BANDIT CAPTIVES WRITING DEATH WILLS

GIRL TAKES UP MURDER QUIZ AS STATE QUITS

Charles "Chuck" Palmer and his fiancee, Miss Florence Eichenstein.

The inquisitiveness of the law may be satisfied easily, but not so that of a woman, particularly in a heart affair. When Mrs. R. G. Bachman told authorities in Chicago that she had been a former friend of Charles "Chuck" Palmer, Northwestern university athlete, and that he might be able to explain the nature of the death of young Mount, believed slain by hazers, Palmer had no difficulty in satisfying the law, but he hasn't yet been able to explain all about "Vi," Mrs. Bachman, to the satisfaction of his fiancee, Miss Florence Eichenstein.

25 OIL TANKS BLAZE IN N. Y.

Explosions Shake City As 500,000 Gallons Of Crude Fires

Associated Press Dispatch

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 25.—Five hundred thousand gallons of oil stored at the plant of the F. B. Rae Oil company were ablaze here tonight.

Starting with two explosions which shook the entire city shortly after 7 o'clock, the fire quickly spread, and enveloped every one of the 25 oil tanks in which thousands of gallons of oil, turpentine, naphtha, gasoline, lubricating oils, and other oil products were stored. The oil is valued at $250,000, but it is believed the property damage will bring the total loss to about $350,000.

Firemen were helpless to combat the flaming oil and turned their efforts to prevent the spread of the fire, especially to a shed containing 30,000 gallons of turpentine. Chief Jaynes said the fire would burn probably for a couple of days.

At a late hour tonight a hasty check-up revealed no serious casualties. A few firemen were burned, but after receiving first aid, returned to duty.

The cause of the fire has not been determined.

WAR RUMBLINGS STIR NEAR EAST AS RUMORS FLY

Greek Fleet Reported To Be Cruising Off The Dardanelles

BRITISH SEND SHIPS

Explosion and Wreckage Of Bridge Stirs Excited People

BY LOUISE BRYANT.
International News Staff.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 25.—The Near East situation was critical today with the constant threat of war between Greece and Turkey. The menace has been aggravated by the ultimatum of the Athens government demanding that the Turks at Lausanne renounce all claims to war indemnity by tomorrow night.

The city is rife with wild rumors. One was that the Greek fleet was cruising off the Dardanelles, but this was denied by the British and French commanders.

Additional British warcraft are coming to the Dardanelles.

War or Peace.

An evidence of the tension was shown by a public statement issued by Rafat Pasha, commander of the Turkish troops in Thrace:

"Let us have war or peace at once with no further delay."

The public excitement was heightened by news of the blowing up of the bridge over the Maritza river connecting Adrianople with Karagatch. The Maritza river forms the Turco-Greek boundary in Thrace, the Turks having Adrianople and the Greeks Karagatch.

The Greeks charged that the Turks blew up the bridge to sever communication. Turkish officials claimed that the structure was struck by lightning.

Not an Act of War.

A high Turkish official made the following explanation to International News Service:

"The river under the bridge was mined as a war precaution to prevent Greeks from crossing into Adrianople if hostilities began. Wednesday evening a thunderstorm came up. Lightning set fire to the bridge and some of the mines exploded. It cannot be considered an act of war."

It is certain the first blast of hostilities will bring a great Kemalist army into Constantinople. Mustapha Kemal Pasha is at Angora.

Razors and Bottles Pour On Wrestler

Associated Press Dispatch

BOSTON, May 25.—Wladek Zbyszko, wrestler, went under a barrage of bottles and other missiles tonight when several thousand persons attending a wrestling contest attempted to mob him. It was believed that he had bitten his opponent, George Calza, Italian champion, in the left wrist.

Zbyszko had scored one fall on his adversary in 28 minutes. Calza then claimed that he had been bitten, and the referee awarded him the decision. Joe PJerelli, former wrestler and now Calza's manager, jumped into the ring and engaged in a battle with Zbyszko. He was arrested. The crowd swarmed about the ring, but Zbyszko was led away by officers. One missle thrown at him was a razor.

EIGHT HOUR DAY NOT ADVOCATED

Gary Says Men Are Not Protesting Over Twelve Hour System

International News Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 25.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, head of the steel committee appointed at the request of President Harding to investigate the feasibility of establishing an eight-hour day in the steel industry, reported today that the committee did not favor complete abolition of the twelve hour day.

Gary presented a preliminary statement of the result of the committee's investigation at a meeting of the American Iron and Steel Instittue.

Agitation for reduced hours, Gary said, apparently did not come from the men themselves. He asserted that the twelve-hour day did not injure the workers either physically or morally—in fact, he said it appeared that the twelve-hour workers of the steel industry actually had a less strenuous day than the eight-hour men because of the frequent rest periods they enjoyed.

Gary also pointed out that investigation showed that institution of an eight-hour day throughout all the branches of the steel industry would increase the cost of steel about 15 percent and that this increased cost would have to be passed on to the consumers.

American Laws Only Are Intended To Ban Imports Of Stuff

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Great Britain's position on the ships liquor question as communicated to the state department today by the British embassy is understood to be based on a contention that American port authorities have no jurisdiction in international law over liquor brought into American waters as a part of the regular supplies of foreign vessel.

U. S. Authority Defined.

The authority of American offficials under the construction extends only to portions of the cargo of foreign ships which are intended for importation into the United States, and in no way permits of interference with either the physical, mechanism, rations, or stores of such vessels when they put into American ports.

While this principle, apparently conflicts with that recently laid down by the supreme court, indications are increasing that the treasury department has found a way to reconcile the two by permitting ships under foreign registry to list the wine rations of their own crews as a part of the medicinal stores allowable under the law.

To Broaden Law.

In the new regulations now being drafted, treasury officials are said to have taken due cognizance of the fact that the opinion of the supreme court made no mention of the medicinal liquor clause. Some officials are known to hold this clause to be broad enough to protect liquor stocks from confiscation if they are placed under the charge of the ships doctor when a vessel comes inside the three-mile limit.

Indian Guide Turns Down Fortune To Slander Mrs. Stillman and Explains He Made All His Money As Bootlegger

Banker Offered $250,000 To Testify Against His Wife, Beauvais Says

International News Dispatch

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 25.—Fred Beauvais, Canadian guide, who was named co-respondent in the divorce action brought by James A. Stillman, New York City multi-millionaire banker, revealed today that he had spurned a sum of $250,000 to give testimony damaging to Mrs. Stillman.

Beauvais showed to International News Service staff correspondent an affidavit, sworn to in Montreal by a New York City stock broker, stating that the signer of the document had offered Beauvais $250,000 for information damaging to Mrs. Stillman and favorable to her banker husband.

"That stock broker has been a close friend ever since on account of my refusal to accept that money" said Beauvais. "And yet they say that I sold three letters for $15,000. Does any one think I would be fool enough to turn down $250,000 to accept $15,000."

In showing the affidavit Beauvais allowed only part of the contents to be read and kept the name of the maker hidden.

Beauvais branded New York reports that he was angry because Mrs. Stillman refused to see him and was planning to "give the real story" to lawyers for James A. Stillman as false.

"Are you angry?" asked the reporter quoting from a New York City press dispatch.

Wanted To Help

"Well, it must be admitted that I am not feeling any too well pleased with the way things are going," replied Beauvais. "The trouble is that I want to help Mrs. Stillman's lawyers and they do not seem disposed

Associated Press Dispatch

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 25.—A legal battle participated in by the state of Arizona and representatives of the Mexican government and which probably will be carried eventually to the United States supreme court looms as the result of a stay of execution which saved Manual Martinez from hanging today for the murder of J. Frank Pearson, victim of the Ruby Bandit raid of 1921.

The stay of execution, in the form of a writ of habeas corpus, was granted late last night by Superior Court Judge Abbey on application of Roberto Quiros, Mexican consul in Phoenix. The application raises legal questions concerning the jurisdiction of the superior court of Santa Cruz county, which sentenced Martinez.

Warden R. B. Sims, who was served with the writ at the state penitentiary at Florence, halted the execution against the advice of John W. Murphy, state attorney general.

Mr. Murphy said he expects to make application to the supreme court some time today for an order setting aside the writ of habeas corpus.

Meanwhile Martinez's life is saved for at least two months.

...ian Scientist Speaker Heard By Local People on Friday Night

Judge Frederick C. Hill, of Boston, Massachusetts, lectured at the Palace theatre last night. Judge Hill is a nationally known Christian Scientist and was brought to Wichita Falls by local people interested in that church. He spoke on "God's Revelation of Spiritual Healing."

Speaking before a fairly large crowd, Judge Hill said:

Christian Science is, as its name implies, essentially Christian and its practice being predicated upon absolute law, it brings healing from sickness and deliverance from sin. This being the case, Christian Science, as a great religious movement must be based upon a revelation of the teachings and practical truth presented in the Bible. Lest there be confusion in the thought of those who have never investigated this subject, I assure you at the outset that Christian Scientists use for their study and in all their church services one Bible authority, that of the King James version of the Old and New Testaments.

It will early be discovered that Christian Science emphasizes the final destruction of sin and the healing of bodily infirmity. Some of our religious friends have offered the criticism that Christian Scientists make too much of the healing element. At no time does the human mind part with cherished beliefs or relinquish traditional claims until proof, clear and positive, has been presented showing that there is a better way. It is not surprising, therefore, that after material methods have failed and Christian Science treatment has restored health and happiness to the individual very much should be thought and made of the healing element. In fact, all Christian Science practice is healing in character whether it is applied to bodily afflictions or to other forms of discord.

Christian Science presents to you the conception of God as infinite mind, spirit, soul, principle, life, truth, love. It presents nothing about Him save that which is supported and sustained by Bible authority and which is rational and comforting. When it is perceived that God is infinite divine mind it at once becomes apparent that like produces like, hence His creation must of necessity, be mental and not material. God must be sought and found, if at all, through the avenue of divine mind and not in or through matter. It then becomes clear that the real man whom God pronounced good lives, moves and has his being in mind, and is a spiritual, not a material being, and because he is an idea in mind he can and does express the qualities of that divine mind which created him.

There is a very erroneous and unChristian belief ignorantly entertained by many concerning the attitude of Christian Scientists toward the experiences called sickness and death. The opinion is often erroneously entertained that they are unmindful of these distressing human conditions and that they offer no relief to those who unfortunately suffer from these beliefs. Nothing could be farther from the truth. They freely admit that these conditions call for the highest degree of human compassion and they are proving their usefulness and competency by supplying humanitarian compassion in a most effectual Christian manner.

