18-Year-Old Dallas High School Youth Takes Own Life With Shotgun Friday

Motive Of Act Not Determined; Body Found In Boy's Small Roadster On Seldom Used Land In Creek Bottoms

DALLAS, Oct. 4.—Adolphus Sides, 18-year-old high school student, shot himself with a shotgun here today, a coroner decided, but the motive for the act, unless it was the excruciating pain of a toothache, could not be ascertained.

The body was found near the boy's small roadster in a seldom used lane in White Rock creek bottoms near the city. The shotgun, double-barreled, held one discharged shell and one loaded cartridge. A piece of paper bearing Sides' name and address and the telephone number of a neighbor lay nearby. The youth's father, M. E. Sides, said there was no telephone at his home.

Adolphus left home this morning apparently on his way to school, his mother said. He had complained, she added, of keen pain from a tooth. The parents said they knew of no reason why he would desire to take his life and that all appearances he had no enemies.

Two students at Forest Avenue high school told officers that young Sides came to the school this morning and asked them to "make a trip" with him. They said he seemed troubled and left weeping.

Death Of Jeanne Eagels Caused By Alcohol And Drug

Chemical Analysis Shows Overdose In Effort To Free Star Of Alcoholic Psychosis Is Fatal

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Chemical analysis showed today that Jeanne Eagels, the Sadie Thompson of "rain," died of an overdose of a drug taken to induce sleep and thus free the actress temporarily from hallucinations due to an alcoholic psychosis.

For four days Miss Eagels had been suffering from these hallucinations. For two days she had not taken a drink although a quantity of alcohol still remained in her vital organs when they were analyzed today.

When Dr. Decker last night she went with her secretary to the office of her doctor who had been treating her for a nervous disorder, to undergo an examination. In his reception room she fell dead. An autopsy performed immediately indicated that the alcoholic psychosis was the cause of death but the laboratory analysis today showed that it was the drug that actually killed.

Miss Eagels, who was 35 years old, was about to resume her career on the legitimate stage, interrupted in 1928 when she walked out on her "card board lover," while on a tour in St. Louis, Mo., and was suspended for 18 months by actors equity.

Crockett County Ranchman Killed

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 4.—S. E. Couch, 55, Crockett county ranchman, was killed today when struck by the propeller of his monoplane at Marfa, Tex., according to word received here.

Couch, accompanied by Lee Wilson, as pilot, and Richard Flowers, had flown from their homes at Oromo to Marfa to attend a livestock show and a rodeo.

The ranchman had large holdings here. He was vice president of the Wool Growers Central Storage company and the Western Reserve Life Insurance company, both of San Angelo.

Because of his varied business interests the ranchman purchases the plans several months ago to allow him to cover his holdings quickly. He had landing fields on all of his ranches.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at Oromo.

NEW PILOT COMING

Ferry Logan, who recently moved to this city for the purpose of establishing a flying school here, announced last night that he would have associated with him a flier of several years experience in the instruction of cadets.

The new pilot will be Johnny Voss, of Wichita Falls, who has been flying since 1923.

The ship to be used by the school has just returned from Amarillo and Friday was in Brownfield.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Justice Sissions of the District of Columbia Supreme court today refused a petition to release Harry F. Raiding Slackens As Rangers Exhaust Field Of Berger Undesirable "Joints"

(By Associated Press)
BORGER, Oct. 4.—Raiding slackened in Berger today as rangers and national guardsmen began to exhaust the field of dance halls, pool halls and blind tigers by the scores they have carried on since Tuesday night. Very few were taken in custody today and only four were held on liquor charges. About 200 bottles of the beverages were confiscated.

Most of the undesirable, picked up in raids, have been told to get out of town by sundown. Raiders had difficulty finding rangers today. Reports from Wichita Falls said petty thieves and robbers had taken about $3,000 worth of goods there since martial law was applied here and it was thought that many of those driven from Berger had gone there.

James P. Fox, international president of the Twelve High club, a Masonic luncheon organization declared that "martial law will bring happiness and prosperity to Berger, in an address to the state convention of the club here today. James B. Hoffman of Denver, international treasurer also spoke.

The quiet which has held the town since the troops arrived was broken for a minute today when a revolver shot was heard and C. O. Horton, a garage owner, in his place of business was found shot through both legs. Investigation showed he was shot when an automatic pistol fell from Private J. B. Tempenny's holster. Horton was not dangerously wounded.

Search Continues For Bellonte And Coste In Siberia

Searching Parties Spurred On By Fresh Rumors In Hunt For Two French Airmen Missing Six Days

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Oct. 4.—With fresh rumors to spur them on, searchers for Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, French aviators, continued today to hunt for some trace of them in the Siberian wilds without definite results. The last positive sighting of the red Saugul plane was nearly six days ago.

Two special expeditions of mountain hunters sent out by the civil aviation authorities of the Soviet republic after four days of search returned tonight and reported they had found no trace of the aviators.

Reports Unconfirmed
Unconfirmed reports today placed the two men near Chita, in eastern Siberia. There also was a report that their plane had been seen crossing into Manchuria. So far no proof had been produced to support these but if they are confirmed, the Frenchmen almost certainly established the distance record which they sought.

LINDY AT BELIZE

BELIZE, British Honduras, Oct. 4.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, continuing his 7,000 mile Caribbean trip, landed here at 2:30 p. m. today. He left Guatemala City for Belize at 11:15 a. m.

Carnival Girl Is Jailed Again

Pauline Lane, 19-year-old carnival girl, who slapped a man and called him everything but a gentleman, when he insulted her Wednesday night, is in again.

This time it is for disturbing the peace. "I wasn't doing anything but sleeping," she confessed in no timid tones, "but if I ever get out of here, I'm going to raise H—"

The pretty young "cat" girl, upon whose face a wistful smile crept at the mention of the word "mother," in a recent interview, early this morning, was resting on a bunk in the city jail, puffing a cigarette, and telling the officers that she had just as soon not be there.

"I must have been sporting plenty love if I disturbed the peace," she said.

Two Abilene Men Killed By Train

ABILENE, Oct. 4.—J. E. Crockett, 44 and Weldon Shanks, 30, both of Abilene, were instantly killed this afternoon when a Texas and Pacific passenger train struck their automobile truck at a crossing near Merkel. They were employees of the maintenance department of the state highway commission.

The case of the State of Texas vs. F. B. Jobe, charged with aggravated assault probably will come up before the court today.

Investigation Starts In Colorado Prison Mutiny Which Claimed 12 Lives

Damage Estimated At $300,000 In Bloodiest Outbreak In Penitentiary's History At Canon City; Reconstruction Begins

(By The Associated Press)
CANON CITY, Colo., Oct. 4.—Suicide and surrender followed murder and destruction to end one of the bloodiest prison riots in the history of the nation here today.

Seven guards and five convicts were killed before the death of the desperate leader, Danny Daniels, by his own hand, and the surrender of the 150 convicts he held under his rule for 12 hours in the embattled Cell House No. 3.

All the leaders of the rebellion—and prison officials believe most of the fighting was done by these five leaders—died either by suicide or at the hands of Daniels before the riot ended in meek surrender at dawn today.

Peace, Quiet Reign
Tonight there was the usual peace and quiet that generally hovers about this little town in the shadow of the Rockies. The smoke blackened walls of the penitentiary buildings where corridors are flecked with the blood of good and bad men were quiet. It seemed hard for the guards on duty to realize that just 24 hours ago the prison was wracked by mutiny in which machine gun fire, the crack of rifles, and later the detonations of dynamite charges told a story of violent death and destruction.

Officials of the penitentiary tonight turned their efforts to two channels—investigation and reconstruction.

Warden F. E. Crawford announced a comprehensive investigation into the causes of the riot would be launched immediately. He

Tariff Schedules Will Be Taken Up

Senators Vote To Retain Bi-Partisan Commission Of Six Members As Last Feature Of Bill Passes

(By D. HAROLD OLIVER)
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(AP)—By a vote of 72-17, the Senate today passed a bill to retain a bi-partisan commission of six members, the Senate today disposed of the last important administrative feature of the tariff bill and left the way virtually clear for consideration of rate schedules early next week.

No record vote was taken on the committee amendment which rejected the house plan for a non-partisan commission of seven members.

Class Amendment
Added to the amendment was a clause drawn by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, declaring it to be the intention of congress that the commission, in "all its official functions shall act judicially and that in determination of any matter submitted to it no consideration whatever shall be given to partisanship or party policy."

The Nebraska described his amendment as a step in the direction of trying again to take the tariff out of politics.

