Presidential veto appears inevitable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter's first presidential veto appears inevitable as Congress shows little willingness to heed his warnings about the need to cut back on federal spending.

Whether Carter rejects a farm bill, money for water projects or the huge appropriations bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare, he's certain to face a stiff fight to make his veto stick.

Carter drew the line on curbing the budget at his news conference Thursday. "I have to reserve the right and the duty to say no when spending is excessive," he said.

Later in the news conference, Carter said he has "the right to veto bills if I think they are excessive."

Carter pointed to the farm bill and the water projects appropriation as prime contenders for his first veto.

The meeting with reporters saw Carter publicly air a dispute that has been brewing between the Democratic President and congressional liberals. Carter has taken a firm position at White House meetings with members of Congress on his determination to balance the budget by the end of his term.

Congressional Democrats have told him pointedly that they don't share his determination to balance the budget, especially if it means sacrificing social programs.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., called Carter's threat to veto the farm bill "scare talk. It scares a lot of farmers, but it doesn't scare members of Congress."

And one of Carter's fellow Democrats, Sen. James Abourezk of South Dakota, brushed aside administration claims that the target prices set for major crops in the farm bill were too high and could cost nearly $4 billion, compared to the $2 billion price tag for the support levels proposed by Carter.

A veto might be avoided if the bill that goes to the White House is closer to the $2.3 billion measure approved by the House Agriculture Committee than the $4 billion bill that passed the Senate Tuesday night. The House is scheduled to act on the committee bill next month.

Avoiding a veto on the farm bill may be a lot easier than avoiding one on the public works appropriations bill containing funds for water projects Carter has fought to eliminate.

The public works bill has cleared the House Appropriations Committee.

Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., a leader of the fight to save the water projects, said, "This is hardly the place for the President to draw a line in the sand. I hope to be able to work with and counsel the administration to avoid a veto."

If Carter vetoes funds for the water projects, Johnston predicted the Senate would be able to muster the two-thirds margin needed to override.

The appropriation for the Labor Department and HEW, approved Thursday by the House Appropriations Committee, would provide $61.3 billion for the next fiscal year, $1.4 billion over what the President wants.

Gas for holiday trip will cost you more

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're going on a trip over the Memorial Day weekend, plan on spending more money for gasoline. You'll probably be paying 5 to 6 cents per gallon more than you did last Memorial Day.

That's the word from the American Automobile Association, which regularly surveys service stations to find out how much it costs to travel by car.

This year, the AAA reported Thursday, its survey of 3,600 service stations showed an average nationwide price for a gallon of regular gasoline is 64 cents.

The survey showed an average price for premium fuel was 68.9 cents and for unleaded fuel the average was 66.6 cents. Diesel fuel cost an average of 56.6 cents per gallon.

Dividing the nation into seven regions, the report showed drivers in the West will be paying the highest average prices: 65.4 cents for regular, 69.9 for premium and 67.4 for unleaded.

The Southwest had the lowest average prices: regular 62 cents, premium 66.3 and unleaded 63.8.

In New England, average selling prices were 63.7, 68.4 and 66.5; in the Mid-Atlantic region, 63.9, 69.4 and 67.1; in the Great Lakes area, 63.8, 69.2 and 66.9; in the Midwest, 64, 68.3 and 66.4; in the Southeast, 63.5, 68.1 and 66.3.

Action/reaction: Not for girls only

Q. Who assigns playing fields at the new softball complex? Why were two fields assigned to boys when the complex was intended primarily for girls.

A. Jerry Foresyth, assistant city manager, said he assigned the diamonds to specific leagues, and they set up their own schedules from there. Foresyth said that the complex was not intended primarily for girls; he assigned two to boys' Teenage League and two to Miss America Softball to give the kids first chance at the field.

Calendar: Golf meet

SATURDAY

Annual Pioneer Reunion for all Dawson County residents, 10 a.m., Women's Building at Dawson County Fairgrounds, Lamesa.

Clinic to familiarize women with basic automobile anatomy, lore and maintenance, 2 p.m., Don Crawford Pontiac.

Tennis tournament, Figure Seven Tennis Center.

Big Spring Golf Association's City Golf Championship Tournament begins, 9 a.m., Big Spring Country Club.

Offbeat: Ate the whole thing

Students at Parkhill Elementary probably couldn't believe they ate the whole thing Thursday.

The Park Hill P.T.A. had a big school picnic at noon on the final day of school, using up all of the remaining funds on pizza and ice cream.

Students never had it so good as they filled up on all the pizza and ice cream they could eat as the Parent-Teacher group held their final fling before the school was shut down by the school system.

TV's best: Hard driver

A little-known but really fine movie, "Hard Driver," will air at 8:30 p.m. on ABC. For those interested in trivia, the flick was first released in 1973 under the title "The Great American Hero." It was based on a story by journalist Tom Wolfe about Junior Johnson, real-life moonshine runner turned race driver. Talented Jeff Bridges plays Junior. Beautiful Valerie Perrine plays the love interest.

Carter takes Atlantic dive

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — President Carter, a one-time career submarine officer, slipped beneath the surface of the Atlantic today aboard the nuclear-powered, hunter-killer sub Los Angeles.

When the Los Angeles began its dive at 10:55 a.m. CDT, Carter became the first President to cruise in a submerged undersea vessel since Dwight D. Eisenhower dove in aboard the nuclear-powered Sea Wolf 20 years ago. By concidence, Carter had been senior naval officer in charge during the construction of the Sea Wolf.

The Los Angeles took two to three minutes to complete its dive in waters about 35 miles off the Florida coast.

Carter had begun his Atlantic cruise some three hours earlier, eager to take the helm of the Los Angeles and perhaps willing to let wife Rosalynn take a turn in the "driver's seat."

Aboard nuclear subs, the individual who mans the helm, is said to be driving the ship.

Accompanied by Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, "father of the nuclear Navy," the President and Mrs. Carter boarded the attack sub Los Angeles at Port Canaveral for an eight-hour cruise in, and even under, the Atlantic.

Carter, an Annapolis graduate, joked to reporters that when he was a career submarine officer, the undersea craft were called boats. He said they've grown so large they are now known as ships.

"Do you have any last words?" a reporter inquired shortly before two Navy tugs began nudging the Los Angeles into a narrow channel leading to the ocean.

"No," said Carter, laughing heartily, "because they won't be last words."

The President was piped aboard the submarine and, as he disappeared down an open hatch, the presidential ensign was raised from the conning tower.

The President, who gave up a career as a Navy submarine officer in 1953 to take over the family's Georgia peanut farm, told reporters he was eager to take the helm of the Los Angeles.

"I'm looking forward to it," he said. "I've never operated on a nuclear submarine before."

Although Carter recalled he was "the officer in charge of getting the second nuclear sub ready for sea," the sleek vessels pioneered by Adm. Hyman Rickover did not become operational until after the President left the Navy.

Rickover was making the voyage aboard the Los Angeles with the Carters.

When the President was asked if he thought he could handle the ship, he replied:

"Oh, I think so. They've got some automatic devices to prevent serious errors."

Then he added, with a laugh, "And I'm sure I will be well watched."

A Navy official said Mrs. Carter also would be given the opportunity to take the helm of the Los Angeles.

The Carters arrived on the Georgia resort island of St. Simons Thursday afternoon for the Memorial Day weekend. Mrs. Carter will be leaving nearby Brunswick, Ga., Monday for a 12-day Caribbean and Latin American tour and her husband will be on hand to help launch the journey.

The President was hardly back on Georgia soil when he told reporters:

"I'm going to put on some blue jeans, some Keds and get outdoors. We'll probably fish a little while."

FAMILIAR FACE — Then Lt. Jimmy Carter, background, peers at instruments on the submarine USS-K-1 in a 1952 photo. Carter returned to the sea today when as President of the United States he boarded the nuclear sub Los Angeles at Cape Canaveral, Fla., for a dive in the Atlantic Ocean.

North Korean firepower concerns U.S. military

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military concern over the power balance in Korea focuses on a nearly two-to-one North Korean advantage in tanks, many concentrated within 50 miles of the demilitarized border zone.

Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub indicated to a House subcommittee this week that his opposition to a U.S. ground force withdrawal is based largely on recent intelligence estimates of North Korean strength.

Singlaub, removed as U.S. chief of staff in Korea for suggesting the planned withdrawal would lead to war, said other generals agree with him. But some experts say they feel the Chinese and Soviets would restrain any North Korean urge to launch an invasion of the south.

President Carter, at a news conference Thursday, said Singlaub had committed "a very serious breach" of the military command system "and I certainly don't agree that there is any cause for a war to be expected."

U.S. intelligence analysts have known about the North Korean tank buildup for about two years, but estimates apparently have been refined.

Military officials indicate they are concerned by more than raw numbers. Many of North Korea's 1,850 medium Soviet and Chinese-made tanks outgun South Korea's 1,000 medium U.S.-built tanks.

Gunshot kills would-be Coahoma HS graduate

Rodney Joe Rhodes, 18, never made it to ceremonies at Coahoma High School Thursday night where he was to graduate.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Hall Bennett Hospital from a gunshot wound to the head, 2:13 that afternoon.

The accident occurred as Rhodes sat in a car with four companions in the parking lot of the Wagon Wheel Drive-in, Fourth and Birdwell. According to Lt. Avery Falkner of the Big Spring Police Department, the five youths were "playing around" with a .22 magnum pistol when it discharged hitting Rhodes near his mouth.

Falkner said that witnesses told him that Rhodes held the gun when it went off. Those at the scene also told investigators that only one bullet had been in the chamber of the pistol.

"As far as we can see, the shooting was entirely accidental," said Falkner today.

Justice of the Peace Bob West has not made a ruling in the case.

Driver of the car in which they were sitting rushed Rhodes to the hospital and was later questioned by Big Spring Police.

RODNEY RHODES

Services are scheduled for 5 p.m., Saturday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Officiating will be the Rev. Gerald Langdon, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Sand Springs. Burial will follow in Trinity Memorial Park.

He had been a resident of Sand Springs since August, 1975, moving there from Millington, Tenn. He was a Baptist.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Rhodes, a brother, Richard Rhodes; a sister, Carrie Rhodes, all of the home; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Rhodes, Snyder; and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Lillie Clements, Snyder.

Moluccans free 105 children

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Four days of doubt and fear ended for 105 Dutch children and their parents early today when armed Asian extremists released all of the students — half of them ill with a stomach virus — and one teacher from a village schoolhouse.

At least 55 hostages remained the captives of a separate band of South Moluccan terrorists on a train 15 miles north of the school.

Police said three teachers and the principal remained captive in the school at Bovensmilde, a farming village in northern Holland. Authorities had said six adults were being held but the freed teacher said only himself and four others were in the crowded school.

More than 50 of the children, aged 6 to 12, were suffering from a virus infection which swept through the students crowded together in the one-story elementary school, officials said.

The ailing children were taken by ambulances to a hospital in nearby Assen, where 26 were admitted. Their conditions were not known.

The illness was understood to have caused vomiting and diarrhea at the schoolhouse. Red Cross officials told parents to give their children a hot bath and send them to bed. The children were told not to eat or drink too much at first.

Dutch Justice Ministry spokesman, Wim van Leeuwen, said the six Moluccan terrorists at the school apparently decided to let the children go as one after another fell ill.

"They're going to be all right," said van Leeuwen.

In The Hague, Premier Joop Den Uyl told reporters the government was encouraged by the developments and would work on "patiently" to win the freedom of all the hostages.

Justice Minister Andreas van Agt said in a radio broadcast, "Things threatened to go wrong for a moment, but now they (the children) are all out of the school building."

He apparently referred to a terrorist complaint at one point that the operation was not moving fast enough. The government had refused to begin serious negotiations unless the children were freed.

In response to questions, van Agt denied that food sent to the hostages and gunmen had been tampered with. Authorities have been making regular deliveries of food, water and medicines to the school.

The release began just after 4 a.m. and took 2½ hours. Parents were held by police behind crash barriers a distance from the school.

State police said seven other Moluccan extremists continued to hold their hostages aboard a passenger train they hijacked Monday. Police and troops ring the train, sitting in lush farmland north of Assen.

The gunmen took the train and school hostages in a bid to force the Dutch government to free 21 Moluccan extremists jailed for terrorist activity in this country. The terrorists also have demanded a jumbo jet to fly themsleves and their comrades out of the country.

The terrorism stems for the militants' desire for independence for their pacific island homeland. The south Moluccas, formerly the Spice Islands, were ruled by the Dutch for centuries but became part of Indonesia in 1949 when that former Dutch colony was granted independence.

HOSTAGE CHILDREN RELEASED — Two Dutch children sit in the back of a car, left, and a third is comforted by her mother, right, after South Moluccan terrorists who had been holding them hostage four days released 105 students and a teacher from a school in Bovensmilde, Friday. At least 55 hostages remain captives of a separate band of South Moluccans in a train 15 miles north of the school, and police say three teachers and a principal are still being held at the school.

Dayan pick reconsidered

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Menahem Begin, faced with a growing political revolt over his choice of Moshe Dayan as foreign minister, has decided to reconsider the appointment threatening to split his Likud coalition, a spokesman said today. The Likud spokesman said the party's executive committee would meet Sunday "to reconsider" the appointment. The Liberal party, ranked second in the five-member Likud, or Unity, bloc met Thursday night. A spokesman said the party would "present formal opposition to Dayan's selection" at the Sunday conference.