A Christian Science treatment is a conscientious effort based upon a sincere desire to bring into human experience "the enduring, the good, and the true" so that by the renewing of the mind it can be proved what is that "perfect will of God." In other words the reformation of the sinner and the healing of the sick is but proof that divine principle, God, is present and available and is, as we have heretofore seen Immanuel or God with us. This happy and desirable mental condition is established through the medium of prayer. There is great lack of understanding among Christian people as to what constitutes true prayer. This lack of absolute knowledge is the procuring cause of much error and accounts for the erroneous belief that Christian Scientists do not pray. Such belief has no foundation in fact. They pray continually and understandingly and the fruits of their prayers are rich blessings to humanity. It must be remembered however, that in their prayers they do not supplicate God to conform His will to theirs or to change His infinite design. Neither do they charge Him with human delinquencies and as a matter of course they do not petition Him to remedy or correct that which He has not created. They do pray to Him from the standpoint of sincere desire and "absolute faith that all things are possible to Him," and such prayer is answered by driving out of human consciousness the diseased, erroneous images of thought and letting in the light of God's man created in His image and likeness.

$4,300 SUIT IS FILED BY BOY

Wilson Hydraulic Casing Pulling Company Is Made Defendant

Suing through J. A. James as his next of friend, Lee James, a minor, has brought action in the Thirtieth district court against the Wilson Hydraulic Casing Pulling Machine company of Burkburnett for $4,300. The suit was started by injuries alleged to have been suffered by the boy last March while in the employ of the machine company.

The petition set forth that on or about March 13, last, James was engaged in helping load a heavy hydraulic jack on a truck of the defendant company, working under the direction of a foreman of the company, and that the breaking of a stay line resulted in the plaintiff falling violently to the ground.

In the fall, it is alleged, the plaintiff suffered severe injuries to his arms and legs, sustaining injuries that he claims have caused him loss in the sum of $4,300.

150 At Legion Social

Members of the Pat Carrigan Post and the ladies' auxiliary of the American legion entertained about 150 members of the post, auxiliary, and their friends with a social at the legion hall Thursday evening.

Sam Beattie, post commander, acted as toastmaster and introduced the entertainers. Immediately following the supper a dance was given.

It is the plan of the legion to present similar programs every month and the next will probably be given on the lawn of Judge and Mrs. A. B. Carrigan.

A continuance to June 13 was granted Friday morning by special Judge Ocie Speer in the case of the American National bank vs. R. M. Waggoner and others. The suit was filed by Homer Lee, liquidating agent of the bank.

Recovery of about $300,000 from the defendants, who were constituted as a board of directors before the institution was liquidated, is sought by the plaintiff.

Thrift Becomes Popular, Local Men Back From Building Loan Meet Say

People are becoming more thrifty.

This is the word brought back by D. A. Landien and W. C. Hamilton of the Wichita Falls Building and Loan association from the convention and meeting of the executive board of the organization for the states of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Arkansas and Texas just concluded at Oklahoma City.

People are saving more money and building more homes despite the almost universally accepted claim that the present age is one of wastefulness and inefficiency, according to reports at the convention.

The year 1922 was a record for thrift and accomplishment, it was announced from all sections represented at the meeting and the first four months of 1923 have entirely surpassed the same period of the previous year.

Four hundred million dollars invested in building and loan associations was represented by the 200 executives present at the convention.

Texas, however, is at the foot of the list for building loan investments. Ohio's per capita of building loan stock is $68, Texas is 51 cents.

Dallas Bankers Buy Piggly Wiggly Stores in Wichita

Associated Press Dispatch

DALLAS, May 25.—C. S. Wyatt of Dallas, who is reported to have purchased the two Piggly Wiggly stores at Wichita Falls is expected to return home tomorrow and close a deal for the purchase of 33 Piggly Wiggly stores here, it was said today. Local bankers and business men are backing Wyatt, it is understood.

Both Piggly Wiggly stores operated in Wichita Falls were yesterday sold to C. S. Wyatt, of Dallas for a consideration of $36,000, the price carrying a bonus of $10,000 for the stores.

Following the completion of the sale the new manager announced that the company will be known as the Piggly-Wiggly Wichita Falls company, and operated along the original plans of the Piggly Wiggly stores. Wyatt will be the president of the new company and J. R. Moore will be secretary and treasurer. Headquarters will be maintained at the Ohio Avenue store, and W. R. Smith will operate the headquarters store with E. R. Crockner as manager of the Indiana Avenue store.

Plans of the company, as expressed by the president, who has been associated with the Piggly Wiggly company at Dallas, are for two new stores in in addition to the present ones to be built as soon as possible. The locations for the new stores have not been made but it is expected that plans will be completed within a few weeks.

MAJESTIC—Hoot Gibson in "Dead Game."
GEM—Richard Talmadge in "Lucky Dan."

"WHAT A WIFE LEARNED" TRUE TO LIFE—

This is the last day for "What a Wife Learned," at the Olympic, better go and see it. The men in the audience will probably sympathize with John Bowers. Wives, who have had experience with sudden rages of their husbands will understand why Bowers portrays Jim Russell as he does. And the flappers—well, undoubtedly, they will be properly horrified to think that a husband could act the way Jim Russell did and yet have Sheila come back to him with tears in her eyes and her heart at his feet.

Marguerite de la Motte is wonderful. She's nothing but a girl, you know, but she carries her role like a woman who has loved—and suffered. Douglas Fairbanks discovered her, and after playing in several pictures, among them "Arizona" and "The Mark of Zorro," she crowned her success by playing D'Artagnan's sweetheart with him in "The Three Musketeers," and since has been one of the most sought-after leading women of the screen.

Milton Sills plays the successful young play-wright who matches wits with the fiery tempered Jim, Sheila's husband, and he does it superbly. A cattle stampede, the bursting of a huge dam with two men caught in the roaring flood waters, and a fall from a skeleton framework of a great sky-scraper in which John Bowers saved his life only by the presence of mind he possesses when he caught a steel girder and swung there until rescued—are a few of the exciting moments of the picture—and they're real.

Out in Los Angeles if you say you want to see a lot in a short time, they send you out to Hollywood and tell you to visit any studio.

Even if bobbed hair did start its popularity as far back at 1700, Hobart Henley, Universal director, has put the "kibosh" on it for "The Lady of Quality," a new Jewel picture which is timed about that period. Fact is, it's getting pretty hard for bobbed hair in any picture.

KING RICHARD COMES BACK IN NEW FILM—

Do you remember King Richard in "Robin Hood?" He's playing again in "Richard the Lion Hearted," a story of the third crusade when Richard of England conquered the Sultan Saladin and the Turks and freed the Holy Land from their infidel dominion. A beautiful reproduction of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem has been built on the lot of the Thomas H. Ince studios. Wallace Berry, who met with such success under the direction of Douglas Fairbanks is continuing his popular role in this picture under the Associated Authors.

JACKIE GETS RAISE; NOW HE MAKES $4

Jackie Coogan's got a raise! $4 a week! You see his daddy and mother are quite level headed about young Jackie's millions, and have them safely salted away in the strictest sort of legal investments. Jackie, instead of having luxury poured in on all sides receives a regular allowance each week to do with as he pleases.

Until recently this was $6, but since his new Metro contract, and his first picture "Long Live the King," his weekly income will be raised to $10. Out of this private saving's account comes his expenditures for marbles, scooters, baseballs and other such toys.

He takes great pride in this account and every once in a while he entertains for a certain lady that he loves more than any other girl in the world. Said guest of these special parties is his mother.

AN OBJECT LESSON

Aaron Sapiro is in Texas telling the cotton growers what to do to be saved. First, they must adopt the co-operative marketing plan but before adopting the plan they must become co-operatives in reality as well as in theory. They must walk in the footsteps of the California co-operatives, control their own product, find a market for it, maintain their own selling agencies and send their co-operative trade evangelists out in the big world to establish stable markets for all they have to sell and all they have to sell covers everything that is produced on farm, garden and orchard. This, in reality is doing away with the middleman, this in reality is price-fixing of products by the producer and not the buyer. There are two million southern families engaged in cotton production. Not for 60 years have they been independent. They never graded their own staple. They never pursued orderly marketnig. They never banded together and signed their names on the dotted line agreeing to stand or fall together.

That is not until very recent years when the successes of the co-operatives in California, Kentucky, New York, Tennessee and other states led the cotton growers who read and think to organize under the co-operative marketing system as directed by statutes of Texas and 28 sister states.

New York is one of the largest cities on the map of the world. New York and adjacent states have what is known as the Dairymen's League Co-operative association incorporated. This league is composed of 70,000 dairy farmers with a business in 1922 of nearly $90,000,000. Now headquarters have been established in the city of New York and these dairy co-operatives in their principle offices occupy more than 31,000 square feet of space on four floors of a big building.

This league or association has a selling agent for 70,000 farmers who own more than 1,000,000 cows and market yearly 4,000,000,000 pounds of milk. In the year 1922 the association sold 1,900,000 cases of condensed and evaporated milk and 430,000,000 gallons of ice cream. It operated 103 milk plants, owning 68 outright. Two distributing plants are in New York city and one in Newark.

Marketing activities centering in this association are carried on in every state east of the Mississippi river and those who are directing it say soon the entire United States will be included within its market scope. These products already have found their way into continental Europe. Extensive markets for the varied output of the Dairymen's League are in South Africa, Turkey, China, Phillipine Islands and in Central and South America. Shipments soon are expected to be made all over the world.

These dairy co-operatives seek to enlist in their league all producers of milk and for the extension of markets the wide world over for the sale of milk and its products. Aaron Sapiro everywhere he goes tells the cotton producers of the south that the staple of democracy, the crop that represents more potential wealth than any other American product will be placed o na legitimate marketing and selling basis whenever sufficient growers are found in the cotton belt states to adopt the co-operative plan and to employ the methods of grading, housing and marketing that the growers of burley tobacco in Kentucky and elsewhere have adopted with profit to themselves.

Kentucky co-operatives will sell more than 160,000,000 pounds of tobacco this year and since they adopted the co-operative marketing plan he says that the average price per year has been 30 cents whereas before the coming of co-operative marketing it averaged only 10 cents per pound per year.

Texas produces a third of the cotton crop of America; Texas produced 30 per cent of the cotton crop of the world and under Texas skies the apostles of co-operative marketing are hopeful of winning in the long run a large percentage of the growers to the co-operative plan.

Bell and Williamson counties are famous producers of cotton. In these counties the co-operative leaders say that they have found hundreds of leading growers ripe for the movement and hundreds have signed the contracts which are provided by those in the field as educators and orgnaizers. Dairymen of the east solved their problems long before the Kentucky tobacco growers made a start and the California fruit growers were ahead of the tobacco growers.

Now the potato growers of Maine have organized along co-operative lines. Cotton placed in the pockets of the people of Texas more than $400,000,000 last year—all new money. Now what will cotton place in the pockets of Texans this year?

Evangelist Sapiro says that those who marketed it wildly received an average price of 20 cents per pound; that the Texas co-operatives who marketed wisely received an average price of 30 cents a pound.

