Abortion law may head to Supreme Court

Reproductive rights group leader: 'It is going to be a showdown'

By David Crary & Juan Carlos Llorca
Associated Press

EL PASO — Abortion-rights lawyers are predicting "a showdown" at the U.S. Supreme Court after federal appellate judges allowed full implementation of a law that has closed more than 80 percent of Texas' abortion clinics.

As of Friday, abortion services for many Texas women required a round trip of more than 200 miles — or a border-crossing into Mexico or New Mexico.

Operators of some of the affected clinics and their lawyers from the Center for Reproductive Rights vowed to appeal Thursday's decision by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans that allows Texas to fully enforce a sweeping abortion law approved by the Republican-controlled legislature last year. They depicted the law — and similar measures proposed in other states — as an unacceptable infringement of the Supreme Court's 1973 Roe v. Wade ruling establishing a nationwide right to abortion.

"This case is ultimately going to end up with the Supreme Court," said the reproductive rights center's president, Nancy Northup. "It is going to be a showdown ... on whether the promise of Roe will have meaning in the United States."

Two years ago, Texas had more than 40 abortion facilities. For now, no more than eight will be open due to portions of the law that require abortion providers

Midland fire, Sheriff's Office and Texas Department of Public Safety personnel respond to a multi-vehicle accident Friday morning that forced the closure of both northbound and southbound lanes of State Highway 349. The accident near the intersections of Highway 349 and County Road 180 involved multiple tractor-trailers and smaller vehicles that resulted in at least one vehicle catching fire.

Two dead after six-vehicle wreck

From staff reports

A wreck involving four tractor-trailers and two pickups on State Highway 349 Friday has left two people dead.

The wreck took place at SH 349 and County Road 180. The end result was a "mess," including one truck that caught on fire, according to Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter.

According to local TV station KOSA, one of the tractor-trailers and one of the pickups were on fire.

Traffic in the area was shut down for the majority of the day as Department Public Safety personnel were on scene investigating.

Southbound and northbound traffic had to be rerouted from Farm-to-Market Road 1787 to FM 1788, according to the sheriff's office. Southbound traffic was also rerouted from FM 1788 south to FM 1787 or south to FM 1213 to County Road 1160, then south to FM 1379.

DPS is currently investigating, and more information, including the identities of the decreased, will be released once a DPS report is released.

The two fatalities are the 26th and 27th vehicle-related deaths this year in Midland County.

The previous fatal wreck occured on Aug. 23, when 25-year-old Stephen Hill was ejected from his eastbound Ford Explorer Sport Track on SH 191 and struck by a westbound vehicle. Officials believe Hill was already deceased before the vehicle struck him.

Aug. 23 to Friday was also the longest duration without fatal accidents in Midland County since Jan. 2013, as no fatalities occured in September. There has been at least one fatal accident per month since Jan. 2013.

The wreck on Friday was also the first of 2014 to have two simultaneous deaths.

Gourmet taco restaurant to open in Nov.

By Joseph Basco

One local restaurateur is hoping to bring a Torchy's Tacos-like experience to Midlanders before Thanksgiving.

Richard Padilla, a Midlander who has been in the local restaurant business for 20 years, is set to open Taco diVino, a quick casual taco restaurant that has gourmet, 6-inch tortilla tacos in the $3 to $5 price range on its menu. Taco diVino will be located on West Oak Avenue, just east of North Big Spring Street, in close proximity to La Bodega, Gerardo's Casita and Rosa's.

The restaurant also will serve exclusively Mexican beer on draft, red and white homemade sangria and a large selection of wine, hence the "vino" in Taco diVino.

For Padilla, it is unknown why no local restaurants have yet to break away from traditional Mexican fare and venture into new school Mexican cuisine found at Torchy's Tacos and Chipotle Mexican Grill, considering how Midland's new professional population is young and well-traveled.

"Midland is so small, but there's so much money here right now that I'm surprised there hasn't been one (gourmet taco restaurant) that's opened here already," Padilla said.

Taco diVino's menu features 15 to 18 tacos stuffed with pulled pork, braised beef, lobster, crab, vegetables and other ingredients that veer off the asado and ground beef path. Padilla said because they are tacos, the menu can change daily.

TYLER

Photographer pleads guilty in porn case

A photographer whose work included senior portraits for some high school students in East Texas has pleaded guilty to producing child pornography.

Todd B. Fleming of McKinney faces up to 30 years in federal prison.

Sentencing is pending for the 54-year-old Fleming, who pleaded guilty Thursday in Tyler to sexual exploitation of children. Officials said Fleming took senior photos and other images for some students in the Tyler Independent School District.

Prosecutors said Fleming from 1999 to 2007 coerced minors to engage in sexually explicit conduct for producing child pornography.

He was indicted in April 2013 on 24 counts of sexual exploitation of a child and one count of possession of child pornography. Fleming pleaded guilty to just one count involving several minors. The other charges were dismissed.

CORPUS CHRISTI

Relative of ex-Mexican governor indicted

A federal grand jury has indicted the brother-in-law of the former governor of the northern Mexican state of Tamaulipas on charges he helped launder money on behalf of the ex-politician.

The indictment naming 43-year-old Oscar Gomez Guerra was unsealed Friday in Corpus Christi and accuses him of conspiring to launder monetary instruments and aiding and abetting the operation of an unlicensed money transmitting business since 2008.

Guerra, who is a fugitive, is married to the sister of former Tamaulipas Gov. Eugenio Hernandez Flores.

The Justice Department also is seeking to seize Guerra's $2.7 million Austin home, a second $500,000 home in McAllen and $10 million of what prosecutors call personal money.

Hernandez's name surfaced last year in another laundering case but he hasn't been charged. He left office in 2010.

Obituaries

Elizabeth Mattie Shanks Houston

Elizabeth Mattie Shanks Houston was born December 19, 1942 to John and Clara Shanks in Dallas Texas. An only child from this union, 11 years later, her father John went home to the Lord June 26, 1953.

Elizabeth went to Catholic school and graduated from Lincoln High School in 1960 and took her studies to Texas Southern University in Houston, where she met and later married Melvin Louis Houston, Sr. on April 19, 1963. A family quickly started with their sons Major (Aug 18, 1963) and Miles (July 7, 1964). After a move to Midland from Dallas in October 1968, two more sons came along, Marc (April 18, 1971) and Matthew (October 18, 1973.)

After Elizabeth's divorce from Melvin in 1975, she pressed on as a single parent, raising her four sons with God-given family strength and tough love, put herself through machine shop school, landed a job at Amoco Oil and Production, and worked for them for 22 years being the first woman in the fields in West Texas. After being forced into early retirement, she continued her life as a strong willed loving mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother.

Family who have preceded her in passing are her father John Henry Shanks, and her mother Clara Miles Shanks Erwin.

Elizabeth will be greatly missed by her four sons, Major Alan Houston, Miles Nathan Houston, Marc John-Melvin Houston and former wife Chila Ybarra Houston, and Matthew Alvin-Toney Houston and wife Laura Baeza Houston; and her beautiful grandchildren, Andrea Gomez Houston, Chloe Anaise Houston, Raquel Clarisse Houston, Matteo Hezekiah Houston, Eric Miles Houston, Auden Isaiah Houston; and one great grandson, Joshua Xavier Trolinder.

Thank you Mommy for your love, strength and courage, the values you instilled in us, the charm, wit, and personality we inherited from you and daddy, we would not be who we are without you, the strongest woman we know. May your journey home be peaceful. Love you Mommy!!

West Texans welcome Joaquin Castro

By Audris Ponce
Odessa American

Ector County and Midland County Democrats gathered to welcome U.S. Rep. Joaquin Castro and Texas Railroad Commissioner candidate Steve Brown to the Permian Basin on Friday evening.

Ector County Democratic Chairwoman Bobbie Duncan remembers flying on an airplane with the congressman two years ago as they headed to the National Democratic Convention.

"We've been working on having one of them or both of them here since then," Duncan said about the Castro brothers. "We absolutely hounded them to death to get Joaquin here. We are honored and just delighted that the epitome of a person who grew up poor is going to be in Odessa to show that all you have to do is work for it and you can obtain anything you want. He's an inspiration to rise above."

The voting rally was open to the public and took place at The Willows, 11200 W. County Road, in Midland County.

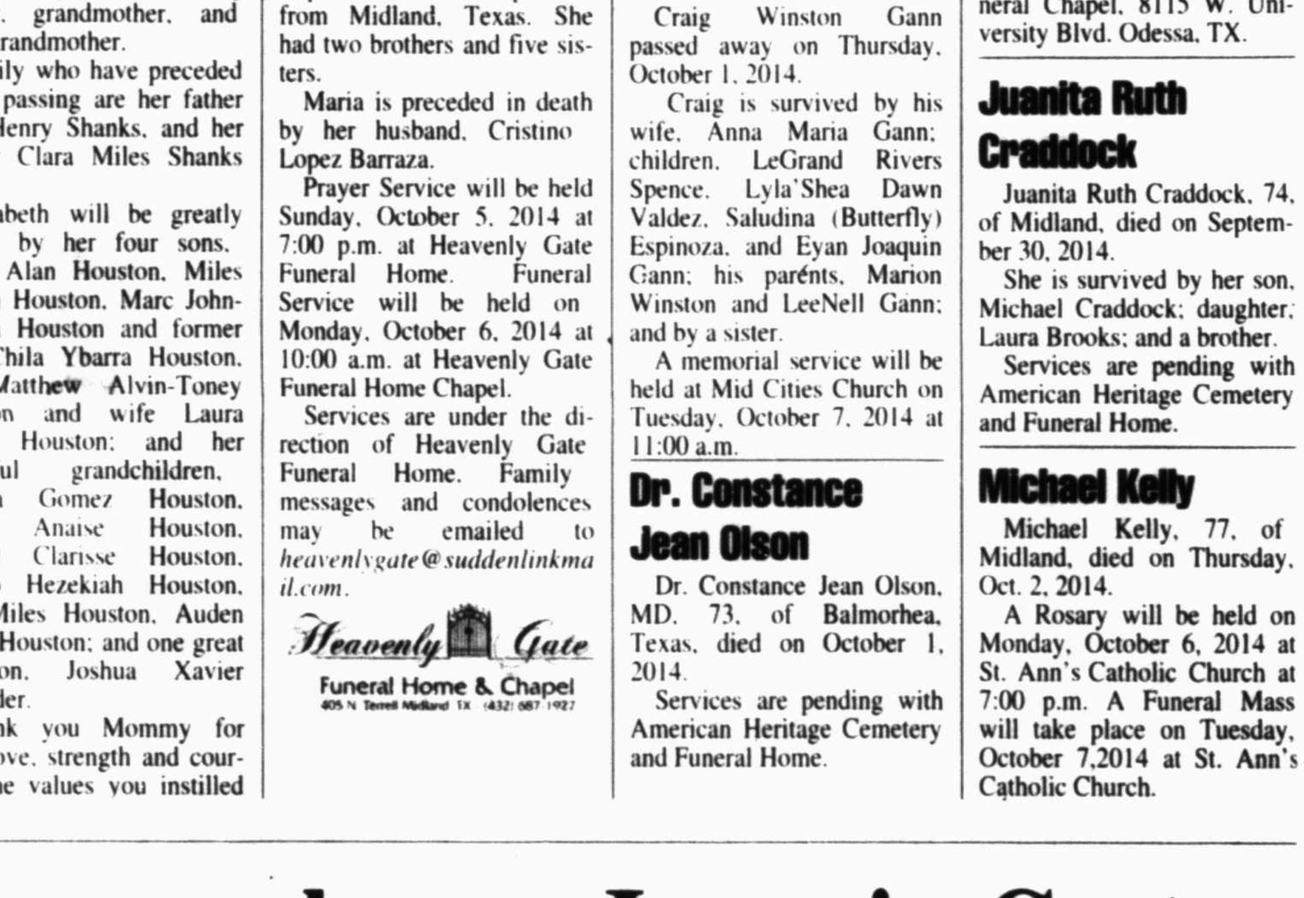
The event center was buzzing with the appearances of Castro and Brown.

Castro, 40, of San Antonio, graduated with honors from Stanford University and Harvard Law School. Castro served District 125 in the Texas House of Representatives for five terms before being elected to the U.S. House of Representatives in 2012.

Castro's twin brother, Julian Castro, is the current secretary of Housing and Urban Development and former mayor of San Antonio.

The Latino community has embraced the brothers, with several attendees at Friday's event stating they felt glad to have someone representing them who understand their backgrounds.

"I just feel like our story is the story of so many Texans and so many Latinos. My grandmother came here as an orphan from Mexico in 1922 and worked very hard to give my mom a better chance in life, and my parents did the same for me," Castro said. "I think that's the story for so many of our families, Mexican-American and otherwise."



Courtney Sacco/Odessa American

Congressman Joaquin Castro Friday evening speaks Friday evening during a get-out-the-vote rally hosted by the Ector and Midland County Democratic Party at The Willows.

Castro said the two-decade Republican leadership in Texas has hurt the state in several areas important to Texans, including education.

"They say you can't create jobs and have a good healthcare system and a good school system, but the fact is we can. We can let them force us into a false choice. We can have those things. We just have to get out there and vote, and the people can make it happen," Castro said. "I think in the coming years you'll see the state become more competitive because we're doing everything that we can to get more people to vote and because Republicans have gone so far to the extreme that they have left the average Texan way behind."

Castro said the Republican leadership neglected infrastructure dealing with transportation and water and neglected schools throughout the state.

"These issues are important not only to Hispanics, but to all Texans. I think people have had enough," Castro said. "One-party dominance for two decades now has hurt the state of Texas. The corruption and cronyism that you see in the state capitol is a symptom of that."

