LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Some say art imitates life. But can lint constitute art? Absolutely, says Slater Barron, who has been turning lumps of lint into objects of art since 1974. She creates room-sized sculptures with the stuff most people wad up and throw away.

"It's almost like sculpting with clay," the artist said in a recent interview.

Inspiration began as an intrusion, said Ms. Barron, a design and drawing instructor at Brooks College in Long Beach and at the University of California, Riverside.

"Most people would rather not be bothered by laundry and dirty lint but I tried to turn something negative into something positive," she recalls.

"Every time I'd start to paint, the dryer would buzz" signaling the end of its cycle, she recalled. "I didn't mind going out to change the wash if it would help me make art."

The 56-year-old artist has been featured in exhibitions in Los Angeles, Long Beach and Laguna Beach. Her last show was at Arizona State University in Phoenix.

The three-dimensional pieces consist of life-size walls, people and accessories built around narrow wire skeletons.

Bill seeks school bus safety belts

Officials express pro, con views

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas school boards and administrators are opposing seat belts on school buses because they say the belts could cause even more injuries to students in bus accidents.

"Some studies indicate that seat belts on large buses are not only unnecessary but may be dangerous," Johnny Veselka, executive director of the Texas Association of School Administrators, told the Senate Education Committee on Thursday.

The measure to require seat belts and 28-inch padded seat backs on new school buses, by Sen. Gene Green, D-Houston, was left pending until the committee's meeting next week.

A similar bill is pending in a House subcommittee. Rozanne Rubin, Houston, speaking for the Coalition for Seat Belts, said school districts pay as much $100 each for helmets to protect their football players, but balk at $16 per student for seat belts.

"It seems to me it would be worth $16 a year to protect students," said Rozanne Rubin of Houston, speaking for the Coalition for Seat Belts.

ing for the Coalition for Seat Belts.

"Seat belts and high seat backs would prevent the types of injuries that are occurring" said Dr. Sandra Thomas, Belton, representing the Texas Medical Association.

Ms. Thomas said about one million students are transported by school buses each day and about 600 of them are injured each year.

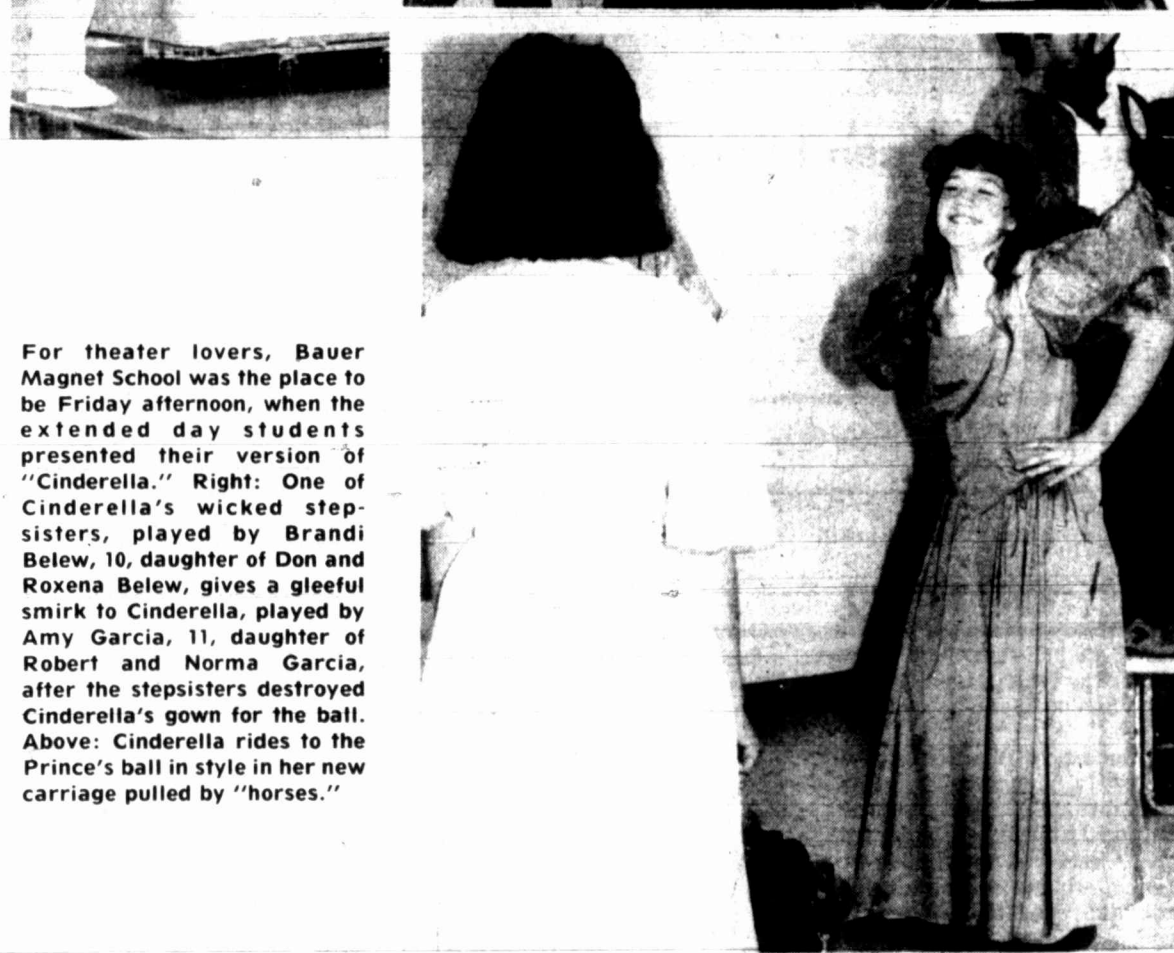

"This bill would reduce standees in buses. It will improve discipline by keeping students in their seats, and it keeps them from being little missiles in a collision," she said.

Veselka said Texas Department of Public Safety statistics show there have been no students killed in school bus accidents in Texas since 1983.

Janis Petronis of Copperas Cove, president-elect of the Texas Association of School Boards, urged the committee to wait for additional research data before requiring school boards to mandate seat belts.

"Pilot studies currently being conducted in Austin and Houston should provide needed data," she said.

"What if seat belts cause more injuries?"

For theater lovers, Bauer Magnet School was the place to be Friday afternoon, when the extended day students presented their version of "Cinderella." Right: One of Cinderella's wicked step-sisters, played by Brandi Belew, 10, daughter of Don and Roxana Belew, gives a gleeful smirk to Cinderella, played by Amy Garcia, 11, daughter of Robert and Norma Garcia, after the stepsisters destroyed Cinderella's gown for the ball. Above: Cinderella rides to the Prince's ball in style in her new carriage pulled by "horses."

SMU board eliminated

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University's Board of Trustees voted Friday to abolish the Board of Governors and replace it with an interim executive committee to protect against the possibility of another damaging football scandal.

"I believe that this will ensure that SMU will never have to go through the agonies of recent months again," said William Hutchison, chairman of the Board of Governors.

Gov. Bill Clements, who resigned as chairman of the Board of Governors before taking office in January, revealed March 3 that he and several other board members learned of payments to SMU football players in 1984 and decided to continue them.

On Feb. 25, the NCAA abolished football at SMU in 1987 because of a booster slush fund that paid $61,000 to 13 players after the school was placed on its sixth probation in August 1985.

"We felt that basically, due to some actions and statements that had taken place, it had probably lost its credibility," Dr. Leighton

Farrell, chairman of SMU's Committee on Governance and a United Methodist pastor, said Friday of the 21-member Board of Governors.

Clements' press secretary, Reggie Bashur, said Friday the governor would have no comment.

The Board of Governors served as an executive committee of the 71-member Board of Trustees, which runs the university. SMU is owned by the United Methodist Church.

The price of oil per barrel was assessed at the price of 16 cents to 16 1/2 cents per barrel at the first of the year, Latham said.

The price is slightly more than an 11-cent decrease from the 1986-87 price per barrel.

"The two main reasons for a decrease in mineral rights valuation is a depletion in oil reserves and a decrease in the price of oil," Latham said.

In 1985-86, mineral valuations were assessed at $916.2 million. This year's valuations decreased to $721.8.

A $209 million valuation decrease could affect county revenues in the amount of $543,000.

Appraisal Group, Inc. of Austin is preliminary, Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira said.

It does not include valuations appraised for the months of October, November and December, he added.

Boyd H. Latham, Jr. of Capitol Appraisal said property sales compared to their market value during those months need to be determined before a final assessed figure can be calculated.

School bus seatbelts useless, officials say

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Requiring safety belts be installed on school buses would be a useless measure because it would be impossible to ensure that the children wore them, at least two local school district superintendents believe.

Bills to require the belts on all new large school buses have been introduced into both houses of the 70th session of the state legislature.

A representative from the office of State Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, said the bill was introduced to the 69th session by Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christie, but didn't pass.

Literature from the Coalition for Seatbelts on School Buses, based in Houston, claims that requiring seatbelts would reduce fatalities and injuries sustained in school bus accidents.

It says that seatbelts would improve discipline on the buses, thus reducing accidents caused by bus driver distraction.

Big Spring Independent School District Superintendent Lynn Hise said that, considering the safety features already required of school bus construction, he doubts seatbelts could significantly improve the safety factor of the buses.

"I don't think it's worthy of the amount of safety it generates," he said. "If anybody knows anything about kids on school buses, it's almost impossible to enforce that they wear a belt."

In addition, unbuckled seat belts "flying around" during an accident could present more of a hazard than not having the belts, he said.

"Any time you mandate something like that, it's almost unenforceable," he said. "It's almost like passing a law that everyone has to exhibit good manners."

Big Spring has about 30 full-size school buses, he said.

Coahoma school district Superintendent Jerry Doyle said "the idea (of installing seatbelts on school buses) isn't bad at all; the problem is getting the kids to wear them."

The bus driver wouldn't have the ability or the time to supervise the children to be sure they wore the belts all the time, he said.

Doyle said he doesn't believe school buses themselves are unsafe. Texas has about one fatal school bus accident a year, he said, and often those are caused by "extenuating circumstances."

An example is an accident in the Wharton school district, where a child threw a volleyball that hit the bus driver, causing a head-on collision with a truck, Doyle said. The truck driver was killed.

"The paying public is generally very good about watching for those big, yellow monsters," he said, and the buses are difficult to turn over.

Funding to provide the belts is an added issue.

The Coalition for Seatbelts on School Buses says the belts could be installed for $1.60 per child per year, a "very little added cost."

Doyle disagrees. He said the Texas Education Association transportation division estimated a cost of $1,000 per bus, including the belt itself and labor. Coahoma has 18 school buses.

"It would cost nearly a penny on the tax rate; the price of a rookie teacher," if the law were to include school buses the district already owns, instead of just the new ones, he said.

Texas law already requires bus drivers wear seatbelts, and that smaller school buses be equipped with the belts.

Probation sentenced, city budget reviewed

For the second time in three weeks, a Howard County jury has ordered 10 years probation for convictions involving the use of deadly weapons.

A district court jury agreed to that sentence early Thursday morning for Pedro Cantu's shooting of Ramon Calderon on Easter Sunday in Comanche Trail Park.

On Feb. 26 Preston Crawford was ordered to serve 10 years probation for his voluntary manslaughter conviction in the Nov. 19, 1985 shooting death of 19-year old Jimmy Yanez.

The four-man, eight-woman jury decided late Wednesday night that the charge against Cantu be reduced from attempted murder to aggravated assault.

They deliberated about 7 1/2 hours before reaching a verdict on Cantu's charge.

After hearing statements from five witnesses including the defendant, jurors deliberated slightly over an hour before reaching their probation sentence decision.

