Stevens Says Plenty Ammo On Hand Now

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Stevens told senators today the ammunition situation in Korea now is very sound. Supplies are "well up all along the line," he said.

He testified that on a recent trip to the front he found virtually all supplies at or above a 90-day level, which the Army considers safe for anything that might happen in that part of the world.

Stevens was called to report on current supplies in a Senate investigation aimed primarily at sifting charges that shortages had hampered Korean operations. The names of Gens. Douglas MacArthur and George Marshall had been brought into the hearings yesterday.

Stevens said it appeared to him the "problem is solved" to the point that the Far Eastern command now is cutting down on its orders for certain types of ammunition.

He added that the only two types of shells not yet up to the 90-day level were 81 mm mortars and 105 mm howitzers.

He said there was a 78-day supply of 81 mm mortar shells and a 72 day supply of 105 mm howitzer shells—and he expected both to reach the 90-day supply level shortly.

MacArthur's name figured in a Senate armed services subcommittee investigation with testimony that the onetime Far East commander and other top military and political leaders felt in 1950 the Korean War would be won with only six months more of fighting.

And Marshall, then secretary of defense, was said to have figured in a decision to slash ammunition funds sharply about the same time.

Witnesses said that because of a feeling the war would soon end there was no real effort to get ammunition production rolling until December, 1950—six months after the war began—after the Chinese Reds had entered the conflict.

Yesterday, Sen. Symington (D-Mo) told the subcommittee the civilian chiefs of the Defense Department slashed ammunition funds just before the Chinese Reds entered the war.

Symington said the Joint Chiefs of Staff had asked for two billion dollars, but their request was cut in half because the Pentagon's civilian officials thought the amount excessive.

Mitchell Oiler Produces From Strawn Sand

Wood No. 1 Dixon, Southeast Mitchell County wildcat, is now shutin to build tanks and lay flow lines and will take potential test as soon as that is done to complete the well as a discovery from the Strawn sand.

It is 467 feet from south and west lines of section 2-12-H&TC, 20 miles southeast of Colorado City and four miles northwest of Sun No. 1 McCabe, a recently - completed flowing discovery from Strawn sand.

This wildcat flowed a total of 50 barrels of oil in 36 hours from the perforated section in the Strawn sand at 6,234-254 feet, which had been fractured with 4,000 gallons of acid. It made no water during that 36 hours.

During the first 12 hours, it flowed 18 barrels through a 14-64th inch choke, then it flowed 22 barrels through a 15-64th inch choke during the next 12 hours and 10 barrels through the same choke during another 12 hours. No water developed during any of the flow. Gravity was estimated at 44 degrees. No gas volume measurement was taken, but the volume is enough to flow the well.

STONEWALL COUNTY

Sunray has temporarily abandoned its No. 1 Pat Mitchell, wildcat in West Stonewall County, 330 feet from south and east lines of section 213-D-H&TC.

DRILLING REPORT

Globe No. 1 Spires in Kent County topped the Pennsylvanian lime at 6,850 feet on an elevation of 2,233 feet. It drillstem tested at 6,850-860 feet with tool open two hours and recovered 300 feet gas cut drilling mud and 1,320 feet salt water with no shows of oil or gas. It is now drilling at 6,900 feet in lime and will drill to 7,500 feet unless it finds production above that depth.

Sunray No. 1 Mays, Central-South Kent wildcat, pumped 24 hours and made two and three-fourths barrels of oil and 63 barrels of water. It is still testing.

Sun No. 2 McCabe in Southeast Mitchell perforated casing in the Strawn sand at 5,900-910 feet and will fracture the interval with 2,000 gallons of acid and test.

Superior No. 9-580 Jones in the Fluvanna field of Northeast Borden County cut a core at 8,185-202 feet and receovered 17 feet material, which was 11 feet chert with fractures, stains and oil odor and six feet of highly-fractured chert with good stains and odor. It is now drillstem testing at 8,187-202 feet.

Vickers No. 1 Orson, West Borden wildcat, topped the Pennsylvanian lime at 8,546 feet on an elevation of 2,664 feet. It will drill a little deeper and drillstem test.

In Scurry, Hall No. 1 Huff is drilling at 4,365 feet in sand and lime.

In Mitchell, Magnolia No. 1 Walker is swabbing out load oil at 6,100 feet and recovered 17 feet mafracturing with 2,000 gallons of acid, Humble No. 1 Cooper is at 6,665 feet in shale, Humble No. 1 Trulock is still trying to straighten the hole at 1,022 feet, and Sohio No. 1 Yarbrough is at 5,450 feet in shale.

In Dawson, Vega & Universal No. 1 Fowler is at 8,019 feet in lime and shale shut down for repairs, and Sun No. 1 Dean is at 10,160 feet in shale, lime, and chert.

In Kent, Sun No. 1-A Anderson is at 4,122 feet in sand, Tidewater No. 1 Atkins is moving in rotary rig, and Green No. 1 Davis is at 3,920 feet in lime and shale.

In Borden, Green No. 1 Slaughter is drilling at 4,926 feet in lime.

T. M. Holmes Is Year's 1st Traffic Death

Truly Marion Holmes, 31, of 2311 Avenue H, became the countys' first traffic fatality of the year when he died at Battenfield Hospital at 10:30 o'clock last night of injuries suffered when his automobile overturned a mile south of Hermleigh about five hours earlier.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Bolger Funeral Home.

Witnesses said only one car was involved in the accident, which occurred on a curve of U. S. Highway 84, just south of Hermleigh. Skid marks indicated his car was traveling south and went out of control on the curve. He was taken to the hospital here by a Bolger ambulance.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Norma Dean Holmes; two daughters, Patricia and Judy; two sons, Truly Marion, Jr., and Douglas, a brother, O. L. Holmes, Jr., 2711 Avenue D; one sister, Mrs. Mary Payne, and his mother, Mrs. Edna Lisle, both of Beaumont, Kan.

Mr. Holmes had lived here about two years and was former manager of the Calico Cow, a drive-in restaurant on East Highway at Avenue F. He was born Dec. 4, 1921, at Denison. His wife said burial would probably be at Graham.

The accident resulted in the first traffic fatality in the county since Loy Alton Martin, 36, of Lindale, was killed in a collision on the Clairemont Road Christmas Eve. By this time last year, there had been four highway fatalities in the county. There were six during the entire year.

Man Who Stole $56 30 Years Ago, Pays It Back With Interest

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Thirty years ago this month the cash drawer of the Grund Hotel was rifled of $56.

The culprit left this note:

"I need the money awfully bad. For God's sake forgive me. You will get it back if I live."

The note was signed F. D. Coulter.

The promise of 30 years ago was fulfilled today. The Grund Hotel received a letter signed D. J. V. and a postal money order for $80. The envelope was plastered with stickers extolling the wonders of "Father Divine," Negro cult leader.

The writer explained he had been Coulter but was reborn under Divine's guidance and is now named David J. Victor.

ROAD CONFERENCE HERE

COMPROMISE BILL MAY PUSH STATE SPENDING

AUSTIN (AP)—The "compromise" appropriation bill being whipped into final shape today may exceed the amount of state spending originally proposed by either the House or Senate, a member of the conference committee said.

The lawmaker is one of 10 assigned by the House and Senate to try to iron out differences on how much to spend for essential state services the next two years.

He said the reason the compromise may involve a larger amount than the Senate's proposed 166.2 million dollars is that each house had voted for some spending not contemplated by the other house.

For instance, the Senate said it wanted to increase state employes' salaries 10 per cent; the House bill provided for no general increase. The House voted to increase the appropriation for junior colleges $1,400,000; that wasn't in the Senate version.

The Senate voted to spend more than two million dollars for a permanent tuberculosis hospital building at Tyler; that was not in the House bill.

The conference committee was working today while the House and Senate were enjoying their usual week-end layoff.

Sessions of the committee remained secret, but some members talked freely about progress toward final agreement—with the understanding they would not be quoted by name.

One member said it was "impossible" that the original Senate bill included a 10 per cent increase for state employes as was reported at the time of Senate passage.