Return Tom Shook To Wichita Falls

(By Associated Press)
WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 4.—Tom Shook, elusive and dangerous gunman, wanted in two states for murder, was back behind the bars here tonight after 13 months of freedom. Shook was returned tonight from Tennessee where he was captured after he is alleged to have killed a man last week.

Sheriff W. O. Bralley and Deputy Sheriff Charlie Grant returned the prisoner from Tennessee.

He is under indictment here for robbery with firearms as well as for murder and the district attorney announced that he will be tried first on the robbery counts. He is alleged to have stabbed Oscar Daugherty in Electric last July. He also is charged with having shot and killed J. D. Martin, a wealthy resident of Decatur county, Tenn.

Threat Of Former Husband To Slay Wife Carried Out

Claude Goodwin Shoots His Divorced Spouse In Head Then Fires Into His Own Temple Friday Afternoon

(By Associated Press)
FORT WORTH, Oct. 4.—Carrying out his threat to kill her if she should divorce him, Claude Goodwin, 32, shot and killed his former wife, Gertrude, 30, and then turning the gun upon himself, committed suicide this afternoon. The double shooting occurred near where Mrs. Goodwin lived, and it was pointed out that Goodwin had trained her in his car.

Goodwin fired only three shots from a .22 calibre automatic pistol, all three taking effect. He fired two bullets into the back of his wife's head, either of which would have been fatal, and then pressing the gun to his right temple fired the third fatal shot into his own brain.

Mrs. W. A. Tinsley, the only eye witness was seated on the front porch of her home, 250 feet from where the tragedy occurred, when she saw Goodwin, driving an automobile, turn suddenly into a driveway across the street from her home and turn around. He drove back and stopped his car at the intersection of two streets.

Leaping from his car, he met his

Stock Market Is In Wild Scramble

Sweeping Rush To Get Out Of Stocks Resumed In Increasing Violence As Prices Break Heavily

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The wild scramble to get out of stocks, which started in the last hour of trading yesterday, was resumed with increased violence today, prices of active issues breaking $2 to $10 a share, while a sprinkling of high priced specialties fell $12 to $20. Final quotations showed only moderate recoveries from the day's loss, with at least 100 issues showing a net loss of ground for the year.

So great was the volume of trading that the ticker was between 30 minutes and one hour behind the market for the greater part of the day, the final quotation being printed one hour and 14 minutes after the closing gong sounded. Total sales of $2,323,900 shares were the largest since the record-breaking session of arch 26 last, when 2,348,700 shares changed hands.

Today's selling gained impetus from the unexpected increase of $400,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans announced after the close of the market last night. Margin calls went out in record breaking volume in the past 24 hours. While the response was good, in view of the drastic nature of the decline which has washed away several billions in quoted values, much of today's liquidation was believed to have represented selling by disappointed speculators who were either unable or unwilling to hold on.

Technical Topics from Texas Tech

Tech College Staff Correspondent

2,594 STUDENTS ENROLLED
Friday afternoon 2,004 students had been enrolled in the college for full time work, according to an announcement from the registrar's office. Pauline Householder, 1928, 15th street, was the 2,000th student to enroll. Miss Householder is a freshman in the school of Liberal Arts. Total enrollment will be increased by late registration according to members of the registrar's department.

STUDENTS INVITED
Tech students are invited to attend the Baptist church, Sunday, October 6, and hear Miss Lucie Reagan, missionary from Africa. She will be there for the morning services.

EXTENSION GROWING
Recently requests have been received from Amarillo and Paducah for extension classes to be instructed by Tech teachers. According to J. F. McDonald, director of extension, these requests will be filled if possible. A class must have at least 35 members before it can be organized. Extension classes are now being conducted in Sudan, Levelland, Tahoka, Pisinview, Rails, Lorenzo, and Brownfield. Two night classes are being held in Lubbock. Two hundred students are enrolled in these classes which count as residence work toward degrees. Subjects taught are government, education, English and freshman geology. The night classes which are being held in Lubbock enable those students who are working during the day to get off some of their freshman requirements. Ten people are enrolled in the night class of freshman geology.

Many people take courses by correspondence, said Mr. McDonald. For the last several months the correspondent courses have numbered 75.

HOME-EC EXHIBIT
In the exhibition cabinet of the school of Home Economics are some hand woven articles from the mountains of Kentucky. There are also some articles from the loom of Schumaker. Plaques in the exhibit show how classes in designing can apply the work and how it can be made into clothing in one of the clothing classes. Books are included which tell of historic fashion, costume for the stage, and the care and treatment of the skin.

GIRLS ORGANIZED
Freshman girls who stay in College Inn and Annex A have recently organized in a club called Las Hermanas. The name is Spanish for "The Sisters." Officers elected by the girls were: Geraldine Clewell, president; Waco; Margaret Garland, vice president; Lamasa; Kathleen Harmon, secretary and treasurer; Lampassa; Catherine Fevler, parliamentarian; Sweetwater; Lucille Halley, reporter, Granbury.

Christine Carter was appointed as head of the program committee and Alma Moore as head of the plans committee.

Staff members of La Ventanna, school year book, request that students keep their appointments with the school photographer. If that is impossible, they request that pictures be made as soon as possible so that work on the photographic sections may be begun.

Freshman girls who reside in Lubbock can have "little sisters" too, according to Pauline Patterson, chairman of the "Little Sister" movement. There are not enough upper-class-men to go around for the number of freshman girls. "Please arrange to get your 'little sister' before Tuesday, so that you will know who to take to the 'little sister' party," said Miss Patterson. The party will be held Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the school gymnasium. "Big sisters" are expected to "date" "little sisters." The party is being sponsored by the Woman's forum. A charge of ten cents will be made for upper-class-men to de-pay expenses.

HOLDEN TO LECTURE
The first of a series of lectures on religion will be given by Dr. W. C. Holden, of the history department, on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the auditorium of the engineering building. He will speak on "Anthropology and Religion." The public and student body are invited to attend.

In a recent month 374 motor trucks from the United States were received at Shanghai, China.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4. (AP)—Radio dispatches received here state the bodies of two seamen washed overboard from the barges Tiole and Lubwell in the tropical hurricane were recovered last night by the coast guard cutter Sauke. The drowned men were C. B. Boyle, deck hand, of Sweetwater, Texas, and seaman Daomelly of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The barges were set loose from the disabled tug Bafshe with 14 men aboard in the heavy seas. The other 12 men were rescued yesterday and carried to Florida.

Exposure Of Futility Of Washington Lobbying To Be Sought Through Forthcoming Senate Probe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—Exposure of the "futility" of Washington lobbyists and enactment of a law requiring registration of lobbyists before congress will be sought through the forthcoming senate investigation.

By demanding a report on actual activities of the paid representatives of those seeking legislation and an accounting of how they spend their money, Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, sponsor of the inquiry, expects their future usefulness to be curtailed.

"Let's find out how these parasites spend their money," he said. "I think to a considerable extent the money winds up right in their own pockets."

He or Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, chairman of the judiciary committee, probably will head the sub-committee which will conduct the inquiry. It is fairly certain Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, who led in the senate oil leasing investigations, will also be a member

Representatives Meet In Effort To Form Marketing Under New Federal Board Regulations

CHICAGO, Oct. 4. (AP)—Representatives of wool producer's cooperatives today met with five members of the Federal Farm Board to organize along the lines adopted by fruit, vegetable and grain growers, to insure marketing aid under Federal Farm Board regulations.

Dr. L. B. Palmer, chairman of the national wool marketing council, who headed a group of almost 50 representatives, said wool producers expected to encounter fewer obstacles than other groups because most of the wool agencies already were federated in the national wool marketing council.

The conference was called by Chairman Alexander Legge of the farm board at the request of the national council. Other members of the farm board attending were C. B. Denman, wool representative on the board, Sam R. McKelvie, James C. Stone and Carl Williams.

Culinary List To Be Available For Sunday's Avalanche-Journal; Other Lists Are To Be Completed Monday

Women's Building Exhibits Continue To Draw Crowd During Season Of Fair This Year

All premium lists in the women's division of the Panhandle-South Plains fair will be available for publication by Monday. It was announced yesterday by Mrs. Hub Jones, director of the division.

Mrs. A. W. McKee, superintendent of the culinary department, expects to have her premium list available for tomorrow's paper and Mrs. S. J. McFarland, superintendent of the textile division, expects to have her list completed for publication by Monday.

Some winners have been announced in the home demonstration division and others are to be announced by Sunday, according to Miss Louise Baird, who is in charge of this division.