Soviets want hijacker

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The Soviet Union has demanded extradition of a 37-year-old engineer who hijacked a Russian airliner to Stockholm, but Swedish officials say they do not have to give him up. Soviet diplomats were on the scene Thursday only minutes after the twin-engine Anatov-24 aircraft with 18 passengers and a crew of five set down at Arlanda International Airport. Police said the hijacker had pretended to carry explosives but a search revealed none.

Soviet jet crashes

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet IL-62 airliner crashed today in the area of Havana airport while on a regular flight from Moscow to Cuba and there were casualties, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

"There are human casualties," the Tass report said.

It added that "a government commission has been set up to investigate the causes of the crash."

In Toronto, the Canadian Press quoted a spokesman for the Canadian embassy in Havana as saying all but two of 55 persons aboard the Soviet jetliner were killed when the aircraft crashed in flames.

The spokesman, Embassy First Secretary S. F. Pattee, said he was told the Aeroflot aircraft attempted an emergency landing with one engine on fire. It crashed about 1,000 feet short of the runway.

He said the two persons who survived were reported to have been critically injured.

Delaying auto standards?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmentalists and the Carter administration are looking to the Senate to restore the tough automobile emission controls shot down in the House. The House passed a major revision of federal clean air laws Thursday, including an industry-backed amendment to delay tighter standards. Some of the rules now set to take effect on 1978 models would be delayed for two years, others indefinitely.

Child porn probed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A House committee is bringing its investigation into child pornography to Los Angeles, seeking ways to control a growing trade in photographs, movies, slides and books depicting children engaged in sexual acts. Los Angeles has become a kind of capital city of the so-called "Kiddie Porn" business. Investigator Lloyd Martin of the Los Angeles Police Department estimates that 30,000 boys and girls are sexually exploited by adults in Los Angeles every year.

Young angers many with talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fiery U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young is back in Washington after a trip through Europe and Africa that left the State Department stunned, the Swedes irate, the British chastized and the president of the New York borough of Queens incredulous.

But President Carter was still on Young's side.

In a nationally televised news conference Thursday, Carter said he knew of "no instance that Andy Young has violated" administration policy.

The black ambassador stepped into new controversy while talking with reporters Wednesday en route to London from his official travels in Africa.

—The Russians, he said, are "the worst racists in the world."

—He got Sweden and the New York borough of Queens with the same breath. The Swedes, he said, are "terrible racists" and "When the crunch comes, the black in Sweden is treated just like the black in Queens."

—He declared Britain's "old colonial mentality" is still "very strong."

—And, finally, he jolted the State Department on Thursday by saying in London and later in Washington that he really wasn't all that concerned about Cuban advisers in Ethiovia, even though the State Department was calling it a matter of "grave concern."

When first asked about reports that 50 Cuban advisers were in Ethiopia, Young made an effort to espouse the State Department position, but it didn't end there.

"The State Department has expressed grave concern about that and I guess that's what I should do, too," the ambassador replied.

Gamboa fund drive starts

Big Spring-born Elizabeth Gamboa, who underwent surgery for removal of her left arm recently in Houston, has returned to her home in Odessa. Miss Gamboa is suffering from bone cancer.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Gamboa of Big Spring.

Odessa businessmen arranged for Elizabeth to fly home from Houston in a private airplane. She was greeted at Midland Air Terminal by her classmates at Gonzales Elementary School, where she is a sixth grader.

Her classmates are attempting to raise $2,000 to help the Gamboa family pay part of the medical expenses. Other elementary schools in Odessa are taking part in the campaign.

One school, Hays Elementary, had raised $130.29 for an end-of-school party, but the fund instead went into the Elizabeth Gamboa Fund. Gordon (Moe) Madison, former Big Spring resident, is principal of the Hays school.

Contributions for the Elizabeth Gamboa fund are being accepted both by the National Bank in Odessa and the First National Bank in Big Spring.

Police beat

Water jug full of coins stolen

Burglars hit the home of Edwin E. Lawson, 3915 Hamilton, and made off with $1,040 in cash and merchandise, between 7 a.m. and 2 p.m. Thursday.

According to reports, the intruders tore the screen off a bedroom window to gain entry. Once inside, they lifted a large metal box containing a .22 cal. pistol, a hunting knife, a variety of checks, $85 in cash and $740 worth of credit card receipts.

Burglars also hit the home of Thomas Rice, 1324 Utah, sometime between 6:30 a.m. Wednesday and 3 p.m. Thursday.

Stolen from behind Rice's couch was a five-gallon water jug full of $80 worth of coins and currency.

Wes Butler, 1308 Madison, reported that his seven-year-old grandson was struck in the head with a rock around 6:37 p.m. Thursday. The thrower of the rock was not seen, but the projectile gave the young victim a gash on the forehead. He was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Five mishaps were reported Thursday.

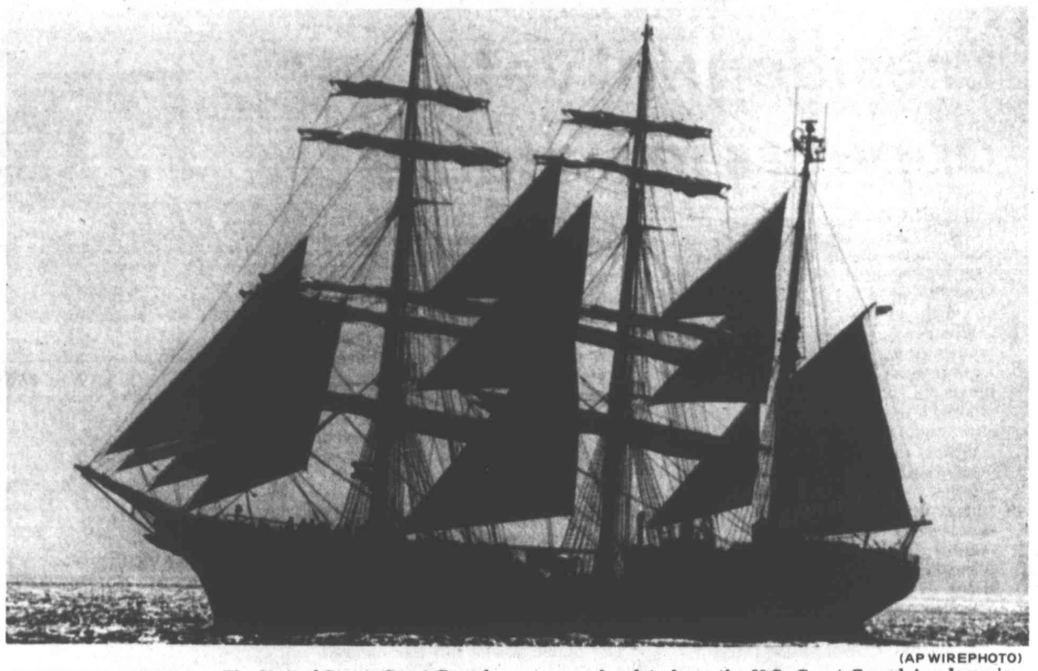

A vehicle belonging to Molly L. Smith, 1812 Benton, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene in front of Ms. Benton's home, 1:47 a.m.

Vehicles driven by Van E. Owens, 1203 E. 18th, and Cornelia Silvas, Southland Apartments, collided at Twelfth and Donley, 2:12 p.m.

Ambulance talks set

All people interested in the formation of a city-county ambulance service are being asked to attend an organizational meeting scheduled to be held at 7 p.m., Wednesday, June 1, in Room 208 of the Horace Garrett building at Howard College.

Diana Weir will be in charge of the session. Several speakers are being lined up for the program.

Midland adds bus service

MIDLAND — A bus service may soon be made available to people living in West and North Midland who work in downtown office complexes.

The Midland city council has tentatively approved a plan by Gihls Realty and Management Corp., for a limited bus service from North Big Spring Street and West Wall to the downtown area.

The service would operate from 7 to 9 a.m., and again from 4 to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday. Users would pay a monthly fee of $32. The fee would include use of a parking lot at the pickup points. For those not using the parking lots, the monthly fee would be $24.

Property tax bill talked to death

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Chances of statewide property tax reform died when the Senate refused Thursday to debate the House-approved bill.

The vote was 16-14, with 21 votes needed to bring it up for the final votes necessary to send it to the governor, who supports the idea.

"That's it," said Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, who has kept up a dogged fight to get the House-passed bill through the Senate.

In pre-legislature comments, many legislative leaders and state officials tabbed property tax reform as the No. 1 task of the session.

"We need this bill because the present way of appraising property is totally unrealistic, unreliable. As many as eight appraisals are made in some places on the same piece of property, and all may be different," said Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene.

The bill would have consolidated appraisal of real estate for tax purposes into single countywide appraisal offices. Local governments and agencies would still set tax rates but the appraisals would be uniform. Appraisers would be tested and certified by the state.

Jones said in order for the 1979 legislature to do a qualified job of allocating funds for public schools, it would be necessary to have the countywide tax appraisal system or to restrict uniform appraisals only to school districts, as proposed in negotiations over the public school financing bill.

"You have no guarantee here of any tax reduction for tax payers," said Sen. Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells, a chief Senate opponent. "The people had the opportunity to adopt this form of property tax appraisals when they voted on the new constitution and they voted it down four-to-one."

The Peveto bill was brought out of a Senate committee on a 4-3 vote last Monday. Earlier, Peveto has accused Senate leaders of blocking discussion of the bill and at one time attempted to block House consideration of bills by the Senate opponents.

About a month ago the bill passed the House 88-58.

Climber to escape civil suit

NEW YORK (AP) — The city is dropping its threat to file a $250,000 suit against a toy designer who became the first man to scale the 110-story World Trade Center, it was learned today.

As thousands watched and cheered below, 27-year-old George Willig of Queens climbed the south tower of the quarter-mile-high skyscraper at the southern tip of Manhattan in 3½ hours Thursday morning. It takes about a minute and a half to make it using the building's elevators.

At the top, even the police who handcuffed the rangy, bearded young man took time to shake his hand first.

In return for Mayor Abraham D. Beame's dropping the suit threat, it was learned that Willig will express his regret over any inconvenience he caused the city and urge others to refrain from similar feats.

Willig's climb also left officials wondering what else could be in store for its tallest skyscraper, the second highest in the country.

French aerialist Phillippe Petit three years ago walked from one of the World Trade Center's 1,350-foot twin towers to another on a tightrope, and about a year later Owen Quinn became the first man to parachute off the trade center. Both were promptly arrested.

Today the new hero, "Human Fly" Willig, was at home receiving congratulations, awaiting a court appearance on charges of criminal trespass and other misdemeanors, and planning new climbs.

This time, he said in a copyright story in the New York Daily News, it will be rockclimbing. "I find it much scarier than climbing the World Trade Center," says Willig.

What made Willig's quarter-mile ascent so easy was a small piece of equipment he designed himself and hopes to patent. The T-shaped device fit into the finger-sized grooves that go up the aluminum corners of the towers and which are used by window washers. The device, secured with a twist, holds a sling for the climber's foot.

The gadget worked so well that before the guards noticed him, he was already 30 feet up the wall and out of reach.

Later on, he was joined by a policemen from the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, which owns the building, and a city policeman in a window washer's scaffold lowered from the top.

The city policeman, DeWitt Allen, greeted Willig with:

"We've got to stop meeting like this. My wife is getting suspicious."

BACK ON THE GROUND — Amateur mountain climber George Willig, left, and his girl friend Randy Zeidberg, leave New York City police station Thursday after being booked on charges of criminal trespass and other items in connection with Willig's quarter-mile high climb of the World Trade Center. The two, Willig's brother Stephen, 22, and Jerry Hewitt, right wearing hat, were all arrested shortly after Willig reached the roof. All were released pending a June 22 court hearing.

Weather

Severe storms due to continue

By The Associated Press

Isolated very heavy thunderstorms roamed the eastern portion of the Texas Panhandle early today and fog in the central portion of the Panhandle cut visibility to near zero.

Otherwise, skies were clear to partly cloudy. Forecasters warned that the current siege of stormy weather would continue today and into tonight.

Scattered thunderstorms were expected today in portions of Central and West Texas. Some were expected to become severe in Northwest and North Central Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s with extremes ranging from a chilly 48 at Marfa in Southwest Texas to a balmy 74 at Brownsville in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and at Galveston on the gulf coast. Other readings included 61 at Amarillo, 60 at Wichita Falls, 66 at Texarkana, 68 at Austin and Houston, 70 at Corpus Christi, 73 at McAllen, 72 at Del Rio, 67 at El Paso, 71 at San Angelo, 64 at Lubbock and 58 at Dalhart.

Highs this afternoon were expected to reach into the 80s and 90s.

A tornado was sighted at White River Lake in Northwest Texas Thursday and winds gusted to an estimated 60 m.p.h. at Wichita Falls. Heavy rainfall, estimated to be about four inches, caused some flooding of low lying areas near Lubbock during the night.

FORECAST

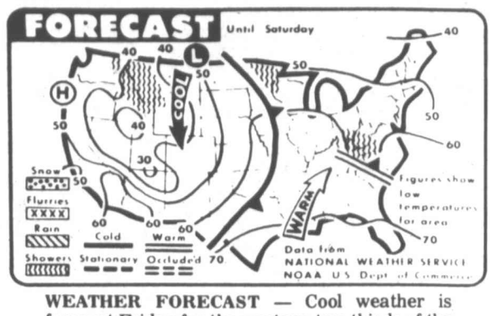

WEST TEXAS: Fair west and partly cloudy with scattered mainly afternoon and nighttime thunderstorms east today through Saturday. A few thunderstorms may become severe this afternoon and tonight. Warmer afternoons most sections. Highs today 83 north to near 100 extreme south. Lows tonight 53 to 68. Highs Saturday 86 north to near 100 extreme south.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Scattered mainly afternoon and evening thunderstorms Sunday and Monday. Partly cloudy and not as warm Tuesday. Lows in 60s Sunday and Monday falling to 50s north Tuesday. Highs in 90s Sunday and Monday and 80s Tuesday.

