County Court Docket Set For Sept. 13

Docket will be called Sept. 13 in County Court with trial cases scheduled the following day.

Twelve cases—4 charges of driving while intoxicated, half a dozen bootlegging cases, 1 charging contribution to delinquency of a minor and 1 involving appeal of a speeding case—are listed for the docket call.

Those involving DWI complaints name as defendants Willie Lee Barnett, Lowell Houston Blankenship, Joseph E. Bek and Pelar Medrano.

The bootlegging cases allege sale of alcoholic beverages on part of William Rose, 2 counts; sale of whiskey by Charlie Jarnagin, possession of whiskey by Dorsey Ward and Jim Jones, sale of wine by Alberto Lujan, sale of wine and beer by Pete Lujan.

Rose and his wife, Bernice, are named in the complaint of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

John K. Ford Jr. is the defendant appealing a speeding case to County Court.

Thursday in County Court Ronny Fryar and Tommy Ross Underwood pleaded guilty to separate charges of driving while intoxicated.

Fryar received a $100 fine plus $27.50 court costs and Underwood was assessed a $75 fine plus the court costs—in addition to their 3-day jail terms.

Fondling Case Goes To Grand Jury Here

Bond has been set at $6,500 for C. G. Fisher Sr., charged here with fondling a minor child, a 10-year-old girl.

Examining trial was conducted Wednesday in Precinct 1 Justice of Peace J. E. Arnold's Court.

Arnold set the bond and remanded the felony case to Mitchell County grand jury.

The complaint filed against Fisher alleges the offense took place Aug. 21.

WITH RIDING CLUB

County Works on Roping Arena Plan

Indications are that the county's new livestock show area just west of the city may branch out to additional activity in quick fashion.

Commissioners Court is discussing with officials of Mitchell County Riding Club the best manner for allowing the club to sponsor a roping arena on the grounds.

The multi-acre tract has been cleared, graded and surfaced by the county in preparation for erection of a fabricated steel building. The building, for which bids will be taken this fall or winter, will be the first unit of a proposed development for Mitchell County 4-H & FFA Live Stock Show and other programs, possibly Mitchell County Fair.

Conservation Pattern

Here you see the type of continuous conservation which is improving the 7,800-acre ranch of J. M. Sterling. Top photo shows a ravine regained for useful pasture through cover and pasture deferment. Bottom photos show 1 of the new deep tanks to supply stock water and poisoned mesquite, marked by a neat pile of grubbed pear.

FOR J. M. STERLINGS

Steady Conservation Building Ranch Back

Like most West Texas ranchers, J. M. Sterling isn't long on words.

He believes in working at his cattleman's career instead of talking about it.

That's the way he is about conservation, too.

Sterling is busy with one of the most complete soil, water and range conservation jobs in this section of the state on his 7,800-acre spread on the boundary of Mitchell and Howard counties.

And he hardly stops long enough to tell you why he's doing it all.

But one thing for certain, though, he believes the conservation job is absolutely essential—for him and other ranchers, too—if livestock, land and crops are to pay their way.

Sterling, who lives with his wife and 4 children in a new brick home on the ranch, bought the 7,800 acres in 1955 during the drought. Bald areas eroded key areas of the ranch, then, and sand piled up at the base of mesquite trees. Pear, mesquite and widening ravines knocked out potential pasture.

And the overstocked pastures carried 1,500 ewes, 250 cows and 20 horses under the previous ownership.

Five years later, even after a half year of below normal rainfall, the ranch has a new look. Gone are the bald acres, grass grows heavy, stock tanks are new, mesquites stand dead from poisoning, prickly pear is bowing out, and a relative small herd of cattle grazes outside deferred areas.

Sterling's approach to conservation, good management and continuous work has made the change. Financing for the conservation measures

WORLEY, McCLOUD

2 Chairmen Added For '61 UF Drive

Two more chairmen for the 1961 Mitchell County United Fund campaign were announced this week by Bob Reilly, general fund chairman.

