GERMAN CAVALRY ASTRIDE PETROGRAD RAILWAY LINE

VON HINDENBERG'S FORCES HAVE MADE LARGE CAPTURES OF PRISONERS AND WAR EQUIPMENT

RUSSIANS' COUNTER MOVE

Slav orces Inflict Another Reverse on Teutons in Galicia—Believed Important Engagement in Vilna Region are About to Take Place

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 15.—While Field Marshall Von Hindenburg's cavalry is astride the Petrograd railroad and the Germans have made large captures of prisoners and guns in Courland, the Russians are again countering these efforts not only by checking the attempt of the Austrians to resume the offensive in Galacia but by inflicting another reverse on the Austro-German forces in the same vicinity. The Russians assert it is clear whatever strategic move may be involved in this advance that recent events indicate the near approach of important engagements in the Vilna region which was predicted a fortnight ago by Gen. Tolianoff, the minister of war. Further along the line the German armies operating on both banks of the Nieman have not yet formed a junction and Russian rear guards are still withdrawing eastward. Russian military writers are warning the people not to expect too great developments from the Galacian offensive.

Discussion in the House of Commons today is to be turned from the absorbing topic of conscription to the voting of another huge war credit.

LIBERTY BELL AT FORT WORTH NOVEMBER 18TH.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 14.—The complete itinerary of the return trip of the Liberty Bell from the Panama-Pacific Exposition in November was announced today. Owing to hundreds of requests to have the historic bell make stops at many Western and Southwestern towns the councilmanic committee in charge of the arrangements had much difficulty in making up the return schedule.

The bell will leave San Francisco on Nov. 11th. Stops will be made at Fresno, Dinuba, Porterville and Bakersfield, Cal., the same day. The bell will arrive at the Panama-California Exposition, San Diego, Nov. 12, where it will remain until midnight, Nov. 14. A seven-hour stop will be made in Los Angeles, Nov. 14, and a short stop at Yuma, Ariz., at night. The remainder of the itinerary where stops will be made is as follows:

No. 16—Maricopa, Tucson, Wilcox and Bowie, Ariz.; Deming, N. M., El Paso and Alpine, Texas.

Nov. 17—San Antonio, Austin, and Georgetown, Temple and Waco, Tex.

Nov. 18—Denison, Fort Worth, Arlington, Dallas, Corsicana and Houston, Texas.

Nov. 19—Beaumont, Texas; Lake Charles, Jennings, Crowley, Lafayette, New Iberia, Morgan City and New Orleans, La., Brookhaven and Jackson, Miss.

Nov. 20—Memphis, Tenn.; Fulton, and Paducah, Ky.; Cairo, Carbondale and Murphysboro, Ill.

Nov. 21—St. Louis, Mo.; East St. Louis, Ill.; Terre Haute, Brazil and Indianapolis, Ind.

Nov. 22—Louisville, Ky.; Cincinnati, Hamilton, Dayton, Xenia and Columbus, Ohio.

Nov. 23—Cleveland, Ravenna, Niles, and Youngstown, Ohio; Pittsburgh, Pa.

Nov. 24—Philadelphia.

PLOT TO RAID VICTORIA IS RUMORED TODAY

By Associated Press.

Victoria, Texas, Sept. 15.—Little excitement was created here last night when Sheriff Weisiger received a telegram from Chief of Police Lancaster at San Antonio stating that Mexicans arrested there insist on knowing of a Mexican plot to raid Victoria today and rob banks here. Sheriff and police departments kept strong guards about town all night. No indications of the outbreak have yet developed, so close has the vigil been kept. A number of citizens armed themselves as precautions.

COTTON EXCHANGE WILL BE OPENED NEXT WEEK

Private Wire Being Installed And the Dealers Will Keep In Close Touch With the Market.

A grain and cotton exchange will be opened in this city sometime next week, probably on Monday and daily quotations on grain, cotton, cotton seed and other staples will be received. The membership of the exchange includes practically all the local dealers in these commodities. Offices have been rented on the fourth floor of the Kemp & Kell building and a private wire is now being installed. The exchange will enable Wichitans to keep in touch with the markets in a much more convenient manner than heretofore.

ELECTION FRAUDS DEFENSE WILL REST THIS AFTERNOON

SECRETARY OF STATE McKAY PUT ON STAND BY DEFENSE TO RECITE OFFICIAL RETURNS OF NEUCES COUNTY IN 1914.

SLUSH FUND TALK DENIED

Witness Declares That Nothing Was Said About Any Slush Fund at Meeting at Court House at Testified to by State's Witnesses.

By Associated Press.

Corpus Christi, Texas, Sept. 15.—The defense will have rested by tonight its case in the trial in the United States court here of the 41 politicians of Nueces county who are charged with election frauds during November, 1914. Additional witnesses for the defense were placed on the stand and in anticipation of the defense closing its testimony, the government had a large number of witnesses in close touch with the court to begin on the rebuttal testimony.

One of the important issues in the case as it now stands is the testimony of F. C. Headley, first government witness, who last week testified as to an alleged "slush fund" discussed at a pre-election meeting in Judge Timon's office. He said the remark was made that $3,000 was needed to "carry the hill." Witnesses for the defense including defendants and county officers have denied that any money was mentioned at this meeting.

The first witness on the stand this morning for the defense was Secretary of State John G. McKay of Austin, who was brought here to repeat certain figures in the official election returns as filed in Austin. He cited the majority and official vote polled for J. H. "Cyclone" Davis, Jeff McLemore and John N. Garner. He showed that Garner had no opposition in the general election which was the point sought by the defense. McKay was excused after reading a transcript from the official returns as on file in his office.

H. B. Russell an attorney who offices with Judge Timon was brought up on the stand by the defense and told of attending a meeting at the court house when the alleged slush funds was said to have been discussed. He said the meeting was for the purpose of checking the poll list and that money was never mentioned.

MEXICAN PLOT TO SHOOT UP SAN BENITO FAILS

Heavy Cavalry and Infantry Patrols Rushed to That Place and All Quiet Today

By Associated Press.

San Benito, Texas, Sept. 15.—Heavy cavalry and infantry patrols which were rushed this city of 5000 persons during last night kept off a threatened attack by Mexican bandits. Evidences of a plot to shoot up the city last night were strengthened by reports during the night of activities of Mexicans outside the town. Commanding officers here suspected that dawn was chosen for the attack. Infantry details were sent out along the road at some distance from the town to be ready for the attack.

The army's quick work during the night evidently stopped the Mexicans from carrying out whatever plans they had. Soon after a sunrise San Benito assumed its normal aspect and ranch owners who had come into town for the night started back to the country to resume work.

Mexicans hidden in the brush on the Mexican side last night fired about 50 shots into the little town of Simon, 20 miles up the river from Laredo and residents deserted the town. Workmen at irrigation pump plants fled and a hurry call was sent for troops. Cavalry from Dolores was rushed to the scene but no further shots were fired. All cavalry stationed at Fort McIntosh was sent to patrol the border in every direction today.

BILLION AND A QUARTER CREDIT ASKED IN HOUSE OF COMMONS FOR WAR

Premier Asquith Reports War Expenditures By England at $17,500,000 Daily—Says 3,000,000 Men Have Been Enlisted in the British Army.

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 15.—Premier Asquith in the House of Commons today moved a vote of credit of two hundred and fifty million pounds ($1,250,000,000). In making the motion the premier announced that from July 18 to Sept. 1 the daily expenditure for the war had been 3,500,000 pounds ($17,500,000).

Premier Asquith announced that an aggregate of nearly 3,000,000 men had enlisted since the beginning of the war.

PROTESTS AGAINST THE ANGLO-FRENCH CREDIT LOANS

TELEGRAMS OF PROTEST RECEIVED AT WHITE HOUSE FROM VARIOUS PARTS OF COUNTRY TODAY

BANK RUNS THREATENED

No Official Protests From Germany Received—American Government Has No Present Intion of Interferinb with Efforts to Float Loan

By Associated Press.

Washington, Sept. 15.—Protests against the Anglo-French credit loans being negotiated in this country were received at the White House today in telegrams from various parts of the country. One man in Michigan wired that runs would be started on banks participating in the loan and that panics would be precipitated. No indications of organized opposition, however, have been apparent here, officials assert.

No protests or communications of any kind regarding the proposed loan has come from the German government, so far as can be learned, and the American government is said to have no present intention of interfering with the efforts of the Anglo-French banking commission.

WILL INVITE PRO-GERMANS TO PARTICIPATE IN LOAN

New York, Sept. 15.—The pro-German element of New York's financial world probably will be invited to participate, if they signify that they desire such an invitation, in floating the $1,000,000,000 credit loan which Great Britain and France hope to establish in this country.

The moneyed faction of this element Wall street heard, would be glad to have a chance to help; another faction composed largely of middle western bankers with pro-German sympathies would bitterly oppose participation in raising funds for the use of Germany's enemies evon though the money all will be spent in the United States.

This was the big feature in negotiations of the Anglo-French financial commission with Wall street bankers who are endeavoring to assist in adjusting the foreign exchange situation.

Heretofore the commission has met and conferred only with bankers who are pro-ally in their sympathies and connections.

Some of the largest financial institutions in the United States, including the big banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., which is second in New York only to J. P. Morgan & Co., thus have been excluded by this policy. Apparently it had been taken for granted that it would be useless to ask financiers with German sympathies to contribute their dollars toward the proposed loan. Such a policy, however, was disavowed late by Basin Blackett, secretary of the commission.

AMARILLO MAN HELD AS WITNESS SHOOTING CASE

"Chick" Findley Will Be Taken Before Grand Jury Investigating Killing of Woman

"Chick" Findley of Amarillo was taken into custody last night and will be taken before the grand jury when it reconvenes tomorrow in connection with the killing of Lorene Shaw in the flats Monday night by O. P. Scott of San Angelo.

Findley is said to have been with Scott on the night of the shooting. He is reported to have gone with Scott to the house where the Shaw woman stayed about five minutes before the killing. The afternoon before the killing he is said to have been with Scott when the latter attempted to borrow a revolver. No complaint had been filed against Findley early this afternoon although he was detained at the jail. The officers were reticent in discussing any connection he might be suspected of having with the case.

CRUSADE AGAINST GUN MEN IN CHICAGO STARTS

Gang Operating in Several Units Have Carried on Campaign of Murder For Years

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—A crusade to conducted by the states attorney's of Chicago was started today by States Attorney Hoyne. An investigation conducted by the states atorney's office revealed a gang of gun men in several units who have carried on a wrecking and murdering campaign for years.

In the accompanying illustration are shown Frederic C. Penfield, United States ambassador to Austria-Hungary, who may receive his passports as a resul of the Dumba incident, and his wife, who was Mrs. Anne Weightman Walker and who inherited a fortune of $60,000,000.

The United States has informed Austria-Hungary that Dr. Dumba is no longer acceptable as that government's envoy at Washington. The demand for the ambassador's recall is based upon his admission that he attempted to disrupt industries in the United States.

SECTION MAN HIT BY LIGHTNING BOLT

GEO. PHILLIPS STRUCK WHILE UNDER SHELTER OF BARN NEAR BURKBURNETT

HIS INJURIES NOT SERIOUS

Bolt Hit Shoulder Ran Down Body ursting Right Shoe When Tore Hole in Ground

George Phillips, a section hand on the Wichita Falls & Northwestern, was struck by a lightning bolt while taking refuge from a rainstorm in a barn near Burkburnett yesterday but was not seriously hurt.

The bolt struck Phillips on the back of the left shoulder passed under his arm, ran across the lower part of his abdomen and down his right leg bursting his shoe when it left his body and tore a hole in the dirt under his feet. Phillips was dazed but was not more shocked than several others who were nearby. He was taken to a physician's office at Burkburnett where his burns received treatment. Last night he was brought here on his way to the hospital at Dallas. He seemed little the worse for his experience, but will remain in the hospital until he recovers fully from the shock. His skin was scorched where the lightning bolt ran down his body. Half an hour after being struck he was able to walk around and seemed hardly any the worse for the experience.

SOLDIER WITH LEPROSY PRESENTS HARD PROBLEM

Will Be Taken From Pittsburg to Washington In Auto Which Will Be Burned

By Associated Press.

Pittsburg, Sept. 15.—Elmer E. Gable, a former United States soldier, who contracted leprosy while serving in the Phillipines and who has been under strict guard in a tent at the municipal hospital since his appearance here several weeks ago will be returned to Washington in an automobile and after he has been turned over to the authorities the machine will be burned. This plan was announced today by Dr. James F. Edwards, director of health who has been seeking to solve the problem of Gable's future. Common carriers will not transport Gable, who is a ward of the government.

ANOTHER TEACHER TO BE ADDED AT HIGH SCHOOL

Regular Class Work and Recitations Now Started in All the City Schools

Regular class work and recitations have begun in all the public schools, starting Tuesday in the grammar schools and today in the high school. All the preliminaries have been completed, and the work of the session is now fairly started. It has been decided to add one teacher to the high school force and possibly two.

