VFW Is To Swamp City

F. Monaco, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, is expected to arrive in Artesia Saturday, when the new post and its officers are to be installed. Monaco, who is 65 years old, is a World War I veteran and the father of two World War II veterans.

The welcome extended by Acting Mayor Brainard was echoed by Artie McAnally, president of the Chamber of Commerce and also a World War I veteran and the father of two World War II veterans.

The acting mayor also appealed to the businessmen of Artesia to decorate their stores and premises in keeping with the spirit of welcome and Artesia's traditional hospitality. He asked that the flag be flown and that by means of bunting, crepe paper, and otherwise the city be made gay and inviting.

Alan Thompson, commander of the new post, said this morning that upwards of 100 reservations have been requested by department officers and members of the VFW for Saturday night and that more have been coming in by mail, telephone, and telegram.

He appealed to the people of Artesia who are willing to house one or more veterans Saturday night to let it be known. And in order that there may be a clearinghouse for housing, he appointed U. D. Walker, who may be (TURN TO LAST PAGE PLEASE)

Kick-Off Rally for Grid Squad Chamber Lunch Today

High school coaching staff members of the high school grid squad are to be guests at a September monthly luncheon of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce, which is being held on the Roof Garden of the Hotel.

Claude, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce athletic committee, is making the arrangements for the luncheon and the program, which is to be held at 7:45 on Friday.

Every effort will be made to start and close the luncheon on time. Talks will be held down and only the football season is to be discussed at the luncheon, it was pointed out by Chairman Claude.

Other members of the athletic committee who have assisted Chairman Claude in arranging the meeting are Marshall Rowley, Bill Bullock, Hugh Donald Burch, W. W. Batie, and C. D. Marshall.

Bullock Is Medalist as Diggers Start Tourney

Drawings also were held for the second flight, but they were not completed for the third flight, in which 10 golfers will play, necessitating six byes in the first rounds.

Pairings for the championship flight: Bill Bullock and Lynn Shelton, Bill Linell and Harvey Jones, Neil B. Watson and Bill Angley, Cliff Lloyd and Stanley Sutton, A. W. Harrah and Fritz Crawford, S. M. McLaughlin and H. D. Burch, Bob Bourland and Tom Pickett, W. W. Byers and C. A. Baker.

Second flight pairings: Jack Fauntleroy and J. J. Terry, J. S. Ward and Edwin Ward, a father and son match; J. D. Smith and Clarence Key, Tom Ragsdale and J. W. Ballard.

Entered in the third flight, as yet unmatched, are: L. B. Feather, Harry Gilmore, V. F. Lowery, Ike Crosey, Jack Spratt, Hugh Kiddy, Arba Green Oscar Loyd, Stanley Carper, and Charlie Bullock.

It was announced that first bracket matches must be played by Sunday evening, Sept. 15.

Wide 'Round-Up' Will Launch Scout Fall Program Monday

Scouts of Artesia will start their fall program with a "round-up" to be held Monday evening, Sept. 16.

With plans now being worked out for an active year, dates for the meetings of the various Girl Scout troops for the month of September have been set and announced. The present active leaders are also extending invitations to all interested in the Girl Scout movement to join with the present workers to assist in the program. The fact was stressed that several more leaders are needed in order to take care of the girls desiring to join and become active in the Girl Scouts.

The time, place, and leaders for the first meeting for all the Girl Scout troops follow: Intermediate Troop I, city hall, 4 p. m., Tuesday, Sept. 20.

The brownie division will have a "round-up" at 4 o'clock

Teacher Seeks Place to Live For Third Year

A teacher in the Artesia school system has sought for three years to find a desirable place where she might have board and room or where she could have a little apartment and prepare her own meals.

During this period she has repeatedly sought to find a place to live in order that she might teach in the Artesia schools. She is becoming discouraged. Artesia needs the teacher. She needs the place to reside.

There is probably such a place here if it could only be found. She says the only noise she makes is with her typewriter. There are no cats, dogs, or pets.

And she surely would like to find a place she can live, call home, be comfortable, and continue to serve Artesia as one of its teachers.

Anyone knowing of a place or having a place is invited to phone No. 7 and The Advocate will advise the teacher.

Lions Carnival To Be in New Guy Building

The Artesia Lions Club carnival Friday and Saturday, Sept. 27-28, will be staged in the new building at Second and Quay, being built by Clyde Guy, and in the street adjacent to it, according to an announcement at the weekly luncheon of the club Wednesday by Don Teed, general chairman.

It had been previously announced the carnival would be on the vacant lot at Second and Main, but the change was made, Teed said, so that all activities could be put inside, in case of bad weather.

The two-day affair is being planned, in order to raise funds for the Lions Club Youth activities program, under which playground equipment costing about $1000 is being purchased.

Some of the equipment is already here and has been placed in Central Park, where it is in use now. Additional equipment is on order.

In connection with the carnival, the Lions plan to give away a stove on Friday evening and a refrigerator on Saturday evening at a big dance.

In order to guarantee ample funds, the Lions and their wives and sweethearts, the Lionesses, plan to stage a friendly contest for the sale of the greatest number of tickets. Leaders of both groups pointed out that everyone is invited to buy as many tickets as he feels he can, so as to help pay for the playground equipment.

A ticket sale is to be held on the Peoples Mercantile Company corner Saturday, at which time it is hoped to have the stove and refrigerator on display.

Civic Leaders to Plan Community Building Sept. 30

Invitations from the Chamber of Commerce are going out this week to service clubs and civic organizations to select two representatives to attend a meeting Monday night, Sept. 30, in the city hall for the purpose of forming a non-profit organization to promote and sponsor the construction of a community building for youth activities and civic affairs, Artie McAnally, president of the chamber, said Wednesday.

The call resulted from a discussion of the need for a community building at the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber Tuesday night. In the directors' meeting it was pointed out that several service and civic groups in Artesia have indicated their support of a community center and the Chamber of Commerce is offering its services to unify the efforts of the entire city.

Groups which are being invited to participate in the Sept. 30 meeting include Rotary Club, Lions, 20-30 Club, Woman's Club, Junior Woman's Club, Parent-Teacher Association, and the City Council.

Each group is being asked to report the names of two representatives to the Chamber of Commerce office.

DUNNAM IS NAMED ON STATE LEGION COMMITTEE

Bill Dunnam, former adjutant and service officer of Clarence Kepple Post No. 41, American Legion, has been appointed a member of the New Mexico American Legion department rehabilitation committee.

Notification was sent to Dunnam by Charles R. Restow, department adjutant and service officer.

Coy Knoll Is Killed In Crash

Coy Knoll of Hagerman, 40, experienced Civil Air Patrol pilot, was instantly killed about 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, when a light airplane in which he was taking off in the Loco Hills oil field about 25 miles east of Artesia crashed into the A-beam of an oil well and fell to the ground in flames.

His death was the second within a month to a pilot flying from the Artesia municipal airport. Garland (Scratchy) Rideout was killed Sunday morning, Aug. 18, when he crashed into the side of a low hill southwest of Artesia, while hunting coyotes for the air.

In a report by T. A. Stillwagon, Air Safety Board inspector from Fort Worth, Tex., who was accompanied by Air Safety Inspector Al Myers of Albuquerque, made Tuesday after a thorough investigation and examination of the accident, he disclosed that the plane was airworthy when Mr. Knoll took off and that he was a competent pilot, but that the A-beam was not visible to him as he was climbing from an oil field road on which he had taken off.

The presence of the airplane in the oil field was accounted for in the report to the landing there on Sunday afternoon of a student pilot, who had "deliberately disobeyed" instructions from Hazel Flying Service and had flown to the Trans-Continental lease in the Loco Hills field, where he had landed, damaging the plane somewhat.

Stillwagon's report disclosed that the landing gear was damaged and the propeller was broken in the landing.

Bob Ehle, a licensed airplane and motor mechanic in the employ of Hazel Flying Service, accompanied by Mr. Knoll, went to the oil field Monday and replaced the propeller and damaged landing gear and inspected the aircraft, finding it airworthy, the inspectors disclosed.

After the damage had been repaired, Mr. Knoll taxied the plane to a stretch of oil field road from which he could take off and, shortly after being airborne, crashed into the A-beam.

Eye witnesses to the accident said the engine of the airplane, crashed into the crow's-nest of the beam and then toppled over beyond the beam and fell to the ground in flames.

Rescuers could not immediately approach the wreck to extricate the body of Mr. Knoll, because of the intense heat. The flames were extinguished by means of dirt thrown over the wreck.

The accident was at the Continental-S. P. Yates No. 2 well on the R. F. Travis-Continental lease, located in SE 3-18-29, about a half mile west of the Loco Hills pressure maintenance plant.

The plane had been landed Sunday afternoon within several hundred yards of the pressure maintenance plant by Carl Miller, a former serviceman, who was taking flight training under the GI Bill of Rights. He made his first solo flight Sunday morning, and that afternoon—"deliberately disobeying" instructions, as the report said—left the vicinity of the airport and flew to the oil field, where he landed the plane.

Miller's student permit has been revoked and he has been washed out of training under the GI Bill of Rights, it was disclosed.