Skyjackers extradition demanded

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A Russian airliner hijacked to Stockholm returned to the Soviet Union today as Swedish officials considered a Soviet demand for the hijacker' extradition.

Soviet and Swedish officials were on hand at the Arlanda International Airport when the twin-engine Anatov 24 aircraft departed with 17 passengers and five crewmen.

The hijacker, a 37-year-old engineer from Riga, remained in custody at police headquarters. Authorities said he had asked to become a "refugee." Police said he managed to convince a Soviet stewardess that a newspaper stuffed inside his coat was a bomb.

"According to preliminary interrogation we understand he wants political asylum here even if he has not formally made the request in so many words," a police spokesman said.

Passengers questioned by police before returning to the Soviet Union said they were unaware of the hijacking until the plane touched down at the Stockholm airport.

"I was half asleep when I noticed we were above water," one passenger told the newspaper Expressen. "First I thought something had gone wrong with the instruments . . . Suddenly I saw two Swedish jet planes and minutes later we landed at Arlanda. None of my fellow passengers knew we were hijacked.

It was the first hijacking of a Soviet airliner to another country since 1970 when two planes were forcibly flown to Turkey.

Soviet Ambassador Michail Jakovlev, who described the 37-year-old hijacker as a terrorist and a "bandit," called undersecretary of state, Leif Leifland, to demand Sweden expel the man.

"Sweden follows the Hague convention concerning hijackers which means that we extradite them or try them before a Swedish court," Liefland told reporters.

No extradition treaty exists between the two countries.

There was speculation Russia would cancel the visit of the Soviet minister of fishing if Sweden refused to extradite him. But Swedish sources said Soviet chances of forcing extradition were almost nil.

Accused slayer of car salesman 'drifting'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — William Craig Riley, 25-year-old drifter, was indicted by the Travis County grand jury Thursday in the slaying of Austin car salesman Jack Cooney III.

Riley is still the object of a nationwide search.

The indictment alleges that Riley shot Cooney and "cut and disemboweled" the Austin man in the course of stealing the van which the two men had taken for a test drive on Nov. 30.

The murdered man's torso was found on a Brazos River sandbar several days after his disappearance. Parts of his body have not been found.

Riley previously had been indicted on the auto theft charge.

Short moral hop from take-out to take

I was sitting in one of Big Spring's many fast food restaurants this week when a policeman entered.

At first, I didn't pay attention to him because he stood back by the door as if he were waiting to talk to someone. The restaurant was moderately busy, and several persons were in line to order food.

When the line cleared and no one was at the counter, the Big Spring policeman approached. He ordered food to go, and it was brought to him.

"I WONDER IF he will pay for it?" I thought to myself, and sure enough the policemen never reached for his wallet or pocket. He made some notation on the check, and he departed.

I was curious (green), so I decided to ask the fast food restaurant about what I had just seen. I approached the counter and made an inquiry. The girl working the cash register hurried to fetch the manager.

I asked: Do policemen get their food free here? If so, why?

The manager explained it to me in this manner:

When he came to Big Spring, policemen were having to pay — just like everyone else. But he thought it was good for business to have policemen seen in his place. It makes the restaurant appear safe and helps keep youths under control.

When a policeman came in, the manager passed the word to him that the food was free to policemen.

The manager said he asks no special favor in return from the officers. They do not patrol his building more often or anything.

What are the requirements for an officer to order free food? I asked.

Only that the policemen be in uniform when he comes in, the manager said.

The manager insisted several times that the main reason he follows this practice is because policemen do not make very much money, and he thought this would help them. He does not give free food to others who make the same amount or less money, he said.

THE MANAGER said he saw nothing wrong with the practice, and he said that the policeman had stood back and not ordered until everyone else had left the counter because he is a "nice guy."

This, of course, is not an unusual happening in any town in the U.S. Policemen often receive their coffee for free, and I have seen other restaurants that did not ask law enforcement officers to pay. I have seen officers in other towns who walked out of restaurants without paying whether this suited the owner or not.

Two days later, I asked Big Spring City Manager Harry Nagel about the city policy on accepting freebees. Nagel said that city employes are allowed to take very small items, such as a ballpoint pen from a salesman or a cup of coffee from a friend, but he said the city would frown on the routine acceptance of free meals by policemen or any other employe.

"We discourage that," he said.

And I think he is right. While a bit of take-out food is hardly being on the take, it looks bad to the public, and it can easily broaden into other more questionable practices.

Giving a policeman a free cup of coffee while he patrols the dangerous streets in the middle of the night, a thankless task for which he is almost always underpaid, has been an American tradition.

The tradition, however, should go the way of the ministerial discount which is rare nowadays. Churches now try to pay their preachers the best wage they can, and not reduce him and his family to begging discounts all over town to make up a living-wage difference.

The policeman, like the minister, should be able to afford his own Sunday dinner.

The best way to keep corruption out of the government and out of town is not to draw boundaries or limits on accepting gratuities, but rather not to permit any of serious value at all.

It can be a short moral hop from fast food to steak, from a friendly gift to outright graft.

Problems not here

Around the rim

Bob Burton

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard came back from a statewide Sheriff's Conference April 28 to discover that the Howard County jail would not pass muster, according to new state guidelines.

Since then, Standard and his department have compiled a 51-page report for the Texas big guns, describing how the Howard County system works and outlining rules to run the jail by.

That, according to Standard, should solve some of the problems.

WELL, I DISAGREE. Nothing Standard can do will solve any of the problems, because the problems aren't here in Howard County. They're off in Austin and Washington, and they're being created faster than they can be solved.

A recent AP story on the National Assembly of Jail Crisis in Kansas City quotes Dr. Francis P. McQuade, president of the National Association of County Civil Attorneys, as saying, "Municipalities are getting out of the criminal lockup business, states are getting out of the jail business, and counties are getting all of them."

That's about half of it. The other half is that the feds are getting in. Since 1957 federal courts have handed down guidelines to jails concerning prisoner treatment and rights. With typical restraint, during the past seven years, guidelines have piled up with such speed that states have simply been passing th improvements on down the line to the individual counties.

The net outcome is that Standard's jail, built for 60 inmates, can now handle 30. Standard's 51-page report is concerned with problems like screening each prisoner adequately for disease and other physical problems, a procedure which involves having a physician present to examine the prisoners rather than simply having access to one. Standard is being required to run a miniature version of the state prison at Huntsville, at a comprable expense to you. And for what?

According to Standard, despite the cry that county jails are overcrowded, the Howard County jail does not have that problem.

"Our normal load is about 15 to 20 prisoners," said the Sheriff. "We have a real good system worked out with the courts so that usually no one should have to spend an extended period in the jail."

"I think," he continued, "that the principles of running a jail ought to be the same everywhere, but the methods have to be different. In the large metropolis, like Dallas or Houston, they face different problems in their jails and run on different budgets from what we do here. We need some subdivision.

"FOR EXAMPLE, break jails down into classes by population. Have one class for large cities, one for cities around 100,000, one for areas like Howard County, and one for smaller areas."

Fine. But what about rulings suggesting that pre-trial prisoners are to be called "Mister" rather than "prisoner"?

What about requirements calling for a gym so that prisoners can exercise, a studyroom where they can read, and an enclosed area on the roof where they can get some sun? Nice? You bet.

The government is shifting its emphasis, apparently. Local correctional facilities are now supposed to handle part of the load of rehabilitation. Local probation offices are supposed to be encouraged to handle more probationers. Like McQuade said, everyone else is getting out.

So what have we here? We have Standard facing an unknown, undetailed amount of changes or repairs in the jail. We have the Commissioner's Court faced with an unknown amount of expense before the state gives its approval. We have the federal government and the legal system creating a rigid system of requirements which are easily broken and uneasily understood.

In the usual scheme of things, where a jail is concerned, I always thought the idea was to pay for the crime, not pay for the criminal.

Other voices

William F. Buckley, Jr.

(Mr. Bernard Levin of the London Times has quoted, or better, celebrated, a speech recently delivered by Axel Springer, the West German publisher. On a day in which the Vice President of the United States flew across East Germany to Belgrade to discuss with Marshall Tito the failure of his mission in Vienna with John Vorster of South Africa, the failure of his mission in Vienna with John Vorster of South Africa, the Levin-Springer ululation — here amalgamated, for rhetorical convenience — is relevant . . .)

I WROTE (Levin began) not long ago about the fact that in advanced societies it is now impossible for dictators, however ruthless, to seal the borders of their countries against the truth, and of no state is that more true than Brezhnev's East German colony, where freedom is in places only a few meters away, and in which, at the trifling risk of being shot dead by Honecker's Gestapo, a citizen of East Germany can wave to his fellow countrymen in the Federal Republic.

(Springer) "I do not need to be told that really this was all the result of Hitler's violence and his insane war of conquest. But one cannot condemn Hitler's policy of violence and today bless the Soviet policy of violence. One cannot hate a combat brownshirt bondage but propagate, love and make light of the red. A system of injustice remains a system of injustice under any color.

"Henry Kissinger once came to see me. He entered my study and assailed me with the rhetorical question: 'You are a nationalist, Mr. Springer?' I answered: 'No. I am for freedom.'

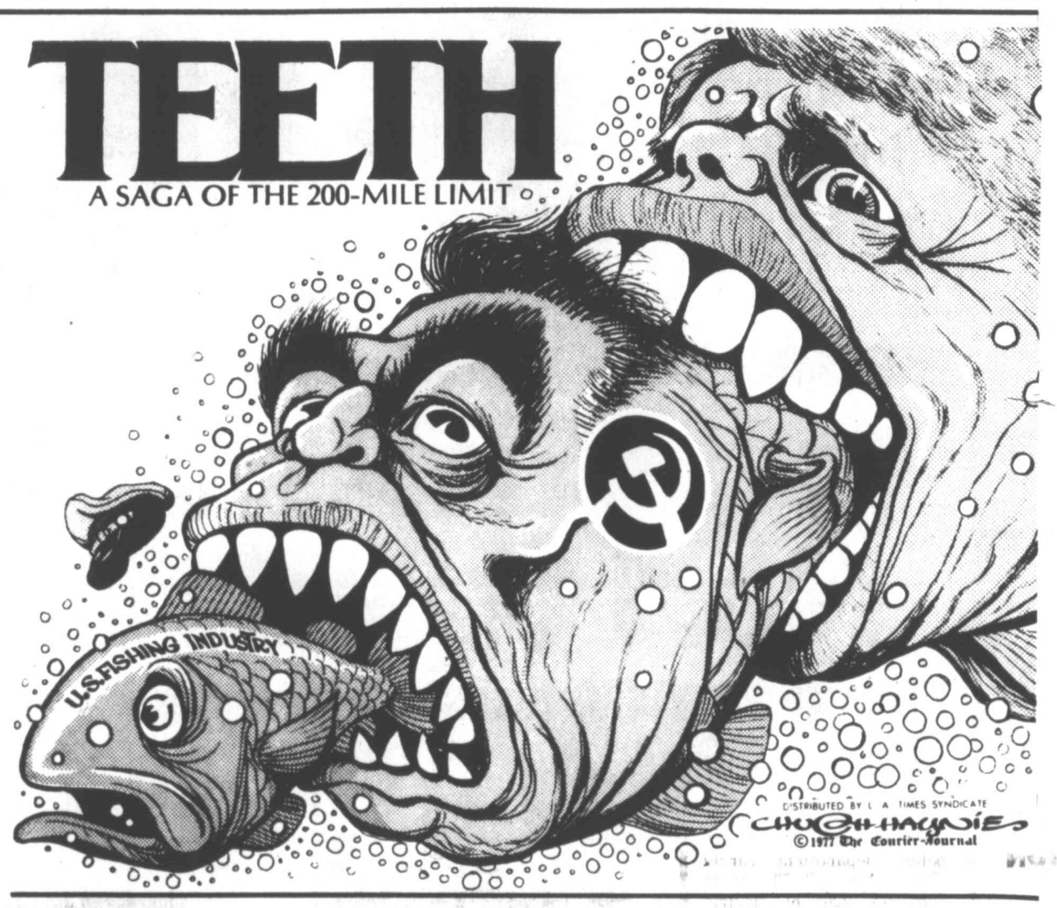

"And I added: 'If you only fulfill your obligations under the Convention on Relations between the Three Powers . . . by creating a second German state in which every citizen can enjoy all the freedoms we have; if he can read what he wants to read; if he can utter his opinion, choose his place of work, vote freely for his party and cross the frontier when he wishes; and if he can be sure that a knock on his door at six in the morning is not the secret police: very well, I would accept such a second state.

"People demonstrate for the freedom of Chileans, of the blacks in Rhodesia and South Africa. But for our neighbors, who in East Germany are behind bars for political reasons or simply as disguised hostages for communist spies arrested here, nobody demonstrates.

"Last year, 7,590 men and women were under arrest for political reasons."

(Levin) It is necessary that we should be reminded of just what constitutes political crime in the Soviet Empire, and just what sort of behavior is considered "anti-social."

(Springer) "Eighty per cent of them have been sentenced for an attempt at 'fleeing the republic.' . . . And the sentences are such as in civilized countries are only passed on murderers and habitual robbers."