The kindargarten work has also started, though the attendance is small so far. There will be two kindergarten classes this year, one at the Austin school in the morning, the other at the Alamo school in the afternoon.

ANOTHER NEUTRAL SHIP REPORTED DESTROYED

Motor Schoóner Said to Have Been Blown Up By German Sub. Off Norwegian Coast.

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 15.—The destruction of another neutral vessel by a German submarine is reported by Reuters correspondent at Copenhagen. According to his dispatch the motor schooner, Norte of Christiania, was blown up near the Naza off the Norwegian coast in the North Sea. The crew was saved.

The only vessel named Norte and owned in Christiania which is given in maritime records is a small steamer flying the Brazilian flag. Her port of registry was at Tera, Brazil.

GERMAN AIRSHIP REPORTED BADLY DAMAGED

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 15.—A German airship, badly damaged by Russian gunfire has descended at Koenigsburg, east Prussia, according to Amsterdam dispatches to the Central News. It is believed to have been one of those which participated in the raid on the Gulf of Riga. A German official statement issued Sept. 10 states that a naval airship dropped several bombs on a Russian naval base at a Baltic port and returned undamaged although it was fired upon.

NO WORD RECEIVED FROM AUSTRIA ON RECALL OF DUMBA

GERMAN AMBASSADOR GOES TO SUMMER EMBASSY TO AWAIT WORD FROM HIS GOVERNMENT. CONCERNING ARABIA.

CONSIDER THE HESPERIAN CASE

Evidence at Hand Not Sufficient to Show Whether Liner Torpedoed or Sunk by Mine—No Representations to Germany in Hesperian Case yet Made.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Sept. 15.—State department officials commenting today on the isclaimer of the Berlin government that the Canadian liner, Hesperian, was torpedoed said that insufficient evidence had been received upon which to base representations to Germany at this time. From the facts at hand it was said no opinion could be formed as to whether the Hesperian was torpedoed or struck by a mine.

Diplomatic negotiations in the Arabic case were in apparent lull today and Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, had returned to the summer embassy at Cedar Hunt, Long Island to await word from his government.

No Word from Austria.

No word has come from Ambassador Penfield in Vienna in regard to the case of Ambassador Dumba. The fact that only one letter mentioned in the list of communications transmitted to state department by Ambassador Page at London as having been found on Correspondent James Archibald is in possession of the state deparment, officials explain, by the delay in the transmission of mail. It was expected that within a day or two the remainder of the letters will reach here.

It became known last night that a critical point was reached Monday in the relations between Germany and the United States over the Arabic case. The Washington government was almost ready to sever diplomatic relations, but decided to delay taking any step until Germany could be furnished the evidence in its possession on the Arabic case.

Friendliness and candor are understood to have characterized the conversation between Mr. Lansing and the ambassador. As the latter now has been given opportunity to communicate freely with his government so that it may be clearly understood in Berlin why officials here are convinced that the torpedoing of the Arabic could not have been a mistake, justified or unjustified.

Disavowal Wanted.

In view of the evidence the United States wants a disavowal of the act and this was made clear to Count Von Bernstorff. Arbitration can not be an issue for consideration until the attitude of the German government toward the act itself is placed on record. Later the American government may take under consideration a proposal to arbitrate not the principle, but what indemnity should be paid for lives lost.

Tension was lessened today and there was much more hope in both state department and German quarters of a friendly adjustment than there had been in several days. Much emphasis was placed on the fact that for the first time since relations became strained informal discussions are proceeding at both Washington and Berlin and the freest opportunity for an exchange of views confidentially and informally has been made possible. In fact, it was predicted in German quarters that understandings might now be reached in advance of the writing of formal notes.

The note from Berlin which brought the situation to a crisis asserted that the submarine torpedoed the Arabic because her commander thought the liner was about to attack him, refused to admit liability for indemnity for American lives lost, even if the commander was mistaken in his belief and offered to submit the matter to arbitration.

FRENCH SURGEON TELLS OF HIS WONDERFUL FEAT

Man Who Removed Shrapnel From Soldiers Heart Before French Academy of Medicine

By Associated Press.

Paris, Sept. 15.—Means by which he extracted a shrapnel bullet from the right auricle of a French soldier's heart was described to the Academy of Medicine last night by Dr. Charles Infroit. This surgical feat was accomplished by the use of a radiographic compass invented by the surgeon. This instrument enables one to locate foreign bodies in the tissues with mathematical precision and allows their extraction without injury to the neighboring bodies.

SOCIALISTS DOERS NOT ONLY DREAMERS DECLARES DEBS

GIFTED ORATOR PICTURES DAY WHEN GREAT FORTUNES AND POVERTY WILL NO LONGER EXIST

AUDIENCE ENTHUSIASTIC ONE

Declares War In Europe Due to International Capitalism—Says Workingmen in America Have no Country—Belongs to Capitalists

The master-exponent of Socialism, Eugene V. Debs, explained the principles and aims of the Socialist party Tuesday night at the Wichita Theatre to a crowd that was fairly large but more than fairly enghusiastic. The address of Mr. Debs, while it contained little that has not been heard from the lips of street corner Socialist orators, was couched in eloquent and gilted language and was well delivered and well received.

Mr. Debs is over six feet tall, with a bald head and a spare frame that remind one of the pictures of the village school master in the story books. In speaking he bends his body into an amazing series of angles and convolutions, in emphasizing his message and his manner is fiery and forceful.

Cheers and Laughter.

Frequent applause, with some times cheers, showed the attitude of most of the crowd, while laughter evinced the numerous witty sallies of the speaker.

Mr. Debs explained how what he termed the capitalistic system of the present day came into being, and then explained how Socialism is going to remedy these conditions. His word pictures were a memorable part of his address and when, in conclusion, he told of the time to come when the only slaves shall be the machines that have no backs to scar, no hearts to break and no souls to crush, and when the laborer shall earn a comfortable living with a few hours work and devote the remainder of his time to self culture and self improvement, one felt that it was just too good to be true. The speaker counselled his hearers to be patient and above all not to bother about the man who called them dreamers and visionaries; for, he said, just as Columbus dreamed for eighteen years of a new world before he found it, so the Socialists were dreaming their dreams of a new workers' world that would one day be realized.

Mr. Debs Introduced.

Mr. Debs was introduced by T. A. Hickey who referred to the speaker as one of the nation's historic figures. He told of how Debs organized two great railroad brotherhoods and of his work for the Socialist party. Cheers greeted Mr. Debs as he came forward. The speaker began by urging his hearers to listen with an open mind, declaring that what he had to tell them was only the truth.

Plunging at once into his address, Mr. Debs said that every new order of things was the logical sequence of what preceded, showing that savagery gave way ot barbarism and barbarism to civilization. A century and a half ago, said Mr. Debs the forefathers of the present generation worked with simple tools, each man being practically his own employer. Socialism was then undreamed of, said Mr. Debs, but soon the development of tools made possible the factory and the industrial plant of the present.

"At that time the tools were used by men who owned them," said Mr. Debs, "today the tools—the great machines of the present time—are owned by those who do not use them. Therein lies the basis of the great economic conflict that is being waged.

He showed how his resulted in the competition between laborers that made depression follow prosperity as night follows day. This system produced a great army of workers usually one-fifth of the entire number—who could not secure employment.

Human Nature Unchanged.

"It's not because there's been a change in human nature—it's because of the changed economic conditions," he said.

He sketched the fruits of this condition in relation to crime, suicide, disease and the social evil.

"They're not 'fallen women' in the Socialist category," he said, "they are cast down women, cast down by this wrong economic system."

The present system was being judged by its fruits, he said, and he was willing for Socialism to be judged the same way.

Modern machines said Mr. Debs, were social productions, scorning the touch of the individual, yet still owned by individuals. He cited the fact that there are 44 families in this country whose incomes were each as large as those of 100,000 working men. Not one of the members of these families, he said, produced a single thing to earn such an income.

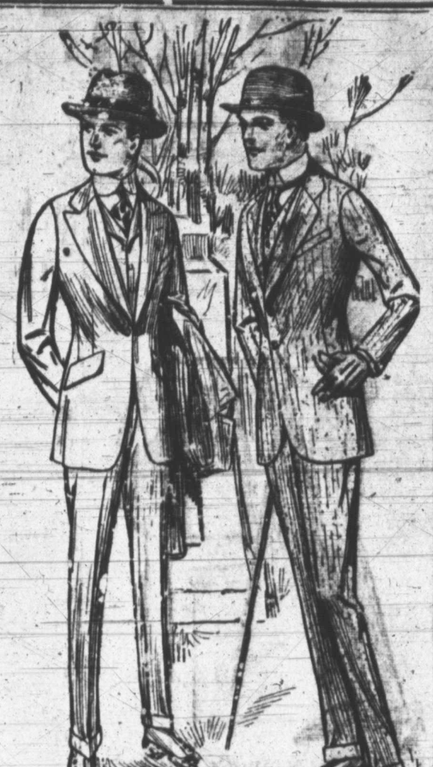

Profit Takers and Parasites.

How American Industry Is Affected by the War

By Associated Press.

Washington, September 15.—How every phase of American industry has been benefitted by the world war was outlined in an official statement today by the Department of Commerce forecasting the effect of the conflict on the industrial future of the country.

"The blow in the face received by American industries through conditions brought about by the European war has acted as a tonic, has forced the nation to create new branches and enlarge the scope of existing phases of manufacture, opened the way to utilize, on a vast scale, great natural resources of the United States, and induced manufacturers and merchants to expand their markets into foreign fields with prospects of permanent results," says the statement.

"American ingenuity has been applied with success to the making of articles previously imported, and among those who have shown conspicuous ability in meeting the situation, an important place is given to Thomas A. Edison, 'America's scientific wizard,' who has had a great part in the enterprise and initiative required to build, at a moment's notice, some of the new American manufactures required by the emergency.

"A review of the chief industries ministering particularly to the temporary needs of the belligerents across the Atlantic shows that the final outcome will be a very material addition to the manufacturing plant of the United States. Part of this plant will be simply anticipatory of the normal growth of the country's mechanical equipment; part must lie idle in time of peace, but is a distinct asset in the national preparation for an adequate defence against attack; the remainder furnishes at once products needed in the healthy expansion of the chemical industry of the country.

Impulse to Manufacturing.

"Less conspicuous and spectacular but of far greater permanent value, is the impulse given to the manufacture on American soil, with American raw materials, of a variety of articles for which we have hitherto been dependent upon foreign skill and enterprise. In a more or less uncomfortable way, we have suddenly been brought to recognize the unwisdom, the folly, of shipping vast amounts of the crude material of our farms, forests, and mines 3,000 miles across the ocean, and buying it back in a manufactured form, at a vastly enhanced price. We have likewise come to recognize the absurdity of allowing many natural products of the tropics, of South America, of the Far East, to find their way to Europe, and of paying foreign intelligence and skill to transform them into articles of daily need in our lives.

"American ingenuity, adaption, inventive talent, scientific attainments, and general enterprise have promptly rallied to meet wide-spread demands, and establish on our soil the permanent manufacture of a number of wares, some of minor, others of major importance. The return of peace will see them well rooted and able to withstand foreign competition.

"The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce points to the course of events that followed the cutting off by war of the aniline imports from Germany and the suply of potash from the same source, with the resulting tremendous impulse given to the expansion of domestic manufacture. It also calls attention to the fact that, side by side, with the increased production of artifical colors, has come the realization by dyers of textiles that the possibilities of the natural dyestuffs have been sadly neglected during the past few decades.

Vegetable Dyes Coming Back.

"The facility and exactness with which the coal tar colors can be employed, the endless diversity of tints and shades readily secured by their aid, have led the modern generation of dyers to disregard in great measure, tohse time-honored vegetable dyes for centuries the only available cource of color, which still give their charm and value to the choice products of Oriceental looms. The present "dyestuff famine"" has brought them again into prominence. Not so easily applied as the aniline dyes, they still have their especial merits. As a result the American works engaged in the preparation of extracts from the yellow oak of the Alleghanies, from the logwood of Jamaica, from the redwood of Brazil, from the cutch of India, are providing in enormous amounts the substitutes of the more brilliant, but often more fugitive, hues of the coal-tar products.

"In the future, natural dyestuffs will occupy a more important position in the textile world, and a more ample recognition will be accorded to the highly perfected processes of recent years, ensuing their fastness upon the animal and vegetable fibers. At the same time, we can look forward with confidence to the evolution of a genuine American coal-tar color industry.