HE CAN'T STAND MUCH OF THIS —By Albert T. Reid

NO MAN'S HAND

By Hugh MacNair Kahler

Alfred Bleeker, a wealthy, somewhat miserly and pompous man, has taken a great interest in Corcoran. He overhears a telephone message and sees a note, each of which convey a threat of death to Phil. He tells these incidents to Olaf Larsen, chief of detectives. Larsen ascertains that Corcoran's business and dealings and affairs of the heart have made him a great many enemies, a number of whom could be considered to menace his existence. Rackham assures Larsen (who, by the way, is another member of the "justice syndicate") that the vengeance he contemplates will not be a violent one. Nevertheless Larsen reiterates a warning to Bleeker that Corcoran should leave town. Corcoran has refused to leave, hinting at a business deal which will bring him in considerable money. Bleeker summons Larsen to his house one night, and while they are discussing the case, a shot is heard and they find Corcoran dead in the library, shot through the mouth, as, apparently, he had leaned over a smoking tabouret to light a cigar. Larsen finds Rackham concealed under a settee in the library. Rackham denies any guilt, saying he had been summoned there by Corcoran who had given him $1,000 in part payment on the embezzled sum.

Carol Bleeker, young and beautiful wife of Alfred, is seen leaving the library immediately after the shot. Her coldness and calmness, and Larsen's inability to find the pistol which Bobby, if guilty, must have used, leads the officer to ponder over the possibility that Mrs. Bleeker, herself, had killed Phil. She, however, scornfully suggests that Larsen's men look in the fireplace of the library, and there they find the pistol. It seems almost conclusive evidence against Rackham.

Charlotte Gray's intuition tells her that Mrs. Bleeker knows something more than she has told.

Larsen learns that the bills Corcoran gave Rackham were obtained originally by Carol Bleeker from a jeweler. He visits Bleeker and comments on the fact the high priced cigars that the humidor contained have been replaced by a cheap variety. Bleeker says he kept the Coronas only for Corcoran.

Charlotte advances a suicide theory and Bleeker approves it, saying he will aid Bobby's defense.

Carol Bleeker, Larsen learns, was the daughter of an international crook and the wife of a "fake count." Charlotte Gray calls on the Meeker's with Larsen and Walter Enfield, Bobby's counsel.

Out of the Past.

"We're all anxious to have justice done, of course," Carol Bleeker's voice was amazingly alive. "I'm sure from what Mr. Bleeker tells me that Miss Gray has helped tremendously."

"We owe a great deal to her," said Enfield. "But we are confronted by a complication which makes it necessary to look to you again. The real trouble for us is the attitude of the surety company which suffered throgh Rackham's defalcation three years ago. Without appearing in the case they are able to bring a very strong pressure to bear on the district attorney's office. And, unpleasant as it is to admit the fact, they may be able to force us to some compromise."

"It's an outrageous condition of affairs," Bleeker said. "We should sweep those scoundrels, who yield to such influences, incontinently into jail."

"Meanwhile we have got to think of Harry Rackham. We can help his chances tremendously by setting the surety company's claim. And unless that is done—"

Larsen saw Bleeker's face change, saw the apprehension dawn in his eyes. Was Enfield actually hoping to persuade him to put up $8,000 more? Had Charlotte and the lawyer lost their wits completely?

Alfred Bleeker would part with $8,000 about as eagerly as with his right hand!

"I'm sure Mr. Bleeker will let me give half the sum and not insist on having that pleasure all to himself."

Carol Bleeker glanced at her husband. Larsen stated. There was a quality in her voice which stunned him. She seemed, unless his ears were playing pranks upon him, to be actually fond of the funny pompous little man.

Bleeker cleared his throat. "I—er I was on the point of making exactly that suggestion, my dear. By all means! You shall write your check separately, if you like. At once; there's no reason for delay."

Charlotte Gray watched them as they filled out their checks and blotted them. Larsen surreptitiously pinched his thigh. He must be mad or dreaming. This thing could not be true.

"And, if you don't mind, please give me a note of instruction with the checks," said Enfield. "Just a line saying that these funds are advanced to pay Harry Rackham's obligation to the surety company. I'll give you a receipt to the same effect. In matters like this I must have my record absolutely clear. I might easily give rise to misconstruction if I received such a payment without an express statement of its purpose."

Bleeker hesitated.

"I scarcely see the need of that. The payment itself—"

"Still, I'm afraid I must insist," said Enfield pleasantly.

Bleeker exchanged glances with his wife. Larsen saw her nod. He went back to the desk and wrote a few lines which Enfield read and pocketed.

"Thanks. Now, at Miss Gray's suggestion, I propose this: we shall remove the pressure on the district attorney by this payment. And Mr. Larsen has consented to use his influence to secure such action before the grand jury, now in session, that they will refuse to indict Rackham. But we shall need evidence which was not forthcoming at the inquest. Our only chance of saving Rackham is to convince the district attorney that Corcoran killed himself. No other explanation will possibly match the facts and acquit Rackham of the deed. But we must have something definite—something tangible, something unmistakable. And unless one or both of you, who were Corcoran's only confidants and intimates, can make a convincing statement of his suicidal intentions, we shall waste our time."

"But—but—" Bleeker started to his feet. "Do you insinuate that either of us could commit perjury—"

"One moment, sir. Perjury is a thing—not a word. There are cases in which the one absolutely contradicts the other. We all know that Corcoran killed himself!" He paused and looked around him.

"We all do know that, don't we Larsen?"

Larsen sulked and forced a reluctant nod. "I'm satisfied of it."

"Yes," said Mrs. Bleeker quietly "We know it."

"Then, knowing the truth are we not, in effect, committing the most contemptible kind of perjury if we sacrifice a boy's life to the letter of a legal deflnation? I am a lawyer, and biased inevitably in favor of the latter, and yet I am straining my strength to do what I ask you to do. Mr. Larsen is the chief of the detective bureau of the police, and, by not arresting me on what he has just heard me say, is violating the letter of his clear duty."

Larsen looked uncomfortable.

"We understand that it is with the best motive," said Carol Bleeker. "But you ask us—"

"I ask you to come with me privately to the district attorney's office, and there, without witnesses, to tell him that Corcoran definitely threatened, time and again, to kill himself, that you had tried to dissuade him without success. A statement of that nature from you both will convince him. Larsen guarantees that."

"I—I can't—I won't!" Bleeker cried. "Carol, I can't—"

Charlotte Gray struck in quitely:

"Oh, yes you can, Mr. Bleeker. Let me tell you a little story. It's a true story, in my own experience, and I'm sure that it will convince you that it is your duty to help us."

Larsen stared at her. Bleeker turned and regarded her amazedly, as if he suspected her sanity. But she began as if unconscious of the effect of her opening sentence:

"There was a woman who had the miserable luck to be the daughter of a very clever, very wicked man, who did his best to make her like him after her mother died and left her in his care. He tried to teach her his trade, tried to make her a theif and a fraud, as he was. And he almost succeeded.

"But she hated him, I think. And when she met a man who seemed a decent gentleman and said he loved her, she took that chance from escaping from the ugly life she led and married him.

"She found that his title was a lie, that his decency was a myth, that his love, I fancy, was a very shoddy counterfeit. And she left him."

Larsen was conscious that every one in the room except the speaker held his breath.

What was Charlotte driving at, with this blunt rehearsal of Carol Bleeker's history? Where did it all lead?

"I don't know what happened to her after that. I know that the husprobably was presently killed, as he probably deserved. In a rather sore did manner of place. I know that the girl lived somehow.

"I know that she met a rather pleasant young man, an American, sometime during or soon after she left her husband, and I think he learned her story, either from her or her late associates.

"At all events, while she was singing in a Vienna concert hall she met another American, an older man, widowed and terribly lonely, trying to live up to a tremendous opinion of himself and his importance.

"He was rich. He fell in love with her. And she married him and came to America with him.

"And presently she found that he was—stingy. He could not bear to part with the money that he had spent the best years of his life acquiring. And her coldness, I think, increased this tendency of his.

"This—this is—" Bleeker burst into speech. His wife glanced at him, and he choked and subsided.

"Very soon she found that the pleasant young American she had known in Europe was at home in the town to which she had come," went on Charlotte, "and that he was not so pleasant as he had seemed!

"He blackmailed her— not, at first, for money, for he knew she had none to give him, but for other things. He compelled her to receive him at her home, to treat him before others, as her friend.

"I think he dared to ask for more than friendship. He was of the type that fancies women are all a sort of living merchandise.

"And desperately she fought two fights. She dared not let her husband know that she had been something very near a thief; I think perhaps it was not only her husband she had to fear, but the police, who do not forget and forgive, easily."

"No. Not at all!" The words seemed to come from Carol Bleeker's lips without her knowledge.

"I thought so," said Miss Gray. "So she fought to keep this man silent and to keep him at arms' length. And she succeeded.

"But she failed to keep the whole secret. Her husband saw a little, suspected much. He was vain, sensitive, easily jealous where his dignity was concerned. And he kept his knowledge to himself, while he laid his plans.

"She did not know that he guessed. He was so shrewd that even the blackmailer believed that he had made a conquest of the husband's liking. And he planned shrewdly. He meant to kill. But he did not mean to suffer for the killing."

"I—I—" Bleeker stood up, one hand at his throat, the other groping as a man gropes who stumbles in the dark. "I—"

"Wait Mr. Bleeker. You haven't heard the whole story yet."

Larsen drew his breath deep.

Alfred Bleeker! But how—

The thing was silly. When Corcoran died, Alfred Bleeker had been sitting with Olaf Larsen, a hundred feet from the room where Corcoran was slain, evidently by someone who stood within a foot of him.

"He was very clever, the husband," Charlotte went on. "He foresaw many things. He saw that if he killed he must kill so that no one could conceivably suspect him. He must invent means of protecting himself even from a hint of suspicion.

"He planned very slowly, very carefully. He found his idea at last—a simple one, but so ingenious that the chances were a thousand to one against detection. But he did not stop there. He left nothing there to chance, nothing unforeseen.

"He even made sure, by putting the police themselves at work, that the intended victim had other enemies—many of them, men who had reason in plenty to kill the man he hated.

"He saw to it that chief detective of the city should be sitting beside when the man died, his witness that he had no hand in it."

"But how—"

Larsen bit his question in two. He was supposed to know how! His business was to follow Charlotte's lead.

Another installment tomorrow.

GRAHAM MAN HELD ON COAST

Percy Warner Howard May Be Brought Back For Trial

Special Dispatch to Record News

GRAHAM, May 25.—Sheriff Cambern has received advices from Sheriff Wade of Ward county, California, that Percy Warner Howard has been captured there in connection with the shallow grave murder in El Paso county, Texas.

Although not yet indicted, Warner is wanted here as implicated in the murder of a man by the name of Brestmyer near South Bend a year and a half ago.

The recent arrest of Warner in California revives the case and the local officers hope to get him here for trial. A reward of $1,000 has been out for his capture.