How about shots to lose weight

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our area has several doctors who are giving HCG injections to help one lose weight.

It is an eight-week program, costing more than $200. Included are the HCG injections given five days a week, vitamin B injections given once a week, and a rigid diet.

I understand that HCG is a hormone and that weight loss is a side effect of the drug. This is all the information I can get. I believe we all need to be better informed as to how and why this works. I know several people who have taken these injections and lost 20 to 30 pounds in two or three months. Since I have thought of taking the injections I would appreciate any information you can give me. — Mrs. P.R.

I'll tell you what I know about this, and you make up your own mind.

HCG stands for "human chorionic gonadotropin." No need to untangle that phrase, except to note that it is a hormone obtained from the urine of pregnant women. That, of course, doesn't mean it's bad to take.

Its chief uses up to now have been in treating infertility in both sexes and for undescended testicles in boys.

In 1954, a Dr. Simeon of Italy proclaimed its use for weight reduction. The injections are accompanied by a low (500-calorie) diet. Despite reports on the ineffectiveness of the drug, it does continue to be used for the purpose of weight loss. There is no convincing proof that HCG works directly on fat cells, which I understand is the claim for it.

One of the most extensive studies involved 200 patients receiving the HCG and another group simultaneously taking a harmless placebo. (A placebo is a "dummy" medicine product that does not affect the body in any way.) After the trial period neither group showed any difference in weight loss. Skin fold measurement tests showed no differences between the groups. This study was published in November last year.

The weight loss your friends reported was probably due to their stringent diet, not to the injections.

So there you are. There will be friends who will urge you to go on the program. Some folks become positively evangelistic about things they've "gotten into."

Make your own decision based on the facts of the matter. You didn't tell me just how great your weight problem was. With determination you should lose weight on a conventional low-calorie diet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A couple of years ago as a new bride I had intercourse with my husband with an inserted tampon in place. I had forgotten about it. It was painful, but I was ignorant of sex and so didn't realize this at the time. Now we are planning to start a family and I wondered if this could have done any damage internally that might lessen my chances of becoming pregnant. — J.S.

If you have no discharge or signs of vaginitis there should be no problem getting pregnant. I would stop worrying about this. Your internal structures are hardier than you think.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read an article in the local paper that discussed skin cancer. In the article it mentioned a particularly fast-growing skin cancer that looks like "trauma" spots on the fingernails. Lately, I have been getting little black spots in the pinks of my fingernails. Is this anything I should be concerned about? — P.C.

I didn't read the article you mention, but I'd be glad to look at it if you send it along the next time you write.

There is a vicious type of malignancy called melanoma that can occur under the nails. Suggest you have your situation checked soon. This may or may not have been the condition referred to in the article.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: We have been discussing what we should do when some members of one of the new religions knock on our door and want to talk with us. Some say we should not listen to them, while others say we should witness for Christ to them. Do you have an opinion? — Mrs. S.D.

DEAR MRS. D.: It is hard to give a definite answer about this. Often these people give memorized answers to questions Christians will raise, and if a Christian is not skilled in a knowledge of the Bible he may suffer confusion and doubt. On the other hand, if you know the Bible you should have no fear of opening it and sharing with them (if they will listen) what God's Word has to say. The Bible tells us that we should "be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear" (Peter 3:15).

Remember that you are not only interested in refuting false doctrines. You also want to share with those of other religions what the Bible says about their need of Christ, and how they need to repent of their sins and accept Christ by faith. I believe there is authority in the Word of God, and we should pray that God will use it to bring conviction and faith to all people, including those who hold false religious views. "For the Word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword" (Hebrews 4:12).

If you have occasion to talk with people from various new religious groups, you might find it helpful to ask your Christian bookstore about books that examine the views of various non-Christian groups in the light of Scripture. Most of all, however, we should be "speaking the truth in love" (Ephesians 4:15), and not be discourteous. Even if you choose not to talk at length with them, you should explain that you have found true peace and forgiveness in Jesus Christ.

Dear Editor:

Now in Congress is legislation concerning Communist Cuba which is of vital importance to residents of the Gulf States. Sen. George McGovern has introduced a bill, S.314, which would end the U.S. trade embargo of Cuba, with respect to medical supplies, food and agricultural commodities. Rep. Thad Cochran has presented House Resolution 103 expressing the sense of the House that "The United States should not establish diplomatic or economic relations with Cuba."

Russia is already occupying Cuba, 90 miles from Key West, Fla. If we allow the Government Liberals to open the door to Cuba, we will be inviting Russia in.

The Soviets continue to openly state their plan to take over our country in their conquest of the world. Cuba is a Soviet satellite and the enforcer for Soviet Communism, as shown by the 15,000 Cuban troops used to spearhead the Communist takeover of Angola.

With the Carter Administration determined to give our Panama Canal to Russia through Communist Panama, with Red Castro training and arming guerillas all over Latin America and the Caribbean, with Mexico moving into Communism, the Gulf States will be sitting ducks for attack.

Two Canadians — John Phillips and Robert McAdorey, visited Cuba late last year and reported on what they saw. They found Cuba to be an "armed camp" and the Cuban Army well-disciplined by Russian "advisers" who are "highly evident." According to McAdorey, "The island is crawling with Russians."

Phillips said, "From the moment you land at Havana's airport, you are in no doubt that you have landed like an insect on a clenched Communist fist prepared to strike at the under belly of America. You immediately see five, or six of the huge Soviet 4-engine Bear bombers as well as a number of reconnaissance aircraft. As you drive through Havana, you notice hundreds of huge, colored posters proclaming Soviet-Cuban 'solidarity'.

"Wherever you go in Cuba you run into Russians and East Germans. There is little doubt who's boss in Cuba. The Cuban military units were bristling with Russian weapons under the watchful eyes of the very un-Cuban commanders. The Army has 600 Soviet-made tanks. The Air Force has 15 to 20 fighter bombers and 200 MIG 19s and MIG 21s."

McAdorey was shocked by the violently anti-American propaganda which is everywhere. At a party propaganda display the first prize winner was a U.S. flag with swastikas for stars and stripes dripping blood. He was disgusted with what Communist Education is doing to the Cuban children. "They're teaching the kids hatred, with texts from Russia."

Russia is getting tired of supporting Cuba and wants us to take over. Today the Soviets are pumping $2 million a day into the Cuban economy to keep it from foundering. Despite this, it is a ruined economy. It is doubtful that Cuba has much to "trade" with us. Sugar is mentioned but why buy Cuban sugar when, for many years, we taxpayers have been paying untold millions to U.S. sugar growers not to grow sugar?

Though Cuba has no money, there are American businessmen eager to "sell" to Cuba. They know that (as with the Soviets who never pay a bill) the so-called sales will be put through the U.S. Export-Import Bank and we, the taxpayers, will end up paying for the gifts to Cuba. The Bank, using our tax dollars, guarantees to pay businesses for sales to foreign countries if those countries fail to pay.

The McGovern bill, mentioning only food and medical supplies, was designed to play on our sympathies. Actually, it is a foot-in-the-door maneuver to open the way for all-out delivery of whatever American products Castro desires.

The Cubans do need food. The Canadians found that nearly every food item is rationed, including fish. The only way most Cubans can have meat is to raise chickens, even in cities. Only very young and very old get milk. But if we send food, it will go not to the people but to Castro who, following the Communist method, will use it to control the enslaved Cubans. Or, as Russia does with the wheat we give them, Castro may sell the food to other countries for a profit or to bring them into Communism.

What Castro really wants is what we are giving Russia: materials, machinery, computers, technology to produce instruments of war. Your tax dollars built, in Russia, the largest "truck factory" in the world which today is rolling tanks off its assembly lines, for one example.

Carter, despite his concern for Human Rights, is ignoring such intelligence reporters as the British Intelligence Digest (March 1, 1977) which found that Cuban prisons hold 40,000 political prisoners, including 850 Americans.

If you value your freedom, tell your Senators to vote against the McGovern bill and your Representative to support the Cochran Resolution.

Dear Editor:

I want to tell you about a small black and brown dog. He didn't have a pedigree but was possibly part Pekinese. This little dog was loved by his master, James R. Isgell, who will be 85 next month.

This little dog was well behaved and could put on a show. He would stand on his hind legs and sit, shake hands and wave bye. He could dance on his hind legs. Liked to pose to have his picture taken. In 1973, he got help for his master when he fell at Lake Scarbough and broke his leg.

Wednesday morning a big Saint Bernard dog jumped the fence and killed little Prince. We rushed him to the Vet but couldn't save him.

Mr. Isgell had been offered a $100 for him several times.

What I want to say is this, this big dog should be dealt with because his next victim may be a child.

I know about this because James R. Isgell is my father and it was in our yard Prince was killed.

National ID card idea ripped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of an identity card system for all Americans would be small when compared with the cost of the millions of illegal aliens believed to be in the United States, according to Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

At a news conference Thursday, Bentsen said he felt a counterfeit-proof national identity card was an essential part of a policy to deal with illegal aliens.

Bentsen said the arguments of civil libertarians against a national card "made no sense at all."

The Texas Democrat said the card must be coupled with any law penalizing employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens. The card would be the employer's means of determining who was a properly documented worker.

Bentsen said he saw nothing wrong with requiring all Americans to carry such a card when they apply for work. "We do it now. Every time I cash a check I have to show identification."

Civil libertarians have argued against the card idea, saying that it would allow further government intrusion on the private lives of citizens.

The Carter Administration, which is now formulating its alien policy, has rejected the card idea, according to informed sources.

The sources said the civil liberties argument plus the multibillion dollar cost of such a card were factors in the administration decision.

Does your child have diabetes?

Does your child have diabetes? And if so, would you want him or her to attend a camp where skilled professionals can instruct them in how to deal with the problem?

If so, it's all free. Just call Bert Andries at the Boys Club, and he will book a reservation for your child in one of the summer camp periods. The Downtown Lions Club takes care of all expenses, including transportation. There is a separate camp for crippled children, and Andries will take reservations for that, too.

Carlsbad Caverns schedule

CARLSBAD, N.M. — Carlsbad Caverns National Park's full summer schedule will begin Sunday, June 5 and continue in effect thru Labor Day, September 5, according to Park Superintendent Don Dayton.

Under the new summer schedule, the park visitor center will be open from 7:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. daily. Complete Cavern trips which enter thru the natural entrance and are three miles in length will be available continuously from 7:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and Big Room trips, which enter by elevator and are 1¼ miles in length will be offered continuously from 7:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. daily.

Talks will be given nightly throughout the summer at the Cavern entrance, immediately prior to the evening flight of the Cavern's bat colony. Starting time for the Bat Flight Program is currently 7:30 p.m., but is subject to change as the season progresses. Exact times can be obtained by calling the park visitor center at (505) 785-2233.

New Cave lantern tours, which are available by reservation only, will be expanded to four per day for the summer, with trips scheduled at 9:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 1:30 p.m. New Cave is a primitive undeveloped cave located 23 miles from the main Cavern. Reservations may be made by calling or writing to the park.

Other activities available during the summer include guided nature walks to Oak Springs, a self-guided nature trail near the Cvern entrance, museum and roadside exhibits, picnicking at Rattlesnake Springs, and backcountry hiking.

Concession facilities available at the park inolude a nursery, kennell, gift shop, restaurant and underground lunchroom.

The park entrance fee is $3 per carload daily for private non-commercial vehicles, or an annual Golden Eagle or Golden Age Passport. For visitors arriving by commercial bus, the single visit fee is $1.00 per person.

Local crime tops in Permian Basin

Big Spring has the highest rate of crime in the Permian Basin, Ed Kissinger, crime prevention officer of the Big Spring police force, told the Downtown Lions Club at its meeting Wednesday.

Moreover, April of this year saw an 85 per cent jump in crime over April a year ago. He was at loss to explain the reason, but figures indicated that most of the growth in crimes was in the field of burglaries and thefts. What little pattern there was to this suggested that perhaps itinerants might be contributing because many of the losses occurred on or near highways and through streets.

There were 53 burglaries of Big Spring businesses within one month, and 13 residential break-ins (this figure was down).

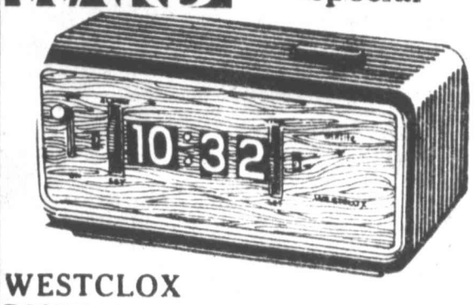

Despite pleas to survey property to make "crime-prevention" suggestions, the police department rarely gets such a call. The same goes for loan of electric stencils to mark hubcaps, radios, stereos, and household goods. The public could help by reporting suspicious characters, or even by joining the police reserve, or by asking that police manpower be increased, said Kissinger.

He also told the club that only 3 per cent of the crime cases reported to the department ever ended in convictions. With the annexation of Webb AFB the problem of protection should get worse as thin police ranks are stretched further, he ventured.

The club will not meet next Wednesday noon, but instead will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 2, for the installation of M.A. Barber, president, and other officers of the club.

Judge's rape remarks fire up women

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A county judge who says rape is a normal reaction from juveniles exposed to provocative clothing in a sexually permissive society is under fire from women demanding his resignation.

Sixty people picketed the city-county building here Thursday, protesting comments made Wednesday by Dane County Judge Archie Simonson in the case of a 16-year-old girl raped by three boys in a school stairwell.

