Brookhart Attack On R. B. Creager Is Taken Up Again

Chairman of Senate Patronage Committee Points Out Newspaper Reports About $100,000 Campaign Fund

WASHINGTON, June 13. (P)—Chairman Brookhart of the senate patronage committee resumed his attack on R. B. Creager, republican national committeeman for Texas, in the senate today by calling attention to newspaper reports that Creager was collecting $100,000 campaign fund in his state this year. Brookhart declared that "this referee named Creager who selects federal appointees in Texas" received notes amounting to $85,000 in 1921 and $38,000 in 1928. This, he said, was developed in testimony before his committee. "Now newspaper reports," he said, "declare that he is collecting $100,000 this year. There was no presidential campaign in 1921 or 1928, and there is none now, but this man is putting on a campaign of coercion not only among postmasters, but among all federal office holders." Creager, Brookhart declared, "practically warns all these office holders that if they do not contribute there will be no more office."

Ample Credit Left In Section Claim

DALLAS, June 13. (P)—While large sums of money have been withdrawn from the Dallas district of the federal reserve bank for loans to buy only the thighs legs or breasts of dressed fowls, there remains ample credit in the territory for legitimate needs. Gus P. Taylor of Tyler, president of the Dallas federal reserve bank stockholders association, declared in an address at the annual meeting of the stockholders here today. This statement, it was believed, opened way for what will prove one of the warmest features of the two-day session. The majority of banks in the district are of the opinion that since there is relatively a small percentage of money from this district used for speculative purposes, the redcount rates here should not be as high as in other districts where considerable strain is made on the banks by such demands. Newspaper men were excluded from the session.

Charities, Church Aided In Will Of Mary Copley Thaw

Aged Philanthropist Leaves Vast Estate to Children And Church Organizations Throughout Nation

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 13. (AP)—In death, as in life, the helping hand of Mary Copley Thaw, philanthropist, today was extended through her last will and testament, to various charities and church organizations in the United States and abroad.

No estimate of the value of the vast estate was given in the will filed for probate today. Mrs. Thaw died last week, aged 85 years.

After setting down scores of bequests to relatives, friends, employees, charities, church organizations and schools, Mrs. Thaw called attention to the fact that her children, Harry K. Joseph C. Thaw, Alice Thaw Whitney, the former Countess of Yarmouth, and Countess Margaret Carnegie de Perigny, had received large financial legacies from their father.

"Knowing the minds of my children as to this determination," read the will, "I designate my specific sum to any of them, and expect to leave as my residuary estate little more than enough to provide for payment of my debts and such legacies, bequests and devises, as are designated."

The residue of the estate is to be divided as follows: four-fifths to her children and one-fifth in three parts to the Third Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh, Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Omaha, Neb., and to Washington College, Tennessee, the latter to be used in maintaining the college as a memorial to a deceased son, Edward.

Mrs. Thaw ordered that the debts of all relatives owed her be cancelled or cut in half, and that all debts in excess of $50,000 due her from Harry K. Thaw be cancelled.

The case of J. D. Gambell et al. vs. Matador Land and Cattle Company, Ltd., which opened Thursday's session of the federal court, had not been finished at the close of court in the afternoon and Judge James C. Wilson announced that it probably would take up the greater part of today's session.

The plaintiffs, charging that they leased 300,000 acres of land near Matador to an oil company at $1 per acre, are seeking a commission for the alleged transaction.

How to Achieve Beauty

Gloves are one of fashion's blessings, and most women regard them so, even if they are articles that seem to get themselves provokingly misplaced oftener than any other personal possession—except, perhaps, umbrellas.

There are fascinating glove styles in other shades as well, for the woman who prefers a wide variety. For gloves are becoming more and more differentiated. While the woman who wears simple, pull-on suede gloves in neutral tones for almost all occasions is appropriately gloved, the novelty loving woman who likes to lead new styles can go in for several colors. For afternoon or evening she may wear pastel-tinted suede in the long one-to-three button type, and with her gaily printed dresses she can have fine lace kid in light, matching or harmonizing shades.