Testimony in the case revealed the defendant previously threatened one of the individuals shot March 30, 1986.

Enrique Calderon told a four-man, eight-woman jury Monday afternoon that Pedro Cantu had threatened him six weeks to two months before Calderon was shot in the leg at Comanche Trail Park on Easter Sunday.

Ramon Calderon, 40, 1512 Harding St., was shot in the face moments after his brother Enrique was hit, Ramon testified.

He suffers permanent blindness as a result of the shooting, he said.

• The city utility fund budget picture is not as grim as officials had thought, Councilmen learned Wednesday.

City Finance Director Tom Ferguson told Councilmen at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon that projected figures show the fund to have $375,000 more than was previously calculated.

Ferguson had said the fund would have a $460,000 deficit this year if revenues don't increase or expenses decrease.

However, he said he inadvertently used the wrong figures to calculate projected revenues. He used the former water bill base rate of $5.75 instead of the current $9 base, he said.

The revised budget figures show the city expects to collect $4,593,200 in utility revenues, and expects to spend $4,678,945 in operations and maintenance and capital expenditures.

The city plans to use money from the reserve fund to supplement utility costs, which include the water and sewer systems.

Mineral value drop on county agenda

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Howard County Commissioners are expected Monday morning to discuss declining mineral properties values that could affect revenues for the upcoming 1987-88 fiscal budget.

County Tax Assessor/Collector Dorothy Moore said Friday afternoon she will tell commissioners that the county's mineral rights assessed valuation is estimated to decrease approximately $209 million.

However, the figure assessed by Capitol

Appraisal Group, Inc. of Austin is preliminary, Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira said.

It does not include valuations appraised for the months of October, November and December, he added.

Boyd H. Latham, Jr. of Capitol Appraisal said property sales compared to their market value during those months need to be determined before a final assessed figure can be calculated.

The price of oil per barrel was assessed at the price of 16 cents to 16 1/2 cents per barrel at the first of the year, Latham said.

The price is slightly more than an 11-cent decrease from the 1986-87 price per barrel.

"The two main reasons for a decrease in mineral rights valuation is a depletion in oil reserves and a decrease in the price of oil," Latham said.

In 1985-86, mineral valuations were assessed at $916.2 million. This year's valuations decreased to $721.8.

A $209 million valuation decrease could affect county revenues in the amount of $543,000.

The future of the oil economy in West Texas depends on drilling activity, Latham said.

As oil reserves decrease, the value will naturally decline, he explained.

"The discovery of new reserves would offset the losses," Latham said.

Howard County is "above average on reserves," when Latham compared this county to the 60 counties for whom Capitol Appraisal assesses mineral properties, he said.

Medical training program expanded

This country's medical schools' partnership with the Veterans Administration has increased locally, Veterans Administration Medical Center Director Conrad Alexander has announced.

The program is being expanded after contributing last year to the VA's investment in future health care by training 102 students through affiliations with four different schools.

An affiliation has been established with Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center in Lubbock to provide experience for dietetic interns, Alexander said.

The program will include clinical dietitians as well as other staff members as instructors, explained Dietetic Service Chief Mary Payne-Davidson.

Alexander added that the internship is designed to teach computer applications in both administrative and clinical dietetics. The interns are to become acquainted with the unique needs of the Veteran patient at the same time, he said.

Tech's combined master's degree and internship program meets the requirements of the American Dietetic Association, he said.

Major education programs at the hospital include instruction for resident physicians, dental hygienists, X-ray technologists, nursing students and medical laboratory technician students.

The medical center's surgical service has an active affiliation in the field of ophthalmology with Tech, Alexander said.

The center has two residents rotating year round, he said. They are supervised and trained under active consulting staff from the Big Spring community, from Lubbock, and from medical center staff.

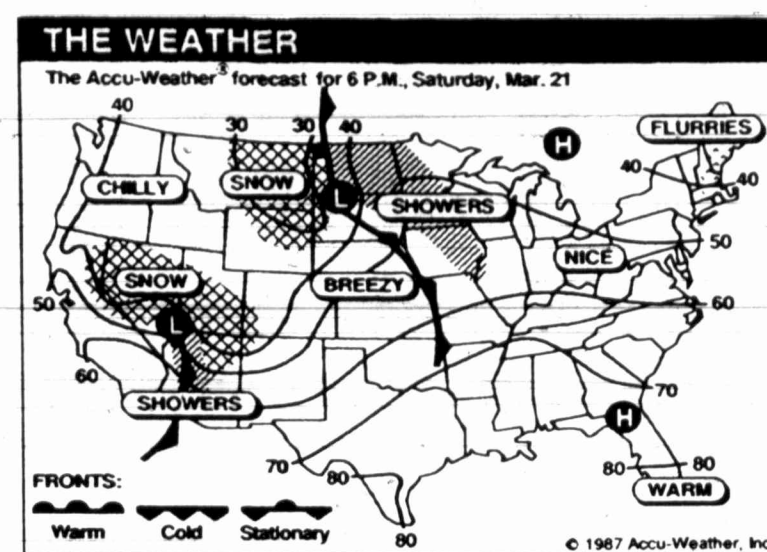

The supervising physicians are experts in various fields of ophthalmology such as corneal transplants. The operating room and examination areas are well equipped for modern ophthalmological surgery, including a modern operating room microscope, he said.

Educational conferences are conducted weekly in association with Texas Tech. A plan to rotate and educate medical students from Texas Tech also exists.

Other health professionals received training at the Big Spring VA Medical Center during calendar year 1986, as follows:

- Dental Hygiene students from Howard College, 15;
- Student x-ray technologists from Scenic Mountain School of Radiology, 3;
- Medical Laboratory Technician students from SWCID (attending the Odessa College program), 6;
- Students from Howard College Associate Degree in Nursing Program, 47;
- Students from Howard College Vocational Nurse Program, 23.

Local police officers receive promotions

The Big Spring Police Department announced the promotion and transfer of three officers.

Officer Mike Pearson is promoted to the rank of sergeant, while Sergeant Pam Jordan and Officer Roger Sweatt are transferred to Criminal Investigations.

They attained their promotions through competitive testing and oral interviews. The promotions are effective Sunday.

Pearson, 45, has been with the department 2½ years, and has 14 years of law enforcement experience, including prior employment with the Big Spring Police Department. He also has worked as a sales representative for Fiber Glass Systems.

His new assignment will be with the patrol division.

Pearson has a wife, Dawne, and four children: Nicole, Suzy, Cindy and Michelle.

Pam Jordan, 27, has been with the department 5½ years, and was previously an emergency medical technician in Big Spring and Wichita Falls.

Her new assignment is as sergeant of criminal investigations.

Roger Sweatt, 29, has been involved in law enforcement 7½ years, including a year with the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

He was previously a radio announcer. His new assignment is as patrol officer of criminal investigations.

Teachers criticize governor's stand on drug testing

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said Friday he supports mandatory drug tests for new teachers, but said it is a decision that should be left to local school boards.

Texas' four major teacher organizations criticized Clements' stand.

"I think a much better approach would be drug testing for governors to find out what sort of things he's been taking," said John Cole, president of the Texas Federation of Teachers.

The Texas State Teachers Association, Texas Classroom Teachers Association and Association of Texas Professional Educators also said they opposed mandatory drug tests for any teachers.

Clements addressed the latter group Friday, but did not mention drug tests during the talk. Responding to reporters' questions concerning U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese's call for drug tests for new teachers, the governor said, "I don't think it would be a bad idea."

He initially said drug testing "comes within the responsibility of the Texas Education Agency and the Texas Board of Education," but then said it is a matter that should be handled by local school boards.

"This is exactly the kind of decision they individually should pass and put into effect or reject at the school board level," Clements said.

flag stand report were the main topics Wednesday night at the wall visit group's meeting.

The half-size replica of the national monument is scheduled to be displayed Sept. 30-Oct. 6 at the base of Scenic Mountain during an exclusive West Texas visit.

Chamber Convention/Visitors Bureau officials have suggested that as many as 10,000 visitors could be drawn to the community to view the replica of the memorial that honors the more than 58,000 troops killed during the Vietnam War.

Plans call for the football field-sized replica to be displayed at a site east of the former hospital on the campus of the Southwest College Institute for the Deaf.

He added that reproduction and possible enhancement of the video tape for local promotion will be handled by Tom Arcand, media specialist at SWCID.

Gibbons also suggested that local talent could produce a higher quality video tape that could serve as both a memorial to the visit and as a nationwide public relations tool for the community.

Coahoma schools Superintendent Jerry Doyle reported 95 percent of this year's taxes have been collected, matching last year's percentage, during the district board meeting Tuesday night.

Doyle added, however, that the three million dollars collected this year is about $300,000 less than last year, and the cited falling oil revenues as the reason.

"This is not the year to build the budget anyway. If we can end up with just $1 in the black, that's all we can do," he said.

Doyle also reported that Coahoma will receive $59,000 more in state funds than it expected to receive on Sept. 1.

The federal Fish and Wildlife Commission should consider human and economic needs in addition to those of the environment, Congressman Charles Stenholm testified Tuesday.

Stenholm addressed a fish and wildlife subcommittee hearing in Washington D.C., convened to consider re-authorizing the endangered species act, Press Secretary Chino Chapas said.

The commission must issue a permit before construction on the Stacy Dam and Reservoir project can begin. Members are concerned, however, that construction of the dam could further endanger the Concho River water snake.

Stenholm said "there are some intangibles" the act doesn't address, such as the Stacy situation.

The needs of a disappearing snake are being given priority over the water needs of thousands of West Texans, he said.

Reduction of capital expenses and deferred paybacks to the revolving capital fund are the primary changes in the city's general fund, City Manager Mack Wofford said.

The fund, originally set at $6.7 million, has been reduced by $102,440, he said.

Councilmen met Monday morning to review the revised budget plan, presented by city staff.

Capital expense items have been reduced in most departments, with the largest reduction in delaying purchase of two police cars, projected at $22,800.

The capital expense budget shows an increase, of which $80,000 will go to repair the Comanche Trail Park swimming pool and $240,000 to repair the municipal auditorium. However, Wofford explained that those funds come from grants to the city expressly for those purposes.

Senate OKs 65 MPH

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate gave final congressional approval Friday to a new 65 mph speed limit for rural interstate highways, sending the White House an $88 billion highway and mass transit bill that President Reagan denounced for "excessive spending" and promised to veto.

The House-approved speed limit provision cleared the Senate quickly after Minority Leader Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., abandoned his plan to strip the highway bill of $890 million in road and bridge "demonstration projects" sought by lawmakers for their home districts.

These funds, which the White House criticized as intended for "favorite pork barrel projects" of individual legislators, are contained in a compromise highway bill which passed the House in January and the Senate in February.

Threats drive family out

GRINDSTONE, Pa. — A white man said his family was looking for a new place to live because of threats made after neighbors saw a black man help them move in several weeks ago.

David Redepening said his wife, Denise, was "scared to death" when the couple and their five children, ages 1 to 9, found a wooden cross burning in their yard Wednesday. "The kids were afraid too," he said. "They don't understand why someone would do this."

Redepening said residents of all-white Rows Run saw his black friend helping move furniture. The friend stayed several days to help unpack.

Welfare overhaul sought

WASHINGTON — House Democratic leaders endorsed on Thursday a sweeping welfare overhaul linking benefits to work, saying they hope to achieve this year the reform that has eluded Congress for decades.

"We are certainly aware that there have been many fruitless reform attempts in the past," House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Tex., said at a news conference announcing the plan. But Wright said he is optimistic that this year will be different, because state demonstration programs have shown it is possible to move people from welfare to jobs and generally improve the system.