They are Wayne Worley, manager of Mitchell County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation, and Austin McCloud, partner in Ratliff and McCloud Law Firm.

Worley will head the special gifts division of the forthcoming fund drive. McCloud will chairmen the advance gifts division.

The 1961 United Fund campaign goal has been set at $23,988—$4,000 lower than last year's goal; however, only eight agencies are included in the 1961 United Fund, which is one less than the 1960 agencies.

Worley and McCloud have both worked with the drive campaign in previous years.

Worley served as a team captain in the special gifts division last year and previously served as a solicitor in the campaign.

He is a past president of Colorado City Junior Chamber of Commerce and is now serving as a state director.

During his term as president, Worley has been instrumental in securing state and national Junior Chamber funds for the city.

Worley is a member of First Baptist Church where he and Mrs. Worley are counselors for 14 and 15-year-old youth in training union. He also is currently serving as chairman of the church's nominating committee.

He is a member of the Colorado City volunteer fire department.

Mr. and Mrs. Worley have two children.

McCloud, who served in the advance gifts division last year, is a member of Lions Club and is secretary of Colorado City Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He attends First Methodist Church where he is a teacher of a senior young people's Sunday school class, a member of the official board and member of the finance commission.

McCloud is chairman of the board of Mitchell County Heart Association, secretary-treasurer of Mitchell County Bar Association and member of board of directors of County Club.

He is also a member of the Texas Bar Association.

He and Mrs. McCloud live in a new brick home on the ranch. They have two daughters.

DEFEAT MARS OPENER

Cubs Overcome Quick Colorado Lead, 21-6

Colorado High's 1960 football edition picked up an old habit Friday night and a puncture, too.

They accelerated quickly for a touchdown lead, then fell back on their heels and turned on the pressure only in spurts for the remaining 3 quarters.

Scoreboard result: Brownfield 21, Wolves 6.

And to be truthful about it, the 2-AAA visitors were churning toward the Wolves goal when the final whistle sounded in the summer warm night.

The Wolves, playing their first game under coaching team of Sam Christy and Ken Keyms, rocked the more experienced visitors in decisive fashion at the start.

Four minutes 11 seconds remained in the first quarter when Don Vest, the rugged tailback, lunged into the end

★ 2-YEAR TERM FOR BURGLARY

Nineteen-year-old Tony Esquivel, fresh from a jail sentence in Laredo, has more time behind bars facing him.

He was sentenced in 32nd District Court here Friday to 2 years in prison after pleading guilty to burglary of the Sports Shop downtown here June 19, 1959.

Charged also in the burglary is Ramon Bonilla Heredia, who is on bond.

Loot taken in the burglary included 9 pistols and a quantity of knives.

One of the pistols turned up in Lubbock and gave officers a break last May in the year-old case. Then, Heredia was arrested in Midland by Texas Ranger Gene Graves and Esquivel turned up in the Laredo jail after being arrested for aggravated assault.

CONTEMPT OF COURT

Non-Paying Dad Placed in Jail

Judge A. S. Mauzey Friday ordered a father out of 32nd District Court and into jail Friday for failure to pay children's support.

The father is Emmitt Long, who was before the judge in a contempt of court hearing.

Mrs. Clara Mae Long, his former wife, had alleged he was in contempt of court for failure and refusing to abide by the court's orders of last February.

The court, then in February, had instructed Long to pay $50 monthly to Mrs. Long for support of their 4 minor children.

County Attorney Frank Gintel said the man had paid the support since February.

Long's ex-wife said that when he did offer assistance, the money was given the children directly to be squandered away without her knowledge.

Judge Mauzey in the hearing asked the defendant three times if he was going to abide by the court's order.

And 3 times the judge didn't receive a satisfactory answer.

So, the judge ruled Long guilty of contempt and ordered him confined to County Jail "until he purges himself of contempt by complying with the court order and paying the $50 monthly until the children are 18 years of age.

The judge also ordered the defendant to cease giving money directly to the children and to remit support payments now in arrears.