At a disposition hearing for a 15-year-old boy who in January had pleaded no contest to charges of second-degree sexual assault, Simonson said the boy's reaction was understandable.

Complaining about provocative women's clothing, Simonson asked, "Should we punish severely a 15-or 16-year-old who reacts to it normally?"

Asst. Dist. Atty. Meryl Manhardt called the judge's courtroom remarks "particularly sexist." She said the rape was the most serious crime in the history of Madison public schools.

The judge said in an interview Thursday that it was "normal for impressionable juveniles to react violently" to some women's clothing because they are "groping to decide what is proper conduct in this world."

"Their sexual juices really start to flow at 14, 15 and 16," said the 52-year-old judge. "It doesn't take much to provoke the guy. Whether you like it or not, a woman's a sex object and they're the ones who turn the man on, generally."

Simonson found the youth delinquent and ordered him to remain at home for a year under court supervision. The boy must be tutored at home and continue receiving treatment at a nearby youth center.

A 14-year-old boy accused in the case was sentenced to one year at a group home in Milwaukee. A third boy was given immunity from prosecution in exchange for testimony against the others.

Simonson said his remarks should not cause women to fear appearing before him in sexual assault cases, but the women protesters disagreed.

"Rape is a violent crime, a terrible crime, and here is a judge calling it a normal reaction," said a statement issued by the protesters, whose action was sponsored by the local chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW).

"Simonson's usefulness is over as far as his continued judgeship is concerned," NOW said. "What woman would ever believe that she could receive fair treatment from him?"

SIMONSON PROTEST — Feminist Anne Gaylor protests with numerous other women Thursday against County Judge Archie Simonson. The 52-year-old judge had remarked that "provocative clothing" worn by women, as well as Madison's so-called "sexual permissiveness," had much to do with rapes committed by teenage boys.

Bullock again warns investors to check

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock again warned investors this week that if they were interested in buying a Texas business they would be smart to check carefully to see if the business owes the state delinquent sales taxes.

"Without checking, it's like buying a pig in a poke," said Bullock. "It's just not a happy event to buy a business, open up shop and then get a fat bill for delinquent sales taxes before you get started."

Bullock said the sales law makes the new owner responsible for any delinquency run up by previous owners.

He urged the news media to help get the warning out to all potential business investors.

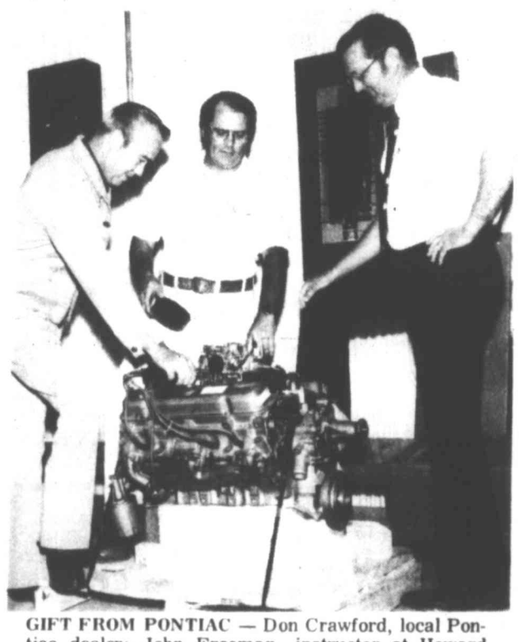

Bullock noted that his office has changed procedures to make it easier for business buyers to get delinquency information quickly.

"We have also put out news releases, news columns and public service ads, but this unfortunate occurrence is still too common," said Bullock. "It's a sad story, but unfortunately one we can do nothing about other than issue warnings."

The Comptroller said the law actually requires the new owner to withhold the amount of any delinquent taxes from the purchase price of the business but as a practical matter many deals are already closed and paid before the new owner finds out about the back taxes.

Bullock urged every potential buyer of a business to contact the nearest Comptroller's field office early during purchase negotiations to make certain there is no outstanding delinquency.

"It ought to be as automatic as checking for clear title when buying a new home," he said.

Clearcutting rule unclear

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — A U.S. Forest Service spokesman says USFS officials feel they were the winners in a federal judge's recent ruling that bans clearcutting operations in Texas national forests.

Ned Fritz, a Dallas attorney and chairman of the Texas Committee on Natural Resources, sued the USFS last year claiming that forest service practices, including clearcutting, violated five federal laws.

After reading the lengthy court order, which bans clearcutting in Texas' national forests until a detailed environmental impact study is compiled, Rich Lindell of the USFS said Thursday that the ruling "outlines details to strengthen our impact statement process.

"Frankly we're amazed that Fritz was elated," Lindell said. "We feel he lost the lawsuit."

Lindell said U.S. District Court Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler had ruled negatively on only one law — the national Environmental Protection Act.

"And he didn't really rule against us," Lindell said, adding that the ruling would strenghten impact statement procedures.

The forest service still disputes Fritz' claims that clearcutting is contrary to good forest management practice.

"Our attorneys are carefully considering the language of the order. We don't agree with the findings of fact that clearcutting is that harmful to the environment. We admit we have made some mistakes in the attempts to do what we thought was in the public interest...but these were mistakes of the head not of the heart," Lindell said.

The spokesman also said that the requirements laid out in the court order are similar to guidelines from the National Forest Management Act signed into law Oct. 22, 1976.

Lindell said the court order complimented the forest service for exceeding guidelines set down by the Endangered Species Act — one of the laws Fritz claimed had been violated.

Silent prayer bill milked

By SCOTT PARKS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Now is the time for all good scribes to perform the ritual post mortem on the productivity, or lack thereof, of this session of the Texas Legislature.

We will be hearing all about how the 65th edition took care of the highway lobby first and then ignored or shortchanged the poor and the suffering because there was too little money left.

You will hear that the Legislature provided teachers with a nice raise, but sidestepped their responsibility to provide an equal education to those students in property-poor districts.

Although we will not have state-imposed wiretapping for at least another two years, you will hear that the Legislature got tough on criminals and had the foresight to authorize a new prison to hold all the new inmates created by the law and order bills.

There will be stories extolling the leadership and management capabilities of House Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby. There will be stories condemning them.

I don't wish to belabor the major issues of the day, so let me tell you about some of the pieces of legislation and multi-act Capitol vignettes you may have missed.

And remember, you read them first right here:

—Rep. Pike Powers of Port Arthur had the only real "Peoples" bill of the session. It would have mandated bluejeans as the official state costume. It was an admirable piece of legislative handiwork because it also had teeth. Any resteranteur or bar owner would have been subject to criminal penalties for denying service to anyone deressed in the official state costume.

—Rep. Emmett Whitehead of Rusk took more than anhour of the Houses' previous time to ram through a bill requiring a state juvenile facility to be constructed on a vacant lot next door to the home of federal Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler. Whitehead and some of his East Texas redneck buddies thought that would be a funny joke since Justice is the jurist who handed down the ruling requiring Texas Youth Council to construct more community-based rehabilitation facilities. The Senate ignored this bill.

—Sen. Walter Mengden of Houston milked the "prayer in the classroom" issue for all it was worth this session. He passed a bill in the Senate to let teachers have a moment of silent prayer in the classroom. Mengden looked sheepish when asked why there needs to be legislative authority for children to think their own thoughts about God and the Holy Spirit. The bill probably won't become law.

—The Consumer Protection Subcommittee, led by Rep. Charles Finnell of Holliday, worked for a month on legislation to require a landlord to keep his property in a safe and liveable condition.

CENTER OF GARDEN CITY
... the courthouse

Garden City has been around for a long time. Its jail was 84 years old on the first day of January. When it was constructed in 1893, it was the courthouse. It now stands on the front corner of the courthouse square.

The courthouse was built later, with rocks from creek beds in the area to match the jail. Only the courthouse is larger. Both buildings are almost an exact square, but the courthouse was two-story high pillars for decoration. Its one of the older courthouses left in Texas.

The cornerstone on the courthouse is dated 1909 and includes the names of C.L. Bocard, county judge; B.A. Keathlety, commissioner 1; L.A. Lane, 2; W.B. Currie, 3; L.H. Hillcer, 4; and Norman Cirdewood, clerk.

The area was originally settled by ranchers. A lot of folks say that the three C's began the county. They are referring to the Curries, the Coxes and the Calverleys. There are still a lot of them around. And a lot of descendants from those three families have scattered all over West Texas.

Garden City residents live there because they like it and they like each other. Nobody gets in a hurry around there, except the kids who come rushing to the one cafe in town, at noon for hamburgers.

One of their favorite old time stories is about the time that a little community called New California, to the north of Garden City, stole the post office.

One dark night, the folks out there came in and stole all the mail out of the Garden City post office and tried to set up a post office of their own. The Garden City citizens went out there and stole it all back. New California died out.

The town was originally named for somebody whose name was Garden. Citizens will tell you, "We don't remember him, but it had to be. This is surely not a garden spot."

Garden City citizens are a closeknit group. Their sheriff, Booger Pruit has been sheriff there "quite a spell and he does us a good job," say the citizens. Judge is D.W. Parker. Vena Lawson has been county clerk out there many years. She fell on the ice on January and broke her hip and has "been laid up a spell."

Oliver Werst keeps up with farmers and ranchers. Althought it's a small county, he served at one time as state president of the county agents' association.

Up at the school there are a lot of activities. They have a really good homecoming with a supper served, queens crowned, Mr. Bearkat named for the year and a lot of excitement.

In January, they host a really good junior livestock show, barbecue and sale. Supt. Don Stringer heads the school system, of which they are very proud.

There used to be hotels, funeral parlors, stores and all kinds of things at Garden City. But nowadays, they come into Big Spring for a lot of their purchases.

They've had some jolts. The murder of Steve Currie six years ago shocked them all and the high cost of the continuous trials and appeals actually caused the taxes to go up in that county.

Quipped one old-timer, "The three C's may have started this place, but now we're the three H's. We're historical, hardy and happy."

And they're every bit of that. They really are as happy a community as there is around — out at Garden City where I love to have an excuse to go ride fence.

Bill is so proud of his final report card that he's sharing the good news with Towser. Children thrive on accomplishment, and they need family and friends — and, yes, even their dog — to rejoice with them.

Like Bill, we all thrive on accomplishment and want to share it with others. If we broaden this trait in human nature we will want to make the whole of our experience a living success. In doing so, we will fulfill our own ambitions which God has planted deeply within us.

But stark ambition is not enough, and God has given us the patience of love and understanding as well. What a combination! There is no set formula, but your church will put these assets in proper perspective. Now you can share — now you can rejoice.

Methodists schedule annual conference

United Methodists will ponder the current layout of their districts when the 68th session of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference meets May 31 through June 2 in Abilene.

A committee headed by Dr. Charles Lutrick will make recommendations to ministers and delegates at the upcoming gathering in Abilene's St. Paul United Methodist Church.

Dr. Lutrick, pastor of First UMC of Midland, and his group have given intensive study to the boundaries of the current Abilene, Amarillo, Big Spring, Lubbock, Pampa, Plainview and Seymore districts. A reduction in number is possible.

Conference preacher for the 68th session is Dr. Claus Rohlfs, a member of the faculty of Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University since 1968.

Dr. Rohlfs has been a frequent speaker in the Northwest Texas Conference. He delivered the 1971 Willson Lecture series at McMurry College and in 1975 led a Discipleship Conference at McMurry.

Rohlfs was born at Innien in Schleswig-Holstein in Germany in 1921 and came to the U.S. with his family in 1931. He grew up in New Jersey. After Army service in the Pacific in World War II, he entered the Methodist ministry.

He earned his bachelor's from Philadelphia's Temple Univeristy and his graduate divinity degree from SMU's Perkins. McMurry honored him with a doctor of divinity degree this spring.

At Perkins, Dr. Rohlfs designed the ministerial intern program and strengthened the Conference Course of Study School which has trained many ethnic minority ministers.

Currently Rohlfs is vice president of the Board of Higher Education and Ministry of the United Methodist Church. He is also chairman of the Division of Chaplains and Related Ministries of the UMC.

"Christ to the World We Bring" is the theme of the conference gathering in Abilene, according to Dr. Darris Egger of Lubbock, conference program director.

Dr. Alsie H. Carleton, bishop of both the Northwest Texas and New Mexico Annual Conferneces, will preside at the sessions.

Dr. David Stuart Blackburn, McMurry fine arts division chairman, will be song leader and Mrs. Wiley Caffey of Abilene will be organist for the conference.

Big Spring man becomes new missionary-at-large

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Tom Hadley, Big Spring, has become a missionary-at-large at Batesville, Ark.

One of a class of 46 who will graduate from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, May 20, Hadley will be ordained in Big Spring, July 24, at 3:00 p.m. Last year he served a year of theological internship at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Houston.

In May, he will have completed 11 years of training for the ministry in The Luthern Church — Missouri Synod and will be eligible for assignment to Hope Luthern Church in Batesville.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hadley, 1214 E. 18th Street, Big Spring, Tom will receive his master of divinity degree at the May 20, commencement exercises.

Hadley is married to the former Cynthia Hingst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L.A. Hingst of Vernon, Texas.

Hadley received his schooling at St. John's Academy and Junior College at Winfield, Kansas. He completed his bachelor of arts program at Concordia Senior College, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Hadley enrolled at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, in 1973.

Concordia Seminary is one of two seminaries owned and operated by the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. It has graduated more than 9,000 pastors in its 138 year history.

Boy Scouts again eye religious dimensions

NEW YORK (AP) — In the midst of all the peer pressures, come-on appeals, pop fads and persuasions, "How do you respond? It is your life! What anchor points hold fast?"

