OC trustee free on bond

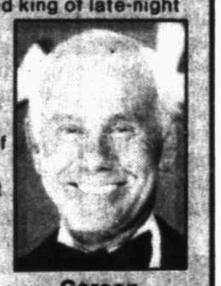

A 54-year-old Odessan was free on a $100,000 unsecured appearance bond following his arrest and indictment on 13 bank fraud and related charges, according to U.S. Magistrate Robert R. Sykes, who set the bond at a Friday afternoon hearing. William Michael Furman, a member of the Odessa College Board of Trustees, was arrested Friday after he was indicted on four counts of bank fraud, two counts of aiding and abetting, two counts of misapplication of funds and five counts of improper participation in loans by a federal grand jury in New Mexico, said FBI Special Agent Richard D. Schwein in El Paso.

GENEVA — Mother Teresa is to travel to Baghdad at the invitation of Saddam Hussein's government, a U.N. official said Friday. Sadruddin Aga Khan initially said the Nobel Peace prize winner would travel Monday to Baghdad aboard a special U.N. flight from Geneva. But a U.N. spokesman, Theo Loir, said later that she would travel on a commercial airliner from Rome, prompting speculation that officials had second thoughts about getting the United Nations involved in what might be perceived as an effort by Saddam to improve his image.

India weeps for Gandhi

■ Body of slain leader cremated in ancient Hindu rite.

Associated Press

NEW DELHI, India — Hundreds upon hundreds of mourners wept and hurled rose petals onto the blazing funeral pyre of Rajiv Gandhi on Friday as India once again paid sorrowful tribute to a leader struck down by political hatred.

The widow and children of Gandhi, the former prime minister who was slain Tuesday by an apparent suicide bomber, committed his body to fire in ancient Hindu rites, piling fragrant sandalwood on the white-shrouded corpse atop a flower-strewn brick platform.

The priest presiding over the ceremony had also overseen the cremation of Gandhi's mother, Prime Minister India Gandhi, after she was assassinated by her Sikh bodyguards in 1984.

About 250,000 people attended the nationally televised funeral or participated in the nearly 10-mile procession that began at the home of Gandhi's grandfather, India's first prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru. Foreign dignitaries attending included Vice President Dan Quayle.

African Jews fly to Israel

■ Government allows Ethiopians to be airlifted from the country.

By Clifford Krauss
N.Y. Times News Service

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — Israel began transporting 16,000 Ethiopian Jews to Israel on Friday in an intensive airlift that had secretly been agreed to by a besieged Ethiopian government on the brink of collapse.

With rebel forces now within eight miles of the capital and gunfire ringing out, Israeli and Ethiopian planes took off at the rate of two an hour through the day and night, each carrying about 350 of the Jews.

Israelis supervising the evacuation of what are believed to be the last Ethiopian Jews in the country said they expected the operation to end Saturday. The Jews are black Africans and members of "Beta Israel," or the House of Israel.

In 1973, Israel traced their ancestry to biblical times, establishing their right to immigrate to Israel, but the Ethiopian government barred their departure for political reasons.

Because of fears that the safety of the Jews could be imperiled by those who resent their free departure and envy the benefits that they have received from the Israeli Embassy while waiting to go, the schedule for their evacuation had been a closely held secret.

Hale goes back to jail after bond revoked

■ New evidence was presented at hearing concerning safety of potential witnesses.

By David Morris
Staff Writer

U.S. Magistrate Robert R. Sykes revoked Bryan Allen Hale's bond Friday and sent him back to jail after the prosecution offered new evidence concerning some of Hale's alleged activities.

"Based on evidence that's been presented today, especially concerning the safety and welfare of the potential witnesses in this case...it is my determination that there are not conditions of release (for Hale) that would reasonably assure the safety of the community," Sykes said.

The ruling means that Hale, the former Glenwood Psychiatric Hospital administrator accused of receiving child pornography, probably will remain jailed until his trial.

Hale's attorney, Glen Aaron II, said he didn't know whether he would appeal Sykes' decision.

"At some point...you have to start preparing for trial and pretrial and the main issue in the case," said Aaron, who had argued that Hale would have abided by any terms of release imposed by Sykes.

Hale, 47, had been free on $25,000 bond on federal charges of receiving child pornography.

He also had posted a $50,000 bond in Ector County stemming from burglary charges against him there.

Assistant U.S. Attorney William W. Torrey presented evidence during a Friday hearing that he said showed Hale had been "stalking" a 13-year-old Odessa girl.

The evidence — in the form of electronic messages left on a computer bulletin board by someone using Hale's code name, "Ready Man," — indicated a bizarre obsession with the girl and her mother, whom the bulletin board user identified with apparent

Midland one of 34 finalists in KTB contest

Staff Report

AUSTIN — Thirty-four cities — including Midland — have been named finalists in the 1990-91 Governor's Community Achievement Awards, officials with Keep Texas Beautiful Inc. announced Friday.

Midland is one of four finalists in Category 8, which is for cities with populations of 60,001 to 100,000. The other finalists in that category are Denton, Grand Prairie and Wichita Falls.

There are total of nine categories.

The awards are for recognition of the cities' grassroots efforts to keep Texas the cleanest, most beautiful state in America, said Nancy Chancellor, of Lufkin, Keep Texas Beautiful board member.

Finalists in the other eight categories are:

Congress extends Bush's 'fast-track' authority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress on Friday extended President Bush's authority to make trade agreements free of amendment, providing the strengthened hand he said he needed to tear down barriers with Mexico and other trading partners.

By a 59-36 vote, the Senate followed the House's lead in extending Bush's "fast-track" authority for two years, despite opponents' arguments that it could eventually cost American jobs.

Bush, who had made the issue a centerpiece of his 1991 legislative program, lauded the action as "the best economic news in months."

"I am very, very happy indeed," he said in Boston, where he spoke to a business group en route to a Memorial Day weekend vacation in Maine. After the vote, Bush telephoned congratulations to Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari, who hopes a free-trade agreement with the United States will spur economic recovery and modernization in Mexico.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said trade negotiations with Mexico would begin soon, perhaps as early as the week of June 11.

Bush had argued that without fast-track, America's trading partners would be reluctant to negotiate tariff reductions, fearing the agreements would later be changed by Congress.

Under the fast-track concept, trade negotiators complete agreements with foreign countries and submit the full package to Congress. Lawmakers have one take-it-or-leave-it vote; they are prohibited from changing individual sections.

Friday's vote was actually on a motion to end that arrangement. The president's authority will remain in place until June 1993 because Congress did not eliminate it.

The issue brought out congressional divisions concerning the likelihood of a free trade agreement with Mexico, similar to the one the United States negotiated with Canada in 1988.

Supporters of a such an agreement with Mexico touted the benefits of a North American free-trade zone bringing together the largest consumer market in the world, with an annual output of $6 trillion.

But opponents — including labor unions, environmentalists and consumer groups — predicted job losses and degradation of the environment under a U.S.-Mexico free-trade agreement.

Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., led the opposition, saying such an agreement will destroy the ailing textile industry in his home state as companies flock south of the Rio Grande where labor is cheap.

On the other hand, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said, "What we've seen is, I think, a great win for America still exercising its leadership in world trade." He said the vote "shows how important, I think, our relationship is with Mexico."

"This is a big step forward," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas. "We're going to move very rapidly in negotiating with Mexico." He predicted a trade pact could be finished by the end of 1993.

Senators' regional interests played a more significant role in the vote than did party affiliation. In both the House and Senate, for instance, the Democratic leadership, including Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, sided with Bush.

After the vote, Hollings said he thought the vigorous fight will lead the administration to be cautious on the trade deals it makes with Mexico. Other senators promised to continue the fight to ensure American workers are protected against job losses.

"We should not abdicate our responsibility to safeguard the environment and ensure fair treatment for workers on both sides of the border," said Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio.

"This U.S.-Mexico free trade agreement is really a jobs program for Mexico," said Sen. Don Riegle, D-Mich. "What is clear, the United States needs a jobs program for this country."

Studies have presented conflicting findings on the possible impact of a free-trade zone with Mexico, but they generally indicate export-driven areas of the U.S. economy will benefit while the number of low-paying American jobs may shrink.

Weather Summary
Weekend to be warm

Staff Report

A fair and warm holiday weekend is on tap for the Permian Basin, according to forecasters with the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

The high today is expected to be near 90 under partly cloudy skies, with a 20 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. Winds will be from the south at 10-20 mph, NWS said.

Tonight will see a continued 20 percent chance of thundershowers, while the mercury dips to the mid-60s. Sunny skies and a high in the low 90s are expected Sunday.

Memorial Day activities should be greeted by partly cloudy conditions, with the high again in the 90-degree range. Lows should continue in the mid-60s.

After an overnight low of 62, Friday's high was 86, more than 20 degrees short of the record 108 set two years ago on May 24, 1989. The record low for today's date is 50, set in 1954.

STATE

Most of Texas had partly cloudy to cloudy skies Friday, except for sunshine in El Paso. The high degree of cloudiness stemmed from a moist and unstable air mass east of the West Texas mountains.

Evening thunderstorms developed in response to the unstable air from the southeastern Panhandle to the Big Country and Edwards Plateau into Central Texas. Other storms rumbled across North Texas.

Torrential downpours caused street flooding in Bridgeport and Denton. In addition, the Prairie Dog Fork of the Red River was overflowing its banks in Hall County.

In Waco, weather officials issued a heat advisory for temperatures in the mid 90s couples with high humidity, which made the temperature feel like 105 degrees.

Forecasters expected the thunderstorm activity to move eastward today. Mostly cloudy statewide with highs mainly in the 80s and 90s.

NATION

Rain and storms were scattered from the Rockies to the southern and middle Atlantic Coast states Friday.

Thunderstorms developed in the warm and moist air to the south of a cold front over the central Plains and over the southern high Plains.

Parts of south-central Nebraska were awash in lowland flooding for a second day as heavy thunderstorms hit the state.

Afternoon flooding hit Lexington, Neb., where up to a foot of water filled backyards and basements. Earlier, a downpour in nearby Cozad, Neb., added to standing rainwater plaguing the area since Wednesday.

The Associated Press also contributed to this report.

JEWS: Ethiopians fly to Israel

had been in place for weeks, but Israeli officials said Friday that a letter from President Bush to the new Ethiopian leadership on Thursday provided the breakthrough that persuaded officials in Addis Ababa to allow the Jews to leave all at once.

Early Friday morning, Israeli relief workers went to the neighborhood where the Jews have been housed since being brought to Addis Ababa from traditional areas in the north. The Israelis entered the mud huts, waking families to tell them that the time had come for them to go.

A near panic broke out as the Jews were told to board buses for the Israeli Embassy, where they were assigned flights for the 1,800 mile journey to Tel Aviv. But Israeli guards in plainclothes and Ethiopian soldiers bearing Kalashnikov assault rifles and sticks managed to calm the crowd.

Among the first aboard the buses to the airport was a boy born only a few hours earlier. The mother said she named him Israel.

Demelash Aysheshin, 21, an Ethiopian Jewish teacher, compared the exodus to the departure of the ancient Jews from Egypt, led by Moses. "Isaiah's prophecy has finally been fulfilled," he said. "All Israelites can now return to Canaan, the land of our forefathers."

"It's a miracle," said Asher Naim, Israel's ambassador to Ethiopia.

With the position of the Ethiopian government deteriorating in the last month, the Jews had essentially become bargaining chips. Before his flight into exile Tuesday, President Mengistu Haile Mariam ordered their emigration slowed, hoping to gain arms from Israel and perhaps aid from Washington in exchange for a controlled departure.

Israeli diplomats said the bottleneck ended after Bush sent a letter to the acting president, Lt. Gen. Tesfaye Gebre-Kidan, saying the United States would help mediate a settlement to the civil war in return for the immediate emigration of all the Jews.

In a last-ditch attempt to hold the line against the steady rebel advance and negotiate something other than an unconditional surrender, Gebre-Kidan agreed, diplomats said.

State Department and White House officials also pressed representatives of the rebels to halt their advance on the capital until the Jews were safely off the ground. The rebels reportedly agreed shortly before midnight on Thursday.

The mass emigration of Jews from Ethiopia began with a clandestine airlift in 1984. In that effort, called Operation Moses, 12,000 Jews were relocated until disclosure of the operation brought Ethiopia under criticism from Arab neighbors, causing Addis Ababa to halt the airlift.

The flow of Jews from Ethiopia resumed in 1989 at a rate of a few hundred a month, when Israel and Ethiopia restored diplomatic ties after a 16-year hiatus. Ethiopia cut off the flow intermittently in an effort to obtain Israeli arms. The current effort is called Operation Solomon, after the ancient King of Israel.

Ethiopian Jewish tradition holds that the Jews descended from the leading families of Jerusalem who accompanied Menelik, son of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, on his journey to Africa.

The origins of the Ethiopian Jews is still debated. Some biblical experts suggest they are descendants from the lost tribe of Dan, while anthropologists say they might have migrated from Egypt or Yemen. In the 18th century, they faced the threat of death for their beliefs, but by the 20th century their freedom of religion greatly improved.

Their religious practices come from the Bible, and until recent years they were unaware of Jewish practices derived from the Talmud or relatively modern rabbinical teachings. Ethiopian Jews sacrifice goats and lambs at Passover, and Saturday Sabbath services incorporate rituals unknown to Jews outside Ethiopia.

On one of the buses leaving Friday, an 18-year-old boy named David Degafan said that once he reached Israel he would study to be a doctor. "In the letters we receive from our families, they tell us to come quickly," he said. "They say Israel is a beautiful country."

Around him, mothers dressed in ornate shawls and embroidered pleated dresses calmed their babies with tin cups of milk and water.

The Jews later huddled on the airport tarmac surrounded by Israeli guards with pistols tucked in their pants and larger-caliber weapons hidden in backpacks. As the Ethiopian Jews waited for their El Al and Ethiopian Airlines charter flights, in the distance Ethiopian soldiers unpacked sacks of grains from military cargo planes.

"I am very anxious to see Israel for myself," said Shemlis Bitaw, 65, a man who wore a copper hoop earring and a bright orange and green scarf around his head like a turban. "I want to find a patch of land and plant cabbage as a farmer."

Israeli officials said two planes an hour — C-130s, Boeing 747s, Boeing 727s and Boeing 757s — would work through the Jewish Sabbath until all the Jews were gone.

Ethiopian Jews have worked as blacksmiths, weavers and potters. The gap between their culture and the modern world was illustrated with almost disastrous effect last year when some of them tried to start a fire to make lunch in the back of an aircraft taking them to Israel.

GANDHI: Widow breaks with tradition that helped guide India to independence in 1947 and dominated its politics since.

(From 1A)

The 46-year-old leader's death also deprived the dominant Congress Party of its leader and left it groping for a successor less than three weeks before the interrupted general elections are to resume.

The party's 18-member leadership committee is to meet today in what could become a divisive struggle for the mantle of leadership.

The leadership, hoping to avoid a fight and to draw a massive sympathy vote, had offered Gandhi's position as party leader to his Italian-born widow Sonia, 43, but she refused.

Mrs. Gandhi, who is Roman Catholic, broke with Hindu tradition and attended the funeral. Clad in white, India's color of mourning, she watched as her son, Rahul Gandhi, a 20-year-old sophomore at Harvard University, sprinkled holy water from the Ganges around his father's body.

In accordance with tradition, he added clarified butter to the wood to help spread the flames, sprinkled a mixture of herbs, grains and sweets that symbolize the necessities of life, and touched a torch to the pyre.

Mrs. Gandhi swayed slightly, then crumpled onto the supporting arm of her 21-year-old daughter, Priyanka.

As the flames rose high, Rahul Gandhi took a 10-foot wooden staff and gave his father's skull a symbolic tap to release his soul to seek rebirth.

With the conclusion of the solemn rites, hundreds of Indians rushed toward the funeral pyre, chanting the former prime minister's name and throwing rose petals on the leaping seven-foot flames.

The funeral ceremony was a mix of military ritual and 5,000-year-old Vedic tradition. The chanting of hymns in the ancient Sanskrit language was momentarily drowned out by a gun salute.

A helicopter circled overhead dropping rose petals. The pallbearers were the chiefs of the army, navy and air force, and 2,150 soldiers took part. Armed troops of the elite Black Cats commando unit, dressed in black jumpsuits, escorted the procession through the city center.

"People had a lot of expectations from Rajiv. He had a good vision for India," said Neeraj Ghai, an accounting student who marched beside the gun carriage bearing Gandhi's body.

"I didn't vote for him. I didn't vote for anyone. They are all corrupt. But Rajiv had a lot of potential. The young people of India expected good things from him," he said.

Though the rites were in accordance with Hindu tradition, the ceremony also was true to the family's support for India's religious diversity. Muslim, Christian, Buddhist, Jewish and Bahai prayers were recited before Gandhi's body was brought to the pyre, wrapped in the national flag.

Foreign dignitaries attending included Quayle; Britain's Prince Charles and Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd; German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher; Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, and the prime ministers of Bangladesh, Pakistan, Sri Lanka and Nepal.

Police and government officials say Gandhi's killer was a woman who strapped plastic explosive onto a denim belt and triggered the device while bending over as if to touch Gandhi's feet in homage.

pseudonyms.

"What must it be like to have this ghoul out there?" Torrey asked. "What must it be like for a 13-year-old girl?"

But Aaron argued that anyone who knew Hale's code name and password could have accessed the bulletin board and left incriminating messages.

It was Hale's alleged use of the bulletin board that led to his arrest April 8, when undercover U.S. Customs Agents tracked him to Glenwood after selling him a videotape entitled "Educating Valerie" via the computer network.

Friday's hearing was Hale's initial appearance before a judge following the return of a five-count superseding indictment against him May 7.