Ages of the youngsters range from 12 to 16 years.

The family lived here when they divorced several years ago. Now the mother is residing in Carrollton and the father works as a cement finisher in Tulsa.

Miss Mary Virginia Zorns Is Bride of James Barber

The First Baptist Church of Boyd was the scene Saturday evening of the wedding of Miss Mary Virginia Zorns to James Allen Barber.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Zorns of Boyd.

The groom is the son of Dell Barber and the late Mrs. Barber of Colorado City.

Wedding music was presented by Broadman Ware, cousin of the groom. He was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Rena Ware.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white silk organza over taffeta. The gown had a lace enhanced neckline and a fitted bodice. The deep front pleat of the full skirt swept into the fullness of a chapel train at the back. The bride's veil of illusion fell into tiers of net from a Swedish pearl tiara. She carried a white orchid accented by white sweetheart roses and Stephanotis.

Serving the bride as maid of honor was her twin sister Miss Elizabeth Zorns from Boyd.

Bridesmaids were Miss Florence Ruth Zorns, sister of the bride, from Boyd, Miss Barbara Barber, sister of the groom, from Waco and Miss Ruth Miller from Ranger.

Betty Sue Elliott, from Houston, was flower girl. The bridal attendants wore dresses of shrimp color with an over-skirt of organza over taffeta. The dresses were fashioned with velvet cummerbunds and haleros. Leaves of velvet over shrimp tulle formed the headpieces.

Candlelighters were cousins of the bride, Adina Rose Porter from Dallas and Ralph Honson Jr. from Houston.

Serving as ushers were Harris Allison Phillips Jr. of Dallas and Mike Wilhite of Houston, also cousins of the bride.

Dell Barber, father of the groom, attended his son as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church. Members of the Boyd Eastern Star Chapter assisted at the serving table.

For a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the bride wore a fitted suit of royal blue color. Her accessories were of black. The couple will be at home at 4809 Gordon Ave. in Ft. Worth.

"If we except the light and the air of heaven, no good thing has been or can be enjoyed by us without having first cost labor. And inasmuch as most good things are produced by labor, it follows that all such things of right belong to those whose labor has produced them. But it has so happened, in all of the ages of the world, that some have labored and others have, without labor, enjoyed a large proportion of the fruits. This is wrong and should not continue. To secure to each laborer the whole product of his labor, or as nearly as possible, is a worthy object of any government."

MR. AND MRS. BROCK

New Residents' Marriage Is Result of Chemistry Class

Most people would not consider an organic chemistry lab a very romantic place. But that is just what it was for Mr. and Mrs. Keith Brock, new residents in Colorado City.

Mr. and Mrs. Brock are both graduates of Texas Technological College in Lubbock where they met in organic chemistry class. Brock's major was agronomy and Mrs. Brock majored in foods and nutrition.

He was graduated in 1956, and she received her diploma in '55.

His hometown is Priona and she was raised in Lamesa.

The Brock family has done some extensive traveling since their marriage in 1956. They lived in Europe two years while Brock was in the Army. He was stationed in Germany for 18 months and they toured Holland, Paris, France, Italy, Austria and most of Germany. They possess many slide films made while they were overseas.

After returning to the United States, the Brocks lived in Augusta, Ga. From there, they moved to Big Spring where Mrs. Brock worked for the Veteran's Administration Hospital. She interned for a year at the Hospital and worked 1½ years as a dietitian. Brock is employed by the Soil Conservation Service of the U. S. Agriculture Department.

Since moving to Colorado City, Mrs. Brock is unemployed. Brock continues to work for the Soil Conservation program.

The Brocks list traveling as their main hobby. Mrs. Brock's hobbies include cooking and sewing.

They have one child, Phil, who is 19 months old.

Brock is a member of the Masons and she is a member of the American Dietetic Association. They are both members of the First Methodist Church here.

The Brocks hope to be settled in C-City for quite awhile.