"The Senate version couldn't possibly have been that close to the House total if it carried a 10 per cent raise for state workers," he said.

The House originally voted to spend 160.6 million dollars, roughly 5½ million less than the Senate suggested.

A committeeman reported a fight was still being waged late yesterday to provide funds for buildings at Southwestern Medical School in Dallas and M. D. Anderson Cancer Research Hospital in Houston. He said the chances of those institutions were "dim."

Another report which leaked out from the closed committee meetings said the House increase for junior colleges had been cut almost in half.

Sen. Ottis Lock, Lufkin, chairman of the Senate panel, and Rep. Max Smith, San Marcos, leader of the House group, were hopeful final, mimeographed versions of the compromise would be on desks of senators and representatives by tomorrow.

No Changes In Bracero Pact

MEXICO CITY (AP)—U. S. and Mexican negotiations on the bracero (farm labor) treaty ended yesterday. No major changes resulted.

The Foreign Ministry said the discussions that began March 25 were amicable and satisfactory, although neither side won any of their major demands.

The treaty was not subject to change, as it has until Dec. 31 to run. The current sessions were called mainly to clarify several controversial points.

MAJOR ISSUES

Major issues were wages, insurance and contract renewals affecting the 250,000 or so Mexican laborers who will work legally in the U. S. this year.

Mexico wanted these things:

1. Revision upward of the "prevailing wage" paid Mexicans, if wages, for any reason, increase in the area where they are working.

2. All Mexican workers be covered by insurance from the time they enter the U. S. until they leave. They are covered now only while working.

3. Any shift of workers from one job to another be confirmed in writing by a Mexican consul.

Cooler Here Yesterday

The temperature dropped to a low of 46 degrees last night and was still there at 7:30 o'clock this morning, according to Mrs. D. P. Strayhorn, official weather observer. The high yesterday was 80 degrees, she said.

Free Nations Warned To Keep Guard Up Against Russians

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The U S warned the free world today against abandoning its policy of strength and unity because of conciliatory gestures from the Kremlin

Ernest Gross of the U. S. told the Political Committee it was the West's very policy of strength and unity which had brought about such gestures and that eventually it would oblige Russia to change its policies completely.

"Most of us feel the time will come when the Soviet government will find it necessary to modify its policy. If so it will be because of our policy of strength and unity. We must not abandon that strength," he declared.

Gross deplored reintroduction of an omnibus Polish peace package and said that the U.N. has already rejected all major points in it. He specifically regretted the bringing up of the Korean problem here at this time.

"No resolution on Korea is necessary or desirable at this time," he declared. "We must avoid any action which might jeopardize the talks at Panmunjom."

A speech by Andrei Vishinsky, the chief Soviet delegate, had blasted hopes yesterday of a broad Kremlin move for amity with the West. Gross called the utterance "stale, dull and regressive."

In his address yesterday the Soviet diplomat outlined what he believed to be the proper steps to world peace.

Hall Unanimously Elected To Be Leader Of Republican Party

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican National Committee unanimously elected former Rep. Leonard Hall of New York today as its national chairman.

The committee accepted, with expressions of regret, the resignation of Wesley Roberts of Kansas. It gave voice approval of a resolution expressing deep appreciation for Roberts' work and praising him as a "friend of integrity whom we hold in high esteem."

Roberts resigned after a Kansas legislative committee held he had violated the spirit of a state anti-lobbying act by accepting a fee in connection with the sale of a hospital to the state in 1951. He had no official Republican Party position at the time.

Hall got the approval yesterday of President Eisenhower, vice pesident Nixon and Senate and House party leaders.

Hall's election put the 52-year-old New York judge at the helm of the party for what speakers described as the critical congressional campaign in 1954.

Coincident with the election the Democratic National Committee issued a statement asserting that the new chairman had established a voting record in the House of Representatives "in direct opposition to the publicly stated views of President Eisenhower." The Democrats cited, as examples, a 1952 vote by Hall to cut two billion dollars off foreign aid funds, his 1948 vote against extension of the reciprocal trade agreement program and a 1950 vote to kill federal rent control.

Besides the expected criticism from the Democrats, Hall faces the need to raise money for a party described by some of its members as financially broke despite its presidential election victory last fall.

In a statement Roberts predicted that the GOP will increase its slim margins in the Senate and House in the 1954 elections.

The new administration, Roberts declared, "has been handicapped in taking over actual operative control of government as a consequence of the ingenious and surreptitious devices by which the Democrats violated the concepts of civil service by packing the civil service lists, at top level, with political patronage ..."

Nevertheless, he added, "no man has ever taken command and done more in so short a space of time" as Eisenhower.

Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, said one of Hall's first jobs apparently will have to be to help get a fund raising campaign under way.

The Ohio senator, one of those who approved Hall's selection, said he hopes the new chairman picks a Western man as his executive assistant. The name of Wayne Hood, Wisconsin state chairman, was mentioned by some other party members in this connection.

Hall's election seemed likely to inspire a Democratic blast at his record of voting in Congress. The New Yorker traveled on Eisenhower's presidential campaign train and is reported generally in accord with the President's views on major issues.

Democrats already were firing away at Republican claims that they are trimming federal expenses, have stopped the drop in farm prices, are cleaning up subversives in the government and have taken strong steps in foreign policy in their 75 days in office.

Agreement On Starting Exchange Of Prisoners On April 21 Is Reached

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday (AP)—The Communists agreed Friday to trade sick and wounded prisoners beginning about April 21, then proposed resumption of the long-stalled armistice negotiations.

Both sides were expected to sign today the agreement calling for the exchange of 5,800 ailing Reds for 600 Allied prisoners, of which 120 are Americans.

But in calling for a return to the armistice table, the Communist officers gave no sign of yielding on the principle of forced repatriation of some 50,000 prisoners who balk at returning to Red rule. It was allied refusal to return such prisoners that ruptured the negotiations Oct. 8.

Communist officers, proposing the resumption, declared "the principle of repatriation of all prisoners of war" after an armistice "is unshakeable."

And the Communists reiterated that "the Korean-Chinese side does not acknowlege that there are prisoners of war who are allegedly unwilling to be repatriated."

The Communists' proposal, which they called "very important," was in reply to a letter April 5 from Gen. Mark Clark, the United Nations Far East commander.

Clark had asked for more details of the compromise plan for an armistice which was proposed March 30 by Premier Chou En-Lai of Communist China.

Actually, the Communist reply was mainly a restatement of Chou's proposal except to make even clearer that the Reds by persuasion, or other means, expect to bring back all balky Chinese and North Koreans.

The letter to Clark, from Gen. Nam Il, senior Communist negotiator, restated Chou's three main points:

Let all prisoners go home who chose to return.

Turn over to a neutral country all prisoners who are listed as not wanting to return to their homelands.

Let the Communists give "explanations" to prisoners "afraid" to return home.

Under the pact, the Communists said they would send home 120 Americans; 20 British, 15 French, Turks, Canadians, Greeks and Dutch and about 450 South Koreans at the rate of 100 daily.

The Allies agreed to hand over 5,100 North Koreans and 700 Chinese at the rate of 500 daily.

The Communist move to resume full-scale truce talks—deadlocked for a year and suspended since Oct. 8 over prisoner exchange—came in a "very important" letter delivered at Panmunjom.

It was addressed to the chief Allied negotiator, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., from the head of the Red delegation, North Korean Gen. Nam Il. Harrison is in Tokyo.

Contents of the letter were not disclosed.

Kent, Dickens Representatives Get Scurry Support On Road

Representatives of Kent and Dickens Counties met with the highway committee of the chamber of commerce and with County Judge Edgar Taylor this morning and asked the support of Snyder and Scurry County in a proposed highway from Clairemont to Spur.

The new road, along with a new road to be built from Turkey north to connect with Highway 70 into Clarendon, would give Snyder and other points near here a more direct route to Amarillo and points north, the Kent and Dickens delegation said.

The group has a meeting scheduled with the State Highway Commission for April 22, in which they will ask for the 19-mile road, 17 miles of which would be in Kent County and the remaining two miles in Dickens.