"Of the domestic potash supply it is stated that large amounts of the compounds of this element are present in the vast beds of kelp floating on the waves of the Pacific, close to the western littoral of the country, that each year the waters of the Pacific coast are producing a crop in which potash salts possessing a normal value of more than $90,000,000 are readily available for use in agriculture and the arts. Now a dozen companies are engaged in the campaign. Not only the inexhaustible supplies in the waters of the Pacific, but also the remarkable deposits in the arid waste about Searles Lake in California, and the valuable alunite of Utah are being rapidly transformed into standard, commercial grades. A year or two hence we may be able to fertilize our broad acres with American potash exclusively, while another year of two may see us free from dependence upon dyes of foreign make.

Opportunity Looms Large.

"The Bureau advises the business men of the United States that the present time is opportune for them to study the Latin American markets, to get in touch with the people of the countries, and thus to open the way for extensive business operations. In other countries also there are unprecedented opportunities for the extension of foreign trade, and with the indications that we are entering upon a period as a creditor nation, we are in a position, as never before, to invest our capital in industries and developments in foreign countries.

"It does not believe that the cost of production in the warring countries of Europe will be lowered as a result of the war, or that there will be danger from that source to the holding of new markets already gained. Experience has shown that it is apt to be higher instead of lower after the close of the war, with higher interests rates, higher wages, and higher prices in the warring countries. Surveying the whole field, it may be said that the world's conflict has been of unmeasured value to American industry as a whole."

At The Theaters

The Gem.

Francis X. Bushman is playing a return date in "Graustark" a five part Essanay special in which Beverly Bayne is featured with him as the princess of Graustark.

The Empress.

A style show with motion pictures will be put on at the Empress today in connection with the Paramount feature, "Gambler's Advocate" in which Hazel Dawn is featured.

The story relates the experiences of Stephen Gambier, a young attorney who recovers from an accident in the home of an acquaintance, is detected in a compromising situation with the young wife of his elderly host by the wild eyed husband who rushes forward to exact his revenge. It is then that Clarissa, the daughter of the family, who loves her stepmother more than her father's honor, tenders herself as a sacrifice to Gambier for the sake of appearances. A mock engagement ensues between Clarissa and Gambier, and it is while this is in force that he finds himself under suspicion of having murdered one of his clients. It is due to Clarissa's devotion and courage that matters are straightened out favorably to all. Clarissa is a human and exceptionally resourceful young woman, who when the test comes responds nobly and proves equal to every demand made upon her. In this characterization Miss Dawn has brought forth all the sterling qualities that contributed so largely to her past successes, with the added charm that comes of a greater familiarity with screen methods. Her portrayal is conducted with a naturalness that is almost amazing.

The Majestic.

Today's program features "The Diamond From The Sky" chapter six. Tomorrow Vivian Martin will be featured in "Little Miss Brown." This picture is one of a series of Thursday features arranged for by the management, the pictures to be released by the World Film Corporation. . . . . .

The Lamar Airdome.

The feature picture showing tonight at the Airdome is a multiple reel Big U "Out of the Flames" with Adele Lane and Walter Belasco in the leads.

Since the holocaust, the Triangle Fire, horrified New York many precautions have been taken to prevent another such wholesale loss of life. Little consideration is given sweatshop proprietors who house their employees in unhealthy fire traps. In other large cities in the United States however, there are rookeries which should have been torn down years ago, housing hundreds of girls daily.

Only a terrible loss of life, only the spectacle of girls leaping to their deaths in the stony street, only the sight of hundreds of charred bodies in the city morgue will bring a city to a realization of the peril which its girls risk daily. A lighted cigarette butt, an unextinguished match, spontaneous combustion among oily waste cloths and rags—any one of these can start a blaze at any time which may end with the loss of hundreds of lives.

"Out of the Flames," a Big U two-reel modern drama written by F. McGrew Willis and produced by Burton King, brings home this lesson with a vigor and a moral which none can miss.

Fire protection is the greatest crying need in the United States today. The story told by "Out of the Flames" illustrates this point in a thrilling way.

WICHITA COUNTY MEDICOS HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

The monthly session of the Wichita County Medical Society was held Tuesday night at the city hall, with a number of local and visiting physicians in attendance. Papers were read by Dr. Wade H. Walker, who discussed the results of about 50 appendicitis operations, by Dr. Mike Walker, whose surgery had to do with abdominal surgery and Dr. J. D. Russell of Petrolia, who conducted a brief clinic on an interesting case from Petrolia. Physicians present were J. E. Daniel, J. C. A. Guest, S. H. Burnside, L. F. Stripling, Duane Meredith, M. A. Beckman, Q. B. Lee, W. H. Walker, Mike Walker, and L. Mackechney of this city, S. H. Ogden and A. D. Patillo of Electra, D. Boling of Charlie and J. D. Russell of Petrolia.

GERMANS DISCLAIM SINKING OF THE HESPERIAN

By Associated Press.

Berlin, September 15.—The German government, in a note from the foreign office to Ambassador Gerard, delivered at noon today, made a qualified disclaimer of responsibility for the sinking of the steamship Hesperian. On the face of the evidence thus far at hand, the government is satisfied that the Hesperian was not sunk by a German submarine.

The communication is preliminary note which may be supplemented when all facts included in Hesperian incident are established definitely. The German government states that on the basis of the information thus far obtained, the theory that the Hesperian was sunk by a German submarine apparently may be abandoned absolutely.

It is said official records show no submarine should have been in the territory of the Hesperian at the time she was blown up. Furthermore, the point is made that the violence of the explosion and the place in which the steamship was struck, as set forth in the accounts of the disaster, indicate that it was due to a mine.

The report does not profess to be final, but is based on evidence so convincing to the government that it feels safe in asserting the Hesperian could not possibly have been attacked by a German submarine.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR

YOU HAVE READ THE SPECIFICATIONS BEFORE, BUT YOU CAN WELL AFFORD TO READ THEM AGAIN AS A REMINDER OF HOW FINE THE CAR REALLY IS.

One-man top; jiffy curtains; real leather upholstery; deep, soft tufting of natural curled hair; stream line steel body; oval moulded fenders; 30-35 h. p. bloc motor with removable head; full floating rear axle; Timken bearings throughout; imported Swiss ball bearings in clutch and transmission; waterproof "Eisman" magneto; 12-volt Northeast motor generator for starting and lighting; self-lubricating chrome vanadium steel springs; drop forgings and drawn work instead of castings.

WEIGHT OF CAR 2,200 POUNDS. THE WHEELBASE IS 110 INCHES.

THERE IS NO EQUIPMENT OR CONVENIENCES ON THIS CAR TO EXCITE A TEMPORARY INTEREST, BUT THE CAR POSSESES ALL THE USEFUL, PRACTICAL CONVENIENCES AND EQUIPMENT.

The specifications indicate why the car is so splendidly responsive, so swift in getting into action, so comfortable, so silent, so steady, and they are also worthy of being carefully studied because they evidence how high was the standard the manufacturers set for themselves.

EVERY STANDARD OF ACCURACY OR EXCELLENCY WHICH ENTERS INTO THE CONSTRUCTION OF THIS CAR IS ESTABLISHED BY THE TWO OWNERS OF THIS BUSINESS.

The manufacture of every part must conform to guages and measurements determined by them. They fix the formulas in melting, shaping, and forging the steel, iron and brass. From the handling of the raw materials to the final assembly, every department in the organization is directly responsible to Dodge Brothers themselves.

THE PRICE OF THE CAR IS $850.00 F. O. B. WICHITA FALLS, COMPLETELY EQUIPPED OR $785.00 F. O. B. DETROIT.

The gas consumption is unusually low. The tire expense on the car is very low. The small amount of cylinded oil used by the car is an item worth considering.

HUNGER STRIKE WINS FOR DALLAS COUNTY PRISONERS

Dallas, September 15.—What is believede to be an unusual case of voluntary abstinence from food has just occured at the Dallas County jail. A man who was released from the jail on order of County Judge Quentin D. Corley this morning did not eat a morsel of food during the entire time he was in jail. He was placed there on August 29. Food was offered him but he refused all efforts to get him to eat.

No hope is expressed for his recovery, and he was taken to the home of a brother living near Wilmer.

Not only did he eat no food while in the county jail for the period of sixteen full days, but in that time the only water consumed was a mouthful or two a day.

SOCIALISTS DOERS NOT ONLY DREAMERS DECLARES DEBS

ed with for their own good and the good of society.

Mr. Debs charged that low wages for women, in many cases less than six dollars a week, were a direct cause of the white slave traffic. Women did not become a competitor of man in the labor field until it was learned that she could operate a machine as deftly as a man, and in the same manner, he said, the child became a competitor of the adult.

"The most competent workman in Wichita Falls isn't sure he'll have a job next week. They may invent a machine to do his work or he may become a Socialist and offend his boss and be discharged."

There was no reason why a tool that was socially made and socially used could not be socially owned, said Mr. Debs. He asked for some reason why a man who operated a machine to the profit of others could not operate it or should not operate it for a just share of the profit it made. Mr. Debs said labor was coming into its own and he drew a pretty word picture of what was in store "when the giant labor is fully awake."

Dreamers and Doers.

"Are we dreamers?" he said, "are we visionaries? You'll find we are also doers. It has been said that a nation's dreams come true and this nation is dreaming of a time when skyward-mounting fortunes on one side and poverty on the other shall not exist. That condition must be abolished, not only in the interest of the working class, but in the higher interest of all humanity."

All modern forces are working toward Socialism, said Mr. Debs.

"Every time a big capitalist squeezes out a bunch of little capitalists, Socialism gets a new bunch of recruits," said Mr. Debs. He said capitalists were converting lots of folks to Socialism by hitting their pocketbooks where Socialists would never have converted them by appealing to their intelligence. It was this system he said, that made 300,000 tenant farmers in Texas, and that is why, he declared, Socialism is growing so rapidly in this state.

Mentions Rockefeller.

So far as the workingman is concerned, said Mr. Debs, there's no difference between the Republican and Democratic parties. Both stood for the private ownership system that gave Rockefeller an income of $5,000,000 a year.

"Rockefeller is afraid Socialism will hurt religion," said Mr. Debs' "he's afraid you won't get to heaven—soon enough."

He referred to what he termed the "parasites of modern society," and indulged in some amusing remarks about the "400."

"They don't vote your ticket," said Mr. Debs, "but you vote theirs."

He said every member of the United States supreme court was placed in office by a trust, and this court had set aside laws that were passed by the people's representatives.

"Socialism proposes to transfer this nation's industries to the people.. Why should not the people collectively own what they must use collectively"

Case of the Highways.

He said that public roads were once privately owned in this country and toll collected, until some 'visionary' saw the folly of this system and put a stop to it.

"We own and use the highways without the iron rails," he said, "why shouldn't we own and use it after the iron rails are laid?"

The speaker told how Rockefeller controlled the nation's mineral wealth which was worked by men who had to live in homes "where Rockefeller wouldn't kill his dog."

He described the conditions under which the miners worked and lived and said that when they dared to protest, hired gunmen in the garb of the state militia to shoot them down.

"There you have Mr. Rockefeller teacher of a Sunday school, in New York, in action. That's capitalism." Mr. Debs urged his hearers to read the full story of the incidents at Ludlow.

Christ was an exponent of Socialism, according to the needs and conditions of His day, said Mr. Debs, and he likened Christ's methods to those of Socialism today.

Hickeys of the Revolution.

He showed how Jefferson and Patrick Henry and Washington were all villified by those they opposed.

"These men were rebels," he said, "they were the Tom Hickeys of their day."

He said that while capital was centralized, labor was organizing and that when capital got through centralizing, labor would be through organizing. Mr. Debs spoke of his party's growth in in Oklahoma and said he believed there would be fifty Socialists in the next Oklahoma Legislature.

"Are you a Republican because your father was? Everything has changed since grand father's time except his grand son," said Mr. Debs, "you've stuck together and been locked out together, and shot at by the militia together, and the time is coming when you'll have to vote together."

An eloquent plea for woman's suffrage was voiced by Mr. Debs, who said there was no danger of politics degrading them any worse than it had degraded some men. He also expressed the emphatic opposition of Socialism to child labor. He outlined the proposal of Socialism to operate industries, the mines and the railroads for the public benefit on a cooperative basis.

Capitalism Cause of War.

Mr. Debs said the war in Europe was due to international capitalism, and was a struggle for commercial conquest. Every man in this country might be a soldier, he said, for the benefit of the capitalists who stayed at home.

"They talk about patriotism and dying for your country," he said. "How can you die for your country when you have no country. Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Morgan own this country, let them fight for it."

He painted some gruesome pictures of war conditions, and said Socialism was working to a time when men would not be sacrificed to commercial ends. Mr. Debs eloquently sketched conditions that would exist under Socialism and said that if any called it a dream, to remind that every good thing that had come to the world had first been someone's dream.

PROSPECTS FOR LONG RUN AHEAD AT JAR FACTORY

After one of the biggest seasons ever known by this branch of Ball Brothers fruit jar industry, the prospects are excellent for twelve more months of steady running, according to T. B. Smock, manager of the factory here. At the opening of the shipping season the warehouses were full of jars. They were emptied early in the season and shipments since have kept up with production which has been at the maximum capacity of the plant.