The women's building, where these displays are located, has drawn a continual crowd during the season of the fair and the exhibits have been pronounced the most outstanding in the history of the fair by many who have viewed them.

Plans are already being made by superintendents and directors for improvements during the coming year.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Beauty contests are as old as the Trojan war and probably older than that, but because of the way they have thrived in this country the past 10 years, and the number of beauties who have contested for Miss America honors, we are apt to consider them our own institution.

However, Miss Turkey, otherwise Feriha Tefik Hanoum, was recently chosen in a competition that was sponsored by the leading newspaper of the country and which had 30 judges chosen from the arts, theater, the medical profession and the municipality.

And her reply when asked what she expected to do about her laurels was: "I'd like to get into the movies. I'd rather have a career than get married."

And how many years is it now since Turkish women discarded their veils?

France has recently been holding contests, but not the regular stereotyped sort. It seems to be customary in the smart cafes and hotels to have the guests vote for the most distinguished looking woman in the room.

When the votes are collected, the lady who has won the honor is approached to know if she minds being declared the most distinguished lady in the room.

Just what would happen if she refused is not known, for so far no woman has objected.

BUSY WOMEN

The first school of its kind in this country has just been established by Dr. Mabel S. Douglass, dean of the New Jersey College for Women—a school of politics for women.

It is Dean Douglass' contention that whereas preparation for motherhood should include hygiene, diet, child psychology, cooking and the ability to read and write, that she needs a sound training in civil government.

She claims that housework has been so simplified that women have more time than ever before.

Which causes me to ask: What do women do with the time they need to have that they had to have to do all the actual work they did? Having just visited in a home with all the modern conveniences, with a maid and a laundress thrown in, I must say I never had less time, nor did I ever see a busier woman than my hostess. But I am perfectly sure if any one suggested to her that she ought to study politics she would go in for that too. She is seriously engaged in doing what the community expects and apparently it expects quite a large order from her. If she stopped to think about it, I'm not sure she would not be glad to go back to the old ways, and let all the time savers go. She might come out ahead in the long run.

A Spanish dinner, which was served Thursday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Roberts, 2415 20th street, by Las Chaparritas club members closed a series of social affairs which has been given by the club during the last week.

The Spanish affair was reserved until the concluding event because the club is Spanish in motif.

Cut flowers were used throughout the Roberts' home and a vase of flowers centered each table for the dinner. Place cards were in the vivid colors suggestive of the Spanish theme.

The special guests were Misses Vonelle Gilkerson, Gertrude Quinlan, Lucille and Evelyn Hartson, Irene Henaley, Camille Stobaugh, Marie Butler, Elizabeth O'Connell, Jo Anne Estes, Elizabeth Pickett, Louise St. Clair and Brilla Mae Willis. Contest Features Fair Swine Show

The most interesting feature of the swine show Friday was the showman's contest sponsored by Douglas Pounds, of Acuff, superintendent of the swine department of the Panhandle-South Plains fair. First prize was awarded to Anthony Pokarny, a 20-year-old 4-H club member of Waverly, Neb., who is with the Fuller-Pratt herd of Milford, Neb.

This young swine breeder was crowned champion club showman at the Nebraska State fair in 1928, having a champion litter of pigs in club work and was named state pig club member, winning a trip to the International Livestock show at Chicago.

Closely contesting for the honor won by young Pokarny was Charles Wylie, who won second place. Charles has been showing with the Lillard Stock Farms.

Crawford Says Officials Adopted Only Course In Apparent Sacrifice Of Guards' Lives

CANON CITY, Colo., Oct. 4. (AP)—Warden F. E. Crawford, of the Colorado state penitentiary today gave the reasons which led him to accept what was an apparent sacrifice of the lives of prison guards in preference to capitulation to demands of the mutinous convicts.

"We adopted the only course open," he said. "Any other course would have made only for further mutiny and insurrection."

In the first of these serious outbreaks, three convicts were killed at Clinton prison, Danemora, N. Y., known to the underworld as "Siberia." Thirteen hundred prisoners there rushed the guards July 22 last, burned several of the prison buildings and finally were subdued by guards and troops from Plattsburg camp.

Six days later 1,700 inmates at the Auburn, N. Y., prison mutinied. Two prisoners were killed, 11 others wounded and four escaped. The prisoners set fire to half a dozen buildings, resulting in losses estimated at $250,000. State troopers aided guards in quelling the riot.

August 1 mutinous convicts at the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., rebelled over the quality of their food and the system of discipline. One prisoner was killed and three were injured.

ISAW THIS SADHU AT THE DASASHWAMEDH GHAT. HE SITS LOOKING STEADILY AT THE BLAZING SUN FROM SUNRISE TO SUNSET.

Girls expect him to know which type of man makes the best husband. Wives ask the cure for grouchy spouses. Old folk, writing in pained hand, implore him to find a ne'er-do-well-some who disappeared a score of years ago. Doctors, reading of some amazing medical fact in one of his cartoons, write to ask professional advice! But one group Ripley ignores. He won't answer letters from people who want him to settle wagers. "Rip" does not gamble, although he's passionately fond of horses and goes to all the big meets just to labor lovingly with his sketchbook and pencil. He does not drink for the simple reason that he believes bootleggers' liquor depreciates heavily any man's nervous and physical efforts. When he's not plunging up and down the seven seas he makes his headquarters at the New York Athletic Club— "just to keep in trim." Like the ancient Greeks, this great artist is a frank admirer of the physically perfect human being. Which explains why he is always drawing in his "Believe It or Not!" feature the pictures of virile, alert, physically admirable men and women. "How'd you ever learn to draw peo-

He brings magic to workaday lives wearing by tedious hours in homes, factories and offices. He is Robert LeRoy Ripley—but everybody, from society leaders to ship girls, from residents to lonely homesteaders on Manitoba ranches, calls him just—"Rip."

Vernon Gridders In Scoreless Tie

(Special To The Avalanche)
VERNON, Oct. 4.—Vernon's High school Lions showed a ragged offensive this afternoon in holding the Grandfield, Okla., Bearcats to scoreless tie. With the aid of the kicking of Ray Parker, assisted by Nixon. Three times the Bearcats threatened the Lion goal to run square into the arms of Parker and company. Vernon threatened the Grandfield goal once when Baird took a 5 yard heave tossed by Williams from midfield to the 10 yard line. A fumble by Manis stopped the advance.

Vernon marked up eight first downs to Grandfield's five and completed eight out of 19 attempted passes four of which were intercepted. The Bearcats completed three out of 15 attempted two of which were intercepted. The Vernon Lions rest for a week before meeting Gould, Okla., here October 14.

On the last play of the first period, Moore crashed the ball into the hands of the Antelopes for seven yards to place the oval within inches of the enemy goal but fumbles and O'Donnell recovered and kicked out of immediate danger.

Dear Mr. Ripley: My little ten year daughter is a great admirer of yours and she has made a copy of your "Believe It or Not" article. I would like to see it. Yours truly, Harriet L. Jones

Dear Mr. Ripley: I read "Believe It or Not" every evening. In fact we all do. "Ripley" is a boy with us whenever anything startling happens. We read you everything fine. Sincerely, Helen White Child

"Rip" has coined a popular phrase for the 120,000,000. . . "Believe it or not!"

Today "Rip" is the highest paid newspaper artist in the world—and he's only thirty-six. . . He makes his own price to address big banquets. He's popular on the radio. Tin Pan Alley, where the nation's songs come from, a noisy little district in New York, has just brought out a new hit. Sure, you guessed it—the title is: "Believe It or Not!"

At present a collection of his more provocative pictures and his travel adventures have been put in a book by a leading New York publishing house—and now "Rip" is a best-seller in the book stores all over the United States!

After the publication of a single picture "Rip" has received as many as 5,000 letters, telegrams, cablegrams and telephone calls from people accusing him of being the biggest liar in all Christendom. . . and he has yet to eat humble pie! He's always right, because he goes to infinite pains to verify his facts.

He has to employ a staff just to answer letters. He gets 150,000 letters a year—more fan mail, more mad notes, than any moving picture actor! And sixty per cent of the letters are from girls and women!

Why? Is it sex appeal? The appeal of the Hollywood pretty boys? Don't suggest that to "Rip" or he'll get indignant. And he's not the kind to pick a fight with—for he's six feet tall and lithely muscled. He's a champion handball player, a tennis mate of Vincent Richards, a sparring partner of Jack Dempsey.

No, most of the thousands of women who write him—some of them month after month—don't know whether he looks like Lon Chaney or the Apollo Belvedere. Then what's his allure? I'll tell you.

