Flight Ends In Sea Off France

Record Escapes Balloonist Duo

BREST, France (AP) — Two British balloonists, bedeviled by changing winds that threatened to blow them back out to sea, ditched their crippled craft in the ocean Sunday, just 110 miles short of completing the first trans-Atlantic balloon crossing.

Maritime authorities said the French trawler Elsinor picked up Maj. Christopher Davey and Donald Cameron and their sail-rigged gondola and began towing them toward the small Brittany fishing port of Concarneau, south of here. They were expected early today.

Another ship was reported to have picked up the balloon itself.

Cameron, a 38-year-old aeronautical engineer, and Davey, 34, a Royal Tank Corps officer, came closer to making the crossing than any other balloonists, and members of the team already were talking about another try. There have been 18 previous known attempts, and at least six balloonists have died.

The two men refused to board British or French rescue helicopters and planned to stay with their 14½-foot gondola-boat all the way to land, the Maritime Prefecture said in Brest.

Cameron and Davey had made fast progress after leaving Newfoundland, on Canada's northeast coast, at dawn Wednesday. But they were plagued by an eight-foot rent in the inner helium-filled bag of the hot-air balloon, which was named Zanussi after the Italian appliance firm that provided the money for the flight.

By Saturday, although they jettisoned equipment and tried to carry on, treacherous weather and unpredictable winds left them suspended over the ocean west of France. Just before ditching, the loss of helium dropped them to just 15 feet above the water despite desperate efforts to gain altitude.

Exhausted from three almost-sleepless nights, they decided to ditch and hit the water at 10:15 a.m. (5:15 a.m. CDT). At least four vessels went to their aid, although the gondola was fully equipped as a boat and the balloonists had said earlier they would continue the journey by sail to England if they had to come down.

The balloon's landing point was 47.57 degrees north, 07.28 degrees west, 110 miles almost directly west of Brest, about 250 miles north of Spain and 250 miles south of Ireland. They landed 1,779 miles from their Canadian take-off point.

CETA Staff Seeks Jobs As Funds Fade

By IRA PERRY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

FEDERALLY paid jobs of 279 Lubbock County public service workers could be in jeopardy during the next two months because of an apparent phaseout in the Comprehensive Employment Training Act's Title VI funding program.

Last Friday staff members of employment and training programs operated through the South Plains Association of Governments began contacting public employers with an appeal for local, private jobs for the CETA workers. The move was in anticipation of an expected funding cutback Sept. 30.

Title VI program funds provide federal money for hiring unemployed professional, para-professional or otherwise skilled workers needed for "innovative" community projects, without the restriction that prospective workers be economically disadvantaged, according to Juanita Forbes, Title VI project director for the governmental panel.

More than half of the 279 Lubbock County CETA workers are professionals or para-professionais with college degrees, Miss Forbes said, making them easier to place with private or municipal employers than the remainder of the workers.

Miss Forbes said local officials decided to begin preparing to transfer many of the workers as soon as possible after Title VI funds were not approved for the coming year.

Funds for the present $1.8 million program expire Sept. 30, and U.S. Department of Labor officials have extended the deadline only through December.

Even the three-month funding is for an as-yet-undetermined program, Miss Forbes said; local leaders know only that the program will be able to accommodate some of the workers. It remains to be seen, she says, how many workers will be involved in the program or how much they'll be paid.

"What we are doing is this. We over-enrolled around a time in March at the instructions of the Department of Labor with the understanding then that throughout the rest of the year we would have to start decreasing enrollment (of workers on CETA payrolls). This is what we're anticipating now," she said.

"Between now and Sept. 30, we're trying to find out how many of our workers we can get picked up by their employers now, how many we will need to retrain and just what we can do with them. We've set our deadline as Friday to find that out."

"We've always known we would have to phase out at some time. We're just trying to keep from having to find out how many of those people we will have to carry right to the last minute," she said.

Staff memebers will make an extensive appeal, she said, to see as many CETA workers become municipal workers as possible, but "those that can't, we'll just carry along until we can get them jobs somewhere. No one is going to be fired. We can keep them on until we run out of money, but our concern is that those people get jobs. We don't want them thrown back on the labor force."

City and county personnel officials were unavailable for comment Sunday, but Vaughn Hendrie, the city's director of community relations, said to his knowledge city officials had not been approached as of Sunday about taking on additional workers.

"We've got vacancies that are budgeted

Havana Visitor Arafat Flays Carter, Israelis

HAVANA (AP) — Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat delivered a strong personal attack Sunday on President Carter, accusing him of remaining silent in the face of what Arafat called Israel's "massive liquidation" of civilians in southern Lebanon.

Claiming that Israeli forces killed 1,180 civilians in the invasion four months ago, Arafat asked, "Why doesn't Carter remember it as a violation of human rights?"

He then said, "Carter thinks our blood is cheap because we belong to the Third World."

Arafat, heading the Palestinian delegation to the 11th World Festival of Youth and Students, spoke at a news conference.

Outfitted in an Arab headdress and an olive green military uniform, Arafat answered questions from an overwhelmingly sympathetic gathering of several hundred reporters who applauded him at several points during his appearance lasting almost two hours.

Speaking in Arabic through an interpreter, Arafat rejected the use of the word "terror" to describe the PLO's acts of violence. He likened the PLO to the anti-Nazi resistance movements in Europe during World War II.

He said the only terror in the world today is carried out by the forces of "imperialism, Zionism, colonialism and racism."

Arafat reportedly has had two meetings here with Cuban President Fidel Castro. He was on the reviewing stand with Castro Friday night for the opening of the youth festival, attended by more than 20,000 delegates from 145 countries. The festival ends Saturday.

Arafat was especially bitter about the United States. He said Washington is pushing for a bilateral agreement between Egypt and Israel in order to "isolate the Palestinian people and liquidate their just cause."

He said, "the United States and Israel don't want peace in the Middle East."

He recalled that U.S. national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski tried to denigrate Arafat late last year with the remark, "bye bye PLO."

Arafat said the meaning of that statement became evident last March when Israel tried to eliminate the Palestinian presence in southern Lebanon with its invasion of that area.

He said that event also demonstrated the shortsightedness of the "no more war" pledge last November by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

"There will be no peaceful solution unless there is recognition of and a realization of the legitimate and the inalienable rights of the Palestinian people," Arafat said.

"No peace, no stability and no settlement will ever be achieved by ignoring the rights of the Palestinian people," Arafat declared.

No More Mideast Talks, Sadat Warns, Until Lands Issue Met

ALEXANDRIA (AP) — President Anwar Sadat said Sunday there will be no more Mideast peace talks until Israel agrees that all occupied territories must be returned to the Arabs and recognizes the land issue is non-negotiable.

Sadat also made an indirect appeal for the United States to present ideas to break the deadlock.

"I don't want to embarrass my friend President Carter, but as I said before, the United States should act as a full partner, not mediator," Sadat said at a news conference after talks with roving U.S. envoy Alfred Atherton.

The Egyptian leader said flatly there can be no "territorial compromise," as proposed by the Israelis.

"If it is agreed upon officially that land and sovereignty is dropped out of any compromise and Israel is ready to discuss peace in all its aspects, we shall be ready," Sadat said.

He said Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan brought up the possibility of a territorial compromise during talks at Leeds Castle in England two weeks ago with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed Ibrahim Kamel and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

That proposal, he said, was one of several "new negative elements" introduced into the peace process by Israel and represented "a step backward, not forward."

At the Leeds talks, Sadat said, Israel "for the first time asked officially for territorial compromise. But more than that, Foreign Minister Dayan added verbatim: 'There is no substitute for territorial compromise.'

"I consider we are now at a decisive turning point," Sadat said. "Something of great significance has happened at Leeds. Let me say it is a new element, but it is a negative element."

Sadat was visibly angry at last week's statement by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin that the Israelis would not give back anything to the Arabs without getting something in return.

"This has pushed the whole problem to the climax," Sadat said. "We refuse this. This is rejected 100 percent. We are not ready before this is declared canceled to sit with the Israelis. The most important significance is Mr. Begin's statement that it is an Israeli cabinet decision not to return anything for nothing."

Begin made the statement after the Israeli cabinet rejected what it said was a proposal from Sadat that Israel return two areas in the occupied Sinai Peninsula — El Arish and the biblical Mount Sinai — as a peace gesture.

The Israelis said Sadat made the proposal at a recent meeting in Austria with Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman. Sadat said later he had been misunderstood, that he merely told Weizman El Arish would be a good place for peace

Clayton Awaits One Ballot To Approve Tax Relief Package

AUSTIN (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton expects a single vote today so the House can adopt a property tax relief package, and the House and Senate will take a popularity reading on a bill to create uniformity in appraising property for taxation in the final days of the legislature's special session.

Also on the session's agenda is the calling up of three, possibly four, controversial gubernatorial appointees for questioning before a Senate subcommittee.

It appears unlikely that the special session will finish its work in time to quit at 6 p.m. Tuesday, a time the Senate chose last week.

the vote to 99 to 42 on the recount.

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

— Ban a state personal or corporation income tax.

— Require farm and ranch land to be taxed on income-producing ability, not the market value.

— Require the legislature to exempt up to $10,000 worth of a home's value from school taxes, with another $10,000 exemption for the elderly and disabled.

— Exempt one car per family from property taxes.

— Require an absolute majority of the legislature, not just those voting, to pass any tax increase or repeal exemptions.

Rep. Wayne Peveto's bill on tax uniformity has been changed since 1977, when it failed in the Senate after clearing the House.

It could muster only 17 of 21 votes needed for debate in the Senate, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says. "Some of the ways in which it's been changed I think make it less popular than it was before."

"For example," he said, "there have been inserted limitations on local governments which I'm not sure appeals to the Senate."

Clayton also predicted the bill would have difficulty passing the House.

Rep. Buddy Temple, D-Diboll, said Sunday the special session may aid his remote chance of ousting Clayton as speaker in the 1979 legislature.

"I'm encouraged by the silliness that has been going on here in Austin for the last couple of weeks," Temple said on the public television program Capital Eye.

Temple admitted he has almost no chance of winning the speakership short of a major political blunder.

Clayton already has claimed support of more than the 76 members needed to assure the election.

The speaker, more than Gov. Dolph Briscoe, is responsible for pushing a special session, Temple said.

"I gusess he figured it was the thing he was going to ride to higher office," Temple said.

The gubernatorial appointees scheduled to appear before the nominations subcommittee include Hugh Yantis and Durwood Manford of the state insurance board; Dorsey Hardeman of the Texas Water Commission; and A.J. Ploch of Bexar County's "208" water planning committee.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, says he will ask his colleagues to extend senatorial courtesy to him and reject Yantis. Manford also is expected to undergo extensive questioning.

Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, is especially critical of Hardeman, and Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg, said he wants to grill Ploch about remarks he reportedly made about minorities.

The 30-day session must adjourn by midnight Wednesday.

Tropic Storm Texas Threat

MIAMI (AP) -- Tropical storm Amelia formed over the Gulf of Mexico Sunday and forecasters said it would bring wind and high tides to the lower Texas coast before morning.

It is the first tropical storm of the June-September season along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts. Storm formation is most likely during those months.

Gale warnings were posted from Brownsville north to Port O'Connor. The National Hurricane Center in Miami said tides two to four feet above normal could be expected along the coast south of Port O'Connor.

At 5 p.m. CDT, Amelia was just off Brownsville and moving north-northwest at about 10 mph. It was expected to move inland south of Corpus Christi, midway between Brownsville and Port O'Connor, late Sunday or early today.

Black Marchers Have Own Brand Of Trouble On Historic Trek

By PAT TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

LIKE THEIR counterparts 101 years earlier, a group of black men — seeking the authentic heritage of the past — had their own troubles with the West Texas sun over the weekend as they traced a 65-mile route from Meadow to just inside the New Mexico border.

The eight-man group, members of the Lubbock Roots Historical Committee, assembled near Meadow Friday to begin a horseback-and-walk trek to a place called "Nigger Hill," named by a buffalo hunter.

The march was the brainchild of Eric Strong, the 26-year-old director of the heritage committee, and Donald Brooks, an 18-year-old assistant political science researcher at Texas Tech University.

Ironically, Brooks — who says he wants to make the trip again next year — was one of the first to succumb to a relentless Texas sun.

The group, which sought to imitate as much as possible the march of a 25-man contingent of cavalrymen 101 years ago, brought only fruit juice to slake their thirsts.

Still, the juice was considerably more appealing than what their historical counterparts drank. In 1877, the men had gone 86 hours without water and drank blood and urine of their fallen horses.

The first expedition, unlike the most recent, had a defined purpose at the outset: to catch a band of fleeing renegade Indians. But the ill-fated soldiers never found the Indians and watched four of their 10th Calvary, Company A members die under a torrid sun. A fifth man also fell victim to the heat.

And Leon Bunton, a Lubbock juvenile probation officer, "deserted," according to Strong. With tongue in cheek, Strong says Bunton will be court-martialed next week for the unauthorized absence.

However, Strong says the group could empathize with Bunton's actions.

"We came near mutiny," the first day, he admits.

Camping at night near Whiteface the group quickly saw the romance of camping beneath a starry sky fade.

"We were scared. It was dark. The water truck was gone" and a pack of coyotes circled around the campsite,

Feuds Plague Meeting

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Foreign ministers from 84 countries of the non-aligned movement ended a divisive "unity" meeting Sunday, one day late and deeply split over the issue of Cuba's military forays into Africa and its pro-Soviet politics.

The conference of non-aligned nations, which profess to have allegiance to neither the East or West power blocs, was held under the motto "Unity, the Cornerstone of Our Strength." But it bogged down from the start amid feuds over the ties of its members to superpower camps and Cuba's defense of its military actions.

The conference decided to go ahead with a controversial summit meeting scheduled for Havana in September 1979 but skirted a Cambodian demand that Vietnam be thrown out of the movement. Delegates also scrapped efforts to work out a common energy policy at this meeting and adopted a watered-down position on foreign military intervention that merely urged "non-intervention" in the affairs of other nations. It did not elaborate.

Yugoslav Foreign Minister Josip Vrhovec, whose government is one of the principal critics of Cuba's version of non-alignment, claimed the conference had proven the movement's basic unity.

"The debate we have just finished was conducted in an atmosphere of candor and unity which many different viewpoints on concrete and even some general questions and dilemmas could not jeopardize," he said.

The meeting had been scheduled to run five days, but it took another day for delegates to adopt the 61-page final communique.

A Yugoslav-backed draft document had condemned all military intervention, a definition that could have included Cuban troops active in Ethiopia and Angola. Delegates said the more elaborate definition was dropped after Cuba argued for approving armed help from one non-aligned country to another.

Cambodia's formal insistence that Vietnam be thrown out because of its "aggression" was dropped. But the conference created a vaguely defined "open-ended working group," chaired by Sri Lanka, which probably will take up the Cambodia-Vietnam dispute.

The 17-year-old non-aligned movement has no mechanism for throwing out members, and drafters of the final document told Cambodia the issue was too significant for handling in Belgrade.

Yugoslavia, whose 86-year-old President Josip Broz Tito is the last living founder of the movement, failed to win approval of his proposal that disputes between members be worked out by a system of special committees. The communique said merely that the meeting had "examined the possibility" of setting up such committees.

The controversial word "hegemony," considered by some a code word for Soviet domination, appeared in the communique as a force to be fought along with colonialism and various code words for Western expansionism.

Cuba, which argued again in Belgrade that the Soviet Union and other socialist countries are "natural" allies of non-aligned nations, had said it would agree to the word only if it was understood not to imply the Soviet Union.

Judge Ponders Ban On Mail Strike Vote

By The Associated Press

The federal judge who has banned wildcat picketing and held off a strike vote by postal workers in the New York area is to deal with both issues again today.

The New York Metro Area Postal Union had scheduled a strike vote for Monday, but U.S. District Judge Frederick Lacey signed a temporary restraining order Friday prohibiting the vote Lacey was to hear arguments Monday on whether the restraining order should be made permanent.

And two postal employees, David Cline and Kenneth Leiner, were to appear in Lacey's court in Newark, N.J., Monday to explain why they should not be held in contempt for failing to obey a temporary restraining order prohibiting pickets at bulk mail centers in New Jersey.

Workers at the New Jersey facilities in Jersey City and Kearney are in the New York local, which is part of the American Postal Workers Union. The APWU is the biggest of four unions that will be voting in August on a tentative contract reached July 21 with the U.S. Postal Service.

The contract would provide wage hikes of 19.5 percent over three years. Ballots are scheduled to go out Friday.

In Richmond on Saturday, police were summoned to arrest pickets violating a court order issued there, but the pickets moved from the building's entrances before the police arrived.

"Nobody was doing anything wrong, so we went home," said police Lt. Jack Rose.

When the Postal Service dismissed some strikers, on the ground that postal strikes are forbidden by federal law, the New York local called the strike vote.

The local is perhaps the most militant in the nation, but several other locals said they would follow New York into a strike.

Union officials Jerry Monzillo said Sunday he believed Lacey would extend the injunction banning the strike vote. He maintained that the injunction violated the postal employes' right to freedom of expression.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger said Saturday that mail service nationally had not been affected by the walkouts. Last week, officials at the bulk mail centers had said they were two or three days behind.

Texas Instruments' Net Sales Show Large Hike

DALLAS (Special) — Texas Instruments Inc. reported net sales billed for the three months ending June 30, 1978 at $614,553,000, an increase of 25 percent over the same period a year ago.

Net income was $34,268,000, and earnings per share were $1.50, both up 24 percent. Income before provisions for taxes as a percentage of net sales billed was 10.2 percent.

TI chairman Mark Shephard Jr. and president J. Fred Bucy said in a written report to stockholders: "For the first six months of 1978 net sales billed were $1,172,105,000, up 23 percent from the same period in 1977. Net income increased 18 percent to $64,967,000. Earnings per share were $2.85, compared with $2.41 for the first half of 1977.

"Major expansion of TI facilities was under way in the second quarter, involving the addition of about one billion square feet of plant area at seven locations around the world. More than half of this new space is dedicated to the rapidly growing distributed computing business.

"TI's capital expenditures in 1978 are projected at $300 million compared with $200 million in 1977.

"The backlog of orders at June 30, 1978, was $1.17 billion, up 63 million from the end of the first quarter of 1978 and up $360 million from June 30, 1977.

Floydada Honors Retired Teacher

A-J Correspondent

FLOYDADA — Mrs. Annie Taylor, who worked 45 years for the Floydada Independent School District, was honored here Sunday.

Mrs. Taylor, 76, a longtime teacher, received a gold-plated plaque from members of the Mount Zion Baptist Church for her contributions to the Floydada community. Floydada Mayor Parnell Powell was among those praising Mrs. Taylor's work during special services at the church Sunday morning.

The plaque read: "The greatest sign of knowledge is the ability to teach others; you have taught in church and school. What this community owes you cannot be paid in money."

After receiving the award, Mrs. Taylor said that she had wanted to serve where she was most needed. "I felt Floydada was the place where I could serve in my fullest capacity," she said.

Although Mrs. Taylor retired from fulltime teaching in 1972, she continues to teach Sunday school at the Mount Zion Baptist Church.

Mrs. Taylor's other honors include the 1977 Distinguished Service Award from West Texas State University; a certificate from the Mount Zion Baptist Church for Outstanding Christian Services; and a 1962 Teacher of the Year award from the Floydada Independent School District.

Storm Weakening Near Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — Tropical storm Agnes weakened Sunday after claiming three lives and injuring 11 in a four-day, on-and-off lashing of this British colony with winds of almost 70 mph.

The Royal Observatory located Agnes at 50 nautical miles northeast of Hong Kong. At the height of the storm, many roads were blocked by fallen trees and mudslides. At least 400 persons had to be evacuated to safety and more than 30 incoming international flights were delayed, canceled or diverted to other points. Most transport services resumed operations Sunday.

Heliocopter Competition Opens Without U.S., British Teams

MOSCOW (AP) — Competition for the world helicopter championships opened Sunday in Vitebsk, Byelorussia, without military teams from the United States and Britain.

Washington and London had announced earlier this month that their military teams would not participate because of the trials and convictions of Soviet dissidents protesting alleged human rights violations by the Kremlin.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported the start of the eight-day tournament at Vitebsk, 300 miles west of Moscow, but made no mention of the U.S.-British withdrawals.

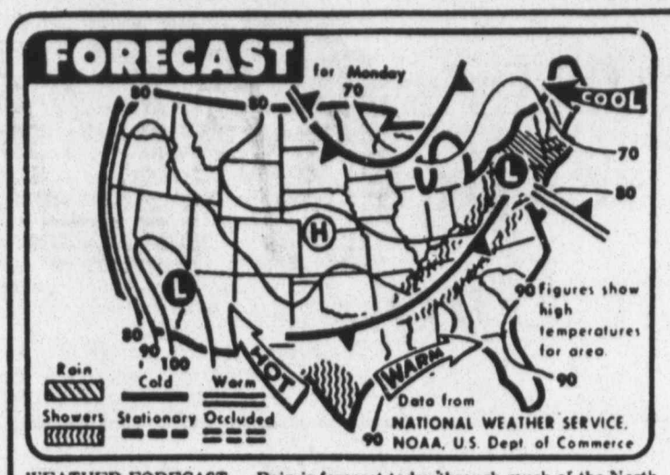
Civilian helicopter pilots from both countries did arrive to compete, along with teams from West Germany, Hungary, Poland and the Soviet Union, Tass said.

It quoted Ralph Alex, identified as the president of the FAI helicopter organization in the United States, as saying he expected the competition would demonstrate skills "at a very high level."

Plans by the U.S. and British military teams to enter were canceled after Soviet courts imposed stiff prison sentences on dissidents Anatoly Shcharansky and Alexander Ginzburg.

Shcharansky, active in the movement to help Soviet Jews emigrate to Israel, was convicted of espionage and sentenced to 13 years at hard labor. Ginzberg was a leader of a group monitoring Soviet compliance with human rights provisions of the international Helsinki pact. He was convicted of anti-Soviet activities and sentenced to eight years in a labor camp.

Home builders are installing 20 percent more installation in each house than in 1974, according to Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp. By 1980, new homes are expected to average more than 900 pounds of insulation, compared with the 721 installed in 1976.



WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is forecast today through much of the Northeast narrowing to a shower belt running through Appalachia into the central Mississippi Valley. More Good Weather, High Of 92 Forecast For Lubbock Today

Pleasant temperatures and fair skies will abound across the South Plains today.

Although Lubbock's mercury peaked at 92 degrees Sunday, forecasters expect temperatures to dip into the mid-80s today. Tonight's low will be near 65.

Winds should be southeasterly 5 to 10 mph.

The Wednesday through Friday outlook for West Texas is for more of the same, with continued warm afternoons and clear to partly cloudy skies. Highs will be in the 90s and lows in the 60s and 70s.

Late Sunday, a large area of showers and thunderstorms extended from a Lamesa-Abilene line southward to the Rio Grande. The heaviest activity was located southeast of Lamesa and southeast of Sweetwater.

While South Plains residents enjoyed sunny skies Sunday, residents along the Gulf Coast were keeping a wary eye on the development of a tropical storm.

Highest sustained winds were 35 mph in the first such storm of the season, and rain and winds were reported extending westward to Brownsville.

Chinese Farmers On Visit To U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland welcomed a Chinese farmers' delegation to the United States on Sunday, saying such visits strengthen trade ties between the two countries.

"Trade is increasingly important to the United States," Bergland said in remarks prepared for delivery in Detroit and released here. "Throughout the world ... we are working toward lower trade barriers and expanding trade. We appreciate the trade we have with the People's Republic of China and look forward to a strengthening of commercial relationships."

The Chinese delegation is visiting 12 Midwestern states and California. A U.S. delegation will make a reciprocal visit to China in September.