COLORADO CITY

COFFEE TIME

Around Town

By BONNIE SUMMERS

Sam L. (Buzz) Majors and his mother, Mrs. Sam L. Majors Sr., left Saturday for Dallas to attend a gift show.

It is only September, but the show will be Christmas before we know it!

The Majors family own Sam L. Majors Jewelers.

"No more wrapping gift packages!"

"I never could make a pretty bow on a package, now I won't have to try," smilingly said L. J. Taylor this week when he employed Mrs. Adolph Wood to help him in his store, Rioridan Hardware.

Mrs. Wood started with Rioridan Hardware Thursday.

I know her... you know her. Mrs. Wood has worked in local clothing stores since 1941, when she started with F. N. Thomas in Thomas Dry Goods Store, located where Landau's is now.

Mrs. Wood has been a resident of Colorado City since 1937. Her husband and son, Cummins Wood, are owners and operators of Palace Barber Shop.

Since she always worked in clothing stores, the hardware business is something new to Mrs. Wood. However, she has filled in two different summers at Rioridan's so that Taylor could have his summer vacation. "Since I'm interested in cooking and housekeeping, I like the hardware business very much," said Mrs. Wood.

Forty-three years of living and working together...

That is an accomplishment to be proud of.

And... the couple that can be proud, since they celebrated their 43rd wedding anniversary Friday is Mr. and Mrs. W. Lee Moore.

Moore, manager of the Baker Hotel, and Mrs. Moore were feted at a dinner in the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. G. Doyle Cole, in Abilene.

Mrs. Moore was caught in Abilene because of the home they own there. She was trying to get new tenants and didn't get home in time... so, Mr. Moore just went to Abilene.

But, there is a story... sorta funny and does bring back lots of memories.

The Moores were married in Waynesboro, Tenn., Sept. 2, 1917. Following their marriage ceremony they were returning to their home in Collinwood, Tenn., when... due to muddy roads and excessive rain... the team became exhausted and it took them 6 hours to get the last 6 miles home.

Well, Friday evening Moore was on his way to Abilene to meet his wife for their anniversary dinner and guess what?

Well, the horses didn't become exhausted but the car did vapor-lock... and he had to take a taxi the last 6 miles to meet his wife!

Moore has been manager of the Baker Hotel since March 17 of this year.

To quote Moore after 43 years of marriage... "It is like living in and out of a vacuum". Still, don't you agree it is an accomplishment to be proud of?

Ready for Fall

Reggie Long and Jackie Waldrep, fifth graders at Hutchinson Elementary School, are preparing for the fall school days in advance. Reggie has chosen a brown cotton dress with a print overskirt. The high neckline is accented with white lace. Jackie is wearing the favorite apparel of the American boy, levis and a dark plaid sport shirt.

Loraine Guests in Jal, New Mexico

Mrs. H. E. Thomas and Mrs. Ira Coffee Monday and Tuesday were in Jal, N. M., where they were guests of their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Neeley.

E. E. Thomas of Dublin visited here last Saturday and Sunday with his sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. I. I. Thomas.

Other guests of the Thomas families were Mrs. T. S. Sulenberger of Amarillo and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Shields of Tosco.

"But it can be done a little at a time, as cost-share money becomes available... or when you can put a little tax money back into improvements... spend a few dollars of your own or put in some extra hours."

Sterling believes his acreage, properly developed and managed, can carry slightly more than 1 cow to every 40 acres in about 3 years. This would give him a yearly crop of 200 calves from which he could keep selected heifers.

Right now he is carrying 170 mother cows and keeping between 20 and 35 per cent of his calves as he builds up his herd.

How is the young rancher building back his ranch into a paying operation? Mainly through these conservation practices:

Mesquite kill — He's used both aerial and hand spray through 4 consecutive seasons, knocking out mesquite on 475 acres. Hand spray is used continuously on those trees not killed by the aerial method.

Pear eradication — Systematic grubbing has cleared prickly pear from 1,100 acres. And this same method has been employed in scattered areas all over the ranch.