Tables were set up where people could register to vote, and information was handed out to the public, including official ballot forms and an early voting schedule.

A voting machine was also brought to the event to show people how to use the dial and click on their chosen candidates.

"The Democrats have been asleep, but they're there. They're going to wake up, and the reason why

MMH prepares for Ebola

Midland Memorial Hospital has been preparing for possible Ebola virus patients for the past two months because of residents who have taken mission trips or vacations or did business in or around the affected countries in Africa, according to a press release from the hospital.

MMH has formed a core group of health care personnel and physicians and instituted screening for travel history for all emergency department patients with fever of 101.5 or higher.

Also, until Oct. 21, patients will be questioned about whether they have had contact with anyone from the Dallas area who may have had contact with the known patient with Ebola.

The hospital is prepared to isolate any possible Ebola patients and has the needed personal protective equipment and supplies, according to the release.

Tacos

tacos are corn on the cob and black beans.

As for the draft beer, Padilla said Modelo Especial, Sol, Dos Equis, Victoria and other Mexican beers will be on tap.

And the wine, the other component of the restaurant's name, includes house wine and premium wine sold by the glass or the bottle.

Padilla said seating will be limited, as there will be about 16 to 18 seats inside and 30 to 40 outside in a patio area. For those dining in, TVs will be hanging on the walls.

"It will be a cool little hole-in-the-wall to hang out in," Padilla said.

Taco diVino will be open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily. The grand opening, though not slated for a particular day, is on target for before Thanksgiving, as Padilla believes restaurants will be busy during the holiday season.

In the long run, if Taco diVino is hugely successful, Padilla said other locations may open in north Midland or in Odessa.

"The nervousness hasn't hit me yet," Padilla said. "Which is good. I don't want to get nervous."

Crew disinfects home where Ebola patient stayed

Associated Press

DALLAS — A hazardous-materials crew on Friday decontaminated the Texas apartment where an Ebola patient was staying when he got sick, while public-health officials cut by half the number of people being monitored for any symptoms of the deadly disease.

Hours later, the family that was living in the apartment was moved to a private residence in a gated community that was offered by a volunteer.

The decontamination team collected bed sheets, towels and a mattress used by the infected man before he was hospitalized, as well as a suitcase and other personal items belonging to Thomas Eric Duncan, officials said.

The materials were sealed in industrial barrels that were to be stored until they can be hauled away for permanent disposal, probably by incineration at a landfill.

The first Ebola diagnosis in the U.S. has raised concerns about whether the disease that has killed 3,400 people in West Africa could spread in the U.S. Federal health officials said they are confident they can keep it in check.

Elsewhere, NBC News reported that an American freelance cameraman working for the network in Liberia has tested positive for the virus and will be flown back to the United States, along with the rest of the news crew.

Neighbors stood on their balconies and watched the family's grim departure from behind a black tarp hung to shield their front door from view.

The family was placed in a Dallas County deputy's patrol car and driven away, apparently leaving with nothing more than the clothes they wore.

The residence where they will stay had been offered only a short time earlier. Until then, a search for shelter had come up short. The city had been refused by hotels, apartments and other providers.

"No one wants this family," said Sana Syed, a Dallas city spokeswoman.

The family was confined to their home under armed guard while public-health officials monitor them — part of an intense effort to contain the deadly disease before it can get a foothold in the United States.

Louise Troh, originally from Liberia, shares the apartment with her 13-year-old son and two nephews.

When the decontamination is complete, even the crew's protective suits are to be burned, said Tamara Smith, office manager for the Cleaning Guys of Fort Worth.

ABORTION

to obtain hospital admitting privileges and impose hospital-level operating standards on the clinics.

Among the clinics affected by Thursday's ruling were a facility in the south Texas city of McAllen that served women in the Rio Grande Valley and the last remaining abortion clinic in the western city of El Paso, whose future was in limbo. The only other remaining clinics in the nation's second most-populous state are in San Antonio, Austin, Houston and Dallas-Fort Worth.

Officials of Whole Women's Health, which operates the McAllen clinic, said the facility would remain open as a "safe house" while dozens of women who had scheduled abortions there were counseled on alternatives, including making the nearly 300-mile trip north to San Antonio.

Gloria Martinez, administrative nurse in Hilltop Women's Reproductive Clinic in El Paso, said clients seeking abortions there Friday were being referred to a clinic in Santa Teresa, New Mexico. However, Hilltop's owners were holding out hope that they might be able to reopen today because they are exempt for now from the new requirement to undergo costly construction upgrades.

Backers of the Texas law said its main motive was to better protect women's health, but Martinez was not persuaded.

"Let's be honest, if they care so much about women's health, it's safer to do it here in El Paso, with hospitals as near as two minutes away," she said.

It's a drive of about 20 or 30 minutes from clinic in Santa Teresa to the nearest hospital in El Paso.

At the Hilltop facility, 23-year-old Mindy Vasquez arrived with her boyfriend, having used a recent pay raise to help save up $700 for an abortion.

"We saved on food, going out, movies, we have to watch how much water and electricity we use," she said. But the couple hadn't planned on getting re-routed to New Mexico.

"We have a couple of dollars left for gas, so we can drive there," she said.

In addition to the Santa Teresa clinic, a new abortion clinic is being opened in Las Cruces, New Mexico, by Whole Women's Health.

On the legal front, the Center for Reproductive Rights said it would move ahead as soon as feasible with an appeal of Thursday's ruling, though its precise litigation strategy is still being developed.

Northup depicted the Texas law as a cornerstone of a "concerted effort across the nation" to undermine the protections of Roe v. Wade. She cited a range of other abortion restrictions approved by GOP-controlled legislatures in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, North Dakota and elsewhere that have been challenged by lawsuits in federal court.

Many of the restrictions were enacted with the support of Americans United for Life, a national anti-abortion advocacy group.

Its vice president of government affairs, Dan McConchie, said there was a good chance that several types of restrictions might end up before the Supreme Court, including Texas-style laws dealing with hospital admitting privileges and abortion clinic standards. He said the high court might also be interested in resolving the status of laws that seek to restrict the use of abortion-inducing drugs and that ban most abortions after 20 weeks of pregnancy.

McConchie said he was hopeful that the Supreme Court would uphold these laws based on his expectation that Justice Anthony Kennedy — a possible swing vote — would view them as "standards designed to protect women."

From the other flank, Cecile Richards, president of the Planned Parenthood Federation America, expressed hope that the three women on the Supreme Court would help produce rulings striking down the tough restrictions.

CASTRO VISIT

we wanted to have this, and we've been planning it for months, is to motivate voters and families in this area to know how important they are in the government process," Duncan said. "This is a citizen's privilege to be able to vote."

Democratic Railroad Commission nominee Steve Brown, a former Democratic Party chairman for Fort Bend County, will face Ryan Sitton in the general election.

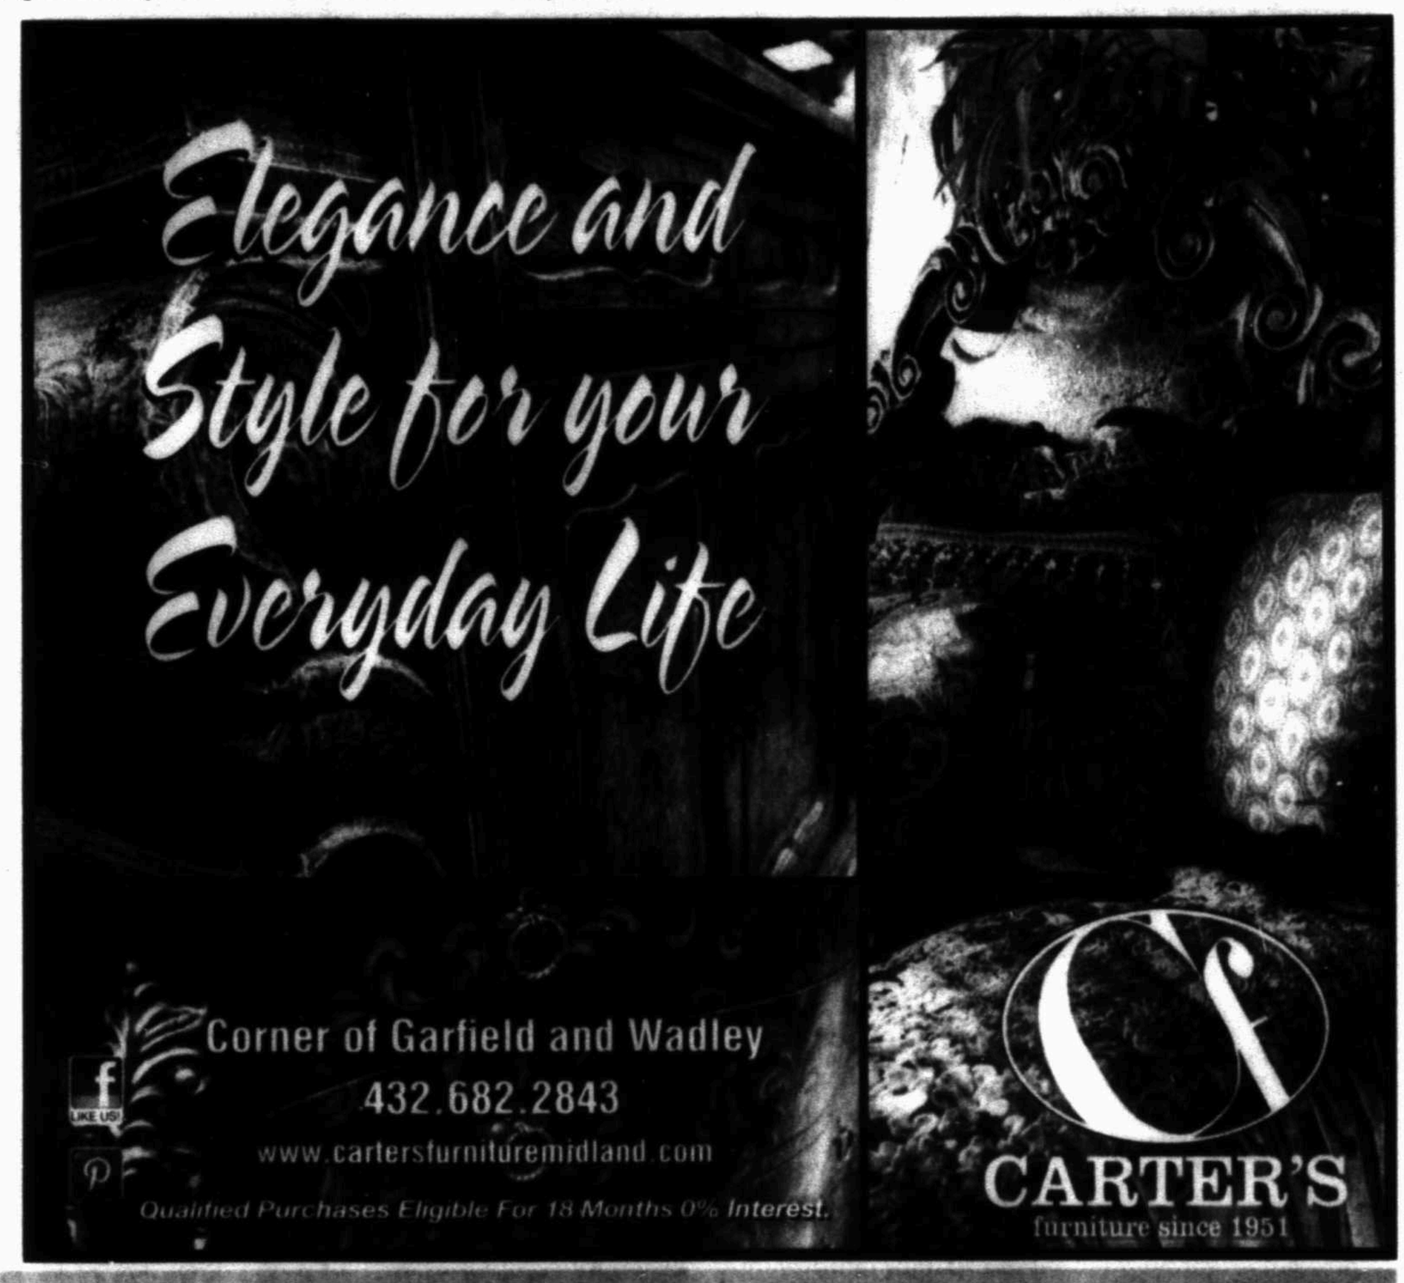
Brown, a North Carolina native, came to Texas when his family moved here when he was a middle-schooler. Brown has worked in the U.S. Capitol for Congresswoman Sheila Jackson Lee and in the Texas State Capitol for Representative Sylvester Turner. He currently lives in the Houston area, where he is on the board of the Youth Development Center of Houston.

