OKLAHOMA CITY AVIATOR WINS NON-STOP DERBY

State Oil Proration Order Goes Into Effect Today With Maximum Unfixed

COASTAL FIELD PERMITTED TO KEEP OUTPUT

Panhandle and West Texas Figures to Be Decided At Hearing

DRILLING TO CEASE

Coast Operators Agree To Keep Rigs Idle During Period

AUSTIN, Aug. 26. (AP)—Mechanics for placing into effect a state wide curtailment of oil production were perfected in an order by the state railroad commission today and made ready for enforcement at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

While today's order, which revised a previous order issued Aug. 14, did not fix a state maximum, the productions allotted each field totalled approximately 764,000 barrels. The first order had fixed a maximum of 750,000 barrels, as compared to daily estimated production then of 863,000 barrels.

Subject to Change

Even that figure is subject to change. For the first 30 days of the 90-day proration period the gulf coast will be allowed its present production, with the understanding that operators in the section will curtail drilling and within the 30 days reach the allowable amount of 150,000 barrels, about 24,000 barrels under present output. The Reagan county field, Big Lake, will be considered at a separate hearing later; the Crane and Upton county allotment of 35,500 barrels was made subject to change and the Panhandle allotment of 80,000 barrels will be considered at a hearing tomorrow.

The report of the west central area, outlining the plan whereby that section's allowable production of 52,000 barrels might be reached, was adopted and made a part of the order. The 41,850 barrels recommended for East Texas was adopted, with the Van field given 27,500 barrels of this production and schedules for other fields to be worked out locally.

Southwest Texas

Southwest Texas including Darst Creek, Salt Flats, Laredo and several smaller pools, was allotted 97,150 barrels. Of this amount, Darst Creek obtained 44,000 barrels, Salt Flat 16,500, Laredo 13,500, and the other fields not to exceed present production.

Chapman field in this district, allotted 9,000 barrels, brought the only protest, operators there contending their potential had been underestimated and the 9,000-barrel figure arrived at "by guesswork."

Promise of coastal operators that they could reach the desired figure by cessation of drilling rather than cutting present production was taken on good faith. The only restrictions made were in regard to new wells. These will be limited to 500 barrels a day, and chokes will be required on all flowing wells.

Ready for the commission's signature was an order tacitly approved by members of the commission defining marginal wells and restricting them from any curtailment order. These were divided into three groups: All wells 2000 to 3500 feet; and all wells producing 20 barrels from 3500 feet and more.

Each field will be allowed to work out its own proration schedule as to production from individual wells, under the commission's supervision.

Hoover Names Page On Tariff Commission

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (US)—President Hoover pushed forward his tariff administration today by appointing Thomas Walker Page, a Virginia Democrat, a member of the reorganized commission.

Page will serve with Henry P. Fletcher, named last week as chairman, and four members yet to be selected. There is considerable belief that two of these will be Chairman Edgar B. Brossard of the present commission and Alfred P. Dennis, one of its members.

Lon Chaney's Body To Rest In Hollywood

Artist of Illusion 'Makes Up' in Genuine Death Mask

Where 'Mystery Man' Won Fame As Actor

By RONALD W. WAGONER

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 26. (UP)—Lon Chaney, the man who brought the art of illusion to motion pictures, was taken by death today just as his friends and relatives began to hope he would recover from a long illness and go on to greater success in the talkies.

It was announced tonight that funeral services for the star will be held here Thursday. Burial will be made in Hollywood.

The six active pallbearers will be intimate friends of the actor. No film prominent was included in the list although many motion picture people were named honorary pallbearers. They included Louis B. Mayer, Irving Thalberg, Tod Browning, William Haines, Harry Carey, Lionel Barrymore, Ramon Navarro, Lawrence Tibbetts, Cliff Edwards, Fred Niblo and Wallace Beery.

Gen. Smedley D. Butler of the United States marine corps, a long time friend of Chaney's, also was named as an honorary bearer.

Known as the mystery man of Hollywood—a man who had scores of friends but few intimates—Chaney clung to his cloak of secrecy during the final period of his life.

He was stricken seriously several months ago, shortly after he had completed his first talking picture, "The Unholy Three," and under his orders, little information came from his bedside at St. Vincent's hospital where he died.

Sisters at the hospital were requested by the actor to give out no information of his illness. His physician issued only brief bulletins at widely separated intervals, and members of his family came and left the hospital in silence.

Chaney was conscious until he was seized with a hemorrhage of the throat early this morning and evidently believed until the last that his strong constitution would pull him through. Studio officials explained that he did not wish to alarm his family and his many friends and admirers by calling undue attention to his condition.

Chaney's career was considered one of the most spectacular in Hollywood where unknowns have risen to wealth and prominence over night. His rise was relatively rapid, but was preceded by hard work and application of a talent cherish-

Amarillo Grand Jury Ends Second Day of Bomb Quiz Without Action

Payne Spends Day in Giving Long Statement to Professor of Psychology From Canyon

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 26. (AP)—Adjourning late today after two days of deliberation, the grand jury still had taken no action in the case of A. D. Payne, Amarillo attorney charged with murder in the bombing of an automobile June 12 which killed his wife and maimed his son, A. D. Payne Jr., 11.

Not more than eight or 10 witnesses were believed to have been examined in connection with the Payne case, while a number of other witnesses appeared before the jury in other cases.

Other than Miss Verona Thompson, the former secretary who confessed Payne made love to her, the witnesses examined were mostly peace officers.

Two young men, employes of a hardware store in Borger, from whom Payne in his confession said he bought the dynamite with which his wife's body was blown to bits, were expected to appear before the grand jury tomorrow.

The investigation apparently was not proceeding to the exclusion of other cases, several no-bills having been sent down late today to Sheriff W. N. Thomerson from the list of 36 complaints sent to the grand jury from the justice court.

Payne spent most of the day downstairs at the county jail, making a statement to J. L. Duflot, professor of psychology and sociology at West Texas State Teachers' college at Canyon—one of Payne's former instructors. The statement was taken in shorthand.

Professor Duflot, who had sought an interview with Payne since the time of his arrest, was unable to get in to see the accused attorney until Homer A. Callaway, defense attorney, interceded in his behalf.

He stated, however, he would not be a witness in the case but was interested in questioning Payne only to make a study for his classes.

REPORTS HAVE LEGUIA DYING

Threat of Civil War In Peru Averted

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 26. (AP)—Rumors that ex-President Augusto B. Leguia of Peru was dead or dying aboard the cruiser Almirante Grau in Callao echoed through Lima today.

They arose as soon as it had been learned that the ex-president was suffering from an attack of uremia, of which he has long been a victim. One of his aides who accompanied him aboard the cruiser, where he is a prisoner of the junta, came ashore this morning and summoned an American doctor, Dr. McCormack.

The rumor that the ex-president was dead persistently circulated, but all efforts to verify it proved useless. Dr. McCormack was quoted in some quarters as saying Leguia was ill but no gravely so.

At a local bank this afternoon, however, The Associated Press correspondent heard that when Dr. McCormack landed from the cruiser at 3 p. m., he had told the manager of the bank's Callao office that he expected the ex-president to die within a few hours.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 26. (AP)—The threat of a civil war between north and south in Peru, following upon the fall of ex-President Leguia's administration, was apparently averted today by announcement of impending negotiations for peace and a united government.

Lieut. Col. Luis Sanchez Cerro, leader of the insurgents at Arequipa in the south, is expected in Lima tomorrow to negotiate in person with General Manuel Maria Ponce, head of the military junta in Lima.

With ex-President Augusto B. Leguia a prisoner of the junta, and to be tried for the acts of his 11 years' presidency, leaders in the north and in the south have apparently reached a working basis for agreement.

GOTHAM HAILS GERMAN FLIERS

Capt. Von Gronau and Trio Complete Flight

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (UP)—Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his three companions brought down their flying boat in New York harbor off the Statue of Liberty today, completing a skillful if unpretentious flight across the North Atlantic from Germany.

The blunt-nosed Dornier Wal, a veteran of the air, thus became the first transocean plane to land its passengers adjacent to Manhattan island in the lanes where steamships reach journey's end from the ports of the world.

The German airmen, to whom the aerial voyage was a mere "training flight," and who set off without advance notice a week ago from the Isle of Syit in the North Sea, raced at a 100-mile-an-hour clip from Halifax, N. S., in the last phase of their adventure. They left Halifax at 9:45 a. m., and sped over the 600 miles of land and coastal waters to be sighted by harbor craft at 3:30 p. m. eastern daylight time.

Circling for a landing and dipping occasionally as though to answer the salute of screaming sirens the flying boat then skimmed to a stop at 3:47 p. m.

The flight commander said he felt certain he would not fly back to Europe over the same or any other route.

He explained it was difficult to obtain enough fuel in the Arctic regions for even a moderately long flight and that too much time would be consumed in waiting for supplies to reach bases at the various scheduled stops.

Captain von Gronau estimated he and his companions had flown some 5,000 nautical miles and had been in the air about 47 hours.

"The flight was not by any means a record," he said, pointing out that the flying boat was an old one as aircraft is measured. It was bought from the Norwegian government after Roald Amundsen had used it on Arctic flights.

"More modern and perhaps more efficient flying equipment is available now for such a flight than the machine we used," he added.

Many more flights such as his would be necessary, he said, before the feasibility of a northern air route between Europe and America could be definitely determined.

"It is not customary," he said, "for planes to fly against storms, fogs and heavy rains for hours at a time over vast areas of ice and sea.

After the interview, the captain and his proteges were ferried back in a police launch to the flying boat. After a brief warm-up of the huge motors, the sea-green plane sped down a specially prepared harbor lane and flew gracefully into the air. It banked around the Statue of Liberty and then flew low up the west side of Manhattan, trailing after a police seaplane which guided it to the base at North beach.

The fliers were taken to the Hotel Roosevelt to spend the night.

Finding the offices of the Texas senators closed, Gertrude in desperation wrote a letter to President Hoover begging permission to call. The president immediately sent for the children.

Wichita Falls Boy's Leg Mangled As Railroad Weed Burner Jumps Track

Rescuers Work 30 Minutes to Release Injured Youth; Housewives Help Lift Heavy Machine

R. W. Fincher, 19, an employe of the Wichita Valley Railway company, suffered a badly crushed and mangled right leg Tuesday afternoon when a weed burner on a switch near the Grace street railroad crossing jumped the track and threw him between the motor and tank section of the burner, dragging his leg for about 10 feet after he had become entangled in the braces between the two sections.

The young man was rushed to the Wichita General hospital in an emergency ambulance from the Merkle Undertaking company after railway workmen and persons near the scene of the accident had spent almost half an hour extricating him from the position into which he was thrown. Attendants said he was resting as well as could be expected late Tuesday night. Physicians were working to save the crushed leg, which was badly mangled from the knee to the ankle, although they remained uncertain at a late hour as to whether they could avoid the necessity of amputation.

The accident occurred about 4:45 o'clock. The weed burner had just completed work on a section of the main line track and had moved onto the switch track when the front wheels were derailed, evidently by earth or some other obstruction on the track. The burner swayed sharply as the wheels left the track, onlookers reported, and Fincher, who was standing on the oil tank portion of the burner, was thrown between the two sections.

His legs became entangled in the braces of the wheel truck and the right leg was dragged about 10 feet

WILEY POST IS FIRST TO LAND AT AIR MEET

Sooner Pilot Reaches Chicago From Los Angeles In Nine Hours

SCHOENHAIR SECOND

Art Goebel Yet to Take Off in Speed Dash To Chicago

CURTISS REYNOLDS AIRport, Chicago, Aug. 26. (AP)—Slower than he had anticipated but 30 minutes faster than his closest rival, Wiley Post of Oklahoma City led three other fliers into Chicago today in the non-stop derby from Los Angeles. He made the trip in nine hours, nine minutes and four seconds.

Lee Schoenhair of Akron, Ohio, was second with elapsed time of 9.39:17; William Brock of Detroit third with 9.53:57 and Roscoe Turner, Los Angeles, fourth, with 9.58:41.

Goebel to Fly

Post flew a Lockheed-Wasp monoplane. He can not be declared the winner of the $7,500 prize until Art Goebel, winner of the 1927 Dole flight to Hawaii, races or declares himself out of the contest. Goebel said he would not take off from Los Angeles until he learned the time of the other contestants. Under rules governing the contest he may make the flight anytime up until Sept. 1.

Post abandoned his original plan of refuelling here and continuing on to New York in an effort to beat the transcontinental record of Capt. Frank Hawks.

If he had arrived within eight hours, Post planned to refuel in the air here, drop one of two barographs to establish his standing in the derby, and continue on to New York. He puffed wearily when he stepped from his plane and appeared bewildered as two race attendants escorted him across the field on their arms.

Good Weather

Both he and Schoenhair said they flew through good weather until they neared the scene of the national races, where ground haze made visibility poor. Neither had sight of the other during their flight, and they entered the airport from opposite sides.

Brock carried Robert Brown as a passenger on his ship and the latter was burned about the arms when he attempted to repair the plane's radio set.