John Montgomery, Kent County judge and spokesman for the Kent group, said his main interest is to help the residents of the northwest part of Kent County, who are not now served by an improved road. He added that it could also be used by the oil industry. Many businesses working in the oil fields now travel north from Snyder to Kent, Dickens, Stonewall, King, and Motley Counties and could use such a road, he said.

H. L. Hindman, manager of the Spur Chamber of Commerce, said the groups had already talked with Jake Roberts of Abilene, district highway engineer, and Marshall Formby of Hereford, state highway commissioner, and that both favor the project and are sure it will be granted. Formby was Dickens County judge in 1940 when the groups attempted once before to have a highway built from Spur to Snyder, one of the representatives said.

The group asked for the support of the chamber of commerce and of the county in asking for the road. The chamber's support was pledged, and Herbert Feather, president, said the executive committee will consider sending a representative to the Austin meeting. Judge Taylor said he will probably attend the meeting, along with any of the commissioners who will go.

The road from Snyder north to the Kent County line is now paved, as is the road from near Clairemont south to the Double Mountain fork of the Brazos River. Montgomery said the new bridge across the Double Mountain is completed and now in use and that work will be completed in the near future on a strip of paving from there south to the Scurry line to complete the Snyder - Clairemont paved road.

Opponents Of Tidelands Bill Receive Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Potter (R-Mich) lashed out today at "demagogues who are using education in general, and teachers in particular, as tools" to gain support for federal control of oil-rich offshore submerged lands.

"I shall bitterly oppose those demagogues," Potter said in the sixth day of Senate debate. The legislation would establish state ownership of lands beneath the marginal seas within state boundaries.

Potter's remarks were directed at an amendment proposed by Sen. Hill (D-Ala) and others. The proposal would use federal revenues from the offshore resources to finance a system of federal aid to the states for schools.

"I am not impressed," Potter said, "by those who argue that the passage of this (state ownership) bill would favor three states at the exclusion of others, nor am I disturbed by those who argue that federal ownership is necessary to the best interests of our national defense."

Argument Over Hair Is Fatal

CLEVELAND (AP) — A father killed his wife and wounded his teen-age daughter early today in an argument over bobbed hair, police said.

Mrs. Angelina Falletta, 60, was dead with a bullet through her head when police arrived. Patrolmen were hunting her husband, Peter, 60, an unemployed painter.

Wounded in the left side was Sarah Falletta, 16, who told police the trouble started when she got a "boyish bob" two weeks ago. So bitter were the arguments about that, she added, that she ran away from home and stayed with a friend until Easter.

Sarah said he heard her father and mother arguing today — the father asserting a girl with bobbed hair did not deserve an insurance policy.

Sarah said she telephoned police and "my father came into the room just as I was hanging up the receiver then he shot me because I called the police.

"As soon as I was hit I fell to the floor and played dead so he wouldn't shoot me again. Then he ran out of the house and disappeared."

Beaten Girl Improved; Stepmother Is Free Under $10,000 Bond

GALVESTON (AP)—A little girl allegedly beaten unconscious with a belt Monday showed slight improvement today. Attendants said Jewel Kelley, 10, of Texas City was still in a critical condition.

Her stepmother, Mrs. Frances Kelley, 36, was released under $10,000 bond yesterday on charges of assault with intent to murder. A hearing was continued until the girl can testify.

In related action, the legal custody of two other children of B. K Kelley, employe at the Texas City Chemical Co., was given to the county welfare unit yesterday. Jewel and the other two children, a girl, 9, and a boy, 13, were by a previous marriage.

Peron Shakes Up Party, In Great Crisis

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Col. Domingo Mercante, once a trusted friend of President Juan Peron and his late wife, Eva, was ousted from the Peronista Party today on charges of being a rumor monger. Seven former members of Congress were similarly removed.

This action followed the suicide yesterday of Juan Duarte, brother of Eva and Peron's private secretary until he resigned Monday. The news of Duarte's action created a sensation in Argentina, which has an economic crisis caused by rocketing living costs.

The party's action against Mercante, came after vehement charges by Peron that a "rumor campaign" was being waged against his administration. Peron declared such a campaign could not overthrow him.

Murder Conviction Is Returned In San Angelo

SAN ANGELO (AP)—Rudolph Martinez, 43, faced life imprisonment today after conviction of murder with malice in the shooting of his daughter.

A jury took three hours and 55 minutes yesterday to agree in the case. The former Wichita Falls dry-cleaning plant employe was charged with the slaying of his daughter, Dora, 18, on a rural road near here last June.

Border Patrol Loses Air Arm In Republican Economy Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration has decided to wipe out the 11-plane air patrol now being used to guard the nation's borders against illegal immigrants.

The decision became known with the release of recent Justice Department testimony before the Sen-Appropriations Committe on a department money bill.

Several senators expressed concern and an Immigration Service official testified he was "astounded" by the action.

This official, Willard Kelly, an assistant immigration commissioner, told the committee that "to wipe out our entire air patrol which is so vital to many of our border patrol operations is simply incomprehensible."

Sen. Smith (R-Me) said she was worried about it "because of our long wooded border between Maine and Canada."

Immigration Service officials said the action "was specified by representatives of the Bureau of the Budget" as an economy move. The Budget Bureau is an arm of the White House.

Kelly testified the Border Patrol is faced every year "with appalling numbers of aliens illegally in the United States." A. R. Mackey, the immigration commissioner, said "it amounts to an invasion."

They told the committee that total aliens expelled from this country amounted to 686,713 in the 1951 fiscal year and went up to 723,956 last year.

Kelly said more than 90 per cent of these would be Mexican wetbacks.

Commenting on the wetbacks, Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) said:

"We might just as well face this thing realistically. The agricultural people, the farmers along this side of the border, in California, in Arizona, New Mexico, in Texas, in other states, I don't know about Louisiana, want this help. They want this farm labor. They just cannot get along without it They do not know what they would do if they did not have it."

Differences With Allies Will Cause Trouble In Far East

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States seems to be heading into a new period of trouble and controversy over critical Far Eastern issues.

Some authorities think that is one reason the Communists have shown such interest in renewing talks about peace in Korea—that they hope to create a situation in which they can exploit differences of view within the U. S. and between the U. S. and its allies.

The situation was pointed up by a dispute over published reports on decisions made or under study concerning the future of Korea and Formosa in event a Korean truce is arranged.

The White House denied yesterday that the Eisenhower administration has given any "consideration" to a United Nations trusteeship for Formosa. It also said no policy had been formed on getting a permanent peace line in Korea at the narrow point of the peninsula about 80 miles north of the present battle line.

But there was no denial that problems of grave import, in significance reaching beyond Formosa and Korea, are being posed by the Red peace offensive as applied to the Far East.

On the contrary, authoritative officials recognize that, if and when the U. S. joins in a conference to make a permanent Korean peace and perhaps a broader Far Eastern settlement, it will face troubles with friend and foe alike.

Some consideration already is being given to the major issues. they include:

1. If there is peace in Korea, what attitude should the U. S. take toward the two sets of Chinese rulers—the Communists on the mainland and Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa? The possibility of eventually coming to terms with the Reds has not been excluded from the thinking of some key officials—especially if Peiping indicates a Titoist tendency to break away from Soviet control. There has been some talk about the possibility of treating Formosa as independent. But Chiang has committed himself to re-conquer the mainland and he has had powerful support in the U. S.

2. If the Chinese Reds prove loyal to Moscow but seek to develop friendship with such countries as Britain and India, should the U.S. give Chiang all-out backing at virtually any cost? The British, Indians and various other friendly governments recognize the Chinese Communists, not the Nationalists. In the past they have appeared far more ready than the U. S. to do business with the Reds, particularly India.

3. How far should peace in Korea be used to support demands for peace in Indochina, which the Eisenhower administration has treated as part of the same Far Eastern pattern?

4. In Korea itself what kind of terms should be insisted upon for a peace settlement—as opposed to a military truce? The official United Nations policy is to seek unification of all Korea. It seems likely that initially the U. S. would go into negotiations maintaining that policy. But if the Reds will have none of it, some responsible persons believe this country could and should consider a more limited territory for the anti-Communist government of South Korea.