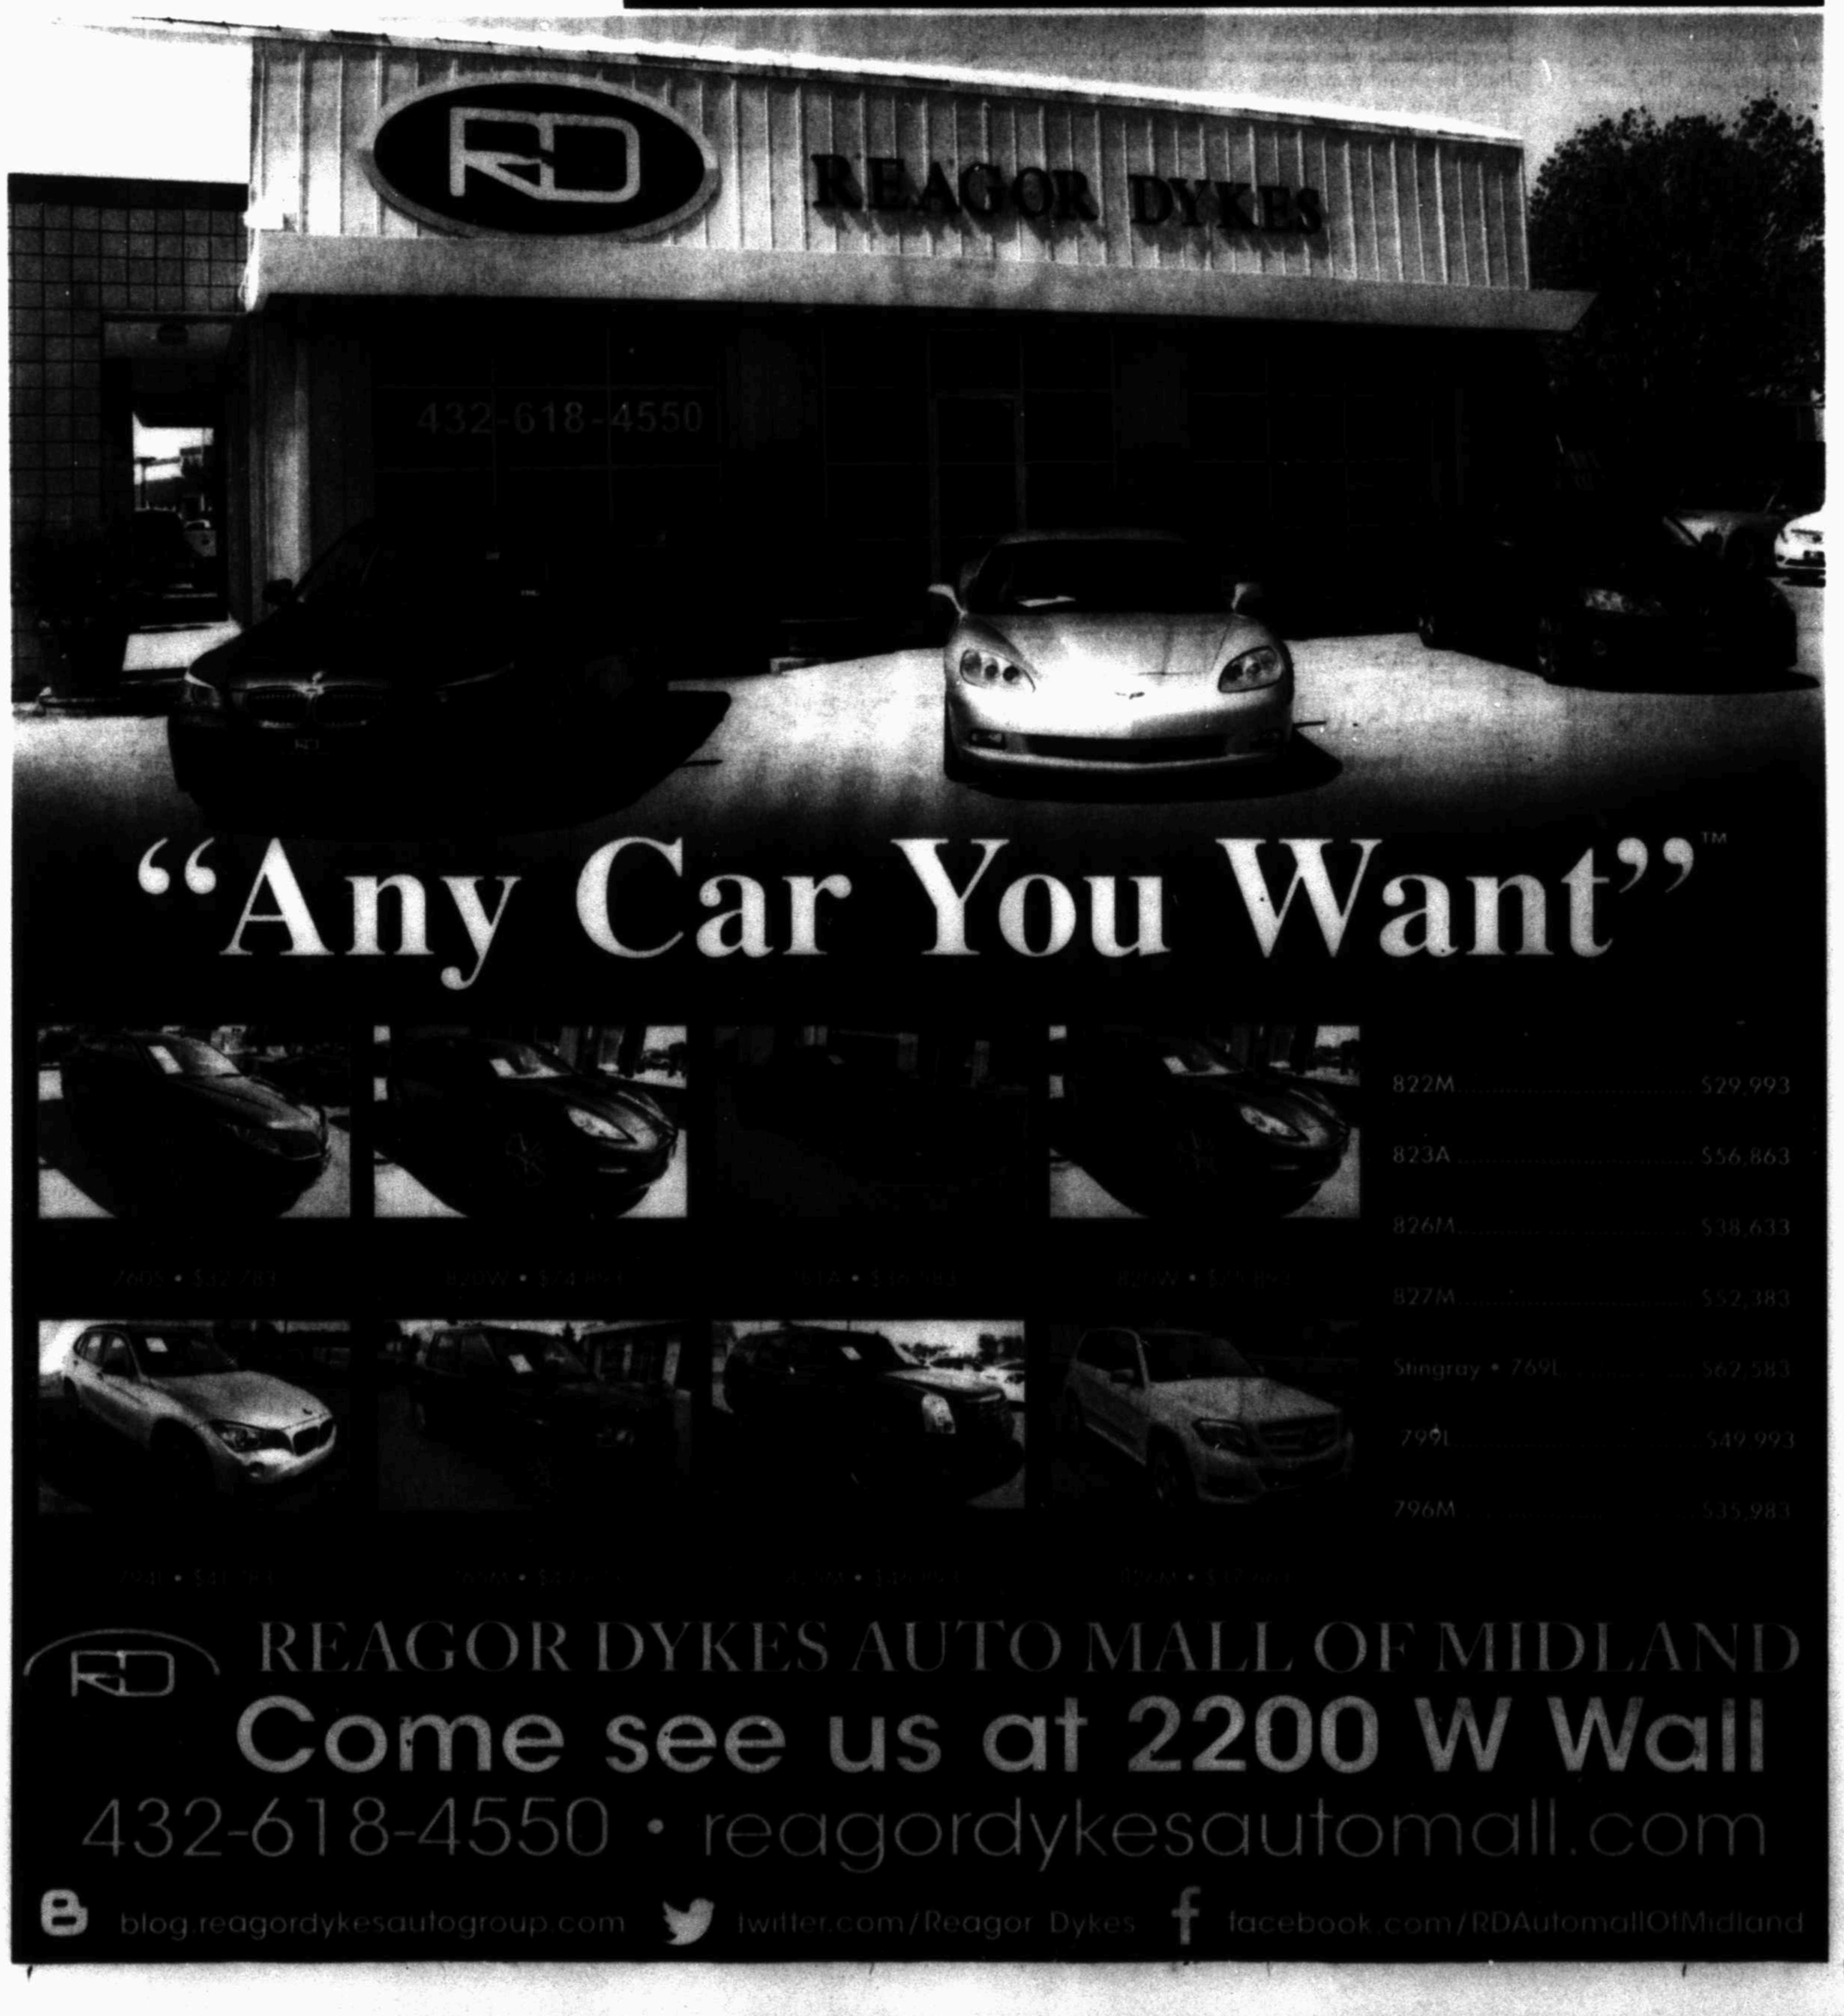
Brown said public safety and industry responsibility are some of his main priorities, and he encouraged partnerships between the oil and gas industry and local communities.

Courtney Sacco/Odessa American

Brown reiterated the importance of energizing people to go out and vote in the upcoming elections.

"What we've seen in the state is the erosion of voting rights and opportunities. We've seen a closing of influence at the state level," Brown said. "Only cronies and insiders have a say, have a voice. I think when we talk about the importance of voting, voting is making sure your voice is heard and is reflected in those people you elect. If you choose not to elect anybody then you will then by default not have a voice, whether it's in the legislature or in the governor's office."





Man allegedly cuts woman with tree pruner

From staff reports

A Midland man was arrested early Thursday after he allegedly cut a woman with a 10-foot tree pruner.

Chambers

Demarcus Letrae Chambers, 26, was charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon and possession of less than two ounces of marijuana.

Officers responded to a disturbance with weapons at the 4400 block of Parkdale Drive at about 1 a.m. Thursday. Upon arrival, they took Chambers into custody.

While in custody, Chambers told officers he was drinking and smoking marijuana before the altercation between him and the woman, according to the arrest affidavit. Chambers said he was trying to go to sleep, but the woman confronted him about previous domestic violence incidents between him and another woman.

During the altercation, Chambers grabbed the tree pruner and cut the woman on her neck and forearm, according to the affidavit. EMS treated the woman for her injuries.

Officers also found 12 grams of marijuana on Chambers, according to the affidavit.

Chambers remained in custody Friday on a $150,000 bond.

If convicted of the second degree aggravated assault charge, Chambers faces between two to 20 years in state prison and a fine up to $10,000.

Lightning injures school teacher

By Diana Heidgerd
Associated Press

DALLAS — Dozens of North Texas schools had an unscheduled day off Friday after thunderstorms packing strong winds and hail knocked out power to thousands. Only a few people were injured, including a teacher who was hit by lightning.

At the height of the outage, more than 250,000 homes and businesses were without power late Thursday from the Dallas-Fort Worth area to as far south as Austin to near the Texas border with Oklahoma, according to Oncor, a Dallas-based utility. About 179,000 homes and businesses customers still lacked power Friday.

A fourth-grade teacher at Lamar Elementary School in Denison, about 60 miles north of Dallas, was hospitalized after she was hit by lightning while holding an umbrella and helping a student get to a parent's vehicle Thursday afternoon, according to Henry Scott, superintendent of the Denison Independent School District.

"She reached out to get the door handle, the lightning struck and it either came through the metal part of the umbrella, we don't know for sure, it affected her, it kind of knocked her backwards," Scott said Friday.

The teacher, whose name was not released, managed to return to the building and the principal called 911. She's expected to recover, Scott said.