150 NOW MARK SET FOR GOLF AND COUNTRY CLUB

The 100 members of the golf and country club which were desired to make the organization a certainty have been secured, and 150 is now the mark set by the committee. A total of 99 had signed up at noon and early this afternoon the number was put past the century mark. The committee will continue at work in an endeavor to have 150 Wichitans signed up by the time the next meeting is held on next Monday night. It is believed that this number will be secured, as practically all of those approached on the subject have accepted the invitation to become members.

SOUTH CAROLINA VOTES FOR STATEWIDE PROHIBITION

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 15.—South Carolina adopted statewide prohibition, to take effect January 1 next, in place of the present local option system, according to unofficial returns here late last night from throughout the state. The vote, with almost complete returns from a majority of the forty-four counties, stood 33,104 for prohibition to 14,157 against. It was declared by those who have followed the referendum election that the total vote would not exceed 60,000.

Of the thirty counties which were dry under the local option system, all were declared to have voted for prohibition. Only one of the dispensary operating counties was known to have cast the majority of its votes

NO MORE HORSE DRAWN EQUIPMENT TO BE USED

City Sells Team Used to Pull Hose Wagon and Will Buy Motor Equipment

No more horse drawn equipment will be used by the city for the fire department hereafter. Today Tom and George, the handsome bays which have pulled the hose wagon to countless fires in the past seven years, were sold and as soon as practicable the city will purchase an automobile ladder truck.

Since the two auto fire engines were bought, the horse drawn wagon has been useless for all except the downtown fires, as the fire would be out by the time the horses got there if it was any distance from the station. The result was that the horses were an almost useless expense to the city.

With the purchase of the new equipment, the city will have an all motor department, two engines and a ladder truck.

REGISTRATION OF AUTOS IS PROCEEDING SLOWLY

A total of 365 automobiles, nineteen motorcycles and 220 bicycles have been registered, under the new traffic ordinance, with Tax Collector Robertson. While there are still many automobiles that do not bear the "C" it is thought the owners will avoid the five dollar fine by obtaining the license shortly.

Quite a few cars still carry their numbers on the front end, which is [illegible] of the ordinance, there being a provision that numbers must be placed on the rear end.

Only two arrests for driving past standing street cars were made up to noon today, but the special officer will be kept on duty until the autoists seem thoroughly able to distinguish between the "blind" side, on which they are permitted to pass at a distance of seven feet and the open side, on which passengers are discharged; this distinction, though several times explained, does not yet seem clear, but following the rule set forth in The Times of Tuesday, not to pass a street car when it is headed in the same direction as the automobile, seems to have helped some.

WINDOW GLASS PLANT RESUMES OPERATIONS

After being closed down for several months, the window glass plant resumed operations this morning. The fires were lighted in the furnace several weeks ago.

It is stated that while the glass market is still in an unsatisfactory shape, conditions are better than they have been recently. The local plant closed down to make repairs and changes in the plant and also to await some improvement in market conditions.

Wichita Falls, Texas, Sept. 15, 1915.

The captain of the American liner New York reports that on his last voyage eastward a submarine made its appearance within torpedoing distance but made no attempt to attack his vessel, and he attributes this to the fact that his vessel was flying the American flag.

Those who are fearful of trouble with Germany growing out of the fact that the United States has requested of Austria to recall Ambassador Dumba, should remember that this is by no means the first time the United States has made such a request or demand, and in each and every instance the demands have been complied with and no trouble resulted. In the past three British Ministers, two French Ministers, two Spanish Ministers and one Turkish Ambassador have been recalled at the request of this country because they were objectionable.

Eugene V. Debs, three times candidate of the Socialist party for president of the United States, delivered his lecture on Socialism in this city last night to a moderately large and appreciative audience. He is a most pleasant gentleman to meet, and a most interesting and eloquent lecturer. Even those who do not share with him his views on how this great government of our should be conducted, will concede that much.

The Texas legislature appropriated one million dollars extra for the public schools of the State—one-half of which is available this year, and the other half next year, if we understand the proposition correctly, and then went right ahead and fixed things up in such a mess as to cut the per capita allowance for all school children within the scholastic age in Texas from $8 to $6. There are 1,130,000 school children, and $2 per capita means there will be $2,260,000 less with which to conduct the public schools of this State this year, than there was last year. But this is a business administration, and in order to meet the expenses of a business administration it has been necessary to raise the State tax rate to 55 cents on the $100 valuation. Members of the legislature are now attempting to defend the action of that body by charging that the governor could, and by all means, should have cut out, blue-penciled or vetoed about two million of the appropriations rec.....nded or made by that body, and for the most part that two million dollars, taken from the Texas school children will go toward paying the salaries and expense accounts of state officials appointed to fill the offices created by the legislature from which the people of the State get little or no benefit. These business administrations come high, but it appears we must have 'em.

Senator Tillman of South Carolina, according to our way of thinking has the right idea in regard to appropriating money for the purpose of strengthening both the army and navy. Because other nations are at war with each other, and some of them have rushed into the great conflict without being prepared to meet the enemy is no good reason why the United States should make the same mistake. Speaking of this matter, Senator Tillman says:

"I take no stock in this talk about an appropriation of $500,000,000 for the army and navy, and I do not believe any other sane member of congress does. I believe there will be increases in the naval appropriations for defensive weapons of warfare. There is no real demand where I have been for an extravagant expenditure of money on a navy and army just because a lot of foreign nations are in a bloody war."

WANTS HIM EDUCATED.

The Shelbina Torchlight prints a note received by a public schools teacher there:

"Dear Miss: You rite me about whipping Sammy. I hereby give you permission to beat him up at any time it is necessary to learn his lesson. MISSING THE MARK.

(San Antonio Light)

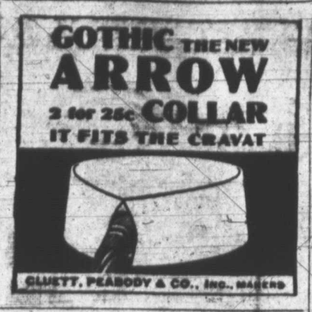

Judge Waller T. Burns' concession to the jurors in the Corpus Christi election case, whereby they may read newspapers during the progress of the trial, is testimony to the stringency of the Texas libel laws rather than a tribute to the news writers who are reporting the proceedings. If Judge Burns had desired merely to pay a compliment to reporters on duty in the court room, he could have done so by simply calling attention to their presence there. Not that allegations of fraud hold a particular attraction for the intelligent and are repulsive to the unintelligent, but that the libel laws of the state are so outrageous that newspapers must per force send their most level headed men to report such cases.

Judge Burns well knows that the news gatherers will report for publication nothing that is not a matter of court record. He may or may not have been conscious of the restrictions which the law has placed upon them, at the moment of his announcement that the usual practice of denying jurors the privilege of reading newspapers would not be adhered to in this case, because the reporters appeared to be intelligent. But that point is irrelevant. The incident served to call attention anew to a condition which oftentimes—and perchance in this case—retards justice and which sometimes circumvents it altogether.

If the Texas libel laws were not so unreasonable, election frauds and various other species of graft, would be revealed long before they are brought to the notice of the "proper authorities" through official avenues. The newspapers are thus prevented from exercising one of their most valuabel functions—that of effecting reform in public affairs. Moreover, immunity from publicity is often an inducement to the wrong doer. He will take greater chances and go to greater lengths, becaues he knows the danger of exposure is minimized. So far as the prevention of wrong doing in specific cases is concerned, the position of Texas newspapers is somewhat like that of the man who locked his stable door after his horse had been stolen.

If irregularities occurred in Nueces county during the last general election, the newspapers, had they been unshackled, would have occupied a most advantageous position to frustrate the unlawful conspiracies. But the Texas libel laws were not drafted in accordance with the axiom that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. They appear to have been formulated on the theory that it is better to let the law pursue the even tenor of its way, even if such a course does invite outrages against social integrity. Dignity and decorum are fine qualities, but they sometimes prove costly.

The intended function of the libel law, primarily, was to safeguard the people from unmerited injury through the medium of publicity. Their actual effect has been the opposite. Instead of protecting the people against malicious publicity, they have exposed the people to political exploitation by shielding unscrupulous individuals and combinations.

NO FOREIGNERS IN THE AMERICAN NAVY TODAY

All Are American Citizens and All Speak English—Better Conditions in Navy.

There are no foreigners in the American navy today. At least all members are naturalized citizens, and there are no moer applications admited on the first intention papers.

The reason for the anxiousness of the American boy to become a member of the navy, where once only the scouring of the earth was present, was explained by the recruiting officer.

Today any able-bodied boy between 17 and 20 years of age who is in active service can take an entrance examination to the United States Naval Academy. This was impossible in former days.

The new system in vogue in the navy today is a change from the old apprentice to the apprentice seaman. The former plan was to enlist anyone, mere boys, in fact, at the early ages of 13 and 14 years. A person who had only signified his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States was admitted. They were put through the most difficult ordeals and as a consequence when their time expired they were willing to leave the navy forever.

During the last ten years trade schools have been organized and a member of the navy who signifies his desire to take training in one of these schools is given the opportunity. Some of the schools to which the boys are sent are the Newport, R. I. school, where the students learn to be nurses. The clerical force of the navy is also trained there. The men are alowed to attend these schools after two years in the navy. At Norfolk, Va., there is a school for training along military lines. Mechanics, plumbers, ship fitters, carpenters, blacksmiths and coppersmiths are also trained at this school.

Pay clerks who get a yearly salary of from $1500 to $2400, are trained in the navy schools. These men are promoted to the ranks of paymasters later with a salary of from $1800 to $5000 annually. Formerly the paymasters were appointive positions, the men obtaining the positions through political influence instead of working up the scale.

Any warant officer in the American navy today under 35 years eligible to an examination for commissioned officer can reach the rank of rear admiral.

Every ship in the navy has schools on board, and compulsory education reigns supreme. There are no more ignorant sailors, nor is there a man in the American navy who speaks broken English. The Japanese are a thing of the past. Naturalized Americans have supplanted them.

The only "hesitation" in the navy today is the hesitation waltz which is done by the sailors at off hours. Every ship is equipped with electric pianos, and the dancing, even though it be for men only, is a great recreation for the sailor boys during leisure hours.

Equipment for all lines of sport is furnished by the Government and the use of the equipment is emphasized and encouraged by those in command.

TWO MILLION DOLLAR ESTATE TO BE HELD IN TRUST

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Reports of heavy hedging sales at Minneapolis gave wheat here a material setback today. The close was steady, three-fourths to one and one-half to one and five-eighths net lower, with September at 100½ and December at 94 to 94 1-8. Corn sympathized to some extent with the break in wheat values. The close unsettled at a shade to one-fourth above last night. Oats were only strengthened a little by wet weather. Trade was light. Close: Wheat, Sept. 100½; Dec. 94; May 97 5-8. Corn, Sept. 71 3-8; Dec. 56 7-8; May 58. Oats, Sept. 36½; Dec. 36; May 38½.

New York Cotton Futures.

New York, Sept. 15.—The cotton market showed continued activity and strength early today on the firmness of the Liverpool report that the boll weevil had spread to 21 counties in Georgia and the advances reported in southern spot markets. After selling 14 to 15 points net higher or up to 10.70 for October and 12.24 for January the market reacted 8 or 9 points in anticipation of a bearish weekly weather report which when published indicated a general favorable week for the crop. Cotton closed firm. October 10.87; December 11.20; January 11.37; March 11.65; May 11.93.

Fort Worth Cattle.

Fort Worth, Sept. 15.—Cattle receipts 3500, market brisk, no change. Beeves $6 to $7. Hogs 2500, ten cents higher; heavies $7.65 to $7.77. Sheep 500, unchanged; lambs $7 to $8.

The Cream of the Olive Crop!

I can sell you a 34 ounce jar of hand packed select queen olives for 50c.

So far as I know there is nothing better to be had and at that this price is very reasonable for the jar holds a lot of olives.

They are big ones too.

Especially nice for company affairs. Have other sizes and prices.

FEELS LIKE A NEW PERSON, SAYS COUCH

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 13.—"I suffered," stated Mr. E. Couch, who lives at Bryan and Peak streets, Dallas, "from indigestion and constipation and was greatly trouble by the formation of gas on my stomach after eating. A dull headache inconvenienced me and at times the pain was fearful. I had a tight feeling in the pit of my stomach almost continually and almost everything I ate disagreed with me. Friends who knew my condition recommended Tanlac to me, and it was a happy day for me when I took their advice and secured a bottle.

"After taking the first few doses I noticed a decided improvement. My indigestion pains disappeared, gas no longer formed on my stomach and I felt a decided cessation of the headache.