Operation Is Performed On Chapman Baby

A major operation for a stomach obstruction was performed Saturday on Vikki Rene Chapman, six-week-old daughter of S-Sgt. and Mrs. Durwood T. Chapman, at Webb Air Force Base in Big Spring where he is stationed.

The infant is reported by its grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Chapman, 806 Twenty - seventh Street, to be recovering satisfactorily and is expected to be dismissed from the hospital soon.

The grandparents said that only one baby in 2,004 have the type of ailment that Vikki Rene had. They described it as a tumor where the stomach empties into the intestines. The tumor had a small opening for the passage of food, but as the baby reached the age of four to six weeks, the passage closed. This caused all food takep in to come back up.

They said that after the baby was X-rayed and fluoroscoped she was "dehydrated." She then went into schock and was fed through the veins in each side of her head. Liquids were given through eleven places in her body by large needles inserted under the skin.

The operation took one and one-half hours. She was given a blood transfusion afterward, they said.

Mr. and Mrs. Craven Martin and children, 3170 Highland Drive, have returned from Dallas where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Harley Blakely, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gregory and Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Martin.

Doctors Say Ambulance Drivers Go Too Fast

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Do ambulances go too fast?

Some doctors think so and have brought the subject before the Duval County Medical Society.

"Only 4.2 per cent of all ambulance patients transported might possibly be called emergencies," Dr. L. L. Parks said in the report of a survey. And, he added:

"It is believed that if the ambulances were required to observe normal speed limits and not be permitted to break red lights or use sirens, the number of lives lost by observing normal traffic regulations probably would not be more than the number of people injured and killed at the present time by speeding ambulances."

Real Wedding Present From Italian Police

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—"Let me tell you what happened on my wedding night," said Alfonso Mazzarella, 21, of New York.

"I was just going to bed when there came a rapping on the door.

"'Who is it?' I asked.

"'Friends,' someone answered.

"'I'm not in for friends tonight,' I replied.

"'Well, open up anyway,' the voice ordered. "This the police.'"

So Anthony, who came to Italy from New York to get married and has only 17 days to get back for induction into the U. S. Army, was taken into custody for the Italian Army, which also is breathing down his neck. He and his bride, 22, from his old hometown in Italy had come to Florence for a honeymoon after being married in Rome Wednesday.

Alfonso said the police came in and kept an eye on him while he dressed, protesting vigorously. They took him to police headquarters and charged him with failure to report for compulsory military training under Italian law.

He told them he had not been in Italy for six years, and showed them his American passport—which police confiscated. He is "mighty worried" that unless police let him leave the country soon, he'll be in trouble with the American Army, too.

His bride is worried, too. She is Graziella Russo, the little girl who used to live next door when Alfonso and his family lived in Sicily.

"Since we got marred last Wednesday," she said, "I haven't been able to sleep. I've been crying all the time. I'm so terribly frightened."

Although rains in London probably are more frequent than in most parts of the United States, the quantity of precipitation is less because it comes in frequent drizzles.

Storm Kills 2 In Midwest

(By The Associated Press)

Early spring wind and rain storms spread into the East and South today after sweeping across Illinois and Indiana Thursday night, killing two persons and injuring 30.

The storms lessened in severity as they moved into Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Western New York, Pennsylvania and the Central Appalachians.

Small tornadoes skipped across East Central Illinois and Indiana to the Ohio border. The twisters flattened houses and trees in several small communities and rural areas in both states.

The area near Albany, Ind., 12 miles northeast of Muncie, appeared the hardest hit. Mrs. Stella Green, 47, and her son, Arnold, 10, were killed when their small frame home was demolished. Three others in the family were injured. A dozen other persons in Albany were injured.

Eight persons were hurt in the tornado which struck north of Danville, Ill., while two others were injured as tornadic winds hit Lincoln, Ill.

The strong winds and tornadoes were accompanied by heavy rain and by hail in some places. The twisters were part of a fast-moving storm which developed in the Central Plains states and extended over the Great Lake region, Ohio Valley and Upper Mississippi Valley.

Strong winds continued today throughout the Great Lakes region and the Upper Mississippi Valley with considerably colder air sweeping in from the West and North across the mid-continent. Rain fell in much of Michigan and Wisconsin while snow was reported in Minnesota and the Dakotas. Storm warnings have been posted on all the Great Lakes.

Showers hit the South Atlantic States and Lower Mississippi Valley.

Espionage Ring In West Germany Hit

BONN, Germany, (AP)—West German police reported today they had smashed an industrial espionage ring working for the Eastern Communists in West German industrial plants.

Unofficial reports said 20 persons had been arrested.

Federal police here said the spy ring was financed by unnamed Eastern powers.

It was believed the suspects also were involved in illegal shipments of strategic materials to Eastern sources.

The police action was taken under the act for protection of the constitution and followed widespread search raids.

EATING WITH SNYDERITES

Refreshments For Large Group Are Real Surprises

Mrs. R. L. Hock who lives on the Big Spring Highway serves punch and salad wafers with spreads to Girl Scout Troop No. 12 when they call at her home.

The raisin spread was obtained about 15 years ago but is still a favorite in the Hock household. However, Mrs. Hock cautioned that because of its unusualness it should not be served very often.

PARTY PUNCH

2 cups strong tea
5 or 6 whole cloves
2 or 3 cups sugar
4 cups orange juice
1½ cups lemon juice
1 quart grape juice
2 quarts water
1 quart ginger ale

The tea should be brewed with the cloves. Before serving add 1 package of frozen strawberries to the mixture. Serves 50 to 60 persons.

RAISIN NUT AND LEMON SANDWICHES

2 cups raisins
1 cup pecans
juice of 1 lemon

Grind nutmeats and raisins together, and add lemon juice. The recipe will make ample spread for 5 or 6 dozen wafers.

Another spread she serves for variety at social events is made primarily of cheese.

PIMENTO CHEESE SANDWICH FILLING

1 pound cream cheese
2 eggs
8 small, sweet pickles
1 small can pimentos
mayonnaise

Grate cheese and mash together with hard boiled eggs. Add chopped pickles and pimentoes. Mix in enough mayonnaise to spread easily.

I have been making several angel food cakes each week to sell, and I've run out of ways to use the egg yolks. We've had scrambled eggs and custards galore. Any suggestions for making use of the yolks? H. E.

If you like rice, this Caramel Rice Cake would be a good recipe in which to use the yolks. You will need the following ingredients:

1½ cups uncooked rice
4 cups milk.
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
4 egg yolks
4 teaspoons melted butter
2-3 cup sugar

Cook rice three minutes in 3 cups of boiling water; drain. Mix rice, milk and vanilla extract, place in covered baking dish and bake 1 hour at 350 F., without stirring. Beat egg yolks in bowl until creamy; add butter and sugar. Mix with rice, breaking up grains thoroughly. For the sauce, melt ½ cup sugar in a loaf pan, stirring constantly over low heat until sugar turns a golden color. Tilt pan frequently to coat thoroughly with sauce. Then spoon rice into pan, packing well. Set in a larger pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven for 30 minutes or until cake is firm and lightly browned. Cool in pan, unmold on serving dish. Serve with light cream or more caramel sauce.

Could you tell me the area of Scurry County ? Also I would like to know if this county was the leader in oil production in 1950. Mrs. L.

Scurry County is composed of 909 square miles. No, the county was not the highest ranking oil producing county in 1950. It was third-ranking among Texas counties.

THE ADVENTURES OF PATSY

Worst Team Beats Best One In Loop

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates, probably some of the most harmless Buccaneers ever to hoist the skull and crossbones, were enjoying a hearty laugh today after meeting and conquering the vaunted New York Yankees.

They not only conquered the world champions, they humiliated them in what one New York writer was moved to describe as a battle between the worst and best major league teams without being able to tell which was which.

The score at Forbes Field was 10-5 with eight fat Pittsburgh runs coming off the high priced slants of Vic Raschi, one of the prides of the Yankees.