Wright said Democratic leaders of the four committees handling welfare reform have given their blessing to a proposal developed by Rep. Harold Ford, D-Tenn., chairman of the Ways and Means subcommittee on public assistance. He said a task force has been named to move the bill swiftly through committees and to the House floor.

AIDS treatment

FDA approves sale of drug

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government on Friday approved sale of the first drug for treatment of AIDS, a costly and potent chemical that despite serious side effects has been shown to keep people alive who otherwise would die.

Commonly known as azidothymidine, or AZT, the drug is not considered a cure for the deadly disease because it does not kill the AIDS virus. It does, however, inhibit an enzyme needed for the virus to replicate itself and therefore helps control growth of the virus.

Clinical trials last year demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Food and Drug Administration that AZT prolongs life for AIDS sufferers. The death rate for people receiving placebos was about 16 times higher than the people receiving AZT.

Those results prompted the FDA to end the trial early so all patients participating in the test could get the drug.

To be marketed under the trade name Retrovir by Burroughs Wellcome Co. of Research Triangle Park, N.C., the drug — taken in capsule form every four hours — could cost a typical patient $10,000 or more for a year's supply.

Derived from herring sperm in a complex chemical process, the drug suppresses bone marrow in many patients, thereby reducing the production of infection-fighting blood cells.

That effect is so threatening to some patients they have to be given blood transfusions to be able to stay on the drug. Less serious side effects include nausea and various gastrointestinal problems.

Because Retrovir is still in short supply, the manufacturer has outlined a restricted distribution system intended to see that it goes first to seriously ill patients whose symptoms are closest to those who participated in the clinical trials last fall.

"Today's approval marks an important step, but by no means a final victory, in our ongoing war against AIDS," Robert E. Windom, assistant secretary of health at the Department of Health and Human Services, said in announcing FDA approval.

"Retrovir is not a cure for AIDS,

An employee of Burroughs Wellcome Co. operates a machine which fills capsules with the AIDS drug Retrovir during the manufacturing process at the company's Research Triangle Park plant in North Carolina. The Federal Drug Administration Friday approved the drug for treatment of AIDS patients.

but it has a demonstrated ability to improve the short-term survival of AIDS patients with recently diagnosed PCP and certain patients with advanced ARC," said Windom.

PCP is pneumocystis carinii pneumonia, a rare form of pneumonia found mostly in AIDS sufferers. ARC is short for AIDS-related complex, a diagnosis just short of full-fledged AIDS.

The labeling provided doctors will say Retrovir is intended for AIDS and ARC patients with specific laboratory evidence of severely depressed immunity or a history of PCP.

However, once a drug is approved for sale, the FDA has no authority over how it is prescribed. Burroughs Wellcome has said it will rely on the word of physicians that the patient for whom they are prescribing it qualifies under the restricted distribution plan.

Given the absence of any alternative treatment, it is widely assumed that almost all AIDS and ARC patients will insist that their doctors prescribe Retrovir for them and that most doctors will comply.

The company has said it expects to be able to manufacture enough Retrovir by the end of 1987 to supply 30,000 patients — enough for all of the estimated 14,000 with full AIDS and 16,000 of those with ARC.

It is estimated that about two to three times as many Americans may suffer from advanced ARC as from AIDS.

Alleged spies arrested

PARIS — Six people arrested on espionage charges were seeking information on the propulsion system of Europe's Ariane rocket, probably for the Soviet bloc, officials said Friday.

Sources close to the investigation said privately that a seventh person was being sought and police were trying to determine whether the ring gained access to vital information. The four men and two women charged were arrested Monday.

Sources said the six people arrested were charged Wednesday with espionage for a foreign power that was not identified. Among the six are three engineers and a free-lance journalist working for the daily Le Figaro, they said.

Terrorists kill general

ROME — Two motorcycle-borne youths shot to death an air force general Friday in the capital. The government blamed the Red Brigades, and a caller claimed responsibility for a group believed to be part of the leftist terrorist organization.

Cmdr. Francesco Di Mento, a Defense Ministry spokesman, said the victim was Gen. Livio Giorgieri, an engineer in charge of buying and maintaining arms and aircraft.

It was not immediately known why Giorgieri was targeted.

The general was in an air force car when the youths, their faces covered by the shields of their helmets, pulled alongside and shot him with pistols, the Italian news agency AGI reported.

About an hour after the attack, a woman claimed in an anonymous telephone call to the Milan office of a Rome newspaper that the killing was the work of the Fighting Communist Union.

Saudi hostage released

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Kidnappers on Friday handed over another foreign captive, the second released this week, to Syrian forces in Moslem west Beirut.

"They kept me blindfolded all the time, but not handcuffed," said Khaled Deeb, a 23-year-old Saudi Arabian freed after 54 days as a hostage. "I was not beaten."

Bakr Damanhour, a Saudi employee of his embassy's cultural section, was freed Wednesday after 66 days in captivity.

"I am very happy to be free," Deeb told a news conference.

His release left 24 foreigners, including eight Americans, missing and believed held hostage in Lebanon. Most of the hostages are believed held by radical Shiite Moslem organizations.

High cost of new AIDS drug worries patient organization

NEW YORK (AP) — Organizations representing AIDS patients said the government's approval of the first anti-AIDS drug was a small step in the right direction, but they emphasized Friday that it was not a cure and expressed concern that many deserving patients would not be able to afford it.

"One of the frightening things is that because of the cost of the drug, it will offer some false hope for people who simply can't afford the $8,000 to $10,000 a year that this drug will cost," said Jeffrey Levi, executive director of the National Gay Task Force in Washington, D.C.

Levi noted that some patients now receiving the drug free as part of research programs may suddenly find themselves forced to pay for it and may have to discontinue treatment.

"There has to be an obligation on the part of the government and Burroughs Wellcome (the drug's maker) to try to resolve that situation," Levi said.

The drug — called azidothymidine, or AZT, and marketed under the name Retrovir — can prolong the lives of some patients with acquired immune deficiency syndrome, but it is highly toxic to the blood-producing bone marrow cells. As a consequence, some patients taking the drug develop anemia and require blood transfusions.

Because AZT does not kill the AIDS virus or block infection, it cannot in any way be considered a cure for AIDS. Its effect is merely to inhibit reproduction of the virus, and thus regulate, to some extent, the symptoms.

"People who take the drug are not going to have their immune deficiency go away," said Lawrence Kaplan, medical director of the AIDS clinic at San Francisco General Hospital, where AZT has been in use for some time.

"They are going to continue to have problems with the usual complications of AIDS, though it's possible that may occur at a slower rate," he said.

Vulcan Nimoy addresses West Texans

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

No one imagined 20 years ago that a longshot pilot television show called "Star Trek" would become one of the most popular science fiction series made, Leonard Nimoy said.

Nimoy, the pointy eared, alien Spock in the series, spoke to a crowd of hundreds at Odessa College Thursday night.

One result of the show's unexpected popularity is a new program. This year, Star Trek's 20th anniversary, "Star Trek: the Next Generation," is being planned, he said. It is to be set roughly 100 years after Captain James T. Kirk's five-year Enterprise voyage.

Gene Roddenberry, original Star Trek creator, is to direct the show, Nimoy said, and will write 13 entirely new episodes.

In addition, William Shatner will direct a fifth Star Trek movie, he said. Shatner, who plays Captain Kirk, is looking for a writer to develop his story idea for the movie, Nimoy said.

Nimoy's "love affair" with the series and character he plays began in 1965 when he was chosen for the part, he said.

"What Gene (Roddenberry) needed was a constant reminder that this was a mixed crew, not only humans," he said. So Spock was developed as an obviously non-human character, with pointed ears, green blood and a non-emotional demeanor.

And Nimoy began to hear the first of numerous pointy eared jokes. The most common, he said, is simply "What happened to your pointed ears?" To that, he says he often replies "I sent them out to be sharpened."

He also described his development of the "live, long and prosper," Vulcan greeting that features the palm of the hand facing the viewer with fingers spread to form a V.

The gesture was used by leaders during an Orthodox Jewish prayer when Nimoy was a youngster, he said. Worshipers weren't supposed to look, but out of curiosity — he peeked. "It was magic," he jokingly said.

When "Star Trek" was launched by NBC in 1965, "I really felt the show was going to be about something," he said. "The stories could touch you in the heart, touch you in the mind."

Leonard Nimoy, right, portrays Spock in "Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan," with Captain James T. Kirk, portrayed by William Shatner. Nimoy spoke about Star Trek's development and popularity Thursday night to a crowd of hundreds at Odessa College.

Episodes dealt with questions of ecology, overpopulation and other topics that people are concerned about, he said. When the show gained popularity, however, Nimoy "had no idea what would happen in time. I was totally naive."

For example, he said, his telephone number was still listed in the local directory. Nimoy began to get phone calls from people who would respond — "I got him! I got Spock on the phone!"

Although audiences were enthusiastic, the press' reaction was shaky at first, he said.

"We were perceived as a kiddie show," he commented, adding that ratings never were extraordinary.

Reaction was unprecedented when the show's cancellation was announced after the second season, he said. The announcement prompted 110,000 letters to NBC in the first six weeks.

Although the show continued for a third season in 1967, Nimoy realized it was coming to an end.

In 1969, however, things changed.

"We put a human being on the moon ... Interplanetary travel had really happened. It affected the audience's perception of what we were doing," he said.

Nimoy began to hear more and more about "Star Trek" by 1972, after reruns had become available to local television stations.

"It was a historic event in TV," he said. "It became the most popular syndicated show." He recalled instances of fans memorizing episodes, quoting dialogue — and they wanted more, he said.

When Paramount movie studio decided to capitalize on the Star Wars popularity in 1979 by making "Star Trek: the Motion Picture," a new phase of the Star Trek cult began, Nimoy said.

Three more movies have followed, and the series shows no sign of coming to an end.

Given the choice of portraying any television character, Nimoy said, "I'd choose Spock. I like him, admire him, respect him," because Spock displays such qualities as "honesty, dignity and intelligence."

Nimoy watched with tears rolling down his cheeks at his first viewing of Spock's death scene in the second Star Trek movie.

He was "totally surprised" at the movie's conclusion, in which Spock's burial tube landed intact on the Genesis planet's surface.

"You could almost see the tube opening and something crawling out," he said.

The resurrected Vulcan was rescued by crewmates in the third movie. Spock's bold voyage — where no man has gone before — continues.

Help is waiting for your child March 15-21 at a special Dyslexia Screening Clinic.

Dyslexia. It's a word most people don't understand. But, if your child is one of the millions who suffer from dyslexia, you understand the pain and frustration this disability can cause.

You know your child isn't lazy...stupid...or disobedient, as many have said. Although the strict definition of dyslexia is "a disturbance of the ability to read," you realize that it affects every aspect of your child's life.

This is the way a dyslexic sees the word. Letters are often transposed and backwards. Reading and writing can be nearly impossible!

Dyslexics find reading almost impossible.

Aside from difficulty with reading and composition, your child shies away from sports involving eye/hand coordination. He has trouble following directions and is often clumsy and insecure. These are just a few of the symptoms that can make the life of a dyslexic child confusing and miserable.

Now, a special Dyslexia Screening Clinic, affiliated with Dyslexia Centers of America, offers you and your child hope for a normal life.

Sponsored by Boyd Chiropractic Clinics of Midland who have served the health care needs of the area for over 40 years, the clinic will feature the world's foremost chiropractic experts in the treatment of dyslexia.

During the Clinic, Dr. Boyd will instruct other professionals in his treatment methods which involve no drugs or anesthesia. The treatment, which centers around adjustments of the spinal and cranial structures, along with kinesiological and muscular balancing has brought about a marked improvement in a majority of cases.