Strong winds blew the roof off a dormitory at Arlington Baptist College on Thursday afternoon, leaving two students slightly hurt by flying glass, officials said.

Long Elementary locked down on Friday

From Staff Reports

Long Elementary School, 4200 Cedar Spring Dr., was locked down Friday afternoon, according to an email from Midland ISD Communications Specialist Elizabeth York.

The lockdown stemmed from a disturbance across the street from the school, which was handled by the Midland Police Department, York's email said.

"Parents have been notified, and the school will wait for the all-clear signal from the MPD before the lockdown is lifted," York wrote in the initial email.

Parents were asked to pick up their students by the main entrance at the end of the school day, according to a follow-up email.

Permian Basin holds steady at 556 rigs

From staff reports

The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in the Permian Basin was unchanged this week at 556, according to the weekly rotary rig count by Houston-based oilfield services company Baker Hughes.

District 8, which includes Midland County, was unchanged at 330 rigs.

Texas shed two rigs this week for a statewide total of 895. In other major Texas basins, there were 210 rigs in the Eagle Ford, up three; 64 in the Granite Wash, down two; 44 in the Haynesville, down two; and 21 in the Barnett, down one.

A year ago this week there were 453 rigs in the Permian Basin and 830 in Texas.

The number of rigs in the U.S. decreased nine this week to 1,922. There were 1,591 oil rigs, down one; 330 natural gas rigs, down eight; and one rig listed as miscellaneous, unchanged.

By trajectory, there were 372 vertical drilling rigs, down one; 1,341 horizontal drilling rigs, down six; and 209 directional drilling rigs, down two.

At this time last year there were 1,756 rigs in the U.S.

The top five basins by rig count this week were the Permian; the Eagle Ford; the Williston with 198, unchanged; the Marcellus with 82, up two; and the Mississippian with 78, up one.

The top five states by rig count were Texas, Oklahoma with 212, down one; North Dakota with 189, unchanged; Louisiana with 113, unchanged; and New Mexico with 99, down two.

In the U.S., there were 1,850 rigs on land, down eight; 11 in inland waters, unchanged; and 61 offshore, down one.

There were 59 rigs in the Gulf of Mexico, unchanged.

Canada added one rig for a nationwide total of 430. There were 249 oil rigs, up three; 181 natural gas rigs, down two; and zero rigs listed as miscellaneous, unchanged. Canada had 361 rigs a year ago this week.

The total number of rigs in the North America region decreased eight this week to 2,352. There were 2,117 rigs in North America a year ago this week.

Texas gas drillers agree with NY to report risks

By Michael Virtanen
Associated Press

ALBANY, N.Y. — Two Texas companies that drill for natural gas have signed agreements with New York's attorney general to release information about the financial risks to investors from hydraulic fracturing, a drilling method banned in the state while health officials study its effects.

Agreements with EOG Resources Inc. and Anadarko Petroleum Corp. require they publicly disclose risks arising from chemical handling, wastewater disposal, effects on drinking water aquifers, regulation and litigation.

Both companies said Friday they have no current operations in New York and already disclose much of the information. Fracturing frees natural gas from dense shale rock a mile underground by injecting high volumes of water mixed with chemicals and sand.

Opponents fear drilling will contaminate water supplies with either leaked methane or chemicals.

"By joining with my office to commit to greater public disclosure of the environmental and financial risks associated with their actions, these companies are setting a strong example for the rest of their industry," Attorney General Eric Schneiderman said.

The agreements followed 2011 subpoenas from the attorney general's office to various drilling companies about their disclosure practices. The subpoenas were issued under New York's Martin Act, which is used to enforce against securities fraud and gives the office authority to access businesses' financial records.

According to state officials, both companies have done hydraulic fracturing in Pennsylvania, in the Marcellus Shale formation that extends under New York's Southern Tier. They also drill in other states.

John Christiansen, spokesman for Anadarko headquartered in suburban Houston, said they were pleased to reach an agreement that ends the New York inquiry. He said the agreement provides for some additional disclosure and putting it in one place on its website. EOG says on its website that it's testing different types of hydraulic fracturing fluids, that one goal is to minimize the chemicals required, and that all are highly diluted, resulting in fluids that are typically more than 99 percent sand and water.

EOG spokeswoman K Leonard said the agreement affirms the Houston-based company's commitment to transparency and ends its inquiry. She said the company committed to continue providing information on hydraulic fracturing as it has for years through the company's website and SEC filings.

Maryland sees little risk to water from fracturing

Associated Press

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — Maryland's environmental regulators released a report Friday suggesting there is little risk of drinking water contamination from hydraulic fracturing for natural gas in the far western part of the state.

The finding surprised critics, who have cited much-publicized cases of tainted groundwater linked to gas wells in Pennsylvania and Texas. The report cites recent studies that blame that contamination on problems with pipes and seals rather than on the hydraulic fracturing drilling technique.

The draft report by the state departments of the environment and natural resources is open for public comment through Nov. 3.

It says existing regulations and proposed best practices for gas drilling would protect public drinking water sources, and the risk of contamination to private water wells is low under most scenarios.

The most serious risk is a moderate probability that groundwater could become contaminated with methane gas from a casing or cement failure in a gas well 2,000 feet from a private water well, the report said.

At least 8 quakes shake Kansas this week

Associated Press

KANSAS — At least eight earthquakes have shaken Kansas during the same week that a panel commissioned by Gov. Sam Brownback announced there isn't enough evidence to link recent temblors to oil and gas exploration.

The largest quake, with a 4.4 magnitude, struck just after 1 p.m. Thursday about seven miles southeast of Harper, the U.S. Geological Survey said. People as far away as Wichita felt shaking, and cracked walls were reported.

The quake is the strongest in the state in more than a year, said Interim Kansas Geological Survey director Rex Buchanan. It was followed about thirty minutes later by a nearby earthquake that had a magnitude of 3.4.

Buchanan said another four earthquakes hit the state Tuesday, including one with a 3.8 magnitude, and that at least two were recorded Wednesday. All but one of this week's quakes occurred in Harper County.

"There is no question it is unusual," Buchanan said.

Obama administration urges calm over Ebola case

By Lolita C. Baldor & Lauran Neergaard
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Obama administration on Friday urged calm over the single case of Ebola in the United States, seeking to reassure the American public that there is little chance of an outbreak of the illness in this country. The Pentagon said it had begun the long-awaited aid to disease-ravaged Liberia, with medical testing at two new labs and construction of treatment centers.

The administration has long contended that the best way to contain Ebola is to attack it at its source. The Pentagon's spokesman said on Friday that up to 4,000 troops could be deployed to West Africa, a number that has been slowly climbing as military leaders arrive and assess the need.

But in the U.S., "we need to get the information out because there is a lot of fear," said Dr. Anthony Fauci, infectious diseases chief at the National Institutes of Health.

"Our health care infrastructure in the United States is well-equipped to stop Ebola in its tracks."

The unusual high-level briefing at the White House Friday reflected the administration's urgency in seeking to reassure the public that a widespread outbreak of Ebola in the U.S. was unlikely.

Fauci was one of five senior administration officials who briefed reporters Friday, including Health and Human Services Secretary Sylvia Mathews Burwell and Lisa Monaco, President Barack Obama's top homeland security advisers.

Monaco said the U.S. was not considering a travel ban to prevent people from the hardest-hit West African countries from coming to the U.S. and said efforts were instead focused on identify high-risk individuals before they leave the outbreak zone. Dozens and dozens of people have been stopped from getting on flights in the region, she said.

"The most effective way to go about controlling this is to prevent those individuals from getting on a plane in the first place," she said.

The first person diagnosed with Ebola in the nation went to a Dallas hospital last week but was mistakenly sent home, despite revealing he was visiting from Liberia, before returning by ambulance days later. Texas officials now are monitoring 50 people, 10 of whom they consider at high risk, who came into the contact with the man. They've had to quarantine four of them, and even had problems getting rid of the infectious waste left in the apartment where the patient stayed.

"There were things that did not go the way they should have in Dallas," acknowledged Fauci, director of NIH's National Institute for Allergy and Infectious Diseases. "But there were a lot of things that went right and are going right."

The White House said Obama planned to meet with his national security advisers Monday to discuss the Ebola outbreak and the administration's response.

Back at the Pentagon, Navy Rear Adm. John Kirby said the military has begun medical testing for Ebola at two new labs in Liberia. Also, service members are starting to build two treatment centers there for victims of the deadly disease, he said, and a hospital for infected medical personnel should be finished by the end of the month.

Kirby said that the service members are not going to treat patients and are not expected to come in contact with anyone who is infected. But he said the military is training the troops about how to avoid getting Ebola, and also setting plans in place to deal with any service member who might get infected.

"We're going to train them up on what Ebola looks like, feels like, does. While they're there, they're going to be constantly monitored on a regular, frequent basis," Kirby said. "There will be a screening process to make sure that once they're no longer there, that we're able to stay in touch with them, make sure that they haven't ... felt or experienced any symptoms."

He added that troops will also have personal protection equipment if needed and will be trained in how to use it. He said he is unaware of any special staffing or other changes at military hospitals in the United States to prepare them for caring for Ebola patients.

There are about 230 U.S. troops deployed for the Ebola mission now. About two dozen are in Senegal setting up a transportation center and the rest are in Liberia. The Army on Friday said that up to 3,200 soldiers from various units around the country will be going to Liberia, including 1,800 from Fort Campbell, Kentucky, who will arrive late this month.

Lee, MHS look for boost as rivals set to face off

The game

LEE AT MIDLAND HIGH

When: Noon today
Location: Midland High gym

Midland High senior Erin Robbins remembers what she thought before her first Lee-Midland High crosstown game vividly.

"It was so intimidating," Robbins said.

The sentiment is shared on both sides of the rivalry.

"It's so loud you can't even think," said Lee senior Bentleigh Dunavan.

The Lady Bulldogs and Lady Rebels will resume their twice annual matchup today at Midland High gymnasium, with first serve set for noon. It's a match both teams admit means a little more than a normal district game.

"We don't ever really have a huge crowd until the Lee games," Midland High senior Jenna Gillean said. "It's crazy loud. Everyone is always yelling and chanting. There is a lot more pressure."

The intensity will be revved up for both schools, but not necessarily because of all the extra pageantry that comes with the crosstown environment. Both Lee and MHS could really use a victory to boost their standing in District 3-6A.

The Lady Bulldogs (23-6, 0-2 in 3-6A) especially need a win in order to curb the team's current five-match losing streak, which includes losses in their first two district matches. Midland High had rolled early in the season, notching wins in 23 of its first 24 matches.

But of late, much to the team's puzzlement, things just haven't come together on the court, which makes the matchup with Lee even more important.

"I think we definitely need a win for a confidence boost," Robbins said. "We need a win in general. It being Lee would make it even better."

A win won't come easy, however. The Lady Rebels (16-16, 1-1 in 3-6A) too could use the boost from what would be a gigantic win. Lee is just now starting to click after an up-and-down stretch early in the year, and a victory would help preserve that confidence.

Mustangs win nail-biter

Mustangs	43
Steers	42

BIG SPRING — In a game that featured two of the best quarterbacks in the Permian Basin, Friday's wild matchup between Big Spring and Andrews was eventually decided by defensive play.

With Andrews holding to a 43-42 lead, Big Spring quarterback Tobyn Tannehill was stopped just a yard short of a first down at the Andrews 5-yard line. That forced the Steers to attempt a field goal on fourth down with 25.6 seconds remaining. But Tannehill's attempt missed wide right, and the Mustangs celebrated a victory over the No. 8-ranked Steers on homecoming night at Memorial Stadium.

"That's the good thing about this team, is that we never quit," said Andrews senior quarterback Jase Hammack, who was 26-of-31 passing for 416 yards with five touchdowns and no interceptions. "We have a bunch of fight in us and our team chemistry is solid. It's awesome just to keep fighting all four quarters."

Andrews (5-1) had come back from a 42-28 deficit early in the fourth quarter and pulled to within 42-41 when Hammack found Le'Vaun Lewis, who had six catches for 115 yards, for a 14-yard touchdown pass with 3:27 left in the game. After the Steers (4-1) were called offside on the conversion attempt, the Mustangs went for two, and the lead, and converted when Tajh Kelly leapt over the goal line.

"It's one of those things that when you're on the road, you want to go for the win," said Andrews coach Ralph Mason about the decision to go for two. "We had the play and the running back to get in the end zone."

Said Hammack about the touchdown pass, "(Lewis) got open, he did his job and our line was awesome the entire game. Coach Mason calls great plays and you can't defend that."

Big Spring coach Phillip Ritchey said the Mustangs gave his young defense a big lesson.

"You've got to give them credit, they made huge plays," Ritchey said. "They scored with big plays and we scored with big plays and long drives. It was a great high school football game, one that hopefully we'll be better because of it. The play they made at the end was the team that deserved to win this game. We didn't play very good defense and they exposed that. I'm proud of our kids' effort, but we have to make plays."

While Tannehill missed the field goal attempt, there was no questioning his effort as the senior quarterback was 16-of-27 passing for 273 yards with three touchdowns and two interceptions, to go with 185 yards rushing on 25 carries.

Steers' teammate Hunter Hill added 99 yards receiving, 81 yards rushing and three total touchdowns in the loss.

Big Spring jumped out to a 14-0 lead and had a 21-7 lead in the first half before big plays from Andrews had the Steers only leading 28-21 at the break.

Mustangs ride Fender to blowout victory

Mustangs	38
Trojans	20

ADDISON — A potent running game and a deep-strike passing attack combined to form an unstoppable Midland Christian offense Friday against Addison Trinity Christian.