Rehabilitation — Hard bald areas were cut and broken to hold water when there was rain and some grass was planting despite the dry weather.

Protection — Cover was nursed for drainage draws which were cutting widening paths through pastures.

Rotation — Management of pastures, by rotation and deferment, was coordinated in the over all conservation development to aid in the complete recovery program. He is trying to defer each pasture a part of every third year growing season.

At the same time Sterling has moved slowly, but constantly in a build-up of his cow and bull herd.

"The only animal I want," he explains, "is one that pays for itself."

He appraises it all with a practical eye, believing that

"Everybody's land and stock problem is different," the bronzed complexioned rancher said, "but one thing for sure: a fellow's got to keep putting something back into his land... or it just won't last."

"You can't dot it all at once, for it takes time and a continuous effort."

"But it can be done a little at a time, as cost-share money becomes available... or when you can put a little tax money back into improvements... spend a few dollars of your own or put in some extra hours."

Sterling believes his acreage, properly developed and managed, can carry slightly more than 1 cow to every 40 acres in about 3 years. This would give him a yearly crop of 200 calves from which he could keep selected heifers.

Right now he is carrying 170 mother cows and keeping between 20 and 35 per cent of his calves as he builds up his herd.

How is the young rancher building back his ranch into a paying operation? Mainly through these conservation practices:

Mesquite kill — He's used both aerial and hand spray through 4 consecutive seasons, knocking out mesquite on 475 acres. Hand spray is used continuously on those trees not killed by the aerial method.

Pear eradication — Systematic grubbing has cleared prickly pear from 1,100 acres. And this same method has been employed in scattered areas all over the ranch.

Rehabilitation — Hard bald areas were cut and broken to hold water when there was rain and some grass was planting despite the dry weather.

Protection — Cover was nursed for drainage draws which were cutting widening paths through pastures.

Rotation — Management of pastures, by rotation and deferment, was coordinated in the over all conservation development to aid in the complete recovery program. He is trying to defer each pasture a part of every third year growing season.

At the same time Sterling has moved slowly, but constantly in a build-up of his cow and bull herd.

"The only animal I want," he explains, "is one that pays for itself."

He appraises it all with a practical eye, believing that conservation is a job which "must be worked at" all the time.

"It's the same as with all improvements," he said "You got to do 'em in a practical manner — spending a little as an investment in your land, giving a little of your work time, watching for tax money or cost-share plans."

"Just like anything else — you can do your conservation job best when you can make a dollar go a little bit further."

WOLVES—

zone for a 6-0 Colorado City advantage.

Quick charging line play had the Cubs reeling moments later, too, as the Wolves forced 'em to punt immediately after the kickoff.

Then, came the second quarter and the punture.

Keith Addison, the only member of Brownfield's No. 1 backfield who was not a starter last fall, cranked up the Cubs' offense and steered it from his own 26-yard line for a touchdown.

He passed to halfback Dick Collins on the goal line, where Wolves Alex Campbell's tackle was not quite in time. Then for an extra personal touch, the nimble quarterback dropped kicked the extra point for a 7-6 Brownfield lead.

Four C-City and 5 Brownfield plays later, the Cubs were changing the scoreboard again. This time, 13 to 6, as Johnny Murphy, raced over the goal's standing up from the Cub's once-used spread formation.

Late in the third quarter, strongman Murphy ran 3 times from the Wolves' 10-yard line and scored touchdown No. 3.

And to be sure the fans — Christy's boys too, for that matter — didn't forget him, Murphy ran for 2 extra points.

That's the way the scoreboard read the rest of the night — 21 to 6.

Difference in the game was the potent passing attack of Brownfield and the superior line work as the game moved along.

In the second quarter, when the game was really won, the Cubs moved for 100 yards by completing passes.

Jerry McKay, the Wolves quarterback, tossed effectively in the same quarter, moving his club along in a quick retaliatory thrust just before the half — connecting first to Campbell for 10, then to Lightfoot for 9.