Call 684-5436 to schedule an appointment for your child's free screening and examination. The initial meeting determines whether your child will benefit from the procedure. If your child is diagnosed as receptive to future care, a reasonable fee may be discussed to cover all aspects of possible correction. We will be happy to discuss your insurance coverage.

For convenience and accessibility, the Clinic will be held at the Holiday Inn Country Villa, 4300 W. Highway 80 in Midland.

Appointments may be scheduled from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This is the practice of chiropractic and is not the practice of medicine.

HOTLINE

(915) 684-5436

Business briefs

VA number to be listed

The Veterans Administration Medical Center will have its telephone number listed in the directories of 23 West Texas cities within its service area, Director Conrad Alexander announced.

Listing the number in the area's larger cities will make it more convenient for veterans to contact VA staff when they need medical attention, he said.

The listing will be included in directories for Abilene, Alpine, Andrews, Anson, Ballinger, Breckenridge, Brownfield, Brownwood, Coleman, Colorado City, Del Rio, Fort Stockton, Lamesa, Levelland, Marfa, Midland, Odessa, Pecos, San Angelo, Seminole, Snyder, Stamford and Sweetwater. Until new directories are published, the number can be obtained by calling information.

The Big Spring VA center serves 121,000 veterans in 53 West Texas counties and one county in New Mexico, Alexander said.

Fish joins eye surgeon college

Dr. John R. Fish, 207 E. Seventh St., has been accepted as a charter member of the American College of Eye Surgeons.

The national professional organization's primary objective is to promote high quality standards in eye surgery services, he said.

The college will serve as a training ground for ophthalmic surgeons who will seek certification by the American Board of Eye Surgeons, he said.

As a member, Fish will seek to foster and advance research, innovative and continuing education to promote and support high quality eye surgical skills.

He has been in practice at that address 11 years.

Petroplex future to be discussed

The future of the "Petroplex" in the turn of the century will be addressed at the annual community relations program of the Permian Basin Section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

The program will be at the Ranchland Hills Country Club in Midland March 24. The social hour will begin at 5:30 p.m. and dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Speaking will be Joan Baskin, immediate past president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce; Bill Franklin, president of First City National Bank; and Duane Leach, president of the University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

Mullins becomes bank chief

Ron Mullins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Mullins of Big Spring, has been elected chief executive officer of MBank Abilene.

Mullins began work at the bank nine years ago as a drive-in teller. He was elected senior vice president in the loan area November 1984; executive vice president and board of directors member March 1986; and bank president September 1986.

He graduated from Abilene

Christian University with a degree in banking and finance.

He serves on the board of directors of the YMCA, Humana Hospital-Abilene, and the Abilene Industrial Development Authority. He is president of the Abilene Clearing House Association and a member of the Abilene Chamber of Commerce.

He and his wife are parents of two daughters, Courtney, 4, and Meagan, 2.

Hall of Fame to induct oilmen

The Petroleum Museum is to honor four prominent oilmen at the Petroleum Hall of Fame dinner, May 12. To be inducted to the Hall of Fame are Fred T. Hogan; the late Mac O. Boring Sr.; the late John J. Redfern Jr.; and the late Clayton W. Williams Sr.

The four were elected at a governing boards meeting in late October from a list of candidates submitted by the public.

The ceremony will be at Midland's Holiday Inn Country Villa Convention Center at 7:30 p.m. May 12. Reservations are available from the Museum at 1500 Interstate 20 West, phone 683-4403. Tickets are $50.

Farmers prepare for spring planting

Farmers and gardeners are preparing for planting spring crops, and some onion planting is underway in District 6, Far West Texas, including Howard County, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Russian wheat aphids are attacking some wheat in the district. Fruit trees are blossoming early, and livestock are in good shape, the service reported.

In District 7, West Central Texas, including Mitchell County, wheat, oats and ranges are making good to excellent growth.

Cattle is in good shape, with good market prices. Lambing continues, with an excellent lamb crop so far, but some losses to predators. Many fruit trees are in full bloom.

Center presents financial programs

Financial issues will be the focus of two University of Texas of the Permian Basin Women's Center programs.

Joan Johnson, vice president and trust officer of the Employee Benefit Division of Interfirst Bank, will present "Make Those Golden Years Golden" at noon March 24. She will provide information on developing a retirement program to fit individual needs.

Cynthia Clack, attorney, will present "Women, Credit and the Law" at noon March 26. She will lecture on single and married women's legal rights and responsibilities concerning credit and the law.

For more information, contact the Center at 367-2218.

Girl Scout of the Year

Kathryn Burrow, 16, who was named Golden Corral Girl Scout of the Year, stands with Golden Corral Manager Bill Folsom. Burrow, a member of Senior Girl Scout Troop 36, is a sophomore at Big Spring High School and a member of the volleyball and basketball teams. She has applied for a Gold Award, the top award in Girl Scouting, and plans a trip to the Girl Scouts Chalet in Switzerland and Olave House in England during the summer of 1988.

Drilling report

The price of West Texas crude is $18.53, as of Friday.

These are the latest oil and gas activity reports filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for the five-county crossroads country.

Pumping 151 barrels of oil per day, the No. 2 Blasingame was completed in Howard County's Southeast Luther Field by EP Operating.

The well was drilled to 10,150-ft. total depth and will produce from perforations in the Siluro-Devonian Formation, 9,906 to 9,922 feet into the wellbore. The operation also made 216,000 CF casinghead gas per day, plus 396 barrels of water.

The location is in a 320-acre lease in the T&P Survey.

Two new producers were brought on line in Howard County's Howard Glasscock Field, with Mobil Producing as the operator. Located 13 to 15 miles southeast of Big Spring, the wells are in 80 and 160-acre leases in the W&NW Survey. They are designated as the No. 46 G.O. Chalk and the No. 28 Sloan-Chalk.

The No. 46 well pumped 37 barrels of oil per day from perforations in the San Andres Formation, 2,046 to 2,261 feet into the wellbore. Total drilling depth was 2,500 feet.

The No. 28 well pumped 53 barrels of oil per day, along with 99 barrels of water. It was taken to a 2,500-ft. bottom, and production will be from perforations in the same formation, 2,035 to 2,172 feet into the hole.

At a location five miles southwest of Vincent, Meridian Oil Inc. finished a new oil producer in Howard County.

The well is designated as the No. 1 Griffin "23", showing ability to pump 35 barrels of oil per day, plus 54 barrels of water.

Location is in a 640-acre lease in the H&TC Survey. Bottomed at 8,200 feet, production will be from a set of perforations in the Pennsylvania Formation, 7,728 to 7,768 feet into the wellbore.

Conoco Inc. of Midland has filed for permit to drill the No. 19 G.O. Chalk "B", a 3,900-ft. developmental well eight miles east of Forsan. Location is in an 80-acre lease in Howard County's W&NW Survey. The well will be drilled in the Howard-Glasscock Field.

Samedan Oil has hung the "dry hole" tag on the No. 33 Chalk, a developmental well in the Howard-Glasscock Field. The well was spudded last May 17, and bottomed with no commercial potential at 4,250 feet.

Drill site was 13 miles southeast of Big Spring in a 320-acre lease in the W&NW Survey.

At a location three miles northeast of Westbrook, Tom Rasmussen finished a new oil producer in Mitchell County's East Westbrook Field.

The well is designated as the No. 12 Newby, pumping 65 barrels of oil per day.

Location is in a 171-acre lease in the T&P Survey. Bottomed at 3,315 feet and plugged back to 3,148 feet, production will be from perforations in the Clear Fork Formation, 3,080 to 3,131 feet into the wellbore.

D. L. Ray, Inc. has posted production figures on three developmental wells in Mitchell County's East Iatan-Howard Field. The Nos. 9, 27 and 28 T.L. McKenney "D" are located seven to eight miles southwest of Westbrook in 120 and 320-acre leases in the T&P Survey.