Warner is also wanted in connection with the murder a few weeks ago of an El Paso service car driver. The driver had contracted to convey a man to another town. In the desert he made the driver get out and dig a grave for himself; then murdered him in cold blood. He took the car.

It is said that Warner's arrest is due indirectly to information given by a former wife whom he had threatened.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

WHY IS A MOSQUITO?
I never could be fond of bees;
I hate the buzzing sound
That fills the branches of the trees
The while they fly around.
I always shudder when I see
Them lurking in my path,
Lest one by chance may light on me
And vent his brutal wrath.

And yet, but for this insect and
The pollen that he carries,
The snow-white buds would not expand
To red and luscious cherries!
The buds upon the apple bough
Would shrivel up and die
And then, when comes next winter, how
Would we have any pie?

This world is filled with creatures which Seem born to stir up strife
Instead of seeking to enrich
The joy of human life.
The grouch, though he be man or beast,
Is loathed by me and you,
And yet he often has, at least
Some useful work to do.

But why mosquitoes are allowed
To hover o'er the land,
A winging stinging spiteful cloud,
I cannot understand.
Perhaps the devil sent them here
From his unhallowed shore
To fill the world with wholesome fear
Of what he has in store!

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER

Consider the world as an auction room. It is stocked with all sorts of articles—some of them extremely valuable, some of them worse than worthless.

Look about you and inspect the collection.

There is something worth having—something that will add to your contentment, contribute to your happiness.

And it is all to be had for a price.

But the things most worth having will not go cheap.

In the auction which you are attending are many other people—many millions of them.

Out of these millions, a great number are likely to want the same things you want.

There are two articles in particular which will come high, on which the bidding will be long and exacting before they are finally knocked down.

One of them is success. The other is happiness. Sometimes they are the same thing. More often they are not.

But for either of these articles you must pay dearly—not in money, but in sacrifice and industry and determination.

Into the price will go many of your pleasures, a great deal of your comfort.

But if you really want one or the other, you will probably be able to get it, provided you keep on bidding, no matter how hard the competition.

But you must want them very greatly to get either of them.

You must want them more than you want anything else—ease or idleness, or "hosts of friends," or "good times" or "holidays."

You must want them more than you want fancy dishes for your meals, of afternoons spent on the golf course, or evenings at bridge, or in company with the high-spirited young gentlemen called "good fellows."

All these things must be given up in the bidding.

Do not think that you must pay in happiness to buy happiness. For real happiness is the permanent sort—the kind that is inside you, and which last for a life time.

The other kind—the running around and eating and drinking more than you should—isn't happiness at all—it is just a cheap imitation which is gone as soon as it is consumed.

Look carefully over the auction room before the sale begins. Pick out something worth having—be sure of that—then bid.

And bid high, for there will be many others present, and if you are not alert and willing to pay the price, they will get the prizes.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE

GEMINI

The aspects have a tendency to make nervous haste. They produce activity, but at a great expenditure of nervous energy, hence, it will be necessary to act with deliberation and maintain optimism, confidence and faith. This is not an auspicious day for important matters or risky ventures.

A child born today will be rash, affectionate and with rare natural talent for art and music.

Is today your birthday? Then you are fluent of speech, ready in emergency, have refined tastes and are a lover of music and art. Yours is rather Bohemian nature, with a roaming tendency. Contentment is a strong factor in your life, therefore the most may not be made of your talents, for there may be too much happiness in life to spur you on to fame.

You should have a marked talent for music, not particularly of a creative power, but certainly as a performer and as an appreciator.

Your enthusiasm is usually short lived, as it is intense and your hobbies will vary as quickly and as unaccountably as the weather. But do not regard this as a serious fault of character as sooner or later your fads will solidlfy into a permanent interest and once focused on an object will make you a thoroughly informed authority in some one thing.

It may be science or politics or law or something totally unrelated to your first impulses, but once you achieve it you will be better rounded than others who have spent their entire lives in this one pursuit.

The ordinary thing does not hold your attention any more than the ordinary thought and dull, unoriginal people drive you to the extremes of vituperation.

You are generous in spirit, but not in fact. That is, you will judge your fellowmen leniently, but you will help only them who help themselves, as you are extremely intolerant of all weaknesses, forgetting that you are not immune from them yourself.

Duality characterizes the love affairs of either sex. Previous to marriage you are changeable and capricious and you will have numerous affairs of the heart, afterwards you will be faithful and loyal, though frequently lacking in affection.

Your Heart and Home Problems Solved By Elizabeth Thompsun

Happy: The young lady did not send her address. The postmark on the envelope, however, was from Illinois. If she is the young lady you think she is, you will probably hear from her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman 27 years old and I have been married four and a half years. My husband is a man who is very attractive to women, although very few women are attractive to him. He is not goodlooking and he is not attentive to women, but for some reason all my women friends have made a great fuss over him.

When I say that few women are attractive to him it sounds as though his love most decidedly belongs to me, but the few who do interest him make such an impression that many times I have felt I would have to leave him because he was not true to me. Night after night I have stayed at home alone, waiting for him to return and he has not come. But sooner or later he has tired of his new love and has wanted me again.

My husband does not mean to be bad, but he is spoiled, and self-indulgent. He is the dearest man in the world at the times he loves me and then I feel I could never give him up, but when he is faithless my heart aches so that I feel it would be better never to see him again than to suffer so.

Recently I had a strange experience. I had gone through a period of staying at home alone and so I decided to visit a married brother in another state. At first my husband seemed willing. I should go, but as the time approached I could see he was going to miss me and wanted me to stay. I went anyway, because I thought it would be a good thing for both of us.

My brother has an unmarried friend who was at his home most of the time and so wherever we went he went along. We danced and had a fine time for a week and then my husband appeared. He was lonely and asked for a vacation for a week. Of course we went on just as we had been doing, dancing and having good times. My husband does not dance, sis.m. My husband does not dance, but he went along and watched us. Before long he became so jealous of the bachelor that I didn't know what to do. He showed his jealousy so plainly that we did not dare dance together.

Now we are home again and although my husband comes home after work, he pouts and he is constantly saying something insinuating about my "bachelor lover." This makes me very angry because it is so unfair. I get so discouraged and don't know what to do to restore my husband to his former faith in me. What would you advise? KATHERINE K.

You will find that in a short time your husband will tire of pouting if you pay no attention to his mood. Don't try to argue with him. Simply tell him that he can trust you to be just as faithful to him as he is to you. Such a statement will not be very comforting, but it will give him something to think about and will do him good. In the long run I believe you will find it has done your husband good to be jealous of you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I expect to have a few young people in for Sunday evening lunch. Would it be appropriate to have sandwiches? Also, would creamed potatoes, sandwiches, cake, cookies, sliced fruit, cocoa or coffee be enough? THANK YOU.

Sandwiches are entirely appropriate and it would be very nice to have two kinds. I wouldn't have creamed potatoes if I were you. Why not serve a salad instead?

Testimony Resumed In Oil Case Today

Testimony will be resumed today in the case of H. D. Lewis vs. C. D. Thorman, the trial of which was started before a jury in the Eighty-ninth district court Friday afternoon.

The case involves ownership of an oil well drilled by several local men who are now litigants in the suit. It developed that when the well had been put down to a prescribed depth, it was decided that it should be drilled deeper. This cost was to be divided among the various stockholders and now action is being brought to effect a settlement.

Only a small amount of testimony was taken Friday.

THREE-OF-A-KIND ARE THESE NEW SUITS

By ELOISE.

It is not hard to choose the style of your sport suit this year, for the accepted modes are very similar. The difficult things to choose are the material and the color scheme. Here are three suits which show the favorism exhibited for the finely pleated skirt of a plain tight color, often pure white, and the side-tied jacket of a print and embroidered crepe or some other novelty sport silk. All three are distinctive and yet all follow the same lines. Roshanara crepe makes the costumes at the left and right, but flannel makes the clever model in the center.

The flannel skirt is knife pleated and the long side-tied coat is black and white worsted bound in black gros grain ribbon. Wide sleeves, a standing collar and one pocket are interesting features.

Flat white crepe, accordion pleated, makes the skirt of the suit at the left. the short side-fastened coat is of black roshanara crepe made in Chinese mandarin style. It is vividly embroidered in a typical Chinese design. The smart little poke hat is of black felt with a chou of white gros grain and ermine tails, a trifle different from the usual millinery trim, one must admit.

Oyster white roshanara crepe makes the two-piece suit at the right. The knife pleating on the skirt has an occasional box pleat to break the monotonw. The coat is embroidered in a design of Indian print inspiration in fine black stitching and it ties in a large bow ate the left side. The roll collar and wide slashed sleeves are faced with self material. A balck and white trim is featured on the white hat to match the costume. Donkey ears of ribbon add a pert touch.

Dollar Bill Raised to Ten-Spot Brought To Sheriff From Thrift

A $1 bill that had been cleverly raised to $10 and which had been passed on a merchant at Thrift, Texas, was brought to the sheriff's office Friday. A search is being conducted for the man who passed the bill. Similar spurious notes were circulated recently at Burkburnett, it is reported, and from all available descriptions, the same person has been responsible for both.

The figures that had been changed were printed neatly on exceedingly thin onionskin paper, with a green ink almost identical in color with that of the original bill. Over each of the corner figures of the $1 bill one of these small squares of paper, bearing a 10 was carefully pasted.

The same procedure was followed with the printed letters and the finished product could easily have passed anything but a most critical examination.

So far as is known, none of the bills have been put in circulation in Wichita Falls.

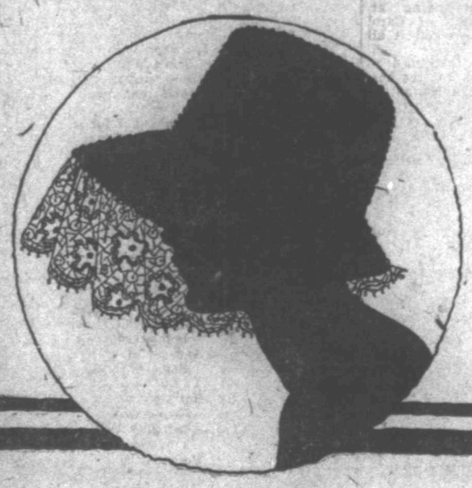

DULL POLICE COURT

Thursday and Friday proved to be two of the dullest days the police department has experienced in a long time. Only two arrests, both on speeding charges, were made during the period and a single plea of guilty on a vagrancy charge was the only case called up for trial at the Friday morning session of court.

This case was that of a negro woman who was fined $10 on her plea.

Mme. Marilina Sever Bocu, who is in this county as a forerunner of the queen of Roumania, is literally—not figuratively—a lady-in-waiting to her queen. Queen Marie was expected this spring, but she has postponed her visit until fall, and Mme. Bocu is trying to keep busy until her monarch arrives. At present she is in Philadelphia, Pa., working in the interest of the widows and orphans of her country, and seeking to interest Americans in their needs.