They write because he brings romance and glamour and glorious adventure into secluded lives. Bed-ridden women write that his pictures keep them cheerful. Lonely grandmothers call him "Son."

This may be the "age of freedom" for women. I dunno. I'm sixty-eight and I am convinced that there aren't as many feminine modernists as some would have you believe. I think the great majority of women in the United States still lead sheltered lives. They can't barge around like the men-folk. "That's why millions of 'em turn to "Rip." He takes them around the world. He tells them miraculous truths stranger than fiction. He brings a day-after-day thrill into their gentle existences.

Back in the Thirteenth Century there was a great fellow. His name was Marco Polo. He was a famed Venetian traveler and writer. He enthralled his generation. Today Ripley follows in his footsteps. Ripley is the modern Marco Polo.

Here are some typical letters from women.

"Dear Mr. Ripley: You make life really worth living! No matter how successful one may be, or how far away, if he is made of the right material, he will pass on his wonderful experiences to others less fortunate."

"Believe it or not, there is one good reason why I just won't for the world miss buying the paper every afternoon—and that's just to read your wonderful articles. How can anyone be so smart in beyond me. I have a confession to make. When your pictures first appeared, I said to myself 'That's all the bunk.' But, believe me, I have had my eyes opened and know better now. Won't you please have your picture printed in the paper so we girls can see what you really look like!"—(Miss) Evelyn N.

And a little girl writes: "Dear Mr. Ripley, I was very surprised and pleased to get your lovely picture. I have put it in the sitting room so we can all look at it. I am sending you one of mine taken as a pink fairy when I was in a church play at Sunday school."

"Mamma says it's very kind of you to bother with such a little girl like me."

"Yours truly sincerely, Elizabeth Clarke, Slinday, B. C."

An East Orange, N. J., clubwoman: "Our family and friends can't get too much for your pictures. They are thrilling. Congratulations on something really clever to our way of thinking."

From a Texas cowgirl: "I always look for you and enjoy your 'Believe It or Not' cartoons, and have often wondered how in the world you ever manage to get the data.

HELL
"Rip" Had to Prove to Himself That There is a Town in Norway Named Hell. He's Shown Here on the Spot.

How do you go about it anyway?"

From a Boston housewife "Why do they send our children to school to study dry-as-a-roast books when they might get a marvelous education from your fascinating pictures? My little girl is making a scrapbook of them."

Oftentimes the womenfolk—being suspicious creatures and hard to convince—write to "Rip" and demand proof of his amazing statements.

Miss Florence E. Butty, of Alton, O., wanted proof to furnish her English professor when Ripley wrote that Shakespeare's name could be spelled 4,000 different ways. "Rip," who answers every letter, furnished the proof. Miss Maxine Ensign didn't believe him when he drew a picture of Lin Chung and said he had double pupils in each eyeball. Again "Rip" proved it from official books and biographies.

"Rip," you see, is more skeptical than any of his vast public. He never believes anything until he proves it to his own satisfaction. That's why he's crossed the ocean just to verify a single gardening fact. That's why he's explored sixty-eight countries, including Norway, where he found the town of Hell.

He has been forced by his unique job to become an authority on geology, zoology, anthropology—not to speak of all sports events and mathematical puzzles!

Indeed, this astonishing young man has become a sort of International Court and Information Bureau. People write asking him to solve wage disputes, family troubles, athletic events, lever quarrels, obscure historical problems, contests over wills and business matters. He's an unofficial Supreme Court.

Young men ask him to tell them whether they ought to go in the radio or aviation business.

How do you go about it anyway?"

"You can't draw people," said, "unless you've studied anatomy. I've studied the human figure as hard as any surgeon. I've sat through ball games and prize fights and golf matches just to catch the play of muscles, the unconscious movements of arms and bodies and legs. I've studied the animals just as carefully. An artist can never stop studying."

He has his imitators, of course, but never does he say a word against them. He's a great artist. Even the high-brow critics—the boys who usually rave only about some foreigner with a funny name—say so. One of the letters he prizes is a charming note from the late Tad, the famous cartoonist.

"Dear Rip"—Tad wrote, back in March 29, 1926—"The jails are full of pickpockets and second-story men who steal a man's goods, but imitators in journalism who steal a man's style go free."

"The only way to beat them is to do the thing (as you are doing) a little bit better than they do it." Yours, Tad."

Ripley, with all the money and acclaim and glory that's heaped upon him these days, when he's such a smash hit, is just as shy and unpretentious as he was when I first met him, years ago, while I was traveling with a circus in South Africa. He's a true, he's sympathetic, he's a true man. He'll give you his last shirt, or carfare back to Kansas City, or pay your back rent. He seems to know everybody—senators, Atlantic shippers, railroad executives, bankers, reporters, mining engineers, all the stars of the sports world, society folk, South American ranch owners, English noblemen, Iceland fishermen.

What is the secret of his success? I'll tell you—He banishes boredom! His pictures make us realize that life is miraculous, breathless.

And that is why, I believe, that so many thousands of eager women write to him. Their minds are awakened today. They are in rebellion against stupidity and dullness. They turn to Ripley's fascinating pictures for emotional stimulation.

And—oh!—despite the bushes and lots of mess notes and pretty photos they send him—he remains a bachelor. Believe that or not!

INVESTIGATION OF CAPITAL LOBBIES MAY DEVELOP INTO CRAZE—STEWART

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—No gift of inhibition was required, when the senate ordered an investigation into William B. Shearer's relations with the Bethlehem and Newport News shipbuilding corporations and the American Brown-Boveri Electric company, to sense danger ahead.

The inquiry's authors took every precaution they could think of. It was to be limited strictly to Bill Shearer's activities, in behalf of the Bethlehem, the Newport News and the Brown-Boveri folk, at the Geneva naval conference in 1927. That was made abundantly clear.

Nevertheless, it was risky. In the well-known last analysis it was and is an investigation into the influence, if any, of a lobbyist for big interests, suspected of having done their utmost to shape public affairs to suit themselves.

In the particular case of Bill Shearer, the Bethlehem and Newport News shipbuilders and the Brown-Boveri outfit, it was evident that the investigation's purposes would be served by putting Bill, and the companies involved, on the pan.

However, there are a lot of other big interests snarled up in politics, which it might be far less desirable to have a fire built under.

The whole thing has been mighty unpleasant for the Bethlehem, the Newport News and the Brown-Boveri concerns.

As warship builders, their managements naturally were anxious to learn the very inside of everything that happened at the 1927 Geneva conference, considering that its object was to curtail warship building—though it fell down on the job.

By virtue of a loud voice, an overpowering manner, an impressive line of technical patter and super-salesmanship, Bill Shearer appears to have sold them on the idea that he knew their business better than they knew it themselves, talked them into paying him $250,000, mixed them into a lawsuit to pay him $250,000 extra, and landed them in the midst of a congressional investigation—all for nothing, unless they could not have discovered just as well by reading the daily papers.

But what undoubtedly hurt them worst was confessing, on the witness stand, what suckers they had been.

That Bill Shearer queered the Geneva conference of course is bunk.

Still, the inquiry has accomplished approximately the desired result. Warship building companies and big navy-ites are now in bad color, which fits admirably with pending negotiations to limit the navy's navies.

All this is very gratifying. It makes for international peace.

The next thing to do is to drop the whole matter before the craze for inquiring into lobbying begins to run wild.

Alas! The germ is out of the bottle. Is it going to be possible to get him back inside?—and corked up?

A year ago Senator Caraway introduced a resolution for just such an investigation—not a wholesale "probe" into everybody and everything, but the senator's resolution is still pending, and the senator himself, encouraged by the Shearer case, is yelling for its adoption for all he is worth.

Moreover, it is an opportune time, or an extremely bad one, depending on how one looks at it. The senate is in a rebellious mood. It is stirred up over tariff lobbying—as the low tariff-ites call it; and power lobbying—if there has been any such thing; and the chances are at least as good as even that Caraway will get a majority.

PROPER MEDICAL CARE VITAL IN CURING INFANTILE PARALYSIS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

No disease in the category of human ailments so frightens the mother and father in a family as infantile paralysis.

The disease cripples frequently when it does not kill. The crippling is difficult to treat after it occurs. The early symptoms of infantile paralysis are much like those of other acute illnesses and far too frequently because of an unwillingness to take the condition seriously in the early stages, the results are worse than they otherwise would be.