The Athletics pitted their best against their intercity rivals' best at Portsmouth, Va., yesterday and came out on the short end as Robin Roberts pitched a five hit shutout for the Phillies and won, 4-0. Bobby Shantz gave up only two hits and struck out seven in the five innings he worked for the Athletics but he gave up the first of the Phils runs and was charged with the loss.

The new Milwaukee Braves got in only two innings against their former city rivals, the Boston Red Sox, and were trailing, 3-0, when a heavy drizzle put an end to the proceedings at Milwaukee.

Cincinnati, which announced yesterday that it intended to be called the Redlegs instead of the Reds this season, belted five home runs off Ned Garver and defeated Detroit, 13-3, at Columbus, Ohio.

At Kingsport, Tenn., the New York Giants picked on the offerings of Bobby Feller for seven runs in the first six innings and outlasted the Cleveland Indians, 7-6.

Against Southern Association opposition the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Memphis Chicks, 12-5, and the Chicago White Sox blanked Atlanta, 7-0.

In a night game the Brooklyn Dodgers committed four errors as they lost their seoond straight to the Senators at Washington, 6-4.

The St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox called off their game in Kansas City because of wet grounds and cold weather.

Brown Tryout Camp

GRAND PRAIRIE (AP)—The St. Louis Browns will hold a baseball trout camp here tomorrow and Sunday—their first of four scheduled for this season in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Jim Russo, Browns' southwestern scout, will conduct the camps.

Tiger Exes In 56-26 Victory

Exes of the Tiger basketball team downed the 1953-54 team last night in a match 56-26.

The game ended spring training, which has been conducted for the last three weeks by Coach Gene Gibson.

The exes beat the future team last week, but by a very small margin. They led last night's game throughout the playing time, with little trouble.

The exes led 16-3 at the end of the first period, 26-12 at the half, and 46-18 at the end of the third quarter.

Bobby Shipley led play for the exes with 15 points, followed by Bill Boyd with 12 and Joe Cargile with 11.

High scorer for the 1954 team was Jimmy Bennett with 6, while Ray Courtney tallied five and David Gist got four.

Babe Keeping Calm In Tests

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias kept the traditional "stiff upper lip" today as physicians continued tests to determine the malady that threatens to end her great athletic career.

The famed woman golfer quit a tour after examination by a physician at Ft. Worth revealed a serious condition. She came back to Beaumont, where she got her start toward fame as the world's outstanding woman athlete of the halftered a hospital yesterday.

"I feel fine and dandy and I think I could play some golf," she told a sports writer. But when she was asked what her malady was she referred him to her husband, former wrestler George Zaharias.

Zaharias said they wouldn't know until tests have been made. An announcement is expected by tomorrow.

Mrs. Zaharias, voted the outstanding woman athlete fo the halfcentury in an Associated Press poll, had won a golf tournament here Sunday. She took first money in the Babe Zahraias Open, a tournament named in her honor.

Houston Tennis Win

HOUSTON (AP)—The University of Houston defeated Oklahoma A&M, 5-1, here yesterday in a Missouri Valley Conference tennis match.

Ernie Lombardi (above), two-time former National League batting champion, was found in Oakland, Calif., with his throat slashed from ear to ear. His wife Bernice and two deputy sheriffs said Lombardi resisted their first attempt to rush him to a hospital. Highland Hospital authorities said they did not expect the ex-major league catcher to live. Mrs. Lombardi said her husband had been despondent and had threatened to take his life.

Lombardi Had Great Moments

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The news from California that big, simple Ernie Lombardi decided life no longer was worth living has saddened all who knew the "Schnozz" during his many years as one of baseball's great catchers with Cincinnati, the Boston Braves and the New York Giants.

The huge man who lumbered mightily getting down to first, but who hit the ball so hard that it usually didn't matter, never made anything but friends in his long, quiet stay in the majors. He was the fellow who lent money to teammates just before payday and who caddied for them when they golfed.

Much has and will be written about the incident in the 1939 World Series when a thundering herd of New York Yankees ran over and trampled Lom at home plate. Not so well known is the fact that not one of the big man's Cincinnati teammates mentioned it to him in the clubhouse after the game (we were there) or ever afterward. He looked like a stricken water buffalo as he sat looking at the floor.

There were many things that set Big Lom apart and made him one of the game's more colorful figures. He was, for example the only successful big leaguer we ever heard of who gripped his bat with an interlocking grip, the same as golfers do, with his little and first fingers entwined.

While Lom's chief claim to fame will rest in his batting record, he also was a good man behind the plate. That he knew how to handle pitchers is attested by the fact that such noted flingers as Derringer, Bucky Walters and Johnny Vandermeer reached their peak while he was their big, unyielding target at Cincinnati. He had such a fine throwing arm that they thought of converting him into a pitcher during his first year up.

Lom was always a favorite of the writers in the National League. If they took great glee in recounting how he had stretched a double into a single, they also had solid respect for him both as a person and as a hitter. In 1938 he became the first Cincinnati player ever to win the most valuable award receiving 239 points of a possible 336 from the 24 writers who participated in the balloting.

Negroes Spark Texas League Opening Games

(By The Associated Press)

The Texas League opening will be completed tonight when San Antonio and Beaumont clash at Beaumont. The six other clubs, having gotten in their first licks, are interested onlookers only.

Negro stars stood out in opening games Thursday night, furnishing the punch that won two of the three contests.

Buzz Clarkson, Dallas Negro third baseman, lashed a three-run homer that put his team back in the ball game and enabled it to go on to a 5-4 victory over Fort Worth. Al Stringer drove in the winning run in the ninth with a single.

Charles Harmon, first Negro ever to play for Tulsa, singled in two runs in the third inning and that was the margin as the Oilers whipped Oklahoma City, 2-0. Ed Varlhely limited Oklahoma City to two hits.

At Houston, Shreveport's defending league champions eased to a 3-1 victory on the steady pitching of Hugh Sooter. The Sport righthander was nicked for nine hits but tightened up when the going got rough.

The first three games drew 22,658, a couple of thousand more than had been predicted. Dallas had 9,598 to take a long lead in the race for the opening day attendance trophy. Houston attracted 8,560. Tulsa drew 4,500, which was almost 1,000 under last year's opener. But Dallas and Houston combined were more than 4,000 ahead of 1952.

There are five more games to play before the first round of openers is completed. After tonight's San Antonio-Beaumont contest, expected to draw around 8,000, the clubs play the same stands tomorrow night.

Kansas Relay Records Are In Danger Of Being Broken Soon

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—No Kansas Relays' discus-thrower ever has threatened the record of 171 feet 6¾ inches Indiana's Archie Harris erected here 12 years ago. But the 28th games likely will produce a jeopardizer in the towering form of Texas A&M's Darrow Hooper.

The sinewy Cadet will come into Memorial Stadium April 18 aiming at the first relays' discus-shot put triple crown in history. Beyond that he poses a genuine threat to Harris' standard.

Last May Hooper broke the Southwest Conference mark on his Aggie predecessor, George Kadera, with a scale of 170-0. He already has launched throws of 165-1 and 168-9 this year in winning the dual Border Olympics at Laredo and an A&M-Texas dual last Saturday in Corpus Christi.

No other standard on the relays' books has withstood the assaults of such notable specialists. Neither Fortune Gordien, the current listed world record-holder, nor his teammate, Bob Fiftch, present American standard-bearer, could knock it over. Neither could Kadera, nor Byrl Thompson, another Gopher standout of recent years.

Hooper's two previous winning marks fell into the usual relays' levels, 145-5¼ in 1951 and 152-8¼ last year.

Hooper should not be bothered by doubling in the shot. He is unbeaten in both this season. He pushed the iron bulb beyond 54-0 on both the occasions of his lengthy discus heaves this spring. And something in that neighborhood will be good enough to win the 16-pound title here.

There will be four other creditable platter-men from the Southwest here to scrap for the place and show spots. This roster includes Nick Spillios, Houston; Jim Samuelson, Texas; Ray Burrus, West Texas State, and Bobby Gross, Texas A&M.