Hale, originally indicted April 11 on one count of receiving child pornography, pleaded innocent Friday to the new charges.

The superseding indictment, in addition to the original charge of receiving "Educating Valerie," included charges of sending obscene material through the mail and receiving child pornography in the form of photocopies of a magazine entitled "Lolita."

The other two counts of the indictment were forfeiture charges allowing the recovery of certain evidence seized in the government's investigation of Hale.

During that investigation, federal agents found documents among Hale's possessions that may link him to the March burglary of Glenwood Community Relations Manager Marilee Anne Kyler's Odessa home.

If convicted on state burglary charges, Hale — who has been replaced at Glenwood — could face up to 99 years or life in prison and up to a $10,000 fine.

Receiving child pornography carries a maximum punishment of 10 years in federal prison and a $250,000 fine. Sending obscene material through the mail carries a maximum penalty of five years and a $250,000 fine.

SKYDIVER: Parachutist survives two-mile fall

(From 1A)

Geauga County after falling 10,500 feet.

She suffered spinal bone fractures, a fracture of a small bone in the pelvis area, at least two broken ribs and many bruises.

Dr. Robert J. White, Metro-Health director of neurosurgery, and Dr. Mark A. Malangoni, director of surgery, said Miss Shields apparently suffered no internal injuries.

And White said that although her spine was fractured at three levels of her back, tests showed no evidence of compression or damage to the spinal cord. He said he expects that the injuries would have no long-term effects, and recommended two months of rest.

"When one looks at the physics of this young lady's descent and the cushioning and everything else, I think you have to look upon it as a miracle," White said.

Miss Shields, a member of the Cleveland Parachute Club for about a year, said her own mistakes caused the accident. It was her 34th jump.

She said her problems started at about 4,000 feet when her body "bobbled" in turbulence, and she hesitated in pulling her rip cord. Then her parachute lines got wrapped around her right arm and she started spinning.

After all of the pain, should she jump again?

Despite her desires, White said "there's no way I can recommend that she go back to skydiving."

Miss Shields said she would take her doctors' advice into account, but that's not saying she would stop skydiving.

"Life is fun. That's been my philosophy in life, to have a lot of fun," she said. "I was skydiving, and have been and will be because it's fun, and that's what I want to do."

Drug arrest

Staff Reports

A 28-year-old Midland man arrested Thursday for possession of cocaine with intent to distribute remained in the Midland County Central Detention Facility on Friday in lieu of $15,000 bond, jail officials confirmed.

Daniel Acosta Stone was arrested by the Midland County Sheriff's Office SWAT team after a substance believed to be cocaine valued at $400 was found at his residence at 1800 Walnut Lane.

The discovery was the result of a Crime Stoppers tip.

Men arrested

A pair of 23-year-old Midland men were in the Midland County Detention Center on crack cocaine charges Friday night pending a hearing before U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton, jail officials said.

The two men were arrested Thursday by Drug Enforcement Agency agents.

Details of the investigation and arrest were not available Friday evening.

NASA researchers hurt in chemical explosion

GREENBELT, Md. (AP) — Two researchers were injured during a small but violent chemical explosion Friday at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center outside of Washington.

Louis Speiff, 58, was listed in good condition at Washington Hospital Center's burn unit, the hospital said. Fred Nesbit, 44, was in fair condition.

The men were burned in a chlorine dioxide explosion that occurred about 2:15 p.m. in an isolated area of a building housing small labs and offices, said NASA officials.

A hazardous materials team remained at the center late into the afternoon to assess damage, clean up and make sure the no other explosions occur, Fire Department spokesman Peter Piringer said.

The workers suffered second and third degree burns, chemical exposure, blast injuries, cuts, bruises, abrasions and breathing problems, said Piringer.

DEATHS

Dick Clemmer

Dick Clemmer of Hollywood, Calif., son of a Midland couple, died last Sunday in California.

A memorial service is slated for 2 p.m. today at St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Midland with Dr. Jarrell Sharp officiating.

Clemmer was born April 23, 1943, in Munday and was reared in Snyder, where he graduated from high school in 1961. He received his bachelor of arts degree from McMurry College in Abilene in 1966 and received his masters of theology degree from Candler School of Theology at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga. He received an honorary doctorate from McMurry.

He began his career as the associate pastor of Polk Street United Methodist Church in Amarillo in 1969. A year later he became the associate pastor at Central United Methodist Church in Albuquerque, N.M., and in 1972 he became the pastor at St. Mark's in El Paso.

He was the pastor of First United Methodist Church of Hobbs, N.M., from 1978-87. He then returned to Albuquerque where he pastored the Central United Methodist Church until 1989. At the time of his death he was on the staff at the First United Methodist Church of Hollywood, Calif.

Clemmer was a member of the Hobbs and Albuquerque Rotary clubs, was the Conference Youth Coordinator (1970-72), was the chairman of the New Mexico Conference Board of Pensions (1972-88), was chairman of the Council on Professional Ministry (1980-88), and was a member of the Conference Leadership Team (1981-82).

He was named Citizen of the Year in Hobbs in 1983.

He married Cheri Waldrop in Odessa in 1965.

Survivors include one son, Grantt Clemmer of Albuquerque; one daughter, Shanna Clemmer of Albuquerque; his parents, Dale and Helen Clemmer of Midland; three brothers, Ronnie Clemmer of Sherman Oaks, Calif., Terry Clemmer of Midland and Greg Clemmer of Victoria; one niece and four nephews.

The family requests memorials be directed to Hospice of Midland or the Memorial Fund at St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

Ruth Brown

FORT WORTH – Services for Ruth Haltom Brown, 91, mother of a Midland woman, are set for 1 p.m. today in the Fleming Chapel of Broadway Baptist Church with the Rev. Gene Thompson officiating. Burial will follow in Greenwood Memorial Park under the direction of Harveson and Cole Funeral Home.

She died Thursday in Fort Worth.

She was a member of Broadway Baptist Church, Fort Worth Woman's Club, Fort Worth Lecture Foundation, Tarrant County Medical Auxiliary and several other social organizations.

She was preceded in death by her husband Dr. William Porter Brown.

Survivors include two daughters, Edna Brown Hibbits of Midland and Isabelle Brown Newberry of Fort Worth, six grandchilren, five great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Pallbearers will be O.P. Newberry III, Porter Hibbitts, John M. Hibbitts, Marshall Porterfield Jr., Jonathan H. Snyder, Will Huber, T.F. Morton Jr. and Edwin Morton. Honorary pallbearers will be W.B. Newberry Dr. Nealie E. Ross Jr., Dr. William M. Hibbits, Robert W. Decker, the Rev. Sam Byron Hulsey, Harry IV.

Memorials should be directed to the Child Study Center or the Moncrief Radiation Center.

Myrtle Trotter

Services for Myrtle Trotter are set for 3 p.m. Sunday at the Eula Methodist Church with her nephew, the Rev. Clifford Trotter, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Danny Fleming, pastor of Eula Methodist Church.

Arrangements are being handled by Ellis Funeral Home, where the body will be until Saturday evening. The body will then be at Eula Methodist Church from 1 p.m. Sunday until service time.

She died Thursday at a local nursing home.

Mrs. Trotter was born Sept. 5, 1894, in Hope, and the family moved to Clyde when she was 6 weeks old. She married Newt Trotter on June 14, 1914, in Abilene, and they moved to Eula.

She was preceded in death by a son, Newton Glenn Trotter, in 1945, and by her husband, Newt Trotter, in 1965.

Mrs. Trotter moved to Midland in January 1990.

She was a longtime member of the Methodist church in Eula.

Survivors include one son, Sam Trotter of San Diego, Calif.; one daughter, Ethel Trotter of Midland; three sisters, Bea Hughes, Pauline Blackstock and Florene Rogers, all of Fort Worth; two grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Betsy Ross' flag stolen

SPRING HILL, Fla. (AP) — Someone stole an American flag from outside the home of Betsy Ross.

This Betsy Ross lives in central Florida, and she didn't make the Stars and Stripes that was swiped from the front of her Hernando County home, 45 miles north of Tampa.

"I was so mad about it when it happened," said Ross, a namesake by marriage — but not a descendant — of the Revolutionary War patriot who lived in Philadelphia.

She said she had put the flag in front of her home to honor U.S. troops serving during the Gulf War.

STATE IN BRIEF

■ Dad shoots son

LANCASTER — Family members said a DeSoto man who apparently shot his 2-year-old son to death before killing himself was involved in a bitter divorce battle.

Travis Ray Woolever, 37, and his son, Tray, were pronounced dead early Thursday at a storage facility in Lancaster, said a spokesman for the Dallas County medical examiner's office.

Travis' brother-in-law, Billy Burns of Dallas, said the man and his wife, Terri, were involved in a separation and divorce.

"He had custody of Tray for two hours last night, and they never came back," Burns said.

The medical examiner's office said the killings occurred about 10 p.m. Wednesday. A warehouse employee found the bodies Thursday morning inside a storage room Woolever had rented, officials said.

The child's death was ruled a homicide. An autopsy was pending on Woolever, authorities said.

■ Man selling sand

EL PASO — A patriotic idea popped into businessman Pete Flores' head, and now this West Texas city could benefit from the efforts of "Mr. Sandman."

Flores markets Patriot Sand, founded when he and his brother went to an area Flores said was a testing site for Patriot missiles. They brought home some sand, boxed it in four-ounce portions, and put red, white and blue labels on them.

The label reads, "Save this Patriot Sand as a reminder of the value of peace on Earth for the future generations. And as a symbol of gratitude for our armed forces who fought so valiantly in Operation Desert Storm."

Flores said he developed the concept as he watched Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf bottle some sand from a Kuwaiti beach on television.

Requests have increased for Patriot Sand since Flores showed the marketing tool to friends at home and people in other states.

The Patriot Sand sells for $3 and is designed to promote El Paso and the role Fort Bliss played in the war, Flores said.

■ Suspect killed

HOUSTON — A uniformed police officer shot and killed a man suspected of buying crack cocaine moments earlier from an undercover officer.

Uniformed officers Steve Riegle and M.A. Peaco were working with an undercover team in a reverse-sting operation Thursday when they moved in to arrest the man after he made a drug buy from the undercover officers, said police spokesman Ralph Gonzales.

As Peaco tried to arrest the suspect from the driver's side, Riegle saw the man had a knife in his hand, Gonzales said.

Riegle fired twice, the officer told investigators, striking the suspect as he sat in the car.

The 32-year-old man was shot once in the chest and died later at Ben Taub Hospital. Police were withholding his name.

■ Inmate stabbed

LOVELADY — Investigators on Friday questioned a prison inmate in connection with the stabbing death of another convict at the Eastham Unit.

Leopoldo Sanchez, 20, of Dallas was stabbed once in the neck in the prison day room about 9:30 p.m. Thursday, said David Nunnelee, spokesman for the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. Sanchez was pronounced dead at the scene.

Guards found a homemade knife — "a 5-inch piece of steel with a cloth handle" — at the scene.

Investigators were questioning a 31-year-old Dallas inmate who quarreled with Sanchez earlier in the week, Nunnelee said. Charges were pending with the Houston County District Attorney's office Friday and the inmate remained in isolation.

Sanchez had been imprisoned since July 1988, serving a seven-year sentence for unauthorized use of motor vehicle, theft and possession of weapon in penal institution in Dallas County.

Spec. 4 David Lemker, of Anoka, Minn., a member of the Army's 3rd Infantry Division, goes about the annual ritual of planting a U.S. flag beside each headstone at Arlington National Cemetery early Friday. In a three-hour period, soldiers placed nearly 222,000 flags in observance of Memorial Day.

Many U.S. companies cheer fast track, but some voice concern

NEW YORK (AP) — Most major U.S. companies cheered the approval of "fast-track" authority for President Bush to negotiate a U.S.-Mexico free trade agreement. But labor groups and some companies remain concerned a pact could lead to a loss of U.S. jobs.

"The extension of fast track is a vital step in the continuing process of opening markets for U.S. goods and services around the world," American Express Co. Chairman James D. Robinson III said Friday.

Robinson spoke on behalf of the Business Roundtable, a group of chief executives of more than 200 major U.S. companies. The group strongly supported the extension of Bush's streamlined bargaining power on trade agreements, which was approved Thursday by the House and Friday by the Senate.

But, said the International Union of Electronics Workers, a Mexican free-trade pact "is likely to cost a significant number of American jobs and put further downward pressure on U.S. wages and benefits."

Generally, a Mexican free-trade agreement is opposed by companies such as textile makers that believe they cannot compete with an expected increase in cheaper imports from the south.

A pact is supported by companies that make products such as machinery and business equipment, which are needed for Mexico's modernization, as well as by consumer products makers. These goods could be in greater demand once Mexico's tariffs on imports are lowered or eliminated under a trade pact and the nation's economy is stimulated.

"Trade agreements with other countries are essential to the long-term growth and development of the U.S. economy, including increased U.S. exports to those countries," said John E. Pepper, president of Procter & Gamble Co., one of the nation's largest consumer products makers.

P&G says about 1,500 of its U.S. workers make products such as soap and shampoo for the Mexican market. It expects that number would more than double under a free-trade agreement.

Michael Dutton, a spokesman for International Business Machines Corp., said the computer maker believed a U.S.-Mexico trade pact "will lead to economic growth in Mexico. And if there's economic growth, our business will grow, hopefully, as people choose to use information products."

He said IBM makes personal and mid-size computers in Mexico but must pay duties on the U.S.-made mainframe computers it sells there. It hopes a trade pact would eliminate those tariffs as well as expand the market in Mexico for its other products.

Ford Motor Co. spokesman Bert Serre said, "Properly done, free trade in a North American context can mean new jobs and increased economic growth in all three countries." He was referring to the companion free-trade pact with Canada that took effect two years ago.

The textile industry was among the strongest opponents of the extension of Bush's fast-track negotiating authority.

Some farmers are concerned they would see greater competition from Mexican food imports.

'There goes Johnny!' from 'Tonight;' McMahon to retire too

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson, the silver-haired king of late-night television, often has been ambiguous about when he'll step down as host of NBC's "Tonight" show. But no more.

Carson

The 65-year-old Carson told a convention of NBC affiliates at Carnegie Hall on Thursday: "This will be my last year I'm doing the 'Tonight' show. My last show is going to be May 22, 1992."

Jay Leno, 41, the show's permanent substitute host since June 1987, is the most likely successor.

Carson sidekick Ed McMahon also will retire next year, the New York Post reported Friday.

"Obviously, the 'Tonight' show will continue and we'll be spending the immediate future reflecting on Johnny's announcement," NBC spokesman Curt Block said Friday. However, he said no announcement on a successor will be made immediately.

Carson first appeared as a "Tonight" guest host in 1958, and took over from then-host Jack Parr on Oct. 1, 1962.

"I want to point out something, and this is just advice, not a suggestion," he told affiliate executives at the end of their three-hour meeting.

"I hope there's always a show like the 'Tonight' show on television. There are not many shows like that anymore, where new, young performers can come and have a platform and a place to get exposure on national television."

And, he said, "I think it's important to television to keep live shows, spontaneous shows, because I don't think any of us want to see networks end up being a gigantic tape recorder."

Carson, whose show once originated live from New York and is now taped in Burbank, Calif., has outlasted a score of late-night rivals. Among them: Joey Bishop and Dick Cavett on ABC and Carson's own former substitute, Joan Rivers, who had a short-lived show on the Fox network several years ago.

Rivers, whose friendship with Carson chilled when she started competing with him, issued an acerbic two-sentence statement Friday through her publicist: "I haven't watched the show in three years. I thought he was gone."

Carson's show consistently has won the late-night ratings race, but there have been exceptions, the most notable and recent in the first quarter of this year.

Then, ABC News' "Nightline," aided by viewer interest in the Gulf War, bested "Tonight" in ratings throughout the quarter. It averaged a 6.6 rating, a full ratings point above "Tonight." Each ratings point represents 931,00 homes.

Last February, the New York Post reported that NBC wanted Carson to step down so it could replace him with Leno, who gets a younger audience that is more attractive to advertisers.

NBC denied the report's claim that the network planned to "dump" Carson if he didn't call it quits after one more season.

In April, Carson signed a one-year extension of a multi-million dollar contract that gives him 15 weeks of vacation every year. In recent years, he has been host of "Tonight" only three nights a week.

His style — cool, affable, a mix of worldly sophistication and mock Midwestern innocence — has helped make the show one of NBC's top money-makers over the years. He moved it from New York to Burbank in 1972.

The star, born in Corning, Iowa, raised in Nebraska, and married four times, usually has played coy when asked when and if he'll leave the show.

Missourian wins Bulwer-Lytton contest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Putrid it was, and verbose.

Judy Frazier of Lathrop, Mo., took 69 words to describe a wheat field on a hot day, winning first place Friday in the 10th annual Bulwer-Lytton Fiction Contest.

Her entry went like this:

"Sultry it was and humid, but no whisper of air caused the plump laden spears of golden grain to nod their burdened heads as they unheedingly awaited the cyclic plunder of their gleaming treasure, while overhead the burning orb of luminescence ascended to its ever upward path toward a sweltering celestial apex for, although it is not in Kansas that our story takes place, it looks godawful like it."

The contest honors popular 19th century author Edward George Bulwer-Lytton, whose writing was as wordy as his name. His chilling novel-opener "It was a dark and stormy night" became the literary mantra of Charles Schulz's cartoon dog, Snoopy.

More than 8,000 contestants did their best to nauseate a dozen judges, entering one sentence each under such categories as "purple prose" and "vile puns." The winner receives a cheap word processor.

Frazier, 52, describes herself as a "semiretired data processor." She said the winning sentence popped into her mind one dark and stormy night.