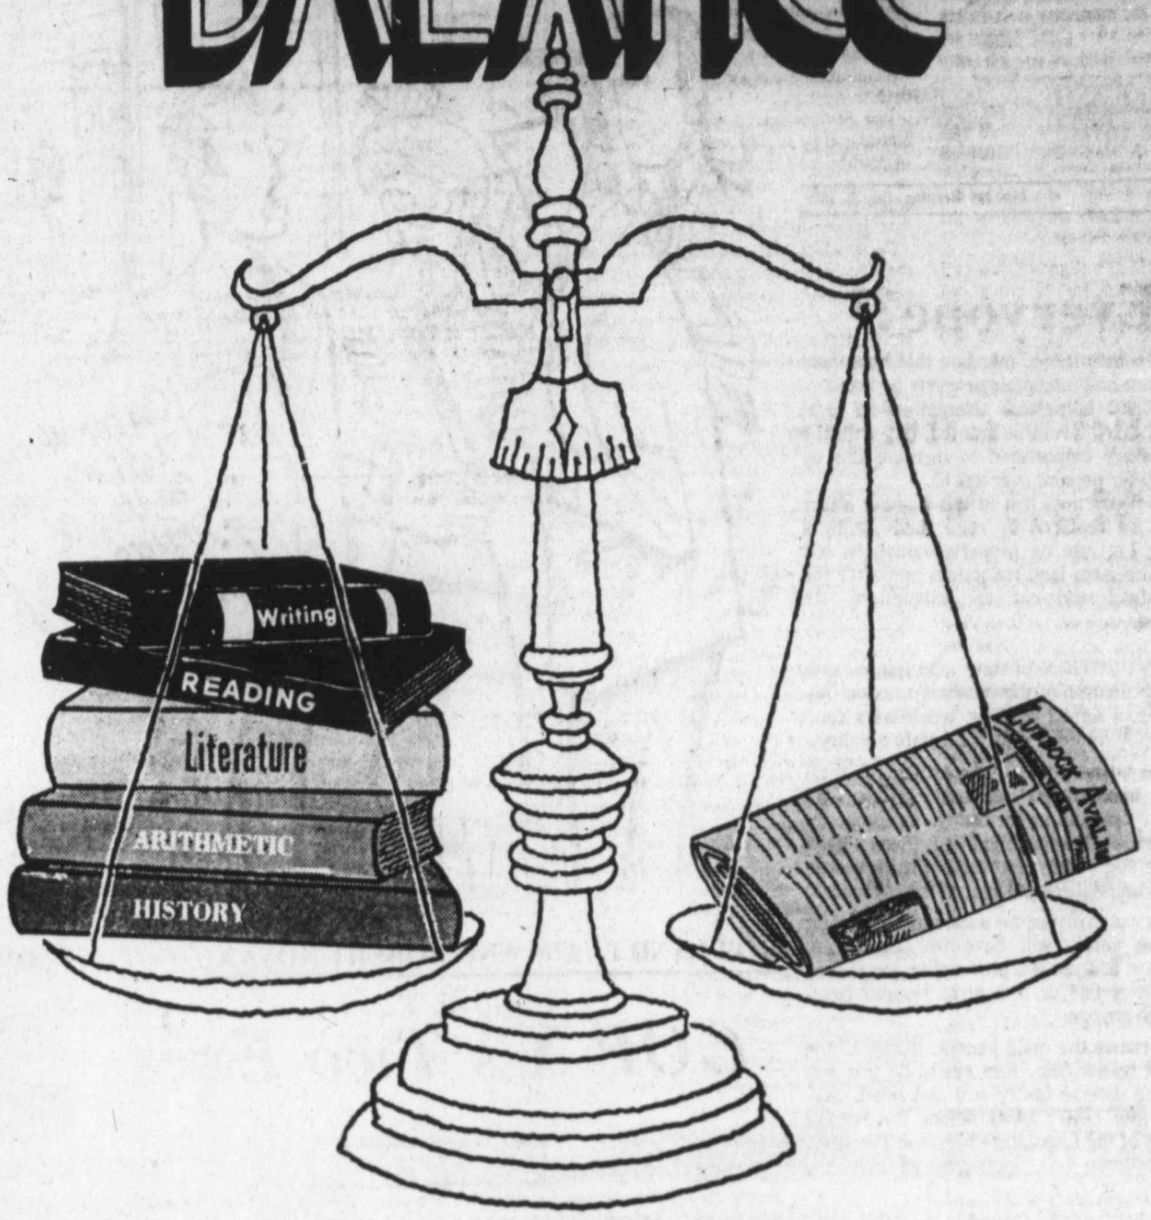
BALANCE



A textbook is a necessary part of classroom instruction, but it can't possibly cover an event or discovery that has developed in the past 24 hours.

Many teachers have found they can utilize a newspaper as a source for information not yet available in the textbook, thus providing a balance between yesterday and today.

If you're a teacher, you can find out how to put balance in your classroom, by attending Avalanche-Journal's 7th Annual "Living Textbook Conference", to be held August 8th, on the campus of Texas Tech University.

AN EDITORIAL:

'Something For Everyone?'

TEXAS LEGISLATORS are getting itchy to go home after tossing voters a debatable plan for reshuffling local taxes and making symbolic cuts in two minor state taxes.

The special session has done nothing, however, toward clamping a lid on future state spending, which is the real key to tax relief.

Legislators did petition Congress to tighten the federal purse strings, but it's doubtful if anybody Up There is listening.

The only significant action coming out of the session called by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, however, likely will be a proposed amendment to the state constitution affecting property tax levies.

This Christmas Tree package, with slightly different versions in the Senate and House, is designed to give "a little bit of something" to enough different groups to get it approved at the polls in November.

FARM, RANCH and timber lands, for example, would be taxed at their "productive value" rather than at the market value assigned to city homes and business buildings.

Opponents have referred to this favored tax treatment as the "Land Developers Relief Act" because it would be a tax shelter for urban land held for development or speculation.

The same amendment, however, would offer tax relief to city homeowners. The hated tax on family-owned cars would be eliminated, for example, along with the generally ignored constitutional mandate that household furniture and intangible property be taxed.

A $5,000 homestead exemption on local school taxes would be granted, too, with the Legislature empowered to increase this by $10,000 for persons over age 65.

School revenues lost in this manner either would be replaced by state funds or by a higher tax rate on property valuations left after the farm land reductions and after the homestead and car tax exemptions are granted.

A REDUCTION in state inheritance taxes and elimination of the state sales tax on utility bills, if signed into law, would have comparatively minimal effects on state revenues.

Since farmers and other owners of rural lands, homeowners and senior citizens all can see "something for me" in the proposed constitutional amendment, it is given a good chance for voter approval if finally passed by the Legislature and sent to the governor.

Approval will not be automatic, however, because voters will have two months in which to analyze the proposal to see if they think it is fair or if it gives favored treatment to anyone.

Otherwise, the main benefit, if any, of the special session may turn out to be just getting the diverse tax reform and relief measures into better focus before the regular session of the Legislature begins in January.

AN EDITORIAL:

Time For A Calm Approach

AS TAXPAYERS and city officials meet today to discuss next year's budget and tax levy, more will be accomplished if the session is one of communication instead of confrontation.

Everyone who goes into City Hall would do well to reflect that Lubbock is an exceptionally good city in which to live and that, on balance, we have enjoyed an unusually well-run local government.

Fueled by concern over inflation and rising costs of everything we buy, the temptation will be great for private citizens to fume and fuss and take out their ire on members of the City Council and the paid City staff. From the other side of the table, there will be a temptation to be defensive and resentful of remarks that cut unfairly or get personal.

IF THE ATMOSPHERE is one of mutually looking at the city budget, however, in a spirit of providing the services that people want, at the level they want those services, then much good can come from today's hearings.

The Avalanche-Journal believes that City Mgr. Larry Cunningham and his staff are capable, conscientious public servants, that the mayor and Council members are dedicated to their jobs as an act of civic responsibility, and that irate taxpayers are sincere in their belief that municipal expenses have been growing too fast.

We see no villains in this drama of democratic government at work.

This is an important point. The current level of City spending and taxes was not reached because of any corruption, gross mismanagement or grandiose scheming; it was reached in response to public demand and any trimming to be done should be done with a scalpel, not a meat ax.

VOTERS THEMSELVES have approved airport expansions, civic centers, canyon lakes, parks and other projects and programs reflected in the growing City budget.

Other departments, notably Lubbock Power and Light, add enormously to the total budget but actually produce enough revenue not only to pay for themselves but to help pay for other municipal services in lieu of taxes.

There are economies that can be effected, surely, but let's don't forget that Lubbock is an ever-better city in which to live and that our good self-government is an integral part of that fact of life.

M. STANTON EVANS:

Law-Writers Don't Care What The People Want

WASHINGTON—A recent column in this space discussed attempted bureaucratic usurpations in the realm of gun control—the effort of executive agents to generate rules and regulations contrary to the will of Congress.

This problem of executive legislation has become widespread in the federal government, so much so that it is fairly accurate to say the job of writing federal law has become a prerogative of non-elected bureaucrats.

By the simple device of publishing rules and regulations in the Federal Register (at a rate of better than 70,000 pages a year), executive agencies can create more law than Congress' committee hearings and other cumbersome legislating procedures.

AS MIGHT BE imagined, this takeover of legislative functions by the executive had irked some members of Congress, who have been trying in recent months to get the job of lawmaking back under congressional control.

One promising effort in this direction is House Resolution 959, submitted by Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-Ga., and co-sponsored by more than 150 other members of the House.

This bill embodies the "legislative veto" concept, which has stirred anxiety among the bureaucrats and other friends of executive government and has been subjected to recent challenge in the courts.

So-called "legislative vetoes" have frequently been written into bills concerning specific departments.

RECENTLY, FOR example, Congress attached a veto provision to the authorization bill for the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), specifying that any rules and regulations proposed by HUD would have to lie before the legislature for 90 days.

If during that span either house of Congress should pass a resolution of disapproval, the regulation would be prevented from going into effect. It is estimated that 50 other bills currently pending in Congress contain provisions of this sort.

Levitas' H.R. 959 would systemize the legislative veto concept and apply it across-the-board to all departments of the government.

It would submit all bureaucratic rules and regulations to the veto process, providing that if either house of Congress negates a regulation within a period of 60 days, and the other house does not dissent, the regulation would be forestalled from going into effect.

MORE COMPREHENSIVE still is Senate Bill 2011, proposed by Sen. Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M., and co-sponsored by Republican Sens. Dewey F. Bartlett of Oklahoma; Jake Garn, Utah; Barry Goldwater Jr., Arizona; Orrin G. Hatch, Utah; Jesse A. Helms, North Carolina; Paul Laxalt, Nevada; James A. McClure, Idaho; Strom Thurmond, South Carolina; John G. Tower, Texas; and Edward Zorinsky, Nebraska.

This bill, entitled "The Regulation Reduction and Reform Act," would not only clamp a legislative veto on executive agencies, but also would require affirmative votes by Congress, in certain cases, before a bureaucratic edict could turn into law.

The bill would put the bureaucrats through a gauntlet of feasibility studies. An executive agency trying to impose some regulation would be required to:

(1) Publish a cross-indexed reference to all other rules and regulations touching on the subject;
(2) Conduct an economic impact analysis weighing the consequences of the rule for workers, businessmen, and consumers; and
(3) Produce a "paperwork impact analysis" and "judicial impact analysis" spelling out the record-keeping and legal consequences of the rule.

FINALLY, S. 2011 would require that, where rules and regulations are especially costly, or potentially harmful in their impact, an affirmative vote by both houses of Congress would be required to put it into effect.

That is, the rule would be treated candidly for what it is—a piece of substantive law that should receive the concurrence of both houses of Congress before it is imposed on the American public.

Of Course, We Can't Guarantee That They Won't Act Dopey

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

GOP X's Two Exes

NOVAK

DETROIT—The underlying tone of the most recent Republican National Committee meeting was set when Bernard Shanley, veteran committeeman from New Jersey, arrived here with a resolution asking both Ronald Reagan and Gerald Ford not to run for President in 1980.

Shanley abandoned the idea, preferring not to inject discord into one of the national committee's most tranquil meetings in memory. But a solid majority of the committee shares Shanley's views.

It sees Reagan's last-hurrah try for the presidency as inevitably drawing in Ford to stop him, resurrecting the Ford-vs.-Reagan nightmare of 1976.

If these two old warriors renewed in combat is the worst thing that can happen to the party, the second worst in the opinion of national committee members would be Reagan at age 69 winning it by himself.

THERE IS OVERRIDING sentiment, shared by many Reaganites, for a new face.

Surprisingly, the new face likely to finish first in a secret ballot of the committee is Rep. Jack Kemp of New York, a leader of the national tax revolt as sponsor of the Kemp-Roth tax-reduction bill.

In the age of primaries, what national committee members say and do counts for much less than in bygone days. But abhorrence of a Ford-Reagan clash is pervasive among all Republicans.

When national chairman William Brock met with the party's big money men here, their message was unmistakable: we want neither Reagan nor Ford.

This was the discordant note of a gathering free of controversy and approaching euphoria. Committeeman Clarke Reed of Mississippi, usually embroiled in contentious rules disputes, did not even show up for the first day of rules committee meetings.

GOV. ROBERT RAY of Iowa, lost in the labyrinthine Detroit Plaza Hotel, missed the entire executive committee meeting; it adjourned after 20 minutes, discussing whether a mid-January national committee meeting would interfere with winter vacations.

Accompanying the harmony was delight over Jimmy Carter's discomfiture. But when considering which Republican could beat the President in 1980, the smiles faded.

There is no support for a Ford comeback. Even the former President's ardent supporters flinch at word from his advisers that he will run if necessary to stop Reagan's nomination—perhaps entering presidential primaries.

A DIEHARD fraction of Reaganites remains. Louisiana state chairman John Cade typifies this hard core who have no doubts about Reagan's age or electability.

But there are more doubters among the faithful than the Reagan camp realizes.

"I love Ronald Reagan," said Massachusetts chairman Gordon Nelson, a 1976 Reagan backer, "but I ask myself: should a 69-year-old man be running for President?"

Nelson wants a younger man: Kemp, 43, or preferably Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, 47.

What Nelson blasts out on the record, others whisper in private. "I'll back Reagan, of course, if he runs," one Midwestern committeewoman told us, "but I wonder what we're telling the young people of the country if all we have is Reagan, Ford and John Connally—three old men." Her choice: Kemp.

KEMP'S UNDERCOVER admirers are not limited to old-time Reaganites. He is admired by liberal leaders of Michigan's Republican party, who pray that favorite son Jerry Ford will not try again.

Apart from his primacy in the tax revolt, Kemp transcends ideological splits. With Mississippi's Republican wounds from the brutal Ford-Reagan struggle still not healed, Rep. Thad Cochran has asked only Kemp—not Ford or Reagan—to come there and help out his Senate campaign.

Reagan operatives Lyn Nofziger and Dave Keene were in Detroit last week but maintained a low profile.

They feel the problem will solve itself. Kemp has promised not to run against Reagan, and other prospects attract only scattered interest.

Several conservative committee members gathered over drinks one night to confront the age problem frankly. What about Charles de Gaulle? Winston Churchill? Konrad Adenauer?

"But none of them had to run for President in America," replied one committeeman counted on by the Reagan camp.

ANDREW TULLY:

It's OK, Mrs. K

WASHINGTON—Reading Joan Kennedy's story in McCall's magazine of her battle with alcoholism stirred the memory and interview years ago with the late Winthrop Rockefeller, the playboy of that prestigious clan.

"I admit my carryings-on have been a disgrace to my family," he said in that open fashion he never lost. "But you know, it's devilish hard to be a Rockefeller."

That is part of Mrs. Kennedy's story. It is also devilish hard to be a Kennedy—perhaps harder than being a Rockefeller.

Moreover, not even Nelson Rockefeller, who became a career politician, ever reached the national fame achieved by John and Robert Kennedy.

THERE WAS NEVER a Rockefeller cult, whereas the Kennedys have always been viewed by great masses of the American people as an uncrowned royal family.

This, it seems to me, is what got to Mrs. Teddy Kennedy. The spotlight was too bright, the public's expectations too demanding. And she was not, after all, a Kennedy.

She was only a beautiful and charming woman who married into that dazzling royal court. She was loyal to her senator husband, but could not play the wife of the heir to the throne.

It was hard to live in Washington "and have a life of my own," Joan Kennedy told McCall's. Ethel Kennedy, widow of Robert, managed it because she was born secure as a member of a family even wealthier than the Kennedys.

BESIDES, ETHEL had 11 children. Joan Kennedy had 3 miscarriages and other abortive pregnancies. "I suppose subconsciously, I would like to have one baby after another," Joan told her interviewer.

Having a lot of children can help a woman keep her balance. Being surrounded by people she loves and who love her can make life more fulfilling.

But as a mother Joan suffered heart-rending tragedy when her son, Teddy, had his cancerous right leg amputated. It was a particularly crushing blow for a family of athletes. Yet Joan says she didn't take a drink while Teddy was in the hospital "but as soon as he was well...I just collapsed. I needed some relief from having to be so damn brave all the time."

As any mother can testify she was not grieving for herself but for a beloved son who faced the rest of his life as a cripple.

THEN THERE WERE her relations with her husband. Joan Kennedy had to be deeply hurt by Chappaquidick and Teddy's involvement with another woman. She told McCall's:

"Of course newspaper stories about Ted and girls hurt my feelings. They went to the core of my self-esteem...and I began thinking, well, maybe I'm just not attractive enough, or attractive anymore, or whatever...I might as well have a drink."

Joan Kennedy says she has not had a drink for a year, but continues to see a psychiatrist three times a week. Apparently, her marriage is intact.

We other human beings—those of us who are not perfect—should wish her all the best and salute her for possessing something royalty cannot bestow. She has enough class to tell the truth about herself.

JAY HARRIS:

So What's Wrong...

ON THE FRONT of the July 24th edition of U.S. News & World Report, there is this picture of President Jimmy Carter.

The caption reads: "Carter's 18 Months. What Went Wrong?"

It is superimposed over a closeup of the President's face, a hand to his lower lip, a furrow in his forehead and the look of a man lost in deep thought.

On the other hand, one can almost feel sorry for the man who came from nowhwere with such bright hopes and promises. Most of the hopes now lie in ashes, the promises tarnished. What indeed went wrong?

THERE ARE those who accuse the media of never giving Jimmy Carter a chance, of taking out after him much as it did Richard Nixon.

Diehard Carter associates blame a "bad press" for the plummeting polls which show the President's ratings at the lowest ebb ever for a chief executive at this point, with the exception of Harry Truman.

But, as one who has warned from the start that the President's policies, both domestic and foreign, were inadequate, we feel there are other basic causes. For whatever it is worth, we now have a lot of company.

The American people, increasingly torn by conflicting claims and views, still perceive when things aren't going right, when someone is not doing the job. This is especially so as regards politicians these days.

THERE ARE those close to the President who say he came along at the wrong time in history, not the right moment as it first seemed.

And there are those who obviously still feel that much of the President's problem is one of an "image," how the public sees him that counts the most.

In that vein, the recent addition of Jerry Rafshoon as the new Presidential Communications Director, may portend more headaches than solutions. The days of "selling" Jimmy "Who" as Jimmy "Somebody" may be over.

In any event, the confident Georgia advertising man, who has worked off and on with Carter for 12 years, has moved into the White House.

He has done so with a flourish, squashing the appearance of one of the President's controversial aides on a talk-show and saying out loud that the President has big problems because of an image blurred by "inconsistencies" and "mixed signals" emanating from administration officials.

IF THE EBULLIENT Atlantan can turn things around for Mr. Carter, he will come off as the miracle man of the century.

The American public is most benevolent in elevating its heroes and politicians to pedestals of power. It is just as quick to topple them.

Rafshoon has been quoted as saying that what he thinks "will sell" right now is not so much an ad campaign as a substantive change in the way Carter does his job, a tougher attitude toward Congress on spending, a narrowing of the President's focus on major issues.

Also, he says, there needs to be internal changes so Carter's foreign policy advisers and his economic advisers are not spreading different views on the same issues in public.

Then, Rafshoon drops this tidbit: "He (Carter) will use the pulpit of the presidency to preach fiscal restraint. We'll try to have more fireside chats on specific issues and presidential goals. More town meetings and call-in shows. More direct communications with the people, in other words."

IN OTHER WORDS, more of the same "image" building of the past. And, unfortunately, more of the same hokum which got the President in the fix he is in now.

One of Mr. Carter's major faults almost from the moment he stepped into the White House has been the quality of the staff he assembled.

Relying far too much on close friends and associates from Georgia, the President found himself surrounded by people who had no major governmental experience, nor the foggiest notion of what the job entailed.

At least three of those close friends have caused him untold grief. Two have fallen by the wayside. The other, UN Ambassador Andrew Young—who should have been the first—hangs on, much to the consternation of everyone except the black bloc, which the President seems to fear more than he does the Russians and Cubans.

MEG GREENFIELD, who writes for Newsweek magazine, in assessing the latest White House flap, the resignation of Dr. Peter Bourne, the President's adviser on drug abuse, put it this way:

"It's not that there is practically no political discipline in his administration. It's that there is something approaching anarchy..."

"And there sits Jimmy Carter in the White House, Mr. Morality himself, having to answer questions over the first eighteen months about his close associates' entanglements with the quest for dough, the use of drugs, boozing, whoop-dedoo and blabber-mouthing.

"An open administraton, they called it. I think he had better close it down, if he can, at least in its chaotic, permissive aspects. The carelessness may be keeping those around him young, but it is aging Jimmy Carter plenty fast."

It's also playing hob with the nation's economy, defense posture, ability to cope with the onrushing inroads of Communism, U.S. monetary status abroad and national self respect. What went wrong? What went wrong, indeed? Jimmy 'Who.' That's what.

L.M. BOYD:

...Pass It On

Q. "I KNOW A record company makes millions with a hit single, but how much does such a company lose if such a recording is a flop?"

A. At least $2,000 to $3,000. That's not much, is it? It's in the production and promotion of the albums where they really spend the money. Up to $200,000 even.

Looks as though it's going to be pretty tough for a new man in the merchant marine to get work in the next 10 years. According to the statisticians, the number of merchant marine sailors will drop from 20,000 to 17,000 by the mid-1980s, and only about 50 jobs a year will open up.

Embryo Transfer Problems Unresolved

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Last Tuesday's birth of a test-tube-baby in England raises the sensitive question: What next?

Dr. Duane Kraemer of Texas A&M University, a world authority on embryo transplants in animals, said a lot depends on how long it takes before people are ready and willing to explore the unknown.

"The likelihood of medical procedures for successful embryo transplants in humans appears much nearer reality than does the psychological, moral and legal acceptance by humans," he said.

Kraemer describes the process of transplanting an embryo from one mother to another as "adoption of a child, but much earlier in the ball game." He was the first to successfully produce a baboon, a calf, a foal and kittens from embryo transplants.

"To my knowledge, no one has attempted to transfer an embryo from one human to another," he explained. "However, after the baboon, several sterile couples (one or both) wanted to know if this process would enable them to have children."

What has been done by other researchers is to remove an egg from a woman's ovary, place it in a culture to keep it alive, fertilize it with her husband's sperm in a test tube and then replace the fertile egg in the woman's uterus.

Australian scientists were among the first to experiment with that general procedure, and British medical researchers have reported the first success with the premature Caesarian birth last Tuesday of an apparently healthy baby girl in Oldham, England.

Kraemer said an embryo transplant is something an infertile couple might be willing to do — to accept an embryo from someone else — rather than waiting for a baby through traditional adoption procedures. Or a fertile woman with a history of aborting could locate a host — with a promise to return the baby, although this could present psychological and legal problems.

Kraemer is said he is one of many researchers who have contributed to development of embryo transplants and he emphasized that he and other scientists are concerned that any extension of their work to humans be as safe as possible and that it not violate moral and legal concerns.

"On the basis of successful embryo transplants in mammals," Kraemer said, "I feel that the likelihood of embryo transplants in humans is quite possible."

He emphasized that psychological, moral and legal considerations would be more of a problem than technology in human embryo transplants.

Procedures for collecting embryos for transfer have been tested in animals, he said.

Week-old eggs have been collected without surgery in animal experiments to determine when the egg moved into the uterus from the ovary. Researchers used polyethelene tubes inserted through the vagina and the cervix, the narrow outer end of the uterus.

"This same procedure could be used for collection of embryos and their transplant into a host or recipient uterus," he added. "Collection and transfer have been done by separate groups of scientists, but the two haven't been put together."

Kraemer said there have not been any indications of increases in abnormalities in birth and development of animals by embryo transplant.

"The possibility of a recipient host aborting an embryo may be greater than that of a natural host," he said. "However, present knowledge of blood and tissue typing lessens chances of abortion by the recipient host."

It still is not known for sure that an embryo transplant can be successful in humans since it has not been tested.

"This unknown factor must be evaluated and perfected," Kraemer added. "The real 'hooker' or dilemma in the whole procedure is how do you evaluate the workability and safety in humans without actually testing the embryo transplant in humans. The problem with embryo transplants is that there's no way to get informed consent — because the embryo can't talk."

The best researchers can now can do to test embryo transplants is through use of animals whose body systems are most nearly like those of humans — non-human primates such as baboons and chimpanzees.

Kraemer said that his baboon transplant was a part of a project to develop a colony of animal models for studying human diseases, not primarily to test the feasibility of human embryo transplants. But he said scientists recognized their contribution to human application of embryo transplants in the experiment.

Kraemer credited other scientists with having successfully transplanted embryos in pigs, sheep, rats, rabbits and other mammals and rodents.

"In this type of transplant the uterus of one female is biologically enough like another female of that species to accommodate another's embryo," Kraemer said. "So, from a technical standpoint, embryo transfer from one woman to another could be accomplished — provided that the biology of human uterus is similar to biology of non-human primates and other animals."

He said one problem would be to synchronize the fertility cycles of human donor and recipient, now a problem since the human uterus is prepared to receive a fertilized egg only a short time each month. Animal recipients can be "lined up without regard to which is used," he said.

He said freezing of the eggs — not a workable procedure now but not too far-fetched for the future — would help solve that problem.