That's one of the questions raised for analysis by young people in a newly developed "God and Country" training course of Scouting, U.S.A., aimed at revitalizing the religious dimensions of the movement.

That aspect "had become pretty much a dead letter, in effect, and we're now rebuilding it," said LeRoy W. Nattress Jr. of Chicago, chairman of the national Church Commission on Scouting. "We anticipate a high degree of recouping."

In that effort, religious principles are presented as a stabilizing ground for which a young person can evaluate the mixed, conflicting pressures of the modern environment and make sound decisions shaping his life.

"As you have outgrown childhood ... you are faced with the need to plan, to make decisions," says a training guide. "You also are facing pressures and persuasive arguments which test the values and morality which you accept."

The issue thus becomes whether you cave in, or have a basis for convictions that holds steady, it is pointed out, with the outcome determining whether you fulfill your own selfhood or fall victim to surrounding influences.

That's only one example, however, of the many growingup issues put before high school-age Explorer Scouts in the advanced phase of the new program, which also includes earlier stages for Cub Scouts (9 and 10 years old) and for scouts (11 to 14).

Concert slated

Jimmy Boyd and the Joint-Aires will be presenting a gospel concert at the Westside Baptist Church Sunday.

The event is scheduled at 6 p.m. and the public is invited to attend.

The church is located at 1200 W. 4th Street.

Object to Gambling

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — The United Methodist Board of Global Ministries, which has frequently held its meetings here, has voted to do so no longer to register its opposition to gambling recently authorized in this seaside resort.

First woman

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Rev. Betty Bone Schiess, among the first women ordained Episcopal priests in 1974 and whose orders were regularized in 1977, has been named chaplain at large at Syracuse University's Hendricks Chapel.

Vacation Church school slated

Vacation Bible School will begin Tuesday, May 31 at Airport Baptist Church, 1208 Frazier.

The school will begin daily at 10 a.m. and last until 1 p.m. The time schedule allows people to sleep later since children have not been out of school many days.

It is also scheduled so that younger children can get home before nap time, according to the director. It also includes in the schedule ladies not having to worry about preparing a noon meal because everyone will bring a sack lunch with the church furnishing the drinks.

All pre-school and school children through high school age are invited to attend.

After the conclusion of the school, there will be a special Family Night Saturday, June 4 at 7:30 p.m.

Slides will be shown of the children during the week's activities. Homemade ice cream will be served.

The Rev. David McNary is pastor of Airport Baptist Church and Mrs. Omer Decker is V.B.S. director.

Soul on Fire

WACO, Texas (AP) — Eldridge Cleaver, whose angry, pro-Marxist book, "Soul on Ice," was a best seller before he fled this country as a fugitive, has now written another telling of his return and his becoming a committed Christian, "Soul on Fire," to be issued in February 1978 by Word Books.

Not in Klan

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Reacting to reports of a resurgence of the Ku Klux Klan in the nation's capital, William Cardinal Baum, Roman Catholic archbishop of Washington, has forbidden Catholics to join it.

Citing the Klan's "hostility to minorities in general and to blacks in particular," he said in a statement that the "Catholic faith is incompatible with the view of human life espoused by the Ku Klux Klan."

Midway Baptists show new film

Why should we pray? How should we pray? For what should we pray? What is unanswered prayer? These are questions that will be brought forth in a film to be shown at Midway Baptist Church at 7 p.m. Sunday.

The ECRF Film Studio presents its newest release "The Power of Prayer."

The opening moments of the film are spent in Israel, examining thousands of years of Jewish history and how they pertain to prayer.

"The Power of Prayer" features Christian spokesmen such as, Dr. W.A. Criswell, Dr. Joh F. Walvoord, Josh and Dottie McDowell, Chaplain Ray and Dr. and Mrs. Howard Hendricks.

These men and women will be explaining their beliefs as to the how and why of the prayer. They'll also share their own personal experiences of the times of victory, frustration and confusion. The public is invited.

Ackerly has school slated

The First Baptist Church of Ackerly, will have their annual Vacation Bible School May 30-June 3.

The school will begin each morning at 9 a.m. and continue until 11 a.m. There will be classes for children three years old through sixth grade. All area children are invited, according to the Rev. Don Long, pastor.

Evangel temple honors couple

The James Smith family were guests of honor Sunday evening at a surprise going away party hosted by the Evangel Temple Assembly of God Church, 2205 Goliad.

The party was given in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Each table was decorated with white table covers and red streamers. The head table's centerpiece was a black wrought iron candelabra with red voite cups and candles.

The serving buffet tables were decorated with white cloths, and a crystal punch-bowl with red fruit punch, and red floating candles adorned each table.

Rev. and Mrs. Don Terry Wilson presented the Smith family with a walnut-grain wall clock crafted in the shape of a dove with gold lettering, in behalf of the church family. Smith has served as educational superintendent of the Sunday School. Mrs. Smith has taught a Sunday School class and has sponsored the Daisy and Prim girls clubs. Smith is retiring from the Air Force the later part of this month. They will be moving to Port Neches.

DEDICATED SERVICE

I urge you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living and holy sacrifice, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service of worship.

And do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, that you may prove what the will of God is, that which is good and acceptable and perfect ...

Let love be without hypocrisy. Abhor what is evil; cling to what is good.

Be devoted to one another in brotherly love; give preference to one another in honor;

not lagging behind in diligence, fervent in spirit, SERVING THE LORD; ...

Girls' State delegates attend Lubbock banquet

Delegates to Bluebonnet Girls State and their parents were guests at a banquet and orientation session Friday night, hosted by the 19th District American Legion Auxiliary.

The banquet was held at the Big Texan Steak Ranch in Lubbock. Attending from Howard County were Miss Andra Hohertz, Big Spring High School delegate, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daryle Hohertz; Miss Karon Calley, delegate from Forsan High, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Calley. Also attending were Mrs. Bill Bodin, girls State chairman, Miss Terri Boyett, Miss Tressa Hohertz and Miss Shanna Hohertz. Miss Brenda McDonald, delegate from Coahoma High, was unable to attend.

The delegates were selected by their schools on a basis of character and potential leadership as well as scholastic achievement. Girls' State is slated June 14-24 at Texas Lutheran College in Sequin. Bluebonnet Girls State is a mythical 51st state operating its own government. Each girl attending will be assigned to serve on the Senate or House of Representatives. Officers are elected to every office corresponding to city, county and state government.

Two delegates will be elected by the girls to attend Girls Nation, which will be held in Washington, D.C.

The orientation at the banquet was conducted by Mrs. C.G. McKinzie, Lubbock, 19th district Girls State Chairman. She explained that there will be 550 girls attending the event this year. Assisting with the orientation was Miss Linda Raper, who served as Lt. Governor at Girls State in 1975, and will return as a counselor this year.

Rainbow initiation rite conducted Tuesday

An initiation rite was conducted Tuesday evening for the Big Spring Assembly 60, Order of the Rainbow for Girls. The event was held in the Masonic Temple with Miss Leilani Thomas, worthy advisor, presiding.

Miss Kim Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson, and Miss Mandy Barriball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Barriball, received the degree of the Order.

Miss Mary Jane Wright, junior member of the grand music committee, and Miss Marla Williams, grand musician, both of the Grand Assembly of Texas, were introduced. Miss Williams and her father attended the meeting from Abilene.

Miss Donna Reynolds and Miss Danna Reynolds are two members of the assembly that will be moving to Port Neches.

The assembly will have an installation of officers at 8 p.m. June 4 in the Masonic Temple. Study classes will be held from 2-4 p.m. Saturday.

Maple-Lee Fine Furniture Polish

Maple-Lee gives fine furniture the beautiful luster of superior waxing . . . with none of the tedious work. Maple-Lee removes smudges, stains, dust and leaves a gleaming wax finish. Excellent for any type of surface: table and counter tops, porcelain, chrome, plastic and ceramic tile.

Recommended for maple, pine, cherry, walnut, mahogany, and all other fine furniture woods. Maple-Lee cleans and waxes in one easy operation. Just spray and wipe. No waiting. No rubbing. No need to change polish cloths.

Polishes all woods—all surfaces

Wants Freedom For May-Dec. Affair

DEAR ABBY: I am a 53-year-old man who is very much in love with a 22-year-old girl. I know you think I'm crazy, but this girl really loves me. She even broke up with a young, good-looking man just for me. She worked for me for a short time, but we didn't want any talk around the place, so I had her quit.

My problem is my wife. She won't give me a divorce. Our children are grown, and I offered my wife a very good settlement, which she refused.

Abby, my girlfriend is the sweetest, most unspoiled girl in the world. She is just the opposite of my wife. She appreciates every little thing I've given her, like a small, inexpensive car, some clothes and taking care of her mother's hospital bill. I would gladly give up my last dime to be free to marry this girl. How can I get my wife to give in?

LONG ISLANDER

DEAR ISLANDER: Make her a better offer. She might surprise you. But don't "give up your last dime" for your freedom because that "sweet, unspoiled girl" might also surprise you and disappear when she discovers you're broke.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 28-year-old, college-educated man who takes a ping-pong ball to bed with him every night and keeps bouncing it off the wall and catching it until he gets tired enough to fall asleep? That's my husband.

He claims it "relieves tension." We have been married for two years, and he started this foolishness about six months ago. I have even considered leaving this nut!

PING-PONG PROBLEM

DEAR PING: Your husband is inconsiderate to relieve his tension in a manner that adds to yours. Suggest that he tell his troubles to a doctor before you tell yours to a lawyer.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Pre-nuptial parties conducted for couple

A series of pre-nuptial parties have been conducted for Miss Glynna Jones and Drew Mouton, who will be married June 4.

A Mexican dinner was held May 21 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Robb. The tables were decorated with faces made of inverted clay pots, paint and paper flowers. Cohosts included Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shaffer and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bill Little.

The Borden County ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Rich Anderson was the site of a dinner honoring the couple May 23. Guests were seated at round tables under the trees. Each table was centered with an arrangement of spring flowers and candles. Hosts included the Andersons, Mr. and Mrs. James Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gossett, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Jones, Mr. and Mrs. George McAlister, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McLaughlin, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Newsom.

Others were Dr. and Mrs. Milton Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. R.H. Weaver.

Miss Jones was the honoree at a kitchen shower May 24 in the home of Mrs. Kimball Guthrie. Co-hostesses included Ms. Kim Guthrie and Mrs. Jimmie Jones. A silk flower arrangement centered the polished wood serving table.

Out-of-town guests for the parties included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mouton, Kerrville; Mrs. Milton Talbot, Miss Anne Talbot, Mrs. Steve Hiatt, Mrs. Mike Arias, all of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Randy Hahn, Dallas; and Mrs. Sally Jeter, College Station.

Salad supper

The home of Mrs. Debbie Larson, 1805 Grafa, was the site of a salad supper and business meeting for members of Alpha Kappa Omicron, Beta Sigma Phi, Monday evening.

Phi Pals were revealed. Gifts were exchanged.

Officers for the coming year were installed. They include Mrs. Larson, president; Mrs. Juanice Archer, vice-president; Ms. Cheri Shoup, recording secretary; Ms. Ceil Bedell, treasurer; and Ms. Cynthia Zertuche, corresponding secretary.

Plans were made for a summer social.

Party held

Senior members of the Big Spring High School Meistersingers were honored with a swimming party Monday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beil, 502 Highland Dr.

Co-hosting the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wheeler.

Hamburgers and home made ice cream were served to approximately 20 guests.

Garden tips program topic

Mrs. Odell Womack was hostess and speaker for the Rosebud Garden Club luncheon, held at the Big Spring Country Club.

Subject of Mrs. Womack's speech was "What to do with Mother's Day Mums." Her tips for gardening included a cure for plant fungus which causes plants to rot at ground line. Local nurseries stock fungicide which will eliminate this problem.

Presiding over business meeting, Mrs. Tommy Hubbard appointed Mrs. Clyde Thomas to oversee the planting of a tree in the local area.

Mrs. Womack, president of the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs, requested assistance in citizen's patrol in restraining litterers in the city. She stated that several citations have been given for littering and vandalism. Club members voted to assist the council in replanting containers in downtown area.

The club named officers for 1977-1978 term. They are Mrs. Tommy Hubbard, president; Mrs. Stanley Haney, vice president; Mrs. Tommy Hart, secretary; Mrs. J.E. McMurray, treasurer; and Mrs. Neil Spencer, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Weldon Bigony was guest.

Center Point HD Club hears Mrs. Sue Holguin

The Center Point Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. D.H. Griffith.

Guests included Mrs. G.W. Birell, Mrs. J.F. Skalicky, Mrs. Nadine Hodnett and Mrs. Otto Couch.

Mrs. Sue Holguin was guest speaker. She discussed glass inking. She suggested using stencil designs and using various colors when inking on glass.

Mrs. James Petty conducted the business meeting. She said 12 dozen cookies were needed for the State Hospital patients on June 6, and members of the HD Club are requested to donate cookies.

The annual picnic for patients at the State Hospital was slated for August.

The county-wide salad luncheon for all Home Demonstration Club members and guests will be hosted by the Center Point HD Club at 11 a.m. June 14 in Kentwood Center. Members are asked to bring salads. Mrs. Jane Thomas will present a book review.

It was also announced that the Simplicity Pattern Company is sponsoring a style show at the Howard County Senior Citizens Center at 7 p.m. June 2. The center is located in the north annex of the First Presbyterian Church. There is no admission charge, and door prizes will be given.