"We had been watching the 'Wizard of Oz' and it just came in a burst. I had to get out the dictionary to fluff it up. I started forming the beginning of the sentence and it just got out of hand," she said.

Frazier has entered the contest four years in a row but until this year never placed among the worst. An avid reader, Frazier said she wishes she could write a novel.

"But I can't get past that first sentence," she said.

The judges deemed her run-on a classic example of overwriting, said Scott Rice, a professor of English at San Jose State University and the contest's founder.

The contest's second-most-loathesome sentence, heavy on the colons and animal metaphors, might make even a sports writer cringe:

"In his prime, sports writers say, the legendary Muhammad Ali could float like a butterfly and sting like a bee: however, only the trusted insiders who merited invitations to his post-fight cocktail parties ever got a sampling of his lesser-known wildlife impressions: Ali could cluck like a chicken, bray like a burro, waddle like a penguin, squeal like a pig, croak like a tree frog, ball up like a sowbug, flap his arms like a fruitbat, wiggle his ears like a dingo, crawl on his belly like a gila monster, and bellow like a 600-pound Alaskan harbor seal in heat," spewed Brian Smith of Indianapolis.

Only from Bulwer-Lytton come such vile puns

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A few other examples of top-notch drivel in the 10th annual Bulwer-Lytton Fiction Contest:

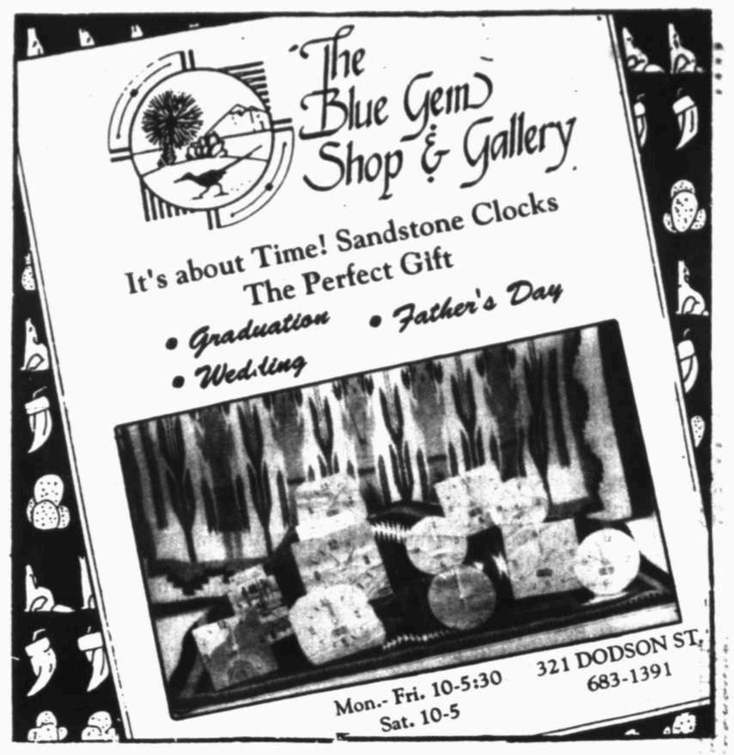

— "Dammit!" Nick exclaimed, glaring balefully into Naomi's one good eye, "Talking to you is like beating your head against a dead horse. — Terrance Carroll, San Jose, runner-up in the purple prose category.

—"My left eye has been slowly shifting over to the right side of my face!" she floundered. — Trevor Dennie of Seattle, first place winner in the vile pun category.

— Pretty Percy Pig and Jolly Molly Moo-Cow enjoyed watching the sunshiny green meadows and cheerful sparkling streams of Pleasant Acres from Farmer Brown's new apple-red truck on their merry way to the Rainbow Valley Meat Packing Company. — Eddie Lawhorn, Huntsvile, Ala., winner of the children's literature category.

— As the five little pigs filled themselves up with beer, four of them ran to the bathroom, leaving the fifth little pig to go wee-wee-wee all the way home.

— Michelle DeLong, Mesa, Ariz., runner-up, children's literature.

Church finds $10 bills multiply

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — A church gave each of its members a $10 bill to invest any way they wanted. When the returns were counted recently, they totaled $12,169 — almost double the $6,800 given out during Sunday services April 14.

The idea was to offer a living lesson of the biblical parable of the talents, in which servants are given money from a stern master who expects them to bring him the fruits of their investment. A servant who simply buries the money in the ground is berated by the master.

The Rev. Dale Trautman, the pastor of the Olivet Lutheran Church, had some reservations when an anonymous donor first came to him with the idea of giving out money. The donor was willing to risk the $6,800 with no strings attached.

But the donor was insistent, so he decided to try it. Each man, woman and child was given a $10 bill in an envelope and told to invest it.

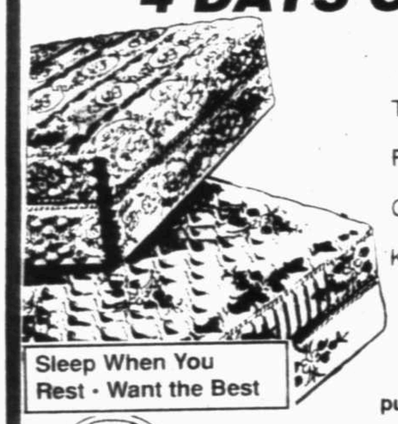

The results were both surprising and heartwarming.

A fifth-grade Sunday school class started a small company and sold buttons on Mother's Day.

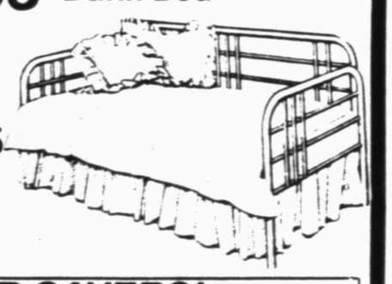

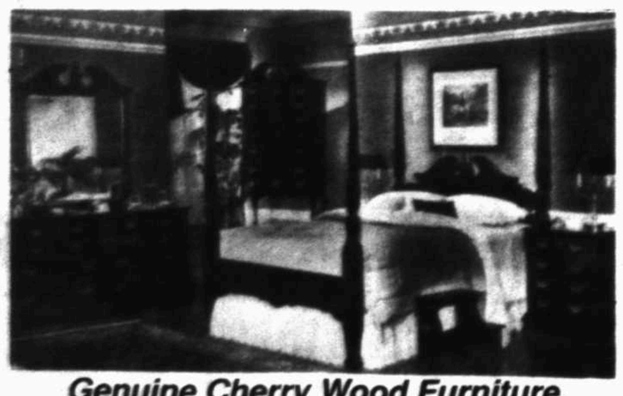

Ten-year-old Beth Weisser pooled her $10 with her mother's to put on a concert, taking in almost $225 in donations from the 54-member audience.

Fernando now with Midland

Fernando Valenzuela, pitching his way back into form for a shot with the California Angels, was assigned to Midland's Class AA Texas League Angels Friday.

He is scheduled to pitch two games with the Midland club, with his first start to come Monday against the Jackson Generals in Jackson. His second game is likely to be against the Arkansas Travelers and will probably miss seeing action in Midland.

Odessa mending grid fences

■ With the year of "Friday Night Lights" and UIL sanctions left behind, Odessa hasn't forgotten, but looks ahead.

By Jimmy Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor

ODESSA — Some of the key players are gone. Some remain.

Wherever they are, it is likely those who had anything to do with last season's Odessa High-Odessa Permian tiff have not yet let it completely escape from their memory.

Nor is it likely that anyone who was a character in the H.G. "Buzz" Bissinger book "Friday Night Lights" — or anyone who read the work — has forgotten.

The two main players from both stories are gone from Odessa. Quite likely they will not return. Former Odessa High football coach Jerry Taylor resigned earlier this year to accept a position at Class 3A Breckenridge. And don't look for Bissinger to return to look for quotes for a sequel. One book was enough for the people involved with the Permian program.

For Mojo backers, 1990 is a season better left forgotten. Swept under the rug forever, if everyone had their druthers.

Forgive and forget is what everyone is striving for, with Permian closing spring drills in Thursday's Black and White Game.

"Everybody at Odessa Permian, everybody at Odessa High, everybody in this community wants to put everything behind us and not use it as a stumbling block, but as a building block," Ector County Independent School District athletic director John Wilkins said. "But it will take some time.

"Obviously it was a very bad situation. Nobody wins in that kind of situation. A community suffers and the kids suffer. Mainly the kids. They're the ones who hurt as much as anybody."

Permian missed out on postseason football action last season after being found guilty of holding illegal practice sessions prior to the official start of fall workouts last August. The finger-pointer was Taylor. The week the allegations surfaced was the same week "Friday Night Lights" hit newstands.

Throughout the season, players and coaches alike from the West Texas powerhouse endured Friday night spotlights, burning down on them. It is better left alone this season, according to Tam Hollingshead, head coach then and now.

"Hopefully, that's behind us," Hollingshead said. "I think that's something we'll never forget, but something we had to go through in order to learn from. Hopefully our young men will use it as a motivational factor."

Hollingshead insists his Panther team — overwhelmingly projected as the 1991 favorite in a preseason poll of District 4-5A coaches — will not over-prepare for their September 27 game against Odessa High.

"We're going to try to have them prepared the same for each and every game," Hollingshead said. "Odessa High is way down the schedule."

Perhaps the consolation prize that came out of the entire ordeal last fall was a television piece done by journalist Mike Wallace which aired on CBS' "60 Minutes" following the completion of the season. Wallace's reporting centered on the good that comes to the community from high school football. At least that was the implication of the show.

"I think that helped in many regards," said Wilkins, a former Permian coach himself.

Speaking of Bissinger's book, Wilkins said: "The people who are here are the ones who know what happened. Those

Whiteside, Young fire 64 at RHCC

By Jimmy Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor

Steve Whiteside and Bob Young had four birdies on the back nine to finish with a 6-under par, 64 in first-round action at the 26th annual Ranchland Hills Country Club Stampede Friday.

Whiteside and Young, although admittedly a little shaky thanks to some mid-round lightning, didn't let the passing storm bother their mental toughness as the two paired for a total of six birdies and 12 pars in their bogey-free round.

"We'd like to have three (rounds) like that," Young said of his and Whiteside's opening round.

Whiteside, a veteran of several local championships, and Young had birdies on 3, 9, and 10, and then followed with three straight on 13, 14 and 15.

Tournament director Doyce Haney combined with David Burgen for a two-under par, 68. Don Pyle and Travis Bruton shot 68 as well to force a two-way second place tie after the first 18 holes.

"We played a pretty good partnership," Haney said of he and Bergen, a native of Andrews. "We kind of ham-and-cheesed it out there."

Bergen, on the other hand, said the two could've fared a little better, adding he personally "didn't take advantage of opportunities."

Kelly Cox, the co-runner-up at the Midland Country Club championship earlier this month, teamed with Bob Riek for a fourth-place 69 after the first day.

A group of six teams are crowded for fifth with 70s.

One of those teams is comprised of Ted Triplett and Joe Davis; Davis, a former Midland resident and Ranchland member who now resides in Houston, said things will only get tighter atop the leader board before tournament's end.

"Everything'll get up tight, up close," Davis said. "It'll get tough tomorrow, and then it'll get real tough on the last day."

Harold Turner, playing in the seventh flight, scored a hole-in-one on the 165-yard, No. 8 hole Friday. He was witnessed by tournament partner Leroy Minnix, Frank Flourney and Sam Ares. Turner and Minnix are in a three-way third-place tie after their opening round 79.

John Andretti, driving Midland's Hall/VDS entry will be easy to see Sunday during the Indianapolis 500 as No. 4 tours the track with its Pennzoil yellow glow.

Andrettis line up four deep

■ Don't get your Andrettis confused Sunday in the Indy 500 as Mario, Michael, John and Jeff shoot for the checkered flag.

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — The Andrettis have claimed another racing distinction, becoming the first family to have four starters in the same Indianapolis 500. But, one of the four is ready to jump ship.

Michael Andretti, a teammate of his father Mario for a third consecutive year, is ready to leave Indy-cars to move into Formula One racing.

That's a trip Mario made en route to winning the 1978 Formula One championship. But, unlike his father, Michael has no plans to split his time between the two circuits.

"I wouldn't want to do that because I don't think I could give both sides a fair shake because it is so competitive," said Michael, who plans to test with the McLaren team next month. "I'd have to go back and forth to Europe in the month of May three or four times. That just gets to be a little impractical.

"Dad has tried it and I think that's burned him out in a way. I think he would have done a few more years in Formula One if he hadn't tried to burn the candle on both ends. I don't want to get in that position."

He's not ready to move to just any Formula One team.

"To have a chance to go after a world driving championship, I think, is the highest honor in auto racing," Michael said. "I'll only go to Formula One if it's with a top team. ... If I have a real legitimate chance at doing so I will jump at the chance."

There's an Andretti in each of the first four rows this year. The patriarch, of course, is Mario, the 51-year-old former winner, who will start his 26th Indy 500 on the outside of the front row.

Michael, 28, sits in the middle of the second row. Cousin John Andretti, 28, son of Mario's twin brother Aldo, is on the inside of the third row and driving the Midland entry of Hall/VDS Racing.

And Jeff Andretti, 27, Mario's youngest son, qualified for the middle of the fourth row.

"I never thought it would come to this," said Mario. "It's something that I'm happy and proud of, but it certainly wasn't planned this way.

"These kids didn't grow up with me mapping their careers in any way. For sure, I think the fact that all of them have been exposed to this business since their infancy probably had something to do with them making their own

Lakers stage playoff edge

■ After two mediocre performances, Vlade Divac ignites Los Angeles to a 2-1 Western Conference advantage over Portland.

Associated Press

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Vlade Divac, coming off two mediocre performances in the Western Conference finals, scored 10 points, blocked two shots and had a steal in a six-minute span of the third quarter as the Los Angeles Lakers took command Friday night for a 106-92 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers.

The win gave the Lakers a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series, the last steppingstone to the NBA Finals.

The fourth game is Sunday at the Forum. The series then switches to Portland for Game 5 Tuesday night.

Divac, held to a total of four rebounds and 21 points in the first two games against Portland, led an 18-7 charge to start the third quarter as the Lakers took control of Game 3.

Los Angeles led just 43-40 at halftime, but the Lakers built their advantage to 61-47 midway through the third period as Divac dominated on both ends of the court.

The Lakers were ahead 70-59 to begin the final period and the Trail Blazers didn't threaten again.

Divac finished with 16 points and seven rebounds. Magic Johnson scored 14 points, had 19 assists and seven rebounds for Los Angeles, and James Worthy scored 25 in the victory.

The Trail Blazers, having trouble getting good shots off because of the Lakers' tenacious defense, were led by Jerome Kersey with 19 points and Clyde Drexler with 18.

Los Angeles, outrebounded 51-28 in losing Game 2, were closer this time, although Portland still held a 48-40 edge on the boards.

Chicago threatens to eliminate Pistons

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) — The Chicago Bulls are threatening to leave the Detroit Pistons in their wake.

The Bulls, younger and quicker, have a 2-0 lead in the Eastern Conference finals and can advance to the NBA Finals for the first time in franchise history by winning today and Monday at The Palace.

The Pistons are trying to become only the third team in history to win three straight NBA titles. But with nine of their 12 players 30 and older, they're having a tough time slowing down the Bulls.

"I'm not sure exactly what we can do now," Pistons coach Chuck Daly said. "If a person's quicker than you, there's not a lot you can do about it. It's a physical gift."

So far, the Bulls have gone 9-1 in breezing through 10 playoff games. They eliminated the New York Knicks 3-0 and the Philadelphia 76ers 4-1 before winning the first two against the Pistons. In those 10 games, Chicago has allowed an average of just 90.1 points.

"We've played very good defense in the playoffs because we realize that is what wins games," Bulls' star Michael Jordan said.

Chap men flying high

Staff Report

TYLER — The men of Midland College demonstrated their resiliency Friday by placing six singles players and all three Chaparral doubles teams in the finals of their respective flights at the national junior college tennis championships here.

The Chaps, who were relegated to a third-place finish earlier in the week in the team competition, swept through Friday's quarterfinal and semifinal doubles matches unscathed in their quests for individual national titles.

And only MC's Greg Muller fell short of the finals in singles play, where six of his fellow Chaps will vie for national titles today — weather permitting.

The forecast here calls for 100-percent chance of rain today.

"I'm really proud of the way they came back and played in individual competition," MC tennis coach Joe Williams said.

Astros beat Padres in 9th

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Casey Candaele singled to right field with two outs in the ninth inning to spoil a shutout bid by Andy Benes and give the Houston Astros a 1-0 victory Friday night over the San Diego Padres.

Houston's Pete Harnisch allowed two hits in eight innings, striking out six and walking four while lowering the opposition's batting average against him to .193. Curt Schilling (1-3) pitched the ninth, striking out the final two batters he faced.

Benes (2-5) walked Jeff Bagwell with two outs and Gerald Young came on as a pinch runner. Young took third on a single by Karl Rhodes and scored on Candaele's hit, only the fifth hit off Benes.

He struck out five to increase his total to 55, second in the National League. He walked four.

Tony Fernandez doubled in the first for the first hit off Harnisch, who didn't allow another until Scott Coolbaugh singled to second baseman Candaele behind the bag to start the seventh.

Jose Mota sacrified Coolbaugh to second, Benes flied out and Bip Roberts struck out to end the threat.

Steve Finley opened the game with a bunt single, giving him a first-inning hit in seven of his last nine games as a leadoff hitter.

Craig Biggio reached on a fielder's choice, forcing Finley and Benes walked Ken Caminiti and Bagwell to load the bases before Rhodes' fly to center field ended the threat.

Bagwell singled in the fourth and Eric Yelding had a hit in the fifth off Benes.