"I feel that some people are ready and willing to explore the unknown, and that there are physicians who would be willing to perform human embryo transplants," Kraemer said, "if the doctors felt, medically, that this was the most appropriate way of overcoming infertility. And if cleared of any liability.

"Embryo transplants (in humans) are not worth pushing somebody into it for research, but if some, host and donor, really wanted, and needed, an embryo transplant, then I feel it should be provided," Kraemer said.

He noted that some people believe women have the right to determine what happens to an embryo — abort it or carry it. He said that line of reasoning could consider embryo transfer as another option for women.

"Embryo transplants in humans ought to wait until people are ready," he concluded, "but not until everybody is willing to accept this method of birth of children."

Screams Of Woman For Health, Not Harm

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A woman's screams that brought police to a Madison address were healthy, not hysterical, law enforcement officers were told.

The woman told police her analyst told her to scream and "let it all out" to relieve her frustrations.

Califano Defends Health Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. insisted Sunday that President Carter's national health insurance plan could be implemented with no increase in cost to the federal treasury if Congress acts to control escalating medical costs.

Califano, who on Saturday unveiled the principles underlying the plan, said the key would be to have the controls in place to hold down mounting costs.

President Carter has proposed a hospital cost containment bill, but it has made little progress in Congress. Cost containment also is one of the 10 broad principles Califano announced.

Savings from cost containment would be enough to pay for the program, Califano said. He insisted under questioning that, "Of course it's realistic. ... There are billions and billions of dollars of waste in the present system."

But Califano said if no cost controls are in effect, "then to provide a basic package of benefits, depending on the kind of benefits that were provided to all Americans, would cost somewhere between $25 billion and $40 billion more. ...

"The objective would be to have those cost controls in place as the (health) program goes into place, and it is possible ... we would not require any additional health care cost than we would otherwise." The federal government now spends about $57 billion a year on health care programs.

The 10 principles released Saturday were general in nature and added little to promises Carter already has made. They won cautious praise from the private insurance industry, which has long opposed national health insurance. But Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a leading advocate of national health insurance, called them unworthy of the title.

Califano maintained Sunday that the principles do form a solid base for a national health plan and predicted a coalition will form behind it because "we can't afford the present health care system."

He also said more than the 10 general principles exist.

"We have laid out four relatively specific plans, four prototype plans, for analysis purposes," Califano said. "We have done a phenomenal amount of staff work and will be going over very specific proposals over the next four or five months for various pieces of this."

Long Eritrean, Ethiopian Conflict Reviewed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Eritreans have been fighting for independence from Ethiopia for 17 years — first against the pro-Western government of Emperor Haile Selassie and now against a Marxist military regime. Here in question-and-answer form is the background of modern Africa's longest war.)

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ethiopia's military government, having put down an uprising by ethnic Somalis in the Ogaden region earlier this year, has thrown its Soviet-equipped army against secessionist guerrillas in Eritrea province, a major Ethiopian battleground for nearly 20 years.

Q. Where is Eritrea and what is its strategic importance?

A. Eritrea is Ethiopia's northernmost province, roughly the size of Maryland. It is bordered on the north and west by Sudan and on the east by the Red Sea, a major artery for Middle East oil supplies to Europe.

Its ports of Massawa and Assab provide Ethiopia's only direct access to the sea for importing and exporting of goods.

Q. Has Eritrea always been an Ethiopian province?

A. No. The rugged land of about 3.9 million people was part of the Ottoman Empire in the last century and then was governed by Italy for 51 years before World War II. It was administered by the British after Italian forces there were defeated in World War II. In 1950 a United Nations resolution federated Eritrea to Ethiopia as a locally autonomous unit. In 1962, Ethiopia's leader at the time, the late Emperor Haile Selassie, annexed it as Ethiopia's 14th province.

Q. Who is fighting in Eritrea and why?

A. The Marxist-oriented Eritrean People's Liberation Front and the predominantly Moslem Eritrean Liberation Front are battling Ethiopia's Marxist military government. The secessionists, fighting for independence for 17 years, argue that Eritrea is culturally, linguistically and historically separate from Ethiopia and the province's annexation was made against the will of the region's people.

Q. How many soldiers are involved in the fighting?

A. The two Eritrean liberation groups, which have formed a working relationship with each other, claim a combined force of about 40,000. Independent observers, however, believe that is inflated and that a full-time insurgent force of 25,000 to 30,000 is more accurate.

Opposing them is the Ethiopian army, East Africa's largest military machine, with more than 40,000 regular soldiers and a Cuban-trained people's militia of more than 100,000 men and women.

The exact number of Ethiopian soldiers — both regulars and militia — taking part in Eritrea fighting is not known, but is believed to be well over 30,000, with modern artillery, armor and air support.

Q. Who is supporting and supplying each side?

A. The Eritreans are reportedly backed by conservative Arab states, which see Soviet influence in Ethiopia as a threat to Red Sea oil-shipping lanes.

Ethiopia was a former military client of the United States, but moved into the Soviet camp after Marxist military officers toppled Selassie in 1974. During the Ogaden conflict earlier this year, the Soviet Union was reported to have sent nearly $1 billion worth of military hardware to Ethiopia, which is now using much of it in Eritrea.

Cuba, which was said to have helped the Eritreans in the early 1970s, now trains Ethiopia's army and militia.

Q. Are Cuba's 17,000 soldiers in Ethiopia playing a direct combat role in Eritrean fighting?

A. Apparently not for the present. Eritrean Liberation Front spokesmen say no foreign forces are presently taking part in Eritrea fighting and diplomatic sources in Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, say they have no evidence that Cuban troops are playing a direct combat role.

Earlier this year there were reports — still unconfirmed — that Soviet naval vessels shelled rebel positions at the port city of Massawa and Cuban pilots were flying combat missions over Eritrea.

Q. What is the present military situation in the territory?

A. Ethiopian forces opened a major drive in July, chalking up their first major victories in the province in the past three years.

Elements of the 2nd Liberation Army are said to have reopened the 656-mile highway linking Asmara, Eritrea's capital, and the national capital of Addis Ababa, closed for nearly a year, and captured about five strategic cities in the province. The Ethiopians are said to be sweeping the countryside.

The reports, however, have not all been verified, although rebel spokesmen in Sudan acknowledge that Ethiopian troops have forced "strategic withdrawals" by the rebels on some fronts. Before Ethiopia's present offensive, the rebels claimed to control nearly 90 percent of the province and Ethiopian troops were known to have been bottled up in a handful of towns and cities still under their control.

Q. What are the chances for a negotiated settlement of the war?

A. Diplomatic sources in Addis Ababa say they believe the central government may be willing to negotiate a peace with one or both liberation movements, but only only after Ethiopia has gained a clear military advantage on the battlefield.

But Eritrean secessionists, who have offered to talk peace in the past while winning, may spurn any peace offer now until they can reverse any battlefield setbacks, the diplomats say.

HEARTLINE: I am a 60-year-old veteran. I have never received anything from the V.A. Do you know if there are any plans to change V.A. benefits? — F.S.

A budget-busting veterans' pension bill that would increase the program's cost by about $40 billion over the next 20 years received overwhelming approval by the House. Passed by a vote of 398-5, the bill will require a major program overhaul and increase costs over current law from $2.7 billion in 1980 to $4.1 billion in 1980.

The only opposition to the bill came from Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-Calif, who disputed what he said was a low bonus for World War I vets — an extra $67 for those older than 80. Although it amounts to $804 a year for pensioners, Anderson wanted to give $160 a month to each of the 720,000 vets, their widows and children. The increase was necessary, Anderson said, to compensate for other benefits world war vets do not receive.

While the House bill cost $111 million and allows a 104.4 percent increase for a veteran and his spouse, the Senate Veteran's Committee has passed a bill that would cost $711 million the first year and only allows a 68 percent increase for a married veteran.

Veterans Administration pensions are a form of welfare and are different from veteran's compensations. Pensions are given to needy veterans who suffered non-service injuries or illness, often years after leaving the service. All needy veterans 65 or older get the pensions regardless of the state of their health. Compensation is paid only to veterans who suffered service-related injuries or illness.

A single veteran who has no other income now receives $2,364 a year; a married veteran, $2,544 a year; and a widow with one child, $1,908 a year. Under the new House bill, a single veteran would get $4,000 a year; a married veteran, $5,200 a year; and a widow with one child, $3,900 a year.

To get a pension, under current law, an unmarried veteran's income must not exceed $3,700 or $5,050 if he is married.

Whenever Social Security benefits are increased, the pension rate would be increased by a similar percentage under the bill. This is to avoid a pension reduction through Social Security increases.

HEARTLINE: I have a common-law husband. We have been together 20 years and have two children (both under 18). The state we live in does not recognize common-law marriages.

My husband will start drawing Social Security early next year. Will our two children be eligible for Social Security benefits on his work record? — D.C.

They may be. In many states a child born of people living together may be recognized for inheritance purposes, even if the state does not recognize the common-law marriage. If the child has inheritance rights with respect to his father and he is living with or receiving contributions from his father, he can receive dependent children's benefits.

Even if the child is not eligible under the applicable state law, there are four other alternatives. If your common-law husband has been declared the father by a court action or ordered to pay support because he is the father or if he has acknowledged the children in writing, the children can qualify.

In addition, if you have other evidence to show that the man is the father of your children and he is living with or contributing to the support of the children, they can qualify for benefits on his earnings record.

Bell Promoting 'Horoscope-By-Long-Distance'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A voice on the phone told me today to avoid risky business propositions, rely on common sense, take one step at a time and be conservative in the way I handle romance.

It also invited me to call back tomorrow to get another horoscope-by-long-distance.

It's all part of an attempt to boost long distance calls — and therefore revenue — in the Bell System. The Jeane Dixon horoscopes have been available by phone in New York for a number of years and now Bell members around the country are promoting it.

The horoscope message — there's a separate number for each sign of the zodiac — even includes a commercial break, when a different voice says: "How simply fantastic an idea you have had. The idea of dialing the phone to hear an extremely pleasant voice tell you what's in store for you that day, not to mention that Miss Dixon's forecasts are usually correct."

The direct-dial call from Minneapolis to the one-minute recording in New York cost 52 cents during business hours. Dialing between 5 p.m. and 11 p.m. costs 33 cents. Th cheapest rate, 20 cents, is available Saturday, Sunday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. and overnight.

At the cheapest rate the horoscope would cost a daily caller $72.80 a year.

Northwestern Bell spokesman Wyman Thorson said it was too early to say if the revenue from the horoscope calls is worth the cost of promotion.

He said Bell systems in Michigan and Pennsylvania had tested it and had agreed to continue promoting it. Tests also are under way in Boston, Atlanta and the District of Columbia.

Like any long distance call, the revenue is split between the originating phone company and the receiving phone company. The greater share goes to the originating point.

New York Telephone Co. offers several phone services locally — city news, stock market news, dial-a-joke and sports reports, to name a few others. Promotion of long-distance horoscopes began last fall when New York Telephone noticed many people were calling long distance to hear the Dixon message even though there was no advertising outside the New York area.

"We found that a large number of calls were coming from Michigan without advertising or direct promotion. We wondered what would happen if we put ads out saying you have to pay long distance rates to hear a recorded announcement. The result was that calls to Horoscope and Sportsphone went from 150 to 4,000 to 5,000 a day," said Harriet Norris, a spokeswoman for New York Telephone.

The promotion of the service began in Minneapolis July 1 and will start in August in Atlanta and New Orleans. Norris said local phone companies in St.Louis, Houston and Kansas City also are considering advertisements and will make a decision when they see how callers respond in Georgia and Louiziana.

Northwestern Bell has been criticized by some customers who don't think the telephone company should be promoting the Dixon forecasts, said Thorson. But Norris in New York said that any profits from the service benefit all customers because the additional money reduces the need for an increase in phone rates.

The services are heavily advertised in newspapers and through inserts in customers' bills. But even so, some haven't sold, she added.

Food Companies Arguing Soup, Ketchup

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A corporate feud between Heinz and Campbell, which started as a battle for the soup market, has spread to ketchup and pickles.

For two years the two kitchen giants have filed lawsuits and countersuits, complained about each other to government agencies, and moved into new products to undercut the other.

Officially, the companies are soft-pedaling the rivalry.

"This is not a state of declared war," says Campbell Soup Co. President Harold Shaub.

"I would think it's nothing more than regular business competition," echoed S. Donald Wiley, vice president, secretary and general counsel for Heinz.

H.J. Heinz Co. of Pittsburgh apparently started the feud in 1976, charging its competitor with monopolizing the canned soup market.

Heinz' suit charged Campbell, based in Camden, N.J., and the nation's leading canned soup producer, used illegal pricing techniques, deceptive advertising and discriminatory promotions to monopolize the soup business.

"By virtue of Campbell's ability to mislead the American public or housewife, they are able to take sales from the H.J. Heinz Co. that would equal $300 million," marketing executive James Nault said in a legal deposition.

The alleged abuses included an FTC finding in 1969 that Campbell put marbles into its soup for television commercials to make the soup look better. The marbles were meant to keep the meat and vegetables from sinking to the bottom, Heinz said.

Heinz had abandoned brand soup sales in 1973, although it still markets some private-label soups and claims 12 percent of the canned, condensed soup market. Campbell's share is 80 percent.

"We're no longer in the soup business, but we have a right to compete. We also have a right to complain and that's what we did," Wiley said.

Heinz asked $105 million damages, which would be trebled if anti-trust violations can be proved. The case is still pending.

Campbell retaliated with a countersuit, claiming Heinz monopolized the institutional ketchup market by refusing to sell ketchup to food service customers unless they agreed to buy other Heinz products.

Heinz responded to that $15.5 million suit with a complaint that Campbell used the same alleged technique to push V-8 juice.

More recently, the Federal Drug Administration seized 24 cases of Heinz ketchup after Campbell alleged that it found excess tomato rot in routine checks for its Hanover Trail restaurants. It was the first government seizure of the ketchup in 102 years.

"We called it to the attention of Heinz and when they did nothing we alerted the FDA," said Campbell spokesman Scott Rombach.

Heinz has challenged the FDA's testing measures in federal court.

Campbell said recently it plans to enter the institutional ketchup business.

And it has agreed to buy Vlasic Foods Inc., the nation's largest pickle manufacturer. The $31 million purchase agreement is awaiting Federal Trade Commission approval.

For years, Heinz used pickles as a corporate symbol.

Dinner To Feature Top Wine

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The way restaurateur John Grisanti figures it, he will either serve his black-tie dinner guests the world's most expensive wine — or the world's highest price salad.

"We'll throw a humdinger," said Grisanti, who on May 25 paid $18,000 for what experts say is probably the only bottle of 1864 Chateau Lafite Rothschild in the world.

From the day he bought the jeroboam of the rich red bordeaux at an Atlanta wine auction, Grisanti planned to serve it at a $1,500-a-plate benefit dinner for St. Jude's Children Research Hospital.

Grisanti plans the dinner for Oct. 28 — recognized by the Roman Catholic Church as the feast day for St. Jude — for 30 guests, including such notables as entertainer Danny Thomas, Kemmons Wilson, founder of the Holiday Inn motels and Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn.

Also planning to attend is Don Vargo, of Melvindale, Mich., who Grisanti outbid for the bottle, which experts say came from a collection in the cellar of Mrs. James DeRothschild of London.

Grisanti, who owns an Italian restaurant here, says he doesn't know yet what will be served to his dinner guests.

"The menu has to be something unique. Normally, you select the wine to go with the meal. But this time, we're picking the meal to go with the wine," he said.

But whatever is served will be secondary to the dinner's main event: opening and serving each guest about two ounces of the wine.

"An ounce or two is sufficient to get the taste," Grisanti said. "I have no idea what it will taste like, but I assume it will have a wood taste."

Grisanti said the wine will be flown to Memphis next month by chartered jet from Farmington, Conn., where it is in a vault at Heublein Co., which sponsored the wine auction.

The restaurateur said there's a chance the wine already has turned to vinegar. There's no way of knowing until it's opened.

"If we open it up and we can't drink it, then we'll make the most expensive salad in the world," he said.

Undertaker Purchases Stagecoach

MONTICELLO, Ky. (AP) — The last stagecoach to operate in Kentucky was sold at public auction for $38,750 to a Burkesville funeral home operator, ending a three-year heirs' dispute over the relic.

Kenneth N. Ballou, who was the high bidder, said, "I've had my eye on that old stagecoach for some time. I came prepared to bid as high as $35,000, and when another fellow ran up the bidding, something just told me to go a little higher."

Ballou had the stagecoach trucked to Burkesville after the auction Saturday on the Wayne County Courthouse lawn. "It's sitting out behind the funeral home now," Ballou said. "I figure on keeping it for a while at least." He said he may someday put it on public display.

Known as the Burton stagecoach, the buggy was operated commercially until 1912 to transport mail and passengers from Monticello to Burnside about 21 miles away across the Cumberland River. In the old days, the stagecoach crossed the river by ferry.

DEALING WITH AN EMERGENCY — When your underpinning let's go you've got a problem, all right, but Amy Lewis, 2, knew just how to deal with it. When a plea for help (left) was unavailing, Amy, with a quick glance around (center) to ascertain there was no other source of assistance, simply shucked the drooping garment and took off for other cover. Rhodesian Troops Blast Mozambique Guerrillas

SALISBURY (AP) — Rhodesian troops backed by jet fighters and bombers struck across the border into Mozambique Sunday to knock out bases of black nationalist guerrillas who have ignored the transition government's call for a cease-fire, the military command reported.

The bulletin, issued as Vampire and Hawker Hunter jet fighters and Canberra bombers streaked over the capital's southern suburbs, said: "Security forces are launching self-defense operations against selected terrorist bases in Mozambique."

It said the raids were aimed at guerrillas of Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union who were planning new attacks into Rhodesia.

There was no report on casualties and no reaction from the Mozambique government. Black-governed Mozambique has said Rhodesian forces battled Mozambican soliders in previous cross-border sallies.

The Rhodesian communique said: "Not only is there clear evidence that they (the guerrillas) intend to infiltrate into Rhodesia with the express purpose of overthrowing the Rhodesian government by murder, intimidation and other acts of terrorism, but also that internally based terrorist leaders have been recalled to receive similar instructions at these bases in Mozambique."

Referring to the transition government's May 2 call for a cease-fire and a government offer of amnesty to the guerrillas, the communique said, "These terrorists have ignored the call to participate in the cease-fire."

It said nothing should be allowed to obstruct the peaceful return of guerrillas under the amnesty and maintained there was evidence the "cease-fire exercise is beginning to work." It said intelligence reports indicate 'there are other groups who are showing every indication of cooperating with the interim government."

Raids against externally based guerrillas who "oppose the interim government and its stated promise of a true democratic future will be mounted and continue to be mounted," the communique said.

The military released no further details, but Rhodesian forces were understood to be still inside Mozambique late Sunday.

The last reported raid into Mozambique, announced by the Maputo government but denied by the Rhodesian military, was June 23. Mozambique said 17 black Rhodesian refugees and two Belgian U.N. employees in Mozambique were killed then.

The last acknowledged Rhodesian strike into Mozambique was in November, when the military reported killing at least 1,200 ZANU guerrillas in attacks on base camps up to 60 miles inside the country.

Casualty figures in the war have increased sharply since the March 3 internal settlement between white Prime Minister Ian Smith and three moderate Rhodesia-based nationalist leaders. The agreement, providing for black-majority rule by the end of the year, has been rejected by Mugabe and his coleader in the Patriotic Front alliance, Zambian-based Joshua Nkomo.

Since March 3, the casualty rate has almost doubled to nearly 15 a day and the toll from six years of war stands at nearly 12,000.

The military command reported 47 more war deaths Sunday, including 37 guerrillas and a "collaborator." The others were black civilians killed by guerrillas in various parts of the country, the command said.

The new raids were likely to embarrass two black members of the biracial transition government's executive council, Bishop Abel Muzorewa and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, who claim support among guerrillas. Both men are on trips outside the country.

According to military intelligence sources, about 1,200 guerrillas, mainly Mugabe men, have crossed into Rhodesia in the past four weeks, bringing to 7,800 the number now estimated to be operating in the country.

Zambia and Mozambique have reported repeated Rhodesian raids this year. But Rhodesia has admitted only a brief foray into Botswana to the southwest and a March 6 strike at an Nkomo base in Zambia, in which it reported killing 30 guerrillas.

Record Escapes Balloonist Duo

Ed Yost, a South Dakota businessman, in October 1976. Yost took off from Maine and ditched his balloon 200 miles east of the Azores. In 1914, H. Berliner, a German, traveled 1,869.9 miles over Europe, according to Guinness.

Eddie Carey, a spokesman at the balloon's communications control center at Bracknell, England, 32 miles west of London, told a reporter: "The crew ditched when and where they did because the conditions were favorable" with waves only three feet high.

"They knew they could not rise higher to complete the crossing and the winds were tending to drift them out again into the Atlantic. If the helium bag had not torn, which lost them gas, they would have walked it (made it easily) and been home by now," Carey said.

Carey said Cameron radioed a few minutes after splashing into the sea and said: "It was the state of the balloon that made us ditch."

Another Bracknell spokesman, John Sayer, said Davey and Cameron refused a Royal Navy offer to be picked up by a British helicopter because they apparently wanted time to rest before stepping on land.

The fishing boat that made the pickup, a 231-ton stern trawler whose home port is Concarneau, was fishing in the area when the balloon ditched.

The Brest maritime radio station said a Panamanian vessel, the Belgium Express, had picked up the downed balloon and was en route to Belfast. Carey said the team wants to examine the balloon to see why the helium-filled bag, inside a larger hot air-filled bag, had ripped and defeated the $285,000 effort.

He said there was speculation that the tear in the helium bag was caused by a combination of pressure and strain at take-off from Newfoundland "when it could have swung around a lot. We want to look closely into that because I think there will be another attempt to cross the Atlantic, using some of the equipment from this one."

The Bracknell center said the balloonists dropped to about 150 feet overnight and lowered a sea anchor because of an approaching cold front that put them in the rain for several hours. The anchor is a parachute-like device that drags through the water and increases stability.

The balloonists detached the bag from the gondola when they ditched and rigged the gondola for sailing. They spent about three hours afloat before being picked up by the Elsinor.

John Wilkinson, another spokesman at Bracknell, said the balloonists had been getting an average of two hours' sleep per night since lift-off and had fought a losing battle with altitude for the past three days.

"Obviously they were extremely close to this record," Wilkinson said. "It's been a superb flight, a tough flight. We had one first day's perfect ballooning, then we had the rip. Since then the problems have gradually built up.

"The weather was against us yesterday (Saturday). They went through some pretty terrible storms this morning which they had to fly through, and obviously, having survived all of that and having got so close to the coast, they were extremely disappointed."

Black Marchers Gain Respect For Early-Day Counterparts

adding a little too much authenticity to the march for the latter-day "buffalo soldiers," Strong said.

On Sunday afternoon, Strong returned with the group of "soldiers" who had reached their New Mexico destination about 10 a.m. CDT.

The group had suffered bunions and chafing, Strong said, and needed sleep badly. But the trip had been inspirational, too.

"It made me respect the guys who were on that actual journey," Strong said Sunday. "There were a lot of things I didn't understand about cavalry uniforms," he confessed.

Strong said the wool "blouses" made the men perspire, which helped cool them down and kept the sun off their backs and arms. Neck scarves kept the "gritty" perspiration away and high boots protected the men from burrs, he said.

He thanked the people of Morton who "were fantastic. They were extremely friendly." He paid tribute to Glenn Thompson, the Cochran County judge, who gave the expeditioners "the royal treatment."

Strong also had kind words for Shakir Muhyee, an Islamic minister who accompanied the group.

"He was an inspiration factor in the whole situation. Had it not been for him, we wouldn't have made it," Strong said.

Like his friend, Brooks, who didn't complete the march "this time," Strong said the expedition was definitely a worthwhile experience.

Would he do it again?

"Never. I don't think I'll ever do it again. I'm too sore. My back is hurting and it took too much money," the Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center counselor says.

"But I think it was worth it. We gained a respect for those people."

Sadat Threat

talks if it were in Egyptian hands and that he wanted to build a Jewish temple, a Moslem mosque and a Christian church on Mount Sinai as a peace symbol.

Since Sadat launched his peace move last November, he has demanded that the Sinai Peninsula, the Gaza Strip and the West Bank of the Jordan River — all occupied by Israel since the Six-Day War of 1967 — be returned to Arab control.

Atherton and Sadat met for 2½ hours, and sources said the talks were "heated." Officials had announced the two would hold a joint news conference, but they spoke separately with reporters.

Sadat said he had "not agreed to the Sinai meeting Begin has talked about." Atherton said he had discussed the possibility of such a meeting with Sadat but declined to elaborate.

Sadat said he had sent a message to President Carter in response to a letter from him.

"When we exchange letters, we always include all the possibilities and all the details," Sadat said.

Kamel told reporters he could "not see an Egyptian-Israeli meeting inthe near future" and indicated it is up to the Americans to make suggestions to break the deadlock.