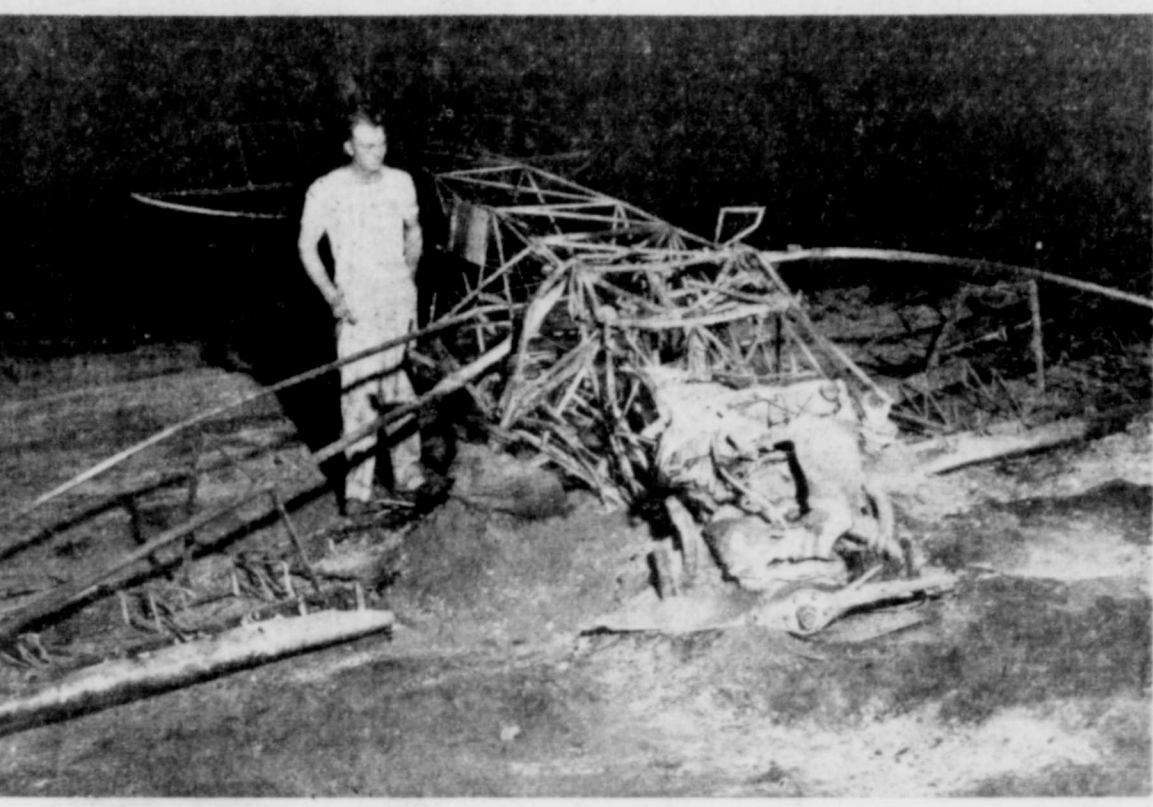

Funeral services for Mr. Knoll were Wednesday afternoon from the Hagerman Presbyterian Church.

He is survived by his widow, Margaret Knoll, 35, and two young daughters, Jean and Janice, about 13 and 11 years old, respectively.

Mr. Knoll was born Aug. 25, 1906, in Hamilton County, Texas, a son of B. F. and Lena Langford Knoll. He had lived in the Hagerman community about 20 years. He farmed and also had run a grocery store and market at Hagerman.

During the war Mr. Knoll was actively engaged in rescue work for the Army as a member of the Civil Air Patrol and flew dozens of missions of mercy over the deserts and mountains of New Mexico and elsewhere in the Southwest.

In that work he became one of the best "light-place" pilots in this section, having had to land and take off on duty on open places inaccessible to the majority of pilots. Fellow pilots believe Mr. Knoll surveyed the obstructions in the oil field Monday afternoon, as he had done on many other take-offs in the past, but misjudged his altitude as he approached the A-beam.

Shown here is the burned frame of the light airplane in which Coy Knoll of Hagerman was killed Monday afternoon in the Loco Hills oil field, when he crashed into the A-mast on an oil well, when taking off to fly to the Artesia municipal airport, the plane, which had been damaged the day prior, when a student washed out the landing gear in a landing. Ed Havins is pictured studying the wreck, which is shown lying on its back, as it landed.

Bulldogs Are Poised to Clash With Clovis Friday Evening

Coach M Duane Sams' Bulldog "A" squad members are primed for their first clash of the 1946 grid season, when they meet the Clovis Wildcats on Morris Field here at 7:45 o'clock Friday evening.

Some of the practice sessions this week were under the lights at Morris Field, as Coach Sams put the finishing touches on his charges for the opening fray.

While the "A" squad has been hard at it in training and practice for the tough 10-game schedule, C. D. Marshall, high school principal and athletic director, announced four games each have been secured for the "B" and "C" squads, with plans to schedule more games for each if possible.

Selected tentatively for the "A" squad are 23 players, who will be suited out for the Bulldog-Wildcat game Friday evening.

Among them will be the probable starters against Clovis, whom Chief Coach Sams said will include Johnnie McKinney and Glen Rogers at end, John Yates and (TURN TO SOCIETY PAGE, PLEASE)

James L. Pryor Dies Monday at Age of 73 Years

James Lewis Pryor, 73, father of Mrs. W. H. Box of Artesia, with whom he made his home, died at 11:55 o'clock Monday night in a Carlsbad hospital after an illness of only a few days.

Funeral services were from the First Baptist Church of Artesia at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Rev. S. M. Morgan, pastor. Burial was in Woodbine Cemetery here.

Surviving Mr. Pryor are his widow; six daughters, Mrs. Ida J. Clark, Hext, Tex.; Mrs. Aaron Wilburn, San Marcos, Tex.; Mrs. Edmund Turbiville, Llano, Tex.; Mrs. W. H. Box, Artesia; Mrs. Neal Jackson, Alvord, Tex.; and Mrs. Dick Ray, Hot Springs, N. M., and a son, James Pryor, Carlsbad.

There also survive Mr. Pryor two sisters, Mrs. Molly Smith, Austin, Tex.; and Mrs. Cora Peterson, San Antonio, Tex.; a half-sister, Miss Edith Raines, Waco, Tex.; 17 grandchildren and a great, grandchild.

James Lewis Pryor was born at Rockdale, Tex., Sept. 12, 1872, and he may be contacted at his home, 801 Texas Avenue.

School Enrollment of 1872 on Monday Again Breaks Records

The Artesia school system again set a record for enrollment Monday, with a total of 1872 pupils in the schools, it was reported by W. E. Kerr, superintendent, reflecting a continued growth of the city.

The superintendent said he and other school officials on Tuesday listed 83 more probable students, who had not as yet registered, making an immediate potential of 1955, as compared with 1814 at the end of the first month of school a year ago, when most of the potential students had been enrolled.

Figures from the schools for the entire nine months of the 1945-46 school year showed 2006 students enrolled at some time during the period, accounting for a considerable turnover, as some families moved here and others left, Kerr indicated.

The largest increase in the enrollment as well as the largest enrollment for any school in the system was shown at Artesia High School, with 685 signed up, as against 632 at the end of the first month a year ago. This is an increase of 53, without considering the immediate potential increase which the school may have.

The superintendent said it was impossible to make fair comparisons of the other schools, because of the shifting of classes. But, he reported, enrollment Monday at Central School was 677, at Park School, 448, and at Carver School, Negro, 62.

The large number of students has made it necessary to have half-day sessions in 10 rooms of the (TURN TO LAST PAGE PLEASE)

Sage Will Recommend $250,000 Armory Here

Brig. Gen. C. G. Sage, the adjutant general of New Mexico, declared here Monday morning that he will recommend Artesia for an armory under the proposed National Guard program, which, with anti-aircraft equipment, would cost about $250,000.

General Sage, accompanied by Colonel Rothgeb of the Regular Army, was making a tour of the state making inspections for final recommendations for the location of armories and conferred while here with Fred Brainard, acting mayor, and other city officials.

The general explained that he and Colonel Rothgeb were gathering facts for recommendation to the State Legislature when it meets next January.

When pressed by Acting Mayor Brainard as to the probabilities of an armory being allocated to Artesia, General Sage assured him and the community that he will "definitely recommend" that Artesia be in the program.

He explained that it will be necessary for the city of Artesia to furnish a location for the proposed armory and recommended that the city property fronting on Main Street, adjacent to the north of Morris Field be allocated for the purpose. He said the property would be ideal for the purpose.

The City Council at a meeting Tuesday evening approved making the property recommended by General Sage available to the state for the erection of the proposed armory.

It was not determined immediately whether the city will be required to deed the property to the state, or lease it at a nominal sum, but Acting Mayor Brainard said the manner of transfer is of little matter, whereas the acquisition of the armory for the city is of great importance.

The acting mayor said members of the council for some time have had the property north of the stadium in mind as an ideal location for an armory and that it seems to be the general consensus of opinion that it is the proper place for one.

General Sage informed Acting Mayor Brainard that his office will undertake to organize between now and the first of the year a company of the National Guard here, so a complete plan can be presented to the Legislature.

The full strength for an anti-aircraft company, which is the type planned here, is 126 men and six officers, General Sage said.

It was pointed out that should the armory be allocated to Artesia—which is probable—the hall will be available at all times for community affairs.

City Hopes to Start Hospital Addition Soon

It was planned Tuesday evening by the Artesia City Council to try to start construction soon on the proposed addition to Artesia Memorial Hospital with available funds, claiming at the same time a government grant.

Fred Brainard, acting mayor, said there was considerable discussion as the possibilities of receiving a federal grant towards the hospital construction, but it was generally agreed that because of red tape it might not be put through until next summer or fall.

Because of the great need for expanded hospital facilities, Acting Mayor Brainard said, the council members thought it would be better to attempt to get assurance federal aid will be forthcoming later and then start construction with the available funds.