Defensive plays kept down the hit total.

Caminiti leaped high to rob Coolbaugh of a line drive hit in the fourth, Candaele dived toward first base and threw out Fernandez in the fifth. Mota duplicated the play in the sixth, throwing out Luis Gonzalez.

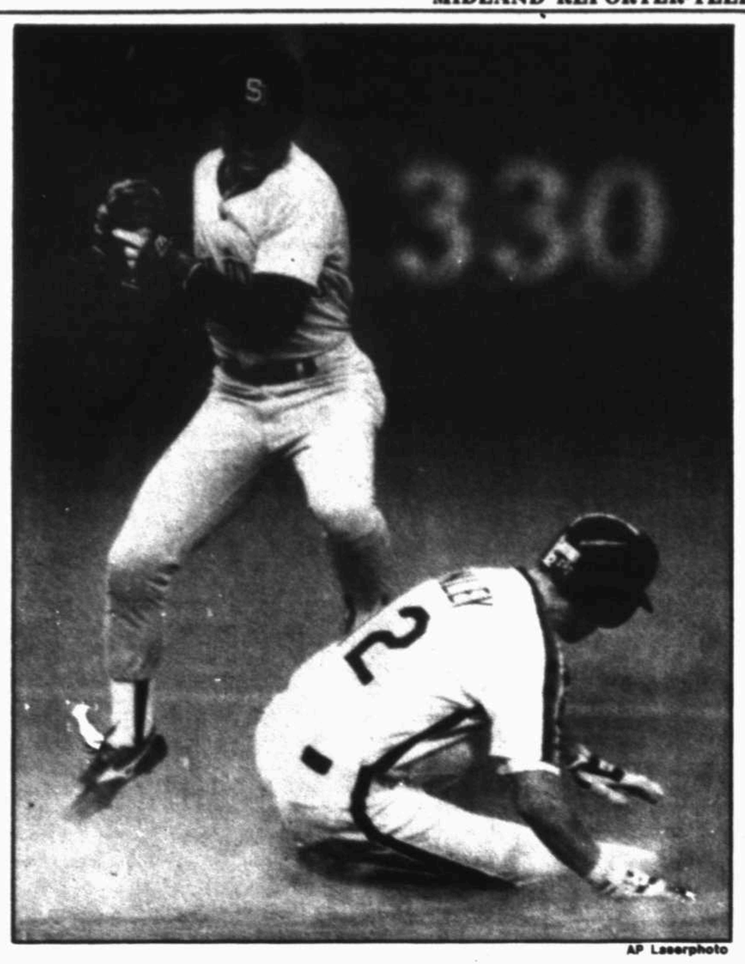

Braves 3, Giants 2

ATLANTA — Ron Gant singled with two outs in the ninth inning to give Atlanta and streaking Tom Glavine a victory over San Francisco, who lost its seventh straight game.

Glavine (7-2), matching a career-high with 10 strikeouts, got his fifth consecutive victory with his third complete game. He allowed six hits and no walks.

The streak is the longest the Giants have endured since dropping 10 in a row in 1985. It was their 11th loss in 13 games and 23rd in 29.

Gant, batting with the bases loaded against Dave Righetti (2-3), bounced the ball over the head of leaping third baseman Matt Williams to score pinch-runner Mark Lemke.

NL Roundup

Pirates 9, Phillies 1

PITTSBURGH — Pitcher Zane Smith's tie-breaking hit set off a six-run rally and he continued his dominance at home.

Smith (6-2) doubled to break a 1-1 tie in a sixth-run fifth inning against Terry Mulholland (5-3). Bobby Bonilla's sixth homer, a three-run shot, capped the inning as the Pirates won the first game this season between the teams. Pittsburgh won the last six meetings between them in 1990.

Mulholland, who had won a career-best four straight decisions, allowed seven runs on six hits in 4⅔ innings. Smith (6-2) allowed eight hits in seven innings, boosting his career record at Three Rivers Stadium to 11-2 (8-1 as a Pirate).

Mets 6, Cardinals 2

NEW YORK — David Cone struck out 12 and drove in two runs with a single while pitching an eight-hitter.

The Mets entered the game having lost four of their previous five, and had some more turmoil when infielder Gregg Jefferies issued an open letter to the New York fans beforehand to counter recent criticism by some teammates about his play. Jefferies missed the game because of the flu.

The surprising Cardinals, who have won four straight series, took a 2-0 lead off Cone (4-3) — who fell a strikeout short of his in career high — in the third inning on RBI singles by Ray Lankford and Pedro Guerrero.

Dodgers 11, Reds 3

CINCINNATI — Ramon Martinez became the first eight-game winner in the majors as Eddie Murray drove in four runs.

It was the seventh straight victory for Martinez (8-1), who allowed eight hits in 6⅔ innings. He struck out three and walked one.

Los Angeles collected 13 hits, batting around in a three-run first against Chris Hammond (3-2), and sending 11 to the plate in a five-run fifth.

The victory put the Dodgers, first in the National League West, six games over .500 for the first time this season. The loss snapped Cincinnati's three-game winning streak, all at the expense of the San Francisco Giants.

Cubs 4, Expos 3

CHICAGO — Bob Scanlan allowed three hits in 7⅔ innings and Ryne Sandberg and Shawon Dunston had solo homers.

The victory was the third straight for the Cubs, all since Jim Essian took over from Don Zimmer. The loss was the third straight for the Expos who were no-hit by Tommy Greene of Philadelphia on Thursday.

Scanlan, 2-0, allowed three hits, walked none, and struckout three. Mark Gardner (0-2) was the loser, allowing six hits and all three runs over seven innings.

Bad start for managers

Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS — Hal McRae's managerial debut was unsuccessful Friday night as the Minnesota Twins beat the Kansas City Royals 3-2 behind four hits from Chili Davis.

McRae, named earlier in the day as the replacement for John Wathan, was managing a major league game for the first time. He had been Montreal's hitting coach, but was quickly hired by the Royals after they fired Wathan on Wednesday.

Jack Morris (4-5) allowed five hits in 8⅓ innings as the Twins ended a four-game losing streak. Morris, who gave up eight runs in four innings last Sunday, struck out four and walked four. He is 4-1 in the Metrodome this season and 12-3 in 16 career starts.

Rick Aguilera finished for his eighth save in 11 opportunities, striking out both batters he faced.

George Brett, activated from the disabled list Friday afternoon, hit his first homer of the season for the Royals.

Storm Davis (2-5) gave up eight hits in 5⅔ innings and remained winless in six starts since April 23, when he beat Cleveland 6-0 on a five-hitter.

Kansas City took a 1-0 lead in the second when Mike Macfarlane doubled and Kurt Stillwell singled with two outs. Davis hit a two-run double in the fourth and scored on Brian Harper's sacrifice fly.

Brett led off the fifth with a home run, his first extra-base hit and RBI in 49 at-bats this season. Brett was placed on the disabled list after a partial tear of the medial collateral ligament in his right knee on April 22.

Yankees 7, Orioles 1

BALTIMORE — Baltimore had a new manager but experienced the same old results, as New York spoiled Johnny Oates' debut.

Scott Sanderson (5-2) threw five no-hit innings before leaving with a stiff right shoulder. Greg Cadaret kept the Orioles hitless until the seventh, when Cal Ripken led off with a double and scored on Joe Orsulak's double.

Lee Guetterman and Steve Farr pitched one inning each, completing the three-hitter.

Oates became the Orioles' 10th manager when he replaced Frank Robinson on Thursday, an off day for Baltimore. His presence had little effect on the Orioles, who lost for the 13th time in 18 games.

Ripken made two errors, his first multi-error game since June 14, 1987. He has four errors this season, one more than he had all last year.

Every starter had at least one hit for the Yankees, who came into the game having lost six of nine.

American League

Brewers 1, Indians 0

MILWAUKEE — Jaime Navarro pitched a four-hitter for his first career shutout and Robin Yount singled home the only run.

Navarro (4-2), whose previous best was a seven-hitter against Baltimore on Sept. 26, 1989, struck out six and walked none in his second complete game this season and the sixth of his career

Rod Nichols (0-3) pitched a five-hitter for the Indians, his first complete game this season. He struck out three and walked one.

Navarro retired the first 11 Indians before Carlos Baerga singled in the fourth. Baerga also singled in the seventh; Turner Ward and Brook Jacoby had Cleveland's other hits.

In the third, Bill Spiers reached when he grounded to second base and beat Mark Lewis' throw for a single. The toss went over Jacoby at first and Spiers took second on the error. Yount singled home Spiers with two outs.

Red Sox 10, Tigers 9

DETROIT — Carlos Quintana had four hits and drove in four runs as Boston took a six-run lead and hung on to beat Detroit for its fourth victory in five games.

Tom Bolton (5-1) won despite allowing six runs and six hits in 6⅓ innings and walking five. Jeff Reardon pitched 1⅓ innings for his 14th save in 15 chances.

Dan Petry (2-3) gave up five runs and eight hits in 3⅓ innings for Detroit, which is 4-2 since an eight-game losing streak.

Hershiser loses outing with Missions

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Orel Hershiser says he doesn't consider a minor league loss a setback to his comeback from reconstructive shoulder surgery.

Hershiser, pitching for the San Antonio Missions of the Double A Texas League, gave up 11 hits and three runs, two of them earned, in a 3-0 loss Friday night to the Shreveport Captains.

It was the rockiest outing of his comeback, which began this month after a year away from the mound.

"I'm human, and I had a bad outing," Hershiser said, managing a slight smile after his longest outing of his rehab assignment.

Hershiser, trying to return to the Los Angeles Dodgers' starting rotation after surgery on his throwing shoulder 13 months ago, said he "pretty much struggled mechanically tonight."

But he said he was encouraged by two numbers: the 92 pitches he threw and the seven innings he pitched.

"It's a step in the right direction," Hershiser said. "We upped the pitch count. We continued the endurance. The arm felt good and we went longer."

Hershiser said he wasn't sure when the Dodgers would call him back up, but was certain Friday night's outing didn't delay that date.

Hershiser said he might need two or three more minor league starts before he can resume his major league career.

Hershiser gave up a two-run homer to Royce Clayton in the fifth. Clayton knocked in Reuben Smiley from second with an unearned run in the seventh to cap the scoring.

He walked one and struck out five while giving up two earned runs. Of his 92 pitches, 69 were strikes.

The start was the fourth for Hershiser in the minor leagues this month. It gave him the chance to pitch in hot, humid weather. Game time temperature was 90 degrees.

In four games, Hershiser has allowed 21 hits in 23 innings, while striking out 16 and walking two. He has given up five runs, three of them earned.

decision."

Mario has led more laps (7,338) on all tracks than any driver in Indy-car history. He won three Indy-car championships in the '60s. But he says he's learning from — and enjoying racing against — the younger members of the clan.

"I think there's plenty to learn there. We talk about things, but each one does his own. When there are questions that need to be asked, there's always an ear here," he said. "Not necessarily with John, because he's with a different team, but we do have a great relationship that I think in the end helps all of us."

"We grew up around the sport. That's had a big influence on us," said Jeff, who has his first full-time Indy-car ride this season and has finished in the top 10 in all three of his starts last year. "One of the main reasons we chose this route is because it's my father's profession."

Michael said that can be a help — or a hindrance — when a career decision is made.

"I think you can look at it one of two ways. You can either get sick of it or you want more. I think, between the three of us, we wanted more," he said. "I have no idea what I'd be doing if I wasn't a race car driver, and that's scary."

Last year the family spent a lot of time in an unsuccessful effort to have Jeff race here, although he hadn't sat in an Indy car until participating in the U.S. Auto Club's rookie orientation program in April.

"I didn't know what to really expect," said Jeff, a veteran of five seasons of minor league open-wheel competition, including the American Racing Series, Super Vees and Formula Atlantic.

He qualified here last year at 210.288 mph, but was bumped in the final hour of time trials.

CHAPS: Netters win

(From 1B)

"It was another really good day for us."

Tonny Van de Pieterman led the way in singles for MC, winning his First Flight semifinal match in split sets. David Draper, Toby Curtis, Berhe Serekebrhan and Robin van Beveren — in Flights 3-through-6, respectively — will join Van de Pieterman in today's finals, where MC could win as many as six titles because Tom erik Brun also reached the finals in the additional Seventh Flight.

Van de Pieterman and Muller are MC's top doubles representatives. The duo whisked through the quarters and semis without losing a set, as did the third-flighted team of van Beveren and Jerod White.

The Chaps second-flighted team of Draper and Curtis breezed through its quarterfinal match, then split sets in the semis with a team from Anderson College.

Angels march past Generals

Staff Report

JACKSON, Miss. — The Midland Angels did not get a base hit after the second inning, but it didn't matter here Friday night.

Midland used eight walks and just 4 hits to score 12 runs in the first two innings, and the Angels cruised to a 12-1 Texas League win over the Jackson Generals.

Don Vidmar allowed six hits and walked just one batter in eight strong innings to pick up his third win in as many decisions, and the Angels won for the seventh time in their last eight games.

It was only the third road win for Midland in 16 tries this season, but coupled with San Antonio's 3-0 loss to Shreveport Friday, the Angels left the cellar in the Western Division.

Braves send Sanders down

ATLANTA (AP) — The next time Deion Sanders makes an appearance in Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium he could be wearing a football uniform rather than baseball togs.

The Atlanta Braves sent Sanders to their Class AAA International League farm at Richmond.

Unless a roster position opens up or the Braves take steps to hold onto Sanders, he will leave baseball on July 31 and resume his NFL career with the Atlanta Falcons.

The Falcons have an exhibition game against Tampa Bay at the stadium on Aug. 27.

Howard College's Rodriquez draws NJCAA tourney notice

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Defending champion San Jacinto of Pasadena, Texas, isn't at the National Junior College World Series this year — because of Frank Rodriguez, a pitcher-shortstop who led his Howard College team from Big Spring into the tournament.

Rodriguez, who turned down the Boston Red Sox after last year's draft, is the most touted player to play in the junior college championship since Kirby Puckett, now of the Minnesota Twins, played here in 1982.

Rodriguez is expected to start Saturday in his club's first-round game against Seminole, Okla., which has appeared in the national tournament seven times but never taken home the trophy.

"Guys like Frank Rodriguez don't come along very often," said Howard College coach Bill Griffin. "His kind of athleticism brings publicity to the sport. He's a big-time player and is going to be worth a lot of money."

Rodriquez ran up a 12-1 mound record this season with an ERA of 2.51. His fastball has been clocked in the high 90s, helping him get 106 strikeouts in 103 innings. When he's not pitching, he plays shortstop, and he led the nation on home runs with 25 and hit .464 while playing in every game the Hawks had.

Rodriguez pitched a five-hit 4-2 victory for Howard in the district championship to knock San Jacinto out and send Howard to Grand Junction.

"He was incredible," Smith said. "He was as cool as they come."

Trinidad, Colo., (39-20) meets Glendale, Ariz., (30-19) Saturday morning to open the week-long tournament. Manatee, Fla., (40-5) meets Iowa Western in the second game, witH Howard (52-11) and Seminole (64-2) squaring off in the third. Saturday's final game matches Rhode Island CC 30-6) against South Suburban of Illinois (44-21).

On Sunday, the loser of Saturday's games play before the final opening round matchup pairing Allegany, Md. (34-4) against Mississippi Gulf Coast (39-9).

"This is one of the most competitive, balanced fields I've seen here in 30 years," said Juco chairman Sam Suplizio said. "Without San Jacinto or any other dominating team, this is wide open."

Iowa Western got quite a bit of pre-tournament coverage due to Coach Kevin Whitehall's unusual request to tournament officials that his club forfeit its first game.

It seems the Iowa Western players had a beer party to celebrate their district championship, so Whitehall figured forfeiting the first tournament would be appropriate punishment, Suplizio said.

"There's no way," he said. "There are no forfeits in a national tournament. They're here and they'll play."

Meanwhile, after 33 years of ever-increasing crowds and steady improvements to the ballpark, Grand Junction is signing on as the permanent host of the NJCWS.

Tournament officials, who were young businessmen when the national tournament first came here in 1959, say they'll sign the long-term contract with the National Junior College Athletic Association on Saturday night.

"It will keep the tournament here as long as we want it," Suplizio said Friday. "The option is held solely by the Grand Junction Baseball Committee."

A&M pays off Kermit Davis

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas A&M gave former basketball coach Kermit Davis Jr. about $27,500 in severance pay, according to a document released Thursday by university officials.

The document was one of several requested by The Dallas Morning News under the Texas Open Records Act.

The school agreed to pay Davis his usual salary from the date of his forced resignation, March 15, through June 30.

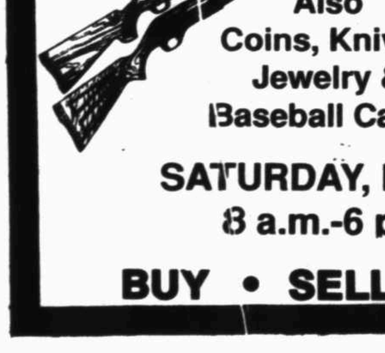

Davis' four-year contract called for a $75,000 annual salary, $25,000 for radio and television programs and $10,000 for housing.

Davis resigned after a school investigation discovered eight rules violations during his initial season at A&M. Several wrongdoings involved the use of a New York "street agent" to arrange the transfer of a player from Syracuse University.

The agreement was not released by A&M when Davis resigned.

Colonial leader Chris Perry blasts out of a bunker on the 18th green during play Friday in Fort Worth.

Perry's 65 grabs lead

FORT WORTH (AP) — Chris Perry took a tip from a non-related namesake and moved to the top of the leaderboard at the halfway point of the Colonial tournament.