Mr. and Mrs. Eastin Wolfarth are entertaining the Double Down club in the evening in Mrs. W. R. Spencer's home at 2121 16th street.

The U. D. C. is meeting at 3:30 o'clock with Mrs. O. L. Slaton, 1212 Avenue R.

A reception will be given in the evening in the J. B. Edwards residence, 2124 Broadway, complimenting Mrs. J. B. Owens.

The Business and Professional Women's club is to have a picnic at Tumble N park this evening. Hundreds and friends will be guests.

This season white kid gloves are being revived for wear, especially with the black and white ensembles, but also for formal occasions and black-dia women whose hands happen to be large will not consider it necessary to display them in shiny, white-kid gloves. And that those who do choose to wear them will be very sure to keep them always fresh.

The most interesting and popular fashion in gloves—and indeed in everything—is the new sunburn.

Texas Prosperity Pictured In Talk Before Senators

AUSTIN, June 13.—In a speech bristling with optimism toward Texas prosperity, Tom Pollard, chairman of the senate finance committee, today declared that the money bills exceeded by only 4,000,000 the state's anticipated revenue for 1930-31.

Adopt Prosperity Platform. The senate finance committee has adopted a platform of prosperity, Pollard said, and we are proud to recommend to the state measures which will stifle economic but which will mean a new era in the development of Texas.

Farmers Practice Golden Rule Here

"Do Unto Others As You Would Have Them Do Unto You." This is the spirit of the Acuff, Posey and McClung communities.

The heavy rains of recent date, accompanied by severe hail in some sections, laid waste thousands of acres of young cotton in those communities, involving some 25 farmers.

Farmers who escaped the devastation by the icy fall now are uniting in an effort to help their less fortunate neighbors and replanting is going forward at a rapid pace and prospects are good for an excellent crop.

In one instance there were fourteen two-row planters working in the same field at the same time, planting 28 rows at once.

Young Woman Is Shot To Death

Last night the girl, Cales, the girl's sister and a brother of the youth, started in the automobile for a Caney moving picture show. Lella White and Jackson Cales, the other couple, left the automobile in front of the theatre when Margaret and her escort told them they would return to the show after parking their car.

"I am so happy" that the last pimple is gone

EVERY evening thousands enjoy themselves at dinner-parties, dances, theatres, games, clubs. Many thousands more are denied the joy of such merriment and happiness.

Maybe this denial is due to a skin trouble. First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely-clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

My son, be wise, and make my heart glad, that I may answer him that reproacheth me. A prudent man foreseeth the evil, and hideth himself; but the simple pass on, and are punished. -Proverbs xxvii, 11, 12.

THAT NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

THERE are those among us, although they appear to be in the minority, who are wont to believe that in recommending an expenditure of $650,000 for a new Senior high school building the city school board is a little bit ambitious.

Some are already taking the stand that the job can be well done for less money—that $550,000 is too large a sum to pay out, all at once.

The Morning Avalanche can readily see why persons out of touch with the local school situation might stop to think before approving the expenditure of $650,000 for the new building—but it can also see where the new building, costing that much money to erect and equip, is essential to the continued growth of Lubbock.

Before taking too much for granted along the line of its "too-much-money" campaign, stop to consider the personnel of the school board. There's Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, who for more than a score of years has nursed the Lubbock school system from infancy to stalwart manhood. There's C. E. Madsen, a banker, a man whose very business requires him to know the concrete value of a dollar. Neil H. Wright, E. L. Robertson, Smiley Wilson, R. F. Bayless and W. B. Atkins are the other members of the board—every one of them experienced in school matters—every one of them heading his own business or in an executive capacity for a large and successful corporation. They agree that $650,000 is needed in Lubbock for an educational project—and when representative, conservative citizens like these men agree on something, the Morning Avalanche is ready to take their word for it.