Alex, Magyar and George Enders, Hungarian fliers, two took off from Los Angeles at 5:32 a. m., Pacific time, announcing they would fly to the races with the non-stop derbyists, failed to arrive. They were not entrants in the derby. Magyar and Enders plan to fly to Budapest.

'King Alfred' of American Marksmen Back in Home Town After Conquest

By W. P. HOOD

A king slipped quietly into Wichita Falls Tuesday evening. He was just a boy king. No trumpets heralded his arrival and no show of regal splendor met him at the gates. But he was a king nevertheless, and all Texas has paid him honor, just as the entire nation has resounded with the news of his victory.

That boy king is Alfred Rufus King Jr., 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. King of 320 Morningside drive. To his friends and schoolmates here he is known as Rufus. To the press of the nation he has become known within the last few days as "King Alfred."

All because last Saturday at Vandalia field in Dayton, Ohio, the lad won the greatest honor in American trapshooting, the Grand American handicap. On that day a miracle of sport, an event which will go down in history as one of the greatest upsets of all time, took place.

It will be difficult for Wichita Falls to realize the magnitude of the thing this boy has done. Rufus somehow will just remain Rufus to

Returns were unusually slow in coming in, indicating, observers said, one of the heaviest ballots in

Hollywood Mourns Death Of Lon Chaney, Films' 'Mystery Man'

ed from his boyhood days in Colorado.

Lon Chaney always liked to "fool with makeup," and to this hobby he owed much of his great success in the cinema.

"I just liked to putter around with the stuff," he often explained to interviewers with whom he always was extremely reticent. "I soon found out that I could do some rather good things with it."

The actor was born to deaf mute parents in Colorado Springs, Colo., April 1, 1883. The fact that he was born in "April Fool's day" gave him many a laugh as he continued to mystify the movie public with his facial guises and body deformations.

The acting profession always appealed to him. He organized kid circuses around Colorado Springs and supervised juvenile stage plays in which he served as leading man, chief property man and in other "important" capacities.

Finally Chaney went on the road as a professional. He played some opera parts but as the fortunes of the stage varied he was forced to turn stage hand, prop boy or electrician to earn a living.

His wanderings ended one day when his company went broke in Santa Ana, Calif. Chaney did the natural thing. He went to Hollywood to take a long shot at the movies.

A bit of extra work in a western picture first brought Chaney to the screen. This was followed by other extra bits and directors and producers began to notice that Chaney was an artist at makeup.

Bigger roles began to come his way. He scored outstanding success in such silent films as "The Miracle Man," "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "The Phantom of the Opera," "Laugh Clown Laugh," and others.

The talkies never found favor with Chaney. He clung to the idea that the art of pantomime and makeup was the "body" of the film industry and felt that the human voice could not improve the Chaney makeup.

As he was talking with his wife and Creighton Chaney, his son, the actor suffered the hemorrhage which brought death.

Chaney made huge sums in the movies but never lived the extravagant life of other Hollywood stars. He was content to remain quietly with his wife and son, passing up most of Hollywood's entertainment.

His chief amusements were horseback riding, golf, swimming and prize fights. There seldom was a boxing event staged in California without Chaney at the ringside and he frequently traveled east to take in some big sporting event.

In addition to his wife and son, the actor is survived by two brothers, John, who lives in Hollywood, and Frank, who publishes a newspaper in Martinez, Calif.

Lon Chaney

REAL CONDITION KEPT FROM LON

LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor,
Universal Service

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—Lon Chaney lost his brave, determined fight against death at a time when he believed that he would soon be well again. Only a few short hours before he closed his tired eyes, he had sat up in bed and wondered why his recovery was so slow. No one told Lon the truth, that a treacherous cancer was eating his throat and that the chances against his getting well were miserably few.

He scanned the newspapers every day and because he was so faithful a reader of all motion picture news, not one writer betrayed the confidence of the studio. All the film writers knew that the man who was so dear to the motion picture fans was fighting a losing battle, but on the chance that Lon might read about himself they all made light of his illness.

No Publicity Seeker

Lon never asked for publicity. He wasn't a publicity seeker, but he did love to read everything that was written concerning motion pictures. He had been badly offended and his pride hurt when a report had gone around and was even printed that he could not speak lines. He was doubly sensitive because his parents were deaf and dumb mutes.

He longed to show his loyal public that the talkies were as easy for him as the silent drama had been. I think it will always be a source of gratification to those who knew Lon Chaney that he did show the world that he could make a successful talking picture. His voice so long silent was clear as a bell, his enunciation was good and he proved he was as valuable in the talkie version of "The Unholy Three," as he had been in the silent melodramas.

He was eager to start his second talking picture, "Cheri Bebi," and often during his last and fatal illness he would discuss the story, one he had personally selected. Lon had no idea that he would never again make another picture. His illness, he thought, was only of a trivial nature due to a tonsil operation.

The world instinctively sensed, however, that the man of a thousand faces who had given them such excellent entertainment was critically ill. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was deluged with inquiries that came so rapidly it was necessary to put extra help on the switchboard.

Many Offer Blood

Not only did the calls come inquiring about his condition but many people offered their blood pitifully eager to do something to save the life of their idol. A nurse 65 years old begged to be allowed to give her blood and to nurse him. Her only acquaintance with Mr. Chaney was on the screen but she adored him. The president of a railroad who met Chaney asked to be allowed to fly to Hollywood and give his blood. Men and women in all walks of life offered their blood for the man who had given his best for their entertainment.

One of the boys in the press department of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios who had worked in personal contact with Mr. Chaney sobbed while he told me of the human side of the actor who played so many despicable characters on the screen and who was so loved by everyone on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot. "Lon was different," he said. "He did not want any spectacular publicity. He never complained. He only asked that the truth be printed. These last few days have been horrible. We were so afraid someone might print that his days were numbered and the newspaper would fall into his hands."

Lon was as faithful to his movies as he was to his wife. Years ago when he was young, he had married a pretty girl in his company and through all the years he had kept her by his side. There was never a breath of scandal about the Chaneys.

They were devoted to each other during their 24 years of married life. They lived quietly, seldom appearing in public, but those who knew the Chaneys valued their friendship.

Lon Chaney will be missed. His quiet, lovable personality and his thoughtfulness to others less fortunate will be remembered. There is no one to take his place on the screen for he stood alone as the sole creator of his particular type of character, eccentric, misunderstood and in the end making the supreme sacrifice.

OKLAHOMA CITY KNEW CHANEY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 26. (AP)—Lon Chaney, famous character actor who died in Los Angeles today, formerly was a clerk in a furniture store here.

V. C. Light, Oklahoma City real estate broker, recalled he was teamed with Chaney in his first home talent production in 1907 and related their exploits together the following two years.

Chaney in 1907 worked as the head of the rug department of the Street and Harper Furniture company here.

Light said he was driving an express wagon and he and Chaney played the principal parts in a "La Mascot," a light comic opera produced by home talent.

Charles Holmes, now dead, then operator of a local opera company witnessed the show and employed both Chaney and Light, Chaney for the comedian roles.

When the season ended Chaney and Light were employed by a musical comedy company for three months, touring the Southwest. When the company split up Chaney and his wife returned here where he and Light became connected with a small vaudeville circuit. Their act was a black face sketch with Chaney playing the part of a hunchback.

Later, Light said, he and Chaney obtained a contract with the Western association, a big time circuit then playing such stars as Fred Stone and Marie Dressler.

Chaney's study of character interpretations began with long walks before breakfast. Meeting beggars and passersby in all walks of life, he talked with them, studied them, then returned to the theater to make up as nearly like them as possible.

ACTOR MARRIED LAWTON WOMAN

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 26.—Contrary to press stories repeatedly published that Lon Chaney was a resident of this city and county in the early days, investigation discloses that the famous character actor never did reside here, although he married one of this city's most beautiful and talented young women, Miss Francis Cleveland Creighton, daughter of Mrs. M. J. Ozmun, in 1903.

Miss Creighton, who had studied voice and dramatic art was a member of Chaney's company for about a year previous to the marriage.

They were married in Oklahoma City and toured the West and Middle West for five years, when they were divorced.

The couple have one son, Creighton Tull Chaney, who now resides in Hollywood.

The former wife of Chaney remarried and now resides in California.

Visit Wife's Family

Chaney visited his wife's family in Lawton in the early days and appeared here at one time in "The Beggar Prince," a Chicago production.

Chaney's remarkable rise to fame climaxed a career which was started in Colorado Springs, Colo., following the staging there of a successful home talent production by Chaney. Chaney was then known as the best dancer in Colorado Springs.

His home talent production proved such a success, Mrs. Ozmun states, that he took the show on the road, marking his entry proper into the show business.

He shortly afterwards effected a partnership with Charlie Holmes and organized a professional company.

Between seasons, Chaney once worked as a window dresser in Oklahoma City, but consistently stayed in the legitimate until he attracted attention of movie magnates who signed him up for the screen.

Lon Chaney never resided here, Mrs. Ozmun states, but there was a Chaney who operated a photograph gallery over the old postoffice in the early days.

Governor Hears Reports Of West Texans

ernor to impress him with the seriousness of conditions.

The telegram to Secretary Hyde was as follows:

"In some of these 38 counties, conditions are positively distressing. There is actual suffering for lack of the necessities of life. Work stock and poultry is being sold on a sacrifice market. Ranges are barren and livestock is suffering for want of feed. Lower freight rates for feed shipments is not adequate relief for there is an absence of funds with which to buy feed. Immediate relief is imperative."

Counties named in the telegram as the worst stricken were: Hall, Childress, Hardeman, Wilbarger, Foard, Cottle, Motley, King, Knox, Baylor, Throckmorton, Floyd, Bailey, Crosby, Dickens, Haskell, Stonewall, Kent, Garza, Lynn, Dawson, Borden, Scurry, Fisher, Jones, Shackelford, Stephens, Eastland, Callahan, Taylor, Nolan, Mitchell, Howard, Martin, Sterling, Coke, Runnels and Coleman.

Federal Loans Urged

Bandeen said that the committee had suggested the need of federal loans to farmers on long terms and an easy basis.

With today's additions the governor stressed two points in his proposal, that the governors' appeal be addressed, not only to the South, but to the whole nation; and second, that "distressed" cotton, not under contract by cooperatives, be purchased.

He said he had consulted officials of the Texas Cotton Cooperative, operating under funds from the federal farm board, and they had expressed no objections to the movement.

After he has heard from other governors of the South, Governor Moody planned to issue a proclamation addressed particularly to the people of Texas and generally to the nation. Other governors joining the movement probably will do likewise.

While plans for the campaign have not been formulated it was suggested that sectional and state campaigns might be launched.

The governor also telegraphed Director Baxter of the American Red Cross asking how much of the $5,000,000 national drouth sufferers fund will be allotted to meet emergencies in Texas.

Governor Moody promised the committee he will go to Washington to personally press claims for the emergency loan if the trip promises to bring results.

WICHITA BOYS' LEG MANGLED

R. W. Fincher Injured In Railroad Mishap

before the burner came to a stop. One of the men who worked to extricate the young man was forced to unwrap the leg from around a brace before the youth could be remove. Twelve men were required to lift the 800-gallon oil tank before Fincher could be pulled out. The youth bore the pain of the crushed leg with amazing fortitude, uttering no cries or sounds except to give occasional directions to the men working to extricate him, onlookers reported.

Even women and children at the scene of the accident took part in the rescue work, running from their homes nearby to the track crossing with buckets and pans of water which they poured on the weed fires already started by the burner. The fire was drawing near the spot where the youth was caught and the smoke and heat were hampering the work of the men trying to disentangle the young man. Some of the women even assisted in lifting the heavy oil tank. The rescue work was further hampered by the hot pipes and burners of the machine, Fincher having become caught at the point where the highly heated burners project from the body of the weed burner.

Fincher makes his home here with an uncle, W. K. Fretwell, at 404 Seventh street.

HASKELLS ASK VOIDING OF SUIT

Former Governor and Son In Court Battle

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (AP)—Counsel for Charles N. Haskell, former governor of Oklahoma, and his son Charles J., sought in supreme court today to set aside the services of summons served on them in damage suits asking an aggregate of a million dollars.

The summons were served on July 29 after the former governor and his son had testified voluntarily in equity proceedings against the Middle States Oil company. The attorney contended the summons were illegally served because the Haskells came as voluntary witnesses in connection with claims of the Unity Securities corporation, of which the younger Haskell was an officer.

The damage suits brought by Walter G. and William A. Williams and Robert Staley, charge the Haskells with the transfer of about a million dollars to the Securities corporation in the interests of Heskell's relatives and to the detriment of the Middle States Oil company stockholders.

Haskell senior said he lived in Muskogee, Okla., and his son named San Antonio, Texas, as his home.

Grohoma, New Grain Crop to Be Studied

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 26. (UP)—John F. Martin, head of the Sorgo grain investigation of the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., will investigate the growing of grohoma, new grain and fodder crop north of Britton, Sept. 3, President Harry B. Cordell of the state board of agriculture, announced today.