"It just reinforced what I knew I should be doing," Perry said Friday of an early-week conversation he had with Kenny Perry, the winner of last week's Memorial tournament.

The talk helped Chris to a 5-under 65 in the second round, a 36-hole total of 131, and a one shot lead over Wayne Levi, Stan Utley, Gene Sauers and former Colonial winner Keith Clearwater.

However, the chat with Kenny didn't begin as a lesson on the mental aspects of winning, explained Chris.

"I congratulated him early this week," Chris said. "I told him how much I envy him and how much I'd like to win that tournament, a tournament in my home town (Dublin, Ohio).

"And I asked him how he ever got to 15 under on that golf course," Chris Perry said.

"He said he just tried to birdie every hole. And I just said, 'oh.'

"But it made me think I need to be more aggressive," said Chris, the son of former major league pitcher Jim Perry but no relation to Kenny.

It produced a new mental attitude, Chris said.

"I decided I was going to be more confident, more positive. My style of play changed a little. I became more aggressive," said Chris, who has yet to win in eight seasons on the PGA Tour.

That attitude produced birdies on the last three holes Friday.

Levi, a four-time winner last year, had a 65.

Teammates released

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Andy Bruce, Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year, and Georgia Tech teammate Darren Bragg were released on $500 bond each Friday after being jailed briefly on two felony burglary charges.

Tech coach Jim Morris said police told him about the players' problems shortly after dawn.

Richard lands seven birdie putts

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — Deb Richard could have had 17 birdies on Friday. At least that's the way she saw her second-round 67 at the LPGA Corning Classic.

"I was looking at birdie putts all the way around," Richard said. "I felt like for 17 holes, I had putts for birdie. Other than on 1, I just nailed the tee ball."

Richard wound up with seven birdies and a three-shot lead over first-round leader Martha Foyer and 1989 Corning champ Ayako Okamoto of Japan.

The winner of this year's Kemper Open, Richard is at 9-under, 135, on the par-72, 6,070-yard Corning Country Club course.

Danielle Ammaccapane in third at 5-under.

Foyer started the day at 6-under. She carded two birdies and two bogeys to finish at par. Okamoto collected four birdies and one bogey.

Richard started the day at 4-under and promptly drove into the rough off the tee on the opening hole — "the only bad drive I hit the whole tournament," she said.

She two-putted for bogey, but came back with birdies on the 2nd, 3rd, 5th, 10th, 11th and 12th to go 9-under, and just missed birdie putts that lipped the cup on the 4th and 6th.

After three-putting for bogey on the 13th, Richard hit a 9-iron off the 125-yard 15th tee within six inches of the pin and sank her putt for another birdie.

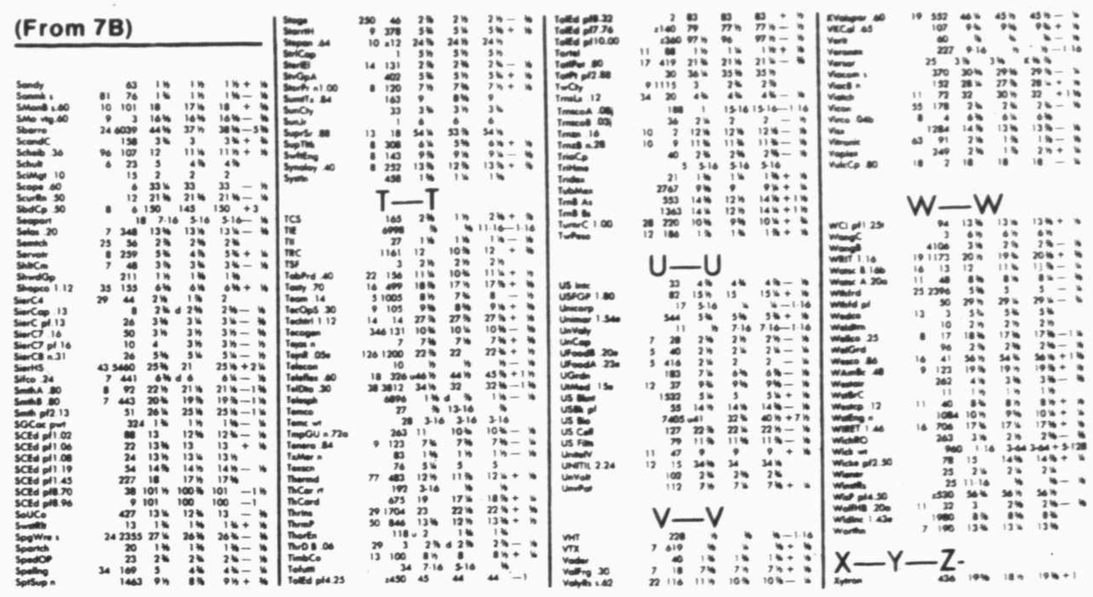

"I thought I aced it," Richard said of that shot, which drew a roar from the crowd.

Foyer, winless in five years on the tour, bogeyed the 1st and 15th holes but came back with birdies on the 3rd and 18th.

Pat Bradley, the 1990 champion and winner of last week's Centel Classic, shot a 2-under 70, which left her seven shots off the lead with a 2-under 142.

Birdie spree gives Ferree Senior lead

MALVERN, PA (AP) — Jim Ferree, a winner just twice in a professional career that began in 1956, birdied three of his final four holes for a 5-under-par 67 and the first-round lead of the $550,000 Bell Atlantic Classic on Friday.

Ferree, 59, of Hilton Head, S.C., held a 1-stroke lead over Babe Hiskey, who never has won an event in three years on the Senior Tour.

Lee Trevino and Mike Hill, who teamed to win last week's Legends of Golf, were two strokes back after 3-under 69s at the White Manor Country Club.

Charles Coody, the 1971 Masters champion, was tied at 70 with Dick Ryhan, and Butch Baird.

"My chipping is what saved me today," said Ferree, who had five birdies during a bogey-free round. "I chipped better than I ever have in a golf tournament."

Ferree's longest putt of the day, a 12-footer, was for his first birdie on the first hole. His exceptional chipping then took over and his other birdie putts were from three feet twice, four feet and six inches.

Ferree's only professional victories came at the 1958 Vancouver Centennial on the regular PGA Tour and in 1986 at the Greater Grand Rapids Senior Open. His best finish this year was a tie for fifth at the Vantage in San Antonio.

Hiskey, winner of too events on the regular PGA Tour — the 1965 Cajun Classic and 1970 Sahara Invitational — battled tricky winds all afternoon as he had an eagle, four birdies and two bogeys.

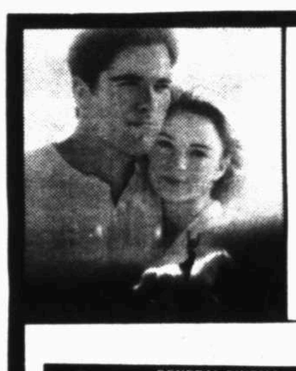

Hiskey rolled in 15-foot putts for birdies on Nos. 4 and 10.

Longhorns, Aggies win; Bears lose

Associated Press

AUSTIN — Freshman Brooks Kieschnick and Abilene's Scotty Pugh hit towering homers in a 10-run inning as No. 5 Texas pounded Alabama-Birmingham 16-3 in the first round of the NCAA Central Regional on Friday night.

In an earlier game at Disch-Faulk Field, Oklahoma State beat Rutgers 9-4.

The Longhorns (47-16) took advantage of four errors and sent 14 men to the plate in the fifth against Alabama-Birmingham.

Kieschnick, the Southwest Conference Most Valuable Player, led off the fifth with a double and by the time he came up again, the score was 10-2. His 12th homer made it 13-2 and Pugh tagged his third homer of the year following a single by Clay King to make it 15-2.

Nine of the runs in the inning were unearned.

Kieschnick raised his team-high RBI total to 60, setting a mark for Longhorn freshmen.

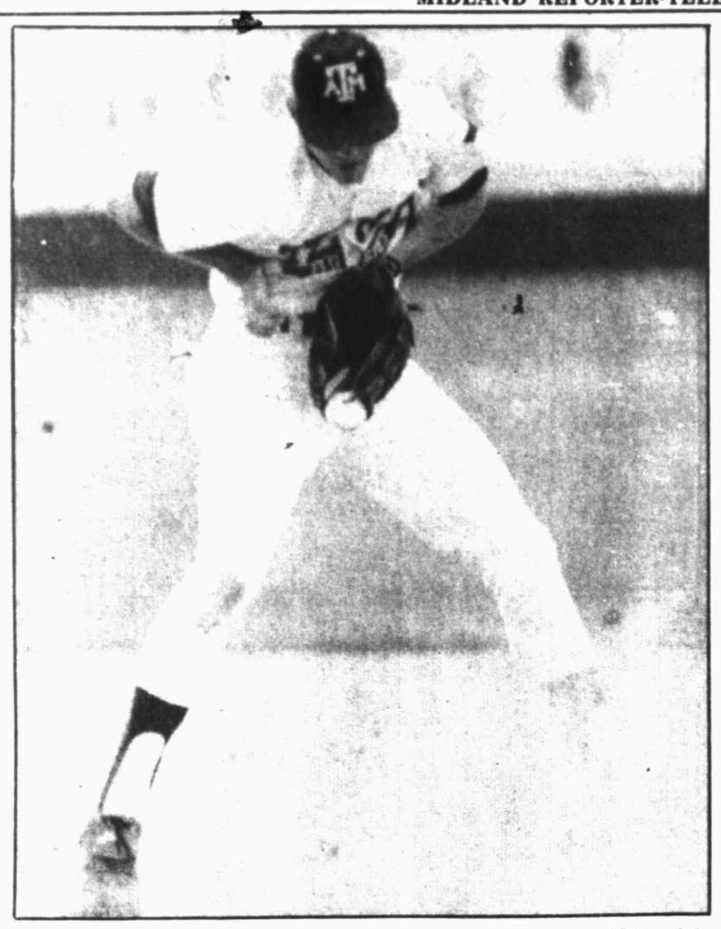

Sophomore Calvin Murray also tied Spike Owen's school record with 95 career stolen bases with a theft in the third. He has 42 swipes this year.

Chris Gaskill (8-3) got the victory for the Horns, giving up two runs in five innings. Stephen Johnson (8-7) suffered the loss. He gave up seven runs, six of them earned, on seven hits in four innings.

In the earlier game, Lou Lucca had two homers, including one in an eight-run seventh inning as No. 9 Oklahoma State beat Rutgers (33-23).

Texas A&M 16, SW Louisiana 4

BATON ROUGE, La. — Conrad Colby drove in four runs and Texas A&M pounded out 22 hits in a victory over Southwestern Louisiana in the opening round of the South Regionals.

Texas A&M shortstop Jason Marshall bobbles the ball here, but the Aggies open NCAA play with a victory.

NCAA Baseball

Colby had a double and two singles in four at-bats as Texas A&M (43-21) advanced to a Saturday winners' bracket game against South Alabama, a 5-4 winner in 10 innings over Oklahoma in the tournament opener.

After spotting Southwestern Louisiana a 2-0 lead, Texas A&M scored five runs in the third inning, two more in the fourth and eight runs in the third to break open their game.

Texas A&M sent 12 men to the plate and went through three Southwestern pitchers in the third inning. Mike Hickey led off with a triple and doubled home a run later in the inning and starter Ronnie Allen found himself with a 15-3 lead.

California 8, Baylor 3

WICHITA, Kan. — Brad Brown's complete game lifted California over Baylor in the Midwest Regional.

It was the sixth complete game of the season for Brown (7-7).

Baylor's runs came in on home runs. Kevin Ellis hit a solo shot in the fourth. Michael Briley got a two-run homer in the fifth.

A fourth inning play with California at bat left both teams confused.

Baylor leftfielder John Finke caught a pop fly, but bobbled the transfer to his throwing hand. An umpire signaled no catch but the batter, Matt Luke, did not run to first and the runner at first advanced to second.

that have been involved here for so long, we know what the truth is and what it was."

Wilkins said a sort of policing system is under way in Odessa to make sure there is no wrongdoing regarding practices again this year.

"We've been fairly active in that regard," Wilkins said. "People in our department are monitoring things as far as the offseason goes. We've had meetings with principals and with coaches.

"Everything that came out of the UIL, it's still a very sensitive area, and we feel like we've worked extremely to see that no errors are made, and that we stay squeaky clean, and that we leave no room for doubt."

Wilkins added that both he and the community of Odessa are "very pleased with how the situations of last fall have resolved themselves.

"It almost got to the point of being ludicrous. The consensus is that we want to make sure everything is fine right down the line."

The incidents are history. The only thing left, Wilkins said, is for the pain to go away.

"At first it hurt for a while," Wilkins said of the impact the book left on the him and community. "But you realize those people don't know what the truth is and what happens. You just go on and try not to worry about it."

NHL's Penguins having fun — for now

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — No matter how the Pittsburgh Penguins do in the Stanley Cup final, it's going to be a tough offseason for general manager Craig Patrick.

"It's a job I wouldn't want," coach Bob Johnson said. "Can you imagine trying to sign those guys?"

Johnson was thinking about the task of signing Pittsburgh's option-year players, particularly Kevin Stevens and Mark Recchi, who tied for the team lead in goals this season.

Both have played important roles in bringing the Penguins to the brink of the Stanley Cup championship, which they can clinch with a victory over the Minnesota North Stars on Saturday night.

Ron Francis is another high-powered option-year player that Patrick must deal with during the offseason. It is Stevens and Recchi, however, who draw most of the media attention these days because of their performances in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

With 17 goals, Stevens has a chance to break the all-time playoff record of 19 shared by three players — Montreal's Newsy Lalonde (1919), Philadelphia's Reggie Leach (1976) and Edmonton's Jarri Kurri (1985).

Recchi has 34 points in the postseason, second behind teammate Mario Lemieux among all playoff scorers. Recchi, who had been struggling in the finals with only one assist in the first four games, had two goals in the Penguins' 6-4 victory on Thursday night that gave them a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 series.

The Penguins obviously would love to keep both players because they represent their hope for the future.

Stevens, a rugged 6-foot-3 left wing from Brockton, Mass., is 25. Recchi, a 5-10, 185-pound right wing from Kamloops, British Columbia, is 22.

Stevens would like to stay with the Penguins because "Pittsburgh has a great bunch of guys, a great nucleus.'

But he sees a larger picture — the well-being of his family

"You have to take care of yourself and your family," said Stevens, who married during the offseason. "You can only play this game for so long. I like Pittsburgh, but I'm not saying I'll be here next year."

Right now, the Penguins are getting Stevens and Recchi at bargain-basement prices. While each scored 40 goals for the Penguins during the regular season, they were comparatively underpaid, even by NHL standards.

Stevens made $150,000 and Recchi was the lowest-paid Penguin at $105,000.

Stevens, especially, has been an inspirational player for the Penguins, a team leader on and off the ice.

Confessions: Fri. 5-5:45 p.m., Sat. 3:30 to 5 p.m. & 6:30 p.m. 'til finished

A grassy field in Gettysburg; muddy trenches slithering through European soil, a stretch of beach in Normandy; the dense and rugged terrain of Korea; the steaming jungles in Vietnam; the arid deserts of the Middle East . . . all soil consecrated by the blood of those who died for democracy. Abraham Lincoln expressed it so eloquently: "We cannot hallow this ground. The brave men (and women) . . . who struggled here have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract."

However we choose to commemorate this significant day, may the offering of prayers for a world united by peace and love be our living memorial.

"Turn ye even to me with your heart . . . and with weeping, and with mourning . . . and turn unto the Lord your God: for he is gracious and merciful."
Joel 2:12-13

Confessions: Fri. 5-5:45 p.m., Sat. 3:30 to 6 p.m. & 6:30 p.m. 'til finished

A grassy field in Gettysburg; muddy trenches slithering through European soil; a stretch of beach in Normandy; the dense and rugged terrain of Korea; the steaming jungles in Vietnam; the arid deserts of the Middle East . . . all soil consecrated by the blood of those who died for democracy. Abraham Lincoln expressed it so eloquently: "We cannot hallow this ground. The brave men (and women) . . . who struggled here have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract."

However we choose to commemorate this significant day, may the offering of prayers for a world united by peace and love be our living memorial.

"Turn ye even to me with your heart . . .
and with weeping, and with mourning . . .
and turn unto the Lord your God:
for he is gracious and merciful."
Joel 2:12-13

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Singer to join tour

Trena Ivy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doak Ivy, is to travel with the Continental Singers this summer.

Ivy

Continental Singers are part of a non-denominational Christian organization called Continental Ministries which began with one tour group 24 years ago. The group began by singing upbeat contemporary Christian songs in churches throughout California. Now the organization has 14 groups, each containing around 25 singers and 12 to 14 instrumentalists, that travel the world.

Miss Ivy was accepted during the summer of 1990 to be a part of Continental Singers. She will be filling the second soprano position on one of the tours. Her tour will travel across the United States by bus and then fly overseas to minister to people in France, Channel Islands in the United Kingdom, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Some days during the 75-day tour the group will be performing two and three concerts.

Miss Ivy, a piano student of Lou Nelle George, has won first place medals in the Knox Music Competition in Midland and the Pauline Slator Competition in Odessa. She has been a national winner in Guild Auditions for the past four years and is a member of Student Affiliate of Texas Music Teachers Association.

In addition, she has participated in Jazz Festival and recitals sponsored by Student Affiliate and has performed in ensemble recitals, all girls recitals, Bach, Mozart and Beethoven recitals.

She has performed in the Duet Festival sponsored by Midland Music Teachers Association for four years and has received Gold Cup Awards for three consecutive superior ratings in Junior Festivals sponsored by the Federated Music Clubs. Also, she has performed accompaniment in church since she was 13.