One of the greatest and most frequent errors made in American public life is not looking far enough ahead in the matter of public improvements. Thousands of dollars spent today are too often inadequate, calling for additional tens of thousands of dollars in too short a time where the expenditure of a few extra thousands in the first place would have filled the bill.

The Morning Avalanche favors a campaign of "locking ahead" in the matter of public improvements. That doesn't mean public money should be thrown to the four winds, wasted in a wild orgy or unnecessary spending. It means that the same calm judgment exercised in private enterprise should be exercised in public enterprise. It means that when an extra thousand dollars, spent today, will mean a saving of two thousand in the near future, the extra thousand should be spent and spent gladly.

There's no telling what Lubbock is going to do in the way of continued growth. No man among us can safely predict the city's population, even a scant year in advance. But this much is certain—Lubbock will be larger tomorrow than it is today, will be larger next year, the year after and for many years to come. That's why looking to the future is more essential in this territory than in any other. The Morning Avalanche knows of it.

Look from the present to the future and the future, when it becomes the present, will be well taken care of. Let's not be so sentimental in the matter of public education—that essential to community life. It will cost us more in the long run if we do.

MAKING TOOLS OF TOYS

Ray Little, a veteran aviator who flew the first eastbound trans-continental air mail plane out of San Francisco in 1920, and who has been flying in that service ever since, is getting very disillusioned about the business of flying.

Aviation is a dandy calling, he says, except that it is no longer thrilling. It used to be dangerous and exciting; now it is neither, and the pilot's chief trouble is the boredom that sooner or later settles down upon him.

We who are still held to the ground don't usually look at it that way. An airplane to us is still a thing of wonder. The pilot belongs to a tribe that is set apart from people of common clay. The race has not yet worn its wings long enough to take them for granted.

But Little—and most experienced pilots, we suspect, share his feelings—finds that piloting an airplane is just another job. It is too safe, too certain, too regular, and because it is all of these things it has lost its kick.

All of this, at first glance, looks like nothing but the casual comment of a somewhat blasé flyer. But it is really a symptom of something very important.

It means that the airplane—this strange, glittering new tool that mankind has been fumbling with for two decades—has at last been mastered. We are learning how to use it. In a very short time the country at large will share Pilot Little's opinion about flying—and then we'll be ready to go on and tackle something else.

During the last 25 years or so we have developed a great many new tools.

Each one has been a sort of toy, at first. Little by little, however, we have discovered the ways in which they can make life freer and richer; and as those discoveries come, the tools cease to be toys and become important weapons in the fight to lift ourselves into a broader and more open region of existence.

We have not yet mastered them all. We have a great heap of them—airplanes, radios, moving pictures, new chemical processes that can hit drugs and poverty a death blow, electrical appliances that can set us free from small tasks and petty annoyances; but we haven't yet found out how to use them to the best advantage. They still dazzle us.

Eventually we shall master them all and take them for granted. When that day comes we shall be able to transform our daily life in a way we never thought possible.

So it is that Pilot Little's remarks are more significant than that gallant aviator dreams. They indicate that we are turning the airplane from a toy into a tool.

It makes no difference if reporters are barred from the floor of the senate. We can still get plenty of laughs right out of the Congressional Record.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA JAIL HEAD SORRY AND GLAD "DOC" SINCLAIR WILL REMAIN ANOTHER SIX MONTHS

BY CHARLES F. STEWART Central Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Superintendent W. L. Peak, of the District of Columbia jail, is both glad and sorry that "Doc" Sinclair has consented to remain in charge of the prison pharmacy some months longer than the doc's original contract provided for.

Major Peak will testify that Harry is a thoroughly competent pharmacist. In that sense the major will be delighted to keep him.