Martin will be accompanied in his investigation by John B. Seiglinger, head of the Woodward experiment station, and officials of the agronomy department of A. & M. college.

Grohoma was developed through grafting by Fred Groff, farmer living a mile north of Britton. Groff first experimented six years ago. In the past five years his crop has proved true to type, he said. This year 471 acres were planted under government supervision.

Violin Pupil Bids Farewell To Famous Master in Simple Melody

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (AP)—With a simple, beautiful melody which he seldom plays except as an encore, a famous pupil bade farewell to his master today.

It was the "Ave Maria" of Schubert, and Jscha Heifetz played it at the funeral of Leopold Auer, who had been his teacher and his friend ever since he was a little boy appearing before his first audiences, back in Russia.

A score of musicians, whose names are famous the world over, gathered to pay their final tribute to the maker of violinists, who died a few weeks ago in Dresden. To New York, scene of the triumphs of his famous pupils, his widow had brought his body for burial.

Heifetz was one of the pallbearers, and so was Toscha Seidel, another of Dr Auer's distinguished proteges. Other pallbearers were Mischa Elman, Josef Hoffman, Joseph Ahcorn, Paul Stassevitch, Ernest Hutcheson, Prince Alexis Oblensky and Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times.

The Russian cathedral choir participated in the service, and the Very Rev. Leonid Purkevitch, dean of the cathedral, officiated.

SOONER ROAD PLANS PUSHED

Special Session to Act On $15,000,000 Program

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 26. (AP)—Gov. W. J. Holloway will be asked to call a special session of the legislature in the near future to consider a proposal that $15,000,000 be made available immediately for highway construction, it was indicated here today.

Ira A. Hill, Republican gubernatorial nominee, said today after receiving a formal opinion from the attorney general that he would confer with Governor Holloway concerning the session. An effort will be made to hold the conference tomorrow when the governor is expected to return from Texarkana.

The attorney general said today in a formal decision, issued after a second conference with assistant attorneys general, that the only manner in which Hill's plan of issuing $15,000,000 in short term notes for highway work this winter could be legally carried out would be through submission by the special session of the porposal to the voters of the state.

Because the general election is set for Nov. 4, a call for a legislative session would have to be set almost immediately, Hill said.

WHEAT RAISERS TO PLANT LESS

Fall Seedings of Winter Crop to Be Cut

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (INS)—Seedings this fall of winter wheat will be 4½ per cent less than last fall if the August intentions of farmers, indicating 41,392,000 acres, are planted, the lowest intended acreage since 1923, the crop estimate board of the department of agriculture announced today.

The board reported an intended increase of 1.3 in fall seedings of winter rye over seedings for the fall of 1929, indicating an acreage of 3,882,000, compared with a seven-year average intention of 4,441,000.

The wheat acreage forecast shows a decrease for the third consecutive year since the peak year of 1927 when farmers reported in August an intention to seed over 49,000,000 acres of winter wheat.

The board said that weather conditions and other causes have usually prevented the seeding of the full acreage intended.

How to recognize a low blood count

Fatigue without any apparent cause, sluggishness, loss of appetite, loss of body weight, paleness, boils and pimples are outstanding symptoms of a LOW RED-BLOOD-CELL COUNT. The red-cells are your body builders. They carry nourishment to every part of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the tissues. When your red-cells drop to 80 per cent of normal strength, you haven't the proper number of workers to keep you "fit" 60 per cent of normal is dangerous. S.S.S.—the great blood tonic—stimulates the blood-building organs to supply the necessary red-cells. Your appetite picks up, your body is strengthened—you feel like yourself again!

Builds Sturdy Health

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to every cubic millimeter.

THE BLOW-OUT PROOF TIRE

Things to think about in connection with Blowouts

At sixty you are going 88 feet a second.

You are two feet from trouble on a crowded boulevard.

It's only a split second from road to wreck.

On the brink of a hill at any speed a blowout is bad news.

Today every thinking motorist is seeking greater safety to meet modern driving conditions. The new Blowout-Proof Dual-Balloon makes safety a fact. Proved by tests that have amazed safety experts. General developed the Dual-Balloon construction and patented it.

With the Blowout-Proof Tire you are safe from the daily hazards that are causing the yearly casualties to run into staggering figures. Safe against the sudden impact of road holes and bumps that shatter the carcass of ordinary tires.

With so little time to act when a tire blows, plus the almost certain consequences of a serious smash, it doesn't pay to gamble with safety.

Let us demonstrate. Experience this new safety and the easiest ride you've ever had on the lowest pressure ever known.

Open Air Bridge Is Pretty Tuesday Evening Courtesy

Sam Jones was host Monday evening at an informal bridge party given on the lawn that makes a lovely picture at the rear of the home of his mother, Mrs. H. Duff Jones on Wofford. With artificial lights and the music of the radio in the open air, a delightful evening was spent.

In the bridge games, Frances Krauss was winner of girl's high score prize and Lorraine Mathis won in cut for second. Mildred Childs was presented with a comforting dollie as consolation, while dainty gifts were awarded first and second. Douglas Duck received a box of candy for high among the boys.

Iced watermelon was served at the close of the games and the remainder of the evening was spent in music. Loraine Mathis and Sam Jones played violin numbers and vocal music was the particularly enjoyable informal feature of the evening.

The group included Loraine Mathis and Randolph McCauley, Kathleen Cason and Douglas Duck, Mildred Childs and Sam Jones, Frances Krauss and Edwin Bebb, with Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey and Mrs. H. Duff Jones.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Time, the weekly news magazine, tells of dispatches from Clarkdale, Miss., telling of a locust that had made its appearance in that town with the letter W on its back—an indication, the old settlers said, of war within seven years. Such letters appeared on locusts before all the wars of American history from the revolution down to the great war of our day.

There may be war, but we do not believe the locusts appeared in the proper locality. It seems impossible to us to think of our country involved again in war in seven years.

"Journey's End" and "All Quiet on the Western Front" are propaganda that will make hearts overflowing with patriotism hate the thought of war.

Gold star mothers will be living more than seven years from now. Those women who have sons sleeping far from home, and some the fate of whose sons is still unknown, will head the ranks of women opposing war.

And hospitals will still be caring for young men who went alert and virile into the last great war but who came back hulks and pieces of men.

Children born in wedlock that should not have been permitted will be a sermon against war. We have seen pitiful specimens born of shell-shocked and tubercular fathers.

We wonder if those who have gone through a great war and seen the upheaval following it, are not always opposed to another war. A greater horror of conflict will live in the memories of those who first knew of gas and submarines and airplanes.

Who wants to fight anyway? Maybe those locusts were foretelling family wars. We seem to have just a plenty of that sort in these United States.

Not in the United States alone; they've been fighting in families since the days of Cain and Abel and it will go on for all time. There is an old saying that "blood is thicker than water," and we know many clanny folks that adhere to that belief. But it all depends on how close akin the heart is. We choose our friends and we are not able to help having our relatives.

In one way, it is a sweet and blessed thing. That old "every crow thinks his young the blackest," applies all through the babyhood days and, in successful parenthood, through life. And who are we, who at every opportunity tell the wonders of our young, to mock at others who praise the scions of their own?

But there are few families who have no skeleton in the closet. It may be a skeleton of a nature that must be hidden, or it may be just an unpleasant connection of the family whom everyone fights. But skeletons, if they do not cause war, invariably cause uneasiness and quite often a friction akin to war.

Good Nature And Patience 'Trumps' For Men, Says Dix

Dear Miss Dix—Do good nature and patience help a young man in gaining popularity with the opposite sex? —BOB.

Answer—You bet they do, Bob. They are trump cards that always take the trick. I can think of no other two qualities that make such a hit with women as good nature and patience.

These chaps who have to be handled with gloves and who keep a girl walking on edge to try to keep off of their prejudices and sensibilities get on her nerves. She gets tired of always having to smooth their fur and keep them rubbed down the right way. She gets weary of apologizing for things she hasn't done and of always having to yes-yes them.

A girl has to be mighty hard up for a boy friend and have very few dates not to give that kind of fellow the air. Nor does she consider him good matrimonial material, for she knows it would be a long, hard pull to have to live with a husband who was irritable and hard to get along with and whose wife would always have to be on her tiptoes to please him.

But the good-natured boy is something else yet again. He may not be so good-looking. He may not have a very snappy line. He may not have a great deal of money to spend on a girl, but he is so pleasant to get along with. He is soothing and restful. He is like a calm after a storm and when she goes out with him she knows that there are going to be no fights, no quarreling, nothing unpleasant that leaves a bad taste in her mouth. And when she thinks about marrying she knows that is the kind of husband that she wants, for, after all, the most important thing about a man is his disposition. That is what his wife has to live with.

Not long ago I heard a millionaire say that he regarded patience as the most valuable quality almost that a man could possess and that it was about nine points out of ten in the game of success. He said that it was the man who didn't get discouraged and give up but who held on who nearly always won out in the end.

And that is as true in courtship as it is in business. It is the patient suitor, the lad who camps on a girl's doorstep and stays there, who winds up by leading her to the altar. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married more than 10 years and have a mighty sweet little wife who is a great housekeeper. There is one thing, however, which I would like changed in her. She has a perfect mania for moving the furniture to various parts of the house, and when I come in at night I never know whether the dining room will be in my bedroom or the sitting room will be in the kitchen or vice versa. I hate to object to her chasing things over the house because she seems to get such a kick out of it, and I have been hoping that she would get tired of swapping things about and settle down, but she gets worse and worse. I hate all this changing and it makes me very uncomfortable. Should I submit or make a protest?

—DOCTOR.

Answer—You can relieve your feelings my making a protest, but it won't do any good, for when women have this shifting-the-furniture complex nothing will cure them. I have no remedy to suggest. I can only offer my profound sympathy, for I am like you, I loathe having furniture changed about and I like my chairs and tables to be as stable as my friends and to feel that I can put my hands on them in the dark.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Thrift Exchange Needs Clothing, Cash and Shoes

Although various garments and $8 in cash have been turned in to Mrs. R. P. Willis, chairman in charge of the Parent-Teacher Association Thrift exchange since Saturday, it is taking a large amount of hope to enable the members of this organization to "carry on." Up to now, according to Mrs. Willis, this commendable community enterprise has failed to receive the co-operation expected.

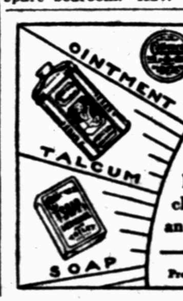

The receiving station in the basement of the Memorial auditorium, will remain open for the entire week preceeding the opening of school if it is possible. The first opening day is Tuesday Sept. 2, and already anxious parents are making applications for aid. The receiving room is next door to Mrs. Effie McHam's Family relief office and is now open each day to receive articles.

More clothing and shoes are urgently needed to supply the hordes of eager children from the 15 school districts, who will be accompanied by either parent or welfare chairman when they visit the exchange next week, hoping to be fitted with suitable clothing in which to begin school.

There is, in store rooms, closets and trunks in the city of Wichita Falls, enough serviceable, outgrown clothing to fully take care of these needy children. The citizens of Wichita Falls are urged to co-operate in this small way to help unfortunate children help themselves. The need is a very real one, leaders say.

MARLOW TELLS OF OLD DAYS

Napier 'Scared to Death' By First Rain, Club Told

"There is no reason why Henrietta should not have been the biggest town between Fort Worth and Denver, if they had only pushed as hard as Wichita Falls."

This statement, amplified with the facts of the early growth of Wichita Falls and added to with yarns about the early days of the city, was made Tuesday noon by J. B. Marlow, one of the city's oldest citizens, in an address before the Advertising club in which he described the little prairie village of a half-century ago as a prelude to an address by Wilburn Page, manager of the Junior chamber of commerce and one of the city's younger citizens, in which the more interesting facts of the Wichita Falls of 1930 were presented in contrast.

Scared by Rain

"You think we've had a drouth this summer," Mr. Marlow said, opening his talk with a few rich yarns of the early days. "Back in 1886 and 1887 we had a real drouth. On April 1, 1886, a light snow fell. That was the last moisture that fell until Oct. 17, 1887, or about 17 months later. Judge Napier was born in 1886 and consequently was a big boy when he saw his first rain. It nearly scared the life out of him when it did rain."

The speaker said a couple who came here from Missouri tried to sell the 1,000 acres of land they had bought, offering it for the price of railway tickets back to Missouri on account of the devastating drouth, but could not find a buyer even at that price.

"This city has one of the greatest leaders the state of Texas has ever produced," Mr. Marlow said. "That man is J. A. Kemp. With his leadership and a well organized citizenship, Wichita Falls pushed its way ahead of other towns with more opportunity even than it had for growth. We were first to build railroads; we were the first city in the world to have a complete automatic telephone system; we were the first city in the United States to take its full quota of liberty bonds and we were two weeks ahead of all the other cities. We've been first in everything that counted, and we will continue to be first."

Following Mr. Marlow's address, George Taylor sang two cowboy songs, accompanying himself on the guitar.