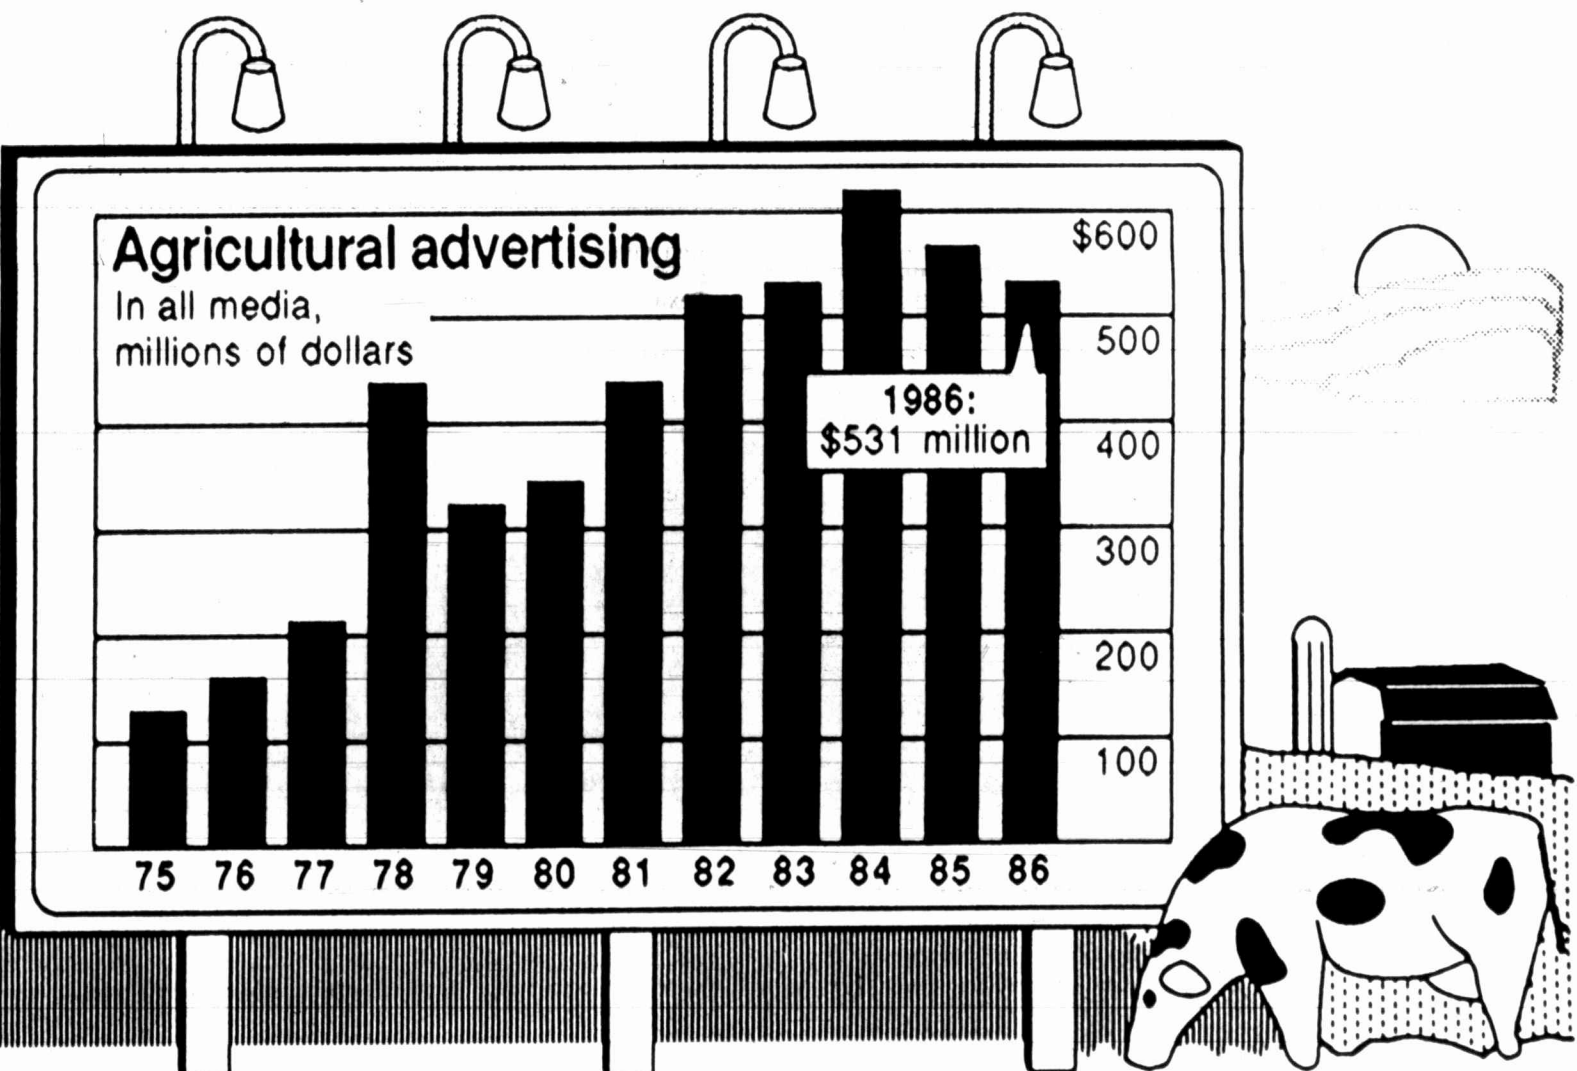

The No. 9 well flowed 40 barrels of oil per day, plus 253 barrels of water on a 64-64 in. choke. Production is commingled from perforations in the Glorieta and Clear Fork Formations, ranging from 2,557 to 3,369 feet into the wellbore.

The No. 27 well flowed 14 barrels of oil per day, plus 197 barrels of water, and the No. 28 well flowed 14 barrels of oil per day, plus 266 barrels of water. Production tests at both wells were run on 64-64 in. chokes. They produce from perforations commingled in the Glorieta and Clear Fork Formations, ranging from 2,478 to 3,378 feet into the hole.

Lakewood & Fulton has filed first production figures on a wildcat well in Borden County. The No. 1 Antelope showed potential to flow 161 barrels of oil per day, plus 210,000 CF casinghead gas on a 16-64 in. choke.

The operator has 160 acres leased, with drill site in the H&TC Survey, 20 miles southeast of Gail.

The well will produce from an open-hole interval in the Canyon Reef Formation, 7,184 to 7,224 feet into the wellbore. Total drilling depth was 7,224 feet.

Caring about product leads to business success

By TOM PETERS

A recent feature in The New York Times, titled "Remaking the American C.E.O.," quoted Gulf & Western chief Martin Davis on dealing with today's uncertainties. "You can't be emotionally bound to any particular asset."

Although I acknowledge the need for consolidation and rationalization of our physical assets, in many old industries in particular, I find Davis' remark repugnant.

Compcare Davis' attitude with that of Maryland Gov. William Donald Schaefer. A few weeks ago I attended an official toast to the governor, honoring his 15 years as mayor of Baltimore, during which the city's neighborhoods and business environment were improved dramatically. Schaefer's remarks that evening were punctuated by tears as he homed in on his two favorite words, "people" and "care."

Former Oakland Raiders coach John Madden is not afraid of emotion. Madden, who won 100 games sooner than any other National Football League coach, began his book "One Knee Equals Two Feet." "If you get the impression that I love football, you're right."

Gary Taubes' well-received book "Nobel Dreams" chronicles how European high energy physicist Carlo Rubbia won the Nobel Prize. Taubes observes, "Rubbia had an incurable passion for physics." The laureate was brutally tough, a politician with few peers; yet colleague after colleague speaks of his wholesale emotional involvement in his work — the word love is used frequently, even by Rubbia's most severe critics.

From my experience, great companies, great cities, great football teams and Nobel-winning efforts are unfailingly led by people with a consuming passion for their discipline or product. Indeed, America's frightening economic problems, as well as the moral ones which surfaced with the widening insider trading scandal, are by-products of the detachment about which Davis brags.

Peters on excellence

In "The Big Time," author Laurence Shames portrays the astoundingly successful Harvard Business School class of 1949. One graduate, Conrad Jones, a former senior vice president at the consulting firm Booz, Allen & Hamilton, vividly illustrates the differences between detachment and involvement:

"Let me tell you about two meetings I sat in on. Both were with companies that were having some problems with quality control. One company was professionally managed. Their approach to the problem was to analyze everything. How many doors, say, were falling off? How much would it cost to stick 'em back on? What were the chances of getting sued?

How much advertising would it take to counteract the bad publicity? Not once did they actually talk about the doors, the hinges, or why the hell they were falling off. They weren't interested in solving the problem, they just wanted to manage the mess.

"The other meeting was at Coleman Stove. ... They were having a problem with some boilers ... the service department comes in with the reports, the clipboards, the yellow pencils, and everybody hunkers down for a serious discussion. Well, you know how long that meeting lasted? About 30 seconds. Old Man Coleman sits bolt upright in his chair and bellows out, 'You mean we got goods out there that aren't working? Get 'em back, replace 'em, and find out why, goddammit.' And that was the end of the meeting. There was no financial analysis. There was no legal analysis. There was no customer-relations analysis. There was no goddamn analysis. The issue was the integrity of the product — which meant there was no issue at all. You stand by it, and that's that."

When I picture Roger Milliken of textile maker Milliken & Company, or John McConnell, founder of steel maker Worthington Industries, or stalwart grocer Stew Leonard, I see first and foremost people like Gov. Schaefer and Sheldon Coleman who are emotionally hooked on what they do.

Competitive success means providing better quality and better service. Our most successful business leaders transfer their emotional commitment to their workers, who also must be hooked on rather than turned off by what they are doing if we are to succeed.

These workers are not just disposable "assets." A finely-crafted car or personal computer, an elegantly-designed piece of software and a beautifully-presented restaurant meal are not mere "assets" either.

The late U.S. Army Lt. Gen. Melvin Zais once commanded the blood-and-guts 101st Airborne. He held strong views about leadership. Years back, I came across a scratchy audiotape of a speech he gave to the Armed Forces Staff College. Zais concluded, "I will ... provide you with ... the one piece of advice which I believe will contribute more to making you a better leader and commander, will provide you with greater happiness and self-esteem and at the same time advance your career more than any other advice which I can provide to you. And it doesn't call for special personality, and it doesn't call for any certain chemistry. Any one of you can do it. And that advice is that you must care."

From the battlefield to the playing field to the physics lab to the factory, I'll bet my money on the late general's advice.

Brooklyn Connection powers gutsy win

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

If today's double-header between the Howard College Hawks and the McLennan Community College Highlanders is anything like Howard's 18-14 win Friday afternoon at Jack Barber Field, it will be action-packed baseball to the hilt.

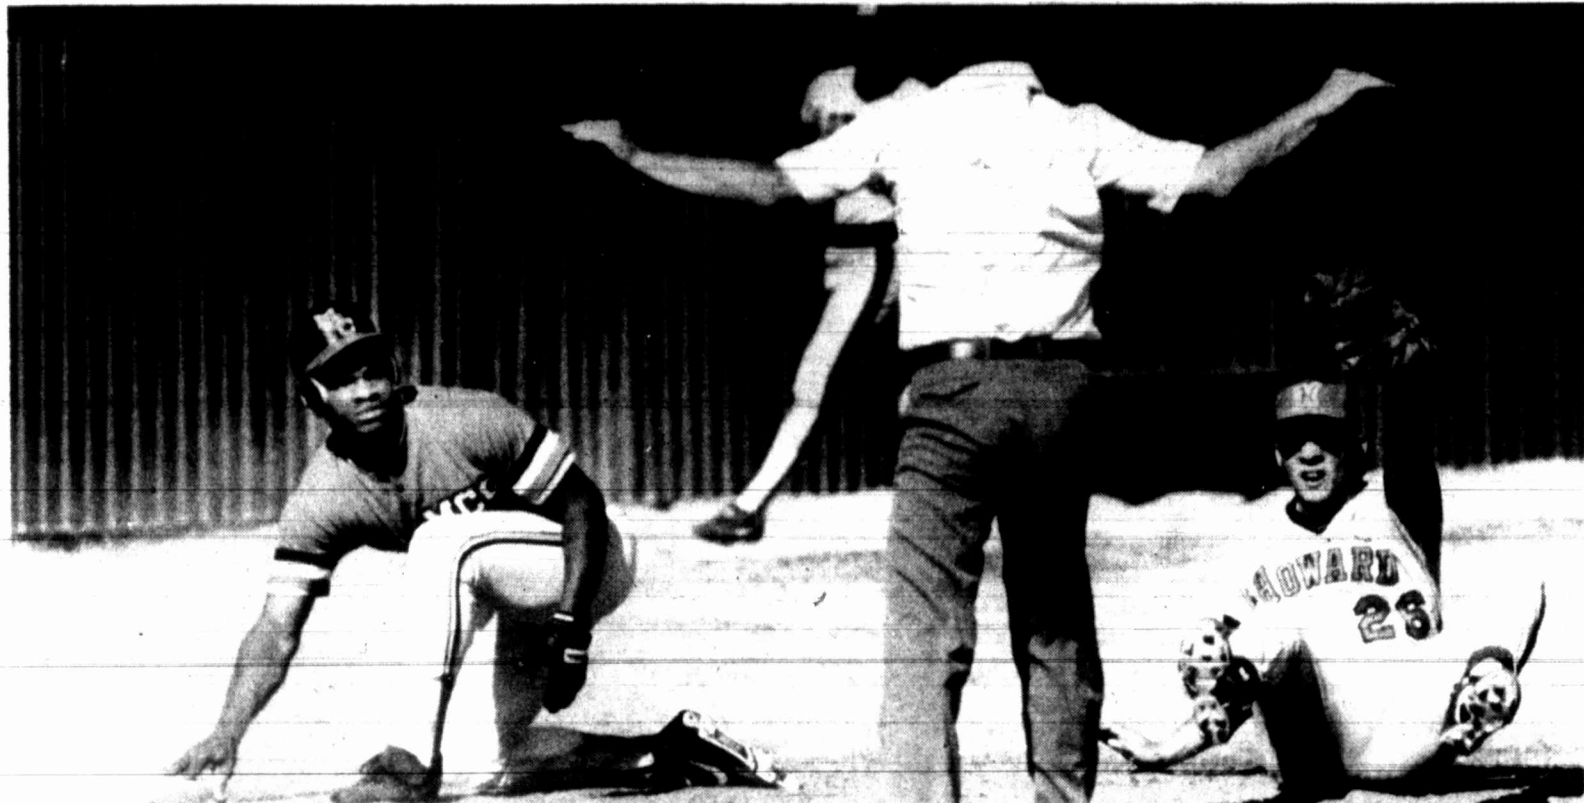

Howard's win Friday over the Highlanders was a sight to behold. The game had everything from towering home runs and numerous lead changes to a near bench-clearing brawl. But when it was all over Coach Bill Griffin's Hawks had handed MCC its first Region V loss of the season.

The win gives the second pace Hawks a 5-2 region mark while MCC slips to 6-1. This will only add fuel to an already simmering fire.

In the end it was a strong relief stint by Ted Hebert and the hitting of the Brooklyn Connection — Ernesto Castro and Juan Rodriguez — that propelled the Hawks to victory.