Justin Fender ran for 201 yards, and Gary Powell threw two long touchdown passes as the Mustangs defeated TCA 38-20 at Tom Landry Stadium in Addison.

The Mustangs scored two touchdowns in the first quarter, another two in the second and added on a Travis Causey field goal right before halftime to take a 31-7 lead. TCA rallied in the second half to cut the score to 31-20, but Fender added a late fourth quarter touchdown to ice the game.

Fender

McClendon

Midland Christian head coach Greg McClendon was pleased with his offensive line's performance, a group that routinely opened up holes for Fender.

"Our offensive line was our offensive line — we expect them to play like that every game," he said. "When we run the ball like we are capable of doing, and when we throw it a bit, we can be a pretty good offense."

Not to be outdone, the Midland Christian defense made several big plays in the second half.

After TCA cut their deficit to 11, the Trojans got the ball back after a quick three-and-out from Midland Christian in the fourth quarter. TCA quarterback Christian Hutzler drove the Trojans into Mustang territory before the defense made two negative-yardage plays — stopping running back Nahshon Ellerbe for a one-yard loss, and sacking Hutzler on third down.

Ellerbe found the end zone in the game, but was mostly bottled up by the Midland Christian defensive line. The secondary also forced a Hutzler interception on an underthrown pass.

"Honestly, [the TCA] offense was probably a little rusty in the first

Garden City sputters in loss to Robert Lee

By Len Hayward

Steers	50
Bearkats	40

GARDEN CITY — Garden City and Robert Lee showed the makings of producing a six-man shootout after the first half on Friday night at Bearkat Stadium.

But in the second half, defense ruled and it was the Steers defenders that made the difference. Robert Lee stopped the Bearkats five times on fourth down in the second half and held them scoreless in a 50-40 victory in a non-district contest.

The Bearkats scored all 40 of their points in the first half, but couldn't generate enough offense from its running game to get the first downs or touchdowns needed in the second half. The Bearkats rushed for 273 yards, but it was their 18 yards passing that showed how much they struggled on offense.

"Everybody knows our big weakness is our passing game right now," Garden City coach Matt Odom said. "When they back those linebackers up a little bit we were able to block them better, and we had a ton of success in the first half. But we were struggling throwing it and we struggled to score."

Meanwhile, the Steers found enough offense with two touchdowns in the second half, both from Austin Fowler, to give them the cushion they needed as their defense did the rest. Fowler rushed for 269 yards on 28 carries and was 12-of-16 passing for 140 yards.

He was also part of the Steers defense that produced two fourth-down stops in the third quarter and three in the fourth to clinch the victory.

"We came out of the locker room

RIVALS

From 1B

"They're starting to believe in themselves more," Lee head coach Daphne Rhoads said. "As a whole, they're starting to realize they can get it done."

For Midland High, confidence still clings to the group because of its preseason success. Injuries to key players have hampered the Lady Bulldogs, but players admit the group just hasn't meshed as well during the five-match losing streak. The team just needs to find the same feeling of togetherness it had when streaking.

The Lady Bulldogs have worked on slight altercations to their on-court play, but for the most part, they've tried to address the situation mentally.

"We've had a lot of team meetings," Gillean said with a laugh.

The Lady Rebels still need to curb consistency issues. But with a young roster, which features only three seniors, ensuring players are ready for a hostile road environment is critical.

"It's important to keep talking to your teammates and keep your focus on the court instead of trying to think about all the people watching you," Lee senior Lexi Watts said. "Just be on the court with your team, instead of being like 'oh no, everybody's watching me.'"

Lee is also working in practice to hit around blocks, something the Lady Bulldogs do defensively rather well. Rhoads also said the Lady Rebels need to shut down MHS' two outside hitters, Channing Burleson and Gillean.

But players and coaches on both sides admit in this crosstown rivalry, game plans and overall records often mean little.

"It's mental game more than physical when it comes to Midland High vs. Lee," Rhoads said.

Harvick shatters Kansas record to capture pole

By Dave Skretta
Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — Kevin Harvick is the one to beat once again at Kansas Speedway.

Harvick shattered his own track record and won the pole to start the second round of the Chase for the Sprint Cup championship Sunday. After setting the mark at 197.773 mph in his second round of qualifying, he turned a lap of 197.621 in the final round to earn the pole.

The previous record of 194.658 was set by Harvick in the spring.

"For whatever reason this fits everything I have going on with my driving style," said Harvick, who won his third straight pole at Kansas and also won last year's Chase race.

"In the end it comes down to having a fast car. We have a fast car."

He has had that most of the season, too. The pole was Harvick's eighth this year.

Rangers disclose list of candidates for manager

Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Interim manager Tim Bogar is among six more candidates the Texas Rangers plan to interview beginning next week in their search for Ron Washington's full-time replacement.

The Rangers announced their interview plans Friday. The team also said the Arizona Diamondbacks have requested and were granted permission to speak to Bogar about their managerial vacancy.

Bogar, who joined the Rangers last offseason as their bench coach, had a 14-8 record as interim manager after Washington resigned for personal reasons Sept. 5.

Texas also announced plans to interview Pittsburgh bench coach Jeff Banister, Cleveland bullpen coach Kevin Cash, Boston bench coach Torey Lovullo, Chicago White Sox third base coach Joe McEwing and former major league player Alex Cora, now a manager and general manager in the Puerto Rican Winter League.

Rangers pitching coach Mike Maddux and Triple-A manager Steve Buechele were interviewed last Tuesday.

BALTIMORE — Delmon Young drove in three runs with a pinch-hit double, and the Baltimore Orioles picked apart Detroit's shoddy bullpen once again during a four-run rally in the eighth inning to beat the Tigers 7-6 Friday for a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five AL Division Series.

Baltimore will try for a sweep in Game 3 Sunday at Detroit, when Miguel Gonzalez starts against the Tigers' third straight Cy Young winner in David Price.

A day after the Orioles battered Detroit relievers while scoring eight runs in the eighth for a 12-3 win, they came back from a three-run deficit.

It was 6-3 with one out in the eighth when reliever Joba Chamberlain hit Adam Jones with a pitch and gave up a single to Nelson Cruz before Steve Pearce singled in a run.

WASHINGTON — Jake Peavy took a no-hitter into the fifth inning to outpitch playoff rookie Stephen Strasburg, and the San Francisco Giants won their ninth consecutive postseason game by beating the Washington Nationals 3-2 on Friday in an NL Division Series opener.

The intense Peavy won the 2007 Cy Young Award but never has been much of an October performer, going 0-3 with a 9.27 ERA in five previous starts. But maybe the Giants' aura rubbed off on him, because the 33-year-old right-hander threw 5 2-3 scoreless innings in Game 1, allowing only two hits.

Buster Posey, Joe Panik and Brandon Belt drove in San Francisco's runs.

St. Louis' Matt Carpenter, center, watches his three-run double as Los Angeles Dodgers starting pitcher Clayton Kershaw, right, crouches on the mound Friday in the seventh inning of Game 1 of an NL Division Series in Los Angeles.

CARDINALS 10 DODGERS 9

LOS ANGELES — Matt Carpenter hit a go-ahead, three-run double off a wilting Clayton Kershaw in an eight-run seventh inning, and the St. Louis Cardinals rallied for a 10 9 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers in a fiery NL Division Series opener Friday.

It was 92 degrees at gametime, and things quickly got more heated during a surprising slugfest. St. Louis overcame a five-run deficit against Kershaw and held on when Trevor Rosenthal blew an 100 mph fastball past Yasiel Puig with a runner on third to end a back-and-forth game that lasted nearly four hours.

In a matchup of 20-games winners, Cardinals ace Adam Wainwright hit Puig with a pitch leading off the third, triggering a bench-clearing scrum. There was shoving and shouting, but no punches were thrown.

defensive back Jace Cordell, and touchdown passes of 43 and 16 yards to Braden Grimsley (7 catches for 143 yards) and Caleb O'Connor, respectively, got the Mustangs back into the game and within striking distance.

Two touchdown passes by Tannehill helped Big Spring extend its lead back to 14 early in the fourth, before Hammack answered with a 64-yard TD pass to Grimsley and the 14-yard touchdown pass to Lewis, which set the up the game winning two-point conversion.

"It's a big rivalry and to beat the team that beat Graham and made a deep run in the playoffs, we now know what it's like and it's time to go get a district title," Hammack said.

half," McClendon said. "But they picked it up after halftime. They're an explosive group, but our defense played well. And when our offense can play like they did, we feel good about ourselves."

Indeed, the offense was good - especially in the first half. In fact, the Mustangs might have had a fifth first-half touchdown if not for a penalty. As the second quarter wound down, Powell found Zyan Burditt on a swing pass near the Midland Christian sideline. Burditt broke two tackles and sprinted down the field for a score. However, an offensive holding penalty brought the ball back.

Powell then led the Mustangs into TCA territory before Causey kicked a field goal as time expired.

Hutzler's best pass of the evening came in the second quarter, when a play-action toss found Parker Oliver streaking down the field for a 59-yard touchdown. The Trojan defense then forced a Midland Christian punt, giving the ball right back to TCA. Hutzler then went deep to Oliver again, but the ball was underthrown and intercepted by the Mustangs.

Oliver and Alec Bove combined for 16 catches in the game.

McClendon and the Mustangs will now shift their focus to next week's game against Liberty Christian, a game the head coach called "a big rivalry."

"As soon as tonight's game was over, the only thing everyone was talking about was getting ready for Liberty Christian," he said. "We'll focus big time in practice this week."

and (Robert Lee) coach (Shay Avants) said for us to win the second half we had to step it up on defense," said Fowler, who accounted for five touchdowns. "We got up to the line quick, and we just put our men back there and stopped the sweep. That's what we had to do today."

The Bearkats (4-2) went into the locker room up 40-34. Ismael Ramirez had more than 100 yards rushing, and scored on touchdown runs of 2, 13 and 27 yards. His counterpart in the backfield, Isaac Enriquez had scores of 2 and 1 yards in the opening two quarters.

Robert Lee (6-0) came back late in the first half to steal some momentum heading into halftime. After Enriquez's second rushing TD with :40 remaining in the second quarter, the Steers scored on the final play of the half when a scrambling Fowler hit Tristen Hildenbrand for a 22-yard touchdown as time expired.

The Steers missed the ensuing extra point kick, but they were down by six heading into halftime instead of 12.

Robert Lee scored on its second possession of the second half to take the lead at 42-40 when Fowler scored on an 8-yard run with 6:21 left in the second quarter. His second score came at the 7:20 mark of the fourth quarter to give Robert Lee a 50-40 lead it didn't give up.

In between those two scores, Robert Lee stopped the Bearkats at the Steer 35 on fourth down and also on the Robert Lee 37. The Steers also produced fourth-down stops on their own 19 and the Garden City 35 in the fourth quarter.

Ramirez finished the game with 199 yards rushing on 29 carries, but in the second half he only had two carries for more than 10 yards — in the first half he had six..

"Momentum is a big thing and once you got it you try to keep it, and prevent them from getting it," Odom said. "In the third quarter we had some big penalties, and when you are getting penalties, and get into second and long and first and long, that puts us in a bad situation."

Jacquelin grabs 1-shot lead at Dunhill Links

By Bernie McGuire
Associated Press

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland — Raphael Jacquelin of France birdied his last two holes for a 2-under 70 to break clear of a tightly packed leaderboard and take a one-shot lead after the second round of the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship.

Four players — Irish duo Padraig Harrington and Shane Lowry along with Frenchman Alexander Levy and England's Oliver Wilson — were in a tie for second, with three others another shot back. At one stage late in the day, nine players were tied for the lead before Harrington jumped in front and Jacquelin then leapfrogged him with his strong finish for a 9-under total of 135.

The tournament is played on three courses, with 11 of the players in the top 12 having played Kingsbarns on Friday. Lowry was the only exception, shooting a 70 at St. Andrews.

"It's always nice to finish birdie-birdie, but it was difficult out there," Jacquelin said. "I am in a nice position and right where I want to be. I played really well yesterday shooting a 65 at Carnoustie and putting really great, but then today here at Kingsbarns I just didn't get the pace of the greens."

Top-ranked Rory McIlroy shot a 67 on Kingsbarns to sit five shots back. McIlroy started on the back nine and was 1 over through six holes before an eagle on No. 16 and a birdie on the next got him going. He added four more birdies and a bogey on his last nine holes.

"The eagle on 16, or my seventh hole, kick-started something for me and I just went from there and started seeing a few more putts roll in," he said. "That gave me a little bit more confidence, and looking at the leaderboard I am only five shots behind with two rounds to play."

Harrington is looking to end a six-year title drought, having failed to win a tournament on either of the main tours since capturing a third major at the 2008 PGA Championship.

The 43-year old has slipped to 324th in the world rankings, and said his main goal now is to qualify for the 2016 Olympics.

"That's where I am focused so I've got two years to achieve that goal, and it makes no difference where I am in the world now," Harrington said. "So I am starting at 'ground zero' and working my way up to becoming an Olympic athlete. That would be very special."

Scottish duo Richie Ramsay (68) and Chris Doak (67) were in a share for sixth place with American Ryan Palmer (68).

Stephen Gallacher carded a 70 to move to a share of ninth place at 6 under to be the best of the four European Ryder Cup winners competing this week.

Stacy Lewis takes 2-stroke lead in China

Associated Press

BEIJING — Top-ranked birdied the final hole Friday for a 5-under 68 and a two-stroke lead over fellow Texan Brittany Lang after the second round of the Reignwood LPGA Classic.

"It was a day that I just had to stay patient," Lewis said. "Even coming in, I could have made a few more birdies. Didn't quite hit the shots around the greens that I needed to."