If approval of present plans is obtained, it might be that the city will start construction in the near future, even though a grant is not assured, it was indicated.

Composition Pipe Fire Loss at Brown Supply Estimated at $1000

A loss estimated at about $1000 was suffered by Brown Pipe & Supply Company, when fire destroyed many feet of composition sewer pipe in the pipe yard south on the large company building on South First Street at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The fire was confined to the stack of sewer pipe, which is believed to have become ignited from a spark from a welding operation near it some minutes earlier.

The pipe, made of a composition derived from coal tar, burned furiously and sent clouds of black smoke skyward.

Over the Hills

WE ARE FIRMLY CONVINCED that if state officials, and especially the members of the state highway commission, would drive over highway 83 from Artesia to Alamogordo, they would go back to Santa Fe and set their plans for the improving of this highway and for the construction of an all-weather highway across the Sacramento Mountains.

Maybe we are wrong. But we believe once these officials would see the beauty of these mountains; would see the vegetables and truck gardens growing in these mountains and the beautiful fruit produced there, they would be convinced these people are entitled to a highway in order to get this produce to market.

It is rather difficult to understand why this highway has been neglected for so long. Especially when it is so badly needed.

It is more than a highway to provide a scenic route for travelers or even to give them a short cut to the coast. It is a farm to market highway—a road over which farmers and fruit growers can get their products to markets. And these products are needed now and will be needed in the days and months ahead.

It is rather hard and difficult to understand during this modern day in this modern state of ours why this particular highway has been ignored, neglected and forgotten for so long when it is so badly needed.

Certainly, time after time, it has been brought to the attention of state officials. Time after time its importance to the people of Southeastern New Mexico has been stressed as well as its importance to the tourists of this state.

And yet it remains today almost a disgrace because of its condition and the dangerous turns, curves and narrowness of the highway.

Work is now in progress on 15 miles of the highway between the end of the present blacktop and the point where this highway turns back south and starts winding through the mountains.

The rest of this highway needs to be constructed from this point to Cloudford. And then the highway needs to be built from Cloudford down the other side of the mountains.

Approximately four miles of this highway down the west side of the mountains will be built as a National Forest road. But there is plenty of highway yet to be constructed.

The building of this highway is going to be expensive; it is going to take time; it is going to take plenty of work and effort over a long period of time.

But it will be worth what it costs. It will create one of the most beautiful and scenic highways in the state.

And now is the time for the people of Southeastern New Mexico to make their demands known and to secure their promises and their pledges that this highway will be constructed.

We believe that the people of this area have waited long enough.

Highways have been and are being built elsewhere. This highway is as important as any to be constructed in the state because of the double purpose it will serve.

It will provide not only a route for tourists but it will provide a farm to market road for the producers and fruit growers to get their products out of the mountains.

And now, before the November election time, is the time for the citizens, the taxpayers and the voters to make their demands known. Now is the time to secure the promises and pledges this highway will be constructed.

As we stated—the importance of the highway should have resulted in its construction years ago but it hasn't. So now is the time for taxpayers to make their demands known.—O.E.P.

First Game

TOMORROW NIGHT, Friday, Sept. 13, the Artesia Bulldogs will make their first appearance here against the Clovis High School football squad.

It will be the opening game of the season. We feel sure there will be a record crowd out to witness this contest and to endeavor to give their support to the local high school team.

The squad will have had only a little over two weeks time to work out, practice and to develop their plays, yet they are meeting stiff competition for their opening contest.

We are sure the fans will keep these facts in mind and they will continue their support of the local team in the coming months.

Make your plans now to be present for all of the games, five of them, to be played on the home field this year.—O.E.P.

Financial Growth

FOR SOME YEARS NOW the bank deposits of Artesia have been steadily increasing until last week they passed the $7,000,000 mark.

Within the year the deposits reached the $6,000,000 mark, which was a new high for the local institution. Certainly the $7,000,000 deposits is an all time high and record for the bank here.

It certainly reflects well the sound financial condition not only of the banking institution but of Artesia as well and North Eddy County.

Ranking along with this is the fact that the bank has a total of $1,667,000 in loans now. That, too, is an all time high. It shows that the bank is not only being used for the deposit of money but that it is serving this community with loans and advancements for the operation of business of all kinds and types here.

We believe that Artesia and North Eddy County can well afford to be proud of its bank and the service the institution is rendering to the people of this community.—O.E.P.

Feeder Streets Needed

ARTESIA IS ON THE RIGHT TACK as to traffic problems, with the passage of a speeding ordinance, but we need more far-reaching measures, assisted by the State Highway Department.

For one thing, we need feeder streets, especially to the south, as we expand in that direction.

We would recommend that one of them be Fourth Street, rather than Roselawn Avenue, for the latter is too narrow. However, we would settle for Roselawn, with some parking limitations. At least, that thoroughfare should not have the right of way at only two intersections, Quay and Grand Avenues, and have common crossings at all others, which is confusing, especially to the newer residents.

South Eighth Street, similar to the condition of Roselawn, now has the right of way at Quay and Richardson Avenues. And except for one reason that street would be ideal for the second feeder to the south. That is the fact that the new Alta Vista Addition is entered mainly by way of Seventh and Ninth Streets.

That being the case, we should consider something other than Eighth, giving us a choice between Seventh and Ninth. Each would have its advantages and disadvantages: Seventh might be too close to the other feeder, while Ninth might be too far to the west. We won't argue that point, but recommend that one of the other be made a feeder.

An those feeders need not have a stepped-up speed limit, although an additional five miles an hour should not be objectionable.

As yet, we need no feeder streets to the north, as the traffic does not warrant it.

But there is one more thing which we do need badly in Artesia, and that is stop signs, which the State Highway Department should furnish on First and Main Streets, as both are highways.

None can be found on First Street, except where Main Street enters. And none can be found on Main Street, except where Second, Third, and Roselawn enter. Those are all city markers, not placed there by the state.

But the driving public is supposed to come to a complete stop when entering either First or Main. How a stranger is supposed to know that, we cannot figure. So it seems the State Highway Department has fallen down on the job.

We are growing and more new people are coming to our little city every week. And it is time we keep pace, not only with enforced speed limits, but with feeder streets so traffic can be speeded up as well, and with well-marked stop intersections, so as to make the entire traffic plan more safe and workable.—A.L.B.

Against the 'Ins'

THERE IS GOING TO BE lots of conversation between now and next November when the voting takes place.

Folks are going to talk plenty about what should be done. Many are convinced there should be a complete removal of all of those in office.

But on election day, many of those who talked the most, won't even be qualified to vote. And many of those who have talked so much and who are qualified to ballot, won't take the trouble to go and vote.

We sometimes wonder if it wouldn't be a good thing to make it mandatory that we exercise the right of our franchise or that we be disfranchised. Maybe not, but if that was the case, certainly there would be more ballots cast and there would be more interest taken by citizens in public affairs.

It is rather amazing and surprising sometimes to find out just how little we do know about our own forms of government; about the tax assessments; about operating budgets; about the cost of our government. It is surprising, we say, how little we know about these things.

And the fact that we do not know; do not take the trouble to find out; and aren't interested, is a real contributing factor to corruption and graft such as occurred some years ago in Kansas City.

It wasn't crooked politicians, who were responsible for what happened in Kansas City. No, it was the lack of interest and the utter indifference on the part of the taxpayers, the voters and the citizens.

Between now and November, we say, there will be a lot of conversation. Much of this conversation will be by the candidates themselves seeking votes and the conversation of those dissatisfied with conditions and the situation.

But the taxpayers and the citizens need to talk too. They need to ask some questions; they need to demand the stand of the candidate on particular questions and issues; they need to make known to the candidates what they want.

But these demands must be made known between now and November and then the voter must go to the polls and cast his or her ballot, if they want the candidates, who will grant their demands, elected.—O.E.P.

Up and Down Main Street

INVITE BUSINESS
UP AND DOWN MAIN
ALWAYS BIDDING

Bundles of invitations to those in Artesia and the Artesia trade territory to buy outside of the city and to send away their money were received here at the local postoffice during the past 10 weeks. These bundles of invitations, of course, were mail order catalogs containing beautiful and attractive pictures; attractive description of the articles; good prices; and in some instances listed merchandise which is hard to get or unobtainable here. There is everything said and done in these mail order catalogs to get the business of the community. The catalogs do not say anywhere that this mail order house is interested in Artesia; that it helps to build this community; that it provides payrolls and jobs for local people; that it pays taxes in this community; that it helps support the schools or the churches or other institutions here. They likewise do not guarantee the merchandise you buy; you can't go back to them and have adjustments made; or service rendered. Yet they are after the business in Artesia. And they are going to obtain business in Artesia. Perhaps we can't do much about some of the things, which are offered. We do not have them in stock and perhaps can't obtain them. And we can't blame local people, who need and have to have this merchandise for ordering it elsewhere if they can't get it here. But we can, perhaps, prevent those from buying elsewhere those items and the merchandise, which we have here if we keep the public advised and posted on the goods we have to offer and on the things, which they can buy here. That is our job as business people. In other words, that merchant, who never bothers to advise his hometown folks what he has to offer for sale, while the mail order house does, can't expect to get the local trade.

More Europeans Express Thanks For Assistance

At least three letters of appreciation and thanks from Europe have been received in Artesia from recipients of clothing or toilet articles through the UNNRA, contributed here in the Emergency Clothing Collection campaign a few months ago.