"We have done all we can," Kamel said. "Now we shall see what the Americans can do."

In Jerusalem, the Israeli cabinet said Sunday that Israel is ready to resume peace talks and that it hopes the "much talked-about conference in the Sinai" will take place. Cabinet spokesman Arieh Naor said the Mideast situation was discussed but no new decisions were made.

Atherton is scheduled to go to Israel today or Tuesday, and Naor said the Israeli is "are waiting for new ideas from Cairo instead of the old concepts." Vance is scheduled to visit the Mideast late this week.

CETA Cutback

positions, but as far as putting them in new or created positions, that's another story," Hendrie said.

City leaders already have expressed a desire to put a limit on city spending and cut local taxes — a goal at odds with the possibility of accepting new workers.

CETA workers have an average, annual salary of about $9,000, Miss Forbes said, and in the past have been connected with projects like the Canyon Lakes, senior citizens programs, housing programs and several projects with Texas Tech.

Miss Forbes said staff members will seek through Friday to obtain commitments from employers to take on workers.

From then until Sept. 30, she said, staff members will try to relocate or find other jobs for workers whose employers cannot absorb their jobs into payrolls.

After Sept. 30, limited funds will be available for some workers, but not the full 279, she said. Thereafter, she said, the program still could be abolished in congressional appropriations bills during funding consideration expected after December.

World Chess Title Contestants End Sixth Game In Stalemate

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Challenger Viktor Korchnoi stalemated defending champion Anatoly Karpov's king and abruptly ended their twice-adjourned fifth game in the world chess championship in another draw Sunday.

All of the first six games have now ended in draws. The sixth game was played Saturday while the fifth game was in adjournment.

The first player to win six games will get the title and $350,000 in prize money. The loser will get $200,000. The tournament is expected to last several months.

pursued the Soviet champion's king with his bishop in an attempt to salvage a victory that he missed on Friday as a result of a costly blunder.

Chess experts had predicted no one would win the lengthy game, which began Thursday. West German arbiter Lothar Schmid began Sunday's play by opening Korchnoi's sealed 92nd move, king to bishop 5.

"I think they should end the game," said American grandmaster Robert Byrne while analyzing the progress of the match. "If they were friends, they should agree to a draw."

It took only an hour and 33 rapid moves to settle the game and the draw came after Korchnoi cornered Karpov's king in the king's rook side. Korchnoi mobilized his king and sent his bishop to knight 7, paralyzing the champion's king.

The game lasted a total of 12 hours and 124 moves over three days and Schmid said it may have been the longest game ever played in a world championship match.

The marathon game had been adjourned for the second time Friday, after Korchnoi had and lost a chance at the tournament's first victory.

Because of extreme time pressure, Korchnoi made an error — missing the best possibility for a check — that some experts described as the worst mistake the Russian grandmaster has committed in his career.

Inept Holdup Man Confounds Guard

EAST NORWICH, N.Y. (AP) — One of the people patiently waiting in line at a Howard Johnson's restaurant had a white T-shirt pulled up over his head, police said Sunday.

When he got to the cash register he took a small object — police said it may have been a gun — from his pants and announced a holdup.

Employees and patrons apparently did not take the man seriously. The police report said they were "laughing hysterically."

But an off-duty security guard who happened to be in the restaurant slapped handcuffs on the man.

At that, the unidentified man told his captor that it was all just a "sorority" prank. The guard released him and he fled toward an automobile.

Police said the security guard later realized that the man had said "sorority," whose members would be exclusively women, instead of "fraternity."

The incident was then reported to county police, who listed it as an attempted robbery.

Earthquake Kills Three In Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — An earthquake that struck the city of Patzu killed three persons and injured many others, police reported Sunday.

They said the quake Saturday shook central and western Guatemala and aftershocks followed Sunday. Many residents of Patzu, 50 miles west of Guatemala City, fled in panic from their homes and spent the night out in the open.

Authorities reported a child, 10, and two adults were killed in a landslide at a quarry on the outskirts of Patzu.

The city's marketplace, several churches and shrines and about 20 homes were damaged, police said.

On that scale, which measures ground motion as recorded on seismographs, every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. Thus a reading of 7.5 reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of 6.5.

POINTS TO SAVINGS, QUALITY, VARIETY — Staffmember Nancy English of Tuftwick Carpet, Brownfield Highway at Slide Road, calls attention to selection and the special savings posted throughout the firm during its current clearance event.

Summer Clearance Featuring 'Still Lower' Tuftwick Prices

Tuftwick Carpet's Summer Clearance contiques!

The word from the folks there is "this is the greatest carpet sale in Tuftwick Carpet's 23 years in business. We are trading dollars to reduce our inventory.

"Save $3, $4 and even $5 a square yard on first-quality carpet from the nation's leading mills.

"Bring your measurements during this event and we will be happy to figure your carpet needs . . . at a carpet cost you will appreciate."

"We'll again prove that we're the carpet store where your dollar buys more!"

There are full rolls and short rolls, and remnants, too, all at fantastic savings.

Examples Given

Note the following as examples of the values, selected at random from the huge list of specials at Tuftwick:

There is Columbus Bolereau, heavy continuous filament nylon with thick foam back, in gold dust, new leaf and spicewood, now $4.99 sq.yd. (carpet only); compare at $7.95.

And Philadelphia Reliable hi-low nylon shag, in tobacco leaf, Otto brown, Coralee beige, blue, etc., at just $9.59 sq.yd. installed over 1/2-in. pad (compare at $11.95).

There are exceptional buys in remnants. This list is far too long to itemize here, but includes fantastic opportunities (such as one piece suggested to retail at $81.95 but now priced $12.95; another suggested retail of $285.95, but now $115.95; and many, many more with comparable price slashes.

Sometimes a firm conducts a sale with prices so fantastically low that even those unfamiliar with true value can recognize the exceptional savings.

Such a situation is presented in the current sale at Tuftwick. Store owners report the inventory must be reduced, so everything is placed on sale. There just isn't a better way to move quality merchandise fast than by pricing it at rock bottom!

This storewide Sale at Tuftwick Carpet, Inc. (Slide Road at Brownfield Highway in Lubbock) is special.

So...even with the always-low prices and the sales posted from time to time at Tuftwick Carpet, the current extravaganza is something most, most outstanding.

To further assist one in the sale purchases, remember these facts about Tuftwick Carpet.Inc. at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road in Lubbock, phone 795-5251:

Hours are 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m..Mondays through Fridays, with evenings by appointment. Saturday hours are 9 a.m. until..?

" Easy terms are available, with no money down and with up to 36 months in which to pay."

"It all is proof that Tuftwick goes all out to pass fantastic buys on to you, our valued customer, making everything as convenient for you as possible. While still emphasizing quality at low, low prices."

A shopping trip to Tuftwick is worth the trip from anywhere in the area, and the current sale makes this double so.

Extraordinary savings, even for Tuftwick, are presently enabled. Don't delay, shop now at Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., at Slide Road and Brownfield Highway to your profit, selection and complete satisfaction.

"If you have not been through the showrooms of the big Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., within the last few weeks, you are in for a real treat at your next visit."

First, there is a thrilling selection of patterns and materials.

Secondly, the prices and values simply cannot be beat.

Third reason for a trip to Tuftwick Carpet at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road could well be the most attractive display yet. Everything in the showroom has been conviently displayed for easy viewing, comparison and selection. It is an attractive, inviting place in which to shop.

Sign-Up For New B & I Series Underway With Deadline Near

"The Business and Industrial pages of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal can work for you, too."

It is now time to arrange for inclusion in these B & I pages as contract sign-up is underway for the new series of presentations.

Actually, deadline for participation arrangements is only a few days away, so immediate attention is necessary.

See an Avalanche-Journal retail advertising salesman or call 762-8844, Extension 222, and a representative of the advertising department will then explain the program in full, helping plan a comprehensive schedule of presentations in stories and pictures, together with ads that week after week carry their impact.

These pages have a record of proven benefit to advertiser and customer alike.

The B & I program can be especially beneficial in the key merchandising months ahead, months that involve back-to-school, ballgame season, Christmas, fall and winter activities, winter vacation time, and new year events.

Many businesses and services actually consider the B & I presentations as best opportunity for "getting the message across," testimonials indicate month after month.

One businessman wrote:

"My business was exceptional on the day the story ran; in fact, it was the best day I have had, and the entire week marked an 84 per cent increase over the previous one. I thank you for the good job (on the B & I pages)."

Another informed the B & I editor:

"The first story you published about my service directly resulted in a sale that more than paid for my B & I contract for six months!"

"Now, in your own situation, does this sound familiar:

"I have said, time and again, that next time I'm going to be on the B & I pages. My business associates have reported the effectiveness, and readers have expressed their enthusiasm for the informative stories and ads."

Now that time is here, together with its opportunities.

"Your business or service can be featured in pictures and stories in the unique B & I section, but only if action is taken at soonest possible time.

The messages carried in the B & I pages provide a distinct service to both advertiser and the consumer, and full details are gladly and clearly outlined by The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Professional Aid

"Your own story can be told effectively, prominently, professionally and correctly on these pages in the activity packed season ahead."

"Your messages can be featured, however, only if arrangements are made now; so don't find your firm or service omitted from the B & I pages during these key months ahead."

"Those interested in being represented through these factual stories and pictures for the first time, or as a continuation of former rewarding schedules, should call 762-8844. Extension 222, and a representative of the advertising department will then explain the program in full and help plan a comprehensive schedule of messages.

Doughty Enterprises Affords Wide Range Cleaning Services

Doughty Enterprises, phone 793-2271, located at 3211-A 34th St., offers a variety of cleaning services to Lubbock and the surrounding area.

These services include janitorial service, commercial and residential window washing service, carpet cleaning, upholstery cleaning and floor stripping and waxing.

"In our eight years in business in Lubbock, we have strived to do the best job possible for our customers. Preston Doughty, owner and operator of the business, gives personal attention to each and every detail of the job at hand."

Although janitorial service was the original service offered by Doughty Enterprises, the firm now has expanded into the other areas of the business necessary to provide a full line to the customer.

"A large part of our business is devoted to our window washing service."

Preston Doughty and Simon Rodriquez will be found providing the same personal attention to the window service as to the rest of the services.

Daily work lists are kept on all route work done. Each store owner signs the work list each week after the job is completed. This provides for good customer relations and guarantees the customer that he is getting the full service that he is paying for.

Doughty has extended this same prompt attention to the recently acquired window washing division of Hughes Service Co.

For Carpets, Too

"We at Doughty Enterprises are able to completely clean and deodorize carpets and upholstery, either in the home or at our cleaning shop at 3211-A 34th St. For carpets, we use one of the best and most powerful steam cleaning units available today. We also provide shampooing for the carpets that are cleaned better by this method. We are able to dry clean or steam clean upholstered furniture as needed."

Insured, Bonded

Mobile communication provides fast, prompt service to the customer. Preston will be glad to help you with your cleaning problems when you call 793-2271.

"Our fully insured and bonded personnel will try to provide the best of cleaning services to you, the customer. Please feel free to give us a call at 793-2271 or visit our shop at 3211-A 34th St. Your business is always appreciated."

Texas Insulation Systems, Lockney, Affords ThermoCon Process, Products

Specializing in ThermoCon spray-on and loose-fill for residential, commercial and industrial applications, Jerry Ulmer and staff are masters in their field. For full details see Ulmer at the Lockney facilty, write Box 591, Lockney, Tex. 79241, or call (806) 652-3348.

Spray-on ThermoCon affords temperature, sound and fire control in one application!

Because of its chemical content, it permanently bonds to steel, wood and masonry surfaces painted or not! It provides a strong color-stable environmental system that will not chip, shed, flake, dust or be subject to rot or fungi. ThermoCon is odorless and non-toxic.

Because it forms a monolithic seal, it can be used wherever temperature, sound or fire control is needed on ceilings or walls, exposed or unexposed. No latning, undercoating or preparatory base is required!

Because of its workable fibrous texture, ThermoCon can expand and contract with your building without losing its hold. Its built-in flexibility makes it easy to cut, saw, mold, shape or paint.

Because of its application by pneumatic spray, it is much faster and more economical than conventional insulation, Ulmer emphasizes.

Appropriate buildings for this ThermoCon system include farm buildings, airplane hangars, industrial plants, warehouses, auditoriums, gyms, showrooms, supermarkets, mobile homes, apartments, condominiums, office buildings, etc.

"It is twice as effective as wire-backed fiberglass batts; heat intense enough to melt metal will not penetrate ThermoCon's protective barrier!"

Newest Spic & Span Cleaners Draws Special Service Acclaim

Nationally-circulated trade publications recently have spelled out what a lot of Lubbockites have known for a long time . . . that Spic & Span 1-Hour Cleaners in Lubbock truly are superior!

Quoting from the July issue of American Drycleaner:

"Speed, quality cleaning and superservice, coupled with a sterling reputation built over 30 years, are among the factors which helped make Spic & Span 1-Hour Cleaners of Lubbock a Merit Award Winner in American Drycleaner magazine's 17th Annual Plant Design Contest.

"This new award-winning plant is the second Spic & Span fabricare operation that Chester and Janette Holder have going for them in Lubbock . . ."

This second and added Spic & Span facility is located at 3331 70th St., just a block east of Indiana at its approach to Loop 289. Easy access and plenty of paved off-street parking in a non-congested area are among the location factors that have earned appreciation of the customers in that south and southwest Lubbock area.

Randy Gordon is manager of this functionally-beautiful facility where fast, courteous service, top-quality work and convenient location are emphasized.

The Holders still operate the facility at 2109 50th St., too, and one is invited to patronize the Spic & Span unit that is most convenient.

More about the newer 70th Street plant:

"Some Bigger, None Better, No Brag, Just Fact" is the motto quite adequately summing the concept of business there.

Among customer considerations there are so very many factors, including convenient location with its nearness to the loop enabling easy use by motorists travelling to shopping areas, schools and to work.

Even the plant's interior is outstanding, with its functional design also eye pleasing, with crisp, cool looking white ash paneling on the walls, divider and two spacious counters, a color scheme of white, orange and gold tones, and white acoustical ceiling with recessed lighting.

Most work moves through the plant very fast; but even with this speedy service, the customer finds that the Holders, Gordon and other staffmembers like to meet the customers and discuss their garments with them.

Items are hung immediately after they're run and are then sent to the finishing stations by slick rail. Three finishing units are provided, one for silks, one for coats, shirts and miscellaneous garments, and a pants unit. After finishing, the work goes to assembly where it is inspected, checked, bagged and hung on the conveyor that can dispense finished garments from both ends.

For sure . . . Spic & Span does not skimp on the two important basics . . . quality and service!

"May we prove this, to your satisfaction . . . at Spic & Span, 3331 70th St., or at the long-established 2109 50th St. facility?"

And remember further:

Chester and Janette Holder, owners of Spic & Span Cleaners, specialize in one thing only ... "the dry cleaning industry". They are real pros in the drycleaning field and both are active workers in the business, keeping their minds alert for anything new to benefit the customer.

Vetral's Unveils Fall, Winter Apparel Fashions Throughout

The approaching new season is very much in the air at Vetral's Fashions!

Gorgeous fall and winter arrivals swell the exciting and large stock at Vetral's, now recognized region-wide for its fashions at affordable prices.

Sale Items

(A limited amount of spring and summer wear still is on hand and is drastically reduced in price for immediate removal to make room for new arrivals. There are summer dresses and pant suits, as example, marked at one-half price! What a buy!)

So . . . one can buy now at Vetral's, not only securing exceptional values for the summer days still to follow, but to purchase for school and fall events ahead. Layaway is invited, of course.

The fresh and delightful stock includes daily arrivals of fall dresses and pant suits, sweaters, blouses, etc. The colors, materials and styles seem to be the prettiest ever in women's apparel, and Vetral's Fashions has done an outstanding job in selecting merchandise that is "right," fashionable and practical.

Vetral's has it all!

Everything at Vetral's is new nothing is in the expansive racks but fresh, delightful stock.

Easy To Reach

"The Best for Less" is the meaningful slogan at Vetral's Fashions, located just east of Lubbock. Go east on the well-marked route, from Lubbock's East 4th Street, to north of the Roosevelt School. The drive takes less time than many instances of traffic fighting within one's own city area.

Though open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., Vetral's is glad to open late for the convenience of customers wishing to shop at a later hour.

This is just one of the thoughtful gestures of the smart apparel shop. (Remember, simply take FM 40 east of Lubbock for six miles, then go three-fourths mile south.) The fashion shop on the west side of the pavement is clearly marked and features easy access and plenty of paved parking. No congestion here! No high overhead here!

Owners Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Davis traditionally assure real treats in fashion and quality at sensible prices. They and their capable assistants give the customer every benefit.

Select from pant suits, coordinates, dresses, sweaters, blouses, etc., that reflect the care in which Vetral's buys and stocks.

For those who already know the everyday low prices and the chic merchandise at Vetral's, enthusiasm naturally is being shown for the new fall arrivals. For those who may not have patronized Vetral's, now would be an excellent time . . . come on out and shop while selection is at its best.

Master Charge and Visa card use is welcomed.

INSTRUCTION IN PARTY SETTING — International Dance Club owner-instructor Ed Murphy (pictured with partner) not only is recognized locally but also on national level where both himself and students have copped key honors in several dance categories. Two Lubbock representatives will compete in the fall Grand National events in New York City, Murphy relates.

International Dance Club Opens Way To Fun, Achievement, Entertainment

"It is exciting to be a good dancer!"

A whole new world of fun, entertainment and achievement can be opened for one upon enrollment with the International Dance Club, 5415 Aberdeen, phone 792-3781, in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Murphy are owners and operators of the Lubbock International Dance Club, providing instruction for the past five years (two years at the new, spacious, beautiful quarters at 5415 Aberdeen, just a block west of Slide Road and near South Plains Mall).

Not only has Murphy garnered awards at even the national and international level, but his students have made enviable records in competition at every level. Doesn't this speak well of the instruction provided right here in Lubbock at the International Dance Club?

Compete Nationally

A group from Lubbock will go to New York in September for the Grand National competition at the Waldorf-Astoria, and competing from Lubbock will be Nina Clare and Geneva Kahlich.

Last year at the same event, Lubbock representatives placed 4th in the Latin dance category, competing against all other national entries.

Ed himself has copped numerous prestigious awards in various dance categories. First to introduce country-western dancing in club competition he placed first in Dallas, with the Cotton Eye Joe, polka and other dances featured.

His students recently took 27 first place awards in the Aladdin Dance tourney in Ls Vegas, Nev., with Murphy presented the "Top Teacher" award.

Varied Programs

All dance categories are involved in the instruction available at the spacious facility in Lubbock, with programs available for any type budget, Murphy emphasizes, welcoming the opportunity to personally explain the opportunities and options.

The International Dance Club, at 5415 Aberdeen, remember, is open from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m., Mondays through Fridays; and on Saturdays from 12 noon until 6 p.m. Enrollment can be arranged any day.

Benefits Cited

It is exciting to be a good dancer, and Ed Murphy and his instructor staff delight in helping one achieve that goal.

"Good dancers are popular companions and are always invited," Murphy points out. "When you are a good dancer, you can meet people easily, comfortably. Others will feel at ease dancing with you because you have the confidence you need that comes naturally with knowing how to dance well. Think of it!"

The International Dance Club provides dance instruction in a party setting. You learn any or all of the popular dances that you choose. There are weekly parties, evenings out on the town and travel to nearby and faraway places.

Baby World, Lue Ree's Tell Summer Sales, Fall Readiness

Readiness for fall and back-to-school is in the air . . . at Baby World and at Lue Ree's Children's Shop, that is!

At Baby World, 4918 50th St., all spring and summer wear is marked at one-half price!

And what a great time to select, while the stock is fresh and new . . . and extensive, from coats and jackets for fall and winter use. Layaway is invited and encouraged.

Just one year ago an important announcement was made from Baby World . . . that owners Vickie and Jonathan Hoffman not only were maintaining a great stock there, but that they had purchased an additional store, Lue Ree's Children's Shop in Briercroft Center.

Both Serve Well

Each store has since served in its distinct way in a manner appreciated by customers who recognize the added convenience, and the expertise of Vickie, Jonathan and staff in serving with quality merchandise and affordable prices.

Lue Ree's stocks boys wear in infants through size 12, and girls sizes in infants through 14, plus pre teens and some juniors.

Furniture, Nursery Items

Possibly best known for the apparel items and accessories, Baby World is truly outstanding in its presentation of furniture for the little folks, featuring Simmons products. See the most attractive display of this line now presented.

Everything at Baby World and its sister shop, Lue Ree's, conveys that exciting offerings are the rule and that patronage and friendship is fully appreciated.

Helping to plan the nursery is a valuable but free assistance of Baby World.

Visa, Master Charge and layaway purchases are invited.

Off-street parking is provided at both Lue Ree's and Baby World, and are among the multiple conveniences that make these stores ones that could and should become "habit forming for you, too."

"May we have the pleasure of serving you, and saving for you, during our sale?

Cowling's July Clearance Entering Final Hours

Today is final day of Cowling Furniture's gigantic July Clearance Sale!

This means that if one hurries, there still are banner savings available . . . even to 50 per cent off on numerous items!

This semi-annual sale at Cowling Furniture features savings in every department . . . with especially good buys on sofas, lamps, even most of the paintings in stock, together with furniture items for every room.

Ken Cowling has just returned from market and has made outstanding purchases in new merchandise for which room must be made. New arrivals already are noted throughout the big store.

Stressing value and quality always, still further budget aid is enabled in the July Sale that ends today.

With an enlarged, yet most discriminating, selection offered, Cowling's Furniture, 1210 Ave. Q, has "what's right and what's quality" for every furniture need.

Opening in late 1975, Cowling's has become recognized as a good firm, with good merchandise, with integrity and with a quality-savings combination to be appreciated.

With so very much presented in its selection, it is impossible to enumerate all, but these arrivals likely should come in for special note:

The best selection of sofas yet stocked by Cowling's is currently presented.

Rattan Now Stocked

New groupings for every room of the home are available.

Some extremely good quality Rattan furniture has been added to the extensive stock.

A very good supply of credenzas, consoles, bedroom and dining room groupings is another present situation, all in readiness for redecorating.

All in all, Cowling's has the largest stock yet; they have continually stocked good lines and are staying with these respected and well-known brands.

Both investment art and just "plain pretty art work" is stocked in a beautiful array of selective paintings, tastefully arranged throughout the attractive store.

"This is an out-of-the-ordinary furniture store," more than a few customers have found, and Ken Cowling and family want the opportunity to personally show this as the truth. Modest on the outside, the big store is most impressive within; actually, entry is into a whole new world of quality furniture at prices to please.

"If it is all-around good taste that you appreciate, then let Cowling's friendly family staff serve you. The firm is a family store, family owned and operated, with each member doing his and her best to bring your own family the very finest home furnishings to fit your budget."

Financing is available, and personal attention in every visit and transaction is a watchword at Cowling's, just south off Broadway, on Avenue Q. Both an east and north entry is provided, with appreciated off-street parking at the north.

MINI-BLIND SPECIAL

For example . . . 20 per cent off on all mini-blinds!

"One's budget must and should be considered, and A & J, at 1917 19th St., phone 762-4013, in Lubbock, does all in its power to befriend your budget for home improvement."

FLOWERS TODAY — AN EXPERIENCE IN BEAUTY

Flowers Today, On Slide Road, Excels With Multiple Services

For summer decorating, what could be more desired than indoor tropicals?

For these, the time is now, and the place is Flowers Today, in a class by itself at 5308-B Slide Road.

Or if the need is flowers for the shut-in, the nospital patient, or for any other situation, Flowers Today likes to prove itself as the wise choice.

The firm's assertion that "we're here to serve you, to do it the way you want it" is most evident even upon initial entry to the beautifully stocked and appointed shop on the west side of Slide Road, with plenty of off-street parking.

Not only does Flowers Today have a most enticing and wide selection of potted plants, green plants, silks, fresh flowers, tropicals, etc., but it stocks a discriminating choice in accessories.

Note the really fine crystal pieces (including antiques and imports), brass and copper ware.

Whatever the decorative item selected at Flowers Today, a fern stand, baker's rack, or other, one can be assured that value is the word.

Owners-operators Tim Tippit and Winifred Hill would have it no other way.

The firm was purchased by the duo back in November of last year, and word seems to have spread rapidly regarding the type shop, the concept of service, and the merchandise variety provided.

"Serenity" likely is first and correct impression of the so-beautiful shop — from its fern wallpaper to the plush carpet and attractive floral arrangements.

Floral needs for weddings are met, professionally and beautifully.

In decor pieces, it is pointed out that many are one-of-a-kind items, including handpainted china.

For a new experience in floral shopping, for selecting from stock or ordering a custom arrangement, Flowers Today, phone 795-9333, at 5308-B Slide Road, is heartily recommended.

"Remember, we're here to serve the public; may we include you among our valued customers?"