Lewis had a 12-under 134 at Reignwood Pine Valley.

She holed some timely putts.

"Putts that kept the round going," Lewis said. "That's the thing. I've made them at the right time. I've had good speed all week."

Lewis leads the tour with three victories and earnings of $2,214,143. Last year, she finished a stroke behind Shanshan Feng after the Chinese player eagled the par-5 18th.

Lang had a 66 to match the best round off the week — and set up a Saturday pairing with Lewis.

"We're really good friends though and I have a lot of respect for her on the golf course," Lang said about Lewis. "Yeah, definitely going to be out of my element, a little intimidated. She's a great player. But at the same time, I'm trying to get better, too. So playing with her, watching her, and trying to play well and do my thing is going to make me better. If I could play with her on more weekends, then I'll be doing pretty good. Maybe I can learn something from watching her."

Trainer Doug O'Neill banned by Breeders' Cup

By Beth Harris
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — The Breeders' Cup banned trainer Doug O'Neill on Friday from entering horses in this year's world championships after he was suspended and fined by New York racing officials when one of his horses had a positive drug test.

The ban is enforceable under the event's convicted trainers rule, which prohibits trainers who have in the preceding 12 months been found by any racing regulatory agency to have violated rules forbidding the possession or use of any Class 1 or 2 substances.

O'Neill

Breeders' Cup President and CEO Craig Fravel said O'Neill won't be allowed to pre-enter horses in the event to be run Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 at Santa Anita in Arcadia, California, because of the recent 45-day suspension and $10,000 fine handed down by the New York Gaming Commission against the trainer.

"I accept the Breeder's Cup decision that I will not be permitted to participate in the 2014 Breeders' Cup World Championships and I will not appeal it," O'Neill said in a statement through his publicist.

Under a settlement with the New York Gaming Commission, O'Neill's suspension begins Nov. 3 — two days after the Breeders' Cup — and ends Dec. 18. O'Neill had earlier said he wasn't in New York when the alleged infraction occurred in June 2013 and he's confident that none of his employees or staff administered the substance to the horse that tested positive.

"I now realize that delaying the suspension so that I could participate in the Breeders' Cup was a mistake," O'Neill said Friday.

He said before the Breeders' Cup ban, he had asked New York officials to move up his suspension so it begins on Monday.

"One of the reasons I wanted to resolve these allegations was to not be a distraction to the racing community," O'Neill said. "I truly care about the horses under my care and the sport that we all love and do not wish for my suspension to do any more harm than it has already done."

A spokesman said the California Horse Racing Board is aware of the New York ruling involving O'Neill and is investigating the matter. A Breeders' Cup spokesman said it would be up to the CHRB whether to allow O'Neill on the grounds at Santa Anita during Breeders' Cup week.

O'Neill, 46, is a high-profile trainer on the Southern California circuit with four Breeders' Cup wins to his credit — the 2005 Juvenile, 2006 Sprint, 2007 Filly & Mare Sprint and last year's Dirt Mile. He is ranked 15th nationally among trainers with purse earnings of $4,268,511 this year, according to Equibase.

Cowboys can explain sudden turnaround on defense

By Schuyler Dixon
Associated Press

IRVING — The Dallas Cowboys have all kinds of answers for how the NFL's worst defense a year ago has improved despite losing its best player to injury, dumping the franchise sacks leader and letting the most productive lineman go to a division rival.

There's cornerback Brandon Carr's theory of growing up: "You look different from 5 to 6 years old, right?" he said, laughing.

Or how about defensive coordinator Rod Marinelli's idea that it's so simple a 5-year-old could do it: "And then, we don't change a lot."

And finally, coach Jason Garrett's take on players with something to prove: "I think everybody has a story, and oftentimes you tap into what their stories are."

Add them all up, and you have a team that kept New Orleans out of the end zone for three quarters and built a 31-3 lead a year after giving up an NFL-record 40 first downs in an embarrassing blowout loss.

The Cowboys (3-1), who take a three-game winning streak into Sunday's game against Houston (3-1), don't stand out defensively in the rankings because they're giving up plenty of yards — including a bunch to Drew Brees and the Saints in the second half of a 38-17 win.

But Dallas is among league leaders in takeaways with eight — a Marinelli staple — and in the top 10 in scoring defense, the other measure that matters the most to the man who took over the defense when Monte Kiffin was demoted after last season.

Marinelli and Kiffin came in together a year ago to switch the Cowboys back to a four-man front after nearly a decade in the 3-4.

"Once we get our package right in the offseason, I think you stay with it," Marinelli said. "So the players aren't learning something new every week. They're trying to refine their skills. They're trying to play faster."

The Cowboys opened free agency in March by cutting defensive end DeMarcus Ware in a salary cap move, and their offseason began with a season-ending knee injury to linebacker Sean Lee in the first practice. Dallas decided not to give some of that Ware money to defensive tackle Jason Hatcher, who led the team in sacks in 2013, and he signed with Washington.

Now the defensive front is a collection of bargains, while Rolando McClain has the potential to be a playmaking leader of the linebackers after the former top 10 pick flamed out early in Oakland and walked away from the game twice in Baltimore.

Jelly Bean is a small, very sweet, handsome, 2 yr. old male Chihuahua. He was hit by a car and had a broken pelvis. He will always walk a little funny, but he gets around very well. Jelly Bean would do best with a family with older children and would be okay with other dogs his size.

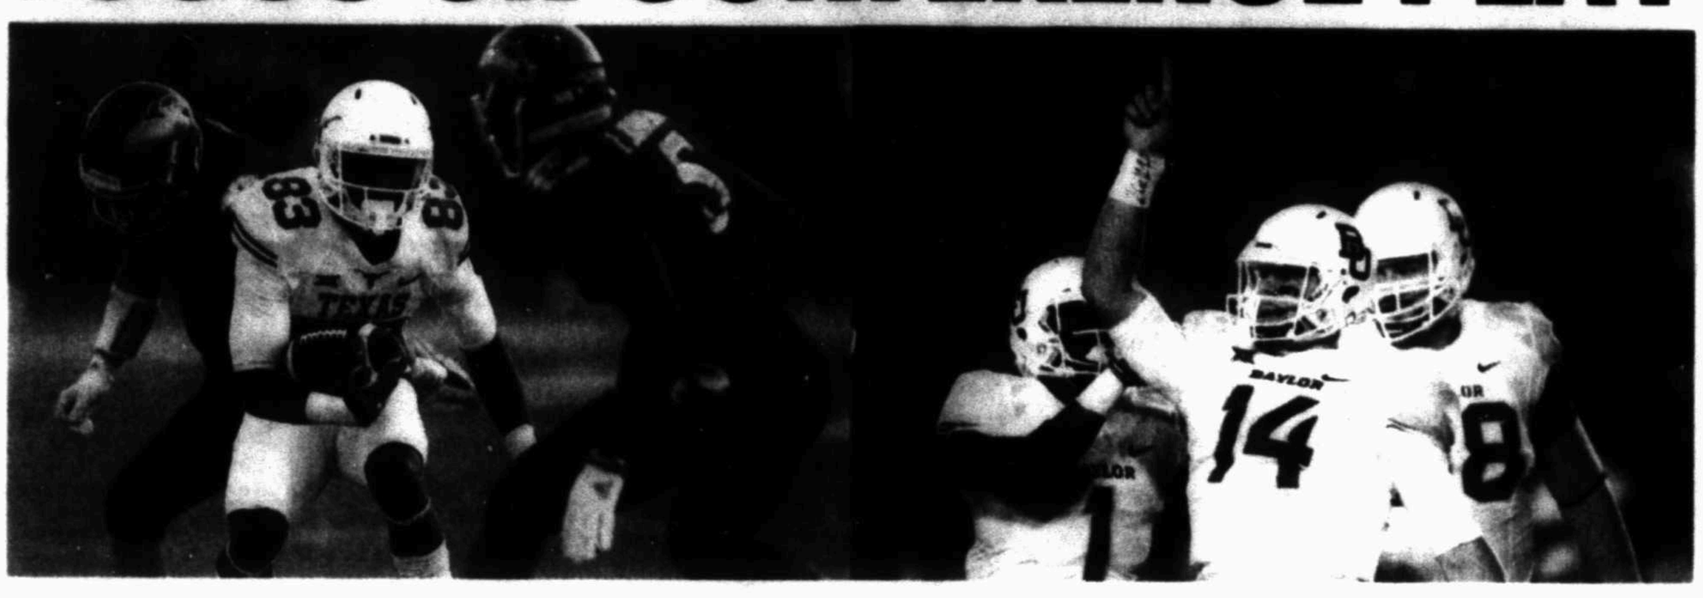
FOCUS ON CONFERENCE PLAY



Plenty of storylines in 1st full week of Big 12 action

OSCAR LEROY
oleroy@mrt.com

Six weeks into the college football season and we're finally into the first full week of Big 12 play as the contenders will begin to separate from the pretenders.

Two weeks go in this column, I had my personal power rankings up to that point, and so far you shouldn't see much change, although Texas Tech could have gone either up or down with their Jekyll and Hyde performance against Oklahoma State (45-35) loss last week.

Does anybody really know where Texas Tech is heading this season? Even the Red Raiders' 35-year-old head coach Kliff Kingsbury seems to be aging before our eyes as his team racks up penalty yards, continues to have key turnovers and now is dealing with an injury to starting quarterback Davis Webb.

We'll see which Red Raider team shows up today at Kansas State. Is it going to be the same Tech team that has been plagued by mistakes, or will it be the team that showed it's potential with a strong start against the Cowboys?

This week, I'll rank the Big 12 games with some noteworthy items.

No. 3 Oklahoma (4-0, 1-0) at No. 25 TCU (3-0, 0-0), 2:30 p.m, FOX

The Sooners continue to show why they're the favorite to win the conference as they pulled away for a 45-33 win at upset-minded West Virginia two weeks ago to extend the nation's second longest active winning streak to eight games.

Meanwhile, TCU continued its good start by dismantling dysfunctional SMU 56-0 last week.

SMU is no OU, that's for sure, and we'll find out how good the Horned Frogs are after this game.

There's no question TCU once again has not only the league's best but one of the nation's best secondaries as the Frogs are holding opponents to 127 passing yards per game.

However, OU doesn't have to rely on quarterback Trevor Knight. True freshman running back Samaje Perine is the early favorite for Newcomer of the Year with a league-leading 419 yards rushing.

No. 6 Baylor (4-0, 1-0) at Texas (2-2, 1-0), 2:30 p.m., ABC

This game should have an interesting matchup as one of the best passing offenses in the country in Baylor faces a very talented secondary in Texas.

Baylor is another team that hasn't disappointed this season as the Bears pulled away from always pesky Iowa State last week for a 49-28 victory.

Meanwhile, Texas opened Big 12 play with a 23-0 victory at Kansas and in the process helped the Jayhawks escort coach Charlie Weis out the door.

Texas A&M head coach Kevin Sumlin, left, celebrates with quarterback Kenny Hill after their 35-28 overtime win against Arkansas on Sept. 27 in Arlington. The Aggies Head to Starkville, Miss., today to face SEC foe Mississippi State.

Heisman hopeful Kenny Hill looks to lead Aggies to win in Starkville

By Brent Zwerneman
Houston Chronicle

STARKVILLE, Miss. — Nearly midway through a season that's beginning to remind many of Texas A&M's 2012 surprising swing through the Southeastern Conference, senior receiver Malcome Kennedy smiled in satisfaction at the recollection of the Aggies' last sojourn to Mississippi State.

"We came out with so much energy, and that was the first time Johnny ripped his chest open and did the 'Superman,'" Kennedy said, shaking his head and chuckling.

Then-quarterback Johnny Manziel didn't actually rip open his own chest in acting as if he was a superhero following a touchdown — he only acted out the part in drawing a penalty flag along the way — but he was in the process of ripping apart a stunned Bulldogs defense in the course of the Aggies' 38-13 throttling in Davis Wade Stadium.

"We made a lot of memories that game," Kennedy said.

Now, the sixth-ranked Aggies are back for another round, this time in the first top 15 collision in the stadium since 1986 starting 11 a.m. today. The No. 12 Bulldogs last played in an eye-opening upset at LSU two weeks ago, while A&M is still euphoric from its 35-28 comeback victory over Arkansas in AT&T Stadium in Arlington a week ago.

"That showed us we can be in any situation and still come back and win a game," A&M sophomore quarterback Kenny Hill said. "We've done it before, and we can do it again."

Much like Manziel two years ago, Hill is now the Aggie earning headlines headed into Starkville as a Heisman Trophy candidate nearly midway through the season.

"He has a great understanding of what they want to do offensively," Bulldogs coach Dan Mullen said. "On top of that, he can impro-

Imbalance between SEC divisions is growing

By Scott Michaux
The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle

Today's Southeastern Conference schedule looks almost like a misprint — at least regarding the West division.

No. 3 Alabama plays No. 11 Ole Miss.

No. 5 Auburn plays No. 15 Louisiana State.

No. 6 Texas A&M plays No. 12 Mississippi State.

Meanwhile, over in the East, the lone ranked team (No. 13 Georgia) plays Vanderbilt. Guess we know where ESPN's College Gameday won't be this weekend.

Today is a show-off opportunity for the SEC West, which will feature the iconic television road show rolling onto the Grove in Oxford, Mississippi, for the first time as the Rebels are off to their best start in four decades.

The growing imbalance between the East and West in the SEC has never been more pronounced.

"I think it's unquestionable, the West teams are stronger than the East teams, no question about it," said South Carolina coach Steve Spurrier, whose Gamecocks were throttled 52-28 by Texas A&M in the season opener. "There's no doubt with Alabama, LSU, A&M and the Mississippi teams playing well now. I think all of us will agree with that and that's just the way it is right now."