"I now feel like a new person," said he, "and eat more than any one in the house and just think of it, I have only taken one bottle of Tanlac. I never got so much for my money before. I unhesitatingly recommend it to those suffering as I was, for it has benefitted me beyond explanation. I have lived in Dallas for two years and shall be glad to have you refer anyone to me in connection with Tanlac."

Tanlac will continue to be explained at the Palace Drug Store.—Advt.

WIDOW OF BECKER GOES BACK TO SCHOOLROOM.

New York, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Helen Lynch Becker Monday resumed her work as a teacher in public school No. 90, with the reopening of the school term. In her apartments Sunday Mrs. Becker said:

"I shall take up my school work tomorrow. I visited the school last Friday and attended to some little matters incidental to beginning the new year's work."

Mrs. Becker, whose husband was put to death July 30th at Sing Sing for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, denied that she had ever threatened to expose the inside workings of the prosecution against her husband.

"I never made such a statement," she said, "and my only wish now is be left alone."

OUR CONTROVERSY WITH BRITAIN

"YOU DID IT YOURSELF" SAYS JOHN BULL TO UNCLE SAM ANSWERING PROTEST.

CIVIL WAR BLOCKADE CITED

American Government Contending for Right of Trade in Non-Contraband With Neutral Ports.

Summarizing various press reports and diplomatic exchanges in its September number, Current Opinion gives the following account of our differences with Great Britain in the matter of contraband and noncontraband cargoes:

"Neutrals," said Sir Edward Carson, attorney general of Great Britain, recently, "are the executive power to compel observance of the principles of international law, and if they fail to do so the result must be disastrous to the world at large, in the present and in the future, and give free play to a savagery and barbarism which is none the less revolting because it carries out its methods by the aid of the discoveries of scientific research and progress."

Sir Edward had his eye on the Lusitania doubtless when he said that, but it expresses the point of view taken by the American press of our issue with Great Britain as well as that with Germany.

Not Merely Dollars and Cents.

Our own conception of that issue is that in the case of both countries we have become the chief custodians of international law and the rights of neutral nations. The British press persists in regarding our contention as one for material interest and that alone.

To the neutral, says the London Daily News, a continuance of the blockade on the present lines involves a detriment that is merely financial, and even so, not considerable. Americans will not, says the London Morning Post, we are sure, in this great crisis allow material considerations of passing magnitude to individuals but no more than a grain of sand in the scale of civilisation to imperil the world's future.

With this British view of the issue as a merely material issue, expressible in dollars and cents, the American press is entirely at outs. "The matter is not simply one of maintaining the rights of one neutral," as the Indianapolis News puts it, "but of standing by the law that protects the rights of all neutrals, not only in this war but in any wars that may follow."

In other words, just as Germany feels that she is fighting for kultur and England feels that her fight is for civilization, so America feels that she is called on to uphold the rights of neutral nations that have been established by centuries of struggle. One of those rights is the freedom of the seas for neutral ships and neutral cargoes subject to only two kinds of restrictions—those that pertain to contraband and those that pertain to blockade.

Our clash with Germany grows out of the restrictions that she claims the right to impose upon contraband and the ships that carry it. Our clash with Great Britain grows out of the restrictions that she assumes to impose in the name of a blockade. While the acts of one nation have resulted in the loss of American lives as well as American property, and the acts of the other have resulted in the loss of American property alone, both nations are regarded by our government as alike violators of international law.

The New York Evening Sun, however, discerns a difference which it considers important. It says:

The difference between his (Sir Edward Grey's) position and the German is that he only argues that the details of application of international law are subject to change, while the principles remain immutable, while in fact if not in words the Germans assume to sweep all principles however fundamental aside and to place themselves above all law.

Sir Edward Grey contends that the methods so far used by England are justified by international law as established in regard to blockades. "The one principle," he holds, "which is fundamental and has obtained universal recognition is that, by means of blockade, a belligerent is entitled to cut off the sea borne commerce of his enemy."

Now it so happens that German commerce can pass as conveniently through neutral ports as through its own. Rotterdam is indeed the nearest outlet for some of the industrial districts of Germany. A blockade limited to German ports would therefore leave open routes by which its commerce could pass almost as easily as through its own ports. To render such a blockade effective, then, commerce must be intercepted on the way to or from such ports. This, Sir Edward maintains, may be done lawfully provided it is established that such commerce is really German commerce and not destined to or proceeding from the neutral state.

If it be recognized (he says) that the blockade is in certain cases the appropriate method of intercepting the trade of an enemy country, and if the blockade can only become effective by extending it to enemy commerce passing through neutral ports, such an extension is defensible and in accordance with principles which have met with general acceptance.

The "Continuous Voyage."

This is the nub of the British case. To sustain it Sir Edward refers ot the action taken by this government at the time of our Civil War, when a blockade was declared against the Confederate ports and cargoes were intercepted on their way to neutral ports in West Indies from which they were to be reshipped to Confederate ports. The case of the Springbok is cited. Our course in intercepting her on her way to Nassau was, we are reminded, condemned by leading international lawyers of all nations in "unmeasured terms" but the British government took a broader view and abstained from all protest when the United Sates supreme court upheld the action of our navy. Old principles relating to contraband and blockade were then developed by us to meet special difficulties and the doctrine of continuous voyage was applied, "under which goods destined for the enemy territory were intercepted before they reached the neutral ports from which they were to be re-exported."

There can be no doubt that Sir Edward's note has made a strong impression on a number of American papers. The New York Press, for example, asserts flat footedly that Great Britain is right and that the allies "have the goods on us" and are not going to surrender rights which they once yielded to us.

But such concessions to the British contention are made by a very limited number of journals. Most of the editorial writers attempt to show that the cases in our Civil War are so different as not to constitute a precdent.

The Springbok and Peterhoff.

The two most important cases in this controversy with Great Briain are those of the Springbok and the Peterhoff. Both were British ships sailing from London, the former for Nassau, Bermuda, the latter for Matamoras, a Mexican port on the Rio Grande. The Springbok was captured by an American warship; the Sonoma, taken to a prize court in New York, and her entire cargo condemned. Only 1 per cent of this cargo—$3,500 out of $350,000—consisted of contraband, but the rest of it also was condemned as being obviously destined for one of the blockaded Confederate ports. The court held that "contraband or not could not be condemned if really destined for Nassau, and not beyond, and contraband or not must be condemned if destined to any rebel port, for all rebel ports were under blockade."

The same doctrine was laid down in the case of the Bermuda (another British ship that sailed for Nassau from Liverpool) by our supreme court in the following words:

It makes no difference whether the destination to the rebel port was ulterior or direct; nor could the question of destination be affected by transshipment at Nassau, if transshipment were intended, for that could not break the continuity of transportation of the cargo.

In both cases, it will be noted the cargo was on the way to a blockaded port through a neutral port. In the case of the Peterhoff there was a difference. Its cargo was destined for Brownsville (not a blockade port) through Matamoras The court held in this case that while the contraband cargo could be condemned the noncontraband cargo could not be, as no blockade existed against the port to which it was destined. Accordingly the noncontraband part of the cargo was bought and paid for. Our supreme court sustained this action, saying:

Such trade with unrestricted inland commerce between such port and the enemy's territory impairs undoubtedly, and very seriously impairs, the value of the blockade of the enemy's coast. But in cases such as that now in judgment we administer the public law of nations and are not at liberty to inquire what is for the particular advantage or disadvantage of our own or any other country.

This Peterhoff case is held to more than counterbalance the Springbok and Bermuda cases, inasmuch as the cargoes destined for Germany by way of Rotterdam or Copbenaben are like the cargo of the Peterhoff, going to nonblockaded ports.

What we are contending for is not the right to send contraband to Germany by way of neutral ports nor the right to send noncontraband to blockaded ports. It is the right to send noncontraband to neutral ports and to receive noncontraband shipped from neutral ports. It is estimated that 150 million dollars worth of cargo destined for America are held up in Holland. Our claim as stated in our note of March 30 is that innocent shipments may be freely transported to and from the United States through neutral countries to belligerent territory without being subject ot the penalties of contraband traffic or breach of blockade, much less to detention, requisition or confiscation.

This contention is supported by a writer in the London Quarterly Review, Dr. John P. Bate, an Oxford authority on international law. He writes that the claim of the British that they may seize innocent neutral owned goods in a neutral ship trading between neutral ports if the goods be of enemy origin is "an almost unheard of claim." The British, says the New York Evening Post, "wish to have their cake and eat it too." They are unwilling to assume the risks of a close blockade while desiring all the benefits that come from such a blockade.

GRAND JURY RECONVENED TO INVESTIGATE KILLING

Judge Nicholson in 30th District Court Will Reconvene Grand Jury Wednesday Morning.

The grand jury which was empanelled for the 30th district court last June has been recalled by Judge Nicholson of the 78th district court, to meet tomorrow morning. There are several cases awaiting grand jury attention, but it is known that the shooting Monday night, in which the young woman, Lorene Shaw met death, is the particular case for reconvening the inquisitorial body ot this time.

The order was entered by Judge Nicholson this morning following a conference with Assistant County Attorney John Davenport. The act of the legislature creating the 78th district court gave it authority to either empanel a new grand jury or to reconvene the last grand jury, whenever deemed necessary by the judge.

E. P. Scott, father of the slayer, O. P. Scott, arrived this afternoon and went at once to the jail to see his son.

In addition to the Scott case there are several others which have come up within the past few days upon which the grand jury will be asked to take action.

ELEVEN "T" MEN ON HAND IN INITIAL PRACTICE

Much Promising New Material Also on Hand at University of Texas Athletic Grounds.

Special to The Times.

University of Texas, Sept. 15.—Thirty-five husky candidates for the 1915 Longhorn football team had reported to Coach Allerdice by 9 o'clock Monday morning. The main feature of the squad lies in the fact that there are eleven "T" men—a larger number of old men than have been reported from any opposing team upon the 1915 schedule. The "T" men on hand follow: Berry (captain), Carleton, Birge, Goodman, Edmond, Turner, Littlefield, Dittmar, R. Simmons, P. Simmons. Walker is not here this morning, but will arrive Tuesday afternoon.

Scrubs of last year reporting Monday morning are: G. Johnson, Secor, Blaine, Trabue, Goodfrey, Hart, Simpson, Maud, Fred Moore, Ogden and Leachman.

Among the promising brand new materials are the following candidates, already on the ground:

J. H. Baldwin, a lineman from Honey Grove, too light, however, for the Varsity line, but promising back-field material; Lee Sens, of Cameron, who won the individual point medal in the Interscholastic League last season; and Tolbert Childress, also from Cameron, who showed up well as quarter-back of the Cameron high school team last year.

Duncan, who was here but ineligible last season, having played the year before on the University of Virginia team, is on hand. Rogers is a new man coming from the Wentworth Military academy where he played two years as center and half-back on the academy team.

Other prep school stars in evidence Monday morning follow: Freeman' last year's captain of the Tome (Maryland) Preparatory School; Spitz Clark, the plucky half-back and mainstay of the Austin high school team of last season; and Albert Penn, who played center last year on the same team.

Athletic Director Bellmont emphasizes the fact that freshmen are eligible this year, the rule disqualifying freshmen not going into effect until January 1, 1916. Furthermore, freshmen entering this fall are eligible for four years, since the three-year rule does not become effective until the above mentioned date.

22 RIGS STARTED OIL FIELDS HERE

YESTERDAY'S FURTHER ADVANCE IN OIL PRICES EXPECTED TO START STILL MORE RIGS.

DRILLERS ARE COMING BACK

Local Oil Men eBlieve Another Five-Cent Advance Is Due to Maintain Differential.

With twenty-two rigs started within the past few weeks, the additional five cent raise which was announced Monday is expected to result in still more new development work in Northwest Texas. Already a considerable number of the drillers and workmen who left here when work became slack have returned, and others are coming.

The price here is now within 25 cents of that paid at the high water mark in the field here, and has advanced a total of 35 cents since early in August. Local oil men still feel, however, that the five-cent difference in favor of Northwest Texas over Oklahoma should be maintained on account of the superior grade of oil produced here. At present eighty cents is being paid in both fields, although the price in Northwest Texas has been five cents higher than the Mid-Continent for several years. No reason for the abandonment of this differential has been advanced.

NEGRO QUARTER SCENE OF A CUTTING AFFRAY

Walter Carrington, Negro, Cut in Back By Another Negro Known as "Old Folks."

Walter Carrington, negro, was stabbed in the back Tuesday night, sustaining a painful but not dangerous wound. Gus Reed, otherwise known as "Old Folks" was arrested following the affair, and was placed in jail. The cutting took place in front of the Last Chance restaurant in the negro quarters of the city.

The cause of the affair has not been ascertained, but it is understood that it followed a quarrel over a woman.

OREGON WAGE LAW HELP TO THE WOMEN WORKERS

Girls and Experienced Women Benefitted But Inexperienced Lose Under Minimum Law.