Modern City

The Wichita Falls of the present day was described in the talk given by Wilburn Page.

"Wichita Falls has labor, it has capital, it has transportation, it has power, it provides good laws, and above all it has a wonderful market territory composed of around 1,000,000 people," he said.

"It has today four banks with total resources of over 30 million dollars. It has private capital of an unlimited amount. It has a high type of labor, four major railroad systems, economical power furnished by gas and electricity at low rates, and an unlimited water supply. It has the best living conditions to be found anywhere—churches, parks, swimming pools, theaters, a wonderful baseball team, one of the finest school systems in the country, a public library, a radio station, two airports, a citizenship that has been able to buy 21,000 automobiles, good roads.

"Wichita Falls today is the logical center of one of the greatest markets to be found in the world. Last year in the Wichita Falls trade territory, $44,500,000 was spent in production activities in the oil industry. We are in the center of a district of 24,500 producing wells, and in the center of a territory in which are located 78,000 farms valued at $856,500,000. These farms last year produced in new wealth—and 1929 was considered an off year—crops valued at $189,000,000, with livestock values placed at $4,493,709."

The program, which was under the direction of Mrs. R. E. Davis, representing the P. B. M. company, was closed with two numbers by Miss Harriett Bradley, contralto, accompanied by Miss Lorene Tucker. The program was broadcast by remote control over station KGKO.

A committee composed of T. A. Bradley, V. N. Armstrong and Clyde Greer was named by President C. A. Spragins to work out plans for attending the International Advertising convention to be held in Houston during September. Next week's program, it was announced, will be under the direction of Lester Jones for the Wichita State bank.

Two Negro Actors Die After Playing Role Of Doomed Man

Producer Forced To Use White Performer For Part

By H. ALLEN SMITH

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (UP)—Twice within a week, death has struck down the negro actors in the role of a doomed criminal in the all-colored musical revue, "Hot Rhythm," and today the casting director for the show could not find a negro anywhere in New York who would step into the hoodoo part.

When the curtain rose on the fifth performance of "Hot Rhythm" at the Times Square theater tonight, a white man, with burnt cork on his face, was led off to the stage electric chair.

The show went into rehearsal three weeks ago with a negro named James W. Jackson taking the part of the doomed convict. The scene in which he was to play portrayed a range of prison cells. It was designed to be a burlesque on the popular drama, "The Last Mile."

Jackson was to be led down the corridor to the execution chamber. Inside this chamber, out of view of the audience, was a hypothetical electric chair. A moment after the death party passed through the door, a motor started to buzz ominously and the lights grew dim. It was all in fun, all a travesty on the more serious play. The negro actors thought nothing of it at first.

"Doomed Man" Dies

The revue was scheduled for opening last Tuesday night. Tuesday morning James Jackson was found dead in his room in Harlem of accidental asphyxiation. The opening of the show was delayed for two nights so another negro, William Sheppard, could learn Jackson's lines.

"Hot Rhythm" opened last Thursday night and William Sheppard did a fair job with his part. The execution scene was realistic. Then, after the performance, someone in the cast told Sheppard about his predecessor's death. Sheppard immediately resigned.

At Friday night's performance, William Simpson, another negro, stepped into the role. He was led away to the execution chamber to hear the buzz of the motor just once. He, too, learned of Jackson's death and called for his pay.

By Saturday night the producers were fairly frantic. They put Edward Rolles, a negro chorus boy, into the electric chair scene. The buzz of the motor and the dimming of the lights nearly made a nervous wreck of the colored youth and he resigned.

Scoffs at Superstition

Over the week-end, several conferences were held. Finally Nat Cash, 42-year-old negro dance director for the show, stepped forward.

"There's no reason for all this superstition," he said, "I'm ashamed of these fellows. I'll do the part Monday night and from now on."

So Monday night Nat Cash went to the electric chair. He did not know the lines well and was aided by a prompter. After the performance he took the script of the play and told other members of the company he was going home and study up on the part.

He went to his home in Newark, and sat up most of the night going over the lines. At 5 o'clock this morning his landlady found him sitting bolt upright in an armchair, dead of a heart attack.

When the producers of the show learned of Cash's death, they started looking for another negro actor.

But such news travels quickly in Harlem, where drug stores sell more rabbit's feet than they do toothbrushes. Scouts were sent out to find someone to take the jinx part, but they met with refusals everywhere.

Finally, as a last resort, the management put the white stage manager, Ted Marcel, into the part.

S. A. F. E. QUITS SERVICE HERE

Within the next six weeks Wichita Falls will have no direct air line connection with Oklahoma City, Tulsa and St. Louis, Erle P. Halliburton, president of the Southwest Air Fast Express, having announced Tuesday that his line would discontinue service between St. Louis and Dallas in order to concentrate the company's activities on the new Atlanta to Los Angeles air mail and passenger line.

The decision to discontinue the St. Louis to Fort Worth and Dallas line, which operated through Wichita Falls, was made both because the Safeway company has been operating at a loss on its passenger service during the past year, and because the 14 tri-motored Ford planes now in use over the Safeway lines will be needed on the new Atlanta-Los Angeles route, according to Mr. Halliburton's announcement from Washington, where he has been for several weeks negotiating for the new government air mail contract granted Monday.

The new mail route was secured by the Safeway company in conjunction with the Robertson Aircraft corporation in a deal which will gross the combination more than $1,000,000 annually, the combining of passenger and mail service expected to make up the loss on ordinary service. Since the new transcontinental line will open within six weeks, before new planes could be secured, and since the present Safeway equipment meets government requirements, the ships now in use on the line through Wichita Falls will be transferred and the line through here discontinued. The St. Louis-Sweetwater line, also operating through Wichita Falls, was discontinued Sunday. The new Atlanta-Los Angeles passenger and mail line will operate through Birmingham, Shreveport, Dallas, Fort Worth and El Paso.

Discontinuance of the Safeway line through here will leave Wichita Wichita Falls with direct air service to Fort Worth and Dallas over the Western Air Express company lines, but with no direct service to Oklahoma City and St. Louis. Passengers may leave here on the Western Air line for Amarillo and make connection with another ship of the same line from that city to Oklahoma City and Tulsa, thence to St. Louis and other points. Service to Denver, Los Angeles and other points over the Western Air lines from Wichita Falls remains unchanged.

GUN CHAMPION RETURNS HOME

Alfred King Shows Trophies For Marksmanship

those who know him here, but to the world's greatest marksmen, to those who have spent the best years of their lives in the hope that someday, somehow, they might win the Grand American handicap and become crowned undisputed king of marksmen, he will always be king. True, he is a modest king, one who shouted into a microphone that "it was all just luck," but that only makes them love him the more.

By right of 31 years of tradition, the winner of the Grand American is king wherever guns are fired, whenever birds are pulled from traps. It is an honor for which tried and true marksmen journey from all parts of the nation to contest. And Rufus says it was "luck." We are prone to agree with those who witnessed his victory at Vandalia field and who said it was not luck but determination such as is rarely seen in a youth of his age. Thirty-one years in which the nation's best marksmen have sought the highest honor in the trapshooting world would hardly allow luck to carry away the crown.

Tuesday night when the lad was interviewed by The Record News, he repeated that it was "mostly luck," smiling at the same time with a disarming smile which sought to cover his confusion at being so much in the public eye. He is not accustomed to fame and somehow his manner makes one believe he will never become accustomed to it, no matter what honors are heaped upon him. He is just an American boy with perhaps a bit more of real boy in him than others of his age.

His dad said Tuesday night that up until the eve of the great contest the boy had no intention of entering the Grand American. His dad, incidentally, is one of the outstanding marksmen of the country.

"Aw, come on, dad, let me enter the Grand American," he pleaded.

His father finally consented. Mr. King's own gun, with which he had won previous contests, was cut down to fit the boy's shoulder and the morning of the great event found him in line before the traps, ready to compete with the nation's best. And he did compete!

Out of 963 of America's outstanding trapshooters, Rufus King Jr., was the only one to break the first 50 birds straight!

That crowd of 8,000 men, women and children sat up and took notice. The event was made for melodrama. A heavy, black cloud hung low over the field and there stood those 8,000 persons, oblivious to the shouts of policemen trying to hold them back, fervently hoping that the lad would win and that the rain would hold back.

"If the kid misses his first one he'll go to pieces," some one in the crowd said. But the kid didn't miss his first one. He cracked it right in the middle. He barely chipped the edge off his sixth or seventh clay, and the crowd breathed a gasp of relief.

He missed No. 14 and the crowd sighed. There was a flash of lightning just as he shouted "Pull!" for No. 18, but it didn't throw Rufus off. He got his bird. After that he just shot and the clays shattered to bits. Three veteran trapshooters, those who had been matched against him in the handicap, took defeat.

And Tuesday night Rufus displayed his medal, presented in token of his championship, a gold badge with a diamond in the center. There was also a silver cup, a replica of a huge cup, the Bennett Gates trophy, which remains at Dayton. Incidentally, there were prizes amounting to $2,000, which Rufus says is being put away to take him and his mother and dad back to Dayton for the Grand American next year.

Childress Commissioners Release Funds for Paving Two Highways

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Aug. 26.—Prospects for early completion of state highways No. 4 and No. 5 in Childress county were brightened today when the county commissioners court released road funds to the state highway department for the paving of the roads.

The action of the Childress commissioners was the result of a proposal of the highway department that the funds be released by the county to speed construction and to furnish employment for residents of this area. The state is to reimburse the county for the state's portion on later projects.

Grading and drainage on No. 4 from the Cottle county line to the Collingsworth county line is complete, as is similar work on No. 5 from Childress seast to the Hall county line. Actual laying of concrete on No. 5 to the Hall county line will begin Sept. 1.

Release of the funds by the court here is expected to materially aid the unemployment situation and further aid is expected in the next few months in the expenditure of huge sums in the new Panhandle projects of the Denver railroad.

Agriculture Department Makes Forecast

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—The agriculture department said today that prospects favored a "material advance in cattle prices in the next 12 months."

A report issued through the bureau of agriculture economics said market supplies of cattle during the next five or six months probably would be about the same as a year ago but the supplies the first half of 1931 were expected to be smaller than in 1930.

HERRIN, Ill., Aug. 26. (UP)—More than 400 miners at work in the Consolidated Coal company shaft No. 7 were forced to flee through an air shaft today when fire broke out in the re-screening plant and spread to the tipple.

All reached the surface safely. Loss was estimated at $100,000.

YOUR CHEAPEST NECESSITY....

YOUR fire insurance dollar pays for indemnity—for immunity against financial loss when calamity overtakes you. But that dollar buys so much more than the indemnity it pays for that it ranks as one of the most effective dollars you spend.

Fire insurance, from the indemnity standpoint alone, is one of the cheapest of present-day necessities. Its cost has consistently declined for many years—even during the period of war inflation.

And this in spite of the fact that insurance service—as rendered by the more than 250 Stock companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters—has multiplied its activities for the public welfare and greatly enlarged their scope.

Research and Engineering

Your fire insurance dollar may pay for indemnity only, but for good measure provides engineering and research services to make life and property safer—laboratories in which to test materials and devices—scientific measurement of fire hazards — building construction codes—arson detection and investigation—organized fire prevention—and other voluntary measures designed to lower the fire waste and thereby reduce the cost of fire insurance.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

A thorough understanding of what Stock Fire Insurance really means and does—and greater public use of its facilities—will result in a still further reduction of the fire waste and a consequently greater service to the insuring public.

Soap-Box Echoes
The Crime Root
Graft on the High Seas
A Spinster's Poodle

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Years ago socialist speakers were hooted down from their soap-boxes as irresponsible talkers. Shouts about graft and corruption were not heard very far. Today, Norman Thomas, socialist leader, declares that one judgeship in New York was recently sold for $100,000, and the people accept it as a fact.

It is not difficult to believe this in the face of the spectacle of the brazen white-washing in the Ewald graft inquiry. What is the man on the street to think when he reads of the county judges who build country estates and sail the seven seas in their own yachts and have fortunes put away in gilt-edged stocks and bonds. To pay $1,000,000 for a "right" decision is not far fetched in these days of gentlemen and their prices.

Grafters in Chicago were so well organized that they had a regular "graft board." Eight politicians, directors and second vice presidents of this unique board figure in the disclosures of the files of Jack Zuta, slain vice czar.

The names of the eight politicians have not yet been divulged. It is stated that "publication of the names at this time would be unwise and hurt the cause of the investigation." Perhaps it would. But the public should on that account be doubly vigilant. They must not forfeit the right to these names. Bagging eight corrupt officials is as good as, if not better than, bagging eight gunmen. The root is sturdier than the branch.

In the old days the Romans had a famous slogan "Delanda Carthage est," Carthage must be destroyed. Remember that slogan when dealing with the sources and authors of crime.

The R. M. S. Tahiti, foundering at sea in the mid-Pacific, reminds us that two years ago this vessel was considered unseaworthy. Its last journey was supposed to have been taken in May of 1928, from San Francisco to Wellington, N. Z., by way of the Society Islands. For that reason Captain Aldwell was transferred, along with his officers, to the R. M. S. Maunganui, of the same line.