The Advocate told several weeks ago of a letter from a Polish girl to Earle Gean Quinn, thanking her both in English and Polish for a coat she had given, in hopes she might make some war-impooverished child more comfortable and happy.

Since then Virginia Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Green, has heard from a young girl in Greece, who received a Girl Scout friendship bag containing toilet articles and the like, with which Virginia sent a note, and Patsyann Fischbeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fischbeck, has had a letter from cock and Bun Muncy greeting friends and boosting the Democratic ticket for the November elections. E. A. Hannah visiting with friends and just as strong for the Republicans. That was Up and Down Main this week.

Many local merchants and business people do keep their customers and the public posted on new merchandise they have to offer and on items, which are needed. They also keep the public advised on other lines of goods, which are bought. The public knows these articles can be purchased at home and in many instances they know the prices of these goods. The merchant does this by use of publishing merchandising news—which is nothing more than advertising. And it is the merchant, who keeps his name before the buying public as well as the merchandise he offers for sale, who keeps his buying public informed. Not only does he keep them informed but he is inviting them to trade with him. Don't forget that the bundles of invitations, which are received two or three times a year here from mail order houses are ever present in the home. All the prospective buyer needs to do is go pick up that beautiful catalog with its illustrations and prices. The temptation is there. The individual only has to send off his or her check with the order to see whether they can get the merchandise or not. There is no chasing around here and there to see whether they can find what they want. This mail order catalog competition is ever present. The only way to combat it is to keep buyers posted on what we have to sell locally and to endeavor to stock and secure the merchandise, which is needed and wanted. We can't just ignore it if we want this business, we have to go after it. The average person, we are sure, prefers to trade and deal at home. They would rather buy here because the money they spend in Artesia stays in Artesia; it helps support the community; it helps to maintain the schools and the city and to provide jobs and payrolls. And one of the best ways to do that is to get the goods and merchandise and to keep the shopper informed on what we have to sell and invite the public to trade with us.

When Richard Dawe of Sao Paulo, Brazil, a student at the University of New Mexico, tried to do a nice, slow samba at a student dance and found that the music forced him and his American girl friend to jitterbug, a chain of events began which today had introduced him to his cousin. Strangers of all, they're not only a Greek girl, the recipient of clothing contributed in the drive. The three letters are interesting to note, for the one to Earle Gean was written in Polish and then repeated in Polish, that to Virginia was in English, but with the name in Greek letter symbols, which cannot be reproduced by The Advocate or translated, while the message to Patsyann was written in Italian, the content of which was translated literally by Louis Campanello for her.

Here is the letter from Greece to Virginia Green, interpreted as nearly as possible: "My dear Sister Virginia: Full of joy I communicate with you mortally and hope the moment will not be far off when side by side we will exchange our brotherly guide thoughts. Greece is proud of us and holds us tightly in her bosoms."

"Hard has been the war period and poor Greece holding us hoped that her soul would never succumb. Sister, it is a joyful moment reading your alive words and I fly with you, run, jump, and helping you in your difficult circumstances we exchange our thoughts and a brotherly kiss unites us."

"But I keep up a vast optimism, go ahead with a immense hope, although life's circumstances are weak, from a financial point of view, and though a barbaric conqueror shatter."

"Your parcel has been for us a most precious present, containing useful things for a Girl Scouts and we are of the same age and greeting in all our thoughts."

"May I give you some of my feeling? I have brown hair and eyes of medium height. I am 15 years old and go to school. My family is composed of three sisters, two brothers, and of my mother, father is dead."

"I wish to have your news soon. Yours sincerely friend, (name and address in Greek characters)." Campanello's literal translation of the letter to Patsyann Fischbeck, written at Palermo, Italy, Aug. 8, by Susome Rosario: "My dear Friend: I wish to beg your pardon in case I have imposed upon you. It was a fortune to me to have found your address. We do appreciate your goodwill for us Italians."

"We were invaded twice, robbed and everything taken away from us during the two bombardments and crossfires of the armies. "On my return the house, clothes, and everything was gone and the family of six of us had only what we wore. We are a husband, wife and four children, two girls, one 14 years old and one 18 years old, and two boys, one 15 and one 12. "We sure wish we could get even because we were victims of circumstances—that is back before the war cost us everything. "With sincere heart we are thanking you for the clothes and in the name of the entire family send their absolute cordial regards. Susome Rosario."

Here's What May Come of Doing The Jitterbug

When Richard Dawe of Sao Paulo, Brazil, a student at the University of New Mexico, tried to do a nice, slow samba at a student dance and found that the music forced him and his American girl friend to jitterbug, a chain of events began which today had introduced him to his cousin. Strangers of all, they're not only first cousins, but they're both named Richard Dawe. Richard No. 2 is from Durango, Mexico. It started when The Summer Lobo, student newspaper of the University's summer session, ran a story about Richard of Sao Paulo and his jitterbugging experience.

A downtown newspaper picked up the story, and Richard Dawe of Durango, visiting in Albuquerque at the home of his aunt, read it and realized that the jitterbugger must be his cousin, Richard Dawe of Sao Paulo.

They soon were together, talking of their lives. Richard of Sao Paulo was born in England and reared in Brazil. His father's brother was the father of Richard of Durango, born in San Antonio, Tex., and reared in Mexico.

So that's what comes of doing the jitterbug instead of the samba.

"Every night my husband turned on the news program," said Mrs. Lilly Darlick, 47, of Connelville, Pa., seeking a divorce. "That was the signal for the children and me to go to bed. We had to be in bed by the time the five-minute program was over." Judge F. John Morrow granted the divorce.

Insurance companies paid $37,663 more to the state of New Mexico in the fiscal year just ended than in the previous year, Ralph Apodaca, state insurance superintendent, reports. He said total of $347,807 included in fees and taxes from utility and miscellaneous industries for the state general fund, $107,809 from fire companies, municipalities, and $111,000 from fraternal organizations in Carrie Tingley Hospital.

Chini Talks to Vets Regarding Adjustment Allowance Claims

Samuel D. Luchini, chairman of the Employment Security Commission of New Mexico, has issued an open letter to veterans claiming readjustment allowances. It reads:

If you are now getting the service stake you know that it is a mighty poor substitute for a job.

ment allowance for as much as $20 a week.

To get it, though, you must be able, ready and willing to go to work.

If you are now getting the service stake you know that it is a mighty poor substitute for a job.

Speaking of Rural Telephone Service...

How Are We Doing?

Here are the facts...

• We set our sights high for 1946 when we planned to install 21,000 more rural telephones but by mid-year we had already furnished service to an additional 14,700 farm families, 70 per cent of our planned quota for the year! We're still ahead of schedule, despite material shortages.

• There are now 102,000 farm and ranch homes (or 46 per cent of the total number of such establishments) in the Mountain States area which have telephone service.

• All orders which were held because of the shortage of telephones alone have been cleared up. We have placed about 9000 poles and strung some 2500 miles of new wire. Plans are drawn and materials ordered to provide outside lines and central office equipment necessary to serve others who are waiting.

• The demand for rural telephone service is higher than ever before. It is our aim to satisfy that demand as soon as physically possible.

THE MOUNTAIN STATES TELEPHONE & TELEGRAPH CO.

True, it comes in handy while you are job hunting, but it's not much to live on and it doesn't last forever. Even the maximum of 52 payments is soon gone.

The law says you have to show that you are willing to work by registering at a public employment office. You are expected to take any reasonable job which is offered through the office.

The Employment Service is trying hard to find jobs for all applicants, but not all employers list their job openings with the service. So it is possible for you to be registered with the Employment Service and draw all your allowances without ever being referred to a job. At the same time, thousands of people are being hired daily by employers who have never listed their job openings with an employment office.

The best deal for you is to go out in earnest after one of those jobs that are going to be filled today or tomorrow. You can do better for yourself than anyone else can do for you. If you go after your own job you may have a better selection to choose from and you'll not be in a position of having to take just anything that comes your way.

Maybe, you are one of the many veterans who never had much job hunting experience before you entered the service. Getting a civilian job is quite different from getting a job in the service. Uncle Sam didn't ask what kind of job you wanted or even if you wanted one. He issued you a job just as he issued uniforms. You took the job and you did it.

Nobody is going to issue you a civilian job. It's up to you to get one and you have the privilege of trying to get one you will like.

Give yourself a break. Apply for a job with the Employment Service, sure, but do more than that. Get some advice on jobs and job hunting from some of the older heads who have had a lot of experience in that line. Ask your friends and relatives to watch for job openings for you. Read the help wanted ads.

Make full use of the vocational counseling of the veterans Employment Service, the Veterans Administration, local service organizations, schools, and community veterans' centers for information.

Tear out this ad as a reminder tion about the requirement of various jobs and about your own qualifications.

Pick out the job you think you can fill. From telephone directories, advertisements, and other sources get the names of employers having such jobs. Then make personal calls. It won't be necessary for you to stress the fact that you are a veteran. The discharge emblem on your lapel will speak for itself. Discuss your service experience only if it has a bearing on your qualifications for the job you are seeking.

Don't get discouraged. You may have to make many calls before you land the job you are after. Each time you apply for a job you get some valuable experience in job hunting. Each job you get, even if it is for only a few days, gives you some more valuable experience in civilian employment.

To get a job you must convince the employer that it will be good business for him to hire you. You must sell yourself to the employer. Salesmanship involves confidence in yourself, determination, persistence and a good presentation of your argument.

Make calls. Make lots of calls, if necessary. Be confident. Be cheerful. Be courteous. Be industrious. Advertise yourself. You can do this by advertisements in newspapers or trade papers, by writing letters, by phone calls. You can do it through your friends, through the organizations to which you belong and in innumerable other ways.