Hebert pitched the final three innings for Howard and protected a 16-13 Hawks' lead. Hebert, the third Howard pitcher of the day, allowed one run and two hits over the last three innings. David Degelia's solo homer cut Howard's lead to 16-14 in the top of the seventh. After that, the big right-hander closed the door on the Highlanders.

Howard Landry started for Howard and was roughed up for 15 hits and nine runs in 4 1/3 innings.

McLennan's Tony Baldwin scampers safely to third base just before Howard third baseman Frank Medina applies the tag in baseball action

Friday afternoon at Jack Barber Field. The Hawks won the game 18-14.

He was relieved by Mark Hutchinson, who got the win despite suffering control problems.

As far as hitting goes, the Brooklyn Connection was at its best. MCC starter Mike Taylor, along with relievers Richard Clark and Gary Byrd, will probably have nightmares about Castro and Rodriguez.

The duo combined for seven hits, eight runs and nine RBI's. Each player hit two homers. Castro, a sophomore left-fielder, led off the bottom of the first by blasting a homer deep over the Green Monster in center field. The shot travelled well over 400 feet. He went four-for-five in the game, driving in five runs.

"Both of my home runs were off fast balls," said the lefty, who also doubles as a pitcher. "I'm really not a home run hitter, but if I can lead off with a homer then it's a big lift for my teammates."

Indeed it was. Four batters later, Rodriguez, a freshman first baseman, launched a towering two-run shot over the left field fence, giving Howard a quick 3-0 lead. Rodriguez went three-for-four in the game, driving in four runs and scoring three times himself.

He was also the victim and the focus of the near-brawl in the bottom of the seventh inning. It all started when the home plate umpire was hit in the hand by a fast ball by MCC pitcher Clark. The umpire called time and went to the Howard dugout to put some ice on the bruise.

While play was halted, Rodriguez stepped out of the batter's box, unaware that Clark was going to throw warm-up pitches to his catcher. Clark's first pitch nailed Rodriguez in the leg and the 6-1, 200-pounder charged the mound after Clark.

This induced both benches to empty, and it looked like a free-for-all was in store. But the coaches and umpires finally restored order and Clark was given a warning by the umpire.

"When he hit me I thought he was throwing to his catcher and the ball just got away. The I saw him laughing at me and I knew he was trying to hit me," said Rodriguez. "I was hitting the ball good and they were scared of me. He was trying to take me out."

Coach Griffin was obviously upset after the game.

"It was a bush league play," he said of the incident. "He definitely Connection page 2B

Bomb crushes Sooners; Indiana, LSU advance

CINCINNATI (AP) — Nikita Wilson scored 24 points and Anthony Wilson hit a 15-foot jump shot with 25 seconds left to provide the winning margin as Louisiana State defeated DePaul 63-58 in the semifinals of the NCAA Midwest Regional Friday night.

LSU, the No. 10 seed in the Midwest, will meet Indiana, the winner of the night's second game, for a trip to the Final Four in New Orleans.

The Tigers, 24-14, took the last of 13 lead changes in the game for a 58-57 advantage on Nikita Wilson's inside shot with 2:48 remaining.

LSU's Oliver Brown then stole a pass from DePaul's Andy Laux with 1:01 remaining. LSU went into its delay game, with Anthony Wilson driving and hitting the key jump shot from the left side for a 60-57 lead.

DePaul's Terence Greene was fouled by Bernard Woodside on a 3-point field goal attempt with 13 seconds remaining. He hit the second of two free throws to make it 60-58.

LSU then inbounded and went the length of the court, with Woodside hitting a driving layup while getting fouled with four seconds remaining. He hit the free throw for a 63-58 lead to send LSU to the regional championship game for the second straight year.

The Tigers lost in the semifinals of the Final Four last year to eventual champion Louisville.

Anthony Wilson added 17 points for LSU on 7-for-20 shooting from the field, while Woodside had 11 points.

No. 5 DePaul was led by Dallas Comegys with 14 points. Kevin Edwards scored 12 and Green had 10. LSU outrebounded the Blue Demons 33-27, with Oliver Brown leading the Tigers with nine.

DePaul, the region's No. 3 seed, hit 24 of 47 shots from the field for 51 percent, becoming only the third team in 38 games to shoot better than 50 percent against LSU.

The Tigers hit 29 of 64 shots from the field for 45 percent.

Indiana 88, Duke 82

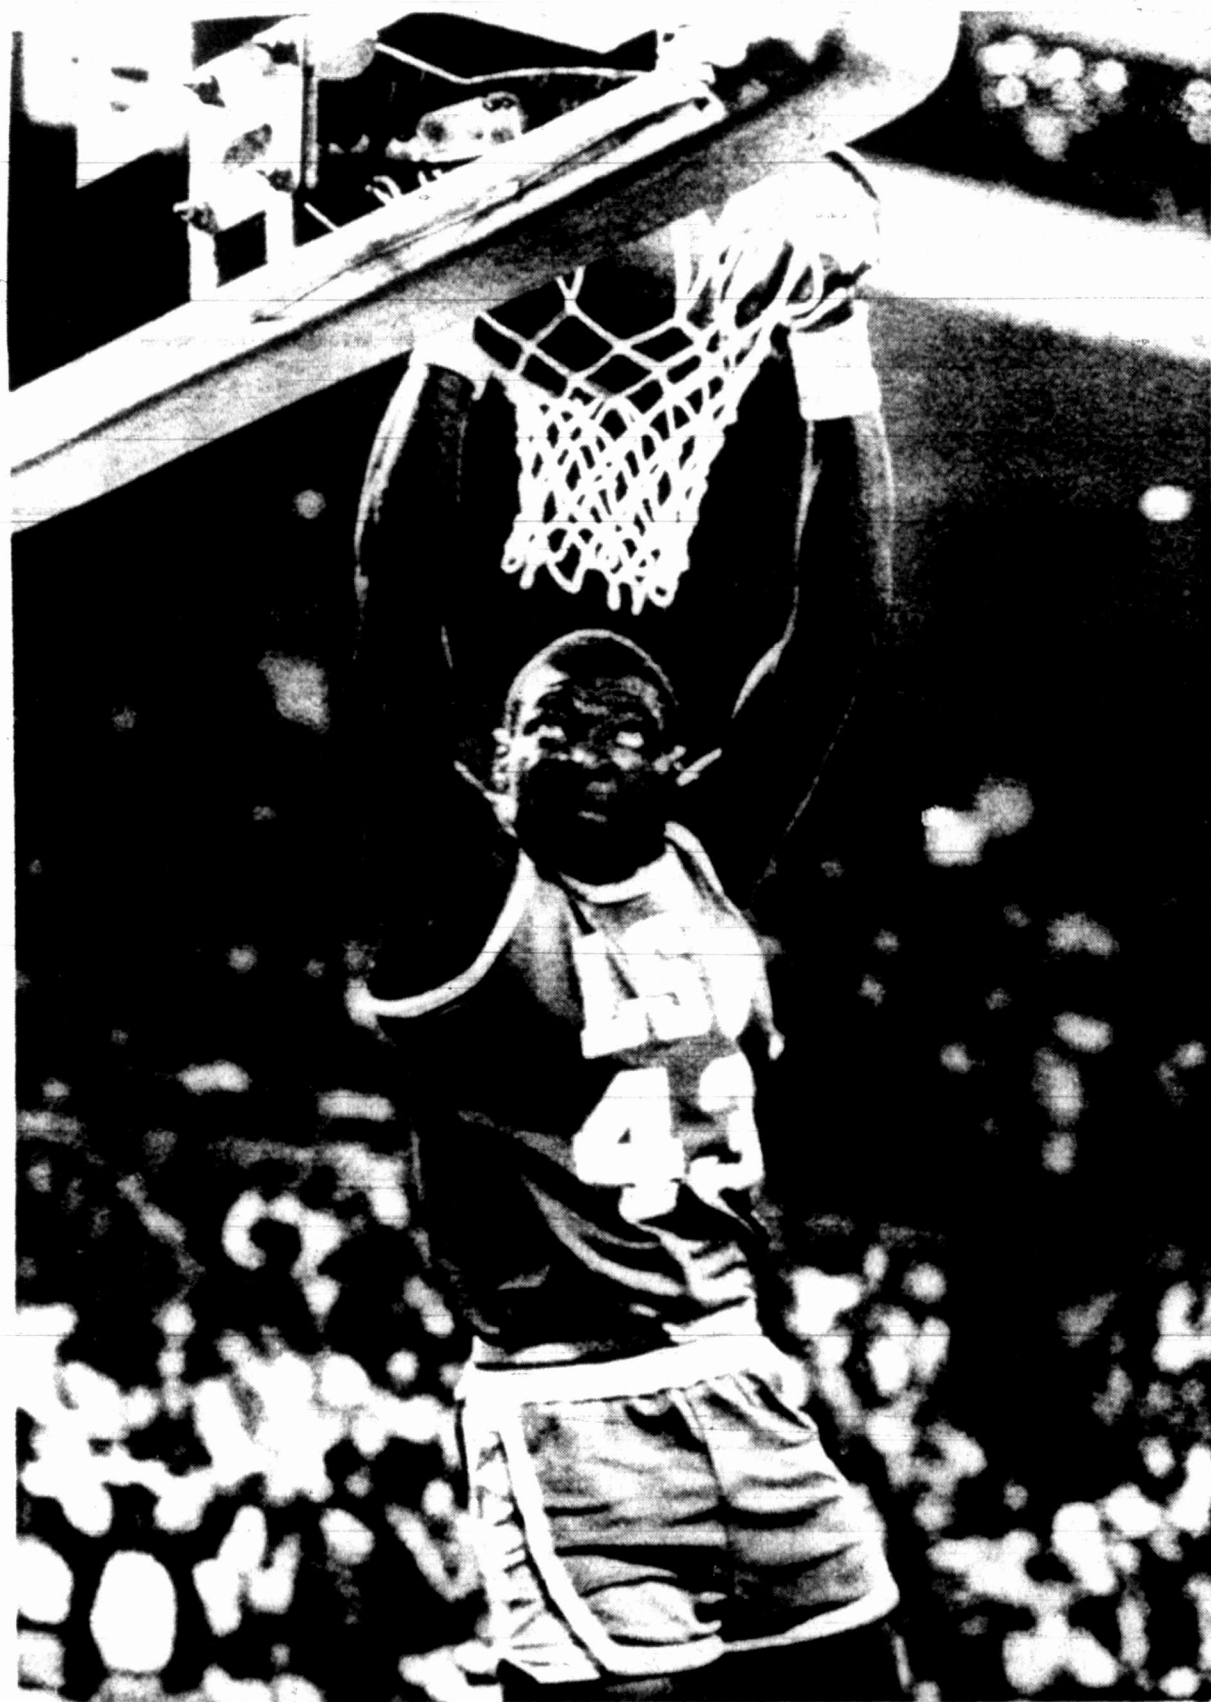

CINCINNATI (AP) — Keith Smart and Rick Calloway each scored 21 points as No. 3 Indiana defeated No. 17 Duke 88-82 Friday night in an NCAA Midwest regional semifinal basketball game.

Indiana, 27-4 and the region's top seed, advanced to Sunday's regional final against Louisiana State, 24-14, which beat fifth-ranked DePaul 63-58 earlier Friday.

Indiana's All-American guard Steve Alford added 18 points, 12 in the second half, despite an off-shooting night as he made just six of 16 shots from the field.

The Hoosiers used a 21-4 run in the first half to overcome Duke, which held a 29-21 lead. The Blue Devils, 24-9, went 7-30 without a field goal as Indiana made its run with Calloway scoring eight of the points.