(Milwaukee Journal.)

Washington—The federal department of labor has been making a study of the workings of the Minimum Wage Law in Oregon. The investigations and observations covered forty department stores and 5 and 10-cent stores for March and April, 1913, compared with the same months in 1914.

These were periods ending five months before and beginning five months after the first minimum wage determinations went into effect. The department of labor report says:

"These stores employed in the selected period before the determinations went into effect 1,930 women, girls and 974 men; and in the period after the determinations went into effect, 1,642 women and girls and 902 men. All records were copied from store books by agents of the bureau. In addition 443 women were personally visited, and a record was obtained, showing their age, experience, place of employment, occupation, rate of pay, earnings and hours of work, before and after the minimum wage determinations.

$1 A Day Is Minimum.

"The first of the Oregon awards fixed a minimum of $1 a day for girls under 18 and took effect October 4, 1913; the second taking effect November 23, 1913, fixed a minimum of $9.25 a week for experienced adult women in Portland; and two taking effect February 7, 1914, fixed a minimum of $8.25 a week for experienced adult women outside of Portland, and $6 a week for inexperienced adult women throughout the state.

"Since the awards came into effect the rates of pay for women as a whole have increased, but the wages of the three groups (girls under 18, adult inexperienced women, and adult experienced) have been differently affected. Girls under 18 were benefitted, the proportion receiving under $6 a week decreasing from 26 per cent before the determinations; the proportion getting $6 a week was 53 per cent before the 79 per cent after the determinations, while the proportion getting more than $6 was practically same both before and after. In the period before the determinations the average rate for the whole group under 18 was $5.98, while afterward it was $6.24.

Inexperiencend Suffer.

"For adult inexperienced women the results were not so favorable. The average rate per week decreased slightly, falling from $6.88 to $6.84. Before the determinations 59 per cent and after the determinations only 50 per cent of this group received more than $6. The old employees did not suffer a reduction of wages, but the place of $28 or a $30 a month girl was filled by a $26 girl.

"For adult experienced women the wage determinations brought an improvement of conditions. There was an increase not only in the proportion receiving $9.25 a week (the legal minimum in Portland) but also in the proportion receiving more than $9.25. The proportion of the force geting $12 and more a week also increased. The average weekly rate of pay for the whole group in Portland was $11.74 before and $11.97 after the determination. Some experienced women in Portland were still receiving rates below the minimum to which determinations entitled them, but the number receiving these lower rates had decreased under the determinations from 344 to 102.

General Result Better.

"Thus the net result seems to be an advance for the women as a whole. There has been no leveling down of wages to a minimum. Whenever the wage rates of old employees have changed since the minimum wage rulings, the employees were benefitted.

"In studing the effect of the fixing of minimum wage rates it should be borne in mind that regardless of minimum wage determinations there are constant changes in business organization from year to year, which have a material bearing upon the opportunities and conditions of employment. In the period considered a general business depression was felt by Portland mercantile establishments which complicated somewhat the problem of determining the effect of the minimum wage. The effect of this depression was to reduce the numbers of employed and this reduction affected men as well as women. The wage determinations have not put men in positions vacated by women. All the changes arising from decreased business, reorganization of departments and increased rates of pay resulted in an increase in the female labor cost and also in the total labor cost of [illegible] per $1 of sales."

Ready the Word; Tomorrow the Day

We Court the Closest Comparison of Styles and Stocks!

We Court the Closest Comparison of Prices and Values!

Suits Are the King of Fashion, but Dresses Are Queen Consort

"WHAT IS THE BIG WORD in Ready-to-Wear?" asked the writer of the garment buyer—the first day home from New York.

"SUITS!" was the unhesitating reply, and Suits it is—if business in the department is any criterion. Another question was then propounded—and was given a one-word answer, whether Suits were to be trimmed or plain. The answer was "FUR."

YES—FUR IS THE KEYNOTE of the new Suits. No garment seems to be complete without it. The collar and cuffs—or perhaps a band at the bottom of the coat—or perchance another band on the bottom of the skirt. There's no limit to the width of these bands of Fur—other than the limit set by the pocketbook.

STYLES ARE FEW—variety is great. Such a statement sounds like a paradox, but it is not. Designers, rather than endeavoring to bring out a multitude of more or less "freakish" styles, have settled down on a few sensible models and devoted their energies to the embellishment of those models. Like the canvas that can be painted with any picture—these models have been taken and under the skilled hand of the artist have been transformed into veritable "pictures" of style and beauty.

PREVAILING COLORS are just four; "Subterranean green," African brown, navy and black. Of course, there are others, but the plainer colors are best.

AND SO WE MIGHT GO ON—filling an entire page, extolling the beauty and charm of the new Suits, and still never convey the same impression that would be gained from one trip of inspection. Why not come tomorrow?

"DRESS UP!"

Raymond Hitchcock made famous that doleful song, "All Dressed Up and No Place to Go." But a still worse condition is going some place—and not being dresed up. Appearances count. Outward apearance is not an infallible but a safe indication of personal circumstances. Hetty Green may care little for dress—but that is an eccentricity. Few of us can afford to be eccentric.

"Dress up" and the world dresses with you;
Go ragged and you go it alone,
For this good old U. S. is the place to dress
And has a prosperity all her own.

SUITS MAY BE KING in Fashion's realm—and like all other kings lord it over all during the day—but at night and on state occasions "Queen Dress" will come into her own.

DRESSES, THOUGH SECOND, perhaps, to Suits in favor are a CLOSE second. For afternoon wear they are greatly favored and for social occasions and evening affairs they are positively indispensible.

THE FAVORITE DRESS for the present—for morning wear and general purpose occasions—is of serge, in combination with satin or taffeta. Both in the solid colors and in the gay plaid effects. They are rapidly making their appearance on the streets right now. Prices are $12.50 all the way to $54.00.

FOR AFTERNOON WEAR the Dresses of Charmeuse and Satin have the call. In fact "shiny" effects are good all through the Dress line. Crepe de Chine, of course, is too strong a favorite to be discarded—and there is an abundance of styles in this material.

PRETTY DINNER DRESSES are conceived of Satins, Georgette Crepes, Chiffons, Velvets, etc., in the most delightful of combinations. Fur is again a motif for trimming. Metal embroidery is also extensively used—and beaded effects in profusion. Some three-piece models are in the collection. Prices range $20.00 to $75.00.

EVENING DRESSES—we shall not attempt to describe, for they are indescribable. There's a wider range of colors than ever before. Flowers are extensively used. Spangles in the most unusual color combinations are a notable feature. Beads share in the glory. Metal Cloths add to the ensemble. Will you look at them?

Luxurious Yet Inexpensive Silk Underwear

KAYSER'S ITALIAN SILK. We are showing a wonderful assortment of Genuine Kayser Separate Vests, Combination Suits, Knickers, Envelope Chemises or Teddy Bears. Made of Venetian Silk with French band tops, Crochet Lace trimmed, Picot Edged, Val. Laces, Silk Laces, etc.

Pussy Willow, Italian Silk and Crepe de Chine Envelope Chemises or Teddy Bears, Camisole, Gowns, Combinations in flesh and white with Picot edge and Ribbon trimmed. Others hemstitched, elaborately trimmed with Shadowy Laces with tiny ribbon roses, sprays, etc. A wide range of prices.

YES READY! Supremely ready to show all that is new and correct in autumn Millinery. The genius of Fashion never designed more beautiful Hats nor Hats of more distinctive charm. Through our Eastern connection We happily secured a representative collection of wonderful Pattern Hats from Paris, created by style masters whose names are inseparably linked with Fashion.

Blouses

The genius of the true artist is manifest in the blouses for fall. They have an individuality and dash that possesses them with real charm.

The favorite materials will again be crepe de chines and Georgette crepes. The soft, drapy effects are most favored; made in all the shades to match the new suits, as well as in white and flesh.

Some of the Georgette crepes are made up very elaborate with satin, lace and gold trimming;

IT IS a figure with curves; not a tight little figure—but shapely. Fashion has gotten away from the corsetless figure, and yet has not gone to the other extreme—the wasp-waist. It has struck a happy medium.

The fashionable woman buys her Corset before she purchases anything else, for Corset models change each season to conform with changes in style of dresses. Tis season tere is a marked change in the bust line, it being a little higher, while there is a slight curve at the waist and the hips are somewhat shorter. This effect gives the fashionable silhouette figure. Many new materials are used this season and it will be interesting to see all the new models. We are agents for the following—in which care has been taken to select pattern hats copies and adaptations typifying every phase of the new styles.

The Sweater Vogue

which was a late summer fad, has been given full sanction of fashion for the fall and winter. By that we mean the silk sweater.

We are showing a most alluring assortment of the new things. In addition to the solid colors favor runs to the more gaudy effects in stripes and bordered styles.

Fancy two tone styles are winning many admirers. Then just imagine a pretty Pompadour Sweater, with the figures woven right in the silk.

Nearly all have sashes of course, and mostly in the Norfolk effect. Convertible collars; some, even, are trimmed with fur.

$3.95 up to $15

Swagger Skirts

SKIRTS, this season, maintain much of the width and fulness of Summer. Novelty is the keynote and variety a noticeable characteristic. Some are of satins and Bedfords, finised off with plush and metal embroidery.

Others are of charmeuse, fancy novelties and checks, in all colors; corduroys are again shown, in the darker shades. The "Sport" Skirt is a new novelty that will appeal; made of green, red or navy flannel; many of the new styles are trimmed with buttons, braid, velvets and even fur.

TURKEY PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE

TAKEN AS GRANTED THERE TURKEY WILL EMERGE VICTORIOUS FROM WAR

EXPANSION OF COMMERCE

Already Commercial Treaties With Germany and Austria Are Being Prepared

Constantinople Sept. 13.—Taking it for granted that Turkey will emerge victorious from the present war, a number of prominent Turkish newspapers have recently occupied themselves seriously with the future international relations of the Ottoman empire. What the wishes of Turkey are in this respect may be said to have been ably epitomized in two leading articles of the Tanin, a Union and Progress daily with tendencies of its own even in these days of censorships and governmental surveillance of the press.

For reasons none too obvious, the leaders of the Tanin coupled the absence of the German Ambassador, Baron von Wagenheim, on a vacation and the temporary occupancy of his post here by Prince Hohenlohe-Langenburg with their study of the subject. The Tanin remarks that "Baron von Wagenheim, through his work with the Turkish statesmen, was as important factor in the alliance (between Turkey and Germany) now existing," and that "it would be too great a task to enumerate the facts proving that Baron von Wangenheim, owing to his remarkable perspicacity, had come to know Turkey in very little time." The inference is that Ambassador von Wagenheim would during his vacation devote much of his time to a further strengthening of the bonds between Germany and Turkey.

In the article dealing with future relations between Turkey and the countries on whose side it is fighting, the premises taken are about these:

"We are now sharing the fortunes of war of Germany and Austria-Hungary, what will these countries do after the war to aid Turkey in its effort to develop economically and in so doing become a state whose voice must be heeded in the future."

Not Always Friendly.

With great frankness the articles complain that Germany and Austria-Hungary have not always been the friends of Turkey. Thus Austria-Hungary took considerable territory from Turkey with the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, while Germany permotted the further reduction of the Ottoman empire after the late Balkan war and accepted with complacency the Italian conquest of Tripoli, which was all that was left of the Ottoman empire in North Africa.

All this, it is argued, was no demonstration of friendship on the part of Turkey's present allies. It is pointed out, however, that there are mitigating circumstances. The articles say that after all there had been no real understanding between Germany and Turkey before this war. What good relations had existed had been fostered almost exclusively by Emperor William and Sultan Abdul Hamid. With the advent of constitutional government and the ending of the Hamidian regime, these relations had ceased, of course, and the efforts of the late Baron Marschall von Bieberstein to effect an understanding between the new regime in Turkey and Germany, while not unsuccessful, had, nevertheless, not been brought to fruition.

Friendship Claims Disproven.

On the other hand, the articles say, it was a fact that in the past the Turkish people had leaned decidedly toward France and England, a tendency which had not favored closer relations with Germany and Austria-Hungary. But the present war had shown that Turkey had had no friends anywhere in the past. Germany and Austria-Hungary had made no great pretense that they were Turkey's friends, and France and England, who had avowed warmest friendship for Turkey had since then been proven to be anything but that by being willing to leave Turkey at the mercy of Russia, if doing that should have served the interests of the two Entente governments.

With the friendship of France and England disproven, and with that of Germany and Austria-Hungary at least based on a community of interests which would be bound to endure beyond this war, Turkey was of necessity obliged to ally herself more closely yet with German and the Danube Monarchy, by means of a series of commercial treaties which would be advantageous to all concerned. Turkey hoped sooner or later to become economically independent, said the articles, but for the time being it was far from having reached this happy state, and would have to overcome the lack of its advantages by reciprocal arrangements with Germany and Austria-Hungary under which the equitable exchange of Ottoman agricultural products for German and Austrian factory products would be possible.