Hughes Services 'Goes Second Mile' In Fullest Assistance To Customer

For full janitorial services with "plus-benefits that we like to prove", the name to know in Lubbock, Amarillo and throughout the South Plains and Panhandle is Hughes Services, Inc., 101 Sherman Ave. in Lubbock!

(And for purchase of professional maintenance supplies, at the same Lubbock location, there is HUCO Products. Co., taking pride in stocking the very best in equipment and related needs.)

Hughes and HUCO each "go the extra mile" in assisting the customer, helping in maximum benefits from both the services and equipment selection and use.

Customers have long profited from the learning and experience, plus capacity for service, of the Hughes and HUCO personnel. Offices are maintained in both Lubbock and Amarillo, and counties throughout the area are well served by Hughes (with current accounts noted in Levelland, Slaton, Hereford, Canyon, Plainview and other area points.)

"Are you included?"

Assistance That Counts

Hughes Services has a record of customer assistance . . . such as supervision to assure the right procedures and results for each account.

"If your building has a problem in janitorial servicing, there is no charge from Hughes for an in-depth survey and recommendations."

And if a housewife has a problem on floor care within the home, we are glad at Hughes and HUCO to tell what use and how it should be used.

All this is made possible by "the right products, the devotion to service, and the training that is a continuous procedure for all staffmembers."

Demonstrations, films, on-job training — all are part of the Hughes and HUCO concept of fullest service, and in keeping with a record of foresight and achievement that might be dated from establishment of Hughes Service back in 1954 and the addition of HUCO Products in 1970, with numerous additions to products and services marking the intervening and ensuing years.

"We believe a professional wants strictly professional merchandise; hence any product we sell is used in our own professional maintenance business; we have tested it before recommending and selling it, for sure."

Among the products available from HUCO are Hillyard floor treatments including gym finishes and concrete seals. (One can run a new slab and just as soon as it is dry for walking, a spray seal can be applied to keep it from ever getting stained. How great for a commercial building, or even for the home owner who can seal the garage or even the residence floor before carpeting.

All types of hospitalization chemicals are stocked.

Plus National Super Service floor machines.

(Be sure and learn of the electric powered 20-in. buffer with brush speed of 1,070 rpm, three times as much as usually expected for buffing units. And it is simple enough and easy enough for any woman to run. Imagine, buffing 10,000 sq.ft. per hour! And the finishes last longer with a "wet look" finish that resists scuffing.

Actually, for finest in cleaning equipment and related products, all thoroughly proven, one can with assurance depend upon the progressive HUCO Products Co., 101 Sherman Ave. in Lubbock.

Specifics Cited

Briefly, eight prime reasons are itemized here to be considered in knowing the Hughes firm better:

(1) Hughes services banks, school ottice buildings, manufacturing plants, churches, public utilities and more.

(2) As the oldest janitorial service company in Lubbock, Hughes has been in business since 1954 — 24 years of service.

(3) Free estimates at no obligation are gladly given.

(4) A maintenance program "for you" can be professionally and correctly planned by the qualified staff.

(5) References are gladly furnished.

(6) Hughes Services, Inc., is insured and bonded.

(7) Employees are thoroughly trained by demonstration, training films and regular rigid inspection.

(8) And not the least of the considerations is equipment: Hughes has the best equipment and cleaning supplies to be found.

"Get the idea?

"Hughes wants to have a part in your future."

At Hughes, one can be assured of such benefits as all labor, all supervision, all cleaning equipment, all supplies, all machines, all payroll taxes, insurance, etc.

Hughes crews are at work most every day throughout the area, even to the Oklahoma border. With more than 100 employees, Hughes has the manpower and financial strength to serve well.

Hughes is equipped and manned to take care of any type residential or business cleaning and maintenance need or problem.

Limited-Time Offer Spelling Added Savings At Bernice's

Isn't this a nice way to usher in a new month:

For the first two weeks in August, a free conditioner will be given with any permanent wave in the shop at Bernice's Hair Fashions, 2107 Knoxville Ave.!

And look at these further inviting reasons for relying upon Bernice's:

(A) The staff is unquestionably skilled;

(B) The location has a lot going for it;

(C) There are everyday low prices to please; and

(D) The shop, at 2107 Knoxville Ave., near Methodist Hospital, has recently been attractively redecorated.

Every beauty service, including razor cuts or scissor cuts for both men and women, Uni-Perms, sculptured nails, and more, are afforded at Bernice's.

Uni-Perms, including cut, shampoo and set, are a sensible $21, and other services at the salon are equally reasonably priced.

Staffed To Serve

The staff is schooled in all the new hairstyles and latest methods, and one could do well to form the habit of depending upon Bernice's, phone 795-2604. Early and late appointments can be arranged.

Barbara Huffman, a Jessie Lee graduate well recognized in the trade and by customers who appreciate quality in beauty and hair care, is manager. Barbara has been with Bernice's for 14 years.

Barbara is assisted by an able staff including newest member Helen Cross, and by Mary Williamson and Debbie McCollum.

Helen is a recent graduate of Mickie's Beauty Academy in Lubbock, and though adept in the numerous beauty services she especially enjoys sculptured nails and blow dries as specialties. Helen, who attended Dunbar, has been a Lubbock resident since 1959.

Mary Williamson, an Odessa Beauty School graduate, has been with Bernice's for seven years, and she specializes in blow dries and curling iron, though rendering the other beauty services as well.

With these operators, one can be certain that the complete hair care and beauty services are superior.

Manicures are available.

Whether long or short hair styles are the situation, or whether old or new style cuts are desired, Bernice's can be a most satisfactory solution.

It is pointed out that with the very popular Uni-Perm, one's hair behaves as nicely as naturally wavy hair.

Bernice's is open six days a week.

Remember the location, one-half block south of Methodist Hospital at 2107 Knoxville Ave., phone 795-2604, a location especially appreciated by residents of that area and by hospital-related personnel, visitors, etc.

"Exceptional beauty care is just as near as Bernice's Hair Fashions in Lubbock where the coffeepot always is on and a friendly, casual atmosphere prevails."

Lubbock Kash And Karry Wholesale Grocery Shows Way To Food Savings

With school approaching, and with other financial demands of the season . . . maybe a vacation even yet to come . . . one can truly appreciate anything that favors the budget! Right?

"Then, we hope you have learned of the savings and the convenience that mark Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery where one may purchase individual items, as well as one-half case and case lots at special low prices.

Heretofore, the prices were quite low, but purchases were enabled in quantity lots only. Now, one can shop for the quanity desired, from one item up!

And this other situation should not be overlooked either:

All items are pre-priced; one does not need to mark his or her own items; and . . . full carry-out service continues to be a policy of Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery.

"Many of you have profited — for months — by checking the ads of Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery on these pages, and purchasing accordingly. (Selecting at the same time from the hundreds of other items already marked at 'rock bottom' at this popular Lubbock grocery that recently celebrated its second anniversary).

"Others of you possibly have yet to learn the money-saving truth . . . that Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery can be a tremendous friend to the family budget.

Certainly, all will agree that it is advantageous to shop more carefully than ever before . . . for price and value. Then . . . be sure and check the Lubbock Kash & Karry ad.

(Not only this week but check each week on representative money-saving staple items provided by this distinctive firm at 901 N. Ave. Q.

"Did you know that groceries still can be purchased in Lubbock at really low prices — and — with full carry-out and sacking service?

"If you are shopping elsewhere, you may be doing much of the work yourself, and still be paying too much; so — try Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery and pocket the savings!"

Located at 901 N. Ave. Q, phone 747-6033, this firm is Lubbock's only independently and wholly owned and operated wholesale grocery.

It takes pride in "selling for less," a policy made possible by its cash arrangement, low overhead, purchases directly from the manufacturer, its policy of "pick it up yourself and save the difference," and local warehousing.

Co-owners are Tommy Toombs and Noble Sides, with Toombs as manager. Sides, formerly with the Ben E. Keith Co., enjoys a wide acquaintance in the area, as does Tommy who also is a longtime Lubbock resident. Both are on the job to give their personal attention.

Not only is the stock of staple and canned items impressive, but there are packaged meats and a very good stock of other refrigerated products and produce.

STAFF ASSISTS

The firm has enjoyed acceptance and appreciation of those even coming long distances to take advantags of the prices and selection. More than 1,600 items are included in the stock that veritably affords "anything for the grocery business," and housed in a big 6,000 sq.ft. building at the north Lubbock location.

Woolco's Special Air Cooler Price Enables Exceptional Buy

From time to time, Woolco is able to present what could rightly be termed "super buys" in its program of affording values to the best of the firm's ability ... prices in keeping with its invitation "We want to be your favorite store."

This week such a feature is enabled on a limited number of Phoenix Air Coolers.

There are 17 only of these particular models (Model 4400) but while they last they are exceptional buys.

H.T. Abston of the Woolco staff calls attention to this window model, two-speed unit, regularly priced at an inviting figure of just $319.95, but while these 17 last they are going at a still much lower $269!

"There is lots of summer ahead," Abston aptly points out, "and these units can be of real service right now, making for immediate comfort and savings and will last for season after season. I would consider such a purchase a very wise investment."

The invitation is extended to not only scan the items on this page, including the special cooler offer, but to watch every Woolco advertisement, and, better yet, come into the spacious, friendly, well-stocked store and see for yourself just how very much Woolco wants to please!

House Prepares Vote On Defense Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major decisions on U.S. policy in South Korea, Turkey and Rhodesia are scheduled for House votes this week along with the biggest defense bill in history — $119.4 billion.

In the Senate, a filibuster appears certain when debate begins Friday on lifting natural gas price controls, a chief stumbling block for President Carter's energy proposals.

The closest vote in the House is expected to come on Carter's request for Congress to repeal the embargo it imposed in 1975 against U.S. military aid to Turkey.

The Senate has already agreed and Carter's supporters believe the House will, also. But they say the vote will be so close that it could go against them.

Congress imposed the embargo after Turkey violated U.S. foreign aid law by using American weapons to invade and occupy Cyprus.

But Carter says the embargo threatens to drive Turkey out of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance and has not worked to force Cyprus peace negotiations.

So is the authority Carter requested to turn $800 million worth of U.S. military equipment over to South Korean units while pulling all 32,000 U.S. ground combat troops out.

But Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., said he will try to cut the figure to $80 million worth of equipment to be left behind by the 6,000 troops already coming out.

Then Carter would have to get Congress' approval of additional transfers before he could pull out any more American troops.

The Senate approved the full $800 million last week but added language expressing "the sense of Congress" that Carter should consult with it before withdrawing any more troops.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., plans to introduce an amendment similar to one approved by the Senate to end U.S. participation in the United Nations trade embargo against Rhodesia if Rhodesia elects a new government through free elections.

The House is scheduled to do all that Tuesday and then vote Wednesday on a $7.3 billion foreign aid appropriation.

That includes military, economic aid, the Peace Corps and U.S. contributions to the international development banks.

Leaders believe the $7.3 billion figure will be severely slashed but that a foreign aid bill will at least be approved, which they were not so sure about last month.

Then the House takes up the $119.4 billion appropriation for all U.S. defense operations except development of nuclear warheads.

An effort will be made to scrap the last of the nuclear aircraft carriers. Such an effort failed in committee on a 26-26 tie vote.

Congress endorsed a decision by President Carter last year to scrap the huge nuclear carrier and develop smaller ones.

But both the House and Senate have approved bills this year overturning that decision and providing money for the nuclear carrier.

Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., began filibustering the natural gas compromise before the Senate even took it up and says he will lead a filibuster when the debate does start Friday.

The compromise is the one that ended a months-long deadlock among House-Senate conferees over Carter's energy proposals.

The Senate favored lifting controls so prices would go up and discourage wasteful use of natural gas while giving gas companies a profit incentive to find and drill for more.

The House voted against the deregulation on grounds it would give the gas companies windfall profits.

The compromise would lift the price controls, but gradually between now and 1985 with provisions for re-imposing them if companies begin getting huge profits.

Submarine Abducts Italian Fishermen

MAZARA DEL VALLO, Sicily (AP) — Port authorities said Saturday they were investigating a report that the crew of an unidentified submarine abducted two Italian fishermen at gunpoint from a boat off the Libyan coast.

The officials in this Mediterranean fishing center on Sicily's west coast, said Gaspasre Asaro, skipper of the Sicilian fishing boat Eschilo, reported the officers of the submarine spoke Arabic and he believed they were Libyans.

There have been a number of incidents in recent years involving Sicilian boats fishing in waters claimed by Libya and Tunisia to be within their territorial limits.

The port officials said Asaro, in a radio message received here, reported he and his 11-man crew were fishing 34 miles off the Misurata cape when a submarine suddenly surfaced and its officers, pointing a machine gun at the Eschilo, ordered two fishermen to board the submarine.

Asaro said two cousins, Bartolomeo and Matteo Ingargiola, volunteered to obey the order so the other crewmen could go free, according to the port officials. The submarine then went into a dive and disappeared, the message said.

Jane's Fighting Ships, the authoritative British reference journal, says Libya bought a "Foxtrot" class submarine from the Soviet Union in 1976 and reportedly has five more on order. Jane's also reports the Libyans have ordered four subs from France with delivery due in 1980 or 1981.

Officials said they planned to question Asaro and his crew when the fishing boat reaches port. It was not immediately known when that would be.

Congressional Trade Subcommittee Eyes Tariff Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman and four members of a House trade subcommittee are urging President Carter to consider imposing a temporary surcharge on goods from Japan.

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee's subcommittee on trade, made public Sunday a letter to Carter saying an excess of exports, especially from Japan, and the decline of the dollar "are reaching the danger point."

The letter said subcommittee members have repeatedly pointed out to Japanese officials visiting Washington that Japan should undertake voluntary measures to improve the flow of U.S. goods to the Japanese market and fulfill commitments to reduce the trade imbalance.

"These warnings that time and patience are running out do not appear to be taken seriously," the congressmen's letter continued.

"The rapid appreciation of the yen should have made Japanese goods far less competitive in the United States market and United States exports cheaper and more attractive in Japan with the decline of the dollar," they wrote.

Middle-Class Professionals Indulging In Illegal Drug Use

NEW YORK (AP) — That smoke in the board room may not be from cigars. And the white powder clinging to the rims of those aristocratic nostrils isn't always from eating sugar donuts.

It should have come as no shock — though it did — when allegations arose that some White House aides had used marijuana and cocaine.

Presidential spokesman Jody Powell said he had no knowledge of such drug use by staff members. But many young, middle-class professionals — the kind of people who make up White House staffs — are turning to illicit drugs the way even more Americans use such legal drugs as whiskey and gin. These so-called "recreational" drugs include marijuana, cocaine, barbiturates, amphetamines, even heroin.

Gone are the days of acid-dropping long hairs and bearded marijuana smokers. Today's drug user could very well be your stockbroker, your banker, your lawyer, your child's teacher or even your minister.

Illicit drugs have woven their way into mainstream America, causing some pillars of the community to privately turn their backs on drug laws while publicly supporting them.

Middle-class drug use is not new, of course. Says Yale University drug historian David Musto, "Drugs since the 19th century have been easily purchased and used by middle-class Americans."

But, adds Musto, "What is new is widening control and the visibility of drug consumption by this middle class."

How widespread is the phenomenon is hard to say since drug users still rarely stand up to be counted. But law enforcement officials around the nation say the people arrested for possession increasingly are young professionals and otherwise "straight" adults.

As Houston policeman Mitchell DeLeon put it: "There are everyday people getting busted on the street."

A Chicago police spokesman added, "Drug usage among the middle class and professionals has increased, especially soft drugs like marijuana. Cocaine snorting also has become quite accepted with that group of people."

And a Washington stockbroker noted: "All of my friends smoke marijuana. And I'm talking about doing it at normal backyard barbecues, not just big parties and discotheques. Most people are experimenting with a lot of things."

Marijuana is the most widely used illicit drug, says Ira Cisin, director of George Washington University's Social Research Group. A 1977 survey done by the group found that 60 percent of high school graduates and 65 percent of college graduates had at least tried marijuana. Of young adults between the ages of 18 and 25, 19 percent had experience with cocaine.

Cisin said the survey noted a steadily increasing trend in cocaine use between 1972 and 1977.

Because of its high cost, about $80 to $150 per gram, cocaine is a substance used primarily by the affluent. It is popular with the so-called jet set and has been snorted openly at New York discos.

It once — legally — was one of the most popular recreational drugs in the U.S., according to historian Musto, a member of the White House Council on Drug Abuse Strategy. He said it was used by Sigmund Freud, Thomas Edison, President McKinley and Pope Leo XIII.

In fact, Musto said, "Drug use was probably more widespread in the 19th century than it is today. In 1875, you could obtain morphine for whatever purposes you wanted to use it. In 1975, the only way you could obtain morphine was through a doctor's prescription, specifying how and why it was being used."

Strong drug laws came about during a period of environmental reform in the early 1900s, at the same time as pure food and drug laws.

"There is less concern about drugs now than one would expect from the strong environmental movement today," Musto noted. "We don't consider the dangers of recreational drugs in the same way we do the birth control pill and saccharin."

Karst J. Besteman of the National Institute on Drug Abuse said middle-class drug use causes serious problems, adding: "People who use pills and booze cannot function properly in the family setting."

According to Alcoholics Anonymous, more people who use both alcohol and drugs, especially amphetamines and barbiturites, now attend its meetings. AA members are 30 percent professionals and executives.

There also is a small segment of American society that uses heroin without becoming addicted.

"Clearly, there are many such people around who are able to control its use and who use it as a recreational drug of choice," said Dr. Norman Zinberg of Harvard Medical Center, who is studying 156 Boston area "weekend warriors" to learn how they avoid heroin addiction.

"Of our sample, 40 percent would be considered middle-class — doctors, lawyers, businessmen, college and high school teachers," said the clinical psychiatry professor. "Seventy percent are men and 30 percent women. They are primarily white."

Zinberg said the study's subjects have been using heroin for at least three years, at least 10 times yearly but no more than once a week. One in his 50s has used the narcotic this way for 20 years.

"In contrast to junkies, they are very concerned about being discovered and are very meticulous with instruments," he said. "Most of the group use it socially. They have a lot of specific notions about how it should be used so dependency isn't formed. They're very respectful of the drug's power and therefore only inject a little bit at a time."

Passengers Jamming European Airports

LONDON (AP) — Thousands of angry travelers clogged airports in Europe Sunday as a slowdown by French air traffic controllers continued to disrupt holiday plans.

The job action, with the controllers demanding more pay and better equipment, affected hundreds of flights through French air space. International airports in France and Britain were hit the hardest.

Airports were packed with irritable, tired and hungry would-be passengers, with some sleeping in the lobbies. Many were trying to get to Mediterranean sunspots to start their traditional August vacations.

Airport officials in Italy, Sweden, Denmark and other West European countries reported airline snarls.

French officials said "hundreds of thousands" of travelers were affected in France alone.

A harassed official of the British Airports Authority estimated more than 150,000 travelers were delayed between one and 24 hours in Britain and said, "It will get worse before it gets better."

French labor union leaders said the controllers' dispute might last through Wednesday, when they are to meet to decide further action.

They are demanding modernized equipment and more personnel, which they claim are essential for passenger safety, as well as an improved pay structure. A union spokesman said telephone equipment is so poor that controllers in southern France sometimes are unable to place calls to controllers in Italy.

He said that during the slowdown, regulations are being followed strictly so that a controller is accepting only eight aircraft at a time in his control space instead of 15 or more as in the past.

While French internal flights were affected only slightly, delays ranged up to 36 hours for travelers at the two big Paris international airports, Orly and Roissy-Charles de Gaulle, where 895 flights were scheduled Sunday.

At Orly, many flights taking North Africans home on vacation were 12 hours or more late. Police cordoned off the Royal Air Maroc counter after angry passengers tried to storm it to enter the offices.

The luckiest passengers of the day were three children of the Shah of Iran, who left Orly on an Iranian military plane with only 15 minutes delay.

At Roissy, 150 people booked to Tunis at 7 a.m. Saturday were still at the airport Sunday afternoon. Airport restaurants, serving double the usual numbers of meals, also were busy heating babies' bottles.

Authorities at Orly banned liquor sales to "avoid inflaming the ragged nerves" of delayed passengers, including 405 who had waited 24 hours for a jet to Lisbon.

Police scuffled with some people in a crowd of 2,000 at the Marseille, France, airport after weary passengers tried to camp in parking lots.

Delays of up to eight hours were reported at London's Heathrow airport, 15 hours at Liverpool, 36 hours at London's secondary airport of Gatwick, and 12 to 24 hours at Manchester.

"Our staff in passenger-handling are near to collapse," said British Airports Authority official David Hirst at Gatwick, where 4,000 passengers spent the night. "There is just a sea of faces all shouting for information — and we haven't any to give them."

Reporter Receives Lecturers' Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Times investigative reporter Seymour Hersh was named Saturday as the winner of the International Platform Association's Jack Anderson award.

Trial Impugns Television

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An $11 million lawsuit trial beginning here today hangs on the question of whether television is "a school of violence and a college for crime" or simply an innocent bystander portraying real life and protected by the First Amendment.

Valeria Neimi contends in the suit against NBC-TV and its local affiliate, KRON, that her 9-year-old daughter was sexually assaulted by four older girls imitating an attack portrayed in the made-for-television movie, "Born Innocent." The TV attack involved a group of girls sexually assaulting another girl.

The suit, filed in 1974, asks $1 million in compensatory damages and $10 million in punitive damages.

The attack came on a San Francisco beach four days after the film was aired on Sept. 10, 1974. The two-hour prime time showing resulted in a storm of protest that led to so-called "family hour" programing.

NBC attorneys say they will argue in Superior Court that the film was not to blame for the attack.

Floyd Abrams, a network attorney, says that a defeat in the case could intimidate the media from portraying real life in future programing.

"We view this as a terribly significant First Amendment case" dealing with constitutional rights of free expression, Abrams said.

"If calling something negligence can open a wedge in the First Amendment, then we think this would — not only for television, by the way, but for every other kind of media as well — there would be a big hole in the First Amendment," Abrams said.

But Melvin Lewis, attorney for the Niemis, says, "It's merely our contention that this particular scene — graphic, unnecessary for the telling of the plot, instructive, working on the senses — caused harm to an innocent victim.

"We contend it was a negligent act of the network that brought this about. And I can't see because I win this case any more unlimited censorship of the networks than if I won a case of negligence of an automobile driver on a freeway."

Last fall, in Miami, 15-year-old Ronald Zamora was convicted of the murder of an elderly woman neighbor despite his lawyers' plea of insanity brought on by violence on television.

The judge in that case refused to allow the defense to present expert testimony on the effects of TV violence. Zamora was sentenced to life in prison and is now in a juvenile facility.

The California suit initially was dismissed by a trial judge, but the state Court of Appeals overturned the decision. The case then was taken to the U.S. Supreme Court, which refused to bar the trial.

Lawyers for NBC and KRON argued that broadcasters cannot be held legally responsible for the acts of others. "Is a station which broadcasts an account of a crime or civil unrest to be liable if imitation occurs?" the appeal asked.

The California Medical Association, siding with the girl's lawyers, called television "a school of violence and a college for crime" which contributes to the violence in society.

The four girls arrested in the case, ranging in age from 10 to 15 at the time, were charged in sealed juvenile proceedings. There have been conflicting statements about whether the girls actually saw "Born Innocent."

Estate Of Tennessee Spinster Auctioned

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Mary Northern, who took her fight to prevent amputation of her gangrenous feet to the U.S. Superme Court, lived in an unheated home and died more than $20,000 in debt.

Now, 40 of her paintings have been sold at auction, for prices ranging from $100 to $1,900.

The 72-year-old spinster died May 1 in Nashville General Hospital, where police took her Jan. 17 for treatment of frostbite, which developed into gangrene.

The painting that brought $1,900 was of two women and had won Miss Northern a blue ribbon at the 1932 Tennessee State Fair. It was claimed by Paul Ziglar of Nashville, an industrial engineer.

The 40 paintings — all signed by Miss Northern and done during the 1920s and 1930s — were put on the auction block Saturday along with her house and property to satisfy between $15,000 and $20,000 in debts, plus hospital costs.

Evelyn Deal of Nashville paid $42,750 for the property and the unlighted, unheated home in which Miss Northern's only source of warmth was the fireplace where she burned her frostbitten feet last winter while trying to warm them.

Jenny Hall, a Nashville store owner, spent $1,680 on several of Miss Northern's paintings and drawings, some of which were used as magazine covers for Vogue and Vanity Fair a half-century ago. "The publications to me were enough recognition to want her paintings," Mrs. Hall said.

Miss Northern, who graduated in 1924 from the fashionable Ward Belmont College in Nashville, apparently had planned to embark on an artistic career. But for reasons lost in time, she abandoned the idea and chose instead to spend her life at home.

When doctors told Miss Northern last winter that her gangrenous feet would have to be amputated, she refused to discuss the need for surgery and the state Department of Human Services obtained court authority to consent for her.

A series of legal appeals followed, but by the time the U.S. Supreme Court refused to review the case, most of the tissue was gone from her feet and amputation was no longer considered.