The endangering of 327 lives is very plainly the guilt of the covetous officials operating vessels on the San Francisco-Wellington route. Fortunately, wireless and the arrival of rescue ships saved passengers and crew. But it was taking a desperate chance sending an old hulk like the Tahiti to negotiate 4,000 miles of the open sea. Of course, the company has its pat defence; every vessel that leaves its moorings is inspected. But all the world knows what inspections amount to when graft is such a popular medium.

On Fifth avenue, a 78-year-old spinster, ruling an estate of $100,000,000, is proud of two highbacked twin beds in her ancient bedroom. While she sleeps on one of the innocent nocturnal couches, a small white, pampered poodle sleeps in the other. The dog has his meals in the dining room with the lady, unless he is tired in the morning. Then the faithful Gridley serves him his breakfast in bed.

Marie Antoinette, who told the starving French people to eat cake because they didn't have bread, probably would have enjoyed the spectacle of the richest spinster in America feeding her little poodle out of a gold spoon in the big twin bed. France and Russia, before the Revolution, never presented greater contrasts between wealth and poverty than does America today.

Perpetual Motion

"Suppose," he murmured, "that I should steal another kiss?"

"I defy you!" she replied.

"And suppose," he persisted, "that I should steal two or three?"

"I would never give up," she replied. "I would go on defying you."

What few smug people I've met have been lit up. Women seem to excell at ever'thing 'cept pickin' out life mates.

Mules, according to an announcement of the department of agriculture, are retreating before the advancing tractors. But you can say this for them; they put up a stubborn resistance while they lasted.

"Day by day," said the wisecracking miniature golf course owner, "our business is getting putter and putter."

Treating the Symptom

A DOCTOR who tried to relieve his patient of unpleasant symptoms without studying or attacking the disease which produced them would not, presumably, last very long. To prescribe a mild gargle for a sore throat when that sore throat was really the first stage of diphtheria would not, in this enlightened age, seem like good business.

Nevertheless, that is very much the attitude most of us taken in connection with the disturbing symptoms presented by crime conditions in our biggest cities.

Such things as racketeering, gang killings, graft by public officials and inefficiency and corruption in police departments and courts are not isolated evils. They are symptoms of a very serious underlying malady; and our present system of trying to attack each symptom separately without touching or even recognizing the disease that causes them is just about as sensible and effective as the procedure of the hypothetical doctor mentioned above.

The symptoms center, of course, in our two greatest cities, New York and Chicago; but every other city has similar symptoms, in greater or lesser degree. If we could withdraw our eyes for a moment from the alarming symptoms themselves and try to find out what they signify we might have some chance of finding a remedy.

What does lie behind these things, anyway?

Isn't it quite obvious that the underlying disease is something very like an utter breakdown of our whole system of municipal government? The gangster owes his continued existence largely to the crooked, inefficient or "controlled" holder of public office. That individual, in turn, owes his position to the political ring that exists not to render public service but to look out for the best interests of its own members. And the ring, in turn, owes its place to two things—the presence of huge masses of ignorant, uneducated voters whom unscrupulous demagogues can sway by appeals to prejudice, and the refusal on the part of another vast bloc of citizens to exercise the franchise or take any active interest in governmental affairs.

There is no use in trying to whitewash the situation. This disease is as serious a thing as the United States has encountered in its whole life. Democracy is on trial.

By awakening our dormant sense of public responsibility, by seeing to it that education becomes both more widespread and more genuine than it ever has been before, by insisting on high standards of honesty in every phase of social intercourse, by making sure that the children born in our big cities have a decent chance to grow up to decent citizenship—in some such ways as these we may hope to find the cure.

If we fail—if we ignore the disease entirely, or fumble our efforts to get a remedy for it—you may rest assured that the disease will ultimately prove fatal to democracy as we understand it.

The Cunning of Gandhi

IT is rapidly becoming evident that Mahatma Gandhi is a leader of considerable skill. His latest proposal, made from his prison cell, puts Ramsay MacDonald and his government in a rather embarrassing position.

Gandhi offers to call off his passive resistance, non-cooperative movement if the British will release all political prisoners and will pledge themselves to work for dominion status at the coming round table discussion of Indian affairs.

Since British officials have already vaguely promised dominion status for India, the ultimatum has a mild, sweetly reasonable sound; yet by acceding to it Premier MacDonald might well cause his government to fall. It would stir the British Tories as nothing else would. Whichever way he goes, MacDonald is in a hole—and Gandhi undoubtedly knows it.

Wages by the Year

THERE is a great deal of sound common sense in the suggestion of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that wage-earners in American industry be paid by the year instead of by the day.

To be sure, to put Mr. Green's plan into effect would call for some drastic, almost revolutionary changes in industrial relations. But the result might well be worth the trouble.

The annual wage system he proposes would go far to eliminate seasonal unemployment, and would probably have an even better effect by compelling manufacturers to spread their work evenly over the entire year rather than going at top speed for five months and idling at half-capacity for the remainder of the year. It is very probable that in the next few years we shall be hearing a great deal more of this plan. Let us hope that Mr. Green will keep hammering away at it.

More Speed in the Air

THE prediction that New York and San Francisco will eventually be linked by over-night air mail service—a prediction that would have sounded foolish only a year or so ago—is beginning to seem a great deal more reasonable, in view of Captain Hawks' 12-hour flight from one ocean to another.

Speed in the air is becoming more and more common. Just at present, undoubtedly, it would be impossible for a regular air mail plane to maintain, or event attempt, a 12-hour schedule across the continent; but when the way in which aircraft designers are constantly developing new and improved models is considered it seems quite possible that the thing will be done in the near future.

You might notice that it is just 18 years since an aviator made a sensation by flying all the way from Jacksonville, Fla., to San Francisco. It took him 151 days.

Quotations Worth Noting

"The wisdom we need is that which considers all things from a standpoint not only beyond the individual and local, but beyond the temporary and evanescent; that looks upon society, upon life with its intricate duties and responsibilities, from a high plane; that strives to see questions as infinite wisdom, far above all transitory and personal interests, would regard them."—President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard.

Merciless Truth

I will be quite certain
When I love again,
I will draw the curtain
When I feel the pain.

I will make my pledges
Tongue in cheek I fear;
Even Cupid hedges
When the clouds appear.

I will vow devotion
To a breathless lass;
Yet I have a notion
It will quickly pass.

Why be just a mourner?
Girls are loads of fun;
Just around the corner
There's another one!

Tee, Hee

The Associated Press, apparently fed up with the tedious routine of reporting earthquakes, politics, science, aviation, etc., has burgled our Big Idea—the heralding of babies—or Blessed Events. But, being inexpert at that racket, the esteemed old A. P. fumbled on the Duchess of York's accouchement, and after announcing that the royal tot was expected on July 27, found itself on Aug. 18 reporting: "Royal Baby's Arrival Believed Miscalculated."

Henceforth, the Associated Press need not Put Itself On The Spot like that. If it would have its Vital Statistics accurate, all it has to do is notify us and we will be tickled pink to cooperate—for a good stiff fee, that is.

Sex Marks the Spot

Among other swifties is the one recorded by Judge Jack Shuttleworth: "A reformer is a man who chases women out of town."

Hehehch

And it is Tom Sims' amusing parody that hell hath no fury like a woman who has waited for her husband on the wrong corner.

Fact

One of the Atlantic City rags contained this advertisement the other day. "Lost: Pocketbook containing $400. Finder may keep money, but for gossakes please return those phone numbers!—Benny Davis, Hotel Ritz."

Anecdote

Nick the Greek, one of the most colorful sportsmen at the track or in the dice houses, was having a tough session of it with the Fickle Cubes. Nick had dropped over $40,000 betting against the dice when he decided to get some fresh air near a window.

As he ankled away from the crap game a lad sitting alone at a card table motioned to him. "Looka here," said the fellow, "how 'bout you an' me playing casino for 25 cents a game?" Nick agreed.

After the Greek had won five straight games and he had pocketed the $1.25, the loser groaned: "Gee, you're the luckiest guy I ever played with!"

Is My Place Red?

"The only things worse than Broadway," postcards June Aster Winchell, "are the columns written about it."

I'd rather be hissed at than yawned at, madam.

Imagine

Among other outstanding beauties listed in The Beautician is Katherine Burke, one of the handsomer Ziegfeld follys. In Mr. Ziegfeld's "Whoopee" show Miss Burke was the lass who did the principal nude—she was on the middle of the five white steeds.

But what we started out to report was that the gorgeous Katherine, who was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was a tot, now fills a pair of sheer hose better than Santa Claus.

Of All Things!

Then there's the ageless gag about the quick-change actor who was riding on a subway train and the lights went out for a second or two. When they went on again he was half naked!

Character

He complained long and loud the last time his name was mentioned here, which is not the reason why it is omitted now. It is omitted because the local cafe and cabaret entertainers hope that he isn't frightened away by publicity.

At any rate, he is to be listed high along with the suckers or spenders, if you prefer. But the night club owners wish he wouldn't come into their places at all.

Because, while he has often given away a dozen or more $500 bills in one night to the waiters, the orchestra crew, and the chorus girls working in the cabarets, he usually goes broke giving the coin away, and has nothing left to spend on hooch, club sandwiches or a couvert charge.

Add Sillies

Al Stauderman wonders if you've heard about the feller who sneezed when speaking to the transatlantic telephone operator and she connected him with Russia!

By Way of Report

The city is buzzing about the daily income of the rich Howard Hughes, who spent four million smackers to produce "Hell's Angels," the most spellbinding thrill in town. It was reported that Hughes' daily income is $7,000—money from his pappy's oil properties, etc.

As a matter of fact, the young, but intelligent, amusement impresario has a daily income of $19,800, and he is only 26.

And most people are dancing w.t. t. their eyes!

Aid Waterloo Hero's Widow

That the widow of a man who fought at the battle of Waterloo will be among those to obtain a pension under the new British widows and orphans pensions act, was revealed by Arthur Greenwood, minister for health, in a speech at Hackney, England, recently. Her husband, he said, was 18 when he fought at Waterloo in 1815 and he did not marry until he was over 60, his wife being a young girl. This means, Greenwood continued, that her husband was born in 1797 in the days of George III, and among the events he would have been old enough to recall would have been the death of Nelson and the war with America.

"STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

Kay Smith, who has searched for months for a clew to her identity, is on the verge of marrying Dane Talbot whom she loves, when Doctor Raleigh tells her that her husband is waiting to see her. Bewildered, Kay can remember nothing of being married, but at sight of the stranger—"Larry"—past events recall themselves.

Only a snapshot enlarged in her room at home to remind her. A girl who looked much as she looked now. The same big brown eyes, and bright, golden hair.

CHAPTER XLI

Memories, Painful, horrible memories. Better that she hadn't remembered. Better that she did not know. Seeking for her past, when she should have been glad it was gone from her.

She sipped the water Doctor Raleigh held to her lips. Then more. Her throat, her lips were so dry it did not seem as if she would ever get enough.

The name Dane Talbot had given her. Kay Smith. The name she had loved from the first. It was hers no more, she thought bitterly.

The doctor standing at her side, watching her anxiously, waiting for the glass. Well, she was finished with it. She could give it back.

Larry Nettleton standing, too, waiting.

Larry—her husband.

She knew now. Knew everything. It was as if a curtain had rolled away, a curtain that had blotted her memories from her, only to lift and show her the picture again. Unhappy pictures. Thoughts of the past rolled to her mind so fast she could hardly register them.

Larry looking at her, his lips open as if he wanted to speak. She hoped he wouldn't. No, there was Doctor Raleigh touching his lips with his fingers, bidding Larry be silent. Dear Doctor Raleigh.

Stubborn Look

She saw Larry sink into a chair, and fold his arms. He was obeying the doctor, but reluctantly. The stubborn look she didn't like was on his face. She knew it well. Had seen it before. She was glad Doctor Raleigh was here. She felt—safer with him. He couldn't go—and leave her, now! She gazed at him beseechingly and he patted her hand, as if he read her thoughts. He was going to stay. She wouldn't have to talk to Larry—yet. She wouldn't have to be alone with him . . .

The tap, tap of Larry's toe on the rug. She could hardly hear it but she could see him, see his toe. He was getting impatient. She closed her eyes to shut out the sight of him sitting there, watching her, seeing every move she made.

Better now with her eyes shut. Better, she sighed a little, and found the back of her chair, half relaxing. Her hand sought blindly for Doctor Raleigh's and found it. She held it tightly, afraid lest while her eyes were closed he should go and leave her . . .

She knew who she was now, Karen Mayhew. Why had she forgotten? How could she forget? How could she forget, when she knew so well. Still, she seemed to be Kay Smith, too. So many things she couldn't understand. She liked being Kay Smith . . . but still Karen was her right name. The letter on her handkerchief. "K" Her intial.

Karen Mayhew, she had been, before she was Karen Nettleton. Queer she didn't seem to be Karen Nettleton at all.