Playoffs Start In Tournament

NEW YORK (AP)—Minneapolis can wrap up its second straight National Basketball Association playoff title at the expense of New York tonight—and the Knicks are still seeking a formula to stop the Lakers in this "must" game.

New York started the current playoffs with a victory but has been unable to click since then as the defending champions rolled up three wins—the last two on the 69th Regiment Armory floor here.

Should the Knicks triumph, games are scheduled in Minneapolis Sunday and Wednesday, as needed.

Coach Joe Lapchick's strategy includes a lineup shuffle in which Ernie Vandeweghe is slated to start in place of Dick McGuire.

Johnny Kundla, Laker coach is counting on his usual combination to provide the deciding victory.

Big George Mikan, who hit 27 points Wednesday and who has been a thorn in the side of the Knicks throughout the series, is counted on heavily along with Jim Pollard, Vern Mikkelsen, Slater Martin and Pep Saul.

Casting Contest Is Set For April 25-26

DALLAS (AP)—The fifth annual Southwest Sports Show Casting Tournament here April 25 and 26 will set a record for entries, Cecil Cartwright, president of the Dallas Anglers Club said today.

The Anglers Club stages the tournament for the Dallas Morning News, sponsor of the meet and the annual sports show by the same name, which runs from April 17-26. All trophies and chevrons, more than 100, are contributed by the News.

There are eight events on the lengthy program. Casters from throughout Texas and from Oklahoma and Louisiana have already entered.

The feature of the tournament is an all-star event in which the ten top contestants in the ⅜-ounce accuracy plug event meet on two teams for the tourney championship.

Harbert Leads Masters, Snead Card Had Mistake Of 1 Stroke

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Chick Harbert, who has 35 years of golf behind him at the age of 38, hopes he can win the 17th Masters Tournament and at long last break into the inner circle of golf champions.

In 14 years as a professional, the World War II Air Force veteran has been in the almost-but-not quite category when it came to the big ones.

The brawny Detroit pro, an all-around athlete in high school and college, shot an early four-under par 68 in yesterday's opening round and sweated it out all day as favorites such as Sam Snead, Ben Hogan and Lloyd Mangrum tried to overtake him.

He held a one-stroke lead at the start of today's second round. Tied for second with 69s were Ed (Porky) Oliver and tall Al Besselink, who like Harbert are long off the tee and always dangerous contenders.

Hogan needed only to par the last two holes to tie Harbert for the lead, but the 1951 Masters champion missed short putts on both and had to settle for a 70. Hogan and Milon Marusic were tied for fourth.

Snead shot a 70, too, but his playing partner, Byron Nelson, made a mistake in keeping score and gave him a par four on the 18th instead of the three he actually scored with a fine chip shot that hit the cup.

Snead signed the card without noticing the error. There was a lot of excited discussion when the mistake was caught, and the officials ruled Snead had to take a 71 if he wanted to continue his pursuit of his second consecutive Masters' victory.

Tied with Snead for sixth were Ted Kroll, Bob Hamilton and Tommy Bolt.

Marusic, another ex-serviceman who has never been able to hit the bigtime in golf, carded a brilliant four-under-32 on the front nine but trouble with his drives sent him soaring to a 38 on the back side.

"I was just playing over my head going out," said the slender Herkimer, N. Y., pro. "Starting out I was really sticking my drives in there and first thing you know I'm three under with birdies on the first three holes. Then a little later I sank a 20-footer for another."

A record opening day crowd of 5,000 was on hand.

The 6,900-yard Augusta National Golf Club course was swept by a bit of wind but not enough to play havoc with the scores. The bright sun was blistering hot. Par is 36-36—72.

Only three strokes separated the low nine players, and another stroke back, at par, were amateurs Dick Chapman and Frank Stranahan and Pro Skip Alexander.

Neighbors In Pitching Duel This Week End

FORT WORTH (AP)—Two promising soph hurlers, former neighbors, will match pitches this week end when Texas A&M and Texas Christian University play a Southwest Conference baseball game.

The young hurlers are Tommy Hill of the Horned Frogs and Joe Hargove of the Aggies.

They grew up a block apart in Burleson, near here, and used to round up teams for a game every Saturday.

WHY SHOULD I BE BAPTIZED?

Christ commanded it (Matt. 28: 18-20). The book of Acts shows how the apostles carried out His command. They began in Jerusalem and went throughout Judea, Samaria and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

Those who believe and are baptized shall be saved (Mark 16:15, 16). In every instance in the New Testament where baptism and salvation are mentioned together, baptism always precedes salvation.

It is for the remission of sins (Acts 2:38). "For" means in order to—not because of, the remission of sins. Whatever repentance is "for" in the passage, baptism is "for" the same reason. This passage does not say one is baptized "because" his sins are forgiven!

Baptism is the consummating step which puts one "into Christ" (Gal. 3:26,27). Faith in Christ changes the heart, repentance changes the conduct, confession changes the allegiance, and baptism changes the state—baptized "into" Christ.

Baptism puts one into the death of Christ (Rom. 6:3,4). Christ shed His blood in his death (John 19: 32-34). It is the blood of Jesus that redeems. To come in contact with the blood, one is "baptized into his death."

Sins are washed away in baptism (Acts 22:16). This passage does not say that water washes away sins. Baptism puts one in Christ, "in whom we have redemption through his blood (Eph. 1:7).

In baptism, a person "puts on" Christ (Gal .3:26,27). He is now identified with Christ. From the day of ones baptism to his dying day, he is to allow Christ to live in him (Gal. 2:20). He is to bear the fruit of the Spirit (Gal. 5:22-26).

Baptism saves us by the resurrection of Christ (1Pet.3:21). This verse gives assurance that baptism is not to cleanse the flesh—a bath. It is "the answer of a good conscience toward God." The preceding verse shows that Noah and his house were "saved by water." This verse assures us that we are saved by baptism. Yes, there is "a figure" in baptism. But let not the reader "figure" baptism out of the passage. From verses above, we have learned that baptism is the consummating step which puts one into Christ, "in whom we have redemption through his blood."

The faith that saves is the faith that obeys (Gal. 5:6). The believer who obeys "hath eternal life" (John 3:36 ASV). Have you been baptized?

NEW IRRIGATION WELL DRILLED

An irrigation well that is believed to be capable of furnishing enough water to raise two-bale-per-acre cotton on the J. B. Turner farm 10 miles east of Snyder was completed last week at a cost of $4,000. The Peerless pump and Waukesha engine were installed by G. S. Taylor Drilling Co. of Snyder. Turner is shown at the controls of the engine, with another farmer, Earl Strawn, watching the four-inch stream flow from the well. (Lee Watson photograph)

Irrigation Well East Of Here Opens Possibility Of More

A irrigation well that may revolutionize farming in at least a big part of Scurry County was completed last week on the farm of J. B. Turner located about 10 miles east of Snyder.

Turner's well produces a steady four inch stream of water which has not been measured for gallons produced per minute, but he believes it will provide ample water to irrigate 25 acres of land.

"With this well, I believe that I can be assured of from one and one-half to two bales of cotton per acre this year," Turner said.

Turner's land is the same kind and has about the same topography as practically all the 10-mile wide divide east of Snyder which extends from several miles northeast of Snyder down through the south part of the county.

Turner said enough is known about the underground water supply throughout the entire area to make him believe that a well similar to his drilled anywhere on the divide will produce as much or more water than his does.

The well cost about $4,000 to complete including a four-inch Peerless pump and 40-horsepower Waukesha engine operated on butane.

The pump and engine were installed by the G. S. Taylor Drilling Co., located on the Big Spring Highway just south of Snyder. The G. S. Taylor Co., has installed many other irrigation setups here in the past two years, and G. S. Taylor, owner, confirms Turner's opinion that irrigation is a coming thing for Scurry County.

Taylor has installed two irrigation well pumps and motors on the Nolan von Roeder seed farm two and one-half miles northwest of Snyder, and irrigation setups on the Oran Thompson, Cliff Brooks, and D. M. Cogdell farms two miles south of Snyder.