Mrs. Olga Stamp won the door prize at the Tuesday meeting. The next meeting is at 2 p.m. June 28 in the Kentwood Older Adult Center. Mrs. Mattie Wren and Ms. Inez Petty are hostesses.

Good news for welfare families, profs

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The $15.5 billion state budget passed by lawmakers Thursday isn't just a big, shapeless hunk of cash to be spent in some ill-defined way over the next two years.

It means something definite, concrete, for welfare families, college professors, state employes, convicts, minor offenders and even so-called gays on state university campuses.

A House-Senate conference committee produced the compromise measure, and both chambers approved it Thursday. Gov. Dolph Briscoe has the right to line out parts he doesn't like but must do so by June 19.

Briscoe said Thursday that he feels the 28 per cent hike — from $12.1 billion to $15.5 billion — is justified by the state's increased income, but indicated that he would make some adjustments.

A rider directs state university administrations to use "all reasonable, legal means possible" to prevent homosexual organizations from using campus facilities.

Missing this time is a rider dictating minimum teaching loads for university professors. But the universities and the Texas College Coordinating board have orders to give full information on just how hard professors work to a joint committee that will make recommendations to the 1979 legislature.

The estimated 147,000 state employes are due for 3.4 per cent pay raises in both 1978 and 1979 at a cost to the state of $140 million.

In addition, the state will pick up the employes' share of social security payments on salaries up to $16,500 beginning in 1979. That will cost another $64.7 million.

Welfare families would have their monthly Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) payments raised from $32 to $37 per child under the proposal. The increase costs $13 million.

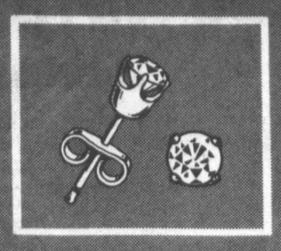

A contingency fund of $12 million was also set aside to cover any minimum wage hikes for employes in state welfare-supported nursing homes.

The prison system received $40 million for an inmate hospital in Galveston that will double as a teaching hospital for the University of Texas Branch there. Another $38 million was budgeted for additional prisons.

Funds totaling $19.7 million were appropriated for a new statewide adult probation system that includes aid to local probation offices and other forms of community-based corrections.

More than $20 million was appropriated to buy land for new state parks and develop existing ones.

DA says disbarment suit unfair

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Like Shakespeare's Shylock, Palestine Dist. Atty. Billy Ray Green protests that he is a man like other men, so he should be able to use all of the appeal process that is available to others.

"Why can't I be entitled to the same constitutional grounds of due process and to the same treatment within the judicial system as anybody else?" Green told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview Thursday.

The Anderson County Bar Association brought a disbarment suit against him Wednesday within hours of his sentence on conviction of public lewdness. The procedure that allows a bar association to file such a suit after having acted as judge in the investigation needs to be challenged, Green said.

County Court at Law Judge Brock Jones fined Green $400 and gave him a 10-day probated jail sentence.

He could not resign in the face of a disbarment suit because that would be admitting guilt, Green said.

He said the bar's grievance committee invited him to appear before it during its investigation but he had to decline.

"There is no way that we could have due process of law on criminal charges and at the same time attempt to answer premature allegations by the bar association . . . We could not avail ourselves of one without jeopardizing the other," he said.

"You're talking about taking a person's livelihood. You're talking about taking their license to practice law. And to hastily jump into a matter such as that, that's like saying, 'We'll give you the death penalty today, and you can appeal tomorrow,' and if we execute you, what good, what type of fairness is the State Bar putting out that way?" he said.

"What galls me is once they put this cart forward before the ox, so to speak, is that there is no way of striking it out down the road.

Degree awarded to Miss Posey

Miss Elizabeth Ann Posey of Dallas was recently awarded her master of science degree in guidance and counseling from SMU.

She is a 1970 honor graduate of Big Spring High School and received her bachelor of science degree in special education from Texas Tech in 1974. She has been employed with the Dallas Independent School District in the Special Education Department for the past three years.

Miss Posey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow W. Posey of Hillsboro, former longtime residents of Big Spring.

OC trustees to issue bonds

ODESSA — Odessa College trustees have decided to issue revenue bonds for the purchase of Parker-Downs dormitory, but only after all local financial establishments are contacted to make bids.

Ector Shopping Center Inc., currently owns the property. College officials have made arrangements with National Bank of Odessa to finance the bonds at six per cent interest.

The bonds are to be paid off in 15 years in the amount of $190,000. The dorm has 52 rooms.

THROUGH the fieldglasses

There'll be some changes made

You will notice that the Little League results look a little different in today's paper. That is a new format I have devised to solve a few problems that have cropped up recently in reporting the games.

First of all, let me assure you managers and most especially players, that all the information given to me will be used. It will just look different.

There are basically two reasons for this change. First, and most important, the luxury of adequate space in a newspaper this size is non-existant. That's no one's fault really, that's just the way it is. I've yelled and screamed and have finally realized that you can't squeeze blood out of a 12-page paper.

The diversity of sporting news covered in my section has suffered recently because of lack of space. Therefore, so that I can still keep the local baseball covered daily, and have more room for other local and national stories and pictures, I have changed the look of the coverage.

The coverage is still extensive and I believe it should be for one major reason . . . the kids. The game is for the kids. And that brings me to the other reason for the change.

Adults, acting like kids, have called, come down to see me, backbitten and more or less complained since the start of the season about one thing or another . . . headlines, their team didn't get as long a story as another, etc.

Those complaints don't bother me, but the time that they take away from my morning effort to get out the sports page does. Therefore, to make everyone equal in the eyes of everyone else, and hopefully to calm the soreheads, the baseball results will be reported in the manner in which they appear today . . . no flamboyant script, no punny heads, just straight reporting. Hope you're satisfied.

First million dollar Cowboy

Tony Dorsett

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboy Head Coach Tom Landry says there's no need to draft the top guy if a team isn't willing to pay high salaries and newly signed Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett is a millionaire because of the Cowboys' willingness.

Dorsett, who led the University of Pittsburgh to the top of the college football ladder last season, signed his name Thursday in Pittsburgh to a contract reportedly worth more than $1 million.

"I'm thrilled about the whole idea," said Dorsett. "Like I said at the draft, I was overwhelmed to be selectd by the Cowboys. To make it official makes it all the more pleasing."

Dorsett will be the first million-dollar player for the Cowboys of the National Football League.

As to Dorsett's instant wealth, Landry said, "I don't think it'll bother the other people on our club because paying the high salaries is not uncommon in this era."

Dorsett signed the contract in the office of his attorney, Harvey Eger while his agent Mike Trope and Dallas Cowboy vice president Gil Brandt watched.

Neither the Cowboys nor Dorsett would discuss terms of the contract. But Trope said Dorsett "got what I consider a fair market value. Tony got an excellent contract and the Cowboys got an excellent player."

Earlier, Trope had negotiated a multi-year, $1.2 million contract for Southern California star Ricky Bell with Tampa Bay.

"I am not going to say that Dorsett's contract is above or below Bell's contract," Trope said adding that the five-year figure for the duration of the contract "was in the neighborhood."

Dorsett was drafted by the Cowboys this year after a deal with the Seattle Seahawks that involved several draft choices going to Seattle.

Dorsett said he hoped his speed would help him get a starting job with the team next season.

"I have seen the Cowboys," he said. "They have excellent personnel and it is not going to be easy. I have to work and win a starting job. I am also going to have to be going through a learning process. They have a very sophisticated offensive system.

"But if they want a running back, maybe that will help me. I don't know what they are looking for in the way of offense, but I think I can contribute something.

"I am optimistic."

The Cowboys' longest run from scrimmage last year was 24 yards.

Dorsett said the Cowboys also were gaining a large group of fans in Pittsburgh — "my family and friends. It used to be that Pittsburgh was our number one team and then the Cowboys, but now it is Dallas first."

Dorsett has added something. Cowboy officials said Wednesday that the possibility of signing the Pittsburgh All-America had spurred Cowboys season ticket sales this month and renewals also were up.

Dorsett signed the contract and immediately left "for the bank" according to Trope.

Asked the first thing he would do with the money, Dorsett said, "Buy my mother a house. I want to make my parents secure financially."

Bibby, 76ers soar

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — They're playing defense, they're passing the ball, they're setting up the open man — the Philadelphia 76ers are doing their best to ruin their reputations.

"People put us down all the time," said playmaker Henry Bibby. "They say we're a bunch of one-on-one players, we can't play team ball, we don't execute our plays well, we can't do the job on defense.

"They keep saying it — but we keep winning."

Bibby was the sparkplug in Philadelphia's lopsided 107-89 triumph over the Portland Trail Blazers Thursday night, a victory which gave the 76ers a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series. The series resumes Sunday at Portland.

Bibby scored 15 points and handed out six assists in the first half, when the 76ers took an 18-point lead with a racehorse offense and shackling defense. Portland never was really in the game after being outscored 30-17 in the second period, and came no closer than 12 points in the second half.

The game was marred by a fourth-quarter melee which saw both squads engage in a free-for-all and about 100 spectators join in. The main combatants were Darryl Dawkins of Philadelphia and Maurice Lucas of Portland, two of the heaviest of heavyweights, both of whom were ejected. The only casualty was Philadelphia guard Doug Collins, who tried to act as peacemaker and got socked by Dawkins for his effort.

The game itself was one-sided, as Collins led the 76ers with 27 points and Julius Erving had 20. Philadelphia led 31-26 after the first quarter, then broke it open in the second period by hitting 13 of 24 shots while limiting Portland to just six of 27. It was 61-43 at the half and really no contest after that.

As in the series opener, won by Philadelphia 107-101, the 76ers' defensive discipline was a key factor. The 76ers shut off Portland's fast break, then took away the Blazers' inside game, forcing them to take shots from the perimeter instead. And Portland is not a good perimeter shooting team.

"A lot of people think that we're a bunch of renegades," said Erving. "They think that a good, well-drilled team can run us apart. We are trying to prove them wrong.

"Portland is very singular in its offensive strategy. There is one basic play they like to run 75 per cent of the time — they set up Walton in the pivot and then try to free their cutters for layups. We know this, we've drilled against it and we've been able to stop it. We've forced them to do things they don't want to do, like shoot from outside."

Get what you pay for?

By the Associated Press

The best things in life are free ... free agents who did not cost millions of dollars and in some cases are producing more than those who did.

For example, Bill Veeck of the Chicago White Sox probably did not have to dip beyond petty cash to sign Royle Stillman, Steve Stone, Eric Soderholm and Tim Nordbrook, who have had plenty to do with the Sox' surprising second-place standing in the American League West.

The financially strapped Veeck settled for that quartet because he could not afford such big names as Reggie Jackson, Joe Rudi, Don Gullett, etc. You don't hear him complaining, do you?

Certainly not after Thursday's 4-3 triumph over the Milwaukee Brewers in which Stone and Stillman played prominent parts. Stone pitched seven strong innings for his fourth consecutive victory while Stillman doubled home one run and scored another as the Sox took a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning. Soderholm and Nordbrook did not get into the game but are hitting .315 and .300, respectively.

The Sox success was the only game in the American League. In the National, the Los Angeles Dodgers shaded the Houston Astros 4-3 in 10 innings, the San Francisco Giants edged the Cincinnati Reds 6-5, the Chicago Cubs nipped the Montreal Expos 1-0, the St. Louis Cardinals topped the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 in 10 innings and the Atlanta Braves whipped the San Diego Padres 8-3.

Giants 6, Reds 5

Terry Whitfield's fourth hit of the game, a single in the eighth inning, drove home Vic Harris with the winning run. The Giants lost starting pitcher John Montefusco, who suffered a badly sprained left ankle running out a bunt in the second inning, but got effective relief pitching in winning their fourth straight game.

Gary Lavelle, who has pitched in all four victories, was the winner while Randy Moffitt earned a save.

Cubs 1, Expos 0

Rookie right-hander Mike Krukow hurled a four-hitter for his first major league shutout and complete game and even scored the only run when Bobby Murcer drew a bases-loaded walk from Steve Rogers with two out in the sixth inning.

Cardinals 4, Phillies 3

Dave Rader's two-out single in the ninth inning tied the score and Garry Templeton's run-scoring two-out single off second baseman Ted Sizemore's glove in the 10th won it. Templeton's hit followed a leadoff double by Tony Scott and two walks, which loaded the bases.

Braves 8, Padres 3

Tom Paciorek hit a tie-breaking two-run homer in the fifth inning and Jeff Burroughs clouted another two-run shot in the sixth. Meanwhile, Andy Messersmith pitched seven innings and stopped the Padres on four hits.

Los Angeles nips Astros

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dusty Baker's sacrifice fly in the bottom of the 10th inning gave Los Angeles a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros Thursday night, extending the Dodgers' lead in the National League West to 12½ games over the world champion Cincinnati Reds.

Ron Cey led off the 10th with a walk off loser Ken Forsch, 4-3, who took over for starter J.R. Richard. Forsch fanned Steve Garvey, but Rick Monday singled Cey to third and pinch runner Lee Lacy raced home with the winning run on Baker's fly to short right.

Mike Garman, 2-0, earned the victory after Burt Hooton hurled the first nine innings for Los Angeles.

NEW YORK — A settlement was reached with the New York Mets baseball team, the New York Jets football team and the National Football League which will allow the Jets to play additional home games at Shea Stadium.

Baylor beats Privateers

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — It's that good old college try in the NCAA South Regional baseball playoffs, but one of the top players is already seeing visions of dollar signs in the upcoming major league baseball draft.