Memories

Her father—she shuddered, and gripped Doctor Raleigh's hand more securely. He couldn't go away—but she didn't want to open her eyes because Larry was there, looking at her.

Her father. Everything. Her childhood. She hadn't any mother. Perhaps that was why she had desperately wanted one. Why, she had taken that mad trip to San Francisco. She had wanted a mother so badly. The pictures she had imagined of Mrs. Ford.

The same need in her childhood. The same void. Her father couldn't make up for it, although he had tried, she supposed. Her mother had died at her birth. Only a snapshot enlarged in her room at home to remind her. A girl who looked much as she looked now. The same big brown eyes, and bright, golden hair.

Her lonely days of girlhood. One school after another. Private schools, because her father could not take her everywhere with him. He was abroad a good deal. Schools in the South, for his headquarters were in New Orleans. Their brief reunions. Too brief. She hardly knew him until she had at last gone to live with him.

Envy of other girls having families. Going home. Getting gifts from their brothers and sisters. Sometimes her father remembered her, sometimes he didn't. Holidays alone at school, the only girl left, when everyone else went home.

Changing schools constantly. Ralph Mayhew's idea. She didn't know why, and she blindly obeyed, as she always did anything her father wanted. A cold man, when she saw him, giving her none of the affection she wanted. When she loved him so dearly. Wanted him so much. Sometimes he would come to one of the schools on a flying visit, stay an hour, and go. She might not see him for another year or two. Letters unanswered, returned because he was traveling in the East, in the Orient, on the continent.

She was too sensitive, of course. She had felt her neglect keenly. But although she had asked to go on her father's trips he never would take her. Once two years had gone by and she had not heard from him. Then, when she thought he must have died, up he bobbed.

He had money, she knew. How much, when she was going to school, she could not guess. The schools were always good, and he gave her plenty of money for clothes, more than she needed. In his periodic letters he always sent her big bills.

Terribly Happy

Then, when she finished, and was 18, he had written her to come to New Orleans. That he was taking a house, and they would be together. His business permitted him to leave it. She had gone, thrilled, terribly happy. The first home she had ever known. The joy when she entered it, a big house, tastefully furnished. Home.

It had never seemed quite like home to her, though. She always felt a stranger in her father's house. She had gone preparing to love

The Record News Offers A Booklet on the School Child's Health

Children may not like to think of it, but vacation is almost over and school time is at hand. Parents must give thought to it and one of the first questions that confronts them is, "Is my child fit to attend school?" The answer to this question is one of the gravest of parental responsibilities. Clothes, shoes, books, bags and lunch boxes are the usual considerations, but the routine of going to school has a new and more important side to which parents have previously paid too little attention—the health of the child. Children should be prepared for school as carefully and completely as soldiers are got ready for war.

The booklet, The School Child's Health, prepared by the American School Hygiene association, with the cooperation of the American Red Cross, should be in the hands of every mother.

Use this coupon in ordering a copy.

TORPEDO BOAT GOES ON TEAR

Many Injured as Craft's Launching Fails

HAVRE, France, Aug. 26. (AP)—The 400-foot torpedo boat Vautour slipped on the ways during its launching here today and in a wild stampede to get out of its way many persons in the large crowd witnessing the christening ceremonies were injured.

The 2,480-ton ship, one of the finest units in the new French fleet, slid about 200 feet down the ways. Suddenly it swung about as if on a pivot when two-thirds of the hull had hit the water.

The bow of the Vautour remained in the cradle, high in the air.

Intense excitement spread throughout the crowd, which dashed in all directions. Scores were bruised but officials said none had been seriously injured.

Extent of the damage to the torpedo boat could not be fixed.

Completion of the launching had to be postponed until the flood tides of September.

The deep sea submarine Meduse was launched successfully.

him, adore him, keep house for him. There were servants to do everything for her, her father was too busy to need her, too used to being alone. He treated her very well. She still had all she wanted, and now and then she saw his eyes follow her, as if he could not believe this girl was his. His daughter.

She saw few people in the city, practically nobody. Her father had friends, and now and then she saw them.

The man and woman at the Crystal palace. The woman, "Marian." She knew them. Placed them. Her father's friends, they came infrequently to the house for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy. Mrs. Randy had always been kind to the girl, feeling sorry for her lonely life. But they had gone abroad for a long time. She missed them when they went. Even seldom as they came to the house, she liked their visits.

That her father was worried, Kay—she could not think of herself as Karen—knew. He was short, quick with the servants. Sharp with her. There was something on his mind. Once she had asked him, when they had been but six months in the house, and he was growing more and more preoccupied, the lines on his forehead furrowing deeper and deeper. Nothing, he had said. Nothing at all.

Then a month—a month before—it happened—Larry Nettleton started coming to the house. From the first Kay didn't like him. He was always affable, always kind to her, but she didn't like him. Her father, after his visits was always more irritable, always harder on the servants. Although, when Larry was dining with them, he was charming to his guest. Indeed he could not do enough for him, and he urged Kay, before he came each time, to be as nice as she could.

She had, of course. Anything to make things pleasanter. But the house was getting on her nerves. The loneliness of it. Her father shut up all day in his study, or away. She read prodigiously, whiled away time dreaming. Worse than being at school. There at least she had companions. Her father urged her to go out with Larry, and she went, knowing now that he worried her father, and yet in some mysterious way her father was under deep obligations to him.

This went on for a month, the longest month Kay had ever known, her father growing gloomier and gloomier in the daytime, and blooming into a perfect host to Larry Nettleton in the evenings. For Larry was coming every evening to dinner now.

The servants were talking, shaking their heads. They didn't understand Mr. Mayhew. The cook left, because she claimed Mr. Mayhew had spoken to her as no man would speak to a lady. Sworn at her, in fact. Another took her place.

The days were nightmares, the evenings worse. Being nice to Larry when she didn't like him, going out with him, when he repelled her.

Then one morning—the day it happened. Kay's slender frame trembled and her lashes fluttered on her cheeks in a quick stab of pain. One morning her father had come in to her and asked her if she would marry Larry Nettleton. She had said she didn't love him, but Ralph Mayhew had said that love would come. She would learn to love him. She was young, yet, and hadn't seen anything of life. He would feel much better, easier, if she would promise to marry Larry. And because there seemed to be such a plea, such sorrow in his eyes, she promised. He had kissed her more warmly than he ever had, before he left the room. Thanked her. She thought she had seen tears in his eyes.

If it would make him feel any better, take this horrible strain away, this strain she knew nothing about—well, she would marry Larry.

He came back in a few minutes, his hand in his pocket.

"No matter what happens to me, you'll marry him?" His face was so white that she was frightened. Again she promised, and she heard his footsteps going into his room across the hall from her.

Then she heard the shot. So close. And when she reached her father's room he was lying on the floor, a smoking revolver in his hand, his shirt front stained with blood . . .

So long until the servants came. A lifetime it seemed to her, as she bent over his body and tried to kiss his lips back to life. But he was dead when the doctor came.

He had known, then, when he made her promise to marry Larry that he was going—to kill himself . . .

COW RUSTLING WORRIES AGAIN

Wyoming Officers Band To Solve Problem

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 26. (AP)—Cattle rustling again has become one of the major problems on the Wyoming range.

Sheriffs of the state's 23 counties, officers of the Wyoming law enforcement department, forest supervisors and livestock association officials today joined in a concerted drive to be waged against 20th century rustlers operating on a large scale.

Rustling was said to be more general than at any time since the state's early days.

Using trucks in their roundup of cattle, rustlers are carrying the stock over the state line into Colorado, Utah, Idaho, South Dakota, Nebraska and Montana, and disposing of it to construction companies and to other purchasers in small towns.

The rustlers are avoiding marketing centers where strict inspection laws are enforced.

The Wyoming Livestock association has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of cattle thieves.

That Body Of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M. D.

The Sleep Machine

Despite all the methods now in use to induce sleep, there are some individuals who do not seem able to get restful sleep.

All the usual methods have been tried—counting sheep, making imaginary large letters on a blackboard, relaxing all the muscles of the body and lying as if completely exhausted, making sure of good ventilation in the bedroom, with good mattress and spring on the bed, drinking warm soups or other preparations just before going to bed, an electric heating pad to abdomen or to feet to draw blood from the head, a long walk outdoors before retiring to tire the body and also bring the blood down from the head.

All these have been tried without avail and the patient has then had to resort to drugs.

Now drugs are sometimes necessary, and once in a while a night's rest has to be secured in order that important work may be carried through the next day, but your doctor does not like to have to rely on sleeping drugs every night.

If then sleep can be obtained without the use of drugs, patients and doctors will certainly rejoice.

Dr. J. Rosett of New York City, describes an apparatus to induce muscular relaxation and sleep, brought about by a wave of encircling pressure applied to the outside of the body and limbs in the direction of the flow of the blood in the veins, that is toward the heart.

"The instrument appears somewhat like a union suit. It is made of fine strong inelastic rubberized cloth, and is composed of a series of finely joined, flat belt-like collapsible tubes, which encircle the limbs and body as high as the armpits. The tubes are inflated and deflated by an air compressor and exhaust, one after the other in succession, in a direction from the feet, towards the chest, by a special method."

This inflation and deflation has the effect of preventing the little nerves from making the little muscle fibers contract. Thus the muscles remain relaxed and the patient can go off to sleep.

Now very few of us will ever even see this machine but it tells us the whole secret of sleep—that is relaxation.

A quiet restful well ventilated room, a spring and mattress that holds the body evenly, gently but firmly, with no uncomfortable spots that cause the muscles to tighten against them, and enough physical exercise to tire the body, should so relax the body and induce sleep that a "sleep machine" will not be necessary.

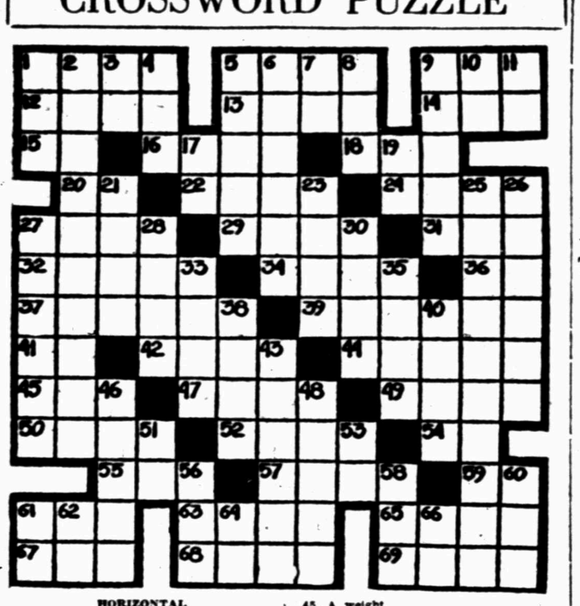

Gasoline tax collections in Louisiana for the first half of 1930 were $4,153,925, compared with $3,229,133 for the same period in 1929.

WILTSE STOPS CUBS TO WIN HIS NINETEENTH GAME OF SEASON

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

What's Your Guess?

What's your guess on how the last half race will end? Send it in and let's see if it can compare with the prognostication promulgated Tuesday afternoon by Messrs. Huff and Price—Arthur Huff, road secretary of the Spudders, and Milton Price, secretary of the Texas league.

These gentlemen, after great thought, finally decided that the second half will end in a three-way tie for the championship between Wichita Falls, Fort Worth and Houston, necessitating a coupla play-offs to decide the pennant winner.

Pretty fantastic, and yet, with the race getting tighter every day, it can't be said that a three-way tie such as they describe is impossible.

The gents arrived at their conclusion through an elaborate calculation on the outcome of future contests of the Wichita Falls, Fort Worth and Houston clubs. At the outset they reasoned that before the three-way tie could be accomplished, both Houston and Wichita Falls must win Tuesday night. This column was written Tuesday afternoon, when the outcome of last night's battles was decidedly unknown. If the Spudders and the Buffs lost last night, then the plan of Messrs. Huff and Price is all off. But if they came out victorious, then here's the way the gentlemen figure the teams will arrive in a perfect deadlock.

First, the Fort Worth club. The Cats play three games in Waco beginning tonight. They will win two out of the three contests, says Huff. Then they will go to San Antonio and split. Then at Fort Worth they will divide a two-game series with the Shreveport Sports, and in the following two-game series at Shreveport they will do the same. Then comes four games with the Spudders at Wichita Falls, two of which they will win and two of which they won't, leaving the Cats 45 games won and 32 lost during the second half.

Second, the Houston club. They will open a Shreveport series at Houston tonight, and win two out of the three games, says the road secretary. Then the Spudders invade Houston. Huff claims the Buffs will win two out of the three games. Waco then will appear on the scene and lose two out of three to the Bisons. Then Beaumont will win two and lose two games of their four-game series. Then the Buffs will win both of their games with the San Antonio Indians, leaving the Houstonians with the same totals as the Cats, 45 games won and 32 lost.