Although successful wells were drilled on the Brooks and Cogdell farms, they supplement their water supply from Deep Creek.

"I have 400 acres of land that I can put under irrigation if this well works out the way I believe it will," Turner said.

Turner's well is pumping from 275 feet, but was drilled to a total depth of 332 feet, and water in quantity was struck at 150 feet. "We have pumped the well continually more than a week and have not lowered the water level in it yet," he said.

Because his land had been terraced distribution of water over the field is difficult and will require about three weeks to completely cover the 25 acres, he said.

Cost of operation of the well on a 24-hour basis is about $2.50 per day for butane and oil to operate the engine.

"The last time two years ago, I made a cotton crop on the land, it yielded 116 bales of cotton from 124 acres of land, but with irrigation I believe that yield can almost be doubled every year," Turner said.

More Talks On Merging Of Two Biggest Unions

WASHINGTON (AP)—New talks to explore the idea of merging the AFL and the CIO open here tomorrow, but prospects for early success don't appear to be bright.

Informed officials of both the big organizations of labor unions say that conflicting views which led to the breakup of previous similar unity efforts have not been resolved.

The talks are the first to be held on the subject under the leadership of AFL President George Meany and CIO President Walter Reuther.

J. T. Hugheses Are Injured In Car Accident

J. T. Hughes, 51, and his wife, 50, of 2410 Thirtieth Street, are in Lubbock Memorial Hospital following an auto accident near Lubbock about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Hughes, part-owner and manager of Radio Station KSNY, suffered extreme shock and his wife facial lacerations and possible skull fracture. Lubbock officers investigating the wreck said a 1950 Plymouth driven by Hughes crashed into the rear of a 1951 Dodge driven by Miss Mary Elizabeth Collins, 40, of Merkel. Both cars were headed south on a farm road near Acuff.

Miss Collins and her mother, Mrs. J. M. Collins of Merkel were uninjured. Officers said the impact threw Mrs. Hughes partially through the windshield. Both cars were badly damaged, officers said.

The Hugheses were enroute from Amarillo to Snyder when the accident occured.

Ferguson For Taking Voice Way From State Department Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) says he thinks the State Department should confine itself to making policy and quit running agencies like the Voice of America.

In this, Ferguson told interviewers yesterday, he believes he supports the view of Secretary of State Dulles. The secretary recently said he thinks the department's staff could be cut in half.

Speed Lights Added To Wolfe Studio Portrait Equipment

An expensive new speed light arrangement has just been installed at the Wolfe Studio & Camera Shop, 1710 Twenty - fifth Street, that is comparable to the best lighting arrangements employed in studios anywhere, Charlie Wolfe, owner, said.

The new lighting equipment includes two Photogenic strobe lights for lighting the subject, and a Mono-strobe spotlight for highlighting the subjects hair.

The new lights offer many advantages over the old style flood lighting discarded by Wolfe Studio when the new equipment arrived. Probably the greatest advantage is that it will absolutely stop all movement so that no matter how much a baby laughs or kicks, a good sharp portrait can be made.

Secret of stopping all movement by the subject is in the speed of the flash of light. It lasts only one five-thousandth of a second so that even high speed movement is frozen completely.

"Short duration of the new light does not cause the subjects eyes to hurt, or cause him to have the sun grins like the old lights," Wolfe said.

"Most all major photography studios over the country use this type lighting," Wolfe said.

He added that it is especially well suited to baby photography where stillness of the subject is often doubtful.

"The speed of the light also permits the photographer to catch expressions that are so fleeting that the old conventional lights would only get a blur," he said.

To satisfy the curiosity of persons who have the "photography bug" Wolfe explained that the new lights use only one connecting cord to the camera, and the other two lights are operated by photo-eye trippers requiring no cords from the camera to the lights at all.

The photo-eye tripper on the lights permits complete mobility of the lights around the subject without the bother of a string of electric wires from the camera to the lights.

Cops Recover, Shoot Bandit

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A drugstore bandit disarmed and threatened to kill two detectives but lost his own life when the officers made a swift recovery Sunday night.

Detectives Cpl. Charles Klug and Detective Robert Walker, answering a holdup call, split up when they saw a man entering an alley near the store.

The man hid briefly, however, then stepped out, shoving a pistol against Klug and taking the corporal's gun. With Klug as a shield, the man forced Walker to give up his weapon.

He ordered both officers to the ground, saying, "I'm going to kill both you lousy ..." But the sound of a police car siren apparently changed his mind.

He told the detectives to start walking, then fired once at Walker, who slipped, escaping the bullet.

Klug promptly swung at the man's face, grabbed a gun and fired six times. Walker jumped forward, took the other gun the man held and fired twice.

Police identified the man as Charles L. Bay, 25, a former convict. They said he had $200 taken from the store cash register on him.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Moore, route No. 3, have returned from Gravitt, Ark., following a three-week visit with their daughter, Mrs. Sheridan Eades, Mr. Eades and family.

U. S. Economy Can Stand Up In Peacetime

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—America's economy can stand on its own feet in a peaceful world.

This is the view today of business leaders who say the Russians are deluded if they think peace moves can cause depression here.

Some concede the current "peace offensive" of the Kremlin can hasten a readjustment in business. But such an adjustment has been widely anticipated and even an easing of world tensions is not expected to cause it to reach "recession" status.

This week American industry and business pushes forward at near-record levels without dulling the edge of consumer demand.

Steel furnaces are pouring out their white-hot metal at a 10 million tons a month pace. The giant automotive industry is in a civilian production race unequaled since before Korea.

Total output of all goods and services—the so-called "gross national product"—is around an annual rate of 360 billion dollars.

At the same time, Easter season shoppers appear to have spent a record amount. And retail stores report a definite swing to higher priced merchandise.

Would a real change of world atmosphere in the direction of peace cause a serious setback to United States business? Was such a development signaled by this week's nervous retreat of share prices on the New York stock market?

No, say many business leaders and market analysts.

The stock price tumble is described variously as an accelerated reaction to recent advances, and as a normal sell-off that would come with any unexpected change in a war or peace status.

The "scare" view of business prospects is based on belief or hope that further slow-down or cutback of the defense buildup is likely, and that resultant drops in employment and incomes would make debts overburdening, business inventories excessive, and cause a sharp decline in buying at all levels.

Drunk Has Seniority

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Patrolman Glenn Zubler found yesterday, curled up behind the judge's bench in city court, Herbert Leary, 63, who had been arrested many times on intoxication charges.

When Zubler arrested him again, Leary protested:

"I've got seniority here."

CAFE LOCATION POPULAR

Henry Whitehurst, owner of Henry's Cafe, now located at Avenue S and Twenty-third Streets, says the new location has proven highly popular with his customers. Success of the new location is attributed to ample parking space and the fact that most of the regular customers of the cafe followed it from the East side of the square to its new location. Support For Hall As GOP Head Is Gaining WASHINGTON (AP)—Two more members of Congress, both of them regarded as political friends of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), came out publicly over the week end for Leonard W. Hall for chairmanship of the Republican National Committee.

They were Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) and Rep. Reece (R-Tenn).

The committee is scheduled to meet here Friday to name a successor to C. Wesley Roberts, who resigned.

Hall, a former member of the House and now a surrogate, or judge of wills and estates, in Nassau County, indicated after a call on President Eisenhower Saturday he would accept the job if it is offered to him.

There has been some speculation that Taft, the GOP leader in the Senate, was not enthusiastic about Hall, who has been endorsed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Taft has said whomever Eisenhower wants for the job should be named without a fight.

Canada was united under one government in 1867 although there previously were governments in separate parts of the country.

Although Casablanca in North Africa was a fishing village on a pestilential swamp 40 years ago, establishment of a man-made harbor and other improvements has made it a large, modern city.

Great Legal Entanglement Is Being Laid By Tidelands Bill

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Those in favor of giving the states the submerged lands off their shores say: "Give it to them out to their historic boundaries." But those who want the government to keep those lands ask: "Out to what historic boundaries? What are they and where are they?"