Paralysis does not always develop early, and seems to develop far less frequently if absolute rest and proper treatment are employed early in the course of the disease. Physicians are convinced that absolute and continuous rest for at least three weeks and inflamed nerves may have a chance to come nearer to normal conditions before active manipulative treatment is attempted.

At this stage of the disease the advice of a competent man is more important than at any other.

Far too frequently attempts are made to use home remedies. The tissues are rubbed with all sorts of liniments or lotions; cuttists or quacks of one type or another attempt manipulations or vibrations and the result is more harm to the patient. Only after all tenderness and pain have left the affected tissues must any manipulation be undertaken. At that time exercise prescribed by those familiar with the condition and with the tissues and with the patient may be undertaken very cautiously.

The swimming pool method, whereby the tissues are given support while undergoing exercise, has been generally accepted as worth while measure, and is now employed in many cities.

One of the most significant of the early symptoms of infantile paralysis is pain and discomfort in the muscles and joints out of all proportion to the fever, which seldom goes above 102 degrees. Pains in the neck, back and limbs with weakness of the limbs and difficulty of movement are particularly important as early signs.

For years the medical profession has been attempting to find a specific serum or vaccine that would control infantile paralysis. Thus far there are several measures available, but all of them are in what is called an experimental stage.

The measure most commonly accepted as useful is the injection of a serum taken from a patient who has recovered from the disease, with the idea that he will have developed in his blood, due to the attack and recovery from the disease, a substance which will aid him in fighting the condition.

A scientist has discovered that disease bacilli can travel around the world in the upper strata of air. This information will probably be filed by the health for use in case of a death of American people.

COSTA RICA DISCOVERED
On Oct. 5, 1502, Columbus discovered Costa Rica, the first spot in Central America where the Spaniards found the object of their arduous quest.

The famous explorer left Cadiz in May, 1502, on his fourth and last voyage to the new world he had discovered ten years before.

Near the Island of San Domingo a tempest put them in imminent peril and separated the five ships, but they came together again and on July 30 arrived at La Guanaca, the first place in Central America touched by Columbus.

They continued the voyage southward and encountered a furious tempest, in which they nearly perished. On Sept. 12 they doubled the Cape of Gracias a Dios, which the admiral so named because of the calming of the tempest there.

The ships were repaired and they continued the voyage, arriving at last on Oct. 5, at the region which today is the Republic of Costa Rica.

Today's Poem

THE SONNET
A sonnet is a moment's monument—
Memorial from the Soul's eternity
To one dead deathless hour. Look that it be,
Whether for lustrial rite or dire portent,
Of its own arduous fulness reverent.
Carve it in ivory or in ebony,
As Day or Night may rule; and let Time see
Its flowering crest imperied and serene,
A sonnet is a coin its face reveals
The soul's—its converse, to what Power is due—
Whether for tribute to the august appeals
Of life or dower in Love's high rite,
It serves, or, mid the dark wharf's cavernous breath,
In Charona palm it pay the toll to Death.

Income Taxes Of Shearer Probed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—Agents of the internal revenue bureau are investigating income tax returns of William B. Shearer, naval propagandist.

They want the facts underlying testimony he gave the senate committee investigating his actions at the 1927 Geneva naval limitations conference as an employe of shipbuilders.

Replying to a question while testifying, he said he had not paid income taxes, and contended the $51,229 received by him from the shipbuilders over a period of a little more than two years was to meet his expenses and could not be considered as salary.

While the bureau is prohibited by law from giving out any information concerning income tax returns, it operates on the broad principle of always investigating income tax returns of any person against whom charges have been made or which come to its attention.

The Innocent Cheat

By Ruth Dewey Croves
AUTHOR OF 'RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL,' ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
HELEN PAGE feels unhappy when her admirer accuses her of being in love with his handsome guardian, LEONARD BRENT. But he represents all that she knows of home and family and she adores him blindly.

Brent changes all his plans for Helen's future after a chance meeting with a driver haggard, CHARLES OWENS NELLIN, who tells a strange story which Brent is able to corroborate to some extent by a visit to Yonkers.

On graduating, Helen reminds her guardian of his promise to reveal her parentage and is amazed when he informs her that she is the heiress of a millionaire, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM, and that he promised her parents to take her to him when she was 18. They go to Yonkers and Brent introduces her to CUNNINGHAM. He offers her the lock of hair containing a picture of EVANGELINE CUNNINGHAM which he had taken from the dying Nellin.

Helen remains at Bramblewood while the lawyer investigates the story. Cunningham presents her with a new car which she drives everywhere. One day she accidentally hits a girl, EVA ENNIS, who has to be taken to the hospital. Eva's brother, ROBERT, upbraids Helen for her reckless driving and then, noting her unstrung condition, offers to take her home. Cunningham receives him graciously and invites him to spend the evening. The young couple go for a canoe ride.

Next day Brent arrives and when he hears about her meeting with Robert asks her to go to New York for dinner and the lock of hair. Coming home that night he kisses Helen for the first time and tells her that he loves her.

When Brent hears of Robert, he becomes alarmed and begins to monopolize all her spare time. He also wears his love for the first time. Cunningham gives an elaborate party in honor of Helen's 19th birthday, and Brent finds a lock on the floor which proves to be similar to Helen's. When he finds that Helen is wearing hers, he persuades her to take it off.

A few days later Eva and Helen overtake a canoe on the lake and Robert rescues them. While changing clothes, Eva reveals to Helen that she had lost an old-fashioned locket the night of her party.

Fearing Robert's attentions to Helen and annoyed by the demands on him for money by CARMELO SEGRE, Brent tries to think of a safe plan to secure Helen and her inheritance.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIV

It was several days before Brent went up to Bramblewood following the Sunday afternoon of Bob's rescue of Helen on the lake. His plans had been slow in maturing inasmuch as Helen's actions had an important bearing upon them.

On Monday he had telephoned to ask her to come down to New York and lunch with him, but she said her grandfather's condition required her to be with him.

The next day Brent telephoned a second time, only to receive the same message. He felt it unwise to be too insistent, and on Wednesday he decided to drive up to Yonkers and see for himself whether it really was the seriousness of her grandfather's illness that kept Helen at Bramblewood or whether Bob Ennis had anything to do with it.

On that day Mr. Cunningham was better and Brent was convinced that he had been so ill as Helen pretended. "She did not want to see me," he concluded.

But his conclusion was a trifle puzzling to him, because in manner she had not greatly changed toward him. She did not speak of Bob and Brent had no desire to bring up his name.

Had he been able to question her fully he would have learned that concern for her grandfather had driven all other thoughts from her mind—all thoughts except the one that she might need someone to lean upon when death finally claimed the frail old man who had become so dear to her.

Instinctively she turned to Brent when she thought of being left entirely alone in the world. But it was not the turning of a blindly in love and Brent sensed the difference, although he did not correctly analyze it.

"You mustn't exhaust yourself," he said to her while she was pouring tea for him. "I never saw your hands shake like that before. Don't you go out at all."

"I haven't been out since Sunday."

"Don't you think you could leave your grandfather tomorrow and come down to New York? We will go to a matinee and I'll have you back here early."

"I'd like to," Helen admitted. "He is much better today, perhaps he will be able to sit up tomorrow. Time passes much faster for him when he is at the window."

"What does the doctor say about him?"

"He says he is getting stronger. I mean stronger than he has been since Sunday, but that he will never be well again."

"He might live for years."

"No, not for years, but the doctor said he might linger for months— even a year. But any sudden shock will kill him."

Her words, serious as they were to Helen, were of greater significance to Brent, even a few months he told himself, might be sufficient time for Helen to realize that being in love and being in love with love are two different things.

At that moment, in Leonard Brent's mind, the seal was finally set upon Mr. Cunningham's fate.

"Will you telephone me in the morning?" he asked Helen, "to let me know if you will lunch with me?"

Helen promised, and shortly afterward Brent took his departure. He did not go up to take leave of Mr. Cunningham.

He spent a restless night—

He was troubled by his conscience but because the darling of his plan was perfectly apparent to him, if anything went wrong he would be unable to explain the act that he now depended upon to clear his path.

"But the odds are with me," he encouraged himself. "I've got to gamble."

Helen called him at 10 o'clock to say she would meet him for lunch, but that she could not stay to attend a matinee. Her grandfather's condition was slightly worse.

"But I told him last night that I might go down today," she explained to Brent, "and he insists that I go."

"Tell him I'm much obliged," Brent said pleasantly. "I've missed you, dear."

When he saw her she showed evidence of being under a severe strain.

"We will lunch in some quiet place," he told her, "and then I'll drive you home. It will be good for you to be out of doors."