Mme. Bocu is the wife of Sever Bocu, Roumanian political writer and leader of the national party in the province of Bunat. Mme. Bocu is shown here in her native costume.

An American girl, only 15 years old, Marsde Burrows, of New York, has had two miniatures accepted at the Paris salon. She is said to be the youngest exhibitor ever on record there.

OUR WOMEN LAWMAKERS

Ohio is unusual, in having a New York woman sitting in the state legislature. She is Mrs. May Van Wye. Mrs. Van Wye adopted Ohio as her state after her marriage, and has lived in Cincinnati since. Her husband is Benjamin C. Van Wye, professor at University of Cincinnati.

"My election came as a surprise to me," says Mrs. Van Wye. "I was not active in politics previous to my nomination, and I knew of no reason for the women proposing me except for my long and active work as an executive in the Y. W. C. A. I may say that my work in the Y. W. has helped me with many of the labor problems concerning women which have come before me." Mrs. Van Wye was elected by republicans of Hamilton county to sit in the lower house.

FEMININE ROTARIANS

Now there is established a women's rotary club. Many do not know the professions and various lines of endeavor in which women are engaged. This new organization throws some light upon who's who in the fields. There are coffee and tea tasters, executives of large companies, women engineers, women doctors, women lawyers, women architects, women bird specialists, women bankers, women auditors and women undertakers. There are women in every line of industry and in the 50 classifications. Two feminine organizations recently established are Altrusa and Zonta. The former follows the idea of the men's rotary clubs, and the latter is patterned after the Kiwanis clubs. Both are now national organizations.

ABOUT WOMEN THE WORLD OVER

Germany.—The German national council of women is giving instructions in every community to educate women to their new duties as jurors. The privilege of serving on the jury was only recently granted the women of Germany.

Holland.—In spite of the fact that Holland was discriminated against women for judicial positions, they are admitted to the highest posts in the Dutch civil service. And, further, the number of women holding such posts has been steadily gaining.

POPPY SALE TODAY

All who care to help the soldiers left disabled by the world war may have an opportunity to do so today when women of the auxiliary to the American Legion will hold their annual poppy sale. Booths will be arranged at P. B. M., McClurkan & Co., Perkins-Timberlake, Tiptons and Winstons, in charge of Mesdames D. A. Wilcoxsen, C. R. Taylor, Ira Brown, R. M. Wilhite and J. T. Abbott.

The sale begins at 8 o'clock in the morning and by evening everyone in the city is expected by the Auxiliary to be wearing a poppy.

100 EXPECTED FOR CONVENTION

Southwest Waterworks Association Will Meet Here June 18

Over 100 reservations have been made at the Kemp hotel for the Southwest Waterworks association convention that convenes here June 18, it was announced Friday by officials in charge of the city's arrangements. Other reservations are coming in daily, it is reported.

A total of 400 or more delegates are expected for the four-day session that will bring representatives from eight southwestern states.

Plans are being formulated for decorations and exhibits to be put up at the American Legion hall, where the convention sessions will be held. Arrangements are also being made for the inspection tour of the irrigation work and for the chamber of commerce banquet to be tendered the visitors the first night of the convention.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY OF MISS AGUILLIARD IS ATTESTED TO BY NOTARY

Young Woman Was a Helpless Invalid, When Her Health Is Completely Restored By Taking Stella Vitae Treatment.

A remarkable instance of the wonderful reconstructive powers of Stella-Vitae is that of Miss Alice Aguilliard, a resident of Eunice, Louisiana, who was restored to perfect health after suffering a nervous breakdown that made her a helpless invalid for six months. Miss Aguilliard writes as follows:

"I am writing you that you may know how much I appreciate what Stella Vitae has done for me.

"I am 20 years old and had always been healthy. A year ago in July I became very nervous and in a few days was perfectly helpless and stayed in a nervous condition for six months.

"I could do nothing at all, almost had spasms, and although I tried everything possible nothing had any effect. I was nothing but skin and bones and people could hardly speak above a whisper in my room, for I would jump out of bed and then would shake for hours like I had a hard chill.

"On January 1, 1922, I began taking Stella Vitae. I had been in bed almost constantly for six months. In a month I was up and by the end of two months was able to go to work, and now I can do all my work and have no more nervous spells and am gaining weight.

"I thank you for my recovery and willing to testify to any one of the good it has done me."
(Signed) "Alice Aguilliard."

Appended to the above statement was the following attestation:

"I certify that the above is correct and true, as I am a personal witness of this case.
"Minnie E. Carron, Notary Public."

The foregoing statement, made voluntarily by Miss Aguilliard, is but one among thousands of others constantly being received at the Thacher laboratories attesting the unquestioned merits of the Stella Vitae treatment. Never before, perhaps, has any treatment accomplished such remarkable results in overcoming troubles peculiar to womankind and restoring them to their natural health, strength and happiness as that which invariably follows the use of Stella Vitae, the vegetable preparation that is now creating such intense interest everywhere it has been introduced.

Note—Stella Vitae may be obtained from any druggist and is sold upon the positive guarantee that the purchase price will be refunded if it fails to bring relief. Miller's Drug Store, Tipton's Drug store.—Adv.

Spudders Wade Into Buffaloes and Win, 8-1

MEINE ALLOWS ONLY SIX HITS AND IS EFFECTIVE IN PINCHES; COTTER WALLOPS 6TH HOMER

Splendid Support Is Accorded New Pitcher Who Gets Out Of One Wild Inning Without a Run—Buffs Close Series Today.

By "DINK" ADDINGTON

Maybe it was a switch in the batting order; maybe it was just a smile from the Goddess of Fortune; more likely it was the scarcity of base hits which Mr. Henry Meine dealt out to the Houston Buffaloes. At any rate, the Spudders came out of their streak and buggy-whipped Hunter Hill's cohorts for a flat-sided victory, 8 to 1, yesterday afternoon. Despite Meine's wildness in one particular spot, he showed that he was effective in the tight places and only once were the Buffs able to get around.

Meine breezed through five innings with but one hit collected off his delivery. In the third he walked the first three men to face him, filling the bases with none out, but he buckled up and his pals rallied to his aid, retiring the side without a run. After the cushions had been jammed, Sperber flied to Cotter and all runners were held on their stations. With Schultz up, Berger, White and Elliott completed a fast and snappy double play which sank into the hides of the Buffaloes.

Meine Shows Well.

The game was the first Spudder victory since their return home and the showing of Meine lent more encouragement to local fandom. If he and Stauffer can continue to hurl the brand of pastime they have in the last two days, the Spuds are bound to win some ball games.

White's single, Tanner's infield out and Cotter's singe gave the Spudders an early lead in the first and they came back with four more tallies in the second. Schmandt robbed Elliott of a hit by stabbing his hot liner with his gloved hand. Berger bolted a double to left and took third when Bischoff was safe on Schmandt's error of Handley's throw. Bischoff stole second. Meine fanned, but Bescher filled the paths with a walk.

White came through just at the right time with a single into center scoring Berger and Bischoff. Bescher went to third and White to second on the throw in. Tanner splashed a double off Bell's dogs counting Bescher and White. Berley relieved Goodwin at the start of the third.

Cotter's Sixth Homer.

In the fourth with two out, Tanner walked and went to second when Schmandt fooled Berley's throw to nip him off. Cotter whacked his sixth home run of the year over the right field boards scoring Tanner out in front. The swat out Cotter in a tie with Riley and "Simmons of Shreveport for the round trip honors of the league. Berger's second double of the game, and Bescher's triple, added the Spudder counting in the fifth.

Heinie Mueller was the only invader to get a safety off Meine in the first five rounds. Heine shot one past Tanner in the second but was out trying to make a double. Bescher to Berger.

Sperber singled in the sixth and took second on a wild pitch. Schultz sacked out but Stanbury scored Sperber with the Buff's only run by singling to center.

Selm's men threatened again the sixth when Cotter walked and Grigsby singled. Elliott flew out and Berger made a noise like another double but Sperber went to the fence in left and picked his drive out of the air, averting trouble.

Splendid support was accorded Meine by the entire Spudder club and the victory is branded as indicative of a start on the home soil. It is probable that Rip Wheeler will celebrate his return by working in the final game against the Buffs this afternoon.

RABBIT DARROUGH AND PAT FLAHERTY TO WESTERN LOOP

Pitchers Pat Flaherty and Rabbit Darrough have found other fields in which to toil. Manager Salm announced yesterday that Flaherty had been sold to the Des Moines club of the Western league, the same club which took Joe Klugman from the Spudders, and that Rabbit Darrough had been forwarded to the Omaha club of the same league. Darrough was with Omaha part of last season.

His Record Is Due To Stand

Cy and Ken Williams are out to hang up some new home run records in the big shoys this year. But it is doubtful if they or anyone else will equal or surpass the feat of Pete Schneider. This former Cinci Red pitcher, now playing the outfield for Vernon in the Pacific Coast league, recently slammed out five home runs in one game. His sixth time up he missed another who the drive fell a few feet in front of the fence.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—Connie Mack's youngsters today took another game from the Yankees, 3 of the Athletics' four runs being homers. The score was 4 to 2. The Athletics have now won four games from the Yankees out of five times the teams have met this year. Rollie Naylor, undefeated Athletics pitcher, turned in his fifth straight triumphph. Shawkey pitched a fine game for New York until the eighth when he weakened. Score:

GIBBONS TO TRAIN AT SCENE OF BOUT

International News Dispatch

SHELBY, Mont., May 25.—Mike Collins, promoter of the Dempsey-Gibbons championship bout, after a long distance telephone conversation with Eddie Kane, the contender's manager, announced here today that Gibbons has definitely decided to train at Shelby. Kane and Gibbons, accompanied by Mrs. Gibbons and their three children, will arrive next week and immediately take up quarters in a home already arranged for them by Shelby people.

A training camp is already under construction and will be in readiness for Gibbons and his sparring partners when they arrive. Both Billings and Havre have been strong contenders for the headquarters for the Gibbons' party. For the present Collins and assistants are making the Shelby hotel their headquarters.

Keeping Pace In The Chess Match

Between Houston And Wichita Falls

Houston—Knight to King Bishop 4

Well it's here at last—Houston's move, so everybody that was taking a little nap for himself can now sit up and take notice again. The move is not an unexpected one; it is only our old friend, Don Quixote on the warpath again, and again flirting with Wichita's queen. For days the old boy was in a comatose state; then Houston sent out a reconnoitering party in the shape of a pawn who nestled up alongside of the Don's fiery, untamed steed and in all probability applied a pulmometer to the Don.