Now for the Spudders. Huff figures they will win two out of three games in the Beaumont series opening today. Then will come the Houston series, in which, as aforesaid, Huff figures the Spudders will win only one out of three. Then comes the Labor day double-header at Dallas, which he figures the Spudders will split. Dallas will then journey to Wichita Falls and lose their two games. Then Fort Worth will play a four-game series here, winning two and dropping two to the Williamsmen, leaving the latter tied with Houston and Fort Worth with 45 games won and 32 lost during the second half.

With that over, the divers play-offs would start. The Spudders, being first half champs, would, of course, stand aside and watch Fort Worth and Houston engage in a three-game series to see who should meet the Williamsmen in the play-off for the championship. Then would follow the five-game play-off between the Spudders and the winner of the Fort Worth-Houston series.

And then, boys, we would all take an afternoon off and go see the Thanksgiving day football game.

Jinx Annoys Jack

It's time old Jasper Crouch was getting a break. The jinx has been following him around all season. First, he has received fewer breaks from umpires than any catcher in the loop this season, or so it seems. And then the injury jinx got him. He was laid up with an injured shoulder for days on end. Finally he got back in the game.

And then Monday night he was forced to retire from the game in anguish, according to word received Tuesday at the Spudder offices. His finger was nicked by a ball in the first inning of the first game. He bandaged it and attempted to stay in the game, but the pain was too much.

He deserves a break now.

Beware, My Little Dove

No, this isn't going to be a love song. Just a warning to the pore innocent birdies who can be legally slaughtered when the season opens next month.

Many hunters are making preparations for the season's opening. Slick Ansley has purchased himself an automatic 16-gauge shotgun, and is mixing his warpaint already. And in a few weeks there will be ducks to shoot on neighboring lakes.

British Stars Await Track Meet Tonight

CHICAGO, Aug. 26. (AP)—After a round of banquets, speeches and parades, track aces of the British empire and the United States today went through workouts for their duel of spikes on Soldier field.

Today's preliminary program resembled more of a peace conference than an assemblage of track and field stars, but prospects pointed to one of the classic struggles of the cinder paths when the mercuries of the English speaking nations clash in their miniature Olympic games tomorrow night.

Former Grid Star Named Coach at Minnesota U.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 26. (INS)—Frank McCormick, former South Dakota university football star, today was signed as full time backfield coach at the University of Minnesota, Fritz Crisler, head coach and athletic director announced. Crisler also confirmed the appointment of Bert Baston, former all-American, as end coach.

3 STRAIGHT FOR CATS

HOUSTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—Fort Worth made a clean sweep of the three-game series with Houston by taking the final game, 3 to 2. Whitworth returned to the mound after a day's rest to tame the Buffs in the final tilt. By winning tonight's game Fort Worth stepped to a three and one-half lead over the Buffs and kept the Panthers at the top of the race. Stout, Payne and Rose hurled for Houston with the former being charged with the defeat. Errors aided Fort Worth in scoring once in each of the first three innings. Score:

SPORTS 4, INDIANS 3

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 26. (AP)—Estell's wild heave in the ninth frame, with the bases loaded, ended an otherwise perfect ball game between the Sports and the Indians here tonight. Shreveport scored two in the first on Mueller's two bagger, Hutson's single and Stewart's double. They followed this with another in the fourth, McClanahan scoring on Whelan's sacrifice fly. The Indians got one in the fourth and two more in the fifth, Leslie and Cooper doubled for the first score, and in the next frame Estell, Ballew and Moore crashed through with the tying scores. That was all until Estell's wild pitch let in the winning run. Score:

TITLISTS MAKE FURTHER GAINS

Only One Seeded Team Loses in Doubles Tourney

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass., Aug. 26. (UP)—The second round of the men's national tennis doubles was completed today with but one seeded team eliminated.

Wilbur F. Coen Jr., Kansas City, and Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, Iowa, fought valiantly but lost to the English pair, John H. Olliff and Frederick J. Perry, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

The defending titlists, George M. Lott II, Chicago, and John H. Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., continued to advance, moving to the third round over the all-Harvard tandem of W. Barry Wood Jr., and Richard Murphy. The scores, 6-2, 6-2, 9-7, fail to indicate the lengths to which the champions were driven to get points.

Perhaps the prettiest match was between two California teams. Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, and Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, 1929 junior national champions, vanquished the Los Angeles entries, Gerald Bartosh and Jack Tidball, over a four set route. Scores were 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

A fairly easy advance into the third round was offered the second-seeded players, Johnny van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, by the naval officers, Lieut. G. W. Smith and Lieut. R. M. Watt Jr., the British champions won 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Bill Tilden's lame hip failed to stop his march toward his eighth national doubles finals, largely because his partner, Francis T. Hunter, continued to cover territory that a normally agile Tilden would have scorned to neglect. The veteran pair defeated Henry L. Johnson Jr., and Malcolm T. Hill, both of Waban, Mass., 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

Other results were: Berkeley Bell, Austin, Texas, and Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., seeded fourth, won by default over Arnold W. Jones, Providence, R. I., and James van Allen, Newport.

Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., and J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., seeded fifth, defeated Harold G. N. Lee and L. A. Godfree, both of England, 6-3, 6-1, 2-6, 6-3.

Sidney B. Wood Jr., and Francis X. Shields, New York, defeated E. W. Feibleman, New York, and J. B. Fenno Jr., Boston, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

RACES POSTPONED

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 26. (US)—Lack of wind caused another postponement of the trial races between the America's cup candidates today. As a Southwest wind is predicted for tomorrow the race committee hope they will be able to pull off a race tomorrow.

Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion, who has been forbidden to appear outside of his class by the New York boxing commission, plans to fight on the west coast.

National League Home Run Record Is Broken

CHICAGO, Aug. 26. (AP)—With Hack Wilson's 44th home run, setting a new National league record, as the final clout, the Cubs defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates today, 7 to 5. A five-run rally in the fifth settled the game two innings before Wilson smashed the home run record. Score:

Simmons Adds Five Points to Average

(By The Associated Press)

Al Simmons again was the only Big Six batter to get into action in yesterday's incomplete major league schedule, and the Philadelphian profited greatly by the afternoon's work. Simmons hit two singles, a triple and his 31st home run of the season in five times at bat and lifted his average five points, enough to take first place in the American league batting race and second in the Big Six away from Lou Gehrig by a fraction of a percentage point.

TORONTO, Aug. 26. (UP)—Providing the temperature of Lake Ontario's waters is no colder than 52 degrees, 270 swimmers representing America, Canada, England and Germany will plunge off the starting raft here tomorrow in the annual Canadian national exhibition men's 15-mile marathon swim.

A $15,000 purse will be divided among the winners.

Ernst Vierkoetter, former German baker boy and winner of the 1927 marathon, is favored to win this year. The German's stiffest competition is expected to be furnished by George Young, winner of the 1927 Catalina island swim.

Kansas Woman Sets Pace for Golfers

HILLCREST COUNTRY CLUB, Kansas City, Aug. 26. (UP)—The first round in the championship flight of the Western women's golf tournament ran true to form today with favorites winning their matches over the hilly Hillcrest country club course.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, defending champion and medalist, started her march for the title, defeating Miss Louise Adams, of Indianapolis, 5 up and 4 to play. Mrs. Gregg Lifur, of Los Angeles, runner-up in the tournament at Cleveland last year and second only to Mrs. Hill for medalist honors this year, defeated Miss June Beebe, of Chicago 2 and 1 after a hard fight.

The Beebe girls, June and Florence, furnished the fireworks in the play today. Although June lost to Mrs. Lifur, her steady game and determination against the more experienced veteran drew rounds of applause from the gallery. Florence provided the only upset in the first round play, defeating Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., star, 6 and 5.

Miss Virginia van Wie, Chicago, internationally known player, and Mrs. Miriam Burns Tyson, Kansas City, former national and western title holder, both won their matches with ease. Miss Van Wie defeated Mrs. E. F. J. Nichols, of Chicago, 3 and 1 and Mrs. Tyson, playing steadily after her erratic qualifying round yesterday, eliminated Miss Edith Begg, of Cleveland, 7 and 6.

In the only extra-hole match of the day, Miss Helen MacMorran, of Chicago, was forced to play 23 holes before she could defeat Mrs. Clay Cary, Dallas, Texas, municipal champion, one up. Miss MacMorran took an eagle three on the fifth extra hole, after Mrs. Cary had missed a two-foot putt on the 18th green that would have given her the match.

Mrs. Hill will meet Mrs. Melvin Jones, of Chicago, tomorrow and Mrs. Lifur was paired with Miss Rena Nelson, also of Chicago. Miss Virginia van Wie, Chicago, was scheduled to match shots with Mrs. Roy Green, California, and Mrs. Tyson will play Miss Helen Lawson, of Los Angeles.

Longhorns Win First Game of City Championship Series With Electrics

The Panhandle Refining company Longhorns took a step nearer the city championship Tuesday afternoon when they defeated the Texas Electric Service company nine, champions of the Merchants league, 9 to 2 in the first game of the championship series of three.

Lefty Robertson pitched great baseball for the Longhorns, holding his foes scoreless and allowing but one hit in the seven innings he pitched, and carried off the team's batting honors by being the only member to get two hits off the opposition. After the seventh Wooldridge was called to the mound from left field. The Electrics used McDuffy and C. Smith in an effort to stop the Longhorns, but with small success.

The second game of the play-off will be played this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at Katy park. Should the Longhorns come out victorious they will win the city championship and represent Wichita Falls in the state tournament at Dallas sponsored by the Texas Amateur Athletic federation. The tournament begins Saturday, when the Wichita Falls champions meet the Dallas champs in the first round eliminations.

The Longhorns, champions of the Wichita Valley league and the City Twilight league, are heavy favorites to win the city title. The Electrics battled through to the play-off series by winning the Merchants league title after the race had dwindled down to a threeway tie for the top position.

Today's game promises to be a closer match than Tuesday's, which was considerably one-sided. Neither team Tuesday used their pitching stars. Everett Blue, the Merchant's league's leading hitter and stellar moundsmen, likely will see duty for the Electrics today while Smoke Lupher probably will get the assignment for the Longhorns. In the event the Electrics tie the play-off series by a victory today, a third and deciding game will be played Thursday, it was announced.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26. (AP)—Cotton moved upward today in fairly active trading. Incentives to the advance were much firmer cables than due, less persistent hedge selling and a firmer basis for spots in the interior coupled with determination of producers to hold for higher prices.

After opening 15 to 18 points up, prices continued to advance with trifling reactions until after mid-session the level was 36 to 38 points above the previous close. The market continued to advance in late trading on covering and made new highs nearly two dollars a bale above the previous close but lost 6 to 9 points of the gain at the end of realizing. The close was steady at net gains of 29 to 33 points.

Broad Buying Movement Gives Stock Market New Lease on Life

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (US)—A broad buying movement which extended into virtually all high-grade issues developed on the stock exchange today and gave the market its most encouraging tone in several months. The advance was far more impressive than anything witnessed during the recent speculatively-induced strong days. The buying today was encouraged by fundamental developments, furnished in the announcement steel mills operations during the past week had expanded almost 4 per cent. This demonstration of actual improvement in the industrial situation not only encouraged speculative interests already actively aligned on the constructive side of the market, but brought new buying into leading stocks from quarters where actual evidence of business upturn had been awaited. The volume, 1,700,000 shares, indicated that the demand was of better quality than would be evident from a much more active session.

The market all day acted as though it sensed an upturn in general industry. U. S. Steel was the outstanding performer throughout the session, closing up 4 points at the high of the day, 171¼. Buying of this leader was aggressive from the opening and its strength soon influenced the entire list. The Steel corporation's mills are operating at 66 per cent of capacity, against 62 per cent a week ago. Independent steel companies likewise enlarged operations to an average of 51 per cent, against 49 per cent last week. The entire industry has expanded activities to an average of 58 per cent from 54½ per cent a week ago. The market was inclined to accept these disclosures as fully confirming the optimistic forecast made by the Steel corporation's directors a few weeks ago, when they publicly expressed confidence in a substantial expansion of steel industry operations over the remainder of the year.

Throughout the list the better-grade stocks displayed signs of persistent demand. The improvement probably was the most inclusive in months. Short covering undoubtedly contributed to a good part of the buying, but the action of pivotal stocks indicated quite plainly that a better grade of demand was also finding reflection in the price betterment. The entire utility group, which has been under pressure of speculative selling for some weeks, rallied although not as impressively as the industrial leaders. The oil stocks held firm but failed to participate in the buying movement. The California situation threatens to become a sore spot again.