Sun Belt, Frost Belt Issues To Be Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors has appointed a committee to try and settle feuding between the Southwest and the Northeast over federal programs.

The move, disclosed Sunday, is aimed at avoiding self-destructive infighting among local governments as programs under President Carter's new national urban policy are put into effect.

Sources say the hope is to meet with Carter, sometime in the fall, to smooth out the flow of federal urban assistance.

"We want to be able to identify real issues that can unite us in solving our mutual problems," Denver Mayor William H. McNichols Jr., the conference president, said in announcing the committee.

The group will be headed by a Sun Belt mayor, Hugh Parmer of Fort Worth, and include members from all regions of the country.

"The alleged friction between the Sun Belt and Frost Belt over federal policies must be looked at in a real and rational way," McNichols said. "Too often the so-called split between the Southwest and the Northeast over federal programs is based on myth and emotion."

The committee was promised at the mayors' annual convention in Atlanta in June, heading off a potentially bitter showdown there.

Some mayors of prosperous Southern and Southwestern communities have complained about large amounts of federal money going to northern communities which they accuse of bad management.

But the White House and some leaders among the mayors say the same problems are likely to face them all eventually, and the Carter program now pending in Congress would cover pockets of poverty or decay in otherwise affluent communities as well as the more obvious troubled cities of the industrial Northeast.

McNichols said the special committee will proceed on the assumption that rapid economic and population growth in some cities and rapid decline in others are related problems and "must be addressed concurrently as part of government growth management policy."

"In addition, urban policies and programs should reflect the diverse needs of cities of different sizes, in different regions of the country, and at different stages in their growth cycles, McNichols said.

"Mayors who are members of this special committee represent cities which reflect the diversity of urban America," he said.

In addition to Parmer, the 10-member committee includes Mayors Coleman Young of Detroit; David Rusk of Albuquerque; Margaret Hance of Phoenix; Patience Latting of Oklahoma City; Frank Logue of New Haven, Conn.; Joseph P. Riley of Charleston, S.C.; E. Clay Shaw of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; David Vann of Birmingham, Ala.; and Pete Wilson of San Diego, Calif.

The steering committee will meet in Denver Aug. 10 to draw up an agenda, and a larger committee will be named later to debate and hopefully resolve the Sun Belt-Frost Belt issues, McNichols said.

From 1937 to 1949, before the years of government poison-bait programs, more than 673,000 acres of cropland in the Rocky Mountain region were damaged by Mormon crickets, one of 2,500 cricket species.

Tarantula Trades Couch For College

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Mary Breedlove was moving a couch in the backyard of her North Charleston home when out popped Sam the tarantula. Using a stick, Mrs. Breedlove put the large, hairy spider in a jar.

"He's all frizzy and pretty," said Mrs. Breedlove, 21.

However, she quickly turned Sam over to Dr. W. B. Ezell, an entomologist at The Citadel, South Carolina's military college.

Mark II: 7-23, The Living Bible

7 So the colt was brought to Jesus and the disciples threw their cloaks across its back for Him to ride on.
8 Then many in the crowd spread out their coats along the road before Him, while others threw down leafy branches from the fields.
9 He was in the center of the procession with crowds ahead and behind, and all of them shouting, "Long live the King!" "Blessed is He who comes in the name of the Lord!"...
10 "Blessed is the Kingdom He is bringing, the Kingdom of our father David!"..."God save the King!"
11 And so He entered Jerusalem and went into the Temple. He looked around carefully at everything and then left—for now it was late in the afternoon—and went out to Bethany with the twelve disciples.
12 The next morning as they left Bethany, He felt hungry.
13 A little way off He noticed a fig tree in full leaf, so He went over to see if He could find any figs on it. But no, there were only leaves, for it was too early in the season for fruit.
14 Then Jesus said to the tree, "You shall never bear fruit again!" And the disciples heard Him say it.
15 When they arrived back to Jerusalem He went to the Temple and began to drive out the merchants and their customers, and knocked over the tables of the moneychangers and the stalls of those selling doves,
16 And stopped everyone from bringing in loads of merchandise.
17 He told them, "It is written in the Scriptures, 'My Temple is to be a place of prayer for all nations,' but you have turned it into a den of robbers."
18 When the chief priests and other Jewish leaders heard what He had done they began planning how best to get rid of Him. Their problem was their fear of riots because the people were so enthusiastic about Jesus' teaching.
20 Next morning, as the disciples passed the fig tree He had cursed, they saw that it was withered from the roots!
21 Then Peter remembered what Jesus had said to the tree on the previous day, and exclaimed, "Look, Teacher! The fig tree You cursed has withered!"
22,23 In reply Jesus said to the disciples, "If you only have faith in God—this is the absolute truth—you can say to this Mount of Olives, 'Rise up and fall into the Mediterranean,' and your command will be obeyed. All that's required is that you really believe and have no doubt!

SPOTLIGHT ON... Family News

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

According to statistics, my children had a 50-50 chance of inheriting Tardy Syndrome.

Their father has it. It's a recessive gene that renders its victims helpless to be on time for anything.

I've told you before how in my husband's lifetime he has never heard the Star-Spangled Banner, has never seen the lights dim at a concert, has never seen a football team with clean uniforms, and has never seen a bride coming DOWN the aisle. (Come to think of it, we met over a Belated Birthday Card display.)

The other morning as I put his 44-minute egg in front of him I said, "What time do you have to be at work?"

He said, "Eight o'clock."

"It's eight o'clock now."

"Terrific," he said. "I've only got time for one more cup of coffee, then I'll have to dash."

I slumped down into a chair. "I don't know how to tell you this, but you have passed Tardy Syndrome down to your son. It's true. The director at Brucie's camp called last week and said he is very disturbed with Brucie.

"Not once since he arrived has he gotten up early enough to salute the flag. He has never been first in line for anything and for him roll call starts with the letter H. I mean, you have to wonder about a child who has never boarded a bus while it is standing still."

"Why don't you talk with the doctor?" asked my husband.

"I have. He said last week that Brucie has all the traits of Tardy Syndrome. He was an eleven-month baby, never showed up on time for birthdays, was 12 before he lost his baby teeth and didn't go through the terrible two's until he was three and a half."

"What did Brucie say to that?"

"He wasn't there. He was late for the appointment."

"What do you want me to do?"

"Set an example and talk to him."

"I'll do it tonight," he said, then added, "I'll call you if I'm going to be on time."

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I just finished preparing meat for the freezer and my preparation goes so fast that I thought I should share it with your readers.

I always buy hamburger in large quantities whenever it's on special. Instead of freezing it all in individual packages (which takes quite awhile to thaw), I take four to six pounds and mix it with eggs, seasoning, etc. for meatloaves.

Then I divide the meat into the correct size meatloaves for family, form them in pans lined with aluminum foil or plastic wrap and freeze until firm.

I then take the frozen meatloaves out of the pans and place them in a large freezer bag.

Next I take a few more pounds of hamburger, mix with onion, bread crumbs, etc. and make meatballs. These can be put into a container, separating the layers with plastic wrap so the meatballs don't stick together.

These meatballs can be taken out in the number you need, to add to mushroom soup, tomato sauce, spaghetti sauce or whatever you desire.

Lastly I brown about four to six pounds of hamburger, pour off all the grease, and then spread the meat on large cookie sheets. I take my pastry blender and quickly chop this up into fine pieces ideal for hot dishes, spaghetti sauce or pizza.

When completely frozen, I put all the meat into large containers or a plastic bag. This is now loose and I can use whatever amount I need.

All this takes about 45 minutes of my time and saves me many pans to wash and many frustrating times when I forget to thaw meat. — Cindy

Oswald: "The 1978 Cavendish invitational tournament was won by Paul Swanson of Morgantown, W. Va., and Roy Fox of Washington. You and Peter Weichsel finished a most creditable third which represented a slight come down from 1977."

Alan: "With forty of the best pairs in the world entered, I am still pleased with our results. I also think you and Bill Pettis of Washington (a comparative unknown) deserve real credit for coming in fifth."

Oswald: "At least Newspaper Enterprise Association did right well since no other writer got into the first 10."

Alan: "Here is a hand played by Swanson that helped him win. The four-heart contract was optimistic, but fine play plus a little luck brought it home. The defense started with three spade leads. Paul ruffed the third spade with his ace of trumps and proceeded to finesse successfully against West's queen. Eventually, he had to try the clubs, and as West held both ace and queen, he couldn't go wrong."

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK965 ♡7 ◇J852 ♣962
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1♡	2◇	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Your hand has excellent playing strength, but for the moment, you should be content to probe for a possible spade contract by bidding a mere two spades. Any response to an overcall is a forward-going move, so partner will strive to make a rebid on the slightest pretext. If he shows disfavor for your suit, you can support diamonds at your next turn.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A ♡A6 ◇K109843 ♣AJ106
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South

What action do you take?

A.—Bid four diamonds. Your point count is sufficient for a double. However, partner's likely response is four hearts and since he might have a bust, you would be awkwardly placed. Unless partner has a long suit, four hearts could be headed for a multi-trick set, and if you attempt to correct to five diamonds, that might be even a worse contract because your suit is too porous.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K104 ♡J8752 ◇K8 ♣AJ6
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Since partner opened third-in-hand, you don't want to hang him by unilaterally committing the hand to game. This is a close choice between a jump to three spades or two no trump. Since most of our values are prime, we prefer the jump raise in partner's suit even though we have only three-card support.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♠	Pass	2NT	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has issued an invitation to game, and you should be delighted to accept. A raise to four spades is the recommended choice because of your excellent trump support. It's true that three no trump might be a better contract, but you have no satisfactory way to explore that possibility.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A5 ♡KJ762 ◇AJ5 ♣AJ8
Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—You almost have the values for a jump shift, but that would not be an advisable tactic on this hand because you are not sure where you want to play the hand. Either major suit or no trump could be the best spot. We suggest a response of two hearts. Partner's rebid over this simple change of suit will probably be more illuminating than any rebid he makes under the pressure of a jump shift response.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South with 40 on score you hold:
♠AQ83 ♡A1092 ◇KJ7 ♣93
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East

What action do you take?

A.—You are likely to close out the rubber by bidding three spades, but why select a risky action when you have available a solid alternative. Partner can easily be a bit heavy for a raise to two spades with 40 on score. If that is the case, you can punish East severely for competing. Double. If partner has a weak hand, he can always retreat to spades.

What action do you take?

A.—Partner doesn't have much, but then again, you don't need much for him to make a game. For example, five little hearts and a singleton spade would give you an excellent play for four hearts. East's balancing double doesn't necessarily show hearts, so we would continue describing our hand by rebidding two hearts.

Q.8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠QJ87 ♡A92 ◇A106 ♣A105
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1♠	Pass	1NT	?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. While you probably have the best hand at the table, you can't expect much from partner, and the opponents have already bid your longest suit. To enter the auction at this point, when your left-hand opponent has not yet limited his hand, marks you as either very venturesome or very rich.

Clip 'n' Cook

SAUERBRATEN

2 lbs. ground beef
2 tsps. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
⅛ tsp. cloves
1 (16-oz.) jar sweet-sour red cabbage, drained and liquid reserved
1 onion, sliced
1 carrot, sliced
1 celery stalk, sliced
1 bay leaf
¾ cup water
2 tbsps. firmly packed light brown sugar
3 ginger snaps
½ cup hot water
4 prepared servings of mashed potatoes

In medium bowl, combine ground beef, salt, pepper, cloves and half the drained red cabbage. Form into one large oval patty; place in large skillet. Arrange onion, carrot, celery and bay leaf on meat. In 2 cup measure, combine ½ cup reserved cabbage liquid, ¾ cup water and brown sugar. Pour over vegetables. Cover. Simmer for 1 hour; baste occasionally. Remove bay leaf. Spoon on remaining red cabbage. Simmer 10 minutes. Remove to heated platter. Soften ginger snaps in ½ cup hot water. Add in liquid in skillet. Cook; stir until slightly thickened. Spoon potatoes around edge of meat. Serve with gravy.

Experts Share Views of Day Care Centers

By LILLIAN G. GENN

NEW YORK (WNS) — Is the day care center a sufficient substitute for a mother's care?

This controversy is sweeping the country as more and more mothers are working outside the home. Not all are working because of economic need. Many come from privileged homes, motivated by earning the frills for their particular life-style, or for pleasure. Others are being conditioned by the women's movement to the "do your own thing" philosophy. And a new life-style is for the achievement-oriented husband-and-wife-team to work professionally in different cities, with the child raised apart from them.

Whatever the reason for the mother's working, what happens to the child? Who cares for him? In single-parent families the same question must be asked.

The obvious easy answer is, of course, a baby-sitter or a day care center.

The great growth of assembly line commercial nurseries and day care centers throughout the country indicates a new trend. Indeed, at the meeting in Houston of national women's organizations last fall, one of the resolutions to be presented to Congress called for more day care centers with the federal government to assume most of the cost of running them.

If such funds are to be spent it is important to know whether the child will benefit. Can we trust our very young, in particular, to hired hands? On this point, the women's movement is silent, fearing to upset progress.

But today there are many experts in the field of child development who can give us the answers. Here are the views of many child development specialists:

Dr. Marie N. Meierhofer, a Swiss child psychiatrist who has studied 500 babies in Zurich nurseries, observes: "Clearly, the day care centers can never be a substitute for a home, especially if entered too early.

"Depression is common in young infants. They are sensitive to change...it is a period that may be fraught with anxieties, envies, rages and depressions. This early crucial phase of the start to independence and autonomy must be carried out in an atmosphere of love, care and all the good offices of loving parents."

Dr. Richard C. Robertiello, author of "Hold Them Very Close, Then Let Them Go," agrees that it is important that mother and child should have a close relationship during the early years of life. Too-early separation affects the child. The longer the separation, the more extensive and long-lasting is the impact on the child's developing personality.

Dr. Selma Freiberg, child psychoanalyst, and author of a study, "Every Child's Birthright," writes: "A human being must learn the language of love. It is this essential work of learning exclusive passionate attachment to another that the infant accomplishes during the first eighteen months of life..."

Mothers are going to have to look after their children, she says, adding that the kind of care a child needs cannot be provided by serial baby-sitters or day-care centers. Writes Dr. Freiberg, "Women are going to have to get their priorities unentangled and have some system where mothers can look after their own child."

Dr. Urie Bronfenbrenner, professor of psychology and human development at Cornell University, says, in MD Magazine, "In order to develop physically, mentally, emotionally, socially and morally, a child requires an enduring, irrational involvement of many adults in care and joint activity with him. This means that somebody has to be crazy about this kid."

From Dr. Derek H. Miller, professor of psychiatry, University of Michigan Medical Center, in "Human Sexuality," says, "If both parents are working, child-rearing problem are created for infants and young children. Babies must have a stable mothering figure. Day-care is an inadequate way of providing this when the child is exposed to changing personnel.

"Unless day-care provides stability in mothers and a sensitive perception of the child's needs, it likely to produce adults who are capable of making adaptations to others but not really able to make deep emotional involvements... they are rarely able to make love..."

"The equal sharing of mothering roles by both parents may cause special problems, particularly if the parents made a deliberate effort to blur role differentiation between fathering and mothering."

Dr. Charles W. Socarides, New York psychoanalyst, contends that if the faulty day care method is practiced nationwide the children — and then all of us — will suffer.

He points out, "Motherhood is a thinking, feeling responsible state and to a woman who accepts it as part of her life, part of her fulfillment, it can be uniquely rewarding."

When parents divorce, the child is again the emotional victim. Dr. Louise Despert, noted child psychiatrist and author of a study, "Children of Divorce," says, "The child suffers an intense hurt and...uses it as a whip against the world. The child, even at the age of 6, is a bundle of fierce hostility and desperate defenses. Even with a normal childhood, growing up involves difficult and disturbing sexual and emotional problems."

Most homes are vacant most of the time. There is little or no communication between parents and children. Rarely is the parent available for loving or caring. The child is growing up, in effect, with no parents.

Feeling rejected, he breaks contact with his lonely and loveless home, and turns to others who are alone, usually a gang, creating a new style of life, expressed by vandalism, larceny, early sexual promiscuity, drugs. Or he runs away, or explodes in senseless violence.

What it all boils down to: an undeveloped heart disfigures all relationships — sexual, personal, and social. The child will suffer all his adult life as an emotional cripple. Many grow up who never fit into society.

No woman should be forced by false values to be apologetic about her role as a homemaker. The women's movement must give first consideration to the child if society is to benefit at all.

Meanwhile, what can we do?

For one thing, the women's groups must get behind a bill for family subsidies so that mothers of young children do not have to work outside the home. The United States is the only Western country that does not have such a family subsidy.

Perhaps the People's Republic of China has the best solution. A 13-member team of American child psychologists studied all aspects of its child care, from prenatal through adolescence, with emphasis on the child from ages 3 to 6.

Among the team's findings: In China the family is of greatest importance in child care. Urban working parents for the most part send their children to grandparents or nearest kin.

Only a small number of Chinese children go to a day care center; usually they are without families. Retired and old men and women, in the child's neighborhood, are also involved in the care of the children, supervised by social workers and nurses.

The team of child psychologists studying China's approach to child care also reported that "broken families, and broken children, are the product of national neglect. We did not see any broken children."

Reginald H. Smith, of the Boston American Bar Association, for a long time has urged legislators to salvage the family: "No separation or divorce should be granted until the parents have consulted a family counselor," he says, and adds: "There should be a surrogate representing the child to protect his rights."

A day care center should be used only as a last resort. In that eventuality, the mother should consult a directory of licensed day care centers. She should spend time in the center to see how it is managed, and how the child reacts within it.

A part-time job is preferable for the mother so that she has enough leisure to be with the child. At the end of a full day's work, she is apt to be irritable and fatigued. For the same reason, the child should not be left in the day care center for an entire day. The father, too, should play an active role in the child's upbringing.

The late and famous psychoanalyst Dr. Alfred Adler said, "We probably owe to the maternal sense of contact the largest part of human social feeling and along with it the essential continuance of human civilization."

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write about cystic fibrosis. My 15-year-old granddaughter has it, and I would like information concerning it. — Mrs. E.L.J.

Cystic fibrosis is a peculiar disease. We know little about the cause, but the result is the production of a thick mucus from various glands of the digestive tract and the lungs as well as a thickening of the lungs proper. It is definitely inherited, but both parents must be carriers to pass it on. Estimates vary, but it is generally thought now to occur in about 1 in 1,500 persons.

The problem is usually detected in early childhood because of chronic lung problems and failure to gain weight. In a few it might be missed until early puberty. The pancreas is affected, causing a deficiency in digestive enzymes, hence the malnutrition. Because of intestinal disturbance there is apt to be frequent and quite odorous stool in the cystic fibrosis child. Even sweat glands are affected, causing profuse sweating.

CF is still in the mystery category, but thanks to research groups actively interested in the subject, the outlook is better today than a couple of decades ago. The CF child usually requires antibiotics, especially during bouts of respiratory infection. Studies suggest that continuing antibiotic use helps control the symptoms. Careful diet, supplements of enzymes, and devices to assist breathing during periods of lung deficiency are also helpful.

Special care may be required throughout life, though there may be symptom-free periods (remissions). Fortunately, there are about 100 cystic fibrosis treatment centers in the U.S. If the parents cannot find one in the area, write to the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, 202 E. 44th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017. This research group will send along other information as well as help locate a convenient center for your granddaughter. With the work of such groups it's hoped that some new answers will be forthcoming to cure this unfortunate condition.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 24-year-old female, 5-foot-6, and about 35 pounds overweight. I was within about five pounds of my normal weight about a year ago after following my doctor's 1,000-calories-a-day diet. He also had me on Eskatrol for a while, then took me off. I have no information on it. What is it? I was taking it with no problems. — J.K.

Eskatrol is an anorectic, one of many such appetite-suppressing drugs, an amphetamine — a pep pill, if you will. The effect in weight loss diminishes after a few weeks as tolerance of it increases. Thereafter, habituation becomes a greater possibility. Hence your doctor's decision to remove it from your program.

You were almost home free when you got within five pounds of your goal. The fallacy of amphetamine-based weight loss is that the drug is only a temporary crutch. Once the effect is lost the dieter returns to his old ways, never having learned the essential point — how to eat differently. Perhaps a more lenient calorie allowance — somewhere between what you were taking in to get you where you are and what you can eat without benefit of pills — is in order now. Even the loss of a couple of ounces of weight a day would get you down to your normal weight in less than a year — without pills.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would be the cause of a baby's aversion to breast milk? I tried breastfeeding my baby and she wouldn't have anything to do with it. She would suck for about a minute, then pull away and cry. This happened for two weeks, so I decided to give up and put her on a bottle. She seemed to like the bottle very much. — M.J.

You'd prefer the bottle, too, if you knew you'd get all the milk you wanted, right away, and for as long as you wanted it. You needed some advice on breastfeeding. Babies do not have aversion to breast milk. Their tastebuds are not developed sufficiently to have such likes and dislikes.

If you want to breastfeed in the future contact a chapter of the La Leche League, Inc., which can help you.

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

RIGHT TOUCH — Who says a fall sweater has to be boring? This infinitely interesting, openwork long sleeved pullover settles the question once and for all. The colors are burnt sienna, buckskin or teal and the look is sweepingly lean and dramatic. Wear it with a color-coordinated knit pull-on skirt.

SAUCE SUPREME

Cauliflower, green beans or broccoli need sauce? Here's a Zesty Blue one: Melt two tablespoons butter, then stir in tablespoons of flour and one-half teaspoon seasoned salt. Gradually stir in one cup of milk. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly; boil and stir one minute. Remove from heat and stir in one-fourth cup, each, of dairy sour cream and Blue cheese. Heat through but do not boil. This makes one and one-fourth cups of sauce.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I read the plea from Ohio Mother asking if her son who is gay could possibly go straight. Before I read your answer I said to myself, "Today Ann Landers will fall on her face. She hasn't the guts to face this one." But I was wrong. Congratulations. You said, "The chances are very slim" — and you were right.

I am gay. I didn't just wake up one day and decide I wanted to be this way. When I was in my early teens, I listened to guys talk about girls and wondered why I didn't have those same feelings. But I don't want this letter to be about me. I'm really writing about mothers of gays.

I'm not swishy or effeminate, but when I was 18 I knew I was different. I worried most about how Mother would take it. It almost made me sick. One day I was careless with a letter. Mom found it and learned the truth. We had a tearful discussion and I agreed to try to be "normal." It didn't work. Months later Mom finally asked, "Have you given up trying to be straight?" I said, "Yes." She replied, "All right. We won't talk about it anymore." And we never did.

Being gay, I have gay friends. They all have terrific relationships with their mothers. (I can't say this is true about their fathers.) Mom's friends and neighbors are constantly complaining to her — "My son never calls me. He's too busy with this and that," or "They send plants on Mother's Day and Christmas and that's it."

Ohio Mother may be disappointed because she won't be having grandchildren, but I'll bet she has a great relationship with her son. This is the case with 96 percent of my gay friends.

When God closes one door, he opens another. Please tell Ohio Mother to count her blessings before she lists her troubles. And P.S. — Will you print once more for those who need to see it again, what causes homosexuality? Sign me — Gay and Coping

Dear Coping: The experts are sharply divided on what causes homosexuality. Authorities such as Dr. Irving Bieber of New York and Dr. Harold Voth at Menninger's in Topeka, Kan., espouse the hotly debated theory that homosexuality is the result of psychological problems that begin early in life and that the pattern is set by age three or four. They claim family histories are remarkably similar — a cold, detached, punitive (or absent) father. The mothers, they say, were overly protective, sometimes to compensate for the attitude of the father.

On the other hand, Dr. John Money, Professor at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore, Md., says: "Something happens to homosexuals before they are born. This mysterious 'biological mix-up,' plus the kind of parenting a child has from birth, is what makes homosexuals."

I recommend an organization called "Parents of Gays." They believe psychiatry for gays is a waste of time and money if the object is to get them to go straight. I agree. I do believe, however, that therapy is useful if the gay suffers from anxiety and guilt or feelings of worthlessness — or if he is suicidal.

"Parents of Gays" has many chapters in small towns as well as large cities. Anyone who wants information about this group should write to: Parents of Gays, 201 West 13th Street, New York, N.Y. 10011.

Teaching your kids about the facts of life can be easy or awkward. Ann Landers' booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex," can spell the difference. YOUR TURN — The public swimming pool in Brownfield was the site Saturday for another example of the lengths to which people will go to achieve immortality. Figuring that the Guinness Book of World Records needed an entry for the longest underwater domino game (if there wasn't such a record already), Sandy Skaggs, bottom, and Royce Lewis slapped the dominoes around on the bottom of the pool while enjoying all the creature comforts — folding chairs, score cards and oxygen tanks. Why dominoes, you ask? They might have tried Monopoly, but they would have had a problem keeping the money dry. (Staff Photo by Holly Kuper)

Cupp Death Investigation Continuing

Bill R. Cupp, 47, was found dead about 4:30 a.m. Thursday in the parking lot of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post, south of town.