Miss Ivy attends Lee High school where she sings in choirs and in an ensemble.

■ Gray to serve mission

The Ogden Utah Mission will become home for Chet Kenneth Gray for two years when he leaves June 4 to begin serving as a missionary for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Frazier

Gray is one of seven children of Kenneth H. and Sherrie Gray of Midland, and the first to serve a mission. A farewell will be held for him at 10:50 a.m. Sunday in the chapel at 4805 gateway.

An Eagle Scout, Gray will graduate Thursday from Lee High School where he was a member of National Honor Society. He has been involved in the "Christmas in April" program and volunteered his time to work with the elderly. Plans after his mission include attending Brigham Young University to major in electrical engineering.

■ Minister earns degree

The Rev. H.A. Hanks of First Baptist Church in Andrews recently received a doctor of ministry degree from Luther Rice Theological Seminary, Jacksonville, Fla.

The seminary has several thousand students and offers both on campus and a flexible on-off campus degree program for masters and doctoral students. With major locations in Atlanta, Ga., and in Europe, it is the largest seminary of its kind.

Hanks and his wife, Jean, spent May 5-11 in Jacksonville in order for him to attend final classes and graduation activities.

■ Sunday program set

The Unitarian-Universalist Church, Midkiff and Neely streets, will present a program entitled "Pastoral Counseling: Healing the Body, Mind and Spirit" Sunday.

The presenter will be Diane Rhoden, counselor with the Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas.

The hour-long program begins at 9:45 a.m. Sunday. The public is invited to attend.

■ Church plans picnic

Alamo Heights Baptist Church is holding a church-wide picnic Sunday at Hogan Park.

Those attending are asked to bring a picnic lunch for their family plus two guests. The day's activities, which begin at 1:30 p.m., include a talent show, games and fellowship.

All interested parties are invited to attend.

■ Guest to give talk

The Rev. George T. Curry Jr. of Houston and formerly of Midland is the guest speaker in the 8:30 a.m. service Sunday at Mt. Carmel Baptist Church, 1308 E. Pecan Ave.

Curry, who grew up in Midland, is assistant to his father, the Rev. G.T. Curry, at the Mt. Pilgrim Baptist Church, Houston.

Cora Wade will bring a message of prophecy in the 11 a.m. service Sunday. She is a member of the Mt. Carmel congregation and will be initiating her Prophetic Ministry.

The church's pastor, the Rev. John Mitchell, invites the public to attend the services. Rides are available by calling 683-6833 or 683-7151.

■ Church plans program

Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan Ave., will emphasize education at the 10:30 a.m. service Sunday.

The youth choirs will first present a musical program entitled "Journeys With Jesus" in honor of the Sunday School teachers of the congregation. The Joyful Singers will be accompanied and directed by Kristine Solberg and the Klingel Choir is directed by Rena Harris.

Members of Midland Lutheran Church who are graduating from high school and college will be honored during the service. High school seniors are Helen Holstein, Chris Lanning, Jeff Lanning, Derek Stice, Joedan Reed, Todd Giese and Matthew Wallace.

Immediately following the worship service, the Women of the ELCA will host a reception in the fellowship Hall to honor these graduates.

Sunday School classes begin at 9:15 a.m. with the worship service starting at 10:30 a.m.

For more information call the church's pastor, the Rev. Ronald Meyer, 694-1373.

■ Bible School slated

St. Paul United Methodist Church, 4501 Thomason Dr., has scheduled Vacation Bible School for 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon June 24-28. Classes will be available for children ages two through sixth grade. "Jesus Calls: Come Follow" is the theme for this year's school which will include Bible stories, music, crafts and snacks.

In order to ensure that there will be enough material for each child, please register your child by May 31. Registration forms are available at the church office. For additional information call 689-8775 or 694-5381.

■ Summer service set

Rusty Frazier begins service this week as Summer Youth Director at Ranchland Heights Baptist Church.

Gray

Frazier, a student at Howard Payne University, is beginning his second summer of service with the church. He will work with youth in a wide range of activities, along with some activities and programs for children.

The summer will consist of weekly activities and classes as well as trips to the Youth Evangelism Conference in Dallas and to church camps.

Assisting Frazier in the Youth Program will be David and Debbie Hanson, Billy and Marilyn Hall and Richard and Debbie Galloway.

For more information call 683-1947 or 684-6544.

■ Scholarship awarded

Tony White, son of James and Gracie White, has been awarded a Black Baptist Scholarship from the Baptist General Convention of Texas in Dallas.

White

White will attend Hardin Simmons University, Abilene, where he will be a chemistry major.

The Black Baptist Scholarship is funded through the Mary Hill Davis Offering for State Mission given each fall by members of the 5,300 Southern Baptist churches and missions in Texas.

■ Theory program set

The Unitarian-Universalist Church of Midland, Midkiff and Neely, is presenting a program at 9:45 a.m. Sunday entitled "The Theory of Worship."

The program leader will be the Rev. Clare L. Petersberger, the church's minister. She holds a master's degree in divinity from Harvard University.

Ms. Petesberger has said she takes as the first principle of worship that "we are all experts on ascribing worth to the things of significance in our lives."

Program participants will investigate the essential nature of their own world view, whether it be comedic, tragic, romantic or ironic.

The public is invited to attend. Child care will be provided.

■ Service times change

St. Paul's Anglican Church, 3001 Golf Course Road, has changed its sevice times.

Church services are now held each Sunday at 10:30 a.m., and will be in accordance with the 1928 book of common prayer. Sunday school for pre-teens will coincide with church hours. The church will have an additional 5 p.m. service on the first Sunday in each month.

For information call 684-5438.

■ Divorce seminar set

A seminar for all divorced or separated Catholics is being presented June 8 at St. Ann Catholic Church.

Hours for "The Role of the Separated/Divorced Catholic in Today's Church" are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the parlor, 207 North M St.

Speakers and their topics include Alexandria Rose, "Choosing Your Own Greatness;" Norb Dickman, "Current Church Teaching on Separation and Divorce;" and the Rev. Larry Droll, Marriage Tribunal, Diocese of San Angelo, "The Annulment Process in the Church."

Free child care will be provided at 1900 Texas. Children are to bring a sack lunch. Drinks will be provided.

Those attending will be invited to the church's 5:30 p.m. Mass.

A $5 registration fee includes a catered lunch. Financial assistance is available. For more information or to reserve child care call 689-7700 during the day or 682-6060 in the evenings.

■ Church plans dinner

First United Methodist Church is hosting an appreciation dinner in honor of the Rev. Bill Weir, the church's minister of program, at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Weir is planning semi-retirement and will relocate to Sulphur Springs.

Associates and friends are invited to join First UMC in expressing gratitude to Weir and his family.

Casual dress is appropriate. Dinner is $2. For reservations call First UMC, 305 N. Baird St., 682-3701.

■ Ancient rites set

SAN ANGELO — Deacon Terence V. Brenon of Midland will be one of three men ordained to the Roman Catholic priesthood for service in the Diocese of San Angelo.

The ancient rites of invoking the Holy Spirit and imposing hands will take place at 10 a.m. today at Sacred Heart Cathedral in San Angelo. Bishop Michael D. Pfeifer, OMI, will be the ordaining prelate. Everyone is invited to attend.

Brenon, 31, is the son of Victor and Laura Janet Brenon of Midland. Born in Potsdam, N.Y., Brenon and his family lived in upstate New York until his father was transferred to Midland in 1976.

A member of St. Ann Parish, Brenon attended Midland High School, Midland College and graduated from Texas Tech in 1981 with a bachelor's degree in French. The oldest of seven children's playground at the church.

Among fund raising activities was a recent spaghetti dinner.

The equipment is used daily both by children of the church, the Mother's Day Out, and youngsters of the neighborhood. It is important that high-quality, well-made pieces be purchased.

■ Fire damages facilities

A fire damaged the Area Methodist Outreach Service (AMOS) and the adjacent Asbury United Methodist Church May 3. AMOS, a non-profit organization sponsored by the local United Methodist Churches, provides emergency food and clothing assistance for many Midland residents, and also serves as the Permian Basin office for the Methodist Mission Home in San Antonio, providing adoption services.

AMOS has opened its temporary office at the Wesley House of St. Mark's United Methodist Church, 1701 North Main, with the same telephone number of 687-AMOS. The office hours are 1 a.m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday. Donations are being accepted to help resupply the food stock and to pay for expenses not fully covered by insurance.

■ Church sets project

The congregation of St. Mark's United Methodist Church, 1701 North Main, is planning to replace the well-worn equipment in the

■ Church sets Adult Day

Fannin Terrace Baptist Church, has designated Sunday as "Adult Day" at the church. All the adult Sunday School workers will be recognized in the 11 a.m. worship service.

This Sunday also is high attendance day. This month the church has recognized all of the Sunday school departments.

In addition, the church has Vacation Bible School planned for June 10-14 from 9 a.m. to noon.

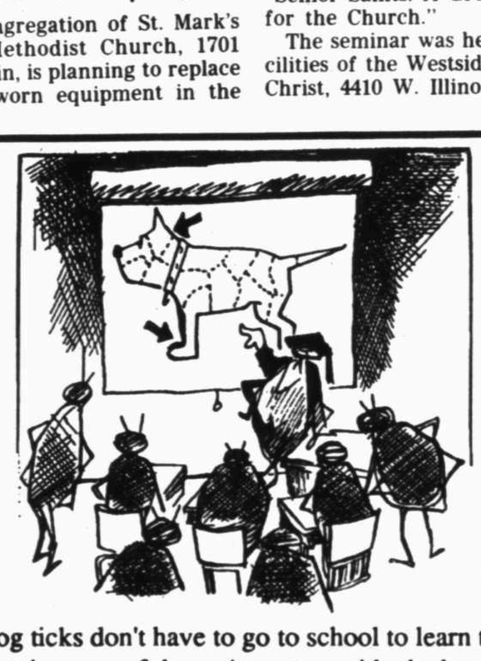

Director of VBS this year is Becky Lofton.

■ Aging seminar set

The Westside Church of Christ recently hosted "Senior Servants: A Seminar on Aging," presented by Dr. C. Bruce Davis, of Abilene.

Sessions included "The Age Wave," "Christian Grandparenting," "You and Your Aging Parent," "Myths About Aging," and "Senior Saints: A Great Resource for the Church."

The seminar was held at the facilities of the Westside Church of Christ, 4410 W. Illinois Ave.

More interest shown in rabbinical training

N.Y. Times News Service

Disenchanted with the prospect of careers in law, medicine and business — and searching for something more satisfying and often as remunerative — young American Jews are applying to rabbinical schools in record numbers.

The Reform and Conservative rabbinical seminaries are accepting larger classes for next fall than they have in almost a decade amid signs that the rabbinate has achieved heightened professional status.

Administrators are not certain why there has been an explosion of interest in rabbinical training. The trend is not matched in Protestant seminaries, where admissions for ministerial training have been steady for 20 years, or in Catholic seminaries, where admissions have declined.

The phenomenon seems to be economic as well as spiritual. As the number of Reform and Conservative rabbis has dwindled in recent years, the rabbinical pay scale has risen to levels previously confined to a handful of more conventional professions.

Starting salaries, including benefits, for graduates at the Conservative movement's Jewish Theological Seminary last year was $60,000. Salary packages of $100,000 are common for experienced Reform and Conservative rabbis, and some earn twice that amount.

"In a falling economy, where the law is overcrowded, where medicine is on its way to socialization, where business is discredited, the rabbinate has become a competetitive profession," said Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg, a professor of religion at Dartmouth.

THERE IS ALSO a sense that the trend may signify a movement away from the materialism of the 1980s toward more spiritual concerns. "I sense we've turned a corner in this country," said Rabbi Gary P. Zola, national dean of admissions and college relations at the Reform movement's Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion in Cincinnati. "I sense more of an interest in the helping professions."

Salaries among the Orthodox, as among Christian clergy, tend to be considerably lower than those offered by the generally much larger Reform and Conservative congregations. The Orthodox rabbinate did not experience a surge in applications this year.

"Nobody does this for the money," said Martha Bergadine Zamek of Evanston, Ill., who just received her letter of admission to rabbinical school, "but it's nice to know that Reform rabbis make a good living."

Dr. Alfred Gottschalk, the president of the Reform seminary, said about his students: "Sure, they are looking for security, but they are also looking for a sense of inner security."

Mrs. Zamek, 30, and a convert to Judaism, will be entering Hebrew Union College in the fall with her husband, Stanton, 31. She will be giving up her job with an advertising agency, and he will leave his job in a law firm. They will also be giving up a salary they describe as being in "the low six figures."

Zamek, a real-estate lawyer, said that a few years ago he realized that he was not happy being a lawyer, a profession he chose because "it was practical."

"I WAS SO 'practical' that I found my self entirely unhappy with everything I was doing," he said. "I decided to switch to something I would enjoy."

The impetus for their decision came in an unusual way. Although they have been together for 10 years, the Zameks were estranged from organized Jewish life until four years ago, when they decided to marry.

Their involvement in an educational program that led to Mrs. Zamek's conversion to Judaism was the beginning of their journey to the rabbinate.

Reform Judaism has admitted women to the rabbinate since 1972; Conservative Judaism since 1985. Seminary enrollments increased for both branches after women were admitted, but the numbers have leveled off until the surge this year.

Second-career applicants, like the Zameks, and converts, like Mrs. Zamek, have also added to the numbers in recent years, especially in the Reform seminary.

Admissions at the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary, an Orthodox institution affiliated with Yeshiva University in New York, have been steady for several years.

Forty to 45 applicants have been admitted for next fall. The school admits only men for rabbinic training, and most of them are in their early 20s, right out of college.

AT THE JEWISH Theological Seminary in Manhattan, admissions are up almost 40 percent, from 26 last year to 36 this year. Two thirds are men, and the average age is 25.

At Hebrew Union College, which also has a branch in Manhattan, the increase is about 20 percent, from 42 last year to 51 this year. Roughly half are women, and the average age is 27.

Facing a decline in the number of pulpit rabbis in recent years, the seminaries have recruited extensively on college and high school campuses with the help of grants from the Lilly Endowment, a foundation that has been working with both Christian and Jewish denominations to increase clergy recruitment and improve training.

The movements have published or reissued several books on the profession, and the Reform movement even released a 27-minute video called "Rabbi." The video shows rabbis in a number of liturgical, educational and social-action roles, visiting the sick, teaching youngsters and working in politics.

Rabbi Zola, who worked on the video, said the message the Reform movement is trying to get across is this: "In a certain sense, lawyers, CPAs, business executives are a dime a dozen, but a rabbi — a true rabbi — is something very special."

Another motivator for those interested in the rabbinate is the growing availability of fellowship money, especially through the Wexner Foundation in Columbus, Ohio. For the last four years, the foundation has awarded dozens of grants to promising rabbinical students.

The executives at the foundation see applications from all the major Jewish movements, as well as from the smaller Reconstructionist seminary in Wyncote, Pa. Larry S. Moses, director of the Wexner fellowship program, said more applications have been received this year than ever before.

"I DON'T KNOW if this is a blip on the screen," Moses said. "There is always the possibility that this recession has something to do with it. Maybe we are reaching the point economically where the high-status, high-salaried professions — medicine, law and business — are not so high status any more or high salaried, but in fact plagued by their own problems."

What has struck him about the 87 applicants for rabbinic fellowships this year, he said, is that "these are people with options." They are characterized by high grade-point averages, top scores on the Graduate Record Exam and degrees from the Ivy League.

The undergraduate schools most highly represented, Moses said, are Columbia, Brandeis, the University of Pennsylvania, Yeshiva University, Washington University in St. Louis, the University of Michigan, Yale and the University of Chicago.

Robert Scheinberg of Rockville, Md., who just graduated from Columbia with honors, entered college four years ago intent on becoming a doctor. "I did all right in my pre-med courses," he said, "but I didn't care enough about being a doctor. I discovered that my real passion was for Judaism." He plans to enter the Jewish Theological Seminary in the fall with the hope of eventually being a Jewish educator.

Catholic theologian: 'It's 'in' to be 'out' '

NEW YORK (AP) — Uta Ranke-Heinemann, a woman of prominent family and rare academic attainment, has also been classed a Roman Catholic maverick, but she brushes it off jauntily.

Ranke-Heinemann

"It's more 'in' at the moment to be 'out'," she said with an impish grin and flash of blue eyes. "My impression is that it's fashionable to be 'out' and not 'in'."

She was talking about a fellow Catholic scholar, the Rev. Hans Kung, removed by the Vatican from teaching "official Catholic theology," but she also was referring to herself.

"It's fashionable to have lost one's chair," said she, daughter of former West German President Gustav Heinemann and described as becoming in 1970 the first woman licensed by Catholicism to teach theology.

However, she was ousted in 1987 from that post at Germany's University of Essen at the behest of the local bishop for questioning the biological virginity of Jesus's mother.

She said in an interview that terming such ousters stylish "may be a bit of exaggeration," but "some of it holds true for me."

Although no longer teaching New Testament and early Christianity, she remains a tenured faculty member, teaching religious history without a church mandate.

She also has produced a peppery new book, "Eunuchs For the Kingdom of Heaven," published by Doubleday, lashing at the church as being controlled by male celibates and as demeaning women and sexuality.

"I'm fed up with the pope interfering with things that are none of his business — contraception, for instance," she said, refering to the church's prohibition of it.

Such matters should be restored "to the competence of the couples themselves," she said. "It's time to extricate married love from the voyeuristic participation of the pope and bishops."

Her book's title is taken from Jesus' comment in Matthew 19:12 about men "who have made themselves eunuchs for the sake of the kingdom of heaven."

She maintains that "the whole of church history adds up to one long arbitrary, narrow-minded masculine despotism over the female sex."