Specialties, as usual, dominated speculative interest, although Steel common undoubtedly held the limelight. A. M. Byers, in which quiet buying was disclosed here recently, spurted over 4 points. The company is one of the chief beneficiaries of the large-scale actvity in natural gas, since it is a leading pipe maker. Foster-Wheeler maintained its strong action, frequently commented upon here, by attaining a new high. Case Threshing jumped over 5 points. Motion picture stocks as a group continued in strong demand. Dismissal of the receivership action against Warner Bros. forced large-scale covering by shorts and the stock closed up over 2 points. As this column has already stated, the Warner situation is far more favorable than is generally recognized. It is said that the next few days may bring new developments of considerable cheer for stockholders. Fox advanced over 3 points as new buying was attracted by the exceptionally fine statement issued by the company for the first half of the year, disclosing a strong financial position and bright prospects for continued expansion in earnings. Loew's was another strong spot, while Radio-Keith, whose sponsors continue highly enthusiastic, was up fractionally. Vanadium rallied several points on short covering.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Aug. 26. (AP)—Slackening export demand was reported for wheat on the Fort Worth cash grain market today. Exporters bid 92¼ to 92¾c, basis delivered gulf ports and were getting little grain in competition with the milling bids of 95@96c basis delivered Texas common points. The latter were taking practically all of the light offerings with much of the grain moving out for feed.

Fair demand reported for corn but other grains hard sale. Heavy offerings of any variety not sought by dealers.

Estimated receipts—Wheat, 24 cars; corn 8; oats 5; barley 1, and sorghums 2 cars.

Bids and offers on coarse grains delivered T. C. P., freight paid as follows:

Corn—No. 2 mixed $1.01@1.02; No. 2 white $1.03½@1.04½; No. 2 95 per cent white $1.02@1.03; No. 2 yellow $1.09@1.10.

Oats—No. 2 red oats 51½@52½c; also quote No. 3 white delivered Texas group 1 points 51@½c, to which add 1 cent for delivery group 3.

Barley—No. 2 barley nominal 72@73c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per hundred pounds nominal $1.87@1.90; No. 2 kaffir $1.73@1.75.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 26. (AP)—Wheat and corn went downgrade most of the time today, although corn scored a sharp transient rally. For the first time this season, December delivery of corn brought a premium over December delivery of wheat. Good harvest weather both in Canada and Europe, together with continuing doubt as to whether the Canadian growers pool would be compelled to hedge its wheat holdings this season did to press values here down.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy at the day's bottom level, 1¼@1⅜c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed nervous, ⅝@1¼c down, oats ½@1c off and provisions varying from 5c decline to an equal gain.

Corn price rallies in the face of wheat weakness came about from scarcity of offerings at times and from a temporary enlargement of speculative buying.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—September 86½c, 89c; December 91⅛@91¼c, 93½c; March 95¼c, 98⅛c; May 98½c, $1.00⅝@1.01. Corn—September 96⅛c, 98⅞c; December 91⅝@91⅞c, 94⅛c; March 93⅝c, 96⅛c; May 95⅞c, 97⅞c.

CORRECTION

Burk Youth Held On Charge Here Is Not Negro

An error Monday in reporting several complaints filed against persons arrested and held in the county jail here resulted in the erroneous statement in The Record News that Walter Bradley, named in a burglary complaint originating in Burkburnett, was a negro. Sheriff W. G. Bradley explained Tuesday that Bradley is not a negro, the mistake in reporting the complaint against him having resulted from the fact that several other burglary and theft complaints were filed here Monday against negroes. The charge against Bradley was filed following his arrest by Bill Garland, Burkburnett police chief, in connection with the robbery of several stores in Burkburnett. Officers said nothing of great value was taken from the stores. The Record News is glad to make this correction.

Boy Shoots Playmate To Guard Milk Bottle

CHICAGO, Aug. 26. (UP)—A 14-year-old boy shot his playmate today to guard a bottle of milk.

Warner Riley and Wayne Shar, both 14, lived in the same flat building. The Riley's bottle of milk had been disappearing from the back porch and Warner lay in wait today with a .32 revolver to stop the theft.

The Shar boy was creeping down the back stairway of the building, young Riley said, when he decided to shoot. The bullet struck Shar in the left hip.

COTTON LOWER THAN IN 1913

Current Prices 60 Per Cent Under Last Year

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (UP)—Cotton at current prices is about 58 to 60 per cent of the price prevailing at this time last year, while the present general level of commodity prices in this country is about 80 to 86 per cent of a year ago, according to the New York cotton exchange service.

"The so-called sensitive commodities, among which cotton is numbered, tend to fluctuate further," the report continued, both on the upward and downward swings, than do commodity prices as a whole. Analysis of some of the sensitive commodities discloses that wheat is now selling at 80 per cent of the price this time last year, corn at about 100 per cent, sugar at about 80 per cent, rubber at about 50 per cent, steel at about 85 per cent, copper about 60 per cent, zinc about 65 per cent, wool at about 73 per cent and silk at about 60 per cent.

"Present cotton prices are considerably lower, relative to general commodity prices, than on an average of 1913 or in the years from 1922 to 1927. Cotton is now selling at about 84.5 per cent of the average price in 1913 and at about 48.0 per cent of the average price for the years 1922 to 1927. Commodity prices in general are at about 120.3 per cent of the 1913 level, and at about 84.6 per cent of the average level in the years 1922 to 1927. Accordingly, cotton is now selling about 30 per cent lower relative to all commodities, than in 1913 and 43 per cent lower than on an average in the 1922 to 1927 period.

"Cotton is also selling considerably lower, relative to farm prices in general, than on an average in 1913 or in the years 1922 to 1927."

Archduke Renounces His Royal Titles to Marry

BRIGHTON, Eng., Aug. 26. (AP)—The mystery surrounding the marriage of Archduke Albrecht of Hungary was cleared with the announcement today that he was wedded to Madame Rudnay, former wife of a Hungarian diplomat, here on Aug. 16 before Registrar Horace Burfield.

Local records show that the archduke was here, residing at a local hotel for a fortnight previous to his marriage and that Madame Rudnay was here also.

To make the Hungarian divorcee his wife the archduke was obliged to renounce all his titles and privileges as a member of the Hapsburg family.

Prince Otto, now the only hope of the Hungarian legitimists, was said to have bestowed the title of Countess Lovary upon the bride of Albrecht who was known also as Irene Leibach, a commoner.

It was his second escape from Texas prisons this year, officers reporting he had escaped from the state penitentiary on April 4.

C.-C. WATER GROUP RETURNS

Abilene Has 'Nice Plant,' Says Fairtrace

A special group of city officials, members of the chamber of commerce water committee, representatives of civic organizations, and Brown Fender of Dallas, returned Tuesday evening from Abilene where they went to inspect the Abilene water system. The aim of the trip was to aid the water committee in making plans for solving the water problem in Wichita Falls, according to Dudley B. Foy, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce.

City Manager George D. Fairtrace, after examining the plant at Abilene, said that it was "a very nice small plant," but he would make no further statement.

Those who made the trip were Mr. Foy, Ed Howard, chairman of the water committee; P. M. Cordell and Harry Awker, committee members; George D. Fairtrace, city manager; Mayor Walter Nelson Jr.; Herbert Voelcker, president of the Rotary club; Dr. George T. Singleton, representative of the Optimist club, and Roscoe Staton, of the real estate board.

Harmonica Specialists On Vaudeville Bill

The program planned for the regular open air vaudeville at Memorial auditorium Thursday evening promises more than usual interest with new numbers being added each day.

William S. Martin and Marvin Kelly will again delight the audience with their harmonica numbers. A reading, "The Bath Hour," is to be given by Ardanella Shaw, who is a pupil of the Tucker School of Fine Arts, and two other numbers are to be given by talent from the same school, a song and dance, "Button Up Your Overcoat," by Rose Mary and Dorothy Allsbrook, and a jazz dance by Ruth Burnside.

A retiring man who wore a pulled down cap, dark glasses and plain clothes slipped out of life Tuesday as he had slipped out of the picture many times as an actor, and the film world pauses today to pay tribute to one of its greatest artists —Lon Chaney.

Those who remember "The Miracle Man" and the subsequent productions of like nature which established the versatile character artist as one of the best actors on the screen will regret the sudden death of such a person at the very prime of his life. There will not be another Lon Chaney. If ever a star were unique, Chaney is the man.

It is a strange coincidence that the Majestic theater had just booked Chaney's first talkie, "The Unholy Three," for next Wednesday. In "The Unholy Three," the wonder at characterization will portray a gentle old woman and will use five different voices as well as various sorts of make-up.

"The Unholy Three" was one of Chaney's favorite silent films and was his first choice for a talkie. It will be shown here for three days beginning Wednesday, Sept. 3.

The difference between a real portrayal of actual, deep emotion and an almost funny showing of mawkish sentiment is best shown in contrasting "Wild Company," now showing at the State, and "Our Blushing Brides," in the middle of a week's run at the Strand.

While Joan Crawford and Anita Page do everything but get thrown out in a snowstorm with children in their arms and take all insults in a tearful, East-Lynnish manner, H. B. Warner and Frank Albertson bring the tears with a powerful portrayal of father-and-son love in all its sincerity.

"Grumpy," scheduled to begin today at the Majestic, is at least promising in that it seems to be different from any other picture. If Cyril Maude is the actor he is said to be, "Grumpy" will be one of the best of the year.

Third Charge Filed In Theft of Motor

A third complaint charging theft over $50 in connection with the stealing of an outboard motor from A. J. Connally here last week was filed Tuesday morning against Tom Ross, negro, who was brought to the county jail here from Haskell with two other negroes, also named in complaints charging theft of the motor, according to information given by Sheriff W. G. Bralley. Charlie Gant and Warren Belcher, deputy sheriffs, went to Haskell Monday to take into custody the other two negroes, John and A. J. Osborne, who had already been named in theft complaints and who were arrested by Haskell officers. The deputies returned, however, with three negroes and the third complaint followed.

Col. Ed C. Wilson Protests Conduct Of Election in Electra Precinct

Veteran of Lee's Army Declares Injustice Done Him And Vote in Precinct 4 Was Conducted Illegally

A protest against the refusal of the county Democratic chairman to place his name on the ballot in the second primary is made by Col. Ed C. Wilson of Electra in a communication received Tuesday by The Record News.

Colonel Wilson, 88, is well known in this section as a Confederate veteran and for his other activities. He was at one time attached to the personal staff of Gen. Robert E. Lee, and is the sole survivor of those who attended General Lee at his death.

In the first primary, Colonel Wilson was the third man in the race for justice of the peace of precinct 4. After the second primary, however, N. F. Strickland, one of those placed on the ballot, removed from the precinct and Colonel Wilson asked that his name be substituted as the next high man. In the second primary the names of W. F. Coffman and N. F. Strickland were carried, Mr. Coffman being elected to the office. A considerable number of voters wrote in the name of Colonel Wilson. His communication follows:

"In July the first primary was held and in precinct 4 in the race for the office of justice of the peace W. H. Coffman and N. F. Strickland were declared to be candidates for the second primary to be held on the 23rd of August. Two days after the election Mr. Strickland came to me and told me that he had secured a job in Iowa Park which would pay him better than the office of justice of the peace if he should win the second primary. He and his family moved to Iowa Park and he made an affidavit to that effect and I took it to Wichita Falls and gave it to Judge Marrs, also notified County Chairman Edgar Scurry about it, requesting that me being the next highest man, my name should go on the ticket for the second primary. My request was refused and Mr. Strickland's name went on the ticket when Mr. Scurry knew that he did not live in precinct No. 4. Several lawyers and others who know said that my name should have gone on the ticket. Some have said no but there is not any law that I know of for or against it.

"Now as concerning the first primary, it was held in this county illegally for in this precinct (No. 4) all of the presiding officers were candidates for election with an opponent which is against the election law, and I am told that it was the same in every precinct in this county.

"I consider that the chairman of the Democratic executive committee did me an injustice by not placing my name on the run-off ticket. I am an old Confederate soldier, 88 years old, and am unable to do manual labor but if I could obtain a position that would enable me to exist I would rather have it than the justice of peace office.

"SAY ANN HERE'S THAT OIL I WANT YOU TO START USING!"

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

COMTEST BOARD AAA CERTIFIED TEST

Women who know the fine points of mayonnaise, facial creams, and mechanical refrigerators, are not apt to overlook such a radical improvement in motor oils as Conoco Germ-Processed . . . The family car is a big item in every woman's budget, and an oil that lessened motor wear 76.4% over other oils used in the Pike's Peak Tests, protects the investment and cuts down operating costs. Racing motors at Indianapolis and Altoona at speeds of from 92 to 120 miles per hour demonstrated stamina and heat resistance of Conoco Germ-Processed oil—something to remember during summer months.

Some say it is idle to discuss technical things with you women. Yet all of you know how a good cold cream penetrates the skin, and seeks the very bottom of the pores.

Well, that is what we mean by the unique metal-penetrating quality of Germ-Processed oil. This splendid motor lubricant penetrates the very "pores" of the metal, and stays there!

So, really, with the other products you buy, you women are better equipped to realize the urgent reasons for changing to Germ-Processed oil, than are the males who will probably read this too.

Now that you know the story, when may we expect you . . . at the Sign of the Conoco Red Triangle?

CONOCO

Following the Pike's Peak Tests, where Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil was tested side by side with three other popular, nationally known oils, the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association issued Certificate of Performance number 2268, comprising 14 points, of which the point below is one.

Point No. 7

"That less oil consumption as shown by the records of these tests occurred with the use of the subject oil."