But Campbell just missed a diving attempt to nab an aerial on the Brownfield 10 and Bill Newell dropped a pass over center as the C-City attacked bogged down.

The Wolves cranked up again in the final quarter after Brownfield's last kickoff. Runs by Vest and Wayne Reed, mixed with another McKay pass to Newell, thrust to the Cubs' 27.

But Center Danny Eaves cooled the Wolves as he recovered a fumble on the 27. Brownfield registered 15 first downs during the evening, while Colorado City was counting 11. On the ground the Cubs traveled 179 yards while the hometowners managed for 98.

In the air, with Addison having plenty of time because of fine protection, the Cubs completed 9 of 15 tries for 118 yards.

C-City's 3 of 12 were good for 40 yards. However, the Brownfield pass defense was leaky, too, with Wolf receivers in the open numerous times. But the Cub line wore on top of C-City passers time and time again.

THE STORY OF RUTH

"Really a very remarkable picture. More Biblical pictures should be shown. Thank you," Mrs. W. M. Elliott.

"The general theme of the Book of Ruth seems, for the most part, to have been captured here. One of the few Biblical films Hollywood hasn't ruined." Rev. John Brand, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

"The scriptural story was well presented with the necessary additions not offensive. A pleasant relief from the spectacular approach (dancing girls, etc.)." Rev. Alan B. Conley, vicar of All Saint's Episcopal Church.