A buoyant woman, gleeful in her critiques, she said the also unseated Kung "was more influential" than before.

Kung, barred by the Vatican in 1979 from teaching Catholic theology at Germany's University of Tubingen after he questioned some church concepts such as papal infallibility, now teaches ecumenical theology there.

He also has produced a new book, "Global Responsibility: In Search of a New World Ethic," published by Crossroad, in which he contends that world peace cannot be achieved without "peace between religions."

They share ultimate goals of peace and harmony, he says, and through dialogue should combine their influences in that common quest.

He writes: "Humankind can less and less afford religions stirring up wars on this earth instead of making peace; making people fanatical instead of seeking reconciliation; practicing superiority instead of engaging in dialogue."

Mrs. Ranke-Heinemann's book, a best-seller of nearly half a million in Germany, now also is out in other European languages, as well as the English edition here.

It was denounced by New York's Cardinal John O'Connor as purveying "hatred, scandal and malice," although he said he had only read the dust jacket and didn't intend to read more.

Mrs. Ranke-Heinemann, married to religion professor Edmund Ranke and mother of two sons, said that "there is nothing of hatred" in the book.

She said it was based on reliable, historical scholarship, recording negative church views on sexuality through the centuries, but was written "to read like a glossy magazine."

"It's so taxi drivers can understand it."

She said she received a letter from the captain of a German coastal freighter saying the crew's reaction to the book was "falling from laughter into anger and from anger back into laughter."

She conceded bishops these days sometimes "say good things" about women being equal, but they "do the opposite."

"If women were equal, the church should alternate — one male pope, one female pope," she said sportingly. "Starting now, to even things up, for 2,000 years we should have a female pope."

That's "hyperbole," she said, "to make a point."

She said she was fed up with the "sheep-like attitude of unquestioning obedience which the bishops have" about such discriminatory policies as the church ban on women's ordination. "Why don't they protest?"

"Communist dictatorship is fading away, but only the Catholic Church has this sheep-like attitude," she said. "The bishops can't question. They keep their silence and don't say anything."

Concerning the argument that Jesus didn't ordain women, she said, "Jesus didn't ordain male priests either. The priesthood didn't exist at the time."

She added, "Jesus was a friend of women, the first and at the same time almost the last friend women had in the church."

Church gets bus

Ranchland Heights Baptist Church has instituted a Bus Ministry with the acquisition of a 19-passenger bus recently.

Kenneth and Martha Hector are conducting the ministry, and they have had previous experience from a similar ministry they worked with in Kermit.

For more information contact Mrs. Hector, 689-8273; or Leonard Hanson, Sunday School Director, 684-7233.

Catholic Church lists positions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Catholic Conference has outlined positions it advocates on 74 legislative issues under consideration by Congress.

The church, influential last year in legislation providing vouchers to assist parents in securing child care from public, private or religious providers, sketched positions on various matters.

Among proposals supported:

- An act on family medical leave, requiring employers to offer limited unpaid leave to workers with serious health conditions, newborn or ill dependents.
- A new civil rights bill prohibiting discrimination in employment.
- Prohibition of federal funding for abortion.
- New and increased funding for low-income housing development by community organizations.
- Full funding to restore compensatory educational service for all low-income, educationally disadvantaged school children.
- Human rights initiatives in Guatemala and Haiti, diplomatic solutions for a just peace in El Salvador and assistance to Panama and Nicaragua.

Allied troops move into Dohuk; relief-related crash kills 4

The World

DOHUK, Iraq (AP) — The allied occupation of northern Iraq entered what the U.S. military hopes will be its final phase Friday when aid workers and soldiers moved into Dohuk to begin rebuilding the provincial capital.

A dozen U.S. Army Humvees and several civilian vehicles cruised into Dohuk on Friday morning. Doctors, engineers and sanitation and health experts are set to work on the city, which was badly damaged in the Kurdish rebellion against Saddam Hussein.

All the soldiers were American except one British engineer.

They were the only troops in the area, with Iraqi security forces barred from a 128-square-mile region around Dohuk. But allied officials said this did not mean an extension of their "security zone" in northern Iraq.

Many Kurds said that while they welcomed the allied presence, they worried about what would happen once coalition forces withdrew.

"I fear the blood of Saddam," said Fakel Moustafa, a 36-year-old Kurdish engineer who returned Friday from the squalid mountain refugee camp of Cukurca in Turkey. "He's a killer, and how can a killer change?"

Kurdish leaders and the Iraqi government are negotiating in Baghdad over Kurdish demands for autonomy within Iraq. But many Kurds fear the Iraqi government will not honor any agreement.

"I can't say what's going to happen after we leave," said U.S. Army Col. Robert Beahm, commander of the 354th Civil Affairs Brigade, operating in Dohuk. "Right now we're just trying to get the Kurds home."

In other developments Friday, a chartered transport plane carrying relief supplies to Kurdish refugees ran out of fuel and crashed into a mountain in western Iran while attempting an emergency landing, Iranian reports said.

The government-run Islamic Republic News Agency said four aboard were killed and six were injured. An official of Geneva-based company Mexair, which chartered the jet, said all 10 aboard were Soviets.

German officials said the plane was carrying 45 tons of tents and other relief supplies, IRNA said.

In another refugee-related accident, a French soldier was killed and two others were injured during a mine-clearing operation in northern Iraq around the town of Deralok, an allied military spokesman said. In a separate blast, two U.S. troops were injured near the town of Sawita.

British Royal Marines searching for a missing BBC news crew have found the remains of two bodies in northern Iraq, the British Ministry of Defense said.

A spokesman said the bodies were found Thursday. He said they had not been identified and were being flown back to Britain.

More than 100,000 Kurds are camping in valleys of northern Iraq, waiting to return to Dohuk, one of the largest population centers in the north. Another 50,000 refugees, mostly from the Dohuk area, remain in the Cukurca camp.

Beahm said 4,000 to 8,000 Kurds a day would pass through three reception centers in Dohuk.

Allied forces initially wanted to avoid entering Dohuk as part of their stated objective to make the occupation of northern Iraq as painless as possible for Saddam's government.

But Kurdish leaders insisted on the presence of some Western troops in Dohuk before they would advise their people to return home.

U.S. Army Lt. Gen. John Shalikashvili and his Iraqi counterpart in the region hammered out an agreement Wednesday allowing Western soldiers in the city.

The Iraqis also agreed to withdraw their troops and secret police six miles south of Dohuk. They must also stay out of a zone 15 miles west and four miles east of the city.

Two weeks ago Dohuk was a ghost town, filled with Iraqi soldiers clutching automatic weapons.

Now children run through the streets. The market hums with activity.

Last Cuban soldiers leaving Angola this weekend after 16-year conflict

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — The last Cuban soldiers are expected to leave Angola this weekend, ending a 16-year military venture that cost more than 2,000 Cuban lives and added to the strains of the Cold War.

If they go as planned, the Cubans will leave five weeks ahead of a deadline set by 1988 peace accords signed by the Angolan government, Angolan rebels, Cuba and South Africa in New York. The United States and the Soviet Union helped back the peace agreement.

The Cubans backed Angola's Marxist government, aided by the Soviet Union, against anti-Communist guerrillas assisted by the United States and South Africa. The United States considered the Cubans to be Soviet proxy forces helping to expand Moscow's interest in Africa; the Angolan government asserted the Cubans were helping it fight off the forces of imperialism.

Defense Minister Pedro Maria Tonha said some of the nearly 2,000 Cuban troops left in Angola were to leave Friday on a Havana-bound ship. The rest will fly home Saturday, Tonha was quoted by news reports as saying.

In Washington on Friday, State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said the United States welcomed the Cuban decision.

"The departure of Cuban forces ... will mark the end of three decades of Cuban military involvement in Africa," she said. "This positive development will contribute to the end of international ideological tensions in Africa, and help promote further conflict resolution in the region."

The Cubans will also leave one week before the Angolan government and the UNITA rebel movement are scheduled to sign a treaty ending one of Africa's longest and bloodiest civil wars.

Under the 1988 accords the 50,000 Cuban soldiers then in Angola were due to complete a phased withdrawal June 30. A small United Nations force has monitored the pullout.

In return, South Africa granted independence to Angola's southern neighbor Namibia in March 1990 and pledged to halt aid to UNITA.

South Africa Foreign Minister Pik Botha applauded the Cuban decision. "Angola, Cuba and South Africa, have opened a new era of cooperation in southern Africa."

He said the early Cuban withdrawal will facilitate an ongoing peace process the Angolan civil war. UNITA and government troopers stopped shooting last week when a provisional cease-fire came into force last week.

The two sides are scheduled to sign a formal treaty at the end of the month. The U.N. force in Angola will then be expanded to monitor the truce.

UNITA, the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola, fought the pro-Soviet government since Angola gained independence from Portugal in 1975.

Early in the civil war, South African units pushed across Angola's southern frontier with Namibia to back UNITA. Cuban troops were rushed to Luanda to fight alongside government soldiers.

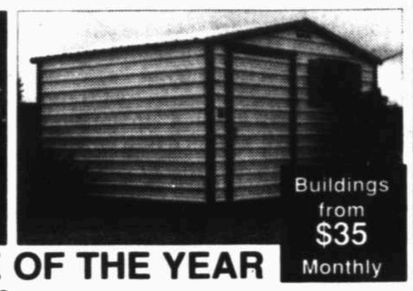

South Africa claims its direct intervention was to preempt Cuba's involvement.

The United States fiercely contested Cuba's presence in Angola. U.S. military aid to UNITA resumed under the administration of President Reagan in 1986, after a 10-year congressional ban.

■ South Korean president appoints new premier

SEOUL, South Korea — President Roh Tae-woo appointed a hardliner Friday as his new prime minister, signaling his refusal to give in to five weeks of violent protests that have rocked South Korea.

In response, opposition forces threatened stepped-up anti-government demonstrations to press for wider democratic reforms.

The choice of Chung Won-shik, aimed at reassuring middle-class Koreans weary of prolonged protests, could backfire by triggering broader demonstrations. Opponents had hoped for a moderate prime minister to replace Ro Jai-bong, who resigned this week to appease the anti-government protesters.

Chung's appointment came as militant demonstrators prepared for more nationwide protests on Saturday to call for the overthrow of the Roh government, which they condemn as repressive and anti-democratic.

■ Official: 200 children taken from families

FRANKFURT, Germany — Communist East Germany may have taken as many as 200 children away from parents deemed enemies of the state, a Berlin official said Friday.

Thorsten Schilling, spokesman for Berlin's youth and family department, said eight cases where children were forcibly taken from their parents have been documented so far. But the actual number is probably much higher, he said.

Word of forced adoptions first leaked out during the 1970s from escapees fleeing to West Germany. Reports said the East German government took children away from dissidents, spies, and those wanting to escape the country. The children were adopted into families considered loyal to the regime.

Margot Honecker, former East German Education Minister and wife of deposed Communist leader Erich Honecker, directed the separation of children from families considered enemies of the state.

■ Rebels slay 9 policemen in highway ambush

BOGOTA, Colombia — A week before scheduled peace talks, leftist rebels killed nine policemen in a highway ambush but released six police officers and 10 soldiers taken prisoner elsewhere, officials said Friday.

Four rebels were reported killed by police in a third incident.

The nine officers were killed late Thursday when insurgents exploded a bomb alongside a police truck on a highway near Sardinata, the town's mayor, Hermides Moncada, told reporters.

Sardinata is 250 miles northeast of the capital, Bogota.

Leaders of Colombia's two remaining rebel groups, the National Liberation Army and the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia, have agreed to meet with government officials June 1 in Caracas, Venezuela.

The negotiators will discuss the possibility of ending Colombia's 30-year-old guerrilla insurgency.

■ Prison warden fears return of 'death lottery'

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — Prisoners killed an inmate to protest overcrowding in their cells, and the warden said he feared a return of "death lotteries" to clear space in the jail.

Celso Antonio da Silva, 25, a convicted murderer, was chosen for sacrifice by inmates Wednesday, said Candido Martins da Cunha, warden of the jail in Uberlandia, 600 miles northwest of Rio.

"They all agreed, and before we could do anything they got him," said Cunha. "He was stomped, beaten and smashed against the bars."

The prisoners are upset because 135 of them are crammed into a space built for 40, he said.

Police pinpoint Gandhi assassin

By Bhagwan Singh
Associated Press writer

AP Laserphoto

The unidentified woman in the center of the photo is suspected by investigators of having carried the bomb that killed former Indian Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi on Tuesday. The picture was taken moments before the explosion.

MADRAS, India — Indian investigators used an amateur videotape to pinpoint the female suicide assassin who killed former Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi, but they have been unable to identify her, officials said Friday.

Gandhi was killed Tuesday at an election rally in southern India by a woman who detonated a mix of plastic explosives and steel pellets strapped to her waist, said an official at the Interior Ministry in New Delhi.

The identity of the woman had not been determined, said the official, who receives reports from several investigating agencies. He said it was not known if she had any accomplices.

Suspicion has centered on Tamil militants from neighboring Sri Lanka, police said, mainly because the woman appeared to have the dark complexion and facial features of a Tamil and the Sri Lankan rebels are known to have sought refuge in southern India.

The Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam, which is the largest of the Tamil armed groups and virulently anti-Gandhi, has denied responsibility.

Investigators say the Tigers are the only militants known to be in the area that could handle the sophisticated techniques used in the assassination.

The explosive, which appeared to be Czechoslovak-made and is known to be employed by the Tigers, was attached to a denim belt worn by the woman and triggered by a detonator near the buckle, the Interior Ministry official said.

Hundreds of steel pellets embedded in the explosive flew out with the explosion, killing Gandhi and the woman instantly, he said. At least 16 other people also died.

Police found an amateur cameramen who made a videocassette recording of the rally, said authorities in Madras, capital of Tamil Nadu state.

The tape showed a bespectacled, 5-foot-tall woman, wearing an orange and green salwar-kameez, a loose shirt and trouser combination, waiting for Gandhi with a sandalwood garland in her hand.

The dress matched the bits of cloth on a female body found with pieces of wire and a three-volt battery, apparently part of the detonator, police said.

A witness had told police the blast occurred soon after a woman handed the garland to Gandhi.

A picture of the woman taken from the videotape was published Friday in The Hindu, a Madras-based daily. A police officer, speaking on condition of anonymity, said it was released in hopes the woman could be identified. It could not be learned if there had been any response.

P. Chandrashekharan, director of forensic sciences for Tamil Nadu state, said the explosive was cyclotrimethlene trinitramine, commonly known as RDX because of its association with the research and development wing of the Indian army. He had said earlier the explosive might have been geligNite, another plastic explosive.

Asoka Wijesekera, a forensic analyst in Colombo, Sri Lanka, said RDX is used frequently by the Liberation Tigers.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, MAY 25, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Your personal relationships are in the spotlight now. Stay on your toes. A promotion or raise is possible by late summer. A change of lifestyle will have multiple benefits in October. Long-distance travel is likely before the winter holidays. Avoid risky career and business gambles in early 1992. A former flame could re-enter your life next spring. Do not repeat an earlier mistake.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Dixie Carter, jazzman Miles Davis, country singers Tom T. Hall and Jessi Colter.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A friend or relative could try your patience. State your views calmly but firmly. Collect unwanted household items and donate them to a favorite charity. Family chats are delightfully informative.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Being inquisitive could help you uncover a real bargain. Small children play an important role in your domestic affairs today. Keep in touch with someone who has helped you in the past.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Change your spending habits to relieve a temporary financial strain. Buy in quantity whenever practical. Your curiosity about a stranger could lead to happy new romance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Financial matters require prompt attention. Seek experts' advice if legal questions are involved. Read the fine print before signing contracts. Loved one may feel neglected. Be more attentive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Weekend employment could be the answer to temporary financial woes. Enlist family's help. Socializing will lift your spirits this evening. Romance looks more promising than in the past.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Seek quiet surroundings to complete important paperwork. A telephone call or letter brings great news! Going out with your pals tonight could be expensive; avoid going overboard.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Productivity is what counts most now. Concentrate on working out the details before launching a project. Get several bids if renovating. You could lose out if you shilly-shally in romance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Bowing out of the spotlight today gives you a chance to unwind. Make a list of your priorities. You may need to reorganize your life. A small child makes an important disclosure.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Study a financial plan closely; it could be right on the money! An element of secrecy can benefit you in some ways. Be ready to take direct action. Romance may have to wait.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The focus today is on your finances. Find ways to increase your income. Expensive travel is best postponed. Use the fax or telephone. The direct approach works best in romance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are a dynamic healer of hearts and homes today. Other people look to you for guidance. You sparkle in a group setting! Spending a quiet evening at home will recharge your batteries.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Welcome surprising news today. A message from someone at a distance boosts your ego. Expand your circle of acquaintances — you are tuned in to the right crowd. Avoid talking shop at parties.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are energetic, funny and open-minded. From an early age these Geminis will display a strong interest in other people's beliefs and customs. Born adventurers, they will want to live abroad as well as visit there. Wiry and industrious, these children are unlikely to have a weight problem. They enjoy athletics and often become avid campers or hikers. Their somewhat unpredictable behavior can complicate their personal relationships.

Landon leaves hospital

LOS ANGELES — Thanking dozens of wellwishers, Michael Landon checked out of a hospital Friday after a four-day stay for apparent complications from chemotherapy.

Landon

Accompanied by his wife and one of his nine children, Landon shook hands with some patients as he left Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. The Landons returned to their 10-acre Malibu ranch.

Landon appeared pale and thinner since he disclosed last month he had inoperable cancer of the liver and pancreas. He was hospitalized with a blood clot in his leg, apparently due to chemotherapy, his spokesman said.

Landon, 54, alerted the news media in advance of his departure in an effort to allow a photo opportunity and avoid ambush by paparazzi. Tabloid photographers have been staking out the hospital for days.