On the other hand, he realizes that the oil heon ringers in his pharmaceutical post, at considerable personal sacrifice, and this he regrets, for he has learned to like the doc, as he admits quite frankly.

Doc Sinclair is now getting on into his second month of jail life. In fact, he would be nearly half way through his prison term, but for the federal supreme court's action in upholding the second contempt sentence against him.

As matters stand, the way D. C. lawyers figure it, "he will just about get out by Christmas."

Perhaps the Washington jail never before has had quite so exclusive a prisoner.

At best existence there is somewhat monotonous and most of the inmates like to receive guests as often as it is permitted, but the doc is at home only to his lawyer, and once to his brother.

Since the second day of his stay when he was moved out of the general dormitory into a private cell of his own, to be handy for emergency calls to compound prescriptions (he has had none, but he might have), even his fellow captives have hardly seen him except at meal times—and then he eat at the "office help" table, the office help being prisoners, too, but an especially select company of them.

Neighbors—the jail stands in a pretty remote spot but there are a few truck gardens in its vicinity—do report having glimpsed him occasionally at a pleasant evening, sitting in the pharmacy window, smoking a fat cigar and enjoying the gloaming.

Otherwise the doc is a good deal of a prison hermit.

It was Major Peak who broke to his chief pharmacist the news of the supreme court's endorsement of the piling of Pelion as well as Ossa on top of him—in other words a six month extension of his pharmaceutical activities, for shadowing during his trial with ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall on fraud charges to follow his initial 90 days of pill rolling for contempt of the United States Senate.

The major mentions that the doc was "very much surprised."

Just why is not quite clear. It would seem as if his first experience should have accustomed him to it. Major Peak's surmise is that, in addition to the greater severity of the second sentence, the doc regards it as "rubbing it in" and resents it on that ground.

Henry Mason Day, the doc's former assistant in the oil business, who is soon to join the latter for a four-month term of Major Peak's hospitality as the actual employer of the Burns detectives assigned to do the doc's jury shadowing for him, is understood to be slated for the post of private secretary to the prison superintendent.

The position is not comparable to the doc's in the pharmacy, whence bottled liquors are dispensed in cases of sufficient medical urgency—but the major is a pleasant boss and Mr. Day lacks his ex-chieftain's scientific qualifications. A secretarial job is better than scrubbing floors or weeding the jail flower beds anyhow.

(By the way, although he is so designated in prison parlance, doc will not be a diplomatic title to address Harry Sinclair by following his retirement from his present professional duties.)

PHOSPHORUS IS ESSENTIAL PART OF WELL-BALANCED DIET

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygieia, the Health Magazine

Four-fifths of all of the calcium in the body is closely associated with phosphorus, this combination entering into the composition of bone. The growing child requires much of this substance to meet its needs.

Phosphorus is found in mother's milk to the amount of 3.5 milligrams in each thousand grams. It occurs in egg-white to the extent of 2 milligrams in each thousand grams, in potatoes 4.4 milligrams, in wheat germ 9.4 milligrams, in beef 18 milligrams and in milk 18.6 milligrams.

It is not surprising therefore that it was thought at first that rickets was due to a shortage of phosphorus in the diet and that attempts were made to overcome the deficiency by giving phosphorated cod liver-oil.

As the child reaches the period when it begins to walk it no longer depends exclusively on mother's milk as its diet and through the change in diet begins to get enough phosphorus to meet its need.

Phosphorus also enters into the composition of nerve tissues and brain tissue. Hence for many years nerve tonics contained phosphates. Agassiz thought that the human brain required phosphorus to build it up and because the meat of fishes contained phosphorus he suggested that fish was a brain food.

While all of the relationships of phosphorus in the human body are not fully understood, enough is known to indicate that the human body must have its quota of this essential substance or disturbances follow. Fortunately it is found in goodly amounts in most of the important food substances and the automatic regulators of the chemistry of the body make certain that the phosphorus will reach the places in which it is needed to take care of body functions.

