will suffice to break down certain barriers to improvement. It may be necessary to pass some very radical legislation in emergency to hasten the patient's recovery. I do not approve the general use use of drugs or stimulants; but their use at times of critical illness often saves the patient. This "allotment plan" is strictly an emergency measure. While it is contrary to any economics I have ever been taught, I think we should all consider it with an open mind. At least it is better than the "Equalization Fee' and "Debenture Plans" of previous years, because it seeks to prevent over-production at the same time it seeks to raise farm prices.

Roger Babson

The Allotment Plan Explained

The Jones bill guarantees a minimum price to farmers on wheat, cotton, tobacco and hogs. It gives farmers a bonus—an adjustment certificate redeemable in cash—on that portion of their crop used in domestic consumption. This bonus is the difference between the going market price and an estimated "fair exchange value." The "fair exchange value" for the "initial marketing period," i. e. until the opening of the 1933-34 marketing season, would be 75 cents per bushel for wheat, 9 cents per pound for cotton, and 5 cents per pound for hogs. Thus, if the price for wheat were 40 cents, the farmer would get, in addition, a 35 cent bonus.

Tobacco comes under the plan in the regular 1933-34 marketing season. At that time, wheat, cotton and tobacco "fair exchange values" would be fixed the secretary of agriculture so that market price, plus the bonus, would bring money return to the farmer up to pre-war parity with industrial commodities. "Fair exchange value" of hogs in the 1933-34 season would be arbitrarily fixed at 6 cents per pound, plus 1-2 cent for every 10 point rise in the factory employment index.

Seeks To Restore Power

Thus the plan seeks to restore the pre-war purchasing power of the growers of these products. The second provision is that the farmers shall receive a bonus only on that percentage of their crops which goes to domestic consumption. This percentage, or allotment, is determined by the Secretary of Agriculture. A third provision is to give the bonus only to farmers who will contract to cut down their acreage by 20 per cent. If they fail to carry out this agreement, they receive no allotment certificate.

In order to pay for the farmers' bonus, an equivalent tax is to be levied on the first users of these farm products, namely the flour millers, cotton mills, tobacco manufacturers and meat packers. The millers, packers and other processors would theoretically pass along the tax to consumers through higher prices. A further provision seeks to protect cotton mills by imposing similar taxes on raw silk and rayon, not derived from cotton. Import duties on goods proceesed from these farm products are also specified to protect from foreign competition.

Advantages And Objections

Advantages of this plan are: (1) It is aimed to raise farm prices and farm buying power thus acting as an emergency stimulant to business. (2) It seeks to prevent surplus farm production—the great bug-bear of former farm relief plans. (3) It calls for no payment out of Federal funds but is taken care of by a selected sales tax on the commodities themselves. Thus it is far better than the Farm Board's attempts to fix prices with government money, and it is superior to the "equalization fee" and "debenture plans" because those plans would have encouraged overproduction. (4) It aims to give the farmer the same price protection that the industrialist is given by the tariff. Tariffs on farm products are high but ineffective because farm products are produced in large surplus for export. The domestic "allotment plan" seeks to make the farm tariff effective by raising domestic prices.

On the other hand, there are serious objections to the "Allotment Plan." (1) It is "class legislation" for the benefit of a few. Why stop with cotton, wheat, tobacco and hogs? Why will not the producer of potatoes, eggs, apples and tomatoes also demand protection? In fact, as I write this, great pressure is being brought to bear to include rice, dairy products, peanuts and various apples. (2) Objectors say that it will raise prices of food and clothing to consumers, thus reducing consumption and driving people to the use of untaxed substitutes. Some fear that it would seriously damage the cotton textile industry. (3) Objection is raised that it is socialistic in tendency and unsound economically because it seeks to fix prices and regulate the law of supply and demand. (4) Others point out that it would require an expensive system of agencies and inspectors, thus increasing bureaucracy of government.

Experiment Will Be Tried

The "Allotment Plan" as embodied in the Jones Bill, with certain modifications, will be enacted and tried whether we like it or not. If it passes the present session of congress, President Hoover may veto it. However, the idea is sweeping the country. Nothing can stop it. In the next congress, if not in this one, the idea will, in all probability, become law. But will it work? Only the future can tell. It might help "take the curse off of it" if Roosevelt should hitch a general sales tax to it. In fact, the "Allotment Plan" is really a stiff sales tax on cotton, wheat, tobacco and hogs for the benefit of the raisers thereof. Also it imposes more drastic tax rates than anything proposed by advocates of a general sales tax. Western and southern congressmen who turned down the general sales tax could not consistently oppose such a tax if they pass the "allotment plan."

Business as registered by the Babson chart now stands at 15 per cent below a year ago.

Here's New Low Farm Price Record

A farm complete for $1 is the record of John Hensel of Bedminster township, Pa., shown above with his children John, Nicholas and Elizabeth in the cow barn. The sheriff arrived at Hensel's home when the farmer went bankrupt and started an auction of the property. Nearby farmers, however, had formed a protective association and announced they were the only ones bidding and then bought in everything at $1.18 including animals and buildings. They refused to bid more than a cent or two for each item. Then all the goods Hansel lost in the sale were turned back to him for $1, and the neighbors made up a $25 purse besides.

Manufacture Of Sorghum Syrup One Of Terry's Most Popular Industries

(By Staff Correspondent)

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 14—Manufacture on the farm of sorghum syrup is one of the popular industries in Terry county, and, according to J. E. Shelton, secretary of the chamber of commerce, over 22,000 gallons were made during the past year.

There are a dozen or more sorghum mills in the county according to Shelton, but the bulk of the syrup is made by three or four men. These men generally plant fairly large acreages of sugar cane and make a business of selling their product wholesale rather than retail.