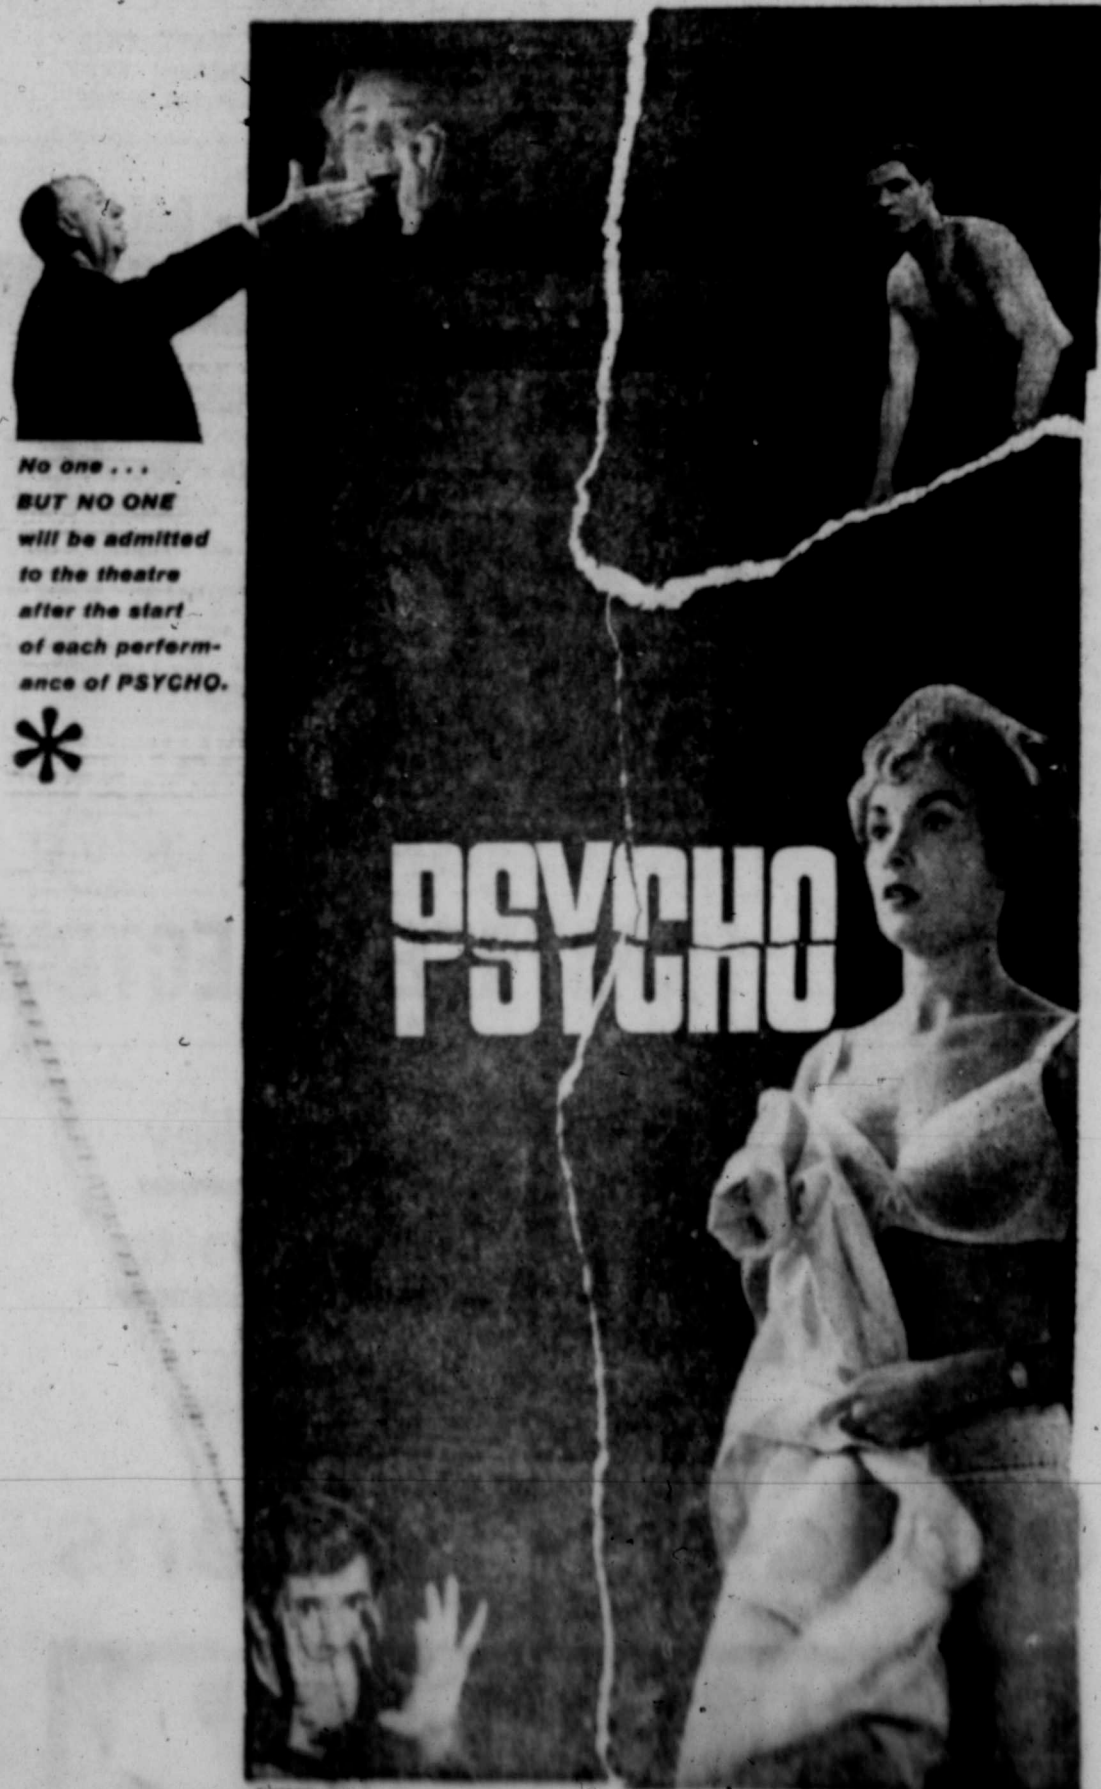

The above statements were made after viewing the private showing of "The Story of Ruth", coming to the Palace Theatre September 11-12-13.