Helen welcomed the suggestion of driving back to Bramblewood. "But we mustn't be too long at lunch," she pointed out, "or I won't have time to drive up. I promised to be back by tea."

Her information gave Brent a new thought. He began to act on it at lunch by ordering dishes that would require special preparation. Helen protested the delay but Brent assured her he would make up the time on the road.

"You need to relax and stop worrying," he cautioned her, "but I must question the signal the head waiter and whispered to him while Helen sat with her eyes closed, trying to overcome her weariness.

Presently a beautiful orchid corsage was brought to her. She put out her hand across the table in thanking Brent and for a moment he wondered if he had not been unduly alarmed about Bob Ennis.

But on the drive to Yonkers she was silent and pensive. Brent hardened his heart to carry out his plans, knowing that defeat for him might well be behind her mood.

He too felt silent, and they were only a short distance from Bramblewood when that which he had planned occurred. Suddenly, and without apparent reason, the car lurched to one side of the road. Brent had allowed the front wheels to strike a rut and had not attempted to control it. This gave him an opportunity to drive the car off the road under pretense of getting it righted.

It happened so quickly that Helen had no time to realize what Brent had done. She thought that she had been careless but she did not question it being an accident.

They came to a stop in a weed-grown depression so deep that Brent was unable to get the car back on the road under its own power.

"I'll have to go for help," he said to Helen when flames had appeared and the inevitable. "Fortunately we are near Bramblewood. They ought to be able to pull us out with the service car."

Helen started to climb to the ground. "I'll walk with you," she said.

"If you don't mind," Brent objected, "I'd rather you stayed here. I've some things in the car that I shouldn't like to leave unguarded. Besides, you are probably pretty badly shaken up. Better wait here, dear."

Helen sank back in the seat. She was a bit unnerved and very tired, but she held no particular appeal for her.

"I won't be long," Brent promised and started off.

When he reached Bramblewood he asked for Marks, and told Marks not to say in Mr. Cunningham's presence who it was that wanted to see his attendant.

"Miss Nellin and I have met with a slight accident," he explained. "And I wish to inquire if Mr. Cunningham's condition will permit us to tell him of it."

"He is not very good, sir," Ashe volunteered.

"Too bad," Brent said readily. "Try not to disturb him when you send Marks down."

When Marks came a few minutes later Brent told him that his car was ditched and asked him to send someone to get it to Bramblewood.

"I'll go up and reassure Mr. Cunningham," he said, moving toward the door.

"Please be careful Mr. Brent," Marks replied uneasily. "He has been fretting about Miss Nellin's absence. If he thought anything had happened to her..."

"I understand," Brent said. "I won't excite him."

But when he reached the sick man's room he was, even without words, a startling visitor. He had left his hat downstairs and his gray hair was now widely displayed.

"What a jerk he had loosened his hat. His coat was pulled off one shoulder and one cuff of his shirt was hanging below his tucked-up coat-sleeve.

Although he was as disheveled as he could make himself, he burst into Mr. Cunningham's room with the abruptness of a man who had lost all his self control.

The invalid, watching the door for Helen's coming, sat up with a start.

Brent came on, staggering slightly, and clutching at his throat with one hand while the other groped for support on the air.

Quite apart from the fact that he appeared to see the man upon it for the first time since he had entered the room.

Mr. Cunningham's face was as white as his pillow and his eyes were horribly distended. "What is it?" he attempted to say, but there was nothing more to the bed a cross to issue from his blue lips.

"Oh my God," Brent cried, as though the words had been crung from him in agony. "Helen, Helen she has been killed."

New Solo Flight Mark Established

LONG BEACH, Cal., Oct. 4. (AP) Vern Spetch, "not very tired" after 38 hours, 48 seconds aloft alone, today held the world's solo endurance non-refueling airplane flight record. He landed at Long Beach municipal airport at 8:27:03 o'clock last night, having taken off from the same field at 8:29:15 a. m., Tuesday. Although solo endurance marks are not among major records recognized by the National Aeronautical association, Joseph Nikrent, National Aeronautical association timer, officially certified Spetch had broken the former record of 36 hours, 56 minutes held by Lieut. Herbert J. Paby of Los Angeles.

Digging in the Namaqualand federal diamond fields of South Africa has just been resumed after a rest of several months.

Amarillo Woman Gains Daily By Taking Orgatone

"I've Never Found Anything To Equal It," She Declared; Suffered Five Years

If I could speak with everybody personally who has stomach trouble and constipation," said Mrs. J. W. Jones of Florida Ave., Amarillo, Texas, "I would advise them to take Orgatone, for I have tried it myself, and have never found anything to equal it. I have suffered from sick headache, and kidney trouble during the past five years until I thought I would go distracted. The pain would extend from the small of my back and up my spine till it seemed like to me right at the base of my brain. My appetite was very poor and my stomach was so out of order that what little I did eat made me miserable. I suffered terribly from indigestion and would bloat up so badly from the gas on my stomach that I could scarcely breathe, and there was also a dull aching pain in the pit of my stomach. My complexion was very bad, sallow and yellow looking and I just felt badly all the time.

"But Orgatone has been a wonderful blessing to me and no one could see the change that has taken place in me during the past few weeks and doubt it being a great medicine. All my stomach pains also kidney is gone now, and you may know I feel like a new person. My appetite is splendid. I am never bothered with indigestion or gas any more, no matter what I eat, and my color is fine. Not only have I been relieved of my kidney and stomach trouble but I have also gained wonderfully in strength, besides. Now, these are my reasons for thinking so well of Orgatone and I will gladly tell anyone who cares to call on me what I have found out by experience about it."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Lubbock at Bowen's Drug Store. (Adv.)

Weakened Marginal Holdings Dumped Overboard On All Sides In Hectic Market Session Friday

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER Associated Press Financial Writer. NEW YORK, Oct. 4. (AP)—The fall house cleaning on the stock market assumed drastic proportions today. Although prices dropped less precipitately than yesterday, selling swelled to huge volume as weakened marginal holdings were dumped overboard on all sides. Shares totaled 5,623,900 shares, the biggest day's turnover since the 8,200,000 share day of last March. The ticker was swamped, running for an hour and a quarter after the closing gong.

Prison Mutiny

was waiting to confer with Governor Adams, who was due in Canon City from Denver.

Set Convicts to Work At the same time, he announced that convicts at the penitentiary will be set to work immediately to rebuilding cell houses No. 1 and 2, which were destroyed by flames during the riot, as well as the main dining hall and the chapel, which were likewise burned.

Discipline In Force Meanwhile, strict disciplinary measures were placed in force pending resumption of regular prison routine. This afternoon by national guard tents were pitched in the prison yard within the walls. These tents will house a majority of the convicts in the prison until the cell houses can be built.

Recalling our debt to others is our social obligation. Man is a social being. That "No man liveth unto himself" is a well known social axiom. We are dependent on others from birth to death.

What doth it profit, my brethren, if a man say he hath faith, but have not works? It is useless for a man to claim that he has Christian faith, if his life does not prove it. Saying that a man has a thing, does not give it to him. Can that faith save him? Faith such as that? Mere theoretical faith apart from life? "James never questioned that faith is the instrument of salvation, but he insists that if faith is real it will manifest itself in works. Faith is trust and devotion and obedience and love; a faith which is mere assent to a creed is not worthy the name. A faith which does not produce works cannot save. General Topic: Recognizing our Debt to Others. Scripture Lesson: Mark 12:28-34; James 2:14-17.

Mark 12:28. And one of the scribes came, and heard them questioning together, and knowing that he had answered them well, asked him, What commandment is the first of all?

29. Jesus answered, The first is, Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is one: 30. And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength; 31. The second is this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these.

32. And the scribe said unto him, Well said, that he is one; and there is none other but he: 33. And to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbor as himself, is more than all the burnt-offerings and sacrifices. 34. And when Jesus saw that he answered directly, he said unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God. And no man after that durst ask him any question.

James 2:14. What doth it profit, my brethren, if a man say he hath faith, but have not works? can that faith save him? 15. If a brother or sister be naked and in lack of daily food, 16. And one of you say unto them, God be with you, and ye depart, but the things needful to the body, what doth it profit? 17. Even so faith, if it have not works, is dead in itself.

Fair Sidelights

Pick-Ups Gathered At Fairgrounds

DOUGLAS POUNDS, of Acuff Lubbock county Master Farmer, has been praised unreservedly by swine breeders exhibiting at the Panhandle South Plains fair. "He is an ideal superintendent of the swine department," says George P. Lillard, of Arlington, pioneer in development of the swine industry since 1888. "He has done everything possible to make me feel at home, and I want to express my appreciation. The fair association has chosen the right man."