Hale County sheriff's deputies Thursday afternoon confiscated a car thought to have been involved in the fatal hit-and-run incident earlier that day.

The vehicle, which was confiscated about 1:30 p.m. in the south part of Plainview, is owned by a woman who allegedly accompanied Cupp to a club Wednesday night, Hale County Sheriff Charles Tue said.

Tue said what appeared to be hair and blood were found on the underside of the car. Other marks on the car indicated it had struck something, Tue added.

Blood and hair samples taken from the car have been sent to the Department of Public Safety laboratory in Lubbock for analysis.

Suspect In Market Theft Sought

Charles William Thompson, district manager of Piggly Wiggly Shop-Rite Foods, Inc., told police Thursday a named suspect had "absconded" with the money "while acting in his capacity" as an employee of the Piggly Wiggly store at 3101 E. 4th St.

In a brief report to police, Thompson said the incident apparently occurred between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. July 21, but was not reported until Thursday.

Officers still were searching for the man late Sunday, just as they Juarez of 1514 32nd St. told police the suspect's daughters had been playing with his own children outside the Juarez home about 11:35 a.m. Sunday, when an argument erupted between the girls.

Juarez said the man's children ran home and soon after their father returned. When the children again began fighting, Juarez said the man jumped into the scuffle, then became enraged when Juarez tried to pull him off the children. Juarez said he was beaten severely by the man.

The man was arrested for possession of marijuana after he allowed officers to search his car. Police reports indicate the officers discovered a plastic bag of suspected marijuana in the auto's glove compartment.

Burglars literally backed a truck up to the doors of Clyde P. Perkins' 1320 Ave. Q music store late Saturday or early Sunday, then carted off an estimated $2,953 in musical equipment.

Art Thieves Capitalize On Tip

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Thieves who apparently had an inside tip that the alarm system was turned off at Hamburg's Kunsthalle museum stole paintings worth an estimated $750,000 from the gallery late Saturday, including two by Degas and Renoir, police reported.

A city spokesman said the stolen "Before the Mirror" by Edgar Degas was valued at $350,000, and Auguste Renoir's "Portrait of Madame Leriaux" at $250,000. The two French impressionist works had been owned by the city of Hamburg since the early 1920s.

The two or three thieves also made off with about 20 smaller 19th-century works by local artists, police said.

The alarm system had been switched off because it was under repair after a false alarm sounded earlier in the week, the city spokesman said. He said only a few persons knew about this.

The building's three guards noticed the break-in early Sunday morning during a routine inspection, he said. Most of the paintings had been taken out of their frames expertly, he said.

Police said there were no immediate clues to the thieves. An alert was sent out to all German border crossings to try to keep the paintings from being taken outside the country, the city spokesman said.

Werner Hofmann, the museum manager, told reporters he believes it would be impossible for the stolen paintings to be offered to regular art dealers. He said they are too well-known and are described in all international art catalogs.

The number of art thefts has been on the rise in Western Europe in recent years. Just two weeks ago, a Renoir portrait of his son valued at $111,000 was stolen from the Modern Art Gallery in Turin, Italy.

This year's most daring heist occurred in May, when thieves descended by rope ladder from a skylight at the renowned Pitti Palace gallery in Florence, Italy, and made off with a Peter Paul Rubens' masterpiece, "The Three Graces," and nine other paintings.

The works, valued at more than $1 million, were recovered three days later and three suspects were arrested.

Former Chess Champion Shuns Contact With Outside World

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bobby Fischer, the moody former world chess champion, is still considered by many to be the world's best chess player. But he is a recluse, apparently shunning even chess matches with people.

"I can say for a fact that he's played a game with a computer, which was published," said a longtime friend of Fischer's who asked not to be identified, "but he hasn't played a human being in six years."

Partly because of Fischer's temperament — he was constantly demanding different boards, lighting and the like — and partly because he was a young American challenger to the seemingly invincible Russian chess establishment, Fischer's 1972 victory over Russian Boris Spassky in Reykjavik, Iceland, made him a celebrity.

He was offered more than $1 million to approve a chess encyclopedia and to make a record, but retreated to evangelists Herbert and Garner Ted Armstrong's Pasadena-based Worldwide Church of God, to which he has donated about $94,000.

In 1975 Fischer renounced his chess title and forsook a chance at a purse of more than $3 million after the International Chess Federation refused to alter its rules to meet his conditions for a title defense against Russian challenger Anatoly Karpov.

Karpov was awarded the championship by default and is currently defending the title against Russian defector Viktor Korchnoi in the Philippines.

Ironically, two of the three changes which Fischer wanted in 1975 have been adopted for the current championship bout. Draws no longer count, and there are no limits to the number of games that can be played. The match will continue until one of them has won six games.

"The pattern has always been like this," said Fischer's friend. "Bobby makes demands, the chess federation turns them down and then three or four years later adopts the demands. By that time Bobby has made new demands."

But the friend emphasized that despite his rift with the chess federation, Fischer "has never lost interest in chess," and those who follow the game say he hasn't lost his talent either.

Those who have had recent contact with Fischer say he spends his time much the way he always did: studying chess problems, listening to music and reading on a variety of subjects, including current events. When he does go out, it is usually at night.

Fischer has also been involved in a number of lawsuits. He was sued for $3.25 million by Chester Fox and Co. after he allegedly backed out of an agreement to allow filming of the 1972 championship.

After Brad Darrach's biography "Bobby Fischer vs. the Rest of the World" was published, Fischer sued Darrach, Time Inc. and the publishing house Stein Day for $5 million. But a U.S. District Court judge dismissed the suit after Fischer refused to answer several questions at a deposition hearing.

Darrach's book and some other less-than-complimentary articles have apparently soured Fischer on journalists. He has granted only one known interview in more than five years.

Last fall, Ambassador Reports — a magazine published by several former Worldwide Church of God adherents highly critical of the sect — published excerpts of interviews in which Fischer blasted the church.

Len and Margaret Zola, two of the magazine's six publishers, tape-recorded the interviews. They say Fischer sought them out in early 1977 and was eager to talk about his disillusionment with the sect and its leaders, including Herbert Armstrong.

But in an apparent about-face, Fischer has since sued the Zolas for $3.2 million, accusing them of invasion of privacy. Fischer later was charged with assaulting another woman who allegedly was going to sell a tape of at least one interview to another publication.

The criminal charge was dropped as part of an out-of-court settlement. The suit against the Zolas has been in limbo since last February, when Fischer's attorney Warren Harmes was granted court permission to withdraw from the case on the grounds that Fischer would not cooperate, even to the extent of supplying his address and telephone number

Caroline, Husband Rest At Grandmother's Home

OCEAN CITY, N.J. (AP) — Monaco's Princess Caroline and her husband of one month, Philippe Junot, relaxed at this seaside resort Sunday in what turned into a family reunion.

The couple, visiting the beachfront home of Caroline's maternal grandmother, Margaret Kelly, were joined by the bride's mother, Princess Grace, and sister, Stephanie, 13.

The newlyweds are en route home to Paris after a honeymoon in Tahiti. They planned the weekend get-together so Junot could meet Mrs. Kelly, 79, who was unable to attend the wedding in Monaco because of illness.

Princess Grace arrived at her mother's two-story, white, brick house Saturday afternoon after returning from Minneapolis, where she attended a board meeting of 20th Century Fox, of which she is a director.

The National Portrait Gallery in Washington will display 110 images of notable Americans in the earliest photographic process from Sept. 22 to Feb 4, 1979, in a show entitled "Facing the Light: Historic American Potrait Daguerreotypes."

Eight-Year-Old Actor Impresses In Film Debut

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Spontaneous applause on a movie set is a totally rare event. The other day at MGM studios it happened for a tow-headed, blue-eyed actor named Ricky Schroder — he is eight years old.

Franco Zeffirelli is directing Ricky, Jon Voight and Faye Dunaway in "The Champ," using the same stages where the father-son story was filmed 47 years ago with King Vidor directing Jackie Cooper, Wallace Beery and Irene Rich. The tale was also remade as "The Clown" with Red Skelton in 1953.

The climactic scene in the latest "Champ" would have been an ordeal for any actor, much less an eight-year-old. Voight lay dead in an arena dressing room, having succumbed in his comeback fight. Rickey as his unbelieving son urges the dead boxer to wake up, then frantically seeks help from the stunned bystanders in the room. They included such veterans as Jack Warden, Strother Martin and Elisha Cook Jr.

"Where does that talent come from?" mused Zeffirelli in his on-stage trailer before taking his ritual lunch-break siesta. "How was Mozart able to write a symphony at the age of five? Some things are unexplainable. Ricky is simply God's gift, sent to us from heaven."

Franco Zeffirelli is a chunky, good-natured Italian of 55 who responds wryly when asked how he happened to choose "The Champ" as his first American movie. It is, after all, far removed from his other films: "Romeo and Juliet," "The Taming of the Shrew," "Brother Sun, Sister Moon" and the telvision epic, "Jesus of Nazareth."

"I do not believe that a person must be one kind of director; that would be like putting him a prison cage," Zeffirelli remarked. "Or like telling Rossini he should stick to comic opera, in which he had been successful. If he had taken that advice, he never would have written 'William Tell,' which is a masterpiece.

"Like Rossini, I have the right to do other things. As a director, I have led a Jekyll and Hyde career. Americans know only the Jekyll side of my work, not the Hyde. They don't know that I introduced Edward Albee to Europe, directing 'Virginia Woolf' and 'A Delicate Balance.' On the stage, I also directed Arthur Miller's 'After the Fall' and plays of Peter Shaffer.

Zeffirelli had long wanted to make an American film and searched for "a classic structure in a contemporary context." A year and a half ago he found it while finishing "Jesus of Nazareth" in London. "The Champ" of 1931 appeared on television.

"I remembered it vividly from having seen it as a boy of seven in Florence," the director recalled. "Two films made a great impression on me: 'The Champ' and 'The Jazz Singer' with Al Jolson. Both were father-son stories, and I had just lost my mother."

Coincidentally, Zeffirelli was offered a contract by MGM production chief Richard Shepard, who immediately reacted to the suggestion of a new "Champ." Ryan O'Neal was first cast as the fighter, then he withdrew in a pique when his son wasn't cast in the Jackie Cooper role. With his career on an upswing from "Coming Home," Jon Voight stepped in.

"The biggest problem was casting the boy," Zeffirelli said. "I knew that I must have a superb child, just as Cooper was an extraordinary child."

His assistant found Ricky Schroder in New York, where the Staten Island boy had appeared in television commericals. Said Zeffirelli: "I knew that Ricky was good, but I didn't realize the span of his talent. He will be a big star."

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

By Bernard Gittelson, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science"

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

BIORHYTHMS FOR JULY 31, 1978

PHYSICAL
Criticals:	10, 22, 33, 45, 56, 68	Fatigue highlights day
Highs:	1-9, 23-32, 46-55, 69-75	You'll hold up all day
EMOTIONAL
Criticals:	2, 16, 30, 44, 58, 72	Easily provoked
Highs:	3-15, 31-43, 59-71	Extrovert day
Lows:	1, 17-29, 45-57, 73-85	You may hurt someone
INTELLECTUAL
Criticals:	4, 21, 37, 54, 70, 87	Mind not reliable
Highs:	1-3, 22-36, 55-69, 88-95	Good to exchange ideas
Lows:	5-20, 38-53, 71-86	Your mind wanders

Enter your own permanent numbers in the chart in the bottom right-hand corner. To figure your own permanent numbers, follow these three steps:

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your year of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Step 2: Now find the corresponding number for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a 9, your month numbers would be 8 for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Step 3: In the figure chart, enter your day of birth three times, one each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I). (If you were born on April 3, for instance, place a 3 in each column.)

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's rhythms.

These numbers are yours permanently. Check them each day for your biorhythm reading.

Admitted 'Snowback' Says Life As Illegal Alien Here Not Bad

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Phillip DeCosta has lived a full and busy life since he came to this country from Canada in 1929.

About the only thing he did not do was seek citizenship.

"I'm a wetback...No, I guess I'm a snowback," the 80-year-old man said in his small apartment here.

About a year ago he read of a proposed amnesty program for those living illegally in this country.

"I went in February and said, 'I'm an illegal alien and I come for this amnesty business,'" he said.

It was a frustrating experience for the chunky old man who has served in both world wars — once for Canada and once for the United States.

"I felt like giving him a swift kick," he said of the immigration official he talked with.

The cantankerous octogenarian said all he got for his trouble was a warning not to leave the country.

"Now I can't go to Matamoros (across the border bridge from this border city). Not even to get a bottle of whiskey. See that bottle of rum, that was the last one," he said, pointing a shaky finger at a long-dry bottle.

But DeCosta said life as an illegal alien has not been bad. It started on a cold Canadian day in 1929.

"If I was going to starve I wanted to do it in a warm country," he said. "I just walked across the border. I didn't have any luggage. Of course I had on two pairs of pants and three shirts."

As a youth he had been shipped from his native London, England, to Canada. But the hard times in Canada convinced him to head south.

"You'd go to a labor office where they used to post jobs on a board. It was wiped clean. It just said 'Merry Christmas,'" he said, his voice still graced with a hint of a British accent.

"I didn't mind. I told them I was from New Orleans. That was as good a place as any," he said. He served in Europe and added three U.S. medals to the two Canadian honors he won in the first great war.

After the war — at age 52 — he married. But after his wife died, he decided it was time to trek south again. He left snowy Syracuse, N.Y. by bus and headed here — about as far south as you can get and still be in the continental United States.

He is now waiting to hear about his application for permanent resident alien status.

J. L. O'Bryant, a supervisory investigator for the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said DeCosta's case probably warrants special attention.

The INS official said — if DeCosta can produce the necessary records — the resident alien applicaton can be expedited. He also said DeCosta's World War II service will speed up the citizenship process.

DeCosta is proud of the United States and enjoys it. "If I didn't, I'd move out," he says. He rides around town on a big three-wheeled bicycle and has many friends here.

"I've always acted and felt like an American. I just didn't bother to become a citizen. Canadians are like Americans. They use the word 'guy' like Americans. In England, they say 'bloke,'" he said.

He was upset when initially told he had to wait five years for citizenship.

"Five years?" He said. "I could be dead in five days."

Storage Facilities Surveyed By Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new survey by the Agriculture Department shows that the United States has enough elevators and farm-storage facilities to store more than 16.9 billion bushels of grain, the equivalent of almost three corn crops.

As of April 1, the grain storage included about 9.9 billion bushels of capacity on farms and almost 7 billion of off-farm commercial storage, the department said. The farm storage included 665 million bushels of capacity added by farmers since Jan. 1, 1977, under the department's farm storage facility loan program.

MOTORCYCLE FATALITY

EL PASO (AP) — Police searched Saturday for what witnesses said was a Ford Galaxy automobile after a collision here left a Fort Bliss soldier dead. A motorcycle driven by Dallas Cape Smith, 20, skidded 145 feet after the accident late Friday, police said. He was declared dead of internal injuries and a possible fractured skull at a local hospital

No Benefit To Protein Supplements, Study Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Protein supplements, which generally are sold as "health foods," actually provide no important health benefits and for some people can be hazardous, a federal official concluded Sunday after lengthy hearings on the matter.

"Expert witnesses were consistent in their opinion that protein supplements have no significant nutritional benefits," said Christopher W. Keller in a report on 25 days of Federal Trade Commission hearings.

"The record discloses no significant nutritional benefits from the consumption of protein supplements, as such. Any benefits from the use of protein supplements are equally true of consumption of protein from any other source," said Keller, the FTC staff official who presided over the hearings.

Protein supplements are powders, liquids and pills made from protein isolates. They are sold primarily through health food stores and by door-to-door and mail order sales.

The FTC is considering requiring disclosures in advertising and labels that, "Protein supplements are unnecessary for most Americans. The U.S. Public Health Service has determined that the daily diet of most Americans provides adequate protein."

Keller said some federal regulation of the sale of protein supplements is needed, but did not endorse the warning proposed by the FTC. Citing the ineffectiveness of warning labels on cigarettes, he said some other approach might be better.

The five-member commission will consider what final action to take.

He said the hearings in Los Angeles, Boston, Washington and San Francisco established that there is "widespread misrepresentation, both express and implied, of the protein need of most Americans."

Keller said, "Even the most cursory examination of the labels and advertising materials contained on this record demonstrates that protein supplements rely heavily in their appeal to the consumer upon misleading claims which range from subtle exaggeration to blatant misrepresentation."

Among the misleading labels and advertisements for protein supplements are claims that they will aid athletic performance or will help in losing weight, he said.

"Misconceptions about food and nutrition are especially prevalent among athletes and others involved in athletics," Keller said. He added, "The consumption of protein has no benefit in weight reduction."

The FTC's proposed labeling and advertising requirement was strongly opposed by retailers of the product and by most health food consumers who submitted comments, Keller said.

One of the retailers, Bob Giddens of Houston, was quoted in the report as saying, "I feel strongly that Instant Protein is thoroughly wholesome and safe by any standards. And it is clearly economical."

Keller said the experts agree that protein consumption in the United States "is in excess of need and that there is little or no evidence of any health problems or disease conditions in the United States attributable to protein deficiency."

He said expert witnesses agreed that persons who eat enough calories and have a mixed diet "will receive well above the world average and sufficient (protein) to exceed the recommended daily allowance for protein by a wide margin."

The only group that has any possible protein inadequacy is the elderly, but where this occurs it is because of too little food, Keller said. If these people would eat more, any protein inadequacy would be gone, he said.

However, using protein supplements without medical supervision "poses risks to the health of infants and to individuals with advanced liver or kidney failure," he said.

The FTC's proposed rule, issued Sept. 5, 1975, also would require labels warning of these hazards.

Boy Claims To See Large, Hairy Beast

CAMERON (AP) — Jeffrey Gelner, 15, says he took one look at the big, hairy animal and cut a quick path through a ripe maize field to the safety of his grandfather's combining machine.

Two other members of the Gelner family say they have heard and smelled the animal.

The teen-ager made his dash on Thursday. Earlier, he had spotted footprints measuring 24 inches long and nine inches wide along the Little River near here. The prints were five feet apart.

Jeffrey says he was sitting on the tailgate of the family pickup near the edge of a slough that leads to the river when he heard a growl.

He took off running, and he admits he was in full flight when looked back over his shoulder and saw the beast. He told Milam County deputies it was seven or eight feet tall and covered with brown hair.

Milam County Sheriff Leroy Broadus said Saturday the footprints looked like "just a blob."

"I can't prove it or disprove it," said Broadus, reached at a local cafe. "I don't know what to make of it. It's created quite a bit of activity down here, though. I don't know whether it's the product of an over-active imagination or what."

There won't be an extensive search, however. Broadus said he doesn't have the manpower to flush the bushes looking for a hairy animal.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. — My husband and I, both 29, are looking forward our first child in December. Our total salaries are $17,000. We pay $239 a month rent and don't own a car yet. How can we best invest our $8,000 savings to buy a house and finance our child's education?

A. The "best" thing you can do is hang on to that cash. With a baby on the way and a home purchase evidently not too many years in the future, you can't afford to take on any of the risks that go with investing.

If I read your letter correctly, one of the salaries will stop coming in — at least temporarily — when the baby is born. You don't have any "extra" money. Investing should only be done with spare.

After you have purchased your home and, most likely, a car, you should then refigure your finances. At that time, when you know you have adequate cash reserves for emergency purposes and what you consider enough insurance, you can start thinking about investing.

The child's education and your eventual retirement will naturally be high priorities on your list of investment objectives. I can't tell you what will be the "best" investments at that time, any more than now. But my natural inclination is toward good grade common stocks.

• • •

Q. Please send me information on how to read a company's balance sheet and earnings reports to determine whether to buy a stock, sell a stock, retain a stock, etc.

A. Easy, now! If I could come up with that kind of information and be correct most of the time, I would be the richest person on God's earth. While I'm not poor, I don't spend my evenings counting thousand dollar bills.

All of which may seem to be a slightly round-about way of saying there is no such sure information available.

There are, however, various publications aimed at helping people read balance sheets, income statements and such. A good one is "Understanding Financial Statements." It's available free from some brokerage houses. I don't have a supply to send to readers.

It's also available as part of the "Investors Information Kit" from the New York Stock Exchange. It can be ordered by sending $2 to Publications Section, New York Stock Exchange, 11 Wall St. New York, N.Y., 10005. The $2 charge is an example of the lengths Wall Street goes to, in its efforts to desert the small investor.

• • •

Q. I have two shares of stock. The stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange and is quoted in the papers at about $16. I have been trying to sell this stock but every broker I contact wants a $25 fee. That would leave me with $7. The company says it cannot buy its own stock. What can I do to divest myself of this stock, without losing the $25?

A. Unless you can find somebody to buy those two shares, you're stuck. The $25 is the minimum commission most brokerage houses now charge for handling small transactions. That's really "taking care" of the small investor.

Rather than sell and pay that outrageous brokerage fee, why not keep the stock? And, if you can afford to, buy more. The company you named has both dividend reinvestment and stock purchase plans for stockholders — without any commission charges. If you accumulate a larger number of shares, you can sell through a broker and the commission shouldn't seem so horrendous — on a percentage basis.

• • •

Q. Where can I buy "bearer bonds"?

A. The same places you can buy "registered bonds" — at brokerage houses. And, if they are municipal bonds — issued by states and political subdivisions of states — you can buy them from banks.

• • •

MR. DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

For lists of growth and dividend stocks, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your requests to William A. Doyle, care of King Features Syndicate, 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Tahiti Nuclear Test By France Noted

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — France conducted another underground nuclear test at Mururoa atoll in the South Pacific last Wednesday, the second reported in two weeks, the Papeete newspaper Le Journal de Tahiti said.

The test, said to be of low power, ended a series designed to perfect multiple warheads for French submarine missiles, the newspaper reported Saturday.

Since testing was moved underground in 1975 after protests from Pacific-area nations, France has refused to confirm or deny any reports of tests.

Rose Picks Up Number 43; 'Wee' Willie Next In Line

Only "Wee" Willie Keeler with 44 games in 1897 and Joe DiMaggio with 56 in 1941 have longer hitting streaks in major league baseball histroy.

"Ozark (Phils Manager Danny Ozark) started yelling to Schmidt to get in there and make me hit it by him," Rose said. "I heard him so I hit it by him."

Schmidt admitted he was moving in to prevent another Rose bunt.

"I did not want him to get a hit on a bunt off me again," Schmidt said. "He's a tough hitter, you can't take that away from him."

Rose hit a long fly ball to right field to lead off the game. Jerry Martin made the catch backhanded and on the run. Rose grounded to the pitcher in the third.

Rose singled to center in the sixth inning and was thrown out by Phils' second baseman Ted Sizemore on a good fielding play in the eighth inning.

In the fifth inning, Rose said he was trying especially hard to get a hit.

"I could see the weather was threatening, and with me 0-for-2 I could see it starting to rain and then calling the game. The fans would have ripped the stadium down. I didn't want that to happen," Rose said with a chuckle.

Rose is hitting .391 during the streak, which began June 14, and is hitting .316 overall.

It was Rose's last appearance in Cincinnati before the Reds take off for Atlanta, where they are scheduled to face knuckleballer Phil Niekro tonight.

"He called me before the game and asked me to be on his television show before Monday's game," Rose said of Niekro. "I said I would be if he gave me all fastballs to hit."

A hit off Niekro would tie him with Keeler, who is credited by baseball historians with having the longest all-time National League streak. Tommy Holmes had held the modern NL record of 37, set in 1945.

"All I know about him (Keeler) is that he hit in 44 straight games," Rose said. "Of course he doesn't know anything about me either."

After Keeler, Rose will set his sites on DiMaggio's mark, one that many people thought would never be challenged. DiMaggio set his record in 1941, the year Rose was born.

"Right now, I'm going after Sidney Stonestreet's 48-game streak," Rose cracked as puzzled reporters gathered around him in a post-game interview. "You probably never heard of him. I just made him up."

Wallace Surprises Heise, Wins City Link Crown

BY SCOTT SUDDUTH
Avalanche Journal Sports Staff

His wife hates to see him play in pressure situations, so Ben Wallace doesn't enter many tournaments.

However, Sunday, not only did he play but Wallace won the Men's City-Championship golf tourney at Meadowbrook golf course.

Wallace matched last year's winning score with a two-day total of 140. The two-under par score was not dazzling but it was enough to edge the first-round leader, Kevin Heise, by one stroke.

"I was kinda suprised, especially after the first round on Saturday, I thought my one-under score was good but I expected someone to come in with three or four-under par," explained Wallace.

And Wallace only needed some long-range putts to manage the victory, including a 30-footer on the 20th green to save par and turn his game around.

"He's a super putter," acknowledged Heise.

Playing in the same group as Heise, Wallace managed to sink another pressure shot only moments after Heise barely missed tying the leader with a 20-foot putt.