Among animal foods, cheese, egg yolk, condensed milk and meat are relatively rich in phosphorus. Of the fresh vegetables the greatest content is found in lima beans, peas, brussels sprouts, parsnips, spinach, cauliflower and potatoes. All of the nuts such as almonds, peanuts, walnuts, hazelnuts and pecans are relatively rich in phosphorus having about half the efficiency of cheese in this regard. The dried fruits and dried beans, lentils and peas are also rich in phosphorus.

Anybody who eats sufficient quantities of a well balanced diet will find that he is securing enough phosphorus to supply his needs.

Scientists now say that the earth's crust is 2,000 miles thick. That's nothing. We know several shapes who have the earth looking like one of mother's pies.

Every now and then you see a man who could say more miles out of his eye than in.

RICH GIRL POOR GIRL

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED MILDRED LAWRENCE falls in love with STEPHEN ARMITAGE, who is lured away by PAMELA JUDSON when she tells him Mildred is trying to marry her brother HAROLD for money Harold fears HUCK CONNOR, who is blackmailing him over a forged check. Huck is infatuated with Pamela and when she announces her engagement to Stephen, frames him for the theft of an auto and causes his arrest. Pamela drops Stephen, but Mildred tries to get him out of jail.

Harold had once told her he feared Huck, who had threatened to get rid of Stephen to keep him from marrying Pamela. Mildred caught him during a telephone conversation and is shocked to hear of his death—apparently accidental. She tells Stephen her suspicions but he has no proof and it seems hopeless.

Finally she goes to MR. JUDSON, who takes her to headquarters to tell her story. Judson tells Stephen and Pamela begs forgiveness. From the way from the jail to the hotel, Stephen narrowly escapes a shot from a thug in a passing taxi. He reports to Mr. Judson and learns that Mildred was also wounded slightly by a ringer shot.

His concern over her leads the older man to doubt Stephen's love for Pamela, and he tells her the man is trying to marry her for money, not love. She taunts him by saying that his money had bought her step-mother for her and disposed of the first and that he has no right to keep her from buying her man. Believing she really loves Stephen, the father gives in to her pleading.

Next day Pamela surprises Stephen by taking him to call on Mildred, where she announces that they are to be married right away and leave for an African honeymoon. Connie tells them Mildred is to marry a Tommy Mitchell.

Meanwhile, Huck is not enjoying his enforced seclusion. He quarrels with his gangsters. One of them tells him that the police are looking for him and he plans to kidnap Pamela and leave town.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLVII While Huck waited for Gus to gain the information he wanted in regard to Pamela's whereabouts that morning, Mr. Judson went to the Mildred.

It was a solicited call with a purpose. He wanted to urge Mildred to return to his employ. She had recovered sufficiently from her injury to be back at work, she had been during a telephone conversation.

He found her helping her mother to prepare lunch. She looked wan and tired. But there was an air of quiet steadiness about her as she smiled away her mother's protests when she said "he'll be here." "Mr. Judson knew with her the courage."

"I'm going back to the office this afternoon," she told him while she finished laying the table. Mr. Judson wanted in the doorway though Mrs. Lawrence was offering him a chair the while she tried to persuade Mildred to "let the table go."

"My office, I hope," he returned. Mildred flashed him a pleading glance. "Oh, please," she said, and hastily put down a cup and saucer. "Why sit me over to him and placed a hand on his arm."

"I appreciate your kindness," she said earnestly, "but I'd rather leave things as they are."

"Well," Mr. Judson returned and his eye twinkled a bit, "if you're planning to be married soon perhaps it is best. But I'd like to meet the young man—Pamela told me his name is Thomas Mitchell."

Mildred glanced quickly at her mother, whose cheeks had become a nice pink.

Then she turned back to Mr. Judson and he saw that she was embarrassed.