Seriously, when six of the top 15 teams in the nation (40 percent) are from one division, something is out of whack.

"It's the best division in college football, and I don't think it's even close," Auburn coach Gus Malzahn told the Associated Press recently.

"All seven teams should be ranked in the Top 25 — the SEC West is that strong," said Ole Miss coach Hugh

Some Longhorns can deny the emergence all they want, but Baylor has surpassed Texas as a program. Still, there's a lot of pride in Austin, and there's no doubt that once Charlie Strong finishes cleaning house, the program will get back to prominence.

Until then, the Bears remain one of the teams to beat in this conference.

Texas Tech (2-2, 0-1) at No. 22 Kansas State (3-1, 0-0), 6 p.m., ESPNU

A sometimes-undisciplined Texas Tech team goes into Manhattan, Kansas, to take on a very disciplined Kansas State team. This could spell t-r-o-u-b-l-e.

The Red Raiders could be without the aforementioned Webb, who injured his non-throwing shoulder at Oklahoma State and was listed as a game time decision. If he can't go (I think he will), true freshman Patrick Mahomes will get the nod instead. Mahomes threw a foolish interception early in place of Webb against OSU but looked to get a little comfortable as the game went on.

But Red Raider fans should be less concerned about Mahomes than the team's ability to make mistakes and shoot itself in the foot.

KSU crushed UTEP 52-28 in a game that wasn't as close as the score indicated, as the Wildcats dominated in every phase of the game. KSU scored 42 unanswered points and had 143 punt return yards from dynamic receiver Tyler Lockett.

Kingsbury might have a few more gray hairs after this one.

Iowa State (1-3, 0-2) at No. 23 Oklahoma State (3-1, 1-0), 3 p.m., FS1

You've got to give Cyclones coach Paul Rhoads credit: His teams will always battle even though they might not have the talent.

The Cyclones were in the game against Baylor last week despite the Bears having a big second quarter that proved to be the difference. ISU quarterback Sam Richardson threw for 212 yards and two touchdowns to go with a 47-yard TD run.

OSU, which overcame its own mistakes in the win over Tech, had a nice performance from fill-in quarterback Daxx Garman, who threw for 370 yards and four touchdowns on 17-of-30 passing to earn the Big 12 Offensive Player of Week.

Stillwater can be a loud and unfriendly place to play for any opponent. Rhoads will have to find some inspiration to help his team pull this upset.

Kansas (2-2, 0-1) at West Virginia (2-2, 0-1), 3 p.m., FSSW

Interim head coach Clint Bowen takes his Jayhawks into hostile Morgantown to take on an improved Mountaineers team and early Player of the Year favorite Clint Trickett, who leads the Big 12 in total yards with 1,580.

The good news for Bowen and the Jayhawks is that they can get out of town and not face their fans for another week.

TEXAS TECH (2-2, 0-1 BIG 12) AT NO. 23 KANSAS STATE (3-1, 1-0) 6 P.M. (ESPNU)

Line: Kansas State by 12.
Series Record: Texas Tech leads 8-6.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Kansas State will be trying to stay atop the Big 12 while Texas Tech will be trying to even its conference record. The Wildcats have won the last three meetings in the series.

KEY MATCHUP

Red Raiders QB Davis Webb is eighth nationally with 339 yards passing per game. He'll be going against a Kansas State defense that is nails against the run but has been susceptible to over-the-top passing. The big question is whether he'll be 100 percent. He left last week's game against Oklahoma State with a shoulder injury but practiced this week.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Texas Tech: WR Bradley Marquez has hauled in six touchdown passes to rank second nationally and tops in the Big 12. When things break down in the pocket, he's the guy that Webb will try to find.

Kansas State: QB Jake Waters and WR Tyler Lockett. Since the start of last season, they have hooked up for 90 completions, 1,469 yards and 11 touchdowns. That includes 13 pass plays of at least 20 yards, and seven of 40 or more.

FACTS & FIGURES

The game is expected to be the 17th consecutive sellout at Bill Snyder Family Stadium. ... Kansas State has scored in 220 consecutive games, tops in the Big 12. Texas Tech is second at 211 games. ... Webb has thrown at least one TD pass in the first 14 games of his career, a Texas Tech record. ... Red Raiders WR Jakeem Grant had a career-high 12 catches for 100 yards against Oklahoma State. He's first in the Big 12 in all-purpose yards at 178 per game. ... Texas Tech is among the worst teams in the nation in turnover margin, coughing the ball up nine times. ... Kansas State has only started 2-0 in the Big 12 twice since the 2000 season. ... The Wildcats are 31-8 at home since their stadium was named in honor of Snyder. ... Kansas State has won 41 straight games when leading at halftime, third-best nationally. ... The Wildcats are first in the Big 12 and ninth nationally in fewest penalties at 36.8 yards per game. ... Lockett needs 58 catches, 564 yards and eight TDs to break his father Kevin Lockett's school records in each category.

NO. 7 BAYLOR (4-0, 1-0 BIG 12) AT TEXAS (2-2, 1-0) 2:30 P.M. (ABC)

Line: Baylor by 16 ½.
Series Record: Texas leads 74-25-4

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Baylor is out to prove its early-season schedule full of patsies was just a tune-up for big things the Big 12. And the Bears can keep putting the pressure on Texas, which has lost three of the last four in a rivalry that has historically been dominated by the Longhorns. For Texas, being a two-touchdown underdog at home seems shocking. A win could be the kind of thing that jump starts the season for first-year coach Charlie Strong.

KEY MATCHUP

Baylor's speedy wide receivers against Texas cornerbacks Duke Thomas and Quandre Diggs. Baylor freshman KD Cannon ranks fifth nationally, averaging 130 yards receiving per game and has touchdown catches of 46, 50, 81, 42 and 89 yards. The Bears return Levi Norwood, who missed three games because of a wrist injury, and Antwan Goodley had six catches for 114 yards last week against Iowa State. Thomas and Diggs have combined for four of Texas' nine interceptions.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Baylor: RB Shock Linwood. Quarterback Bryce Petty and the passing game grabs the headlines, but the Bears can steal big yards with a running game that can move the chains and draws in defensive backs. Linwood scored three touchdowns last week and if he's grinding out yards, Petty will set up the deep ball.

Texas: QB Tyrone Swoopes still has a long way to go but seems to be getting better every week after being thrust into the starting role after recurring concussion symptoms forced David Ash to quit football. He'll have to play his best game yet if Texas hopes to keep up with the Bears' offense.

FACTS & FIGURES

Baylor won the Big 12 title last season by beat Texas 30-10, a victory that led to Texas coach Mack Brown being fired a week later. ... Baylor leads the nation in scoring (56.8 ppg) and total offense (641 ypg). ... Texas has struggled on offense. The Longhorns rank 104th nationally in scoring, averaging 21 points.

NO. 6 TEXAS A&M (5-0, 2-0 SEC) AT NO. 12 MISSISSIPPI ST. (4-0, 1-0) 11 A.M. (ESPN)

Line: Mississippi State by 1½.
Series Record: Mississippi State leads, 4-3.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

The first game matching two top 15 teams at Wade Davis Stadium in Starkville since 1986 will help shape the pecking in order in college football's toughest division, the SEC West. The loser isn't necessarily eliminated from conference championship — or even playoff — contention, but it does have to go to the back of the line and hope for help. Both quarterbacks, Mississippi State's Dak Prescott and A&M's Kenny Hill, have been putting up numbers that will draw Heisman Trophy consideration.

KEY MATCHUP

Texas A&M wide receivers vs. Mississippi State cornerbacks. It seems as if the Aggies use about a dozen different receivers. Not quite, but Hill has plenty of options, led by Malcolme Kennedy (33 catches, 378 yards), Ricky Seals-Jones, Josh Reynolds, Edward Pope, Speedy Noil and Boone Niederhofer all have double-digit receptions for an offense averaging over 400 yards per game through the air. A&M will put pressure on Bulldogs cornerbacks Jamerson Love, Taveze Calhoun and Will Redmond, and a pass defense that ranks 124th in the country in yards allowed per game (319). The Aggies are also adept at getting their receivers matched up with safeties and linebackers.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Texas A&M: OLB/DE Myles Garrett. The freshman had 5.5 sacks in the first three games and has the look of a potentially dominant pass rusher. He wasn't quite as disruptive last week against Arkansas.

Mississippi State: MLB Benardrick McKinney. Rangy and athletic, the 6-foot-5 senior leads the Bulldogs in tackles (27) and has two sacks. Mississippi State's 34 tackles for loss lead the SEC.

FACTS & FIGURES

The Aggies are one of two teams national to rank in the top five in total offense, scoring offense and passing. Baylor is the other. ... Mississippi State has surpassed 500 yards total offense in each of its four games. ... Prescott has three straight games of at least 200 yards passing and 100 yards rushing. ... Among defenses that have faced 200 or more rushing attempts, A&M has allowed the fewest rushing touchdowns (three). ... Mississippi State C Dillon Day will serve a one-game SEC suspension for multiple flagrant and unsportsmanlike acts against LSU.

NO. 4 OKLAHOMA (4-0, 1-0 BIG 12) AT NO. 25 TCU (3-0, 0-0) 2:30 P.M. (FOX)

Line: Oklahoma by 5.
Series Record: Oklahoma leads 9-4.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Oklahoma has won eight games in a row, the second-longest active FBS streak behind Florida State's 20. The Sooners are currently the best-positioned Big 12 team for the new four-team College Football Playoff, but the league loses one of its three remaining undefeated teams in this game (No. 7 Baylor is the other). The last Big 12 team to play its conference opener, TCU also plays on consecutive weeks for the first time this season.

KEY MATCHUP

TCU's new up-tempo offense against Oklahoma's defense. The Horned Frogs changed their offense to be more like other Big 12 teams. Their 44.7 points and 532 total yards a game are on par with Oklahoma's 44.8 points and 495 yards. But this is TCU's first test against a Big 12 defense, whose wins include FCS team Samford and hapless SMU.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Oklahoma: Sophomore CB Zack Sanchez has an interception in every game this season, and six picks his last seven games. Freshman RB Samaje Perine had a breakout game with 34 carries for 242 yards and four TDs vs. West Virginia.

TCU: Junior QB Trevone Boykin is third overall in the Big 12 with 347 total yards per game, leading the Horned Frogs in both passing (286 yards per game) and rushing (61 yards per game). Boykin has thrown eight touchdowns with only one interception, and run for three scores.

FACTS & FIGURES

TCU is 4-2 in its last six games against top-five teams, a streak that began with their 2005 season-opening 17-10 victory at No. 5 Oklahoma. ... QB Trevor Knight is 9-0 as Oklahoma's starter. ... TCU and Alabama are the only two schools ranked top-five nationally in total offense and top-15 in total defense. ... The Sooners have won 45 consecutive games when leading at halftime, the second-longest active streak behind Oregon's 62.

IOWA STATE (1-3, 0-2 BIG 12) AT NO. 21 OKLAHOMA STATE (3-1, 1-0) 11 A.M. (FS1)

Line: Oklahoma State by 17.
Series Record: Oklahoma State leads 27-18-3.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Oklahoma State is climbing in the AP poll and establishing itself as a contender in the Big 12. The Cowboys can't afford to get derailed in the final game of a four-game homestand. Though Iowa State is coming off a 49-28 loss to Baylor, the Cyclones battled before losing 32-28 at home against Kansas State on Sept. 6 and beat Iowa the next week. Iowa State has been close to breaking through, and a win on the road against a ranked team would provide a confidence boost.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Iowa State: Quarterback Sam B. Richardson. He's a dual threat who passed for 212 yards and two touchdowns and ran for 99 yards against Baylor. He has passed for 803 yards this season and is the Cyclones' leading rusher with 218 yards.

Oklahoma State: Quarterback Daxx Garman. He was the Big 12's Offensive Player of the Week after passing for 370 yards and four touchdowns and running for another score last Thursday against Texas Tech. If he gets time to throw, his strong arm and his fast receivers make him a threat to post similar numbers on a weekly basis.

Michaux

From 1C

Freeze.

Had Arkansas held on in the closing minutes to beat Texas A&M last weekend before succumbing in overtime, it's likely that all seven teams from one collegiate division would have been ranked in the top 25 of the AP poll for the first time in history.

As it stands, the only competition the SEC West has is itself. The seven teams are a combined 25-0 against non-West opponents this season, including victories over Wisconsin, Kansas State, South Carolina, Florida, Texas Tech, West Virginia and Boise State. The only losses so far are "in-house" — LSU to Mississippi State and Arkansas to Auburn and A&M.

By contrast, the East is collectively 12-6 against non-division opponents, including 0-3 to the West. The only notable victories to date are Georgia over Clemson and South Carolina over East Carolina, but those are sadly offset by brutal losses by Missouri to Indiana and Vanderbilt to Temple.

It's not like this has been some overnight seismic shift in conference power. The tide turned in 2009, when Alabama handily defeated Florida and Tim Tebow in the SEC title game and went on to win the BCS championship.

Since the pendulum swung that season, the West has won five consecutive SEC Championships, leveling the overall record at 11-11.

But it's been more lopsided than the championship game history tells. Over the last five seasons plus the first month of 2014, the SEC West is 61-29 versus the SEC East — a .677 winning percentage. Every West team has a winning record against the East in that span except Ole Miss (4-9).

Since divisional play began in 1992, the West is 27 games above .500 against the East — 219-192-2 (.530).