During the days of watchful waiting that followed, all semed to hang in the balance and be dependent upon the result of the faithful Sancho's nursing. At last we have the glad tidings from Houston by wire that the Don is on the warpath again. We thought the faithful Sancho would give the Don or the valiant steed a shot in the leg or something and that sooner or later the Don would show signs of life. This last move threatens Wichita's queen again and if the Don doesn't behave it will be necessary to start an expedition after him and put him to sleep with his brother knight.

Sancho didn't take all of the dope with him either. He left some of it behind for future use and somebody in Houston must hove tapped the private stock of the same elixir of life used on the Don in emergency cases for the telegram after days of lethargy urgently calls for more speed. We are with you, Houston, when it comes to speed and hope the Don's stock will last long enough to guarantee the finish of the game. It's potent dope and we would like to have the formula.

The Spudders got their bearings,
And started on a streak;
We hope they never lose a game,
For at least another week.

Fort Worth Cats on top. Who'll bump 'em off?

Any time you walk the first three men up and get out without being scored on, it's something to write down in the old memory book. That's what Meine did.

There was three men on the bases,
And another at the bat;
And not a run was counted,
Now what da' ya' think of that?

Schmandt played the pickpocket on Elliott in the second. He robbed the Ace with a leaping catch of his liner.

He leaped into the ozone,
And speared a torrid clout;
It had sufficient power,
To turn him inside out.

The double play which Berger started in the third, was a quick and flashy piece of business and saved Meine from some embarrassment.

Joe came close enough to getting three doubles to chalk it down in the base hit book. Sperber went to the fence to get his third wallop.

Cotter went into the clean-up position, succeeding Ace Elliott, and celebrated by getting a single, home run, two walks and run out.

Fort Worth Gardner Is Taken At Waiver Price

Cecil Coombs, outfielder who has chased in the garden for the Fort Worth Cats, has been claimed by Manager Walter Salm of the Spudders and is due to report here for duty today. The Cats asked waivers on Coombs an dhe was claimed by the local mentor.

Last year Coombs hit .311 with the Cats and the season before he was swinging the willow at the rate of .293. He has not been in action to any great extent this year, Bill Stellbauer could not be benched because of the way he was hitting and Doc Jacinto Calvo was making such a good job of centerfielding that Manager Ats could not leave him out. With Sears in left field there was no room for Coombs. Coombs can play first base and is rated as a handy man.

Acquisition of the new outfielder will make it necessary for Manager Salm to take another whack at his playing roster. No one was cut off last night but Manager Salm may trim down today.

INDIAN GUIDE—

to take advantage of my offer.

"How could I feel annoyed over not seeing Mrs. Stillman? The only time I tried to see her since this affair broke was last April when I was up north. I called at Grand Anse, hoping to see her, but she had not arrived. I understood she arrived there last Saturday."

Grand Anse is the Canadian lodge owned by Mrs. Stillman.

In his exclusive interview with International News Service Beauvais dismissed as "vile slanders" all assertions that he had at any time "sold out" or expressed a desire to "sell out" to Stillman. He was emphatic in saying he believed Mrs. Stillman would "have an easy victory in the courts."

Letters Referred to Child

When the rich banker brought his suit he charged Beauvais with being the father of 3-year-old Guy Stillman, both Mrs. Stillman and the co-respondent denied this as alleged. The letters mentioned by Beauvais bore reference to Guy.

"Did you see how many of these alleged letters were published before these three?" continued Beauvais. "There were quite a number. Why did they not accuse me of having sold them all instead of only three?" The fact is they wanted these three alleged letters admitted as evidence and the only way they cuold get them in was to have some one swear I sold them.

"I have borne any number of these slanders and never said a word. These people think that because they themselves are not honest or straight or true blue, no one else is."

Makes Money Bootlegging

Beauvais admitted he had a large sum of money at the time he was accused of selling the letters but said there was no secret about that.

"The way that money was made had nothing to do with the real estate business in which I was engaged for a time," said Beauvais. "It had nothing to do with the Stillman case in any way. But it had a great deal to do with an "occupation now held in the highest esteem in the United States and one which has raised many men to affluence."

But Beauvais said he did not follow this "occupation" any more. He did not attempt to get intimate details, but the explanation appeared quite reasonable in view of the possibilities for trade between Canada and the United States in the past few years.

Women Champions Will Tee Off For Southern Title At Fort Worth Today

Associated Press Dispatch

FORT WORTH, May 25.—Two real champions will stage an historical golf battle here at Rivercrest Country club tomorrow, beginning at 9:30 o'clock, when Mrs. Dosier Lowder of Atlanta, title holder, will tee off with Mrs. David Gaut of Memphis, Western champion, in the 36-hole finals of the women's Southern golf tournament. Eighteen holes will be played in the morning and 18 in the afternoon, if needed, the afternoon round starting at 1:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Gaut won her way into the finals by defeating Mrs. Kenneth Duffield of Memphis today. Playing a brilliant game, Mrs. Gaut did not allow her opponent a hole, gave her but three halves and checked her out at the clubhouse on number 11 green, 8 up and 7 to play.

Mrs. Lowndes had some trouble with Mrs. Herman Gartner of Fort Worth, who fought pluckily against overwhelming odds and stuck along to the seventeenth green.

Mrs. Gaut, who had been the only one of the semi-finalists to play in the mixed foursomes on yesterday, giving her 36 holes of golf, evidently profited by the extra holes the day before, for she broke loose with the best brand of golf she has shown since the tourney started last Monday. Mrs. Duffield missed her first tee shot and never got up.

Coming off No. 7, Mrs. Gaut was but three over fours with a 31 for 7 holes. Her card for the first 9 was 41, the lowest 9-holes shot in the tournament to date, and she was still shooting pars when she became hungry at the clubhouse and finished the match. Her card was an even bogy for the first 9.

OIL BILL WILL—be made to both branches Monday, Representative Satterwhite, chairman, announced.

Members of the committee said the plan includes a resolution of certain appropriations made by the last session and the passage of certain revenue bills. Included in the list of revenue measures which probably will be recommended by the committee is the gross oil production tax, pipe line tax and telephone tax, it was said. Reduction of the emergency school appropriation of $6,000,000 also may be recommended. It was stated specific recommendations may not be included in the report.

Joint committee members looked with favor on the plan. A meeting of the entire committee will be held Monday and the plan finally acted upon.

A group of the committee held a conference today with Governor Neff and considered plans for bringing the session to a close.

RECLAMATION FOES WIN VICTORY

AUSTIN, May 25.—Members seeking repeal of the $600,000 reclamation and flood control appropriation won a victory in the house today when the Bonham bill, proposing the repeal was ordered printed on minority report. The bill was reported unfavorably by the reclamation committee this afternoon. Motion to table the motion to print, lost 20 to 83. The bill probably will be up for consideration Monday.

The house spent a stormy afternoon, numerous attempts being made to adjourn the body. It was not until a quorum was broken that adjournment was taken until Monday morning.

The Patman bill proposing an occupation tax on electric light, express, interurban, telephone and telegraph companies, was before the house for a short time, but was postponed when adjournment was had. Amendments to alter the population scale of cities and to strike telephone companies from the bill were pending.

Representative Lackey gave notice he will call up on Monday the bill board tax measure for further consideration.

The revenue and taxation committee reported favorably the following bills: Carpenter, requiring teaching of the constitution in public schools; Downs, delinquent tax collections; Patman, occupation tax on automobile accessory dealers; Downs, inheritance tax collections; the Quinn bill, to require casualty insurance concerns to invest 75 per cent of their reserve in Texas, was reported unfavorably.

tion arising out of the capture and imprisonment of five Americans by Shangtung train bandits.

This was candidly admitted today by members of the cabinet as they met again at the White House to consider American policy.

But three avenues of action are open to this and other foreign government in handling the situation, it was said by one member of the cabinet. They are:

1—Deal with the bandits directly, ignoring the weak and tottering government at Peking.

2—Employ the use of foreign troops in a punitive expedition to release the prisoners and chastize the bandits.

3—Compel the present government at Pekin to produce the prisoners and pay indemnity for losses and injuries suffered.

The administration is extremely although this course may ultimately although this course may ultimately have to be followed, it was said. To deal with the outlaws, however, would doubtless encourage other bandit gangs.

Similarly, President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes are extremely hesitant to employ troops.

PLANES MAY BE USED IN NEW ATTACK

SHANGHAI, May 25.—Military Governor Tien of Shantung province is attempting to obtain four airplanes from Peking for use against the bandits encamped up on a mountain top near Lincheng with a number of foreign captives, including Americans, according to information from Shao Ting Fu today. The military government has about 15,000 troops surrounding the mountain.

The military governor has gone to Puo Ting Fu to try to persuade Tsao-Kun, inspector general of Shantung, to launch an aggressive campaign to clean out all the bandits in the province.

The inspector general is hesitating to open an offensive for fear it will result in all the foreign prisoners being killed.

HASKELL WINS SUIT FILED BY BROKER

International News Dispatch

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 25. A verdict in favor of former Gov. Charles M. Haskell, of Oklahoma and Matthew G. Collins, his business partner, was returned today in the suit of Richard H. Tobin, New York investment broker who claimed $175,000 commission on an oil land deal that was never completed.

Supreme Court Justice Morschauser denied a motion for a new trial.

Tobin alleged he had arranged for Haskell and Collins to purchase a $3,000,000 oil tract in Texas from George J. Shaw and that he obtained an option for them. His commission was due upon obtaining the option, he said.

Haskell and Collins claimed the sum was payable only on consummation of the deal which fell through they said, when they found the property's production was not up to their requirements.

17-Year-Old Sets New World Record In 50-Yard Swim

Associated Press Dispatch

HONOLULU, May 25. — Lillie Bowmer, 17-year-old school girl weighing approximately 100 pounds, last night swam the fastest 50 yards ever covered by a woma nand broke the worlds tank record by four-fifths of a second. Her time was 28 seconds flat.

In a hairline finish she defeated Mariechem Wehselau, who established the former record of 28 4-5 seconds last fall. Prior to that time the mark had been 29 flat, set by Dorothy Burns of Philadelphia, five years previously.

Last night's annual Hawaiian woman's swimming meet also saw another world mark obliterated, it is believed, Helen Moses, member of the American team that competed in the Antwerp Olympic made 61 feet 6½ inches in the plunge for distance in one minute.

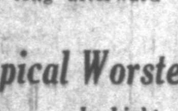

Valley Record Broken

Associated Press Dispatch

AMES, Iowa, May 25.—One Missouri Valley conference record was broken and several others were endangered in the preliminaries of the sixteenth annual Missouri Valley track and field meet held here today.

Hartley of Nebraska threw the javelin 178.4 feet, bettering the old record of 173 feet 1½ inches, made by Hamilton of Missouri by five feet.

CALIFORNIA OIL LEADS IN RISE

All Prices Go Higher; Other Oil Shares Score Gains

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 25.—Prices continued their rise to higher ground in todays active stock market, despite some intermittent selling of the steel shares. While the advance was not as spectacular as that of yesterday, gains of 1 to 2 points were numerous.