"Pamela suggested that I give you a traveling case for a wedding present," he went on, a trifle awkward for explanation of Mildred's attitude. "But of course you know that it wouldn't be advisable for you to leave the country before."

He paused, remembering Mrs. Lawrence's presence and added, "before Stephen's case is settled."

Inspector Markeson has told me that Mildred agreed almost guiltily.

"But you will tell me what you'd like to have most now?" Mr. Judson went on. "I'd like to make you very happy, Mildred."

"Oh!" the girl exclaimed. "It's all a mistake. Mr. Judson, I'm not engaged to anyone."

"Thinking it over later, Mr. Judson realized that he hadn't been at all surprised.

And before he left he knew that his first conclusions in regard to Mildred's affections were correct after all.

She had proved it by trying to win his promise not to let Pamela and Stephen know what he'd just learned.

"Here here my dear," he had answered, taking her hands in his and speaking firmly, "do you think this would make any difference to Stephen?"

Mildred did not answer for a moment, then, "No," she said. "I'm sure he isn't marrying Pamela because he can't have me, if that is what you mean."

"Then why did you tell him and Pamela such a thing?" Mrs. Lawrence came to Mildred's rescue. "My daughter Constance," she explained, "it was a poor joke, but we let it go."

"I'm afraid I don't see," Mr. Judson replied. But he did. He saw very plainly. Someone else knew that Mildred loved Stephen Armitage—someone who loved her too much to want him to guess it, because he was going to marry another girl.

Mr. Judson felt himself suddenly torn two ways. Pamela was his own child; he couldn't rob her of happiness. There was nothing that he could find against Stephen. The young man's family was respectable. Stephen didn't appear to be a fortune hunter. Mr. Judson was convinced that he would make his own way in the world without looking to anyone for help. No, he couldn't withhold his consent if Armitage loved his daughter. . . . IF HE LOVED HER!

mela's voice. Mildred heard her tell a direct falsehood.

"Why mom," she protested, "how could you say that?" "It's that," Pamela Judson's mother explained, "and I'll not have them bothering you any more today."

"Mom! Mr. Judson has been most kind to me. Didn't you hear him say that I'm not going to marry Pamela? And he's taken me back to the hotel?"

"Yes, I heard him, but don't you see you've done so many favors for his daughter I guess that that's why he's so kind?"

Mildred laughed at her a little and kissed her on the cheek. She found, when she reached her employer's office, that Mr. Judson had been there and explained enough to absolve her from blame in any way.

She went immediately to work. She thought that Pamela might have wanted to speak to her about something important, but she didn't mind until she decided to call her up.

She glanced at her watch. It was after two. Pamela might be home at the hotel. She got up to go to a pay telephone in a booth. There was another girl in the office at the time and Mildred thought Pamela might want to talk to her about something private—something in connection with the case, perhaps, though she was more likely, from some trivial matter, to Mildred thought it best to be careful.

There was a slight wait and Pamela herself answered when her room was called. She had come in late from shopping and she would help her dress for lunch.

Mildred explained that she knew Pamela had telephoned her home and inquired what she wanted.

Pamela was about to answer that she had intended to ask Mildred to accompany her to a party, but she was so busy that she had to go on for Stephen when she heard a stealthy sound at her door.

"She thought it was her maid—she was being detained in the servants' dining room by Gus but she was waiting for a wedding present," she said at her telephone desk when she saw a man enter her room. The fleeing glimpse of the man's face failed to reveal his identity to her. She remembered that she had again forgotten to tell her mother that she had been trying to acquire since Harold's death.

But she had looked it! This man had entered with a key. He could not be a hotel servant.

These thoughts sped so quickly through Pamela's head that she forgot Mildred and quickly put the receiver down, on the hook, and

"Take my arm," Huck directed, and Pamela obeyed like an automaton.

If you can't think of anything else say the Lord's Prayer, and say it fast," Huck said to her as he led her toward the door. "For it's going to be unlucky for you if anyone discovers that you're not enjoying this little escapade."