It would be a smart man who could convince everyone he had the answer. Because the legislation, which Congress is now preparing to pass, is so vague on that question the Supreme Court may have to solve the problem, perhaps years from now, thus piling legal snarls on all those that have gone before.

Yet the answer is worth billions of dollars because the submerged lands off California, Texas and Louisiana are rich with oil. President Eisenhower's attorney general, Herbert Brownell, asked Congress before it approved the measure it is now considering, to draw a line, showing what the boundaries are. That might be the solution to the endless question about boundaries, he said, and if Congress didn't do it, there might be a long fight ending up in the Supreme Court. But Congress ignored him on this. Now Congress is getting ready to pass a bill which, in effect, says this:

All states will own the submerged lands seaward from their shores for three miles and any lands beyond that if they can prove they have a just claim to them. What would be a just claim?

What this may mean in future revenue, for the states or the federal government, can be seen from this: The estimated oil potential off California is two billion barrels, with more than half of it within the three miles. California has far less to gain than Louisiana and Texas by fighting to claim lands beyond three miles.

The potential oil reserve off Louisiana has been estimated at four billion barrels, with only 250 million inside the three-mile limit and 3¾ billion barrels beyond that point. But the estimated potential for Texas is nine billion barrels, wtih 400 million within the three-mile limit, 800 million more between 3 and 10½ miles, and 7,800,000,000 beyond 10½ miles.

While it was still a republic, before entering the union in 1845, Texas claimed a seaward boundary of 10½ miles. But in 1947 the State Legislautre claimed ownership of all the submerged lands off Texas out to the edge of the continental shelf, a distance of perhaps 135 miles.

Louisiana's Legislature in 1938 decided the State's seaward boundary was 27½ miles. But was that 27½ miles from the shoreline of the land mass of Louisiana or 27½ miles from the state's outermost island in the Gulf of Mexico, 10 miles from shore?

The representative that Louisiana sent up here to explain his state's case to the Senate, Atty. Gen. Fred S. Leblanc, was helpless on the boundary question. He said he couldn't say what it was and that if the current legislation is approved by Congress the Supreme Court may have to decide.

Texas' former attorney general, Sen. Daniel, told the Senate last week that Texas' legal claim to submerged lands is really only 10½ miles. That doesn't mean Congress couldn't later extend such a boundary. After listening to the statement of Daniel, Sen. Douglas, Illinois Democrat and an opponent of giving the submerged lands to the states, tackled Sen Cordon, Oregon Republican, one of the supporters of the idea.

Douglas asked Cordon if he agreed with Daniel, that Texas' boundary should be only 10½ miles. Cordon said he wouldn't agree or disagree. When Douglas then pressed him to explain just what Texas' legal boundary is, Cordon said Douglas would have to get the answer from the Supreme Court.

Before this country became a nation some of the colonies claimed jurisdiction over vast tracts of the sea. Virginia claimed it for 1,000 miles out from shore, New Hampshire for 100 miles.

It was Thomas Jefferson, when he was secretary of state in 1793, who proclaimed U. S. government jurisdiction over the sea out to a three-mile limit. He did this long before oil was thought of and for dealing with other nations.

Airman 3rd Class James E. White, an Air Force gunner from East Aurora, N. Y., a suburb of Buffalo, saved his life and the lives of two buddies over Korea by holding the propeller of an armed bomb to keep it from exploding.

Bill Barnard Keeps Texas In Forefront Of Korean Fighting

(By The Associated Press)

Bill Barnard's former co-workers in the Associated Press Bureau at Dallas chuckled...

They smiled in Corpus Christi, too...and in Austin...and in Amarillo and Longview ...everywhere they knew Barnard. And in Texas he's well known

Because Barnard, AP correspondent covering the Korean War, is a former state editor in the Dallas bureau. And because he loves Texas so much a piece of Korean real estate — a battlefield now—forever will be known as "Outpost Texas."

Texan himself to the core, from his infectious smile to his South Texas drawl, Barnard knew Texans would like a hill of their own in Korea, where so many Texans have fought and died.

BARNARD SPEAKS UP

So, at Wednesday's Eighth Army tactical briefing, when it became apparent that the 2,000-foot hill on the East Central Front where South Korean and Chinese soldiers were fighting would probably become a Korean landmark, Barnard acted.

"Let's call it Outpost Texas," he said. "I've been here a long time and never got a chance to name a hill. This may be the last hill battle before the war ends. I'm sure all Texas would be proud to have it called Outpost Texas."

The other correspondents, smiling, too, agreed. And Wednesday night it was used in the Eighth Army's tactical summary—making it official.

The Eighth Army's report said Outpost Texas had been recaptured by South Koreans to climax four days of steady fighting between the communists and the South Korean Third Division.

TEXAS-LIKE FIGHTERS

The Chinese seized the height Sunday and in the next two days the outpost—Texas now—changed hands four times.

The South Koreans counter-attacked Wednesday but were driven off by a cross fire and artillery barrage.

Then came Barnard's name for the blood-strewn bit of rock and dirt—Outpost Texas.

And in the fighting tradition of the state half a world away, the Koreans struck again shortly after nightfall. In just 45 minutes they stormed to the top and routed the company of Chinese.

Outpost Texas was back in friendly hands.

And William C. Barnard, late of Corpus Christi and Dallas, probably went about his work rounding up news for the world—especially Texas—with that same old boyish grin.

In Seoul and Tokyo Barnard has become known as one of Texas' most enthusiastic boosters during his 2½ years covering the war.

They say all over the war zone that when Barnard interviews soldiers and airmen, it's a good 10-to-1 wager that there will be a Texas connection.

Said a former co-worker of Barnard's in Dallas:

"Just wait, those South Koreans will be speaking with a Corpus Christi drawl and calling each other 'Tex.'"

Singapore, built on what once was a pestilential island, is now credited with having a death rate as low as that in Britain.

Augusta Takes Ike In Stride

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower's choice of Augusta for his White House vacations has made few changes in this crowded boom town.

The curious gather at the airport and along some of the streets when the President flies down for a few days of golf at the Augusta National Golf Club. The newsmen who fly in with him report all they can learn of his activities, whether it's a major statement or appointment or his score for a round of golf.

But, by and large, the President's visits are taken in stride by official Augusta and its overflowing population. There are three major reasons:

1. The expressed purpose of his visits is golf—plus some relaxation from presidential duties.

2. The Augusta National is a private retreat, catering exclusively to its approximately 200 members.

3. Augusta already has its hands full with the influx of population from the Savannah River plant the Atomic Energy Commission is building a few miles away in South Carolina.

Not even Reid Memorial Presbyterian Church, where the President and first lady worship during their visits, has experienced any great effect.

When the Eisenhowers come to Augusta—accompanied by a platoon of Secret Service agents—they go into seclusion at the Augusta National site of the annual Masters Golf Tournament.

So far the President has occupied the neat, white frame cottage of Bob Jones, Atlanta's grand slam golfer and president of the National. The cottage, a few hundred yards from the main clubhouse, overlooks the 18th green.

An architect now is working on plans for a new cottage. It will be the property of the club, but will be offered the President for his use during visits here.

Security measures are left to the Secret Service guardians but the club is erecting a high wire fence around the 365-acre grounds.

"We are doing this both to insure more privacy for our members as well as a security measure for the President," said Clifford Roberts, a club official.

Teen-ager Is Eating Wrong

NEW YORK (AP)—A nutrition expert says faulty eating habits among many teen-agers from all income groups are endangering their health and future well-being.

Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, dean of the College of Household Arts and Sciences at Texas State College, yesterday announced results of a 10-year study of 2,500 boys and girls.

"Because of misguided and unguided eating habits," she said, many teen-agers suffer from the following:

Underweight, stunted growth, retarded skeletal maturity, poor mineralization of bones, minor and major skeletal deformities, poor complexion, poor teeth, and eye difficulties.

Teen-aged boys, Dr. Mack said, made a much better showing in the survey, partly because girls are more inclined to diet during their teens.

Those from the highest income groups often showed "serious cases of undernutrition," she said, adding:
