Bulldogs Close Season With Good Record

The Tahoka Bulldogs lost out in their first game by one point, 37 to 38, to Quanah in the Regional Class AA Tournament at Lubbock last week end, but their stellar play drew the plaudits of a large crowd of local fans, as well as fans and coaches from other schools.

Tahoka's "little boys," actually the smallest of any team in either the Class AA or Class A in the two tournaments held simultaneously, put up a game fight. The fact that the Levelland Lobos, eliminated Quanah by two points, then took the championship over Canyon by one point, a difference of only four points between Tahoka and Levelland, made the home boys look even better.

Levelland, Class AA regional champion, and Dimmitt, champion of the Class A bracket, are playing in the State Tournament in Austin this week end.

The Tahoka-Quanah game at 11:00 a. m. Friday was the first Class AA game of the tournament. The Bulldogs played good ball all the way, and there were no alibis. The Quanah Indians had a fine team, as shown by the fact that Levelland beat them only 33-31.

Tahoka took an early 6-2 lead, and had a 14-13 lead at the quarter and a 25-24 lead at the half. The Indians led 33-30 as the third period ended.

With a one point lead, Quanah went into a stall during the last five minutes, but with a minute and a half remaining, Don Brice stole the lead and drove down the court to sink a lay-up shot to give Tahoka a 37-36 lead. Regaining the ball, Morgan Howle drove in for another lay-up in an attempt to cinch the game but missed, and with 40 seconds remaining an Indian drove down court for a

Mrs. R. B. Floyd Died Saturday

Mrs. R. B. Floyd, 72, a resident of Lynn county for 35 years, died of a heart ailment in Bronnenberg Clinic at 2:50 a. m. Saturday. She had been stricken less than two days before.

Funeral services were held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the First Baptist Church, with Rev. Lee Ramour, the pastor, Elder V. J. Lowrance, Primitive Baptist Church minister, and Rev. Jim Sharp, Methodist pastor, officiating. Burial followed in Tahoka Cemetery under direction of Stanley-Jones Funeral Home.

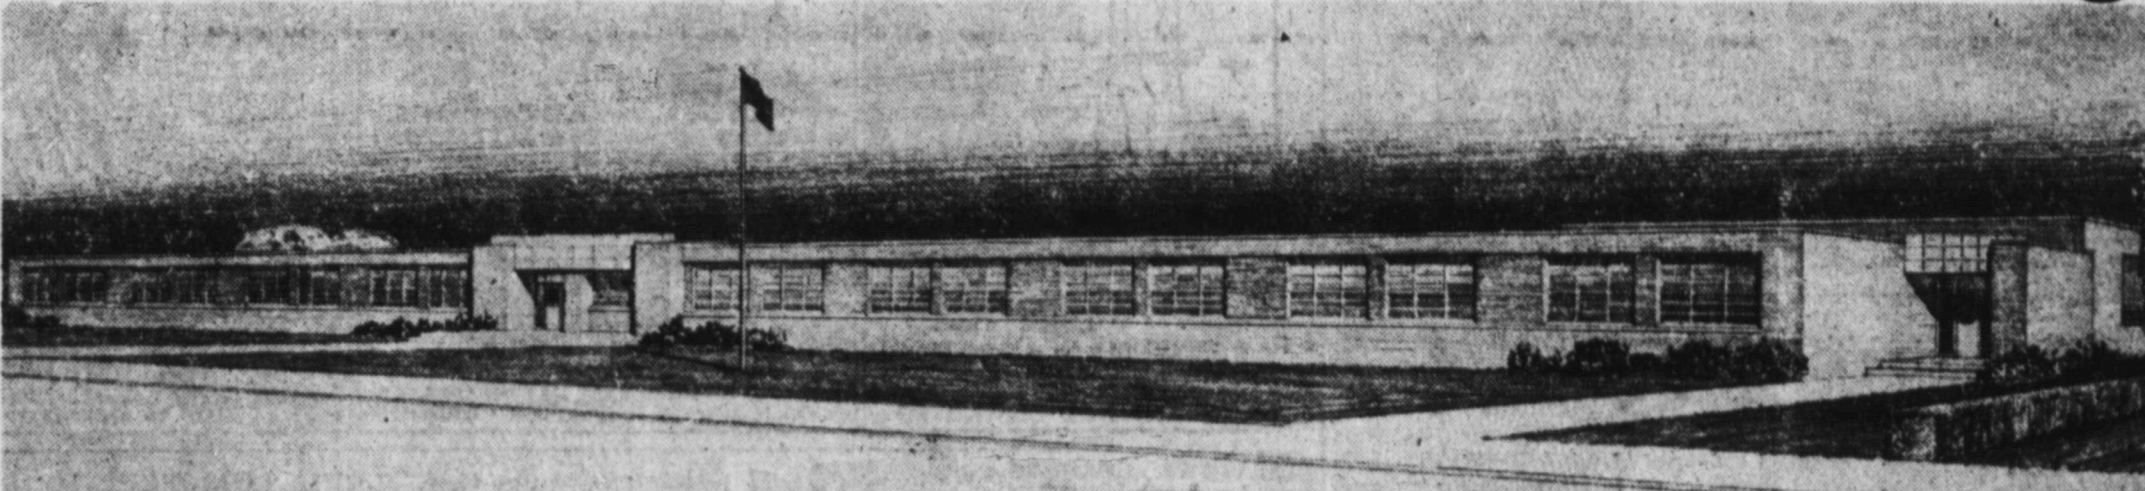

Mrs. Floyd had been bothered with the heart ailment for some time, but until her last illness she remained happy and cheerful and enjoyed living. Only a few days before, she had attended the funeral of a relative in Brown county and visited old friends there. She had long been a member of the Primitive Baptist Church, and was regarded as a mother, housewife, and citizen of the very highest type.

She was born Amanda Jane Windham on April 6, 1880, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Windham, in Brown county. Her parents and grand parents were real pioneers of Brown county, who fought the Indians to make a new home in the West. She married R. B. Floyd on February 5, 1899. The couple came to Lynn county, just being opened up to farming, in 1917, and settled with their little family southeast of Tahoka.

Mr. Floyd died September 3, 1933. Mrs. Floyd continued to live on the home place until moving to town a few years ago.

She is survived by three sons, Sam of Lamesa, Aubrey of Brownwood, and Ben of El Segundo, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Rufus (Ira) Slover and Mrs. Louis (Maxine) Bonham, both of Tahoka; two sisters and a brother, Mrs. Jim Phillips, Mrs. Homer Bowden, and T. M. Windom all of Byrd, Brown county; and ten grandchildren.

School Occupies New Primary Building

Tahoka's new $235,000 elementary school building has been completed, and primary grades completed the transfer from the grade school building and barracks buildings Monday, Supt. Otis Spears said.

Housed in the new building are the first three grades of the Tahoka schools. This includes four classes of first grade students, three of second, and three of third. One room is being used as a music room, and the twelfth classroom is not now in use but will probably be needed next year.

The new school cafeteria is also a part of this building, this portion having been in use for several weeks.

The new structure is completely fireproof and modern in every respect. It occupies the block south of the grade school building, and faces north. Tahoka schools now occupy four large city blocks, each block being 300 by 400 feet in size. The two occupied by the High School, Vocational Agriculture building, and football stadium cover two blocks and the closed street between.

Since moving from the old barracks-type cafeteria building, that structure has been converted into a band building. The other large barracks building in use here for several years, may be torn down and rebuilt into a home ec. cottage at some time in the future.

Butler & Brasher were architects of the new elementary building, and Swain Construction company had the general building contract. Cost of the building was $202,000, but furnishings and equipment ran the total cost to approximately $234,000.

The school board is considering use of the remaining $16,000 of the $250,000 bond issue in repairing the remaining buildings, and in helping possibly with the landscaping of the grounds.

The modern cafeteria seats 264 students comfortably at the present, and can be arranged to seat 350 to 400 at banquets. There were 1,660 people fed in the cafeteria the first three days of this week, or 553 a day.

The kitchen is fully equipped with nearly all new equipment, some of the equipment from the old kitchen being used in the new. Refrigeration and storage rooms are also provided.

There are 12 classrooms in the elementary building, rest rooms, heating plant, book room, and offices. There are four outside entrances. Class rooms are finished in pleasing pastel colors, scientific lighting is provided, and special furnishings are provided for the little tots. All rooms are connected with the office by a public address system.

Tahoka now has ample school building facilities for 1100 or 1200 students. The biggest need is for landscaping lawns, some concrete tennis courts and outdoor basketball courts, and repairs to the older buildings. Moves are underway to get some of this work done.

Don White, Wilson 4-H boy, who had the second place and reserve champion calf here, took twelfth place in the heavy milkfed division at Odessa.

Richard Carter, Tahoka FFA boy, entered two calves at Odessa, and took thirteenth place on each, one in the heavy milkfed class and one in the light milkfed class. These calves were third and second, respectively, in the Tahoka show in their classes.

Band Banquet Set March 14th

A Band Banquet will be held March 14, for the Tahoka Band, in the American Legion Hall, Director Glenn Burleson said this week.

All band members are urged to place their reservations with Paxton Hutchison or Sylvia Thompson soon. The banquet will be semi-formal. Guest speakers are being contacted, and an interesting program is being planned.

At the annual Lynn County Livestock Show the band's concession stand netted about $125.00. This will be used to buy a new marching bass drum.

Select Students For Annual Honor

PTA MEETING IS SET FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 13th

The main business of the evening is the election of officers for next year.

There will be a program for the children, and it is hoped that as many patrons as possible will be present at this meeting.

McCord Sponsors Courtesy Awards

Cash awards totaling $100.00 are being offered 34 "Courteous Drivers" here during the period March 10 to April 10 by Rollin McCord, local Chrysler-Plymouth and Massey Harris dealer.

There are no strings attached. Impartial judges will pick out the winners on the basis of safe driving practices, the giving of proper hand signals and observance of traffic rules, and courtesy to other motorists. If the judges do not recognize an individual car driver, they will take down the license number for identification.

Citizens of the county are asked to write in to The News their nominees of candidates for the "Most Courteous Driver" award. McCord is offering a $25.00 cash first prize, $15.00 second, $10.00 third, and $5.00 fourth, and 15 cash awards of $2.00 and 15 cash awards of $1.00 each—a total of 34 cash awards.

He says the contest is simply a movement to encourage safe, courteous driving on the part of our citizens, and he feels that it will be a success if just one accident is prevented. "It is better to be courteous than a casualty."

Nominations are not necessary, but the attention of the judges may be called to some individual if such are written in to The News. Such letters will be turned over to the judges, who will be watching drivers on the streets during this period. Any automobile driver in Lynn county—man, woman, or child—is eligible for a premium.

Rain Increasing Meeting Called For Saturday

Lynn county farmers interested in the proposed rain-increasing experiment for the lower South Plains are called on to meet in the District Court room here Saturday at 3:00 p. m., Winston Prichard announces.

Committees seeking to raise the $7,000.00 necessary for Lynn county to participate in the project are not meeting with too much success, Prichard said.

The time is growing short, and those wishing to cooperate are asked to bring their checks to this meeting. If the project does not go over, the money will be returned. Saturday is the deadline, since local officers meet Monday night with representatives from other counties at Lamesa to negotiate a contract with the Krick Weather Service of Denver, who proposes to increase the rainfall by "seeding" favorable clouds with silver iodide.

Also, officers for a local organization will be elected at the meeting here Saturday.

Farmers are asked to contribute three cents per acre for farm land and one cent per acre for ranch land.

Funds for the project must be in sight if a contract is to be made at Lamesa Monday night.

Floyd Brasher, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Brasher, route 4, underwent an appendectomy at Tahoka Hospital Tuesday.

F. M. Sherrod, 95, Buried Saturday

Frank M. Sherrod, 95, one of the real pioneers of Lynn county, died at 10:22 p. m. Thursday of last week in Tahoka Hospital, where he had been a patient for a week suffering from the infirmities of old age and a kidney infection.

Funeral services were held Saturday at 3:00 p. m. at the First Baptist Church, Rev. Lee Ramour, pastor, Elder V. J. Lowrance of the Primitive Baptist Church and Ernest West, minister of the Church of Christ, officiating. Burial followed in Tahoka Cemetery under direction of Stanley-Jones Funeral Home.

Born in Meridian, Mississippi, on September 4, 1856, he was 95 years, 5 months and 24 days of age, and remembered the Civil War. As a child he came to Texas with his parents, who settled in Brown county, then the frontier. He remembered clearly events of the Indian raids, and the wire-cutters war.

As a young man, he came to the Plains in the 1870's with his brothers to hunt buffalo. Their camp was at Tahoka Lake, and a band of Indians hovered around their camp but did not attack them. He was highly impressed at that time with this country, and came here 25 years later to make his permanent home.

He and his late wife, who died here Sept. 14, 1945, shortly after the couple had celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary, were married in Brown county August 29, 1882. He moved out to San Angelo in about 1894, and came from there to the newly organized county of Lynn in June, 1903. Tahoka had just been started that year. He farmed in the Edith community for a time, and then moved into town.

Mr. Sherrod was a highly respected citizen, and he and his family have been closely identified with the town and county all these fifty years. A host of relatives and friends mourn his death.

One of his sons, Joy, was killed in action in World War I, and a daughter, Mrs. Fisher (Mae) Patterson, died in 1927.

Survivors include four sons, Carl of Pamona, Calif., Guy, G. B., and Beecher, all of Tahoka; four daughters, Mrs. Pearl Brown, Mrs. G. C. Shaffer, Mrs. Jewell Connolly, and Miss Floyce Sherrod, all of Tahoka; 19 grandchildren, and 16 great grandchildren.

Simplify House Cleaning Chores

COLLEGE STATION. — Simplifying the cleaning task should appeal to all housewives. Florence Low, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says the best way to do any job is to use simple, easy, quick and safe methods. Take any one room in the house to start with, and do a little planning.

Make a list of all the jobs that need to be done in keeping this room clean. Decide which should be done daily, weekly, monthly, or seasonally.

Mrs. Low suggests making a plan for one week. After it has been followed carefully, changes may be made if needed.

It has been found that every task has three parts. First comes planning the order of work and collecting tools and supplies. Next is doing the task. Here make every motion count by working from right to left, or from left to right if left handed. Use circular motions and make both hands work. When through cleaning, put the tools, supplies and equipment back in the proper storage places.

For cleaning a room, Mrs. Low gives the following order of procedure. First brush the dust off the walls with a broom covered with a cloth bag. Next dust the shades and curtains; wash if needed.

After the dusting has been done, sweep the floor evenly in one direction. Keep the broom on the floor to prevent raising too much dust. A dust pan, like a broom, needs a long handle to prevent stooping.

Dust woodwork and furniture with a dustless dust cloth. Make one this way: mix 1 tablespoon kerosene with 1 quart of hot water. Dip squares of clean soft cloth into this solution. Wring out, dry and store in a covered container. It is best to prepare several cloths at a time and remember they must be treated after each washing.

The last step is to mop the floor with a dust or wet mop. Complete the cleaning of one room before starting another.

For more information on work simplification, Mrs. Low suggests you contact the local county home demonstration agent and ask for C-252, "House Cleaning Made Easier."

Fertilizer Trouble Forseen Soon

COLLEGE STATION. — The slow movement of fertilizers from manufacturing, mixing and storage plants to farms is developing into a serious situation. Word has been received from the National Fertilizer Association calling farmers' attention to this situation that threatens to curtail the industry's ability to deliver the tonnage of fertilizers that will be needed to produce the 1952 crops.

Right now fertilizer factory storage space is being taxed and is resulting in a curtailment of maximum production. Transportation problems may further complicate the situation when the heavy buying season hits. Even though no actual shortage of fertilizers may exist, farmers may not be able to get the kinds nor amounts they will need.

Fertilizers can be successfully stored on the farm, says M. K. Thornton, agricultural chemist for Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Most any shed on the farm

ANNOUNCING-----

Courteous Driving Contest

To encourage and stimulate more careful, courteous driving practices among our home people, we are offering FREE—

$100.00 in Cash Awards

To the people of Lynn County — $25.00 first prize, $15.00 second, $10.00 third, $5.00 fourth, and 15 cash awards of $2.00 each and 15 cash awards of $1.00 each.

All you have to do is—

Drive Safely and Courteously

On the streets of Tahoka the next month, March 10th through April 10th.

A committee of impartial judges will be watching your driving during this period. Also, citizens of the county are asked to write to The Lynn County News their nomination of a candidate for the "Most Courteous Driver" award. There are no strings of any kind attached.

The contest is based on:

- (1) Safe driving practices.
- (2) Giving of proper hand signals, observing all "stop" signs, and otherwise obeying the traffic rules.
- (3) Courtesy to other motorists.

This is simply a community service project, but all of us need to be more safety conscious and if this contest will make a few of us more careful and courteous in our driving habits, it may save an accident or even a life.

The 34 "Courteous Drivers" will be announced on April 11, and will be presented the cash awards by—

Dove Banding Aids Restoration

AUSTIN. —The Director of Wildlife Restoration for the Texas Game and Fish Commission reported plans for an earlier distribution of dove bands this year.

The intention, he said, is to take advantage of what may be an early nesting period by mourning doves.

The Director said field reports indicate and extraordinary condition this year in that doves were observed mating on a large scale in early January, probably because of the mild winter.

The Director explained that Commission records show that, in rare instances, doves have nested in every month of the year in Texas.

He said the first consignments of bands probably will be sent game Wardens early in March.

Individuals or groups desiring to help with the banding routine this year were requested to write the Game and Fish Commission, Walton Building, Austin, Texas.

The Director said hopes are for a better banding season this year. Incomplete reports indicate that 3730 doves were banded last year which was a poor dove season.

Completion of the banding cycle when hunters report where and when birds bearing bands are harvested provides vital data as to the feeding, nesting and migration habits of the doves.

Dress Patterns To Fit Girls

COLLEGE STATION. —Do you have trouble constructing clothing to fit your growing daughters? If so, here are suggestions from Nena Roberson, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, which should help you.

The first step is the selection of the correct pattern. All patterns says Miss Roberson are made to standard measurements and are not sized by age. It is not advisable to buy them by age because girls of the same age may be of different sizes.

Before patterns are bought, measurements should be taken of the girl's bust, waist, hip, and length, from back of the neck to the lower edge of the dress hem. These measurements should be checked with those marked on the pattern envelope to see how they compare to standard sizes.

Patterns are listed in pattern books as girls, teen agers, junior misses and misses. Pattern companies have recognized the need for making patterns for growing girls to fit the changing body proportions.

Girls' patterns come in sizes 6 to 14. They are designed for the girls whose figures are not developed. The waist and hip measurements are practically the same. The bodice front is longer than the back and there are no bust darts in the patterns.

Teen age patterns come in sizes from 10 to 16. They are designed for the girl whose figure is beginning to develop. There is a dart at the bust line and darts taper the fabric to the slimming waist.

Junior miss patterns come in sizes 9 to 17. They are designed for the girl who is fully developed and approximately 5 feet 5 inches in height. This pattern is wider across the bodice than either the teen age or misses patterns.

Misses patterns come in sizes 12 to 20. They are designed for the figure that is fully developed in the bust, waist line and hips. Generally this figure is about 5 feet 7 inches in height.

Miss Roberson suggests further information may be obtained on the subject from local county home demonstration agents.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS
TO: CLYDE FULCE, Defendant.

Greeting:
You are hereby commanded to appear before the Honorable District Court of Lynn County at the Court House thereof, in Tahoka, Texas, at or before 10 o'clock A. M. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 21st day of April A. D. 1952, then and there to answer Plaintiff's Petition filed in said Court, on the 4th day of March A. D. 1952, in this cause, numbered 1999 on the docket of said Court and styled Edith Fulce, Plaintiff, vs. Clyde Fulce, Defendant.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to wit:

Said suit being a petition filed on behalf of the plaintiff for divorce, alleging that plaintiff and defendant were married on January 7, 1923, and continued to live together as husband and wife thereafter, until on or about November 26, 1951; said petition alleging that on different occasions while plaintiff lived with defendant as aforesaid, defendant was guilty of excess, cruel treatment and outrages toward plaintiff, of such a nature as to render their living together insupportable; said petition further praying for a division of the community property of plaintiff and defendant and for such other and further relief, either in law or in equity to which she may show herself justly entitled to receive, as is more fully shown by Plaintiff's Petition on file in this suit.

The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs.

Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Tahoka, Texas, this 4th day of March A. D. 1952.

Tahoka Pioneer Dies At Waco

Thomas M. Bartley, 83, a prominent early day citizen of Tahoka and for many years a prominent figure in Texas Masonic Lodge circles, died at Waco Tuesday. Funeral services were held there Thursday at 10:30 a. m.

Judge Bartley began his career as a teacher, studying law in the meantime. He was admitted to the bar, and came to Tahoka in 1904 to practice his profession.

Lynn county had just been organized the year before, with Judge Matt Elliott as county judge. Bartley succeeded Elliott in this office. Later he served as county attorney of Lynn county. He also served as a member of the 33rd Legislature. For a time he was Worshipful Master of the Tahoka Masonic Lodge.

Mr. Bartley, while living here, started the development of the North Tahoka addition, now the principal residence section of the town.

From 1913 until his retirement in 1945 Bartley was grand secretary of the Grand Royal Arch chapter of Texas Masons.

He held numerous Masonic offices. From 1947 until 1949 he was grand recorder of the Grand Encampment, Knights Templar of the United States. He was both past grand commander and past grand recorder of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar of Texas.

He retained membership in Lubbock Commandery No. 60, Knights Templar, until his death.

25 Make Honor Roll At School

Twenty-five students of Tahoka High School were named to the fourth six weeks honor roll.

Those making all A's were: Bessie Galloway, Doris Gage, Ted Pridmore, Loretta Henry, Jerry Aldridge, Patricia Inman, Willa Phillips, Margie Curry, Gordon Smith, Mary Fenton Edith Aldridge, Marjorie Clinton, Dolores Gage, Dot Durham, and Jo Ann Fenton.

Students with only one B and the rest A's were: Deanie Edwards, Imogene Carper, Wanda Norman, Betty Huddleston, Frances Martin, Charles Ware, N. E. Woods, Marianna McGinty, Pauline Riley, Otheida Freeman, and Eunice Shepperd.

Parents Visit School Classes

In observance of National High School Education Week, Tahoka High School was open from 7:00 o'clock to 9:00 o'clock last night for the purpose of allowing parents to get acquainted with the teachers and the school set-up.

There was also a program in the auditorium, at which Ernest West, local Church of Christ minister, gave an address. A solo was presented by Mrs. Betty Green, a faculty member, and Mrs. Melvin Brookshire's Chorus rendered special numbers.

Refreshments were served to the visiting parents in the Home Economics Department.

Finals:

Named to the Class AA all-tournament team were Langford Sneed and Harold Phelan of Levelland, Ray Burrus and Bob Ratliff of Canyon, and John Gray of Snyder.

On the Class A all-tournament team were Bill Gregory and Wesley Smith of Dimmitt, Jim Taylor of Clyde, Dick Souter of Denver City, and Bill Cutbirth of Big Lake (Reagan county High School).

Gregory's 76 points made him top scorer of the entire meet. Burrus was Class AA high scorer with 58.

Clyde's unsung Bulldogs nearly uncorked the year's prize upset in the Class A semi-finals. They made Dimmitt, touted as state championship material, come from behind in the final minute, 49-48.

Levelland got to the finals by barely squeezing by Quanaah 33-31 in the last five seconds. Phelan tied the score with a free throw with 15 seconds remaining and won the game with a basket just before the gun.

Both AA and A tournaments were among the best ever seen in this section.

Coach Polk Robison of Texas Tech told The News writer they were among the best high school tournaments he ever saw. He also praised Tahoka's game team for its fine play. He said basketball has played in this immediate section this year is among the best he ever saw. Practically every school that comes up to the regional tournament has good coaching and plays a scientific game, he said. Basketball has come a long way in this area in the last two to four years.

Tahoka won the right to enter the regional tournament, along with seven other district champs, by taking the championship of District 6-AAA with seven games won and only one game lost.

The Bulldogs have had their best year in history, taking the championship of the district in both football and basketball.

Playing their last year for Tahoka High School in this game were five boys, Wayne Tekell, Lynn Halameick, Don Brice, James Foster, and Earl Bartley.

Early this week boys on Coach Jake Jacobs' squad elected Tekell and Halameick co-captains for the year.

Tahoka should have a fair team

National 4-H Club Week, March 1-9

Serving as Loyal Citizens through 4-H

A Youth Program of Activity
Adventure and Achievement

Observe National 4-H Club Week

COLLEGE STATION. —Two million 4-H club members across the nation this week, March 1-9, are observing National 4-H Club Week. Governor Allan Shivers put the spotlight on Texas' 116,976 4-H members on February 6 when he issued a proclamation designating this same period as 4-H Week in Texas.

The state 4-H leaders of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service say the objectives of the week are to provide 4-H members a special occasion for checking their efforts in relation to the needs of the community and country; to acquaint the public with the 1952 4-H theme—"Serving as Loyal Citizens Through 4-H"; to inform all parents of the objectives of the 4-H clubs; to encourage members to interest other young people in enrolling and assisting new members to get started in their 4-H work; and to enlist more public-spirited citizens to serve as voluntary leaders or sponsor of 4-H clubs.

4-H members learn to do by doing and as they gain experience, each becomes better equipped to serve as a loyal citizen. Present day 4-H programs are not limited to the production of better crops and livestock nor to better ways of doing the jobs in the home but includes actual participation in studies and programs with international significance. Their International Farm Youth program is an example.

In addition to their regular demonstrations, Texas 4-H members last year received training in fire and accident prevention, health, recreation, leadership, conservation and various judging contests. They believe in hard work. They attend county and district camps, state and national meetings and are usually well represented at the major livestock shows of the nation. Their income from demonstrations and the value of the things they own amounts to several million dollars annually, say the state leaders.

The members get assistance from their local leaders, parents, businessmen, county extension agents and others. Together this group makes up the 4-H team. The combined efforts of this team are being displayed during the week in the form of exhibits, stock shows, public meetings, special radio programs and with 4-H members appearing as guest speakers before civic clubs, farm organizations and other groups.

President Truman in his letter to the 4-H Clubs of the nation said, "You are doing things that make our country strong in the struggle for peace and understanding. There is strength in our youth, in our soil and in our working together. Our country and the world need now, more than ever before, the kind of work you are doing to unite those pillars of strength in the interest of world peace."

4-H club members invite every citizen to join with them in their observance of National 4-H Week

Ban On Cotton Burrs Is Lifted

AUSTIN. —The State Department of Agriculture has lifted the ban on returning cotton burrs to the lands in 42 counties of West Texas.

In revoking the regulation under which burrs have been burned as "gin trash," Agricultural Commissioner John C. White stated: "These counties in West Texas are only lightly infested with the cotton pink bollworm, and we feel that the cotton burr can be returned to the land without danger of spreading pink bollworm infestation."

"Pink bollworm is one of the most serious threats the cotton farmer of Texas has ever faced. We have to maintain rigid controls wherever there is evidence that infestation is spreading to the point where there is a chance of damage to the grower. There are now 193 counties of Texas under pink bollworm quarantine measures, and this year planting and plow-up deadlines, with penalties under the law for non-compliance, have been extended to include 59 counties."

"Lifting the ban on return of cotton burrs to the land in West Texas does not mean, of course, that the quarantine itself is lifted. Other quarantine regulations will remain in effect. It does mean, however, that since there is little likelihood that it will cause pink bollworm infestation to spread at this time, the grower can put the burr to profitable use on his land."

"The growers of West Texas have been anxious to return the burr to the soil for its important organic and fertilizing effect. During the drought the burrs also will help prevent soil erosion from blowing."

"The cotton yields of this area were annually getting lower. At the same time, the area occupies a high place in the nation's cotton production, and the Department felt that measures should be taken to balance insect control regulations with the economic situation of the area."

The burrs are released from ginning time in 1952 until March 31, 1953.

Commissioner White made his announcement after conferring in Lubbock for two days with cotton growers, ginners and oil millers of West Texas.

Counties released include: Gray, Hall, Childress, Hardeman, Wilbarger, Wichita, Motley, Cottle, Floyd, Hale, Lamb, Bailey, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby.

THE 1953 FEDERAL BUDGET OF $85.4 BILLION IS GREATER THAN ALL THE INCOMES OF ALL THE PEOPLE WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI

THIS STARTLING PICTURE is the result of study by the National Chamber's Government Economy Program, based on figures from the U.S. Department of Commerce. Incomes of all people include all money that goes to individuals as wages, salaries, interest, rent, and dividends. Since latest Commerce Department figures available for the map were for 1950, the Chamber estimated total 1953 incomes at 15 per cent higher than those for 1950. Total 1953 spending under the President's budget would equal the incomes of all persons west of the Mississippi plus 96 per cent of the incomes in Wisconsin and all the incomes in Mississippi.

Bill Strange Jr. Is Rotary Speaker

Bill Strange, Jr., was the guest speaker on the Rotary Club program Thursday noon of last week.

Dickens, Kent, King, Knox; Baylor, Archer, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Stonewall, Haskell, Young, Throckmorton, Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Scurry, Fisher, Jones, Shackelford, Stephens, Donley, Collingsworth and Wheeler.

Using the subject, "Oddities of the United States Government," he presented many facts about our complicated governmental machinery little known or noted by the public generally.

He also pointed out the enormous number of bureaus, conflicting agencies, their growing power over the people and the rapidly increasing expense. Among other things, he stated there are now 7,000,000 people working for the government in one way or another, and the President has presented a budget of $85 billion dollars.

H. W. "Cotton" Carter was in charge of the program for the day.

Shirley Johnson, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Johnson underwent an appendectomy at Tahoka Hospital early this week.

The opportunities afforded our children for a sound, basic education in Texas public schools are unexcelled. Take a look for yourself and see Democracy in Action the week of March 2 to 8.

TELEPHONE COMPANY SECURITIES ATTRACT CONSIDERABLE INTEREST

Southwestern Associated Telephone company's offering of 75,000 shares of 5% Cumulative Preferred at its par value of $20 per share has created considerable interest in financial circles.

Unlike most offerings, the stock is being offered by the company, instead of by underwriters, through a selected group of investment dealers who are acting as its agents. The company is assisting dealers by mailing to its users, as well as residents in adjacent territory, cards informing them of the issue. The recipients may secure a prospectus and supplementary information by signing and returning the cards to the company. Such inquiries are then turned over to dealers who, in turn, contact the prospect with the view of consummating a sale.

A plan similar to this was originated by Associated Telephone company, Ltd., which serves in Southern California and which is controlled, as is Southwestern Associated, by General Telephone Corporation. During the past five years, Associated Telephone company has had phenomenal success using this method, having disposed of $17,000,000 of its 5% Preferred to approximately 10,000 stockholders, a large percentage of whom are its subscribers or residents of adjacent territory. "BEND OF THE RIVER" (2-8)

"BEND OF THE RIVER," NOTED MOVING PICTURE TO SHOW HERE SOON

A powerful action story backgrounded against some of the most spectacular scenery ever captured in Technicolor and backed by one of the most capable casts ever assembled stamps Universal-International's super-production, "Bend of the River," which opens at the Rose Theatre here, March 16, as one of the most exciting adventure dramas to ever roar out of filmdom.

First of all, "Bend of the River" is a personal triumph for both of its male stars, James Stewart and Arthur Kennedy, each scoring time and again with their portrayals in the rugged action plot. Stewart, as a wagon train guide in 1847, Oregon, adds even greater power to a role that fairly bristles with manliness. Kennedy, seen as a villain who becomes a pal of Stewart's, then turns on him viciously, once again proves why Hollywood and movie-goers consider him the screen's most accomplished dramatic discovery. Matching these superior performances with outstanding work, too, are Julia Adams, who carries the feminine role; and Rock Hudson, the handsome young actor who booms to greater prominence with each succeeding film assignment.

Backing this all-star quartet in "Bend of the River" are stalwart portrayals by blonde Lori

New Home Civic Club Has Project

New Home Civic Club had a lively session at its monthly meeting Monday night, according to Joe Unfred, with 40 members present.

In a business session, the club voted to give financial aid to the FFA stock show being held there today, Friday.

J. W. Edwards was named to head a traffic committee, and the State Highway Department is being petitioned to put up a blinker light at the intersection of Farm to Market roads 211 and 1317 in New Home.

Plans for a clean-up campaign as insurance against polio and to better the town's appearance were discussed, and President B. A. Morrow appointed the following committee to direct the same: Bill Balch, Barney Mayfield, Mo-man Johnson, and Dick Turner.

The proposed rain-increasing program was also discussed.

Jack Creel, farm editor of Radio Station KFYD, was the principal speaker. He declared "the door to modern agriculture has been partly opened only." He cited the opportunities in agri-

Grace Marie Sharp Writes For Booklet

Marie Sharp, McMurry College junior from Tahoka, is one of the 47 students who contributed an original composition to a Devotional Booklet for Lent, published by the McMurry College Christian Foundation.

It has become an annual project of the Christian Foundation to publish the booklet for Lent. Explained the Rev. H. Doyle Ragle, director of religious activities. He said, "These short devotional readings were prepared in the hope that they will serve as a source of personal enrichment and inspiration during the days of this Lenten season."

Doris E. Johnson of Stamford served as editor of the booklet, and Hal Mohler of LaMarque was art editor. Jo Johnson, Las Cruces, N. M. was draftsman, while Bobby Boyd, Sweetwater, and Jimmie Hodges, Ft. Stockton, were in charge of production.

Local Club Ladies Attend Workshop

Five members of the Phebe K. Warner Club of Tahoka attended the Workshop for Federated Clubs held all day Tuesday in the Hilton Hotel, Lubbock.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Oscar McGinty of Spur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Draper of this city and District 7 Federated Clubs chairman. A luncheon meeting was held at noon.

Those attending from Tahoka were: Mesdames H. W. Carter, G. M. Stewart, Skiles Thomas, Truett Smith, and Charles Stewart.

culture on the South Plains, and stated the eyes of the agriculture world are focused on the modern methods being instituted here.

Peggy Hemmeline and Sue Cowan, accompanied at the piano by Miss Nowlin, presented vocal duets. Spice was injected in the program when they sang "Too Old to Cut the Mustard," dedicated to Donald Caudle.

Unfred said the club members missed the presence of C. A. Gould, tailtwister, who has been a big factor in "livening up" the meetings.

Spring Training Underway Here

Coach Bill Haralson announces that a full program of Spring sports and physical training is already underway for boys at Tahoka High School.

About twenty-five boys are working out for track, and will continue the work-out through the district meet on March 29. He has several boys who are looking pretty good, he says.

Spring football will be started the first week in April, and will continue for one calendar month. During football workouts, many of this year's Senior boys expect to be out for baseball. There are at least 12 or 15 boys in this category, and from their number it may be possible to field a fair team.

Also, at some time during the Spring, Coach Jake Jacobs hopes to sandwich-in about two weeks of basketball workouts with next year's potential team members.

Baseball bats, frequently exposed to all kinds of weather, will last much longer if occasionally wiped with boiled linseed oil.

Texas Challenged By New Mexico Hen

Texas tops most other states in nearly every undertaking.

But, right now, as far as The News knows, New Mexico is pushing Texas for some kind of a record on egg size.

M. E. Sales, who moved over to Dora, New Mexico, from Lynn county, recently brought J. D. Carter of New Lynn a sample egg laid by one of his New Mexico White Leghorn hens.

The egg, on display at The News, is 9 1/4 inches in circumference the long way and 8 1/2 inches the short. We have seen larger eggs, possibly, but none heavier. This egg weighs 7 ounces, or nearly a half pound, whereas the average egg weighs about 3 ounces.

Texas hens had better get busy. We can't afford to let New Mexico get this close.

Diamonds have been found in the glacial drift of the Great Lakes region, particularly in Wisconsin. They apparently were brought south by glaciers.

Quality Chicks Are The Best

COLLEGE STATION, —The first cost may be higher for top quality chicks, but the profits usually will be greater. Chick quality, says W. J. Moore, poultry husbandman for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, is measured in terms of low mortality efficient use of feed, rapid growth, fast and complete feathering and uniform size. Then adds Moore, buy chicks that are bred to do the job that you want done—either to make meat or to produce eggs.

High death losses among baby chicks can quickly wipe out any chance for profits. Buying from hatcheries that participate in the National Poultry Improvement Plan, points out the specialist, is good insurance. Cooperating hatcherymen and poultry breeders under the plan must meet prescribed standards in their operations that include testing for pullorum and good flock sanitation. Thus, buyers are assured of getting quality chicks.

Losses among the older birds are even more expensive than chick losses. The death of a two pound bird means the loss of time and labor as well as about six pounds of feed and the original cost of the chick. The use of strict sanitation practices and vaccination against diseases that are known to exist in the area will help prevent these latter losses, says Moore.

Producers should keep in mind these points, emphasizes the specialist, when buying chicks. Buy for quality and from hatcheries that carry on a good pullorum eradication and sanitation program and buy chicks specifically for either meat or egg production whichever fits your needs. Chicks with this kind of a background when given proper care will usually return a nice profit to the producer, says Moore.

CARD OF THANKS

I sincerely thank each and everyone for what they did for me while I was in the hospital, and for the nice cards and flowers that were sent to me. May God bless each and everyone of you. —Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Williams and family.

Ayer Entertains Basketball Squad

Granvel Ayer on Thursday of last week entertained the Tahoka High School boys' basketball squad and their coach, Jake Jacobs, with a steak dinner at Carter's Cafe.

Following the dinner, he also took them to a show at the Rose Theatre.

The Bulldogs, District 6-AA champions, on the next day, Friday, entered the regional tournament at Lubbock in competition with seven other AA district champions representing all North west Texas.

The basketball boys and their coach asked The News to express their appreciation to Mr. Ayer for his interest. They declare it was one of the nicest treats coming from an individual, and they are grateful for his interest.

The use of simple, easy, quick and safe methods will help take the drudgery out of the home cleaning chores.

Wilson Youth Receives Treatment At Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation

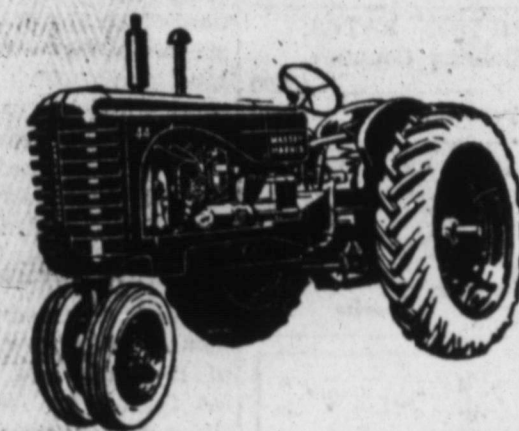

GONZALES, March 6. — Eleven year old Jerry Swope, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Swope of Route 2, Wilson, and formerly a patient at the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation for Crippled Children, has been discharged from the Gonzales treatment center and returned home.

Young Jerry was stricken with polio in 1947. Admitted to the Gonzales Warm Springs hospital last January, he received treatment there for one month.

Although Jerry has been discharged from the hospital, his treatment program will not end there. A series of periodic check-backs at the Gonzales Foundation has been scheduled in order that the hospital may record his progress and check the fit of appliances. A course of home treatments has also been prescribed to stimulate continued advancement.

(BY E. I. THE ELDER)

Dear Folks: I am now prepared to say that this is at the same time the most charming and the most outlandish country I ever saw. When you eat a meal down here you never know whether it is going to sustain life or kill you.

Before I left home I had ample warning not to drink any water down here in Mexico. I took the advice and adhered to it strictly. The only water I have drunk since crossing the Rio Grande at Laredo, has been water that was represented to have been chemically treated or distilled. With my meals I have drunk coffee, coco cola, and orange juice. I do not think that any of it has hurt me. But about the second or third morning after we arrived, I decided that I would take hot cakes and syrup for breakfast. I did. Before night I had about the hottest fever I ever had in my life and could hardly tell straight up from straight down. O, I was sick; and I attributed my sickness to that so-called syrup. It was almost smut-black druggy-looking old usgar-cane syrup which I suppose the filthy Aztecs crushed out of the sugar-cane plants. And the hot cakes were baked so hard that nothing but a goat could have chewed one of them up.

I had taken the forethought to bring along with me a preparation which Dr. Skiles Thomas had prepared for me some months ago, and which knocked my trouble quickly at that time. So, I dug it out and began pouring it down my throat with the hope that it would soon put to rout this Mexico malady. But it hardly made a dent. Then somebody told me that the drug stores here handled a remedy for my ailment. I got me a long keen box of it—they were put up in tablet form—and within two or three days, I was able to walk the streets again. Soon got to feeling fine in fact. Then my roommate and I decided that we strike out Monday morning for Acapulco—Monday morning February 18—spend the night at Chilpancingo about 90 miles this side of Acapulco, run down to Acapulco on Tuesday, spend a few hours there, and then double back to Chilpancingo that afternoon and spend Tuesday night there also. This we did, but in coming through a little Aztec village away down there somewhere, we saw some nice-looking little bananas on display in front of the miserable-looking little old store and decided we would invest in a bunch. Neither of us suspected that there could be any harm in a banana whose meat was completely covered and protected by a thick skin. Both of us ate some of them along the road, and they didn't hurt my partner one whit, but by the time we got up to Chilpancingo I was so sick and had such a hot fever that I hardly knew who I was or why. I remained sick all day Wednesday and Thursday and am just now beginning to feel like a human being again—and this is Friday.

That's a lot of space to spend on my own ailments but I wouldn't advise any of my friends to come down here to stay any considerable length of time without bringing a doctor along. I do hope and believe that the worst is over with me, however. My friend came down here nearly sick and he had been getting better ever since he came until today. He has been complaining a bit today.

I guess we shouldn't have made that Acapulco trip but he wanted to see the beach and the pretty girls and I wanted to see the ocean.

And say, that ocean was a sight, folks. I have seen the Gulf of Mexico several times, with the breakers coming in and the white caps gleaming in the sunlight for miles along the shore, but never before have I seen a body of water quite as beautiful as the waters of the deep blue Pacific and the little bay that reaches right out to the foot of mountains at Acapulco. For the benefit of my English-speaking friends who may read this, let me say that that name is pronounced as it is spelled "Ah-ca-pool-co," with the accent on the pool.

It was a wonderful trip down to Acapulco, which lies about 270 miles south of Mexico City, wonderful for me, in spite of the fact that I got sick on the return trip. I do not believe that the mountain scenery is quite as beautiful as that north of Mexico City but there are places where it is fully as magnificent. As a rule there is less greenery on the mountains south than on those north, but there are places where the solid rock reaches straight upward for many hundreds of feet. The most striking plant feature of these nearly barren mountains is the forest of cactus plants that shoot upward like tall telephone poles from almost every crevice and crack of the nearly perpendicular mountain walls. I never saw the like. For miles and miles they may be seen. It is hard to understand how they get their sustenance. Nobody can see where they contact enough soil to give them their luxuriant growth. Yet there they stand, by the millions, green and strong. The tropical storms that must sweep across these mountains at times do not seem to be able to uproot, dislodge, or break off these slender poles that Nature erects on the summits and sides of these mountains.

There are various kinds of flowering trees almost all over Mexico. But the most rapturously beautiful ones I have seen anywhere are those that are to be found in many of the towns between Mexico City and Acapulco. There are three distinct varieties. There is one tree covered with great clusters of scarlet red flowers, that looks very much like a great rose tree. There is another tree literally smothered with the brightest purple flowers you ever saw. And then there is a third tree buried beneath wreaths of the richest golden yellow imaginable. All of these trees are two or three times as large as the largest flowering peach you ever saw in Texas.

At one little town where we stopped to get breakfast, the Aztec woman in charge conducted us out into her back yard, when we admired her flowering trees, and broke off a limb for each of us. This was a red-flowing tree, which she called some such name as Banbunbela, as it sounded to us.

Taxco, is a city of about 9,000 people set on the side of a mountain, most of it on a kind of foot hill, but from the other side of the ravine it looks just like a city clinging to the mountain side. In it are the most colorful and glamorous purple-blooming and red-blooming trees I have seen anywhere. In fact, from the highway it is the most beautiful town I have seen in Mexico. But when one undertakes to climb the steep, narrow, crooked, poorly-gravelled streets that lead up into and through it, he finds it a lot less attractive than he fancied from a distance. It is an old town, at least the original town is, with a large Catholic church, a public school, a hospital, mercantile establishments, etc. The newer part of the town is built on the neighboring hills, and there is one large and swanky hotel, whose chief business, I think, is to "gyp" people.

Since we had to wait there an hour and a half for dinner and did not know of another place in a hundred miles where we would dare to eat, we killed the time by going out into the country five or six miles to a silver mine. Of course we could not see much but the mouth of the mine after we got out there, but we were told that five hundred men worked in the mine, which was a mile deep. All we saw were Aztecs, begging for handouts, and I guess their salaries were rather small, but right on the spot we did not feel able to supplement their salaries very materially. Figured that was a job for John L. Lewis.

Yes, in speaking of trees, I forgot to mention the coconut palms and banana shrubs. I hardly know whether to call the latter a shrub or a tree. Anyway, it is a large plant somewhat like a palm tree, with bunches of bananas growing mainly near the fork, and all sticking upward, never hanging downward, as you people in Tahoka buying bananas might imagine. The coconut palm is a much larger tree, and it is usually pretty high up to where it forks and spreads out. Away up there in the forks, also you see a bunch of a half-dozen or more big, smooth, round, and green coconuts as big as good-sized cantaloupes. There may be many bunches on some trees, but actually I do not remember seeing more than one bunch to the tree. But the trees seem to grow in just any old place, many of them along the streets and highways, some of them in people's back yards, out in the forests or the brush, just any old place, among the prickly pears or in the orange orchards. Orange orchards, however, appear to be much more numerous and extensive north of Mexico City than south of it. Out there you are just as likely to see an orange orchard growing on the side or the very summit of a mountain as in the rich valleys it seems. I guess that is enough about the vegetation for the present.

Our hotel stays full of tourists from the States almost all the time. We encountered a bunch of them at the Customs House at Nuevo Laredo as we came down, and have been seeing the pale faces everywhere we go ever since. Most of them are from the North—New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Indiana, Minnesota, Iowa, and other northern states. Encountered one fellow this morning from North Dakota. Saw a man and his wife yesterday from southern Alabama, some other people from Oklahoma. And many have been here whose home states I did not learn. The roads are just lined with tourist cars.

A girls basketball team from Iowa has been here for about a week or ten days playing games with Mexican teams. (This is Saturday now). They have won most of them but some were very hard fought games. My room-mate at tended two games last night, one played by the Iowa girls with a Mexican team, the Iowa girls winning easily, and one between a Brooklyn, New York, Negro boys team and a white team from Boston. The Negro team is known as the Harlem Globe Trotters, and they play ball all over the world. My room-mate says they are the finest basketball players he ever saw, and they had an easy victory last night over the Boston Whirlwinds, another noted team. They played down at the big stadium where the Mexicans stage their big bull-fights.

Those bull-fights are one of the great amusements that the Mexicans offer all visitors and tourists as well as many of their own people each Sunday afternoon as you have probably heard many times before, but you really have to visit Mexico City before you can realize how much time and effort the Mexicans spend in advertising this great national amusement. They begin about Tuesday of each week trying to sell tickets to the next Sunday's bull-fight. You step into the elevator to go down to the main floor and the elevator boy hits you up to buy a ticket to the bull-fight. Yesterday, for example—this is Saturday morning, February 23, as I write now—when I stepped into the elevator to go down to the main floor, the elevator boy began soliciting me to buy a ticket. About that time another couple stepped in and he hit them up. They showed some interest, and when they got off on the second floor he actually left the elevator, followed them out onto the floor, and stood there for some time trying to sell them a ticket. Well, when you land on the main floor usually there is some fellow waiting there to nab you and try to sell you a ticket; if you go on down the lowest flight of stairs and walk out on to the sidewalk, another group will bombard you, all wanting to sell you a ticket. My room-mate keeps his car in a big enclosed parking lot just across the street, and we always have to pick our time and then make a dash across the street to get the car out. The chances are about ten to one that we will be importuned by from one to a half-dozen ticket salesmen before we can get into the car and get out of there. They seem to think that a fellow is a piker or some sort of abnormal being if he refuses to buy a ticket to the bull-fight down here for Sunday afternoon.

That matter of making a dash across the street is not any unusual thing to do down here in Mexico City. You usually have to watch the traffic and then make a dash if you get across the street without being run over by a car. They have no traffic lights down here and no stop signals. A traffic cop directs traffic from a stand in the middle of a wide intersection or from a corner of a narrow intersection. And when that cop signals traffic to move I want to tell you that it moves maybe 50 or 60 miles per hour right there on crowded streets.

Where a narrow street or an ordinary street intersects with a boulevard, traffic moves only one way at a time over an intersection on that boulevard. The traffic cop has his stand in the center of the intersection, for instance, and if the boulevard runs north and south he will stop all cars, say, on the east side of the boulevard while they whiz by on the west side, and vice versa, and then for a brief interval he will stop all cars on both sides of the boulevard while the cars on the cross streets dash across the boulevard. If a pedestrian wishes to cross the boulevard, he can dash across only half of it at a time. He must then stand in the middle and watch his chances to dash across the other half. In crossing ordinary streets too he is compelled to watch his chances and stay out of the way or get out of the way of cars that may be coming at break-neck speed. No speed limits seem to be observed. Furthermore, one can hardly ever find a highway sign anywhere. The few that have been erected are painted in such small letters that a cop with a flashlight would have a hard time finding one. About the only way a tourist can get out of town on the right highway is to strike a boulevard running in the right direction and follow it. Mexico most assuredly must have the crudest and most inefficient highway system of any country in North America. One thing can be said in its favor; it has built or is building, for the most part, very fine roads. I think, however, that they could be straightened to great advantages in some places, especially south of Mexico City. The roads from here to Acapulco are so crooked that it is almost impossible for a tourist to average much more than 30 miles per hour.

It should be observed too that the bus and truck service over these highways is very heavy. There are very few old or run-down cars on the highways. Everybody who is able to afford a modern new car drives one. If he hasn't that kind, he goes by bus. The buses appear to be doing a land-office business. Even the Aztec Indians are constantly catching the buses to ride into some larger town. Railroads are few and far between, and apparently most of the freight is transported by truck. One will meet scores and scores of them in a day's time.

Mexico and other cities are growing, and possibly before long they will become more progressive. As I see it right now, if Mexico were in charge of Protestant Americans it could be revolutionized rapidly, educationally, economically, agriculturally, and in many other ways. These rural Aztec children should be provided with public schools—in spite of the filth and penury in which so many of them live, they are bright and affectionate little folks. I believe that they could be taught and trained up into useful citizens.

Second, this country needs a lot of home demonstration agents, mainly to teach the people how to cook. All the bread one can find in this country is hard enough and heavy enough for a man to knock a mule down with it.

Third, this country needs an A. & M. College, in which a study of the soils and of the bacteria that apparently infests much of the soil can be made and remedies provided. Fourth, it needs many up-to-date farmers with modern farming implements; and irrigation projects should be built in many places. Fifth, it needs ministers and Bible teachers, who should be able in the course of time to lift the benighted people out of the darkness and depravity of superstition and hellish paganism. I think I shall tell you something about this paganism in my next article. Had thought I would get around to it this week, but wanted to clear these other things out of the way.

I am expecting to go to church again in the morning. There is one little church out here composed, I believe, of fine Christian people, and while I can not understand much that is said, I can enjoy and appreciate the fine

Call out the Reserves with a touch of your toe!

Most cars lead a double life. A good part of the time, they're running errands, taking children to school, taking women to stores, taking men to work, taking family and friends to clubs and social functions. It doesn't call for a very great output of horsepower for duties like these.

But there are times when you want a car that can do vastly more, and these are the times when you'll want what this year's ROADMASTER has to offer.

Beneath its proud hood, there's a Fireball 8 Engine—a valve-in-head that can let loose 170 lively horsepower when needed.

And—alongside this engine—there's also an Airpower carburetor which thrifly feeds fuel and air through two smaller-than-usual barrels for normal driving—which means that you now use less gas at 40 than you'd formerly use at 30.

But there are two barrels in reserve—waiting for you to call them into action—and they let loose a soaring rush of power that sinks your shoulders back into the seat cushion, swoops you past a truck—out of a tight spot—up a hill—sets your speedometer needle to registering added miles more than twice as fast as your watch can tick off the seconds.

This is an experience you certainly should know firsthand.

You should also know how Buick's Power Steering* provides a helping hand in slow-motion maneuvers—lets you keep the "feel" of the car in straightaway driving.

And just for good measure, this '52 ROADMASTER also has the biggest brakes of any postwar Buick—the greatest trunk space since spare tires moved off the front fenders—a warning light that glows when the parking brake is set—and to top it all, the smartest interior fabrics that Buick has ever offered.

When are you coming in to look this distinguished performer over? We urge you to make it soon.

*Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster only.

OLD-FASHIONED LIVING MODERN LIVING

MODERN LIVING IS ELECTRIC LIVING!

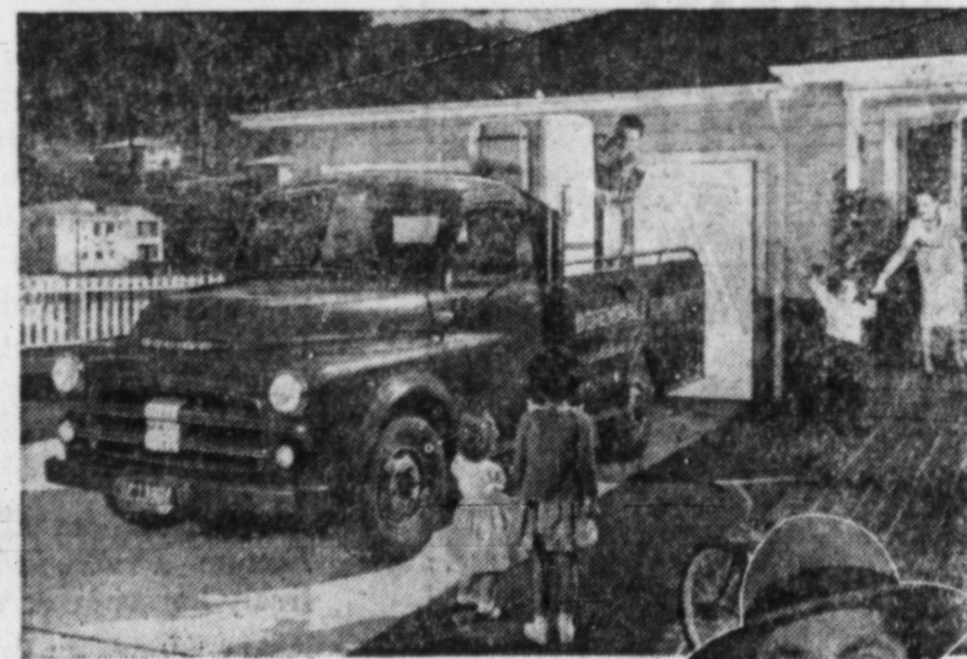

From the old open fireplace on through the ages cooking was a grimy, greasy job until electric cooking came along. Now, your pots and pans are always bright, always shiny for electricity is the cleanest cooking method known. Who ever heard of a dirty kilowatt? No black or grime on the sides of any pots or pans when you cook electrically either, for there are no flames to go around the sides and dirty up the pans — and the rest of the kitchen, too.

Modern living is electric living. Electric living is sparkling clean always. See your modern electric appliance dealer. See the sparkling clean range he displays. The clean-cooking, good-looking range. Of course, it's electric.