Premature as such measures may appear in the Entente countries, it is a fact, nevertheless, that Turkish statesmen have for some time occupied themselves seriously with the making of suitable commercial treaties with the German and Austrian governments. In some quarters the opinion is held that this has been done because at present it might be possible to secure terms which later on would be harder to obtain. At any rate, say others, the activity displayed by the Turkish ministers argurs well for the future of Turkey, because it shows that the desire to care for the future has for once been felt by those responsible for the fate of the Ottoman empire.

Needless to say, economic reapproachments now affected between Turkey and Germany and Austria-Hungary, would leave little for France, England, Italy and all others. Turkey is ready to exclude everybody provided she can make advantageous bargains with the two Central Powers.

While it can not be said that the position of Germany and Austria-Hungary in Turkey is unshakeable as yet, it must also be borne in mind that every effort is being made to make it that.

STYLES ARE FEW—variety is great. Such a statement sounds like a paradox, but it is not. Designers, rather than endeavoring to bring out a multitude of more or less "freakish" styles, have settled down on a few sensible models and devoted their energies to the embellishment of those models. Like the canvas that can be painted with any picture—these models have been taken and under the skilled hand of the artist have been transformed into veritable "pictures" of style and beauty.

PREVAILING COLORS are just four; "Subterranean green," African brown, navy and black. Of course, there are others, but the plainer colors are best.

AND SO WE MIGHT GO ON—filling an entire page, extolling the beauty and charm of the new Suits, and still never convey the same impression that would be gained from one trip of inspection. Why not come tomorrow?

"DRESS UP!"

Raymond Hitchcock made famous that doleful song, "All Dressed Up and No Place to Go." But a still worse condition is going some place—and not being dresed up. Appearances count. Outward apearance is not an infallible but a safe indication of personal circumstances. Hetty Green may care little for dress—but that is an eccentricity. Few of us can afford to be eccentric.

"Dress up" and the world dresses with you;
Go ragged and you go it alone,
For this good old U. S. is the place to dress
And has a prosperity all her own.

SUITS MAY BE KING in Fashion's realm—and like all other kings lord it over all during the day—but at night and on state occasions "Queen Dress" will come into her own.

DRESSES, THOUGH SECOND, perhaps, to Suits in favor are a CLOSE second. For afternoon wear they are greatly favored and for social occasions and evening affairs they are positively indispensible.

THE FAVORITE DRESS for the present—for morning wear and general purpose occasions—is of serge, in combination with satin or taffeta. Both in the solid colors and in the gay plaid effects. They are rapidly making their appearance on the streets right now. Prices are $12.50 all the way to $54.00.

FOR AFTERNOON WEAR the Dresses of Charmeuse and Satin have the call. In fact "shiny" effects are good all through the Dress line. Crepe de Chine, of course, is too strong a favorite to be discarded—and there is an abundance of styles in this material.

PRETTY DINNER DRESSES are conceived of Satins, Georgette Crepes, Chiffons, Velvets, etc., in the most delightful of combinations. Fur is again a motif for trimming. Metal embroidery is also extensively used—and beaded effects in profusion. Some three-piece models are in the collection. Prices range $20.00 to $75.00.

EVENING DRESSES—we shall not attempt to describe, for they are indescribable. There's a wider range of colors than ever before. Flowers are extensively used. Spangles in the most unusual color combinations are a notable feature. Beads share in the glory. Metal Cloths add to the ensemble. Will you look at them?

Luxurious Yet Inexpensive Silk Underwear

KAYSER'S ITALIAN SILK. We are showing a wonderful assortment of Genuine Kayser Separate Vests, Combination Suits, Knickers, Envelope Chemises or Teddy Bears. Made of Venetian Silk with French band tops, Crochet Lace trimmed, Picot Edged, Val. Laces, Silk Laces, etc.

Pussy Willow, Italian Silk and Crepe de Chine Envelope Chemises or Teddy Bears, Camisole, Gowns, Combinations in flesh and white with Picot edge and Ribbon trimmed. Others hemstitched, elaborately trimmed with Shadowy Laces with tiny ribbon roses, sprays, etc. A wide range of prices.

YES READY! Supremely ready to show all that is new and correct in autumn Millinery. The genius of Fashion never designed more beautiful Hats nor Hats of more distinctive charm. Through our Eastern connection We happily secured a representative collection of wonderful Pattern Hats from Paris, created by style masters whose names are inseparably linked with Fashion.

Blouses

The genius of the true artist is manifest in the blouses for fall. They have an individuality and dash that possesses them with real charm.

The favorite materials will again be crepe de chines and Georgette crepes. The soft, drapy effects are most favored; made in all the shades to match the new suits, as well as in white and flesh.

Some of the Georgette crepes are made up very elaborate with satin, lace and gold trimming;

IT IS a figure with curves; not a tight little figure—but shapely. Fashion has gotten away from the corsetless figure, and yet has not gone to the other extreme—the wasp-waist. It has struck a happy medium.

The fashionable woman buys her Corset before she purchases anything else, for Corset models change each season to conform with changes in style of dresses. Tis season tere is a marked change in the bust line, it being a little higher, while there is a slight curve at the waist and the hips are somewhat shorter. This effect gives the fashionable silhouette figure. Many new materials are used this season and it will be interesting to see all the new models. We are agents for the following—

La Corsella and American Lady

Your presence is cordially invited to the premiere millinery occasion of the season—an exposition of the

in which care has been taken to select pattern hats copies and adaptations typifying every phase of the new styles.

The Sweater Vogue

which was a late summer fad, has been given full sanctiog of fashion for the fall and winter. By that we mean the silk sweater.

We are showing a most alluring assortment of the new things. In addition to the solid colors favor runs to the moer gaudy effects in stripes and bordered styles.

Fancy two tone styles are winning many admirers. Then just imagine a pretty Pompadour Sweater, with the figures woven right in the silk.

Nearly all have sashes of course, and mostly in the Norfolk effect. Convertible collars; some, even, are trimmed with fur.

$3.95 up to $15

Swagger Skirts

SKIRTS, this season, maintain much of the width and fulness of Summer. Novelty is the keynote and variety a noticeable characteristic. Some are of satins and Bedfords, finised off with plush and metal embroidery.

Others are of charmeuse, fancy novelties and checks, in all colors; corduroys are again shown, in the darker shades. The "Sport" Skirt is a new novelty that will appeal; made of green, red or navy flannel; many of the new styles are trimmed with buttons, braid, velvets and even fur.

TURKEY PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE

TAKEN AS GRANTED THERE TURKEY WILL EMERGE VICTORIOUS FROM WAR

EXPANSION OF COMMERCE

Already Commercial Treaties With Germany and Austria Are Being Prepared

Constantinople Sept. 13.—Taking it for granted that Turkey will emerge victorious from the present war, a number of prominent Turkish newspapers have recently occupied themselves seriously with the future international relations of the Ottoman empire. What the wishes of Turkey are in this respect may be said to have been ably epitomized in two leading articles of the Tanin, a Union and Progress daily with tendencies of its own even in these days of censorships and governmental surveillance of the press.

For reasons none too obvious, the leaders of the Tanin coupled the absence of the German Ambassador, Baron von Wagenheim, on a vacation and the temporary occupancy of his post here by Prince Hohenlohe-Langenburg with their study of the subject. The Tanin remarks that "Baron von Wagenheim, through his work with the Turkish statesmen, was as important factor in the alliance (between Turkey and Germany) now existing," and that "it would be too great a task to enumerate the facts proving that Baron von Wangenheim, owing to his remarkable perspicacity, had come to know Turkey in very little time." The inference is that Ambassador von Wagenheim would during his vacation devote much of his time to a further strengthening of the bonds between Germany and Turkey.

In the article dealing with future relations between Turkey and the countries on whose side it is fighting, the premises taken are about these:

"We are now sharing the fortunes of war of Germany and Austria-Hungary, what will these countries do after the war to aid Turkey in its effort to develop economically and in so doing become a state whose voice must be heeded in the future."

Not Always Friendly.

With great frankness the articles complain that Germany and Austria-Hungary have not always been the friends of Turkey. Thus Austria-Hungary took considerable territory from Turkey with the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, while Germany permotted the further reduction of the Ottoman empire after the late Balkan war and accepted with complacency the Italian conquest of Tripoli, which was all that was left of the Ottoman empire in North Africa.

All this, it is argued, was no demonstration of friendship on the part of Turkey's present allies. It is pointed out, however, that there are mitigating circumstances. The articles say that after all there had been no real understanding between Germany and Turkey before this war. What good relations had existed had been fostered almost exclusively by Emperor William and Sultan Abdul Hamid. With the advent of constitutional government and the ending of the Hamidian regime, these relations had ceased, of course, and the efforts of the late Baron Marschall von Bieberstein to effect an understanding between the new regime in Turkey and Germany, while not unsuccessful, had, nevertheless, not been brought to fruition.

Friendship Claims Disproven.

On the other hand, the articles say, it was a fact that in the past the Turkish people had leaned decidedly toward France and England, a tendency which had not favored closer relations with Germany and Austria-Hungary. But the present war had shown that Turkey had had no friends anywhere in the past. Germany and Austria-Hungary had made no great pretense that they were Turkey's friends, and France and England, who had avowed warmest friendship for Turkey had since then been proven to be anything but that by being willing to leave Turkey at the mercy of Russia, if doing that should have served the interests of the two Entente governments.

With the friendship of France and England disproven, and with that of Germany and Austria-Hungary at least based on a community of interests which would be bound to endure beyond this war, Turkey was of necessity obliged to ally herself more closely yet with German and the Danube Monarchy, by means of a series of commercial treaties which would be advantageous to all concerned. Turkey hoped sooner or later to become economically independent, said the articles, but for the time being it was far from having reached this happy state, and would have to overcome the lack of its advantages by reciprocal arrangements with Germany and Austria-Hungary under which the equitable exchange of Ottoman agricultural products for German and Austrian factory products would be possible.

Premature as such measures may appear in the Entente countries, it is a fact, nevertheless, that Turkish statesmen have for some time occupied themselves seriously with the making of suitable commercial treaties with the German and Austrian governments. In some quarters the opinion is held that this has been done because at present it might be possible to secure terms which later on would be harder to obtain. At any rate, say others, the activity displayed by the Turkish ministers argurs well for the future of Turkey, because it shows that the desire to care for the future has for once been felt by those responsible for the fate of the Ottoman empire.

Needless to say, economic reapproachments now affected between Turkey and Germany and Austria-Hungary, would leave little for France, England, Italy and all others. Turkey is ready to exclude everybody provided she can make advantageous bargains with the two Central Powers.

While it can not be said that the position of Germany and Austria-Hungary in Turkey is unshakeable as yet, it must also be borne in mind that every effort is being made to make it that.

COUTRY WIDE SEARCH FOR WEALTHY WIDOW'S SLAYER

HALLBOY IN CUSTODY OF DETECTIVES LEAVING MURDERED WIDOW'S HOME.

The police of every large city in this country have been asked to be on the lookout for the murderers of Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols. Mrs. Nichols was found done to death in her beautiful home, 4 East Seventy-ninth street, New York City. More than $20,000 worth of jewelry is missing. In the accompanying illustration are shown New York police headquarters detectives leaving the Nichols home with Owney Talas, a young Finn hall boy. Talas, afer being put through the third degree told how the robbery of the wealthy woman was planned. Talas' confession involved a former servant of Mrs. Nichols and several others who were hangers-on of pool rooms on the upper East Side of New York. These men have left their haunts and are believed to be hiding in some of the larger cities of the middle west.

STATUS OF WOMEN WORKERS AFTER WAR

MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT DISCUSSES PROBLEMS ARISING FROM EMPLOYMENT

MANY WILL CONTINUE WORK

Believes Employers Will Retain Many Women Workers While Giving Back Jobs to Soldiers Also

London.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press) "None of the war's changes in our social structure will prove so notable to the future historian as the wholesale introduction of woman labor into trades, occupations and professions hitherto exclusively staffed by men," declared Sir George Croydon Marks, member of Parliament for northeast Cornwall, in the first of a series of lectures on the New Woman. He added:

"The question which is of real importance today, however, is whether that future historian will regard the phenomenon as coincident with war conditions and terminating with them, or whether it will mark the beginning of a social revolution and a new stage in the industrial and commercial co-operation of men and women.

"When the war is over shall we still see the milk woman, the girl ticket collector, the girl commissionaire at their work or will they automatically disappear before the returning tide of the civilian armies?

After the War, What?

"We may well ask ourselves at this moment, for it is a question which must inevitably arise and a problem for which we cannot be too well prepared. What is to happen at the conclusion of the war to those women of every social grade and every shade of attainment who in the past year have slipped so readily into man's occupations?