This time, he calmly dropped an 8-footer to save his par while his wife cringed and admitted "I hate watching him play in pressure situations." His putt made a sharp hook on the sloping bumpy green and sent Wallace down the final fairway with the one stroke cushion.

A third-year law student at Texas Tech, Wallace's "super round" included an eagle on the first green he encountered. He added six birdies and five bogies on the 18-hole layout. It was his first win in an individual tourney.

"I've entered partnerships, but this was my first individual tourney—I'm prettey surprised," Wallace said.

Raider Signees Sparkle

HOUSTON (AP) — The stars in the 46th annual Texas High School Coaches Association all star football and basketball games made Texas Tech football coach Rex Dockery and basketball coach Gerald Myers look like geniuses at picking talent.

It started Friday night when Abilene's David Little ripped in 29 points, including a couple of key second half surges, to lead the North all star basketball team to a 109-108 victory over the South.

Myers watched the game at Hofheinz Pavilion and had a tough time hiding his pleasure as Little, headed for Raiderland this fall, accepted the most valuable player award.

Then on Saturday night, it was Dockery's turn to take a bow.

After a scoreless first half, Plano's C.M. Pier returned a South interception 23 yards to set up a two-yard touchdown run by Arlington's Temple Aday to tie the score at 6-6.

Lubbock Monterey's Ron Reeves booted home the game-winning extra point for a 7-6 victory. That extended the North's lead in the series to 25-15-4.

Chicago Sweeps Texas

By The Associated Press

Ralph Garr smashed a single, double and triple to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 4-2 second-game victory over the Texas Rangers and a sweep of their doubleheader.

The White Sox won the first game 5-4. Lamar Johnson's bases-loaded single in the eighth inning drove in the tying runs and the winning run scored on an error by Texas center fielder Juan Beniquez on the same play.

TIGERS 5, MARINERS 4

BREWERS 10, JAYS 5

Dick Davis' fifth home run of the season broke a 5-5 tie in the eighth inning and Tony Muser added a two-out, bases-loaded triple as the Milwaukee Brewers collected 10 extra-base hits and defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 10-5.

ROYALS 2, BOSOX 1

Paul Splittorff and Al Hrabosky combined for a six-hitter as the Kansas City Royals posted their 14th victory in the last 16 games with a 2-1 decision over the slumping Boston Red Sox.

A's 5, INDIANS 4

Jeff Newman's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning lifted the Oakland A's to a 5-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

YANKEES, TWINS SPLIT

Pinch-hitter Jose Morales' run-scoring single in the ninth inning broke up a scoreless duel and boosted the Minnesota Twins to a 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees and a split of their doubleheader.

The Yankees won the first game 4-3 on Jim Spencer's pinch-hit RBI double in the eighth inning.

ASTROS 4, METS 3

Wilbur Howard's ninth-inning pinch-hit single drove home pinch-runner Jimmy Sexton from third base with the winning run night as the Houston Astros edged the New York Mets 4-3.

GIANTS SWEEP PAIR

Strong pitching performances by starters Jim Barr and Vida Blue carried the San Francisco Giants to a sweep of their double-header with the Chicago Cubs. The Giants won the first game 4-2 and the finale 1-0 to regain sole possession of first place in the National League West.

ORIOLES 4, ANGELS 2

Brian Downing hit two run-scoring singles to help the Baltimore Orioles defeat the California Angels 4-2.

REDS 5, PHILLIES 3

Pete Rose extended his hitting streak to 43 games and George Foster smacked his second homer in three days, sparking the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

EXPOS 19, BRAVES 0

Larry Parrish drove in five runs with three homers and Andre Dawson had two home runs in the same inning as the Montreal Expos routed the Atlanta Braves 19-0. The Expos tied a major league record with eight home runs and set a National League record with 58 total bases.

PADRES 3, CARDS 2

BUCS 5, DODGERS 3

Dave Parker broke out of a long slump with a home run and a single to lead Pittsburgh to a 5-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers and snap a seven-game Pirates losing streak.

Vespero Gallops At Ruidoso Race

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (Special) — Vespero, a gelding who has had difficulty staying on a straight course a few times in the past, stepped off an arrow-straight line in Sunday's 15th running of the $446,000 Rainbow Futurity.

Vespero ended the 400-yard run with a commanding lead and earned $154,630 for his owners, Gordon and Juanita Crone of Lakin, Kansas.

The fans were duly impressed with Vespero's credentials of five wins from six starts and made him a 9-5 favorite in the second leg of quarter horse racing's triple crown.

That only defeat came in the Kansas Futurity trials earlier in the season, when Vespero bumped some of his running mates before flashing to an easy two length win. As a result, his number was taken down.

But there was no wayward movement on Sunday as jockey Keith Asmussen got the people's choice out of the gate alertly, and had him in contention right at the start. Moon Lark, at just over 4-1, appeared to get the early lead from the no. 2 slot. Miss Top Dial, carrying odds of 6-1, was also in the thick of things at the front end.

From that point on, it was plainly a three-horse race. No one else in the field managed to offer any resistance.

Vespero got stronger with each stride, and at the midway point, it was apparent Moon Lark would be unable to hold him off. With about 100 yards to go, Vespero had the sniff of big money in his nostrils and the incentive was enough to push him well into the clear. He ws surging ahead eagerly when he flashed under the wire with a three-quarter length lead.

Vespero stopped the clock in 19.96—quite an improvement over his top-qualifying time of 19.96. The gelding is trained by Marilyn Asmussen. Thus, Marily etched her name in quarter horse record books by becoming the first lady trainer to capture a stakes race of super-size dimension.

Questions Remain Unanswered About Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that all the emotion of Billy Martin's dramatic and unexpected return to the New York Yankees has had time to die down, two important questions remain to be answered:

BILLY MARTIN

•Did Saturday's stunning announcement that Martin will resume the managerial reins in 1980 mark the beginning of the end as a Yankee for slugger Reggie Jackson, last year's World Series hero?

•Will Martin's liver condition permit him to return to managing, even as far off as 1980?

Jackson appeared as stunned as everyone else by the announcement which came during Saturday's Old-Timers' Day festivities. The popular Martin, who resigned under fire just last Monday, is to return as manager in 1980, with Bob Lemon, his managerial successor, becoming general manager.

"I have no comment," Jackson said. The two will never form a mutual admiration society. "I'm tired of all this stuff. I just hope someone is capable of analyzing the situation and printing it."

Jackson declined to issue his own analysis. "There's a 50-50 chance I won't be here at the end of the season. I think that's very real," he said. "That's just my thinking. I hear some of the people in the front office think it's a good thing to have me dealt."

Rumors cropped up late last week that Jackson was headed for the California Angels in return for either pitcher Nolan Ryan, or pitcher Chris Knapp plus another player. Both teams denied the stories.

Since the trading deadline has passed, player transactions must clear waivers. And while the Yankees admitted that Jackson's name has been on the waiver list — nothing unusual; almost all players are put on waivers at one time or another just to provoke feelers — the chances of such a deal were considered highly unlikely.

Martin's surprise appearance Saturday — he received a five-minute ovation — was followed by a hastily arranged news conference during which Martin and owner George Steinbrenner spoke but refused to answer any questions.

Steinbrenner did, however, allude to Martin's health.

"Right after the All-Star break, Al (club president Al Rosen) and I first talked about Billy's situation and the health that Billy alluded to on the West Coast," Steinbrenner said. He called Martin's health "a problem that he has been told will not be serious if he looks after it." That means no drinking, except beer.

Steinbrenner also said when Martin apologized following his resignation for remarks at a Chicago airport last Sunday, "He spoke of the emotional situation in the way that he was so uptight and under so much pressure, and I believe the man and I believe what he has told me. He's going to get the rest he needs and he's going to do exactly what his doctor has told us he must do."

Until his return as manager, Martin will serve as a consultant and evaluator of talent in the organization.

Saturday's announcements marked a fantastic end to a bizarre week that began with Martin blasting Jackson and Steinbrenner at the airport in Chicago last Sunday, then tearfully submitting his resignation a day later in Kansas City.

"They (Jackson and Steinbrenner) deserve each other. One's a born liar and the other's convicted," were the words that got Martin in hot water this time.

Martin's latest crisis began when Jackson ignored the manager's instructions to swing away in a July 17 game against Kansas City and bunted three times instead. Jackson was suspended for five days, rejoining the club in Chicago last Sunday, where he denied the bunts were an act of defiance.

"I would like to say that, as you know, George and I in the past have had our differences, but we always found a way to solve them," Martin said. "I am very proud of the wonderful thing that he has done for me. This is the home where I want to be more than anything else. This is the only managing job I ever wanted."

Martin was fired as manager of the Minnesota Twins, Detroit Tigers and Texas Rangers. None of those clubs gave him a second chance.

"When I quit the other day, I called George and told him I apologized for what was said," said Martin. "I did say it. I don't know why I said it. I was angered at the time. I had no reason to say it and I feel very bad about it and I'm not afraid to admit it.

"I know that when I do come back as the manager of the Yankees that our relationship will be tremendous."

Funseth Rolls To GHO Title

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Rod Funseth fired six birdies and tied a tourney record Sunday, overcoming overcome a host of young challengers and winning the $210,000 Sammy Davis Jr. —Greater Hartford Open by four strokes.

Funseth, who was one stroke back when play began in the final round, moved quickly to the front with four birdies and never looked back. His 7-under-par round of 64 gave him a 72-hole total of 264 and the $42,000 first prize. His 20-under-par total ties the GHO record set by Billy Casper in 1973.

The victory more than doubles Funseth's earnings on the tour this year. Country Club course for this tournament. His best previous finish was a second at the Masters.

At least eight golfers took a run at the lead on the final day, but Funseth paid them no heed. At one point, Funseth was tied with Howard Twitty, while six other golfers were one stroke back.

Dale Douglass, Lee Elder and Bill Kratzert finished in a tie for second. Elder's three consecutive birdies on the 14th, 15th and 16th holes excited the crowd of nearly 20,000. He ended the day with a 4-under-par 67, for a tourney total of 268, 16 under par.

Kratzert, the defending champion, birdied the seventh, eighth, ninth and 14th holes, but couldn't drop putts on the 16th and 17th to complete his challenge.

The Fort Wayne, Ind., golfer said he was frequently thinking of his wife, Cheryl, who was at home expecting their first child. "It's difficult to play out there when it's on your mind," he said after the round.

In a tie for fifth were Rex Caldwell and Twitty, the third round co-leader with Phil Hancock, at 270.

Joe Inman, who made a rush at the lead in the early going with a string of birdies, and Dr. Gil Morgan — with a 13-under-par total of 271, were tied for seventh.

For Hancock, it was a disappointing conclusion to a tournament in which he either led or was tied for the lead from the opening day. The 24-year-old Pensacola, Fla., resident shot a 4-over-par 75, for a 274 total, and a tie for 22nd place.

The victory was the first for 45-year-old Funseth since the 1973 Glen Campbell —Los Angeles Open. The Napa, Calif., resident, who joined the tour in 1961, had won $38,672 on the 1978 tour before the GHO first prize. He had finished in the money in only eight of 17 previous events this year.

Several of the major names of the PGA tour did not enter the GHO. Among them were Jack Nicklaus, Hale Irwin, Gary Player, Tom Watson and Lee Trevino. The tour's top money winner, Andy Bean, withdrew after the first round because of illness.

AndrettiNabsGrandPrix

HOCKENHEIM, West Germany (AP) — Mario Andretti grabbed the lead on the fourth lap en route to an easy victory in the German Grand Prix Sunday and virtually clinched the Formula I driving championship.

The Nazareth, Pa., driver covered the 45 laps on the torturous 4.2 mile Hockenheimring in 1 hour, 28 minutes, 0.90 seconds, for an average of 129.25 miles per hour.

Jacques Lafitte of France finished third in a Ligier-Matra in 1:28:28.91 hours. Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil was fourth in a Copersucar followed by Didier Pironi of France in an Elf-Tyrrell. Hector Rebaque of Mexico, at 22 the youngest driver in the 24-car field, came in sixth.

Three former German Grand Prix champions — Carlos Reutemann of Argentina, defending world champion Niki Lauda of Austria and James Hunt of Britain — and Ronnie Peterson, Andretti's teammate, fell victim to equipment troubles. Hunt was ordered off the track late in the race when he took an illegal shortcut to have a tire changed.

Andretti, who led Peterson by nine points in the Formula I standings going into the race, was never seriously threatened.

The two Lotus drivers, who started the race in the front row, held a 20-yard lead over Lauda after the first lap, and stayed way ahead of the field until Peterson pulled into the pits in the 26th lap with transmission troubles. The blond Swede was back on the track a few seconds later, but had to give up for good during the 38th lap.

Andretti now has 54 points in the Formula I standings. Despite dropping out of the race, Peterson held second position with 36 points, while Lauda and Reutemann remained a tied for third with 31.

"I didn't want to press any harder than I had to," Andretti said after the race. "I took it a little easier toward the end although I knew that Jody Scheckter was coming up," he added.

With a triumphant Lotus team chief Colin Chapman standing next to him, Andretti said, "but everything was calculated."

Before leaving the race, Peterson bettered the official lap record of 1:35.99, set last year by Lauda. Peterson covered the 8th lap in 1:55.94 mins. and the 28th in 1:55.62.

Scheckter managed his second-place finish despite a dismal start. He fell back to last place during the warm-up lap, but by the seventh lap had moved to 12th place, and by the 31st he was running third.

Fuel problems brought on by the heat forced Ferrari pilot Reutemann to switch to a spare car after the warm-up and he was out of the race by the 12th lap. Lauda, last year's German Grand Prix champion fell out inthe 12th lap with engine trouble.

Asked whether he was confident to win the Formula I title, Andretti said: "Well I'm more optimistic than I felt this morning."

Bradley Holds Off Carner

PLYMOUTH, Ind. (AP) — Pat Bradley shot a 4-under-par 68 Sunday to capture the fifth annual Hoosier Classic Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament, finishing three strokes ahead of runner-up JoAnne Carner.

Bradley, 27, ended the $60,000 tournament at the 6,225-yard, par-72 Plymouth Country Club course with a 10-under-par 206 for 54 holes.

Bradley's fourth tour victory was worth $9,000. The Westford, Mass., resident captured the Lady Keystone tournament last month, snapping Nancy Lopez' record streak of five consecutive victories in the process.

The score of 206 equaled the lowest winning score for a 54-hole tournament on the tour this year. The standard was set by Amy Alcott in the American Defender Classic and tied by Bradley in the Lady Keystone tournament.

Marlene Hagge, who started the final round one stroke ahead of Bradley and Carner, shot herself out of contention with a double bogey on the 321-yard, par-4 17th hole after her tee shot was wide of the fairway. She finished with a bogey to end up tied for fourth with Kathy Whitworth at 212.

Dot Germain, who also shot a 68 in the final round, shared sixth place with Jan Stephenson at 214.

Bradley's only bogey of the day came on the fifth hole. She then birdied the par-3 seventh hole and the par-5 eighth hole, making the turn in 35. A birdie on No. 12, a 364-yard, par-4, gave Bradley a 1-stroke lead.

The 44-year-old Hagge, who was seeking her first victory since 1972, drew even with Bradley for the final time with a birdie on the 191-yard, par-3 14th hole.

Solomon Wins Net Tourney

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Harold Solomon won his second Louisville International Tennis Classic title in three years Sunday, defeating Australia's John Alexander 6-2, 6-2.

Solomon, the No. 5 seed in the $175,000 event, rolled to a 4-0 lead in the first set, breaking Alexander's service twice.

Alexander managed a break in the sixth game, making it 4-2, but Solomon broke Alexander in the next game and held his own service for the first-set win.

In the second set, Solomon used service breaks in the first, third and fifth games to take a 4-1 advantage.

LA To Present New Game Plan

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A plan — which has the blessings of Mayor Tom Bradley — to relieve Los Angeles of financial responsibility for the 1984 Olympic Games will be presented to the International Olympic Committee for approval.

"If the plan is not acceptable to the IOC, it's dead," said U.S. Olympic Committee President Robert Kane after a lengthy meeting with Bradley Sunday.

"This is the last go-around," said Kane, who noted that the city of Los Angeles and the USOC are working against an Aug. 21 deadline. A contract with the IOC for the 1984 Olympics must be signed by that time.

"It is not proper to divulge details before it being discussed with the IOC. That's just common decency," Kane said.

Late last week, however, Kane and William Simon, USOC treasurer and former U.S. Secretary of the Treasury, discussed at length a plan whereby Los Angeles would be absolved of any financial responsibility.

That responsibility would be underwritten by the USOC in partnership with the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee.

Los Angeles had been selected as the site for the world-wide Games six years hence, but the citizens of that city balked at the possibility of a debt arising from the conduct of the Games and the possible future taxation.

Mayor Bradley said that the relief of financial responsibility for Los Angeles was "part of the plan presented to us."

Under questioning, he said that if the IOC is receptive to the plan, he would enthusiastically recommend its approval to the Los Angeles City Council.

"It is a very good proposal and contains the basis of agreement from all parties," Bradley said.

The International Olympic Committee has insisted that as part of the Olympic contract, the city of Los Angeles be prepared to assume financial responsibility for the conduct of the Games.

Los Angeles has balked at this.

Under the plan discussed earlier by Kane and Simon, the USOC and the Organizing Committee would be prepared to underwrite any losses the city may accrue in presenting the Games.

The proposal, as worked out by Kane and Bradley Sunday, now goes to the IOC for approval or rejection. If rejected, the Olympics will not be held in Los Angeles, Kane said.

If the IOC approves, the plan then goes to the U.S. Olympic Committee Executive Board and then to Bradley for presentation to the Los Angeles City Council.

All this must be accomplished by the Aug. 21 deadline. Rejection at any stage would, Bradley said, eliminate the Games from Los Angeles.

Former Olympic Star Continues Comeback

And both were extremely pleased.

"I'm satisfied," said the 41-year-old Oerter, after his winning toss of 197 feet, 2 inches. "Three or four of these guys finished ahead of me in the AAU National meet. Now I've pulled even with them. I'm not necessarily ahead of them but I'm getting closer."

"I really wanted to win," said the 29-year-old Hart after rallying from a poor start and capturing the 100-meter dash in 10.07 seconds. The time matched the best clocking in the world this year, set at the NCAA Championships by Clancy Edwards of the University of Southern California.

Hart had to be at his best to win because Melvin Latney of Brunswick, Ga., the runner-up, finished in 10.09, breaking the world junior record of 10.11 held by Harvey Glance. Glance was scheduled to compete against Hart and Latney but was forced to withdraw because of a muscle injury.

"This victory was very important to me," said Hart, who got a second chance when the race was rerun because of a false start the first time. The start was not recalled because the recall guns failed.

Although Oerter fell far shot of his goal of 215 for this year — his best so far is 203-6 — he said that the winds whipping across the discus area prevented him from getting greater distance.

Roberts, Yell Win Levelland Tourney

The duo finished the event with a 17-under-par 125 and collected seven birdies on the first nine holes Sunday. Mike Broward and J.W. Holt finished second in the two-day tourney.

Waltrip Sails To GN Victory

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip and David Pearson traded glares as well as the lead Sunday, before Waltrip won the 500-mile NASCAR Grand National stock car race at Pocono International Raceway.

"David is a lot of fun to race with," said Waltrip, who dueled with Pearson before pulling away at the end and won the race in track record speed.

"He'd pull up along side me and look over as if to say, 'Hey kid, you ain't foolin' me.' Then I'd pull up beside him and give him a look to say, 'Hey old man, you ain't gonna fool me, either.'

"I was worried about David. I thought he might have a little bit left, but I didn't know how much," said Waltrip, who just nipped Pearson. "It was really fun, I had a good time out there today."

Waltrip, who won six races last year and now has notched five this year, has accumulated 2,502 points for fourth place in this year's standings behind Cale Yarborough, Dave Marcis and Benny Parsons.

Waltrip, of Franklin, Tenn., edged Pearson by a little more than a car length in setting the record speed for 500 miles around Pocono's 2½-mile tri-oval. Waltrip's Chevrolet covered the 200 laps in 3 hours, 30 minutes, 38 seconds, an average speed of 142.540 miles per hour, breaking the old track record of 132.781 mph set by Richard Petty in 1973 in a United States Auto Club stock car race.

Taking the lead for the final time on the 188th lap, Waltrip won his fifth race of the season and the $20,890 first prize in the $154,000 event. He pulled away to almost a two-second lead with just over three laps remaining, then held on as Pearson made a dramatic dash in the last few laps.

Waltrip and Pearson were the only drivers to lead the race after the 61st lap and they traded first place 19 times over the final 139 laps. There were 36 lead changes in all among five drivers, with Waltrip leading the 40-car pack 16 times for 120 laps.

Waltrip and Pearson were within striking distance of each other most of the afternoon. Except for late pit stops with about 40 laps remaining, Waltrip and Pearson were glued to each other for the final 160 miles, exchanging the lead several times in a door-to-door battle.

With engine trouble besetting most of their closest pursuers, Waltrip and Pearson ran the final 30 laps by themselves in the only two cars on the lead lap.

Two-time defending Grand National champ Cale Yarborough developed engine trouble on the 84th lap in his Oldsmobile. His crew installed a new power plant in 15 minutes, but Yarborough reentered the chase on the 116th lap well behind the leaders.

The record speed was aided by a clean race. Only one yellow caution flag was put out — for laps 51 to 53 — when Jocko Naggiacomo stalled in turn two.

Bryan Snares Crown At NBC State Event

Bryan "bombed" Austin Family Life for six runs in the eighth inning Sunday afternoon to capture a come-from-behind 11-7 victory and snare the State NBC championship of Texas.

The Bombers, who finished the four-day Mackenzie Park meet undefeated, earned a berth in the NBC National Tourna ment in Wichita, Kan., which will start next Friday.

Harry Francis got Bryan within a run with an RBI single in the eighth, then Austin Family Life's defense fell apart, committing three errors which allowed three runs to score and then designated hitter Mark Warriner completed the uprising with a two-run single.

Family Life, which had to score four times in the last of the 11th of a game that lasted until 2:30 a.m. Sunday morning to nip the Austin Senators, got three sacrifice flies in the first three innings —two by Beno Spangler—and run-scoring hits by Scott Soden, Glen Bockhorn and Wendell Hibbett, who had 10 RBIs for the meet, to lead to jump into a 7-3 lead.

Bryan scored three times in the first as Warriner had a two-run double and a douple play ball got home the third run. Bob Verde homered in the fourth and drove in a sixth-inning run with a single.

The All-State team included: catchers Scott Le imgruber of Town Draw Brewers and Dennis Beverly of Bryan; first baseman Hibbett of Bryan; second baseman Tommy Larsen of Bryan, third baseman Kyle Hawthorne of Bryan; shortstop Steve Chapman of Austin Senators; outfielders Scott Soden of Austin Family Life and Doug House and Jim Horton of Town Draw Brewers; utility players Rusty Culbreth of Bryan and Gary Holub of the Lubbock Z's and pitchers Derek Hatfield of the Z's, Bob McNicol of Abilene, James Ellison of Austin Senators, Hoot Gibson of Bryan and Doug Laufer of Austin Family Life.

Laufer was the loser Sunday, but previously had won two games in the meet.

Cook Wins Another In Speed Bowl's Modified Division

Hershel Cook won the modified stock car main event at Lubbock Speed Bowl Saturday night, but Bubba DeBusk's new Camaro under the aegis of an assortment of drivers was a major threat all night.

Charley Whorton drove the DeBusk machine to third in the main after Bobby "Little Red" Norvelle piloted it to victory in the semi ahead of Larry Johnson and Cook. DeBusk himself got a third in his heat.

In street stocks Jim Lewis won heat, trophy and semi while Scott McGee picked up the win in the main. Junior Black took a slow roll in the no. 2 turn to repeat an early season performance. He was unhurt.

Jimmy Bilbrey won the Volkswagen feature trailed by Don Spear, who had a clean sweep going up to that point.

Garner Named West Texas SID

CANYON (Special) — Jim Garner, former sports information director at Texas Christian University, has been named director of promotions at West Texas State University, it was announced Saturday by WT athletic director Dick Dietl.

Garner, a 1961 graduate of Tyler High School, is currently working on a novel about Kent Waldrep, the TCU gridder who was paralyzed during a football game against Alabama in 1975.

Garner replaces Jim Gustafson as SID at West Texas State and will assume his new duties early in August.

Military To Aid With Construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees have agreed to an amendment authorizing the military to help the 1980 Winter Olympics in Lake Placid, N.Y., Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, R-N.Y., said.

The measure, an amendment to the Military Procurement Authorization bill, would allow the armed services to help out with emergency evacuation, communications and other security measures at the Olympics and at the 1979 pre-Olympic trials, he said.

'I know why I smoke.'

"So when I switched to low tar, I wasn't about to give that up. If you don't smoke for taste what else is there?
"But there was all that talk about tar.
"Unfortunately, most low tar cigarettes tasted like nothing. Then I tried Vantage.
"Vantage gives me the taste I enjoy. And the low tar I've been looking for."