LOCATION PRAISED

"Lubbock is ideally located for this great fair," Mr. Lillard expressed. "Benefits of the exposition to this city are immeasurable."

HOG CALLER HERE

The premier exhibitor is accompanied here by his son, Joe Lillard, who has won numerous prizes in hog calling contests. He has given his famous swine call before a Fox movie-camera.

NEEDS MORE TIME

"I regret that I have not had more time to spend in talking with exhibitors," said Byron C. Dickinson, president of the fair association, in talking with a group of other officials. "Many of the leading exhibitors of the Southwest are showing here, and much can be learned by getting their ideas."

MAKES HIGH DIVE

Charles Steir, known as "Suicide Lincoln," who plays the Rube role at the Fun on the Farm show, made his first high dive in several weeks, at the fair grounds yesterday afternoon. He has been considerably nervous since his wife disclosed following injuries sustained in a dive at the Abilene fair about ten days ago, but he executed a clever jack-knife swan dive. "The show business has a strange grip on its personnel," Blake, head of the Hadano diving trio, explained.

Economy In Fuel Effected By Gins On South Plains

Many Dollars Being Saved In Operation Of Plants By Use Of Cotton Burrs Instead Of Oil And Coal

(Special To The Avalanche) LUBBOCK, Oct. 4.—Cotton gins here, and most of those over the entire South Plains section, are this year effecting for the first time an economy in fuel costs which will save them many dollars in operating their plants. Instead of burning oil, coal or some other costly fuel, gins are burning cotton burrs in their furnaces, having specially constructed flues which carry the burrs to their furnace rooms while cotton is being ginned. This is possible because of the common practice of pulling the cotton bolls instead of picking the cotton from the burr. The farmer carries 2,000 to 2,300 pounds of cotton to the gin, from which he gets a bale of lint weighing 500 or more pounds, while the seed weigh about 1,800 pounds, leaving 500 or more pounds of burr from each bale. Special machinery is used in each gin to separate the burrs from the cotton before the staple goes to the saws to be separated from the seed. As a result of this new innovation, gins formerly using oil-burning engines are again using steam engines. And, while effecting an economy, a nuisance is disposed of. Hitherto, great heaps of burrs would accumulate at a gin during the ginning season, creating fire hazards, besides being unsightly and unsanitary while decaying and too difficult to burn. The burrs are eliminated. The burrs are of no value to the

Legionaires Turn Homeward As Meet Concludes Friday

Ambitious Program Made For Activities of Organization Before Meeting In Boston Next Year

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4.—Turning homeward after their national convention, members of the American Legion today had before them an ambitious program of activities before gathering in Boston next autumn. The veterans had placed direction of their organization in the hands of O. L. Bonehamer, first national commander to be elected without opposition. Bonehamer was headed for a rousing reception at his home town of El Dorado, Ark. Program Outlined An extensive program of work in behalf of veterans and their families was outlined in resolutions adopted by the convention, outstanding features including proposals for material increases in hospital facilities for disabled men and an urgent request that the government provide funds for families of men in hospitals. During the next year the legion also expects to make progress toward passage of a law providing for universal conscription of capital, labor, industry and transportation in case of war. The immediate objective is adoption by congress of the Reed-Walwright resolution calling for a commission to draft a suitable law. The auxiliary, also under new officers, headed by Mrs. Donald Macrea of Council Bluffs, Iowa, was reinstated to carry on its work of rehabilitation, Americanism and child welfare. Three-wheel motorcycles were a feature of this year's show at Oslo Norway.

New Investigation In Senate Arises

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Possibility of a new congressional investigation arose today on the basis of Comptroller General McCar's report that millions of dollars of government money had been lost through activities of the shipping board's merchant fleet corporation.

Chairman Jones of the senate commerce committee and Senator Fletcher of Florida, ranking democratic member, chose to withhold comment on the report. The suggestion was advanced that McCar's proposal for legislation to place the corporation's activities under scrutiny of his office called for an investigation. Mr. Joseph A. Culver, of 812 E. Main St., Muskogee, Okla., says: "I was a nervous wreck and forced myself to work and eat. I felt like quitting work before the day was up. On taking Tanlac, my appetite picked up so I could eat anything, soon slept well and gained 10 lbs." Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas, pain, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist. Your money back if it doesn't help.