"In considering the question broadly the analogy of France may be taken into consideration. The capacity, the business ability and the ready grasp of affairs which the women of France more than of any other nation, have shown themselves to possess has been traced, perhaps fancifully to the frequent necessity with which they have been forced to take upon themselves the conduct of those affairs during the absence of their men on military duties.

"It is quite possible, indeed quite probable, that the introduction of wholesale introduction of women's labor which we are at present witnessing may be to develop those qualities of resourcefuiness and of ready efficiency which characterize and have characterized French women for many years.

"Considered more narrowly, the problem which will present itself to the business man as soon as the war is over is, simply stated, how far it will be his duty to replace the patriotic woman who is taking the place of the soldier fighting his country's battles, by that soldier himself when the time to lay down his arms arrives.

"At first sight it may seem no problem at all. Apart from actual promises given, there remains a pledge of honor to reinstate the soldier in his position as the wage earner. No consideration of economy, no consideration of efficiency rapidly acquired by the woman worker can be allowed for an instant to interfere with this.

Hope to Find Work for All.

"Undoubtedly many employers will feel a wrench in rejecting those women who, for the past year or more, have ben doing their duties so nimbly and effectively, in favor of the soldier whose new life will probably have unfitted him to some extent for the office stool. The effect may be in many instances that employers will find a way of retaining the services permanently of those women in conjunction with the reinstated men.

"In the past, the jealousy which has been felt of women's employment in business has been founded entirely on the wage question. While men worked for a living wage, women worked for pocket money, and were able to accept it because they were able to be dependent primarily on the wage earner."

IS IT YOUR KIDNEYS?

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Wichita Falls Citizen Gives a Valuable Hint.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptims of kidney disorders. That is where danger often lies. You should realize that these troubles often lead to dropsy or to Bright's disease. An effective remedy for weak or diseased kidneys is Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the experience of a resident of Wichita Falls, who has tested Doan's.

Mrs. J. J. Pike, 1300 Scott Ave., Wichita Falls, says: "I have no objection to stating that I have used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Fred Harrington's dru store, on different occasions, as I have needed them. They have always given prompt results and I am satisfied that they are a dependable kidney medicine."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remery—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Pike had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

HALF AN INCH RAIN FELL HERE OVERNIGHT

Rainfall Lighter at Points North Along the Denver—Rain Extended As Far South as Rhome.

More than half an inch of rain fell in Wichita Falls this morning, following about an equal amount Tuesday. The rain extended as far south as Rhome on the Denver, and was reported from a number of Wichita Valley points. Chillicothe and Vernon received light showers.

The rain comes at a very oportune time for fall plowing, which had been delayed in some sections by the dry weather. With the ground now thoroughly moistened, preparation for the planting of the new wheat crop can proceed.

INDIANAPOLIS MAYOR CHARGES CONSPIRACY

Indianapolis, Ind., September 15.—That the prosecution of Mayor Joseph E. Bell was planned in the office of the owner of the Indianapolis News was the assertion of Attorney Michael Ryan defense counsel.

Ryan, in his opening statement, charged that Prosecutor Rucker met with the owners of the News and Davis (Bat) Materson of Terre Haute in the News office and that Masterson was handed $50 that day and started to Chicago to round up his men.

"Isn't it peculiar," said Ryan "that the State should get its attorney and its chief witness from Terra Haute?"

That the Bell election corruption conspiracy trial will in bitterness outrank anything in the State's history was indicated when Ryan resumed his opening statement.

Ryan charged that the prosecutions were instigated by the News in retaliation for the libel suits filed against newspaper by Thomas Taggart, Mayor Bell and Chief of Police Sam V. Perrott, all defendants to the indictment.

The attorney also asserted it came from the desire of Alvah J. Rucker, the young prosecutor recently from Indiana University, "to become the greatest man in Indiana." He asserted Rucker was the "tool of the News."

Ryan denied that Thomas Taggart had collected $1,000 from breweries for a slush fund or for any purpose as charged by the State.

ARABIANS ARE HOSTILE TO GERMANY'S POLICY.

Rome, Sept. 14.—The attitude of Djemal Pasha, former minister of marine, is giving the Turkish committee of union and progress much anxiety, the Tribune says it has learned from sources of information in the aBlkans. He is reported to be in Arabia in constant contact with sheiks and emirs hostile to the committee, while Arab preachers are trying to foment rebellion among the inhabitants.

Talaat Bey, minister of the interior, realizes, it is said that the situation is serious, and is not holding entirely aloof from the government to reurn to power Hilmi Pasha, former grand vizier, now ambassador to Austria-Hungary. Hostility to the German policy is reported to be becoming increasingly violent.

A complete disagreement between Djemal Pasha and Enver Pasha, minister of war, as well as Talaat Bey, was reported early this month.

Munitions Factories In France Running Full Force Night And Day

WAR MUNITIONS FACTORY in FRANCE

In the accompanying illustration is shown an official French war office photograph of the interior of a war munitions factory in France. All the munitions factories in France today are turning out shells and other missiles and weapons of war at a tremendous rate. While the allies' forces on the eastern front have suffered from a lack of munitions, those on the western front have not been hampered, and this is due, in a great part to the industry of the war munitions factories in France.

CHINA'S PATRIOTIC DEFENSE FUND

MOVEMENT SHOWS CHINA'S MIDDLE CLASS ACQUIRING A NATIONAL SPIRIT

ENTHUSIASM AT MEETINGS

Audiences Often Stirred to Such a Pitch that Stage is Showered With Coins and Jewels

Peking, August 28.—China's Patriotic Defense Fund, or Salvation Fund has grown out of a ovement which shows the middle class Chinese are acquiring a national spirit, a spirit foreigners living in China have believed to be amost wholly lacking.

Great fervor has been shown at meetings held in various parts of China to raise money for this new fund, originated by obscure Chinese of the merchant clas, without suggestion from government officials.

At one meeting in Fuchiatien over $14,000 was raised from a mixed crowd. Women and schoolboys were among the speakers who stirred the audience to such a pitch that the stage of the theatre was showered with coins, rings, bracelets and other ornaments of gold and silver. One young student dramatically concluded his appeal by slashing his wrist and writing upon a piece of paper with his blood the slogan, "China Must Be Saved." He threw this into the audience, which passed it about with loud acclaim.

Protest From Japan.

Enthusiastic meetings at Tientsin called forth a protest from the Japanese Counsel General to the governor of the province of Chili. The Japanese official declared the meetings were unfriendly to Japan and imposed fines upon Chinese merchants in the Japanese concession who contributed to the fund.

While Chinese officials have issued decrees warning the organization of Patriotic Fund meetings not to permit speakers to denounce Japan and discuss the recent Japanese demands, the idea of the organiation developed in the heat of the threatened crisis between Japan and China, and no governmental suggestion can free the patriotic meetings wholly from the ill feeling against Japan.

It has been variously suggested that the patriotic fund be used for the enlargement of the navy, for the army, and for the extension of industries which will enable China to subsist on her own manufactured products.

The patriotic fund, the boycott on Japanese goods and home-made goods movement are inseparably connected in the Chinese mind. Chinese papers abound in editorials discussing the three subpects upermost in the thought of the public. The news columns of the dailies also contain scores of items in which the three movements are mentioned, or at least hinted at in such a way as to show Chinese contempt for Japanese methods.

Allusions To Friction.

Peking papers almost every day contain at least half a dozen allusions to the friction between China and Japan. One item sets forth the announcement that Chinese living in Bangkok, Siam, where only Japanese matches can be bought, will not touch a match "and for want of other matches a great many in Bangkok have gone back to the old-time flint and steel while many orders have been placed for European matches."

A dispatch from Tunghun, in Manchuria, tells of the disarrangement of all lines of communication by torrential rains and consequent rains and consequent activity of "tufei" or bandits. The item concludes "there are strong reasons to suspect that the nationals of a 'certain' power are encouraging activity of 'tufei.'"

Announcement is made of the discovery by Chinese customs officials at Antung of explosives hidden in a Japanese fishing boat and the later detection of percusion caps, fuses and explosives concealed in a Japanese restaurant at Antung. The next paragraph ends: "In view of the above the public can draw its own conclusions as to the real owner of the bomb exploded in The Japanese Medicine Shop at Mukden." The Mukden incident, which occurred several weeks ago has caused much comment as the Japanese authorities charged several Chinese students with responsibility for the explosion and the young men are under arrest. The cause is far more than local in its interest and is now being discussed by the Chinese Foreign Office and the Japanese Minister in Peking.

Another item tells of a protest Japanese officials have entered because Koreon children, who moved to Chientao, in Manchuria, were admitted to Chinese schools. The ground for the complaint was that the Chinese are attempting to "assimilate Koreans."

$25,000,000 Is Goal.

The exact amount raised for the patriotic fund has not been announced. It is increasing daily and is in charge of government officials who have placed it at interest in Chinese banks. The originators of the fund set $25,000,000 as their goal, but this has been decried as too small a sum by many of the prominent leaders and $50,000,000 is generally discussed as the minimum amount which should be raised.

Daily, weekly and monthly publications abound in letters from Chinese offering suggestions as to the best use which can bo made of the fund. Chang Chien, writing to the China National Review, a Shanghai weekly, urges that the money be turned to the development of the cotton and iron industries, and preferably the cotton industry alone, if not more than $50,000,000 be raised. The writer says the annual importations of cotton goods aggregate about $125,000,000 in value, while the iron importations are about one-fourth that amount. "To equal the demand of the whole population of China we need 3,000,000 spindles and 100,000 looms," says the writer. "Therefore, even if making provisions for the unfavorable condition of the times we ought to increase our present standing by at least 1,000,000 spindles. These 1,000,000 spindles require an expenditure of $50,000,000 which is the total amount we hope to raise for the salvation fund. Every additional length of cloth we can make and sell means the capture of so much trade from others. What is the use of merely making a noise about boycotting?"

SHORTAGE OF PHYSICIANS FORESEEN IN ENGLAND

Young Men Who Would Have Entered Medical Schools Have Enlisted in the Army.

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 14.—The dearth of medical men in the United Kingdom is not only serious at present on account of the war, but it will continue for years afterward, in the opinion of the Lancet, the organ of the British medical profession.

In its issue of August 28 the Lancet says:

"That our medical schools will go very short of students is certain and this will mean a dangerously small list of medical practioneers to minister to the needs of the country in the near future. The position is inevitable. The spirit which will lead young men of the military age, the educated class to join the army must have this effect, but it is the duty of the medical profession to face the difficulty and to make the best of it.

"The great work which the medical contingent with the navy and army has accomplished in the present war will act later as a stimulus to enthusiasm for our calling, and the shortage which must occur in our ranks for the three or four years following—say 1917, will speedily remedy itself, when our social world resumes, as far as altered circumstances will permit the scheme which we had, with considerable lack of provision, come to regard as the normal one.

"The war found the numbers of the medical profession in this country already disquietingly low, and with indications of further sagging in those numbers. The figures indicate a serious shortage of medical men for the years following the war. Not only has a large number of young men who otherwise would be beginning or pursuing their medical studies been absorbed but unfortunately a serious toll was taken last autumn of those who, being already nearly qualified men in a few months.

"The future will see an increased demand for medical men, and their prospects of success will be so great that the aspirants will assuredly be numerous. And there will be an improvement in the conditions which have prevailed in the past, not only because the profession of medicine will puffer in siocological progress but because the record of the work of medicine throughout the war has been such that it must lead to a closer relationship between the medical profession and the public.

"The British public is taking a more intelligent interest in these things, and the energy with which lay bodies are working in cooperation with the medical profession in carrying out various schemes for the well-being of the people may be taken as an indication that the health of the nation will be a first consideration of he immediate future—which means that there will be a great demand for medical men at the close of the war. And this is the essential message to the students now in the schools. They are already wanted as qualified men, and in the near future they will be wanted even more urgently. It is a patriotic duty, imposed upon them by the conditions of the world, that they should spare no effort to pass all their tests in the shortest legal time, while by doing so they will reap the double reward of good citizenship and worldly success."

ALLIES WANT TO BORROW BILLION IN UNITED STATES

New York, Sept. 14.—The present plan of the Joint Anglo-French financial commission, it was reported is to borrow $1,000,000,000 in the United States on straight British and French government bonds without any collateral whatever.

If this vast sum of money is obtained, it was said it is to be spent to the last cent in the United States in payment of wheat, cotton, meat and other commodity shipments, including munitions of war. It will, therefore, in the opinion of financial authorities, be classified as a commercial loan.

Whether the neutrality of the United States would be questioned, in case the bankers financing the mammoth loan should accept straight British and French government notes as their security, has been given serious consideration. It was said that the financiers familiar with the plan had every reason to believe that the Washington administration would not interfere.

The foregoing was the unanimous opinion of many of the scores of prominent bankers from New York and the chief cities of the country who have visited the commission at is headquatrers here during the three days of its stay in this city.