As they passed the room clerk's desk Huck nodded to the woman seated there and then bent his head to make some laughing remark to Pamela.

As they were carried swiftly to the street in an express elevator Mildred telephoned frantically to another telephone.

Canyon Students Reach 1000 Mark

(Special To The Avante) CANYON, June 13. — Enrollment figures available at the end of the third day of enrollment indicate a record-breaking attendance at the West Texas State Teachers College during this session. One thousand students had enrolled at the end of the third day of registration Friday afternoon. Enrollment has continued since that time so that the total attendance will be considerably above the mark set Friday. The figures for Friday indicate an increase of 210 students over the number enrolled at the end of the third day of registration in 1928, only 790 being enrolled at that time last year. Of the 1000 enrolled Friday, 922 were college students and 78 high school students. This is a falling off of 39 from the number of high school students registered at the end of the third day of registration last year; however, it shows an increase of 243 in the number of college students registered one year ago.

Provence Speaks To Legionaires

Montezuma President-Elect Recounts Experiences While Doing Missionary Work In China

Giving a graphic account of observations gleaned while doing missionary work in China, E. W. Provence, business manager of Texas Tech., and president-elect of Montezuma College, delivered an absorbingly interesting address Thursday night before a regular meeting of the Allen Brothers post, local American Legion.

"China has more widely varying extremes than any nation in the world," said Mr. Provence. "We do not gain a fair knowledge of China by observations of the nationality in this country. In the homeland there is the ultra rich, and in the background of aged traditions, and possessing scholarly minds. The other extreme is poverty in its most sordid nature."

Cannot Afford Rice "We think of Chinese as rice eaters. Yet there are millions who cannot afford rice, who eat grass, nuts and wild vegetation. No one can tell how much of the Chinese degradation is due to the British, who forced the illicit opium traffic into China at the mouth of guns. We will never know what China would have been without that impediment."

PRAISES ORGATONE FOR GOOD IT DID Lubbock Farmer Glad To Endorse New Medicine So Others May Know What Relieved His Trouble

"I suffered with my kidneys for over two years and nothing seemed to do me a bit of good," said R. Heald, residing on rural route 4, Lubbock, Texas, in a conversation with the Orgatone representative.

"I had suffered," he continued, "with my kidneys until I was so weak and nervous and my back hurt me so bad, it was impossible for me to get a real nights rest and I would often get up and walk the floor the pains were so severe. Then I took down with a shot of the 'flu' and believe me from then on it looked like I would never, never, get straightened out again. I was actually so weak I could hardly get around to do my work and many a day I was forced to lay off on this account. I certainly was in a terrible fix and I kept getting worse in spite of all I could do until I began taking Orgatone."

To Jean Assolant fell the responsibility and the honor of taking the heavily laden craft into the air, with his bride of three days nervously watching until the ship had gathered momentum as it travelled down the beach. He took it aloft with a run of less than a mile and a half, gaining a few hundred feet of altitude and swung it about to the east.

Delinquent Tax Notices Mailed

Property Will Be Turned Over to County for Filing Of Suits In Near Future, Collector Says

Reports from the offices of County Tax Collector A. J. Clark say that all delinquent insolvent tax notices on personal property have been mailed out and that work is going forward steadily on the real estate delinquents preparatory to turning them over to the county attorney for the filing of suits.

Records show that personal property delinquent on the first day of the fiscal year, April 1, totaled $4,988.24, while those not paid on real estate amounted to $21,081.79. Some of these, a small portion, however, have been paid since that time. The total taxes due in Lubbock county amounted to some $205,255.67. With the unpaid amount of $26,070.03 there are recorded on the books $179,185.64 in paid up taxes. Property owners have thirty days of grace after the mailing of the notices in which to pay. Should they fail to do so in this time suit will be filed for the amount.