Slugging shortstop Merk Naehring of Miami of Ohio was asked shortly after his game-winning homer over Lamar-University Thursday if he was going to play his senior year for the Redskins in 1978.

"Hopefully not," said Naehring, who has a career batting average of .363 and a slugging percentage of .579.

The 6-foot-3, 175-pound Naehring has the pro scouts drooling.

"I'll sign after the June draft depending on the dollars," said the Cincinnati native, taking his cue from the millions being paid players in the big leagues. "I'll sign if the money is there and I think I can play for anybody who wants to take me. I think I can beat anybody out."

Naehring certainly will get no argument from Lamar which lost 1-0 on his ninth homer and 50th RBI of the year in the ninth inning. The ball hit the top of the wall in Arlington Stadium and bounced over.

Baylor banged out 15 hits including a three-run homer by centerfielder Shane Nolan in a 10-1 victory over the Privateers.

Naehring, who was an 18th round draft choice three years ago by Baltimore when he came out of high school, and Baylor shortstop Steve Macko, have drawn the most raves from the proscouts.

"I'm here looking at Naehring and Mack," said Paul Richards who was the manager at Chicago last year.

"I want to play pro ball and I don't care who drafts me," said Naehring.

Macko, a senior who was the Southwest Conference Player of the Year with a .417 batting average, said "I hope the Texas Rangers take me."

Macko's father is Joe Macko, equipment manager for the American League team.

Baylor centerfielder Shane Nolen was the hitting star for the Bears with a three-run second-inning homer as lefty Burl Coker (11-4) coasted to the victory. Coker was replaced in the seventh inning after the Bears had built a 10-0 lead.

New Orleans' ace Roger Erickson (8-2) took the brunt of the Baylor pounding.

NMJC signs 6-4 Watson

HOBBS, N.M. — New Mexico Junior College has signed 6-4 guard-forward Gerald Watson of Washington, D.C., to a basketball grant-in-aid.

Watson played with another NMJC signee, 6-10 Red Camp, at Macklin High in Washington. Watson averaged 15 points and seven rebounds a game last season.

Snyder wins bi-district

BURKBURNETT — Snyder won its bi-district series with Burkburnett here Thursday by defeating the resident team, 5-4.

Snyder, now 20-10 on the year, will take on the survivor in the Pecos-Canyon series in Regional finals. The Tigers scored four unearned runs in the third inning.

Ricky Beard pitched the win, rationing out five hits to the losers.

Hole-in-one sends Graham into lead

ATLANTA (AP) — Australian David Graham has his theory about how much a hole-in one helps a golfer during a round.

"If you are six over par, I don't think it does that much for you," he said. "You can play one hole and you make a big jump."

Graham made a big jump Thursday when he wedged his tee shot into the cup on the 135-yard, par-three 13th hole and bolted into a share of the lead in the storm-delayed opening round of the $200,000 Atlanta Classic Golf Tournament with a four-under-par 68.

He was tied with three others at that figure — Mac McLendon, Dave Eichelberger and John Schroeder — while 57 other competitors were forced to complete their round today when lightning forced suspension at 5:26 p.m., EDT, Thursday and an ultimate postponement 78 minutes later.

Three players stood at four under when play was stopped — former U.S. Open champion Lou Graham and defending champion Hale Irwin, each with three holes left, and PGA champ Dave Stockton, with one hole to go.

At three under were Jerry McGee, with two to play, and Tommy Aaron, with one hole remaining.

One shot off the pace were Gary McCord and Duke Butler, each with 69s over the hilly terrain of the 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course, while Jack Nicklaus headed a group at 70 that included Steve Veriato, Don Baker, Orville Moody, DeWitt Weaver, Bob Eastwood, Alan Tapie and Lon Hinkle.

"I was just coasting along and the next minute I'm four under," Graham said of the ace. "It hit about eight feet above the hole. It had a little juice on it. It just sucked back in the hole."

The mad Hungarian must be more than mere nickname for flipped-out Al Hrabosky. When ballplayer challenges manager Vern Rapp's authority while Cardinals are going so well, it comes off as pure selfish act.

And where is union's responsibility in such matters? If man doesn't obey manager, club should be able to file grievance with Marvin Miller.

That's two straight wins for commish, other being Charley Finley Case. What Kuhn needs now is court victory over a player, to make him Commissioner of Baseball, not just commissioner of baseball owners.

Has Rawlings produced juiced up baseball in its first year of manufacture? Both leagues looking for answer via tests at U of Mizzoo, Rolla Campus. Home run production is up 25 per cent. Some people say reason is AL expansion, which waters down pitching staffs — but that doesn't explain sharp increase in NL run-making. Whatever reason, oh Lords of Baseball, don't change it. Your game needs offense.

'A' FOR AWFUL — Lamar Cardinals leftfielder Luis Collazo looks down at a home run ball that bounced back onto the field during ninth inning action against the Miami of Ohio Redskins Thursday in first round action of the NCAA South Central Regional Baseball Tournament. Miamis Mark Naehring had hit the only homer to produce the only run of the game as the Redskins won 1-0.

Foyt, Unser— 500 picks

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A.J. Foyt, in his 10th try for a record fourth victory, and Al Unser, who walked away from a brush with death last weekend, rate as co-favorites in Sunday's 61st running of the Indianapolis 500.

In the annual Associated Press poll of drivers, mechanics, officials and newsmen following carburetion tests Thursday, Foyt and the younger Unser brother were paired off at 4-1 odds.

The poll also gave a rookie, Danny Ongais, the best odds for any first-year driver in many years at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Fifteen drivers in the 33-car lineup were given odds of 10-1 or better, a reflection on the number of new cars in the race.

Foyt, who poll members think may be closer to an important decision concerning his future than other people might think, is considered the best prepared driver in the field, even though he has spent less time at Indy this month than any other driver.

Unser, who plowed into the wall at 215 miles per hour last Saturday, should find improved luck Sunday. Starting on the front row, the two-time winner has one good ride in his Parnelli-Cosworth, which is proven at the speedway — a claim no one else who is running a Cosworth at Indy this year can make.

Here are the odds, and the "morning line" comments:

5-1, Pancho Carter — no one ever has won Indy starting in eighth place, but his new Eagle is flying. Probably less fuel worries than any other car.

6-1, Gordon Johncock — ran 200.4 in Goodyear tire tests in March; won't go 200 Sunday, but should go 500 easily.

7-1, Wally Dallenbach — solid, good. If you want to bet show, this is the bet. Mario Andretti — would be rated much higher if there was more confidence in his Cosworth engine; best in class.

8-1, Bobby Unser — no question about ability, but with a new car; a proven engine is a plus. Johnny Rutherford — new car, new engine, but a proven team; can click if mechanically okay.

9-1, Danny Ongais — the dark horse ... if Indy ever had one, he is it; likes to lead if he can, or break it trying. Johnny Parsons — best ride he ever has had; equipment is proven, time to prove driver. Mike Mosley — so quiet you will never know he already is in Victory Lane.

12-1, George Snider — lots of experience, but he will need it with his car.

13-1, Clay Regazzoni — any rookie who completes his driver's test at 191 has to have some ability; car is basically sound; is team?

Bill Vukovich — is Sunday the first day of the rest of his life?; may not be a "backup" on this team for long. Tom Sneva — the pole position winner is plenty fast enough, but will his Cosworth make him a spectator before it is over?

10-1, Roger McCluskey-Lloyd Ruby — throw a blanket over these guys; if they have a party Sunday night, it will last until next year.

Mr. and Mrs. jockey split

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — They say a passion for the sport of thoroughbred racing can break up a marriage. Dena Popara is living proof, but the woman jockey's story is a horse of a different color.

Miss Popara blames her divorce earlier this year from her jockey husband on a State Racing Commission rule banning husband-wife teams from riding in the same race.

"There were other problems, but the argument over who would be taken off a horse in a race was the major factor in our splitting up," she says.

The commission's rule applies only to husband-wife combinations, but allows brothers, father-sons and other family combinations to compete in the same race, says Al Popara, Dena's father and manager of the state jockeys' guild.

"Personally I don't think it's a very fair rule," senior Popara said.

Dena, a 22-year-old now riding at Louisiana Downs in Shreveport, ran headlong into the rule while racing with her husband at Delta Downs in Vinton, La., during the 1973-74 season, according to Robert Forest, publicity director at the Shreveport racetrack.

If husband and wife are scheduled to ride in the same race, one must cancel or else both will be dropped, said Forest. He said neither Dena nor her husband, Frank Bogle, wanted to bow out, and arguments over who would volunteer to sit out a race eventually led to separation in 1974.

ERVING BLOCKS WALTON — Sixers' Julius Erving (6) bats Portland Trail Blazers' Bill Walton shot away from basket Thursday night during NBA playoff action at Philadelphia. Philadelphia won the game, 107-89, and now leads two games to none in the best of seven championship playo series.

Pastorini cleared

LIBERTY, Tex. (AP) — Houston Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini has been cleared of criminal responsibility by a Liberty County grand jury concerning a racing boat accident that killed two persons and injured seven others last Sunday.

Liberty County Sheriff Buck Eckols, who investigated the accident at Lake Mizzel, already called the incident "an unavoidable accident."

Pastorini has been unavailable for comment since the accident.

Liberty County Dist. Atty. W.G. Woods said Thursday's grand jury ruling carried the same effect as a no bill.

Pastorini was piloting a racing boat when it went out of control as it crossed the finish line following a high-speed drag race on Lake Mizzel.

The boat struck the shoreline at a speed estimated at 100 miles per hour, became airborne for 101 feet and stopped after crashing into three parked vehicles.

State abortion bill breaks court rules?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Parts of a House-passed bill limiting the right to abortions conflict with U.S. Supreme court decisions, Atty. Gen. John Hill says.

Hill gave his views in a letter requested by Rep. John Wilson, D-La Grange, chairman of the House Committee on Health and Welfare.

Sen. A. R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, has delayed action by his Senate Jurisprudence Committee pending Hill's opinion.

The bill makes it a penitentiary offense to commit an abortion past the 22nd week of pregnancy except to save mother or mother or prevent the birth of a genetically defective baby.

It also says that if an abortion is performed past the 20th week, a physician must be standing by to rescue a fetus that is born alive.

Ma Bell's charges facing vote

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State representatives take a final vote today on a Senate-passed bill limiting Ma Bell's right to charge extra for directory assistance — or 1411 — calls.

The measure advanced 90-55 Thursday.

It would prohibit telephone companies from charging for directory assistance on long distance numbers, those not listed or incorrectly listed or 1411 calls made from businesses where managers have no control over telephones.

A Texas Public Utility Commission order allows Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to charge 20 cents for each directory assistance call. But you get 10 free ones each month.

Bell's vice-president for Texas, Doyle Rogers, said if the bill becomes law, the company would just stop charging for directory assistance calls rather than cull out the ones for which no charge could be made.

"If we should be forced to implement provisions of the bill, the cost would be approximately $61 million," Rogers said.

Rep. Ron Bird, D-San Antonio, the sponsor, said more than half the states don't allow charges for directory assistance calls. And that's only right, he said, because 40 per cent of the listings are incorrect by the time customers receive their annual telephone book.

"Who is responsible for not keeping your phone directory updated? You're not. Your constituents aren't," he said.

But Rep. John Wilson, D-La Grange, who took on Ma Bell last session in fighting for creation of the utility commission, opposed the bill.

Only five per cent of Bell's customers have had to pay for directory assistance calls since new rates took effect in December, he said.

He said the Communications Workers of America had lobbied the bill through to create more jobs for operators and other telephone company employes.

"Who is going to pay for those jobs? The rate payers — for service they don't use, to provide a service for lazy people who won't look it up in the telephone book," Wilson said.

Military immune from litigation

SAN DIEGO (AP)—A judge says a $21 million suit by parents of a Marine fatally injured in pugil stick training cannot be heard because the military is immune from such litigation.

The ruling Thursday came in a suit stemming from the death of Pvt. Lynn E. McClure of Lufkin, Tex., who was injured while undergoing bout after bout with the sticks, or wooden staves.

The case triggered investigations at the U.S. Marine Corps Recruit Depot that led to courtmartial proceedings against a series of officers and non-coms.

McClure, 20, received serious head injuries in December, 1975, and died three months later at a Verterans Administration Hospital in Houston without regaining consciousness.

U. S. District Court Judge William B. Enright said the suit by Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Calhoun of Lufkin, McClure's mother and stepfather, is ineligible for hearing because of the 27-year-old Feres Doctrine, which says the military cannot be sued for the injuries or death of a member of the armed forces.

The parents' wrongful death suit insisted the Feres Doctrine did not apply because McClure was mentally incompetent, which they claimed Marine Corps would have discovered if it had properly verified his enlistment application.

Boy found safe in Mexico City

DRIPPING SPRINGS, Tex. (AP) — An 11-year-old boy was back home in this South Texas town today two weeks after he was seen getting into a car driven by a man identified by officials as the youth's former babysitter.

FBI officials in San Antonio announced Thursday that the boy, Greg Allen Fluker, had been found safe by authorities in Mexico City.

The boy arrived in San Antonio Thursday evening on a flight from Mexico City. He walked into the arms of his weeping mother, Sarah Brauer.

Joseph E. O'Connell, special agent in charge of the San Antonio FBI division, said his office received word of the youngster's safe recovery about 3 p.m. Thursday.

O'Connell also said young Fluker was found in the company of a Mexican national identified as Victor Raul Alvarado, who had been the family babysitter for six months before leaving three months ago.

Kidnaping charges were filed against Alvarado when the child disappeared.

Officials said they would push for extradition of Alvarado to face charges here.