Remember, its your life you are directing. You are more interested in your own welfare than anybody else. Readjustment allowances are only a temporary grub-stake.

Be diligent. Be resourceful. Readjustment, after all, is your problem. Others can't solve it for you. At best they can only help.

News Shorts

The cry of "foul" was raised over the selection of "breast of chicken" as the main dish for the Saturday Review of Literature's 90th anniversary birthday dinner in honor of George Bernard Shaw. The dinner was held at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria. Symon Gould, associate editor of the magazine, American Vegetarian, declared that Shaw's "astounding longevity is due in no small measure to his abstinence from flesh, fish and fowl for a period of over 55 years."

In Tulsa, Okla., Sheriff Garland Marrs, defeated in the runoff primary, plans to throw a $50,000 whiskey "party" before his successor, W. V. Caffey, takes over Jan. 1. The sheriff explained his party wouldn't be the cocktail variety. Under Oklahoma law he must destroy 10,000 pints of seized liquor. "I have held on to it a long time, in hope that some day the legislature would enact a law permitting the sale of this liquor so that funds could be returned to the taxpayers," said the sheriff ruefully.

A hike in the ceiling price of newspaper paper—probably somewhere between $4 and $6.80 a ton—is likely immediately after the impending restoration of price control. Government officials acquainted with the situation disclosed privately that an increase of $4 a ton was "under consideration" when OPA folded up June 30. But they added that a higher price seems called for now because of the revaluation of the dollar in Canada, source of 75 per cent of this country's newspaper supply.

From the Roswell postoffice, Hial Cobean received 25 empty, unaddressed Cobean Store envelopes. Red-faced, brother Warren Cobean explained how it happened: To salvage stamps which had stuck in his billfold, he had carefully soaked them loose and pasted them on the envelopes. On the way to the store the next morning, he passed the postoffice and absent-mindedly dropped the empty envelopes in the slot. They came back with stamps cancelled, too.

Apparently the shorter the dress the higher the price. But it just goes to prove that sight-seeing costs money.

Cattle Outlook To Be Discussed At State Meet

Outlook for the cattle market for New Mexico livestock under new OPA rules and regulations will be one of the chief topics under discussion at the third quarterly executive board meeting of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association at Albuquerque Sept. 29 and 30, according to George A. Godfrey, Animas, president. More than 300 ranchers representing all parts of the state will attend the meeting, Godfrey said.

The session has been called on dates to coincide with the New Mexico State Fair, as it is expected that this annual agricultural event will attract more livestock producers this year than ever before in history. The state livestock association is one of the original promoters of the fair.

Other matters which will come before the association will be the discussion of several pertinent public land problems, Godfrey said. With the creation of the new Bureau of Land Management to control and administer public lands, and with the drastic congressional cut in the Grazing Service appropriation this year, livestock producers are faced with several proposed changes in the Taylor Grazing Law, he explained.

The face, or "heads," of a coin is called its obverse side.

Banks of New York City were the first in the United States to use the clearing house system.

President Roosevelt proclaimed the bank holiday on March 6, 1933.

The first United States mint was established in Philadelphia. It has been in continuous operation since 1793.

Buyers Are Urged To Order Their Yule Cards Early

Although the Christmas greeting card situation is not going to be as tight this year as it was a year ago, greeting card companies are still urging buyers to place their orders for cards early.

Orders for greeting cards have been placed by The Advocate and shipments are expected shortly. Samples of all greeting cards are now available and are expected to afford shoppers the opportunity to select the cards they want.

Those who desire to order special cards to have them engraved, are especially urged to act now. These orders can be placed and the cards will be ready when the customers want them. Those desiring to order special orders and to have them imprinted also are requested to order early.

Those selecting cards from the large stock, which The Advocate expects to have on hand and who desire to have them imprinted, will not only be able to have a more complete selection from which to choose their cards, but they will be sure the cards are ready on the date they desire them, it was pointed out.

Christmas greeting cards from Sidney J. Burgoyne and Sons, Nu-Art Engraving Company, and Autrey Bros. Engraving Company are now on hand. Those who would like to select their greeting cards now are invited to call at The Advocate office.

The sample book of the Seigrist Engraving Company Christmas cards is expected in the very near future.

OUTWEAR PREWAR TIRES

A taxi cab is a machine to get you places...and makes miles into money. Delays are costly!...
That's why taxi drivers are so fussy about their tires.
B.F. Goodrich offered the new Silvertown to the public, over 17 million miles of tests were made on taxi fleets, police cars, and on the B.F. Goodrich test fleet. From these tests, came proof that the new B.F. Goodrich Silvertown was a superior tire that outperformed, outran, outlasted, and outwore prewar tires—even at high speeds.

The tread itself was broader, flatter...covered more road surface...reduced the wear at any point. To hold this tread, a better cord was used and by using more cords per tire, a stronger tire body was perfected.

Supplies of this new tire are still limited. However, we'll do our best to keep your car rolling until we can get new tires for you.

Nancy Jordan, John Shearman, Jr., Exchange Wedding Vows Thursday

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil G. Jordan have announced the marriage of their daughter, Nancy, who became the bride of John Woodworth Shearman, Jr., son of John Shearman, in a double-ring ceremony at the home of the bride's maternal grandparents.

Rev. C. A. Clark, pastor of the First Methodist Church, heard the vows before an improvised altar made of greenery and decked with white gladioli. Tall white tapers were lighted before the services by Rosemary Hetson and Jimmy Bridgforth, niece and nephew of the bride.

Mrs. Donald Bush sang "O Promise Me" and "At Dawning." She was accompanied by Mrs. Glenn Caskey who also played "Clair de Lune," while the candles were being lighted; the wedding march, and "Liebestraum," while the vows were being exchanged.

Miss Jordan, given in marriage by her father, was gowning in a black suit with a grey, sequin-trimmed hat. A shoulder corsage of white gardenias completed her ensemble. Following tradition, she carried a lace handkerchief, that had belonged to a great-aunt; her costume was new, and a pair of blue garters borrowed from a friend completed the group.

Miss Bonnie Fletcher attended the bride as maid of honor. She was attractively attired in a black afternoon dress with sequin trim and wore attractive accessories of white. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Carolyn Hutson preceded the bride as flower girl. Leo Bridgforth was ring bearer.

Pete L. Loving attended Mr. Shearman as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained with a luncheon.

Mrs. Shearman is a talented musician. She attended the University of New Mexico and Arkansas State Teachers College and has taught in Central School here.

Mr. Shearman was discharged from the Navy after serving three years overseas in the Pacific theater. He has been working with the Soil Conservation Service as an engineer.

The couple left for Albuquerque, where Mr. Shearman will enter the University of New Mexico.

Floy Fletcher Becomes Bride of Charles Culbertson Tuesday Evening

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fletcher have announced the marriage of their daughter, Floy, who became the bride of Charles Culbertson in a quiet double-ring ceremony Tuesday evening at the home of the bride. The candlelight ceremony was performed by Robert A. Waller, evangelist of the Church of Christ.

An improvised altar of vines and greenery was flanked by large baskets of yellow and white dahlias. Yellow and white roses also were used on the altar. Candles placed on either side of the setting were lighted by Mrs. H. T. Willoughby, sister of the bride, preceding the ceremony.

Mrs. William Patton played pre-nuptial selections, which were "I Love You Truly" and "Love's Old Sweet Song." Mrs. Patton also played the wedding march.

For her marriage, Miss Fletcher chose a dove grey suit with accessories of navy blue. A corsage of yellow rosebuds was worn on the shoulder. For something old, she wore her mother's wedding band; something new was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom; her accessories were blue, and she carried a white Bible borrowed from Miss Drotha Stuart.

Miss Bonnie Fletcher, sister of the bride, attended her as maid of honor. She wore a navy blue crepe costume with pink accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of pink carnations.

W. D. Cunningham attended the bridegroom as best man.

For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Fletcher chose a stunning black gown with black accessories and her corsage was of white gladioli.

Mrs. Culbertson was becomingly gowning in black with black accessories. Her corsage also was of white gladioli.

Only the families of the bride and bridegroom witnessed the impressive ceremony.

A reception was held immediately after the services. The bride and groom cut a two-tiered wedding cake, which was placed on a linen-covered table. Tiny flowers encircled the base of the cake. After the bride and bridegroom cut the first piece, Miss Bonnie Fletcher finished serving it. Mrs. Zane Ray Wilburn served punch and Mrs. Willoughby kept the guestbook.

Mrs. Culbertson is a graduate of Artesia High School of the class of 1940. She is employed at the First National Bank.

Mr. Culbertson has been working with his father in the lumber milling business since his discharge from the Army. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Culbertson.

After a short wedding trip to El Paso, the couple will be at home in Artesia.

Mrs. Cox, Mother of Twins, Is Honored at Shower in Abstentia

Mrs. Avery Cox was honor guest in abstentia at a pink and blue shower at the home of Mrs. Chester Rogers in Lake Arthur. Twenty-eight guests were present and many gifts were sent by those who could not attend. A large basinet was stacked with presents and a huge stork watched over the proceedings.

Mrs. Cox was unable to attend the affair, as she was taken to Artesia Memorial Hospital last Thursday morning, where she gave birth to twin boys. They have been named Leslie Avery and Wesley Garland. Mrs. Cox's mother, Mrs. Garland Duncan, is believed to be the youngest grandmother in the United States. She was 34 years and two days old when the twins were born.