The West's rise has coincided with the diminished standards at Florida and Tennessee — the two programs that combined to win a division record six consecutive SEC titles from 1993-98 when the East was king. As they try to catch back up with Georgia and South Carolina, the West keeps stockpiling the best recruiting classes harvesting talent from Georgia and Florida.

"I don't think anybody can disagree," Spurrier said of the talent shift. "They've recruited well and we've recruited pretty well. But maybe they've recruited a little bit better than everybody."

To an extent, the relative demise of the Gators and Vols in recent years is what helped South Carolina produce three consecutive 11-win seasons. Going back to 2010, when the Gamecocks reached their only SEC title game, South Carolina is 20-5 with a winning record against every team in the East but is 5-7 against the West.

With today's top-heavy slate, the West will begin the process of beating on itself to determine which team makes it to Atlanta for the SEC title game while eliminating each other from playoff consideration. Unlike most recent years, the likelihood of a West team showing up at the Georgia Dome with an unblemished or even one-loss conference record is slimmer than usual.

That's the norm in the East, where a lower level of parity has generally resided. Missouri is the only East team without a conference loss already this season, but the Tigers hardly look as strong as a year ago when they reached Atlanta.

"I don't think you can say anybody is a totally dominant team that's going to blaze a trail and kick everybody's rear ends," Georgia coach Mark Richt said. "Everybody's got a challenge. The home field may mean more this season than other seasons. We'll see how it goes."

South Carolina already has two conference losses with a road date at Auburn still looming, but the Gamecocks won the East with three losses in 2010 and aren't counting themselves out yet. Georgia lost to South Carolina but still controls its own fate in the East just a game behind Mizzou.

"There's a race to the Eastern division title and everyone is trying to figure out how they can get there," Richt said. "We lost our first one to South Carolina so basically we're two games behind them. If you lose to them head to head they have to have two losses for us to have any control over our destiny so yeah, (South Carolina's second loss) was important. It's early and a lot of things can happen but I'm watching what everybody is doing and trying to gauge what it's going to take to get back to Atlanta."

The only thing that seems certain is that whichever team prevails in the East, the odds of unseating the West are more stacked against it than ever.

vise. He extends plays with his feet, and extends them in the pocket to create throws down the field."

Hill only has five college starts under his belt and is coming off an occasionally rugged showing against the Razorbacks, in completing 21 of 41 passes. But he threw three of his four touchdown passes in the fourth quarter and overtime of the contest, and showed the kind of crunch-time moxie Manziel, now with the Cleveland Browns, had in the previous two seasons for A&M.

"With his demeanor, he never shows any panic, and I always feel like there's hope when you put him out there on the field," A&M offensive coordinator Jake Spavital said of Hill's response to adversity against Arkansas. "We had our ups and downs, but he was communicating well and there was no doubt in my mind in the (fourth quarter)."

With the comeback victory capped by a 25-yard touchdown strike to Kennedy in overtime, Hill kept his name in the Heisman race, and also offered a frank self-critique moving forward — with the next stop where Manziel, the 2012 Heisman winner, once offered up a Superman impersonation.

"I can't be fluctuating like that throughout a game," Hill said. "I have to stay on an even keel. ... I've got to be more accurate. Against different defensive looks we got in some bad situations with different things I was (changing plays to). I just have to be more accurate with the ball."

As for his Heisman candidacy nearly midway through the season, in trying to become A&M's third winner all time, and its second in three seasons?

"I'm not worried about that or thinking about that too much," Hill said.

College freshman encourages girls to embrace indepenence

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column often and find it deeply troubling when girls write you lamenting that they are "still single." I'm 18, in my freshman year of college and I have never dated. I'm perfectly OK with this.

I'm not writing to bash girls who are in high school relationships, but rather to show there's an alternative. Abby, please remind them that it's fully acceptable for us to spend our teenage years single if we prefer. No one should feel pressured into a relationship because "everyone else is dating."

Girlfriends, if you're not ready for dating, then focus on discovering your beliefs, your purpose and what your talents, passions and values are. If you choose to do it accompanied by a partner, that's fine. But if you prefer to journey alone or with your friends, that's JUST as valid. — INDEPENDENT IN RACINE, WIS.

DEAR INDEPENDENT: I agree! You are a self-confident, mature young woman, and you're delivering an important message to your contemporaries. I hope they'll give your message the consideration it deserves.

DEAR ABBY: I recently read an idea that I think should be shared with every parent in the world. You and your child/grandchild should establish a family password to be used if the child is ever approached by a stranger who says, "Your mother is sick and she asked me to come and get you." By asking for the password, the child throws the would-be kidnapper off guard, and the child has an opportunity to flee. — VIGILANT IN VIRGINIA

DEAR VIGILANT: That suggestion is one that appears on many child safety websites, and it's certainly worth mentioning here. I'm sure many parents and grandparents will thank you for submitting it.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 13-year-old girl in eighth grade, wrestling with a problem I never thought I'd have — a crush. I have liked "Garrison" for two years now. He's funny, sweet and cute, and he has stood up for me against bullies. We aren't in any classes this year, so I only see him in the halls.

I have no clue what to do, since I have never had a crush before and I'm not going to date yet. It hurts my heart. I know crushes are fleeting, but can you help me figure out what to do in the meantime? — CRUSHED BY CRUSHING IN TENNESSEE

DEAR CRUSHED: Your crush seems to be a young man with character, courage and self-confidence — because that's what it takes to stand up to bullies. Because he stood up for you, he already knows who you are. So when you see him in the hall, smile and say "Hi." That's not being pushy; it's being friendly. And if you're sitting around with an aching heart, I have a solution: Get up and get moving. Join a club, a sport, dance class or do some volunteering.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The stars show the kind of day you'll have: 5-dynamic; 4-positive; 3-average; 2-so-so; 1-difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Oct. 4, 2014:

This year your creativity surges to an unprecedented level. Others will notice this and seek you out to brainstorm and find the right answers or solutions. If you are single, you might funnel some of this energy into your love life. You also could be quite content dating and not want to commit just yet. If you are attached, the two of you often act like two naughty kids with a mischievous mission in mind. Refuse to become difficult when your sweetie challenges you or has a different opinion. AQUARIUS knows how to draw you into his or her world.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★ Emphasize what you want. Join your friends as soon as you can; they'll want you to appear as quickly as possible. People see you as a pathway to more excitement. You are an endless source of creative ideas. Tonight: Emphasize the importance of friendship.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★ You might not feel as if you have a choice when it comes to your plans, but you do. It's just that the potential for someone's strong reaction could have you worried. Any flak you receive will be irrelevant compared to the fun you're likely to have. Tonight: In the limelight.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★★ Keep reaching out to someone you care about. You might wonder why this person is being so elusive. Perhaps he or she is just too busy to really kick back and have a chat right now. Tonight: Let a loved one express his or her feelings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★★ A loved one or dear friend will invite you to join him or her. Tap into your ability to understand what is going on. Appreciate that this person trusts you so much and is willing to be so vulnerable. Tonight: Invite someone to join you for a leisurely dinner.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★ Defer to someone else. Your creativity and dynamic energy will attract an unusual amount of admirers as well as a lot of invitations. You could be quite content. Confirm meeting times and places with others. Tonight: Laugh at a misunderstanding.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★ Get into a project, and decide not to hold back. Screen calls and focus on carrying it to completion; you will feel great once you are done. Don't worry; you will find plenty to do. Resist withdrawing completely from a loved one. Tonight: If you feel tired, say so.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★ Your sense of humor merges with your mischievousness. Before you know it, you are off having a good time. You have a quality of always making the best of any situation, and others will reach out to you as a result. Tonight: Be as clear as possible.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★ You might be raining on your own parade and placing the blame on others. Your sense of humor won't be able to help you right now. Accept the fact that you need some downtime and perhaps a conversation with a key person. Tonight: Hang close to home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ You might want to reconsider a decision involving someone in your daily life. If you want to make amends, the time is now. You could be taken aback by this person's sudden willingness to have a long-overdue conversation. Tonight: At a favorite spot with favorite people.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★ Your financial instincts will be right-on. Follow them, especially if you want to buy a lottery ticket or get a gift for someone. You also might be taken aback by another person's extravagance, emotional or financial. Tonight: Make sure you are staying within your budget.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★ Your friendliness draws quite a few people toward you. In fact, you might be overwhelmed. Choose your words with care, especially if you are saying "no" to a request. Someone could make more of your statement than you had intended. Tonight: Be impulsive.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★ Your inner voice will point you in the right direction. Someone could react strongly at first, and you might have to explain where you are coming from. Do not let a misunderstanding develop. Incorporate your sense of humor. Tonight: Be discreet!

HAPPY ADS

Surprise your child, parent, or special friend with a Happy Ad!

We'll help you design something unique and publish it in the Midland Reporter-Telegram Classifieds...whatever the occasion!

Publish a special memorial to mark the passing of a loved one with an "In Memory Of" ad. Include a poem, prayer, and/or the names of all who care. Also, express your appreciation to everyone who brought food, sent flowers, or was there for you when you needed them most with a "Card of Thanks." We'll help you design a respectful, thoughtful ad.

Ads containing art or photos need to be in our office 2 working days before the ad is to be published and we ask that you pay in advance.

Ask the Guys

Dear Classified Guys,
I have a friend who makes little sense to me. I'm the type of guy who likes to look at all the options before choosing the best one. My friend, on the other hand, is the complete opposite. After his divorce, he needed a place to live and asked for my help. However the day before we planned to look for apartments, he saw a "For Rent" sign and signed a lease. Even though it was more than he planned on spending, he took it anyway and then complained for the next year about money. Now just a year later he's got a girlfriend and is moving in with her. They looked at only two apartments in the classifieds and rented the more expensive of the two. It's more than double the space they need and twice the rent. He asked my opinion, but I didn't know what to say. I think he continues to make mistakes due to his impulsive nature. How do I tell him that his new place is too much?

Cash: Look at the bright side. Your friend could be asking to move in with you instead. That could be an even bigger problem.

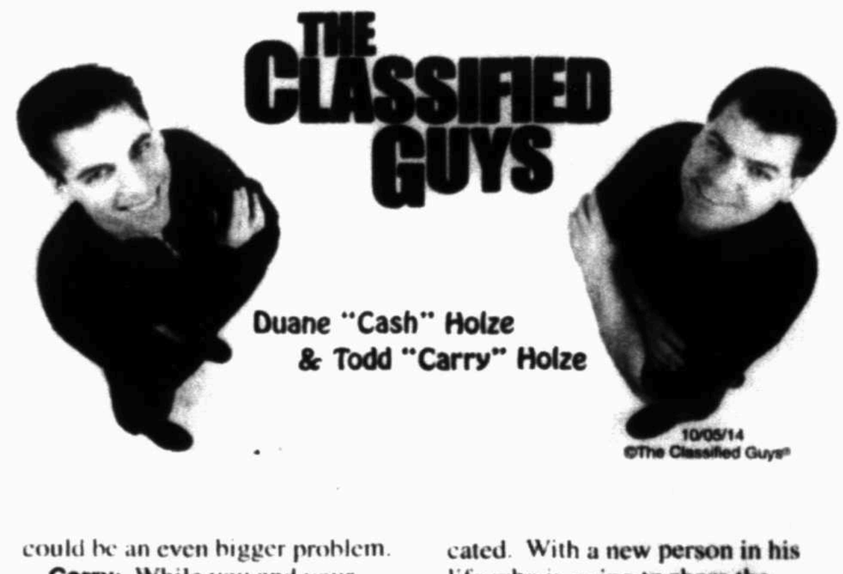
Carry: While you and your friend may get along well, it's clear the two of you have different views on how to accomplish the same task. While you may choose to review all of the options, your friend operates differently. He seems to be much more of a "shoot from the hip" type of guy.

Cash: There are other dynamics in his decision to consider as well. The first time he needed an apartment, he was in the midst of a divorce. It's quite possible that finding a place to settle was more important than the price.

Carry: Upon his latest search, the situation is once again complicated. With a new person in his life who is going to share the space with him, the final choice has to accommodate both of them.

Cash: When it comes to friends, like family, you have to accept them the way they are. However, if you truly feel your friend is headed down the wrong road with long-term consequences, then you should share your insight when he asks.

Carry: Otherwise, if your friend's apartment is too expensive or too big, then he'll learn that for himself soon enough. In the meantime, just hope you get invited over to enjoy the roomy new place.



Fast Facts

Room for Rent

New York City is home to some of the most expensive apartments in the world. Take the set of twin buildings on Central Park West for example. Facing the famous park, apartments in these buildings can list for well over $100 million dollars. Besides the full-time doorman, luxuries include use of a 20-seat private theatre, 20 wine cellars (sold separately), 29 staff suites (sold separately), room service, a private in-house chef, a fully stocked library and a health club with a 75-foot lap pool.

Going Up

Penthouse suites have long been associated with the rich or famous. However, that wasn't always the case. Until elevators were available around 1920, the penthouses were usually the least desirable place to live. The idea of walking up flights of stairs didn't appeal to the wealthy. The higher floors were typically reserved for storage or occupied by starving artists, servants and those strapped for cash. Today the top floors are sought after and can cost an extra 10% to 20% over other areas in the building.

Looking Up

My mom is the type of person who finds a bright side to everything. I asked her to help me look for an apartment since, in my price range, I could use some optimism.

The first place had a hole in the door where the peep hole used to be. Peering through, my mom commented, "Well at least you can see who's at the door."

The second place wasn't much better. The neighbor's music blasted through the walls. There was my mom again who said, "At least you won't need a stereo."

The last place was the nicest, and I was about to take it when a cockroach ran across my mom's shoe. However, instead of screaming, she just looked at me and said, "Oh look honey, they allow pets!"

(Thanks to Bill S.)