When Alaa Abdelnaby finally broke Duke's shooting slump, Calloway answered with a short jumper before Abdelnaby scored again. Dean Garrett made two free throws for Indiana and Calloway added a basket on a drive for Indiana's largest lead of the half, 48-37, with 1:19 left. The Hoosiers led 49-39 at halftime.

Indiana took its largest lead of the game with Alford's pull-up jumper to start the second half. The Hoosiers were in control until Duke managed a brief run that made it 76-70 with 3:57 to play.

Danny Ferry, who finished with 20 points, made a 3-pointer with 3:27 left and Tommy Amaker, who led the Blue Devils with 23 points, did the same with 2:58 left after Calloway hit a jumper. That cut the lead to 78-76.

But Indiana ran off five straight points, three by Alford, to put away the victory.

Iowa 93, Oklahoma 91 (OT)

SEATTLE (AP) — Kevin Gamble sank a 22-foot 3-pointer with three seconds left in overtime Friday night to give sixth-ranked Iowa a 93-91 victory over Oklahoma in the West Regional semifinals of the NCAA basketball tournament.

Gamble, a 6-foot-6 senior, led the Hawkeyes with 26 points and blocked a late Oklahoma shot to force the overtime.

The Hawkeyes, 30-4, play the winner of Friday night's contest between No. 1 ranked Nevada-Las Vegas and Wyoming in Sunday's regional finals.

Oklahoma, 24-10, led by as many as 16 points in the first half but led only by one at intermission.

The game was close throughout the rest of the way. Iowa's biggest lead was six points at 78-72 with 6:54 to play in regulation. But the underdog Sooners built an 85-80 lead on Darryl Kennedy's stuff shot with 2:17 to play.

Then Iowa scored the final five points of regulation, the last on a 3-point bomb by B.J. Armstrong with 51 seconds remaining.

Oklahoma had a chance for the winning basket, but Gamble blocked Tim McCalister's 15-footer and Kennedy's desperation 10-footer failed to connect at the buzzer.

Iowa scored the first five points of the overtime, but the Sooners, plagued by foul trouble all night, managed one more comeback. They grabbed a 91-90 advantage on Kennedy's inside basket with 1:02 to play.

The Hawkeyes missed two late shots but got the ball back both times, once on an offensive rebound by Gamble and once when Oklahoma knocked the ball out of bounds. That set up Gamble's winning shot.

Armstrong added 16 points for the Hawkeyes, who had five players in double figures.

McCalister scored 26, including seven 3-pointers, for Oklahoma. David Johnson added 20.

Billy the Kid gets his chance

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Providence point guard Billy Donovan is one game away from fulfilling a lifelong dream that even a week ago did not seem possible.

Donovan, the leading scorer in the NCAA basketball tournament with 86 points, has led Providence to three victories. As a result, he and his Big East team, not even ranked in the Top Twenty when the tournament began, are one game from playing in the Final Four.

"It's something I always dreamed about growing up," the 6-foot-1 senior said Friday.

"But we're just concentrating on Georgetown right now."

Providence will play its Big East Conference rival in the Southeast Regional final Saturday. The winner will advance to the Final Four in New Orleans.

"I'm just glad we're playing with a chance to go to the Final Four," Donovan said. "We've worked hard as a team to get here."

He credits Coach Rick Pitino's system with helping him become one of the better guards in the country.

"Coach Pitino said he was going to do a lot of running and pressing, and that's the style of basketball I played in high school," he said. Donovan attended St. Agnes High School in Rockville Center, N.Y.

In Pitino's first year as head coach last season, Donovan's scoring average jumped from 3.2 to 15.1 points per game. And with the advent of the 3-point field goal this year, he is averaging 21 points per game.

"Coach gives us a lot of freedom on the offensive end. As long as we take good shots, we know we're not going to come out of the game if we miss," Donovan said.

Donovan did not miss many shots in Thursday night's 103-82 upset of ninth-ranked Alabama in the regional semifinals. He was six of seven from the field including five of six from 3-point range to lead the Friars, 24-8, with 26 points.

Donovan also had 10 assists against the Crimson Tide to boost his career total to 533, and into first place on the school's all-time list, six ahead of Ernie DiGregorio.

Donovan has had his problems this year against Georgetown, which is a five-point favorite for Saturday's game. The two foes split their two regular season games, but Georgetown knocked Providence out of the conference tournament.

Donovan averaged just 14 points per game in those games, seven points under his average.

Chaps in finals

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — Todd Duncan blasted six three-pointers and made nine of 10 field goals to lead the Midland Chaparrals within one game of the national junior college championships.

The Chaps destroyed Herkimer Junior College of New York 107-75, and will play the nation's second ranked team, Southern Idaho, at 8:15 tonight for the national title. The Golden Eagles have a 36-1 record. Midland is now 32-3, one of those losses in Big Spring to Howard College.

In addition to Duncan's 24 points, Lincoln Minor added 21 and Mookie Blalock had 20 points.

The Chaps led 52-39 at the half on their way to a surprisingly easy win. They made 11 three-pointers in the game, as compared to three for Herkimer.

MIDLAND (107) — Duncan 9-0-24; Minor 9-2-21; Blalock 8-0-20; Stanwood 6-1-13; Smith 5-0-10; Nix 2-1-3; Henry 2-0-4; Jones 1-2-4; Curvey 2-0-4; Barnett 1-0-2; Sears 0-0-0; Martin 0-0-0; Totals: 45-6-107. HERKIMER (75) — Smith 9-0-18; Williams 11-3-25; Griggs 9-0-21; Shanley 2-1-5; Graf 1-0-2; Jones 1-0-2; Wittman 1-0-2; Deck 0-0-0; Totals: 35-4-75. Three pointers: Midland: Duncan, 6; Minor, 1; Blalock, 4; Herkimer: Griggs, 3.

Big Spring bowler in TV finals today

NORTH OLMSTEAD, Ohio — Highland Lanes Bowling Pro Philip Ringener qualified Friday for the finals of the Miller Lite Open, and will bowl on national television today.

The finals of the tournament are scheduled for 2 p.m. today on ABC, Ch. 2.

Ringener, with a score of 9,879 points after six rounds, was fifth, and the top five qualify for the finals. Ringener will bowl against Norm Duke of Fort Worth in Saturday's match.

Dusters fall in nationals

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Auril Freeman had 21 points to boost Saint Gregory's to a 64-58 semifinal victory over Western Texas Friday night in the National Junior College Athletic Association women's basketball tournament.

Freeman was aided by Sheila Reynolds' 16 points and Judy Shannon with 14.

Double-digit scorers for Western Texas, now 26-4, were Brenda Welch with 28 points, followed by Lisa Thompson with 14 and Kayla Thompson with 12.

Ewing finished for this season

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Knicks center Patrick Ewing will miss the rest of the NBA season because of a sprained ligament in his left knee, the team announced Friday.

Ewing injured the knee Thursday night when he slipped on a wet spot in the first quarter of the Knicks' 111-105 overtime victory over the Indiana Pacers.

Bird's 42 sinks Sonics

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird scored 19 of his 42 points in the fourth quarter as the Boston Celtics held off the Seattle Super-Sonics 112-108 and extended their Boston Garden winning streak to 21 games Friday night.

Bird, whose season high is 43 points, scored from the corner with 7:15 left in the game, giving him 10 points in the fourth period and the Celtics a 97-86 lead.

Then Bird capped off his outstanding game by scoring the Celtics' last nine points. The Sonics, who were led by Dale Ellis with 31 points, got as close as 110-106, but Bird responded with a layup with 1:12 left and Seattle's Tom Chambers finished the scoring by converting an offensive rebound with 31 seconds to go.

Hawks 114, Bucks 97
ATLANTA (AP) — Dominique Wilkins scored 41 points and grabbed a season-high 16 rebounds as the Atlanta Hawks moved into a virtual tie for first place in the NBA Central Division with a 114-97 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks Friday night.

Atlanta, which entered the game trailing division leader Detroit by one-half game, has a 45-22 record and still trails the Pistons by .005 percentage points. Detroit, idle Friday, has a record of 44-21.

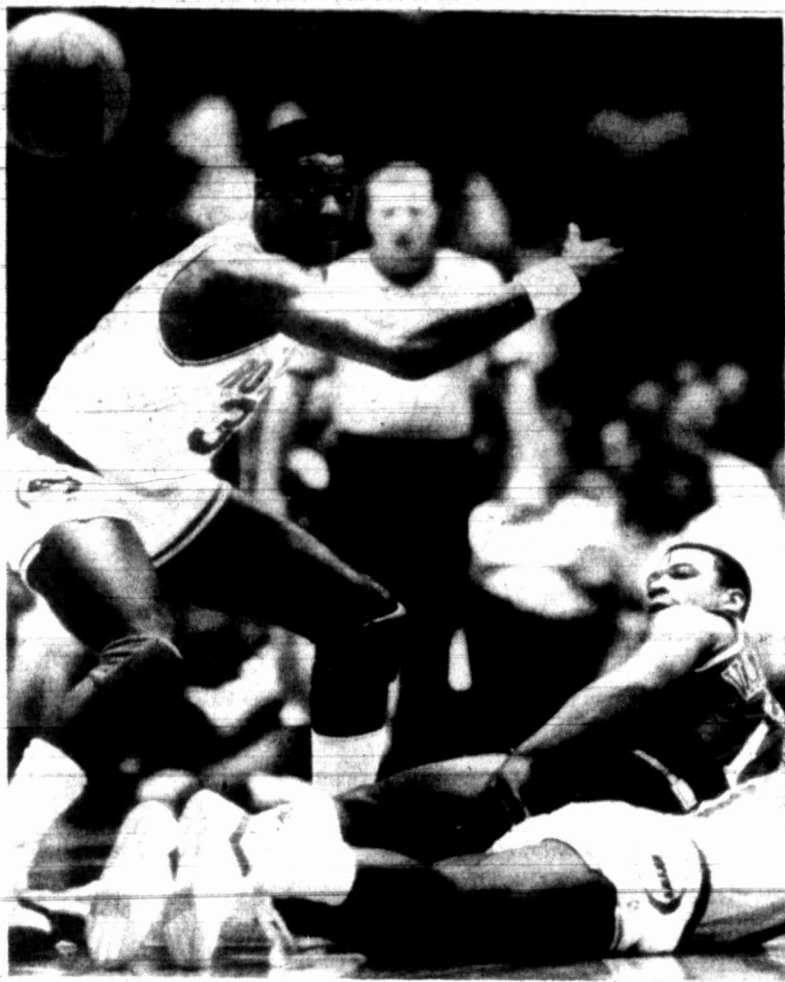

Midway through the second quarter, the Hawks scored 11 consecutive points to build a 51-34 lead with 3:55 remaining. Atlanta led 57-45 at the half.

Wilkins scored 19 points in the third period and added four more during a 7-0 spurt in the fourth quarter that gave Atlanta a 97-82 lead with 7:13 remaining.

Ricky Pierce and John Lucas paced Milwaukee with 17 points each.

Denver led by as many as 14 points early in the second quarter and had a 41-34 lead with 5:29 left in the period. Philadelphia then went on a 17-5 run for a 51-46 edge with 1:31 left in the half.

Cavaliers 106, Nets 105
RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — John Bagley's jumper from the top of the key with three seconds to play gave the Cleveland Cavaliers a 106-105 victory over the New Jersey Nets.

The Nets, who lost to Cleveland for the second time this week, took a 105-104 lead with 10 seconds left when Buck Williams put in a rebound of Dwayne Washington's missed layup on a New Jersey fast break.

After a Cleveland timeout,

Bagley took the inbound pass near midcourt, fed the ball inside to Mel Turpin, who quickly passed it back out to Bagley at the top of the circle.