Speculators for the advance were encouraged by the address of Elbert H. Gary before the American Iron and Steel Institute, which set forth that there was nothing in sight to indicate a material slackening for steel for at least six months and criticized the apparently "deliberate and persistent attempts to create an impression that there will be in the near future substantial decrease in business activities."

California Petroleum again was the individual feature. This stock moved up to 112½, slipped back to 109 1-4 on profit taking and then shot up again to 114 5-8, closing at a net gain of nearly 3½ points. Gains of a point or more also were recorded by Standard Oil of California, Cosden, Houston, Phillips Petroleum, Simms and Pan-American.

Quarterly reports of three of the principal copper companies—Nevada, Utah and Ray—all showed improvement over the last quarter of 1922 in the first quarter this year. Most of the copper shares showed small fractional gains on the day.

Considerable irregularity developed in the rail shares with a number of active issues showing net losses at the close.

Call money held at 4½ percent throughout the day. The demand and supply of time money is not large, with maturities up to four months arrange at 5 percent and bankers asking 5 1-4 for the longer dates.

Slight weakness of French exchange; which dropped to 6.60 cents in reflection of the cabinet crisis and then rallied a point, was the feature of the dull trading in foreign exchanges. Demand sterling held fairly steady around 4.62¼ dollars, and German marks around .0018½ cents.

COFFEE MARKET.

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 25.—There were further advances in the market for coffee futures today. Sales were estimated at 63,000 bags, or the largest day's busines reported in some time. Closing quotations: July 9.80; September 8.83; December 8.38; March 8.33 and May 1924, 8.25.

Spot coffee steady at 11 3-8 to 11½ for Rio 7s, and 14½ to 15 for Santos 4s.

BEATING SWORDS TO PLOUGHSHARES

The Krupp plants are "beating swords into ploughshares" and this can be taken almost literally, for reapers are the next thing to ploughs. The world's greatest munitions plant is now turning out farm implements to capacity. Production continues despite the fact that the French have just sentenced Gustav Krupp to 15 years' servitude for inciting his workers to riot.

BRADSTREET'S REPORT.

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 25.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Trade, crops and industry present a more irregular, in fact, spotty condition, which on the whole, shows a shade more activity in retail trade, but with less driving force visible in several lines of industry. An excess of rain in some areas, notably the south and southwest, and rather better weather noted at some northwestern and western points, are probably responsible for the variations visible in retail trade, although the backwardness of the season as a whole has tended to keep final distribution below expectations. Wholesales and jobbing trade show small changes on the week, while industry, as a whole, has shown a fairly rapid progress, the building trades, partly because of strikes, have slowed down at the largest center, while the indisposition of buyers to go ahead freely on the basis of material and labor costs, is responsible for fewer new constructions being planned or entered upon.

Weekly bank clearings $7,457,318,000.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Salmon Loaf—One pound can salmon, two tablespoons melted fat, one-half cup milk, few drops lemon juice, cayenne, one cup mashed potatoes or cooked rice, one or two cups soft stale bread crumbs, salt, one tablespoon minced parsley. Soak crumbs in the milk. Remove oil, bones and skin from the fish. To it add the melted fat, seasoning and potatoes or rice. Add the soaked crumbs. Put into a well buttered mold. Steam one hour. Serve with white or egg sauce.

Pineapple Mousse—One tablespoon granulated gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, one cup pineapple syrup, two tablespoons lemon juice, one cup sugar, one quart cream. Heat one can pineapple and drain. To one cup of the syrup add gelatin soaked in cold water, lemon juice and sugar. Strain and cool. As mixture thickens fold in the whip from cream. Mold, pack in salt and ice, and let stand four hours. Raw pineapple contains enzyme, which prevents it hardening in gelatin. Cooking kills the enzyme and it can then be safely added to the gelatin.

SUGGESTIONS

On Wash Day—Did you ever try pinning a cloth to the sides of the washboiler with clothespins when you strain your rainwater? It is so much easier than holding the cloth over the pail.

To Whiten Hardwood Floors—Add two tablespoons of paraffin to the hot soapy water used for washing the floor. This will also destroy any insects that may be lurking in the cracks.

When Doing Embroidery—instead of using embroidery hoops when you have some embroidery to do on material that is very likely to stretch or pull, baste the stamped article on stiff brown wrapping paper or enamel cloth, which is flexible and can be crumpled in the hand, but will not allow the goods to stretch. The work is more easily done and more satisfactory in every way.

For Salt and Pepper Shakers—Instead of trying to fit corks into salt and pepper shakers, put a piece of adhesive tape over the opening.

New Use for Corn Popper—Use the corn popper for washing raisins, currants and other small fruits. The cover can be locked on and the whole popper put under the water and shaken, thus washing the fruit thoroughly without crushing or breaking it.

For the Invalid—A most useful gift is a cretonne bag made similar to a shoe bag, but having about eight compartments, each separated from the other by stitching. This bag should be tied by ribbons to the head of the bed, and in it kept such things as stationery, manicuring articles, hair brush and comb and such little things as an invalid needs, but hesitates to ask for for fear of causing too much trouble.

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 25.—There were reactions in the cotton market today which were probably promoted by talk of increasing mill curtailment in Fall River or other bearish weekend figures but which were most generally attributed to realizing for over the week-end. After selling at 24.88 early or into new ground for the movement. October contracts broke to 24.48, making a net decline of 30 points, and closed at 24.50. The general market closed steady, net unchanged on June, but generally five to 28 points lower.

The market opened steady at an advance of five to 20 points on unfavorable weather reports, with July selling at 27.17 and December at 24.37 during the first few minutes. This advance evidently attracted a good deal of realizing.

The tendency became downward, with July selling off to 26.86 and December to 24.02 in the late trading when the general list was about 15 to 20 points net lower. Closing prices were within a few points of the lowest. Sales of print cloth in the Fall River market for the week were estimated at only 20,000 pieces, which was regarded as equal to about five percent of a week's normal production, and there were rumors that a few of the mills would remain closed from tonight until June 4. Exports today 7,400 bales, making 4,403,688 so far this season. Port receipts 10,980. U. S. port stocks 399,601.

SUGAR MARKET.

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 25.—There was more activity in the local raw sugar market today and prices were firm and unchanged at 6½ cents for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 8.28 for centrifugal. Sales were placed at about 105,000 bags of Cubas for May and June shipment to local refiners.

The raw sugar futures market was firmer. Final prices were several points off from the best, but still 7 to 12 points net higher. Closing: July 6.50; September 6.57; December 6.04; March 4.83.

The market for refined was firmer. Prices were unchanged to 25 points higher, with fine granulated now quoted at from 9.75 to 9.90.

In refined futures trading was confined to November and December deliveries at 9.20.

WHEAT SALES AVERAGE HIGH

Export Business Has Bearish Influence Late In Day

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, May 25.—Owing chiefly to lack of selling pressure, wheat averaged somewhat higher in price today but slowness of export business had a bearish influence during the last part of the exchange session. Closing quotations were unsettled at a range varying from 3-8 cent decline to 1-8 cent advance, with July 1.17 to 1.17 1-8 and September 1.15 1-4 to 1.15 3-8. Corn finished a shade to 5-8 cent off, oats 3-8 cent lower to 1-8 cent gain, and provisions 5 to 10 cents down.

Increased offerings of corn in Iowa led to weakness in the corn market here. Oats followed corn.

Provisions were easier in line with hog values.

ONE KILLED, FIVE HURT AT AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Texas, May 24.—One person was killed and five injured, one probably fatally, two seriously and two slightly, when an automobile was struck by a string of box cars pushed by an engine near the Fort Worth and Denver railroad station here tonight about 10:40 o'clock.

Frances Belk is dead, and her sister, Caroline Belk, is so seriously injured that she may not live. Merton Tomlinson and Raymond Weatherly are seriously injured, and Edna Weatherly and Edwin Sellars received bruises, but were not seriously hurt.

The box cars were being switched and one car had been cut loose from the string near the crossing. The driver of the automobile swerved in an effort to avert a collision, but the automobile was completely demolished.

NEW SKIPPER WINS RIVER PRIZE

Canadian Pacific Steamer Bolingbroke, first ocean vessel to reach Port of Montreal on opening of 1923 season of St. Lawrence navigation, and portrait of Capt. Edmund Aikman, commanding the Bolingbroke.

MONTREAL, May 25.—Much excitement attends the annual opening of navigation on the St. Lawrence river. The captain of first oceangoing vessel to make the port of Montreal each season, is presented with a cane by the Montreal harbor commissioners. The prize was formerly a silk hat, but a silk hat is of so little use to a busy sea captain, that a fine cane was substituted a few years ago.

The steamer "Bolingbroke" of the Canadian Pacific fleet, won the race this year, docking at 3:30 p. m., May 3rd, three hours ahead of her nearest competitor. She left London for Montreal on April 9, calling at Antwerp on April 14th and made good time across the Atlantic.

The "Bolingbroke" is commanded by Captain Edmund Aikman. This was his first voyage in command and therefore he was properly proud to win the gold-headed cane. Captain Aikman is a Scot, having been born at St. Andrews in 1880. His sea service began with eight years in sail and in 1908 he entered the service of the Canadian Pacific. This he left to join the Royal Navy at the outbreak of war and served in it until May 31, 1919. He then returned to the Canadian Pacific where he has served on the Empress of France, Melita and Montcalm before receiving his present command.

WOOL REVIEW.

Associated Press Dispatch

BOSTON, May 25.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"The wool market is still drifting more or less, except for the finer grades of worsted wools, which are steady. Carded woolen descriptions are easier. The manufacturing situation, however, seems to be clearing a bit as regards cancellations. Further exports, chiefly of low wools, are being made.

"The foreign markets are generally steady with hardly anything available in the primary markets.

"Buying in the west has been somewhat irregular this week. It is estimated that fully half of the territory wools have been sold and that easily three quarters of the fine wools have been moved.

"Mohair has been fairly well disposed of in Texas. In this market there has been little business in the staple, although prices are firm."

COTTON SEED OIL.

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 25.—Cotton seed was barely steady early owing to local selling on the poor showing in lard, but buying of the new crop months by one of the larger local operators firmed the market up at the close. Prime crude 10.00; Sales prime summer yellow spot nominal, May 11.75; July 11.41; September 11.15, all bid.

ARTEX WELL TO EXTEND AREA

Wide Stretch South Of Texhoma-Gose May Be Opened Up

The Artex Oil corporation's well on lot 11, block 93, of the American Tribune colony lands, with 700 feet of oil standing in the hole, is expected to open up a wide stretch of territory in Archer county south of the Texhoma-Gose pool, for development.

The well is on the Mrs. Carter tract and is two miles south of the proven Texhoma-Gose field, and one and a quarter miles southwest of the Sunshine States wildcat that was brought in last week. At 1,517 feet the same sand as was encountered by the Sunshine State well was picked up, showing lots of oil which rose in the hole rapidly.