At the close of the evening, guests were served sandwiches and cake from a lace-covered table. Mrs. Jack Murphy assisted Mrs. Rogers as cohostess.

The unopened gifts were presented to Mrs. Cox at the hospital later.

Buffet Luncheon Marks 43rd Annual Opening of Artesia Woman's Club

MRS. STANLEY BLOCKER

The Artesia Woman's Club held its 43rd annual opening on Wednesday of last week at a buffet luncheon on the Roof Garden of the Artesia Hotel. Mrs. Stanley Blocker, president, presided at the meeting held after the luncheon.

Mrs. Blocker, in an address to the club, pledged her best efforts to perform her duties for the greatest interests of the club and stressed that only with the aid of each member can the organization work and progress. She said it will be in the club work that the members may find an opportunity to serve.

For the occasion, Mrs. Blocker was smartly attired in an aqua blue gabardine frock with a mulberry hat of felt in a striking fall design.

Many of the guests wore fall costumes with smart fall accessories while others chose summer frocks because of the extreme heat.

The entertainment committee, with Mrs. J. E. Roberts as chairman, consisted of Mmes. Earl Darst, Clyde Parrish, Hollis Watson, Oscar Pearson, and Marian Welch. This committee was in charge of the luncheon and had fashioned lovely tables covered with white linen cloths, on which were strewn grape leaves and small bunches of white grapes.

The speakers' table was centered with a crystal bowl of pink and white sweetpeas, while other tables had fall bouquets of zinnias, asters, petunias, golden glow, dahlias, and roses, blending into a colorful setting.

Everett Dean O'Bannon, talented boy violinist, presented an effective program of violin arrangements, which included "Hungarian Dance No. 2," by Brahms; "Variations on a Theme," by Corelli, Fartini-Kreiser; "Tambourin Chinois," by Kreisler, and an encore, "Bumble Bee," by Rimsky-Korsakof. Master O'Bannon displayed an exceptionally fine technique in the interpretation of his selections. His accompanist was Miss Bernadine Parks of Carlsbad.

Mrs. Glenn Caskey, chairman of the program committee and first vice president, distributed the yearbooks and copies of the constitution and by-laws. Two hundred members are on this club roster this year, 25 of whom are new members, she said.

The financial report given at the business meeting disclosed the do-

It was announced that the next meeting will be Thursday, Sept. 19, at the Presbyterian Church and will be a membership tea.

Opening Meeting Of Story League Is Held Tuesday

The Carl Lewis home was the setting for the opening meeting of the Artesia Story League Tuesday afternoon with 15 members present.

Mrs. John Mathis, president, presided over a business meeting at which time plans were discussed for the ensuing year.

The theme used for this meeting was "Early American and Contemporary Authors." Mrs. Melvin Mapes, educational director, presented a questionnaire dealing with the phases of study desired. The answers covered posture, diction, voice control, developing the imagination, and choosing and presenting the story to different age groups.

Mrs. Curtis Bolton told the story, "Body Beautiful," by Cornelia Otis Skinner. In presenting the story, Mrs. Bolton preserved and accentuated the author's droll humor.

A social hour followed and the hostesses, Mmes. Lewis, Fletcher Collins, and Phillip Krantz, served dainty refreshments.

The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 1, and will be at the home of Mrs. Andy Corbin with Mrs. Melvin Mapes as co-hostess.

Social Security Benefits Due to Some Survivors of War II Vets

Man survivors of World War II veterans who have died since leaving the service will benefit from one of the provisions of the Social Security Act amendments of 1946, Perry A. Webb, manager of the Roswell Social Security Administration field office said.

Webb explained that the new section of the act provides for the payment of monthly benefits to qualified survivors of veterans who die within three years of their discharge and whose dependents are not qualified to receive compensation or pensions from the Veterans Administration. National Service Life Insurance is not considered as compensation or a pension.

In the case of such veterans who died before the enactment of the new amendment, the measure provides for monthly benefits retroactive to the date of the veteran's death if the survivors file their benefit claims with the nearest office of the Social Security Administration before midnight Feb. 10, 1947. Of course, monthly benefits other than retroactive are payable on claims filed at any time by qualified persons, Webb said.

In cases where survivors of veterans who qualify under the new amendment already have filed claim for monthly benefits earned by the veteran under the old-age and survivors insurance program of the Social Security Administration, it is possible that the provisions of the new measure will provide greater benefits than those earned by the veteran. These survivors are included in the immediate potential beneficiaries, Webb said, and should apply to the field office of the Social Security Administration.

The same applies, Webb added, to survivors who have filed claim for lump-sum benefits under the old-age and survivors insurance program on a qualified veteran's account. The new amendment may make them eligible for monthly benefit payment, or it may increase the amount of the lump-sum benefit. In the latter case, they will receive the difference between the lump sum they received and the larger amount they are eligible for under the amendment, if they apply at the office of the Social Security Administration.

"As in the case of all other persons qualified for social security benefits, families of deceased veterans to whom this new section of the law has immediate application should come to our office to file their benefit claims as soon as possible," Webb said.

"Substance" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Sept. 15, 1946.

The Golden Text is: "Wisdom and knowledge shall be the stability of thy times, and strength of salvation: the fear of the Lord is His Treasure."—(Isaiah 33:6.)

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do not appear."—(Hebrews 11:1, 3.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text: "Truth, Life, and Love are substance, as the Scriptures use word in Hebrews: 'The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.' Spirit is synonym of Mind, Soul, or the only real substance." Visitors always welcome.

"Nothing will ruin the country if the people themselves will undertake its safety; and nothing can save it if they leave that safety in any hands but their own." — Daniel Webster.

Mr. and Mrs. Citizen:

We have but to look at the wracked and ruined lands of this earth today to realize what a terrible price human beings pay for mistakes in judgment. Not the little, everyday mistakes of the individual, but the great collective mistakes of people as a whole.

We may look at Germany, at Italy or at Japan today and say it is the war. But the war is merely the result of the mistake made by the peoples of these lands. The cause lies in the mistake they made in choosing their leaders, in determining what kind of men they wished to head their government.

Here in the United States we have small worry that the people will blindly support any such leaders as arose in those defeated nations. But even here in America, right here in New Mexico, there is a choice to be made. That choice should be a careful one. It should not be made with any other consideration than what is best for our state, what is best for our people. It is not merely an election—it is our future.

Peaches May Be Canned, Despite Sugar Shortage

Don't let the shortage of sugar for canning prevent anyone from taking advantage of New Mexico's most abundant peach crop in many years, for peaches, as well as other fruit, can be canned without sugar, as many housewives already know.

True, the sugar protects the color of the fruit and prevents it from getting soft. But rather than let the bumper crop go to waste, put up peaches without sugar, is the advice of Miss Doris Mardis, home demonstration agent, who says, "You can sweeten them later on when serving, if the sugar supply becomes more abundant then."

However, despite the shortage, it should not be necessary for most housewives to can peaches without sugar, as OPA is allowing 10 pounds of canning sugar for each member of the family.

Tests in canning sugar this year to determine the actual amount needed for a good quality product have shown that if peaches are allowed to ripen thoroughly and develop their maximum sugar content or until they begin to get soft they may be scalded with hot water, then dipped in cold water and the skin slipped off with a minimum of time and loss of peach. A good quality canned fruit can be secured by the use of only a half pound of sugar to each gallon of canned fruit, or a quarter cup to the quart. In this way, 10 pounds of canning sugar could can 20 gallons of peaches.

As peaches are so frequently killed by frost and a crop can only be expected about every other year in most localities, every housewife should give serious consideration to the importance of utilizing her portion of this year's bumper peach crop, Miss Mardis said.

But remember, if no sugar is available, the fruit may be canned without sugar, she added.

New Mexico 4-H Clubs Gain 1137 In Membership

New Mexico 4-H Club enrollment has gained 1137 members in the past year, L. S. Kurtz, state 4-H leader reported. Present enrollment totals 6043, compared with last year's 4906. The 2834 boys and the 3209 girls belong to 369 clubs under the supervision of 450 adult leaders and 66 junior leaders.

Bernalillo County leads the state in 4-H enrollment with 655 members, followed by Valencia with 403; Colfax, 399; Santa Fe, 363; Dona Ana, 351; Curry, 301, and Quay, 272. Greatest gains were made in Grant, Dona Ana, Valencia, and Otero Counties.

During the past year, club members have engaged in 7897 projects, most of them involving good production, preparation, and conservation. Members took part in 81 separate activities, covering all phases of agriculture and home-making, ranging from cooking, sewing, beans, and broomcorn to beef calves, floriculture, and milk goats.

Among the girls, the most popular project is clothing, with 2081 girls enrolled in one or more of the units. Foods and baking projects are almost as popular with 601 entries in baking, 829 in food preparation, and 442 in canning and freezing foods—a total of 1882 in foods work.

New Mexico boys, like their dads, can't stay away from livestock, for 332 are raising beef calves, 309 are enrolled in swine projects, and most of the rest go for dairy calves, sheep, poultry, and rabbits. The fellows get some competition from the girls—50 of them are feeding out fat calves and 18 are hoping to take a pig to market.

Home gardening remains a perennial favorite with both sexes, with a total of 809 boys and girls growing gardens.

The newly organized tractor maintenance project already ranks fourth in popularity, with 218 boys enrolled.

Plenty of Spuds
Potatoes afford one bright spot in the present food supply picture.

National authorities say there is plenty of old spuds available and that the crop of new ones is large enough for substitution of potatoes for bread and other cereals. Nutrition specialists believe that potatoes are no harder on the waistline than bread and that their vitamin content has never been duly appreciated.