Rockets 126, Clippers 98
HOUSTON (AP) — Akeem Olajuwon had 28 points and eight rebounds in less than three periods of play, leading the Houston Rockets to a 126-98 victory over the Los Angeles Clippers.

Rodney McCray followed with 17 points in only three periods as five Rockets scored in double figures for Houston, which won its third straight game.

The Clippers, who have lost five straight and 10 of their last 11 games, got 19 points from Mike Woodson and 17 from Micael Cage. Olajuwon and Robert Reid combined for an 8-0 surge that gave the Rockets a 78-57 lead with eight minutes left in the third quarter.

Prognosis iffy for Astros' Thon

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros shortstop Dickie Thon, who left the club's training camp last weekend, underwent a 2½-hour eye examination Friday that found no change from last year's check, officials said.

Dr. Dan Jones, an eye specialist who has worked with Thon since he was hit in the left eye by a pitch in April 1984, checked Thon's eyes after the 28-year-old complained of vision problems.

"There is reduced vision, problems which cannot be corrected with eye glasses or surgery," Astros spokesman Chuck Pool said. No further treatment or tests are planned at the moment, he said.

Thon left the club's training camp in Kissimmee, Fla., last Saturday, frustrated with his performance and having trouble seeing the ball during exhibition games. He went hitless in eight at-bats, struck out twice and committed three errors in the three spring games he started.

The Astros asked Thon to undergo the examination and expect him to make a decision concerning his status — either return to camp or retire by this weekend.

"We're anticipating his return to Kissimmee," Pool said.

The Astros had said they would fine Thon $1,000 a day if he was not in camp by Friday, but Pool said the daily fine had been put on hold since Thon agreed to take the eye exam.

Thon was Houston's starting shortstop on April 8, 1984, when a beaming incident almost ended his career and forced him to miss the rest of that season.

He was hit above the left eye on a pitch by New York Mets pitcher Mike Torrez in the fifth game of the 1984 season.

Thon has struggled to return to shortstop on a fulltime basis since his return in 1985. He hit .248 last season while platooning at the position with Craig Reynolds.

Howser alert after third operation

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Dick Howser, former manager of the Kansas City Royals, underwent a third operation for a malignant brain tumor diagnosed last year and was alert afterward, a hospital spokesman said Friday.

Kay Murphy, director of public affairs at Huntington Memorial Hospital, where Howser had the surgery, issued a statement saying Howser "tolerated the surgery very well."

The surgery was performed by neurosurgeons Skip Jacques and Donald Freshwater of the Huntington Medical Research Institutes, Murphy said.

The surgery involved a second experimental cancer treatment operation, known as immunostimulation. An identical operation — in which cancer-killing cells are injected into the area of the malignant brain tumor — was performed Dec. 5 on Howser.

"The surgery lasted approximately three hours, starting at 10:15 a.m. (PST)," Murphy said. "Neurosurgeons noted some evidence of tumor growth and believe they were able to remove the tumor. The tumor had been evidenced since the second CAT Scan in early March."

"The neurosurgical team was able to successfully place the fortified lymphocytes into the surgical cavity. Mr. Howser is awake and alert and has spoken with his wife, Nancy. He is expected to be hospitalized one week."

Howser, 50, was diagnosed last July 17 as having a brain tumor. Two days earlier he managed the American League to a 3-2 victory over the National League in the All-Star Game.

He underwent a left frontal craniotomy July 22 to remove part of what was determined to be a malignant tumor.

Howser came to spring training last month intent on returning as the Royals' manager and appeared in uniform at their first practice Feb. 21. Weak from the outset of spring training, he left the field about halfway through the team's two-hour workout the next day.

After staying on the field for about 30 minutes on the morning of Feb. 23, Howser stepped down as manager. He was succeeded by Billy Gardner.

The Hawks are now 18-3 overall while MCC falls to 24-2. The double-header will begin at 1 today.

SMU trustees wax governors

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University's Board of Trustees voted Friday to abolish the Board of Governors and replace it with an interim executive committee to protect against the possibility of another damaging football scandal.

"I believe that this will ensure that SMU will never have to go through the agonies of recent months again," said William Hutchison, chairman of the Board of Governors.

Gov. Bill Clements, who resigned as chairman of the Board of Governors before taking office in January, revealed March 3 that he and several other board members learned of payments to SMU football players in 1984 and decided to continue them.

On Feb. 25, the NCAA abolished football at SMU in 1987 because of a booster slush fund that paid $61,000 to 13 players after the school was placed on its sixth probation in August 1985.

"We felt that basically, due to some actions and statements that had taken place, it had probably lost its credibility," Dr. Leighton Farrell, chairman of SMU's Committee on Governance and a United Methodist pastor, said Friday of the 21-member Board of Governors.

Clements' press secretary, Reggie Bashur, said Friday the governor would have no comment.

The Board of Governors served as an executive committee of the 71-member Board of Trustees, which runs the university. SMU is owned by the United Methodist Church.

"The athletic part of it is a tiny piece of the university, and that's one of the obvious tragedies," said Dallas oilman Ray L. Hunt, chairman of the new interim committee and a member of the Board of Governors.

"In effect, a relatively minor part of the university has generated a grossly disproportionate amount of negative publicity," he said.

"I honestly think today's meeting was a watershed event in the history of this university," Hunt said. He said the changes would "ensure that the problems the university is going through right now will not occur again in the future."

The interim committee will serve until the trustees meet May 8 to consider a permanent restructuring plan, which is expected to include a permanent executive committee of 12 voting members, with the presidents of the student body and alumni association serving as non-voting members.

Clemens rejoins old, old team

HOUSTON (AP) — Holdout Boston pitcher Roger Clemens is trading in the red, white and blue of the Red Sox for the black and gold of his old Houston Astros.

Clemens, the American League Cy Young Award winner last season, showed up unannounced this week to pitch batting practice for the Spring Woods Tigers.

"I'm here for a week to see my wife and kids," Clemens told the Houston Chronicle Thursday. "I'll work out in different places so I won't draw as much media attention. I'll let you know when I want to talk."

"My feelings are still the same, nothing has changed."

Clemens walked out of the Red Sox training camp in Florida

March 6 and is being fined $1,000 a day. After compiling a 24-4 mark last season and leading Boston to the World Series, he wants a contract of $2.4 million over two years.

Boston is offering $500,000 plus $350,000 in incentives for this year.

His agent, Randy Hendricks, said a counterproposal that would pay Clemens $950,000 for the upcoming season was rejected by the Red Sox.

Clemens, meanwhile, looked just like the other high school players, wearing school-issue gold caps, black shirt and gray sweat pants. Thursday, he threw batting practice. Tuesday he squeezed water off the field.

"It's the same ol' stuff — all the things he did when he was in high school," said Coach Charlie Maierana, who last had Clemens as a player seven years ago. "The high school drills must have had something to do with him getting there (to the major leagues), so maybe it will keep him there — wherever 'there' is."

Tiger players said Clemens mentioned nothing about his contract squabble.

"He was just out there working on baseball," pitcher Greg Hammond said.

"It's an honor to catch him," reserve catcher Scott Rogan said. "He kind of inspires you. He makes you think if he can do it, I can do it."

"The last few pitches he had it up to 88 mph. But he can go faster."

Longhorns make like fish in trials

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Betsy Mitchell and Tracey McFarlane, teammates on defending champion Texas, set NCAA records in time trials at the NCAA Division I swimming and diving championships Friday.

Mitchell, the U.S. swimmer of the year in 1986 who finished first in the 200-yard individual medley Thursday, lowered the NCAA and U.S. Open record in the 100 backstroke to 53.98 seconds.

"That's a record I've been after since I was a freshman," said Mitchell, a junior who topped the mark set in 1982 by Sue Walsh — a former teammate of America's top women's backstroke at North Carolina.

McFarlane, also a junior on the Lady Longhorns team, had a time of 1:01.28 to lower the NCAA 100 breaststroke mark set by Tracy Caulkins in 1984. Cindy Ounpuu of Florida, the defending champion, qualified for the championship final with the eighth quickest time.

"I'm hoping to take the mark down to one minute something in the final," said McFarlane, a Canadian citizen who is hoping for Congressional approval to waive the five-year waiting period for U.S. citizenship so she can represent the country in the 1988 Olympics.

"I've lived here with my parents since 1978," she said. "We came here for them to work and weren't planning on staying. But in 1984 I applied for permanent residency. It's frustrating, this is my last year. I have no place to swim (competitively) this summer."

Texas, seeking its fourth consecutive title, had 212 points going into Friday night's seven finals. Stanford was second at 170 with Florida, the runner-up the past two years, third with 116.

Mitchell, a 22-year-old from Marietta, Ohio and the holder of the world record in the 200-meter backstroke, also helped Texas record the top qualifying time in the 400 medley relay. Already a member of two championship relay teams in the sixth NCAA women's meet, Mitchell teamed with McFarlane, Kara McGrath and Courtney Madsen to post a 3:41.63 — nearly three seconds quicker than the second quickest time of 3:44.47 recorded by Stanford.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"COULDN'T I JUST MOVE STUFF AROUND INSTEAD OF PICKING IT UP?"

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Remember! Hugs and kisses come before 'what did you bring us, Grandma?'"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

SUNDAY, MARCH 22, 1987
GENERAL TENDENCIES: You need to make sure you understand whatever comes to your attention. You will be able to get into the practical phases of whatever arises for consideration.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Handle civic tasks first and later be sure to do whatever an important person expects of you.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Study that new course of action before you put it into operation. You can get excellent results with little effort.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) At first you don't understand a responsibility that is yours, but later it sinks in nicely and all goes well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Come to a better understanding with an associate. Dash around in public view tonight and be charming.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You find it hard to handle your duties at first, but later you think clear — and become a human dynamo.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Smooth out any wrinkles in your talents and bring them into the open. Enjoy the happiness you have for now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study the stumbling blocks in family relations and remove them. Make any home improvements that are needed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't let a letter disturb you since this can be turned into an advantage if handled quickly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Postpone handling a practical matter until you know more about it. Get advice from higher-ups.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You find yourself in a cheery mood and can state your desires to those who can assist you in gaining them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may feel depressed at first, but this spurs you on to more progressive activity.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Avoid that person who wants to have his, or her, own way at any cost. Later be with those who can help you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she, will have the ability to reorganize existing methods and come up with something better. Be sure to give as fine an academic education as you can, since your progeny could become a valuable pioneer and a boon to humanity. People will be drawn to this child.

MONDAY, MARCH 23, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It's a good Monday to get into business problems and arrange them so things flow more easily. Your energy is high and you can utilize it for practical gains.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Bring your finest talents to the attention of important people and acquire the added prestige you desire.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Be alert to worldly affairs that can bring you the benefits you deserve. Garner data from different sources.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you are more practical you can easily keep the promises you have made. Successful persons help you advance now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Come to a better understanding with a sensitive partner and be more cooperative.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want to be dramatic in handling your work, but it would be wiser to first make a detailed plan and follow it later.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be sure to study the cost of any amusements you contemplate enjoying and stay within your budget for best results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get busy at improvements at home that can be enjoyed for a long time. Show your friends your gratitude.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make out all the reports and statements that are important. Take it easy tonight and rest up.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be as practical as you can and build up your holdings so that you feel more secure.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study the best way to gain your desires and go after them with efficiency. Concentrate on friends who can help you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) It's a good day to bring your talents to the attention of an important person who can help you further your career.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Stop daydreaming and get busy in the world of business. Use your positive energies wisely.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she, will have the ability to arrange practical affairs and then make them a success, so be sure to slant the education along business administration lines. Upon reaching adulthood your progeny can take on a dying business and give it new life.