Averages 150 Gallons

"Nearly every farmer in the county had a few acres of sugar cane," Shelton said. "Most of the men who own mills make it on the share. The cane makes from 75 to 200 gallons or more per acre. I think the average will run about 150 gallons.

"I have a man on a farm that I have charge of, Ben Donaldson, who has been making sorghum since last March. He has about 1,000 gallons more to make, he told me the other day. His crop has run from 75 to 225 gallons.

"Ben tells me that the pummies from the grinding makes the best feed for livestock he ever saw. I asked him the other day why he did not grow any feed and he told me that pummies made better feed than grain sorghums."

Sorghum and cane syrups are usually made on the halves, the man owning the mill taking half of the syrup for his pay.

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 14—Sidney Webb, Mineral Wells, well known West Texas rancher who formerly operated an extensive ranching program in Crosby county, is now operating the old Jarrot ranch south of town.

Mr. Webb has about 4,000 sheep on feed. He has a contract with a Fort Worth commission house for the feeding. The project has attracted wide attention over the county and many visitors go to the ranch daily to see the feeding.

John Jarrot of Lubbock formerly operated a sheep feeding ranch there. The place is one of the well known properties in this section.

New Term To Begin Monday

Total Of 1,147 Students In School In Fourth Semester In New Building; New Term Promises To Be Profitable

Monday marks the beginning of the fourth semester of school in the new high school building, with a total of 1,147 students, 568 boys and 566 girls.

Princpal R. W. Matthews said Thursday that no new courses would be offered, but there would be a repetition of practically all courses now given in the school.

Successful Term Expected

With the work going as it is now, the new semester promises to be one of the most successful in the history of the high school, according to Principal Matthews.

The fall semester brought football activities and the beginning of basketball season, while the new semester offers the finish of basketball games, the beginning of debate contests, track meets, as well as the District One meet to be held in the spring.

There are about forty teachers in high school, each having an average of five classes per day, making a total of two hundred classes in nine departments.

One hundred eighty-five yearbooks have been sold up to the present time. In order to sell each book for $2.50, the contract, which was given to the Southwestern Engraving company of Fort Worth and to Adams Printing company of Lubbock calls for two hundred copies to be sold.

No yearbooks are to be sold after January 31, for printing of borders and division pages will begin February 1, and every book to be printed must be ordered before that date.

About three hundred dollars worth of engraving for the 1933 Westerner was sent to the engravers Friday. Panels of the seniors and faculty, individual pictures of football lettermen, and group pictures of the basketball squad, high school clubs, and junior groups were sent in order that the staff may profit by the 30 per cent discount given on engraving received before that date.

Daniel's Studio is responsible for the photography in the book.

According to Elizabeth Whitnack, editor-in-chief of the publication, another shipment of engraving will be send out before February 15, up to which date a discount of 20 per cent can be obtained.

Bugs For Luck

Teacher Has Ring Like Beetle

Bugs mean prosperity—at least Miss Gertrude Daniel hopes so.

Miss Daniel wears a moss agate, which was picked up in Wyoming last summer, and cut for a ring. It is creamy white with a black spot resembling a beetle. The stone is set in yellow gold.

Greeks, Mexicans, and Spaniards have always worshipped beetles, for they are supposed to bring prosperity and success; now Miss Daniel believes in them also.

Brief Bits Of News About Automobile Dealers, Sales And Activities Of The Industry In Local Circles

ANOTHER "last word" automobile has hit Auto Row in the form of Walter Chrysler's latest contribution to the automotive world. The Hub Motor company received its first shipment of new Chryslers last week. Three of them—two Imperial eights and a New six—are still on the floor. One, a six, was sold on arrival. Chrysler has produced three models — the New six, the Imperial eight and the Custom Eiht, ranging in price from around a thousand dollars to $4,200 up.

Embodying nearly all the new features known to automobile manufacturers, the new Chrysler is something of a sensation in appearance and roadability. It vies with any new car for beauty of design Floating power engine mounting, automatic clutch, coincidental starting, thermostatic idle control, solar spark ignition, double drop griderstruss frame, silent, instant shift transmission and thermostatic water control are new features which combine with free-wheeling, downdraft carburetion and steering shock eliminator to make the new Chrysler a smooth machine.

CHEVROLET

ANNOUNCES AN IMPROVED

LINE OF SIX-CYLINDER

TRUCKS SELLING AT

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES

■ Again Chevrolet leads the way to economical transportation! Chevrolet announces a greatly improved line of Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks—featuring a new engine. A new rear axle. A new frame. Many progressive changes in design and construction. And selling at new, greatly reduced prices that only the world's largest builder of cars and trucks could achieve. These reductions apply on every one of the 28 body-types and place Chevrolet trucks in the most attractive price-position in their history.

All 1½-ton models are now powered by a remarkable new Six-Cylinder Special Truck Engine. This is basically the same reliable power plant of last year—but Chevrolet has made it even smoother, more powerful, and more economical, by the addition of 33 new improvements and refinements.

Chevrolet has also introduced an entirely new type of rear axle. It's bigger. It's more rugged. And it's capable of handling heavier loads. All because Chevrolet has given it the outstanding mechanical advantages of a four-pinion differential and a straddle-mounted pinion with bearing support on both sides.

In addition, the Chevrolet 131-inch truck now has a much stronger frame, with deeper, heavier side members. The 1½-ton models have a sturdier universal joint, as well as larger brakes, improved springs, and a new 15-gallon fuel tank.

Nothing that Chevrolet has ever done before in trucks can equal the importance of this announcement: *A stronger, more powerful, more durable six-cylinder line. Even more economical than last year. And selling at prices as low as $440. That's value. That's leadership. That's news which no buyer of a low-priced truck can afford to disregard.