Install Large Pumps

Farmers installing water pumps are advised to choose pumps large enough to require no more than two hours' operation a day to provide sufficient water. People require eight glasses of water daily, cows 15 gallons, horses 10 gallons, hogs two gallons, and chickens four gallons per 100 birds.

Consider the Onion

There's no need these days to be deprived of the onion's savory flavor. The August crop report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicates a record late supply of about 37½ million 50-pound bags. These late summer onions are harvested from Aug. 15 until the snow flies, and they'll be more plentiful than last years to the tune of 10 million bags.

More Mouths or Something

Total 1946 food production in the United States is expected to be 33 per cent greater than the annual average in 1935-39. Food consumption per capita has increased 14 per cent since prewar years.

Manure Pit

By W. J. DRYDEN, WNU Farm Editor.

A properly constructed manure pit is a valuable addition to any farm. The covered pit not only protects the manure from the elements but also saves all liquid fertilizing qualities.

This pit is provided with a cement floor, which slopes toward a cistern located in one corner. The liquid flows into the cistern and is later used for fertilizing the farm.

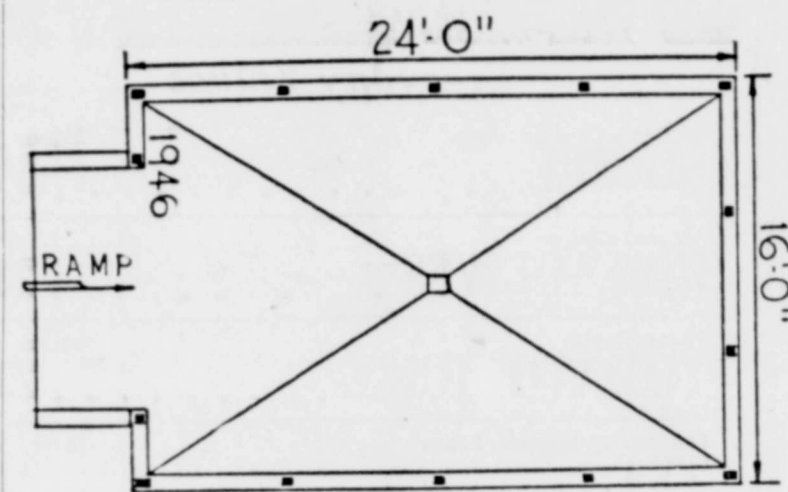

The cost of the pit will be repaid in one year, under average farming conditions.

The manure pit should be located near enough to the dairy, horse, cattle, hog or other barns, so that the manure can be conveyed to the pit by a litter carrier and deposited evenly. Except for concrete walls extending up about 5 feet from the floor, the side may be left open. The pit is provided with a roof, however.

value increased by the application of animal fertilizers produced on the farm.

It must be remembered that all animal manures are relatively low in phosphorus and that they should be supplemented by superphosphate at the rate of 100 pounds per ton of horse or cow manure and 100 pounds per half ton of sheep or poultry manure. Superphosphates will aid in reducing losses of liquid manure caused by evaporation. The construction details of the manure pit will depend upon the demands of the local farmer, the type of operations and the volume of manure he will have stored at any one time. The plan given on this page calls for a pit 24 by 16 feet. While it may not prove advisable to increase the width of the pit.

to prevent rain from accumulating within the manure pit.

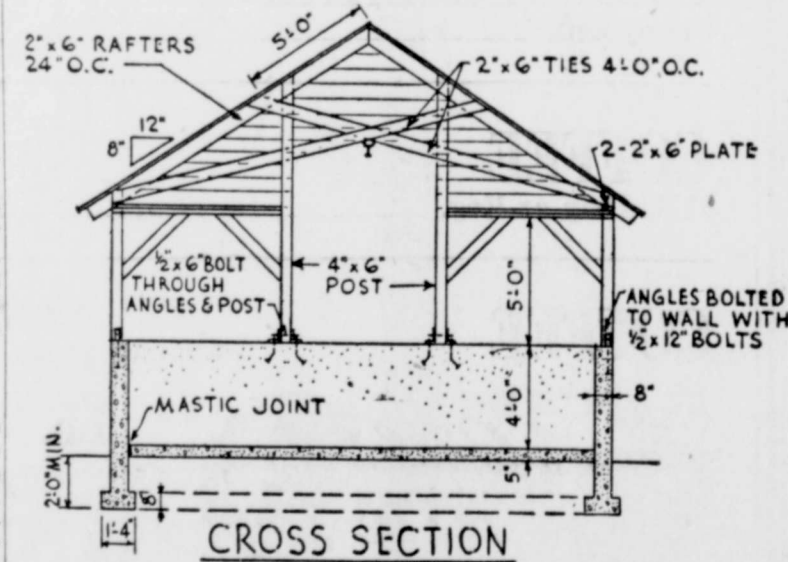

The returns from use of manure are ample to warrant the farmer in its conservation and use. The average return will be from $2.50 to $5.00 a ton. The value of the manure will be increased at least $2.50 a ton when properly stored in a satisfactory pit. The loss in value of manure, due to improper handling, in the United States has been estimated at from two-thirds to three-fourths the value.

Well-conserved farm manure is especially helpful in plant nutrition the length may be added to as desired.

This Kentucky type pit will prove suitable in most sections of the country. While the drawing shows a shingle roof, this may be altered to suit taste of builder or the cost or availability of materials. Aluminum, roll roofing paper, sheet metal, composition shingles or staves will all prove satisfactory.

The cistern should be so constructed that an outside drain is available. This will permit of the drawing of the liquid fertilizer, even though the pit is still full of as a carrier of available forms of essential elements. Besides supplying some of all nutrients, animal manures contribute to the life of the soil by giving living bacteria. Good soil is a living system and the living portion of the soil is responsible for many reactions contributory or essential to plant growth. While nearly all farm soils will have to be supplemented by commercial fertilizing elements, the cost of such may be greatly reduced and the manure. A water-tight cart will prove an aid in the distribution of this liquid fertilizer.

It may be advisable to extend the roof of the pit to provide space for the storage of a manure spreader.

Before determining the exact location of the manure pit, be sure that it is placed so that in case of seepage, there will be no flow toward the water supply. Local ordinances and government milk regulations should be consulted.

Every Child in State Can Have Balanced Meals

With the passage of the National School Lunch Act and its acceptance by the New Mexico State Legislature, every school child in the state can have at least one sufficient, well-balanced meal. And the majority of the other states in the nation have also agreed to match federal funds in order to guarantee proper nutrition for their children.

So for the first time in history the nation is attempting to make sure that all boys and girls have enough to eat—at least once a day—and that their health is safeguarded by proper diet during their formative years.

Every school lunch will have to meet minimum nutritional requirements prescribed by scientific research. Every school lunch will contain enough calories, vitamins, and minerals needed for proper body building. In addition, the meals will be warm and appetizing.

Not only school children, but also the nation's farmers will benefit under the school lunch program, for it will help to make good use of agricultural abundances which might otherwise find no market. Mothers, too, won't have to work quite so hard in preparing lunches. Local grocers, butchers, and dairymen will enjoy increased trade through school purchases.

New Farm Loan Agency Launched In November

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson has asked the Farm Security Administration and the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Division of the Farm Credit Administration to consolidate their activities and commence functioning as the Farmer's Home Administration by mid-November.

Dillard Lasseter, native Georgian and present FSA chief, has been appointed to head up the new farm loan agency recently set up by Congress. His two associate administrators will be S. Paul Lindsey, Jr., present head of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Division of the Farm Credit Administration, and Robert Hudgens, present associate administrator of FSA, has been announced.

The primary purpose of the Farmers' Home Administration is to improve credit services to farmers and promote owner-operator type of farming, and to put on a permanent basis many of the emergency farm loan programs of recent years. In general the services now being given by FSA and Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the FCA will be continued.

In addition to direct government tenant-purchase loans, loans obtained from other credit sources may be insured by the government.

This program offers loans to farmers on the same basis offered by the Federal Housing Administration to city home owners.

Wheat Goal in New Mexico for 1947 Is Set at 400,000 Acres

The 1947 wheat goal for New Mexico is 400,000 acres, according to C. V. Hemphill, state director of the Production and Marketing Administration. This is 79,000 acres below the 1946 indicated planted acreage.

Drought conditions have delayed considerably the planted wheat in major wheat producing countries over the state. Hemphill reports from district Production and Marketing Administration farmer fieldmen indicate that some areas have been alleviated this condition to extent, and wheat drills are running full blast in these areas. More moisture is needed practically the entire state in Hemphill said, in order to get a wheat crop.

Monday Will Be Circus Day Here

Anna Veld, one of the world's foremost elephant trainers, with her elephant,

Shirley Temple, just one of the score of acts featured with 101 Ranch Wild West Show, coming to Artesia, Monday, Sept. 16, for one day only.

Monday, Sept. 16, is circus day in Artesia.

If Junior cannot be found in his usual haunts he will probably be admiring the eagle feather head-dress of Chief Sky Eagle or the wondrous trappings of the world's champion cowboys who will be here with the 101 Ranch Wild West Show and International Congress of Circus Stars, which will erect its canopy type big top on the north highway show grounds for one day only with performances at 2:15 and 8 o'clock.

Now on its golden jubilee tour, the big frontier show this season has successfully combined Wild West with circus acts in equal proportion to form a perfect streamlined attraction.