The well may prove a three-mile extension of the Peterson pool. It is being cleaned out and will probably be drilled in early next week.

Shamrock Plugs One

The Shamrock Oil company has plugged No. 1 well on the Kemp land, section 42 of the H. and G. N. railroad survey, in Archer county.

LIVESTOCK

Associated Press Dispatch

FORT WORTH, May 25.—Local and outside buyers were in competition for good cattle Friday and anything went over the scales early in the morning. Steers were steady and on fat cows the market was a shade stronger. Half fat cattle met with the usual indifferent demand and it was late before the run was disposed of. The calf market was quotably unchanged. Receipts were estimated at 2,000 head of cattle and 200 calves, the cattle run including 1,000 head that were on through billing.

No quotable change was observed in the hog market. Salesmen had only 1,000 head to run off and the run was disposed of readily at prices that were steady. Nothing really topgy was here, the best going at 7.35. Most of the run cleared at 7.00@7.25; no pigs the market was barely steady, most of the run going at 5.50@5.75.

Sheep sold readily to a broad demand at steady prices, the run amounting to 1,500 head. Wethers sold at 6.50.

REWARD OFFERED FOR PARNELL CAR

No trace has been found as yet of the Dodge touring car stolen Thursday night from Dr. L. D. Parnell. The machine was parked at the side of the Staley building on Eighth street and was driven away from under the very nose of the owner. A negro man is said to have been piloting the machine when last seen.
The car bore license number 556961, was equipped with snubbers, looked almost like a new machine and had several deep dents in the gasilone tank.
A reward has been offered by Dr. Parnell for the return of two cases of surgical instruments and two small tanks of nitrous oxide that were in the rear of the machine.

BUSINESS COUNCIL MAY DISCONTINUE

Whether or not the chamber of commerce business council shall continue its meetings throughout the summer or disband for the hot months will be brought up for consideration in July, it was decided at the Friday noon session. In the past the council has held no meetings in the summer months.
Recently it was suggested that the council meet only twice a month, but members promptly quashed this idea and gave it as their opinion that the time was past when the council could afford to dispense with a meeting every week.
It is possible that semi-monthly meetings may be held for a time this summer.

SHEPHERD AND HARRISON HEARD

They Make Report On The Chamber Convention At San Angelo

R. E. Shepherd and Hubert Harrison, local chamber of commerce representatives at the West Texas chamber of commerce convention in San Angelo this week, were the principal speakers at Friday noon's business council luncheon. The two men returned Thursday night from the four-day session and gave a report on the convention and its features relating to Wichita Falls.
Although considerable personal sentiment was found among members of the West Texas executive committees favoring the Wichita Falls advocacy of less state appropriations and the elimination of the proposed income tax bill, the committees declined to officially adopt the Wichita Falls resolutions, it was reported.
Both Mr. Shepherd and Mr. Harrison were confident that this city had many friends in the West Texas chamber and stated that a warm and friendly spirit had been manifested time and again by visitors at the convention for Wichita Falls.
This city's status as a non-member of the West Texas chamber was discussed at the meeting but no definite recommendations one way or the other made by the council.

Olston Tells How To Raise Chicks By Incubators

By AL OLSTON
Extension Department, Mariele Coal and Feed Company

Although it is getting rather late to do much more artificial incubation for fall-laying stock, we have lots of time to get our fall market stuff hatched. Many raisers ask me what incubators I prefer for my own use.
I have tried many standard makes of them and find most of the old lines to be very good if run according to the directions sent out from the factory.
I prefer the icnubator method to the hen for many reasons. You can set it any time you so wish, set many more eggs at once and get much bigger results with much less work, worry and expense. Before starting a hatch be sure your machine is well disinfected by boiling a mixture of formaldehyde and water over a small alcohol lamp in the incubator for about 20 minutes only opening the doors now and then to keep the lamp burning. At the end of 20 or 30 minutes, close the doors tight for 24 hours, after which open the machine up and air thoroughly. Do not be alarmed if the machine smells of the formaldehyde when you put in your eggs as this will not harm them in any way.
Keep your machine running at 103 degrees 24 hours before putting in the eggs. Use nothing but eggs from pure bred stock, remembering always that it costs no more to raise fine stock than it does mongrels. You can not expect to get good healthy chicks if the parent birds were below par in flesh and vitality. Use only fresh eggs, especially during this summer weather; they should not be over three or four days old. After the eggs are in the machine put the level on top to make doubly sure your machine is sitting level, as this is most important.

Watch Temperature

If you have a hot water machine, remember to keep it full of water. The temperature may worry you for the first few days, but watch it very closely. Get the temperature to 103 degrees within 24 hours after the eggs are in and keep it there for a week, bringing it up to 104 degrees the second, and the third week bring it to 105 degrees. Be sure your trays are full, remember that eggs shrink during the incubation. Mark each egg on one side so you can tell what eggs you have turned, and turn them twice daily. The reason for this is to give a uniform distribution of heat, to furnish fresh albumen to the embryo, to exercise the chick, giving it strength to kick out of the shell, and to prevent hatching crippled and deformed chicks.
Never turn your eggs with soiled hands. After the first week let your eggs stay out for about 40 minutes, or until the eggs feels warm to the eyebrow. Be sure to have fresh air while turning, but no draft. Test your eggs on the seventh and fourteenth days, hard-boiling the infertile ones to feed your baby chicks.

Turn for 18 Days

At the hatching time watch the egg cells—the cell should be about 1-8 of the egg. If the cell does not grow larger day by day, increase the ventilation. Use only the best tested oil in your lamp; it pays. Stop turning your eggs on the eighteenth day, keeping the temperature now at 103 degrees. When the eggs begin to hatch, remove the chicks as fast ts they are dry, say about every three hours.
If you follow these rules you will have a fairly good hatch of 70 to 80 per cent. I have had much better. If you do not understand me fully call 4351 or write me inclosing a stamped addressed envelope.

A USELESS QUESTION.

It is not an ordinary lawyer that can overcome a woman's reluctance to tell her age, as was illustrated in a case recently tried in a Pennsylvania court.
"And what is your age, madam?" asked the attorney.
"My own," she answered, promptly.
"I understand that, madam, but how old are you?"
"I am not old, sir," with indignation.
"I beg your pardon, madam. I mean how many years have you passed."
"None; the years have passed me."
"All."
"I never heard of them stopping."
"Madam, you must answer my question. I want to know your age."
"I don't know that the acquaintance is deired by the other side."
"I don't see why you refuse to answer my question," said the attorney coaxingly. "I am sure I would tell how old I was if I were asked."
"But nobody would ask you, for everybody knows that you are old enough to know better than to by asking a woman her age, so there."
And the attorney passed on to the next question.

SCOUT HEADS GO TO CAMP

They Will Make Ready For Arrival Of Boys Monday

Chester Powell, scout executive, in company with George Bolin, Wade Bartlett and Carlton Bowman, local scouts, left yesterday afternoon for Crafterville Park, Oklahoma. The remaining scouts, numbering approximately 45, will join the executive in the camp Monday. Mr. Powell carried tents and other equipment with him in order to have the camp in readiness for the large delegation which will arrive Monday for the two weeks' vacation.

The scouts are expected to meet at the Moore & Richolt lot, corner of Ninth and Indiana streets, not later than 6:30 a. m. Monday, and will make the trip to the camp in the Wichita mountains in trucks supplied by the Texas and Texhoma companies and the Wichita Falls Electric company. The tents were secured from the local national guards for the use of the scouts while in their encampment.

Mr. Powell said he intended to hold the encampment for two weeks, and in that time he intended to instruct all the boys that do not know how to swim, and let all the boys take their various tests as they become prepared.

The camp is located 65 miles from Wichita Falls, and is situated in the Wichita mountains in an ideal camping spot. The nearest town to the camp is Cache, Okla.

LOCAL BAR TO HEAR ORATORS

Judge Truman H. Conner Of Civil Appeals Court Will Speak

From the program to be given tonight, some rather feverish oratory is in store for those who attend tonight's meeting of the Wichita County Bar association. Included in the list of speakers is judge Truman H. Conner, chief justice of the court of civil apepals at Fort Worth.

The banquet will be held in the Wichita club rooms and the sale of tickets indicates that a sizable crowd will be on hand.

The full program is as follows:

"Paranoia As a Defense For the Guilty," C. C. McDonald.

"Statute of Frauds," Tarleton Morrow.

"The Best Alibi For Passing Bad Title," H. J. Bruce.

"Some Impressions of Europe," Orville Bullington.

"The Trials of the Appellate Judge," Judge Truman H. Conner.

Get your shoes shined free. The free shines are due to superstition of a negro shine boy regarding peanuts. He is employed in a local shine parlor and as soon as a customer begins eating peanuts the "shiner" makes a break for the back of the parlor and will not appear until the customer has finished eating.

Multiplication in the Nth degree was practiced at San Angelo early this week when R. E. Shepherd and Hubert Harrison represented Wichita Falls at the West Texas chamber of commerce convention. From all accounts the local aggregation scored as heavily as any of the train loads of delegates from other cities.

ELECTION TODAY NO OPPOSITION

Voters Will Decide Whether Land Shall Be Irrigated

As little opposition is expected today in the bond issue election of water improvement district No. 2, as was experienced last Saturday in the balloting on ratification of the contract between the two districts.

The election really means that the voters will decide whether or not their land is to be irrigated, the question being as to whether or not residents of the district will depend on dry-land farming with its uncertainties, the gamble of oil, or to have assured values for all time through the magic of irrigation.

Judge J. E. Starley, general counsel for district No. 2, states that only persons living in district No. 2 in Wichita county, who have been residents of the county for the past six months, and who have paid taxes either on real or personal property, are eligible to vote. Residents of district No. 1 may not vote.

The bond issue is for $1,760,000, payable at the rate of $2.50 per acre per year for 34 years. This includes interest and all payments, with the exception of maintenance of canals and structures.

Three voting boxes are provided, one at Pleasant Valley, one at Denny and one at Allendale schools.

WATER MATTER IS APPROVED

Directors Of Two Districts Ratify Contract As Voted By People

Directors of the two water improvement districts, meeting Friday, canvassed the votes of last Saturday's election in districts Nos. 1 and 2, and declared the contract drawn up between the two districts formally ratified.

In district 1 a total of 133 votes favoring and 16 votes opposing the measure were cast.

In district 2, 34 votes favoring the first three of the four propositions voted on were polled, and 33 votes favoring the last item cast. These included the establishment of a conservation and reclamation district, the voting to levy taxes on a benefit instead of an ad valorem basis, and a vote to assess uniform benefits of $32.25 per acre on all lands in the district receiving irrigation, and $1 per acre on all land not receiving benefit.

New Yorkers are so honest that when a movie with 100 inside caught fire 300 got their money back.