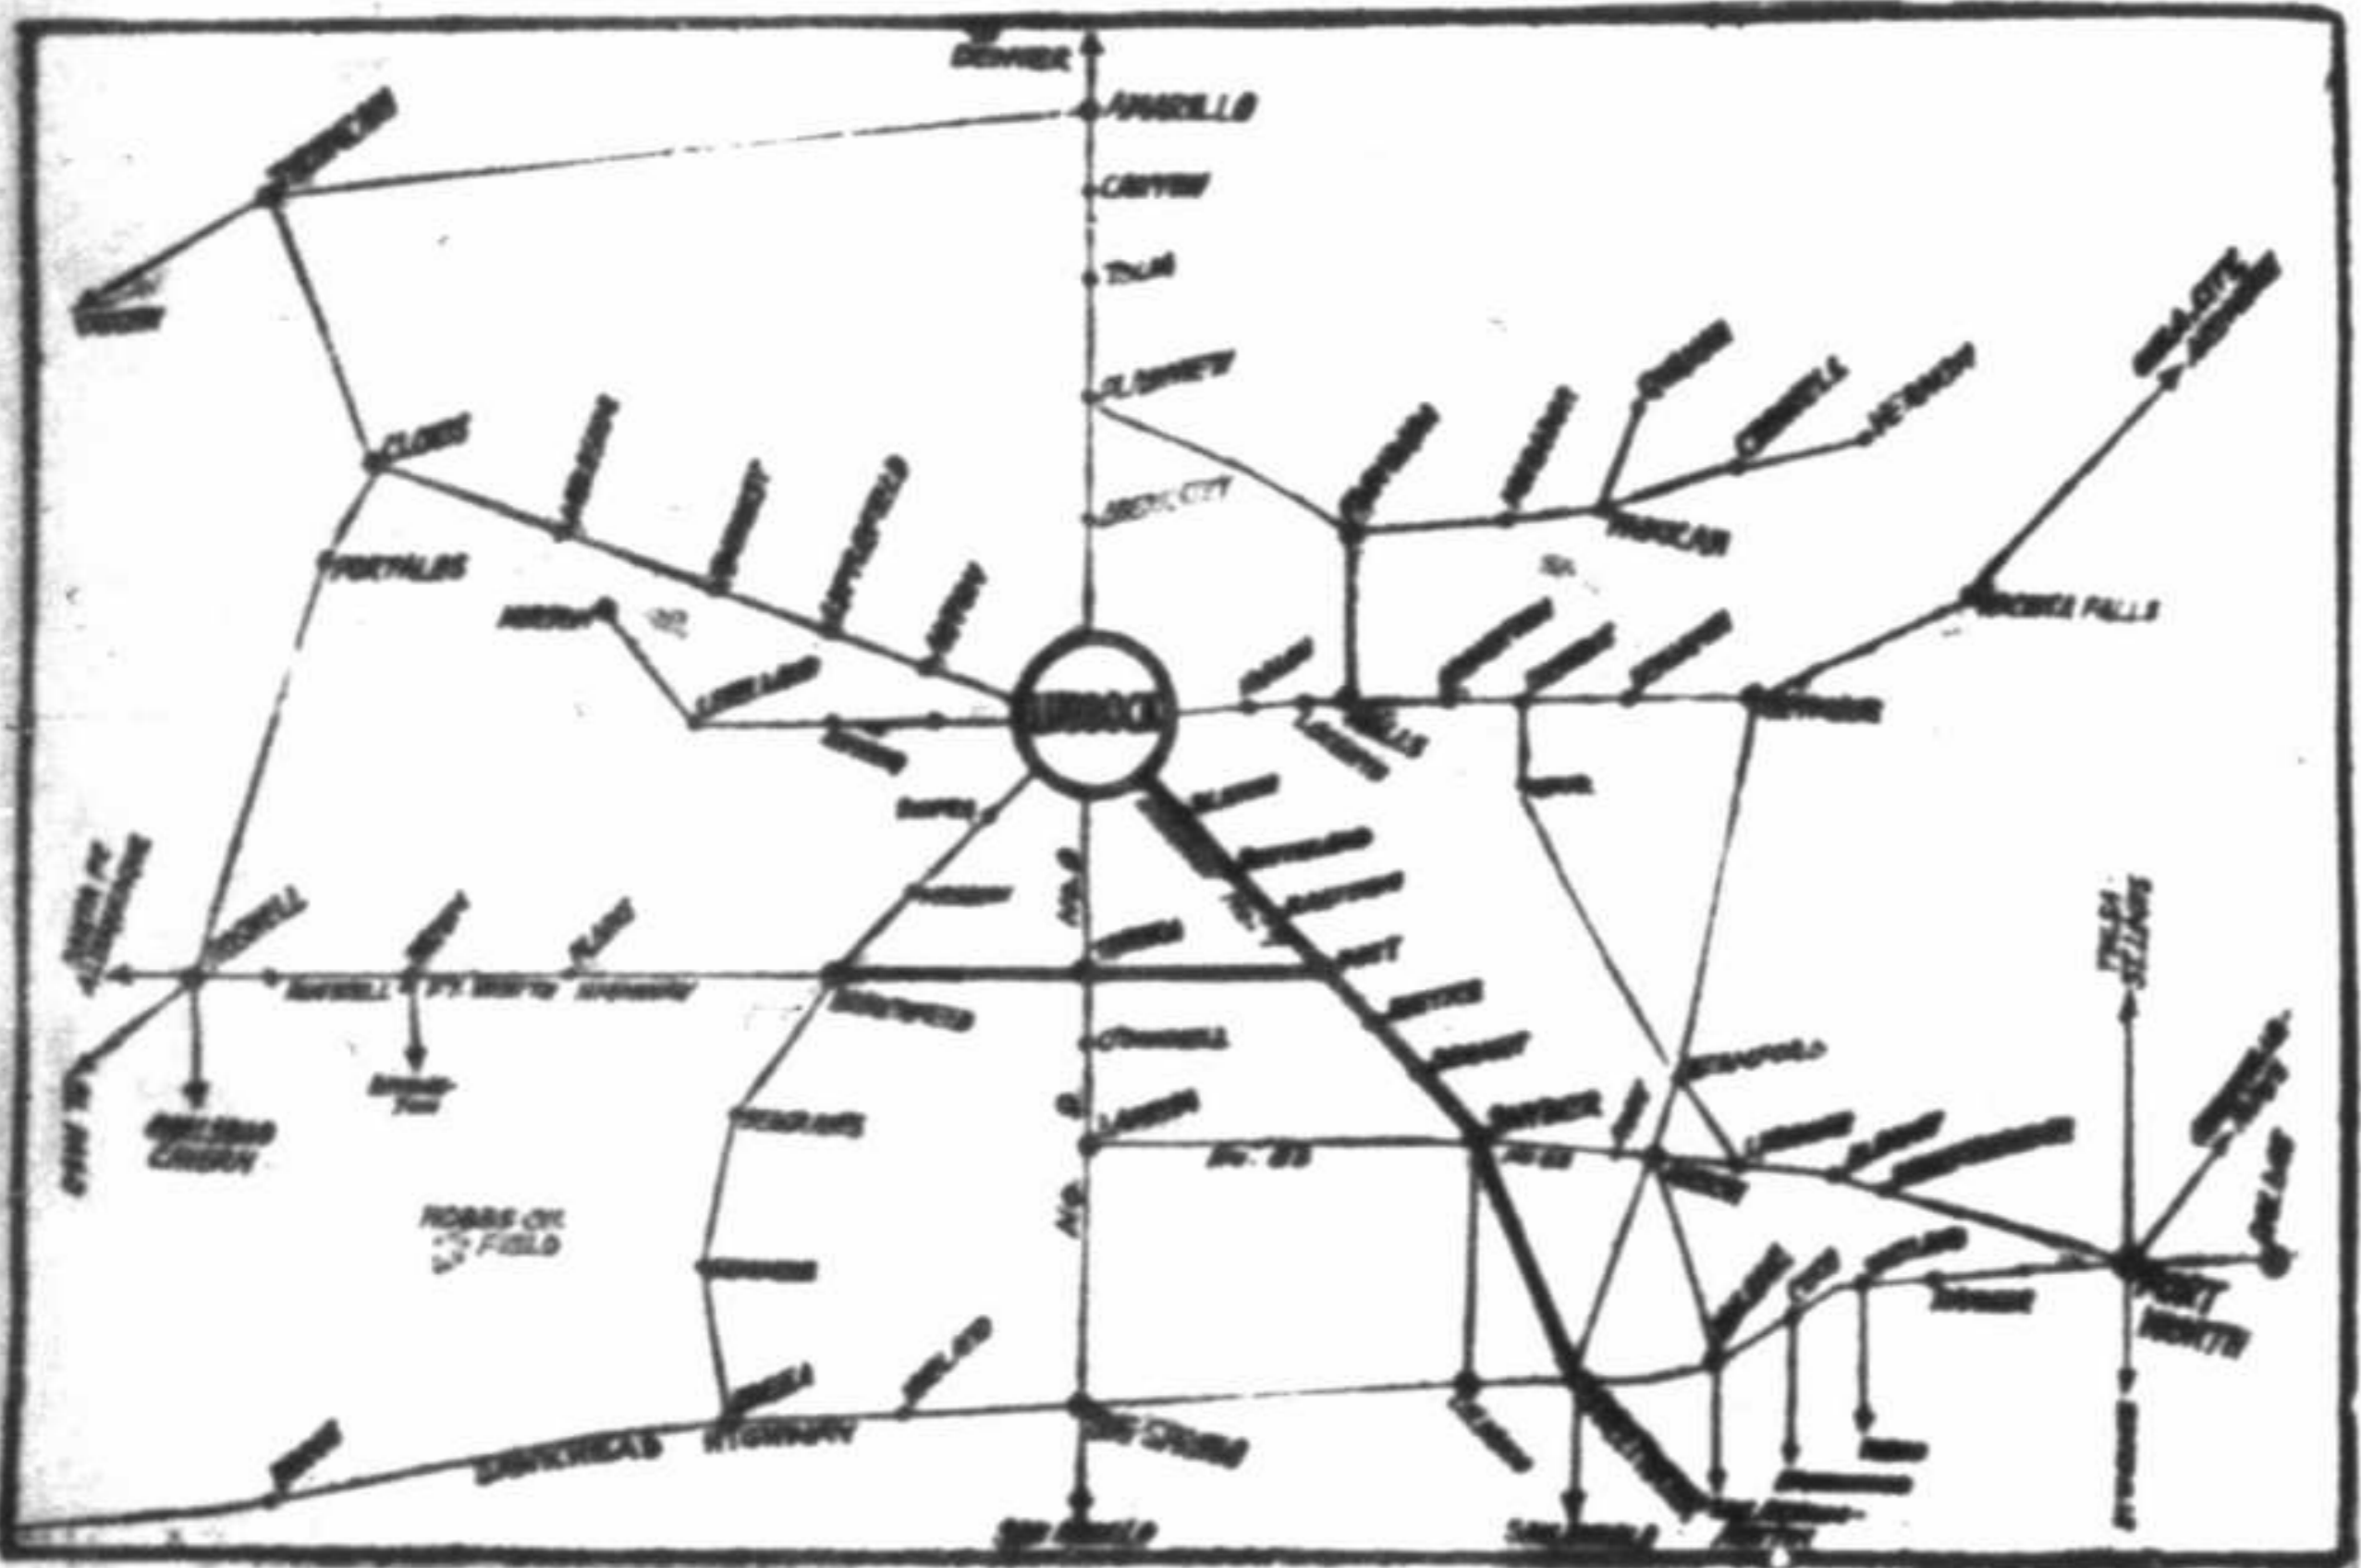

Run-Down, Weak, Nervous?

To have plenty of firm flesh and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just give Tanlac the chance to do for you what it has done for millions. Mr. Joseph A. Culver, of 812 E. Main St., Muskogee, Okla., says: "I was a nervous wreck and forced myself to work and eat. I felt like quitting work before the day was up. SAYS RATES UNFAIR Discrimination Claimed By Livestock Producer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—F. S. Jackson, of Topeka, Kan., representing Missouri river livestock producers told the Interstate Commerce commission today freight rates on livestock proposed by certain members of the commission would result in rank discrimination. Appearing at the commission's investigation of western live stock rates, Jackson contended the rates should progress uniformly as the distance increases. Jackson said he owned three farms and the freight rate on hogs from the farm the greatest distance from Chicago would be less than from the nearest farm. London has a city beautiful campaign.