Retaining the thrilling features of the Wild West show such as the Indian attack on the emigrant train, the burning of the covered wagons, the Indian war dances, the hold-up of the stage coach, and trick riding and roping by stars of the rodeo circuits, the 101 Ranch show has added more than a score of big name circus acts.

Heading the circus section is Mark Smith, with his motion picture fighting horse, "Wildfire," and his all-girl riding revue. Other acts include Maurice Marmalejo, king of the slack wire; the Guiterrez troupe of aerialists, Toni Madison and her Wild West "dogies," and Maj. Bob Thornton and his military ponies.

Hundreds of horses, trained wild animals, elephants, pretty girls, and funny clowns as well as a complete Indian village round menagerie round out the show.

Reserved seats will be on sale circus day at the Artesia Pharmacy.

Fight Against Famine Has Not Been Completed

The fight against famine is not yet over. With 1946 crops now in the harvest stage, the world merely has a breathing spell between rounds, according to C. V. Hemphill, state manager of the Emergency Food Conservation program.

Despite signs that crop production this year will be larger than in 1945, there is still a gap between estimated food requirements of the world and estimated supplies during the next 12 months. The United States has not yet finished its job of sharing food with other nations, Hemphill pointed out.

"It is not possible at this moment to see definitely what our job will be," he added. "We won't know the extent of the world food shortage for the coming winter until October, at least, when the Northern Hemisphere crops are in. We do know, however, that the hungry nations are counting on our production to narrow the gap between requirements and supplies, and the five-point Famine Emergency Program is still good for America."

Don't waste food—eat foods that are abundant—keep victory gardens producing—can and preserve foods—salvage and re-use fats and oils, Hemphill said.

Area Scouters Are to Meet in Artesia Sept. 19

Chairmen of all operating committees of the Eastern New Mexico Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America are scheduled to meet in Artesia on Thursday night, Sept. 19, it has been announced by Strother Moore, field executive. Artesia was chosen, he stated, for this meeting not only because of its central location and because of its facilities for accommodating such a meeting, but because of the fine hospitality which is always displayed here.

The committee chairmen are scheduled to hold a dinner meeting at 6:30 in the evening on the Roof Garden of the Artesia Hotel and President Tom Cramer of Carlsbad is to preside over the meeting. The sessions, of course, will be on the business affairs of the scout movement and the activities of the various committees.

Invitations are being sent to approximately 75 committee chairmen and it is hoped that some 40 to 50 of these will be able to be present for the meeting. With the various committee chairmen from the Gateway District (Artesia), it is possible that 50 to 60 scouts will be in attendance for the meeting here.

The Eastern New Mexico Area Council extends from Tucuman south to the Texas line beyond Carlsbad and from the Texas line on the east to Carrizozo on the west.

Local Scout leaders are expected to aid and assist in preparing for the committee area meeting here.

CAGERS WILL MEET TO PLAN WINTER LEAGUE

Local basketball players are planning to organize a city league for play during the winter season and are to meet at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening at the office of the Central Valley Electric Cooperative, Inc., to talk it over. All cagers are invited to attend the meeting at the REA office.

Ben Jarboe, 38, College Regent, Dies at Hobbs

Ben Jarboe of Hobbs, 38, prominent New Mexico oil supply man and president of the board of regents of the New Mexico School of Mines, husband of the former Elaine Feemster of Artesia, died at 11:30 o'clock Sunday night from heart attacks, the first of which was suffered while he was in the Artesia Hotel Tuesday last week.

The heart attack was mild and Mr. Jarboe, who later attended a meeting in the Carper Building, explained he thought he had a touch of indigestion. A second attack was suffered later in the day while in the oil fields with Hugh Johnson of Continental Oil Company. Mr. Johnson took Mr. Jarboe to Weber's Store. From there he was taken by ambulance to a Hobbs hospital, where death came.

Funeral services at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Helena Catholic Church in Hobbs were attended by a number of friends from Artesia. They were conducted by Father Hugh Roches. Burial will be Friday at Nowata, Okla.

Mr. Jarboe is survived by his widow; three children, Rosemary, 6; Benny, 3, and Judy, 1½; his father, W. J. Jarboe, Texarkana, Tex., and four sisters and two brothers.

About 25 Local Oil Men Plan to Make Field Trip

About 25 geologists, engineers, and oil operators from the Artesia area plan to leave the middle of next week on a field trip to the San Juan Basin, conducted by the New Mexico School of Mines and the New Mexico Bureau of Mines and Mineral Resources.

The interesting trip will start Friday of next week, Sept. 20, at Albuquerque, when the motorcade will go to Gallup, with side trips into the Zuni Mountains and for a study of formations in the south side of the San Juan Basin.

That evening at Gallup, Jack Frost, of Artesia of the U.S. Geological Survey will show colored slides on his trip by boat through the canyon of the San Juan River in Southeast Utah. The slides have been enjoyed by various audiences in Artesia.

On Saturday the members of the party will visit the government helium plant at Shiprock and will also go to the Barker Creek gas field on the New Mexico-Colorado border. A barbecue will be held in the evening for the party in Farmington.

On the third day the engineers, operators, and geologists will make stops at Aztec Ruins National Monument, Kutz Canyon, Cuba, and the south end of Nacimiento. A study will be made of the geological section on the east side of the San Juan Basin.

Council Votes Tuesday to Close "Refinery Road"

Agreeable with an urgent request by the Continental Oil Company, the Artesia City Council on Tuesday evening voted to close Freeman Avenue, more commonly known as the "refinery road," in order that Continental may carry out a proposed expansion program.

In consideration of the closing of the present street, the Continental Oil Company had offered the city a 60-foot right-of-way along the north edge of its property, which would lead to the city disposal plant, and on the east side of the property, leading back towards Highway 83.

This, it was pointed out, would make an excellent truck bypass for routing trucks through that portion of the city.

The Continental Oil Company had informed the city that if the present street were not closed, it would be necessary to change present plans of expansion, which would require that they use the "refinery road."

The council also decided to extend the city water mains on South Third Street and open it up for development.

Councilmen present at the meeting Tuesday evening were Fred Brainard, Leland Price, Ralph Pitt, Harold Dunn, and Albert Richards, while Walter Nugent, L. B. Feather, and Frank Smith were absent.

The chapter has extended an invitation to the membership of the two other veterans' organizations here, the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, to attend.

Special Agent Bob Rogers of the FBI at Roswell has been designated by Special Agent R. C. Suran of El Paso to show the films here and deliver the talk.

Special Train May Be Chartered For Game At Portales Sept. 20

Enthusiasm is being worked up by football fans in Artesia over the possibility of running a special train on the Santa Fe to Portales Friday, Sept. 20, when the Artesia Bulldogs will meet the Rams there.

It is planned to discuss the trip at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon this noon on the Roof Garden of the Artesia Hotel, which will take the form of a kick-off rally for the Bulldogs, who will meet the Clovis Wildcats here Friday evening in the season opener.

Marshall Rowley, a member of the Chamber of Commerce athletic committee, reported the Santa Fe Railway will run a special train to Portales and return for a sale of 200 tickets at $6.10 each.

Resuscitator Is Not Available at Present During Repairs, Check

The resuscitator maintained and operated by the emergency squad of the Artesia Fire Department is temporarily not available and the public was warned this week to seek other means in emergencies when such an apparatus is indicated.

Dallas Golden, full-time fireman, who is well trained in the operation of the resuscitator, said it has been necessary to send it off to the factory for repairs and a check-up.

Announcement will be made when the resuscitator is again available for use in emergencies or at other times when it is needed.

Lee Glasscock Is Stranded Day In Mountains

Lee Glasscock is at home in Artesia little the worse for an experience in the Guadalupe Mountains, in which he was injured when a horse fell on him and he sat in his pick-up, which would not run, for 24 hours, miles from assistance.

He was in the mountains at the time the Joyce pasture, when his pick-up engine stopped in a draw, and he could not get it started.

As it was raining and he feared a head of water might damage or wash the car away, he walked to a ranchhouse, where he obtained a horse, and alone, by means of a rope, he tried to get the horse to pull his pick-up out of the draw.

As he relates it, the horse fell on Glasscock, dazing him and bruising him somewhat. And then the horse wandered off, and it could not return home, because he was in the wrong pasture.

As the Artesia man became dizzy every time he tried to walk for help, he merely climbed into the cab of his pick-up and sat there from noon Saturday to about noon Sunday, when dove hunters came along and rescued him. It rained the entire time, and the fear of rising water was always present, Glasscock said.

NAA Chapter to Have Barbecue Saturday Night at Golf Club

The Artesia chapter of the National Aeronautic Association is planning a barbecue for 8 o'clock Saturday evening, Sept. 14, at the Artesia Golf Club for members and guests.

Stanley Carper, vice president of the organization, and committee members reported all plans are complete for the barbecue, that the meat has been obtained, and a good time is in store.

Every member will be permitted to bring three guests, it was announced. A charge of $1 will be made for members only, in order to help defray the expenses.

In the half-day sessions, some of the youngsters go to school in the mornings and others in the afternoons. Kerr said it is deemed better for the boys and girls to share their schoolroom facilities in that manner, than for the system to have to continue using the girls' gymnasium at Central School—divided into classrooms—where the lighting and heating arrangements are not satisfactory.

Superintendent Kerr said the board is going ahead with plans and specifications for another elementary school on the north side, to provide 12 additional classrooms, as well as for a two-room elementary school in the Loco Hills community, to be built as soon as a location is obtained.

The superintendent said the system, in spite of continued increase in facilities over the years, is at present short by 10 to 12 rooms. It is hoped that a year hence the new city and Loco Hills elementary buildings will be ready.