About 70 people — fans, patients and a throng of cameramen — showed up to document the departure. Landon didn't speak to reporters but he told one fan, "Thanks for your support."

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Mickey Rourke earned $1,000 in his victorious professional boxing debut, or as much as he makes on a coffee break during filming of one of his movies.

The craggy-faced Rourke didn't fight Thursday night to earn extra money or make a mid-life career change.

"I don't got no future, really, as a boxer," the 34-year-old Rourke said. "But I do it because I have a good time."

Rourke claimed a unanimous decision over south Florida mechanic Steve Powell in a four-round, light-heavyweight bout before a crowd packed into War Memorial Auditorium.

Rourke, wearing gold shorts with green shamrocks, put on a show. He jabbed and uppercut, but also danced, clowned and taunted the crowd.

"I think he was being a little bit of a showboat and I don't think the crowd appreciated it," said Rourke's fight manager, Tommy Torino. "What I think is, Mickey is still rough and he displayed that."

Rourke said he may fight again.

"What have I learned tonight? To do a little more roadwork," he said.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — Neil Patrick Harris, who portrays kiddie doc Doogie Howser on television, joined fellow seniors at La Cueva High School for graduation.

Harris, 17, did his best to dodge a photographer after he picked up his diploma Thursday night. He was among 465 students in the Albuquerque school's graduating class.

Harris attended high school while not working on the ABC series "Doogie Howser, M.D." He plays a genius medical resident who graduated from Princeton at age 10 and from medical school at 14.

In real life, Harris avoids the limelight — refusing even to grant an interview to the high school's newspaper.

Harris told The Associated Press in 1989 that he hoped to go on to Yale, New York University or the University of Southern California, but not to study medicine, which he said is too hard and takes too many hours.

BOSTON — Strumming a ukulele and joking about the state's finances, former Gov. Michael Dukakis returned to Massachusetts on Friday after six months in Hawaii and Australia.

Dukakis

Dukakis and his tanned wife, Kitty, arrived at Logan International Airport after his stint as a college lecturer.

The Dukakises were met by relatives including Dukakis' mother, Euterpe, Mrs. Dukakis' father, Harry Ellis Dickson, an associate conductor of the Boston Pops.

"Is the Commonwealth still in one piece?" Dukakis asked photographers.

KEYSTONE, S.D. — Bob Hope, Jimmy Stewart, Mary Tyler Moore and Billy Dee Williams will help wake up the Black Hills on July Fourth and mark Mount Rushmore's 50th anniversary.

Hope

They will participate in a dedication to the national memorial beginning at 6 a.m. on Independence Day, said Radio City Music Hall Productions.

Two South Dakota natives, NBC News anchorman Tom Brokaw and "Entertainment Tonight" co-host Mary Hart, also have agreed to participate.

Kevin Brockman, a spokesman for the production company, said it wasn't certain what each of the stars will do because roles will change as more people sign on.

"It's all subject to change, but they have agreed to come here for the Fourth," Brockman said.

A concert July 3 by Huey Lewis and The News will precede the dedication, which will include songs and dramatic readings. The event may be televised.

Ricardo Montalban, Rosemary Clooney and opera singer Johanna Meier also will participate.

Bill would provide life sentence without parole

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate approved a bill Friday that would give juries a second choice besides death for capital murder convictions — life without parole.

"My position personally is that there are certain crimes in our society that the people that commit them ought to stay in prison forever," said Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall.

A House bill would have provided 30 years without parole, but that measure was amended by the Senate, which returned it to the House on voice vote.

Lyon said he anticipated that the House would seek a conference committee to adjust the differences in the two versions of the bill.

Asked why he did not want to accept 30 years, Lyon said, "Because I think there are some people in our society who don't ever deserve to get out — a man who takes a woman and murders her while raping her and slashes her with a knife. I think those people deserve to stay in prison until they die. I really believe that."

He said, however, if the House rejected the Senate version "then we may have to go with 30 years. I want something done."

The Senate also amended the bill to extend the death penalty to those who murder a child under the age of 6 and who knew that the child was younger than 6.

Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, was asked why not age 7 or 8.

"The reason we are using the age 6 is that our statistics support that age ... that a high percentage of children murdered in the state of Texas are under the age 6," Brown said.

The State

Another amendment would prohibit Texas from receiving from another state capital felons released on parole or probation for treatment or supervision in Texas.

The amendments by Brown and Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, were added because separate bills to accomplish the same things earlier passed the Senate but were held up in a House committee.

It took the Senate only two minutes to adopt a bill creating new House districts, an issue of such vital importance to the House that members debated the measure for 10 hours Tuesday night and early Wednesday.

The measure was sent to the governor on voice vote.

In other action Friday, the Senate:

■ Approved and returned to the House with an amendment a bill that would authorize a cost-of-living increase for retired teachers, if it was determined that the increase would not threaten the financial soundness of the state's teacher retirement fund.

■ Approved and sent to the governor a bill that would set up an interest-free loan program for people ages 18 to 40 to establish their first farming or ranching operation. A maximum loan would be $50,000.

■ Approved and returned to the House with an amendment a bill that would authorize suspending or denying a driver's license of a youth engaged in delinquent conduct.

■ Approved and returned to the House a resolution urging Congress to pass a bill creating the Center for the Study of Western Hemispheric Trade in Texas.

Dallas submits proposal for City Council's redistricting

DALLAS (AP) — City attorneys have submitted for Justice Department approval a controversial City Council redistricting plan that includes four black and two Hispanic seats.

The City Council on Monday narrowly approved the so-called 14-1 plan, which would have 14 members representing single districts and a mayor elected at large. The plan includes eight predominantly white districts.

More than 50 percent of the city's residents are minorities.

Marvin Crenshaw and Roy Williams, unsuccessful City Council candidates who are black, filed a lawsuit in 1988 against the city. They said they were not satisfied with the plan. The two favor a plan with five mostly black districts.

Crenshaw and Williams were expected to ask a federal appeals court to send the case back to U.S. District Judge Jerry Buchmeyer in Dallas.

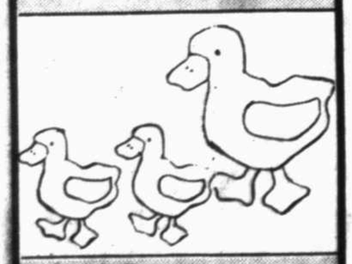

Buchmeyer early this year ordered a May 4 election under the 14-1 system, but the city appealed.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals delayed the election until Justice Department officials could evaluate a plan with 10 single-member districts, and with four members and the mayor elected at-large.

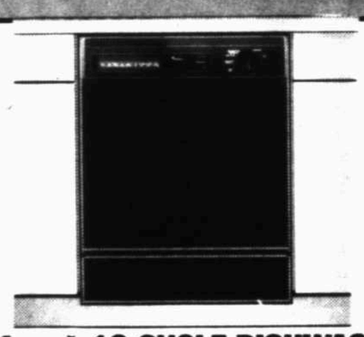

The Justice Department rejected that so-called 10-4-1 proposal earlier this month, leading to the agreement on the 14-1 plan.

PARTNERSHIP FOR A DRUG-FREE AMERICA

Disney turns grumpy over copyright infringements

By John Horn
AP Entertainment writer

BURBANK, Calif. — Officer, arrest that pinata!

Pirates are moving mountains of illegally produced movie merchandise, and Walt Disney Co. is tracking down scores of copyright infringers worldwide.

The bootleg merchandise includes the predictable assortment of Roger Rabbit T-shirts and Dick Tracy watches. More creative plagiarists sell Disney-themed sex posters, fugitive gummy candy and even outlaw Mickey Mouse pinatas. Two years ago, Disney sued the Academy Awards over a contraband Snow White.

The copyright violations have forced Disney, known as a friendly, whimsical outfit, to create its own network of tough-fisted trademark police. Disney says the take-no-prisoners posture might not please everyone, but smart business demands it.

Piracy investigators scour stores for illegal goods around the globe, and Disney employs several attorneys who do little else but file copyright infringement lawsuits.

Disney estimates that 25 percent of its 800 lawsuits and regulatory cases each year are copyright- and trademark-related.

"Most people think of pirating as a mom-and-pop operation," said Robert Ogden, vice president and counsel for Disney's consumer products division. "It is, in fact, organized crime, and its tactics are very sophisticated."

Ogden says illegal merchandise generates more than $1 billion in proceeds annually. For Disney, that's like strangling the Little Mermaid's golden voice — no other Hollywood company is as dependent on its copyrights and trademarks.

The entertainment giant's consumer products division claimed revenue of $573.8 million in 1990, up 40 percent from the previous year. Operating income surged 19 percent to $223.2 million last year from 1989. Most revenue is delivered by Mickey Mouse items.

For comparison, Disney's filmed entertainment unit, including movies and television shows, earned $313 million last year on revenue of $2.25 billion.

"We're not in the business of suing the world," said Peter Nolan, a Disney vice president and counsel. "People like our characters and we're very pleased with that. We don't sue everybody who infringes.

"But if you sit on your rights and don't enforce your rights, you can be considered to have abandoned your rights," Nolan said.

Disney sells licensing agreements to dozens of manufacturers, who in turn make such items as paper napkins, pencils and pajamas based on properties like "Chip 'n Dale Rescue Rangers," "101 Dalmatians" and the upcoming "The Rocketeer."

Copyright infringers don't pay these license fees, and tend to use poorer materials. Thus, their goods cost less than legitimate products.

In Disney's New York offices, samples of illegal merchandise tumble out of mail sacks daily. Consumers and Disney stock holders submit faked products, including one observant Staten Island, N.Y., woman who noticed her bag of Disney-themed gummy candy lacked a copyright notice. A lawsuit followed.

Legitimate manufacturers volunteer bogus goods, as do Disney's piracy inspectors. Occasional anonymous callers offer tips, too.

In one case several years ago, a poster series featuring Disney characters in sexual situations surfaced in Los Angeles. Unable to pinpoint the source, Disney decided to open an undercover poster shop in nearby Glendale, hoping the suspect posters would be offered to them wholesale.

The sham store wasn't popular with residents, and before Disney could open it, the store was torched by a firebomb.

The counterfeiters work might not always shine, but their timing can be brilliant.

"The pirates are very savvy as to what is going to be a hit," Ogden said. "Dick Tracy" merchandise, in particular, was plagiarized early and often.

Unauthorized manufacturers are notified, warned to cease and asked to pay damages. If they don't, Disney often launches legal action, suing more than 1,100 companies and individuals in the last four years. Most cases are settled before trial.

In February, Disney joined with other companies and New York City's consumer affairs commissioner in an action against 25 retail stores along Canal Street and lower Broadway selling counterfeit watches.

Lawsuits — or threats of lawsuits — don't always have the desired effect.

Critics said Disney couldn't take a joke when the company sued the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences over its unauthorized Snow White singer in the 1989 Oscar show.

A month later, onlookers blasted Disney's threats against three private children's centers in Hallandale, Fla., that decorated their walls with Minnie Mouse, Donald Duck and Goofy. In a public relations coup, MCA Inc. gave the schools permission to use its Jetsons and other characters, leaving Disney looking like a spoilsport.

In a twist, Henson Associates sued Disney in April, arguing Disney had infringed the trademark and copyrights that protect Henson's Muppet characters. The suit was settled, with Disney paying for limited Muppet rights.

Disney will take the bad press, though, because the financial benefits the Disney police guarantee outweigh any publicity embarrassments.

"In general, we find that the enforcement program does act as a very good deterrent," Nolan said. "We have some feedback that (infringers) stay away from us because we have the enforcement program that we do have, and they will go to (trademark and copyright holders) that don't have as good an enforcement program.

"The other alternative is not to do anything. And then the problem really gets bad."

Disney isn't the only one pursuing illegal merchandisers — just the most visible.

Attorney Bill Crutcher, who represents Surge Licensing, says Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles products have sparked $1 billion worth of merchandise, and an almost equally huge payoff for infringers.

One British importer sent 500,000 unauthorized Turtle action figures to the United States during the last six months, Crutcher said. "U.S. Customs has helped us a lot," said Crutcher, who said the agents have a list of authorized Turtle licensees and seize illicit goods.

Still, Crutcher concedes, progress is slow and costly. Many violators don't have enough money to pay damages, and new cheaters crop up all the time.

Counterfeiting "is as big as the legitimate industry," Crutcher said. "I don't think there is enough money in the world to go after every infringer. It's very pervasive and it's not lucrative litigation. But it's the cost of doing business."

History suggests Bush's popularity will ebb, study shows

By Michael R. Kagay
New York Times News Service

President Bush's high approval ratings, increased by the Persian Gulf war, are not likely to last for long, if the experiences of his nine immediate predecessors are a reliable guide, according to a new study by researchers at the Gallup Organization.

Bush's historic peak of 89 percent approval in a Gallup poll in early March, just after the fighting ended in the gulf region, has already begun to fade, standing at 77 percent in the latest Gallup poll.

Taken by telephone with 1,002 adults nationwide from May 16 to 19, the poll had a margin of sampling error of plus or minus four percentage points.

According to the new Gallup historical study, Bush's rating can be expected to continue to decline over the next several months until it reverts to the mid-60 percent range, his level before the gulf crisis began.

Still, Bush's surge in popularity in mid-January, when the air war began, was one of the largest rises in the 50-year history of polling and has already lasted longer than the average rise experienced by his nine predecessors, from Roosevelt to Reagan.

In the new study, "'Rally Events' and Presidential Approval," Larry Hugick, vice president of the Gallup Organization, and Alec M. Gallup, co-chairman, analyzed hundreds of Gallup polls from more than five decades — beginning in 1938 during Franklin D. Roosevelt's second term — to measure the impact of international crises, diplomatic events and military operations on presidential popularity.

'The key to the whole thing is what topics are salient in 1992. The gulf victory may be sustained by multiple homecomings, but...we can't have ticker tape parades forever.'

— George C. Edwards III, director, Center for Presidential Studies, Texas A&M University

Past studies, like the book "War, Presidents and Public Opinion" (John Wiley & Sons; 1973) by John Mueller of the University of Rochester, have identified the tendency of the public to rally round their flag, troops and president during many foreign crises.

Though the magnitude of such surges have been documented, the new study is the first to look closely at their duration, and it finds they do not last long.

The findings, reported earlier this week at the annual meeting of the American Association for Public Opinion Research in Phoenix, showed that each of the last 10 presidents experienced at least one such rally of opinion over a foreign event, and those rallies have occurred on average every 1.2 years.

Increases in support for previous presidents from these events averaged eight percentage points. The smallest examined by the researchers was three percentage points, while the largest was 19 percentage points.

Bush's 18-percentage-point surge, registered in mid-January as the air war on Iraq began, was one of the three largest rises in presidential popularity ever recorded by Gallup.

Jimmy Carter saw a 19-percentage-point increase when American hostages were seized in Iran in November 1979, and Richard M. Nixon saw a 16-percentage point lift at the time of the Vietnam peace agreements in January 1973.

The most long-lived increases in public favor were the 30 weeks for Franklin D. Roosevelt after Pearl Harbor in 1941, the 31 weeks for John F. Kennedy after the 1962 Cuban missile crisis and the 30 weeks for Jimmy Carter after the American hostages were seized in Iran in 1979.

Hugick and Gallup concluded: "Based on our analysis of rally events throughout polling history, the effects of the Persian Gulf war on George Bush's approval seem likely to be sustained for several more months. It is highly unlikely, however, that the approval boost resulting from the gulf war will carry over into election year 1992."

George C. Edwards III, director of the Center for Presidential Studies at Texas A&M University, said: "The key to the whole thing is what topics are salient in 1992. The gulf victory may be sustained by multiple homecomings, but won't remain salient throughout the Presidential campaign. We can't have ticker tape parades forever."

First, National Cars are backed by the industry's first "Buy Guarantee" If for any reason you are not completely satisfied with a car you buy from us, bring it back within 30 days or 1000 miles and we'll exchange it or buy it back,*

Second, we sell only late model cars. And because we display the price on the window of each car, there's none of the usual haggling over price.

Third, we have a wide variety of cars to choose from. National currently has cars available to sell that were manufactured by General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, Nissan, Honda and Toyota.

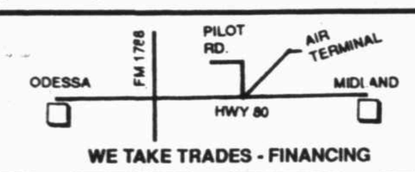

Additionally as an added convenience National accepts trade-ins and can arrange financing. *Some Restrictions Apply.

RIGID FRAME CABIN

If you own a small piece of property and would like to build an economical structure on it, here's a plan for a frame cabin that's relatively simple and affordable. The rigid frame provides a wide, clear span (up to 52 feet) with no interior posts. It's a dramatic design with a wide covered deck, and large expanses of glass on both end walls. It measures 20' x 24', but can be made larger by adding a few frames.

Send check to: KCS Pattern Dept. P. O. Box 2383 Van Nuys, CA 91409

PART-TIME INCOME AVAILABLE
The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which need to be filled with qualified, responsible individuals.
OFTEN ASKED QUESTIONS:
Is it worthwhile for adults also?
Yes! Our current carrier force is already 90% adult and 10% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
- ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
- MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a carrier, you do not need daycare!
- COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
- SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends.

How much money can I make as a carrier?
Depending on the size of the distributorship from $300 to $700 monthly! Some make even more!
How long does it take?
The actually delivery takes 1 - 2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2 - 3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many carrier's choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!
When do papers have to be delivered by?
6 a.m. Monday - Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.
Do I ever get a day off?
The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, carriers do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!
RESERVE YOUR DISTRIBUTORSHIP NOW!
